Last year was a dry year in Bandera county, and crops were very short. As a result about all of the hogs in Bandera were sent to market because the farmers had no feed for them. This year our barns are full of oats and corn, but we have no hogs to feed. In a sense this is an unfortunate situation, but from another view-point it is a blessing. For the past seventy years Bandera county has been producing hogs, mostly of the razorback variey. Now the razorbacks are all gone, and our farmers will import good hog stock, with the result that in a year or two thorough-bred hogs will be plentiful in this county.

Buffalo for the Hill Country.

Stamford, Tex., Sept. 24—Four rugged buffalo from a herd of 25 on the R. V. Colbert & Son ranch near Stamford are on their way in padded automobile trucks from here to the Charles Schreiner estate at Kerrville, where they will be placed on a private game preserve.

Guarding the picturesque Plains boasts are three game wardens who will see that they are conducted safely to the Schreiner ranch. The trucks are padded on the sides with excelsior and have four bales of hay on the floor.

The animals are 2-year-olds, three females and one male, from stock originally from Colorado six years ago. They are the first buffalo to be sold by the Colberta, who specialize in Hereford cattle.

The new home of the beasts will be a picturesque section of the Schreiner estate, set aside especially for propagation of wild game.

Mine on Packsaddle Mountain

Just what precious metal may be brought to the surface from the veins of Mother Earth in the gold and silver mine which is now being worked on top of Packsaddle Mountain, is a question that only future development can answer, but that ore running as high as $55 per ton in gold and silver has been discovered in the shaft, is vouched for by the promoters.

W. P. Bankston and G. W. Burton both of Austin and promoters of the project, together with Frank DeWitt, engineer, were hard at work when a party from Llano visited the mining site Monday afternoon.

The mine is situated on the top of the mountain, at the extreme northwest point, and a steep mountain trail leads from the camp site to the shaft. Much difficulty was experienced in pulling the heavy machinery up that mountain side, but it is there, two engines, a hoist, air compressor and other equipment, which the men are using in sinking the shaft, which at present is down about seventy feet, and in which they are following a vein that continues to grow broader as the workmen descend into the earth.

When the shaft was down about four feet a faint vein of ore was discovered, the vein being about one-thirty-seconds of an inch wide; at the bottom of the shaft now, that same streak has widened to about two feet and the miners feel confident it will continue to expand as they penetrate the earth.

The formation in the shaft now is a mixture of limestone and sandstone, with rocks of a hard, yet spongy appearance.

The miners were waiting for machinery Monday afternoon which was expected the next day and work could not be be continued in the shaft until it arrived. As a consequence these men were cleaning out, what they claimed was a natural lead. It was started on the side of the mountain, down some fifteen feet from the top, and was being run back. They had followed this lead back into the mountain some twenty feet up to Monday, and they believe it leads to a cave or old mine, and that this passage was filled in long years ago. There is no doubt about the rock and even dirt in it being loose and easily dug.

There are three old smelters near his mine, and the promoters stated that from one of these smelters 980 pounds of lead and silver had been recovered. Besides the furnaces or smelters, there are many signs which tell of operations there in years long gone by. A cross cut upon a rock, bows and arrows upon trees and other signs, most of which point to one certain location, where the workmen believe the old mine may be, and where the lead they are now working in, seems to go to.

Just what is in this place and what may be discovered, is a question which only an experienced miner could answer, and probably it would be beyond his knowledge, but that the promoters have unlimited faith in the proposition is evidenced by the large amount of money which they have expended and months of hard work done. They have great faith in their undertaking and state that they have struck pockets in the shaft, where the ore ran into the hundreds of dollars, however the pockets have proven to be very small, but the expanding vein added to their faith, and the promoters feel sure they have a mine of untold wealth in gold and silver.

Further developement may be expected soon, when work in the shaft has been resumed.—Llano News.

A TRIBUTE TO BILL WELLS, THE PIONEER

Bill Wells,son of Samuel Wells, was born Aug. 18th, 1857 at Dubuque, Iowa. He was of English-Scotch ancestry. His grandfather fought in the Black Hawk war and was rewarded by a grateful country with a land grant upon which the city of Dubuque now stands.

His father moved with his family to Victoria county, Texas, in 1860. Samuel Wells, just from the North, brought his union principles with him to secession Texas. War broke out the following year. Samuel Wells cursed a Confederate recruiting officer for using abusive language to Mrs. Wells. This led to complications which resulted in the family moving to the Nueces canyon and settling on the west bank of the Main Nueces in what is now Uvalde county, about 100 yards north of the place now known as the Perry Humphrey place. This was in 1864. Bill was then seven.

It is said that environment molds us. This was certainly true in Bill's case. Nature, wild free and unrestrained, was every where in expression. Wild turkeys roamed the valleys, and the beautiful little deer warily moved about the grassy scene, while the brown bear ambled about in apparent indifference to man. Seldom could he leave a deserted thicket until in the immediate presence of the hunter. The bear at that time knew nothing of the hound of which he was to learn so much in a few years. The scream of the panther, the roar of the mountain lion, or the warwhoop of the Apache, were the rude cadences to which his infant ears were attuned. He drank in the wild freedom of his time. Shall we say that the Children of the Mist, whom Scott so vividly portrays, did not again awaken in him? But to their wild love of freedom was added a profound love and concern for his fellow man. At seven, Bill Wells in company with his younger brother, Sam, and armed with a needle gun, brought down his first bear. His elders were incredulous, but Bill led them to his gory victim and all doubt was dispelled. This deed was done without the knowledge or consent of his parents. He and his little brother were alone. How many boys of eleven today would be daring enough for this?

During his sixteenth year, while hunting on the east side of the river from the home above described, in company with another youth of about his age, Indians were encountered. The boys first heard the noise of the Indians' ponies crashing thru the thickets. The Indians were passing on their right thru the timber. The boys could have remained still and they would not have been observed, but Bill's companion protesting, Bill hastened in the direction of the noise with his rifle ready. The Indians were riding rapidly, and it took a breathless chase of several hundred yards before he came to the open gravel bar. The savages were across and about to disappear in the timber on the west bank of the river when Bill's rifle spit flame. This was the Apaches first knowledge of an enemy's presence. All was panic among them. Several more shots from Bill's gun sped among them and heightened their confusion. They whipped and slashed into the timber and sped away toward the west. But they left blood on their trail. And when the settlers pursued later, they found where the tribesmen had halted and tried to stop the flow of blood. There was evidence that the wound was a serious one. The finding of an Indian skeleton on the trail followed on this occasion, a few years later, leaves but small doubt that Bill fired, as usual, with deadly accuracy. His youthful companion fled for home when Bill pursued. The Wells mother was bewailing her son as dead when he entered the cabin.

While lying in wait at a watering place for wild cattle, Bill mistook a mounted Indian in the moonlight for a wild steer and charged him with swinging rope. While dashing thru a small opening he saw his mistake, but nothing daunted, he pursued and roped the man. The Indian instantly slashed the rope and despite a furious pursuit, finally escaped. A companion on this occasion was still living a few years ago.

He later served as a scout to a ranger company. He performed many deeds of daring among them being bear fights at close quarters when the animals were at his gun's muzzle at bay, in caves, often hundreds of feet beneath the ground.

He attended school three months under a tree. From this humble beginning and by scribbling his letters on his leggings for he rode, he learned to read and write. He married Miss Susan Emma Johnson when he was twenty-one. They moved to Uvalde county, Bill Wells' ranch on the head waters of Montel creek in 1880. Wide valleys of fertile land lay everywhere unclaimed but he chose his home where wild game would last the longest. With his wife's assistance, he soon became a fluent reader. He obtained a wide knowledge of history and a deep insight into the current movements of his day. He was a great admirer of Gladstone and Parnell.

His was a whip lash intellect that slashed thru sham and sophistry. He did right thru a simple love of virtue and not thru fear of punishment or hope of reward. He saw as many others with courage have seen, that modern orthodox religion rests upon Egyptian and Chaldean mythology. He had no patience with the restraints which recent church movements sought to place upon his daily life. But no one in distress ever appealed to him in vain. He was ever ready to lay down his life in the cause of humanity.

He lost his beloved wife Feb. 25, 1923.

Bill Wells died at Utopia, Texas, Aug. 30, 1926. He leaves four sturdy sons and three daughters to pass-his torch of life to future times. And shall we say that in them Bill Wells does not live again?

Gasoline Explodes and Destroys Barn

Otto Sprott, living near Tarpley, was badly burned Monday night, when a tank of gasoline exploded. Mr. Sprott was filling his truck with gasoline, preparatory to getting an early start Tuesday morning to do some hauling. He was using a lantern to give light and it is supposed the gasoline became ignited from the lantern. The explosion that resulted was heard several miles around, and the flames were thrown all over Mr. Sprott, and spread to his barn, which with its contents was consumed within a very short while. Mr. Sprott was seriously burned about the body, arms and legs, but will probably recover. Dr. Butler was hastily summoned and gave him all the relief possible.

The barn contained a lot of oats and other feedstuff, a buggy, tractor, seeder, harness, and farm tools, all of which were destroyed. A new Chevrolet car happened to be standing some distance away and was saved. Two good horses were in the lot, and were led out in time to escape the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Holder, of Raymondville, Texas, were visitors in Bandera Monday, and paid this office an appreciated visit.

Auto Collision Near Pipe Creek

W. F. Rippey and son, Glenn, of Mount Sharp, narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday night, when an army truck collided with their Ford car, about a mile this side of Pipe Creek. The army truck was carrying a crowd of young men, soldiers from Kelly Field, who had been to Bandera to play a game of baseball, and was coming around a curve at good speed, with no lights. Just behind the army truck came one or two automobiles with lights. The army truck was on the wrong side of he road, Mr. Rippey says, and when his son, Glenn, who was driving the Ford, saw the truck coming so fast, he turned to the right to avoid a collision and the driver of the truck also turned and the two machines met almost head-on. The Ford was pretty badly smashed, and Mr. Rippey and Glenn received cuts and gashes from windshield glass and other fragments. The Ford went into a shallow ditch but fortunately did not turn over.

School Club Organized

The Medina High School pupils organized a School Club, Tuesday afternoon, September 28, 1926, for the purpose of furnishing school entertainment, also school ground equipment.

The social committee consists of Miss Adell Davis, Miss Leora Bourgiers, and Hough LeStourgeon.

The members showed a great amount of enthusiasm, which shows that are going to put over some good work this term.

Trip to London and Mason.

The New Era editor and son, Marvin Hunter, Jr., and Mrs. Clarence Young and little daughter, Lillie Margaret, went to London last Friday, where Mrs. Young visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer. We were guests at supper Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, and spent the night with our old compadre, French Cummins. Early Saturday morning we went over to a "round" near London and obtained some prehistoric relics, and about 10 o'clock we hit the road for Mason, and spent Saturday afternoon and night with relatives in that city. Sunday morning we returned to London enjoyed a splendid dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer, returning to Bandera in the afternoon. We enjoyed every minute of the visit to London and Mason, transacted some very important business, had fried chicken almost every meal, and came home feeling as if we had been somewhere. The cotton crop around London and Mason is fine this year, but the extremely low price is very discouraging to the farmers there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Engle, Edward Schmidt and Miss Martha Habenicht, of San Antonio, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. A. Habenicht.

Mrs. Burton in Hospital

Mrs. M. P. Burton, wife of the pastor of the Medina Methodist church, is seriously ill with fever at a hospital in San Antonio Monday. We are pleased to learn she is doing very well.

To the Public.

In view of the fact that a report has become current in some manner that I am not qualified to hold the office of County and District Clerk, to which I aspire, I wish to offer the following recommendation from Mr. G. W. Parrish, president of Draughon's Business College:

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 18/26.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to say that Mr. Bernard E. Duke, of Bandera, Texas, was a student in our school several years ago. He was a reliable, honest and faithful worker—always on the job. He studied bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting and related subjects. His college record was satisfactory. Mr. Duke worked before and after school hours and on Saturday in exchange for his room and board, while attending school. This fact stresses his ambition and determination to get ahead. It is our belief that Mr. Duke is capable of doing whatever he may be willing to undertake. We gladly recommend him. Very truly,

G. W. PARISH, President.

I will greatly appreciate your vote in the coming November election.

BERNARD E. DUKE.

Senate Tables Gasoline Measure

Austin, Tex., Oct. 4—The Senate by a vote of 12 to 7, with five pairs late Monday, reconsidered the Stuart resolution, and consideration during the first called session of the 39th Legislature of the Dale 3-cent gasoline tax and the motor fee and all other revenue raising measures, was postponed until the 40th Legislature.

About two hours later the governor issued a statement saying: "I am indeed sorry that the Senate has postponed the consideration of the gasoline tax measure until the 40th Legislature. The House of Representatives realizing the sad plight of the public highways had voted this tax at the regular session and had by an overwhelming majority, again voted the tax at the called session. The Senate by its action in postponing the consideration of the gasoline tax until the 40th Legislature has deprived the counties of the additional revenues which they would have received from the tax on automobiles and will materially affect the development and maintenance of the State highways as a matter of permanent policy, but has made it impossible for the school apportionment for the children of Texas to be increased at this time. The condition of the treasury will not permit of a general appropriation for the schools and the oil companies are now permitted to escape a just tax which the 40th legislature will have to saddle on the backs of the people who own farms, personal property and city real estate if the school term is to be lengthened.

"My heart goes out to the children and I deeply regret the turn affairs have taken."

The statement was interpreted as meaning the Governor will not immediately upon adjournment of this call session, reconvene the Legislature and that she will veto the $2,750,000 appropriation made from the general fund by the Davis Senate bill.

Representative F. A. Dale of Bonham and John Wallace of County, authors of the 3-cent gasoline tax bill and the Senate reduction measure, issued a joint statement declaring:

"This is certainly one time the oil interests have won over the school children of Texas. We do not know which Senators voted for postponement, but suppose the Senate Journal will show, which will be interesting reading to friends of the school children of Texas."

Gasoline Explodes and Destroys Barn

Otto Sprott, living near Tarpley, was badly burned Monday night, when a tank of gasoline exploded. Mr. Sprott was filling his truck with gasoline, preparatory to getting an early start Tuesday morning to do some hauling. He was using a lantern to give light and it is supposed the gasoline became ignited from the lantern. The explosion that resulted was heard several miles around, and the flames were thrown all over Mr. Sprott and spread to his barn, which with its contents was consumed within a very short while. Mr. Sprott was seriously burned about the body, arms and legs, but will probably recover. Dr. Barber was hastily summoned and gave him all the relief possible.

The barn contained a lot of oats and other feedstuff, a buggy, tractor, seeder, harness, and farm tools, all of which were destroyed. A new Chevrolet car happened to be standing some distance away and was saved. Two good horses were in the lot, and were released in time to escape the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Holder, of Raymondville, Texas, were visitors in Bandera Monday, and paid this office an appreciated visit.

Auto Collision Near Pipe Creek

C. W. F. Rippey and son, Glenn, of Mount Sharp, narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday night, when an army truck collided with their Ford car, about a mile this side of Pipe Creek. The army truck was carrying a crowd of young men, soldiers from Kelly Field, who had been to Bandera to play a game of baseball, and was coming around a curve at good speed, with no lights, and behind the army truck came one or two automobiles with lights. The army truck was on the wrong side of the road, Mr. Rippey says, and when his son, Glenn, who was driving the Ford, saw the truck coming so fast, he turned to the right to avoid a collision and the driver of the truck also turned and the two machines met almost head-on. The Ford was pretty badly smashed, and Mr. Rippey and Glenn received cuts and gashes from windshield glass and other bruises. The Ford went into a shallow ditch but fortunately did not turn over.

Mrs. M. P. Burton, wife of the pastor of the Medina Methodist church, underwent an operation at a hospital in San Antonio Monday. We are pleased to learn she is doing very well.

To the Public.

In view of the fact that a report has become current in some manner that I am not qualified to hold the office of County and District Clerk, to which I aspire, I wish to offer the following recommendation from Mr. O. W. Parish, president of Draughon's Business College, San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 18, '26.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to say that Mr. Bernard E. Duke, of Bandera, Texas, was a student in our school several years ago. He was a reliable, honest and faithful worker—always on the job. He studied bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting and related subjects. His college record was satisfactory. Mr. Duke worked before and after school hours and on Saturday in exchange for his room and board, while attending school. This fact stresses his ambition and determination to get ahead. It is our belief that Mr. Duke is capable of doing whatever he may be willing to undertake. We gladly recommend him.

Very truly,
G. W. PARISH, President.

I will greatly appreciate your vote in the coming November election.

BERNARD E. DUKE.

The members showed a great amount of enthusiasm, which shows they are going to put over some good work this term.

Trip to London and Mason.

The New Era editor and son, Marvin Hunter, Jr., and Mrs. Clarence Young and little daughter, Lillie Margaret, went to London last Friday, where Mrs. Young visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer. We were guests at supper Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith, and spent the night with our old compadre, French Cummins. Early Saturday morning we went on a "joy-spin" to London and obtained some prehistoric relics, and about 10 o'clock we hit the road for Mason, and spent Saturday afternoon and night with relatives in that city. Sunday morning we returned to London enjoyed a splendid dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer, returning to Bandera in the afternoon. We enjoyed every moment of the visit to London and Mason, transacted some very important business, had fried chicken almost every meal, and came home feeling as if we had been somewhere. The cotton crop around London and Mason is fine this year, but the extremely low price is very discouraging to the farmers there.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Engle, Edward Schmidt and Miss Martha Habenicht, of San Antonio, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. A. Habenicht.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The Old Time Trail Drivers Reunion is being held at San Antonio today, and will continue over Saturday. A number of Bandera county people are in attendance.

Let's make a public park of our court house square, plant shade and ornamental trees and grow flowers and shrubs. The weeds which grow there now are unsightly and the rich soil which produces them can be used for a more attractive and better purpose.

We are in receipt of a very interesting book, "The Rising and Setting of the Lone Star Republic," just published, and written by Miss Hattie Jackson of San Antonio. It is written in most pleasing style, and is valuable as a supplementary history for use in our public schools, because it contains real Texas history obtained first hand from pioneer men and women of the state. The book was approved by the Text Book Commission appointed by Governor Neff in 1922, and carries the endorsement of many of the prominent educators of the state. Miss Jackson taught in Bandera High School several years ago, and her friends here are pleased to learn that she has at last had her book published. While here she secured much valuable material for the book. The price of "The Rising and Setting of the Lone Star republic" is $2.00 per copy, and it may be obtained by addressing Miss Hattie Jackson, 429 Porter Street, San Antonio, Texas.

"There is a Reason"

Value of the Weekly Newspaper as an Advertising Medium

The tendency of many advertisers to play the daily newspapers and ignore the weeklies, has brought to the front again the ever recurring discussion of the value of the weekly as a medium for profitable and resultgetting advertising. Writing in Editor and Publisher, a newspaper man's publication, Bert Moses takes the ground that National advertisers do not realize the value of the weekly newspaper as an advertising medium. The article by Mr. Moses is prompted by C. P. Rowell's attitude in opposition to the weekly, and after declaring that Rowell is mistaken Mr. Moses continues:

"For let it be here stated still again that the weekly paper is a power in its own territory. Its influence gets to the skies of its readers, and what the editor of the weekly thinks is precisely what most of the folks in his community think. If you doubt this, ask any politician who knows politics. He will tell you that while he does not exactly relish the opposition of the big city daily, he is most anxious not to be opposed by the country editor.

"Rowell's contention that all the weekly's circulation has been small to be effective. Let's say about that. Practically every body in small communities takes the weekly paper, while but a few take a magazine or the big town daily. The weekly covers the territory intensively, whereas the big daily and the magazine scatter like a parcel of boys shooting marbles across the vendable shops up in the city.

"And as the National advertisers spend a big percentage of their appropriations in the big dailies and magazines. This is all right, of course, but the advertiser who thinks he is reaching the country folks when he omits the weeklies needs his mental machinery overhauled.

"There are not so many weeklies as there used to be, but there are a lot more than the dailies. In many cases the good weeklies have gone and not the poor daily has come in. Today in countless small towns little dailies are struggling for existence where weeklies formerly made good money. The poor daily hasn't the power and influence of the good weekly by a long shot, as we would say in Boston, and my choice in such a case would be the weekly to carry my advertising every time."

The publisher of the weekly does more hard work and gets less out of it than any other work I know. He is the balance wheel and safety valve of the neighborhood he serves. His influence is always for the good, and I salute him as Brother. He has my sympathies and is close to my heart.

To make these few remarks for him gives me joy, and if at least monthly the poor cusses in which he is held by National advertisers is the one thought that pushes this pen along.

HERE'S WHY 1926 CIRCUS IS BIGGEST

Ringling Bros. Enlarge Greatest Show On Earth to Deliver Mammoth New York Edifice

A circus so big that it requires two added rings, eight stages, a rubber hippodrome track and a 'loof-long big top to display its marvels is now being built this way. It is the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, to give performances at San Antonio Oct. 15.

The offerings now used have been made necessary to present the added attractions got together in the desire to celebrate the combined shows first appearance in New York's New Madison Square Garden. This edifice is the biggest ever built for circus purposes. To fittingly celebrate it the Ringling Brothers themselves spent months in Europe mobilizing the biggest circus in history. This same show that for weeks entertained New York's millions is now on tour under canvas.

The tournament is as brilliant as in the past but has been enlarged by the addition of such novelties as zebras and llamas broken to harness and attached to gem-studded floats. Wee baby elephants ride at the tops of allegorical cars. The menagerie of more than a thousand animals embraces such features as thirteen elephant youngsters with the smallest stationed side by side with the largest pachyderms in captivity. Another importation is the largest and handsomest tiger of which there is record.

Performing horse acts are now presented in quintet—a troupe in each of the five rings. Those elephants who are performers by year are similar formations—by herds at one time. The number of men and women aerialists, bareback riders, gymnasts and high-wire performers has been increased to eight hundred. There are three hundred of which appear in a single display. One hundred double length cars are required to handle this gigantic amusement enterprise.

BOTH PHONES — BANDERA, TEXAS

Biography of a Bandera County Pioneer.

The following biography of a Bandera county pioneer was written by Miss Lutie Miller, aged 13, seventh grade pupil in Lima school. It was awarded second prize in the Frontier Times history contest at the Bandera County Fair in August, 1924.

Thomas L. Miller was born in Alabama on January 9, 1835. He came from Alabama to Mississippi when he was a small child, and at the age of twenty-one years he came from Mississippi to Texas in 1856. He rode a pony all the way from Mississippi to Texas.

He landed in Blanco County, in 1856, and after landing his first employment was building an old wooden grist mill and cotton gin which was made of timber he cut and hewed. He worked there for about a year.

In 1857 he moved to Kerr County, near where Ingram now is and there engaged in the making of cypress shingles. While making shingles there a company of young men were getting up on the Guadalupe to make a raid on an Indian camp. He was going to join them but he could not find his horse and they left him. The men reached the place and located the Indian camp; then they went in and camped and made preparations to attack the Indians camp early in the morning but the Indians had discovered their presence, and surrounded the white men's camp.

The next morning before daybreak one of the men heard the Indians begin to grow but he did not tell the others about it because he said he was afraid they would be frightened. About the peep of day the Indians ran in on them, and killed one man dead on the ground; one escaped unhurt but all the others were wounded but escaped. Two men were separated from the bunch; one was shot through the neck, and one had a broke leg. The man's neck began to swell so he told the other man he would go and get help but that was the last he ever heard of him. This man stayed three or four days by himself, then he decided no one was coming to his assistance so he crawled on awhile, then cut a forked stick and made a crutch and made his way to my grandfather's shingle camp. He had been ten day's coming and was almost starved to death. He ate wild plums, grapes and wild peaches. My grandfather and another man took him to the settlement and cared for him until he got well.

My grandfather continued making shingles there until 1858, then he came over on the Medina where he made shingles at Medina City, at the mouth of West Prong; later he went over to Bluff, and while he was there a negro slave came to his camp and asked him if he was in Mexico. He said he ran away from his master. Grandfather took him to Bandera and turned him over to the authorities.

Some time later he bought an ox team and began to freight shingles to San Antonio. One time he was coming down the Medina river with a load of shingles and about one mile above Medina he camped for the night. After he camped and got his supper, he heard wolves howling in all directions so he thought it was Indians. He built up a big fire, turned his yoke of oxen loose rolled his bedding up and slipped off about one hundred yards into a thicket, made his bed down and quietly settled down for the night. The next morning he did not get up until the sun was very high. He arose carefully and looked all around and as he did not see any Indians, he rolled up his bedding and went back to the wagon. The Indian's tracks were thick around his wagon but they had not bothered anything. He left there without any breakfast. The first sign he saw of the Indians was where they had killed a cow. He went on down to Bandera and found they had killed stock all the way. The Indians had decided the settlement and drove all the horses away. By the time he reached the settlement, they had mustered men and started in pursuit of the Indians, following up the Medina river to the head waters. At that time the country from there on was unsettled, so they followed them as far as their supply of provisions would permit them. They turned back unsuccessful as they others did. The Indians killed no one on this raid.

He continued to haul shingles to San Antonio for several years and then joined the ranger service in 1860 and served until 1861 when the company he belonged to was discharged owing to the war which came on between the North and South. Then he joined the Southern Army, at Fort Clark. From there he was sent west. His first stop was at Fort Lancaster. There he stayed for eight months. It was on the trip from Fort Clark to Fort Lancaster that the Indians waylaid the mail at Big Head, Devil's River. They had a large skirmish with the Indians and succeeded in driving the Indians away, and destroying the rock wall so they could pass on. While at Fort Lancaster the Indians attempted to take their horses and all their beef cattle and drove them away. They sent 18 white men and one Mexican guide after them, and overtook the Indians but all the white men were killed and the Mexican guide escaped and came back to the company. Twenty men, my grandfather included in the number, were sent in pursuit of these Indians. They were away eighteen days, but could never find them. They had gone to the Guadalupe Mountains where they run out of supplies and for five days had nothing to eat. At last they killed a bob cat and soiled it with parsley which was enjoyed very much. They then went back to Fort Davis and remained several months. From there they were sent to Santa Fe, New Mexico, and remained there until they were given orders to go to Louisiana. This order was made on foot.

Their shoes were worn out and they had no money to buy more so they were forced to go barefooted. About a year later word he war was nearing the close my grandfather obtained some Confederate money and paid $20 for a pair of boots. They were ordered across the Mississippi, but were blockaded by Northern armies.

Grandfather had been in a number of battles and wounded but not seriously. Now they were ordered back to Galveston where they stayed until the close of the war. When he was discharged he came back to Bandera.

Trail Drivers Hold Big Reunion

About 600 members of the Old Trail Drivers' Association attended the reunion at San Antonio last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A good program featured each day's session with a grand ball at night. The ball Friday night was given in the Municipal Auditorium and was attended by about 2,000 people.

The convention ended Saturday with a barbecue in Brackenridge Park, featured by a sitting contest won by H. C. Williams of San Antonio. This contest was open to old traders more than 67 years old. Others who won honors for graceful squatting with their food and eating implements in hand were: Second, Thad Reese, Floresville; third, R. J. Jennings, San Marcos; fourth and fifth, J. N. Goforth and S. D. Houston, San Antonio.

The large steer head donated by Jim Dobie, was won by Ed Nicholson, who promptly gave it back to the Association to be disposed of for the benefit of the monument fund.

The convention authorized W. M. Pearsall, an association member, to appoint a committee of five to make plans for the drive to complete raising $100,000 for a memorial to the old trailers, to be erected. This followed Pain's report of another conference with the Chamber of Commerce.

George W. Saunders of San Antonio, president, and all other officers were reelected. A resolution was adopted endorsing Ike West of San Antonio for State Game, Fish and Oyster Commissioner.

Chaplain J. S. Pearce conducted memorial services for twenty-nine members who have died since the last convention.

Resolutions of regret that illness prevented the attendance of Mrs. Amanda Burks of Cotulla, "queen of the trail drivers," and Charles Goodnight of Goodnight, were adopted.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Walker, of Chalk Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crist of Medina went to Kerrville last Sunday to attend a meeting held at the Church of Christ in that city, by Elder L. V. Nobles of Mason.

Amasa Clark at Sesqui-Centennial

Mr. Chas. Pagan of Railway, New Jersey, writes the New Era from Philadelphia and says: "I am visiting the Sesqui-Centennial. Was very much surprised to see Amasa Clark's photo thrown on the screen in Machinery Hall, Mexican War Veteran." Bandera's oldest citizen has received a great deal of publicity during the past two or three years, and has had his picture in almost every daily newspaper in the United States.

Of Interest to All Voters.

Voting Precinct No. 1 has been divided, now being Nos. 1 and 11. All voters living on the north side of the Medina River to Wilson's Creek, and all residing on the Medina and Bandera road to and through town in Bandera are in Precinct No. 1. And all on the south side of the river to Ranger Crossing and south side of the Medina and Bandera road to and through Bandera are in Precinct No. 11. From Bandera former Precinct No. 1 is divided by the old Castroville road, all on the north side being on Precinct No. 1 and voting at the Court House, and all on the south side being in Precinct No. 11 and will vote at Bandera Public School Building.

150,000 Pounds Fall Mohair Sold

Fred Thalmann, manager of the Bandera County Ranchmen & Farmers' Association, attended the big mohair sale at San Antonio last week and on Friday sold 150,000 pounds of the Association's fall accumulation of mohair at a very satisfactory price. As this was a sealed bid sale we are not permitted to give the price paid per pound, but we understand the deal totals around $100,000. The mohair was bought by L. M. Murphy for S. W. Bridges & Co., of Boston, Mass., and it will be shipped out of the warehouse here tomorrow and Saturday, being hauled by truck from Bandera to Center Point.

F. A. Piper & Co. of Uvalde, also sold about 400,000 pounds of mohair last Friday, but we did not learn the price paid. Two weeks ago Chas. Schreiner Co., of Kerrville, sold about 500,000 pounds at 77 cents per pound, but on last Monday this firm rejected bids on about 700,000 pounds.

The fall wool clip is now coming in rapidly to the warehouse here, there being already about 60,000 pounds stored, and shearing still under way. It is estimated that the fall clip to fall which will come to the warehouse will amount to about 100,000 pounds

Governor Signs Bill to Aid Schools

Austin, Texas, Oct. 10.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson will not reconvene the Thirty-Ninth Legislature for a second call session, she advised friends late Friday. She will sign the $3,500,00 appropriation to the public school fund in order that the per capita apportionment will be increased from $11.50 to $14. and the schools will have long terms and the teachers will receive commensurate salaries, she told her friends.

Gov. Ferguson and her husband former Gov. James E. Ferguson expressed regret to a number of their supporters that the called session did not pass the gasoline tax to insure additional revenue for the schools and the Highway Department, but said that for the school children of Texas Mrs. Ferguson would sign the appropriation bill.

Well Patronized.

The Tarpley Parent-Teachers' Association and Three H Club requests the New Era to extend thanks to all who so liberally patronized their box supper at Tarpley last Friday night. The proceeds realized amounted to $55.40, which will be used for school purposes. Twenty-nine boxes, 29 cakes, a basket of fruit and vegetables, and also ice cream and cake were sold to a large crowd. The P. T. A. and the Three H. Clubs are grateful to all who helped to make the box supper a success, especially to Mr. Willie Sprott for the assistance he rendered.

The Blackett school opened last Monday morning with Miss Ruth McAdams of Lorena, Texas, as teacher. Judge Eames was present and made an interesting talk to the children and parents.

Bandera Voting Precinct Divided

Attention of the voters of this precinct is called to the notice in another column of the New Era to the division of this precinct, it now being Nos. 1 and 11. The voting place in Precinct No. 1 is at the Court House, and the voting place in Precinct No. 1 is at the Bandera High School Building. The dividing line is the Bandera and Medina road where it passes through Bandera to Wilson's Creek, and on the east the Castroville road marks the division.

Rousing Meeting Held Last Night

A rousing meeting was held at the Court House last night, in the interest of increased dairy production. The meeting was arranged by he Mistletoe Creameries of San Antonio, who have recently established a creamery here and at Medina to San Antonio daily. The needs of the farmer, the ranchman and the town individual were set forth in talks that were made at the meeting, and the value of dairy production to the community was made plain. The ready market which has been provided by the establishment of the new milk route, and the convenience which it supplies, should encourage dairy farming all throughout this section. It is a very profitable industry and the only reason it has not been followed to a greater extent here was because of the marketing facilities.

The Mistletoe Creameries displayed some of their products at the meeting and demonstrations were made of the methods of handling and manufacture of its products.

About 600 members of the Old Trail Drivers' Association attended the reunion at San Antonio last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A good program featured each day's session with a grand ball at night. The ball Friday night was given in the Municipal Auditorium and was attended by about 2,000 people.

The convention ended Saturday with a barbecue in Brackenridge Park, featured by a sitting contest won by H. C. Williams of San Antonio. This contest was open to old trailers more than 67 years old. Goforth and S. D. Houston, San Antonio.

The large steer head donated by Jim Doble, was won by Ed Nicholson, who promptly gave it back to the Association to be disposed of for the benifit of the monument fund.

The convention authorized W. M. Fain, Pearsall, an associate member, to appoint a committee of five to make plans for the drive to complete raising $100,000 for's memorial to the old trailers, to be erected. This followed Fain's report of another conference with the Chamber of Commerce.

Chaplain J. S. Pearce conducted memorial services for twenty-nine members who have died since the last convention.

Resolutions of regret that illness prevented the attendance of Mrs. Amanda Burks of Cotulla, "Queen of the trail drivers," and Charles Goodnight of Goodnight, were adopted.

Was very much surprised to see Amasa Clark's photo thrown on the screen in Machinery Hall, Mexican War Veteran." Bandera's oldest citizen has received a great deal of publicity during the past two or three years, and has had his picture in almost every daily newspaper in the United States.

Of Interest to All Voters.

Voting Precinct No. 1 has been divided, now being Nos. 1 and 11. All voters residing on the north side of the Medina River to Wiman's Creek, and all residing on the Medina and Bandera road to and through the town of Bandera are in Precinct No. 1. And all on the south side of the river to Ranger Crossing and south side of the Medina and Bandera road to and through Bandera are in Precinct No. 11. From Bandera former Precinct No. 1 is divided by the old Castroville road, all on the north side being in Precinct No. 1 and voting at the Court House, and all on the south side being in Precinct No. 11 and will vote at Bandera Public School Building.

150,000 Pounds Fall Mohair Sold

Fred Thalmann, manager of the Bandera County Ranchmen & Farmers' Association, attended the big mohair sale at San Antonio last week and on Friday sold 150,000 pounds of the Association's fall accumulation of mohair at a very satisfactory price. As this was a sealed bid sale we are not permitted to give the price paid per pound, but we understand the deal totals around $100,000. The mohair was bought by L. M. Murphy for S. W. Bridges & Co., of Boston, Mass., and it will be shipped out of the warehouse here tomorrow and Saturday, being hauled by truck from Bandera to Centre Point.

F. A. Piper & Co. of Uvalde, also sold about 400,000 pounds of mohair last Friday, but we did not learn the price paid. Two weeks ago Chas. Schreiner Co., of Kerrville, sold about 500,000 pounds at 67 to 77 cents per pound, but we understand this firm rejected bids on about 700,000 pounds.

The fall wool clip is now coming in rapidly to the warehouse here, being already about 60,000 pounds stored, and shearing still under way. It is estimated that the wool clip his fall which will come to the warehouse will amount to about 100,000 pounds.

Governor Signs Bill to Aid Schools

Austin, Texas, Oct. 10.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson will not reconvene the Thirty-Ninth Legislature for a special call session, she advised friends late Friday. She will sign the $3,500,00 appropriation to the public school fund in order that the per capita apportionment will be increased from $11.50 to $14, and the schools will have long terms and the teachers will receive commensurate salaries, she told her friends.

Gov. Ferguson and her husband former Gov. Mouse R. Ferguson expressed regret to a number of their supporters that the called session did not pass the gasoline tax to insure additional revenue for the schools and the Highway Department, but said that for the school children of Texas Mrs. Ferguson would sign the appropriation bill.

Well Patronized.

The Tarpley Parent-Teachers Association Home Economics Club requests the New Era to extend thanks to all who so liberally patronized their box supper at Tarpley last Friday night. The proceeds realized amounted to $55.40, which will be used for school purposes. Twenty-nine boxes, two cakes, a basket of fruit and vegetables, and also ice cream and cake were sold to a large crowd. The P. T. A. and the Three H. Club are grateful to all who helped to make the box supper a success, especially to Mr. Willie Sprott for the assistance he rendered.

The Blackett school opened last Monday morning with Miss Ruth McAdams of Lorena, Texas, as teacher. Judge Eames was present and made an interesting talk to the children and parents.

Bandera Voting Precinct Divided

Attention of the voters of this precinct is called to the notice in another column of the New Era relative to the division of this precinct, it now being Nos. 1 and 11. The voting place in Precinct No. 1 is at the Court House, and the voting place in Precinct No. 11 is at the Bandera High School Building. The dividing line is the Bandera and Medina road where it passes through Bandera to Wiman's Creek, and on the east the Castroville road marks the division.

Rousing Meeting Held Last Night

A rousing meeting was held at the Court House last night, in the interest of increased dairy production. The meeting was arranged by he Mistletoe Creameries of San Antonio, who have recently established a sweet milk route from Medina to San Antonio daily. The needs of the farmer, the ranchman and the town individual were set forth in talks that were made at the meeting, and the value of dairy production to the community was made plain. The ready market which has been provided by the establishment of the new milk route, and the convenience which it supplies, should encourage dairy farming throughout this section. It is a very profitable industry and the only reasonit has not been followed to a greater extent here was because of the marketing facilities.

The Mistletoe Creameries displayed some of their products at the meeting, and demonstrations were made of the methods of handling and manufacture of its products.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Frontier Times will be issued from the press this week. This will be the november number, and it will, as usual, be a good one. Frontier Times is a monthly magazine devoted to frontier history, not particularly Bandera history but history from all over Texas. The narratives appearing therein are true and thrilling enough for anybody to read. There are hundreds of people right here in Bandera county who should take Frontier Times, not because we ask them to, but for the real True as history it gives.

Those people in the world who are industrious and are working at something constructive and worth while are, speaking generally, content. We hear a great deal in those modern times of dissatisfaction, discontent and so-called unhappiness. This feeling is contagious and is acquired by many who would otherwise be contented if it were not for the great army of malcontents in this country who "toil not neither do they spin" but give their time to spreading discontent. They may not do it maliciously or knowingly but a word here and there and by thousands throughout the whole country is quite a force. Make a practice of boosting others instead of discrediting them. Work has to be acquired by your own labors the things that others have that you would like to have, instead of sitting by idly and expressing envy to the public. If our cerities were sincere and would give a constructive remedy for faults they find and if all criticisms were offered by those who practice industry this would be a far more pleasant world to live in and contentment would be universal. And another fairy story that could be rue except for human nature; all each of us can do is our part.—Anonymous.

Two Taylor ladies were badly bitten by as many dogs on one day this week. This reminds us that a good citizen in Williamson county a short time ago asked if it would be possible to impress upon the members of the State legislature the importance of doing something to eradicate the dog evil. This particular gentleman is a sheepman and stated that stray dogs or rather "hungry" dogs belonging to people who would not feed them" had killed during the past two years fully forty head of his fine sheep and goats. Other raisers suffer equally as much as he, for many have reported these losses from time to time. Another sin of these dogs is he running down and killing of deer. This has also been reported. Under the law an owner is responsible for his dog and it is a violation of law to kill deer out of season, so it might be that a good stiff fine placed on an owner of two would help some in this connection. However the question of ownership and responsibility for dogs is a serious one. An hundred ease of men and women and especially children being bitten by rabid dogs have been reported in these columns this year and that alone is sufficient to cause legislative consideration. The killing of stock by a band of blood-thirsty and hungry dogs is another incentive for action. A blanket tax of ten or fifteen dollars per head with a graduated increase for line ones, might be the solution. Whatever the remedy is it should be applied. The danger of one child being the victim of the terrible malady of rabies is another sufficient cause for action.—Georgetown Sun.

About Dancing

Some of our exchanges are devoting space to the question of newspapers carrying advertisements for dances and moving picture shows. If the advertisements are decent we can them in this paper as we run other advertisements that our readers pay for. Since the country existed there has been dancing and for us to announce a dance is no worse than the Bible has announced for it states that when the prodical son returned home they gave him a barbecue and a dance. We don't believe in the way some dances are conducted. There is drinking by the young people that is wrong. But we are not saying that this occurs at all dances and that many splendid people do not dance. In fact, at the annual ball we it looks to us like a great part of Texas' leading people, both men and women, participated and the same in every state, we suppose.

There are so many things that appear to us to be more important if we could reform. One church may condemn dancing and another of the same denomination say nothing and perhaps they may use funds furnished by the sale of refreshments to the dancers. Another may be selling moving picture tickets through the week for a show Sunday night. Perhaps some of its members may be guilty of gambling for prize packages drawing for prizes at raffles and so on. Yes, there are lots of inconsistencies when we come to denouncing dancers, patrons of moving pictures and gambling. If a Christian gets the right idea of righteousness these things will not trouble him. However, while the preacher is denouncing these common failings, let him take a shot once in a while at some of the commandments such as stealing, bearing false witness, murder and covetousness. The Bible does not condemn dancing or looking at pictures by name, but it is very emphatic in saying that a man who does not love his brothe is a liar and headed for hell. It is also very plain on selfishness, self praise, unkindness, lack of charity and many other common Christian virtues. Yes, there is so much mentioned very specifically that should be done in every day life but which is sadly neglected. Christianity is a big subject and not everyone that has a name on a church roll qualifies.—Uvalde Leader-News.

Frio County Fair.

The Sixth Annual Frio County Fair to be held at Pearsall from Oct. 20 to 23rd, inclusive, according to reports reaching us, is to be the largest Fair ever staged in this section.

Splendid exhibits of livestock, poultry, etc, will be shown, and it is expected that this community will be represented with a good share of the finest.

The racing program will feature some of the best horses in this section. Every fan should be present to see the tape pulled and follow his favorite through the entire number of races.

Football will be played three days of the Fair. The snappy Pearsall team will play Devine on the 21st and Poteet on the 23d. Pleasanton and Cotulla are slated to match strength on Friday the 22nd. Football fans from Bandera should see this splendid array of youth during the Frio Fair.

For the children the directors of the Frio Association have arranged a gorgeous display of fire works. This will also be interesting to the grown ups. And if you have not had the pleasure of witnessing an aerial bombardment of the "starry sky," see fullisad of cracking, bursting, whizzing rockets, at Pearsall Friday night, the 22nd.

The GIG FREE barbecue, band concerts, exhibits and other features assures you of your money's worth. Let's all go!

Biography of a Bandera County Pioneer.

The following biography of a Bandera County pioneer was written by Miss Rachel Hunter, age 16, eleventh grade pupil in Bandera High School. It was awarded first prize in the history contest of the Bandera County Fair in August, 1926.

Mrs. Annie E. Brown.

Many travellers have been attacted, many privations endured, many dangers expressed during this long span of years-three-quarters of a century. The rising generation ought to know and should know something of the cost of the blessings we today enjoy, and it is the purpose of this Biography of Mrs. Annie E. Brown to relate the story of a great history of this gold pioneer, and tell of the sacrifices she made in order to help to redeem this great land from the hands of the roving bands of Indians who had always claimed it.

Mrs. Annie E. Brown was born in Tullahatchie, Pontotoc Parish, Louisiana, in 1838. Her father was a slave-holder and owned an interest in a steamboat. Then in the year 1840 her mother died. She was four years old. Her father died three years later She received her education in a plantation home, having private tutors who taught English, arithmetic, reading, writing, reading, French and music. Public schools in the South at that time were few and scarce and poorly attended, hence people keeding tutors or sending to boarding schools.

When she was eighteen years old she went to live with relatives in Alexandria, La. While at Alexandria she met Mr. Brown who was a native of Kentucky. In 1856. At this time Mr. Brown was a clerk in a 5¢ dollar house in the evenings, but growing tired of the work and the country being in a state of turmoil and on the verge of a war, they decided to go to California. When they reached Austin they learned that they could not go to California via El Paso on account of hostile Indians. They rested in Austin a few days where Mrs. Brown stayed for about five months, while Mr. Brown went to San Antonio to seek employment.

While Mrs. Brown was waiting in her room a stranger suddenly appeared and addressed her in German. She replied she could not talk German. However, He then offered in such and sold English as "I can talk as good English as you." Mrs. Brown thought he was crazy and went to call for her landlady and returned to find the stranger down her baby with a knife in his hand. He just stood, with the mission of life and death angels for God." Her landlady answered and said, "You cannot make angels unless you have wings." Then the stranger told her he was engaged in selling the escaped and hid in an arroyo, and not finding them he went on to the post and towards a San Antonio. It was learned later that he was caught and sent back to the insane asylum and died there.

While living in Austin at the Free river, Mr. Brown became acquainted with a Mr. Woodward who owned a place on the Medina right miles from Castroville. Mr. Brown went there, where they were able to exchange corn, meal and other products for provisions and dry goods.

Later Mr. Brown rented a farm with some German boys but they became discontented and moved to Dunlap. Here Mrs. Brown was near that of "Big Foot" Wallace, and they became fast friends. One morning after Mr. Brown had made a trip to San Antonio, one of their neighbors came over, saying his horse had gotten away. Mr. Brown went with him to get the horse but found the night before, and a short distance from the house they found a mule with three arrows sticking in his body. Later they never found the horses for the Indians had taken them away.

Some time after this, two of their neighbors went out hunting on Black Creek and were killed by Indians.

Times became dull, and Mr. Brown, failing to secure work in San Antonio went to Fort Worth, Texas, where he was stricken with typhoid fever, and died.

On November 25, 1876, she and her children started to Bandera during a "norther." Times were very hard at first, but the 1880's and 90's Mrs Brown was engaged to take care of a Mrs Ellis who was and invalid. The following spring she was employed at the Maverick ranch, where she remained three years. From here she went to San Antonio to nurse. Some of the doctors she nursed under during her 30 years of nursing were Dr. Hertf, Dr. Cupples, Dr. Jones and Drs. Kingsley. She made several trips to Boerne to nurse, going by the old stage coach. She also nursed in Kerrville under Dr. Palmer. While nursing in Del Rio she was in a terrific storm, which wrecked a new Episcopal church and severely damaged it. While caring for her patients during the storm, Mrs. Brown discovered her back, which she received in nursing for "Apostles' Clock," while in Boerne. From there they went to Austerlahn, a beautiful city at the foot of the Alps. Here they spent two months. Upon learning that Mr. Terrell was to be transferred to Russia, she asked to be released so that she could return home. After returning and remaining in Bandera for some time, she the went to Eagle Pass to do nursing, and made several trips into Mexico. On one of her trips to Monclova she was in a rail road wreck, but escaped uninjured.

Growing tired of nursing, she returned to Bandera county to take care of her cattle and follow the occupation once more. Mrs Brown has seen Southwest Texas and Bandera county change from a wilderness to a land of cultured people who own automobiles take the place of the prairie schooners, has lived through five wars, including the great World War, and has seen the changes the women owed to hand, but Mrs. Brown was among the few fortunates—she had a right to vote. There she was also raised in the open fire place.

Mrs. Brown is now nearing her eighty-eighth birthday and has seen many great changes, for from many to nation. The struggle and progress and the indomitable pluck of this early settler of Bandera county will be a priceless heritage of our children to the remotest generation.

She now lives in Tarpley, Texas.

Many tragedies have been enacted, many privations endured, many changes experienced during this busy span of years-three-quarters of a century. The rising generation ought to know and should know something of the cost of the blessings we today enjoy, and it is he purpose of this Biography of Mrs. Annie E. Brown to place on record a correct history of this gold pioneer, and tell of the sacrifices she made in order to help to redeem this great land from the hands of the roving bands of Indians who had always claimed it.

Mrs. Annie E. Brown was born in Tribbletville, Concha Parish, Louisiana, in 1838. Her father was a slave-holder and owned an interest in a steamboat company. Her mother died when she was four years old. Her father died three years later. She received her education in a plantation home, having private tutors who taught English, arithmetic, spelling, writing, reading, history and Latin. At this time Mr. Brown was a clerk in a wholesale house in Shreveport, but growing tired of civilization and the country being in a state of turmoil and on the verge of civil war, they decided to go to California. When they reached Austin they learned that they could not go to California via El Paso on account of hostile Indians. They went to Castroville, where Mrs. Brown stayed for about five months, while Mr. Brown went to San Antonio to seek employment.

One day while Mrs. Brown was sitting in her room a stranger who suddenly appeared and addressed her in German. She replied she could not speak that language. He then uttered an oath and said, "I can talk as good English as you." Mrs. Brown thought she must look and went to call her landlady and returned to find this stranger over her baby with a rock in his hand. He said, "My mission in life is to make angels for God." Her landlady answered and said, "You cannot make angels unless you first make a sacrament." While he was engaged in eating they escaped and fled to an arroyo, and not finding them he went down the road towards San Antonio. It was learned later that he was caught and sent back to the insane asylum and died there.

While hunting lie eggs on the Frio river, Mr. Brown became acquainted with a Mr. Woodward who owned a place on the Medina eight miles from Castroville. They later moved there, where they were able to exchange corn, meat and other products for provisions at the store.

Afterward Mr. Brown rented a farm with some German boys but they became disgusted and moved to Boerne. Their new home was near that of "Big Foot" Wallace, and they became fast friends. One morning after Mr. Brown had made a trip to San Antonio, one of their neighbors came over, saying his horse had gotten away. Mr. Brown went with him to get the horse he had used the night before, and a short distance from the house they found a knife with three arrows sticking in his body. They never found the horses for the Indians had taken them away.

She also nursed in Kerrville under Dr. Palmer. While nursing in Del Rio she was in a terrible storm, which wrecked a new Episcopal church and several homes. While caring for her patients during the storm, Mrs. Brown dislocated her back, which prevented her from nursing for several years.

When E. H. Terrell, of San Antonio, was appointed minister to Belgium by President Harrison, Mrs. Brown was engaged to accompany them as nurse and companion. She saw the famous "Lily of Israel," and also the "Apostles' Clock," while in Berne. From there they went to Asteerdim, a beautiful city at the foot of the Alps. Here they spent two months. Upon learning that Mr. Terrell was to be transferred to Russia, she asked to be released as then she could return home. After returning and remaining in Bandera for some time, she went to Eagle Pass to do nursing, and made several trips into Mexico. On one of her trips to Mendeva she was in a rail road wreck, but escaped unhurt.

Growing tired of nursing, she returned to Bandera county to take care of her cattle and follow nursing once more. Mrs Brown has seen Southwest Texas and Bandera county change from a wilderness to a land of cultured homes; has seen automobiles take the place of the prairie schooners, has lived through five wars, including the great World War.

In those days the women sewed by hand, but Mrs. Brown was among the few fortunate to own a sewing machine. They also cooked in the open fire place.

Mrs. Brown is now nearing her eighty-eighth birthday and in so many great changes, far too many to mention. The struggle and progress and the indominable pluck of this early settler of Bandera county will be the priceless heritage of our children to the remotest generation.

The Old Family Churn

(By Jos Sampleton)

I have never tried to churn but once in my life, and I went immediately into printer quarters to explain. That has left me out of it in my speech on cold mornings. I never saw a churn churn only but what I have still had desires to throw it over a back fence.

Young man, let me warn you against the churn as you would against the devil. I was two or three hankering fool when I first allowed myself to be induced to churn. I was induced to churn by the girl I was then trying to make love to, and I was a fool for doing it. I was a fool for doing it because I was trying to make love to the girl, and I was a fool for trying to make love to the girl because I was a fool. I was a fool for doing it because I was a fool. I was a fool for doing it because I was a fool. I was a fool for doing it because I was a fool.

I was a fool for doing it

Mrs. Ivy Rugh Bass.

Mrs. Ivy Rugh Bass died at a hospital in San Antonio last Saturday morning of pneumonia after an illness of only a few days. Funeral services were conducted in San Antonio Sunday afternoon by Rev. Paul B. Kern, pastor of the Travis Park Methodist church after which the remains were brought to Bandera for interment in Bandera cemetery, Rev. B. J. Gossett conducting the service at the grave.

Mrs. Bass, nee Miss Ivy Rugh, was born in Bandera October 8, 1864, and was raised here. For a number of years she was a teacher in Bandera schools, and for the past 21 years she was a teacher in the San Antonio public schools. She was married to C. W. Bass, who died in 1895. She is survived by one brother, Charles Rugh of Bandera, and one sister, Mrs. M. R. Huffmeyer of San Antonio.

The news of the death of this good woman came as a great shock to her many friends in Bandera, for she was known and loved by all of our people. Although she made her home in San Antonio, where she was actively engaged in teaching, she often visited Bandera, where she was always treated of a cordial welcome. Her whole life was one of usefulness and service for others, and she will long be remembered kindly by those who knew her and loved her. To the bereaved brother and sister the New Era extends condolence and sympathy in this hour of their great sorrow.

May Write Name on Ballot.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 26—A voter may mark out all the names printed on the official general election ballot for any particular office, and write in the name of any person he may care to vote for, the Attorney General's Department Tuesday advised F. H. Alexander, Dallas County judge.

Other points set forth in the letter written by L. C. Sutton, Assistant Attorney General, follow:

"If a voter marks out all names that are printed on the official ballot for any office and writes in the name of a person in two or more precincts, the name should be counted one time for the person voted for; where a person's name appears more than one time on the ballots of persons writing the name of some person more than one time, this is equivalent to voting for one person one time, and the vote should be counted for him regardless of political party; if the voter mispells the name of a person, the election judges will do the best they can in ascertaining what person was voted for.

"The intention of the voter is what governs, and if his intention can be ascertained from the ballot, the vote should be counted accordingly," Sutton wrote. "All of the foregoing is in keeping with the doctrine which is well settled that the pursose of our election is to ascertain the will of the voter and a ballot is to be interpreted just as any other written instrument with a view of giving effect to the intention of the voter if possible.

"Of course if the ballot is so confused or mutilated that the intention is not expressed, then there is nothing to do but throw out the ballot."

DON'T Tie their wings.
DON'T Load large and small turkeys together.
DON'T Load loose in wagon or truck bed; have partitions.
DON'T Overcrowd your load, and above all things
DON'T Crowd your turkeys in a space they can't stand in. This kind of loading damages more turkeys than anything else.
DON'T Catch with dog or shoot.
PAY ATTENTION to these Don'ts. You will have fewer number twos and get more money.

When Marketing Sell only your large fat turkeys. Keep the late hatched, undersized ones at home; these will develop for the Christmas trade, bring you full price. besides help the market. Use good sense in marketing and you are sure of good prices for this year's crop even though reports indicate a good crop over the entire United States and Canada.

Quality is going to control the market. If it is loade with undersized, half fat birds you will see disaster. Sell your fat ones, keep your poor ones and be sure you see us before you sell.

What Was It?

The father had come to the commencement exercises and the son was showing him the students.

"See that heavy set fellow by the pump?" said the boy as they passed through the campus.

"Yes, who's he?" responded the father with commendable curiosity.

"He's our champion football kicker; and the one he's talking to leads the record in baseball."

"Ah! And who's the tall chap with latern jaws"

"That's our champion tennis player. Nobody in the state can swing a racket in the same atmosphere he does."

"Proud of him, I suppose," ventured the father.

"You bet we are, and so we are of the dark haired fellow down by the gate. He's our crack oarsman and bat all around g'mnast." Rare combination but he's a corker, is Jimmie," and the son threw a kiss to Jimmie

"By the way," inquired the father, "who is the valedictorian of the class this year?"

The son looked at the father questioningly.

"Valedictorian?" he asked with a puzzled look.

"Yes, valedictorian' repeated the father.

"And what's that, I'd like to know!" came from the son next, and the father went right down to the first train and got on board.—Detroit Free Press

VANDERPOOL

This portion of the country is receiving bountiful showers which keeps the small grain, weeds and grass in splendid growing condition.

The many friends of R. H. Thompson are delighted to learn of his doing so well since undergoing another serious operation. Grave concern was felt for him for some forty-eight hours afterwards.

Celebrates 78th Birthday.

Uncle John Pyka celebrated his 78th birthday at his home across the river last Sunday. While nothing had been said to him previously about a birthday celebration of any kind, Uncle John suspected that something was "in the wind" from certain signs in the kitchen of his home, but he kept mum. Sunday, when his children began to come in his suspicions were confirmed. A splendid dinner was spread at 4 o'clock on a long table in the dining room, and when it was announced Mr. and Mrs. Pyka were placed at the head of the table side by side, with the children and grandchildren and two or three invited friends at the sides of the table. It was a great feast with all kinds of tempting dishes ready for serving. Prominent on the table were two immense birthday cakes, the largest one adorned with 78 candles. Uncle John cut the cakes, and after the candles were lighted he was bidden to blow them out, and he did so with one blow. Following the feast Mr. Pyka was presented with a fine suit of clothes by his children, the presentation being made by J. Marvin Hunter, the New Era editor, on behalf of the children. All of Mr. and Mrs. Pyka's eleven children were present on this happy occasion to wish the venerable father many 'more birthdays. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Knapick, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pyka, Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Pyka, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Pyka, Mrs. F. Franklin, Mrs. T. E. Gollihar, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Brown, Ben Pyka, Gilbert Pyka, Gerrys Pyka, John Pyka, Jr., Misses Anna Pyka, Stella Pyka, Gladys Pyka, Violet Pyka, Lucille Pyka, and Cecilia Pyka, and J. Marvin Hunter and N. H. Rose were also there to wish Mr. Pyka many happy returns of the day.

After the feast, Mr. and Mrs. Pyka and their children were grouped together and Mr. Rose made a photograph of them. Both of the children and grandchildren were photographed.

Uncle John Pyka came to Bandera seventy years ago, and has remained right here during all of these years. Fifty years ago he was married, and he and his good wife only recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They have raised a family of eleven children, most of whom live in San Antonio now, and these children occupy useful stations in life. Uncle John, as he is affectionately called by all who know him, has lived a quiet life, law-abiding and peaceable with his fellow man. He has been a good citizen of the community, and the New Era joins his hundreds of friends in the wish that he will be spared to us many more years.

Car Wreck.

Two Ford cars, one driven by Foster Howland and the other driven by Earl Jones, collided on the highway between town and Mansfield Park last Friday night. Both cars were considerably damaged, but the occupants escaped injury.

Football Next Thursday.

The game of football between Comfort and Boerne teams, to be played next Thursday afternoon at Mansfield Park, promises to be the big sporting event of the season. Both teams are composed of good players, and have been contesting for a victory for some time, but it seems that they have played to a tie each time. W. E. Mansfield, owner of Mansfield Park, is making preparations for the large crowd which is expected to be in attendance. The football game starts at 2 o'clock p. m. and after it is over a steer riding and roping contest will be staged. At night an old time dance will be given in the exhibit hall. Everybody welcome. You are invited to bring your supper and camp on the grounds. A hamburger stand will be in operation to supply those who do not bring supper.

Christmas Issue.

The New Era is planning to get out a big Christmas edition December 23rd. Within a few days our representative will call on the business firms of Bandera and submit styles and of the proposed edition. We hope every business firm in this town will be represented in its columns. Think over the matter and when our representative calls on you be ready to take liberal space in the big edition.

A Birthday Celebration.

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. J. M. Gentry, the president, on last Thursday, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Margaret Fund, a fund given the Baptist women of the South maintain for the education of foreign missionaries' children. On entering each woman was presented with a streamer of white with the letters M. F. in lavender. The rooms were artistically decorated in the W. M. U. colors, lavender and white. After a splendid program, led by Mrs. Agnes Carroll, the guests were invited to enter the dining room to partake of delicious refreshments of cake and cocoa. On the table was a lovely birthday cake with the ten candles burning. A free will offering was made amounting to $5.00. Those present were: Mesdames R. N. Hicks, Agnes Carroll, H. G. Johnson, J. E. Chisum, J. H. Erwin, Billy Burns, J. Brewer, C. H. Mansfield, W. R. Fletcher, W. J. Davenport, Jr., L. Mansfield, F. M. Mansfield, J. R. Price, G. S. Lane, A. Meadows and J. M. Gentry.

I am grateful to all of my friends who gave me such a flattering vote in my race for County District Clerk, and I take this means of extending my sincere thanks to one and all. I wish to assure them that I will do my best to discharge the duties of the office to which I have been elected in a manner satisfactory to all.

Entertainment at Pipe Creek.

Last Friday night an entertainment and box supper was given by the Pipe Creek school. Despite the rainy weather, $28.25 was realized, which will be used for interior decoration of the school house. Judge J. A. Eames of Bandera and Mr. Hand of San Antonio delivered good talks on school lines, and everybody who attended greatly enjoyed the entertainment.

Mrs. W. S. Ethridge returned Monday from San Antonio where she spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Ira L. Wright. She reports a very delightful visit.

Fine rains, and they came slowly and soaked into the ground, during this week. The small grain crop has a good start and the range will also be benefitted by the moisture.

Bandera county stockmen and farmers are enjoying the winter in splendid shape. Good range, plenty of feed stuff, and stock all in good condition. Old Bandera county cannot be surpassed any way.

Bandera will celebrate Armistice Day, by staging a football game at Mansfield Park next Thursday afternoon, followed by riding and roping contest, and an old time dance at the exhibit hall that night. Comfort and Boerne teams will play football, and there is considerable interest being taken in the outcome of the game, when these teams have tied in former contests.

The election is now over; the newly elected officers will take the oath of office early in January, and the old world will wag right along. You may feel disappointed because your favorite did not win, but think of his disappointment and cheer up. We have lost our vote several times and thought sure the country would go to the bow wows, but from some cause or other it didn't go, and really seemed to forge ahead. Let's talk about better roads and better schools now, until another election rolls around.

N. H. Rose, the photographer, came up from San Antonio Saturday and remained over Sunday with the New Era editor and family. Mr. Rose is a friend who "sticketh closer than a brother." In our early childhood days he was our playmate and companion; we went to school together, and thirty-six years ago when we broke into a printing office to learn the great "art preservative of all arts," Noah Rose worked right along with us for a few years. Later he forsook the printing office to take up photography, and business followed that game. For about fifteen years he operated a studio in Del Rio; he has made photos for thousands of people in all walks of life, from beggers to presidents, and is now engaged in collecting photos of notable frontier characters, and in that collection is to be found many old men and women who helped to make Texas history. In our home there is always a welcome for this tried and true friend, and his coming is always hailed with delight.

IN 1869 WE STARTED IN BUSINESS IN A SMALL WAY. OUR BUSINESS HAS INCREASED WITH LEAPS and BOUNDS, AND WE NOW PROBABLY THE LARGEST RETAIL STORE IN TEXAS. NEARLY SIXTY YEARS WITHOUT A FAILURE.

"There is a Reason"

The kids of the town, without any regard whatever for the proprieties, proceeded to turn things wrong side out last Sunday night, playing Halloween pranks. When Gid Lane came down to his barber shop Monday morning he was surprised to find his place of business occupied by a bull calf bellowing for a shave; signs had been swapped around until it looked as if several of the business houses had moved quarters; a yard gate was seen dangling from the flag-pole at the school house, and many other signs bore evidence that the "ghosts" had been abroad while unsuspecting folks slept. No serious damage is reported however, and everybody seemed to take the pranks in good spirits. And this brings on a little meditation. Remember, old friend, how we, thirty-five or forty years ago, used to sneak out when Pa and Ma were in bed and dreaming of the golden future of their young hopefuls, us boys whom they expected to become preachers or presidents, how we would crawl out through a back window and join the waiting gang to go on just such a hoodlum raid. Perhaps it was a chicken roost, or a watermelon patch, or maybe it was a shindig over in the next neighborhood. Many a bit of deviment we got into that if the "old man" had ever suspected that we were into it you know how he would have called us out to the barn and with a brake-strap or a pair of bridle reins he would make us dance a step that would beat the Charleston or Black Bottom any time. Kids are pretty much the same now as they were then; they are full of deviment and mischeviness just the same as we were, and it keeps us guessing how to reform them. The elm switch, the bridle rein, the wet rope, have all gone the way of other modes of punishment and are now rarely used, but the kids do just as well without being beaten brutally. Sometimes, we may be tempted to resort to the old measures, but we don't, and that's that. Let them have a good time if they can, and later on in life they will get well paid for all the deviltment they do when they raise children of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Paine, Jr. and daughter hurriedly departed for Houston last week in response to a message that Mr. Paine's mother had been seriously hurt in an automobile accident, and on arriving found his mother's leg was broken and otherwise bruised but not seriously hurt and her early and complete recovery is anticipated, in fact we are glad to state.—Boerne Star.

A Bandera Girl.

The New Era is always proud of the achievement or accomplishment of any Bandera-raised boy or girl. This town has several boys and girls who have gone out into the world and made good and now occupy high places in the affairs of the State and Nation and in the commercial and professional world. Among these is Miss Eva Thallman, at present chief dietician in the General Hospital at Boston, Massachusetts. We have before us the printed program of the Ninth Annual Meeting of the American Dietetic Association, October 11, 12, 13, 1926, at The Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City, New Jersey. Miss Thallman presided in the Education Section on October 13th, the third day of the meeting. In a letter to her sister, Mrs. Chas. Eckhart, she stated that she had a splendid time at the convention. She also visited New York and other places of note. Miss Thallman's many friends here will be pleased to know she is doing well in her New England home.

It all Depends on Whose "Ox is Gored"

The best way for a man to learn the disposition of the people of his town is to try publishing a newspaper.—McKinney Courier-Gazette.

One thing a newspaper man soon learns about folks is that they are inordinately selfish. If there is anything flattering to be said about them they like for newspapers to "play it on" lavishly; but let something come up that, for some fancied reason they do not care to see in print, and they are ready to use their "influence" to keep it out of the paper. Threat of withdrawal of patronage is a frequent weapon resorted to. A newspaper is not responsible for what takes place. If a person commits a crime and is arrested, or figures in an accident or in some other way shows up in the news, the newspaper is not responsible. A real newspaper is only a mirror reflecting the happenings of the community which it serves, and if a person's reflection appears in that mirror he or she is not to blame. Often requests to "please leave out my name" were acceded to, it would be a haggled sort of newspaper that would be printed, and if any person's name is used, by every reason of fairness, other folks names should be used likewise. One of the hardest things a newspaper man faces in that of refusing requests, especially of personal friends, not to print an item of news that for reason they fear—but he frequently has it to do.—Denton Record Chronicle.

The Tale of a Horse.

There once was a French scientist who bought a horse. Each day he reduced slightly the food given him. This progressed for several weeks and the experiment bid fair to be a great success, but just as the point was reached where no feed was given, the horse died.

We occasionally encounter an advertiser who seems to be trying this same old experiment. He has a thriving business which he has strengthened and built with a normal amount of advertising. However, his "feed bill" looks rather large and he begins the cutting down process. The business is strong and for a while goes along pretty well on its reduced advertising ration. The owner, just like the Frenchman is much pleased with himself—he has made a money-saving discovery. But we should remember that the laws of business are much like the laws of nature. The horse died, which points a moral which needs no comment. If you would be successful with your business do not emulate the tale of the horse.

L. J. Haby of Utopia has been laid up for several weeks with a very bad foot the result of being run over by a truck. He is now improving and hopes within a few more weeks to be able to be about again. He is an active man, having a ranch and other interests to take care of and this confinement is irksome to him but the only way to give his foot a chance to heal.—Uvalde Leader-News.

Courtship in Church.

A young gentleman happening to sit in church in a pew adjoining one in which sat a young lady for whom he conceived a sudden and violent passion' was desirous of entering into a courtship on the spot; but the place not suiting for a formal declaration, the exigency of the case suggested the following plan: He politely handed his fair neighbor a Bible (open) with a pin stuck in the following text: Second Epistle of John, verse fifth—"And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another." She returned it, pointing to the second chapter Ruth verse tenth—"Then she fell on her face and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, 'Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldst take knowledge of me, seeing that I am a stranger?'" He returned the book, pointing to the thirteenth verse of the Third Epistle of John—"Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink, but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full." From the above interview a marriage took place the ensuing week.

VETERANS STILL NEED RED CROSS

Aid to Disabled Men Increases as Problems and Legislation Bring Complications.

20,000 MEN DIE EACH YEAR

Many Entitled to Benefits Still Uninformed of Just Claims to Compensation.

Eight years after the World War finds service to disabled veterans still a major responsibility of the American Red Cross.

This situation is due to the increasing problems involved and the complex character of veteran legislation. There is also an increase in numbers of "death cases" handled, as compared with claims for living veterans, though the work for the latter remains heavy. About 20,000 ex-service men are dying each year, a considerable percentage of these having service-connected disabilities.

In a majority of cases, Red Cross Chapters find their assistance is needed in helping dependents present their claims for death compensation, insurance payments, bonus, burial allowances, and other government benefits due them. An episode of the past year illustrates the difficulties frequently encountered by the Red Cross experts in rendering such assistance. A veteran dying from service-connected disease, was trying from his bedside to establish at that late time his claim for Government aid in his family, and the necessary proofs were in the soldier's records across the continent from him. To obtain the needed affidavits before it was too late, a cross-continent airplane flight was necessary, then a Red Cross Chapter in Pennsylvania hurried the investigation, papers were signed back to the veteran and his Red Cross helpers in Oregon, by air-mail. It reached there in time.

Another discovery in Red Cross assistance to veterans and their families is that many dependents of these men unquestionably entitled to Government aid, have struggled along, ignorant of their rights.

Approximately 1,634 Red Cross Chapters carry on Home Service work, in assistance to veterans and their families. The Chapters also conduct campaigns among veterans for enrollment and conversion of their term insurance. Among its other duties, the Red Cross maintains at the request of the Canadian Government the administration of a fund allotted to the care of Canadian disabled veterans living in the United States.

In the United States the Red Cross cares annually for about 80,000 disabled veterans and their families during the fiscal year, indicating the size of this undertaking. National Headquarters of the American Red Cross expended $1,641,274.18 on disabled veterans alone, and $509,481.73 on assistance to men on active duty in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, while Red Cross local Chapters expended a total of $1,907,000. Red Cross assistance to service men overshadowed every other phase of its program, even its disaster relief, until the Florida hurricane.

Help for veterans covers many demands, from temporary aid until Government claims are adjusted or until the ex-soldier is properly hospitalized, to extending capital loans to well-situated veterans endeavoring to become self-supporting in business. Several such capital loans were to blind veterans.

Contact with veterans in hospitals is maintained by Red Cross personnel which doctors agree influences the veteran's welfare and improvement. Red Cross workers in hospitals seek to carry on social work in its hospitals for mental cases, and in many cases their services are called the Red Cross are co-operating for the welfare of the families of war disabilities. The public is invited to assist this work by joining the Red Cross during the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

ALWAYS AT WORK TO RELIEVE DISTRESS

Since 1905 the American Red Cross has given relief to 164 disasters in the United States alone. A year seldom passes without a major calamity due to tornado, earthquake, fire or flood. The Red Cross in each case has remained on the job until relief was completed.

Last year the Midwest tornado which struck five states was the outstanding relief operation by the Red Cross. The Florida hurricane in September created a problem which exceeded in proportions any disaster since the San Francisco fire.

By joining the American Red Cross every American can do his part to make his services continuously effective. The Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25, this year, is your opportunity.

More than 43,000 nurses are enrolled in the American Red Cross. They are ever ready for emergency duty. Every American can do his share for humanity by joining the American Red Cross during the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25.

Preparedness to Cope with Great Disturbances Gives Good Results in Action.

Facing one of the largest rehabilitation efforts of its whole history, as a result of the Florida hurricane, the American Red Cross already had behind it a record of service in 62 disasters at home, up to the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1926.

When the hurricane struck Florida with such devastation and loss of life, the Red Cross National Headquarters was just congratulating itself that a year had passed without a major disaster within the borders of the country. The destruction in Florida has been tentatively estimated by Director of Disaster Relief Henry L. Baker, of the American Red Cross, in terms of relief work ahead of the organization. This takes into account all sufferers who must be cared for.

Careful surveys by experienced authorities place the injured at 4,000, exclusive of the stricken Gulf Coast cities of Moorehaven and Clewiston. Of the 1,200 injured sent to Miami hospitals, 500 were suffering with major fractures. In two other east coast communities, the injured numbered nearly 1,000. The homeless were conservatively estimated at 50,000. Such figures sketch only vaguely the human and material problems which the American Red Cross is still doing its utmost to solve.

For comparison the other outstanding recent disaster, the Mid-west tornado of March 18, 1925, can be described in more detail. In that catastrophe the final check showed 800 dead, 2,000 injured and 6,447 families out of approximately 30,000 men, women and children rendered homeless. The final relief operations of the Red Cross were brought to a close March 18, 1926, exactly a year from the day the tornado struck its states.

So terrible did the death and destruction impress itself on the experienced Red Cross forces rushed into Florida that Chairman John Barton Payne did not hesitate to call for a relief fund from the whole country of $5,000,000. The Red Cross concentrated every resource in trained personnel on the stricken region.

The New Jersey munitions explosion in July, while terrible as to casualties, could not compare with either of these other two disasters in final destructiveness. It gave the Red Cross an opportunity for service in which Red Cross nurses treated 86 injured, and during the height of the emergency fed between 700 and 800 people driven from their homes. More than 400 cases were registered with the Red Cross after the explosions for assistance in regaining their hold on life through rehabilitation work. This latter is a regular part of the Red Cross relief operations in all disasters, and means a task continued long after the country has ceased to think of the occurrence itself.

The year has seen a new measure of disaster relief preparedness inaugurated by the Red Cross, under which a trained reserve of medical and other relief experts is constantly on call for any service. This preparedness justified itself in both the New Jersey explosion, and in the Florida hurricane, in the latter the Red Cross had at call more than 300 experienced disaster workers with a network of prepared Chapters all over the country. This preparedness, constantly demonstrated, is cited as material assurance that the country is better protected today than ever before from the suffering such misfortunes engender.

Bad as were domestic disasters in both the last fiscal year and recent months, some of those abroad in the same time have been comparable, especially a flood in Mexico. Altogether the American Red Cross served in the name of the American people in more than 15 foreign catastrophes.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership to maintain such activities will be held from November 11 to 25, and is an opportunity for all to enroll themselves in the American Red Cross.

Small Town Advantages.

There are a number of pleasures that a resident of a small town may enjoy that are not granted to those who reside in places more pretentious. One is that you go in your shirt-sleeves, another is jaywalking, another is calling your neighbor's wife by her first name because you knew her in school; another is sitting on the shady side of a business house in the summer time, and on the sunny side in the winter time; another is the ability to park your cow along the street where there is some fine grass. Then again, if you speak to a friend three blocks away you can yell and squall at him, and carry on a loud conversation; and you can always find a place to park, you can turn around in the middle of the block, you have lots of friends and when you are with one of them you can talk about the balance; you can keep up with everybody else's business except your own, and your neighbors will look after it for you. A small town is the real place for enjoying life.—Delta County News.

Now that editor said a mouthful, talking mule sense, for really the only life worth while is living out in the country, the hamlet, and the small town, where we know everybody, know everybody's business, keep up with all the neighborhood scandal, and there ain't much in much of a hurry; no, we live easy, rake our time, where get-rich-quick schemes are unknown to the population. And then along in the good old summer time, we can close up the stores and go down to the old swimmin' hole and take a bath, and really the old swimming hole is the bath tub for the whole community. Then again, along in the afternoon, we can pitch horseshoes and play croquet to our hearts content, and when a feller comes along and wants to buy some groceries or a thread, we say to him, wait till I make this stroke or pitch this other horseshoe, and he waits, no, never in a hurry. Then when one of the neighbors get sick, the whole community turns out to pay their respects to the afflicted, and with our kindness we often kill 'em, but Lordy, who wouldn't be willing to die in the midst of friends? Then another advantage in living in a small town, it's the forum where men meet to solve great problems, and the pitching dollars on the shady side of the postoffice, and so the country feller answers the call of God or State, and he goes forth and do his duty in the big game. Then another advantage of residing in the small town, once every year the big revival season comes around and then it is that the stores are all closed up, the plowing and the fodder pulling is suspended, and the whole people turn out to worship God and renew their spiritual strength, that accounts for the strong moral fiber and the religious zeal of country folks. Yes, down at the mourners' bench, in the clean wheat straw, sinners repent and souls are reborn, and the kingdom of God grows apace, old-time religion is preached in its purity. O yes, let us live in the country close to God and nature, sit beside the rippling brooks, twist mollie cotton tails out of hollow logs, go coon hunting o'nights, and chase the butterflies in flowery dells, and angle for trout and bass down at the old mill dam.—Albany News.

Today eight years ago firing ceased on the battle front in the great World War, making the end of that great conflict to Armistice Day, and the short pause and let our minds wander back to those days of blood and carnage which the whole world was involved. Millions of lives were lost and billions of property was destroyed, and all to what purpose. Germany was whipped to a but at what fearful cost. Many of our noble American boys were overseas and never came back. They gave the last full measure of devotion in supreme sacrifice, fighting for principles of freedom. There in Bandera we have a memorial in the court house square erected to the memory of the Bandera county boys who made that sacrifice. Today the world is at peace, but how long it will remain so no man knows. Let us hope that we are at peace with all nations, and pray that peace may be lasting.

The New Era wishes its friends The encouragement we get from them as we go along, and is grateful to them in many ways. Another encouragement is the fact that some one offers to pay for it as a gift to some friend. Just now a gentleman called at the office and paid for the paper for a friend in Arizona. Another time a stalwart citizen of the Medina valley, Col. Ed Head, who not only takes the little old home paper himself, but sends it to his children and relatives. This week a lady called and left the money to have her daughter's name added to the list of subscribers. Mrs. Eugene Blanck, Ganado, Texas; Mrs. E. E. Holt, Ganado, Texas; George Barnes, Arguita, Coah., Mexico; Herbert R. Head, Columbus, Kansas; Miss Madge Head, Stewartsville, Mo.; Homer L. Hot Talk From the Judge

Marshall News: Judge Robert son of the Dallas County criminal court delivered from the bench recently other day some rather pertinent remarks about certain kinds of criminals. Referring to the fact that men are being tried in the courts the second and third time for being drunk while driving an auto, he said:

"Most petit juries take the offense of driving while intoxicated as trivial. It is a dangerous offense and ought to be stopped. If the half-witted jurors give a man a small fine, he charges it to profit and loss and commits the same crime again. The lawyers come into the court and defend a man charged with this offense and they plead him guilty and ask the jury to give this boy a small fine and he won't do it any more. They always call him a boy, even if he is gray-headed. Juries would send him to the penitentiary instead of fining him, he'd be sure not to do it again."

Again the judge in referring to the hi-jackers and others who commit robbery with fire arms said:

"I want you to consider seriously also all cases of robbery and burglary which are brought before you. Every man who takes a pistol and goes out to rob another ought not to be sent to the penitentiary. He ought to be sent to the electric chair. He is a snake of the worst sort."

The address was being made to the grand jury and he closed with this:

"Such sister juries turn the criminal loose so often with a suspended sentence or with a light prison term, that is not your business. You indict these men, so they can be brought to trial and let the juries show themselves timber tails if they want to."

Statement by T. J. Anderwald.

To the many loyal friends who worked so faithfully for me during the election on November 2 I am profoundly grateful. I cannot possibly express my real appreciation. My only regret is that I cannot meet each of you individually, take you by the hand and voice my sincere appreciation. To those opposed to me for what ever reason I express most kindly feelings. I sincerely trust that my motives and my campaign have been recognized as worthy of their present respect and future good will. I have only the most cordial feelings for my opponent. He ran a splendid race and I am more than pleased to say that I greet the verdict with a smile. He is surely entitled to the support of every good citizen. I extend to him my hearty congratulations and wish for him every success. Any time that I can be of any assistance to him in making his office a success I will be pleased to offer my services.

T. J. ANDERWALD

Some Terrible Facts

Judge Marcus Kavanaugh recently made an address in Dallas in which he gave the number of homicides per 1,000,000 population in the countries of Europe as compared with the United States. Some of the terrible facts impressively stated by Judge Kavanaugh were these, and they fling a challenge to the American people that they must answer with determination and decision:

There were in the United States last year 12,000 homicides, 11,000 in each of the two preceding years, and in no year during the last ten have there been fewer than 9,500 homicides.

In Canada there were only 73 homicides to 1,000,000 of population, in England 9, in Germany before the war 5, but in our own United States 110.

In 1850 with 23,000,000 inhabitants the United States was the most law-abiding Nation on earth, with but 7,000 persons in its prisons. Today, with 115,000,000 people, we have 745,000 in prison.

In London, England, last year there were 27 homicides, including suicides and homicides by insane persons. Of the six actual murders in London five of the men charged were hanged. In Dallas for the same time he stated there were 60 killings.

"In England," he said, "When a man considers killing another he knows that within five or six weeks thereafter he probably will walk onto the gallows to pay for his crime. In America he knows that the chances are six to one that he will never be arrested, that twelve to fifteen like that he will not be convicted, and 110 to one that if convicted he will not die for the crime."

Twelve thousand citizens killed in one year by other citizens.

Mentally visualize 12,000 men, women and children marching four abreast past a reviewing stand on their way to untimely graves. How long would it take them to pass? Picture also 12,000 new graves with all the attendant grief, impoverishment and discouragement. Then add the cost to those thus bereaved of the prosecution they paid for and failed to get?

Certainty of law enforcement causes uncertainty of crime to subtract.

"In Germany," Judge Kavanaugh said, "the number of convictions is 85 per cent. In the United States it is 15 per cent.

Since 1850 we have increased five times in population, fifteen times in number of homicides, and twenty-five times in number of prison inmates."

Enforcement of law is in every portion to the people demand that it be enforced.

The criminal has no respect for law, but he does have respect for its penalties. Certain, enforcement is a certain deterrent.

Coddling criminals means encouraging crime.

To minimize crime is to encourage crime. Condoning the violation of any law is to minimize all law.

The thing for the people of the United States to do, and the thing they must do, is to rise in their might and demand the enforcement of the laws of the land, and behind their officers and support them to the uttermost, with a slogan that says, "Every place in America, in city or in country, no law, no man, woman or child all the time, day or night."—Staff editorial in Dallas News.

Fourteen Out of 135,000

Marshall News: Chemists of the United States Department of Commerce analyzed 135,000 samples of captured bootleg liquor last year. They found exactly fourteen samples that did not contain either denatured alcohol or other poisons. Yet people are found who will pay from ten to twenty dollars for this "Bottled in Bond" or "Old Scotch." If it wasn't for the new crop of fools coming on the specie would soon become instinct, for the old ones are going fast.

There is a movement on foot in Texas right now, sponsored by Judge Pippin of Dallas, to change the Dean law by reducing the penalty for bootlegging from a penitentiary offense to that of a fine. Such a bill will be presented to the next legislature.

Why shouldn't a man be given a penitentiary sentence who will sell stuff for booze that kills the buyer? It would look more like justice to so change the law that it would read that the vendor of poisonous liquor should be charged with murder.

Only Matured Turkeys Needed For Thanksgiving

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 9.—Turkey dealers throughout the State, through the medium of the Texas Carlot Shippers' Association, are advising farmers to market only well matured turkeys for Thanksgiving, and to hold back and feed immature and underweight birds, for the Christmas and holiday markets. In a statement issued Monday, the association declared the immature turkeys have low value and tend to demoralize the market.

"Inasmuch as hen turkeys mature earlier than turkey cocks, it is advisable to sell hen turkeys for the Thanksgiving trade, which, with the most mature of the gobblers, will be enough to supply the trade this month," the statement said. Dealers this year are buying and selling turkeys on a closely graded basis, much more so than heretofore, it was explained.

Hon. James E. Ferguson Improving His Farms

The Hon. Jas. E. Ferguson, of Austin, accompanied by Mr. Clarence Thrasher, formerly an oil operator of Homer, La., spent several days here this week. Mr. Ferguson was looking after his land holdings here and arranging to build more houses on the 1000 acres out of the Marbach ranch, and arranged for three more families to move here from his farms near Temple.

Mr. Thrasher is an experienced oil operator and is looking the field over with a view of prospecting for oil.

Mr. Ferguson is undertaking the growing of oranges and grape fruit on his farm about one and one half miles east of George West, and he already has an orchard of seven acres which promises to be most profitable. He intends going into this line of business more extensively and is confident these fruits can be grown successfully here. He has an irrigation plant on his farm which he says he installed at a moderate cost from deep wells on the farm. He has other real estate in Live Oak county which he intends to improve and settle with good farmers.—George West Enterprise.

Why pay more. Liberty Life Assurance Society furnishes insurance, the kind YOU want, at less cost. For particulars write Joy L. Tilley, District Organizer, Christine, Texas. Pays if you live; pays if you die.

Pastors Oppose Norris Booking

Following passage by unanimous vote of the members of the Baptist Pastors' Conference asking the city to cancel any and all dates for the Municipal Auditorium held by Rev. Frank Norris from November 14 to 21, assurance was given by acting Mayor Phil Wright that the Rev. Norris is not to be allowed to interfere with the State Baptist convention.

The action of the pastors was taken Monday morning, after which a conference was held with the acting mayor. At noon a telegram was sent to the Fort Worth pastor, advising him that his reservation of the Municipal Auditorium is cancelled, according to Rev. Jesse B. Yelvington, publicity chairman for the convention. The Fort Worth pastor's reservation, the Rev. Yelvington explained, was for the first three nights of next week. The action of the local pastors was taken, the Rev. Yelvington said, because for the last two years Norris' delegates have been refused seats in the general convention. San Antonio Express.

Music was furnished by the boys' and girls' orchestra from the Thomas Nelson Page School, the orchestra being composed of about fifteen pieces, and directed by Miss Ann Cressner. Miss Saynisch is a clever impersonator and kept her audience in an uproar of laughter with her appearance in various roles. Piano selections by Miss Louise Tschmeyer, and vocal solos by Miss Schnoor were also rendered numbers. The company of charming entertainers were brought to Bandera by Miss Iola Fuller, a former resident of Bandera, and High School, and their coming provided a rare treat for our people. Miss Saynisch remained to spend a week as the guest of Miss Fuller at the Riverside Inn.

Double Grandpa

Uncle Joe Postert is a lucky man. He has the distinction of becoming a double grandfather on the same date. While he was rejoicing over the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Will Turner on November 6th, he received word that a son had been born on the same date to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Postert of Corpus Christi. The young man was named Joe after his happy grandpa.

Baseball Dance Saturday Night.

A dance will be given at Cox Hall next Saturday night, November 20, for the purpose of raising funds to pay for equipment of the Bandera Baseball Club. Good Music. Admission 50c Everybody invited.

Oil Excitement at Center Point.

Center Point is to have a test oil well. All preliminaries have been arranged, drilling entered into, and the drilling machinery is on the ground to start work formerly with the Texhoma oil early next week. Judge Moore, Co., and associates will drill the well to a depth of 5,000 feet if necessary, and if the first test does not encounter granite and fails to get oil two more test well will be drilled. The first well is to be spudded in on the 120 tract about 300 feet south of the old depot at Center Point.

A standard steel rig arrived in Center Point last Sunday, it requiring three railroad cars to transport it, and weighing over 300,000 pounds. It was being unloaded and will be moved to the field of operation. A full crew of men, twenty-one in number, arrived with the rig, and the crew will work day and night up til the well is completed.

This is good news to the people of this section. The belief in the fact that the forerunner of a great oil development program, and if a basher is brought in at Center Point, a dozen will be drilled in Bandera county will be thoroughly prospected.

The drilling of an oil well at Center Point, only a few miles from Bandera, will be watched with interest. Some geologists claim that oil will probably be found at a depth of less than 2,

Good Advice

Advice is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things in life. Spendthrifts never.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The First State Bank

500 feet, while others will advance to explore. We believe oil will be found in that territory and in the region between Bandera and Center Point. It is an inviting field for the people who are behind the drilling project have unlimited means to make a thorough test.

Picture Show Friday Night.

The picture show at Bandera Theater tomorrow night will be a good one, entitled "Hands Up," featuring Raymond Griffin, will delight you. Admission 15c and 30c.

Mexican Dinner.

The Parent-Teachers' Association will serve a Mexican dinner in the Wright Building on Wednesday, November 24th. Also tamales 25 cents per dozen, chile 15 cents per dish, cake and coffee 10 cents. Dinner will be held in connection where Christmas articles will be on sale, and the school children will sell home made candy. The proceeds are to go to the school and toward paying for the new stairway recently built at the school house.

District Court Monday.

District Court convenes in Bandera next Monday. The docket is not very heavy in terms. The Pat Forrest murder case will probably come up for hearing. Forrest, who is charged with the murder of Will Gray near Medina City last September, is still in jail in San Antonio where he was taken immediately after his arrest. It is expected that an indictment will be returned by the grand jury after court convenes, and the case will take the usual course of procedure.

Bandera Wool Sale.

The Bandera County Ranchmen and Farmers' Association, through its manager, Fred Thalmann, on last Tuesday sold its fall accumulation of short wool to Hallowell, Jones & Donald of Boston, represented by Frank M. Montague and C. F. Angell. The clip amounts to about 120,000 pounds, and was sold in San Antonio at sealed bid sale. The price was about in line with prices paid at other places for short wool, and ranging around what most of the growers expected.

The shipping of this wool to the Boston buyers will start next Monday. It is to be hauled by truck to Center Point and there sent by railroad.

The sale of this clip brings the total of wool and mohair sold by the Bandera County Ranchmen and Farmers' Association during this year to over 550,000 pounds, which brought in to Bandera county growers over $250,000. Sales of wool and mohair are made semi-annually, in the spring and in the fall, and this industry is becoming larger every year.

Piper & Co., of Uvalde, also sold about 150,000 pounds of short wool at sealed bid sale in San Antonio Tuesday, to Hallowell & Emery of Boston, but we did not learn the price received. San Angelo has sold, Kerrville has sold, and the sales made last Tuesday practically cleans up the wool out put for this season throughout Texas.

Schreiner Sells Wool.

The Schreiner Wool and Mohair Company of Kerrville sold 700,000 pounds of fall clip wool Saturday to Studley Emery & Co., of Boston at a price averaging between 20 and 25 cents per pound, it was reported in San Antonio Saturday night. D. E. Hughes of San Angelo represented the buyers.

Del Rio Wool Sold

Del Rio, Tex., Nov. 16.—Sale of 700,000 pounds of short wool was announced here Tuesday by the Producers Wool and Mohair Company to C. D. Studley of Lampasas. The price was 22 to 27 cents. Shipment will be made to Boston during the week. This shool clears up the accumulation in the producers' warehouse.

Second Operation

Mrs. B. F. Jones went to San Antonio last Sunday to be with her daughter, Mrs. Ned W. Smith who has been seriously ill following a second operation which was performed last Saturday. A short time ago Mrs. Smith underwent an operation, but a second operation became necessary and many friends hope she will soon recover.

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep-rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Armistice Day Observed.

Last Thursday, Armistice Day, was fittingly observed in Bandera. The business houses closed up for most of the day, flags were hoisted, fireworks were set off, flowers were placed on the Heroes' Monument, a lively football game between Boerne and Comfort was played at Mansfield Park and witnessed by a large crowd. After the football game a steer riding and goat roping amused the crowd. At night an old time dance was enjoyed in the exhibit hall at Mansfield Park, a ball took place at Cox Hall in town.

Panhandle in Winter's Grip.

The Panhandle and cap rock of Texas were already in the grip of a Norther sweeping down from the rockies of Colorado Tuesday night.

Temperature at Lubbock ranged up from 35 Tuesday morning to 55 as a maximum, then fell to 36 degrees at 9 p. m., with indications of going still lower. The government report from Amarillo showed 52 degrees at 8 p. m., but no snow had fallen. The same report showed a temperature of 28 degrees at Denver, with considerable snow.

Asking for Retention.

A petition was being circulated here this week and numerously signed asking the State Highway Commission to retain Joe G. Callahan as supervisor and foreman of the highway from San Antonio through Bandera and Medina to Kerrville. No vacancy in the place exists as yet, but it is presumed that a new board will be appointed by Hon. Dan Moody when he becomes Governor in fact, and Mr. Callahan's friends would be glad to see him hold his present position. He has been quite active in maintenance work on this highway, and has kept it in first class condition.

Fined for Killing Turkey Hens.

Game Warden Dan Rugh this week arrested W. S. Bowden of Larkin, for unlawfully killing a wild turkey hen. Bowden entered a plea of guilty and was fined $25 and costs.

Leutl John B. Patrick of Kelley Field, was arrested by Special Deputy Warden Walter H. Jersig for killing a turkey hen. Plea of guilty and fined $25 and costs.

Makes Trip to Del Rio.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. John Langford, Edwin Langford and Mrs. Jim Cox visited their mother, Mrs. B. F. Langford Sr., and sister, Mrs. Ruby Barnett at Del Rio, spending a few days. Mrs. Barnett has been seriously ill for some time, having undergone an operation and later suffered an attack of influenza, but we are pleased to learn she is now on the road to recovery. Mrs. John Langford stopped off at Uvalde to visit Mrs. Foster Stevens, while the others went on to Del Rio. While there Messrs. Edwin and John Langford visited the Pecos High Bridge. Good luck attended them on the trip, they making the distance of nearly five hundred miles without changing a tire on their automobile. They found Grandma Langford, who has been in Del Rio with her daughter, Mrs. Barnett, for several months, looking well and getting along fine. She will remain there a few months longer.

Accidently Shot Near Kerrville.

Col C. E. Hawkins, Quartermaster's Corps, Fort Sam Houston, was probably fatally wounded Tuesday afternoon while hunting 25 miles west of Kerrville, according to telephonic information received in San Antonio.

The wounded officer was rushed to the Kerrville Hospital, where it was said he had probably lost one eye and might lose the other. The load from a shotgun, accidentally discharged while he was hunting turkeys struck him full in the face, a good part of it entering his neck, it was said.

An ambulance from Fort Sam Houston Base Hospital was sent to Kerrville early Tuesday night to bring the wounded officer here. Hawkins was hunting with Mack Henderson on the latter's ranch. He was in the act of setting his gun down against a tree stump when it was accidentally discharged, Henderson said.

Others in the hunting party were Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, Col. J. F. McKinley and Lieut. C. F. Gee, all of Fort Sam Houston. They were widely separated from Col. Hawkins when the accident happened, it was said.

A year ago while hunting ducks near Corpus Christi, Col Hawkins was the victim of a similar accident when he sustained a wound in the foot when his gun was unexpectedly discharged.—San Antonio Express.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Last Monday San Antonio voted another bond issue of $3,000,000 for public improvements. San Antonio is growing faster than any other city in the South, and Bandera naturally feels proud of its thriving suburb.

The marketing of turkeys goes merrily on, and the price is good, with indications that it is going to be paid. Bandera county's turkey crop is good this season, and the income from that source will be considerable.

The deer season opened Tuesday, and the sound of shooting and now everybody will go out into the woods with long range guns and try to slaughter our game. There are still a few deer left in this section, and some turkeys too, but it is really dangerous to go out to hunt them on account of so many others hunting. Some people are just naturally careless with firearms, while others do not know how to use them, and the shooting at everything in sight from a tom-tit to a buzzard, and from a ground squirrel to a cow, only the other day, even before the season opened, some reckless hunter shot a hole through a young man's hat out in a pasture near Pipe Creek, probably mistaking him for a deer in a thicket. This year there will be the usual number of casualties during the hunting season, lives will be snuffed out, cattle and horses will be killed, for "accidents" will happen.

