Labor's responsibilities include a determined effort to terminate practices which have aroused public feeling. Strikes which are called before any sincere effort to negotiate differences has been made; sympathetic strikes in which the public which is not involved is forced to suffer the greater loss; gross violations of law and order; disregard of property rights; efforts of minorities to dictate—these practices must end before understanding and peaceable adjustment of controversies is possible. To end them is labor's responsibility.

Employer responsibilities call for a conscientious effort to stamp out un-American activities. The employment of labor spies, and the retention of paid gunmen to break up labor organizations; discrimination against organized workers, and refusal to deal collectively with the workers—these are practices which business and capital must eliminate.

When both sides recognize these obligations and seek to deal, according to the law, with all the problems that arise in adjusting differences of interest, then we will approach that time when cooperation will be substituted for conflict in the relations between labor and capital; and when that time comes this great nation will witness a level of prosperity such as we cannot even dream about today.

NO JOKE IN THESE FIGURES

The goat is made the butt of many jokes, but last year the 2,980,000 goats in Texas produced 13,400,000 pounds of mohair, valued at $20,000,000, which was 85 percent of the nation's total.

FIELD DAY

With Tin Pan Alley Rythm, the fifth grade pupils filled the school doors for a few moments of percussation—correction, inspiration Friday morning. Seated at various points, in various positions, we were instructed to select one object and describe it by our impression — the main cause being "point of view." With scraps of paper, old bags, gifts shoes, and grasstowers we entered the suite we found descriptions on the following: Town Mountain, Flag Pole, Church Spire, Court House, various trees, misty sky and a horse tied to a tree. "Can we have field day again soon, please Miss Davis?"

Clarence Adamajtz and Radie J. "Culpepper."

For the next few weeks of school there will be a sketch of two seniors each week.

Alvis and Alta Belle Addoms

Hey! Hey! Have you would probably think that Alvis and Alta Belle Addams are twins but no they're not, and there's just about as much difference between them as day and night. They entered school at Hockspringsa for eight years, then moved to Sabinal, where they went to high school for one and one-half terms. While there, Alvis took part in declamation, winning first place in a district meet. They both were extra good students of the Home Economics class. They moved to here two years ago, and their jolly, pleasant personality has led them to make fast friends throughout the school.

Alvis was our star volley ball player during the season and our best indoor baseball. And if you have never seen her perform, don't fail to see her in Public." You will like her good acting.

Alta Belle, one of the best typists in this year's class, is going to Draughon's this summer. Keep that determination, Alta Belle, and you will be sure to get to the top of the world—at any rate you will make an excellent stenographer.

Interesting Stories

SALMON (Pacific)

A group of exceedingly valuable food fishes. They spring up hatched in cool fresh water, living in small streams until they weigh a few ounces, they descend to the sea. Upon becoming full grown, in the course of 3 or 4 yrs, they leave the sea and ascend to the snow-fed head waters of rivers to spawn. A remarkable fact concerning the salmon is that none of them take food after leaving salt water. They die of starvation. In a few instances, after spawning, sometimes as far as one thousand miles from the sea. The eggs hatch in from four to six months.

The largest and finest salmon reach a weight of seventy-five pounds and sometimes reach a weight of 70 to 100 pounds.

Salmon for canning are taken near the months of rivers during the spring when their flesh is plump, firm and highly colored. They are caught in enormous quantities in various forms of nets, weirs and traps.

The diamond is unique among gem stones because it is the hardest substance known to man and it consists of a single element, carbon. About 60 per cent of the diamonds recovered in the entire Diamonds were probably unknown in ancient times and India supplied most of these precious stones until 1728, when they were discovered in Brazil. Since then South Africa has been the chief source of supply. The only source of supply in the United States is Pike county, Arkansas, where since 1906 more than 2000 crystals have been found. A simple method of testing genuine diamonds is based on the fact that they are transparent to X-rays while paste imitations are not.

The largest diamond ever found was the Cullinan. This was discovered in South Africa in 1905 and weighed over 1300 carats.

Shepherd's pie— Chop cold cooked lamb and mix with left-over gravy. Put in a baking dish, dot with small pieces of butter. Cover with hot mashed potatoes. Spread top with beaten egg yolk mixed with two teaspoons cold water. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until brown.

Silver polish should be kept close to the kitchen sink, so that stained pieces of table silver may be rubbed up after each meal. This takes only a few minutes and greatly reduces the work of weekly silver-cleaning.

To revive partly wilted flowers put stems into cold water. Cut off the lower leaves, away in a cool, dark place. Try this on your table bouquet.

Wash white leather with sweet milk and wipe dry. Rub with powdered alum and gives it a beautiful finish.

In order to crochet an edge around an article that has not been hemstitched, attach a coarse needle in your sewing machine, do not thread the needle, but stitch around the edge as if sewing. This makes holes that are accurately spaced for hemstitching.

Paste the label slantwise on the bottle of the remedy you use a great deal. This lessens the chance of getting the "wrong bottle."

When making a salad or pie, if pieces of apple are dropped in salted water, it will keep them from turning brown. Apples may be safely left in the salted water for several hours.

CAMPAIGN TO BE MADE TO ASSIGN SECURITY NUMBERS

Plans for an intensive campaign to assign social security account numbers by June 30 to every wage earner in employments covered by the Federal Old Age Benefits provisions of the Social Security Act were outlined by J. E. Jackson of San Antonio, field representative of the Social Security Board.

"Although approximately 1,000,000 account number cards have been issued in the State of Texas, we are certain that there still are several thousand covered employees in this field area who have not yet applied for account numbers," Jackson said.

"The postoffice will continue to receive applications for account numbers through June 30, so Until that date, application forms will be easily reach of any unregistered worker after that date an applicant will have to contact the nearest Social Security Board field office in order to establish an old-age benefits account.

BOOST FOR THE FAIR!

Old Cowboy Reunion is on and will have as fine a County Fair as any other County in the State if we will all put our shoulder to the wheel and push. Kendall county for many years has held an outstanding fair, which is the result of county wide cooperative effort on the part of its citizens.

Bandera is as well equipped as any county in the State in the matter of fine cattle and stock. Our other products, too, can equal or excel those of our neighboring counties if we each plan to do our part toward making our county fair a success.

SOLVING LABOR PROBLEMS

Are we moving toward a new era of understanding in the old, old conflict between capital and labor?- Has the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court paved the way to a peaceable adjustment of labor controversies, or has it merely made business more difficult to label? These questions can be answered only after the Wagner act has been operating for some time and when there is an accumulation of policies and precedent.

In our humble opinion, though we realize how remote we are from the center of disturbance, the act will operate effectively when it is amended, and when definite responsibilities are imposed on both sides. Rights imply corresponding duties. If labor gains a recognition of certain rights in the Wagner act it must accept responsibilities. And in the same breath, we may add, some new obligations must also be assumed by employers.

Labor's responsibilities include a determined effort to terminate practices which have aroused public feeling. Strikes which are called before any sincere effort to negotiate differences has been made; sympathetic strikes in which the public which is not involved is forced to suffer; the frequent loss, gross violations of law and order; disregard of property rights; efforts of minorities to dictate—these practices must end before understanding and peaceable adjustment of controversies is possible. To end them is labor's responsibility.

Employer responsibilities call for a conscientious effort to stamp out un-American activities. The employment of labor spies, and the retention of paid gunmen to break up labor organizations; discrimination against organized workers; and refusal to deal collectively with the workers—these are practices which business and capital must eliminate.

When both sides recognize these obligations and seek to deal, according to the law, with all the problems that arise in adjusting differences of interest, then we will approach that time when cooperation will be substituted for conflict in the relations between labor and capital; and when that time comes this great nation will witness a level of prosperity such as we cannot even dream about today.

NO JOKE IN THESE FIGURES

The goat is made the butt of many jokes, but last year the 2,980,000 goats in Texas produced 13,400,000 pounds of mohair, valued at $20,000,000, which was 85 percent of the nation's total.

Old Luke says that this country will make ends meet when everybody is either paying an income tax or is on relief.

"Id call it the ideal marriage when a man is wedded to an interesting companion and a good housekeeper."

"I wouldn't call it ideal. I'd call it bigamy."

Mike: "What is the difference between capital and labor?"

Pat: "Well, if I loan you $10 that is capital, but when I try to get it back it's labor."

"Secretary Wallace expects the weather to behave this year." Well it should. It certainly has a mandate from the people.

An animal trainer has taught a lion to sit up and beg. Whether it can keep the wolf at the door is another matter.

Said a man watching a driver weaving recklessly down the street, "Well, there's an accident going somewhere to happen."

When Walter Jureski is as famous as Wally Simpson and has to interviewer asks him about his hill-country home-town, Bandera, by saying, "I suppose your home town is one of those places where everyone goes to meet the train," Walter will, with customary wit, will probably reply, "What train?"

Spring Football Training

Due to the energetic desires of the "want-to-be" football players, Mr. Graham and Mr. Patton have decided to have spring football training in football for the oncoming season. A much larger number of enthusiastic calls for football training this year than last year. I believe this is due to the fact that we are really just beginning to understand what a great game football is.

We began our training Monday, April 19. We have a full-fledged workout each day, too, believe me. Mr. Graham adds a lap to the number of times we run around the track each day. He states that, in this manner, he will be able to tell who smokes and who does not when we have to run about thirty-five laps. (Gosh, I'd hate to run thirty five laps he'll think that we are all "puffers"!) At any rate our training will do a great deal of good because we shall need a strong, hard fighting team to expect to compete against our opponents in the class C conference.

Everyone of the boys on the field is working hard and we believe, that our efforts will be repaid by a show our brain and brawn.

FIELD DAY

With Tin Pan Alley Ryan, the ninth grade English tip-toed indoors for a few moments of perpetration—correction, inspiration Friday morning. Seated at various points, in various positions, we were instructed to select one single subject and describe it by our impression of the main going by "point of view". With scrape of paper, red bugs, dirty shoes, and grandpa's eye entered the suits we found descriptions on the following: Three Mountain, Flag Pole, Church Spire, Court House, various trees, misty sky and a horse tied to a tree. "Can we have field day again soon, please Miss Davis?"

Clarence Adamietz and Radie J. "Culpepper."

For the next few weeks of school there will be a sketch of two Seniors each week.

Household Hints

Breakfast

Baked apples,
Cream of Wheat, shirred eggs, muffins, coffee.

Luncheon

Shepherd's pie— Chop cold cooked lamb and mutton with left-over gravy. Put in a baking dish, dot with small pieces of butter. Cover with hot mashed potatoes. Spread top with beaten egg yolk mixed with two teaspoons cold water. Bake in hot oven, (400 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until brown.

Silver polish should be kept close to the kitchen sink, so that stained pieces of table silver may be rubbed up after each meal. This takes only a few minutes and greatly reduces the work of weekly silver-cleaning.

To prune partly wilted flowers put them into warm water, then set the flowers away in a cool, dark place. Try this on your table bouquet.

To keep chocolate from sticking, grease the dish in which it is melted.

Wash white leather with sweet milk and wipe dry, this preserves the leather and gives it a beautiful finish.

In order to crochet an edge around an article that has not been finished, insert a coarser needle in your sewing machine, do not thread the needle, but stitch around the edge as if sewing. This makes holes that are accurately spaced for hemstitching.

Paste the label slantwise on the bottle of the remedy you use a great deal. This lessens the chance of getting the "wrong bottle."

When making a salad or pie, if pieces of apple are dropped in salted water, it will keep them from turning brown. Apples may be safely left in the salted water for several hours.

Spread a fine layer of sawdust over the floor before linoleum is laid. This makes a perfect covering and adds to the life of the linoleum.

Before sweeping, sprinkle salt over carpets. This will preserve the color.

One of our farmer friends says that he can't figure out how it costs more money and yet $1,000 a week for making the same sort of noise that a sick calf makes.

CAMPAIGN TO BE MADE TO ASSIGN SECURITY NUMBERS

Plans for an intensive, campaign to assign social security numbers to wage earners in employments covered by the Federal Old Age Benefits provisions of the Social Security Act were outlined by J. E. Jackson of San Antonio, field representative of the Social Security Board.

"Although approximately 1,000,000 account number cards have been issued in the State of Texas, we are certain that there still are several thousand covered workers in this field area who have not yet applied for account numbers," Jackson said.

"The postoffice will continue to receive applications for account numbers through June 30. Until that date, application forms will be in easy reach of any unregistered worker, after that date an employer will have to contact the nearest Social Security Board field office in order to establish his old-age benefits account. We are therefore, to bring all affected workers into the program while the rules of the game, as they are yet available.

"Officials from this office will begin immediately to visit the principal cities in the area to speak to employer and employee groups, contact public officials, and to talk over with civic committees heads of labor organizations, fraternal and welfare groups, women's clubs, and such others whose services may be enlisted in bringing about enumeration for every qualified employee," Jackson asserted.

"As we see our problem, we must find the workers in the rural counties where information about the Social Security Act perhaps has not been widespread, and secondly, the unorganized working groups. In the latter category are those outside of labor unions and those who work in small offices, shops, and other business establishments.

"It will take the cooperation of many organizations to bring about a successful clean-up of this work of assigning account numbers," Jackson said. "Public officials, chamber of commerce managers and heads of organizations interested in having an official from the San Antonio office visit their cities are requested to communicate with us as soon as possible."

Interesting Stories

SALMON (Pacific)

A group of exceedingly valuable food fishes. The young are hatched in cool fresh water, living in small streams until they weigh a few ounces, then they migrate to the sea. Upon becoming full grown, in the course of 3 or 4 yrs, they leave the sea to ascend to the fresh-water grounds of river-systems to spawn. A remarkable fact concerning these salmon is that none of them take food after leaving salt water. They die of starvation if kept in fresh waters after spawning, sometimes as far as one thousand miles from the sea. Eggs hatch in from four to six months.

The largest and finest salmon reach an average weight of 22 pounds and others reach a weight of 70 to 100 pounds. Salmon for canning are taken near the mouths of rivers during the spring when their flesh is plump, fine, and highly colored. They are caught in enormous quantities in various forms of nets, weirs and traps.

The diamond is unique among gems, chiefly because it is the hardest known substance and because it consists of a single element, carbon. Not a trace or ash of the diamond is removed in the cutting. Diamonds were probably unknown to ancient times and India was the only source of these precious stones until 1728, when they were discovered in Brazil. Since 1876, South Africa has been the chief source of supply. The only source of supply in the United States is Pike county, Arkansas, where since 1906 more than 2000 crystals have been found. A simple method of identifying genuine diamonds is based on the fact that they are transparent to X-rays while paste imitations are not.

The largest diamond ever found was the Cullinan. This was discovered in South Africa in 1905 and weighed over 1300 carats.

33,000 ACRES BARREN LAND—
acreage from November 1936 to March 1937.

Barren, cut-over and abandoned farm lands acquired by the Government for national forest use constitute the chief basis of typical submarginal land for this reforestation program, according to Regional Forester Joseph C. Kircher, of the U. S. Forest Service, Atlanta, Georgia. After the acquisition of these lands the first concern of the Forest Service was to restore their productivity and to get trees growing again as quickly as possible on the barrens areas. The Forest Service hopes to continue its reforestation program until all national forest lands which are now devoid of desirable tree growth are stocked with trees which will protect the lands from erosion, protect watersheds, produce timber and other forest products.

Mr. Willis took his pupils to San Antonio last Thursday. This proved to be a very much enjoyed trip as well as an interesting one. We visited the old Missions, the Buckhorn Saloon, the Brackenridge Park, Witte Museum and attended a show in the afternoon at the "Majestic". We remained there in awfully long time according to Willis's notion. He said the hours were out before the show was over. The lady who owns the Buckhorn showed us her work with the 32,000 rattlers. Don asked her if she killed the snakes. The girls saw the house with the seven kitchens. We were wondering on the way home, if that was the reason Willis's boys were cleaning when they left home. We wish to thank Mr. Willis for the trip and delicious lunch. Mr. McDuff said for his car and trying to find out how the fan worked, Mr. Saathoff said the brick and ordering that good cocoanut pie (at Mr. Willis' expense). Last but not least we were proud of the boys and girls' good behaviour.

The Chaperons.

RESTORED MENARD MISSION DEDICATED

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Lawrence returned Sunday afternoon from Menard, where they attended the dedicatory exercises of the restored Presidio San Luis de los Amarillas, otherwise known as the Mission Santa Cruz de San Sabba, which took place last Saturday. Mr. Hunter says the ceremonies were very impressive, and included a pageant depicting the history of the fall of the presidio May 8th, 1790. Costumes used in the Cavalcade at the opening ceremonies on Saturday last year lent color to the spectacular pageant, a band of 75 Indians, it is said, address 250 school children and 30 to 40 other people being outfitted to resemble the Indians existing in the year 200 years ago. Their portrayal of the destruction of the presidio followed the dedicatory address of Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter formerly lived at Menard, but left there 34 years ago. At the celebration last Saturday they met many of their old friends. Mr. Hunter carried along many of the relics and historical data which he found were displayed with the collection of Menard county relics on exhibition there Saturday.

Cooking School Here May 20th

Miss Bonnie Val Carpenter will conduct the free cooking school to be held here May 20 at the Library Auditorium, beginning at 9. J. Nuckles, local manager of Central Power and Light Company. The power company is sponsoring the school to which all homemakers of Bandera and vicinity are invited, without charge. Attendance prizes will be offered daily.

Miss Carpenter has formerly been engaged in the same line of work for the Dallas Power and Light Company for two and one-half years, and is a graduate demonstrator of electric ranges for a large national manufacturing concern. In addition, Miss Carpenter has had charge of electric cooking schools, in many of the large gulf coast cities of the country, and for some time was connected with a national manufacturer of electric ranges as a demonstrator.

In keeping with present conditions and the trend toward economical meals, she has built her school program upon a strictly economical basis. ## MONTAGUE CATTLE SHOW GAINS

The beef cattle being fattened by Mr. Frank Montague have shown some very good gains in the last two months.

One bunch, purchased from Mr. Fitzsimmons of Carrizo Springs, weighed 748 pounds and fed for 49 days. Another bunch, purchased at Fort Worth, has gained 144 pounds in 50 days.

These cattle have been fed by the Vocational Agriculture class of Bandera high school. They have been fed a balanced ration which was figured out by Mr. W. P. Grisham, agricultural instructor.

We gained some useful knowledge from these cattle and we are very glad that Mr. Montague put these cattle where we could study them. He built the barn within our reach and allowed us to weigh over them.

The fact that Mr. Montague has done a great deal for the school and the community is appreciated by the class and we hope that we will be allowed to tend to these cattle next year.

RESTORED MENARD MISSION DEDICATED

Mr. and Mrs. J. Marvin Hunter returned Sunday afternoon from Menard, where they attended the dedication ceremonies at the restored Presidio de San Luis de las Amarillas, otherwise known as the Menard Indian Mission. The event took place last Saturday. Mr. Hunter says the ceremonies were very impressive, and included a splendid pageant depicting the fall of the presidio May 8th, 1790. Costumes used in the Cavalcade of Texas Centennial Exposition last year were used in the spectacular pageant, a band of 75 Indians, a Spanish cavalry, 250 school children and 98 to 99 other people being outfitted to resemble the inhabitants of nearly 200 years ago. Their portrayal of the destruction of the presidio followed the dedicatory address of Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter formerly lived at Menard, but left there 34 years ago. At the celebration last Saturday they met many of their old friends. Mr. Hunter carried along many of the relics of Frontier Times Museum, which were displayed with the collection of Menard county relics on exhibition there Saturday.

Death of Mrs. Kate Whisenhunt

The sad news came to us Friday of the passing of one of our dear pioneer women, Mrs. Kate Whisenhunt, at Rocksprings. Mrs. Whisenhunt was only sick a few days, heart failure being the principal cause of her death. She had been in unusual good health lately and up to the last few days of her life she was about her chores, attending to her household duties and attending her children, as was her pleasure.

She died at Rocksprings at 12:30 o'clock Friday, May 7th. She was born in Ohio, Feb. 19th, 1857, was married to W. E. Whisenhunt Dec. 11, 1878, and to this union was born four children, F. E. Whisenhunt and Mrs. Maud Hamlin of Medina, Mrs. Lewis Strackbein of Rocksprings and Zack Whisenhunt of El Paso. She also had one child by her former husband, Leslie Wilburn.

Mrs. Whisenhunt had been a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church for a number of years, and was a faithful worker at all religious undertakings and her ever-ready hand that did so much for others will be greatly missed by her many friends. She was a resident of near Medina for many years and has many friends here that are sad of the passing of one they loved as they did her.

The funeral of Mrs. Whisenhunt, who had reached the age of 81 years, was held in Rocksprings Saturday. Surviving besides those one sister, Mrs. A. E. Scheake of Gonzales.

FREDERICKSBURG PAYS TRIBUTE TO FOUNDER

Fredericksburg, May 8.—Fredericksburg paid tribute today to the leader of the intrepid band of German colonists who founded this beautiful city in the picturesque Hill Country 91 years ago by dedicating a towering monument to the memory of John O. Meusebach, nobleman of Germany who cast aside his titles to help his fellow countrymen, found a new home in Democratic America.

Lieutenant-Governor Walter F. Woodul dedicated the beautiful monument of polished red granite in the recess niche of which stands the sculptured bust. The speaker recounted the almost unbelievable trials through which Meusebach had to lead his followers to achieve their goal. He related the hardships which the colonists were confronted in the move from the frontier wilderness with Indians. Hardships of unwanted outdoor life and tragic sickness, new to the colonists claimed many of the brave souls.

Thousands cheered as Miss Elizabeth Love of San Antonio, great-granddaughter of Meusebach, pulled the ribbon that unveiled the huge granite monument. Martial music rang out as the flag was raised over the monument.

MR. MONTAGUE SHIPS FAT STEERS TO MARKET

On April 29, Frank Montague shipped some fat steers from his feed lot at the school house. These steers were shipped to the market at Kansas City, Mo.

They were brought to the lot March 10, and their average weight was 735 pounds. After being fed a balanced ration for 50 days, they weighed 940 pounds. This is an average gain of 3.26 pounds per day.

Mr. Montague says he doesn't when fed a balanced ration. A balanced ration is easily figured and is more economical than just feeding one kind of feed. Keep in the end, 8

The Student Prints

Election of Temporary Officers

As a foregoing hint to you readers of the school news column, we might say that a temporary group of students were elected last Monday afternoon, May 10, to edit the school news for the remaining two weeks of school.

There are two general reasons for having elected the students that are now editing "Student Prints." First of all, the Senior Class is hardly capable of writing the news because of the fact that there are so many other things the Seniors have to do in readiness for graduation. Secondly, the Seniors-to-be of next year will learn a few pointers concerning the editing of the news. Some of us will be elected to serve as editors and reporters for the school. The experience so gained this year will help a great deal next year when our turn comes.

We only hope we shall be as successful in the future as the faithful ones of this year have been. A big pat on the back is put forth our best efforts to please everyone.

Walter Jureski.

May The Best Man Win

The Juniors are sponsoring a contest determining who shall be our cheer leaders for next year. Fired by the sight of seeing football practice, it promises to be quite a problem, for it will certainly take some yelling to do those boys justice. The whole school shall vote and may the best three win.

Mary Fitzgerald.

"OUR SENIORS."

Loi Ellen Davenport

Loi Ellen has attended Bandera High School the past eleven years. She has been one of our very best athletic players and we certainly are going to miss our "cheer" leader and tennis player. Loi Ellen has played in many plays in her past school days, and as we all know, played a very interesting part in "Second Fiddle." We sincerely hope her presence in any other school or college shall be highly appreciated as in Bandera High. Best wishes, Loi Ellen.

Josephine Mazurek

Herman Ochs of San Antonio, native of Fredericksburg, reviewed the early history of Fredericksburg and paid glowing tribute to the brave men and women who helped write some of the most impressive chapters in the history of their adopted Texas. He spoke in part as follows: "In keeping with present conditions and the trend toward economical meals, she has built her school program upon a strictly economical basis. All the same time, each dish will be well-balanced and nourishing, appetizing and attractive. As a result of her extensive training and experience in the field of electric cookery, she will be able to offer housewives numerous up-to-date ideas in modern homemaking.

"We expect to bring homemakers of Bandera a program which will interest every housewife," Miss Carpenter says. "We will present, in dramatized fashion, new ideas in cooking and homemaking. We will show them just how they may economize, how they may prepare inexpensive meals, how they may obtain more leisure for themselves, and how they may eliminate kitchen drudgery."

MONTAGUE CATTLE SHOW GAINS

The beef cattle being fattened by Mr. Frank Montague have shown some very good gains in the last two months.

One bunch, purchased from Mr. Fitzsimmons of Carrizo Springs, Texas, has gained 116 pounds in 30 days. Another bunch, purchased at Fort Worth, has gained 144 pounds in 53 days.

These steers have been fed by the Vocational Agriculture class of Bandera High School. They have been fed a balanced ration which was figured out by Mr. W. F. Grisham, agricultural instructor.

We gained some useful knowledge by feeding these cattle and we are very glad that Mr. Montague put these cattle where we could feed them. He built the barn within our reach and allowed us to watch over them.

The feed that we have been has done a great deal for the school and for the Vocational Agriculture class and we hope that we will be allowed to tend to these cattle next year.

GOIN' FISHIN'

When you're worried about your business affairs, when life seems excessively complicated and difficult, when the front page of your favorite newspaper is livid with accounts of horror, distress and conflict, when the nerve wracking confusion of modern life begins to get you, then just go fishing.

Nothing within our knowledge is better medicine for excess nervous tension. When you are out in a boat casting over the lilypads that always produce a good catch, your nervous system is at rest, your entire being is in perfect harmony.

It isn't even necessary to catch fish to derive real benefit from a fishing trip. Though all true fishermen, of course, get a real thrill every time a big fellow strikes and tests the skill of the fisherman.

But it is not merely getting fish that makes fishing the most popular of all form of outdoor recreation. Fishing is the release from the cares and strain of an age of sound and fury. For this reason it is well that our state and national governments give due attention to all efforts to perpetuate the sport.

Every fisherman can tell of how the fishing has declined in recent years. A thousand causes are advanced. Outlaw fishing, ineffective stocking, stream and lake pollution, changing water conditions due to the drought and faulty land policies.

These problems are receiving attention today. They should receive even more attention in the years ahead. An efficient conservation policy in our own State and in every other State that offers opportunity for this sport of sports is all in the direction of good public policy.

"TO LIKE TO LIVE THERE"

Have you ever heard a traveler return from a trip and speak well of a community where dirt and rubbish are on display everywhere, where property is run down and in need of paint, where lawns are poorly kept, where the atmosphere of shiftlessness is conveyed to the observer from every home and every street?

We have heard travelers talk freely about city and well-kept communities. They were not always talking about fine residential sections of big cities, either. They were not referring only to great estates and $100,000 mansions. They were talking about small villages where people in humble circumstances realize the value and pleasure there is in keeping their property in attractive condition.

"Let's look our community over. Let's dress it up a bit for the spring season. Let's plan to do some paint-up and clean-up campaign with some enthusiasm.

Then invitations pass our way will say: "Oh, yes, I've been through Bandera. It's a mighty attractive community. I would'n't mind living there."

The little boy who went to the grocer and then forgot what he was sent for, grew up to be a legislator.

There are a lot of young musicians in this country who should go far, a writer observes. Maybe that applies to some of them that live next door.

The way for a woman to get her picture in the papers is to appear in court. It doesn't seem to make much difference. Either in London or Reno.

"An astronomer says that the earth will support life for only about two billion more years. That's one forecast that doesn't worry us much.

"It's pretty hard to drive a real fatigue message home to the fellow who had just purchased a $10 used car.

Money may bring nothing but trouble, but still that's the only kind of trouble that's hard to borrow.

Our opinion says he doesn't judge a man much by weight he stands in. But what he falls for that really counts.

Some people will never know what real trouble is until they get what they deserve.

It always seems that it's the newspaper that's fit to print which is the first to receive criticism.

A boy is not necessarily a chip off the old block because of some human nature which may indicate that it can be warped a little anyway.

Football Practice

In concluding our spring training in football this week, we find that the twenty-two boys out for football have made excellent progress. Not only the last year's football boys are making a better showing, but many raw ones are catching on. All of the boys have learned a lot and will be ready to really get down to work next fall.

We hope to "bust" that C conference wide open next year, and by hard training we can. Let it! Everyone is looking forward to a football team that B. H. S. will be proud of next year.

Joe Stevens.

RANCH PARTY

The spend-the-day party given Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rice at their ranch home on the Bandera road complimented Miss Jane Rice, a June graduate of Jefferson City, Missouri, and one of the delightful affairs of the week-end. A sweet toast was given at noon and the remainder of the time was spent swimming, horseback riding and in playing outdoor games. There were 150 guests.—San Antonio Express.

NEUTRAL BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

Final congressional approval was given to the history-making reversal of America policy by the senate. The house had acted earlier in the day.

Arrangements already had been made to rush the bill south by army plane so it could be signed by President Roosevelt before the temporary neutrality law expires Saturday night.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican, Michigan) and Johnson (Republican, California) led a drive in the senate to reject the conference report, using different arguments.

WOOL-MOHAIR SHIPPING RATE UP AFTER DEC. 1

T. G. W. Cunningham, secretary of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association, said he had received information from the Interstate Commerce Commission that wool and mohair shipping rates would be increased Dec. 1.

The increased rates will apply from Texas ports to Eastern markets.

Originally the revised rates were scheduled to be effective May 1. The association protested the increases and they were suspended temporarily.

My Neighbor Says:

To keep slate sinks in good condition rub with a cloth dipped in kerosene, then wash with hot soapsuds.

Before applying linseed oil to outside of soapstone sink or tubs, first go over with sandpaper to make them smooth.

Grease spots on leather may be removed by applying pennies of pure turpentine. Wash the spots afterwards with the well beaten white of an egg.

Black specks, which frequently appear on fruit, may be removed if covered with a paste made of vinegar and sliced chalk. Let stand until dry, then polish silver with a chamois cloth.

Lemons should be cut with clean edges when used to garnish all kinds of shellfish, broiled, fried, baked and boiled fish as well as fish salads. For fish garnishes they may be cut into many fancy shapes.

A Lingering Illness

A teacher in one of our schools said to a boy who had been ill: "Well, you were absent for some time. You'll have a lot of work to make up in your history course. How long have you been gone?"

"Ever since William the Conquerer landed," was the reply.

Good Excuse

Sergeant: "Why didn't you catch that outlaw?"

Motor Officer: "Well you see it was this way. Just as we got within sight of him I was gaining, the speedometer went past 1,000 since our last oil change, and we had to stop and grain the crank case."

Self Praise

Teacher: "Johnnie, are you the teacher of this class?"

Johnnie: "No Ma'm, I'm not."

Teacher: "Then why do you keep talking like a numbskull?"

To eliminate some of the "last minute" cooking, prepare cream soups ahead of time. Reheat them just before serving, in a double boiler.

Include vegetables in your diet every day. They are necessary to good health.

To make a topping for cup cakes, add one-half cup of peanut butter to one and a half cups of uncooked chocolate icing.

GOIN' FISHIN'

When you're worried about your business affairs, when life seems excessively complicated and difficult, when the front page of your favorite newspaper is livid with accounts of horror, distress and conflict, when the nerves wracking confusion of modern life begins to get you, then just go fishing.

Nothing within our knowledge is better medicine for excess nervous tension. When you are out in a boat casting over the billybeds that always produce a good catch, your nervous system is, at last, your entire being is in perfect harmony.

It isn't even necessary to catch fish to derive real benefit from a fishing trip. Though all true fishermen do get a real thrill every time a big fellow strikes and tests the skill of the fisherman.

But it is not merely getting fish that makes fishing the most popular of all forms of outdoor recreation. Fishing is the release from the cares and strain of an age of sound and fury. For this reason it is well that our state and national governments give due attention to all efforts to perpetuate the sport.

Every fisherman can tell of how the fishing has declined in recent years. A thousand causes are advanced. Outlaw fishing, ineffective stocking, stream and lake pollution, changing water conditions due to the drought and faulty legislation.

These problems are receiving attention today. They should receive even more attention in the years ahead. An efficient conservation policy in our own State and in every other State that offers opportunity for this sport of sports is all to the direction of good public policy.

"TO LIVE IS THERE"

Have you ever heard a traveler return from a trip and speak well of a community where dirt and rubbish are on display everywhere, where property is run down and in need of paint, where lawns are poorly kept, where the atmosphere of shiftlessness is conveyed to the observer from every home and every street?

We have heard travelers talk freely about tidy and well-kept communities. They were not always talking about fine residential sections of big cities, either. They were not referring only to great estates and $100,000 mansions. They were talking about small villages where people in humble circumstances realize the value and pleasure there is in keeping their property in attractive condition.

Let's look our community over. Let's dress it up a bit for the spring season. Let's join in the paint-up and clean-up campaign with some enthusiasm.

Then travelers who pass our way will say: "Oh, yes, I've been through Bandera. It's a mighty attractive community. I would n't mind living there."

The little boy who went to the grocer and then forgot what he was sent for, grew up to be a legislator.

There are a lot of young musicians in this country who should go far, a writer observes. Maybe that applies to some of them that live next door.

The way for a woman to get her picture in the papers is to appear in court. It doesn't seem to make much difference. Either in London or Reno.

An astronomer says that the earth will support life for only about two billion more years. That's one forecast that doesn't worry us much.

"It's pretty hard to drive a real Belgian nowadays," observed the fellow who had just purchased a $10 used car.

Money may bring nothing but trouble, but "still that's the only kind of trouble that's hard to borrow.

Our optimist says he doesn't judge a man much, though, when he stands 5 ft. It's what he falls for that really counts.

It always seems that it's the newspaper boy's fit to print which is the most strictly censored edition.

It may be a man's natural humor nature, but it doesn't indicate that it can be wrapped a little anyway.

Election of Temporary Officers

As a foregoing hint to you readers of the school news column, we might say that a temporary group of students were elected last Monday afternoon, May 10, to take charge of the affairs for the remaining two weeks of school.

There are two general reasons for having elected the students that are now editing "Student Prints." First of all the Senior Class is hardly capable of editing the news because of the fact that there are so many other things the Seniors have to do, in readiness for graduation. Second, we Seniors-to-be of next year will learn a few pointers concerning the editing of the news. Some of us will be elected to serve as editors and reporters for the school. The experience so gained this year will help a great deal next year when our turn comes.

We only hope we shall be as successful in this work as the faithful ones of this year have been. At any rate, we are putting forth our best efforts to please everyone.

Walter Jureski.

May The Best Man Win

The Juniors are sponsoring a contest determining who shall be the most popular boy and girl. Fired by the sight of spring football practice, it promises to be a hot campaign, for it will certainly take some yelling to do those boys justice. The whole school shall vote and may the best three win.

Mary Fitzgerald.

"OUR SENIORS."

Loi Ellen Davenport

Loi Ellen has attended Bandera High School the past eleven years. She has been one of our very best students and we certainly are going to miss our "cheer" leader and tennis player. Loi Ellen has played in many plays in her past school days, and as we all know, played a very interesting part in "Second Fiddle." We sincerely hope her presence in any other school or college shall be highly appreciated as in Bandera High. Best wishes, Loi Ellen.

Mada Bradshaw.

Josephine Maurer.

Josephine Maurer spent her first six years of school life in the St. Joseph's Catholic School. In her seventh and eighth years she attended school at Elm Creek and as a sophomore, she entered Bandera High. She is a noted baseball and volley ball player. Also, she has been an active member of the pep squad, Spanish Club and Glee Club for the past two years. Josephine is well liked and will be missed by all of her friends. As she goes out from Bandera High, we wish her success in her many happiness.

Lanelle Fee.

Annie Mae Maurer.

One of our dignified Seniors of this year is Anna Mae Maurer. She spent her grammar school days at St. Joseph's School, except the fifth grade which was spent at Lone Star. In 1932 she entered Bandera High School. She has been one of our best baseball and volley ball players. She has been a member of the Spanish Club' Glee Club and Pep Squad. She is a great reader of novels and an industrious worker in everything she does. We wish her every success that life can bring her.

Kathryn Goodenough.

Ernest Maurer.

Ernest, one of the three boys to graduate this year, went to kindergarten at his first six years at the St. Joseph's School, spent his seventh at Indian Creek, and his last four years here at Bandera High. In his Junior year, he was secretary-treasurer for the class. Last year, Ernest took an active part in track and basketball. This year, he was a prominent member of the football and basketball teams. Ernest is well liked and very popular, and we wish him the best of luck as he leaves this school with the full honors of graduation.

Scout News

Scout Troop No. 146 of Bandera, met in hall, May 6, to the Court of Honor for the 9th Dist. The following advancements were given: Life, John Langford; Star, Alle Gerald Langford, Leo Butterfield and Orville Lindner; Merit badge were awarded to the following: Orville Lindner, carpentry, handicraft, signaling, personal health; Wilmer Lindner, carpentry. The Troop received the ten year achievement award, and one of the 10 year troops in the state to receive this award.

John Langford.

A group of the Grammar School pupils are giving "Jack Be Nimble" directed by several of the Grammar School teachers on Friday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock in the Bandera Library Auditorium. The general public is cordially invited.

The playlet is the "Coronation of the Queen of May." Many people will be present. Everyone will help in entertaining and in crowning the queen. The little forest people will be there, negroes from Africa, Spaniards from Spain, and even cow punchers and old maids from Bandera.

Monica Jenachke.

The Honor Students of '37

Of course everyone has waited patiently for the announcement of the honor students this year. The Valedictory was won by Dorothy Anderwald and the Salutatory by Louise Burch. Each year the competition seems to become stronger for these two great honors. This is true more so than ever before this year. The difference in percentage for this year was only a small margin. These two young ladies have worked hard all through their respective high school years and their efforts have been successful. The rest of the Senior Class also deserve credit for their tireless working here in school. Not everyone can be a Washington in a class of 1776 but everyone always has its reward, so we say. The best of luck to a truly good Senior Class.

Walter Jureski.

Choral Club

During Physical Ed. Period of the past week, the girls of Bandera High School have organized a Choral Club which is sponsored by Mrs. Briggs. The girls will attend the Baccalaureate Sermon and Commencement exercises, instead of having the regular church. Mrs. Briggs has also made some selections that will be very appropriate for the occasion.

Evelyn Reitzer.
Helen Mazurek.

Seniors Honored at Datce

Saturday night, May 8th, the Seniors and their guests were entertained at the Stella Rugh on Mt. Rugh Courts. At one end of the dance floor, a special table was beautifully decorated in the class colors, green and gold. About eleven of their friends were present. Everyone is looking forward to a football team that B. H. S. will be proud of next year.

Joe Stevens.

RANCH PARTY

The second-day party given Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rice at their ranch home on the Bandera Road Wednesday morning, May 5, for Miss Jo Jones graduate of Jefferson Seogo School, was one of the most delightful affairs of the week-end. A wiener roast was enjoyed at noon and the remainder of the day was spent in swimming, horseback riding and in playing outdoor games. There were 150 guests. San Antonio Express.

"NETTRAL BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS"

Washington, April 29.—Congress swiftly completed action today on the Pittman-McReynolds permanent neutrality bill.

Final congressional approval sent it to the White House for reversal of America policy by the senate. The house had acted earlier in the day.

Arrangements already had been made to rush the bill south by air so that it could be signed by President Roosevelt before the temporary neutrality law expires Saturday night.

Senators Vandenberg (Republican, Michigan) and Johnson (Republican, California) were in conference with the senate to reject the conference report, using different arguments.

WOOL-MOHAIR SHIPPING RATE UP AFTER DEC. 1

G. W. Cunningham, secretary of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association, said he had received information from the Interstate Commerce Commission that wool and mohair shipping rates would be increased Dec. 1.

The increased rates will apply from Texas ports to Eastern markets.

Originally the revised rates were scheduled to be effective May 1, the association protested the increases and they were suspended temporarily.

Farmer Who Imitates Joseph

H. A. Bronderslev a farmer who lives in an arid region near Broadwater, Nebr., has prospered by following the example of Joseph. He was about to take his wife riding in their motorcycle. Like Joseph of the Old Testament, Mr. Bronderslev stores grains in good years to insure against bad ones. Instead of Secretary Wallace's "ever-normal granary" plan... "There's no use talking, we can't have good crops here all the time and I believe we should have something in reserve," he said recently. Mr. Bronderslev is not looking forward to a good year in 1937 so he will plan no extensive farming operations. His belief in grain storing, he said, was based on biblical authority.

Court Upholds Social Security Act

On May 24—The administration's prized social security act, intended to protect workers against another depression by providing for them emerged unscathed its constitutional test in the Supreme Court.

In decisions, the tribunal upheld provisions of the federal unemployment insurance and old age pension system. It then upheld state participation laws under the federal act.

The administration victory was a clean sweep in its favor before the high tribunal.

Promptly some opponents declared that President Roosevelt's plan to put "new blood" on the Supreme Court bench, if enacted, would be unnecessary, refused to consider.

Some delivered the 5 to 4 decision upholding the Alabama unemployment compensation act, the Pennsylvania law and the Columbia and 45 other state unemployment insurance laws. Only Justice McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler dissented in the pension ruling.

Nearly 27,000,000 workers and their employers are provide the old age benefits. The act went into effect January 1, 1937.

FIREMEN'S BALL

Bandera county will be given an opportunity Saturday night, to assist in a worthy community enterprise. Frank Mansfield, the hard-working head of the local fire department, is sponsoring a series of dances at Mansfield Park, the first of which will be given Saturday night by the firemen. The admission will be 45 cents for men and 25 cents for ladies. The net proceeds will be given to provide the old age benefits of Mrs. Ida Mansfield, 78 years old, who is a former fire fighter. The only equipment which this community is greatly in need of, but which equipment causes us to have an unjustly high fire insurance rate. Mr. Mansfield is to be highly commended for his efforts to build and equip a first class fire department for Bandera and vicinity.

The very best music obtainable will be furnished at each dance and you may have an enjoyable time and then your money will be used to buy fire protection for your property.

If you haven't danced in forty years, come out and try it again. If it is impossible to dance, come out and buy a ticket anyway. Let's show our firefighters that we are backing them 100 per cent.

OBSERVING MEMORIAL DAY

Realizing that no man can do more than this, that he lay down his life for others, we pause amid the swirl of events next Monday to pay tribute to the memory of those who have died on the field of battle in defense of the nation we all love.

It is fitting that the day be observed with due reverence. It is proper that we all contribute some time and effort to make the occasion one of deep significance. But if it merely degenerates into a form of the ceremony and give no heed to its underlying meaning we are losing our minds to reality.

The men we honor first on Memorial Day are those who struggled on the field of battle that we might enjoy the freedom for all men is ruthlessly suppressed and menaced everywhere by the heavy fist of dictatorship.

With all Europe tense, with the dark clouds of war even now moving into our own horizon, can we pass this Memorial Day by with a few pleasant speeches and perfunctory services? Can we sit mute and inactive? Can we ignore the great threat to our civilization that is now gathering without? Can we go on with our daily tasks at least our own trivial influence upon the cause of peace, of freedom and of liberty?

We earnestly hope that speakers whose allowed tongues and expediences on that occasion will not be satisfied merely to voice platitudes of the old, old generalities worn thin by years of constant use. We hope they will bring us a little nearer to a realization of the serious menace that confronts civilization, and will register a firm protest against the trends which threaten to destroy all that the heroes we honor fought to preserve.

THE PAST AND THE PRESENT

Many of us listened in on the ceremonies of the coronation of King George VI on Wednesday, May 12. We heard the fanfare of trumpets and the frenzied cheers of the vast crowds slowly through the streets of London.

From thousand of miles across the heaving ocean came the voices of the announcers, the words of the ritual of anointment, the measured tread of the king himself to his throne, the solemn oath which he swore spread across an empire on which the sun never sets. It aroused strange thoughts.

Here was a medieval ceremony spread across the face of the modern world. The wonders of science in which we are living; how like the past are the present coupe interestingly entangled; how in spite of all our progress we adhere to customs and ways of thought that belong to other days. The magic was believed and the wonders of science were beyond human conception.

Does it seem strange, therefore, that we should become confused at times? Is it surprising that the human race experiences difficulty in keeping pace with the marvels of science and invention?

Surprising or not, it is true. Institutions and social organizations should be out of step in a world of high speed machinery and miracles of scientific invention.

It is said that we think objectively in matters of science and mechanics. We assemble and experiment and then base our conclusions upon what we find. But when we consider social problems or human adjustments and relations we first arrive at our conclusions based largely upon tradition and tradition, then we seek to find facts to justify those generalizations.

Is it any wonder, therefore, that we still wage crazy.

TO PROGRESS, TOWN MUST HAVE ORGANIZED GROUP

Says Bill Elliot, well-known South Texas columnist.

Practically every town and city in South Texas has a well organized chamber of commerce and those few which do not have any but think they are losing out through the progress and development. For, as a speaker at the 1937 Button Chamber's annual meeting recently said, a chamber of commerce is a group of men banded together to work for the good of a town and its development depends on its chamber.

There is more than anything else to say that progress have a strong group of organized men in the chamber of commerce surrounding them through.

Equally important, as Frank Currie of Button emphasized, is the function of a chamber of commerce in creating good will for its town outside and in developing a feeling of fellowship at home.

One of our local attorneys, we have been informed, encountered a witness who was too much for his agile wit.

After questioning this lady for some time on the details of a case he added in dismissing the witness, "Madam, I hope you are not keeping score on the number of questions I asked."

"Not at all," she replied, "I have a small box of six at home and I am used to answering ques...tions like that."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER DIES

Ormond Beach, Fla., May 23.—John D. Rockefeller, sr., founder of one of the world's most colos...sal private fortunes and benefac...tor of humanity, died in his 98th year today at his winter home, "The Casements."

Death came to the aged capi...talist, who long ago had with...drawn from the tumult of the fi...nancial world in 1915 a.m., Central in the quiet of a Sabbath dawn.

His physician, Dr. Harry L. Merrysby, attributed his advanced age to a gradual hardening of the heart muscles.

It was, for the man who had fought his way up from the farm, who had seen wars and panics, booms and depressions, a peace...fulness death.

Unexpectedly—he had been in comparatively good health—Rocke...feller south last October—he drifted into a coma at midnight.

Only once during the vigil, which lasted 24 hours, did he whisper some...thing to his valet and personal servant of 20 years, John H. Yor...ke, about 2 a. m.

He asked to be raised in his bed, and when it was done he murmured "that's better." Yorke said his master apparently had no realization of death's nearness. When Dr. Merryday arrived at 2:30 the frail patient, wasted by the ravages of age, was "uncon...scious." Gradually his pulse grew weaker, finally stopped.

Rockefeller began to have a pyramided his savings from a $4.50 a week job into the Stand...ard Oil Trust, which soon con...trolled three-fourths of the coun...try's output.

DIONNE QUINTUPLETS NEARING 3rd BIRTHDAY

Callander, Ont., May 26.—Amid plans young capitalists with the world at their feet and a future no one can predict, the Dionne quintuplets toddled on today to...ward their Luird birthday, the second of their lives.

They will be three years old about 4:30 a. m. next Friday. May 28—their parents already have cele...brated for newspaper and motion picture photographers.

The three girls and two boys are ...ready to catapult into the inter...national broadcast and perhaps thousands will see them, but that does not make an unusual day for the quints.

All witness, as Yvonne might say to Marie. They get their thrills from successful efforts to convince Mademoiselle that Cecile has been bathed when it really is Annette or Emilie. Or from wrestling to keep Marie Trudelle, Allan Dafoe and laughing when he fails, as he always does, to ex...press the proper degree of disap...proval.

But with the coming of their fourth year, parents efforts will be started to educate the children, now with almost $1,000,000. For months Mlle. Claire Truchon, their French-Canadian teacher has been with them and after they celebrate their third birthday, her part in their upbringing will be increased.

If you like the flavor of olives try adding a few whole ones to the fat in which doughnuts are fried.

When making orange marmalade skins may be easily and quickly removed if oranges are allowed to stand in boiling water for about five minutes.

When salt in which house plants are potted becomes sour like clay then steam it may be lightened by adding sand to it. Plants grow best in this kind of soil.

Set your alarm clock to notify you when your baking period is completed. You may then continue your work in the other part of the house without worry.

Small washable rugs may be washed in washing machine, but should not be put through wringer. Hang dripping wet on line to dry. They will then keep their shape.

Never put hot foods in your refrigerator. Wait until they have cooled. Placing of hot foods in an electric refrigerator during the cooling period will have a tendency to raise the temperature and interfere to some extent with the rapidity of freezing.

OIL MAN BUYS 'SKYLINE RANCH'

B. H. Buchanan, Houston oil man, has purchased the "Skyline Ranch" from E. N. Requa, local real estate man, and has taken possession. The transaction was for a cash consideration.

The new owner is making improvements on the property which already has a rock and cedar lodge, about 70 feet long, and which contains two large fireplaces and modern conveniences.

Situated near the lodge that is set in the center of a beautiful landscaped tract is another rock lodge overlooking the park and the Medina river.

Buchanan plans to enlarge this property for a hunter's home and also to construct a modern home on the top of Round Mountain, situated near the center of the grounds.

The ranch is located about one mile above Medina City.

HIGHLAND WATERS SITES ARE SOLD

Spring activity in Highland Waters has been interfered with to date five summer homes and ranches, reports E. N. Requa, owner of that property. Each site faces the park and the river.

To Dr. J. N. Nunn was sold a rock lodge on attractively landscaped grounds. The lodge is built on a bluff and one of the interesting features is a sunken terrace. This was accomplished by excavating one side of a hill down to solid rock floor. It is walled up with rock and connected with the lodge by a rock stairway. The winding rock stairway leads all the way down to the river.

J. H. Williams, wholesale druggist of San Antonio, recently completed a rock lodge overlooking Park View Rapids. The lodge has two bedrooms, large living room, and a garage. The site was the one of Captain Blackburn's and he built the first lodge at Highland Waters. He recently made several improvements on his place and is ...

...chased Mrs. Warner's ... business privileges and now has a Spanish rock home under construction.

West Texas Ranchers Protest Ban On Burning Of Cut Cedar

Following repeated protests by West Texas ranchmen against the State Conservation Committee's decision to prohibit the burning of cedar in the 1937 range program, a special committee has been appointed to hold hearings in various points throughout the ranching area to get the viewpoint of the property owners most vitally interested.

The committee charged with the duty of inspecting areas where cedar has been cut and burned, and where it has been cut and left upon the ground is composed of the following members: B. B. Ingle of Grandview, Donald Cathorn of Cuivasa, F. B. Seale of Benchley and John Weatherly of Appleby.

This committee will be in Kerrville on June 10 to conduct a routine hearing. County Agent W. W. Sheen has been advised by C. E. Tisdale, county agent of Blanco County. Information gained by the special committee will be used by the State committee as a whole in determining whether or not cedar cut from infested lands included in the 1937 range conservation program shall be burned.

Hundreds of ranchmen mainly from the Hill Country counties surrounding Kerrville, have filed protests against the ban on burning the cut cedar. Members of the State Conservation committee who have led the fight to have ruling modified are T. A. Kincaid of Onona and Howard Richardson of Santa Anna. Kincaid served for many years as president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association.

It is the contention of ranchmen who have had long experience that cedar will sprout immediately if the brush is permitted to lay on the ground after being cut down instead of being burned. Kerrville Times.

TOURISTS CAMPS DO $25,000,000 TRADE IN U. S.

Washington, May 21—Running tourist camps has become a $25,000,000 annual business engaging more than 15,000 persons in the United States.

The Census Bureau said today 9,848 establishments were catering exclusively to tin-can tourists and nomads of the roads in 1935.

Bountiful Rains Fall In This Section

Since last Friday 4 total of 6 11-16 inches of rain fell in Bandera, according to Albert Kaika, local weather observer. ¾ of an inch fell Friday, ¾ of an inch Sunday, 11-16 of an inch Monday, 4¼ inches Tuesday and ¾ of an inch yesterday (Wednesday.) The total for May was 2¾ inches.

This has been a wonderful rain, being slow enough that a fine season has been left in the ground. The grass which had begun to burn, has already much greener than it was at this time last week. Everyone is much more optimistic and all indications point to a successful year.

Some damage was caused at the Red Bluff bridge on the highway when the approach on the west end was partially washed away. J. H. French and a crew of Experts were immediately sent out and traffic was routed for only a very short time. No further damage was reported along the highway, but we were informed that an approach to the Red Bluff bridge on Pipe Creek-Lake road was damaged. It was said that Red Bluff creek was higher than on any previous occasion. We understand that the extreme western part of the county has not had as much rain as the eastern and central part.

All creeks in this part of the country were on a rise, but only for short periods of time. The Medina river was on a rise Monday and again Tuesday, but the river never stayed up long. Fishing should be extra good now that the river was up and the lake is ever growing and the lake is again full. Numerous fishermen were noticed in town, but we were unable to learn what success they had.

County Agricultural Conservation Committee Approves Year's Program

The county Agricultural Conservation committee met at the county agent's office on Wednesday, May 26 and made up and approved of activity to be carried on during 1937 by the agricultural agent, according to Stafford Smith, of Utopia, chairman of the committee.

The major activities to be financed by the agent in his work during the year will be as follows:

Sheep and goats—assistance in demonstrations of drenching for stomach worms, dipping for lice, control of screw worm cases, and feeding of mineral supplements.

Mineral Supplements—Demonstrations of use of mineral supplements for all livestock to overcome creepiness, milk fever and other diseases caused by deficiencies of minerals.

Agricultural Adjustment Program—Farm and Range Program.

Blowfly and Screw worm control—preventative and treatment demonstrations.

4-H club work—with especial emphasis on feeding of Beef calves, swine and lambs and management of poultry flocks.

Horse and Mule raising—encourage more horse and mule raising of the best type.

Members present at the committee meeting were Stafford Smith, Utopia, chairman, Capt. Thos. F. Grant of Tarpley. They met with H. F. Schlemmer, county agent and Epps Sewall of Medina, who is in charge of office work in connection with the AAA program.

