The Mason Creek H. D. Club met Jan. 18 at the home of Mrs. Jack Focke. All members and two visitors were present. The opening exercise was given by Mrs. E. Wyatt after which the business meeting followed. Several important matters were discussed. One was how to raise money for the club. It was decided to sell short three quilt blocks, having enough for the Emergency Hospital quilt on hand. Mrs. Coy Caney agreed to make them, assisted by Mrs. [illegible] from 20 cents each and the club will quilt the quilt at a later date. Miss Hajek gave beneficial, instructions on the right way to hold business meetings. Mrs. Parker presented the cheese that had been made at her home in November which was a success. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 5 at the home of Mrs. E. Wyatt. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

ARMY MAIL RESTRICTIONS—

paid at the air mail rate of 6 cents per half ounce will continue to be transported by airplane as far as the ports of embarkation; the War Department advises that no aggrance can be given that such letters, other than V-Mail, will be discarded by airplane from ports of embarkation to localities overseas served by V-Mail.

Referring to restriction 2 above, the War Departments states that individuals serving overseas desiring to request the mailing of parcels to them will be required to include in their request the following:

1. A general description or name of the article requested.

2. The grade or rating, the complete address and the number of the individual (addressee) making the request.

The request will be presented to the battalion or similar unit commander who will approve it if in his judgment circumstances warrant. Requests of officers not assigned to organizations or separate units will be approved by the chief of theatre headquarters. In case the individual making the request is a civilian, the request will be approved by the commanding officer of the installation concerned.

Parcels addressed to individuals at A. P. O.'s overseas must be accompanied with the approved written request from the addressee as above set forth when presented for mailing. The request shall be postmarked by the addressing employee in such manner as to prevent its reuse and then be returned to the addressee.

Discontinuance of Insurance and C. O. D. Services, and Curtailment of Registered Service for Army Personnel

No matter addressed to members of the armed forces or civilians employed by the War Department will be accepted for registration. However, letters containing valuable or important papers may be registered. No postal insurance will be paid in connection with registered letters containing the valuable or important papers.

The public should be warned that it is not advisable to inclose currency in ordinary letters and the use of money-order services for remittances recommended.

General Instructions

Mail addressed for delivery to A. P. O.'s outside the continental United States shall embrace all that which is addressed to such A. P. O.'s in care of the postmaster at New York, N. Y., San Francisco, Calif., Seattle, Wash., New Orleans, La., Miami, Fla., or Presidio, Maine.

Mail of any character originally addressed to individuals at A. P. O.'s outside the continental United States and received at such places after departure for an overseas destination will be forwarded.

The restrictions of this order apply only to personnel of the United States Army and to contractors and employees of contractors through A. P. O.'s outside the continental United States. They do not apply to mail for personnel of the Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard, nor is international mail which will continue until further notice to be subject to the provisions of Order No. 71471 of April 20, 1942, and the general periods of embarkation liable.

None of the restrictions in this order apply to official shipments or mail shipments to military agencies overseas nor to any mail FROM A. P. O.'s outside the continental United States to points in the United States.

Postmasters shall return to the senders, marked "Disposition prohibited by Order No. 19687" any prohibited matter obviously accepted for mailing after Jan. 15, 1943.

This action is prompted by military necessity and it is believed that the public will cheerfully comply.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 24, Wilma Joy and Wanda Joyce Stevens entertained their fourth birthday anniversary party. Their guests were Bobbie and Richard Bailey, Raymond and Wood Allen Stubblefield, Margaret Graham, David Harrison, Jr., Jerry Gandy, and Patsy Cardwell. Cora Belle Mansfield and Anne Joyce. They played games and enjoyed the party refreshments. They all in a circle on the floor then each received a favor. Among the many lovely gifts and refreshments were several Mrs. Harris, mechanics of all kinds, motors, transmissions experts, now radio mechanics, and also all the electronics which we have started recently, you can visualize where their future lies and go direct to the front line.

Without your daily interest in the task, however small it may be, we could not function."

To be eligible for the army's Good Conduct award the soldier must have honorably completed three years of active military service on or after June 29, 1941, and must be recommended by his commanding officer for "exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity."

Midshipman Thomas L. Spearman, who is stationed with the U. S. Navy Air Corps at New York, is spending a ten day leave at the home guest of Mrs. Frank Manning and daughter, Dorothy Lee.

Just a few more days left to pay your poll tax. Do it before Saturday.

O. C. Fisher, new congressman from Texas, on being assigned to membership on the House Labor Committee, said in Washington that he would personally do all in his power to have bills reported out of that committee that he would prevent strikes in war production for the duration. He referred to the coal strike, as a shameful example of a strike which seriously interfered with the war effort."

"The coal strike started," Fisher pointed out, "before John L. Lewis undertook to exact heavier union dues from the miners' pay checks. The miners objected to this arbitrary scheme. Yet it appears that Petrillo had the sanction of the existing law in his levying tribute on the workers.

"Mining of coal," Congressman Fisher said, "is so essential to the war effort, that deferments are granted to many thousands of men.

Yet they quit work and jeopardized the lives of our fighting men and sailors on a continent made where coal is used for fuel. In cases like this, I do not think that Congress should let them see for themselves, as fighting men, what it means to have to wait and see whether or not food and war materials hold up?"

In addition to the committee on Labor, Congressman Fisher has been placed on a number of other important committees, including Immigration and Naturalization, Rivers and Harbors, Roads, and Flood Control.

MORE NEW MACHINERY BECOMES AVAILABLE

College Station, Jan. 26.—More new farm machinery and equipment became available to Texas farmers this week when the "freeze" order was lifted from wholesaler and distributor stocks.

Under the new order, stocks which have been held by mail order houses had on hand Oct. 31, 1942, and stocks of new farm machinery and equipment which are now in manufacturer and located anywhere except in a factory or plant on hand April 9, 1942, may be sold for farmer distribution or sale through the ration of program.

Distribution will be sold to dealers in about the same terms as existed before the freeze was put into effect Nov. 1, 1941 through Oct. 31, 1941, except where stocks are excessive. Then the WPB may order further areas of comparable need.

The Texas USDA War Board emphasized that although stocks at wholesale and distributor levels automatically were released from the order did not apply to farm machinery manufactured on or after Nov. 1, 1942. Machinery manufactured after that date is distributed by manufacturers through distribution quotas set by the controlling program will tap new machinery and equipment by county and state in routing machinery to its proper destination.

Under the program, eligible farmers may purchase certificates from County Farm Rationing Committees in order to obtain about 75 types of farm machinery and equipment.

ANNUAL RED CROSS MEETING FEB. 15th

The Annual meeting of the Bandera County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the courthouse on Saturday, Feb. 13 at 8 p. m. All members are urged to attend.

R. E. Shaver arrived last week from College Station to serve as County Agent during the leave of absence of Harold Wagnemer, who is serving in the U. S. Army. Mr. Shaver is well acquainted with most of the county agent and we feel sure will be of great assistance to farmers and ranchers who need his counsel. Mrs. Shaver and their son are expected to arrive soon to join him.

We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. Shaver and his family.

IVY LANGFORD JR. COMMISSIONED IN ARMY

Upon completion of the officer candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., Ivy B. Langford Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Langford of San Antonio and Bandera, has been commissioned a second lieutenant. He enlisted in May and served with the 59th Battalion at Camp Wolters before entering the infantry training school three months ago.

The many friends of Vic Saul will be happy to learn he was able to come home yesterday from the Veterans Hospital at Legion.

Many hearts were saddened when the sad news came that William Hatfield, a highly respected citizen of Medina, had passed away. He was taken to the M. and S. Hospital in San Antonio on Saturday in the Pfanmer ambulance, accompanied with Edmonds. He passed away there at 2:40 a. m. Tuesday at the age of 87 years, 7 months and 21 days.

William Hatfield was born at Boerne, Oct. 6th, Nov. 8, 1855. He grew up there and attended many privations during the Reconstruction Days following the Civil War. On January 2, 1884 he was married to Miss Stringfellow at Stockdale, Texas. They moved to Medina in Sept. 1907 and he conducted a store there for many years. His wife passed away and he endured him to all the people and his kindly influence will be missed. His good wife passed away on April 2, 1937 and three children also preceded him in death.

Surviving are his daughter, Miss Sadie Hatfield, landscape specialist with the Extension Service at A. and M. College, two sons, Marvin and W. O. Hatfield of Medina. Funeral was held at the Baptist Church in Medina at 1 p. m. Tuesday with Elder Ball of San Antonio and Rev. W. H. Price of Medina officiating. The remains were taken to Stockdale where services were held at the Baptist Church at 5 p. m. Interment was in the family burial plot there.

He was a man of sound judgment and keen ability and in his dealings with the public he bore the reputation of honesty and integrity. In his death Medina and Bandera County loses one of their best citizens, a man who helped to further the best interests of all good civic movements.

The New Era joins in extending profound condolences to the bereaved.

AN APPRECIATION

Many hearts are saddened by the passing of Wm. Hatfield, of Medina. Mr. Hatfield was successful in his undertakings, and everyone was interested in his living. His was the old fashioned type of fatherhood, that found the family close about his hearth by his own goodness. His life was a beacon light, always marching on in the children he leaves behind—Mr. Will, Mr. Marvin and Miss Sadie.

In this day when Christianity is being challenged it is interesting to see Mr. Hatfield's faith carried out his hand to "the least of God's children." His faith for the hereafter. He had time for the neighbors.

The world is in chaos today because this type of Christianity seems no longer to be fashionable.

REV. KLUCK TRANSFERRED TO BOERNE

Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Kluck will leave next week for Boerne where he will serve as Methodist pastor. Rev. Kluck will succeed his service here Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Kluck have made many friends here who regret to see them leave. Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Sadler, who will succeed Rev. Kluck here, will come to Bandera next week. We join in extending them a welcome.

BASKETBALL GAME

Last Friday afternoon the Bandera Cowgirls came to Utopia to play a game of basketball. It was our first game of the season and we all thought we had a lot of boys except Leonard Edwards. The score was 20 to 5 in favor of Utopia. We have learned lots of basketball.

Mayhey Martin has re-entered school and will play ball a lot. This Friday we go to Center Point for a night game. Next week on Monday we play a Center Point comes here for a game on Tuesday night. Friday, Utopia comes for a game. Both games will be in the afternoon. There will be a small charge for everyone.

The basketball boys are planning on having a box supper in the auditorium some Friday night in the near future. Proceeds will be used to purchase sweaters for those that letter.

ADAMIETZ-MAZUREK

Last Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock St. Stanislaus Catholic Church was the scene of the scene of a beautiful wedding when Miss Jeanette Mazurek became the bride of John Adamietz. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a dress of pretty blue with brown accessories and carried white carnations with brown centers. Her sister Mrs. I. E. Adamietz, her only attendant, was dressed in pink with maroon accessories and carried pink carnations. The groom wore a black suit and his brother, R. R. also of Bandera, attended, wore a suit of Oxford gray.

I. E. Adamietz played the wedding march and Jack and Lawrence Mazurek, twin brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

The beautiful and charming young lady, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mazurek of this city. The groom, an accomplished young man, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John and I. E. Adamietz, also of this city.

After the wedding a dinner was served at the Bandera Ranch where the groom is employed, to the immediate families and Rev. F. E. Kluck.

The New Era extends congratulations and best wishes.

SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES

The Emergency Hospital is in need of at least 30 pair of pillowcases and 60 sheets. Any type of material suitable for pillow cases and sheets may be used. They do have a blue quality of feed sacks for pillow cases which is appropriate. The pillow cases should be 40 inches by 36 inches or 38 inches by 36 inches. The sheets should be the finished length. The sheets should be 54 inches by 99 inches.

The Home Demonstration Club women are asked to help fill the needs.

The pillow cases and sheets may be left at the Home Demonstration Club room. Be sure to have your name with your package.

Whatever you can contribute will be greatly appreciated.

The Emergency Hospital is in need of at least 30 pair of pillow cases and 60 sheets. Any type of material suitable for pillow cases and sheets may be used. If you have a nice quality of feed sacks they may be used for this purpose. The pillow cases should be 40 inches by 36 inches or 38 inches by 36 inches. Thirty-six inches should be the finished length. The sheets should be 54 inches by 99 inches.

The Home Demonstration Club members are asked to help fill the needs.

The pillow cases and sheets may be left at the Home Demonstration Agent's office. Be sure to leave your name with your package.

Whatever you can contribute will be greatly appreciated.

Coat Shearing Course Planned

There will be a course offered on how to shear goats at the Bandera High School. This course will start Tuesday, Feb. 1 at 2 p. m. and will be every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 2 to 4 p. m. for three weeks.

This course is being sponsored by the Federal Government so as to relieve the labor shortage and wool and mohair will be taught to a number of 10 ranchers for the course.

This will be a practical course on how to shear goats and you will be able to get some actual experience that will be worth your while.

If you are interested please let me know as soon as possible.

REV. KLUCK TRANSFERRED TO BOERNE

Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Kluck will leave next week for Boerne where he will serve as Methodist pastor. Rev. Kluck will complete his service here Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Kluck have made many friends here who regret to see them leave. Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Bailey, who have been at Brackettville, will come to Bandera next week. We are in extending them a welcome.

BASKETBALL GAME

Last Friday afternoon the Bandera Bulldogs went to Utopia to play a game of basketball. It was our first game of the season and the first game at all for all the players. Leonard Edwards. The score was 20 to 5 in favor of Utopia, but we learned lots of basketball.

Hughey Martin has re-entered school and will help the team a lot. This Friday we go to Center Point for a night game. Next week on Wednesday, Feb. 3 Center Point comes to our county, also and on Friday, Feb. 5 Utopia comes for a game. Both games will be in the Afternoon. There will be a small charge for everyone.

The basketball boys are planning a boxing match to be held in the near future. Proceeds will be used to purchase sweaters for them that better.

ADAMIETZ-MATUREK

Last Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock St. Stanislaus Catholic Church of Bandera was the scene of a beautiful wedding when Miss Jeanetta Maurek became the bride of John Adamietz. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a dress of pretty blue with brown accessories and carried white carnations with white bulls. Her sister, Mrs. H. R. Adamietz, her only attendant, was dressed in pink with maroon accessories and carried pink carnations. The groom wore a black suit and his brother, H. R. also his only attendant, wore a suit of Oxford gray.

I. E. Adamietz played the wedding music. Louis and Lawrence Maurek, twin brothers of the bride served as ushers.

The bride, a sweet and charming young lady, is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maurek of this city. The groom is accomplished young man, is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Adamietz, also of this city.

After the wedding a dinner was served at the Butterfly Ranch where the bride is employed, to the immediate families and Rev. P. S. Strobel.

The New Era extends congratulations and best wishes.

ORGANIZATIONS IN WARTIME

Some organizations find it more difficult to carry on their usual activities in wartime. They may lose members, owing to the absence of men who are serving in the armed forces. People may be unable to attend to new war duties that they are unable to give time to their former activities. Some people are burdened with expenses that they cut down some of their activities to save costs.

People do well to keep up their work in organizations so far as they can. These societies provide features of high value to many home communities, which make life more interesting, and they promote community development. Let us back them up to the limit so far as we are able.

WELFARE OFFICE TO BE CLOSED

Effective Feb. 1st, the State Department of Public Welfare announced today that the Intake and Certification Division has functioned through cooperative agreements between the department and District Judges of courts of Texas, will be closed effective March 1, 1943. The planning action results from the fact that the major functions of the program have now been eliminated by war-time changes," J. S. Murchison, Executive Director, explained.

Mr. Murchison pointed out that the principal duties of the Intake and Certification Division were set up had been the referring of applicants for Work Projects Administration and Civilian Conservation Corps employment and the certifying of needy persons for food stamps and surplus commodities. CCC has been discontinued, WPA is being liquidated, the food stamp program is being abandoned, and surplus commodities have declined to such an extent that they contribute very little to the families remaining on the greatly reduced rolls, it was said. The burden of care for needy families will have to fall on local agencies. "The department is taking this action in the conviction that any worthwhile war program must accomplish results commensurate with the administrative expense and effort incurred," Mr. Murchison stated.

Mr. Murchison expressed the hope that the closing of the Intake and certification program should not affect or change the present method of handling cases which serves the school children of Texas. The State Department will continue to certify schools eligible to participate in the program.

Some food may continue to be available under the Federal Food Stamp Plan in certain regions, but the Welfare Department will no longer certify families eligible to participate.

HOW TO PLANT A TREE

Bulletin No. 1, Unit D, A. Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

Examine the tree removing the broken or damaged ones; also check the ends of the good roots to see if they have dried out and become brown. If so, cut off the dried portion well into the white, live tissue. New roots will develope quickly from the root ends treated in this manner. Do not dig tree holes too deep. If a deep hole is dug in clay soil or a compact soil the tree is apt to be set in it, there is danger in case of excessive spring rainfall that the hole in the clay will hold water like a jug and drown the tree. Dig the hole large enough to ac-comodate the roots in such an extent that they contribute very little to the families remaining on the greatly reduced rolls, it was said. The burden of care for needy families will have to fall on local agencies. "The department is taking this action in the con-

PERSONAL EXEMPTION (Third of a series of Income Tax Materials)

Every individual is allowed a credit against his net income which varies with his domestic status, that is, whether he is a single person (b) a married person living with husband or wife, or (c) a head of family. This credit is known as personal exemption, and is shown on line 21 of the return Form 1040. The amount of the personal exemption also varies depending upon the period during which the taxpayer qualifies for particular exemption status.

The personal exemption for a single person is $500 for the year; for a married person living with husband or wife, and for a citizen or "head of family," $1200. (Personal exemption as head of a family has no relationship to liability to file a return.) For Federal Income tax purposes, widows, wi-dowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, as well as persons who have never been married, are classed as single persons.

A head of family is defined as "an individual who actually main-ports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependents gives rise to a family sup-some moral or legal obligation." A single person; or a married per-living with husband or wife, may, therefore, enjoy a head of family exemption under certain conditions.

Taxpayers using a Simplified Return (which is permitted if the gross income for the year is $5000 or less and derived solely from compensation, dividends and/or from dividends, interest, and annuities) obtain personal exemption based on their status as of July 1 of this year. Thus, a taxpayer married and living with husband or wife on July 1 is entitled to $1200 personal exemption on Form 1040A, if he were a widower on July 1 his exemption would be $500, irrespective of the date on which he became a widower. The amount of the exemption is not deductible from the income but is reflected in the amount of tax shown in the table on the reverse side of the form.

Taxpayers using Form 1040, obtain personal exemption proportionate with the number of months during which their domestic status is held. Thus, for a person who married on July 1, (who was not a head of family prior to his marriage) the personal exemption would be $950 ($250 for the six months as an unmarried person and $700 for the six months as a married man). In this example it is assumed that the wife has no income.

Married persons may, however, file joint returns, even though one has no income, and by filing a joint return the combined exemping the year may obtain an exemption to which they would be entitled for their period of married status, plus the amount of their individual exemptions prior to their marriage. In the example given the total exemption in a joint return would be $1100 ($250 for the single person and $850 for six months married status).

If a husband and wife living together both have income and file separate returns on Form 1040, the personal exemption applicable to a married person may be taken in the return of either or divided between them in any way they may agree, but the total personal exemption claimed in their separate returns may not exceed $1200.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

All officers of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston were re-elected by the board of directors of Houston at its annual meeting.

A review of annual reports of the four state farm credit banks carrying more than a quarter of a billion dollars in loans showed that Texas farmers and ranchmen are taking advantage of improved agricultural conditions to strengthen their financial position. More credit was used but the rate of repayment was at a more rapid rate and in long-term land bank mortgages a record was made with $236 loans paid in full during 1942.

HOME TOWN, AFTER THE WAR

There is great speculation as to the conditions likely to arise after the war. Statements of leaders are: planning as to how disasters can be met as people can be kept at work, given chances for furthering.

Let us think of the future as likely to develop in health after the war. We shall need to live in health and industry among the farmers in the surrounding country, plenty of food and clothing for all people. Texas need to have good schools we can point to with pride, and we need employment for the returning boys and those who will go into jobs owing to stoppage of war work, and what can be done to keep up everybody's spirit of loyalty to the home and determination to go ahead to new prosperity as all.

ORGANIZATIONS IN WARTIME

Some organizations find it more difficult to carry on their usual activities in wartime. They may lose members, owing to the absence of men who are serving in the armed forces. People may be so busy with war work or new duties that they are unable to give time to their former activities. Some people are so burdened with expenses that they cut down some of their activities to save costs.

People do well to keep up their work in organizations so far as they can. These societies provide features of high value to their home communities, which make life more interesting, and they promote community development. Let us back them up to the limit so far as we are able.

HOW TO PLANT A TREE

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

Examine the roots, removing the broken or damaged ones; also check the ends of the good roots to see if they have dried out and become brown. If so, cut off the dried portion well into the white, live tissue. New roots will develop quickly from the root ends treated in this manner. Do not dig tree holes too deep. If a deep hole is dug in clay soil or subsoil and the tree set in it, there is danger in case of excessive spring rainfall that the hole in the clay will hold water like a jug and drown the tree. Dig the hole large enough to accomodate the roots. If the soil is tight, add a shovel or two of rotted manure with the soil removed from the hole. In planting set the tree at the same depth that it stood in the nursery, and pack the soil firmly around the roots. Just before the hole is filled with dirt, add a bucket or two of water, then complete filling the hole with soil. Peach and plum trees should be cut back to about knee-height; apples and pears to between knee and waist height at time of setting. If there is danger of rabbits damaging the trees, wrap the body of the trees with paper when they are set out.

When people spend their money at home, a good part of that money comes back to them in the increased prosperity of the home town.

PERSONAL EXEMPTION (Third of a series of Income Tax Material)

Every individual is allowed a credit against his net income which varies with his domestic status, that is, whether he is; (a) a single person, (b) a married person living with husband or wife, or (c) a head of family. This credit is known as personal exemption, and is shown on line 21 of the individual Form 1040. The amount of the personal exemption also varies depending upon the period during which the taxpayer occupied the particular exemption status.

The personal exemption for a single person is $500 for the year; for a married person living with husband or wife, $1200; and for a "head of family," $1200. (Personal exemption as head of a family has no effect on liability to file a return.) For Federal Income tax purposes, widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, as well as persons who have never been married, are classed as single persons.

A head of family is defined as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for those dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation." A single person or a married person not living with husband or wife, may, therefore, enjoy a head of family classification under certain conditions.

Taxpayers using a Simplified Return (which is permitted if the gross income for the year is $3000 or less and derived solely from earnings from employment and wages, dividends, interest and annuities) shall obtain personal exemption based on their status as of July 1 of the year. Thus, a taxpayer married and living with husband or wife on July 1 is entitled to $1200 personal exemption on Form 1040A; if he were a widower on July 1, his exemption would be $500, irrespective of the date on which he became a widower. The amount of the exemption is not deductible from the income but is reflected in the amount of tax shown in the table on the reverse side of the form.

Taxpayers using Form 1040 obtain personal exemption proportionate with the number of months during which the particular status is held. Thus, for a person who married on July 1, (who was not a head of family prior to his marriage) the personal exemption would be $850 ($250 for the six months as a single man, plus $600 for the six months as a married man). In this example it is assumed that the wife has no income.

Married persons may, however, file joint returns, even though one has no income, and by filing a joint return a couple married during the year may obtain an exemption to which they would be entitled for the period of married status, plus the amount of their individual exemptions prior to their marriage. In the example given the total exemption in a joint return would be $1100 ($250 for each spouse for six months plus $600 for six months married status).

If a husband and wife living together both have income and file separate returns on Form 1040, the personal exemption applicable to a married person may be taken in the return of either or divided between them in any way they may agree, but the total personal exemption taken in the two separate returns may not exceed $1200.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

All officers of the units of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston were re-elected by the Farm Credit Board of Houston at its annual meeting.

A review of annual reports of the four statewide institutions carrying more than a quarter of a billion dollars in loans showed that Texas farmers and ranchmen are taking advantage of improved agricultural conditions to strengthen their financial position. More credit was used but the rate of repayment was at a more rapid rate and in long-term land bank mortgages a record was made with 9,836 loans paid in full during 1942.

WAVES INTERVIEWS WILL BE HELD

A special procurement party for W. A. V. E. S. women's service of the Naval Reserve will visit San Antonio Jan. 29 to Feb. 6 to take applications for both officer and enlisted personnel status in the WAVES.

The recruiting party will be headed by Ensign Sara Dickinson, officer of naval officer procurement. Accompanying Ensign Dickinson will be a Navy nurse, a Navy doctor and a WAVES petty officer to assist applications may be completed as soon as possible.

Interviews will be conducted between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. each of the two days at the City Auditorium.

Possession of the following papers by applicants may expedite their applications: birth certificate, transcript of high school or college credits; three letters of recommendation in triplicate; six photographs (one and one-half inches square, three full face and three profile; a letter of release if employed by federal or war agencies, signed by the employer authorized to make the release.

A recent modification in educational requirements for the WAVES now makes it possible for women with only two years' high school or business school education to enlist. Women between 20 and 36 are eligible for the same ratings as those of men in the regular Navy. For prospective officers, age limits are from 20 to 50 and the educational requirement is, in general, a college degree, but two years of college plus good business experience is an acceptable substitute.

Marriage regulations also have been modified so that WAVES may now marry men in any branch of the armed service except their own, or be married to a man in any branch of the service except their own before enlisting. Women who successfully pass the WAVES training program will release men now stationed ashore for sea duty.

CREDIT FOR DEPENDENTS (Fourth of a series of Income Tax Material)

A taxpayer is entitled to a credit for each person, other than husband or wife, whether related to him or not, who during the taxable year was dependent upon and received his chief support from the taxpayer, provided the dependent was either (a) under 18 years of age or (b) incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The credit for dependents is listed under ACTUAL FINANCIAL DIFFERENCE and affects only farmers and ranchmen were poised to enlist. Women between the ages of 20 and 50 are eligible for the biggest production job of their lives.

Called upon to produce more of food, fibers, feeds, poultry, soybeans and peanuts, they were waiting to flounce on war production when the school opened and they could be depended on to produce.

The war production plan sheets are expected to the state USDA War Boards in the 254 counties will not use any sheet Feb. 1 and is expected to be complete in about three weeks.

When returned to County USDA War Boards, the committee incorporated on farm plan sheets will form the basis for action or recommendations on manpower, service deferment, needs for farm machinery, equipment, feeding and cheese.

In what the TEXAS USDA War Board termed one of the most significant tributes ever paid to agriculture, farmers and ranchmen gathered in their community meeting rooms on Farm Mobilization Day, Jan. 15, to hear the leaders discuss the 1943 Food for Freedom program and its importance in America's total war program.

Primary motive of Farm Mobilization is to give maximum help to farmers and ranchmen in developing and using all available labor and effective plans for 1943 war production.

Our Freedom Is Priceless

By JOSEPH E. DAVIES,
Former Ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Schedule for Victory campaign to complete the national income tax payment plan by July 1, 1943.)

What I myself owe as my war years is a matter of personal conscience. But I do know that I am glad to pay it. None of us can be too grateful for the privilege of living in America. None of us can be too proud of our heritage of freedom. None of us can be too determined to preserve it for our children's children.

Some of us can be privileged to give our lives in the armed forces. Others can give of their labor and skill in the factories. But all of us can pay our taxes. The American way of life cannot be preserved without the sinews of war.

Let us pay our taxes cheerfully, willingly, proudly. Let us pay them promptly, remembering that our boys are fighting for us. Let us pay them honestly, remembering that our freedom depends on it. Let us pay them fully, remembering that our children will be proud of us for it.

War Stamp Sales Over Half Billion Dollars, Album Drive Opens

Appealing Margaret C. Burnell of the War Savings staff of the U. S. Treasury points out the [illegible] album to Miss Ann Sothern, [illegible] Hollywood, Calif. A drive is underway for Americans to buy additional War Stamps to fill albums and convert them into a War Finance filled album is like a half-equipped soldier," the Treasury officials say, by workers for the campaign.

The importance of the drive is seen in the fact that a War Bond period of many [illegible] Axis dictators hangs on its issue.

Every War stamp album, converted into a People's Bond, for which the purchaser pays $18.75 and which matures to $25.00 value when held for 10 years, adds its force to the war effort.

The Treasury Department is counting upon the country's school children to play a powerful role in the success of the "3d WAR drive. The volume of stamp and bond sales is at the rate of $200,000,000 for the current school year.

U. S. Treasury Department

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's retailers from the tiniest hamlets to the mighty cities are acting as a spearhead in a great Treasury Department campaign to sell the additional War Savings Stamps needed to fill more than 100,000,000 albums now in the hands of the American people.

According to a report released by the Treasury Department today, sales of War Savings Stamps totaled $938,777,000 for the period from May 1, 1941, through November 14, 1942.

Stamp sales have risen from less than three million dollars per month when they were first introduced to the public to an average of more than fifty million dollars per month in the present time.

AMERICAN LEGION MET TUESDAY

Bandera Post No. 157, American Legion, met at the Library Auditorium Tuesday night with Commander W. F. Graham presiding.

Adjutant Theo Nesky was awarded a certificate for "Blood Tail" Brigade for securing 22 members and was made brigadier general. Post now has 30 members, each of the following were made colonels: E. Lindsey, L. R. Hamilton and J. J. Nesky.

The Post decided to again make awards of scholarship, medals to be given in the high and Medina schools.

It was decided to order 100 constitutions and by-laws of the organization to distribute to the members.

It was also decided to have cards printed for individual records for all members.

Members of the Legion were reminded that the State Commander and Commander's Aide will be in Bandera Saturday and all who wish to make the trip are asked to meet at the Tri Cafe at 10:30 in the morning.

LUXURY IN MEDICINE OUT, OCD DECLARES

Washington, Jan. 23.—Predicting America will have a shortage of doctors and nurses throughout the war and for some years to come, Lieutenant Colonel Grant Hamilton, chief of the medical division of the unions of Civilian Defense, appealed to the public Saturday to dispense with "luxury medical attention."

He listed as luxuries the use of private rooms except in critical illnesses, going to a hospital for a rest or convalescent period, the use of a doctor to a home when the doctor's advice could be obtained by telephone.

Dr. Bauer said in a statement that American doctors and nurses probably will be called abroad by great numbers following the declaration of medical service. Sensible rationing of medical services will continue for several years after the war."

Some kind of hawks or eagles are killing lambs of ranchmen in this section. Albert Jurecski Jr. and Cashner Jurecski as well as others are reporting losses.

I. E. ADAMIETZ OPENS OFFICE HERE

The many friends of I. E. Adamietz will be glad to know that he has established a connection with a firm of Certified Public Accountants and that he will assist in the making of income tax returns in Bandera and adjacent territory. The thirty-three years of continuous service rendered by him to the people of Bandera County will enable him to handle this work in the manner prescribed by the Internal Revenue Department.

There is being run an ad in this issue which says "Howard-Payne & Company, accountants and Auditors, San Antonio, Texas, announce that they will be represented in Bandera and adjacent territory by I. E. Adamietz, in the preparation of Federal Income Tax Returns."

Eugene S. Howard and Roy L. Payne, form the firm of Howard-Pope & Co., with offices in the Insurance Building, San Antonio, Texas.

Mr. Adamietz says that all returns submitted to him will be audited by the above firm and rechecked for accuracy thereby more assuring their correctness.

Mr. Roy L. Payne is no stranger in Bandera as he spent several days here last year in the preparation of income tax returns and his friends will be glad to know he is again in this territory in order that assistance of will be necessary through the above medium of service.

Mr. Adamietz informs us he has two office locations in mind but has not definitely decided upon either. He will announce the location in the next issue of the New Era.

The New Era joins the many friends of Mr. Adamietz in wishing him continued success that we confidently predict for him in this, his new endeavor.

Goat Shearing Course at Medina

The course will be offered on three consecutive Saturdays, beginning at 10 a. m. and closing at 5 p.m. The first meeting of the class will be at Chalk Collins' place four miles out on the Kerrville road.

Earl Buckelew will be the instructor in charge. He will teach proper care of the sheep, how to take down head, clean out, and adjust, how to sharpen combs and blades.

He will also show how to properly catch a goat, take to shearing floor, how to shear, and how and dope cuts after shearing. He will demonstrate each step in the process and have each member of the class shear several goats under his supervision.

With the shortage of goat shearers in the hill country, ranchers will be very glad to get some help and instructions that will enable them to do a better job of shearing.

Many of the boys taking vocational agriculture will be glad to take this short course in order to help shear many goats this season.

MASON CREEK H. D. CLUB

The Mason Creek H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. Ed Lee on Tuesday, Feb. 2nd. Three visitors were present, Mrs. J. E. Brownlee of Medina, Miss Lorez Ramble and her guest, Mrs. Nagel of New York. Each member answered roll call with a suggestion on how to make money for the club. The members made two pillow cases for the Emergency Hospital.

The next business meeting, Miss Hajek demonstrated how to make hosiery and prepared several dishes for refreshments.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Lane Langford on Feb. 15, at which time a canning demonstration will be held.

H. L. D'Spain Buys Corner Drug Store

J. S. McIver, who has owned the Corner Drug Store since September, 1939, has sold it to H. L. D'Spain and he took over on Monday. The drug store has improved constantly until today it is one of the best equipped in the line of drugs and other goods at any in the state. Last May Mr. Zoeller bought the fillings and Bon Drug Store and moved his stock to Medina and now the Corner Drug Store is the only drug store in town.

Mr. D'Spain and family lived at Kendalia and Boerne before coming to Bandera last June. He had previously purchased the Mathew Pyka ranch and they lived there until he sold the ranch to Lon D. Fisher of San Antonio. Mr. and Mrs. D'Spain and two children are making their home in the Mrs. Geo. Price cottage.

Mr. McIver has been active in civic affairs and he and Mrs. McIver will be missed here but will return to Bandera where he also owns a drug store.

We welcome Mr. D'Spain as a business man of Bandera and wish him every success in his new undertaking.

AMERICAN LEGION AIDS VETERANS

The American Legion Posts in Texas not only are performing outstanding service in the organization of rubber and scrap metal, organizing air raid warden service, obtaining quotas for military service and other war activities, but are rendering valuable service of the present war, and their dependents, in obtaining government benefits, according to Thomas Post Service Officer, The American Legion.

Every World War II veterans are being discharged from the present service as the result of mental disabilities, is given a notation on their discharge, "Disability Not in Line of Duty," because they disabilities have been regarded as existing prior to enlistment, Mr. Lindsey said.

"These veterans with mental disabilities, which are supposed to have existed prior to enlistment are NOT entitled to free hospitalization in a government hospital unless service connection is established through the Veterans' Administration. This means that these veterans must be cared for by relatives, or placed in a state hospital until such time as sufficient evidence can be secured to the Veterans' Administration to establish service connection of the mental disability."

"To provide hospitalization benefits for these veterans, in accordance with privileges granted veterans of former wars, there has been a bill introduced in Congress by The American Legion to grant hospital benefits for veterans discharged for mental disability, without regard to pension or 'line of duty' status."

"Veterans suffering from active tuberculosis during this war, however, are being discharged into hospitalization without the 'Line of duty' status, and claims for disability compensation are filed by Service Officers. If these veterans have no dependents, compensation ranges from $11 to $17 month during hospitalization. If evidence is offered to show there is a service connection, it is then the full amount of disability compensation is allowed."

"It is noted that there is a growing need for increased activity on the part of service officers well organized to assist beneficiaries. The American Legion has established this service to all World War I and World War II veterans through approximately 6000 posts of The Service, the Veterans' State Service Officer and the Department Service Officer of the American Legion."

BULLDOGS WON TWO GAMES, LOST ONE

The Bandera Bulldogs journeyed to Center Point and played them a basketball game Friday night Jan. 29. The Bulldogs were slow starting, but Martin found the basket in quick succession and the game ending 18-19 in favor of Bandera.

On Monday, Feb. 1, the Bulldog's went to San Antonio to play the Edgewood High School team. Again the Bulldogs were slow in starting, but came in on the long end of a 22-21 score. Only one car went and in it were the coach and seven players.

Yesterday at 2 p. m. the Center Point team returned the game. The visitors set too fast a pace for the Bulldogs and lost by a 24-13 victory. The Bulldogs missed Applegate's cool aim in the pinches.

Utopia is returning a game here Friday afternoon, Feb. 5th. We are sorry not to be able to tell the exact time. Next week they play Edgewood and Hondo. Our tournament is Feb. 20. On that date Yancey, Bandera and Utopia play each other a game to determine the district winner.

WAKE ISLAND

Wake Island is the stirring story of the Marines heroic defense of that tiny island. It is a highly emotional, wallop-packed reproduction of a brilliant chapter in the history of this war. Carried out with the assistance of the Marine Corps. It is faithful as to detail and accuracy.

The gallant Marines come to life in the characters of Robert Preston, Donlevy, Robert Preston and Albert Dekker. They give excellent performances as the courageous fighters who radioed "Send Us More Japs" when the high command asked if they needed anything. Crammed with action and authentic instances, it is guaranteed to keep you on the edge. Wake Island will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Bandera Theatre.

ATTENTION RANCHERS OF BANDERA COUNTY

There will be a goat shearing demonstration at the Bandera High School at 2 p. m. Friday, Feb. 5. Vocational agriculture will be in connection with the goat shearing course now being offered at the high school.

The Federal government is paying for this course so that some of the boys may learn just how to do goat shearing and relieve labor shortage somewhat. The 20 hour course will be free and you will be able to get some actual practice in the shearing of goats.

We want the vocational agricultural boys to get this course, but we must have 10 other folks outside of school to come in order to get a class to carry on the course. Surely there must be 10 people that will take enough interest to come to the school house for 18 hours and help us to get the course started. The other Hill Country towns are getting.

We will need about 100 head of goats to shear between now and the 20th of February. We will be glad to pick up these goats and have them at the school but we know we will come to your ranch and shear them free of charge.

Let us hear from you at your convention that you may offer.

W. F. Grisham.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

The keynote of the amazing conference at Casablanca, Africa, was "Unconditional surrender." The Axis powers keep feeling around to see if they can't wheedle the United Nations into some kind of peace. That conference told them that the war will not end until they quit.

The Axis powers will make peace offers from time to time, prove that the Allied Nations can get what they want if they quit fighting. But the United Nations' unanimous vocal pledge to these powers, the Americans, British, Russians and Chinese, is that the fighting here, complete victory can be suspended upon.

President Roosevelt, Premier Churchill, and many leaders statistof the world by their historic meeting took some chances in a 5,000 mile voyage that might encounter submarines. But fortune favors the brave. The agreements reached at this meeting spread a mighty fallout that reveals from divided Commands and lack of co-ordination.

WAR NEWS

President Roosevelt returned to the White House last Sunday from his epoch making trip to Casablanca. He returned because way of Liberia and Brazil, where he conferred with officials.

A big battle is raging in the Solomons but it was too early to divulge any of the results.

33 YEARS OF SCOUTING

The Boy Scouts of America were chartered 33 years ago, on Feb. 8, 1910. Since that time work for boys has taken on a new character. There were at that time promising and helpful movements for boys, but the Scouts have far surpassed the hopes that their achievements can be considered as a typical progressive one in recent years.

The people of a former century did not understand boy nature as well. Perhaps boys were more submissive and docile in those years, but they of the people who tried to influence boys in those days would get letters from on what they had to do. This did have influenced the good boys, who would behave well anyway, but it rebelled the boys and stirred up who needed some different method of appeal.

As the years have gone on, there are more temptations besetting youthful life. Boys have more chances to go wrong. It often takes trained leadership to do anything with these lovable but restless and often turbulent little critters.

The Scout movement appeals to the love which boys feel for out door life, for proficiency in physical activities, and their love of nature. It combines success in these pursuits with instruction in the duties of youth. It helps the youngsters realize that they are citizens of the city and state, that they should take their part in community activities, and that they owe no allegiance for the benefits they have received.