Frontier Times will make an ideal Christmas gift for your boy. You want him to learn Texas history; if he reads Frontier Times he will become more interested in history as taught in the public schools. From now to January first we are offering the Era and Frontier Times together for $2.50. You can renew your own subscription at the same time, and order the little magazine to any one you wish to send it to. Subscribe for it for your boy.

Warren Hunter, editor of the Harper Herald, announces that he will soon install a linotype machine in his office. Since going to Harper less than a year ago and resurreeting the Herald, which had been dead for about six years, Warren has met with splendid success in giving the Harper people a real news-paper. He has had to increase the size from four to six pages, and with the addition of a typesetting machine, made necessary by increasing business, he will be in position to make the Herald still better. Those Harper people seem to appreciate their home paper.

"There is a Reason"

Time for Action.

What some are disposed to call a "crime wave" in the United States seems to be a "permanent wave." Unless the citizens and the courts take a better grip on the matter of law enforcement it will be a permanent wave, possibly developing into a tidal wave.

He would indeed be a foolish man who would declare that the chances are 6 to 1 that he will never be arrested from 12 to 15 to 1 that he will not be convicted, and 110 to 1 that if convicted that he will not die for the crime. No wonder that the murder trials which he sees and reads about become encouragements instead of deterrents to him. And the State pays for such legal farces. Yes, he who is killed pays his share of taxes for the maintenance of these courts! In a measure he who is killed pays for the support of the trial which sets free his murderer!

There is an enemy army in the United States numbering about 2,000 men and women who murder and depredate and rob, to gain a living.

Add to these those citizens who help them in their nefarious business by aiding them in escaping justice and we have indeed a formidable foe—one formidable as to jeopardize every citizen and the permanence of our Government itself.

This army is always in ambush, is crafty, cunning doing most of its damage under cover of darkness. It is an aggregation of marauders, bush-whackers, assassins, theives and robbers. Women and little children are not exempt from their infamous assaults.

The American people must awake to the situation.

Effective certain and speedy law enforcement would soon remedy the evils from which we now suffer.

Now, as in the days of Edmund Burke "When bad men combine the good must associate else they will fall, one by one, an unpitied sacrifice in a contemptible struggle."—Dallas News.

Frontier Times for December.

The December number of Frontier Times was on the press this week, and contains the following interesting articles: "Killing of John Bowles in 1859," "Some Parker County Murders," "The Cienega Fight," "When Captain Rogers counted Death," "Came to Texas in a Covered Wagon," "Rowdy Jake Lowe, a Character," "Early Settlers in Cherokee County," "Arizona Girl Kills a Bad Indian," "Rowdy Joe Lowe," "Some Parker County Murders," "First Mob Violence in Lamar," "Life of Ben Thompson," "Christmas, a poem," "Texas Tells of Indian Fight," "The Killing of Chief Nocona," "Capture of Joe of Robbers' Roost," "Doughty's Fight on the Range." All are good stories. Frontier Times is published in Bandera, and the subscription price is $1.50 per year. Think of it, only a dollar and a half for a magazine, twelve numbers of which will give you a book of 500 pages of real Texas history! We cannot supply back numbers of this magazine in consecutive order but we have a certain back numbers which we will sell for 25 cents per copy. Current numbers are fifteen cents per copy. You should subscribe for it today and keep it for your children to read. Take advantage of our Christmas offer, now in effect, the New Era and Frontier Times together for only $2.50 for one year.

It's hog and hominy season now, but the hogs are scarce this year. Last year the farmers sold off most of their hogs because of the scarcity of feed. This year have plenty of feed, but the hogs are few. Next year our ranges will be stocked with better hogs and there'll be plenty of them.

John F. Hodges this week renewed his own subscription to the New Era and Frontier Times, and also renewed the subscriptions of both publications for his son, R. M. Hodges at Galveston.

Football Game Last Thursday

The first football game ever played in Bandera was played at Mansfield Park last Thursday, the contending teams being Boerne and Comfort High School teams the former defeating the latter by a score of 20 to 0 in a lively rough and tumble bout.

Boerne started early in the first quarter by successive first downs, carrying the ball from its 35 yard line to Comfort's 20 yard line, when Nowlin carried the ball around the end for the first touchdown. Captain Schrader drop-kicking for the extra point.

In the second, Captain Schrader broke around the end for another 10 yards for a second touchdown, but failed to make the extra point by one of his men blocking his kick.

In the fourth quarter Boerne received the ball on its 20 yard line and by continued line plunges, short passes and end runs Boerne carried the ball to Comfort's 5 yard line. Comfort then held for downs, the ball going to Boerne at the end of the game. Comfort's 21 yard line, when Moore received the ball and by a beautiful run around left end scored for a touchdown, but failed to make the extra point.

Moore also carried the ball over for the third touchdown.

There were times when the players were in the thick of the fight for the ball, but Comfort seemed to be in danger at no time, the game being fought entirely on the line.

The two teams have played each other on this same field for several years, the first one being played in 1912 when Boerne defeated Comfort 12 to 12. The third game was played in 1913, Boerne defeating Comfort by a score of 50 to 0.

The line-up:

PROGRESSIVE RED CROSS CAMPAIGN FOR HEALTH

Public Health Nursing, Nutrition and Home Hygiene Work Cover the Country.

Important contributions to public health were made by the American Red Cross through its Public Health Nursing Service, Nutrition Service and in instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. In every State and Alaska, with the exception of Delaware and Nevada, instruction was given by the Red Cross, also in the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Virgin Islands. A total of 57,879 women and girls learned to make a hygienic home, and care for the sick in their homes.

The United States Public Health Service estimates that adequate rural health nursing service would cost $14,000,000 annually, or not quite a billion dollars in value of human life, earning power, and economic conservation. The American Red Cross, through its Public Health Nurses, of whom there were nearly 500 on duty the past year, is doing its part in meeting this requirement.

The Red Cross, through its nutrition Service, taught thousands what to eat for health. In this country, 24 States were served with from one to ten Red Cross Chapter Nutrition programs in each State. In 25 States, nutrition instruction was given either through the regular nutrition instructors or through volunteer dietitians.

During the school year an average of 15,412 individuals a month, including parents, teachers, pre-school, and school children, received the better knowledge of food in its relation to health, and how to apply it to their daily lives. In March, 115,218 individuals received this instruction, while during the year 2,583 classes were conducted and 5,456 conferences and home visits were given by nutritionists, thus reaching thousands of individuals.

The Annual Roll Call for Membership from November 11 to 25 is an invitation to all persons to assist in the maintenance of such services through another year by enrolling in the American Red Cross.

RED CROSS SERVICES SHOW UPWARD TREND

Disaster Relief, Veterans' Aid Foremost in Fiscal Year. Services All Vital.

Expenditures by the American Red Cross for the last year showed a mounting service as compared with those for the preceding year—$11,932,883.25 as against $10,873,880. The outstanding appropriations were for disaster relief and assistance to disabled veterans. For disaster relief the American Red Cross expended $3,871,827, of which the National Organization contributed $1,643,527, and the Red Cross Chapters $228,000. For disabled veterans, a total of $3,628,178 was called for, of which National Headquarters appropriated $1,641,178, and Chapters, $1,987,000.

The above figures do not include the Florida operations, which occurred after the end of the fiscal year, in addition to the work for disabled veterans, the Red Cross continued its work on behalf of the Regular Army and Navy and Marine Corps, which called for a total appropriation of $688,451.

The enrolled nurses' reserve, from which nurses for disasters and other emergencies are called, of 17,000, is borne entirely by the National Headquarters. Public Health Nursing, a part of the Red Cross program in national health work, cost $866,522; instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick required $164,107; and in nutrition instruction, $164,107 was expended.

The Red Cross campaign to reduce deaths from accidents and drowning, conducted by the First Aid and Life Saving Service, called for $352,385, and has shown tangible results in lives saved annually.

The Junior Red Cross, one of the foremost peace influences in the world, was carried on at a cost of $531,953. All local Chapter activities of the Red Cross cost $823,000, while for domestic operations of the Red Cross, borne by National Headquarters, amounted to $264,040.

The remainder of the fiscal year's expenditures were accounted for in insular and foreign operations, of which foreign disasters in which the American Red Cross served, absorbed $53,975; League of Red Cross Societies, $180,000; Junior Red Cross foreign projects, $74,085; assistance to Insular Chapters, $17,000; other insular and foreign work, $64,783; supervision of service activities and general management, $370,629.27.

The total expenditures for the year ended June 30 last were divided: National Organization, $1,331,893.35; local Chapters, $1,511,000. In the Tenth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 25, the public is invited to share in this year's work and to assist by enrolling in the American Red Cross as members.

Wool Sale at San Angelo

Twenty-seven and seven-eighth cents per pound, according to unofficial reports, was the peak price paid here Wednesday in the first of short fall wool in Texas this season. Sales totaled sealed bid auctions by two firms, 148,825 pounds and rejections, 101,755 pounds.

Arthur Hoover of Ozona, selling 39,665 pounds, and Joe Blakey of San Angelo, selling 24,756 pounds, received that price, while Mears & Wilkerson of Sonora, obtained 27½ cents for 36,796 pounds, it was understood. These sales were through the Wool Growers Central Storage Company to E. O. Salter of Roswell, N. M., filling an order through his son, Jack Salter, who is with Sheldon & Co. of Boston. Bids were rejected on 678,000 pounds, which will be offered further privately.

March lives, later sold at reported higher prices, 45,107 pounds of fall wool to Henry D. Allen of Philadelphia, representing Charles J. Webb Sons Company of that city, and 3,200 pounds of left-over long spring wool to J. M. Lea of San Angelo, representing Draper & Co., Boston. Bids were rejected on 29,750 pounds of short fleeces. Buyers and sellers declined to announce prices.

An auction of between 125,000 and 150,000 pounds will be conducted Tuesday at San Angelo by F. A. Piper & Co. of Uvalde. The cost of producing fall wool was not less than 35 cents a pound, said T. A. Kincaid of Ozona, president of the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, commenting on Wednesday sales. He said that had the sheepmen not sold their lambs for $5 to $6 per head they now would be in as much distress as the cotton farmers. Kincaid suggested holding until the buyers indicate that they want the wool. He was one of over a half-hundred sheepmen from a wide area who came here for the auctions. They reported ranges in good shape and livestock entering the winter in fine flesh.

Fore-warned—Forearmed

A girl had a proposal of marriage Sunday night, and asked a week to consider it before answering. She then organized herself into an investigating committee and began taking testimony from married ladies of her acquaintance. The first one she visited used to be a belle and the most admired girl in town before she married six years before. The cross-examination brought out the fact that she had six children, did all her own work, including washing and ironing, and hadn't been down town for four weeks and that her husband had given her but $2 since she married, and that he had borrowed and forgot to pay back $20 which her brother gave her for a Christmas present. He bought himself a new overcoat with the money, while she wore the plush coat which she wore when he was courting her. Another woman whom she visited quit teaching school three years ago to marry the handsomest and best-dressed man in town," and she was supporting him. A third didn't dare say her soul was her own on her husband was around, though she used to write some lovely essays when she was at school on the "Emancipation of Woman." Well, the fourth woman she visited was driven. After visiting them and summing up the evidence, she went home and wrote the young man. She will be married next month.—Exchange.

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within your reach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they expect to succeed and be happy. saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Saving make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within yourreach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The new test well at Center Point was spudded in the early part of this week, and drilling will go steadily forward.

Other big rig has arrived and another deep test will be made at the same time the initial well goes down. In view of the fact that there is plenty of capital behind the drilling operations, and also that the Walker-Van Duyn interests seem to know exactly what they are doing, there is great confidence in the project, and developments will be watched with interest. If oil is encountered we predict that the northeastern portion of old Bandera county will come in for its share of development.

The shipping out of over 120,000 pounds of fall wool, sale of which was made to Hallowell, Jones & Donald last week by the Bandera County Ranchmen & Farmers Association, began Monday morning. The wool was hauled to Center Point by trucks and from there sent to Boston by rail. While the actual price paid per pound for this wool is not available for publication, it is understood to be generally satisfactory and in line with prices paid other growers over the state, and the total amounts to a considerable sum to be distributed among the growers of Bandera county during the past year more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of wool and mohair has been sold by the Bandera County Ranchmen & Farmers' Association, which spells prosperity in big letters. Added to the income derived from the sale of livestock, poultry, farm products, fruits, furs and other revenue producing resources the amount of money brought in grows to gigantic proportions while the tide of prosperity flows on.

The New Era has a nice line of Christmas Cards ready for your inspection. Place your order early if you want the best, as our supply will soon be exhausted.

"There is a Reason"

The pardoning out of criminals, difficulty of getting jurors, the scarcity of convictions for capital offenses, will all work out for the best. It will finally mean getting the people aroused to amend the constitution and change the criminal code so as to make crime unprofitable. Some of the big criminals who howl for a fair and impartial trial would never consent to have their case tried in Canada where they would get a fair and impartial trial and also justice. The crime they committed would never have been done had they lived in Canada. This shows that crime can be prevented, where the criminal knows that punishment comes sure and swift. Another decade will see many changes in our criminal laws.—Uvalde Leader News.

Killing Goes On

Since January 1 there have been 260 murders in the largest American city.

And here's another statement to go with that:

Of those 260 murders 221 remain unsolved—their perpetrators haven't even been caught, much less punished.

Crime still kills with comparative impunity in America. We are moving toward ways of halting the yearly slaughter, but the progress is unpardonably slow.

The New York Crime Commissioner learned in Canada recently how the Dominion controls crime. Jurists and police officials explained that speed in the handling of criminal cases is the basis of Canada's success in curbing the lawless.

Under the Canadian system it is not unusual for a person accused of a serious crime to be indicted, tried and convicted within two days. Cases are often tried before a judge; when there's a jury it is picked in a few minutes.

"A trial here is not a game, but a sworn, serious investigation to ascertain whether a crime has been committed against the state," the Commissioner was told by Justice Rodolfi, the man who stamped out the Toronto crime wave of three years ago in a couple of months.

In other words, in Canada you can't fool the law, or fool with it. The state moves swiftly and inexorably to crush the evildoer.

New York's antiquated legal machinery is being tinkered to make it operate more quickly and effectively. Meanwhile, the murders keep up. Can't the job be hurried?

To Drill at Center Point.

Carrying out with amazing swiftness their plan to give the Center Point vicinity a thorough test for oil, the Walker & Van Duyn interests Tuesday selected the site for the first test well and at the same time began the erection of drilling machinery.

Kerr County's first real test well will be developed on the W.B.Leigh tract, lying between the Southern Pacific Railroad and the Guadalupe River, less than one mile northwest from Center Point. It will be known as the Walker & Van Duyn No 1.

Associated with Judge A. W. Walker of Dallas and E. W. Duyn of Des Moines Ia., in the development project are a number of well known oil men, who have operated in the North and Wegt Texas districts. Present plans call for three tests in Center Point vicinity, where the syndicate holds a block of several thousand acres in leases.

For the past two months Walker-Van Duyn and associates have been quietly working in Kerr County, securing leases and running geological surveys. Operation had been expected to start some time within the next few weeks; but even the citizens of Center Point were taken by surprise when three carloads of drilling machinery was placed on a siding track near the S. P. station Sunday morning. The equipment was shipped from the Moran field.

Drilling crews have been in Center Point for the past week and the task of unloading and setting up the rig was started Tuesday morning, shortly after the drilling was announced.

Judge A. W. Walker, the pioneer in the plan to develop what he expects will be another great Texas oil field near Center Point, was in Kerrville Tuesday. After a conference with his associates, he announced that the Walker & Van Duyn No. 1 on the Leigh tract would be spudded in by the middle of next week and that drilling operations would be rushed forward to completion by day and night crews. He declined to discuss probable location for the two other test wells planned.

The drilling machinery being erected on the Leigh farm will be one of the most completely equipped in any Texas field. It consists of a standard cable rig, an 84-foot heavy steel derrick, electrically lighted, operated by two engines, and a complete line of tools.

The fact that Walker Van Duyn and associates are not offering any stock or leases on the market, and the dispatch with which they are carrying out their announced plans lends credence to the belief that a vast oil producing formation underlies the eastern section of the county. Indications are that production will be encountered around the 2,600 feet, but the Walker-Van Duyn rig is capable of going down to a level of 5,000 feet.

Five geologists have plaintabled the Center Point structure within the past month and on their favorable reports the syndicate is standing the cost sinking the test wells, which will mount into thousands of dollars.

There is history and romance in the Center Point test, it became known with visit of Judge Walker. Back in 1900, J. A. Lawatney, geologist in the employ of Guffenheiu interests, made a mineral survey of Kerr County and mapped the structure in the area to be developed at Center Point. Lawatney, now in his 94th year, is a wealthy oil operator in the Tampico, Mexico, field, and, although he has advanced years, he turned the 26 year old map of the Center Point area to a younger associate several years ago. It came into the hands of Judge A. W Walker in Dallas only a few months ago. Recent surveys by five of the best known Texas geologists, among them J. R. Shirley; formerly with the Sinclair Company, and Clifton M. Keeler, of the Sun Co., checked the findings of Lewatney in 1900. As a result, the development of the Center Point area is being rushed, and the spotlight in oil circles will soon be turned on Kerr County.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

A Mule and an Acre.

The carpetbaggers, after the civil war, promised every "redheaded pusson" who had been freed by Abraham Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, a mule and an acre of ground. Visions of "ham and," so to speak filled the minds of many of those simple hearted children of Africa, as they thought of what "might be." Few if any of them seemed to realize that the mule and the acre would be only the machinery. They little reeked that there would be elbow grease, and a lot of it, required to make the mule go along with the mule and acre if they were to enjoy corn bread and cabbage, and all the other blessings. So the "buiggers," as the Southern people, so characteristically denominated them soon realized that the promised carpet bagger or any other individual can't take all the labor out of work.

So when you talk to some men about new methods, they are perfectly willing, if they can slip dollars into the machine at one end, and without elbow grease and thought go to the other end and take out dollars plus, to engage in the occupation you are advising. Those kind of men wouldn't be a success on help.

Still there are other men who, no matter how you have refined the process, can't believe it is true.

In all lines of endeavor men are gradually thinking out new methods, and making things simpler and easier. The poultry raising business is one where the work has been turned into pleasure, because it brings the right sort of healthful exercise, and at the same time pays a profit, a substantial profit.

In the California Colonies for fourteen years they have been proving that by work and cooperation it is possible to make a hen lay two eggs, where she only laid one before. They have long since taken the guess out of the poultry business, and made it one of the sure thing successes of the Pacific Coast.—Kerrville Times.

Rev. John McKay of the Methodist church preached a timely sermon Sunday morning. He called attention to the burglaries committed at Uvalde and how the people were aroused. Homes were being locked up at night perhaps for the first time in years. A complimentary to the officers on their diligence in capturing the burglars.

He then drew a comparison between the loss of a few dollars and the greater loss of the ruining of the lives of the young people from the drinking of intoxicating liquor. It was his duty as a Christian minister to raise his voice against an evil in this community. The church had always stood where he stood and he would not be true to himself or his God did he fail to make protest and do all he could to safeguard the boys and girls of this community who were being debauched in some cases by the sale of bootleg liquor. It was time for the people to be aroused over this question and to think straight and to act straight.

Rev. McKay is right. There is no question that liquor has been sold to young people. It was in evidence at the football game here Armistice day. A few dollars stolen from a home, as he said, might be remedied very easily but to debauch a young life is a crime that may reach through time and eternity. It is a pitiable thing for a young man with every prospect of being a success to allow himself to get under the influence of liquor and make a fool of himself in a public place. He is making black marks by his name that will be remembered by his hart. Selling to minors was a violation of the law during school days and it certainly should not be tolerated now.—Uvalde Leader-News.

MISS JEWEL LANGFORD ACCIDENTLY KILLED SUNDAY

One of the saddest tragedies that has occurred in this community took place last Sunday evening late, when a shot gun, accidently discharged, snuffed out the life of Miss Jewel Langford, and critically injured Harry Beckdow and Ralph Langford, at the old Langord ranch on Privilege Creek, and the girl and boys were immediately rushed to Bandera.

The young man, whose home is in San Antonio, was immediately taken to a hospital in that city.

From what we can gather it seems that a party of young people had been turkey hunting, or were going turkey hunting. A shot gun was leaning against the side of the automobile in which Miss Langford and Beckdow were seated, with the door of the car open. As it started the gun to falling to the ground, and its hammer striking the running board it was discharged, the load of shot striking Beckdow in the left leg and right hand, and a portion of the charge going upward and breaking her neck. The wounded persons were hastily brought to town by Dr. Butler, but the deadly shot gun had claimed another victim, and Miss Langford was dead when they reached Dr. Butler's residence.

Verily, "in the midst of life we are in death." This shocking tragedy brings this home to us more than ever. This splendid young lady, just entering upon the threshold of a glorious womanhood, was cut down as a tender plant which had just blossomed into a beautiful flower, and she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Langford of Privilege, and was fourteen years old. She was a pupil in the seventh grade in Pandera High school, a light-hearted, happy, lively girl, and a general favorite in the community. It is hard to realize that she has been taken from us, but the shocking manner in which she met her almost sudden death has stunned the entire community, and almost prostrated her fond parents, brothers and sister with grief.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at the cemetery by Rev. R. L. Hicks, pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. B. J. Gossett, pastor of the Methodist church. The pall bearers were Burgin Davenport, Marvin Hunter, Jr., Hugh Hunter, Jr., Bob Mansfield Herman Thalmann and Leo Eckhart, students in Bandera High School. School was dismissed for the afternoon and the pupils attended in a body to pay their last respects to their beloved school mate and chum, and the many tears shed by the boys and girls who were her daily associates and companions, and the many beautiful flowers which were banked high upon the mound which marks her resting place testifies in mute silence of the great esteem and love in which Jewel was held by all who knew her. Many sorrowing friends came from Pipe Creek, Tarpley, Medina, Center Point, Kerrville and San Antonio to attend the funeral.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Langford; two brothers, Frank and Lane Langford, of Bandera, and one sister, Mrs. Joe Stein, of San Antonio, all of whom have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in this grievous hour which has so suddenly and without warning descended upon them.

Schreiner's Sale.

The Chas. Schreiner Co. of Kerrville, will put on a gigantic Anniversary Sale beginning next Monday, and ending December 24th. Prices will be slashed throughout their dry goods department and great bargains will be offered in dry goods, dress goods, clothing and shoes. The big store is going to celebrate its 50th anniversary in a way that will not be forgotten, and give its customers the advantage of tremendous price cuts, the reduction being from 20 to 50 per cent. The store's $100,000 stock of dry goods affords a wide range from which to make your selections, and if you want bargains you will now have an opportunity to get them at Schreiner's, in Kerrville.

Pie Supper at Pipe Creek.

A pie and box supper was given at the Pipe Creek school house on the evening of November 24th. A short Thanksgiving program was rendered by the "Literary Society of the school just previous to the auctioning of the boxes. The people of Pipe Creek respond wonderfully, thus demonstrating their fine school spirit, their interest and cooperation in this part of the school work, and demonstrating also their ability to make and to eat good pies. Joe Callahan says that Pipe Creek should have been named "Pie Creek." The ladies had some excellent pies there and there was a ready sale for each one. About $43 was made, making a total of about $70 with which to paint he rooms.

THE PAT FOREST MURDER CASE IN DISTRICT COURT

Yesterday afternoon, after argument by counsel, the motion for a change of venue was overruled. Counsel then asked for a continuance of the case until next term of district court. After hearing argument in the matter Judge Brucks continued the case.

The trial of Pat Forest, charged by indictment with the murder of Will A. Gray, near Medina City on August 22, was called for trial in district court here last Monday morning. In calling the list of witnesses it was discovered that L. A. Heder, a material witness was not present, and had not been subpoened. Heder was out of the county, presumably in San Antonio, and the trial was delayed until he could be found. Tuesday morning the witness was present, and the State announced ready for trial.

Judge Lee Wallace, of Kerrville, Will A. Morris, Sr., and Will A. Morris, Jr., attorneys for the defendant, filed a motion for a change of venue, which application was signed by the defendant, Pat Forest. The motion alleged that

"1st. There exists in this county so great a prejudice against him that he cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial of this cause in said county." and

"2nd. That there is a dangerous combination against him instigated by influential persons by reason of which he cannot expect a fair trial in this county; persons engaged in that combination, etc., on the day of alleged homicide when defendant had been arrested and placed in jail a large number of persons, mostly citizens of Bandera county assembled with threats and purpose to inflict mob violence.

"3rd. Large numbers of relatives of deceased live in Bandera county who are bitter against defendant and who are combining their efforts toward his conviction. Local counsel as well as counsel from Kerr county have been retained and employed to prosecute defendant; public sens of Bandera county have joined in and are contributing to such employment; that local feeling and menace is such that the sheriff of Bandera county has kept and keeps the jail where defendant is confined under constant guard since defendant's return to Bandera county.

"Defendant prays the court to change the venue of this cause to some other county, which is free from the above and other objections."

Supporting the motion for a change of venue the following document was filed in court;

"The undersigned affiants, B. O. Baker, W. G. Keese, S. P. Sutton and O. C. Gabriel, residents of Bandera county, Texas, and credible persons, having this day been fully informed of the contents of this application for a venue filed by Pat Forest, the defendant in the above cause, and having read same, and being duly sworn, upon our oaths do depose and say:

"1st. That the facts stated in said application are true in substance and in fact.

"2nd. That we know of the existence of such prejudice against the said Pat Forest in this county, and that it exists to such an extent throughout this county that we do not believe that a fair and impartial trial in this county can be had and obtained by the said Pat Forest in said cause.

"3rd. That we know of a dangerous combination against the said Pat Forest instigated by influential persons by reason of which we do not believe that the said Pat Forest can expect a fair trial of this cause in this county; that the facts in relation to said combination and names of the persons engaged in said combination so far as known to us are as follows: As alleged in defendant's affidavit and application for change of venue." (Signed) B. O. Baker, S. P. Sutton, W. G. Keese, O. C. Gabriel.)

All of the day Tuesday was spent in the hearing testimony relative to the application for change of venue.

Witnesses testifying Tuesday were Ernest Taylor of Blackett, Judge C. W. Harris of Medina, Bob Mayfield of Medina, Henry Jones of Bandera, J. M. Hunter of Bandera, B. O. Baker of Medina, O. C. Gabriel of Sabinal Canyon, W. G. Keese, of above duly sworn, upon our oaths do depose and say:

"1st. That the facts stated in said application are true in substance and in fact.

"2nd. That we know of the existence of such prejudice against the said Pat Forest in this county, and that it exists to such an extent throughout this county that we do not believe that a fair and impartial trial in this county can be had and obtained by the said Pat Forest in said cause.

"3rd. That we know of a dangerous combination against the said Pat Forest instigated by influential persons by reason of which we do not believe that the said Pat Forest can expect a fair trial of this cause in this county; that the facts in relation to said combination and names of the persons engaged in said combination so far as known to us are as follows: As alleged in defendant's affidavit and application for change of venue." (Signed) B. O. Baker, S. P. Sutton, W. G. Keese, O. C. Gabriel.)

All of the day Tuesday was spent in the hearing testimony relative to the application for change of venue.

Witnesses testifying Tuesday were Ernest Taylor of Blackett, Judge C. W. Harris of Medina, Bob Mayfield of Medina, Henry Jones of Bandera, J. M. Hunter of Bandera, B. O. Baker of Medina, O. C. Gabriel of Sabinal Canyon, W. G. Keese, of above Medina, H. B. Nance of Medina, Tinker Stevens of Privilege Creek, and Rol Davenport of Bandera.

During the taking of testimony in the change of venue hearing the special venire was excluded from the court room.

Assisting District Attorney Baker in the prosecution are Robert I. Wilson of Kerrville and W. S. Ethridge of Bandera.

The trial brought a large crowd to the county seat. Long before court opened Monday morning men began coming out of the hills from all directions, some of them the 100 special veniremen ordered for the trial. Others were attracted by the first murder case that has been on docket since 1914. The one of 12 years ago was not tried here, having been sent to Kerrville on a change of venue.

Interest in the trial is heightened because the defendant is a product of Bandera, having been born and reared here. Many of those in court recalled that they had known him "ever since he was an infant in his mother's arms."

Gray, who lived in San Antonio, operating a bus through through this section for the Union Bus Company, is a former resident of Bandera and was popular in this county. Some of the talesmen brought bedding in their automobiles, and were prepared in the event they got caught on the jury. Forest has been in jail since the alleged homicide and had made no effort to obtain his release on bond. He was placed in the Bexar County jail at San Antonio on the day of his arrest. Last week he was brought to the Bandera County jail, in preparation of his trial.

Since then he has had two guards, over him constantly, not because violence was feared, Sheriff Henry Stevens explained, but because the Bandera County jail has been in disuse so long that it is no condition to safely keep prisoners. The jail was built in 1881, but has not housed as many prisoners as it is now. Old-timers claim Bandera has another distinction, in that the office of county attorney has been vacant for many years because business is too slack to attract aspirants.

Forest came into court neatly dressed in a blue serge suit, freshly pressed. He stood erect while being arraigned, and after Deputy District Clerk W. R. Fletcher finished reading the long indictment, he pleaded "not guilty," without the slightest show of nervousness.

Opinions varied as to the probability of Forest getting fair treatment at the hands of a jury in Bandera County. Some said his case had been prejudiced and that feeling was so great against the defendant he could not get justice. Others insisted that while there had been considerable sentiment adverse to the defendant, they were sure a jury could be obtained that would consider only the evidence adduced at the trial, and render a just verdict.

H. B. Nance, who said he lived 13 miles from Bandera and had been a resident of the county for 17½ years, was the first witness put on by the defense in its effort to substantiate its claim that a fair trial could not be obtained here. He said he traveled all over the county buying and selling livestock and that he had heard many expressions of feeling against the defendant. He said he had not heard anyone say Forest was innocent and some gave it as their opinion he ought to be sent to the electric chair. If taken on the jury he would give the defendant a fair trial, he said.

Walter Keese, who lives 20 miles from Bandera, said he had lived in the county all his life and knew the defendant "since he was a little fellow." He said he had heard "right smart" discussion of the case and that feeling seemed to be against the defendant and he had heard the homicide described as a "brutal affair."

One man said he did not think a "man like that ought to be loose," and he heard that another party had said "he ought to look up a tree," in referring to the defendant, Keese testified.

"One party told me he thought Sheriff Stevens should have left him here so he could have been mobbed," the witness said. Keese said the expressions he heard were confined to his own immediate community.

A Compilation by County Judge J. A. Eames showing the number of votes cast at the last election as being 1,064, was introduced into the record by the defense.

The issue of the Bandera New Era of August 26, bearing an article headed, "Will A. Gray Fatally Murdered," in which were given details of the murder of August 22, for which Forest is on trial, was introduced. The article referred to the deceased as having been "most brutally and fiendishly murdered," and spoke of Sheriff Stevens' action in removing Forest to the Bexar County jail, following his arrest, as having "prevented a lynching".

An editorial referring to the murder and in which the hope was expressed among other, that "the day will never come when the fair name of Bandera County will be blackened by a lynching," was also read into the record.

Robert I. Wilson, of Kerrville and W. S. Ethridge of Bandera, private counsel assisting District Attorney W. C. Baker in the prosecution, were requested by Attorney Morris to tell the court the source of their employment, and if they knew of any contributions to a fund to pay their fees.

Wilson said he had been employed by Tom Gray of Bandera, a brother of the deceased, and Ethridge said he was engaged by Gray, and the widow of W. A. Gray, the deceased. Ethridge said the Union Bus Company of San Antonio, with whom Gray was employed at the time of his death, had told him that he could ride free of charge on their buses while he was engaged in the prosecution. Both said they did not know of any contributions toward a fund to pay them.

A copy of the San Antonio Express of August 23, containing a story headed "Bandera Crowd Threatens to Lynch Prisoner," and telling of the finding of Gray's mutilated body and the arrest of Forest, was read into the record.

Ernest E. Taylor who lives near Blackett, said he had heard many expressions unfavorable to the defendant. He heard some say that he ought to be hanged or sent to the chair, and in his opinion could not get a fair and impartial trial in this County. He had not heard anyone say Forest was innocent.

C. W. Harris, justice of the

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense—applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should rave for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within yourreach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The First State Bank

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one."

How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Every child should have a bank account! Show them how to save.

School Bonds Declared Void.

The Attorney General has ruled that the bonds as issued in the recent election in the Utopia school district were void and it will necessitate the election being held again. It is thought that through some change in the district and the leaving off of certain territory voided the bonds. The people of Utopia have been holding their school in various store buildings and private residences since the school house was destroyed by fire—Uvalde Leader-News.

Surprise Birthday Dinner.

Uncle John Dugosh turned seventy years old last Sunday, and his children and grandchildren gave him a delightful birthday surprise by dropping in and spreading a big dinner at the family home north of town. Those present on the happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John Dugosh, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hubble and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dugosh and children, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Reeves and children of Camp Verde, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace James and family of Ingram, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dugosh and children.

Mr. Dagosh has thirty-five grandchildren, and of this number twenty-three were present to help him celebrate the 70th birthday. He also has one great grandson.

The New Era joins in congratulations and best wishes for Uncle John's continued good health and we hope he will be spared to be with us many more years. We appreciate some of the excellent birthday cake which was brought in to the editor Monday.

D. B. Hicks, M. F. Smart, R. L. Duke, and J. B. Smallwood, all good citizens of the Utopia region, were this week called to attend district court, being summoned on the special venire. Monday afternoon they swamped this office with a flood of subscription renewals to the New Era, and we feel like a bloated bond-holder in consequence.

No Engine Fumes in Buick Closed Cars!

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with breakdoodlers. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick.

Scenes at Opening of the Forest Murder Trial in Bandera

peace at Medina City, who held an inquest over Gray's body, said he heard nothing about threats or violence on the day of the alleged homicide. He said that the people were cumfounded at the sordid details of the crime, and that all similar cases created more or less talk.

Robert Mayfield of Medina City said there was the "right smart feeling" against the defendant, and that the consensus of opinion was he ought to be punished. He had not heard any expression lately.

J. M. Hunter, editor of the Bandera New Era, said his paper had a circulation of about 900 copies, and that three-fourths of this number went to citizens of Bandera County, and that they had doubtless read his account of the killing of Gray. He said he believed the inflamed feeling was because of the nature of the crime and not necessarily against the defendant. He said he believes Forest can get a fair and impartial trial.

Sheriff Henry Stevens said he had taken Forest to San Antonio on the day of the homicide for "various reasons," and that he believed such action was necessary "for his safety at the time." About 100 people gathered in Bandera, he said, although he took the prisoner out of the jail and drove away with him, accompanied by two deputy sheriffs without any demonstration on the part of the crowd.

He said it was more economical to keep prisoners in the Bexar County jail because the Bandera County jail had been in disuse so long it was not safe, and that no one lived on the premises, making it more or less easy for prisoners to escape, and necessitating the employment of guards.

He said that he had made statements that Forest had not been adequately punished in other cases that were brought against him, and if he had been, the Gray killing would not have happened. He said Forest "got off light" in cases where he was charged with cutting "the Smith boy" and with resisting an officer.

He said Gray was widely known and well liked, having lived in that community about 10 years. There are about 400 qualified jurors in the county, he said.

He said the physical facts showed it was a premeditated murder, a very brutal one, and that he believed the sentiment charged as existing against Forest was a result of the heinousness of the crime, and not against any particular individual.

He said guards were kept at the jail every day, but not so much to keep some one from taking the prisoner out as to keep him from getting out. He said Forest was taken when the bank was shown he kept the alleged robbers in the District County jail.

He said he had heard of no demonstration on any one's part to mob the defendant, although Rush Forest, his brother, had told him he was afraid of such action. B. O. Baker of Medina City said he had known the defendant since he was a child, and that he had confidence in securing him got a fair and impartial trial. He was given a severe grilling by District Attorney Baker, who asked if he was not actively doing everything he could to aid in Forest's defense. Baker said he was only anxious to see him tried by a jury that is not prejudiced. He should not "but around and talk to them if he wanted to," until he was placed under the rule by the court and admonished not to discuss the case.

Witness said the defendant's father in his lifetime was a practicing physician at Medina City, and was highly esteemed and that the defendant's mother and his San Antonio, but says he visits Bandera county frequently, and had heard the crime discussed. he did not think defendant could get a fair and impartial trial.

S. P. Sutton lives near Lima. Heard of the killing of Gray. Knows defendant. Well acquainted over the county. Does not think defendant can get a fair and impartial trial. Questioned by Judge Brucks witness admitted that he was on the regular jury panel and also on the special venire, and had talked to Ben Baker, and counsel for the defense in regard to the case and had signed the affidavit with application for change of venue, knowing at the time that the court had admonished him not to talk about this or any other case that might come up for hearing.

Judge Brucks then instructed the clerk to enter a fine of ten dollars against the witness.

R. S. Smith testified that he lives near Medina, was sheriff of this county twelve years. Well acquainted over the county. Was at home on August 22d, 1926. Heard many people express opinions in regard to case; heard no prejudice against Pat Forest individually. Heard no threats. Believes he can get a fair and impartial trial in Bandera County.

C. Y. Billings, druggist in Bandera, testified that he was in his store on August 22, 1926. Heard the homicide discussed a great deal at the time, but not much discussion recently. Thinks defendant can get a fair and impartial trial in this county. Has no prejudice against defendant.

B. F. Langford, testified he lives in Bandera. Knows a great many people in the county. Remembers time of the killing. Could not say that he knows Pat Forest the defendant. Hasn't heard the case discussed much, mostly immediately after the homicide. Heard no prejudice expressed against the defendant. Belives he can get a fair and impartial trial in this county.

A. L. Mansfield, County Judge-elect, testified that he had heard the Forest case discussed. Heard no prejudice; heard no feeling expressed against the defendant. Believes the people of Bandera county will give any man a fair trial and will be governed by the law and evidence. Believes defendant can get a fair and impartial trial here.

R. I. Harper, testified that he lives in the western part of the county. Did not hear very much of the homicide at the time it occurred. Read about it in San Antonio papers, but not in Bandera paper. Does not know defendant. Is a member of the present grand jury. Believes defendant can get a fair and impartial trial. Heard expressions that he was a bad boy. Thinks there are men in Bandera county who will give him a fair trial.

After hearing arguments by counsel for chang of venue the motion was overruled by Judge Brucks. Application was then made for a continuance on grounds of a material witness. The motion for a continuance was granted.

INSTRUCTION IN RED CROSS FIRST AID SAFETY FACTOR

Its Industrial and Educational Service Spreads Throughout the United States.

Signs that the United States is awake to the menace of its increasing accident toll are appearing in the growing interest in first aid instructions as offered by experts of the American Red Cross.

Approximately 20,000 juniors and seniors completed the First Aid courses during the fiscal year, passed rigid examinations and received Red Cross First Aid certificates. This represents an increase of 2,500 over the preceding year, and the gain is attributed to the emphasis on health education by various public bodies and including not alone the American Red Cross and Government agencies, but life and accident insurance companies, and athletic and recreational groups.

In Dallas, Texas, playground supervisors are required to hold First Aid certificates. In many high schools the subject is included in the regular curriculum. In order to assist in training instructors for the phase of the work special courses have been conducted in the summer schools of such leading institutions as the University of Maryland and the University of Virginia. Instruction was continued during the year at Loyola, University, New Orleans; University of California, San Francisco; University of Kentucky; Temple University, Philadelphia; Peabody Teachers' College and similar educational centers.

Work with the public utilities group has shown an exceptional increase during the year. Classes conducted by fourteen of the associated Bell Telephone companies were continued with increased interest and a number of the companies sponsored intensive courses in First Aid for instructors.

The First Aid Instruction Car of the Red Cross was busy throughout the year, the 126 cities visited by the car 300 meetings were held with the aggregate attendance of 84,400 persons.

Membership of the people in the American Red Cross makes such services possible, the annual opportunity of pledging support through membership being offered in the Roll Call from November 11 to 25 this year.

Nature Inspires This Bandera Girl

With nature for her instructor and with wet mud for her material, Miss Velma Stevens, 18-year-old Bandera girl, has laid claim to a future niche in the hall of fame. Studying the wild life and the beauty about her home, she has taught herself the rudiments of sculpture.

Curtesy, San Antonio Light.

She has never seen an art gallery or a museum, nor has she ever dreamed of a stuffy studio wherein inspired persons lounge in Bohemian unconvention—

But what of that?

She has the heart of an artist; for an instructor she has nature; for models and inspiration she has the beauty of the hill country west of San Antonio.

And so Velma Stevens, 18-year-old Bandera girl, has embarked upon a career that has nothing to do with milking th cows or washing pots and pans.

Some day, Miss Stevens says, she hopes to immortalize the beauties of this section of the country before they disappear under the encoaching tide of development.

Miss Stevens' talent was first discovered by J. Marvin Hunter, publisher of the Frontier Times.

Without instruction, she had learned to model this mud into miniatures of the living things that were a part of her daily life. —San Antonio Light.

Large Hogs.

Last Thursday while at Harper we visited the hog farm of Henry Thiele near that town, and we saw there the largest hogs we have ever seen. They were of the Big Boned Poland China extreme large type, the principal male being four years old and standing fifty-two and a half feet high. He is not in full flesh at this time, but weighs about 650 pounds, and if fattened would tip the scales at around 1100 or 1200 pounds. Some hog, we claim. The sows are almost as large, and all of them take first prizes at all fairs where they are exhibited. Mr. Thiele sells the pigs at six weeks old for $10 on the place. R. F. Langford of Bandera now has one of those pigs, brought it home from Harper in a crate, and the Theile family will get a start here. Mr. Thiele has an ad in our classified column, and invites correspondence. But if you are interested in real hogs it will pay you to go over to Harper and visit his hog farm. He informed us that from two sows last season he sold $200 dollars worth of pigs, and then could not supply the demand for that extremely large type of Poland China.

The Mexican dinner and tamale sale at Wright Hall on Wednesday of last week netted the Parent-Teachers' Association over $40.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fries were in from the ranch last Friday and called to renew their subscription to the New Era. Mrs. Fries informed us that she had just sold fifty-five turkeys which brought her $217.65.

W. E. Teel, of San Antonio, was here Friday and dropped in to subscribe for Frontier Times. Mr. Teel informs us that he expects to soon become a citizen of this county, and is now on deal for a good ranch property near Medina.

The chicken supper on Thanksgiving evening at St. Joseph's school was well patronized, as well as a delightful entertainment given there on Saturday night.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The home of Colonel and Mrs. J. S. Head was full of Thanksgiving guests. A splendid dinner was served, and those partaking were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hayes, Mrs. Mark McBryde and children, Will Hayes, Mrs. R. A. Chipman, Mrs. Virgil Hayes, Mrs. Emma Howe, Mrs. Thos. Hayes, and Colonel and Mrs. Head. The New Era editor and family received a cordial invitation to be there also, be we had to go to Harper.

A. F. Vollmering, R. E. Willis, R. A. Robinson, Lucius Hicks, Captain T. P. Grant, Delbert Hicks, H. J. Hermes, Sr.; and R. C. Boales, were among the delegation of Tarpley freeholders and householders who reported for jury duty Monday.

Misses Victoria Montague and Helen Lytle of San Antonio, accompanied by Joe O. Montague of Fort Stockton, came in Saturday to spend a day or two with relatives and friends. The ladies returned to San Antonio Sunday, accompanied by Miss Laura Duffy, while Joe remained over Monday.

Dale Dean was in from Mason Creek Saturday with fresh vegetables. He informs us that his little three-year-old daughter, Dorothy, Lee, had the misfortune to stick the tine of a pitchfork in her knee a few days ago and had suffered considerable from it. She was taken to Kerrville for treatment and is now doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Langford and children, Orbell, Eldon and Wirth, Miss Glayda Crisdale, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hunter and daughters, Misses Jennette and Rachel, went over to Harper Thursday to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hunter. Marvin Hunter, Jr. and Leslie McMains went over there Thursday afternoon. A sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner, with turkey and all the trimmings, decorations and accessories, was served and we all enjoyed it. We returned home Thursday evening, but the youngsters remained over there until Friday evening.

Regular meeting Bandera Chapter, No. 643, O.E.S. on Friday night, Dec. 17th, 7 o'clock, in the Masonic hall All members are requested to attend, and visitors cordially invited.—Mrs. Ollie Hodges, Worthy Matron; Mrs. Janet Curry, Secretary.

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things in life within yourself.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The First State Bank

Offers Another Scholarship.

Baylor Female College has offered a scholarship again this year to the girl making the highest grade in the graduating class of Bandera High School. This well known and popular college has been admitted to the Seven Association of Colleges and Universities, and ranks with any of them. The scholarship offered is worth striving for. Last year Miss Evelyn Mansfield, daughter of Judge and Mrs. A. L. Mansfield was awarded the scholarship and is now attending the college, where she is making splendid grades, and is delighted with the course of study.

Mrs. A. L. Mansfield returned Tuesday from Laredo, where she spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. Clara Housh in that city. She reports a most delightful trip and brought home some oranges and grape fruit which she gathered herself from orchards there.

The January number will contain the following very interesting articles: "The Last White Woman at Fort Concho," "The Print of the Crooked Hoof," "A Texan at San Angelo: "Shirts laundered in the rear." Here is another one, seen on a farm gate near Kerrville: "For sale a full-blooded cow, giving milk, three tons of Johnson grass, a lot of chickns and a grindstone."

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Every child should have a bank account! Show them how to save.

35 Years for Robbing Bank

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 7.—I. Madison Akers was given a sentence of 35 years in the penitentiary by a jury which late Tuesday found him guilty of robbing the Irving State Bank on August 25, when $7,200 was taken.

Tears came into the eyes of Akers as the import of the sentence came to him while Judge C. A. Pippen was thanking the jury for its verdict. Akers' wife and sister were with him and he was still wiping away tears when he was led away to his cell by the bailiff.

Akers was identified by Fred Hooser, assistant cashier of the bank; C. D. Miller, drug clerk, and Mrs. O. L. Story, as one of the bank robbers in the bank robbery. A. P. Mauk, president of the bank was not positive in his identification.

Same Here Some Day.

Eighty years ago John Hunt was taken before sanity experts and his sanity questioned before he was paid $2,400 for a corner lot on Fifth Avenue, New York City. The other day the same lot sold for fourteen million dollars.

Stay at Home, Girls.

It is said that 25,000 country girls and young women are to be found adrift in New York City each year without money or friends. West Texas girls should keep away from large cities unless they have friends and money. The big cities are the wickedest.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Fine rains have fallen throughout this section. Fall plowing was about finished by our farmers, and the slow soaking rains coming at this time, puts a good season in the ground, which spells prosperity next year.

In effect, the value of farm products cannot be exchanged for all the present day farmers require or desire. The value of farm products must be increased or the value of manufactured products decreased before the values may be equalized.

Teaching is at all times a thankless task. Its material rewards are small. Teachers with a love for their work often find their only recompense is in the gratitude and appreciation, in the success of their former students.

The Winter Garden News, published by H. G. Perry at Catarina, Texas, "Where sunshine spends the winter," appeared on our exchange table this week. Mr. Perry, who formerly published the Junction Eagle, was located in a live town in the Winter Garden District, and the second issue of his paper indicates that he will do exceedingly well there. He is a good newspaper man, and Catarina was fortunate in landing him.

The New Era is always glad to correct any errors it may make, when kindly asked to do so. In our issue of November 25, in discries court proceedings, it stated that V. E. Edmonson was fined $10 by Judge Brucks, for failing to appear as a grand juror. We heard the fine assessed in court, but later Mr. Edmonson appeared and stated to the judge that he had not been summoned as a grand juror, and Judge Brucks promptly remitted the fine. We did not know of the remittance, hence the publication as a fact. We gladly make the correction.

The New Era does not send out bills for subscription as a general rule. The date on the margin of the paper or wrapper opposite your name shows when your subscription expires. We carried many of our subscribers over from last year, because last year was a hard year, and also some of those subscribers are owing us for two years. We do not like to part company with a single subscriber, for we need every one of them in our business, but our finances, nor the postal laws will not permit us to carry them longer. If you want the New Era we want you to have it, but we must certainly want pay for it.

It will make some difference to the development and prosperity of Bandera whether most of their money is spent here, or whether it goes elsewhere. Let people do well to remember that when they spend it here, they give a general boost to the community. And they help not local enterprises and enable them to employ more help, pay more taxes, and more roads, and provide the generally with a better service than ever before.

The important things in our lives are not the sweetmeats, the material accomplishments for which we make much. These are but the vehicles by which humanity advances, the road over which civilization is carried, and you will find the important things are beauty, love, joy and hope. And one who contributes even a little to the making of these has done a fine thing in the world. A garden of flowers, a beautiful picture, a good book—all help to make life worthwhile.

Population experts are just beginning to awaken to the importance of the country population count, but their residents are certainly as far from being farmers as they are from being city dwellers. There are about twelve million persons living in the villages of the United States. Some of them are farmers, others are tradesmen, artisans, manufacturers and laborers and every village has its quota of professional men and women.

Before deciding to move to some new locality through the influence of some smooth-tongued sales agent step and count the cost. Then figure out how much you can deduct for "the old farm" here, and how much better prices you can make it for even less money than what it would cost to move, and we believe that you will decide to stay right here in God's country. Scientific farming methods applied right here will accomplish as much or more and will make you as much money as anywhere on "God's green earth." In the slang vernacular of the day, "know your soil." Don't think that you will not have to know soil and climate conditions in that new Eldorado you "do" because you will. There are drawbacks in every clime. The sales agent only tell the good points.

That Old Fashioned Household.

Not long ago the writer spent a night in one of those old-fashioned country homes on the outskirts of civilization, if you want to call it that, where time had not erased all trace of customs and traditions of days gone by. This home has withstood the many changes of the last half century. When the mother stepped out into the yard every dog, cat and turkey—in fact every thing that walked or flew—took after her. When she went to prepare supper, all of her boys and her husband followed her to the kitchen. Everything seemed together round that good woman. She cooked some of those big biscuits made out with her hands, and fried some home-cured ham and made brown gravy; and when supper was ready, all gathered at the big dining table and "said the blessing." Then into the living room. There were pictures on the wall which told some stories of half a century ago. Over by the door was the picture of grandpa's three big boys—Uncle Tom was sitting in the middle, with Uncle Charley standing on one side and Uncle Jack on the other. Their whiskers would be out of style now. Then over by the clock was a family group, enlarged from an old tin-type. Grandpa and Grandma were sitting down and the bigger children standing behind, and the baby on Grandma's knee. Grandpa's side whiskers would allow Uncle Bill to envy him. On one side of him stood a ball-room pap and on the other side was a home-made chair. After struggling, using one of Grandpa's suspenders for a strap. The old family Bible and a well-worn photograph album on the center table.

That night I slept on an old-time feather bed—one of those that you have to step up to get out. And a pillow I had one of those large, long bolsters. The very surroundings made you feel like getting down on your knees and saying over the trundle bed. They still cling to the gourd for a dipper. The mother said her children gave her very little trouble, though she rarely ever had to punish them when they were growing up.

It did not take one long to learn the secret of those boys' respect for their mother, and why they gained their place in Methodist songs and prayers. They are graded very high according to the rules of modern society, but for being a real, all-around, clean-living, and God-fearing people nigh close to one thousand. In her plain, simple, God-fearing way she had brought those boys through the trials of life in the wild west, and when they grow older and are prone to stray in paths where hidden dangers lie in wait, a mother's prayer and influence holds them still.

When our loving Father gathers His children home to their heavenly abiding place, there will be no sales agent step and count the cost. Then figure out how much you can deduct for "the old farm" here, and how much better prices you can make it for even less money than what it would cost to move, and we believe that you will decide to stay right here in God's country. Scientific farming methods applied right here will accomplish as much or more and will make you as much money as anywhere on "God's green earth." In the slang vernacular of the day, "know your soil." Don't think that you will not have to know soil and climate conditions in that new Eldorado you "do" because you will. There are drawbacks in every clime. The sales agent only tell the good points.

Continuance of the Forest Case.

Last week when the New Era went to press we had not obtained the full particulars in the continuance of the case against Pat Forest, charged by indictment with the murder of Will A. Gray. As stated, change of venue was denied, after a lengthy hearing, and that motion was made for a continuance which was granted by Judge Brucks. Court adjourned Thursday after noon, and Sheriff Stevens, with armed guard, conveyed Forrest to San Antonio early Friday where he was placed in the Bexar county jail for safe keeping.

The attorneys for the defense in their application for a continuance, asked it on account of the absence of two witnesses and the illness of Dave Watson of San Antonio, whom they said Mrs. R. B. Forest, mother of the defendant, had employed as leading counsel for her son. Will McBee of Bandera and Charles Saunders of San Antonio were named as the absent witnesses. Judge Brucks said he would not consider Saunder's absence grounds for continuance, because his address was known and he believed he could be brought into court, but that in view of the absence of McBee, whose whereabouts are undetermined at this time, the defense claimed, and the nature of the testimony the defense averred he would give, the continuance would be granted.

A process had been issued for McBee on November 26 and returned by the sheriff unserved November 30. Judge Brucks said he believed due diligence in an effort to obtain service on the witness had been shown.

The defendant claimed in his application that the wife of McBee did not know his whereabouts, other than she believed he was picking cotton somewhere in the vicinity of Voca.

The application claimed that the defense would show that "superintended by long and continued use of liquor and other liquids and medicines and aggravated by a recent continued use thereof, and further aggravated by a series of threats, abuses, and conduct of deceased toward defendant, defendant's mind at the time of the homicide, was deranged and he became temporarily insane and unaccountable for his conduct" at the time of the alleged homicide.

It averred in its position that by McBee the defense would show "both deceased and defendant were drinking and under the influence of liquor on the morning of the homicide, and deceased went away and procured a large, green-colored quart bottle of whiskey in company with and came back to the defendant with the witness, and about the same time procured and had with him two small bottles, or pints, of whiskey and McBee saw the bottles and the whisky in possession of deceased, and saw and knew that deceased became angry toward the defendant and was quarrelsome with him; that the homicide occured a short time thereafter and that both defendant and deceased had in the meantime been partaking of said whisky and that in the struggle and difficulty between defendant and deceased, defendant used in his defense the heavy bottle, striking deceased therewith and not with a boot nor his feet, nor otherwise, as claimed by the State; and further said testimony will be shown in defense of the various wounds and alleged brutalities, as claimed by the State were inflicted on the deceased."

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they will be married—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within yourreach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The First State Bank

Three Counties Send Protest.

Junction, Texas, Dec. 14—Carrying petitions bearing more than 1,000 names, a delegation of Kimble County citizens are in Austin to protest to Governor Ferguson against the proposed pardon for Homer Fleming, under sentence for 99 years in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Annie Fleming, who was shot to death at her home near here.

Fleming is now confined in the Bexar County jail, while his case is pending before the Court of Criminal Appeals. He has been tried twice, once before the district court at Llano. The first trial resulted in conviction and sentence of 99 years. The case was reversed and a change of venue ordered to Fredericksburg where another conviction and sentence of 99 years was returned. The alleged crime occurred in Kimble County on Dec. 18, 1923.

P. H. Hammond, district attorney of the 33rd Judicial District, has filed his protest before the Board of Pardons and is presenting to the Governor petitions from Llano and Gillespie counties protesting the granting of the pardon, each of which is signed by the respective juries before whom Fleming was tried. A special petition signed by women of Kimble County will also be presented to the Chief Executive.

Widespread opposition to the granting of a pardon for Fleming was aroused when it became known that application had been made. Names on the various petitions include all the court officials and prominent people in the counties of Kimble, where the slaying occurred, and Llano and Gillespie, where the two trials were held.—The San Antonio Express.

Buda Bank Robbed.

A lone little brown-eyed, quietly dressed young woman, who impersonated a newspaper reporter, robbed the Farmers' National Bank at Buda last Saturday morning. Dispatches state that she drove up in her automobile from the south, and parked her car in front of the bank. Entering she engaged people in the bank in conversation, telling them she was a newspaper woman, a reporter for the Beaumont Enterprise. When all the customers had gone to lunch she requested Cashier A. A. Jamison to let her use his typewriter. She went into the cage and Jamison went into the vault. As he emerged from the vault he was surprised to hear the command, "Stand where you are," and he beheld the young woman with drawn revolver, who ordered him and Bookkeeper Howe to go into the vault and hand her all the money. They complied promptly, and in passing out the moneey a package of bills, about $1,000, was dropped on the floor and kicked out of sight. She then locked the two men in the vault and departed, taking about $1,000 with her, it is said.

Later a young woman, a stenographer in Attorney General Dan Moody's office in Austin, was arrested for the crime, and was released on $5,000 bond.

Turkey Prices Fall.

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Every child should have a bank account! Show them how to save.

My Reason.

My reason for resigning the principalship of Crockett School is that I do not feel that forty-five or sixteen to eighteen hours each day I have received the co-operation and support that are necessary to real success. This decision is not the result of any anger or sudden emotion, but is the result of more than two month's serious consideration. Mr. O. L. Adams and Mr. Ernest Banta both knew that my resignation was written out several weeks ago and the reason plainly told them both.

This step has plainly been taken with positively no feeling of anger toward anyone, and I am sure that another teacher, properly supported, can succeed far better than would be possible for me under the circumstances.

CARL F. WHEELER.

Uncle Dick Sullivan Dead.

Mrs. R. E. Moore and Mrs. R. T. Holcomb, of Medina went to San Saba last week to be at the bedside of their father, W. F. Sullivan, who died there on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Sullivan had been ill for many months, and for several weeks he had realized that the end was near and talked with his friends and family of his readiness and willingness to meet death. He was born at Moorville, Mississippi, March 8, 1854, and came to Texas at the age of 16 years. He served as a Texas Ranger during frontier days, and was a typical frontiersman. He lived in San Saba county for many years, and was engaged in the hardware business in the town of San Saba.

We knew Uncle Dick Sullivan and considered him one of our best friends, and in his passing we shall miss his kindly letters and his cheerful greeting. He always came to see us when he was in this part of the country, and always had good words of encouragement for us.

Surviving are his wife and twelve children, as follows: Mrs. W. H. Hinyard of San Saba, Pat Sullivan of Comstock, Mrs. R. E. Moore and Mrs. R. T. Holcomb of Medina, Mark Sullivan of San Saba, Paul Sullivan of Washington, D. C. Mrs. C. M. Bulger of Martinez, California, Mrs. J. B. Arnold of San Antonio, Ramsey, Richard and Harry Sullivan of Richmond, California, and Miss Mary Sullivan of San Saba. To the bereaved wife and sorrowing children the New Era extends condolence and sympathy.

Don't wait until the last day to select your Christmas cards. Call in and see the New Era's line. No orders taken for less than 25.

Helps the Town.

Many of the people are entertaining visitors from elsewhere, and many a four folks have gone away. An enterprising local newspaper always seeks to chronicle these comings and goings but it is a difficult proposition handled right unless the public co-operates with it.

It would be a nice thing if a monthly or semi-monthly list were presented of such visitations and journeyings, and of the social events that occur in a town through the summer. Social meeting would thereby be facilitated, people would call and see friends from elsewhere who are visiting here, old acquaintances would be seen and friendships would be renewed.

Some people claim to be offended if their names are printed in the paper and some are offended if they are not printed, so newspaper folks have a rather hard time trying to please all elements. But if it is considered legitimate for people to mention the fact in conversation that such and such a person is doing so and so, it is difficult to see how anyone has ground for complaint if the same thing is mentioned in a newspaper. The people who make such a fuss about having their names thus used, are sometimes rather pleased at heart when they are mentioned.

Most people would like to have these personal activities carefully reported, so they can know what their friends are doing. They should therefore co-operate by telephoning the newspaper or sending in a written item when they can give out such information about their own families and friends.

Editors and reporters cannot visit every home in a town and find out where people are, so that a complete record of peoples' movements is to be made, the people must co-operate by giving some of this information themselves. —Deland (Fla.) Sun.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era's big Christmas Greeting Edition will be issued next Thursday, and that will be the last issue of the little old home paper this year, the next issue after Christmas to appear January 6, 1927.

Police are now lecturing boys and girls found in joints where beer and whiskey can be bought in Dallas. Many of these are mere school children. Some of the parents should take a sawed-off shot gun and put a few of these dumps out of commission.

During the past week quite a number of our subscribers have dropped in to square up their subscription accounts with the New Era and wish the little old home paper prosperity during the coming year. Makes us feel better, helps us to meet our bills and encourages us to strive the harder to make the New Era a good newspaper.

The year 1926 is slipping away rapidly. Seems to us that it has sped along pretty fast, for only a few days ago, it seems, Spring was here, and then Summer and Fall, and now we are on the threshold of a New Year. It has been a pretty good year, after all, but we have left many things undone which ought to have been done, and perhaps have done many things which should not have been done.

The First National Bank of Buda was held up and robbed one day last week by a girl. She locked the cashier and his assistant in the vault and departed with $1,000, all in broad daylight. An arrest has been made. The girl probably committed the robbery for the "thrill" she got out of it. Maybe she will be "thrilled" when she hears the verdict of a jury in giving her a term in the penitentiary.

"Pay it with pullets" is the slogan of farm boys and girls of Tennessee who returned the standard bred pullets to the bankers who supplies them with eggs last spring on the "Return a pullet" payment plan. The boys and girls are members of poultry clubs conducted by extension workers cooperatively employed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agricultural college. These pullets will be sold at auction by the bankers to interest the farmers of the state in better poultry.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

You will receive Christmas cards frm your friends, wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, which shows your friends have not forgotten you during this glad season. A Christmas card can convey more real sentiment than any small present we know of. It's a reminder that we still have friends. You may not be able to give expensive presents, and you naturally feel that you want your friends to know you have not forgotten them, so the Christmas card offers a solution of your difficulty. During the past week this office has printed hundreds of these greeting cards for Bandera folks, and we are daily receiving orders for more. Our stock was soon exhausted and we had to send for another supply. Come in and see them.

When is a Man a Mason?

To the question "When is a man a Mason?" John Fort Newton replies: "When he can look out over the rivers, the hill and the far horizon with a profound sense of his own littleness in the vast scheme of things and yet have hope, faith and courage, which is the root of every virtue. When he knows that, down in his heart, every man is as noble, as vile, as divine, as lonely as himself, and seeks to know, to forgive and love his fellow man. When he knows how to sympathize with men in their sorrow yea, even in their sins; knowing that each man fights a hard fight against many odds. When he has learned how to make friends and keep them; above all to keep friends with himself. When he loves flowers; can hunt the birds without a gun; and feels the thrill of an old forgotten joy when he hears the laughter of a little child. When he can be happy and wholesome amid the meaner drudgeries of life. When star crowned trees and the glint of sunshine, flowing waters sublue like the thought, of one much loved and long dead. When no voice of distress reaches his ears in vain and no hand seeks his aid without response. When he finds good in every faith that helps any man lay hands on divine things, and sees majestic meanings in life whatever the name of that faith may be. When he can look into a wayside puddle and see something beyond mud, forlorn fellow mortal and see something beyond sin. When he knows how to pray, how to love, how to hope. When he has kept faith with himself, with his fellow man, with his God; in his hand a sword for evil, in his heart a bit of song; glad to live and not afraid to die. Such a man has found the only real secret of Masonry and the one it is trying to give to all the world.

Artists' Recital.

Songs, readings and play by Mesdames Carroll, Hicks and Miss Fuller, for the benefit of the Bandera High School Wednesday, December 29, 1926.

Again—"Blinded by the Lights Of Another Car.

After he had lived for 90 years passing through the numerous hazards of pioneer days—attacks by wild beast or savage red men—and doubtless had experienced the perils of storm and plague, J. W. Senner of Arlington, (Texas), was struck and killed by an automobile while crossing the street on returning from church Sunday night.

The dispatches relates that a motorist "traveling at an ordinary rate of speed and blinded by the lights of another car," knocked down Mr. Senner, and the latter died on the way to the hospital. Two attendants who had been assisting him across the street were unable to save him, and one of them injured.

This State's motor-vehicle headlight law, regarded as a model statute, when enacted—was intended to prevent just such accidents, which had become all too common in Texas, as elsewhere. The act detailedly sets forth the measurements and conditions with which every automobile headlight must comply in order to meet scientific safety standards.

As a furher check, county tax collectors were instructed to issue license plates only upon presentation of a certificate that the lights had been tested. A maximum fine of $200 for the second offense was prescribed. The last section of the statute reads:

"The fact that automobiles and other vehicles are being used with inadequate lights and lights so brilliant and glaring as to be a menace to human safety creates an emergency," etc.

The Arlington accident shows that today—18 months after the law became effective—this "emergency" is still with us. Headlights on street and highway are practically as inadequate or as glaring as before. Collisions come about and pedestrians are run down apparently as frequently as when Texas did not have these specific regulations.

Public opinion, aroused by fatal accidents, prodded some traffic authorities over the State into an inforcement "drive" last summer. Much flagrant disregard of the law was detected. As usual the "cleanup" was merely a spurt and no permanent improvement was effected. A highway official in Tarrant County—where Mr. Senner was killed—only a few days previously had demanded that the new legislature put more "teeth" in this law; but would that render any easier or more likely its effective enforcement?—San Antonio Express.

How Are You Fixed For Winter?

What a feeling of comfort and satisfaction every member of the family has when the pantry shelves are loaded with canned fruits, vegetables and meats, and hanging in the smokehouse are through the winter. If out in hams and bacon enough to last the cellar or in store some place there is a supply of sweet potatoes, turnips, rutabagas and other vegetables that can be stored, while in the barns or in sacks is found sufficient feedstuffs for the livestock, the satisfaction is more complete.

How many farmers in the Southwest are this year ready for any kind of winter that may come? Farm and Ranch hopes that everyone has looked forward to the winter months by storing up food for the table and feed for the livestock but while expressing that hope, it is certain that many have depended entirely and solely upon the returns of their cotton crop with which to buy what they could have produced for themselves.

From reports we have received, not as many farmers as we would wish will be in a position to profit by this issue which tells how to kill and cure meat for home use. Hog-killing time on the farm and no hogs. What a comment to have to make on our foresight. Acres of vegetables and wagon loads of fruit rotted in fields and but little of it, in many instances, put up for winter consumption. Farms without a semblance of a garden. Other farms where gardens were planted and let grow up to weeds. Some farms are without chickens, and hundreds of them without a cow, with many thousand without a hog. All this sacrifice for cotton, which, according to some, is not worth picking.

Let this thought sink in. The farm is, first of all, a place to live and make a living.—Farm and Ranch.

The School Play.

The High School pupils last Saturday night presented a laughable farce-comedy, "A Case of Suspension," at the High School Auditorium, which drew a good crowd and netted the school over forty dollars to be used in the purchase of athletic equipment. Everybody was pleased with the entertainment afforded. Miss Fuller's impromptu orchestra made quite a hit, being composed mostly of girls with ukeleles, and by some was christened the "Bandera Ukelele Jey Breakers." The girls in the orchestra were Misses Glayda Croisdale and Nettie Hunter, violins; Eunice Sorter, Lula and Edith North, ukeleles; Mildred Watson, Lorene Surber, guitars; Ruth Davenport, piano; Master Cecil Lewis, snare drum; Miss Jo Fuller, director.

Appearing as characters in the play were Misses Ruth Thalmann, Rachel Hunter, Thelma Sorter, Zella Mae Price, and Aileen Cash; Messrs. Marvin Hunter, Jr., Burgin Davenport, Herman Thalmann, Bob Mansfield, Charles Rugh Jr., and as blackface comedians George Lane Leonard Little and Cecil Surber made quite a hit.

Glen Meadows will arrive from Houston next Monday to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Meadows.

"The Christmas Carol"

"The Christmas Carol" was the title of a very interesting play presented last night by the pupils of St. Joseph's Parochial School. The play was an exceedingly enjoyable one and quite comical, and the attendance was large, the proceeds realized by the parochial school being quite satisfactory.

Yu'etide Gathering.

There will be a happy gathering at the Montague home Christmas day, when several of Mrs. Montague's children will be present to enjoy the Yuletide under the family roof. Those who will be there will be Dr. Laurie Montague of Tampico Mexico; Brian Montague of Del Rio, Joe G. Montague of Fort Stockton, Miss Victoria Montague of San Antonio, Mrs. Rose Gardiner, Miss Margaret Montague, and Frank M. Montague of Bandera, and the venerable mother, Mrs., Chas. Montague.

Entertainment at Tarpley.

The recital given at Tarpley last Friday evening by Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Caroll was very much enjoyed and appreciated by the Tarpley people. The bazaar held by the Tarpley Parent-Teachers' Association was also well patronized, the proceeds amounted to $25.00.

Ashley Rugh will arrive from Houston today to spend Christmas with homefolks.

The New Era has just received a few copies of Emerson Hough's very interesting book "North of 36," which we will sell for $1.00 per copy, this office; or $1.10 by mail. This book, usually sells for $1.50 to $2.00.

"North of 36" Tomorrow Night.

"North of 36" is to be shown at the Bandera Theater tomorrow, Friday, night, and also Christmas Day, beginning at 5:30 p. m., being intended to get through with the show in time for the big dance at the hall Christmas night. This picture has been shown in San Antonio a number of times, in a week's run each time, and it's return is always well patronized. It is one of the most popular pictures ever filmed, dealing as it does with the early trail driving period of Texas it arouses interest wherever shown. When Emereon Hough, the author, read "The Trail Drivers of Texas," a book of 1034 pages compiled by J. Marvin Hunter, for Geo. W. Saunders, the president of the Old Time Trail Drivers' Association, he asked permission to use material in this book for the creation of a story for the Saturday Evening Post. The permission was given, and Mr. Hough's story "North of 36" first appeared in the Saturday Evening Post in 1921. Later it was brought out in book form, and three years ago it was filmed. It is a wonderful story and pictures conditions and customs of those early days in accurate manner. The cattle on the trail, the stampedes, the swimming of rivers, the encounters with Indians, and all, are brought out in a way that carries you back to that period of our state's history when the cattle industry was conducted in a different way from the present. We saw this picture shown at the last Old Trail Drivers' Reunion in San Antonio to about 600 old men who went up the trail in the early days and we heard many of them say it portrayed the "real thing." The picture has a pretty romance interwoven throughout, and some humorous incidents which give it plenty of spice and excitement.

Pan-Am Flyers Sail.

With Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the United States Air Corps, leading the way, the five amphibian planes designated by the Army to fly on a mission of good will around South and Central America, took off from Kelly Field Tuesday morning on the first leg of the 18,000-mile journey, which will consume nearly five months.

Good Advice

Advice is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within yourreach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

The First State Bank

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "I wish you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Every child should have a bank account! Show them how to save.

Spareribs! Oh, Mim!

Our good friend, Dominic Dugosh, brought us a generous portion of spareribs last Friday and we had the sweet potatoes to go with them, too. And boy, we feasted. Dominic informs us that he killed two hogs last week each of which was one year and 20 days old, both were Big Boned Poland Chinas, and one of them dressed 438 pounds, while the other dressed 415 pounds. He says its the way you feed hogs and the kind of hogs you raise that counts in meat production. We appreciate the spareribs he brought us, and agree with him that there is good profit in hogs if they are properly handled.

Truck Overturned.

Yesterday morning D. W. Buck started to San Antonio with a truckload of oats for market. Accompanying him as passengers were his wife and Rev. R. N. Hicks and two little sons. Just out of town, Mr. Buck looked around and the car went into a ditch at the side of the road and turned over, spilling the occupants out on the ground. Apart from a few bdluses and bumps no one was seriously hurt. It was a narrow escape for all of them. The truck was only slightly damaged.

Groomed to Succeed Callan.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 21.—W. T. Montgomery of San Antonio is mentioned as the possible next chairman of the State Livestock Sanitary Commission to succeed Leo Callan. Ferguson appointee. This fact was learned here Tuesday as an echo of the recent visit of a delegation of South Texas stockmen who protested the appointment of Callan.

Montgomery is a contractor but he is also a cattleman and has had extensive experience in the cattle business. He was a witness before the House committee investigating the state departments and gave testimony regarding negotiations for highway contracts that were a criticism of the methods in use at the time he sought the state business.

The present livestock sanitary commission consists of Leo Callan of San Antonio, chairman; Caesar Kleberg of Kingsville and Dr. F. F. Jarrell of Tyler. While Kleberg is a Ferguson appointee he is also known to be close to Dan Moody and may be reappointed. A determined effort has been made in behalf of Callan but the protests recently made are said to have made his chances of reappointment doubtful.

Livestock interests over the State are intensely interested in the personnel of the livestock commission. This interest has been intensified by the tick eradication campaign and the discussions as to its efficiency, it being attacked by many as highly expensive and of doubtful results. The commission administers the tick eradication law and the members of the next commission constitute some of the most important appointments to be made by the next governor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Alston and family, of San Antonio, will arrive tomorrow to spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era wishes its many readers and friends a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Fine rains have again fallen this week, soaking the ground thoroughly, and will be of great benefit to crops next year.

The hunting season ends December 31st. The season now is only six weeks in length, and some people think that is six weeks too long.

Let your New Year's resolution be that you will do your level best to get our court house yard enclosed with a suitable fence and a public park established therein.

The New Era is "house-cleaning" on its subscription list. If you fail to receive the little old home paper after the first of January perhaps it is because you have neglected your oversize subscription.

The New Era wants to report all of the home-coming, Christmas dinners, social functions and other holiday events. We will appreciate it if you will kindly report such as come under your observation or take place in your home.

Only a few more weeks and "Ma" Ferguson will vacate the high place of Governor of Texas and Monday will become the chief executive. But it begins to look like "Ma" is going to release all of the convicts in the penitentary before she quits.

During the holidays you will have visitors in your home. If they are from out of town we will appreciate your kindness if you will make a list of your visitors and send to the New Era for publication in our next issue, January 6th.

The New Era mentioned last week that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moravietz had visited this office. This is a mistake. It was Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moravietz who visited us and renewed their subscription. There happens to be no Mrs. Paul Moravietz, and the New Era cheerfully makes the correction of this statement.

Frontier Times will make an ideal Christmas present for father, son or brother. A handsome Safety Razor outfit is being offered as a premium for one new subscriber to Frontier Times. Order the little magazine sent to some one, and receive the Auto-Strop Safety Razor outfit and you will then have another Christmas present for somebody else.

"North of 36," taken from Emerson Hough's wonderful book, will be shown at Bandera Theater tomorrow night, and matinee Christmas Day beginning at 5:30. Admission 50c and 25c. The New Era has ordered just one dozen of the books. "North of 36," which we will sell for only $1.00 per copy. This book will make a suitable Christmas present for your friend.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing our appreciation to all who helped in any way in our Bazaar December 18. Your co-operation and patronage made it most decidedly a success and pleasure. We thank you.—Woman's Missionary Society.

"There is a Reason"

Mileage Contest at Boerne.

The Gasoline Mileage Contest held by the Paine Motor Company, at Boerne, last Tuesday of last week with the Improved Model Ford car was certainly a surprise to most every one.

The winning car is a Touring Car sold to Jim Campbell about ninety days ago and when the mileage was checked by the judges they found that the car had travelled forty-one and one-half miles on one gallon of gasoline.

All cars entering this contest were standard stock cars and were not altered in any manner that might add to their mileage.

J. B. Killman was second with a Roadster Pick-Up, making thirty-five and eight-tenth miles.

Max Hofheinz was third with twenty-seven and two-tenth miles.

Christmas is at hand. The joyous time of the year will be duly observed at the Methodist and Baptist churches in this city with appropriate services and Christmas trees, and at the Catholic church the usual observance will take place, midnight mass will be conducted, and in private homes will be Christmas trees, parties and social gatherings. It's a time for gladness, for Christmas represents to us the birth of the Savior of mankind. Everybody should keep this in mind, and properly celebrate.

Only the older people of the present generation can remember when the custom of putting all of a child's presents upon the public Christmas tree existed when the rich man's child went home laden with dolls and toys and the same Santa Claus also a few meagre playthings for the poor child. It was a public barbarity that has long since been abandoned—thanks to growing enlightment and the practical application of Christian thoughtfulness. Nearly all of the churches nowadays have Christmas trees with a program or cantata and if any presents at all are given, each receives but a small gift in addition to the "treats" which Santa Claus passes out to all alike. In many Sunday Schools, the children are asked to bring toys to their Christmas Eve exercises, impressing upon their young minds the necessity of making the Yuletide happy for those less fortunate than themselves.

Up near Sheridan, Wyoming, the other day fire broke out on a large ranch and water being scarce the fire was extinguished with milk by ten men and a woman. Another good argument for keeping milk cows.

Snap Shots from Dallas News.

Our idea of the happiest Christmas is one where father spends the day playing with the children's toys.

There are some things in Texas that might be improved but the weather is not one of them.

Another good thing about the credit business is that some stores will let you put your December purchases on the January bill and remember it in February or March.

You can now go ice skating in Dallas, but it is commercial ice, not climate ice.

Tillie Clinger says the reason she hates her new boss is because he told her she might hang up both her stockings at Christmas, but she mustn't prop them up in the office.

Epworth League.

Despite the threatening weather a good crowd of young people attended Epworth League at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. We were delighted to have our Presiding Elder, Dr. Sessions and Mrs. Sessions and their daughter as visitors. Mrs. Sessions gave a most interesting talk dealing with "The Development of An Individual." The subject for next Sunday is "The Bible and Missions." All young people are invited.

A Classic on the Cow.

Many well-deserved tributes have been paid to man's friends of the animal world, the horse, the dog, and birds, but seldom are the virtues and utility of the cow, that foster-mother of the human race, extolled in such impressive phrases as the following which is a part of a longer effusion by Malcolm R. Patterson, former governor of Tennessee:

"The cow is an uncrowned queen without a scepter, and her kingdom is all the land between the seas. Her motto is service, and she always gives more than she receives.

"When the children are well, she makes them better, and they grow and flourish with her constant benefactions. When they are sick and wasted, she raises them up and starts them right again. Her milk is one perfect food for young and old. It holds every element to sustain works for all humanity without a complaint and was never known to strike for higher wages. All she wants in exchange for her myriads of blessings that she confers is enough to eat and a place to lie down at night.

"She is thoroughly democratic in her habits and opinions. She gives to the men and women and children of all races and creeds, to kind to all, and favors none above the rest. She is dainty, too, in her tastes. She would rather die before she would feed on flesh. Her feed is clover, grain and succulent things of the vegetable world, grass, with which O-l carpets the earth in living green as it springs fresh from the heart of nature.

"The cow is domestic. She loves home. She knows the place where she lives, and is faithful to it.

"If she must wander away for feed, when the shadows begin to lengthen in the evening, she will be standing at the gate, asking for permission, and the chance to yield her rich burden which she has stored in the daylight hours. The cow is the poor man's chief reliance, he tried and trusted friend. She is true to him when all the world is cold. Her concern it to help all humanity, and the man who lives in a cabin with seven low headed children to bring his joy, and poverty is as much the recipient of her bounty as the rich man with three automobiles, two dogs and four servants, without one child to disturb his sleep or bring a smile of joy to his starving soul. I believe that a cow loves a poor man best, for he needs her most.

"If all the cows in the world would die tomorrow, it would bring untold calamity upon mankind. We could get along better without railroads, banks or the cotton crop, for without the cow the race would sicken and decay and finally perish. May we honor and praise her as she deserves. I hope as we advance in knowledge when we cease to be cruel and selfish, we will quit murdering and eating cows that have given us strength and comfort and saved our babies' lives. When this happy day comes, I would like to see a large fund collected to build an "Old Cow's Home," surrounded by luscious pastures and running water, where these old tried friends would pass their remaining days and die in peace."—Humb Animals.

Christian Anderson Dead.

Christian Anderson, one of the county's early settlers, and loved citizens, passed away at his home on Red Bluff Creek on Wednesday night, December 29th, 1926, after a short illness. The funeral was conducted Thursday by Rev. W. H. Price and interment was made in Pipe Creek cemetery, a large crowd of sorrowing friends being in attendance.

Mr. Anderson was born in Denmark, February 17, 1859. He came to Bandera county May 5th, 1872, and settled on the place on Red Bluff Creek where he lived for more than half a century. On December 7th, 1874, he was happily married to Miss Addeline Klemme at Boerne, and to this union four children were born, two sons and two daughters, all of whom survive except one son, Dr. Frederick Anderson, who died in Astoria, Oregon, in 1918. The living children are Hon. Charles Anderson of Stockton, California, Mrs. A. D. Brown of Sanderson, Texas, and Mrs. William Wallace of Pipe Creek.

Mr. Anderson was a quiet, unassuming man, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a member of the Lutheran church. He possessed the confidence and good will of everybody, and if he had an enemy it was not known. He was a man of high ideals. His conception of life and living was based on a high plane and he was loved for his many beautiful traits of character. He had no unworthy ambition. The poison dark of envy had never marred or scarred his soul. He was a high-minded chivalrous gentleman in the highest and truest sense, and he loved and revered his adopted country and state and was a patriot to the core. One of the outstanding traits of his character was his high regard for womanhood. Those who knew him most intimately say they had never known a man of cleaner thoughts and one who cherished more highly the purity and sanctity of the gentler sex. Another outstanding trait in his well-defined code of living was his rugged honesty and his conception of square dealing with his fellow man. He will be missed by all who knew him, for in his passing this section loses one of its best men, his family a kind and devoted husband and father, and the community a noble and beloved citizen.

Mr. Anderson is survived by his wife, one son, two daughters, and four grandchildren, and to these bereaved ones the New Era extends sympathy and condolence.

Clarence Young Killed.

Clarence Young, aged 32, Helotes rancher, died in the Robert B. Green Memorial Hospital in San Antonio at 2 o'clock last Thursday afternoon from a bullet wound, said to have been accidently inflicted by a deer hunter. He was shot through the stomach with a 30-30 rifle while riding a horse in his pasture, near Helotes, according to a statement made to San Antonio officers, by J. W. Morris, aged 24, of near Menard. Morris and J. H. Dunigan, who were at Young's place, took the wounded man to San Antonio, he directing them how to drive and where to take him to. Morris told the San Antonio officers he was a guest of Young and was hunting in the brush, saw the bushes moving, and raised his gun and fired. He heard a man scream and, rushing up, found Young slumped in his saddle, wounded. Mr. Dunigan, also from Menard, helped to get the wounded man to San Antonio.

The body of the unfortunate young man was taken to Menard for burial, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. J. J. Ray, pastor of the Christian church, in the First Presbyterian church at Menard, with interment in the Menard cemetery, last Saturday afternoon, January 1. Friends from San Angelo, Lo-

Good Advice

Advise is hard to take. It is a human weakness or conceit to think we "Know it all."

But advice from older and wiser heads, from people who have graduated from the school of hard knocks is well worth listening to. Especially by the young folks.

Thrift—plain common sense applied to spending is absolutely essential when married. Of course young men and women should save for the time when they marry but afterward—saving is imperative, if they are to succeed and be happy.

Savings make a happy home for children—the worthwhile things of life within yourreach.

Reckless, thoughtless spending is fatal to both happiness and success.

Giving Him a Lesson in Values

Benjamin Franklin, a wise man born of thrifty people, said: "If you would know the value of a dollar—try to borrow one." How true.

Teach your son or your daughter that Franklin truth and nurture in their minds the appreciation of the value of the dollar while they are in the penny age. It takes a stronger hold and becomes so deep rooted that all later influences toward reckless spending and careless handling of money cannot destroy the habit of thrift—the solid rock upon which all success is built.

Every child should have a bank account! Show them how to save.

Assessor Chisum Resigns.

Tax Assessor Joe E. Chisum has resigned his office and will devote his time in the future to a lucrative position in the engineering department of the Magnolia Petroleum Co. For the past few months Mr. Chisum has been doing special work for the company in various counties in the state. His resignation as tax assessor came as a surprise to his many friends and while we all regret that he has surrendered the office, we hope the new position will be satisfactory all around. Mr. Chisum has been tax assessor of this county for about ten years, he has been thorough and painstaking in the discharge of the duties of that office, and has made hundreds of friends throughout the county by his obliging manners and courteous bearing. Just who will succeed him is problematical, as the office is to be filled by appointment by the county commissioners court, which meets next Monday. We understand there are several aspirants for the position.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor

Entered at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas, as second class matter.

Another tragedy has occurred, which is of interest to many people in this section. Mrs. Hilton, who lived with her husband on the Medina river, a few miles above Bandera, was drowned in the river Monday morning. Mrs. Hilton was in the act of crossing the river in a boat, when the boat capsized, throwing her into the water. She was unable to swim, and was carried down by the current. Her husband was on the bank of the river, but was unable to save her. Mrs. Hilton was a sister of Mrs. Ed Hamilton, of Bandera, and was well known here. She was about 40 years of age, and leaves a husband and several children to mourn her untimely death.

Another happy Christmas season has come and gone, and we have now entered upon the New Year. Another twelve months have gone into the past, and we are one year nearer the end of time. Time is counted with periods of eternity. Whether we as individuals have proved faithful or unfaithful during the year just closed, is not for us to say. We believe, however, as a people, many have made great strides during the past year and we look forward to still greater achievements during the coming year of 1921. There is no need to be discouraged over the present financial depression. We have brought worse and grief before and for most of our people the past year has been a prosperous one. Let us take courage and look forward hopefully during 1921.

Last Saturday we visited Medina, where we spent the night with Mr and Mrs. J. M. Rogers. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have resided in fact, spent most of their boyhood there, but this was our first visit to the old town in almost twenty years, and we were astounded at the changes which have taken place during the time which has passed. Splendid residences have been built, the old business houses have been remodeled, and many new ones erected. Take where they are engaged in stock work. Lucile married Will Anderson, who is engaged in the mercantile business with her father. Willie married Miss Mamie Davis, and both of them are teaching. Jessie and Annie are now located in Dallas where they are engaged in school

The Norris Case on Trial.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 11.—Frank Norris, fundamental Baptist pastor of Fort Worth, went to trial for his life in district court here Tuesday with the law of "apparent danger" as the chief pillow of his defence. Five jurors had been selected by 4:30 p. m.

Questions put to the prospective jurymen by defense attorneys revealed that Norris' lawyers will draw a sharp distinction between "apparent danger" and "actual danger" and that they will lodge their defence in that phase of Texas criminal law which says that a man need not be in actual danger of his life to justify him in using extreme means for his protection but need be only in such danger that, viewing the circumstances from the position and mental attitude of the defendant, he had a reasonable belief that his life was endangered. The questions to prospective jurors indicated that Norris will contend he believed he was about to be killed when D. E. Chipps entered his church office on July 17 last and that for this reason he shot Chipps.

Selection of jurymen went forward rapidly at once the case got under way. Both sides made their decisions on jurymen with little contention, examining veniremen at the rate of about four an hour. The 20 veniremen yielded five jurors.

Bernard Duke Appointed Assessor.

Bernard E. Duke was appointed Tax Assessor for Bandera county by the County Commissioners last Monday, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. E. Chisum. The selection was made by ballot, only one ballot was being taken when Mr. Duke received two votes, A. V. Poe one vote and E. P. Langford one vote. There were fourteen applicants for the place, those asking appointment being Bernard E. Duke, A. V. Poe, Sam R. Smith, Granville Wright, Wiley Meadows, D. R. McCarthy, C. M. Clark, John McNaughton, H. Harper, Mrs. C. H. Davenport, E. P. Langford, Mrs. Orange Clark, and Luther Cousginan.

The selection of Mr. Duke's tax assessor meets with general approval, and we are sure he will give good service in the office. Charge of the duties of the office. He is well qualified for the place, is owner and manager of the Bandera Independent Telephone System, and was a candidate in the last election for the office of county and district eclerk.

Box Supper.

A box supper will be given at Indian Creek school house, Saturday night, January 22, for the benefit of the school. Everybody invited to come and bring their boxes.

Pat Forest Seeks Bail.

An application for habeas corpus to obtain bail, filed in the 94th District Court Monday morning by Pat Forest, indicted in Bandera County on the charge of murder of W. A. Gray, must be heard in the county where the indictment was returned, it was held by Judge W. W. McCrory. The court granted the writ but refused to go into the hearing, and ordered the hearing transferred to Bandera County.

Forest was brought here for safekeeping after his case was continued in Bandera County last November. The sheriff of Bandera County said his jail was insecure, and as he had no other prisoner it would be cheaper to maintain Forest here.

The defendant was indicted after the body of Gray was found lying on the road near Medina early. It was declared the man had been slugged and run over by an automobile. Gray was a former resident of Bandera, and was a bus driver residing in San Antonio.—San Antonio Express.

We understand the date for hearing of Forest's application for bail has been set for today, but as Judge L. J. Brueks, Judge of this district, is holding court at Uvalde, it will likely be postponed to a later date.

To Move to Medina.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lewis, who have been in charge of the central office of the Independent Telephone System for some time will move to Medina today. It is with much regret that we see this excellent family leave us. We wish them success wherever they may locate permanently, for they are deserving every thing good that comes their way.

Buys Big Ranch Property.

Frank Montague and his brother, Dr. L. J. Montague, returned Saturday from a trip to the Langtry region on the Pecos and at Del Rio where they visited their brother, Brian Montague. Brian Montague and his partner, Mr. Belcher, have recently purchased extensive ranch holdings, some thirty sections, in Terrell county, about thirty miles east of Langtry, on which they will stock with sheep and goats. The famous Meyer Springs is located on the property and while they were out there Frank says they visited the springs, where they saw the Indian pictographs on Bullis Bluff, which were quite a curiosity. When he told the editor about these pictographs and drawings on the face of the bluff it increased our determination to visit that bluff and see them.

Repeal of Amnesty Act.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 11.—Prospects for a harmonious session of the 40th Legislature today were dimmed by the introduction of a bill by Senator Tom Love of Dallas, calling for the repeal of the Ferguson amnesty measure.

Mobilization of forces in the Senate started immediately after the introduction of the bill, which was referred to the committee on criminal jurisprudence, headed by Walter C. Woodward of Coleman.

A flareback to the bitter fight of two years ago when the law was passed over a veto of Jim Ferguson, then attorney general, that the measure was unconstitutional, was forecast both by senators for and against Love's bill.

Joe Moore of, Hunt County; A. E. Wood of Granger, Moody floor leader in the special session of the 39th Legislature; J. W. Reid of Canyon, were among those who said they will support the measure on the grounds that amnesty act was unconstitutional. Friends and former friends of James E. Ferguson and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson are certain to attempt to defeat the bill. Senator Archie Parr of Duval County predicted its defeat.

Estimates from senators who will vote for the amendment forecast its passage by a vote of 2 to 1.

To Build New Residence.

Leu Rayfield, who recently sold his home near the Baptist church to Mrs. John Eckhart, is fencing a large lot just back of the church and will shortly begin the erection of a cottage thereon. He is now drilling a well on the property.

The county commissioners inspected the county jail last Monday, and found that the building needed some repairs, which were ordered made.

Over 500 Autos Registered.

Over 500 automobiles and trucks have been registered in Bandera county to date to carry the 1927 license plates. This shows a substantial increase over the 1926 registration. Indications are that many more will be registered before time for registration closes.

Associational Rally.

A big rally was held at the Baptist church in this city last Tuesday, when local members and about fifty visitors from different places gathered to inaugurate the debt-paying campaign which has been started by the Baptist church. The meeting Tuesday was highly inspirational, and good talks were made by Dr. I. E. Gates, Rev. Kellum, Rev. Powell, Mrs. Miller and others. It is the purpose of the campaign to reach every association and member and to arouse enthusiasm in the undertaking. Dinner was served to the visitors in the hospitable homes in this city. Among the visitors present were Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Merrill, Mrs. Ola B. Gammon and Mrs. Richeson of Kerrville, Rev. W. H. Price and wife of Medina, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Storms and Rev. Walter Harbin of Center Point, Rev. W. E. Brown of Ingram, Dr. I. E. Gates of San Antonio, Rev. J. J. Kellum, Rev. R. L. Powell of San Marcos, Mrs. Miller, president District W. M. U., Mrs. Hayden and others of San Antonio.

At the close of the meeting the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas, representatives of the Medina River Association and others, meeting in the interest of the Baptist debt-paying campaign, have met at Bandera, and,

"Whereas we have received at the hands of the pastor and members of the Baptist church and other citizens of Bandera abounding hospitality;

"Resolved, that we hereby express our grateful appreciation of the beautiful singing of Mrs. Hicks, and also for the presence and messages of the visitors from San Antonio and other places.

I. E. Gates.
Walter Harbin.
J. W. Storms."

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Dan Moody will be inaugurated Governor of Texas next Tuesday. And then it will be "Goodbye Fergusonism forever."

The county commissioners, in session last Monday, agreed to enlarge the court house yard by setting the front fence out to the street line and enclose the heroes' monument which stands in front of the court house. This is the first step toward re-establishing a park on our public square and we are rejoicing.

J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Fort Worth, went on trial at Austin last Monday for the murder of D. E. Chipps in Fort Worth several months ago. Norris expressed himself as being confident of acquittal. But an acquittal in the courts there does not wash the stain of blood from a man's hands.

The same old clamor for the calling of a constitutional convention and the making of a new constitution for this state will come up in this session of the Legislature. For years all sorts of efforts have been made to abolish the homestead law, the best measure ever enacted into a law, for it is a thorn in the side of loan sharks and moneylenders, and its repeal has been sought. The only way the homestead law can be abolished is in the adoption of a new constitution. Therefore we are for the present constitution, tooth and nail. The old document has been amended and patched a whole lot, but it's a pretty good old garment yet, and we don't want to see it cast aside.

The Legislature convened at Austin last Tuesday in regular session. Of course there will be a flood of bills introduced as soon as the session is under way, and the law-makers will be kept exceedingly busy for the next sixty or ninety days enacting the new laws or amending old ones. Then when the regular session ends a called session will probably take place and another thirty days will be consumed in enacting mere legislation. But when the session finally adjourns it will be seen that very little has been accomplished after all. That's the way it usually happens, and we do not expect the Fortieth Legislature to be an exception to the general rule. It is hinted that there will be some highway legislation, increase in the gasoline tax, educational matters, change in the motor license law, and taxation, and of course there will be some constitutional amendments introduced.

Church Advertising.

We are pleased to note that churches are beginning to advertise in the newspapers. It has become a recognized fact that the newspapers are the best medium through which to reach the public, and now in newspapers throughout to land will be found big advertisements announcing church services and meetings. This week there appears in the New Era the advertisement of the Grove Avenue Church of Christ in San Antonio. The pastor, Harvey Scott, was in Bandera recently and arranged with us to carry this advertising in the New Era for some time. Minister Scott writes us that he wants to come over to Bandera and spend awhile here and get acquainted with the people, and perhaps hold a meeting here. When you happen to be in San Antonio over Sunday make it a point to go to Grove Avenue Church of Christ and hear him preach. It will be worth your while.

The Kerrville Times editor tells his readers that the New Era editor is a contender for more and better hens, and dairy cows, and hogs, and such things. And the Times editor is right. We are for those things for a fact, for we have the ideal country in which to grow them. Bandera is strictly a stock-farming region. Good soil for the production of crops, and good range for all kinds of stock, and since we raise stuff why not raise the best? It costs no more to raise a thoroughbred cow than it costs to raise a scrub cow. And what pleases us most is the fact that our stock-farmers are grading up their sheep and goats and hogs and turkeys, and cows. They find it pays to do so.

