HANDY-ANDY'S
CUSTOMER PLEDGE

Our Pledge

"To operate the cleanest food stores in the city.

To operate the most courteous stores.

To sell the finest foods at lowest possible prices.

To keep the Handy-Andy Stores a home-owned institution.

To devote ourselves to the progress and civic interest of the communities we serve.

To always employ people of the highest caliber as our associates in business and pay them a living wage.

To always deal honestly in weights and measures, giving a full 16 ozs. to the pound."

*Don J. Reades David Seligson Robert K. Thibault George J. Tamm
Mike McDaniel Lloyd H. Handley Jr. Scott Edwards Don Simmons
Arac S. Martinez John C. Hill Jr. Sharon Harvey O'Brien*

We have faithfully carried out the above pledge and hereby renew and promise San Antonio and Kerrville a faithful performance in the years to come of the pledge that was the foundation of our business. The officers and directors of Handy Andy Supermarkets feel that there is something in business besides a profit. We are proud of our employees who are dependent upon Handy Andy for their livelihood and quality of life for their families. We feel happy that we are able to give employment to this fine group of people and this pledge is dedicated to our customers and to our employees. Let it also be known that all revenues are retained and reinvested to support the continued growth and prosperity of the San Antonio and Kerrville communities that we are privileged to serve.

This pledge is written without thought of commercializing a virtue—but with Pride in our firm, its policies and its leaders.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

As a service to its readers and in light of recent events in the stock market, this column presents a handy glossary of terms commonly used in financial circles.

Arbitrage: A procedure in which two stockbrokers drive their Porsches to a remote location, inhale substantial amounts of cocaine, get out their pocket calculators, and figure out what one stock is worth in terms of another.

Bear: Older stockbrokers whose clients have named their grandchildren after them.

Black Monday: A legendary day in 1929 when something happened that could never happen, and can never happen again. Not to be confused with the 1987 "Monday Massacre," with which Black Monday has nothing in common, except for the fact that neither could ever happen and neither will ever happen again.

Bull: Means just what it says.

Casino: See "stock exchange."

Commodity futures: A new technique for producing food and fiber. It requires no implements, fertilizer, feed or seed. Traders meet in places like Chicago, known for its many cultivated fields and hogs.

There they scream and gesture wildly at one another for several hours. See "green revolution."

Compliance: Refers to Security and Exchange Commission regulations. Usually used to describe a state in which stockbrokers are not, as in, "Too bad about Bruce. He's not in compliance."

Correction: See "Black Monday."

Fundamentals, underlying fundamentals: Refers to the fact that most Americans do not invest in the stock market, and as a consequence have to go to work every day and do something useful.

Hysteria: See "panic."

Institutional investors: Very large banks without drive-in tellers or Christmas clubs.

Odd-lottery: Investors who always do the wrong thing. See "little guy," and "a day late and a dollar short."

Panicle: See "correction."

Sell short: Get out while the getting's good.

Stock exchange: A place in New York City on Wall Street, so named for the wall behind which gentlemen hid while engaging in various financial transactions of dubious propriety.

Stock option: The stockbroker's version of layaway.

Wire House: A brokerage firm that specializes in the accounts of widows, orphans, pensioners and naive puppies. See "burn and churn."

Highlights

Top Texas politics continued their early display of interest in the 1988 and 1990 elections, with some interesting moves occurring last week, including:

• Vice President George Bush unveiled his Texas presidential committee and appears to have locked up the support of most Texas Republicans, including all three '86 gubernatorial candidates.

• Former Democratic Gov. Mark White said he might try to retake the Governor's Mansion in 1990, but wants to concentrate first on paying off a $1 million campaign debt and getting a Democrat into the White House, and.

• The three railroad commissioners, unable to elect a chairman, announced they would be rotating the gavel with each taking monthly turns.

Bush supporters

Bush listed Gov. Bill Clements' wife, Rita, and Kent Hance, one-time Clements opponent, as co-chairs of his Texas organization. The announcement was made by former Congressman Tom Loeffler, also a Clements opponent in 1986.

The list named all six Texas GOP state senators and 46 of 56 GOP House members.

For the record, the governor remains neutral, but the fact that his wife was signed on to co-chair Bush's Texas team speaks for itself.

• Houston State District Judge William Hatten, 74, filed suit seeking to overturn the mandatory retirement provision in the Texas Constitution.

• State Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, won't run for re-election, ending a 10-year career which elevated him to a key House player. He cited the overtime in special sessions as financially draining.

Letterwriter says she needs no protection against herself

Dear editor:
I'm voting FOR pari-mutuel betting (Nov. 3) because I believe in the freedom of choice. We in Texas should be able to participate in any activity we choose.

No government should have the right to (protect me from me, but only to protect me from you).

Won't settle here

Dear editor:
We have bought a retirement home in Bandera. However, if betting is legalized Nov. 3, we will settle elsewhere, as we do not care to retire in a gambling community.

Throwing up smoke screen

Dear editor:
As the pari-mutuel campaign gets hotter, the wild accusations of the opposition become more and more outlandish. These people, who oppose the question for a large array of reasons all their own, are trying to throw up a smoke screen with unfounded charges designed to frighten the naive among the population.

A question of animal cruelty has been bandied about which is completely untrue. The live rabbit chased by Greyhounds was outlawed years ago. The care of racing stock of all kinds is now excellent. These animals live a life of luxury and contentment. Logic would tell anyone that an investment of this magnitude with the realization of profit depending on good performance would receive the best care, medical and emotional, to produce that hoped-for profit. The track drug problem is far better regulated than its human counterpart.

A question of the passage of pari-mutuel betting producing a horde of compulsive gamblers would be all the family's money, driving them to the poor house, is equally ludicrous. If a person wishes to squander his assets on gambling, he will do so whether or not it is legal. We all know that gambling is readily available in Texas now, law or no law. It is a short trip to the tracks in Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana or Mexico, if that is your preference.

A question of morals is also raised. Some groups do not approve of various activities for their own reasons. However, these groups do not have the right to regulate the lifestyle of the entire population of Texas to suit their preferences.

In my view, the passage of pari-mutuel betting would give a huge boost to our sagging economy by creating thousands of jobs in a wide variety of fields as well as providing Texas with an additional tourist-drawing factor which will bring millions of dollars into the state, spread across almost the entire spectrum of business.

In short, we would be foolish to reject the opportunity of economic benefit presented here by paying heed to the hysterical cries of these splinter groups who are being aided and abetted by out of state interests eager to keep this lucrative industry to themselves!

Buying a share

Dear editor:
There seems to be considerable confusion surrounding the pari-mutuel issue.

Please be aware that placing a bet as a pari-mutuel horse race is like buying a share of stock: the better you do in the horse's performance in a particular race. As opposed to casino or lottery wagering, the odds are set by the public in the grandstand selecting the horses in each race that they think will win first, second or third.

The racing facility does not establish the odds in the races. Also, with pari-mutuel, the state, the county and the city can all have a share in each participant or spectator, regardless of the outcome of the races.

In Texas, with the passage of pari-mutuel, 82 percent of the money wagered is returned to the winning wagers immediately after each race in the form of payouts for first, second and third. The G says that write weekly columns get ideas at the strangest moments and from the strangest sources. Most of them that I know get in a habit of keeping little notes to remind them of ideas they get while visiting with a friend, or reading a magazine, or riding their bicycle.

Sometimes the sheer volume of these notes require that something be done to sort them out. Most of them are good. A figure $1,593 that I forgot I ever wrote, a name I've never heard before, some scratching that may have made sense once.

But a few contain things too good to just discard, so I'll just pass them along to you.

• Here's a little quote from Homingway that someone pointed out to me: "Tourists who shoot in Africa are called shootists to distinguish them from sportsmen."

• The words to the Bandera High School fight song include the words, "We're gonna win this game another time." Those words always remind me of what Aggie used to sing when I was in school, but times change.

• Written on a napkin: "Will computers change my son Jeffrey's world as much as television did mine or the automobile changed dad's?"

• An unidentified phone number 472-7595.

• Holidays for 1988 listed in the new Farmer's Almanac include March 25, Seward's Day; April 25, Fast Day; June 5, King Kamehameha I Day; Aug. 7, American Family Day; and of course, Nov. 12, Elizabeth Cady Stanton Day. Let's party!

• And this quote from ag commissioner Jim Hightower: "Reagan promised every one a seven-course dinner. Ours turned out to be a possum and a six pack."

• Another point brought up was the promise that Bandera's agricultural growth would flourish, because all the hay and grain raised locally would be bought for the ranches.

Alfalfa is the primary food used for these horses, and that crop is not even raised around here," commented one man.

Another woman present said she lived in Newel, W.V. when pari-mutuel was passed there.

"The crime rate soared very quickly," she commented.

Pastors Bosworth and Pullin said that their "strategy" thus far has been to teach people through telephone committees and through other channels in their church family. Apparently, they say, some people are reluctant to express their views openly, and they see the volatile issue as a cause of some local hostilities.

"I think that a lot of folks are intimidated and afraid to come out with what they think," said one man.

"I think it is morally wrong because it victimizes people," one woman commented about gambling.

"Several of the church people expressed a need for 'good stewardship' or the questioning of values."

"I think our purpose is to raise the heart of the people," said Pastor Bosworth. "The Book of Proverbs says that which is earned by the sweat of your brow will have God's blessing."

Billy Graham is quoted as saying prosperity should be by the sweat of your brow, and not by the flip of a coin," said Pastor Bosworth.

Many of those present seemed to agree that somehow they couldn't come to terms with the state making money from the misfortune of the many who are in lower income brackets, who in desperation "go to the track, trying to even out the odds, and make that bundle of money."

One man said the flyer being distributed by the proponents of pari-mutuel, entitled "Be Positive," was somewhat intimidating, because of its implication that anyone who opposed pari-mutuel, for whatever reason, was "negative."

What bothers me is when only a small percentage of registered voters go to the polls, they decide what is right for all of us.

If the majority go to the polls, then the outcome will truly express what the majority of the people want. But, when a minority decides, we never know for sure if it's the true feelings of the majority or those feelings of just a few that made the decision.

Please go to the polls on Nov. 3 and let your vote be counted.

FOR or AGAINST Pari-mutuel wagering

Pastor Garcia said several in his congregation were remaining silent for fear that speaking out may jeopardize their jobs.

"It just never seems to happen," one man said, "and people who can't afford the losses go deeper into debt, often people with families to support."

Said in the group said that they think many people who support pari-mutuel mean well, and that they think it will bolster Bandera's economy.

"It seems to work at cross purposes," commented one man. "Bandera's small town, friendly western image, the growth that this will bring down I seem consistent with Keep Bandera West."

Another point brought up was the promise that Bandera's agricultural growth would flourish, because all the hay and grain raised locally would be bought for the ranches.

bombings wounded too many to count.

In one incident, a woman and her husband were intimidated out of their home. They were protesting during a live in a Catholic area of the city.

In the midst of this prejudice and hatred, however, one hears reasonable and truly Christian voices from both Catholics and Protestants. Several groups, such as the ecumenical community house called "Cornerstone," are working vigorously for peaceful reconciliation.

While spending a few nights there, Holly was encouraged by the efforts of these very devoted Christians. "I was struck by the feeling of peace in that house," Holly reflected.

At Cornerstone, working together throughout the community was a Catholic Mother Superior, a Methodist minister, a Church of Ireland minister and lay people of other denominations. Holly's only American acquaintance was a psychiatrist from Chicago who had joined Cornerstone in order to do research on the effect of terrorism on families.

And it was the families, especially the children, about which Holly herself became most concerned. "At St. Columba's Church, I worked with children from infancy to 13 years. Sometimes, we would take them swimming or to the museum."

Even on such outings, reminders of danger recur. "We were taking 31 children and 11 adults to the museum. When we reached the City Centre a policeman boarded the bus and began looking around. I asked the woman sitting next to me what she was doing. 'Bombs,' the woman replied matter of factly, 'looking for bombs.'"

On occasion, Holly would escape the tensions of the city to tour the Irish countryside. Climbing the top of a mountain overlooking the site where St. Patrick first landed in a small, wooden boat in 432 AD, she could see across the ocean to Scotland on one side and back across the emerald green fields of Northern Ireland behind her. "This was such a powerful experience for me. I thought of the aspirations of St. Patrick and the love he had for the people. He brought Christianity to this area."

This love of Ireland and appreciation of its history was one of the reasons Holly chose to spend her summer in this unusual way. Ancestors of her father, Kerry Hevenor, immigrated to America from County Kerry in Ireland.

Even before visiting the country, she felt a strong bond with her little bit to help. And I was curious, I wanted to see for myself what was going on there," she reflected.

Is there a solution to the ongoing tensions there? "Economic development," Holly replied, "more jobs. When people have jobs, they have more self-esteem and less hatred. The unemployed and under-employed are the ones who are restless. Those who do graduate from college are leaving in droves to find work elsewhere."

She then paused, as for a moment her thoughts went back to the people she had known there. "The Irish are a proud people. Very resilient. But many of them can't seem to see beyond one's religious denomination — it's like racial prejudice in our country. More people just need to love each other."

Former Bandera first-grade teacher now well-versed Kerrville poet

By Janna Sandig
Staff Writer

Knowles Teel and the Kerrville Poet's Pack have been writing verse and meeting for 11 years, and now call themselves the Kerrville Chapter of the Poetry Society of Texas.

But long before the poetry group existed, Mrs. Teel was making an indelible impression on countless Bandera first graders.

Teel came to Bandera in 1929, taught here for 29 years before her retirement, and says she "loved every minute of it, from sitting on the floor on up and down."

One morning, early in her teaching career, Mrs. Teel had her first graders on the floor doing their morning stretching exercises and playing games, kicking their heels in the air. She also was on the floor, kicking her heels with the kids, when she looked up and saw superintendent of schools Marvin Schnelle staring in the window.

"I'm disgraced," was all Mrs. Teel could think of, but she soon got over the embarrassing moment.

Another feature of the Teel classroom besides floor activities was the morning health march. "I encouraged good grooming habits and hygiene in the children," she says. Each morning, fingernails, faces, etc. inspected, and they were lavished with praise and sometimes little rewards for good grooming.

"Some children had trouble getting it all done before they came to school," Mrs. Teel recalls. She got toothbrushes for all her students one year, and they kept them there, labeled, for use at school.

Mrs. Teel taught several generations of Bandera first graders. "I taught some folks and their kids, too," "I taught all the Baushes and all their kids. I taught Mrs. Wootton's kids."

After her retirement in 1959, Mrs. Teel was able to concentrate on her poetry and other interests. In 1970, she moved to Kerrville and she and Neil Leonard started a poetry class.

For 11 years, the Poet's Pack was unaffiliated, but this month the group's 11 charter members applied for and were accepted as members of the Poetry Society of Texas. Several of the poets are published, including Mrs. Teel.

To date, Teel has published seven volumes, including "Come In," "A Bit of Mirth," "Broth of Life," "Come Sit a Spell," "Whispering Winds," and her first effort, "Lift the Latch."

One volume, "Falling Leaves," is unavailable currently, because she is redesigning it and having it reprinted.

The volumes are available locally at the Frontier Times Museum.

Though much of her poetry is humorous, Mrs. Teel's "A Bit of Mirth" contains humorous vignettes and some character studies, including the "Zack Clark" series of poems.

Zack is loosely based on a Bandera man from years past who has long since died, but whose name is still not revealed by the poet. The man apparently spent hours sitting and spinning tales on Bandera's Main Street. Teel says one woman guessed his identity.

Another poem about a woman cooking at an old wood stove is based on her husband's mother. "I like to do character studies on people, and take off on people," she explains.

Mrs. Teel also based some of the stories on her own experiences, including one titled "Modern Cars," which she reads aloud. It is the tale of a driver who cannot figure out how to operate all the features of her brand new car.

"I went to San Antonio to get a new car, and Grace Wootton went with me," Mrs. Teel explains. She goes on to recount how she arrived home late that evening, and then couldn't get the car shut off once she got into the garage. She laughs, and says that she enjoys laughing at herself, too.

In addition to the poetry group, the octogenarian Teel belongs to Eastern Star, Kerrville's Eta Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a retired teacher's group and is a Sunday School department head at Trinity Baptist Church.

"Life goes on," she says, and she stresses that senior centers such as the Prioret Claim, which she has attended, and Bandera's Silver Sage Corral are important places for many people, who might not be as active if they weren't around other people on a daily basis.

"I tell people just get off your bum and get going," she says. "Stay active."

Monday by a runaway juvenile. Pickett said. The vehicle is valued at $1,500.

John Elvin Hicks, 34, of San Antonio and William L. Pollard, 22, of Lakehills were arrested in separate incidents for driving while intoxicated Sunday. Both men were released after posting bonds. Pollard was also charged with attempting to escape Bandera city police officers.

Bandera County paid $300 to have the county's name etched on the so-called Great Walk leading to the state capitol building in Austin, but the city of Bandera rejected an invitation to participate.

The county's participation was sponsored by the Texas Association of Counties, of which Bandera County is a paying member, in an effort to have all 254 of Texas counties included in a special section of the walk, says the Capitol Committee, which is spearheading the drive.

The walk is the first phase of a restoration of the capitol building, which will be 100 years old in May.

Plans call for using 28-inch concrete diamond-shaped pavers upon which will be etched the name of participants who pay the necessary fee. Besides counties and cities, names of individuals, families, associations, clubs and businesses may be inscribed on the pavers.

The "Walk in History" is scheduled to be completed prior to the May 16 centennial celebration.

Brownie Scouts study career opportunities

Second- and third-graders at Alkek Elementary School who are members of Brownie Scout Troop 930 visited the places of work of an insurance company computer analyst and an airline pilot last week as part of a project in which they are learning about various careers to earn a Brownie Paw Patch, leader Linda Aamodt says.

USAA computer analyst Mark Hulst and Capt. John Lundblad, explained their careers to the Brownies in a pair of programs last week.

Hulst attended the Scouts meeting last week and explained how computers use languages to answer problems for people, the scout leader said. Hulst used a story to illustrate how choosing a career with activities you like can make work fun, Aamodt said.

The scouts traveled to the San Antonio airport Sunday where Lundblad gave them a tour of Eastern Airlines. They started at the ticket counter where they were issued boarding passes, then they were weighed in. The scouts totaled 350 pounds. Then they went to the baggage claim area," Aamodt said.

They toured the operations section and then boarded the aircraft and each Scout sat in the cockpit and learned how computers are used in flying aircraft.

Before leaving the aircraft the girls were served drinks in the passenger section by a flight attendant and received their Eastern Airlines wings.

The scouts will have a law enforcement officer, a judge, a lawyer, a waitress, weatherman, secretary and a news anchorman visit them in the near future. This week Dr. Jimmie Hughes, Bandera County librarian, and Laia MacMillan, a reporter from the Bandera Bulletin, will explain their careers.

Other guest speakers will be Dr. Steve Sells, veterinarian; Edith Gaillier, nurse, and the morning disc jockeys from radio station KHLH.

Once the girls have reviewed career opportunities they will show what they have learned and what they want to be as an adult through a story, poem, puppet show, or play, Aamodt said.

"I have received a lot of help from assistant leaders, Alice Lundblad, Gary Aamodt Sr. and Bessie Haver on working toward this patch," the leader said.

Spirits of Christmas to meet Oct. 27

The Spirits of Christmas Presents organization will have a planning and strategy meeting Oct. 27 at the community room at First State Bank at 7 p.m.

"We need lots of volunteers," founder Karen Jackson said this week.

Elf Karen and Elf Kathy Gardner have headed the annual project to see that every child in Bandera County has a Christmas present for several years. "We need help with the organizing, planning, buying, wrapping, and delivering of the gifts," she said.

Jim Evans of Bandera is in charge of the Santa's Kay Ochso of Bandera is in charge of publicity. Jane Dry is chairman of the food committee, and Elsie Word of Lakehills heads up the committee that places change jars in businesses all over the county.

"Anyone interested in participating in this very rewarding project should come to the meeting next week," Jackson said.

Mac fans to meet

Macintosh Enthusiasts of San Antonio will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, Nov. 5 at 7 p.m. at Trinity Baptist Church's Bible Center at 415 E. Magnolia in San Antonio.

Other guest speakers will be Dr. Steve Sells, veterinarian; Edith Gaillier, nurse, and the morning disc jockeys from radio station KHLH.

You might be surprised to know how many people behind bars started out in front of them.

Gambling is an addiction, as serious as cocaine or alcoholism. And 10% of those who try gambling will become addicted.

What does that mean for Texas? Well, compulsive gamblers are responsible for 17% of wife abuse and 13% of child abuse. They commit a full 40% of white-collar crime. A shocking 86% admit to committing felony crimes while pursuing their addiction.

Add it up yourself. Gambling is a bad bet for Texas.

STOP... AND LOOK

A child is born with imagination, with the ability to see the magic of the world around him. Yet, so much creativity—so much seeing—often fades as we grow older and the complexities of the world overwhelm us. When a child confronts nature, he isn't in a hurry. He takes time to study each blade of grass, to appreciate the colors of a butterfly, to marvel at the power of the sun or the soft fur of a kitten.

We shouldn't lose this sensitivity as we grow up. God created the world, but man has often abused it. So stop—once in a while—and look, feel and listen. This is communion restoration. Let the spirit you find in your church or synagogue have you been there lately?

MLBA Halloween Party slated Oct. 31

The Medina Lake Betterment Association will host its annual Children's Halloween Party at Lakehills Civic Center Oct. 31. The fun will begin at the bewitching hour of 6:30 p.m. "We hope all the little goblins, space creatures, witches, and ghosts will come and participate in the games we have planned," spokeswoman Louise Terry said. Dunking for apples will be included in the games, she said.

The highlight of the evening will be the costume contest judging, she said. Punch and cookies will be served.

At the MLBA regular meeting last week directors voted to re-establish monthly dances with live bands beginning on Nov. 14, Terry said. "The future of the dances will depend on attendance of our friends, neighbors, and members," she said.

"We're hoping by kicking the first dance off the night of the Hallowe'en Supper at St. Victor's that people coming out for the dinner will plan to come to the Civic Center afterwards and enjoy the dancing and music," MLBA president Peggy Ashmore said.

The board also voted to establish handicapped parking facilities at the Lakehills Civic Center for future events.

First State Bank to open in Lakehills on Nov. 9

The First State Bank, Lakehills will officially open its doors in the Lakehills Ice House Center on Farm to Market Road 1283 just east of the intersection of Park Road 37 in Lakehills on Nov. 9, bank president Sully Woodland said Tuesday.

The banking facility will be a full-service bank, and services offered will be the same as at the larger facility located in Bandera, Woodland said. The branch will be operated under the direction of branch manager Sam Braswell.

The only services we won't have available when we open will be drive-through and safe deposit boxes," he said in September. The bank will close on Nov. 11 in observance of the federal Armistice Day observance.

During the first two weeks of operation, visitors to the facility will have an opportunity to register for gifts and prizes to be given away in a special drawing on Nov. 20, Woodland said.

Property Owners Park for a picnic lunch and pontoon boat ride. We had 36 members and guests enjoying the outing," Settlemeyer said.

The group meets at the American Legion Hall in Lakehills at 1:30 p.m.

"The Crisis Center in Hondo also serves residents of Bandera County," spokeswoman Jane Settlemeyer said.

Margaret Moore needs items for the white elephant table which is open for business during AARP meetings. Proceeds from the table are helping to make it possible to give gifts to community efforts which include the Helping Hand and EMS in Bandera County, Settlemeyer said.

Settlemeyer will instruct in other defensive driving course for seniors over 50 years of age Nov. 9 and Nov. 10. The course will be held at the Lakehills United Methodist Church from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. To register for the course contact Settlemeyer at 751-2257.

Jessica Leland to compete in Dallas for Little Miss Texas

Jessica Leland, Little Miss Lakehills and former Little Miss Bandera County, will be competing in Dallas for the Little Miss Texas title in June after winning alternate in a preliminary pageant over the weekend.

Jessica, accompanied by her mother, went to San Marcos for a day of competing with other girls from the Southwest Texas area. She won trophies for first place alternate, first place in talent, and first place in most photogenic.

The six-year-old is a first grade student at Alkek Elementary School in Bandera.

She was selected Little Miss Bandera County for 1986-87 and in July she was crowned Little Miss Lakehills for 1987-88.

The brown-eyed, petite brunette is an honor student and looks forward to going to school. Her favorite food is sausage and diet coke, she says with a giggle.

"Playing hide-and-go-seek with Jeremy (her brother) and my best friends is my favorite game," she said after giving the question a lot of consideration. When asked who her best friend was, she explained she had several.

"Jessica was competing with girls who have had professional modeling instruction in San Marcos. She's never had any courses in modeling, so they showed her how to walk properly before the competition started," her mother, Robin Leland said.

"We will get her into some kind of modeling course before she goes to Dallas in June for the state competition."

It will be real hard competition at state. Some of the girls from the large metropolitan areas have been in modeling schools and have three or four years experience in modeling," Robin said. "Jessica caught on fast when they showed her the proper way to walk before Saturday's pageant, but she forgot a couple times and lost points because of "the young mother said."

In the San Marcos competition, Jessica modeled sportswear and did a ballet performance called Ballroom Ballet. She started taking ballet lessons in Bandera last year.

Jessica, a typical first-grader, said she likes the fun on the new playground equipment at school best. She and her brother Jeremy, who is Little Mister Bandera County this year, spend a lot of time playing together around their father's dental clinic. Their father is Dr. John Leland. He has a practice in Lakehills on Farm to Market Road 1283 and also in San Antonio.

Jessica is also a first-year Brownie Scout. She is a member of the newly formed Lakehills troop and her mother is an assistant leader.

- More Lakehills - Anglers to sign in at 4:30 a.m. Sunday

Sport fishermen from all over Texas and from as far away as Oklahoma and Louisiana are expected to sign in at Red Cove in Medina starting at 4:30 a.m. Sunday morning for the third annual Rebel Open Bass Tournament.

The tournament, the largest annual event held in Medina Lake, is open to everyone who wants to participate and has a fishing license, chairman Frank Weatherly said.

For the first time, entrants will be broken down into three categories. The men's division has a $30 entrance fee, the women's division a $20 fee, and a junior division for youngsters 14 years old and under also has a $20 entrance fee.

There will be trophies and cash prizes or gift certificates for the top winners in all three divisions. Overall there will be over 40 prizes for fishermen who place. Weatherly said.

The top prize in the men's division will be $500 cash with the second and third place winners receiving $200 cash and $250 cash respectively.

In 1986 there were 148 fishermen entered in the competition with 35 of them taking home prizes. Prizes this year will include a 14 ft. Coleman Crawford Boat, depth finders, rods and

DAR enjoys Indian culture

The Bandera Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution heard Bob Ramsey, American Indian historian, artifact collector, and expert arrowhead maker, at its regular meeting Thursday, Oct. 15.

Mrs. J. O. Evans Sr. was presented with an arrowhead necklace made by Mr. Ramsey. Special guests for the lecture were Emmie Davenport, Guy E. Powell, Jack Davenport, Magdalen Kalka, Herbert Whitworth, and Caen Dowell.

Bass fishermen have been reporting catches in recent weeks of up to ten pounders. Medina Lake was stocked with several dozen largemouth bass weighing up to six pounds each in November 1986 for breeding purposes.

At the same time over 21,000 channel catfish fingerlings were dumped in the lake.

All fish caught in the tournament will be released back into Medina Lake after they have been weighed and measured, Weatherly said.

The Catch and Release Program is part of a state-wide effort to increase the fish population in Texas lakes. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department encourages fishermen to weigh, measure, and take a picture of their catches, then return the fish to the water so they can continue to breed and increase the fish population.

Halloween Carnival
Invited to attend and participate in costume contests for all ages, including a special adult category. There will be games with prizes for the winners and lots of treats for everyone.

B.J. Malone and Patches place 5 times in Comal Rodeo

Bandera High School sophomore B.J. Malone and his 14-year-old horse, Patches, placed five times in the Comal County Junior & High Rodeo in San Marcos last weekend.

They brought home three trophies and two belt buckles for their day of competition. Malone, who has been riding and roping since she was five years old and has roped for three years, says she's proud of the Senior Girl's "All Around" Champion Buckle she received at the show.

"I also won the All Around Champion at the Bandera County Youth Rodeo this year," she said.

In the San Marcos competition, she placed second in clover leaf barrels, second in straightaway barrels, and third in poles.

The other buckle she won was for a first place in goat tying.

Other youths participating in San Marcos from Bandera County were Mike Pratt, Tom Clay, Noel Lopez, and Tiffany Pratt. Clay placed in ribbon roping and tie-down, and Mike Pratt placed in tie-down roping, ball riding, and steer dodging.

Malone will compete in the youth rodeo in Kerr County as well as other area rodeo events.

Paul and Betty Lagauer celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary this week with a family dinner at the Bandera Inn. Present were the Lagauers, Pat and Dick Taylor, Kathleen Taylor and Linda Rottler.

The Lagauers were married Oct. 12, 1942, in Winchester, Va. and moved to Lake Medina Shores last year from El Paso, Ohio. Members of the Lake Shore Volunteer Fire Department enjoyed a fish fry for those helpers of the barbecue and flea market. Walter Barrell from San Antonio was up with a birthday cake and ice cream to celebrate Lance Andreas' ninth birthday. Dell Luckey had relatives from Fort Worth visiting over the weekend. Audrey Borge had as her visitor for the weekend her grand daughter Patricia Stein, who is a student at SRTS in San Marcos. Patricia's fiancé, Richard Latin, a student at Trinity University in San Antonio, and Jim Reddish of Sunton

Longhorn cattle drive to arrive Saturday

History will be recreated Saturday in Bandera when the first cattle drive through the city in 101 years, according to organizers, will take place to publicize a benefit street dance.

The event is to raise funds for the Medina County Family Life Center and the Bandera County Helping Hand, says originator Cal Chapman of the Cabaret dance hall.

Some 100 steers will be driven down Highway 173 and into Bandera at about 3 p.m. Saturday at the end of a two-day drive from 18 miles north of Bandera, says Bill Winter, trail boss for the event, which is already being called "the first annual longhorn classic."

Starting point for the drive is the Lopez Club Arena, 18 miles north of Bandera.

A party at the Lopez Club Thursday will initiate the event with Ballan Grant and her Bandera Cowboy Band playing from 8 a.m. to midnight.

After a cowboy breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday, cows and cowboys hit the trail at about 10 a.m.

Thirty-five drivers will work the cows down Highway 173 to Camp Verde General Store, where at 1 p.m. a mock robbery and chase is planned. General public and camera crews are encouraged to catch this act.

At 4 p.m., cattle and drivers will arrive at KHL's transmitter site, eight miles north of Bandera on Highway 173.

Roping and branding demonstrations start at 5 p.m., and entertainment starts at 7 p.m. under the stars.

Saturday morning's activity starts with another cowboy breakfast at 8 a.m., and the drive moves out at 10 a.m., and after five hours expects to roll into Bandera.

The cattle will be penned behind Bandera's Cabaret at 11 p.m. and the Longhorn Classic Street Party commences at that time.

On Oak Street beside the Cabaret is the site for street dancing, trick roping, blacksmithing and horse-shoeing, and handicraft demonstrations.

Entertainment for this fund-raiser will be provided by John and Sara Chapman, who expect Cheryl Morgan, Randy Reinhardt, Alan Chapman and several San Antonio entertainers to be on hand.

At 9 p.m. the Cabaret's indoor dance kicks off with Borderline. Admissions from these events also go to the charities, says Chapman.

The Medina County Family Life Center takes in battered women and abused children from eight counties in South Texas, including Bandera and Medina counties.

Cecy Halper, case worker for the center, says the organization currently houses 25 people who are victims of domestic violence.

In addition, the staff offers accompaniment to the hospital and court system, and counseling, in both crisis and long-term situations.

Seven employees and 15 volunteers provide service for Bandera, Medina, Real, Dimmit, La Salle, Frio and Uvalde Counties.

Bandera County's Helping Hand is the crisis intervention center for Bandera County offering help to families and individuals in distress. Mildred Treaster, the Helping Hand center director, coordinates the distribution of food, clothes and other aid to those in need.

Trail riders are welcomed to accompany the drive over its route. Interested riders can contact Bandera's Cabaret for more information.

'Opal's Husband' at Comfort Theatre scheduled for three weekend run

"Opal's Husband," one of five hilarious "Opal" plays penned by comedy writer John Patrick, opened at the Comfort Dinner Theatre Friday night Oct. 16 for a three-weekend run. Subsequent playdates are Friday, Sunday, Oct. 23-24-25, and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30-31.

Gael Montana returns to the CDT stage to play the leading role. Last fall, Montana captured the hearts of CDT patrons with her portrayal of junk dealer philosopher "Opal Kronkie" in "Opal's Husband."

Now, she is back doing more good deeds for her friends and strangers alike.

Harold Duke, who last performed as bumbling "Barney Cashman" in "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," faces the greatest challenge of his acting career, playing "Opal's" husband, a free-spirited, 96-year-old, former football hero and tugboat captain.

Mary Ann Deck, well-known to Hill Country theatergoers, has a delightful role as "Rosie."

"Opal's" colorful but somewhat morbid best friend, Patricia Crawford and Bob Magers are cast as villainous "Vilma and Gus Lescon." Crawford is making her second appearance on the Comfort stage, she performed very well in a key role in "Arsenic and Old Lace" last November.

Sculpture on exhibit
Montana sculptor and painter John Buck, who will exhibit his work at the San Antonio Art Institute Oct. 22-Nov. 20, will conduct a free exhibit opening reception and slide lecture on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Buck's major motif is the free-standing, over-life-size human figure—headless, genderless, without hands or feet.

He began to play the fiddle at age 11, his father would introduce him as "a left-handed boy playing a right-handed man's fiddle" and Jody still plays that way. The stringing is different but it seems natural to him now.

The other Texas Cowboys are Rick Johnson, a long-time friend of Jody's, who plays steel guitar and writes songs for him. Tommy Harvell, plays bass guitar and has played with the Nixes—father and son—for more than 40 years. Amy Hale, a talented youngster from Midland, and Neal Coates alternate as drummer with the Texas Cowboys.

Jody Nix is still "carrying the show."

Around the Town By Sharon Revere

The Longhorn cattle drive to Bandera kicks off tonight at the Lopez Club on Highway 173 south of Kerrville with the Drovers Dance.

Ballan Grant, Dusty Briches and Roger Heinen will provide the dancing music.

The benefit dance for Clacey Billings on Friday night at the Cabaret raised over $500 to help defray the expenses of her heart surgery. Musicians donated their time and talent to insure a successful evening. One of those musicians who volunteered to perform was Dave Spangler, a newcomer to the area. He's a guitar player, both lead and bass, and a craftsman, doing guitar repair and custom work. He also gives lessons on the guitar.

Dave and his family moved from the Houston area and have settled in Kerrville. Tiana Spangler is teaching school in Bandera.

Hunters weekend is around the corner and there will be some great music in store for the visiting shooters. Jody Nix and his Texas Cowboys will be at the Cabaret, and they are fast becoming one of the more popular bands to appear in Bandera.

Jody began his career at eight years of age playing drums for his father's band, Hoyle Nix and the West Texas Cowboys. At the age of 16 he began singing with the Cowboys, and since 1977, when his uncle Ben formed his own band, has been the lead singer.

He began to play the fiddle at age 11, his father would introduce him as "a left-handed boy playing a right-handed man's fiddle" and Jody still plays that way. The stringing is different but it seems natural to him now.

The other Texas Cowboys are Rick Johnson, a long-time friend of Jody's, who plays steel guitar and writes songs for him. Tommy Harvell, plays bass guitar and has played with the Nixes—father and son—for more than 40 years. Amy Hale, a talented youngster from Midland, and Neal Coates alternate as drummer with the Texas Cowboys.

Polish couples to be honored

Married couples of Polish descent celebrating their 25th, 40th, 50th, and 55th anniversaries during 1987 will be honored on Sunday, Dec. 13 at a Polish Mass honoring Our Lady of Czestochowa in St. Hedwig.

The noon Polish Liturgy opens the third annual Anniversary celebration in Annunciation Church in St. Hedwig. The celebration which follows features a barbecue dinner, Polish foods, and entertainment at the American Legion Hall in St. Hedwig.

Obituary

Lola V. Linney

Lola V. Linney, 65, of Corpus Christi died Monday, Oct. 19, in Wilford Hall USAF Medical Center in San Antonio.

She was born in Bandera County April 18, 1922 and lived in Bandera all her life, moving to Corpus Christi only a few weeks ago.

She was a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

Survivors include her two daughters, Frances Harris of Corpus Christi, and Ruby Tingle of Garland, a sister, Hyesee Grobe of Medina, a brother, John Fee of Medina, and two grandchildren, Callie Justine Lutz and Justin Wayne Harris.

Services were Wednesday, Oct. 21 at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church with Monsignor Ralph Smith officiating. Burial was in Oak Rest Cemetery in Medina.

Family life organization gets Homespun name

The early childhood intervention program serving Bandera and all of the surrounding areas has a new name — Homespun.

This change is prompted by a recognition of the natural relationship between parents and children, acknowledgement of familial values and needs, and current research findings in the field. The group says in a news release that listed no names.

Homespun, formerly Developmental Program for Infants and Toddlers, will continue to provide professional early childhood services for families of children, birth to age three, who have developmental delays associated with birth defects, accidents, illness, prematurity, or other factors, the release said.

Existing services have been expanded to create an extensive menu of learning and support strategies and delivery systems to families, including home and center-based educational training, physical, occupational, and communication therapy, language and motor labs, service to non-ents, siblings, and extended family members; group and individual therapy; and math and streaming activities.

The Homespun program provides services in a 15-county area encompassing 10,000 square miles. Centers are located in Fredericksburg (Blanco, Gillespie, Llano, Mason, and Menard counties), Kerrville (Bandera, Kendall, Kerr, Kimble, and Real counties), New Braunfels (Comal county), San Marcos (Hays county), and Seguin (Guadalupe county).

Homespun is funded by Early Childhood Intervention (ECI), Austin State School Community Outreach Services, United Way, County and City Commissions, Community Fund, and other local organizations in the identified service areas.

The Homespun center in Kerrville is located at 305 Powell Avenue. A team of qualified professionals is available for screening, assessing, and working with children and families both in the home and center, the release said.

Pumpkin carving planned at SA farmers' markets

The Great Pumpkin Carve Out will be held at four San Antonio area farmers' markets beginning on Wednesday, Oct. 28, through Saturday, Oct. 31, announced Marketing Specialist Renee Watson of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The first pumpkin carving event will be held at the West Lakes Mercado Mall Farmers Market, located at Marbach and IH Loop 410 at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 28. On Friday, Oct. 30, the Olmos Basin Park Farmers Market Carve Out will be held at 4 p.m.

Pumpkin carving events, beginning at 8 a.m., also will be held at the Converse City Park in downtown Converse and at the Texas Bank market, located at 401 South W.W. White Road at Houston Street, on Friday and Saturday, respectively.

These events are not only a fun way to celebrate Halloween,

Wedgworth-Copeland wedding Oct. 3

Wanda Mada Wedgworth and James Robert Copeland Jr. were married in a traditional ceremony Oct. 3 in the First Baptist Church in Bandera with Frank J. Pullin officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Calvin and Mada Wedgworth of Bandera. Parents of the groom are Barbara Copeland and James Robert Copeland Sr.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She chose a traditional white gown of handbeaded crystal organza with a profusion of red bows on the Elizabethan sleeves and on the monarch train.

Her bouquet was a silk arrangement of mauve orchids, with white lace and mauve and burgundy streamers.

Maid of honor, Dianne Lanpher of San Antonio, and bridesmaids, Emelda Contreras and Janey Hackel, also of San Antonio, wore tea-length burgundy gowns of satin with overlays of lace.

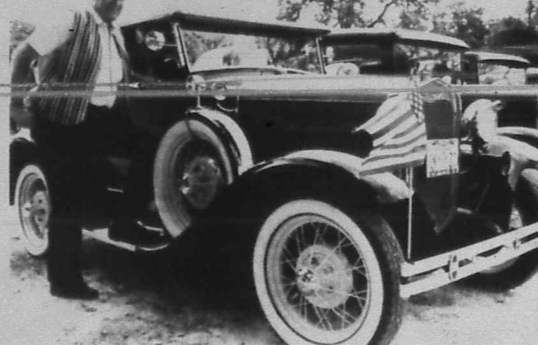

They carried bouquets of white mums, spider mums, and baby breath accented with mauve and burgundy ribbons.

Best man was Maurine Saege of San Antonio, and ushers were Tom and Ray Wedgworth of Bandera and Mark Copeland and Rob Delvry of San Antonio.

Following the ceremony, the 425 people in attendance were served a roast beef dinner and a buffet of hors d'oeuvres.

The bride was a graduate of Bandera High School and the groom graduated from Antonian High School in San Antonio. He is a job analyst with Capitol Cement Company in San Antonio.

The couple will make their home in San Antonio.

Jim Pegues shows off his $25,000 1930 Model A Ford Deluxe Phaeton during a day-long outing at the Dixie Dude Ranch. Pegues and 23 other members of the Alamo A's Club of San Antonio toured the local dude ranch for their monthly outing.

Out of 6 million model A's produced between 1928-1931, only 6,000 like Pegues' Phaeton were made and just 200 survive today. Folks interested in the club may contact Pegues at 10315 Sunflower Lane, San Antonio 78213.

Basic skills tests scheduled in county schools this week

Bandera County high school students will be tested on their knowledge of basic skills when they take the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) exit-level test Oct. 27 and 28.

Every school district in Texas with an enrollment of high school students will administer the exam, which is required by state law. Students must pass the exit-level test to be eligible to receive a diploma.

The TEAMS test consists of two sections — one covering mathematics and another on English language arts (reading and writing). The math test will be given Oct. 27 and the English language arts exam will be administered Oct. 28.

Of the more than 200,000 students expected to take the exit-level test in October, an estimated 15,000 are seniors who will retake the section or sections they failed as juniors last year.

Approximately 300 students who did not graduate last year because they failed the TEAMS registration for those out of school students closed earlier this month.

Students taking the exit-level test this year must meet new higher standards in order to pass the exam. In July, the State Board of Education increased from 39 to 50 the number of items students must answer correctly in order to pass each section of the exam. There are 72 items in each part of the test.

Seniors taking the test again this year will be required to meet the standards that were in place when they took the exam as juniors.

Students have four opportunities to pass the exit-level test, beginning in their junior year. The spring administration of the exam is scheduled for May 3 and 4.

As required by law, school districts will provide remedial help to those students who fail one or both parts of the exam.

Coming Nov. 5

By special arrangement, the Bandera Bulletin will be printed a day earlier, beginning on Nov. 5.

That's early enough to ensure that it will be at the post office in time to be on the rural routes Thursday morning in Bandera. Earlier too in Pipe Creek-Lakehills, Medina, Vanderpool and Tarpley.

Early enough to be distributed to box holders with the rest of their Thursday morning mail.

Early enough to study the ads and take advantage of the specials, many of which begin on Thursday morning.

Early enough to check the entertainment pages to plan your weekend.

Early enough to map a route to all the garage sales.

In Bandera County, nearly everybody reads the Bulletin.

Sage in bloom

By Vi Strand

Civic-minded and disciplined, Ray Hietalahti and Mary, his happy and content wife, are ready and willing to help at the Silver Sage Corral when needed.

Born in Michigan of Finnish descent, Ray grew up in a "three generation" home. His mother supported her two children, parents and brothers after his father was killed in a mining explosion.

"I had a normal childhood," Ray jokes. "I dashed out from between two parked cars into the path of a Buick and was dragged half a block. I was a typical boy, resenting being in the shadow of an older, A-student sister. Unfortunately I had the same teachers and I wasn't an A-student."

After graduating, he attended the Detroit Institute of Technology, studying engineering. His good intentions ran out after two years when he met Mary, a snappy little waitress at the corner soda fountain.

Cutting classes once too often, school was out and work was in. His $48.50-a-week salary at Excelco Corporation was used to help support the family. He recalls handing his pay envelope over to his mother, and she doled out very little pocket change and street car fare (six cents, one way).

Dating Mary was geared accordingly. "We'd walk a couple miles to a hamburger joint where we'd each have a ten-cent hamburger and share a five-cent Pepsi," Ray laughed.

World War II placed Ray in the U.S. Army's chemical warfare service at Fort Bragg, N.C., training in the infantry with high explosives. Shipped to Africa with the 6th Infantry Division, he was among those in the invasion of Sicily.

From Italy he was sent into southern France with a glider assault troop to stop the German forces. Detailed in the mountains during the winter of 1944, he was incapacitated when his feet were frozen. He was hospitalized for several months and ultimately discharged in June 1944.

He returned to the Excelco for a brief time before joining the Detroit Police Force in 1945. His 25-year tenure covered all departments and he gained recognition in many areas, working up to criminal court clerk.

He was a body guard for many movie stars and guarded Kennedy while he was campaigning in Detroit.

Mary was born in Saltville, Va. Her mother died when Mary was two and she has very few childhood memories. Her treasured picture is of the one-room, log school house with heavy, wooden, storm shutters she attended.

She went to school with the now famous June Carter Cash and her father and brother played the fiddle with the Carter family.

When Mary was sent to Detroit to live with her older sister, she worked at a soda fountain while going to school. Later, she worked as cashier at Kroger's until enlisting in the Women's Army Corps in 1942.

When Ray proposed in 1945, she turned him down. On second thought, she sent a telegram accepting, and they were married.

But, I retired five years before Ray did. I wanted to become a nurse. I was briefly employed as elevator operator, she met Edgar Guest, the poet, and became good friends.

She was employed by Wrigley Super Market for 25 years, where she was supervisor and overseer. "We had the distinction of being the first store to open to self-service," she said. "I loved my job. I worked out back checking weights, handled the traffic in front with customer service and ordering."

Senior Citizens

On occasion gifts and local support for the senior citizens program comes in an unusual form. Such is the case with a recent donation from Donnie and Marcia Walker who provided the center's participants with "baskets" of garden fresh vegetables.

While the center's noon-time nutrition program provides a hot, fully-balanced meal, nothing beats an accompanying side-dish of home grown tomatoes and peppers.

The primitive but intriguing craft of card weaving will be featured in a hands-on workshop conducted by Faye Droid of the Hill Country Arts Foundation.

Droid is the resident weaving instructor for HCAF in Ingram and a long-time friend of the Silver Sage Corral's resident weaving instructor, Harry Webb.

The workshop will be at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29, for the presentation.

Card weaving produces vividly-colored and intricate designs on bands of cloth that can be used in a variety of ways. It is ancient in its origin, and was used widely by as diverse cultures as Tibetan tribesmen, Laplanders, the Hispanic civilizations, and our own native American Indians of the Southwest.

The workshop is open to the public.

• Melbie Weed, Minnie Hayes, and Sherry Searcy will serve as host for our Bunch Party at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 28. Bingo and bingo alternate time slots on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month.

Bingo is a "White Elephant" party with everyone bringing one or two wrapped gifts to use as prizes, and sometimes the prize is more fun than the game. Bunch prizes are provided by the host or hostess and everyone else is encouraged to bring along a goodie for the refreshment table.

• The training workshop for those volunteers interested in working with the mentally retarded in the center's sanctioned activity day are reminded to be at the center on Saturday, Nov. 7 at 10 a.m. for a session, provided by representatives of Austin State School Outreach.

• It will last about two-and-a-half hours.

Mary Carpenter and Brenda Brown, who have served as the backbone during this organizational period would like to invite other interested citizens to meet with them.

• Bungy and Ballan Grant of Bandera brought a truckload of clothing for the corral's rummage sale Nov. 6 and 7.

Items such as furniture, appliances, bro-a-brac, clothing, accessories, or anything that you would care to donate are needed. The proceeds from the sale will go to the EXPANSION Fund.

We appreciate visitors and we appreciate donations and you can do one without doing the other. If you would like to bring down items for the sale and tour the center at the same time you are more than welcome. If, however, you would prefer to have your donation picked up, just call the center with directions to your home and we will be there pronto.

• It's already time to start planning for the holidays so if you have a special idea or would like to be involved in some of our special outreach programs during the Thanksgiving or Christmas seasons, call the center.

We will need additional volunteers, home baked goods, food servers, and others.

• Southwest Airlines will again offer its "Home for the Holidays" program that provides free air travel for a selected senior citizen. Entrants must be over age 65, have a fixed income, and agree to travel during the allotted time. Also, tickets cannot be applied to designated areas.

This program is designed for the individual who otherwise would not be able to afford to visit family or friends during the holidays, so requirements will be necessary strict. The corral has one ticket available, and the closing date for applications is Oct. 27.

• Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Edwards of Pipe Creek and their son, Jay Edwards, and grandson, Jess Edwards, took Edith Edwards to a Hands Reunion at Comanche Sunday, Oct. 18.

Crist and granddaughters, Reba Williams and children from San Antonio, who visited her Saturday morning.

• Residents wished Ada Sehon a happy birthday, Thursday, Oct. 15. She had a birthday cake, corsage and other flowers.

• The Rev. Ted Bosworth from the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek, held services Friday evening, Oct. 16.

• Susan Neuschwander took Mary Koehler to services at the Grace Lutheran Church Sunday, Oct. 18.

• Guests during the week included Joe and Letta Preston and Adele Aiken who visited their Aunt Winnie Chadlock several times. Cecelia Kalka from Mathis, who visited her sister, Christine Kalka, all week. Ned Peterson and the Rev. Sheldon Herman son from the Grace Lutheran Church, who visited Mary Koehler and Ruby Hillman. Bus routes change, numbers become letters

Bandera Independent School buses have changed the route numbers to route letters, effective Oct. 14. Students and parents were reportedly confused with the bus route numbers, so transportation director, Bob Parsons, changed bus numbers to letters of the alphabet.

Route numbers will continue to be displayed on the buses until the younger children remember their letter, school officials said. The route changes:

- No. 1 will now be Route A
- No. 2 will now be Route B
- No. 3 will now be Route C
- No. 4 will now be Route D
- No. 5 will now be Route E
- No. 6 will now be Route F
- No. 7 will now be Route G
- No. 8 will now be Route H
- No. 9 will now be Route I
- No. 10 will now be Route J
- No. 11 will now be Route K
- No. 12 will now be Route L
- There is no Route 13
- No. 14 will now be Route N
- No. 15 will now be Route O
- No. 16 will now be Route P

Shannon Cowser chosen HOBY award winner

Sophomore Shannon Cowser was chosen as the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation representative from Bandera High School, to attend a seminar in April. She will participate in a comprehensive program relating to leadership and decision-making in all-expense-paid, week-long national HOBY seminar in St. Louis, Missouri in August, 1988.

Each sophomore that applied had to write three paragraphs on how they demonstrated leadership ability, how they expressed sensitivity and concern for others and how they have shown desire to learn and share knowledge and experiences with others. Any sophomore wishing to go to the seminar could apply.

Senior Cindy Fritsche, 1986 HOBY Ambassador from BHS, and 1987 HOBY Junior Counselor, said, "I feel it was one of the cornerstones of my future as well as one of the most meaningful and educational experiences of my life. I especially enjoyed the dynamic speakers."

Student Council bake sale raises $117 for Homecoming

Cookies, cakes, brownies and cupcakes were sold during breaks and lunch Oct. 15 and 16, and the BHS student council raised $117 to pay for the "Magic Music Machine" for homecoming dance.

"Council members baked their hearts out," said sponsor Mrs. Linda Wall.

During Friday night's game against Randolph, whole cakes and pies were sold.

Each year, about a month before homecoming, student council's bake sale only raised $63. This year's bake sale, along with the Oct. 17 car wash which raised $215, and the bucket brigade has raised a total of $600 for homecoming.

Teens for Christ meet

Teens for Christ elected Krishna Vander Zee president at its first meeting Sept. 14, which was attended by 26 students.

At their last meeting, Oct. 12, TFC planned a trip to the San Antonio Zoo on Oct. 24, and besides their regular meetings every other Monday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., they will also be attending gospel concerts and rallies.

Other officers elected included Selena Cook, vice-president; Cindy Fritsche, secretary; Darthula Mauldin, treasurer; Max Welten, sergeant-at-arms; Paula Maier, chaplain; and Taasha Vander Zee, honorary photographer.

Sponsors are Charles and Mary Graves, and TFC is made up of students of all denominations. Meetings include fellowship, Bible study, singing and games.

Lady Bulldogs ready for tournament action

Bandera's Lady Bulldogs turned up for the District 27 AAA volleyball tournament, which opens Tuesday, Oct. 26, in Medina Valley, by defeating Southside Tuesday, Oct. 13, 15-6 and 15-8.

The outstanding defensive players were Liz Fernandez and Dorothy Duff, said coach Peggy Swierke. And the outstanding offensive player was Erika Kluna.

Other varsity team members include Sharon Webber, Eve Elkins, Ruth Mazurek, JoAnn Johnson, Ann Chaffin and Chrissy Parker.

Placing third in regular season play, the Lady Bulldogs will play the fifth place team in the tournament.

The winner of that game will play the second place team. The first match is at 5:15 p.m. The second against Honda will be played at approximately 7:30 p.m.

The winner of the second match will be in the finals of the tournament. Coach Peggy Swierke is confident they will make the finals. "We'll win," she said.

The junior varsity lost to Southside, 15-13 and 15-6, and the freshmen were victorious, 15-10 and 15-4.

TAFE meets to discuss convention, funds

Texas Association of Future Educators (TAFE) discussed the upcoming state convention and ways to raise funds and club members decided to have club t-shirts displaying school colors, at their Oct. 14 meeting.

The TAFE convention will be held in Austin in February, and members plan to have a bake sale and car wash to earn money for the entry fees.

Once at the convention, club members have a chance to run for state offices, attend classes on teaching techniques, and enter the local club's scrapbook in a scrapbook competition.

"I went last year, and I'd love to go again. It was a lot of fun," says club member Charla Lovelace. The president of each school's club may choose to participate in a scholarship essay contest.

At the convention, teachers and other members of the educational profession encourage students wishing to pursue careers in education, and present information on the teaching field.

Last year we learned what signs teachers look for if they suspect that one of their students might be using drugs," Lovelace adds. Members were also shown a satirical film, each at last year's convention.

Bucket Brigade tradition broken as juniors win money game

Juniors won the annual Bucket Brigade with a net total of $99.64, breaking tradition for the second year in a row. Before last year, the sophomore class had traditionally won the Bucket Brigade, however, last year the freshmen won.

The junior class was followed by the freshmen, with a net total of $60.75, the sophomores, $47.63, and the seniors, $14.84.

The Bucket Brigade is an annual event sponsored by student council in which each class decorates a bucket and sets it out during breaks and both lunches. Pennies, which are positive points, and silver coins and dollar bills, negative points, are put into the buckets by fellow classmates.

The class with the most money, after the subtraction of the silver and bills, wins. That class keeps all the money in the bucket while the student council gets the money in the remaining three buckets.

Student council received a total of $306.02 and the juniors got $169.74. The junior class will use the money for the prom.

Invasion of the parents

The halls of Bandera High School were invaded by parents for the annual open house, Thursday, Oct. 15, and they could be seen roaming the halls in search of their children's classrooms, or gossiping with each other just like their children do.

Open house enabled parents to go to each of their children's classes and meet the teacher. Each teacher gave a brief summary of their class, and handed out report cards. Classes were five minutes long and parents had five minutes in between to report to the next class.

Mr. Delamain, principal at BHS, said, "There was an exceptional number of parents who came to the open house, and I appreciate their interest and support."

SA stallion wins JAL Ranch Futurity

Jody O'Toole, a two-year-old stallion owned by Bob Douglas of San Antonio, registered a speed index of 104 Sunday in winning the 350-yard JAL Ranch Futurity in 17.55 seconds.

He won easily over Go Little Poggo, a Nick Weeks trained mare that finished second in 17.72 seconds, a speed index of 99, and Chickazita, who showed in 17.74 seconds.

Jody O'Toole won $23,480, which pushed his winnings so far this year to $240,000, good enough to be in contention for the Colt of the Year award. Go Little Poggo picked up a paycheck of $11,404 for her second-place finish and Chickazita earned $8,050.

In the JAL Ranch Derby for three-year-olds, Gilda Ryon, a filly ridden by Billy Wainwright, burst to a half-length victory over Makin' Eyes, another filly ridden by Jeff Williams, who won the futurity only minutes later aboard Jody O'Toole.

Wainwright pushed Gilda Ryon over the 350-yard course in 17.68

seconds, a speed index of 101. In other feature events at Bandera Downs Sunday, Super 5's, an Alamo Ranches gelding, won the 400-yard Rio Ranchito Allowance in 20.67; Box Office Smash, with Ignacio Bustamante in the saddle, won the 350-yard JAL Ranch Derby consolation in 17.79 seconds; Ridgewick's De-light won the 350-yard JAL Ranch Maturity in 17.77 seconds; and Ambrosio Ruiz rode Im Out of Sight to a victory in the 350-yard JAL Ranch Futurity consolation in 17.99 seconds.

David Latham continues to lead trainers at Bandera Downs with 17 winners at Bandera Downs so far this year compared to 16 for second place Paul Liebke and 11 each for Nerrel Bruney and Walter Smith.

Jockey Joe Quintanilla, with 31 winners, holds a narrow lead over Tim Wurtman for jockey of the year honors. Wurtman has ridden 24 winners, but lags Quintanilla in third-place finishes, 28-14.

State-ranked Ro-Hawks blank Bandera by 25-0

Bandera's Bulldogs showed marked improvement Friday in their clash with state-ranked and district favorite Randolph, but absorbed their seventh defeat and fourth shutout, 25-0.

Ro-Hawk fullback Craig Huggins scored three times and Tony Castiglione rushed for 183 yards on 23 totes to bury the winless Bulldogs.

The junior flyboys scored twice within a single minute early in the opening quarter, then added a third late in the period to jump to a 19-0 first-quarter lead. The "Dogs" played the bigger Ro-Hawks relatively evenly for the final three periods, giving up only a single touchdown.

"They played with more intensity and aggression. We could not make the big plays on offense or defense to contain Randolph," said head coach Sam Swiere.

Headlined by Chris York, Ernesto Rodriguez, Danny Madden and Chris Marrs for their offensive work and Neal Graves (22 tackles), Jeff Bachman, Eric Grenet and Ronnie Bain on defense.

The Bulldogs invaded Medina Valley Stadium in Castroville Friday for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff. The Panthers crushed Southside's Cardinals Friday, 33-0, to run its district record to 1-1 and season mark to 3-4.

Medina loses to Lytle in non-district tilt, 26-8

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

The Medina Bobcats fell victim to the Lytle Pirates, 26-8, Friday, Oct. 16, in a mid-season non-district game.

Fullback Kevin Collins led Lytle's "Black Attack," scoring three of their four TDs and gaining 112 of the 145 rushing yards against Medina.

Split end David Innocent accounted for the first score when he caught a 10 yard pass in the end zone from quarterback Pan-cho Aguinaga after a screen pass had moved the Pirates 40 or so yards one play earlier.

Lee Sandel boosted the extra point with 6:02 minutes left in the first quarter.

Medina came charging right back and managed to move inside the Pirate 20 where their drive stalled.

Lytle had its own problems on the next possession, and the Cats once more showed that they could move against the bigger team, finally getting to the six-inch line before being stopped.

After stopping the Bobcats best drive the Pirates put seven men in the lights late in the second period when Collins scored his first from the nine and Sandel once more added the PAT.

Lytle continued to dominate after the break and once more upped the tally with 8:17 left in the third period when Collins intercepted a Tim Green pass and went 55 yards for his second TD of the night. The point extra attempt was off.

Medina finally got on the scoreboard with 5 minutes left in the same quarter on a 29 yard run by Scotto Melton. The junior tailback ran in the two-point conversion also to put the Cats back in the game, 20-8.

The Bobcats got two more chances to score, but were thrown back both times. With three minutes left to play, the Pirates underlined their lead with one more TD by Collins from the three. Once more the PAT was on goal and the score remained 26-8.

The loss evened Medina's overall record to 2-2, but didn't effect their district total of 2-0. That game on the line Friday, Oct. 23, when the Cats host Center Point, now 0-6, for homecoming. Game time is 8 p.m.

I Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Decisions, decisions. To some it is the hardest part of making it in our modern, fast-moving world.

We have to make scores of decisions every day. Usually these decisions reflect our character. Always they do something to our character, either for good or evil. Sometimes they're easy. Sometimes they're tough. Sometimes they're put off, but even then, a decision is made. A decision not to make a decision. And there are times when you feel fortunate a decision must be made.

Some people make a practice of avoiding decisions by passing the buck. Some people just can't come to a decision about anything, and most people in this category are extremely unhappy. A lot of life's frustrations are directly due to not being able to face up to a showdown. Whether we like it or not, there are times when we have to (or at least should) face facts. This invariably makes it easier for us to face ourselves. God gave us ability to make decisions. This is especially true in decisions affecting character which may have life-long consequences. Such decisions are not beyond human limitations. The ones who really do not decide are the ones who really do not live.

Oops. City reverses field on sign law

By Nick Johnson

Editor

The Bandera City Council, apparently faced with an unfavorable response to temporary liberal signs and billboards enacted last week, reversed itself Monday.

They voted 4-1 for a different sign ordinance that not only placed a maximum size of 64 square feet on new signs in the city and its extra-territorial jurisdiction and a maximum height of 15 feet, but also revoked a permit issued this week under the temporary rules enacted last week.

Buddy Postert voted against the new, tighter sign regulations that will remain in effect only until the council enacts a permanent ordinance. Chuck Haver, Raymond Adametz, Joe Fox and Carl Adametz voted for the new, tighter rules.

Work began on a permanent ordinance Tuesday when a committee of two councilmen and two members of the Planning and Zoning Commission met to begin drafting the ordinance. Committee members are councilmen Haver and Raymond Adametz and commission members Linda Stein and Tom Laxson.

The temporary ordinance adopted Monday was authored by attorney Harvey Hardy of San Antonio, who was retained for that purpose by a group headed by Stein and Laxson. Hardy told the council:

"It places a limitation on new signs that requires them to be less than 64 square feet in area and lower than 15 feet in height and requires them to conform to the setback requirements established by the city's existing zoning ordinance."

It also specifically rescinded a permit granted Oct. 20 to David Koehler for the construction of a two-sided, lighted billboard on State Highway 16 North that he said would be 40 feet high. Koehler is the operator of Oma's House catering service and Koehler Park, which is located within the one-half mile "extra-territorial jurisdiction" zone beyond the city limits.

The council enacted temporary rules Oct. 12 that would have allowed construction of signs up to 400 square feet in area and as high as 40 feet.

Reaction to the temporary rules was apparently heavy and overwhelming in favor of more stringent rules.

Monday's special meeting to overturn their actions of Oct. 12 was called by Mayor Wilvie Smith at the insistence of council members Haver, Fox and Carl Adametz. They were prepared to call the meeting themselves if the mayor had not.

After hearing a brief explanation of the new ordinance drafted by Hardy, Haver moved the adoption of the ordinance, saying his action was "due to the concerns of many people I've talked to since the last meeting."

Several citizens appeared before the council Monday to argue for more stringent limitations on signs in Bandera.

County attorney Sam Darden pleaded with the council to rescind the Oct. 12 rules. "If you put big and garish signs on this Main Street, you're going to kill the only industry this city has," he told the council. He said his primary concern was creating a city with job opportunity for young people.

"Without our natural beauty, we have no opportunity for them."

"I'm going to plead with you not to take any hasty action," he said. "You have an obligation to the business community of this city, even if they don't live in Bandera, because they provide the opportunity."

Drivers ease the cows out of Bandera Creek Valley on State Highway 173 during the Longhorn Overland Cattle Company's benefit drive Saturday, Oct. 24.

Dogies move through Bandera

By Larry T. Williams

Staff Writer

"The event really went smooth as silk," said Cal Chapman, organizer of the Longhorn Overland Cattle Company's benefit drive that rolled into Bandera Saturday, Oct. 24.

The drive and the street dance that followed raised $400 for The Medina County Family Life Center and Bandera County Helping Hand, according to Chapman. Chapman cited the area law enforcement organizations for helping the drive to go off without problems. "We had officers from the Kerr and Bandera county sheriff's departments as well as the Bandera City Police and the Texas Department of Public Safety."

The LOCC "spent a couple of thousand that wasn't recouped."

Chapman continued, "but it really was a pilot project to try out the possibility of a brand new kind of promotional event."

In terms of promoting Bandera and Bandera County, the drive was apparently a huge success. Media coverage from KRUC, KAJA, KKYX, and KCVY kept the spectacle in front of the public and "live" coverage by WOAT's Lee Richards and channel 5

KENS TV gave a "on the spot" and "you are there" flavor.

In addition San Antonio's Express-News gave front page and color photo space in their Sunday edition. Chapman says he plans more such happenings in the future and already has plans for another drive in the works for March. "This time we'll try for Main Street," says the organizer.

Heavy turnout expected at polls here Tuesday

A moderately heavy turnout is expected Tuesday when Bandera County voters go to the polls to consider a long ballot that includes binding referenda on pari-mutuel wagering at horse racing, a $350,000 road bond issue, and a long list of constitutional amendments.

Most of the attention in Bandera County has been centered on the pari-mutuel wagering issue, with opponents mostly affiliated with churches in the county flailing the issue as morally wrong and cruel to animals while supporters say it will provide unparalleled economic opportunity.

Supporters say the matter will create up to 1,800 jobs, many of them full-time, career type positions in Bandera County and will bolster a struggling tourist industry in the area.

Voters Tuesday will also be asked to approve $350,000 in road bonds to finance repairs to roads and bridges made necessary by massive back-to-back floods in May and June.

The repairs have been made for the most part, and paid for from funds earmarked for routine road and bridge maintenance and repair scheduled over the next two years, county officials say.

Should the bonds be defeated at the polls Tuesday, road maintenance will virtually cease in the county or money will have to be borrowed on a short-term basis at a much higher rate of interest.

Officials said the bonds would require a levy of 0.69 cents per $100 valuation to retire over their 15-year life. A person who owns a $50,000 home will pay $3.45 per year additional in taxes, based on today's valuation. As valuations rise, that amount will decrease.

The work included in the bonds includes repairs to Castle Lake Road and to the crossing below the Castle Lake Dam and repairs to the lower crossing on Spring Road in Precinct 1.

Also, repairs to bridges in Pipe Creek, over Red Bluff Creek, over Bottle Creek in Rio Ranchero subdivision, over Spine Creek on Bump Gate Road, and in Lake Forest subdivision in Precinct 2.

Also on B&R, Little Creek and West Sabinal roads in Precinct 3, crossings at the Southland, Fisher and Hicks places, and the Coal Creek, Honey Creek, Sutton, Faust, Horse and Seco Creek crossings.

Also at two sites on Mesa Verde Road and crossings on Wallace and Rocky creeks in Precinct 4.

In all, commissioners plan to spend $79,000 in Precinct 1, $61,000 in Precinct 2, $51,000 in Precinct 3 and $79,000 in Precinct 4. In addition, they plan to use the funds to purchase $60,000 in road equipment that will be used in each of the precincts.

Along with pari-mutuel wagering, the Tuesday ballot also includes a binding referendum changing the method of selection of members of the state school board to election. Members are currently appointed by the governor.

Among the constitutional amendments is one authorizing the expenditure of up to $500 million for a research facility to go with the proposed supercollider which may be located in the state. The facility will not be constructed unless the supercollider is finally located in Texas, said Sen. Bill Sims.

Amendments No. 4 and 6 create financial mechanisms to help Texas agricultural enterprises to develop, and as commissioner Jim Hightower says they have the potential to produce almost $1 billion in new agricultural sales and to create 30,000 jobs in four years.

Pari-mutuel dying nationally: minister

By Janna Sandridge

Staff Writer

"There are a lot of myths about the pari-mutuel industry," says San Antonio minister Ray Kiser. "But many see it as a dying industry, and by expanding into Texas, it gives it a shot in the arm."

Kiser was scheduled to appear in Bandera this weekend in a pre-election debate, but arranged to be at the event were never completed.

"There are certainly those who can make an economic point," Kiser said, "but the bottom line is the quality of life in Texas. It puts the state in the position of being the pusher, or the advertiser," he continued.

An associate pastor at San Antonio's Travis Park United Methodist Church, Kiser is a member of Texas Impact, an anti-pari-mutuel lobby group. He also chairs the division of Human Welfare as a member of the Southwest Texas Conference Board of Church and Society of the United Methodist Church, and is a member of the Texas United Methodist Bishops' task force against gambling.

"My position is that there will be a lot of promotion, and an influx of effort and eagerness," says Kiser. "But why are people going to want to come to Texas when it is surrounded on all sides by states where gambling is legal? There will probably be battles, and a lot of competition. Bandera may lose if a major track is established in San Antonio."

Kiser says he is reminded of the movie "It's a Wonderful Life" in which a small town is transformed into Potteryville, a place where the quality of life is limited.

"There are a lot of decent people who want to get involved and they

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

The news is bad, and getting worse. Over in the Persian Gulf, the U.S. Navy — the same Navy that took the hit at Pearl Harbor, saved its carriers, and came back to humiliate the Japanese empire — floats in the water and uses a thousand shells to blow away an oil rig. Give any Texas roughneck a spanner wrench and a box of Armadillo Strike anywhere matches, and you could have killed that rig goodbye on the cheap. Reagan throws everything he's got, even Ollie North, at Nicaragua. They're still there, and President Arias of Costa Rica — which is somewhere between the Rio Grande and Argentina — gets the Nobel Peace prize for asking everybody to stop shooting and start talking.

On Wall Street, the yuppie graduates of Harvard Business School panic because they might not be able to pay their kid's psychiatrist bill. It gets worse. This will keep you up nights. Prince Charles and Princess Di appear to be "having troubles." Your guess is as good (or as naughty) as mine. In Texas, it is now illegal to cruise the highways you paid for in the car you're paying for and sip a brew at the same time. True, it's a good law and necessary, but it's one more sign of the times. The party's over.

Nevertheless, things are not all that bleak, especially if you look at what's really important.

It's true we had a bit of a drought this fall. Then the rain came just in time, and now it's been followed by an Indian Summer. If it holds just another week or two, that means you won't have to live on green tomato relish, fried green tomatoes, green tomato yogurt, and all those awful things you do with green tomatoes.

The accord dog appears to be early and plentiful. The seedheads look full on the grass. Let the Gulf, and the President, and the Street, and the Prince take care of themselves. We're doing okay. (Here, by the way, is this week's hot investment tip: put everything you've got into turnip greens.)

With the change from standard to daylight savings time, I suddenly realized it's a new season and there's lots of things coming up. With hunting season opening soon, there's the Hunters Barbecue coming in Bandera and the Hunter's Supper at Medina Lake, and a barbecue in Medina too. Those are fun events. You get to see the hunters and their families that just come to the area during the season.

You learn what's new with the families and how the kids are faring in school and about the new grandchildren. There's always at least one hunting family that announces they've decided to retire and they're moving to Bandera County permanently. This is always good news.

Other things coming up will be the big Shoppers Jubilee in Bandera. I always look forward to the parade and the open houses afterwards in the businesses. It's fun to chat with the business owners about how their business fared over the summer and hear their plans for expansion or adding new lines and employees.

Another fun thing this time of year is pulling up the dried, straggly, summer plants in the garden bed and planting the winter flowers. I got my mums, pansies, and snapdragons in the garden bed this week.

Politicians are beginning to announce their intentions to run for office in the primary election. Elections are fun. Campaigns can become very exciting, and I for one, am looking forward to seeing new faces on campaign posters and new names on the ballots in March.

Of course something else creeping up on us fast is the holidays. Elvies Karen and Kathy have already started organizing this year's Spirits of Christmas Presents project. They need all the volunteers, helpers, Santas, and dollars they can get.

It's a fun project with a great reward for those helping when they see the faces of those kids who receive the presents. Just because we lost an hour's daylight in the evening doesn't mean we have to slow down. There's plenty to do in the coming weeks and months. We just have to get involved and before we know it, we'll wonder where the time went.

Letterwriter says parents were denied seeing dying son while conscious

Dear editor:

I have hesitated for some time to write this letter. Although it is being written without malice, I feel it is a situation that the residents of Bandera County need to be advised of.

When our son was injured in the accident that later claimed his life, I understand that one of the county's deputies was the first on the scene. He was a personal acquaintance of our son. Later the sheriff and another deputy, each of whom knew our son, were on the scene. When the family of the other young man involved, known as the "other son," advised the deputies to notify us immediately, they advised the deputies to notify us immediately. To possibly prevent another family from enduring what we have, I write this letter.

We were denied nearly three hours in which our son was conscious, because we were not notified of the accident until he had been admitted to Methodist Hospital in San Antonio. A nurse and staff doctor notified us. We never saw him conscious again.

We feel that the sheriff's department was grossly negligent.

Mrs. Houston Evans
Bandera

(Editor's note: The Bandera County Sheriff's Department has no policy regarding notifying families of automobile accident victims that a family member has been involved or injured in an automobile accident, sheriff Guy Pickett said.)

"There are some instances where we will contact the family of a victim. If a minor is involved or injured, we contact the parents to gain permission to have the victim medically treated or to have the EMS transport them to a hospital. If a fatality occurs we're responsible for notifying the family."

"In this particular accident," said Deputy James MacMillan, "we were told by Jim Evans and Tim Butler that another person was involved. Both accident victims told us that Butler's brother was with them. We couldn't locate the third victim at the scene; it was dark, before daylight. And then someone said the other Butler boy may have walked home, if he wasn't injured."

"We called the parents to find out if the other brother was at home. They asked why we wanted to know, after they told us he wasn't at home. We advised them there had been an accident and the other son (Tim) was involved and we were trying to find out the whereabouts of the other son."

"They came to the accident scene on their own; we did not request them to come," MacMillan said.

"The Department of Public Safety has no policy to notify families of accident victims, unless there is a fatality," trooper Nolan Metz said. "We leave it up to the hospital emergency room to contact the family or next of kin," he said. Except in the case of a minor, then we contact the family to get permission to have the minor treated medically or transported by the EMS."

Promote education, please

Dear editor:

I'm very understanding that the Bandera Independent School Board trustees were elected to promote the welfare of the students and make administrative decisions concerning the district's business, keeping in mind the best interest of the children.

I myself for one do not support pari-mutuel wagering. If the trustees that signed the letter that appeared in the Bulletin Oct. 22 would have made this clear initially, many voters would not have cast their votes for them.

As individuals each trustee has the right to an opinion, but as a collective representing body for the Bandera Independent School District they do not have the right to endorse and put their stamp of approval on abortion, gambling as well as drugs.

School trustees should keep in mind that duty as a trustee is to promote the education of students, not promote gambling.

That's cruelty

Dear editor:

If Bandera County voters are being approached and influenced by individuals who profess their animal cruelty and pari-mutuel go hand in hand, those voters should at least make the effort to get the facts.

As a "dog person," former kennel owner, professional trainer and handler, I can assure you dog racing, and the gambling that goes with it, is already in Texas. With full approaching, so their law enforcement approaches. Down narrow lanes, in back pastures all over Texas and not far down the road, are the tracks, complete with starting gates, bleachers and parking for the gamblers, operating unregulated and without proper law enforcement or even one licensed veterinarian in attendance.

This is cruelty to animals. Webster's says that "to regulate is to bring under the rule of constituted authority." This is pari-mutuel.

A vote for pari-mutuel will not contribute to animal cruelty. On the contrary, it will enable the activities that are now in existence.

If after Nov. 3rd, cruelty to animals is really your cause, I would suggest you check out the dog and chicken fight scene. You'll find them down the same narrow lanes in the old barns. They'll supply you with enough blood and guts to last you a lifetime. Take a look and listen to the sounds from a fight ring, and then direct your efforts where they are needed rather than toward pari-mutuel wagering.

Wants accurate discussion

Dear editor:

I reluctantly expect to vote for pari-mutuel betting in November, but not for the reasons being advanced by others. I just think that if people want to bet on horse races (or other activities), they should be free to do so as there is no inherent wrong or evil in betting as such.

My reluctance is due to some concerns that have not been strongly presented as yet in most opposition seems to be focused on morality on betting and not on the potential costs (both money and intangibles) to the Bandera community. Are we ready for more taxes and more disruptions to orderly community life that makes Bandera attractive to us?

Bandera County potpourri

I never cease to amaze me how quickly Americans adapt to the semi-annual curse of daylight savings time. People seem to get to church on time, without a whimper. Even kids make it to the school bus on time Monday morning.

Already, we're fully adjusted to driving to work without headlights and an extra hour of serious, prime-time television free from guilt feelings about yard work untouched. So I'm confident: Texans will adapt to "Super Tuesday" in March as quickly as we've gotten used to the fact that Tom Landry can't lose a game of sleep.

Super Tuesday is March 5, the date all the Southern states, including Texas, will hold binding presidential primaries.

That means the primary elections at which we select nominees for county and state offices will be held three months earlier than the June date we've grown accustomed to.

And it means its decision time for potential candidates.

I'm confident, however, that those attracted by the lure of politics will adjust to the earlier primary, just as they did to Sunday's extra hour of sleep.

And when they lose an hour's sleep in the spring, the party's best candidates will be in the starting gate.

A Bandera woman reported on Tuesday to Sheriff Guy Pickett that her husband had been assaulted by three men at Bandera Downs on Sunday. She said he had been beaten about the head with a rock by one of the men and the others stomped on his knees," the sheriff said.

She took him to Sid Peterson Hospital after the attack and his injuries were described as serious," the sheriff said. "She reported it on Tuesday and the investigation is continuing," he said.

A spokesman at Sid Peterson Hospital on Wednesday said however the hospital has no record of Bobbitt ever being admitted to the facility as a patient. "It's possible he was treated and released in the emergency room," a spokeswoman for the hospital said.

Another police-related news item this week, Lakelands resident William Fernandez, 26, was arrested for assault on Tuesday, Oct. 20, in an unrelated case. The sheriff said. Deputies were called to his home regarding a family disturbance. He was released from jail after he paid his fines, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Pickett and his deputies assisted Medina County Sheriff Alvin Santelien and his deputies in serving warrants Monday morning on brothers Rick and Rory Seiman in Mico. The two were arrested on warrants from

Wants to work here

Dear editor:

For those racing Christians raised in the Baptist Church, Missouri has been a real disappointment. Since 1968 I have trained horses in New Mexico, Arizona and California.

My family never wavered on the horse races. I was 30 years old before I found out it was not a sin to bet on a horse race. Nor is horse racing even mentioned in the Bible, though it has been going on for 600 years before Christ.

Gambling on horses is a moral issue not a religious issue, so I ask you why do the church groups get up in arms every time the issue comes to a vote. I don't remember them fighting liquor by the drink like this and certainly never heard them get up in church and tell the whole congregation to get out and vote against it. Drinking has ruined more families and caused more deaths, yet what are the churches doing to alleviate the problem? Is the panic about horse racing because it might effect their church's pocket books?

Every horse that is not fast enough or does not fit into a breeding program must find somewhere else to fit in, and normally that is as someone's pleasure horse or kids horse. If you want animal abuse, talk to the Horse Sanctuary at Boerne. Where were those people that are so concerned about animal cruelty when the Horse Sanctuary had it's benefit at the Silver Rose Palace?

I normally tend to my own business and let God sort out the rest, but this affects me directly. I want to be able to do my work where I was born and raised not 500 to 1,000 miles away from my family. J.L. Hankins

Police may offset it

Dear editor:

If pari-mutuel betting is approved by voters on Nov. 3, some say it will bring prosperity to Bandera County. This could be a correct statement except one problem: our state, county, and city police. If they continue their past methods of operation they will drive away a lot of this potential prosperity.

I will personally vote for pari-mutuel because I believe in freedom of choice.

For the constitutional amendments on Nov. 3 ballot, I submit this: our elected officials need to adhere to our present constitution (state and U.S.) before we can possibly believe that changing any constitution will be anything but another step in the wrong direction.

I will also vote against the $350,000 road bond. Doyle Ely

Deal with laundry at home

Dear editor:

There are no bad kids only bad parents: parents who do not teach right from wrong, parents who themselves are coping in a negative destructive manner, parents who believe themselves losers and try to bring the rest of the world down to their level, including their kids.

Bad parents are easily identified: they have bad kids.

They should try some of the techniques good parents with good kids find successful. Respect toward elders is a good start. Kids can't learn worthwhile lessons if they don't respect teachers and neighbors.

Parents should look for danger signals before it's too late. If your child continually failing at school? Why? The school should involve the counselor and principal with the parents of students who continually fail. Parents should be required to meet with school personnel on chronic discipline and attendance problems. These problems are obviously caused by poor family coping behaviors or neglect of parental duties or outright abuse.

Parents, please deal with your dirty laundry at home. Let the teachers teach and your neighbors lead their own lives.

Bank women view style show

The Hill Country group of the National Association of Bank Women (NABW), including seven Bandera women, were hosted by Comfort State Bank at a social hour, style show and combined dinner and business meeting Oct. 22 in Comfort.

The evening began with a social hour and business fashions style show at the Comfort Bank. The group then adjourned to the T. Anchor restaurant for dinner and business meeting. Committees for the upcoming NABW state conference in Kerrville in 1989 and the upcoming sale of raffle tickets will help defray expenses for the 1988 state conference in Dallas were discussed.

200 Legionnaires gather here

A total of 197 persons dined at the joint banquet of the American Legion and its Auxiliary Saturday night at the Hill Country Fair fall convention of the Legion's 21st District.

State commander Hank Narmon of Austin addressed the Legionnaires, discussing the current situation in Central America, the Persian Gulf and other world happenings. He said Chuck Haver, commander of Bandera Post 157.

Haver said the primary purpose of the fall convention is to allow an opportunity for recently installed officers to meet members and each other and to take the first steps in organizing activities for the year.

New district commander is Rudolph M. Johnson of Comfort and the vice commander is Cletus R. Piper of Kingsland. Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer of Lakelands is the district's central zone commander.

New district auxiliary president is Shirley Hill of Menard and vice president is Audrey Piper of Kingsland. Chaplain is Elaine Mixon of Lakelands.

The district Legionnaires participated in business sessions Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, and a joint memorial service Sunday paid tribute to comrades who have died.

Convention general chairman was Marie Holland and sub-committee chairmen were Carolyn Parsch, Lorraine Parker, Elaine Hagan, Kathleen Bradshaw, Catherine Knaus, Marilyn Michalak and Bessie Haver.

According to the sheriff's report, he reported his 1985 GMC pickup truck, silver in color, had been stolen off his property in Lakelands. He valued the truck at $1,400, the sheriff said.

Schmidt, Opal Word and Carol Anne Boyle from First State Bank, Bandera, were also present. The next meeting of the Hill Country NABW group is scheduled Nov. 19 in Fredericksburg.

Mollers continue collecting paper

Mark, Ladune and Robert Moller's "Walk of Life Crusade" plans continue, and this week's use of storage facility room 19 behind the new Braun Drug Store will be available to the crusade intervention by counseling and assisting rape or sexual assault victims at the hospital or law enforcement agencies. Counseling for former rape victims will also be offered.

"We are also collecting aluminum cans," adds Mark. "We just recently turned in 167 pounds, and collected $70.14."

"The 'Walk of Life Crusade,' started this year as the Mollers walked from Texas to California to raise money for the American Cancer Society and the Kidney Foundation.

It's not what people want to hear, but it doesn't look like a peak year for Lost Maples State Natural Area near Vanderpool.

The area is site of one of nature's most colorful shows when the maple trees there burst into late-season color, but the intensity and variety of the hues depend on the weather.

The weather has been unfavorable this year, Greaves reported Wednesday.

"There are trees that have started to turn now and they are turning to orange-brown color," she said. Park officials expect the color change to continue through mid-November. Greaves said, "but with little of the bright colors Lost Maples is famous for. We'll try to do better next year," she promised.

Class reunion planned for 1978 grads

Absentee total already a record 188 votes

Absentee votes for the Nov. 3 election are more than 188 votes, and the deadline is until 5 p.m. Friday.

At press time Wednesday, nine year veteran clerk Bonnie Bruce reported 188 ballots had been cast, and that's more than she's ever seen before in absentee voters.

A change in the election law allows any registered voter to vote absentee without offering any excuse, such as expecting to be out of the county on election day or in jail or in the hospital.

The ballot is long and wordy with 25 constitutional amendments, two referenda, and a county option election on part mutual wagering. Voters will have a separate ballot on the county road bond issue.

The county road bond ballot is say that it is a good business venture that will self-regulate. Kiser says, "Where will the money come from?" he asks. "A few will benefit, but it is not like an industry that will increase productivity. It is just a transfer of wealth."

In response to charges that laws against pari-mutual gambling limit people's freedom of choice, Kiser says he believes the state and federal government are involved in consumer protection, and that there is a fine line between the welfare of a society as opposed to individual rights.

"I believe in democracy as much as anyone," says Kiser. "I don't want to censor people's freedom, but I think we should consider the impact of each freedom we give. My concern is that people make appropriate choices on a societal level."

He explained that although people enjoy driving the way they want to on the highway, there must be certain restrictions and protective measures taken to keep drivers from infringing on one another's freedom, and that certain parallels can be drawn to the government's role in making gambling legal.

"It strikes me as interesting that this is happening as the government is trying to get tough on crime, and with all the concern for the rights of the victim," he comments.

Kiser says that gambling was legalized from 1905 to 1909, and again from 1933 to 1937, and that both times it was abolished again due to scandals and the problematic nature of trying to control the impact that gambling has on the rise of crime.

"If it passes, I think the honey-moon will quickly be over," Kiser says.

It's the first tax bill I've ever voted for and I hope it's the last. It's the thing I thought you would do if you were sitting around the table," he said.

He said much of the tax increase will go for facilities the state has been ordered to construct by federal courts, such as new prison facilities and new mental health facilities. He said additional cuts in public education would have required corresponding increases at the local level and he defended higher education expenditures as necessary for the future of the state.

He said even after this year's record tax increase, Texas still ranks sixth from the bottom in total taxes paid.

Teri Short named finalist for SA stock show queen

Teri Ann Short, daughter of Joe and Beverly Short of Bandera, has been selected by the San Antonio Express and News as one of 10 finalists in the 1988 San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo Queen competition, she learned Tuesday, Oct. 19.

She will demonstrate her riding ability on Saturday, Nov. 7 at Joe and Harry Freeman Coliseum's horsebarn No. 2, her proud mother said. "I hope since there is no charge for spectators to watch the competition, that people from Bandera and this area will attend and cheer Teri on," she added. The competition will be from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Following the horseman's competition, the contestants will be judged on personal interview, appearance, poise and personality during an evening pageant and queen's dance. The coliseum doors will open at 4 p.m. Tickets will be required to enter the coliseum. Dancing to the music of the Deep Blue Country will be from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

The 1988 Stock Show and Rodeo Trail Ride Queens will be featured in a "Sweethearts of the Rodeo" presentation from 6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The final competition for the rodeo queen contestants will end with the coronation ceremonies from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Admission is $5 for adults and free for youngsters under 12 years of age. Proceeds from the ticket sales go toward a scholarship for the pageant winner. The event is sponsored by the San Antonio Express News.

Teri is a 1986 Bandera High School graduate. She has won many honors in the Bandera County 4-H Club and attended stock shows in Bandera, Kerrville, San Antonio, and San Angelo. She was president of the Bandera Youth Rodeo Club and a member of the club for over 8 years, her mother said.

She is presently a sophomore at Tarleton State University in Stephenville, majoring in criminal justice and hopes to go into the probation field when she completes college, her mother says.

"She was selected 1987 as princess of the Cowboy Capital PRCA Rodeo in September. She was sponsored by the Bandera Ice House where most people know her by her smile and friendliness," her mother said.

"I think she would make a good queen because she puts her whole heart into whatever she is involved in," her mother said.

She also will travel to Las Vegas for six nights at the end of her reign for the National Rodeo Finals.

Her princess will win a $500 wardrobe, gold jewelry, and a gold and silver belt buckle.

Pros and cons of proposed constitutional amendments

Amendment No. 1 (H.J.R. 104)

To establish a grain warehouse self-insurance fund to guarantee payment with public money in case of loss.

For: Public money is needed for protection of warehouse users; may never be used.

Against: This sets a bad precedent to use state credit to bail out an industry. House Bill 1721 has addressed the problem.

Amendment No. 2 (H.J.R. 60)

To raise property taxes in certain unincorporated, rural, fire districts if local voters approve.

For: Present taxation is inadequate for needed fire protection and local voter approval will still be necessary.

Against: Tax rate increases will affect only the unincorporated areas in the six most populated counties and not most rural areas. Duplicates other legislation.

Amendment No. 3 (H.J.R. 48)

To limit school tax increases on the homestead of surviving elderly spouses.

For: Prevents continued upward spiral of taxation on the elderly.

Against: Does not take into account remarriages or financial independence.

Amendment No. 4 (H.J.R. 5)

To provide public monies to private companies, encourage development.

For: Recent downturns and lost revenue necessitate incentives to the private sector.

Against: Public funds for private profits is inherently problematic and carries considerable risk.

Amendment No. 5 (H.J.R. 65)

Allows the State Highway Department and the Texas Turnpike Authority to cooperate in road and bridge building using public monies to guarantee bond issue.

For: Bond ratings may improve; may relieve some city-highway congestion.

Against: With taxpayers guaranteeing bonds, less scrutiny is given the probability of repayment with toll revenues. Open ended public debt could escalate.

Amendment No. 6 (H.J.R. 4)

Authorizes the legislature to finance Texas production businesses.

For: To rebuild Texas. Loans, grants and subsidies are needed.

Against: State sponsored dependency on government individual initiative. ($125 million expected expenditures.)

Amendment No. 7 (S.J.R. 55)

To issue bonds to pay for local public facilities.

For: Provides public jobs and keeps local government from having to pay-as-you-go.

Against: A first step toward deficit spending and could force all state taxpayers to pay for poorly conceived local projects. (Up to $400 million in general revenue bonds.)

Amendment No. 8 (S.J.R.)

To issue bonds to pay for correctional, mental health and mental retardation facilities.

For: Provides the only funds available for badly needed new prisons to comply with Federal Court rulings and reduce present overcrowding.

Against: Relies on future income and adds to Texas indebtedness. ($500 million expected expenditures.)

Amendment No. 9 (S.J.R. 9)

To allow legislators to seek different state offices while restricting pay increases for the new office they may have previously voted to approve.

For: No one should be restricted from seeking higher office as long they do not benefit financially from a vote cast while in another office.

Against: It is bad public policy to amend the Constitution to protect the eligibility of such a few.

Amendment No. 10 (S.J.R. 12)

To exempt from taxes, if local voters approve, certain personal property not used to produce income (i.e. boats, campers, trailers).

For: The cost to collect personal property taxes often outweighs the revenues. Local voters would have the authority to reverse any decisions.

Against: Exemption from property taxation shifts tax burden to other taxpayers.

Amendment No. 11 (S.J.R. 12)

Exempts from taxation, property held within the state temporary for manufacturing and processing.

For: Encourages economic output by limiting taxation and restores competitiveness with other states. Local officials can override S.J.R. 12 if costs outweigh benefits.

Against: Inequities may result from one jurisdiction to the next.

Amendment No. 12 (S.J.R. 35)

To allow surviving spouses to hold community property with the right of survivorship.

For: Ends the two-step legal process and allows surviving spouses to receive all or designated community property.

Against: The proposed Amendment will result in the further deterioration of the community property system in Texas.

Amendment No. 13 (S.J.R. 27)

Allows for creation of districts to provide emergency medical and fire services (including taxation).

For: Needed services call for increased taxing abilities.

Against: Provision for new districts adds another layer of governmental bureaucracy and increases local taxes.

Amendment No. 14 (S.J.R. 34)

To give the state a limited right to appeal in criminal cases.

For: Allows for appeals in case of errors; prevents unfair rulings and balances the law with the facts.

Against: Appeals might pose economic hardships while defendants await rulings.

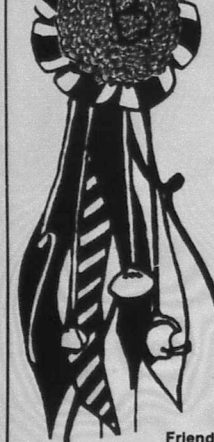

Amendment No. 15 (H.J.R. 35)

To do away with the office of County Treasurer in Gregg, Fayette & Baines Counties.

For: Removes another layer of the bureaucracy and consolidates county business thereby saving tax dollars.

Against: County by county approach is too slow and should be accomplished by a single Constitutional Amendment.

Ranger manager's talk free to the public

Texas baseball Rangers manager Bobby Valentine will talk about his career and his rise to the position of manager Thursday, Nov. 5, in Schreiner College's Dietrich Chapel Auditorium, Kerrville.

Last year, Valentine was named United Press International's American League Manager of the Year.

"I think what helped me was the strong tie that I established with (Dodger manager) Tommy Lasorda," Valentine said. He was the Los Angeles Dodgers' first-round selection in the June 1984 draft and was selected as the Pacific Coast League's "player of the year" in 1970.

In a career that spanned from 1969 to 1979, he batted .280 in 639 major league games and played every position except pitcher.

After his retirement, and before his appointment as Rangers' manager, Valentine served as an infield instructor in the San Diego Padres' minor league organization and handled infield, third base, and baserunning instruction as a member of the New York Mets' major league coaching staff.

In 1985, he signed a two-year contract, with an option for 1987, to become the Rangers' 11th manager in the Texas club's history. At age 37, he is one of the youngest managers in the major leagues.

Valentine's presentation is the second of Schreiner's 1987-88 Special Events Series. The public is invited to attend the talk free of charge.

Webbs' work due at museum

The Frontier Times Museum at 506-13th Street will present exhibits by Harry and Vivian Webb, a retired Air Force couple, on the history of weaving while directing physical medicine rehabilitation programs in the Air Force and for the U.S. Veterans' Administration. It wasn't until he retired to west Bandera County that he was able to pursue the hobby, however.

There he raised and cross-bred sheep to produce wool in black, brown, grey, and silver before starting to spin and weave. He still owns a karakul ram and a finnsheep ewe.

Webb has studied under Fay Drost of the Hill Country Arts Foundation, Doris Glenn of San Antonio, Arlene Minter and Celia Quinn of Dallas. He is a member of the Contemporary Handweavers of Texas, and teaches basic weaving at the Silver Sage Corral Senior Center on State Hwy. 16 in Pipe Creek. A reprint from the Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger.
By CLIFF TREYENS
Clarion-Ledger Staff Writer
Eleven years ago, many upstanding citizens of Bossier City, La., were up in arms. Their small community across the Red River from Shreveport was about to be shaken to the roots by legalized betting at the new thoroughbred horse track.

"The pastor led the opposition pretty vigorously," recalled the Rev. Bob McConnell, an assistant pastor at Bossier City's First Baptist Church.

"I think the most concern was over organized crime. The financial community was concerned about loans being paid back. And the church opposed it on moral grounds," McConnell said.

Today, Louisiana Downs is the most successful of five tracks in the state, and the city's second-largest employer after Barksdale Air Force Base. Such economic development has caused most of the original concerns to fade, McConnell said.

"On the positive side, it's increased the motel and restaurant industries. Also on the positive side, the church has been able to minister to jockeys and other people at the track. And it has generated some taxes," McConnell acknowledged.

"Personally, I would still vote against it today because I think betting is morally wrong," he said. "But in defense of the people who put in the track, it doesn't seem to be the real bad thing we thought it would be or were told it would be."

The experience of Bossier City is similar to that of other areas in southern states where pari-mutuel betting has been legalized. While the initiation of legalized gambling is almost sure to generate active and intense opposition, pari-mutuel tracks often become an important contributor to the local and state economy.

Bandera County Baptists due at annual general convention

More than 6,000 people from throughout the state are expected to attend the 102nd annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Fort Worth, Nov. 10-11.

At least four delegates, or "messengers," will represent each of the Baptist congregations in Bandera County at the convention, said the Rev. Franklin Pullin of the First Baptist Church in Bandera. Some will send more, he said.

Messengers from Bandera County will join those from many of the state's 5,500 Southern Baptist churches and missions to elect a new president and 300 trustees for convention agencies and institutions and will consider a record-breaking budget for missions causes.

The annual convention, which has a theme of "Laborers Together," will also be the launching pad for greater cooperative missions efforts, according to BGCT Executive Director William M. Pinson, Jr.

A major emphasis of the convention will be "Celebration of Cooperation," a year of special focus on the Cooperative Program through which Texas Baptists support 23 educational and benevolent institutions in Texas and join with other Southern Baptists in supporting 7,400 missionaries in more than 100 nations.

Pinson said the convention will provide greater impetus for the Mission Texas goal of reaching 8 million Texans whom statistics show remain unreached.

Also, the convention will emphasize "Share Jesus Now," an effort to have at least 89,000 trained witnesses from 3,000 churches to share Christ with at least 1 million "lost" Texans in February and March, 1989.