It gives the boys many things they gladly, but many are willing to listen to their leaders. The men who are willing to take on the duties and the training of Scout leadership are entitled to the warmest thanks. Boy Scouts are sure to become good citizens. Those who fail to do so are so extremely few in number that they do not count. There should be Boy Scout movements, or something very similar, in every community.

INVESTING IN HOME TOWN

Many people take courses now in the science of investment. They are taught that to invest carefully and with prospects of good return.

There is one form of investment that may not cost any money, and that is investing time and effort in your home town. You invest in the home town when you make your home place attractive, so attractive that it helps give the public a favorable impression of the community. You invest in the home town when you work and pay dues in its organizations, and help keep those activities going, and add many advantages to our life.

SALESMANSHIP

Many young people are getting jobs nowadays as helpers in stores for whole or part time. They need to learn the principles of salesmanship. A good salesman builds up his employer's business, and is headed for promotion and success. An inefficient salesperson is in danger of offending customers, so that they may go elsewhere.

Intelligence about goods is one of the most important features of good salesmanship. The beginner may say he has had little chance to learn about goods, but he should remember all he hears about the articles sold, and be ready to pass on this information.

A smiling, welcoming manner, indicating that the salesperson likes the work, and enjoys serving the public, is a big help. People like to deal with such an enthusiastic worker.

The Nazi propaganda got some vague idea that Premier Churchill of the British government had gone somewhere, but it never seems to have dawned on the master Nazi minds that a historic conference was taking place at Casablanca, Africa, 50 miles from the coast, but close enough to Europe that the Nazi espionage system is supposed to cover the world, but it suffered a rare fit that boggled meeting. Africa is said to be full of enemy agents, but apparently they were taking a restful vacation. Mr. Hitler was easily fooled by the sudden advent on Africa last November, and now he has been fooled again.

33 YEARS OF SCOUTING

The Boy Scouts of America were chartered 33 years ago, on Feb. 8, 1910. Since that time the work for boys has taken on a new character. There were at that time promising and helpful movements for boys, but the Scouts found a quite remarkable success that their achievements can be considered as a typical progress in all regards years.

The people of a former century did not understand boy nature so well. Perhaps boys were more submissive and docile in those years. Many of the people who tried to influence boys in those days would not lecture them on what they did to do. This may have influenced the good boys, who would behave well anyway, but a tribe of boys were growing up who needed some different method of appeal.

As the years have gone on, there are more temptations besetting youthful life. Boys have more chances to go wrong. It often takes trained leadership to do anything with these lovable but reckless and often thoughtless little critters.

The Scout movement appeals to the love which boys feel for out door life, for proficiency in physical activities, and their love of nature. It combines success in these pursuits with instruction in the duties of youth. It helps the youngsters realize that they are citizens of the city and state, that they should take their part in community activities, and that they owe an obligation for the benefits they have received.

It gives the boys many things they could use—so they are willing to listen to their leaders. The men who are willing to take on the duties and the burdens of Scout leadership are entitled to the warmest thanks. Boy Scouts are sure to become good citizens. Those who fail to do so are so extremely few in number that they do not count. There should be Boy Scout movements, or something very similar, in every community.

INVESTING IN HOME TOWN

Many people take courses now in the science of investment. They are taught how to invest money safely and with prospects of good return.

There is one form of investment that may not cost any money, and that is investing time and effort in your home town. You invest in the home town when you make your home place attractive, so that it helps give the public a favorable impression of the community. You invest in the home town when you work and pay dues in its organizations, and help keep going those activities that add many advantages to our life.

SALESMANSHIP

Many young people are getting jobs nowadays as helpers in stores for whole or part time. They need to learn the principles of salesmanship. A good salesperson builds up his employer's business, and is headed for promotion and success. An inefficient salesperson is in danger of offending customers, so that they may go elsewhere.

Intelligence about goods is one of the most important features of good salesmanship. The beginner may say he has had little chance to learn about goods, but he should remember all he hears about the articles sold, and be ready to pass on this information. A smiling and welcoming manner, indicating that the salesperson likes the work, and enjoys serving the public, is a big help. People like to deal with such an enthusiastic worker.

The Nazi propaganda got some vague idea that Premier Churchill of the British government had gone somewhere, but it never seems to have dawned on the master Nazi minds that a historic conference was taking place at Casablanca. In finding out days, had these good brains employed did not sufficiently know about it.

The Nazi espionage system is supposed to cover the world, but it suffered a rog do that historic meeting. Africa is said to be full of enemy agents, but apparently they were taking a restful vacation. Mr. Hitler undoubtedly feeled by the sudden advent on Africa and November, and now he has been fooled again.

To Our Friends and Customers

In the selling of our Drug Store to Mr. H. L. D'Spain, we want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to all of you for the splendid friendship we have enjoyed while we have lived in Bandera, and we do especially thank you for your patronage and your help to us in establishing a good drug business. Our stay in Bandera has been a pleasant one and it has certainly been a pleasure to have had the privilege of serving you, and in our going we wish for all of you the best of everything and, if, in the years to come we should ever have the opportunity of serving you again, you may be assured that we will be glad and will do our best.

We trust you will give our successor, Mr. D'Spain the same fine patronage and cooperation.

STEIN'S ANNIVERSARY

SECOND

starting FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5th and ending SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13th

Despite the conditions that are making it increasingly difficult to replace many items of daily need, you will find our second birthday event in Bandera affords you fine quality, dependable merchandise at prices that are below government controlled ceilings in many instances.

We are deeply appreciative of the splendid patronage we have enjoyed from the people of Bandera and the neighboring communities, and we are pledged to the service of our friends and customers. We will see to it that our customers enjoy the advantages of a fair share of good, quality wearing apparel and accessories as long as it is available on the market. With gasoline rationing and tire shortages, we realize that you will depend upon your local merchants more than ever before. You can count on Stein's, and we appreciate your patronage.

Kerrville Luncheon Honors President

Mrs. Ruth Mathesat of Alameda, Calif., National President of the American Legion Auxiliary, was the principal speaker at a luncheon given by the Auxiliary Unit at Kerrville Saturday. The luncheon was served at the Methodist church basement and consisted of turkey, dressing, peas, potatoes, cole slaw, cranberry sauce, plum cobbler and coffee. About 150 Legion and Auxiliary members from Kerrville, Bandera, Mason and Junction were present.

Tex Frank Bowser, manager of the Veterans Hospital at Legion, was master of ceremonies. Mrs. W. T. Graham of Bandera played a violin solo. Other Legion Auxiliary officials, including the State President, Mrs. Frank Bell of San Angelo, Southern Division, Vice Pres. Mrs. Kimbrough of Fort Worth, and state secretary, Mrs. Strong of Austin, were present. Each Auxiliary unit present was able to attend as he was called for, military duty on Friday. He was relieved from duty Monday.

Those from Bandera who attended were Mrs. and Mrs. W. B. Graham, Mrs. Mildred Lindner, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Letcher, Mrs. and Mrs. R. W. Mottzen and Mrs. O. Enochs.

Auto Licenses Now on Sale

Auto licenses are now on sale at the tax collectors office. The lettypes this year will be only a fraction of the size of licenses in former years. They are about one by four inches and are black with yellow figures. They are to be put on over the 1942 licenses and all vehicles must display them by April 1. The price will be the same as in former years.

Red Cross Annual Meeting Saturday

The annual meeting of the Bandera Chapter, American Red Cross will be held at the courthouse in Bandera next Saturday at 4 p. m. All members are urged to attend. Officers will be elected and reports given.

The Red Cross War Fund Drive will be made during the month of March. Bandera County has been assigned a quota of $1400 and we hope that this quota will be over. The total campaign goal for the entire country is $125,000,000. Increased costs for service to the armed forces will take about one-half of this amount and the remainder is to be used for Disaster relief and civilian war aid, foreign war relief, health, education and safety services, service and assistance to chapters, general executive and contingencies.

UTTERANCES OF LINCOLN

On Feb. 12 the American people remember the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. That man made a very deep impression on our people. Whole libraries full of books have been written about him. The shadow of his life and utterances hangs over our land and probably the words of no American have been so widely quoted.

When Abraham Lincoln appeared to take the oath for his second inauguration, his stooping shoulders and sunken eyes told the story of the strain under which he had suffered in nearly four years of warfare. As the throng greeted him, a procession of sick and wounded soldiers pass paying tribute to the city on their tragic way home. Some men would have uttered words of bitterness as they thought of what they and their friends had suffered. Mr. Lincoln had no such thoughts.

"With malice toward none and charity toward all" were his words. If that principle of charity can only prevail for a little while today, we shall avoid endless bickering and internal conflict. If we can begin certain advantages which seem to us wrong and harmful to our own interests, we should at least consider that they are given. Frequently they have grievances of which we know nothing and which justify them to a large extent.

Mr. Lincoln had marvelous sympathy with the lot of the common man. When he visited the army in the field, he spoke of how willingly he would exchange places with the soldier who sleeps on the ground.

At the close of the war Mr. Lincoln asked for the end of all bloodshed, and the reconciliation of people. The previous fighting states, he said, to him should not forget the old conflict, and unite in support of their country in friendship. It was a noble ideal, and if it had been followed more closely, many troubles would have been avoided.

BUILDING GOOD WILL

Advertising has value apart from what it accomplishes to sell specific articles and lines of goods. Some people or dealers may feel that they can afford to cut down on their advertising in warfare on the theory that many kinds of goods are scarce, and that they will be able to sell about all they have anyway. If they keep advertising, they keep their name before the public, and keep building up the impression that they are full of enterprise and hustle, that they are getting more than their share of the bargains, and that they are ever alert to watch out for the interests of their customers.

When the war ends, the stores and dealers that have kept up their full publicity will have made the deepest impression on the public, and will see the biggest rush of buyers.

KEEP ON TRYING

In this time when many kinds of labor are scarce, many people may become indifferent to the way they work. The proprietor of a business establishment remarked recently that his help were so independent that he did not dare say "Boo" to them. He was afraid that he be criticized, then for any faults, they might get provoked and go elsewhere to work where they could do as they liked.

It is not profitable for any worker to show that spirit. If people take advantage of scarce labor to work in an indifferent way, their record will be remembered. If a time of surplus labor comes when there are too many workers, those who showed the most hard to be faithful and energetic will get the preference.

THE DOUBLED INCOME

When people's income is doubled, they often are about the times as many things they want to buy.

The income of many families has been doubled since the depression. That great increase in buying power should not be dissipated. There are so many limitations on the things for which some can spend money now, that it seems better policy to tuck a large part of increased earnings away in safe investments.

The people should use it to buy war bonds right now. Then they have the money saved, they will be able after the war to get what they want, and can buy things that will do them the most permanent good. They will be sick of themselves if income drops off after the war, and they have nothing permanent to show for increased earnings.

Buy War Bonds and Stamps.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME
(A weekly news digest from the Rural Press Section of the OWI News Bureau)

Gasoline Begins March 1
Rationing of canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables will begin March 1, and retail sales of more than 200c items to be rationed will be reported each Wednesday beginning Wednesday, Feb. 24. Housewives will register for War Ration Book Two, Mar. 8 to 10. Use a total of 48 "points" for each member of the family for the month of March. Stores will have values of 8, 5, 2 and 1. If a family has more than 2 cans per person on hand, stamps will be removed from the book in proportion to their excess holdings. Retail point values will be made public as soon as stocks are "frozen." Registration probably will be held in local school houses and one member may register for the whole family.

Canning foods need not be counted. They include canned olives, canned meat and chicken, jellies, jams, preserves, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles and all home-canned foods.

"Non-Defetable" Occupations
Twenty-nine occupations were announced as non-deferrable for any reason by the Bureau of Selective Service of the WMC on Feb. 2. All occupations in an additional 19 manufacturing, 8 wholesale and retail, and 9 service industries were also called non-deferrable. Any man in these occupations is advised to get into a war job immediately. After April 1 he will not be deferred if he stays in his present job. Also, after the respondents, he will still be drafted unless his work contributes to the war effort.

Among the non-deferrable occupations are everything from bootblacks to gunsmiths. Bartenders, bus boys, beauty operators, bell boys, bus boys, gutlers, chemists and cleaners, dietitians, custom tailors and furriers, dancing teachers, dish washers, doormen, elevator operators and starters, funeral help, footsie fellers, parkeepers, grooms, hotel managers and employees, janitors, private chauffeurs, lady dispensers, ushers, valets and waiters, with few exceptions, are non-deferrable. Unemployed persons, also, are non-deferrable regardless of where the available, is found.

Gasoline Credit Cards
Credit cards may now be issued at gasoline stations by vehicle "A" or "B" certificate of War Necessity" or "T" ration stickers. Most other vehicles cannot use such credit cards. Formerly, obtaining 24 hours a day could sell gasoline to all vehicles only during 12 hours a day and only to those with "T" stickers.

Persons who has applied for a "Certificate of War Necessity" may get gasoline pending the action of the certificate by notifying his local war price and rationing board. Coupons must be surrendered for the issued for the first and second three-month period at the same time.

Need More Cotton Fabrics
Every major cotton mill in the country has been urged to produce more cotton fabrics and yarns in 1943. Military requirements come first, but there must be enough cotton fabrics to supply all essential civilian needs. Production of wool have also been urged to increase production by every means at their command.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

Home is called the best place on earth. As the home depends for its welfare on the home town, we should struggle to make the home town successful and attractive.

When you spend money away from home you aren't doing anything to make the home town what you want it to be.

WILLIAM HATFIELD

Mr. William Hatfield was born May 4, 1859 and died Feb. 28, 1943 making him 87 years of age. Mr. Hatfield was reared near Bowden, Ga. He attended one teacher country schools and later Bowden College where he studied to be a teacher.

He taught a few years in Georgia and then went with a cousin to Arkansas where he found a demand for teachers. There he combined teaching and farming for two years.

His goal since boyhood had been Texas. But he was waiting a well in Arkansas that he put off his trip to Texas. He contracted to teach school for eight months at $40 per month. This was much better than the few cents per pupil per day he had received for his teaching in Georgia.

It was in this Arkansas community that he met Miss Cooley and they were married.

With the expected job gone he tried to rent land and make a crop. He had no money and was too late in the year. It was then he decided to go to Texas with his little money and what he could take a chance on making a living somewhere.

A community in which he taught had been partly depopulated by the boys moving to Texas. So many of them had settled in one neighborhood near Stockdale, Texas that it came to be known as the Arkansas community.

Armed with letters of introduction and bearing many messages he started for Texas. He arrived in Austin after being informed of telling people "inside of Texas" he was a teacher. There was turning land for a crop and had a good place to board at Mr. Hatfield's.

Within a few weeks a nearby school teacher resigned. Then, at the request of Mr. Hatfield, he passed the examination for a teachers certificate. He often concluded that some of the questions he was given were not to his liking. He got started off right well the first year. I made a crop and taught school. Subsequently he moved in winter, attending summer normals for teachers and farming in between. He made enough to buy two small tract farms.

In January, 1894 he was married to Ida Alice Stringfield, member of a pioneer Texas family. Six children were born to them. Lee and Ida Ellen died in infancy at Stockdale. Tom died at 14 years of age in Medina. Mrs. Hatfield died April 1, 1937. Three children survive: Miss Sadie Hatfield, who is landscape specialist with the A. and M. College Extension Service, William Hatfield, principal of a business man of Medina, and Marvin Adolphus Hatfield, who is superintendent of the Medina High School.

Soon after his marriage Mr. Hatfield moved to Medina to begin teaching. He then devoted himself to farming and stock raising that did not lose interest in the local school, serving as trustee until he left Wilson County.

Mr. Hatfield started for his job to of farming much as he had for teaching, using the magazines and government bulletins as text books. He enjoyed trying out new ways of doing things.

During the boll weevil scourge he made a study of the bob-white quail and decided that they would eliminated the weevils if given ample protection. He would build quail and decided that they would eliminated the weevils if given ample protection. He would build a shelter for them in his land and worked to interest other people in protecting them.

During the depression when some said to Mr. Hatfield, "you make a living farming. Did you use this balanced farming we hear so much about?" "Oh, I don't know. I planted so as to raise what I needed to live on, but and plenty for my stock. I planted so that I would have enough even if I had a bad year and only made half a crop I'd still be sure to have enough. Then what land was left over I planted in cotton. So you see on good years I had not only cotton, but corn and other crops to sell. On bad years we had plenty to eat and so did the stock."

Mr. Hatfield was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church for 60 years and was adhered to its teachings. He had no use for dishonest people. He admired people with strength of character.

After experiencing much illness in the family and losing two children Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield decided to leave their home and try to find a more healthful place to live. They stayed a short time at Ringsville and then moved to Bandera County, buying the Pamp Freeman place four miles south of Medina on the river.

There Mr. Hatfield farmed and raised stock for a little more than two years. He then traded his farm to L. W. Greene for the rock store in Lima.

At 55, an age at which many people retire, Mr. Hatfield launched into the mercantile business. He was sure to fail his friends told him and gave their many discouraging words. He was well known him for many years and while children had gone to school to him many had grown up. He made a special trip to see him and beg him to stay out of the store business. He replied that he an honest man and for that reason I know you'll go broke. No one is to blame for your failure and be as honest as' you are." Others warned him saying 'every body that's ever been in business in that rock store has gone broke" and others said, "You have too much what you think. You can't do that and run a store." But he applied himself to the task with unrelenting vigor and soon found himself prospering. He and his family worked during the day taking care of the store. He posted books at night. He seemed determined to succeed in spite of his friends' advice.

Business is business, he maintained his' usual firm uprightness of character and lived up to the creed of the Primitive Baptist Church. His honesty soon won customers and friends alike. He was very kind to the unfortunate and to the amazement of his friends and advisors, pleased more often than offended. He believed very strongly that farm and ranch people should grow their own food and home and he continually told them so. When a farmer came in and said, "I want to buy some bacon," he would say to him, "Bacon! Why man you ought to be selling me some instead of buying it from me." When one asked to buy condensed milk, he would say, "You want to buy milk! Why, what's the matter with all those cows you have up in the hills? Get some milk to drink than this stuff and won't cost you anything."

He was thrifty and liked to see other people practice it too. When women customers would come in to the store and say, I would like to see some silk for a dress, he would often say, "Silk! Why don't you grow some of this gingham. It will do you lots more good." This was the way of thinking. He was always on the side which was for the best of his friends. While he was very fond of money, His life, after coming to Medina, was an open, true and honest character and he was loved by many. His life admired him for his honesty and good advice. At 81 he, health failed he had one of the leading mercantile stores in Medina, which his true and noble wife, helped him build. He left a record that not only his children are proud of but his many friends as well will ever cherish the memory and regret his passing and will ever grandchildren a cheerful smile when they would meet him. We extend deepest sympathy to his children. May God Bless and comfort them in this sad hour.

Sarah Bernhardt

Sarah Bernhardt, the actress, was born a Jewess, but was converted to the Catholic faith.

...ther. The president continuously makes big hops elsewhere, his headquarter is not the head of family ...irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, for his brothers or sisters, whether by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of that degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected" by marriage with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exemption by control and provision for these individuals is based upon moral or legal obligations must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law. First cousins by reason of lesser degree are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship," as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain a home in his home for a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage or adoption, nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintaining a home for a child not having such relationship.

POINTERS ON POINT RATIONING

"War Ration Book No. 2 has four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps. Blue stamps will be used first for certain processed foods, all canned and bottled fruits, fruit juices and combinations; all canned and bottled vegetables, vegetable juices and combinations; all dried and dehydrated fruits including prunes, raisins, peaches, apples, pears, apricots; all canned soups (meat and chicken soups included before all soups are interchangeable. The red stamps will be used later when meat goes under point rationing.

Each stamp has a letter to indicate the period of time it can be used. Each stamp also has a number to indicate how many points it is worth. Rationed foods will have a point value as well as money value. Point value of different foods will depend on supply and demand. Foods that are plentiful will have low point values, and scarce foods will have high point values."

Processed foods that will not be under point rationing include: dehydrated soups, dried or dehydrated vegetables, and supplies like dehydrated dog food, dry vegetables like beans, split peas and lentils; canned salmon or canned meat; jams, jellies, marmalades, preserves, relishes and pickles, evaporated milk.

"You do not have to declare any fruits and vegetables you canned or dried last year. But when you apply for your War Ration Book No. 2 you will report the commercially canned fruits and vegetables you have on hand and surrender stamps enough to cover their point value. When you buy groceries you can use the ration book of all the members of your family, just as for sugar. If you have a maid or a boarder who eats in your home, you can also use the ration book of this extra person. The whole idea of point rationing is to see that all citizens get a fair share of foods on the market."

ANOTHER TEXAS "ARMY"

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A. Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas.)

"Enlisting and training a 4-H Club food production army equal to the number of Texans in the armed services" is a new wartime objective of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, Director H. H. Williamson has announced.

There are more than half a million boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 20 on Texas farms while the state now is said to have more than 200,000 in the various branches of the armed services. That means that we must enroll three of every 5 farm boys and girls who are in the 4-H age brackets.

The purpose of the 4-H expansion work is not only to increase the production of essential agricultural products, but also "to help rural youth develop soundly in line with democratic and Christian ideals."

"I will try to feed and cloth a fighter and myself," will be the slogan of the new 4-H movement.

County Agricultural and Home Demonstration agents will direct the training of club members, assisted by local men and women who are successful in production and who have qualities of leadership.

WILLIAM HATFIELD

Mr. William Hatfield was born Nov. 5, 1855 and died Jan. 28, 1943 making him 87 years of age. Mr. Hatfield was reared near Bowden College where he studied to be a teacher.

He taught a few years in Georgia and then went with a cousin to Arkansas where he found a demand for teachers. There he combined teaching and farming for two years.

His goal since boyhood had been Texas. But he was doing so well in Arkansas that he put off his trip to Texas. He contracted to teach school the winter of 1883-84 for $40 per month.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Edwards and L. J. Edwards went to San Antonio Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grammier were shopping in San Antonio last week.

Miss Daisy Bell Carpenter left Sunday for Des Moines, Iowa, where she will be in training in the WAAC. We wish her a lot of luck in her work.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

People sometimes complain that the home town folks are not friendly. Sometimes these complainers have not contributed enough effort to home town activities to get well acquainted with their townspeople.

HOG CHOLERA OUTBREAK NEAR LIMA

(Delayed)

When H. L. Spencer, vocational agricultural teacher at Medina was called to the McInnis ranch on North Prong last week he found an outbreak of hog cholera in a very acute form. Dr. Randolf of Kerrville confirmed the diagnosis by post-mortem examination.

Four fat hogs almost ready for market were victims of the disease. The outbreak was the very rapid and very acute type, killing quickly. All four showed extreme curative value if administered in the very early stages of the disease.

When given above the serum prodices only a temporary immunity which may be lost in a few weeks. When the serum is given in conjunction with a small amount of virus or virulent blood, however, a lasting immunity is provided. This is known as the double or simultaneous treatment. Once an outbreak of hog cholera has occured on a place not much gain by their minus to vaccinate and immunize all pigs by weaning time or to go out of the hog business for keeps.

When an outbreak occurs there are just two things to do. Sit down and twiddle your thumbs and say, "Well, I am going out of the hog business," start building fires to burn dead carcasses; or get anti-hog-cholera serum and administer it at once to all hogs on the place at twice the normal rate and hope that you have gotten to them before it was too late to stop losses."

TARPLEY H. D. CLUB

The Tarpley Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. J. D. Ashford on Feb. 4. Seven members, two new members and one visitor and Miss Hajek were present. The meeting was called to order by the president. Minutes were read and approved. There were no old business. The new business was discussed and it was decided that each member would make a pair of pillow tops or covers. The club tacked and finished one quilt for the Emergency Hospital.

The meeting was turned over to Miss Hajek. She demonstrated making soy honey, which is a quicker and easier way of making honey. Miss Hajek prepared two dishes of honey which were very delicious. She gave each member five different recipes for preparing home canned hominy. Miss Hanna visited our club and gave a talk on gardening. She also showed us seed samples which we can obtain and the seeds are adapted to this country. The club made four pounds of American cheese on Nov. 20th. It was sliced and sampled at this meeting. It proved to be very delicious.

The Tarpley H. D. Club will sponsor a 42 party at the Tarpley school house on the night of Feb. 19th. The admission will be one cent per inch according to the size of your waist. The proceeds will be used for the H. D. Council funds and the Tarpley club funds. Refreshments will be served and everybody is invited.

Delicious refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. John Ryle on March 4th.

PRIZES OFFERED

To encourage study of democratic principles and create patriotic sentiments in our future citizens, I offer five dollars for the best essay on AMERICANISM; three dollars for second best, and two dollars for third best; said essay to be written by a student attending school in Bandera County this term, essay not to exceed 2,000 words in length, and must be submitted to me before March 1, 1943.

They will be graded as follows: 50 per cent for subject matter, 25 per cent for gain and fluency, 25 per cent for literary merit.

Disinterested judges will pass upon them, and they will be judged by numbers not known to said judges. Do not sign manuscript, but give name and address upon separate sheet, also the school in which you are a student.

Type or write on only one side of the sheet.

Every teacher is requested to encourage the pupil to enter this contest and their results in this direction.

BANDERA FARMERS SAVE TIME, GAS

Washington, Feb. 4.—The manager in which residents of Bandera County, Texas, have pooled labor and doubled up on their activities to save time and gasoline is held up by the agriculture department as an example of how rural communities everywhere can further conservation of critical materials.

Eighteen families of the Vandergood community in Bandera County have designated S. A. Polvado, rancher and poultryman, as their official "banker" because he makes frequent trips to town for feed and other supplies, according to a report published in the Conservation Service Review, an agriculture department publication.

The nearest trading center of any size is 35 miles distant, so Polvado always carries as much as he can in his pickup truck. His neighbors, returning favors, have signed agreements to assist in every way to see he has a good set of tires. They also have agreed to call each other before making trips to town in order to save everyone else as many trips as possible.

So successfully has the plan worked, comments the government publication, that three other neighborhoods in the county are considering it. Credit for originating the plan is given to J. H. Talcott, member of the County Agricultural Victory Council from the West Prong community.

WHO MUST FILE A RETURN

Every single person must file a Federal income tax return whose gross income for the year from all sources was $500 or more; that is as much as $9.62 per week. Widows, widowers, divorcees and married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons.

Every married person, living with husband or wife throughout the year must file a return if his or her gross income, together with the gross income of the spouse, was as much as $1200 for the year; that is, as much as $23.08 per week. If husband and wife both have income, they must both make a return. Since return may be made jointly, or if they are both citizens or residents, they may make a joint return. A joint return may be made by husband and wife even though one has no income, and a joint return is advisable in the case of persons, one of whom has no income, who married during the year, since the personal exemption attributable to each spouse during the period of matrimonial status is allowable in a joint return.

A joint return must be signed by both husband and wife and verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife on Form 1040, the joint personal exemption allowable ($1200 for the married status has existed throughout the year) may be taken by either or divided between them in any proportion agreed upon. If separate returns are filed one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which belongs to him or her).

No person is exempt from filing a return if his gross income may be equal to or greater than the amount specified above for his classification. Neither the President of the United States, nor the Judges of the Supreme Court, Judges nor Members of Congress, are exempt from filing returns.

Moreover, all income from whatever source, unless specifically excluded by statute, must be reported in the return. The types of income specifically exempt are listed in the instructions accompanying the return form.

A person whose gross income does not exceed $3000, and consists entirely of wages, dividends, interest, or annuities, may make a Simplified Return on Form 1040A, in which the tax due may be readily ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

A husband and wife living together on July 1 of the taxable year may file separate Simplified Returns if the gross income of each is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3000, or they may file a single joint return on that form if their combined income is from the prescribed sources and does not exceed $3000. A taxpayer may not, however, file a Simplified Return if the other spouse files a return on Form 1040.

EXCUSES

It is remarked that when people become involved in an automobile accident, they usually say they were going only about 15 to 18 miles an hour. Some of them were going very slowly, and the car that ran into them was to blame. But there are many cases where people were running good and fast, but where they claim to have been going only at a slow rate.

Why is it that such people do not own up and admit they were going plenty fast? The modern automobile driver has become so used to high speed, that he may not be conscious of how fast he is going. Probably many of these drivers rarely look at their speedometers.

There are plenty of people who are very sure to admit they were wrong in anything, and who stretch the truth out quite thin to get out of a scrape. If you get caught in an automobile smash, it lets you out easier to do your best to give a fair and correct estimate of the speed you were making.

Don't wait until the government takes your scrap! Sell it now.

A GAME GUY'S PRAYER

Dear God: Help me to be a sport in this little game of life. I don't ask for any place in the lineup, play me where you need me. I only ask for the stuff to give you a hundred percent of what I've got. If all the hard drives come my way I thank you for the opportunity. Help me to remember that You won't let anything come that You and I together can't handle. And help me to take the bad breaks as a part of the game. Help make me thankful for them.

And, God, help me to always play on the square, no matter what the other players do. Help me to come clean. Help me to see that often the best part of the game is helping other guys. Help me to be a regular fellow with the other players.

Finally, God, if fate seems to uppercut me with both hands and I'm laid up on the shelf in sickness or old age, help me to take that as part of the game also. Help me not to whimper or squeal that the game was a frameup or that I had a raw deal. When in the mink I get the final ball, I ask for no lying, complimentary stones. I'd only like to know that You feel that I've been a good guy.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The American people have been realizing more than ever before what a blessing it is that we live in a free country. They read of the horrors of Europe, of the intolerable outrages perpetrated against people who want peace and quiet. They thank their Creator that they live in a land where all that is absent, where people can get their privacy and rest assured.

For the happiness that comes to us because of America, we owe a debt of gratitude to the farmer called the Father of his Country. We, of course, like on his birthday, Feb. 22 of what a different thing it was to give this country this day to observe.

The little parrot army that fought for freedom for America was a small but formidable force. It was poorly equipped, but they were fiery and many of its soldiers were boys who had never seen their arms and shooting for home.

At some time in that old war, the patriots' cause seemed almost hopeless. The army was so reduced it suffered so horribly from cold and hunger that one's heart could as if a miracle was needed to give it success. But through all these trials there was the steadfast leadership of Washington was a ceaseless inspiration and pumping new hope and strength into weary men and discouraged hearts.

The power of George Washington to lead these soldiers to victory during such military difficulties, his unfailing confidence and serenity in the darkest hours, his ability to have both the fighting front and the home front with their backs to the wall seem as if they were little short of miraculous. Washington's army may not have averaged over 5,000 men at any one time, but it had in it the power to create a new nation that will perish, if ever, only with the end of the world. Let us always be a day of gratitude for Washington and his army.

BACK TO "NORMALCY"

One of the favorite expressions of the period just after the first World War closed, was that the world was going "back to normalcy" back to normal. That the heavy burdens of war struck the people pretty hard and pretty hard. They had formerly enjoyed a period when the serious problems may not have been here for. The taxes they paid seem light now, prices were very low, and people as a whole lived pretty fortably. When war came, they longed for a return of the "good old times," when things would be "normal."

The same feeling exists today. Our people are facing serious troubles with remarkable patience but in their hearts is that longing for "normalcy." Of course there will be plenty of opportunity and burdens will not be so heavy.

Shall we ever get back to what can be called "normalcy"? Some things are as they were before the first World War? Perhaps not. The experience of the past should for this war will prevent that. But "normalcy" was not a wholly desirable condition. During many periods the country suffered from depressions about one-in 10 years and during such times millions were without work for long periods, and many families lost their home and farms. A large proportion of business failures were far beyond reason.

It should be possible so to stabilize our industrial and business system that under normal conditions and sinking spells of work and business should be prevented. If that can be done, the debt incurred of the now times may not be as bad as the troubles from which we have suffered during the so-called "normalcy" was the rule. It will be necessary to keep far stronger than ever before, and not let wealthy nations get the jump on us. Normalcy will be dangerous to the democracies as well as such other features as relative freedom from debt.

SOME TOWN THOUGHTS

Some people say that if you want something done well, do it yourself. That applies to home town life. Instead of constantly asking why somebody does not do some needed things, people should do more of these things themselves.

Some people are satisfied if they do just as good work as the poorest workman. And others aren't satisfied unless their performance is equal to the best. Anyone can tell which will keep his job when the hard times come.

FSA BORROWERS INCREASE FOOD PRODUCTION
More than a third of the National Farm Security Administration borrowers increased their 1942 farm income from the sale of farm products, according to Administrator C. B. Baldwin. The figure, he said, is based on reports from 100,000 borrowers in the Department of Agriculture reported today.
In terms of the Nation's total increase, which topped 2½ billion dollars in 1942, the borrowers, according to results of a survey of 30,000 families, the Farm Security Administration, on the basis of its survey, reported that these families constituting 7.8 per cent of the 6,097,000 farm operators listed by the 1940 census, produced 18 per cent of the gain by 1,419,000,000 pounds or 26 per cent of the total increase for the nation. That was a 20 per cent increase over their 1941 production compared to a three per cent increase made by all farmers. All of this increase may not have been sold, of course, a net increase since some of the cows purchased in 1942 by FSA borrowers would have been milked by the original owners.
Significant increases by FSA borrowers were also reported in other war-needed food crops. In terms of their own production the 1942 crop of potatoes, sweet potatoes ranged from 20 to 106 per cent. In terms of the Nation's total production, the borrowers' increase in dry beans and 10 per cent of the Nation's egg, chicken and peanuts.
The families were from the small farm group unable to get adequate credit from other sources and received vital Farm Security Administration credit and supervision. Early in 1942 following a survey of part of the Nation's war food goals as a result of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the borrowers were given plans to provide greater increases for the foods called for. At the home of the borrowers' parents. In the dining room the table was set with a lovely lace cloth and white wedding cake adorned with pink roses and tiny green leaves. Pink and white tapers in silver candlesticks and white gladiolas formed the centerpiece of the table. At eight o'clock the wedding march was played by Mrs. Ben Moseley, sister of the bride, and the parents, aunts entered and led the grand march which was formed in the shape of a heart. After this all everyone joined in and danced. At one o'clock Home Sweet Home was played and all departed wishing the young couple many years of happy wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Ingram left on a short wedding trip and will make their home at their ranch in the Upper Medina Lake region.

LOOK OUT FOR THE LADIES!
In this hopeful year of forty-three The Red Cross makes its annual plea
So that all mankind may still be free.
The ladies have folded tons of gauze,
But they're still out working for the cause.
When to your door they come quietly
Greet them sweetly, like: "Hya, Honey?"
Don't complain about heavy taxes
That kind of talk won't beat the Axis.
Whatever you give, give cheerfully.
Our boys in the air, on land and sea
Are worth it. I'm sure, you quite agree.

TRIP TO SAN ANTONIO

Mrs. Ben Wetterhahn and Mrs. Ben Hall Jr. of Bandera were visitors in Medina Tuesday.

Last September when I entered Bandera High School, one of my duties was to write, I had been interested in projects sponsored by the County Agents for several years. Now I had an opportunity to take up three projects and carry them along with my school work. I selected as my projects a milk cow, fifty hens and four feeder pigs.

My trip to San Antonio was the end of my project with the pigs. You may be interested to know that my project was successful. I paid $20 for the four pigs, fed them $50.35 worth of feed and sold them for $96.07.)

Plans were made by Mr. Grisham to take to the market in San Antonio the boys' lambs and calves that the high school FFA boys were feeding. Wednesday morning, Feb. 3, was a busy morning for the FFA. boys. I was awake at six o'clock and ready to go about six-thirty. I hadn't been ready long when I heard the FFA boys coming. Some in a truck and a pickup at the house, and others were loading my pigs into the pickup. We were all excited out there. Everyone was enthusiastic and by 8:30 it wasn't very long after we left my house until we were organized and ready to start. In our contingent were all the sixteen FFA boys were Mr. Grisham, Mr. Hillman, Mr. Brient and Mr. Ryan.

Blind assistance rolls made a net increase of -74, bringing the total rolls to 4,316. The average Aid to the Needy Blind payment for February will be $23.40, an increase of $23.30 during January. Payments to recipients during this month will total $97,809.

Aid to Dependent Children rolls continue to decrease as they have for approximately eight years. The decrease when compared with January figures is negligible because of the continued low birth rate. The present policy of the department to pay grants in full to a limited number of families with the greatest need, since a policy of proration among all the eligible families would increase the number of families to be spread-so that each child could receive only $3 or $4. In February 11,875 families received checks averaging $21.40. This may be compared with the program last November, before the change of policy, when 22,501 families received checks averaging $10.55.

The 11,875 families now on the Aid to Dependent Children rolls represent 26,795 children. The net decrease in number of families on the rolls during the past month was 68. Payments to recipients will total $254,093 during February.

The Bofors anti-aircraft gun is designed for greater range and heavier calibre than the average anti-aircraft or rapid fire gun. They are mechanically intricate and more costly. The two-gun Bofors mount costs approximately $80,000 while a Bofors quad-mount runs up to $160,002.

We want our fighters to have the best equipment possible and your purchase of War Bonds will help to do these things. Besides, it is to your advantage over our enemies. Buy War Bonds regularly. At least 10 per cent of your income, or as much more as you can afford. Then you'll have money for a rainy day, and for the future, and pay you good interest.

BANDERA H. D. CLUB

The Bandera Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday, Feb. 10 at the home of Mrs. Fabian Anderwald. An all-day meeting on meat canning. One mutton was canned and made 21 pints of broth, 7 pints of steak and rolled roast, 10 pints of chili, 2 pints of hamburger and 2 pints of hash. Based on canning all meats and recipes on 99 ways to share-meat were given to each member. Miss Hazen demonstrated the use of the canners. Canners should be checked before using to prevent spoilage, over cooking and explosion.

Sprinkle tomato seeds with soda to prevent drooping and root rot.

The Bandera H. D. Club met Tuesday, Feb. 16 at the Catholic school and canned beafs for the school children's lunches.

Miss Hajek informed each member that anyone wishing to attend meetings will be allowed enough gasoline to attend the meetings.

The Bandera H. D. Club met Friday, Feb. 5 at Mrs. Frank Anderwald's home and tacked a quilt for the Emergency Relief. Members present were Mrs. Frank Anderwald, Mrs. C. C. Allen, Mrs. Fabian Anderwald, Miss Annie Kallous and Miss Veronica Anderwald.

Our next meeting will be the joint meeting at the high school and will be in Hunting canning. All interested in making and canning hominy are invited.

WINANS CREEK H. D. CLUB

On Jan. 6 the club met with Mrs. McMillan. Seven members and Miss Hajek being present.

Miss Hajek demonstrated preparing chicken to stretch sub-meat allowances, also discussed rationing foods and ways we can help to conserve foods and share them. She gave out leaflets on gardening and our Four Beaks.

On Feb. 3 Miss Hajek gave a demonstration of meat canning at Mrs. John MacNaughton's home. Twelve club members were present. Miss Irene Hanna of Kerrville was a visitor.

After we had finished she gave a review of the process used, discussed various questions and did a demonstration of things. She gave out leaflets on canning, preparing and serving canned meats.

MEDINA SCHOOL BUSSES PASS EXAMINATION

M. A. Hatfield, Superintendent of the Medina Rural High School, has received the following letter giving results of the examination of school busses and drivers.

February 11, 1943
Mr. M. A. Hatfield, Supt.
Medina Rural High School,
Medina, Texas.
Dear Mr. Hatfield:

We have this date checked your school bus on the various routes and find the following:

X27-283 Ford—Passed Examination.

X27-282 Ford—Passed Examination.

X27-283 Ford—Brakes need to be tightened. OK otherwise.

The busses in this district are above the average, in districts of its class. All drivers were checked for proper license and found OK.

Very truly yours,

HOUSE SEATS M. L. DAVIS JR.

Austin, Feb. 10.—Representative Harry L. Davis Jr. of Boerne today held legal possession of the Eighty-fifth district seat.