The writer enjoyed a very pleasant fraternal visit Saturday from J. Marvin Hunter of Bandera. Mr. Hunter who is editor of the Bandera New Era and also publisher of the Frontier Times, it will be recalled, formerly lived here and at one time was editor of the Menard paper. The Menard Messenger Way back in the nineties, 1890 to be more exact, Mr. Hunter's father was also connected with the Menard paper and it was through this connection with the newspaper business that J. Marvin Hunter became interested in the game as publisher and printer. Mr. Hunter tells us that his Frontier Times is enjoying wide circulation and that he devotes the greater part of his time and talent to the editing and publicaion of this monthly magazine which carries as nearly as is obtainable first hand stories of events that happened in the pioneer days of Texas—Indian fights, life sketches of famous gunmen etc. Incidentally, Mr. Hunter visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rogers while in Menard.—Menard Messenger.

Frontier Times for February.

The February number of Frontier Times, the increasingly popular little monthly magazine printed in this office, will be issued next Saturday. This will be the best and largest number ever issued of Frontier times. It will contain sixty-four pages and cover and will be full of thrilling Texas historical sketches. The people of Bandera do not seem to realize that this magazine, is a boost for Bandera wherever it goes, and there be some right here who are disposed to ridicule it, but that's their privilege and we are not discouraged by such ridicule in the least. We are determined to make the publication a success, and the encouragement we are getting from prominent people all over the United States is indeed gratifying, and stirs us to redouble our efforts to publish a magazine worthy of their endorsement. If you have any doubts about the popularity of Frontier Times just happen to drop into our office next Monday and see our force binding and mailing out the February edition or go around to the postoffice and see the big bundles of wrapped copies being sent out to subscribers. The forth-coming number will contain the following stories:

"Rangers Rescue Three Children in Bandera County."

"John Day Morgan, a Texas Pioneer."

"Christmas in Junction Fifty Years Ago."

"Pronounced the Death Sentence."

"Overland Trip to California in 1850."

"The Old Sergeant's Story."

"Fight at Ledbetter's Salt Works."

"Freemasonry on the Frontier."

"Jack Hays, the Intrepid Texas Ranger."

"Comanche Still Lives."

"Henry A. Crabbe, Filibuster."

"Stage Hold-up at Pegleg in 1877."

"Hardships of a German Family."

"The Battle Creek Fight."

"The Morgan Massacre."

And other thrilling and interesting sketches. Frontier Times sells for 15c per copy, or $1.50 per year. Get a copy of the February issue.

As evidence of unswerving faith in the productiveness of Bandera county's soil, we want to mention that Veteran Amasa Clark, the county's oldest citizen has just placed an order for a lot of fruit trees to put out on his place west of town. Veteran Clark, who is now 101 years old, came to Bandera county in 1852, and for many years operated a nursery, but for the past ten or twelve years has devoted his time to the culture of pears, apples and peaches. "Some odd years ago he bought fruit trees from J. M. Ramsey's Nursery in Bonnet county. The old Ramsey nursery was afterward moved to near Austin, and is now operated by F. T. Ramsey, a son of J. M. Ramsey. When Mr. Clark first bought trees from this nursery the present owner was a very small boy, but he remembers the faithful old customer and was not at all surprised to receive his substantial order a few days ago. The order for the fruit trees was placed through Col. J. A. Head, the Bandera agent for the nursery. Veteran Clark was in town Monday, and dropped in to tell the New Era editor that he thinks the old times were the best times, when folks feasted on corn pone cooked in a skillet and ate venison and wild honey.

Druggists of Dayton, Ohio, have taken a step toward ridding their stores of salacious and suggestive magazines, which may be widely followed throughout the country. At a meeting of their association, they adopted and signed the following resolution: 'Be it resolved, that a committee be appointed to act as censors for the magazines and periodicals sold on our stands, for the purpose of controlling the output of indecent and salacious, if not illegal, magazines that are continually placed on the market by certain publishers who have no regard for moral decency, but simply plan their nefarious practice for personal gain. We are of the opinion that such publications contribute in no small degree to moral lassitude and lawlessness, detrimental to moral and physical welfare.'

Mexico—Money—Monopoly

Who is talking to Mexico from Washington? Old man Money. It may seem to be the Secretary of State, but it is not. Certainly it is not the American People. The People have not said a word to Mexico, yet much has been said. "It is Money that talks," Money that seeks a Monopoly of Mexico's resources.

When John Citizen of the United States is bade get ready to shoulder a musket and march down to Mexico, who so bids him? Money. Money is always sending young men somewhere to fight and die—Money, Monopoly.

American Money invested in Mexico represents more than quarter of the national wealth of Mexico. And who is American Money? The financial interests most heavily interested in that country. You should read the list and see whether you want to go down with a rifle and sabre in Mexico for them. Read the list:

Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Speyer & Co.

Hallgarten & Co.

William Salomon & Co.

Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.

The Guggenheim interests.

All fine old American names, inspired with the purest patriotism. Trailing along with them the Mellon interests and the Morgan interests.

Altogether there are One Billion Three Hundred Million American Dollars talking "Mexican Crisis," but not a single American Citizen.—Dearborn Independent.

Can You Name Him?

Once there was a man named Naut.

He never took sides on any question, political or otherwise.

When a controversy arose over remodeling the old church house, Naut managed to avoid giving his views if he had any.

Once a man slandered and knocked Naut's home town, but Naut did not raise a word of protest nor attempt to reply, for he wished to keep out of the shadow of contention.

At another time Naut had some goods to sell, but he did not advertise them for fear his competitor might contradict his claims of value and service. Such was Naut's reputation for shunning the quiet claim of Naut's life. If there was anything Naut liked it was easy-going, non-contentious life.

But in the course of events Naut died.

When he got up to the pearly gates, St. Peter asked him what he had stood for while on earth. Naut admitted to S. P. that he had never really taken a stand on anything.

So S. P. told Naut that a man who stood for nothing could stand for anything and that there was a place for him. He would just suit Naut.

Having never learned to stick up for his convictions and for fear of "disturbing the quiet calm," Naut did not argue the matter, and turned away into Oblivion.

Thereafter Naut was Naught.—Exchange.

GANDERBONE'S FORECAST

Our ubiquitous weather prognosticator, Ganderbone, whose forecasts used to appear in the New Era with a semblance of regularity, but who during the past year or so has failed to furnish us with his predictions, sends in his regrets this week stating that the sun spots have interfered to a great extent with his "soundings," so much so that he has not been able to record with any degree of certainty the exact rate their shadows athwart his horoscope, but says he is willing to hazard the following forecasts:

"The first twelve days of January show pretty well what the twelve months of the year will be as to the way of weather conditions. Therefore I will say that 1927 will be a dry year, and the summer exceedingly hot. There will be sufficient moisture for crops, but we will hover at times dangerously near failure of the corn crop. Rains will come in silk and tassel time to save corn. February and March will be cold. Spring will be early. There will be a severe epidemic of influenza and throat trouble through February, March and April, and small pox will appear in some sections. In April, May and June you will hear reports of cyclones and destructive windstorms. There will be thunder-storms during July and August. My horoscope reveals danger for a prominent automobile manufacturer who is known throughout the world; also the death of one of the world's richest men and financiers is indicated. There will be quite a bit of oil development in this section during the next year."

The officials of Texas, in the proper appreciation of the attitude which the people have toward public office, should feel that from the infinite spaces of this State they say to their officers what the Lord said to Moses in the wilderness on Mount Sinai, 'put off thy shoes from thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground'."

Concluding, Moody said "and now as we go to give ourselves to the service of the public interest, I ask, as did the Hebrew of old, that God 'give me knowlege and wisdom to come in and go out before this people: for who can govern this people that is become so great'."

"In a well equipped museum, and under proper guidance, the everyday citizen, especially the youth of the state, could relive Texas history—the stirring days when the Republic was being born, the days when the young state was getting into her stride, the great times of Reagan, Hogg and Culberson, and the present period with its phenomenal advance in cotton, corn, timber, oil, and no doubt potash, and its ever more significant improvement in roads, schools, and even frequently in general cultivation and righteousness.

"It has always been true, but only today, do we fully know that men learn chiefly through the eye; and a museum makes its appeal to sight, and to touch, and even more basic sense. Texas cannot afford to be without an efficient Museum."

Church Advertising.

We are pleased to note that churches are beginning to advertise in the newspapers. It has become a recognized fact that the newspapers are the best medium through which to reach the public, and now in newspapers throughout to land will be found big 'advertisements announcing church services and meetings. This week there appears in the New Era the advertisement of the Grove Avenue Church of Christ in San Antonio. The pastor, Harvey Scott, was in Bandera recently and arranged with us to carry this advertiseing in the New Era for some time. Minister Scott writes us that he wants to come over to Bandera and spend awhile here and get acquainted with the people, and perhaps hold a meeting here. When you happen to be in San Antonio over Sunday make it a point to go to Grove Avenue Church of Christ and hear him preach. It will be worth your while.

The Kerrville Times editor tells his readers that the New Era editor is a contender for more and better hens, and dairy cows, and hogs, and such things.

A Wonderful Quilt.

Mrs. Ella Flinn was presented with a very interesting and unique quilt on her fiftieth birthday, November 24th.

This quilt was made from pieces of material of every dress she had ever had, 226 in all, each one different. Her mother, Mrs. W. H. Worden, saved a piece of every dress until she was eighteen, by that time she had saved 116 pieces and then Mrs. Flinn saved them in the years following.

So Grandma Worden got the material together, planned the quilt, and had each sister, sister-in-law, and daughter of Mrs. Flinn piece one block at least and some, many more. Mrs. Flinn also helped. Grandma herself pieced ten blocks even though her eye sight is very poor. The initials of each one was embroidered on a block. They also put the men's and children's initials on a block. On the center block was the word "Mother," also the word "Father" in full, "Ella" and two sisters, deceased. The youngest lady to have her name on the quilt was little Margerie Smith.

Mrs. Worden gave the ladies a dinner the day they quilted the quilt, she putting in a few stitches herself.

Mrs. Flinn considers herself very fortunate to be in possession of such an unusual quilt. She says she would not take a hundred dollars for it, in fact it is something that money could not buy.—The Stewartsville (Mo.) Record.

Advertising's Job.

Business is built by spending money. And that in effett, is the reason for Advertising. It is one of the channels through which money is spent to produce more money, in the form of profits accruing from increased sales.

But good advertising does more than merely to sell merchandise or induce purchases. The real job of advertising is to educate the buyer—to enable him to appreciate the goods when he has them.

Let advertising tell the buyer what to look for—what the good points of a product are, and why it will be to his advantage to buy them. He is then far more likely to appreciate them, and use them steadily. The right kind of advertising not only makes the first sale, but it will make repeat business if it does the job thoroughly. And it is the volume of repeat business that frequently compensates the advertiser for "the high cost of advertising."

Advertising has still a further function to perform. Not only must it create in the customer's mind an appreciation of the goods. It must sell the house that sells him the goods. The creation of customer good will is, in fact, much more the real job of advertising today than selling goods. The outstanding successes in every field of business today, almost without exception, can trace their success to the wise expenditure of generous advertising appropriations solely to create and maintain good will. On the books of these concerns, good will is shown as an actual, tangible asset, with a cash value.

You do not have to be a million dollar house to reap the benefit of good advertising. Even the modest amount, judiciously expended, to build up good will for your business, to create a feeling of friendliness among your trade, will prove a sound and ultimately profitable investment—even though the profit may not be immediately apparent. For the effect of such advertising is accumulative.

You owe it to the community in which you do business, to advertise, not merely from the selfish point of view of bringing more trade to your store, but to stimulate business activity in the entire community. If times are bad, advertise to make them better. If sales show a satisfying volume, advertising will keep them at high level.

Competition, sharp-eyed, and keen, is waiting just around the corner, to snatch your trade away from you. And advertising—consistent and continuous —is the best known antidote for this competition. For advertising is business insurance—money spent today to build more business and earn more money tomorrow. That is advertising's real job.—The Coach.

If It Were Your Child.

If it were your child playing on the curb, ready to dash thoughtlessly into the street after a rolling ball, you would consider no sacrifice too great to save her life. A delay of a few seconds or minutes would seem trivial. You would be ready to stop your car on a dime. If you are a parent you can understand. Only those who have been through the dark hours of waiting and know the indescribable joy when mother and child are safe can realize what the child means to the home. But even the father cannot fully comprehend its place in the mother's heart. No driver in his right mind would deliberately kill or injure a child, yet many drive recklessly through school zones and residential districts where children are playing on the sidewalks. Even those driving at legal speeds have been involved in accidents that were legally "unavoidable." But no exoneration in court can remove the remorse at having killed a child. Protecting the children requires greater caution than the law demands. Traffic ordinances can only set a maximum speed; you must determine the safe speed. Nor can the law define "inattention," the principal cause of accidents. Responsibility can not be shirked by following merely the letter of the law. Drive as you would if that child playing in the curb were your own.—The Sycholizer.

Drilling Permits Cancelled

New York, Jan 25.—A blanket note cancelling all permits on oil wells which had not been started by Dec. 31, has been issued by the Mexican government, according to a telegram received Tuesday by the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico. The message, sent from Tampico, declares all lands involved in the petroleum law controversy are affected.

Up to last Saturday the Mexican government had issued 112 cancellations of oil drilling permits, but this is understood to be the first blanket order, involving wells not specifically designated.

No action is contemplated here, it is said, pending further developments in Mexico.

Norris Acquitted.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 25.—J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist Baptist pastor of Fort Worth, Tuesday night stepped for the third time in a court room a free man.

He was acquitted by a jury in Travis County district court of murdering Dexter E. Chipps, wholesale lumberman of Fort Worth, whom he slew in his church office on the afternoon of last July 17.

There were tears of joy and also tears of another kind from other eyes when the brief, simple verdict of "not guilty" was read in loud tones by S. A. Philquist, court clerk.

The tears of joy were those of Norris and his wife. As soon as the verdict rang out in the court room Norris stood at his desk, where he was surrounded by his wife, their two sons and a circle of friends. There was a wan smile on his lips.

The elder tears were in the eyes of a small, brown-eyed boy who has sat throughout the trial on the side of the State. He is Dexter E. Chipps, Jr., whose father Norris killed. The boy, small for his age, is 14.

When asked about the verdict tears came to his eyes and he choked up. Later he said: "I'm so sorry for mother. It will hurt her."

The boy was alone of all his family, and as the great crowd pressed around to shake the freed man's hand the lad walked slowly out, virtually unnoticed.

It was Norris' third acquittal on a criminal charge. He was indicted in 1922 and 1913 on charges of arson and perjury in connection with the burning of his Fort Worth church and parsonage.

The verdict was handed to the judge at 6:48 p. m.

Votes for Arbitration

Washington, D. C. Jan. 25.—Taking its first direct stand on the Mexican question, the Senate Tuesday unanimously advised President Coolidge to arbitrate the pending controversies with Mexico over that republic's oil and land laws.

Everyone of the 79 Senators—42 Republicans, 36 Democrats and the one Farmer-Labor—voted for the resolution of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, as revised last week by drilling foreign relations committee.

On account of the inclement weather last Saturday, the box supper to have been given at Indian Creek school house that night was postponed to a later date.

Takes Change of Venue.

Almost unheralded a special term of district court was held in Bandera last Friday, at which sitting Judge Brucks, on the court's motion, took a change of venue in he Pat Forest murder case, and transferred it to Kerr county, setting the date of trial for the second Monday in next month, same being the 15th day of February.

A short time ago the defendant indicted for the murder of W. A. Gray, and who has been in jail in San Antonio since early last term of district in November, made application before Judge McCrory in that city for a habeas corpus hearing. Judge McCrory granted the hearing, but ordered that it take place in Bandera. Then Thursday it was announced that a special district court had been ordered for Friday, and Forest was brought up from San Antonio, Attorney for the state and for the defense were on hand, Judge Brucks announced that he would grant the case to Kerrville on a change of venue, on the court's own motion, and set the date of trial as above stated. Forest was taken back to San Antonio, to be later taken to Kerrville.

At the term of district court held in Bandera a change of venue in this case to Kerrville on a lengthy hearing, during which it was brought out that the defendant could get a fair trial here, but Judge Brucks stated that he had carefully reconsidered the case and thought it best to transfer it to another county.

All witnesses heretofore subpeoned in the case will be required to be at Kerrville on the date set without further subpeoning.

Students Killed by Train

Taylor, Tex., Jan. 24.—The worst grade crossing accident in the history of Texas claimed the lives of ten students, all athletes of Baylor University, shortly before noon Saturday near Round Rock when the northbound Sunshine Special, crack train of the International-Great Northern, crashed into the university owned bus which was transporting twenty-two students and officials from Waco to Austin. The Baylor basket ball team was to meet the University of Texas Longhorns in a basket ball game Saturday night.

The dead and injured are as follows: Dead, Jimmie S. Walker of Gatesville, Ivey Foster of Taylor, Wm. E. Murray of Gatesville, Sam Dillon of Fort Worth, J. Clyde Kelley of Waco, Merle E. Dudley of Abilene, Bob Hailey of Lott, Jack Castellaw of Ennis, Bob Hannah of St. Louis, William, Winchester of Waco. Injured: Eli Gooch of Ennis, Fred Acree of Waco, Wesley Bradshaw of Athens, Joe Potter of West, J. G. Berry of Smithville.

Old Fiddlers' Contest.

A packed hall saw the picture show and heard the old time fiddlers' contest at the Bandera Theater last Friday night. Those who entered the contest were Tom Gray of Bandera, T. E. Browning of Medina, Mr. Francis of San Antonio, B. F. Donton of near Center Point, Slick Jones of Bandera, Bob Mayfield of Medina, J. J. Denton of Center Point, J. R. Adams of Tuff, Charlie Walker of San Antonio, Virgil McCarthy of Pipe Creek, and Lee Cravey of Tarpley. Every one of the contestants was an expert, and the way they yanked the old tunes out was truly wonderful. "Wagner," "Arkansaw Traveler," "Mocking Bird," "Sweet Bunch of Roses," "Soldier's Joy," "Black Reg," "Downfall of Paris," "Leather Breeches," "Turkey in the Peapatch," "Ladies' Fancy," "Dry and Dusty," "Bonaparte's Retreat," "Tom and Jerry," "Sally Goodin," "Duran's Hornpipe," "Turkey in the Straw," "Black Jack Grove," and "Hell Among the Yearlings," were the tunes played, and it was with difficulty that the judges could make a decision. There being only one prize offered by the contest promoter, it being a violin said to be worth $50, was awarded to Slick Jones after the announcement was made of the highest three in the contest, they being Charlie Walker, J. J. Denton, and Slick Jones, who played one tune without accompaniment.

Other features of the evening's entertainment were accordeon playing by Roy Rogers; Charleston dancing by Misses Mildred Watson, Elsie Lee Faris, Mary Jureszcki, and George Jureszcki; singing by Misses Thelma Surber and Mary Pyka. Elsie Lee Faris was given the prize for best amateur.

Car Turns Over.

While Sheriff E. Hicks and deputies were bringing Pat Forest up from San Antonio Friday morning, the car in which they were traveling turned over, and was somewhat damaged, but the occupants fortunately escaped injury. The accident occurred when Mr. Hicks attempted to pass another automobile which kept the middle of the road.

Returns to Texas.

Dr. L. J. Montague, who has been practicing in Galveston near Tampico, Mexico, the past five years, was here Saturday on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Chas. Montague. Dr. Montague's friends will be pleased to learn that he has returned to the good old United States, and has located at Edinburg, in the Rio Grande Valley, where he has purchased a citrus fruit farm, and will also engage in the practice of medicine. He has employed Doc Chipman of this city to manage his farm. Dr. Montague is also associated with his brother, Brian Montague, and Messrs. Cliff and Jack Belsher in a large ranch property on the Pecos, mention of which was made in the New Era two weeks ago.

Former Bandera Citizen Dead.

O. G. Davenport, who was born in Bandera in 1866, died at his home in San Antonio January 16, aged 60 years. He was well and favorably known to the older citizens of this county, having lived here for about thirty years, going from Bandera to San Antonio about 1896, where he since made his home. He is survived by three brothers, Mark and Joe Bill Davenport of Bandera, and Sam Davenport of San Antonio. The news of his death was received with much sadness by all who knew him here.

If the picture shown at Bandera Theater last Friday night was a scream, the picture to be shown tomorrow night will be two screams and then a yell. The title of the coming picture is "Woman Handled," and if you want to see some real action you will not miss it. This is a Western picture and one of the best on the screen. As usual a two-reel comedy will be shown. Regular prices, 30c and 15c.

The Bandera New Era.

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The investigating committee, which is conducting the special session of the Legislature, has completely cleared the Ferguson administration in a report issued yesterday which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Five soaking rains have fallen throughout the county during the past week, which are of great benefit to the range and crops. The rains have splendid season for the ground and our farmers are rejoicing.

Only four more days remain in which you can pay your poll tax without disfranchisement. Pro. bably you have neglected this very important matter, but bear. ing that you will have no need for a poll tax receipt during this year, the time may be mis. taken, for issues may arise which call for the exercise of the suf. frage privilege. Better be safe than sorry. Pay your poll tax today, before it is too late.

J. A. Wilhelm has sold the Eden Echo to C. W. Roberts of Lampasas, who will take posses. sion February 1. Mr. Wilhelm and his estimable wife have pub. lished the Eden Echo for the past fifteen years and have kept it up to a high standard of ex. cellence, and made it a factor in Eden's splendid growth. Mr. Wilhelm has not announced his future plans, but we hope that wherever he may go his lot in life will be cast in the same ex. cess be so richly deserves.

A new book is to be issued from Hunter's Printing House in Bandera some time this spring or during the early summer, dealing with the captivity and experiences of Clint and Jeff Smith, boys, who were stolen by Comanche Indians in 1865. Many of our old time citizens know the facts connected with the captivity of Smith brothers, and they will be glad to know that the book is soon to be published. It is now being com. piled by J. Mac Hunter under the direction of Clint Smith, whose story of Indian life and savage surroundings will be told in simple, plain Smith lives at Hackberry, Texas, while Jeff lives in San Antonio. Both of them are well known through. out Southwest Texas.

Diplopia Crafters Visit Uvalde

A pair spectacle fakirs were in Uvalde this week and called at the home of a Uvalde lady whom they had found out was on her own resources and her own boss, so to speak. They did not want to be troubled by other relatives.

After talking spectacles or rather lenses, and failing to in. terest the lady—just on the eve of departure the salesman, after gazing intently at the eye of the lady, said, "Excuse me. There is certainly something wrong here."

After a further examination he stated very impressively: "Why this is one case in a mil. lion. One of the few that I have ever seen. You have a bad case of diplopia. Left to con. tinue it will mean stone blind. ness. There are only three specialists in Texas who can cure this. One is in Fort Worth and two in Dallas. It is an unusual case and I will show you how it will develop."

He placed spectacles on the lady and to her amazement things appeared double. The man was looking her in the eyes with four eyes. He had two noses and two mouths, but only one voice and that kept up the dan. ger she was in.

Finally he decided to call his partner, who was in the car to see this unusual case. After the partner had viewed with alarm the amazing symptoms and ap. parently regarded the case as hopeless, he turned to go and then like a flash his memory seemed to revive and he dis. covered that he accidentally had a pair of lenses that had been ordered on a previous case, of this one in a million, and he would get them and see if they would not correct the trouble. This he did through their marvelous powers the good lady was able to see as she had al. ways seemingly and clearly. As a special consideration they would let the lady have these wonderful lenses for only $65 and they would take the place of the three specialists, one at Fort Worth and two at Dallas. As aforesaid.

However, they waxed very indignant when they were in. formed by the lady that she would make a trip to San An. tonio and consult a famous specialist there if she thought it necessary before buying any glasses. They left in a cloud of wrath and muttering various and sundry woeful predictions.

After the atmosphere had cleared and the intended victim could think singly, she rang Dr. Bowman and asked him what diplopia was.

"Well," said he, "it is seeing double."

"What causes it," she inquir. ed?

"Generally drinking too much bootleg whisky," responded the man of medicine.

Then she called Dr. Boyle, lo. cal optometrist, and told him of her experience.

"Begorra, and where are they now," asked the son of Erin. "The medical association has been looking for them for months but they have given them the dodge."

The parties had left on the train and their whereabouts are yet unknown, but if located they will probably be able to see clearly that the way of the transgressor is hard.

The same grafters have work. ed their victims out of $400 on some occasions, and while not taking the money at the point of a gun, are more guilty of fraud than the highwayman.—Uvalde Leader-News.

'Jim' Played by Solon Probers

Austin, Tex., Jan 21.—"Cer. tain state officials under the ad. ministration of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, with the aid and abatement of certain private cit. izens, have abused the trust placed in them by the public for selfish power and financial gain."

This was the declaration made today by the house committee of the special session of the Thirty. ninth legislature, in its report to the Fortieth legislature, in ses. sion here. The committee was named to investigate alleged ir. regularities in the state's admin. istration and in the state's af. fairs and departments. Several weeks were spent in examining about 200 witnesses.

"As was expected," the com. mittee's report said, "the ma. jority of the testimony had mainly to do with the affairs of the state highway department though a portion of the testi. mony covered other matters."

Outstanding examples of the "abuse of trust for selfish pow. er and gain," were found in the chief executive, Miriam A. Fer. guson, "aided and abetted, and practically dictated to" by her husband, James E. Ferguson, former governor who was im. peached in 1917, and in the high. way department, the report said.

"We believe," the report said, "that the power and pres. tige of the governor's office have been practically usurped and dictated by a private citizen, the husband of the governor, for political favoritism and financial gain, and the fact that he was a private citizen has placed him beyond the pale of the law."

"It is our opinion," the re. port continued, "that the only recourse under our existing laws is by impeachment of the guilty wrongs done to our state by the chief executive under the domi. nation of her husband."

Mrs. Ferguson, her husband and their two daughters, Mrs. George Nalle and Miss Dorrace Ferguson, shown to have been publishers of the Ferguson Fo. rum, a weekly newspaper yere declared by the committee to have used Mrs. Ferguson's office for financial gain. Fees paid by contractors and others doing business with the state place ad. vertising in the Forum. Amounts for advertising were unjustifi. fie, the committee found, but ranged from $100 to $1000 per advertiser.

Before Mrs. Ferguson became governor, the Forum carried only a small amount of advertis. ing, the report said. Solicitors for advertising were introduced by letters written on executive office stationery, it was disclosed. The report declared that em. ployment of James E. Ferguson by W. T. Eldridge, railroad exe. cutive, at a salary of $10,000 a year while Ferguson was prac. tically dominating the office of governor and exercising the powers of governor in his wife's name, "amounted to a "pure pur. chase and sale of executive in. fluence."

Scouting the possibility of "the blanket sympathy of a woman governor" leading to so liberal with pardons and exe. cutive clemency, the report said testimony showed practically all of the pardons granted were on recommendation of Ferguson.

The state prison system at this time is in a deplorable condition financially and hopelessly in debt, the report said.

"The testimony warrants us in saying," the report continued, "that the penitentiary system has been henny-combed with in. competency, graft and in many instances, theft. The property of the system has been stolen in wholesale lots, and the thieves have gone unpunished and undiscovered, and little, if any, effort has been made to dis. cover them."

As an incident of alleged in. competency, the report recount. ed testimony intended to show that the occasion of the execu. tion of four negro prisoners were made "a time of revelry and jest" with many of the guests of prison officials being in an in. toxicated condition during the executions.

The system of civil appellate courts was condemned, with the declaration that the state has more courts of civil appeals than are necessary.

Alleged domination by the husband of the governor in other departments also was shown in the state textbook commission's transactions, the report said. Ferguson dominated the letting of contracts for books at high prices, it was charged.

Alleged practice of members of the legislature practicing be. fore the highway department was condemned.

The highway commission, with the aid of the governor, through her husband, "wantonly, reck. lessly and fraudulently disi. pated millions of dollars of high. way funds," the report said.

Enormous profits were made by road contractors, the report said, before suits were brought to cancel contracts held by the American and Hoffman construc. tion companies.

Ferguson not only dominated the affairs of the highway com. mission, the report said, but dic. tated the hiring of employes.

Present deteriorated condition of the state's highways has re. sulted from "the incompetency and graft" in the department, the report said.

Beauty Parlor Regulation by State Sought.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 24.—Reg. ulation of beauty parlor operat. tors by the State is provided in a bill submitted Monday by Sen. ator Julin Beal of Kerrville.

The measure would empower the Governor to appoint a board of five members to examine the qualifications of applications for practicing cosmetic therapy. Those desiring master's licenses would be required to pay an examina. tion fee of $25 and operators license examinations would cost $10. A renewal fee of $5 for masters and $3 for operat. ors would be assessed.

If the examining board is cre. ated, the majority of its members must be women with at least four years' experience in profes. sional beauty culture work.

Bill Provides 50 Cent Bounty on Rattlesnakes

Austin, Tex., Jan. 24.—A bounty of 50 cents on rattle. snakes is provided in a House bill introduced Monday by Rep. resentative J. Herschel Boggs of San Angelo. The measure would authorize any county seeking relief from rattlesnakes to appropriate one-fourth of one per cent of its local revenue to be used as a "rattlesnake fund." Persons after a bounty would prove it by exhibiting detached rat. tlers.

Wool Contracts.

The first contracts for long wool of the 1927 spring crop in Texas have been signed in Sterl. ing and Menard counties by J. M. Lea and other buyers for Draper & Co., Boston, making headquarters in San Angelo, America's largest inland wool market, it was learned Thurs. day. Prices reached 35 cents a pound with the average only slightly under that figure. The poundage was not ascertained. The purchases fulfill rumors cir. culated before the close of 1926 that contracting would develop early in the new year. Draper & Co. bought last year purcha. ed approximately 30 per cent of the state's total production.

The first contracts in 1926 were signed in Sutton County on March 30 when Joe B. Blakeney of San Angelo purchased a quarter-million pounds for. Hall. well, Jones & Donald of Bos. ton from W. A. Miers, W. C. Bryson, W. E. Glasscock and Thomas Espy. The price was 40 cents a pound. This was on. ly a little under the average paid for the 1925 fall wool through the warehouses, after there had been virtually no contracting, but was practically the same price at which contracting of the 1925 long spring wool began in November, 1924, increasing by January, 1925, to 50c, then to 53½ c, with 60c paid for a few extra choice clips.

An estimated 23,000,000 pounds of spring wool last year brought an average of 35c to 36c for twelve-month's fleeces and 31½c for eight months' fleeces, compar. ed with averages of 46c and 42½c respectively, in 1925. There was little contracting in 1926 and with a heavy crop in the fall, making the year's total for the state around 30,000,000 pounds, the short fleeces com. manded an average of only 25c, with 28c the top.—San Angelo Standard.

Said bid shall be accompanied by cer. tified check for not less than one-half of one per cent of the county revenue for the year 1926 as a guarantee of the good faith on the part of the bidder, and that, if his bid is accepted, he will enter into bond as required by law, and upon failure to do so, such certified check shall go to and become the property of said county as liquidated damages.

British Mobilizing

London, Jan. 24.—All doubts as to the magnitude of the Brit. ish preparations to deal with pos. sible events in China, were clear. ed Mnday night when the War Office announced the composi. tion of the "Shanghai defense force."

This force will defend the Brit. ish concession in Shanghai and will be commanded by Maj. Gen. John Duncan, now here in com. mand of a division. He will sail for China forthwith.

Gen. Duncan saw service in the World War at Gallipoli and Eastern Europe, and his new men—the 13th and 14th British infantry brigades and the 20th forces will consist of about 12,000 Indian infantry brigade, with artillery, armored cars and oth. er equipment. Two battalions of the British forces are at pres. ent at Malta, the remainder are in Great Britian.

Including the 1,000 marines previously ordered to China and the naval ratings of the cruisers dispatched to the Far East and the effectives on the spot, it is estimated that about 16,000 men will be available for the defense of interests. The marines were to have sailed from Portsmouth Monday, but their ship was de. layed by fog. They probably will get away Tuesday.

The British infantry units in. clude a battalion of the Gold. stream Guards Regiment, which rarely is ordered abroad in nor. mal times. The government has charterer the steamers Kin. fauns Castle, Kildonan Castle, Minnesota, Megantic and Herm. inius as transports and the whole force will sail at the earliest pos. sible moment.

The government does not re. quire parliamentary sanction for these military measures, since nothing in the nature of general mobilization is involved. Nev. ertheless, uneasiness is develop. ing in the country at the unex. pected size of the expeditionary force.

The government has protected itself thus far by acquainting the Opposition leader, Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George, with all steps taken, as Parlia. ment does not assemble before February 8. At the same time demands are beginning to be heard that parliament should be summoned forthwith, so that the country may be enabled to judge of the justification for the de. fense measure by question and answer in the House of Com. mons.

British Mobilizing

London, Jan. 21.—All doubts as to the magnitude of the British preparations to deal with possible events in China, were cleared Mnday night when the War Office announced the composition of the "Shanghai defense force."

This force will defend the British concession in Shanghai and will be commanded by Maj. Gen. John Duncan, now here in command of a division. He will sail for China forthwith.

Gen. Duncan saw service in the World War at Gallipoli and Eastern Europe, and his new men—the 12th and 14th British infantry brigades and the 20th forces will consist of about 12,000 Indian infantry brigade, with artillery, armored cars and other equipment. Two battalions of the British forces are at present at Malta, the remainder are in Great Britian.

Including the 1,000 marines previously ordered to China and the naval ratings of the cruisers dispatched to the Far East and the effectives on the spot, it is estimated that about 16,000 men will be available for the defense of interests. The marines were to have sailed from Portsmouth Monday, but their ship was delayed by fog. They probably will get away Tuesday.

The British infantry units include a battalion of the Coldstream Guards Regiment, which rarely is ordered abroad in normal times. The government has chartered the steamers Kinfauns Castle, Kildonan Castle, Minnesota, Megantic and Herminius as transports and the whole force will sail at the earliest possible moment.

The government does not require parliamentary sanction for these military measures, since nothing in the nature of general mobilization is involved. Nevertheless, uneasiness is developing in the country at the unexpected size of the expeditionary force.

The government has protected itself thus far by acquainting the Opposition leader, Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George, with all steps taken, as Parliament does not assemble before February 8. At the same time demands are beginning to be heard that parliament should be summoned forthwith, so that the country may be enabled to judge of the justification for the defense measure by question and answer in the House of Commons.

Wool Contracts.

The first contracts for long wool of the 1927 spring crop in Texas have been signed in Sterling and Menard counties by J. M. Lea and other buyers for Draper & Co., Boston, making headquarters in San Angelo, America's largest inland wool market, it was learned Thursday. Prices reached 35 cents a pound with the average only slightly under that figure. The poundage was not ascertained. The purchases fulfill rumors circulated before the close of 1926 that contracting would develop early in the new year. Draper & Co. buyers last year purchased approximately 20 per cent of the state's total production.

The first contracts in 1926 were signed in Sutton County on March 30 when Joe B. Blakeney of San Angelo purchased a quarter-million pounds for Hallowell, Jones & Donald of Boston from W. A. Miers, W. C. Bryson, W. E. Glasscock and Thomas Espy. The price was 40 cents a pound. This was only a little under the average paid for the 1925 fall wool through the warehouses, after there had been virtually no contracting, but was practically the same price at which contracting of the 1925 long spring wool began in November, 1924, increasing by January, 1925, to 50c, then to 53½ c, with 60c paid for a few extra choice clips.

An estimated 25,000,000 pounds of spring wool last year brought an average of 35c to 36c for twelve-month's fleeces and 31½c for eight months' clips, compared with averages of 46c and 42½c respectively, in 1925. There was little contracting in 1926 and with a heavy crop in the fall, making the year's total for the state around 30,000,000 pounds, the short fleeces commanded an average of only 25c, with 28c the top.—San Angelo Standard.

VETERAN AMASA CLARK DIED FRIDAY MORNING

Veteran Amasa Clark aged 101 years, died at his home, four miles west of Bandera, at 2:45 a. m., January 28, after an illness of only a few hours. He was stricken with acute indigestion early Thursday morning, and notwithstanding all that medical skill could suggest and every-thing possible done to relieve him, he steadily grew worse and passed away at the hour named above.

Funeral services were conducted at the family home at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, and he was buried in the family cemetery there with military honors. Rev. B. J. Gossett, pastor of the Methodist church, conducted the religious ceremonies. J. D. Merwin, Hunter editor of the Bandera News Era and the Frontier Times, delivered a talk reciting in brief the events of Mr. Clark's long and useful life, after which the remains were carried to the cemetery by representatives of the United States Army. The escort and firing squad were in charge of Capt. P. L. Dill of the Ninth Infantry, Ft. Sam Houston. Delegations from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Pioneer Freighter's Association, came up from San Antonio to participate in the ceremonies. The active pall bearers were W. J. Maass, M. V. Adamietz, Joe Postert, Lee Risinger, Charles Schmidtke, Sr., and Ernest Kindla, long-time friends of deceased. Honorary pall bearers were Wm. B. Krempkau, B. S. Schmidt, A. C. Glinck, Jim Mills, J. T. Boehme, of the Pioneer Freighters' Association, and Dan F. Connor, J. M. Lowenstein, Wm. Rabsdeau, Sgt. Arnold Young and G. Stromberger, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. At the grave the firing squad fired three volleys over the flag-draped casket, and the bugler sounded taps, and then all that was mortal of Bandera's first and most honored citizen was consigned to the last resting place. Before the large crowd dispersed, Chaplain Clinkscales of the Pioneer Freighters Association, made a few remarks and closed the ceremonies with the benediction.

Fully three hundred people attended the funeral of this aged veteran, many coming from San Antonio, Kerrville, Boerne, and other places. They were old friends who had known him for many long years. The inclement weather and bad roads prevented hundreds of others from being present.

Amasa Clark was born in Scoharrie county, New York, September 3rd, 1825. He enlisted for service in the Mexican War in 1846, and landed at Vera Cruz, Mexico, with General Winfield Scott's forces and began the march on the Mexican capital. He was in General Twiggs' division and participated in all of the desperate fighting at Cherubusco, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, and in the street fighting in Mexico City. He was discharged from the army at San Elizario, near El Paso, in 1849, and proceeded to San Antonio, from whence some time later he went up on the Guadalupe river to work in a shingle camp. While there he became acquainted with some Delaware Indians, who told him about the wonderful Medina valley and invited him to accompany them on a hunt in this beautiful region. This invitation he accepted, and when he beheld this region he at once resolved to cast his lot here. This was in 1852. There was not a settlement in all this region; it was a wilderness, full of wild game and often visited by wild tribes of Indians. Mr. Clark found three families camped near the present site of Bandera, making shingles, but they were not permanent settlers. He was here when Elder Lyman Wight's colony of Mormons came in 1854, and he was here when the Polish colonists came in 1855. As the country began to settle up, and the firm grasp of civilization took hold, Amasa Clark, was a participant in every move that was started for advancement, and he was spared to live to see the county's population grow to more than five thousand souls.

Mrs. Clark was the father of nineteen children, sixteen of whom are living today, and Anniversary of Polish Colonists.

Yesterday was the seventy-third anniversary of the coming of the Polish colonists to Bandera. It was on February 2, 1855, that sixteen families just from Poland, were shunted up into Bandera county, from Castroville, whither they had come in search of homes. They were just poor peasants, and had to come to America to escape the oppression of their government. They could not speak English, had no finances, and were without arms and many of them were scantily clad. When they reached Bandera the able-bodied men were employed in a saw-mill here and in making shingles. They knew nothing about the conditions of the frontier, and the dangers that lurked throughout this section from Indian raids, but many of them bought on time small parcels of land, 20 or 40 acres at about $2 per acre, and here they anchored, and "grew up with the country." Today there are only a few of these original colonists left with us, among them being Mrs. John Adamietz, Gabe Anderwald, John Anderwalll, Joe Anderwald, Cristian Dugosh, John Pyka, Mrs. Tom Moravietz, and a few others—all old men and women now. The descendants of these Polish colonists now number several hundred, and they are scattered pretty well over the state.

On the Boards This Week.

The King-Thomas Company is playing at the Bandera Theater every night this week, presenting splendid programs. Tuesday night they presented that mirth provoking comedy, "Zeke," and last night they gave "Lena Rivers." Tonight the play will be "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and tomorrow night, the audience will be entertained with "Sputters," a western play. The Saturday night program has not yet been announced. Tonight's performance is a wonderful feature play. Tomorrow night there will be two shows in one, the picture, "Old Lives for Yews," will be shown on the screen, and "Sputters" will be given on the stage. It will be a treat, a show to say the least.

The King-Thomas Co. has been here before, and their coming is always hailed with delight, for it is one of the cleanest and best theatrical troupes on the road. The troupe is made up of Carl Thomas, Earl Thomas, Cody Thomas, Dolly McIntyre, Ceeyl Scott and Lois Willis, and each member is a star performer. If all of the shows which come to Bandera were made up of the class of people as King-Thomas Co. the town would be benefitted every time we had a show. So many of the traveling shows these days are made up of actors of low morals and questionable character. It's different with this company, for the members of the King-Thomas Co. are ladies and gentlemen, and conduct themselves as such on the stage and off of it.

Don't miss the feature play tonight, and the big double show tomorrow night.

See the King-Thomas Players at Bandera Theater every night this week.

AMASA CLARK

There passed from the walks of men last Friday morning one of the most remarkable men who ever cast his lot in Bandera county, and in his passing we lose our first citizen. Veteran Amasa Clark, though he had reached the extreme age of 101 years, had retained his activity and energy up to the day of his death. He spent seventy-five years of his life within the confines of Bandera county, and saw the country transformed from a howling wilderness to a peaceful and happy land, and it was his proud boast that he had been a factor in the wonderful development which has taken place during all those long years. Veteran Clark often visited the New Era office, in fact he was a close friend, and his visits were always welcome for he brought with him that cheerfulness and buoyancy of [illegible] which drove away dull care. He would tell us of his experiences in the Mexican War, of early day conditions in this county, for he lived wholly in the past. He possessed a wonderful recollection of events that happened three quarters of a century ago, and his anecdotes and the information he gave were always interesting. We shall miss him, oh, so much, and we realize that there is none to take his place. Men of his mould have always been scarce, and when they pass on their places cannot be filled by others. We honored him as a veteran of the Mexican War; we honored him as a true pioneer; we honored him as a loyal citizen; and sunday all day, we honored him as a loyal friend. God spared him to dwell here to a ripe old age, to be a blessing and a benediction to all posterity. Amasa Clark was of excellent family of Revolutionary stock. When LaFayette visited Albany, New York, in 1824, Veteran Clark's father was a member of the reception committee to receive the distinguished patriot.

When Veteran Clark came to Bandera in 1852, he lost all trace of his people. He had a sister, Caroline Clark, with whom he had kept up a correspondence until 1849, when she moved from New York to another state, and his letters to her were never received, afterward, and she had lost trace of him. The years passed, and Mr. Clark decided that all of his people were dead. Some two years ago, when the newspapers of the country were publishing feature articles about Bandera's grand old men, a son of this long lost sister, Mr. Isaac Rhodes of Kingfisher, Oklahoma, read the story and saw Amasa Clark's picture in an Oklahoma paper, and immediately wrote to him. Correspondence revealed that Rhodes was the nephew of the old veteran, and he and a brother came to pay Mr. Clark a visit. It was then learned that the long lost sister, Caroline, had died only two years previously, after searching the world over for the missing brother. Photographs of the sister, and letters written by her as well as the last letter written by Amasa Clark to her, were brought for him to see, and he sweepingly told us that it was a strange freak of fate that separated him from the sister whom he so dearly loved.

Now the grand old man himself has joined the silent majority, but the happy recollection of the pleasant association we have had with him will abide with us as long as we live. To the aged wife and sorrowing children we extend our sympathy and condolence in this hour of their grief, for we feel the heavy sorrow they bear.

New Company to Drill.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun reports that another company now operating in various sections of the state, will probably begin drilling in the Center Point region within a few weeks. The Walker well now drilling at Center Point is looking good and has reached a depth of over 1,000 feet. Activity in leases is growing in that section.

Mother Died.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Bausch, aged 74, died at her home at Sisterdale January 25, she was the mother of Messrs. Otis and Henry Bausch of Bandera, and also Mrs. Emma Sewald of Kreuzberg, Mrs. Henrietta Hohenberger of Tarpley, Mrs. Anna Pfeiffer of Fredericksburg, and Adolph Bausch of Sisterdale. Mrs. Bausch was born in Fredericksburg, and was truly a pioneer. The New Era extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

VETERAN AMASA CLARK DEAD

most of them are residents of Bandera county. On July 10, 1859, he was married to Miss Eliza Jane Wright, at Fredericksburg, Texas. To them were born eleven children; Annie and Amasa, Jr., died with diphtheria while quite young; Elizabeth lives in Arizona; Isaac Clark lives at Tarpley; Mrs. Amanda North lives at Poteet; Mrs. Mary Selby died in Atascosa county; Mrs. Caroline Taylor lives at San Nuys, California; Mrs. Olive Cosgrove lives near Bandera; John Clark lives at Tarpley; Mrs. Eliza Massey lives at San Nuys, California; Sam Clark lives near Bandera. Mrs. Eliza Jane Clark died July 1, 1883. On May 4, 1885, Mr. Clark was married to Miss Incy Wedgeworth, of near Con Can, Texas. To this union were born eight children: Zack Clark of Atascosa county; Ben Clark of Bandera, Orange Clark of Bandera; Mrs. Bessie Schmidtke of Bandera; Mrs. Albert Mazes of Bandera; Mrs. Bertha Hiltz of San Antonio; Alvin Clark of Charlotte; Mrs. Kittie Evans of San Antonio. Surviving besides the widow and the children named above, are eighty-six grandchildren and seventy-five great grandchildren.

On September 2nd, 1925, Veteran Clark celebrated his 100th birthday surrounded by his numerous descendants, on which occasion, and it was estimated that fifty grandchildren and great grandchildren were absent.

Mr. Clark, during the past three or four years, has been the recipient of many honors. He was given ovations in San Antonio by the civil and military authorities on several occasions. He was made honorary member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was an honorary member of the United Confederate Veterans, the Pioneer Freighters Association, and other organizations. He had the honor of being the last Clark, who saw service in the World War, one of them being in the air service and the other in the Marines. One grand son, Sam Clark, made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, and his remains rest in the family cemetery near those of his illustrious grandfather.

With the passing of Amasa Clark the number of surviving veterans of the Mexican War is reduced to only seven. A few days before his death Veteran Clark informed the writer that there were only eight survivors, and he expressed the hope that he would be spared to be the last one called by death. He was expecting the summons hourly he said, and realized as the end approached that he could not remain here very much longer.

In giving a historical sketch of Veteran Clark, we think the best that has ever been given appeared in J. Marvin Hunter's "Pioneer History of Bandera County," a book published in 1922, and we quote from it as follows:

"A word painter with vision enough to grasp history in the making could weave a wonderful story of the life of this grand old man, Amasa Clark, who looks serenely back upon almost a hundred years of the greatest changes the world has known. Men have looked with awe upon some mountain of [illegible] or a towering peak that has stood immutable amid the changes of the years. Amasa Clark has watched changes as great, and more, he can tell of them. His memory is fresh, and he tells the story with interest and spirit.

Mr. Clark was born on Scobarrie Creek, in Scobarrie county, New York, Sept. 3, 1825, only a few years after Old Hickory whipped the British at New Orleans and before the Alamo and San Jacinto field were baptized into immortality by the blood of Texas heroes. He has passed through five wars on the soil of the United States. Thus he has lived all the dangers, hardships and privations that were the lot of those who went ahead to soften the wilderness for the tender feet of civilization. From the time when armies contended with muzzle-loading muskets, and wooden frigates sailed the seas, he has watched the science of warfare develop systematic slaughter by aerial monsters, hurled by the tremendous force of explosives undreamed of and more powerful than the gunpowder that prostrated the American Indians with awe at the coming of the first white man. He has lived from the time when solid shot was the greatest weapon at the command of the armies of the day to the day of the explosive shell which sweeps all things living from vast areas. He has watched the trail of wild things through the wilderness metamorphosed into teeming paths of commerce. He has seen the place of the ox-team yielded taken by the high-powered automobile and the giant airplanes contending for the supremacy of the air. Clark has lived, has seen much, and it is his earnest hope that he may live to see Society and its foster-mother, Civilization, triumph at last in the realization of universal peace.

When Amasa Clark came into this world Texas was a province the home of wild beasts and savage men; a province whose rivers, mountains and plains were unexplored, and whose future found outline only in the ambitious dreams of a Burr, a Wilkinson, or a Blannerhasett. When but a lad he left his native state, New York, enlisted in the army and valiantly fought his way way from Vera Cruz to Chapultepec with General Scott, and when victory had crowned the American arms in Mexico he came to Texas. Here he cast his lot to blaze the way for oncoming millions. He has seen the signal fires of the savage gleam from a thousand peaks and has followed their encircled trails across the hills and plains along the vast extent of our Texas border. Sitting upon the pedestal of years, he now looks down upon an Empire state where savage invasion is only a memory; where homes, towns and cities dot the land, where millions of men and girls go to and to school, and with lofty and exultant pride may well this venerable father exclaim, 'I was a humble factor in this wonderful achievement.'

Like most men of his advanced age the period of second childhood has succeeded that of virorous manhood, but, the memory fraught with the record of three generations is not bedimmed by the frailties of extreme age, and he has a ready recollection of events and incidents of the early period that is, to say the least, remarkable. Just a question or a suggestion is all that is needed to awaken his memory and he unfolds narrative after narrative of thrilling events of the distant past. Incidents of his early childhood days are clearly remembered by him and he relates them to his grandchildren today. He is still a well preserved man and quite active. He has never used tobacco or liquor, and is proud of it. Mr. Clark is today drawing a pension of $50 per month from the government for his service in the Mexican War in 1847. He landed at Vera Cruz with General Scott's forces and marched to Mexico City, taking part in all the bloody engagements along the way, finally making a triumphant entry into the Mexican capital and saw the Stars and Stripes wave proudly over the National Place. It would require a volume to record his experiences in that war alone. He was commended by his superior officers for bravery in action and in street fighting in Mexico City.

Mr. Clark manages his farm of 160 acres, looks after his business affairs with the same ability he has always displayed. He gets about without the aid of a cane, his step is sprightly, and his extreme age is indicated only by his stooped shoulders and white hair. In appearance he would easily pass for a man about 68 or 70 years old.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Clark live on the farm, four miles west of Bandera, which Mr. Clark purchased many years ago from a man named Hardin. Here Mr. Clark engaged in the nursery business until advancing age compelled him to retire from that work. He still has a fine orchard, and last year 1921, he marketed nearly 1,000 bushels of pears at $1.00 per bushel.

At the close of the Mexican War Mr. Clark was discharged from the service at San Elizario, near El Paso, and afterwards came to Bandera and has resided here continuously ever since. He gives some of his experiences here as follows:

"After my discharge from the United States army, and from active service in Mexico, I went to San Antonio, where I remained for some time. Then I went up on the Guadalupe river, just below where Center Point is now situated, and assisted O. B. Miles, who was hauling shingles to San Antonio for Gillis & Wilkins. There he had the only shingle camp there. A tribe of Delaware Indians were encamped nearby and were very kind and friendly toward us. Some of our men had visited Bandera Pass region and had often spoken in such glowing terms of the picturesque scenery and the abundance of game in the Medina valley that I determined to visit this region myself. They reported there were families camped on the Medina, and those three families were the founders of the first settlement in Bandera county, which afterward became the town of Bandera. The Delaware Indians frequently invited me to join them in their hunting forays, and one time they insisted that I accompany them to the Medina valley to kill deer for the hides. Then I made my first visit to the beautiful Bandera region. I found game plentiful, and the three families here were so hospitable that I decided to cast in my lot with such kind consideration. I decided to tarry with them for awhile. That sojourn has been prolonged for seventy years, and seventy years, and I am still here. This country was in its wildest state when I came here in 1852. Deer could be killed almost at any point a short distance from camp and kill deer or turkey. Grass was knee high, there was not an acre of brush and oak timber then as grows on our hills today. The country was open and you could see objects a mile away to much easier than you can now see them a few hundred yards distant. I remember the first house I ever killed. I had gone out to Privilege Creek one time to cut hay, and while there our supply of meat gave out, so I went out to look for a deer, and came upon a big bear. I shot him dead, and we had plenty of meat. Another bear experience that might interest the boys and girls, happened when I had some cattle on the Davenport ranch. I went out there one day to look after them, and while on my way I found an old bear with two very small cubs. I caught one of the cubs and the old bear stood upright and made for me, growling and showing her teeth, but I outran her and got away with the young one. She did not seem inclined to pursue me very far, probably because she was afraid to leave the other cub. I took my cub home with me and raised it to a good size. He became very gentle and afforded me much pleasure and amusement. Sometimes I would turn him loose and he would invariably head for the slop bucket and eat the contents, and often he would climb to the water shelf and sit down in the water bucket. I went off on a trip one day and when I returned I was grieved to find some boys had killed my beloved pet.

"The first Indian raid that occured in this region that I know of took place along about 1854. Charles de Montel had a horse power saw mill, and worked eight or ten horses. A negro named Oliver was the driver. One morning this negro went out to look for the mill horses but could not find them, for the Indians had stolen them and taken them up the river to a point known as White Bluff. As soon as it became known that the Indians had driven them off, Gideon Carter, Irvin Carter, O. B. Miles, Dan Turner, and several others took the trail and started up the river, and when they had gone several miles they met the horses coming back, as they had escaped from the Indians. Turner was left in charge of the horses and the other members of the party pushed on to overtake and chastise the Indians. Some distance further on they espied two Indians coming on the back trail with their heads down, following the horses' tracks. When the Indians saw the white men they dashed off and got into the brush. The white men went on and soon discovered the Indians' camp and made ready to charge it, but a deep gulch prevented them from advancing far, so they had to go around some distance to get to it. The Indians, seeing them approaching, left the camp and went up on a mountain, one of them riding a beautiful white horse, but during the charge which followed the Indian killed that white horse to keep him from falling into the hands of the white men. The Indians made good their escape and the pursuers returned to the camp where they found a bible and some boys' clothing in one of the wigwams. This occurred about twenty-five miles above Bandera.

"I remember when the Duffy hotel was built. It was erected for Mrs. Nicholson, a daughter of Mr. Savery, and the lumber in it was sawed out of heart cypress, cut on the Medina river where the store therein. I recall an amusing incident that occurred in the little store one day. The firm had on sale some canned cherries, which was a new berry to many of the citizens here. Some of the boys called them canned worms, and asked Mr. Duffy, 'Where do we cram 'em?' Mr. Duffy promptly replied, 'Cram them in your mouth.' I greatly miss Hugh Duffy. He was one of the noblest characters I ever met. The many years that I knew him I always found him the same generous, gentle, kind and affable gentleman. Another polished gentleman who came here in those early times was Joseph H. Poor, who came from Portland, Maine. He was a well bred, scholarly gentleman, and had a sheep ranch on Middle Verde. I lived with him for some time, and while I was there the Indians killed two of his herders, an Irishman and whose name I have forgotten and a German named Karl Asmus. Poor owned several negroes, and before the Civil War he was shot by one of the freed negroes named Dave, and came near dying from his wounds. Andrew Mansfield and myself, when we heard of the shooting, went over there and attended Poor, who finally recovered. The negro was tried for attempt to murder, but for lack of sufficient evidence to convict he was acquitted. Poor later went back to Maine and died there some years afterward.

"O. B. Miles was another early settler here who was one of my good friends. He was in my regiment in the Mexican War but we were not in the same company. Mr. Miles, like myself, was born in New York state. He lived for awhile over on the Guadalupe near Comfort, and moved his family to Bandera in 1853, and became chief justice here when the county was organized in 1857. The first term of court was held in a little building in the western part of town.

"Bandera has many rugging creeks which flow into the Medina river. It may be interesting to know how some of these creeks were named. When the first three families, Saner, Millstead and Odem, came here from Boerne in 1852, they moved in wagons drawn by oxen. They crossed a little stream which they called Red Bluff Creek because of the reddish color of its steep bank. They camped on another little stream, and while there Odem lost his pipe. Since that time that stream has been called Pipe Creek. The journeyed forward and came to another gurgling brooklet where the prospect was so pleasing and the landscape so inviting Odem was heard to say that he would 'lay his pre-emption there with the privilege of lifting it' if they found better land further on. That was ever afterward called Privilege Creek. Bandera Creek was then called because it had its source near Bandera Pass. Mason Creek was at one time called Wolf Creek. Millstead killed a doe on a little branch and it was named Doe Creek, and a dry run nearby was called Mud Creek. Winan's Creek, Hicks' Creek, Laxson's Creek, Brewington's Creek, and Williams' Creek was named for first settlers; Wallace Creek was so named because Big Foot Wallace at one time owned land there. Rocky Creek was rightly named. Julian (pronounced Hool-yan) is a Mexican name, as is also Verde. In that language 'verde' means green. There are many streams in the county that I do not recall how they were named.

"A great many tragedies have been enacted during the time I have lived here, and to recount them all would require a book several times the size of this volume. There were murders committed by the Indians, and killings by white people. A man named Barnes, who lived on the Bonito, disappeared sometime during the sixties. It was believed at the time that he was murdered and his body burned.

"One time, in 1856, when I was returning from a trip to San Antonio with Dr. Thompson and John Kindla, we were attacked by robbers at night while we slept. Dr. Thompson was killed outright, and Mr. Kindla was so badly injured he never recovered, and died some years later from his wounds. I was badly battered up, and rendered unconscious for several hours, and I still carry the scars on my head. An old rusty gun was the weapon used. When I came to myself the next morning I managed to get the oxen yoked to the wagon, and assisted Kindla into it, and we made our way to the only house between San Antonio and Bandera, where we were given aid. We were then taken to San Antonio and I spent some time in a hospital there. A party was organized and the robbers were trailed to San Antonio, where a battle ensued in which Phil Sroupe, the city marshal, and one of the robbers were killed. While I am very active and in good health now, I believe the injuries sustained in this murderous attack weakened my constitution to some extent and greatly impaired my hearing.

"I remember when the camels were brought to Camp Verde, and how the government expected to use them to transport dispatches across the desert to El Paso and to other posts. I worked with those camels for fourteen months, 1859-1860, and as a relic of those days I still have in my possession two pillows made from camel's hair. The camels are gone, and but one of the buildings at old Camp Verde remains standing."

CAPT. CHARLES SCHREINER DIED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Captain Charles Schreiner, pioneer and philanthropist, died yesterday at his home in Kerrville, after an illness of several months. When news was flashed over the wires to Bandera that this venerable pioneer had passed away it caused sadness throughout this section, for he was known to nearly all of the people of this county.

Captain Schreiner was born in the little village of Riquewihr, France, February 22, 1838, and was therefore approaching the 89th anniversary of his birth when called by Death. The town wherein he was born was in the province of Alsace, at that time a department of France, later a part of Germany, and as an outcome of the World War was again restored to the mother country. In 1852, he came to America with his parents, Gustave Adolphe Schreiner and Charlotte Schreiner, and settled in Texas. He was then a lad of 13 years. At the age of 15 he joined a company of Texas Rangers and served with credit until 1857, protecting life and property on the frontier. Meantime he married and located a ranch on Turtle Creek. For four years he lived a life of toil and struggle against the elements of chance in a country so new that there was no precedent to follow. When the war between the states broke out in 1861 he enlisted in the Confederate army and served through the entire period of that war, and when the Stars and Bars were furled he returned to the little ranch and to his wife and one son who had kept the home fires burning in Kerr County. During his absence the Indians had practically destroyed the small flocks he left grazing, but he began again and for four years struggled on.

Kerrville having grown from a shingle camp, Capt. Schreiner saw possibilities of the village as a place for business, so in 1869 the firm of Charles Schreiner was started, a store being opened in a little cypress board building 16x18 feet. Ten years later Captain Schreiner bought his partner's business and conducted it alone, and the business grew and grew to its present proportions, the Charles Schreiner Company today doing a business of more than a half million dollars annually.

Captain Schreiner served as county and district clerk for Kerr county one of the Pioneer Texans who left their homes in Germany and settled in Texas, and then elected county treasurer, which office he held for thirty consecutive years, until business compelled him to resign.

He was truly a constructive force in this portion of Texas. Farmers and ranchmen all over West Texas owe their start in business to him, for he was ever ready to help those who deserved assistance, and in building along constructive lines he was never backward, but always took the lead. The city of Kerrville, a prosperous, hustling town of some ten thousand souls, owes its very existence to Captain Schreiner.

He was a philanthropist, and among his unnumbered beneficences, he began many years ago to give each year two scholarships to graduates of Tivy High School in Kerrville. These were for a two-year course in any school of the receiver's choice, with all expenses paid.

In 1916 he set aside a quarter of a million dollars and 140 acres of land to establish a Presbyterian school for boys and young men at Kerrville, to be known as the Schreiner Institute. The school has been in successful operation for nearly four years and is rated as one of the best in the state.

He has made gifts of more than a quarter of a million dollars toward building roads in his county, some of which were paved. He donated $50,000 toward a high school building in Kerrville in this county, and in 1920 he gave 550 acres of land near Kerrville as a site for the great American Legion Hospital for tubercular ex-service men. He also gave the Scout Hospital to the city of Kerrville.

In his passing this section loses its greatest benefactor. He knew the country and its needs, and he was ever ready to respond when called upon to lend his aid toward the development of the country.

Peace to his great soul.

Doing Good Work.

County Commissioner R. C. Boales is doing some good road work at Seco Pass, putting that portion of the Bandera-Utopia road in splendid condition. He has had a crew of hands working there for several days.

Splendid Rains.

Copious rains have fallen throughout this section during the past week. The precipitation yesterday was unusually heavy, and caused the creeks and rivers to rise.

Bill to Amend Dean Law.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 8.—Representative P. L. Anderson's bill amending the Dean law so that the first two offenses would be considered misdemeanors and the third a felony, was reported favorably by the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence Tuesday morning. There was only one dissenting vote.

The bill changes the State law so that it corresponds with the Federal law on liquor violations, providing a fine for the first two offenses and confinement in the penitentiary for from two to five years upon conviction in the third offense.

The picture to be shown at the Bandera Theater Friday night will be "Night Life in New York," featuring Rod LaRoque, Dorothy Gish, and Ernest Torrence. This is quite a thriller and you will enjoy it from start to finish. The usual two reel comedy will also be shown.

Making Good Showing.

The Waller test well at Center Point went into heavy oil sand Thursday at a depth of 1,005 feet, and a good showing of gas and oil was found. Drilling goes ahead at the rate of 40 feet a day, setting betty daily. Salt water was encountered at a depth of 964 feet.

Dale and Moore Expelled.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 8.—After voting to expel F. A. Dale of Fashin County and H. H. Moore of Delta County for accepting an allegal bribe, the House of Representatives stifled a move to appoint an investigating committee to inquire into the activity of W. W. Chamberlin, lobbyist, of Houston, with whom the accused men are said to have agreed to the proposition.

Immediately on disposal of the charges against Dale and Moore, C. T. Sheats of Robertson County offered a privileged resolution asking appointment of a committee of nine to investigate Chamberlin, with reference to his appeal to the Optometrist Association of Texas for $100 a day expenses with which to entertain the Legislature.

On motion of Lee Satterwhite of Potter County it was referred to the committee on State Affairs. The vote was 94 to 26 to refer.

After Satterwhite had made his motion to refer to the Committee on State Affairs, R. H. Boland of Harris County peculiarly proposed sending it to "the Committee on Liquor Traffic."

The vote to expel Dale came at 9:40 o'clock, following nearly two hours' debate. Twenty minutes later Moore was expelled.

Monument to Amasa Clark.

A movement has already been started toward raising a fund to erect a monument in Bandera to the late lamented Veteran Amasa Clark. Bandera County's first settler. Mr. Clark died only two weeks ago, at the ripe old age of 101 years. Seventy-five of those years he spent in Bandera county, having come here in 1852. It is only right and proper that we should contribute of our means toward the purchase of a suitable monument to his memory. This monument will be placed on our court house square, near the monument erected last year to perpetuate the memory of the Bandera county boys who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War. Wm. B. Krempkau, secretary of the Pioneer Freighters' Association, of which Veteran Clark was honorary vice-president, has started the movement to raise funds in San Antonio for this purpose, and the New Era editor will receive funds here. Those who will do so kindly requested to send in their subscriptions to the monument, or advise us how much they will give toward the project. Any amount from $1.00 up will be acceptable. The list of subscriptions will be published from time to time in the New Era. It is hoped to secure the subscriptions and erect the monument by the 3rd of September, the 102nd anniversary of Veteran Clark's birth.

Entertainment at Pipe Creek.

The Mistletoe Creamery of San Antonio will put on a good entertainment—vodeville and musical—Saturday night, February 12th, at the Pipe Creek school house. Admission 25c and 15c. Seventy-five per cent of the proceeds will go to the school. You are invited to attend.

A Welcome Visitor.

Miss Madge Head, of Stewartsville, Mo., arrived last Monday on a visit to her cousin, Col. J. A. Head, of this city. Col. Head and Mrs. R. A. Thompson met her in San Antonio, and brought her to Bandera. This is Miss Head's first visit to this section, and we are sure she is delighted with the wonderful Hill Country. She is a regular reader of the New Era and natually feels that she is not a stranger among us. We hope she will prolong her stay here for some time, and when she returns home she will carry with her the kindest friendship for Bandera which will induce her to come back to Bandera some day. On her trip she spent one week with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Langford at Mooringsport, La., Mrs. Maxine Head at Beaumont, and Mrs. Eugene Black at Ganado, Texas.

Coming Back to Bandera.

It will be pleasing news to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton, who left here about twenty-five years ago to locate in New Mexico, to learn that these good people will shortly return to Bandera to reside. We are informed that they have leased their ranch in that state and are expected to reach Bandera within the next two or three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton came to attend the Old Settlers' Reunion here last July, and they then decided to return to the old home county to again cast their lot among the many warm friends they have here.

Building New Line.

The Southwestern Telephone Company has a crew of hands engaged in building a new copper metalic circuit between Bandera and Boerne to connect with the main line from San Antonio to San Angelo. New creosoted posts are being set, and wires strung, under supervision of Mr. Moore, the line foreman, and it is expected that the remodeling of the line will be finished by the end of this week, thus giving Bandera direct connection with all of the Southwestern lines and assuring the public of most excellent service.

Entertains Epworth League.

Miss Ola Eckhart entertained the Epworth League and their friends last Friday evening at the lovely ranch home of Mrs. John Eckhart on East Verde. A unique feature of the evening was the modeling of miniature animals out of chewing gum by each one present. The results showed some real artistic ability in modeling. Contests proved of great interest and games were played. In the literary and historical contest Mr and Mrs. Oscar Perner scored highest, while David Brewer and Mrs. Manning were successful in capturing the booby. Cake and cocoa were served, and at a late hour the guests departed declaring they had spent a most delightful evening.

Entertained at Camp House.

Mrs. Fred Barr, of San Antonio, entertained quite a number of friends at her camp house at the English Crossing last Sunday. A splendid chicken dinner was served, and interesting games were played. The house party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harcourt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Tindall, Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maddock, Mrs. F. Joe Barr and daughter, Frances Irene, Mrs. D. Gilchero, Mrs. M. Taylor, Mrs. E. Cook and family, Mrs. S. S. Luckett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Crist, Mrs. Sharpert, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clinkscales, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Haynes, Mrs. Rhomer and daughter, Miss Cora Weinert, Mrs. Wilkerson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Crist.

Notice of Meeting.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

One of the most deserving institutions in this state is the School for the Deaf, located at Austin. The New Era editor spent last Friday afternoon at this school, as a guest of the management and students, we were shown through the various departments where the deaf and dumb boys and girls are receiving splendid training in various arts and trades. We found children in that school from six years to eighteen years old, bright-eyed, happy girls and boys who apply themselves to their studies with a zest that indicates that each one of them is determined to succeed in overcoming the great obstacle which is such a great handicap. We saw paintings, drawings, fancy work, sewing, cabinet work, printing, and many other things which had been done by the pupils of all ages, and it was all splendid. We visited the class rooms and saw the patient teachers instructing these boys and girls, teaching them orally and in written exercises, and we wondered and wondered how they could ever succeed in getting those little folks to understand just what is wanted, but when we consider that the deaf mute is usually of extraordinary intelligence and quick to grasp the lesson the solution is simple. Two very remarkable young ladies attracted our attention. They were blind, deaf and dumb, but they can operate a typewriter, sew, and do many other extraordinary things which is difficult for some people with two good eyes and the power of speech to accomplish. Dr. Scott, superintendent of the school, and Dr. Buchanan, his able assistant, were very courteous to the delegation of newspaper men who visited the school last Friday, and arranged a very pretty program by the students for our entertainment, which included a buffet dinner, music and drills. Those who visit Austin should not miss the opportunity to visit the State School for the Deaf, for it is well worth seeing.

John McNaughton and little daughter, of Medina, were seen in Bandera Monday.

"There is a Reason"

Charged With Bribery.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 2.—Representatives P. A. Dale of Bonham and H. H. Moore of Cooper were charged Wednesday night in Justice of the Peace Frank R. Tannehill's court with accepting a bribe of $1,000 in marked bills to influence pending legislation.

Former Ranger Capt. Frank Hamer signed the complaint against Dale, while Ranger Capt. Tom Hickman signed the complaint against Moore.

Both men were released on $2,000 bond each shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday night. Bonds were signed by T. H. McGregor, former Senator and Representative Cecil Story of Vernon, Sam E. Bateman and W. H. Ratliff.

The complaints set forth that Willie Chamberlain gave them the money.

Dale was arrested when he started to walk into a local hotel lobby. He is alleged to have been handed a roll of bills amounting to $1,000 in an alley by the hotel. Ranger Capt. Hamer took $1,000 from Dale in bills of various denominations.

Moore was arrested in his room in the hotel.

Hamer said he and Hickman saw the money handed to Dale and arrested him immediately. They then went to Moore's hotel room and arrested him. Moore, who continually protested he didn't know what it was all about was lying on the bed in his hotel room when he was arrested, Hamer said. Hamer declined to say exactly what evidence he will attempt to introduce against Moore.

Hamer turned the money over to Sheriff Horace Burleson. There was no explanation as to how the money became "marked."

Justice of the Peace Frank Tannehill was notified and went to his office to obtain forms on which to draw the charges. Meanwhile the representatives sat in the sheriff's office and laughed and chatted with officers who had arrested them.

Chamberlain is said to be an optometrist of Houston.

Moore's bill, seeking to place a $50 license tax on stationary optometrists, the same tax that now is placed on itinerant optometrists, was scheduled for hearing Wednesday night before the House committee on Revenue and Taxation and the committee waited for a time for Moore to appear.

The complaints filed charge Dale and Moore, while "active members of the 40th Legislature, accepted a bribe of $1,000 with the intent then and there to influence legislation pending before the Legislature with the further intent to support and influence a certain committee to make a report on a certain bill and purported law."

Mrs. Lucy Chaney Dead.

Many of the old time citizens of Bandera knew Mrs. Lucy Chaney who lived here many years ago. She was an aunt to Mrs. J. A. Head, and when she and her husband came to Bandera in 1875, Mrs. Head, then a girl, came with them and lived with them. A few days ago Mrs. Head received word from relatives at Gates, Tennessee, conveying the sad intelligence that Mrs. Chaney died there on the 4th of last April, 1926, of spinal meningitis. Mr. and Mrs. David Chaney left Bandera in 1888, going to Tennessee. The belated news of this good woman's death will be received with sadness by her many friends in Bandera.

POSTED—No hunting with dogs or firearms, no trapping, or any manner of trespassing in any of our fields or pastures will be allowed. Trespassers will be rigidly prosecuted. This is fair warning, and violators will do well to heed it.—Mrs. H. C. Wright, John. Wright. Smp

Miss Rosa Adamietz and Theodor Laskowski were married at Boerne last Thursday. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Adamietz of this city, and the groom is a son of Felix Laskowski, who lives near town. To the Sheriff or any Constable of Bandera County, Greeting:

Whereas, on the 20th day of January, A. D. 1927, John F. Bennett, administrator of the estate of E. L. Therefore you are hereby commanded to summon and require the said parties above named and all persons interested in said estate, to be and appear before the said County Court at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the courthouse of said Bandera County, in Bandera, on the third Monday in April, A. D. 1927, the same being the 18th day of April, A. D. 1927, then and there to show cause why said partition and distribution should not be made.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness: ——— MRS. MARK McBRYDE, Clerk of the County Court of Bandera County, Texas.

Miss Marguerite Fries is spending a few days with Miss Thelma Richards.

Putting On a Big Sale.

The W. A. Fawcett Furniture Co. at Kerrville announces a big clearance sale at their establishment beginning February 19th and continuing eight days. The Fawcett Company is one of the largest furniture establishments in this section, and the bargains they will offer during the sale will more than pay you to travel many miles to visit their store. See advertisement in this issue.

B. H. Stokes and Ed Bauerlein, of Medina were here Tuesday on business, and while in the city Mr. Stokes called and contracted for space in the New Era to tell the people that he is always ready to serve them in the line of general merchandise. His ad will be found elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Stokes is a hustler and during the past three years he has built up a most flattering trade for his store at Medina.

To all Stockmen.

I have been in the stock business for thirty years and have handled all classes of stock. During these years I have experimented with stock medicines of different kinds for the reduction of the percentage of stock loss from Screw-worms. At last I have discovered a powder for use on cuts and wounds, which is both a preventative and a healer. I have used this powder on cattle, sheep, goats, horses, and even dogs, with complete success. It will thoroughly dry, any cut or fresh wound in four hours. It will stop bleeding and will prevent and remove proud flesh. It will positively not injure or leave any oil or dirt on the fleece of any goat or sheep.

In case of a broken horn, you all know that a heavy hemorrhage results, merely cover the horn with this powder which will stop the hemorrhage in a few minutes, then cover the horn with naught until no blood shows through the powder. This one application is all that is necessary unless the scab is removed by brush or some obstacle, or washed off, or dipped off by water, which is almost impossible after four hours. I do not know of any other remedy in the world that will cure a broken horn in one application except this powder.

As to foot-rot it is far superior to anymedicine I ever heard of, it is so much of a success in cases of foot-rot as could possibly be. It will cure cases of foot-rot in a fourth of the time required by other remedies.

This powder is intended as a shearing powder to be applied on all fresh cuts. If the cuts are thoroughly covered, it will absolutely protect screw-worms. This powder is not recommended to kill screw-worms. It is recommended to follow after the worms have been killed in old wounds, with any screw worm killer you choose, and it will heal the wound faster than any medicine on the market. You may have to repeat as you all know it is hard to cure an old case of screw-worms on one or two applications. This powder will do it's part as a healer when the worms have been killed.

Read What This Contented Ranchman Says About Rieck Goat Coats

We have about 2500 Goat Coats which have been used on this ranch under my supervision since I have been with the company as foreman. Most of these coats have been used five and six times . . . a few have been repaired . . . but patching is a simple job.

During all this time there have been only 15 or 20 coats discarded as damaged beyond repair. The material retains its strength remarkably well. Only time can disclose the life of a coat and time has shown that it is even longer than your estimate of five seasons.

Charles Schreiner Memorial

A mammoth memorial service, to which the people of all Texas and particularly those residing in the Hill Country have been invited, will be held in Kerrville on February 22, honoring the memory of Captain Charles Schreiner, pioneer and philanthropist, who died at his home in that city last week.

The special service will be held in the gymnasium at Schreiner Institute, Tuesday, February 22, starting at 2 p. m. That date is the birthday anniversary of the departed leader. Had he lived two weeks longer, Captain Schreiner would have celebrated his 80th anniversary.

In future years the people of Kerrville will honor the memory of two great leaders on February 22, one the Father of His Country and the other the "Father of the Hill Country."

The memorial service will be presided over by Rev. W. P. Dickey, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The principal speaker on this program will be Dr. Arthur G. Jones of Austin, an eminent preacher and a friend of the Schreiner family for a number of years.

Hon. Jake R. Stevenson of Junction will deliver an address on "What Captain Schreiner Did for the West Texas Bankmen."

Ally Reed of Kerrville will sing.

Pat Forest Case on Trial.

Eleven jurors had been selected Tuesday in the trial of Pat Forest, who is charged by indictment with the murder of W. A. Gray near Medina last August, when a special venire of 89 men was exhausted. The case was transferred on a change of venue to Kerrville from Bandera.

The special venire was examined at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, at which time Judge L. J. Brucks adjourned court until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. He ordered a special venire of twelve men summoned. Wednesday morning when court reumed, the twelfth juror was selected in the person of Guy Holoman, farmer and taking of testimony was begun. E. H. Frericks, a deputy sheriff of Hondo, was the first witness on the stand and when court recessed for noon yesterady Mr. Frericks was testifying.

A motion for continuance made by attorneys for the defense on the grounds that Will McBee, an important defense witness, was missing was overruled. After overruling the motion Judge Brucks fined the missing witness $100 and lashed an attachment for him.

In examining the veniremen the defense used 13 of its challenges, the state 10.

William Ward, farmer of Ingram, was the first juror accepted. Other jurors are Ferdinand Tatsch, ranchman, Reservation; Robert Spenrath, farmer, Center; August Hauffler, farmer, Comfort; Hugo Arens, ranchman, Kerrville; T. J. Parks, ranchman, Ingram; W. H. Furr, farmer, Hunt; A. G. Platte, auto salesman, Kerrville; R. M. Hagens, farmer, Kerrville; Will Ridgeway, ranchman, Kerrville, Walter Clark, farmer, Hunt; and Guy Holoman, farmer, Kerrville.

The trial of Forest was transferred to Kerrville from Bandera by Judge Brucks, who also presided over the trial at Bandera, refused a motion of the defense for a change of venue, when the case came to trial on November 29, 1926, but later transferred it on his own motion.

The battered body of Gray was found near Medina City, 13 miles from Bandera, on August 22. Forest was arrested near the scene.

The indictment against him charged that he had killed Gray by kicking him with his feet and running his automobile across the prostrate body.

At the time of the killing, Gray was driving a bus between San Antonio and Medina. He resided in San Antonio, but had resided in Bandera for many years, where he was well and favorably known.

Much interest is being taken in the case here, the defendant having been born and raised in this county and is quite well known. It is expected that the trial will consume most of this week.

Dance Postponed.

The dance which was to have been given at the home of John H. Ross, on Friday night, February 18, has been postponed indefinitely.

Greatest Year in Its History

The Chevrolet Motor Company, world's largest producer of gear-shift cars, is preparing for the greatest year in its history, according to Frank H. Mansfield who has returned from Dallas, where he attended a convention of more than 1,000 Chevrolet dealers. The meeting was the eighth of a series of 21 meetings that are to be held this winter from coast to coast.

Enthusiasm over the Chevrolet outlook for the year and the wide spread popularity of cars was evident everywhere. Dealers from all quarters joined in the opinion that the current year will surpass 1926 when Chevrolet established a record in this territory.

R. H. Grant, Vice-President and General Sales Manager, of the Chevrolet Motor Company, presided at the business session in the Pantages Theater in the afternoon and served as toastmaster at the banquet in the Adolphus Hotel in the evening of February 14th.

Under Mr. Grant's direction, Chevrolet's tremendous sales plans for 1927 were outlined to the dealers and illustrated in the form of playlets. Assisting Mr. Grant in the conduct of the meeting were: H. J. Klingler, Assistant General Sales Manager, D. E. Ralston, Regional Sales Manager, Felix Doran, Jr., Dallas Zone Sales Manager, C. E. O'Meara, Houston Zone Sales Manager, and W. P. Doyle, Oklahoma City Zone Sales Manager; and the following officials from the main office in Detroit: R. K. White, D. G. Frazer, Sidney Corbett, W. G. Lewellen, C. R. Sudmann, Wm. A. Bless, E. A. Nunsight, and Wm. Holler.

Mr. Mansfield declared that the Chevrolet Motor Company is providing its dealer organization with the highest type of advertising and sales co-operation. Following the meeting the dealers were guests of the company at a banquet in the Adolphus Motel, in Dallas.

Friday night, at the Bandera Theater, will be shown that intensely interesting picture, "The Street of Forgotten Men," as well as the two-reel comedy. Manager Don McMains is certainly bringing on some splendid pictures at this time, and the one to be shown tomorrow night will be as good as the best he has shown. He informs us that on Friday night, February 25, he will show that wonderful production, "The Vanishing American," which is Zane Grey's masterpiece."

Kuehne Selling Out.

The Kuehne Hardware Co. at Boerne, had a whole page ad in the New Era this week, announcing a closing out sale on their big hardware stock, in order to make room for the big stock of Chevrolet Cars, which the Kuehne Chevrolet Co. will handle in the future. The big sale will be the only one week, during which time the firm expects to clean out entirely all of their hardware. See the bargains offered in the big advertisement.

Commissioners' Court in Session.

Commissioners' Court is in session this week, this being the regular February term. A volume of routine business is being disposed of, the proceedings of which will be published in the New Era next week.

Hounds Trail Fence Cutter

Deputy Sheriff Sam James' manhalling hounds ran down a man charged with fence cutting in Medina County Tuesday and solved a mystery which had been bothering a neighborhood, he reported on his return late in the afternoon.

Andrew Kampf had reported to Medina County officers his fence had been cut in 60 places. The Medina officers telephoned Sheriff James Stevens and asked for the hounds, and James made a quick run to the scene.

James reported finding deep foot-prints in the soft, moist soil, and the dogs took the trail eagerly. They followed he line of fence cutting and then took off through the field toward a house. They bayed in front of the door, and when the officers came up a man came out and surrendered.—San Antonio Express.

Appointed County Attorney.

The County Commissioners in session this week appointed Judge C. A. Eames as County Attorney, to enter upon his duties at once. Bandera county has had no county attorney for some time, but the services of one have been needed for quite awhile, and we are glad Judge Eames has accepted the office.

Hermaw Lehmann and his nephew, Maurice J. Lehmann, came over from Boerne Tuesday on business. Mr. Lehmann, who was a captive among the Apache and Comanche Indians for more than ten years, is arranging to get out a book dealing with his experiences among those tribes, the book to be written by J. Marvin Hunter of Bandera. It is hoped to have it published within the next few months.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Announcement was made in the New Era last week of plans to erect a monument in Bandera to the memory of our first citizen, Veteran Amasa Clark, who died last month. The movement is now on, and we are soliciting subscriptions from every citizen of the county in amounts ranging from one dollar up. Don't wait for the other fellow to subscribe, but please tell us how much you will give toward this monument. Every dollar will help place this beautiful monument on our public square, which will soon be concerted into a public park. Bring or send your donation to this office, as it is desired that there be no delay in getting the monument here and unveil it on September 3rd, next, the anniversary of Veteran Clark's birth. Let us honor the memory of the first man who came to Bandera county and opened the way for our present glorious civilization. He was spared to us for many long years to behold the most wonderful changes the world ever saw, and all of our people knew him well. Let us build a monument to him as a token of love and remembrance. Only a dollar from you will help to do this. "A people that take no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by their descendants."

The March number of Frontier Times, J. Marvin Hunter's growing monthly magazine, will be issued from this office Friday. As usual, Frontier Times will be full of thrilling Texas historical sketches, the titles of some of which are as follows: "A trip to Utah in 1858," "Charlotte, the Mad Empress," "The Runaway Scrape," "Sketch of Mrs. I. M. Williams," "Their Honeymoon Trip in 1874," "Jack Hays, the Texas Ranger," "The Wild Bunch of Robber's Roost," "The Fight on Double Mountain Fork," "J. A. Browning, a Kimble County Pioneer," "A Kerrville History Recalled," "The White Buffalow of the Comanches," "Death of Amasa Clark," "Captain Charles Schreiner Passes On," etc., etc. Frontier Times is gaining a nation-wide reputation and orders for subscriptions continue to pour in.

Over five years ago the New Era called upon the people of Bandera county to raise funds for the erection of a monument to our Bandera county boys who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, and today a towering granite monument silently proclaims the response to that appeal. Every citizen of this county is proud of that monument, which stands on our court house square, and some day it will be surrounded by a beautiful public park, where visitors to our city and our own people can find delight in the beautiful surroundings. Now we are again asking the people of Bandera county to erect a monument on this public square, a monument to the first settler of Bandera county, Veteran Amasa Clark. Veteran Clark was just an ordinary man, he made no claims to any special distinction more than that he lived to be over 100 years old; he served in the Mexican War, it is true, but thousands of other men did the same; he never sought glittering honors among men, and was content to dwell peacefully on a little farm near this town. But we should honor him just the same, for a name here first, and stayed to smooth the paths for the tender feet of civilization as it came creeping on. We should honor him as a pioneer, for in thus honoring him we will honor all of those hardy men and brave men who came to kindle the fires and keep them burning as a beacon to guide oncoming generations. Let's not procrastinate in this matter. Send in your donation to the Amasa Clark monument at once.

Relics of Sam Bass.

Austin, Texas, Feb. 15.—In an effort to preserve as many historical relics as possible of noted figures of Texas' early history, considerable material concerning Sam Bass, the famed Texas bandit, has been gathered by the University of Texas library. The cartridge belt Bass is said to have worn in his last stand against the Texas Rangers at Round Rock in 1878 was presented the library some years ago by Sam Arnett of Lubbock, Texas. There are exactly thirteen cartridges of .44 caliber remaining in the belt which gives mute evidence of hard wear. Two of the loops of leather holding the cartridges are broken and it is said they were cut by dying bullets during Bass' last fight. In addition to the belt the University possesses considerable printed material about the Texas desperado. Original material selected by W. P. Webb, associate professor of history in the University, from the office of the adjutant general is also in the collection. Professor Webb has spent much time following the history of the Texas Rangers.

Psychological Tests

Austin, Texas, Feb. 15—First year students of the University of Texas will be required to take psychological tests for one more year, according to E. J. Asher, instructor in psychology. The results which University officials hoped to obtain when it was decided to give the intelligence tests for a period of five years have more than been realized, he said, in determining the abilities of the students entering the University for the first time.

POSTED—No hunting with dogs or firearms, no trapping, or any manner of trespassing in any of our fields or pastures will be allowed. Trespassers will be rigidly procecuted. This is a warning, and violators will do well to heed it.—Mrs. H. C. Wright, John Wright— 3mp

She Meant Well.

It is related that while Judge Mansfield was serving his first term in office a few years ago, a lady walked in one day and announced, "Are you the judge of Reprobates?"

"I am the judge of Probate," replied his honor, with a smile, "What is it, I expect?" answered the lady. "You see," she went on confidentially, "my husband died detested and left several little infidels, and I want to be their executioner."

ABOUT TURKEYS.

Raising turkeys has proved a profitable industry in Texas this year, and the probability is that we shall see the acreage of turkeys largely increased next year. There will be no surplus to carry over, and if the crop is not too large, prices will likely be attractive next year. But let no person dream that turkey raising is an easy business, or one that gives no vexation of soul.

It is not an easy task to watch a turkey hen when she goes to her nest. To follow a hen successfully to her nest requires more talent and patience than to manipulate a Democratic convention. Like Joe Bagstock, the turkey hen is "deevilish sly," and the fellow who has once followed her through thickets and briar patches to plates motheshood will never [illegible] of his feat as child's play. Furthermore, the turkey hen has less judgment of location than the man who built his house upon the sand. She is sure to make her nest where it will be washed away, or where the minks, rats and snakes will come to feast upon her eggs. Should you remove her to a safe, dry place, she sulks and refuses to sit.

As big a fool as the mother turkey is, she has more sense than her progeny. The young turkey is the biggest fool in captivity, the only thing alive that hasn't sense enough to "come in out of the rain." It will stand flat-footed in the rain and drown rather than move three feet to a shelter. We have even known young turkeys to stand with their bodies under a shelter and poke their heads out into the drip until they drowned. Another horror of turkey raising is following the drove through the fields for miles around and hearing the curses of the neighbors whose crops they have destroyed. These things are written not to keep down the turkey acreage, but to restrain you from envying the turkey raiser his profits.

THEN AND NOW

Then we held our trousers up with home made splints so nifty-boy we hold the same in place with belts that cost three-fifty. Our collars then were celluloid, our cuffs the same, detached. Our Sunday clothes were all we had that were not worn and patched. On teams then we often used drawing heavy loads, but first-run trucks now take their place and also take the road. The farmer plowed a pair of mules, now tractors turn the soil; corn and oats were hand-planted, but now its crowed-soil. Boys and girls got married then and built a home of course, but now they board around awhile and then run for divorce. Economy has slipped a cog, we don't know where or how, but extravagance has got a grip on helm of state and plow. We like the things that progress brings, with them no fault we find, but sterling habits, once our pride, were [illegible] folks have left from the deposits.

Splendid Work of Art Restored in England

"As an act of most high praise and glad thanksgiving to Almighty God for the lives and devotion of the 1,400 women of the empire who died for their country in the war, now, in the name of their sisters in all parts of the world, I unveil and restore to its ancient use the Five Sisters window." These words were spoken by the duchess of York as she unveiled the restored "Five Sisters" window in the north transept of York (Eng.) minster. As the duchess spoke, the curtain shrouding the window fell gracefully away revealing in all its beauty of delicate coloring the actual handicraft of an artist, John Romain, and his fellow craftsmen in glass of six centuries ago. The window takes its name from the legend (told by Dickens in "Nicholas Nickleby") that the design of the glass was worked in tapestry by five sisters. The finest specimen of a grisaille window in the world, it dates back to 1260 A. D., its five lancets towering to a height of more than fifty feet, each "sister" being a shimmering mass of pearl and silver, delicately veined and jeweled with color. The work of cleaning and toleading, which lasted two years, was accomplished without cracking or breaking one piece of the priceless glass.

Caught Fish With Umbrella

American and British anglers are getting unusually good catches in the rivers of Norway, according to reports being received from Lagen, Namedal, Gaula and other Izaak Walton resorts. Forty-pound salmon are plentiful as also 25-pound trout. One American angler who is reported to have spent three hours with his rod gear a 30-pounder was about to leave to avoid a thunder storm when he noticed a large fish near the surface. Having parked his rod, he plunged his open umbrella into the stream and scooped him out, though the weight of the salmon snapped the steel frame of his rain-stopper.

Thirteen Million Steps

After walking one-third of the way around the world, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. de Roux estimate that they have taken 13,000,000 steps.

They are pushing a wheelbarrow and they have figured out that its wheel has made 59,000,000 revolutions. They started from Johannesburg in 1922 with only three cents and have paid their way by giving lectures.

They hope to complete their trip in four years. It will be the first time that anyone has walked around the world.

Becomes Beggar at 98

Alexander Petofi, famous Hungarian poet and patriot, left much fine verse, but apparently not much of this world's goods. Recently his cousin appeared before the Budapest police and requested a permit to beg. The cousin is ninety-eight years old. Ten years ago he was fairly well-to-do. He lost eight acres in the war, and his small possessions were swept away. The begging permit was issued.

Were Bandies in Dress but Tigers in Battle

England was not a world power until Shakespeare's time, but for several reigns before Elizabeth English clothing exemplified nature's idea of what a male should look like on parade, and the marks of that early plumage remain with England in the court customs and color. When England swept Spain from the seas, what greater scourge than Drake and what greater dandy? Then England arose in her full might Englishmen cared for themselves like prima donnas. Van Dyke has left us many a portrait of bewelled and befrilled British dandies whose names carried terror to the enemies of England. The beautiful Englishman of King Charlie's day had curled long hair, wore silken breeches, colored shoes with high heels, carried a cane six feet long and walked with mincing steps—and fought like a tiger. Spaniards were tough, but the delicately dressed Englishmen swept them from the seas, and Raleigh and Drake and Probisher were starched ruffs about the neck.—Detroit News.

Club Believed to Be Relic of Stone Age

An ancient club was recently turned up by a workman at Kingsteps quarry, near Nairn, Scotland. While removing the deposit of sand and gravel on top of the old red sandstone prior to removing the rock he came across a curious implement of hard stone. It is club-like in shape, measures about 16½ inches in length and several inches in circumference at the widest part, and tapers toward one end. It was only when it was submitted to the National Museum of Antiquities in Edinburgh that its unique character was realized, the directors stating they had never seen anything like it before. The rod is entirely different from the club-like objects of stone found in Orkney and Shetland. A number of year ago a cist grave was found in the same locality.

One-Way Ticket

General Cornelius Vanderbilt, at a dinner on the Mauretania, deprecated radicalism.

"Radicalism can get us into trouble," he said, "but can it get us out? Russia is the answer.

"Once, in a lunatic asylum, there was a lunatic nicknamed 'the judge' because he used to examine all the new arrivals and then pass judgment on them.

"Well, one day the judge called up a new lunatic who carried his head in an odd way.

"'What may your trouble be, friend?' he asked.

"'My head is made of glass,' the new lunatic answered.

"'A glass head, eh?' chuckled the judge. 'Well, friend, a glass head will bring you here, but you'll find that it will never take you out.'"

Old Scientific Controversy

More than 4,000 years ago there occurred in the Euphrates valley a controversy similar to that which has resulted from the evolution trial in Tennessee. This is revealed on tablets recently translated by Dr. Edward Chiera, professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania. According to the clay tablets, which were written on with a wooden stylus, the Assyrians clashed on the origin of man. The difference was finally composed by a compromise. They agreed that man first existed as a four-footed animal which ate grass. Afterward the goat created two natures, one of cereals and another of flocks, and through these the two-legged type of man was developed.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Filipinos Bread Eaters

Filipinos, prospering under American sovereignty, are becoming bread eaters. This may be an explanation of why they are able to win the Far Eastern Olympic games. Last year they bought about $8,000,000 worth of flour from the United States. Prior to the American regime flour for the Philippines came chiefly from Australia. In 1899 only $66,000 worth was bought from the United States. Now, with hundreds of bakeries in Manila, baking machinery is also bought in America.

PINEAPPLE FROM THE PARADISE ISLANDS

By Capitola Williams Ashworth

WHEN you sit down to breakfast and find a dish containing a golden island of pineapple surrounded by an amber sea of liquid awaiting you, do you find your mind trying to picture the tropical islands in the midst of the beautiful Pacific Ocean where this luscious fruit was grown, and where it last saw the light of day before it was popped into a can in the heyday of its life and started on its long journey to your table?

The story of pineapple is probably one of the most interesting of any fruit in the world, even of any other tropical fruit.

In the Hawaiian Islands, principally the islands of Oahu and Lanai it is grown extensively. In fact, the tremendous, carefully tended plantations spread out over these islands, are one of the sights and wonders of the place to tourists. In a land where palms wave in the gentle air, where almost every tropical fruit and flower known in the world blooms, where the blue of the ocean breezes laden with the sweet and heavy fragrance of the pineapple ranks as the King of Fruits, it is the most luscious of all tropical products, one of the juiciest, healthiest, and most useful fruits that are grown.

The sunniness of a pineapple plantation is that of a million of fairy glass reflectors over pineapples and up hill and down in orderly rows, the lines be straight and beautiful as soldiers ever marched in parade, every solid plant bearing a treasure-house grown in its center, regally topped with a crown of pointed leaves. It is its resemblance to a pine cone, together with the tart and juicy nature of the meat that has given the fruit the name of pineapple.

As pineapples are grown in tremendous quantities in the Hawaiian Islands, or the Paradise Islands, as they are popularly called, many hundreds of thousands of cases are canned every year and shipped to the United States, England, Europe, Asia, Australia and practically every corner of the world. These people who live in the Hawaiian Islands may have fresh pineapple three times a day, and many of them do, as it is a fruit that does not tire of easily and is a great boon to the health, particularly of people who do not lead an active physical life. However, the same pineapple which is in its native land a delicious fruit for the reason that the fresh pineapple has to be sealed while still green in order to stand the trip up to market. This is true of the few pineapples that are grown in the United States.

The pineapple is delicious when it is ripe and has a tang and a tropical flavor that can be obtained in no other fruit.