The county agent's office has just received a new supply of Bulletins and blue prints, according to H. F. Schlemmer County Agent, of Bandera County.

Several hundred bulletins covering a large variety of subjects are now available, and the blue prints showing the construction of the following items:

Poultry feed troughs.

Poultry Range shelters.

Concrete water tanks.

Septic Tanks.

Hog Houses.

Self feeders—cattle and hogs.

Dipper for sheep.

Trough for calves.

NOT 'JUST' CHANCE

Cities don't just happen. With the exception of a few great metropolitan centers, the growth and development of most communities is not determined by transportation facilities, proximity to raw materials and other natural advantages. Most cities develop in accordance with the spirit, the loyalty and the vision exhibited by their citizens.

A live, enterprising community grows from within. The brains and capital developed there are usually directed into new enterprise which stimulate growth.

Dead towns are usually characterized by indifferent citizens who see no future for the community. Advancing communities are usually composed of loyal, optimistic citizens who never lose faith in the future. This is not just a matter of coincidence. The character of the community is the inevitable result of the attitude of its people.

A SEASONABLE WARNING

"And, oh, it might never have happened if somebody in the crowd had been a good swimmer and knew something about life saving tactics."

How often this remark may be made after a drowning tragedy. Frequently the news story of the accident ends with, "None in the the party knew how to swim."

Most deaths by drowning are avoidable. A non-swimmer ventures beyond his depth. A moderate swimmer over-estimates his endurance. An inexperienced canoeist ventures far out into a lake without regard to the warning threats of the weather.

As the warm days of summer lure us to swimming beaches, to pools, lakes and streams, the subject of accidental drowning begins to assume serious importance. As the weeks pass by most editors will be called upon to write the tragic details of the loss of some promising young life, victim of thoughtlessness and carelessness.

We offer a few words of warning in the hope that they may help deter some reckless youth or some careless adult from challenging the fates which rule beneath the placid surface of our lakes and streams.

If you are not experienced on the water don't venture far from shore with a small boat or canoe. If wind rises keep your head. Put your weight in the bottom of the boat and head for shore. Do not rock the boat in fun. To play with death is never humorous.

Unless you are an old and experienced swimmer never venture far from shore or swim where you cannot easily converse with those in shallow water. Never hazard a long swim unless you are accompanied by a good swimmer with a boat. Never try to save those who cannot swim as well as you. It does not advance your status as a gentleman or a good scout.

If you are called upon to effect a rescue exercise extreme care. Approach from behind. Keep your own strength. Call and wait for help.

A spirit of frenzy will never help to meet an emergency. Above all if there are no expert swimmers in your crowd counsel caution and care. If there are, they will probably assume that responsibility for you.

We heard of a place recently where there is no crime, no beggars, no jazz bands and no relief problem. It's an uninhabited island in the Pacific.

A definition of a dictator is one who can make the workmen believe that the yoke they wear is a comfortable fit.

OUR MACHINE AGE

By
LEONARD A. BARRETT

On a curb stone sat two boys admiring a parked automobile. Said one of the boys:

"See that bolt!" pointing to a certain bolt in the body of the car. Said the other that same kind of bolt in all those cars." With youthful pride and enthusiasm the lad felt he was honoring his father by directing the attention of his companion to his father's great achievement. My Dad drove that bolt! How refreshing is the dauntless enthusiasm of youth. How much of the tragedy of life youth is spared. How much of the happiness of life age has lost by forsaking youthful aspects of truth. Perhaps we all need to remember with quiet gratitude the spirit of youth that more often become in spirit "a child again laughing tonight." Experience will draw us back into the schedule of mature living, but we shall be better for the renewal of spirit. We shall be strengthened to meet the stern reality of the modern world where many a man faces life's tragedies and feels himself another Jason receiving on the axis of that circle called "daily bread."

Little did the lad know of the cost of that driven bolt. Little did he know of the humdrum of the factory; of the deafening noise of grinding wheels; of the deadly monotony of standing for eight hours out of every twenty-four, five days of every week, driving a hole, driving a bolt! The same movement, the same tedious task the whole day through! Yes, much of the humdrum machine in this machine age. Into every machine-made product goes human personality, sometimes ground to the fine powder of despair, sometimes broken into fragments of human disintegration. What a price in human life is paid!

Creative and intelligent labor has been replaced by automatic machinery. Yet man is still necessary to run the machine that all too often drives him.

What is this machine, age doing to man? Is his spirit becoming as insensible as the machine? Is the machine, huge material power that it is, becoming a modern demigod of evil groping after things money can buy?

True, the machine manipulation gives a means of livelihood, but it destroys creative thinking and consumes initiative and physical endurances. The steady fall of a drop of water on a stone will ultimately bore through it. No prophet dare predict to the industrial world the end result when nerves snap and psychic centers can no longer endure the curse of monotony. That is life, and the epic of the world. Gods and the Man." "How shall man master the machine?

Where, save in his leisure hours, can he replenish his spirit with cheer for his work? The day of the week is one blessing: the two day week must become a greater blessing. If during two days man is freed from being a machine and finds relaxation and opportunity for recreation that steady him and do not squander him, then he will come out of his hours of leisure strong and sure of himself. Leisure must become a stimulus and not a stimulant. If machines consume both the physical and the spiritual man, leisure must replenish the corporeal and the inscorporeal man. In hours of leisure a man can find himself and rediscover his sagacity. As in other days, men left the farm for the factory, today, some men may have to leave the factory for the farm. Man is of greater value than his machine.

"Look at that youngster," said he; "the one with plus fours and the cigarette and breeches, holding two pups. Is it a boy or girl?"

"A girl," said his companion "She's my daughter."

"My dear sir!" The vicar was flustered. "I'm so sorry. I would never have been so outspoken had I known you were her father."

"I'm not," said the other. "I'm her mother."

Avoiding The Issue

"There were a few things in your speech I didn't understand, Senator."

"I understand," replied the orator, "and it's the things I referred to in a confident, offhand way to avoid disclosing that I don't understand them either."

A Matter of Family Pride

Father: "But my dear I can't loan your husband any more money. He owes me a lot of money now."

Daughter: "Well you see Father, he has to get it somewhere, and he has a great deal of pride about keeping his creditors in the family."

But a New Boss

Diner: "You advertised that this restaurant is under new management, but I see the same manager is still here."

Waiter: "Yes, sir, but he got married yesterday."

In Clover

"So he broke your heart," said the friend to the weeping girl.

"Not only that, he played cards with father and broke him, too."

Last Monday morning as Julius Mazurek Jr., was cleaning a motor at the Matsfield Chevrolet Co. garage, he set the bucket of gasoline he was using against the battery cable, which caused a short circuit. ## Firemen's Ball Tomorrow Night

Bandera and surrounding towns will have an opportunity to enjoy a real dance at Mansfield Park tomorrow (Friday) night, June 11th, when the Hondo Orchestra, sponsored by our local fire chief, Frank Mansfield, will furnish music for the second of a series of dances given for the local fire department.

Due to an unavoidable traffic accident, the orchestra billed to appear at the first dance did not arrive, to the disappointment of a large crowd that had gathered for the occasion. However, everything is in readiness for the dance Friday night. Arrange to be present if you enjoy a good dance and remember that the net proceeds from the dance will go toward buying fire fighting equipment to protect your property. If you can't attend Mansfield Park Mr. Mansfield the price of a ticket.

Let's give the members of the Bandera Fire Department substantial evidence of our appreciation of their unselfish work to protect our town from the ravages of fire. By doing this we will soon have fire fighting equipment that will be a credit to our town.

Sand or Pearls

By
LEONARD A. BARRETT

"A pebble in a sandy brook
Has changed the course of many a river.
A drop on a tiny plant
May cause a giant forest."

It is the little fuses that spoil the vines. A grain of sand in the cog wheel will stop a delicate piece of machinery. Most of the anxiety and worry in life is due to friction caused by small incidents. These little things may have very little significance in themselves, but when we allow them to accumulate and exercise no effort to assert themselves, in a very short time these little things have become thorns in our flesh. A few little irritative conditions to dominate our thinking, become victims of mental and nervous starvation. Just as a continuous drop of water may wear away a stone, so a small provocation may bore into one's balance of judgment and poise. Life's great days are made up of many impulses and actions. Let us learn to control and sharpen, but in every pearl there is a grain of sand.

Let us be told to cast out the petty irritations. That is more easily said than done. Whatever affects the nervous system also affects the will power. The true knowledge of the will is the power of choice of right or wrong, of industry or indolence, of self-control or self-indulgence. Therefore, we see when we think that by will power we can remove a sand either by bitter denial of it or by making ourselves be buried beneath it. Rather let us endeavor to make something helpful and beautiful out of every adverse circumstance that comes to us unbidden and unasked. Think of what the oyster does with the irritating grain of sand which becomes lodged within its shell. The oyster cannot get rid of the sand; for its environment is not of its own choice: its highest achievement is the pearl. And so, the oyster begins to make around the grain of sand a protective excretion which eventually hardens and embellishes the pearl. Wise oyster!

We climbed one round higher in the development of our personality every time we master a condition. We grow from a state within to accept an irritating problem and make its solution our task. Such a victory will be one of the things we are most proud of. Every person constructs his own world. It may be filled with lovely pearls acquired at a great personal cost. Our world, like a great sea, lies before us. We substitute sunshine for shadows; for both are necessary. We can gather pearls that have no quality of sand. But within us is the will to live, to do, to be, to reconstruct, to create anew.

It is for us to let the world become a desert of sand; or fill it with pearls that hold deep in their ...

Julius Mazurek Jr. Seriously Burned

Last Monday morning as Julius Mazurek Jr. was cleaning a motor at the Mansfield Chevrolet Co. garage, he set the bucket of gasoline he was using against the battery cable, which caused a short circuit. Instantly the gasoline started burning and he went back to take the bucket out of the car. As he did this, his clothes caught on fire and he suffered first degree burns on the left side of his body. He was immediately taken to Dr. Butler and treated and is now resting as well and could be expected. The car was not damaged.

Mr. Mazurek asks us to warn anyone using gasoline, kerosene or any other inflammable fluid to wash a car engine, to be sure to disconnect the cable from the battery to prevent a short circuit.

ROOSEVELT HITS JUDGES FOR ADJOURNING

Washington, June 4.—President Roosevelt criticized the Supreme Court today on the ground that it is leaving important Administration cases undecided while it takes a four-month vacation.

Asserting there was no question but that his court reorganization bill would pass at this session of Congress, he told a press conference that the people want court reform and quicker decisions on cases of major public interest.

Such decisions, he thought, should be handed down in six months at maximum. By contrast, he said, under present practices cases go unsettled for periods ranging up to three years and some times even longer.

Firemen's Ball Tomorrow Night

Bandera and surrounding towns will have an opportunity to enjoy a real dance at Mansfield Park tomorrow (Friday) night. June 11th, when the Hondo Orchestra, sponsored by our local fire chief, Frank Mansfield, will furnish music for the second of a series of dances given for the local fire department.

Due to an unavoidable traffic accident, the orchestra billed to appear at the first dance did not arrive, to the disappointment of a large crowd that had gathered for the occasion. However, everything is in readiness for the dance Friday night. Arrange to be present if you enjoy a good dance and remember that the net proceeds from the dance will go toward buying fire fighting equipment to protect your property. If you can't attend the dance, give Mr. Mansfield the price of a ticket.

Let's give the members of the Bandera Fire Department substantial evidence of our appreciation of their unselfish efforts to protect our town from the ravages of fire. By doing this we will soon have fire fighting equipment that will be a credit to our town

REFINED PINE TAR OIL GOOD FLY REPELLANT

During May more than 50 gallons of refined pine tar oil was furnished to ranchmen in this territory for use as a fly repellant and healer in screw worm cases, according to H. F. Schlemmer, county agent. The material was furnished free of charge by the United States Dept. of Agriculture, Division of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, and was sent by Tri Miller, who is with that division in this territory. Ranchmen were urged to try the product on screw worm cases, after doctoring worms, as a repellant and healer.

Reports coming in to the county agent's office indicate pine tar oil is by far the best repellant available. Epps Sewall, who distributed the oil, says that a number of ranchmen around Medina, including J. C. Collins, Ben Baker, Lee Walker and others tried it and reported excellent results.

Best results are obtained by using benzol as a worm killer and then covering the wound with pine tar.

Ordinary pine tar will not give as good results as the refined product, Schlemmer said. It should be acid free, to keep it from blistering, dehydrated to keep it from drying up and hardening and to make it impervious to water. The specific gravity should be 1.065, as that has been found to give it the best "thickness".

The supply at county agent's office is practically exhausted. However, many local stores are now stocking the refined oil both in Bandera and Medina and ranchmen will have no difficulty in obtaining it.

Sand or Pearls

By
LEONARD A. BARRETT

"A pebble in a sandy brook
Was caught in the course of many a year;
A few drops on a day played
May dwarf a giant forever."

It is the little foxes that spoil the vines. A grain of sand is the cog wheel with the delicate piece of machinery. Most of the anxiety and heartache in life is due to friction caused by small incidents. These incidents may be very little appearances to themselves, but when we allow them to accumulate and exercise no effort to assimilate them, in a very short time little irritants have become large thorns in our flesh. If we allow little irritative conditions to dominate our thinking, we become victims of mental and nervous distresses. Just as a continuous drop of water may wear away, in time, a stone, so a small provocation may in time, become victims of mental and nervous distresses. Just as a continuous drop of water may wear away, in time, a stone, so a small provocation may bore into one's balance of judgment and poise. Life's experiences are made up of many impressions and actions. There is always more sand than pearl, but in every pearl there is a grain of sand.

Often we are told to cast out the petty irritations. That is more easily said than done. Whatever affects the nervous system also affects the will power. The true function of the will is the power of choice of right or wrong, of indulgence, of self-control or self-indulgence. Therefore, we err when we think that by will power we can escape life's sand, either by bitter denial of it or by letting ourselves be buried beneath it. Rather let us endeavor to make something helpful and beautiful out of every adverse circumstance that comes to us unbidden and untried. Think of what the oyster does with the irritating grain of sand which becomes lodged within its shell. The oyster cannot get rid of the sand, for its environment is the sand of the vast sea; its highest achievement is the creation of a pearl. And so the oyster begins to place around the grain of sand a protective excretion which eliminates the pain and embellishes the pearl. What oyster!

We have climbed one round higher in the development of our personality every time we master a condition. It may cost a real fight; within is accept as irritating problem and make its solution our task. Such a victory over self is not unlike the "pearl of great price." There is much truth in the saying "It is not as you see them." Every person constructs his own world. It may be filled with pearly pearls acquired at a great personal cost. Our world, like a great sea, lies before us. We cannot substitute sunshine for shadows; for both are a part of it. We cannot gather pearls that have no grains of sand. But within us is the will to live, to be free, to achieve. Therefore, we strive.

It is for us to let the world become a desert of sand; or fill it with pearls that hold deep in their

HAVE FAITH IN THE FUTURE

Those who vision only a dismal future for our nation because of the industrial strife and confusion of the present, would derive much comfort out of a knowledge of the past. Consider how mankind has struggled from the very dawn of history in the slow and irregular course toward a higher civilization.

Think back of the age when civilization was almost extinguished in the deluge of barbarian invasions out of the east. Read how all Christianity once trembled before the onward surge of the Moslem fanatics. Turn a few more pages and read of the bloody religious wars when the torture chamber became an effective means to win converts to any faith.

Then come closer to our modern times, and be reminded of the greatest of social upheavals when mobs of France sought to destroy everything that reminded them of the older culture, and the guillotine in Paris was busy day after day eliminating those with even a tinge of aristocratic blood in their veins.

We may even turn to our own country for a few examples. After victory in the revolution, the new nation found itself without government. Rebellion and sedition were rife. Anarchy threatened the future.

Then came our own war between the states, which was followed not many years later by desperate strife between labor and capital. We have all heard about the Haymarket riot in Chicago and the bloody Homestead strike in Pennsylvania. Each depression has been followed by labor unrest. Strikes accompanied by rioting and violence are not new in our country nor in any other civilized nation in the world.

And yet each age marks a stage of advancement. There is something almost cosmic about these periods of unrest and discontent. After each period of violence and struggle differences between groups and classes were adjusted. Common sense and moderation again assumed a place in the adjustment of industrial relations. And so, better than the best that went before came into existance.

With minor variations history always repeats. Have we reason to assume that it will not repeat again? It seems logical and reasonable to us that we are not many months from another era of unparalleled prosperity and progress.

THE IDEAL COMMUNITY

The ideal community, we believe, would be the one where all of its citizens will work together for the common good. The typical community, we know, is the one where half of its citizens work for the welfare of the community while the other half spend their time criticizing the efforts of the active.

If we could only bring to bear upon our local problems the united efforts of the vast majority of our citizens what wonders could be accomplished. Hope enthusiasm would constantly rise. How the combined intelligence and energy of the community could be effectively put to work.

Here we have a great opportunity. Why wait for the break of luck that may make our community a better and more prosperous place in which to live. Let's adopt the attitude of the Little Corporal who once said: "Circumstances." Opportunities for community advancement are the work together and create them for ourselves.

SIMPLE METHOD TO SAVE PERSON FROM DROWNING

"No elaborate equipment is needed to save a life from drowning," is the opinion of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. "In fact, actual harm has been done by the misuse of so-called lung resuscitators. Modern resuscitation apparatus has been perfected so that oxygen and carbon dioxide can be used without inflicting more damage to cases of asphyxiation and drowning. It is tragic enough to have a drowning accident, but it is far more tragic if no one present at the time knows how to save a life by artificial respiration.

"The prompt application of artificial respiration is of primary importance, and for this purpose the prone pressure method is the easiest, simplest and most effective. This should begin at once and continue rhythmically until natural breathing is established—this may take four or more hours.

"First: Kneel, and straddle the patient below the hips, placing your hands on small of back with fingers over the lowest ribs, tips of fingers just out of sight.

"Second: With arms straight, while counting, one, two, swing forward, bearing weight on body firmly but not violently.

"Third: Swing backward while counting one, straightening up and thus relieving pressure—this allows air to be drawn into the lungs.

"Fourth: Rest in this position for two counts.

"Fifth: Repeat these movements rhythmically, forward and backward, without interruption, about twelve to fifteen a minute, until natural breathing is restored.

"Sixth: Meanwhile, if assistance is at hand, a physician should be sent for, the patient's tight clothing should be loosened at neck, chest, waist and he should be kept warm.

"The patient should not be moved until he is breathing normally and then should be carried on a cot up, but should be carried in a lying position in a place where he can be kept warm and receive medical attention.

In a novel we read not long ago we were particularly interested in the sentence: "Now his wife sat apart and endeavored to reason with her." We wonder if he had any trouble reassembling her.

'NO DAMAGE TO YOUTH

The youth who believes his college or high school diploma elevates him above the ranks of day workers; who feels that his dignity would suffer a serious shock if he should be compelled to don a pair of overalls and earn his living in the field or at the forge is suffering from a paucity of understanding and confusion of values.

These young people may now be well reminded of the fact that George Washington was not above the work of a surveyor, a wilderness guide and farmer. It is said that his happiest days were spent on the soil of his Virginia estate. He was a forerunner in the science of agriculture, and his intense interest was devoted to stock breeding and the development of higher producing grains.

And what, about our industrial giants? They did not feel superior to the humble tasks in the shop or factory in the days before they began the climb to wealth and influence. Henry Ford, Walter Chrysler, Charles Schwab, and many others, the list is too long to repeat here, did not feel that they injured their dignity when they returned from the shop covered with grease and dirt after a day of heavy labor.

We have long believed that the man who works with his hands had an opportunity equal to that offered to any white collar worker to apply brains and intelligence to the task before him. The machinist who erects a complicated piece of mechanism or turns a shaft to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch is fully as important in the order of things as the accountant who brings the books into balance. We often feel that he has an even better opportunity to write an enviable record in the social and economic order under which we live.

Don't worry, therefore, if you find no genteel work which permits you to wear a well pressed business suit and occupy a place behind a mahogany desk. Your opportunity among those who think will not suffer if you accept a job at ordinary labor.

LESS THAN 100,000 ELIGIBLE FOR WPA WORK IN TEXAS

For the first time since the inception of the Works Progress Administration, fewer than 100,000 Texans are eligible because of destitution for employment on WPA projects, State Administrator H. P. Drought has announced.

This week's report on the Texas case load shows 99,758 persons eligible for WPA employment, the lowest number in the two-year history of the organization, Drought declared.

"This week's report that less than one hundred thousand Texans are eligible for employment on WPA projects is an encouraging indication of our efforts to reduce unemployment in Texas. Our records show that the case load has consistently declined since the beginning of this fiscal year when more than 170,000 persons were certified as destitute and eligible for employment on Federal Works Program projects. The vast majority of these have been left upon rolls are now in private employment.

"It has always been a policy of the WPA to give preference, in certification, supported by strict regulations, that any WPA worker who is offered employment elsewhere at a living wage must accept such employment or be dropped from the payroll. Such action has not been necessary to invoke that rule as the average subsistence wage in Texas paid the WPA worker is but $28.17—a sum which is certainly low enough to encourage any person to seek other work rather than to retain WPA employment."

The current case load is divided among the twelve WPA districts as follows: Marshall district, 17,871; Dallas district, 15,304; Houston district, 13,052; Fort Worth district, 10,345; Waco district, 9,009; Austin district, 8,532; Abilene district, 7,527; Amarillo district, 6,913; San Angelo district, 5,936; El Paso district, 2,-

Wettable Sulphur Dip For Goat Lice Control Gaining Favor With West Texas Ranchmen

The use of wettable sulphur dip to control goat lice is gaining favor with West Texas ranchmen, county agriculture agents have reported.

In Coke county, W. R. Davis dipped 648 head of mutton goats in wettable sulphur. This was a continuation of last fall's demonstration, when he dipped his flock twice. The hair at shearing time was much brighter and no lice were found.

Ranchmen of Irion county are turning to the use of wettable sulphur as the result of a demonstration by Jack Hunt. A goat-on the Rutledge ranch were dipped in this material. The goats were dipped in a tank 12 feet long and are still free of lice. A gain of one-half pound of hair per head was noted at the shearing.

Two Edwards county ranchmen, Fred Wittenburg and Martin Davis, dipped 623 and 1,-258 head respectively, in wettable sulphur during the fall of 1936 and the flocks were heavily infested with lice, and will be dipped again after a 10 day interval.

A round vat of 1,000-gallon capacity has been constructed near-in Texas, was used to dip 1,002 goats with wettable sulphur on the Wittenburg ranch in the Kerr county. Materials for the vat, floor, and fence cost $43.90. The goats were dipped at the rate of 250 an hour.

During May, seven flocks of goats totaling 3,000 head were dipped in wettable sulphur in Brown county. Ranchmen who dipped in Runnels county during the past year report that their goats produced a heavier fleece, were in better condition, and that the mohair had an added luster.

D. A. OTTO PAINFULLY BURNED

D. A. Otto, prominent rancher and breeder of Kerrville and vicinity, is painfully burned about noon June 8, when he attempted to light a gasoline operated by an artificial gas plant.

We were informed that escaping gas filled his basement and in an effort to put out the fire ignited the blaze.

Although painfully ill from the burns and presence of mind to find an exit from the basement and thereby escaping a fight extinguished the blaze.

He was rushed to the hospital by Mr. Ludwig Philip who was passing at the time and is reported as having some new construction work.

The recent session of the Legislature passed a new fishing and hunting license law, which was originally intended to cover more area than was finally decided on. As we were unable at the time to explain fully the new law, we wrote the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, requesting that the letter below explains, that Bandera and Medina counties are not included in the counties which force all fishermen and hunters to procure a license.

The new law requires that every man who wants to fish or hunt in the counties named below to have a license, excepting of course, persons under seventeen years of age and land owners and tenants, as long as they hunt and fish on their lands or the lands occupied by them. The hunting license will be $2.00, and the license for fishing with artificial bait is $1.00. The owner of such a license may fish with rod or hunt in any part of the State of Texas. Parties not owning an artificial lure have to buy one in order to fish in any of the 22 counties named below, must procure a license. Fishing license will be only 55c. In addition to the fishing and hunting license, the law requires hunting licenses for hunting to pay the State ten per cent of the amount collected for such privilege.

The letter follows:

Game, Fish And Oyster Commission

Austin, Tex., June 9, 1937.

Mr. R. W. Meitzen, Publisher
Bandera New Era
Bandera, Texas.
Dear Mr. Meitzen:

Please allow me my delay in acknowledging your letter of recent date in reference to new hunting and fishing law and will say that applies to several counties in that section of the State.

Section 1 of H. B. 1173 provides that all persons over the age of seventeen years shall procure such a hunting license before going to hunt in the counties of Mason, Menard, Kerr, Schleicher, Crockett, Sutton, Kendall, Real, Edwards, Blanco, Llano, Kendall, Gillespie, El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Val Verde, Kinney, Maverick, Terrell, Brewster and Harris.

You will note that the counties of Bandera and Medina are not included in the above named counties and, therefore, this law would not apply to those counties, but the law is in effect at this time.

House Bill No. 641, regular session, 44th Legislature, provides that deer hunting in that it shall be unlawful during the months of January, February, March or April of any year. In an attempt to take any fresh water fish in any of the counties of Kinney, Maverick, Terrell, Brewster, Real, Sutton, Mason, Menard, Blanco, Llano, Kendall or Gillespie.

House Bill No. 1103, Regular Session, 45th Legislature amends House Bill No. 641, regular session 44th Legislature by providing that it shall be unlawful during the months of January, February, March and April of any year to take or attempt to take any trout from any of the waters of the counties named above; provided, however, that in Bandera County it shall be unlawful to take or attempt to take fish from the waters of Medina Lake during the months of February, March and April of each year only.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

It is not surprising that a considered that successful business people in large cities, and small towns like Bandera alike are steady and consistent advertisers. Their experience has proved that it pays to keep their names and their merchandise and service in the public eye.

The fellow who doubts the efficiency of advertising because he tried it once and it didn't work, should look about him. He will invariably find that those who have made the most conspicuous success in business are also those who make the most effective use of printers ink and newspaper space.

KNOWS HIS RIGHTS

There lingers in mind a little jingle which concludes: "He was right all right as he sped along, but he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

The man who considers first his own right of way and second, the matter of safety is responsible for some of our most serious accidents. You know the fellow. Perhaps you have traveled with him. He sees another car dart out of its traffic lane to weave through the traffic. He might assert at once his right of way in his own brakes and giving the reckless or mistaken driver a chance to get back into his own traffic lane.

But he knows he's "in the right." He refuses to endure his own speed. So most anything can happen.

Then there is the fellow who insists upon his right-of-way at an intersection. He, too, knows his rights. The other fellow had no reason to pass that stop sign. But the inevitable crash may injure the man in the right as much as the one in error. The laws of chance and momentum pay little heed to the rules of the road.

It may also be well to realize that we are all subject to lapses. The best of drivers will admit that they do fool things at times. A little courtesy on the part of other drivers in such a situation may avert a serious crash.

In our opinion the really smart driver is not the one who knows all the rules and insists upon his rights, not the doleful driver who brags about beating all speed records. The smart driver is the one who exercises care and common sense, who practices courtesy, who may not break the bonds or lives of those who travel with him. He realizes that good driving is safe driving.

NATIONS AND INDIVIDUALS

If we acted as individuals with the same brutality and stupidity that characterizes international relations, what a hideous world this would be. Imagine a comparable situation to the recent Spanish crisis. Suppose a man waylaid you from ambush, and struck you over the head with a club. You would not be severely censured if you should return the insult with your own fists.

But assume instead that you adopted the attitude of nations. Suppose in revenge you went to his home in the dead of night, pulled his small children from their beds and gave them a brutal beating. Would you expect men welcome you into their society thereafter?

But when nations act thus it becomes merely an international situation. A German warship is bombed by irresponsible and reckless soldiers of fortune fighting for the Spanish loyalist cause. The ship was damaged and twenty-four sailors lost their lives.

In revenge, as we all know, the seaport town of Almiria was bombarded. Its streets were converted into a shambles. Some thirty citizens were killed and a hundred more injured. These mad deeds and slaughter-mad men are in no way responsible for the depredation against German, shipping but they were compelled to pay the price.

This is the way of international affairs. Under existing circumstances Italy, France, Russia or possibly any other nation might have taken similar action. That is the barbarity of relations between nations.

Only the development of responsible ruthlessness how can we even hope that war, the scourge of modern civilization, may be effectively outlawed.

Highest Criminal Tribunal In State Deems Theater Cash Drawings

Austin, June 9.—The Court of Criminal Appeals, the state's highest tribunal in criminal cases, ruled today that theater bank nights were lotteries and therefore illegal.

The court had been considering a test case from Denham for more than a year. The Supreme court ruled several months ago that bank nights were against public policy, but did not pass on the important question of whether they were lotteries.

The decision was unanimous, although Judge F. L. Hawkins wrote a separate opinion giving different reasons for concurring. The main opinion was written by O. S. Lattimore.

The decision upheld the fine of $100 assessed H. B. Cole, Denham picture show proprietor, on a charge of violating the lottery law.

Cole contended a bank night was not a lottery because a person did not have to pay to have a chance at the prize.

"We think it does not materially affect the scheme," Lattimore said, "that there be a possibility that some one might get a night who had not paid for a ticket. The appellant's purpose and plan—frankly admitted by him—was to increase the patronage of his show. No sane man would believe for a moment that gratuitous distribution for an extended period to operate a scheme the result of which would or could be self-sustaining."

Hawkins pointed out that courts of other states had differed on the question of whether a bank night drawing was a lottery.

He held there was indirect consideration for participation in the drawing because persons paying admission to the theater had a better chance to get the prize than those not there.

"The writer is impressed with the view," he said, "that where the present scheme has been held by other states not to be a lottery, the cases have turned upon a failure to show a direct consideration moving from the participants, or at least from a part of them, in the drawing for the prize.

"Under our reasoning he faulty, there does appear to be an indirect consideration moving from the registrants in the book in the purchase of admission to the theater, thereby obtaining a more favorable situation to claim the prize than the outside registrants enjoy."

Bank night operations have been widespread in Texas. A bill to make certain they were illegal had been introduced in the legislature but the decision today apparently eliminated the need for such action.

The state has collected a 20 per cent levy on bank night awards since November 15, 1936, and the comptroller's department reported that through June 6 it totaled $624,411.62. The money already has been spent, department officials said.

J. H. Broadhurst, assistant attorney general assigned to bank night litigation, concurred in an unofficial opinion by the comptroller's division that the State should not refund the tax proceeds.

SCHREINER GIVES LONGHORN HERD TO SAN ANTONIO ZOO

Gift of a herd of seven head of Texas longhorn steers by Louis A. Schreiner, Kerrville banker and ranchman, to the Brackenridge Park zoo was announced Wednesday by R. H. Friedrich, president of the San Antonio Zoological Society.

The seven steers ewre transported in trucks Wednesday from the Schreiner game preserve, near the city, to the Brackenridge Park zoo. There they will be viewed by thousands of tourists who recall them as being among the last of vanishing breed of cattle that played a vital role in the making of the Lone Star Empire.

About 15 years ago Schreiner began acquiring the outstanding specimens of longhorn cattle in Texas. He assembled the herd here. At the cost of many thousands of dollars the steers donated to the San Antonio zoo were used in last year's production of "Cavalcade of Texas" at the Centennial Exposition in Dallas.

The zoo officials accepted the gift of the longhorn steers on behalf of the San Antonio Zoological Society. The animals will be placed in new pens west of Kerrville, in line of the show places of the Hill Country.—Kerrville Times

JOHN GARNER COMING GETS LEAVE TO FISH

Washington, June 12.—President Roosevelt will lose the leading "no" man among his close advisors when Vice-President Garner leaves tomorrow for home.

Garner, according to those in a position to know, speaks his mind more freely to the White House than almost anyone else in the administration. He has been particularly valuable to the President because of his long congressional experience.

President of the United States, like other executives, hear "yes" from their associates and advisers more often than "no."

Garner has learned through years of public life to say "no" about as emphatically as it can be said. And those close to him assert he has not lost his tongue when he went to the White House.

Among the subjects on which the vice-president has said a big "no", to the President recently, according to those who have been present, is the president's court bill, and sitdown strikes.

Those who attended the White House conference just before the Chief Executive sent his relief message to Congress heard the vice-president led the demands for economy. He has since been quite openly on the economy path.

In congressional corridors he was given much of the credit or blame, depending upon the viewpoint, for the Senate appropriations committee's emphatic economy vote today on the Byrnes amendment to require local communities to bear more of the cost of WPA, where they can.

Garner was one of those who advised the President to yield in his demand for six new justices on the Supreme Court, insiders say. They also say, in whispers, that he criticized the Chief Executive's inaction during the sit-down strikes a few weeks back.

Through it all, the Texan has been a loyal supporter of the President, and their discussions, although at times a little warm, have been friendly.

Garner said good-bye to the President at the cabinet meeting Wednesday when "the boss" as he calls the Chief Executive, gave consent to the Texan's leaving. The vice-president and Mrs. Garner intend to start by auto for Uvalde, their home, early tomorrow morning.

The vice-president describes the trip as a vacation, but unless he is called back, the Senate Capitol Hill do not expect to see him again until next session.

First place among the meanest men goes to the fellow whose pay per was stopped for non payment and then tells that hi quit his subscription because it was no good.

Perhaps we shouldn't say too much about lack of co-operation here in Bandera. Look how the civilized nations of Europe fail to practice it. Also note the results.

Concerning Social Security Account Numbers

Get the right number when you list employees on information reports, J. E. Jackson, manager of the San Antonio field office of the Social Security Board today reminded employers of industrial employers throughout the San Antonio area who are seeking to avoid penalty taxes that account numbers of wage earners no longer in their employ.

Under Treasury regulations, Jackson explained, employers must list employee account numbers on their information reports. Post office are requesting that if an employee has failed to report his social security account number, the employer should file an application form (SS-5) with sufficient supporting information to establish the employee's identity beyond reasonable doubt. This application will be checked against the files to see if an account number has already been issued. If the employee has no account number, the employer must then make application for an account number on behalf of his employee, stating on the form the reason for his filing such application.

Mr. Jackson also urged all employees who have not yet reported their social security account numbers to their employers to do so promptly. "This applies also to workers who have worked for more than one employer since January 1, 1937, even though the period of their employment may have been one day or less.

Account numbers are being issued by the Social Security Board's 26 cities of more than 45,000 post offices which are being utilized for the assignment account numbers until June 30. July 1 and thereafter, application forms for account numbers can be obtained at any local post office, and at regional and field offices of the Board, but assignment of account numbers will be made by the Board's central field offices. The San Antonio field office is located at 501 Maverick Building.

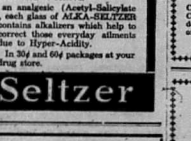
MESCAL IKE By S. L. HUNTLEY



"DO YOU TAKE This MAN?"
"NO", SHE SAYS

Florence, Ariz., June 9.—Two Final County officials and a pastor were authorities today for a story which sets a new high in a woman's prerogative to change mind.

T. J. Marks, Superior Court, was aroused at 1 a.m. by a young couple who had traveled 60 miles to procure a marriage license. Not only did the obliging Marks issue the license, but he aroused his assistant, Wyty Parsons, to act as a witness, and guided the couple to the home of the Rev. Lambreth Hancuck.

"And do you take this man to be your lawfully wedded husband?"

There was no answer. He thought she had misunderstood. He repeated the question. Finally there was an exclamation from her:

"No! No! not now! Maybe we had better think this over a little longer!"

"Come on, Honey," averred the slightly embarrassed bridegroom. "Don't back out. We got these people out of bed!"

But no amount of urging availed. The perturbed youth finally accepted the decision, even offering to pay the minister a fee.

RENEWED INTEREST IN UPKEEP OF CEMETERY

Renewed interest in the upkeep and beautification of the Bandera Cemetery is resulting from the unselfish efforts of the members of our local Cemetery Association. The work of the Association deserves the heartiest support of every one in the community.

In the City of the Dead rest many of our loved ones, our neighbors, friends and of an older generation, the pioneers who established this town. Certainly we owe it to their memory to see that their last resting place is kept free from weeds and as beautiful as circumstances will permit.

We are pleased to learn that with the necessary support from our citizens the Association plans to replace the present broken, sagging gate with a substantial cattle guard and a rock arch over the entrance, an ornamental rock and wire fence, and later provide for adequate water supply for shrubs and flowers.

An amendment authorizing the legislature to abolish the present system of remunerating district, county and precinct officers and revert to the fee plan in any county won place three.

That providing for a system of discount for taxes and extension of payment of taxes went into place four, and one authorizing Harris county to issue $1,000,000 in bonds to levy a tax for support of a five-year road aid bridge program, was placed sixth.

Last place on the ballot will be occupied by an amendment providing state aid, in co-operation with the Federal Government, for needy blind 21 years or older. Any single resident now a recipient of old age assistance would be eligible for blind assistance.

Captain Eli Loyd Found Dead Friday

Captain Eli Loyd, aged 87, was found dead Friday evening in a pasture near the home of his son, Dee Loyd, in the Tuff community. It is supposed that death resulted from natural causes. Captain Loyd left his home early Friday morning to walk to the home of his son, Dee Loyd, a distance of about three and a half miles. In the late afternoon, the son learned that his father had started to walk this distance, and he immediately set out in search of him, finding his lifeless body a few feet from the trail. From appearances, it seemed that Captain Loyd had become weary and sat down, under a tree, where death overtook him.

Funeral services were conducted by J. Marvin Hunter at the Adams Cemetery Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Surviving are the aged widow; four sons and five daughters, as follows: Mrs. Lula Anderson, Mrs. Kate Bennett and Mrs. Lena Lackey, Tuff; Mrs. Fannie Schimmelpfennig, Vanderpool; Mrs. Eva Banta, Saratoga, Wyoming; S. O. Loyd, Moore; Louis Loyd, Port Arthur; Walter Loyd, Driscoll, and Dee Loyd, Tuff. There are 39 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren. All of the sons and daughters of the deceased were present at the funeral except Mrs. Banta and Walter Loyd, who could not be here in time, the latter arriving after the funeral.

Captain Eli Loyd was born in Mississippi April 19, 1850, and came to Texas with his parents when he was about nine years old. The family settled in Llano county, where he grew to manhood. On May 30, 1876, he was happily married to Miss Virginia Scott Fleming in Atascosa county, and in 1879 moved to Bandera county, locating on a ranch above the head of the Medina river, and continued to reside on the section to the day of his death, a period of fifty-eight years.

Many old timers in Llano county, Indian raids were numerous and he was often called upon to take the trail after the savages. On one occasion he was with a party of eight men and tracked the band of Indians on Packsaddle Mountain. This proved to be one of the most desperate fights in the history of the country. Almost every white man of the party was wounded. Mr. Loyd was shot through both arms, but succeeded in killing the chief, and the Indians left hurriedly. This was known as the Packsaddle Mountain Fight, and took place August 5, 1873. Both Captain and Mrs. Loyd, during there now remains only one survivor of this battle, Mr. D. D. Bennett, of Llano county, Texas.

Captain Loyd was known to all the early settlers of Bandera county, and held the confidence and esteem of all of them. During the more than half century he lived in Bandera he bore the reputation of an upright, law-abiding citizen, and his death is lamented by many friends.

GARNER AT HOME; WON'T TALK POLITICS

Uvalde, June 20.—Vice Pres. John N. Garner set custom on the rear porch steps of his home here today and willingly discussed everything except politics.

Home for an unprecedented vacation with Congress still in session, Mrs. Otto Fisher secretary, Mrs. Ola Mae Gerald associate matron, Mrs. Mellese Hugh conductress, Mrs. Ruth Hodges Briggs associate conductress. Mrs. Jennie Daly Ada, Mrs. Lois Thalman Ruth, Mrs. Bobbie Wyatt Esther, Mrs. Knowles Teel Martha, Mrs. Aileen Pue Electa, Mrs. Bettie McBryde as Warder, Mrs. Josephine Sewall marshal, Mrs. Mena Hamilton Adah, Mrs. Lucille Hodges Ina, Mrs. Virginia Ivey Martha, Mrs. Mittie Fletcher warden and Fred Thalmann sentinel.

"Purple can speculate on anything they want to but I have nothing to say," he said.

But an unbothered period his plans will be made on a day-to-day decision, how long he would remain in Uvalde, having made no plans other than to relax with his invalid wife, Postmaster Ross Edmunson, a neighbor, prepared to go.

The vice president's home was visited some new-fangled baby proposals by lacks seeking signatures. Although he had not decided when the first excursion would be made, I

HURRAH FOR THE FOURTH

We maintain that there is no one event which can be staged in a community that can bring greater general benefit than a first rate July Fourth celebration. For this reason we desire to take advantage of an opportunity to compliment and commend the members of the Catholic Church in Bandera, who are now busy arriving a celebration here.

When the writer was a small tot racing about in knee-length trousers, a regular Fourth of July celebration was just about the biggest event in life. We were pleasantly excited for days in advance of the event, and always left happy in reflection for many days after decorations were removed and the unexploded firecrackers were packed away. To bring like happiness to the youngsters of today is a worthy enterprise. And we may well add right here that some of us never really grow up when it comes to enjoying a circus or a celebration.

But more than all these considerations is the fact that July Fourth is one day which should be observed. It arouses thoughts of national independence, of personal freedom, and individual rights and duties which should be kept fresh in the mind during these days of new and strange developments.

Hence to the committee which is expending so much time and effort to make the occasion a success, we want to say: "Don't fear that your efforts will go unappreciated. You are doing a good job in the way of community service."

WHERE CRIME SPAWNS

"Here's to Crime" is the title of an amazing book recently published by Courtney Ryley Cooper. We were amazed and astonished at the revelations contained therein as presented in a brief digest published in a national magazine.

What impressed us most was the story of how criminals gained the full penalty of their transgressions through the faulty administration of parole boards. The close contact between organized crime and metropolitan politics also helps to explain why America's record in crime is nothing of which we should feel proud.

And as we ponder over what we found in this article, we cannot overlook the opportunity offered to communities by the contrast between the government of big cities and of small communities like Bandera.

In towns like ours police officials may not be schooled in the latest methods of crime detection; they may not be masterful men who can cope with the cunning of any outlaw, but they are honest and seek to do their duty as they see it. There is no direct contact between men who make their way in the world by crime and the highest officials in the community. There are no cities to get them free once they are in the hands of the law. And for this reason our community is comparatively free from all crime. Organized crime as a society of life simply does not exist here.

If our great cities were governed with the same honesty and regard for public duty that characterize government in small communities like ours America would not be a crime ridden nation. This problem about which so much is written and spoken would not exist. The great metropolis is the spawning ground of organized crime.

There are good reasons why none of us never want to believe in things really. We should go through that everyone might be able to read our thoughts.

Those of us who always taught that America was built by pioneers who worked from sunup to sundown can see Clayton shoring up the old lodger's theories in the light of the fact that many men entered public-office-holders are exempt from all income taxes.

SOCIAL LEAVEN

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Three men went to Alaska in the early history of that newly purchased territory. One is described as a specialist in the search of mother nature's secrets; the third, a representative of their idealism which endeavored to reform human life and build up a new social order.

Immediately upon the discovery of gold, thousands rushed to the far away and almost unknown country, in the hope of finding their fortune. They endured great hardships. Many succumbed to intense suffering. But they got their gold and took it with them. They brought little or nothing into the country, but they took away much of its precious metal.

The second man was a scientist and explorer. His name was John Muir. He went to Alaska in 1879. His discovered the glacier called by his name; explored two important rivers and made other scientific discoveries which helped in the geographical and physical expansion of the new country.

The third man was a representative of organized Christian forces. His name was S. Hall Young. He did not go to Alaska in search of gold or glaciers, but in search of the hidden inner resources of human lives. He was interested in moulding high and noble citizenship. He founded churches and established schools, and in this important work encountered more obstacles than the gold diggers. He braved all the adverse conditions that faced the scientist, but he left in the hearts of the people of Alaska an influence which lives today. The world will forget the names of those who took from the soil nuggets of gold. It may forget the name of the scientist. Perchance it may forget the name—S. Hall Young,— but the seeds he put into the measure of human life will go on spreading its power to other lives. The reason for this is very simple, yet it will ever remain one of the cardinal virtues of essential living. S. Hall Young took something to Alaska. He went to give something to Alaska, and not to receive a reward.

That it is "more blessed to give than to receive" sounds like a trite and fanciful saying. The spirit of our crass materialism interprets as visionary and impracticable any effort which seeks first to give before it receives.

The history of human experience testifies beyond all doubt that only he who gives first, receives.

Service is always the criterion of profit. Kirby Page writes a fine line in these words: "The man who has never wept over the sorrows of his people is blind to the taller peaks of life." One can never see peaks if he has never seen people, and longed to give them social patterns beyond the mar of human perpetration. The man who would find what all the world is seeking must lose himself in lifting others. In service, "It would be a short cut to the millennium if every one regarded his vocation as his best contribution to society."

FERD STAFFEL CO.

Poultry and Dairy Feeds

Ferd Staffel Co, located at 321 East Commerce Street, San Antonio is one of the state's most dependable, Feed Houses, one which has made every effort to furnish those products best adapted to our particular sections and conditions. Their feeds contain the necessary vitamins that have been found to be of such importance.

To make two blades of grass grow where one only grew before is considered a great achievement, and will always bring high commendation to the who accomplishes this feat. Agriculture is of course the nation's foundation, but there are many, other things so closely allied with agriculture, that each is indispensable to the other. We refer particularly to the livestock.

Until recent years man tilled his crops more or less assiduously, according to his individual ambitions, but allowed his livestock to get along as best it could with the feeds afforded by nature, of those most easily raised by man. As a consequence poultry and all kinds of stock were subject to many diseases and all of them showed the effect of improper nourishment at their critical growing time.

When the great scientists began experimenting in the East and North to find a way to raise better strains they opened up a field of vast possibilities. It was found that even the common breeds of fowls and animals could be greatly improved and economy effected by certain foods that varied with seasons, climate and purposes for which the stock was raised. Laying chickens require certain food elements for market eggs, or perhaps another for hatching.

Young chicks need some other stimulant, and this will also apply to the dangerous time they must all go through.

Dairy herds should be given the proper feed to produce the greatest amount of butter fat if the herd is expected to make a profit, just as horses and mules need a balanced diet to render the maximum service without injury to their constitution.

To meet the many requirements of the changing times great mills have sprung up over the country.

The Ferd Staffel Institution we should be proud of their achievements. Their success depends on their putting out the most dependable products, and feeds and in doing this they are adding immeasurably to the value of the farm and that of our great state. It is our duty to aid in every possible way all institutions that have to do with the improvement of our farm output.

SPILLMAN & SPILLMAN

Architects

Architectural beauty in home building is one of the most appreciated phases of the life of such beautiful communities as San Antonio. The works of Spillman & Spillman stand out distinctively as would a Rembrandt, for these architects' years have been crammed full of intensive study, travel observation and practice. Planning is their hobby and they are happy when presenting the plans of some beautiful structure. Often too, ideas which seem to the layman the acme of perfection, are discarded in their studio offices, due to flaws which their keenly trained minds detect in the mental picture and visualization of the completed structure. No one but a good architect can do that.

Thus do we find a uniform excellence in their work that makes it distinctive and admirable, and that has been the great contributing force that brought to Spillman and Spillman their present enviable position in the world of architecture —the world that is responsible for the building of beautiful communities and every builder recognizes their genius. They all know their plans make their patrons happy and reflected only to lend prestige to their own work.

Spillman & Spillman offices are at 603 Hicks Building, San Antonio where they are always courteous ready to discuss plans with a prospective builder, whether it be a modest cottage, a mansion, a business building or an entire community operation. And the point is—they know how.

Opticians

Calpini Inc. is conveniently located at 211 East Houston St., San Antonio. Science has played the major role in benefiting mankind. Knowledge through education has saved countless thousands from indescribable grief.

But a few short centuries past, the science of medicine was virtually unknown. With the knowledge that is calling a doctor during office hours, and in most instances notify things, came the elimination of considerable disease and suffering. The additional knowledge of the importance of knowledge the proper care and treatment of our eyes is continually brought before us. Few of us ever stop to realize that our eyes, like parts of our body, need occasional attention, and yet how easily recognizable is the fact that our eyes, so vastly more important than most of our body, are not perpetual in their functions.

The science of the eyes has disclosed the necessity of glasses for many causes. To fail your eyes in this essential may lead to grave consequences and cause irreparable damage. To picture the loss of sight, the sorrow, the untold grief and unhappiness is an unpleasant thought and yet the dire realization of such a tragedy may bring happiness to hundreds of people in satisfactorily adjusting the matter thru the use of the proper glasses.

Dr. Bragg has for the past several years satisfactorily served us of the rural districts with the finest of lens and his many friends heartily recommend him to the public in general.

His type of service is of vital importance to hundreds of people who are without the proper vision and who may regain the function of their eyes by visiting this office and examination rooms.

We are glad to recommend this experienced optometrist to all our readers. He is a professional man of wide knowledge and experience and a valued citizen in the community.

Tommy: "Mother, when I'm invited out to dinner should I eat my pie with a fork?"

Mother: "Why, of course, son."

Tommy: "Well, you haven't got a piece of pie in the house that I could practice on, have you?"

Car Salesman: "Yes, Sir, this car is sound in every part. Prospect: "So I hear."

Underneath the short jacket with its fulled sleeves and short flared skirt, is a playsuit in red pique.

Mrs. J. D. Walker Died Last Friday

Goat Dipping Demonstration Held On West Prong

On Monday, June 28, H. F. Schlemmer, County Agent, and R. H. Tippett, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Medina held a goat dipping demonstration at the J. H. Talcott ranch on the West Prong. The goats were dipped in a solution made of pure derris sulphur, as recommended by the Extension Service.

The following were present at the demonstration: Thomas Bauerlein, T. J. Bauerlein, Charlie Bauerlein, Paul Garrison, Delmay Talcott, Glen Talcott, Avery Fee, Al. Furman B. R. Tippett, H. F. Schlemmer.

661 goats were dipped before 10:00 a. m. in the 800 gallon vat. Other figures that may be of interest to ranchmen are as follows:

Cost of charging vat, $5.20. This is for 80 pounds of wettable sulphur, at the rate of one pound of sulphur for each ten gallons of water.

It was found that 661 goats dipped took 215 gallons of the solution out of the vat, indicating that each goat took out somewhat one third of a gallon of the mixture.

The total number of goats dipped was over 1200, and the total amount of sulphur used was 101 and one half pounds for a total cost for sulphur of about $6.60, or just a fraction over one-half cents per goat.

Goats examined after the dipping shower that live were apparently all killed.

Other advantages of this method of dipping are as follows:

1. Solution is not poisonous to cut is low. 2. Sulphur leaves on goats continue to kill lice for some time after dipping. 4. Use of sulphur helps will scab.

This dipping should be done when goats have plenty of hair on them and should be repeated within two weeks if possible.

Mr. Talcott expects to dip again soon and ranchmen in that vicinity are invited to attend the demonstration. The county agent expects to hold demonstrations soon on the North Prong, at Pipe Creek, and at Tarpley. Watch your newspaper for the dates of those demonstrations.

A WORD OF THANKS

"Working for the community is a thankless task. There are plenty to complain when some of your projects do not succeed with complete success. There are few to help when a lot of work is demanded." There are few thanks for those who buckle in when there is work to be done."

How often we hear such remarks. How frequently the citizen who devotes time and energy to civic projects becomes discouraged when he receives little assistance and much criticism.

We take advantage of this occasion, therefore, to extend a word of appreciation to those energetic citizens who are ready to help make Bandera a better place to live and to commend loyalty. It always is a few, maybe only five or six public spirited citizens, to whom we must look when a job of community improvement requires attention. They should at least receive the praise and encouragement of their fellow citizens for the spirit exhibited and for what they do or endeavor to accomplish.

Without a few such citizens, our community would be a dead and stagnant place. If it were not for such people, there would be little progress and little improvement. It was people like them who built this community and the great nation of which we are a part. It would be well after all of us to extend that a word of sincere appreciation and acknowledge the great value of civic loyalty.

WHO LIKES HIS JOB?

Several instances have come to notice recently which seem to discredit the old theory that in order to be a success one should follow a congenial line of work.

It is said that the late Joseph Conrad, the most famous of recent authors of sea stories, hated the sea and detested writing. O. O. McIntyre tells of a leading and successful New York theatrical producer who has a deep antipathy to actors and actresses and despises the theater; also of a man who has made a fortune as a florist, but who does not care for flowers and is nauseated by their perfume.

Now comes Irving S. Cobb, one of America's most famous writers and humorists, who says in a statement that he utterly dislikes writing, but keeps at it because he doesn't want to be a loafer, or words to that effect.

The average newspaper man will tell you that he loathes the eternal grind, but somehow you could not drive him out of it. Many musicians suffer mental torture when before an audience —and so it goes.

There may be exceptions to the rule, but the lesson to be drawn from the instances noted is that determination to do good work will develop ability and bring success, whether one likes his job or not.

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN

It may be surprising to some to be told that for nearly 100 years after the Declaration of Independence no women were employed by the government, but such is the fact, according to a statement by the president of the Civil Service Commission.

The first law permitting the employment of women as clerks in Federal government offices was passed in 1870. Today more than 25,000 women are employed in such offices in Washington alone, while nearly 60,000 or more are employed outside of the capital city.

Women are being appointed to such positions as bacteriologist, biologist, botanist, chemist, economist, pharmacologist, physicist, statistician, zoologist and technologists of various kinds, and many women hold postmaster-ships.

Women are also serving as referees of Labor and several are court judges.

The employment of women in private business has shown a steady increase also, the number of women employees having nearly ten-fold.

Whether this increasing activity of women in industry, and institution of an improved civil-service system, will in the end prove wise, however that may be, women have shown their ability to perform creditably their work in every location under the sun, and that they will continue to do so cannot be doubted.