The house voted, 83 to 48, in his favor in a contest brought against him by L. L. Bruhl of Llano, the Democratic nominee whom Davis defeated as a general election write-in candidate.

The house's decision is final under state law.

The house committee on' privileges and elections found after a hearing there were no election irregularities and that Davis received 3,369 votes and Bruhl received 2,720.

Don't wait until the government takes your scrap! Sell it now.

EAST VERDE H. D. CLUB

The East Verde Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. John Eckhart Friday, Feb. 12. This being our day for the meat canning, we made it an all day affair.

Miss Hajek demonstrated how to can meats by packing it in the jars or cans raw, which is a most satisfactory way. Meat is one of the essential foods for good health. Because it is perishable, it must be canned, frozen or cured. Canning is one of the most satisfactory methods of preserving meats for rural people who are not near market centers or freezer lockers.

The steam pressure cooker is the best and safest way to preserve meats.

In canning meats, select a good quality of meat, a mature fattened animal is most suitable.

The ladies of the club are going to meet with Mrs. Arthur Hayes on Feb. 17 to quilt their quilt. We all enjoyed a nice dinner which was prepared by the hostess and the ladies of the club. Those present were Mesdames Jo C. Fleener, Allie Thalman, W. L. Kriegel, Robert Huff, Arthur Hayes, Jack Oliff, Alvin Clark, Dee Chipman, Misses Willie Mae Keiser, Pedro Reyna, Ann Hajek and the hostess, Mrs. John Eckhart.

CHILD WELFARE PROGRAMS ON SATURDAYS

Austin, Feb. 15.—The series of broadcasts to be sponsored by the State Advisory Committee on Child Welfare began Feb. 13 with the broadcast, "Our Children Criminals?," Dr. M. E. Sadler, chairman of the committee announced today. The Children's Program, sponsored by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, was heard over the Texas Quality Network from 10:30 to 10:45 a. m.

Speakers will consist of four programs on different problems and needs of children in Texas. Broadcasts will be given each Saturday at the same time from Austin, Dr. Waugh Mason said. The second program, on Feb. 20, will concern "Children in Need."

Sponsors of the broadcasts programs in the series are the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Texas Social Welfare Association. "The different interests and memberships of the sponsors indicate the wide audience which is interested in problems of children," Dr. Sadler said. "Parents, teachers, group work leaders, and all others who work with children will find the broadcasts programs are unique in that they will be presented child welfare problems in general terms but relate specifically to conditions in Texas which are affecting the welfare of children."

THE CHERRY TREE STORY

The old time world delighted in the story of little George Washington's youth, how when the little cherry tree was found to have been chopped down, George said he did not want to tell a lie, and that he did it with his little hatchet. Learned authorities now tell us that that story is probably an unfounded myth.

If it sounds perfectly possible, and the kind of thing that could happen. Children always like to imitate grown-ups. Little Georgie, seeing him chopping down some monarch of the forest, may have emulated them with his hatchet on the tiny cherry tree. The sense of obligation that induced him to reveal the truth was perfectly characteristic of the Father of his Country.

So whether it was literally true and ever happened or not, this example of truth telling is the kind of thing that ought to happen. The youngsters who own up about the things they did make a good start in life and will be heard from favorably later.

I met a man in Ryan Nelson's barber shop the other day, Austin Caughran of Bandera. I asked if he was any kin to Captain Coughran who lived in Uvalde several years ago and they were to Marfa. He said yes, that was his brother, William Coughran. This brother died about a year ago and his wife died a few years ago. Austin Caughran came to this country from Gonzales and is well acquainted with the Tinsley brothers. He was making a visit at the home of Miss Ella Tinsley, lake—Uvalde Leader News.

THE HOME STORE

It likes a good head and plenty of practical knowledge to run a retail store under any conditions. The difficulties in wartime, with scarcities of goods and price ceilings and lack of help in some lines, are far more serious than usual. The store people of Bandera are deserving of the warmest praise for their success in meeting the difficulties of the time. They hadn't given their very best thought and constant attention to these problems, and if you can get a thing anywhere, you can in all probability get it here.

These folks know the kind of goods our people want, they know the individual needs and tastes of their customers. The reasons are strongest than ever for buying all our goods at home. People there use up tire rubber and gasoline in going elsewhere should ask if they make the best use of these vital essentials.

THE CHEERFUL SALESPERSON

People who are coming out of depression should study the effect of a bright and cheerful salesperson. A morose, grouchy salesman has a dull and discouraging appearance, if he acts as if he hasn't a friend in the world and he wished he hadn't, you would end, he will often fall down on sales.

When salespeople are cheerful and enthusiastic and seem to like to serve the people, they are sure to be served by them. Such folks get as of they believed so thoroughly in the goods they are selling that it gives them pleasure to hand them out to the public. People remember and like that kind with salespeople that have that disposition, and we have a lot of them in Bandera.

If you could now you won't have any scrap. The Army needs your scrap metal. Give it now.

THE LIFE OF THE FUTURE

Some people, looking ahead into the future after the war, say that our system of living is going to be tremendously changed, and that we shall hardly know the new world as it will be then. Some are thinking that thy country will go over to a Communistic or Socialistic state; most of our work will be for the government, and people will come down somewhere near a common level.

No doubt we face important changes, but our previous wars have not been followed by any great social revolution. After the last war the people went back to systems of business and government very like those that prevailed before. The country had made great progress under its fundamental principles, and they saw no reason for tipping this system upside down.

If it shall appear after the present war that Russia under Communism is making far greater progress than the United States, and that its people are living in a comfort far greater than ours, a good many people might turn to Communism. Even then it is doubtful if our people would like a system that needs abolition of personal freedom to make it work. Anyway our people know that the poverty of the Russian people under Communism is pitiful, compared with the relative prosperity of the average American family.

The principal thing to happen after the war will be the heavy taxes. Most people will have to live simpler lives, and act along with less personal service. They will gain greater power by this self-reliance. They will have to cut out some luxuries.

There is a general promise that unemployment shall be done away with after the war. Business sees visions of finding work for the people. That should largely do away with the regular depressions that have cursed the land. We shall perhaps conclude after the war that without these dreadful periods of financial disaster, the country is better than ever.

WOMEN'S LARGER WORLD

The first World War opened many doors of opportunity to women, in occupations in which previously the workers were mostly men. The present war opens still more doors. If millions of women hold jobs formerly filled by men, many of them will probably stay in similar employments when peace comes.

It has been natural for women to feel some dissatisfaction at the sentiment, when in the past they saw themselves excluded from many openings because of their sex. They felt perfectly able to do these things, but the great obstacle of being a woman kept them out. They were often given lower pay because they were women.

There was a reason for the difference in pay, in many cases, since in the case of a man an employer felt he would get the benefit of the man's experience for a long time, if it was a woman, she might quit soon because of getting married. With many married women keeping on at money earning jobs, some differences in opportunity for the two sexes may disappear.

Many girls used to say they wished they were boys. They saw their boy friends having greater freedom and opportunity. They wished they had the same chances. They are getting many of them now. Perhaps the fashion among women and girls of wearing trousers has some relation to this feeling. They may formerly have resented their limitation to skirts, and now they seem to like the freedom to choose the convenience which they find in the masculine garment.

Will the present broader opportunity for women's work keep them out of jobs after the war? It did not seem to so to follow ing the first World War. When millions of women go to work, there seems much money to be spend, and which puts many men to work. Anyway if women want to work and earn money, they should have the chance.

Paint Conserves Metal

Protecting metal parts with a paint material is vitally important, since unprotected repairs rust, and ruin metal quickly unless such repairs in a very short time. A relatively small amount of finishing materials will preserve repairs to various exposed metal parts. For example, fenders and other sheet metal parts can be repaired many times when preserved by a protective coating. And result in the conservation of metal to manufacturing industries of such vital war importance for essential war requirements.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

The possession of money gives power. If that power is used in buying of the home stores, it helps build up the home town. If the power is spent elsewhere, the home town loses a part of its foundation strength.

The profit of advertising is not found alone in the goods directly sold through any advertisement. Most of the profit comes from leading people to form the constant habit of visiting the advertised stores.

HOW TO GROW VEGETABLES

1. SELECT A SUNNY LOCATION. In the city plant 'long from trees and shrubs where roots would deprive the ground of moisture and plant food. Fit the vegetables into the landscape design in the backyard, by edge of lawn, or parts of the flower beds, or near out buildings; but have a sunny lot. In the country plant a home garden, a field garden, a frame garden, a tub garden (directions for frame and tub gardens in next week's paper).

2. REMOVE SOD OR GRASS AND ALL WEEDS. Spade or plow soil, leaving it well pulverized.

3. MAKE SURE OF GOOD DRAINAGE. Vegetables will not grow where water stands. Prepare ditches at the sides of the garden plot to carry drainage water. Prepare soil in ridges or beds 6 to 10 inches high, making rows on top.

4. MAKE UP ROWS in small gardens running across, rather than length wise of the plot. Rows should be about 18 inches to 2 feet apart. It is easier to cultivate vegetables planted in rows than where sown broadcast.

5. INCREASE YIELDS by mixing 50 pounds of rotted manure to 100 feet of row. This should be added to soil two weeks before planting time.

6. DO NOT PLANT TOO DEEP. Small seed such as lettuce and mustard, should be planted ¼ to 1 inch deep. Larger seed such as pear and beans, 1 inch deep.

7. PACK SOIL OVER SEED at planting time by firming down with the hoe, or walking once down the row, to tamp soil around seed to start germination.

8. HASTEN GERMINATION. After planting by regular sprinkling if soil is dry.

9. DESTROY ALL WEEDS WHILE SMALL. Don't let them get a head start. Cultivate between rows once a week with a hoe. If the soil gets dry or sticks to the hoe, wait a day or two until it dries. Never cultivate deeply around roots of plants; it may disturb their growth.

10. SPRAY OR DUST as soon as insects appear. Don't wait for serious damage. Follow directions on the package of insecticide. Use reference of pyrethrum dust for cabbage worms, flea beetles, leaf hoppers, cucumber beetle, harlequin bugs, striped bugs and fleas. Use lead or calcium arsenate for Colorado potato beetle and tomato fruit worms. Or use Cryolite for tomato fruit worm. Spray or dust plant lice with black leaf 40 (nicotine sulfate). Kill cut worms and grass hoppers by placing at the base of each plant at night a teaspoonful of poison bran mash made by mixing 1 oz. Paris Green, 1 2-3 lbs. coarse bran, and 2 gallons water.

Women's Army Auxiliary Corps

The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps offers women today, the greatest opportunity, adventure and thrills that ANY human being can have ever enjoyed.

The Base Auxiliary District, of which Texas is a sub-headquarters, is composed of a thousand WAAC auxiliaries. For further information, facts about the WAAC list of openings, and locations, are available to inquiring at the Local Recruiting Headquarters, Caldwell Building, 214 Broadway, San Antonio. Recruiting and Recruiting Officer, announced today.

They are now in the WAAC Reserve, awaiting call in about two weeks to one of the nation's three WAAC training centers for a five week orientation and basic training course which will equip them to fill the jobs which will release soldiers, releasing them for combat duty.

Mrs. Hall said Ingleside, is a graduate of the Medina, Texas high school. Being well-trained typing, she has applied for training for a number of years in Ingleside, Corpus Christi and Beeville. Her skill in the nursing field will prove of value to her as a member of the women's Army Corps.

The Army has scores of jobs for the WAAC for patriotic, alert women, Mrs. Hall said. Those who go to the Base Jobs that will train women for interesting new civilian jobs after the war is over. WAAC's receive all clothing "from the skin out," lodging, good food, medical and dental care, and valuable training and practical experience, with good pay—full privates receive $50 a month, $66 and $138 monthly, all clear, for non-commissioned officers—according to Maj. Hall. Mrs. Hall, S. A. District Recruiting Officer, who asserts:

"The Army Auxiliary Corps offers women today, the opportunity to serve their country, and their own best interests. Don't wait until the government calls you. Volunteer now!"

INCOME OF FARMERS

Farmers may include live-stock caisers, fruit and truck growers, poultry raisers, and operators of dairies, apiaries, ranches, are liable for Federal income tax returns provided their income is sufficient to require the filing of returns. Primarily, due to the reduction in the credit for personal exemption, more farmers will be liable for returns and to pay tax for the first time for the year 1942.

Farmers may maintain their records and file their returns in one form on either the cash receipts and disbursements basis or on the accrual basis. Whichever method is consistent method must, however, be employed. If a cash basis is used, Form 1040F, "Declaration of Farm Income and Expense," is required to be filed out and filed in conjunction with Form 1040. Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of farmers who report income on the accrual basis. Each farmer who reports income on the cash receipts and disbursements basis (in which no inventories to determine profits are used) must include in gross income for the taxable year (1) the amount of cash or the value of merchandise or other property received during the taxable year from the sale of livestock or produce which were held primarily for resale, regardless of (2) the profits from the sale of any livestock or other items which were purchased solely for the farm income from all other sources.

Under the cash basis in which inventories are used to determine the profits, farmers' gross profits are ascertained by adding to the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the end of the year the amounts received for the sale of livestock and produce, and miscellaneous receipts of income during the year, and deducting from this sum the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the beginning of the year, the purchases and the cost of livestock and produce purchased during the year. All livestock, whether purchased or raised, must be included in inventory at their market value. Livestock acquired for draft, breeding or dairy purposes and not for sale must be included in the inventory instead of being treated as capital assets subject to depreciation, provided this practice is consistently followed.

If farm produce is exchanged for merchandise, livestock or for like, the market value of the articles received in exchange is to be included in gross income. The value of the farm products which are produced for the use of the farmer himself and his family does not constitute taxable income. Rents received from the use of farm land or returned as income as of the year in which the crop shares are received. Form 1040F, Department of the Treasury, the option of the taxpayer, be considered as rental income. Includes in gross income the taxable year in which received. The cash-receipts and disbursements for all subsequent years unless the Commissioner approves a change to a different method of accounting. Amounts received under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, the Price Adjustment Act of 1938, section 303 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the Bugar Act of 1937, constitute taxable income to the recipients for Federal income tax purposes.

Augusta

Augusta Travers—you know, the one who runs the little hat shop down on Main Street—has always been dead set against gambling in any form. Never will forget when I was a kid and she found little Hanny, her youngest nephew, playing for keeps with a marble in the back of the shop. Took it on herself to give him a lecture and point out the evils of gambling. She's a strict woman, Augusta, real strict, and a fine one of course. But mighty set against the finer things of life.

Well, so you could have knocked me flat over with a feather when Augusta started in on her campaign for War Bonds and Stamps, right out in the window of her shop. Had a big sign in her hand of the photographs of every boy here in town who's joined up, and a picture of a big board in the window, with little American flags all in rows, showing how the town was down there watching her do it. She left no stone unturned. Then she brought out a placard she'd had printed up and put in the middle, and this is what it said: "Them are the Lucky Ones . . . who have enlisted in America's War—They are believing that you are buying War Bonds and Stamps—Hitler and the Japs are betting you aren't—Place your bets with them."

My wife couldn't wait to get here and tell me about it. Seems that Augusta never stuck to the main issue and kept on turning right around about gambling like that. Told her my self that he had a right likes to talk. She went right up to Augusta and said, "Augusta Travers, you're a fine one to talk! Over you. Why, I never thought I'd see you running a gambling business in your own shop."

Mean to tell me it's a gamble whether this country buys enough bonds to win this war?" Augusta asked.

I forgot to say. Wasn't just a hat my wife brought home. Was a hat and a $25 bond.

REPROCESSED CANNED FOODS ARE DANGEROUS

Hoarders who try to evade the intentions of the point rationing system by transferring commercially canned food into glass jars are running a risk of fatal food poisoning.

Miss Hajek, County Home Demonstration Agent, gives a warning against this practice from Dr. Russell M. Wilder, physician and nutritional with the Food Distribution Administration. "Reprocessing of foods removed from cans is unsatisfactory for home makers to undertake and may be dangerous," Dr. Wilder says. "Not only does the product become a soupy mass with decreased food value, but it may be unsafe to eat."

Families who wish to have an abundant supply of vegetables and fruits should produce and conserve their own at home rather than follow a practice which is contrary to the intent of the rationing program as well as wasteful of food and food value. Home-canned products were exempted from the rationing regulations to encourage an increase in home production and preservation.

Prospects for jars for home canning indicate that an adequate supply will be available. This is because production of glass jars is not restricted, and there should be enough lids to go around. The USDA Bureau of Home Economics believes a few tin cans will be on the market.

We won't have all the types of containers we're accustomed to, but there will be some new wartime containers to take their places. Shipping fiber jar rings made of soybeans will be one innovation.

Ten per cent of your income in War Bonds will help to build the planes and tanks that will insure defeat of Hitler and his Axis partners.

Army Moms Popular

Some 275 women from Atlantic City and its environs have volunteered to act in the capacity of "army moms" at the post. They help the enlisted personnel by shortening sleeves, brushing and pressing, repairing rips, sewing on chevrons, and performing other services which the boys appreciate. The soldiers chip in and buy wings for their individual moms, and at this time, Helen Nepper is sewing on a button for a soldier.

Leonora cleared her throat and looked at the pending "order" for dictation. Miss Simpkins bent over the sheet of paper hanging in the worn chute to receive it.

"Dear Mr. Mordecha," she murmured under her breath. "Yes, madam."

"I am—ahem—fifteen years old, and anxious to be of all possible help in the present crisis, at this time, ahem!

"I earn a weekly income of from $1.37 to $2.12 by helping with the housework and by minding baby. I am at present in possession of one War Saving Bond and am buying stamps weekly. I want to become a member of the 13 percent Club. I feel it to be—ahem—my only duty, but my privilege!" "How do you spell privilege?" asked Miss Simpkins. "Don't bother me with three details," said Leonora—my privilege as an American is invest at least 10% percent of my income in War Bonds.

Yolks truly,

"Get that off at once, Miss Simpkins," said Louie, "an' Yes Ma'am' is certainly an important woman, ma'am," said Miss Simpkins.

THE ACCIDENT CASUALTY LIST

Our people mourn deeply over the casualty lists in the war. There is also a formidable and deplorable casualty list on the home front, consisting of the people who are hurt in accidents in peaceable pursuits. It is a sad and tragic thing that 99,000 people in this country lost their lives in such accidents last year, and the astonishing number of 9,300,000 were injured. A tremendous loss of manpower was involved in these mishaps. The cost of care, for these people, and time lost by absence from work, constitute a heavy burden.

The annual publication of such lists is a reminder that daily life if full of danger. When we are most hopeful and confident that nothing is going to happen, may be just the time when such a thing is most likely to befall us.

RETAIL TRADE DIFFICULTIES

These are hard times for retail trade, with the scarcity of many lines of merchandise, departure of salespople for war service by defense work, etc. The public cannot expect as quick service as in less of normal times. If a business place is short of help, the business may have to wait a little longer, and stand patiently for a few minutes while those ahead are attended to. The American people are often too impatient about such short periods of waiting. They do not last as long as people think. They are but a slight interruption of our comforts, and very trifling compared with the things the boys of the armed forces are suffering.

Don't groan and find fault if some inexperienced person does not know all about the goods, or makes some little error. People should remember the times when they were inexpert about their own work, and have sympathy.

The Bandera New Era

SUCCEEDED THE BANDERA ENTERPRISE, FOUNDED APRIL 12, 1883, AND COMBINED WITH THE MEDINA LIGHT JANUARY 9, 1941

Bandera, Bandera County, Texas, Thursday, March 4, 1943. Subscription, $1.50 Per Year

BANDERA is located 44 miles northwest of San Antonio in the Hill Country, where Nature has moulded delightful environs to delight and please the vacationist, the tourist and health-seeker. Altitude, 1400 feet.

Mrs. J. A. Juréski Claimed by Death

Mrs. John A. Jureski passed away at the home of her son, Joe in San Antonio Tuesday following an extended illness. She underwent an operation last September and all that loving hands and skilled doctors could do was done to restore her to health. Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock with Requiem Mass at St. Stanislaus Church, Rev. F. S. Strobel will officiate. Rosary was recited at the Plummer Funeral Home last night at 8:30 p. m.

Bahina, Constantina Adamieta was born in Bandera on March 25, 1880 to John and Constantina Adamieta, both deceased. She grew to womanhood here and on Sept. 17, 1901 was married to John A. Jureski at the Catholic Church. She had been a devoted member of the Catholic Church since childhood and was faithful to the teachings of the church. She was a kind and loving wife and mother and her many kind deeds endeared her to a large circle of friends.

Surviving are her husband, four sons, Joseph George of San Antonio, Jimmy of Camp Crowder, Mo. and Walter of Knoxville, Tenn. and daughters, Mrs. Margaret Maurick of Comanche and Mrs. Mary Boyd of San Antonio; three brothers, Alex, Henry and T. RED CROSS WAR FUND DRIVE
Red Cross Needs $125,000,000 To Finance Wartime Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Faced with the largest budget in its history, the American Red Cross launched its 1943 War Fund campaign on March 1, confident that the American people will be prepared to meet the needs of the nation at war.

Pointing out that the bulk of the Red Cross services to the armed forces, their families, recreation and welfare, are rendered in the states, Red Cross officials said that the success of the campaign will determine the extent to which the Red Cross can meet the needs of the armed forces and their families.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, who also is President of the American Red Cross, the month of March is being observed as Red Cross month. Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

Increased services to our armed forces and to the needs of civilians on the home front are behind the huge funds to be raised this year by great expenditures and many drives. Chapters in every state in the country are starting all-out efforts to accomplish these tasks with the least possible drain upon the resources of the people to whom they look for support. Every effort will be made in our determination to meet those needs without waste.

The first Red Cross War Fund drive, conducted in 1941 after the nation was at war, raised $50,000,000. The 1942 War Fund—

More than 60 percent of the funds received last year were used to provide services to the armed forces. These include the Red Cross activities in connection with the induction of draft registrants, recreation and welfare services in the camps and stations, the home service program, including the relief of dependents of service men, and the blood program, which recently was expanded to a total of 4,000,000 pints of the product of the Army and Navy.

Red Cross officials pointed out that the 1943 program will be vastly greater than the accomplishments of last year, in which the Red Cross aided millions of war victims. Disaster relief, which was "relief prior to Pearl Harbor," cost $2,000,000 in 1941. Victims of war, suffered 1,500,000 persons, and aided more than 1,500,000 servicemen and their families.

The $125,000,000 quota, he said, will finance the local, national and international relief work of the Red Cross for the entire year, barring unforeseen disasters.

Symbolic of the role the Red Cross is again playing, the 1943 Red Cross War Fund poster depicts the organization as a mother neighboring to the needs of the world. The poster is an original creation of Miss Helen Mueller, noted illustrator, designed the poster. Helen Mueller is the model.

THE UNIVERSAL HELPER

The American people are now asked to make their annual gift to the American Red Cross, that noble society that conducts most magnificent labors for human welfare. The Red Cross has become a major factor in the war effort. In 14 months of wartime, it spent the enormous sum of $40,400,000 for services to the armed forces. Where the armed forces go, there go the noble workers of this society, and they bring comfort and care and healing to these men.

The Red Cross gave to the stricken people of Pearl Harbor $2,000,000 in relief. In 1941 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Russian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Egyptian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Chinese war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Australian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Philippine war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Java war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Burma war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Libyan war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Tunisian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Algerian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Italian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Sicilian war. In 1942 it gave $2,000,000 for relief of victims of the Greek war. VEGETABLES BY THE TUB

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Nutritionist and M. College of Texas)

Do you have to do without fresh tomatoes when screenings are neither the garden? Here is a way to beat the drought.
Find some wash tub, or make tubs by cutting barrels or clean oil drums in half. Cut about 1 to 5 inches from the bottom and at equal up from the bottom and at equally spaced intervals around the side. If it is a barrel tub cut one gash on each side in the middle. Dig a hole where you want the tub garden. It should be big enough to sink the tub so about a third of it will be underground. Set the tub in the hole and fill it to ground level with barnyard manure. Cover that with about two inches of good soil. Now pour in water until the tub is full.
Set tomato plants or transplants each gash and about 8 to 10 inches from the sides. You want the plants to get the most benefit from the liquid manure. Refill the tub with water once or twice a week. Water the weeds pulled and watch the tomatoes grow.
In hot weather a sun and windbreak can be made from old sacks tacked to poles. The tub trigation idea works as well for cucumbers and squash as for tomatoes. Anyone can have fresh, healthy tomatoes this easy way.

SERVICE APPRECIATED

The public will put up with many difficulties and interferences with norgal life, if they feel that people are doing their best to render good service. The public does not like it very well if it is served by those who seem indifferent about their work, and show a don't care spirit.
But it our telephone people, etc., hustling the best they can, and using their intelligence to please the public, people respond with enthusiasm to this good effort. If the public is rude, or careless or lacking, they put up cheerfully with the deprivation, provided they feel sure that the folks who serve them are doing the best they can. Real effort is appreciated by the neighbors.

Don't wait until the government takes your scrap! Sell it now.

EXPENSES OF FARMERS

A farmer who operates a farm for profit is entitled to deduct from gross income as necessary expenses all amounts expended (other than those constituting capital expenditures) in the carrying on of the business of farming. The cost of feeding and raising livestock may be treated as an expense deduction insofar as such costs represent actual outlay, but not including the value of farm produce grown upon the farm or the labor of the taxpayer. Also deductible is the cost of seed, minor repairs to farm buildings (other than the dwelling of the farmer), and small tools used up in the course of a short period.
The cost of fuel and oil used for farm work, or the repairs and maintenance of farm machinery, is deductible as a business expense; but the cost of new machinery, equipment, and farm buildings represents a capital investment and is not an allowable deduction. The cost, however, may be recovered by depreciation allowances. In the case of a farmer, the farm dwelling is not deductible, since the use of it is not by the taxpayer directly in farming operations. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile if used wholly in connection with the taxpayer's farm operations, or a reasonable depreciation thereon, may be deducted, but if an automobile is used partly for business and partly for pleasure or the convenience of the taxpayer, or his family, or for any other purpose not connected with the operation, may be apportioned according to the extent, of the use for purposes of business, for pleasure or convenience, and the portion attributable to business will be deductible as a necessary business expense.
The cost of hired laborers and board and lodging furnished to that part of the board which is purchased for hired laborers are deductible. The value of produce furnished by the farm and used in the board of hired laborers is not deductible. Amounts actually purchased and furnished to laborers or sharecroppers are deductible as a part of the labor expense. Amounts paid to persons engaged in household work in the home that their services are used in boarding and otherwise caring for farm laborers are deductible, but amounts paid for services of such employees engaged in caring for the farmer and his family are not a deductible expense.
Amounts expended in the improvement of farms, orchards, and ranches prior to the time when the productive state is reached are capital expended as investments of capital. The cost of planting trees, as well as the amounts expended by a farmer in the restoration of soil fertility preparatory to actual production of crops and the cost of liming soil to increase productiveness over a period of years are also expenditures not for used every year or so, even after a farm reaches the productive state, is deductible as an expense.
Amounts expended in purchasing work stock and breeding animals are regarded as investments of capital and may be depreciated unless such animals are included in inventory.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

People sometimes ask how they can make more friends. The answer to that is found in people who engage in the most activities for the benefit of their home town and country meet very many folks, and make a great many friends.

Advertising puts people in the main procession of progress. Without advertising there is danger that their enterprises will become a sideshow.

Joseph C. Grew Warns

Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW

United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Ten Years in Japan"

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to back the nation's war effort. Released through Bell Syndicate.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In defining one of the big air battles of mythical x rented a newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Lunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up reported in the existence of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue ship reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, pointed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked the Jap out with a belt and pulled him aboard the American craft's protection.
Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly illustrate that our war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot be a half-hearted war.

JOSEPH C. GREW
Says It's Fight to Finish

For ten years I lived in Japan. The World as I knew it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.
The Japanese are paying of a senseless but entirely ruthless—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.
From the flood of eye witness accounts of atrocity and bestiality now

Fight this as clear. We must utterly crush that machine and caste and system. If, however, we Americans think that collectively and individually we can continue to hold our pleasures, leisure, luxuries and ease, or sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, we shall unquestionably run the risk of a stalemate with Japan. I do not have the slightest doubt of our eventual victory. But I do not want to see the period of our blood, sweat and tears indefinitely and unnecessarily prolonged. We must not fail to realize that we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot be broken even by successive defeats and untold enormities heaped on them. They will gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation. We must also remember that the Japs had started this war without carefully laid military plans for victory over the United States and a peace dictated by their war lords at the White House.
This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It will call for the most high measures of any kind mean incredible waste of life, and, sorrow and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album is equivalent of a War Bond. Then, as I am told, roughly 100 million partially completed War Stamp albums now in circulation. These unconverted Stamp albums are, in a literal sense, like a 100 million threats to a speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed in for a Bond, you the owner have in part done soldier or sailor take a forward step on the uphill road to total victory.

SPEAKMAN-WHITE

Miss Dorothy Lee White became the bride of Thomas L. Speakman of the U. S. Navy last Sun. 21. Rev. H. V. Watts of the Central Methodist Church of Houston, performed the ceremony at his home. The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Frank Manning. The bride was lovely in a blue velvet suit trimmed with a white Irish lace jabot which had silver threads laced through it. The neck line was fastened at the waist with two silver buttons. Her accessories were of cocoa brown. She wore a small corset shaped hat with a veil which fell in back to skirt length. Her corsage was white gladioli and sweetheart roses and she carried a white prayer book and flowers, a white Irish lace handkerchief, a gift of her grandmother. The bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Manning was matron of honor and wore a cocoa brown dress with accessories to match. Her corsage was pink carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Manning and has made her home in Bandera for the past several years. She will graduate from Bandera High School in May.

The groom is a son of Mrs. L. L. Speakman and the late Mr. Speakman of Kerrville. He is the grandson of Rev. Speakman who served the Bandera Baptist Church in its early history.

After a short honeymoon in New Orleans, La. the groom returned to his duties while the bride returned to complete her school studies.

Critical Truck Tire Situation

The Government's stock pile of rubber is rapidly dwindling. Too many truckers, both small and large, including many loggers, lumber haulers, construction contractors, farmers, and others, are entirely too indifferent to the critical rubber shortage and are not recapping their tires in time to conserve them.

Our investigations reveal that truck tire abuse is far too prevalent among the drivers themselves. Unfortunately, a large number of trucks remain adamant to this pitiful situation.

Unless corrective measures are taken immediately, an already deplorable condition will become increasingly worse, and sooner or later, many truck operators will find their rolling stock immovable. It is a case of—SAVE RUBBER NOW or suffer the consequences later.

LAST RITES FOR J. D. WITT HELD AT CENTER POINT

Funeral services for Joseph Denton Witt, 71, long time resident of Kerr County, were held last Friday from the Center Point Baptist Church with Rev. H. S. Hutton, the pastor, officiating. Rev. J. D. Armstead of the Christian Church assisted. Burial was in Center Point Cemetery under direction of Smith Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Herman Burney, Curtis Elkins, George L. Hamilton, Albert Lang, Sid McGarvey and Guy Jones.

Mr. Witt died last Thursday at 5 a. m. in Center Point after an illness of several months. Member of a pioneer Kerr County family he was born May 12, 1871, at Center Point and spent all of his life in that community. He was a member of the late James Monroe and Callie Denton Witt, who were among the early settlers in the Cedar Creek-Cadle Valley.

Since the condition of his health forced him to retire about two years ago, Mr. Witt lived on the ranch between Center Point and Camp Verde. He was a successful stock farmer and a community leader.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Huldah Witt; a daughter, Mrs. J. Speakman of Kerrville; three sons, Prentice and Woodrow Witt of Center Point and Morris Witt of Camp Verde; a brother, Maud Surber of Bandera; three brothers, W. T. Witt of Duncan, Ariz., F. Witt of Bandera and Arthur Witt of Ranger.—Kerrville Times.

THE MEANING OF LENT

The world comes around again to the season of Lent, which has called forth the emotion of self-sacrifice of countless millions of people. The old time Hebrews used to repent for their errors in sackcloth and ashes, as a reminder of the futility of the pleasures of earth. There is a significant ceremony in the Christian church on Ash Wednesday, when ashes are put on the heads of the penitents and solemn words are said, the "translation of which is "Remember, man, that thou art dust and unto dust thou shalt return."

Repentance for past errors, self-sacrifice, fasting, and abstaining from the worldly pleasures have been fundamental practices of Lent. It has been held that seasons too busy and too concerned about their worldly affairs and their sports and amusements, and that they need a period for quiet reflection. That they need to Lord to forget their attention to the meaning of life and that their thoughts should turn away from worldly affairs and aims to the vital truths of religion.

A certain restraint in the use of food has characterized the old Lenten customs, and in most forms of religion. It has been held that if people could their fleshly appetite, if they deny themselves a little or considerably in the pleasures of eating and drinking, they find help in worship and come closer to the divine power.

The modern world seems to lack many of these things. The average run of men and women do not take kindly to self-denial, or restriction in the pursuits of pleasures. The need of repentance should be felt for all human errors. Too frequently people do things they should regret, and for which they should repent. Even if one does not indulge in any questionable practices, he can at least abandon habits and actions that make life harder for his fellowmen, and make more effort to atone for his mistakes by generosity and charity.

THE BAPTISM OF FIRE

When the American troops were driven back some 60 miles in Tunisia recently, it was thought by some that their inexperience had counted against them. But the attack against them was so powerful that they could not be expected to hold their ground. The American would quickly regroup, and make an attack of such fierceness and power that they have probably by this time gained their territory than they previously lost.

The American troops have had excellent training, but training involving no real combat cannot be the same as actually coming under the fire and attack of a powerful enemy. Thus this fighting in Tunisia was practically the first experience of a great body of American men in meeting the strong Nazi fighters, who were veteran troops with long battle experience.

It is a grand tribute to our men and their organization and equipment, that they were able to recover their lost ground and give the Nazi fighters such a terrific hammering, counter-attacking, as well as the battles in New Guinea and the Solomon islands have demonstrated, and that the American soldiers and sailors and airmen are the best in the world. There is nothing that can stand against their power where they have anything like equal equipment and training.

It is a frightful experience for men who have never felt the shock of real battle, to come up against these bursting shells, the rain of machine gun bullets, and the screech of dive bombers sending their deadly missiles. There is something in the American heart that rises to meet this test. Our boys at that front are reported as thoroughly mad. Well they may be. They are before them the fighters for a government that has turned a peaceful world into a hell of slaughter. Our men are rising in their might to put an end to the system that produces this Cain and wickedness.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

"Going farther and faring worse" is a good old proverb. It applies to many of the people who go elsewhere to buy goods.

If you want a fire to burn well, you have to give it a little draft to stir the sparks and flames to life. Enthusiasm for the home town is the draft that makes the cheerful fire of progress burn brightly.

Red Cross Field Directors Solve Soldiers' Problems

Comes on and falls it seems

Thousands of U. S. fighting men last year accepted the services of Red Cross field directors who personally discuss their personal problems with Red Cross field directors who accompany their troops to all parts of the world. This picture, taken in London, shows how a soldier's problem was solved before he could even get to the front. Here a member of the two soldiers at the desk. Contributions to the Red Cross 1943 War Fund, now in progress, make this service possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The soldier stormed into the Red Cross office at a southern Army camp. His mouth was set in a hard, straight line; his eyes were cold, determined. His wife could wait as he strode across the reception room; her face was red and swollen from crying.

"I need help," the soldier told the Red Cross field director at the desk. "And I need it quick."

The Red Cross field director smiled, but the soldier did not return it. "All right, soldier, let's see what's the trouble."

"I don't get help I'm going over there and kill Hitler with my own hands—due to miss out almost any furlough I've had in two years to leave my wife with no place to stay."

Further conversation developed that the young bride was an expectant mother. She was unable to go home because of her stepfather. Her husband had no relatives with whom she could stay. And the allotment he had made to his wife had not yet come through.

Two hours later—after much conversation and planning—the soldier was shaking the hand of the Red Cross field director.

The Red Cross man had arranged that the soldier's wife spend the night at the Army camp guest house. Preparations had been completed with a nearby Red Cross chapter for her transportation back home. The Red Cross chapter in the girl's home town had agreed to see that she had proper care until the baby was born. By that time the allotment would be coming through.

In every United States military establishment, at home and abroad, the American Red Cross maintains a field director and staff to help Uncle Sam's fighting men work out such personal problems. More than 1,000,000 services are passed by the offices of the Red Cross field directors last year. Their problems covered all phases of life—families needing financial aid, allotments, illnesses, deaths, loss of contact with the home folks, furloughs and other problems are unfolded in a never-ending panorama before Red Cross field directors almost always they are solved.

The Red Cross field director is ready to furnish information, to assist, and assistance as needed in the event of illness. Reaching into every family in the United States through local Red Cross chapters, their trained and experienced home service counselors act on behalf of the men of the armed forces and their families in matters affecting the welfare of either or both.

In addition to these services aided by field directors, more than 500,000 families of men in the service are receiving financial aid from Red Cross chapters and branches.

Contributions of the American people to the Red Cross totaled $125,000,000 War Fund appeal now in progress will help to keep and expand these services to the nation's fighting men.

Varied and often unusual are the other demands made of Red Cross field directors. Field Director William Fluharty, stationed in a remote Australian area, traveled down to a railroad junction to bring back 4,000 pounds of American magazines for troops to which he was assigned. Returning on a train, he was asked to help deliver a baby when a sailor aboard, hotshedly en route to a hospital.

Red Cross Field Director Albert S. Capparelli and two assistants, David E. Oman and John J. Clancy, have distributed clothes, cigarettes, soap, razors, tooth brushes, playing cards and other articles to American sailors during one of the most furious Solomon Islands battles.

Whatever the welfare and personal problems of American fighters are at home or abroad, the field director, backed by the 3,716 Red Cross chapters and 6,000 branches, is the serviceman's best friend in time of need.

Mrs. Mattie Jones Passed Away Friday

Mrs. Mattie Jones, beloved pioneer mother, passed away on Friday, March 12, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Gibbons, in San Antonio. The remains were brought to Bandera for interment in Bandera Cemetery Saturday at 1:30 p. m., the writer, assisted by Rev. W. A. Moore, conducting the services at the grave."

The death of Grandma Jones is deeply deplored by hundreds of friends throughout Bandera County, who knew her and loved her because of her many noble traits and kind disposition. She had reached the age of 91 years, 1 month and 13 days. For the past two years or more she had been confined to her bed or to a wheel chair because of a distressing fall in which she sustained a fractured hip, from which she never recovered. "About a month ago she was taken to San Antonio to be with her daughter, Mrs. Gibbons. Despite her affliction, and the endless hours of pain, she remained cheerful to the last, and bore her suffering with the fortitude and patience of a martyr.

Mrs. Mattie Bondward Jones was born in Georgetown, Texas, January 24, 1852, and came to Bandera county in 1870. She was married to Sam Jones July 2, 1871, Rev. Tandau Jones officiating performing the ceremony. For two years she and her husband lived in Medina county. To this union, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jones, on Myrtle Creek. They then moved to Mr. Jack Creek, where they lived for several years. Six children were born to them, five of whom are living. A son died in infancy. John, died when about four years old. The surviving children are: Mrs. Mahala Southward, Duncan, Oklahoma; Mrs. Jack Bandera; W. C. (Bill) Jones, London, Texas; Sam Jones, San Antonio, Texas, and Thomas Jones, brothers, William Southward, Dibble, Oklahoma, and Ed Duncan of Medina. There are 26 grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Her husband, Sam Jones, died September 15, 1876. He was a member of Jack Phillips' Minute Company, and also of the Minute company of Robert Ballentyne, which companies were quite active in scouting and training and chastising the Indians who made frequent raids in this county in those early days. She was laid to rest buried with Masonic honors in the Bandera Cemetery. Myrtle Creek, sixty-seven years ago.