There are many other fruits grown in these delightful islands about which most people know little or nothing. There is the papaya, a melon which grows on trees, and is served at breakfast, or for salads, bragdfruit which is baked and served as a starchy vegetable, mangoes, guavas, bananas, and rose apples. And, of course, there are coconuts. Yet the favorite of the islands is the pineapple, which is shipped in canned form to every corner of the world, the greatest amount coming to the United States where it is served on the breakfast table as a salad, a dessert, a pie, or with vegetables and in cocktails, and is becoming increasingly popular in fruit punch to which it lends a delicious tang and a tropical flavor that can be obtained in no other fruit.

Fifth Division Convention.

The Fifth Division, American Legion, Department of Texas, will hold its first Division Convention in the city of Sweetwater, Texas, beginning Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, Feb. 19th, and continuing thru Sunday the 20th. The Stamford Legion Band will be there to entertain you. Bring your wife and kiddies and a good time is assured. All former ex-service men are welcome whether members of the Legion or not.

Concerning the making of loans on the adjusted service certificates probably most of those interested have read of the three banks in San Antonio offering to handle the matter for the Bexar County boys with the assistance of the local Legion. Thru the efforts of Legionaire George Eppel of Kerrville arrangements were made with the First State Bank of Kerrville to handle the loans for the Kerr County applicants. The latest advise however is to wait a little longer and loans can be made direct from the Veteran's Bureau. Congress having recently passed a bill authorizing this action.

All ex-service men are urged to bestir themselves and imitate as close as possible the activity of the "Buddies" in San Antonio. A drive is on for 5,000 members for the Legion in that city. A great many of the business houses already report a 100 per cent membership. Lets see what each one of us can do in our own particular neck of the woods.

People are Organizing.

Citizens in a number of Texas cities are organizing for the purpose of assisting officers in the suppression of crime. The Dallas News is one of the strongest supporters of such a movement and it seems like it is awakening the people of Dallas. Recently in the courts of that city a number of criminals guilty of robbery with fire-arms have been assessed life penalties. When a criminal realizes he is likely to be sentenced to the penitentiary for his meanness, with a slim chance for pardon, it may cause him to hesitate in shooting a man down in cold blood for the sake of a few hundred dollars. However, some of the men that have been sentenced for life in Dallas have not killed their victim—they have received this severe punishment because they used fire-arms in robbing. No doubt this will have a greater effect upon criminals than ever if the men sentenced had killed the people they robbed. Most of the robberies that are being committed are by young men in their late teens or early twenties, and a goodly portion of them are of the class that are generally termed "Jelly Beans." They are more dangerous to the lives of innocent people than the old-time desperadoes of this state used to be. The desperate characters of former days killed people but it was usually the desperatees with whom they fought, and the general public were not near in the danger that it is from the present-day robbers. These "Jelly Bean" bandits are just as quick to kill one man as another, and would shoot down a woman just as quickly as they would a man, provided it was necessary to accomplish what they started out to do. Sam Bass, Ben Thompson, John Wesley Harden and other noted desperadoes of early Texas history would hesitate before shooting a woman. These men were gentlemen compared with the present day "bad men."—Burnet Bulletin.

Gray Hairs Come A-Peeping.

When the gray hairs come a-peeping, and the years go gliding by; when you realize you are creeping close to where the shadows lie; when your thoughts just keep a-straying through the dawning and the gloam, to the days when you were playing and a-laughing, back at home. Kind of makes you stop and ponder, makes you wonder. If it's true, that the boy way back yonder in those happy days was you; then you close your eyes and dreaming, go a-floating back once more in the memory waves of seeming, to the happy childhood shore. And you follow up the fancy till you're in the thick of strife, and, by some strange necromancy, living over all your life; and it seems as if the fighting and the struggles that have gone were but the bigger games delighting bigger children, later on. Yet you wonder—vaguely wonder, if you wouldn't, once again, snuggle now as when, back yonder, you were in the right with room; then there comes a gentle waking, as your stiffened joints all say, just so plain there's no mistaking, "You are dreaming—'Tis Today!" And you smile at all the folly you've been living o'er again, but there's naught of melancholy in this dreamland of old men—just a gentle, soothing sweetness; more like sun than the dawn, sort of rounded-out completeness, when the woes and cares are gone. For there's some peculiar pleasure when the heart and mind relapse in the soft and rhythmic measure of the dreamtone of, oh age; and a peace comes round you creeping, like a laughter-softened sigh, when the gray hairs come a-peeping, and the years go gliding by.—Selected.

Interscholastic League Basket Ball

Austin, Texas, Feb. 15—If the efforts of those in charge of the seventh annual Interscholastic League basket ball tournament are in the least rewarded, the meet at College Station March 4 and 5, will far out-distance those of previous years, stated Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the University of Texas League Bureau. Some unusually good playing is expected to be brought out this year, according to the officials. Accomodations for the games will be the best obtainable, as A. & M. has the best basket ball courts in the state at the present time, Henderson said.

KING THOMAS PLAYERS AT MEDINA.

The King Thomas Players are holding the boards at Medina this week, having returned from Crystal City and Pearsall which they were met after playing Bandera a few weeks ago. After playing Medina this week they will go to Center Point for several nights, and from there they will play a return engagement at Comfort. This is a high class theatrical company, composed of ladies and gentlemen who take pride in the fact that they give only clean and moral performances. Each member of the company is an artist in his or her role. During their stay in Bandera they won the esteem and friendship of our people, and wherever they put on a bill at the local opera house they are always assured of a good audience. The attendance at Medina this week is very pleasing to the troupe, and the program they are giving are highly entertaining and pleasing to the audiences. One thing about the King Thomas Company which makes them so many friends is the friendly attitude of each member of the company. There's Carl Thomas, Spotters, who is not a stranger on his life, and wherever he goes he will just simple make people like him by his free and easy manner. Earl Thomas is a good old scout too, and fits right in whatever environment that meets him. Cody Thomas, another brother of the bunch, plays the "villain," is not a villian at all, is just as friendly and easy to approach as the others. Mrs. McIntyre also has a genial smile which is so winning that when he is the door-keeper people often go to the show and pay admission only to get the benefit of that genial smile and when he is on the stage the smile is there too. But these boys could not give a show without Lois Willis. In whatever role these ladies appear on the stage they are favorites and always win applause. Pretty, vivacious, bewitching, is the verdict, while off the stage they are pretty, vivacious and—extremely modest. Every member of the company, including the advance man, Col. E. J. Lamkin, who comes in unannounced and makes himself at home in a print shop where if the force is too busy to get out his printing on time takes a hand and does the printing himself, holds a warm place in the affections of the people of this town, and their coming is always hailed with delight.

PAT FOREST GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Pat Forest, who was tried at Kerrville and found guilty by the jury and the penalty was set at 99 years in the penitentiary. The jury returned its verdict Saturday night, after deliberating three hours and forty minutes. We understand that several of the jury favored the death penalty.

Forest was indicted by the last grand jury in November, and at a special term of district court here last month the case was transferred to Kerrville for trial. Defense attorneys entered a motion for a new trial, but Judge Brooks declined to entertain the motion until Friday, should he overrule the motion the defense will file notice of appeal, it was estimated by counsel.

We give below the report of the trial as published in the Kerrville Mountain Sun, and also the San Antonio Express:

(Kerrville Mountain Sun.)

Following completion of the jury from a second special venire Wednesday night at 10:30 o'clock, Pat Forest, 23-year-old Medina City youth, went on trial for his life.

Forest is charged by indictment with the murder of Will A. Gray, 50, auto driver, on August 22, 1926. The alleged slaying occurred three miles from Medina City and the case was transferred to Kerrville on change of venue from Bandera.

The State rested its case against Forest in the district court in Huntsville prison. This was indicated in the interrogation of prosecuting attorney Wilson and confirmed in a statement by District Attorney W. C. Baker, who is directing the prosecution, in which he declared that he would see every means at his command to secure the extreme penalty.

Across the table from the veteran prosecutors sat four of the ablest criminal lawyers in South-west Texas, forming counsel for the defense, aligned with Judge Lee Wallace of Kerrville are David Watson, Will A. Morriss, Sr., and Will A. Morriss, Jr., a stubbornly contesting every inch in battle to refute the State's contentions in the first case to attract wide-spread attention in Kerr County in the past decade.

In the cramped and stuffy court room a morbid crowd leans forward tensely to catch every word of testimony, or breaks into a spontaneous snicker when the attorneys clash over a contested point.

Immediately back of his attorneys sits the youthful defendant, his face betraying no evidence of confinement in a cell. To all appearances he is the calmest person in the room. Occasionally whispers a word to his counsel or turns a smile to his aged mother, who sits beside him and puts him on the back at intervals.

The first witness called to the stand in the case was E. H. Frerichs of Medina City, who testified that he saw Forest and the deceased Gray in Medina on the afternoon of August 22, 1926, at about 2 or 2:30 o'clock; that they got into a large sedan and started down the Bandera road; that he waited 15 minutes and, accompanied by his wife, followed the pair; that when they arrived at the intersection of the Center Point-Bandera road, he saw Forest standing beside the stamping "something" on the ground and that on closer investigation he discovered the defendant was kicking and stamping Gray.

When Frerichs asked Forest if he was in trouble, the defendant offered a pint whisky flask at him, the witness said.

Continuing his testimony, Frerichs, a former constable and game warden in Medina County, testified that Forest caught the deceased by the hair with one hand and by the shoulder with the other and dragged him around in front of the standing automobile. At this point Forest took half way out of his chair and looked at the witness, but quickly sat down again apparently unperturbed.

Under the questioning of District Attorney Baker, the witness said that he discovered Gray was dead, that his right eye was torn from its socket and the left eye was protruding. The next day, he said he re-visited the scene of the tragedy and found three teeth. The defense objected to the witness saying the teeth found were human teeth on the grounds that he was not qualified to give expert testimony.

On cross-examination, Will A. Morris fired questions in rapid succession at Frerichs but failed to materially shake his testimony. The defense attorney's line of questioning indicated that he was seeking to bring out that Forest was attempting to administer to Gray, that he pulled him from the side of the car, placed him in the shade and spread a blanket over him.

Following the noon recess, Morris resumed his cross examination and at one point in Frerichs' testimony, the jury was removed while attorneys argued a point of law regarding the difference between "kicking" and "stamping" and the admission of testimony that Forest had a wild and insane look on his face when Frerichs drove up.

The second witness called to the stand was J. C. Collins, filling station proprietor of Medina City who testified that he saw Forest twice on the day of the alleged crime; that he sold him gasoline at 1:30 p. m. and at 2:30 p. m. was called to the telephone office to aid in quelling a disturbance. There, he said, he saw Forest with a hand full of currency and checks.

Under pressure of questioning from Attorney Watson, Collins was visibly uncomfortable. In cross-examination, Watson reading from inquest transcript, made the witness testify that he had had a conversation with Forest at the telephone office; that he told Forest his mother and sister were worried about him and that the defendant replied that he would go right home, after which he drove away in the direction of his home, three miles from Medina. Forest was drunk the witness testified.

Dr. J. O. Butler, Bandera physician, was next called to the stand and told of examining the body of the deceased. He described numerous bruises and lacerations and said that a number of blows about the head had caused the death of Gray. He expressed the opinion that the victim had been dead one hour when he made the examination and said that indications were that an automobile had run over the lumbar region of the body.

The jury in the case was secured only after a special venire of 89 men had been exhausted, and a second panel summoned to report Wednesday morning. The jury was completed when Guy Holloman, farmer of Kerrville, was selected as the twelfth juror at 10 a. m. Wednesday. He was the second man on the panel of 12 questioned.

Selection of 11 jurors out of the special venire of 89, the State used 10 challenges and the defense 13.

The jury trying the case is as follows:

William Ward, farmer of Ingram, was the first juror accepted. Other Jurors are Ferdinand Tatsch, ranchman, Reservation; Hubert Spenrath, farmer, Comfort; August Hauffler, farmer, Comfort; Hugo Ahrens, ranchman, Ingram; W. H. Furr, farmer Hunt; A. G. Platte, auto salesman, Kerrville; R. M. Hagens, farmer, Kerrville; Will Ridgeway, ranchman, Kerrville; Walter Clark, farmer Hunt; and Guy Holloman, Kerrville, farmer.

Assisting District Attorney Baker in the case are Robert F. Wilson, County Attorney of Kerr County, and W. S. Ethridge of Bandera, employed as special prosecutor. Wilson entered the case Thursday morning, having been forced to assist in the trial of a case in San Antonio early in the week.

Forest was arrested at his home near Medina City shortly after the badly battered body of Will Gray was found near the intersection of the Bandera-Center Point road on the afternoon of last August 22. Forest was denied bail and removed to the Bexar County jail. At the last term of district court in Bandera County, the case was continued. At a special term of court in Bandera last month Judge L. J. Brucks transferred the case to Kerrville on a change of venue.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

In the Bonham Daily Favorite of February 14, appeared a full account of the sudden death of Charles T. Carlton. We intended to publish this article in the New Era this week, but space forbids. We hope to use it next week. Mr. Carlton was well known and greatly loved here, having at one time been superintendent of Bandera High School.

The annual convention of the Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association of Texas will be held in Kerrville on July 20 and 21, plans are already under way to make this convention the greatest in the history of the organization.

Boy Scouts Take Educational Hike

The Boy Scouts of Bandera took another hike Saturday to J. F. Short's pasture on Bandera creek, and cooked supper there. The entire hike covered approximately seven miles. They left their Scout Hall at 4:45 and started back after dark. The scouts cooked their own bread in true scout fashion, wrapping the dough around a stick in spiral form, it then being placed on coals and baked a red of coals. Not only did they learn to cook first class bread in this manner, but learned to cook meat and potatoes in different ways.

Maps were made showing various fields, houses, fences along the road, kinds of trees traveled, etc., by signs given in the Boy Scout Hand Book.

The hike was used to an educational advantage again by the practice in drilling they received in going through various maneuvers on the way.

Coming back the Scouts had to travel over three and a half miles of very rough roads, and in almost total darkness, nothing easy for anyone, but the boys showed their spirit by singing at the top of their voices the greater part of the way back.

In the near future Dr. Erwin will lecture to the boys on first aid and other subjects at their regular Saturday night meetings.

Approximately $200,000 will be distributed to friends, distant relatives, employees and Schreiner Institute under the terms of the last will and testament of Capt. Charles Schreiner, Kerrville philanthropist.

Provisions in the will, not including bequests to members of the immediate family, were announced by his son, Louis A. Schreiner. The document will be filed for probate in April, it was announced.

On account of his continued benefactions in the interest of his fellow men and the Hill Country generally, the wealth of Captain Schreiner at the time of his death was considerably smaller than had been expected. The estate is estimated at about $1,000,000.

In 1915 he distributed $6,000,000 among his eight children.

The largest single bequest in the will is an additional gift of $750,000 to the Schreiner Institute, junior college for boys founded in Kerrville by Captain Schreiner. During his lifetime he gave $250,000 in cash and 140 acres of land near the city limits for the establishment of the school.

Miss Amelia Groben, long employed as housekeeper in the Schreiner residence, was left $15,000.

To Nathan Herzog of Kerrville and J. M. Hamilton of Austin was bequeathed $5,000 each. Robert Read, a nephew, was given $3,500.

Other codicils in the will make the following bequests: Albert Enderle, Kerrville, a brother-in law, $1,500; Mrs. Kate Real, Kerrville, a niece, $1,000; Mrs. Lillie Siemering, Galveston a niece, $1,000; Judge W. G. Garrett, Kerrville, $2,000; F. F. Nye, Kerrville, $1,000; Dr. E. E. Palmer, Kerrville, $2,000; Ben F. Surber, Kerrville, $500. Miss Minnie Hudgeon, Jena, La., $1,000; Mrs. M. Doring, $1,500.

Provision is made in the will for the payment of life annuities to Mrs. Lallah Shelburne, a niece of Kerrville, and to Miss Emma Enderle, a sister-in-law, who resides in San Antonio. The former is to receive $400 annually and Miss Enderle is to be paid $200 each year.

Five servants in the household of Captain Schreiner were remembered with cash gifts, as follows: Audrew Fifer, Isaiah Blanks, Celeste Campbell and Mitchell Grinder, $500 each and Eula Bolden, $250.

During his life time Captain Schreiner made many notable gifts aggregating more than a million dollars. His smaller benefactions in the interest of varied charities and projects defy attempt to develope West Texas probably would amount to as much more.

Schreiner Institute was the crowning effort of his benevolence. In all he gave the junior college $400,000 in cash and 140 acres of valuable land. For the construction and maintenance of highways in Kerr and other counties his donations totaled $310,000. The Kerrville Hospital was given $40,000 several years ago and the capitalist-philanthropist gave $10,000 for the establishment of the Junction High School Library.

Never a year passed without him bestowing thousands of dollars for charitable purposes.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Pat Forest Given a Life Sentence

(From San Antonio Express)

Kerrville, Texas, February 16.

Pat Forest was seen Stamping on the body of W. A. Gray, 50, according to testimony of Constable E. H. Perrichs of Medina City, who testified for the State in the trial of Forest here Wednesday on charge of murder.

Perrichs said he saw Forest and Gray in Medina City about 2 or 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon August 22 and that he left for Bandera about 15 minutes after them. He came up with the state cars and saw Forest stamping on something in the road, the officer said. He went near and saw the body of Gray lying on the road beside the automobile, the witness said. Gray's eyes had been closed by someone, the witness says said. While he was leaving he looked back and saw Forest dragging the body by the hair to the side of the car, the witness declared.

Perrichs said he returned to Medina the next day and found Gray's body in the road. Part of the statement was ruled out on the claim the witness was not qualified as an expert to state they took a dying statement.

Tom Finney testified he sat in a poker game with Gray and Forest the night of August 21. Gray gave him a check for $28 and he left before day with the game still in progress, the witness said. About two pints of whisky was in circulation during the game, Finney said.

R. W. Boaza said he found a $20 bill penny near the death scene the morning after the killing. Pearce Gray, W. Harris said Forest picked up the knife and gave it to him.

J. T. Collins, Medina City, said he sold Forest gasoline the day of the killing and that Forest waved money and checks and declared he had "plenty" when he left the automobile from Gray in the garage.

L. A. Hader said he saw Forest and Gray in a poker game in Baker's Park near Medina City about 8:30 o'clock the morning of August 22 and both had money then.

M. E. Faris, deputy sheriff of Bandera County, testified he arrested Forest and searched him. He was searched he only found a match and a bottle cap in his pockets.

Testimony began at 11:20 o'clock Wednesday morning. The jury was completed with the examination of the second man of 12 talesmen which had been summoned.

A vivid story of a night-long session of poker ending with the tragic death of W. A. Gray, 50, in Medina City, Texas, was unfolded Thursday in the trial of Pat Forest, 22, the defendant, recounting the incidents leading up to the killing of Gray by Forest at 6 p. m. with Forest still on the stand.

Forest went on the stand shortly after the noon recess and told a story of the killing that carried to all corners of the crowded little court room told how he had been ill with a fever and had gone to bed on the Saturday afternoon before the killing to get some rest.

He said that he had seen Gray before and knew him on sight but had never been introduced to him and had never had any difficulty with him personally up to August 22, the day of the killing.

He said that when he arrived in Medina he met Lon Elam and went from there to Baker's Park on a poker party. He said that he had not had a drink and that until the arrival of Gray at 10 o'clock that night he had not touched liquor. Gray, he said, had a bottle and passed it around when he arrived.

The game continued until 7:30 Sunday morning, he said, and at that time he had won all the money in the game and held a check of Gray's for $50 as well as another $15 check from one of the other players.

He and Gray continued playing until about 10 o'clock, he said, the check going back and forth, and when they quit he had $189 in checks from Gray and all the cash that was in the game. They counted them and went to a point near Medina to get some more liquor. Will Mayfield, Forest had told him, had cut and went back to the road with two quarts and a pint. Gray said the liquor was puffin, he said, and he got out. Gray got into the car with him and they went a short distance and testified that when they returned with one quart and a pint.

They had several drinks, Forest said, and McBee left. With Forest driving, they returned to the park and started another poker game. Forest said he won the car, a Buick sedan, in the second game and they started for Medina about 1 o'clock and on the way Bob Mayfield, Forest's brother-in-law, met them. Forest had had blown off and, he had gotten out of the car and while standing there threw away the pint of whisky.

Arriving in Medina, they went to Stokes's garage and drank more and started to hunt a justice of the peace to get a bill of sale made out for the car. Arriving there they found the justice away from home and from there they drove to Collin's garage, where he poured some whiskey on Gray's face to revive him. From there they drove to the home of Joe B. Finney and called him out. More liquor was poured on Gray's face there and then he drove to a telephone exchange and phoned his mother to prepare something to eat, telling her he was taking a friend home for dinner.

Up to this time he had had no trouble with Gray, he said, and said that blood seen on Gray's face was caused from a bruise on the lip when Gray tried to open a bottle with his teeth while the car was roaring. Forest denied that he had ever struck Gray at any time after leaving Medina. He was still on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

Mrs. N. B. Perrich, his mother, one of the defense witnesses, testified that Forest had been sick two weeks and had left the house late Saturday to go for medicine. When he failed to return she sent her daughter, Bettie Forest, to Medina to find him. She said her daughter could not find him and had left word in Medina for him to call, which he did about 3 o'clock. He came in a short time later, she said, drunk, crying and telling her he had been compelled to kill a man.

The daughter, the next took the stand, corroborated her testimony and said that when he arrived he was driving a big sedan and appeared the home driving slowly several times. She said, she finally jumped on the running board of the car and cut the switch to stop the car for him. Rees Forest, a brother, testified that he assisted Pat Forest into the house after the sister had stopped the car. Rees said he also told him that he had been compelled to kill a man. He said he had gone to the scene of the killing a few days later and had found a bottle where Pat declared it had been thrown.

Bob Mayfield and his son, Ray, 14, both testified to meeting Gray and Forest early Sunday afternoon. George Fee, L. S. Stokes and A. B. Finney were called by the State as corroborative witnesses. Mrs. Amy Frerichs corroborated testimony of her husband on spots found on Gray's clothing and on the boots worn by Forest. Spots were identified as human blood by Dr. J. D. Jackson of Kerrville. The clothing was identified as Gray's by Tom Gray, a brother.

(From Friday's San Antonio Express).

Taking testimony in the case of Pat Forest, charged by indictment with murder in connection with the death of W. A. Gray in Bandera County last August 22, was closed at 4:30 p. m. Friday after the defendant was recalled to the stand and asked one question regarding disposition of a check for $185 by the deceased. He said Gray tore up the check and threw it in the river.

This action was explained by Dave Watson of defense counsel who said he was of the opinion the question was in direct testimony, but was offering it in rebuttal to be sure. Court recessed for 15 minutes in order to give the official stenographer an opportunity to search the record for the testimony in question. Court resumed the stand at the Friday morning session and gave in a clear voice his version of the slaying which occurred three miles from Medina City. The case was transferred to Kerrville on a change of venue from Bandera County. Assuming his testimony where it was broken by Thursday night's adjournment Forest outlined his movements from the time he left Medina and was charged with beating to death left Medina City at about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon August 22, 1926.

He testified that he and Gray started, for the Forrest home that when Gray got out of the car to open a gate near the house, he began abusing and cursing the defendant. The witness said he then got out of the bus, which he was driving, with the intention of opening the gate. As he started for the gate Gray struck him, he said and that he backed away around the side of the car.

The witness testified that he reached in the back of the car and got a bottle when he saw Gray going for his knife. When the deceased kept advancing with an open knife, after he had been warned to stop Forest said that he punched him with the end of the bottle several times. Gray went down from one of the blows he said, and as Gray fell he made an attempt to cut Forest with the knife, the blade striking one of his boots. At this point Forest testified he struck Gray a hard blow over the head with the bottle, which was partly filled with liquor.

Under cross examination by District Attorney Baker the defendant got up on the floor to saw the position of Gray when Forest punched him. Gray at that time had blood on his face and his lips were swollen, the witness said. A large bottle of whisky about three-fourths full was in the car, Vowell testified.

Here's what one of many Texas Ranchmen say about the necessity of Rieck Goat Coats—

Read Frontier Times.

Growing in Popularity.

Frontier Times, the unique little magazine published by J. Marvin Hunter, is steadily growing in popularity over the United States. Prominent educators, university professors, historians and writers in different states give the publication high endorsement. The encouraging letters we are receiving almost daily from people who read Frontier Times and appreciate it makes us feel that we are really doing something worth while. Next month, which will be the March number, which comes to us from the press about the 15th of March, will be considerably improved in appearance. The contents of this number will be unusually good. Among the contributors will be Clifton Sayers (C. S. Smart) a nationally known writer. Hunter Jones will have the distinction of publishing the last story he wrote, as just a few days after writing this story Mr. Sayers died suddenly at his home in Scottsdale, Arizona. Another nationally known writer who contributes to this number of Frontier Times is Eugene Cunningham of El Paso. Mr. Cunningham's story has to deal with Wild Bill Hickok, the noted Kansas Marshall. The story sent us by Mr. Smart just before his death tells of the shooting up of the John Dyer Theatrical Co. at Marshall, Texas in 1878, when John Barrymore, the father of Lionel and Ethel Barrymore, popular movie stars was a dangerous character. The story sent us by Mr. Sayers of San Antonio contributes a very interesting story of a supposedly lost mine supposed to have been the lost mine captured by Indians in the early days near Fort Griffin. But was he the Leather Jacket boy? Read the story and find out. Many thrilling stories of the Texas Rangers, Indians, Murder Mysteries, Wild Animals and Outlaws, and a lot of other true stories.

There are hundreds of people living throughout this section who, if they realized the value of this little magazine in the education of their children, would at once become subscribers to it.

Indian Wars Pension Bill.

Washington, March 1.—Final passage of the Leatherwood bill which now goes to President Coolidge providing pensionable status to State rangers and members of State troops engaged in Indian wars prior to 1898 is expected to affect approximately 2,000 Texans. Heretofore the limitations was fixed at 1878, and this extended many ex-rangers in Texas who had engaged in Indian campaigns after that period. The bill provides that such rangers or State troopers must have had at least ninety service or been on duty in the zone where the campaign took place. The measure will was slightly amended in passing the Senate so as to extend the time back to 1817 and thus take in any possible survivor of the Seminole war in Florida. This change was made at the instance of Senator Fletcher of that State.

The Womanless Wedding.

It has generally been believed that a wedding could not take place unless there was a woman in it, but such a wedding is scheduled to occur at the High School Auditorium on Saturday night, March 12. The Alumni of Bandera High School is arranging the wedding, and it is going to be one of the greatest hits of the season. You are cordially invited, as the invitation which appears elsewhere in this issue is extended to you as well as your neighbor. This invitation reads: "Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah White request the pleasure of your presents at the wedding of their daughter, Lilly, to Thomas Jefferson Washington Lee, Bandera High School Auditorium, Saturday evening, March the twelfth, nineteen hundred twenty-seven, at eight o'clock."

The picture to be shown at Bandera Theater tomorrow night will be "Men Four Square," featuring Buck Jones. The star in his east is a popular favorite with picture show patrons, and in "Men Four Square" he will more than please his admirers. In connection with the show tomorrow night a boxing bout will be staged between Jack Dillon and Howard Lackey, both of whom are making a steady climb in pugilistic circles.

MAID AND THE MAIL

Such might be the title of an ode to Miss Annie Cravey, 18-year old girl who daily carries mail from Bandera to the mountain town of Tarpley, over a trail not so long ago beset by many dangers.—San Antonio Light.

Hundreds depend on her for news of the world outside.

The day's San Antonio Light contained a pleasing news story about Miss Annie Cravey, a pretty Bandera county girl, who carries the mail from Bandera to Tarpley daily. The Light kindly loaned the New Era the cut which appeared with the story, and which appears above. Miss Cravey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cravey of Tarpley, and very satisfactorily performs her duty as mail carrier. Bandera county has two other lady mail carriers, Mrs. Ernest Adams of the Medina line, and Mrs. Bangrlein, who sometimes carries the mail from Medina to and which appears above. Miss Lima.

Furnishes Material for Writers.

Frontier Times, the little magazine published by J. Marvin Hunter in Bandera, is furnishing material for writers of historical fiction and fact, articles having their origin from stories which appear in this magazine having been published in some of the leading magazines of the country. In the March number of Frontier Stories, a very interesting magazine published by Doubleday, Page & Co., at Garden City, New York, there appeared a good story from the pen of Eugene Cunningham under the title of "The Hermit of Tigerhead Butte," taken from a story which apeared in Frontier Times several months ago concerning Old Man Barnes, who was an early settler near Tarpley, this county. Mr. Cunningham weaves a splendid story from the material in Frontier Times, and writes us that he gets more satisfaction from reading this little magazine than from any other publication.

Jim Moore Found Unconscious.

Jim Moore, of Ozona, inspector for the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, was found lying unconscious in the street near the Riverside Inn early Monday morning, and in a serious condition.

Early risers in Bandera noticed the bright lights of an automobile standing near the Riverside Inn, but thought nothing of it, as cars are frequently parked on the streets with lights burning. Later the form of a man was seen lying near the car and investigation revealed that it was Mr. Moore. He was carried into the hotel and Drs. Erwin and Butler were called, and gave it as their opinion that he was suffering from ptomaine poisoning. Dr. Erwin carried him to San Antonio Monday afternoon for treatment, but he died today at 8:10 Tuesday morning.

There were absolutely no indications to warrant the opinion that the theory is advanced that his death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage although there were only slight symptoms of such. A post mortem will probably reveal the cause.

Mr. Moore left Menard Monday to come to Bandera. He passed through Kerrville about 1:30 Monday night and talked to parties there, and it is supposed he arrived in Bandera sometime after 3 a. m. In alight-

Boxing Bout.

Local boxing fans were treated to a thrilling exhibition of the manly art of self defense last Friday night between Jack Dillon of San Antonio and Howard Lackey of Camp Verde. Five rounds were given which both men appeared to good advantage. Dillon is a middle-weight and weighed 160 pounds, and Lackey is a light-heavy weight and weighed 175 pounds. Before and after receiving for some time from injuries sustained several months ago, is preparing to enter the ring again and is training under Dillon and hopes well. He has the fighting qualities although a bit slow, and is determined to pull off a real bout here during the fair, in which Dillon expects to meet some other aspirant for ring honors.

Bandera Scene Wins $1,000.

Among the pictures selected as prize winners in the recent art exhibition of Texas Wild Flower paintings, was a landscape scene by Jose Arpa in Bandera county last summer. Mr. Arpa was awarded a $1,000 prize for the painting, the title of which was "The Pink Verbena." The prize winning picture is now on show at the Avery Hall of the Columbia University.

For picturesque scenery old Bandera county has no equal and only needs the eye of the true artist to discern the beauties of our glorious Hill Country.

On account of the rain last Friday no meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association was held. The meeting will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 3:30 p.m. at the High School auditorium. Every mother, and the public generally urged to attend.

ing from his car at the River Inn, he is supposed to have fallen, and was unable to rise.

His wife at Ozona was notified by telephone, and started for Bandera at once, and was water bound on the Guadalupe.

Jim Moore was well known to many of our people, having attended school, resided in Kerr county. He was a cousin to Jack Moore, the sheriff of Kerr county, and also a cousin to Mrs. C. A. Bradley of Bandera. He was at one time in the Texas Ranger service and also served several terms as sheriff of Presidio county, Texas, as a genial, whole-hearted gentleman, and highly esteemed by all who knew him.

He was a native of Center Point, but had been living at Ozona several years. He was widely known and was prominent in Masonic circles. He was a member of Junction Lodge No. 48, A. F. & A. M.; San Antonio Consistory Scottish Rite Masons and Alamo Temple Shrine.

Besides his widow, Mrs. L. May Moore of Ozona, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mollie Moore of Center Point; two sisters, Mrs. Jim Storms of Roswell and Mrs. Fred Nichols of Harper, and one brother Harry Moore of Sierra Blanca.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of Junction Lodge No. 48, A. F. & A. M., at Center Point.

Preparing for County Meet.

The schools of the county are making preparations for the county Interscholastic Meet, which is to be held at Bandera on Friday and Saturday, March 25 and 26. The events this year are expected to be more diversified than ever, and it is believed that nearly all of the schools will participate.

Lightning Strikes School.

A bolt of lightning struck the Pipe Creek school house last Monday during the rain and severely shocked the pupils in the room. Miss Ernestine Rohrbach was knocked insensible for a while and received severe burns on one arm and hip, but is recovering. The bolt came into the room on the stove-pipe. It is a miracle that no one was killed.

Car Washed Down.

When he attempted to cross Privilege Creek, which was on a slight rise, Monday afternoon, James Cox came near losing his car and had a narrow escape. The car was washed down stream a short distance. Mrs. Cox was with him at the time, and he carried her to safety, leaving the car in the middle of the creek. Other motorists came along about that time, and assisted in getting the car out of the creek before a greater rise came down.

Mexican Woman Drowned.

Report comes from Tarpley that a Mexican woman was drowned in the Hondo while crossing that stream Monday during a rise. It seems that a party of five Mexicans in an automobile, started to cross the creek, which was not very deep, when the engine stalled. One Mexican went to get help to start the car, and while he was gone a rise came down and struck the car, turning it over. All of the occupants succeeded in getting to the bank except one, a woman about 22 years old, who was drowned. Search was made for the body Monday night without success, but it was found Tuesday morning about twelve miles below where the car was turned over. The Mexicans were from San Antonio, but we did not learn the name of the woman who was drowned.

Young Man Died.

Ray Hollowell, aged 20 years, died on a farm near Bandera Tuesday night at 12:45 o'clock, after an illness of more than two years. He was a victim to tuberculosis, and came to Bandera from Arkansas over a year ago in hopes that he would recover. The remains were shipped yesterday to Russellville, Arkansas, for interment, the body being accompanied by his mother, Mrs. J. L. Hollowell, and brothers. Deceased is survived by his mother, six brothers and two sisters, who have the sympathy of the entire community in their great sorrow.

School Entertainment.

The Literary Society of Pipe Creek School will present a program at the school house, Friday evening, March 11th. A box supper will be given immediately after the program the proceeds to be used for building a stage for the school.

Undergoes An Operation.

Gorum, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lake Gray of Center Point, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Friday at a Kerrville hospital. The little fellow was in a serious condition, but we hope he will soon make good recovery.

Handsome Cover Design.

Frontier Times for April will be issued from the press early next week. It will, as usual, be full of thrilling frontier history, and the issue comes forth dressed in a handsome new cover, the design for which was drawn by Warren Hunter, now publisher of the Harper Herald. Warren's talent for painting and drawing is becoming recognized, and his friends are making the prediction that he will some day become famous in art circles. He has furnished the cover designs for Frontier Times heretofore, all of which were good, but the designs he will furnish us from time to time will be better. This little magazine continues to grow in popularity with the reading public.

May Run for Durham's Seat.

Austin, Texas, March 8.—County Attorney David C. Brown of Medina County, who was in the Texas capitol Tuesday on departmental business, said he was seriously considering a request made by friends to announce as a candidate for Representative from the 77th district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative A. J. Durham of Sabinal. Brown intimated that he would make definite decision by the time Governor Moody issues a proclamation for a special election to fill the vacancy.

Grover C. Morris, former member of the Legislature from Medina, now resides in Austin Tuesday on legal business, predicted that Brown would easily carry the district in the special election.

Latest styles in modern dresses and bridal clothes will be in evidence at the "Womanless Wedding," at the High School auditorium Saturday night.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Hon. A. J. Durham, of Sabinal, died at Austin last Thursday night. Mr. Durham was a member of the legislature from the 77th district, composed of the counties of Dimmit, Zavalla, Uvalde and Medina, and had been a member of the House for three terms.

A bill was passed by the Senate last Monday providing for the payment of license to fish in the streams of Texas. This is a good measure. The bill provide that no license will be required for fishing in county of residence.

The favorable reports coming from the Walker test well at Center Point indicate that that well is likely to be a producer. We hope a gusher will be brought in. If oil is found there, you can just bet that old Bandera county will have many wells drilled, and a great oil field may develop right here at home.

Election of one trustee for Bandera school district will be held on Saturday, April 2. Only one outgoing member this year, and that is John P. Langford. Mr. Langford has made a splendid trustee, and we should re-elect him to serve in that capacity.

History of Southwest Texas is not being neglected. One of the more important movements is sponsored by Sul Ross Normal at Alpine, where the second annual meeting of the West Texas Historical and Scientific Society lately discussed such topics as "Indian Pictographs at Paint Rock" and "Frontier Life in Old Fort Davis." At Kingsville another State normal school has a history club that is proud of its relics of Civil War days, including not only a loom and a spinning-wheel, but also a web of cloth and a dress made from the cloth itself. In Gonzales—rich in historical material—a citizen has collected many valuable relics and has housed them in a private museum. The strongest organization of all, the Texas Folk Lore Society, has compiled legends and history of Southwest Texas which will be valuable to succeeding generations. Its headquarters are in Austin. At Bandera, J. Marvin Hunter is devoting his remaining years to publication of a magazine devoted entirely to stories of frontier life in Texas. So Southwest Texas—the region of the earliest and most stirring scenes in Texas as history—also is supplying the workers who are preserving the records and keeping memories refreshed.—San Antonio Express.

Val Verde County Herald: The Government has issued a statement showing that out of nearly $3,000,000 stolen by mail bandits since 1921, all of the money except $7,890 has been recovered. It is easier to be honest than crooked, and the after-effects are also better.

The Government might have added that practically all the mail bandits who stole the big money have either been killed or sent to prison for long terms. They not only failed to profit by their dealings, but came in for tremendous loss—loss of life or loss of freedom. Crime is the most unprofitable of all pursuits. A bandit soaks his clear money than a rag peiker, and has less enjoyment in spending what he does make. Honorable success, in a large way or a small way—and the small success is often happier than the large—is available to every normal minded man in America who is willing, as Ed Howe expresses it, to "behave." To behave means to be honest and decent, industrious and sensible. To those who won't behave are unsuccessful in their so-called successes, for bad behavior takes the savor out of success. To behave is a simple exertion.. Any body can behave if he wants to. He can repress his inclinations to misbehave just as readily as he can motivate his inclinations to behave. All he has to do to behave is to refuse to misbehave. Banditry is misbehavior of serious quality. No man has to be a bandit. He makes his choice between misbehaving and behaving, and when that choice is in favor of the former he has only himself to blame when he is compelled to pay the price of his misbehavior. There was a group of young thugs apprehended in New York, who sought to weep their way to acquittal They became known as the crying bandits, because of their ability as weepers in the courtroom. But after they were convicted they stopped crying and began cursing. The sympathy their tears aroused was dissipated in their latter expressions It is better to behave in freedom than to be forced to behave behind the bars.—State Press, Dallas News.

In Behalf of the Boys.

Today is Friday; a cold dreary day. Today the body of a young man is being interred in the potter's field of this community.—This body is that of the burglar who more than two weeks ago was killed while attempting to rob a place of business in the city. For more than two weeks that body has lain in a local undertaking establishment awaiting positive identification, and waiting to be claimed by someone. Records from the state penitentiary and from the police departments of several of the large cities in Texas, fix his identity in a way, that is they identify the body of a criminal with whom they have had to deal, a criminal whose name they know only as they gave it to them.

The undertaker, always observing the proprieties that should mark the interment of a human body, had a minister come to the undertaking parlors before the interment and perform some religious rites. Nothing, of course, that a minister might say, can, according to the most common creeds of faith in this country, affect the present or future status of this young man. But surely out of the sad circumstances that led the police to such a career of crime, and finally to a tragic end, there are some lessons that ought to be learned.

This young man is somebody's boy. It may be that somewhere in the world there is a fond mother awaiting the return of a son who is to her all that she believes innocent of all crime. Perhaps somewhere a praying mother is hoping that a wayward child will be turned back to her, having eschewed and turned his back upon the ways of sin and degradation. It may be that somewhere a mother has noted the news of the tragic ending and too poor to ascertain beyond doubt whether it is her own son, is grieving herself into the grave. In fact, it may be that many mothers noting the tragic thing are, under circumstances of poverty and unavailability, grieving as only mothers can. It may be that a son's waywardness has driven, with certainty, grieving as only motherly mother into an untimely grave already. But even though there remains not upon this wide earth a single relative, or a single friend, the circumstances of the lonely last trip, the most-tended journey to the potter's field, where covenants sleep for ever in nameless graves, was sad —sad.

Young men who are not mindful of the course in life they are choosing, should think on these things. Youth is spurred by passion and impulses that only youth can restrain or control. Certain problems that confront every young man can only be understood fully in the light of experience. It is certainly true, whatever may be the views that a young man entertains to the contrary, that no one shall reap what we sow. God said no man, nor community, nor nation can slight this unfailing law of life—and by any means escape penalty of God's law.

Many a young man professes the strongest love and respect for his mother and yet, he will do things that will dishonor his mother, that crush her heart in the depth of unspeakable anguish that makes her life itself a living death, and finally brings her, in sorrow unspeakable to the grave.

Young man think of your mother. Think of the sacrifice she has made for you, of the love she has held for you through evil as well as good report. If she is dead, can you afford a course in life that will dishonor her name and show your disrespect for her memory? If she be yet alive, can you afford to lead a life that will deceive her or leave her in doubt as to your honesty of character, integrity and high purpose? Can you afford it? A mother's love is the greatest boon, the most precious treasure, that God has given to man. Think on these things.—Tyler Journal.

Capt. Thos. P. Grant was over from Tarpley last Friday, and informed us that conditions were splendid in his section. Captain Grant is quite an enthusiast on pecan culture, and has promised to give us several articles on the subject, which will be looked forward to by those of our people who are putting out pecan trees. It is gratifying to note that many of our citizens are turning their attention to the planting of pecans, and those who have been growing them for the past few years are meeting with flattering success.

Center Point Test.

Walker-Van Duyn No. 1 Leigh, in Kerr County at Center Point, Saturday night was drilling at 1,630 feet, and from 1,610 foot has had continuous showings of oil and gas. Drilling was to continue and the last screw Saturday night indicated that the ormation was changing.

The well undoubtedly in the Pennsylvania, of which about 1,000 feet has not been penetrated, and it is thought by some that if shot at 1,610-80 feet it would make at least a small well. Drilling is to continue on the belief that the next sand encountered will be more promising.

Judge Walker, who has had experience in drilling in the North Central Texas fields, where production is in the Pennsylvania, says the formations here in the Kerr County well are in every way similiar. The well is attracting increased interest with the increased favorable showings.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Walker and family, of Kerrville, spent last Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Walker, Sr., of Chalk Creek.

John Dunlap was up from Pipe Creek Monday on business. He dropped in to renew his subscription to the New Era and Post-Dispatch. Says Era and Post-Dispatch. Says things are lovely in his backwoods and the range is in fine shape.

Mrs. T. S. Dennis is agent for the Mid-West Hosiery Co. Hosiery for the whole family for sale from a sample room, representing a stock of $7,000 worth of hosiery. These goods are strictly guaranteed by the company.

The two young men who were arrested and taken to Hondo last week on a cattle theft charge had a hearing at that place last Saturday and were granted bail in the sum of $500 each, to await the action of the Medina county grand jury.

Rev. R. W. Merrill, pastor of First Baptist church at Kerrville, will occupy the pulpit in the Bandera Baptist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Merrill is a splendid preacher and his discourse Sunday morning will be good to hear. The public cordially invited.

Our service can't be beat.—Geo. W. Saunders Livestock Commission Co., San Antonio and Fort Worth, Texas. (adv.) -

Mrs. Otto Weltner Dead.
We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Otto Weltner, which occurred at her ranch home near Camp Verde Monday. She was the wife of Otto Weltner, and besides her husband is survived by several sons. Burial was at Comfort Tuesday, we understand. Particulars of her death are lacking, but we hope to obtain same for next week's issue of the New Era. Mrs. Weltner was a splendid woman, and loved by all who knew her. The bereaved husband and family have our heartfelt sympathy in the great sorrow which has come upon them so suddenly.

Gasoline Tax Passed
Austin, Tex., March 16.—The gasoline tax bill went to the Governor Tuesday night after the House had finally concurred in Senate amendment in an effort to gain a compromise on the license fee bill.

As the bill goes to the Governor, it provides a tax of 3 cents per gallon until Sept. 1, 1929, and a 2 cent tax thereafter. Members of the conference committee on the motor license fee bill indicated that they would be able to get together on a compromise on the fee measure which would not change the terms materially, except that the counties would be given more freedom in handling their shares of the fees.

Conferees got together again Tuesday night on the latter measure with the promise, Representative Wallace told the House, that the Fairchild Senate amendment will be relinquished. It would take administration of county road funds from the commissioners courts and vest it in the county highway engineer, or the nearest district engineer in the absence of a county engineer. This provision provoked strenuous objection in the House.

If the tax provisions of the bill be retained, however, the horsepower repeal proposed originally by the House, will be retained, and motorists will not save much in their license fees. Counties, however, will be given 30 per cent of the weight tax.

Estimated additional highway and school revenue that the bills will yield, if enacted as they now stand, is $10,000,000 next year. As the House sent the bills to the Senate, an increase of only $6,000,000 was contemplated, by reason of the proposed repeal of the 1½ cent horsepower tax.

Kerr County Test is Drilling at 1,930
Walker-Van Buyn's No. 1 Leigh in Kerr County at Center Point Tuesday morning was drilling in lime at 1,930 feet, and has had continuous showings of oil in the lime since 1,510 feet. The lime is hard and compact, and only about 45 to 50 feet is made by cable tools in a day working two tours.

The formation is Pennsylvanian and the same nature as in the North Central Texas fields, where under similar conditions if shot it would make a well. Drilling is to continue till formations change. Judge Walker is looking for a break and expects to get sand or shale under the lime and with the showing of oil in the lime if sand or shale is found beneath it, the expectation is that it would carry oil.

The Womanless Wedding.
The "Womanless Wedding," presented at the High School Auditorium by the Bandera High School Alumni last Saturday night was a very humorous and interesting play. A large crowd was in attendance, the door receipts amounting to about $63.00, which goes to the school.

All the characters in the play were boys in girls' attire. The blushing bride was Howard Eckhart, a lanky six-footer, while the groom was Master Mack Little, whose height was less than four feet. The best man was Bill Jones, (Russell Irving), Jake Short, as Jaramelo Lee, was a sight to behold. He wore a black and white embroidered dress, and with lips and cheeks painted he looked very much like an old maid of the vintage of 1892. With the bride's flapper sister, Marcellus Rambie, as Mary Lou Lee, he rendered a voiceless duet, that is, these boys went through the motion of singing "Two Little Girls in Blue," but the voices were recognized by the audience as belonging to Mrs. Tom Gray and her little daughter Louise. Miss Glayda Croisdale played the Wedding March from Lohengrin, and the groom and his best man approached from one side of the auditorium, while the bride, leaning upon the arm of her aged father, Jeremiah White (Rhea Mansfield), and preceeded by the flower girls, Rosie Love and Daisy Sweet (Allie Thallman and Bennie Schleicher) came marching down the isle, and the bride and groom met at the altar. Miss Sylvia Brown (Burgin Davenport) the rejected girl, set up a doleful weeping and wailing as the preacher proceeded to perform the ceremony, and was tenderly comforted by Miss Penelope Soothsayer, (George Lane), a dear friend.

Miss Eunice Thornton, (Bruce Mansfield) was the maid of honor. Maudie B. Gump, (Raymond Hicks) was ring bearer. The bride's mother was Mrs. Jeremiah White (Jesse Kutzer). Lending fun to the occasion was the negro nurse, Cynthia Ann, (Erle Mansfield), and her baby Anthracite (Opy Herman Mansfield) and the White Man's Baby, Sonny White (Walton Hicks), who kept the nurse busy chasing after them as they crawled around over the floor, or fought over a bottle of milk.

When Parson Snodgrass (Marvin Hunter, Jr.,) came forward to unite in the bonds of insignificant blessedness the groom, Thomas Jefferson Washington Lee and the bride, Miss Lallapalooser Lily White, the audience sat quiet and only the sobs of the rejected girl, who wanted to be the bride herself, was heard. In a solemn and melancholy voice the parson began:

"Wilt thou take her for thy pard,
For better or for worse?
To have, to hold, to fondly guard,
Till hauled off in a hearse?

Wilt thou let her have her say,
Consult her many wishes,
Make up the fire every day,
And help her wash the dishes?

Wilt thou buy her all the snuff,
She in her little box can pack,
Buy her shoes, and extra cuff,
And feed her on hard tack?
Wilt thou comfort and support
Her good and aged mother?
Aid Jemima, Uncle John,
Thirteen sisters, and a brother?"

After which the groom feebly murmured, "I wilt!"

Similar obligations were imposed upon the blushing bride, and the parson had them to join hands, and by the great Horn Spoon and the Bacon Rind he pronounced them "man and wife."

The groom was dressed in the conventional black, and was about the cutest and handsomest little fellow to get "married" in these parts for a long time. After the ceremony the bride caught the groom in her arms and lifted him up and almost smothered him with kisses, while the old maid sister and the flapper sister showered the best man, the parson, and the other attendants with fond hugs and kisses.

Appointed Game Warden.
Dan Rugh has received the appointment as game warden for Bandera and Real counties, and entered upon his duties last week. The appointment of Mr. Rugh meets with general satisfaction, for he has served in this capacity before, and demonstrated his ability in this respect. For some months Bandera county has been without a game warden, and the appointment of a resident warden is just what our people wanted. There is a closed season on catching any kind of fish in Bandera and Real counties before May 1, and those who are inclined to go fishing these beautiful spring-like days are reminded that the law will be enforced if violated.

District Attorney Resigns.
Kerrville, Tex., March 11.—William C. Baker, district attorney of the 38th Judicial District, comprising the counties of Kerr, Kendall, Bandera, Medina, Uvalde, Zavala and Real, announced Friday that his resignation was in the hands of Gov. Dan Moody.

Baker was first elected in 1924 and was re-elected without opposition in the primaries last July. He gave as his reason for resigning a desire to retire for four years prior to his to private practice in Kerrville. election, Baker was engaged in private practice in this city. He came to Kerrville in 1919 for the benefit of his health and at that time was judge of the 23rd district court in Louisiana, a position he held for four years. Prior to this service he was district attorney of the Louisiana districts for a number of years.

The resigned official made a splendid record as a prosecutor in the 38th Judicial District. In his last capital case the Pat Forest murder trial transferred to Kerr from Bandera County, he gained a conviction and life term.—San Antonio Express.

Mrs. C. A. Taylor Dead.
Mrs. J. W. Cox received a telegram from Van Nuys, California, last Thursday announcing the death of Mrs. C. A. Taylor at Van Nuys on that date. Mrs. Taylor was well known among the older settlers here, having lived in this county for about thirty years before moving to California some thirteen years ago. Two years ago, in company with her husband, she attended the Old Settlers' Reunion at Bandera. The news of her death will be received with sadness by all who knew her.

Burris Sells Burber Place.
C. C. Burris has sold the property known as the Surbey Place near the cemetery to Mrs. Eliza Reitzer and her daughter, Miss Annie Reitzer, for a consideration of, it is reported $5500. This is a choice suburban property, consisting of about 74 acres of good land and a nice dwelling. The new owners have already taken possession and will reside on the property.

Notice to Teachers.
I shall be glad for the teachers who contemplate entering pupils in the Music Memory Contest at the County Meet to notify me. I want also your preference as to the instrument I shall use. The State Department gives me my choice. Thank you.—Mrs. Canafax, County Director of Music Memory Contest.

Appointed District Attorney.
K. K. Woodley, of Sabinal, has been appointed District Attorney of the 38th Judicial District to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. C. Baker of Kerrville. Governor Dan Moody made the appointment last Friday, and Mr. Woodley enters upon his duties at once.

Buys A. Halamuda Place.
J. W. Hamilton, of Carlsbad, New Mexico, this week closed a deal for the Anton Halamuda place near the cemetery, and will shortly move his family back to good old Bandera. The property consists of a neat residence, about six acres of land; and we understand the consideration was around $2700. Mr. Hamilton left Bandera county some twenty-five or thirty years ago and moved to New Mexico. Last year he and his wife came to attend the Old Settlers' Reunion, and they decided to return to the old home to spend the rest of their days. Two weeks ago Mr. Hamilton arrived to buy a place, with the result above stated. He will return to Carlsbad in a few days to arrange his affairs to move to Bandera.

A Good Show.
Gorman Brothers' big tent show has been holding the boards in Bandera this week, playing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights to fair sized crowds. This is a good show and deserves the patronage of our people. Moving picture, vaudeville, trapeze acts, contortionist acts, and other features are included in the daily programs. Only clean comedy is permitted. Good music, and all the side trimmings that go to make up a good road show are introduced. Those who have attended the show at Bandera and at other places have only highest praise for Gorman Brothers.

Gorman Bros. will show at Pipe Creek tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday night. Beginning next Monday night at Medina they will show there every night next week.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The mesquite trees are "putting out," which is said to be a sure sign that Spring is here. The livestock are "shedding" which is another good sign of the advent of Spring. But Gainesborne says we'll have some cold weather yet, and frost in April. All of which leaves us in a state of uncertainty. We are undecided about taking down our office stove.

The Comfort News issued a twelve page edition last Thursday in celebration of its twenty-third birthday. The edition was well patronized by business firms of Comfort, Boerne, Center Point, Kerrville, and Fredericksburg. The News, under the able management of Mrs. George Belsey, is a splendid paper, and Comfort is to be congratulated in having such a representative publication.

Excenting a surprise move, House preponents of the Love amnesty repeal bill affecting former Governor James E. Ferguson, Monday night called it up and got it finally passed, 78 to 25 about the same majority by which it was engrossed after a bitter fight earlier Monday. The bill already has passed the Senate. The statute which the Governor's signature is expected finally to wipe off the books, was designed to remove civil disabilities imposed on Ferguson when he was impeached as Governor in 1917. Governor Dan Moody is expected to sign the repeal. As Attorney General he declared the amnesty act unconstitutional. The bill will go Friday to the desk of Governor Dan Moody who defeated Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, during Governor's re-election. It was during her administration that political citizenship was restored to the impeached former Governor, her husband, by an act of the Legislature.

In the death of Hon. A. J. Durham of Sabinal the State of Texas lost a faithful and loyal representative, a man who held the respect of his fellow workers and one who conscientiously did his duty for his state and constituents. For years he had worked hard to bring about a needed reformation in our primary election laws. He almost saw the success of his work which will yet be completed. He also gave much of his time and energy to bring about the creation of a junior college at Uvalde, but one only suppose in death as one thing for the benefit of the boys and girls of this section. Honorable and upright in his daily life he was the class of representative that Texas needed and his loss is to be deplored. However, we consolidate in that his work has not been in vain and will continue to bear fruit. At his home town of Sabinal and in his native county of Uvalde his years had been devoted for the upbuilding of the community and the development in this section. He was courteous and friendly, never shirking his part in anything that was of benefit for church, state or school and the record made will stand as a monument to his memory for many years to come. A. J. Durham did his best—which is the highest of all eulogies.—Uvalde Leader-News.

Keep Your Eye On The Peddler.

The merchants of certain sections of the country, are beginning to discuss the possibilities of selling goods over the air. In Boston fifteen department stores and specialty stores have established an "air shopping news service." It apears that their aim is to tell the women of Boston the truth about the peddling business. No doubt, in Boston, like in all other cities, the peddler releases his imagination when describing the quality and value of his goods. This wouldn't be so bad but when he comes to making comparisons with the merchants qualities and prices, the average peddler is inclined to outright lying. The buying public should be very careful in giving its money orders to traveling hot-air merchants. Not all of them are crooks, but we will say this, that a great many crooks are in that line of business.

Peddling offers one of the most fruitful means of getting money quickly and easily. Peddlers still discover how the public really is and he soon learns to play upon their gullibility. Millions of dollars has been paid to peddlers, on which no returns were ever received by the customer, and no satisfaction was derived by writing to the house represented by the peddler, if perchance the peddler left a receipt giving the correct name and address of the concern he represents which in most cases when he turns crook he doesn. he repres-Ex.

What is a Dairy Cow Worth?

How much can a farmer afford to pay for a good dairy cow, or what valuation should he place on his good producers? A study of the summary and average of all of the cows (7,654) which completed a year's record in forty Iowa cowtesting associations last year, shows that the profits from different cows, after paying all feed costs, varied from $117 to $191 per cow.

The cows which produced an average of only 100 pounds of butter fat in a year required only $35.67 worth of feed, while those producing an average of 500 pounds of butte fat had a feed bill of $83.71.

Despite the higher feed cost, the 500-pound producers made a profit over feed cost of $191.72, while the 100-pound cows returned only $117.22 after paying the feed bill.

The records and feed costs of cows in between the 100 and 500-pound producers show that as production increased, the profits increased even though the feed bills steadily grew larger. Cows producing 200 pounds of butter fat in a year made $98 of profit, while those producing only 300 returned but $55 of profit.

These records show that in some instances $200 may not be enough fo a good grade dairy cow, but that even $50 might be too much for another. The good cow may return twice as much for every dollar of feed she eats as will the poor cow. When the whole lifetime production of a cow is considered, one good cow, well fed, may be worth a whole herd of inferior producers.

The New Era editor acknowledges receipt of a kind invitation from the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, and also from the Fiesta Jacinto Association, to attend a dinner and show to be given jointly by these organizations on April 22.

82-Mile Race by Indians.

Austin, Texas, March 12—The feature event of the 32nd annual Texas relay games which will be staged in Austin March 25 is not only attracting Nation-wide attention, but is attracting the attention of the entire sport world of Mexico. The event referred to is the gruelling endurance race that will be staged by three native Indians from Chihuahua, Mexico, who will run the entire distance from San Antonio to Austin, a length of eighty-two miles.

Upon receipt of the invitation sent the athletic authorities of Mexico to enter their Indians in an exhibition run at the Texas relays, Mexico officials immediately set about to training the Tarahumara Indians to participate in the feature event. Recently, in accordance with the training schedule, a big trial meet was staged to select the runners that would stage the exhibition. The trial exhibition was the biggest race ever held among the Indians, as over fifteen villages entered some of their best specimenens.

With the three Indians selected to run the marathon between San Antonio and Austin, Mexican authorities are still insistent that the best runners of the tribe have been selected, as they feel that the best runners are never seen anywhere near the village. No civilized people can get close enough to talk to them. However, the men selected to run in the Texas relays are expected to be even better runners than those who made such a wonderful record in Mexico City last November, at which time they ran a sixty-two-mile race.

Practically every one of the schools that entered teams or men in the Texas relays last year will again be represented. A host of new schools have already signified their intentions to be listed among the schools competing.

The University of Kansas has entered men in both the speech events and relays. Fisher, inclement weather has prohibited the Jayhawkers from doing much in the way of practicing. Coach Huff of that school is expected the boys to show up with lots of improvement for the games.

Michigan State College will probably enter a sprint and a medley relay team in the Texas relays, according to recent information received from Ralph Young, director of athletics at that school.

The University of Missouri will again enter an enviable list of athletes therein. Though not sure of how many athletes the Missouri institution will enter this year, Director Brewer of that school has already promised that he will send at least three men for special events and also the best relay team at the school.

Sign On An Automobile.

A significant warning was flashed from the rear of an automobile passing through Lewisville a few days ago.

As is the custom, practically every car carries a placard of some kind or another, bearing some kind of cryptic wording. In the main, the phrases are more or less meaningless. Every now and then, however, there is one which stands out for its originality and force of meaning.

The particular sentence carried by this car was: "Speed on big boy, hell ain't half full."

The careful driver who values the life and property of others this slogan has no meaning, as well as the safety of himself. However, to the fellow who puts his car to the utmost speed whenever he gets out for a ride, and apparently utterly disregards the rights of others on the road, the sign is very significant. Sooner or later disaster overtakes him. The result may be fatal to himself, maybe to some other innocent party, or it may result in disablement. Then again it may not be of a serious nature at all. Nevertheless trouble is lurking ahead of him, and so long as he continues to disregard the rules and courtesies of the road he is toying with death.

A sign like the one referred to is calculated to make such folks as these stop and think. It is hoped so, at least.—Lewisville Enterprise.

The fence around the Bandera county court house is being set out to the street line on the southwest side, and will add attractiveness to the court yard. Now when we hestir ourselves and make a park inside of the enclosure we will have aken a forward step.

Reunited After 20 Years.

A strange coincidence came to light here last week in the meeting of two elderly De Leon ladies. They had not seen each other for twenty years. But the length of time is not the strangest part of the story. The remarkable feature of this story is that these sisters lived just three blocks from each other for two years lacking two or three days and neither knew the other was here.

Mrs. H. Cuddell, aged 72, mother of Mrs. D. A. Stephens and of Hardy Cuddell, came with the Stephens family to De Leon from Childress on February 15, 1925. On exactly the same day, February 15, 1925, Mrs. Ellen Eads, who is 81 years of age, and mother of Mrs. P. B. Shiro, came from Dallas to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Shiro. Mrs. Eads lives with the Shiro family at De Leon Bakery. Mrs. Cuddell lives with Mrs. Stephens on the first block directly west of the De Leon North Ward school. There is just one block and a street lying between the two residences. And these two good women lived here almost two years without either knowing her sister was almost within calling distance.

They were brought together through a chance mention of the name of Cuddell by Mrs. Eads' daughter, Mrs. Shiro, was calling at the Haynes home. As soon as Mrs. Shiro hears the name she recognizes it as that of her relatives. She went immediately and took her mother to the other. Within twenty minutes the elderly ladies were happily reunited.—De Leon Free Press.

The Wells-bill, requiring males more than 21 years old to have a fishing license to fish in any county except that of their residence was engrossed and finally passed by the House.

The bill imposes a fishing license of $1.10 to fish outside of the county of residence for Texas citizens and $5 a year for non-residents and aliens. Fishermen using artificial lure are required to pay a license fee even if they fish only in their own county.

Walker & Van Duyn No. 1 Well.

Still carrying showings of oil, the Walker & Van Duyn No. 1 well on the W. B. Leigh farm near Center Point Wednesday at noon was down 19 a depth of 1,750 feet.

Since Wednesday of last week the drill has been in a hard limestone formation, heavily impregnated with oil. Beneath the rock strata, which has been penetrated 125 feet, geologists believe a sand will be encountered that will bring in a producer.

Representatives of the major production companies have visited the test well during the past week and all of them have expressed the opinion that a new oil field will be brought in within the next few days. It has been proven conclusively that the Center Point well is now being drilled in the Pennsylvania series which has produced the largest oil wells in Texas. Shells and fossil formations found in the hard lime have cleared up all doubt about granite being in the Center Point area and has added scientific basis to the belief that oil underlies the territory.

A night drilling crew was added Tuesday and operations on the Walker-Van Duyn well are being rushed forward.

The well is located in Section 38, between the Southern Pacific tracks and the Guadalupe River.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Nearly 200 Schools to Participate

Austin, Texas, March 16—Reports from nearly 200 schools which will participate in county meets within the next month are in the hands of Roy Bedichek, chief of the Interscholastic League Bureau of the Extension Division of the University of Texas.

Employees of the bureau are busy at the present time mailing out 8,000 silent reading tests and 8,000 arithmetic tests for use in the "three R" contests of the county meets, 4,000 entry blanks for use by member schools, and 5,000 music memory score cards, Extemporaneous speaking and essay writing contests are also being prepared at this time.

Denying current rumors to the effect that baschall is to be added to the program of the League, and been seriously considered, Mr. Bedichek stated that although the addition of this sport the contests would come near the end of the school year to be practicable.

A warehouse association has been organized at Utopia to be known as the Utopia Ranch and Farm Association. H. V. Smith and J. V. Porter are in charge of the new concern, which starts out with a capital of $1 000. The purpose of the organization is to handle wool and mohair and other products on a co-operative basis, and it is expected that most of the ranchmen in that section will become identified with it and it will steadily grow.

L. A. Heder was down from Medina last Thursday and called to renew his subscription to the Frontier Times, also place an ad in our Want Column offering for sale settings of Rhode Island Red eggs. Mr. Heder showed us a hen's egg which he found in one of his nests which is entitled to be a prize winner. The egg was considerably larger than a turkey egg, and measured 7 ½ inches around one way and 6 ½ inches around the other way.

Mrs. Carroll, who has been spending the past several months with her daughter, Mrs. R. N. Hicks, will leave in a few days for New York, where she will remain awhile. During her stay in Bandera Mrs. Carroll has made many friends, and has assisted in social and religious functions. She is a delightful, entertainer and a gifted artist, her readings and vocal selections before Bandera audiences being much appreciated and enjoyed.

Mr. Mattie Jones returned last Thursday from a visit to her son, Bill Jones and wife at Yates, Kimble county. She spent several weeks there and had a most enjoyable visit. Bill Jones brought her home, but hit the road back to Yates immediately for fear it would rain on him before he got home. That was his excuse, but we have it on good authority that Bill thought his mother would put him to chopping wood or cutting the weeds in the back lot if he stayed over a day.

Measles Epidemic Abating.

The epidemic of measles, which appeared in this community some ten days ago, seems to be passing, only two or three new cases being reported this week. Those who were afflicted are making good recovery, and it is expected that the siege will soon be a thing of the past.

A Good Line-Up.

Manager Don McManus, of the Bandera Theater, informs us that he has signed a contract for twenty-seven popular pictures of the very latest productions, for showing here during the next few months. Among them are included the family favorite, the popular Western stars, Fred Thompson, the man who has the big white horse, "Silver King;" Tom Tyler, and Hoot Gibson. And he has also secured several pictures starring the famous police dog, "Ranger." Moving picture show patrons are promised some delightful entertainment here during the spring and summer, for Mr. McManus is determined to give his audiences the best programs obtainable.

Ozona Flies Big Kite

Ozona, Tex., March 22.—The monster kite, 40 feet high, built by Rev. Stanley Haver and helpers, was flown successfully Saturday in the kite tournament conducted by the Ozona Boy Scout troops. The big kite took the air with the grace of a swallow and was put up a high Nissen. It required 15 or 20 men and boys to hold the "big lifter" to the ground, for it had "the pull of a horse," according to one of those who held it.

The measurements of this kite are as follows: From top to bottom, 42 feet; side to side, 20 feet; square feet of paper, 800; weight 100 pounds; material in construction, 200 feet flooring, five pounds wire, two gallons paste, 150 feet of rope and 15 oat sacks. This is the biggest kite in the world so far as is known.

A large crowd attended the pie supper at the Lima School house last Saturday night. About $30 was realized for the benefit of the school.

The members of the Pipe Creek Cemetery Association are requested to pay their dues to the secretary, Mr. T. A. Lewis, at once, as funds are needed for upkeep of the cemetery.

Exonerated.

Sheriff Hicks last week found a number of sheep and goats which were alleged to have been stolen from parties on Middle Verde and East Verde sections. Parties in possession of the sheep and goats claimed to have bought them some time ago from certain parties. Two goats were identified as having been purchased by Collier Fitzgerald from Mark Davenport. Mr. Davenport was arrested Friday and placed under bond. He had a hearing before Justice of the Peace Herman Harper on Monday, at which time he was exonerated, proving to the satisfaction of the court that he was owner of the goats sold to Mr. Fitzgerald, and the charge against him was dismissed. Mark Davenport has lived in this section for about fifty years; he has always borne a good reputation, and has many friends who, despite whatever incriminating circumstances which may have been attached to this case, were not ready to believe him guilty of theft.

That sheep and goat stealing has been going on in portions of this county is an established fact, and all aid should be given the authorities in ferreting out and bringing to justice the guilty ones. And that is just what is going to be done.

Alba Storms was in from Mason Creek yesterday.

Married in San Antonio.

Miss Evelyn Davenport of this city and Robert McDonald of San Antonio, surprised their friends by going to San Antonio and getting married on Wednesday night of last week. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. C. B. Davenport of this city, and is a very popular young lady. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben McDonald of San Antonio, and is a young man of good character and business ability. The New Era joins in wishing the happy couple all happiness and joy through life.

The Center Point Test.

The last report we had from the Walker-Van Duyn test well at Center Point indicated that the well gives increased gas and oil showings. Drilling is steadily going forward and is below 2,100 feet, still in the Pennsylvanian lime. Cable has been received for 3,600 feet and except for delays occasioned by machinery breaking, the drilling goes merrily on. Oil men from different sections have visited Center Point to inspect the well, and all say it is very promising.

Picture Show Tomorrow Night.

The picture to be shown at the Bandera Theater Friday night will be "The Rainmaker," featuring Tom Tyler. This is a splendid picture and will please you. Don't miss it.

Hogs Pay 800 Per Cent Profit

Abilene, Tex., March 24.—A. J. Lane, a Taylor County farmer, realized a profit of 800 per cent in the hog business in less than twenty months. In April of last year Lane paid $10 each for two small, 6-week-old gilts. This animals were not registered, but were subject to pedigree. They weighed less than twenty-five pounds each when Lane bought them.

Each of the sows before they were a year old farrowed a litter of pigs. Since the first of January Lane has sold ten pigs from these two animals for $10 each, or a total of $100. He now has two of the pigs, for which he has been offered $15 a head and also the sows, now valued at $50 each.

Figuring the pigs sold and the present value of the animals still on hand, the initial investment of $20 has made a clear profit of $160 in less than twelve months.

All feed consumed by the hogs was home grown. The animals were cared for in the spare time of members of the Lane family and he considers that he did a very profitable piece of business when he bought the two little pigs. The two sows, just now past a year old, will be kept for breeding.

Lane has eighty native pecan trees on his thirty-acre farm, which adjoins Elm Creek. He has also set out sixty papershell trees on the farm. One of the native tree produced 85½ of nuts last season and another made its output $45. Lane will topwork the trees and insert papershell buds in them this season.

Celebrate 53rd Wedding Anniversary.

The following item, which appeared in yesterday's San Antonio Express, will be of interest to many of the old time citizens of Bandera county, inasmuch as the couple mentioned therein lived in this county many years ago:

Ozona, Tex., March 22.—The 53rd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Patrick of Ozona was celebrated by the Patricks and their children and grandchildren at the Patrick home here Saturday. The event took the form of a double celebration, the 51st grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Patrick Monday night. The new arrival was a girl. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick have lived in Ozona 29 years. He is 77 years and his wife is 76. They lay claim to a record for descendants in this section of the country. Eleven children were born to the couple, 10 of whom are still living. They have 41 granddchildren, 34 of them still living, and nine great grandchildren.

Has Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Van Rugh had a narrow escape from death yesterday morning, when she, by mistake, took a dose of an antiseptic preparation in place of another medicine. The antiseptic contained a large p r centage of carbolic acid, and Mrs. Rugh quickly discovered her mistake, and phoned Dr. Butler, who was soon there to administer antidotes, and bring her out of danger.

Mrs. M. E. Faris and daughter, Miss Cecil, visited Kerrville Tuesday.

A Splendid Bull Calf.

Mr. R. N. Chaddock, of Medina last week received a fine Jersey Bull, ten months old, from the Flowerdale Farm of Dallas, for which he paid $200. This bull calf stood third in a very large class of bulls at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show last week, and also headed the Flowerdale Farm herd which stood third in the same class at the Stock Show. There were seventeen entries in the Junior Bull Class and Ed C. Lasater and King's Ranch were the only two ahead of this calf. The dam and grand dam of the calf are both R. of M. cows, and both of them are winners in first and second class at the Texas State Fair at Dallas.

Mr. Chaddock is enthusiastic over the possibilities of dairy farming in this section, and is stocking his farm with only the best animals for this purpose. He keeps an accurate record of cost of production, labor, feed, etc., and finds dairying profitable. There are other people turning their attention to this industry here, we are pleased to note, and we predict that within a very few years old Bandera county will be known as a dairy farming region of the first class.

County Quota

The quota allotted Bandera County will give eight young men of this county opportunities to attend this summer's camps of the C. M. T. C. Association, conducted by the Government at different centers throughout the Eighth Corps Area, announced Dr. J. H. Erwin, County Chairman of the C. M. T. C. enrollment committee today. All counties in the State have been allotted quotas, based on the population of each.

The campaign for applicants has opened and acceptance of qualified applicants will begin at once, declared Dr. Erwin, who also stated that he had complete information and application blanks available at his office. He urges all those planning to take advantage of this opportunity to apply at once to insure acceptance while the quota remains unfilled.

"There is no expense whatever attached to attendance at a C. M. T. Camp," Dr. Erwin explained. "The railroad fares from homes to nearest camp and return, board, food, clothing, laundry service, medical attention and instruction are all paid by the Government. It is all pure voluntary and there is no obligation for any military service, present or future, upon those who go to the camps and undertake the training."

George Lane is spending this week in San Antonio.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Mrs. Charles Montague returned Monday from San Antonio where, last Saturday, she attended the Golden Wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maverick. This venerable couple were married in Virginia March 19, 1877. They lived on the Maverick ranch near Bandera many years ago, and were well known to all of our people. Mrs. Montague says their home, the Sunshine Ranch on the Babcock Road, near San Antonio, was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the decorations being in gold, and yellow roses and flowers everywhere, while an immense gold cake adorned the table. There were hundreds of guests present, and Mrs. Montague met many old friends whom she had not seen for thirty years. All of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Maverick, ten in number, were present. The celebration was conducted as they were in old Virginia before the Civil War, a big barbecue feast, and dancing platform, and the festivities continued until a late hour.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Otto Weltner, nee Ella Klockmann, was born September 24, 1884, near Weimar, Colorado county, Texas, and died at her home near Camp Verde, March 14, 1927. Her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Klockmann preceded her in death some ten or eleven years, as did also three brothers and two sisters. She is survived by her husband, Otto Weltner, eight children, Henry, 16; Herbert, 10; Otto R., 8; Paul, 6; Anita, 15; Gretchen, 13; Henrietta, 11, and Ella, 2 years old; also by five brothers and two sisters, R. R. Klockmann, Weimar, Texas; W. G. Rudolph and Walter Klockmann of Bandera, Texas; Mrs. Annie Kram of Weimar, and Mrs. Charles Seydler of Rosenberg, Texas.

Prior to her last illness Mrs. Weltner had always enjoyed the best of health, and was sick only a few days with influenza when she passed away suddenly. The other complications set in and funeral at Comfort on March 15th was attended by many friends from Weimar, Rosenberg, Hondo, Yancey, Taylor, Content, San Antonio, Alice and nearby towns. Deceased was a devoted wife and mother, a noble character, and beloved by all who knew her. The sudden call of her death was a great shock to her many friends. To the grief-stricken husband and children the New Era extends condolence and sympathy.

Edgar Spenrath, an affable young man of Comfort, was here on business yesterday.

Most of Us Find What we Look For

A man was overheard the other day talking about his associates. A good many things seemed to be wrong with the people this man knew. This one was lazy, that one was curlish, another was hypocritical, still another wasn't kind to his family, a fifth had a dark page far back in his history. And so it went.

Anybody listening to that talk might have imagined that these people were particularly a bad lot.

Yet it is a thousand to one that they were just average people, about as good and as bad as most of us, but on the whole with a great deal more good in them than bad.

The whole story lay in the mind of the man who was talking. For some insertable reason he prefers to see evil and to magnify evil, when he might as easily see good and magnify good and be happy.

The person who overheard the talk didn't know the man who did the talking, and he didn't want to. But that man didn't look happy. He looked rather miserable. And how in the world, when he chooses to dwell upon evil and magnify it, could he be anything else than miserable?

A better witness, reporting on these same people, no doubt would have pictured them so that the hearer would want to know them all. For it there is bad in them all, of course, there is good in them all too.

In people and in situations and in neighborhoods and communities there seems to be a good deal of evil, if you want to hunt it up. But in the same people and situations and neighborhoods and communities there is also a great deal of good—undoubtedly more good than evil—if you want to look for that.

Each of us has a free choice.

We can look for evil and dwell upon and magnify it, and make ourselves miserable— and probably those around us too.

Or we can look for good and dwell upon it and magnify it and make ourselves and those about us happy.

There are some queer and utterly insertable things about human nature, and one of them is its habit of letting evil overcome good when there is good wisdom in the bibical injunction to "overcome evil with good."

It is the nature for an unguided mortal to overlook a thousand blessings, a thousand things he ought to be glad about and thankful for, and to fasten his whole attention on one or two things that seem bad. That way he lets the one or two bad things wipe out the thousand good things; for of course he isn't getting any good from the things unless he is using them and being glad and thankful about them.—Exchange.

"There is a Reason"

Report Without Foundation.

In contradiction of a rumor which seems to have gained currency in regard to the appeal filed by Pat Forest, from the life sentence given in the recent trial of his case at Kerrville, we have been requested to publish the following:

"It has been rumored that I have withdrawn my motion for an appeal and expect to take the sentence imposed on me at Kerrville February term of court. This is false, and I wish to correct this and let it be known that I am asking for a new trial, and all I am asking in the event it is granted is the truth, facts, and a fair and impartial trial."

The New Era had not heard of such a rumor, but we take pleasure in publishing the above in justice to the young man who was convicted.

Apoplexy Fatal to Mrs. Frank E. White

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Center Point for Mrs. Frank E. White, 51, who died at 3:45 Tuesday morning. The services were conducted by Rev. Storms, pastor of the Center Point Baptist Church, of which deceased had been a member for many years. Interment was made in the Center Point Cemetery.

Mrs. White, who had been in ill health for several months, was stricken with apoplexy on March 7, and her condition had been critical since that time.

She was born at Fort Worth on Feb. 19, 1876; was married to Frank E. White at Sweetwater in December, 1906, and had been a resident of Center Point for the past seven years.

Surviving are the husband, who published the Center Point News for many years; four sons, Thad, Kelly, Kinard and Philson White of Center Point; two stepsons, L. B. White, an employee of the Kerrville Mountain Sun, and N. H. White of Jayton; her father, A. A. Prince of Sweetwater; two sisters, Mrs. W. G. Bradford, Dallas, and Mrs. C. C. Married

Another wedding of much interest to relatives and friends was solemnized Monday, March 14, when Miss Grace Love, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Love of Vanderpool became the bride of Frank Kuykendall of Sabinal. They were married in Uvalde and left Tuesday morning for San Antonio and other points on their wedding trip.

The bride is one of our most popular and highly accomplished young ladies. She received her education at Nalyon and Sabinal schools and is a young lady in whom has centered so many good qualities and splendid graces that she has won the friendship of all her acquaintances. She is the type that will dignify and adorn the home and be to her husband a companionable wife. Mr. Kuykendal has been fortunate in winning this lovable young lady.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kuykendall of Sabinal and is a young man of many outstanding qualities, elements of character that give promise of a happy and successful future. He is a young business man of Sabinal. The young couple will be at home in Sabinal April 1st. The congratulations and best wishes of their host of friends will follow them wherever the vicissitudes of time and fortune may carry them.—Uvalde Leader-News.

H. G. Thompson Dead.

Nature has her time and seasons, bloom and decay, youth and age, life and death succeed each other at periods that can be foreseen.

The flowers bloom today and tomorrow wither, elaborating their seeds and dying not until their work is done.

The giant oaks retain their strength and show older in their dying and at last they leave behind and fall amid their progeny that have grown up around them.

Yet the insects die with the dying tear and all nature's host, except by violence, comes to their death only at eventide.

But with man, the pale horse and its rider, death, comes at all seasons. He blights the freshness of hopes and promises and spreads the pall over those that are bound most closely by the ties of life.

Old age with its fleeting years is his. The prime of man or womanhood is his. Childhood and youth with its laughter and glee is his. The cradle is his.

The death angel upon the pale horse rode into the life of H. G. Thompson and summoned him from life into eternity on March 10, 1927.

Hiram Gideon Thompson was born in Arkansas April 3, 1846 and would have been 81 years of age April 3 of this year.

At an early age of life he trusted Jesus Christ as his Savior, placing his soul into His hands, believing that he was able to keep it against that day. And when he met Him in approaching death, he was still persuaded that he was able to keep his soul against that day when he [illegible] would again meet Him in the judgment. He was a member of the Methodist church and a true, devout Christian.

At the age of six years he, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Thompson, moved from their home in Arkansas to this place where he has resided ever since. They were among the first settlers of the Vanderpool section.

His father purchased several thousand acres of land and he and his sons engaged in the cattle, sheep and goat business and met with great success. The deceased, of course, had retired, but his son, R. G. Thompson, is carrying the business on successfully.

At the age of 25 Mr. Thompson was married to Miss Grace Mahnson and to this union eight children were born. They are R. G. Thompson of Vanderpool, Mrs. A. L. Nunley of Vanderpool, Mrs. M. D. McNutt, Del Rio, Mrs. C. H. Towell of Anaheim, California, Mrs. Goldie Cash of El Paso and Mrs. Mabel North of Yoakum, all of whom are living and were at the bedside of their father when the end came. The good wife and two of the daughters had gone on before.

The remains were taken to the Sabinal cemetery for burial on Friday, March 11th. The Methodist pastor of that city conducted the funeral services. A large number of sorrowing relatives and friends were present to pay their last tribute of respect to this noble veteran who had been one of the pioneers that aided so much in the country's development. A long life of usefulness like Mr. Thompson lived does not end with death. Our friend is resting from his labors and will enter a reward that will richly repay every sacrifice but the works he did remain to bless the community in which he lived these many years. The bereaved have the sympathy of all in their loss. R. H. Thompson of this community is a brother of the deceased.—Uvalde Leader News.

Camp Verde Woman Dead.

Comfort, Tex., March 16—On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock Mrs. Ella Weltner, wife of Otto Weltner of Camp Verde, near Center Point, was buried here. Decedent is survived by her husband, Otto Weltner, and eight children of which the eldest is 17 years old; besides five brothers, W. C. Klockman and R. P. Klockman of Taylor, Walter and Rudolph Klockman of La Grange and H. E. Klockman of Weimar, and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Kram of Weimar and Mrs. Charles Weidler of Rosenberg. Mrs. Weltner was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Klockman of Weimar, and was born there September 24, 1884, and was married to Otto Weltner in 1909 and moved up here to their farm at Camp Verde, where they lived on their beautiful farm during all these years. Two sisters and three brothers besides her parents preceded her in death.—San Antonio Express.

C. A. Taylor Dead.

Mrs. J. W. Cox received a telegram Saturday announcing the death of C. A. Taylor at Van Nuys, California, on that date. His death was due to a stroke of paralysis. Two weeks previously Mr. Taylor's wife died, and it is supposed that the shock of her death so affected him that he soon followed her in death. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were well known here, having lived here many years, and moved to California about thirteen years ago. Two years ago they visited Bandera and met many of their old time friends here. The news of Mr. Taylor's death, following so closely upon the news of his wife's death comes as a shock to all of his old friends.

Aged Negro Died.

Henry Jackson, aged 84, died at Wetmore last Thursday after an illness of several days. Deceased was an ex-slave, having at one time belonged to the Medford family of San Marcos. He came to Bandera in 1879 and resided on Bandera Creek until two years ago, when he sold his place to Mr. Dater and moved to Wetmore. He was a quiet, polite old Negro, and had the confidence and good will of all of our people. He was buried at Wetmore Friday.

Rainbow Trout for Medina Lake.

It has been announced that Medina Lake is to have a fish hatchery running 12 months each year instead of six months. Inquiries of the Government have been met and 20,000 rainbow trout will be shipped to the hatchery in October.

Officials in charge of the Medina fishing grounds and hatchery have arranged to place caretakers in charge 12 months in the year and the Government will keep the hatchery stocked. Experiments conducted over a period of years has proven that the rainbow trout thrives better in Texas than in Virginia, heretofore thought to be the best spawning grounds.

Climate conditions at Medina Lake, are such that where the trout usually attain a length of six to seven inches at the age of one year in the East, they grow 12 and 14 inches at Medina. Young trout will be kept in the spawning pools six months and then transferred to separate pools for another period before being released into the lake under the new plan.

Mrs. J. W. Lewis and little son, of Pipe Creek were in to see us yesterday.

Federal Aid for Texas Highways.

Austin, Tex., March 29.—Federal road aid, $6,500,000 asked for 1927, again is to be released to the State Highway Department within two or three weeks after being withheld for about six months, W. R. Ely, member of the highway commission, said Tuesday.

National road authorities late in the administration of the last Ferguson Highway Commission withdrew all aid and declined to enter with the State on any project because of the poor financial condition of the Highway Department and the bad conditions of roads.

The Highway Commission late Monday conferred at length with Federal Engineers over the aid problem.

Ely said Tuesday that the commission now is in a position to secure the aid which will be available in two or three weeks again because it has satisfied National authorities that the department will properly maintain the roads, pay current debts as soon as possible and generally measure up to the standard imposed.

Storm Wrecks Home.

San Saba, March 29.—The home of Archie Gunter was wrecked and Mrs. Gunter severely hurt in the worst storm ever seen here which, accompanied by heavy rain and hail came at 5:30 p. m. Monday. The local telephone system was put out of commission. Lines and poles were torn down. Much damage was done to plate glass windows and many out houses were wrecked.

R. B. Simpson, of Kingfisher, Oklahoma, was here Sunday on a visit to his sister, Mrs. T. W. North.

Seriously Burned.

D. P. Briggs, of San Antonio, was seriously burned about the hands and face last Friday night, when an explosion occurred while he was operating a moving picture machine at the Lima school house. The machine and several reels of film were totally destroyed in the fire.

Tax on Tobacco.

Austin, Texas, March 29.—Ther was an informal caucus of House members here Tuesday who favor a tobacco tax. They asked the Governor to submit that matter to the special session of the Legislature and believe he will do so, as they argued that funds must be forthcoming for the State and for the public schools.

Representative Victor B. Gilbert of Baird was spokesman for the group. "We have eliminated the nuisance from the bill," asserted Gilbert, "by providing that the wholesaler in or out of State paying the tobacco tax would have a five per cent deduction. That would encourage the wholesalers to pay it and remove its collection from retailers or even users of tobacco. It could not be passed down the line that it and would thus simplify the payment of the tax."

"We must have more money for the schools and for the general fund," declared Gilbert, "and since tobacco is not a necessity, the small tax proposed therein would not be a burden."

Man Injured by Rope.

Llano, Tex., March 29.—Mike Moore of Llano suffered painful injuries Sunday morning when he became entangled in a rope while working with a wild horse. His left hand was torn off and his shoulder and collarbone broken. He was taken to Austin Sunday afternoon for treatment.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Better cows, better hogs, better sheep, better goats, better chickens, on the farm means more returns, more prosperity more contentment in Bandera land. And better they will be.

If you want to find out how well people are satisfied to live in Bandera county just travel around over the county and try to buy a farm or a ranch. Not many want to sell. Which spells that the average Bandera county man is contented with his lot.

The shearing season is on. Most of the goats in this section have been sheared and soon the sheep will be clipped from the backs of the sheep. Mohair and wool provide a source of revenue for our ranchmen and farmers that beats cotton to a frazzle. The marketing of the fleece spells prosperity for Banderaland.

Dairy farming pays elsewhere, why not here? When our farmers realize that the keeping of several good dairy cows will pay for their keep and all the work necessary to keep them in good condition and then a handsome profit besides, they are going into the dairy business. The ready market now for all dairy products insures steady revenue from good cows.

The season approacheth when Bandera will be flooded with tourists. Already they are coming through, but next month, and from then until late in October the week-end visitors, vacationists and pleasure seekers will be coming from everywhere, for the report of Bandera's delightful environs has spread throughout the land, and people are going to come here to enjoy Nature's grand and glorious offerings. It is becoming known that we will have a highway, maintained by the State, running through our county; it is known as Trail No. 10, leading from San Antonio and passing through Bandera and Medina City, going over the next rise to Leon Springs and feed the Old Spanish Trail. This highway traverses the most picturesque region in Texas, and tourists will be entranced by the majestic splendor of the view which will greet them as they journey from this town to Kerrville, winding their way across mountain fastnesses, where they can look down into deep gorges and see rippling rivulets coursing their way to increase the volume of water in the magnificent mountain stream, the Medina. Here camping places abound, and fishing is good, and the people are friendly, and Nature is inviting. All of these things combine to insure more visitors this season than ever before, and Bandera should get ready to receive them.

New Books.

Austin, Texas, March 29.—Among the new books by faculty members of the University of Texas is one dealing with Jesus as a teacher, being written by Dr. W. F. Ledlow, adjunct professor of education. The book is to appear within three months, it is stated. Another, called "Francisco de Ibarra and Nueva Vizcaya" by Dr. J. Lloyd Mecham, associate professor of government, has just appeared. The book deals with the third period of Spanish conquest and organization of the frontier province of Nueva Vizcaya as the northwestern part of Mexico was first called.

Abandoning Ad Valorem

Texas voters will have opportunity the coming year to abandon the ad valorem system of taxation for maintaining the State government. The amendment would permit the separation of the sources of income between State and county governments, leaving to the latter all ad valorem taxes on lands and tangible property and taking unto the State the taxes from intangibles, franchises, gross production, severance taxes, corporation taxes and the like.

The amendment should be adopted. It will be if it is understood by a majority of the voters. In the first place it will aid the State of the cry of inequity of taxation as between the counties, and that it will remove a festering sore that has done much to promote sectionalism. In the second it will give to the voters of each county control of its own taxation, since local taxes will be the only levy against property owners in the different counties.

Adoption of the amendment will compel the taxation of the small but fast growing group that has been virtually or quite escaping taxation in Texas and relieve the injustice of making the lands and visible property of the State, representing perhaps 50 per cent of the actual values, contribute 65 or 75 per cent of the cost of maintaining the State government.—Marshall Messenger.

By delicate measurements on the Egyptian Pyramids a group of scientists or "seers", or just common fakes, of England, announce that they have concluded the "last world war will begin in 1928 and will end with England victorious in 1936." The last war will end when Congress of the United States passes a law conscripting money and factories and railroads and the men who operate them just as they conscript soldiers, when they pass a law making it a felony to manufacture, sell, transport or handle munitions of war and not before. As long as we pay tribute to the manufacturers of war munitions, permit cost-plus contracts and money-grabbers to get rich and operatives to grow fat by reason of war the young manhood of this nation will shed their lifeblood on the fields of carnage and a congressman or senator who fails to make it his chief business to get through legislation seeking to destroy war is failing in his greatest duty to his constituents and to mankind. —Georgetown Sun.

Atheism and God.

The object of a new society formed in this country is this: "To abolish belief in God, together with all forms of religion based on that belief."

Such an organization is doomed before it starts. From the beginning of human life there has been the belief in a Supreme Being. No person or any group of persons can shatter this faith.

The moral code of the world is based directly on religion and if it were possible to break down the belief in God, this code would automatically be abolished. But the moral code will survive because religion will continue to live.

No alarm need be felt for the results of the new atheistic organization. Its days will be short-lived. It will die because it is based, not only upon a fallacy, but also in opposition to the human mind.

And away back in the heads of the ancestors there really must be a little belief of their own in God, for how could they fight something which they themselves do not believe exists?

Quit the Knocking

Every now and then we hear of some of our citizens deploring the bad features of our town and then they point out how this town and that town have the better of our own.

It is true that no town can be perfect, but every town can be a better one if every citizen tries to make it so. The man who knocks his town is knocking himself, for a community can be no better than its individuals.

The best solution for the chronic grumbler who is ever greatly dissatisfied, is that he sell his property, pack up his suitcase and hie himself to other pastures where he may think the grass is just a little greener and the sun shines just a little brighter. But if he does do this stand he probably won't be will discover that every community has its ups and downs, its summers and its winters, just as ours.

Let's not knock our town because of its weak points—let's try to improve them. Constructive criticism is all right but knocking will accomplish nothing.

If each citizen will do his part, the town will take care of itself.

Laws of Nature Prove God's Existence.

Watches, ocean liners and great buildings do not "just happen." Neither do universes.

The laws of nature make the existence of God more certain to our finite minds than would the presence of God in material form.

Indeed, He so appeared on earth for thirty-three years and spoke as man. But He did not "just happen." Neither do universes. He does not now. Not only so, but added to the evidence always existing about us, He demonstrated His control over the things of His creation by a way that proved His authority over all things. From matter to mind, from life to life; but man's perversity, supplemented by his selfishness, jealousy and hatred, refused to believe His existence even when they looked upon Him and saw His miraculous works.

The same argument used for centuries still holds good to the effect that design in the universe makes absolutely certain the presence of Him who designed all these things.

The created universe and the laws which govern it are as much the intellectual evidence of His existence as they are the material evidence of their own.

To look upon the material cosmos and all the phenomena produced day after day and assert that there is no God is about as sensible as to say: Here is fruit but there is no tree. Or, here is a tree, but no earth from which it sprang; no intelligence to direct the selection of elements in the ground for the tree's use in producing the fruit; no mind to order the proper proportion of these elements for the creation of body, bark, leaves or fruit; no power to cause them to ascend into the tree's body and limbs.

There must be an Infinite Mind from which comes man's mind; an Infinite Spirit, whence comes man's spirit; and Infinite Life, whence comes man's life; an Infinite Power, whence comes man's power.

Thought preceded the making of the universe, and thought could not be were there no Thinker. There would be no evidence of design in the universe were there no Designer.

These are system and order throughout the creation, and these could not be were there no Intelligence to decree the law; nor could it be obeyed were there no Executive to see to its enforcement.—Selected.

Old Timer Retires

After 36 years in the newspaper business at Sonora, Steve Murphy has sold the Devil's River News to M. A. Wilson of Big Lake, who is installing a Linotype and other modern equipment. Murphy will devote his time to looking after property interests in Sutton County. He is the only survivor of three Murphy brothers who came from Canada to West Texas in the 1890s. One of his brothers, Pat, founded the San Angelo Standard and actively managed that publication until his death several years ago. Mike Murphy, another of the trio, was associated with Steve in the ownership of the Devil's River News until his death in 1922.

An incident of interest to residents in the Hill Country in connection with the sale of the Devil's River News is the fact that an advertisement of the late Pat Murphy's, when Scrivner of Kerrville ran in that paper 36 years without a change. The wording of the ad was never changed during the Murphy regime and it ran as it was set the first time without the type ever having been disturbed up to the time of the sale last week.

Pat Forest Appeal Is Being Perfected.

The appeal of Pat Forest, convicted and given a life term in prison at the February term of Kerr County District Court in connection with the slaying of Will A. Gray, is being prepared for presentation to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin.

Rebuking a rumor that the appeal had been withdrawn, Judge Lee Wallace of Kerrville, defenses counsel, said Tuesday that preparation of the record, briefs and arguments and brief in the case is now under way.

Judge J. J. Brucks in over-ruling a motion for a new trial in February granted the defense 90 days in which to perfect the appeal.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

In God's Picture House.