In other major convention business, messengers will elect a new president to succeed Paul Powell, pastor of Green Acres Baptist Church, Tyler, who has served the traditional two one-year terms.

Also, they will consider a recommended $68 million Cooperative Program budget for 1988. The $68 million total is a $2.5 million increase over the 1987 budget of $65.5 million.

Key speakers at the convention will include Powell; Alfonso Flores, Jr., pastor of the First Mexican Baptist Church of Dallas; Ralph Smith, pastor of Hyde Park Baptist Church, Austin; Jim Keith, pastor of First Baptist Church, Richardson; Richard Jackson, pastor of North Phoenix Baptist Church, Phoenix, Ariz.; Bill Hillis, executive vice president of Baylor University, Waco; and Roy Fish, professor of evangelism at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, who will deliver the convention sermon on Wednesday morning, Nov. 11.

In other major convention business, messengers will elect a new president to succeed Paul Powell, pastor of Green Acres Baptist Church, Tyler, who has served the traditional two one-year terms.

Also, they will consider a

Child Services Board reactivates, plans

Bandera County Child Services Board reorganized and approved new board members Monday, Oct. 26, according to Board Chair Barbara LeSturgeon.

Christine Rader, CSW, Child Placement Supervisor and Kim Schmidt helped the board identify primary goals, including Parenting Classes, Big Brother and Big Sister programs, teen activities, anti-victimization programs, including date rape, right to say no, peer pressure, alcohol and drug abuse, and establishing a hot line.

New board members include Lynda Cook, Lonette Wilton, Jimmie Hughey, David Shantz, Steve Tom, Bucky Dinsford, Faye Hanaker and Robert Caswell.

The next meeting is scheduled Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bandera Law Enforcement Building.

Farewell reception planned to honor Scott Durham

A farewell reception is planned for Scott and Debbie Durham and their children Saturday, Nov. 7, at the Bandera Bank Community Room from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Spokeswoman Euna Wagner said Durham has been county agent in Bandera for nine years and is moving to Comal County where he will be county agent.

"We hope everyone will stop by and let Scott and Debbie know how much we appreciate all they've done for Bandera County while they were here," said Wagner. "Scott has worked very hard with the farm and ranch groups and especially with the 4-H Clubs in the county."

For more information on the farewell reception call 796-4537 or 796-3956.

County eyes housing grant

A public hearing will be held to discuss Bandera County's possible participation in a program to aid income-eligible homeowners to improve their homes. County Judge Ray Mauer said this week.

The hearing will be in the commissioners' courtroom in the Bandera County courthouse at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 9.

The hearing will be devoted to the proposal to prepare and submit an application to the Texas Department of Community Affairs for a grant under the Texas Community Development Program.

Judge Mauer said the program will include outright grants to homeowners to elevate housing standards in the county. "The purpose is to enable homeowners to upgrade their homes instead of displacing them," he explained. "The program won't cost the county anything and won't cost homeowners anything, but it will enable some people to improve their homes when otherwise they may not be able to," Mauer said.

He said he knew of one elderly lady who owns her home and lives there, despite lack of water, sanitary facilities or many of the other necessities.

"It's a substitute for 'urban development,'" explained commissioner A.A. (Pete) Reed, "except the goal here is to keep people in their homes, not relocate them."

Surplus commodities to be issued Nov. 3

Surplus government commodities will be distributed to income-eligible households Nov. 3 at the First Baptist Church in Bandera and at the American Legion Hall.

Recipients of the free commodities will have to complete an application to determine eligibility and bring proof of income, such as food stamp identification, Medicaid card, pay check stubs, or veteran administration identification.

The supply is limited and will be given on a first-come, first-served basis, Rue said.

First Federal reports profit

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Austin, which has a branch in Bandera, this week reported net earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 30 of $43,000, or $0.82 per share of common stock.

This compared to a loss of $134,000 or $0.86 per share of common stock in the same quarter of 1986, said William C. Horabin, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

First Federal has total assets of approximately $1 billion and has operated in Texas since 1934.

By special arrangement, the Bandera Bulletin will be printed a day earlier, beginning on Nov. 5.

That's early enough to ensure that it will be at the post office in time to be on the rural routes Thursday morning in Bandera. Earlier too in Pipe Creek-Lakehills, Medina, Vanderpool and Tarpley.

Early enough to be distributed to box holders with the rest of their Thursday morning mail.

Early enough to study the ads and take advantage of the specials, many of which begin on Thursday morning.

Early enough to check the entertainment pages to plan your weekend.

Early enough to map a route to all the garage sales.

Cross country girls place second

Bandera Varsity girls cross country team placed second at the district meet Saturday, Oct. 23, with 37 points, behind Medina Valley's 24 points.

Cross country is scored on a point basis, and the lowest score wins.

In order to advance to regionals, teams must place 1st or 2nd, and individuals must place in the top five.

"In the 13 years that we have run a cross country team, we have been to regionals every year and to state one year," says Barbara Mazurek, cross country coach.

"In order to be first in our district," she explains, "we would have to out run the 1986 district champs, Medina Valley, and they are very tough."

Ruth Mazurek placed 2nd; Amie Nightingale, 4th; Sally Langston, 11th; Eve Elkins, 12th; Barbara Graham, 13th; Viola Buser, 14th; and Liz Fernandez, 15th. They will run in the regional meet Nov. 7 at UTSA, at 11:30 a.m.

To go to state, the girls would have to place either in the top three as a team or in the top ten individually. The state meet is in Georgetown.

"The girls have worked very hard and I'm proud of them," says Coach Mazurek. The girls, as well as the only male cross country runner, Eric Wylie, have had to

Senior Hughey gets Century III award

Senior Molly Hughey is the Bandera High School winner of the Century III Leaders Scholarship Program, and was presented her certificate by Mr. Delamain on Monday, Oct. 26.

The scholarship program provides students an opportunity to meet peers and well-known leaders from across the nation.

Participation begins at the local school level and progresses to statewide competition among 11 local school winners. Two state winners will receive a $1500 scholarship to a post-secondary school of their choice, and an all-expense paid trip to Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia for the National Meeting, March 18-21, 1988.

In Colonial Williamsburg, participants will discuss important business, political and educational issues that face America and the world.

Two state alternates will each receive $500 scholarship to a post-secondary school of their choice and six state finalists will each receive a $100 scholarship to a post-secondary school of their choice.

The national scholarship winner will receive a $10,000 scholarship and nine national semifinalists will each be awarded $500 scholarships.

FHA votes to form SADD group

Students Against Drunk Driving is the newest project for Future Homemakers of America, it was decided when the group met Thursday, Oct. 22.

The group has promoted the Great American Smoke Out each spring, and there is the possibility that they will start a SADD chapter here. They also plan to discuss, with speakers addressing subjects including drug and alcohol problems, child abuse, and family violence.

FHA also discussed having a BHS campus clean up, to pick up trash along the road from the entrance of the school down to the exit, and alongside the parking lot.

Two highlights that FHA members anticipate each year are the regional meeting, which will be held in February in San Antonio, and the state meeting, to be held in April in Fort Worth.

Members participate in several workshops at these meetings, pertaining to current student interest such as drunk driving, birth defects, child abuse, careers and fashions.

Fifteen-year-old Amie Nightingale says she was inspired by her father's participation in the 1968 Mexico Olympics to participate in cross country and track. This is her fifth year in cross country and track, and the high school sophomore says she feels less tense about running this year than in her first high school year.

Amie likes to run during the morning hours when it is cool outside, and in the winter. She likes long distances, and prefers cross country over track.

Her goal this year is to go to state, and in the future be in the Olympics.

Trick or Treat, a traditional celebration

The most popular nights in October are "Trick or Treat," and we will soon be hearing both of them as people of all ages dress in costumes and go door to door.

Pumpkins, witches, ghosts, and goblins are images often thought of when mentioning Halloween, as well as candy, pumpkin pies, caramel covered apples, and colored popcorn balls.

Halloween falls on the night of Oct. 31, and is derived from the rites of the Druids celebrating the day of Saman, when the Lord of Death called together the souls of the wicked who had died during the past year. The theme of harvest, which runs through modern Halloween celebrations, comes from both the old Druidic Celebrations and the old Roman festival in honor of Pomona, goddess of fruit. These traditions were brought to Britain during the Roman occupation.

Band parents honored

Parents were honored by band director Craig Hunt and assistant band director Douglas Bakenhus at the annual Band Parents Night, Oct. 16, at the football stadium.

Each parent was presented a white carnation and a red rose by the directors, and students were also given the opportunity to give their parents a yellow rose.

Band Parents Night is designed to thank all the parents for their support at football games and other band functions.

William Francis Johnston, 51, of Virginia died Monday, Oct. 19, in Richmond, Va.

He was a graduate of Bandera High School and served in the U.S. Navy for 25 years both in the intelligence division and the submarine service. Johnston developed the Navy's alcohol rehabilitation program, "Operation Drydock" in the 1970's. He was senior counselor at the Virginia State Department of Corrections at his death.

Survivors include his wife, Vicki Bradley Johnston; four sons, four daughters, a sister, Katherine Vore of Littleton, Colo., and a brother, Gary G. Johnston of Bandera.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Gordon Benton, Rhodes M. Artz, Sr. and Neal Houston Myers. An honor guard of VSDC officers attended the procession.

Fall harvest helps Farmers Market

More vendors are expected and a greater variety of produce will be available at the Farmers Market, in Bandera, according to spokesman Bill Weber.

The market, which appears each Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon at the intersection of Hackberry and Main, will feature herbs and native plants this week.

Recipe Roundup

By Valerie Coyle

A-1 Appetizer — Snack — or Dip

10-oz. sour cream
1 cup celery, chopped
1 cup carrots, chopped
1 cup onions, chopped
1 cup jicama, chopped
8-oz. pizante sauce, hot or mild, to taste
2 pounds Velveeta cheese
Chop vegetables and set aside.

In a 2-quart double boiler, heat cheese until creamy enough to stir. Then add sour cream, stirring till creamy. Add celery, stirring till well mixed; then follow with onions and jicama. Keep stirring until well mixed; then add pizante sauce, hot or mild, tasting for seasoning desired. If you would prepare a thinner mixture, add mayonnaise to thin. Yield: 2 quarts.

"Jicama is a crisp root vegetable, sometimes called the Mexican potato. In Mexico it is often served as an appetizer, sliced and soaked in lime juice. Look for jicama in the produce section of your supermarket.

Readers, if you have a recipe you'd like to share, or if you're looking for a special recipe, I'd like to hear from you. Just write to me, Valerie Coyle, P.O. Box 2088, Kerrville, Texas 78029. Please be sure to include your name and address. Happy cooking!

Lady Bulldogs wind up district play with victory

Varsity Lady Bulldogs defeated the Somerset Bulldogs, 15-4 and 15-11, Oct. 20 in the last district game, with Bandera finishing with a district record of 3 wins and 2 losses. The J.V. Lady Bulldogs were defeated by Somerset 15-3, 15-3 and finished with a district record of 6 wins and 8 losses. The

Students take aptitude tests

A total of 44 students, 34 juniors and 10 sophomores, spent two hours the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 20, taking the PSAT/NMSQT. PSAT/NMSQT is a qualifying test for students entering scholarship programs conducted by National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Students take the test to help plan for college, and the test provides students and schools with information on mathematical and verbal abilities needed for college courses.

The test enables students to experience the same kinds of questions that will be on required admissions tests, allowing them to see what colleges offer appropriate programs for their individual interests and abilities.

Finally, the PSAT/NMSQT offers opportunities for students to enter competitions for scholarships and to receive financial aid from colleges.

TO THE VOTERS OF BANDERA COUNTY:

An opportunity is not knocking at your door, it is literally pounding on it. In the election next Tuesday, at the very bottom of the ballot on Referendum Propositions and County Option Election, you will find your YES votes on both propositions will open the door.

Legalized pari-mutuel betting on horse racing has been attacked by some misinformed people, on the grounds that it would bring a crime increase to the state. Nothing could be further from the truth. Over forty states have legalized pari-mutuel betting, and not a single one would give up the benefits racing has brought to it. Under the Pari-Mutuel Wagering Act, strict scrutiny is provided for, including licensing of every single person involved in racing, whether owner, employee, official, concessionaire, or horse walker. Not a single person connected with racing will be allowed to have any criminal record of any sort. This will be the best policed of all professional sports. Every employee will be fingerprinted and photographed, and be subject to a character investigation, prior to receiving a license. Strict rules will be enforced to guarantee that these licensees will not violate any laws or racing regulations.

The best part of legal pari-mutuel racing is the benefits it will bring you and your family in Bandera County. Racing will enhance Bandera's tourist industry to an unbelievable degree. This will set off an economic boom in the entire county like none the county has ever seen. Employment opportunities will be created overnight for literally hundreds of people, giving our young folks a chance to stay at home to seek their opportunities in life, instead of having to go elsewhere. Every element of the community will profit, from the bankers, to the lawyers, plumbers, carpenters, electricians, store clerks, and small businessmen.

COUNTY OPTION ELECTION (ELECCION DE OPCION LOCAL POR CONDADO)

INSTRUCTION NOTE: (NOTA DE INSTRUCCION): Place an "X" in the square beside the statement indicating the way you wish to vote. (Marque con una "X" el cuadro al lado de la frase que indica la manera en que usted quiere votar.)

No. 1 ☒ FOR (A FAVOR DE) ☐ AGAINST (EN CONTRA DE)

Legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse races in Bandera County. (Legalizando apuestas de carreras de caballos en el condado de Bandera.)

The benefits will be county-wide. Hundreds of horse owners will move here to establish horse farms over the county. These farms will employ people, buy wire and posts, build houses and barns, employ plumbers and electricians, and keep trainers, stable hands, and ranch foremen as part of the community.

Taxes will be paid by the race track and by the increased business brought into the county. The tax rolls will be increased, due to the large number of improvements to be made in the county on these horse farms, and new businesses. The new taxes raised from the race business could very well reduce your taxes.

Bandera County needs industry. Horse racing is an industry. It does not create smoke, or use water, or pollute the lakes, or use up natural resources, or cause any damage in the community. It is a clean industry, which only has one result -- to bring money and civic and economic improvement to the county.

This is literally the opportunity of your lifetime. All you need do is open the door. Vote YES next Tuesday. Our future depends on it.

Halloween:

School children, senior citizens and many local business folks have been busy preparing for Halloween, as Saturday, Oct. 31, approaches.

Costumes, decorations and festivities are appearing in abundance.

Tuesday, the Silver Sage Corral celebrated their monthly birthday luncheon with a costume party. There were 86 celebrants, some in costume, and some not.

Grace Wootton, dressed as a witch, claimed the best costume award, and May Bachelor, dressed as a clown, came in second.

Joyce Selberg's hat was called the most original costume, and Janelle Collier and Mary McCloskey tied for second. The Strand were named best costume couple, and the Dollies placed second.

"The luncheon was a howling success," said Edna Weinmeyer, director of the center. "It was the second highest attendance ever recorded at the center, and it's all those folks who were in costume. I have no idea that after all the purpose of the party."

Friday morning, Oct. 30, the pre-schoolers from Kindergarten and Noah's Ark will be out on the prowl. Tiny goblins, witches and other scary creatures will travel to Purple Hills Manor Nursing Home to sing Halloween songs, then on to several local businesses, where they will "Trick or Treat."

Friday afternoon, Alkek Elementary School will be the site of several classroom parties. "If we didn't have the school activities, some kids wouldn't have the opportunity to celebrate Halloween," said elementary principal Al Kinda. "It's a part of our culture."

Most of the elementary classes have spent the past few days making Halloween decorations, and the junior high school art class made masks and presented them to the kindergarten groups.

The junior high gymnasium will be the site of a costume dance Friday. Sponsored by the cheerleaders and pep squad, the dance is open to all students currently enrolled in BJHS, according to Principal Truman Donahoe.

"There will be door prizes, lots of music and a DJ," said pep squad sponsor Janice Pease. "The cost is $1, or 75 cents if you wear a costume."

The High School National Honor Society sponsored a bake sale this week to commemorate Halloween.

Saturday, Oct. 31, there are activities scheduled all around the county. Grace Lutheran Church will sponsor a Halloween Carnival starting at 6 p.m., with a pumpkin carving contest scheduled to be judged at 7 p.m. and a costume contest at 7:30 p.m.

In Pipe Creek, the Cub Scouts have scheduled a carnival from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Pipe Creek Community Center, with games, costume contest, "spook house" and other activities scheduled.

Medina Lake Betterment Association is also sponsoring a Halloween party at the Lakehills Civic Center, with games, costume contest and other activities to kick off at 6:30 p.m.

Costumes, festivities take center stage

Optimists name club leadership

Bill Hayes is the president of the Bandera Optimist Club and Peter Chapman and Dr. Louis Dubose are vice presidents.

Secretary-treasurer is Richard Thorner and directors are Charles Lundblad, Art Kitzman, Raymond Hicks, Bud Rihart, Dave Army and Emmitt Wilson.

Committee chairmen include Ron Pease of the Youth Center and Activities Committee, Doran Frisbee of the Community Service Committee, Al Heep of School Programs Committee, Doc Thompson of the Membership Committee, John Farley of the Fellowship Committee, Richard Thorner of the Sandridge Park Committee, Herb Young of the Publicity Committee, Bill Boyington of the Social Functions Committee, Dave Army of the Projects Subcommittee, Bud Rihart of the 10 p.m. at the Pipe Creek Community Center, with games, costume contest, "spook house" and other activities scheduled.

June Mathis's visitors included her husband, Luther Mathis, her son, Arthur Mathis, Dick Windstrup of Corpus Christi, Irene Smith from Pipe Creek, and Dotie Bundy from New Hampshire.

Myrtle Heinen's daughter-in-law, Catherine Crist and granddaughter Nancy Crist of San Antonio visited her Saturday morning.

J.B. Edwards took his mother Edith Edwards to services at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek Sunday.

On Sunday, Norma Barr came by for Mary Koehler and took her to church services. They enjoyed dinner at the church.

Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick took Jack Holloway, Elizabeth Kornegay and Frieda Moseley to services at the Church of Christ Sunday. They also visited their many friends while here.

Vivian and Buddy Lewis of Austin visited his aunt Clara Kelley.

We would like to welcome our new residents. We have had several the last few weeks. They are Charlie Rugh, Rev. J. Manly Reynolds, Helen Hamilton, Cecilia Leal, and Dock Jordan. We hope they will enjoy their stay with us.

Mada Wedgworth, Activity Director, and Julia McDaniel, retired LVN and Director of Nurses have returned from a two week vacation trip to the north-east. Points of interest they visited were Washington, D.C., Gettysburg and the Amish Country in Pennsylvania, Niagara Falls, New York and into Canada. On their return trip home they visited Mada's sister and husband, Edna and Bill Howard in Sulphur, Oklahoma and Julia's sister Margaret Compton in Ennis, Texas. They especially enjoyed the lovely fall foliage on their trip.

Keep western group to discuss history

An architectural and historical district ordinance will be discussed when Keep Bandera Western meets Thursday, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bandera Bank Community Room, according to Linda Stein.

Stein urged those interested in preserving Bandera's unique architectural style and history to attend the meeting. For more information, call 796-4582.

Senior Citizens

Pat Ebner, a registered nurse and representative of Geriatric Health Care, has offered an additional Blood Pressure Clinic for senior participants.

Due to budgetary restrictions, the Region 9 Public Health nurses from the Texas Department of Health said they were forced to alter their schedule to every other month, and Ebner has volunteered to conduct the clinic on those months when TDH is not available.

Initially the program will be limited to blood pressure and medication checks, but Ebner said she envisioned being able to expand shortly into a more comprehensive clinic. Ebner said she would answer questions and provide information on Medicare, home health requirements, service provider agencies, and other pertinent matters in the form of short discussion groups with clinic participants.

The blood pressure clinic will be 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on the first Wednesday of each odd-numbered month, starting Nov. 4. TDH will continue to provide Health Clinic from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on the first Wednesday of each even-numbered month and are due back at the center on Dec. 2.

Youngblood and Carollee Youngblood brought in items for our rummage sale on Nov. 6 and 7. Others who have household items, furniture, used appliances, bric-a-brac, toys, tools, clothing, or other items may bring it by the center or call 796-4969 for pick-up. Proceeds from such sales defray some of our monthly operating expenses so that other monies received can go towards the center's EX-PAN-S-I-O-N Fund. To date, only $2,000 has been raised of the $50,000 needed to construct and furnish the classroom addition.

• Mary Carpenter and Brenda Brown are encouraging volunteers for the Activities Day program for adult mentally retarded in Bandera County.

The center's board of directors voted recently to allow use of our facility for this purpose on a selected Saturday, and various other county agencies have pledged support.

A training program for potential workers is scheduled for 10 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 7, with representatives of Austin State School Outreach.

In addition to volunteers, they are also attempting to locate participants for the program. Those interested in the program, either as a worker, or as a parent or guardian of an adult, mentally retarded person who might benefit from the program may contact the Silver Sage Corral Senior Activity Center at 796-4969 or Bandera County Helping Hand at 796-8300.

• Lydia Harris of Hingham, Mass., and Caroline Harris of Longboat Key, Fla., visiting here with their uncle and brother, Henry (Hank) Keene, have contributed funds towards a new Texas flag for the center in honor of Hank.

• Pancakes and sausage are on the griddle again for the monthly First Tuesday Breakfast. Marie Holland and crew will be at work bright and early on Tuesday, Nov. 3 with serving to begin at 6:30 a.m.

Sage in bloom Letha Crumb raised raising raisins

Happy and healthy, 82-year-old Letha Crumb can be found most any time around or near the quilting frame at the Silver Sage Corral.

Born in Arkansas, the daughter of a carpenter-farmer, Letha learned grief when her father died. Her mother took in washing and ironing and did various jobs to support her three children and put them through high school.

Letha worked as housekeeper until she married James Matthew Crumb, a rancher, in 1933, and they had one daughter.

In 1936 they moved to California where James worked in the orchards, driving tractors, pruning and caring for vines and trees. Letha didn't like staying home and indoors and she joined James in the field when they harvested raisins.

Her eyes lit up as she told how well she and James worked with the men loading the raisins. "We'd handle those 3-foot racks like clockwork," she recalls. "You know, it's a pretty sight to see all those drying racks of raisins. I don't know how they do it now, but they used to set the grapes out in the sun for a month to dry."

The Crumbs moved to New Mexico in 1977 to retire and enjoy life. James died in 1977 and Letha stayed on until she fell and hurt her hip in 1986. At that time she was in a nursing home until her granddaughter thought Letha's daughter should take her to Odessa to live with her.

In 1987 they moved to Bandera, but Letha insisted on having her own apartment. "I feel better when I am on my own. I like to crochet, embroider and piece quilts. I do just about what I want to do," she chuckled.

"I have one daughter, two grandchildren, and six great grandchildren. That's a lot to be thankful for," she said. She is of Pentecostal persuasion and believes God watches over her.

"I like the center. The first time I came it was on a Monday, and everybody was so cheerful. I've been here every day this week sewing on the quilts," she said. She thinks the best way to live is to "Be good to others."

The pause that refreshes.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Next Tuesday is Election Day, but for many people, this day will have no more significance than National Smile Week or Jesse James birthday... because they don't vote.

This may sound like something out of an eighth grade civics book, but voting is still one of the most effective ways to influence the way things happen in this town, this county, this state, this country and even this world. It's the only way to make sure that your candidate gets in; the person who represents your views and your ideals, and the only way to oust a politician who has lost contact with the way the people in his district are thinking. The one-man-one-vote theory of democracy also serves as an equalizer. A man may have Tom Selleck's looks, the advantages of a fancy education, and $6 million to add to his campaign, but he can't get elected unless the average voter selects him or he gets in because of the lack of voter concern.

So get out and vote on Election Day. Vote only way you wish... JUST VOTE!

For the Very Best of Reasons... Bring Horse Racing Home To Texas

On November 3rd, you can go to the polls to bring a billion dollar business back to Texas. Join the forty other states that allow pari-mutuel horse racing and vote FOR... for the very best of reasons:

- Create 19,000 new jobs;
- Generate over $100 million in tax revenues to the state of Texas within five years;
- Pump $427 million into the pocketbooks of rural Texans by increasing demand for agricultural products;
- Create new business that will contribute $415 million to our troubled Texas economy;
- Keep Texas dollars spent on horse racing in other states flowing through our own economy;
- Contribute $1.2 billion in overall economic impact to Texas.

On November 3rd, look for the pari-mutuel referendum on the ballot after the 25 state constitutional amendments.

We will also vote on a separate pari-mutuel local option question on the ballot. Remember—you must vote twice for pari-mutuel horse racing.

Polo: Just another way to horse around

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

Bandera County is a horse country. We've got horse racing, rodeo, trail riding, cross country trials and just plain fun riding at the various dude ranches, so there appears to be something for everybody.

There is one more equestrian sport that may be going un-noticed by all but the few who participate in it.

Polo. That "hi-falutin", fancy, eastern-dude type sport with the funny saddles and all that hand full of rein so that a body can't handle the reins but hang on only there ain't no place to hang on to."

The main man in the promotion of this old game is Dr. Tolbert S. Wilkerson, a plastic surgeon from San Antonio.

He owns a 30-acre ranch on Tarpley Road which he plans to turn into a polo-pony raising enterprise complete with practice field and all the required accessories.

Polo may be enjoyed at the Retama Polo Center just off I-35 near Selma, north of San Antonio. Wilkerson's Chukka Creek team, which won the round robin last week will face off against Cibola Valley for the Autumn League championship on Sunday, Nov. 1.

at 4 p.m. Polo is an exciting, fast moving game that consists of teams of four riders and their mounts who try to whack an orange-sized ball through each other's goal area field hockey.

Each team member carries a long handled mallet with which he propels the ball, all the time trying to prevent his opposites from doing the same thing by using his horse and himself as a blocking device.

The winning team is the one which scores the most goals in the 42-minute match. The match is divided into six chukkers of seven minutes each, between which the players change mounts and equipment if necessary.

(The doctor has his way similar matches in the future will be a bit more handy to the folks in Bandera County.

Did You Know?

Gambling on horses already occurs in Texas but now only the bookies benefit. Pari-mutuel wagering would reduce illegal betting by giving bettors an honest state regulated alternative.

That was as close as it got all night, however, and the 'Cats took over again after four downs. With 1:40 left in the first half and the Bobcats on the Pirate-20.

'Cats win again

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

The Medina Bobcats advanced to the second round of the playoffs by sinking the Center Point Pirates, 21-0.

The homecoming win was Medina's first in six years, and the first time in six seasons that the 'Cats have defeated Center Point.

Medina racked up 347 yards of offense against 196 yards for the Pirates. Al Ferguson led the rushing with 173 and the junior fullback scored all three of the Bobcat TDs.

Medina lost no time in scoring after the opening kickoff, using only six plays and 2 1/2 minutes to move from their own 28 to the touchdown. Ferguson scored untouched from the 35 on a slant to the left.

The PAT attempt was blocked by Dusty Joiner.

During the second period, Center Point worked it's way to the Bobcats' after recovering a fumble on the Medina 45.

That was as close as it got all night, however, and the 'Cats took over again after four downs.

With 1:40 left in the first half and the Bobcats on the Pirate-20.

Ferguson again got the call and scampered the distance for the two-point conversion and that made the halftime tally Medina 14, CP zip.

Ferguson showed his running ability one more time early in the third quarter when he broke free of the Pirate defenders and went 68 yards for the final touchdown, and Green tied the extra point.

In spite of the win, Medina Coach Jerry Dodson had some harsh words for the way his team played.

"We were sluggish," he said. "We mentally were not there." He went on to say that all the activities of the weekend worked to distract his Bobcats as well as the anticipation of the next game.

"We have to play tough the next two games," said the coach.

"D'Hanis and Rocksprings will be our hardest games. D'Hanis played tough on Saturdays, so we'll need lots of support from the fans and we'll need to be ready mentally."

Medina will meet the Cowboys who are 4-0 district play in their own corral on Saturday, Oct. 31, at 2 p.m.

Turkey outlook 'good'

Add wild turkeys to the list of game species the Texas Parks and Wildlife says are having an excellent 1987. TPWD data already indicated that white-tailed deer and quail are in boom cycles across the state, and new information from the field shows Rio Grande turkeys also are flourishing. Don Wilson, upland game program leader, said the hen-poult count (the number of poult compared to the number of hens observed in the field) is more than twice the long-term average. "The statewide average count was 2.6 poult per hen this year, compared to 1.6 in 1986," said Wilson. "A count of one poult per hen is considered average."

Texas leads the nation in turkey populations, and this year the state boasts an estimated population of some 571,000 birds. Wilson said it was encouraging that some of the highest hen-poult ratios were in some of the most popular turkey hunting regions of the state. The Possum Kingdom region of West Texas, which runs roughly from Fort Worth to Midland, had the highest count at 3.45 poult per hen. The eastern portion of the Trans-Pecos registered a 2.27 count, while the Edwards Plateau had 2.88 poult per hen.

9½-pounder wins fishing tournament

Bobby West's 9.46-poundunker was the largest caught in the third annual Rebel Open Bass Tournament at Medina Lake Sunday in which a record number of entries participated.

West, of San Antonio, earned $964 and two trophies for his day of fishing. He was one of 251 entries in what officials called the largest fishing tournament ever for Medina Lake or any other San Antonio area reservoir.

West received a check for $500 for first place in the tournament and another check for $464 for his "big catch" which when coupled with another 2 pound bass he caught totaled 11.46 pounds.

Glenn Clark took home the second place trophy and $300 cash for his 8.26 pounder. Don Kindig won third place and received $250 cash and a trophy. In the women's division Evelyn Thienpont of San Antonio won $150 and a trophy for her two fish which totaled a weight of 2.46 pounds.

Junior division winner was 11-year-old Coke Stevenson Middle School student Anthony Duke with his 1.32 pound bass. He won a trophy and a $100 gift certificate. The San Antonio youth said, "I've been fishing this lake since I was three years old and this is the biggest fish I've ever caught."

Of the 240 entrants in the men's division 50 took home prizes for their day of fishing and relaxing. Among the winners were last year's first place winner, Mark Spennath. He took 21st place with his 3.26 pound bass. Last year his "big catch" weighed 7.04 pounds. In 50th place was Richard Baggs with a 1.56 pound bass. Each participant in the junior division took home a prize, although Anthony Duke was the only youth to catch a fish. Each of the participants in the ladies division also took home a prize. Thienpont was the only one of the four participants in that division to catch a fish.

"I fish Medina Lake a lot," she said. "I caught my first fish in the willows across from Sawmill Cove and the other one was in Haby's Cove," she said.

West caught his prize fish in Haby's Cove, he said. "I used Top Water Zebra Spook for bait," he said with a laugh. "I've been in every one of these tournaments and this is the biggest fish I ever caught."

West fishes with the Southwest Research Bass Busters club. The veteran fisherman said he's been fishing Medina Lake for 15 years and he'll definitely be back again next year for the tournament.

Tournament director Larry Steue expects the tournament to continue to grow and within two or three years to be one of the largest in the state. "I expect we'll have at least 300 participants next year," the sportsman said. In three tournaments we've come from 86 participants with one division to three divisions with 251 participants," he said.

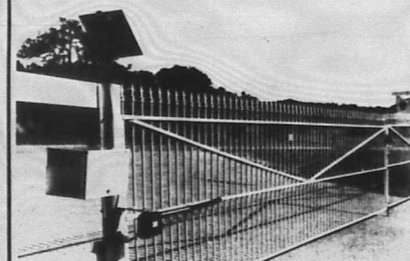

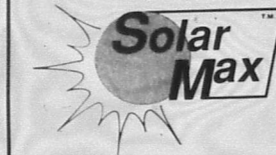

"When our directors decided to give a gift of $1,000 off the top of our entrance fees to an organization for kids, we didn't realize how difficult it would be to find an organization that the kids would get the full $1,000 without some of it going for administrative expenses or costs," he said. "The Elf Louise Christmas Project was decided on because all the money would go to the kids and not to pay salaries or expenses for workers," he added.

The tournament is held each year at Red Cove on the west side of Medina Lake. Red Cove owners Sherri and Bob Hollenbeck look forward to having the fishermen each year and this year they even served breakfast for the sportsmen when they started signing in at 4:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

Bob placed 13th with a 4.90-pounder. Both the Hollenbecks are looking forward to next year's tournament which promises to be even bigger and better than this year's.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

Now that the citizens of the county have made up their minds about legalized gambling, it is a good time to anticipate some of the consequences of their decision.

The expansion of the race track in terms of capacity and race days may or may not have the impact that many suspect it will. It could be just another business, only a little larger and a little more rapidly expanding. It is more likely, however, that there will be substantial repercussions, perhaps due as much to the fact that people think there will be substantial repercussions. That is, the forecast of a boom in business, population and property values may be a self-fulfilling prophecy because Americans in general and Texans in particular are so used to thinking in boom and bust terms. The fact that hordes of bettors will be descending on the county is not an unmitigated blessing. For too long, we have been sitting on our hands, waiting for someone else from somewhere else to come down from the sky like a god and bestow the easy life on the citizens of Fat City. Now more than ever there is no such thing as a free lunch. If gambling had not passed, there still would have been a host of problems to confront, and that still have to be confronted, only now with a little less breathing space.

The first, most obvious and most practical is Highway 16. After widening, it is much safer than it used to be in drivability, but less safe in traffic density. That is the perennial contradiction in road improvement. Pipe Creek in particular has become a gauntlet to run. As big a drag as it will be, there nevertheless needs to be a signal light and thirty-five mile limit now, not after several major collisions.

Just as important to some of us are the growing signs (literally) of visual pollution along 16. The highway is the front door to the county. If you were to hang garbage from your front door, you would be making a definite statement to visitors about the quality of residents within. As of now, there is limited legal authority for anyone to do anything about it, especially in a county where "private property" is a sacred belief rather than a legal principle. At the very least, however, those who spoil the beauty of these hills should know that they are unpopular, and the county should use vigorously what limited legal authority it does have, rather than ignoring it.

In a way, Highway 16 is only symbolic of a broader range of issues, all in one way or another associated with population growth. These issues — ranging from stray dogs to troubled juveniles, from water quantity and quality to subdivision regulations — continue to get talked around rather than acted upon.

That goes back to the county's tradition of government, which is to refuse to confront issues publicly, debate through the conflicts, and arrive at a policy that will be settled for at least a few months or even years.

In the recent past, there has instead been an on-again-off-again inconsistency, for example, with respect to Western architecture, annexation, the flood plain and billboards. It is like a rancher who decided to put stock on a pasture one day, shred it the next, and cultivate the day after that.

Texas political powers-that-be obviously not fully united

The Superpowers of Texas government, Bill Hobby, Gib Lewis and Bob Bullock, see some things differently these days, and because of it, Texas is never going to be the same.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Jack Rains predicted a low turnout for the Nov. 3 general election, a forecast reinforced by the small amount of pre-vote political activity. A new poll with no surprises indicated Texas strongly favor Vice President George Bush among Republicans and give Jesse Jackson a narrow edge among Democrats, with most voters undecided.

An unrelated Houston poll shows the stock market collapse did not affect the personal finances of most Texans. Fifty-five percent of respondents said they felt no impact, and only six percent said the collapse had a major impact on their positions.

In San Antonio, officials of urban counties meeting there approved a resolution asking the governor to call a special session to deal with the Legislature's deal with prison overcrowding.

Gov. Bill Clements, stumping for the proposed prison construction bonds, told the group he wants Texas to build 19,000 new prison beds in 1991 to ease overcrowding, but a prison reform group said more beds won't solve the problem.

CURE, Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errata, prefers the state commit to probation and parole reforms, and base sentencing guidelines on prison capacity. Clements fared badly in last week's popularity poll, and Attorney General Jim Mattox, appearing at the same San Antonio meeting, rapped the governor for lack of leadership.

Mattox also cast doubts on some of the bond proposals, saying he didn't "like moving away from a balanced-budget position." But some may recall that it was a Mattox official opinion last session that allowed the Legislature to issue cash management notes, or borrow, to accommodate state spending. Mattox is now running for governor.

Funds questioned
State Sen. Frank Tejeda, D-San Antonio, asked two Supreme Court chief justice candidates to return campaign contributions from law firms and lawyers with cases pending before the high court.

But his targets, Supreme Court Justices Robert Campbell and Ted Robertson, said it would be impossible.

Reports show Campbell, since 1985, has received $212,868 in contributions from parties with pending cases. Robertson's files show $27,400, or 52 percent of his 1987 campaign funds came from parties with docketed cases.

Tejeda, who chaired the special legislative panel which last year investigated charges of impropriety of two other justices, said returning the money would remove the perception that justice is for sale in Texas.

Lease questioned
Comptroller Bob Bullock and Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said there was nothing wrong with the lease by which Bullock leased, Lillie Thompson, Barbara Walters, Mada Wedgworth, Lyndell Williams, Valerie Coyle.

Bandera County potpourri

By Nick Johnson

The boards of regents of The University of Texas System and of the A&M University System are the two most coveted appointments in Texas, most observers agree. Governors since day one have reserved these appointments for their closest friends, for their largest contributors, and for their most powerful acquaintances.

The list of members of these two boards, past and present, reads like a who's who of the rich, famous and powerful in Texas. But despite their collective power and their congregated influence, the boards of both great university systems must make a biennial trek to the legislature, hat in hand, to ask for operating funds.

The State Highway Commission, the Public Safety Commission and the Public Utilities Commission have a few things in common. All have a tremendous economic impact on the lives of all Texans; all are appointed; none have the power to tax.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in one of its most important decisions, once said "the power to tax is the power to destroy." It's the one all-consuming power almost universally reserved for your elected representatives. The city council, commissioners court and school boards have that power, because they are composed of your elected representatives. Persons you elected and can remove.

Appointed bodies, however, are denied that power. Except the Bandera County River Authority.

We wonder why? An oversight, perhaps. But, in any case, it's something that should be looked into and perhaps changed.

A view from the lake

By Lila MacMillan

How often do we hear people refer to the underdog as a unique place. I think we all believe it's the most unique place in Texas to live. But, we don't have a monopoly on the word "unique."

This week an article caught my eye in the Westlake Postcure. That's the paper that serves the Eanes Communities on the Colorado River Westbank near Austin. The headline read Merchants want bigger signs.

I immediately compared the Bandera City Council's struggle to eliminate big signs and go to smaller signs with the story. It seems they have a "unique" community and they only allow merchants in multi-tenant shopping centers to have a sign with their name and street number on it.

No illuminated signs are allowed and one merchant says 70 percent of his customers don't come from the direct area and he needs a sign so they will see where he is located. Many other merchants feel they are losing business because potential customers don't see the signs.

With the economy such as it is, merchants in Westlake and Bandera both need all the help they can get to attract customers.

Not too long ago I directed someone from Lakehills to a bank on Main Street in Bandera. He said he drove up and down Main Street three times and never did find the bank I directed him to.

A lot of thought and consideration needs to be given to the matter of signs before merchants are bound to a certain size and height.

Bandera's "unique" and it'll always be "unique" because the people make it that way. Not the signs.

Fish stocking provokes warning from warden

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

That's the warning Bandera County game warden Carl Becker wants to give to all the folks enjoying the renewed fishing above the Bandera city park dam on the Medina River.

Becker's concern comes from the fact that people are catching undersized bass in the area above the dam because the restocking that took place there Friday, Oct. 30.

An undersized bass is less than 14 inches in length. Catfish were introduced also, and nine inches is the shortest allowed for that species, Becker says.

Possession of undersized fish carries a fine of $200 for each fish, and Becker cautioned anglers to be sure of the sizes of their catch before placing them on a stringer.

He also said that fishermen needed to be aware of the daily bag limits of five for bass and 25 for catfish.

Briefly noted

Bank deposits in Bandera County on Sept. 30 were down slightly compared to their level of three months ago and loans were also down by 11 percent, consolidated reports of conditions published this week show.

The totals include deposits and loans in banking institutions only, not savings and loan institutions which are not required to publish this information.

Deposits in both banks on Sept. 30 totaled $49,566,000, down 10 percent from $50.4 million three months ago. Loans on Sept. 30 totaled $3.4 million, down from $3.6 million last quarter.

Total assets of both banks also declined slightly during the past three months, their own reports show. Both banks reported combined assets of $53.8 million, down from $54.6 million three months ago.

The Texas Supreme Court ruled unanimously that mandatory lie detector tests for state mental health employees are unconstitutional. The state began using the tests in 1983 amid probes of patient abuse.

The number two mental health official, Deputy Commissioner Dr. Frankie Williams, announced she will retire at year's end. The top official quit less than a month ago.

Mattox fights PUC rule
After returning from his trip to the Soviet Union, Mattox vowed to fight a ruling which prohibits his intervention in utility rate cases.

The Public Utility Commission barred the attorney general from representing state agencies in rate cases, saying it conflicted with his interest in defending the commission in lawsuits about its rate decisions.

Mattox verbally ripped the PUC's newest member, Marta Greytak, as a Republican who doesn't know very much about the rate-making process.

Greytak had singled out Mattox, a consumer-oriented Democrat, for criticism when the decision was handed down.

The PUC contends that state agencies can still be represented without Mattox by using in-house or outside lawyers, and commissioners pointed out that Mattox has also been barred from intervening in cases before the Railroad Commission and State Board of Insurance.

Mattox has asked the State Supreme Court to overturn the decision.

A lot of thought and consideration needs to be given to the matter of signs before merchants are bound to a certain size and height.

Bandera's "unique" and it'll always be "unique" because the people make it that way. Not the signs.

• An Austin state district court ordered

Richard Thornber

Richard Thornber of Bandera has announced his intention to run for Bandera County commissioner in precinct 11 in December. He will officially file for the office on the Republican ballot for the March primary race.

Thornber and his wife Amy, came to Bandera in 1978. They live in Mason Creek Estates, where they have several hundred fruit and nut trees they raise as a hobby.

Thornber is now in his fourth year on the vestry of St. Christopher's Church, has been chairman of the county extension service agricultural committee, is an officer in the Bandera Optimist Club, and served on the Bandera County Sequenential Committee.

He is also served on the Scout Council, the county agent's Long Range Study Group, and is currently a member of the Bandera County Republican Party Executive Committee. He is also a member of the Apple Growers Association and is precinct chairman in precinct 11 for the November election.

For two years he was nurseryman at the feed store and garden center in Bandera.

After retiring from the U.S. Air Force, the Thornbers settled in McAllen and Richard began raising oranges and grapefruits. During the next five years he completed his college education in business and accounting at Pan American University and took extensive courses in horticulture and agriculture at Texas A&I Westlake Research Center.

After their two sons left McAllen to pursue their careers in the Houston area, the Thornbers moved to Bandera, "where the climate was better suited for Amy's health," he says.

"We came to Bandera because the people here are so friendly, the climate is so much better, and the agricultural opportunities are more," Thornber said. "We like Bandera's unique character and unspoiled environment," he said.

"I want to help maintain the character and environment and be part of creating plans to oversee programs which will allow orderly growth and development in the county without destroying the natural resources we have here," Thornber said.

Bishop elected
The Rt. Rev. John H. MacNaughton of San Antonio, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of West Texas, has been elected to a six-year term on the executive council of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Bishop MacNaughton was elected by the synod of Province VII, a meeting of more than 120 delegates from 12 Episcopal dioceses in the Southwest which was held in Wichita, Kan. Oct. 20-23. His term will begin in the fall of 1988.

"Participation will be limited, so please call the extension office (796-7755) if you plan to attend," said Smithheiser.

Bandera firefighters enter smoke-filled house

Volunteer firefighters practice

Firefighters fought a blaze in a Tarpley-area house twice Sunday, but it was only practice for volunteers of two departments honing their skills for the day when they will have to fight similar blazes for real.

The home was donated for training purposes to the Tarpley VFD by Bryan Weiner of the Twin Falls Ranch near Tarpley, and the Tarpley firefighters teamed with volunteers of the Bandera VFD Sunday for an exercise at the site.

Members of the Tarpley department ignited the fire, and then observed the Bandera department extinguish it, and the Bandera department re-ignited it and then observed as the Tarpley firefighters put it out.

Actually, the home was not burned down, but only filled with smoke from a fire built inside so firefighters could practice moving around in a smoke-filled environment by use of breathing equipment. The home will be used in the future for additional training, firefighters said.

In Sunday's training, each department was required to arrive at the fire scene, assess the situation, place equipment, force entry into the house, and locate and suppress the fire while searching for and rescuing any victims in the building.

While one department went through its paces, the other group of firefighters carefully monitored it for safety.

Many offices to close Vet's Day

All federal, state, county, and city offices will close along with all the banks in Bandera County in observance of Veteran's Day, Wednesday, Nov. 11.

There will be no mail service or route deliveries, according to officials at the Post Office. The Bandera County courthouse will be closed, and so will the city building. The state highway department will also close its offices and its employees will be off duty. Among the financial closing will be First State Bank of Bandera, First State of Lakehills, Bandera Bank, San Antonio Savings Association, and First Federal of Austin institutions.

One suspect indicted in Sherwood case

The Bandera County grand jury indicted 21-year-old James Michael Clark of San Antonio on murder charges and passed on two other suspects in the murder case, district attorney Bruce Curry said.

"We will have additional evidence at the next grand jury session on Nov. 25. There could be more indictments and arrests to come following that," Curry said. Clark was arrested along with the former wife of the murder victim on Oct. 6. Sharon Sherwood is Clark's sister. She was released from Bandera County Jail on Oct. 16 after her bond was reduced to $300,000. Clark remains in Bandera County Jail in lieu of a $250,000 bond. Another man, Robert Coalson, was arrested in the murder case and released after his bond was reduced to $50,000 on Oct. 5.

Randy Sherwood was murdered in his fashionable Pebble Beach home on Medina Lake July 16. He was shot twice in the head and his throat was slashed twice.

An intensive investigation has been ongoing since July and the motive for the brutal murder is believed to be a dispute over Sherwood's visitation rights to see his two-year-old son. The boy is with his mother.

Sheriff Guy Pickett has said all along he believes another arrest will be made in the murder case.

Bandera school to enter national academic contest

Bandera High School students will participate in a social studies academic competition which could lead to a scholarship and a study trip to Washington, D.C. later this year.

The school has registered to participate in the Close Up Foundation Citizen Bee.

The Citizen Bee is an academic competition that focuses on social studies and progresses through school, regional, and state events. Finalists compete for the national title in Washington in June 1988.

Three Bandera students will advance to regional competitions with top students there going to the state finals.

Each of the schools registering for the event is permitted an unlimited number of participants and each school will receive a number of copies of "CLOSE UP USA," a source book from which most of the questions will be derived.

State winners earn a trip to Washington where they will participate in the foundation's government studies program as well as the competition. Winners of the national event receive college scholarships. The Milken Family Foundation is the national sponsor of the Citizen Bee with additional support provided by RJR.

Clare Roberts, an educator at Bandera, will be coordinating the Citizen Bee at the school.

Heinen recuperating

Hazel Heinen is recuperating in a San Antonio hospital following eye surgery last week. The left eye was operated on this time and she will return to the hospital in January for surgery on the right eye.

Buried in Del Rio

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nance were accompanied by Hazel Heinen to Del Rio last weekend for the funeral of their sister, Lou Ella Jill Rust.

Kathy Cloninger has been named executive director of the San Antonio Area Council of Girl Scouts. She has been a management consultant of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in the Dallas Field Center and prior to working for Girl Scouts of U.S.A. in the Dallas Field Center, Cloninger was executive director of the Mountain Prairie Girl Scout Council in Greeley, Colo.

BRAC to nominate new slate of officers

The Bandera Ranch Area Club will nominate officers Thursday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bandera Bank Community Room.

This is an important meeting, and members are urged to attend. Officers of the club for next year will be nominated and plans made for the big Christmas Party in December," spokeswoman Phyllis Dark says.

Preventive Dentistry Makes Sense

Healthy teeth and gums are a sure sign of overall good health, and a sparkling smile can do wonders for your self-esteem. However, a trip to the dentist is something most of us would like to avoid. American Dental Association statistics tell us that less than half of Americans have regular periodic check-ups even though we know that is the best way to prevent costly and uncomfortable dental problems. Preserve your beautiful smile and that of your family by seeing your dentist every 6 months.

Around the Town

By Sharon Revere

Robert Earl Keen is off to Nashville this week to meet with publishing companies regarding new music.

I can't wait to hear the latest collection of Robert's music. Maybe we'll have it soon!

In the meantime, "No Kinda Dancer," Robert's first album released in 1985, is a treat to listen to. All the songs were written by Robert Earl and he plays acoustic guitar on each one.