Grandma Jones, as everyone called her, was one of our outstanding pioneer women. One of the old settlers' reunions she always took an active interest, and on one occasion, in 1926, was awarded the prize for being the present who had lived in the county over sixty-five years old. She often, at public gatherings, gave pioneer recitations, using a spinning wheel that had been in the family for several generations, and spinning and knitting she was an expert. Some years ago, when the Bandera Rangers went to Fort Worth to present a folk program in the auditorium, one of the specials there presented her with a monster bouquet of beautiful roses in token appreciation of her pioneering feature and as a tribute to her as a typical pioneer mother. She was also a frequent visitor here in San Antonio and other places, and won friends wherever she was known. She loved the traditions and customs of the old days, and she adhered strictly to the old customs, even to the style of dress and the manner of cooking her meals. In the pioneer days, when she visited her in her home here in Bandera you received that old time Texas kind of hospitality, and if you were there for dinner the food set before you was wholesome and delicious to the taste. Fresh milk, butter and Dutch ovens. She knew and loved the old time cowboys, and delighted to sing them as she busied herself with her household duties. And even after she suffered a badly fractured hip and was confined to her bed, she would often get her pain to sing those old songs she had cherished through the long years gone by.

She cherished the memory of her devoted companion, the husband who passed away sixty-seven years ago, and it was often her expressed wish that her remains be placed beside him in the silent tomb. Complying with that wish her dutiful children have arranged to have their father's body di-

BANDERA F. T. A. MET TUESDAY

The Bandera F. T. A. met in regular session at the high school Tuesday night. Very few members were present to hear the fine program. Following the singing of several numbers the group gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. W. P. Grisham and Miss Irene Dawson played a violin duet, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Claude Stevens, who also accompanied Mrs. Grisham in a violin solo. Rev. R. H. Seiler was the speaker of the evening and he brought an inspirational message on "For the Good of All."

The president, Mrs. W. P. Grisham presided at the business session. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. R. W. Mettens and approved. The new lunch room program was discussed and it was decided to try the new plan so that children may continue to eat hot lunches at school. Mrs. E. R. Teel reported that Dr. Butler had kindly offered to give the diphtheria immunization and small pox vaccine, and the committee was ordered to complete the plans. The president has appointed Mrs. Edgar Poe, Mrs. Pauline Hicks and Mrs. E. Lindner on the nominating committee. Officers will be elected at the next meeting.

AMERICAN LEGION BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Bandera Post of the American Legion celebrated the birthday of the American Legion with a banquet at the Best Yet Cafe last Thursday night. Fifty-two Legionnaires and guests enjoyed the fine meal. Ted Nesky was master of ceremonies and also gave an interesting talk about the American Legion and its work.

ATTENDS SCHOOL

In recognition of his initiative and aptitude, Pvt. Anderson E. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Edwards of Pipe Creek, Texas, has been selected to attend a course in airplane mechanics at Sheppard Field, Texas.

This school is part of the intensive training program being carried on by the world's largest air force.

Pvt. Edwards is regularly stationed at the Carlsbad Army Air Field, Carlsbad, New Mexico.

BANDERA is located 44 miles northwest of San Antonio in the Hill Country, where Nature has moulded delightful environs to delight and please the vacationist, the tourist and health-seeker. Altitude, 1400 feet.

Bulldogs End Successful Season

The Bandera Bulldogs went to the tournament at Comfort last Saturday but lost both games played. Mason took out the Bulldogs in the first game and Johnson City in the second. Martin was named on the first tournament team and received a gold basketball trophy.

Prior to the tournament last week the Bulldogs defeated both Medina and Comfort, Medina 23-15 and Comfort 39-16. On Monday of this week we played an Invited Medina 17-14. This ended our season.

We played 17 games during the year and won 11. We never won a game on Saturday during the season. On one occasion we lost to two teams that we had previously defeated.

During the year Martin scored 146 points, Anderwald 51, Applegate 49, Wharton 37, Edwards 34, and D'Spain 4. Only one man on the squad of 25 will not return next year. Whitley and D'Spain made good substitutes this year. The second team group composed of A. Anderwald, Hillman, Word, Goodenough, Kalka and Wade, before he had to withdraw from school, gave first stringers a good practice each day.

F. F. A. REPRESENTED AT AREA MEETING

W. P. Grisham, local F. F. A. adviser, and Jack Hillman, F. F. A. boys, Bob Denman and Gene Goodenough attended the Hill Country F. F. A. meeting at Centerville Tuesday night. B. C. Daws, supervisor of Area 8, was present.

At the various Chapters reported on their registered hog improvement program. Registered boar gilts were also recommended to nine F. F. A. Chapters in this area by Sears Roebuck and Co.

The Bandera gilt recently purchased is the first of nine pigs. These pigs are registered stock and will be sold by the F. F. A. boys at $25 each. The money to be used by the Chapter for other improvements. This gives stock raisers a fine opportunity to improve their stock.

TESTS FOR ARMY-NAVY NEEDS APRIL 2nd

Examinations will be held in Bandera on Friday in April 2nd to test young men, aged 17 to 21 years inclusive, who have graduated from high school or who will complete their high, school work before July 1. The tests are designed to select young men qualified to the Armed Forces in (a) specialized training, (b) college training under the Army Specialized Training Program, (b) classifying all the men in respect to relative trainability.

Any young man interested in taking the test should notify Mrs. Raymond Hicks, Mrs. Hicks, chairman at the Bandera High School immediately as the required forme can be secured.

MEDINA W. S. C. S. MET THURSDAY

The Womans' Society of Christian Service met at the church Thursday afternoon, March 11th, for their regular meeting.

Song No. 33, "All Hail the Power" was sung. Prayer by Rev. Ralph H. Seiler.

The president, Mrs. F. E. Whitehurst had charge of the business meeting. The ladies decided to have quilt for the Mission Home in San Antonio.

Rev. Seiler led our Mission Study of Latin America. Dr. Moore and their problems, which was very interesting. The Lord's Prayer was sung in unison.

Those present were Rev. and Mrs. Ralph H. Seiler, Mesdames W. H. Price, F. E. Whitehurst, R. P. Collins, W. Rees, Ben Bandera, James Eads, Parsons, and Bethlah E. Smith.

Our next meeting will be March 18th at 3 p. m., at the lay meeting for a clean-up.

JAMES ANDERSON AT TUFF KNOX, KY.

...Fort Knox, Ky.—Among the thousands of selectees now entering the armed forces, Pvt. James Anderson, son of Jesse Anderson of Tuff has entered the Armored Force Replacement Training Center for his basic training in the newest and hardest fighting unit of the Army.

...The men will be put on a 12-week training program which has been streamlined to meet the two six-week periods. The first six-week period will be devoted to the basic training of the Armored Force; insignia of rank; military courtesy and discipline; care and cleaning of equipment; and many other fundamentals which will enable them to begin good soldiering. During this period the men will be classified according to their aptitudes and ability, so that they can start their second six-week period in specialized training. These special courses include: light tank, medium tank, scouting and patrolling, mortar, anti-tank machine gun, assault gun and reconnaissance.

...The training center has expanded rapidly and now boasts 5 training battalions under the direct supervision of Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott. From this training center are formed the many Armored Divisions which specialize in this fastest-moving land force of the Army.

MEDINA PTA BOYS TRIP TO SAN ANTONIO

...When the big black pointer on the large automatic scales at the Swift Packing Plant registered 240 pounds, there was a feeling of pride and a job well done for Robert Ervin Fee, Medina Future Farmer.

...John had produced and brought to market the 240 pound hog on his Sears Roebuck sow. The ten pigs were bought by Swift and Co. for 15 cents a pound.

...Marketing pork on the hoof is not a new experience for John. Only last October he brought in 7 head from the same sow; and at this writer's back to back on another litter this spring which he hopes to go back to market in the fall.

...Bobby Freeman, another Medina Future Farmer also finished out 7 head of Duroc that went to market with the ton litter of pigs. He put them 7 head of feeder barrows on feed January 11, weighing 139 pounds. They fed 87 days and tipped the scales at 255 each, gaining 116 pounds in 87 days.

...The entire Medina FFA Chapter and Advisor, H. L. Spencer, followed these two boys top hogs to the Union Stock Yards at San Antonio to see them weighed, sold and slaughtered. They were guests of the Union Stock Yards for lunch, made the Educational Motion Picture Yards Commission offices, and nearby packing plant of Swift and Co. and the Dockett Forum Laboratory.

...The president, Bob Jackson and the District Secretary, Royce Jackson planned our Live-stock Almanac program over KTSA, sponsored by J. W. Kothmann Commission Co.

...While in San Antonio, they visited Kallison's and Perry Kallison invited them to the studio to listen to the Old Trading Post Program at 7 a. m.

SOCIAL SECURITY CARD LOSSES

...Washington—Every time an American worker loses, destroys, or mutilates his social security account card, he costs himself and money as it costs to provide 13 million new American workers, F. J. McCarthy Jr., manager of the San Antonio Social Security Board field office pointed out today.

...Nearly 2,000,000 duplicate account cards were issued by the Social Security Board in the last 12 months, McCarthy said, to illustrate the quantes-fulness of failure to safeguard the original cards. "If taken care of properly," he added, "a social security cards will last a lifetime," and gave the following tips:

...Don't carry your card with you unless you must. Put it in a drawer, safe, or other place where you keep valuable papers. Know where the card is. Before putting it away, place it in an envelope and mark it "My Social Security Card." Then you will be able to find it in a hurry, if necessary.

..."If you change jobs frequently, and need to carry your card with you, don't just stuff it in a pocket. Try to protect it against loss, wear, or mutilation. Never keep your card in your overall or shirt pockets. Many losses occur because the shirt or pants overalls—together with the card—are tossed into the laundry tub."

...Mr. McCarthy also warned against using the card for identification purposes. He said the card is not only valueless for identifying persons, but such use results in wear and tear and shortens the life of the card.

KNOWING THE HOME PEOPLE

...Wartime conditions discourage people from traveling as usual. They promote a more intimate life at home among our townspeople. If people find it difficult to take this or that trip that they would enjoy in normal times, they can find some home activity to take its place. Many of these they get better acquainted with people they had not previously met, and intimate with those whom formerly they only knew slightly.

...This close touch with their neighbors helps them realize what good folks are living around them. They enjoy these closer companionships. This should equal the pleasures they find under war-time conditions. Wartime life is not all trouble and annoyance. Many new satisfactions come when people are thrown close together by a common interest.

...Many business concerns of very high merit and service have attained only small results, because they did not advertise enough so that the public became familiar with their goods and service.

SUPREME FOREST WOODMEN CIRCLE CONVENTION

...Representatives of 35,000 Texas members of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle will gather at Dallas March 25 and 26 for their quadrennial state convention, Mrs. Rosa Lee Smith, deputy of the Violet Grove No. 1543 of Bandera, will attend.

...Dallas was selected for the convention in an effort to discourage unnecessary travel and to conserve gasoline and gasoline. A large proportion of Woodmen Circle membership in Texas is concentrated in the vicinity of Dallas.

...Guest of honor will be Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley of Omaha, Nebraska, president of this thirty-thousand member dollar organization, who enjoys the reputation of being one of the nation's foremost fraternalists. Mrs. Talley will address the convention the afternoon of March 25 and will serve in installing officers and appointment of state officers on the 26th.

...The registration of delegates will be completed Thursday, following a reception at the Adolphus Hotel. On Thursday morning a business session will be followed by ritualistic work. The Dallas Drill Team, the team of San Antonio, directed by Mrs. Ethel Phillips, State Captain, will assist. In the afternoon a Legion of Honor and Golden Welfare Club members will be presented, assisting Mrs. Talley in the work and H. A. Thomas teams of Dallas. A mass initiation of candidates will follow.

...Thursday evening, the public will be invited to hear talks by two prominent Woodmen of the World officials, State Manager J. R. Dodd and State Head Counsel C. J. Koerth. In addition, a full color motion picture, taken in Omaha showing the Supreme Circle's recent national institute and 50th anniversary celebration, will be shown. The four Woodmen Circle managers in Texas are also to give short talks followed by the pageant ceremony presented by members of Tau Phi Lambda sorority, young womens' division of the Circle.

...A memorial tribute will be given Friday morning to the late Mrs. Minnie Fisher, former honorary past president for life, Mrs. Nannie Wilson Weaver. Election and installation of officers will then be held, with the session closing at noon.

...Texas is considered the most important state in the Woodmen of the World, with more than $28,253,000 of insurance in force. The Society's $300,000 home office is in Omaha. Modern Woodmen Circle is located at Birmingham, Alabama. The Woodmen Circle is one of the foremost of fraternal benefit societies, operating in 45 states and having 135,000 members with $104,000,000 of insurance in force.

ARTICLES OF FAITH

(By the American Red Cross)

...We believe that strength can never be the measure of the right nor can the end be used to justify the means.

...We believe that strength was given us to succor and to shield the weak; to lighten the burden of the sick at heart; to teach all who wish to learn the simple skills which will help to aid themselves and others.

...We believe that all children of this earth are brothers and we shall not recognize any barriers of race, creed, class or creed to set them apart, one from the other.

...We believe that equal opportunity must be afforded for each to share in the fruitfulness of this earth according to his needs, to his ability, to share in its burdens.

...We believe that kindness and love and understanding will grow — must grow — that this planet may be a place for children and their children's children to live — peace and security.

...We believe that each must have a chance to contribute what he wills to this new world, this fitter democracy that is dream.

...We believe that as each one of us has a share in the America we know and hope to shape, so each of us now must strive to save those simple human values which give dignity to man and to life, its meaning.

...For these beliefs and to these ends we pledge our time, our efforts, and our worldly goods. . . .

LT. MAYBERRY NOW IN RESERVE BASE AT NORMAN, OKLAHOMA

Well Known South Texas Pilot Gets Promotion

Lt. J. H. Mayberry, well known South Texas commercial pilot and radio man who enlisted in the U. S. Navy Reserve less than a year ago, is now stationed at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base at Norman, Okla., as assistant operations officer.

Lieutenant Mayberry, who before entering the Navy was in charge of the Corpus Christi Police Radio System, Lawrence Drive, was promoted to full lieutenant six months after being commissioned a lieutenant (jg).

While flying commercially in this section he had charge of four flying schools and participated in the dusting of cotton for worm-plagued farmers. His work as a flier dusting cotton, a dangerous occupation, is believed to have stood him in good stead when he encountered the accuracy of naval flying.

While in charge of the police radio station he was a regular employee of the City of Corpus Christi. He built the radio station at Cliff Mauu Municipal Airport and installed the first two-way radio transmitter set-up for police work here.—Corpus Christi Caller.

Lt. Mayberry is a son of X. N Mayberry of Lima and is a native of Bandera County.

interred and it will be brought from the Love Cemetery and buried beside her in the Bandera Cemetery...and once more they will be together in the grave's embrace, their souls reunited in the Heavenly home. Peace, sweet peace, forevermore.

Grandma Jones did well her part as a pioneer of this country. The pioneer who became martyrs to and the influence she exerted in building the social structure in their early days, is plainly discernable and felt here now in the splendid citizenship she helped to develop. I contend that the pioneers of a country deserve a niche in the country's history, and the pioneer who became martyrs to the development often without unknown and deserve to have a place in the hearts of its inhabitants. None but the brave and venturesome, energetic and courageous dared penetrate the pathless wilderness and trackless forests, and Texas with her beautiful homes, cultivated fields, and untold wealth, may well enshrine the memory of her noble hearted pioneer path-finders. Grandma Jones was truly of this type, and I am among those who sincerely will hold her in dearest memory and remember her for the blessings she gave us.

ARMY AND STATE HEADS BACK WAAC RECRUIT DRIVE

From a reviewing stand before the Alamo last Thursday night, Army and State officials and San Antonio civic leaders witnessed a 2,000 goat contest and dramatic patriotic pageant, culminating in the historic city as a finishing to WAAC recruiting.

Pictured above are Major General Richard Donovan and Governor Coke Stevenson, as the former concluded his address and introduced the latter, who called upon the Texas radio audience and the mass crowd gathered before the platform on Alamo Plaza to lend help in boosting WAAC enrollments. A public-address system covered the San Antonio downtown area, where thousands paraded on the streets to hear the messages of the speakers.

Upwards of 100,000 San Antonians heard and saw the 21 military and school bands. Fort Sam Houston WAAC Company, H. C. O. units, pep squads and representatives of "moms and women's organizations which have been aiding the recruiting service and participated in the event.

Bandera County farmers who slaughter meat for sale were urged this week to obtain their slaughter permits before Thursday, April 1.

Individual permits will be issued by the county USDA war board at the local AAA office.

Any person who slaughters animals for the delivery of meat must, in all instances, obtain a permit to slaughter. Farmers who slaughter animals only for home use need not obtain permits, but a permit is required if they deliver any of the meat to others. All slaughterers also must keep complete records of all livestock slaughtered.

Anyone who buys and sells cattle, hogs and sheep and resells them for less than 30 days is considered a dealer and is required to obtain a permit from the county war board. He also is required to keep a complete record of his livestock purchases and sales, including the date he bought meat animals, their weight, the prices paid for them, to whom he sold them, and the price received. Farmers are not required to obtain dealer permits but they are asked to keep records of their purchases and sales.

WAR PRODUCTION COURSE

A 30 hour course to teach the proper way to operate a drill press will be offered at the High School starting about April 1st.

In order to carry on this course of instruction we need to have 10 persons over 17 years of age to enroll for the course.

The course will be taught by a machine shop instructor who has had experience shearing sheep and goats.

The course will be open to High School boys and we will be glad if some of the men will enroll so that we can give these boys the advantage of this instruction.

Some of the shearing will be done on the ranch so if you have a small flock near town and would like to get it sheared, we will come and shear it for you if you will let us know.

If you are interested in this course of instruction, let me know as soon as possible.

Pvt. James Wright is now at Shawnee, Okla., in the AAF College Training Detachment. He is a former student of Howard Payne College and of John Tarleton Agricultural, a former Bulldog carrier boy."

369th SQUADRON PICNIC

Officers and men of the 369th Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron (Sp) at Camp Bowie, Texas, have had another enjoyable picnic at Mansfield Park last Saturday. Major Sheilds is the commanding officer.

During the afternoon a rodeo and horseback riding were enjoyed. A delicious barbecue supper was served with draft Sgt. Dow Cox and Cpl. Sanders in charge. Alan Ray's Army Band furnished music for the dance and special talented entertainers presented a show about 10 p. m.

REPORTS OF BUTTER SALES

The OPA has ruled that farmers who have no proper refrigeration may sell butter they have on hand and may make butter for home consumption but all butter sales made must be reported to the ration board office in Bandera and stamps are valid from March 15 to April 30th. A, B, and C stamps are good through March 31.

NOTICE

Parents who have children who have not yet been enumerated in this year's school census, please see me at once. Census must be completed by April 1st.

Enumerator

Mrs. L. T. Smith left Tuesday for Dallas to attend the State Woodman Circle Convention.

NIGHTWATCHMAN NEEDED

We have been requested to print the following letter from the War Manpower Commission in regard to the night watchman.

Unless the property owners will pay more for this service the fire insurance key rate will have to be raised by the State Fire Insurance Division. The ability of the night watchman has been $66 in the past and that is not enough for the services of a watchman.

If you are interested in keeping the key rate down, please notify fire chief, Frank Mansfield or secretary, Frank Braden; as to the amount you are willing to pay monthly.

Austin, Texas

Mr. Frank H. Mansfield, Fire Chief
Bandera, Texas

Dear Chief:

We are in receipt of your note of the 8, stating the fact that your night watchman resigned on Feb. 10, and of course you know that the key rate "contemplates the fact that this service is to be maintained at all times. Therefore, under the circumstances, we do not believe you should allow this matter to go on very much longer without taking action. So, in view of this fact, unless we hear from you on or before the 15 as to the restoration of this service, we will have no other course to pursue but to adjust the key rate in your city accordingly.

We sincerely trust that this action will not be necessary.

Very truly yours,
Marvin Hall, Commissioner

GOOD RAIN FELL YESTERDAY

A fine rain fell yesterday and apparently was quite general. This will be a great help for small grains, gardens and grass which had been greatly retarded by the long drouth. Several good showers fell and at other times it kept drizzling.

USDA WAR BOARDS RECOMMEND TO DRAFT BOARDS

College Station, March 22.—Texas' 254 county USDA War Boards were handed the job of recommending the selective service classification of agricultural registrants.

County war boards were asked by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to make requests immediately for the deferment of registrants who are necessary farm workers and farm operators not now in Class II-C or Class III-C and whose deferment has not been otherwise requested.

To be eligible for Class II-C or III-C, a registrant must be necessary to and regularly engaged in an agricultural occupation or agricultural endeavor essential to the Food for Freedom program.

The program of Texas who are producing Food for Freedom are serving their country as loyally as if they were in the Armed Forces," R. F. Vance, chairman Texas USDA War Board and aided added. "The farmer's boy's overalls are his uniform, and it's an honor to wear them."

At the same time, he appealed to all Texas farmers and ranchers to plan for maximum war production this year, despite the shortages with which they are confronted.

Basis for recommending deferment of farm workers will be data taken from the 1943 farm plan sheets, which now are being signed throughout the State, and from the farm manpower inventory, a part of the production plan sheet.

Although county USDA War Boards will make recommendations, the final decision for classification of an agricultural registrant will be made by local selective service boards.

Meat Rationing Points Announced

A partial list of items on the officials' consumers' point table in terms of points per pound follows:

Sight points—Porterhouse (T-Bone), sirloin, round and flank steak; calves liver; center cut pork chops and roasts, fresh or cured sliced ham, boneless picnic, bacon, rind off, semi-dry sausage, butter, cheese.

Seven points — Standing rib roasts and steaks (10-in. cut), pork loin end and shoulder chops and steak, whole or half ham, bacon, rind on, pork sausage, wieners, bologna, liver sausage, all canned fish, tins or glass jars of beef and vienna sausage.

Six points—Chuck or shoulder roast, brisket, beef livers and tongues, meat spreads in tin and glass containers; salad, cooking oils (1 pt. equals 1 lb.).

Five points—Rump roast of beef (bone in), hamburger, pork liver, lard, other shortening and oleomargarine.

Four points—Beef short ribs, plate, brisket and shank (all bone in), pork spareribs, tin or glass containers of potted and deviled meats and sausage in oil.

Three points—Soft corn cerne. Two points—Tamales.

Although the ration list includes a wide variety of foods, including all meats and many cheeses, as well as shortenings and salad oil, butter and cheese are rationed and many other items, from the point of view of the housewife who does the shopping, will not really be a simple matter.

When rationing begins on March 29 the first set of stamps, marked A—worth 16 points—will be valid. Beginning April 4, and thereon each succeeding Sunday throughout April, an additional set of stamps will be validated. All these stamps, from A through E inclusive, will remain in use all month—making a total of 80 points per person for April.

Another difference in the use of the red stamps is that it permits retailers to make "change" in ration stamps when a customer finds it impossible to give the exact amount of valid red stamps when making a purchase. Only one-point red stamps of any series currently valid may be used for this purpose.

As red stamps are declared valid they may be used to complete freedom of choice by the housewife to buy any one, or any combination, of such foods for which they must be surrendered. There is no distinction made at first in the use of the red stamps as between meat and cheese, or any of the other foods for which these stamps will be used.

Many farmers—even those who operate on a very small scale—produce some of the foods included in the new ration program for the use of their families. Although the new plan places no official restrictions on the use of any of these foods at the farmer's table, the Government is requesting that farm families retain red stamps in their family ration books in an amount equal in point value to the foods produced and used at home.

A farmer who slaughters a pig to be raised for the use of his family, for example, is asked to set aside point stamps equal in point value to the number of points he would have to surrender if he bought the equivalent amount of pork and pork products at the store. Similarly, if he makes butter for the use of his family, he is requested to keep in his book, and not otherwise use, the number of red stamps he would need to buy the same amount of butter.

When a farmer sells any of these foods produced at home, he must collect ration stamps from his customers—even if they are not members of the local official point prices, and turn these stamps in to the Office of Price Administration.

MASON CREEK H. D. CLUB

The Mason Creek H. D. Club met at the home of Mrs. Edwin Vawter on Monday, March 15th with nine members and four visitors present.

A patriotic opening exercise was given by Mrs. John F. Langford, who read personal letters that she had just received that day from soldier boys in North Africa and Maryland.

After the business session, Miss Hajek gave helpful information on how to raise and care for a garden.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

"TOUGH" TIMES

The remark is frequently made that the people are living through tough times, and they feel entitled to sympathy. Life of course has always had tough times, even when there was no war. Many people have tough times when their dear ones are seriously ill or taken away. Many people had tough times in the recent depression, when for years work was scarce. Many people have had ungodly tough times of late—if there is pain and hurt, have gone away to war, and are in as nes of danger. It is tough not to hear from them for many weeks, and to feel constant anxiety.

Also many people in the districts where fuel oil was stressed have had a tough time while living in poorly heated houses, particularly if their water pipes froze. Many of them were old and ailing folks, not well equipped for such a strain. Many people have had tough times because their income had to cease, or their jobs were lost due to war conditions. Many of the folks in her class have gotten along well by finding new opportunities in essential industries.

There is a very great number of people who have not had especially tough times and they do not join any chorus of complaint. If they merely ran a little short of butter or meat, they have been able to find plenty of good food. There are lots of good substitutes.

The great majority of the people who have had really tough times have quite little complaining. Many of them with their hearts joined the armed forces hold their heads high, not one hanging down lamenting from them. They want their mom to do them duty, and they are to be commended for it. They cherish the hope of a happy return.

So if all we have suffered is in the line of inconveniences and deprivation, let us not exaggerate or belittle, and think that we are real suffering. Our privations in Texas are slight compared with what they stand in Europe.

THE MONEY SENSE

The human race depends on five senses, sight, hearing, smelling, tasting and feeling. It also needs a sixth sense, the money sense. That is, some judgment about the use of money, of how hard it is to get money, how easily it goes, and what should be done when one has it.

Many persons have recently been earning far more than they ever did before. They have been told that these conditions cannot possibly last, hence they should save a good part of their money, and particularly, they should buy all the war bonds they can.

Perhaps the majority of people have done so. But apparently a good many have failed to do this. Very likely a large number will have to cash in their bonds to pay their taxes. Many have spent most of their money very freely, seeming to feel that it would keep coming in at about the same rate. The chances that it will do so are very slight.

MENTAL SLEEP

The people it is said, should be aroused, and wake up to the difficulties of our present situation. A humorist remarks that the only time some people seem thoroughly aroused is late at night when it is time for them to go home and go to sleep.

Many people go through the world in a kind of partial mental sleep. They are enough awake to go through work in a routine way, and draw their pay and eat their meals, and buy and sell. But when it comes to the job of self improvement, or the intelligent consideration of the things going on in the world, they seem mentally asleep. They wake up when not having a good time and enjoying high jinks, but when it comes to studying the life of the world and the causes of progress and welfare, they do not seem thoroughly awake. The mental sleepers don't usually get very far.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

What public entertainers are appanded by their audiences, they are stimulated and encouraged to do even better. It has the same effect when the home town folks praise the work by the leaders of community movements and organizations.

The neglect of good opportunities keeps many people from attaining the success of which they are capable. There is a neglect of excellent opportunities, when people overlook the good buying chances in their home town, and go elsewhere to make purchases.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME

(A weekly news digest prepared by the trade extension. OWI News Bureau)

Point Values Cut

Effective Saturday, March 13, point values of dried and dehydrated prunes and raisins, and of all dairy products, peas and lentils were reduced by OPA. Point value of prunes and raisins was cut from 20 to 12 points per pound. Point value of edible dry beans, peas and lentils was reduced from 8 to 4 points per pound. In addition, dates and figs not hermetically sealed were removed from the current list of rationed foods and the basis for computing their point value fixed in fruits adjusted to place these fruits on the same basis as dried prunes and raisins.

OCD, OPA Urge Car-Sharing

R. E. Smith, region director of the Office of Civilian Defense, has appealed to defense councils in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico to increase their efforts to aid in forming car-sharing clubs. "Car-sharing is the quickest effective way to conserve rubber and gasoline for war," Smith declared. OPA has reveals that car-sharing clubs in every place increase emphasis on car sharing in considering applications for gas and tire rations beginning March 22, when most supplemental rations run up for renewal. OPA boards are to insist that applicants for B and C rations go first to and from their jobs by a full ride-sharing club or produce evidence to show that alternative transportation is not available.

Prices of Fresh Vegetables

Effective March 9, OPA ceilings may set just the maximum price of any seller of fresh lettuce, spinach, carrots, green peas, snap beans, tomatoes, and cabbage when the ceiling price is likely to disrupt normal distribution, the OPA has ruled. The Dallas regional office already has started a series of open hearings on the vegetable price situation.

Seeds Not Rationed

Peas, beans and turnips when labeled as such and bought exclusively for use as seed are exempt from the processed foods rationing program and do not require the surrender of either point stamps or ration certificates, according to OPA.

Gas for School Bus

If school authorities do not promptly return applications for renewal certificates of War Necessity, there may be insufficient gasoline for school bus operation in the second quarter of 1943, the Office of Defense Transportation warns. The minimum necessary mileage for school bus will be determined on the basis of information contained in these applications.

Gardening Materials Sufficient

Supplies of essential garden materials are expected to be sufficient to meet the needs of the gardening public, OPA announced. However, there may be some shortages in certain items and it will be necessary for consumers to buy early in order to be assured of getting their needs.

Farmers Pay Loans

More than 100,000 farmer-debtors from the 12 federal land banks and the Commissioner will repaid their loans in full in 1943 "Farmers are paying off their debts with money from high farm income," stated A. G. Black, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. "The demand for new farm mortgage loans was about 22 per cent less in the last six months of 1942 than in the same period of 1941 with 53,000 fewer farm mortgages recorded by all lenders in the U. S. in the last half of 1942."

TAKING THE CANTS

OUT OF CANNING

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

Home canning is not a difficult job if the homemaker has good equipment and knows how to use it.

Getting good equipment this year may offer some difficulties because of the war-time metal shortage, says Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A. But the novice can get plenty of assistance in learning how to use food preservation equipment.

For example, there are thousands of pamphlets available free to women in Texas who have been canning for years and will gladly share their knowledge with less experienced homemakers. In addition, there are several Extension Service publications designed to help the beginner. These are available from county home demonstration agents.

Both new and experienced canners can profit from checking their equipment in good condition early. First, they need to check the gauge on their pressure cooker for if this does not register accurately there is danger that the canned food will spoil. The next step is to get the pet cock and safety valve clean. They can be unscrewed and soaked in hot soapy water. If these parts are corroded or have tiny specks of particles, they can be soaked in kerosene and vinegar.

The cooker can easily be brightened and rid of odors. To two quarts of hot water add the juice of a lemon or two tablespoons of vinegar or a double handful of fresh potato peelings. Heat this in the cooker for five minutes at five pounds pressure. More serious cases of corrosion require new parts or repair at the factory.

MEDINA H. D. CLUB

The Home Demonstration Club met in Mrs. F. E. Winemiller's home the afternoon of March 16. This was a very profitable meeting.

Miss Sylvia Ann Hajek led the discussion on Rationing Foods. She showed a display of foods when we had plenty, then a display with a shortage of foods as they may be in the right future. For this reason it is so necessary that we have a garden next year. Miss Hajek told how to care for poultry and gave us literature on chicken and also helpful hints for the home.

Refreshments of cookies and tea were served.

Our next meeting will be April 6th, 2:30 p. m. at the school house in the Science Room and at this meeting we plan to make foundation patterns.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME

A weekly news digest prepared by the Rural Press Section, OWI (News Bureau.)

Plenty Of Canning Supplies

Plenty of metal closures and rubber jar rings will be available for American homegrowers who will be doing an increased amount of canning this year, The War Production Board has announced. OPA announced a quota restrictions on the manufacture of certain types of metal lids used to seal the jars. Prohibition of the use of zinc is continued.

Recap Rules Changed

Farmers With Canned Implement tires now will be recapped only when a material made almost entirely of natural rubber, and replacements will not be issued for tires that are recapped, OPA announced. A rationing certificate is not necessary in order to have tires treaded or to implement tire recapped with the Grade F camelback.

Farmers Get Needed Gas

Pointing out that ODT's mileage control program for commercial tires, particularly passenger tires, ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman stated that farmers may receive "certificates of war necessity" certificates of war necessity to get additional gasoline whenever necessary. Applications should be made to the farm transportation committee of the USDA county war boards. Emergency gasoline rations may be obtained from local boards and from the boards while requests for adjustment are being considered.

Rates Fixed For Temporary Workers

An employer who temporarily hired workers for periods of less than 30 days may obtain rationed gasoline for them, subject to his local war price and ration board. This is of special importance to farmers who need help during the planting and harvesting season, to employers of construction workers, to those who run food processing plants, and other seasonal employers.

Special Rations if Fresh Foods Are Scarce

Forest rangers, missionaries, fishermen, ship builders, and other consumers, if they are included in special ration groups and it is impossible for them to get fresh foods except at very infrequent intervals, may apply for supply to their local boards for special rations.

Farm Machinery Released

Restrictions on distribution of three types of rationed farm machinery have been lifted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The orders permit manufacturers of farm crawler tractors to release without restriction 80 per cent of their authorized production of separators as allowed by WPB Order L-170 and all remaining tractor produced under L-26. It similarly permits manufacturers of power spray pumps and power or tractor drawn feed mixers to release 100 per cent of their production under L-170 and all inventory stocks produced under L-26.

Better Tires for "B" and "C" Drivers

A driver with a mileage ration of more than 240 miles monthly now can have new tires of the lower qualities—Grade II—when he has replacements. Motorists with mileage rations between 240 and 1,000 monthly, who have been eligible for new casings in the lower quality bracket only, can now get Grade I tires. The release applies to all motorists operating in "B" and "C" card holders will be for replacement of tires now mounted on their vehicles.

SABINAL VALLEY H. D. CLUB

The Sabinal Valley Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. D. L. Thurston Friday and Miss Hajek demonstrated making cheese. Cookies and peaches were served by Mesdames J. J. Leighton, Rob King, Bob Patteson, Leo Cooley, Buck Cunningham, H. and Roy Schaefer, Miss Hajek and the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bob Patton on April 2. It will be an all day meeting to cut dress patterns. Everyone bring a dish.

From where I sit ...

by Joe Marsh

Sam Abernethy always said: "Curiosity may kill a cat—but I'm not." Which is Sam's way of saying that when he's curious about something he goes out and gets the facts.

Seems our government feels the same way. After hearing rumors about our soldiers drinking too much government people went after the facts. They got the evidence on what our boys drink . . . and don't drink.

The government found out our Army's the best behaved in history. More'n half of 'em beer—nothing stronger. A government head that's 3.2 beer in Army camps is reason why our Army is people.

From where I sit, there's much cause to worry about men in the Army. Look, they can take care of themselves—and take care of the Nips, too.

Tuesday afternoon of last week, we, the 5th, 6th and 7th grades of Bandera Elementary school, accompanied by our teachers, visited the Frontier Times Museum. Some of the most interesting things we enjoyed were: a Chinese gong, which is two thousand years old. There are many bells from all parts of the world, including sleigh bells from Russia, Swiss cow bells and many others, one of the largest collection of bells in the world. A Reincarnation Plate made of copper, silver and gold, used by the priests in a temple at Mriana Benares. The rare Chinese fan belonged to one of the wives of Emperor Tsou Kwang, was obtained in Canton, China in 1841. The faces of members of the Imperial Court on this fan are painted on ivory and their garments are of appliqued silk.

We all enjoyed the ship, a reproduction of "Old Ironsides," made by Captain Gordon when he was a very old man, which required 7 years work. We can appreciate the facts we have learned regarding our first armored ship "The Constitution," better known as "Old Ironsides."

We enjoyed many, many other rare and wonderful things from all parts of the world. We especially enjoyed the many things used by our pioneers.

We enjoyed our visit very much and wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Hunter for all of his kindness and for taking time to tell us about his interesting museum. We are indeed glad that he has come back from Corpus Christi to be in Bandera.

MEDINA H. D. CLUB

The Home Demonstration Club met in Mrs. F. E. Whisenhunt's home the afternoon of March 16. This was a very profitable meeting.

Miss Sylvia Ann Hajek led the discussion on Rationing Foods. She showed a display of foods which we had plenty, then a display with a shortage of foods as they may be in the near future. For this reason it is as necessary that we have gardens this years. Miss Hajek told how to care for poultry and gave us literature on chickens and other helpful things for the home.

Refreshments of cookies and tea were served.

Our next meeting will be April 6th, 2:30 p. m. at the school house in the Science Room and at this meeting we plan to make foundation patterns.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME

Plenty of Canning Supplies

Plenty of metal containers and rubber jar rings will be available for American housewives who will be doing an increased amount of canning this year, The War Production Board has removed all quota restrictions on the manufacture of certain types of metal lids used to seal the jars. Prohibition of the use of zinc is continued.

Recap Rules Changed

Farm operators and implement tires now will be recapped only with a material made almost entirely of reclaimed rubber, and replacements will not be issued for tires that are recappable, OPA announced. A rationing certificate is not necessary in order to have a farm tractor or implement tire recapped with the Grade 3 camelback.

Farmers Get Needed Gas

Pointing out that ODT's mileage control program for commercial motor vehicles is completely flexible, ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman stated that farmers may request adjustment of their certificates of war necessity to get additional gasoline whenever necessary. Such requests should be made to the farm transportation committees of the USDA county war boards. Emergency gasoline rations may be obtained from local war price and rationing boards while requests for adjustment are being considered.

Extra Food For Temporary Workers

An employer who temporarily hired workmen for periods of less than 30 days may obtain rationed foods for them by applying to his local war price and ration board. This is of special importance to farmers who hire labor during the planting and harvesting season, to employers of construction workers on temporary jobs, lumber camp operators, and other seasonal employers.

Special Rations if Fresh Foods Are Scarce

Forest rangers, missionaries, fishermen, sheep herders, and other consumers, if they are located in such remote places that it is impossible for them to get fresh foods except at very infrequent intervals, may now apply for their local boards for special rations.

Farm Machinery Released

Restrictions on distribution of three types of rationed farm machinery have been lifted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The orders permit manufacturers of farm cream separators to release without restriction 80 per cent of their authorized production of separators as allowed by WPB Order L-170 and all remaining stocks produced under L-26. It similarly permits manufacturers of power spray pumps and horse or tractor drawn rod weeders to release 100 per cent of their production under L-170 and all inventory stocks produced under L-26.

Better Tires for "B" and "C" Drivers

A driver with a mileage ration of more than 240 miles monthly now can have new casings for his lower qualities—Grade II—when he need replacements. Motorists with mileage rations between 560 and 1,000 monthly, who have been eligible for new casings in the lower quality bracket only, can now get Grade I tires. The release of these new casings under rations ing to "B" and "C" card holders will be for replacement of tires worn beyond the recappable stage.

SABINAL VALLEY H. D. CLUB

The Sabinal Valley Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. O. M. Clayton Friday and Miss Hajek demonstrated making cheese. Cookies and peaches were served to Mesdames J. J. Leighton, Bob King, Ben Patton, Len Cooley, Buck Cunningham, H. and Roy Schimelpfenig, Miss Hajek and the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bob Patton on April 2. It will be an all day meeting to cut dress patterns. Everyone bring a dish.

RITES FOR MRS. A. D. McBRYDE HELD THURSDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Lenna Hodges McBryde, 63, wife of A. D. McBryde, and member of a pioneer Kerr County family, were held last Thursday at Center Point, Rev. C. E. Lewis pastor of the Methodist Church there, conducted the last rites. Burial was in Center Point cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Oscar Nowlin, Roy Nowlin, H. Kleib, Prentice Witt, R. D. Jones and Delma Bursey.