Talk about the moving picture show machine, the silver screen, eyes, we marvel at the genius of man. Great actors move and have their being on a screen stage, and multiplied millions flock to the movie shows daily and sit and wonder, spellbound to think that "great stage stars are merely by proxy and entertain the millions of earth. Then we walk through the world's greatest art galleries and admire the work of the masters and stroll through the museums of arts and gaze with admiration upon the delicate carvings wrought in marble by the cunning fingers of the ancients. O yes, man is smart, makes the canvas breathe, give tongues to steel, gas put a carcinole of electricity around the globe binding together with copper wire, has constructed monster steels that stalk across the desert like a ghost, hitched a spark plug to an oil can and man sails among the stars—wonder of wonders! He has put the plow point of industry on iron and steel, harnessed the ocean waves and made of them servants of commerce, sent his drop down into the bowels of Mother Earth and brought up the diamond black coal, the magic crude gold and silver and copper ore, and O gee whiz, look at this vast commerce, look at those iron clad monsters plowing the seven seas of the world; look at the old horse trotting on threads of steel, pulling the commerce of the world; look at those mechanical steeds going through the air with the speed, accuracy and reliability of a bird; look at that device of human sending out a million of magic power, making the whole world go round and lighting up the dark nooks and corners of the earth. And behold the great White Ways in our cities, where the skyscrapers and temples of beauty rear their heads, and again we marvel at the genius of man. Look ye, the fingers, the deep unfathomable depths of his mystic mind. Surely he must partake of the divine order and give a little credit. But with all man's smariness, he can't paint a picture like God did this week, converting a dreary day into a fairyland of glory and beauty. Yes, in staging the background for the picture show the upper elements were over done, but in the foreground of existence, the artist began to descend. Then this Master Artist with a brush and pencil worked His wand, His magic stroke, and all nature was wrapped in a mantle of glee, which sparkled and gleamed and glistened like a sea of diamonds. So we stood there in the midst of God's picture show home spell bound, awe stricken, and felt that after all the greatest man is only a copyist. The tree falling across the stream gave the pattern for the steel bridge; the bird gave the idea for the airplane; the lightning gave the engine—and O gee, look at the network of wires covering the earth. O yes, the Creator lays the pattern—man's only an imitator.—Albany News.

Geese Dropped From Clouds

Navasota, Texas, March 29.—One of the strangest freaks of storms has been reported here. During the course of a hailstorm in the McKinney community, ten miles east of here, wild geese dropped from the clouds with the big hailstones, several farmers engaging by astonished farmers revealed the geese were a part of a flock which was passing northward as the storm came up and were struck down by the hailstones. Several farmers had geese for dinner that day, according to Elwood Seale, a farmer.

The state fish and game commissioner, William J. Tucker, is a publisher from Longview. A former state commissioner, William Sterret, was also a newspaper man, known as Colonel "Bill." Just now the new commissioner is electorately called "Will," but as his fame spreads he will probably be dubbed "Bill."

An ounce of education is better than a pound of punishment for violators of the game laws.

Law makes life and property safe. The Psalmist said his delight was in the law of the Lord." Delight in the conservation laws will fill our streams and lakes with fish and our forests with game.

The origin of the phrase "as poor as Job's turkey" is from a description of a fowl in "Sam Slick" by Haliburton. The bird in question was so poor that it had only one feather and was obliged to lean against a fence to gobble. Thus the mythical turkey is said to designate anything or anybody that has reached the final degree of poorness. Job of the Bible never had a turkey, as this fowl is a native of America.

You May Have Believed—

That the blood is purified as it goes through the heart. But that is not the case. The heart merely pumps the blood through the arteries, veins and lungs. The purifying agent is found in the lungs, where it is brought nearly into contact with a large surface of air. It gives up its carbonic acid gas and takes up oxygen, thus changing from a bluish color to a bright scarlet.

Catching Buzzards

Erle Mansfield built a buzzard trap for Bruce McCarty last week, and the first day it was set twenty-five buzzards were caught. The trap is made with net wire, and the carcass of a sheep is used as a bait. A chute entrance is provided, and when Mr. Buzzard goes through that chute he can't find his way out. After the captives are killed a large pasture fly trap is set to catch the blow-flies which swarm over the carcass, and Mr. McCarty is of the opinion that in this way the spread of charbon may be arrested and prevented. Quite a number of our ranchmen are preparing to trap the buzzards and entirely rid this section of their presence. Mr. R. E. Blunt, the local tinner makes a dead fly trap for pasture use, which can be used to advantage by the ranchmen.

The writer knew Marcus Thalmann intimately; and in all of our dealings with him we found him to be a man of genuine integrity and honesty of purpose, a loyal friend, and he proved that friendship in many ways. We shall miss him as the days go by, miss his friendly greeting his cheerful encouragement, and his kindly counsel. To the bereaved family we extend condolence and sympathy in this hour of great sorrow.

The funeral was conducted at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church by his pastor, Rev. R. J. Gossett, and interment was made in Bandera Cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives.

Bitten by Small Snake.

Mrs. George Fee was bitten on the foot by a small snake last Sunday. She was quite ill for awhile from the effects of the bite, but soon recovered, after being treated by Dr. John H. Erwin. It is not known what kind of a snake it was, as the reptile escaped.

Ca. Overturns.

A Ford car, occupied by Misses Mae Hunt, Marie Rawls, Gladys Harris, and Raymond Rawls, J. R. Rawls, and Arlee Harris was overturned near Camp Verde Saturday night, while the young folks were returning from an entertainment at the home of Finley Harris. Fortunately all of the occupants escaped injury.

M. R. Thalmann.

After many months of suffering, M. R. Thalmann, a well known citizen of Bandera, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at his home near town. While his death has been expected for some time, when the news spread that he had passed away it created much sorrow among those who had known him for many years.

Marcus R. Thalmann was born in Missouri October 29, 1877, the son of Herman and Viola Thalmann. He was brought to Bandera while a very small boy, and here he grew to manhood and resided for almost half a century. In 1904 he was married to Miss Dora Kittinger of Utopia, and to this union six children were born, Mrs. Mabel Pond, Herman, Ruth, Roy, Lela Evelyn, and Charles Harvey Thalmann, all of whom survive him.

During his long residence here Marcus Thalmann was identified with every move which made for the up-building of this section. He was quite active in the sheep and goat industry, and held the position of secretary of the United Goat and Sheep Raisers' Association for a long time. At the time of his death he was also secretary of the Bandera County Fair, which place he had success fully filled from the beginning of the fair organization. He was an active worker and kept the wealth and they chose Medina as

Charter Granted for Sonora Road

Charter for the San Antonio and Northwestern Railroad, a $200,000 corporation with headquarters in San Antonio, was granted Monday by the Secretary of State, giving the company the right to build a railroad from San Antonio to Sonora, Sutton County, through the intermediate counties of Medina, Uvalde, Bandera, Real and Edwards. Ultimately the company expects to extend the line to San Angelo, to connect up there with the Orient.

The company has been incorporated at the request of residents in the vast territory 100 miles in width not now served with a railroad, and effort will be made to serve every town seeking such transportation facilities, according to H. E. Vernon, one of the incorporators. The survey and right-of-way committee, headed by Henry Kieler, president of the company is now in the field seeking the most feasible and practicable line to accommodate this section, Vernon said. The members of this committee will make their reports in about two weeks.

The general line of the route being considered is through Medina County south of the lake, thence in a northwesterly direction. The possible tonnage has not been figured out, but the proposed line will serve a rich grain and stock country, Vernon explained.

In the articles of incorporation, Henry Koehler is named president; Frank H. Weber, secretary and treasurer, and S. H. Saathoff, W. A. Fritze and Dr. Charles A. R. Campbell, as first, second and third vice presidents, respectively. They are all directors. Other directors are C. W. Ling and W. Reichert. Other incorporators are L. J. Gould, Mrs. C. Weber and H. R. Vernon. All are of San Antonio.

The capital stock of $200,000 is divided into 2,000 $100 shares.—San Antonio Express.

Receives Anti Crotalus Serum.

Dr. John H. Erwin this week received a small quantity of the anti-crotalus serum for rattlesnake bites from Col. M. L. Crimmins of San Antonio. This serum is made from the venom of the rattlesnake, and is an absolutely sure antidote for the bite if administered to a patient in time. Rattlesnakes are numerous this year throughout Texas. Within nine days, during the past two weeks, seven persons were bitten by rattlesnakes in the San Antonio territory.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Kill the buzzards! The buzzard is a most revolting fowl, and of no benefit whatever. He feasts upon carion, and when full of rotten flesh vomits the filth out. He is a spreader of disease and makes life of man and animal unsafe. It has been definitely proven that the vulture carries germs of disease from one section of the country to the other. There is no doubt but that the buzzard has somewhat to do with the spread of charbon anthrax. Now an attempt is to be made to get rid of the buzzard. Bruce McCarty of Bandera has prepared a trap which is successfully catching these foul fowls, and he loses no time in executing the captured birds. After he kills them he sets a large trap for the flies that gather to lend their help in spreading contagion. We think Mr. McCarty is doing wonderful thing in helping to kill out all of the buzzards and the co-conspirator, the pesky fly, and every rancheman should do likewise.

This week the New Era publishes the statement of ownership, as required by the government. This statement is published semi-annually and it must give the names and addresses of owners of newspapers, as well as mortgagees and holders of one per cent or more of stock in the business. Heretofore we would skip this statement of ownership in some out-of-the-way corner, for the reason that we did not like for people to know somebody held a mortgage on our plant, but this week the statement has a prominent place at the top of the column on this page, and we are glad for it to be there, for it reveals that there are no known bond holders or mortgagees. Our plant is paid for, and we are happy. For six years we have been "under a cake," and paying our plant out little by little, and at the same time improving it until today it represents an expenditure of about $7,000, and we can proudly say it belongs to Hunter. To all who have so generously aided us with their patronage and good will we are grateful.

Speaking of the "old-time religion," a Massachusetts Methodist pastor is trying out one feature of the old order of church service on his congregation, doubtless to see how sincere are those members who are fond of looking back to "the good old days" in the church. The pastor in question has revived a seventy-five-year old regulation that worshipers at his church must not be separated according to sex. The male members are seated on one side of the building and the female members on the other side. If the plan proves satisfactory, it will be followed permanently in that church. That system of seating the congregation was abandoned not so long ago in some sections of the south. These are any number of persons, not to be included among the aged, brought up in the Old South, who remember distinctly that segregation of the sexes in church was the usual order when they were young. In those days the old men sat in the "Amen" corner on one side and the elderly ladies in the opposite corner. A young man who brought his sweetheart to church did not have the privilege of sitting with her during the service. Husbands and wives were separated at the church door and sat on opposite sides of the building. But, then, in those Victorian times, there was not the "frankness between the sexes" that we hear about today. It was imagined that there was a difference between them. It was extremely doubtful if the Massachusetts brother's experiment will prove popular in this day of "sex familiarity." Probably he could not have hit on a more effective scheme for discouraging many young people from coming to church.

Kiddy

A Kansas City man went to an orphan home the other day and picked out a brighteyed 8 months old baby boy and presented it to his wife for her birthday present. She was delighted. It used to be that a man's wife occasionally presented him with a son or daughter, but in this modern age it is not unusual to change, and let the husband do the presenting.—Sherman Democrat.

A lady with thirty years of experience in the management of orphan asylums declared in the public prints recently that there never was a time when likely-looking asylum babies were in such demand as at present. To let it be known that a pretty baby, strong and promising is available for adoption, is to have immediate inquiries from numerous childless couples who yearn for a child in the home. This is a curious condition. That people of intelligence and character should choose babies from others rather than of themselves is astonishing, if not exactly dispiriting. It proves, however, what untold centuries of experience has taught, that the love of children is the binder of home ties. It has been said by some cynic that the rich impose on the poor by making them have most of the children. He might better have said that the poor impose on the rich by having an unfair percentage of the children. It seems obvious that the rich fear children more than do the poor, for it is dread of parenthood that keeps so many of the rich and well-to-do from having large families of their own. A millionaire with one child is a timid mortal—he is afraid of losing the child as of losing his money, and the concern he has for both gives him sleepless nights. It is an established fear among the well-to-do that more than two children in the family will overtax their ability to raise and educate them all. Education, in their view, consists of steady schooling from kindergarten up through four or six years of the university. Might it not be better to have more children and less education than more education and fewer children? Education is good but as a recipe for happiness it is a quack proposition.—State Press in Dallas News.

Newspaper Errors.

The editor does not want anyone to send him any more copies of the paper in which they find mistakes. If they find a perfect copy, however, he will pay a big price for it. If the fool critic who hunts for mistakes in the newspapers would find them all, he would be kept busy. We will be pleased to buy copies of any paper which can be proven entirely free from errors, either typographically or in statements of fact. We will be pleased to find a merchant who never made a mistake in putting up an order; a lawyer who never lost a case through his own errors, a doctor who never wrongly diagnosed a case; a druggist who never made a mistake; a post office official who never put mail in the wrong box; a woman who never forgot to put in salt while cooking or to put tea in the teapot before putting in the water.

Bring or some of your mistakeless paragons who find it so easy to criticise the newspapers and we'll give them the chance of their lives to find out whether they are really human.—Donna News.

MOTHER

Mrs. Matilda Jennette Rogers died at her home in Mason on Wednesday, March 30, of pneumonia, after an illness of several weeks. Deceased was born at Chappel Hill, North Carolina, October 23, 1842, being therefore at the time of her death 84 years, five months and seven days old. She was the daughter of Murphy and Winifred Strowd, and with her parents moved to Mississippi when she was a small girl. Here her father became a large plantation owner in Holmes county, Mississippi, and it was here she was married in 1862 to Rogers, in 1863. After the Civil War, which had swept away most of the property of the Southerners, she and her husband came to Texas and located in Jackson county, where in 1885 her husband died, leaving her with a family of nine children. On account of the unhealthy climate of Jackson county, Mrs. Rogers moved to Mason county in 1890, where she made her home until death called her up higher. She is survived by her nine children, as follows: Mrs. Alice Freeman of Mountain Home; Texas; James M. Rogers of Menard, Texas; Paschal G. Rogers of Mason; John L. Rogers of Mason; Mrs. Hattie Lang of Menard; Mrs. Ella Lackey of Phoenix Arizona; Ira J. Rogers of Cattell; Mrs. Georgie Lackey of Menard, and Mrs. Sissie Hodges of Bandera. All of the children were present at the funeral, except Mrs. Ella Lackey, who could not reach there in time.

The funeral was conducted at the Christian Church in Mason last Thursday afternoon, by the pastor, Rev. J. Ray, who delivered a touching eulogy on the beautiful life and character of this venerable mother. Interment was in the Gooch Cemetery at Mason.

Today we sit in the darkness of great sorrow, and our hearts are heavy with grief, for the dear old mother, she whose tender hands soothed the aching brow, whose loving sympathy and watch care was ever present to cheer her on the way from babyhood to manhood and womanhood, and whose kindly smile and sweet words of comfort arose away the childish tears and fears—she has been taken from us, called to that Home Eternal to rest from her weary labors here below. That crown of righteousness vouchsafed unto those who love the Lord and serve him, is her reward. Ever kind, affectionate, gentle and considerate, she fulfilled her mission here on this earth. She was of that sturdy pioneer stock which built our Nation, being of a lineage that helped to create the Republic, and give to the world the greatest country on the earth today.

In North Carolina and Mississippi she was surrounded by all of the luxuries and reared in a home of culture and refinement, receiving her education in some of the best schools of those states. When the Civil War came on with its horrors and swept away her father's wealth, she, like other women of that period, bravely faced the future, and set about to rebuild and retrieve the losses. After the death of her husband she continued the brave battle against seemingly unsurmountable odds, but through it all she never lost courage, ever trusting in her Savior, Jesus Christ, to help her along the stony pathway. The evening of life brought her quietude and rest, and she was happy in the fullness of years. She raised her nine children to be men and women honored and respected, and not one went astray, she performed her task. Besires the nine children, she is survived by nineteen grandchildren, and nineteen great grandchildren.

Mother has gone away, but her influence still abides with us. Her long life was a blessing and a benediction to us, and the memory of her beautiful character will ever remain as an inspiration and a comfort until we are called to join her in the Great Hereafter.

Of Interest to Wool Growers.

The following letter is being sent out by Messrs. Hallowell, Jones & Donald, wool merchants of Boston, to wool growers throughout the State. This firm which is represented here by Frank G. Montague, has contracted for several million pounds of wool of this spring's clip, and the letter is being sent to their clients, for we think it will be of interest to all wool growers, and therefore give it publicity: . .

Dear Sir—

In order to take this opportunity to say that we are pleased to have your wool under contract this year, and as shearing will commence in the near future, we are writing to impress upon you the importance of putting your wool up in first-class shape. . .

During the past few years Texas as wools have enjoyed a very good reputation, and today they are more in demand than any other domestic wool. This reputation has been built up by the growers of Texas through proper fly breeding and caring for their sheep.

The only complaint that our manufacturing trade have against Texas wools is the poor way in which many of the clips are put up, the principal objection being that the fleeces are not properly tagged at the shearing pens. We therefore feel that it is very much to your interest to take especial care this year in packing your wool. This will be so materially in marketing it, and further the reputation of your clip, which is of vital importance to you as a regular growing wool grower. . .

Of course, as you know, the thorough tagging of the clip is not the only important thing. As well as packing all the tags and sweat locks separately, the black, dead and bucks should also be packed separately, and the bags marked accordingly. The fleeces should be tied with paper twine with the flesh side out; and the wool kept in a dry place until it is put aboard ship. . .

You probably know about the wonderful reputation which the growers of Australia have for the way in which they put up their wool. The same reputation can just as well be built up by Texas growers and to the end materially improve the value of their wool. Very truly yours,

HALLOWELL, JONES & DONALD.

He Swarmed Alone.

Said a wise old bee at the close of day: "This colony business is all right, I put my money in that old hive that others may eat and live and thrive; and I do more work in a day, by gee, than all of the fellows do in three. I toil and worry and save and hoard, and all I get is my room and board. It's me for the sweets of my hard-earned sum in my own little home. I'll build a little store and his was played out and his heart was sore, so he winged his way to the old home land, and took up a seat at the side door stand. Alone, our work is of little worth, but together we're the lords of the earth; so it's all for each and each for all—united we stand, divided we fall—Michigan Bulletin.

Over 400 Judges.

Austin, Texas, March 29—Over 400 judges will be necessary to judge the many events of the Interscholastic League of the University of Texas Interscholastic League, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the League Bureau. In the list of such contests are those in public school music, public speaking, declamation, essay writing and the like, about 400 are required. These judges are drawn largely from members of the University faculty. For events about 50 or 60 judges will be needed. Coach D. A. Penick will head all his tennis men and there will be 50 judges for the athletic events which are under his direction.

You can get the San Antonio Express and San Antonio Evening News, and the San Antonio Light daily and Sunday editions at Billings & Son's Drug Store.

Court Reform

Much is being said and much demand is being made, nowadays, for the reforms in our court procedure, so that law and real merit will control decisions rather than technicalities, and also that unnecessary delays may be done away with. Our present legislature spent much time in an effort to bring about the much needed reforms, and it is hoped the law they passed will have, at least to some extent, the desired result.

The following relative to court procedure in Maryland may be of interest:

The criminal courts of Maryland "are the easiest in the degree of promptness unparalelled in the history of the United States," said James Hephron of Baltimore, while a recent visitor to Dallas.

"Ninety-two per cent of all cases tried are tried within three weeks of the day of arrest. Such speed is possible in Maryland because it has had a law since colonial days permitting a person charged with crime to elect trial either by the court or by a jury. More than ninety-five per cent choose trial by the court. Consequent the only other state having a law similar to this, and I understand it works effectively there also.

"The Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission, with which I am connected, was organized in 1922 and has been very successful. It has been a fact-finding and not a fault-finding organization, and has acted on the theory that is is impossible to proceed faster with any reform than public opinion will permit.

"Through its efforts laws have been enacted by which the judges of courts examine prospective jurors, and pass upon their qualifications. The judge prepares a series of questions, and if a juror qualifies he must either be accepted or rejected by the State and the defendant. In Baltimore, under such procedure, a jury was selected in less than three hours to try a notorious criminal, who was also tried in Buffalo, and three days were required to select a jury.

"In the Cornelius Shea trial in Chicago, sometime ago, 9,435 veniremen were summoned and 4,821 were examined and discharged before a jury sufficiently unintelligent to satisfy the defense could be secured. In San Francisco, ninety-two days were consumed in selecting a jury. Under the law as it now exists in Maryland such delays cannot happen."

NO TRESPASSING

No hunting, trapping, cutting of bee trees, or trespass of any kind on my land. I will pay a liberal reward for information that will lead to the conviction of any party or parties tearing down and going over my fences.—Hansen Ranch, H. C. Hansen, prop. Mar 15-12m

Mohair Sale.

The Bandera County Ranchmen & Farmers Association this week sold its spring accumulation of mohair, amounting to 115,000 pounds, and will begin shipping the lot to the Boston buyer next Monday.

This mohair clip was sold through Bill Cohen of San Antonio to a Boston firm, and the price paid was 52½ cents per pound for grown hair and 62½ cents per pound for the kid hair, which in comparison with the prices paid at other places is considered quite satisfactory. Due to the unusually mild winter the name of the one you think the clip was somewhat lighter than usual.

About all of the mohair in this state has been sold, we understand, at prices ranging from 50c to 52½ cents for grown hair, and from 60c to 62½ cents for kid hair.

Before long the spring wool clip will begin coming in to the warehouse, which will further increase the revenue of our ranchmen.

A Voting Contest.

Bandera County has many pretty young mothers and grandmothers, who have passed the prime of life, and we want the people of this county to select the prettiest girl over that age in order that we can give her a box of candy on July 4th, at the Old Settlers' Reunion. For this purpose we have inaugurated a voting contest and one or more of these ballots each week. The result of the count will be published weekly in the New Era. The final count will be made July 4th, at the Old Settlers' Reunion, and the award will be made. Clip your ballot today and send it in. You can vote for any lady above the age of sixty-five, residing in Bandera county.

The five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fredericksen, of Pleasanton, swallowed a tin whistle, which was embedded in a piece of candy, last Saturday, in the home of Mrs. H. L. Rocksprings Hit By a Tornado

News came by radio yesterday that the number of dead in the Rocksprings tornado will not exceed seventy-five, while the list of injured amounts to more than 200. The report stated that only four buildings remain standing in the town. The wreckage is reported to be on fire and spreading, and fire-fighters from San Antonio, and other towns are hastening to the place to render assistance in checking the flames.

Late reports yesterday afternoon gave the partial list of the dead at Rocksprings as follows: J. R. Dolahite, editor of the Rocksprings Leader, and four members of his family.

Mrs. W. S. Pyles.

Mrs. W. J. Adams.

Mrs. Pennington and two children. Two children of J. Billingsley.

Rev. Spiers, wife and one child.

J. T. Cowden, wife and two children.

Chas. Herrington.

Charlie Baker.

Chas. McMain.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis.

Judge Griffet and two children.

Guy Henderson and three children.

Kerrville, Tex., April 12—Meager reports obtained here at 10 p. m. said 125 people were killed at Rocksprings when a tornado struck the town shortly after dark. Mayor J. N. Lockley of the stricken town in a message appealing for aid said not over four houses were left standing at Rocksprings.

A relief party of surgeons and nurses left here at 10 p. m. In the party were physicians and nurses from the U. S. Hospital at Legion.

In his gill for aid Mayor Lockley asked that Uvalde, Del Rio and other neighboring towns be notified to send help with all haste possible.

More than 125 persons are reported killed in a tornado which struck Rocksprings at 4:30 p. m. today night, according to information reaching San Antonio two hours later over an improvised emergency telephone established one mile east of the city.

The reports indicated that the total dead would mount still higher when a check was made. A relief party left Del Rio over the Southern Pacific Lines with in an hour after news of the storm reached the city and a party of doctors were organizing another relief party at Uvalde to go to the stricken town.

The first casualty reported outside after the storm was that of the wife and baby of Rev. H. L. Spiers, pastor of the Rocksprings Methodist church. A Mrs. Coleman, one of the first refugees to arrive in Camp Wood from the tornado ridden town, reported the death of the woman and child, and said that Spiers was very badly injured. The Methodist parsonage was located on a lot adjoining the Rocksprings Hotel.

Makeshift telephone service from Rocksprings to Kerrville was temporarily discontinued, and relief work seriously handicapped at midnight Tuesday by a torrential rain storm accompanied by lightning, according to the Kerrville operator.

She reported that Gladys Lowrey, Rocksprings operator, who gave the first news to the outside world over a telephone, hooked up on a telephone post one mile from Rocksprings, had phoned that she was being driven from her post by the storm.

The rain was beginning to flood the country side, adding to the misery of the several hundred injured persons, many of whom lay helpless on the ground and beneath wreckage.

A Cyclone Hits Bandera County

A cyclone, traveling from south west to northeast, hit Bandera county about three o'clock Wednesday morning, leaving devastation in its wake. The path of the twister was several hundred yards wide, and it took a zig zag course, demolishing houses, uprooting trees, and tearing down fences. Fully twenty or thirty farms and ranches suffered damage, but thus far we have heard of no loss of life or any person being injured. Telephone wires are down and it is impossible to learn the full extent of the damage done. Heavy rain and hail accompanied the storm. No communication had been established with Tarpley up to 7 o'clock this morning, and it is feared much damage was done in that community.

At the home of F. A. Masters on Winan's Creek, slight damage was done, but on the hill just this side of Pete the Winan's Creek schoolhouse was blown entirely away, the only thing remaining on the site being two desks.

Will Batto's home, recently remodeled, was almost totally wrecked and a house on the I. I. Duke farm, occupied by Bruce Hay, was turned over and wrecked.

The storm moved the dwelling of James Power, near the Ranger Crossing, demolished the chimney and tore away the front porch, and further on the wind caved in the barn on Bruce McCarty's place. At the home of J. W. Cox the wind tore up a barn and several outhouses. S. F. Edge's threshing machine was blown over several times and somewhat damaged.

A portion of the dwelling of Mrs. C. H. Mansfield was wrecked, her barns demolished, exposing feedstuff and grain to the elements. Her garage was blown down and her Chevrolet car was crushed. Mrs. Mansfield's loss is very heavy.

At the ranch of Sheriff E. Hicks barns were unroofed or blown down and his garage demolished.

A house occupied by Mrs. Harmon Smith, on Bandera Creek, was totally demolished, but fortunately no one was at home at the time.

The twister was about a mile wide, and hit the Myrtle and Mansfield Creek region pretty hard. The home of Mrs. Joseph Flynn was badly wrecked, only one room left standing. Mr. Schiele's the barns and outhouses were wrecked and the front porch to his dwelling was blown off as W. E. Schoonert's but little damage was done a few planks being blown from his dwelling; Christian Jensche's front porch was lifted and tossed up on the roof of his house; C. W. Bradshaw's smoke house was demolished and his supply of bacon was scattered for site a distance; at Otto Stein's the wind demolished his barns and turned over farm machinery. Trees were blown down and strewn along the path of the storm.

The Myrtle Creek school house was wrecked and blown away.

At Richard Schladoer's place some damage was done to porches of his dwelling and to outhouses.

Telephone connection with all points west and northwest of Bandera was crippled and it has been difficult to learn the full extent of the storm damage.

Distinguished Visitors.

This office was honored last Friday by a visit from Ex-Senator and Mrs. Claire B. Bird of Wausau, Wisconsin, and Judge and Mrs. T. W. Jones of Madison, Wisconsin. Senator Bird represented his state for several years in the United States Senate at Washington, and Judge Jones is a member of the Wisconsin Supreme Court. They came to Texas about three weeks ago on a pleasure trip, traveling in automobiles, and passed through Bandera. They were so delighted with this picturesque Hill Country that they returned last Friday and spent several hours in Bandera.

On last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cunningham and infant daughter, of El Paso, came to spend a portion of the day with the editor of Frontier Times. Mr. Cunningham is one of the most popular novelists and writers of short stories of the present time. He is a contributor to the Blue Book, Munsey's, Triple-X, Frontier Stories, the World-Wide Magazine, and other high class publications. From Bandera they went to Kerrville Sunday afternoon to pay a visit to J. E. Grisham, the still Country's beloved writer.

A few minutes after the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mr. A. B. Ashby and Mr. William B. Blaize, of San Antonio, came to pay us a visit also, and it was truly a happy party which repaired to the O. S. T. Cafe for a splendid dinner. Mr. Ashby is a well known writer and contributes to a number of leading magazines, principally The New South, published at Chattanooga, Tennessee. Mr. Blaize is also a writer of well known ability.

Profssor Noel Varner, of Floresville, was the guest of friends here several days last week.

School Program.

The Pipe Creek School rendered its closing program last Saturday evening. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and palms, the color scheme of black and pink being carried out by baskets of pink roses, and black and pink draperies. The program was a vaudeville bill, consisting of songs playlets, drills etc. The beautiful music rendered by Miss Daisy Wood and Mr. Wilson Ware received an appreciative response. Judge Mansfield's talk was interesting and an encouragement along educational lines. The program was closed by a short talk from each member of the faculty and a "negative quantity" speech from a member of the Board of School Trustees.

For

Prettiest Girl Over 65 Years Old in Bandera County

Most Popular Favorite to receive small Cedar Chest of Chocolate Candy at Old Settlers' Reunion, July 4

Clip this ballot, fill in name of your favorite, and send to Contest Editor New Era. Not necessary to give us your name. Costs nothing to vote. Cast your ballot every week until July 4th. Let everybody vote.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The old time tournament will be staged at the next reunion of the Old Settlers of Bandera county. This old time feature has long since passed into oblivion, but it is to be resurrected, and will be run according to the old time rules. There are many of the younger generation who have never witnessed the tournament, and to them it will be quite interesting, as well as to the old folks who delight to count it a big event at the barbecues and gatherings forty years ago. The New Era will have more to say about the tournament.

The Old Settlers Reunion to be held July 4th and 5th of this year promises to be the best yet. Every man and woman in Bandera county, who has passed the age of forty, should be a member of the Old Settlers' Association, and by their membership help to sustain and keep alive the organization. We have labored hard to perpetuate this organization and by it provide enjoyment and entertainment for our old people, and we are of the opinion that if more interest was taken by the people generally in the undertaking it would help wonderfully. A lack of co-operation in such matters sometimes tends to discourage those who are willing and anxious to carry a movement forward.

There's going to be a beauty contest at the next Old Settlers' Reunion, to be held July 4th and 5th, and that contest is starting right now. Any Bandera county girl over sixty-five years old may be entered in this contest. Costs nothing to vote. Ballots must be clipped from the New Era and sent in each week until the day of the final count. The prize to be given will be a handsome cedar chest of schoolslate candy, and perhaps other gifts. The votes that you never dreamed of. Every month thousands of copies of Frontier Times are sent out to subscribers all over the United States. Daily its circulation is growing, and with its growth Bandera profits. Enough said.

As Ye Sow

A story is told of a rich man who wanted to help a poor carpenter and his family. He hired the carpenter to build a house on a vacant lot he possessed and kept away from the scene. The carpenter reasoned with himself that it was his opportunity to make an increased profit by using shoddy material in places that could be covered up with paint and paper, feeling sure that the owner would never know it. When he reported to his benefactor the building was ready, the rich man thanked him and handed him a deed to the property. "As you sow, so shall you reap." It pays to be honest.—Eagle Pass Guide.

"There is a Reason"

Bandera High School will close May 20th. This has been the most successful term of school in the town's history, and we are justly proud of the work done by the faculty and pupils this session. Not a jar has occurred to disrupt or break the even harmony of the school, every pupil has made splendid progress, patrons are all pleased, and only words of praise are heard for the faculty. We hope each teacher will be retained for the next term, for the interest created, and willbe run according to the old time rules. There are many of the younger generation who have never witnessed the tournament, and to them it will be quite interesting, as well as to the old folks who delight to count it a big event at the barbecues and gatherings forty years ago. The New Era will have more to say about the tournament.

Frontier Times for May.

Frontier Times for May will be issued from this office this week, and it will be a good number as usual. With its handsome new cover design, Frontier Times is making quite a hit, and growing in popularity with every issue. The May number will contain the following: "Indian Boy Executed at Fredericksburg in 1852." "A Pioneer Preacher Tells of the James Boys," "The Tragedy of the Perdenales," "Sam Bass," Indianola's Church Bell," "Clark Haus, the Texas Ranger," "The City of Kent," "The Beautiful Grey Horse of the Plains," "Explodes Ben Thompson Myths," "The Great Steamboat Race," "Reported Killed in Bass Canyon," "Bob Glasscock Tells of Cow-Punching Days," "The Truth About Wild Bill," "Frontier Feudists were True to Friends."

Every story in Frontier Times is full of interest for old and young, and it is real history. The Sam Bass story mentioned above, was written by Eugene Cunningham, well known novelist and fiction writer, who paid Bandera a visit last Sunday. You may not have given the matter thought, or perhaps if you have done so, you passed it lightly, but it is a fact that this little magazine is helping put the town of Bandera on the map, in a way that you never dreamed of. Every month thousands of copies of Frontier Times are sent out to subscribers all over the United States. Daily its circulation is growing, and with its growth Bandera profits. Enough said.

Of Interest to Fishermen.

Austin, Texas April 13—Replying to inquiries as to how, when and where one may fish, the Game, Fish and Oyster Department today gave out a brief outline of laws with particular reference to fresh water fishing.

Do not use nets or artificial bait in March and April, except in ponds or lakes owned privately or in tanks, or cities, and which are not subject to overflow by stream or creek.

The fishing of bass under 11 inches, and white perch or crappie under seven inches is lawful and the purchase or sale of same is prohibited.

Those who fish for the market require a yearly license which costs one dollar, and shall pay a tax of 25c a hundred pounds on fish sold.

The angler license law, effective June 28 in all state waters, requires that any person who uses artificial bait, in or outside his home county, shall procure an angler's license. The cost is $1.10 for residents and $5 for persons from outside the state, but such outsiders may procure a five days license for $1.10.

The close season on rainbow trout is January, February, March, April and May. They may not be sold, or taken under 14 inches.

In addition, there are special laws for certain counties.

At no time is it permitted to seine, trammel or sell bass, perch, crappie or catfish in the counties of Comal, Guadalupe, Bexar, Kerr, Bandera and Medina. Only rock bass and ten crappie may be taken in any one day, and closed season on artificial bait is February, March and April.

A special law for Burnet, Williamson, Lampasas, Grayson, Bosque, Cooke, Denton, Coryell, Hamilton, Erath, Dallas and Hood counties permits seining for sucker, buffalo, carp, and shad during the months of July, August and September.

With the above exceptions, at no time is it permitted to use seines or to sell bass, white perch, crappie, or catfish in the counties of Burnet, San Saba, Brown, McCulloch, Edwards, Coleman, Concho, Menard, Mason, Gillespie, Kimble, Real, Bandera, Uvalde, Real, Kerr, Comal, Valverde, Bandera, Reeves, Ward, Loving, Pecos, Mesina, Bexar, Hunt, Burnet, Bass, Williamson, Zavalla, Dimmit, Travis, Lampasas, Milam, Llano. Taking more than 35 fish in any one day is prohibited. In using minnow seines for procuring bait, fish over three inches long must be returned to the water. Leaving fish on the bank to die when not intended for use is prohibited.

The recent legislature outlaw seines in Marion, Harrison, Smith and Rusk Counties. Also special law governs fishing in the Big Wichita lakes.

Good Roads and the Small Town.

Youn have heard it said that the day of the small town is doomed on account of good roads and automobiles. This is a false statement. The small town has greater opportunities today than ever before. It is up to the business interests of such towns to solve and put over these problems If such a town is filled up with a class of live merchants who do not care whether folks trade with them or not, then such a town is likely for the rocks. The local merchant has a great opportunity before him in the expansion of his trade. These are numerous methods that he can apply to his business that means an increase in sales. It is up to him to do the work. He cannot sit down and expect folks to flock to his place of business because his name is so and so, and because he is a citizen of the town and has been in business a number of years. He must not only have his own interests at heart but must have the town and community in which he resides. He must be for and take an active part in any movement that means for the betterment of same. Trade this day and time is going where it is invited. Competition in all lines of busines is too keen for the live merchant to sit back and expect folks to run over him with their business. They just won't do it any more. Go after business if you expect it to come your way. Offer inducements.—Ladonia News.

O. W. Perner's Blacksmith Shop

Such is Fame.

Several years ago, Firestone, Ford, Edison and Burroughs were touring through West Virginia. A light on their car went bad, and they stopped at a little crossroads store in the Buckingham section. Mr. Ford went into the store to make the purchase.

"What kind of automobile lights do you have?" said Ford.

"Edison," replied the merchant.

"I'll take one," said Ford, "and by the way, you may be interested to know that Mr. Edison is out in my car."

"So?" said the merchant.

When the light was put in, it was found that a new tire was needed, so Ford went back into the store and asked what kind of tires the merchant had.

"Firestone," was the reply.

"By the way, you may be interested to know that Mr. Firestone is out there in my car, and that I am Mr. Ford—Henry Ford."

"So?" said the merchant, and let drive a long squirt of tobacco juice against the wall.

While the merchant was putting on the tire, Burroughs, who had white whiskers, stood out of the car and said, "Good evening sir."

The merchant looked up at him with a full chew in his mouth and said: "If you try to tell me that you're Santa Claus, I'll be darned if I don't crown you with this wrench."—Exchange.

Cattle Raisers Boost Monument.

The campaign to raise funds with which to build a $100,000 monument in San Antonio in commemoration of the old trail drivers of Texas, was given considerable impetus at the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association convention in El Paso recently according to Mrs. R. R. Russell, president of the monument association.

Following an address by Mrs. Russell before the executive committee and the association, several groups of ranchmen organized for the purpose of raising money with which to secure pioneer cattlemen and trail drivers by subscribing $1,000 through clubs for getting the old timers' names inscribed on the monument she said. The monument association's action some time ago decided to put the name of each one whose contribution amounted to $1,000 on the monument.

Congressman Claude Hudspeth made an individual contribution of $500, matching the offer of Will Rogers, humorist, who gave his check for that amount during a recent visit to San Antonio.

Mrs. Russell said that more than a dozen $1,000 contributions had been made in response to the plan of inscribing names of pioneer cattlemen on the monument, which is to be sculptored by Gutzon Borglum.

Several clubs have been started to place the names of cattlemen on the monument, among them John Blocker, John Lytle, Mark Withers, Bill Irvin, Jesse Presnall and others. Friends of Charles Goodnight started a club at the El Paso convention to subscribe $1,000 for him, although he had expressed a willingness to give the amount himself. Friends of George Saunders of San Antonio expressed a willingness, Mrs. Russell said, to subscribe $1,000 at the El Paso convention to place his name on the monument but Mr. Saunders asked that a $1 to $100 club be started for him also, his friends included many who wark as cow hands, cooks and horse wranglers.

Keep Onward, Upward.

Those who loye the woods and rivers know the choicest bits of landscape, the most secluded pools and quietest trout are to be found "upstream."

Only in the "upper reaches" do we find the inspiration of virgin cloudcaps and broad horizons; but no one ever gained the upper reaches by drifting. These are to be attained only by tedious progress and strenuous poling "upstream."

Life, like a river, has shallows and backwaters into which the indifferent drift, all unmindful that shallows lead nowhere and that their stagnant waters breed insidious poisons.

Lazy drifting, the path of least resistance, the status quo, are the choice of weaklings. They know no "noble discontent." Existing with a minimum of thought and effort they cannot complain when the big prizes of the world pass them by.

Nothing is constant save change. Life means motion. But the timid, clinging vainly to custom and precedent, dreading anything new, hurling hard names at the innovators who disturb their comfortable drowsing. No man or company of men ever grew great merely by standing still. Effort, endeavor, struggle, difficulties, dangers, even, are the prime of brain, brawn, character, life.

To trail "upstream" against the majority dictum that "what ever is best," is lonely work that tests the courage of our convictions—but it is worth while.

Emerson said, "It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion, it is easy in solitude to live after our own, but the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd, keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude."

Let those who will, creep warily through life's hazards. The way of deed and daring is for the strong who are not to be stayed by fear, who blazes straight trails to rich new lands, not content to follow the winding ways that others have trod.—Winchester Store News.

Much uneasiness is felt for the safety of Mrs. Kate Whisenhunt and her daughter, Miss Rachel, who went to Rocksprings last week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Wellborn, in that town. As the wires from Bandera to Medina are down, we have been unable to ascertain if they have returned to the Whisenhunt ranch near Medina.

Tom Crist was up from Pipe Creek yesterday and said a fine rain fell in his community Tuesday night, but no damage was done by wind. He reports that Mrs. Crist, who underwent an operation at a San Antonio hospital last week, was able to return home Mondy and is making good recovery.

Friends in this community sympathize with Messrs. Gus and Charles Britsch in the death of their aged mother, Mrs. Gotlieb Britsch, which occurred April 3rd at her home near Hondo. Mrs. Britsch was one of the pioneers of Medina county. She was born in Germany in 1830, and came to America with her parents when she was a very small child.

Walker on Chalk Creek. The gathering was something of a family reunion, all of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Walker being present.

Last week in mentioning that Col. J. Alfred went to San Antonio to view in response to a message announcing the death of his son-in-law, J. E. Holt, we should have stated that Mrs. R. A. Chipman went with him also. Mrs. Chipman is a sister to Mrs. Holt, and, with her father, hastened to go to render all of the comfort and consolation she could in the time of sorrow and distress.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Boehme were in town Monday from their ranch near Pipe Creek, and Mr. Boehme informed us that work on the new toll road through his community, in which project he is a stock holder, is going forward rapidly, and it is expected that the road will be finished about May 1st. In mentioning the death of Mrs. Orlinda Richards last week the New Era stated that deceased and her husband had raised two orphan girls, Mrs. Alice Brown of Galveston, and Mrs. Dick Harmon of Fabens. Our attention has been called to the fact that Mrs. Brown was not raised an orphan, and Uncle Bill was Mrs. Myrtle Taylor instead. We gladly make the correction.

You can have a vote in the matter by using the ballot which appears on the second page of the New Era. Fill in the name of your favorite and send to the New Era. Costs you nothing. The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era talks for Bandera all of the time.

Who is the prettiest girl over 65 years old in Bandera County? We'll tell you after July 4th.

The New Era editor acknowledges receipt of a kind invitation to address the Comanche Club at San Antonio Friday evening. We very much regret that we shall not be able to be there, as we expect to be attending a meeting of the West Texas Historical Society at Stamford on that date.

Frontier Times for May was issued from the press last Friday and mailed out to the hundreds of appreciative readers on Saturday. The May number is a good one, as usual. You can get a copy at the New Era office for only fifteen cents, or we will send it to you for one year for only a dollar and a half.

It is estimated that it will require a million dollars to replace the property damage done by the tornado at Rocksprings. Many towns are responding liberally to the call for funds to relieve the distress. It was a terrible catastrophe but from the wreckage of that stricken town will spring a beautiful little city. The people there are today dazed and bewildered by their great misfortune, the grief over the loss of loved ones, their homes swept away, but the spirit of progress always in evidence there will assert itself and Rocksprings will rebuild.

The newspaper fraternity of West Texas deplore the tragic death of Editor Robert Dollahite of the Rocksprings Leader, who lost his life in the tornado in that town last week. His daughter, Mattie, was also killed, and his wife was so badly injured that she is expected to die. Mr. Dollahite tried hard to give Rocksprings a live newspaper, and in spite of many obstacles he was succeeding. Some three years ago a fire which swept the town destroyed his printing plant, leaving him almost penniless. With characteristic energy, however, he set about to rebuild. He managed somehow to get some equipment with which he published his paper until he installed a new linotype and a small press. Three months ago he purchased a large cylinder press and just when success was in sight the tornado came along and obliterated his plant and snuffed out his life. Mr. Dollahite was a conscientious, God-fearing man; he contended for the right at all times, and in his passing not only Edwards county loses a good citizen, but West Texas loses an individual who was doing a world of good for her upbuilding, and whose place can not easily be filled.

"There is a Reason"

The Old Time Tournament.

Next Fourth of July there will be staged at the Old Settlers' Reunion in Bandera, the old time tournament, which forty or fifty years ago, was a very interesting feature of Fourth of July celebrations and Christmas gatherings. In order to give the young people of this day and time an idea of the tournament we are this week giving space to a description of the old time sport.

It was before the advent of the automobile, or the moving picture, or the radio, that the tournament played a prominent part in Texas 4th of July celebrations. In those days a man talked about his favorite saddle horse, rather than his stutz or Henry, and the screen star of his choice was neither Norma Talmadge, Marion Davies, Mary Pickford nor any of the rest of the now famous moving players of America. It was the same sky little lassie with dazzling eyes flashing from beneath a sunbonnet, on whose brow he hoped to place the laurels won by his skillful riding in a red-blooded tournament contest.

We will have to go back at least a quarter of a century to find the tournament a popular part of the 4th of July program in civilian life, although the cavalry branch of the army still stages it occasionally. The contest is for real horsemen, for men of the saddle who must learn to master the art, poise and daring while riding at full speed.

The auto has its advantages in shortening distance, in expediting business and making travel more convenient and comfortable. But it certainly sounded taps for the old fashioned tournament contest, because it turned out saddle ponies out on the range and gave us a citizenship which has permanently abandoned the stirrup for the clutch and the bridle reins for a steering-wheel.

The last big tournament 4th of July celebration we remember, under the old order of things took place in 1897 at McNairville, a beautiful little town in Menard county, in the stock country of Southwest Texas. Men participated in it who afterwards came to be known as cattle kings and who were rated at the banks as "seven figure financiers." They led in the thought and influence and social life of the city, they were real builders. But their most skillful accomplishment was riding and the tournament afforded them the best public opportunity to show how well they could ride.

The way to stage a tournament contest, was by erecting high 100 or 200 yards, the distance to poles along a smooth course, for the determination by those persons most interested. A cross-piece or arm was nailed to the post and a ring suspended from this arm at a height along about a man's breast as he sat on a horse. Then each participant was furnished with a long lance, and, at a given signal, he would dash down the track full speed catching as many of the rings as he could on the point of his lance. He had to make the distance in a time agreed upon by the judges, and the one who secured the greatest number of rings was declared the winner.

The game originated in France about the twelfth century and was a favorite with the royalty. All through history it has been popular, but more especially during those days when Knighthood was in Flower. It came to America with the Pilgrim Fathers and Washington's soldiers amused themselves with tournament contests that bleak winter at Valley Forge. Col. Robert E. Lee is said to have been the first to introduce it into Texas.

To an onlooker the game seems easy enough, but, indeed, it takes a cool head and a steady arm to lift a single ring when the horse is running. Only those who are red-blooded and experience I have a chance to win. The untrained and the "faint-hearted" had just as well stay out of the game.

In many of the contests of the old days the successful man was not only given a handsome purse for his dexerity, but he was presented a wreath as a favor, by "the queen of beauty" or "lady of the tournament," who was chosen before the contest was staged, and it was customary for the winner to gallantly place this wreath upon the brow of his best girl. This often times made the riding more spirited. Two fellows contending for the favor of the same girl would become rivals and exert every energy to "bring the most beads" in order to secure her smiles—many hearts were won that way, and many a bright hope vanished when some unfortunate aspirant lost his goal.

In ancient times one side would be matched against another and blunt swords or spears were used instead of the poles of today. The kings would attend such events and they were held all the way from the Black Forest of Germany to the banks of Loch Lomond where a MacAlpin rode against a McGregor.

The tournament held Christmas day, at Menard, 30 years ago, was for a purse of one hundred dollars to the winner, and in addition to this, it was announced that the one selected as the best figured the purse, and the girl chosen to wear the wreath, should lead the grand march at the Christmas ball." No prospective those days was considered complete without this feature, and to have the distinction of leading the grand march was a honor practically as great as that of being chosen caller for the quadrille.

Among the contestants were Ed Mears, Frank Wilhelm, Jesse Burnam, Max Russell, Will Wilkerson and others whose names are very familiar in the cattle kingdom of Texas. Mears rode Red Bird, as pretty a saddle horse as ever graced the open prairies, and the black and gold which adorned the lance Ed carried was also worn by one of the prettiest belles of the city. That night these two led the grand march, leading up of the frontier's fairest and bravest, while Phillippi's orchestra played the Washington Post march.

For lack of better accomodations, the public dances of that period were always held in the courthouse and on special occasions a big supper would be served. This particular night, Mrs. Ed Sieker arranged that part of the program and I for one can delicacy of the feast consisted of roast turkey killed by Mr. Sieker on Saline creek, in the south edge of Menard county.

It cost just one dollar a couple to participate in all of the joys of this celebration, including the banquet, which was an amount today would be nothing more than one insignificant tip, several of which might become necessary during the course of one evening. In fact, no part of the Christmas entertainment of that time was expensive. If you rode in the tournament the entrance fee was never over $5.00, and if your girl was present and you made any kind of showing, it was well worth it.

The Divorce Case.

"The Divorce Case," presented at the High School Auditorium last Saturday night, was a "scream," and everybody who attended was delighted with the program. The proceeds, amounting to about $60.00, were turned over to the Parent-Teachers' Association, and will be used toward paying for the new stairway at the school building.

W. D. Smithers, the photographer, was here from San Antonio Saturday to make pictures of the cast in "The Divorce Case." He secured good pictures, and they may now be obtained at the drug store, by those wanting them.

$1,000 Club Growing for Trail Monument.

Fourteen individuals have pledged $1,000 each to the $100,000 fund being collected with which to build a monument in San Antonio to the Old Trail Drivers of Texas, according to George W. Saunders, president of the organization. With each contribution of $1,000 the donors have the right to have the name of one of their old cowmen placed on the monument. Clubs, communities and groups are going in together to get the name of some favorite on the monument, he said.

Friends of Mr. Saunders are raising $1,000 for his name, but Saunders has placed a limit of $100 on any individual contribution to his fund. He prefers $1 contributions so that more of his friends can contribute in raising the money to put his name on the monument, he said.—San Antonio Express.

W. S. Hinds and sons, of near Burnet, were here last week.

To Destroy Cane Worms.

Captain T. P. Grant, of Tarpley, who is an enthusiastic booster for pecan culture, was here a few days ago, and in recommending methods of destroying the cane-worm which does considerable damage to growing pecans, he gave the following, with the admonition that now is the time to use it:

"Remembering a letter from Mr. Halbert in Farm and Ranch last spring, giving an account of his experience in destroying worms that lay the eggs from which cane-worms are hatched, his plan was given a trial. Besides tin cans there was an accumulation of small glass jars with big mouths about the house. These were washed until clean and bright; then strings were put around the necks so that they might swing level when attached to branches of the trees. Several small cans of loud-smelling, old time New Orleans molasses were then secured and a new supply of arsenate of lead. Into another can of suitable size I placed a gallon of water; to this was added a pint of molasses and a heaping tablespoonful of arsenate of lead, all thoroughly mixed. Then enough of it was put into the cans and jars to stand about an inch in depth and hung upon stubs of cut-off twigs on lower branches of pecan, one on small and two on large trees."

Pictures of the cast of characters in "The Divorce Case," the laughable play which was presented at the High School Auditorium last Saturday night, may be obtained at Billings' Drug Store.

The Flood at a Glance.

More than 9,000 square miles of fertile lands in Mississippi and Arkansas have been laid waste by the great valley flood.

At least 100 are known to be dead in the flood areas in seven States, and some officials engaged in relief work said the minimum estimate of the dead in the Mississippi Delta alone was 200.

With 15,000 already marooned in the Mississippi Delta district, urgent warnings were issued to all others in the wake of the flood in the crea to flee for their lives.

At the same time a renewed appeal was made by Mississippi State authorities for more boats to take out the marooned, many of whom have been without food or water for 24 hours or longer.

With the floods spreading at a rapid rate, additional thousands have been rendered homeless and the loss of crops, live stock and property is steadily mounting.

Another levee on the Red River in Southwestern Arkansas has given way, causing the inundation of an additional 20,000 acres and driving several hundred from their homes.

Two more breaks in the Mississippi levee are threatened, one 30 miles below Helena, Ark., and the other eight miles above Vicksburg.

Backwater from streams in Northern Louisiana is beginning to drive people from their homes in Concordia Parish and others will be driven out as the Arkansas River flood waters move into that State.

As the work of strengthening the dykes between New Orleans and Baton Rouge proceeds, other forces were set to work to prevent a serious break below New Orleans where a tank steamer rammed the levee near Diamond, La.

Evacuation of refugees to safer places continues with precautions to prevent further spread of disease in the concentration camps.

Three Hurt in Collision

Comfort, Texas., April 24—Saturday night at 8 o'clock Mrs. Fritz Barth of Block Creek, eight miles from Fredericksburg started to town with her daughter, Miss Annie Barth, and her son to attend a home talent play. Three quarters of a mile from Comfort at the Guadalupe River all three were hurt when another car ran into their car at a curve, throwing Mrs. Barth out. All received bruises. The injured were taken to Otto Below's River Resort and a physician was summoned. Later on the Barth family was taken home.

Miss Thelma Richards, Mr. and Mrs Lucius Hicks and little daughter, Dorothy, Tot Fries and Miss Koehl were Leakey visitors Sunday.

Miss Annie Cravey, who has been in Boerne the past three weeks, returned home on a visit last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright, of Hondo, were Tarpley visitors Sunday.

Dick Burns made a trip to Sabinal Tuesday to see his brother, Tyler Burns, who underwent an operation in a San Antonio hospital, and was moved to Sabinal. He is reported to be getting along nicely.

To Save New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., April 26.—Gov. O. H. Simpson Tuesday issued a proclamation declaring that a public emergency exists and ordering a artificial break in the levee of the Mississippi River near Poydras at noon Friday, April 29.

A great opening will be made in the levee on the east side of the Mississippi River, 10 miles below the Crescent City to ease the flood waters which now threaten New Orleans. This would inundate in two parishes in Southwestern Louisiana, a total of about 100,000 acres.

Evacuation of these parishes began late Tuesday, but some of the trappers of that region who attended a meeting in Braithwaite returned to their armed defense of the levees, vowing they would remain until they had been guaranteed against the loss that would accrue to them by dynamiting the dyke.

Adjutant General Toombs issued an order for the immediate mobilization of the Louisiana National Guard. He said this was a precautionary measure to meet any possible developments in the flood situation.

A break in the levee is imminent and once a crevasse above the city of New Orleans would result in great losses of property and damage, an artificial break should be made in the vicinity of the 1922 crevasse at Poydras, a committee of engineers told Governor O. H. Simpson late Tuesday.

Theodor Postert and Mrs. Andrew Pyka and children visited relatives at Hondo and D'Hanis Saturday and Sunday.

The Cow, Sow and Hen.

We have all confidence in the cow, the sow and the hen. This trio can do everything they want to and meet every emergency if given a chance. We have yet to hear of but having a mean one of these here days. Nursing every morning it may be, a sound quote as "hasn't" our neighbors "nosed" but she does her darndest, and that is all we can expect of anything or any body. She sets a good example and has the motherly instinct of equal amount. Take old Sukey she not only feeds her own, but feeds the babies of her owner and furthermore she keeps her own baby calf perfectly clean. she hasn't any hands but she does her shindeel by using her tongue—and she sets a good example. "If you don't believe it look at some of the children who have parents with two hands and these children's feet look like they had not been washed since the cow was raised a ton litter the stork brought them. And is proud of it—so is her owner. She does not complain of her fancy being too large, but feels her too little without any assistance if necessary, and she may do a lot of grunting, but she stays on the job and does her darndest—and what more could we expect of a sow pig. We are for the sow, the sow and the hen. All they need is more publicity. —San Saba Star.

Tornado Near Harper.

A storm of terrific intensity descended on this city last Monday afternoon leaving in its wake wrecked homes, barns and uprooted trees. The cyclone proper never touched the city but left a path of destruction immediately west and north of town. Had the main part of the storm hit this city there is no doubt that it would have paralleled the destruction of Rocksprings.

A cloud of intense blackness approached the town from the west and northwest with a roar that could be heard for miles.

Cedar Carver of Bandera.

It is a long jump from Chicago's loop to the cedar and cactus-covered hills of Bandera County, Texas, but Fred A. Wendt has jumped it twice.

Nineteen years ago he first went out to the hill country, twenty-nine miles southwest of San Antonio, Texas, from Chicago. For two years he "hired" to ranchers there-abouts in the humble capacity of woodchopper. The wood consisted mostly of cedar, mesquite, and guarled, knotty scrub oak which dots the rocky slopes.

At the end of those two years he went back to Chicago and the "loop" but always so he says there was a longing to return. And he did.

Just eighteen months ago he came back and purchased a little tract of land on Bandera road, through which a clear Bandera creek meanders in a deep, rock-guarded channel. He constructed a concrete dam, all of the work of which he did by himself, and after completing a house combined for shelter and a small store-room, he proceeded to clear the tract. To day he has one of the most picture-sque camping and picnic grounds on the road, and in addition he has built for himself an enviable business on the side. His requirements for this business are modest. They consist of an old "barlow" knife, gouge, gimlet and a never-ending supply of cedar.

His newly adopted vocation is a decided departure from his previous one of handling "hot" wires for the Chicago Edison Company. He was an electrician.

In telling of his new field, Fred proudly points to his collection of hand-carved and highly polished cedar canes, candle-sticks, smoking-stands and electric lamps. They are many odd and intricate shapes.

Taking up one of the unfinished articles, Wendt says: "You know, ever since I first came out here, I was impressed with the wonderfully twisted and knotty shapes of cedar. Right from the first I seemed to see how beautiful they would be, scraped, polished, and made into usable things. However, it was years before I realized my ambition. Do you see? I have."

Nearly every morning he takes his gun, his trusty fox terrier, and goes hunting. There are thousands of acres of domain at his disposal, for his nearest neighbors are two or three miles away, but his "game" for the most part, consists of cedar. Upon his return he usually has many pieces of twice and thrice-twisted wood to add to his already large collection.

Asked if he worked with anything besides wood Wendt brought forth a ukelele. "Yes" he responded, "see this!" The neck is of cedar, the pins of mesquite, and the resonator or tambourine part is made from the shell of a turtle. And all gathered right there. He then displayed several highly polished pen-holders made from the tails of armadillos which are to be found in great numbers there-about.

At a suggestion that he might some day return to Chicago, the loop and electricity, Wendt looks out over the hills, smiles and replies: "No, indeed. I am content just to 'Live in a house by the side of the road,' and be a whittler of cedar."—H. R. Moore in Comfort News.

Proposing an amendment of Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

That Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five Judges shall be necessary to the decision of a case. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election, a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for seven years and, during the time, shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record or such practicing lawyer and judge together. Said Chief Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices six years, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law in case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The Judges of the Supreme Court who may in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office and shall exercise all their terms of office under the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. After this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint six additional Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Associate Justices shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court, and, upon the qualification of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate.

Section 3 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several courts of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void. The Supreme Court and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus as may be prescribed by law; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue writs of quo warranto and mandamus in such cases as may be specified except as against the Governor of the State. The Supreme Court shall also have power, upon affidavit or otherwise, as by the Court may be determined, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the seat of government for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he may hold his office for four years, and shall be subject to removal by said Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and who shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide.

Section 4 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall consist of three Judges, provided that the Legislature may increase the number to five and to eight Judges when the Judges shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of a majority of the Judges shall be necessary in the decision of any case. They shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices for six years. The Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until their terms of office under the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. After this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint six additional Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Judges shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Court of Criminal Appeals, and upon the qualification of such new Judges, the Commission of the present Court of Criminal Appeals shall terminate.

Section 5 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several courts of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void. The Supreme Court and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus as may be prescribed by law; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue writs of quo warranto and mandamus in such cases as may be specified except as against the Governor of the State. The Supreme Court shall also have power, upon affidavit or otherwise, as by the Court may be determined, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the seat of government for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he may hold his office for four years, and shall be subject to removal by said Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and who shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide.

Section 6 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five Judges shall be necessary to the decision of a case. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election, a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for seven years and, during the time, shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record or such practicing lawyer and judge together. Section 7 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several courts of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void. Section 8 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many Judicial Districts as may now or hereafter be provided by law, which may be increased or diminished by law. For each district there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a Judge, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a District Court or such practicing lawyer and Judge together, who shall have resided in the District in which he was elected for two years next preceding his election who shall reside in his District during his term of office, who shall hold his office for the period of four years, and shall receive for his services such compensation as may be prescribed by law. The proceeds, amounting to about $40.00 were turned over to the Local Texas Parent-Teacher Association, and will be used toward paying for the new stairway at the school building.

$1,000 Club Growing for Trail

Fourteen individuals have pledged $1,000 each to the $100,000 fund being collected with which to build a monument in San Antonio to the Old Trail Drivers of Texas, according to George W. Saunders, president of the organization. With each contribution of $1,000 the donors have the right to have the name of one of the old cowmen placed on the monument. Clubs, communities and groups are going in together to get the name of some favorite on the monument, he said.

Friends of Mr. Saunders are raising $1,000 for his name, it is reported, and placed a limit of $100 on any individual contribution to his fund. He prefers $1 contributions so that more of his friends can contribute in raising the money to put his name on the monument, he said.—San Antonio Express.

To Destroy Cane Worms.

Captain T. P. Grant, of Tarpley, who is an enthusiastic bee keeper, called on us here a few days ago, and in recommending methods of destroying the cane worm which does much damage to bee keeping companies, he gave the following with the admonition that now is the time to use it:

"Remembering a letter from Mr. Halbert in Farm and Ranch last spring, giving an account of his experience in destroying the cane worm by the eggs from which cane worms are hatched, his plan was given a trial. Besides tin cans there was an additional number of small glass jars with big mouths about the home. These were washed until clean and bright; then strings were put around the necks so that they might swing level when attached to branches of the trees. Several small cans of fresh smelling, old time New Orleans molasses were then secured and a new supply of arsenate of lead. Into another tin of suitable size was placed a gallon of water; to this was added a pint of molasses and a heaping tablespoonful of arsenate of lead, all thoroughly mixed. Then enough of it was put into the cans and jars to stand about one inch deep, and lodging upon stubs of cut-off twigs on lower branches of pecan, one on small and two on large trees."

Pictures of the cast of characters in "The Divorce Case" the laughable play which was presented by the High School Auditorium last Saturday night, may be obtained at Billings' Drug Store.

The Flood at a Glance.

More than 9,000 square miles of fertile lands in Mississippi and Arkansas have been laid waste by the great valley flood.

At least 100 are known to be dead in the flood areas in seven States, and some officials engaged in relief work said the number is an estimate of the dead in the Mississippi Delta alone was 200.

With 15,000 already marooned in the Mississippi Delta district urgent warnings were issued to all others in the wake of the flood in tht erea to flee for their lives.

At the same time a renewed appeal was made by Mississippi State authorities for more boats to take out the marooned, many of whom have been without food or water for 24 hours or longer.

With the floods spreading at a rapid rate, additional thousands have been rendered homeless and the loss of crops, live stock and property is steadily mounting.

Another levee on the Red River in Southwestern Arkansas has given way, causing the inunda- tion of an additional 20,000 acres and driving several hundred from their homes.

Two more breaks in the Mississippi levee are threatened, one 30 miles below Helena, Ark., and the other eight miles above Vicksburg.

Backwater from streams in Northern Louisiana is beginning to drive people from their homes in Concordia Parish and others will be driven out as the Arkansas River flood waters move into that State.

As the work of strengthening the dykes between New Orleans and Baton Rouge proceeds, other forces were set to work to prevent a serious break below New Orleans where a tank steamer rammed the levee near Diamond.

Evacuation of refugees to safer places continues with precautions to prevent further spread of disease in the concentration camps.

Three Hurt in Collision

Comfort, Texas, April 24.—Saturday night at 8 o'clock Mrs. Fritz Barth of Block Creek, eight miles from Fredericksburg, started to town with her daughter, Miss Annie Barth, and her son to attend a home talent play. Three quarters of a mile from Comfort at the Guadalupe River all three were hurt when another car ran into their car at a curve, throwing Mrs. Barth out. All received bruises. The injured were taken to Otto Below's River Resort and a physician was summoned. Later only the Barth family was taken home.

TARPLEY NEWS.

Dick Burns and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Dean and son, Lloyd, spent Sunday in San Antonio.

Mrs. Ruth Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Louina Hicks and little daughter, Dorothy, Tot Fries and Miss Keehl were Leakey visitors Sunday.

Miss Annie Cravey, who has been in Boerne the past three weeks, returned home on a visit last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead and children were Tarpley visitors Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright, of Hondo, were Tarpley visitors Sunday.

Dick Burns made a trip to Sabinal Tuesday to see his brother, Tyler Burns, who underwent an operation in a San Antonio hospital and was moved to Sabinal. He is reported to be getting along nicely.

To Save New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., April 26.—Gov. O. H. Simpson Tuesday issued a proclamation declaring that a public emergency exists and ordering a artificial break in the levee of the Mississippi River near Poydras at noon Friday, April 29.

A great opening will be made in the levee on the east side of the Mississippi River, 12 miles below the Crescent City to ease the flood waters which now threaten New Orleans. The city would inundate in two parishes in Southwestern Louisiana, a total of about 100,000 acres.

Evacuation of these parishes began late Tuesday, but some of the trappers of that region who attended a meeting in Braithwaite voted to work on and prevent a serious break below New Orleans where a tank steamer rammed the levee near Diamond.

Adjutant General Toombs issued an order for the immediate mobilization of the Louisiana National Guard. He said this was a precautionary measure to meet any new developments in the flood situation.

A break in the levee is imminent and once a crevasse above the city of New Orleans would result in great losses of property and damage, an artificial break should be made in the vicinity of the 1922 crevasse of a mile from committee of engineers told Governor O. H. Simpson late Tuesday.

Theodor Postert and Mrs Andrew Pyka and children visited relatives at Hondo and D'Hanis Saturday and Sunday.

One of the most touching ... of the storm was brought back to Kerrville by Dr. ... Dee Jackson of Secor Hospital. While in the midst of administering to the injured Dr. Jackson was attracted by the wailing of a woman, and, upon investigating found a mother holding her ... infant, which she refused to give up until overpowered. ...

Another pitiful sidelight on the disaster was related by John Lowry, a lineman for the Rocksprings Telephone Co. The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. Hunter, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era is twelve years old this week, it having been established by Jno. Mayhugh as it is the direct successor of the old Bandera Enterprise, which burned out a few months after the founding of the New Era, the little old home paper has been here forty-seven years, the Enterprise having been established in 1880. The New Era has been under its present management over six years. For all the years of its existence it has been chronicling the comings and goings, the births, marriages, and deaths of Bandera county's people, and has faithfully striven to at all times be just what the people call it, "the little old home paper." Gratifying to us indeed to know that there are but few families in the county who do not take the New Era, and it is a consolation to know also that even those who do not take it read it just the same.

Harry Tobey and Polk Palmer were down from Medina Sunday.

Pipe Line to Cross Country.

A pipe line to be constructed by the Humble Oil Company will be laid across the southwest corner of Kerr County, it became known Tuesday with the arrival in Kerrville of a party of engineers, who will be in charge of the construction work.

Kerrville will be the base of operations for a section of the Pipe line project. Materials will be shipped into this city and supplies purchased here while the work is under way.

The pipe line will be 400 miles in length, extending from Mc-Camey in the West Texas oil fields to Ingleside, near the port of Corpus Christi. Eight or 10 inch pipe will be laid and the project will cost approximately $10,000,000.

Camps are being established along the proposed route this week and a fleet of 25 huge trucks with trailer attachments will operate out of Kerrville to the adjacent construction camps, according to officials of the Hughes Contracting Co. of Houston, the trucking contractors.

The proposed route runs through Crockett, Schleicher, Menard, Edwards, Real, Kerr and Bandera Counties and on to the Gulf Coast in practically a straight line. The survey is said to be about 45 miles west of San Antonio, and barely misses the town of Bandera.

Pumping stations will be established at intervals of about 50 miles all along the route.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Baseball Game Saturday and Sunday

At the barbecue next Saturday the Flying Cadets of the 47th Squadron, Brooks Field, will cross bats with the Bandera team, in the afternoon. The visiting team is one of the best in the state and a lively game is anticipated. In the forenoon the baseball game is to be between the Negro teams of Kerrville and Hondo, and they are said to be real sluggers. Sunday afternoon the Flying Cadets of the 47th Squadron will again play the Bandera team, on the local diamond.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil McCarthy gave a delightful dance at their home at Pipe Creek Saturday night. Quite a crowd was in attendance.

Two Commissioners Resign.

County Commissioners John L. Edwards of Pipe Creek, and R. L. Morris of Lima tendered their resignations to Judge A. L. Mansfield last week, and their successors have already been appointed. The gentlemen resigned on account of failing health. Mr. Morris informs us that he will probably enter a sanitarium for treatment, and we understand Mr. Edwards will go to New Mexico in hopes that the climatic change will benefit him. It is very much to be regretted that these gentlemen have been compelled to give up their public duties, for each one of them has served faithfully and well. Their hundreds of friends hope early to learn will soon be restored to health.

Judge Mansfield immediately appointed Arthur Pue of near Medina to the office vacated by Mr. Morris, and he appointed E. Pickens of Pipe Creek to the place vacated by Mr. Edwards. Both of these gentlemen are fully qualified for the work and the appointment is acceptable to the citizens of the county generally. They have entered upon their duties and in the session of the regular term of Commissioners' Court this week.

Mrs. J. A. Head was quite ill several days this week, but we are glad to report her improving.

For the Flood Sufferers.

The drive started here last Saturday to raise funds for the Mississippi Valley sufferers, was quite a success. The young ladies who participated in the tag sale worked energetically all day Saturday, and on Monday Miss Margaret Montague sent a draft for $143.03 to the Red Cross headquarters for the relief of the flood sufferers. Funds are still coming in from various parts of the country. It was planned to give a benefit play Friday night in connection with the picture show, but the response to the appeal for funds has been so liberal that the play will not be given at this time.

At noon yesterday Miss Montague reported an additional $11.50 collected for the flood sufferers, bringing the total up to $154.53 raised thus far.

Wiman's Creek school closed last Friday, and pupils and patrons enjoyed a delightful picnic on the river at the George Fee place Friday evening. Since the cyclone of April 12, which demolished the school building, school has been conducted in the old Masters house on the Medina road. Mrs. J. Meadors has taught a very successful term in this school and patrons are well pleased, for the children have all made splendid progress.

To the Citizens of Precinct No.3.

It is with much regret that I resign the office to which you have elected me. It has been a pleasure to serve you in the capacity of county commissioner. I appreciate the support, and especially the co-operation of the people, and there will always be a warm spot in my heart for all of the people of Bandera county.

Proposing an amendment of Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article 7 of the Constitution of Texas, for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

SECTION 1: That Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five Judges shall be necessary to the decision of a cause. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election or appointment, a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for five years and, during that time, shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge and Associate Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices six years, or until their successors are elected and qualify, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. In case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, the Governor shall fill such vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The Judges of the Supreme Court who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. When this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint an additional Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointees and one other shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court, and upon the qualification of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate.

Section 3 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the decisions of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction as may be provided by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a constitute of the State has been declared void. The Supreme Court and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus as may be prescribed by law; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, the Supreme Court and the Judges thereof may issue writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue writs of quo warranto and mandamus in such cases as may be specified except as against the Governor of the State. The Supreme Court shall also have power, upon affidavit or otherwise, as the Court may be determined, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capitol for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he may hold his office for four years and shall be subject to removal by said Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and who shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law.

Section 4 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall consist of three Judges, provided that the Legislature may increase the number to five and a majority of the Judges shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of a majority of the Judges shall be necessary to the decision of any case. Said Judges shall be the same qualifications and receive the same salaries as the Judges of the Supreme Court. They shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices for a term of six years. The Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and laws.

Section 5 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction coextensive with the limits of the State in all criminal cases of whatever grade, with such exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, and the Legislature may confer original jurisdiction upon it to issue writs of mandamus, procedendo and certiorari in criminal cases. The Court of Criminal Appeals and the Judges thereof shall have the power to issue the writ of habeas corpus and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, issue such writs as may be necessary to enforce its own jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have the power, upon affidavit or otherwise, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the exercise of its jurisdiction. Said Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by it. Said Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and shall receive such compensation as may be prescribed by law.

Section 6 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into such many Judicial Districts as may from time to time, divide the State into such number of Supreme Judicial Districts as to it may seem necessary, not exceeding twelve at any one time, and shall have the power to redistrict the State at any time, and shall establish a Court of Civil Appeals in each of said districts, which Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and not less than two Associates Justices as the Legislature may provide, who shall have the qualifications as herein for Justices of the Supreme Court provided that the aggregate number of Judges of all of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall never at one time exceed thirty-six. Each of the existing Courts of Civil Appeals shall continue until otherwise provided by law. The Courts of Civil Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction coextensive with the limits of their respective districts, which shall extend to all civil cases of which the District Courts or County Courts have original or appellate jurisdiction, under such restrictions and regulations as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the decisions of said Courts shall be conclusive on all questions of fact brought before them on appeal or error. Said Courts of Civil Appeals shall hold their sessions at such places as may be designated by the Legislature and at such times as may be prescribed by law. Said Courts shall be composed of the qualified voters of their respective Districts, at a general election, for a term of six years, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. Said Courts shall have such other jurisdiction, original and appellate, as may be prescribed by law. Each Court of Civil Appeals shall appoint a Clerk in the same manner as the Clerk of the Supreme Court, which Clerk shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by law. The Judges of Courts of Civil Appeals who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their office until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 7 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many Judicial Districts as may from time to time be provided by law, which may be increased or diminished by law. For each district there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a Judge, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge together, who shall have resided in the District in which he was elected for two years next preceding his election who shall reside in his District during his term of office, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and shall receive for his services such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall hold the regular terms of his Court at the County seat of each County in his district at least twice in each year, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall have power, by general or special laws, to authorize the holding of special terms of the court or the holding of more than two terms in any County or the transfer of business. The Legislature shall also provide for the holding of District Court when the Judge thereof is absent or is from any cause disabled or disqualified from presiding. The Supreme Court or the Chief Justice thereof may exchange any District Judge to any District in the State other than that for which he was elected, with all the powers of a resident District Judge of the District in which he is assigned, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Legislature, or by the Supreme Court in the absence of such regulations enacted by the Legislature. The District Judges who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Sec. 2: Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which each voter opposing said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot with pen or pencil the following words printed thereon:

"For the amendment to the State Constitution amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system;" and each voter favoring said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot in the same manner, the following words printed thereon:

"Against the amendment to the State Constitution amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system."

If it shall appear from a return of said election that a majority of the votes cast have been cast in favor of said amendment it shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Colonel and Mrs. H. C. Hansen and daughter were in from the Hansen Ranch last Friday, and called at the New Era office. A petition was presented to the commissioners' court this week, asking that the road be opened.

Mrs. C. R. Goodwin, field representative of the Red Cross of St. Louis, arrived from Rocksprings Monday to look over this field with a view to organizing a local chapter of the Red Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Al Masters and children were over from Utopia last week on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Masters of Wilson's Creek. They were pleasant visitors at the New Era office while here, and Mr. Masters informed us that Utopia's handsome new school building is nearing completion. It is being constructed of concrete tile, will have five class rooms, auditorium, office room and library, and will cost $15,000. It will be completed some time in July.

The Beauty Contest.

Interest is waxing warm in the New Era's Beauty Contest in behalf of the Old Settlers, Reunion. Votes are now piling in for the different favorites in the contest, and speculation is being indulged in as to who will be the final winner. Only a few weeks remain in which to muster votes, and nobody intends to let an opportunity slip to put in a good word for their choice or to cast votes for a favorite.

Remember the contest closes at 10 o'clock a. m. July 4th, when the final count will be made on the reunion grounds.

Clip the ballot from your New Era each week, no other kind of ballot will be counted. The count this week reveals the following total number of votes to date:

Mrs. J. P. Akin Died.

Mrs. J. P. Akin died at Kerrville Sunday night, following an operation at a hospital there several days before. She was buried at Medina Tuesday, Rev. B. J. Gossett conducting the funeral, assisted by Rev. W. H. Price. Mrs. Akin was born in Mississippi in 1854, and came to Medina forty-nine years ago. In 1871 she was married to J. P. Akin, who died several years ago. To this union nine children were born, eight of whom are living and were present at the funeral. Twelve years ago she became a member of the Methodist church. She was a woman of splendid character, kind and affectionate to her family, a good neighbor, and in her passing the community loses a pioneer mother who will be mourned for a long time. The New Era extends condolence and sympathy to the bereaved family.

Exterminating Wolves.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR HALEY DROWNED THURSDAY NIGHT

Last Friday afternoon word was phoned to Sheriff Hicks that the bodies of a man and woman had been found on the bank of the river near the Cashmere Juereckki place, two miles below town. Sheriff Hicks and several men immediately went there to investigate. The bodies were first discovered by a little boy, Gilbert Jurecki, about three o'clock p. m. The bodies were a few feet from the water's edge and each was lodged under a bush, the man being about fifty feet further down the stream than the woman. Both were strangers and identification was difficult. The clothing had been torn from them each body, the shoes were off, and stockings and socks were off, except one sock on the man's foot, and the body of the woman was found her hat. In the pockets of the man was a one dollar bill and some small change, and a small note book in which was written the name of Arthur Haley, with some deposit entries. The bodies were brought to town and taken to H. F. Lineberal & Son's undertaking establishment, while Sheriff Hicks began a diligent search to establish their identity. The Bandera Courier about three-quarters of a mile below the low water bridge on the San Antonio road, was found a badly wrecked Chevrolet Landau, turned over.

It seems that the couple, afterwards identified as Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haley, representing the Western Distributing Co. Chicago, had left Bandera between 7 and 8 o'clock Thursday night, during a rainstorm, telling parties here that they expected to drive to San Antonio. When they reached Bandera Creek it was on about a fifteen foot rise, and it is believed that Haley drove into the raging stream before he knew it was so high, coming after the slight elevation out of Doe Creek and then right down to the bridge across Bandera Creek, in a blinding rain storm, making difficult to see a volume of water rushing over the bridge. Driving right into the raging waters the car and bridge was swept over the bridge and the occupants were unable to escape. There are several large boulders in the middle of the creek which wrecked the car, no doubt, and the bark being skinned from trees which were in the path of the flood waters shows plainly the force of the car colliding with them. The driver probably realized that he had driven into the stream for when found the emergency brake on the car was on.

Two miles below the bridge, Bandera Creek empties into the river, the bodies were found, and only about fifty feet apart. Both were stiff and showed that death had occurred some hours before. There were bruises about the man's body evidently caused by coming in contact with floating debris. A wedding rug on the hand of the woman bore the inscription "A. H. to G. M., Feb. 3, 1927."

Sheriff Hicks soon got in communication with officers in San Antonio and learned that the couple had lived at the Texas Hotel in San Antonio, and were salespeople for a line of health books for the Chicago concern, later it was learned that the dead man's father resided at Oakwood, Texas, and Sheriff Hicks telephoned him. He ordered the bodies shipped to Oakwood and early Saturday morning two ambulances came up from a San Antonio undertaking establishment and carried the bodies to San Antonio, from where they were shipped to Oakwood. Two brothers of Haley, young men who are attending Schreiner Institute at Kerrville, came down Friday night and fully identified the bodies.

Since the finding of the bodies and establishment of the identity of the unfortunate man and his wife it has been recalled that Mr. and Mrs. Haley have visited many homes in and around Bandera selling the books they were distributing, and those who had dealings with them spoke most highly of the young couple. Mr. Haley was a young man of pleasing address, and was said to be about twenty-five years old. His wife was a pleasing, dainty little woman and was probably twenty-two or twenty-three years old.

The drowning of these young people strangers in our midst and the suddenness of it all, cast a gloom over our community and saddened everyone.

Operetta to Be Given.

A delightful operetta, "Edith's Dream," teeming with dreamy and charming melodies, will be presented by the girls of St. Joseph's School on Thursday evening, May 26, in the school auditorium. Immediately following the smaller tots will present "Troubles of the Little Folks," "Mechanical Jane," an exciting comedy is given by the High School girls, and will delight and amuse all. If you are capable of laughing see this.

Bandera School Closes Friday.

Bandera High School will close tomorrow, Friday, with commencement exercises at the High School Auditorium tomorrow night, beginning at 8 o'clock. Eight young people compose the graduating class of 1927. Miss Zella Mae Price is valedictorian of the class, and Miss Louise Villemain is salutorian. Other members of the class are Miss Thelma Surber, Miss Rachel Hunter, Miss Hermine Habenicht, Miss Minnie Mae Mansfield, Herman Thalmann, and Charles Rugh, Jr. The class address will be delivered by Mr. S. V. Carmack of the Schreiner Institute at Kerrville. Judge Arch Mansfield will present the diplomas to the graduates.

Eckhart-Fleenor.

One of the prettiest weddings which has taken place in Bandera for many years was solemnized at the Methodist church last evening at 7:30, when Miss Ola Eckhart and Mr. Benjamin Fleenor were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. B. J. Gossett performing the ceremony in the presence of a large crowd of friends of the bride and groom. The church had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, and to the sweet strains of Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Claud Stevens, the wedding party marched down a spacious aisle to a beautiful arch, where they were met by the minister, and using the ring ceremony, they took the vows which will bind them in wedlock until "death doth them part."

The bride was attended by Miss Ida Pepper, and the groom's best man was C. B. Gilbert, while little Miss Evelyn Stevens and Eva Gossett were the flower girls. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harley Eckhart.

The bride wore a beautiful beige dress with hat and accessories to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The bride's maid wore a salmon pink hat and dress.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Eckhart and was born and raised here. She is a young lady of charming personality and splendid attainments, and is loved by all who knew her, an active worker in church and social affairs, and the groom is certainly to be congratulated upon winning her heart and hand.

The groom is a young man of excellent character and pleasing manners. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleenor of Midland, Texas, and came to Bandera county three or four years ago from which time he has been engaged in teaching school, in different communities here, teaching last term at Camp Verde, where he gave good satisfaction.

The newly married pair left immediately for a honey-moon trip to Midland, after which they will return and make their home in this county. The New Era joins in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fleenor, and we hope that every happiness and every joy in this life will be theirs.

Box Supper Monday Night.

The Epworth League will give a box Supper on the Methodist church lawn next Monday night, May 23. Everybody cordially invited.

The Barbecue.

The barbecue given at Adamietz Park last Saturday under auspices of the High School, was a success in every way and very much enjoyed by the five or six hundred people who were in attendance. The baseball game in the forenoon between the Hondo and Kerrville negro teams was lively and resulted in a score of 14 to 13 in favor of Hondo. In the afternoon a game was played between Bandera team and the crack team of the Flying Cadets, 47th Squadron, Brooks Field, resulting in a victory for Bandera, 3 to 1.

A splendid barbecue dinner was served under the shade of the trees on the bank of the river.

Pipe Line Will Touch Tarpley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Norton, of Houston, were here this week, in connection with the laying of the Humble Oil Company's pipe line through this county. The pipe line will not come nearer than fifteen miles of Bandera, as was at first reported, but it will traverse Tarpley and will traverse Bandera county for a distance of about twenty miles, entering Medina county a few miles below Tarpley. Ten and twelve inch piping will be used. This pipe line will be built from Mirando City, Webb county to a point on the coast near Corpus Christi, and will be over 400 miles in length. It is being built by the Humble Oil and Refining Co. for the purpose of carrying crude oil from the company's wells at McCamey to the refinery and shipping point on the coast. Construction crews have already arrived in Kerrville to begin work on the project.

Delightful Recital.

Miss Ione Fuller gave a delightful recital at the High School Auditorium Tuesday night. Seven students were rendered by the Girls' Glee Club. Musical readings, piano solos, vocal solos and piano duets were rendered. Much real artistic talent was shown by the pupils under Miss Fuller's guidance.

Will Receive Bids.

The Park Board of Utopia will open bids on May 28th for concessions for a two days barbecue on the 17th and 18th, the concessions including cold drinks, hamburger stand and raffle platform. The barbecue is free of charge after giving free dinner with all amusements, and the funds realized will be used in paying out the Utopia Park. Send in bids to Dr. C. A. McBeth at Utopia.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas

The County Commissioners in session last week took action in the matter providing another precinct to accept the county's requirements by raising the valuation of many pieces of property throughout the county. Of course there will be some who will severely criticise the board, but we have no criticism to offer for the reason that we believe the board intended to exercise the utmost fairness in attempting to equalize the conditions. And how much the county's revenue will be increased we have not yet learned, but it is to be hoped that it will overcome the deficiency that exists every year. For certain months in the year our county soap has to be discounted, and often the county officers have to wait for their money. The treasury is usually in such a depleted condition that funds are lacking to carry on the work of the county to the best advantage. It is a fact that Bandera county has as low or tax rate as any in the state, and the rendition of property is lower than in any county we have ever lived in. We believe the commissioners have taken a step in the right direction, and one that will help to put our county's finances on a sound basis. We are devoting this space this week to give the list of individuals whose property rendition was raised or lowered, in order that all may see just what has been done. The list was set up hurriedly and there may be a few mistakes which generally creep in unexpectedly, but we know most of them are correct.

Every boy should have the experience to be obtained by attendance at a citizens military training camp. These camps are an essential part of our national security. They promote obedience to law and respect for the institution of a well ordered society. Young men are helped to physical health and moral excellence. Courtesy in act, sympathy in feeling, tolerance in thought, are the results. Citizens Military Training Camps are essentially moulders of men and good citizens. For particulars see Dr. J. H. Erwin.

Cutting oats is under way in this section. The oat crop is good in some farms, while on others it is short, but altogether it will measure up to a pretty good average.

Bandera High School closes this week, after one of the most successful and generally satisfactory terms ever taught in this county. There has been more interest taken by parents and more determination to advance shown by the pupils than we have seen since we came to this town. Of course there may be several reasons for this, but we believe the principal reason is the excellent faculty we have had in charge of our school. The results apparent and the praise that is being given the faculty speaks volumes. We rejoice that Prof. A. K. Briggs has been retained to head the faculty next term, and it is with much regret to learn that Prof. C. B. Gilbert and Prof. James Emerson declined to accept the positions they held for the season. But Mr. Gilbert has decided to attend school this next year, while Mr. Emerson has accepted a position in the Junction schools. We are justly proud of the splendid school we have had; it is something to feel proud of, for we can now tell the world that Bandera's school is as good as any other school. A good school helps to make a good town, and more and better education are essential and that we have certainly had this term.

The time for holding the Old Settlers' reunion drawen on apace. The reunion will be held on Monday and Tuesday, July 4th and 5th, when it is expected that the largest gathering of old settlers ever seen here will take place. Already preparations are being made for the reunion features, one of which will be the old time tournament. The poles have been erected, and the boys are beginning to practice riding for the big event. Other features will include an old fiddlers' contest, beauty contest, pie eating contest, dish washing contest, perhaps a quilting bee party, as well as other amusements. The usual carnival attractions will be on hand. Members of the Bandera County Old Settlers' Association are urged to pay dues to the secretary, Mrs. Chas. Eckhardt, at once, as the badges must be ordered in time for the reunion.

Why

Firestone

GUM-DIPPED TIRES

Wear Longer

WE recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such an unheard-of mileage records.

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continue to use the round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks", so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a Balloon Tread is wasted—actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!

J. A. MILLER DIED EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

Prominent Citizen Here for Nearly Half a Century—Mourned by All.

John Albert Miller, aged 75, died at his home four miles east of Bandera, early Sunday morning. Mr. Miller was apparently in good health the day before, having visited Bandera and transacted some business. He ate a hearty supper and retired at the usual hour, but about twelve o'clock he was taken ill, and his condition became so serious that Dr. John H. Erwin was summoned and gave him treatment. He grew steadily worse despite all that could be done to relieve him, and passed away at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

John A. Miller was born in Franklin county, Mississippi, October 24, 1836, and was in the 91st year of his age when death claimed him. Captain in many Indian battles. The like of these frontier characters will never be seen again.

For the past several years Captain Smith has been kept close at home on account of the infirmities of age, but he was not inactive. He had his garden and orchard in which he delighted to work, and he only gave up work when his last illness came upon him and he was unable to get about Bandera county owes much to it's old pioneers and we should keep green their memories in every way possible.

Funeral services were conducted at the Oak Real cemetery at Medina Wednesday morning at 10:30, by Rev. B. J. Gossett, pastor of the Methodist church, in the presence of a vast concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. Commencement Exercises.

The graduating exercises at Bandera High School auditorium last Friday night, were quite interesting and drew a large crowd of people. The auditorium stage had been beautifully decorated with the class colors, and adorned with pot plants and flowers. Rev. B. J. Gossett gave the invocation, after which the grammer grade graduates marched to the stage and were given their diplomas. Miss Eloise Corley was valedictorian of the class, and Prof. James Emerson presented the diplomas.

The High School graduates, eight in number, then marched upon the stage and took their places. Dr. S. V. Carmack of the Schreiner Institute at Kerrville, made the class address, and it was truly a gem, and delivered in a manner that was most impressive. Next came the salutatory by Miss Louine Villemain, the class motto by Miss Hermine Habenich, the class colors by Miss Thelma Surber, the class flower by Miss Minnie Mae Mansfield, class history by Herman Thalmann, class prophecy by Miss Hunter and Glayda Croisdale.

Mr. Ranchman:

For a long time you have looked for a remedy for screw-worms that would

1. Kill the worms.
2. Leave a DRY wound.
3. Promote healing.
4. Require but one application in ordinary cases.
5. Eliminate danger of infestation by its drying antiseptic action when applied to a fresh cut.
6. And that would come packed in a flask that just fits the pocket, with a metal screw cap shaker cork to prevent waste.

"There is a Reason"

Accident Victim Buried Here.

Little Clarence Orens, aged five years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam P. Orens of San Antonio, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderwald of this place, died in a San Antonio hospital last Thursday night at one o'clock after having been run down by a car. Little Clarence and his brother were playing on the street and a passing motor struck him. Death was not instantaneous, but came after several hours of suffering. Interment was made here in the Catholic cemetery Friday afternoon. Many sorrowing relatives and friends attended the funeral, from San Antonio and this place. The bereaved parents have the sympathy and condolence of every one.

Dr. George W. Truett to be at Kerrville.

Editor New Era:

The people of the Hill Country have in store a rare treat in the way of a series of Revival Meetings, to be conducted by the eminent preacher, the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas. The churches of Kerrville, together with the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, and many churches in the counties of Bandera, Kimble and Gillespie have joined in an invitation to Dr. Truett to give us ten days or two weeks of his very valuable time for these meetings. This he has agreed to do, and the meetings are scheduled to begin on the fifth day of June, or next Sunday week. Kerrville was chosen as the place, on account of its central location to the counties named.

This is to urge upon the good people of Bandera county to get busy and plan to take these meetings in. Dr. Truett accompanied our sons across and spent quite awhile at the front with them during the awful world struggle. Certainly, today, Texas has no more distinguished citizen than this brainy, manly, noble man of God. Once is it given in a life time to have one so distinguished and inspirational to devote so much of his strength to a community such as ours. It is hoped that our citizens, far and wide, shall not permit this opportunity to go by unimproved. All Kerr county stretches out its hand to the people of Bandera county to come over and join us in this co-operative spiritual crusade. We trust and pray that multitudes of our people shall be brought to a vital and saving knowledge of our God and Christ the Saviour.

A commodious tent, seating some 2000 people will be provided, with a choir platform for 200. Let Bandera's singers help us in this very important part of the services. Dr. Truett, we are informed, may arrive some two days late, but the meetings will commence, as indicated, at eleven o'clock, Sunday, June 5th. Let everybody come and see for yourself.

J. M. MILLER DIED EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

Jennie C. Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport, pioneer settlers of the Cibolo region, 16 miles northeast of San Antonio.

With his family Mr. Miller moved to Bandera in 1883 to occupy the John James ranch of 3500 acres, which he had purchased, and engaged in the cattle business. At first they lived in the house where Mrs. H. L. Atkins now lives, but afterward moved to town and built a nice home, which they afterward sold to R. F. Langford, Jr., Mr. Miller then built the elegant home on his ranch which he with his wife and daughter have occupied until death called him hence.

John Albert Miller was a true type of the old West Texas cowman, big hearted, generous, and loyal to his friends. He was an enthusiastic member of the Old Time Trail Drivers' Association and always attended the annual reunion of this organization in San Antonio, where he met and mingled with the old comrades of the trail. He was a diligent worker for the proposed monument soon to be erected.

There were many noble characteristics in Mr. Miller's make-up which the public knew little about; one of these was his frequent and generous gifts to charity. He never paraded such matters, and many of his acts of assistance and help to the needy will never be known; but he was generous and helpful and there are many people who can testify with grateful hearts to the benevolence of his great soul. In his death Bandera county loses one of her most substantial citizens, and his family a devoted husband and father. His place cannot be filled in the home or in the community, and today as that happy home is wrapped in the habiliments of woe and the weight of a great sorrow rests upon our community, we mourn for our departed friend, always visioned for the good influences of the church, for his good right living, and in his daily walk he exemplified these things. We shall miss his kindly counsel, his genial greeting, his comradeship.

To the bereaved wife and children we extend sympathy and condolence in this hour of their great sorrow.

St. Joseph's School Closes.

St. Joseph's Parochial school closed yesterday with appropriate exercises, and presentation of diplomas to the following graduates: Miss Frances Pyka, Louis Postert, George Jones, Augustave Hermes. An operetta is to be given tonight at the St. Joseph's school auditorium. This term of the school has been a most successful and satisfactory one, the pupils have all made good grades and advancement and the pastor of our people is proud of the work which has been done.

Infant Died.

Last week we failed to report the death of the day-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Odo Hermes, which occurred in San Antonio May 14. The remains were brought to Bandera and interred in the Catholic cemetery the next day. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all who have so kindly assisted us, in our deep sorrow over the death of our beloved husband and father, J. A. Miller, and for the many expressions of sympathy and condolence; also for the beautiful floral offerings May God bless every one of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Thrailkill, and Mrs. Ferry and daughter, of San Antonio, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Walker at Medina last Sunday. Mrs Thrailkill and Mrs. Ferry are sisters to Mrs. Walker.

Charles Dumont and A. T. Forst, of Cliff, were here last Thursday and paid the New Era an appreciated visit. They came to attend the Eckhart-Fleener wedding on Wednesday night of last week.

Firestone Dealers

Have Purchased 100% More GUM-DIPPED TIRES

(This Year Compared With Same Period Last Year)

Will demand from car owners for Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume enabling them to tell these tires to you at the lowest prices in history.

On the cars of motorists everywhere, these wonderful tires are delivering unheard-of long mileage with greater safety and comfort.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today, follows the contour of the tire carcass with no excess rubber at the edges to cause "shoulder breaks". Narrow rider strips permit the tread to yield to depressions and cling to the road, preventing skidding. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities for thousands of extra miles.

Such a tread must be placed on a carcass with the qualifications to withstand the terrific flexing that this design permits. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, avoiding separation under the extreme flexing.

Many Firestone Dealers are prepared to offer you a liberal allowance for your old tires, on a new set of Gum-Dipped Tires to start the motoring season.

To meet a demand for a low price tire and tube, Firestone designed and manufactures, for Firestone Dealers only, Oldfield Tires and Tubes, which carry the Standard Manufacturers' Guarantee.

J. S. Burns Dead.

It is with much sadness that we chronicle the death of J. S. Burns, which occurred last Monday night, at 9 o'clock, at his home on Indian Creek. Mr. Burns had been ill for several weeks. He had been a citizen of Bandera county since 1907 and was liked by all who knew him, being a quiet, law-abiding citizen, a worker for the best interests of his community. He was born in Mississippi April 27, 1856, and came to Texas in 1903, located in Kerr county in 1884 and resided there many years. In 1885 he was happily married to Miss Sally Storms of that county, and to them three children were born, two of the children, Billie and Claude Burns, with the widow, survive him. Oscar Burns another son, died in 1908. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Dan Reed of Melon, Texas, and Miss Lucy Burns of Concord, Texas; also one brother, Yancy Burns of Coleman county. In 1874 he was converted under the preaching of Rev. J. P. Sanders, and united with the Baptist church, remaining a consistent member through all the years that followed.

Funeral services were conducted at the Bandera Baptist church this afternoon by Rev. M. J. Scott, and interment was made in Bandera cemetery.

To the bereaved widow and her sons we extend our sympathy and condolence.

Are You Neglectful?

People will become neglectful in spite of all reminders, so we are not complaining if you fail to renew your subscription to the New Era promptly. We know you intend to renew it the first time you come to town, but just forget it until you get back home. But that delay and a half will sure help to keep our machinery turning, and we trust you will not forget it next time you come to town.