Billboard magazine gave "No Kinda Dancer" an impressive review (something to be proud of) and Australia's Country Music Monthly especially appreciated "Young Love's Waltz" and "Swingin' in My Lane."

Robert Earl established himself in Texas as an important singer-songwriter by winning the 1983 Kerrville Folk Festival New Folk Songwriter's Contest and by winning the 1984-85 Austin Chronicle Music Poll's Songwriter of the Year Award.

Since 1985 he has been a mainstay at the Kerrville Folk Festival and was chosen as one of ten acts to return to the 1987

Summer Lights Festival in Nashville.

In 1985 Robert Earl signed with Rounder, Philo Records after moving to Nashville from Austin. In January 1986, he played the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in a concert headlining Emmylou Harris and including Nanci Griffith, Peter Rowan and Tom Rush. And in March 1986, Robert debuted his album, "No Kinda Dancer," in a nationwide television performance on the Nashville Network's "New Country."

Robert Earl has shared the bill with or opened shows for Ricky Skaggs, Michael Martin Murphy, John Hartford, Nanci Griffith, New Grass Revival, Jerry Jeff Walker, Riders in the Sky and Guy Clark, to name a few.

Robert Earl and his wife Kathleen moved to Bandera in March of 1987 and he has set up his publishing company, Keen Edge Music, here in town.

He travels a lot to perform, but locally you can see him at Bobby Mack's in Kerrville and Gruene Hall.

Big Bend is awesome

By John Cook
Southwest Regional Director
National Park Service

I was born at the Grand Canyon a half-century ago and I've been to all four national parks since as a spectator, ranger, superintendent and regional director.

But I've never been to a place where I've felt so much at home as at Big Bend National Park in Texas, unless maybe it is Anaktuvuk Pass at Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve in Alaska.

It's lonely in Big Bend Country, as it is at the Arctic Circle, and you can see forever. But it's incredibly beautiful, a fairytale of odd desert plants and animals that would feel at home in a Dr. Seuss kids' book.

Big Bend National Park is not the kind of place where you wheel into the visitor center, quick stop to the restroom, buy a bottled pop, watch a slide show and hit the freeway. Nor is it a place where you casually pass through on the way to somewhere else. It's a destination.

And you can't get a good look at it in an hour. Maybe not even in a week.

The park is actually bigger than some countries. More than 1,100 square miles is preserved within the great curve of the Rio Grande, a stark, rugged, eerie and strangely beautiful land of tarantulas, rattlesnakes, javelinas, cactuses, amara, out of the ordinary life forms because they have spent tens of thousands of years figuring out how to protect themselves from desert heat and how to conserve water.

Although it might be forbidding to some at first, it's easy to get used to the open space and big sky of the Southwest, as those of us who are comfortable with it know. The center of the park, my favorite part, is the Chisos Mountains, a moist cluster of peaks surrounding a bowl-shaped garden spot known as the Chisos Basin.

As you drive into the mountains, the shrubby desert plants give way to shady juniper, oak and piñon trees. At 5,400 feet elevation, the Basin offers a lofty woodland retreat, much cooler than the surrounding country, where you can hike, camp, ride horseback, picnic, take pictures or drink in the mountain scenery.

There is lodging in the Basin, as well as a campground, meals, and other services.

Big Bend is unique as it's neither Junction, 10 miles from the Basin. Here you can get information about such things as road conditions and special programs. From headquarters rangers can direct you to the other developed areas in the park. One is Rio Grande Village, a beautiful spot where you can fish, camp, picnic and explore the contrasts between the river floodplain and the arid desert. Another is Castolon, situated on a floodplain terrace overlooking the river.

Eight miles from Castolon is Santa Elena Canyon, one of the deepest gorges cut by the river. From the parking area you can follow a short nature trail into the canyon.

In addition to the developed areas, Big Bend has a vast primitive backcountry and you can backpack for days on end. Float trips on the Rio are also possible.

What intrigues me about the park is the interplay of the desert — 98 percent of the area — with the river and the mountains. Together these three environments support life in quantities far more abundant than you would expect.

For my part, I like to pause at the Window — a cut between monumental rock bluffs that was formed by Oak Creek, the Chisos Basin's only drainage outlet. From this lofty perch, I can take an awesome panorama of desert beauty all the way to the distant Rio Grande and beyond, listen to the sounds of silence and stay cool in the shade of a giant boulder.

In the heart of the scenic Davis Mountains of West Texas, Davis Mountains State Park is comprised of over 1800 acres of gentle, grass-covered land. The mild climate here is ideal for camping, hiking, bird-watching, and even star-gazing, due to the exceptionally clear air. The mountains are particularly beautiful now, due to the plentiful rainfall the area has received in recent years. The park is 90 miles west-southwest of Fort Stockton. Ancient craft of card weaving demonstrated at Silver Sage

By Janna Sandridge
Staff Writer

Artist Faye Drozd of Ingram's Hill Country Arts Foundation demonstrated the ancient craft of card weaving Thursday at the Silver Sage Corral.

According to Drozd, card weaving has been done since antiquity and she learned it by watching others and "picked it up out of a book."

"If you understand weaving, you can do it," Drozd said. "Learning the technique is a one-day thing, but you can make it more complicated."

Card weaving dates back to Egypt or 4000 B.C.

By Harry Webb

Card weaving as we know it, or tablet weaving as it is called in England, is an interesting flexible method of weaving without a loom. It has been practiced for centuries and has actually been traced back to approximately 4000 B.C. when it was invented and developed by the Egyptians.

Actual woven samples dating back to approximately 800 B.C. have been found in Egypt. These samples were woven of linen and rami in this ancient time.

For many centuries in the United States and Europe, there were found cards or wooden and leather tablets in many museum collections, however there was no technical information about how these tablets were used. It wasn't until about 1899 that a woman in Berlin reconstructed the method of card weaving from Icelandic sources.

This discovery aroused great interest and it was found that in many countries, particularly Africa, Arabia, Iceland, Japan, China, Norway, the same techniques were being used.

In Norway, one of the oldest of a ruling queen of 850 A.D. was opened and in it were found 52 tablets threaded and partially woven.

There is an example of card weaving in a camera strap displayed at the Doane Gallery in Frontier Times Museum. The Doane Gallery has an exhibit of fiber art and fine art, by Harry and Vivian Webb this month.

The Silver Sage Corral teaches weaving on the four harness foot loom, four harness table loom, table loom and card weaving.

Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

She went on to explain that the size of the project is dependent on the number of cards. "You can make anything as wide as the number of cards you can hold," she commented. A hand about nine inches wide requires about 25 cards, she said. Drozd says she has been weaving for "12 or 14 years." "I originally learned weaving in Corpus Christi, from a girl who came from Vermont."

Card woven fabric is normally called a warp-faced material because the warp is the dominant thread, according to Harry Webb, who teaches several types of weaving at the Silver Sage Corral.

The web shows only slightly and is primarily only a binder, says Webb. "The fabrics are extremely strong lengthwise because they are created by the twisting of the threads on each card together as one thread." The usually narrow bands have many uses, from decorations for clothing to toasters, bands and sashes.

The main items required for card weaving are cards or tablets, a shuttle or beater, and some type of thread.

Cards are usually 3 1/2 inches square, with rounded corners to facilitate turning. Webb says a 3/4 inch hole is placed near each corner. "All cards in a set must match with size and hole placement," he explained. Good firm cardboard with smooth edges is commonly used, and the average number of cards used is between 10 and 45. Perle cotton and crocheted thread are popular, and the web material is usually the same size as the warp.

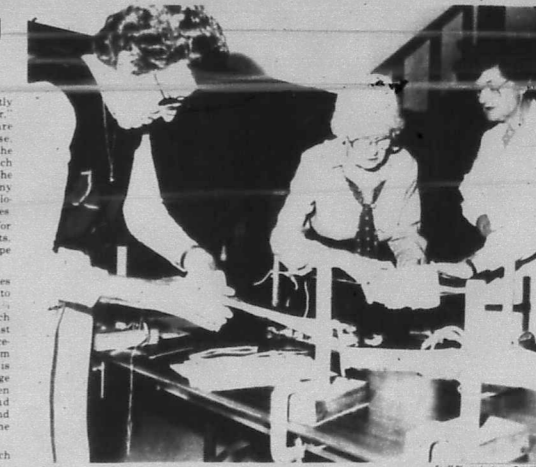

"Weaving is beginning to catch on in Texas now," Drozd says.

Although card weaving is a craft, including weaving and crocheting, Drozd says her main love is spinning yarn. "Yarn can be spun from a variety of materials," she explains, "including dog hair, rabbit hair, and many different fibers."

Class of 1978 planning reunion

Members of the 1978 graduating class of Bandera High School plan to meet Saturday, Nov. 7 at the home of Tilly Robbins in Bandera to start organizing its 10-year reunion.

"Anyone interested in helping should attend the meeting, which will begin at 6 p.m.," Gloria Robbins said.

Read food labels carefully to learn saturated fat content

Reducing your intake of saturated fat can help lower blood cholesterol levels and reading labels carefully can help you regulate your levels of saturated fats, says Dr. Alice Hunt of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Even if a label states, "Made with 100 percent pure vegetable oil," the oil may not be low in saturated fatty acids, she warns.

"Although all vegetable products are cholesterol free," says Hunt, a nutrition specialist, "the fact is palm, palm kernel and coconut oils are highly saturated."

They contain more saturated fatty acids than soybean, cottonseed, safflower and corn oils. They actually contain twice the saturated fat of animal fats.

Dr. Al Wagner, an Extension food technologist, says palm, palm kernel and cottonseed oils contain between 51 and 87 percent saturated fatty acids. Soybean oil has 14 percent, cottonseed has 23 percent, corn oil has 13 percent and sunflower is the lowest with 10-11 percent.

"It is easy to confuse fats and oils," says Wagner. "One must remember that all oils are 100 percent fat."

Fats that contain mostly saturated fatty acids are solid at room temperature and fats that contain mostly unsaturated fatty acids are liquid.

"The exceptions are coconut, palm and palm kernel oils which are mostly saturated and liquid at room temperature," Hunt says.

Hunt reports palm, palm kernel and coconut oils are frequently used in processed foods.

Texas second in fishing licenses

Texas ranks second only to California in numbers of fishing licenses sold, according to the Sport Fishing Institute. During fiscal year 1986, Texas had 1,934,808 paid fishing license holders, compared to California's 2,347,325. While California had only about 400,000 more license purchasers than Texas, its anglers paid considerably more for licenses, tags, permits and stamps. The gross cost to California fishermen during the year was some $36.7 million, while Texas anglers spent only about $15.5 million.

Hunters to dine, dance on Nov. 14.

Hunters coming to the Lakehills area for the first weekend of hunting season will be welcomed at St. Victor's Catholic Chapel with a turkey supper and at the Lakehills Civic Center with a country-western dance.

St. Victor's will serve a turkey dinner with all the trimmings beginning at 5 p.m. on Nov. 14. The ladies of the altar society at the church will also have a table of homemade cakes and pies for those wishing dessert, spokeswoman Cecilia Hartmann said. She also has a table with homemade Christmas ornaments and decorations for those wishing to shop for something unusual and different, she added. The Medina Lake Betterment Association hopes to reinstate the monthly dances at the Lakehills Civic Center such as were held in years past, president Peggy Ashmore said. "We have lined up the River City Kings to kick off the dance schedule on Nov. 14 at 9 p.m.," she said. "They are a real good country-western band and they will have music selections for every age group." Ashmore added. The snack bar will be open during the dance for those that missed the turkey supper at the church. The band is scheduled to play until 1 a.m. Admission will be $3 per person or $5 for a couple, she said. The dinners at the church will be $3.50 for adults and kids can eat for $2, Hartmann said.

Halloween party in LH draws more than 100

There were over 100 youngsters attending the Halloween Party, Peggy Ashmore said following the annual Halloween Party at the Lakehills Civic Center. "We prepared treat bags for 100 of all adults usually or always skip it, and fewer people than ever are eating breakfast at home," she said. Winners in the costume contest judged by Pauline Turner and Mariel Munna were Nikki Pumphrey and Beckah Quares in the under-5 year old category. Travis Lara and Brandi Christ were winners in the four-year-old to six-year-old category. Jeremy Leland and Derek Pawly won the seven-year-old to 10-year-old category. Vonda Buser and Staci Clark won the 11-year-old to 13-year-old, and Michelle Ashmore and Linda McNeely won for 14-year-olds and up.

EMS support team to celebrate awareness month in November

"November has been declared EMS Awareness Month by the Lakehills EMS Support Team," support team president Nancy Oehler announced last week. "During the month we hope to recognize some of our outstanding EMS and raise funds to complete some of our building projects," director Kay Solomon said. "There are continuing needs to complete and maintain the station. The building is approximately 75 percent complete. We need to provide heating units for the training and modular classrooms," Oehler said. "Although ceiling fans have been donated, we still need electrical materials and someone to install them," she said. Some type of floor covering is also needed for the training area," she said.

A gasoline storage tank and a pump would expedite fueling the ambulances, if they were on the premises, she said. "We have included the Mico community in our fundraising campaign this year," Oehler said. "Our Lakehills EMS has been serving the Mico community as well as Lakehills and we'd like to give the residents there an opportunity to join our support team and offer their support," she added. On Nov. 14 and 15 the Lakehills EMS Support Team and EMS will be at the intersection of Park Road 37 and Highway 1283 from 10 a.m. to dark soliciting donations. "Donations can be made in person or by mail. Donations made to the Lakehills EMS Support Team will stay in the support of the Lakehills Chaparral EMS. Donations will also provide funds for the building operating expenses for the coming year, Oehler said.

The mailing address for donations is P.O. Box 524, Lakehills, 78063. Checks should be made payable to Lakehills EMS Support team Inc. Whatever your preference, the "Giving Quick Take" should help get your creative juices stirring. For a quick fix breakfast treat, fill a small pita with cottage cheese flavored with chopped dates or raisins, chopped walnuts and a dash of nutmeg, or faster yet, sprinkle granola and chopped apple on a serving of cottage cheese and then enjoy. Forget the burger and try this Bacon Cheddar Cheese Spread on your favorite roll. Combine 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese, at room temperature, with one-fourth cup dairy sour cream and 1/2 teaspoon finely chopped onion and 1 slice cooked.

Driving course offered Nov. 9 and 10 in Lakehills

A defensive driving course that qualifies graduates for automobile insurance discounts for three years will be offered Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 9 and 10, at the Lakehills United Methodist Church.

The classes will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on each day, said spokeswoman June Settemeyer. A fee of $2 per person will be charged. Settemeyer said.

Valero reports smaller losses

Valero Energy Corporation, which has a booster plant near Bandera, this week reported a third quarter net loss of $31.2 million, or $1.21 per share, compared to a net loss of $42.6 million, or $1.80 per share, during the same quarter of 1986.

Fewer people than ever eating breakfast at home

Say "breakfast" to some people and a big, hearty breakfast of home fries, warm biscuits, bacon, eggs and fresh-squeezed orange juice pop into their heads.

Oh, to wish that one had more time to fix a well-balanced breakfast other than on an occasional weekend!

While most adults would agree that breakfast is an important meal, approximately one-fourth of all adults usually or always skip it, and fewer people than ever are eating breakfast at home.

If you're a member of this group, why not put your time-management skills into action and opt for a breakfast that can be quickly prepared and eaten at home, or put together at your desk. With a little advance planning, one can enjoy a breakfast that supplies the energy and important nutrients needed by the body throughout the day.

Consider some basic options: an eight-ounce carton of yogurt, a half cup of cottage cheese, one and one-half slices of cheese, a slice of bread, a cup of ready-to-eat cereal and a medium size apple or orange. Foods from each of the basic four food groups that can be mixed and matched in a variety of simple breakfast combinations.

For example, on mornings when nothing seems to go right, spread one-half cup of ricotta cheese on a slice of whole grain bread and top it with a teaspoon of jam or a sprinkling of cinnamon. Or, if bagels are your favorite, spread on some cream cheese and top with slices of apple.

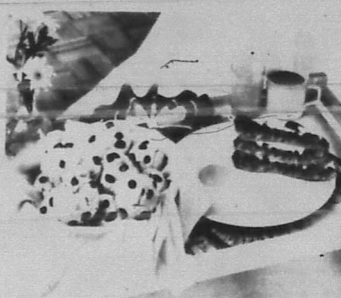

Open-faced breakfast sandwiches can also be put together quickly and broiled in a countertop oven. Slices of tomato and hard-cooked egg topped with a slice of lowfat cheese provide an unusual but tasty breakfast entrée.

When time is more abundant on the weekends, cook some extra breakfast foods and freeze them, to reheat in the microwave during the week. Whole wheat pancakes to which Cheddar or Swiss cheese and crumbled bacon have been added will provide the extra staying power needed for a busy morning at work. Forget the traditional topping of butter and maple syrup; they're tasty enough to eat "as is."

And don't overlook a piece of leftover cheese pizza or cottage cheese-bacon quiche as a sound way to start off the day. Or a "reverse" cocktail hour and green grapes, a slice or two of Swiss cheese and some crackers.

Post these suggestions on the refrigerator door so that the next time you think of leaving the house without breakfast, you'll have a ready supply of tasty ideas worth waking up for.

Wake up to a breakfast of bacon, eggs, muffins, coffee and juice some weekend soon.

Hotel-motel income declines in Texas

Texas hotel and motel room revenues for the first half of 1987 declined 4.4 percent from the year-ago level, according to the October issue of The Texas Tourism Report.

At the same time, passenger traffic increased at all nine metropolitan airports that the newsletter surveyed in Texas.

The data suggests that the increasing number of air travelers coming to Texas wasn't sufficient to offset an oversupply of hotels in many Texas cities, said John G. Edwards, editor of The Texas Tourism Report.

While the total revenue from rental of hotel rooms fell $34.1 million to $772.6 million statewide, the number of inns and lodges rose from 4,143 to 4,177, according to data that the newsletter obtained from the office of Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock. In Austin and San Antonio, total revenues from the rental of hotel rooms increased during the first six months of 1987. But the total number of hotels in the two cities also increased, and some hotels in the Central Texas cities are in financial binds, the newsletter reported.

In Austin, room revenues rose 1.5 percent to $47.4 million, and the number of hotels increased from 104 to 120.

In San Antonio, inns collected $74.3 million from renting their guest rooms — 1.9 percent more than in the first six months of 1986. The number of lodges rose as well in San Antonio from 179 to 187.

Dallas and Fort Worth hotels were hardest hit.

In Dallas, hotel room revenues fell 9.1 percent to $127.2 million during the first half of 1987, and room revenues plunged a steeper 10.7 percent in neighboring Fort Worth.

The pie was bigger, but more hoteliers were taking a piece of it, Edwards said.

Shark: Better to eat than most think

"Just when you thought it was safe to return to the theater, Jaws IV has been released. If you don't enjoy shark at the theater, try it on your dinner plate — it is much tastier," says Karen Mitchell at the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Shark is making its debut as an entrée on many restaurant menus and in many Texas kitchens. Several features of shark make it an especially appealing food. It lacks bones, has a firm texture and is sold at an economical price, advises Mitchell.

Perhaps most important, shark is a mild tasting fish, similar to swordfish in flavor. It is ideal for grilled steaks and kabobs or gumbo and crochets. Shark can be cooked just like any other fish — baked, broiled, fried, smoked or grilled.

Shark is available fresh or frozen and can be purchased in the form of steaks or fillets. Prepare shark as soon after purchase as possible. It is not used within 24 hours of purchase, freeze in an airtight wrapper.

There are some 400 species of shark in the world. Fifteen species are found near the Texas coast, however, large sharks prefer deep water and usually avoid the shallow Texas shoreline. Those caught in the Gulf of Mexico weigh under 300 pounds and are 3-7 feet in length.

Broiled Shark Steaks

1 lb fresh shark steaks (1" thick)
1 c soy sauce
2 T sunflower or peanut oil
1 T finely grated lemon peel
2 T lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
chopped parsley for garnish
Combine soy sauce, oil, lemon peel, lemon juice and garlic in shallow dish. Add fish, cover and marinate in refrigerator for 1 or 2 hours. Drain; reserve marinade. Broil shark 4 inches from heat source, cooking 5 minutes on first side. Turn shark, broil with marinade and broil for 5 more minutes. Sprinkle with parsley if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Foreign study opportunity available

An educational organization called Open Door is now accepting applications for host families and foreign exchange students offering them the opportunity to meet and become acquainted with those from other cultures. The program allows students to live and study in foreign lands.

Countries participating in this program include many from the Americas, Europe, the Middle East, and Asia. Scholarships are also available to host students and those traveling abroad.

Exchange students live and study abroad during a summer, semester or a full year. They may attend high school classes or participate in homestays, special art-related programs, or a young journalist program. The deadline for applying for the summer of 1988 is April 15, 1988.

Host families are urgently needed for the large number of foreign exchange students due to arrive in the U.S. this fall and winter. These students will stay in the United States either for three months, a semester (five months), or the school year (ten months). Families that host exchange students are asked to provide room, board, and parental supervision. Students bring pocket money for personal items, and medical and accident insurance is provided by Open Door.

If you would be interested in participating in this program please contact: Open Door Student Exchange, 250 Fulton Avenue, P.O. Box 71, Hempstead, NY 11551, or call (516) 486-7300.

Bulldogs break streak at 13 by defeating SS

Bandera Bulldogs defeated Southside Friday night 27-22 for their first victory this year, breaking a 13 game losing streak and winning their first district game in two years.

Quarterback Ronnie Bain had a super game and was named MVP as a Friday night hero by the San Antonio Light.

In the first quarter Eric Koog scored the first touchdown and Neil Graves made the only extra point of the evening.

In the second quarter, Koog and Bain scored once each to keep the Dogs ahead 19-14.

Bain completed his first touch down pass for the year for 20 yards to Eric Grenet. This brought the third quarter score to 25-22. In the fourth quarter Johnny Jones sacked the Cardinal quarterback for a safety, bringing the final

Lady Bulldogs finish second

Bandera's Lady Bulldogs bumped, set and spiked their way to victory over Somerset 15-10 and 15-10 in the Medina Valley volleyball tournament, but were defeated by Hondo 9-15 and 8-15 to place second overall.

Lady Bulldogs are tied with Hondo for second place in the district.

They practice daily from 3:15 p.m. and head volleyball coach Peggy Swier said the girls played well as a team, with everyone doing their share.

Downtown windows sport homecoming slogans

BHS students displayed their school spirit this week in the Second Annual Window Decorating Contest, sponsored by Coach Peggy Swier and the cheerleaders.

Windows in downtown Bandera were decorated by students of each class, plus members of the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) and the Student Council.

Student Council decorated the First State Bank window, starting early in the morning and ending it around 5:30 p.m. A Student Council member, Jillina Mosley commented, "It reflects the school's spirit."

The senior class decorated the Cabaret's windows Monday after school, the sophomore class decorated Mr. Food Mart's windows Tuesday after school, and the freshman class decorated Zek's windows.

The students got permission from the business before they began their decorations. After Homecoming, the students must clean the windows.

The windows are judged before Homecoming and the "winning window" receives a prize. Last year's prize was $100, which was donated by different merchants in Bandera.

"The windows in town have always been decorated with shoe polish," said Mrs. Laz Vakey. "Last year was the first year that the decorating was organized into a contest. Last year started the trend of fancy painting, pictures, streamers, and balloons."

Freshmen hand Cards sound defeat, 33-14

Bandera Bulldog freshman football team soundly defeated the Southside Cardinals, 33-14, Thursday, Oct. 29.

Bulldogs scored their first touchdown and an extra point in the first quarter, and made one touchdown and an extra point in the second quarter. They scored two touchdowns but only one extra point in the third quarter, and the final quarter had two touchdowns without extra points.

Outstanding Bulldogs on defense were Bo Mansfield, Bart LeStourgeon, Leroy Brown, Tybor Cook, and Jeff Pullin.

Outstanding on offense were Pullin, Mansfield, Jason Schneider, Brown, Paul Hilburn, Cook.

Elderly, disease stricken most flu susceptible

Medicine has helped reduce the incidence of pneumonia in the United States to about one-eighth of what it was in the early 1900s. However, it is still a leading cause of death in America, particularly for the elderly. According to the Texas Medical Association, pneumonia, including influenza, was the sixth leading cause of death in Texas in 1986.

The word "pneumonia" describes a variety of diseases that cause inflammation or infection of the lungs.

About 50 percent of all pneumonia cases are caused by bacteria. Other causes include viruses, fungi, and even toxic chemicals that are inhaled.

Pneumonia strikes when the body's immune system is weak. That is why elderly people with serious and chronic illnesses are especially susceptible to it — the older one gets, the less ability one's body has to fight disease.

Others who are at a higher risk of contracting pneumonia are infants whose immune systems are not fully developed, people whose immune systems have been weakened by disease, and

Bake sale to benefit band

Bandera Bulldogs band boosters will have a bake sale fundraiser, Nov. 21, to help pay for air conditioning for the high band.

They will have tables at four locations including Super S, Boy's Market, OST and Books in Bloom.

Any one wishing to pre-order a pie cake for Thanksgiving may do so by contacting Margaret Parake at 796-3616 by Wednesday, Nov. 18.

Applications for this training are now being received at the AACC-ITPA Regional Office at 608 U.S. 90 in Kerrville. Further information can be obtained by calling 896-7643.

Sage in bloom

By Vi Strand

Slight and energetic Harold Sherman's introduction to the Silver State Cavalry of instructors occurred when he "temporarily" filled in and later discovered he was the instructor.

When asked of his childhood, he jokingly says, "My father was a contractor with gypsy blood. I was born in New Jersey, but we moved to New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and back to Atlanta, where I finished school."

A childhood memory he vividly remembers is going out on cold, winter mornings delivering the morning newspaper before dawn. He enrolled in vocational school to be a printer, but they moved to Philadelphia before he completed the course. The Depression altered his plans and he hired on as an apprentice painter, working up to a journeyman painter.

In 1931, he left the National Guard to join the army. From basic training in Ft. Slocum, N.Y., he went on an army transport through the Panama Canal, to Ft. McDowell, Calif., and on to Hawaii where he was trained in radio operations.

After his discharge, in 1934, he toured the southern states. When he hit Texas, he met Frances, his future wife.

Born on a ranch near Coleman, Frances' family later moved to Tyler where she graduated from high school.

Harold and Frances were married in 1936 and moved to Philadelphia. Frances' Texas roots pulled her back and Harold, wanting to further his education in radio, enrolled in Tyler Commercial College School of Radio. "A year after we returned, I had my commercial radio-telephone and radio-telegraph license," he said.

His first job was at a radio broadcast station in New Mexico. Conditions were bad and several months later he switched to police radio dispatch work. It was interesting and better, but the long grueling hours with no vacation or sick leave taxed his endurance. "I thought at times that being a painter might not be so bad after all," Harold commented.

After passing a civil service exam, he was employed by the P.A.A. in communications. His first assignment in Raton, New Mexico was the beginning of a thirty-year career. He recalls working in all but one of the southwest regional states.

"During World War II, I was a volunteer in Fairbanks, Alaska and later Tananarive. I also had a two-year tour of duty in the Panama Canal. Our three children attended school at Ft. Kobbe in the Canal Zone," he said.

Returning to the states in 1945, he worked in Texarkana until he retired in 1970. They lived in San Antonio until they moved to the Pipe Creek area in 1976.

He enjoys "ham" radio operating (KASTVR), traveling, painting (member of Comfort Art Guild) and is well versed in Spanish. "I enjoy it," he said. "It gives me an opportunity to meet some very interesting people and gain new friends," he said.

The Shermans are members of the St. Stanislaus Church and Harold's philosophy is, "If you give the best you can, the best will come back to you."

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

Weather conditions in Tarpley are the same: no rain nor any promise of rain, with a norther due in Thursday.

The Williams Creek Extension Homemakers will meet Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 12:30 p.m. at Lillian Hanes' home.

This will be a "tasting lunch" and members will share recipes brought by each one bringing food.

Lou Etta Holtreute recently from a cruise to Nassau, St. Thomas and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Lou Etta accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Perry of Ft. Worth and other relatives on the cruise. She was gone for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schmidt had a visit Sunday from Maj. Steven Kuhne, who is stationed in England.

Monday visitors to the Schmidts were Olga's cousin, Ferd Staffel, and his wife Charlene, and Steve and Laurel Weldon and son Steve all from San Antonio. They all enjoyed a birthday dinner for Charlene.

The old Tarpley schoolhouse community building was the site of a costume party and children's carnival Saturday, Halloween night, and reports are that more than 50 celebrants attended.

The Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Elise Dean enjoyed a turkey dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Bill) Morris.

Word came Saturday that Mark Chism of San Antonio had died. Mark and his wife, Vera (Bridges) Chism lived several years at the Flying L Ranch in Bandera where he was the manager. Mark had been ill for several years.

He was the cousin by marriage of Lenna Walker, Raymond Wright and Elise Dean.

Phone complaints 'surprised' firm officials report

The Southwest Texas Telephone Company in Rocksprings was not aware of the problems reported by two of its customers last week, according to phone company representative Steve Evans.

"The two individuals in the paper, we have never heard from," said Evans, and he went on to say that phone company officials were "surprised" by the article which was brought to their attention on Friday, Oct. 30. Sabinal Canyon residents Nick Schryver and Lynn Scotty were critical of the company's service, and stated they would be talking to other area residents to see if they were having similar phone difficulties.

Evans said the phone company sent letters to residents over a year ago outlining plans the phone company has to "rebuild" service in the D'Hanis and Utopia area, and he says the letter was also an attempt to offer service to some areas of the Sabinal Canyon where they may not have phone service.

"We entered into a contract, with plans to rebuild the phone service in several phases," continued Evans.

He said a contractor is scheduled to begin work in D'Hanis Nov. 16, and that work there could take "several months." After that they will begin work in the Utopia and Vanderpool area, "by sometime next spring, or early summer," he said.

Evans said the phone have been in the works for two or three years. He continued that he did not know at this time whether attempts would be made to contact Sabinal Canyon residents who have reported problems in their phone service.

Cleaning up can help control roaches

If you have roaches — and who doesn't at one time or another — you may need to clean up your act.

Bobby Davis, general sanitation division director of the State Health Department, says cutting back the food supply is the first step in eradicating roaches.

- Keep cereals, sugar, and other foodstuffs in sealed containers, such as jars.
- Don't leave unwashed dishes in a sink overnight. If you rinse them and put them in a dishwasher, close the dishwasher tightly or roaches will invade the dishwasher.

However, a stub that is left too long is an open invitation to sprouting, disease and infection, he cautioned.

In the winter garden, any wound larger than one inch should be painted with an orange shellac or tree wound dressing to prevent invasion from borers and other insects, Walterscheid suggested.

tree, Walterscheid said.

"The tree will have a visible 'collar' around the limb next to the trunk. Any cut should be made outside that collar," he said.

If a cut is made inside the collar, the wound could be two to three times larger than one made outside, he said, and consequently takes longer to close.

However, a stub that is left too long is an open invitation to sprouting, disease and infection, he cautioned.

In the winter garden, any wound larger than one inch should be painted with an orange shellac or tree wound dressing to prevent invasion from borers and other insects, Walterscheid suggested.

Pruning objective an important beginning

A lot of people prune trees without really knowing why they are doing it.

However, anyone who cuts into a tree should have objectives and a purpose before doing so, said a forester here Tuesday, Oct. 13.

"If you don't have a reason to prune a tree, don't," Dr. Michael Walterscheid of College Station, supervisor for forestry with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, told a group of over 20 gathered for a Tree Awareness meeting.

The meeting was sponsored by the Uvalde Tree Awareness Committee at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center. Reasons to prune include safety and/or to get rid of dead wood, clearance for such things as automobiles and lawnmowers, disease control, to shape a tree, and to control vegetative parasites such as mistletoe, Dr. Walterscheid said.

Generally, trees may be pruned at any time of the year, with certain advantages to certain times of the year over others.

Fall pruning generally poses no problems, but usually has no positive effect. There are certain advantages to pruning during the dormant season or winter, he pointed out.

There's no reason not to prune during the spring, because, contrary to popular belief, trees will not "bleed to death," or have too much sap run out of the wound.

During the summer, homeowners will have the weight of the leaves to contend with, but also can see their finished product immediately, Walterscheid explained.

He cautioned that oaks should be pruned in the fall and pecan trees are best pruned during their dormant season in the winter.

Pruning should be done with the "three-cut" technique. This involves making a cut out on the limb about one-third of the way through the limb. The second cut should be made further out on the limb, beginning on the top of the limb. The limb will fall at a certain point during that cut.

The third cut should be made closer, but not flush with the trunk.

A flush cut is not best for the Trench warfare was tough during D'Hanis' defeat of the Bobcats.

Medina falls to D'Hanis

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer
The Medina Bobcats suffered their first district loss at the hands of the D'Hanis Cowboys Saturday, Oct. 31, 34-0.

The blanking came in a game that went three quarters with only one touchdown being scored by D'Hanis. Then just as the fourth period began, a series of goblin events occurred that enabled the "Pokes" to put 21 points on the board in just under three minutes while the hapless Bobcats could only stand and watch.

The combination of bad luck and the cannon-like foot of Joe Nehr kept the "Cats" deep in their own territory and out of the end zone the whole night. "We never had any field position," said Medina coach Jerry Dodson.

Nehr's kickoff never failed to carry into the end zone, even though a brisk wind worked against him most of the time. "The only score of the first half was D'Hanis' 12-yard run by Gregg Wolff on third down, and the teams continued their shoving match through 12 minutes more of play before trick-or-treat time arrived for D'Hanis.

Joe Tapia scored on the first play of the fourth quarter from the four and then booted the extra point.

Two plays later Medina's Tim Green handed off to Scootie Melton on their own 20. Melton then passed the ball back to Green in the old "flea-flicker" of Dallas Cowboy fame.

It's a good play when it works. This time, however Green missed the pass and the pigskin rolled to within six inches of the Bobcat goal.

Everyone stood waiting for the whistle to signal the play dead until an alert Cowboy realized that the laterally thrown ball was still alive and pouching it. Next play D'Hanis was up by 21.

This D'Hanis defender tried to tackle Scootie Melton by his nose, but the bobcat's face mask got in the way. No flag was thrown.

The goblins weren't through, however, and when Medina next attempted a pass, Cowboy Ricky Burrell was there to snatch it away at mid-field.

Then Tapia heaved a first down strike to Dan Alvarado on the 20 and from there he went in for the TD untouched.

Medina never recovered from the shock, and with 9:30 left in the game, the Cowboys added one more notch to their stick when Johnny Silva scampered from the 20.

Medina, now 3-1 in district, still has a shot at post-season play but will need to knock off Rocksprings (2-1-1) to clinch that spot.

Medina will host the Angora in that important game on Friday, Nov. 6, at 8 p.m.

— Deer

spiked bucks, and fairly light weight animals.

He said the excessive numbers of deer in Bandera County mean that they fare less well in the competition for food and forage with domestic livestock and exotics. "Not enough people are putting enough emphasis on habitat," he said.

There may be slightly fewer deer in the county this year than last year, if PWD annual estimates are true. The department's recently-completed surveys in Bandera County show there are 92 deer per 1,000 acres in Bandera County, or about 46,000 deer county-wide.

That estimate, and Trawek emphasizes that it is only an estimate, represents a slight decrease from last year's estimate of 103 deer per 1,000 acres, or 49,000, and also slightly below the five-year average of 105.2 deer per 1,000 acres, or about 50,000 county-wide.

Trawek's statement is just the latest in a long time effort by the PWD to encourage reduction of the number of deer in Bandera County. The wildlife commission this year voted to discontinue a requirement that landowners obtain deer permits for killing doe.

Anthrax outbreak kills deer in southwest Edwards County

An outbreak of anthrax in the Carter Valley area of southwest Edwards County is being investigated by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, and all ranchers and outdoorsmen are being alerted.

The outbreak occurred between June and early September, resulting in severe losses of white-tailed deer, according to Mike Reagan, assistant wildlife manager and program leader. Other minor incidences of anthrax may have occurred in Edwards and surrounding counties, but no decline in the deer population was detected during department surveys, Reagan said.

Anthrax is a recurring contagious disease which can be contracted by humans. It is caused by a large nonmotile spore-forming bacterium. Reagan said ranchers finding deer carcasses in the outbreak area should seek the assistance of a veterinarian. No attempt should be made to touch or remove the carcass or antlers. Proper carcass disposal requires complete incineration.

Historically, anthrax has been a common occurrence in the part of the state. Reagan noted, however, that weather conditions are favorable for the organism. "Disease outbreaks are most often localized and usually do not affect overall deer populations," Reagan said. "As far as we know, the anthrax outbreak is over, since no sick or dead deer have been reported recently."

Hunters Barbecue Nov. 13

The Tune Wranglers and Bandera's Little Wrangler, Matt Grant, will provide music for the annual Bandera County Chamber of Commerce Hunters Barbecue, Friday, Nov. 13, from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

Chamber spokesman, Ken Finley said this week that tickets are now available at the chamber office and from chamber members, and will also be available at the door. Adults can eat for $4 and children for $2.50. The barbecue, which will be held at Mansfield Park, will be the site of a drawing, and all proceeds will benefit the chamber's activities.

Saturday, Nov. 14, the chamber will also sponsor a turkey shoot, called the "first annual Opening Day Shoot." It will be at the Bandera Gun Club from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and cost is $4 per shot. Winners will be selected on the basis of number of accurate shots, with one out five taking home a turkey.

Anyone wishing to help with the hunter's barbecue or the turkey shoot may contact Finley or Gary Johnston or call the chamber office at 796-4312.

"Hunters will need only the appropriate tag off their hunting license and landowner permission to bag deer or antlers deer in Bandera County this year," Trawek said.

He said that if landowners adhere to his recommendation of a doe for every 30 acres and a buck for every 175, the result would be a better balance sex ratio and a lower overall population.

He acknowledged, however, that his recommendations are based on county averages and may not be completely suitable for each individual ranch in the county. "Landowners interested in closely managing their local deer herd need to conduct their own on-site fall population surveys," he said.

Trawek says prospects in Bandera County for the hunting season that begins Nov. 14 are good, as far as availability goes, though their quality remains only average. "Deer are still in excessive numbers," he said. "In most of Bandera County, I feel like the deer will be active and responsive to baited blinds."

Historically, anthrax has been a common occurrence in the part of the state. Reagan noted, however, that weather conditions are favorable for the organism. "Disease outbreaks are most often localized and usually do not affect overall deer populations," Reagan said. "As far as we know, the anthrax outbreak is over, since no sick or dead deer have been reported recently."

Mayor Wilvie Smith quits city position

City secretary Tammy Kneuper also resigned Monday. Both blamed differences with two councilmen for making their jobs unbearable.

Mayor Wilvie Smith and city secretary Tammy Kneuper resigned abruptly Monday, blaming two council members for putting their "won-lost record" before the interests of the people.

The present council has certain members who care more about their won-lost ratio than whether or not Bandera's welfare would be enhanced or hindered," Mayor Smith said in his letter of resignation read to council members Monday by mayor pro tem Raymond Adametz.

He referred to council members Joe Fox and Carl Adametz by name, charging also that they violated the state's Open Meetings Act by discussing city business among themselves.

The Open Meetings Act, however, only applies when a quorum, or three members, of the council meet and discuss city business.

Kneuper did not mention council members by name in her letter of resignation, but it was clear that she too targeted Fox and Carl Adametz for criticism she leveled.

Certain members of the council, and they know to whom these remarks are addressed, prefer to harass and embarrass and spread rumors about members of the city staff instead of working with the staff to further the city's best interest," she said.

She also charged that council members violate the Open Meetings Act "yet criticize and humiliate members of the city staff for the least unintentional mistake."

The resignations came as the city was wrestling with an almost empty bank account.

Margaret Callahan of the city staff told the council the city would have a balance of $3,042 in its checkbook after paying bills.

"That's probably one of the reasons the mayor resigned," Carl Adametz charged.

In the last 13 months the city has expended $76,500 more than it has taken in and its balance of all funds on hand has shrunk from $103,816 to $18,490.

The council drew criticism from its auditors last month for decreasing its tax rate, a move the financial examiners said could result in serious financial damage to the city.

The council voted to offer Kneuper's job to Ella Mae Sandidge of Tarpley after a brief executive session, though some in the audience urged them to advertise the position opening so that others who did not know about the opening could apply.

Kneuper's letter of resignation was dated Oct. 28, exactly two weeks prior to Monday's meeting, but it was not generally known until she did not report to work.

Mayor Smith's letter was dated Oct. 31.

In other action Monday, the council threw out bids received for the construction of a fence on property owned by J.D. Stephens pursuant to a settlement of a lawsuit.

Four bids ranging from $2,406 to $4,125 were received in response to an invitation to bid printed in the newspaper, but a penciled-in entry on each specification sheet asked bidders to bid on construction of a fence five feet in height.

"There was a definite six-foot requirement in the settlement," said city attorney Terry Mason.

Advertisements for new bids will be published.

The council Monday also authorized the temporary placement of a seven-foot banner advertising the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokout; referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission a request by David Beuche to operate a cabinet shop in a residential zone; passed a resolution enabling citizens of the city to participate in a housing program sponsored by Bandera County; enacted a policy statement, resolution and ordinance on fair housing; appointed Joe Fox and Tom Lasson to a building permit review panel; Melvin King, Carl Adametz and mayor pro tem Raymond Adametz to an insurance committee; and Chuck Haver and Fox for a six-month stint on a financial committee.

They rejected joining the Texas Municipal League in fighting a suit brought by the Sportsman Club of Texas and others.

City attorney Mason said the state's anti-nepotism law did not apply in the employment of Mrs. Sandidge, who is Melvin King's niece by marriage, because it only applies to relatives of city council members.

Mayor Smith's letter of resignation said conditions changed during the two years that he sat on the sidelines while architect Bob Cowan was mayor.

"Little did I know so much had changed," he said.

Hunting season's opening here has county abuzz with activities

Hunters events are planned in Bandera, Lakehills, Medina and Utopia.

Finley. The Chamber-sponsored event will have music provided by Ballan Grant, and by the Tune Wranglers and prizes including a Ruger rifle and gift certificates from several local merchants will be given away.

The Chamber of Commerce will prepare 1,500 pounds of breakfast and 400 pounds of sausage, and tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for children.

As in Medina, the meat will also be available by the pound, and Finley adds that there will be pies and cakes available for sale whole and by the piece, at the barbecue held at Mansfield Park.

Saturday, Nov. 14, the chamber will sponsor "the first annual Opening Day Shoot" at the Bandera Gun Club. The turkey shoot lasts from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and winners will be selected on the basis of number of accurate shots.

Bandera's Volunteer Fire Department will have a barbecue chicken fundraiser Saturday at the fire department, according to assistant fire chief Joe Rodriguez.

"It's the first time we've tried serving a barbecue dinner as a fundraiser," Rodriguez explains.

"We're hoping to serve barbecue chicken dinners with all the trimmings to about 300 people."

Dinners will be served from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., and appetizers will also be available. Adult plates are $3, and children's $2.

Hunters can also celebrate opening day in Lakehills at a turkey supper at St. Victor's Chapel scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., and a country western dance, sponsored by the Medina Lake Betterment Association, at the Lakehills Civic Center.

Later Friday, the Bandera Hunters' Barbecue will get into swing, with "at least as many as last year" expected, according to

There will also be a free dance Sunday at the Bandera American Legion Hall, starting at 6 p.m.

JP Jennings resigns after 29 years on the job

Terminally ill E.S. (Ed) Jennings resigned his post as justice of the peace, effective Dec. 1, making the way for the election of his successor in 1988.

Jennings, the dean of Bandera County officials, submitted his letter of resignation to commissioners court Monday.

"It's been a pleasure doing business with you all," Jennings told commissioners jovially, "and I've had a good time doing it."

"But time runs out for everybody, and my time is running out, let's face it."

Jennings stepped aside in August, after his latest stint in the hospital, and commissioners appointed broadcaster Jud Ashmore to act as JP for three months through Nov. 15.

Jennings' resignation Monday means he will step down permanently on Dec. 1 and a successor will be elected next November from among candidates nominated by political parties in March.

Ashmore topped his resignation as temporary JP Monday also, telling commissioners he wanted them to have a free hand in selecting a successor to serve until someone is selected in 1988.

He said he hasn't decided whether to seek the interim appointment or the elected position in 1988.

Commissioners rejected a request by Bandera County Democratic Party chairman Nick Johnson, who asked them to require applicants for the interim appointment to agree not to seek the post in the 1988 election.

"If you confer the advantages of incumbency on one of the candidates in the 1988 elections, you will be taking sides," he explained. "I don't think the commissioners court should be endorsing candidates for other offices."

Commissioners decided to advertise for applicants for temporary appointment as peace justice to serve until January 1989 "with no strings attached" at the insistence of Republican commissioner Danny Alanis.

Jennings has been peace justice since Oct. 9, 1958, or more than 29 years, making him the county official with the longest continuous tenure of office.

"I regret having to resign my office as justice of the peace," he wrote in his letter of resignation. "My health will not allow me to do the job as efficiently as I feel that it must be done to properly serve the law enforcement of the county and the people of my precinct."

He has become known as "the marrying judge" because he has officiated at more than 2,000 weddings during his tenure as justice.

Many of those couples were wed under the famed "marrying tree" in Pipe Creek, many of whom were costumed or perched in unusual vehicles, such as buckboards and stage coaches.

Firemen pick through the remaining rubble of what was the 1920s-built frame home of Mike and Carol Haney Tuesday morning. The fire apparently started near a fireplace in the living room of the home. Carol Haney was in the shower when she realized the house was in flames. The couple lost all their possessions and furnishings in the blaze. Firefighters from Pipe Creek, Bandera and Medina Lake responded to the blaze. The home was located on Hohlback Road in River Oaks Ranch off State Highway 16 in Pipe Creek.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denver

You have to admit there is a strange ness in the land. Here we are in a state in which politicians used to campaign with a Bible in one hand and perdition in the other. Every one from highway patrol ex-commanders to the hardshell Baptists come out against gambling, and the voters go for it anyway.

The most conservative president in the 20th century runs the government into debt for the next two or three generations. The market crashes and he appoints a committee of Wall Street businessmen to investigate. Talk about asking the fox to patrol the chicken coop.

Then the president turns around and nominates guys with funny beards for the Supreme Court.

The first one fails to convince the senators that his heart is not back in 1860 with his beard. The second nominee forgets to clue in the hard-hitting, college educated G-men from the FBI concerning his experience with what the law politely called "controlled substances."

Actually, it wasn't Judge Cingberg's inability to "just say no" that forced him to withdraw his name from consideration for the Supreme Court. It was the rumors flying around Washington about his record collection, with all its Grateful Dead, Miles Davis and Mozart albums.

They say the grooves in his copy of "Puff the Magic Dragon" are so worn you could grow grain sorghum in them.

They say when the FBI asked about all the Turkish water pipes around his house, he told them they were his wife's ceramics collection.

Don't worry about his career, though. He's got a big audition for the next Cheech and Chong movie, "Take This Job and Smoke It."

Add all that to the California earthquake and it becomes obvious that we are in for a hard winter.

That is not necessarily bad. The hunters say the cold keeps the deer moving. The gardeners say it means fewer bugs in the spring. The fruit growers say it means a deeper dormancy and more blossoms. The chain saw salesmen say it means their kids can go to college.

Where they can study to be FBI agents.

Texas voted last week to return to electing members of the State Board of Education, but some folks wonder what would have happened if the Texas Supreme Court issue had been on the ballot.

The day before the election, a comprehensive media probe revealed that eight parties with major stakes riding on supreme court decisions have contributed nearly $1.4 million to men sitting on the high court.

The news disturbed San Antonio state Sen. Frank Tejeda, who monitors judicial ethics. But when he asked two candidates for chief justice to return such contributions, they refused.

Texas vote again in March to elect, among other things, some new seats on the Texas Supreme Court, and Tejeda and outgoing Chief Justice John Hill will question whether justice is for sale when campaign contributions are needed.

Eight big ones

Those eight contributors include some lawyers and law firms well known and respected in Texas. No one has suggested, however, that the contributions were illegal. Houston's Vinson and Elkins and Russell McMains of Corpus Christi, were involved in the megabucks Pennzoil-Texaco lawsuit. That suit was decided the day after the story broke last week.

Other names were Joe Jamail; Ernest Cannon; Helm, Fletcher, Hogan, Bowen and Sanders; and Abraham, Watkins, Nichols, Ballard, Onstad and Friend, all from Houston.

Also, the Pat Malone firm of San Antonio; Bill Edwards, David Perry and Anthony Constant of Corpus Christi; and Fisher, Gallagher, Perrin and Lewis, a Houston firm.