Mrs. McBryde died Wednesday of last week at 3:55 p. m. at the family home in Medina. She had been in ill health for about three years and had been an invalid for several months.

Born, September 13, 1879, in Kerr County, Mrs. McBryde spent practically her entire life in the Center Point and Camp Verde communities. She and Mr. McBryde were married about two years ago. Her father, J. H. Hodges, a pioneer citizen of the county, owned a Center Point ranch and her mother, the late Mrs. Adeline Rees Hodges, was a member of another pioneer family.

Since early in life Mrs. McBryde had been a member of the Center Point Methodist Church. Throughout her long illness, she bore her suffering with fortitude and gratitude. The fine influence of her life was a generous deeds sympathy by a wide circle of friends, and will live on for years to come.

Surviving are her husband, A. D. McBryde of Medina; two daughters, Mrs. Delma Burney of Bandera and Mrs. R. D. Jones of Kerrville; two sons, R. C. McBryde of Kerrville and M. B. McBryde of San Antonio; her father, J. R. Hodges, Center Point; six sisters, Mrs. Ashley of Center Point, Mrs. Lee Mosty, Mrs. Will Garrett and Mrs. John Hamlyn of Center Point, Mrs. W. O. Thomas of Taft and Mrs. Nell Fisher of Rockport; two brothers, R. B. Hodges of Center Point, and seven grandchildren.—Kerrville Times.

BANDSWOMEN NEEDED AT DAYTONA BEACH

Another opportunity for the women of this District to go to Daytona Beach, Florida, was announced today by Colonel Kinzie H. Edmunds commanding the San Antonio Army recruiting district.

Besides the many other attractions the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps offers applicants they can now enroll and go to one of America's finest resorts. Qualified bandswomen who apply will now be sent there to activate the Fourth and Fifth WAAC Training Center Bands," Colonel Edmunds stated. "French horn, trombone, trumpet and bass horn players are needed."

Application can be made at District Headquarters, Calcasieu Building, San Antonio. To be eligible, a person must be between 21 and 44, inclusive, have no dependents or children under fourteen years of age, be a citizen of the United States and in good health. Application should be made early, while these vacancies still exist.

FATHER POSTERT AWARDED SILVER BEAVER HONOR

Ballinger, March 23.—The Rev. Father Edward R. Postert, O.M.I., pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, Tuesday night was presented the Silver Beaver, highest Scouter award by a council of Boy Scouts of America. The presentation was at the annual meeting of the Colorado River District.

Nomination of Father Postert for the coveted award was made by the New Orleans Council, Boy Scouts of America, for distinguished service to boyhood in that area, particularly among the Catholic youth. The Ballinger priest had served as assistant pastor at St. Louis Cathedral, New Orleans, since May 2, 1936, and during his service there had organized the Cathedral Troop of Boy Scouts, helped develop a great Catholic movement in the archdiocese and was, at the time of his assignment to the Ballinger pastorate, the diocesan chaplain of the Catholic Boy Scout Troops in the New Orleans area. He has been assigned by the Most Rev. Joseph P. Rummel, Archbishop of New Orleans, to the task of directing Catholic Boy Scout activities in his archdiocese.

A native of Bandera, Father Postert became a Boy Scout in that community at the age of 15 and advanced to first class rank before leaving his troop. He was later, in 1926, an assistant scoutmaster in San Antonio. After attending seminary and being assigned to the New Orleans Cathedral he organized the Cathedral Troop in 1937, and during the following three years studied merit badge subjects each summer at camp and in October, 1941, was awarded the Eagle rank as a Scout, at the age of 40. In addition the Ballinger priest holds the Scoutmaster's Key and the Scoutcraft Training Award, both presented him since he received the Eagle rank.

Presentation Tuesday night was made on behalf of the New Orleans Council by H. C. Grafa of San Angelo, president of the Concho Valley Council.—San Angelo Times.

JOINT H. D. CLUB MEETING

The joint club meeting was held at the High School building with Mrs. A. Hayes presiding. The secretary-treasurer being absent, Mrs. Kutzer served. Eight members, Mesdames Frank Anderwald, Tom Robison, W. C. Allen, F. G. Anderwald, A. Hayes, Frank Anderwald, A. Kutzer and Miss Annie Kallous were present.

Each club is to investigate a needy family in their neighborhood and try to aid and encourage them in their work.

Reports must be given from each member on the number of chicks raised, canning done and sewing, using feed sacks, and any other work done this year (1943).

Miss Hajek gave a talk on gardening, planting, weeding and dusting for insects.

The next meeting will be at the court house on the third Saturday.

SUGGESTIONS FOR MEAT PREPARATION

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

The rationing of meat, cheese, butter, margarine and the like means use of even more "extenders" than were necessary under the voluntary plan for limiting consumption. And, too, it will be even more important for homemakers to know the different kinds and cuts of meat and how to prepare each.

The two most important helps in meat cookery are: use moderate heat; and second, cook according to cut and fatness. Cooking meat at moderate temperatures will save juice and flavor and help prevent costly meat shrinkage. In regard to cooking according to cut and fatness, roasting or broiling tender well-fatted cuts in an uncovered pan with no water added. Tough meats should be given long, slow cooking in a covered pan with a little water or other liquid. Grinding tough meats enables the homemaker to prepare them as the tender cuts are cooked.

Flavor of meat may be "extended" in several ways—with cereals such as rice or hominy, with bread as in meat loaf and stuffing, with vegetables as in stews, and with sauces and gravies.

Weekly point rations of meat likely will be about two pounds per person.

BANDERA, OR SOLDIERS' HEAVEN

We had taken such a beatin'
In the good old Glider Pool
We have been gripen' and buckin'
And breaking every rule

For two months we sat and wondered,
Why oh why, Why or why?
Is there is a God in Heaven
Why He wouldn't let us die

Then we went to old Bandera
Where the cowboys, they run wild
Where the women are the choicest
Not too tame, not too wild.

Horses to ride, yea real couponies
Good ones too, and full of life
A real place for fun and leisure
Far, from gun and plane and knife.

We came to town stone sober
Had a sandwich and a beer
Hello Stranger! How you doin'!
Welcome greeting to our ears.

We met a thousang people
Good ones all, and friendly too,
Not a one a city chaiser,
It is Bandera, that's taboo

For two days, we celebrated
Wrangs, dining, dancing
If we live to be a hundred
Those days we'll still recall.

It's where we want to go, boys
You'll be treated mighty fine
Soldiers heaven here on earth, boys
Yo're welcome true' so fair in line.

Eighty-Three Days on a Raft in Atlantic

Reduced to skin and bones by hunger, thirst and exposure, Cornelius Van Der Slot, of Katwijk-aan-Zee, is helped by a U. S. sailor aboard a navy patrol boat off the Brazilian coast. Van Der Slot is one of seven survivors of Hoogerdijk Visser Trimmer, Holland, left, and Basil Ieli, South Barry, Mass., sailor on the rescuing vessel, who are being helped aboard. Their vessel had been torpedoed, were adrift on the South Atlantic for 83 days. They subsisted on raw fish, fowl and rain water which they managed to catch from time to time. (AP Wire photo.)

There will be a short Scout investiture service, in which the 18 Scouts that have recently passed Tenderfoot requirements will receive their Tenderfoot Badges.

The Scout Field Executive, L. H. Butler of San Antonio will be present and present the charter application to the Committee will pin the badges on the newly made Tenderfoot Scouts.

GARDENING HINTS

Myrtle Ann Hall, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas.)

Now that the ground has plenty of moisture, everyone who has a garden plot should plant some vegetables now. The list is long enough, to have an adequate diet.

Some varieties are better than others for canning purposes. Therefore I suggest that you buy some of the following:

1. Beets—Detroit Dark Red or Crosby's Egyptian.

2. Carrots—Chantenay. (Carrots require a long growing season and this variety will make in the shortest length of time. Other good varieties will have a lot of rootfibers and very little carrot.)

3. Beans—Full Measure of pinto beans for use as a snap bean and as dry beans. The Stringless Green Pod or Refugee are good bush beans. If you will plant lima beans, plant the Henderson Bush variety. Pole beans of course does not do' well in this area during the hot months of summer.

4. Squash—Yellow Crookneck for spring and early summer bearing. Hubbard or Delicious for fall. Two mentioned will put up with extreme heat.

5. Lettuce—Black Seeded Simpson (leaf type). It is too late to plant a head lettuce.

6. Pepper—Six to 12 pepper plants are sufficient for any family. Plant Bell Pepper and California Wonder are the best.

8. Now is the time to plant a good planting of mustard greens.

9. Be sure to plant plenty of corn.

Al Plummer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Plummer, was seriously injured Wednesday morning when he was dragged quite a distance by a frightened horse. He had been standing near the horse and when it became frightened he stepped back and the horse threw him, which caught both of his legs. He received cuts and bruises all over his body. He was rushed to a San Antonio hospital and at last reports was thought to be out of danger although still in much pain.

MORE BOYS INDUCTED IN SERVICE

Eleven Bandera County boys were inducted in the armed services last week. Clarence Estes and Bruce Montague joined the Marines, Loyd Jeffers, Gabe Andervald, Albert John Clark, Rodney Skinner and William Crenshaw joined the Navy and Jesse Lee Briggs, Charles Flynn, Henry Marvin Adams and J. C. Dugosh joined the Army. Most of the boys were given a week's furlough and reported for duty Tuesday.

REPORT OF RED CROSS HOME SERVICE CHAIRMAN

To the Bandera Red Cross Chapter and the people of Bandera County:

The Home Service report for the first quarter of this year had 119 cases, and all cases were disposed of within 24 hours although some required much time and leg-work pool. The cases dealt with: discharge of soldiers, insurance claims, time extensions of furloughs, loans, allotments, locating relatives in service, delivery of letters from European countries and war zones and through Red Cross channels, telegraph companies for the delay. When sending for a soldier in case of death or sickness, also notify your Home Service Chairman. It will speed arrangements for furloughs. In case of sickness bring diagnosis and prognosis from your doctor. Also in all ways asked for by the Commanding Officer.

F. B. Strobel
Home Service Chairman

W. C. HAMILTON DIED AT ABILENE

W. C. Hamilton, aged 52, passed away Wednesday, March 17 at the Hendrick Memorial Hospital at Abilene after a 10-day illness. Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church, of which he was an active member, on Thursday at 3 p. m. Rev. M. A. Jenkens, pastor, officiated and burial was in an Abilene Cemetery.

William Carroll Hamilton was born Aug. 7, 1890 in Bandera. In 1905 he moved with the family to Rocksprings. In 1911 he and his brother, Elmer went to San Antonio to attend school but soon followed their parents and another brother, Henry to New Mexico where they engaged in the ranching business.

He married Miss Lottie Lee Hardin on June 13, 1913 at her home in Dublin, and they lived for several years on a ranch at Carlsbad, N. M. They moved to Abilene in 1924 and there he engaged in the loan and construction business.

Surviving are his wife, an only daughter, Mary Nell, editor of the Hardin-Simmons Brand a year ago and now a clerk in the finance office at Camp Barkley; two brothers, Elmer and Henry, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Pickens, all of Carlsbad, N. M.

The New Era extends profound condolences to the bereaved.

BANDERA 4-H CLUB

The 4-H Club girls of Bandera Elementary School met March 24, 1945. After singing a song and the flag pledge given, the business meeting was conducted. Miss Hajek got a report of each project. Almost every girl is planning to raise a garden and baby chicks. We now have a project to tomato canning and sweet potatoes planted and we plan to distribute the plants for Victory Gardens. We are all anxious to try to do our part to raise enough food for ourselves and our men in service.

Miss Hajek showed us how to make a duster to use in poisoning insects. She gave us very helpful information on "Insect Control" and "Gardening."

Our next meeting will be the second Monday in April.

Awards to Winners Of Essay Contest

Winners in the "Americanism" essay contest recently conducted by C. L. Patterson will be announced next Saturday night in connection with the program at the Medina school auditorium. We are unable to give the names of the winners at this time as the essays were submitted with numbers on them and Mr. Patterson, and the judges did not know who the writers were. The essays were well written and all winners are students of the Medina school. The first prize is $5, second prize $3 and third prize $2. Each contestant received valuable training in "Americanism" and will stand them well in future years. Mr. Patterson stated that he plans to conduct a similar contest next year and invites all school students to submit entries when the next contest is announced.

The three winning essays will be published in the New Era at a later date.

H. D. COUNCIL MET SATURDAY

The Home Demonstration Council met in regular session Saturday, March 27 in Miss Hajek's office. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Claud Miller. The Club Pledge was said and prayer was repeated by all present. Mrs. Miller, the secretary, read the minutes and they were approved.

Mrs. Alvin Clark sent in her resignation as Exhibit Chairman and Mrs. Claud Miller took her place. Mrs. L. Hicks was appointed to take her place.

Mrs. Clark gave in their money for the Educational Fund and Year Book Fund. The Tarpley Club offered $5 to help these funds their party, to be put in the Council Fund. East Verde sent in 50c for the Year Book and gave their dues.

The Council has ordered a roll of paper for the foundation patterns and the changes will be about 1e per yard which is to be collected by each club secretary and sent on with the order. Miss Thompson, the extension agent, and the amount of money enclosed and give to Miss Hajek.

The officers and their members for the year 1943 are as follows: Mrs. Claud Miller, president; Mrs. H. C. Jones, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Hayes, reporter; Mesdames Jones Bros. Store, Cates and John Kyle, finance committee; Mesdames A. Hicks, Baker and Willie Schmidt, year book; Mesdames E. Hicks, Geo. Fox and Tom Gonzales, expansion; Mrs. L. Hicks, exhibit.

Don't forget the next meeting which will be April 24th.

NOTICE TO PATRONS OF MEDINA VALLEY TELEPHONE COMPANY

Several patrons have been asking me if we will have some kind of a social meeting during the war situation, thinking the term of school might be shortened to aid in the national war-effort. As far as I know we will have a full term as we have in the past.

Many social meetings have been excellent even though we have had fewer scholastic than last year. On the date we have had to borrow any money to maintain our service. To date we have not had to borrow and pay interest to meet current expenses.

Beginning, 1942 we have paid $3400.00 on our bus note. At that time the note and interest was not payable until 1947. The original rate of interest was 8 per cent and this was figured at 6 per cent for the last payment. The money we received for the bus sale was a gift from the patrons we have made. We have met our indebtedness as it came due and have operated nearly three years in our sinking fund. We have concentrated on reducing the school bus debt and keeping your telephone dollar as far as possible.

HISTORIC ANNIVERSARY

For a quarter of a century this American people looked back to April 6, 1917 as one of the most glorious dates of their history. For on that day our congress, putting aside doubts and fears, declared war on Germany. It refused to tolerate the lawless acts of an outlaw nation, which broke treaties and trampled on humanitarian ideals.

It was an act that called for dietary sacrifices and great changes in the national point of view. Our people to that time had thought of themselves as far removed from senseless disputes that had kept Europe in turmoil and bloodshed for centuries. They felt that in their free and protected land they had the right to hold themselves aloof from senseless strife, and set an example of peaceful living with the nations.

The actions of the German government had so far outraged the national sense of honor, that constituted such a threat to American safety and independence, that there seemed nothing for it but to act with all the might to stop such crimes against the decency of the world.

The response of the American people was prompt and unanimated with such force as to astonish the world. Our people had been loosed of all their easy-going, good natured. When our boys fought with unparalleled desperation in the Argonne forests, a new conception was formed of that power and stupendous of life.

It is with great tragedies of history that these enormous sacrifices failed to produce permanent results. The hope of the armed forces performed their full duty; Perhaps the people at home failed to do theirs and apparently there was a failure to make the results of their grand achievements permanent. At least to honor the emotion and resolution of the day, we should go in the boots on that historic April day, and said is would tolerate no more such outrages against humanity.

VICTORY GARDENS

The victory garden movement is getting great publicity in the newspapers and on the radio. The people should put their hearts in the operation. We were told in 1917 and 1918 that food would win the war, and it helped amazingly! Our people dug up their back yards and in many cases their front yards. A vast production of potatoes and beans and peas and many useful vegetables was turned out by the sweat and industry of our good folks.

Now the need is still more acute. The population that look to us for help are vastly increased. There is bitter hunger in the congested countries of Europe. Many poor folks will turn with pleading hands and agonized voices for aid from the United States. They will cry out that their children are thin and emaciated from malnutrition. The force of a great volume of food will be a mighty war and political weapon. It will win great aid for our cause.

The more food we can send to stricken Europe, the more cooperation and aid we shall get. This will mean that our soldiers and sailors and airmen will need to do less fighting.

Also the danger of food scarcity is so great that we may do to any extent have a hunger problem of our own. We cannot be sure, after we have done what we should for our armed forces and allies, whether we shall have enough food to keep everyone comfortable at home. Self-preservation should lead people to plan to raise some food themselves wherever this is possible. A small back yard or vacant lot can produce a lot of life sustaining vegetables.

Let us not be afraid if it takes a little work and sweat, and keeps us at home some days when we want to go on picnics or attend a ball game. It will pay us generously, not merely in filling gaps in the food supply, but in the health that comes from wholesome exercise.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

Home town thoughts are wonderful things. They lead to progress and prosperity. But thoughts alone do not accomplish results, unless followed by action and service and energetic work.

When you buy stuff at the home stores, you know it is good and worth the money. The home stores can't afford to give their home people anything else.

Some of the business people who think they can get along with little or no advertising, come out like some farmers who think they need little or no fertilizer.

"Well," says Judge Cunningham. "I see they've got it!"

"Got what?" I says.

"Look," says the Judge. And he pulls out an article about a special kind o' lie detector—an "alcholometer" they call it.

When a fellow gets hailed into court for doing mischief, and blames it all on a "couple of beers," this scientific machine proves whether just a "couple of beers" is really the true answer.

And o' course it isn't. Because a couple of beers, enjoyed with friends, is a way people of trouble, not get in

From where I sit, I agree with Judge Cunningham with the alibi about "couple of beers" is reflecting citizens everywhere. Not a quiet glass of beer or meals—sittin' with the folks or just relaxing after work. Moderate folks are entitled to consid

CONTROLLING VEGETABLE INSECTS

(Sylva Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

Control of vegetable insects is not as difficult as many persons seem to think. The ideal strategy is to wage an offensive battle, beginning as soon as the first invaders appear in the garden and never giving them a chance to become established. This battle should continued at intervals of four or five days until the enemy is completely gone.

Insecticides necessary for the job include cryolite and calcium arsenate for control of flea beetles, cucumber beetles, cabbage worms, and other insects which feed upon the fruit and foliage of the plants; nicotine sulfate or pyrethe for plant lice, stink bugs, leaf hoppers and thrips which suck the juices from leaves and stems, and para green to make baits for cutworms, sow bugs and mole crickets.

"Generally, it is easier to control chewing insects with a duster, but good results also can be obtained with a sprayer if done thoroughly. Dusting with a combination of a simple home made duster from a tin can, broomhandle and piece of cloth may be obtained from the home demonstration.

Plant lice are probably the most common and destructive pests. They attack crops, especially turnips, mustard, cabbage and similar plants. They may be controlled by using a five percent nicotine dust or nicotine sulfate, as a spray. Begin as soon as the insects are first noticed on the surface of the leaves. Insects are killed only when they hit the insecticide, destroy stalks and leaves. Repeated applications are necessary because of the rapid breeding plant lice and bugs.

L. D. dust is good for the insects.

San Antonio Is At War NOW

But she will continue to serve the people of this Southwest Texas Country, who are her friends, customers and neighbors, now and ALWAYS.

War must and does absorb most of our energies now. Serving the armed forces which are stationed here is a vast task which we of San Antonio have proudly undertaken. But we have not forgotten our old friends and neighbors of Southwest Texas, and we are keenly aware that continuing to serve them is a definite part of the war effort, too.

Because of gas rationing it is is harder for you to come to San Antonio to market for your requirements. It is harder for us, too, to send our representatives to visit you. However, we can overcome some of these difficulties by using the mails more, and it is our determination to continue to serve, and serve well, the people of the communities of Southwest Texas, whose friendly business was responsible for the growth of our city in the past and will help to build it greater when peace has come.

VANDERPOOL

The people here are rejoicing over the fine rain which fell here Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. It was a much needed rain and the crops, grass and weeds will come out fast now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Leighton got a phone message from their son, Kenneth saying he was taking training in the medical corps and that he liked his job fine. He is stationed in California.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Love went to Sabinal for a check up by the doctor. He thought she was improving which we are all glad to hear. Their daughter, Mrs. Frank Williams returned home with them to spend a few days.

Mrs. Jane Polvado and daughter, Mrs. Clyde Long entertained a few relatives and friends with an oyster supper Saturday night.

We wish to correct the item about A. W. Clayton purchasing 1400 head of goats from O. M. Clayton. It should have read 400 head.

H. and Roy Schimelpfenig sold 450 head of mutton goats to Jim Skinner of West Sabinal. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner moved here from Arizona and are making improvements on the ranch, erecting a chicken house and goat sheds, piping water into the house from a spring and have an irrigated garden. They erected a rock house several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schimelpfenig spent Sunday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Clayton, to help celebrate their 26th wedding anniversary. We wish for them many more years of wedded life.

Mrs. Hallie O'Bryant, who has been making her home with her sister, Mrs. Ben O'Bryant, left last week for Oklahoma to visit her son, Cecil McKinney, who is in a training camp there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben O'Bryant got a letter from their son, Bannie, who is in a training camp in Nebraska, saying he was down with the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Morris of Dallas came in to visit her mother, Mrs. R. H. Thompson, who is very ill. Her son, Ham of Omna and granddaughter, Johnnie Mae Thompson of San Antonio were also there.

Faye Bell Ryan, who is in defense work in Fort Worth, is in a hospital with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davis of Midland, who own a ranch here, had a carload of cattle shipped here from Arizona.

J. D. Ivy and J. T. Gotcher were business visitors in Bandera last week.

R. H. Weatherly of San Angelo was a guest in the J. T. Gotcher home last week. He was looking over the livestock situation.

O. M. and A. W. Clayton sold their entire stock of Hereford cattle, consisting of about 90 head of grown cows and about 45 calves to a San Angelo buyer.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Schimelpfenig received a letter from their daughter, Mary, saying she had received another raise in pay and still likes her work at Duncan Field fine.

Visitors in the Len Cooley home last week were her sister, Mrs. Custer of Sabinal, John Wilkens and son, Marshall of Sabinal.

Len Cooley went to Sabinal Tuesday to see a doctor about a pain in his back. The doctor gave him some medicine and he is feeling all right now.

Hoyt Foster is on a furlough and visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Foster and also his wife and son, Milton in San Antonio.

Visitors in the P. O. Love home Sunday were Mrs. Frank Williams of Hondo, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hicks and children of Tarpley and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kuykendall and son of San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown and children were visiting and shopping in Sabinal Saturday. They also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webb of Utopia.

Tire Certificates

Rationing certificates for tires and tubes may be used at any time convenient to the holder, according to a recent OPA order withdrawing the provision which limited the life of a certificate to 30 days after the date of issuance.

Second War Loan Starts April 12th

The second War Loan starts next Monday, April 12, and the government of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. There are seven different types of U. S. Government securities and everyone will find one type which will suit his needs. W. R. Fletcher is chairman of the War Finance Committee in Bandera County and L. M. Buie is vice chairman. The Bandera County quota has been set at $97,000. All Series "E" Bonds are included and the citizens who cannot buy the bigger bonds can help a lot by buying the smaller bonds. For further information see the advertisement on page three.

LT. FRANK ANDERWALD CROSSED EQUATOR

Lt. Frank R. Anderwald received an elaborate certificate stating that he had been initiated into the "Domain Mysterious of the Ancient Order of the Deep" when he crossed the equator. His certificate was signed by Major James Roosevelt and Gregory Cullen. He sent the certificate to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Anderwald. He also sent them a scrap of a Jap Zero they shot down.

BASKETBALL LETTER MEN ANNOUNCED

At a meeting of the basketball boys Wednesday morning the following were announced as letter men for the 1943 season: Anderwald, Applegate, O'Brain, Richards, Hunter and Priestley. The boys chose jackets rather than sweaters. The jacket will be orange with a white chenille letter with orange basketball woven in the sleeve. The jacket will be the same color with white trimmings on the sleeve, bars on the middle of the letter will designate how many years he has played.

MISS CARPENTER SENT TO FT. LEONARD WOOD, MO.

Port Des Moines, Iowa—Daisy Bell Carpenter of Medina City, was a member of the Anti leaving the First Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Training Center here recently for service at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

While at Fort Des Moines she received military training preparing her to release a trained combat soldier from behind-the-lines work. Members of the unit will replace soldiers at such jobs as post-exchange waitresses, sales clerks, stenographers, switchboard operators, drivers of light motor trucks, chauffeurs, dispatchers, bookkeepers and typists.

"Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. J. T. Pennington Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pennington and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Smith and children, Mrs. Pearl Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wood, Mrs. Glass of San Antonio, John T. Pennington of Hondo, and Earl Sgt. and Mrs. Dalton Pennington and baby of Collegefield, Miss."

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of D. E. Conwill Sr. Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Conwill "and Mrs. W. E. Conwill of Thomaston, Miss Addie Ferguson of Cuero, Ralph Pridgeon of Victoria and Dr. and Mrs. Johnny Pridgeon of San Antonio.

Mrs. Irving Billings of San Antonio has been here the past week recuperating from a tonsillectomy.

Lunchroom Program Started Yesterday

The lunch room program was started at the Bandera school yesterday under the new set-up. Mrs. Howard Dennen will be in charge, assisted by others. 85 persons were served yesterday.

A balanced meal will be served for the small charge of 10 cents per meal. The menu yesterday consisted of veal loaf, mashed potatoes, slaw of cabbage and carrots, prunes and hot chocolate. The menu will be changed each day to avoid monotony and everyone eating there will be assured that he or she is getting properly prepared and balanced meals.

Every penny paid in will be used in the lunch room project and there can be no profit for any one.

UNUSED "T" GAS COUPONS MUST BE RETURNED

First quarter "T" gasoline coupons are no longer valid, and any commercial motor vehicle operator having unused ones should turn them in to the County War Price and Rationing Board by April 5. John G. Rom, District Manager of the Office of Defense Transportation, said today.

All "T" gasoline ration coupons, and books are the property of the United States, and unused ones must be turned in within five days after the end of the first period quarter in which they were valid, Rom pointed out. The first transport quarter ended March 31.

The ODT is currently conducting a general check of commercial motor operators in all sections of the country. In instances where an operator has used less gasoline than he was entitled to in the first quarter, ODT representatives will issue him a warning into disposition of unused "T" coupons.

Under ODT regulations, any failure to return invalid "T" coupons to ration boards may be considered "good cause" for the suspension or revocation of an operator's Certificate of War Necessity; in addition, each failure to turn in unused "T" rations is a violation of one or more ODT administration regulations.

LEGION MEETING HELD TUESDAY

Bandera Post No. 157, American Legion, met at the court house Tuesday night with Commander W. P. Grisham presiding. Adjutant Ted Stroder reported 25 members enrolled, 12 over the quota. Attendance at the meeting of World War No. 2, was sworn in as a new member. Another World War 2 veteran, Carl Adamitz, sent in his dues.

E. Lindner, Chas. Farris and J. F. Lockhart were appointed as a committee to see about getting State Service Officer Geo. Betts to come to Bandera.

Owing to the fact that veterans' claims have more than doubled in the past year a bill has been introduced in the State Legislature to ask three more officers, four stenographers and $400 additional office expense to the State Service Office. Every effort is urged by the Legion to write their representatives to support this bill. Those representatives are Senator J. Franklin Spears and Rep. C. H. Gilmer. Both can be addressed at Austin, Texas.

MASON CREEK H. D. CLUB

The Mason Creek Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. W. L. Causey Monday, April 5th at one o'clock. Foundation patterns were cut for four-block, which were almost completed.

The business meeting was held during the afternoon at which time members of the club made reports of all work done since September.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Chas. Brient Saturday night, April 17th.

OFFICERS AND MEN

One of the problems of a great army is to train officers who shall have the power and judgment and decision to do a good job commanding men. In countries that have long had compulsory military service, the men get this training with less difficulty. They should work up gradually into positions of command, and prove by actual results that they are qualified.

The United States, as the result of long failure to develop a great army, has had to give intensive training to many new officers in short periods of time. It is a hard proposition for a young man to acquire this power in these short periods.

It may come hard to many soldiers of mature experience in civilian life to take orders from the command of men who are younger in age. Probably many of these younger officers held less important positions in civilian life than some of the men whom they are now to command. The older soldier may sometimes feel annoyance that he has to obey a man who in his home life would seem to have occupied a less important position.

The officers have worked hard for this promotion, they have taken intensive study and severe tests, and are believed to have demonstrated the ability to command. The success of an armed force depends upon the willingness of its men to obey implicitly the commands given them.

The demands made on an officer of the modern forces are severe. The lives and health of the men under him are in his charge. He needs to make quick and accurate judgments of any situation, and to give orders so strongly and confidently that the men will be glad to obey them. He needs the friendship of the men under him, so they will stand gladly by his leadership. The United States forces are fraiping countless men of that type, and they will be an honor to their country.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

You can help a ball team win by sitting in the spectators' seats and talking sour and refusing to cheer. Similarly you don't help the home town go ahead, by sour talk about progressive movements.

When you do something for the home town, the whole country win the war and go on to greater prosperity. For the better the home town is, the more its people can and will do for the country.

Modern inventions have promoted progress wonderfully, but their power to do so would have been limited if advertising had not come along, and told the people about the goods produced by these inventions.

After that Western thriller at the movies, Ben Ryder says: "I'll know the West wasn't all like that. While the gun-play was goin' on—respectable folks were weeding out undesirable elements . . . red-eye saloons and gambling joints."

And Ben's right. There's a spirit in America that's always working for a better community. Take that "clean-up or close-up" program of the brewing industry, for instance. Its whole purpose is to see that beer is sold only in clean, respectable places.

Everybody benefits when operations like that—who want Prohibition because those beer folks are looking for the sales thing—law-abiding community.

From where I sit, isn't to pass more laws to enforce the ones we've got, but rely on America's spirit of tolerance and cooperation.

CARD OF THANKS

Words are inadequate to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness shown us when death claimed our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. J. T. Pennington. We are especially grateful to Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen, members of the Baptist Church, our neighbors and friends, Mrs. W. G. Brymer, E. L. McKay and W. A. Plummer. Your words of sympathy and the beautiful floral tributes were a great consolation to us.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN STARTS APRIL 12

13 billion dollars must be raised!

The Government of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, your sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount—and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More Bonds

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building . . . We've got to match, as best we can, the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battlefronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is this: to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office, or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty. And don't ever forget this: in doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peacetime jobs making peaceliving for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There Are 7 Different Types of U. S. Government Securities—Choose The Ones Best Suited for You:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $3 when the Bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000—also $1,000,000 if registered. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Subject to Federal taxes only. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; ⅞% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."

fog," and as we gather about the open grave in the silent city of the dead and see his mortal remains lowered into the tomb, realize that we have lost a beloved one and only the sweet memory of him remains with us. We cannot lift the veil that divides Time from Eternity, nor can we understand the workings of an All-wise Providence. We bow in humble submission to that which we cannot avoid, but which we believe to be the decree of Him "who doeth all things well." We do not question the wisdom, bewail as much as we may the anguish of heart and mind that it entails. Impotent and helpless we stand in the presence of the work of the dark Angel of Death, too weak to help and too ignorant to know. Humanity can only voice its despair, until the inspiration comes to turn to Him from whom came the chastening blow.

Mr. Conwill lived a useful life. He lived quietly, devoted to his family, for he was a home-loving man. For almost forty years he and his devoted companion had journeyed down Life's pathway together, hand in hand, sharing alike the trials and struggles that come to every household. His was a happy home life, with but few shadows to darken or disquarage. Now that happy home is wrapped in the habiliments of woe, and sadness and gloom have entered its portals and the husband and father has been taken away. But he died bravely, and when the final summons came for him to join the mighty hosts that had preceded him, he calmly passed away, supported and sustained by that lofty courage and sublime faith that had ever been characteristic of him. His memory is worthy of a better eulogy that this humble writer can utter, but we are consoled by the reflection that during his daily walk in life he builded for himself in the hearts of the people of Bandera, and of all who knew him, monuments richer and more enduring than words, however beautifully spoken, can build. He was the architect of his own eulogy, and when he died the work was completed.

His cheering words, and kindly acts, and the inspiration of his manly courage are closed to us forever, but we are rich in their remembrance. We mourn his absence and grieve that he has gone away, and yet we remember that not only does death come to all, but that—

"Death's but a path that must be trod,
If man would ever pass to God."

Our friend has trod the path that stretches out before all mankind, and passed into the radiant presence of the everlasting God.

J. Marvin Hunter

HARD WORK

A philosopher remarks that the boys want to be great men, up to the time they learn that great men usually have had to work very hard to attain their greatness.

This applies to all, young or old, who aspire for any special success in their occupation. The leaders of business are usually people who have had to strive and struggle to get where they are. They work about the same hours as their help, and then a good part of their evening time is apt to be devoted to business problems. Often they lie awake nights, trying to figure out how they are going to get by some difficulty.

If you look at a successful business person, you will usually see evidence of hard work in his every act. He moves fast, his quick words show his mind is working intently. There is plenty of nervous strain in that kind of life. People who want special success can't expect to get it by just ordinary efforts.

HOLY WEEK

All over the world Christian Churches are Holy celebrating Holy Week; the seven days culminating with the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. It was the most dramatic seven days in history, and the events of that week have transformed human life.

Those seven days attracted all the time almost no attention outside of the Holy Land. The people of Rome then the center of world government, knew nothing about these events, and few of them until years later. It if an illustration of how events may occur in remote corners of the world which revolutionize the life of the race.

These events also tell a tragic story of the infinite harm done by the spirit of fanaticism. Here was a man who from any point of view preached a most noble message. He said that the Creator of the world is a God of love, that he seeks only the welfare of his human creatures. He called for peace and friendship among nations and among men, for kindness and generosity and justice and all good virtues.

Such a preacher should have had only, encouragement and support from the government which ruled the land. But the leaders who called for his death feared the loss of their power and prestige, and interference with the advantages of their position. So they put him to shameful death on the cross, an instrument of torture used to execute the vilest criminals.

The events of Holy Week illustrate how the winds of popular favor come and go and are very treacherous. On Palm Sunday Jesus rode in triumph into Jerusalem, and was welcomed by cheering crowds as the messenger of God. And then in a few days the crowd yelled for him to be crucified. We can be thankful for the advances in moral standards that have come since Jesus gave his life sacrifice. But we are sorrowful that the old evil of war that plagued the world in those old days still exists, and has been manifested in the present conflict in terrible form.

RATION PROBLEMS

Under the point rationing system, the job of buying food and supplies is not so easy. You can hardly afford to rush into a store, plank down your money in a hurry, and grab what you want and run. If you buy so hastily, you may waste some of your cherished ration points. You would better read the items which have a high point value, and exercise your ingenuity in getting along with those of low point value. The result will be to convince many persons of the value of good foods which they previously refused to use.

The housewife who selects just what she wants, will often find that she has called for more points than those that remain in her book. She will be forced to make study of the ration shelves, to discover what she can substitute for those having high ration value. She should not be in such a hurry that she fails to find the articles that will give her the exact number of points to which she is entitled for the coupons surrendered. The store people will do their best to help customers make their coupons go as far as possible. The store people will be busy attending to the stream of customers, and they cannot always wait for customers to deliberate and hesitate.

The grocers of the United States will probably handle 3,500,000,000 or more coupons each month. The retail dealer in order to replenish his stocks, will turn over these coupons to the wholesaler or some bank. Thus there will be a great job of work for people to sort and handle all this vast volume of the little stamps.

The dealers may be satisfied with this system, when they get used to it, and see how it will abolish the lines and jams of customers crowding the OPA ration rationed articles. It is no fun to be a dealer or a clerk, and have to turn down part of your wares when you are using for some scarce article.

Under rationing, the people can be confident of getting their fair share of scarce articles. They will not have to stand in long lines in the hope of getting some eagerly desired food.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER FROM REP. O. C. FISHER

"Last week the House passed the Hobbs Bill, which makes labor unions and union officials subject to the Anti-Racketeering Act of 1934, just as any other organization or person is subject to it. It is interesting to note some things which made this legislation necessary. For several years truck drivers of Local Union No. 807 of New York City, had, through its members, held up trucks coming into the city from New Jersey and elsewhere, and, if the drivers were the union members, forced them to pay $3.41 or $9.42 to enter the city and dispose of their produce. They rendered little, if any service for this. In many cases violence and assaults were committed on the drivers.

This same racket spread to many other cities.

"The Hobbs Bill and 37 members were indicted and convicted by Federal Grand Jury in New York City for violating the federal Anti-Racketeering Act. But on appeal the convictions were reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court, which held that Act did not apply to labor unions. Hence, the need for the new Bill.

Some organized labor leaders vigorously opposed the Hobbs Bill, contending it would interfere with their legitimate activities. One of the CIO leaders compared the Act before the judiciary Committee that such a law would "crucify" labor.

House members were not impressed, however, and the bill passed the House by a vote of 270 to 107.

"I feel this was a triumph for the independence of Congress against such pressure groups. This was not class legislation. By this Act, the Hobbs Anti-Racketeering will apply to labor unions and union members just as it does to any individual or any other organization.

I believe the rank and file of labor, including the men in the war effort, is not opposed to such legislation as this, but that the opposition comes from certain leaders who do not reflect the views of the masses.

WHILE THE MEN ARE AWAY

One good way to show our affection for the men and boys who have gone into the armed services, is to keep up the home fires in such fine condition that they will be proud of it when they come back. They think of the home town with deep affection. Meanwhile there are seeing fine communities as they go about the country, and perhaps noted places of foreign lands. They will miss them more critical when they come back. They know what fine cities look like. If they get back and see that the old home town does not compare well with places they have seen, they will feel a bit disappointed.

Every time we put in good flicks into the home places, or cooperating for the general improvement of the community, we help give the boys a happy feeling when they finally get back home.

An innocent looking blaze can become a raging, destructive demon. Prevent fires by cleaning out fire hazards during the clean-up week, April 19-24.

Well, John's right o' course. Hard to believe America could ever pass a law like Prohibition.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

The home store does its part for home town progress by putting in fine stocks of goods at low prices. The people should do their part by buying home goods, so the stores can afford to keep those stocks.

This is the time for action rather than talk. Let us agitate our streets, lawns and back yards, and feet busy in garden work and making improvements.

People often complain that they can't remember the names of their acquaintances. A warm handclasp and pleasant smile and cheerful talk are good substitutes making up for memory defects.

Color Affects Air Sickness

Color engineers have been employed by some air lines to design color schemes to prevent air sickness. They have found that browns and reddish colors induce nausea, while greens and blues avert it. One color consultant even advised an air line to avoid serving coffee and mayonnaise for color reasons, and recommended that even the sheets and pillow cases and blankets in the new air liners be green.

"SPRING CONDITIONING" URGED FOR CARS

Declaring the arrival of Spring with the year brings with it a critical stage in the preservation of the nation's automotive transportation system, Ed Heiner, national director of service for Chevrolet, urges the individual car and truck owners of America to accept as their patriotic duty the responsibility of making sure their vehicles are thoroughly and properly "Spring conditioned."

"There are many reasons why it is tremendously important for owners to accept such responsibility this year," he said. "Subnormal driving at low speed, plus the attendant carbon troubles, force owners to neglect proper service, and the effects of severe winter conditions in many sections of the country have exacted heavy toll of the cars' lives and strength.

"Whether or not our motor vehicles will continue to function effectively in getting war materials to and from their jobs, and in transporting an increasing volume of war traffic depends, to a large extent, on how well the individual owners respond right now to appeals from all sources, including the recently inaugurated campaign for the best possible operating condition."