Some of those people who think they belong to the 400 look as if they were trying to see how far they can go without a friend of ours.

THE REIGN OF LAW

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

We may disobey law, but we can never "break" it. In reality, it breaks us. It is the end. Obedience is liberty. Only in obedience is servitude. We sometimes think we are beating the law when we fail to keep it, but we forget we must ultimately pay the penalty. We take a chance; too automobiles crash with disastrous results. We ignore the laws of health, and disease is inevitable. When we come in contact with steam or fire, we pay the penalty with the pain of a severe burn. There is no escape. If we would be free from suffering, we must obey the law. The tragedy of the reign of law this world would be hectic, indeed. Smash the law of gravitation, and there would be chaos. Variety in nature—yes, but the fundamental laws of growth are constant.

The reign of law is also present in the realm of intelligence. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." You cannot break that law. A man cannot think falsely. Motives, thoughts and he an honest man. Deeds are answerable to thoughts. Thoughts make character and mold destiny. We are what we are in the organic unity of our thought life. As a cathedral is the outward expression of an architect's dream of beauty, so our lives are what we thought make them. All the crime in the world is but the objectifying. Crime is the result of the violation of law. Why are some persons irresistibly attracted? Not because of a beautiful face but rather because of a glorious personality. Charm is an attribute of the soul.

The increasing disrespect for law is a serious matter. We argue the right to break a law if it is unjust. Truly, we have laws on our statutes which should never have been enacted. The way to get rid of them is not to break them but to remove them, if unjust, by the authority of public opinion. By the same token, public opinion should be authority of the point of demanding obedience. If a man injure one, with a car whose brakes are faulty, that man should pay the penalty to the utmost farthing. Respect for law and for the safety of the public demand that cars should have properly adjusted brakes.

If we were to list all the crimes that have come to our notice; remember all the suffering of which we know; record the calamities caused by nature's forces; we should discover that the primary cause was non-conformity to law. We cannot name anything called here for us into obedience. We cannot escape the reign of law as long as this is a regulated and ordered universe.

The greatest of all teachers said: "I am come not to destroy, but to fulfill the law."

If we would fulfill the law, we must find the spirit of the law which seeks to set a sublime design before us and awaken a steadfast determination within us to create that design with the power of purified personality.

Jack: "Great Scott! What was he doing?"

Tom: "Kissing her."

Works Both Ways

"What do you mean by coming in so late?" demanded the angry parent.

A sudden thought came to the boy.

"Oh dad," he said, "I forgot to tell you—I knew you wouldn't mind—I was sitting up with the sick son of the man every one always telling mother you sat up with."

A half truth is like a half brick. You can throw it farther.

There is one thing, it seems, which cannot be modernized. That's human nature.

It seems too bad that so many people can accept advice only on the chin.

And They Don't Have Feathers

A friends remarks that these people who are always tracing their ancestory back to family trees don't seem to realize that there are only two forms of life which live in trees—birds and monkeys.

Government by the people, says Bill, is one in which the people who take no active part in public affairs, criticise those who do.

Definition

"My father certainly was a suggestful man. He made his mark."

"He did, boy. Well mine couldn't write either."

Cop: "Who do you think you are?"

Just A Hint

Father: "I hope you realize young man, that in marrying my daughter you are getting a very big-hearted and generous girl."

Young Man: "Oh, yes sir, and I have always believed that she got those fine qualities from you."

Henry says that the best way to get at the top is to dig in at the bottom of things.

"Give till it hurts" might be a good slogan if some people weren't so sensitive to pain, is the opinion of Bill.

A Friendly Tip

"If you were me, would you accept Jack?"

"If I were you, dear, I'd accept any one."

Knows Her Navy

She: "You're the nicest boy that I have ever met."

He: "Tell it to the Marines."

She: "I have—to dozens of them."

It is reported that a certain Dad wrote to his son who is in college as follows: "I am sending you $10 in addition to your regular allowance, but I am sure you will begin with all of your education, you have not learned that '10' is written with one nought and not two."

To or From

An explorer recently reported discovering a tribe of natives in the heart of Africa who beat sticks on the ground when in great anger. "Tribal Drums," Bill on learning of this, "Just imagine golf spreading clear into the African jungle."

It may be a good idea to think before you speak with some people it won't work. They change the subject too quickly.

The hornbill's bony crest or "helmet" is a throwback from some primitive form. He lives in flocks in the jungle, and his flight is noisy, heavy and awkward. Branches of the hornbill family are found in Africa, India and the Malay peninsula. The rhinoceros hornbill is especially rare. Sometimes it is more or even years before he finds a mate.

Branches of Eagle Family

Many branches of the eagle family are scattered all over the world. The Tartars have been known to train eagles powerful enough to subdue antelope, wild goats or even wolves. The largest eagle is the Philippine "monkey eater," which preys on the inhabitants of jungle tree tops.

Caustic sense of direction is a wonderful possess a wonderful sense of direction to any place where once they have watered and fed, and for the first few days after leaving a village or camp, the camels often try to turn back, but once a few days pass they stick close to the caravan, and thereafter seem to need to be roped —instinct tells them that to stray means death.

BALLEST DEFICIT BUT THE HEAVIEST DEBT

Washington. — The Treasury ended out another fiscal year June 30 with the smallest deficit in six years, the biggest debt in history and spending reduced from last year.

President Roosevelt made public at his press conference last Saturday a budget bureau report showing revenues would top his January estimate by $50,000,000 to $2,000,000.

Spending for ordinary government purposes, he said, exceeded the forecast by $75,000,000.

The $75,000,000 figure, Mr. Roosevelt said, included $40,000,000 which the Treasury deposited in the social security old age reserve fund which, he said, had been intended originally to make the deposit in the next fiscal year.

Including emergency and relief outlays in the spending estimate, treasury and budget officials said, expenditures went $137,000,000 over the President's revised estimate on June 26. The computation did not include $103,000,000 sent to pay off the government debt. The $137,000,000 excess over the estimate will increase further when spending is computed through June 30.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated the public debt would stand at about $34,400,000,000 at midnight June 30. This would be the largest sum figure ever recorded but would be $233,000,000 under the all-time peak of June 15.

The President said the debt was intended virtually stationery from last December except for borrowing of the Treasury to meet appropriations and payments into government life insurance, and to meet employment insurance and reserve funds.

Borrowing for gold purchases, he said, has totaled $1,000,000,000. He asserted this borrowing put a corresponding sum of gold back in the Treasury.

Treasury reports through June 26 listed revenues this year at $5,243,178,000, about 23 per cent more than last year.

Income tax receipts, bolstered by the levy on undistributed corporate profits and higher rates on upper bracket dividends, totaled $2,144,795,000, a 50 per cent advance.

RURAL AID BILL

In a letter of explanation of the Rural Aid Bill (Senate Bill No. 185) over the signature of Gen. A. A. Woods, State Superintendent, Section 6 of the above-mentioned bill sets out: That in order for a school district to qualify for any type of aid including high school tuition, it will be necessary for that district to levy and collect a local maintenance tax of 50c on the hundred dollars' property valuation in the district. This will apply to transportation aid as well as high school tuition, and means simply that each child who has to go out of his home district to get the high school, will have to pay his own tuition and furnish his own transportation, if his home district does not have a 50c tax.

If any district should contemplate raising their tax to 50c, the election should be held the very first day possible in order to get the levy on the tax rolls this year.

A. V. Pue, Co. Judge.

MEDINA SCHOOL INTERESTS

The patrons and friends of Medina School will be glad to know that we have received official notice of our increased affiliation, during the school year. Our added units of accreditation since last year are vocational agriculture 1 units, home economics 1½ units, and general mathematics 1 unit. This makes a total of 23 units of work that have been accredited in this school.

In addition to the ordinary academic subjects, we now carry affiliation in three units of vocational agriculture with shop, 1½ units of home economics, and an accreditation in various commercial subjects including junior business training, typing, commercial law, commercial arithmetic and bookkeeping. We certainly feel that the boy or girl who is denied the training offered in these intensely practical fields of education will not have a fair chance to succeed in the world of competition which they must soon enter.

Personally, we wish to thank every man, woman and child for their support of co-operation that made possible the high degree of success that has been achieved for the school during the year.

Wool Warehouse Being Remodeled

Work was begun Tuesday morning at the warehouse of the Bandera Co. Ranchmen & Farmers Association, which will greatly enlarge the building. When finished, the structure will be of rock with concrete floors and will be 80x122 feet with basement 50x80 feet. This work is being done for the benefit of the customers, as it will greatly facilitate the showing of wool and mohair to its best advantage and a modern shed room is included in the improvements.

The old rock building at the back of the warehouse is being razed and the materials will be used to build the new extension. This work is expected to be completed in about two months and will provide employment for a number of men and the greatest expense will be for labor, only a small part going for new materials. Mr. Langford is directing the work. A modern loading platform will be built on the southeast side of the building and will be the handiest loading platform in the State.

The building which is being razed was built about 70 years ago and at one time housed the Geo. Hay saloon. The present warehouse was built about 1874 by H. H. Carmichael and George Hay who combined in business there until 1903. It has been used as the warehouse since 1920.

Mrs. D. B. Hicks Claimed By Death

Funeral services for Mrs. D. B. Hicks, aged 64 years, who died Saturday at 6 p. m., were held Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Tarpley cemetery with Rev. Hargroves, pastor of the Utopia Baptist Church, officiating. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends from Utopia, Bandera, Medina, Onona, Sonora, Port Arthur and other places. A large concourse accompanied her body to the last resting place.

The deceased, Mrs. Ada Cunart, was born in Prescott, Ark., in 1891, and when about 11 years of age moved to Tarpley with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Cozart, who survived. Other survivors are her grief-stricken husband, daughter Ruby Faye, son Leonard, and two sisters.

She was married to D. B. Hicks in 1912. She was a faithful member of the Utopia Baptist Church for many years and truly lived a devout and Christian life. Rev. Hargroves said of her, "She is a mother that America can ill afford to lose."

FARMERS-RANCHERS BUILDING MORE SILOS

Several trench silos are now being built in Bandera county, according to County Agent H. F. Schlemmer. Frank Anderwald, farmer on the Tarpley road, has a trench partially completed and expects to fill it with hegira. Bill Mansfield farmer on the Vanderpool country, was in the agent's office the other day getting some information and instructions. Mr. Mansfield has completed his trench, which is 6 feet deep, 11 feet wide and 130 feet long, and will hold about 150 tons of silage.

Bob Mansfield of Bandera has completed one silo and expects to dig another. Bob's silo was built in 1½ hours with the county tractor and power fresno and total cost of the trench will be around $25, including tractor and labor. It will hold approximately 70 tons of silage.

Corn and hegira are the crops that will be used to fill the silos and the feed will be used to furnish a source of green succulent feed for cows and ewes next winter when the grass is dead. The county agent suggests trench silos for wintering breeding stock and says that there is no better way of insuring a good lamb and calf crop in the spring.

The dances were well attended and every one had a good time. Ted Mayes played for the modern dance and Jack Schmidt for the old time dance.

The flyers missed Howland Island Friday in their flight from New Guinea.

BANDERA FARMERS CONTINUE TO TERRACE

Information from the Bandera county agent's office indicates that farmers around Bandera are continuing to improve their farms by terracing to prevent washing of fields.

Raymond Hicks has just completed terracing a 30-acre field next to the Medina river. These terraces were laid off by Mr. Grimmon, vocational agriculture teacher, and the construction supervised by County Agent H. F. Schlemmer. The terraces were built more than 30 feet wide and approximately 24 inches high, and the ditches were back-sloped to allow harvesting machinery to cross them at any place.

Another farmer to use the terraces on the Hicks place is the construction of terraces all the way into the pasture to assure disposal of water.

Claud Stevens is also busy on the Mickle place building ditches to keep water out of the fields, and building terraces in the fields. The county road machinery is being used there for construction work as it was at the Hicks place.

SOREMOUTH REAPPEARS AT PIPE CREEK

This summer's first outbreak of sheep soremouth was found last week at Pipe Creek, according to H. F. Schlemmer, County Agent. It has been found only on ranches where the disease was not found last year.

All ranchmen should watch their flocks carefully for signs of the disease. If any is found vaccination should be commenced at once. Sheep that have had the disease or which have been vaccinated are immune and need not be vaccinated again. In most places where the disease was prevalent last and animals were vaccinated, only this year's lambs need the vaccination.

The cost of vaccination is less than a penny per head and it would be good insurance to vaccinate all animals that have not had the disease. However, it is not suggested that the vaccine be used on a place where there never has been an outbreak unless some cases show up.

The vaccination is simple and easily performed. The county agent is prepared to assist ranchmen in getting the work started.

Misses Dottie Wilder, Laura Lewis, Martin, Kraehe and Josephine Brymer, Mr. and Mrs. Ingo Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sprague of the wave length assigned to Miss Earhart were reported. The flyers missed Howland Island Friday in their flight from New Guinea.

[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brittch, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Decker and children, Mr. and Mrs. Foerster [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Schmidt [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Brymer Jr. and Catherine Kraehe and Josephine Brymer, Mr. and Mrs. Ingo Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sprague of the wave length assigned to Miss Earhart were reported. The flyers missed Howland Island Friday in their flight from New Guinea.

[illegible] Mrs. Dottie Wilder, Laura Lewis, Martin, Kraehe and Josephine Brymer, Mr. and Mrs. Ingo Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sprague of the wave length assigned to Miss Earhart were reported. The flyers missed Howland Island Friday in their flight from New Guinea.

TAX EVASION

The members of the United States Senate are learning about the clever devices men of great wealth employ to evade their share of the nation's tax burden. But as yet we have heard nothing about two important avenues through which great fortunes escape part or all of their just share of taxes. Perhaps the fact that all office holders in both State and Federal governments are among those favored by existing laws makes this phase a touchy subject. . .

Two important outlets through which incomes escape full taxation are the laws which exempt both State and Federal employees from some income taxes. Federal employees pay no State income taxes. State employees pay no Federal taxes, and some State employees are exempt from both State and Federal taxes. Significant is the fact that some salaries as high as $20,000 are among those so favored.

One other great avenue through which income escapes taxation is tax-free securities. Persons of great wealth who are content with a comparatively small yield on their capital, can evade all forms of income tax through careful investments. It is argued of course, that municipal, State and Federal bonds yield a low rate of interest because of this and the government is thus permitted to hire capital at a small charge. This, it is said, is one form of taxation. If such securities were taxed by the government, would be forced to pay a higher rate of interest and the condition of the treasury would be the same.

This argument sounds good, but in view of the vast accumulation of government securities, the subject bears closer scrutiny to believe that the Senators might give it at least a passing thought.

But we can find no argument of any force to justify the practice of exempting State and Federal employees from income taxes. Why a salary of five or ten thousand dollars though it is derived from the taxpayers should not carry its proportionate share of the tax burden, is one of the eternal mysteries of the present system. It seems to us merely a matter of common justice that the man who enjoys the comfort and security of a fat government job should be willing to pay his share of the cost of maintaining that government.

Perhaps it is a bit indelicate to bring this up now in view of the fact that the tax evasion system is being investigated by men who draw big pay from the Federal treasury. Perhaps this explains, too, why the subject is treated with official silence.

A PUBLIC RESPONSIBILITY

This newspaper is the business in which the writer makes his living. But it is something more than just a private enterprise to be operated entirely according to the whims and fancies of the owner. In a measure it is a public institution, founded and maintained to further the welfare of our community.

To publish the news without bias or prejudice; to present editorial views on local, state and national issues, as we view them; to keep the activities of the wide-awake citizens of Bandera county before all of the people of this territory, and to further in every possible way everything which will serve the spiritual, cultural or financial welfare of our community—this is the goal we keep constantly before us.

The manner in which we handle this job is limited by two things: First the ability of the editor. Second, the support he receives from the citizens of his community. With both of these we can go a long way in realizing the progressive vision he holds to be in the interest of public welfare.

The people vote themselves into debt and then try to growl themselves out.

Dictators are so sure of themselves—imagining their body guards.

History doesn't only repeat but it sometimes seems to improve with age.

"Modern conditions are slowly weakening the old institution of marriage," says Bill Bill. "It's getting sorter scrap," he explains.

"GHOST TOWNS"

"Ghost Towns" is a term applied to spots on the landscape which were once thriving small communities offering great promise for the future. Throughout the length and breadth of the land, there are thousands of such places which we learn about only by digging into musty old records or listening to the reminiscences of old timers.

"This community was once quite a town when I was a very small boy," they say. "There was a grist mill along the river, a saw mill and a small chair factory on operation. But the mill went broke, the chair factory couldn't get supplies and then the place and everything moved over to another town twelve miles north. Now all you can find is the old mill boiler setting overgrown with weeds and brush, and a few houses, only a few of which are occupied."

Back of every story like this, we believe, is a lesson for the leaders of America. Were the residents of those "ghost towns" a fifty or a hundred years ago really on their toes? Were they community minded? Did they possess the vision to analyze changing conditions?

We don't mean to imply that there is the slightest danger that Bandera will become a "ghost town." Our citizens in general are alert and wide-awake to changing conditions, and they are above all community minded. But there is a lesson for us in the history of these communities which once thrived and then disappeared.

Any community made up of progressive citizens with vision and understanding — a community in which confidence is not merely a fine word but a rule of civic conduct never becomes a "ghost town."

Industries may crash, good fortune may apparently pass them by, but where the citizens are on the right spirit, a triumph will follow every reverse and steadily the town will advance and become each year a more pleasant place in which to live and a more progressive center in which to transact business.

HIS POLICY IS SOUND

The modern and enterprising merchant never questions the need and value of advertising. It fits naturally into his plan of operation.

When he receives a new consignment of merchandise he finds it advisable to inform the public of that fact through the columns of his local newspaper. When he prepares for a new season and finds his shelves stocked with goods which will soon be out of date, he knows that good merchandising demands that he move this stock as quickly as possible. He realizes that it never pays to carry it over to another season. To accomplish this end he naturally reduces the price and advertises the fact.

This is why the experienced shopper knows that one can always get better merchandise and better values from the merchant who uses printer's ink and newspaper space.

THE MINISTRY OF SILENCE

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

There would be no great art, or music, or literature without "the silences." In hours of quiet retirement among the world's greatest inspirations, Robert Browning wrote a fine verse, saying: "Sung by the splendor of a sudden thought," — by the mood which arouse the "sudden thought" finds its creative power in solitude. So there can be no truly great character without the ministry of silence. Hours of detachment from ordinary duties, hours in the closet of prayer, are the source of power are essential to a well developed personality. In silence, resolutions are formed and noble conquests effected. In silence we become better acquainted with ourselves. "Silence is the acetate bliss of souls, that by intelligence answereth." Silence links us with the infinite.

The reactions of silence which may vary in different persons, depend upon individual interpretation. If great silences bring us nothing but loneliness and despair, if no hopeful and encouraging voice speaks to us from the vast solitude of space, if our introspection makes us more rebellious and leaves us in a state of chaos, then it did a man of old who after seven days of silence, cursed the day in which he was born, then cursed the night and died in our interpretation of the ministry of silence. If we have allowed fear to dominate our emotions and will, then our thoughts have been centered upon ourselves as victims and not as victors.

We have failed to hear the music of the spheres because we were intent in listening to the jazz and jargon of our sensuous existence.

If in silence we encounter no new and helpful ideas, no inspirations, no higher impulses, no urge for nobler actions, then silence has been a curse and not a blessing.

When the great silences are interpreted by love and not by fear, when they lead us to think less of ourselves and more of others, when they create within us the desire to rise on stepping stones to higher things, then they become a source of great benefit. Many a man has solved his difficult economic or personal problem by getting away from it. The beauty of an oil painting depends upon the contrasting effect but also upon the distance that intervenes between the painting and the observer. Too close to it, We cannot get away from the things that commune us unless we try to mold them into new and better patterns. The old dies; the new must be born in ideas as well as in physical being. New solutions come as we evaluate the relation of our problems to others as well as to ourselves. John Morley said of Gladstone: "He lived from a great depth of being." We live in a noisy world. Great depths of being are to be found only in those silences to which, through the infinite stillness, the mystery of existence speaks to us. Great depths of being come when the perpetual voices of the world and our own puny voices alike have been hushed in the silent harmony of being that enables us to "hear the whispering of the gods."

IN MEMORY OF IRENE HABY SCHOTT

A call from on high
Was sounded that day
And some angels came by
To escort Irene away.

Our Maker has called her
Called her away.
But we must remember,
We'll again see her on Judgment Day.

We'll see her once more,
When we too, shall be called.
By Him whom we adore.
And wish to meet without fault.

A dearer person than Irene
Was never known.
That accounts for God wanting
Her again for His Very Own.

Her life on this earth was far too short,
And having her leave them
Almost broke her loved ones heart.

Oh, it is so hard!
To have to lone one so dear!
But we know that our Lord
With her is forever near.

I, too, loved her!
As a friend dear and true
She was as sweet a person
As I ever knew.

Sweet and charming.
And a smile on her face,
That was always there
When you'd meet her some place.

Oh, dear loved ones of here!
Try not to grieve,
But remember her in your prayers,
Which God will receive.

June 8, 1937. A FRIEND.

MRS. ROOSEVELT LIKES FAIR "SAMPLE"

NEW YORK (Special).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, like more than 200,000 other persons from all over the world, has already sampled the New York World's Fair of 1939 by visiting the exhibits of the Fair Corporation on the 12th Avenue floor of the Empire State building.

"I am much interested in this Fair," said Mrs. Roosevelt, after she had seen the ingeniously illuminated models and sanitary displays that promise so many wonders for the "Nation's Fair." "It seems to me that there is opportunity here to do a remarkable piece of work from the educational standpoint. The conception of the Gods Fair as outlined to me sounds very provocative of thought." The theme of the Fair is "Building the World of Tomorrow."

SCHOOLS TO GET $21 PER CAPITA

Austin, Texas, July 6.—The Board of Education today fixed the highest State school aid per capita apportionment in Texas history at its meeting.

Ghent Sanderford, chairman of the board, said today the available school fund was in such good shape that a strong possibility existated the apportionment for the next school year would be this per scholastic. That for this year was $19.

Lyndon B. Calvert, statistician in the Comptroller's Department, stated the school fund unquestionably would be sufficient at the end of next month. He said it had benefited greatly from higher oil prices and sustained heavy production.

TOWNSENDITES LOSE STRENGTH

Washington, July 8.—Collapse of the Townsend old age pension movement in congress was admitted by its leaders.

They drive to get through legislation to give every person 65 years of age or over $200 per month has been dropped, it was stated.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who left millions of followers and a stream of donated dollars, threw a scare into both major political parties a year ago, but has faded from the capitol hill spotlight.

The Townsend Weekly, formerly a lusty 12 to 14-page publication circulating to every city and town in the land, came out with but four pages.

An editorial declared:

"The necessity of issuing this small edition of the Townsend National Weekly, regretted and sincerely by national headquarters as we must it will be put off many readers, but we are thankful that apparently the necessity is only temporary."

DOVE HUNTERS ARE HAPPY AS FEDERAL REGULATIONS CHANGE

Dove hunters this year for twenty all Texas counties was assured last week with the announcement by state authorities that Federal migratory game regulations had been partially coordinated.

Previously the regulations were so hopelessly in conflict that all dove hunting was threatened.

A new Federal rule, coordinated with State laws on the same subject, divides the United States zones with these seasons:

For the area including and north and west of the 20 counties embracing Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, King, Cottle and Childress, September 1 to October 31.

The Southern part is that portion south of the Texas-Mexican Railway from Corpus Christi to Laredo.

Under this setup there is a tier of approximately 20 counties in the upper portion of the south zone which will have no open season.

The bag limit under Federal regulations is 15 doves in a day. Shooting hours, Federal regulations to make these seasons possible were recommended by the Bureau of Biological Survey to the Department of Agriculture, which usually follows the recommendations of the bureau. The failure of the Texas laws to conform to the prior Federal regulations.

4,183 PENSIONERS DROPPED FROM JULY ROLLS

W. A. Nicholson, field Scout executive, will be here and endeavor to bring competent judges from San Antonio, if local and district judges cannot be had.

Many boys have been drowned because they were unable to swim and by being a Boy Scout they are taught swimming, life saving and resuscitation as a part of their practical things. The Boy Scout motto is "Be Prepared" and visitors here will be invited to attend and it is hoped that the people of Bandera will take this opportunity of seeing their boys scouts compete in the event. Bandera has almost consistently won the banner attendance award and we hope to prove our interest in our Scouts by attending this Camp-o-ral.

GAME COMMISSION HIT FOR "INACTIVITY"

Flatly declaring that the Game, Fish & Oyster Commission has been inactive and that progress under its system during the ten years of its existence, J. Frank Norvell, president of the Game and Fish Protective Association of Texas Inc., last week filed complaints against the State Commission and demanded a New Deal for sportsmen.

Norvell charged that Texas paid millions of dollars into the Game, Fish & Oyster Commission in the form of license fees, but that of this, our wildlife is rapidly disappearing from our forests, streams and lakes, he asserted.

"Our lakes and streams are full of natural enemies to fish, and our forest and fields are filled [illegible] destructive animals, but no effort so far as I know has been used to exterminate enemies of game and game birds and very few dollars have been spent in extermination of enemies to fish," Elder charged.

Norvell declared that organization favors adoption of the following New Deal for Sportsmen:

(1) Abolition of the present system of each dollar collected by the Commission for (1) extermination of vermin, predatory animals and fish; (2) purchase of leasing or publishing grounds; (3) public shooting grounds; (4) purchase and distribution of game; (5) education program, and (5) maintenance of fish hatcheries.

OFF TO THE JUNGLE

Pictured aboard the S. S. Normandie just before she sailed on the first leg of her journey to Africa, is Mrs. Ora Johnson, widow of Martin Johnson, big game hunter and explorer. With so many kidnapings and ax murders making headlines, Mrs. Johnson believes that the jungle is much safer place than a civilized city. She will make films of the scene of the famous Stanley-Livingstone meeting.

COKE STEVENSON FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Coke Stevenson of Junction, present representative in the State Legislature, will be a candidate for lieutenant governor next year.

That is the newest whisper to rise above the buzzing of the political bees and the flow of rumors that center over Austin.

Stevenson, the only man in Texas to be elected Speaker of the House two terms, for some time has been known to be considering the plea by his many friends that he seek the post now held by Walter Woodul of Houston. Friends of Stevenson who believes in due deliberation in all matters, hasn't said "yes" and he hasn't said "no".

While Stevenson was attending the State Bar Association meeting in San Antonio last week one of his closest personal friends said the Junction man's big somebrero was in the ring for lieutenant governor; that proper announcement would be forthcoming at the right time and place. Two of his friends, his law partner, Representative Fred Knetsch of Seguin, and Representative Ernest Morse of Houston, predicted at the San Antonio meeting that Stevenson will have an easy victory.

Coke Stevenson, through his fairness and geniality in presiding over the House, has won a great many friends all over the State. He has powerful backing in some of the heavy building centers. When and if, he says definitely he is a candidate for lieutenant governor, the popular Hill country leader will show any kind of opposition plenty of support.

Current talk in the corridors around Austin has it that Governor Allred is feeling the political pulse with regard to a third term movement. Attorney General Will McCraw and Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo are figured as certain candidates in the governor's race.

Lieutenant Governor Woodul is said to be primed for a whirl at the governorship. Senator Senator Franklin Spears of the 26th District, which includes Kerr County, is being frequently mentioned as another aspirant to this "stepping stone" job.

It won't be long now until the campaign will be under way along all fronts. Poor old governor Allred and the Public will be back for pretty phrases, promises and pledges—Kerrville Times.

STATE PARK ENGINEER TO SURVEY MEDINA PLAN

Efforts of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to secure a Medina Lake area into a State park will be further-rewarded in survey by the interested engineer if the State Park Board and a regional member of the National Park Service, accompanied by the near future, Gibbs MacDaniel, chairman of the Medina Lake Committee, announced Thursday.

The statement followed a preliminary survey of the lake by W. J. Lawson, executive secretary of the park board, MacDaniel and Fred C. Felty, State representative.

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce has done a fine job in its efforts for along time," MacDaniel explained. "We also are trying to get a State Park located in the area at the present time the area is reached only by toll roads."

Lawson returned to Austin after the preliminary shrvey with the statement that he would bring a regional national park representative within the next few weeks.

OBITUARY OF FABIAN HICKS

On July 7th, 1937, one of God's loved children was called to be home many in the Father's house above. Fabian Hicks was born 78 years ago near Bandera, Texas, on Nov. 2, 1884. He was married to Miss Mary Lucinda Barrow. To this union six children are left to mourn, his departure, Delos Junius, Mary, Emma, Elna and Adam Fabian Hicks. Hicks was converted and joined the Medina Baptist Church in 1884. In 1890 he joined the Methodist Church on the Seco near Utopia, and has resided there ever since. We laid his body to rest in the family cemetery near the ranch home. Services were led by the writer, assisted by Rev. Bert Ferguson of Uvalde, and Rev. Scott of Utopia. Many of his friend and relatives were present to attend the service.

A good man is rather to be [illegible] than one, for all who knew him loved and believed in him. He was a friend to many.

May the God of all comfort comfort and bless the bereaved wife and children, together with the brothers and sisters.

We will truly miss our dear friend of many years, but soon

UP TO YOU

"Why doesn't our Chamber of Commerce do something?" Why? What's the matter with the outfit?"

Such questions like these are put to us, and who in the community doesn't hear them at frequent intervals, we are always disposed to answer: "Why don't you?"

Those who so frequently criticise all organized effort to promote the community are usually the last ones to roll up their sleeves when there's a job to be done. They expended their energy in destructive criticism. They rarely feel that the local organization consists of all the citizens of the community, and its effectiveness is always in direct proportion to the co-operation and assistance extended.

Why eternally wait for somebody else to do the job or start the movement which you yourself demands attention. Undertake the task yourself and see what happens. A little more readiness to help and less disposition to find fault will make our community a much more interesting place in which to live.

WHERE THEY LIVE HAPPIER LIVES

Often in recent years our interest has been directed to some article by a writer, an artist or a scientist who has resented the noise, filth and confusion of a great city to the peace and comfort of the country.

They talk enthusiastically about the beauty of rural landscape, about the pleasure in remodeling an old home, about the fun there is in gardening, and the pleasure they derive through association with their neighbors.

These few people have discovered something new in the customed for years to the noise, rush and excitement of a great city they have come upon a rural environment with the enthusiasm of an explorer who has found Arcadia. They cannot resist the impulse to tell others about the pleasure it has brought in happy, contented, stimulating living.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that many of our ordinary human beings cannot appreciate the advantages we have. Here in Bandera life offers all the richness and pleasure that these artist and authors tell about with great enthusiasm. Yet how many people there are in our community who long for an opportunity to move to the big city.

If we could only come to realize that we get more comfort and more pleasure out of life here in Bandera than we possibly could in one of the great cities, there might be more of a general disposition to help make our town even better than it is.

VIOLENCE IS A BOOMERANG

Law is the protector of the worker as well as the employer. Anyone who encourages or countenances the breakdown of law and order is not serving his following regardless of whether it is made up of big time capitalists or common laborers.

For example we can cite recent developments in a strike situation in Northern Michigan, where timberworkers have gone on strike and have made rather extensive use of stones, tomahawks and clubs in an effort to win their argument.

Recently the citizens of three communities formed a band of vigilantes. After one of these southrenks between strikers and nonstrikers, the "vigilantes" decided on direct action. They proceeded to union headquarters and made a wreck of the building. They took some of the occupants out and administered a vigorous beating, and then instructed them to pack their effects and leave town. The movement spread. Out of the uproar three hundred lives in three communities were almost completely wrecked. Cars of strikers were damaged beyond repair. Some strikers were severely injured. And any chance of winning a victory became remote as a result.

Americans are people of strong feelings. We never yet saw any overwhelming majority line up on one side in controversy of this sort unless the issues at stake were of great importance. Usually they are concerned with self-preservation. Always neither one right nor left but with furious and violent purpose hurries to complete its destruction.

Our observation has never solved any problem or won any victory for any class.

Leaders of labor today should do everything within their power to assert violence for the good of their own cause as well as to serve the general welfare. Action produces reaction, and the pendulum of public opinion sways from one extreme to another.

Obituary of Mrs. D. B. Hicks

by Rev. Ira Hargrove Utopia Baptist Pastor.

Saturday, July 3, 1937 at 6:00 p. m. Mrs. Mary D. B. Hicks to her eternal home and heavenly reward. Mrs. Hick's going is an inestimable loss in influence, inspiration and service to the Utopia Baptist Church and community. Her devotion to her family and her consecrated, unselfish and untiring service in the Utopia Baptist Church remain a living monument to her noble life and unassuming disposition; and a challenge to the women of this community who knew her.

Mrs. Hicks is survived by her husband, Mr. D. B. Hicks and son, Leonard, one daughter, Ruby Faye, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Court of Tarpley, Texas; two sisters, one in Merced, California, and the other residing in Burnett, Texas.

Mrs. Hicks was born in Prescott, Arkansas, March 4, 1891. In 1896 the family moved to Karnes County, Texas, and in 1900 to Tarpley, Texas. She was married to Mr. D. B. Hicks of Utopia, November 24, 1912.

Mrs. Hicks is a deacon of the Utopia Baptist Church and also Sunday School Superintendent, Leonard is in R. T. U. Secretary, Ruby Faye is B. T. U. group leader and church pianist. Although living twelve miles north of church Mrs. Hicks let nothing come between her and her W. M. S. work. Her attendance record, until the recent illness was perfect. She never declined a task that was assigned her. Her absence will be felt very keenly in this work. But we know that our loss is God's gain.

Promethea Silk Moth

The life story of the Promethea silk moth is one of fundamentals, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Its life is short, but it is full but with furious and violent purpose hurries to complete its destruction.

The Progress of Personality

By
LEONARD A. BARRETT

ganic life. In other words, plants and animals grow to their best advantage in the absence of obstructions. "A pebble in a scanty brook may change the course of many a tiny thread to a dwindler in a tiny plant may dwarf a giant forever." Storms annually lay low a large acreage of wheat and other grains. They likewise "tear down trees and destroy the produce of the soil. The absence of rain may play havoc with beautiful gardens. An untimely fall rain many a harvest. The intense heat of the sun, beyond the power of the plant to assimilate, is a power of destruction. Parasites are the enemy of an orchard and knows that it is necessary to spray his trees. We must destroy the enemies of organic life. We must kill the parasites if we would have a beautiful garden. Thus, in the organic world, the law seems to be that calamities check development and opposing forces destroy even unto death.

The human race is also dependent upon affinities from without. Like similates elements essential for growth. But the development of one person-ality, the law works the other way. Opposing forces weaken and perhaps destroy the plant; but they are a valuable and constructive contribution to the development of personality. There is no other way to release the deep reservoirs of spiritual and mental strength than by contact with competition, opposition, and even oppression. The enduring growth of personality depends upon the degree in which each person stirs up and uses the reserve power that rightly belongs to divine life, as oxygen belongs to pure air. With conscious reserve power, no calamity can break down poise, nor destroy human purpose. The progress of personality depends upon an external weapon of resistance but upon internal reason. Contrast the life of one who has never suffered with that of one who has drunk deeply from its cup. The truth is evident: fighting the good by overcoming opposing forces has given strength to both character and soul. "Nothing grows, unless it has a soul to struggle against which does not change." The central core of personality is its identity with the spiritual ves of human life.

By use of reason, man has found the laws of the cosmic world and has used them in building up the civilization of a great scientific age. By concentration of that same reason upon the laws of personality, man will discover the richer wealth of human achievement than hitherto known.

As man enters into the quest of his own spirit and establishes his relationship to the spiritual laws, as shall come the progress of personality. So shall come the meaning and the merit of human life.

INJUNCTIONS DENIED AGAINST INTERFERENCE WITH BEER SALES

District Judge R. K. Woodley in a hearing Tuesday, dismissed temporary restraining orders and denied injunctions to Robert Pilcher and T. S. Harrold against the Texas Liquor Control Board, G. H. Johnson, investigator for the Texas Liquor Control Board and Sheriff W. H. Smyth.

Pilcher and Harrold charged granted temporary restraining orders on June 26 against the liquor control board, its agents and Sheriff Smyth to prevent them from interfering with the Sunday sale of beer.

Judge Woodley, at Tuesday's hearing, dismissed the action as to the Texas Liquor Control Board, and with reference to the officers named, in his official order dismissed the suit, it being of the opinion that the allegations with reference to the activities of the officers named amount to no more than threatened filing of complaints, and are otherwise not sustained by the evidence;

"And the court further being of the opinion that it is without jurisdiction to pass upon the questions involved and to decide whether or not the plaintiffers involved are violations of the criminal statutes in this suit;

"It is therefore considered, adjudged and decreed by the court that the temporary restraining order heretofore issued be, and the same is hereby dissolved, and that the application for injunction be and is hereby denied.—(Uvalde Leader-News.

MY FISHING EXPERIENCE

Well I'll tell you my experience,
For I'm sure you'd like. to
Said I to wife, "I'll go a fishing,"
And she says, "Sure you can go".

So she took me to the river,
Where she left me all alone,
Saying you can fish till sundown,
But you'll have to walk back home.

Then I fished with all my courage,
But the scoundrels would not bite,
And I knew I'd have to hurry,
If I caught a mess by night;
So I sought the best of places,
Caught a small one now and then.

Soon I found myself exhausted,
Brought my fishing to an end.

Then I started back to supper,
With an appetite to sate,
But my fish were all so little,
Felt like eating up my bait;

On the river met a lady,
Who had fished with all her might,
Catching nothing for her labor,
To give her mine I thought was right.

Sure her buck was bad for fishing,
But I had worse luck than that,
Ripped my pants from start to finish,

In the river dropped my hat;
I went backward from the lady,
Till I felt a snake bite,
For my pants were badly gapping,

Guess my face was red as fire.

"A few million's day will keep the opposition away" is the slogan of the average congressman.

We believe in making preparations for a rainy day, but we don't believe in enjoying today's sunshine.

If people could have everything they desired, they would soon get restless for something to want.

Cathay was the name for China which Marco Polo brought back with him from his travels in the Orient. The only language in which it survives as the customary name for China is the Russian, where it has the form Khitai.

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commandant of the Second corps area, pins the Distinguished Flying Cross—the most coveted medal in American military aviation—on the tunic of Lieut. Richard Aldworth, U. S. A. Infantry, superintendent of Newark airport, at Mitchel field, where also a formal ground and air review was held, to honor the flier who was awarded to Lieutenant Aldworth by President Roosevelt for his heroic action of more than ten years ago when he deliberately crashed his disabled pursuit plane in the breakers of Rockaway beach, narrowly escaping death, rather than imperil a group of children on the sandy shore, where he might have landed safely.

WORTH PROTECTING

Frequent occasions occur in the life of every citizen to justify when the value of good credit standing is fully appreciated. When an opportunity comes your way and you can avail yourself of it only if you can secure the necessary loan, when an emergency arises and you need credit to tide you over, when the good will and confidence that comes from paying bills promptly can be turned to a priceless asset; then you appreciate what it is worth to have people say: "You can depend on him. He always pays his bills."

Opportunity in life knocks many times for the man in whom others have confidence. Failure knocks even once for the individual who is careless about credit.

For this reason we urge our readers and subscribers to consider carefully their credit standing here in Bandera. You cannot know just when you can convert a good reputation into something of material value.

A PRACTICAL TIP

When you need a dollar here at home, you secure your money's worth in good merchandise and you still have a chance to get that dollar back. Somebody may return it to you in exchange for goods you sell, work you do, or service you perform.

When you spend a dollar out of town, you may get less per dollar's worth of merchandise, but you have no chance to get that dollar back in return for your merchandise or service you have for sale.

IT'S REALLY FUN

"Oh, you can expect that from him. He gets a lot of fun out of finding fault and kicking. His greatest pleasure lies in refusing to co-operate with others."

We've heard people make such remarks when referring to some cantankerous individual, who finds that the entire community is out of step but him. But we cannot agree. We do not believe anybody derives pleasure, even kicking and complaining. We believe kind ourselves on a few occasions playing that part of the kicker, too, and we can never say that we were particularly happy at the time we were finding fault with the honest and sincere efforts of others.

We've found it much more fun to work in harmony with others, to co-operate with our fellow citizens for the promotion of community affairs, and to offer a pleasant word of praise for what somebody else is endeavoring to accomplish.

If your disposition makes it just a bit difficult for you to work with others, just change your attitude and give the new point of view a trial. You will soon discover that it is fun to do your part in the upbuilding of our fine community.

MACHINES CREATE EMPLOYMENT

When you watch the course of operations in a modern industry, it's easy to come to the false conclusion that machines cause unemployment. As you watch a machine do the work of a dozen or more men, and do it quickly and efficiently, you conclude that the problem of unemployment will continue to vex our nation.

But just a moment, are machines the cause of all our trouble? There are two sides to that question, and one cannot discuss it intelligently without some familiarity with all phases.

An automobile, which now rates $600, would cost at least $15,000, maybe more, if a mechanic who knows what he is talking about. Who then could buy automobiles if they were priced at such a figure? Only the few, and only the very wealthy. And yet, if there would be few cars and few men employed in their manufacture, not to mention the many employed in the garages.

If built by hand labor, a typewriter would cost about $1000. Who then could afford to use typewriters? Most of us would be writing as our grandfathers wrote, and few men would have time to write. Correspondence would be seriously restricted.

The rapid development of machines has made it possible for us to enjoy many luxuries and conveniences that we could not otherwise afford. Machines have created employment, not destroyed it.

"A girl with a good club head can easily beat an opponent who has no heart."

BUILDING TESTS WALLS FOR FAIR

NEW YORK (Special)—Although the opening date of the New York World's Fair is still almost two years away, the Fair site already has one building that mystifies all persons who pass that way and how it is of great interest to the contractors and builders of the whole country. The big sign says it is the "test building."

The building can be made to do a lot of things but of a late dance step. It can be made to twist, heave, buckle and, or otherwise contort, all at the will of the Fair's engineers. It has a saved-off tower arrangement on one end. Some sections of its walls are standing under the sun and are, obviously, constructed with bits of broken glass, its four walls, in fact, comprise 43 different set-ups of material, supports and surface coatings. When it is finally done it will be made to collapse by the turn of a screw.

The unique building is typical of nothing other than itself, say Fair officials, since it is just a set of walls, designed to try out the merits of various types of wall coating and stress treatments.

The durability, appearance and structural peculiarities of walls are of great importance to the Fair, since its 300 buildings will require around 15,000,000 square feet of such enclosures.

The interior of this "wall laboratory" is given over to the Corporation Architectural Engineers and their experimentation with new lighting devices.

PACIFIC FIR GOES TO NEW YORK FAIR

This was learned when the Fair Corporation offices in the Empire building announced the purchase of more than $150,000 worth of fir pilings from the National Pole Treating Company. Their particular lot of fir sticks will be driven into the ash fill of the 1216½-acre exposition site to guarantee the support of the two mighty towers erected on the waters of fountains, and the Trylon, a 700-foot triangular needle or beacon and broadcasting tower.

Shipping of the 1200 sticks, 95 to 99 feet in length, are taking place this month, after creosote treatment has been accorded them either at the National Pole and Treating Company's plant at Hilyard, Washington, or at the Minneapolis yards.

This is the Fair's second purchase of fir from Northwest sources. An order for 70-770 stick of similar length was filled early this year from Oregon cuttings. This earlier shipment of timber supports the Fair's new $900,000 Administration Building already erected on the grounds.

SOUTHERN PINE GOES TO NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK (Special)—Southern yellow pine from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and from points in Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina is already going into foundations in the great exhibit area of the New York World's Fair of 1939.

Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, has just announced the purchase of 420 sticks of pine pilings in lengths up to 80 feet from Nichols Brothers, of 90 West Street, Manhattan, and Norfolk, Virginia. Shipments of this lot are originating at Frankford, Delaware, Preston, Maryland, and Melfa and Cheriton, Virginia. An order for piling of similar size is being filled at points in North Carolina.

The new sticks are being driven into the sub-meadow fill of the 1216½-acre exposition site where they will serve as part of the foundations for bridge abutments near the Theme Centre and amusement areas of the Fair.

JOHN S. CADDEL FUNERAL HELD AT CON CAN

John S. Caddel, 89, pioneer resident of the Frio Canyon, died in the M. & D. Hospital in San Antonio on Monday of this week, after a brief illness. Funeral services were conducted at Con Can Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Hillman of Leakey officiating.

Mr. Caddel was said to be the oldest living native of that section. He came to the Frio canyon in Tarpley, Texas, about 1905, and settled with his family at once. At that time has resided in this section. He has made numerous trips around the world during that time and was active until recent years as a stock farmer.

Mr. Caddel was the father of seventeen children; five by his first wife and 12 by his second wife. His second wife survives. One child preceded him to the grave.

Mr. Caddel was prominently known in Sabinal as well as throughout the section, having been promingal as a rancher in the Frio Canyon for many years. His many friends in Sabinal extend sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family. — Sabinal Sentinel.

Johnny: "Split if you don't oil 'em."

Wanted—Man with family to milk."

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McKee went to Sabinal Friday.

BURKETT MAY RUN—

old and practicing law, in 1934 he got into the justice of the peace race and upset one of the most popular officeholders in Kerr county. Running on his record in 1936, he swamped two opponents. Now he is casting about for a promotion.

Burkett has made the most of his opportunities in his somewhat meagre position. He has been active in civic affairs and now is president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, as well as a leader in the county's younger group outside this organization.

There is a well defined movement on foot for all Kerr county office seekers next year to depart from a long established custom and enter the Democratic primaries. Leaders in this plan point out that Kerr county has been voting cast at Austin and elsewhere by turning out a handful of voter for State and district candidates and then rolling up around 3,000 votes in the fall general elections when county contests were decided. The full strength primary vote in Kerr would cut plenty of ice in the State Democratic primary.

Contingent upon Coke Stevenson seeking a promotion, there is the several candidates in the race for Representative. He is Herman Toepperwein, county attorney of Kerr and county. Toepperwein made his intention known following the Independence Day initiation of Representative Stevenson that he would be a candidate for lieutenant governor next year.

Toepperwein is a graduate of Texas A. & M. College and has attended Columbia University and the University of Texas Law School. He is a native of Menard and is an active civic worker there.

Another probable candidate being prominently mentioned is Claude Gilmer of Rocksprings, county attorney of Edwards county, who has a large following in the west half of the district and extra good connections elsewhere.

It would not be surprising to see as many as a half dozen candidates in the field after Stevenson makes final announcement of his expected decision to step out.

A Kerr county candidate with the right kind of popular appeal might be able to make it into the run-off.

Anything can happen and probably will. At any rate, there's lots of fun ahead for folks who get a kick out of politics - and Thursday is a return trip down Balt Creek for some of the boys' —Kerrville Times.

You, too, will switch to Grand Prize once you try it. You, like others, will say it has a smoother, mellower flavor, a creamier head, a delicious zest all its own. NEW YORK (Special).—The State of New York, it is disclosed in architectural drawings made public, will be represented officially at the New York World's Fair of 1939 by a $1,600,000 stadium-marine amphitheatre and exhibit building of many distinctive features largely designed for the presentation of master stage spectacles and compelling exhibits by state departments and 62 counties.

The accompanying photograph shows how a total of 185,000 spectators can be accommodated in structed view of an island stage of magnificent proportions set 100 feet off-shore in an approximately lagoon said to be screened, between sky and water, by sheets of water blown by compressed air from the lake and made doubly effective by the projection upon these of light and color. Above and behind the tier of seats shown is a broad promenade 100 feet long which will afford a view of the entire exposition and the 280 acres of lake-shore amusement zone.

The interior shows the exhibit-pavilion facade and the forward position of the grand reception hall above which will be a circular auditorium seating 3,000 persons. Under the hall are two floor levels, 70,000 square feet of space is provided for New York State exhibits.

The New York Legislature this spring appropriated $2,200,000 for official participation in the $125,000,000 exposition. Enactment provides for the building, for a $250,000 exhibit and for $350,000 maintenance and operation. Contracts for construction of the dual-purpose structure, a permanent addition to the site, will be let soon in public bidding by prequalified bidders.

Very fine seeds do not need to be covered with soil. When sowing place in a flat of light soil, put some lin over fat and cover muslin with half-inch of sand. Soak thoroughly with water and keep sand moist until seeds germinate.

Special Display Coops Available

For Exhibitors at Bandera Fair

Arrangements have been made in San Antonio for the use of special wire coops for displaying poultry at the Bandera County Fair, according to H. F. Schlenker, County Agent.

Any exhibitor to be used is that formerly used at the poultry show in Bexar county. A charge of ten cents per coop will probably be made, to cover costs of rental of the equipment.

Coops are made of heavy wire and are made especially for display purposes. They are collapsible and when carried have a sliding door on one side for use in removing the birds.

Exhibitors need not make and bring their own coops as they have heretofore.

TELLS FISH STORY

W. H. Muir tells a fish story which is hard to believe, but coming from him, no one will doubt it.

Muir, so the story goes, was fishing from a boat and ran out of bait. He saw a grasshopper sailing low over the water and started to grab for it but a bird beat him to it. A bass, lurking behind a lily pad, also had its eye on the grasshopper and, based on the theory that all's fair in love and bird reached the spot just at the same time and the bass grabbed the bird, which had just grabbed the grasshopper. Muir grabbed the bass and pulled it into the boat. Everything in everybody was satisfied.

"What's the use to fool with bait when you can catch bass out of the air?" Muir asked.—Uvalde Leader News.

THREE HELD AS DEVINE FARMER IS FOUND DEAD

Devine, July 23.—The father and two sons were being held in the Medina County jail Friday, one of them charged with murder, in connection with the slaying of W. H. Rash, 73-year-old farmer, whose body was found near a barn on the farm where he lived alone near Devine.

Pete Chabaria, 28 was charged with murder in a justice court hearing, and Sheriff Ben Carter of Schuehle had recovered a shotgun identified as Rash's and a quantity of shells, alleged to have been stolen from Rash's small farm house Wednesday night.

Neighbors found the body of Rash, clad in a nightshirt and bloodsoaked. The body was near the corner of a barn about 20 feet from the lonely farm house. A charge of buck shot from a shotgun had torn through the back of his head. A shotgun shell was found near the body and others were scattered about the body.

From the farm house officers followed the tracks of a man a short distance down the road. Here trails of the man and a touring car standing by the roadside with a blow-out fire. Picking up a shotgun shell here, the officers were led to a small shack well-hidden in a mesquite thicket.

It was here Pete Chabaria, his 36-year-old brother and his father, who is 65, were arrested. A shotgun was found in the house and, according to Sheriff Schuehle, was identified by the owner owner as a gun sold recently to Rash.

Two radios, clothing and other household articles identified as having belonged to Rash were confirmed by the Medina County officers Friday.

Rash was attracted by a noise near his barn sometime Wednesday night, took an unloaded shotgun, a handful of cartridges and went to investigate. He engaged in an encounter with another man who wrestled the gun from him and was shot as he fled back to the house. This was the reconstruction of the killing made by Sheriff Schuehle.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hainey of Austin spent a few days, beginning the week at the Lake, returned home Monday.

Medina Barbecue-Rodeo Saturday

The annual Barbecue and Rodeo to be held at Medina City Saturday, July 31, promises to be one of the largest in this section of the country.

In the string of broncs there is an especially bad one that all the cowboys have nightmares about. Besides cash prizes, there will be awards of bits, clothes, spur leathers and others. Some good rope-rers will be there to give the local boys a fight for competition.

A wide selection of amusements will be available, such as ball games, riding, roping, clowning, wild cow milking and dancing.

Several goat breeders will have goats on exhibit, from Rocksprings, Tarpley and locally.

MUSEUM WILL CHARGE ADMISSION

Beginning next Sunday, August 1, Pronghorn Museum will go on a commercial basis and make an admission charge of ten cents for all persons over seven years of age. School children, in groups of ten or more, when accompanied by their teacher or teachers, will be charged $1.00 for the entire group.

A good for as many visits as you wish to make in a year, will be sold for $1.00. Complimentary passes will be issued to everyone who has in any way contributed to the building or to the Frontier Times Museum. If you have donated a valuable relic to the museum, or helped in any way in the building fund by purchasing a copy of the book I printed for the purpose of assisting financially the building and your name appears upon the tablet in the building, you are entitled to a permanent complimentary pass, and it will be issued to you upon application.

The increased expense of upkeep makes it necessary that the museum become self-supporting. Now days people don't have the freely given my entire time to this work. It has confined me closely to the building so much so that I have neg been able to do many of the things that I have wanted to do. Under the new arrangement I hope to carry out certain plans that I have, and which will make it a much bigger and better museum. To this end I ask the co-operation and good will of every citizen of the county. It is not necessary for me to call your attention to the material benefits to Bandera that will be derived from the Museum. I would urge that every citizen purchase an annual pass for one dollar and thus help the good work to continue. This pass will entitle you to visit the museum as often as you wish for one year.

TRAXLER'S CAPTIVES JOIN TO GIVE HIM DEATH

Hugo, Okla., July 23.—Two courageous hostages who halted with the outlaws' own firearms the criminal career of Floyd Traxler and his fugitive pal, Fred Tindol, joined prosecutors Tuesday in a brief effort to send the wounded Traxler to the electric chair.

Sam Colby and Ben Carter, Madill and Bryan county attorneys, both of whom charged Traxler with murder, during a capital offense, said the hostages agreed to aid in prosecution of Traxler's case.

"We will ask the death penalty for Traxler, regardless of which county he is tried in first," Colby said. "We have agreed to try him in the first of two counties to be tried in the district court."

The charges allege Traxler took at pistol point the two motorists, Jesse Bond, Choctaw oilfield worker, and Frank Trimmer, farmer, the hostages who were forced to aid in the outlaws' guns, "killed Tindol and wounded Traxler."

"Sure I'll testify against him," said Trimmer at Madill. "I'll help any way I can."