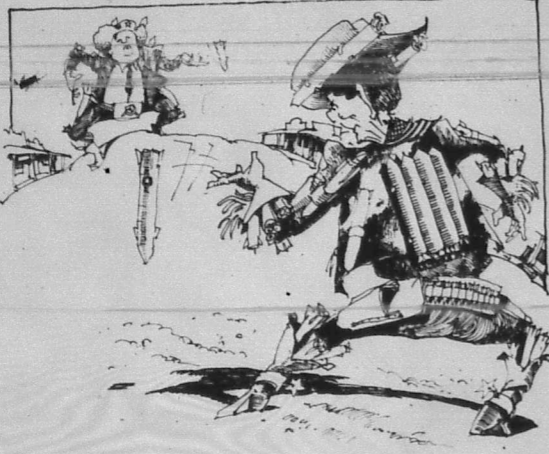

How many dollars

Records show that contributions from eight Texas lawyers and law firms account for nearly 18 percent of the campaign dollars received by current justices this decade.

Although he has been on the court the shortest time, former state Sen. Oscar Mauzy has received the most money from the eight parties, some $327,410. Mauzy was elected last year.

Next highest in C.L. Ray with $282,837. Ray was one of the targets of the House probe by Sen. Tejeda last year, along with William Kilgallon, who, reports show, received $174,576, third highest. Next is Raul Gonzalez, the first Hispanic elected to the court, with $141,000.

Other justices received gifts in the $100,000 range, except for Franklin Spears, a frequent critic of such practices. Spears was last with $27,950.

Letterwriter appreciates effort to help river fishermen

Dear editor:

I just read in the paper the Bandera County River Authority stocked bass and catfish in the river above the dam. It's about time that someone thought of the river fishermen.

Because the dam restricts the movement of fish upstream from the lake, we need a stocking program for the river above the dam. I was fortunate to be on hand during the release of the fish and I can honestly say that everyone present was impressed. I personally know of the effort Ray Black made in getting those fish.

Now, thanks to the efforts of Ray and the River Authority, I might catch enough fish for supper.

James Pilsner
Bandera

Early Bandera editor

Dear editor:

We are tracing my husband's great uncle, James Richard Coe, who lived in Bandera and edited the early Bandera Enterprise which was published by William Hudspeth and a Methodist preacher named Chambers.

We visited Bandera this summer and acquired some information. However, we have not been able to determine when J.R. Coe came to Bandera or if he started with the Enterprise when it was first published or came later when Chambers left the paper.

He did not share many details of his life in Texas with his family. In fact, his departure from Bandera and the family home there (probably in 1879) is also something of a mystery.

We were excited to read in the book 100 Years in Bandera by J. Marvin Hunter that the Frontier Times Museum had copies of all the early Enterprises. We were very disappointed to discover later that they no longer have them. The first issue was quoted in "100 Years," but no credit was given to the writer of the article. An 1885 issue is in the possession of the family, but we need one from 1883 to determine whether Coe was the editor at that time.

We wonder if any private citizen of Bandera has one of those early issues or if there are any descendants of William Hudspeth who may know something about the paper and Uncle Joe's role with it.

James R. Coe met his wife in Bandera. She had lost her parents and came with a younger sister, French, to keep house for their uncle, John Tanquary. Jim and Mary Louella had known each other in Lexington, Va., many years earlier and she was 7 years his senior. John apparently owned property in Bandera, and he died with no heirs save nieces and nephews in other states.

Jim and Mary Louella Tanquary Coe had moved to Washington state by then. They left Bandera in 1887.

One of the friendliest

I just couldn't let this year go by without telling you how much we appreciate the citizens of Bandera.

From April 23 through April 26, we visited a ranch in Bandera with a group of 105 mentally retarded citizens and chaperones. Most of our activities were held at the (Flying L) ranch, however, we planned a shopping spree in town and a day at the festival in San Antonio.

The citizens of Bandera greeted us with open arms. They accepted our group with warmth and displayed true Southern hospitality.

We enjoyed having Ballan Grant and her mother (Bunny) and her son (Weldon) from the General Store on Main Street join us for an evening of dancing out at the ranch. The people at the Flying L were very cooperative and a pleasure to work with. This was our group's second visit to Bandera.

We have been traveling for 18 years with this group, and I can truly say Bandera is one of the friendliest places we have visited.

A reprint of an address made by U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith on Nov. 3 in Washington.

"Mr. Speaker, in his book 'Kings of the Hill,' my good friend and colleague, Mr. Cheney, recounts an episode where a previous Speaker of the House addressed several members of the opposition party by saying, 'Gentlemen, we have decided to perpetrate the following outrage.'"

Apparently not much has changed in the century since then.

Last Thursday afternoon a procedural motion that could have led to an increase in taxes was soundly defeated.

But those of us who believe that Americans already pay enough taxes were not allowed to remain seated for long.

To reverse our victory, those who want to tax and spend declared that a new legislative day had arrived and — complete with opening prayer — began a new session of the House so they could have another vote on raising taxes $59 billion during the next 3 years.

On that one we won again — this time with one vote to spare when the balloting ended. But no gavel sounded. Instead, almost 10 minutes later a member was allowed to change his vote and the tax bill — thought to be defeated — suddenly passed.

Fairness and democracy itself were contorted beyond recognition. Mr. Speaker, and every citizen has a right to be repelled by such tactics.

What happened two weeks ago, when stocks took a record plunge of more than 500 points, has come to be known as black Monday.

What happened last week, when the collective integrity of this House took a similar nosedive, should be known as black Thursday.

Our hope must be that just as the stock market has rebounded so too will the reputation of the House of Representatives be restored.

But for that to happen, Mr. Speaker, a tyranny of the majority must begin to yield to restraint, honesty and fair dealing."

Kick the habit

Dear editor:

Each year we learn more about the adverse effect tobacco has on the body, yet people continue to use tobacco in some form. Smokers, please join the Bandera County Unit of the American Cancer Society in the "Great American Smokout" on Thursday, Nov. 19. It could help you quit forever. It helped me two years ago and it feels good not to smoke!

Let this be your year to quit. Boot Tobacco next Thursday. You'll be glad you did!

Hospital may aid in clinic here

By Diana Sandiego

Staff Writer

Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville may participate in a joint venture with local backers to get a medical facility built in Bandera, according to Dr. Frank Lin Rivers.

Although it has taken longer than it was originally projected to take, it appears that forward momentum has taken over, and the Bandera medical facility will soon become a reality.

"A lot of progress is being made," says Dr. Rivers. "Right now, the only thing standing in the way is that we are waiting to see if Sid Peterson Hospital is going to participate."

Rivers said that although the Kerrville hospital is considering helping to bank the venture, the local support group has committed themselves to seeing that it happens.

"Whether they do or whether they don't, it's going to happen," he says.

Rivers says that several sites have been considered, and two that they are still considering are a site by the high school and a site close to the office of local dentist W. L. Dubose, at 1306 Cedar adjacent to where Dr. Rivers' current facility is located.

Architect Bob Cowan has a plan drawn up that he says will work at either location, but if the clinic is situated by Dr. Dubose's office, they will have to make allowances for the terrain.

The design covers approximately 3,200 square feet, and Cowan says it is designed as a single level building, and the sloping land may require the use of supports.

Cowan says the clinic building is "designed to expand easily for another doctor." The facility will be approximately 1,000 square feet when expanded.

He explains that it will remain anonymous. "Rivers says. He explains that the main reason he signed their names to the dedicated line" and will probably never spend any money, but he says that nobody is involved for profit.

"Both local banks have indicated a willingness to participate," he says.

Rivers also says they hope to have a second physician in Bandera sometime next year. At the present time, he is having to do extra duty at a San Antonio emergency room to make ends meet.

"Presently I'm having to work at St. Rose emergency room to help fund the clinic," he says, but he stresses that he is still available to his Bandera patients during this time, and that he is "just a phone call away."

Burglary solved before it was discovered

A Bandera burglary was solved this week before it was discovered. Items valued at several thousand dollars were discovered in a car occupied by two Bandera men in Borneo on Halloween eve when Kendall County deputies stopped the car for what appeared to be an intoxicated driver.

The deputies found several shotguns and rifles, a ladies' trunk, a stereo, speakers, and record albums in the car. Bandera Police Chief Walter Welch said.

When they questioned the occupants one of them told them the valuables were taken from a home at 1302 Cherry St. in Bandera. Chief Welch said.

It was the home of Fabian Mazurek and he didn't know he had had a burglary, Welch said. "All stolen items were recovered, except a pocket knife."

A 1982 Chevrolet Camaro was found stripped, sitting in brush in Castle Lakes subdivision on Sunday. Investigation revealed the automobile was reported stolen out of San Antonio, the sheriff said.

Stolen out of San Antonio, the sheriff said. Stolen out of San Antonio, the sheriff said.

Giving a San Antonio address, Daniel Sullivan, 44, was arrested Sunday by deputies for criminal trespass. He had apparently taken up residence in a lifehills home.

Neighbors agree to agree after appealing their case

Neighbors angry with neighbors Monday agreed to agree when county commissioners could not agree to a means to settle a road dispute that had split their Sunset Hills subdivision.

It may have been the only thing on the agenda for Monday's regular meeting of commissioners that wound upon a happy note, however. Most of the day commissioners wrestled with the reality of an empty road wallet that has no prospect of being filled in the wake of the defeat of road bonds on Nov. 3.

The almost-happy ending occurred when neighbors objected to the closing of a 280-foot stretch of an unnamed street in the Sunset Hills subdivision on the northwest edge of Bandera.

The road was closed after Frank Santos appealed to commissioners two months ago to control the increasing amount of transient traffic on the road in front of his home.

Commissioners ordered the posting of notices in "diverse conspicuous locations," and a public hearing when eight property owners along the street signed a petition requesting the road be discontinued.

When no one appeared at the public hearing to protest the action, commissioners ordered the road abandoned and Santos promptly erected a fence across the road.

The fence got the attention of neighbors who missed the posted notices, and they were at commissioners court in force Monday to try to get the road reopened.

When county attorney Sam Darden advised commissioners to stand behind their order and have the neighbors settle the issue in civil court, the neighbors said, after some hemming and hawing, maybe we can work something out.

As they exited the commissioners courtroom, Santos was heard to agree to take down the fence and his neighbors agreed to help raise funds to install speed bumps on the street.

Solutions did not come so easy, however, to commissioners later in the day as they wrestled with a road and bridge fund too small to pay this month's accounts payable and meet the payroll.

County treasurer Elizabeth James told commissioners the road and bridge fund was $40,000 short, and commissioners decided to wait until Monday, Nov. 16, at 9 a.m. to decide whether to borrow the money from the First State Bank.

James told commissioners she could free $12,000 by charging money to construct the vehicle maintenance facility to the general fund as capital improvements rather than to the road and bridge fund.

That would enable James to pay the bills on hand, and commissioners would decide Monday how to meet the payroll of the 19 road and maintenance employees involved.

The road and bridge fund was exhausted this summer paying for repairs after massive back-to-back floods in May and June wrecked two highways in the county.

Most of the money for the road and bridge fund comes from motor vehicle license fees, James said.

Other commissioners rejected any idea of purchasing a pneumatic roller which commissioner Danny Alanis has been using "on approval" in his Lakehills area precinct.

"The message I got from the voters was to do it (road work) within the resources we have," County Judge Ray F. Mauer told commissioners.

Alanis indicated he may purchase the roller anyway from funds under his control in his precinct.

Commissioner Jimmy Russell cancelled repairs to English Crossing Road for which a contract had already been let.

Commissioners voted to allocate future road and bridge funds received among precincts on the basis of 30 percent for Russell's precinct 1, 28 percent for Alanis' precinct 2, 15 percent for A.A. (Pete) Reed's precinct 3, and 29 percent for Bud Thompson's precinct 4. Those figures are based on the tax collections.

In other action Monday, commissioners authorized Judge Mauer to enter into an agreement with Kendall County to share a juvenile probation officer and the expenses of a juvenile offenders program.

Mauer told commissioners preliminary negotiations had indicated Kendall County may agree to pay for 60 percent of expenses because of its larger population and that space would be available in that county's juvenile detention center now being made from the county's old jail building.

He said juvenile offenders in Bandera County are now largely being released for lack of a suitable place to confine them.

Commissioners also gave preliminary approval to a re-plot of Indian Springs subdivision, a development of about 25 five-acre tracts, to a three-lot, 1,471-acre development of Wilbur Bradford in Lakehills called Beacon Shores, and to Sonnet Harbour Estates off Park Road 37 in Lakehills.

Commissioners, at the urging of Alanis, postponed action on a matter that involved selling of lots by meets and bounds in an area not yet platted.

Developer Dr. Guy Ranson said he understood it was within the rules to sell lots in that way, but Alanis said that interpretation would render the county's subdivision regulations meaningless.

"I feel like if he can do this particular thing, we may as well take our subdivision rules and throw them out the window," Alanis commented.

Commissioners also increased the fee for septic tank inspection to $50 for residential sites and $65 for commercial facilities. It's a $10 increase from the old rates.

George F. Craig of McAllen was driving a 1979 Lincoln Mark V and towing a 1975 Chevrolet Impala when the tow car began to sway as he rounded the curve off Cemetery Hill on Highway 173 Wednesday. Suddenly the tow car broke off causing both vehicles to flip, police chief Walter Welch said. The Chevrolet, which they had been towing from Center Point was a total loss, the chief said. But, when the Lincoln was uprighted, he and his wife got in it and drove it home to McAllen.

changed since 1984," he said. "In the past, though everyone on the city council did not agree, on every matter that came before the council, they nevertheless really strove to determine what course of action was in the common good of the citizens and tried to accomplish their purpose," he said.

The mayor said he tried to smooth out differences, without success. "In the past 10 months we have made very little progress," he acknowledged.

"I now know that certain individuals are not to change regard- less of whether they are right or wrong or who they hurt," he said. "I will not be associated with such persons and refuse to be a part of their pettiness, ignorance and short-sightedness, especially since their actions affect so many people and especially the business community," he said.

"I think it is a special privilege to be elected to any public office when that position has a direct effect on the lives, health and well-being of the very people that choose you," he said.

Knepper's letter of resignation made many of the same points. "Whatever happened to encourage agreement and cooperation in Bandera," she asked. "Instead, now we have pettiness, and backstabbing, and the casting of good consciousness and good judgment to the wind in favor of winning, regardless of if you are right or wrong."

She also said she came to the realization that those she disagreed with would not change their behavior.

She said she enjoyed the type and character of duties and responsibilities she had with the city. "I can truly say that, overall, I have enjoyed my employment with the city more than any other," she said.

"Specifically, how do you think the vote for pari-mutuel betting in Bandera County will affect you in the coming year?"

Inquiring photographer

Staff Photos by Larry T. Williams

Bob Cowan, architect, Bandera: "I don't know if it will affect me a little bit or a lot. I've a couple of projects that will probably come out now, that this went through. I don't see any boom coming, although it may over a period of time but not suddenly."

Joyce Swift, store owner, Bandera: "That's a hard question, but I think it may not affect me at all, because those that support us are local people. We don't get much tourist business."

Mary McGroarty Smith, businesswoman, Bandera: "Great! I'll profit by it. It will bring in a lot of business and money and that's what Bandera needs. I love it."

Freddy Joe, farmer, Bandera: "It won't really affect me. It'll help taxes and it'll hold racing in the state, but it will hurt the tracks along the borders. It'll be big for six or eight months 'cause it will be new, but then it will calm down and be like now."

School trustees sympathetic, but take no action

Bandera school trustees listened sympathetically to parents of a high school student stripped of her leadership positions and to the parents of a Tarpley youth that resides out of the district, but took no action in either case.

Gary Smith, the father of a high school senior who was removed as a nominee for Miss Bandera High School and as secretary of the Association of Legal Students because of an anonymous tip school administrators received charging her with misconduct in another county.

Smith asked trustees to look into the policy regarding leadership positions and personal conduct of students. "I know nothing can be done to help my daughter, but maybe you can do something to prevent this happening in the future to other students," he said. Board president Ron Jackson told Smith the board would continue to look into the disciplinary policy for students and they might even change it and fine tune it a bit at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Monier of Tarpley, accompanied by a delegation of relatives and neighbors, appeared for the second time seeking permission for their son to attend Bandera schools without having to pay tuition.

Superintendent Ted Dockery explained that a grandfather clause allows children attending the schools in the district in 1977 to be allowed to finish school in Bandera without tuition. "There are only two students in our schools under the clause now," he said. Dockery said the tuition for this school year would be $1,623.99 per student.

The Moniers live on his father's ranch, which has 244 of a 1,144 acres located in Bandera County. The other 900 acres are in Medina County and in the Hondo School District, and the residence is also in Medina County.

Jackson explained the Moniers would have to pay tuition the same as any other family living outside the district would. Jackson asked Monier why don't you pass a hat. "I'm sure your neighbors will pitch in and help. I'll put $10 in," he said.

Monier asked the trustees to approach the Hondo School District to allow the Monier Ranch to be annexed into the Bandera District, and trustees indicated they would favor the move in the unlikely event the Hondo ISD agrees.

The Monier's son has been attending school in Medina, but was notified the district could no longer send a bus to Tarpley for one child. Medina schools waived tuition for the family last year.

The Hondo district sends a bus to pick up a student four miles from the Monier's home. "We don't want him to have to go 56 miles a day, round trip, to Hondo and back," the father said.

We presently have children at Medina Lake that are traveling 26 and 28 miles each way on the bus," Jackson said.

After returning from a 90-minute secret executive session, trustees approved hiring one substitute teacher, accepted the resignation of one side, and approved the nomination of Joe Hearn to the Appraisal District Board.

They declined to take action on a possible property donation to the district. The exact site was not revealed.

Emmons recommended the board thank the people for the offer and suggested the donor offer the property to someone else, perhaps the Lakehills United Methodist Church.

No action was taken on another gift to the district.

The board voted 6-1 to defer action on a student discipline case, with Evans voting nay, and a related item will be on the December agenda.

Kerrville Loop name in hot debate

Loop 534 around Kerrville has been the object of controversy in that city recently. Apparently, there is some disagreement over the proposed name of the loop, and indeed, some folks think it doesn't need a name at all.

Five different name suggestions, including Sam Houston, Cabera de Vaca, Richard Lozano (Vietnam War fatality), Jimmie Rodgers and VA Medical Center Loop 534, have been proposed to the Kerrville city council, but some nearby residents who would have to change their addresses say they would like the loop to stay just plain 534.

Letter-writing campaigns to the city council have been the predominant method of attempted persuasion.

"By naming the loop VA Medical Center Loop 534, it would give instant recognition to veterans

New book on Medina Lake to be autographed Sunday

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

"Reflections on Medina Lake," a new publication on the mammoth man-made lake that became the reality of many men's dreams brings the history of the lake, the area, and the Medina Lake Dam up to date.

The publication is the result of three years of research, interviews, study, and reflections of Marilyn J. Schiltz.

Schiltz, who grew up in Detroit and North Carolina, first wrote about the Medina Lake Dam and lake in a master's thesis in ethnography in the Department of Anthropology at The University of Texas in Austin.

The book, which came off the press with 500 copies in September, has sold over the 200 mark. It has 190 pages, is soft bound, and carefully indexed and footnoted.

In her writings, Schiltz has captured the personalities of the old-timers who have lived their entire lives around Medina Lake. Many of whom remember the dam being constructed 75 years ago.

She tells of the ups and downs in the lake level which parallel the ups and downs of the people and businesses that surround the lake.

Schiltz will be at the Frontier Times Museum in Bandera on Sunday, Nov. 14, from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. to sign copies of her book. The books are available through the Medina Lake Preservation Society and can be obtained through the mail for $20 a copy plus 6 percent sales tax and $1.50 for postage and handling.

The book was very expensive to publish, Schiltz said. With just 500 copies on the press run, there was no volume discount. The 30 plus photographs, spanning from the time the dam was under construction to the 1987 floods, also added greatly to the cost of the publishing process, she said.

Schiltz relied heavily on Father Cyril Matthew Kuehn's 1966 publication, Ripples from Medina Lake, in her history of the lake and dam. From where he left off, she brought the history of Medina Lake, the dam, and the community of Mico on the east side of the lake up to date.

The dam will observe its 75th anniversary since completion Thanksgiving week. Her book is a timely tribute to the mammoth concrete monolith of Medina Dam.

In the book she quotes many old timers who have seen businesses and their owners go through transition periods of prosperity and poverty. She has numerous quotes from area residents such as Alton Seekatz, Panchita Thomson, Jerry Boehm, Danny O'Connell, Cliff Waterman, Conrad Wurzbaach, Francis Fleming, Cappy Granieri, and Beas and Harold Zinsmeister.

She reflects on the dreams of the stately-eyed business entrepreneurs of seven decades who put their fortunes and hopes of the future into business resorts.

Many of them lost everything when the lake dropped because of lack of rain. She describes the many abandoned and decaying structures that symbolize the abandoned dreams and summer homes that no one comes to anymore.

The book is certainly a must for area history buffs. It is an exten-

New Christian School opened in Lakehills

After completing its first week of operation, the Beloved Hope Academy has 22 students enrolled in grades from second to 12th, the Rev. Don Ashcraft said.

"The high school students attend classes in a home we've leased on a hill overlooking Medina Lake," Ashcraft said. "We have two senior students," he said. The elementary school is located in the building formerly used by the Faith Chapel Christian School, Ashcraft said.

Hope Academy was established in San Antonio in 1974 and in Boerne in 1981. "We had more students attending the academy in Boerne from Pipe Creek and Lakehills than from Boerne," Ashcraft said. "Students are car-pooled by parents. We have three car loads coming from Boerne and one large carload from Pipe Creek each day," he said.

Instructors teach from two Christian curricula, and he said his students' SAT scores are very good.

"In Boerne we've arranged 3 to 5 graduates each year. The students go to college and they do very well," he said.

"Presently we have four teachers on staff and a reserve of Christian teachers with degrees are available. If we have enough Christian families in Bandera County, we will put them on staff as needed," he quickly said.

The curriculum is the same as used in other Christian schools across the nation, Ashcraft said. Students can transfer from public schools at any point. He said the school will utilize the so-called "alpha omega" system, which is described as one with more requirements than the so-called "accelerated" programs used in some private schools.

Hilltop Inn reopens

It seemed only fitting the first account opened Monday morning would be by Rena and Adolph Mazurek Jr. at the First State Bank in Lakehills. Melissa Methvin fills out the forms for the owners of Adolph's Store, the oldest established business on Medina Lake. Bank officials reported many new accounts were opened this week and lots of people are registering for the free prizes to be drawn at 10 a.m. on Nov. 20.

has reopened under new owner ship. It is open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

New proprietors are Brad Caswell and Larry Heil, both from Colorado. The inn is staffed by family members, including Caswell's parents and nieces who have pitched in to help get the business going.

There have been in the lake area for about a year. The menu is extensive and offers a full range of items, including breakfast, sandwiches, salads, and dinners. The dinner menu includes favorites such as chicken fried steak, hamburger steak, catfish, seafood, Mexican dinners, and steaks.

The dining room is attractive with tablecloths and flower arrangements on each table.

Legion to host Veterans Day fest

The Lakehills American Legion Post 410 will host its annual Open House in celebration of Veterans Day on Nov. 21.

"This is our way of saying thanks to everyone for their support in the past 12 months," spokesman Tony Kruse said.

The celebration will begin at 1 p.m. with craft beer, tamales, and homemade chili, and it will all on the house," Kruse says.

"This is an original recipe of our chief cook and bottle washer, George Driffler," he said.

We invite everyone to join in the fun and fellowship. Legionnaires are encouraged to bring the family, friends, and neighbors," he said.

Craft co-op opens in Pipe Creek

Pipe Creek

The Bulletin has confirmed reports that Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus have been seen in Pipe Creek and will continue to be around Kelley's Shamrock Tavern area in the next few weeks.

They have taken up temporary residence at the Christmas Craft Co-operative Store next door to the tavern.

Mrs. Claus will be available to visitors from noon to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays through the end of November. Santa will be there on weekday evenings from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. through November, says co-operative organizer Paula Cloud.

The Christmas Craft Store resembles Santa's workshop. It's a two-story home filled with antique furniture and equipment. Around the treading sewing machine are all kinds of homemade crafts to delight every family member.

There are rag dolls and stuffed dolls, dices, mice, pillows, animals, and even mother goose.

An antique box is filled with gently used and new popcorn containers, crocheted gingerbread men, and even a decorated crocheted Christmas cake.

Wooden rocking chairs are occupied with stuffed mice in a variety of costumes and homemade afghans are abundant. The wood-paneled and stone walls are covered with a wide variety of carefully crafted wall hangings, door decorations, and embroidered hoop decorations.

Every inch of counter space is filled with Christmas gift items, baked goods, candles, toys, ceramic ies, holiday ornaments, and crocheted collars and small Christmas shirts designed with Christmas teddy bears and scenes.

A special handmade jewelry case contains jewelry items from $3 to $400. Many are one of a kind creations.

The merchandise is all for sale. The soft bedspread, quilted to a spiral staircase, and like enter into a holiday fantasy with the crocheted and knitted afghans, pillows, and toys displayed on the bed. A large assortment of handmade collars are in the corner.

The Christmas house has several Christmas trees, bright with lights and thousands of homemade ornaments.

There are 28 members in the co-operative, Cloud said. "They pay a $10 membership fee and whatever their merchandise sells for, they get all," she said.

Our sales people are members and they volunteer whatever time they have to work in the store. There's no consignment, therefore the prices are more reasonable than you find in a lot of stores," Cloud said.

Most of our members work on something while they're here. They just bring whatever they're making with them and when they're not with customers they do their handwork.

Even the bathroom is dressed up for the holidays with little handmade wooden toothbrush holders and special holiday towels.

Every doorknob is covered with a holiday cover.

A whole team of wooden reindeer are scattered throughout the house, some carrying packs of floral centerpieces.

Most of the members in the co-op live in the Pipe Creek, Lakehills, and Boerne area. They all have one thing in common, Cloud said. "They enjoy making things. They're very talented and the store gives them an outlet to show and sell their creations," she said.

Co-op member Doris Holt of Lakehills was working Monday morning. "I'm loving making things. It's been so successful, we may try to get the building and stay open into December," Cloud said.

The $10 membership fee the crafts makers pay goes toward paying the electricity on the building, advertising costs, and to purchase gift wrap supplies.

A gift wrap table is available and charges for wrapping run from 50 cents for small packages to $2.50 for larger ones, Cloud said.

Ornaments and gift items go from 25 cents to $400.

"We hope everyone will come out, bring the kids, browse, and have a cup of coffee with us. People will be amazed at how talented the people in this area are," Cloud said. "I just never dreamed there was so much talent in our Hill Country until members started bringing in their handwork."

Doris says she's always sewing or crocheting. "Even when I watch television, I'm busy with my hands," she said.

"I just can't believe the response we've gotten so far," Cloud said. "Members have brought things in that I thought might be hard to sell, but they went fast. There's things, like the crocheted collars, that we just can't keep enough of."

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

"It's been so successful, we may try to get the building and stay open into December," Cloud said.

The $10 membership fee the crafts makers pay goes toward paying the electricity on the building, advertising costs, and to purchase gift wrap supplies.

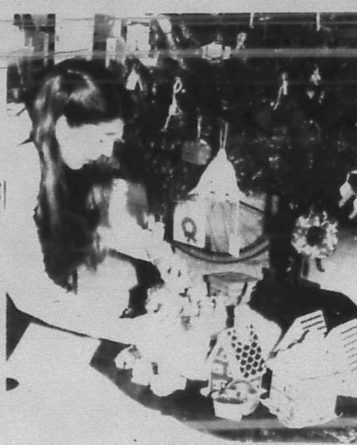

A gift wrap table is available and charges for wrapping run from 50 cents for small packages to $2.50 for larger ones, Cloud said.

Ornaments and gift items go from 25 cents to $400.

"We hope everyone will come out, bring the kids, browse, and have a cup of coffee with us. People will be amazed at how talented the people in this area are," Cloud said. "I just never dreamed there was so much talent in our Hill Country until members started bringing in their handwork."

Doris says she's always sewing or crocheting. "Even when I watch television, I'm busy with my hands," she said.

"I just can't believe the response we've gotten so far," Cloud said. "Members have brought things

Other officers include Bill Brughurst, vice president; Catherine Baker, secretary-treasurer; Irene Murph, corresponding secretary; and Claude Lindley, Nancy Cecil, Ann Neal and Maria Nixon, additional directors.

"The association was mostly organized to protect the river front," says Carpenter. He explains that their first organizational meeting was held in the last summer.

Two arrested
Two Pipe Creek men were arrested over the weekend by Department of Public Safety trooper Nolan Metz for driving while intoxicated. Louis Postert, 62, was arrested on Saturday and released after paying bond on Sunday. Wayne Cameron, 34, was arrested Sunday and released Monday when he paid his bond.

Gunslinger Jake Wilson wins showmanship award

Lakehills resident Jake Wilson won the showmanship trophy at the first annual Chili Cookoff sponsored by Hermann Sons Lodge in Lakehills Saturday.

Wilson, known for his showmanship as a gunslinger in wild west shows from California to Stocking of Lakehills to produce "Bang Bang Chili."

Wilson displayed an antique gun collection which included handguns, rifles, and even some old muzzle loaders. "I'm the happiest man in the world," Wilson told the crowd. In all his travels this was the first trophy he won, he said.

Other winners were George Wilkins of San Antonio, first with Head Hunters Chili; Charlie Jonas, second with Road Dog Chili, and Mary Bevel of Lakehills, third with her Armadillo Chili.

Music was supplied by Bill Baker, Chet Reeves, and Chet Atkins.

"Needless to say, Hermann Sons building fund is grateful to the support of Bandera County merchants and to the community," spokeswoman Frances Garren said.

There were 10 entrants in the cookoff which was held on the grounds of Schenck Hall. The cookoff chairmen were Kathy Bradshaw and Richard Mison.

Receives wings

Navy Ensign David W. Bueckling, son of Judith Ray of Lakehills, was recently designated a Naval Flight Officer.

Bueckling received his "Wings of Gold" upon graduation from the 19-week Radar Intercept Officer Phase of training with Training Squadron-86, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

During the training period Bueckling received intensive classroom, simulator and airborne instruction in the Cessna Citation II and Skyhawk aircraft. He was also trained in radar intercept techniques, air to air missile employment, fighter mission concepts and air tactical maneuvering.

A 1981 graduate of Tom C. Clark High School, San Antonio, and a 1985 graduate of The University of Texas, Austin, with a Bachelor of Arts degree, he joined the Navy in December 1985.

Hill Country Quilt Guild

The Hill Country Quilt Guild will learn to make a mini-Christmas tree Monday, Nov. 19, at a luncheon at the First Christian Church in Kerrville.

The guild will also learn to make a corner, says reporter Betty Bills, who adds that they will not meet in December.

Around the Town

By Sharon Revere

The biggest weekend of the year for Bandera hunters' week is coming up and the fun starts Friday at Mansfield Park with the 40th Annual Hunter's Fair.

Ballian Grant and The Tune Wranglers will provide the music. The Wranglers are led by Steve Forest, a candidate for sheriff.

Who was that lady belting out "You Are My Sunshine" on stage with Arley and the Blue Cowboys Saturday night? Bunky Grant, that's who! It was her debut, and word is she probably will be back for another number.

Arley and The Silver Dollar have lots of fun planned for the weekend. They start Thursday night with a dance until 1 a.m. and Friday night to the same.

But on Saturday and Sunday the music starts at 2 p.m. and party time continues until 1 a.m. Arley always has musician friends drop by to help him entertain. Gabe Tucker will be in town and blowing his trumpet message at the Silver Dollar.

In from Houston will be Bud and Bud. The Hooper Twins look for their annual "Bloody Mary Morning" Party on Maple Street this year.

The Cabaret starts its festivities on Wednesday night with music by Dusty Rhodes until 1 p.m. The Rhodes band plays again Thursday until 1 a.m. and Sunday from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Friday night The Cabaret will be hopping with the music of Jody Nix and The Texas Cowboys.

Lynni "The Boot Shine Gal" will be set up at The Cabaret so you can get those dancin' boots buffed out.

Saturday night, The Cabaret presents Clay Blaker and The Texas Honky Tonk Band. Blaker, who's been around this area for years, leads what Bob Claypool, music editor of The Houston Post, calls "the best honky tonk band on the regional circuit."

Other members of the band are Allison Blaker, Clay's wife, who plays bass, Dan McCoy, guitar and songwriter, Brian Duckworth, fiddle, Bob Kelly, steel guitar, and Ken Kelly, drums.

Clay and the band are usually on hand to open for George Strait whenever this country giant plays in Texas.

Home at The Brass Rail also has good times on her schedule for the weekend. Friday and Saturday, High Caliber will supply the dancing music until 1 p.m.

On Sunday, from 5 to 10 p.m., Wayne Kenemer and Texas State will play accompanied by a huge venison stew, with all this fun around the town, you hunters may not have time for the deer!

Vets to dance

The Disabled American Veterans, Department of Texas, is hosting a Country Music Jambo ree at the Blue Bonnet Palace on Dec. 11, at 2:30 p.m., starring Ron Young and his Country Deputies, and Joe Paul Nichols and the Five Penny Band.

The jamboree is a free of charge to all hospitalized veterans, and shut in seniors. Admission for the general public is $9.

Fine Arts Club members eye Christmas decorations

Bandera's Fine Arts Club learned how to dress up the home with festive Christmas arrangements in a demonstration by Margaret Pardee of the Gingerbread House, Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Among the many glitz and colorful arrangements, she showed club members how to make holiday decorations from such everyday items as twigs and plain ribbon.

"You can spray these twigs and sticks any color you wish," she explained, "and they will make a nice addition to your arrangement." Several laughed when she suggested that the married women could follow their husbands when they prune trees and gather the branches.

Members got to try their hands at creating "roses" when Pardee gave each one a short length of ribbon, and proceeded, step by step, through instructions to turn them into floral buds. Some had more difficulty than others, but everyone seemed to enjoy giving it a try.

The next Fine Arts meeting will be a Christmas party on Dec. 8.

Joe and Marie Glasscock return from Music City sojourn

Opryland and a Saturday night performance of the Grand Ole Opry were just two of the many things Joe Glasscock and his mother Marie enjoyed on their recent trip to Nashville.

Entertainer Buck White recognized the Glasscocks from the stage as "fellow Texans," and they also saw Music City Row, including the old Ryman Auditorium, original home of the Grand Ole Opry, the Country Music Hall of Fame, and many Nashville homes, including those of Dolly Parton, Minnie Pearl, Ronnie Milsap, Randy Travis, Roy Acuff, Hank Williams, Jr., Tex Ritter and Waylon and Jesse Jennings.

"We left Nashville and went to the Great Smokey Mountains National Park. At the southern end of the Smokies, we began the 469 Blue Ridge Parkway, through North Carolina and Virginia."

"The Shenandoah Valley began the Skyline Drive for 100 miles through Shenandoah National Park," he continues. Glasscock goes on to say that the fall foliage was at its peak, and after a day of showers, a cool front brought clear and beautiful Indian Summer-type days.

They drove back to Tennessee through West Virginia's coal mines and the Daniel Boone Parkway of Kentucky for a total of 1,816 miles before the plane flight home.

Schmidt announces

Camp Verde resident Arthur V. Schmidt announced recently that he will seek the office of sheriff of Kerr County.

Schmidt and his family live in Kerr County, but he is a familiar face to many Bandera residents.

His parents, Oscar and Betty Schmidt, formerly lived in Bandera, and Arthur spent much time in the Bandera area in his youth with his grandparents Bill and Gladys Blackwell.

Children over 5 years need federal number

People in Bandera County who have children or other dependents plan to claim on their 1987 Federal income tax return should remember that a Social Security number must be shown for each dependent age 5 or over. Bruce Tyler, Social Security manager in San Antonio, said recently.

If a child or other dependent does not have a number, one should be applied for without delay. To apply, complete an application and provide evidence of date of birth, identity, and U.S. citizenship or lawful alien status.

A person 18 or older who has never had a Social Security number must apply in person. A parent applying on behalf of a child must provide evidence of his or her identity.

For a person born in the U.S., a birth certificate can provide evidence of both date of birth and citizenship. For children, school, medical, day care, or similar documents can be used to establish identity.

Only original documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. Photocopies and notarized copies are not acceptable. The documents will be returned.

All it takes to start the application process is a phone call to the San Antonio Social Security office, Tyler said. The telephone number is 512-229-4431. The people there will be glad to answer any questions.

Helping Hand plans thrift sale Saturday

Bandera County Helping Hand will sponsor a thrift sale Saturday, Nov. 14, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. across from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church on Cypress Street.

"There are always bargains galore," says center director Mildred Treaster. "So everyone be sure to come."

The monthly Helping Hand meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. at Bandera's First Baptist Church.

As always, Treaster says that the center needs and welcomes donations, and in particular canned fruits, meats, and vegetables.

Allen Daniel (Dan) Dockery, 56, of San Antonio, died Sunday, Nov. 7, with Outreach Services Division of Austin State School personnel to formulate plans and initiate an activities-oriented outreach program for mentally retarded adults of the county.

Spokeswoman Mary Carpenter announced the group's plan to offer a referral, services, and training program by early January of next year. "We have an indication that we have only scratched the surface," she said.

"Without having yet made a public announcement of our plans, we are already receiving referrals and at present know of eight MR adults that would like to be a part of the program."

At present the organization has been granted use of the Silver Sage Corral Senior Activities Center on Saturdays and several other local organizations have pledged similar support for the program.

Mental health program being organized in Bandera

Twelve persons representing Bandera County met Saturday, Nov. 7, with Outreach Services Division of Austin State School personnel to formulate plans and initiate an activities-oriented outreach program for mentally retarded adults of the county.

Spokeswoman Mary Carpenter announced the group's plan to offer a referral, services, and training program by early January of next year. "We have an indication that we have only scratched the surface," she said.

"Without having yet made a public announcement of our plans, we are already receiving referrals and at present know of eight MR adults that would like to be a part of the program."

At present the organization has been granted use of the Silver Sage Corral Senior Activities Center on Saturdays and several other local organizations have pledged similar support for the program.

Carpenter, who will serve as a volunteer recruitment and utilization officer for the group, went on to explain that the State School in Austin is the responsible agency for Bandera county and that training for volunteers and services for the participants would be offered through the Outreach office in Fredericksburg.

Kerrville State Hospital has also pledged some assistance in the area of registration for volunteers serving the program and some additional local training in behavioral and health needs specific to the mentally retarded.

Lawrence Lottman, assistant director of outreach for Austin State School, and Doris Davila Casey, case manager supervisor, were present at the Saturday morning session to present overviews on participant identification and intake requirements.

Paula Poorman, case manager for the Fredericksburg office, presented health and seizure precautions. Poorman also indicated that there was a possibility of assigning an MMH intern to the Bandera program in the near future.

"In addition to finalizing our organizational structure, we are also anticipating some opportunities to do some site surveys of other community MR facilities and programs prior to our first Activity Day," Carpenter said. "We presently are relying on the Senior Center and its staff and on Helping Hand to serve as our contact points for local interest and the agencies involved," she said.

Persons interested in either serving as a volunteer for the program and parents or guardians of an adult mentally retarded person may contact either local office for full information, she said.

Other persons attending the seminar included Roy Carpenter, Marion Bunch, Kathy Gardner, Bunch Grant, all of Bandera, and Catherine Baker, John Lindley, Onetta Lindsey, Cathy Gundersen, Irene Smith, and Anita Becker, all of Pipe Creek.

A seminar to teach food vendors, meal purveyors and other agricultural producers how to qualify for federal contracts will be held at 8:30 a.m. in the community room of the Central Data business Technology Development Center at 301 S. Frio, San Antonio.

JPs here are tough on game violations

Of "several thousand" game cases filed in Bandera County during the last decade or so by veteran game warden Carl Becker, not one was lost, and he credited the county's justices of the peace with that remarkable record.

"I credit the justices of the peace with success in curtailing game violations in the county," Becker said on the eve of the opening of whitetail deer hunting season Saturday.

He says he has no idea of the total amount of game violations during that time, but the maximum fine for each case has been $200.

"I've got the best JPs in the state," he said. "They'll fine you, but they'll also make sure you're not caught again."

He said the deer season is the most cooperative I've worked throughout the state. "I've worked throughout the state," the veteran game warden said.

Every one of them is a hunter, that's unusual. In fact, most of them are hunters. They're the best JPs in the state. They'll fine you, but they'll also make sure you're not caught again."

Free wood duck boxes offered to landowners

Private landowners may now obtain free wood duck nest boxes to place on their property, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD).

A cooperative project of the TPWD and the Waterfowl Habitat Alliance of Texas (WHAT Ducks) organization was formed recently with the goal of increasing nesting habitat for wood ducks and black-bellied whistling ducks in Texas. Both of these ducks normally nest in mature hollow trees but will readily accept man-made nest boxes.

The project also has received donations of lumber from Temple Eastex Inc. and Lufkin-based Texas Forestry Association. Inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections Beto #1 Unit are constructing the boxes.

Carl Fretness of Athens, TPWD assistant waterfowl program leader, said landowners with suitable habitat can qualify if they agree to install the boxes, check and clean them in December or January prior to each nesting season and report nesting information on forms provided by the TPWD.

Additional information on nesting structures is available in a TPWD brochure entitled "Cooperative Project For Production of Wood Ducks and Black-Bellied Whistling Ducks." It may be obtained by writing TPWD, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744, or by calling toll-free 1-800-795-1112. They also are available from most TPWD field offices.

Fretness explained that wood and whistling ducks are cavity nesters, often using hollow trees. "The scarcity of suitable nesting sites is believed to affect the abundance and distribution of these ducks in Texas," Fretness said. "That's why this cooperative project has the potential to provide benefits to these two species."

The nesting box program has been two years in the making. Fretness said. "In fall 1985,

WHAT Ducks offered to donate nesting units for a wood duck study," he said. "Then Warden Terry Carroll and Capt. Alfred Janicki of the TDC became involved in 1986 by supplying inmate labor to construct boxes and predator guards."

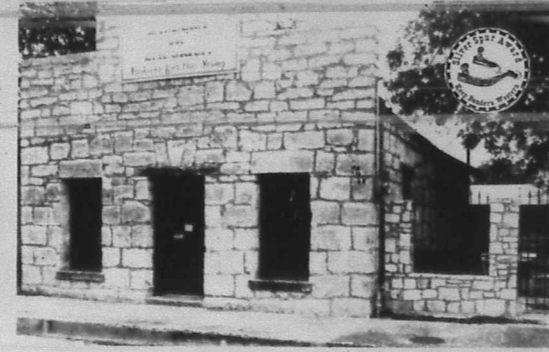

The Wildlife Operations Branch of Temple-Eastex made early donations of lumber to WHAT Ducks to get the TDC project operational. As the program grew, the need for more lumber also grew, Fretness said, and the Texas Forestry Association responded with a donation of a large trailer load of lumber.

"All members and contributors to WHAT Ducks have provided funds and equipment that would not otherwise have been available," Fretness continued. "Now Texas landowners can complete the cooperative effort by placing and maintaining the boxes in productive habitat."

Community Day

Churchwomen from the Kerrville and Boerne communities observed World Community Day Friday, Nov. 6, with programs in both communities titled "Sojourners for Justice." Some 1800 communicants across the country were scheduled to participate in Friday's observance.

The Bandera Jr. Emporium located on 11th Street may be the oldest stone building in the city. The restored structure was recently cited by the "Keep Bandera Western" committee with its Silver Spur award.

Castle Lake turkey shoot set

Volunteer firefighters of the Castle Lake Volunteer Fire Department are fired up for the 8th annual Turkey Shoot Saturday, Nov. 14.

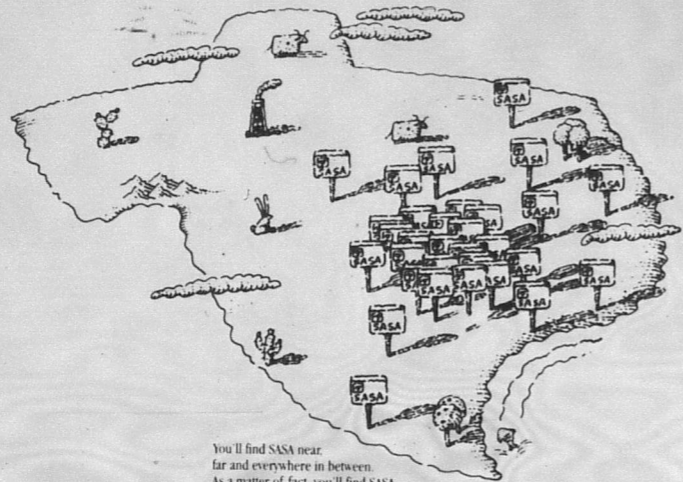

"Last year we passed out 40 turkeys and raised over $1,500," secretary Helen Martin said. "We're hoping to top those figures this year," she said. "A turkey will be won with every round fired," she added enthusiastically. "We're really grateful to Johnny Boyle for all the help he's giving us to keep the cost down," she added. The shoot will get underway at the firehouse at 10 a.m., and a special dinner will be served for children.

The children will vie for chickens instead of turkeys. To participate they need to bring their own BB gun or air rifle, and their own BB shot," Martin said. Guns used by adults will be available on-site. Martin said. The fee will be $2 per round and a turkey will be given with each round.

The ladies auxiliary will have the snack bar open throughout the event. "We'll have Firehouse Fun Fire and sausages wrapped in tortillas back by popular demand," Martin said. All proceeds from the Turkey Shoot go into the maintenance, operation, and upkeep of the firehouse and equipment. The Castle Lake Fire Department purchased a new fire truck last year from funds raised through Turkey Shoots, Chili Cookoffs, and other benefits.

Mule deer prospects 'good' in West Texas

Mule deer hunters can expect good hunting when the mule deer season opens Nov. 21 in the Texas Panhandle and Nov. 25 in the Trans-Pecos and West Texas.

Ted Clark, mule deer program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said range conditions in both regions have been excellent throughout most of 1987, and body condition and antler development are good as a result.

Mule deer populations are expected to be about the same as last year in most areas, and we will see some antlerless permits as the season opens," said Clark. The Panhandle has considerably less mule deer habitat than the Trans-Pecos. The population remains fairly stable in spite of chronically low crop prices, Clark said.

Comfort plans shopping day

Comfort's Chamber of Commerce will welcome hunters and bargain hunters alike to "Second Saturday Shopping" in Comfort Nov. 14.

The shopper-oriented event encourages merchants to feature special sales, stage restaurants to stock up on supplies, and welcome visitors to the Comfort community.

So far, Comfort doesn't have a traffic light—only stop signs and a few blinking lights at intersections, said Kathy Bohn, chamber president. "Many of our businesses are still operated by descendants of the original German settlers."

We have 45 antique dealers in right of the historic buildings in the downtown area.

Whitetails are unique

By Ray Brunk

The whitetail of Texas has many evolved physical qualities which give them advantages not enjoyed by other members of the animal kingdom. Many of these qualities are shared by other species, but the wide range of unique qualities would be difficult to find in any other animal.

Some of these unique qualities are found at birth. The birth of a whitetail is rapid and apparently bloodless. This is important to an animal when predators are near. During the birth process and immediately thereafter, the hair on the metatarsal gland on the rear hocks of the doe will stand erect, emitting a unique odor. If necessary, the doe can shut off, emitting this odor to attract predators away from the fawn. If left undisturbed, the doe will consume any birth residue, keeping the birth site odor free. The fawn is born free of odor. Dogs have been seen walking past newborn fawns without scenting the newly born animal.

In times of poor range and weather conditions, the whitetail doe is able to resorb the fetus, thus conserving precious body nutritional components, and preventing the birth of a poorly grown fawn into unacceptable living conditions.

The fawn is born with a spotted coat, enabling it to blend into the background while still vulnerable to predators. Although the fawn can move about within a few minutes of its birth, it spends its first few days within an area about 10 feet in diameter. Newborn fawns will instinctively hide rather than flee, although by the fifth day of life, fawns may make a desperate attempt to flee.

The milk of the doe is very rich in butterfat. While Jersey cow milk, the richest of cow milk, contains about 5 to 6 percent butterfat, milk of the whitetail doe consists of 11 to 12 percent butterfat.

This rich milk provides nourishment for quick growth and energy, and enables the fawn to gain survival strength quickly. Within a month, the fawn's interdigital glands, located between the hoofs, secrete an individual scent, allowing the doe to track her fawn should it wander away.