Vital statistics of the nation's car and truck transportation system were offered to point up the urgency of the situation and to impress upon owners their responsibility in maintaining transportation vitality through their individual effort. The statistics show that prior to last year, more than 5,000 passenger cars and 3,000 trucks were lost to the scrap heaps, left the highways every sundown, never to return to service.

Today, with the birth rate "zero" as the result of the cessation of production of cars and trucks for civilian use, it is pointedly plain, according to Chevrolet's national director of service, that to preserve good care of every vehicle now in operation, to insure its enduring usefulness in helping to win the war.

Points included in the approved conditioning check-up offered by Chevrolet are as follows:

1. Drain permanent anti-freeze solution into a container for use again next Fall. At the same time tighten radiator hose connections and flush radiator of sediment.

2. Cross-switch or rotate tires according to recommended program or previous rotation diagram, thus spreading the wear on all tires.

3. Adjust bearings, repack front wheels with correct lubricant, if necessary. Check wheel drums for wear, than if necessary.

4. Lubricate chassis complete.

5. Drain crank-case oil and replace with fresh lubricant.

6. Check transmission and rear axle housings and use correct lubricant, if necessary.

7. Remove all corrosion from battery cables, terminals and install encasement, and cover terminals with grease. See that battery is fully charged.

8. Thoroughly inspect sheet metal, including fenders and body for dents and rust. After rust has been removed touch up paint to preserve sheet metal.

To make sure of continued efficient and economical operation during the period of summer seasons, regular motor car maintenance check-ups on a monthly basis, than a mileage basis are recommended.

CORRECTION OF CHILDREN

Increased juvenile delinquency is the usual result of war cases Dr. Frederick H. Allen. It is a great art to control children and keep them feeling steadily and obeying orders and conforming to the customs of the community. Some parents feel baffled by it.

Constant nagging, incessantly correcting them for this or that fault, often fails to get results. The children become so used to correction that they pay little attention to it. It is helpful to praise them when they do anything well. That leads them to feel that effort on their part will be appreciated. Children enjoy responsibilities. They like the independent feeling that they are managing something themselves. Many parents solve the problem by giving them the responsibility for getting certain results, for performance of regular duties, and for avoidance of troublesome action.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

Mrs. A. Premeaux and Mrs. C. A. George entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Hall Saturday afternoon with a shower honoring Mrs. Premeaux, a bride-to-be.

The home was beautifully decorated with Spring flowers and the mantel held a lovely bowl of red rose buds. A large number of friends attended and the honoree received many lovely gifts. Misses Wanda Trowbridge and Marjorie MacNaughton presided over the bride's book. The guests wrote favorite recipes for the honoree's recipe file.

Refreshments of ribbon sandwiches, potato chips, Easter candies, cookies and punch were served by the hostesses. Mrs. George is a longtime friend of the family and has been a monthly Lea since she was a small child.

WATCH FOR 'AIR RAID SIGNALS

Many of Bandera's citizens thought there was a fire Monday morning when the air raid warning was sounded. The air raid signal is five blasts on the siren. When there is a fire there are only three blasts. Count the blasts and when there are five blasts do not call the operator to ask where the fire is as the operators are busy notifying the air raid wardens and when they have to stop to answer unnecessary calls it is hard for them to do their duty. All citizens should become acquainted with air raid rules. Everyone should go inside, at night turn off lights, DO NOT TELEPHONE! If in a car they should drive to the right side of the road and stop. Don't stand on the siren is the all clear.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated. Each one there seems no danger of an air attack but if one should come everyone should know just what to do.

EASTER

The authorities on religion and history will probably never agree as to just what happened that ancient Easter day, when according to the Bible story, Jesus rose from the dead in physical form, and appeared to his disciples. Many competent authorities say it is one of the best attested facts of history. And many others will say that whatever happened was of the nature of a spiritual appearance.

Something wholly out of the usual order happened, and a little band of scattered disciples became a conquering force that eventually obtained control of the vast Roman empire, then the ruling nation of the civilized world.

However you look at it, this event should give us all a confident belief in immortality. Human personality is the most valuable thing in our universe. A living soul with an intelligence and power to plan and do good things and organize systems of life, is a far greater thing than any merely world of dead matter, which cannot think or exercise any act of intelligent will.

So it seems incredible that the divine power which made this infinite universe of perfect order and supremely valuable force of big man personality to be blotted out. Absurdity would have to die and drop out of existence would be like the act of a child who, in his house of cards, and then sweeps it away with his aimless hands.

So we can come to the Easter services of worship with a strong and confident belief in immortality, with thanksgiving to the cheering words of the Holy Bible and all the ages, and hear with hopeful hearts the lovely anthems which express the thought of the glorious event. The world around us teaches us that the appearance of death is often far from reality. Trees look dead in winter, but now they bloom and blossom again. So will it be, we can believe, with all that is worthy in human life.

LIVES AND DOLLARS

"They give their lives—you lend your money." This is the slogan with which the government is urging to sell $13,000,000,000 worth of war bonds.

The hearts of the American people go out with the keenest sympathy to the brave service men who are doing such a grand job. The families of these young men are constantly thinking about these absent ones. A cloud of anxiety rests on them, particularly on those whose men are overseas. The question rises daily, as to what perils they now face, whether they are having to encounter strains almost too great for them. The thought may rise, as to whether he could already have sacrificed their lives, or could they be lying wounded in some hospital on some foreign port, cared for with difficulty in that far away scene.

Those of us who have no close relatives in the service should think of these men with the same devotion and purpose. A purpose that is little value unless it is backed up by action." It takes almost an inconceivable volume of weapons and supplies to keep all these men in action, and give them any power of offense against a powerful enemy.

"It is up to us here at home to supply all these things. And the money has to come from our people. They should put it up freely and enthusiastically, as the one thing they can do to shorten the war, bring the boys home quickly, save many casualties, and establish the safety of the country.

The prompt subscription of the money which the government asks will not merely protect our service men in their arduous tasks. It is also a safeguard against industrial and financial disaster at home. Such great funds are raised to back up the ... there is low danger of the terrible inflation which could wreck our business and industrial system. The money put into war bonds is the wisest investment the people can make.

If you haven't gotten around to buying a Second War Loan Bond, stop and think what it would mean if war-ed soldiers hadn't gotten round to the fight.

OPEN LETTER TO THE BANDERA NEW ERA

Suppose me or our ranking board is too tight on gas, or do they want the produce to just sit down and do nothing? We are in a great war and there is lots to be done and from all directions. We have to have all trades to raise now. Then we got to pay it back. To buy bonds it takes money and that money is our energy, credit, gasoline and milk cows and land. That puts us in two classes, one class has a lot of money and bond buying is a patriotic investment to their government, not a gift, but a liability. And they should buy bonds. Then on the other hand there is the actual producer, his little fellow, as we are called and I like it. We've got to raise the wool, the mohair, the mutton, the beef, in fact every thing it takes to feed and clothe a big army and the home population. Then it gives me a pain, when a ration board will try to pin one down to where he can't go more than about half of what he could do if he could get a normal supply. Pardon me if I am getting grouchy.

Yours for Victory,
James T. Gotcher

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER FROM REP. O. C. FISHER

FEDERAL EMPLOYERS—On Jan. 31, 1941 there were 2,862,185 civilian employees in the executive branch of the government. The total pay roll for January was in excess of $519,000,000, which is double the total pay roll of $259,404,954 for January 1942.

In response to an aroused public concern on this subject, rule 16 of the standing rules of congress has been reduced. The Budget Bureau has ordered dismissals of 11,611, except in a saving of $80,000,000 per year and the Bureau promises more slashes in payroll just as it asks industry to halt its waste.

Only last week I had a letter from a lady from my district, now a government employee here, in which she said:

"You may take my word for this fact when every cent of my office—there are about 50 people here who are just sitting, unable to find jobs. Where this shortage of manpower is, I'm sure I don't know."

I have called this to the attention of the head of that Department and also to the House committee investigating this subject. That committee reports real progress and promises to eliminate unnecessary employees.

Last week the House salary increase bill giving one-half times the salary for over-time to government employees, amounting total increase of 21.6 the passage of this bill $567,000,000 per year to the Federal pay voted against this increases in some parts justified, a blanket increase amount is not good be present conditions.

If the government "hold that line" again it should hold down payroll just as it asks industry to halt its waste.

Grandma Hoskins knows a lot about history—but when we asked her where the first brewery was built in America, she wouldn't take sides.

"You see," says Grandma, "wherever the colonists settled, one of the first things they thought about was food and beer ... In fact, one reason why the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock was because the Mayflower was runnin' short of beer."

Well, that was a new one on us, but Grandma showed it to us

—just as it was written by Mayflower's log.

And it seems that all our early Americans had a sort of tempered thirst, and helped to make up for it with moderate people.

Thirteen billion dollars—the sum the Treasury must raise in the Second War Loan drive, is only one sixth of the estimated cost of the war for the fiscal year of 1943.

The 2nd War Loan Drive Is On!

Come on, Let's WIN this war!

If we should lose the war, life would not be worth living.

This month it's up to us here at home to do our part, and then some, to make victory surer—and quicker! To do it, we've got to lend Uncle Sam 13 billion extra dollars.

It isn't easy—but war isn't easy and victory isn't cheap. It takes money—and more money—to buy planes, ships, tanks, guns and a million other things our boys must have to deliver that final paralyzing knockout punch.

And it's a whale of a lot easier for us home to lend our money than for our sons to fight through the hardships and dangers of deserts, swamps, jungles, ice-fields and sub-infested seas!

Just think! Every extra bond you will help provide the weapons to save the lives of many American boys! That alone worth every effort, every economy you can make? You bet it is!

So—today—to your bank or post office and invest to your uttermost limit. And if it hurts, it's nothing compared to the agonizing impact of a bayonet thrust, a flesh-tearing torpedo fragment or a bone-crushing bullet.

Dig deep, brother, and do it NOW!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities—choose the ones best suited for you!

They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money

DON'T LET THINGS GET YOU DOWN

Come here and find relaxation. You will be able to work better after an evening of fun.

PRESSURE COOKER EASIEST WAY TO CAN FOODS

...The U. S. Department of Agriculture said today that the use of the steam pressure canner is the only method it can recommend for the canning of certain types of vegetables. In response to numerous requests by individuals and agencies interested in the canning of Victory Garden products, the Department made it clear that it can recommend only methods considered universally safe, since its published material goes to all parts of the United States.

...Certain spoilage organisms, as well as the spores of Bacillus botulinum, are not readily killed by boiling temperatures in non-acid products, but are destroyed by the high temperature developed in a pressure canner when properly used. If botulinum spores are present in a non-acid food and are not destroyed, they may develop and generate a fatal poison, or toxin.

...The non-acid foods include such vegetables as corn, lima beans, spinach, other greens, and asparagus as well as meats. It is for these products that the Department recommends the use of a steam pressure canner. Acid foods such as fruits and tomatoes, rhubarb, and pickled foods, on the other hand, with botulinum spores are made harmless or destroyed by boiling temperatures, and these foods may be safely canned by the boiling water-bath method.

...Home-canned non-acid vegetables processed by the boiling water-bath method can contain botulinum spores that grow and show no signs of spoilage. To be safe, such products should be brought to a boil and boiled for at least ten minutes after the can or jar is emptied before they are eaten or even tasted, except for a full ten minutes or more will destroy the toxin, should the botulinum spores, It is the toxin, not the organism itself, that is harmful.

...Any non-acid canned foods that show evident signs of spoilage should of course not be tested or eaten at all.

...In stating its recommendations, the Department of Agriculture has made clear that, though Bacillus botulinum is widely distributed in soils, the number of cases of poisoning from home-canned non-acid foods is relatively small, and a large percentage of these reported have occurred on the Pacific Coast or in the Mountain and Great Plains States. Outside of these regions, some State Agricultural colleges approve alternate methods of canning non-acid vegetables and meats, though all recommend the pressure canner as first choice. Each State College publishes directions for canning that it considers safe within its own State.

...The Department emphasized that every safe and efficient method of preserving foods at home should be used as fully as available equipment permits this year. Individually owned as well as community pressure cookers can be shared to keep them operating at capacity during the canning season. Large quantities of fruits and tomatoes can be put up by the boiling water-bath method. Dehydration, freezing, brining, pickling and freezing can be used to advantage with many products. Individuals can contract for dehydrating spinach, other greens, and asparagus, and for quick freezing of fresh vegetables and fruits in season. Here the family with 4 Victory garden has a big advantage, by facing liberal amounts of fresh products in prime condition over as long a season as possible, they can build reserves of health for the months ahead, and even store up valuable vitamins in their own bodies instead of in the pantry or the cellar. Sharing fresh products with friends and neighbors can spread this advantage to others who may not be fortunate enough to have gardens of their own.

SENIORS TO PRESENT ANNUAL PLAY

The Senior Class of Bandera High School will present its production of "Through the Keyhole" at the Lutheran Auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Friday evening, May 7, 1943.

The advance ticket sale promises a capacity audience and the cast of young actors promises an evening of genuine enjoyment. "Through the Keyhole" is one of the best comedies of the past few seasons, a romance, and a-five-minute drama replete with sparkling lines and delightful situations. Those who've seen Ivey and Wanda Trowbridge are to head the cast, though each actor and actress will display to the public his capability. Charles Manning as the tired young man who lives with his wife in just as amusing as Johnnie Boyle in the part of Jimmie who loves tennis ——

Miss Mary Ann Hunter who's shopping for a wealthy husband. Jimmie Bandera as the wise-cracking grandmother will prove a laugh sensation from her opening line. Other members of the cast are: Wallace Jergesen and Marjorie MacNaughton.

B. B. Woodward Claimed by Death

Ben B. Woodward, a highly respected and loved citizen of Bandera, passed away at a San Antonio hospital last Thursday. He recently underwent an operation and his death is deeply mourned by all who knew him. He was 76 years old.

The deceased had lived in Bandera about 5 years and on May 8, 1940 he married Mrs. Lola Seymour and they had made their home on the ranch since then. He was a quiet, unassuming man who proved to be a true friend and neighbor always kind, considerate and helpful.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lola Woodward, one daughter, Mrs. L. W. Hansen of Laredo, one son, S. J. Woodward of San Antonio, three grandchildren and a stepchildren. Mrs. M. A. Fuglaar and Mrs. J. E. Cox of San Antonio, Mrs. V. W. Fuglaar of Big Spring, W. S. Jemeyson with the army in Alaska, A. H. Jemeyson of Victoria and Mrs. Clyde Tarver of Bandera.

Mrs. Woodward accompanied the body to Giddings where funeral services were held and interment was in the Lexington Cemetery.

The New Era joins the many friends in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

A GREAT WAR CLUB

It would be easy to head this article, "A Bandera Boy Makes Good—If He Is a Former Resident of This County." Skins A Nigger Out of War Club—While Sailing Over Pacific Capitalizes Guadalcanal, Caffall, a C. P. O. in the Navy C. B's, went souvenir hunting. Landed a worn-out wrist watch for a valuable war club, etc.

Lloyd Caffall, well known to many of our people, has sent to Frontier Times Museum in this city a souvenir war club which he obtained from a native chief on Guadalcanal. The club is made of Australian skirt or bushes long, and was used as a defensive weapon, and as a ceremonial. It is handsomely carved and elaborately name from Malaita Island, and he tells how Chief Malaita gave him as a wrist watch to a native Malaitan chief for it. The Malaitans are practically the same as the Guadalcanal natives. Mr. Caffall says they worked as laborers for the American forces on Guadalcanal, and are fiercely loyal to the U. S. Navy. In describing them he says they are "a fine, tall, strong black, frowsy-headed, tattooed, and wear only a breechcloth." His description of the native chief when he bought the war club is as follows: "With I had a picture of the native to send you. A fine looker he was: tattoo, rings, bracelets, and breechcloth. Capitalized all. Rings include those worn in nose and ears. The most conspicuous ring is the one worn in forehead; that on cheeks, arms and legs do not show up so well. The fact he was so stiff around their middles that some movie directors call 'sarongs' very little as lots of wings.' Anyway, they don't wear much clothes, only ornaments."

Frontier Museum friends will be glad to know that Jess is getting along fine, despite the fact that he has been under pretty hard fighting over there, and has had some very thrilling and exciting experiences mauling the Japs.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

On Friday, April 30, at 8:30 p. m. the Juniors of Bandera High School entertained the Seniors of 1943 with a beautifully appointed formal banquet in the living room of the Homemaking Department. The room was decorated with the senior class colors, green and white and roses, their class flower. The U-shape table was decorated with attractive mint cups and favors carried out in miniature of roses and larkspur. The room was decorated in profusion with green vines.

A delicious menu of tomato juice cocktail, fried chicken and dressing, or tuna fish salad, creamed potatoes, waldorf salad, creamed asparagus tips, hot and butter, iced tea, mint jello with whipped cream, and cake were served by the juniors. A toast to the Senior class by Billy Graham.

Following the meal Rev. Beiler addressed us with impressive words. Speeches were made by Virgil W. Hall, Senior class president; Lahan, senior president; Raymond Hicks and Marguerite Lindner, junior president, who presided. A most enjoyable social hour was spent in the high school gymnasium with forty-three guests present.

GOOD HEALTH VITAL IN RAISING CHICKS

Raising what used to be a minor poultry flock as it per cent larger than at the same time a year ago.

Doing the job efficiently means better management, keeping pullets on ground free from visible parasite eggs and placing them early in clean houses with clean litter, sufficient feed, water, space, light, ventilation grit and oyster shell.

A five per cent reduction in normal losses means an increase of 200,000,000 dozen eggs and 100,000,000 pounds of poultry meat. Proper feeding and marketing of unprofitable birds is one means of increasing the supply of poultry.

Keeping young stock away from old stock, and daily cleaning and disinfecting of equipment materials protect against outbreaks of disease. Vaccination is quantities of 1½ ounces or three level tablespoonful, in the mash 100 pounds of consumed in two days is 100 per cent effective against the cecal worm whose eggs transmit blackhead to turkeys. It also is effective against the large round worm of poultry.

Poultry raisers find a vinegar treatment along with this is proving effective in controlling intestinal worm, head and other protozoan diseases. The mixture comprises two ounces of vinegar and one teaspoonful of bluestone dissolved in one pint of vinegar. It is administered by dropper to each bird in a gallon of drinking water in non-metal containers for two or three days. Repeat the treatment after five successive days at one time.

See the county agricultural agent for information for prevention and treatment of poultry diseases.

CADET J. D. McDONALD NOW AT LUBBOCK

Lubbock, Texas, Army Flying School, May 3.—Aviation Cadet Julian D. McDonald of Bandera has arrived at this advanced flying school for the final lap of his training as an Air Forces flying officer.

He was assigned to ranching prior to entering the Air Forces in 1940 and is the son of Mrs. R. R. Ross of Center Point, Texas. His father, S. A. McDonald, resides in California. One brother, Capt. S. A. McDonald Jr. is stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE

The University of Texas will confer degrees of Bachelor of Business Administration to 170 students in the June Commencement Exercises and one of those to receive degrees is Dorcas Pecile Adamietz, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Adamietz of Bandera.

Rudolph Kokes Rites Held Yesterday

Rudolph Kokes passed away in a San Antonio hospital Monday following an illness of about a month's duration. He was 68 years, 6 months and 2 days old. The remains were brought to the Plummer Funeral Home here and lay in state until yesterday at 3 p. m. when funeral services were held with Rev. Wm. H. Anderson of San Antonio officiating. Pallbearers were Fred, Lonnie and George Maass of Bandera, Henry Harness of Hondo, Mr. Seiffert and H. Jacobsmeier of San Antonio. Interment was in the Bandera Cemetery.

The deceased was born in St. Louis, Mo. on Nov. 1, 1875. He had made his home in Texas for about 25 years and was a decorator by trade. He married Miss Emma Maass of Bandera in 1913 and to this union one son, Loyd was born. Mrs. Kokes passed away when Loyd was just a baby and he was reared by Wm. J. Maass. In 1926 he married Mrs. Annie Greif and she and Loyd survive as well as two brothers and two sisters, and one grandson.

The New Era joins in extending sincere sympathy to those mourning the passing of this good man.

NAVY RECRUITING PARTY HERE TUESDAY

Ensign Florence Weed and Yeoman Mary Bell of the WAVES will be stationed at Bandera and Yeoman C. C. Taylor of Houston were here Tuesday interviewing men and women interested in service in the U. S. Navy. They also spoke at Bandera High School and in their talks there urged young girls to complete their high school education as they can be of much more service to their country than without.

We were unable to learn how many recruits they got while here although a great deal of interest was shown.

Pfc. CHARLIE DUGOSH WRITES INTERESTING LETTERS

Sheppard Field Tex.—Pfc. Charlie L. Dugosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dugosh of Bandera, has graduated from an intensive course in airplane mechanics and has been assigned to that job as one of America's "commandos in coveralls" at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Texas. Charlie is one of the many schools of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command which trains the specialist technicians to maintain our mighty air armada. He is now qualified to play a vital role in the Army Air Forces groundcrew Blitz Team Plane Flying.

Before entering the school, he was trained at one of the basic training centers of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command, Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. Axis with other things besides the tools of his trade.

PRISONER OF JAPS

R. A. Patterson Jr., member of the Bandera High School 1938 graduation, is listed as a prisoner of the Japanese by the War Department. No other information has received by his mother, Mrs. R. A. Patterson of Bulnick. His brother, Miss Adolphe Patterson, is in training at a San Antonio hospital with the Army Air Forces Nurse Corps.—San Antonio Express.

Pat graduated from Bandera High School in 1938 and his many friends there hope he is being treated and that he will soon return to them safe and sound.

SCRIMMAGE UNDER LIGHTS TUESDAY

The Bandera High School Seniors will engage in a scrimmage with the next Tuesday, May 11 at 8 p. m. Admission will be 11 cents for children and 20 cents for adults.

DOROTHY ECKHART TO WED MAY 15th

Mr. and Mrs. Lonny Eckhart have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Ann to William Glendon Roberts. The wedding will take place May 15th at the McKinley Ave. Methodist Church in San Antonio.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Ted Nesky entertained with a swimming party Tuesday honoring her daughter, Patsy Lagsford on her birthday. Six guests enjoyed the hospitality and also served refreshments of cake and lemonade.

FOR MOTHER'S DAY

The maternal instinct is one of the most wonderful things in the world. The depth of this passion is seen all through the life of the lower animals. The she-bear, it is said, will fight with the fiend of infernal fierceness for the safety of her young. The tender solicitude of birds for the little fledglings in the nest is one of the most beautiful sights in nature. This maternal care protects the young of all species from the dangers which come from weakness and inexperience.

It is seen in the most perfect and beautiful fruition in the human mother. The way women will work for their sons and daughters is truly astonishing. They will set up late nights sewing on the dress which Daughter is to wear to the party, or fixing up the old clothes so that Son shall make a better showing at school. Their eyes and hands and feet are weary with prolonged strain, and incessant trotting around in behalf of the children.

They often deny themselves the things they need, so that the children can have their wants supplied. They often wear outmoded clothes, and make a shabby appearance, so that money can be had to buy new and shining garments for the young folks.

Their affection is loyal and survives shocks. If the boy does wrong and brings a stain on the family history, the father may become angry and cut himself off from the close relation with the son. But the mother will in all probability keep her heart open through the years, ready to forgive and forget, even if he shows little compunction.

This girl and man and women should give deeper reverence and affection to those blessed mothers, who have rendered all this devotion and made all these sacrifices. The influence of mother-love will not be withered by any fire and they should repay it by undying affection.

3,000,000 WORKERS NEEDED

Government authorities say it is necessary to find and train 5,600,000 more workers for war production during 1943. For months the country has faced a shortage of help, and there are going to be about 11,000,000 men in the armed services. It is not easy to find 5,500,000 more industrial workers. The many columns of "Help Wanted" advertisements in newspapers all over the land tell the story.

The failure to meet production goals will be a tragedy. "It means that some part of our armed forces cannot be given the weapons and supplies they need. Inability to provide our forces with all the planes, tanks, guns and ammunition they need, with mountains of miscellaneous supplies, will prolong the war and increase the casualty lists. It will add to the burden of taxes that the United States will have to carry for many years.

Some obstacles to the employment of elderly workers, who formerly were considered too old for the fast pace of modern industry, should be removed. Millions of these workers have gone back to useful jobs. Probably many more are capable of working. Some of them might not be able to make full time, but there is still a heap of work left in the hands and brains of these old boys and girls.

A large number of people still work in non-essential industries, where could provide needed help on war production. Many of them may dislike to make the change, perhaps fearing they would not get the old job back after the war. They want a chance to earn good money in war work, and they gain by acquiring new skills. They do not want to think of it as in any way practical.

Married women and students are two classes among whom many workers should be found. The point is, who could do this war work should give earnest thought to the question as to how they should not offer their services where they are so greatly needed.

CHARACTER

(Essay written by high school girl)

As empires crumble and tragedy follows, character assumes its true importance. Witness Winston Churchill. "I have nothing," said he, "to offer but blood, toil, and tears." If took character to make that statement and it took character for the British people to accept it. Churchill and his people realized that once the goal had been set, compromise could be considered and in this fact may lie the nature of many years of British history. Is character such as this inborn or achieved? It is not the result of luck or inheritance; it is compounded of thinking, of determination, of perseverance, of hard work and of tireless self-correction.

This self-correction is perhaps the most essential step in character development. Yet it is the most necessary as Abraham Lincoln knew. He must have realized his ability yet no matter what height he reached he kept himself humble and with characteristic caution man that he had been in the beginning.

Why what now is character usually developed? Hope is the force which is needed for it is there that one receives his moral training. There right habits are formed. There, by imitation, the child develops. Great men have always stood ready to acknowledge their debt to the home and particularly to their mothers. Religion supplements the work of the home and carries it forward through offering positive moral instruction. This fact is not sufficiently emphasized today.

The school must and does continue the character training begun in the home and carried forward by the church. Before we, of this class, had reached high school, we had had eight years of such training.

At Parker we have been given the chance to fit into a genuinely democratic society in which we found it necessary to adapt ourselves to all types of personality. This adaptation was brought about in many ways.

In examinations, for example, we learned to temper frankness and self-reliance which would characterize the members of a democracy. Thereby also we have shown ourselves willing to cooperate with our teachers in the upholding of the ideals of right and truth without which any democracy must fail. Could any character building be more to the point than this?

In the classroom also we have had practice at showing character through hearing and deferring to the expressed opinions of others. We have learned to weigh such opinions, to accept them when possible and to disagree politely yet forbly when disagreement is demanded by conscience or by true sense of values. All this is character training.

The student government has perhaps been our best training towards character building. Here we have had to preside over class meetings, participate in assemblies and many developments is the product of character.

"Ideals are like the stars, a quotation which hangs in Parker classroom. You will not reach them by sail, of course by them, you may your goal. Parker has to set our course by it lofty that our observance through life may lead is self-mastery may lead to expression of character.

AMERICAN LEGION LAUDS VETERANS

"Every Legionnaire in Texas should be proud to know that the Veterans of World War II are ranked across the nation as the greatest force a larger proportion of its population than any other group of Americans," stated Lindner, Post Service Officer of the local 'American Legion Post. "Every branch of the armed forces of heroes are returned to the Lone Star State it is going to be hard for some of these veterans to adjust themselves to their local community and find their place in society. The American Legion realizes that many men of the armed forces will return changed in body and mind."

"The first obligation of the American Legion is to render service to the disabled and their dependents, and the American Legion is making every state legislature now in session of a comprehensive program for the Veterans' State Service Office in order that we will be in position to fulfill our obligation. The American Legion is confident that this fine body of legislators we have representing each community in the State of Texas will assume their responsibility by granting the request of the American Legion for this additional appropriation," said Mr. Lindner.

"Thousands of disabled servicemen are now being discharged from the armed forces monthly, and a number of these veterans are discharged with battle scarred wounds, with empty arm sleeves and with amputated limbs. Besides this, many deadly cases are being reported daily from the different theaters of war. The injured are in need of help in a great. It is necessary to expand the rehabilitation work of the American Legion in aiding the disabled soldier who returns and in assisting his widow and Gold Star family in the secure government aid provided by our Constitution," Lindner stated.

TEXAS LEADS AGAIN

Texas is so far ahead of most other states in actual war participation that it is almost improper to talk about it.

The Lone Star State has by far the highest ration of volunteers in the armed forces in comparison with population.

In the war communiques and dispatches it is Texan is almost sure to be mentioned if 18 or more are involved. And Texas is one of every single bomber has at least one Texan on it.

Texas and Navy have more than 100 camps and establishments in Texas, including the Naval Air Training Center at San Antonio, and the world's largest naval air station at Corpus Christi. When these are counted in, Texas' participation in the war effort is truly immense. And besides the $3,642,268,000 (billion) worth of war contracts held by Texas industries

OIL TO GREASE THE SKIDS FOR THE AXIS

The part that Texas agriculture plays also is well-known. Our leadership in livestock production is outstanding. It is generally known that Texas produces 21.1 per cent of the nation's wool; 85.8 per cent of its mohair; 23.7 per cent of its cotton; 31.2 per cent of its pecans; and so on and on. Also our production of one-fourth of Uncle Sam's sulphur—a war-vital mineral—is adequately recognized.

But in petroleum, Texas literally is greasing the skids for the Axis. Much of the Allied armies, navies and air armadas move across the globe on Texas oil and gasoline. Texas has one-half of the nation's oil reserves, and one-fourth of the world reserves.

Given the proper incentives, the oil industry can still find and find most of the needed new petroleum reserves in West Texas. Some 4,000 new oil pools reports now before me. Last year the number of wildcat wells drilled more than doubled. The nation's oil reserves slumped 10 billion barrels. With the oil still in the ground, the drillers should be encouraged to start these new tests immediately.

TEXANS OVERCOME

The recent anniversary disclosure of the full story of the killing of Tokyo revealed that 15—nearly a fourth—of Uncle Sam's daring precision raiders, were Texans.

Captain David Jones of Winters, one of those fliers, later distinguished himself over Tunisia before being captured by the Germans.

Two of the eight U. S. fliers captured by the Japs shortly after the Tokyo raid escaped. The two Texans were interned in Russia.

Tojo's warlords boasted that some of those eight American airmen had been "tried and executed. That hollow implied threat already has been cast aside by the fliers who came to the free soil of Russia—to continue where Doolittle's boys left off.

The summary of what the bestial Japs did to those captured f

IN MEMORIAM
In Memoriam of our dear husband and daddy, A. G. Eckhart, who died May 5, 1941.
There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went.
There is someone who thinks of you always,
But few seem to be brave and content.
Your smiling face and loving ways,
Are a pleasure to recall,
You had a kindly word for each,
You died beloved by all.
Though you are gone, you are not forgotten
And we know you are at rest.
Yet we will forever miss you
But God we know has done the best.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
God alone knows how we miss you,
In a home that is lonesome today.

LETTER FROM THOMAS GRAY

The following letter was written to March by Thomas Gray Jr. to the Bandera Lions Club.

Camp Joe. T. Robinson, Ark. Sunday, March 21, 1943

Dear Friends:

Today being Sunday, I have a few (and I mean few) minutes to write to you. I have thought about the Lion's Club each Thursday night, but thinking is about all I had time for. And not much time for thinking.

Whoever said that the "Army travels on it's stomach" lied! The Army travels on it's feet, as my dogs will testify. When I get into bed at night I literally dig for it. I do not dream, roll or toss until they get us up at 5 the next morning. Our time is rationed, just like your sugar, food and coffee. Our Company runs on a schedule, and every minute of the day is alloted for something. There are no periods of the day that are spent at rest, until we come in from the field, and are dismissed after "Retreat" is sounded.

This Camp Robinson is situated, as you probably know, about 8 miles north of Little Rock, Ark. I have been here a little over two weeks, and I have not seen Little Rock yet. Only today was I able to get over here into the town of Camp. And I have only 45 more minutes to spend here, then I have to get back over into the Area and get ready to start to begin to attend to my daily duties.

It would take a dozen pages to tell you the few things I have learned of Army life. As my time is limited, I shall not even start to tell you about it. It is so great a change from Civilian life, however, that the shock of first almost gets you. I have been shot, bit, spit on, "Cussed" and "Dam" and stay off the thick Book. When a guy in the Army gets to where he thinks he can't go on for another day, he gets on the Slick Book, and spends a day at the Infirmary. That is about the only way to get a day off in this Company. And when he gets to the Infirmary, he is on a hard wood en bench until late afternoon, when the Medical Officer finally has time to examine him. Then the M. O. says: "You must be O. K. If there had been anything the matter with you, you would have passed out while sitting on that bench. Right?" Then the guy who comes back to the hut, and the rest of the Squad razz him about the Sick Call for a day or two. I only know one soldier who hit the sick book more than once, and he had to go to the hospital for a tonsil operation.

My company is in the new area of Camp Robinson. It is about 5 miles from the Main Camp, and that makes us about 13 or 14 miles from Little Rock. Our Area is still, as yet, unpaved, no sidewalks, and the buildings are all barracks. We have a total of 6 Squads, (16 men), and each Squad occupies a "flutment." And the abbreviation for Huntment is Hut, and that is what it is. It is a building built of upright 2x4 lumber, covered with tarpaper and boards and tar paper. Evidently the Army Engineers don't expect out the War to last very long, for these buildings at ours will have to be refitted about once each two years. If they stand over that length of time, they will have to be braced or propped up.

When it rains, the water runs down in front of our hut, about ankle deep. The Arkansas mud gets about knee deep. After a week of walking in the mud, the Supply Service issued each man a pair of overshoes. They are a great help. When it rains we all we do is put on our overshoes, and tie the tails of our overcoats up so they won't drag in the mud, and then we go on with our marching, shooting, bayonet fighting, or whatever the orders are. Of course, a fellow has to be lively, jumping the ditches, or he will get himself drowned, but most of us can jump like jack rabbits before long—since we have been wet a time or two.

There are a great many things we get in the Army that the civilians have to do without, of course. We get all the sugar we want, and coffee, and any kind of food we need, (the Mess Sergeant is from Texas, incidentally, and likes the same sort of grub I do,) and we are amply supplied with shoes and clothing. They don't work us too hard, for a fellow who has died of overwork as yet, and a man does not get too much of a good time, either. Besides that, eat better, and sleep better. As long as they work the hell out of us, or shoot us, we're getting fed, and we don't lay awake at nights, thinking about home. That is the way they keep up from getting homesick. Not that we don't think of home, for we do a lot of it.

As for my buddies, they are mainly the other 15 men in my Squad. One, a fellow from Kentucky, two others are from California, one from Maryland, and the other 12 of us are from Texas. And do we fratke those other guys sick with our tall tales of the Lone Star State. There are also about 20 of us fellows from Texas in our Company of over 200 men, but we are assigned to hold our own, and can come damn near to backing up any story or stories we ever told. Of course, I have about 10 of us Texas guys to handle the 280 other guys in the Company, but there is always one of the other 10 in reserve, in case anything of unforseen interest or importance arises.

Of the 16 men in my hut, 12 of us were Postal Service workers, or were at one time or another. One of them, was a professional card dealer (we steer clear of him, he's one from Kentucky.) Two were International Business Machine operators, and the other was a clerk in the Post Office administration branch of the Government. After our 8 weeks of basic training under the direction of Infantry officers, we will be sent to some permanent station, and only the Lord knows that, for we don't, and neither does the Company Commander. He tells us not to ask him, for he would not be able to tell us, since he did not know.

We arise at 5 in the American morning, get dressed, make up our bunks, and then fall out at 5:30 for Reveille. After Reveille, we have 15 minutes to wash, etc., etc; then we go to the mess hall for breakfast. After breakfast, we go back to our hut, sweep the floor, scrub the floor, mop the floor, and dust our bunk frames, our shelves and every other thing that has dust on it. The clothes that we have hanging up must have all the buttons buttoned for the inspection, which comes every day, rain or shine. Our shoes are shined and are placed under the edge of our bunks, and they have to be shined. They cannot be placed in our foot locker, or our barracks bag. They have to be there on the floor, and shined so much that you'll be able to see the shine for 40a feet.

Between 7 and 8 we police our hut area, our coal-bar area, and the Company street. Every scrap of paper, every stick of wood over the size of half a match stick, and everything else of that nature has to be picked up. And there are a couple of Corporals and a Sergeant there to see that it is done! At 10 minutes to 8, we get into our Class "C" uniform, consisting of shoes, leggings, fatigue pants and shirt, field jacket, rifle belt, bayonet, first-aid kit, helmet and liner, overcoat if it is cold, raincoat if it is raining, and grab our rifle, and get in line in the Company street. We get our orders for the day, "Fall In," and march out to the field. Then for the next 8 or 10 hours we go through our tricks. We come in at 12, of course, for our chow, and leave at 1:15 of 1:30 for the field. We get back at 5 or 5:30 or 6, then change into our "O. D's" and stand "Retreat," then police the Company area again, then get our supper, then go back to our huts, and from that time until 11, we are free. The lights go out at 9:45, and before that time we get our clothing and lights-out, we have to shine our shoes (both pair); patch and darn and wash and press our clothing, clean our rifles, and a few other odds and ends. If we want to write a letter after lights-out, we have to walk a couple of hundred yards to the Latrine, which is the only place that has lights on all night. We have to be in bed, however, for the bed check at 11:45.

In spite of all the close living we have to do, and the bad weather, and rain we have to undergo, and orders that we have to take (and like) and all the tiring drill, and the calisthenics, we have to undergo, the screaming, shrill and scolding voices of the Corporals and Sergeants, I like the Army. I like it! I don't mind their yelling and hollering at me, as we know the conclusion that it is for my own good. And I can console myself with the thought that those same Non-Coms had to take the same scolding and cussing that they are handing out to me. It is for the sake that I can be one of them one of these days, and can give some orders, instead of taking orders.

Well, it is time for me to get back over into my section, so I will close. Thanks a lot for the fine things you have done for me. One of the main things of a soldier's life is his mail. And I do get a lot of it. So please come on, won't you? My address is given below.

Sincerely yours,
Thomas Gray, Jr.
Monday Night
Got called on detail last night, so I couldn't get this mailed for owned a pen from one of my buddies—mine was stolen last week—so I could address this. Remember to write.
Again,
Thomas Gray, Jr.

To Hasten Victory
No American wants last way to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our men in service. They give their lives —you lend your money.

REGISTERED PIGS TO BE AWARDED

Sears Roebuck will again give nine registered gilt pigs and one registered Boar pig to 4-H Club Boys of Bandera County.

The nine gilt pigs will be pigs raised by 4-H Club boys of the County that received pigs from Sears Roebuck last year. The Boar will be shipped in from outside the county.

These pigs are about as well bred as any that can be bought in the state and are worth several times the effort it will take to get one of them.

The pigs will be awarded on a competitive basis, and every boy in the county is privileged to enter pigs in all so as to be effective March 29th.

Lorenzo Ramos, rape, bond set by agreement at $500. Continued by agreement.

...Death Claimed ...Mrs. Kate Wasser

The sad news of the death of Mrs. Kate Wasser, mother of Mrs. Bisbee, Artz, reached Bandera Monday morning and brought sorrow to a host of relatives and friends. She had been ill about six months and everything possible was done to save her life to no avail. Funeral services were held at the Catholic Church in Bisbee.

The deceased, nee Kate Morawietz, was born April 17, 1879 at Bandera and at the time of her death was 64 years and 23 days old. She was married to Joseph Wasser of Yorktown on Nov. 21, 1905. Surviving are her husband, her aged mother, Grandma Moravietz of Bandera, six brothers, A. T. Morawietz of Palo Corp., Leo Moravietz of Gillett, Paul, Tom and Joe Moravietz of Bandera and John Morawietz of San Antonio, two sisters, Mrs. Frances Fisher of Bandera and Mrs. Sophie Kolodnick of San Antonio. One half-sister, Mrs. Mary Anderwald of Bandera, passed away several years ago.