$1,000,000 Voted For School Fund

Austin, Texas, May 30—The Senate voted Monday to appropriate $1,000,000 for the year beginning Sept. 1, 1927 to supplement the available school fund and nothing for the current year. Senator A. E. Wood, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, read figures to back out his contention that this could be sufficient to afford $15 per capita each year.

The House bill, by agreement, was substituted for the Senate bill. It carried an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the current year and Wood sent up a committee substitute to reduce this to $1,000,000.

Kills a Big Rattler.

R. L. Morris has sold his ranch property on Coal Creek, near Lima, to his brother, Joe Morris, and Will Allen of Medina City, for a consideration of about $21,000. Owing to ill health Mr. Morris has decided to seek another climate, so he decided to sell his ranch. The new owners are to take possession right away, and Ted Hillman will be in charge as manager.

House Members Play.

Austin Texas, May 30—Accessory house members of the House of conflict in Austin for a vacation instead of attending to the people's business, Representative R. L. Whitaker of Lamesa, Dawson County, announced his colleagues on the floor Monday.

"Some members haven't been home since the State," Whitaker said Settlers' Reunion, and this week of the regular session and then tried to pass all the bills in two weeks, getting into a jam for the benefit members when we didn't know any idea what they were."

Whitaker was called on for a speech following the distribution of a statement among House members, signed by himself, in which he told the Committee on Expressed bills, of which he is vice chairman, has failed to "one bill."

"I can't get away from feeling that a man has an individual responsibility to fulfill the duties of the office to which he is elected by the people," Whitaker said in his written statement.

"We can not expect faithful service from State employes unless the legislators of the people discharge their duty instead of coming to Austin for a two months' round of banquets, entertainments, theater parties and golf tournaments while yelling about inadequate per diem for members of the Legislature."

On Trial.

The case of Fritz Hinds, Dick Hinds, Tom Finney and Dwight Kirkland, charged with theft of hogs, is on trial as we go to press. A special venire of fifty men was empaneled most of yesterday afternoon. There are quite a lot of witnesses in attendance, and the case is causing much interest in the case, owing to the prominence of the parties involved.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. HUNTER, Editor and Publisher
MISS JENNETTE HUNTER Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas

Thursday, June 2, 1927.

For the past several months the New Era force has been limited to the editor and his daughter, Miss Jennette Hunter. Now that school is out our force has been doubled by the addition of Marvin Hunter, Jr., and Miss Rachel Hunter the former taking charge of the press work in the office and the latter being the linotype operator. Miss Jennette now becomes associate editor of the New Era, and will spend most of her time outside of the office gathering news and soliciting advertising and job printing. Ever since we came to Bandera we have been handicapped by having insufficient office force. Our business has steadily increased, keeping us right on the job all of the time, but we have managed to get out a newsy paper just the same. With some of the handicap removed we hope to improve the little old home paper, and to this end we ask that our friends send in such news items as they think will be of interest to our readers. Just write the names of your visitors on a slip of paper and send it in, or telephone Jennette or the editor, and your kindness will be appreciated. If very often happens that news items do not get into the paper for the reason that we do not learn of them, and then some body feels that they have been intentionally slighted, when in fact no slight was intended. We are always glad to publish any item, if it is news, and when items are left out of this paper intentionally they certainly have no news value. It makes no difference to us whether a person is a friend or an enemy, if we can publish an item of news about him or say a good word for him in the New Era, we take pleasure in doing it.

The Old Settlers Reunion will be held at Mansfield Park on Monday and Tuesday, July 4th and 5th, this year. This reunion promises to be a big one this year, and preparations will be made to entertain a large crowd with various amusements. The Old Fiddlers' Contest this year will be directed by Charles Eckhart, rules for which will be published in time. There are many old time fiddlers in the county who should enter this contest this year. Then the tournament to be run, as it used to be run in the old days, will be another feature that will bring back happy recollections to the boys gone by of years ago. There will be plenty of sport for everybody to enjoy, and two full days of it.

Who is the prettiest girl over 65 years old in Bandera County? We'll tell you after July 4th.

Bandera county is coming through the kinks this spring in fine shape. While the oat crop was not a heavy as at first expected, yet our farmers have raised some oats; corn prospects are good; the mohair and wool clips have been sold at good prices, and other sources of revenue are coming up in a very promising way. All of this spells prosperity for our ranchmen and farmers, and prosperity means more land will be put in cultivation, more homes will be built, flocks and herds will be increased, and good times will prevail.

The week-end brings many campers and vacationists, who come to Bandera from San Antonio and other places to enjoy delightful outing and camping allurements of the Medina Valley, which is becoming noted throughout the state for its picturesque scenery and salubrious climate.

The threshing season is upon us. This is a season when the farmer's wife gets all of 'em up early to help cook for the threshing hands, and the boys in the field know that when dinner time comes the good women have prepared all sorts of good things to eat and plenty of it.

The catalogue for the Bandera County Fair will be off the press in a few days. Be sure to get a copy of the catalogue and get ready for the best fair Bandera has ever had.

Announces New Car

Announcement was made by the Ford company of the early production of an entirely new Ford car. The present model known as model T will be discontinued.

A statement by Henry Ford and Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Company, said: "With the new Ford we propose to continue in the fight car field which we created on the same basis of quantity production we have always worked, giving high quality, low price and consistent service."

The new car, the announcement continued, "will cost more to manufacture, but it will be more economical to operate."

Only a comparatively few men will be thrown out of work at a time while the different departments of the company are being tooled for the new product, the announcement added. "At one time it looked as if 70,000 men might be laid off temporarily but we have now scaled that down to 25,000 at a time," the statement said.

Card of Thanks.

KERRVILLE, TEXAS

Dealers in General Merchandise

The House of Quality

IN 1869 WE STARTED IN BUSINESS IN A SMALL WAY. OUR BUSINESS HAS INCREASED WITH LEAPS and BOUNDS, AND WE NOW PROBABLY HAVE THE LARGEST RETAIL STORE IN TEXAS. NEARLY SIXTY YEARS WITHOUT A FAILURE.

There is a Reason

Sheep and Goat Raisers' Convention.

KERRVILLE, TEX. —Convention committees arranging details for the annual three-day meeting of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association may well be termed "early birds." With the convention date, July 19, 20 and 21, almost two months away, the committees are hard at work and they have every citizen of Kerrville at work with a determination to make the 1927 convention the best in history of the association.

The big auction sale of registered animals, as in previous years, will be the feature. All types and the best blood lines in the country will be on exhibit. Leading breeders of West Texas and many from out of the State have entered stock.

There will be plenty of side-lights and entertainment for all, but during the hours of the sale each afternoon the old will be put on everything else in order not to interfere with the most important feature of the convention.

Ample housing facilities are assured for every visitor. Raymond A. Franklin, a bustling young man, is chairman of the housing committee. He has made reservations for association officials and members of the executive board at Bowman's hotel, and is taking care of reservations for other members as rapidly as they are received. Schreiner institute has dormitories and cottages at Westminster Encampment will carry for several hundred guests during the convention. Scores of private homes also will be thrown open. Comfortable quarters will be provided for all.

Executive sessions of the convention will be held at the Arcadia Theatre, starting at 9:30 a. m. each morning.

The auction sale during the afternoon will be held in spacious warehouses and pens on the Southern Pacific tracks, making it convenient for breeders who desire to ship in animals for exhibit.

Band concerts, dancing and many other forms of amusement are on the evening programs. Three large dances will be in progress each night. The ladies committee is arranging theatre parties and scenic drives through the picturesque Hill Country.

Officials of the association and the executive committee will be guests of the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce at a camp breakfast.

The convention committee from now until the convention will meet each week to confer on plans and the progress being made, in order that the 1927 meeting may be a rip-snorter and a record-breaker.

Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES

Firestone Round Tread Balloon

Flat Tread Balloon

MANY Firestone Dealers are prepared to take in your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Gum-Dipped Balloons.

Firestone Dealers are given the advantages of attending Tire Educational Meetings held throughout the country, where tire design and construction are discussed. The sections of used tires reproduced here are a part of this program. Study these two sections and you, too, will understand what Firestone means by tires built for service and tires made to sell.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon with its scientifically designed tread permits free flexing, easier riding, extra comfort and safety.

The balloon tire with heavy, flat tread design is obviously stiffer and rides harder. The excess rubber, placed for appearance at the edges of the tread, is not only wasted but produces hinging action causing ply separation and "shoulder breaks."

Firestone designed and manufactured Oldfield Tires and Tubes, distributing them direct to Firestone Dealers only, through 148 Factory Warehouses. This efficient and economical distribution assures tire buyers everywhere, clean, fresh stocks of Firestone and Oldfield Tires in all types and sizes, and has helped to make possible today's remarkably low prices—the lowest in tire history. See the Firestone Dealer today.

Flood is Kissing at Morgan City

New Orleans, La., May 30.—With more than 350 sq. miles of the "Sugar Bowl" parishes already covered, the flow from the McCrea crevasse in the main bank levees of the Atchafalaya River was diminishing Monday night as a sandbar settled outside the opening.

The McCrea crevasse is approximately 120 miles northwest of New Orleans on the west side of the river.

The New Orleans Weather bureau reported that changes in the water level in the Pointe Coupee area of the Mississippi flow from the breach was sufficient to maintain flood levels at up in the first two or three days following the break in the dike.

On the opposite side of the Atchafalaya basin, Lake Verret reached across the length of the basin, extending far up across Bayou Des Glaises into the Teche basin. Water was rising steadily along the lower extremities of the lake as it made its final dash for the Gulf of Mexico.

At the same time drainage of the water into the Atchafalaya basin gradually was reducing the flood levels in the basin, where 13 Northeastern Louisiana parishes have been inundated. The fall was slow, however, since the levees of the Mississippi levees at Cabine Teele and Winter Quarters continued to feed waters into the northeastern corner of the basin, where more than 100 miles north of Baton Rouge.

Gradual recession of the waters, however, had brought farmers to drying ridges in Morehouse, Ouachita, East and West Carroll, and Franklin parishes, along the upper and western edges of the contracting lake. Local committees in Catahoula, Tensas and Concordia parishes, in the heart of the Tensas basin, also were being supplied with seed for use as soon as planting might be started.

At Morgan City, at the mouth of the Atchafalaya, the gauge stood at 9.3 feet, the highest mark touched since 1882, and that city still was to receive the full force of the flood. Boats already were in use in many of the streets and the city had raised sidewalks and made other preparations for an increased height of waters.

Announcements were made that the Southern Pacific Railroad bridge across the river would be closed to boats when the stream reached a stage of 10 feet as a precautionary measure to save the only railroad operating from New Orleans westward.

Relief boats had been concentrated at Morgan City, Plaquemine, in the upper eastern Atchafalaya basin, and in the Grosse Tete sector, in the heart of the East Atchafalaya "Sugar Bowl," to meet any contingency which might arise.

Evacuation of the flood-ridden area was virtually complete with many residents preferring to remain in the neighborhood of their homes or in the upper floors of inundated homes.

Short Course to be Held July 13, 14 and 15.

That educational outing known to thousands of farm families all over South Texas as the "Medina Short Course" is to be held again by the A. and M. College Extension Service at the same old place, the Medina Hereford Ranch in Bexar county on July 13, 14 and 15. The ranch, now under new management is to be operating with the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and the Extension Service as hosts.

Provisions are being made for the comfort, entertainment and instruction of all who come, and a cordial invitation is extended to all farmers and ranchers and their families. For further details read the papers and see your county or home demonstration agent.

Exploring Party Being Sought

San Angelo, Tex., May 30.—Unheard of since Sunday, when they left for Iron Ivory City with the announced intention of exploring a cave on the ranch of the J. D. Sugg estate, Tom Freeze and Luther Anderson, employes of Walker-Sundy Company here and two young women companions were being sought by parties organized Monday afternoon here and at Mertzon.

Fears for their safety arose when their car was found near the cave and signs about its mouth indicating that persons had been there.

The cave has recesses that extend as reported two miles underground and many hazardous passages and contours that might confuse explorers. Snakes and bats that infest the cave and possibly wild animals are other dangers.

Cole Younger, the James Brothers and other bandit gangs used the cave as a rendezvous in early days, according to reports.

Young Man Wins With Fine Sheep Convinces Father

In the fall of 1923 young Earnest G. Duderstadt, son of T. A. Duderstadt, of Mountain Home, Kerr County, Texas, decided to heed the advice and instruction given by the County [illegible] to the advice of [illegible] who is one of Kerr County's leading ranchmen. Earnest had $200 in Liberty bonds and wanted to get started in the sheep business, so he decided to buy ten head of registered Delaine Merino from Ohio. His father tried to discourage him by telling him he could buy 100 good grade ewes for, exactly what the ten heads of registered ewes would cost him and by using registered bucks with the grade ewes he would soon have one of the best flocks of sheep in the neighborhood. The boy stood his ground and on January 10, 1924 the ten head of registered ewes arrived at the ranch. The boy sold his Liberty bonds at par and borrowed about $300 at the bank to meet the deficit against the sheep, for the ten head cost $600 delivered.

Thus the educational battle started between the boy and the older ranchmen of the community, including the boy's father. However the boy soon had the father and other ranchmen guessing for when shearing time came they found they had to shear three ewes to get as much wool as they could get from one of his registered ewes and the registered ewes had not eaten any more than the grade ewes that were about three times the ewes, which were supposed to be open and unbred showed otherwise and Earnest had three registered bucks, one buck and two ewes. The father soon decided that the boy had him beaten and gave the ram and two ewes on his grade ewes, but none of the neighbors also became enthusiastic $75 bid higher, getting the lamb at weaning time for $55. Earnest then took this money and some wool money and bought a registered buck for $75 more and the ram and the flock has continued to yield in wool and show up well in increase.

During the second year of this project the boy flocked 75 pounds of getting half as much wool from 22 head of his registered ewes as he got from 194 head of good grade ewes that had been bred and selected by the father, with the constant help of registered bucks for ten years. Tom Duderstadt was so completely "sold" on the project by this time that he decided to follow the boy's example and at present writing he has only one sheep on the ranch that is not registered and says that if he doesn't sell it soon that he is going to satisfy his appetite.

The boy was not satisfied with just the registered sheep so just as soon as he got them cleared of debt at the bank, he went over to Junction, Texas, where a ranchman had some aged registered Angora goats for sale and bought ten head of registered nannies six and seven years old and a registered yearling billy. This was in August, 1925, and the eleven had cost the $150 which he had borrowed now. Earnest raised ten kids the first season but since that time has lost two of his old nannies and just recently has lost his stud ram. However, he is not the least bit discouraged.

Last year was still more successful for Earnest for he decided to keep on branching out in his business. He took a few lambs to the county fair and won second place against the seasoned breeders who had been at the game for years and of course this gave him some publicity which enabled him to get a few rams at a good price. During the three years of this project he has sold seven ram lambs and choice for $245.00 and still rams left will bring in this much more in the next two months. In addition to the sheep and goat business Earnest declared in the early part of 1926 to start out in the poultry business and bought 200 Single Comb White Leghorn baby chicks and after some losses and some culling, he kept 55 good laying pullets. This poultry project has also been financed by the sheep and goats. All of these projects are the development and outgrowth of the thoroughbred ewes as an original club project. Earnest is out of debt with a splendid credit rating of one of the largest banks in southwest Texas, for he now has registered sheep, 19 registered goats Earnest is attending high school in Kerrville. He is preparing to enter A. & M. College in the fall of 1927. When his grandfather heard of his intentions, he immediately opened an loan Earnest the money to go through college, but Earnest in his prideful, boyish manner informed his grandfather that if he needed any money he would accept the generous and grateful offer but at present he was planning to make his sheep, goats and chickens plus his ability to work while at college meet the necessary expense of getting a college education. Earnest is now near the eighteen-year mark and it is needless to predict the outcome of this enterprising young man.—J. C. Yeary in Progressive Farmer.

Lehmann's Book to Be Published

Hermann Lehmann, who was a captive among the Apache and Comanche Indians for more than ten years, spent several days with the editor last week. Mr. Lehmann's home is now at Grandfield, Oklahoma, where he has a headright, and is on the tribal rolls of the Comanches. J. Marvin Hunter has just completed writing the story of the life and experiences of this ex-captive, and the book is to be published by Von Boeckmann-Printing Co., of Austin, within the next few weeks. Lehmann became to all intents and purpose an Indian, so much that when he was restored to his people he did not want to remain. He had forgotten his language, and was about the wildest of the tribe, often making raids down into the region where his people lived and stealing horses, while he was with the Apaches and Comanches. Announcement will be made when the book is ready for distribution, and when they can be purchased at this office.

Suffers Stroke of Paralysis.

Word was received Saturday that Mrs. T. A. Buckner of San Marcos, had suffered a stroke of paralysis and was in a serious condition. Her sister, Mrs. E. J. Bantz was called to her bedside. Mrs. Buckner is well known to the people of Bandera and Medina, her husband having for many years published the New Era. We earnestly hope her condition will improve and that she will soon be out of danger.

W. W. Hogan Buried.

The funeral of W. W. Hogan, who died at Ely, Nevada, May 19, was held at Bandera cemetery last Saturday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. Price of Medina, assisted by Elder D. S. Palmer. The remains reach here shortly afternoon Saturday and were taken immediately to the cemetery for interment.

William Wilford Hogan was born in Leadville, Colorado, April 1, 1887, and was married to Miss Madge Hay of Medina, Texas, at Ely, Nevada, December 19, 1918. To this union three children were born, William, Jr., Doris and Phyllis K., who with the widow, survive him. Mr. Hogan's death was due to heart failure, following an operation for appendicitis, at East Ely, Nevada. Mr. Hogan and children were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hay, at Medina at the time the message came announcing the death of her husband, and she was prostrated by the sad news. The remains were shipped here for burial.

The New Era extends sympathy to the bereaved wife and children, in their great sorrow.

Rev. P. J. Tarradellas New Pastor of Catholic Church

Rev. P. J. Tarradellas has been given the pastorate of the Catholic Church here and assumed his duties this week. Rev. Tarradellas paid the Herald office a pleasant call Thursday afternoon and enrolled as a new reader of the friendly home paper. We first met Rev. Tarradellas at Bandera several years ago and learned to know him as a cultured gentleman whose friendship we value highly. We are sure he will find our city a pleasant place to live and a fertile place to work. He is very industrious and is planning to organize a young men's band here. He is a finished musician and will do without a doubt train the members of the band with much credit to them and the town.—Harper Herald.

Rev. Scott Buys Place.

Celebrates 80th Birthday

Mrs. Wiley Meadows entertained with a family dinner party last Sunday in honor of her mother's 80th birthday. Those present were Mrs. E. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rees, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stevens and son Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Tallman, Sidney, Edwin and Homer Stevens, Mrs. Bess Canafax and little daughter, Emogene, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bayor, Miss Fay Rees, Sidney Hammond, Audley Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Meadows and the honor guest, Mrs. J. T. Stevens, three of the family were absent, Mrs. Barnes of California, J. E. Stevens of New Mexico, T. F. Stevens, of Uvalde, Texas and also a grandson, she has raised, A. E. Stevens of Arizona. The big birthday cake with its eighty candles was the outstanding decoration of the dinner table.

Mrs. N. J. Hans Dead.

We regret to learn of the death early Sunday morning of Mrs. N. J. Hans, at her home near Utopia. The funeral was held at the Vanderpool cemetery at 3 o'clock Sunday evening. Deceased was about sixty years old, and besides her husband, she is survived by four children, Joe, Bertie, Richard and Claude Hans. Our sympathy goes out to the grief-stricken husband and children in their sorrow.

Bandera Girl Graduates.

The New Era editor and family are in receipt of an invitation to attend the graduating exercises of the Sub-College Department of Sul Ross State Teachers' college at Alpine, on Thursday evening, June 2. Among the class of graduates is Miss Dee Augusta Varner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Varner who formerly lived in Bandera. The New Era congratulates this splendid young lady upon her good work, and joins all of her many friends in extending best wishes.

St. Joseph's School Entertainment.

The operetta given at St. Joseph's School auditorium last Thursday night, by the children of that school, was a very interesting and amusing affair and was witnessed by a full house, the auditorium being filled to its seating capacity. The characters in the playlets, "Mechanical Jane," "Edith's Dream" and "Troubles of the Little Folks," carried out their parts well. Special mention should be made of Misses Isabel Maczurek, Isabel Anderwald, Mary Pyka, Lydia Kalka, Frances Kalka, Lillian Saunders, Frances Pyka, and Violet Hermes, who had leading roles in the plays. The little folks in their pretty costumes, and the fairies, all came in for a share of applause. The singing was splendid, and the instrumental selections rendered by Misses Elsie Adamietz, Isabel Anderwald, Hedwig Adamietz Blanche Adamietz and Lillian Saunders called for much applause from the audience.

Stone Arrow Heads.

Boys, bring your stone arrow heads to the New Era office. We will pay 5 to 25 cents each according to size and condition. We want other stone relics also.

Frontier Times

THIS IS THE ONLY MAGAZINE of its kind in the world. It is full of real Texas history, given by men and women who helped to make Texas history. It specializes in Texas Ranger stories, Indian Depredations, Border Warfare, Outlawry, Trail Drivers' Reminiscences, Early Day Events. This magazine is endorsed by leading schools, colleges, universities, libraries, historians, writers, everywhere. It contains no fiction or puny love stories, but gives a true record of the deeds of heroism, trials, dangers and hardships of our pioneer settlers. The student of Texas history will find it of invaluable assistance; the writer of historical fiction and fact will find plenty of material in its pages for his use. The old people like Frontier Times because it brings to their memory events which happened during their youth and of which they have knowledge. The young people want to read it because it tells them of the early days.

For more than a quarter of a century the publisher of Frontier Times has been collecting data bearing on frontier history. He compiled and edited "The Trail Drivers of Texas," a book of more than 1,000 pages, recounting the experiences of the early pioneers of Texas; he is a member of the Texas State Historical Society, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Association, the Texas Pioneers' Association, Texas Landmarks Association. The Texas Folk-Lore Society, Old Time Trail Drivers' Association, and other historical organizations, and keeps in direct touch with the activities of these bodies, which qualifies him to gather and compile fragments of history which would otherwise be overlooked and pass into oblivion.

The Old Settlers' Reunion is less than a month away. As the time for holding this reunion draws nearer the interest in it increases. From present indications, we believe the largest crowd ever assembled at a reunion here will be in attendance July 4th and 5th. They are coming from everywhere.

In this issue of the New Era appears the advertisement of the Max Peeler Dress-Up Store in Boerne. This gent's furnishing establishment is strictly up-to-date and their stock is complete. Their prices are calculated to meet all competition. Next time you are in Boerne drop in and get acquainted with Mr. Beseler and his accommodating salesforce, the Messrs. Hartz.

Utopia is to hold a big barbecue Friday and Saturday, June 17th and 18th. Two big days of fun and frolic. All kinds of amusements, baseball, polo tournament, bronco busting, steer riding, goat roping, calf roping, something doing every minute of the two days. Liberal prizes in each event each day. Ed Mansfield of Bandera will take his rodeo stock and riders and help make the big barbecue a success. Those Utopia folks know how to entertain, and as this barbecue is to be given to raise funds to pay out their park, they are going to bend every energy to make it the best yet.

Next week the July number of Frontier Times will be issued from the press. Joe Sap Becomes a Proctical Gardener

(By Joe Sappington)

Deep down in the bosom of every able-bodied "American citizen who has been raised on a farm is the desire to plant garden seed at the first approach of spring. There are two kinds of gardeners in this world—the theoretical and the practical. The theoretical gardener does all his gardening on cold winter nights surrounded by his loved ones, while the practical gardener goes forth in the early spring, armed with a hoe, and plants "two-bits" worth of garden seed, kills a few grub worms, throws a few rocks at his wife's hens that have come in at a crack in the fence, abuses his wife and children for walking on his cabbage bed, and closes his labors by throwing the hoe at the family cow which he discovers chewing the tail off his coat that he left hanging on the fence while planting said garden.

For several years I was a theoretical gardener, before I turned my attention to practical gardening and have raised all kinds of vegetables—by the fire. Some of the finest vegetables that I ever raised grew while the mercury in our thermometer was playing peek-a-boo with me—just above zero. I have sat for hours around the family hearth stove, while the wind came snorting down from the north, enjoying the artistic twist of a turnip, the sturdy pose of a squash and the sunset tints of a tomato as were so truthfully portrayed on the outside of a five-cent package of garden seed sent out by the good and honest seed dispensers from away up north.

I never owned but one real garden in my life, but that one was sufficient to last me as long as I live. When I pull aside the curtains of the past and review my past life there stands out that garden to mock me. I had been married about five years when I decided to move my garden from its comfortable winter quarters to the cold damp ground. My wife began to argue not to plant it, claiming that it would be a waste of time and money, but I determined to raise a garden or "bust"!

It would not interest the reader to go into unnecessary details, suffice it to say that in the fullness of time joyous spring came on apace with its sunshine and singing birds and butterflies and fragrant flowers, and the gentle rains and warm south winds soon wooed my garden seed to burst their tiny shells and peep forth their little heads from the ground. I beheld all of these good things and saw that they were good and I was as happy as a man with chin whiskers.

While it may be true that every cloud has a silver lining, it is true that every joy has its tinge of sorrow. The warm sunshine and gentle rains that wooed my early Dutch cabbage seed from Mother Earth also wooed several billion goose grass, thistle and other wild seeds into popping their little heads up. The same gentle influence that called into life the little grass and radish seed also quickened into life the seed and lowly grub worms and the sluggish cut worms, and when I went forth one morning after my garden had come up to behold and saw what slaughter had wrought to my onions and black wax beans by said worms, and how thrifty the grass and weeds were, I saw right straight that it was not good and said so to my wife in a loud tone of voice and smote a cut worm with my hoe. Next day, after I discovered the havoc the worms had wrought to my garden, two hens and a rooster flew over the fence and ate all the last remaining bean. Of course I killed the trio with a stick, but that didn't bring back my beans nor keep my wife from calling me an idiot. I was no longer the cheerful, carefree gardener that I was when I pitched my garden; in fact I became a remorse, taciturn man. Just a few weeks after I planted my garden I began to receive anonymous letters asking about my garden and how I succeeded. I bore all the indignities in silence and continued to kill worms and bugs and fight goose grass. But, to cap the climax, some low-down ear came at the dark hours of night and sowed down my garden in millet seed and tacked a card on the gate saying that if I chopped it down when it came up that he proposed to sow it in Johnson Grass. A rain came in the very next day after the millet seed were sown and it came up as thick as the whiskers on a Kansas Populist, and for fear the cowardly thug would carry out his threat I let it grow unmolested.

I had been the proprietor of this garden about six weeks when I threw it up, but in that brief time I had killed at least five thousand cut worms, three chickens, crippled our cow, quarreled with my wife, got seven blue corns on my hands and lots of dirt in my nostrils, had spent $7.25 for garden seed and never got as much as a mess of greens. After I quit working my garden the sun showers grew 15 feet high all over it and kept me busy pulling the cards off the garden fence that my enemies would tack up of nights bearing this and similar inscriptions: "Joe Sap's garden; look out for snakes."

Boy Fatally Burned by Gasoline Explosion.

Kerrville, Tex., June 6.—Funeral services were held here Monday afternoon for Elbert Hunt, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hunt who was fatally burned while pouring gasoline into an auto in his home. The Old Settlers' Reunion is less than a month away. As the time for holding this reunion draws nearer the interest in it increases. From present indications, we believe the largest crowd ever assembled at a reunion here will be in attendance July 4th and 5th. They are coming from everywhere.

In this issue of the New Era appears the advertisement of the Max Pesler Dress Up Store in Boerne. This gent's furnishing establishment is strictly up-to-date and their stock is complete. The prices are calculated to meet all competition. Next time you are in Boerne drop in and get acquainted with Mr. Besler and his accommodating salesforce, the Messrs. Hartz.

Utopia is to hold a big barbecue Friday and Saturday, June 17th and 18th! Two big days of fun and frolic. All kinds of amusements, baseball, polo tournament, bronco busting, steer riding, goat roping, calf roping, something doing every minute of the two days. Liberal prizes in each event each day. Ed Mansfield of Bandera will take his rodeo stock and riders and help make the big barbecue a success. Those Utopia folks know how to entertain, and as this barbecue is to be given to raise funds to pay out their park, they are going to bend every energy to make it the best yet.

Next week the July number of Frontier Times will be issued from the press. Among the many interesting sketches of early days in this number will be "The Tramp Shepherds of the Pecos," "The Chili Queens of San Antonio," "A Note on Texas," "The Painted Rocks of Concho County," "The Train Robber's Vengeance Miscarried" "Early Coryell County History," "Miss Ann Whitney, the Frontier Heroine," "Two Early Day Letters," "Mrs. Holmsley Went Up the Chisholm Trail," "Spur Revives Memories of Brushy Creek Battle," "Harrowing Experience of Mrs. Kirby," "McCulloch County of Fifty-two Years Ago," "Pension the Indian Fighters," "Early Day Stage Robbery in Llano County," "An Indian's Speech," "Those Good Old Days," "Brief History of Texas," and other thrilling sketches. Nowhere can you find a magazine just like Frontier Times, and it is printed in Bandera. Every citizen of the county should be proud of this little magazine, for it is doing a great work. The August number, which will be issued July 15th, will contain sixty-four pages, and will be profusely illustrated.

Joe Bap Becomes a Proctical Gardeier

(By Joe Sappington)

Deep down in the bosom of every able-bodied American citizen who has been raised on a farm is the desire to plant garden seed at the first approach of spring. There are two kinds of gardeners in this world—the theoretical and the practical. The theoretical gardener does all his gardening on cold winter nights surrounded by his loved ones, while the practical gardener goes forth in the early spring armed with a hoe, and plants "two-bits" worth of garden seed, kills a few grub worms, throws a few rocks at his wife and hens that have come in at a crack in the fence, abuses his wife and children for walking on his cabbage bed and closes his labors by throwing the hoe at the family cow which he discovers chewing the tail off his coat that he left hanging on the fence while planting said garden.

For several years I was a theoretical gardener, before I turned my attention to practical gardening and have raised all kinds of vegetables—by the fire, and some of the finest vegetables that I ever raised grew while the mercury in our thermometer was playing peeve with me just above zero. I have sat for hours around the family hearth stone, while the wind came snorting from the north, enjoying the artistic twist of a turnip, the sturdy pose of a squash and the sunset tints of a tomato as were so truthfully portrayed on the outside of a five-cent package of garden seed sent out by the good and honest seed dispensers from away up north.

I never owned but one real garden in my life, but that one was sufficient to last me as long as I live. When I pull aside the curtains of the past and review my past life there stands out that garden to mock me. I had been married about five years when I decided to move my garden from its comfortable winter quarters to the cold damp ground. My wife begging me not to plant it, claiming that it would be a waste of time and money, but I determined to raise a garden or "bust"!

It would not interest the reader to go into unnecessary details, suffice it to say that in the fullness of time joyous spring came on apace with its sunshine and singing birds and butterflies and fragrant flowers, and the gentle rains and warm south winds soon wooed my garden seed to burst their tiny shells and put forth their little heads from the ground. I beheld all of these good things and saw that they were good and I was as happy as a man with chin whiskers.

While it may be true that every cloud has a silver lining, it is also true that every joy has its tinge of sorrow. The warm sunshine and gentle rains that wooed my early York cabbage seed from their beds also wooed several billion goose grass, thistle and other wild seeds into popping their little heads up. The same gentle influence that called into life the little grass and radish seed also quickened into life the meek and lowly grub worms and the sluggish cut worms, and when I went forth one morning after my garden had come up to stand and see what slaughter had wrought to my onions and black wax beans by said worms, and how thrifty the grass and weeds were, I saw right straight that it was not good and said so to my wife in a loud tone of voice and smote a cut worm with my hoe. Next day, after I discovered the havoc the worms had wrought to my garden, two hens and a rooster flew over the fence and ate the last remaining bean. Of course I killed the trio with a stick, but that didn't bring back my beans nor keep my wife from calling me an idiot. I was no longer the cheerful, care-free gardener that I was when I pitched my garden; in fact I became a remorse, taciturn man. Just a few weeks after I planted my garden I began to receive anonymous letters asking about my garden and how I succeeded. I bore all the indignities in silence and continued to kill worms and bugs and fight goose grass. But, to cap the climax, some low-down cur came at the dark hours of night and mowed down my garden in millet seed and tacked a card on the gate saying that if I chopped it down when it came up that he proposed to sow it in Johnson Grass. A rain came in the very next day after the millet seed were sown and it came up as thick as the whiskers on a Kansas Populist, and for fear the cowardly thug would carry out his threat I let it grow unmolested.

I had been the proprietor of this garden about six weeks when I threw it up, but in that brief time I had killed at least five thousand cut worms, three chickens, crippled our cow, quarreled with my wife, got over a big corns on my hands and lots of dirt in my nostrils, had spent $7.25 for garden seed and never got as much as a mess of greens. After I quit working my garden the sun flowers grew 15 feet high all over it and kept me busy pulling big cards off the garden fence that my enemies would tack up of nights bearing this and similar inscriptions: "Joe Sap's garden; look out for snakes."

Boy Fatally Burned by Gasoline Explosion.

Kerrville, Tex., June 6.—Funeral services were held here Monday afternoon for Elbert Hunt, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hunt who was fatally burned while pouring gasoline into an auto at his home. The tragic accident occurred Saturday morning when Boyle Nichols, 3 years old, and a cousin of the Hunt youth, struck a match igniting a can of gasoline held by the older boy.

Badly burned about the body the injured boy was rushed to a hospital where he died Sunday after several hours of intense suffering.

Hondo Woman Victim of Snake Recovering

Although bitten twice on the forehead by a rattlesnake a week ago, Mrs. Laura Hardt, 34, was declared out of danger and permitted to travel from here to her home, 14 miles from Hondo to San Antonio Monday.

Mrs. Hardt was asleep on the sleeping porch of her home when the snake crawled into the house and up on the bed, where it struck her twice before she awoke.

She was given first-aid treatment by Dr. W. H. Smith of Hondo only as soon as the serum could arrive from San Antonio she was given two ampules of anti-crotalus treatment—San Antonio Express.

Milton Surber Dead.

Milton L. Surber was born at Laredo, Texas, October 2, 1902, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Surber, on Tuesday, June 14, 1927, after many months of patient suffering.

He was always so appreciative of any act of kindness bestowed and expressed sincere thanks to everyone who ever breathed a word of prayer in his behalf.

He was conscious until two hours before the end, giving directions about everything. He was an intelligent, industrious young man, giving promise of a good and useful life, but the Heavenly Father had other plans which we cannot understand.

He was anxious, willing and ready to go, bidding his loved ones farewell with a happy smile.

Besides his parents he is survived by his brothers, Bernice of Brookline, N. Y.; Leonard, and sister, Josefi, and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services at the home on Winans Creek at 1 p. m. on Wednesday, by Rev. W. H. Price of Medina, after which the remains were taken to Center Point and laid to rest by the side of two brothers gone before.

Services at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. J. W. Storms of Center Point.

The New Era extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

John T. Edwards Dead.

John L. Edwards, passed away at his home near Pipe Creek last Saturday, at 7:05 p. m. after an illness of several months. Burial took place at Pipe Creek cemetery Monday afternoon, Rev. B. Hall Bowden, pastor of the Bandera Methodist church, conducting the funeral services.

In the death of John L. Edwards Bandera county has lost one of her best citizens. He was honored and esteemed by all who knew him. His friends were numbered by the hundreds. The memory of his deeds will stand as a monument to his integrity and honesty of purpose throughout the years to come. His life's career will be a beacon light by which those yet living may be guided. He despised hypocrisy and harbored the strongest contempt for double dealing and infidelity. He was generous to a fault and loyal to friends was his chief virtue. John L. Edwards never faltered in exemplifying these principles and a desire to adhere to them not only actuated every move in his private life, but was ever present in his business and public dealings. Let it be said of him that his dealings with men were always fair, unselfish, and void of a pernicious intent.

John L. Edwards was one of our pioneer citizens, having come to Bandera county in 1886. He was born in McLennan county, February 7, 1865. On January 13, 1892 he was married to Miss Minnie Scott at Pipe Creek. To this union five children were born, three sons and two daughters, who, with the wife survive him, being Elmer and Lawrence Edwards of Pipe Creek, Jim Edwards of Los Angeles, California, Mrs. Etta McRae of Hurley, New Mexico, and Mrs. Mae Armstrong of Silver City, New Mexico. All of the children were present at the funeral except the son in Los Angeles. In 1903 Mr. Edwards was converted and lived a devoted Christian life, having his full trust in the saving grace of his Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. When the summons came for him to depart this life it found him prepared to go. His age was 62 years, 4 months and 5 days.

Surviving also are five brothers and four sisters, G. W. Edwards of Animas, New Mexico; Wesley Edwards and William Edwards of San Antonio; Clinton Edwards of Brackettville, and Edwards of Pipe Creek; Mrs. Fannie McCarthy of Pipe Creek; Mrs. Bertha Ackerry and Mrs. Sarah Little of San Antonio; Mrs. Maggie Hax and Mrs. Peelan Hans of Brackettville.

For many years Mr. Edwards served as county commissioner of Pipe Creek precinct. His service in this capacity was never complained of by any one, but the work he did was highly praised. He was in a great measure responsible for the good roads we now have. While road supervisor in his precinct he was ever active in improving the roads, working and keeping them in good condition, and when on road duty, it is said that he worked harder and performed more labor than any of the men working under him. His service was so satisfactory that he was elected each term without opposition, and it was only due to his declining health that he resigned his office two or three months ago. John L. Edwards has passed on, but the influence he performed will perpetuate his memory, and he will be honored by the people of his county for many, many years to come.

The New Era sympathizes with his good wife and children for they have lost a devoted husband and father. To them we would extend condolence, and let them take comfort in the knowledge that, while they suffer loss his kindly counsel and affection, he did not live in vain, and leaves to them the heritage of a spotless name.

The Hill Country to the Fore

San Antonio has a live, working Chamber of Commerce, ever on the alert to bring business to the metropolis of Texas. But of late years San Antonio seems to have been overlooking one of her biggest assets, the Hill Country. San Antonio has been boosting the Rio Grande Valley, and selling forth the wonderful possibilities there, which is all well enough, but to the north and northwest of San Antonio, and much closer, is the great Hill Country, which is producing many millions of revenue annually for San Antonio, but which has seemingly not been discovered. So in order to bring the Hill Country to the attention of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, a Hill Country program was arranged and presented at a luncheon given at the St. Anthony Hotel at a meeting of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce last Monday noon, President Eugene Prescott, of the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce, directed the program and the following speakers addressed the gathering: Hon. Alfred P. C. Petsch of Fredericksburg told of the agricultural products of the Hill Country, giving statistics to show the amount of revenue brought by these products. Hon. Roscoe Runge of Mason told of the number of cattle, sheep, goats, and hogs sent to market by the Hill Country, and of the wool and mohair and other products of this region, summing up the amount of revenue derived from these sources. J. Marvin Hunter, of Bandera, told of the splendid highways and picturesque scenery of the Hill Country; and Charles L. Mason, of Kerrville, told of the accommodations for tourists, in the way of hotels, camping facilities, recreation advantages, and the delightful climate of the Hill Country. After these speakers had told of the wonderful resources of the Hill Country, President Prescott followed up and called the attention of the San Antonio body to the fact that the Hill Country was a big asset to San Antonio that should not be longer overlooked, and that we stand ready to help San Antonio in every way possible.

Members of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce expressed themselves as well pleased with the facts that were so forcibly brought to them, and they stated that San Antonio will not be neglectful in the future.

Utopia holds a big barbecue tomorrow and Saturday. Many of our Bandera people have announced their intention of attending.

Ed Heinen, of Pipe Creek, was in town Monday.

"There is a Reason"

For the Largest Family.

A prize of five dollars in cash will be given to the largest native born Bandera county family in attendance at the Old Settlers' Reunion on July 4th. Families who enter this contest must report to the New Era editor on the grounds not later than 11 o'clock a. m. July 4th. Every member of the family must be present and remain on the grounds all day. Parents and all of the children must have been born in Bandera county. A photograph will be taken of the family group awarded the prize.

Old Fiddlers' Contest.

Charlie Eckhart will have charge of the Old Fiddlers' Contest at the Old Settlers' Reunion July 4th. Mr. Eckhart informs us that there will be a contest for the old fiddlers and also one for the younger fiddlers. A fine violin is to be offered as first prize in the Old Fiddlers' Contest, and only fiddlers residing in Bandera county, who are over 45 years old may enter this contest. The prize for the winner in the young men's contest has not been decided upon. Any resident of Bandera county, age from 12 to 45, may enter the second contest. Full particulars will be published later.

Quilters Over 70.

It has been decided to offer a gold thimble as a prize to the lady over 70 years old who does the best quilting in the quilting contest at the Old Settlers' Reunion. This in addition to the prizes announced in our last week's issue. There must be at least three quilters in the contest. Mrs. Chas. Eckhart will have charge of the quilting contest, and all ladies who wish to enter the contest may obtain full particulars from her.

The Kerrville Chamber of Commerce is pulling for greater things for the Hill Country. Mr. Prescott, the president, and Mrs. Amy Wallace, the secretary, are ever alert to anything that should be brought to the Hill Country that will be of benefit or contribute to its upbuilding.

It was the editor's good pleasure to attend a luncheon at the Bluebonnet Hotel in Kerrville last Friday given by the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce for representatives of various towns of the Hill Country, among those representatives being Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Runge and Mr. and Mrs. Marschall of Mason, Jim Perl of Harper, I. E. and V. J. Adamietz of Bandera, Mr. Holekamp of Boerne, and several Kerrville citizens. At this luncheon a program was arranged to be presented before the meeting of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, mention of which is given elsewhere in this issue. President Prescott presided at the luncheon, and made the visitors feel that it was certainly good to be there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Meadows attended the meeting held by Rev. Truett, at Kerrville last Sunday.

Hill Country Beauties and Assets Presented

The beauties and assets of the hill country, both as an agricultural and live stock section and as a resort area, were presented to a San Antonio audience Monday, when the regular luncheon session of the members council was held. Coincident with the verbal pictures of the picturesque country near San Antonio, a charge of alienation of affection in favor of the Rio Grande Valley was brought against San Antonio.

The first speaker of the luncheon session was Representative Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg, who told of the agricultural resources of the country. This section, he averred, produces $2,000,000 in cotton, more than $800,000 in oats, $300,000 in wheat, $500,000 in corn and an unknown amount in grain sorghum, $200,000 in truck crops, $1,000,000 in dairy products and poultry, and from $750,000 to $1,000,000 in pecans. In one county alone, he declared, more pecans were produced in one year than the whole State of Georgia.

The prosperity of the hill country, he continued, is one of the assets of San Antonio, and it is content to share its prosperity with San Antonio. It was he who declared that the hill country is jealous of San Antonio's affection.

Representative Roscoe Runge of Mason spoke on the live stock industry of the hill country, declaring that between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 worth of live stock is produced annually in that section, and that 50 tons of all kinds are marketed in San Antonio. The figures, he explained, are exclusive of the wool and mohair industry, which amounts to fully $2,500,000 in Kerrville alone.

J. Marvin Hunter of Bandera told of the highways and scenery, outlining in particular several loop scenic trips from San Antonio to Bandera, then across the divide to Kerrville, and on to Junction, Mason and Burnet, or else back from Kerrville by Fredericksburg or by Boerne. These routes are unsurpassed anywhere in Texas for scenic beauty, he declared. Later W. H. Furlong of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce told that the local organization has complete logs of all these routes.

Charles L. Mason, president of the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce, spoke on camp sites and hotels, explained that special efforts have been made to open the streams to fishing, and that comfortable camp sites are available over the entire section at 25 cents a day a car. Comfortable hotels offer accommodations at reasonable prices, he said. He closed with a plea for support of the movement to get winter tourists, and congratulated San Antonio's success in securing a 100-foot roadway along the Fredericksburg Road.

Sam C. Bell spoke briefly on the success of this enterprise and asked for the endorsement of the members council of the Chamber of Commerce. H. E. Hildebrand spoke on the assets of both San Antonio and the hill country, and urged a movement to give publicity to these assets.

Walter Walthall of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce presided and Eugene Prescott of Kerrville was chairman of the day.

Among the visitors from the hill country present at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. James Perl of Harper, Mrs. Amy Wallace of Kerrville, I. E. Adamietz of Bandera, C. Y. Billings of Bandera, John G. Morris of Kerrville, J. D. Motley of Ballinger, Walter M. Martin, Will Marshall, Lamar Thaxton and Elgin Kothmann, all of Mason.

C. M. Holekamp of Boerne was to speak on the poultry industry in the hill country, but he was not present.—San Antonio Express.

Roy E. Richards writes the New Era that his cousin, Henry Palmer, aged 21, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Palmer, died at Brownwood on May 19, and was buried at Utica, the home of his parents. The young man had recently answered the call to the ministry, after attending Howard Payne College at Brownwood. He was well and favorably known at Medina, where his father was pastor of the Baptist church for some time.

Lee Johnson, of Rocksprings, was a business visitor here Friday.

The Old Settlers' Reunion.

The reunion of the Old Settlers of Bandera County will be held at Mansfield Park, on Tuesday, July 4th and 5th. There will be an old fashioned tournament, baseball, bronco busting, calf roping, goat roping, steer riding, beauty contest for girls over sixty-five years old, beauty contest for boys over forty years old, quilting contest for ladies, pie eating contest, fiddlers' contests for old men and for young men. The best fiddler in the old men's contest will receive a fiddle with bow and case. Prize in young men's contest will be announced later. All fiddlers who expect to enter are requested to communicate with Chas. Eckhart, who will have charge of this contest. Ladies who will enter the quilting contest should notify Mrs. Charles Eckhart.

A prize of five dollars in cash will be given to the person who brings the largest family to the reunion from Frontier Times headquarters.

It will be a great reunion, the best ever held. The old timers are coming from everywhere to meet their boyhood and girlhood friends here. Two big platforms will be erected, one for the young folks to dance the modern dances on, and the other for the old folks to swing their corners and indulge in the old time dances. There will be jazz music on one platform and fiddle music on the other. And if that music don't inspire you we know of nothing that will.

And each day of the reunion there will be a big basket dinner, the kind you have looked forward to for a long time.

Old settlers of the county are urged to get their badges. The membership fee in the Old Settlers' Association is one dollar per year, which entitles you to a badge. The badge admits you free at the gate and barbecue dinner. All without badges will be charged 50 cents admission.

Died in San Antonio.

Ben R. Callahan, aged 23, died at his home in San Antonio last Monday, after a short illness. The remains were brought to Pipe Creek and interment was made in Pipe Creek cemetery Tuesday afternoon, the funeral services being conducted by Elder J. C. Bell, a Christian minister, of San Antonio.

Deceased was the son of Mrs. Ed Callaham, and formerly resided in Bandera county. He is survived by his mother, two brothers, Elbert E. and John H. Callaham; three sisters, Mrs. John Love, Mrs. Edna McClellon, and Mrs. Ruth Laird. He was a young man of good character and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. The New Era extends condolence and sympathy to the bereaved family.

I'll meet you at the Old Settlers' Reunion at Mansfield Park, Bandera, July 4th and 5th

The Old Fiddlers' Contest.

There's going to be music at the Old Settlers' reunion this year—real music, too, when that fiddlers contest is pulled off. Charlie Eckhart is in charge of this feature, and he has hung up as first prize a splendid fiddle with handsome case and bow, all strung up and ready to play. There will be a contest for the young fellows too, but the first prize in that has not yet been announced. We are talking about the old fiddlers contest now; that's the contest where the old boys play the old time tunes, such as "Sally Goodin'," "Rye Whiskey," Fisher's Hornpipe," "Buffalo Gal," "Leather Britches," "Black Jack Grove," "Mollie, Put the Kettle On," "Cotton-eyed Joe," and such old favorites that tickle the toes and awaken poetry in the heels of those who used to knock the back-step or the buck-and-wing to the sweet strains of "Hell Broke Loose in Georgia," "Wagner," "The Devil's Dream," "The Midnight Serenade" and like tunes, when played by B. F. and J. J. Denton, Tom Gray, John Adams, Will Mayes, Charlie Schmidtke, Andy Jones, Bob Mayfield, and other old time fiddlers of this section. The crop of young fiddlers now coming on is promising, too, and forty years from now they will probably be entertaining the rising generation of that day with what we now pleased to term "modern music." The fiddling at the reunion will be fine and you can bet on it.

Get Badges in Town.

Mrs. Chas. Eckhart, secretary of the Bandera County Old Settlers' Association, informs us that she has placed the badges for members of the Association in the T. S. Dennis Jewelry store, where they may be obtained by those wanting them. This is for the convenience of all.

His stock is arranged in convenient shape for the customer to make selection and the price is marked on everything in plain figures. Mr. Cosgrove announces that he will make two deliveries daily to any part of the city, from 10 to 11 a. m. and from 4 to 5 p. m. He will appreciate your patronage.

Appointed County Attorney.

We learn that John Atkins, former Bandera young man who is now engaged in the practice of law at Midland, has been appointed County Attorney for Midland county. John's many friends here will be pleased to learn that he is meeting with success there.

A big crowd was in attendance each day to enjoy the sports and amusements provided for their entertainment. There was something doing every minute. Three Killed as Auto Upsets

Kenedy, Texas, June 21.—In an automobile accident four miles south of Kenedy at 6:30 Tuesday morning in the immediate vicinity of Green's station on the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railroad, E. H. Henke, manager of the Beeville Lumber Company of Beeville Lumber Company of Beeville, his sister, Mrs. Hedwig Jones, and her little daughter, Peggy, 7, were killed and the following badly bruised: Olive and Clara Henke, sisters of E. H. Henke; Mrs. E. H. Henke, who was driving at the time the incident happened, and Mrs. E. Henke, mother of E. H. Henke.

This accident happened on a good stretch of road just after the car had rounded a curve. The big car turned completely over as it left the road. However, it was not very badly damaged and was righted and driven away. The parties were on their way to San Antonio when the accident occurred.

The bodies of the victims and the wounded were taken to Beeville by a Kenedy ambulance driven by Eugene Echols.

J. M. HUNTER,
Editor and Publisher
MISS JENNETTE HUNTER
Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The greatest industrial and historical edition of a Texas newspaper was issued by the San Antonio Express last Tuesday morning. It contained one hundred and seventy-two pages of splendid articles bearing on the history and development of Southwest Texas, showing pictures of early day scenes, along with modern scenes. It is a wonderful edition and of value to every person interested in Texas in any way. The San Antonio Express is doing more to develop the resources of Southwest Texas than any newspaper, and the big edition just published shows the spirit of enterprise which has always characterized that newspaper's attitude toward the upbuilding of this section. We congratulate the management of the Express upon the production of the great newspaper.

Bandera should be incorporated. Now, this assertion may come as a shock to some folk, who think a town of this size does not need incorporation. But Bandera is not going to grow very much until we incorporate. And that's that.

The movement to erect a monument to the memory of the Veteran Amasa Clark has been given new impetus by the action of the Pioneer Freighters' Association at San Antonio. Will this monument be placed in Bandera, or will it go to San Antonio? Bandera can have it if there is sufficient interest developed to place it here.

The Old Settlers' Reunion is only a few days away. Make your plans to be here and bring somebody with you, for the reunion this year is going to be the best ever. There will be something doing every minute of the time. A cash purse of five dollars will be given to the native born Bandera county family on the grounds July 4th. All old settlers wearing the badge of the Old Settlers' Association will be admitted free each day. Get your badge at once from Mrs. Chas. Eckhardt, the secretary.

The road from Bandera to Utopia, through Sabinal, is in good shape. Some stretches of the road between Bandera and Tarpley need repairing, and one or two places between Tarpley and Sego Post need fixing, but altogether it may be considered a good road. Commissioner Reeves on this end of the line and Commissioner Porter on the other side of the mountain have done some good work, and when some good work is done in connection with this early start there at that section a good highway from Bandera to Utopia will be completed.

The Amasa Clark Monument.

Through annual reunions and various activities, the Pioneer Freighters' Association endeavors to keep alive the spirit which subdued the wild prairies and laid the foundations of present-day Texas. That mission could be served in no more effective and appropriate way than by erecting a memorial to Amasa Clarke of Bandera, one of their number, who died last January in his one hundred and first year.

Mr. Clark was honorary life president of that organization—one of the many well-deserved distinctions which his fellows conferred upon him during a long, active career. This recent edition revealed those sturdy traits which marked Texas' early settlers and, indeed, were characteristic of the pioneer upon all the ever-shifting American frontier.

Those qualities embraced courage, perseverance and resourcefulness in enduring the hardships, privations and dangers, as well as the isolation, of life in the open. Along with it all was a Spartan simplicity. And this veteran exhibited a broad tolerance which could understand and appreciate the new age. He was quite at home in the Twentieth Century.

The sculptor who carves the monument doubtless will portray Amasa Clark, the pioneer, in the full flush of young manhood, rather than the centenarian. Yet, to be accurate, his work should not overlook that the last-mentioned side of the subject's character. Although the pioneer may be indulged his retrospection, let it be borne in mind that he is essentially forward-looking. Faith in the future is the motive force of his career; no quality is more characteristic than that. By honoring the memory of Amasa Clark the Pioneer Freighters will do honor to themselves. Too, this worthy movement should command the generous support of patriotic Texans generally.—Think, in San Antonio Express.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun looks good in its new size, seven columns, twelve ems to the column width. The Sun is steadily growing and we predict that inside of another year or two that popular weekly will be housed in a handsome building and will be using a Goss Perfecting press. The Salter boys, who publish the Sun, are real live wires, and it was fortunate day for Kerrville when they located there.

It was the editor's happy privilege to meet Capt. J. C. Ware at the Utopia barbecue last Saturday afternoon, Brother Ware informed us that he had settled on the Sabinal at Vanderpool and that now that Uncle Sam has completed the road to that point he will move his family to the new location. Brother Ware is a good man, and we are glad to welcome him to our midst.

Pleased With the Hill Country

L. F. Merl, secretary of the Dilley Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Joe Nagy, of Dilley were callers at the New Era office last Wednesday, and were glad to note the general prosperous condition of the Bandera section. This was Mr. Nagy's first trip to the Hill Country, and he was much elated over the splendid summer climate found here. Mr. Merl, who spent practically all of the summer of '25 here, is loud in his praises for, the Bandera country, and has ever since boosted this section as a summer resort. He commented very favorably upon the Hill Country meeting with the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce on Monday of last week, as much good can be accomplished by the close co-operation of the commercial bodies of the Hill Country with that of San Antonio.

Mr. Merl and Mr. Nagy were on a trip of inspection of the larger poultry plants in the Hill Country, and visited the Ed Mansfield ranch while here, conferring with Mr. Mansfield on the raising of sheep. Mr. Nagy is a prominent farmer of his section, having over 2000 acres in cultivation, and he has had irrigated farming. He just recently shipped 11 cars of fine Irish onions from his farm, each car bringing $1,000 for around $15,000.00. During the winter and early spring months Mr. Nagy raises spinach, onions and other truck crops, followed them on with cotton, corn, feed stuffs, etc. He raises and sells several car loads of hogs during each year, which are fed and fattened from products raised on his farm. In addition to these he sells a few steers, and his experience this year has been very satisfactory indeed.

Mr. Nagy set out a small orange and grape fruit orchard this year in addition to his home orchard of various kinds of deciduous fruits, and fruiting date palms. He has also just installed a poultry farm, fully equipped, which is a new activity on this South Texas farm.

Mr. Merl notes many improvements in Bandera and feels that this city has a great future before it as both an attractive summer and winter resort, aside from the agricultural advantages offered by Bandera county. The Dilley section is fast developing. Mr. Merl said, and a great deal of activity prevails there in the development of the shallow water strata there, the citrus industry, and general horticulture. The Central Power and Light Co. has completed a high power line from San Antonio to Dilley, and are now completing a high line from Dilley west to Asherton and Catarica, a distance of over 50 miles. The high line goes south of Dilley as far as Cotulla. There is an extensive irrigated forced road from San Antonio to Dilley, and a good gravel road from the Eagle Pass, which will be topped some time in the near future.

Over 150 acres have been set out at Dilley in citrus and grapefruit trees this year, with over 1000 acres of citrus trees growing now in the famous Winter Garden District of Texas, of which Dilley is the Gateway.

Mr. Nagy was accompanied by Mrs. Nagy, her sister, Mrs. Frank Konsal, also of Dilley, and Mrs. Annie Zwiebach, of Cotulla. Mrs. Merl, wife of Mr. Merl, and Mrs. Nagy's mother, Mrs. Kerrville, Fred Kerrville, Comfort and Boerne were visited before returning home.

Old Settlers Badges.

The badges for the Old Settlers have arrived, and may be secured from Mrs. Chas. Eckhardt at the reunion grounds. The badges start on account of these. This year's badge is red in color. The honorary badge, issued to those who have resided in the county more than sixty years, is purple in color and is never changed. Members who wear the purple badge do not pay dues. Those who have resided over twenty years, but less than sixty years, should at once notify Mrs. Eckhardt of their residence, so that their badges may be secured in time for the reunion. Do not wait until the last minute, as some confusion may cause your badge to be overlooked.

We found our brother, A. W. Hunter, at the Utopia barbecue last Saturday, and published a Camp Wood (Texas) paper, which contained a write-up of the Old Settlers Reunion July 4th and 5th. Come over to see us.—Mansfield Messenger.

Mansfield is likewise invited to the Old Settlers Reunion July 4th and 5th.

Another Beauty Contest.

The New Era will put on another beauty contest at the Old Settlers Reunion July 4th, when we will give a ten-pound stick of striped candy to the boy over sixty-five years old, who gets the most votes for being the best looking chap in the county. Ladies winners in such a contest are barred from entry in this contest. We all know that John Rose, Andy Jones and Tommie Laxson are the best looking boys anywhere, for they have won the candy at former reunions, but there are other good looking old boys who should be considered, and we want them nominated; not that we begrudge the honors heretofore bestowed, but ever since the three boys named above won the candy they have been inclined to cry over their good looks to the mortification and exasperation of other handsome ones. The victory last reunion had the effect of discouraging Andy Mansfield and Jack Anderson, for since the candy was awarded to Tommie Laxson these two boys have seemed to lose all interest in improving their good looks. Andy never combs his hair now, and Jack has been heard to wish that he would go bald-headed. But by giving them a chance at winning that big stick of candy this year we think they can be induced to "spruce up" and make the winning race against each other.

Do you read Frontier Times?

Do you read Frontier Times?

A Good Yarn.

An editor down in Texas, says the Stillwater (Minn.) Gazette, has been accused on several occasions of not telling the truth in his newspaper.

In the newspaper parlance, his ire was roused, and he announced:

"A lot of people in this town fail to see with the editor and brand him a liar when the ordinary mistakes of life show up in the paper. You have a little charity and fellow-feeling for every man in town but the editor. You claim you want the facts and d—d if we don't give them to you. Read the next issue of this sheet 'and you will see facts with the bark off.

"I admit that I have been a liar, an editorial liar ever since I have been editing this sheet, but I have never printed a lie in these columns except to keep somebody's feelings from being hurt. I am not afraid of any of you and I'll be dad-blamed if I don't print the truth from now on or until you get out of the habit of calling me a liar every time I make some unavoidable typographical errors. Now watch my smoke!"

And here are some paragraphs of his "smoke" in the next issue:

"John Bonnin, the laziest man in town, made a trip to Belleview yesterday.

"Rev. Sparks preached last Sunday at the local church. His sermon was punk and uninteresting except some stuff he quoted from Bob Ingersoll, for which he failed to give Bob credit. He also cited a few passages from William Gilbert Munsey's sermons and had the unlimited gall to palm it off as his own.

"Tom Stordin married Miss Caroline Meadows last Tuesday at the county seat. It was a generally known, but the marriage was brought about many days by Remington shotgun manipulated by the bride's father. Tom concluded that marrying was the healthiest thing he could do until other arrangements had been made.

"Regus Lloyd, cashier of the State Bank of Willow Grove, died last Wednesday and was buried by the Odd Fellows at Pleasant Mound Cemetery. He had been taking this paper for several years and had not paid a cent. We thought that being a banker he would certainly pay some time. We will now try to count for two bits worth of groceries."

"Married—Miss Susie Scruggs and Horace Griffin. The bride is a very ordinary girl who flirts with every traveling man she meets and never helped her mother much during her life all put together. She is anything but a beauty, resembling a gravel pit in the fact and was black as dirt. The groom is a natural born loafer and bum. He never did a lick of work until his step-daddy ran him off from home last fall. He went to the county seat and rather than starve to death he accepted a job as chambermaid in a livery stable. As soon as his ma found out where he was she went up and got him and brought him home. They will reside at the home of his wife's father and he has no definite plans for the future. Susie will have a hard road to hoe."

The story didn't say what happened after the issue came out, but reprinting that might have been one way to get even. Those who are "sore" to howl time when the paper makes a trifling mistake.

Among the Bandera people who attended the barbecue at Utopia Last Friday and Saturday were Mrs. Ed Barker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Eckhardt, Howard Eckhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Ikns, Orchestra, Mrs. Bertie Engel, Mrs. Wooster, Jake Mansfield and family, Joe Mansfield and family, Mrs. Ben Mansfield, Mrs. Robert Mansfield, Mrs. Ben Mansfield, Jr., and Mrs. Hugh Mansfield, Mrs. Ed Mansfield, Hayden Mansfield, Tom Robertson, Mrs. Ed Mansfield and family, Mrs. Ed Florence and family, Jack Mansfield and family, Mrs. Ed Mansfield and family, Mrs. Ed Mansfield and family, Mrs. Ed

The Old Settlers' Reunion.

The Fourth annual reunion of the Old Settlers of Bandera County will take place at Mansfield Park next Monday and Tuesday, July 4th and 5th. The reunion this year promises to be the best we have had, and it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance. Everything is in readiness for the opening next Monday morning. Members of the Bandera County Old Settlers' Association will be admitted by passes free, while others will pay for entrance at the gate and will be furnished with a dinner ticket which must be presented at the barbecue headquarters for dinner.

The old time sports will be very much in evidence, rodeo, riding and roping, old time tournament, old time dancing, quilting contest, fiddlers' contests, beauty contests, pie eating contest, etc. Baseball games each day. Freddie Smith's band has been engaged to be secured to furnish music. There will be cold drink stands, and other stands to supply the wants of the multitude.

It is going to be a great event this old settlers' reunion, and many will meet their friends of long ago, and talk over old times together.

The Quilting Contest.

The quilting contest at the Old Settlers' Reunion starts at ten o'clock Monday morning. There are prizes to be given in different age limits. We understand that quite a number of old ladies have entered this contest. The Friendship Quilt that will be made will be auctioned off on Tuesday, July 5th.

Car Taken Away.

A young man, known here as Harold Lewis, was arrested in San Antonio last Monday, and charged with automobile theft. It seems that the young man borrowed a Ford car from Mrs. Andrew Pyka Sunday, with the understanding that he would return it an hour or so. Instead of returning the car he went to San Antonio, accompanied by C. W. Davis. It is alleged that he was trying to dispose of the car when, arrested by police in that city.

Sheriff Hicks went to San Antonio Monday morning to confer with the case, and we understand that the young man is being held as a deserter from the United States army.

Get Your Badge.

Old settlers are urged to secure their membership badges at the jewelry store of T. S. Dennis before the opening of the big reunion.

It is desired that every old settler in the county be in this group. Mr. Rose has made the group picture each reunion, and does splendid work.

The Beauty Contest.

The votes are piling up in the New Era's beauty contest, as shown by this week's count. Next Monday at 10 o'clock a. m. the contest closes, and the final count will be made on the reunion grounds. All votes must be by that hour. A committee of three will be selected to count the votes, and their decision shall be final. This week we eliminate all contestants who have received less than 25 votes in the contest. For over two months the contest has been open and those who failed to receive more than 25 votes during this time could not hope to receive enough to entitle them to be prize during the remaining three days of the contest, and their elimination will materially aid the judges in counting the votes that have been cast.

"Who will win?" is a question that is asked on all sides. The handsome cedar chest of candy goes to the girl over sixty-five years old, who receives the largest number of votes, and the decision of the judges will be announced at the reunion grounds next Monday. We kindly asked that all votes to be deposited for next and last count be deposited in the box at the reunion grounds next Monday.

The standing as shown by this week's count is as follows:

Mrs. C. W. Harris	400
Mrs. J. A. Head	300
Mrs. Mattie Jones	300
Mrs. Harriett Chipman	140
Mrs. Nancy Buckelew	96
Mrs. J. V. Evans	96
Mrs. M. J. Hamilton	54
Mrs. Gabe Anderwald	43
Mrs. B. F. Langford, Sr	27
Mrs. Annie E. Brown	25

The Fiddlers' Contest.

The old fiddlers' contest, a feature of the Old Settlers' Reunion, will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, July 4th, on the old folks' platform. This contest is open to Bandera county fiddlers over forty-five years old, and the first prize will be a handsome fiddle with bow and case. The young fiddlers' contest immediately follows, and is open to young men of Bandera county up to forty-five years of age. A suitable first prize will be given. Each contestant will play three old time tunes of his own selection. Charles Eckhart will direct the fiddlers' contests, and those wanting information in regard to same should see him.

O. E. Bonnet was a business visitor in the city Tuesday, and paid this office an appreciated call.

W. M. S. Social.

The Baptist W. M. S. had a most enjoyable and profitable meeting Thursday June 23, at the home of Mrs. A. L. Mansfield.

A very interesting and instructive program on Baylor college was rendered aside from the regular program. Mrs. J. H. Gregory, (Nee: Miss Jessie Johnson) of Petersburg, gave some interesting facts concerning the college 30 years ago, and Miss Evelyn Mansfield gave the facts concerning the college today. Showing the wonderful progress that Baylor College has made. Baylor College is now a member of Southern Association of Colleges, making the eighth College in this Association.

The Baptist women of Texas are now endeavoring to raise $50,000 endowment fund for Baylor College. A free will offering, amounting to about $15 was taken.

A piano solo by Miss Ruth Davenport and a Baylor College chorus by Misses Aileen Cash, Ruth Corley, Ruth Davenport, and Selma Grace Mansfield accompanist, were much enjoyed by the Society.

After the program was rendered a delightful social hour was spent in conversation and speeches by the out-of-town guests.

The Society had as guests, Mrs. W. W. Cunningham, of Burkburnett; Mrs. A. B. Langford, of Mooring-port, La, Mrs. J. H. Gregory of Petersburg, Mrs. Ollie Tope of San Antonio, Mrs. J. V. Evans of Johnson, Burkburnett, Mrs. Lucy Perry of California, and Mrs. O. B. Surber and Mrs. R. A. Chipman of Bandera.

The following members were present: Mesdames W. J. Davenport Jr., J. H. Erwin, C. B. Meadows, H. Rose, Mrs. R. Price, G. S. Lane, D. W. Buck, J. E. Chisum, W. W. Coughran, A. Meadows and A. L. Mansfield.

Misses Aileen Cash, Eloise Corley, Ruth Davenport, Selma Grace and Evelyn Mansfield served the refreshments, consisting of ice tea, salad and sandwiches.

Sure Cure for Rheumatism.

If you are afflicted with rheumatism don't fail to be on hand at the Old Settler's Reunion and hear the old time fiddlers play the old tunes in the fiddlers' contest. The music that will be yanked out on that occasion is guaranteed to limber up your old rheumatic joints and with a little foot exercise your ailment will disappear.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. HUNTER,
Editor and Publisher
MISS JENNETTE HUNTER
Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Next Monday and Tuesday the Old Settlers of Bandera county will hold their fourth annual reunion. They will be here from everywhere, and will greet their friends of yesteryear. It will be a glorious gathering, and one that will not be forgotten soon.

You can easily afford to contribute a dollar or five dollars to the Amasa Clark monument. It will be a crying shame to allow this monument to be placed anywhere but in Bandera—a search on Bandera's good name. Let's raise the amount necessary for that monument, and do it at once. Don't wait for somebody to come and ask you to donate, but please do it send it right away. The subscription list will be at the reunion grounds.

A batch of votes in the New Era's beauty contest was received in the mail Monday which did not bear the contestant's name. The party sending in these votes may have the privilege of tolling in name of favorite if he or she will call at the office and so describe ticket, and state number sent, in order that it may be correct. We cannot count the ballots when we do not know who they are intended for.

For five years the New Era has been striving to provide enjoyment and entertainment for our pioneer citizens, and trying to keep alive old time manners, customs and traditions, by the organizations of the Bandera County Old Settlers' Association in annual reunion here. We believe the old timers appreciate our efforts, which have been given without any hope of financial returns and always at great cost to us. We get disencouraged sometimes, and feel that there is no use carrying on further, but when some old timer comes in and tells us how much pleasure and enjoyment he gets out of the reunion, we feel amply repaid for whatever we have done, and there is born a new determination to keep at the task. God bless our old pioneers. What would Bandera county be today if they had never come here and developed the country?

Raise in Rates.

Heretofore the New Era has been charging five cents per line for reader advertising. Other newspapers are charging more than that, and after July first our rate for local readers and legal notices will be 7½ cents per line. The display rate will remain at 25 cents per inch per week.

When a Man is Fifty

Fifty, in a way is an epochal age, asserts the Detroit News. Middle life is behind and is still ahead. At 50 it behooves a man to stop and look around, reflect and take stock. He is no longer young nor is he old. It was upward of 50 that many celebrities did their immortal best, as for example, Mark Twain. Sir Walter Scott and Victor Hugo. In the nature of things fifteen working years remain less pivotal, perhaps, but more revealing and assuring than 40. When a man is fifty he knows his friends and who are not. The sure years have exposed the fair weather kind and likewise confirmed confidence in the true-blue variety with whom constancy is a thing of honor. At 50 one is not unduly elated by triumph nor easily depressed by disaster. Failure and success have lost something of their power to cast down or exalt.

At 50 one knows fairly well his own powers and limitations. He is surer of himself than he formerly was, yet withal not quite so willing to tell the world. When a man is 50 he knows what he likes in food and drink; in plays and books; what is more important, he knows what is best for him, having proved the same by experience often costly and sometimes painful.

At 50 one has seen enough of the "give and take" of life to believe that a fairer balance is struck here and now than seemed possible or desirable when say he was 25. At 50 there is more of the joy of working less of the drudgery of toil. And the sweetest muse of 50 is the laughter of little children, particularly one's own children.

Eulogistic

I go to the boneyard tomorrow to see an old friend laid away; the pastor in anguish and sorrow is thinking up nice things to say. He is always up to the preacher to give us a boost when we die; and being a sensitive creature, he hates to consider a knock. And, yet, with his elegant diction, afar from the truth he must tread; he has to deal largely in fiction when appraising the average dead. The man who shortly will be planted was as mean as mortal can be, few virtues to him can be granted, few stars in his record we see. So I don't envy the pastor who will speak for 12 minutes or more, and show that his death's a disaster and ill can only deplore. And some will be thoughtlessly saying, "The pastor should give an ell, but give en'n a man a flaying and all his delinquencies tell." Alas for the hearts unforgiving. I side with the kindly divine, who softens the grief of the living by giving their dead ones a shine. Oh let us be earnest and pure, beginning such conduct in youth and then when the sexton comes nigh us, the preacher can hand out the truth. With righteous placed to our credit, the priest will be able to talk of virtue, and when he has said it, no mourner can stand up and knock.—Walt Mason.

"There is a Reason"

The Amasa Clark Monument.

Shall Bandera county erect a monument to the memory of her first settler, or shall we let this opportunity pass and flaunt to the world that we are prone to forget our pioneers? A movement has been started to erect a monument to the memory of Veteran Amasa Clark, who died early this year, aged 101 years. The New Era has been agitating the erection of this monument, but there has been little or no interest manifested. Now the United States Army and the Pioneer Freighters Association of Fort Sam Houston and San Antonio, respectively, have taken the matter in hand and will erect a memorial to Amasa Clark. This memorial should be placed in Bandera, which was the home of the old pioneer for about seventy-five years, but in order to get it Bandera must raise at least $500 to match the amount raised by the organizations mentioned. Will we raise that amount? or will we sit back and let it be said that Bandera is too slow or too indifferent? At the Old Settlers' reunion next Monday a subscription will be convenient to all who wish to contribute toward the monument in any sum from $2.00 to $100. Let everybody contribute to this worthy cause, as liberally as possible, and thus keep clean Bandera's name from the charge of being indifferent. Let's act! The following letter from Colonel J. C. McArthur of Fort Sam Houston, is self-explanatory:

Mr. J. Marvin Hunter,
Bandera, Texas.
My dear Hunter:

Mr. William B. Krenpkau has been to see me with reference to the proposed monument in memory of Amasa Clark, Mexican War Veteran, and former member of the 3rd United States Infantry, who died near your town. Bandera County when approaching his 102nd birthday.

This seemed to me a mighty fine scheme and I immediately stated that I believed the monument should be erected at Bandera since that had been his home for more than seventy-five years. I suggested that Mr. Krempkau take up the matter with you and see what the citizens of the town and adjacent zone of the county of Bandera would do in the matter of raising the necessary fund.

He tells me that you have been unsuccessful in raising the money and that, however, he has through the Pioneer Freighters Association been able to raise some Two Hundred Dollars. Through my efforts the 3rd United States Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, have also raised nearly one hundred dollars, making a total of about three hundred dollars. I am writing to suggest that the monument should be erected at Bandera, but feel that the town and county should raise at least as much as these organizations are interested in the scheme.

If Mr. Krempkau is correct and you have been unable to raise the money and have given up hope of participation then, I believe the monument should be erected either in San Antonio or at Fort Sam Houston. I would be glad and honored to have the monument here but feel that we should give you one last chance to obtain this memorial for your town, therefore if you are going to obligate yourself to raise as much money as will be contributed by the Pioneer Freighter's Association and the Army and up to five hundred dollars will you please notify me of that fact at your very earliest convenience.

The monument will be erected without any possible doubt and the location is the only point at issue. All money so far contributed is distinctly and emphatically for a monument to Amasa Clark and not for any general purpose.

Since it is desired to have this monument erected and dedicated by September 3rd of this year, which would have been Amasa Clark's 102nd birthday, it is apparent we have no time to lose and I will therefore thank you for definite and prompt action in the matter.

I hope to get up to Bandera soon to see you personally.

Sincerely
J. C. McARTHUR,
Colonel, U. S.

I am still of the opinion that the monument should be erected at Bandera, but feel that the town and county should contribute as much as those outside who are interested in the scheme.

If Mr. Krenpkau is correct and you have been unable to raise the money and have given up hope of participation then I believe the monument should be erected either in San Antonio or at Fort Sam Houston. We here at Fort Sam Houston would be glad and honored to have the monument here but feel that we should give you one last chance to obtain this memorial for your town, therefore if you are willing to obligate yourselves to raise as much money as will be contributed by the Pioneer Freighter's Association and the Army and up to five hundred dollars will you please notify me of that fact at your very earliest convenience.

The monument will be erected without any possible doubt and the location is the only point at issue. All money so far contributed is distinctly and emphatically for a monument to Amasa Clark and not for any general purpose.

Since it is desired to have this monument erected and dedicated by September 3rd of this year, which would have been Amasa Clark's 102nd birthday, it is apparent we have no time to lose and I will therefore thank you for definite and prompt action in the matter.

I hope to get up to Bandera soon to see you personally.

Sincerely,
J. C. McARTHUR,
Colonel, G. S.

Where Life Still Is Simple

In some sections of the Staked Plains of West Texas life is more or less primitive. A Federal judge of Texas tells a story illustrative of conditions in a wide and rather desolate area of that part of the state. According to his account, a traveler on horseback, was making his way thru an especially remote district. After hours of lonely riding he approached a tiny adobe house sitting in the midst of an unbroken expanse of alkali and mesquite and bunch grass. Just as he came abreast of this forlorn homestead, a thin, undernourished woman in a faded wrapper darted out of the door and across the road and hid herself in the chapparrel before the traveler either could hail her or inquire into the cause of her flight. As he checked up, puzzled to account for this curious behavior on her part, a filthy, but apparently about 14 years old, came hurriedly, forth from behind the little building.

"Mister," he wailed, "did you see a woman runnin' away jest now?"

"I did," said the stranger. "Who was she?"

"That was my maw."

"Your maw, eh? And what was she running away from?"

"I reckon she's runnin' away from me—dogone it!"

"Why, you infernal young scoundrel!" exclaimed the traveler, "I've half a mind to get down off this horse and give you a good thrashing. What do you mean by chasing your poor mother about over the country like this? What has she done to you?"

"She's a' aimin' to wean me," said the youth.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

What Might Have Been

Dr. Frank Crane in "How to Sell" says a clerk in a dry goods store told him this story, which, however, you take it, points out an excellent moral. It shows how very important it is to have an education if one would get rich. Listen!

There was a man in our town who could neither read nor write. He was of foreign birth and had never been in school. He had a pleasing address and some natural gifts.

He heard that the position of sexton at the church was vacant, and being out of a job he applied for the post. Having good recommendations and being of sober habits and industrious, he was favorably received. The trustees were about to grant him the place when one of them asked him if he could read and write.

He answered no. They declined to employ him. It would never do to have a sexton who was entirely illiterate.

He had a friend who had a tobacco shop. To him he told his failure.

"I'll tell you what I'll do for you Tony," said his friend. Here is a box of cigars I'll give you. Go out and sell them. Go ahead."

He sold the cigars. With the proceeds he brought more. And so on. He discovered that he was a good salesman. His business thrived. His middle name was business. He had in his veins the blood of profit.

A little while and he had a dozen stores, all doing well.

Then he bought a lot and store building. He sold at an advance He pursued his real estate operations and was uniformly successful.

One day he came into his bank out of breath and said to the cashier:

"Say I want a hundred thousand dollars, and want it quick. Could you let me have it? If I can get it before three o'clock I stand a chance to make a big killing. Go on now, lend it to me."

The cashier looked at him seriously and smiled. "What do you want to borrow money for, Tony? Do you know how much you have in here?

"No"

"Your balance is over $250,000.000."

"Gee!"

"Didn't you know."

"No. I don't know nothing about figures. I can't even read and write."

"Good heavens!" cried the cashier. "What might you have done if you had had an education?"

"Well," replied Tony, after a moment's hesitation, "I might have been a sexton."

You Can See Ideals.

The other evening I ran across this human paragraph in a volume otherwise of technical interest:

"A man, as he walks in the crowd, feels himself to be an ordinary individual. But in the back of his mind is a more than half-formed phantasy: 'I seem to be an ordinary man, but I am really a man of great importance. People take me for just one of themselves; dressed like anyone else, they don't realize what an extraordinary man they have in their midst. A crisis, an accident to the King—I spring to the rescue and everyone exclaims, 'Who is this?' And then unsuspected genius in rags!" At last I come into my own."

This is as true to human nature as scratching a mosquito bite.

Everyone has enacted such beguiling little dramas of the mind in which he plays the hero and "comes into his own."

Every crowd of people is a stage whereon meek homeward bound clerks are enacting in their minds just what they would do if a burly rowdy should insult a beautiful girl, or an insane man run amuck with a razor.

They strike the villian down, and "come into their own."

On all days we catch glimpses and flashes of what people imagine "their own" to be like.

I've played golf for thirty years and have never been on my game yet," a man is quoted as saying. His idea of what "his game" was like was something supernatural and unattainable. The actual game he played was merely a failure to come up to "his own."

When a woman says, "I have had dozens of photographs taken and have never had a good picture yet," it indicates that her conception of her own" includes an idea of personal pulchritude with her features, struggle as they will, can't live up to.

It is a truism that, in this world, sooner or later we get about what we deserve. We really "come into our own."

The reason we so rarely realize that what we get is "our own" is that our conception of what it is like is based on our desires instead of our deserts.—Dr. Frank Crane.

What Are We Here For.

In the following editorial the Florence (Ariz.) Edette carries the reader all the way through life, from the cradle to the grave:

What is it all about, anyway? We came into this world without our consent, and the first thing we do is to make a noise, like something to eat. We get it and are not satisfied. We are clothed and we kick and squall because we are too hot or too cold. We get the colic and the nurse takes a delight in curing us by knocking the breath and colic out of us as she kicks her knee into our little stomach. We struggle in through the "drives," the teething period, summer complaint, the whooping cough, the chickenpox, the mumps, get the hide tanned off our backs in the swimming hole and finally get poison oak and freckles and have to go to school and learn that a is a and that three and a person, place or thing, that an adjective qualifies something, that adverb something else, etc., All of which doesn't seem to amount to a thing in our young lives, but we have to keep on struggling with our books to keep Neighbor Jones boy from getting better grades than we do, otherwise it would be a reflection upon the intelligence of the family. Then we started out to write a serious editorial and we are going to do it if it takes a column. We struggle from the cradle to the grave, and what have we accomplished when we reach that last resting place? We may gain a great name in the world and we may gain great wealth or both, but we are never satisfied, and some of the people will call us great, but perhaps more of them will call us a crook, a highbrow, an imitation, a fraud, and many other uncomplimentary things and after we are gone the dirt that covers our bodies shuts out everything and the world rocks along just as if we had never lived in it. The heretofore and his pleasures and the millionaire American goes the same. Could you say which of the two finds the most of it? We don't know, but those of us who have chased the evasive fairy for forty or fifty years can testify that most of it has been in spots of those in between have ever caught up with real, lasting, unalloyed pleasure in this world. There are just three things to be gained in the life we are trusted with here. One is to help living souls ascend and make the world a better place for future generations to live in, and the third and only selfish reason for our being here is to make sure that after death we will go to a place where real happiness and pleasure are found.

A Conservative Investment

Safety of the Investment

In the selection of investments men who lack experience are often misled by extravagant promises. They are told of the extraordinary dividends they will realize, and fail to make sure of the safety of the principal. In too many cases investors lose all control of their money and even transfer their rights thereto to the party issuing the securities.

A Specific Contract

An investment in our Triple Option Policy is different. It is based on millions of assets and embodies a specific contract stating in plain language and figures just what the returns will be each and every year that the investment runs. Furthermore, it reverses the usual rule of investments in this way: When a man invests his money in this Policy he enters into an agreement to deposit annually with the Company a given sum of money, the amount depending on the age of the investor and the designated face value of his contract. Yet the principal sum of the investment selected—for any amount up to $50,000,000 will be in full force and effect as soon as the contract is approved and issued to the investor and one deposit made by him.

Unquestioned Stability

This contract has ever quality of a conservative investment and its value and stability cannot be questioned. It is based upon mathematical facts, upon a plan of indemnity which has been in operation for over a century, and found to be sound in every way. It is the one form of investment which insures to the investor the whole principal sum for which the contract is made. It gives him the satisfaction of knowing that his loved ones are protected and would derive immediate benefit should the Grim Reaper come unexpectedly.

Absolute Protection

Rich and poor alike are invesing in this Policy because it conforms to modern business methods and eliminates the element of chance. It safeguards a man's most sacred interests and fully protects his family and estate. The ordinary will may too often be broken. Why not invest in an unbreakable will, one that is safe, sound and profitable—A TRIPLE OPTION POLICY?

A Conservative Investment

Safety of the Investment

In the selection of investments men who lack experience are often misled by extravagant promises. They are told of the extraordinary dividends they will realize and fail to make sure of the safety of the principal. In too many cases investors lose all control of their money and even transfer their rights thereto to the party issuing the securities.

A Specific Contract

An investment in our Triple Option Policy is different. It is based on millions of assets and embodies a specific contract stating in plain language and figures just what the returns will be each and every year that the investment runs. Furthermore, it reverses the usual rule of investments in this way; When a man invests his money in this Policy he enters into an agreement to deposit annually with the Company a given sum of money, the amount depending on the age of the investor and the designated face value of his contract. Yet the principal sum of the investment selected—for not any amount up to 850,000,000 will be in full force and effect as soon as the contract is approved and issued to the investor and one deposit made by him.

Unquestioned Stability

This contract has ever quality of a conservative investment and the value and stability cannot be questioned. It is based upon mathematical facts, upon a plan of indemnity which has been in operation for over a century, and found to be sound in every way. It is the one form of investment which insures to the investor the whole principal sum for which the contract is made. It gives him the satisfaction of knowing that his loved ones are protected and would derive immediate benefit should the Grim Reaper come unexpectedly.

Absolute Protection

Rich and poor alike are invesing in this Policy because it conforms to modern business methods and eliminates the element of chance. It safeguards a man's most sacred interests and fully protects his family and estate. The ordinary will may too often be broken. Why not invest in an unbreakable will, one that is safe, sound and profitable—A TRIPLE OPTION POLICY!

The Old Settlers' Reunion.

The attendance on Monday, opening day, at the fourth annual reunion of the Old Settlers of Bandera county was a record-breaker, the crowd being estimated at between 5,000 and 6,000. On Tuesday the crowd was not so large, there being probably 1,000 people on the grounds throughout the last day. The first day's crowd came from everywhere, and was so great that the barbecue dinner provided was not sufficient to feed the multitude, many being turned away at the pit. This was very unfortunate and is greatly regretted, but it was discovered too late to be remedied.

The New Era has not space to give a full account of everything that took place, or mention all of the visitors from different places. The roping, riding, tournament, baseball games, etc., and the different contests kept the crowd entertained, and no serious accident happened to mar the pleasures of the occasion. A slight accident happened at a baseball game and various rumors were in circulation, but the accident was not serious. In the beauty contest for girls over 65 years old, Grandma Jones won first prize, and was designated Queen of the Day. Mrs. C. W. Harris was awarded second prize. The total vote is given in another column in the beauty contest for boys Reunion.

The Quilting Contest.

In the ladies' quilting contest at the reunion last Monday the following ladies' were awarded first prizes, in different age schedules: Mrs. Mattie Jones, Mrs. John P. Hodges, Mrs. B. F. Faris, and Mrs. Joe Villemain. The Friendship quilt which was finished in the contest was auctioned and was bid in at $10 by Nat B. Jones of Kerrville, who in turn donated the quilt to the Old Settlers' Association and it was again sold, this time to J. Marvin Harter, who bid it in at $7.00. The quilt is a beauty and each block bears the name of the elderly lady who supplied it.

Made Movie Pictures.

S. P. Bryden, of Kerrville, was here Monday and made motion pictures of some of the events of the Old Settlers' Reunion, among them being the pretty girls in the beauty contest, the quilting party, and the like. These pictures will be used in the news reels in the moving picture shows throughout the country. They will be shown at the Bandera Theater at an early date, of which announcement will be made in due time.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Gray and children were here from Center Point to attend the Old Settlers' Reunion.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

Read this and weep. A generous friend gave a San Antonio man a bottle of prewar rye whiskey. Timid about carrying it home the recipient resorted to strategy. He washed off the labels and pasted upon it an "Ant Killer" label borrowed from a druggist friend. Then he took it home and placed it on a pantry shelf. When he went to open it a day or two later his wife informed him it "wasn't any good for ants" and poured all of it on an anthill in the yard—and the ants were as bad as ever.

Mark Twain in his early days was editor of a Nevada country paper. A superstitious subscriber wrote him asking what he had found to be a good fertilizer, and asked whether that was a sign of good or bad luck. The humorist replied to his answer and printed it:

"Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither a good sign nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go on that store and spin his web across the door and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Nobody would say that this with a sense of implied sarcasm. But it is not. The greatest business men in the world today will tell you that the greatest factor in their success has been successful advertising. What was true in Mark Twain's day in a small town is true today in competition is heavier now than it was then. If you would be counted among the successful business men of your community,Advertise.

He Held the Whip Hand

A salesman sold a bill of goods to a merchant in a small town. They were returned as not satisfactory. The wholesale house undertook to collect anyway, and drew a sight draft on the bank at the customer's town. The bank returned the draft unpaid. Then the house wrote to the village postmaster and asked if the merchant was good for the amount of the bill. The letter was returned O. K'd at the bottom. Then the postmaster was asked to put the bill in the hands of a local lawyer for collection.

The answer received by the wholesalers ran as follows: "The undersigned is the merchant on whom you tried to palm off your worthless bank. The undersigned is also president of the bank that returned your draft. The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote, and also the lawyer whom you tried to get to collect your bill. And if the undersigned were dead, not also the pastor of the local church, the undersigned would tell you to go straight to the devil. —Cleveland Plaindealer.

Vote Against the Amendments

The effort to bring about constructive court reform in Texas by the leaders of the Texas Bar Association and the Texas Press Association during the session of the Legislature concluded last spring, stirred the opposition. Fearing that drastic action would be taken by the people who are beginning to understand that the courts are run largely for the benefit of the lawyers and that the people are paying the cost, the enemies of reform are seeking to perpetuate the system of constitutional amendment. The amendment which will block court reform in Texas and permanently fasten the court of appeals system on us, will be voted upon next August, less than one month hence. Those who favor the lowering of the costs of justice and decreasing litigation will vote against the amendment. They will also appeal to the members of the Legislature from their district to give favorable consideration to other court reform and relief measures.

The courts of civil appeal, a constituted and operated courts, are useless pieces of judiciary machinery and ought to be abolished. They are used, in a large measure, to delay justice and increase litigation. They encourage fee grabbing and add materially to the cost of administering legal differences between citizens. They follow antiquated methods and decide cases on technicalities rather than upon the law and evidence. Rules of procedure prescribed by law, in many instances, result in much injustice. Cases brought up from district courts are reversed or remanded largely on the ground that some attorney failed to allow to the letter some of the devious and uncertain rules of precedent. It's client pays the cost. Vote against the amendments and give the Legislature a chance of doing about real reform.—Farm & Ranch.

Home Brew

In speaking of the manufacturing of home brew the editor of the La Grange Journal says:

"Home brew is a substance of all kinds of experimenting. In some sections where little attempt is there isn't always light, they use a diffe ent recipe in making this refreshing commodity han is used in Dallas—quite popular because it is reported currently in the lower house of the Legislature that Dallas woman brews several hundred bottles regularly— and for that reason the experimenting. You take some dry sage leaves, powder and mix the powder thoroughly with a little fresh Baker's sponge, and then add about a gallon of water and two bits worth of sugar, cook the stuff until the neighbors begin to complain and then bury it first placing in a three gal. jug, well corked. After it has been under the earth for about three weeks, resurrect or disinter it if the jug is still there, take out a life insurance policy and then get someone you entertain a grudge against to remove the cork. If he isn't killed there is yet an opportunity to determine the worth of the stuff. Take out two teacups full and place amount in to a small aluminum vessel, and on top of a good fire. If it fails to burn or cause suffocation, it is fit to be drank. However, I am not going to advise. That is one of the kinds of home brew that is being made according to the opinions of those who seem to know."

A "Sartorial"

Henry Ford, we are told, is the most fastidious dresser in America. He is the only man in the world who has his own tailor shop and who keeps his own private cutter busy making his suits. Does the revelation demand a sartorial? All right! Let's go.

A billion or two in gold and green has Henry stacked away. And that wealth has called for Many a paean and many a hosanna. His wheels revolve in the Arizona snows and Africa's burning sands, where the Ford sleeps gladly flows and on India's strands. The wizards of old for whom the mobs used to bow and their lusty shouts arouse and Dives and Midas et al are a bunch of dowm and outs. Where others may grope and blunder Henry harvests dollars, and naturally it proceeds to pass that Henry is King of Kale.

But that isn't all. Pipe Solomon. There was a nifty guy, the gyno sure, we are asked to believe, Of almost every eye. From glittering life to unmolested spats, the bird was conversant—but he was dernier cri. Then Dora, only she was all exempt that, yea, lo. But the Ford's glory now fades out to a wrinkled hand me-downsto Henry. Ford he prides his sword, his rep and he takes the cake.

But, why go on with this endless tale of poop and circumlocution? The point is that Henry Ford has a million pair of pants.—St. Louis Post.

Editor Asserts Himself

John W. Hogsett, editor of the Dawson (Ga.) News, was moved to take a stand recently against free reading notices. He served notice on all communities that if anything editorial, which we think expresses the subject in splendid fashion.

"The two newspapers of Cuthbert are not going to print any papers that hereafter they will charge $1 for publishing cards of thanks. These publishers claim right in their rights for cards of thanks or resolutions of respect are not news items in any sense of the term and all resolutions of respect are simply wish to publicly express gratitude should be willing to pay the small sum the publisher asks. Then if the matter is not understood by the public and the country editor's main source of income is selling the white space in his newspaper to organizations or individuals will no more think of asking him to publish free notices than they would go to their grocery store and ask him to donate groceries free because the merchant happens to be interested in some good cause.

"Any country publisher willing to give a reasonable amount of free publicity to lodges, entertainments, churches, fairs, etc., providing a share of the job printing connected with such social affairs, like posters, tickets and programs, is glad to do so. Otherwise he will make a charge for all such notices sent in.

"The old-fashioned country newspaper publisher generally was simply a business boob—the most unfortunate fellow who didn't have sand enough in his makeup to ask a decent living price for the product of his brains and the result as many weary hours of toil. He wanted to be known as a public benefactor and do work for nothing, and generally was the town joke mark, while the whole body worked when it was to their advantage to do so. He didn't charge enough to pay the rent and the rest of his business debts, and he wore patched pants all his life. Some of his friends took his paper because they felt sorry for the poor cuss and didn't want him to starve to death.

"And this hard-working public servant toiled all his life under the impression that he was a benefactor and at last was gathered unto his fathers—and his friends sometimes took up a collection to bury the scribe, remarking that he had always been a dreamer and not a good business man.

"The country newspaper man of the future is either going to make his business pay, or he will stop publishing—like any good business man would do."

A program of unusual merit has been prepared for the women and girls at the South Texas Short Course and Encampment at the Medina-Hereford Ranch in Bexar County, July 17 to 13. Read this and weep. A generous friend gave a San Antonio man a bottle of prewar Scotch whiskey. Timid about carrying it home the recipient secured a taxi. He washed off the labels and pasted upon it an "Ant Killer" label borrowed from a druggist friend. Then he took it home and placed it on a pantry shelf. When he went to open it one day not later his wife informed him that it "wasn't any good." She had poured all of it on an anthill in the yard and the ants were as bad as ever.

Mark Twain in his early days was editor of a country newspaper. A correspondent who neither wrote nor signed his name he had found a spider in his paper, and asked whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist wrote the answer and printed it:

"Only somebody finding a spider in his paper for nothing will ever get good out of paper for you. The spider was merely looking over your paper to see what merchant can afford to put the most in that he can go to that store and spin his web across the door, and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Non-advertisers have to do this with a sense of injured innocence. But it is not the greatest business men in this country today will tell you that the greatest factor in their success has been shrewd advertising. John W. Hoagland, editor of the Wichita Falls Record News, was moved to take a stand against free reading notices. He outlined his position in the following editorial, which we think expresses the feelings of every newspaper man in splendid fashion:

"The free reading notice nuisance is getting intolerable. Many papers that heretofore they charge $1 for publishing obituaries, resolutions of respect, cards of thanks or resolutions of appreciation have quit charging for same and now publish them free. Others charge 25 cents for each notice published. We have always charged for these notices, and we think we are right in their action, for cards of thanks or resolutions of respect are not news items in the sense of the term, and all organizations or individuals who wish to publicly express their gratitude should be willing to pay for the small cost publishing such notices. When it is thoroughly understood by the public that the country editor's main source of income is derived from the space in his newspaper, organizations or individuals will no more think of asking him to publish free notices than they would go to their grocery and ask him to donate groceries because the merchant has been known to be interested in some good cause.

Beef Cattle Sell at Highest Prices Since Early 1920.