"It has good eyesight for movement, although it cannot determine color... and a motionless observer will usually not be detected."

The whitetail can bounce back rapidly from herd decimation. When conditions are ideal, a mature buck and doe could increase their numbers to 22 animals in five years. This is possible because some healthy doe fawns are fired their first year of life, producing one or two fawns. Fawn bucks, under a high nutritional diet, show rut behavior as early as five months, although they generally do not participate in breeding until their second rut season. If a doe should die, one of the other does in the herd will care for the fawn as if it were hers.

The whitetail has four stomachs. This is a definite advantage when predators are around. The whitetail can eat food rapidly, spending a minimum amount of vulnerable time then return to its hidden bed and leisurely chew cud brought up from its first stomach. After chewing sufficiently, the cud is then swallowed to the second stomach, starting the digestive process. Another cud is then chewed until all the stored food has been finally chewed and swallowed.

The whitetail can run extremely fast for short periods of time, but has very little stamina for the long chase. It can usually outdistance a predator with a short burst of speed, then has been observed to stop and continue grazing, keeping a wary eye on its backtrail for any continued pursuit. When pursued for lengths of time, the deer has been observed to use cover and water to intelligently confound its pursuer.

When cornered, its sharp hoofs are its usual weapon, with the antlers usually not used for defense. The antlers are used mostly during the rut for pushing, shoving and intimidating, although some fighting bucks have gored their opponent to death.

The whitetail has very sharp senses. It has good eyesight for movement, although it cannot determine color with any great degree of success, and a motionless observer will usually not be detected by sight.

The hearing of the whitetail is superb. The snap of a twig is enough to start it running in flight. Because it relies upon its hearing for protection, the whitetail is uncomfortable and tense during windy conditions. It will usually hole up and wait for wind conditions to improve, since the noise of the wind covers up the sounds of danger.

The nose of the whitetail is extremely sensitive. Even masking scents such as skunk odor will not completely cover the scent of man, and many wary deer are able to pick up the scent and flee.

The whitetail shares some survival qualities with other members of the animal kingdom, although many of its qualities are unique. Few, if any, other animals on earth are endowed with as many protective qualities bestowed on them by nature.

The safety record for natural gas is impressive, and peace of mind is an important part of what natural gas has to offer. By following these simple rules, you can have even greater comfort in natural gas.

Do you know why gas has a strong odor? Because we have added a harmless odorant to the gas that lets you know it's there. This is for your safety, so if you ever smell the strong odor of gas in your home, follow these rules:

1. Do not switch anything except on or off. Do not use your own telephone. (Telephones use small amounts of electricity. Do not strike a match, and do not do anything that might cause a spark.)
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open for ventilation.
3. Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause, before returning to your home.

Since gas will run underground, you should also take precautions against disrupting these lines, particularly if you plan to:

1. Put in a new fence.
2. Install an underground sprinkler system.
3. Perform any major landscape renovation.

Before you dig, call your local Lone Star Gas office. If you smell a gas odor while you're outside, immediately contact Lone Star Gas.

In our continuing effort to provide better service, local Lone Star Gas offices are ready to answer any questions that contractors may have concerning the location of gas lines in their areas.

Phone company gets customer complaints

A Vanderpool resident, Lynn Scotty says phone company officials Steve Evans shouldn't have been surprised by reports that phone customers in Vanderpool were dissatisfied, and she goes on to say that when she contacted Evans, he acknowledged that he had records of complaints from both Scotty and Nick Schryver.

Evans was quoted in last week's Bulletin saying he had "never heard from the two individuals in the paper (Scotty and Schryver)." I personally sent the phone company a letter approximately one year ago with log entries from one month of service problems. I was an average monthly bill had about 25 entries, and I got credit on my bill," Scotty says.

"We know the service people are doing the best they can with antiquated equipment," she continues. "The fault lies with the management." Scotty explains that the Rock Springs-based Southwest Texas Telephone Company increased rates in 1985 based on their statement that work would be completed in 1986.

"I have a copy of the examiner's report in hand," says Scotty.

Baptists appoint

The Rev. Robert Schmeltkopf has been named director of missions of the Hill Country Baptist Area effective Jan. 1. He will succeed the Rev. Billy Clarke, who retired in December.

Rev. Schmeltkopf comes from San Antonio, where he has served four years in a similar position. Prior to becoming a director of missions, he served 28 years pastoring Southern Baptist churches. His last church as pastor was the Trinity Baptist Church in Kerrville, serving there six years.

BEAUTY'S BABY

One day, recently, the children and I stopped, on our way home, to get Beauty and her baby, Beauty lives at Mr. Roker's farm, not far from our home, and the coming of her colt had been a prime topic of conversation for several weeks.

This particular day Carla's question about Starlight's Daddy and his whereabouts sparked a discussion with my three thimble that ranged from God's plan for the birth and care of baby animals, on to people and their babies.

It was a rare and precious moment, such as parents and teachers treasure, when young minds reach out effortlessly for information and understanding.

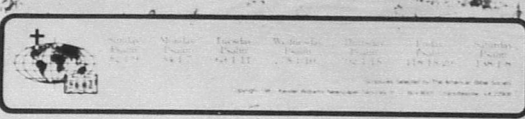

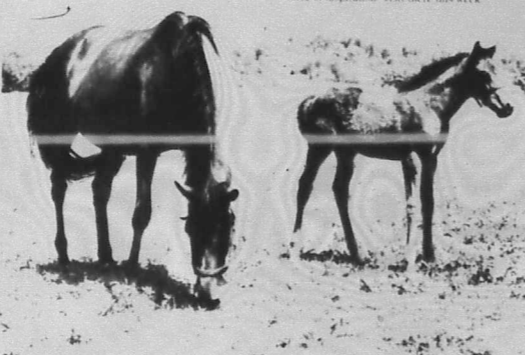

As we drove home, I thanked God for the opportunity He had given me to share in this eager unfolding of my children's thoughts and ideas. I thanked Him, too, for His Church which had inspired my religious growth and thus helped me keep peace with the developing queries of my children.

Let your Church of Synagogue become your source of inspiration. Visit there this week.

Sabinal Canyon

By Lillie Thompson — 986-3493

Good rain fell Sunday Nov. 8, when a cold front moved in bringing thunder and lightning. Rains varied from Vanderpool to Utopia and further south. We gauged 1.25 while Utopia received 2.03 inches.

Vanderpool Wolf Club will sponsor a pancake supper at the Utopia Community Building on Nov. 21, beginning at 4 p.m. Fifteen door prizes will be awarded.

The Rev. Bob Taylor of La Vern, Okla., completed a revival Thursday, Nov. 5, at Vanderpool Community Church. He and his wife brought special messages in music and song each of five nights. They were assisted by the Rev. Jim Boyd and wife Brenda.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Grant have sold their ranch below Utopia to Mr. and Mrs. Steve O'Kara, reserving enough land to move in to a doublewide trailer and a doublewide trailer for Clara B. Wallace.

Builders are working clearing and cleaning the land. Clara B. Wallace states they will have a regular little community there.

S.J. and G.W. Carson accompanied by Ada Ruth Reiber toured Louisiana this week.

The Carsons' son, Jordy Michael of Lafayette returned with the group for a visit with his parents.

The Utopia Arts and Craft Guild will sponsor their 25th annual fair on Nov. 14-15 on community square in Utopia. Local artists will display Hill Country arts, crafts, still-lives, home-canned and baked goods and plants.

Utopia High School seniors will serve meals at noon Sunday. Cold drinks, coffee, and pies will be sold each day.

The Sabinal Canyon Senior Council's annual Thanksgiving luncheon has been postponed from Nov. 11 to Nov. 20. Bring a covered dish and make your plans to attend.

There will be a bake sale Friday Nov. 13 sponsored by the Sabinal Canyon Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Thanksgiving services this year will be held Sunday, Nov. 22 when Baptists and Methodists will join services at the Methodist Church with the Rev. Homer Stephens bringing the message.

There will be a meeting at Utopia Community Building Nov. 19 beginning at 4 a.m. where tests will be run for cholesterol and high risk heart attacks. Charges will be $6 each.

Hoyt and Doris Foster, left, being cited by Jim Hightower and Ann Richards.

Foster ranch recognized

Hoyt M. and Doris A. Foster of Vanderpool were honored Thursday, Nov. 5, by the Texas Department of Agriculture as one of the 100 farm and ranch families cited for their contributions to the continuous agricultural production for more than 100 years.

The Foster Ranch was founded in 1866.

All of us in Texas must view today's Family Land Heritage celebration as more than a ceremony honoring some long-time farm and ranch families," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, in brief remarks.

The State of Texas must rededicate itself to the family farm and ranch system, and we as a people must join in the search for solutions that allow families such as these to continue what they do best so that future generations of Texans can benefit from the efficiency and productivity of their heirs.

Not is it a matter of just appreciating Texas farmers and ranchers out of some sense of nostalgia, but rather our continued reliance on their ingenuity and productivity, our state's greatest wealth is not in the oil and gas wells, it is not in the high tech industries, it is in the people who live on the land, the water, and the people who love it — these people are our heroes today.

Each of the 100 honored families was presented with a certificate from Hightower, and a metal gate sign chronicling the historical significance of their property. A brief history of their farm or ranch will be included in the 1987 Texas Family Land Heritage Registry.

The qualifications for TDA's Family Land Heritage Program are quite specific. The land must have been in continuous agricultural production since 1887; the owners must reside in Texas and actively manage and direct the daily operations; and all the land cannot have been leased to someone outside the family. TDA is the final judge on all entries.

Families who believe they will qualify for the program in 1988 will be able to obtain application forms from their county judge, county historical commission, their nearest TDA district office, or by writing the Family Land Heritage Program, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, TX 78711.

Applications will be accepted in mid-June, with next year's Family Land Heritage recipients to be honored at a ceremony in Austin next fall.

Volunteer Joyce Sellberg's vivacious and innovative personality adds zest to the cheerful atmosphere at the Silver Sage Corral.

San Antonio-born, she remembers a happy childhood. "My parents were interesting people who owned a truck garden in Belgian Gardens. We had all kinds of animals, even a nanny goat. My sister needed goat's milk, so my mother bought a goat," she said.

After graduating from Our Lady of the Lake College, Joyce went to Texas State College for Women, majoring in dramatic arts and gained her teaching certificate.

While attending a party at the Happy Heart Youth Club at the Sacred Heart Church, she met John Sellberg, a young plumber, in 1936 and they became good friends.

In 1939 she began a two-year stint as teacher and principal in a two-room schoolhouse in Bly, near Hondo.

She taught in San Antonio for six years before moving to San Bernardino, Calif., where she taught for two years.

John, a native San Antonian, was shipped to Pearl Harbor in 1941 and eventually to Europe, with no leave to the war ended in 1945.

They were married at Sacred Heart Church, where they had met nine years earlier, in 1945. They have one daughter.

"I always wanted babies, but had just one, so I opened a kindergarten in my own home when my daughter was two-and-a-half. Would you believe it flourished for 18 years? We started kindergarten in my daughter's bedroom, but soon outgrew it and had to have a separate building."

"When my daughter went away to college, I closed the doors to 'Happy Hours.' I went back to Trinity University and got my master's degree in 1967. That was a thrill," she beamed.

She taught three years in a "poverty pocket" and feels she learned as well as taught during that time. Then, on the flip side, she taught in Lockhill and was named "Teacher of the Year" by the Northside Independent School District in 1976.

After the war, John resumed his career as plumber, supervising work on large buildings. He was in charge of the plumbing in the first high-rise on Hildebrand Avenue in San Antonio.

In 1980, he had triple by-pass surgery and his life patterns were changed. He turned to raising exotic animals. Joyce retired in 1982 and they moved to their Pipe Creek ranch where they feel life is exciting and fruitful.

Joyce's love for children continues. Beside having four grandchildren to love and care for, she is a volunteer for the summer program at the Bandera County Library.

The Sellbergs are members of the St. Stanislaus Catholic Church where Joyce sings in the choir.

Her hobbies range from reading, scouting and ceramics to clearing cedar from their property.

"The center makes you feel good about yourself," she says. "It teams with enthusiasm. You come in and see all the people full of life and energy and you know they all have something wrong, and your troubles don't seem so bad."

"Oh, yes I have pets," she laughed. "Not counting the exotics, we have peafowl, two cats and two dogs."

"Life has so many things to offer. I guess I would say that I look forward. Every day is a brand new day with something new in it."

JOE MIKE EGAN

Back in 1976, in my first bid for District Attorney, I set out my reasons for being a Republican. They were:

"Turning now to why I am a Republican, I would point out that the phrase 'Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness' used by our founding fathers had its genesis in the earlier words of the English Philosopher, John Locke. The words used by John Locke were more direct, however, and not subject to misunderstanding, life, liberty and PROPERTY. Retention of the blunt word, PROPERTY, even if not as palatable to the ear, could have avoided the difficulty later politicians, like Mr. McGovern, seem to be having in understanding what was meant. Whether as stated in scripture (the law of the harvest) or philosophy (life, Liberty and PROPERTY), or more simply by my dad-DAD AND HAVE-IT is bedrock truth that is being recognized. Departure from this truth, even momentarily, is frivolous, and, if sustained, has to be ultimately calamitous. In national politics the Democrats squarely turned their back on this Truth with FDR in 1932. It is because the Republican Party stands for affording people freedom to grow and prosper according to their own choices that I choose to be a Republican. I have been a Republican all of my life."

(From letter to voters 4/24/76)

Having been raised where my dad and mother cancelled each other's votes (my mother saw Roosevelt as a champion of ordinary people, as we all are.) I see choice of a political party as a matter of individual conscience. About all there is to watch out for in selecting a judge is to see that this choice is based on conscience rather than on political opportunism.

Thanks for your attention,
Joe Mike Egan

County of Bandera

I, Elizabeth James, Treasurer of the County of Bandera, State of Texas, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the Financials of said County for the year beginning October 1, 1986 and ending on September 30, 1987, as was approved in open session by the Bandera County Commissioners Court on November 9, 1987.

Rain-postponed races to be run this weekend

Bandera County's first scheduled racing weekend after the successful pari-mutuel election was a muddled and short-lived affair Sunday, Nov. 8. "We got two races off and then the lightning got so bad we had to call it off," said track manager and co-owner Linda Scruby.

Health department clinic Wednesday in Lakehills

Adults will be seen in the morning and children in the afternoon at a health clinic sponsored by the Texas Department of Health Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the Lakehills American Legion Hall. The Adult Health Clinic from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and the Immunization Clinic from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., do not take the place of a regular medical check up, according to public health nurse Betty Staples, but they focus on prevention and education.

"We can screen for the chronic diseases such as hypertension, diabetes, and obesity," explains the nurse. "Then, when we identify people at risk, we deal with it through counseling and education." Staples explains that one of the target groups is young adults. "At age 25, when you're going to be thinking about what will happen at 40."

The nurse says that they also receive many inquiries about AIDS screening. Anyone who requires testing for AIDS can be tested in Kerrville, she explains. The fees for services are based on income, and Staples says that fees range from no charge for those in the poverty category to $10 for an initial visit from those in the highest bracket. "Any adult can come," she says. "In general, everyone should have a tetanus-diphtheria booster every 10 years."

Quarterback Ronnie Bain (25) gains some of the 674 yards he gained this season as Tony LeSturgeon prepared to apply a block.

300-pound boar killed

A 300-pound Russian boar and two more smaller wild hogs were hunted down and killed with the help of some tracking hounds on the Felix Billings ranch near Tarpley Tuesday, Nov. 3. Several local men including Howard, Clay and Ty Billings, John Dale Chaney, and Shane Stacey tracked and killed the hogs with the help of several other men from San Antonio. There are several types of wild hogs that are found in the Bandera and Tarpley area, however, according to Howard Billings, their normal size is usually somewhat less than 300 pounds.

By Tom Denyer

According to George Gaylord Simpson's "Horses," the zoological family Equidae goes back 60 million years. They started off about the size of a fox terrier, according to Glenn R. Varnam's "Man on Horseback."

Most members of the family are now extinct. Living relatives include not only the wild ass and zebra, but also the South American tapir and the African rhinoceros. Man's breeding has improved the speed of the wild horse, but not by much. The original design was already suited to ranging on the hard soil of the plains, eating harsh grasses, and escaping enemies with bursts of speed.

In particular, the lower legs are elongated and the running muscles are bunched high on the upper leg, so relatively short muscle motions create maximum motion of the entire leg.

The first association between man and horse was not that pleasant from the horse's perspective, since the horse got eaten. Man began to domesticate horses in Asia several thousand years before the birth of Christ. Domesticated horses spread to most of Europe, Asia and North Africa by 1000 B.C.

The Arabian is generally recognized as the oldest maintained breed, dating back to about 700 B.C.

One of the earliest uses of the horse and historically the most significant was in war. Both Mohammed and Genghis Khan taught the West the superiority of combat from horseback.

In Greek mythology, the first horse, Pegaseus, grew out of the soil where the blood fell when Perseus beheaded Medusa. When Bellerophon set out to slay the Chimera, he approached Minerva for advice.

She pointed out the winged steed drinking at the Well of Pirene, handed Bellerophon a golden bridle, and he went on to win the first combat victory on horseback.

In another version, Neptune and Athena had a contest over who could give humans the greatest benefit. Athena gave the olive tree, and Neptune the horse.

The horse has also been a beast of burden, but not to the extent of mules, donkeys and oxen.

The horse also has a long association with the upper classes. The constitution of ancient Athens recognized horse owners as a special class, the hippeis. European languages retain the English "cavalier," the French "chevalier," the Spanish "caballero," the German "Ritter" — all terms for the socially superior horseman.

In 1928 the number of horses in the U.S. peaked at 21 million. There are about one-third that number today, an obvious testament to our shift to an automobile culture.

Ride out the storms

Dear Editor:
Less than two years ago the city of Bandera was facing certain doom. The distinct possibility of a female (thought by some to be young, inexperienced, radical, etc.) assuming command motivated a few concerned citizens into action.

Not to worry. Mr. Smith will come out of retirement for the good of all concerned. His quote in the Bulletin: "I think it is a special privilege to be elected to any public office when that position has a direct effect on the lives, health, and well being of the very people that choose you."

End of story, right? Wrong.
Three new council members were elected, if I remember correctly, by a respectable majority of the vote. All of the crew is aboard (new and old), so the ship gets under way. Before the cruise is completed, bad weather looms on the horizon, so the captain abandons ship. His administrative officer thinks it is a good idea and goes with him. The ship does weather the storm, returns to port, enlists new crew members, and gets under way again. End of story.

Something to think about: Valuing honesty and integrity means pursuing the truth whenever and wherever we find it. It means standing our ground even if no one else supports us. It means avoiding the easy way out. It requires honoring our commitments and accepting responsibility.

Should some type of written contract exist between elected officials and their constituents? Does an implied contract exist? How are two members of the council dealing in pettiness, ignorance, and short-sightedness? Evidently they are influencing other council members because they alone do not constitute a majority.

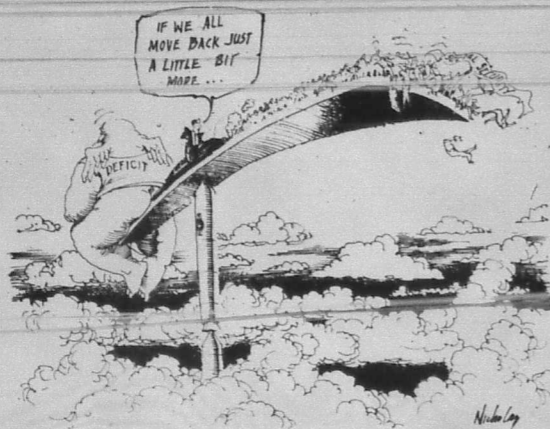

Advice to the ex-mayor: Enjoy your retirement. No doubt it is well deserved. To the ex-secretary: If by chance you accept another job and enjoy it as much as your city job, never and I mean never, let two old boys that don't sign your paycheck or supervise your daily duties run you off.

To the new crew members: If you join the crew and rough weather looms on the horizon, single up and set out to sea and ride out the storm. To the tide at the pier is certain doom. Sometimes the roughest seas lie above the oyster beds full of pearls.

Political hacks not needed

Mattox in hot water again, this time with treasurers

Attorney General Jim Mattox, for the second time this fall, returned from a trip out of the country to find himself in a political cross-fire that rocks his campaign train.

Last week Mattox returned from Central American to face what remained of the wrath of several Texas county treasurers who speculated that he was, in effect, using political blackmail to shake them down for campaign contributions.

Almost three weeks ago, Mattox told the annual conference of the County Treasurers Association of Texas that a legal opinion that would erode their powers was pending before him.

A couple of days later, Mattox's campaign asked for money and support from treasurers across the state.

The solicitation riled some treasurers, including some of the GOP persuasion, and they took the issue to the press. Mattox's staff was really hotfooting to stamp out the brush fire before the boss returned.

Manipulation denied

Mattox, now running for governor, has been asked to render a legal opinion whether county payrolls should be handled by the treasurers or the county auditors.

A spokesman for Mattox said that his 11-member opinion committee would probably resign if the attorney general tried to manipulate the opinion as speculated.

Mattox vs. PUC

Earlier, Mattox returned from Russia to find the Public Utilities Commission had kicked him off rate cases representing consumers.

They'll fight it out in the Texas Supreme Court.

Last week PUC commissioners continued the sabre-rattling by hiring a prestigious Austin law firm to represent them in the high court drama.

But the question of conflict of interest arose once it was discovered that the law firm also represents utility companies that are challenging PUC rates.

AIDS testing debate

State Insurance Board members listened to insurance companies push hard for permanent rules giving them the right to test prospective policy purchasers for AIDS. The industry says it can't stay in business if it has to insure sick people.

"We're not engaged in any kind of social service, or welfare service, or health service. We're in the insurance business," one spokesman said.

But Glenn Maxey, former Capitol aide, now head of a gay group, warned of the need for strict limits on such testing.

He wants the industry barred from requiring anyone to take an AIDS blood test except in certain cases, where health history raises the possibility of AIDS.

CBS television's "60 Minutes" has prepared a report on the big money politics of the Texas Supreme Court.

There's no place like home. That was the consensus of a study of a group of Hill Country deer conducted by Texas A&M University.

The study, aimed at determining the home range (the area where an animal spends the majority of its time), was conducted in Gillespie County (Fredericksburg) and involved 14 does and five bucks. Each deer was equipped with a radio transmitter and its movements tracked for 12 months, according to wildlife specialist Dale Rollins of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The results indicated that a doe has a small home range, averaging just over 250 acres. For bucks, the figure was slightly over 1,000 acres. Rollins said.

Bucks tend to roam over larger areas, especially during the rutting season in fall and winter, he said.

No information is available on whether deer roam over larger areas or smaller than they did five or ten years ago. In other words, we don't know whether a buck goes further today than it used to.

The wife of Pipe Creek chiropractor Dr. Craig A. Billingsley suggests a service the Bulletin can perform for its readers, and we're willing if there's demand out there in reader land.

She suggests readers who have questions on any subject direct those questions to the Bulletin. It will be our task to find an answer.

If your question is on history, we'll ask historical commission chairwoman Peggy Tobin, for example. If it's about electricity, we'll ask Buddy Sandridge. In other words, we'll ask Leslie Davis. You get the idea.

There's experts in Bandera County on just about any subject, and if the question is so esoteric we have to go to places like the University of Texas at San Antonio, we will do so happily.

So let's see those questions roll in. We welcome the challenge of finding the answers.

A view from the lake

Many times in this column you've read about the uniqueness of Bandera County and its people. There's no place quite like Bandera County.

Where else, but Bandera County, will you find the editor of the newspaper serving as a Democratic county chairman? And the staff writer on the opposite side of his wall serving as Republican county chairman?

Where else, but Bandera County, will you find the Republican county chairman's son announcing he'll file as a candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ballot?

Where else, but Bandera County, will you find the Republican county chairman writing the announcement for a Democratic office seeker?

Where else, but Bandera County, will you find the Republican county chairman seeking candidates to run on the Republican ballot against her son, who is running on the Democratic ballot?

I've also written columns before on things that come in threes. Good things still come in threes.

Today I learned of three good candidates filing for office, two will be on the Republican primary ballot and one will be on the Democratic primary ballot.

There were also three other nice surprises for me today. I received a thank you note attached to a lovely bouquet of autumn flowers. I received a phone call from someone I hadn't heard from since the May primary two years ago, and third was a message on my desk when I returned from lunch.

It read, "Congressman Lamar Smith just called to say Hello. There's no need to call him back."

Now where else but Bandera County can you have so many pleasant surprises in one day. Particularly on the first Wednesday after Friday the 13th?

Bennie Barker says he'll run

Democrat Bennie McNeill Barker of Wharton's Dock this week announced his intention to seek his party's nomination for county commissioner in precinct 1 in the March 8.

He is the first Democrat to announce for the spot held for the past 12 years by Jimmy Russell (Barker Russell said Oct. 12 that he would not seek another term).

Republican Richard Thornber seeks the Republican nomination for the post.

Barker, 52, is retired from the corporation industry. He was an expeditor on the Alaska oil pipeline, working in the Prudhoe Bay oil fields, the Kenai gas plant, and the hydroelectric plant and dam at Kodiak.

He has been a Lakeshore subdivision property owner for five years in Wharton's Dock and is a member of the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department, the American Legion, and the Wharton County Chamber of Commerce.

He was also active in civic activities in Alaska where he served as mayor of Whittier, Alaska, and member of the Alaska Pipeline Impact Committee. "I believe I can put this valuable experience to good use in fulfilling the duties and responsibilities of county commissioner," he said.

He said he was successful as mayor in securing "several million dollars" in grants for water and sewer improvements, roads, schools and a boat harbor. "I learned early the necessity of working closely with our local, state and federal officials in securing grants and direct appropriations to help meet community needs," he said.

He says he will be a full-time commissioner to make himself available to residents of the precinct.

"There's an old saying that the squeaking wheel gets the grease," he said. "I intend to squeak loud and long to insure that our needs are met and I look forward to the challenge."

Barker is married, and he and his wife, Patricia Ellen, a native of Alice, have five grown children. The Barkers currently own a mail-order gift business called Barker's World of Gifts.

anyone question about James being sheriff is his youth. Pick it up for it. He's had five years with the department and I know if I were in my 20 again, I'd have a lot more energy to put into the job," he added.

"I want to see Bandera County grow. It's growing fast and strong leadership and management is needed in the sheriff's department to keep pace with the growth in the county," MacMillan said.

"The county needs long range planning to handle the growth and changes the county will experience in the next ten years with the growth San Antonio is taking in the northwest area of Bexar county," MacMillan said.

"I think the programs we've started for the young people in the county on drug abuse, safety, and awareness in the school systems are good. I hope to see them continue and become even more a part of the education system in the district. Also it is important that the neighborhood watch programs be continued in the county."

DAV donates van, drivers to take vets to hospital

Bandera veterans need not worry about transportation to and from the VA hospital or clinic.

"Among those affected by the benefit cut were most veterans seeking treatment for service-connected disabilities, as well as indigent veterans who have virtually no other source of health care," Nitchae said.

"The DAV simply could not stand aside and watch hundreds of thousands of veterans being left without health care simply because they live some distance from a VA hospital and had no means of transportation. Thanks to contributions from grateful Americans, many of them right there in Bandera, we were able to respond to this great need."

The number of DAV donated vans across the country will increase to 24 by the end of the year. The one million member organization hopes to fully meet the transportation needs of veterans at all of the VA's 172 medical centers before the end of 1988, donating vans wherever necessary.

"The DAV Transportation Network was established last spring when budget constraints forced the VA to terminate beneficiary travel benefits for nearly all veterans using VA facilities for medical treatment," said DAV National Director of Voluntary Services Bruce Nitchae. These benefits were paid to veterans to help them cover the costs of getting to

Bandera man arrested in rape of male senior citizen here

Neighbors investigating screams coming from a house at 605 13th Street summoned Bandera police when they discovered a 65-year-old man being sexually assaulted. Bandera police chief Walter Welch said.

Louis Fernandez, 29, of Bandera was arrested at the scene and charged with sexual assault on the older man and charged with indecent exposure in the presence of a child, the chief said.

"In our investigation we learned he had exposed himself in front of the child and the child was present when the assault took place Saturday night," Welch said.

Fernandez remained in Bandera County Jail Tuesday in lieu of paying the $20,000 bond set on the sexual assault charge and bond on the indecent exposure charge.

In other police matters this week, a Lakehills family lost over $10,000 in valuables to burglars; thieves cut a rope tying a black chow dog to a jacuzzi in an attempt to steal the jacuzzi; a vehicle stolen from San Antonio was pulled from 12 feet of water in Medina Lake; three young people were injured in a truck rollover on Highway 16; and five persons were arrested for driving while intoxicated.

None of the incidents were related to the opening of hunting season Saturday.

Frank and Jean Hay of Lakehills reported Thursday burglars had stolen household items valued at over $10,000 from their home off Coasthill Road in Lakehills. Among the stolen items are silverware, crystal, a horse collection of 300 to 400 pieces, camera and projection equipment, chain saws, heaters, movie camera, a sewing machine, a knitting machine, and three burglar alarms. Deputy James MacMillan said.

A swimming pool pump and filter were taken from a home being constructed by Mark Wasserman on English Crossing in Bandera Falls Saturday night. "The burglars attempted to steal a jacuzzi he had in the back yard also. He had tied a black chow dog to the jacuzzi to deter anyone taking it and the rope had been cut, but apparently the dog scared the thieves off," MacMillan said.

A fisherman fishing on the west side of Elm Cove in Medina Lake discovered an automobile under about 12 feet of water Friday. "The 1979 Nissan, 2 door, was recovered from the water and our investigation revealed it was stolen out of San Antonio about two weeks ago," MacMillan said.

"Shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday a truck driven by James R. Fender, 17, of Pipe Creek went out of control on rain-slick Highway 16 near Privilege Creek and flipped over twice. The driver was taken by Pipe Creek EMS to Methodist Hospital in San Antonio for treatment of injuries. His passengers, Kimberly Albrecht and Charles McCay of Lakehills were not seriously injured and did not require hospitalization, MacMillan said.

The driver was exceeding the speed limit and the speed mixed with the slick wet road is believed to have been the cause of the accident," the deputy said.

Arrested and released after paying bonds for driving while intoxicated last week were Ramon Fabre, 41, of Kerrville, Patrick McGroarty, 35, of Kerrville, Michael R. Kesse, 27, of Medina, Barney Trimble, 58, of Utopia, and Clyde Hall, 47, of Pasadena.

Arrested Friday was Joyce Smallwood, 34, of San Antonio for possession of marijuana, Officer two ounces. She was released the same day after she paid her bond and fine, MacMillan said.

Bandera VFD earning funds for 1,000-gallon pumper

Bandera's VFD barbecue dinner was "a success" according to Fire Chief Tommy Adams, and assistant chiefs Joe Rodriguez and Phil Tobin.

"We made around $1,100," said Rodriguez. "Over 400 people were served."

Tobin said the money will eventually be used to replace the department's "first of the line pumper," which is almost 30 years old.

"We need the new pumper to meet the qualifications for city insurance," explained Adams. The kind of truck Adams, Tobin and Rodriguez are talking about starts at $65,000.

"Equipment is expensive," said Rodriguez. "It's not like we are using the money to buy things we don't need. The right equipment is necessary."

The new pumper they are looking at has a 1,000 gallon water tank which will help fight county fires.

"The truck we have now is adequate for fires in the city, but we want to stress that we are also a county fire department," said Rodriguez.

The Bandera firefighters went on a call Tuesday, Nov. 17, to fight a grassfire near the Stella Kesse home in Medina. They report the fire was small and quickly contained.

Banker in training

Elizabeth Batto of Bandera Bank was one of more than 80 students attending the week-long seventh annual East Texas State University Bank Operations Institute according to BOI director Ruth Riley.

The institute featured intensive study stressing technical banking expertise and general banking skills as well as in-depth examination of all traditional areas of operations in banks.

Instructors included banking regulators, financial consultants, university professors and other experts in the banking industry.

Members of the Bandera Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Bandera Disabled American Veterans, and the Bandera and Lakehills American Legion posts unveiled the new memorial to U.S. servicemen of all wars in front of Bandera's county courthouse Veteran's Day, Wednesday, Nov. 11. The stone marker was paid for from funds raised by the four veterans groups. A new sidewalk fronting all the monuments was a gift from the groups' auxiliaries.

Elves Elsie Word, Peggy Ashmore and Tony Kruse demonstrate how they hope the 40 Elf Karen jars will be received in Bandera County businesses. Over $1,065 was collected last year, say the elves. All the collections go to fund the Spirits of Christmas Presents which distributes yuletide gifts to those in need.

Dart tourney to benefit Elf Karen

The money jars were put out last weekend, and this weekend there will be a marathon dart tournament to benefit the Spirits of Christmas Presents according to Elf Karen Jackson.

Last year they had a dart tournament at Fiddlin' Around in Lakehills. Jackson said, "Mile has said they want to have two tournaments this year to raise more money."

Millie Harrison of Fiddlin' Around, located on Park Road 17 in Lakehills, said the tournament last year raised over $1,000 and they hope to double that this year.

The dart marathon starts Friday night, Nov. 20, lasting from 8 p.m. to midnight. Harrison said, "Saturday, the tournament continues from 10 a.m. to 1 a.m. then Sunday from noon to 8 p.m."

She says at 8 p.m. Sunday they will shut the tournament down and begin the finals.

"We will have first and second place trophies," Harrison explained.

William Francis Johnston

William Francis Johnston died October 19, 1987 at the age of 51, after a brief illness. The son of the late Gene Johnston, a Bandera County rancher, and Louise Bogan Johnston, he was the grandson of M.F. Johnston, a pioneer builder-rancher, and of William Francis Bogan, a San Antonio newspaper executive and political figure.

Raised in Bandera and San Antonio, William attended Central Catholic High School prior to graduating from Bandera High School. He served 25 years in the navy. Dedicated and ambitious, he rose rapidly in rank with a variety of assignments. His tours included sea duty as well as an assignment with naval intelligence in the Pacific Basin, and duty as an instructor in California and the Great Lakes area. Later he volunteered for submarine service and was assigned to the Atlantic Fleet at Newport News, VA. In the early 1970s Johnston developed and directed Operation Drydock, the Navy's alcohol rehabilitation program. Johnston married Vicki Bradley, daughter of Malcolm and Claudia Bradley of Lynchburg, VA. Mr. Bradley is a real estate developer and builder.

After retiring from the navy as Senior Chief Petty Officer, Johnston held a management position with a hardware supply company in Virginia. Later he joined the Virginia State Department of Corrections as a senior counselor, a post he held at the time of his death.

Services were conducted by the Reverend Gordon Benton, Rhodes M. Artz, Sr., and Neal Houston Myers. An honor guard of Virginia State Correctional officers escorted the procession. Flags were flown at halfmast for the day at all State Correctional Institutions.

Johnston is survived by his wife, Vicki, four sons and four daughters, a sister, Katherine Vane of Littleton, CO, and brother, Gary G.C. Johnston of Bandera.

Chimney Sweeps

What's It Like To Have A Chimney Fire?

It's no fun! If it doesn't burn the house down, it will probably wreck your chimney and scare you half to death. Here's how it happens.

Begin with one dirty chimney — let's say a fireplace not cleaned for a couple of years. The soot lining the chimney is saturated with flammable stuff called creosote. (More detail on creosote is available in any dictionary.) It doesn't take much to ignite creosote — a newspaper fire sending flames up to the damper is enough.

Once kindled, creosote burns with joyous abandon. In a matter of seconds the fire spreads up through the flue creating a draft that only helps things along.

Linda J. Parker, executive director of the District Claim Senior Activities Center in Kerrville, and Frank Adams, executive director of the Area Agency on Aging, have announced the operation of an Outreach Case Management Pilot Program to include Bandera, Kerr, and Kendall counties.

The program, in successful operation in several metropolitan districts, utilizes a services package format in which qualified participants are assessed by a case manager who determines what services are in need and available on an individual basis. The participant is then directly referred to the service provider for which they have qualified and the amount of time delay in receiving the service is eliminated.

At present, the pilot project will offer assistance in telephone reassurance, home visits, escort, nutrition, transportation, and referral to other service providers. In the future the program will also encompass in-home health care on a limited basis.

Christy M. Fair, outreach coordinator for the District Claim, will oversee the program in the three county district and will be available at the Silver Sage Corral at least once weekly.

According to Mrs. Fair, this is the first trial of the program in a rural setting and represents a major improvement in service accessibility for rural elderly. "The funding agencies have recognized that many times the problems and requirements of the elderly person living out in the country are just as profound as the city dwelling counterpart," she says.

The Silver Sage Corral, the center's exercise group, enjoyed its usual morning workout but with a special added reward on Monday, Nov. 16. Following the session, Sagettes members celebrated a collective birthday for Esther Hen, Fannie Caffall, and Tandie Jordan with breakfast goodies.

For further information on the Sagettes, contact Judy Good, enough at the center.

The Melodiers, a chorus, and The Auto Angels, the instrumental counterpart, have accepted invitations for four performances over the coming holiday season.

They will be in concert in Kerrville, Leon Springs, Pipe Creek, and Bandera.

They have been practicing Christmas music for some weeks now on both sessions. The Auto

Bandera Sage Arantha believes in staying busy

In spite of a back injury that restricts her movements, plucky and determined Arantha Stein is a member of the "cane set" at the Silver Sage Corral, letting nothing get in her way. If she can help it, she'll be in the corral at 2:30 a.m. just outside of Bandera, she learned to ride a horse "like a wild Indian."

She remembers a hard and rugged life. They had horses, cows, goats and sheep. "When we had to dip all the animals every 21 days, I worked hard. You can't do it if you're old," she said. A sad memory surfaced when she thought of a turkey hunt when her 12-year-old sister was killed when her gun went off accidentally.

Arantha attended Mason Creek School and graduated from Bandera High. She married Joe Stein in 1922. After being told that she could have no children, they adopted a girl. Fourteen years later Arantha birthed a little girl.

Joe was a railroad man, but during the Depression, jobs were few and in 1931 he signed on to the road crew that built the first paved highway in Bandera. They worked for 50 cents a day and used mules to haul gravel.

In 1938 the Steins moved to San Antonio and started a home laundry, picking up clothes on Sunday and washing on Monday. "We managed on $22 a week and were able to buy a second hand car and a refrigerator," she said proudly.

In 1941 Joe was again employed with the railroad until he retired in 1959.

They moved back to the old homestead in 1958 and stayed there until they built and moved into their Bandera home in 1964. Joe died in 1970, but Arantha still holds down the fort and enjoys her four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

While in San Antonio, Arantha worked for years in a candy store, eight years at Winn and when they returned to Bandera, she worked several years as a clerk for Frank Mansfield.

She enjoyed working. "I like being around people," she said. Crocheting and quilting are her hobbies. She quilted with a group 11 years in the old jail, and now they quilt in a garage.

She is a dedicated and active member of St. Stanislaus Church. She likes meeting with her friends at the center and regrets that she can't go more often. "I have too much to do at home. I even cut my own lawn. As long as I have something to hang on to, I can manage most anything," she says.

Claiming to be a workaholic, she said, "I believe in work. It keeps you out of trouble."

Volunteers sought for duty on Thanksgiving Day

Silver Sage Corral is looking for food preparers, packagers and drivers to volunteer their time to make Thanksgiving a reality for some, according to spokeswoman Vi Strand.

"Thanksgiving and its traditions live on," says Strand. "Children learn in school the Pilgrims' feast of celebrations, with the plucking, dressing and stuffing of the wild turkey, the preparation of vegetables harvested from long summer's labor."

On the great day, after a prayer of thanks, food was served on hand-hewn tables in drafty rooms, she says.

If a pilgrim were to return today, the miracle of frozen foods, ready-mixes and fresh vegetables would boggle his mind. Strand continues, "In spite of the economic crunch, the majority of us have much for which to be thankful."

"Shut-ins" are not so fortunate. They are not necessarily aged, just incapacitated. Some 20 folks in the area are currently being served by Meals on Wheels, but this service is not available on Thanksgiving Day, Strand explains.

The group will be used as an audition film for a new project in San Antonio, called "The Country Jubilee." It is patterned after the "Grand Ole Opry," but will broadcast from Texas and focus on Texas music.

The video was filmed by Scott and Melanie Gross from San Antonio, who travel all over the country making videos for various companies. They had never been in Bandera before and they had a great time taking in the town. They thank Arvey for letting them use the Silver Sage Corral as a background for the video.

Bungy Grant is in the news again this week. She is on the cover of "Discover" magazine, a travel publication. The "Discover" people were in town over Labor Day, taking pictures and interviewing local folks.

Look for the issue with Bungy on the cover — it's full of great Bandera, Hill Country pictures and news words about the people and the beauty of the area.

"Bloody Mary Morning" in Bandera at the River Front Motel, was a great opportunity to see many of the entertainers in town for the weekend, for no charge.

Bud and Bud, the Hooper twins from Houston, host the Saturday morning party every year on Hunters Weekend.

Besides Bud and Bud, you could listen to Jackie Wright, a terrific lady from Houston, who doesn't need a microphone to be heard. She can "bellyout" a song.

Group promoting the Hill Country

The Texas Hill Country Tourism Association promotes the Hill Country as a vacation and resort area and as a tourist destination.

The group was officially formed in October at an industry wide meeting held in Kerrville.

Over 50 tourism industry business representatives are involved in the organization, which began as a Hill Country Hotel and Motel Association.

The group branched into a larger member organization when they were questioned by other businesses to allow affiliate members. Since this occurred, an area-wide "Texas Hill Country Guide" was published, promoting the area as a vacation destination.

Some 40,000 brochures were released this summer to the Texas travel and information centers of the Texas Highway Department, and distributed by members to area chambers of commerce and directly to visitors.

The brochure has been received so well, we're about to run out, commented Judy Tull, former president of the Association of Junction.

As a result, the organization changed its name from the Hotel Motel Association, to the Texas Hill Country Tourism Association. This has enabled industry wide membership in group, with Bright lights and video cameras were set up at Arkey Blue's Silver Dollar on Sunday afternoon to film a video featuring Ballan Grant and Dusty Britches.

They sang a tune called "I'm Looking For A Cowboy" and yodeling duet, written by Dusty especially for Ballan, when the two local musicians first met almost two years ago.

The video will be used as an audition film for a new project in San Antonio, called "The Country Jubilee." It is patterned after the "Grand Ole Opry," but will broadcast from Texas and focus on Texas music.

This youngful group of music makers uses bones, skins, gourds and sticks

Alekk Elementary students in Gwen Qualls' first, second, and third grade music classes are playing primitive instruments fashioned from animal bones, horns, antlers, turtle shells, skins, gourds, and sticks and loving every minute of it. The imaginative talented teacher says,

"Every November I have my students from an Indian Rhythm Band in the first, second, and third grade classes. It ties in well with what they learn in regular class and the American Indian and pioneers for Thanksgiving."

"We never have enough drums," she said. "They all want to play the drums."

"One first grade boy who brought in a thigh bone from a cow that was as big as he was told me his Grandpa wouldn't be needing it anymore," she said with a laugh.

"We'll only have the band this month. Then we'll go on to other things in December," the teacher said.

Lester Coffey killed an 8-point buck.

Leroy and Debbie Ryans from Kansas took a ride to Wharton's Dock area and said they were impressed with the lake.

Assembly of God changes location

Community Assembly of God Church, which has been meeting since January of this year in the Bandera Bank Community Room, will be changing locations beginning Sunday, Nov. 22.

Their new location will be at 1209 Cottonwood St. one block north of Kerrville Highway 173 just off Main Street. Their services will remain the same for the present time: Worship service Sunday at 10:45 a.m., Sunday School (all ages) at 9:30 a.m., Sunday evening (Intercessory Prayer) 8 p.m. and Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Pastor Jim Price and the congregation at Community Assembly invite you to come be a part of their praise and worship," says spokeswoman Bonnie Price.

Recipe Roundup

By Valerie Coyle

It's a little unusual for me to feature two pie recipes in a row, but this one from Ruby Grant of Kerrville is simply too good to pass up, and it makes another great Thanksgiving dessert.

This is a no-bake pumpkin pie that Ruby says she's been making for several years. When her daughter first wanted to try it, though, Ruby didn't believe it would work. But it did, and now it's the only kind of pumpkin pie she makes.

Ruby says it's very easy to double the recipe and use a whole can of pumpkin and a 1 lb. bag of marshmallows because that's how you buy them. Then you can have two great pies instead of just one. Another thing I'm sure you'll notice about this pie is that the filling can be made in a microwave very easily.

A big thank you to Ruby Grant for sharing this quick and easy (not to mention delicious) recipe with us.

Betsy's Pumpkin Pie

1 C. canned pumpkin
1 lb. marshmallows
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
1 C. whipping cream, whipped

Combine all ingredients except cream. Heat until marshmallows melt. Blend. Cool. Add whipped cream, saving part to decorate pie, if desired. Pour into baked or crumb pie shell. Decorate with reserved whipped cream, or sprinkle with pecans, or both.

'Tame' wild animal attacks concern state officials

A file at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's headquarters in Austin contains dozens of chilling accounts of wild animal attacks on humans in Texas.

A bear attacks two men at a wild animal zoo near New Braunfels in 1980, seriously injuring the zoo owner.

A pet javelina attacks an 80-year-old woman in her backyard in Catarina in April 1986, causing injuries requiring more than $2,000 in medical treatments. The animal was raised by a neighbor who claimed the javelina was gentle.

Several incidents involving African lions have occurred recently, including an attack on an eight-year-old girl at a Houston flea market during October. She suffered a cracked skull.

"These are only a few of the many incidents that occur each year, and the problem appears to be growing," said Capt. Stanley Brooks of the TPWD's Law Enforcement Division. "It seems that wild animals, both native and exotic, are becoming more popular as pets."

Brooks believes more regulations on the keeping of wild animals should be passed. "If an animal is not a game animal, on the endangered species list, the department has few if any regulations concerning it," said Brooks. "In most cases, the only regulation for such animals is through city or county ordinances."

Brooks said progress has been made in the regulation of some species such as black bears, jaguars, ocelots and jaguarundis. "These animals are now classified as endangered in Texas," said Brooks. "That means anyone keeping one must possess a State Endangered Species Propagation Permit. The permits cost $300 the first year and $500 for each subsequent three-year period."

To keep a game animal, a person is required to have a Game Breeder's License issued by the department and may purchase a game animal only from another licensed game breeder. Licenses and permits are required for other species, including white-tailed deer and for bearing animals.

The department's position is that wild animals are unsuitable and most often dangerous to keep as pets," Brooks said.

Airman Cynthia L. Raab, daughter of Harvey F. Raab of Bandera and Gerry G. Carpenter of Hondo, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

Community service planned Nov. 22

Jim Colley, pastor of Faith Chapel in Lakehills, will be the speaker and Mary J. Kirkpatrick, music leader at Bandera United Methodist Church, will direct the anthem to be sung by a multi-denominational choral group at the Bandera Community Thanksgiving Service Sunday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. at Bandera United Methodist Church.

The choir will meet at 6 p.m. to go over the anthem, says spokeswoman Richard Jackson of Bandera United Methodist Church. The worship service is sponsored by the Bandera County Christian Fellowship and was planned by Pastors Jackson, Franklin Pallen and Jim Price.

Jackson says the offering will be collected for Bandera County Helping Hand.

Pipe Creek man recalls project of 1912

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

It's been 75 years since Lawrence Jesse Edwards of Pipe Creek joined a "bunch of rough neck carpenters" and built shacks for Mexican workers who were hired to build the Medina Lake Dam, but details of the experience remain vivid in his mind.

Edwards, now 92, is believed to be the only person in the area still alive that actually worked at the dam site. "I didn't work on the dam itself, but I helped build shacks for those Mexican workers."

"I was about 16 years old when a man up the road here hired a bunch of us boys to build shacks. The buildings, some 100 feet long, were covered with rubber dlat and paper. They were built mostly with 2 by 4s. We weren't carpenters, we just nailed nails and had lots of sore fingers from pounding nails," he recalled.

"There were carpenters out there. They built pretty nice houses for the higher ups," he said.

Edwards said his most vivid memories are of the blasting around the dam site. "They put out a report one day that 75 kegs of powder would be set off. I don't know if they really had 75 kegs, but it went off. Sounded like it must have been 75 kegs. Rocks, trees, limbs, and everything came rolling and flying out of those hills," he said.

They set off blasts every day, and again after the work stopped for the day," he said.