She was a good and loving wife, sister, and mother and was kind to all who knew her. She will be greatly missed by all.

The New Era extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

BERRIES— GET THEM AND SAVE THEM

...rlyn Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

The fruit crop in Texas is going to be pretty short this year. That's one more reason for getting and saving what the berries can get.

Canning berries and berry juice offers an economical way to save the berries. That will save the sugar.

Using some sugar for canning berries is desirable for that helps hold both the color and flavor. When berries are canned with enough sugar to sweeten them, they'll provide their own juice and save holds true for strawberries.

Canning berry juice also offers a possibility for using small lots of berries you don't eat fresh. The canned juice makes good summer drinks and jellies and it holds its vitamin C "very well."

About a cup of sugar to a gallon of juice is the usual proportion. If you can, find green bottles for putting up berry juice. Juice will use them because they cut off part of the light and help the juice retain its beautiful red color.

The degrees will be awarded by President Flowers.

TARPLEY 4-H CLUB GIRLS

The Tarpley 4-H Club girls met May 7th. Miss Hajek gave several booklets on how to take care of our clothes. Then she helped us make an apron. She had three different patterns for us to choose from. Miss Hajek also showed us some hotnets. Betty Jean Dean made a motion to adjourn and Dolores seconded the motion.

...Landing Boat ...Died Suddenly

It is with sorrow that we chronicle the sudden death of Richard Schladoer, aged 70 years. He had apparently been in good health but suffered a heart attack yesterday morning shortly after he had risen, fed the chickens and milked the cows.

Funeral services will be held at the Bandera Cemetery today (Thursday) at 4 p. m.

A more extended obituary will be printed next week.

H. D. COUNCIL MET APRIL 24

The Home Demonstration Council met in regular session April 24, 1943, in the court room in the court house.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Claude Miller, but due to the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. H. L. Bruce, the minutes were not read. The Club Pledge was given and the following ladies were present: Mesdames Claude Miller, A. Kutzer, E. Hicks, J. C. Welch, E. Allen, A. Hayes and Miss Hajek.

The district meeting was discussed and plans were made. Mesdames Claude Miller, E. Hicks and Arthur Hayes are the delegates who will go with Miss Hajek to Floresville May 12th.

The entertainment numbers have put up a bulletin board for the benefit of the people and it is absolutely free. At present it is at the Victory Drive In. If you have something to sell or trade please use the bulletin board. Or if you want to buy something, perhaps you can find it there.

Don't forget the next meeting will be May 22nd at 2:30 o'clock in the court house.

AXIS FORCES SURRENDERING IN NORTH AFRICA

Axis forces remaining in North Africa are rapidly surrendering and it is reported that 16 German generals had been captured. The Axis commander, General Arnim surrendered and it was reported about 150,000 prisoners have been taken. After the fall of Tunis and Bizerte on Sunday the Allies have continued mopping up operations. Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England is in Washington and he and President Roosevelt are presumably discussing further operations. Home Russians are making small gains all over the front. In the Pacific, raids on Jap bases continue.

REWARD OFFERED FOR STOLEN CATTLE

Sheriff D. J. Roberts of Wilson County has informed Sheriff W. H. Burns of Bandera that a $75 reward will be given for any information that will lead to the arrest of the thieves of 11 Jersey heifers, 2 years old. They have calves by this time. They can be branded with a connected TU on the right hip and were described as branded on left hind. They are tattooed in the left ear (one letter and two numerals) and have a slit in the right ear (Bangs Test). The cattle are gone since March 17th.

COME TO BANDERA FOR REST AND RECREATION

This is the season which every dude ranch proprietor cleans and takes up his plans for a little bit better than in previous months. The reason for this, of course, is to prepare for the tourist season which opens this month. From all indications, despite the tire and fuel shortage, it is going to be a big season, what with the Hondo Navigation School nearby and so many people being employed in San Antonio. If you are looking forward to rest and comfort and relaxation this summer you will find them right here around Bandera. There are ranches and homes to suit every taste. If you enjoy sitting on a shady river bank with a fishing pole and line in your hand, you'll find that here. If you enjoy riding, hiking, boating, swimming, you'll find all these here in Bandera. If you are a person who enjoys nature you'll find quite at home among these beautiful blue hills and the rippling rushing Medina River. No matter what your taste, you will find rest, comfort and relaxation among the blue hills and delightful valleys. Wouldn't you like to get away from the city's screaming sirens and blaring horns and "carbon-monoxideish" air, and get out and enjoy life where the atmosphere is serene? Then come to Bandera.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Buck are the proud parents of a daughter, born last Thursday.

"I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY

President Roosevelt has proclaimed Sunday, May 16, to be observed as an "I am an American" day. It is an occasion when the attention of all citizens should be called to the joy, satisfaction, and economic benefits they get from citizenship in the United States of America.

Too many people take their citizenship lightly, as something of no great significance, and which calls for no special devotion. That citizenship was bought with a heavy price, paid by all patriots who have fought for their country, and by citizens who toiled and labored to create opportunities and benefits. Countless blessings come to us without effort on our part.

Young people becoming of age should register that they are the heirs of a great possession, and that happiness is given to our people far greater than that enjoyed in any foreign land. Those who have become citizens after naturalization should make it again they made when they left lands where liberty is threatened or denied, where was constantly start, where the people are too wedded to outworn ideas to share the benefits of modern progress.

The inheritance of these and many more blessings calls upon our people to make great sacrifices for the country that gives them these advantages. It also calls upon to submit to wartime limitations with a cheerful heart. It asks them, if difficult, to cooperate and to give it with enthusiasm. It calls on them through all their lives to qualify as voters and good citizenship, to cooperate with good community movements, to vote at elections and to keep informed on the actions of government so that they will vote intelligently.

Our people should be very proud to be Americans. They should feel deep and eternal gratitude in adherence to a government that gives freedom and opportunity to its people.

COST OF QUICK VICTORY

The American people are eager for a quick victory in the war and for bringing the boys home soon. Quick victory will be more costly in lives, for both of the United States and Britain is based on plans that will save lives.

If a big invasion of the continent of Europe should be started within the next few months, it may be that our forces could get a secure hold at a number of points. But to go up now against these heavily fortified coasts, will cost very heavy casualty lists.

American and British strategy is based on the idea of making such complete preparation and providing such complete facilities that when the invasion is made, it will be irresistible. It may take months to organize for an attack. Our country has to take its choice, whether it is best to try for a quick victory, by at once giving up the lives of many thousands more of our soldiers. Probably the plan for long and careful preparation is better.

RAILROAD TRAVEL PROBLEM

It is figured that railroad passenger travel this year will be 25 per cent above last year's figure, and the 1942 amount beat all previous records.

People who expect to go somewhere for vacation or any purpose should plan their travel carefully. They are urged to avoid overnight trips so far as they can. The service runs need an enormous amount of the sleeping car accomodations, so civilians do well to travel by day coach when they can. When they pick out vacation spots near home, they help solve the problem of transporting soldiers. The best time to travel is in the middle of the week. Better keep off the trains during week-ends if you can.

KEEPING UP THE HOME PLACE

Keeping up the home place in its usual nice condition is not always so easy in wartime. In many cases the husbands and sons who used to do these things have gone into the armed services. Some may have gone elsewhere to work in defense plants. Many men and boys who used to do odd jobs around the town have also gone.

The women left at home will hate to see their home places run down. Many will find that when ever before will be running the lawn mowers, hoeing the garden, putting weeds and watering grass and plants. These cares make added work. When a woman is constantly thinking about her absent men, she is happier to have her time well occupied. There will be pride in writing the absent ones that the home place looks fine, and is still a credit to the family.

INFORMATION ON CANNING BERRIES

Canning Berries

Fruit may be canned with a very little sugar. Some sugar is desirable for flavor, and it helps hold both the color and flavor. While berries, including strawberries, for canning are heated with just enough sugar to sweeten, they will provide their own juice. Add the sugar to the berries, let stand for a short time until some juice is drawn out, then bring them carefully just to a boil, and fill jars with hot fruit, allowing sufficient juice to cover. Then the jars may be processed in a water bath for 10 minutes.

When packing fruit raw, crush if some softer berries, strain, and mix with the rationed amount of sugar (½ cup of sugar per quart of canned fruit). Heat to boiling and pour over whole raw fruit that has been packed in jar or can. Steam 5 minutes. Press down, refill if necessary and seal. Process 15 minutes in water bath.

Berry Juice

Berry juice, put up with a little sugar, is another possibility for saving the surplus. About a cup of sugar to a gallon of juice is the usual proportion. Heat the juice, pressing pulp in hot jars, seal and process in water bath. Strawberries and raspberries are best for putting up strawberry juice, as they cut off the light and flavor well. Cook pulp for juice. Home canned juice makes good drinks and ices, and holds its vitamin C very well.

Strawberry Jam

Allow 1 cup sugar to each quart of berries. Mash some or all of the berries to start the juice, and add remaining fruit. Cook gently until quite thick, then add the remaining sugar and cook for 10 to 15 minutes more. Pour into containers while hot and seal at once.

Blackberry Jam

Heat berries and press through sieve. For each pint of pulp use ¾ cup sugar, one tbsp. lemon juice and ¼ cup corn syrup. Boil until stiff. Pack hot into hot jars. Seal at once.

Strawberry Preserves

Usually one pound of sugar is used for each pound of fruit, but if ¾ pound sugar is used, the preserves will make a nice product but the syrup will be a bit thin. When less than the usual amount of sugar is used, or if corn syrup is substituted for part, it is necessary to seal the containers airtight to prevent molding or souring.

A Standard Strawberry Preserves Recipe

1. Boil 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water together until it begins to form a thread.
2. Add 1 pint of strawberries and cook 10 minutes.
3. Add another pint of straw-

"I AM AN AMERICAN" DAY

President Roosevelt has proclaimed Sunday, May 16, to be observed as "I am an American" day. It is an occasion when the attention of all citizens should be called to the joy, satisfaction, and economic benefits they get from citizenship in this land of glory.

Too many people take their citizenship lightly, as something of no great importance, and which calls for no special devotion. That citizenship was bought with a heavy price, paid by all patriots who have fought for their country, and by citizens who toiled and labored to create opportunities and benefits. Countless blessings come to us without effort on our part.

Young people becoming of age should realize that they are the heirs of a great possession, and that happiness is given to our people far greater than that enjoyed in any foreign land. Those who have become citizens after naturalization should realize what a gain they have made, that their lands where liberty is threatened or denied, where wars constantly start, where people are bowed and wedded to outworn ideas to share the benefits of modern progress.

The inheritance of time and many more blessings calls on our people to make great sacrifices for the country that gives them these advantages. It asks them to submit to wartime limitations with a cheerful heart. It asks them, if called to military service, to give it with enthusiasm. It calls on them through all their lives to attend to the duties of citizenship, to back every good community movement, to vote at elections and primaries, to study the affairs of government so that they will vote intelligently.

Our people should be very proud to be Americans. They should feel deep and eternal satisfaction in adherence to a government that gives freedom and opportunity to its people.

COST OF QUICK VICTORY

The American people are eager for a quick victory in the war, and for bringing the boys home soon. Quick victory will be more costly in lives. The policy of the United States and of Britain has been on plans that will save lives.

If a big invasion of the continent of Europe should be started within the next few weeks, it may be that our forces could get a foothold at a number of points. But to go up now against those heavily fortified coasts, with our very heavy casualty lists.

American and British strategy is based on the idea of making such complete preparation and providing such complete facilities that when the invasion is made, it will be irresistible. It may take months to organize such an attack. Our country has to take its choice, whether it is best to try for a quick victory, if it means giving up the lives of many thousands more of the soldiers. Probably the plan for long and careful preparation is the better.

RAILROAD TRAVEL PROBLEM

It is figured that railroad passenger travel this year will be 25 per cent above last year's figure, and the 1942 amount had all previous records.

People who expect to go somewhere for vacation or any purpose should plan their trips carefully. They are urged to avoid overnight trips so far as they can. The service men need an enormous amount of the sleeping car accommodations, so civilians do well to travel by day coach when they can. When they pick out vacation spots near home, they help solve the problem of transporting soldiers. The best time to travel is in the middle of the week. Better keep off the trains during week-ends if you can.

KEEPING UP THE HOME PLACE

Keeping up the home place is its usual nice condition is not always so easy in winter, in many cases the husbands and sons who used to do these things have gone into the armed services. Some may have rend elsewhere to work in defense plants. Many men and boys who used to do odd jobs around the towns have also gone.

The women left at home will have to see their home places run down. Many more of them than ever before will be running the lawn mowers, hoeing the garden, pulling weeds, and watering grass and plants. These cares make added work. When a woman is constantly thinking about her absent mate, she is happier to have her time well occupied. There will be pride in writing the absent one that the home place looks fine, and it still a credit to the family.

INFORMATION ON CANNING—BERRIES

Canning Berries

Fruit may be canned with a very little Walker Se some sugar is desirable for flavor. Tend H bright hues both the color and flavor. When berries, including strawberries, for canning are heated with enough sugar to sweeten, they will provide their own juice." Add sugar to the berries, let stand a short time until some juice is drawn out, then bring them carefully just to a boil, and pack in jars boiling hot, allowing sufficient juice to cover. Then the jars may be processed in a water bath for 15 minutes.

When packing fruit raw, crush part of canner fruit). Heat to boiling and pour over whole raw fruit that has been packed in jar or can.. Steam 5 minutes. Press down, refill if necessary and seal. Process 15 minutes in water bath.

Berry Juice

Berry juice, put up with a little sugar, is another possibility for saving the surplus." About a cup of sugar to a gallon of juice is the usual proportion. Heat the juice almost to boiling, pour in hot jars, seal and process in water bath 15 minutes. Green bottles are best for putting up strawberry juice, as these shut off the light and help hold the red color of the juice. Home canned juice makes good drinks and ices, and holds its vitamin C very well.

Jam

Allow 3/4 cup sugar to each quart of berries. Wash and hull the berries. Mash some or all of the berries to start the juice, and add some of the sugar. Cook quickly until quite thick, then add the remaining sugar and cook for 10 to 15 minutes longer. Pack in containers while hot and seal at once.

Blackberry Jam

Heat berries and press through sieve. For each pint of pulp use 1 cup sugar (or ½ cup sugar and ½ cup corn syrup). Boil until thick, stirring to keep from burning. Pour hot into hot jars. Seal at once.

Strawberry Preserves

Usually a quantity of sugar is used for each pound of fruit. If ½ pound sugar is used, the preserves will be a nice product but the syrup will not be as thick. When less than the usual amount of sugar is used, or if corn syrup is substituted for sugar, it is necessary to seal the containers as tightly to prevent molding of syrup.

A Standard Strawberry Preserves Recipe

1. Boil 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water together until it begins to form a thread.
2. Add 1 pint of strawberries and boil 20 minutes.
3. Add another pint of strawberries and 1 cup of sugar sprinkled over the top.
4. One tablespoon lemon juice added at this time helps retain color.
5. Boil continuously about 10 minutes, or until it reaches a jelly test.
6. Remove them from the fire and shake the kettle gently until the foam collects in the center and can be easily removed.
7. Then pour into a flat container and let cool before putting into hot sterilized glasses.
8. Cover with wax and seal at once.

Variations to Standard Recipe

1. Use 1 cup sugar and ½ cup water in step one.
2. Use 1 cup corn syrup and no water in step one.
3. Use ½ cup corn syrup and ½ cup sugar and no water in step one. Add ½ cup syrup in step one. Add ½ cup corn syrup and ½ cup sugar in step 3.
4. Use 1 cup honey, ½ cup sugar and no water in step one. Then use ½ cup sugar in step 3. Honey masks the flavor of strawberries so much that it is not as desirable.)

ARE YOU DOING YOUR SHARE?

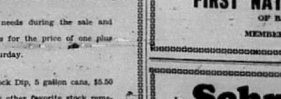
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

At Midway, in the Coral Sea and on General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, Navy paymasters are searching out enemy bases, ships and transports and collecting their mission. The Navy Patrol Bomber costs about $90,000.

Our factories are turning out hundreds of fighting ships. Each one is only through your investment in War Bonds and Stamps you can help build them. Also precious bombers for our rapidly increasing air force. Invest at least 10 percent of income every month in these Government securities and do your bit to win and shorten the war. Our airmen are doing their part.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The mess kit is one of the most important items in the soldier's equipment. It consists generally of a plate, cup, knife and fork, knife and spoon, all in a canvas cover. The total cost runs to about $2.00.



Canteens and other items such as those on knives and forks, formerly made of aluminum, are now plastic. Alloy has replaced stainless steel. You can buy many of these items for our boys with your purchases of War Bonds and Stamps. Invest at least 10 percent of your income in War Bonds or Stamps every pay day and top the quota in the county.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

Fair Warning

The time for talk should be ended, and action, definite and conclusive, should be next on the program. Our boys are fighting and dying in the jungles of Guadalcanal and Buna, and the same agency's, taxation last week showed 84 per cent of the members of labor union members favoring a law banning war industry strikes. When organized labor itself gets fed up, even its star performer may well be with his ego.

The Connally anti-strike bill, which had lain dormant in the Senate for nearly two years, was passed last week by a vote of 65-16. And certain lobbyists had had the hardihood to predict what stringent bills the House passed; labor chiefs could get them pigeon-holed in the Senate, labor committee.

John L. Lewis himself unwittingly helped pass the Connally bill out of the Senate. He slapped himself in the face.

Legitimate and responsible labor, more interested in the welfare of the nation and the average working man than in any particular labor leader, has been having little use for Lewis' antics lately. But it is beginning to wake up now.

Another West Texan in Nimitz' Footsteps

West Texas has another representative now in the ranks of the U. S. Navy here in Washington. He is Lt. Comdr. Charles P. Kirkpatrick of Sweetwater, who just named flag lieutenant, or aide, to Admiral Nimitz, U. S. commander-in-chief of the fleet. "At 35 he's one of the outstanding killers of the Navy," Washington dispatches and three Navy Crosses and the Army's Distinguished Service Cross" says the Information News. A sub commander, he sank 11 war and merchant ships, some of them in Japan's own front yard. Commander Kirkpatrick tells no tales. Texans are modest in the Pacific fleet. One reason is that they have faith in the top man of the navy's fighting line—Admiral Chester C. Nimitz of Fredericksburg, Texas, who took over after Pearl Harbor.

Imported Labor

Lt. Col. Jay L. Taylor, deputy war food administrator in charge of the farm labor program here now. Just back from a tour over the country to inspect the program—which still has some red tape—this Texan advises that a farmer or rancher who wants to obtain Mexican laborers should first of all contact his county agent or his closest office of the United States Employment Service.

Texans Fortunate

Washington service stations today were about out of gasoline again. Washington would pay a billion dollars for one of those West Texas oil fields.

Experienced Farm Girls
Farm girls who have had experience in dairy-cattle projects can help the war effort by preparing themselves for leaders in dairy herd improvement associations. A training course for leaders will be given at Ohio State university October 12-31. Full information can be obtained from Ivan McKetta, animal husbandry department.

Harvesting Indefinitely
More than 90 million acres of commercial forest land is being managed on a sustained-yield or progressive basis so that its huge timber crop can be harvested and replenished indefinitely.

TO ALL DRAFT DODGERS

(Found in safety deposit box in Germany)

I am writing this short letter
And every word is true.
Don't look away, Draft Dodgers,
For it's addressed to you.
You feel at ease and in no danger,
Back in your old home town,
You've cooked up some pitiful story
So the draft board turned you down.
You never think of the real men,
Who leave there day by day,
You just think of his girl friend
That you get while he's away.
You sit at home and hold your paper,
You'll jump and say "We'll win."
Just where do you get that "We" stuff?
This war will be won by men.
Just what do you think Draft Dodgers,
What this free nation would do,
If all the men were slackers
And afraid to fight like you?
Well, I guess that all Draft Dodgers,
Will remember what I say,
Stay away from my girl friend
For 'Ill be home some day."
(Pvt. Joe Mashugh, Co. D, 4th Marine Raider Bn., Camp J. H. Pendleton Ocean Side, Calif.)

HOME STORE RESPONSIBILITIES

There are advantages in buying goods in your home town, because the home store people feel under special obligation to serve you well. When you consider buying something in such a store, that sale is not the only thing the store people have to think of. They know that if they sell you something you do not like, or charge too high for it, you will be dissatisfied, and may not come in their place again soon. Whereas if you shop in some distant city and buy of strangers, they do not usually expect to see you again, and may not feel that special responsibility.

When you buy at home, you buy of people who are not merely depending on making that sale, but are interested in you shall be so well pleased that you will keep coming there.

BEAUTY AND PATRIOTISM

Some people lack at beauty as a superfluity, which we can do along without. When people love their home town or state or country, the beauty of these places is an element in that affection. They love to think of the green fields and blue hills and shining rivers, and they cannot bear to think of any disaster happening to a land which so charms them.

So the beauty of a town is an element that makes people love it. If you lived in a mean looking place where few people took care of their homes, you would probably feel little love for it. But when you live in a pleasing neighborhood where people maintain grass and flowers and trees and shrubbery, there grows a strong attachment to that beauty. So when we make our home towns beautiful, we help people love them better. All of which adds to the sentiment called patriotism.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICES HELD SUNDAY

The Medina Class of Medina High School entertained the graduating Senior Class Friday, May 14th with a barbecue. The barbecue was given at the Graham platform. The tables were placed in a V shape with colored lights outlining them. Class colors of blue and gold were carried out in the program and favors. There were miniature dolls dressed in the traditional caps and gowns. The program was as follows:

Welcome—Tommy Walker.
Response—Doyle Gossler.
Toast to the Seniors—Victor Kelley.
Toast to the Juniors—Hortense Keese.
Superintendent's Remarks—M. J. Hatfield.
Toast to the School—Anita Reed.
Toast to the Honor Students—Irene Walters.
Musical Selections—Doyle Gossler, Elbert Wheeler, Alice Jane Crossman.
Toast to the Senior President—Bobby Freeman.
In Appreciation—Mrs. A. F. Slinsky.
Toast to the Teachers—Bob Jackson.

The following menu was served to about fifty guests: tomato juice cocktail, barbecue, Spanish beans, combination salad, olives, pickles, radishes, celery, bread, coca cola, ice cream and cookies.

We wish to thank Walter Kneese for barbecuing the meat for us. It was delicious and we enjoyed it very much.

MEDINA HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR-SENIOR BARBECUE

The Baccalaureate services were held at the Elementary school auditorium last Sunday night. The crowd was a little smaller than usual due to the weather. Rev. R. H. Seiler, pastor of the Methodist Church, brought an inspiring message on "Are Ye Able?" Miss Mary Louise Denman sang a solo and the invocation was given by W. B. Derman.

PROMOTED TO CORPORAL

Miss Daisy Belle Carpenter of Medina, who enlisted in the W. A. A. C. about three months ago has been promoted to Corporal. She is now stationed in the publications office at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. We join the many friends in extending congratulations.

NOTICE TO PRESSURE COOKER OWNERS

Next week, starting Monday, the Home Demonstration Agent will test pressure cookers in various communities. If you want your cooker tested please bring it to the designated place in the community up you live on that day when the agent is there.

Since the ladies are very busy, I will be glad to go to them at the time so that they could bring their cooker, test it and show them how to operate their work. Two could come about 8:30, then two about 9:30, and so on. It would be useless for all to come in the morning and stay all day. We will not have a regular meeting.

Schedule for the week:

Monday—Bandera Catholic school, 8:30 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m.

Tuesday—East Verde, Mrs. John Eckhart's (running north) 8 to 12.

Wednesday — Winans Creek, Mrs. F. J. Master's, 8:30 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m.

Thursday—Middle Verde, Mrs. Chas. Moore, (morning only) 8:30 to 12.

Friday—Tarpley, School house, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Do not wait until late afternoon hours to come if possible.

Bandera Highway to Get New Seal Coat

The Highway Department announced low bidders Tuesday on projects to maintain the highway system. One of the bids covered the 20.3 miles from the Boxar County line to Bandera on Highway No. 16. J. D. Scarborough of San Antonio was awarded the contract for placing a seal coat on this stretch of highway. The bid was $18,175.

PARADISE PARK IS ENJOYED

Miss Eratha Garrison entertained with a barbecue at noon and a bride's shower in the afternoon on Saturday, May 15th, at her beautiful Paradise Park Ranch.

The naturally terraced, bermuda grass covered river bank assumed the appearance of a lawn by the addition of out-door furniture and flowers. The massive white oak, sycamore, pecan and walnut trees gave shade, further adding to the enjoyment and comfort of the guests. A spring of water, half way up the river bank was a refreshing drink.

Upon arriving the guests registered in the shower book, the [illegible] were especially appreciative of the great variety of flowers as well as their immense size and of the beautiful fern covered river bank.

After the barbecue, a dramatic [illegible] occurred when Miss Garrison, assisted by Miss Martha Beth Ashby, dressed in the pink Hereford cattle in a colorful parade of red and white from the field to the house. Following the loose, the cattle drifted down the river. It was interesting for those present for most of them had an inborn love of cattle. All of the guests have been closely associated with cattle; for their father and grandfather, the late Jim Garrison, was known as "the most prominent" cattlemen, and who bequeathed to them that love of cattle.

One cow, "Beautiful Lady" and her steer yearling "Pretty Boy" were especially admired. She was also her baby calf. The good looking pair of Herefords were purchased by Miss Garrison through special request from her relatives. The youth, vigor and good condition of all the cattle was also noted.

The wedding shower was for Miss Ina Ellis Harwood, bride-elect of San Antonio, Mrs. Harwood having been Miss Anna Mae Flowers. The color scheme was pink and blue. The young bride was radiantly lovely in a white silk jersey dress. The bride's table was the long center of which was the wedding cake, with decorations in white. At the base of the cake was a border of gardenias and white sweet peas. On top of the cake was a wedding celebration of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Garrison on Jan. 17, 1939.

Walter Flowers, young brother of the bride, ably assisted in opening the packages containing the many beautiful gifts, after which wedding cake and punch were served.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in conversation and games, the favorite of which was "42," while the children played "Going to Jerusalem" and many other games.

Those present were: Mrs. Harwood having been Miss Anna Mae Flowers, Mrs. Ina Ellis Harwood, Mrs. Ruth Kennedy, Mrs. Ruth Long, Carl Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Caton and Janet and the host and hostess.

Again assembled in the living room they enjoyed music and singing and a late hour.

THE BLACK MARKETS

Some people have the impression that black markets exist only in an atmosphere of alley hideouts, mobsters, and tommy guns.

Black markets exist wherever a housewife pays a PENNY more than the ceiling price—or a butcher sells without collecting stamps.

Remember that you must pay both and we suppose it is. But multiplied by a MILLION, it can wreck fifth column movement in America.

Here are some of the points you should remember:

1. Never buy without enough point collecting ration stamps.

2. Never buy rationed food without surrendering ration tokens.

3. Never pay more than ceiling price for any food.

4. Never charge more than the ceiling price for any food.

5. Always observe grading requirements.

6. Always register as a seller, to obtain proper permits.

7. Send collected stamps, with the report form to the local War Price and Rationing Board.

A dangerous black market is butter is spreading in some parts of the nation. Consumers are learned that some farm folks didn't realize they MUST collect ration stamps for farm butter. Let's get at that source immediately. NO ONE will benefit by a black market in butter.

All the musicians played "well and all those who attended enjoyed the evening. The church was decorated with pot plants and cut flowers.

MEDINA SENIOR CLASS ENTERTAINED

Last Wednesday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Justice was the scene of a lovely Senior Class party honoring H. L. "Pat" Patterson. The living room was tastefully decorated with larkspur, the class flower. In the dining room the table was centered with a beautiful cen[illegible] of red and white [illegible] and white [illegible] size and of the beautiful fern covered river bank.

After the barbecue, a dramatic [illegible] occurred when Miss Gibson, assisted by Miss Martha Beth Ashby, dressed in the pink

After several interesting games the guests assembled in the dining room where a delicious salad plate was served by Mrs. J. B. Justice and Mrs. Lewis Caton. The course consisted of chicken salad on lettuce, Muffed olives, fritos, dill pickles, mints, orange fruit jello with whipped cream, cake and iced tea.

Those present were: Misses Ilis and Hoyesse Fee, Helen Moore, Irene Walters, Hortense Keese, Ruth Ann Kilcrease, Basita, Mrs. Lola Chipman, Mrs. A. F. Slinsky (class sponsor), Misses H. L. Potter Jr., Bill Moore, Doyle Gossler, Robert Freeman, Robert Buchanan, Edward Mayfield, Kenneth Long, Carl Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Caton and Janet and the host and hostess.

Again assembled in the living room they enjoyed music and singing and a late hour.

Nazi 'Flak' Trains

Trying to halt the extensive knocking out of locomotives and rolling stock, the Nazis have fitted out certain trains as "flak trains." Entire flak is termed anti-aircraft artillery. At top Nazis man light anti-air guns. Below: Gunners run to their heavy anti-air cannon.

LT. FRANK ANDERWALD SENDS GREETINGS

We were happy to receive the following V Mail letter from Lt. Frank Anderwald, who is somewhere in the Pacific. It was dated April 13th.

Out, where men are men and women are more than hell.

Dear Paper:

Have been putting this letter off long enough I think. Hope everyone is fine there. I am in the best of health, and so are most of the other Raiders, and all waring to smack the Japs. We have been training hard and will be ready when we get the chance. Now you have to hold to one another to keep from getting lost at night you can bet it is pretty dark in the jungles.

I owe lots of people letters and this is the best way I know of answering them. Don't know if I have time to write as many letters as I would like.

Please send paper to my new address as it is just like a letter from home.

Until the Japs are licked,

Sincerely yours,

Frank D. Anderwald

2nd Lt. U. S. M. C. R.

The New Era extends sympathy to the bereaved.

ROBERTS - ECKHART

A beautiful and sacred wedding ceremony was solemnized Saturday, May 15, 1943 at 8 p. m. when Miss Dorothy Ann Eckhart and Glendon Roberts were united in the bonds of holy matrimony in the Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, 2926 South Press St. San Antonio, with Rev. Sidney Dunn officiating.

Dorothy Ann is the charming and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckhart of Bandera by from a child to womanhood in this community. She graduated from Bandera High School with the class of 1934 and has been a Civil Service secretary with the Chemical Warfare Procurement of the War Department at Dallas. Mr. Roberts is a young practicing attorney, has a B. A. Law degree from the University of Texas and is associated in the practice of law firm of Birkhead, Beckmann, Stubblefield and Vance with offices in the Smith-Young Tower in San Antonio.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given the newlyweds and about 100 relatives and friends by Mr. and Mrs. Roland Gaines at 118 Arlington Court. After the reception they left on a short rest at the Gunter and Camp Arrow Head near Hunt and after that they will be at home to their many friends in San Antonio.

The New Era extends congratulations and best wishes.

CONSOLIDATION ELECTION MAY 29th

The County School Board on Feb. 5th passed an order which will prove of great benefit to the school districts, especially owners within the district now comprising the Bandera Common School District No. 1, Lone Star Common School District No. 19, Dallas Creek School District No. 16 and East Verde Common School District No. 18 and these districts were grouped to form a rural high school district. Also added are parts of the Winans Creek and Myrtle Creek districts while the remainder of these districts will go to the Medina school district.

Seven trustees were appointed to serve until their successors are elected and qualify. They are: Ray Wyatt, Pat Neely, C. Pfeenor, F. (Ted) Hillman and F. J. Andewald.

An election will be held on May 29th at the Bandera High Consolidated School District No. 1 at the Bandera Schoolhouse, to determine whether or not a majority of the legally qualified resident property taxpaying voters desire to tax themselves for the purpose of supplementing the State School Fund apportioned to said district and to determine whether or not a county unit system shall be authorized to levy, assess and collect a tax at the rate of 100 cents on one hundred dollars valuation. Herman Harper was appointed presiding judge.

SUDDEN VICTORY

The world has been amazed by the speed with which the power of German defense system in Tunisia crumbled. The military authorities have kept telling the country to be prepared for a prolonged campaign, with stiff Axis resistance in their strong positions, protected by rugged hills, steep cliffs, and well prepared defenses. The Germans had protected the great naval base of Bizerte were called extremely strong.

Then all at once that mighty line of forts and crags and towering heights, defended by a force which at first was said to equal the Allied forces this time have worked out still better plans, and the thing crumbled like dried wheels.

In the first World war the Allies were stalled for months by a lack of unified campaign. The various wings of the Allies had their own time they produced a military force that delivered its blows like the various levers of a machine, all pulling together.

The Axis forces show the effect of weakened air power. Their factories are not producing nearly so many planes, and probably their production has been cut to bits by constant oil-air low. The Allies have had control of the air over Tunisia for months.

The Nazis have been buoyed up by the conviction, hammered into them by incessant propaganda, that they are invincible. They are learning that they have been fooled by a fantastic dream, and the more they wake up out of that dream, the less fight they will fight. The sudden collapse in Tunisia should stimulate every American to do his utmost for quick victory, so that the collapse of our enemy shall come soon and save the lives of many of our boys.

WRITING TO THE SOLDIERS

The men of the armed services live a life of strain. In many circumstances they have, to stand great discomforts and sometimes suffering. Arrangements are made to give them operations so far as possible while in training, and they need these good times for their best morale. When they leave for active service, there can be little entertainment. They have to settle down to the hard and grim facts of war. It is a hard life. If we can do anything to make them feel happy for a little, we should gladly do it.

The letter from home is a bright spot. It carries a message of love or friendship. The mere written words suggest the tone, of affection. The absent ones seem nearer as those words are read. Thoughts of happier times in the past and to come in future enter the mind. The day is brighter for that communication with peaceful home scenes.

The men turn up eagerly when the mail man hands out his letters, all hoping something will come for them. A smile lights up tired faces when a letter is handed out. Disappointed ones turn away with a chilled feeling.

Many absentees are more or less anxious about home conditions, how things are going, they are having difficulties. It is a relief to read cheerful words of how they are carrying on at home and conquering obstacles. Perhaps some men fear the home hearts are growing cold, and they get a thrill when they see words ardent with affection.

Let us not be slow or tardy in writing these letters. Even a very brief one will make a bright spot in the day. If we can stretch our activities so as to write to friends outside our own family, that helps spread the message of good cheer.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

Sarah Un... ...seward, says the old proverb. If he buys away from home, he should do more than the usual wearing.

You can only talk to one customer at a time in your store. When you advertise, you talk to a host of people reading your notice at the same time.

Front where I sit

by Joe Marsh

Pete Swanson fancies himself as an armchair strategist. Sometimes he gets all tangled tpt. I just can't resist tryin' to straighten him out.

For instance, the other day he was wailing indignant about our soldiers being allowed to buy beer right in camp. Said that was just ruining the troops and would ruin discipline.

I told him the actual facts had been established by a study the Government made. Their report said chaplains and the military police agree the instead of ruining discipline, beer sold in Army canteens provides our soldiers with a milder form of relaxation without impairing their efficiency.

Well, Pete allowed that the chaplains and military police are a pretty good authority on what's right for soldiers. I've noticed lately he's been confining his remarks to the broader phases of strategy. . .

MEDINA CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

Medina Children's Program Sunday afternoon, assisted by community singers, was a grand success.

Mrs. Mina Mae Holland and Elbert Wheeler, deserve much praise for the wonderful training they are giving the children.

The Elementary group skipers with little Edna Kease as the pilot and a perky bunch fantastic bunch of little singers.

"Beautiful Texas" was well rendered by the 5th, 6th and 7th grade girls.

Eulala and Lenora Norwood, much talented little singers, sang the "Marine Hymn."

Miss Nelda Simmons, Melva and Doris L. Walker dedicated "You Are My Sunshine" to their mothers and Mrs. Leighton.

Rose Patricia Buchanan, a young composer, presented her song, "When the Boys Come Home." Beth Wilson and Janelle Akin assisted Rose in singing.

Beth Wilson dramatized "God Bless America," with the audience singing the chorus.

Miss Grace Evelyn Whitehouse played the international number, "La Golondrina."

Those taking on string instruments were Aileen Sutherland, Edith Mayberry, Jo Ann Sherrill Johnson, Flora Ann Adams, Geraldine Poe, Morris Poe, Elmer Banta, Dorothea Conway, Clinton Whitehouse, and Grace Whitehouse.

The group's rhythm's humorous songs added zest and much enjoyment to the program.

The combined singers, with Rev. W. H. Price as leader, sang several beautiful and inspiring songs.

The program closed with a fatherly benediction by R. D. Garrison.

HELPING LOCAL BUSINESS

The people should realize that present conditions are hard for retail trade, that dealers are likely to be handicapped through lack of help, rising prices, drafting of experienced men, difficulties in getting merchandise, gasoline, hauling ration points, etc.

There should be a general desire to do everything possible to assist the home town stores to carry on through these difficulties. One thing that people can do is to pay their bills promptly. When they pay cash instead of running up charges, they enable the store to do business on a smaller capital, and thus avoid expense. Also stores do so many things for the people and serve so generously in so many ways, that it should be a pleasure for the public to do all it can to help them.

VANDERPOOL

Paul Norman got a 16-day furlough from Camp Hood and is spending it with his mother and other relatives here.

Miss Addie Jane Clayton of San Antonio spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Clayton.

Miss Maxine Carson of Station U is on the sick list this week. Lee Rex Heaviva has a spell of tonsilitis and Roy Schimelpfenig is still sick with a bad case of laryngitis.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart of San Antonio spent the week-end with friends here and attended the baccalaureate services Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell of San Antonio visited his mother last week. They also visited in the home of his aunt, Mrs. Henry Brown and family.

Don Tetley, who has been in the armed services in Greenland, arrived in San Antonio the past week. He had the harrowing experience of spending 68 days in the wilds of that island. He and his wife and baby will make Cooley be guests in the Len Cooley home this week.

Lonnie and Francis Thompson and family visited their mother, Mrs. R. H. Thompson at Safina last week and she reported her improved.

May 29th has been set as the date for decoration and cemetery work here.

Mrs. Bob Rawls received word that his brother-in-law, Charley Valentine from near Dallas, had passed away after a long illness and died in the Beam's place Sunday. In the afternoon Mrs. George Mathis and daughter, Mrs. Bessie Mae Mathis, were honored guests at a shower given by Mrs. Gotcher and Mrs. Sweeney at the ranch home of Mrs. Gotcher of Bandera at their guest last week.

G. M. and L. D. Foster transacted business in Bandera last week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Massey returned from Del Rio where they went to consult a doctor about their baby. The little one has been ill for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edwards and children of Medina Community were here over the week-end.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rawls were Mr. and Mrs. Rudy de la Zerda and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rawls and family and Mrs. Ada A. Moore and family, and Miss Kathleen Cotula, all of San Antonio.

Mrs. Russell Irving and mother, Mrs. Fannie Cox, Mrs. Jim Edwards and John Edwards visited Mrs. Roland Thallman Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. McCathy.

We are sorry Mrs. Emil Villemain is on the sick list this week. While trying to kill a hawk the gun kicked her and she had to have stitches taken in her face. We hope she is better now.

Dr. Elizabeth Heisler and Mrs. Adrian Heisler visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Callahan last week.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

The philosophers tell us to climb the heights of wisdom. It will help us to get up those heights, if we practice on some smaller hills of cooperation with the community in our home town.

When people know more about the line of trade in which they are engaged, they are most likely to make the successes and win the promotions.

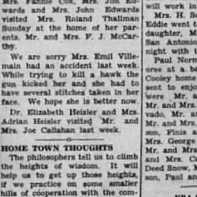
Norway Lend-Lease



In this scondphoto, Norway's Ambassador Wilhelm Morgenthau and Secretary of State Cordell Hull are shown signing the lend-lease agreement between the United States and Norway. Through the signing of this agreement Norway will receive substantial aid in the maintenance of her merchant marine, which is the fourth largest in the world.