Washington, June 21.—With beef cattle commanding the highest prices since early 1920 and all other grades of cattle participating in the general advance, the cattle industry of the United States is faced with "very favorable" conditions, according to a review of the spring cattle market issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The trend in production appears to be downward toward a "more profitable basis," and the industry apparently is approaching that phase of production when the grower, "feeling confident of the future begins to build up herds, retains stock for the full utilization of available pasture and range, and holds young stock for further growth and finish," says the review.

This downward trend is to be accompanied by improvement in recent years when the cattle industry was hurt by over-production which resulted "in cattle famine, high location, heavy market receipts and consequently a high slaughtering ratio to numbers remaining on farms and ranges," the report points out.

The end of this period of overmarketing was declared in sight, and except for some further selling and liquidation of range herds this fall because of high prices, and for marketing in spots because of drouth conditions, the number of cattle "forced on the slaughter market will be limited."

Withdrawal of Statehood from Arizona Sought

Los Angeles, June 20.—Congressman Joseph Crail of California announced in an address here Thursday that because the State of Arizona had violated, annulled and renounced the constitution of the United States, he intended introducing a resolution at the next session of Congress to repeal the act admitting Arizona to statehood.

The resolution will provide that Arizona be restored to the condition of a territory as it existed in 1910.

Crail said his action would be based on a State election held in Arizona last May 31 at which the people voted to eliminate certain provisions from the State Constitution to further their opposition to proposed development of Colorado River.

He listed these provisions which he said Arizona agreed to when admitted to the Union:

1. To disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated and ungranted public land lying within its boundaries.

2. That no taxes should be imposed by the State upon lands or property therein belonging for its use.

to the United States or reserved to the United States by Congress.

3. To reserve to the United States with full acquiescence of the State all rights and powers for the carrying out of the provisions of the reclamation laws, for the construction of irrigation works and for the reclamation of arid lands, to the same extent as if Arizona had remained a territory, and.

4. That these provisions should be made a part of the State Constitution so such forever as should positively preclude the making of any constitutional amendment or any change in ordinance which may affect the same without the consent of Congress.

Crail declaring that Arizona's constitution was made to defeat the Swing-Johnson bill, proposing construction of a dam in Boulder Canyon, as a filibuster, continued:

"Arizona's conduct is indefensible. I am going to tell those facts to the people of the United States. I am going to ask Congress to repeal the enabling act by which Arizona became a State, which act Arizona has itself repudiated, for it becomes any American State to treat its solemn covenant with the Federal Government as a 'scrap of paper.'"

Lost His Hat

An Irish soldier, coming out of ether in the hospital ward after an operation, exclaimed with wrath, anybody that's over.

"Don't be too sure," said the man in the next cot. "The doctor left a sponge in me and had to open me again to get it."

"He left a pair of scissors in me," blithely lied the man on the other side of the ward, "and he had a hard time finding them when he opened me the second time."

The Irish soldier was ruminating on these statements when suddenly the doctor who had operated on him stuck his head in at the door and yelled:

"Has anybody seen my hat?"

Senator Ingall's Views on Mountains

Several senators were discussing the lively career of the late John J. Ingalls, for many years senator from Kansas, when Henry Cabot Lodge asked if they had ever read what Ingalls said about the mountains. None had. Ingalls, continued Lodge, said: "There is a mental fascination there is about mountains! Their solemnity, their silence, the grandeur of their outline, the unspeakable glory of their lofty crags and snowy summits old in story, and other splendid inutility!

"When you look upon the vague and troubled immensity of the ocean, you think of commerce and coffish and whales. When you contemplate the grassy waste of prairies, expanding to the skies, you think of wheat and corn and pigs and steers. But Pike's Peak and Sierra Blanca, and Trenchery and Culebra and the Tetons are good for nothing except adoration and worship. Man does not profane their solitude where the unheard voices of the winds in the forest, of waters falling in the abyss, and the eagle's cry have no audience nor conversancy."

If you want good oil we have it, Texaco and Mobiloil.—Mansfield & Blakeney Chevrolet Co.

Victory for American Ideals

This country never faced such a period of prosperity as appears to be ahead of it.

"And therein lies our greatest danger.

"But we as a nation keep our head and not become soft and discontented?

"Will we in our quest for more of 5,000 gallon dollars allow political soothsayers to undermine our government with visionary schemes at public expense!

"Will material prosperity give us the "Swellhead" and cause us to feel that we are too "important" to attend to the troublesome little affairs of government?

If this attitude overtakes us, look out for trouble.

As individuals we are "small potatoes" in the scheme of economic development.

But if each individual does his part to maintain American ideals and sound conditions in government and industry, "small potatoes" will grow into big potatoes and our national "potato crop" (stability, security, prosperity) will be on a safe and enduring basis.

The feat which Captain Charles Lindberg accomplished is typically American. Nothing could better illustrate our spirit of individual initiative and enterprise. Every American might be called a pioneer, for every American has the right to strike out with his own ideas in whatever field of endeavor appeals to him.

It is this priceless heritage of freedom and opportunity for the individual which each of us should strive to uphold. Our government should always be maintained on a basis which protects and encourages the individual and private industry, rather than on a basis which restricts and destroys experiments, growth and ambition.

Not only was Lindbergh's crossing of the Atlantic typically American in its freedom from pomp and ceremony, but Lindbergh himself is symbolical of American ideals. He had the ability, courage and driving force to accomplish results in the face of seemingly insurmountable barriers.

It is the Lindbergh spirit, the American spirit, which has given us our wonderful modern conveniences and comforts.

Gets Change of Venue

San Marcos, Tex., July 12—Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers did not go to trial here Tuesday, on a charge of robbing a Buda bank. She was granted a change of venue to Lagrange in Fayette County, and her trial set for Dec. 5. Nineteen veniremen had been examined without a single one qualifying as a juror, when the change of venue was ordered on motion of Judge M. C. Jeffrey. He sent the case to La Grange on his and District Attorney Fred Blundell's own district.

All prospective jurors had read too much of the girl's escapade not to have made up their minds as to her guilt or innocence, they testified. When the examination ended abruptly both the defence and the prosecution had used one of their 15 challenges, only two jurors not having decided what kind of punishment, if any, they would mete out to the former University of Texas co-ed and former employe of Gov. Dan Moody when he was Attorney General. Change of venue, thus ending the trial in so far as Hays County is concerned and postponing the ordeal for the girl until next winter, was plain, acceptable to the defendant and her attorneys.

After the sudden decision of the court, the defendant ex-

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. HUNTER,
Editor and Publisher

MISS JENNETTE HUNTER
Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas

Some time ago the New Era urged the erection of a monument here to Veteran Amasa Clark, Bandera county's first settler and Mexican War veteran, who died early in the year at the extreme age of 101 years. This proposition was treated indifferently by the people here but the Pioneer Freighters Association at San Antonio, and the Daughters of Veterans of Foreign Wars, as well as Mr. Clark's own company, the Third Infantry, of Fort Sam Houston, promptly responded to the call and are contributing to the fund for the erection of the memorial. This monument will be erected in Fort Sam Houston and is expected to have it ready for unveiling on the anniversary of Veteran Clark's birth, September 3. Then Bandera, by her indifference, loses a monument that for every reason should be placed here, which she first settled and spent more than forty years of his life. And our portion of the cost of the monument would have been equally apportioned to every individual in the county, the cost would have been about ten cents per capita. Bandera county will in years to come hold her head in shame because of this lack of ancestral pride and apparent ingratitude to our early settlers. Amasa Clark was not a plain old man some called him an old fogey, but all of our old pioneers were plain people and according to present day ideas, most of them were foggies, but he, and many associated by the indifference herald in the world that we want to forget him, and all of the other old pioneers, who helped to make this region a delightful place in which to live. To quote Macauley: "A people without history, pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." While the bones of Amasa Clark, Bandera county's first settler, moulders to dust in the soil of the county he loved so well that he gave seventy-five years of his life to its development, a monument, miles away in another county will proclaim to the world that Amasa Clark was a veteran of the Mexican War and a pioneer Texan. And Bandera county will have no share in the erection of this memorial, no claim whatever to the patriotism which brought it about, and no sigh in a feeling of pride when viewing it. Shame on Bandera!

Kerrville will keep open house next week, when she will entertain the Sheep and Goat Raisers of West Texas, July 19, 20, 21, and 22. Preparations are being made to entertain an immense crowd of visitors, and it will be done royally, for Kerrville never resorts to half-way measures to get by.

"There is a Reason"

Newspaper Errors

The Clarksville Times editor springs the following: A fellow told us the other day he could always find from two to half a dozen typographical errors in every new paper he picked up and he thought something ought to be done about it. The next day we asked him about an automobile accident he had witnessed and he gave us the wrong name and initials of every participant, missed the hour of the day by five minutes, the color of car, and the direction the car was traveling when the accident occurred.

So deciding that a lot of errors creep into newspaper, and sometimes the story is not as correct as it should be. But when one considers that a newspaper has to be made in just a few short hours, and that each piece of copy must pass through several hands before it is printed, it is a wonder that there are not more mistakes.

A preacher can take a week to prepare a sermon, and then he has been known to make mistakes and get things tangled up a bit. Heard one say in a special sermon that there was an ugly in the dead sea. A lawyer can take a month to prepare a brief in a case, and then lose his case on some error, and have to try it all over. Even doctors have been known to make mistakes, as important as their work is.

Newspaper people work in a storm while they are working. A piece of news very frequently breaks just at press time, but it is important to pass by until the next day. A reporter is sent on the run and maybe two or three, and the telephone is pressed into service, and every effort made to get facts. The reporter may call on twenty people and not get enough facts to base a story upon, but he must keep trying, and then he must rush back to the office and write the story from the facts he has been able to get together in a few minutes.

If every layman could have a week's experience in helping to make a newspaper and magazine, and then have to go out and solicit advertising, and make the way to the office of every individual in the county, the most hard boiled among them would be less inquisitive. Bandera county will in years to come hold her head in shame because of this lack of ancestral pride and apparent ingratitude to our early settlers. Amasa Clark was not a plain old man some called him an old fogey, but all of our old pioneers were plain people and according to present day ideas, most of them were foggies, but he, and many associated by the indifference herald in the world that we want to forget him, and all of the other old pioneers, who helped to make this region a delightful place in which to live. To quote Macauley: "A people without history, pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." While the bones of Amasa Clark, Bandera county's first settler, moulders to dust in the soil of the county he loved so well that he gave seventy-five years of his life to its development, a monument, miles away in another county will proclaim to the world that Amasa Clark was a veteran of the Mexican War and a pioneer Texan. A Conservative Investment

In the selection of investments men who lack experience are often misled by extravagant promises. They are told of the extraordinary dividends they will realize and fail to make sure of the safety of the principal. In too many cases investors lose all control of their money and even transfer their rights thereto to the party issuing the securities.

A Specific Contract

An investment in our Triple Option Policy is different. It is based on millions of assets and embodies a specific contract stating in plain language and figures just wht the returns will be each and every year that the investment runs. Furthermore, it reverses the usual rule of investments in this way: When a man invests his money in this Policy he enters into an agreement to deposit annually with the Company a given sum of money, the amount depending on the age of the investor and the designated face value of his contract. Yet the principal sum of the investment selected—for any amount up to $50,000,000 will be in full force and effect as soon as the contract is approved and issued to the investor and one deposit made by him.

Unquestioned Stability

This contract has ever quality of a conservative investment and its value and stability cannot be questioned. It is based upon mathematical facts, upon a plan of indemnity which has been in operation for over a century and found to be sound in every way. It is the one form of investment which insures to the investor the whole principal sum for which the contract is made. It gives him the satisfaction of knowing that his loved ones are protected and would derive immediate benefit should the Grim Reaper come unexpectedly.

Absolute Protection

Rich and poor alike are investing in this Policy because it conforms to modern business methods and eliminates the element of chance. It safeguards a man's most sacred interests and fully protects his family and estate. The ordinary will may too often be broken. Why not invest in an unbreakable will, one that is safe, sound and profitable—A TRIPLE OPTION POLICY?

S. Boyd and Miss Marie Boyd, whose they are domiciled for several weeks. The affair took the form of an At Home. The inclemency of the weather was in direct contrast to the cozy interior of the line, for the rooms were artistically decorated in beautiful cut flowers, where a coterie of guests assembled to honor the visitors. The hostess served an elaborate five course dinner. An especially attractive and appropriate feature of the appetizingly arranged table was the large cut glass bowl filled with flowers cut from the Pardue lawn, in the colors of pink and green. MISS JENNETTE HUNTER, Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The time for holding the Bandera County Fair is August 25, 26, and 27, and as usual it will be held at Mansfield Park, where an exhibit hall has been provided, as well as sheds for live stock. This year's fair will, we believe, outclass any previous fair. We have catalogues giving the list of premiums, and you may have one or more of the catalogues for the asking.

Kerrville is entertaining the sheep and goat raisers of West Texas this week. Great crowds are in attendance. An elaborate program for the three days' event had been arranged and is being carried out to the letter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pardue, and Miss Mamie d'Ham, who spent a delightful two weeks outing at the Bruce ranch on Medina road, returned to San Antonio Monday.

Example should Be Followed.

Frank M. Montague is having the roadside burrs pulled from the road along his pasture fence. This is an example everybody should follow, as the cockle burr pest is growing, and is a real menace. Sheep and goats driven along the roadway get the burrs tangled in their wool and hair and thus carry them to other regions.

Another Book.

Clinton L. Smith, of Hockberry, was here last week and spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Gid Lang. Mr. Smith is with his brother, Jeff Smith, was a captive among the Indians for several years, when he was a boy, and will soon publish a book dealing with his experiences among the savages. Marvin Hunter of Bandera is now writing the book for Mr. Smith, and it will be issued early this fall.

Mrs. Trotter Dead.

Mrs. Amanda Trotter, aged 67 years, wife of H. L. Trotter, died in San Antonio last Thursday, and the remains were interred in the Means Cemetery near Medina last Friday morning. Mrs. Trotter lived at Medina many years and was held in high esteem by all who knew her. She is survived by her husband, H. L. Trotter, of San Antonio; four sons, John Trotter, Sanderson, Tex.; W. A. Trotter, Mogollon, N. M.; W. D. Trotter, Silver City, N. M., and A. C. Trotter, Sheffield, Tex.; one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Garrard, city; sister, Mrs. Matilda Graham, Devil's River, Tex.; brother, Thomas Johnson, Hurley, N. M.; and 11 grandchildren.

The New Era family appreciates the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Clark who sent us a goodly supply of choice tomatoes, okra and butterbeans last Saturday, and also the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Villemain who sent in some fine tomatoes.

Mrs. R. C. Boales was taken to a hospital in San Antonio one day last week and underwent a serious operation. She is reported doing well and we hope she will continue to improve.

"There is a Reason"

Who's Your Friend When You Are Down And Out.

It's the old, old story, to be sure, but one worth harping on nevertheless—the mail order evil. Much has been said against it, but the practice still prevails to some degree at least. Stand at the postoffice window an hour on Saturday afternoon and you will be amazed at the number of persons who receive parcels of merchandise shipped from distant points.

We were standing in the lobby of the postoffice the other day and saw a number of packages carried away. Just a day or two before we remembered a committee had called on us for a contribution to aid a destitute family in our territory where there was a case of the proverbial being bedridden. Then we remembered a day or two previous another had called on us for the same purpose. As we signed these lists and gave our bit we noticed the list of names on the petitions. The merchants and business men of Antlers almost without exception had given liberally to the aid of these people. Then we thought of an instance we knew of where one of the largest mail order houses in the country had been asked for help in a similar case—and refused to donate.—We do not infer by this that the people for whom the collections were taken recently are habitual mail order patrons; we do not know about that. We just want to relate a true story we happen to know about:

One time, in a town in South-east Oklahoma, a farmer lost his barn and smokehouse with their contents and a few days later a petition was circulated in town asking for financial aid for this farmer to build back his barn and buy feed for his family and feed for his livestock. One merchant who knew that this man spent most of his ready cash with the catalogue houses and patronized his home town merchants when he needed credit, suggested that his favorite mail order house be solicited for a contribution, and a letter was sent. The reply came back by return mail that the mail order house did not have an appropriation for this purpose.

Now, then, ask yourself this question: "Who's my friend when I'm down and out?" There can be but one answer, "My home town merchant." Be fair with him. When you have cash to spend, spend it with him. He helps your community prosper, and when the community prospers we all prosper. He supports your schools and churches. He pays his share of taxes and is an all-round good fellow and a whole hearted neighbor.

The mail order house; what about it? Just ask it for credit when you're broke. Ask it for a dollar when there's a family suffering dire need through sickness or other misfortune. Ask it for a donation for your church, or to support your school; just do that and see what the reply will be. We know.—Antlers American.

Delightful Dinner.

Mrs. R. S. Pardue, who spent the past two weeks at the Bruce ranch on Medina road, was hostess at a delightful dinner party given last Thursday in honor of her guest, Miss Mamie d'Ham of San Antonio. Among those present were Mrs. Mary Bruce, Miss Minnie Bruce, Mrs. J. F. Boyd, Miss Mamie d'Ham, Mrs. J. H. Surber, Miss Jewel Surber and Leonard Surber.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Duff and family, of Tarpley, were in town Saturday.

The body was brought to Boerne Wednesday and laid to rest there Wednesday morning, the Rev. George Belsey, Rector of St. Helena's Church, conducting the services. The Boerne Gesang Verein rendered two numbers. The pall-bearers were chosen from the Old Settlers' Association of Boerne. Mr. Ammann was president at the time of his death. They were Captain Fred. Dodge, Joe Vogt, Joe Doenges, Max Tuppenweiss, Ad. Rust, and Julius Luckenbach.

Adolph Ammann was born on April 16, 1860, on the Guadalupe River on the place now known as the Ammann ranch, where he lived with his parents, Christian and Sophie Ammann, until 1875. At that time his family moved to his late home at Pleasant Valley, about six miles east of Boerne. On September 13, 1891, he was married to Miss Anna Schwarz. The children of this union were Joe and John and one daughter, Miss Anna, who with Mrs. Ammann survive to mourn him. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mary Schwarz, of Boerne; Miss Clara Ammann, of Mrs. Fanny Rogers of San Antonio; and one brother, Chas. Ammann of Boerne. One brother and one sister have preceded him in death.

He was one of the Old Settlers of this county. In his boyhood days he experienced all the hardships of frontier life, being chased by Indians on two different occasions. His life spans the means of locomotion of these days, for in his youth he learned how to handle an ox team and lastly, to drive an automobile.

He was of that class which is the backbone of the country, industrious, fearless and honest, the sterling qualities of good blood. By his hard work and foresight he accumulated a nice piece of property.

The community honors him, he was a director of the Boerne State Bank and President of the Old Settlers' Association.

So we leave his body to its rest, may all comfort and consolation be to those who loved and honored him.—Comfort News.

Where Are They?

It has been the custom with many parents and elders to lament the ways of the younger folks and truly they have cause but let's switch about and consider the ways of the older folks, as compared with the old days when we were a barefoot lad. In those days Dad and Mother rounded the bunch up on Sunday morning, our necks and ears were specially scrubbed (weekly operation); we would undergo a general cleaning and dressed in our Sunday clothes we would climb in the wagon or, perhaps a saddle and start early in order to be on time for regular worship at the house of God.

And how thankful we are for those wonderful happy days. It is only a memory now—but a pleasant one. They don't do that any more. Times have changed, yes sure.

Let's take an imaginary trip and that we described as we go) to the church house on Sunday morning. The Sunday school hour is at hand; we look about and see the happy smiling faces of many children and young people, but where are the old folks! Look at the Bible Class—only a few of them left—the faithful few! The children swarm to their classes with happy and joyful anticipation—they love Sunday School but if the teacher is not here—and their little hearts are saddened—and they wonder and wonder. They return from their Sunday School class rooms and enter the main auditorium—and they look over the audience. Dad and Mother are absent. Yes, they sent the children and they remained at home—probably not feeling well, but able to read the Sunday paper—and eat a big dinner — then take a long drive in the afternoon. At night they are tired so they send the children again.

Yes, we wonder what will become of the younger generation and if the older generation doesn't stop 'sending' and start 'taking' the younger folks to the house of worship, there will be more to wonder at in years to come.—Exchange.

Another "Knot" Tied in the Schemes of Necktie Gang.

John W. Wells, publisher of the Olathe (Kan.) Register, also has a plan to "Knot" the gang that sends out neckties and other unordered merchandise with the demand either to pay for the goods or to send it back. He sends in return a copy of his paper until the merchandise is paid for.

Some time ago Mr. Wells received a consignment of such neckties described as an "unusual proposition" in the "literature" that accompanied the shipment.

Here is a copy of the letter Mr. Wells sent back.

"Your 'unusual proposition' offering four ties for $1.25 was duly received, carefully examined and given thoughtful consideration.

"It just so happens that we, too, have an 'unusual proposition and a bargain.'

"I'll take it for granted, as you evidently took it for granted when sending the ties, that you can hardly afford to do without a copy of the Olathe Register each week for at least a year and consequently we are sending, under separate cover, your first copy of the paper.

Unfortunately, it may seem to you, a year's subscription to the Olathe Register is $1.50 where as your ties were billed to us at $1.25—a difference of 25 cents in our favor. I return, herewith, your coin container and ask you that you kindly remit that amount at your earliest convenience. I am also returning the self-addressed label and three cent stamp."

Mr. Wells says so far the 25 cents difference hasn't been remitted and adds, "The tie repose in a desk drawer. Even the devil won't wear them."

Ranger's Revive Frontier Days

By BESS CARROLL

(In San Antonio Light, July 11.)

San Antonio's frontier, pushed off over the rim of civilization, will move up again in very soon like the ghost of itself—and with it, its picturesque figures.

For when the annual Ranger Reunion begins at Menard on July 27, men who were the Old Southwest ride out of obscurity on horseback—carrying the old carbines, wearing the same huge hats of a century ago, and bringing back the days that knew these things so well.

San Antonio, birthplace of the rangers, will send its quota of these grand old men to Menard, stopped, today but does busy earning the reputation poetry gives them now.

"Their composition—sand and grit. They never know the verb, 'to quit.'"

Every year they go to Menard, once their old rallying place for chasing redskins or trailing bandits. For since very earliest times, the quaint little rock town of Menard has been the Ranger capital for western activities.

"If you want to know what kind of men they were," says Ranger James Gillett in "The Texas Ranger," his book, "there is that story of the riot call sent in by a border town to the ranger camp. Pretty soon along came one ranger, tearing in to stop the riot. Why, there's only one of you!' the town leaders exclaimed; whereupon the ranger answered, 'Well, there's only one real one out there!'"

Close by Menard is Fort McKavitt, built between the savage and the pale-face years ago. The old San Saba Mission is not far away. It was in this territory that lawless braves kept the country longer to themselves here that James Bowie looked for gold in the legendary San Saba mines. In fact, Bowie's name is carved on a rock in the ruins.

In the background—with the feel of buckskin close to their hearts, and with a familiar covering of canvas above them—the aged Texas rangers who are left will probably resurrect two names that of John B. Jones, D. W. Roberts. Major Jones commanded the famous Frontier Battalion of which Captain Gillette—still a prominent figure, in the new Southwest—was a member.

The reunion will last three days.

Thinking Straight

Good, honest, hard-headed character is a function of the home. If the proper seed is put in fertile soil and properly watched for a few years, it will not be easy for that plant to be uprooted. But it is the business of the school so to engage youthful interests that youthful energies will flow into creative channels. No school can really educate; by every school should nourish the enthusiasm of every normal child for learning, for exploring, for manipulating and for mastering. A school should stimulate the fountain of youth curiosity and not plug it up with facts. Above all, it should not dam youth up—or water it down. It has the will, energy, the impetus; give it raw meat and bones to chew on. Give it a place in the sun, keep in touch with life, help it to get its feet on the ground and a wits ground to a razor edge. Do go over the same old ground, analyze the same old mossovered problems, is delettantism; it is not preparation for life. This is a new world; it demands new brains, and new people to handle the new problems of life and of human society, quite as much as people trained in building bridges and motor cars or in selling lipsticks and bonds.—George A. Dorsey.

PLAN WOOL GATHERING

There will be plenty of fun and competition, too, when the West Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers meet in Kerrville, July 19-22. Miss Ruth Thalmann, of Bandera, below, will mix in with old timers with her prize stock.

West Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers to Meet in Kerrville

Mary's little lamb isn't going to be in it at all after a few more days.

For where Ruth Thalmann, "sheep rancher" gets her flocks together there are enough little lambs to furnish mutton chops forever and a day.

Last year's fine stock meet, including one exposition held under the auspices of Texas A. and M. college, netted Miss Thalmann $80 of one prize ram. He isn't a bit sheepish about it, either, but prances to take a cup or two home from the Kerrville meet of West Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers, July 19-22.

Rattlers Numerous.

Rattlesnakes are becoming so numerous in parts of Kerr County that a bounty law is needed to exterminate the reptiles, in the opinion of W. W. Wilson, who ranches about 30 miles west of Kerrville.

Mr. Wilson was in the city Monday on business. He reported that all employees on his ranch were required to keep a close check on all snakes killed and during 1926 a total of 69 large diamond back rattlers were killed. No dens were found and the activity of the snakes were killed during August and September while crawling. So far this year 35 rattlers have been killed on the Wilson Ranch.

Large numbers of his goats have been bitten by rattlers, Mr Wilson said, and about 50 per cent of these animals die. Two of his goats were bitten during kidding season this year while Mexicans were herding them.

Neighboring ranchmen are also killing large numbers of rattlesnakes this summer, according to Mr. Wilson, who believes that the State should offer a bounty on dead rattlers.

Range conditions in Western Kerr County are excellent, the visiting rancher reported.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Ray Hug made a business trip to San Antonio one day last week.

Ewell Wyatt, of Mason Creek, was in the city last Saturday and dropped in to extend his New Era figures.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Thomas and children of Goulbluck, and Mrs. Allen Woodward and children of Coleman, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom North last Thursday.

Messrs. Bud Hough and J. W. Chamberlain, of near Bluff, were visitors at the New Era office last Saturday. Both ordered the New Era sent to his daughter, Mrs. Floyd Johnson, Colgate, Oklahoma.

Mrs. M. E. Faris has our thanks for some splendid apples which were raised on their ranch near Medina. The apples were of excellent flavor and came from a tree which bears well every year.

This annual reunion of West Texas ranchers always brings up an ancient question—"Baa, baa Black Sheep, have you any wool?" For when the sheep is shorn the question usually answer back with something that sounds like "Baa!"

For four days consecutively come one is going to be "the goat" at that Kerrville meet, where barbecued elk be served.

There will be rodeo stunts, stock judging—and Ruth Thalmann's in it resting flocks. As perhaps the only feminine sheep rancher in the country, Miss Thalmann has her "little lambs" well trained.—San Antonio Light July 15.

Remarkable Fossil Find in Kerr County.

What may prove to be one of the most extensive and remarkable fossil finds in the United States was recently made on the B. Secrest Ranch in the northwest part of Kerr County. Some samples of this fossil field are now on display in the show window at the Mountain Sun office, the larger specimen in this display containing more than a thousand petrified teeth, shells, sea weeds and other specimens of prehistoric life. The exact extent of the fossil field has not been determined, but it is known to cover an area of several hundred acres, the surface deposits being found at different spots throughout a somewhat isolated, rough ravine traversing part of the Secrest pasture.

Among the remarkable features of the find is the extent of the deposits, the beauty and great quantity of the specimens as well as the variety and excellent preservation of the petrified substances. Only in very rare instances have surface fossil deposits been found in considerable quantity, and perhaps never before in this part of the United States has a find of the kind been made that in any degree equals the Secrest Ranch find in the matter of variety and excellently preserved specimens.

One prominent geologist has made the statement that he considers it the greatest find in many respects that has ever been made. The fossil deposits being found along the edges of gulleys and ravines, and because of the sea weed, sea animal and crustacean life (some of the specimens containing the teeth and traces of bones of large animals) indicates that at some ancient period a vast lake or inland sea covered that area, that the ledges on which the deposits are found were the beach projections into this sea or lake on which grew sea weeds. Ancient clay animals browsed on these weeds and millions of crustaceans became attached to them, then the waters receded, animals and crustaceans perished, and left their history in vast petrified deposits.

Last winter J. L. Teague of Fredericksburg was hunting in the almost inaccessible part of the Secrest pasture when he happened to notice a most beautiful specimen. This he took home with him and some days later called the attention of a rock collector to it. The rock collector immediately recognized it as a most remarkable find, later visited the Secrest Ranch, procured a number of specimens, retaining some for his own collection and submitting others to geologists, particularly to the Department of Economic Geology of the University of Texas and from every source has come the enthusiastic comment that it is a wonderful find.

Specimens have been distributed among museums, to private collectors, and in response to requests have been put on display in a number of show windows.

The longer you look at one of these fossil specimens the more interesting it becomes, and if you want to inspect something wonderful in the fossil line just come around and take a look at the specimens in the display window at The Mountain Sun office.

Another remarkable find on the Secrest Ranch is a considerable deposit of geods and quartz rocks. These beautiful, brilliant rocks are not uncommon in the Hill Country, but the Secrest Ranch find is an unusually large one, and many of the specimens are the largest yet found, these specimens are the largest yet found, these specimens varying from a few ounces to several hundred pounds.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

J. M. HUNTER,
Editor and Publisher
MISS JENNETTE HUNTER
Associate Editor

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era editor is attending the annual reunion of the Ex-Texas Rangers Association at Menard this week, leaving left on Tuesday. This issue of the little old home paper is gotten out by the office force, which accounts for a better New Era this week.

If one will spend a little time among the mountains of Texas he will feel the insignificance of his puny strength and the wondrous power that shook the mighty giants loose from their home beneath the earth and cast them toward the sky. The granite mountains speak sermons, the gorges deep and narrow are lessons, while the tumbling waters swirl and foam and dash themselves against huge rocks while racing down toward the level plain far below, the loud does point high on point and peak, the sheer, bare rocks, the singing cataracts and turbulent waterfalls, the gashes long and deep in mountain sides, the fog, dead timber line, the grim old monuments of a mighty upheval long years ago, all plainly show just one single mountain in its majesty is more than ten thousand men could make in as many years.

Much of our trouble is imaginary. We paint upon the canvas of our minds gruesome pictures of tomorrow happenings, and cast across the sky of our storm clouds that are only in the mind. If we expect pessimism and happiness we must hope for them, for what the mind long for is apt to come. One can start the day with pleasant thoughts and it will be apt to end with agreeable happenings. There is some real trouble in the world, but the average man and the average woman does not have much of it, when their lives are averaged up, and the pleasant things that they have enjoyed are counted and contrasted with the real disagreeable things. Pleasant days are in the majority and wast are termed troubles are merely inconsequential disappointments. There are, of course, many times when we do not get what we want or what we think that we ought to have, but it is sure than likely that we get more than we could led to. It is possible for most of us to enjoy life a great deal more than we do, and make the lives of others much happier, if we will be sensible about our disappointments, and not carry our grouch around with us.

Monday, August 1st elections will be held over the State to vote on the constitutional amendments which were passed at the last regular session of the Legislature. These amendments have been published in the New Era, and every citizen of the county is probably familiar with the provisions of each one, and will vote according to his judgment.

Isn't it strange to what trouble we will go in order to have a little excitement, when the age in which we live is so vibrant with it that we should endeavor in every reasonable way to avoid as much of it as possible. We are becoming a nation of nerves, restless human beings, never satisfied when not in the midst of some pleasure or some venture that thrills with mental exharation and sets the nerves a-tingle. We are no content any more to remain quietly at home, but we must go where the crowd is largest and noisy, and where heavy traffic sounds and roars. We no longer care for the simple amusements that once filled our lives, but we must seek the sensational, the spots where danger threatens, the play that is just a little more daring than the rest. We never rest, but go on day after day in the same old way on a mental and a nervous strain, and finally we have a nervous breakdown and next there is a funeral. We miss much of the happiness that would come to us if we would cultivate patience and poise, and spend more of our time in communion with Nature, learning the beautiful lesson of quiet and repose.

Nature is lovorable in her ways. She is kind and considerate and patient, but when a person or a nation has been thoroughly tried and tested and found tested and found inadequate for the responsibilities placed upon them, nature relieves them of the burden, and some one else is chosen for the purpose. When there are great deeds to be performed and great sacrifices to be made in the name of humanity, there are always willing men to make the sacrifice. In the evolution of the great eternal plan, which has been in course of progress ever since the world began, it often necessary that men yield up their lives and nations be tried and tested with the horrors of war, before the right men and the right nation are selected for the work of enlightening the other nations of the world. Men who lead a nation to greatness and nations who light the way for higher civilization must not be selfish, but must be thoroughly imbued with a desire to do those things that will be the most helpful to those who now live and those who are to follow after. They must have in their hearts that willingness to suffer and to die that the world may be happier and better.

"There is a Reason"

A New Novel.

C. L. Patterson, of Floresville, is the author of a new novel, which is to come from the press shortly under the title of "The Two Conspiracies." Mr. Patterson formerly lived here, and for two years was editor of the old Bandera Enterprise, and also served as county attorney of this county. The scenes for his book are laid in Bandera and Wilson counties, and it will be a book of which every good man and woman will be proud. It will be suitable for any home library, office or business. You will see Bandera and Medina in it, with all the trimmings. Announcement will be made when the book is ready for distribution, but if you want to be sure to get a copy send two dollars to C. L. Patterson, Floresville, and get your order in early.

It requires a brave man to laugh when adversity comes, and pursue his duties cheerfully and willingly, even though there are sobs in his throat and sighs in his heart. There are many such people, full of kindliness and sympathy, comforting the distressed, consoling the fearful, bearing the burdens and sharing even while their own burdens and responsibilities press sorely upon them. It requires bravery and fortitude and self-forgetfulness to do this and it can only be acquired by patience.

People are always wondering why the other fellow does not do as they do. The truth is, they do not know what they would do, if they had the other fellow's money, and the chances are that they would not make half as much use of it, or spend it as the other fellow, and that is just why they have not been favored by fortune. Nature generally has a pretty good idea of the value of things, and gives possessions to those who have some peculiar fitness to use them or care for them. We may not be able to discern this fitness, but it is there just the same. And thus the world goes, world over, those who do not have the means are criticising those who do have it, and those who have it are perpetually doing the wrong thing, doing just as they please.

The Ending Of Rural Isolation.

Farm people and folks living in country towns and villages filing their locations and going into larger cities might well consider the effect that is going to be produced in the near future by the ending of the old rural isolation. The lonely country life is soon largely to be made a thing of the past by the use of the automobile. The dull country town can become a very live one as the result of bringing the people closer together by automobile transportation.

The result of this is already to be seen in the people living in outlying neighborhoods easy access to all the things going on in the nearby towns. And the people in the towns can go out into the country districts, the majority of people living there, and drive into the towns with their automobiles.

These two elements have not yet formed themselves into one to work together. But they are learning to do so every day. The country people should be associating themselves with the towns in movements in the town centers. They are already joining business associations, farmers clubs, and are active in their improvement, and attending entertainments and lectures more than ever before.

This should unify the town and the country, so that civic movements would prosper more, the people should organize better for their mutual advantage, for obtaining industries and promoting better marketing methods.

The isolation of the old time country held it back and prevented its progress. That isolation is gone or going. The people of town and country should unite in many ways for better business, closer relations, more prosperity, more culture, more enjoyment. The results thereby gained will make country towns and rural neighborhoods better places to live and make money in.—Ex.

BUICK for 1928

Now on display at all Buick dealers

R. L. Schmerbeck

Kerrville, Texas

For the 24th year Buick has signified this promise
WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

New Model Buick Now on Display.

Beauty, style and luxury make a new venue in automotion, distinguish the entire line of Buicks for 1928, according to R. L. Schmerbeck, Kerrville dealer, in announcing the displaying of the new models. Low swung and rakish, the new Buick elicits gasps of admiration at first glance, and the deeper the investigation, the warmer the response.

In the models which Buick is presenting today, it sets a precedent. Every model of the line comprising the Buick line is as luxurious as a fine drawing room—as tastefully appointed, as painstakingly executed, and as comfortable.

Seat cushions and backs have been shaped with the same regard for comfort as makers of high grade furniture bestow upon their finest offerings. The principles established by the world's foremost body engineers in keeping with the highest dictates of modern interior decoration, and applied in a manner of which the most fastidious owner may well be proud.

Still a striking improvement in the general appearance of every Buick interior results from the new color scheme adopted for the Buick line for 1928. Contrasting colors are used, the seats taking a different shade than the side walls and head lining. The material used is a special fine quality mohair plush with soft and very durable close woven nap. All closed models are fitted with arm rests, and to add to the car's comfort as well as to its completeness.

Harmoniously combined Duco colors, emphasizing the stylish low contour of the cars, and resplendent with heavy nickle on radiator, bumpers and the beltline moldings of the Buick for 1928. Greens, blues, tans, gray, brown and maroon, all used in combination with black, and set off tastefully with brightly-striped moulding, make up the Buick color list.

A new development adding to the beauty of the new Buicks is the handsome washable top material, of light color, applied to several of the de luxe models.

One of the pleasing features on the new sedan bodies is the elimination of the vertical moulding at either side of the rear lining panel. This change produces a sweeping effect, which emphasizes the car's lowswung grace, a result to which the elocation of other moulding also contributes.

All Buick models for 1928 are fitted with new roofing material, and all present new roof lines which help to account for their stylish appearance. All have clear vision fronts, achieved by narrowing the windshield side pillars and the horizontal top bar. As with other improvements, Buick has gained better vision without sacrifice of any desirable quality. The pillars are still of the famous Fisher wood and metal.

Viewed from any angle, Buick for 1928 displays a beauty, grace and thoroughgoing luxury calculated to extend its already remarkable conquest of the fastidious. Yet beauty is only one of the new Buicks outstanding qualities. Performance, long life, and riding comfort entirely consistent with this beauty give the Buicks greater ground than ever for its claim to value beyond compare, according to Mr. Schmerbeck.

War Is Declared On Flies By Ranchmen

Over 1900 gallons of flies were burned in a few month's time.

Menard County ranchmen are forming actifly associations and have declared war upon their great menace to the cattle of that county. They have about 900 traps going now, and new ones are being built daily.

We have been informed by prominent ranchmen of that county, that they are just getting started, and they have set their goal—Make Menard a county Without a Fly.

To successfully combat this pest, the natural enemy to cattle raising, it must be carried on as a business in a business like manner. One man or a few men undertake such a stupendous job would be time and money wasted, but unwisely managed.

We are living under great the forming these days. We are uplifting as our fathers never dreamed it could be done. We are doing away with the sections announcing them. But is the heart of man being "washed and made clean."

We have chased the saloon away from the corner, thank God! But is it possible we have concluded that, since the saloon and dance hall are so much need the revival with its message of blood-red redemption? Having done those mighty things that we have ceased to be charged against us that we have left something else even more important undone.

My brethren, let the church look to Golgotha for the only cure and to the heart of man as having the one spot that must be reached. I do not desire to be counted a pessimist by my forward looking friends, but I fear that we are neglecting very much indeed this weightier matter. The world may be advancing in flying machines and sewers and radios and fine cities and hospitals and the breeding of fancy lap dogs and undoubtedly it is but we are not of the world. The heart of man is a universe all within itself and wrapped up within its hopes and its despairs, its joys and its griefs, its successes and its failures are the real issues of life and destiny. Is the heart of man becoming a better heart? Is the heart a fresh sin more free, a heart more loyal to the Christ of, the blood stained palms, a heart washed and made holy, a heart that knows the infinite joys of the indwelling of a personal Savior? If this question can be answered in the affirmative, then we are indeed advancing.

It Is A Better World

(By Bob Shuler, in Texas Christian Advocate.)

I have not yet joined those who delight to point to reeking filth as a kind of testimony and sum to feel that Texas is without blemish. Nor do I feel that there are not many sores to be found in the 'Hardware and Grocery Departments and decent people all energies to selling and taking care of the Chevrolet business. So, the Kuehne Chevrolet Co. was founded with Wa

Friday night Henry's Happy Seven Orchestra of San Antonio started playing promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Something over 1500 people were in attendance and a platform was erected across a part of Main Street to accommodate the dancers.

The 8:30 dancing was temporarily halted and Dr. L. J. Gregory, President of the Boerne Chamber of Commerce, made a short talk mentioning the ten splendid weeks' purchase of a automobile should demand in a car. The Chevrolet car meets all these requirements and added one point. Miss Chevrolet" in the person of Miss Gretchen Soef who had been concealed in a beautiful Chevrolet Landau was escorted on an attractive bridge spanning a stream. This stream was an electrical effect, which could easily be detected from real running.

After Dr. Gregory's talk Mr. Allen, Sales Promotion Manager of the Houston Zone thanked the public for their acceptance of the Chevrolet and for their splendid attendance at the opening. He stated that the Chevrolet Co. had and would continue to make better cars as the years went by. Cars were turned out. They are making over 4000 cars daily now and he said that soon the factories would be turning out 5000 cars daily. Mr. Allen is a splendid speaker.

Next Tuesday Manager Kuehne had a sales-room large enough to display the models and cars. Thus a modern up-to-date Service shop with two expert mechanics to take care of your car's needs, and a modern paint shop where a factory job of painting can be done. After this short talk they danced on until midnight.

Other factory representatives present at this occasion were G. D. Wright, traveling representative for the Southern District; Parts and Service Representative Jos. J. Marks. Parts and Service Manager Kuehne Chevrolet Co., has had a sales and service force consisting of Bill Kuehne, Service Manager and Ben W. Lampton, two store salesmen, Walter Kuehne and Edgar Hirz, and also helps the office. Ella Mae Kuehne and Miss Velma Broadway and also two mechanics. This modern equipped Service Shop would do a credit to a town several times the size of Boerne but it is in line with the Chevrolet standard.

The Kuehne Chevrolet Co., is owned by Mr. Walter Kuehne of Boerne and Mr. George Poscherniek of San Antonio. The new Service Station is entirely owned by the Kuehne Hardware Co., and the Piggly Wiggly Store of Boerne. Comfort News

What Is The River Bank

What is the bank of a public stream as applied to the law of the fisherman. How much space a fisherman has along the water's edge is fairly described by the opinion handed down by the Texas supreme court.

This definition by the supreme court, of what is the river bank largely puts an end to controversies as to the dividing line of state streams and private property.

The banks of a stream or river are the water-washed and relatively permanent elevations or acclivities at the outer lines of the river bed which separates the bed from the adjacent upland whether valley or hill and serve to confine the waters within the bed and preserve the course of the rivers when they rise to the highest point attained before they overflow in a definite channel."—Exchange.

Formal Opening A Great Success.

The Kuehne Hardware Co. of Boerne started Chevrolet cars as a sideline in 1924. In the three years following this side line business grew to such an extent that the car now occupies all the attention of the Hardware and Grocery Departments and demands all energies to selling and taking care of the Chevrolet business. To Meet With Trustees.

George P. Barron, representative from the State Department of Education, will meet with the county and local trustees at the court house in Bandera on Thursday, August 11th, to discuss the new laws and other matters pertaining to public school education. The meeting will begin session from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and Judge A. L. Mansfield urges that all trustees, patrons and friends of the schools be present.

Amendments Defeated.

The vote cast last Monday in Bandera county on the constitutional amendments was overwhelmingly against all four of the proposed measures. The total vote of the county, as near as we could gather it being as follows:

Judiciary amendment, 27 for; 268 against.

Governor's salary, 40 for; 287 against.

Tax separation, 36 for; 305 against.

Abolishing fee system, 33 for; 15 against.

Railroad Talk.

A movement is under way to construct a railroad line from Corpus Christi to San Antonio, and north to San Angelo or Ballinger. Kerrville, Junction, and Sonora are taking steps to secure this road, as are Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady. A charter has been issued to the Texas, Gulf & Northern to build from Fredericksburg to Ballinger via Mason. At a meeting held at Sonora a $100,000 and right of way for 180 miles was put up as an inducement for a railroad. Menard and Eldorado offered the same proposition. It seems to us that certain big railroad companies are going to enter the field unless something is done for some railroad building before many months pass.

Gravelling Highway

W. T. Hill, section foreman on Highway No. 91, has a crew of men gravelling the highway between Bandera and Medina, and on to the county line. Mr. Hill informs us that about $4,000 is available for this work, and he will gravel the places most needed during this month.

Will Vote on Consolidation.

It was the editor's pleasure and privilege to attend the reunion of the Texas Ex-Rangers, at Menard last week, and there we met many of the Old Guard, among them being Captain and Mrs. D. W. Roberts, of Austin, Captain John R. Hughes of El Paso, Captain J. J. Bush, of Marfa, R. F. Gholson of Evant, S. P. Elkins, of Tishomingo, Oklahoma, and others whose ages ran about eighty years. Uncle John Lane, the veteran fiddler was also there with his old fiddle and entertained the gathering of bygone days. Colorado City was selected as the meeting place next year.

The Bandera County Fair will be held at Mansfield Park August 25, 26 and 27. Preparations are now being made to make it the best fair we have ever held. There will be all kinds of stock and farm exhibits, ladies' work, school work, and plenty of entertainment each day. Make your plans to attend the fair at Bandera.

A Reunion.

On Monday, July 28, there was a meeting of relatives of Mrs. Bud Richardson and sister, Miss Velma of Ozona, on the Medina River at the mouth of Rocky Creek. Mrs. Richardson lived here many years, but has been away for many years. Those present were Mr. Richardson and daughter and husband of Ozona, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson and children and Mr. H. Graham of Kerrville, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor and son Hugh, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Keese and grandson, Lewis Keese, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Keese and family, Mrs. Oscar Hillman and children, Mrs. Gus Finney and little granddaughter, Nell, Mrs. Joe Finney and little daughter and brother, Mrs. Kinney, Mrs. Jeff Keese and children and Alfred Keese, all of Medina.

A Good Entertainment.

Mrs. V. C. Powell and her company of little girls, came up from San Antonio last Saturday and gave an enjoyable musical entertainment at Cox Hall Saturday night. The program was well arranged and was highly pleasing to the large crowd which attended.

Captain J. W. Fitch, of Eagle Pass, is here for a month's stay. Captain Fitch has been quite a prominent figure in the development of the resources of the Rio Grande Valley, being the first to introdrce citrus fruit growing in that region.

Family Reunion.

A crowd of relatives and friends met at the old home of D. T. Lewis, just south of Pipe Creek, for a reef reunion. This is the first time in several years that the whole family has been together but as Mrs. Eva Hamilton and children of Quannah, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. McCabe of Batson, Texas were here visiting at the same time this happy day was made possible. And what could be a better, happier crown to the days of a father than to have his children and his children's children gathered about him to spend a few hours in joyous accord. Then there were relatives and friends of the family to add to the enjoyment of the day. By the time the guests had all arrived it was time to spread the dinner and such a spread as it was. There were all kinds of good things to eat. I could name some of them for you but I will not make you hungry. The were the good old fashioned things that are always good.

After dinner was finished and all had rested awhile some one suggested that a few songs would fit in the program of the day very appropriately. There were quite a few good singers in the crowd so a number of them sang songs in the old fashioned way; it gladdened your heart and made you feel you were glad to be living.

Before the end of the day was a feast of watermelons which had been gathered earlier in the day and kept cool.

All too soon was the day over and it was with a feeling of sadness mingled with regret that the goodbyes were said.

Those present were: Mrs. D. T. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewis, family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brodbeck and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. Peyton and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lewis, Mr. J. B. Edwards, all of Pipe Creek; Mrs. Eva Hamilton and children, Robert, Myrtle, Hazel, Roy Lee and Mrs. H. H. Price and baby daughter all of Quannah, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCabe, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorson, of Batson, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis and Mrs. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Fleener of Medina.

In this gathering there were sixteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hunter and Master Wirth Langford of Bandera, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hunter of Harper, returned Sunday from a trip to Menard, Ballinger, Winters, Abilene, San Angelo, and other West Texas towns. We found splendid crop conditions throughout West Texas, the cotton crop being especially promising and an abundance of feedstuff being raised.

O Boy! See those samples at the tailor shop. They will fit you too. Hold their shape and will not cost any more than a hand me down.

Boulder Donated For Clark Shaft.

On a knoll overlooking the old Camp Verde military reservation, where he was a member of Company I, Third United States Infantry, near the banks of Salado Creek, a memorial shaft will be erected to the memory of Amasa Clark, veteran of the Mexican War and pioneer settler of this section, who died last winter at the age of 101 years at his home in Bandera.

A giant granite rock boulder more than six feet high will be the base of this monument, which is to be placed in the new National Cemetery just south of the old Remount Station on the Austin Post Road. The boulder was donated for this purpose the other day by Nagel brothers, owners of Bear Mountain, near Kerrville. The boulder is covered with moss which assumes a luxuriant green color when watered, and it will be kept in this natural state, according to W. B. Kreuskam, organizer of the Pioneer Freighters Association, of which Clark was a member.

A bronze plate is also being executed by Charles Simmang as his gift in memory of his father, who was a co-member of the Pioneer Freighters Association.

The memorial is being erected under the auspices of this association, the United States Army Veterans of Texas and Mexican Wars. Although a final solicitation to meet the monument has been received by Colonel C. McArthur, chief of the Veterans Service Division, the Frederick Terrell of the Navy National Bank, and W. B. Kreuskam, 623 Morales Street.

Judge James O. Luby of San Bento, president of the Pioneer Freighters Association, headed the list of subscribers to the memorial fund with a gift of $100.—San Antonio Express.

The Clark Monument.

The monument to the late Amasa Clark, veteran of the Mexican War, Indian wars and Civil War, who died, at the ripe age of 101 years, is to be placed in the new National cemetery, on the Austin road near the Remount station.

Capt. William R. Kreuskam and Charles Simmang went to Fredericksburg Thursday and selected the massive granite base which was donated by the Nagle brothers of that city.

Charlie Simmang, whose father was a freighter of the old days, is modeling a bust of the Veteran Clark, which will be cast in bronze. Mr. Simmang also donating his services will engrave the inscriptions on the base.

There is something fitting in the location of the monument from an historical standpoint. It will stand near the scene of the camp wherein was quartered the young soldier Amasa Clark, 78 years ago, following his return from the City of Mexico where he went with the victorious army of General Taylor. —Texas Trails in San Antonio Light.

Hudspeth's Condition Not Very Serious

A wire from Mrs. Claude B. Hudspeth who is in Baltimore with her husband, Congressman Hudspeth, to her brother-in-law, Roy B. Hudspeth of Sonora, states that the report that cancer of the stomach was the cause of his illness is erroneous. This report obtained circulation probably through the fact that an x-ray which was made in El Paso of Mr. Hudspeth's stomach first showed a dark spot or mass but another x-ray made the following day, showed no sign of this spot, and as cancers do not move, fear was dispelled as to that being the trouble.

Congressman Hudspeth has stomach trouble of some kind, and is in John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore under observation, where a complete diagnosis has not yet been made. The wire advised Mr. Hudspeth not to be alarmed.—Devil's River News.

Didn't Need the Lantern.

Two business friends who lived in the country met one day and one invited the other to dine with him that evening.

At the appointed time the guest set forth in the direction of the friend's house and as the roads in the village were somewhat dimly lighted he took with him an old-fashioned stableman's lantern.

The dinner was good, the wine excellent and all went merrily.

The next morning, however, he received the following note from his host of the night before:

"Dear Old Man: I am sending my man over with this note and he takes with him your lantern. If you have quite finished with my parrot and cage, I shall be awfully glad if you will return same by bearer."

Family Reunion.

A crowd of relatives and friends met at the old home of D. T. Lewis, just south of Rocky Creek, for a real reunion. This is the first time in several years that the whole family has been together but as Mrs. Era Hamilton and children of Quanah, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. McCabe of Batson, Texas were here at the time of the same time this happy day was made possible. And what could be a better, happier reason to the days of a father than to have his children and his children's children gathered about him to spend a few hours of happiness. Truly, Uncle Dave were relatives and friends of the family to add to the enjoyment of the day. By the time the crowd had all arrived it was time to spread the dinner and such a spread as it was. In this gathering there were sixteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Boulder Donated For Clark Shaft.

On a knoll overlooking the old home site was encamped a company of Company I, Third United States Infantry, near the banks of Salado Creek, a memorial shaft will be erected to the memory of Amasa Clark, veteran of the Mexican War and pioneer settler of this section, who died last winter at the age of 101 years at his home in Bandera.

A giant granite rock boulder more than six feet high will be the base of this monument, which is to be placed in the new National Cemetery just south of the old Remount Station on the Austin Post Road. The boulder was donated for this purpose the other day by Nagel brothers, owners of Beer Mountain, near Kerrville. The boulder is covered with moss which assumes a luxuriant green color when watered, and it will be kept in this natural state, according to W. E. Krempkau, organizer of the Pioneer Freighters Association, of which Clark was a member.

A bronze plate is also to be erected by Charles Simmang as his gift in memory of his father, who was a charter member of the Pioneer Freighters Association.

The memorial is being erected under the auspices of this association, the United States Army, Bandera, and Kerrville, and Clark's relatives. Although a fund sufficient to complete the memorial has been secured by Col. J. C. McArthur, secretary of the Southwestern Division, Dr. Frederick Terrell of the City National Bank, and W. E. Krempkau, 621 Mesquite Street.

Judge James O. Luby of San Diego, president of the Pioneer Freighters Association, headed the list of subscribers to the memorial fund with a gift of $100.—San Antonio Express.

The Clark Monument.

The monument to the late Amasa Clark, veteran of the Mexican War, who died only a few months ago at Bandera, is to be placed in the new National cemetery, on the Austin road near the Remount station.

Capt. William B. Krempkau and Charles Simmang went to Fredericksburg Thursday and selected the massive granite base which was donated by the Negle brothers of that city.

Charlie Simmang, whose father was a freighter of the old days, is modeling a bust of the Veteran Clark, which will be cast in bronze. Mr. Simmang also is donating the cutting of the grave the inscriptions on the base.

There is something fitting in the selection of the monument from an historical standpoint. It will stand near the scene of the camp wherein was quartered the young soldier Amasa Clark, 78 years ago, following his return from the City of Mexico where he went with the victorious army of General Taylor. —Texas Trails in San Antonio Light.

Hudspeth's Condition Not Very Serious

A wire from Mrs. Claude B. Hudspeth who is in Baltimore with her husband, Congressman Hudspeth, to her brother-in-law, Roy B. Hudspeth of Sonora, states that the report that cancer of the stomach was the cause of his illness is erroneous. This report obtained circulation previously through the fact that a ex-ray which was made in El Paso of Mr. Hudspeth's stomach first showed a dark spot or mass but another x-ray was taken a few days later, showed no sign of this spot, and as cancers do not move, fear was dispelled as to that being the trouble.

Congressman Hudspeth has stomach trouble of some kind, and is in John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore under observation where a complete diagnosis has not yet been made. The wire advised Mr. Hudspeth not to be alarmed.—Devil's River News.

If you have any old relics of early days, laying around which you do not care for, bring them to the New Era office. We are gathering relics and will appreciate anything you bring in.

The San Antonio Express of last Friday reports marriage license issued in that city to C. L. Parrer and Ruby Lee Holt.

Stone Arrow Heads.

Boys, bring your stone arrow heads to the New Era office. We will pay 5 to 25 cents each, according to size and condition. We want other stone relics also.

Didn't Need the Lantern.

Two business friends who lived in the country met one day and one invited the other to dine with him that evening.

At the appointed time the guest set forth in the direction of the friend's house and as the roads in the village were somewhat dimly lighted he took with him an old-fashioned stableman's lantern.

The dinner was good, the wine excellent and all went merrily.

The next morning, however, he received the following note from his host of the night before:

"Dear Old Man: I am sending my man over with this note and he takes with him your lantern. If you have quite finished with my parrot and cage, I shall be awfully glad if you will return same by bearer."

Sheep Raisers Hear Present Tariff Flayed

Kerrville, Texas, July 21—Dayton Moses, attorney for the Texas Cattlemen's Association, today opened a fight for adequate protective tariffs for Texas sheep raisers at the concluding session of the three-day convention of the State Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association here.

He termed the present tariff system as "deplorable," explaining that Texas, with this inadequate protection, must compete with great sheep-producing countries like Australia, Mexico, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. This condition, he claimed, has directly brought about the sale of stolen meats in the Texas cities. Most of the stolen meat marketed in San Antonio, it was explained, comes from within an area of 100 miles.

Flaying John Garner of Uvalde for over twenty years a member of Congress, for alleged unfaithfulness to his district, C. C. Belcher of Del Rio, former attorney for the sheep and goat raisers, made a vigorous plea for better protective tariffs.

Old officers re-elected are T. A. Kinkaid, president; J. G. Whitten, Eldorado, first vice president; Robert Real, Kerrville, second vice president; N. W. Graham, Ozona, secretary; James Torrey, San Angelo, attorney, and Roy E. Aldwell, Sonora, treasurer.

San Angelo was chosen for next year's meeting.

Would Extend to San Angelo and Ballinger

An amendment to the charter of the Fredericksburg and Northern Railway, which extends from Fredericksburg Junction on the Southern Pacific, to Fredericksburg, giving it the right to extend its line to San Angelo and Ballinger, was authorized Saturday by the Secretary of State in Austin.

Engineers have been in the field and most of the preliminary work incident to the proposed extension has been completed for some time, and the present move is in no sense meant as opposing efforts of business men to promote the Gulf and West Texas Railway, recently organized, according to John H. Haile, director of the Fredericksburg and Northern.

Tentative plans call for the extension from Fredericksburg through Mason and Brady to San Angelo Connections would be made at Brady with the Santa Fe and Frisco, at San Angelo with the Orient, and at Ballinger with the Texas and Pacific through the Abilene and Southern line. These connections would give San Antonio and the Port of Corpus Christi access to the Panhandle, the low plains and the high plains, according to Haile.

In building any extension or new line of railroad, the hardest task is to obtain a permit from the Interstate Commerce Commission, Haile said.

"Our road is in a better position to get this permit than any other organization," he said.

Business men of San Antonio, San Angelo, Corpus Christi, Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady recently organized the Gulf and West Texas Railway Company, electing R. W. Morrison, president of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, president, and Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi vice-president.

Three routes are being proposed for the new line, one from Fredericksburg, through Mason, Brady and Eden into San Angelo, a second from Kerrville through Bandera and a third through Bandera and Eldorado.

Haile's statement in connection with the Fredericksburg and Northern Railway activities toward an extension follows:

"In applying for an amendment to the charter of the Fredericksburg and Northern Railway, giving us the right to extend our line to San Angelo and to Ballinger, we are not in any sense antagonistic to efforts of the business men of San Antonio, San Angelo, Corpus Christi, Fredericksburg, Mason and Fredericksburg.

"We favor a northwest railroad connection through San Antonio, with the Port at Corpus Christi. On the contrary, it is our sincere desire to co-operate with these business men and insure the building of this railroad.

"This is not a sudden move on our part. For more than 18 months we have been studying the proposition. Engineers have been in the field and a reconnaissance survey and report by competent engineers have been made. This survey shows that a line 141 miles in length on the proposed route with a one per cent grade. A tonnage survey shows that there is now enough tonnage in sight to pay the operating expense, interest and sinking fund on such a railroad.

"The survey shows a cost to build and equip of not less than $35,000 a mile. We have had access to two other estimates of cost by engineers employed by bank-line railroads. One estimate was at $45,000 a mile, the other at $55,000. Your engineering estimate of $35,000 a mile is based on securing free rights-of-way, which partially accounts for the difference. Our engineers insist that $35,000 a mile is the irreducible minimum. As the proposed line is 184 miles from Fredericksburg to San Angelo, and our branch to Ballinger, this gives a minimum cost of $6,540,000.

"During the past 18 months we have discussed this piece of railroad building with all of the big lines in the territory it connects with, but have had no definite encouragement. We have, however, negotiations pending with financiers of high standing, who have the matter under consideration. We have strong grounds to hope that they will finance and build this extension.

"By connecting with the Santa Fe and the Frisco at Brady, with the Orient at San Angelo, with the Texas and Pacific through the Abilene and Southern at Ballinger, with the Texas and the Port of Corpus Christi would get access to the Panhandle, the low plains and the high plains. It would open a great trade territory and shorten the running time to Denver and the whole Northwest.

"In building any extension or new line of railroad the hardest part of the task is to secure a permit from the Interstate Commerce Commission. Our road, the Fredericksburg and Northern is in a better position to secure this 'permit' than any other organization.

"To begin with, we are now a going, operating railroad on an earning basis, and the policy of the Interstate Commerce Commission is to protect existing railroads and not allow the building of new, competing lines, unless the traffic already developed is sufficient to support two lines. That condition no one can claim successfully exists at this time in the Fredericksburg, Brady, San Angelo territory.

"We expect also, when we are financed, to furnish San Angelo, San Antonio and other cities and towns, indubitable proof of that fact and to ask their cooperation. We feel sure that the time is ripe for the construction of this northwest railroad and are confident that we will be able to secure the necessary finances to build it. Our interests are identical with those of San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady and Ballinger. What we want is the railroad to the Northwest, and we will have solid reasons to believe we are in a position to get it."

The Home Merchant And The Peddler

The chinchbug is an eternal worry to the farmer for it destroys wheat and all small grain. It is hard to combat this pest also a wanton destroyer.

The grasshopper swarms over a large areas of agricultural land and destroys grain of every description. The rabbits often ruin the apple crop with their nightly nibbling of the tender bark at the foot of the trees.

Every farmer dreds the thought of these pests that year after year harass his work toward promising a good crop. In agriculture, as in all other business, the margin between success and failure is often very small. It hurts to lose an apple crop, a wheat or corn crop. For the farmer it has put in days of hard work to produce this crop He depends on it for his profits in order that he can meet his financial obligations.

What the chinchbug, grasshopper and other pests are to the farmer the nibblers are to profits home-to-house canvassers are to the merchants of Bandera.

Like the pests to the farmer so are these nibblers always on the flanks of the merchant Swarming in and out of the homes of the community—grabbing at every business here and there—nibbling away on the profit of the merchants who support our city.

Did you ever ask one of these peddlers to help support a local charity fund, or any worthy movement? If so how surprised he must have been at your suggestion as he told you, "why I don't live here."

He is no our city and community for only one reason and that is to get good, easy money that he can spend somewhere else. Because of this he has no interest in Bandera.

The average peddler is the parasite who feeds on business that should stay right here at home. By subtle means he leads you to believe that the bargains he offers are better than the home quality and are better than you can obtain here at home. As a matter of fact it is the reverse and can easily be verified by looking for the articles he has for sale here in your own stores and making comparisons.

Every dollar spent at home is a dollar invested. Every dollar spent with the peddler is gone—never to return.

Efforts To Remove Road Signs

For the past few years sentiment toward the beautification of state highways has been growing, and much is heard relative to the moving on all roadsigns. Aside from the appearance much is being said on this subject from the standpoint of safety.

Commenting on this very subject Monday's Star Telegram had this to say:

Dallas County takes a decisive step toward highway beautification, it is officially announced that all signs on highway property and adjoining property which may come under the jurisdiction of the highway authorities are coming down. Only official markers will be permitted.

In addition, telephone poles too near the roadway or which interfere in anyway with traffic are to be moved as fast as possible.

The Dallas County example is a good one for other counties to follow. The State Highway Commission is working to eliminate unsightly and vision-impending signs on designated highways throughout the State. Counties can expediate this work locally by taking it into their own hands. In addition, the businessmen roads designated as state highways may also be enlisted in the clean-up.

The public has condemned roadway advertising signs which are of a nature to detract from the pleasure or safety of travelers along the highways. Merchants and business men have pretty generally come to the conclusion that such advertising is a mistake, since it creates resentment more than it does good will toward the advertiser. It ought not to be a difficult matter to clean up Texas' highways in this respect.

Puss On The Praise

"You're a great little wife, and I don't know what I would do without you." And as he spoke he put his arms about her and kissed her and she forgot all the cares in that moment. And forgetting it all, she sang as she washed the dishes, and sang as she made the beds, and the song was heard next door, and a woman there caught the refrain and sang also, and two homes were made happier because he had told her that old sweet story—the story of the love of a husband for a wife. As she sang, the butcher boy who called for the order heard it and went out whistling on his journey, and the world heard the whistle, and one man hearing it thought how is a lad who loves his work, a lad happy and contented."

And because she sang, her heart was mellowed, and as she swept about the back door the cool air kissed her on each cheek and she thought of a poor old woman she knew, and a little basket went over to that home with a quarter in it for a crate or two of work to do.

So, because he kissed her and praised her, the song came and the influences went out and out.

Pass on the praise.

Did you ever ask one of these peddlers to help support a local charity fund, or any other worthy movement? If so how surprised he must have been at your suggestion as he told you, "why I don't live here."

Body of Mystery Man Laid to Rest in Potter's Field

After lying in the morgue of John H. Ward & Co. for six weeks, the body of Peter Moyer, man of mystery, was buried Saturday in the Potter's field at Glen Rest Cemetery.

Moyer, 32 years old, died in the infirmary at Legion Hospital on June 16 from a wound in the head alleged to have been received in an altercation. All efforts of Federal and county authorities to find relatives of the dead man proved futile. A movement finger print expert was sent to Kerrville in an attempt to check up War Department records and determine whether the fight victim was an ex-service man; but the finger prints failed to reveal anything of the man's past.

At the time of his death, Moyer was employed by the U. S. Veterans Bureau on new construction under way at Legion Hospital.

A Legion resident is out on bail in connection with the death of Marcello Mountain Sun.

Fire Sunday Night.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a feed house and part of the First National Bank building here last Sunday night, and for a time threatened the destruction of the whole business district. The feed house belonged to W. L. Davenport, and contained a quantity of corn and other feed stuff. The fire had gained good headway when discovered about 9:30, and within just a few moments the building was developed in flames. The crowd soon collected and with buckets proceeded to fight the fire. The rear of C. B. Corley's grocery store was in line with the fire and a shed room which was used as a storeroom, became ignited, but by thorough and heroic work on that part of the building was saved. Everybody worked heroically, else the fire would have spread and there is no telling how much damage would have been done. Mr. Corley's entire stock of groceries was moved across the street by willing hands and deposited on the sidewalk, and while he sustained some loss in the burried removal, Mr. Corley realizes that the loss would have been much greater had not his stock been removed. A call was sent in for aid from Boerne, San Antonio and Kerrville, but it seemed that the fire fighting district of the Bandera people will attend the town would burn, and the call was generally ignored in and is included in the program.

Revival Meeting.

The revival meeting begins at the Methodist church next Sunday. This meeting will be conducted by Rev. John N. McKay, and the song service will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. B. J. Cossett. Everybody cordially invited to attend the services, morning and evening.

Garrison and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Autry, all of the Medina community. These are popular young people, and have the congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends.

Barbecue at Castroville.

Castroville will entertain with a grand barbecue next Saturday, August 13th, under auspices of the Old Trail Drivers' Association. A number of prominent people will attend the barbecue. An old time dance is generally enjoyed on such occasions and is included in the program.

Indictment Returned For Killing in 1922

Junction, Tex., Aug. 9.—Kimble County district court for the present session of the civil docket with the exception of a few minor cases and very nearly all the criminal docket.

The grand jury returned five indictments, two for assault and one perjury, and one for murder. The two murder charges were against Homer Fleming, who is serving a term in the penitentiary for the murder of his wife, and the new charge of murder is for the killing of O. L. Freeman, who was assassinated in 1922. Troy Fleming is the oldest son of Ed Fleming, who was killed by Freeman in a saloon battle.

Troy Fleming had been placed under bond by the county judge after the killing of Freeman, but was not held after the grand jury met, but ever since the killing of Freeman every effort of Sheriff Lewis and deputies and Mrs. T. A. Wilson and Mrs. T. A. Wilson, district court stenographer, to locate the whereabouts of Troy Fleming was placed under $10,000 bond.

What a wonderful thing is hope. It cheers the weary toiler on his way, and comforts those whose passing years have almost reached their end. It is the inspiration that gilds the day with glory for the morrow and paints upon the brain exquisite pictures of that by and by which we will come in, and for which we gather treasure. It cheers its humble devotee in the darkest hour of trial, and when we see them great and full of honors, wearing them all with grace and ease. We do not wonder at their success, but still the hope is born that each dawning day and our darkest hour full of happiness, for desperate work and strange thrilling, while deep hidden springs of reality sometimes flow. When hope dies there is nothing else left but despair. Hope is the thing we hope for and holds us waiting for a smile.

There is an irresistible charm about currency and counterfeiting. Some people accumulate a great deal more than others because they are active, energetic and at once grasp the situation, the hearts of others all around them they come in contact. It is not easy thing to learn to be considerate and thoughtful of others, and when we have practiced its precepts for years, dends, then we are rewarded by faithful, loving friends.

The Big Spring Herald, one of a Texas exchanges, is a daily that has come to our table on canvas. It is a credit to the school of journalism with which it is connected. It is well edited, well printed, and is a credit to the town in which it is published. There is a simple little magazine that comes to our table that we always look forward to with pleasure. It is published by the students of the Simmons College, Abilene, Texas. The Simmonite is a typical college paper, and is a credit to the school and to the state. It is well edited, well printed, and is a credit to the town in which it is published. There is a simple little magazine that comes to our table that we always look forward to with pleasure. Sunday night's fire should serve to call attention to the immediate steps he takes in order to provide some adequate protection for Bandera. Had the fire occurred in the daytime or at night, when everybody was asleep, there is no question but that a greater portion of the town's business district would have been wiped out. As it was plenty of help was immediately available to fight the fire, and although water was lacking at first, the fire was held in check and confined to one small building. Bandera needs a fire brigade and equipment with which to cope with the fire demon.

The strenuous age in which we live has a tendency to dull sentiment and stress commerce. It is, of course, quite important that we engage business diligently and develop it to the highest possible point, but, in doing so, we should never lose sight of the value of a proper development of our regard for one another, and the importance of enjoying our sympathies and our tenderness. It is only in real life its human interest, the mutual regard for the comfort and the prosperity of our neighbors and our friends, we have very little left but the husks of living. Money can be made a useful medium in the progress and development of the world, but money in the hands of one whose life has developed selfishness and avarice, is of no use in the attainment of happiness.

Frontier Times for September.

The September number of Frontier Times will be issued from the press early next week. This number marks the close of the fourth year of this popular little magazine's existence, and it is a typical number of the high character of service and preserve Texas history. The magazine will enter its fifth year with most encouraging prospects, and with thousands of friends and admirers scattered all over the United States. The September number will contain many interesting sketches, among which are mentioned "Our Life in Southwest Texas," "The Hatt's at Ball's Ranch in 1868," "Old time Puncher Reviews Cowboy Attack in Box Canyon in 1880," "Build a Monument to Texas Rangers," "John Booker Bowles, a Pron ter Character," "Treed Negro Robs His Master," "Amos Alexander and His Son Killed by Indians," "A Story of Buried Treasure in Austin," "Captain June Peak, a Texas Ranger," and other thrilling tales of early days in Texas. The price of this interesting little magazine is $1.50 per year, or fifteen cents per copy.

"There is a Reason"

Interesting Show.

The showing of the film, "From Flock to Fabric," put on at the Bandera Theater last Friday night in connection with the regular show, proved much interest to those who saw it. Making the public acquaint with what manufacturing is and dispelling the mistaken notions aligut it, is the job tackled by A. C. Gage, editor of the Angora Goat and not entirely. Not one-tenth of the people of the United States know where mohair comes from, nor what it is. Mr. Gage convinced that the little animals so profitable in Texas should be called mohair goats, because mohair has been advertised and is known to the householders of America, while Angora, the former, is in faraway Turkey and has no significance to the user of mohair draperies and upholstery and that which mohair is used to produce. There are angora cats, angora rabbits, and there is only one mohair goat.

In his address, the speaker recited how much the quality of the mohair depends upon the grease in the natural state. This makes it pliable, elastic and suitable for cloth making. Texas produces eighty per cent of the mohair in America, and each pound or thousandth of the world creatures on her vast ranges.

The films of the industry were supplied by L. C. Chase & Co., of Boston, distributors for Sanford Mills in Maine. Eight hundred feet of film were made Tuesday in Uvalde. Mr. Gage declared that seven counties in Texas produce more mohair than any other area in the world, and that Texas' tak clip is the finest quality mohair that comes to the mills.

An Appreciation

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to each and every one who so liberally helped with donations of cash or labor in the assembling of our Christmas School house. In a special way do we appreciate the labor donated by Messrs. M. F. Johnson and J. R. Price, and the cash donations by the three following ladies; The Commissioners Court, County School Board and the Bandera P. T. A.

Others too numerous to mention here have given liberally of their means and time and we fully appreciate each gift.

The house is now completed and painted. Our equipment will be meager, but we hope to get it fully equipped again in time.

We wish also to thank in advance to bring in donations later.

Center Point Hotel Destroyed By Fire

Center Point, Tex., Aug. 5.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Fuller Hotel at this place Thursday night. The building was of frame, two-story construction and contained 20 rooms. It was one of the landmarks of the town, having been built some 30 years ago. Mrs. Fuller had occupied it for the past 12 years. The fire was well under way when discovered and Mrs. Fuller, her daughter and two grandchildren and other guests barely escaped with their lives. Fortunately a two-story brick building stood between the building burned and other frame buildings and helped prevent the spread of the flames.

A volunteer bucket brigade was formed and with the aid of chemical fire extinguishers the flames were confined to the upper story of the brick building until the fire company from Kerrville arrived. They quickly had hose to the river some 1,200 feet away, and were soon pumping a large stream of water on the flames. Mrs. Fuller's loss is estimated at $5,000, with no insurance. The damage to other buildings was slight.

Texas Angora Goat Raisers.

Attendance at the annual convention, show and sale of the Texas Angora Goat Raisers' Association was in larger volume this year than ever before. There were 3,000 visitors here from surrounding districts, including Rest, Edwards, Gillespie, Menard, Bexar and Blanco counties on the opening day. To these must be added the townspeople who have shown interest in the three days' program and helped the Retail Merchants' Association and the convention committees to welcome the huge crowd.

Tuesday morning's program opened with the film "From Flock to Fabric," shown at the Strand Theater. The attendance was excellent, and the same feature also was the opening event on each morning's program.

Displays of mohair fabrics were exhibited in show windows together with silver cups awarded by the Angora Goat Breeders' Association, had a display of ribbons awarded to the best fleeces of the goat raisers.

Leading breeders from all parts of West Texas were represented in the show pens. A special line of goats was credited to J. O. Lander, John Wheat, Dr. W. W. Nyman, Mrs. Wheat, Dr. W. H. Rollings, J. A. Pepper, Fred T. Harwood, W. B. Patterson, Joe Cooper, J. B. Robbins, W. J. Childress, and other prominent breeders and growers either had goats in the show or were interested spectators of the judging.

The auctioneer of the Mohair Industry was commended on by many because goat raising is one of the few lines of business responsible for the name chevron as applied to the flesh of the goat. Herbert is recognized as a leading auctioneer of mohair growing and paid the highest price for a single sire at the 1925 sale of imported South African Angoras, held at Camp Wood.

Wednesday afternoon an informal reception was held at the Kincaid hotel parlors and five-thirty tea guests were taken for a ride over the city by the ladies of Uvalde. A six o'clock banquet dinner was served in the outdoor dining room and one hundred guests met at the home of Mrs. John N. Garner and a reception was held there. The reception committee was composed of Mrs. Garner and the presidents of the various clubs of the town. Punch was served in the dining room and other refreshments later to about eighty-five guests. The visitors expressed their enjoyment and appreciation of the afternoon's entertainment.

The natural theater in the grove of live oak trees in Sycamore City Park was a beautiful setting for the pageant. "Texas Under Six Flags," staged and directed by Mrs. Guy Hall, was the entertainment of the visitors. Twenty-five hundred is a conservative estimate of the number who attended the pageant and many expressed praise of this colorful pantomime which depicted the different stages of Texas history.

The dance on the roof of the hotel was attended by many of the visitors, although the attendance was smaller than the dance given the night before when over two hundred couples were dancing. The dance tonight is expected to be given of greater attendance.

The trophies on exhibition at the Kincaid hotel, in the window of Dyer & Thompson's office, have caused considerable interest. One that Frank Landrum prizes very highly is a silver cup, won in 1861 by William Landrum, pioneer of this country and the goat industry in California for the best Cashmere buck. There are other fine Landrum awards in the silver cups won by Frank Landrum at the various fairs and association meetings. One is for five (5) of this County to determine whether a majority of the legally qualified voters of that District desire to consolidate the said District with the Lawson Creek Common School District No. Three (3) thereby forming the Consolidated Medina Independent School District No. Five (5) of this County, and petition bearing the requisite number of signatures of resident, qualified voters of said district and being in every respect in conformity with law.

Now, therefore I, A. L. Mansfield in my official capacity as County Judge of Bandera County, Texas, do hereby order that an election be held on the 3rd day of September, A. D. 1927, at the school house in said Independent School District No. Five (5) of this County to determine whether a majority of the legally qualified voters of that district desire to consolidate the said District with the Lawson Creek Common School District No. Three (3) and the Medina Independent School District No. Five (5) of this County, and petition bearing the requisite number of signatures of resident, qualified voters of said district and being in every respect in conformity with law.

Now, therefore I, A. L. Mansfield, in my official capacity as County Judge of Bandera County, Texas, do hereby order that an election be held on the 3rd day of September, A. Copious and refreshing showers fell over the county yesterday breaking a drouth of several weeks' duration. The rains came very early Sunday morning, resulting in heavy loss to the corn crop. Many cars of automobile, wagon, harness, farm implements, several hundred bushels of oats and corn and much feed stuff. Origin of the fire is unknown.

John Butler Dead.

The New Era deeply sympathizes with Mrs. Lula Cavitt, of Center Point in the loss of her brother, John Butler, who died at Lima last Friday. Mr. Buster was engaged in business at Taft, and his death occurred while he was visiting relatives at Lima. The remains were taken to Taft for burial. Mr. Butler had been in ill health for several months. He was a man of splendid character, and had a host of friends by all who knew him.

Autos Take Heavier Toll Than World War.

Washington, Aug. 13.—More people have been killed by automobiles in the United States during the past eight years than the American soldiers dead in the World War the National Automobile Chamber says.

From January 1, 1919, to December 31, 1926, 371,909 persons were killed by automobiles, while the total casualties of the World War in the American United forces was 320,518. The injured in automobile accidents, however, was 3,500,000 since the armistice.

Twenty-six per cent of the killed and injured were children under the age of 15 years, according to the figures. Last year it was over 30,000 persons were killed, an increase over 1926. The largest automobiles for

Squirrels Cut Pecan Crop

Brackettville, Texas, Aug. 16.—The pecan crop in certain sections of this county, which started out under the most promising of conditions in spring and early summer, has fallen victim to squirrels and storms, and before the presence of numbers of squirrels in the pecan groves practically cleaned up the nut crop. Indications are that despite other favorable conditions, the pecan harvest will be low this year here.

Coolidge May Make Race

Rapid City, S. D. Aug. 12 (AP).—Whatever President Coolidge intends to do next year regarding the Republican nomination, a group of his friends, including a Cabinet member, a Senator, a Governor and several Congressmen who were his guests Thursday predicted that he would run if the convention nominates him.

They all were convinced that Mr. Coolidge meant exactly what he said in his statement that "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." but the opinion was held by some of them that the President would be drafted, and they all agreed that if he were, he would run.

The group which visited at the summer white house included Secretary Work, Senator Pepe of Ohio, Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Representatives William E. Hull of Illinois, Emerson Seeley of Minnesota and M. C. Brush, president of the International Mercantile Marine. Also included was an old friend of Mr. Coolidge, William J. Donovan, assistant to the Attorney General also was present, but he declined to discuss politics.

"To all of this group who expressed their sentiments to Mr. Coolidge regarding his choice not to run, the President replied substantially, it was said, that "this is not a country for any man to be President. There are several men who would make good Presidents."

The most outspoken of the group were Senator Pess and Representative Hull. Both predicted that the convention would deadlock and that Mr. Coolidge would be named in spite of his statement.

"It is likely," Mr. Hull added, "that Coolidge will be nominated for President in 1928, just as he was nominated for Vice President in 1920."

Amplifying that declaration, he said that there possibly would be no concerted effort to nominate Mr. Coolidge, but that out of a clear-sky his name would be proposed and the convention would result. Senator Pess declared that the President would decline to run if the nomination were forced upon him, something he told Hoiy.

Mr. Brush, the President's old friend, said that when asked his opinion of the statement.

"In the twenty-five years I have known Mr. Coolidge he has always been right."

Mr. Work volunteered that the President, by his statement, "has not put up a definite bar to being drafted, and Secretary Work declared that no one can forteli "what will happen on March 4, 1929."

Frontier Times Is Featured.

In a recent issue of the Dallas Times-Herald appeared a feature story of Frontier Times, J. Marvin Hunter's growing monthly magazine, which is published in Bandera. The story, a splendid one, was written by Matthew Paxton, a well known newspaper writer of San Antonio. Among other good things Mr. Paxton had to say about Frontier times is the following paragraph:

"But let it not be supposed that Frontier Times is for the illiterate. It is found in many university libraries. Like the old men who have seen the life of the frontier, students find mental pabulum in the untrod trails of Hunter's journals. Copies also may be found on more than one broad mahogany desk in private Street. In a few years the editor has gained a circulation of 3,000 in Europe. He has purchased a modern printing plant and owns a small but well lighted building. He is also to create almost his entire time to the magazine and to volumes of pioneer memoirs. His oldest daughter, Nettie, edits and gathers news for the weekly; Rachel, 17, politics and Mary Jane, 13, and Marvin, 19, runs the presses. J. Marvin Hunter, the oldest son, who until recently was his father's principal assistant, publishes the Herald at Hamer, Texas, but in his spare time he contributes creditable illustrations to Frontier Times. Thus does not idle in the accumulation of a fortune, nor in any other thing except so far as a man contributes to the stimulus of hope into reality. J. Marvin Hunter is one of the men of the million fifties of his years, he works among the beautiful hills where Hamer, Texas, and other small but battles in Central Texas and other states. Davis would be nominated for the only cannot post on this continent. History ground for a project that is as much entitled to the attention of history."

We have never met Mr. Paxton, the writer of this feature story, and while in his splendid article he refers to us as a man of fine fellow qualities of our years, which is probably in years wrong, we are grateful to him for the good words he has spoken of the work we have undertaken to do through the kindness of such good writers as Paxton, Cunningham, Dobie and others, that Frontier Times is being brought to the notice of people everywhere, and that the purpose for which the work was set them for being helpful to this work.

Just a Little Want Ad.

It is remarkable what a little 25-cent want ad will do sometimes. If you have anything for sale, a little cost it is, you can insert a small want ad in the New Era at very little cost, and the purchaser will hereby learn that you want to sell it, a trade, or maybe you have purchase while you are telling a dozen or two people that you have something to sell. We are known of a 5-cent ad selling a farm. No need buying anything you have lands which you do not need, and which there want to buy and would buy if you knew it for sale. Our advertising rates are 7½ cents per line for insertion; count six words to the line; 24 words will make your line, and cost on. Try a want ad and be convinced. In sending in your want ads send cash with order.

The New Era works for you a whole year for only a dollar and a half, due date of pay day opposite your name on the margin or wrapper of your paper.

The Bandera New Era

$1.50 Per Year, in Advance

Editor and Publisher
MISS JANNETTE HUNTER
Associate Editor

Entered asoecond-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The New Era is changing its dress from 10 point type to 7 points. By this change we gain about four columns of space in our regular weekly issue, which on Twenty Thirty will gain eight full pages. And the face of type we are going to use is Ionic No. 5, 7-point, while smaller, will be plainer and easy to read. In fact, it is highly endorsed by opticians as being restful to the eye. This new style of type was recently brought out by the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., and the New Era is one of the first papers in this part of Texas to adopt this new and more readable type.

This week we publish the program of the County Teachers' Institute, to be held in Bandera September 9th and 6th. It is compulsory for teachers of the county to attend the Institute so a full attendance is urged. The program as arranged contains many interesting subjects, not only of interest to the teachers, but to the patrons of the county schools as well. Be sure to read it, and if you are disposed to attend the meeting of the Institute you will be welcome there.

One of the best weekly newspapers which comes to our exchange table is the Menard Messenger, published by Leo O. Warren. Mr. Warren has recently moved his up-to-date printing plant into a handsome new building, which he owns. Menard is our old home town, for that is where this editor entered the newspaper game thirty-seven years ago, and naturally we rejoice that the present editor is achieving that degree of success which comes as a reward of earnest effort.

The County Fair starts next Thursday, August 25, and continues through the 26th and 27th. Three big days of entertainment and education, which you made your plans to be here, and to put on display some of the products of Bandera county profits more than you can estimate by holding this County Fair each season. Even our home people learn what others are doing in the line of farm products and live stock when they attend the fair and see what is on display, while visitors from other sections who attend the fair can readily see what can be raised in this county and they go away with the conviction that Bandera county is one of the best counties in the State. Last year some people from East Texas attended our county Fair, and we noticed them said to the editor: "I see always under the impression that Bandera county was a poor county agriculturally; I thought your land was too rocky and rough to even cultivate a garden patch on. This display of farm products has certainly been an eye opener to us. The stuff you raise here will compare with anything we raise in East Texas, and besides, you seem to raise it with less labor and expense." And this is so true. Let's boost our County Fair and get some more of these East Texas people to come here and get their eyes opened.

Commissioner R. C. Boales, with a crew of road hands, has been doing some good work out on the road to Center Point. Some bad stretches have been graded and others gravelled, all of which helps wonderfully. Old Bandera county will have first class roads some of these days if perseverance counts for anything.

The New Era is your home paper. It costs you only $1.50 per year.

Austin Bank Robbed

All highways and crossroads between San Antonio and Austin were being patrolled Monday by Texas rangers and heavily armed riot squads from both cities in effort to apprehend three youthful bandits who held up the University bank in the shadow of the state university, and escaped with $26,300 loot in an automobile.

The armed trio sauntered in soon after the bank opened, whipped out pistols, and forced employes to flatten themselves against the walls. The cashiers' cages, inner drawers and vaults then were rifled systematically, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Miss Maud Potts, one of the employes, was in the rear of the bank when the bandits gave the command for all to "hands up", and shot out the bank entrance, sounding the alarm and obtaining the license number of the bandit-car.

In communications between San Antonio authorities and Austin officers, in which it was reported that the bandits were fleeing toward Austin, it was discovered that the automobile had been stolen from D. F. Youngblood, manager of the Southern Dairy company, Aug. 16.

With Austin posses closing in from all directions, county sheriffs and police were dispatched toward Austin from here about 10 a. m.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Alphonse Newton and Detective Chief Bain Street Maddox departed were awaiting word from their men. Other searchers will be sent out if necessary, they announced.

According to press reports, the bandits got a fifteen-minute jump on Austin police.

They nonchalantly stepped into the bank while University students passed to and fro on the conventional manner, but without looking Sacco and Vanzetti Die.

Charlestown State Prison, Boston, Mass., Aug. 23.—Nicola Sacco and Bartolo Vanzetti shortly after midnight Tuesday morning paid the penalty of death exacted by the State for murder.

Celestino Madeiros preceded them to the electric chair by a few minutes, the world-known radicals following as rapidly as the execution routine would permit.

Madeiros died at 12:09 a. m., for the murder of a Wrentham bank cashier. Sacco and Vanzetti were executed for the murder of a paymaster and his guard at Braintree, more than seven years ago. Sacco was dead at 12:19 and Vanzetti at 12:26.

The fight in behalf of the men continued until the last minute.

Both Sacco and Vanzetti made brief speeches in the death chamber before they took their seats in the chair, Vanzetti protesting his innocence to the last.

Sacco, pale but steady, shouted in Italian:

"Long live anarchy!" as he sat down in the chair.

Then in broken English he went on: "Farewell to my wife and child and all my friends."

The straps were being adjusted as he said his last words.

"Good evening, gentlemen; farewell, mother!"

Vanzetti entered the death chamber the calmest of all the three men. Shaking hands with two of the guards, he passed through the door of the execution chamber, he walked unassisted to the chair and seated himself.

As the guards began the hasty adjustment of straps on his head and body he began a speech.

"I wish to tell you I am innocent and never connected with any crime, but sometime some sin. I thank you for everything you have done for me. I am innocent of all crime not only of this case but all. I am an honest man."

When just as the guards slipped the straps and head cap in place, cutting off further speech, he shouted:

"I wish to forgive some people for what they are now doing to me."

Just a Little Want Ad.

It is remarkable what a little 25-cent want ad will accomplish. If you have anything to sell, no matter what it is, you can insert a small want ad in the New Era at very little cost, and hundreds of people will thereby learn that you want to sell the article. This paper can tell hundreds while you are telling a dozen or two people that you have something to sell. We have known of a 25-cent ad selling a farm. No need to spend a dollar on your hands which you do not need, and which when sold for a good would buy that if they know you have it for sale. Our advertising rates are low—only 2c per line per insertion; count six words to the line; 24 words will make four lines, and cost 8c. Try a want ad and be convinced. In sending in your want ads send cash with order.

Boy Has Laughing Sickness

The boy has the laughing Sickness is bad but here is a boy who says that the Laughing sickness is good.

The boy happened to be in town last Saturday evening and was invited to go to the school auditorium and listen to the rehearsal of a Burlesque that the T. T. A. will present Sat. night, Sept. 3rd. It was such a screem that he started laughing and couldn't stop. He is receiving the best of attention and is recovering fine.

We are now urging everybody who can laugh to attend the play. If there is any thing to the saying "Laughing is Healthy" a Burlesque to those who attend this wonderful play that "the fat will get fatter and the thin will get thick."

Good Road Work.

Commissioner H. E. Barnes of the Pipe Creek precinct is doing some splendid road work on the Bandera and Boerne road, gulling the bad places on that thoroughfare in good condition. The county funds at his disposal for this work are being supplemented by funds contributed by the Boerne Gasoline Co. for advertising and the afternoon is being expended in such a manner as to get best results. The Bandera-Boerne road has needed improving for some time and the traveling public will now rejoice that the work is being done.

BANDERA

Forced Down in Hunt.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 29.—Diplomatic and military authorities were today making an effort to locate Capt. C. H. Reynolds and his aide, Master Sgt. Dan Revlin, of the Second Division Air Service, who are believed to be prisoners in Mexico after a forced landing there.

Although advices from Washington said that no word of the incident had reached army or State Department heads there, Consul General Alejandro P. Carrillo at Mexico City, when informed by the Government from San Antonio asking that the men, who are supposed to be held at Valle de Rio Blanco, be located and released.

News of their capture came from Col. C. F. Sweeney, the First Cavalry at Camp Marfa, who wired friends of Reynolds here that the aviators had been forced down and captured some place near Huitosio. Reynolds was on record in San Antonio at the time, after an unsuccessful attempt to locate Alfred C. Menard, child-kidnaper star veteran, who is loc on the Arizona desert.

Col. J. C. McArthur of the Second Division took the matter up with Consul General Carrillo as soon as it came to his attention. Officials at Washington said that even if the men were prisoners in Mexico the event was not fatal, since rights between the two countries are made only by special permit. Officials favored by hand between their own lines are usually taken into custody as a formality until the landing is investigated.

The telegram from Colonel Babcock said that the plane was not damaged and that he was trying to arrange for the men to be brought to Ojinaga, Mexico, on the border southwest of Marfa, and released.

A Bunch of Fun.

The play to be given at the High School auditorium next Friday night, under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association, promises to be a "Bunch of Fun" indeed as well as in name. The cast of characters will be found in another column of this issue. Musical numbers will also be given by A. P. Carl, Miss Lillie Adler and others. You will miss a treat if you miss the "Bunch of Fun."

Leaves for Lubbock.

M. M. Cobb and family left this week for Lubbock, where they will reside. Mrs. Cobb is operated, a barber shop in that city for the past several months, and made many friends who wish him success in his new location. He is a splendid young man, a good barber, and deserving success. He resigned the office to Sheriff Behrens thanks to all for the patronage they accorded him while he was in business here, and for the many kind-nesses shown him.

Schott Family Reunion.

The annual reunion of last Sunday contained a write-up of the Schott family reunion, held at Rio Medina a few years ago, and showed group pictures of F. A. Schott, pioneer, and his family. The Express said:

"Ninety-six years old and still going strong is Fred Schott, Sr., pioneer of this section, who last Sunday was one of the livest members of the party when he had his nine sons and two daughters and their children and grandchildren gathered under the family roof. The eldest of the children is 69 years old and the youngest is 32. Schott still lives at Rio Medina, where he settled in 1846. The old homestead is occupied still stands near the present Schott home."

Quite a number of Bandera folks went to Kerrville Saturday and Monday to see the showing of "The Big Parade," a super war picture at the Schreiner Theater in that city, the management of the Arcadia is to be congratulated on securing this wonderful picture, and the people of our town who sent over to see it were highly pleased. The picture has a splendid play-house now, equal in its appointments to theaters in towns fifty thousand population. Our showing folks do not have to go to San Antonio any more to see. People in Arcadia, in Kerrville meets the demand, and Kerrville is twenty-five miles nearer Bandera than San Antonio.

You Can Kill Squirrels.

We have heard many complaints against the law which prohibits the killing of squirrels during certain season of the year. It will be gratifying to our farmers and ranchmen to know that the last Legislature changed this law to some extent, and now it is not unlawful to kill squirrels here at any time of the year. Squirrels greatly damage growing crops in this section every year, and in the early fall they do much damage to young pecans. Why a closed season was placed on them at all has always been a mystery to us.

A. W. Wright, of Smiley, was in Bandera last week on business.

The County Fair.

The Seventh Annual Bandera County Fair has been held and passed into history with the many events of like nature which have taken place at Bandera. The crowds Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week were not large, but everybody seemed to enjoy the fair to the fullest extent. The agricultural, live stock and other exhibits were of the best. Beautiful displays of ladies' work there to light the visitor, and there was plenty of entertainment in the way of rodeo and baseball games and other carnival concessions provided novelties and sport, too. Altogether, it was a good fair, as all will acknowledge, and the premiums awards will be found elsewhere in the New Era.

School Starts Next Wednesday.

Bandera public schools open next Wednesday, September 7th. Get the children ready and reported as direct the opening. We are all looking forward to a successful term, and this can be made possible by hearty co-operation of parents with the faculty. The faculty for the coming school year of Bandera High School is composed of A. K. Briggs, superintendent, mathematics; Miss Lucile E. B. Teel, principal, history and economics; C. Hamilton Moses, science; Miss Harriet Harrison, English and sixth grades; Miss Bess Campbell, third and fourth grades; Miss R. B. Hall, first and second grades.

The program for all parents on the opening day is kindly requested.

Premium List Next Week.

The New Era will publish the list of premiums awarded at the Bandera Fair, in the Agricultural department and the ladies' department, in our issue next week. It was impossible to prepare the list in time for this week's issue.

Accidently Shot.

Earl Mansfield was painfully wounded last Friday night, when a revolver dropped on the running board of an automobile and was discharged. The bullet entered his leg below the knee and came out above the knee, the course of the leaden missile scattering fragments in its flight. Fortunately no bones were struck, and the shot made only a flesh wound. He is getting along nicely, and no serious results are anticipated.

Returns After 26 Years.

James R. Ross, of Washington, D. C., was here Friday, Saturday and Sunday visiting at the home of his brother, John H. Ross, and sister, Mrs. Eli Buck. Mrs. Ross was Miss Ross' first visit to the old home town in over twenty-six years, and he had been mourned. Bandera friends, while he was a soldier in Uncle Sam's service, he was reported as drowned in Galveston bay, but it must have been some other Jim Ross, for, as he says, the report of his death was greatly exaggerated. He has been on a visit to friends in California, and dropped in to Bandera to see the old town and the folks at home again. He departed for Washington Monday.