Colby and Trimmer also agreed with Carter, were in Hugo to confer with Carter in order to map out their testimony. Bond of Choctaw, could not be reached for arraignment on a federal charge of harboring a fugitive.

We and Mrs. A. E. Brunner were San Antonio visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Anderson of San Antonio, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. H. French Sunday.

ECONOMIC BALANCE

Farm prices are higher than they were a year ago. But the purchasing power of the farmer has declined. Higher prices of the things the farmer buys is the explanation offered by the Crop Reporting Service of the United State Department of Agriculture.

Maybe this statement would bear some careful analysis. Some farmers without doubt, have better off today than they were last year at this time. But that higher prices of everything the farmer buys do tend to offset the advantage of higher farm produce prices is a significant fact.

This leads to the contention we have advanced on several occasions. The way to a higher standard of living does not lead only along the route of higher wages for a few employees in small group of organized workers. Higher wages for industrial workers that are not based on better earnings for other classes tend to throw the economic order out of balance, and the distribution in earnings and buying power of different groups is conceded to be a cause of many of our recent difficulty.

We are not opposed to high wages. We desire to see the worker receive a full return for his labor. But we are also interested in seeing farmers receive their just share of the benefits of modern civilization. We are equally interested in the small storekeeper, the white collar workers, the retired investors and the unorganized workers. Earnings and buying power of all classes must increase if we are to get too far ahead of the others the result is economic maladjustment.

Any group of workers whose wages advance too rapidly do not benefit in the end. If the result merely leads to higher prices which restrict buying power and consumption the balance is upset. And then while a man may be able to establish high wages he may not be able to get a job. It should be small satisfaction to a worker to get a high hourly rate pay but few days out of employment because his employer cannot sell the output of the business.

We hold to the belief that the welfare of the nation as a whole is more nearly the concern of the welfare of any group or class, and experience shows that no class can benefit at the expense of others. The report that the buying power of the farmer has declined, therefore, is a bit disconcerting.

HEART PROTECTION

More people die from heart disease than from any other cause. In death toll accident business runs being especially high. Yet proper precautions, if taken in time would prevent many of these deaths.

Writing on this subject in a fraternal magazine Dr. Charles H. Mayo, world famous physician and surgeon, says:

"The report of the sudden death of a prominent business man from heart disease is one of sorrow. He was years in dying. A year ago his physician, if given the opportunity, might have discovered the damaged heart which he probably had had since developing some infectious disease or infected teeth. Early detection with proper personal hygiene and wise treatment would have added many useful years."

A recent bulletin of the Dental Institute of America points out that 23 million school children are in serious need of dental care, with an average of from four to six decayed teeth. In many cases these are likely to develop the type of heart disease which brings early death. Too often infected teeth lie dormant, or slowly drain into the blood stream until irreparable damage is done. Unsound, failing to see a dentist except when forced to do so because of an aching tooth.

It is a well known fact that dental science is making definite progress in preventing the development of heart disorders. But [illegible] only [illegible] to [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] in the United States remain neglectful of both daily and professional dental care.

We don't practice everything we preach. We haven't got time enough.

13 MILLIONTH CHEVROLET ROLLS FROM THE FACTORY

Another milestone in industry was reached July 7th, when the 13-millionth Chevrolet rolled off the assembly line in the Flint plant of the Chevrolet Division General Motors Corporation.

In spite of interrupted production, Chevrolet's 13 millionth car was produced in a period of just two months more, and the present second shortest million-unit period in the company's history. Officials stated that the demand for the 1937 models has exceeded anything heretofore known, and that but for the frequent interruptions of output since January wages would have shattered all previous records. As it is, the milestone would have been reached from 60 to 90 days earlier.

The 12-millionth car was marked by no ceremonies at the factory, but M. E. Coyle, general manager of the division, issued a brief statement from his Detroit office officially announcing the event, which was also the occasion for an informal luncheon, attended by Mr. Coyle, Mr. Knudsen and other executives of the company.

When the present management, with Mr. Coyle, took over the reins in October, 1933, the company had built 9,000,000 cars and trucks. The 10-millionth was produced Nov. 20, 1934, the 11-millionth in August, 1935. These show that it took 12 years for the company to build its first million cars, while the remaining 12 million have been produced in a period of only 14 years. Mr. Coyle had been a member of the Chevrolet organization throughout the production of all but 120,000 of the 13,000,000 units built to date.

WAR IS THE KILLER

Posters have appeared frequently to emphasize the seriousness of deaths by traffic accidents in America. Every year we saw not long ago was headed "Worse Than War."

That cause in mind when we recently read some figures on deaths in the Spanish civil war, which has now been in progress for exactly one year. Lowest estimates place the death list at 300,000; other figures place the list at 1,000,000.

In a nation of less than twenty million people the deaths by machine gun bullets, by execution squads and artillery and air bombardments are greater than the total number of highway deaths in fourteen years in the United States. Figure it on the basis of population and war as a killer becomes 100 times more deadly than the automobile. Then consider the vast numbers of people who have been driven from their homes, small number engaged in military movements, and the figures spread out far past even to bother with comparisons.

We don't object to circulars which endeavor to impress people with the dangers of modern motor traffic, but when someone tries to make us believe that we run a greater risk in our automobiles than we do on the field of battle the argument becomes a bit extreme and unconvincing.

THE SEVEN WONDERS

Nearly everyone has heard of the seven wonders of the world, probably few could name them and fewer could tell what became of them. Those interested in such things might clip this out for their scrap book.

The seven wonders of the world were well known to the Greek writer of Palestine, about 100 B. C., as follows:

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon, destroyed in 484 B. C., more than 100 years before they were listed among the wonders.

The Mausoleum of Artemisia destroyed in 1402.

Such were the seven wonders of the ancient world. Many lists of modern wonders have been made, but a recent writer scoffs at the perishable works of man, at the discoveries and inventions which have revolutionized civilization, spectrum analysis and radium. Whether these lists would be long enough to fill 50 million people, or three out of four in the United States remain neglectful of both daily and professional dental care.

Professor Frank L. Smith of Hillsdale, Mich., has devoted 43 years to the study of bumble bees and says the subject is so vast that he has "only made a beginning."

COURTESY

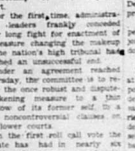
By LEONARD A. BARRETT



The other day a lady entered a crowded street car. A negro man rose quickly and offered her his seat. Courtesy is the soul of fine manhood and expresses itself through him without thought of race or social caste. Courtesy is the color of a man's regard for fellow human being. It is an outfloat of that inner spirit that must continue to be developed as long as growth and not alone to truth, nor time, nor trade. Thomas Jefferson even rebuked his grandson who had not acknowledged the courteous salute of a negro, with these words: "Do you permit a negro to be more of a gentleman than yourself" Edmund Burke, when asked to defend a young man regarding his servants, said: "Never permit yourself to be outdone in courtesy by your servants." Courtesy is a virtue; a distinguishing mark of the gentleman; a culture and quality of the soul; an expression of mind and heart; a seal of approval on the character of one's inner self. Assumed courtesy is only cant, sham and pretense. It is a split second flash of what courtesy may be revealed. In an unguarded moment. Its spontaneous act may reveal one's attitude toward fundamental amenities.

An old lady, overcome by great difficulty a heavy suit case, got off an elevated train at a Union station terminal. Her young face was pained her unconcerned. Any one of the young men might have done a good turn for the day by assisting the lady down the elevated stairs. This is a passing incident colored by the impersonal environment of a big city. Yet it is typical of a countless number of incidents in every day life the impersonal environment of a big city. Yet it is typical of a countless number of incidents in every day life that might be eliminated. If courtesy were given more thought and less every day thinking. Not long ago, the writer was present in a small assembly of patriots when the number of one of the group entered the room. Only two of the men arose. Was it ignorance or indifference?

What is the most plausible explanation of discourtesy? Perhaps no better explanation could be given than lack of respect for personality. The tendency to think of a human being as a case, a number, a mere machine, plays havoc with our proper evaluations of human life. The old lady was somebody's mother. Respect for motherhood per se should be sufficient to call forth an expression of the best art of chivalry governing the gentle sex. How personality is respect for personality, regardless of age or social position.

Wealth is no excuse for failure. Age does not justify discrimination. Ignorance the only challenge for politeness.

In these days of rush and strife and stress, courtesy can be a great restraining hand. In these days of experiment in human relations, courtesy can become the most powerful international bond: the white flag of chivalry.

Even modern women should be kept on a pedestal, and the brass foot of a hatrack is no pedestal. So reasoned the Connecticut legislature recently in passing a law prohibiting women from drinking in barrooms standing up. The price must now prevail in public only in places where seats are provided.

The following "calamity recipe" is going the rounds: "One stewed prune, one pickled peach, one dried apricot, that pear and peach, are well "saturated with gin, then place in seat of one high-powered car, couple and take on road about 30 minutes. Garnish and serve cold on a stretcher. Also is extremely attractive with flowers in light-colored hats with silver trimmings."

Three dahage suits were filed against W. J. Guilbert of Buffalo, who was alleged to have been guilty of driving carelessly, negligently and at a dangerous rate of speed." All that makes the story suspicious is that Guilbert is safety director of the city's chamber of commerce.

FAMOUS AVIATRIX ONCE DROVE A TRUCK

THIS is a note of encouragement for "corn-boys" and particularly for parents who may not understand them. Girls who fall into the classification of "corn-boys" usually simply have a stronger spirit of competition or a greater streak of adventure than other little girls. Their greater activity may be early evidence of a sense of leadership which may later lead to fame.

Amelia Earhart, queen of aviation, was a tom-boy. Born in Atchison, Kan., in 1898, she was an unusually active little girl. She loved rough and tumble games, and she could beat most of the boys her age in races and athletic sports.

She graduated from Hyde Park high school in Chicago and went to a girl's school in Ryzal, Pa. From school she went to Canada where she worked as a nurse's aide in a Toronto war hospital. Stories of World war girls appealed to her sense of adventure and during and Amelia made her way to California, determined to learn to fly.

COURT BILL CRUSHED WITH 70 TO 20 VOTE

Washington, July 22.—The Senate handed the Roosevelt court bill over to the enemies in the Judiciary Committee Thursday to be stripped of its furiously-disputed provision for increasing the membership of the Supreme Court.

For the first time, administration leaders frankly conceded their long fight for enactment of a measure changing the makeup of the nation's high tribunal has reached an unsuccessful end.

Under the agreement reached Thursday, the committee is to reduce the once robust and dangerous awakening measure to the shadow of its former self. To a few nonconfroversial clauses on the lower courts.

On the first roll call vote the Senate has had in twenty-six months of controversy, administration leaders voted with the jubilant opponents of the bill that such procedure be followed.

But, a younger group of Democratic senators, adhering to the end to the President's plan, declined to follow. The result of the roll call was 70 for recommittal, 20 against.

With the death of the Supreme Court proposal, the senate leaders and Goat Raisers' Association, increase the maximum sentence in event of conviction for livestock theft from four to ten years and also make possible a maximum jail year term for theft of meat, wool and mohair.

The executive committee of the sheep and goat owners' unit, meeting recently in Sonora, voted to spend $2,200 during the next four months in special prosecution of livestock theft cases. Special prosecution has been hired by the Texas Sheep and Goat Association have made more difficult the way of livestock, wool and mohair thieves.

DIM PROSPECTS FOR ACTION ON COURT PACKING

Washington, July 22.—Chances for swift action on President Roosevelt's court packing proposal in the executive branch of the government all but vanished today because of a split among legislators.

The sharp conflict in opinion was disclosed when joint congressional committee on governmental reorganization made public the record of a three-month series of secret hearings. Committee members have not even approached an agreement on any of the principal points involved.

The report strengthened the widespread belief that the whole subject would be delayed until next session of congress.

Major disagreements were on expansion of Civil Service; reorganization of general accounting office; and subordination of independent agencies, such as the Interstate Commerce Commission; to executive departments.

The President's commission which drafted the program had urged that the accounting office be stripped of its power to veto expenditures by executive agencies and its functions limited to auditing after the money is spent.

TEXAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Texas loses more than three hundred of its children each year from one preventable cause, according to State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox. Diphtheria, that ever present menace to children, was responsible in 1936 for 385 deaths.

No parent would allow his child to run in front of trains or automobiles, but many allow them to run the danger of contracting diphtheria. Prevention of diphtheria in children is a simple matter of inoculation with toxoid.

If you have a child six months old or more, take him to your family physician and ask to have a Schick test made to determine whether the child is susceptible or immune to diphtheria, for 75 to 90 per cent of children under twelve years of age are susceptible.

Information that as high as ninety per cent of all children under twelve are susceptible was gained from Shick tests carried out on thousands of children during the past decade. It is known that young children should receive immunization treatment against diphtheria without preliminary Shick test. Such a test should, however, be carried out six months after immunization treatment, to make certain that immunity has been established. In older children a Shick test or preliminary Shick test is advisable, since immunity may already exist.

Diphtheria immunization is accomplished by the injection of toxoid. Your doctor can tell if the community is protected by giving you the Shick test four to six months after the last treatment or booster shot. It is not long for protection to develop.

There is no guess work about toxoid. It is a well proven preventive. The wise and cautious parent will take his child to the family doctor before school opens, and have him protected against the danger of measles, diphtheria, by immunization with toxoid.

Killed In Tragic Accident

Most-tragic accident happened yesterday (Wednesday) morning when Dale Frederick Alrich, of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Alrich of San Antonio, was accidentally killed by his chum, Jjill Maverick Jr., also of San Antonio. The boys were on ponies and having a leisurely trip to Bandera. They had camping equipment with them on their ponies were continuing their way when young Alrich, with a can tying by the side of his saddle rolled to see if he could get a shot with his .22 rifle. Just as he got his horse whirled and the gun pointed at the Alrich boy's heart. The accident happened a short distance beyond the bluff creek on Highway 16. The Welch boy was prostrated with grief, but managed to tell the sorrowful parents of Alrich's came from San Antonio to get their boys home.

NEW TOP PRICE, PAID FOR LONG WOOL

Schlemmer Wool & Mohair Commission Company Friday of last week sold 750,000 pounds of 12 months wool at 23c per pound. Big accumulation, at 33 and a half cents to 37c per pound. The top price was two cents better than that previously received Texas this season. The sale is seven times as large as any months sale of the season, the great prior sales having involved only 100,000 pounds.

The purchaser was Jack Allday of San Angelo, representing Alexander Sprunt & Son Commission, Mass., L. A. Schreiner, of the warehouse company, announced the sales. He said it is expected that the wool sold will begin to move from the warehouse here by August 1. With the spring clip all in, the total accumulation of long wool totaled 1,500,000 pounds, together with 850,000 pounds of short wool and lambs. made Schreiner receipts from spring clip total 2,350,000 pounds. Since June 1st the commission firm, through the same representative, bought the Kerrville short wool clip at 31c to 32c per pound.

Prior to Friday's sale the highest price paid for Texas wool another wool except special lots, were down from 35c. The Kerrville sale was the same as prior years to indicate more activity coming to stir the summer wool market.

With the sale of the remaining 2,000 pounds of long wool, the Kerrville receipts will be closed out, and the last fleeces to be stored in the Water Street warehouse will be shipped.

Work is progressing on the new fireproof warehouse of the Schreiner Wool & Mohair Commission Company on McFarland Street. The walls are well up, and the railroad spur has been completed. The new structure, at a cost about $40,000, will measure 225x100 feet, and will be the water storage capacity than the present storage warehouse.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

THE MAN WHO CHANGED THE WORLD

Any man in the world, high in public life today with ambition to create a fame that will extend far into the future, must have known his moment of humility, or possibly envy, when Guglielmo Marconi was laid to his long rest at the comparatively early age of 63.

For these Dictators must have realized that this quiet, retiring scientist and inventor has wrought greater changes in the world than they can ever hope to accomplish. He opened a new world of sound and communication, and it is difficult now to imagine how our present world could function well without the benefits of his invention, the radio.

Many of us think of radio only in terms of entertainment. That alone is something very important, of course. To sit in your home in the evening and hear the voice of great men unite coming to you across mountain chains, over boundless oceans, and through the simmering heat of vast deserts is something which brings us benefits in a cultural way.

But consider also what radio means in the daily work of the world. An air navigator in some region reports from civilization maintains contact with the world through his radio. Transoceanic and transcontinental airliners travel only by benefit of radio direction finders, flying Chains and radio communication with stations along the way. Steamships on the high seas strike their courses, receive storm warnings, and maintain contact with the shore by means of radio.

Before the days of commercial radio, just 37 years ago to be exact, a ship left port and was heard from no more until it was sighted at the harbor of destination. If it foundered in a storm or encountered some treacherous reef, the world never knew just what had happened.

We could continue indefinitely on this interesting subject. But need merely call to mind a few of the things which modern radio communications means to realize that the invention of the Italian scientist did more to change the world than the edicts of any ruler or the plans and experiments of any great social theorist.

It seems fitting and proper, therefore, that the world pay honor to Marconi and men like him. They are the great leaders of our time, and their names will be known when people must look back for the old records to learn about the personalities whose names are now constantly in the headlines.

WE'LL HAVE NEITHER

"Communists" was the term hurled at CIO leaders and strikers in many of the recent labor disturbances. "Fascists" was the counter charge thrown back by the strikers at the various "Law and Order" and "Citizens" units which sprang into existance.

But now that the smoke of battle has begun to subside, it appears that America was in no serious danger of either a Communistic or Fascistic uprising. The appearance of strike disorders is nothing new, though it is probable that few with equal vigor and with such widespread disorder have appeared in the past. The rise of vigilante organizations dates back to the earliest days of our national history, and periods of unrest have been times when they flourished with greatest vigor.

But factories are again in production. Workers are getting their regular pay checks, and are spending their money on the stores, at amusement places, and in maintaining homes where the standard of living is far above that of workers anywhere else in the world. There is no great well organized group that desires any change in our system of government or society. Communism and Fascism have made little headway with other than aliens or the unemployed who quickly and hopefully forgotten.

For it may be said that America is a land of contrasts. Here we have the richest and the poorest people in the world. Here we have the most liberal and the most conservative people in the world. Here we have the most democratic and the most autocratic people in the world. Here we have the most peaceful and the most warlike people in the world. Here we have the most religious and the most irreligious people in the world. Here we have the most optimistic and the most pessimistic people in the world. Here we have the most progressive and the most reactionary people in the world. Here we have the most tolerant and the most intolerant people in the world. Here we have the most generous and the most selfish people in the world. Here we have the most law-abiding and the most lawless people in the world. Here we have the most orderly and the most disorderly people in the world. Here we have the most united and the most disunited people in the world.

Yet, in spite of all these contrasts, we are a united people, and we are a peaceful people. We have our differences, but we settle them by peaceful means. We have our disputes, but we settle them by peaceful means. We have our disagreements, but we settle them by peaceful means. We have our disputes, but we settle them by peaceful means. We have our disagreements, but we settle them by peaceful means.

No Secrets From Him

"Did you hear Dorie is marrying her X-ray specialist?"

for any prolonged period, particularly after he makes a few mistakes.

Our great diversity of beliefs, prejudices and traditions also makes the path irregular for the man who plans to ride to power upon the support of an army of hysterical followers. Among the factory workers of Detroit, the share croppers of the south, the fruit producers of the far west, the dairy, corn and hog raisers of the Mid-west, and the clothing workers of the East there are few ideas in common. This lack of unity makes America a nation which cannot be easily controlled or directed.

All this plus the fact that almost every American believes that every other citizen has a right to express his honest views, regardless of how great he may err, makes ours the difficult land for any dictator to master.

Communism and Fascism, which are not so different from each other as the followers of each doctrine seem to believe, rise to supremacy upon the backing of a hysterical, oppressed, and discontented people, where the upper set of ideal traditions everyone has suffered from dire poverty, and distress. Such a nation may go either Fascist or Communist depending upon the character of its leadership at a time of crisis.

But our country, well, it simply doesn't fit into the European pattern. We may encounter sorrow, trouble and disorder, but we will not encounter Communism or Fascism in the United States.

'WAY BACK WHEN

by Jessee

JOAN CRAWFORD'S life is an example of a girl who had talent, ambition and enthusiasm, but who might never have risen beyond an ordinary occupation without the necessary confidence to keep trying.

Joan Crawford was born about 1907 in San Antonio, Texas, daughter of a theater manager. Most of her play time was spent playing "show," and she danced her way through many struggling years before a real opportunity came her way. At fourteen, Joan went to work as a telephone operator in Lawton, Okla. Then, she was sent to a convent in Kansas City, where she learn her way by acting as cook as a kitchen maid and waiting on tables. After two years, Joan Crawford found a job in a Kansas City department store as a stock girl at $10 per week, working during the day and practicing dancing at night.

Finally a theatrical agent found a job for Joan in a show which failed a month later, leaving her stranded, 300 miles from home. Courageously, she found job after job in cabarets and later, got her big chance in Chicago, Detroit, and New York. She was working in a Shubert show, "Innocent Eyes," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive saw her and signed her for pictures.

Think of the troubles this girl had, the disappointments and struggles. Born in the atmosphere of show business, she was inspired from the time she could first toddle to find a place for herself in that glamorous life. Then, circumstances took a hand and forced her into occupations that were far more on the side of drudgery than glamour. She plugged long hours a switchboard, washed dishes, swept floors, carried heavy trays, and endured wages. But through it all, she kept her confidence in herself.

Demands Service

A man called in at a big drug store, so reports are, and ordered some ant powder.

"And do you wish to take it with you?" asked the druggist by way of conversation.

"No," was the prompt reply. "I'll send them around and you just rub it on them."

A Big Difference

"What is the difference between electricity and lightning," asked teacher.

After a moment's pause the bright boy of the class answered: "You don't have to pay for lightning."

Even

Daughter: "I wish you would give me a little money sometime without my having to ask for it."

Daddy: "I will gladly, and give me the chance just once."

Ambition

The celebrity was placed next to a very talkative and inquisitive maiden lady, who bored him excessively with her questions.

"Tell me, won't you, what was your greatest ambition as a child, and have you attained it?" she asked.

The celebrity looked at her sadly and said, "Madam, I regret to say I have never attained my boyhood ambition."

"And what was it?"

"Madam, my great ambition was to throw an egg into an electric fan!"

The trouble is that so many people who talk about equality are thinking only of those above them.

Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon, aged 80, won first prize in a raisin-eating contest in Lorain, Ohio.

FOR GLAMOUR

And Finisher Too

"Can you tell me who the man is who has written more nonsense in recent years than anyone else?"

"No, he's the shorthand reporter for the Legislature."

EARLY CENTER POINT SETTLER DEAD

One of Kerr County's earliest settlers answered the final summons late Tuesday when Mrs. Martha Tatum Burney, 88, passed away at her home near Center Point. She had lived in that community for more than three-quarters of a century and was the widow of the late W. D. C. Burney, first sheriff of the county.

Funeral rites for the pioneer woman were held Wednesday afternoon from the Center Point Methodist Church with the Rev. H. Ellis Thomas, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Center Point cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were the following grandsons: Leroy Vaughn, Richard Rowlett, Alfred McBryde, Guy Burney, Clinton Burney, Herman Burney.

Born in McMary County, Tenn., on September 17, 1848, Mrs. Burney as a child came with her parents to Kerr County. The Tatum family was among the sturdy band of Tennesseans who migrated westward and located in the Guadalupe Valley in the stirring days just preceding the Civil War in 1850.

Martha Angeline Tatum was married to W. D. C. (Dewitt) Burney at Center Point. Eight children were born to this union, four of whom are now living.

Mr. Burney had arrived on the Texas frontier in the early pioneer in the year 1854 and on March 22, 1856, was elected the first sheriff of Kerr County, serving two years. He later served as a Texas Ranger and engaged in Indian fighting. Indians and outlaws while the pioneer citizens were establishing a semblance of civilization and were fighting the wilderness from the warring tribes. Mr. Burney died December 4, 1920, at the age of 92 years.

During her long and useful life, Mrs. Burney was privileged to witness the transition of Hill Country from a frontier beset with privation and danger to the present era of modern progress. She kept pace with the changing times in the atmosphere of show business, she was inspired from the time she could first toddle to find a place for herself in that glamorous life. Then, circumstances took a hand and forced her into occupations that were far more on the side of drudgery than glamour. She plugged long hours a switchboard, washed dishes, swept floors, carried heavy trays, and endured wages. But through it all, she kept her confidence in herself.

GABBY GERTIE

"A girl may not have toothache and still have an awful cheek."

A recent check of the 5,120 state prisoners in Alabama disclosed that 317 were ex-convicts, of whom 673 were serving second sentence, 113 were serving their third, 44 their fourth, 8 their fifth and 4 were serving their sixth sentence. It would be interesting to know how many of these have received former pardons or paroles.

The only radium refinery in the world now in active operation is at Port Hope, Ontario, in which ore is brought from Great Bear Lake, 2,000 miles away. There is only a little more than one pound of radium in the world today, and it is worth about 25,000 times its weight in gold.

IN MEMORY OF F. A. HICKS

In Genesis 5:24 we read: "And Enoch walked with God and was not; for God took him." This verse seems to fit the life of our departed friend and loved one, F. A. Hicks, more than any one we can summon to mind. While visiting in his home and with his people we have found that he was a daily Bible reader. Not only did he read, God's great truths but likewise he tried to live a conscientious christian life to the best of his knowledge and ability.

In this good man the world has been made better, for his having lived. He was always contending for the "FAITH delivered to the Saints" and as steadfast as the Rock of Gibraltar in his faith. He loved the Lord and proved it by supporting His cause by sending money to missionaries, gave to the Orphans; helped to build churches, parsonages and encouraged young men and preachers that were needy. Also this dear brother always had a tender heart for those found in need.

"By the fruit ye shall know them" was exemplified in his life. Many of our great ministers were counted among his intimate friends. Truly "by the fruit ye shall know them."

His going has left a heritage and an example for his children and grandchildren to cherish and to emulate, and even with all of his

HOME 9 YEARS OLD

Nine years ago this fall, in the city of Sherman, Texas, ground was broken for the first building of the Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle. The official ground-breaking ceremony fell on the birthday of Mrs. Dora Alexander Tally, then national secretary of the society.

Today word is received from Nebraska that the board of directors name administration building of the Home for the woman whose birthday was celebrated so uniquely in November, 1928. Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, now national president of the Woodmen Circle.

The tribute to Mrs. Tally was well-deserved, it was said, for the Home is responsible to Mrs. Tally for its very existence. It was in her mind, more than a decade ago, that the Home was born. She has followed its every step from the time the land near Sherman was purchased until the present. She has supervised the Home activities and is beloved by all of its residents.

The first and largest building of the $500,000 Home will be given its new name in a special dedicatory service in Sherman on or about Mrs. Talley's birthday this year, the directors announced.

"Tact," explains Josephine "is making your company feel at home just when you wish they there."

LITTLE HELP, MUCH CRITICISM

A small group of loyal citizens meets in some office or store, on some evening when each would rather be somewhere else, and plans an event of value to the community. Each one regrets that others who received the invitation did not see fit to attend, but they all console themselves saying: "It's always only a few who must do the work, anyway."

Their effort bears results. The event they plan meets with success. Others who had no part in its projection reap equal benefits. Then come the comments.

And are these always favorable to the effort and thought of the small group of citizens who made the program possible? Not that you can notice. Usually every mistake that has been made is effectively lampooned. Next it is charged that the trouble with this town is "a small clique is trying to run everything. Why don't they let us all in on their plans."

When such things occur, and they occur frequently, we always wonder what can be done with this cussed thing called human nature. The door is always open and the latch string is always out when some civic group plans an event of value to the community. Every committee of this type has ever knew about welcomes help and invites constructive criticism at the time it will do some good. But few of them ever get it until the job is done. Then there are plenty of citizens ready to tell how it should have been done.

The result of this is lethargy and indifference among a vast proportion of our citizens. They feel that if their efforts will be rewarded with nothing but adverse criticism; that if their good intentions will receive little support, then what's the use. The result is community stagnation.

If we could but realize that a little praise will go a lot farther than reams of criticism; and if we would give credit where credit is due, it would not be difficult to secure co-operation and a spirit of civic enterprise which would carry our community far along the pathway of progress.

HONEY PRIZES TO BE GIVEN AT THE FAIR

(Mrs. Alvin Clark, Pres. Beekeepers Auxiliary)

Ribbon Awards For the Following

1. Best quart canned fruit-using honey in the syrup.
2. Best quart pickled fruit, using honey in pickling juice.
3. Best pound cake, using at least one half honey as sweetening.
4. Best dozen cookies, using all honey as sweetening.
5. Best one half pound candy, using at least one third honey as sweetening.

Cakes, candies and cookies must be wrapped in waxed paper or cellophane. Cellophane makes a very attractive display and is moisture retaining.

Cakes, cookies and candies made with honey improve with age, so they can be made before time to eat or display them. The cake and cookie recipes given below are for your convenience and have been kitchen tested at the American Honey Institute. If you have any trouble with them after following directions carefully, write The American Honey Institute, Madison, Wisconsin. If you have a favorite recipe use it. These are not compulsory.

For the best individual displays of the above premiums the following prizes will be given.—First prize—one half bushel of home grown apples. Second prize—1 three pound jar of honey.

A recipe for canning peaches, pears or apples.—Use ripe firm fruit, pare and have. Bring 2 cups honey and 6 cups water to a boil. Skim, add fruit and boil until tender. Pack fruit in sterilized jars, pour syrup in until fruit is covered, seal airtight. This syrup will use about six or eight quarts of cored and halved raw fruit.

SUGGESTIONS

By adding such ingredients as fruits, nuts, spices, or cocoanut to the basic recipes, excellent entries may be developed.

Honey Pound Cakes made at the Testing Kitchen, both by hand and with electrical mixer, were better when all ingredients were at room temperature. ### KENDALL CO. FAIR AT BOERNE, AUG. 27-28-29

The 22nd Annual Kendall County Fair will be held at the Kendall County Fair Grounds at Boerne on Aug. 27, 28 and 29.

The Directors with the able assistance of the Ladies Advisory Board, have been working diligently towards the success of this annual event, and it has been decided to hold a general Fair this year in place of the Community Exhibits, for the information of the exhibitors, a complete premium list can be secured in the catalogue now being distributed.

This year's Fair will feature a new department, namely the 4-H Club Department, under the direction of our local County Agent L. A. Rothe.

On Friday, the opening day of the Fair, judging will take place in all departments, and all exhibits will be properly placed.

Saturday has been designated as School Children's Day and all school children with no admittance to the grounds free of charge. Various contests have been provided for and should prove very interesting.

SCOUT CAMP

The boys of Troop No. 146 went to the campsite of Mr. Ashley Rugh and Mr. Fred Mansfield on the Mangold place for a few days, camping beginning Wednesday noon and lasting until Saturday noon of last week. Scout study and fishing were the main sources of amusement. Games were played at night.

With the exception of a slight burn suffered by Charles William Manning and a lingering case of poison ivy suffering the Scoutmaster, a good time was had by all.

Houstonians Flock to Bandera

Houstonians flock to Bandera, only 8 miles west of Bandera. The hospitality of the people, the tree-covered hills, cold streams and fresh air running Bandera well-deserved fame.

When we left Bandera, 29 of Texas' 30 mayors and Buck's ranch were from Houston.

Mt. Rugh courts, Buck ranch, Silver Spur ranch, Cedar Crest and Dixie Dude ranch are some of the places you may get accomodations, if you are lucky. Four tourists are taking the capacity of Bandera and its environs.

A Couple Interesting West Texans; A Story of a Horse, a Drink of Whisky

Two of the most charming gentlemen I have met are old time West Texas ranchmen—Ed Mansfield and Frank Boyle, both of Bandera. They are close to 70, but you never could guess it to hear them dance "put your little foot."

Mr. Mansfield turns out the best barbecue you ever had—it melted in your mouth; a sauce of mustard and vinegar is one of the reasons.

Mr. Mansfield owns a beautiful saddle horse—Samba. This Spanish stallion is 21 years old; Samba looks more like and speed than many of those two-year-olds I've seen. Mr. Mansfield says, "About 10 years ago, a tramp brought several hundred horses to Bandera, among the trader was ill. Mr. Mansfield sent him a pint of fine whisky. The next morning, the trader restored to health, sent for Mr. Mansfield and said, "I'll trade you two horses from several hundred—two horses for one bottle of whisky."

As he watched Samba prance the other day, the white-haired Mr. Mansfield mused:

"Yes, sir, Samba is a mighty fine horse, and there's NOT much whisky left to buy him. But when I think of some of the [illegible] passed on [illegible] Tuesday.

Mrs. P. O. Pierce and son Mc[illegible] were visitors in San Antonio Tuesday.

Election To Be Held Next Monday

Next Monday, August 23rd, is election day over the State of Texas, when six amendments to the State Constitution will be voted on by the electorate. In Bandera county on the same day, taxpaying voters of a commission ers precinct 1, 2 and 3, will approve or reject a road tax not to exceed 15c on the $100 valuation. The special road tax will be voted by each precinct separately. Advocates of the special road tax state that since the commissioners court has promised to do away with free labor in each precinct that votes the special tax, the chances for its passage is good in all three precincts. It was also stated that practically every other county in Bandera now has the road tax and has done away with free labor, Bandera county should make this step forward.

The six amendments to the Constitution were fully explained in our last issue and are as follows:

1. Providing for the amount of liability of stock-holders in State banks.

2 Providing for assistance to destitute children under the age of 16 years not to exceed $18 per month for one child nor more than $12 per month for such children of one family, and providing for acceptance from the U. S. government financial assistance for such payment.

3. Authorizing the Legislature to fix the manner and basis of compensation for all district, county and precinct officers.

4. Providing that property shall not be assessed for taxes at more than its fair cash market value, and providing that in order to encourage the prompt payment of ad valorem taxes, the Legislature shall have the power to provide a discount for the payment of same before they become delinquent.

5. Providing that Harris county and road districts therein may upon a vote of the people thereto adopt a road plan and levy taxes for road and bridge construction in lieu of the issuance of bonds.

6. Providing for assistance to the needy blind over the age of 21 years not to exceed $15 per month per person, and providing for acceptance from the U. S. government financial aid for such payment.

WAGE BILL DEAD SAYS SPEAKER

Washington, Aug. 14—Speaker Bankhead signaled a speedy Rush toward adjournment today with a virtual admission that the administration's wages and hour bill could not be passed this session.

Where is every appearance of a definite impasse in the rules committee and no indication that members will change their minds, at least at this session," Bankhead told reporters.

The wages and hours measure apparently was headed toward the same limbo to which this Congress has consigned a federal anti-lynching bill, a federal ship subsidy measure and the Supreme Court and government department reorganization bill.

Hopes of wrenching the bill from the rules committee had disappeared by noon in actions that the Speaker said it might prove by necessity to use a petition to bring it to the floor when Congress meets next January.

Bankhead, however, would not forecast that Congress would reach its adjournment goal by a week-end.

If the speed with which Congress has been moving toward an adjournment goal looms capitol leaders were inclined to believe, Aug. 25 to 28 would be the final day of the session.

WHEN 111,000 AMERICANS DIED

A generation has passed since the sinking of the Titanic, yet that great disaster is still well remembered. Fifteen hundred persons died.

The Johnstown flood will never be forgotten—the world was aghast when the death toll of 2,209 was tabulated.

The World War was the most sanguinary conflict in history. In it, 50,000 Americans lost their lives, and they are still mourned.

Yet last year 111,000 Americans met accidental death—more than twice as many as were killed in the great war—and it caused hardly a ripple in the flow of news. We read of most of these accidents in our paper—"John Jones, aged 45, died in emergency hospital after being struck by an automobile"—turned the page, and forgot them. This astounding callousness—this attitude of "Accidents always happen to the other fellow, not to me or mine"—is death's greatest ally.

Among men, heart disease is the only thing which kills more men than accidents. Bank pirates as cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia—plagues which are being fought by all the resources of science—are down the list. Hookhandy drivers, automobiles, turnfalls, drownings, and so on, these are the great killers.

Practically every accident is preventable, and this is especially true of the motor car, greatest of all the great killers. Care, competence, courtesy, these make up the accident prevention trimmyrain. It's up to you—to all of us.

LOOKING 'EM OVER—

DRINKS of pre-war whisky. I sometimes wonder if I didn't GET CHEATED.

Frank Buck (no kin to the Bring-'Em-Back-Alive Buck) is six feet three inches tall, and weighs 130 pounds. He's a nimble-witted guy, full of original wisecracks.

H. W. (Bug) Gordon of Houston goes to Bandera, soaks up a lot of Mr. Buck's sayings, and then comes back and tries to impress the boys at the State National bank.

Mr. Pyrack is a native of Pipe Creek, hanlet 10 miles from Bandera. He explains his presence at the Buck ranch, owned by his brother:

"Twenty-seven years ago, I came here to visit my brother, and told me to stay around a few days until I made up my mind what I wanted to do. I haven't yet made up my mind; so I'm still here."

Lucky is Best Squirrel Hunting Dog; Charlie Rugh Arranges Deer Leases

I love to ride horseback. It feels so good when I get off the horse!

It was fun watching a couple of 14-year-old Houston kids Bob Mottley and my son, shoot the squirrels out of the tree tops.

The squirrels were fooled by the best squirrel dog I ever have seen. Lucky, a combination of a fox hound and a vocker spaniel. Whenever you heard Lucky's deep voice, you knew he had found a squirrel.

Lucky is owned by a 16-year-old Bandera boy. Joe Stroder, who paid $4 for lucky when he was a pup. Lucky has repaid Joe a hundred-fold, for he also is an expert coon dog.

If you are in Bandera and want to go hunting, ask for Charlie Rugh — he filling station.

Mr. Rugh owns eight large, well equipped, stone cottages on the top of Mount Rugh, a high bluff facing the Medina river.

All the cottages are reserved until around the middle of September, for the hunting and vacationing during the deer season.

Mr. Rugh will see to it you have choice deer and turkey leases. If you are interested, write Charlie Rugh, Bandera, Texas.

Charlie Eckhart of Bandera Stars Archer

TERRACES HOLD MOISTURE

Contour terracing will go much to help hold off sudden showers of rain was well demonstrated recently on the Stafford Smith farm at Utopia. County Agent H. F. Schlemmer reports that Mr. Smith has one field terraced, while the balance of the farm is not terraced. The terraced field was bedded up after the oat crop was harvested from it, with rows running parallel to the terraces. During the last rain these rows caught and held most of the water and as late as Aug. 9th Mr. Smith reported that there was plenty of moisture in the soil in this field, although the other fields were dried out.

Terracing not only keeps fields from washing, but also preserves moisture and checks excessive run-off during hard rains.

AROUSED CHINA IS SEEN BY CULPEPPER

Japan, in her latest invasion of China, faces the double threat of an aroused and united China populace and an eager Russia poised to pounce in the event Nippon becomes too deeply enmeshed in North China.

This opinion was expressed Monday by Rev. C. L. Culpepper, for 14 years a missionary in the Hwang-Shein, Shantung province, but now with family is visiting Mrs. M. C. Lane, mother of Mrs. Culpepper, at 1311 Highland boulevard.

The Rev. Mr. Culpepper and his family left China shortly before the latest China-Japan hostilities broke out at Peiping. They landed in Seattle July 7 and arrived in San Antonio five days later.

Chas. Culpepper, 17, a son, is still in China attending school, although he is slated to sail from Kobe, Japan, for the United States next Friday. Hostilities in China, however, may delay his departure, his father said.

While the Japanese invasion of North China looks like a real war, Japan cannot afford to become too much involved or penetrate too deeply into the country, the missionary declared.

"It is common knowledge in the Orient that Russia is waiting war with Nippon is inevitable, is waiting to pounce in the event Japan becomes engaged in a death struggle with China," the Rev. Mr. Culpepper declared.

"On the other hand, the morale of the Chinese is the highest I have seen in the 14 years I have spent in the country. The Chinese are determined not to let the hard-won gains of their territory and they are 100 per cent behind their leader, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

"The populace is very bitter over the seizure of Manchuria and the rape of the northern provinces by the war lords of Japan. The government of China is the strongest in years and it has been making feverish preparations for war for more than a year in the history of the republic."

Rev. Mr. Culpepper is enjoying a year's furlough from his duties at Hwang-Shein.

Rev. Culpepper will preach at the Methodist Church next Sunday.

Aug. 30 to Sept. 5, 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily, under auspices

School Will Open Tuesday, Sept. 7th

The Bandera Public Schools will open for the 1937-38 term on Tuesday, Sept. 7th. The faculty for the coming year will be A. R. Briggs, superintendent; R. B. Teel, principal of the high school; Miss Winnie Davis, Mrs. Juanita Schofield, W. P. Grisham and W. O. Patton in the high school; Ben Wofford, principal of the grammar school; Miss Sophie Vickery, Mrs. E. R. Teel, Miss Nellie Cundiff and Miss Martha McCann.

Miss Vickery and Miss Nellie Cundiff of Centerville and Mrs. Schofield of Mission, are newcomers to Bandera while the other members of the faculty have taught here before. Misses Vickery and Cundiff will teach in the grammar school and the former will also teach the public school music. Mrs. Schofield has been elected to teach home economics, a course of study which is being introduced this year in the high school.

The local school is making rapid progress and is one of the best schools in the district.

ST. JOSEPH'S OPENING

St. Joseph's School will open Tuesday, Sept. 7, with the following teachers in charge: Mother Constantia, Sister Ignatius, Sister Joseph, Sister Augeldina and Sister Marcionella.

Sister Marcionella will have charge of the music department, and the school is fortunate in securing her services. She had charge of St. Peter's band in San Antonio last year, where she did some splendid work. She will be prepared to teach any instrument, wind or string and will welcome the opportunity to have instruments with anyone interested.

MEDINA SCHOOL INTERESTS

September 6th has been set by the school board as the date for opening school. Should the board decide to postpone until the 7th of September to begin, notice to that effect will be published.

With the exception of Miss Rose, who has left us in order to finish work on her degree, the same faculty is to be continued. The same bus drivers are to continue driving, if I am correctly informed.

Two acres of land have been added to the school grounds and work on the new building is going forward as rapidly as is consistent with good work. The basement of the main building is in and work on the floor has been begun. We think that the building will be very satisfactory when it is completed and the plan of organization is fully understood.

Please begin now to plan to be present at the opening of school. We believe that your being present at that time will make the school considerably more worth to your children.

Sincerely yours,

Carl F. Wheeler, Dist. Supt.

CHURCH SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Theresa Brooks and Joseph Johnson was solemnized Friday morning, August 20, at the Methodist parsonage. The altar was banked with white lillies and tall palms. Tall candelabra holding white wax tapers were on either side of the white wrought iron vases filled with white gladiolus, white wax tapers in ribbons caught at each bench with gladiola marked the pews. The bridal party entered to strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played on the organ by Father Charles Hughes, who also played Ave Marie during the ceremony.

The bridesmaids were dressed in effects of net over taffeta in pastel shades of blue, pink, orchid and green. Their dresses were made with fitted bodice and full gored skirts ruffled profusely. They wore halos of fresh flowers and bouquets of gladiolus with blue delphinium centers. Little Misses Frankie Jean Black and Lavelle Bennett were the flower girls. They wore long white net dresses with tiny halos of fresh flowers with tiny

A LITERARY HOAX

A literary hoax was once perpetrated when some writer made a statement and attributed it to Emerson. This statement, frequently quoted to this day, implies that if a man creates anything of exceptional value, even a better mouse trap, "though he live in the wilderness, the world will beat a path to his door."

The statement was never uttered by Emerson. It's presentation was a deliberate hoax, and the idea conveyed is a gross fallacy.

Regardless of the merit of any commodity, any program, or any service the world will not beat a path to the maker's door until the world learns all about it through some form of advertising.

It is the maker of the commodity who must beat the path, and that path must lead out of the wilderness to the world.

HOURS AND WAGES

Legislation to establish minimum wages and maximum hours of labor is here with us. But it raises many a question and causes some of us to wonder just how it will work.

What's wrong with the law, as we see it, is the uncertainty of its application. Administration may be as high as 70 cents an hour and maximum hours as low as 35 per week within the discretion of a five-man labor statistics board within the region.

If Congress would say, for example, that 40 cents an hour is the minimum pay and forty hours a week with maximum work period to preserve an American standard of living, business and industry could probably make adjustments. But what this labor statistics board may do when subjected to the pressure of various organizations and groups is something decidedly different. Until the policies of this board are determined, there will be a period of uncertainty, which will tend to cramp normal business expansion and bring no benefits either to business or labor.

We personally feel disposed to condemn the practice of granting large discretionary powers to boards and commissions which are not directly responsible to the people and are never forced to give an account of their stewardship to the voters. Congress itself, it would seem, should be amply qualified to establish standards and amend them as time and changing conditions warrant.

A friend who is engaged in a small business explains that an excessively high minimum will force him to install new machine which will eliminate other two or three workers. If other business institutions both large and small adopt such a policy, the purpose of the maximum hours and minimum wage will be defeated.

Anyway, we'd rather have a friend in the hand than a red in the treasury.

A social leader observes that people are more fond of their home than ever. Perhaps he believes in the old adage that absence makes the heart grow fonder.

Right at this season the average citizen is much more concerned about the holiday debt than the debt holiday.

In spite of all remarks about the second rate boasts of the present day, it must be admitted that most of them know the ropes.

LIQUOR AGENT STATIONED AT KERRVILLE

C. H. DeWolfe, agent for the Texas Liquor Control Board, has been assigned for duty in the district comprised of Gillespie, Kerr, Bandera and Llano counties, with headquarters in Kerrville.

The assignment was made several days ago by C. S. Paxton, chief supervisor for the board, and Agent DeWolfe has already taken over the work of enforcing provisions of the Texas Liquor Control Act in the district.

DeWolfe left Monday for Longview to appear as a witness in court there but says he is now on duty in Kerrville this week and he may be contacted through either the sheriff's office or the

MOTOR EXECUTIVE WAS A DAY LABORER

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, vice president of General Motors, hardly gave promise to the casual observer of being executive material 30 years ago. Born in Denmark in 1880, he came to the United States at the age of twenty, with $50 in his pocket. His first job was as a reamer and riveter in New York shipyard, and later he worked in railroad shops at Oklahoma, N. Y., repairing locomotive boilers. Knudsen had worked in a bicycle plant in Denmark, and he finally obtained a job as a bench hand in a similar factory in Buffalo, N. Y. The result? In five years Knudsen was manager of the bicycle factory, the Keim mills which Henry Ford bought in 1911. During the next ten years, he worked closely with Ford in the development and mass production of automobiles. In 1921, he joined General Motors, where he steadily advanced to the present position as one of the most prominent men in the whole automobile industry.

There is so much in liking the work you do that, even if it offered more money at something I did not like, I think I would stick with the thing that appealed to me more. And I would be thinking of my own interests in doing that. For, when we are working on things we like, we can put in more extra hours, we take more extra pains, we can do a better job. Doing the things we like, we live less easily. We are inspired toward finding better ways, and we are able to contribute so much more than we may be actually paid for at the moment that advancement cannot fail to be rapid.

ROOSEVELT SAYS MAJORITY RULE MUST BE GUARDED

Monteo, Roanake Island, N. C., Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt, declared today "democracy — in more democracy" is the answer to "tory inaistence that salvation lies in the vesting of power in the hands of a select class."

"I seek no change in the form of American government," he said, "Majority rule must be preserved as the safeguard of both liberty and civilization."

The President, renewing his criticism of the Liberty League and others of "the same ilk" who, today," spoke at a celebration marking the 350th anniversary of the founding of the "lost colony." He based much of his address, broadcast nationally, on a letter which Lord Macaulay, English historian, sent in 1857 to an American friend — H. S. Randall — a New York editor.

(Lord Macaulay was an important figure in English politics in the first half of the nineteenth century. Internationally he was more famous for his history of England, which served as parliament as legal adviser to the Supreme Court of India and as secretary of war for the country.

Macaulay wrote that democracy would not succeed in the United States, adding:

"Either your Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand, or your republic will be torn to pieces by barbarians in the twentieth century."

Mr. Roosevelt dubbed "American Lord Macaulays" persons who "tell you that America drifts toward the brink of disaster/ergin on the one hand, or the Charybdis of anarchy on the other."

The President said in part:

"Almost, methinks, I am reading not from Macaulay but from a resolution of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Liberty League, the National Association of Manufacturers, or the editorials and the talk of the Tories of some well-known newspaper proprietors."

"I conceive it to be true that I am just as strongly in favor of the security of property and the maintenance of order as Lord Macaulay, or as the American Lord Macaulays who thunder today. And I think the American people are with me, too."

He referred at another point to that same letter.

"My friends, I am of the firm belief that the nation, by an overwhelming majority, approves my opposition to the vesting of supreme power in the hands of any class, numerically or economically."

Macaulay condemned the American scheme of government based on majority rule. "In this country 80 years later his successors do not yet dare openly to condemn the whole system of government by popular majority, for they profess adherence to the form, while the time, time, their every act shows their opposition to the very fundamentals of democracy.

"They love to intone praise of liberty, to mouth phrases of the Constitution—but to their hearts' core they distrust majority rule because an enlightened majority will not tolerate the abuses which a privileged minority would seek to foist upon the people as a whole."

Under the latter, Mr. Roosevelt said, "the poorest are no longer necessarily the most ignorant and servile."

Under it (American government) property can be secure; under it labor can thrive; under it order can be maintained—and all of this for the simple, cogent reason that the average of our citizenship can be brought a life of greater opportunity, of greater security, of greater happiness."

Mr. Roosevelt reviewed early settlements in North America, saying they were made by people seeking an opportunity which they would not find in the old world.

But, he said:

"I fear very much that if certain modern Americans, who profess the principles of the American Declaration of Independence, were suddenly to be given a comprehensive view of the early settlements of colonists and their methods of life and government, they would promptly label them socialistic."

"They would forget that in their pioneer communities were all the germs of the later American Constitution."

MY LIBRARY
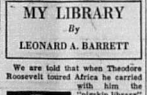
By LEONARD A. BARRETT

We are told that when Theodore Roosevelt toured Africa he carried with him the "pigskin library" which contained many of the world's best books of history and poetry. We also remember that the reading habits of some of our most distinguished statesmen who for reasons of economy, time of excessive strain, read detective stories.



Nothing takes one so completely out of himself and at the same time furnishes inspiration and mental stimulus, as the reading of good books. But during the time does a person daily employed give to reading? How many books does the average American man read? Today he reads the daily paper and magazines on finance and other economics affairs in which he is interested; but how much reading is done for cultural development alone? The reading of good books gives us a culture without which we miss much of the real enjoyment of living. A library is an index of a man's inner soul or personality. It tells us what he knows of his free moments. It reveals to us his hopes and aspirations. The size of a library does not determine its worth, except in terms of its financial value. Many a genius of books advantageously selected is worth far more than a larger library of cheap literature. It is not the mere possession of books that counts; it is what you get out of the books and certain afterward and use in a larger understanding of life. Therefore, the study of the smallest libraries in his day, but he found in each book that which enlarged his life and made it ready for the deeper experience.

We read not only for information, but because we are seeking personality, the power of a great human being breathing through the printed page. Books on the sciences and philosophies are constantly changing because of new discoveries, but the books which reveal the struggle and triumph of the spirit of man are great constants. They do not change; for life is constant. The human desire, intellectual dynamos from which we receive mental and spiritual energy.

We read books to learn truth—truth not only related to the facts of science, history, and other fields of knowledge, but truth as it reveals the great purposes, meanings and values of life itself: truth to live by.

What does your library mean to you? Is it only a loafing place for you when you are not working? Is it a sort of sham pretense where shelves are lined with books whose pages have never been cut? Is it only a secluded den, a store room for trophies and curios? Is it to you a great silent sanctuary where you meet the souls of men and women at their best, those souls which give you the best of their sacrificial work which is the product of time and talent, the essence of which is not naked soul? One whose library is also his life has been with a sincerity: "My mind a kingdom is."

SAM ASHBURN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

San Angelo, Aug. 19. — Sam Ashburn, 42, ranch editor and maker of colorful phrases, who wrote frequently about West Texas by their first names than any other person, died here Thursday of heart attack.

He had just returned from a trip through the West Texas oil fields in which he has extensive interests since the lusty days of their infancy.

Appointed for the diplomatic service at George Washington University at Washington, Ashburn chose instead to return to Texas where he became a school teacher and athletic coach and one of the best known newspapermen in the State. He was coach and teacher at the Mertzon school for years.

Ashburn joined the staff of the San Angelo Standard in 1923 and had conducted a livestock ranch column, "From the Top of the Windmill," in the San Angelo Times-Herald since 1931. He also served in the U. S. Navy during the World War.

Survivors include his wife and one son, Bill, of San Angelo; the parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. A. Ashburn of Ft. Worth; three brothers, Jim Ashburn, who is head of the faculty at C. I. A., Denton; Karl, on faculty at S. M. U., Dallas, and Rupert, of Austex, Ruth and Catherine, both of Ft. Worth.

Charging that his wife served him nothing but bacon and eggs and that he couldn't even shave them, let alone eat them, Clint O. Trout of Hanford, Calif., sought a divorce.

Declaring that she considered wages long enough for one husband to have a chance to support her, Mrs. Pauline Renner of Salem, Mass., filed suit against spouse into court on a non-support charge.

If a castle will not grow on the summit of a precipitous rock, as so many do in Germany, it will be hid mysteriously among the shadows of a mighty forest. Such a castle is Chambord, a few miles from Blois. Of all the great French castles on the Loire, Chambord is its forest of nearly 3,000 acres, surrounded by its many walls of 34 miles, rises above the trees, a mass of pinnacles and towers. The largest church in the world built entirely of wood is a parish church in Finland. The church holds 4,700 persons and has pews for 3,200.

INGRAM RANCHER DIES FROM SHOTS

Irvin Henderson, 28, Ingram rancher, died in the Secor Hospital at Kerrville Sunday night as a result of bullet wounds suffered in a fight at a filling station at Old Ingram Saturday night.