Indian Guard Salutes United Nation Leaders

An ornately adorned Indian guard snaps to salute as Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, left, of England's army, commander-in-chief in India, waits out of the conference room at New Delhi, India, with Brig. Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of the air force. The conference was believed to be the beginning of important action in this theater of war.

PLEASANT LOCK

Some folks usually look cross. There is a kind of sour appearance in their face. It is not a good asset in industry, business or social life. Those who give that impression will find it harder to get jobs and people will be less likely to do business with them. Such folks may have had some kind of hard time or misfortune for which they are not to blame, but if possible they should cultivate a pleasant look.

Some folks have faces that seem naturally to shine. They are always ready to smile and are glad to see everyone they meet. They appear to take pleasure in combating the ordinary work of their job. Such folks, assuming they are efficient, are popular with employers and the public. A cordial, smiling, friendly face helps anyone a number of rounds up the ladder of life.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

"Extra Hour Tribute"

In some Washington quarters much ado has been made this week over a proposal by some War Production Board employees that the 2,000,000 government employees work an extra hour on the Memorial Day after which it is a tribute to our war heroes.

The suggestion is a good one. But a lot of people don't realize why just one extra hour on one particular holiday should be singled out.

Judging from the many weeks it takes WPB to act on most priority requests, one extra hour could be put to good use then.

No National Holiday?

It may come as a surprise to some, but the Memorial Day actually has no national holiday. July 4 generally is thought of as the official national holiday. But it never has been so finally designated. And both Labor Day and Memorial Day were so declared by the Congress only for the District of Columbia. General public acceptance has made the holidays, from Independence Day on down, what they are today. And general public acceptance right now has cut holiday observance to the minimum—for the duration.

Man Without a Country

President Benes of Czecho-Slovakia spoke to the Senate and House a few days ago. He arrived here at the same time as Prime Minister Winston Churchill, General Wavell and the other conferees did. Churchill made such a better speech than the scholarly Dr. Benes. He would not necessarily receive greater attention and sympathy. Czecho-Slovakia was a small country but a great country. Dr. Benes is a small man, a quiet man, but in United Nations Strategy he is one of the big men of the century—although today he is a man without a country.

The President of Bolivia spoke to Congress only a few days earlier. His speech was worth considering, too.

But the most impressive outside speaker the Congress has heard this year, was, in my opinion, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. She and the Generalissimo are the leaders of 275,000,000 "Free Chinese" today. Her intelligence, personality and commonsense, the Chinese "first lady" bespeaks the determination of the democratic Chinese to repulse the Japanese aggressors and build a nation dedicated to the principles of our own Declaration of Independence and the Four Freedoms of today.

There's the Pacific

The conferences of President Roosevelt, Churchill and other war leaders here, and the joint planning by General MacArthur and Admiral Halsey, mean that the Japs aren't going to be overlooked. Victory in Tunisia was fine. But we must remember Pearl Harbor and Bataan. We will.

CONSERVING RESOURCES

The American people have been told many things about conserving their resources. They are urged to care for their forests and their soil and their water power, and see that such sources of wealth do not go to waste.

Every town has a source of wealth consisting of the money which it earns or receives. When a good part of that money goes away to buy goods that portion of the resources of the community is not conserved for the benefit of the home town. If it is spent at home, the money helps enrich the home community, improves its business, make it possible to hire more labor, enable people to pay more taxes, and provide more public improvements and better homes.

EAST VERDE H. D. CLUB

The East Verde Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. W. L. Keiser on Friday, May 14th at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Arthur Hayes gave a brief report of the last Council meeting and as there was no business to be conducted, the meeting was turned over to Miss Hajek. She demonstrated the cleaning of sewing machines, which is very useful in this day and time. Keep your machine in good running condition all the time by cleaning it with kerosene or gasoline and use a good grade of oil to oil the mechanical parts.

Pamphlets were distributed on how to wash your rayon and silk garments, dresses and also how to care for woolens, such as sweaters and the like.

The Dutch and the coolie bonnet patterns were also distributed. They are simple to make and can be made of feed sacks.

Delicious refreshments of hot tea and cookies were served to Mesdames B. C. Fleenor, John Eckhart, Arthur Hayes, Joe Chapman, Misses Sylvia Ann Hajek, Pearl Duke, one visitor, Miss Smith, and the hostess, Mrs. Keiser.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME

Farm Meat Regulations

New meat-rationing regulations provide that a farmer and his family may consume meat raised on any farm he owns or operates, and may transfer meat from one of his farms to another to provide food for members of the household, without giving up ration points, even if the meat is not slaughtered on his farm. However, if the farm owner does not live on a farm, he must give up ration points for any meat he consumes elsewhere. Under the original regulations, a farmer could slaughter his own cattle to a custom slaughtering plant had to surrender red point stamps for the meat, while if he killed and dressed an animal himself the meat was "rationfree." A farm or ranch employer who feeds his employees in a bunkhouse or dining hall may now use meat and other rationed food raised on his farm on the same basis as if the employees were fed in the household.

Overseas Parcel Post

Packages now may be mailed to a soldier overseas if a request is received from the soldier and the envelope bears the APO cancellation mark is presented at the time of mailing. Formerly, the approval of the commanding officer was required. Current restrictions as to weight and size of packages remain in effect.

Farm Machinery Rationing

At their discretion, state War Boards can now cancel county quotas on any or all types of farm machinery according to revised farm machinery rationing order issued by the War Production Board. If a State Board exercises this authority, farmers will be required to locate the machinery they want to buy before they are given a purchase certificate. Furthermore, county farm rationing committees may set the expiration date of purchase certificates any time between 10 and 60 days after issuance, or may cancel the certificate after the holder has had a reasonable time to buy the specified machinery.

Must Carry Draft Cards

Selective Service registrants who were 18 years old on or before Nov. 13, 1942, must have their local board classification cards (Selective Service Form No. 57), as well as their registration certificate (Form 2), in their possession after May 13. Men without both cards are liable to fine and imprisonment, Selective Service headquarters warned.

Twine and Rope for '43 Harvest

Farmers can expect reasonable supplies of baryope, binder twine, and other cordage for harvesting their 1943 crops. However, farmers are warned that they will get only as much as they actually need and to conserve supplies now on hand. Many substitute materials are being used and supplies will require more careful handling than in the past.

Gas for Furloughs

Members of the armed forces on leave or furlough for three days or more may get a special gasoline ration (up to five gallons) for personal errands when other means of transportation are not available. The ration is obtained by presenting pass, leave, or furlough papers to a rationing board.

Save Feed Proteins

Livestock and poultry raisers are urged to conserve livestock feeds, especially those of high-protein content, by following Department of Agriculture. Feed manufacturers are voluntarily limiting the proportions of proteins in various types of feeds, and farmers on ranchmen who mix their own are asked to do likewise. They are also requested to conserve purchased protein by giving feeding of grain and nutritious roughage. Poultrymen are advised to make no further expansions in commercial broiler production, to maintain a balance between feed and feed needs.

Ham Prices Reduced

Maximum retail prices for all parts of processed hams (bone-in) and processed picnic hams, have been reduced from one to three cents per pound by OPA. One-third of a ham may now be sold in slices, to accommodate consumers who do not have enough points to buy a larger piece.

War Alarm Clocks at $1.65

The new war alarm clock will be sold for not more than $1.65 exclusive of tax. WPB is allocating materials for 1,700,000 of these clocks to ease a national shortage.

Flying Fortresses Foray in Solomons

Leaving fire and destruction in their wake, U. S. army Flying Fortresses carry out a bombing sortie on Japanese installations on Gizo island in the Solomons. The raid was part of a triple-pronged aerial thrust against the enemy during the fight for Guadalcanal. The starboard wing of the Flying Fortress, from which a U. S. navy photographer snapped this picture is visible at the extreme right.

Miners at 'Round Stove' Discussion

Relaxing under the comfortable heat of a stove, these four miners discuss their No. 1 topic, the six-day week for miners under government supervision of the mines. The six-day week was ordered by President Roosevelt after labor leaders throughout the coal mining industry as work generally was resumed, after a nation-wide walkout.

The Bandera New Era

SUCCEEDING THE BANDERA ENTERPRISE, FOUNDED APRIL 12, 1883, AND COMBINED WITH THE MEDINA LIGHT JANUARY 9, 1941

Vol. 27, No. 51 Bandera, Bandera County, Texas, Thursday, May 27, 1943 Subscription, $1.50 Per Year

BANDERA COUNTY has an area of about 600 square miles, mountains, with fertile valleys, strong streams, plenty of water, no serious floods. Ideal ranch farming region, fruit growing section of merit.

BANDERA is located 44 miles northwest of San Antonio in the Hill Country, where Nature has moulded delightful environs to delight and please the vacationist, the tourist and health-seeker. Altitude, 1400 feet.

School Election Next Saturday

I wish to state as clearly as I can the issues in the election to be held in the Bandera Public School Building Saturday, May 29th.

On Feb. 5th the Bandera County School District, the Indian Creek Common School District, the East Verde Common School District, the Lone Star Common School District and a part of the Mayer Creek Common School District and Myrtle Creek Common School District were grouped together forming the Bandera Rural High School District. The grouping of the districts into a Rural High School District was upon the recommendation of the State Board of Education and the Legislative Committee and has been validated by a unanimous vote by the legislature. There are three rates of taxing in the district as it now stands ranging from 20 cents to one dollar on the hundred dollar valuation. It is necessary to have the same rate of tax in the entire district.

The issues to be voted upon are: The assumption of the $15,000 bonded indebtedness and (2) the levying of a uniform tax rate. The original Bandera Common School District has approximately $10,000 bonded indebtedness and it is now the property of the Bandera Rural High School District. Each child enrolled in the newly created Bandera Rural High School District shares equally in each dollar of assets and liabilities that may be derived from the excellent equipment and site used for the school in Bandera Common School District however, there is a bonded indebtedness against the original Common School in the sum of $15,000 and the property of this original district and is now held responsible for the payment of this debt. The qualified voters residing outside of the original district will be asked to vote for the Rural School District fee that they will share equally in paying the bonded indebtedness. Surely each good voter in the original district should be glad to let each of the newly created districts share equally in the debt paying. The issue will not increase the rate or the amount of debt of the original district, but will let the property valuation bear the debt.

The tax levying is necessary to get funds in the incoming district to operate a uniform tax rate for the whole district. It will not raise the tax in the original district but will help to equalize the burden about the newly formed district. Should the issues fail to carry the coming election it will place the original Bandera district under a heavy burden of debt and the operating expenses of school.

Many of the patrons of the individual districts are not in favor of helping share expenses and will vote in favor of the issues, therefore I am extending a warm welcome to our friends and neighbors to join us in our excellent school program.

W. B. Denman, Supt.

MARINES CALLING FOR VOLUNTEERS

Seventeen-year-old boys are now needed by the United States Marines as volunteers, Major D. M. Pratt, officer in charge of the Marine Recruiting District of San Antonio, announced today.

Quotas for the Marine volunteer corps have been reopened to let boys in this age group enlist as volunteers, the Marine officer pointed out. They must have their birth certificates and parents' consent and pass the Marine physical examination to be enlisted. Then they will be sent home on an inactive status for all at a future date, probably within two months.

"Texas led in men in the Marines when recruiting was allowed and it has a good chance to lead in enlistments of 17-year-old class," Major Pratt declared. "They need not wait to register for selective service, but can come on into the Marines now."

Full information is available at Marine Recruiting Stations in Austin, Beaumont, Houston, Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

Vacation Bible School Next Week

Rev. B. H. Seiker announces that Vacation Bible School will be held at the Methodist Church beginning Monday, May 31 and will close Friday, June 11. The Bible School is for anyone that wants to attend. See to it that your child does not miss this opportunity for Bible education.

A group of well qualified teachers have been selected, with a widely known Junior choir director from Iowa in charge of all music.

There will be classes for all age groups, primary through intermediates.

KEEP THE VICTORY GARDEN PRODUCING

(Sylvia Ann Hajek, C. H. D. A., Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas)

Conscientious Victory gardeners, especially those living in areas having suitable moisture, plant and harvest throughout the growing season. Be sure to plant heat resisting varieties in summer. Sweet corn, peas, head lettuce, mustard greens, and other leafy vegetables are not suited to a hot weather garden.

After the white potatoes are dug plant blackeyed or cream peas in the same rows. When early maturing green go to seed, follow with okra, green pepper plants, and another row of beans. Chard or Swiss chard has more vitamin A, than any other green. Kale is a good substitute, which is liberal in vitamins. In hot weather, is an excellent substance to early radishes, but gardeners should be careful not to harvest the leaf variety with head lettuce. Round Rapids or Black Seeded Simpson are recommended for good summer growth.

Eggplant does well in hot weather, with Florida Highbush or Purple Beauty well suited to Texas growing conditions. Allow 2 feet of space between plants, but watch out for potato bugs. When this pest gets a start on potatoes it will move to eggplants and eat them up in a few days. On the first appearance of the bugs dust the plants with calcium arsenate and they will give no further trouble. A second planting of sweet corn may be made now in order to provide roasting ears over a long period. When it is up 10 to 12 inches thin the stand to two feet apart. All hot weather vegetables need mogs room for moisture and plant food than the early ones.

Those desiring to volunteer should get three letters of recommendation outlining professional qualifications and report at the nearest Navy Recruiting Station. If acceptable they will be given a letter to their draft board requesting immediate induction.

Robert Stevens Claimed by Death

It is with sorrow that we chronicle the death of Robert Stevens, who passed away in San Antonio Saturday morning following an illness of about two months duration. Robert Stevens was born March 1, 1903, a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Stevens. He was a hard working man and his death is mourned by a host of relatives and friends. He is survived by his mother, three brothers, Smith of Fort Lewis, Wash., Winner of San Antonio and Owen of Bandera, four sisters, Mrs. Aileen Hunt of Beeville, Velma, who is married and lives near Fairfield, Vera of San Antonio and Ethel Mae of Bandera. His father preceded him in death.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed pending arrival of his brother, Smith from Fort Lewis, Wash. Interment will be in Bandera Cemetery.

The New Era extends profound condolences to the bereaved.

COMMISSIONERS COURT

In addition to routine business the Commissioners Court canvassed the election for tax in District No. 1 Indian Creek, and found 20 for and 3 against.

Whereas at the March term 1939 the court authorized and recommended that the county offices be closed at noon on Saturdays and the matter was again discussed in open court and the court went on record as approving and renewing such procedure.

It is ordered by the court that a tax of 50 cents on the $100 valuation be levied on all property in the Water Control and Improvement District.

A school tax was levied as follows: Pipe Creek 25 cents, Middle Verde 20 cents, Elm Creek 10 cents and Little Creek 50 cents.

The court will meet on Tuesday, June 15 for equalizing road valuations to changes in valuations by persons notified after the May meeting.

till Burry was reflecting back on the last war and what the boys used to do when they got a furlough.

"We weren't a hard-drinking bunch particularly, but that was in Prohibition," said Bill, "and forbidden fruit always seems worth quite a bit. We'd hunt up a bootlegger, which was easy, and buy a bottle.

"So, instead of a beer or two, well—I guess we generally drank too much! . . . wonder what the boys are doing this time?"

I got out the official report the Office of War Information sends and read him this: "The fact that there is vastly less drinking among soldiers in this war may stem in part from the sale of beer in canteens."

Bill Burry thought it sit, it certainly doesn't look as if we had to worry about our boys. We learned our lesson in the last war, and I'm glad to see we're on the right track now.

CUSTOMER COURTESY

Sales clerks in stores are trained to be very courteous. They are told that polite treatment of customers is essential to their success and necessary for the success of their employer. Sometimes one thinks that the general politeness is carried to excess and courtesy in the way it acts when buying goods.

If it is up to the sales clerk to be courteous and considerate, it is up to the customer to reciprocate by showing the same spirit. Shoppers who are cross, impatient, and unreasonable make life hard for the people behind the counters. The latter cannot answer back in the same way. They have to take it and like it. So them, and smile, and pretend they don't care. The store people have a hard time meeting the difficulties of wartime. The difficulties should not be made worse by an unreasonable spirit among customers.

THOROUGH WORK

The old timers who built up our communities, or who helped develop them, were very strong on the idea of doing thorough work. Many of us can remember when in early youth we worked as boys and girls under the tutelage of those faithful old workers. They were very strong against anything they regarded as slighting or slipshod. If we failed to put up the weeds in some corner the grandpa we left that day around the plants hard and lumpy they told us we were slipping. That's why we should go back and complete the job.

Many inexperienced workers are doing real good work today. They should get this idea of thorough work of doing everything completely and not quitting any job until it is well finished. In this way their work will be valuable and they will build a secure future for themselves.

Our WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman O. C. FISHER

—And Tears

When Winston Churchill spoke to the Congress the other day, it wasn't he who impressed me so much, although the Prime Minister made another of his masterful speeches.

Sitting in a wheel chair at the back of the House chamber was a young man. He was Richard Wood, the son of Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to Washington. Lt. Wood lost his legs in the North Africa fighting.

No "blood and sweat and tears" speech by Mr. Churchill could tell better than this the true story of the tragedy of war. No better argument could be given for flaking certain armor into wear to shield the youth of another generation shall not go through another world war.

There is no good reason why the resources and talents of the world, today geared to awesome destruction, cannot be geared as thoroughly to the job of developing and maintaining a just and complete world peace.

Farm Home-Made Butter Endangered

The high point requirements for butter granted the markets in several towns in my district, I took the matter up with OPA Administrator Prentiss M. Brown assured me that the problem was receiving attention, adding "Adjustments will be made to avoid spoilage or waste of the limited supplies." They should, for much trade today still involves the hanging in of butter for direct sale to consumers or to grocers.

Quoting Mr. Brown's letter to me further:

"The question of making adjustments in Ration Order No. 16 (meats and fats) to permit the sale of farm produced butter by lowering the point value or eliminating the point value, is being given serious consideration. Needless to say, this situation presents a number of problems, both from the standpoint of overall production of dairy products needed in the war effort and from the standpoint of administration.

"The production of farm butter increased very rapidly during the six months preceding rationing. This brought about a diversion of milk from manufactured dairy products needed for export, for our armed forces and allies. The continuation of this diversion would defeat the purpose of the rationing program. This office is cognizant of the importance of equitable distribution of available supplies of all foods. Adjustments will be made to avoid spoilage or waste of our limited supplies."

Prices Still Going Up

Inflation—which can make money and property and jobs worthless—still lacks much of being under control. Cost-of-living figures went up only 1.5 per cent as a whole during the month ending March 15, but prices of vegetables and fruits went up 12.2 per cent. Some frozen vegetables went up 40 per cent, directly revealing inefficiency in the OPA controls.

The increases are out of proportion to what the farmer gets for his products. What starts the spiral?

Is it the 20 cents worth of cotton in a shirt or the $2.50 worth of processing and distribution? Which is inflationary: milk 11¢ cents worth of wheat in a loaf of bread or the 8½ cents worth of processing and distribution? The farmer gets two cents a pound for sweet potatoes that sell in Washington for 10 cents a pound. Inflation in cost of living cannot properly be blamed upon the farmer. Most of the high cost is in labor and distribution after the farmer gets what he can for his product.

Inflation control, to be effective, must apply throughout the spread of costs from producer to consumer.

Gas Drouth

The gasoline drouth hit Washington full force yesterday. I drove to several filling stations and found them closed, "Out of Gas." Well, the gasoline we're missing up here probably will find a better place probably will find a better use across the seas right now.

Milk Holds Pie Juice Better

When making fruit pies, dampen the edge of the pastry with milk instead of water. It will hold better and the juice is not as likely to boil over.

World War Lassoo

According to official army records, 1,856 officers and 25,912 enlisted men lost their lives during the World war.

TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME

Destroy Expired Ration Stamps

Housewives are urged to destroy all expired or blue ration stamps to help guard against black markets in food. Reports to OPA indicate that many storekeepers have baked their customers for expired stamps, and, in turn have used them to move more food from wholesalers. Because foods bought at wholesale with expired stamps can be sold at retail without points, every expired stamp given to a storekeeper is a potential contribution to an illegal market.

New Way to get Canning Sugar

Sugar for home canning can be obtained by using stamps 15 and 16 in War Ration Book One, instead of "sugar allowance coupons" as previously announced. Each stamp is worth five pounds. Consumers who require more than ten pounds per person for canning will apply to their local ration boards for an additional allowance.

OCR to Supply Farmers' Requirements

The newly-created Office of Civilian Requirements, WPB, has worked out an emergency farmers supply program which will quickly provide essentials to farmers some 50 items essential in the production of food. The procedure will enable a farmer to buy reasonable amounts of needed items directly from his dealer without having To "Renew Gas Rations By Mail

The county's 25,000,000 car owners and 160,000 motorcycle owners may renew their present gasoline rations (the "A" and "D" coupon books) by mail. Motorists and motorcycle owners outside rationed Eastern seaboard states area will pick up a simple application form about June 22 at ration boards. The form must be filled out and mailed to the War Price and Rationing Board which has assigned back cover of the present "A" book, and (b) the current tire inspection record showing that proper inspections have been made. All new "A" books should be received by mail before July 21.

More Radio Batteries

To bring relief to farmers in non-electrified areas of the nation, producers of radio sets for civilian use during the first quarter of 1943 have been boosted to 425,000 a month. If the present rate of production is maintained over a 12-month period, normal requirements for the 3,200,000 radios estimated to be on farms will be met. Get 50 Gallons of Gas Any Time

Farmers will benefit from a change made by Petroleum Administrative Order No. 4 which allows bulk deliveries of gasoline in quantities of 50 gallons or more to be made at any time. This will be particularly helpful to farmers who do their heavy farm work to buy gasoline in steel drums of 50 gallons or more cash-and-carry.

Public Exceeding Speed Limit

Recent checks in 17 states showed motorists exceeding an high as 47 miles an hour. Speeds approximating this were found in parts of Maine, Minnesota, North Carolina, and Oklahoma, except that they averaged 10 miles an hour.

Number of buses was 45 miles per hour. Earlier this year, speed counts showed an average speed of 39 miles an hour for passenger cars, 35 for trucks, and 37 for buses. The present national average can-

Lt. Joe Stevens Lucky in African Hunt

U. S. FIFTH ARMY, NORTH AFRICA—Lieutenant Joe Stevens of Bandera, Texas, exhibits a hyena, his prize catch of the week during a short respite from active pursuits. The other animals lying on each side of the hyena are jackals.

HUNTING HYENAS IN AFRICA

By Lieutenant Joe Stevens

The following article was written after a night's respite from the war.

U. S. Fifth Army, North Africa—Just close to midnight as Sergeants Jack Hamilton and Adams and I sat waiting in our tents for the signs of a jackal or gazelle.

The lights of our vehicle had failed to respond to every game and we decided to cruise around the road. About half a mile down the road, I spotted something. Telling Sgt. Dempsey to halt, I lifted the rifle from my lap and had the headlights focused on the bushes along the side of the road.

Two small, piercing eyes met the glare of the lights. At first I thought it was a fox but by the time my eyes got into position to shoot, the sly fellow dashed out of sight into the darkness.

A little further down the road, a wildcat leaped across our path and stopped in the middle of the road.

"Boy, what a shot," I exclaimed, and let go at it with a small-bore rifle. The gun as he headed for the thickets. He was catched (I) by a crazy sort of circle, then with a leap he was out of sight.

Suddenly, around a bend, we were met by six staring, luminous eyes. As the vehicle came to a halt the brakes. From out of nowhere came a fierce, idiotic laugh that made the blood run cold. I knew we must be in hyena country.

As one of them stood frozen in its tracks, I took careful aim and fired. The animal sank down and down. We watched for a few seconds to see if there was any life, then dismounted to examine the results of our shooting.

As I approached, the beast reared up, his fiendish mouth open and flnaring its defiance, it let loose another weird howl and was about to spring. I stepped backward.

Something went wrong with my rifle and as Sgt. Adams fumbled with her, I picked up a stone and rock and threw it at the beast. My aim was good and the hyena was stunned momentarily. Then it turned and leaped away.

"Don't let it get away," I yelled, and the chase was on. Over the peep. One of the sergeants took a shot. The hyena ran about five hundred feet in front of us and then turned and went down again. Making no mistakes, I let go with another round and heard a revolting thud against the hyena's head. That did the three of us.to load our catch onto the back of our car but it was well worth our efforts. We decided to call it a good night's hunting and headed back to camp.

F. B. I. Conference Next Wednesday

San Antonio, Texas, May 31.—"Next of Kin" notification, British motion picture, showing the effect of casualties talk in wartime, will be shown at 9:30 a. m. June 9 at the FBI Quarterly Police Conference in Bandera and Medina.

The movie, which will be open to the public, will be shown from 10 a. m. to 11:40 a. m. in the Bandera Theatry in Bandera. It has had no public showing in Texas as yet.

First made for use of the British Army only as a warning against careless talk, it only recently has been released for showing of secrecy, according to R. E. Hanrahan, Special Agent in Charge of the FBI in San Antonio.

Registration for the day-long conference will begin at 9:30 a. m. in the Theatre in Bandera, after the movie, there will be time out for lunch at noon.

At 1:20 p. m. in the High School Auditorium in Medina, Mr. Surratt will call the afternoon meeting to order, and introduce guests and speakers. Addresses of welcome will be given by C. V. Haley, Justice of the Peace, Medina, Texas, and Judge Frio of Medina will give the Invocation.

Claude H. Gilmer, Representative, Bexar-Bandera, Texas, will speak on "What Congress Expects of his Peace Officers."

The meeting will begin at 2:20 p. m., with only brief reports of Officers attending.

The problem of Juvenile delinquency, as seen by a man who is intimately acquainted with it will be discussed by the next speaker, He is R. N. Windship, Jr., superintendent of the State School for Boys at Gatesville.

Mr. Winship will tell the officers present how they can reduce the number of juveniles who become delinquent in their towns and counties.

Austin M. Smith, Constable, Medina will call the roll and introduce the visitors.

Mr. Surran will discuss a phase of "Safety Duties of Police in the War Effort," "New Trends in National Defense."

"Sabotage—Technique and Mechanics of Arrest," will follow. Safest methods of arrest, and dangerous and dangerous for peace officers, will be discussed.

Officers present, will be invited to make talks or ask questions. A business session will close the meeting.

All groups of officers are invited, including sheriffs and deputy sheriffs, police chiefs and their officers, members of the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Texas Highway Patrol Board, City Marshals and assistants, constables and deputies, game wardens, and railway special agents, including auxiliary police of all agencies from the following counties: Bandera, Bexar, Comal, Kerr, Real, Bandera, Uvalde, Medina, and Llano.

At 3 p. m. the Hill Country Peace Officers Association will take over and there will be a barbecue on the Medina River.

Farm Machinery Quotas Lifted

College Station, June 1.—All county quotas on rationed farm machinery were cancelled this week by the Texas USDA War Board.

Under the revised program, which goes into effect immediately, eligible producers now may purchase machinery from any dealer in the state instead of restricting purchases to the county in which they carry out farming operations.

They will be required, however, to locate the machinery they wish to purchase and obtain a purchase certificate from Farm Machinery Rationing Committees before making purchase. Producers are eligible to receive certificates only when their application for farm machinery and equipment is approved by local rationing committees.

Committees are, not permitted to issue purchase certificates unless the machinery first is located at the producer," W. F. Vance, chairman, said. Applications for rationing that the purpose of this is to prevent issuing certificates in excess of available supply.

Farm requirements also are established and machinery is tagged to specify the state in which it is to be used. Purchased machinery was tagged by counties and may be purchased only when machines tagged for the county for which they were tagged.

Farm quotas remain in effect but break-in requirements no longer will be necessary under the revised program, Vance said.

KING-CAFFALL

Miss Bride Caffall became the bride of Melvin Arthur King last Monday at noon when Rev. W. A. Brown performed the ceremony at his home. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caffall, Mr. and Mrs. Eph Caffall and Miss Lavena Caffall were present to witness the ceremony. The couple left later for a honeymoon trip to Roswell, N. M. after which they will be at home in Kingsville, where the groom is stationed with the U. S. Navy.

The bride is a lovely and talented young lady and a graduate of the class of Bandera High School of 1942.

The New Era joins the many friends in hoping that word may soon come that is alive and well.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES HELD SUNDAY

Memorial Day services were held Sunday at 4 p. m. at the Bandera Cemetery. The sun came out about an hour or so before time for the services and shower the rest of the afternoon. A good crowd was present to honor those who have passed away.

Songs appropriate for the occasion by Rev. and followed by the invocation by Rev. A. Brown.

Rev. R. H. Seiler read the 23rd Psalm and brought a comforting message. J. Marvin Hunt read the list of those who passed away in the past year.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Ben Akin. Mrs. C. Meadows read the minutes and Mrs. Akin gave a financial report in the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ed Rugh, who recently underwent an operation in Mrs. Alvin Clark, chairman of the memorial committee, in her report named Mrs. Ben Akin as president, Mrs. M. Fitzgerald as vice president, Mrs. Frank Langford as secretary-treasurer and Hubert Risinger, D. E. Conwill, W. A. Plummer and Mrs. C. F. Pleeser as directors and all were elected by acclamation.

The meeting closed with the singing of America and the placing of flags on all soldier's graves. A wreath and basket were also placed on the monument in front of the court house.

NAVY REVEALS BATTLE OF ATTU OVER

The navy reported that the bleak island of Attu in the Aleutians had been taken from "the Japs in the name of fighting. The Japs in the first American soil to be regained by our forces after the invasion by them. A few snipers remained but were soon wiped out as quickly as possible. Reinforcements reached Alaska, Attu enemy base in the Aleutians, to newly on the list.

Allied air forces were continuing their pounding of Axis bases in Europe. Daily the planes dropped their loads of bombs and on some of the islands near Italy was reported to have lost over 400 planes compared to about 40 for the Allies.

In Russia a big offensive was on the Novorossisk sector but no definite news as to the action was available.

In China the Japs were reported to be caught in a Chinese trap after making some gains.

Lt. Frank R. Anderwald, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Anderwald, who is stationed now where in the Pacific, has been promoted to the First Lieutenant.

Alvie H. Carmack Missing in Action

Pictured above is Alvie H. Carmack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Carmack of Medina. He has been missing in action since May 7, 1942. He was with the Quartermaster Corps on Bataan in the Philippines when Bataan fell into the hands of the Japanese. He was born in Bandera County on Sept. 23, 1917 and entered the army on March 9, 1940. He was stationed in San Antonio before being sent to the Philippines in Dec., 1941. He was stationed at Camp Stoneman, Calif. as a dispatcher for the port area.

The last letter received from him had been written March 3, 1942, sent on a submarine, transferred on a freighter and when the freighter was torpedoed the mail bag was thrown into the Pacific. It later was picked up and the letters delivered in the United States in August, five months after they had been written.

The New Era joins the many friends in hoping that word may soon come that is alive and well.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES HELD SUNDAY

Memorial Day services were held Sunday at 4 p. m. at the Bandera Cemetery. The sun came out about an hour or so before time for the services and shower the rest of the afternoon. A good crowd was present to honor those who have passed away.

Songs appropriate for the occasion by Rev. and followed by the invocation by Rev. A. Brown.

Rev. R. H. Seiler read the 23rd Psalm and brought a comforting message. J. Marvin Hunt read the list of those who passed away in the past year.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Ben Akin. Mrs. C. Meadows read the minutes and Mrs. Akin gave a financial report in the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ed Rugh, who recently underwent an operation in Mrs. Alvin Clark, chairman of the memorial committee, in her report named Mrs. Ben Akin as president, Mrs. M. Fitzgerald as vice president, Mrs. Frank Langford as secretary-treasurer and Hubert Risinger, D. E. Conwill, W. A. Plummer and Mrs. C. F. Pleeser as directors and all were elected by acclamation.

The meeting closed with the singing of America and the placing of flags on all soldier's graves. A wreath and basket were also placed on the monument in front of the court house.

NAVY REVEALS BATTLE OF ATTU OVER

The navy reported that the bleak island of Attu in the Aleutians had been taken from "the Japs in the name of fighting. The Japs in the first American soil to be regained by our forces after the invasion by them. A few snipers remained but were soon wiped out as quickly as possible. Reinforcements reached Alaska, Attu enemy base in the Aleutians, to newly on the list.

Allied air forces were continuing their pounding of Axis bases in Europe. Daily the planes dropped their loads of bombs and on some of the islands near Italy was reported to have lost over 400 planes compared to about 40 for the Allies.

In Russia a big offensive was on the Novorossisk sector but no definite news as to the action was available.

In China the Japs were reported to be caught in a Chinese trap after making some gains.

Lt. Frank R. Anderwald, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Anderwald, who is stationed now where in the Pacific, has been promoted to the First Lieutenant.

School Election Issues Carried

A total of 163 votes were cast in the school consolidation election last Saturday. The vote was 136 for the assumption of the bonds and 23 against and 135 for the tax and 27 against the tax.

The Bandera Rural High School can now continue to make progress and will prove of value to all concerned.

BOY SCOUTS ENJOYED CAMPING TRIP

Troop No. 146 went on its annual camp earlier this year than in the past. Eleven boys and Scoutmaster Patton went to Camp Fee's Camp. Quite an enjoyable time was had by all. As usual time was largely spent in advancement. A period in morning and afternoon was allowed for swimming. In-the evenings games were enjoyed.

Davis, Pingham, Fee, Massa and Glen Bowery completed the Tenderfoot work and went for down the line for Second class; Short and Stevens completed the entire Second class requirements; Lindsey and Mattson only lack First Aid; Scoggin for First Aid; Wetsel expects to have Harlan VanderZee to visit us the last night.

Troop No. 146 wishes to thank Mr. Fee for his campsite; Conwill's Grocery for the delicious prices; Mr. Meitzen for ice; Bro. Bowen for use of camp equipment; the Lions Club for donation of half a goat. A belated "thank you" to Ed Mansfield for donating a first aid kit. "Little Doc" Massa is proud of great assistance and is convenient in his location.

We will hold initiation at our next Scout meeting at the Court House. Come with good standing and those that are initiated ready are to attend this meeting.

On July 1423 we will hold our Court of Honor. We urge all parents to attend this meeting at the Court House. Prizes will be especially honor dads on that night in honoring a Father's Day. It is also Flag Day. Everyone is invited to attend.

SON OF FORMER RESIDENTS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

We are sorry to report the death of Staff Sgt. Leo E. Thorn, Jr., Short Line, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Short, former residents of Bandera County. Sgt. Thorn was given a military funeral at Orange, Texas, and buried in Lake Charles, La. last Sunday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Bowden and Rev. A. W. Hall officiating.

The New Era joins the many friends in extending sympathy to the family.

The following story is from the Port Arthur News:

LEO E. THORN DIES IN CRASH Staff Sergeant Succumbing Ten Dead In Bomber

A Port Arthur airman, Staff Sgt. Leo E. Thorn, Jr., was one of 10 crew members who perished Sunday when a big four-motored army bomber crashed in Yellowstone Park near Great Falls, Mont., his family was notified today.

Sole survivor of the crash was Lt. Wm. McDonald, 24, of Buffalo, N. Y., the bombardier, who parachuted to safety, according to an army report today.

Sgt. Thorn was born and reared here and was a graduate of Thomas Jefferson high school. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Thorn of 3315 Thirth Street. His wife is now residing at Lake Charles, La.

Other survivors are two sisters, Lt. Oneida Thorn, an army nurse stationed at Port Hliss, Texas, and Mrs. Ruth Thorn Hunt of Port Arthur; and a brother, J. T. Thorn of Port Arthur.

Sgt. Thorn was employed at the Gulf refinery when he enlisted in the army in December, 1941.

Details of the crash had not been made public. Also it was not known when the funeral would be held, although it likely will be in Lake Charles, relatives here said.

More Canned Food for Civilians

Civilians will gain 30 million cases of canned fruits and vegetables as a result of reduced government requirements. The reductions are mainly for corn, peas, spinach, tomatoes, snap beans, fruit cocktail, sweet cherries, peaches, pineapple and pineapple juice. Since the 1943 production is not known, current point values for these items will not be immediately affected.

Sugar Supply for 1943

On the basis of current rates 1943 supplies of sugar, the current level of consumption in this country probably can be maintained, the War Food Administration has announced. The allocation of the prospective supply will be as follows: 1,153,000 tons for the armed forces, Lend-Lease and other exports, and 4,600,000 tons for civilian uses. The civilian uses include an estimated 3,253,000 tons for household use and home canning, and 2,342,000 tons for industrial and institutional sugar users.

Prices Set on Pressure Canners

Specific ceilings on three war models of pressure canners have been announced by OPA. Except in the far western zone, the consumer will pay $13.95 for the National model, $14.90 for the Wisconsin model and $12.90 for the Burpee. In far western zone prices are 60 cents higher because of transportation costs. Production of another 125,000 pressure cookers has been authorized by WPB, bringing the total during 1943 to about 275,000, more than in any other year.

Maternity Care Provided

Wives of men in the four lowest pay grades of the armed forces can now get maternity care plus medical, hospital, and nursing care for their babies in 23 states without cost to the family, the Children's Bureau of he U. S. Department of Labor has announced. To apply for such aid the wife must fill out a form secured from the State Health Department. Additional states are expected to have approved programs soon.

CHARLES, E. WYATT . . . RECEIVED COMMISSION

Fort Benning, Ga.—Charles Emmett Wyatt of Bandera, was commissioned a second lieutenant of the Army of the United States upon successful completion of the Officer Candidate Course at The Infantry School at Fort Benning, Lt. Wyatt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Wyatt of Bandera.

The new lieutenant was inducted into the army on Jan. 25, 1943 and was in Texas A. and M. College before going to Officer Candidate School three months ago. He hold the rank of corporal before being commissioned.

The new officer is a graduate of Bandera High and Texas A. and M. College at College Station, where he was prominent as a student in Agriculture.

At The Infantry School—world's largest institution of its kind, the local officer took a three months' course to fit him for his new responsibilities. The course covers the technique of handling all the varied modern infantry weapons and the tactics of leading small infantry units in combat. It also includes study of many varied subjects which future officers must know along the lines of administration, military law, etc.

The men who attend the Officer Candidate School are the best privates, corporals and sergeants from the entire army, selected by their superiors for outstanding intelligence and qualities of leadership. During the course even the mildly incapable are weeded out, so that the men who graduate with commissions are America's finest soldiers, fully qualified to be the leaders in our new army.

FAT TOWERS ATTENDING UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

Columbia, Mo., May 25.—Pvt. Leo Frank Towers, 21, of Bandera, grandson of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Seymer, has arrived at University of Missouri, for course of Army Air Force instruction lasting approximately five months prior to his appointment as an Aviation Cadet in the Army Air Forces. Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

For Them, The Best

Mothers and fathers of the boys in the service want "him" to have the best ships, planes, tanks and guns obtainable. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has just confirmed that the new Navy fighter, the Corsair, "can out-climb, out-fight, and out-maneuver any Jap Zero." If we give "him" the best there is, we needn't doubt that the American fighting man will get the job done—and right.

Eagerly Awaited

President Benes of Czechoslovakia is convinced Germany will cave in "about the end of the 3rd month of next winter," which would be Jan. 31, 1944. He means a military collapse. Bonie say the end may precede Thanksgiving men and supplies still available, but not enough in the right place at the right time.

The Farmer, Rancher Not to Blame

In this column last week I referred to the wide spread between the price the agricultural producer gets for his produce and the cost that is eventually paid by the consumer. The agricultural and livestock producer is blamed for inflation in living costs when in most instances he gets but 10 or 15 per cent of the price eventually paid by the consumer. Most of that increased cost comes when he