"I don't know what happened to those Mexicans, they just kinda disappeared after the dam was finished," he said.

"People keep driving any of them fell in the concrete and got buried there, but one night at the commissary store one of the boys told me why he wouldn't break the Mexicans out on the able, up in the air, to dump concrete said. I saw another Mexican go down into the concrete today," he recalled. "I never saw one of them fall off and in the concrete myself, but people talked and said they did," he added.

It was pretty rough country around that dam site. I left there when we finished the shacks before the dam was finished," he said.

The last time I was at the dam was 20 or 30 years ago. They closed that road across it now. That kinda takes the pleasure out of going there. We used to like to ride over and drive across the dam," he said.

"I was never much on fishing, but we used to go for motor boat rides in Medina Lake," he said.

Although the 92-year-old insists he never was a carpenter, or had much brains, he lives alone on a large ranch in Pipe Creek in a brick home he built himself.

A young family lives in a trailer house behind his ranch house and he says, "They look after me. They make sure I get my meals. Sometimes they come here in my house and sometimes I go to their's."

After the work finished on those shacks I kept on rough necking. I got jobs for 50 cents to $1 a day. Sometimes I'd get a public job for $1 a day," he said.

"I did a little of all kinds of work. I broke brones until I was in my 70s. I was buying outlaws (wild horses) and breaking them for everyone that came to the county," he said, rolling up his shirt sleeve. "I guess I just about broke every horse in my body some time or another."

"I rode 'em until I was up in my eighties," he said.

"One I got was mean," he recalled. "I asked a fellow up the road to take him and break him for me. I told him I'd pay him to 'do it.' He broke them for other people. I would pay him the same as anybody else would. But he still wouldn't do it for me."

"About a year later my cousin told me why he wouldn't break the horse for me. He wasn't about to get on a horse I turned down breaking myself, he told my cousin."

Edwards said with the expression dancing in his eyes and laughter on his lips. "After I was in my eighties, I got thrown off one and broke my arm in three places. You could shake my arm and it sounded like you were rattling a sack of bones. The doctor didn't have the tools he needed to fix it, so some one regular old brace and bit and drilled holes through the bones and put pins in until I could go to a specialist and he put a metal plate in it," Edwards said.

"One time I broke three separate bones in three days. I was helping my neighbors. No one asked me to help them on the fourth day," he said, laughing.

In the yard near his house are two good sized dogs. "They're much too big," Edwards explained. "I used to use dogs for stock. I don't use them much now. They're friendly. They like to see people come," he said.

"I just got so blamed old I can't do much of anything, but I use my chain saw almost every day. I got arthritis in my knees. Had it most of my life," he said. "I know just when I got it."

"I rode to San Antonio with my parents when I was about 12 or 14 years old. There come a heavy rain. The wagons and buggies couldn't get through the mud. It was up to the bed of the wagon."

We bought a little horse, San Antonio and I left the wagon yard on South Flores Street and headed for home. My folks had a couple to stay in our house while we were away."

By the time I got home, it was nearly 40 miles on horseback. I was soaked to the skin and my saddle blanket was wet as a dog. too. I couldn't take those folks in the house and I wouldn't go in if they didn't know I was coming. So I crawled in on my hands and with that wet blanket and spent the night. Next day I had a little arthritis, my knees were awful stiff and they've been stiff ever since," he said as he crossed the room to the kitchen where he went to the wood burning stove.

"About all I do anymore is saw wood to keep the stove going," he said as he peered in the top hole. "When the weather's fit, I ride out the still drives his pickup truck on the ranch and use my chain saw a little every day. I cut a little cedar or something," he said.

"A while back me and another fellow were sawing some live oak. He was sawing on a big limb. It turned over and caught the saw and I got teeth marks across the top of my head from that saw," he said.

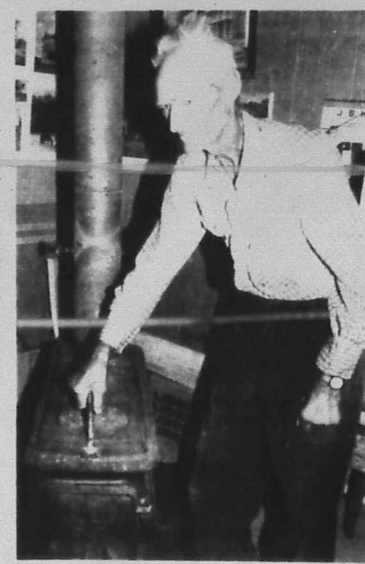

"I'll just keep sawing a little everyday as long as I'm able," he said.

Edwards has no immediate plans to visit the dam during its 75th Anniversary after completion Thanksgiving week. "I don't drive too much on the highway anymore. My eyes aren't what they use to be," I just drive here and in the pastures. I try to stay off the highway when I can," he said.

"I got some good neighbors," he explained. "They say they'll take me anywhere I want to go. But since they closed that road across the top of the dam, it just took all the pleasure out of going over there," he said, shaking his head slightly. "I guess they know what's best, but it seemed safe enough for me."

L.J. Edwards, 92, lifelong resident of Pipe Creek says he takes his chain saw and cuts a little wood everyday to keep his stove going.

'Let us be thankful for all things'

Every year on the fourth Thursday of November the people of the United States pause to express their gratitude for the bounty and good fortune that they enjoy both as individuals and as a nation. The "first official" Thanksgiving took place in Plymouth Colony in 1621, that set the pattern for present-day observances. After landing on the New England coast in 1620, the Pilgrim band had endured tremendous hardships. During the winter of 1620 about half the 101 passengers of the Mayflower died. In the spring and summer of 1621 they constructed a number of wooden houses, and with the aid of Squanto, a Pawtuxet Indian, they planted and cultivated fields of corn and barley. In the fall the Pilgrims gathered a rich harvest, and Governor Bradford proclaimed a day of thanksgiving. The first Pilgrim thanksgiving occurred some time in the middle of October, 1621. Governor Bradford sent four men hunting and they returned with a "great store of wild turkeys," and to this were added lobsters, clams, bass, corn, green vegetables, and dried fruits. The Pilgrims invited Massasoit, the chief of the Wampanoag tribe, to share their feast. Massasoit enthusiastically agreed to attend the celebration, but when he unexpectedly brought along 30 companions the Pilgrim settlers feared that the natives would consume their entire winter supply. Fortunately, however, Massasoit recognized their difficult position and sent his hunters into the forest. They returned with five deer, and the feast began. For three days the Pilgrims and the Wampanoag shared the bountiful feast. The militia under the leadership of Captain Myles Standish drilled and fired their muskets and cannon to entertain their guests, and in turn the Wampanoag delighted their hosts with demonstrations of their traditional dances. The establishment of a national Thanksgiving Day on a permanent annual basis was largely the result of the work of Sarah Josepha Hale. Beginning in 1827, when she was editor of the Ladies' Magazine in Boston, she began to urge the observance of a uniform day throughout the country to express thanks for the blessings of the year. She continued her agitation in a desultory manner until the Ladies' Magazine was consolidated with Godey's Lady's Book. As editor of Godey's, a magazine with a circulation of 150,000 and the largest periodical of its kind in the country, she wrote editorial after editorial in support of an annual Thanksgiving Day. She also wrote personal letters to the successive Presidents and to the governors of all the states and succeeded in persuading many of the latter to fix the last Thursday in November as a day of thanksgiving. Since 1863, Thanksgiving has been observed annually, and for three-quarters of a century it was scheduled, with only two exceptions, for the last Thursday of November. President Andrew Johnson designated the first Thursday in December as Thanksgiving in 1863, and President Ulysses S. Grant selected the third Thursday in November for the observance in 1869. Thanksgiving has always been a day on which families come together for a sumptuous dinner. Just as the Pilgrims in Plymouth enjoyed "a great store of wild turkeys," many Americans now feast on the domesticated descendants of these birds. Dressing, sweet potatoes, squash, creamed onions, and cranberries generally complement the turkey. Pumpkin and mince pies are the favored desserts of the day. Many special events are held on Thanksgiving and the following weekend. It is traditionally a period for professional and college football games. As President Lincoln stated "Let us be thankful for all things." Nancy Thompson Bandera High School

Elf Karen busy preparing for Spirits of Christmas Presents

By Janna Sandridge Staff Writer
Karen Jackson wears a lot of hats. She works at James Avery Craftman in Kerrville, is wife of local attorney Ron Jackson and mother of two children. She is a member of Grace Lutheran Church, and she writes. The list is a long one, but in the weeks before Christmas, lots of folks just call her Elf Karen. Between now and Christmas, she and a whole roster of helper elves will spend countless hours buying, wrapping and delivering Christmas cheer to families who for a variety of reasons need help during the holiday season. The faces of the kids just light up when Santa and the elves deliver the presents," Jackson says, explaining that the workers get so much out of it, they come back year after year. This is the ninth year for Bandera's Spirits of Christmas Presents, but Karen Jackson has been a fixture in this community for a lot longer than that. Her grandparents owned Joliet guest ranch, and when Karen was quite young, her parents, Art and Grace Kitzman bought the Peaceful Valley Ranch, and moved their family there. Karen, a "high profile" student active in many organizations, graduated from Bandera High School in 1963, and went to Lubbock where she graduated from Texas Tech University. She met Ron Jackson there, and after they married he attended law school while she taught junior high school. "In spite of the dust storms, we really liked Lubbock," says Karen. "The people are great." But the Jacksons liked the life-style in Bandera, and they've been here close to 13 years. She has worked at James Avery for two years, where she writes their catalogs, among other things. She is an award-winning writer, and considers writing one of her "big loves." Three years ago, she won a Guideposts magazine writing contest with a story about her involvement in the "Spirits of Christmas Presents." Each year, the network of elves seems to spread a little farther, and now The Spirits of Christmas Presents has an officially sanctioned darts tournament. "Last year, Fiddin' Around raised over $130 with a darts tournament," Jackson says. This year, Millie Harrison says she hopes to at least double that amount. "Our tournament last weekend raised $215," says Harrison. "There was a lot of support, and the people here at Fiddin' Around really appreciate everyone who got out and helped with this worthy cause." Harrison continued that there will be another darts tournament Dec. 11 and 12, and they hope to draw in more folks. Tournament winner was Diane Hamilton of Lakehills, with Lenna Hopkins coming in second. The Lakehills United Methodist Women got involved by donating 30 dolls, complete with wardrobe hand sewn by one member, Ann Neal. Bandera Ice House has donated T-shirts that identify the volunteers as "elf." Friday, Dec. 18, Elf Karen and friends will meet at the Mansfield Park Ice Center starting at noon to sort and wrap gifts, and "just

"Elf" Karen (Jackson) is "making a list and checking it twice" as she continues to collect and wrap gifts for the "Spirits of Christmas Presents."

Turkey specials keep cost down

Thanksgiving dinner may be one of the most economical you can eat this year — especially if you have a family tradition of serving a whole bird and making side dishes from scratch. "Most supermarkets use turkey to attract holiday shoppers, so retail prices don't necessarily reflect wholesale prices," says Dr. Dave Mellor, a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. He says unbranded, store brand turkey could be as low as 69 cents a pound, while branded, national brand turkey will be in the 90 cents-$1 per pound range. "A whole bird is the traditional favorite and less expensive than further processed turkey parts or roasts. For example, cooked drumsticks are retailing about $1.25 per pound, pre-basted breast about $1.40 per pound, and boneless smoked turkey about $4.55 per pound. "More people are ordering fresh turkeys from supermarkets or meat markets, although they will be somewhat more expensive," says the specialist. "There may also be a little difference in quality. Mellor concedes, "Turkeys that are frozen immediately and held for sale months later could be fresher than turkeys that are refrigerated for up to two weeks before sale. TAEX nutrition specialist Marilyn Haggard adds that the ultimate in convenience — the stuffed, cooked whole turkey from a deli or restaurant will top the list in cost. "Some consumers want to trade the expense of a prepared bird for the extra time they can spend with the family, attending a football game, or using their energies to make special side dishes and desserts," she remarks. Preparing a Thanksgiving dinner from scratch is instructive, claims Haggard, since it underscores the amount of money that goes toward convenience. "The basic ingredients of a Thanksgiving feast, like corn meal, bread, celery and onions for stuffing, cranberries, plain canned or frozen peas, white potatoes and yams are relatively inexpensive foods," she says. "But if you choose instant potatoes or stuffing mixes, prepared cranberry relish and frozen peas in a special sauce, the cost will go up by half or more." Both Extension specialists agree that among other things, Americans can be thankful for the fact that our food prices are among the lowest and our food quality among the best in the world.

No one knows exactly where or when but, in Central Asia several centuries before the birth of Christ, humans domesticated the wild horse. Sometime shortly after that, it occurred to someone that it would be interesting to see if one horse was faster than another. It was probably not much longer after that it occurred to someone that races would be even more interesting if friendly wagers were placed on the outcomes.

Before the white man came to this country, the Native Americans had already developed gambling to a fine art. They honored chance as another of nature's mysterious forces, and played with it in a variety of ways.

They carved peach and plum stones and animal bones into tokens like our dice and dominoes, and used straws and sticks like we use playing cards. They used a buckskin ball to play football-type contests that went on for days over mile-long fields. Sometimes entire villages would bet against one another.

Early American colonists developed different views on gambling which have defined our approach to this day. In Puritan New England some saw gambling as sinful, since chance was what God wills. It was not something for the amusement of mortals. To gamble was to "Play the Devil," the title of Henry Chafetz's history of American gambling.

Southerners saw things differently. The common people favored the cock fight, penny pitching and ninepins. Successful planters preferred the more refined diversion of the horse race. It was even illegal for a common man either to race or bet on a horse.

Virginia had the most famous tracks. Chafetz writes that "George Washington was a steward of the Alexandria Jockey Club and often ran his horses there and at Annapolis." He also bought the first ticket for "Federal Lottery No. 1," held in finance the building of the nation's capital in the District of Columbia.

Horse racing took a while to get reorganized after the Revolution, but when it did, the North versus South contests commanded great attention. An 1823 race on Long Island's Union Course attracted 65,000, some of whom got close enough to see North Carolina's Sir Henry defeat New York's American Eclipse.

Those contests continued until the Civil War, but some editorialists were already beginning to worry over the increasing tilt away from gambling on sport and toward the sport and profession of gambling.

By the turn of the century, however, race crowds again numbered in the tens of thousands. Bookmakers were celebrated personalities who not unreasonably considered themselves as professionals as bankers and stockbrokers. At least their ads ran together in the daily press, often on the front page where the bookies' services were found under the headline, "Turf Exchanges."

In New York, with the help of machine politicians who banned the pari-mutuel system in 1888, the bookies organized themselves into the Metropolitan Turf Association. The "Mets" would gather in the stalls of the betting ring, usually beside the grandstand near the finish line. This format was imitated across the country, wherever a metropolitan population could provide steady business.

The colorful and frequently illegal world of gamblers, the wealthy and politicians took shape then, and has never faded entirely from the American scene. There is potential for corruption wherever large sums of money change hands quickly. Some have always argued, however, that corruption has its roots in human nature, not in the sport of gambling and not in the sport on which the bet is made.

On the other hand, as a famous New York gambler, Tony Betts, put it years ago, gambling is "the only business in the long run that operates on the principle that the customer is always wrong."

Clements' selection of unknown to high court surprises many

Gov. Bill Clements surprised Capitol watchers last week by naming his new chief justice of the Texas supreme court, a relatively unknown state judge with high marks for judicial excellence.

The governor tapped Thomas R. Phillips of Houston to replace outgoing John Hill in January. Phillips will be the first Republican chief justice in modern times, and is expected to run for election next year.

Phillips has family and philosophical ties to the conservative, pro-business side of the bench, and his record of excellence and fair play will help the high court at a time when several sitting justices, all Democrats, are faulted for taking questionable political contributions.

He also regarded somewhat as an example of the merit selection process, since Hill himself urged the appointment. Clements took recommendations from a wide array of sources.

How about elections?

Phillips is relatively unknown in Capitol halls, and some wonder how he will stand up on the non-academic, rough-and-tumble statewide campaign trail.

He will have to deal with two sitting justices who months ago threw their hats into the ring for his new job. The Texas Democratic Party has already vowed to retire him.

Many have never learned that the judicial system is an electoral world all its own, a couple of plateaus above partisan party politics. Phillips is probably better equipped politically than they realize, having dabbled in GOP politics and contributed to books on Texas elections and presidential campaign biographies.

Thus, the student will become a player, but Phillips is recognized as a pretty good student. He holds degrees from Baylor University and Harvard Law School, and is well-regarded where he is known.

This Thanksgiving let's include our emergency medical technicians and fire department volunteers in our blessings. We all know someone, a relative, friend, neighbor, or co-worker, they've helped.

Their jobs seem thankless sometimes, but any of them will tell you it's rewarding when they play a part in saving a life or saving someone's home from being destroyed by fire.

On Thanksgiving Day, like any other day, these dedicated volunteers will have their police scanners by their sides and they will be prepared to jump up from the table before they finish eating to go on a call, if needed.

What some people don't realize is more EMT's and more volunteer firefighters are needed for every ambulance and every fire truck in the county.

If you think you'd like to help, volunteer. You may have no training, but don't let that stop you. They'll see that you get the training needed.

You'll probably have to go to classes a couple nights a week for a few weeks to get your certification, but they all say, "it's worth it."

The pay? You won't get any! But, the knowledge and satisfaction of knowing that you helped save a life, or saved a family's home and possessions is tremendous, they all say.

The fire departments have regular training sessions throughout the year. Just ask any volunteer firefighter how you can get involved and he'll direct you to the right person.

EMT training classes will be starting in Bandera and Lakehills in January. To find out more about them, contact any EMT. They'll direct you to the right person, also.

If for some reason you can't become an active volunteer, you can still become a supporter of EMTS and fire departments.

Both volunteer groups need donations and funding for buildings, vehicles, equipment and operating expenses. It doesn't take but a few minutes to write them a check and mail it in.

Remember, the next call they answer could be for you. They're there for us, let's be there for them.

Seeking new voters
Secretary of State Jack Rains will enlist the help of hotels, airlines and businesses to register a million new voters.

Rains, a Republican, said it was a new technique to reach mobile Texans who are inaccessible to traditional registration methods.

Others say, warmly and coldly, it's a way to bring more conservatives and independents into the electoral process.

Some contend this method is the pro-business response to the strategy of going door-to-door in the barrios of slum districts to garner liberal voters.

Rains is considered by some to be a likely candidate for some office, perhaps governor, in 1990.

Other highlights
• Campaigning in Dallas, GOP presidential aspirant Sen. Bob Dole said he would support a tariff on imported oil if it would help lower the deficit and balance the budget.

• Comptroller Bob Bullock asked Attorney General Jim Mattox for a local opinion on whether Texas' new "tax snitch" law is constitutional.

Bullock disagrees and is reluctant to comply with the new law which allows his office to pay up to a five percent finder's fee for information leading to the recovery of taxes owed to the state.

Causes mistrust

Dear editor:
I wrote you a letter about the government within a government, called bureaucracy. The Bandera County River Authority was only a small part of the overall letter. By printing only the River Authority section of my letter, you destroyed the total context of what I was trying to say. And don't feed me the standard excuse that the letter was too long. Your policy should be if you cannot print a letter in its entirety, so that the subject matter is accurately portrayed, then it should not be printed at all.

Now it might be that the reason you chopped my letter up was because you were afraid it might offend some bureaucrat, and being the Democratic county chairman, you don't dare offend these bureaucrats, especially as they are mostly from your party and wield a lot of power. If this is the true reason you chopped up my letter and destroyed its full context and content, then I would suggest that you have a conflict of interest and maybe you should resign one of the two positions. It is just this type of manipulation that has caused so much mistrust between the public and news media.

Three candidates seek appointment as JPBy Nick Johnson

County commissioners Monday delayed selecting a successor to peace justice Ed Jennings until Monday, Dec. 14, in order to check on whether one of three applicants is eligible to accept the appointment.

Commissioners decided to wait to make a selection of a person to fill out the 12 months remaining on Jennings' term until after they check with county attorney Sam Darden on whether San Antonio police officer Herschel Moore can hold the post and be a police officer at the same time.

Moore, who announced this week that he would be a candidate for the job in the Republican primary, March 8, said he would resign from the SAPD following a full four-year term next November.

Two other candidates appeared before commissioners Monday to apply for the 12-month appointment, including Jacques Galvan of Pebble Beach in Lakehills and Ron Sullivan of Medina River Ranch in Pipe Creek.

Galvan said he planned to be a candidate for a full term in the Democratic Primary, also March 8, and Sullivan said he would probably be a candidate probably in the Democratic Primary.

Additional candidates plan to apply for the post prior to Dec. 14, the Bulletin has learned.

Moore said he'd been checked by the attorney general's office in Austin and received mixed signals over whether he can serve as a peace justice in one county and a police officer in another.

Commissioners asked Darden to resolve the issue and labeled selection of a successor a system to serve most county offices.

After hearing from Steve Wakin of IHM's South West Marketing Division, commissioners authorized advertising for bids for a system estimated to cost some $60,000. County Judge Ray Mauer said the county now spends $26,000 per year for computer services in the office of tax collector assessor Margaret Stevens.

He said he received some training in criminology as a reserve deputy and is retired from the military service, though he declined to discuss the nature of his service with commissioners.

"I was training other people," he said. "I'd rather not go any further than that."

Moore has been with the SAPD for 25 years, the last 15 years as an investigator. "I don't think having been a policeman will be a drawback," he told commissioners.

Galvan has been employed for the last three months as a dispatcher in the sheriff's office, a post she says she resigned from in Dec. 14.

She says she plans to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination March 8 in any event though she has not yet formally announced her intention to run.

Erwin E. Hoffman

Erwin E. Hoffman, 64, of Bandera died Monday, Nov. 23, in St. Peterson Memorial Hospital, Kerrville.

He was born in Buffalo, N.Y., and lived in Houston before moving to Bandera in 1975. He was a member of the American Legion in Bandera, having served in the U.S. Air Force.

Survivors include his wife,

Elaine Hoffman of Bandera; one daughter, Amy Diane Hoffman of Houston; one son, John Fredrick Hoffman of Houston; one sister, Mrs. Kenneth Trible of Camanahua, N.Y.; and one brother, Harry Hoffman of Stowe, Ohio.

Graveside services were Wednesday, Nov. 25, in Bandera Cemetery.

Surplus food to be issued

The Commodity Council of South Central Texas will be issuing surplus food commodities on Dec. 1 in Bandera and Lakehills. We have a new time for the distribution. It will be from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. or until we run out at the First Baptist Church in Bandera and at the American Legion Hall in Lakehills.

Senior outreach worker Cornelia Rue said. The supplies are limited and recipients must complete an application and show proof of eligibility, she said. The supplies will be issued on a first come, first served basis to those who qualify, she said.

Timeless toys on exhibit at Witte

A captivating collection of toys through the ages, entitled "Timeless Toys," goes on display at the Witte Museum Saturday, Dec. 5. A group of hobby horses, including a merry-go-round piece, dominates the center of the gallery and includes a turn-of-the-century rocking horse, fully painted, with a horse-hair mane, original grass stirrups, bridle and cloth-covered saddle. A tin horse on display was manufactured in Switzerland in the 1940s and originally advertised as being able to gallop up to 4 m.p.h.

Dolls of every shape and size include a rare boy doll from Germany, circa 1904, with unusual painted eyes, a black rag doll, circa 1890, stuffed with Spanish moss, a hague baby doll puppet in a wicker basket, circa 1920, and a fashion doll with blown glass eyes, circa 1870, complete with wardrobe. Fashion dolls were used by dressmakers to show their designs to potential customers before the use of live models.

An exquisite collection of intricately crafted English and American silver baby rattles, dating from the mid-18th to around 1910, includes a finely fashioned silver Santa Claus rattle, a Court Jester and a mother-of-pearl teething ring with two gold bells attached. Many of the rattles and teething rings have whistles and bells to keep the baby amused and a ring at the end may be worn around the baby's neck.

Cast-iron stoves, cookware and tea sets range from the Victorian era through the 1950s. The stoves are reproductions of the full-size stoves of the turn-of-the-century, with moving doors, removable smoke stacks and hot plates. In contrast, the "Little Orphan Annie" stove looks the fine detail of the earlier cast-iron pieces and is finished in bright colors with image of Annie and her pal, Sandy.

Whimsical wooden mechanical toys, hand-made in England, include a spaghetti eater, a dog with a yo-yo and a tiger who types while a fish swims around in his head. The toys are all activated by a push button, affording an entertaining hands-on experience for visitors.

Ethnic toys include Indian and Eskimo dolls, a miniature kayak, a Pomo Indian gaming basket and a pre-Columbian pull-toy.

AARP to install Davis May on Dec. 13

Officers for 1988 for Bandera Hills, American Association of Retired Persons are Floyd Purman, president; Davis May, vice-president; Vivian Webb, secretary; Doris Dullie, treasurer; and Marion Blanch, nominating committee chairman.

The officers will be installed at the Dec. 13 meeting. Also dues need to be paid at that time.

President Doloras Green presided and Joe May gave the invocation. Joe also announced that the oldest grandson of AARP members Hubert and Anita Booher, Mark Atkinson, was killed this week in North Carolina. Hubert and Anita were attending the funeral at the same time that the AARP was meeting on Thursday.

During the business session Harry Webb stressed the need for everyone to eliminate or at least cut down on smoking. The death rate from cancer is 70 percent higher for smokers than for non-smokers.

Davis May gave pertinent facts concerning the federal budget and spending reductions, spoken woman Sally Lewis said. Doris Dullie gave information about finances of the unit. She said that the AARP provides gives to Helping Hand which is doing good work in Bandera County. The need for funds for the ongoing building program at Silver Sage was pointed out by Kirkpatrick. "This center is expanding rapidly and more room is needed for its many activities. More and more people 55 and older are finding this a place to meet friends, take part in activities and give of their time and talents," he said. Kirkpatrick and Baird and Clolla Neville have made it possible for Al Robinson to make several visits to Silver Sage where he has given many hours and funds to make this place what it is today, Lewis said.

65 4-H'ers compete in annual food show here

Computer helps youths to plan nutritious meals

4-H members from first through 12th grades prepared for months to meet the project objectives of the Bandera County 4-H Food Show Saturday, Nov. 21, at St. Joseph's Catholic Parish Hall, says extension agent Janet Smithheiser.

"One of the most exciting things this year has been access to a computer and programs the kids can use to help them with their projects," Smithheiser explains.

Computer graphics show the 4-H members calorie content and many nutritional facts that help them plan their food projects.

Smithheiser says the food projects involve much more than to "cook and clean up."

"It used to be table setting was a high priority," she explains. "But anymore, there is more emphasis on diet and nutrition, and learning how to coordinate those things."

Another important aspect of the food show project is that members are required to complete food and nutrition projects before they are allowed to compete in the 4-H Bake Show that is held in conjunction with the County Livestock Show.

"The 4-Hers are judged by much more than their dish that they prepare at food show," says Smithheiser. "Before the show they turn in a project record form telling of things learned and experiences they've had this year in the project. They also write a day's menu to complement the dish they enter in the food show. The menu should include the proper amount of servings from the four food groups as well as show a variety of foods."

"The interview that the 4-Hers have on the day of the show gives them the opportunity to tell what they've learned about nutrients, food habits and much more," she continues.

What's cooking? These youngsters know cause they won all the first place awards in the annual Bandera County 4-H Food Show Saturday, Nov. 21. The winning cooks are, clockwise from the left, Michele Knowles, Matthew Defer, Althea Seitz, Doritha Green, Michele Dexter, Lacey Helmle, Windy Wagner, Faye Comingore, Shannon Cowsett, Lisa Evans, Heidi Hicks and Abby Nightingale.

Other participants included Patti Kinda, Mary Schmidt, Anissa Frisby, Kim Edwards, Kristy Long, and Laramia Barton, juniors Becky White, Penny Cudd, Tracy Felton, Rose Mat thesen and Emily Seitz. Cali Barton, Janet Traweck, Erin Markle, Julie Traweck, April Terry, Rachel Long, Kelly Bruner, Jeanette Williams, Dale Keith, Benton Terry, Leslie Ann Reininger, Rachel Huddleston and Holly Terry.

Among the business owners from Lakehills, Medina and Bandera were Joe McMullan, Olga and Wilbur Bradford, Gladys and Adrien Healer, Milton and Alice Leibold, Murry LeStour.

Admission is $20 for Institute members and $50 for non-members. The cost includes $5 in food and beverage coupons. Proceeds from the event will benefit a variety of Institute research, education and communication programs and services.

The Institute of Texan Cultures is located at Durango Boulevard and Bowie Street in HemisFair Plaza in downtown San Antonio. For more information, or to make reservations, call the Institute of Texan Cultures at 226-7631.

Winter Holiday Extravaganza planned Saturday at institute

The flavor of the Texas Folklife Festival with a special holiday flair will be presented Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Winter Holiday Extravaganza of the Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio.

The fundraising event will feature some of the crafts, food, dances and traditions of the Festival centered around a Christmas theme from 8 p.m. to midnight. From 9:30 p.m. to midnight the Nacogdoches Jazz Band will entertain guests with a variety of dance music.

Banker foresees 'boom' in Lakehills-Pipe Creek area

During grand opening ceremonies at the First State Bank Lakehills branch on Friday, bank president Sully Woodland told the large crowd of residents, businessmen, bank directors, county officials, and members of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce Pipe Creek and Lakehills will be a "boom" area in about two years.

"We at First State Bank want to be a part of it," Woodland said. "Your support has been great since we opened two weeks ago. We need your support for this branch to be successful," he said.

He introduced the vice president-branch manager Sam Braswell as a "good man to run the show." Braswell introduced the two employees in the branch, Malisa Methvin and Tammy Callaway.

Along with Shelby Braswell and Cindy Woodland the two employees helped release helium filled pastel-colored balloons from several large plastic bags.

Chairman of the board Raymond Barker and directors Margaret Evans, Magdalene Kaika, John R. Langford, H. L. Rinsinger and Woodland were all present.

Among county officials present were County Judge Ray Mauer and his wife Jerry, Commissioner Jimmy Russell, Sheriff Guy Pickett, peace officer Tom Grant, and Bandera school board president Ron Jackson.

Along with other chamber directors, Karoline Moreland, Joe McMullan, Leanne Miller, Janet Lurker and Debbie Culver to stretch the red ribbon before bank officials and other dignitaries for the official ribbon cutting.

As hundreds of balloons disappeared high in the sky, on a cool breeze from the west, bank officials joined the many citizens at the refreshment table.

Thousand Trails names Leveritt

Bob Leveritt of Lake Texoma has been named resort services manager of Thousand Trails' Medina Lake resort. Leveritt replaces Ben Carr, who was promoted to the position of manager of the Hershey, Pa., resort.

As resort services manager, Leveritt's responsibilities include member and community relations, overall management of resort operations and supervision of a staff of approximately 18.

As manager of Thousand Trails' Lake Texoma resort, Leveritt was on the boards of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and the Lake Texoma Association.

Leveritt looks forward to new opportunities as the manager of the Medina Lake camp resort. "Unlike Lake Texoma, the Medina Lake resort is active year round," he said. "Meeting the needs of 'snow-bird' members (recreational vehicle owners who winter in the sun-belt) will be a new and exciting challenge. With the growth of the San Antonio area as a tourist attraction, our Medina Lake resort will be busier than ever."

Leveritt began his career with Thousand Trails in 1984. After receiving his training at the company's Lake Texoma resort, he was appointed manager of the Lake Texoma resort. Prior to joining Thousand Trails, Leveritt worked in the private club management industry after retiring from the U.S. Air Force.

Barbra Hildenbrand

Miss Lakehills to enter teen-age pageant in SA

Miss Lakehills, Barbra Hildenbrand, learned last week she has been selected to participate in the Miss South West Teenage Pageant in San Antonio in May. She will compete with other teen-age contestants for three days on personality, poise, fashion, and beauty.

This year's pageant will be held at the El Tropicana Hotel. Barbra was crowned Miss Lakehills in June and was a previous princess in the Miss Lakehills Pageant in 1986-87.

The petite blonde with the sparkling smile is a junior at Bandera High School. She is an

A-B honor roll student and enjoys music, reading, and being with her many friends, she said.

She has represented Lakehills in numerous events including the 4th of July Parade sponsored by the American Legion Post of Lakehills, the Bandera County Fair Parade, the 8th annual Gumbo Cookoff, Hermann State annual Pinto Bean Cookoff, and the grand opening of the Lakehills Ice House convenience center. She will be representing Lakehills in the Shopper's Jubilee Parade in Bandera in December.

Lakehills EMS support team gets $2,000 in donations

As cars and pickups rolled up in the intersection of Highway 1283 and Park Road 37, Nov. 14 and 15, motorists dug in their pockets and dropped almost $2,000 in change and bills in cans held by Lakehills EMS Support Team members and volunteer EMTs.

"The response was terrific," team director Kay Solomon said. "EMS Awareness Month will continue through Nov. 30, and citizens who didn't get out on the road for our fund drive can still mail in their donations," she said.

"Many people have mailed checks in and they're still being tallied," she said. "I think we'll be able to get the heating and carpeting in the building."

Directors of the Support Team designated November as Lakehills EMS Awareness Month and this year extended an invitation to residents of Mico on the south-east side of Medina Lake to join the team and support the EMS Chapter in Lakehills. Lakehills EMS ambulances and volunteers serve the Mico community, although it is located in Medina County. Otherwise they would have to wait for an ambulance to come from Castroville or Hondo. Arrangements have been made to start a new EMT Training Class Jan. 11. It will be for anyone wishing to volunteer their time to serve on the Lakehills EMS Building training center. EMT training director Iris Durfman said.

The classes will be conducted by personnel of the First Aid Safety Training unit in San Antonio.

For more information or to enroll in the class contact Durfman at 751-3267.

Katie Ruede to head leukemia drive

Katie Ruede has been appointed chairman of the South West Texas Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, Inc., 1987 residential fund campaign in Lakehills.

Assisting in the campaign will be the Lakehills 4-H Club.

Leukemia, a form of cancer that affects the blood-forming tissues, kills more children than any other disease — yet it kills more adults than children. The Leukemia Society of America, Inc., a national voluntary health agency with 57 chapters located throughout the United States, concentrates all of its efforts toward the problem of leukemia and related diseases, including lymphoma, multiple myeloma, and Hodgkins disease.

Promoted

Marine Lance Cpl. Gregory M. Harman, whose wife, Paula, is the daughter of Charles A. and Clara Albright of Pipe Creek, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Child service group meets

Information on how the Big Brother/Sister organization works and the benefits it can bring to the community was presented to the Bandera County Child Service Board at its meeting Nov. 17 by Bob Caldwell, resident of Pipe Creek, who has been active as a Big Brother for several years.

Caldwell will be assisting the board in its efforts to start such a program here in Bandera County. The board has invited interested members of the community to come to its meetings on the third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Law Enforcement Building, and to participate in its projects.

Some upcoming topics and activities include, along with the Big Brother/Sister program, a class in parenting skills, programs dealing with substance abuse, and other matters of concern to parents and youth.

The group also helps provide funding for emergency medical or foster care for local abused children, and occasional dental services, such as arranging for summer camp for troubled or neglected children.

Anyone interested may call the local Human Services office, 786-3739, for more information, or contact Barbara LeSturgeon, chairperson, or members, Bucky Densford, Bob Caswell, Lonette Wilton, Linda Cook, Jimmie Hughes, David Schantz, or Steve Tom.

Pipe Creek's EMS facility goes up in just three days

Kerry Schneider, President of the Pipe Creek EMS Support Team, Inc. described the Pipe Creek EMS Garage and Training Center building project as a "now you see it, now you don't, in reverse."

Saturday morning, while there was still frost on most wind shields, 35 volunteers showed up at the building site, on Highway 16 next to Sam and Lois Armstrong's home, and by noon, frames were erected on four sides of the slab.

By noon Monday, volunteers numbering a baker's dozen were hammering the sheets of grey siding on the front of the building, installing windows, and preparing to start putting the roof on. The volunteer laborers were directed by the expertise of Norris Warner, general contractor and owner of Bandera Building and Remodeling.

"It's amazing, the progress we've made," said Mike Schneider, as he helped Lois Armstrong spread out an array of food on a nearby table so the volunteers could stop for lunch Monday.

"It looks like they're doing a great job," Kerry said. "Others are wishing to help out either with the actual building or in funding the project are certainly welcome. Anything and everything would be so greatly appreciated."

Mike was optimistic that the roof would be on and the Pipe Creek ambulance housed inside behind garage doors before the next freeze.

"Isn't it wonderful," Lois Armstrong said as she came across the field from her house with a bag full of soap for the volunteers' lunch.

Now that's chance to say the least.

Without doubt, man needs green spaces and shade for his emotional well-being and comfort, but plants do much more than soothe our emotions. Man cannot live on a permanent basis where plants do not live, and plants must have water in some form to exist.

New landscape conserves water

Also saves work, time and money

By Dorothy Mattiza
Special Correspondent

XERISCAPING — Last landscape creation — landscaping with drought-tolerant plants, xeriscape, xeriscape. Xeriscape, xeriscape.

The population and industrial growth in arid Texas in the last ten years coupled without expected future growth places a tremendous burden on our water resources. With the exception of a small strip of East Texas, we have always been, and barring catastrophic climatic change, will always be an arid state. The concept of xeriscape offers a sensible approach to conserving our precious water in the landscape.

It is estimated that approximately half of the water used in Texas is for landscape — lawns, trees and flowers, yet there is not a majority in Texas that has not had to endure water rationing when our weather is hot and dry.

We persist in planting water-thirsty plants and lawns that have evolved in other parts of the country or the world that are not adapted at all to our extremes of flood and drought, heat and cold. We disregard our own time, energy, and money that will have to be put into maintaining a vision of beauty that is a hang-over from another era in history, and totally impractical for today's lifestyles, work habits, pocket books, or natural resources.

We tend to think our only alter native is cactus.

Serious consideration should be given the question, "Can we afford to waste the one resource basic to the habitation of Texas?"

We don't manufacture water. Water is delivered to us in varying amounts by uncontrollable climatic conditions at irregular times, apparently determined by the man in the moon.

Now that's chance to say the least.

Without doubt, man needs green spaces and shade for his emotional well-being and comfort, but plants do much more than soothe our emotions. Man

Plants are water dependent, as are we. If we use up their water, they die. So do we. It's as simple as that.

We must take a fresh look at how to create a landscape we can live with plants that can thrive on our existing rainfall, in the soil (or lack of it) where we are, and withstand our extremes of temperature. This is one thing every property owner in Texas can do to drastically reduce water demands and insure that the Texas we know can continue to exist. We can and must begin doing this now.

Dr. David Northington, executive director of the National Wildflower Research Center in Austin, says that the point is one of cumulative small changes. If every homeowner chose just one drought-tolerant plant over an exotic to add to his yard, the result could be a quarter of a million natives added to our environment.

While landscape takes half of the water used in Texas, plants, correct planting, and judicious care can be the greatest tools for water conservation that we have, and all the while cutting our cost in work, time, and money.

So, you ask, "if this is such a good idea how come it isn't used all over the place?" The answer is that the need had to be "recognized" by the public to create a demand that will cause the suppliers to give the public what it wants.

Xeriscape plants aren't available to the retail market in sufficient numbers to supply the trade, and won't be until the demand is made known. The best examples of publicly demanded changes in recent years are the changes in gasoline efficiency and safety in automobiles. The best example of the public's willingness to change personal habits for the general good was the change in driving habits which greatly contributed to forcing Xeriscaping conserving water through creative landscaping. A two-part series.

Dorothy Mattiza inspects the berry crop on a madrona (Arbutus xalapensis) at her Gunsight Mountain Ranch near Tarpley. The showy tree can be grown from seed and is an ideal native plant for "xeriscaping," according to the nurserywoman.

Xeriscaping

cheer the sick, perfume, paint, dye, clothes, shelter and feed us. Our lives, health, and economy are dependent on plants. We should probably require that a mile of wasteland be reclaimed in Texas for every mile of pavement that we add to our highway system.

Plant transpiration cleans the air we breathe, but not as fast as we pollute it. Our cities need more trees. Fly into any city and see the brown air and concrete covering the earth. The need to save earth's ozone layer is so important that recently the United States and 23 other countries and the 12-member European Economic Community signed an accord aimed at controlling noxious substances discharged into the atmosphere. Perhaps higher n o v e m b e r p l a n t s in areas of heavy pollution could help.

Those moving here from more lush areas can grasp the idea of polluted water, but water as a scarce commodity is often incomprehensible. It may also be a new concept to many of the urban majority who have only had to turn on a water tap to have plenty of the wet stuff, until they own a lawn to water and the city tells them only on Friday at 7 a.m. for 20 minutes. Because of the time lag between demand and supply, it is essential that everyone buying even one plant require that his plant be drought and freeze tolerant.

Deserts in Tunisia, South America, and Australia are being reclaimed with the help of seed from some of our drought-tolerant South Texas species. Plants give us privacy hedges and windbreaks, and they once fence out intruders. Plants beautify our homes, mediate and fuel costs to come down. There is a time lag between public demand and supply, but if Texans want to share their state by inviting more industries and people to locate and spend their money here, we have to be prepared to share our space and resources with them.

Reagan Mazurek DAR award winner.

DAR recognizes Mazurek for citizenship award

Reagan Mazurek, son of Hubert and Barbara Mazurek of Utopia, was presented the Daughters of the American Revolution's Good Citizens Award by committee chair Donna Alexander at the November meeting of the Bandera chapter.

Reagan, who is a senior at Bandera High School, was chosen by fellow students and faculty to receive the award. Other requirements include a test and essay on U.S. government. The essay is called "Our American Heritage and My Responsibility to Preserve It." Reagan now becomes a candidate for the state DAR award that will be announced in March. State winners will advance to the finals in Washington D.C. and receive $100 awards. Seven division winners will receive $250 each, and the national winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship, while the second place winner receives $750. Special guests at the award presentation included Reagan's

Foster parents sought to fill growing need in county

The Texas Department of Human Services is recruiting new foster families in Bandera County to meet expected increases in the number of abused and neglected children needing temporary homes in 1988.

Foster parents provide temporary homes for children unable to live with their biological families due to severe abuse or neglect. These children remain in foster care until their families can provide a safe and stable home environment, or until other permanent placement is arranged. Foster Parents may be single, married at least two years, work, or have a military, and do not have to own a home.

Children of all ages group need foster families. Recently there has been an increase in the number of special needs children and children under age five. Foster parents can choose the age group and sex of children they Yogi Bear was too late to buy much from the Bandera United Methodist Church's "Bazaar Bunch." The group nearly sold out and took in over $1,700 according to a spokesman. Another sale is planned during the Shopper's Jubilee.

175 persons participate in community services

Approximately 175 attended the Bandera Community Thanksgiving Service Nov. 22, according to the Rev. Richard Jackson.

Representatives from several local churches, including Bandera, Medina and Lakehills United Methodist churches, First Baptist church of Bandera and Pipe Creek, Faith Chapel, Grace Lutheran Church, and the Assembly of God, attended.

Methodists raise $1,700

Bandera United Methodist Church's Harvest Festival and Bazaar was "a great success," according to Elizabeth Jackson.

We raised over $1,700, and served lunch to a lot of people," said Jackson. She continued that the church will continue the sale the night of Shopper's Jubilee.

Cindy Fritsche

Cindy Fritsche named football sweetheart

At the last pep rally, Ronny Bain and Neil Graves announced to the student body the name of this year's Sweetheart, Cindy Fritsche. Astonished and misty eyed, Cindy stepped forward to receive congratulations, hugs and a half dozen red roses. Cindy also received a silver heart pendant with the inscription, Sweetheart. Football Sweetheart was the most meaningful reward I have received in high school. It is something that I never expected but will cherish, appreciate this gesture and want to thank the Bulldogs for the support they've given me," she said.

Cindy is the head Varsity cheerleader and has been on the BHS cheering squad four years. Staying up late at night making various goodies for the Bulldogs was among the long list of her contributions to the Dogs in the name of 'Bulldog Spirit'.

Cindy said she enjoys sports so much that she plans on becoming a sports newscaster. "It has always been my dream," she said with a smile.

Even though this is Cindy's last year with the Bulldogs, her "Sweet-heart" will remain full of spirit for the Dogs.

Teens for Christ meet
What the Bible says about love and just being able to tell the difference between the two was the topic of the Teens for Christ meeting held Nov. 22 at the home of TFC sponsor, Mr. Charles Graves with all members present. The Bible Study was led by Joydawn Paula Miller. In the business portion of the meeting, TFC members decided to have a "can drive" to help those less fortunate than themselves have a happy Thanksgiving.

Teens for Christ is an organization of high school students from all different denominations. The meetings are held every other week and consist of TFC business, entertainment, bible study, and refreshments. The topics are designed to help teens make every day decisions.

Winners in Kim Richardson's fifth grade class at Alkek Elementary School for constructing miniature Indian habitats are, from the left, Tammy Timmons with her Aztec Temple, second place; James Litman, Arapahoe Indian teepee village, first place; and Dustin Brown, Shawnee adobe house village, third place. The students in the class were judged on originality, authenticity, and resourcefulness in constructing the habitats and environment.

70 BHS students join national smokeout

Seventy BHS students, along with the rest of the county, participated in the 11th annual Great American Smokeout, Thursday, Nov. 14.

The Great American Smokeout is an annual event sponsored by the American Cancer Society. It is a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit for just one day, in hope that many will stop the habit forever.

Future Homemakers of America, sponsored by Mrs. Lonette Wilton, hosted the event at the high school. They issued "Smoking Survival Bags," that contained stickers, buttons, balloons, candy and gum to help them forget their smoking habit. Cutting back may be less traumatic, but quitting "cold turkey," though harder, is more effective.

'Tis the day to honor the turkey

This dinner will make any weight watcher thankful

Benjamin Franklin may have lost his argument to name the bird turkey as the national bird, but Americans are still honoring the "gobbler" at Thanksgiving. Says Liz McCole with Weight Watchers, "At this festive holiday when all thoughts turn to food, the dinner wouldn't be the same without the big bird and all the trimmings."

The traditional approach to Thanksgiving is to "give thanks for the food we are about to receive." Yet, the holiday can spell disaster for weight-conscious individuals who consider it a time for counting calories instead of blessings.

"Sticking with any diet can be very difficult during the holidays," says Joyce Nimetz, Area Director. "We're suggesting the following hearty holiday menu this year."

Dinner starts with Puree of Fennel Soup, followed by a main course of Turkey, Marsala with Mushrooms, Wild Rice Pilaf and Braised Julienne Vegetable Medley.

Recipe Roundup

By Valerie Coyle

Now that hunting season is upon us once again, Jesse Crow of San Antonio has a good recipe for you hunters to try at the hunting camp. Jesse says these German Skillet Beans make a tasty meal when prepared using canned pork beans with jalapenos also. That would make the dish a little spicier, wouldn't it?

This recipe is similar to one I use, only this one has more ingredients. It's one of my husband's favorites and does make a good hearty dish. So hunters, be sure to clip this recipe and take it along with the ingredients to hunting camp with you. And those of you who are not hunters can enjoy it at home just as much.

Thanks, Jesse Crow, for sharing your recipe with us.

German Skillet Beans
3 slices bacon
1 (16 oz.) can pork and beans, drained
1 Tbsp. firmly packed brown sugar
1 Tbsp. vinegar

Even a favorite dessert — Lattice-Topped Apple Pie — allowed. With a meal like this, any weight-conscious person will be extra thankful.

Nema Frye, a registered dietitian offers a holiday tip, "Plan your other meals around the main one. Eat lighter meals that day so you can enjoy festive extras — without extra pounds!"

Turkey marsala with mushrooms
Makes 4 servings

For an elegant presentation, serve turkey over Wild Rice Pilaf topped with gravy and garnished with sprigs of thyme.

1 C. each dry Marsala wine, cannot ready-to-serve chicken broth, and cannot ready-to-serve beef broth
2 Tsp. each margarine and vegetable oil
4 turkey cutlets (3 ounces each)
1 C. sliced mushrooms
2 T. minced shallots
1 T. salt, pepper, or to taste
2 T. all-purpose flour
In medium bowl combine wine, broths, and pepper; set aside.

Wild Rice Pilaf
Makes 4 servings, about 1 1/2 cups each

1 C. finely chopped thoroughly washed leek (white portion with some green)
1/2 C. sliced mushrooms
1/2 C. water
1 packet instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
1 ounce uncooked regular long-grain rice
1/2 ounce pignolias (pine nuts), toasted and chopped

Spray 2-quart saucepan with nonstick cooking spray and set over medium heat; add leek and mushrooms, stirring frequently, until leek is softened, 1 to 2 minutes. Add water and broth mix and stir until broth mix is dissolved, cover and bring to a boil. Add wild rice; reduce heat to low and let simmer for 25 minutes. Stir long-grain rice and wild rice mixture, cover and cook until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed, about 20 minutes longer. Stir nuts into rice and serve.