Will Hope, 56, Ingram cafe operator, is being held in the Kerr county jail, without charges. Henderson was shot in a filling station driveway in front of Hope's cafe.

Henderson suffered a bullet wound through the back, another through the side and a third through the front of the body.

The cafe owner said that a man came to his place Saturday night and when Hope refused him a bottle of beer, became abusive. Hope ordered him from the place and a fight ensued. Moving to a filling station driveway outside the cafe the fight continued until Hope drew a gun.

In the struggle the gun was dropped and both men dove for it. Two shots were then fired, both striking Henderson. Henderson was taken to the Secor Hospital by Ross Merritt, his friend-in-law. Hope was taken in custody by Sheriff Moore who seized a 45 calibre revolver.

Henderson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson of Ingram, his widow and baby, five brothers and five sisters.—San Antonio Express.

A passenger was caught by the foot in an airplane taking off in Vienna and carried head downward until rockets caused the pilot to land him unhurt.

Did you hear about the young lady from the city who took up gardening, and explained at the end of the season that they didn't raise any potatoes "because directions said to plant in hills and the garden was perfectly level?"

A rule of politics seems to be to remember only the promises you make when you agree to give some loyal worker a good job.

Animals That Lack Tails

Many animals' tails are used to keep off irritating insects, like those of the horse and cattle. But some animals have such mere apologies for tails that they cannot be of any service at all. Nature has left the elephant and the lynx mere scraps of tails, whilst the guinea-pig and the Australian wombat have none at all.

BACK TO SCHOOL

The days of summer play are over. Some boys and girls may not like the new routine, but in observation the vast majority accept school with an eager spirit convinced by their parents that education after all opens the door of opportunity and offers a better and happier way of life for those who take advantage of it.

It is a happy promise for the future to learn that enrollment is high here in the schools of Bandera and in other similar communities throughout the nation. For through education alone can our nation hope to attain its high destiny and bring to all of its citizens the complete and maximum factory life.

There are those, of course, who point to the finger of economic claim at our present day education. They tell us that students fritter away their time in non-essentials, that they are more interested in football than in studies, that frivolities and pleasures take the thought of the school. They tell us that high school and college students who work know that they are not taught to think for themselves, that education is a colossal waste.

No doubt these people can find incidents and conditions to support their statements, but we do not agree. It must be realized that America has endured an economic storm of unequal intensity to that which raged anywhere else in the world. But the American people as a whole have not fallen for any of the strange delusions that disturb the rest of the world, they have retained their fundamentals institutions, and they have acted with good judgment in every severe crisis. In explaining this some credit should be given to the American system of universal education.

If the need for education has been pronounced from the time when our Republic was founded, the need is far greater today. In spite of our refunding prosperity we are facing a period of extreme complexity. Modern society presents a multitude of perplexed problems and situations which can be solved only by a literate and intelligent citizenry.

In spite of all its shortcomings therefore, we must recognize both the vital service rendered and the great future promise offered by a system which grants to every child the right to a thorough intellectual training.

LABOR DAY

Next Monday is one of the significant holidays of the year. It is the day on which we pay tribute and extend recognition to the men and women who work in our factories, our mines, our forests and our shops for an honest living. It is the day on which we all recognize the place that labor occupies in our present civilization.

Volumes will be written this year as in the past. Orators will inform in glittering terms everything that we have to say. Hence we can do little more than extend our good will to our many friends for whom this day was established, and trust and hope that the event will be the occasion of a rare good time.

We ask all laborers, after all, whether our work keeps us busy in overalls before a greasy machine or in a business suit before a typewriter pounding out copy. And we can all understand and sympathize with the hopes and aspirations of the workers and wish them every success within the limits of possibility.

Warner Boler Dies In Auto Accident

The sad news was received here that Warner Boler, aged 21 years, an employee of the Humble Pipe Line Company at Station C in Bandera county, was killed in an auto accident Monday about 18 miles north of Uvalde on Highway No. 4. A car, driven by Boler, plunged off the highway from a spillway into a 12-ft. ditch. Injured were Miss Anabel Kelley, 21, of Con Can; Miss Mary Carney, about 21, of Con Can, and R. C. Bounds of Utopia, member of the local Park Civilian Conservation Corps camp.

All but Bounds were instantly killed and the car was a mass of twisted metal. Bounds, not seriously hurt, was able to extricate himself and flagged a passing motorist, who summoned aid. All were rushed to the hospital at Uvalde, where Boler died a few hours later, suffering from a crushed skull and internal injuries. Miss Carney suffered a broken leg and Miss Kelly cuts and bruises.

The body of Boler was sent to Brownwood, his home. It was taken to San Alfonio by a wrecker crew from the Smith Motor Co.

The deceased had many friends in Bandera county who will forever be hear of his untimely death.

ADDITIONAL TERRACING WORK DONE IN BANDERA COUNTY

During the past few days terracing work has been done on the following farms: Ed Welch farm, between Bandera and Pipe Creek, Mrs. Elsie Cox farm in Ranger Crossing on the Medina Road, Mr. A. G. Eckhart's farm on the Medina road, and the Chas. Heinert farm on Privilege Creek. Ed Langford's upper farm on Privilege Cr. Dr. Lee Pfeuffer place on Privilege.

The county agent reports that he has about 15 more farms to terrace during September.

Results of Dipping With Straight Sulphur

Reports from all ranchmen who dipped their goats with straight sulphur have been received by the county agent and they indicate that the sulphur is free of lice after one dipping. Ed Heinen's goats were examined and it was found that the sulphur killed not all the lice on the goats, but that a few had hatched out from nits left by the dipping. Heinen's goats were dipped only once.

The sulphur method of dipping goats is very satisfactory if goats are dipped twice, according to the county agents. There is no danger of poisoning any animals, and the method is cheaper than others.

SPECIAL SESSION CALLED FOR SEPT. 27

Austin, Sept. 3.—Governor James V. Allred today set September 27 as the date for the convening of the special tax-raising session of the legislature.

The chief executive will ask the lawgivers to levy more taxes for old age and teachers' pensions, said to the adult needy blind and dependent children, and for ordinary purposes of government.

He said he would make specific tax recommendations but did not yet know exactly how much money would be required.

The governor had intimated that a minimum of $2,000,000 for the session because of the attitude of some senators that no more than $1,500,000 would be necessary. He said jokingly that some of the newspapers printed headlines he was weakening on the session and he decided it was time for definite action.

Old age welfare authorities maintain they need at least an additional $3,500,000 for support of persons over 65 years of age which started Wednesday. It has been estimated that between $1,- 000,000 and $2,000,000 annually will be required for teachers pensions and a similar amount for aid to dependent children and the blind.

State Auditor Tom King nearate allowed oil pipe-lines, public utility companies and other increased taxpayers on natural resources and corporation franchises. The house committee on conservations put the proposals died in the senate state affairs committee.

Secretary Claude Edward Clark reported to the senate economy and efficiency committee that revenue bills totaling $50,392 including removal of reduced rate allowed oil pipe lines, public utility companies and other corporations capitalized at more than $1,000,000, would raise revenues considerably.

He said the Texas Power and Light Company for example paid more than $75 a year in franchise tax whereas it would pay $50,392 if it were not a utility. Previous legislatures exempted public utilities and pipe lines from much of the franchise tax because they pay gross receipt and intangible levies respectively.

Regarding the franchise levy Clark said the committee's purpose is my opinion no other taxing statuts in Texas so clearly shows the way in which certain groups have obtained preferential rates."

THE GREAT STONE FACE

By

LEONARD A. BARRETT

Nathaniel Hawthorne relates a story in his "Great Stone Face" which should be read frequently for its philosophy and idealism as a molding factor in life. In the mountains of New Hampshire, nature "in her mood of majestic playfulness, had formed on the side of a mountain by some immense rocks which had been, thrown together in a certain position, the features of a human countenance"—the great stone face. According to tradition, some day to the little town there would come a man whose face would be the perfect image of the face of stone, and with him he would bring great and abiding blessings. In one of the cottages down there lived a boy named Ernest, who from his early life, accepted the tradition and looked expectantly for the arrival of this great and good man. Daily, Ernest would look for hers at the great stone face, so that he might be able to recognize the man when he arrived. Many men visited the village, but none fully satisfied Ernest. Mr. Gathergold, representing great wealth, arrived. "Old Blood and Thunder," the symbol of brilliancy, came the same. Other men came, but all failed to reproduce in identical likeness the features of the great stone face. After many years, a poet came to the village, and Ernest felt sure that at last, here was the man who was to save the people from their calamities. He was ready for the poet discovered in the face of Ernest the perfect resemblance for which the people had been looking. By gazing daily at the image on the mountain side, Ernest had unconsciously fashioned his own face after its likeness. The humble mountain boy had become in reality a character strong as the mountain image. His ideals were higher far than those of Mr. Gathergold, of "Old Blood and Thunder." He had found his model upon the eternal strength of that beloved face. He had inspired his soul with the idealism of unchanging values. He himself had become like the face he admired, studied, and adored.

In every life there should be a "Great Stone Face"—a commanding and inspiring ideal. We are mastered by our ideals whether they be thoughts, objects, or persons.

The currents of many a life have been changed for noble purposes by the influence of a great book, or a majestic scene in nature, or better still, by contact with a personality who gives the strength of sincerity bought with the price of sacrifice for character. We grow to be like those whom we admire. Beatrice inspired the soul of Dante and herself "led him through Paradise." Browning is never more natural than when he confesses his debt to Elizabeth Barrett. Chaucer awoke the soul of John Masefield, the English poet. Robert Louis Stevenson writes, "Few friends have had upon me an influence so strong for good as Hamlet or Rosalind."

Find some book, some thought, some personality which will be to you what the Great Stone Face was to Ernest, a spiritual presence which etherealizes and ennobles the highest aspirations of your souls. There are truly sermons in rocks if we will but heed them. "True inflience comes not from a moment's eloquence, but from the accumulation of a lifetime's thoughts stored up in the eyes." Let us find an inspirition bigger than ourselves.

Quin has been mayor of San Antonio for several years.

AG. CLASS ATTENDS EXPO.

The vocational agriculture class under the direction of W. P. Hamilton, ag. teacher, returned Thursday from Dallas where they attended the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition.

Everyone enjoyed himself and saw most of the sights. The class left Dallas from Monday until Thursday.

Coming home, we stopped in Temple, Texas, where we visited the Santa Fe shops and yards. This project carried on by the Dept. of Agriculture, covers 156,000 acres of land. They practice terracing, soil rotation and soil reclamation.

The class used the money that we received from our hamburger stand at the Fair to go to Dallas. We made enough money in the two days of the Fair to pay our expense to Dallas and back.

BAPTIST REVIVAL CLOSES

The Baptist revival came to a close Sunday evening with a very fine service. The meeting was a success in many ways, but was hampered for time and hindered in many ways.

Rev. C. L. Culpepper, a returning missionary from Brazil is brother of Rev. S. H. Culpepper, did the preaching in a most effective, and able way.

Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, a baptismal service will be held at the Big Rock, about 200 yards above the river bridge.

On account of the Methodist meeting now in progress the Baptists will not have a preaching service the next two Sundays, but are meeting at [illegible] only services will be Sunday School at 10 a. m. and B. T. U. at 7 p. m.

CONSIDER OUR GOOD FORTUNE

Oh, yes, I'd like to go back to the country to visit some of my relatives, but not to live. Oh, no, this is the country for me."

This is the way they talk, those who have known the hardships, the poverty, and the slim opportunity offered the average man in almost any other nation in the world. Talk to one of these earnest people who have come to America in recent years to make their home here, if you would have your faith in your own country restored.

A conversation with almost any recently naturalized American inevitably turned to an enthusiastic expression of love of our country and its institutions. To hear such a person talk should make us regret all the complaints and criticism we have to offer against the order under which we live.

Scan the news of the world. In Spain these stirring days, it is torn into one of the most savage wars of modern times. Japan determined to extend her influence by slaughtering Chinese soldiers and civilians indiscriminately. Over most of the world people are fettered almost beyond the limit of human endurance to support huge armaments. Blood purges, mass executions and almost everywhere poverty, this is the picture that a vast area of the earth's surface presents.

But here in America nobody starves. Those who really try can make an honest living. Those who are particularly unfortunate, because of many circumstances are taken care of by the government, and indications are that people there are better than the working classes in almost any other nation in the world.

Yet we kick when our business isn't quite up to our hopes, complain when we can't get a vacation when we want it, or feel sorry for ourselves because we can't afford one of the new model cars as soon as they are on the market.

There are times when we should count our blessings and realize that in spite of everything which may be wrong in our country, we are indeed the most fortunate people on the face of the earth.

THE FOUNDATION OF PROSPERITY

We read an article in a magazine recently by Secretary Henry A. Wallace, of the Department of Agriculture, in which he advocates his argument in favor of soil conservation and the ever normal granary plan.

The technicalities of his proposal would serve as the subject of an almost interminable argument. There surely are two sides, and we have neither the opportunity nor inclination to present both of them here at the present time.

There is one point he emphasizes, however, with which we must all agree. That is the interdependence of all classes of workers whether they toil in the field or in the factory. The prosperity of agriculture is essential to the success of industry and the maintenance of the American standard of living, the Secretary emphasizes.

The farm is the great market for a vast proportion of the output of American industry. When the farmer cannot buy new machinery, lumber for his buildings, new furnishings for his home, new water systems for his home and barn, new cars and new trucks then factory employment begins to drop and both wages and dividends exhibit a marked decline.

All economists and well informed individuals agree that the foundation of American wealth comes from the soil, and that when those who are engaged in producing essentials cannot get a fair return for the labor and capital expended and invested, serious trouble comes to the entire nation.

For this reason we urge that the farmers consider the seed and soil advisability of organizing and promoting intelligently directed cooperatives and associations. [illegible] be unfavorable for agriculture over a [illegible] to intelligent organization [illegible] there is as great a [illegible]

Strange, isn't it, how we all stop bragging about the mileage of the car when we try to trade it in on a new one.

YOUR INFLUENCE

Example is more effective than argument in influencing people. If you argue in behalf of a cause but show by every act that you are not sincere, you cannot expect people to give serious consideration to what you say.

This applies especially to this highly important subject of buying here at home. If you urge your customers to buy at home and then send your own trade outside the community your influence will not amount to much.

'WAY BACK WHEN

by Jessop

FARLEY WAS ONCE A BOOK-KEEPER

NOT everyone can be an individualist and blaze his own trail to fame. Some of us are better fitted for falling into line as part of an organization. James A. Farley's rise in politics is an example of the rewards which may come to the good lieutenant.

Farley was born in 1889 in Grassy Point, N. Y., a small village on the Hudson river. There were five children in the family and the father was a bricklayer. When Jim Farley was ten years old, his father died and his mother started a combination saloon and grocery store. The boy often tended bar or worked as grocery clerk on the other side of the store. Through these jobs he learned to meet the public, be friendly with strangers, and show sympathy for their problems. He attended the Stony Point high school and the Packard commercial school in New York. Graduating in 1906, he was employed as a bookkeeper. Jim was always interested in politics; and, before he was old enough to vote, he called house-to-house, getting out the Democratic vote in Stony Point.

His first political job was as town clerk of Stony Point. He was courteous to all, by a tactful answer, met sort of man who had a pat on the back for everyone. Through Alfred E. Smith, he helped elect governor of New York, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, for whom he was faithful lieutenant in the Presidential campaign, Farley forged steadily ahead. He is now the big political plum in the United States, postmaster general.

Kerosene Wells

When we think in terms of an "oil well," it is interesting to note that such a well was first put down for the purpose of obtaining kerosene. That was in 1859. Towards the end of the century, the increasing need for gasoline brought new processes for recovering that product, and kerosene gradually declined in importance.

Colored lightning is not uncommon. Owing to rain, gases, smoke and other particles in the atmosphere, between the observer and the lightning, flashes frequently occur in one solid color. During a recent storm, says Collier's Weekly, single flashes were recorded in such distinct colors as red, yellow, green, violet, orange and blue as well as white.

One of the famous English taverns associated with Charles Dickens is the "Six Jolly Fellowship Porters of "Our Mutual Friend." It is no wider than its front door, recalling Dickens' description, that it was like a "handle of a flat iron set upright on its broadest end."

Museum Will Be Enlarged

J. Martin Hunter is planning to enlarge his Frontier Times Museum by early next year, adding 60 feet and thus giving the building a 100-foot frontage in the center of the front will be a partial replica of the Alamo front, 30 feet wide, which will be the main entrance. The present front room will become the Charles L. Fagan Hall, and the other front room will be known as the Jesse Chisholm Hall, to be so-called because it will be a memorial to the man for whom the old Chisholm Trail was named.

The sketch of the proposed building shows a structure that will certainly be a credit to any city and is needed to care for the ever-increasing crowds that come to Bandera to see this fine museum.

THE REVIVAL

Fine congregations have been attending the meetings under the tent near the Methodist Church. Evangelist Alfred H. Wells of Dallas, has been preaching some wonderfully uplifting sermons. Services are being held at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily. One of the very fine things about the meeting is that from the interest manifested, you would not know it was a Methodist meeting. The meeting will close next Monday night. Some special announcements are as follows: Thursday night will be "All-Church Night." It is greatly desired that all who are members of ANY church attend this service. The Evangelist has a special message for church folks and he wants you to be present for this service. Friday night will be "Young Peoples' Night." Every young person in this entire section of country is invited to this Young Peoples' Service. Saturday night will be "Children's Night." Let all the children be there for the Children's Service. "The Young People" and the children's services last week were well attended and the speaker has other interesting and helpful messages for these groups for this week. The general public is most cordially invited to all the services of the meeting, whether special or regular. All Christian people of the community are urged to co-operate in the effort to win souls and lift the spiritual temperature of our community. Feel free to advise the pastor or the evangelist and help all you can. Thank you, and may God bless you and yours.

O. E. Moreland, Pastor.

HOMEMAKING DEPARTMENT

One of the main attractions in High School this year is the Homemaking Department. At present some of the department's outstanding features are the new machines and tables. Other equipment which has been ordered is to be added in a few weeks.

The machines were purchased from the Singer Sewing Machine Co. at 45 per cent discount when it is the wholesale price. The three treadle machines cost $51 each and the electric machine cost $67. The total cost amounted to $1216.

Our three tables were also purchased at a school price which amounted to $120.

The past week the classes have been engaged in discussing the management of flowers and personal relationship. Every class has been very enthusiastic in co-operating with Mrs. Schofield.

To begin the fund for the department, the girls will sell candy, pop and cold drinks at the ball game this coming Friday.

San Marcos Citizens Visit Here Sunday

The San Marcos Daily News, published last Monday, carried a story of the trip taken by 29 San Marcos citizens to Kendall, Kerr and Bandera Counties in which they surveyed the various camps and resorts with a view of promoting the Blanco and San Marcos rivers as favorable sites for summer camps and resorts.

The tour was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Rodgers Stacey, Henry C. Kyle and Walter Buckner.

Quoting part of their story we read: "It was agreed by the groups, after seeing the most scenic areas on the trip, that the Blanco and San Marcos rivers offer far greater scenic values to would-be camp' and lodge builders than any areas seen on the tour."

Quoting again we read: "Returning to Kerrville, the group left for Medina and Bandera. Only a few minutes were spent in Medina, long enough for refreshments.

"Between Medina and Bandera, the party was conducted through Highland Waters Court, the hill country's newest real estate development project. A real estate firm has bought several hundred acres of land on the Medina river and is selling lots for summer lodges. Some camp residences already have been built. The project is on the Medina River.

"I. E. Adamietz, banker and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and D. E. Conwill, Chamber of Commerce president, escorted the party on a tour at Bandera.

"At Marvin Hunter's famous frontier museum was opened for the party. Hunter, a famous Texas author and authority of the Frontier Times, personally showed his museum to the visitors.

"The party visited a dude ranch next. The ranch is owned by J. H. Bruce, father of Aileen Bruce, former Baylor University co-ed, secretary of the Baylor University's newest real estate development project. The Bruce ranch has a capacity for 25 guests. It has been crowded this summer by city residents wanting a taste of ranch life.

"Two tourist camps were visited, one, the Mt. Rugh Courts, being located and program just what we put into it." what we find in others which is worthy of confidence and express that confidence, there will result a mutual exchange of trust. Kindness creates kindness. Love inspires love. Why do we respond to the outstretched hand of a little child? Is it not because we are in the presence of perfect faith? It is not because we find in one brief moment that the outstretched human hand is the symbol of hope that lies within us through all our years of preparation and of purpose? The little child closes up the "friendtower" of the heart, as we climb, sometimes with struggle and effort, to the great high-tower of life. Confidence in life yields life's rich reward. There is no more to be betrayed than can the trust of a little child.

The second lesson we learn is that the child is not to put himself into everything. The foolish philosophy that this world owes us something by virtue of our birth into it is not present in a little child. The child receives every morsel, and develops daily. A brown skin, an active body, a cheerful spirit, merriment, and a will tempered with obedience: these are the natural equipments of a little child in the atmosphere of sunlight and care. The normal little child will not ask for his Lake, you may lead him to his book, but you cannot make him think, unless he wishes to think. In fact, the world knows no perpetual Santa Claus. If a man will not work, neither shall he eat. The director depends much upon our use of opportunities and upon our "co-ordinating" it does upon those within each reach. The little child seeks; finds, your footprint we shall be able to pay it all out in a very short time.

AN ENJOYABLE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tschirlant and daughter Theresa and son Thomas left Thursday night, Sept. 2nd, at the high school building at 8 p. m. Capitol at Austin, and through Ft. Worth and Dallas where they enjoyed seeing the Pan American Exposition. From Dallas they went to see relatives in Houston, from there they together went to Galveston where they "splashed" around in the surf. Mrs. Tschirlant and some sturdy as the little child, and as it begins a day. We may have [illegible] and the cute [illegible] that cultivates all of spirit that grows as does the little child. Life surrounds us with infinite blessings. It shall we always [illegible] most of [illegible] prize?

DOVE SEASON OPENS WITH BANG

The dove season opened yesterday (Wednesday) with a series of shots that sounded as though the Sino-Japanese war might have been transferred to Bandera. Charlie Rugh was the first hunter with his bag limit of 15 to arrive at the B. F. Langford & Son store and display a valuable bird bag as his prize. Emil Rugh was the second lucky hunter to go to the Langford store and received a box of shotgun shells.

BANKERS LOAN ON COTTON AS RISK MERITS

Farmers are assured by Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation in Washington that their local bankers are eager to make loans on cotton until the 1937 cotton loan program can get under way about Sept. 15, according to an Association Press release.

Bankers of San Angelo are not so certain that Jones knows wherof he speaks.

"In the first place," remarked Roy C. Vase, vice-president of the San Angelo National Bank, "I, for one, have little idea just what the 1937 cotton program is. As for making loans on cotton, we shall continue our policy of assisting the cotton farmer as much as possible, but we must have some assurance of getting our money back."

So far, we've received no data concerning the 1937 cotton loan program." Claude Gibbs active vicepresident of the Central National Bank, said. "And until we can be definitely assured by the government of the safety of the loans, we shall have to continue making them just as we make loans on other products."

Museum Will Be Enlarged

J. Marvin Hunter is planning his Frontier Times Museum by early next year, adding 60 feet and thus giving the building a 100-foot frontage. In the center of the front will be a partial replica of the Alamo front, 20 feet wide, which will be the main entrance. The present front room will become the Charles L. Fagan Hall, and the other front room will be known as the Jesse Chisholm Hall, to be so-called because it will be a memorial to the man for whom the old Chisholm Trail was named.

The sketch of the proposed building shows a structure that will certainly be a credit to any city and is needed to care for the ever-increasing crowds that come to Bandera to see this fine museum.

THE REVIVAL

Fine congregations have been attending the meetings under the tent near the Methodist Church. Evangelist Alfred R. Wells of Dallas has been preaching some wonderfully uplifting sermons. Services are being held at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily. One of the very fine things about the meeting is that from the interest manifested, you would not know it was a Methodist meeting. The meeting will close next Sunday night. Some special announcements are as follows: Thursday night will be "All-Church Night." It is greatly desired that all who are members of ANY church attend this service. The Evangelist has a special message for church-folks and he wants you to be present for this service. Friday night will be "Young Peoples' Night." Every young person in this entire section of country is invited to this Young Peoples' Service. Saturday night will be "Children's Night." Let all the children be there for the Children's Service. The Young Peoples' and the Children's services last week were well attended and the speaker has other interesting and helpful messages for these groups for this week. The general public is most cordially invited to all the services of the meeting, whether special or regular. All Christian people of the community are urged to co-operate in the effort to win souls and lift the spiritual temperature of our community. Feel free to advise the pastor or the evangelist and help all you can. Thank you, and may God bless you and yours.

O. E. Moreland, Pastor.

HOMEMAKING DEPARTMENT

One of the main attractions in High School this year is the Homemaking Department. At present some of the department's outstanding features are the nursery and tables. Other equipment which has been ordered is to be added in a few weeks.

The machines were purchased from the Singer Sewing Machine Co. at 45 per cent discount which is the school price. The three treadle machines cost $51 each and the electric machine cost $62. The total cost amounted to $216.

Our three tables were also purchased at a school price which amounted to $75.

The past week the classes have been engaged in discussing the arrangement of flowers and personal relationship. Every class has been very interested in co-operating with Mrs. Schofield.

To begin the fund for the department, the girls will sell candy and cold drinks at the ball game this coming Friday.

By Lapelle Fee and Alta Belle Adams.

San Marcos Citizens Visit Here Sunday

The San Marcos Daily News, published last Monday, carried a story of the trip taken by 29 San Marcos citizens to Kendall, Kerr and Bandera Counties in which they surveyed the various camps and resorts with a view of promoting the Blanco and San Marcos rivers as favorable sites for summer camps and resorts.

The tour was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Rodgers Storey, Henry C. Kyle and Walter Buckner.

Quoting part of their story we read: "It was agreed by the groups, after seeing the, most scenic areas on the trip, that the Blanco and San Marcos rivers offer greater scenic values to would-be camp and lodge builders than any areas seen on the tour."

Quoting again we read: "Returning to Kerrville, the group left for Medina and Bandera. Only a few minutes were spent in Medina, long enough for refreshments.

"Between Medina and Bandera, the party was conducted through Highland Waters Court, the hill country's newest real estate development project. A real estate firm has bought several hundred acres of land on the Medina river and is selling lots for summer homes. Some camp residences already have been built. The project is on the Medina River.

"L. E. Adamietz, banker and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and D. E. Conwill, Chamber of Commerce president, escorted the party on a tour at Bandera.

"J. Marvin Hunter's famous frontier museum was opened for the party. Hunter, a famous Texas author and publisher of the Frontier Times, personally showed his museum to the visitors.

"The party visited a dude ranch next. The ranch is owned by J. H. Hance, father of Anthony Hance, former Southwest Texas Teachers college and San Marcos Academy student. The Bruce ranch has a capacity for 60 guests. It has been crowded this summer by city residents wanting a taste of ranch life.

"Two tourist camps were visited, one, the Mt. Rugh Courts, being located on a large bluff overlooking Medina river and fed by a mountain route.

"The tour ended at Bandera with members of the party going home as they wished.

Those who formed the group were Mr. Judge Will Burnett and wife, Charley Oldham, commissioners Precinct No. 3, and wife, and Martha Jane Oldham; Gene Posey, commissioner Precinct No. 1, and wife; T. C. Reardon, Walter Buckner, Addison Buckner Co. Atty. Henry C. Kyle, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliver, Ed Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Allen O'Brain, G. W. Bedell, Allen Woods, Miss Louise Bentley, Edgar Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, Miss Abra Bass Cliett, Mrs. F. W. Zimmerman, Rodgers Storey, Henry Hood and Dr. Carroll B. Dixon of San Antonio."

BUILDING ACTIVITIES CONTINUE IN BANDERA

The work on the remodeling of the Bankers Co. Ranchmen & Farmers Ass'n warehouse is progressing nicely and will be completed before long. The building will be modern in every way and beautiful as well.

The new theater filling station is nearing completion and will add much to the appearance of that part of town.

Work of clearing the Boyle former has begun and actual construction work will be started soon.

Sillery & Sanders, general contractors of San Antonio, are building two new cottages at Highland Waters, one for Hans Tesin, artistic owner of Josko Hand, and one for Mr. Sanders, owner of Jansen's Cake Shop in San Antonio.

AN ENJOYABLE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Tankersley and daughter, Theresa and son Billy, returned home Sunday from a very enjoyable trip to Austin, Capitol at Austin, and through Fort Worth and Dallas where they enjoyed seeing the Pan American Exposition. From Dallas they went to see relatives in Houston, from there they together went to Galveston where they watched the ocean waves roll in while they enjoyed a refreshing bath.

Mrs. Tankersley reports that some sturdy as the little child, some as fragile as a tear. We may have courage and we may have cowardice, and the cultivation of a spirit that grows as does the little child. Life surrounds us with infinite blessings. Shall we ignore them without seeing or appreciating?

Arms Shipment To Far East Barred

Washington, Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt today forbade American merchant vessels owned by the government to transport arms, ammunition or implements of war to China or Japan.

Making plain that he is not yet invoking the neutrality act, the chief executive warned that any other merchant vessels flying the American flag which attempt to transport such articles to China or Japan will do so at their own risk until further notice.

The president issued this statement following a conference with Secretary Hull and Chairman Keagery of the maritime commission:

"Merchant vessels owned by the" government of the United States will not hereafter, until further notice, be permitted to transport to China or Japan, any of the arms, ammunition, or implements of war which were listed in the president's proclamation of May 1, 1937."

A LITTLE CHILD

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

"Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupation
Known as the Children's Hour."

LONGFELLOW'S poem entitled "The Children's Hour" suggests that in the presence of little children, we may learn some of the most important things in life, as by "three doors less unguarded than our castle wall." The writing of the poet we learn is that only as we possess the spirit of a little child do we merit the unswerving confidence of others. We get from the world just what we give to it. If we find in others that which is worthy of confidence and expression that confidence, there will result a mutual exchange of trust. Kindness creates kindness. Love inspires love. Why do we respond to the outstretched arms of a little child? Is it not because of the innocence of perfect trust? Is it not because we find in our brief moment, that the outstretched human hand is the symbol of hope that leads us on through the years of preparation and of purpose? The little child climbs into our lap, "round-lower" of the heart, as we climb, sometimes with struggling effort, into the great high-tower of life. Confidence in life yields life's rich rewards. It can be betrayed, but it also can be the trust of a little child.

The second lesson we learn is that the child is eager to put himself into everything. The foolish philosophy that this world owes us something by virtue of our birth into it, is not present in a little child. The child exercises his every muscle and develops daily. A brown skin, an active body, and a careful mental growth, and a will tempered with obedience: these are the natural requirements of a little child in the environment of sunlight and care. The normal little child will play with his toys. Later, you may lead him to his books, but you cannot make him think, unless he chooses to think. That is the world known to perpetual Santa Claus. If a man will not work, neither shall he eat. Mature character depends more upon our use of opportunities we desire" ing defeat than it does upon those within easy reach. The little child seeks, finds, and uses that which he finds.

The third lesson we learn from the little child is that all things are truly ours. It is absurd to think an electric or toy things that we buy. What does the child know of the cost of things? Unless the child is attract, the greed is unknown. For him, since we are dependent things are ours.

WORKING TOGETHER

The subject of co-operation has been worn thin by constant writing and billows of oratory. But it is timely at any time here in Bandera, and should be stressed and emphasized again and again in order to keep our local citizens in a frame of mind which enables them to work together for the common welfare.

Many jobs lie before us which when effectively completed will help make our community a better place in which to live. We often grasp at the mere thought of what we might do if we could secure effective co-operation.

Co-operation is a word to many but to a few it means something more. It spells opportunity for accomplishment through united effort, and effective division of labor, through the value of many minds and many ideas applied to a single job.

There are a few citizens here in Bandera who are ready and able to devote some time to work of value to the entire community. But their efforts as frequently fail to receive the support and assistance of others that eventually they become discouraged, feel that they have done more than their share, and refuse to take an active part in future undertakings.

If we could and would all lend a hand when some job demands attention, a rapid change would take place here in Bandera, and who knows but the time might come soon when we would enjoy the satisfaction of living in the best small town in our entire state.

THE GOLDEN SEASON

Soon the landscape will be arrayed in a cloth of gold. In nature's gorgeous array, a master pattern will be varied with red, orange, and all the brilliant colors that combine in Fall season. A time of delight to those who love the out-of-doors.

Frosty nights and clear bracing mornings make one desire to get away from house or desk and go wandering. Some of us will enjoy the experience all the more when we can carry a gun over the shoulder and maintain a wary outlook for the birds we wish to bag.

But whether you hunt or whether you believe that with life should never be molested it's a time when one can derive some real pleasure by walking down some byway where there is little traffic, and where the subdued hum of the golden days of autumn may inspire a few fancies and reveries.

Volumes are written about the beauty of spring when growing things first seek the light of sunlit summer. Many writers and artists find beauty in a snow covered landscape. Others believe that the acme of natural beauty is to be found under the brilliant rays of a summer sun. But fall, it seems to us, is that time when nature garbs herself in all her most gorgeous raiment, and when the startling brilliance of color is perfectly blended in a harmony that no artist can duplicate that makes even a brief walk through the countryside an interesting adventure.

We have wondered many times why Fall is not more popular as a vacation season. Why must we all content that the close of outdoor play is past when the leaves begin to turn and the early morning is covered with frost?

The best season of the year, in this writer's opinion is here. Let's enjoy it mere.

"One of those scientists recently announced that women get out-of-date heat better than men," says John. "This conforms to my own experience every time I get into an argument with one."

Louis Calgrara goes into a rage of lions in Paris, France, each night and reads his poems to them to prove the theory that animals have an artistic sense.

In obedience to a clause in his will, funeral rites for Judge J. Wesley Carthage, Mo., were held in the court room.

A burglar ransacked the fraternity house in Greenville, O., but never looked the Beta Theta Pi. He returned a few nights later to rob it, and left this note: "Thought you were empty."

The jail cells in Jackson, Miss., were too small for one Thompson 6 feet, 6 inches tall, so he was carried over to his wife.

ACCIDENT TAKES LIFE OF MRS. C. ATWOOD SAT.

A regrettable, but unavoidable accident happened about 11 o'clock last Saturday night at Ingram when a car driven by Roy Dale McKay, and occupied by five companions, W. C. Coffey, J. L. Baugh, Kaleta and Maurine Miller and Cleo Jarvis, hit Mrs. Carter Atwood of Junction, killing her instantly.

Mrs. Atwood and two friends were returning from San Antonio when a flat tire caused them to stop at Ingram. A tire repair man backed his car up to theirs with his lights facing toward Kerrville. Another car was going toward Kerrville and the young people coming toward Junction met the cars. Roy Dale driving to the right left the pavement to miss the car in the path of his normal course of travel. Blinded by the lights he did not see Mrs. Atwood, who evidently was standing near her car.

After the unfortunate accident the body was prepared for burial in Kerrville and shipped to Kansas City, Missouri. She is survived by her husband, three small children and other relatives.

Mr. Atwood is employed by Allhands and Davis on the construction of the cut-off between the new South Llano bridge and the bridge being built across the Johnson Fork.—Junction Eagle.

MOTORING TIPS

Not long ago, a party of tourists escaped mishap when a battered old car coming toward them on the highway suddenly cut across their path into a farm drive. Good brakes on their car, and a wide apron on the road, enabled them to miss it by a hair's breadth as it turned into the road again, they remonstrated with the driver, who was just beginning to realize how close to trouble he had been.

"Why in the world didn't you signal that you were going to turn?" one of the party demanded.

"Why, Mister," the other driver answered, "I thought everybody knowed I live here."

Whoever predicted that the average car was better than the average driver, particularly in the matter of operating technique, as observed on our streets and highways has not kept pace with the evolution of the motor car itself. Certainly a little heavier stress on the necessity of driving would enable the motoring public to secure a greater measure of the comfort, safety and general satisfaction that are built into every car today.

In my opinion, that motorist is the most competent who keeps in mind at all times, the fact that there are others besides himself on the road, and drives in a manner consistent with that realization. The good driver never assumes that others know what he intends to do. He signals every move, not only his stops and turns, but also his intentions to pull away from the curb. He is equally careful to give notice with his horn, when about to pass. Observance of proper signal procedure will automatically do away with one of the most dangerous driving habits, the sudden, unexpected move.

And if he hopes to qualify for really top-notch drivers, he will go one step further, and keep his eyes open for the other fellow's signals, so that his own starts, stops and turns may be based on information more reliable than a guess or a hunch" of what others are about to do.

All Very Easy

A schoolboy, we understand, wrote the following excellent definition of an executive:

"He's the fellow who goes out and finds work and then finds somebody who is willing to pay for it. Then he hires somebody else to do it.

The Conflagration

Newly-Wed Husband: "So we only have one course, cheese, dinner today. How does that happen."

Wife: "Yes Dear, when the chops caught fire the flames spread to the desert. Then I had to use the soup to put it out."

Bill says that before marriage it is all bill and coo, but afterwards it all bills and cooks.

PHILCO NEWS

Local mystery and crime detection fans will have a chance to turn their talents into money, $80,000 worth of it, shortly.

All they need to do is to listen to the new "Philco Radio Mysteries, a program sponsored by the Philco Radio and Television Corporation, to be broadcast for sixteen consecutive weeks over Radio Station KTSA in San Antonio, beginning Tuesday, September 7th, at 5:45 o'clock, p. m. local time.

This sixteen-week series will offer cash prizes for each week's solutions with large cash Grand Prizes at the end of the series.

Each Tuesday broadcast will be on the air over KTSA, at the same time each week and will be limited to 15 minutes. It will be a complete mystery with the clues clearly "planted" so that the alert mystery "sliver will be able to "catch" the culprit in a few minutes of thinking.

There will be 126 winners for each week's broadcast, or 2,016 in all during the 16 weeks. The top weekly cash prize will be $500, and the lowest $10. The Grand Prize at the end of the series will be $5,000, and the lowest is $50. It is possible for a contestant to win all the top weekly prizes and the Grand Prize, a total cash winning of $12,000.

Contestants can get full instructions and official entry blanks from Carlton Radio and Electric Shop, local Philco Radio Tube Dealer, and no entrance fee is charged. It is not necessary to make a purchase to get a free entry blank. The contest is open to all persons.

He Favors It

A bright schoolboy once wrote the following definition of capital punishment:

"To be locked in an ice cream factory or a candy store for a weekend would be my idea of capital punishment."

WAGES AND PRICES

"The building boom which was promised for many months or years has developed into something of a bust here in our city," explained a real estate man who operates in a community which is considerably larger than New London.

"Wages of building workers are too high. The costs are excessive and people who need new homes simply cannot afford to build now," was his explanation.

This man who makes his living in real estate activity should have some familiarity with the subject on which he speaks. Granting that what he has to say is true, this situation, therefore, serves as an excellent example of how excessively high wages to one small group of workers may bring no benefit to those who get them and may create a serious business jam. If high wages can be

ACCIDENT TAKES LIFE OF MRS. C. ATWOOD SAT.

A regrettable, but unavoidable accident happened about 11 o'clock last Saturday night at Ingram when a car driven by Roy Dale McKay, and occupied by five companions, W. C. Coffey, J. L. Baugh, Kaleta and Maurine Miller and Cleo Jarvis, hit Mrs. Cora Atwood of Junction, killing her instantly.

Mrs. Atwood and two friends were returning from San Antonio when a flat tire caused them to stop at Ingram. A tire repair man hacked his car up to theirs with his lights facing toward Kerrville. Another car was going toward Kerrville and the young people coming toward Junction met the cars. Roy Dale driving to the right left the pavement to miss the car in the path of his normal course of travel. Blinded by the lights he did not see Mrs. Atwood, who evidently was standing near her car.

After the unfortunate accident the body was prepared for burial in Kerrville and shipped to Kansas City, Missouri. She is survived by her husband, three small children and other relatives.

Mr. Atwood is employed by Allbands and Davis on the construction job on the highway and the new South Llano bridge and the bridge being built across the Johnson Fork—Junction Eagle.

MOTORING TIPS

Not long ago, a party of tourists escaped mishap when a battered old car coming toward them on the highway suddenly cut across their path into a farm drive. Good brakes on their car, a wide apron on the road, enabled them to miss it by a hair, and as they backed onto the road again, they remonstrated with the driver, who was just beginning to realize how close to trouble he had been.

"Why in the world didn't you signal that you were going to turn?" one of the party demanded.

"Why, Mister," the other driver answered, "I thought everybody knowed I live here."

Whoever remarked that the average car was better than the average driver probably meant that operating technique, as observed on our streets and highways, has not kept pace with the evolution of the motor car itself. Certainly a little heavier stress on the niceties of driving would enable the motoring public to secure a greater measure of the comfort, safety, and general satisfaction that are built into every car today.

In my opinion, that motorist is the most competent who keeps in mind at all times, the fact that there are others besides himself on the road, and drives in a manner consistent with that realization. The good driver never assumes that others know what he intends to do. He signals every move, not only his stops and turns, but also his intentions to pull around a car, or turn. He is equally careful to give notice with his horn, when about to pass. Observance of proper signal procedure will automatically do away with one of the most dangerous driving hazards, the sudden, unexpected move.

And if he hopes to qualify the really top-notch driver, he will go one step further, and watch his eyes open for the other fellow's signals, so that his own starts, stops and turns may be based on information more reliable than a guess or a "hunch" of what others are about to do.

WAGES AND PRICES

"The building boom which was promised for many months or years has developed into something of a bust here in our city," explained a real estate man who operates in a community which is considerably larger than New London.

"Sales of building workers are too high. The costs are excessive and people who need new homes cannot afford to build now," was his explanation.

This man who makes his living in real estate actually should have some familiarity with the subject on which he speaks. Granting that what he has to say is true, this situation, therefore, serves as an excellent example of how excessively high wages to one small group of workers may bring no benefit to those who get them and may create a serious business jam. If high wages can be secured only at the price of unemployment, then it seems that those high wages are a questionable benefit. What advantage does it bring to a man to secure a scale of a dollar or a dollar and a half an hour for example, only to discover that he can secure no work at that price because people cannot afford to pay the rate? Better a lower rate of pay and accept more employment."

In the present period of collective bargaining workers should give thought to this phase of the subject. They should consider the ultimate consumer of the commodities they produce as well as the direct employer. They should realize that wages, farm prices, and earnings of the all ordinary classes must all advance together if we are to enjoy any sustained prosperity in this country.

We are not quarreling with the aspirations of labor. We realize that many workers are today receiving wages which are too low to maintain the American standard of living. Those who are in the low wage brackets have every right and reason to seek higher pay.

We will go even farther than this and add that workers here in Bandera are not receiving too much in any line of work. But in some places, particularly the large industries, workers in the building trades have forced wages to an abnormally high level. As a result the promised building boom is beginning to collapse and this means unemployment for millions of workers who are manufacturing commodities which are used in building construction.

The close relationship between wages and prices must be kept in mind. If by how much soever labors you get for a day's work but how much goods and service you may secure are the true measure of employment. If wages and prices in some trades are out of balance, there is no benefit for any sustained period.

We have often felt that the subject should receive careful statistical study by some one of our many government bureaus might collect information which would show the proper comparable amount of light in this interesting and puzzling subject.

PHILCO NEWS

Local mystery and crime detection fans will have a chance to turn their talents into money, $50,000 worth of it, shortly.

All they need to do is to listen to the new "Philco" Coe Radio Mysteries, a program sponsored by the Philco Radio and Television Corporation, to be broadcast for sixteen consecutive weeks over Radio Station KTSA in San Antonio, beginning Tuesday, September 7th. at 5:45 o'clock, p. m., local time.

This sixteen-week series will offer cash prizes for each week's solution with large cash Grand Prizes at the end of the series.

Each Tuesday broadcast will be on the air over KTSA at the same time each week and will be limited to 15 minutes. It will be a complete mystery with the clues clearly "planted" so that the alert mystery solver will be able to "catch" the culprit in a few minutes of thinking.

There will be 126 winners for each week's broadcast, or 2,016 cash prizes in the 16 weeks. The top weekly cash prize will be $500, and the lowest $10. The Grand Prize at the end of the series will be $5,000, and the lowest is $50. It is possible for a contestant to win all 16 top weekly prizes and the Grand Prize, a total cash winning of $13,000.

Contestants can get full instructions and official entry blanks from any Philco Radio and Electric Shop, local Philco Radio Tube Dealer, and no entrance fee is charged. It is not necessary to make a purchase to get a free entry blank. The contest is open to all persons.

MYSTERY HOUSE MAY HAVE BEEN HOUSTON'S WIGWAM

Fort Gibson, Okla., Sept. 9.—Like an old beached sailor, the "mystery house" of northeast Oklahoma sits forlornly on a dismal stretch of clearing a mile west of here and watches the years roll by.

The gray, warped weather-boarding has fallen away from the stout log walls, while boards nailed crookedly across one blank window frame form a patch over an old adventurer's blinded eye.

Although it is sadly dilapidated, the old house retains a certain air of pride for under the ragged red paint on its broad mantel and wide baseboards, the wood is solid walnut.

This sturdy structure has seen more than 100 winters come and go. It is undoubtedly the oldest house in the region and obviously, sat here and watched the staunch stockades of historic Fort Gibson rot and fall.

This is the "mystery house" of northeast Oklahoma, but more than that it is the object of an old and persistent rumor among the Cherokees that it was Sam Houston's "wigwam on the Neosho."

FARMERS WARNED TO AVOID CITY SLICKERS

Bexar county farmers were warned Friday to beware of "city slicker" swindlers who have been preying on prosperous farmers in Alabama and Louisiana.

Ed Mahrito, investigator for the district attorney, revealed a band of swindlers were reported working in Bexar county, fleecing farmers in Southern states.

The swindlers, Mahrito said, at a farm house and call the farmer by name (after seeing it on the mail box) and say they are representing a "national mail order house." The swindlers inform the farmer that he is eligible for credit and urge him to sign an application.

When the telephone and bank checks are then forged, Mahrito declared.

—POLITICS—

Calvert, James Make Entry Into State Races.

The political dramas flared a little higher last week as two hopeful candidates threw their hats into the ring for state democratic primaries.

Speaker Bob Calvert of Hillsboro definitely announced his candidacy for Attorney General with a slashing attack on "vested interests" control.

"The office of Attorney General," Calvert declared, "should be filled by a man, free from entangling alliances, who can serve the interests of the great majority of the people of Texas faithfully and conscientiously."

The man who occupies the office, Calvert said recently, is "a storage for the major oil companies or other special interests," dominated by his connections or retainers."

Such a man, he asserted, would be unable to serve the people honestly when called upon to bring suits against his former clients.—

Calvert graduated from the high school at the Corsicana Home, then worked his way through the University of Texas. Serving his third term in the legislature, he was elected speaker of the house without opposition in January.

The other candidate to definitely announce was W. E. James of Austin, former employee in the State Department of Education, who will oppose State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods next summer.

Smith May Run

The most important development of the week, other than those announced, was the hint by Clyde Smith of Woodville that he may enter the Attorney Generalship race.

Smith, a former district attorney, polled 193,000 votes in the governor's race in 1934 against Miriam A. Ferguson and Walter Woodward of Coleman. He actually swept Houston, Beaumont and Port Arthur—the "national mail order" vote—but made without organization" or sufficient campaign funds, aides declared.

Later he was named assistant Secretary of State by Governor James V. Allred.

Smith's candidacy would be unsuccessful race for the governorship against incumbent Martin Dies of Orange.

POET LAUREATE OF ENGLAND WAS 'I PORTER IN A SALOON

WHAT romantic occupation we could you possibly predict for a boy so adventurous that he one could control him, so reckless that the sum total sum of care that him the father and mother died whom tured him to a merchant ship at the age of fourteen to curb him? That was John Masefield's start in life and today he holds the highest honors England can give and post.

Born in Ledburn, Herefordshire, England, in 1874, he sailed the seas for three years. Leaving the ship in port at New York city, he took any odd job he could get. He worked in a bakery and in a livery stable. He was porter in Lafin O'Conner's saloon at Yonkers, the north end of New York city, where he worked in a carpet factory, rising to the magnificent position of "mistake finder" at $5.50 per week for a year at this time, in his early twenties, that Masefield started to write poetry and in 1897 he left for London. His first volume of verses, "Salt Water Ballads," was published in 1902 opening with "A Consecration," in which he announced himself as the champion of "the dust and scum of the earth." Books of verse and novels followed, one upon the other, and John Masefield became established as one of England's greatest poets.

So, remember John Masefield before you pass judgment on that neighbor's boy who is such a holy terror or that young scamp who works in the saloon across the railroad tracks. Some day his poetry may draw a tear to your eye, a lump to your throat.

KERR TAKES STEPS TO HAVE PRIMARY

Kerrville, Sept. 18.—First definite steps in the movement to establish a Democratic primary in Kerr County was taken when the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce board or directors, at their September meeting, voted to appoint a committee to confer with county commissioners. It is declared that sentiment in favor of starting a primary in the county is growing. The county has found itself at a disadvantage by not being one of the state primary-holding counties, and wants one; promoters of the idea state for reasons of policy.

Mrs. Lon Elam Called By Death

Our community was shrouded with sadness last Thursday when it was learned that Mrs. Lon Elam of Medina, had passed away at Kerrville. Mrs. Elam had only been sick one week and when first taken sick she was thought to have malaria fever. Later in the week she was taken to Sector Hospital where all that loving and tender hands could do was done, but our Great Creator who doeth all things well saw fit to take her from this earth to care and sorrow to one where sorrow is unknown.

Mrs. Elam before her marriage was Miss Ruth Benton, born Aug. 1, 1895, Austin, Texas, and died Sept. 16, 1937. She was married to Lon Elam Dec. 30, 1921, at Houston, Tex. They have made their home near Bandera and Medina most of the time since their marriage. She had won the friendship of the people where she lived, for she was one who was ever ready and willing to aid those who needed her. Bandy of Houston, three brothers, three brothers, Arthur Benton of Denver, Col.; Clarence Benton of Austin, and Jesse Benton of Dallas, Tex. ## FOOTBALL GAME AT KERRVILLE SATURDAY

Kerrville, Sept. 22.—Kerrville, in general, and Tivy Field, in particular, will be the scene of activity Saturday night of this week when the Schreiner Institute Mountaineers meet the McMurry College Indians of Abilene in the official opener for the Cadets. Both teams have "dark horse" and popular prices will prevail for this feature attraction.

Tivy Field will have all the color that any hill-country football fan should want. The Indians, a husky, fast-charging outfit, bring the Texas Conference Crown this past season, will bring a flashy, well-drilled eleven to battle with them. Coach R. M. Medley's squad boasts a four-star backfield, full of veterans except the tackles. The fellow they're all talking about is big Bob Barnett, who performed for two years, and high scorer in the loop last year. Buck Munday, Jimmy Whitehead and Jack Hamilton, heaved four touchdown passes, slipped over tackle for the fifth marker, and added another single one of his teams extra points from placement. His longest completed pass was for 50 yards.

At the same time, the Mountaineers took a slow game from the Randolph Field Ramblers and San Antonio by a score of 13 to 0. Coach Jimmy Kitts of the Cadets see-sawed up and down the field. The Mountaineers fumbled in the first quarter, and with the first quarter, Max Carver plunged across from the five-yard stripe for the first counter. Soon shortly after. A. J. Melancon shot a pass to Chamblish, who ran 25 yards for the final marker. Chamblish's place kicked the extra point.

According to advance announcement, grown of fans are coming from Fredericksburg, Junction, Harper, Rocksprings, Medina, Hondo, Utopia and Boerne to view the game. The Schreiner band and student body will be present to furnish the pre-game entertainment is in store for all who gather at Tivy Field.

Under the direction of W. P. Grisham, the V-ettes, a vocal unit of students have been beautifying the High School grounds with flowers.

U. S. Envoy On League Committee

Washington, Sept. 20.—The United States agreed today to send a representative to the League of Nations advisory committee convening tomorrow to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict.

At the same time, the United States informed the League it could not say to what extent it would be able to co-operate with the committee until informed about the functions it will be expected to perform.

A State Department announcement said these facts were communicated to the secretary-general of the League by Leland Harrison, American Ambassador to Switzerland. Harrison was designated to attend the forthcoming meeting of the committee as this Government's representative.

It was specified that the American minister would attend the session "in the capacity and only for the same purposes" as those fulfilled by Hugh Wilson, former minister to Switzerland, who represented the United States on the committee in 1932.

At that time the advisory body was created to consider the Manchurian crisis. The United States agreed to be represented on it, at the invitation of the League, but it participated actively. Wilson attended its sessions on that basis, which did not give him the right to vote in the committee's deliberations.

The United States communications to the League emphasized that this country believes "thoroughly in the principle of consultation among nations of the world seeking to bring about peaceful solutions of international conflicts."

Earlier today, American officials took pains to make clear the position of the United States ambassador from Nanking was no slight to China.

Ambassador from Nanking had said that the ambassador's action had aroused resentment among people who cannot be indicted a lack of respect for the Chinese cause.

Officials at the State Department emphasized that the move did not constitute abandonment, or implication, of American representation in the area. They said Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson expected to carry on his duties aboard the patrol boat Luzon.

AG. TEACHERS ATTEND AREA CONFERENCE

R. R. Tippit and W. P. Grisham, vocational agriculture teachers of Medina and Bandera schools respectively, attended an Area 8 conference held at Taylor last Saturday. There are 50 schools in Area 8. Plans were made for four area conferences to be held at Taylor, six district meetings for boys at Kerrville, and five district meetings for teachers to be held at Kerrville. In addition, the teachers made plans for their boys to attend the Fat Stock Shows at San Antonio, Ft. Worth, and San Angelo, as well as an area contest to be held at Mart.

NEW DEAL GIVES TAMMANY BEATING

New York, Sept. 17.—The new deal won a smashing double victory for Tammany in New York's city, nayment primaries.