Baseball at the Fair.

The baseball game played on the fair grounds last Thursday between Bandera and Harper teams resulted in a victory for the home team, by a score of 4 to 3. It was a lively game from start to finish.

The game played Saturday, on the fair grounds between Bandera and Medina teams resulted in victory for the latter team; score 7 to 5. This was also a lively game and Medina players covered themselves with glory.

Married Tuesday.

Stuart Haley and Miss Mary Cecilia Jaekle were married at St. Joseph's Catholic church in San Antonio Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father Ignatius officiating. Following the groom's brother, was best man, and Miss Vesy Jaekle the bride's sister, was maid of honor. It was a beautiful ceremony and was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jaekle of San Antonio, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Henry Haley of Bandera. They are worthy young people, and the New Era joins in wishing them joy and happiness through life.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Austin. They will be at home after September 12 at 347 East Nueltzer street San Antonio.

Young Man Badly Burned.

Foster Howland, who is employed on the Humble pipe line construction crew at Tuff, was badly burned last Saturday night when he was pouring gasoline from a can, a lighted lantern sitting some distance away ignited the gasoline, causing an explosion and within an instant the young man was enveloped in flames. By heroic action in camp saved his assistance and extinguished the flames but not before he was seriously burned. The sufferer was taken to a hospital at Kerrville, where, at last report, he was resting well.

J. F. Rogers and children, Leslie, Ira and Thelma, of the Imperial Valley, California, were here last week on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Chas Schmidtke. They were accompanied by Merrill Hotchkiss, also of the Imperial Valley.

More Than $250,000 Spent.

New York, Aug. 30.—The seven-year vain search to save Sacco and Vanzetti from death in the electric chair entailed expenditures totaling more than $250,000 Aldino Felicani, treasurer and founder of the Boston defense committee, announced here tonight.

Of this amount, less than $6,000 was contributed by communists throughout the country, Felicani said, with the New York Sacco-Vanzetti emergency committee sending a total of $300 for the defense, of the anarchists.

Reports that communists in the United States had raised $500,000 in the interest of the pair were branded as false by the founder of the defense committee. The Third International at Moscow was said to have sent $1,000 but the money was never received, Felicani declared.

The Boston defense committee's funds, he explained, plans from time to time to provide for the future of Mrs. Sacco and her two children.

The last pleadings of Sacco and Vanzetti, which have been on display here will remain here for another week and then returned to Boston.

Under present plans, Felicani disclosed, half of the ashes of each man will be taken to Italy in separate urns for burial beside the graves of Madeo Mass., the former home of Sacco and the present residence of Gov. Allen T. Fuller.

The above news dispatch will give the reader some idea of the activities of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. America Sacco and Vanzetti paid the penalty for a murder committed seven years ago, and in these fellows, and send them back where they came from.

Mrs. Jim Lewis, and little son, who has been visiting relatives here the past month, will leave this week for Norphlet, Arkansas, to join Mr. Lewis, who has a position there.

Shadowland Resort Closed.

An order granting permanent injunction to close Shadowland Club, Blanco road resort, for one year and assessing costs of the case against the defendants was handed down Tuesday morning by Federal Judge Charles A. Boynton. Ringing in a clause which has attracted wide interest during the four days of the trial, Defendants gave notice of appeal.

Padlocking of one of the operators of the club was given by Judge Boynton in his decision, declaring that the evidence showed that they "wilfully allowed liquor to be kept and consumed on the premises," and that evidence of the purported reputation of the club was given little weight in the face of positive proof of evidence showing and convincing the court that intoxicating liquors were used for beverage purposes on the premises and mixed openly on the tables; that waiters assisted in the serving of such drinks, and that the proprietors of Shadowland served cracked ice and ginger ale for such purpose."

Remarks of the court were addressed for the most part to the owners, Ben Ruby, Earl Ramsey, Joseph Newton, O. Barnett, and A. J. Nix. Jack Avalon, Lonnie Wilson and Mickie Rieth, also named as defendants were known to be employes.

Commenting on the fact that Ramsey was the only defendant to take the witness stand, Judge Boynton declared that his testimony showed that "the club is a den of iniquity, and that liquor was being consumed in the building."

Ramsey testified that no one was allowed in the club when intoxicated and that more than 100 persons had been removed from the building because of drunkenness.

"This testimony alone shows that these persons must have become intoxicated while under the influence and that the defendants must have been aware of the fact."

Referring to defendants' pleas that they were unknowingly the victims of "bad actors," Judge Boynton and Judge Boynton declared, "This court does not control in the suggestion that these five defendants were innocent lambs led to slaughter by their patrons."

The back-bone of the defense attack on government testimony of alleged bootlegger and call girl lower on the premises was a long list of witnesses testifying that the resort had a good reputation.

In addition to assessing all costs of the trial against the defendants, Judge Boynton enjoined the property

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas.

The Teachers' Institute meets at the High School Auditorium next Monday and Tuesday. The teachers of the county will all be present. Let's give them a greeting and a welcome and make them feel at home in the county capital.

Always there is a new field in business for those of good intent.

A hundred and forty years before Columbus sailed for the Indies and bumped Kentucky Jones, Sir John Mandeville wrote a book claiming that One might with a vessel, sail around the world low above it and not under it.

The unique collection of old relics gathered by Mrs. H. Davenport at Mason creek, attracted much attention, as did also the display of beetles, butterflies and other insects gathered and arranged by Mrs. Davenport. She takes much interest in such matters and has a wonderful collection of these things and we are glad she decided to bring some of them to the fair.

The fact that the human heart is continually craving something, longing for something, searching for the thing that it has not found is an evidence that there is another life beyond the stars and that there is no life as we know it here that will run down to the earth and touches resting place just a little of the unsatisfying, but always unsatisfied heart of man. There are so many things that we all know that this is but a transient life, and that the real life that lasts through all eternity is another life, so much above the things here and fleeting, unmoved by motor floating as we are by currents, to strengthen us in our faith and in our hope.

Laughter is an asset. The possessor of a genuine hearty laugh has a fortune in his grasp. It is much easier to laugh the world off its axis valuable than to take it from them with a sneer and a mask. Every human mind is susceptible to the influence of a rippling laugh, and under the influence of its warm glow a load is often seemed to be thought of as others that could not be obtained in any other way. People like to be around a man who is continually jolly and constantly laughing. They like a good story or a funny joke that has a laughable point. The world loves laughter, but does not like tears. It pays to be jolly.

It seems incomprehensible that human beings would be guilty of the fiendish crime that fills the records of our courts. Good people every where are earnestly endeavoring to find the cause and if possible to apply a remedy. Men are often swept into this homicidal condition by overpowering pressure due to a diseased condition of the mind because of ignorance, impoverished nerves, abnormal sympathies and enervating indulgences that divert the mind, rendering them an easy prey to every temptation that perverted nature has developed throughout all the generations that have passed. The normal healthy individual craves companionship with those who have felt the thrust or temptation of every person their social life. We should not hate the individual who is stricken with the plague. Isolate him if you will, but try to find the origin of the contagion, and sterilize the microbes that breed in the filth and fever that arouse plants where poverty sits huddled in a gloomy shroud, clothed in rags while famine gnaws at its heart.

The world is full of stranded hulks of human craftwood, washed upon the shores of time by the winds and waves of fate. These unhappy derelicts of fortune are to be seen all along the long path of life, helpless beings who have given up the struggle and who lie panting by the roadside, craving your help and succor as you pass by with your full sail and the song of success upon your lips. May your joyous journey be just a little while and stoop to lend a helping hand to lift the unfortunates from the gutter and you will be happier for it. Perhaps your friends will be heartlessly onward, but potential but you have hesitated. Let those who such friends are not worthy of the name; and you will find solace in the fact that here you have new acquaintances who will probably repay you a thousand fold for your little act of human kindness, and whose gratitude is worth more than the happy place in the jogging crowd you forsook to help them.

The gold of friendship has a very compelling value. It is rich and not counterfeit. It gives genuine happiness to one who inquires it in another and feels it warming his own breast for one of friends? Of all the arts which beautify civilization, the fine art of living is the most pathetically neglected. We engage professors to teach our children music and painting and give them advantages of the best intellectual culture, but how very few of us bestow one hour's time in studying exercises in the art of living? It is a fine art. How often were each one kind to the people in the home household, how beautiful were all cheerful and gracious, courteous in tone and manner to every one who comes to their door. Little tenders of neighborly courtesy, how much they count for pleasure in the everyday routine "In her tongue is the law of kindness," wrote the author of Proverbs. The Law of Kindness! How sadly we infract that statute! Hear how many vituperative comments are made when two or more human souls find themselves temporarily associated. In praise of some absent friend's (?) good qualities they are speaking? Let us hope the recording angel is at gaze over the fields of blowup asphodels and does not hear the ill-natured, envious and near-tempered criticisms that shatter the law of kindness to indistinguishable fragments. Are we always considerate of our servants? At the marriage feast in Cana of Galilee, the holy Mother saith unto the servants, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." Can one imagine any but the gentle exercise of authority in her womanly anxiety for the entertainment of the wedding guests? Be kind to employees. It is claimed that Colonel William Cody (Buffalo Bill) controlled the heterogeneous make up of his Wild West show by gentlest means. He never raised his voice in displeasure, but by the uniform graciousness of his personality kept Indians, foreigners, et al. in perfect obedience to his will. A fine friendliness to all is the abstract of the Golden Rule made concrete by action. Its observance would inaugurate the dawn, nay, it would bring in to meridian influences in realization of the Golden Age of Song and Story.

Evolution

We need go no further than the evolution of the peach for an assurance of this fact. If all fruit growers power that performs this wonderful miracle can gather from the great world and from the air the elements that have combined to our earthly body and establishes them and transmutes their shape and form and feeling. We anticipate the marvelous improvements of the peach without a single thought as to its processes. The first wards idea of splicing the wild stock from the roots into the trunk and branches of the fruit and a bud of perfect form, color, flavor, ripeness and fragrance, then the sap and from the vigor inherited from the wild stock, the bud feeds its rich aroma all around perfumes the air and attracts bees humming bees and exotic butterflies to gather sweets within the petaled enclosure of the perfect flower.

Where do the beautiful flowers come from? Do you know the wonderful process by which they are created from the elements that—you don't anything together with which to make a single bud? But the wonderful process has been going on and completed. The florist retails them all one by one and full upon the floral counters, and we buy them. Others fall from out of the sky and mingle with the dust, to be gathered again for the next wonderful process by which they are created. At the earth grow and flourish. Man compasses the earth and its golden fruits, but he cannot create the peach nor flowers nor shape and rich color and odorous evening odors its damask cheeks, nor the violet its modest blue, nor the lily its purity. These are the miracles beyond human comprehension.

This example of the peach is multiplied repeated in the realm of natural growth. Let us not be guilty of ingratitude. If we do not believe the Supreme Power that created us and subject to believe things that we cannot see or comprehend. Thoughtfulness is the only antidote for unbelief. Let us kneel down and down deep in the bosom of the earth.

The True Art of Living.

Contemplate the sacred depths of the eternal azure, study the crystal secrets of the dewdrop, the flower with scented breath and looks an invitation, and the visible token of the upbuilding of that are the soul of this great universe.

Despise the granite pages of God's great volume of geology, yet pierce in the deep evolutions of Brownian movements of humanity, hear a story in every grove and every picture in every wave. How full life is! How rich the opportunities to make it by our own folly, by our own want of respectivity, by inaction of our faculties.

Dove Season Opens.

The dove shooting season opens today, September 1st and will last for two months.

The bag limit for wild mourning and white winged doves is 25 in any one day and not more than forty-five in a week of seven days. Hunters are not permitted to hunt from an automobile and all hunters outside of the county of their residence must have a hunting license.

Revival Closed.

The revival meeting conducted at the Methodist church by Rev. John N. McKay closed on Wednesday night of last week. Several additions to the church resulted from this meeting, and this membership was greatly strengthened by the preaching of this good man. He left early Thursday for his home at Uvalde, carrying with him the high regard and esteem of many newacquaintances.

Notice to Medina Subscribers.

Try a Want Ad

The New Era's Want Column is being well patronized these days. Our readers realize that this column is a regular bargain counter, and some good trades have been made through the insertion of just a small ad therein. If you have anything to sell, or want to buy anything, a three or four line want ad will easily accomodate you, and the price is very low. A four line advertisement will cost you only thirty cents for one insertion. Cash should accompany all orders for want ads, as we carry no charge accounts on these ads.

Robbers Sought.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 29.—Search is being made for two men said to be from San Antonio who are suspected of having taken part in the daylight robbery of the University Bank here a week ago, and escaping with $30,500 in cash and securities, Horace G. Burleson, Travis County sheriff, announced Monday.

Pictures of them have been taken from the rogues' gallery have been positively identified by employes of the robbed bank, as two of the bandits, Sheriff Burleson said. Travis county officers, according to Sheriff Burleson, have taken up the trail at San Antonio, but no arrests have yet been made.

Just a Little Want Ad.

It is remarkable what a little 25-cent want ad will do sometimes. If you have anything to sell, no matter what it is, you can sell it with a want ad in the New Era at very little cost, and hundreds have found it thereby learn that you want to sell the article. This paper can tell hundreds while here. I will be a dozen or two people that you have something to sell. We have buyers of a 25-cent ad selling a farm. No need keeping something on your hands when you can find one to buy it and others want to buy and would buy if they knew you had one to sell. Our advertising rates are 7½ cents per line each insertion; count six words to the line; 24 words will make four lines, and son on. Try a want ad and let the people know what your want ads send cash with order.

Mrs. W. Massie, Sr.

Funeral services for Thomas Warren Massie, pioneer of Bandera county, were held at the Vanderpool cemetery Saturday afternoon and were very fittingly attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives. Death came to this pioneer after an illness of some days, but last week he was stricken with smothering attacks resulting in his death Friday morning. Mr. Massie was one of the real pioneers of this section of the state, having located in this section some forty years ago at the age of thirty-five, coming from Atascosa county. He is survived by seven children, as follows: Thomas W. Massie, George Massie, Richard Massie, Mrs. Sam Bowden and Andrew Massie, all of this part of the country, and Charles of Port Arthur, Texas, and Mrs. Sweetwater. His wife, daughter and one son had gone on before. Loved ones and friends, including physicians, did all they could to help ease the life of the stricken one, but the hands of men were too feeble and the powers of men too limited. All efforts to stay the hand were about it all is that there were many prayers possible for loving friends and anxious hearts, but the call came for the summons from on high. The death of this splendid, pure and noble man has thrown a shadow that will cover many communities in which he lived and labored. Mrs. Massie was a Correspondent in Uvalde-Leader News.

Advantages of a Life Insurance Estate

QUICKLY ACQUIRED—The first deposit on a legal reserve life insurance policy creates an immediate estate equal to the face of the policy.

EASILY MAINTAINED—The estate so created is maintained by small annual, semi-annual or quarterly deposits.

ALWAYS AT PAR—The estate at death is invariably worth one hundred cents on the dollar and automatically becomes cash. No other form of property possesses this feature.

ABSOLUTELY SECURE—The estate is guaranteed by an old line legal reserve life insurance company, the safest financial institution in the world.

INCONTESTABLE—After one or at the most two years the policy is incontestable. Ninety-nine per cent of all policies maturing are immediately paid.

NO FLUCTUATIONS—The estate does not fluctuate in value. It is not subject to market contingencies. It is permanent, continuing and immediately available.

SMALL OUTLAY—The creation and maintenance of a life insurance estate involves the temporary outlay of an annual sum less than interest and but little more than the annual municipal tax rate.

NO TAXES—It is free from Federal Income and taxes, assessments repairs, improvement charges and other items of expense incident to ownership of every other form of property.

FIRE PROOF—The town may burn, the house and all its contents may be destroyed, but life insurance is fireproof. The destruction of the policy will not delay pay-ment or reduce its face value.

THIEVES BALKED—Other property may be embezzled, stolen or carried away by bailees, but life insurance is proof against every form of thievery.

FOOL PROOF—So long as stipulated deposits are made at the stipulated periods, no impairment of the estate can possibly occur. It is fool-proof.

NO PROBATE—Life insurance payable to a designated beneficiary requires no probate proceedings. A will must be probated.

NO COURT PROCEDURE—Life insurance requires no administration, no executor, or administrator, no receiver, no court action and no court or administrative expense.

PAID IMMEDIATELY—The proceeds of a life insurance policy issued by a legal reserve company will be paid within twenty-four hours after receipt of due proof of death.

NO RED TAPE—Where a living beneficiary has been designated, no legal contingency or official red tape is involved or necessary.

NO LAWYER—No lawyer is needed to prepare proofs or collect the proceeds of a legal reserve life insurance policy.

Alleged Austin Bandit Identified

Austin, Sept. 4.—Miss Maude Potts Sunday told officers the officers had a bandit. Victor Nelson was the man she saw leaving the University Bank after the $25,000 robbery there two weeks ago. She was called to the sheriff's office, after Sheriff Horace Burleson arrived in Sunday morning from Houston with Wilson and identified the youth as the same man whose appearance she has previously identified and the same man who was among the bank robbers.

The youth's father, Horace E. Wilson, is also a prominent attorney and Austin during the day.

Wilson brought sensational his interrogation of the bank robbery officers said, and questioning failed to shake his story. Nothing was found when he was searched which had any relation to affair. Under the offices of Sheriff Parrish and Bruce O'Keefe of the University Bank told officers Wilson had told them of whose face they saw during the held up. One man held the bank officials covered from a gun while two others scooped up $26,000 in cash bonds and checks. Wilson was taken to the finger print office at the police station and later returned to the county jail.—San Antonio Express.

Registered a Kick.

Several of the New Era's readers have expressed their appreciation of the face of type which we are now using. The Mergenthaler Company's regular face, seven-point Ionic No. 5, which gives our columns more room for news matter. But few readers have been heard from as being dissatisfied with the new face as easily as he could the type we formerly used, and he "could not understand why we changed it." When we asked him how he knew the change had been made he replied that he "borrowed the neighbor's paper to see." We know that old fellow has a good neighbor.

We appreciate the good things that are being said about the New Era's new dress. Compliments from a contemporary serves, and also its our subscribers encourage us to redouble our efforts to give them a better New Era every week.

Otto Weltner and son, Henry, of Camp Verde, were visitors at the New Era office Tuesday.

John Wise Played Safe.

John Wise was not stingy—he was just a careful spender. Although young in years he had already learned from experiences of others that sooner or later—he would need money.

It might be for a home—to go in business—buy a farm, or it might be for education, an operation, or any number of emergencies that demand money now—they will not wait!

So John Wise saved—true, it was only a small amount but he saved it week in and week out. His savings grew—and when well in interest. Now he is prepared to take advantage of opportunity or thwart failure.

Clark Monument Unveiling.

The monument of red granite colossal bust of the Pioneer Freighters' Association to the memory of Amasa Clark, Mexican War veteran and pioneer freighter, who died at his home in Bandera last February, will be the first of its kind placed in the new National Cemetery on the military reservation at Arch Park, Denver, and it will be unveiled and dedicated on September 15, 80th anniversary of the birthday of Mr. Clark. Mrs. Clark, widow of the deceased, and the program will be in charge of the Pioneer Freighters' Association, of which Mr. Clark was a member of the Third Infantry of death.

The memorial was placed in the National Cemetery with consent of Major General John L. DeWitt, commanding officer of the Seventh Corps Area, and Brig. Gen. W. O. Connor, commanding officer of the Second Cavalry Brigade. The address will be delivered by Brig. Gen. Paul B. Malone, now retired commander of the Seventh Corps Area. Mr. MacArthur, chief of staff, also aided Krempkau, it is said.

Saturday marked the 102d anniversary of Clark's birth. He was born when he died William B. Kreml, president of the Pioneer Freighters' Association, who personally undertook to finance the monument, planned to unveil and dedicate the memorial on the 102d birthday anniversary, but this was prevented by a delay which came when Bandera county first attempted to have the monument placed there.

The granite monument was donated by Nagel Brothers, owners of Beat Mountain near Fredericksburg. It weighs about 7,000 pounds and was being transported to San Antonio Saturday by Capt. B. F. Schmidt, cash contribution towards the monument was made by the 3rd Infantry at Fort Snelling, Minn., commanded by Col. W. E. Welsh.

Veterans of foreign Wars will participate in the unveiling. These, with pioneer freighters, will assemble at the Gunter Hotel at 2 p. m. The program will begin at 3 p. m.

Charles Guenard made the plat for the bronze panel and the Third Infantry band of Army Post, which had the foundation for the monument prepared. The San Antonio Portland Cement Company contributed the cement and the Turner Crane Company furnished sand. Krempkau said.

Officials of the Pioneer Freighters' Association who will participate in the unveiling include James O. Luckie, president; Mrs. Mary Brooks Bingham, secretary; Mrs. Ida Belle Johnson of Gonzales and Reid Tecbriardt, both of Cuero, field agents of the Express.

Returns from Connecticutt.

Miss Victoria Montague was home from San Antonio to spend Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rose Gartner and Miss Margaret Montague. She recently went from a trip to Waterbury, Connecticutt, where she spent a month with her brother, Alex Montague, Jr., and mother, Mrs. Chas. Montague, who remained in Connecticutt for a long visit.

Consolidation Defeated.

The election held in Medina and Lassen Creek School Districts on Saturday for the purpose of consolidating those two districts resulted in the measure being defeated by but a few votes. This is the second time the proposition has been voted down, the first election being held nearly four years ago.

Mr and Mrs. Bruce Mayfield, of Medina, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben New Era office yesterday morning. They were returning from a visit to their daughter, Mrs. Sam Antonio, and report a very pleasant trip.

A Timely Discovery.

Late Monday afternoon, when R. P. Power started to drive his Ford car out of the garage on his premises he discovered the cushion on the front seat to be on fire, directly over the gasoline tank. How the fire started is a mystery. He is of the opinion that some one passing by while the car was standing on the street in front of his store, tossed away a lighted cigarette or cigar, which fell in the car and caused the fire.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Bandera, Texas

The monument to the memory of Veteran Frank Clark will be unveiled at Fort Bam Houston, next Wednesday, September 16, with appropriate ceremonies. We hope the Bandera people will attend the presentation. Clark was a Bandera settler of Bandera county coming here in 1857. He was born in Tennessee and was in the 19th year of age when he came to Texas. His family purchased the Clark ranch which is now owned by Mrs. Clark. It was a wilderness when they settled in Bandera, where they endured the hardships of pioneer life. Frank Clark joined the Confederate army and was in the battle of Galveston. He was also in the battle of Sabine Pass. He was a brave soldier and a good citizen. He was a member of the Methodist church for many years. He was married to Miss Sarah Ann Clark in 1866. To this union were born eight children, seven of whom survive him. Mrs. Clark is now living with her daughter, Mrs. Ella Clark Bandy, at Bandera. Mrs. Clark is a member of the Methodist church and has been for many years. She is the oldest member of the Methodist church in Bandera. She is the first woman to become a member of the Clark family. Advantages of a Life Insurance Estate

QUICKLY ACQUIRED—The first deposit on a legal reserve life insurance policy creates an immediate estate equal to the face of the policy.

EASILY MAINTAINED—The estate so created is maintained by small annual, semi-annual or quarterly deposits.

ALWAYS AT PAR—The estate at death is invariably worth one hundred cents on the dollar and automatically becomes cash. No other form of property possesses this feature.

ABSOLUTELY SECURE—The estate is guaranteed by an old line legal reserve life insurance company, the safest financial institution in the world.

INCONTESTABLE—After one or at the most two years the policy is incontestable. Ninety-nine per cent of all policies maturing are immediately paid.

NO FLUCTUATIONS—The estate does not fluctuate in value. It is not subject to market contingencies. It is permanent, continuing and immediately available.

SMALL OUTLAY—The creation and maintenance of a life insurance estate involves the temporary outlay of an annual sum less than interest and but little more than the annual municipal tax rate.

NO TAXES—It is free from Federal Income and taxes, assessments repairs, improvement charges and other items of expense incident to ownership of every other form of property.

FIRE PROOF—The town may burn, the house and all its contents may be destroyed, but life insurance is fireproof. The destruction of the policy will not delay pay-ment or reduce its face value.

THIEVES BALKED—Other prosperity may be embezzled, stolen or carried away by bailees, but life insurance is proof against every form of thievery.

FOOL PROOF—So long as stipulated deposits are made at the stipulated periods, no impairment of the estate can possibly occur. It is fool proof.

NO PROBATE—Life insurance payable to a designated beneficiary requires no probate proceedings. A will must be probated.

NO COURT PROCEDURE—Life insurance requires no administration, no executor, or administrator, no receiver, no court action and no court or administrative expense.

PAID IMMEDIATELY—The proceeds of a life insurance policy issued by a legal reserve company will be paid within twenty-four hours after receipt of due proof of death.

NO RED TAPE—Where a living beneficiary has been designated, no legal contingency or official red tape is involved or necessary.

NO LAWYER—No lawyer is needed to prepare proofs or collect the proceeds of a legal reserve life insurance policy.

BUICK for 1928

When Buick improves upon Buick —the standard for the year is set

Buick for 1928 introduces a higher standard of beauty and luxury than the world has ever known. Buick interiors are as modish as exquisite drawing-rooms—as harmoniously colored—and as comfortable. Buick's new Fisher bodies are low-swung without any loss of head-room or road-clearance.

And so, down to the smallest detail of construction, wherever refinements could be made, Buick has made them. Again Buick has improved upon Buick. Again the standard for the year is set.

Cross Monument Unveiling.

Unveiling ceremonies for the imposed granite boulder, memorial to Captain Joseph Twohig and Mexican War veteran, was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Twohig monument at Fort Sam Houston, with friends and members of the Pioneer Texans Association of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and of the Second Division taking part in the rites.

Col. J. C. MacArthur, chief of staff of the Second Division, was master of the ceremonial program which included the dedication address by Gen. Geo. Van Horn Moseley, and an address of tribute by William B. Krumpkas. Evelyn Grace Hill, granddaughter of the veteran, unveiled the monument. The Second Infantry band led by Otto Majewski, played during the program, opening with "The Old Guard" and closing with the Third Infantry hymn, more than half a century.

A rough granite boulder brought from the hills beyond Bandera where old Mexican Clark Clark served through the greater part of his 101 years of life, the memorial shaft has been highly polished and inscribed except for the words and the weather. No decoration is to be placed on the stone except three small bronze tablets, two at irregular distances. Opposite the name of Joseph Twohig, one of the Texas Infantry volunteers in the Mexican War under Gen. Winfield Scott, and the date of his service from 1846 to 1851. Slightly lower and to the left is a tablet commemorative of the pioneer Texan's service in the Texas Army, showing his head in sculptured relief against a low background of the Texas flag. Gen. Twohig died at Corpus Christi, Texas. This tablet bears the date of his birth, September 14, 1810, and that of his death, January 28, 1877. The third plate shows the emblem of the Texas Pioneers' Association, and below Clark was a member, and the inscription of dedication.

According to W. B. Krumpkas, who served as general chairman of the Pioneer Texans Association police and fire departments co-operated in helping the Association. Some of the older members of the O. A. K's, the Pioneer Freighters' Association and the Forum War Veterans to the National Cemetery for the interment of Clark. The group assembled at the Gunter Hotel at 2:30. Members of all three organizations came from Southwestern points to be present, according to Krumpkas, and among them Judge Frank O. Luby, from San Diego, Texas.

P. G. Dudding and Tom Wallace, of San Antonio, stayed at the City Hotel one day this week.

Shoot To Kill Is Wright's Order

With the tense order to "shoot to kill," Police Commissioner Phil Wright Monday morning started a drive to rid San Antonio of gangsters and racketeers. Wright's order of Detective Chief Sam Stowers of Dallas.

Orders given to Chief of Police T. O. Miller and every captain, detective and patrolman in the city to arrest every suspicious character with whom they come in contact.

Squads of officers left police headquarters early Monday to scour the city in an effort to round up the "bad men" said to have been operating in the city for several months. Purely Wisely several fugitives have been their principal victims.

"I intend to realize our police force is limited," Commissioner Wright said, "if ten hoodlums start trouble Monday night. We can't have a repetition of Saturday night's gun battle."

Chief Street was one of the best peace officers in the country and his death was a severe loss to the police department but to the citizenship at large. His death was a severe blow to me personally."

Commissioner Wright said his men would work day and night shifts if necessary until every suspicious character and criminal in the city has been rounded up.

Sheriff Jeff Boyd Jones, co-operating with Wright, has given orders to his deputies to increase their efforts to round up criminals. District Attorney C. M. Chambers, who will call a special grand jury to investigate the recent gun battle, has promised quick prosecutions.—San Antonio Light.

Everett Briggs, of Medina, was in Bandera one day this week on business.

F. E. Adams, of San Antonio, visited at the City Hotel one day this week.

Bruno Schindler gave a delightful dance at his ranch near Pipe Creek last Saturday night. Everybody said they had a fine time, and want Bruno to give another one.

A dance was given at the ranch home of Jesse Williams, on Saturday evening. Refreshments of Lemonade and cake were served to a large crowd of young people. Music furnished by Herman Hargrove.

Just a Little Want Ad.

It is remarkable what a little 25-word want ad will do sometimes. If you have anything to sell, no matter what it is, you can insert a small want ad in the New Era at very little cost, and hundreds of people will read it and that you want to sell the article. This paper can tell hundreds of times more by letting a small ad do the selling than you can by talking to each one personally. We have known of a farm being sold by selling a farm. No need keeping something on your hands which you do not need, and which others want to buy and would buy if they knew you have it for sale. Rates for advertising rates are 7½ cents per line each insertion; count 5 words to the line. 24 words will make four lines, and son on. Try a want ad and be convinced. In sending in your want ads send cash with order.

Pipe Line Nearing Completion.

The Humble Oil Company's Pipe Line, which extends from McCamey, in Upton county, to Port Lavaca, near Aransas Pass, a distance of 400 miles is nearing completion. The pipe passes through the western part of Bandera county for a distance of about thirty miles, passing near Tuff and Tarpley. Construction crews have been at work on the line in these neighborhoods for the past three months, laying ten-inch matrix, which will be garnished with twelve-inch mains. We understand connections have been made for the entire distance of the line and the oil from the wells at McCamey will be turned in just as soon as the storage tanks are ready to receive it. The work of constructing these tanks is being rapidly pushed to completion, some 275 men being engaged in the work at Port Lavaca.

The building of this pipe line through Bandera county has been the means of putting a lot of money in circulation, as a large number of men have been employed at good wages.

Monument to Anson Clark Unveiled.

The editor of the New Era attended the ceremonies at Fort Sam Houston yesterday when the monument to Anson Clark, Medina War veteran, was unveiled by Gen. Geo. Van Horn Mosely, Brig. Gen. Paul B. Malone delivered the oration. The monuments were erected by the Pioneer Freighters' Association and the United States Army. Veteran Clark was Bandera county's first settler, and the New Era urged the erection of a monument here to him some months ago, but the funds for the purpose could not be raised here.

John Wise Played Safe

John Wise was not stingy—he was just a careful spender. Although young in years he had already learned from experiences of others that saving or later—he would need money.

It might be for a home—to go in business—buy a farm, or it might be for sickness, an operation or any number of emergencies that demand money now—they will not wait!

So John Wise saved—true, it was only a small amount but he saved it week in and week out. His savings grew—paid him well in interest. Now he's prepared to take advantage of opportunity or thwart failure.

Parent-Teachers' Association.

The Parent-Teachers' Association held its regular meeting on Wednesday of last week at the High School building. Mrs. A. L. Mansfield was elected president. The regular time of meeting was changed to the first Saturday in each month instead of the first Wednesday. The sum of $35.00 was given to the High School for the purchase of reference books. There are several things the teachers need in their work, and the Association asks the help of all patrons in raising funds to properly equip the teachers. The Association is striving to make this the best term of school Bandera has ever had, and asks the co-operation of the people in making it so.

Quick Action

Just one hour and thirteen minutes after this investigation began a special grand jury in Ninety-fourth District court at 11:12 o'clock Monday morning returned a murder indictment against John A. McKenzie, alias Pete McKenzie, admitted two-gun slayer of Chief of Detectives Sam Street, who was the quickest indictment in the history of Bexar county.

McKenzie must stand trial at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

This was the speediest hour that could be set for the trial since a defendant must be given four days time after no has served with the indictment. He also must be given a copy of the same one day before trial.

At 11:20 o'clock Deputy Sheriff F. N. Flores went to his heavily guarded cell in the Bexar county court house and informed McKenzie of the indictment.

Special Judge C. J. Matthews immediately granted District Attorney C. M. Chambers' request for the summoning of a special venire of 100 men. At 12:05 o'clock, only 25 minutes after the grand jurors began, the venire had been completed.

Eighteen deputies were then dispatched from the courtroom to serve the 100 men from whom twelve will be selected to try the confessed slayer of Chief Street, who was shot down in front of the Purely Wisely at San Pedro avenue and Laurel street Saturday night.

Deputy Sheriff John Garner, Deputy District Clerk Emil Pavelka and Judge Matthews drew the names from the box.—Express.

This was the first special grand jury summoned in Bexar county since Aug. 1921, when holdup cases were indicted. Though this special was swift term, it was slow in comparison to the pace set by Ninety-fourth district court's Judge Frank Pedro armor and Lazrel street Saturday night.

Deputy Sheriff John Garner, Deputy District Clerk Emil Pavelka and Judge Matthews drew the names from the box.

This was the first special grand jury summoned in Bexar county since Aug. 1921, when holdup cases were indicted. Though this special was swift term, it was slow in comparison to the pace set by Ninety-fourth district court's Judge Frank Pedro armor and Lazrel street Saturday night.

In about three hours a special grand jury was summoned, impaneled and an indictment returned.

The grand jurors reported at 9 o'clock and were impaneled in 10 minutes after 10 o'clock.

Then came the indictment after the grand jury had heard four witnesses. The witnesses were George Cunningham, the last person to see Street in the store in front of which Street was mortally wounded. Ancel Thurmond, who thrust his head up into the attic to first view slayer; R. F. Tate, detective, Street's side, and Wayne Parks, also accompanied Street.

McKenzie was remanded to without bond when he waived preliminary hearing before Justice of Peace Louis F. Boltz early Monday morning—San Antonio Light.

The Bandera New Era

Governor Dan Moody is developing quite a liking for aviation. Texas has had other governors who were high flyers.

It is easy to sit around and think how easy it is to write things to put in the paper each week. But doing it—that's another matter.

Banders should be incorporated and for several years the unincorporated town has seldom forges ahead very far. When it gets to forging incorporation comes as a matter of course. And incorporation encourages every kind of improvement.

If a move is ever started to incorporate Bandera you will hear the old cry of the timid from those who would oppose incorporation. They might be taxed, but the benefits of incorporation would far over-balance the increase in taxes.

Do you stand for progress in your community, or are you content to sit idly by and see everything else turn up? That will put you on the high water mark of prosperity. You can just bet that the people will not "turn up" unless it is turned up by effort.

Banders have had a good many fine last months and the prospects for a plenty of fairs produces and live stock did not fail to produce their share. But we can have a better fair, and we will have a better fair next year. The fair will be arranged on different lines, and there will be something for all to do. And you will be called upon to do it.

The passions are said to be the winds that fill the sails of human barque, the grand sentiments that shattered the reefs of human generosity by which she was characterized, the moral lineaments and likeness of her still survive and appear in the absence of eventide an hour of night and on the sable, and though dead, she yet breathes in the midst of us. She is missed from the family circle when her presence was so a kindly benefactor; her cheerful greeting and welcome will no longer radiate the sun of all her wifely devotion; the tour of her beautiful hands in friendship they will no more extend in the church and social circles for those dear hands are forever vanished from our sight; the memory of her sweetness of her kindness and her generosity will remain with us through the long years that may follow us. A distant father is bereft in grief and anguish from her brothers and sisters in deep sorrow, and an affectionate husband mourns from the affliction that has descended so suddenly upon them. The entire community feels the weight of this great sorrow, and our hearts are heavy with grief. May God in His infinite mercy, comfort the bereaved ones.

Bandera Leeds electric lights and power. About a year ago a big corporation supplied to the Commissioners Court and was granted a franchise to operate an electric plant in Bandera. A large dynamo and engine was moved here and installed in Tom North's ice plant. But that is as far as the plant went. The dynamo and engine are standing idle, and no attempt has been made to furnish the current for the lights and power. There was some talk of the Bandera Commercial Club pushing the matter to a finish, but it seems to have died out, and we have nothing in regard to it now. If that corporation is not going to use the franchise granted by the Commissioners' Court, they ought to surrender it, and give somebody else an opportunity to put in lights and power.

Bandera, with a little effort on the part of our people, could secure a number of encampments to be held here during the summer season. These encampments bring people here for recreation and enjoyment. We have the ideal environments to make such things attractive. Everybody who comes here and spends awhile in these glorious old hills go away with the expectation of returning again. Other towns offer some inducements for such visitors to come, even spending vast sums of money in advertising to tell the outside world what they have to offer. Bandera sits idly by and in seeming indifference to the opportunity which can be hers. Now before another summer season rolls around let's bestir ourselves and get on foot a movement to land several encampments.

EDITH FANNIE McELROY.

Mrs. James McElroy died at a hospital in Kerrville on Thursday evening, September 8, after an illness of several weeks, during which time she underwent two operations. When the news of the death of this splendid woman came it caused great sorrow in the hearts of hundreds of people of this county who had known her from infancy and loved her devoted life. She was raised here, and has taught school in various parts of the county, and by her charming way and gentle disposition, won to all.

Edith Rambie was born at Pipe Creek, Bandera county, Texas, November 27, 1899, and was reared in this county. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rambie. On April 26, 1923, she was happily married to Mr. James McElroy of Center Point, and later they moved to Texas Oklahoma to reside. A few weeks ago Mrs. McElroy came from Oklahoma on a visit to her father and while here she was stricken with illness that necessitated her removal to the hospital at Kerrville, where a serious operation was performed. For a time she seemed to be recovering, but her condition changed for the worse an she never rallied.

She is survived by her father, H. E. Rambie, four sisters, Mrs. Annie Cain Moon of Turpley; Miss Emily Rambie of Bandera, Miss Leora Rambie of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Mrs. Mildred Rambie of Bandera; two brothers, Guy S. Rambie of Bandera and Marcellus Rambie of Bandera and her husband, James McElroy.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of her father on Masonic Hill Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. J. W. Storms of Center Point and interment was made in the family cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives. All members of the family were present except Misses Leora and Emily Rambie, who were in Oklahoma City and could not reach here.

Some fifteen years ago she joined the Baptist church and was a faithful and consistent member until the hour of her death. Her mother and an brother preceded her in death several years.

Sister sleep is removed, visibly from the outward eye, but the lessons she hath left, the grand sentiments that shattered the reefs of human generosity by which she was characterized, the moral lineaments and likeness of her still survive and appear in the absence of eventide an hour of night and on the sable, and though dead, she yet breathes in the midst of us. She is missed from the family circle when her presence was so a kindly benefactor; her cheerful greeting and welcome will no longer radiate the sun of all her wifely devotion; the tour of her beautiful hands in friendship they will no more extend in the church and social circles for those dear hands are forever vanished from our sight; the memory of her sweetness of her kindness and her generosity will remain with us through the long years that may follow us. A distant father is bereft in grief and anguish from her brothers and sisters in deep sorrow, and an affectionate husband mourns from the affliction that has descended so suddenly upon them. The entire community feels the weight of this great sorrow, and our hearts are heavy with grief. May God in His infinite mercy, comfort the bereaved ones.

MRS. ANNIE E. BROWN.

Mrs. Annie E. Brown, a pioneer mother of this county, died at her home in Turpley, Thursday evening, September 8, and was buried at Turpley Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Gossett, pastor of the Bandera Methodist church, conducting the funeral service.

In the passing of this pioneer mother Bandera county loses an early settler, a woman who has had much to do with bringing about the refining influences of civilization. She shared all of the hardships and dangers of frontier life and lived to see the crowning glory and triumph of civilization's progress.

She was born in Thibedeaustville, Plaquemine Parish, Louisiana, in 1832. Her father was a planter and invested an interest in a steamboat company. Her mother died when the subject of this sketch was only four years old, and her father died when she was seven years old. He left a fortune of considerable wealth, and when Annie was ten years old her grandmother would provided for. A guardian took charge of the orphan and gave her splendid educational advantages, employing private teters to give her instruction in the various studies, including the languages, French and Latin. From she reached the age of 14 years she was given the charge of her father's estate, and she went to live with relatives at Alexandria, where she continued her studies. At Alexandria she met Thomas Brown, a civil engineer by profession and a sport, and they were married October 15th, 1850. Soon after the wedding they set out on the verge of civil war. The young people decided to go to California, and started on their honeymoon trip. They went by steamboat from there to El Paso to fall in with a wagon train conducted there. After waiting a month at El Paso they learned that they could not reach El Paso on account of the Indian troubles so they decided to go to Eagle Pass. Here they met Mr. Medlen, and found that was then called Fort Duncan, now Uvalde. When they reached Eagle Pass they were not allowed to enter Mexico and had to turn around and go back. When they reached Rose Creek, four miles from Uvalde, where Mr. Brown left his wife to board with a relative, and from there Mr. Brown went to San Antonio to enlist. In January 1863 Eagle Pass, which was occupied, he followed a few months afterwards Mr. Brown moved to Fort Inge, on a ranch, where they settled there from typhoid fever. Mrs. Brown took her claim and improvements, near Devine, and moved there for a year or two. Then to Bandera county, where they lived on a ranch on Eagle Pass and this made her home for a while. She afterwards took boarders, Buford Wallace being one of them. She purchased some land about four miles south of Bandera on shooter bluff in San Antonio and built a cottage on the property and later moved to her across that the land belonged to a man who had died and left a family, and Mrs. Brown and the settlers suffered greatly. Mrs. Brown then moved to Turpley in Bandera county in November, 1884, and died on it homestead. Her husband preceded her to the grave about two years and she was employed to teach school in the settlement for several months. She had nine pupils and tuition was paid in work. The following year she was employed to teach school at Medina, an invalid. The next spring she was employed on the Antonio Ranch where she remained for three years and when Mr. Mavericks sold out she went with them to San Antonio in charge of nursing.

Mrs. Brown nursed for about thirty years, most of the time in San Antonio, and among the prominent physicians and surgeons whose services were Dr. Cupples, Dr. Ferdinand Herff, Dr. Dr. Adolph Herff, Dr. Barnett, Dr. Kingsley, and Dr. Boerne. She often made trips to Boerne, Kerrville and Bandera to do nursing. At Del Rio once she was in a terrific storm and sustained injuries which prevented her from nursing for three years.

She returned to her home on Williams Creek, near Turpley, and built another home on her property and lived there for some time. When E. H. Terrell, of San Antonio, was appointed minister to Belgium by President Harrison Mrs. Brown was engaged to accompany him as Belgium as nurse and companion. While there she visited Switzerland, and other countries of Europe. She was away for nearly three years, but returned to her home in Bandera

SAN ANTONIO DETECTIVE KILLED

Sam Street, chief of detectives, was killed in his home in Arizona by a bandit last Saturday night. Chief Street was shot four times. The bandit was later captured and is now in jail at San Antonio. The San Antonio Express, Sunday, gives the following account of the killing:

A "tip" that the Lone Eagle was going to stage his fourth holdup in two weeks was followed up by Chief Street and resulted in the killing.

The "tip" had included a description of the man and Chief Street, together with City Detectives Tate and Stendebach, and Warren Parks early Saturday night began their manhunt.

Several times they spotted the "Lone Eagle" but each time, judging his "layout" over, he would move on. Finally, about 8:30 p. m. they came upon him in front of the Piggly Wiggly Store at San Pedro Avenue and West Laurel Street. He was just standing with his hand on his hip, apparently waiting for the lights of approaching cars to leave the store before holding up the store.

Chief Street jumped out of the car and walked over to the man and started a conversation. Tate and Parks started to leave the car behind the chief but before they could get to the bandit, he had whipped out his gun, a small automatic, and shot the chief four times. Chief Street pulled his gun but fell before getting in an effective shot.

Tate and Parks began firing at the bandit, who ran towards Cypress Street but was forced to withhold their fire when Stendebach jumped out of the car and dashed after the bandit firing as he ran. The bandit did fire at the officers as he ran.

Stendebach ran through the alley on the corner of San Pedro Avenue and Cypress Street but scrambled to his feet and dashed across the street. Two cars passed by causing the detective to hold his fire momentarily but he again shot at the bandit after they passed. The bandit fell again only to stagger to his feet and dive into some shrubbery.

A trail of blood on the sidewalk near the corner of Cypress and North Flores Streets led officers to believe that the bandit ran four blocks but the scene of the shooting to a waiting automobile in which he made his escape.

An expensive black sedan had been seen at the mouth of an alleyway opening into Cypress Street half a block from the corner, were told. The car was driven by a young woman of about 20 years of age, who was dressed in an expensive sporting black silk dress.

City Detective P. C. Hardcastle and Deputy Sheriff Angel Barloco found the blood trail in the walk across the street from the alley. P. J. Faulk, who works at a Pig Stand at the corner, told them of the car he had seen in the alley.

About the time that the bandit should have been able to reach it, a door was slammed and the car speeded south in the alley, Smith said.

A woman living in the alleyway told the officers she had noticed the car when it drove up. She thought it was going to stop at her house, she saw it turn into the alley and then stop. She gave the officers a description of the car and the young woman driving it.

The "Lone Eagle" used two guns in shooting his way out, Miss Edith Morris, daughter of the owner of The Laurel Store, adjoining the Piggly Wiggly Store, declared after the shooting. She was standing within three feet of the bandit when the shooting began.

The man had come up to the corner a moment before and was standing unconcernedly as if he might be waiting for a friend, she said. When the detective car drove up, the man turned half to one side, but made no move for no gun, she said. Chief Street got out of the car and began up to the bandit, flashing his flashlight in his face, asking, "What are you up to?"

As the chief said this the bandit first held his hide, his face and then whipped out two guns and began firing according to Miss Morris. One bullet passed within inches of her and struck a show case in the rear of the Laurel Store, whereupon she ran into the shop. When she returned to the door the bandit had disappeared and Chief Street was lying in a pool of blood, Miss Morris said.

She was unable to give a description of the bandit other than that he was young and was wearing a blue suit and straw hat.

She found out after the shooting that the bandit had broken through a fender of a car belonging to a Mrs. Ferdinand, Miss Morris said.

Miss Morris added that a young married woman, whose name she does not know, said her that the bandit stopped into her as he fled across San Pedro Avenue at the Cypress Street corner. He was holding his left arm as if it was wounded, she said. She saw him dive into the shrubbery, but did not know which way he then went.

The Saturday night job at Laurel Street and San Pedro Avenue would have been the "Lone Eagle's" fourth holdup in slightly less than two weeks' time but for the intervention of Chief Street.

On August 24 he entered the Gulf Petroleum Station, Main and San Pedro Avenue, and ordered the attendants, to line up against the wall while he rifled the cash register of $15. He made his escape on foot.

His next job was at the Piggly Wiggly Store No. 15, 1134 North Flores Street, October 3. Here he lined F. E. Grobe, the manager, and two clerks against the wall and took $45 from the cash register. He escaped after firing several shots in the air and in the floor at the men's feet.

Friday night he walked up to the Texas Filling Station No. 274, Water and North streets, while automobiles and pedestrians passed by and at the point of a pistol forced E. T. England, the manager, to enter the restroom. He locked England in and then stole $60 from the cash register. It was while investigating these three holdups that Chief Street received the tip that the San Pedro Avenue store was to be held up.

The Bandit Captured.

Monday's San Antonio Express continues the account of the killing:

A man identified as Pete McKenzie, 23-year-old escaped convict, is being held by police in connection with the fatal wounding of Chief Detectives Sam Street Saturday night. Chief Street died at 3 a. m. Sunday at the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, five hours after he was shot four times in a gun battle at San Pedro Avenue and West Laurel Street.

The escaped convict was arrested at a West Poplar Street house, where he was hidden in an attic, less than a mile after the detective chief breathed his last.

The man was wounded three times, once in the right heel and twice in the left leg. Investigating officers believe that one wound was inflicted by the detective chief as he fell to the ground. The other two wounds were inflicted by City Detectives Tate and Stendebach.

In addition to the escaped convict, his brother and sister-in-law and the man and woman living at the Poplar Street house are being held. A woman who lived at the same hotel with the murder suspect is being held on a charge of vagrancy as is a man room-mate of the suspect. The man was arrested Sunday afternoon by Detectives Harris and Shipp.

The man under arrest was convicted of El Paso in 1924 on a charge of killing a policeman and given a sentence of five to 99 years. He was received at the Eastham State Prison Farm at Weldon on April 4 of the same year.

He escaped from the prison farm September 4, 1925 but was later recaptured. He again escaped July 16 of this year and was unheard of until his arrest early Sunday.

The speedy arrest of the alleged slayer was largely due to the detective force of City Detectives. A service car driver's "hunch" that Poplar Street house she passed on her route to and from the Post Street house she passed on her route to and from the Post Street house she played a prominent part in the case.

Detective Harris, together with City Detectives Shipp and Vogler, Identification Officer Owen Fogle and Assistant Identification Officer Lt. A. S. Mdonald, began work to make a search of all possible hideouts in the city. When the East Commerce Street Harris car turned to his co-workers pointed out while back I the man they were investigating. He has a brother who escaped recently from the State prison farm, where he was serving a term. A woman, fitting the description, said is the one that killed Officer Street.

The officers then went to a Carnegie Street home and found out that the man they were after was not there. They then went to a West Poplar Street house. Here they found the man they were looking for. A quantity of ammunition for a gun such as used in killing Chief Street.

Man Found to Be Living.

Carthage, Texas, Sept. 5.—For the second time in his life Joe George, 22 years old, has been pronounced dead by friends and relatives notified and mourners assembled.

George had started Sunday from his home in Henderson to return to Carthage, where he is employed, and when three miles from Henderson the car he was driving turned over and hurled him through the windshield.

An ambulance and medical aid were summoned by passing motorists from Henderson and the physicians pronounced George dead, the neck having been broken and the body cut by the windshield.

Relatives and friends in Henderson and Carthage were notified and funeral arrangements made. Preparation was being made for burial when some one thought he noticed a slight sign of life. Heroic efforts were resorted to, the vertebrae of the neck replaced and in a short time George was sitting up talking to friends. He returned to Carthage Monday, where he was congratulated by his friends who had made preparations to attend his funeral.

A few years ago George, with two companions, was in an automobile wreck and all three were pronounced dead. The two companions were buried and a casket bought and a grave dug for George. However, the "body" was held overnight to await the arrival of relatives. Before morning signs of life appeared and his recovery was more rapid than in this second instance wherein he was pronounced dead.

Among other things he says: "We have had a wonderful trip since I wrote you last, and have seen a great many interesting things in California, which includes the citrus fruit belt largely. The oil industry is a big feature, too, and employs hundreds of men; wages are good and living cheap. My wife and I are both well, and I have a good position with he Shell Oil Company. We have seen the finest thing we had. Now we are settled for the winter at least down at the beach, where the climate is ideal; never have cold weather, so they tell us. Boy Killed in Auto Crash.

Word has been received in Bandera of the death of Clyde Murdoch, who was killed September 2, in an auto crash near Fort Worth. Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Murdoch of Marvin, Oregon, and was about 19 years old. The boy's mother will be remembered by many of our people, for she was raised here at Bandera, and before her marriage was Miss Zaura Chipman, daughter of Mr. Robert Chipman of this place. Her many friends sympathize with her in this sad hour. The Murdoch family moved to Oregon a number of years ago.

Negroes to Die

Austin, Tex., Sept. 20.—Gov Dan Moody decided Tuesday not to interfere with the electrocution of two negroes, Fillman Simmons convicted of the murder of R. F. Jury in August, 1924, near San Antonio, and Willie Robinson, slayer of J. C. Terrell, farmer, in Denton County.

Robinson is to be electrocuted Thursday, September 22.

Simmons is to die in the electric chair Monday, September 26. He has been three times reprieved.

The State Board of Pardons had made adverse reports to the Governor on applications for commutation of the death sentences to life imprisonment. In refusing to grant executive clemency Governor Moody made no statement. He merely wrote on each application "refused."

McKenzie Gets Death Penalty

John A. (Pete) McKenzie, charged with the murder of Detective Chief of San Street in San Antonio a few two weeks ago, was tried in that city this week and was given the death is about all that is known about them.

According to information from Austin, the men are believed to have escaped from the tank in a small sedan which they later changed for a larger car. The sedan was turned back toward Austin and the large one speeded toward San Antonio, it was declared.

Marrs Candidate to Succeed Himself

Austin, Texas, Sept. 20.—S. M. N. Marrs announced Tuesday that he would be a candidate for re-election as State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Marrs is serving his third term, having first been elected State Superintendent in 1922, defeating his opponent by a large majority. He had had no opposition for re-election in 1924, and in 1926, defeated both of his opponents in the first primary. Both of these were interested in the Democratic ticket.

In announcing his candidacy, Marrs said that he would later issue a formal statement.

"A number of the county school institutes are indorsing my administration and I have been asked if I would seek re-election," Marrs said. "For that reason I am making an early announcement."

It Has Falling Power.

If you have an article for sale, an implement, a horse, a saddle or anything which you have no need for and you want to get rid of it, you must tell people that you want to sell, or no buyer will ever know it. Of course it can pass the word around among your friends that you have something to sell, and it may bring you a buyer, and it may not. But for the reason that the word possibly has not reached the very person wanting to buy. But if you insert a little ad in the New Era each week, everybody will read it and know that you have something to sell and the man you are trying to reach will come and buy from you. Our Want Column has a pulling power. It can talk to a thousand people while you are talking to two or three of your friends. Cost only 1c per word per line each insertion, cash with order. A four-line advertisement will cost you only thirty cents, and it may bring you several dollars.

Deceased was born in New Orleans, La., November 24, 1853, and moved to Medina county with his parents when he was three years old. For the past thirty-five years he lived in Bandera county. He had been an invalid for some time. Surviving are his wife and three children, Hubert Zinsmeister, of Brackettville, L. H. Zinsmeister and Mrs. Anten Leibold. Our sympathies are extended to the bereaved family.

People Want Locations.

There is a growing demand here for small tracts of land along the river front. Scarcely a week passes but what some prospector is in Bandera looking for a homesite, or a small farm on the river near this town. Yesterday we had two callers who are anxious to secure a home near town where they can raise chickens and turkeys. Last week a prominent citizen of San Antonio was here looking for a homesite and a few days ago what he wants will build a summer home here. If you have land for sale a little ad in the New Era will help you to sell it.

Lightning Strikes Comfort Power Plant

Comfort, Texas., Sept. 20.—Comfort was visited by a severe electrical storm, accompanied by rain, on Sunday night. The sub-station and switching tower of the Central Power and Light Company was struck by lightning. Two huge transformers were burned out, the entire switching and metering equipment, housed in a reinforced brick building was destroyed.

The fire alarm was sounded and the Comfort volunteer fire department responded promptly, and under the direction of the local manager, O. B. Wright, the resulting flames were extinguished. It was stated that the damage would run to about $10,000.

E. W. Franke, the company's district manager, came to Comfort on Monday and by 9 a. m. the connection between the distribution system and the electric light plant at Fisch's Mill was made. The same day a spare transformer was brought down from Fredericksburg and with the spare one here, replaced the one that was burned out. By 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning Comfort was again connected up with the "high line."

Lightning also struck a corner of D. Holekamp and Sons' store, burning up all electric, telephone and radio wires and the panes in five windows.

Girl Found Murdered

Fredericksburg, Tex., Sept. 20.—Officers of Austin and Houston were called on Tuesday night by Sheriff Alfred Kiserner of Gillespie County to assist in identifying the body of a girl, believed to have been between 12 and 14 years old, found in a shallow grave 10 miles north of here on the Fredericksburg-Mason Highway, about 100 yards from the much-traveled road.

Sheriff Kiserner expressed the belief that the girl had resided at either Austin or Houston, but he refused to divulge the nature of the clues which led him to this decision.

Residents of Fredericksburg saw a girl of her description with two men in an automobile a week or 10 days ago and also observed the same car coming back into town on the highway from the north.

A handkerchief and other articles found near the body may serve as clues to the identity of those responsible for the girl's death, officers said. Ashes found where a fire had been kindled were those of the girl's clothes, they believe. Her body was made waterproof by oil.

She was about four feet 10 inches tall, had red, bobbed hair and wore a 10-carat gold ring set with a ruby on the little finger of her right hand.

She had been murdered one week and she had been dead between eight and 10 days, according to Dr. Victor Keidel and Dr. O. B. Witte, both of Fredericksburg, who conducted an examination.

Sheriff Kiserner said he was positive neither the girl nor those implicated in her murder resided in the Fredericksburg section. No one had been reported missing, he said.

The body was found by Willie Scott and Henry Jost. The grave was not more than five or six inches deep and was hidden from view by a small clump of bushes, officers said.

The doctors who examined the body said the girl's skull had been crushed with some blunt instrument.

Of Interest to Ranchmen.

With the approach of the hunting season some of our ranchmen are beginning to lease hunting rights on their lands, and we deem it timely to call attention to the law governing the leasing of land for hunting purposes. It is required of the owner or manager of such land that he secure a license from the Game, Fish and Oyster Commissioner, granting him the right to operate, and authorizing such person or persons on the lands leased for hunting purposes. The cost of this license is five dollars.

Married

Miss Ruth Hudspeth and Mr. Ben Hall were married in Kerrville last Saturday by Rev. Mr. Tabor. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Street Hudspeth, and is a popular young lady of Bandera. The groom is employed at the Bandera Garage, and is a young man of good character. The New Era joins their many friends in congratulations.

Sheriff Sells Cattle.

Sheriff Ben Hall sold a bunch of cattle belonging to Mrs. Ella Hall, at the Bandera Garage last Saturday afternoon. The cattle were sold to satisfy a judgment against Mrs. Hall.

John Wise Played Safe

John Wise was not stingy—he was just a careful spender. Although young in years he had already learned from experiences of others that sooner or later—he would need money.

It might be for a home—to go in business—buy a farm, or it might be for sickness, an operation or any number of emergencies that demand money now—they will not wait!

So John Wise saved—true, it was only a small amount but he saved it week in and week out. His savings grew—paid him well in interest. Now he's prepared to take advantage of opportunity or thwart failure.

It is devoted entirely to stories by old timers of old times in Texas, tales of the Texas rangers, of border warfare, of battle and murder and Indian raids, of horse-stealing and bandits, of brave pioneer men and women of grim manhood and womanhood. "There is a Reason"

Abraham Lincoln said: "This country with its institutions belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing government they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it, or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it. Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?" The consolidation of wealth, credit, resource and opportunity has gone steadily forward almost beyond the reach and against the best interests of the people through their own neglect to apply the means in their power—Lincoln's "ultimate justice." If consolidation of government is the handiwork of a few can also be accomplished beyond supervision control and regulation of the "mob" than, indeed, will "government of the people, for the people and by the people have perished and these dead will have died in vain."

What profiteth a man if he can speak Latin, Creek, Sanskrit and Hebrew, if his knowledge has not put him in touch with mankind? What the world needs is not so much information on ancient history and dead languages, but practical information that will enable people to render assistance to others with whom he has to mingle in various relations of commerce and society. Education that does not prepare one for usefulness and helpfulness, but tends rather to make one hypercritical and superciliousness, worth one's time. What we are most concerned about is how to live so that we will have both health of body and vigor of mind, kindliness of spirit and tenderness of soul. We want to be able to love sincerely, unselfishly and to create a return a friendly interest. Knowledge is a splendid thing, when by the application of the knowledge something good can be accomplished and the work of the world be made more congenial for all those who are struggling hard to earn an honest living.

Another New Book.

"The Boy Captives," a book dealing with the captivity of Clint and Jeff Smith, will be off the press in a few days and ready for distribution. The Smith brothers, who are known to nearly all of our old timers, were captured by Comanche Indians near Dripping Springs in- 1869, and spent about five years among the savages. Jeff Smith was sold to old Geronimo, chief of the Apaches. Clinton was the adopted son of Tasacowadi, a noted Comanche chief. These boys endured many hardships and sufferings during their captivity, and probably the only two brothers who were taken at the same time and lived to return to their people. The book, which will be about two hundred pages, was written by J. Marvin Hunter. It tells the story of these boys in full detail, and will no doubt meet with ready sale throughout the country. These captives are now old men. Clinton Smith, who for many years lived in Bandera county, now resides on his ranch near Hackberry, Edwards county. Jeff Smith, the younger brother, resides in San Antonio.

Watch the Country Boy

Speaking of a farm boy friend of his that recently graduated with honors, though paying all his school expenses by work before and after school hours, Dick McCarty, editor of the Albany News, paid tribute to the country boy.

"You can't tell about these country boys. They take polish like a diamond, and, invariably, they sparkle and shine in the race up the ladder of knowledge. Oh, yes, keep your eyes on the country boy; he may have corns in his hands, his shoulders may be somewhat stooped from plowing and grubbing but when he pitches the grubbing hoe into the corner and bangs up the plow shares and gets into the chase after a mental diet, he usually has the ball over the fence and crosses the home plate and tallies a score. No, you can't tell. A farm boy has just hopped across the Atlantic and lit in Paris.

The country boy is no smarter than the town or city boy, but if you will watch the school reports you will see that most of the honors are being carried off by country boys—the country girls also. And a little study will give you the answer to why this is so. Most country boys and girls begin performing useful labor early in life. They help earn the money that pays their expenses in school, and knowing that the money comes only after hard toil, they see that they cannot afford to throw their time away, and so they make every hour in school count. And there are so many things to attract their attention after school hours, that, instead of spending the nights at entertainments or on the streets, they give their time to their studies. Also, as a rule, you will find that the country furnishes the salutatorian and valedictorian.—Honey Grove Signal.

Auto Killings Gaining Rapidly

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The great national army of automobile killings continues at a quickened pace—so much in fact that it is becoming something like a natural catastrophe.

So far this year auto killings have been running 3 hundred per cent to 5 per cent above 1926, and according to the National Safety Council, past experience shows that the probability will be about 5 per cent for the year. The months have always run heavier in the number of deaths than during the first half of the year.

This means that nearly 25,000 persons will have been killed by automobile accidents before the year is out. For the first seven months the deaths by 11,455, compared with 11,000 a year ago.

People are being slaughtered at such a rate in Chicago that the city is suddenly becoming concerned over the problem. So far train men have been killed in this county—an increase of approximately 50 per cent over last year.

The National Safety Council reports that whatever real safety campaigns are on foot and laws properly enforced, the deaths from auto accidents decrease rapidly. They urge the licensing of drivers, the examination and strict enforcement of traffic laws. "When drivers are licensed there will naturally is a special incentive to drive carefully because of the fear of having this license revoked. The council advises. "Of course, these laws are much like the prohibition law—they must be enforced to be effective, but professional drivers bread and butter depends upon having a license to operate a car. The threat to take it away in case they are careless induces careful driving. One community we know of with 11,000 licensed drivers, never has had an accident in speeding among its men."

In its campaign Chicago is going to employ the radio and the schools principally. All radio stations are to have five-minute talks on safety while special instruction is to be provided for the children, a start in which that already provided for. Posters are being distributed and safety pledges provided to be signed by parents and pupils.

The trouble in Chicago is, however, as pointed out by newspapers and the safety council, that the city makes very little effort to enforce most of the laws and has no provision for controlling drivers. There are many laws on other cities in the same boat.

To prevent big slaughter it could be ed on eventually to awaken the people to the need for regulation.

NAME ADDRESS

Pioneer-Indian Battle.

An Indian-Pioneer battle, the like of which has not been seen since the palmy days of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, is a surprise feature of the coming meeting of the Old Trail Drivers' Association in San Antonio next month, it became known when George W. Saunders announced that he had obtained a band of full blood Comanche Indians from Fort Sill, Okla., to supply the Indian part of the action.

The pioneers in the battle will be genuine Texas pioneers and their descendants and in this respect the show will be more authentic than any Buffalo Bill ever was able to produce.

The battle will be given four nights at Garrett Field on North Flores Street, beginning October 6 during the Old Trail Drivers' convention and will be preceded by fully two days under the Old Trail Drivers' Association auspices for the benefit of the Old Trail Drivers' monument fund.

George W. Saunders has written the battle story and stage directions and the title which is "Full Blooded Comanches from Fort Sill Okla., Attacking Colonel Bowers's Immigrant Train on the Texas Plains."

The stage directions begin as follows: "Dance of thrills for the spectators, and are as follows:

First Act—Indians with their squaws will enter the grounds with their drags attached to their ponies, camp and unload their equipment, put up their tepees, build campfires, showing their mode of living in their wild state. They will play tom-toms and dance different dances.

"An old scout from Colonel Bowers' immigrant train will ride into the an Indian scout from this band of Indians. The dead Indian is found and brought to camp, which causes great confusion. The Indians break camp and move off to prepare for war. The immigrant train appears on the ground, led by the old scout and Colonel Bowers, each wagon has a guard, riding, carrying a gun. They circle the grounds, the old scout leaves the train for a short time, comes back excited and informs the Indians coming. They corral the wagons, put all women and children in the corral, tie all horses to wagon wheels and prepare for the attack.

The Indians charge the wagons under heavy fire from the immigrants. Indians circle the corral on fleet ponies in single file, shooting into the corral, the fire from the immigrants sets lighter and lighter and circle, nearer, thinking they had killed most of the immigrants. Several Indians are killed, riderless horses running pell-mell, confusion intense, screams from the women and children heard. Smart-rendering. Colonel Bowers attempts to get a scalp from a dead Indian nearby and is wounded, his high hat is taken by an Indian, who carries the hat in front. An Indian shoots a burning arrow into one of the wagons and sets it afire, more screams and more confusion.

"One girl thinking that all the wagons are afire, takes chances of escaping across the plains, running like a deer. An Indian pursues and captures her, lifts her on his horse and darts away only to be killed by a guard, who rescues and takes the girl back to the corral. The old scout on the plains and gets 13 cowboys allys out and goes to some trail herds and returns just in the nick of time. 13 cowboys charges the Indians, yelling, the Indians retreat and hold council. Cowboys dismount at wagons and give first aid, remount and charge the Indians. Indians run, cowboys pursue, and they have a running battle for several miles. Dead and wounded Indians and cowboys are scattered on the plains. They have a hand to hand battle, cowboys show courage and bravery. Indians falling fast. Colonel Bowers kills Indian, recovers his high hat. Cowboy victory."

No Mistake About It.

Everybody reads the advertisements in the Bandera New Era. Better try one. Just place an ad in our News Column when you desire for sale and Graham is alleged to have changed a warrant issued to himself from $11.65 to $511.65. The warrant was cashed at Sabinal. Parcel Post Mail Rifled

Postal authorities at Austin were starting investigations into a theft of a quantity of parcel post mail rifled from a mail storage car destined for San Antonio, it was learned Monday night.

The lock was broken from the car and the package rifled somewhere between Texarkana and Longview Junction, according to local postal officials. The robbery was discovered at the Palmetto transfer and postal clerks immediately relocked the car and forwarded it to San Antonio.

When the train arrived at Austin J. C. Lindland, inspector in charge of the district, ordered all undelivered packages removed from the car there and ordered the car to proceed to San Antonio.

Postal inspectors in San Antonio declared Monday night that there was no way of checking up for further losses because no record was kept of packages carried in the car.

Rifled packages taken from the car at Austin are expected to furnish a clew for inspectors for running down the theft.

The robbery Sunday night was the second reported on that division of the Missouri Pacific within the last six months. Three men were arrested six months ago following a series of similar thefts. In that car they shattered the glass from the end door of the car and removed the latch to gain entrance.

Jailed on Complaint of Girls

Arrested on the complaints of four young Boerne-hearted girls who claim he enticed them away from their homes to serve as "nurse" in bootlegging establishments in San Antonio, a middle-aged Burnett street man was held in the city jail Monday pending the filing of formal charges against him.

Declaring that they have been shamed since the man brought them here from the country on the pretense of getting them good jobs, the girls, who were discovered by detectives, have signified their willingness to appear against the man in court.

The man was placed under arrest by Chief of Detectives William F. Green Sunday night.

According to the girls' story, they came here and were forced to work in bootlegging houses with the promise that they would get better jobs soon.

Instead, however, they reported that they were compelled to dispense Austin ale and whiskey and to accept the attentions of strange men to whom their employer introduced them.

All of the girls said that they lived near San Antonio and that they had tired of rural life.—San Antonio Light.

Mrs. Heck Jones Dead.
Mrs. Ida Jones died at her home in Kerrville on Wednesday night, September 21, after an illness of several months duration. Funeral services were conducted at the Jones cemetery on Myrtle Creek last Thursday by Rev. C. E. Wheat, pastor of the Kerrville Methodist church.

Deceased was born in 1873, and was the wife of John Henry Jones. She is also survived by her four children, Rand, Earl, Andrew and Miss Vida Jones, one brother, Hill Jones, of this county, and one sister, Mrs. Margie Horton, of El Paso. Before her marriage she was Miss Ida Jones.

Mrs. Jones resided in Bandera county practically all of her life, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her, for she was a splendid neighbor, a devoted wife and tender mother. She was stricken with illness several months ago, which necessitated her removal to Kerrville for treatment, and there all that medical skill could suggest and careful nursing could do was done to relieve her, but to no avail. The news of her death came as a great shock to all of her friends throughout this section. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

Mrs. Thelma Gene Ellis Dead.
Mrs. Thelma Gene Ellis, aged 26 years, died at her home in San Antonio Tuesday, and her remains were brought to Bandera yesterday for interment, the funeral being conducted at the cemetery by Rev. B. J. Gossett, pastor of the Bandera Methodist church. She was the wife of Clyde Ellis, an employe of the Texas Company at San Antonio. Surviving, besides her husband and two small children, are C. H. Blakeney, of Salter, San Antonio; three brothers, Harold Blakeney, Sacramento, California; Charlie Hunter, of El Paso, and Doc Blakeney, Bandera; three sisters, Mrs. Walter Bailey and Misses Estelle and Colin Blakeney, San Antonio. The pall bearers were selected from employes of the Texas Company, and were V. L. Salter, M. J. Mahaver, S. B. Hall, J. E. Hudson, E. A. Weimer and Max Grassenbarber.

Mrs. Ellis spent most of her girlhood in Bandera, and was a splendid young woman, and the news of her death was received here with much sorrow. The New Era extends sympathy and confidence to the bereaved ones.

Several automobile loads of Texas Company employees came up from San Antonio to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ellis, and many beautiful flowers were brought and placed on the grave.

John Wise Played Safe

John Wise was not stingy—he was just a careful spender. Although young in years he had already learned from experiences of others that sooner or later—he would need money.

It might be for a home—to go in business—buy a farm, or it might be for sickness, an operation or any number of emergencies that demand money now—they will not wait!

So John Wise saved—true, it was only a small amount but he saved it week in and week out. His savings piled—him well in interest. Now he's prepared to take advantage of opportunity or thwart failure.

REPORTER.

Soldiers From Fort Sam Taken To Murder Scene

Austin, Sept. 27.—Two additional soldiers from Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, were taken to Fredericksburg examined and questioned Tuesday night in connection with the slaying of a young girl whose body was discovered in a hole near Fredericksburg, the Gillespie County sheriff said in a long distance telephone message here Tuesday night.

The sheriff declined to reveal whether either man had been identified, saying "We don't want to talk tonight. We may have something tomorrow."

Meanwhile, Fredericksburg authorities said that a message had been received saying that Billie Owens, missing Crane City, Texas, girl is safe in Wichita Falls. Miss Owens' mother and sister who came to Fredericksburg to look at the body disagreed the mother saying that it was not that of her child, the daughter believing it to be.

No Mistake About It.

We heard a man remark some time ago that he did not believe people, as a rule, read the advertisements in a newspaper, as he himself never read them. Just a few days later the man came to our office to inquire about a certain tract of land we had advertised. He must have read the advertisement. Everybody reads the advertisements in the New Era. If you don't think so, just place an ad in our Want Column offering something for sale and see if you don't get answers to your ad. No mistake about it.

Parcel Post Mail Rifled

Postal authorities at Austin were starting investigations into a theft of a quantity of parcel post mail rifled from a mail storage car destined for San Antonio, it was learned Monday night.

The look was broken from the car and the package rifled somewhere between Texarkana and Longview Junction, according to local postal officials. The robbery was discovered at the Palestine transfer and postal clerks immediately rebolted the car and forwarded it to San Antonio.

When the train arrived at Austin J. C. Lindland, inspector in charge of the district, ordered all mutilated packages removed from the car there and ordered the car to proceed to San Antonio.

Postal inspectors in San Antonio declared Monday night that there was no way of checking up for further losses because no record was kept of packages carried in the car.

Rifled packages taken from the car at Austin are expected to furnish a clew for inspectors for running down the thief.

The robbery Sunday night was the second reported on that division of the Missouri Pacific within the last six months. Three men were arrested six months ago following a series of similar thefts. In that car they shattered the glass from the end door of the car and removed the latch to gain entrance.

Jailed on Complaint of Girls

Arrested on the complaints of four young broken-hearted girls who claim he enticed them away from their homes to serve as "lures" in bootlegging establishments in San Antonio, a middle-aged Burnett street man was held in the city jail Monday pending the filing of formal charges against him.

Declaring that they have been shamed since the man brought them here from the country on the pretense of getting them good jobs, the girls, who were discovered by detectives, have signified their willingness to appear against the man in court.

The man was played under arrest by Chief of Detectives William F. Green Sunday night.

According to the girls' story, they came here and were forced to work in bootlegging houses with the promise that they would get better jobs soon.

Instead, however, they reported that they were compelled to dispense beer and whiskey and to accept the attentions of strange men to whom their employer introduced them.

All of the girls said that they lived near San Antonio and that they had tired of rural life.—San Antonio Light.

From Far-Away Maine.

As an instance of how Frontier Times, Bandera's growing magazine, is appreciated, we give the following extract from a letter written to us by Larry Chittenden, the well known poet-ranchman, who says:

"I greatly appreciate Frontier Times, and have placed it on file here in The Autograph Library, Christmas Cove, Maine, and mentioned it in the publicity department. I have had the full page Sunday story from the San Antonio Express of October 4, 1924, displayed here in the Texas Corner—all about you—ever since it appeared. Hence you, and your good work, are well known in The Only Autograph Library in the World." I hope it will be my privilege to entertain you here in my Library home by the sea some day. The latch string is always out and the doors are wide open to all traveling Texans, in the summer time. You would like this place and truly love this library, now showing about 4,000 signed volumes. I am off on my travels again soon. With all good wishes and kind regards, and hopes of seeing you here next summer."

Larry Chittenden owns a large ranch property in Jones county, near Anson, and spends a portion of his time there, a portion in Florida, and his summers at his delightful home, Sea Bird's Nest, Christmas Cove, Maine. His book, "Ranch Verses," has gone through seventeen editions, and is still in great demand. Some day, perhaps, we will accept his kind invitation and journey to Christmas Cove to revel in his wonderful Autograph Library.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bailey, of San Antonio, attended the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Clyde Ellis, Wednesday.

With the approach of the hunting season ranchmen who want to keep trespassers off of their lands should post their premises against hunting or trespassing. A foul murder has been committed in Gillespie county—one of those hellish murders which drives men to mob violence. A poor little girl has been the victim to a demon or demons in human form, and while her lifeless body lay in an undertaking establishment at Fredericksburg awaiting identification, Gillespie county officers and State Rangers are running down clues that may reveal the murderer of murderers. We do not know who this unfortunate girl may be; we do not know if she was a wayward girl, or what may have led to her murder; but we do know that she was of that gentler sex which becomes the mothers of men, and we naturally conclude that she was innocent and chaste. She may have been kidnapped or lured to the place of her death; she may have been "doped" or chloroformed and carried there. We cannot even conjecture the circumstances that surround the awful murder; all is mystery. But we do know that in this crime a warning is sounded to all girls, especially those inexperienced and tender young girls who entertain the idea that they can "take care of themselves anywhere." Never was a greater fallacy born. Today there are wolves in human form going abroad, everywhere seeking young girls as prey—and despite the greatest safe-guards that may be thrown around the unsuspecting, unsuspecting girls, these hellions are preying upon them and are responsible for hundreds of disappearances every year. What protection has a poor weak girl, when she falls into the hands of one of these unprincipled, technically speaking, white-slave traffickers? Absolutely none. The blood of the innocent victims to hellish lust, that should which has been shed in Gillespie county, cries aloud for vengeance, and every right handed brute who shed it will get it if he ever faces a Gillespie county jury.

The Kerrville Mountain Sun announces the construction of an electric light and power line to the city of Kerrville, along the Bandera road, for several miles, and that it is done with the proper effect. Bandera could endure the Texas Power & Light Company to run a line from the Kerrville station to this place, and would give us light and power at a reasonably a matter which should be considered.

The good news comes that the Walker & Van Dorn interests which company drilled a test well at Center Point this year, and had to abandon it at 3,000 feet because of salt water, will probably sink another test somewhere in that territory. Indeed they can get certain concessions from Walker and Van Dorn have faith in that region, and they should be given all encouragement. The territory has not been prospected, for one dry hole does not prove that there is not an oil pool in that region. Surface indications and oil sand were found in the well abandoned, and there is belief that there is oil there somewhere in San Antonio is growing, growing, growing. Within the past three or four years quite a number of sky-scraper buildings have been erected, the latest being the Milam building, a 21-story structure. And more of them are being drawn for a 32-story office building to be erected within the next few months. At the rate San Antonio is growing now, we predict that within another ten years the city of Alamo City will rival New York in population. Did it ever occur to you that Bandera is right at San Antonio's door, or more properly speaking, San Antonio is Bandera's front door? Some day, and by no means distant, Bandera will be the playground for the South's greatest city, and right now is the time for providing for that day.

Three prominent Texans have announced their candidacy for the United States Senate, entering the race against Hon. Earle B. Mayfield, the present incumbent. They are Col. Alvin Owsley, Former Governor O. B. Colquitt, and Hon. Tom B. Connally.

"There Is a Reason"

Fredericksburg Murder Mystery

When Chester Schuch, the sixteen-year-old son of Albert Schuch of the Cherry Mountain section of this county, was coming down the Mason Highway with a herd of sheep, on Monday of this week, his attention was attracted by a strong smell coming from the direction of a dense chaparral thicket 15 yards from the highway. He went to see what caused the odor, and found the body of a girl about 18 years of age. Her head was crushed in by a blow from a rock, and her body was badly decomposed. Buzzards were circling over the thicket.

No one has been reported missing in Gillespie or adjoining counties so far as known, and the girl must have been brought here from quite a distance. We are inclined to think that neither the victim nor the brutal fiend who committed this inhuman crime reside in our county.

While the young girl's victim's murder, lies unidentified, our sheriff Kluerser, County attorney Petsch and District Attorney Fridtjof Hammond, who came immediately when he heard of the crime having been committed, are working on several clues which we hope will end in the arrest of the responsible parties.

Sheriff Kluerser is to be highly complimented for the local officers have not been prospected, for one dry hole and in this way instead of assisting does not prove that there is not oil the officers help the murderer to make pool in that territory. Indeed are his get-away, still as daily papers are showings and oil sand were found in reporting, and very move the local the well abandoned, and there is belief officers make we see no reason why that there is oil there somewhere. not. Near the shallow grave were found a Hartenmaier's record of a Fort Sam Houston soldier and a pocket knife bearing the name of Ladies Handkerchief and other articles Allyn Walter Petsch and Justice of of clothing, but nothing to solve the the Peace Fetzmeyer, undertakers Joseph and Arthur Schuch crime. Friday morning of this week a blood-stained wagon sheet. Still later Sheriff Kluerser found a Kothmann's pasture, seventeen miles from the scene of the murder, and that the murderer buried the dropped these articles in the wagon sheet. Since then a pair of Schuld's old blue denim trousers, a Ranger Captain Frank J. Hamer who is assisting them in running down their clews, has rented this cottage out to two men and a girl who fits the description of the dark girl, on Thursday of last week. Before he awoke next morning the three were gone. When he went in the room to clean up in the evening he found the cot

Governor Dan Moody has posted a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer, or slayers, of the red-haired girl whose mutilated was found in a shallow grave near Fredericksburg last week.

Robert Russell, a young man of Wills Point, Texas, fell from a flat car on a railroad and was thrown under the wheels, which cut off his leg. He died in a short time, at a hospital in Furney. His father, Robert Russell, Sr., started to Furney in a car when he heard of the accident. The car overturned a few miles west of Wills Point, killing him almost instantly.

Frontier Times Museum.

It may be of interest to the people here to know that a small museum is being established right here in Bandera, at the New Era office, and if anyone has any old relics that wish to contribute to the museum we will be pleased to receive them. Among the collection now on hand will be found a number of very interesting things. There is an old holster pistol used by one of the early Texas pioneers; an old cap and ball Colt's pistol found out in Charlie Eckhart's pasture; an old cap and ball Colt's pistol lost by Andy Mansell's dad and found by John Hillman in 1926; also an Indian lance made of steel, found in the hills of Bandera county, an old Springfield rifle 50 calibre used in the buffalo days, two old Remeer carbines, one of which probably belonged to Polly Rodgers, famous old Bandera scout and trailer; A German Mauser rifle used by Pancho Villa in the battle of Ojinaga; a Swiss army rifle; an old musket found where a fight took place between white men and Indians; a Colt's repeating rifle, first type of pump gun; various kinds of cartridges, old spurs, Indian arrows and bow, bullet moulds in old fire, a gas mask, three arrow heads and various other relics which have historical interest. Look around your premises and see if you haven't something, which is of no use to you, but which would be a valuable additions to our collection. Anything contributed will be appreciated.

Humble Pipe Line Nearing Completion

If crude oil is running through the pipe line under construction by the Humble Pipe Line company from the Luling oil fields to West Texas to Port Ingleside, San Patricio county, by October 1, as planned, one of the largest undertakings of commercial nature ever begun in Southwest Texas will have been completed. The enterprise is being put through by the Humble Company at an approximate cost of $12,000,000. The line is 440 miles long, and the most of it is off the railroad routes, in some places as far as 60 miles. Necessary masking; the work more difficult of completion on account of hauling. Several power stations have been installed along the route of the line to augment the flow of the oil.

Storage facilities to take care of the flow of the Corpus Christi line are nearing completion at the tank farm at Ingleside, on Aransas Bayside, a large force of men being at work to complete the job by October 1.

Seven of the first ten 64,000 barrel steel tanks for its tank farm at Ingleside have been completed by the Humble, and work is progressing on the other three. The plans call for a total of thirty tanks of that size to be erected as fast as needed. It is understood that the company is now planning some 80,000 barrel tanks for that farm also. Several 85,000-barrel tanks are already up and have been in use by the line running from Laredo.—Sinton News.

Drilling Soon to Start On Oil Well Location

Weatherford, Texas, Sept. 25.—Carter Moseley of this city has leased 200 acres of the Moseley ranch on the Brazos River, twenty-five miles west of here, to G. C. Shaw of Fort Worth and Shaw will drill on it to the depth of 4,500 feet unless gas or oil is struck at a lesser depth. The Moseley ranch now has two producing gas wells on it and several producing oil wells have been drilled in only a short distance from it across the river.

The drilling will be watched with unusual interest because of the fact that Shaw has agreed to donate his share of production, if the well comes in as a producer, to the American Legion. Part of it will go to Bell-well Kane Post in Fort Worth and part to the Veteran Hospital at Kerrville.

Another Test for Oil to Be Made

Prospects are extremely good for another oil test in the Center Point area, according to Mainor Rhumard, Center Point banker, who was a visitor in the city Saturday.

Judge A. W. Walker and E. W. Van Duyn of Dallas have made a tentative offer to sink another well in the vicinity if property holders will waive the annual rentals now being held by them. Influential business men and citizens are aiding the company to effect this agreement with the land owners. Under the provisions of the proposal made Walker and Van Duyn the second well will be started not later than November 1 of this year.

The location of the second test, if the plans are carried out, is as yet undetermined.

Walker and Van Duyn recently abandoned their No. 1 well on the W. B. Leuh farm in Survey 38, after going down to 2,200 feet. Several line oil and gas showings were encountered. This well attracted considerable attention from scouts representing large oil companies, and the failure of the well to produce oil and that the showing in the No. 1 justifies further development of the Center Point area.

The syndicate holds about 22,000 acres in leases in Center Point.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

New Power Line Will Be Built

Work was started the past week and on a new light and power line for the Ft. Mason Power & Light Company south of the city.

The transmission which will be approximately 15 miles in length, will serve a number of farms in the Split Rock community.

The line will carry 11,000 volts and connect with the main high tension line of the Texas Power & Light Company, Leon Section. Service will be supplied the Medina Electric & Power Company south of the city.

The contract for the construction of the line was awarded the past week following consideration for several weeks and is now awaiting the approval of high officials at the Dallas headquarters of the company.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Junction Again Hit By Destructive Fire

Junction, Tex., Sept. 24.—Junction had another disastrous fire Friday night with a loss of $40,500, as follows:

J. M. Hankins Drug Company Building and stock, $14,500; E. G. Lockley picture show building and equipment, $12,000; Kindrick Grocery Company building and stock $8,000; J. M. Hodges building, $2,000

Leases were partially covered by insurance.

The fire started in the picture show at 8 p. m. Friday. Fire apparatus from Menard and Mason, Kerrville with arrived within one hour and half after fire started but the fire had burned itself out before they arrived.

Pete McKenzie, convicted of the murder of Detective Sam Street at San Antonio, and given the death penalty last week, was released a new trial in the 94th District Court in San Antonio last Saturday. McKenzie's attorneys gave notice of, appeal.

Mr. Summers also refers to the fact that there are no exceptions to the charge, but the attorney on the other side is not allowed to interrupt him in his way in his attempt. He must lay the facts before the court and jury which is selected by the judge. This is done in quickly. First and a Feed Your Pastures.

With the approach of the hunting season ranchmen who want to keep trespassers off their lands should feed their premises against hunting or trespassing." A small trespass notice inserted in the New Era from now until the close of the hunting season will not cost much and may be the means of saving lots of trouble and some property damage.

The New Era's Want Column is being well patronized these days. Our readers realize that this column is a regular bargain counter, and some good trades have been made through the insertion of but a small ad therein. If you have anything to sell, or want to buy anything, a three or four line want ad will easily accomodate you, and the price is only 5c per issue. Four insertions will cost you only thirty cents for one insertion Cash should accompany all orders for want ads, as we carry no charge accounts on these ads.

NO TRESPASSING

No hunting, trapping, cutting of bee trees, or trespassing allowed on my land. I will pay a liberal reward for information tha will lead to the conviction of any party or parties tearing down or still going over my fences.—Hansen Ranch. H. C. Hansen, prop. Mar 15,27-1mo.

Joe Short lives in Bandera, ranches, is 74 years old and hasn't a gray hair. How does it happen, you ask? Well, Joe says he doesn't know any more about it than anybody else. But there he is and his old-time sweetheart, as gray and scant of hair, and keeps it that way. That's all there is to it. He was down in Seguin to see his mother and sisters. And when he got there they rallied 'round him, asking "how come." They begged for the receipt. But he did it. But he had none.

Adds New Line.

J. H. Fletcher, of San Antonio, was here yesterday and put in an appreciated visit. Mr. Fletcher informs us that his firm, Fletcher-Hatchett Motor Co., has been made and-ded the Lite Department President Lite and Accident Co of Chattanooga Tennessee, to his agency. This company has a record of forty years standing, with over $4,000,000 premium income, with policies and rates that cannot be excelled in the world. Agents for Fletcher & Fletcher in this county will have added this additional line to offer to the people.

Orville Stokes, of Medina, was in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross and baby, of San Antonio, were here the first of the week visiting his father, John Ross.

The New Era Buys Larger Press.

The New Era this week placed an order for a larger newspaper press, a Universal, two-revolution, drum cylinder, with a No. 2 Eclipse folder. We expect to receive and install this machinery by December 1st. The press we are now using, a two-page seven column Potter cylinder press, will be sent to Harper to be used by Warren Hunter in printing the Harper Herald. Warren has been struggling along for nearly two years wrestling with an old Washington hand press, which has almost wrecked his good morals, and hindered his progressiveness. With a cylinder press he will now be in position to give Harper a still better newspaper, although it is conceded to be the best weekly in Kerr county. We have a big mouthful magazine, and the expanding circulation of the New Era will certainly "strut our stuff." When we purchased the New Era nearly seven years ago the paper was printed on a little two page Vaughn Acme press. My soon-pull crew that, and three years later we purchased the Potter cylinder press. We ready growth of Frontier Times, the mouthful magazine, and the expanding circulation of the New Era has been a tax on our press facilities. The burden will now be overcome when the machinery is installed, which will be within the next few weeks, and we are glad.

Big Potatoes.

Mrs. Armand Grechon brought us some extra large Porto Rico Yams last Thursday. These potatoes are about the largest we have seen raised here, and Mrs. Clark says she has plenty more yield like that. We want to honestly believe that sweet potatoes would not be raised successfully on any but sandy soil, but the yams raised in Bandera county will equal any produced in the sandy land belt.

TUFF TOPICS

Mrs. H. L. Carpenter received a sad message Friday that her brother-in-law, Mr. Reese of San Antonio, had been killed by electricity. Mrs. Carpenter went immediately to be with her relatives in their deep sorrow. Mr. Reese was a good neighbor in their section.

Scalped by Indian.

Ed Mansfield returned from San Antonio Monday where he spent Sunday with relatives. Mansfield participated in the Old Trail Drivers' reunion. Mr. Mansfield was scalped by an Indian in a battle fought in defense of the Texas frontier. Mansfield is very proud of his battle scalp, and he was among the murdered victims of savage ferocity which many times he was scalped and scalped by an old squaw who had but one eye. As soon as he could make his escape from the Indian camp he secured a quantity of Wilson's Dyer and applied to his bleeding top-knot and it immediately healed all of the wound, and up to this good day he has had no time his scalp was just as good as ever and ready to be killed in the fight. After that every "Tronsgesman" in the performance had to use Wilson's Dyer, for the best dope on the market, heals the cuts and drives away the flies.

D. E. Dater Dead.

One day last week while D. E. Dater, aged 69, was handling a team of mules, one of the animals kicked him in the side, and so badly injured him that he died at his home on Bandera Creek Wednesday night, October 5th. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church by Elder J. D. Slater, minister of the Church of Christ, of San Antonio, and interment was made in Bandera Cemetery at 6 o'clock last Thursday evening.

A wife and five children survive, the children being Mrs. Amanda Pinner of San Antonio, Monroe Dater, Jonas Dater, John Dater and DeWitt Dater of Bandera.

Deceased was born in Oklahoma December 13, 1858, and came to Bandera about five years ago. He was a quiet, law-abiding citizen, honest and upright in all of his dealings, and his tragic death is greatly deplored by all who knew him. The New Era extends sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family.

Sells Ten Litter.

Last week G. L. Vawter, of Pipe Creek, sold a ton litter of pigs in San Antonio at 5½ cents per pound. The pigs were born January 2, this year, and the litter weighed 2,000 pounds when sold. Not so bad for Bandera county hogs. They were of the Poland China stock.

When a Dog Loves.

The picture to be shown at Bandera Theater Friday night, will be "When a Dog Loves," featuring the famous German police dog, Ranger. Old Fashioned Candle Mould.

County Commissioner A. V. Pue, of Medina, brought in an old fashioned candle mould this week for the New Era's inspection. In this day and time, when candles are about a thing of the past, especially the home-made candles, the old candle mould is considered as quite a relic. In the early days, before the introduction of kerosene lamps the settlers were forced to make their own candles by reason of the fact that they could not be obtained otherwise. The old fashioned candle mould consisted of a tallow candle, and provided light for the frontier home when the shades of darkness descended. Every old pioneer well remembers the days of the tallow candle.

Yesterday Mr. Pue brought us an old Citizens' rifle which his father, J. A. V. Pue, brought from Maryland to Texas in the 60s. The old rifle is in good condition, and if its entire history could be told we are sure, it would be interesting. Mr. Pue says he would not part with this old gun, but generously loaned it for display in our museum.

John Wise Played Safe

John Wise was not stingy—he was just a careful spender. Although young in years he had already learned from experiences of others that sooner or later—he would need money.

It might be for a home—to go in business—buy a farm, or it might be for sickness, an operation or any number of emergencies that demand money now—they will not wait!

So John Wise saved—true, it was only a small amount but he saved it week in and week out. His savings grew—paid him well in interest. Now he's prepared to take advantage of opportunity or thwart failure.

TARPLEY TOPICS.

Tarpley has had several good showers. As a result, grain is up and fall gardens are pretty.

The pipe line through this section is completed and oil is flowing through. Most of the men are home and everything is quieter than it has been in some time.

School is getting well started under the management of Miss Kelly and Bradley. We are hoping for a successful term.

Rev. Gossett accompanied by Mrs. Gossett and Mr. and Mrs. James Pepper were here Sunday and preached to a good sized crowd. He appointed Mr A. A. Jeffers as superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, to succeed Mrs. H. E. Willis who has resigned after years of faithful service.

Members of the P. T. A. entertained a large crowd last Friday evening in honor of the teachers. They will also organize a basket supper to be given at the school house next Friday night. Proceeds to go to the school. Every one cordially invited.

We understand that R. R. Pue is having extensive improvements done on his home.

R. A. Robinson has just completed a fine little cottage.

Lucius Hicks is having his home repainted and a house and barn built for his renters.

Jess O'Brien, of San Antonio, accompanied by Miss Lucille Hall, of Pipe Creek, was in town Monday.

Edwin Langford was in from Pipe Creek Monday and informed us that conditions in his section are very good, but more rain is needed.

ADVERTISING RATES

The New Era's advertising rates are as follows: Display rate, per column inch, one time 35 cents; contract, 30 cents. Local readers and want ads, 5½ cents per line each insertion.

Incorporation would be the greatest step forward Bandera could take. Let's incorporate.

To induce people to locate here we must first offer something to attract them here. Let's turn old Bandera upside down, wring out the dirt and then clean her up to shine like new money. Point up, rebuild, improve. Make the old town look like new. And while we are doing all of those things, let's build a beautiful park on the court house square.

A mother in Georgia last week thought her little daughter in a dark closet "so terrify her into obedience." The instant the door was closed the child began to cry out declaring "something is under the bed." Then the mother declared after the servant cry she opened the door and she found fellow out dead, a victim of the mother's threat having choked her. We trust the coroner's verdict that she was duly stronger than we do else a negligent homicide charge may result. It seems a severe punishment for one who is willing to terrify their children into obedience, such disobedience reflects more on the parent than the child.

The New Era stands for progressiveness in every form of the word. We realize that in this day and time when towns all around us are building and improving that Bandera cannot afford to sit still. We must move forward with the rush of progress, or else we will go backwards. There is no reason for Bandera to stand still. We have all of the natural resources to make for a splendid commercial center and we should hasten to capitalize these resources not only for our own welfare but for the welfare of future generations. To the North of us only twenty-five miles away, Kerrville is growing by leaps and bounds. To the South of us San Antonio is spreading out as we that section growing, growing, growing. San Antonio is only fifty-four years old, in another fifty-four years that city will rival New York in population. Bandera has a real location to attract people, a real industry to attract people, a real industry to attract people, a real industry