Tammany's candidate, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, new deal foe, was defeated in both the Democratic and Republican primaries, today's count of yesterday's election showed.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, head of Tammany's fusion movement and also a friend of the new deal, wrested the Republican nomination from Tammany's candidate by more than 30,000 votes.

LET'S TEMPER OUR INDIVIDUALISM

"Yes, they'll all co-operate in buying the machinery if they can thresh first," was the cripte remark of a friend of ours who has spent much time and effort in the cause of co-operation in agriculture.

But it occured to us that what he had to say about agriculture and the difficulties in arousing an active spirit of co-operation applies to communities like Bandera as well. We are all ready to co-operate if we can see sufficient immediate benefits for ourselves. If the goal is a bit remote; if we must accept something on faith, then our enthusiasm for co-operation exhibits a rapid decline.

We wouldn't condemn our fellow citizens severely for this trait. We are all by nature selfish beings, and the experience of the race for thousands of years has emphasized the necessity of looking out, for one's own interests first. Many a man finds that he receives little thanks and no return for what he does in behalf of the community. The class of profession in which he is engaged. He is forced to realize early in his career that he must look first to his own welfare and the welfare of those directly dependent upon him.

But sometimes this perfectly normal human trait seems to be a bit exaggerated. There are individuals who might well try to adopt a broader view of the professions and enterprises in which they are asked to co-operate and realize that they will gain in the end through the collective action of the citizens of the community.

Individualism is fine but it must be tempered with a little bit of the spirit of co-operation.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

We have an acquaintance who is a typical sportsman. He can cast a fly with amazing skill, and land the big ones if they are there. He has an excellent eye and any bird that passes within the range of his shotgun has little chance of continuing its flight. He is almost equally proficient at all other outdoor sports.

But we've never heard him brag: "I got the limit" after a day in the field, the duck blind, or on a stream.

For in addition to being a good sportsman he is also an ardent conservationist. He is satisfied with a small bag, realizing that the fun of the sport is more important than a full basket of the catch. He doesn't believe in violating game laws because, he says, "game laws have been enacted to preserve our sport for years to come. And fools who don't have don't seem quite right to me. I observe them anyway, because once we start violating there is no end of it."

No, friends, this fellow is not a character in fiction. He is just one of thousands of good sportsmen who have come to realize that the days of wide preservation and carefully observe game laws and the code of good sportsmanship, the time will come soon when all outdoor sports will be under the ban; when there will be no more fish in the lakes and streams and no birds in the marshes or highlands.

Now that another hunting season is at hand we feel that the example of such an individual is worth citing. Don't brag about how many birds you have been able to kill; don't think that it is a mark of good sportsmanship to take advantage of any good luck that may come your way.

Remember, the number of hunters has increased tremendously in recent years. This puts a heavy strain on the available stock of wild game. It behooves each individual who enjoys outdoor sports, therefore, to become a good conservationist and help preserve the sport for years to come.

After all it's not meat you're after. It's the fun of it, the tramp in the woods or fields or the thrill of getting within range of a flock of wily mallards.

It has been observed that the man who sells his soul rarely sells it at a profit.

INVENTOR RAN BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP

THE seed of success is ambition, and Orville Wright was ambitious from early boyhood. He was born in Dayton, Ohio, in 1871, the youngest of five children, and as they grew up Orville and one of his older brothers, Wilbur, became inseparable. A highly respected mid-western family, the father was a bishop of the United Brethren church and later publisher of a religious newspaper; but the family never had a lot of money. Orville Wright started to make money early in life, going about the neighborhood collecting old bones to sell to a fertilizing plant. When he was fourteen, he published a school paper with a toy printing press. Later he made a press of his own and greatly improved it. Next he invented a paper folding machine for his father's print shop. He quit school in the third year of high school and with Wilbur, started a weekly newspaper which lasted only three months. Then the boys went back to printing and later started a bicycle repair shop.

At about this time, they became interested in aviation and proceeded to construct the first flying machine built by human hands. Wilbur, the inventor, made the first successful flight was at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, and the success of aviation was assured when Orville made a flight lasting 12 minutes and 15 seconds, in 1908.

GOOD BUSINESS POLICY

The merchant or dealer who insists upon prompt payments of bills and adopts a strict credit is merely observing the rules of good business—good business for himself and good business for you.

Credit losses must be absorbed by the buying public if the merchant is to remain in business. It is directly in favor of your interest as a consumer and buyer that these losses be held at a minimum.

You should you, who always pay your bills, help take care of the credit extended to one who is careless in meeting his obligations? Why should you, indirectly of course, pay the other fellow's grocery bills, meat account, or clothing bill?

The next time some merchant insists upon prompt payments of any account you may owe, just consider this phase of the subject. Realize that in the end it is policy reacts to your benefit.

If he is slack in his credit policies you may be reasonably sure that he will compel you, in some manner, to pay the account of someone who is willing to run bills but is never willing to pay.

KYLE IS TO HAVE NEW FIRE STATION

Kyle, Sept. 15.—Work has been begun on the rock building at the southeast corner of the park, which is being converted into a fire station. This building was given to the fire boys about two years ago by M. G. Michaelis by deed. In showing his appreciation for services rendered by the boys in his large barn burned. They rushed out as soon as the fire was reported, and while the barn was about destroyed when they reached the fire, they saved two or three nearby buildings which meant a great deal to Michaelis, and, as stands above he felt so grateful, he gave them this building. When completed, the building will be used to house the fire truck and equipment for the school bus.

ROOSEVELT SPEECH HIGHLIGHTS

Washington, Sept. 17.—Highlights of President Roosevelt's address tonight:

The state of world affairs brought about (by dictatorships) threatens civilization. Fear spreads throughout the world—fear of aggression, fear of invasion, fear of revolution, fear of death.

Modern men and women will not tamely commit to one man or one group the permanent conduct of their government.

In our generation, a new idea has come to dominate thought about government—the idea that the resources of the nation can be made to produce a fair higher standard of living for the masses.

Our constitutional democratic form of government must meet the insistence of the great mass of our people that economic and social security and the standard of American living be raised.

Only by succeeding in that can we insure against internal doubt as to the effectiveness of our democracy and dissipate the illusion that the necessary price of that security is dictatorship with attendant spirit of aggression.

I believe that democratic government is entirely competent to do all the things which commonsense people have the right to expect. I believe that these things can be done under the Constitution. I am determined that under the Constitution these things shall be done.

You will find no justification in any of the language of the Constitution for delay in the reforms which the mass of the American people need.

Tolerance and fair play would disappear here, as it has in some other lands if the great mass of people were denied confidence in their justice, their security and their self-respect.

I ask they (the American people) give their fealty to the Constitution itself and not to its misinterpreters.

I ask that majorities and minorities subordinate intolerance alike to the common good of all.

HONDO VISITED BY KNOB-KNOCKERS

About as regularly as the farmer harvests his annual corn crop or the goat man clips his goat hair. Hondo is visited by what is evidently a gang of professional burglars who take more or less toll from the savings of our citizens.

At the Alamo Lumber Co. they simply worked the lock on the safe, after the manner of an expert craftsman, pocketed the contents and left without doing further damage. About fifteen dollars was the loot.

They forced open the front door of the Public Service Company office, ransacked here and there and end the knob off the safe without forcing an entrance to the contents.

At the Leinweber Co. store a notice pasted over the knob of the safe warns that any tampering with it will release a charge of tear gas. This warning evidently deterred them, for the moment and mussed up the stock considerably, apparently in an effort to "fit" themselves with shoes, shirts, gloves, etc. From appearances, considerable plunder would have been carried off but it was not possible to form an accurate estimate of the losses. Apparently after having jimmied at a door in the rear of the building they found it easier to open a window. Once inside the door was easily opened and the loot carried out that way. A pair of shoes were found some distance away, having evidently been lost by one of the miscreants in his hurried getaway.

Suspicion points to two strangemen and women who were seen early in the night about town. The car number has been traced to a car that had been stolen from its owner some days ago and later found wrecked outside the city and robbed of its license plates. Beyond this there is not much clue as to who the guilty parties are.—Hondo Anvil Herald.

LOOK OUT AUTO DRIVER

When you go out on the highway,
In your auto for a drive,
Just remember you'll be in Every other driver's way.
So be gentle, do not hurry,
There will be another day;
And perhaps you can enjoy it
If you don't throw life away.

Keep your eye upon the highway
And your foot upon the brake
And your hand upon the throttle
Let you make a great mistake
Though you may be very careful
There is danger just ahead
Dudes and drunkards are sporting,
Soon with them you may be dead.

Hoping to return again.
But they turned the auto over
Died right at end of lane.
In their haste they met a motor car,
Who was just returning home
But they sent him to the graveyard,
Now for all of them we mourn.

GREATEST CIRCUS IS COMING SOON

Dazzling Introductory Spectacle, One of Host of New World Acclaimed Features of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Organization.

The world's mightiest amusement enterprise on tour—the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined circus—with its 1937 seven-ring-and-stage program, star studded and liberally interspersed with new thrillers from Europe and Asia, featuring among its array of new wonders the most gorgeous introductory spectacle in its brilliant history. India, is definitely scheduled to exhibit in San Antonio Saturday, Oct. 2.

India is not just another circus spectacle. It is not merely a glittering parade to open the Big Show performances. It is the result of a year's planning, a really staggering expenditure and much research on the part of Sam W. Gumpertz, general manager of The Greatest Show on Earth. Costly fabrics were purchased in Paris, Lyons, Milan, Vienna and Madras. Color schemes blend in lovely perspectives. Every one of the two thousand people and animals taking part wears a small fortune on his or its back. All have towering headdresses of exquisite beauty. One group of 170 horses, with girl riders, is like nothing ever before offered for the delight of the eye. Two medieval bejeweled canopies over the girls' heads. India is a torrent of color and flashing jewels, flowing over the hippodrome track and the seven rings and stages. It is the last word in pageantry.

Heading the scores of new feature features and the general spectacular thriller; the Magyars, Europe's mightiest troupe of horsemanship stars; the Famous Willard Heyer, Holland's great horse trainer, and his wonder horses; the Mayer-Bruch troupe of aerial unicycle marvels; the Naitto family of wire wizards; the Lo Leita troupe of upside-down aerialists; the Quatteros, airplane aerialists; the Cleveres, whirlwind acrobats; the Wen Hais, novelty stars and many others equally renowned in Europe, Asia and South America. There are 800 performers.

In aerial and equestrian displays The Greatest Show on Earth has outdone itself this year, while the ground acrobatic numbers are the largest and finest ever presented for any age or age.

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined circus will arrive on Oct. 2 consisting of 100 double-length steel railroad cars, carrying 1000 people, 1009 menagerie animals, 7 herds of elephants and 700 horses.

Iodine

Iodine, discovered by the French manufacturer, Courtois, was first found in the ashes of seaweed. For years seaweeds were its only source. Later most of it came from Chile where it is a by-product of saltpeter manufacture. It melts at 107 degrees Fahrenheit and boils at 363 degrees Fahrenheit.

Two of a Kind

The automobile was a thing unheard of in Jo a mountaineer in an unfrequented community, and he was astonished one day when he saw one go by without any visible motive power. His eyes bulged, however, when a motorcycle followed closely in its wake and disappeared in a flash around a bend in the road.

"Great guns!" he said, turning to his wife, "I heard it, but I'm plumb afraid to say I seed that thing had a colt!"

The Objection

A man was buying a dog, and the shop assistant was very anxious to sell him a dachshund. But the prospective owner was evidently not very keen on this type of animal.

"What is about a dachshound that you don't care for?" asked the assistant.

"They make such a draught when they come into a room. They always keep the door open so long."

HUNTERS AND TRESPASSERS

"I don't like this hunting season coming on," said one of our farmer friends the other day. "Not that I object to hunting," he continued, "I like to hunt myself. But it seems as though these so-call sportsmen are getting worse and worse. They figure that hunting license gives them more rights on my land than I have myself."

We've heard other farmers tell about losing poultry, about the fellow who shot a rabbit almost in the barnyard, and broken fences, gates left open, and damage of considerable amount following each expedition of hunters.

Fortunately it is only the few, the very small minority of hunters, who are responsible for these depredations. But the worst part is that all hunters are blamed.

It is these violations of the rights of others, this secret, or wanton disregard of the farmer's own rights on his own land that have prompted the appearance of the hundreds of "No Hunting" signs. Hunters who find the country closed to them have only some of their own kind to blame.

To those of our readers who like to hunt we therefore suggest extream care in trespassing upon the property of someone else. Before you go across a field be sure that you first secure permission. Before you wander through woodlots, and then a turner's apprentice in a pottery shop. Cheap manual labor nothing skilled about most of it! He worked as a dish-washer in mid-western hotels, a harvest'hand in the Kansas wheat fields, and a carpenter's helper. He begged meals from house-to-house, in exchange for blackening stoves. Hardly a promising boy!

Carl Sandburg was learning the painter's trade when the Spanish-American war broke out, and he enlisted. A comrade persuaded him to go to Lombard college and he worked his way through as a bell ringer, grim janitor and college correspondent for the Galesburg Daily Mail. In college his literary ability developed and he became editor of the school publications. After graduation he supported himself as advertising manager of a department store and sales manager of a business machines firm.

He entered politics, became a reporter, and in 1917, Carl Sandburg joined the staff of the Chicago Daily News, where his work has been outstanding.

A rolling stone, a restless jack-of-all-trades has been Carl Sandburg till from the time of his literary awakening in college, he has written readily stories for children, a biography of Lincoln, and hundreds of poems about the mass of people. So, if that boy of yours is restless, if he slips from place to place, don't worry. Carl Sandburg gained fame by knowing many people and many, many problems.

CARL SANDBURG NEVER WOULD SETTLE DOWN

HOW many times have you heard someone say, "I don't know what to do about that boy of mine; it looks like he never will settle down!" Carl Sandburg was like that. A boy who skipped from job to job, and gave his simple Swedish immigrant parents many a worried hour! He was born in 1878 in Galesburg, Ill., of people who were uneducated and kindly, simple and poor. Forced by poverty to go to work when he was thirteen, he began the seemingly endless series of jobs that gave him such true understanding of the common people.

He drove a milk wagon in Galesburg and he blacked boots in a barber shop. If you could have looked into the future and said that some day Carl Sandburg would be a great poet, they would have laughed you out of town. He became a scene shifter in a cheap theater, a truck handler in a brick yard, and then a turner's apprentice in a pottery shop. Cheap manual labor nothing skilled about most of it! He worked as a dish-washer in mid-western hotels, a harvest'hand in the Kansas wheat fields, and a carpenter's helper. He begged meals from house-to-house, in exchange for blackening stoves. Hardly a promising boy!

WAR DOES NOT PAY

Haward Vincent O'Brien, famous newspaper columnist, recently interviewed a valet assigned to him during his European visit. The subject was the impending war, and this humble citizen offered some interesting statements for publication.

The imminent war all depends, in this gentleman's opinion, upon how much suffering the people can endure and the extent of their understanding. He referred to munition manufacture, and expressed the view that it can only bring misery. When people are producing guns and munitions they are not building houses, nor making clothing or the other necessities and luxuries which make life enjoyable.

High wages in the manufacture of materials of war doesn't help much because prices rise in the good and sufficient reason that there are not enough people producing the goods of commerce.

This old gentleman concluded with some interesting remarks upon tournament and misery. The more secure a nation becomes from dangers of foreign attack the more miserable its citizens become from want and privation.

It seems strange and unfortunate that more people cannot understand all this. If they could come to reside in the responsibility of maintaining war machines, if they could realize that in the end war cannot pay, perhaps they would place in office men who talked less about national honor and national security and more about the welfare of the people.

In the matter of giving until it hurts some people seem to be extremely sensitive to pain.

A friend observes that the sipper was just a natural and timely invention—just one more outlet, habitat to the age of zipped.

Japanese say great inquisitors, but it means that they have gone just a bit too far in their applications.

Psychologists computed the average mental age of a confession attitude at twelve years during the last war. If we're dragged into another war we hope that ignore the attitude of age.

Illinois Fence for New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—Illinois-made fencing is being shipped to the New York World's Fair for erection of the 380.8 acres comprising the central exhibit area. This statement when Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, announced the award of a first fencing contract to the Cyclone Fence Company, whose New York offices are at 370 Lexington Avenue.

Officials of the manufacturing firm announced that its Waukegan plant was shipping the fencing and that installation would start as soon as the first steel reached the 1,216½-acre exposition site on Flushing Meadow.

The contract price of the closed fence, installed, complete with gates and concrete footings at ten-foot centers, was declared. This figure submitted by pre-qualified bidders, is $52,313. About three miles of fence are required to enclose the exhibit area along three sides and down to the Flushing river.

Tremendous endurance of the tract was made necessary, Mr. Whalen said, by the great and varied concessions which will be in operation on the site two years in advance of the Fair's opening date. The Illinois-made fence will include all of the Transportation Zone of the exposition and the area that will be devoted to the Perisphere and Trylon wonders, the Perisphere and Trylon.

Marble Cross, Too?

She: "How dare you say my father is a wretch!"

He: "Well, I told him I could not live without you, and he said he would willingly pay the funeral expenses."

Spare Those Blushes

She Knew Her Neck

"I guess my neck wasn't clean," she told her mother on coming home, "cause that man used his vacuum cleaner on it."

Skips the Dullness, Not the Sin

"I can read you like a book," Why don't you then? You skip what you don't like in a book. Why linger over mine?

Swell Work

William Ruthen of Chicago was fined for klasing a young woman sent to his house to repair a sewing machine.

Joseph Dagan of Cardiff, reputed to be worth $300,000, was arrested for stealing a bicycle.

Mrs. Egberta Porton of New York was discovered to have stolen eight pairs of stockings and three pairs of underwear from a department store.

Mrs. E. T. Allen of London had her husband arrested for, wrecking the family automobile in which she had taken another man for a ride.

Young Love's Dream

"Daughter," said the father, "is that young man serious in his intentions?"

"Quite," said the father. "He's asked me how much I make, what kind of meals we have, where you and mother are to live with."

When Fred Patton, world's champion hog caller, demonstrated his artistry over a Norfolk, Neb., radio station, he damaged the equipment to the extent of $500.

On grounds that her husband keeps 20 cats and allows them to sleep in the best bed, Mrs. Charles Tidbury of London has applied for a separation order.

To a letter which questioned the efficiency of Omaha's police department, Police Commissioner Joseph Ryan replied: "Sgt. Sir Phooey, Richard W. Jepson."

Joseph Lascala of Sioux City, sued for a divorce on the grounds that his wife spent her time making home brew where she should have been preparing his meals.

His Money's Worth

The man walked into a restaurant, ornate in its futuristic decorations, and ranking with an atmosphere of high prices. He was ushered to a table and immediately ordered a glass of water. While the waitor was away, the man took out a small sandwich and proceeded to spread them on the table. No sooner was this done than a several hungry individual came to the table and said:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but this is mine."

"Who are you?", interupted the man.

"I am the manager," was the impressive reply.

"Good!" said the man. "I was just going to send for you. Why isn't the orchestra playing?"

Method In His Madness

The story is told of a hard boiled Irish boss and a gang of ditch diggers. Not satisfied with the progress they were making he yelled:

"All of yez get out," then his gang clambered out of the ditch. "Now all of yez get back in," he ordered. When they were back in the ditch he ordered again: "All of yez get out."

This was repeated several times before anyone got up enough courage to ask the reason for this unusual procedure.

"Well," was his explanation, "it seems to me I'm takin more dirt out on your boots than ye do on yer shovels."

Low Visibility

Simpkins considered himself a humorist. He sent a selection of his original jokes to the editor of a newspaper and confidently awaited a remittance. His exhibitant rose high when he received a letter, obviously from the newspaper office.

He opened it with feverish haste. There was no check, however, just a small note, as follows:

"Dear Sir: Your jokes received. Some we have seen before; some we have not seen yet."

John Bush of Buckeye Lake, O., didn't have a fiddle, but he did have an organ which he played after he had set fire to his house. The would-be Nero was lodged in jail.

"DEATH CLAIMS PAID PROMPTLY"

The Aetna Mutual has earned the right to the use of the above slogan for it has a history of sixteen years through-out which it has a record of prompt and full payment of claims.

Following are a few recent death claims paid by the company

MRS. FREDA JOHNSON, 1609 E. 6th St., Austin. Beneficiary, N. Nessen, nephew.

S. R. HODGES, 1607 Brushy St., Georgetown, Texas. Beneficiaries, children.

Certain expenses, such as hospital, doctors, medicines, and funeral costs must be met by the family after a death occurs. It is so easy to make provisions for those expenses through life insurance. Have you done so?

Our unusually liberal fixed premium policy will provide a reasonable amount of insurance at a cost within the reach of all. Premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually according to your own convenience. The monthly premium for a $1,000 policy at age 50 is $2.30, annual premium only $26.15. Rates for other ages are correspondingly low. This policy is issued from ages 15 to 60, inclusive.

The Company's $500 policy for children between ages 34 months and 16 years, inclusive, is indeed remarkable for it pays full benefits from date of issue, and the average annual cost has never exceeded $2.20. A similar $250 policy is also issued at just half the cost of the $500.00 policy.

THIS BARBARIC AGE

One cannot read the news of the day without contemplating the strange anomalies of the greatest civilization in recorded history. Of all the wonders of the day among the first is the aeroplane. It annihilates space. It brings nations, once remote, within a few hours of each other. Mechanically it inches the results of many of the greatest inventions of our time.

But observe how it is now most spectacularly employed. Japan serves notice that her air armada plans to blow the Chinese capitol off the face of the earth, and for hours women, children, old people must cower into cellars and dugouts in terror of the horror that is to come.

After hours or days of nervous tension, the hum of aeroplane motors announces the arrival of the engines of death. A rain of bombs falls upon a city where people, humble people, have had no voice in the affairs of nation, struggled to erect their tiny homes. Fire follows the bombardment, and days later rescue workers comb the ruins for the charred bodies of victims and the battered bodies of the wounded.

Man in his genius can invent almost anything. But he seems determined to employ his cunning for destruction a which all that approaches self destruction. It is only man, of all beings in the world, who fights and destroys those against whom he has no grievance—whom he has no cause to fear.

One thing that this war in China should accomplish. It should implant intelligent people the world over with the senseless brutality of modern war. How can we exalt as heroes men who drop high explosives to blow out the lives of defenseless women and children?

How civilized nations find it impossible to control this barbaric outburst will be one of the questions which will perplex historians and scholars of a more intelligent and enlightened age than ours.

A THANKLESS JOB

Of all the thankless jobs that community minded citizens are compelled to do, the solicitation of funds for celebrations, special events, or trade promotion enterprises rates at the top.

The solicitor for these funds gets nothing for himself. The only gleam that can come to him must be in the satisfaction he derives in working on civic enterprises. But in return for that nebulous advantage he must listen to abuse, to criticism, and to point blank refusals delivered in none too kindly a manner.

Our suggestion to the citizens of Bandera County is this: When a fellow citizen calls upon you for financial support to back some enterprise that is worthy of consideration, talk the matter over in a friendly manner. If you do not see fit to extend your support, tell him why in a friendly manner.

Don't assume the attitude that he is selling something for himself. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he is merely handling a job that nobody else wants.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY

"The wages of sin is publicity" is the often quoted statement of a once famous editor. Violators of the law are frequently more fearful of newspaper notoriety than of the punishment the court may mete out.

The wages of faithlessness to a public trust is also publicity. It has been our observation, that most public officials are fearful of having their questionable acts exposed in print.

Fair, fearless and honest publication of the facts about the public's business is essential to the successful operation of democratic government.

Miss Lee Ellen Davenport is

SCHREINER TO MEET SAN MARCOS FRIDAY

(Special to Bandera New Era.)

Kerrville, Oct. 2.—With rising sails and rattling anchor chains the Schreiner Institute Mountaineers are swinging well out into the current pig-skin lanes. Whether or not the going will be stormy cannot be told at this early date. But there is one thing certain, there will be plenty of rough going and lots of high seas next Friday night when the Mountaineers will be hosts to the San Marcos Bobcats on Tivy field in Kerrville.

Last Friday night the Bobcats trimmed the St. Edward's Tigers 14 to 13. The Teachers have a very good ball club. In fact it is probably the best that they have boasted in several seasons. They have a very good line and an excellent backfield but are very short on reserves. Their aerial attack is hard to excell and hard or to stop. In fact, passing is their main threat and was responsible for their scores against St. Edwards. Phillips, their fullback is seldom misses his target, and that target usually Campbell, end for the Bobcats, who can snare the ball almost from thin air. With this combination the Bobcats will have a constant scoring threat against the Mountaineers from almost any position on the field.

But do not think for a minute that the Mountaineers do not have a trick or two up their own sleeve. Furthermore, in the last four years the Bobcats have met three out of four battles with the Bobcats. Though not victorious in their clash with the San Houston Bearkats Friday night, they rough edges in preparation for the game, but a 40 yard run in the third quarter allowed the Bearkats to score. The Mountaineers are now fighting off the rough edges in preparation for the game with San Marcos, and should be in excellent shape to show the Bobcats how football is played in these parts.

Fans from throughout this portion of the State are expected to be here to witness what should be one of the best grid clashes on the season. Seldom does the chance come to see two strong college teams play at such low prices as have been set for this game, which will take place at 8 o'clock next Friday night in Tivy field. Adults will be admitted for 50c and children for 25c. There will be no extra charge for seats in sections usually reserved. Spectators are promised a very enjoyable evening and the Schreiner Cheering section and band will be there to add to the enjoyment of all.

'WAY BACK WHEN

DICTATOR ONCE DEPENDENT ON CHARITY

YOU may not agree with the principles advanced by Adolf Hitler, or you may be in entire sympathy admirer of his. In either case you will be interested in looking at the man and his life to see what person we may learn. Perhaps the greatest inspiration to be drawn from the German dictator's life is a word of encouragement for those whose early lives may seem failures.

Adolf Hitler was born on the Austrian frontier of Germany in 1889, the son of a customs official who had political ambitions for his son. The boy developed a desire to be an artist. His father opposed him, so Adolf refused to study in school. He was the despair of his father and mother. When he was eighteen, he went to Vienna and applied for admission to the Academy of Fine Arts and was told to paint sunny and they directed him to the architectural school, but his loafing in early grades ill prepared him to pass entrance requirements there. His mother died, and as his father had died five years before, he was left alone.

For three years he slept in a cheap men's hotel in Vienna, getting his meals at a monastery and occasionally begging from passers-by. In the winter he shoveled snow to make a living. Whenever he earned a few kroners, he stopped work and went to some cheap cafe to deliver political speeches. He painted poor water colors which a friend peddled for him, he painted picture postcards, and when hunger enough was a house painter. During the war he was a corporal.

Here was a man in his thirties who had never shown any real promise in anything he did. Then, Adolf Hitler formed an ideal of government.

Caution and Not Confusion

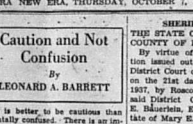
By LEONARD A. BARRETT



It is better to be cautious than mentally confused. There is an important distinction between caution and worry. The former is an attitude of mind devoutly to be wished. Caution is a prudent, foresight, wariness, but worry is fretting, harassing one's self, being over-anxious about things, many of which do not exist. Caution is constructive; worry is destructive. It is a form of caution that ultimately kills; for it is the caution that is worry and it finally blocks the machinery of the nervous system. There is nothing to be gained in closing the door after the horse has escaped. Caution would close the door before the horse escapes. Worry stands remedy a matter. The distinction between worry and caution is fundamental importance in keeping mental poise and balance.

What are the things people worry about? For the most part they are the things that never happen; the circumstances which could arise; the uncertain elements which make for routine living. The things which have happened to some one else. It would be an illuminating experience if the reader of these lines would make a list of the things they have worried about during the last five years. When we get the events which have really happened we have the guess the nine out of ten items would remain uncheckered.

Fear causes worry. It poisons the psychic centers. It makes our hairs cross cloudy and hazy. Fear dissolves mental vision and anesthetizes our nervous energy.

Many children are afraid of the dark. Children and others, we say. Yet, aren't we all? The darkness of the future which has not yet arrived overwhelms us. Analyze fear when it first makes its attack. Stop manufacturing imaginary trouble. Fear is not intelligent. Fear being influenced by ghost stories. Be cautious, but shun worry.

Crises come into every life. Important situations demand definite decisions. Defeat and victory both depend upon our reserve purposes and less centered upon life's perplexities. If we bend courageously each day, the future will not matter. If we are more concerned with what we can give to the future than what we can get out of the present, we shall avoid many pitfalls of worry. If we keep our mental balance, we shall be able to meet issues clearly and prosperously when fate events. If we keep faith with ourselves by living courageously as we think of courage, we shall be using knowledge and not dissipating it. Don't make worry an "escape for reality;" make caution an effectual element in each day's work.

ABOUT 2,000,000, ACRES IN GAME MANAGEMENT

Austin, Oct. 7.—About 2,000,000 acres of Texas farm and ranch lands have been included in community and county-wide game management associations within the last year, R. E. Callender, wildlife extension specialist at Texas A. & M. College, reported to the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission.

The landowner may be compensated for his efforts by charging sportsmen for hunting or fishing privileges.

Callender said the program, started a little over a year ago, already is proving of great economic benefit to many farmers, and is being welcomed by sportsmen.

The latter, he said, have not objected to paying for hunting and fishing rights, realizing that if landowners do not produce crops of game and fish there will be virtually no hunting and fishing of any parcels of the State.

"We regard the owner of the land as the key man in wildlife conservation," Callender said. He produces the game and he must be paid for it. We were brought up to think it right and proper to hunt and fish on the other fellow's land for nothing, but that attitude is being changed. With free hunting, the supply of game and fish dwindled tremendously. When we get the farmers to tend to their game crops like they tend to their other crops, the wildlife supply will increase and the farmer will be better off financially."

About 20 boys competed in the gar rodeo held at Medina Lake Saturday and Sunday with Johnnie Burnett of Bandera taking the individual championship with 8 gars to his credit. He teamed with Fred Hilbig, also of San Antonio, to gain half interest in the doubles title.

Apparently the weather was not good for gar fishing, as only 30 were landed, most of them after noon Sunday.

WHAT DID YOU DO?

Last week was Fire Prevention Week. What did you do about it? How about that flue or chimney? Has it been cleaned lately? A flue or chimney choked with soot is a potential fire hazard, so have them cleaned before really cold weather sets in. Paper and trash can so easily start a fire with little encouragement. When you burn your trash, select a still day so the fire cannot spread.

There is no harm in making every week Fire Prevention Week.

Much Needed Rain Comes At Last

The long awaited rain fell yesterday (Wednesday) morning when 1 15-16 inches were recorded by Observer Albert Kalka. The first real touch of autumn weather accompanied the rain and with continued cloudy weather, more rain can be expected.

The rain was general over the county, most sections reporting about the same as the amount that fell here. Those farmers who had planted seats, about 20 per cent, are very happy as the rain was sufficient to insure germination and good growth.

The terraces which were recently built received their first test and the county agent reports that they held the water in a very satisfactory way. On the plowed fields there is also evidence that the water soaking into the ground.

Special Session of Congress Called

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Roosevelt today called a special session of congress to meet on November 15.

At his press conference late today, the president announced to a large crowd of newsmen that he had signed the proclamation calling congress into action.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no indication to reporters of the subjects to be considered but the first business of the extraordinary meeting will be farm legislation and housing plus crop control as its principal purpose.

That was placed at the top of the calendars of both houses under an agreement congressional leaders made with the administration at the time a nine-cent loan and three-cent subsidy program was arranged for cotton.

Other matters for probable consideration are wages and hours, reorganization of the executive departments and nationwide planning of the development and use of natural resources under co-ordinated regional boards.

The president said he would outline his program in a special session in his radio address today.

The special session will be the second of Mr. Roosevelt's term. The "hundred days" session of 1933 was called shortly after his inauguration during the banking and industrial crisis, brought about by failure of the industrial recovery act, the agricultural adjustment act and other cornerstones of the president's early program.

The call brings congress back to Washington less than five months after adjournment of the regular 1937 session on August 21. The next regular session will be convened January 3, 1938.

DISCONTINUANCE OF PENSIONS FORECAST

Discontinuance of old age assistance October 1, except for a pension resulting in a sharp reduction in grants, was forecast this week by Dr. Ivy Kelly, director of Control in an official communication addressed to State Representative and Mrs. C. Graves.

The official statement indicated the possibility that payments to the needy aged might not be made in November, December, January and, probably, in February. Cause of the crisis, as explained by the members of the Board of Control, which is the Old Age Commission, is that all, or nearly all, of the present available state assistance funds will have to be used to meet the $1,625,000 owed a Dallas bank and due not later than January 1.

Further, the $1,625,000 from the income from present state sources is $100,000 less each month than funds paid to the needy aged, which necessitates a drastic reduction in the number of aged granted. Grants average about $14 per month.

John M. Rotan and A. M. Henderson were in this city this week on business. Messrs. Rotan and Henderson have recently moved to the F. A. Masters place four miles south of town with their families, the former from Ingram and the latter from Kerrville. Mr. Rotan is a graduate agriculturist and graduate civil engineer and is being assisted in his work by Mr. Henderson.

Joe Glenn and Bob Patton, Charlie Verjane, D. B. Hillas and son all of Utopia, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patton Monday.

Mrs. J. A. Nunn who has been tage in Highland Waters returned to her home in San Antonio Saturday.

Mrs. Levi Duncan and children, who for the past few months have made their home in the Hubbard apartments, moved to Fort Worth Wednesday. Mr. Duncan

POET WAS ONCE A LAWYER

READ this story of the "convention" that will become one of our most famous poets. Not a dreaming, unsuccessful lawyer, but a man with a profitable and important law practice, important enough to associate with Clarence Darrow at one time. A busy man of commerce who became a writer of stirring poems, sonnets, essays and drama!

Edgar Lee Masters was born in the little town of Garnett, Kan., in 1868. His father was a descendant of old Virginia stock; his mother, the daughter of Methodist minister and descendant of Israel Putnam of Revolutionary War fame. The family moved to Petersburg, Ill., and later to Lewistown, where Edgar was raised in the typically respectable atmosphere of small town America.

He did newspaper work for the local weekly, learned the printing trade, and studied law under his father, who was one of the leading lawyers in the state. In 1891 Edgar Lee Masters was admitted to the bar and practiced in partnership with his father. The following year where he was a highly successful lawyer and politician.

But even in high school, Edgar Lee Masters was interested in writing and he never forgot his ambitions. He contributed to the Waverly Magazine of Boston and the Saturday Evening Call of Peoria he wrote poems for a Chicago newspaper. His first book, published in

Titsworth Family Reunion

On Sunday, October 3, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Titsworth entertained an all-day outing on the Sabinal river in reunion with their children, scheduling their annual family wedding anniversary. The bountiful picnic dinner spread at noon was outstanding in memory that the daughters of the Titsworth family had not lost the art of cooking, of which the younger generation stand accused. A thirty-five years is a long time to "stand hitched without bucking," as Mark Twain would say, but Mr. and Mrs. Titsworth declare that it hasn't seemed so long to them.

The children who shared in the joy of the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Clint Titsworth and children and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roberts of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Aldric Patterson and children of Bandera, and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Titsworth and children of Sabinal. Sabinal Sentinel.

WHAT DID YOU DO?

Last week was Fire Prevention Week. What did you do about it? How about that flue or chimney? Has it been cleaned lately? A flue or chimney choked with soot is a potential fire hazard, so have them cleaned before really cold weather sets in. Paper and trash can so easily start a fire with little encouragement. When you burn your trash, select a still day so fire cannot spread.

There is no harm in making every week Fire Prevention Week.

Much Needed Rain Comes At Last

The long awaited rain fell yesterday (Wednesday) morning when 1 15-16 inches were recorded by Observer Albert Kalka. The first real touch of autumn weather accompanied the rain and with continued cloudy weather, more rain can be expected.

The rain was general over the county, most sections reporting about the same as the amount that fell here. Those farmers who had planted oats, about 20 per cent, are very happy as the rain was sufficient to insure germination and growth.

The terraces which were recently built received their first test and the county agent reports that they held the water in a very satisfactory way. On the plowed fields there was no run-off, all the water soaking into the ground.

Special Session of Congress Called

Washington, Oct. 12.—President Roosevelt today called a special session of congress to meet on November 15.

At his press conference late today, the president announced to a large crowd of newsmen that he had signed the proclamation calling congress into action.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no indication to reporters of the subjects to be considered but the first business of the extraordinary meeting will be farm legislation with surplus crop control as its principal purpose.

That was placed at the top of the calendars of both houses under an administration-congressional leaders made with the administration at the time a nine-cent loan and three-cent parity program was arranged for cotton.

Other matters for probable consideration are wages and hours, reorganization of the executive departments and nation-wide planning of the development and use of natural resources under co-ordinated regional boards.

The president said he would outline the purpose of the special session in his radio address tonight.

The special session will be by the second of Mr. Roosevelt's term. The "hundred days" session of 1933, called immediately after his inauguration bring the banking and industrial crisis, brought passage of the national industrial recovery act, the agricultural adjustment act and other cornerstones of the president's early program.

The call brings congress back to Washington less than three months after adjournment of the regular 1937 session on August 25. The next regular session will be convened January 3, 1938.

DISCONTINUANCE OF PENSIONS FORECAST

A DIFFICULT BUSINESS

"It takes a lot of study and plenty of head-work as well as brawn to make a success of farming," was a statement made by an acquaintance who was brought up on a farm but spent a number of years in another line of occupation before he went back to the job of making his living from the soil.

"It's more of a job than it used to be," he continued. "It's not only a matter of producing economically on the farm but a man ought to know something about present day marketing problems and take an active part in the co-operative movement."

We also recall a statement we once heard in an address by a man of considerable property who owned several business establishments, including a large farm. Said he: "I can get a good man to run the store and feed business. It isn't so hard to find a good man to handle some of the other properties. But to get a good man who can make a success on the farm, well that's something difficult."

Those of our readers who may imagine that anybody can farm would receive a great surprise if they could just get a glimpse of what the modern farmer must do and learn. The fruit grower must study soils, know how to fertilize his orchard, must be familiar with the difficult problems of marketing his crop at a profit.

The dairyman must study breeding of livestock, feeding for production, care of animals that contract disease and in addition to that he must know a lot about getting a good living from the soil, too, today is called upon to have a knowledge of the marketing of his product.

Go down the list in farming and you will find that present conditions have created a host of great wealth of scientific knowledge and many complicated problems that now arise make the job of operating a farm one that keeps both mind and body busy throughout the year.

To those men who have made a success of the business here in our community we extend a word of congratulations. You are engaged in a difficult business, but one that should always be interesting provided you keep abreast of the times.

OF PRACTICAL VALUE

It is told that when Michael Faraday explained that an electric current could be induced by revolving a wire loop between the poles of a magnet, a statesman asked: "Very interesting, but what good can it be?"

"Some day you may be able to tax it," replied the great forefather of the science of electrical experiment. Probably he did not foresee the gigantic development of electric power in those comparatively early times, but he exhibited the true spirit of the scientist who begins experiments with the stupidity of the rank and file of mankind who cannot see that anything learned about nature is of practical value sometime.

We also recall a statement once heard in an address by a man of considerable property who owned several business establishments, including a large farm. Said he: "I can get a good man to run the store and feed business. It isn't so hard to find a good man to handle some of the other properties. To those men who have made a success of the business here in our community we extend a word of congratulations. You are engaged in a difficult business, but one that should always be interesting provided you keep abreast of the times.

OF PRACTICAL VALUE

It is told that when Michael Faraday explained that an electric current could be induced by revolving a wire loop between the poles of a magnet, a statesman asked: "Very interesting, but what good can it be?"

"Some day you may be able to tax it," replied the great forefather of the science of electrical experiment. Probably he did not foresee the gigantic development of electric power in those comparatively early times, but he exhibited the true spirit of the scientist who begins experiments with the stupidity of the rank and file of mankind who cannot see that anything learned about nature is of practical value sometime.

We also recall a statement once heard in an address by a man of considerable property who owned several business establishments, including a large farm. Said he: "I can get a good man to run the store and feed business. It isn't so hard to find a good man to handle some of the other properties. But to get a good man who can make a success on the farm, well that's something difficult."

Those of our readers who may imagine that anybody can farm would receive a great surprise if they could just get a glimpse of what the modern farmer must do and learn. The fruit grower must study soils, know how to fertilize his orchard, must be familiar with the difficult problems of marketing his crop at a profit.

The dairyman must study breeding of livestock, feeding for production, care of animals that contract disease and in addition to that he must know a lot about getting a good living from the soil, too, today is called upon to have a knowledge of the marketing of his product.

Go down the list in farming and you will find that present conditions have created a host of great wealth of scientific knowledge and many complicated problems that now arise make the job of operating a farm one that keeps both mind and body busy throughout the year.

To those men who have made a success of the business here in our community we extend a word of congratulations. You are engaged in a difficult business, but one that should always be interesting provided you keep abreast of the times.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Bandera County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Albert Fuller, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Albert Fuller; Emma Edwards, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Emma Edwards; Albert Edwards, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Albert Edwards; W. W. Fuller; Maggie Knowles, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Maggie Knowles; Bradley Knowles if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Bradley Knowles; Dave Logan, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Dave Logan, and Ed Logan, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Ed Logan, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of District Court of Bandera County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Bandera, Texas, on the Fourth Monday in November, A. D. 1937, the same being the 22nd day of November, A. D. 1937, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 11th day of October, A. D. 1937, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 1135, wherein Paul E. White is Plaintiff, and Albert Fuller, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Albert Fuller; Emma Edwards, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Emma Edwards; Albert Edwards, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Albert Edwards; W. W. Fuller, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said W. W. Fuller; Maggie Knowles, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Maggie Knowles; Bradley Knowles, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Bradley Knowles; Dave Logan, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Dave Logan, and Ed Logan, if living, and if dead the unknown heirs of said Ed Logan, Defendants, and said petition alleging:

1. That plaintiff is lawfully seized and possessed of the following described tract of land situated in Bandera County, Texas, known and described as follows, to-wit:

Known as Survey No. 104, about 29½ miles S. 85 deg. W. from the town of Bandera, patented by the State of Texas to Henry Fuller by Patent No. 88, Vol. 19-A, dated June 17, 1925, and conveyed by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at the N. E. corner of Survey No. 1633, originally granted to William Owen, a stone mound from which a L. C. cr. bears S. 3 deg. E. 9.0 varas; thence North 55 deg. E. 950.4 varas to a stone mound; thence South 35 deg. E. 950.4 varas to a stone mound; thence South 55 deg. E. 950.4 varas to a stone mound near a spring branch, from which a forked L. O. 3" brs. S. 5 deg. W. 36.3 varas; thence North 35 deg. W. 950.4 varas to the place of beginning.

That the holder and claimant of the above described tract in fee simple by virtue of a continuous claim of title from the sovereignty of the soil to him.

That in addition to his fee simple title, plaintiff shows that he has good and perfect title to said land under the statutes of limitation of five years, which statute he now expressly pleads, and in this connection he shows that he and his predecessor in title, claiming the land under deeds duly registered, have had peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of the land herein described, cultivating, using and enjoying the same, and paying all taxes due thereon, for a period of more than five years next preceding the filing of this suit.

2. Plaintiff further shows that defendants claim some estate, but are claiming to have good and perfect title to the tract of land hereinabove described, but that they have had peaceable continuous and adverse possession of the same by an actual enclosure thereof, and cultivating, using and enjoying the same for a period of more than ten years next preceding the filing of this petition; wherefore plaintiff says that in addition to his fee simple title and his title under the statute of five years' limitation, both as heretofore pleaded, he has good and perfect title to said above described tract of land under and by virtue of the statute of limitation of ten years, which he here and now specially pleads.

3. Plaintiff further shows that he and those whose estate he has have had and held the tract of land hereinbefore described for more than twenty-five years continuously up to now, by peaceable, adverse claim of right and in good faith under a regular chain of title descending from the State of Texas with all the muniments of title duly recorded in the Deed Records of Bandera County, Texas; wherefore he says he has a good marketable title to said land under and by virtue of the statute of limitations of twenty-five years, which he now specially pleads in bar of any claims the defendants or either of them may now assert.

Plaintiff shows that the defendants are now asserting some character of claim to the said above described tract of land, but he shows that any claim they or either of them may have had to the said land is now barred under the statute of five, ten and twenty-five years of limitation as above pleaded and shown.

4. That the claims of defendants as above alleged, the exact nature of which is unknown to plaintiff, casts a cloud upon his good title to said tract of land and prevents its sale for its adequate value, and that plaintiff is entitled to have said cloud removed and to be quieted in his title.

7. That by the adverse and unjust claim of defendants, plaintiff has been damaged in the sum of One Thousand Dollars.

Wherefore, premises considered, plaintiff prays that the defendants and each of them be cited to appear and to answer herein according to law, and that upon a final hearing hereof he have judgment for the title and possession of the above described tract of land and premises, and that writ of restitution issue, and for his damages; that all cloud cast upon the title of plaintiff to said land be removed; that he decreed to be the owner thereof in fee simple and quieted in his title thereto, and he prays for all such other and further relief, special and general, in law and in equity, to which he may show himself justly entitled.

Herein Fail Not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Bandera, Texas, this the 11th day of October, A. D. 1937.

ROSCOE L. HAYES,
Clerk District Court, Bandera County.

By Thelma Surber, Deputy.

D. 1937, the plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the following land and premises situated in the County of Bandera, State of Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit: being 320 acres of land, part of Section 20, Certificate No. 1821, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co., about 25 miles North 80 West from Bandera City, patented to Henry Essary by Patent No. 97, Vol. 45A, issued May 7th, A. D. 1929, which said tract of land is fully described in plaintiff's petition; that, as alleged in said petition, the said defendants, if living, and their unknown heirs, if dead, some or all of them are setting up some character of claim or title to said tract of land above described, and as fully shown in said petition, but that same, if they have, such claim is inferior to the title of plaintiff in and to said land and premises, the title of which land vests in plaintiff in fee. For a second count in said petition, and for further plea, plaintiff complains of each and all of said defendants, if living and their unknown heirs and successors, if dead, and each of them, alleging that he has a good and perfect title to the said tract of land above described and claimed by him for the reason that he has had by himself and those under whom he holds adverse, peaceable and continuous possession of said land and premises, using and enjoying the same for a period of more than ten years next preceding the filing of this suit, cultivating, using and enjoying the same for a period of more than five years next preceding the filing of said suit, and that he has had a good and perfect title to said land for more than ten years next preceding the filing of said suit, and that he has had a good and perfect title to said land for more than five Death invariably brings with it certain expenses. Hospital, doctors, medicines, funeral costs must be taken care of by the family. Have you made provision for these expenses? It is so simple to do so by means of life insurance.

A reasonable amount of insurance may be provided at a cost within the reach of all through our unusually liberal fixed premium policy for adults. Premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually according to your own convenience. The monthly premium for a $1,000 policy at the age 40 is $1.55, annual premium only $17.75. There are no membership fees, death assessments, nor dues. Costs for other ages and amounts are in approximate proportion. This popular policy is issued to healthy white risks only between the ages of 15 and 60 years, inclusive.

The Company also issues a most remarkable $500 policy for children between the ages of 24 months and 16 years, inclusive, the average annual cost of which has never exceeded $3.20. Write or phone the Home Office for vtailed information.

CONCERNING CANCER

"The increasing number of persons in Texas dying from cancer justifies a warning at this time against quacks and so-called cancer cures," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"While newspapers, as a rule, do not carry the cancerer type of advertising, there are many other ways for misinformation to reach the public. Undoubtedly there are persons who, being thus deluded from seeking proper advice, unnecessarily become cancer victims, while others not having cancer are fleeced out of much money for a cure," Dr. Cox continued.

"There are but two ways of treating cancer. First, by surgery; and second, by the use of radium or X-ray. Treatment must be started early and in the hands of a competent surgeon. Surgery is relied upon to remove cancerous tumors and is used in nearly two thirds of the cases. X-ray or radium is used to advantage in one-third of the cases, frequently the two methods are combined.

Self-medication, enema, colored lights, pastes, salves and the like are valueless.

"The great bulwark against cancer is early diagnosis. Every case is an emergency and it is unfortunate that the majority of those with cancer do not seek medical advice until beyond a permanent cure. No hope should be based that the cancer will heal by their treatments. Rather, the annual physical examination and an immediate reporting to your physician of any symptoms which may be suspected to be the beginning of cancer, should be relied upon. These symptoms are: any unusual bleeding from any body opening, any lump in the breast or other part of the body; any persistent sore, particularly on the face or mouth, and chronic indigestion. These conditions may—not be cancer, but sometimes they are forerunners of the more common types of this disease. Where cancer is suspected, do not delay, but consult your family physician at once," Dr. Cox admonishes.

QUESTION: How is it possible to prevent fruit pies from boiling over in the oven?

ANSWER: Have you ever tried putting a loose top crust on fruit pies? You simply fit bottom crusts pan, flute edges and add filling. Cut top crust just large enough to fit over filling and meet the fluted edge of lower crust; prick pastry, place on pie and bake. When filling expands, the top crust rises making it impossible for the juice to run out.

ANSWER: That is a question which only you can decide, particularly if you have a Hotpoint range. Many foods—cakes, pies, meats, hot breads, etc., are equally successful when the baking begins in either a cold or a preheated oven. The "one-step" cold oven-start method is, of course, ideal for cooking meals when you are away as well as convenient for the housemaker who forgets to preheat the oven. Both methods are successful, however, as it is recommended that you use the particular one which best fits your needs.

QUESTION: How can one cream butter quickly without waiting for it to soften?

ANSWER: First, rinse out mixing bowl with hot water and dry. Then add butter and cream it with a wooden spoon. To speed up the process even more, place bowl in pan of hot water, in a short time the butter will be fluffy and soft.

QUESTION: What remedy can you suggest for coarse granular refr

FOOTBALL

The Jourdanton Football team came to Bandera Friday October 15 and played our team a football game. Jourdanton won by a score of 38-0, scoring in every quarter. Jourdanton tied with George West, but won the decisions on penetrations and first downs. As a whole Bandera played the best game they have played during the year.

This Friday October 22 Hondale "B" team comes to Bandera for a game. A petition was first circulated last week to ask the business men to attend the game, nor will it be this week. The school authorities and coaches appreciate the loyal support of the local people, and want your support. Money taken in at the gate goes to pay the expenses of the game. We have to pay $10.00 and our expenses for the officials at each game; $1.50 is used for time to line the field. At the beginning of the year new equipment amounting to about $60.00 was purchased, all are endeavoring to pay for that by admission prices.

We have secured a good athletic program for the year, five of our nine games being at home after Friday we have one more game at home with Charlotte November 12. See us Friday afternoon at 3 p. m., admission 25c and 15c.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. Elsie Rettiger Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Hasey Felt, Mrs. Ernest Richter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Dennison, Mrs., E. Kreisle, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. ## Mrs. John J. Dugosh Dead

Mrs. John J. Dugosh passed away at her home near Bandera on last Thursday night. She had been ill for some time, but refused to give up until her illness became so serious that she was forced to take to her bed a few days before her death.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at 10 o'clock by Father F. S. Strobel at the Catholic Church, and interment was made in the Catholic Cemetery. The pallbearers were Ernest Kindla, Alex Anderwald, Frank Anderwald, Johnnie Anderwald, Tom Moravietz and Joe Moravietz.

Mrs. Frances Dugosh, nee Kalka, was born in Bandera Sept. 12 1860, being at the time of her death 77 years, 1 month and 3 days old. She had lived here all of her life. She was happily married to John J. Dugosh, and to this union ten children were born, eight of whom are still living and are; Mrs. Kate (Robert) Hubble of Ingram, Mrs. Clara (Dell) Reeves of Camp Verde, Mrs. Elizabeth (Henry) Hubble, Mrs. Annie James of Bandera, Miss Florence Dugosh and Mrs. Christine (Fred) Zimmermann of Chicago, Ill., Casper and Cleophus Dugosh of Bandera. Also surviving is her husband, John J. Dugosh, and three brothers, Lawrence, Clemens and Alex Kalka of Bandera, and one sister, Mrs. Theo. Manarek of Hereford, Tex. There are 41 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

This records the passing of another pioneer mother in our community. The deaths of two noble pioneer women of Bandera occurred almost simultaneously when Mrs. Eliza Reitzer and Mrs. John J. Dugosh passed away during the same hour last Thursday night, within a mile of each other. Mrs. Dugosh was one of those gentle mothers whose whole life was devoted to service and sacrifice in her home. She reared a large family, and leaves to her children the heritage of a good name and the blessings of a mother's devotion. Some three years ago her aged husband was stricken with paralysis, and has lain helpless ever since. She devoted herself to ministering to his wants and needs, and although herself afflicted with illness, she would not relax her efforts to make him comfortable until her ailment became so serious she had to take to her bed. Her children were all present for the funeral. Two of her daughters, Mrs. Fred Zimmermann and Miss Florence Dugosh, who reside in Chicago, hastened to her bedside when notified by wire that she was seriously ill, arriving here the day before she passed away.

Mrs. E. Reitzer Called By Death

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at the Methodist Church for Mrs. Eliza Reitzer, aged 84 years, who passed away Thursday night at the home of her daughter, Miss Annie Reitzer. Rev. O. E. Morsband, pastor of the Methodist church conducted the services. The pall bearers were B. C. Fleenor, Floyd Hamilton, Willard Zumberg, Robert Balzen and Roland Reitzer.

Mrs. Reitzer is survived by eight children, one son, Willie Reitzer, having passed away a few years ago. The living children, all of whom were present at the funeral, are August and Leo of San Antonio, John of Elmendorff, Henry of Bandera, Mrs. Elizabeth Long of Schertzer of San Antonio, Mrs. Lydia Dreeves of Austin, Mrs. Regina Zumberg of Pipe Creek, and Miss Annie Reitzer of Bandera. She is also survived by one brother, Fritz Eckhart of Bandera; two half-brothers, Albert Eckhart of Bandera, and Willie Eckhart of Hondo, and a half-sister, Mrs. Amelia Ross of Utopia.

Anna Elizabeth Reitzer, nee Eckhart, was born in Camden, New Jersey, May 9, 1853, and came to Texas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Eckhart, when she was three years old. On Aug. 9, 1870, she was married in the Lutheran Church at Quihi, Texas, to August Reitzer, and lived at Quihi several years before moving to Bandera. At the time of her death she had lived in Bandera county more than seventy years, most of the time in the East Verde community, where she reared her family. Her husband died many years ago.

The profusion of beautiful flowers which banked the mound above her last resting place mutely proclaimed the love and esteem in which this pioneer mother was held by our people. She was truly a splendid character and well known for her good deeds and many acts of kindness in the community where she lived for an hour than half a century. Despite the hardships and privations of the pioneer days, she reared her family of manly sons and lovely daughters to take responsible places in life, to become useful men and women of good repute. Her influence in the home and in the community wherein she lived for so many years was always for good. She ministered to the sick and relieved distress, and shared her meagre substance with the needy. Until the infirmities of age began to weigh upon her, she was a very active woman. About a week before death, she was stricken with serious illness, and all that medical skill and tender nursing could do was done without avail, and she passed away peacefully last Thursday night. Her work here on earth was well done; her reward in heaven will be great.

To the sorrowing children and other relatives we extend condolence and sympathy.

J. Marvin Hunter.

ATTEND PRE-SHOWING OF NEW CHEVROLETS

Pre-showings of the 1938 models of Chevrolets for Dealers and salesmen have been held in more than 30 of the principal cities of the United States in the past few days, according to Frank H. Mansfield, of the Mansfield Chevrolet Co., who with Ray F. Wyatt motored to Austin before attending the introduction ceremonies held in San Antonio.

The annual preview was designed to familiarize all Chevrolet Dealers and salesmen with the new product, selling plans and advertising activities scheduled for the balance of 1937, and 1938.

A mighty industrial parade was painted by Mr. Mansfield on his return here, "Cranes in the entire automotive industry seem inhabited," he said, "and the outstanding attraction made by Chevrolet in its new product, indicate that public acceptance of the 1938 car will be even more enthusiastic than ever before."

Mr. Mansfield had high praise for the new car, pointing out that engineering refinements and body, chassis, and interior improvements made Chevrolet an even finer car than in 1937.

Predicting a banner sales year, he based his forecast on the fact that many thousands of Chevrolet owners have postponed the purchase of a new car, awaiting the new Chevrolet—right unseen by Chevrolet dealers.

"I call this a distinct tribute to Chevrolet quality in this depression year," he said.

A big time was had by all who attended the party given by Mrs. Alvin Carnival Friday night.

Mrs. Ed Mansfield and Mrs. Ben Adamietz were hostesses to the Bridge Club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mansfield.

Mrs. Thallman

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maasss and family went Sunday to San Antonio with Joe Jr. who is in the hospital there.

Mrs. Herbert Fuller of Utopia visited friends here Sunday.

Miss Eva Gossett and Jeanette Pitt, Monroe and Charles Fox were guests in Jourdanton Saturday night.

The next information returns required on what are known to taxpayers as Form SS-2 and SS-2a will cover the period from July 1 through December 31, 1937, and will be due within the month of January, 1938, but not later than January 31, 1938. Mr. Scofield advised all who are liable for Social Security taxes that the monthly tax returns must be filed as usual, accompanied by the payment of the tax due each month. The tax return is known as Form 941.

The next information forms will not be distributed out of Mr. Scofield's office until the latter part of December. In order to make these returns accurate and to save the taxpayers much trouble, he advised that all employers keep accurate records of all employees between July 1 and December 31 of this year, both as to total monthly payrolls and as to the names of individuals, and that they insist on all employees obtaining account numbers and furnishing information as to those numbers to employers so that such numbers will be available for making up the information returns next January 31.

The vocational agriculture class has started planting some winter grass in the school yard. This is Italian Rye grass variety and makes a very pretty yard in winter. The class has made the yard very beautiful. They moved the rocks, cut the weeds, trimmed the trees from the trees and planted Bermuda grass and shrubs.

We have started fattening some hogs, having bought 3 purebred Poland China boar pigs and intend to buy 3 more. The pigs are 7 months old and weigh around 120-125 lbs. each, and are subject to registration. These pigs will be sold to anyone who wishes to improve his hogs by breeding them up. This is a good way for the boys to make a big hog for market. In about 8 weeks the pigs will be castrated and weaned from their mothers and will start feeding them a balanced ration. When they are big enough they will be sold on the market.

AN AARON BURR TRICK

In New York City the old stone building of the Bank of Manhattan company, an institution whose history goes back almost to the foundation of the government. It is recalled by a recent writer that the institution received from the shrewd trick of a lawyer, who was none other than the notorious Aaron Burr.

At the time the bank was projected the group behind it were in bad politically and hence unable to obtain a bank charter. They organized a water company instead, but in drawing the charter Burr added a clause permitting the company to employ also "in other necessary business." The company has since availed itself of the opportunity to include banking and it has been carried on successfully.

The structure in Wall street adjoins the lot formerly occupied by Federal Hall, the first national capitol, where Washington took the oath of office as president. That tract is now the site of the sub-treasury.

If Aaron Burr and his associates could look upon the scene today they would marvel at the development which has resulted from their clever scheme for obtaining a bank charter.

CAUSES OF CRIME

In their efforts to find an explanation for the increased prevalence of crime, many thoughtful persons have concluded that the tendency to burden the public with a multiplicity of laws may account for much of the law lessness which now prevails.

Speaking before the international convention of police-chiefs in Boston, Stimson said: "We can limit and harass human freedom to such an extent that even the most law-abiding citizen often feels that he is oppressed and will seek unlawful means of expressing his personality."

Through the operation of innumerable laws and the activities of government agencies employed to enforce them, the normally balanced individual feels that he is oppressed and will seek unlawful means of asserting his personality.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 LOVER WAS AN OIL DRILLER

CLARK GABLE was little different from any other small town boy. Born in Cadiz, Ohio, in 1900, and later living in Hopedale, Ohio, population 500, Clark Gable was a regular American boy, fond of the outdoors and all sports. Motherless from the time he was seven months old, he was raised by his grandparents until his father remarried. He held a deep love and respect for his stepmother.

Like any other normal American boy, Clark Gable was not sure what position he would like to hold in life. He thought for awhile that he might be an architect, and later he studied medicine at night school. Ambitious but poor, he had to work from the time he was seventeen years old, and his jobs were as varied as his opportunities. He was time-keeper in a rubber factory, call boy in a theater, an oil driller, a telephone lineman, a surveyor's assistant and a lumberjack. Clark Gable might have been anything but a motion picture actor.

He became a star by braving the hard road of theatrical stock companies and motion picture extra, overcoming many disappointments, until he reached the pinnacle in "It Happened One Night," which won the Motion Picture award for the best picture of 1934.

The next time you make a pumpkin pie, when pie is nearly done, cover top with marshmallows and return to the oven for 10 minutes. It gives a different flavor to the pie.

Most flowering plants and those that grow rapidly in the house should be watered daily. Give less water on days when the sun does not shine or when plants are in the shade.

Great care must be taken in harvesting all kinds of vegetables. Even a small bruise will make a squash rot, and if the tops of the beets are cut off closer than an inch from the beet itself, bleeding will result.

The Steam Motorcycle

As early as 1868 the first motorcycle made its appearance. It was a steam-propelled, three-wheeled contraption with the boiler suspended immediately back of the seat. Piston rods propelled driving shafts connected to the rear wheel. Not until 1900, however, was the first really successful machine made and it was a gasoline driven.

Like any other normal American boy, Clark Gable was not sure what position he would like to hold in life. He thought for awhile that he might be an architect, and later he studied medicine at night school. Ambitious but poor, he had to work from the time he was seventeen years old, and his jobs were as varied as his opportunities. He was time-keeper in a rubber factory, rail boy in a theater, an oil driller, a telephone lineman, a surveyor's assistant and a lumberjack. Clark Gable might have been anything but a motion picture actor.

He became a star by traveling the hard road of theatrical stock companies and motion picture actuations, overcoming many disappointments, until he reached the pinnacle in "It Happened One Night," which won the Motion Picture award for the best picture of 1934.

Egg whites, to be used for meringues, will beat stiffer if a pinch of salt is added to them.

The next time you make a pumpkin pie, when pie is nearly done, cover top with marshmallows and return to the oven for 10 minutes. It gives a different flavor to the pie.

Most flowering plants and those that grow rapidly in the house should be watered daily. Give less water on days when the sun does not shine or when plants are in the shade.

Great care must be taken in harvesting all kinds of vegetables. Even a small bruise will make a squash rot, and if the tops of the beets are cut off closer than an inch from the beet itself, bleeding will result.

POTPOURRI

The Steam Motorcycle

As early as 1868 the first motorcycle made its appearance. It was a steam-propelled, three-wheeled contraption with the boiler suspended immediately back of the seat. Piston rods propelled driving shafts connected to the rear wheel. Not until 1900, however, was the first really successful machine made and it was gasoline driven.

CONSIDER THE DAY OF RECKONING

A certain recklessness about running into debt seems to characterize the present time. People seem ready to buy and spend so long as credit holds out with little consideration for the inevitable day of reckoning.

Many economists view this present nationwide disposition to stretch credit to the breaking point with concern. They feel that all, or almost all, of our government ills, from the Federal government in Washington, to our state and even local units are giving too little heed to the difficult job of meeting obligations and too much readiness to borrow while the borrowing is good. This spirit now manifest in government seems also to characterize the attitude of the people. Sooner or later a change must come if all of us are to avoid the troubles from which we are just beginning to recover.

To the average wage earner, salaried worker, or small business proprietor a word of caution is timely. Don't spend too freely of the future. Pay for it as you go. Remember it is always easy to run into debt. It is difficult to meet past due obligations.

Budget your buying carefully and don't fall too readily for the lure of easy credit. When the average person becomes heavily involved in debt, he inevitably loses hope and interest in life. Whatever his income may be it seems too small, and the resulting dissatisfaction is usually trippingly his efficiency.

We are not condemning all credit or the purchase on terms of installment plans. Provided these are carefully planned, and provided you budget your income carefully and then can adhere to that budget, you are on safe ground.

So many cases have come to our attention of late, however, wherein well intentioned people have accumulated excessively heavy obligations for the future that we feel disposed to utter a word of caution.

Consider the job of paying those debts before you contract them. It is usually easier to get along for a while without some luxury, than to apportion out most of each pay check for a lot of things you bought on a long time payment plan.

JONES—ROCHE

(Too late for last week)

In a ceremony which took place Saturday evening, Miss Cleo Mae Roche, of San Antonio, became the bride of Alex B. Jones of Galveston.

The wedding took place at 8:40 p. m. in the parlor of St. Phillip's church of San Antonio.

The couple was attended by Miss Minnie Rose Rabke of San Antonio and Herbert Jones of Galveston.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was attended by close friends and members of the bride's family.

The bride cut the first piece of the three tiered wedding cake. After the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Del Rio, Corpus Christi, and other points after which they will make their home in Galveston, the home town of the groom, where he has employment.

Action of the Air

When large masses of air are warmed and forced upward they undergo considerable expansion after reaching the lower pressures of the upper air. This expansion is accomplished by a corresponding loss of cooling. Dry air rising to an altitude of 10,000 feet is cooled by as much as twenty-five degrees. This much cooling produces a drastic change in the ability of the air to hold water, and if the air should be only moderately humid to begin with, it will have to give up more water than it can carry. This surplus of water is condensed, first into clouds and then to rain, snow, or hail.

The Fylfot Cross

The Fylfot cross is used principally in heraldry. It is often spoken of as the "Thor's hammer" of the Scandinavian divinity who represented the god of thunder. The hammer of Sylfot shape together with his mallet, were the symbols with which he performed marvelous feats.

The Bulldogs and the South San Antonio football team played to a scoreless tie game Friday. Friday. I think everyone will say that the Bulldogs put up a hard-er fight than ever before to hold the more experienced boys from the city to three touchdowns.

The touchdowns, two on passes and one on line plunges, were made in the first, third, and fourth quarters.

The lineup was as follows: C. Wheeler; G. Langford and Dawson; T. D. Callahan and F. Anderwald; E. Ross and Burns, in the line and in the backfield were Q. B. V. Anderwald, H. B. Billings and Stevens; F. B. C. Callahan.

The boys will go to Three Rivers Friday to see what South Texas boys are made of.

BEAT THREE RIVERS!!!

Pig-Skin Palaver

The Bulldogs do not seem to let the defeats discourage them because every boy has worked hard this week. A. V. Baull has received a suit to practice and gain experience for next year.

The "A" team started out a little confused last week with Clarence Manwirk getting knocked out, but the last few days every one has shown rapid progress and hope to make a showing in the next game.

The seventh and eight grades played a very enthusiastic game of touch football Thursday; the eight grade boys defeating a score of 14 to 0. The grammar school had a good pep squad and showed their enthusiasm over football.

COMING!!! So as to be able to snap our fingers in the air, all the grade's faces "(as dignified (?) Seniors", will present, each week, or not so often, a character sketch of one of us, written by the assistant editor. Going alphabetically, we begin with Frank Anderwald, next week, so our first "guest of Honor". You better be minding your P's and Q's Frank!

We were very sorry to see such nice students go, but all of them very much. We found that the old statement "misses the merrier", really stood out, even in a school room.

The Scouts met Friday night for the first night meeting of school started. There have several day meetings at a during the noon period. At meeting there were thirteen present.

Plans for the big Armistice Day celebration in Kerrville are progressing nicely, E. Rector, general chairman of the arrangements committee for Garrett-Back-Post American Legion, announced.

The program follows: Parade at 10:30 a. m., Army dinner at 609 Main Street at noon, Hinky Dinky circus and barn dance all day; football game between Schreiner and Blue Bonnet and the barn dance on Main Street.

Firemen's Meeting Next Monday

The fireman's ball was well attended Saturday night. On Saturday night, Nov. 13th we will have another dance with music furnished by a 5 piece old time band who will play all your requests.

Don't forget the Bandera Fire Department will have a meeting at the court house, Monday, Nov. 8th at 8 p. m. We are sure that everyone is interested in a night watchman for Bandera. Come meet with us and help make arrangements for same. Other important matters will be discussed.

A trip was made to Austin, this week by Aaron Meadows and Frank H. Mansfield in an effort to get the fire insurance rates reduced. If you have a water supply at your place of business or home and are willing to connect it up so that we can connect our new pump in case of fire, I will be glad to give you instructions for proper connections so we will be able to use same if needed. A few dollars spent this way may save you thousands of dollars later.

Your support is greatly appreciated.

P. T. A. Carnival Well Attended

The P. T. A. Carnival held at the Elementary school last Friday night was well attended and proved most entertaining to the many people who attended.

Before and after the program, hamburgers, cake, pies and candies and beautiful handwork were sold, while many visited the 20 years ago booth and the children had their fun at the fish pond.

The three under the program was a song, "Bluebird Boat", sung by first grade girls. "Warriors Hunting Song" by first grade boys followed. Then "Indian Life of Long Ago" by second and third grade pupils was presented. This was followed by a play "Pink Lemonade," given by fourth grade pupils. Negro spirituals were sung by Darius S. Plummer. After this a delightful little play, "What Became of the Cat," was given by fifth and sixth grade pupils, who played their parts admirably.

The Crowning of the Carnival Queen was the highlight of the evening with all the ghosts and costumes to lend a real Halloween atmosphere. With the raising of the curtain appeared the ghostly blue moon high in the sky. After a blast of the trumpet a ghost announced "Silence in the Court of Her Royal Highness Goanda of Her Royal Highness, His Honor, Prime Minister of Cat's Ankle," and three ghosts walked silently on the stage, and another blast of the trumpet announced the arrival of His Royal Highness King Walter I, who made a short speech. Another blast of the trumpet and the following Ladies were announced: Lady Lettie Drue of the House of Chiffon, Lady Dorothy of the House of Postert, Lady Ruth of the House of Parsons, Lady Mary Lee of the House of Kohler, Lady Frances of the House of Anderwald, Lady Emma Jean of the House of Hatchhoff, Lady Margaret of the House of Lindner, Lady Bobbie Ray of the House of Wyatt, Lady Louise of the House of O'Bryant, Lady Lorene of the House of Risinger. Their Royal Highnesses Princess Maxine and Prince Charles William were then announced, after which the Duke-in-waiting, Lady Doris of the Housh of Mansfield and Lady Ardis of the House of Patterson were announced. Next came the Pages of Her Royal Highness, Charles and James.

The blast of the trumpet was again heard, heralding the appearance of Her Royal Highness, Maids of the House of Bone Crunch, and she was followed by the Crown Bearer, Joyce of the House of Rotan.

With only the dim light of the moon shining overhead, the Queen was crowned by the Prime Minister with a crown of cross bones and skull.

For the entertainment of the Queen, the following program was presented:

1. Choral Club.
2. Duet: Dance of the Demons, by Radie Jane and Clarice Culpepper.
3. Reading, by Lois Estelle Billings.
4. Ghost story, by Genevieve Word.

The program was entertaining throughout and the teachers deserve praise for presenting it. A total of $100.75 was realized and the net proceeds will be used for the Homemaking room.

WHAT KIND OF PEOPLE LIVE AROUND HERE

It was in the early days when the present mid-west was considered the American frontier. Men with their families were moving by flatboat and prairie schooner toward the setting sun.

A settler who had grown wise with years of experience and observation of life was standing in the doorway of his newly erected cabin contemplating the lush beauty of a sunset.

A wagon occupied by a family and miscellaneous household effects came to a halt in front and the driver hailed the old gentleman.

"What kind of people live around here?" I've come over 500 miles with my family and I'm figuring on staking out a claim somewhere around here but I want to know what sort of folks live here now."

"Stranger," answered the old settler, "what kind of folks lived where you came from?"

"Oh, they were rather a mean lot. Not very friendly. Didn't seem...like they were willing to help a fellow out. They never did co-operate very well."

"Well, stranger," interrupted the old settler, "that's just about the kind of folks you'll find around here. I reckon."

Before this wagon was then beyond the horizon, another appeared, and the old gentleman standing in his doorway was asked the same question.

"Well, stranger," he queried, "what kind of folks was they where you come from?"

"Oh, wonderful lot of friendly folks," said the driver with enthusiasm. "They was kind and helpful and so easy to get along with. Yes Sir. I had a lot of mighty good friends I hated to leave, but I thought there was bigger chances to get up in the world if I'd come out here."

"Well stranger," replied the old settler with a twinkle in his eye, "I reckon that's just about the kind of folks you'll find around here. Climb down and light and set a spell. You'll like it here."

What a wise old philosopher the old settler was. Life[illegible] communities are much the same everywhere. What we see in each is largely the reflection of our own attitude and our own character.

When we here speak of "Texas" we but Bandera is different. I don't think much of the people around here. I'm going to get out of here as soon as I get a chance." We recall this interesting anecdote and come to the conclusion that those people will encounter just about the same sort of folks anywhere else they may choose to go.

Your community is made up of average, typical people. It's going to reflect your own attitude. It's going to be just what you make of it.

TOO LATE

About three months from now we are going to hear a lot of kicks about taxes here in Bandera. We always do and we see no reason why there should be any exception this year.

But when those kicks are made it is too late. The time to register your kick is when the budget is adopted and the levy made.

But even then it is too late to [illegible] a little co-operation from those. Because weather you like it or not your local taxes are determined on a considerable measure by what our state government decides to do in the way of appropriations for the services for the people, partially or wholly at the discretion of the governor, legislature and others.

There is a lot of interest in the study of the subject on the part of the public before very much can be done about high taxes. It certainly does a little benefit in regaining a kick when the tax bill arrives.

Anyway that's the good reason to rebuke [illegible] fall. It's already [illegible] the state spring [illegible]

[illegible] that inside summer is not a [illegible] fall [illegible] of the [illegible] some of [illegible] weatherproof.

We always feel the guiding [illegible] that [illegible] attractive isn't walking by it time [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Mrs. Theron Williams Dead

Mrs. Theron Williams, aged 33 years, died in a San Antonio hospital Wednesday night of last week and was buried at Kerrville Thursday at 4 p. m. Services were conducted at the Joe B. Funeral home in that city by Williams, nee Miss Clara Fisher, was born at Medina in 1904 and was married in 1927 to Theron Williams of Kerrville, and resided in that city up to time of her death. Surviving are her husband and three small children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Walker, and two brothers, John and Willie Walker, all of Kerrville. In 1930 she obeyed the gospel and was baptized into the Church of Christ, and was a faithful consistent member of the body.

The death of this splendid young woman is deeply mourned by all who knew her. For several years she had been critically ill and had been under the care of physicians who did everything possible to restore her health but to no avail. Particularly distressing is the fact that before she was taken ill her husband was stricken with a fearful automobile accident in which he sustained a broken back, and has not yet fully recovered from those injuries, having just a short time later her suffered a stroke of paralysis since which time he has practically helpless; then the loved wife and daughter was taken. Verily the hand of affliction rests heavily upon the household. The sympathy of friends throughout Bandera and the entire state is extended to them in their trouble and sorrow.

BADER - SCHOTT

One of the loviest of early fall weddings was that of Miss Lucy Minnie Schott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schott of Hondo, and Mr. Bader, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bader of this city, which took place on Sunday morning, Nov. 8 in St. Ignatius Church in Bandera, Father Hyland officiating. The nuptial mass was said at the main and side altars, white and orchid chrysanthemums and green ferns. The backs of the pews were marked with sprays of white tulle and satin ribbon.

Solemn Mass of the Holy Ghost Angels was sung by Father Stanislaus Chotor under the direction of I. E. Adamietz. Miss Ella Mae Sang Gounod's Ave Maria during the offertory, and Miss Elsie Fischer rendered the usual Chorus" from Lohengrin as the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional.

The bride, who was escorted by her father to the sanctuary, wore a white satin model gown of cut velvet made with a long collar and buttoned down the back to the waist. The bodice flared in a short train. Her tulle veil was edged with duchy lace and overlaid at the top with what caught to the crown of lace, which was ensconced with seed pearls. She carried lilys tied with a bow of white satin and ribbon.

The bride's attendants, who had preceded her in the church, wore "off" taffeta, made along princess lines with short trains in fall colors. They were Theresa Tschirhart, junior bridesmaid, in leaf green; brides-maid Misses Edna Tschirhart in Clara Schott in wine and Lucy Bader, maid of honor, in rose. Mrs. Howard Schott, matron of honor, wore royal blue. Miss Rita Dell Tschirhart, flower girl, and wore Copen taffeta in similar shade. All wore silver sandals and their hair beads were silver ornaments. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of large white chrysanthemums and the flower girl carried a small bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Walter "Bonnie" Schott carried the ring.

Those who were Lee Tschirhart, Ralph Schott, Matt. Bader and Nicholas Tschirhart. The ushers were Howard Schott and Geraldine Nigh Owle and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends.

The bridal pair spent the remainder of the night with the bride's parents and left the next day on a wedding trip to San Antonio.

Mrs. Ruth Thomas and Mrs. Ella Mae Sang were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower given at Helotes Sun. and honor was entertained by the Misses Geraldine Nigh Owle and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride is a graduate of the Bandera High School and has many friends in this city who will be looking for you. Don't be surprised if you find a shower on your return.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mann, Mrs. Chas. L. Schmidtke and daughter Miss Minnie Ola, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKay of Boerne, and Mr. and Mrs. James Rivers and children Jimmie and Kathleen of San Antonio were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKay.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MET MONDAY NIGHT

The Bandera Fire Department met Monday night with the largest attendance of any similar meeting in recent years. Chief Frank Mansfield presided.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Sec. E. R. Teel and approved.

F. A. Mansfield, chairman of the membership committee, reported a total of 29 paid-up members.

Chief Mansfield read a report of the State Fire Insurance Department in regard to night watchman, etc. The key rate of Bandera is 9-6c which will be reduced 5c for a punch clock and night watchman. We would have to have one clock. Mr. Teal of American LaFrance Co., promised a new clock for $60.

A motion was carried to vote on C. B. Corley for night watchman and a committee appointed for determining the amount that could be collected. The motion was carried. Another motion was carried that Chief Mansfield make a survey to determine the amount that could be raised. The finance committee reported that Mr. Corley would work for not less than $45 per month which has been pledged, and Mr. Corley was to begin his duties Tuesday night. It was understood that the pledges should be paid in advance on the 10th of each month. E. R. Teel agreed to make the first collection. The night watchman's route was left up to him for the first 30 days.

Among those from Bandera attending the wedding dance at Helotes Tuesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bader, were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. French, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Price, Miss Marjorie Berry, Mrs. Rot. Urichs, Mrs. I. E. Adamietz, Misses Nig North, Augustine Arnwald, Rosalie Stein, Ethel Eckhart and Frances Pyka, Bruce Mansfield, Bennie Adamietz, W. F. Hope, Louis Stein, Carl Adamietz, W. C. Allen, Charley Bradshaw, Winnie Magness, Alfred Stein, Jaggers Clicks Jos and Ben Adamietz.

F. Hope, Louis Stein, Carl Adamietz, W. C. Allen, Charley Bradshaw, Winnie Magness, Alfred Stein, Jaggers Clicks Jos and Ben Adamietz.

LANGFORD - NESKY

Mrs. Lenie Langford became the bride of Theodore E. Nesky, Sunday morning at the McKinley Avenue Methodist Church in San Antonio.

The bride wore a dark blue velvet gown with matching accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses.

Sunday evening a barbecue dinner followed by dancing was enjoyed at George's Place on Medina Lake. At 10 p. m. the three tiered, embossed wedding cake was served to over 200 guests.

BRIDGE PARTY

A delightful bridge party was enjoyed at the Bandera Tourist Lodge last Wednesday night. Mrs. C. M. Bester made high score and Mrs. J. C. Webb low for the ladies. H. F. Schlesinger made high score and J. C. Webb low score for the men.

Dainty refreshments of chicken sandwiches, salad, potato chips and coffee were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nuckles, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Schlesinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bester, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Trowbridge, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Billings.

METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday morning the pastor begins a series of sermons on The Apostle's Creed. This is an ancient statement of the Christian faith around which has been waged great controversies. In this series of sermons, the pastor seeks to lead a re-study of this statement of the Christian faith in a manner that will prove beneficial to all who hear these messages.

Statistics compiled by pastors show that more people are ill (so they say) on Sunday than the total for the other six days.

You feed your body 21 times each week, whether it is hungry or not. Then why not throw your soul a bone once a week, at least, even if it doesn't seem hungry? The poor thing may be too weak from starvation to express its wants known. More people were ill on Sunday, and absolutely more folks knelt at the altar of the church for Holy Communion last Sunday in this church than in any service for many months. Were you one of this group? Your presence and interest will be looking for you. Don't be surprised if you find a shower on your return.

Bids To Be Asked For New Jail Here

Bandera county will likely have a new jail in the near future. The following resolution was adopted at the November term of Commissioners Court this week: "Approving and adopting plans and specifications as submitted by Bandera county, Texas, and authorizing county auditor to publish notice of letting of contract and county's intention to issue permanent improvement warrants. The Commissioners Court deems it advisable and necessary that a new county jail be constructed for Bandera county, including new prison equipment and appurtenances, and such work financed by issuance and sale of permanent improvement warrants payable from ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within said county."

DR. MONTAGUE HONORED

The many friends in Bandera of Dr. L. J. Montague, now a prominent physician and surgeon of Edinburg, Texas, will be pleased to learn that he was given a fellowship in the American College of Surgeons at the congress which was recently held in Chicago. This is a distinct honor extended to a young man who was born and reared in Bandera, and has gone out into the world and made a name for himself, and naturally we are all proud of the distinction he has achieved. The American College of Surgeons is an institution for the furtherance of knowledge through mutual stimulation and exchange of experiences. Eligible to fellowship are surgeons and surgical specialists who can meet the requirements for admission. At least seven years must have passed since the applicants for graduation from an accredited school of medicine, one of the years having been spent as an interne in an approved hospital; in addition, he must have had post-graduate study and adequate experience.

Dr. Montague was educated in the schools of Bandera and later attended St. Mary's College where he obtained his B. A. degree in 1914. He received his degree of Doctor of Medicine at the University of Texas in Galveston in 1920; he interned at the Robt. E. Green Memorial Hospital, San Antonio for 18 months. Afterwards he went to Tampico, Mexico, and was engaged in surgery there. In the home of his father-in-law, Standard Oil Co. of Mexico. He returned from Mexico a few years ago and located at Edinburg, where he has built up a splendid practice and is recognized as one of the leading profes. sional men of the Valley.

OUCH!!

David C. Kaufman, a carpenter of Philadelphia who, as a side line, makes paddles for use on freshmen during fraternity initiations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has made over 10,000 of them. The regulation size weapon is 30 inches by 4 inches, and it is made of maple, ash, white pine and oak wood. Naturally, the freshmen love him.

"Sometimes the freshmen are sent to get their own paddles," he says. "They ask me if I can make especially soft ones. I can't do it. I tell them. Best thing is to put shingles where you are going to get hit. He is shown here holding different size paddles. He will paint them any color with fraternity names on them.

DRIVER'S LICENSE EXAMINERS HERE

Two driver's license examiners of the Department of Public Safety will be in Bandera on Monday of each week, to conduct tests for drivers applying for their first license, according to H. H. Carmichael, director of the public safety department.

Establishment of examiners at the sheriff's office the uniformed officers will give the examination every day from 8 a. m. to 12 noon. In applying for the driver's license, the applicant must furnish his own vehicle or one he proposes to operate after he secures a license, the safety director pointed out.

After oral quizzes are completed, each applicant will be required to drive his car or truck over a designated route under the supervision of one of the trained examiners. During the drive the examiner will demonstrate the use of his foot and hand brakes, stop for signals and perform other tests necessary in the ordinary traffic situations. Before the actual driving test is made, the examiners will test the license applicants on safety regulations and signals, highway laws and other tests of their eyesight and hearing. Any physical deformities will be recorded on a grade card.

Not only will driver's license applicants be required to show their ability to handle a vehicle with safety, but the vehicle itself will be tested for defects in brakes, horn, lights, rear-view mirror and windshield wiper.

If a driver proves his ability to operate his vehicle with care and safety he will immediately receive his license at the examination headquarters. If a passing grade is not made after the test is completed, an instruction permit card will be issued which requires the applicant to retake the test at a later date for another examination. Examiners of the Safety Department estimate that a complete test can be given in 12 minutes.

Truck, bus and other commercial vehicle drivers will be issued licenses in the three classes, A B and C according to the type of vehicle do be operated. Chauffeurs and those driving passenger cars will be issued [illegible] Col. Carmichael said that [illegible] drivers seeking licenses were themselves in safety of the rules of the highway and the mechanical operation of their vehicles. In preparations for the [illegible] local examinations and were kept Monday to establish headquarters for the examiners for their first examination on Monday, Nov. 15.

ARMISTICE DAY

In view of what is transpiring throughout the world Armistice Day in 1937 should be a celebration of considerable significance.

Primarily, of course, it is an occasion of jollification. The veterans of the AEF desire to keep alive the happy recollection of the great occasion when the guns ceased their murderous roar and the harsh regimentation of army life approached a close.

But the celebration is significant from another point of view. It does not celebrate the time when we embarked upon some great military adventure. It does not "commemorate" some great victory or the birthday of some great general. It merely calls to the universal happiness of the American people upon the good news that the war was over.

There lies a thought in this which reflects the present day American attitude toward war, especially any war which we do not start and in which we have no direct interest. American joy knew no bounds when news flashed around the world that the war had ended. The people did not question the terms of the armistice. They did not pause to wonder whether it had come too soon as some diplomats believed. They were merely elated to know that it was all over, and over in time to save the lives of several hundred thousand American young men.

This attitude they reflected nineteen years ago has only become more pronounced with the passage of time. Wars and rumors of wars were back pursuing the activities of peace we questioned the wisdom of our part in that war, and began to express the conviction that we had gone in on the wrong side of quarrels which are brewed many thousand miles away.

Now with war threats screeching from several quarters of the civilized world, we may well recall our experiences of recent years on the subject and insist upon a national policy which will keep our armies on our own soil and our battleships in our own territorial waters.

Let's make this Armistice Day of 1937 an occasion when we reaffirm our national determination to avoid foreign entanglements.

"A GENTLEMAN'S JOB"

A rather foolish tradition persists in what is considered a "gentleman's job." It involves work at which one may wear a white collar, a well pressed business suit, and keep his hands and face clean.

Anything that calls for the use of overalls and cannot be well done without the accumulation of grease and grime, does not rate with the activities many people consider "gentlemanly."

This standard, of course, can take no account of the exercise and training of the value of one's contribution to society. For a little analysis and study should convince us all that a good machinist, a good electrician or a good farmer must use a very substantial amount of gray matter in his daily toil. If our think such work doesn't require brains just attempt to assemble a mass of gears and cams and eccentrics and make them operate in an efficient machine, or even better yet, just go out on a modern farm and see where you come off without the exercise of initiative, imagination and intelligence.

The truth is that a "gentleman's job" is any job that provides opportunity for self improvement and requires the exercise of brain power. If the young man exhibits scarcity interest in literature or anything of the other studies we classify as "culture," he will be a mechanic or farmer or something else all his life. He will be a machinist or farmer or something else all his life. He will be a machinist or farmer or something else all his life. He will be a machinist

UNEMPLOYMENT CENSUS

At the direction of Congress, the President has approved a plan for a census of all unemployed and partly unemployed workers. All persons at work on emergen- cy work projects of the Govern- ment are also included in this census.

The number of unemployed will be determined from information secured by a voluntary individual registration. A card to be filled in and returned to the post office will be delivered to every dwell- ing on Nov. 16. These cards will then be forwarded by the post of- fice to the National Unemploy- ment Census. Completed cards must be mailed before midnight, Nov. 20. No postage stamps are needed.

The card to be used in this cen- sus lists 14 questions about each individual who registers. Each question is fundamental for an understanding of the problem of unemployment. The President has said in his message to every worker: "It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in the land that the census be com- plete, honest and accurate."

UNEMPLOYMENT CENSUS
At the direction of Congress the President has approved a plan for a census of all unemployed and partly unemployed workers. All persons at work on emergen- cy work projects of the Govern- ment are also included in this census.
The number of unemployed will be determined from information secured by a voluntary individual registration. A card to be filled in and returned to the post office will be delivered to every dwell- ing on Nov. 16. These cards will then be forwarded by the post of- fice to the National Unemployo- ment Census. Completed cards must be mailed before midnight, Nov. 20. No postage stamps are needed.
The card to be used in this cen- sus lists 14 questions about each individual who registers. Each question is fundamental for an understanding of the problem of unemployment. The President has said in his message to every worker: "It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in this land that the census be com- plete, honest and accurate."

"Unjust inequities should be removed provided such removal does not create new injustices. . . Nor can we at this time advocate a revision of our tax laws which involves a reduction in the aggregate revenues or an increase in the aggregate tax burdens of those least able to bear them."

Again he reiterated that he expected the next budget "can be brought within a definite balance" and directed special attention of business conditions.

Modern Water Works For City

Bandera has at last been assured of getting a modern and adequate water works. The Bandera Water Company, having purchased the Bandera Water Works from Walter Trenkelbach, will erect a 125-foot tank of 50,000 gallon capacity and extend mains over the entire town. The mains in the business section will be regulation 8-inch mains with fire hydrants and in the residental sections 6-inch mains will be used.

Meters and other appliances are being received now and actual construction is slated to begin at an early date. Everyone will be anxiously awaiting the erection of the elevated tank which will be towering over the entire town and pressaging another step in the right direction for Bandera. Bandera an even more up-to-date place.

The new water works will make it possible for Bandera to receive a reduction in the key rate of its insurance, thus saving the people a great deal of money. The system is being installed by Mr. Harding, an experienced water works man who is operating several other water works and who deserves the assistance of the citizens of Bandera in this worthy enterprise. This is a good time for the Chamber of Commerce to wake up and get busy helping the Fire Department get the necessary equipment that will be needed.

Let's all get together and the task will be easy and when completed will fully justify your expectations.

HIGHWAY 16 ON 1938 SECONDARY PROGRAM

INTER-DISTRICT FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY NIGHT

Kerrville, Tex. Nov. 16.—Next Saturday night, November 20, the Schreiner Institute Mountaineers play hosts to the Lamar Junior College eleven in an important inter-district game. The winner will play the champions of the northern half of the state, either Kilgore Junior College or Wesley College, for the State Junior College Championship crown.

Comperative scores show the two teams to be very evenly matched. Lamar defeated the Texas University "B" team 3 to 0 while Schreiner tied them 6 to 6. Sam Houston State Teachers tipped Lamar 16 to 7 and took the Mountaineers 7 to 0.

Paper scores, however, do not always run true and there will be a great deal at stake this game when these two districts champions pit their brawn for a chance to play in the state finals.

A large crowd of both local and out of town fans is expected for this game as a result of an exceptionally schedule game of the Mountaineers. Football followers are assured of an enjoyable evening as Schreiner and Lamar are traditional rivals. Tickets will be on sale at regular prices, and there will be no reserved seats, so you may sit where you please.

Hunting Season Opened Tuesday

The cold wave which arrived Monday night failed to dampen the ardor of the many hunters who were ready for the hunting season which opened Tuesday morning.

The first buck reported in Bandera was that of Frank Mansfield, who bagged a 4-pointer. Grayson Paris is credited with the first turkey, though Fred Hamilton is credited with two turkeys. Wahie Mauzrek and H. Schott got their turkey each.

Others having good luck, were Walter Trenkelbach, 6-point buck; W. H. Burns, 10-point buck; Alb. Paris, 8-point buck; Bob Mansfield, 12-point buck; Mrs. R. Kyle, 8-point buck, and Don Hicks of Tarpley, 4-point buck.

Eight deer and two turkeys were being held in cold storage at the Bandera Ice Co., mostly belonging to outside people. One of these deer is quite a freak, having three sets of antlers instead of two as most deer have. The freak had a one and two point antler on one side of his head and on the other side were four points.

POSSE ABANDONS HUNT FOR NEGRO

Sheriff's officers Tuesday had given up hopes of finding the negro slayer of Roy Embrey, Hondo mechanic in the woods held north of town and searching parties had dwindled to a few scattered.

Nearly 50 men Monday tramped through the thick underbrush believing that the negro was hiding about seven miles north of Hondo. A man answering his description had been seen on a ranch in that section.

But about all we can do now is wait for a break," one of Sheriff C. J. Schisler's deputies declared Tuesday after the man-hunt began to appear futile.

Officers, pained by aroused citizens, had been aided by bloodhounds and an airplane.

Embrey was stabbed through the heart when he went to the assistance of an aged night watchman, who was trying to stop a fight Sunday. The deceased was 22 years of age and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Embrey.

The slayer was described as wearing a blue work shirt, blue duck trousers, tennis shoes, was bareheaded and had a fresh wound across his left temple. He is about 30 years old, weighs approximately 140 pounds and appeared 5 feet, 8 inches tall.

Local Red Cross Drive To Begin

Rev. S. H. Culpepper has been appointed Red Cross roll call chairman for Bandera county and has set Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week to solicit members for the Red Cross.

Everyone knows the beneficient work of the Red Cross without a great deal of publicity. Half of the money raised will be kept for local charity and the other half for the national organization. Because it is impossible for Rev. Culpepper to see everyone, he has asked D. E. Conwill Jr. and Birtie Spot Confectionery of Bandera, Hatfield Drug Store of Medina, and Sautherd's Store of Tarpley to receipt memberships for the Roll Call. Let us remember this, the best insurance for help in a catastrophe is the Red Cross. Your voluntary co-operation is solicited and everyone is urged to see one of the above mentioned about your membership dues.

SCHREINER SELLS LAST OF FALL WOOL CLIP

NEW SINCLAIR STATION OPEN

The new Sinclair Service Station at Cedar and Main Streets has been opened to the motorists of this community. Thousands of similar Sinclair Stations have been established throughout the United States. Simplicity, simplicity of appearance, neatness and accessibility characterized these new stations.

By virtue of its attractiveness and the advanced ideas of service and workmanship that go into the operation of an up-to-the minute station of this character this new business is a real asset to Bandera. Bandera is justly proud of this addition because it is locally owned and operated. Mr. Gardner, it is a genuine indication of good and sure faith on the part of Sinclair in the stability of the business in our county.

When interviewed by a New Era reporter, Mr. Hayes, the manager of the new station, stated: "Our equipment is the very latest and our stock 100 per cent Sinclair, enabling us to give correct and complete automotive service."

VETO OF OWN BILL ASKED

Austin, Nov. 14.—Gov. Allred today asked the unusual request of a legislator that his bill be vetoed. Representative Alfred E. Petsch was the legislator.

In the late special session, Petsch was author of a bill which would have removed Harris county from among 22 operating under a universal hunting and fishing licensing law and would have included Burnet county.

Instead of amending the law, however, Petsch re-wrote it, and in so doing made some technical errors. When the errors were discovered, he asked the governor to use his veto power.

The effect of the bill was that it would have made it legal to shoot deer in Mason county under restrictions established by the state game department too many does and not enough bucks in Mason county was resulting in illbreeding and production of many low-grade deer. Game experts think the production of does should be reduced.

In counties which observe universal licensing, every person hunting and fishing must have a license. In most Texas counties a man need not have a license to hunt or fish in his own county.

THANKSGIVING 1937

Not long ago we had occasion to hear an interesting address by the foreign representative of a big corporation. He told of the tension and the spirit of unrest which dominates almost every other nation in the world.

There was little unemployment in most European nations, he explained, because the people were busily engaged in the manufacture of munitions of war. But everywhere class conflicts were simmering. Everyone is wondering when the outbreak will happen. In five nations can a citizen express his own views. In many dictator dominated nations even the young boys are being regimented preparatory for the day when armies will again be on the march and the slaughter of the innocents for the purpose of national aggrandizement will start.

"When I came into New York harbor that statue of "Liberty presented a glorious sight," he concluded.

Thoughts of this speech and many similar addresses which we may have an opportunity to hear today seem appropriate to a sincere Thanksgiving day observance.

In spite of all of our worries, in spite of our perplexity over some of the strange adjustments being made in our economic order, we remain a comparatively free people, remote from the danger of foreign invasion, free from the threat of despotism.

Our frontiers are unarmed and the countries beyond are peopled by friendly neighbors. Our standard of living remains the highest of that in any modern nation. Our abundance of resources is not approaching any point of exhaustion. Class feeling as it is known elsewhere simply does not exist.

For these elements of rare good fortune we have reason to offer a prayer of thanks on November 25, 1937. Don't let the day pass without at least a moment's realization of what good things we have for which to express appreciation.

HOPE AS WELL AS DESPAIR

It is customary for us to regard the period in which we are living as highly uncertain and tense. Today's headlines of war in far-off places of labor strife, of crime seem laden with dangers which on the morrow may nigh well destroy mankind.

What would we have thought had we lived in the Dark Ages? Or what were we thinking a few short years ago, when the world was really at war? What of yesterday's headlines?

Mark Sullivan, in his series, "Our Times," reminds us that grave labor strife, crime and hosts of evils have always beset our race. Modern communication and transportation have made us more aware of our dangers, but it is not probable that peril is any more imminent, than in the past.

If we seem to be closer to destruction, we may have the consolation of knowing that we have more instruments with which to save ourselves. Certain diseases, such as cancer and infantile paralysis, may puzzle modern science, but effective cures for tuberculosis and various death-dealing epidemics have been discovered in recent years. In times past cancer and paralysis took their toll, as they do today, and so did the other scourges. But we are learning our life and learning slowly to master them. There is no reason to believe that we cannot face economic and social ills with the same confidence in ultimate conquest of them.

Love at first sight observes a friend, is often followed by divorce at first sight.

Many contend that women have no sense of humor. It would be very fortunate for most men

Time and Tide

For as long as any of us people can remember, there has been the old adage "Time and Tide wait for no man." We students of Bandera High probably realize this fact very well—that time, the actual measurement of duration, and tide, the turning point from one period to another, always go on in spite of whatever events occur in this world.

Yet, while we know these things full well, we never stop to think that every minute of our lives can be made more valuable if we keep busy in doing worthwhile things. Idleness disrupts the success of life. When we are "up and doing" so to speak, we always spend our time wisely and with merit.

All of this foregoing talk acts only as a reminder to every student of Bandera High School, as well as every member of any other school, to spend his or her time in school by working hard keeping busy. Its lots of fun being good by working for something worth while. In doing this you please your friends, your parents and your teachers and you are assuring your own self of success and a good share of happiness. Time spent in the form of good hard work is time well spent.

Ag. News

The V. A. boys met at the school house Wednesday night for their third regular meeting. We set the date for initiating Mr. Briggs and Mr. Frank Montague as honorary members in our chapter of FFA. The two boys who were absent at our Green Hand initiation will be initiated at the same time. The date is the night of Dec. 1st.

We discussed the election of our Chapter Sweetheart for this year. It was decided that the V. A. boys will nominate one girl from each class in high school and let everybody vote that will at the rate of a penny a vote. Each person may vote as many times as he wishes. The money taken in this way will be put in the V. A. treasury.

The last thing we did was to talk about a play we will put on just before Christmas. It is to be a very good three-act play called "The Green Hand." Almost all the boys were given parts and have started learning them. We expect to put it over in a big way and if you want to get your money's worth in a play be sure to see "The Green Hand." The proceeds will go for books for our V. A. Department.

Particular

Bill says that the life of a real estate man is not always easy. There was the time, he tells, when a young lady wanted a house that would match the door knocker she had received as a wedding gift.

Proof

"I heard a new one the other day, Jo wonder if I've told it to you?"

"Is it funny?"

"Yes."

"Then you haven't."

Greatness Acquired

"I painted something that was hung in the art gallery."

"Is that so, where?"

"Near the entrance. It read, 'Turn to the Right.'"

Judgement Suspended

Friend: "Was your uncle's mind vigorous and acute up to the very last?"

Heir: "I don't know—the will won't be read until tomorrow."

The Long and Short of It

She: "I notice that you smoke your cigarets shorter."

He: "Eh. That's because I smoke 'em longer."

This development came after President Roosevelt bluntly warned congress that if the new farm bill calls for money in excess of $500,000,000 now provided, new revenue would have to be provided to pay for it.

This warning, contained in a letter to Senator Ellison Duncy Smith, Democratic leader, was amplified by Stevens T. Early, of the executive office, who reiterated the president would veto the farm and all other bills calling for big cash outlays without accompanying means to finance them.

TAX REVISION POSTPONED TO JANUARY

Though still shaky from his recent illness, the chief executive spent the day at the White House setting in motion machinery to speed up government aid to business.

1. He is determined to carry out his program for a balanced budget.

2. He is opposed to piecemeal legislation that might upset administration plans to simplify the revenue structure and eliminate inequities.

3. He may veto the farm bill or any other measure passed by congress calling for cash funds not provided for by revenue legislation.

4. He believes congress should pass at the special session the new housing bill, the Wagner-Steagall act, the anti-lynching bill, the wage-hour, day, to boom construction and employment.

Decision to postpone tax revision until the January session came after a conference of the president. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, which originates tax legislation. They disclosed it would be impossible to get a bill in shape for action by both houses this session.

Strategy was adopted by the Democrats to write into the bill legislation to ease business taxes and provide funds for the farm program.

Ingrig, United States Attorney, Little Rock, Arkansas, Dear Sir: In presenting this application of the Defendant, Harry Clark, to you, and through you, to the Court, I am aware of its extra Judicial nature, and that dismissal in cases of this character are the exception to the rule; however, when a Defendant assumes the burden of proof and does submit such justification for the dismissal of a cause, he brings his case clearly within the exception.

YOUTHFUL TRAIN ROBBERS GIVEN TERMS IN TEXAS

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 26.—Two youthful "Brooklyn cowboys" were tried to bring alive the fiction of the old West—and paid right to the grim realization their fantastic attempt to rob a Southern Pacific passenger train yesterday may send them both to the electric chair.

"We haven't a chance to beat the law," conceded Henry Lorenz, 22, as he sagged dejectedly at the holdup, which ended in the death of W. L. Smith, El Paso, Texas, railroad switchman.

"Train robbery? It's a hell of a racket" muttered Harry Dwyer, 21, Brooklyn, as the court was closed by the fists of enraged passengers, who beat and captured him.

No charges have yet been filed against the two, brought here from Deming, N. M., where they were held yesterday, but District Attorney Martin Threet said he expected a dozen of train robbery and murder.

Death is the penalty in New Mexico and Texas for murder under and train robbery "with resultant death or injury."

The two youths were at injail cells today and penciled what Sheriff Jose Veramountes termed two full confessions of the robbery.

Both admitted firing pistols on the train as the cars were in the desert of southern New Mexico, near the Mexican border, the sheriff said, but each disclaimed any individual responsibility for the shot which killed Smith.

Lorenz, whose mother told Virramontes he was born in Frankfurt, Germany, and lived in Manitoba, Canada, is a tousle-headed redhaired, said his birth place was Haverhill, Mass., and his home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Both said they had worked as laborers at Brodkyn, before they decided to "ride the rods" and head to the little southern New Mexico town of Deming, where they met on the streets while plotting the ill-fated hold-up.

Deming residents mured to the spectacle of two youths there viewed them with mild amusement as they donned exaggerated western costumes and clambered through town on the horses they

HONDO NEGRO KILLER CAPTURED BELOW BORDER

Arrest of a negro believed to be John Parker, wanted in connection with the fatal stabbing of a young Hondo merchant on Nov. 13, was announced last Wednesday by Sheriff Herman Lehmann of Eagle Pass.

The negro was captured Monday by the chief of police at Piedras Negras and Deputy Sheriff Cliff Bowles on a ranch in Mexico, 22 miles south of Piedras Negras and nearly 140 miles from Hondo.

Parker was being held by Mexican immigration authorities Wednesday in Piedras Negras, pending deportation orders from Mexico City for his transfer to officers in Eagle Pass.

The arrest brought to a close a widespread search that was conducted with the aid of an airplane and bloodhounds by a posse of more than 100 Hondo residents after the February 22-year-old Hondo merchant, was stabbed through the heart when he attempted to help Henry Moore, Hondo night watchman, stop a fight between a negro and another negro. The airplane was furnished by A. G. Holloday of San Antonio, a native of Hondo, and the bloodhounds by Sheriff Elmo Arnold of New Braunfels.

First clue of the suspect's whereabouts came to Sheriff Herbert Lehmann Monday morning by laborers from a grubbing camp on El Indio ranch 20 miles southeast of Eagle Pass on the Texas side of the Rio Grande. They reported that a negro answering Parker's description appeared in camp early Monday morning and asked directions to the Rio Grande.

Money, it was stated, was offered to one of the laborers if he would direct the negro to the shallowest place to cross to Mexico. Food was given the negro, but the laborers refused to escort him to the river.

The sheriff reported that a negro, believed to be the same who approached the laborers, exchanged a shotgun for food at South Indio ranchhouse later in the day.

After obtaining possession of the gun, Deputy Sheriff Bowles went to Piedras Negras to get assistance from Mexican authorities. Parker's arrest followed.

Duck, Quail and Trapping Laws

Duck and quail hunters last year made ready for the opening of the seasons on these birds the duck season began November 27 and the quail, season on December 1.

The duck season will last from November 27 through December 31 under both state and Federal laws.

The quail season will last from December 1 through January 16.

Duck hunters have a multitude of rules and regulations to remember, as a result of stringent federal supervision of the hunting of migratory waterfowl.

Some things to be remembered by duck hunters are these:

Hours for shooting are 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.—Bag limit is 10 for the day, five for geese and Brandt.

The gun larger than a No. 10 shot shotgun may be used. Floating shotguns are used, they must be permanently plugged to three-shell capacity.

Duck hunters over 16 years of age must buy a Federal duck stamp before hunting, and must have the stamp in their possession at all times. Stamps may be purchased at postoffices. Hunters also must buy a $2 state duck stamp, to be validated by the county of residence. Some counties they must buy a state license, in addition to federal hunting and fishing law, some counties they are exempt from the payment of any license.

Hunting grounds may be used to hunt, but no sink-box, power-driven sailboat, automobile, or aircraft may be used.

Live duck or goose decoys are prohibited as is the attraction of ducks by the use of grain, fruit, produce, salt, or other feeds. The department officials prefer the largest supply of water, as in many years, especially of black duck, teal, sprig and mallard.

All hunters likewise have a code of things to remember. The bag limit is 10 per week, a threeshell limit, no repeating shotguns, and the prohibition on use of a gun larger than a 10 gauge.

Specifications are good for an automatic shotgun, likewise opening on December 1, the general trapping season for fur-bearing animals, such as badger, civet cat, fox, mink, opossum, polecat, raccoon, or skunk, will be stopped during December and early in most counties.

Hunters must now buy an annual license at a cost of one dollar retail for dealers, and wholesale dealers, must pay license fee.

TAX REVISION POSTPONED TO JANUARY

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt left for a Southland vacation tonight convinced the administration's new program will stimulate business revival even though tax revision has been deferred to the January session of congress.

Though still shaky from his recent illness, the chief executive spent the day at the White House in setting in motion machinery to speed up government aid to business.

1. He is determined to carry out his program for a balanced budget.

2. He is opposed to piecemeal legislation that might upset administration plans to simplify the revenue structure and eliminate inequities.

3. He may veto the farm bill or any other measure passed by congress calling for outlays not provided for by revenue legislation.

4. He believes congress should pass at the special session the new housing bill to be submitted Monday, to boom construction and employment.

Decision to postpone tax revision until the January session came after a conference of the president, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, which originates tax legislation. They disclosed it would be impossible to get a bill in shape for action by both houses this session.

Strategy was adopted by the democratic leaders to write into the legislation to ease business taxes and provide funds for the farm program.

This development came after President Roosevelt bluntly warned congress that if the new farm bill calls for money in excess of $500,000,000 now provided, new revenue would have to be provided to pay for it.

This warning, contained in a letter to Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, was amplified by Rhetsys T. Rarly, of the president's office, who submitted the president would veto the farm and all other bills calling for big cash outlays without accompanying means to finance them.

A militant house bi-partisan "tax relief bloc," meantime, was fortified to seek special session action on revision of the corporate surplus and capital gains taxes after 86 Democrats and Republicans enlisted in the movement.

CONCERNING INDICTMENT AGAINST HARRY CLARK

Editor New Era—

That the people of this community, Bandera, know Harry Clark has been fully exonerated of any offense in the case of the United States vs. Harry Clark, at Little Rock, Arkansas, both Mr. Clark and I will appreciate your publication of the following facts.

Representing Mr. Clark with-out fee, I prepared and transmitted to the United States attorney a formal application for the dismissal of the case against Mr. Clark. I then visited United States vs. T. A. Davis, et al, No. 12315, IN RE, Harry Clark, Arkansas. Dear Sir: In presenting this application of the Defendant, Harry Clark, to you, and the Government, I do not fully aware of its extra Judicial nature, that dismissal in cases of this character are the exception to the rule; however, when a Defendant assumes the burden of proof and makes the showing of justification for the dismissal of a case, he brings his case clearly within the exception.

FIRST: The Defendant, Harry Clark, built a house of logs 20 x22 feet on a tract of land, unfloored or ceiled and floored it with lumber, put a composition roof on it and established a bona fide residence therein with his wife and three children.

SECOND: He dug a well to an ample flow of water and walled it from bottom to surface in workmanlike manner.

THIRD: He cleared between eight and ten acres of land in question, planted an acre or more of tomatoes and planted corn on the remainder, and cleared land.

FOURTH: He planted and cultivated a garden on the land in connection with and under his principal sustenance for himself and family through the summer of 1933.

FIFTH: He cut timber and split about 2500 rails with which he fenced the cleared land, and a few uncleared acres.

SIXTH: He bought hog-wire netting and built one quarter of a mile of hog proof fence.

SEVENTH: He set out about 35 peach trees on the portion of which are now floribunda on the land.

I wish to assure that my letter is a fair interpretation of the law in such cases and the decisions of the courts in point, the irrefutable physical facts in the case throughout, fully exonerate him and with the Court's approval, unanimously justifies the dismissal of the indictment against him. To that end, the Defendant, Harry Clark, appeals to you to avail yourself of the short cut authorized to defendants by your power to dismiss any of these evidences of the Defendant's sacrifices to promote the public welfare.

Respectfully submitted,

Harry Clark, Defendant.

Duck, Quail and Trapping Laws

Duck and quail hunters last week made ready for the opening of the seasons on these birds when the duck season began November 27 and the quail season opened December 1.

The duck season will last from November 27 through December 27, under both state and Federal regulations.

The quail season will last from December 1 through January 16.

Duck hunters have a multitude of rules and regulations to remember, with a view of stringent general supervision of the hunting of migratory waterfowl.

Among things to be remembered by duck hunters are these:

Limit for shooting are 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Bag, limit is 10 for ducks, five for geese and Brandt. Nine gun lighter than a No. 10 gauge shotgun may be used. If floating shotguns are used, they must be permanently plugged to a three-shell capacity.

Seven kinds of waterfowl may be killed at all in Texas, according to Federal regulations. They are Wood ducks, canvasbacks, ruddy ducks, redheads, bufleheads, swans, and Ross' geese.

All hunters over 16 years of age must buy a Federal duck stamp before hunting and must carry the stamp with them. They may be purchased at postoffices.

Hunters also must buy a $2 state hunting license if they go outside the county of residence.

Only 22 counties they must buy a license anyway because of the unusual hunting and fishing law. In these counties they are exempt from the hunt on their own property or the property where they reside.

Dogs may be used to hunt ducks, but no sink-box, powerboat, sailboat, automobile, or airplane may be used.

Live duck or goose decoys are prohibited as the attraction of waterfowl by scattering grain, shucked corn or other feed.

The department officials prescribe the largest supply of waterfowl in many years, especially of the black duck, teal, sprig and pintail types.

Quail hunters likewise have a bag limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession, as a bag limit of 20 per day and 40 per week, a threeshell limit as regards shotgun, and the prohibition of the use of a gun larger than a 10 gauge.

Prospects are good for an abundant supply of this fowl.

The open season on December 1 is the general trapping season except for muskrats. Fur-bearers which may be legally trapped, run, opposum, polecat, raccoon, beaver, and ringtail cat may be trapped during December and January in most counties.

Trappers must now buy an annual license at a cost of one dollar retail fur dealers, and wholesale dealers, must pay a license fee.

APPLICATIONS APPROVED IN 10 DAYS

Applications from this state are approved by the regional office and checks delivered to local office in a record time of 10 days, on the average, according to A. M. Cooper, county supervisor, Farm Security Administration. The supervisor said that this is having a very beneficial psychological effect on forest borrowers are taking their loans this year. With service from the regional office, borrowers realize they receive the money in time to make the plans they make. This is a marked contrast to the situation last year, when, as the result of changing procedure and changing personnel, loan dockets were from three weeks to months to clear.

TAX REVISION POSTPONED TO JANUARY

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt left for a fourth and vacation tonight convinced the administration's new program will stimulate business revival even though tax revision has been deferred to the January session of congress.

Though still shaky from his recent illness, the chief executive spent the day at the White House setting in motion machinery to speed up government aid to business.

1. He is determined to carry out his program for a balanced budget.

2. He is opposed to piecemeal legislation that might upset administration plans to simplify the tax structure and eliminate inequities.

3. He may veto the farm bill or any other measure passed by congress calling for outlays not provided for by revenue legislation.

4. He believes congress should pass at the special session a new housing bill to be submitted Monday, to boom construction and employment.

Decision to postpone tax revision until the January session came after a conference of the president, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, which originates tax legislation. They disclosed it would be impossible to get a bill in shape for action by both houses this session.

Strategy was adopted by the Democrats to write into the bill legislation to ease the business taxes and provide funds for the farm program.

This development came after President Roosevelt bluntly warned congress that if the new farm bill calls for money in excess of $500,000,000 now provided, new revenue would have to be provided to pay for it.

This warning, contained in a letter to Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, was amplified by Stevens Early, of the president's secretariat. Early hinted the president would veto the farm and all other bills calling for big cash outlays without accompanying means to finance them.

A militant house bi-partisan "tax relief bloc," meantime, was formed to seek special session action on revision of the corporate and surplus capital gains taxes, more than 60 Democrats and Republicans enlisted in the effort.

FORMER POSTMASTER GENERAL BURLESON DIED

Austin, Tex., Nov. 24.—Former Postmaster General Albert Sidney Burleson died of a heart attack at his home here early today. He was 74 years of age.

His death occurred shortly after 6 o'clock.

Members of the family said he had suffered a number of heart attacks recently but previous ones had not been considered serious.

The funeral of the former postmaster general will be private. The family issued a request that no flowers be sent. The service will be at the Thurlow Weed chapel in Austin at 3 p. m. today with burial in Oakwood cemetery, Austin. The service will be read by the Rev. James S. Aiflin, rector of St. David's Episcopal church.

Surviving the former cabinet member are his widow, three daughters and two sisters. The daughters are Mrs. Laura Nagley of San Antonio who was former, by a member of the Texas legislature; Mrs. Lucy Grimes and Mrs. Bryant Smith, wife of a University of Texas law professor. The sisters are Miss Emma Burleson and Mrs. Lilly Burleson Mcdonnel, both of Austin.

Burleson was postmaster general in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson. He was born in San Marcos, Tex., June 7, 1863. He was the son of Major Edward Burleson of the Confederate States Army, grandson of Gen. Edward Burleson who fought in the battle of San Jacinto when Texas achieved independence, and great-grandson of James Burleson, a fighter against the British and the Creek Indians under Andrew Jackson.

Burleson was educated at San Marcos, at A. & M. College at Texas, at Baylor University and the University of Texas. He received his law degree at the University of Texas. After serving on the legal department of the city of Austin, he was elected to congress in 1899 and served there consecutively until 1913. He resigned then to accept the post in the cabinet, in which he served until March, 1921. He then returned to private life residing in Austin. In 1918 he was chairman of the United States Telegraph and Telephone administration and in 1920 chairman of the United States commission to the international wire commission conference. In recent years oil development on land he owned in West Texas greatly augmented his fortune.

YOUTHFUL TRAIN ROBBERS FACE DEATH TERM

Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 26.—Two youthful Brooklyn cowboys" who tried to bring alive the fiction of the old West—came tonight to the grim realization their fantastic attempt to rob a Southern Pacific passenger train yesterday may send them both to the electric chair.

"We haven't a chance to beat the law," conceded Henry Lorenz, as he scribbled an account of the holdup, which ended in the death of W. L. Smith, El Paso, Texas, railroad switchman.

"Train robbery? It's a hell of a racket" muttered Harry Dwyer, 20, peering from eyes all but closed by the fists of enraged lawmen, who beat and captured the pair.

No charges have yet been filed against the two, brought here from Deming, N. M., where they were held yesterday, but District Attorney Martin Threet said he would accuse them of train robbery and murder.

There is the penalty in New Mexico for both first degree murder and train robbery "with resultant death or robbery."

The bedraggled pair sat in their jail cells today and penciled what Sheriff Jose Veramontes said were full confessions of the robbery.

Both admitted firing pistols on the train as it sped across the desert of southern New Mexico, near the Mexican border, the sheriff said, but neither would take individual responsibility for the shot which killed Smith.

Hatchet-faced Lorenz told Veramontes he was born in Frankfurt, Germany, and lived in Muntitoe, Wis. Dwyer, chubby and rubyhaired, said his birth place was Haverhill, Mass., and his home in Quincy, Boston, Massachusetts.

Both said they had worked as laborers at Brodklyn, before they decided to "go west," and came to the little southern New Mexico town of Deming, where they framed as cowboys while plotting the ill-fated hold-up.

Deming residents, inured to the spectacle of "dude" cowboys, viewed them with mild amusement as they donned exaggerated western garb and galloped through town on the horses they

HONDO NEGRO KILLER CAPTURED BELOW BORDER

Arrest of a negro believed to be John Parker, wanted in connection with the fatal stabbing of a young Hondo merchant on Nov. 13, was announced last Wednesday by Sheriff Herman Lehmann of Eagle Pass.

The negro was captured Monday by the chief of police at Piedras Negras and Deputy Sheriff Griff Bowles on a ranch in Mexico, 22 miles south of Piedras Negras and nearly 140 miles from Hondo.

Parker was being held by Mexican immigration authorities Wednesday in Piedras Ngaras, pending deportation orders from Mexico City for his transfer to officials in Eagle Pass.

The arrest brought to a close a widespread search that was conducted with the aid of an airplane and bloodhounds by a posse of more than 100 Hondo residents after Roy Hickey, 21-year-old Hondo merchant, was stabbed through the heart when he attempted to settle a fight between a negro and another negro. The stabbing was furnished by A. G. Holloday of San Antonio, native of Hondo, and the bloodhounds, by Sheriff Elmo Arnold of New Braunfels.

One of the suspect's whereabouts was reported to Sheriff Lehmann Monday morning by informers from a grubbing camp on El Indio ranch, 20 miles southeast of Eagle Pass on the Texas side of the Rio Grande. They reported that a negro answering Parker's description appeared in camp early Monday morning and asked directions to the Rio Grande.

Money, it was stated, was offered to one of the laborers if he would direct the way to the Mexican's place in exchange for his. Food was given to the negro, but the laborers refused to escort him to the river.

The sheriff reported that a negro, believed to have been the same who crossed the Rio Grande here, exchanged a shotgun for food at the South Indio ranchhouse later in the day.

After obtaining possession of the gun, Deputy Sheriff Bowles went to Piedras Negras to get assistance from Mexican authorities. Parker's arrest followed.

Mrs. R. S. Terwilliger entertained the bridge club at her home on Mt. Rugh Courts, Wednesday afternoon.

The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves. Tiny packages of gaily wrapped home made fudge marked places for the guests. A delicious sandwich plate with coffee was served to the following guests: Mrs. C. M. Beeler, Mrs. D. E. Conwill Jr., Mrs. F. C. Billings, Mrs. H. Schlemmer, Mrs. Ray Wyatt, Mrs. Max Witcher, Mrs. Stanley Nuckles, and the hostess.

HONEY HINTS and HIGHLIGHTS

Beekeepers of the United States and Canada are meeting in Washington D. C. this week in their annual National Convention. This is also National Honey Harvest Festival week. The convention was held in San Antonio last year when the Ladies National Auxiliary was organized. At that time Texas had no auxiliary, but last summer the ladies of the state organized, and latest reports from the national organization showed Texas one of the two largest auxiliaries in the United States.

Experiments carried on last year at the William Beaumont General Hospital at El Paso proved that eating honey is a very effective way of curing hay fever. Official acknowledgment of this cure was made by Captain George D. McGrew of the Army Medical Corps, and published recently in The Military Surgeon.

Honey [illegible] taken from the fields, and all in moderation the amount hay fever, and in some cases asthma, caused by pollen, thus bringing about immunity through the simple method of "eating the enemy" [illegible] occasionally, but not [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

WINTER DRIVING TIPS

The proper technique of safe winter driving rests primarily upon the avoidance of quick, sudden moves of any kind, according to a bulletin issued by Chevrolet this week in the interest of traffic safety under hazardous road and weather conditions.

Modern motor cars are engineered for year-around operation, the bulletin states, and the driver who takes full advantages of their engineering refinements can reduce driving hazards to a minimum. The principal source of such hazards lies in poor tire traction on ice pavements where safe driving depends on the avoidance of any abrupt application of either the power or the brake.

Some of the points stressed in the bulletin are: "A good driver uses second speed extensively in stopping, in approaching intersections, and in turning corners. With the synchro-mesh transmission, it is simple and easy to shift to a lower speed and maintain control of the car at all times. Another important point is to leave the car in gear when coasting down so that the engine may act as a brake.

"Cultivate the habit of giving other drivers ample notice of your intention to stop, turn, or slow down," the bulletin continues. "Even though you may have your own car under perfect control, the driver behind you may not be so fortunate. Never permit the wheels of your car to skid if it can be avoided. Spinning wheels may cause dangerous skids, and if they continue long enough the spot of dry pavement and thus gain sudden traction, a heavy strain is placed upon the propeller shaft and rear axle.

"Good visibility, always of the utmost importance, is assured in winter driving by the use of de-Frosting units which are available in several forms at moderate costs. Chains add traction in snow, but they should not be relied upon to take the place of sensible driving as a guard against skidding.

"Besides making for greater highway safety, these suggestions will prolong the life of any car if they are followed the year round. Proper care of the car in cold weather adds immeasurably to driving pleasure. The engine should never be raced, because lubricants flow more slowly when the engine is cold and the stress on engine parts is increased."

FUTURE FARMER STARS

At the tenth national convention of the Future Farmers of America held in Kansas City last month, representatives of more than 200,000 vocational agriculture students throughout the nation attended and took part in the contests.

Among the contest judges were Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior; Philip S. Rose, editor of the Country Gentleman, and Dr. Willard E. Givens, executive secretary of the National Education Association.

The highest award bestowed at the convention went to Robert L. Bristoe of Salinda, Va., who was designated Star Farmer of America in competition with 100 candidates selected by the various state organizations and F. F. A. chapters.

Regional Star Farmer awards were won by Lex J. Murray of Santa Rosa, Calif.; Ralph Davis of Napier, Mo., and William Ilfner of Alexandria, O. Many additional awards were made to individuals, local chapters and state associations for outstanding records in F. F. A. work.

The annual conventions of the organizations, which are held at the same time as the Royal Livestock Show, have become the most outstanding events for young men in the history of American agriculture.

Free Lance Writers

Free lance writers are persons who write on their own time, and not as members of the staff of any organization. Sir Walter Scott had both applied against the term to professional soldiers of the Middle Ages whose services could be had by any leader lord with the price.

"Thomas Christians"

The name "Thomas Christians" is borne by the followers of the Malabar rite because of early tradition that St. Thomas the Apostle evangelized there.

Second Highest Peak Bypassed

Mount Everest, 29,141 feet, the world is climbed. Towering 28,250 feet, it is destroyed.

AG. NEWS.

Last Wednesday night (Dec. 1) the ag. boys held a meeting in attend to some special matters of business, two of which were to initiate two boys into the Greenhand degree and also to initiate Mr. Briggs and Mr. Montague to honorary membership in our chapter. This came under the heading of special business.

The boys and Mr. Briggs were very enthusiastic over the honor conferred upon them, and we're very glad to have them in our organization of F. F. A.

Another matter of business was the discussion of buying jackets, shirts and caps with the Future Farmer emblem on them, which will be very attractive, and serve to advertise our department. Several boys decided to buy jackets, shirts, caps etc.

Another matter of VERY important business was the discussion of the old Greenhand members raising to the degree of Future Farmers. The initiation will be held at Kerrville Thursday night of this week. Several boys will be eligible. Some of the qualifications are: A boy must have 25 dollars productively invested, must have had two years ag. of Voc. Ag. and must have a certificate of merit. One of the several things essential in getting a certificate of merit is the making of one 8 ft. ball of binder twine into rope, then from the rope into halters, all kinds of splices, and the ability to tie all the different knots.

Club Organizations

Friday afternoon the pupils of Bandera High School met, in various groups, to organize clubs. The clubs organized were English, science and mathematics. The science and mathematics classes were combined into one club which includes the pupils taking algebra 1 and 2, geometry, general science, and physics. The English Club includes the four English classes. The vocational agriculture and homemaking classes have been organized into clubs for some time. The clubs plan to meet every two weeks.

New English Club

Last Friday we organized clubs of all the students who are not members of the homemaking or vocational agriculture clubs. Each pupil chose the club in which he desired to work.

The English club elected the following officers: Allie Gerald Langford, president; Leo Towerz, vice-president; Doris Mansfield, sargeant-at-arms; and Merna Boales, reporter. Clara Weir was appointed chairman of the social committee; Annie Ruth Gossett was appointed chairman of the parliamentary committee, and Texas Jordan, chairman of the program committee.

We have not chosen a name as yet. We are all trying to think of a good one.

We intend to have a motto, colors, and a club song. We decided to have the dues 5c a meeting; that is 10c a month. With these dues we will buy any material which the social committee feels is needed.

Our first program will be based on Christmas customs of the other lands.

A Good Scholastic Standing.

All of the hard work and effort expended in school is rewarded in one way or another. One of the first noticeable things is the pleasure of knowing that you are doing well in your scholastic standings.

It seems that quite a bit more effort is being put forth by many of B. H. S. this last six-weeks period. This is mainly seen in the increasingly large number of honor roll students compared with that of the first six-weeks list of honor roll pupils. We are hoping that it took a short time for most of us to really get set and in a condition for good work before a great deal could be accomplished. Some of the guys and gals have really put forth their most mighty efforts and results were soon seen.

The good work done by the students makes a better name for old Bandera High. After all, this is our school, and what we do for the school we do for ourselves our own good, also.

In the future we want to keep up this rate so that we shall be proud of "our" school when we are all grown up into manhood and womanhood and be well satisfied in looking back over our school days.

For most of us the idea is bearing hard in our mind that Christmas and the holidays are not far off so we shall soon be taking a good rest. But let's keep on plugging till the time comes so that we will have something to rest from.

Let's Get Serious

It seems that the players of last year are doing nicely in basketball practice this week, but where are all of the players in the eighth and ninth grades? There should be more of these boys out to play basketball than the older ones because Bandera is going to need them in the future. Without experience and help of these freshmen and sophomores the "old dogs" will be very weak in the future. It takes plenty of experience in football, as we have seen in the last few years, and basketball requires the same thing. What is everyone going to do? Well, let's get behind every boy at B. H. S. and make him come out for basketball. We only want a good team this year, but we want to see the "Bulldogs go to town" in years to come.

Hay—Hay

Hello, Jack Frost. You just popped up here and froze us all up. There seems to be some secret whispering going on. What's it all about girls? Seems as though I heard something about a party for those brave football heroes (At least I'M hoping that's it). Better get ready girls and boys, for every one will be wearing his best bib and tucker.

Math. & Science Club

Friday, Dec. 3, the Mathematics and Science Club of Bandera High School was formed with the aid of Mr. Briggs and Mr. Teel. The following officers were elected: President, Joe Stevens; Vice-President, Walter Jureski; Parliamentarian, Frank Kaiser; Sargent-at-arms, William Davis; Reporter, David Candler.

We have great hopes in view for our club. With a fine group of 22 boys and our two sponsors, what couldn't we do? We start off with a bang Friday. Plans were formulated which will cause unlimited interest in the new club.

We decided to form a club library and to the end have made plans for subscribing to three magazines: "The Scientific American," "Popular Science" and "Popular Mechanics."

"Let's go gang! Put some Pep and Enthusiasm into our work!"

The Homemaking Girls

The homemaking girls met last Tuesday in their regular club meeting. Allie Gerald and Belle Adams, opened the meeting by reading a letter from Lorena Hall, secretary of the Girls 4-H department to attend the Homemaking District Meet at Kerrville, Saturday. It was decided that as many girls as possible would attend. The girls, also, made plans for their Christmas party, December 17. Then Monica Jenkins, chairman of program committee, selected Lorena Baker and Lanelle Pee as her assistants. This committee is going to present the program for the entire year for the club's approval.

Smiles of approval came out every time Christmas was the last Thursday when the Alamo Planing Company delivered a maple drop-leaf dining table and six chairs to match and fourteen chairs to match the three tables that had been purchased at the beginning of school. These pieces of furniture are very attractive and have added a great deal to the appearance of our department.

An orchestra of seven members has been organized by a few of the students of Bandera High School, under the direction of Mrs. A. K. Briggs.

Practice is held once a week, and we are now devoting our time to prepare for a radio program which will be heard Jan. 6 over Station K. T. S. A. at 2:30 p. m. Be sure to have your dial tuned to 550 kilocycles on that date to hear Bandera talent on the air.

HONEY HINTS—

granulate which is commonly called "sugaring." This is not a sign of spoilage or deterioration but only a natural process brought about by cooler temperature. The finer lighter grades granulate more quickly than the darker.

Granulated honey can be brought back to liquid form by placing the container in a pan of very warm water. If in an unbreakable container let water boil around container. Keep a tin lid, or small sticks under bottom of honey container to avoid burning honey. If you don't mind the granulated honey it can be used in various ways, as a hard sauce use 2 1-4 cups honey, 2-3 cup butter, let butter stand in room temperature until it is soft enough to blend with honey, stir until thoroughly mixed. Put in square jar, cover tightly and put in refrigerator. This can be used like any sauce on steamed pudding. Or use 1 cup honey, 3-4 cup butter blend as above and use on hot bread, or in candying sweet potatoes.

Drizzled Honey

The easiest way to use honey on cereals, beverages such as tea, coffee or lemonade, or with whipped cream, is the drizzled method. Place honey jar or pitcher in warm, not hot, water for about ten or fifteen minutes before using. This will make it drizzle very readily from the container.

Diluted Honey

Since honey contains less water than the commercial syrups it has a heavier body and does not pour easily. According to the Bureau of Chemistry, h oney can be diluted to the density of the following: Add 1-3 cup hot water to 1 cup honey to get density of Maple syrup, add 1-5 cup hot water to 1 cup honey to get density of cane or corn syrup. Add 2 tablespoons of water to 1 cup of honey to get density of molasses. Boil thoroughly keep in covered container in cold place.

Dilute only small quantities a time and keep any left over cold place as it will spoil in condition.

Honey Fruit Cake

1 cup honey, 1-2 lb. butter 2 teaspoons soda, 5 eggs, 2 cups 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 spoons allspice, 2 cups chopped cans, 1 cup chopped almonds walnuts if preferred), 1 curranits, 2 cups seedless 1 cup dates, 1-8 lb. lemon 1-8 lb. orange peel, 1-4 lb. 1-4 lb. glazed pineapple, 1 candied cherries. Sift flour measure. Divide flour into equal parts. To one part baking powder, spice and Sift twice more, cream ter, add honey, add well e egg yolks, add sifted dry ingients gradually, fold in stiffly ten egg whites. Roll cut fruits that have been cut the remaining flour. Do not cherries and pineapple in Add to dough mixture, add apple and cherries. Bake in oven (300 deg.) 2 to 2 1-2

GLASS CLOTHES NEXT

Among the new things under the sun lately coming to public attention is "fiberglas," which its name implies is fiber made from glass, and it is now beginning to be used in the manufacture of cloth on a commercial scale.

Some five years ago, research experimenters working with blow torches and powdered glass almost accidentally produced some small strands which were found to have great strength. Continued and their investigation and experiments, a process for weaving these strands or threads into various fabrics was developed.

To produce fiberglas, the molten glass is drawn from a furnace through many tiny openings ig strands as small as one-ten thousandth of an inch in diameter and twisted into threads, which in turn are woven on textile looms into a shiny, pliable material. This fabric has great

PUBLIC OPINION

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

A recent radio address was without precedent. An associate justice of the Supreme Court took the time to address the public over a general radio hook up. In fact, we might say that the address was international in character for it appeared as well as our country listened with interest to what Justice Hugo L. Black had to say.

It is not the purpose of this article to discuss the merits of the issue upon which the associate justice spoke, but rather to emphasize the power of public opinion. Never before in the history of the Supreme court was it deemed advisable for one of its members to explain a personal relationship. Usually the members of the highest court of our country have remained completely silent in the face of criticism; not so, Justice Black. Public opinion, right or wrong, was to be expounded a hearing. In this respect it demonstrated clearly and convincingly its inherent power. The most impelling power for good or evil is the voice of the people. It is the necessarily true in a democracy. We could not have it otherwise and remain a democracy.

The most important instrument for the expression of public opinion is the press. Through the agency is more influential in molding the public mind than is the press. With this vehicle for disseminating information, it is comparatively easy for the unscrupulous to misinterpret affected by mass psychology. When out of control, it is all exceedingly dangerous. The press in this connection is true: it may become an instrument of unbridled license.

Public opinion elects presidents, members of congress, and the majority of the members of the municipalities. Public opinion determines policies which control legislation, but public opinion is powerless when grave issues are at stake? It must and will be heard. Every citizen's personal liberty has the right to speak.

Many problems, moral, economic, and spiritual, clamor for solution. The most serious seems our inability to control it. The world is the world is fundamentally a matter of the public mind. Is it honesty want peace? Do we desire it enough to demand it by the united voice [illegible]

[illegible] opinion demands it. The problems of the underprivileged of the world will be eliminated when public opinion demands the right of every child to be with the power of the public mind knows no limitation. From it [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

CRAZY TRAILER LAWS

Recently when traveler were to visit all of the 48 states his vehicle would eventually have as many lights as a Christmas tree, one speaker declared. Red, blue, green, crystal, amber, yellow and white lights in various numbers and combinations are demanded by conflicting statutes. In some states trailers must display as many as 10 lights.

Height limits range from 11 feet in Oregon to the sky in four states. Length limits for automobile and trailer combined range from 30 to 65 feet, and beliefs and license fees vary greatly.

Recommendations for uniform provisions have been made by motorists' associations, but progress in that direction is slow. Perhaps if trailer owners organize and holler loudly enough something may be done about it.

CLEVER CAMPAIGNING

In his famous Washington column Paul Mallon tells of a clever vote-getting device employed by Congressman A. P. Lamneck of Ohio, which is no doubt almost as effective as kissing the babies in person.

He has all the newspapers of his district watched for notices of births, and sends the parents mimeographed form letters which read:

"Dear Friends: I have just learned of the arrival of a new visitor in your home and take this opportunity of extending my congratulations. I trust you will find the attached booklet in 'Infant Care' of help."

The booklet is available free at the Agriculture Department. The booklet and letters are likewise sent postage free under congressional frank. Thus the scheme furnishes an excellent method of campaigning at public expense.

Fond parents are hardly refuse to vote for the reelection of a Congressman who is as thoughtful as that.

"DON'TS" FOR CHRISTMAS

Marvin Hall, Texas fire insurance commissioner has called attention to the number of unusual fire hazards which should be guarded against during the festivities of the approaching holiday season.

"A destructive fire is the sworn enemy of the peace and happiness that Christmas should properly bring," Hall explained. "It is important, therefore, to be familiar with the hazards common to the month of December which have in past years caused wasteful loss of life and property."

Some of the "Don'ts" as listed by Commissioner Hall are as follows:

2. Don't place cotton or lighted candles on the Christmas tree.

3. Don't carelessly smoke or light near an open flames when wearing a cotton Santa Claus beard.

4. Don't place a lighted candle in the window near curtains or other inflammable material.

5. Don't allow small children to handle fireworks.

6. Don't use pennies or wire to replace blown-out electric fuses.

7. Don't use kerosene or gasoline to start or quicken a fire.

8. Don't permit children and other members of the family to get too close to stoves and open fireplaces.

Adding the many things the people of Texas have to be thankful for this Christmas, Hall [illegible] loss of the last eleven months. The first six months of 1937 showed a lower fire loss than any six-month period during the last twenty years. It is doubly important during this last month of the year, that [illegible]

David Candler

David Candler is a nice sort of person—the kind which is usually found around Bandera High. He is like all the rest us Seniors—always very smart, intelligent and precocious. The brilliance of his beautiful tangerine hair never outshines the even greater brilliance of his beautiful brain hidden way down underneath it all. He is one of our best typists and outdoes us all in accuracy, in this particular subject, beating even a certain smug tenth-grade smarty.

He (David) resembles the Smith Young Tower more than any other senior boy—in height, that is, since he does not have as many windows. He is very stern, especially with rowdy girls, and believes women's place is in the home, playing the violin, and combing her curly blonde hair before the mirror.

His ambition we were not able to learn, but we think he would make a pretty good villian in the movies, owing to his excellent physique and daring way with the ladies, if he would only swipe a couple of handle-bars off a tricycle to go over his upper lip.

Last year the girls of the general science class managed to make something between $11.00 and $12.00. (We've forgotten how much) by selling candy. As we never used this money and have no particular need for it now, we have decided to give it to the basketball boys to buy much needed shoes for those players whose feet won't fit the shoes on hand. Mr. Teel said that he thought that three pair of good shoes could be purchased for that amount. We are glad to give this money to the boys, but we expect them to win some games as a return favor.

Last Saturday Mrs. Schofield and Mrs. F. C. Billings accompanied a group of Future Homemakers to the Future Homemaking Conference in Kerrville. The sixteen girls that went were Lois Estelle Billings, Lena Mae Ross, Vera Anderwald, Lucille Maas, Louise Manning, Gladys Eckhart, Ruth Preston, Radie Jane Culpepper, Helen Calhoun, Mary Elizabeth Maurek, Alice Dawson, Georgia Fee, Virginia Patterson, Alta Belle Adams, Maurice Gossett, Beatrice Langford and Lanelle Fee.

We had a very enjoyable time and succeeded in gaining some ideas for our club. We are looking forward to going to the next meeting to be held at Junction the second Saturday in February.

The high school choral club has recently been discontinued in order that we might devote more time to the organizing of our volley ball and baseball teams for the county meet. We hope to begin practicing valley ball soon. As we already have eight baseball teams lined up ready to play. The girls are very anxious to get started.

The basketball boys have been practicing very hard in spite of the unfavorable weather and are looking as if they want a game. Mr. Teel plays right with us, and I believe that is what a football or basketball coach should do. They should keep the boys going and never have one mad at them.

Many new boys have joined us and are helping very much. We expect a game in San Antonio Thursday night.

It has been reported that [illegible] Indians finish this year in the "C" conference with a total of 42 points.

Now that the Yuletide season is so very near to our doors we should remember even more than usual to spread as much good feeling and cheer as is possible. Sorrow really should never be, but it's only human nature that we are in our high and low moods at different times. Why? Well, in most cases our minds make mountains out of mole hills when we get the idea that, if some little thing goes wrong, all the troubles will be small ones and you and I and everybody will be in a merry mood.

The eleventh grade met the other day to elect class officers for 1937-38. It seemed as if the boys had gotten together before hand and decided to put girls in these places. We elected officers as follows:

Monica Jenschke—President.
Gladys Eckhart—Vice-President.
Mada Bradshaw—Secretary and Treasurer.

Prior to this time we had elected class reporters. They are David Candler and William Davis.

Miss Erneste and Clifford McCarthy the tiny bride and groom appeared with a covered wagon loaded with many beautiful and useful gifts tokens of the esteem in which the honoree is held by friends who have known her since early childhood. ## Congress Adjourns With Nothing Done

Washington, Dec. 21.—The Senate passed the hemstring bill today the House sent it to conference and, with these things done, Congress gladly concluded its special session and began thinking about Christmas.

Some of the departing members, more particularly those of Republican persuasion, were calling it "the good-will session," because, although much preparatory work was done, not one of the Roosevelt bills it was called to consider was finally enacted.

REVOLT WRECKS BILLS SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT

Washington, Dec. 18.—Administration leaders Saturday night sought to salvage remnants of President Roosevelt's shattered special session program and turn the fate of congressional rebellion that killed the new deal's labor standards bill.

The task of restoring administration dominance in Congress was made doubly urgent from the new deal's point of view, by adjournment of the emergency session legislative agenda and by the prospect of more turbulent meetings in the regular session in January.

Mr. Roosevelt took cognizance of the difficult road ahead by asking for his congressional leaders to come to the White House Monday for a canvass of the legislative situation.

"The net result of the session is pretty mixed," Senate Minority Leader Charles L. McNary (Rep.) of Oregon, summed up. The session will end late next week.

"We made headway," House Speaker William B. Bankhead (Dem.) of Alabama countered. "We have made substantial progress toward adjournment of the regular session around April 15."

The House burial of the wages-hours bill is an indication that Congress will no longer "simply a yes man," Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana, rebellious administration leader remarked.

The Democratic rank and file in both House and Senate viewed the House vote sending the labor bill back to committee as tantamount to ending hope of wages-hours legislation. If not at this time, although the fight will be resumed.

ORIGINS OF CHRISTMAS

« As everyone knows, Christmas is celebrated as the anniversary of the birth of Christ, although the actual date of that august event is not really known. In the early years of Christianity, this festival was observed conjointly with the feast of the Epiphany, on January 6.

December 25 was finally agreed upon about five centuries after Christ's ministry on earth and is a date arbitrarily set, like that of Easter, for the commemoration of an event, rather than as an actual anniversary. St. Chrysostom speaks of this date having been first observed by the Christians of the West.

The Christmas Tree, now an almost universal symbol, was adopted from the Egyptians, long present significance of the Christmas Tree is by some thought to have originated in Germany.

The custom of using decorations of evergreens, particularly mistletoe, has long been observed, especially since the time of the Druids. In the Middle Ages festivity hilarious festivities were held in connection with Christmas, which called forth remonstrances from authorities of the Church who deplored the tendency to stress the festive rather than the serious significance of the Christmas season.

As now observed, Christmas is firmly established as one of the most universally celebrated festivals of the year.

WHAT NEXT?

The boys were suddenly stopped practicing basketball this week by the cold and rainy weather. Every boy is wishing for sultry weather, but maybe all is for the best. The boys have been practicing in the costly basketball shoes which were too small and they have all been crippling around like old men.

Mr. Neal said the "Bulldogs" would have been a "tall team" if so much hadn't turned under. This was his remark after ordering some more 9 and 9-1-2 shoes).

The boys get it back, or even by saying that a "hillbilly" has to have a good "understanding". Mr. Teel only laughed and left the group to make the boys think they had something on him so they would be in good shape for a "Bang up" start in the first game.

The Future Homemakers

The Future Homemakers met Wednesday morning in their regular meeting with Vice President Eckhart presiding. The Secretary, Clarice Culpepper called the roll with every member answering with an appropriate Christmas gift. Then Vanita Jenschke, program chairman, presented the following program: "Silent Night"—By the group. "Christmas Customs in Cuba"—Melinda Keiser. "Christmas in Poland"—Virginia Pasterson. "Xmas Customs in Mexico"—Mary Margaret Short. "New Year Holidays in China"—By Radie Jane Culpepper. The Trip to Kerrville—By Maurine Gossett.

The Club Song was sung and the Homemakers adjourned.

The Homemakers are also very interested and pleased in the fact that they are about to complete their second school garment. We plan to have our style show next Wednesday evening.

It Has Not Been Forgotten

Football is still hanging on the "Bulldogs" (because the other two exceptions) went to Hondo last Friday week to see the Eldorado Cowboys trim the Owls 27 to 0 in regional championship of the B conference.

Several boys are keeping in contact with the class A state championship games also. Wichita Falls, Plainview, North Side, (Ft. Worth) and Conroe are still in the race. The Conroe "Midget Magicians" show that with sufficient training, football can be played without power.

For us, the students of Bandera Grammar School and Bandera High School, the Christmas holidays will begin on the day of December 23, that is, at four o'clock on that day, we turn out never to return again till January 3, 1938. The thought of our coming vacation puts us in the mood of saying, each and everyone of you, "A Very Merry Christmas and a Most Happy New Year."

Mr. Briggs made a trip to Austin last Friday for the purpose of transacting necessary business for our school.

Because of the rainy weather the girls have not been playing their play-ground ball or volley ball, but we hope—that we can start immediately after the holidays.

We wish every one a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year".

ADDA'S REMEDIES FOR STIES

I have a boil upon my eye,
I do not know the reason why.
When people tell me it's a sty,
I always answer, It's a lie.
They tell me that is what to say,
To drive the pesky thing away.
I wonder why I have to tell,
A blything tie to make it well.

Then Adda says, "If this should fail,
Just rub the eye with a black cat's tail.
And if it is a boil or sty,
This remedy will cure the eye.
I fear this remedy would fail,
For lack of faith in the black cat's tail.
Besides I fear such thing to try,
As the cat might black my other eye.

Bird's Skeleton Most Rigid
The skeleton of a bird is the most rigid of all the animals. Most fish are very flexible. The familiar "wish bone" is simply the two collar bones grown together to give greater strength to the attachment of wings. The breastbone is not flat as in most animals, but has an enormous ridge down the middle for the attachment of flight muscles. These muscles are relatively hundreds of times more powerful than similar muscles in man. In some birds they are so highly developed that they represent half the bird's entire weight.

ROOSEVELT DELIVERS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Congress convened Monday for its regular session. President Roosevelt, in his message, among other things, said:

"The world has been beset by peace-disturbing proposals, which in other days, because of their untenability, could well have been ignored war.

"We have improved some matters by way of remedial legislation. We hold our objectives and our principles to be sound. We will never go back on them.

"Our international relations are today undergoing a period of transition. Peace, which is the greatest common interest of all peoples, is being threatened. Some nations have begun to feel that they must rearm in order to protect themselves from their neighbors. Others have begun to feel that they must rearm in order to protect themselves from the fear that other nations are rearming.

"The present state of world affairs is a matter of deep concern to the United States. We are not isolated from the rest of the world. We cannot escape participation in world affairs. We are not indifferent to the fate of other nations. We are not unaffected by the fate of other nations.

"We are determined to pursue a course consistent with our own peace and security and with the rights and obligations of the United States as a signatory of the Pact of Paris and as a member of the community of nations.

"We are convinced that adherence to the fundamental principles of international law and to the basic pattern of peaceful relations between nations will bring to the people of the world the greatest measure of prosperity and happiness.

"We are ready to cooperate with other nations in every way consistent with our national policy and national interest to bring about a general recognition of the principles of international law and of peaceful relations between nations and a practical application of them.

"We are ready to consider with other nations any proposal which gives reasonable promise of contributing to the cause of peace, reduction of armaments, and the economic rehabilitation of the world.

"We are ready to do our part in the solution of any problem which may menace the peace of the world.

"We are ready to do our part in the creation of a condition of world affairs in which there will be no fear of war, in which there will be no need for war, in which there will be no economic advantage in war, in which there will be no place for war."

The Bandera P. T. A. met in regular session Tuesday afternoon at the high school auditorium with a large number in attendance. After the audience sang "Plow Gently, Sister Mary," one of the Homemakers class modeled the dresses they made in school. Every girl in the class had also made an attractive dress and the audience thoroughly enjoyed the style show. Then came a real revelation of the worth of a Homemaking course in school. Mrs. A. A. Hamilton and her band furnished the music for the event. Little Johnny Hayes gave a reading which was fine.

The business session followed with the president, Mrs. E. R. Teel in charge. Several minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. E. E. Candler and approved as read. Treasurer Hamilton gave her report that there are 53 paid up members. It was voted to send a Christmas box to each of the grammar and high school who were winners in the membership drive. ## NEWS FROM BANDERA COUNTY FARMS & RANCHES

Published Irregularly
By the County Agent

Bandera County farmers are rapidly learning that self-feeders are the best method of feeding hogs. If you doubt that, ask Louis Postert or Hubert Dugosh. Hubert killed some hogs the other day that were fed a balanced hog ration via the self feeder route and said they had gained nearly 2 pounds a day. Louis Postert said he thought big had gained nearly 100 pounds in 30 days, although he has not weighed them yet. Louis went us one better. He made a "self waterer" also. Said he had to be home for 3 days and in the meantime the hogs had all the feed and water they wanted. Result, he started it. And that is one of the advantages of a self-feeder. You have to feed the hogs only once a week instead of twice a day.

Chas. Brient got 112 eggs from 144 White Leghorn hens the other day, about 70 per cent production when eggs are highest. But they believe they will be paying the laying house and egg production has gone up steadily ever since.

Speaking of poultry, D. E. Holloway, who has the Hitchin-Post place on Medina, has one of the best flocks of White Leghorns in this part of the country.

Tank building on the Short ranch at Station "C" has been completed and Mr. Short says he has a lake 200 yards long and 100 yards wide as a result of the recent rains. Tanks are built as a part of the compliance work under the Range Program. The "lake" cut off Leslie's road to town and made it necessary to cut out another road.

Over one thousand acres of cedar has been cut on the Lucius Hicks ranch at Tarpley now in progress. There is some left but that section is a big gap in it.

Ben Langford, Bob Mansfield and Fred Thallmann have opened their trench silos and are feeding the silage to their cattle. They seem to have no trouble whatsoever in getting the calves to eat the silage. Sure looks like when the grass is dead and dry. Others who have filled trench silos this year are C. H. Hilmers on Indian Creek, Chas. Brient on Privilege, Frank Anderwald on Indian Creek, and O. P. Baker at Medina.

Competition in the Utopia 4H Club project work is keen this year. All calves have made excellent gains and will be in fine shape for the show next year. Last year Club members who are feeding calves are Billy Fisher, Jack Hicks, Tarpley; Jimmie Ray Hicks, Jr. and Vernon Porter, R. A. Webber, John Bounds and Paul Bounds, Utopia. Let's keep it going.

Two outbreaks of Pink eye have been found in local herds of sheep. Watch them carefully for this at this time of the year. Vaccination will usually stop it.

There are a lot of creepy cattle in this section. Cattle that "Creep" is simply a mineral deficiency and can be prevented in most cases by feeding bone meal. Bone meal should be used only as a supplement to regular cattle feeds. Cattle will make their own selection of minerals if they are supplied. Bone meal should be used only as a supplement to regular cattle feeds. Cattle will make their own selection of minerals if they are supplied.

Any plans that will keep you at home. Remember the date, come out and meet the rest of the folks and enjoy an evening of good music and fun.

POSTOFFICE MOVED THURSDAY

The Bandera postoffice was moved last Thursday night to its new quarters in the Boyle building. Postmaster Jack Mansfield and patrons received their mail there since Friday. The new postoffice is much more commodious and Mrs. Roome, postmaster, reports that every day they are receiving more calls for boxes.

13 MORE MARRIAGE LICENSES THAN IN 1936

A total of 49 marriage licenses were issued during 1937 by County Clerk R. L. Hayes, as compared with 39 in 1936. This is an increase of 13. Licenses were issued by months as follows: January, 2; February, 7; March, 1; April, 2; May, 3; June, 3; July, 3; August, 0; September, 4; October, 3; November, 2; December, 8.

RESOLVED

Resolved that—since the holiday season is over and a grand long holiday has been enjoyed by all—we, the students of Bandera High really buckle down to work, get busy, and accomplish something. In case you hardly remember the mid-term examinations are just around the corner and, after having overstuffed ourselves with turkey and other good things to eat during the Christmas holidays, there is a great danger that our active mental resources have weakened somewhat and we are not in need of renewing our vitally necessary mental strength. We have more than a week's time to prepare for that which comes pleteles half of this year's school work.

There is always time for everything and now is the time for a good review of our past work. So let us all begin the New Year right by doing some good hard work.

They're Here

While the Christmas spirit was ringing out in the form of bells and chimes, music and laughter, noisemakers and frolics, the mail man delivered a precious parcel to the Bandera Post office.

What was the precious parcel? None other than the rings for Senior graduating class of 1938. It had just come out from the mould before Christmas, thinking that the rings would come in before school turned out. However, we would have had an even more joyous Christmas.

But, the postman failed us. However, several senior students made their daily visits to the post office. Then, the expected treasure arrived. But, alas, we had to wait till school began again.

The waiting has made the rings even more dear to us and now that we have them we are tickled pink — 'er something. Anyhow, just watch the seniors flashing their beautiful finger decorations from now on.

Again, Again

The "Bulldogs", sleepy, lazy, and downcast, snapped into a lively practice this week in order to whip in shape for a game as soon as possible. A surprising shooting was made by our first game, and we hope to do much better this next game. We have a new student from California who plays basketball, and we are sure he can show us something and will be plenty of help.

Believe It Or Not
Bandera Has An Iron Mine

We were informed before Christmas that the "C" conference had listed the eleven all district. Iron men of football for 1937. Two nuggets of this tough metal were found in the "District Bulldogs" in the person of John Langford and Frank Keiser. These "Bulldogs" were the guards that showed them south Texas boys how to block low and lay them in that terrific drifting Texas sand. This shows that Bandera has the "Stuff" because of all the records recorded. We hope to make a better showing next year.

We are sorry that this news could not be put in the paper when first received; but we thought the news would be widely spread because these boys told their girl friends the night of the party.

Washington.—Senator Vandenberg (Republican, Michigan) said he agreed with former Governor Alf M. Landon that "political Bulldogs" in the person of John Langford and Frank Keiser. ## AUTO CRASH TAKES LIVES OF TWO AT INGRAM

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at Nichols Cemetery, near Ingram, for James G. Luigi, 37, of Aransas Pass, and his 19-months-old son, Lonzie, victims of an automobile accident at Ingram on Christmas Day. Burial was under direction of Smith Funeral Home, and the rites conducted by the Reverend Williams, Baptist minister, of Ingram.

Luigi, native of Louisville, Ky., was connected with a traveling tent show, which was making a stand at Ingram, and was operating his attention to repairing a tire on the roadside at Ingram when another car sped by and struck Luigi and his car. The child was killed instantly, and Luigi fatally injured. He died a few hours later in the Kerrville General Hospital, suffering internal injuries and fractured skull. The child's head was cut and crushed. Mrs. Luigi suffered fractures also, and her condition for a time was uncertain, but up-to-later report was improving. A brother-in-law of the family, a 12-year-old son, James Luigi, Jr. suffered slight injuries.

After the accident, which occurred in the middle of the afternoon, Deputy Sheriff Charles Rodgers of Ingram arrested John Carnes, employe at the Veterans' Hospital at Legion, and brought him to the Kerr County jail here.

Survivors of the Aransas Pass man, besides his widow and son, James, include two brothers, William G. and Gene Luigi of San Antonio; and a sister, Mrs. Rosi Alsan, San Antonio.

Saturday an entry was made on the examining trial docket in Justice Joe Smith's Justice Court, charging Carnes with operating a motor vehicle on a highway while intoxicated. Monday an other entry was made, charging Carnes with the death of the victim buried Tuesday. Up to Wednesday no hearing had been held.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

SOUTH' SEES NO PENDING BILLS TO HURT TRADE

Coleman, Tex.—Rep. Charles L. South, here for the Christmas holidays, does not see any legislation brought to which business might object.

"In the special session," the member of Congress said here in an informal discussion, "Congress showed more of a disposition to get down to business, in dealing with matters with which it was confronted, than at any session I have attended as a member."

Readiness of Congress to assume full responsibility in legislation is a wholesome condition, as he sees it.

Legislation is being passed too hurriedly, he stated, and there is more of a feeling that it pays in the long run to take time enough to go fully into the matter and pass a law that will work, rather than rush through laws without thorough consideration."

Mr. South says "The legislative machinery was not under pressure this session because the proposed of at the special session that otherwise would have taken up at the regular session.

He believes some features of the farm program are being worked out more satisfactorily than in previous programs, citing the method of arriving at quotas. He thinks the Senate and House conference committee will be able to work out differences between the two farm bills quickly after the start of the regular session. Jan. 3rd.

Gestures

As gestures may be expressive of feeling or of thought indicating approval, scorn, acquiescence or refusal, they may also indicate astonishment or opposition, as in the case of the knights of old who, in the shaking of their lances, made gestures of defiance. But, gesture, says Literary Digest, has a secondary significance that has arisen out of the insincerity of people. A mere gesture may be one of affectation or of shallow pretense, but such gestures are attributed chiefly to women, and to rarely exceptional individuals even in cheap gestures which, although made to impress, generally end in revealing hypocrisy.

An Inexpensive Hospital

Probably the most inexpensive hospital ever built in this country was erected in Cleveland during the Civil War of 1812, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Shortly after arriving here with his men in May, 1814, Capt. Stanton Stokes ordered a group of his men to construct a hospital of logs for sick soldiers. According to the captain's own account, the hospital was "20 by 30 feet, roofed and tightly covered, and floored with chestnut bark, with two tiers of bunks around the walls, with doors and windows and not a nail, a screw, or iron latch or hinge about the building." Its cost to the government was a few extra rations.

Name Changed

There have been famous Cromwells in English history, but at the restoration the name of Cromwell became odious and many bearers of the name made some change so as to disguise it. Mr. Vincent Cromwell, in addition to being Cromwell Nickleby acted Romeo, was how one man changed an illustrious name.

Ethiopia Uses Julian Calendar

Ethiopia uses the Julian calendar, but the Egyptian names of the months are also used. The first of Thoth, New Year's day, falls on September 11 in our calendar. There is a deviation of twelve minutes and twenty-five seconds per year from the true solar time and one day is lost in each 131 years.

BANDERA N. P. L. ASSN'S NAMES OFFICERS

More than 37 members of the Bandera National Farm Loan Association and their friends heard Secretary-Treas. W. R. Fletcher and the Board of Directors of the association report on the association's progress during the past year at a meeting held at Bandera on Tuesday, Jan. 11. Reports showed that this cooperative lending institution has made available to landowners in this community loans for more than $940,000 since its organization in 1917. Other reports showed that the association is in good shape financially.

Mr. Fletcher read a communication from A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank and general agent of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston, which outlined the work done by the Federal Land Bank in 1937, and discussed briefly the set-up of national farm loan associations and the essential factors to be considered in making farm market loans. In serving Texas agriculture during the past 12 months, this institution made 1513 Federal Land Bank loans totaling $2,375,500 and 2234 Land Bank Commissioner loans amounting to $3,540,100, a total of $5,915,600 in land mortgage loans to Texas farmers and ranchers. At the close of the year there were 69,729 Land Bank loans totaling $211,102,132 and 31,479 Commissioner loans in the amount $53,996,011.34 outstanding.

Mr. Williams pointed out that both the Land Bank and Commissioner are interested in making new loans on a sound basis to enable worthy farmers to purchase farms. These loans are being made at the lowest interest rate in the history of the and special consideration is given to qualified farmers who wish to buy the farms of delinquents.

Speakers at the meeting included Co. Agent H. F. Schlemeyer, Fred H. Thalmann, O. H. Brient and Capt. T. P. Grant.

Mr. Fletcher reported that A. O. Hall, Thalmann; Ben Gray, Adolph Kutzer and Granville Wright were elected directors of the association and that they in turn have elected A. Pyka president of the association, O. F. Thalmann vice president, and that W. R. Fletcher of Bandera was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

S. S. TAXPAYERS FORMS TO ARRIVE

Federal Social Security taxpayers are advised in a statement issued by Frank Scofield, collector of Internal Revenue, that Forms SS-1 to be used in filing their December, 1937 monthly tax returns (Federal Old Age Benefit Tax) will be released from the Austin office about January 10th. The blank forms will be mailed from the Austin office to taxpayers in filing their Summary Information Reports for the quarter ending March 31st, 1938. Each of taxpayers in filing their Summary Information Reports for the quarter ending March 31st, 1938, will be enclosed in the same envelope or package. The mailing of Forms SS-1 to each who has been unavoidably delayed by reason of the fact that the names have not been assigned and are being typed on both the December tax blank, Form SS-1, and the Summary Tax Blank on which the summary information return. The names and addresses, however, will be typed by the U. S. Forms SS-2a. Taxpayers should examine all such forms to see that the name and address is correct in every detail before mailing them to the Collector's office.

"My office is now receiving an increasing number of requests for these forms," Mr. Scofield stated, "and I wish to make it clear that if taxpayers of this First District of Texas file their December monthly tax returns on Form SS-1 and the information returns for the period July 1 to December 31, 1937, will be filed before by Jan. 31, 1938, no penalties will be assessed.

"Taxpayers will have approximately twenty days within which to file these reports before they become delinquent. They are urged, however, to prepare and file the reports promptly upon receipt of the blanks. At the same time that the forms are forwarded to taxpayers they will be informed by a special letter of instructions regarding the new regulations whereby tax returns under Title VIII of the Social Security Act, Old Age Benefit Tax, together with information returns will be filed on a quarterly basis (by the year) rather than quarterly reports, which will be a combined tax and information return for the year 1938 and subsequent years. I am particularly anxious to have all taxpayers to prepare and file their December monthly tax returns on Form SS-1 and their information report for the period July 1st to December 31st immediately upon receipt of these blanks, and in any event not later than January 31st, 1938, in order to avoid penalties."