Each serving provides: 1 bread exchange, 1/2 vegetable exchange, 25 calories optional exchange. Variation: Omit pignolias (pine nuts). Reduce optional exchange to 3 calories.

Puree of Fennel Soup
Makes 4 servings, about 1 1/2 cups each
2 Tsp. margarine
2 C. fennel thoroughly washed (leek white portion with some green)
2 small garlic cloves, minced
4 C. chopped fennel
2 C. water

In 12-inch nonstick skillet heat margarine and oil together until margarine is bubbly and mixture is hot; add turkey and cook, turning once, until golden brown on both sides and cooked through, about 2 minutes on each side. Set aside, cover, and keep warm. To same skillet add mushrooms and shallots and saute until mushrooms are lightly browned, 2 to 3 minutes. Sprinkle flour over mushroom mixture and stir quickly to combine; stir in wine, mixture and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and flavors blend, 10 to 15 minutes. Pour sauce over turkey and serve.

Each serving provides: 4 protein exchanges, 1/2 vegetable exchange, 1 fat exchange, 75 calories optional exchange.

Lattice-Topped Apple Pie
Makes 8 servings, 1/2 of 8-inch pie each
Granny Smith or McIntosh apples are just right for this old-fashioned dessert.

1/2 C. less 2 Tsp. all-purpose flour, divided
1 Tsp. salt
2 T. plus 2 Tsp. margarine
1 C. plain low-fat yogurt, divided
1 egg, lightly beaten
2 T. granulated sugar, divided
1 T. vanilla extract
2 lbs. apples, cored, pared, and thinly sliced
1/2 C. walnuts, chopped
1 T. firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 Tsp. ground cinnamon
In medium mixing bowl combine 1/2 cup flour and the salt, with pastry blender or 2 knives used scissors-fashion, cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add 1 cup yogurt and mix until thoroughly combined and mixture forms smooth dough. Wrap dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate overnight or at least 30 minutes.

In medium bowl combine remaining 1/2 cup yogurt, the egg, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, remaining 2 T. plus 2 Tsp. flour, and the vanilla; add apples and set aside. In small bowl combine walnuts, remaining tablespoon granulated sugar, the brown sugar, and cinnamon; mix well and set aside.

Preheat oven to 375 F. Spray 8-inch pie plate with nonstick cooking spray. Cut off 2 1/2 of chilled pastry dough; re-wrap remaining portion and return to refrigerator. Roll 2 sheets of wax paper roll dough, forming a "sauce" circle about 1/2 inch thick. Fit dough into prepared pie plate; transfer apple mixture to plate and sprinkle evenly with walnut mixture.

Roll remaining portion of dough between 2 sheets of wax paper to form an 8-inch circle about 1/2 inch thick and using sharp knife cut dough into sixteen 1/2-inch strips. Arrange strips lattice-fashion over apples; fasten edge of bottom crust with water and press lattice strips to crust. Fold edge of dough under and flute or crimp edge.

Bake until apples are tender and juices are bubbly, 50 to 60 minutes (if crust begins to brown, edge of bottom crust, cover with foil). Let pie cool 10 to 15 minutes before slicing.

Each serving provides: 1 bread exchange, 1 fat exchange, 1 fruit exchange, 1 milk exchange, 1/2 calories optional exchange. Variation: Omit walnuts. Reduce optional exchange to 1/2 calories.

Braised Julienne Vegetable Medley
Makes 4 servings, about 1 1/2 cups each
4 C. each julienne-cut yellow squash, zucchini, and carrots (6 x 1/2 strips)
Water
1 C. chopped fresh dill
3 packets instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
2 to 3 garlic cloves, minced
1 T. cornstarch
Dash white pepper, or to taste (optional)

In 14-inch nonstick skillet or Dutch oven combine vegetables, 1 cup water, the dill, broth mix, and garlic and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low, cover, and let simmer, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender crisp, about 10 minutes.

In measuring cup combine 1 cup water and cornstarch, stirring to dissolve cornstarch; pour over vegetable mixture and stir. Reduce heat and let simmer until liquid thickens, 2 to 3 minutes. If desired, stir in pepper.

Each serving provides: 6 vegetable exchanges, 15 calories optional exchange.

The table spread for Thanksgiving.

Deer lease register is still available

Landowners who have not yet leased their lands for hunting this season still have time to participate in the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Deer Hunting Lease Register program. The register offers landowners a free listing of their potential lease properties. The list is provided free of charge to hunters seeking leases. Mike Reagan, assistant wildlife deer program leader, said landowners can receive an application for listing their lands by writing the TPWD, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744, or by calling toll-free 1-800-792-1112. Hunters can receive the list by the same procedure. Reagan emphasized that the department is acting only as a clearinghouse for assisting hunters and landowners, and is not responsible for any negotiations between the parties. Currently about 550 landowners have properties totaling more than 3 million acres listed on the register, Reagan said.

Mudinyourface wins Lone Star Futurity

Mudinyourface, a 2-year-old colt trained by David Latham, won the Lone Star Futurity and $8,192 Sunday at Bandera Downs, beating Mystic Ruler at the post. The winner covered the 400 yards in 30.05 seconds, a speed index of 101.

Mystic Ruler, with Robert Thompson in the saddle, also claimed a speed index of 101. While Johnny Coast Pass 'Em was a distant third in 20.18 seconds. Second place earned $3,979 and third place was good for $2,809. A total of $23,406 was distributed to horsemen in this race alone.

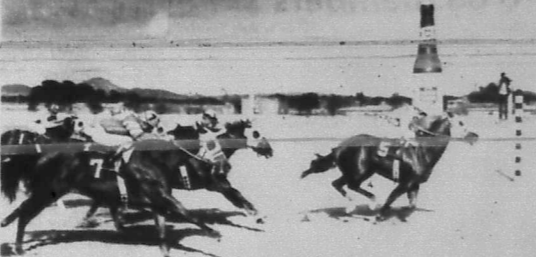

In the second feature Sunday, the favorite, Gilda Ryan, won the Lone Star Light Derby and a purse of $4,881, winning handily over the Hugh Tucker-trained One Handy Miss.

Gilda Ryan, a 3-year-old colt trained by Jerry Lazenby, covered the 400-yard course in 20.18 seconds, a speed index of 97 and 16 seconds ahead of One Handy Miss, who was clocked in 20.34 seconds. Second place was good for $2,270 and the third-place finisher, I'm on the Money, won $1,474 after finishing in 20.35 seconds.

Moon's Poppy, with Raymond Lopez aboard, won the Armadillo Sprint by sprinting over the 350-yard course in 18.04 seconds and nipping Charms, an Easy Jet colt, at the finish line by a nose.

Moon's Poppy won $3,950 for his 18 seconds of work and second-place Charms won $1,975. Flying Approach, a 3-year-old stallion trained by Humero Martinez, won the fourth feature of the day, the Long Neck Allowance, in 18.01 seconds over 350 yards. Second place was claimed by Strickly Special, a Bob Weisk-owned horse.

Other winners Sunday included Buck's Daddy Morrice, who won a 660-yard test in 36.18 seconds. Little Miss Janna Jet, another

Former Bandera man killed by Oklahoma police

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

Former Bandera Arnold Ray Strickland, 45, was gunned down Sunday morning in a convenience store parking lot and his companion was wounded following a 20-mile chase with Oklahoma law enforcement officers.

Officers from the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, Oklahoma State Highway Patrol, and local law enforcement agencies had been looking for Strickland, his companion Don Cooper, and an unidentified woman in connection with a murder in western Oklahoma on Nov. 2, according to Paul Renfrow, public relations officer with the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation.

"On Nov. 2 a man's body was found dumped along Interstate 40 in far west Oklahoma," Renfrow said. "Our investigation turned up his identification as David Sanchez of Albuquerque."

We learned he had been traveling with Strickland and Cooper to Alabama," the officer said.

"They were traveling in a unique vehicle. We sent special bullets to agents in Alabama, but they never showed up there," he said.

"Then last week CrimeStoppers in Ardmore received a tip that a woman traveling with them was in Port Lavaca and the two men were around Lake Texoma. Authorities in Port Lavaca arrested the woman on Nov. 26, and we issued warrants for first degree murder on Strickland and Cooper," the investigator said.

"Thanksgiving day agents set up surveillance of a house the two men had been staying in. They watched the house for three days and no one showed up. Saturday night the agents went home, except for one. Sunday morning he got up and headed for Mead. While driving through Mead, he accidentally saw the truck Strickland and Cooper were traveling in parked at a motel," the agent said.

"The names the two had registered under were aliases the two had used before," Renfrow said. "He called for assistance and the highway patrol, sheriff's department, and local officers answered. While they were setting up surveillance, the two men saw them and fled."

"The officers chased them for 20 miles and they went through a road block. A shot fired from a police car hit the truck's radiator. They pulled into a convenience store parking lot, and with a shotgun they forced a man out of his truck. Before they could get away in the truck, the officers opened fire."

"Strickland was killed and Cooper was injured," Renfrow said. Cooper is still in custody and the woman is believed to be in jail in Port Lavaca.

Strickland's body was being transferred to Grimes Funeral Chapel in Bandera Tuesday.

Strickland was born at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. He worked in construction and was a member of the Baptist Church. He was a U.S. Army veteran.

Survivors include his mother, Effie Jane Strickland of Bandera, three sisters, Mattie Elizabeth Blatto of Bandera, Emily Comelle Innes of Dilley, and Emma Jane Garcia of Bandera; and one brother, Victor D. Strickland of San Antonio.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Thursday at Grimes Funeral Chapel in Bandera with burial following in Bandera Cemetery.

Bandera Downs officials hoping for summer pari-mutuel racing

By Nick Johnson
Editor

Bandera Downs officials hope to be racing with a pari-mutuel pool by late June or July, but they won't turn a shovel on construction at the track until they are fully licensed by a Texas Racing Commission that hasn't been even been named yet.

That's the latest from Stan and Linda Scruby, co-owners and operators of Bandera Downs. Scruby said in October he plans to expand the track to accommodate crowds of up to 10,000 and races of up to three-fourths of a mile in length.

That work won't begin until Bandera Downs is licensed by the Texas Racing Commission because the law that implements pari-mutuel wagering requires commission approval of work in advance at class 1 tracks, and that what Bandera Downs hopes to become.

Rosanna Salazar in the governor's press office in Austin told the Bulletin Monday that the governor does not expect to begin appointing members of the commission until mid or late January.

When the commission is in place, Scruby says he will ask for permission to construct a new grandstand doubling to 6,000 the capacity of the present seating and to construct an infield complete with picnic tables, benches and playgrounds to accommodate an additional 4,000.

In addition, he plans to seek commission approval of a 110-yard, or one-half furlong, extension of the length of the running surface by extending the turn an additional 50 yards thereby lengthening each straight away. He will also construct a chute, all of which will enable the track to conduct thoroughbred horse races of up to three-fourths of a mile, or six furlongs.

The Texas Racing Commission will consist of six persons appointed by the governor and the chairman of the Public Safety Commission and the comptroller of public accounts. The ex officio members shall have the power to vote in commission proceedings.

Two appointed members must be veterinarians and two must have "special knowledge or experience related to horse racing" and two others should have experience in greyhound racing. The dog racing commissioners will not participate in regulating horse racing tracks.

Commission members will serve staggered six-year terms. Two of the first members appointed will serve for two years and two others for four.

No person shall be appointed who owns a financial interest in a track or is kin to an owner and each member must file a financial statement with the secretary of state.

A commission member may not wager on a race nor receive any part of any purse or any other payment from a race track. The commission will employ a full-time executive director to manage the day-to-day activities of the commission.

The racing commission will issue three kinds of licenses. Bandera Downs will initially apply for 132 days or racing under a class 1 license, according to Scruby.

Only four class 1 tracks will be licensed in Texas, one in each of the four Texas counties with populations in excess of 750,000 — Harris, Dallas, Tarrant and Bexar — or in counties adjacent to those four. Bandera County is adjacent to Bexar County.

Scruby hopes to be the class 1 track in the San Antonio area at least until one is built in the Alamo City.

Bandera Downs will also qualify as a class 2 track on which racing will be authorized for up to 44 days a year. Existing tracks at Manor, near Austin, and in Del Rio and elsewhere in Texas also qualify in this class.

Other tracks, such as those in Boerne and Fredericksburg, will qualify to be licensed as class 3 tracks. Such tracks must be owned operated by the county or a nonprofit fair association and may conduct up to 16 days of racing each year.

All of the money wagered at a licensed track goes directly into the pari-mutuel pool and is distributed at the end of each racing day according to a formula set forth in the law.

Five percent of the pool will go to the state, five percent will be paid to the owners of the horses by adding it to the purses, and a little more than eight percent goes to the track as its commission.

The remainder, which is about 85 percent, is returned to the holders of winning pari-mutuel tickets.

Jim Davis falls short in steer roping finals

By Larry T. Williams

"Maybe next time." With that simple but positive statement Bandera champion steer roper Jim Davis gave notice that he would be back on the circuit in search of another title in 1988.

The 31-year-old professional cowboy came within $9,178 of winning an unprecedented third consecutive world championship in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association steer roping competition at Guthrie, Okla., this past weekend. Davis was squeezed out in the end by his arch competition of the past three years, Shaun Burchett of Pryor, Okla.

Davis already shares a rare spot in the annals of PRCA's best: He and Clark McIntyre are the only two ropers to have gained the top slot two years running. Since McIntyre claimed his fame in 1987 and 1988, it is obvious that such consistency of skill is rare.

The championship is determined by the total amount of money won during the year in PRCA sanctioned events. Davis entered 27 such rodeos this season and brought home $24,200, $4,800 of it coming in the finals. Davis was $8,700 behind Burchett going in and he picked up $4,800 on his first five steers on Friday, Nov. 27.

His ties weren't as good on Saturday, however, and even though Burchett only did well in one go-round, Davis's other placings were not enough to make the difference.

Davis placed first in two go-rounds, second in two, fourth in two and was fifth in the average. "I needed another first or a couple of seconds in the others to catch Shaun," said the roper, "Maybe next time."

Davis also said that his loss to Burchett in Cheyenne, Wyo., in July was the turning point of the closely-fought year-long challenge. "My second steer came untied and I took a 'notime' while Shaun won the go-round. That was the turn around." Davis plans to ease off a bit until March 1988 when the season begins again. "I'm going to kick back and hang around here for a while," he says.

The two-time champion from Bandera came close to an unprecedented third consecutive world title.

He and his father are cattle traders and the time for that enterprise is upon them for the next several weeks. "Of course, I'll still rope in the jackpots around," he said, referring to the other rodeos that help support the cowboy and his family.

According to the roper, he earns more off these non-title events than he does on the PRCA circuit (about $45,000 this year), but steer roping is an expensive habit to feed, both in time and money. Davis figures that he spends "between $10,000 and $15,000," or about a fourth of his earnings on entry fees and on the road expenses.

"We log around 50,000 miles on the truck in a year," says Davis, "but sometimes I fly to a rodeo and borrow a horse."

Most of the time he ropes off his arena partner of three years, Windy, the registered quarter horse that has helped earn over $250,000 in the past 36 months. "He works good," says Davis, who plans to ride the animal "for another two or three good years." Guess that's a good indication that Davis will be back next year.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

Americans were passionate gamblers in the nineteenth century. Long before Catholics invented bingo halls, the other churches, colleges, state governments and the nation's capital were financed partly by lotteries.

The western saloon and the Mississippi riverboat card games and professional players became familiar scenes in our fiction. The Louisiana Lottery Company began in 1869 as a way of supporting the New Orleans Charity Hospital, and then operated for 25 years and sold its tickets across the country.

By 1890, millions of Americans had hundreds of millions of dollars on eight thousand horse races every year. The well-to-do went to the tracks, and the fancy casinos like the one in Saratoga, N.Y. The poor used the handbooks available at drug stores, saloons, cigar and magazine stands. The rest went to the pool room.

At the pool room, one-half hour before each race, odds and scratches were announced courtesy of Western Union, whose operators were often present in the establishment. Bets were placed in person, by phone or runner. New odds came up before each race, more bets were made, and then "post" and "time" were called.

The race winner was announced, the betting winners collected, and the next round started.

Track odds were often shaved in the pool room's favor. When favorites lost the announcement was often delayed so the pool room could take in more sucker bets. The handbooks handing out in the cigar stores and saloons would simply move to parts unknown when they got hit too heavily.

Horse owners, trainers and stable hands sent out tips to collaborating bookmakers. The fix was often put on the race by jockeys, usually on the stretch run when favorites were eliminated at the wire. There were several techniques used then, or earlier before the race: overfeeding, weighting with leaded shoes, night riding and sitting, wrapping reins (putting a horse "under wraps"), leg-locking another jockey and, of course, drugging.

The notorious corruption at tracks and pool rooms led to reform drives to outlaw horse race betting. When bookmakers began to combine with one another the public lost even the advantages of the competition that kept most bookies honest.

The reform drives were not exclusively directed at gambling, but were wrapped up in the broader political movement that has come to be called "Progressivism."

Western Union was hounded out of providing direct lines and operators to the pool rooms. Sermons against gambling and the saloons became favorites of the religious evangelicals. One by one, the states fell into line, but usually after long and bitter fights in each one.

'Nice lady' brings Kachina dolls for third graders to inspect

Dear editor: Nov. 23 a nice lady named Nancy Carney came to Alkek Elementary and spoke to the third grade about the Pueblo, Zuni, and Hopi Indians. She brought Kachina dolls, pottery, baskets, blankets and rugs. She also came, to our surprise, dressed as a Navajo Indian.

She told about each and every Kachina doll she had brought. One kind of Kachina was called the Sun Kachina. The Sun Kachina was very important to the Pueblo, Hopi, and Zuni Indians. The Sun Kachina danced in every dance of the year but the other Kachina dolls danced only once a year. Ms. Carney also brought many other interesting Kachina dolls. The third grade really appreciated her taking the time to talk to us about part of her Indian artifacts.

Ask the library

Dear editor: Last week's Potpourri suggestion about having community subject experts to answer reader inquiries is a great idea. If you ever need additional information, please don't forget the information place, the library.

As a member of the San Antonio Regional Library System, the Bandera County Library has access to scores of information. I have acquired materials for student research papers on numerous subjects. Because San Antonio and Bandera are part of an interlibrary loan network, I also have received materials from major universities in other states.

Another excellent source of information is the school library. The high school library has access to 30 periodicals, many of which are on microfiche. Sources and indexes such as "Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature," "Editorial Research Reports," "Social Issues Resource Series," and "New York Times Current Events" round out the collection.

You can contact Jimmie Hughes at Bandera County Library and me at either the high school or junior high libraries. Our goal is for all members of the community to become lifelong library users in this "information age."

Bandera County potpourri

By Nick Johnson

They are lining up in the halls of the state capital to apply for seats on the soon-to-be-appointed Texas Racing Commission, I am told.

The names that pop up most often in the rumor mill coming out of Austin are those of former Dallas Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach and former Gov. John Connally. The former governor, of course, would be a good choice and one friendly to Bandera. His sister, Carmen Hicks, lives here and Big John himself has attended races at Bandera Downs when his name ran here.

But the appointment of Staubach would be the best political move for Gov. Bill Clements.

The former backfield wizard is popular throughout Texas, of course, for his gridiron antics, and most racing people are sports fans that would be predisposed to welcome Staubach.

And Tom Landry's favorite finger helped oppose the pari-mutuel ballot proposition in November and his born-again Christian and conservative political credentials are genuine.

Those who fear pari-mutuel breeds crime would welcome Staubach's tested eye on the commission.

So Clements would probably find support from both sides of the pari-mutuel issue for Staubach.

One of the members of the commission must be a veterinarian who treats large animals, like race horses.

For that spot, I nominate Bandera vet Conrad Nightingale. His Hill Country Equine Center is becoming known nationally in racing circles and his work with equine acupuncture might be called pioneering.

And his presence in the drug testing barn at Bandera Downs, where each winner is tested for drugs, certainly must have given him rare insight into the problems and opportunities in racing.

When we remain in Bandera County for weeks and even months on end, it seems at times we lead very sheltered lives.

As an avid reader, I scan big city newspapers almost daily, but somehow that doesn't seem to keep me prepared for the crudities that pop up when I leave the sheltered environment of this county.

For Thanksgiving, we made a fast trip to Boston. We left on Wednesday, the busiest day of the year for airlines.

But our local travel agent arranged our flights and schedules more than 45 days in advance, so we had nothing to worry about.

She even arranged for boarding passes clearly marked with seat numbers in the smoking section.

After departing Houston we encountered a little turbulence, but no major problems.

It was when we touched down in Philadelphia to take on more passengers that I discovered people there can be very cranky.

The flight was overbooked and those fortunate enough to be allowed to join us didn't seem to appreciate the fact they got seats.

One lady that had to be seated in the smoking area announced that other people's smoke made her very ill and we would all be sorry she was seated in our section.

But the flight attendant announced that because of the overbookings, smoking would be banned entirely between Philly and Boston.

That wasn't too bad. After all, it was only a 40 minute ride, and our more recent legislation permits airlines to ban smoking on flights of less than 45 minutes.

The thing that made it seem bad was the extra 30 minutes we were on the ground awaiting departure. It turned out to be an hour and 10 minutes plus the 15 minutes it took to get off the plane that I won't even talk about.

On our return flight Sunday, we only had one stop—Dallas. That flight too was overbooked, but the ground crew and the flight attendants managed to give everyone designated seats and the smoking section remained intact.

I had read in the big city papers about new legislation being presented to ban smoking on all flights. I think that is taking things too far.

Smokers should have the same constitutional rights as non-smokers.

If legislation forces airlines to guarantee seats to non-smokers and flights are overbooked, it seems to me those passengers should be given the option of sitting with smokers or taking a later flight.

Perhaps this is another case of the squeaky wheel getting the attention, or the pendulum swinging too far.

Galvan makes formal announcement for JP

Jacques Galvan of Lakehills has formally announced her intention to seek the Democratic nomination for justice of the peace, precinct 2, in the March 5 primary election.

She also seeks appointment to the unexpired term of incumbent Ed Jennings of Pipe Creek County commissioners said they will appoint someone to serve the final year of Jennings' term on Dec. 14.

"I sincerely feel there is a need for the individual who holds this position to devote more time to fulfill the responsibilities of the job without having any other outside employment," she said.

She said she will resign her current position as dispatcher-jailer with the sheriff's department if she is appointed on Dec. 14.

Burglars don't observe Thanksgiving holiday

Although most Bandera county residents enjoyed a long holiday week, five families discovered their homes burglarized.

The Rev. Franklin Pallen of Bandera reported three rifles, a shotgun, ammunition, and gun cases valued at over $1,400 stolen from his home. Deputy James MacMillan said he believes the burglaries happened while he and his wife were at church on Sunday.

The antique rifle and some arrowheads were stolen Saturday from the home of Susan Mangold of Bandera. MacMillan said the value of the missing items is unknown. The deputy said:

Hunting knives, jewelry, and a box of checks were reported taken in a burglary at the home of Joseph Kurtright of Bandera, also on Saturday. MacMillan said: "There were valued at over $1,000."

In error, burglars victim M.G. Freeman was referred to as M.F. Freeman in last week's police report.

Also in the police report, Warren Hyde was referred to as being with the upper lantern. Hyde pointed out, he was not connected to the business in any way.

Recipe Roundup

By Valerie Coyle

It's time to think of holiday baking! The holiday spirit is definitely in the air, and whether you're baking goodies for the family or as gifts for friends and neighbors, cookies always rate high on everyone's list.

Clara Timmons of Boerne is sharing one of her favorite cookie recipes with us this week. They're called Cherry Snowballs, and they feature a nice little surprise in the center. While this is usually a marmalade or candied cherry, Clara says she sometimes substitutes candy kisses and the kids love them. Sounds good to me, too.

Thanks, Clara, for sharing your recipe.

Cherry Snowballs

1 C. soft butter or margarine
1/2 C. sifted powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 C. sifted flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 C. finely chopped pecans
Maraschino cherries, well drained or candied cherries (if preferred)
Powdered sugar to roll cookies in Blend butter or margarine, the vanilla thoroughly. Sift flour and salt together and stir into sugar mixture. Mix in nuts. Chill dough in bowl at least 1 hour. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Wrap a heaping teaspoonful of dough around a cherry for each cookie. Set cookies on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes. Cookies will be set but not brown. While warm, roll in powdered sugar. Cool and roll again. When baking lots of cookies for the holidays, you might like to try this helpful hint: Cut aluminum foil to fit cookie sheets, place cookies on the foil, then slide onto a cookie sheet and bake. When the cookies are done, slide the foil off and put on another sheet. If you have a friend who likes to cook, why not give them a fun cookbook for Christmas? Better the Sex and a few other good cakes will give them a smile as well as some delicious recipes from Recipe Roundup readers. The cost is only $2.75 per book (including tax, shipping and handling) and you can order them from me at the address below.

Readers, if you have a favorite recipe you'd like to share, or if you're looking for a special recipe, I'd like to hear from you. Just write to me, Valerie Coyle, P.O. Box 2088, Kerrville, TX 78029-2088. Please be sure to include your name and address. Happy Cooking!

Optimists to party

The Bandera Optimist Club's annual Christmas party will be Monday, Dec. 14, at the Mayan Dude Ranch starting at 6:30 p.m. for cocktails and dinner at 8 p.m. Each person attending will bring a "gag" gift for other members and many plan to bring a gift to donate to Elfr Karen for some needy child.

Children's author says writing is way of self expression

Author Deana Blackburn addressed fourth graders Monday, Nov. 23.

Teacher Dorothy Larimer invited Blackburn after local businesses furnished copies of her booklet, "Feeling Good About Me," to fourth grade students. Blackburn is a former teacher and has designed her booklet, "Feeling Good About Me," to help students see viewpoints of others and consequences of actions in several situations most children face.

Her booklet emphasizes dialogue between youth and family members as a method of dealing with these daily problems. She published her first book in 1980, and since then has written several more, "mostly religious books, about marriage topics," she says.

The author says the booklet came about from the publisher, Lonnie Longmire's initiative. She explains that Longmire, president of Shepherd Publishing, had as his objective "to teach values in public schools." He apparently saw a gap at the third and fourth grade level, and wanted to reach that reading and interest level. It is used in some 68 school districts, Blackburn says. At Monday's presentation, the author says she "told the students about writing as a way of expression."

"I wanted to try to get them to be more observant," she said. Blackburn's booklet includes lessons based on judging right and wrong, learning about the pitfalls of drug abuse and individuality. In an episode called "Real Heroes," children learn respect for community property and also learn first hand about a "real American hero."

Medina girl named teen pageant finalist

Brenda Queen of Medina has been selected a finalist in the Miss South West Texas Teen-age Pageant.

She will compete with other teen-age contestants for three days on personality, poise, beauty and talent at the El Tropicana Hotel in San Antonio on May 6, 7, and 8.

Brenda is sponsored by the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce, Bandera Bank, and Bandera Dairy Queen. She is a graduate of Barbours School of Modeling in San Antonio, and was a cover model preliminary finalist in the Seventeen Cover Model Contest last April. She has done some modeling for Boyle's Dry Goods in Bandera.

The five-foot, five-inch blonde with blue eyes is a freshman at Medina High School and a student of the Kerrville School of Dance. Her hobbies are singing, roller skating, art, dancing and being with friends.

Brenda will be Santa's helper on the night of Shopper's Jubilee at Bandera Bank on Dec. 4. "I am looking forward to an exciting fun-filled weekend. It should be a real good learning experience," she said.

Four persons indicted here in Randy Sherwood murder

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

The Bandera County grand jury last week indicted four persons in the brutal July 16 murder of Randolph Allen (Randy) Sherwood.

They are Sherwood's ex-wife, Sharon, Robert Colson, Lee Corriher, and the murdered man's brother, in law, James Michael Clark, who was indicted for capital murder.

Sherwood, a former San Antonio night club owner, was found on the kitchen floor of his fashionable Pebble Beach waterfront home by co-workers from New Corriher, 19, of Tulsa, Okla., who was arrested minutes after the grand jury returned the indictment. He remains in Bandera County Jail in lieu of posting a $100,000 bond, deputy MacMillan said.

"Corriher lived in San Antonio at the time of Sherwood's murder," MacMillan said. "He was involved in the murder, and he was indicted shortly after the murder and received critical injuries, some of which he is still recuperating from," MacMillan said. "After he was released from the hospital, he moved to Oklahoma to continue his recuperation."

"Deputy MacMillan and Rangers Davis and Cuellar contacted him in Oklahoma and he agreed to voluntarily return to Texas and appear before the grand jury," the deputy said.

The 36-year-old murder victim had lived in Lakehills for 11 years. He lived alone at the time of his death, except for his doberman pinscher dog. "He was taken by total surprise in the kitchen of his home while preparing a breakfast in the early hours of July 16. His body, clad only in undershorts, was lying on the blood-soaked carpeted kitchen floor when found," MacMillan said. "There was no sign of forced entry or a struggle," the deputy said.

The Sherwoods had been divorced for over a year when the murder occurred.

Sherwood at one time owned Randy's Kebabery in San Antonio and was a previous owner of Sherwood's Van Lines. He ran unsuccessful campaigns for Bexar County commissioner and Bandera County judge in earlier years.

He was shot twice in the head with a .28 caliber rifle, then his throat was slashed twice, Deputy MacMillan said.

After the gruesome discovery of his body, Sherwood's co-workers walked to the nearby home of Sheriff Pickett and summoned him to the scene.

All four of the accused were represented by counsel at the grand jury. District Attorney Curry said. A pretrial hearing is set for Dec. 21, he said. "I expect arrangements will be the main event at that hearing," Curry added.

Six other persons were indicted by the grand jury in other cases, but arrests had not been made at press time. No one was notified.

Animal care facilities top priority at Sea World

With only finishing touches remaining for Shamu Stadium, Sea World of Texas construction will now focus on completing other animal care facilities.

Work is proceeding on schedule at the $140 million family entertainment park located on a picturesque site northwest of San Antonio at the edge of the Texas Hill Country.

"Completion of Shamu Stadium marks an important milestone in this massive project," said George J. Becker Jr., chairman of Sea World of Texas. "We have a considerable amount of work remaining. If the weather continues to be favorable, we will open the park in mid-April and celebrate our gala grand opening on May 28 as planned."

Shamu Stadium, new home for world-famous Shamu and other killer whales, is one of four stadiums under construction. Set for completion in January is the 3,000-seat Walrus, Sea Lion, and Otter Stadium, where these species will star in the hilarious "Spooky Kooky Castle" show. After each performance, Sea World visitors will be allowed to go "backstage" to see the animals up close.

Another popular attraction targeted for January completion is "Penguins, South and North Poles." The 32,000-square-foot building will house over 300 penguins of six species in an antartic environment with a constant temperature of 35 degrees F. Alcid, birds native to the north pole will inhabit a separate area. An extensive learning hall will showcase exploration and research of the polar regions through state-of-the-art graphics and video presentations.

Other animal care facilities behind the scenes, including laboratories and pools, are almost ready for occupancy, Becker noted.

In the heart of the 250-acre park, more than 9,000 cubic yards of concrete have been poured for Sea World of Texas' 12-acre water ski lake. "The lake, which has an average depth of 12 feet, was literally blasted and carved out of porous limestone," Becker explained.

A 3,200-seat water ski stadium is taking shape on the lake's south shore, while on the opposite side, The Lido Restaurant is well underway. Guests will dine on Italian specialties or relax and watch Sea World's professional water skiers from a lakeside patio, part of Harry's Bar. Sea World's other place for fine dining—the Cypress Gardens Restaurant—is being constructed at the northern edge of Cypress Gardens West, an oak-studded 12-acre where thousands of flowers and shrubs will flourish.

Site preparation has begun on the final two major elements of the park—a 3,500-seat amphitheater for shows and concerts known as The Meadow and the Boardwalk and Baseball Preview Center, Becker reported. The latter will introduce guests to Boardwalk and Baseball, a baseball-themed amusement park scheduled to be built after Sea World of Texas is completed.

Harcourt Brace Jovanovich (HBJ) Inc., Sea World's parent company, opened its first Boardwalk and Baseball park earlier this year in Baseball City, Fla. In February, the Kansas City Royals will make the Florida park their spring training home.

Man jailed after failed bank robbery in Utopia

Despite efforts of law enforcement officers, trackers, dogs, and helicopters, a suspect in an attempted burglary of the Utopia branch of the Sabin Bank got away, but another suspect was arrested.

Both suspects were located by Uvalde County Deputy Ron Olson in a black Camaro on Highway 187 about six miles north of Sabin. While handcuffing one of them, the other one ran away. Uvalde County Sheriff Aubrey Smith reported.

Michael Ray Bryan, 24, of LaVernia remained in Uvalde County jail in lieu of posting $100,000 bond Tuesday. He was arrested by Olson, a former Bandera city officer, after Olson responded to a series of burglaries in Utopia.

The two burglars were scared off when the burglar alarm at the Utopia branch of the Sabin Bank sounded while they attempted to enter the bank through the roof, shortly after 4 a.m. Friday.

The sheriff said officers believe the same two suspects burglarized Central Garage in Utopia, taking some tanks and a cutting torch that were used in the failed bank heist. A jeep was taken also and then returned to the scene, the sheriff said.

Officers acted on an anonymous tip from a Utopia resident that a burglary was in progress.

Medina Youth Choir 'Living Christmas tree'

A "Joy of Celebration" Christmas, will be sung by the Medina Youth Choir when they present their first annual "Living Christmas Tree" Dec. 20 and 21 at the Medina School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

"These kids have been invited to sing for the Medina Rotary both Methodist and Baptist Church activities," Bandera's Shopper's Jubilee and at Purple Hills Manor," says John Kennedy, who directs the 21-member choir.

"They are a hardworking bunch of kids that truly enjoy what they are doing," he adds.

Pat Kennedy explains that the youth choir had schedule conflicts, and will not be able to perform.

Creator of Eyebeam to lecture in San Antonio

Cartoonist Sam Hurt, the creator of Eyebeam, will be giving a slide lecture at the San Antonio Art Institute on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Hurt will conclude with a question and answer session and a book signing.

Eyebeam is a funny and intelligent cartoon strip which appears in ten papers across the country, among them being The Austin American-Statesman, The Texas Lawyer, The Daily Californian in Berkeley, and the Tech at MIT.

He has published five book collections of Eyebeam, and has just signed on with Texas Monthly to publish two more in 1988. An attorney as well as cartoonist, Sam will talk about how he deals humorously with the legal profession, the foibles and small victories in relationships between men and women, techniques in cartoon drawing, how he became a cartoonist, and his life working as a cartoonist, and how real life situations find their way into Eyebeam.

Those auditioning will be asked to sing and an accompanist will be provided. The music selections do not have to be from "Quilters," and auditioners are encouraged to try out even if they do not have a song prepared.

The musical was written by Molly Newman and Barbara Damashuk and deals with making of quilts by those pioneer women who stitched parts of their lives onto the heirlooms as decoration. Songs, dance and monologues combine to create a wonderful ritual in which joy and sorrow, remembrance and celebration are the artistic substance of the quilts.

Performance dates are Feb. 10 through 27, Wednesday through Saturday evenings.

For more information call David Cockerell at the Hill Country Arts Foundation at 367-5121.

Auditions for the Point Theatre production "Quilters," a musical about pioneer women in the 19th century whose lives were inspiring for their quilt patterns, are set for Dec. 8 and 9 at 7 p.m. in the Hill Country Arts Foundation Pavilion in Ingram.

According to Point Theatre director David Cockerell, there are parts for seven women of all ages who will play many different characters and different ages.

Auditions for the Point Theatre production "Quilters," a musical about pioneer women in the 19th century whose lives were inspiring for their quilt patterns, are set for Dec. 8 and 9 at 7 p.m. in the Hill Country Arts Foundation Pavilion in Ingram.

According to Point Theatre director David Cockerell, there are parts for seven women of all ages who will play many different characters and different ages.

Those auditioning will be asked to sing and an accompanist will be provided. The music selections do not have to be from "Quilters," and auditioners are encouraged to try out even if they do not have a song prepared.

The musical was written by Molly Newman and Barbara Damashuk and deals with making of quilts by those pioneer women who stitched parts of their lives onto the heirlooms as decoration. Songs, dance and monologues combine to create a wonderful ritual in which joy and sorrow, remembrance and celebration are the artistic substance of the quilts.

Performance dates are Feb. 10 through 27, Wednesday through Saturday evenings.

Thanksgiving Day was a busy day with relatives and friends from away gathering in the Hill Country to enjoy the beautiful foliage and have Thanksgiving dinner with family members.

Although the maples weren't as brilliant as usual due to the weather, cherry Spanish oak, cypress, sumac, sycamore and many more trees make the mountain sides a beauty only nature can provide.

A list of needed gifts for the State Hospital at Kerrville is posted on the bulletin board at the back of the Utopia Baptist Church. A box has been placed there to help you remember to take advantage of bringing a needed article unwrapped and drop in the box.

Baptist Men's Sunday School class will have their Christmas supper Saturday, Dec. 5, at the church at 6 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. James Arnce, of Houston spent Thanksgiving holidays at their ranch home above Vanderpool.

Clara Carter, Mrs. Arnce's aunt, enjoyed dinner with the group.

Thanksgiving visitors and dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Finis Thompson were grandson Robbie Thompson of Odessa, Gary and Kathy Berry and two children Chris and Anna Marie of Corpus Christi, a son, Gordon and three boys, Daniel, Tommy and Robert of Carrizo Springs.

Cheri Wilson of Vanderpool spent Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. Boyd Johnson, and family members in Broken Bow, Okla.

Shawn Burns and Kathy Hill spent Thanksgiving holidays in New Mexico visiting with her brother.

Patty and Dwayne McCaleb of San Antonio spent Friday night with her parents, John and Wife, Russ and Katie Jackson, Freddie Joe and Terry, B.J. and Tina Gazaway of Thunder Creek, and an old friend Victor Hobart and wife Vicki and baby Jennie of Mason.

Hooter and Martha Lee Clayton's Thanksgiving guests were her sister and husband Frank Metz and Mary Ann and the Clayton's daughter Sandra of Dallas.

Hunters on the Foster ranch report killing a large bobcat and a coyote. LaVern Harp saw a mink or weasel come to her blind twice, but only had her deer rifle so she didn't shoot.

The pancake supper sponsored by Vanderpool Wolf Club had a large turnout. The support of the entire community was well as adjoining communities was greatly appreciated and proceeds were approximately $800.

Vandals strike parks for the second time

For the second time in as many months, vandals left a trail of destruction in the parks.

Roadside parks at Ranger Crossing on Highway 16 north and on Highway 470 north of the intersection of Highway 16 both received considerable damage over the weekend. Vandals dumped the large trash barrels in the river. They tore reflector posts and signs down and dumped them in the river, and they tore down cookers and ripped roofing off picnic pavilions, Georg said.

This is the second time in two months they've done this. He moving the reflector signs from along Highway 470 at the river bridge approach creates a real traffic hazard for motorists at night, Alfred Schulte, a highway department worker said Tuesday.

"I believe there's more vandalism recently than we've had in the past," he said. "Signs on Highway 16 were also removed, and signs were stolen on Highway 337 toward Leakey, too. The 31-year veteran of the highway department maintenance division said.

"This type of vandalism is not only costly, it's dangerous," Georg said. "Funds for building and maintaining these parks come from tax dollars," he said. "Anyone seeing someone vandalizing the parks or road signs should contact the sheriff's department. If possible they should get a license plate number and report it," he said. "If we can find the people doing this, we will prosecute," Georg said.

Phil Tremble of Medina and the Band entertained with some outstanding music and singing.

With frost still on the ground Tuesday morning, Alfred Schulte of the highway department begins erecting signs and repairing damage done by vandals at the roadside park on Highway 470 at the Medina River bridge.

Harvesting your own Christmas tree

"Although family traditions come and go, some go and some come back," says Irene Elizondo. "It used to be a tradition to go to the fields to pick and cut a fresh evergreen tree for the Christmas holidays. This old-age ritual can once again become a family holiday custom. Gather up the family and drive to a Christmas tree farm to choose and cut your own fresh Christmas tree," the home economist at the Texas Department of Agriculture says.

There are about 13 Christmas tree farms that are within 1 to 2 hours drive. Most of these growers have a choose-and-cut operation where the buyer can recreate the old fashioned tradition of selecting and cutting a fresh tree, Elizondo advises.

For the 1987 season, the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association estimates 525,000 trees will be harvested grossing approximately $8 million dollars. About 34 percent of these trees will be sold as choose-and-cut at various locations. Across the state, retail tree lots will have the remaining 66 percent already cut for consumers.

Whether you choose and cut or select your Texas Christmas tree at a local tree lot, you will be getting the freshest of trees. While imported trees are cut in October, Texas trees are cut in late November for the retail market, she says.

A fresh Texas tree means helping out state economy and it also means a longer lasting tree. With proper care and adequate water the tree will remain flame resistant. Furthermore, the home will be filled with the memorable holiday fragrance of fresh pine, Elizondo said.

Texas produces two varieties: the Afghan or Eldorado and the Virginia pine. These trees are tagged with the state of Texas logo or are advertised as Texas trees. This tag guarantees freshness.

"Keep in mind the space for the tree," says Kerry Bullock, marketing specialist for the Texas Department of Agriculture. "Also, it doesn't have to be perfect if it will be up against a wall!" She says. "The tree should have a fresh cut at the bottom of the trunk before placing it in a stand that holds water. Water should be replenished daily."

If you would like a list of farms with choose-and-cut operations, write the Texas Department of Agriculture, 2800 N.E. Loop 410 Suite 301, San Antonio, Texas 78218.

After the tree trimming, Elizondo suggests the whole family might enjoy Holiday Orange Egg Nog or Hot Holiday Punch.

"Happy harvesting and happy tree trimming. May all your Christmas lights work," she says.

School board eyes new grid stadium

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

Bandera School trustees hired Everett Wilkins of Wilkins International to provide plans, specifications, site study, bid documents, and cost estimates to build a new stadium and field tracks on property adjoining the high school.

School board president Ron Jackson assured the project would not be funded from tax dollars. He presented the board with checks totaling over $4,000 that were donations from local businesses and individuals.

We will use donations to fund the whole project," Jackson said. Tax funds won't be used until eight or nine years down the road," he told administrators and fellow trustees.

The first donation I received was from Mildred McLanahan for $450," he said. The Bandera Bank, First State Bank and Dr. William Dubose each donated $500. Joe Hearn products $500 and Buddy Sandig Electric $100. "Also, I have a check here from my wife Karen and I for $800," Jackson said.

Wilkins told the trustees he's built 45 stadiums and tracks in Texas in the last two years, including projects in Dallas, Fort Worth, Pan Am University, Katy, Boerne, Conroe, Hondo, and Cuero.

The initial cost for site and facilities studies, and testing, and drainage and irrigation

School board president said the stadium will be built entirely from donations. No tax funds are involved, he said.

plans and specifications will cost about $3,800, the engineer told the trustees. "I'll include a study of available parking area for no charge," Wilkins said.

Wilkins said the entire project may cost up to $350,000. The project study will include a seven lane track, a 2500-seat stadium, snack bar, ticket booths, dressing rooms, restrooms, and a concession stand.

In other action Tuesday the trustees appointed a committee to review the policy in the study handbook regarding removing students from office and leadership positions for misconduct.

They agreed to accept the Monitor Ranch in Tarpley for annexation in the district provided the Monitor family provide $750 in advance for attorney fees paid all taxes on the property through Dec. 31 and other expenses incurred by annexation, and meet other requirements from the Hondo School District.

They may schedule one of the twice-monthly sessions of municipal court to coincide with council sessions so city attorney Terry Mason, who lives in Ingram, can be on hand to provide legal advice to both parties.

They may also do away with the practice of paying employees for their unused sick leave and they may even eliminate pay raises employees were granted in July.

What they probably won't do, after receiving a lecture from city judge Kerry Schneider of Pipe Creek, is look to her court for more revenue.

Schneider was upset over remarks made last Monday which made it appear that the city dade expected more revenue from fines levied by the court.

"My office is not there for the purpose of raising revenue," Schneider told the council. "If you are looking for a judge to operate this court as a money-making operation, you're looking at the wrong person."

She told the court in no uncertain terms that her court existed

Main Street site eyed for medical clinic

If Dr. Franklin Rivers and a local citizens' support group can come to an agreement with officials from a Kerrville hospital this week, they will go forward with the construction of a medical facility on Bandera's Main Street, according to Rivers.

"We will meet this week with representatives from the Sid Peterson Foundation Board of Directors," said Rivers.

If the meeting goes as planned, Rivers says the clinic will be located in a building donated by Phil Becker and work on the building will begin "as soon as possible."

"We're delighted Mr. Becker has been so generous," said the physician. "If an agreement is reached, and approved by Sid Peterson's board, we will revamp the building."

Rivers said if an agreement is not reached with Sid Peterson's board, a group of local citizens "continue to stand ready to construct a clinic from scratch, if needed."

The proposed site of the medical facility is in the 1100 block of Main Street, at the old meat locker plant building.

Bandera Bank, Koehler Park cited as 'best decorated'

By Janna Sandig

Bandera Bank and Koehler Park garnered first place honors as decorations from one end of Bandera to the other caught the attention of judges Mary Leigh Faulkner, Cindy Horner and Bruce Hathaway at Shoppers Jubilee Friday, Dec. 4.

In the large business decoration category, Bandera Bank placed first, followed by San Antonio Savings, second, and First State Bank.

Koehler Park was named best decorated small business by the judges.

"The decorations were impressive, and covered a lot of territory," explained Hathaway. "It really appealed to the judges, and the decision on that one was unanimous."

Books in Bloom placed second. David and Judy Covey's Old First State Bank Building on 11th Street placed third, and honorable mention went to Bandera Emporium and Eckhart's Flower Shop.

"It was a tough job," said Hathaway, "but quite exciting. There was a lot of imagination evident."

He explained the judges walked around, so they could see all the detail.

Koehler Park's decorations were based on "a little idea that just grew," according to David Koehler. The decorations were mostly lights, but included reindeer.

"We just wanted to brighten up Bandera any way we could," explained Koehler.

Koehler said crowds came through to see the decorations during Friday night's Shoppers Jubilee celebration.

New children's flu vaccine to be available at clinic here

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

A new vaccine against a common childhood bacterial infection will be available at the Texas Department of Health's next immunization clinic here, says nurse Betty Staples.

The immunization clinic will be held Wednesday, Dec. 16, from 1:30 p.m. at Bandera United Methodist Church.

"The vaccine will be available on a limited basis," said Staples. "But there should be enough to meet the need, in addition to the other vaccinations."

"The vaccine prevents a specific type of influenza virus that causes meningitis, among others," she said, "but it's not used for children under two years."

"According to studies, children do not develop an immunity at the younger ages," she said.

The vaccine is called Haemophilus Influenza Type B (Hib) vaccine. Two types of meningitis commonly occur in children, types A and B, and both can be quite severe, according to Staples.

A vaccine is not yet available for the type A strain of the Hib bacteria is a leading cause of bacterial disease in U.S. children, and the most common cause of bacterial meningitis.

About 20,000 Hib infections, mostly of young children, are reported in the U.S. annually, according to TDH statistics.

about one in every 200 children will have some Hib infection before age five. Hib often leads to meningitis, which can cause retardation, blindness, deafness, and other neurological disorders.

Hib can also cause severe ear, throat, sinus and respiratory infections, as well as septic arthritis and pneumonia.

The children most at risk of developing Hib infections are the chronically ill, and increased risk of Hib has been reported in day care centers in some parts of the country.

In Texas last year, 647 Hib infections resulted in 23 deaths, according to a report from the TDH. Some 492 of those stricken, 21 of whom died, were 2 years old or younger.

The Hib vaccine is "one of the safest vaccines available for children, in terms of risk of adverse reactions," said Robert D. Crider, director of the TDH Immunization Division. "If children have any reaction to the vaccine, it is only mild."

"Large parents of children ages 24 to 35 months or with chronic conditions to inquire for details about the vaccine," said Staples. Unlike some other vaccines, Hib is not required by law, and must be specifically requested.

Grant to restore Polly's chapel steeple

A $10,000 Texas Historic Preservation Grant has been approved to restore the steeple of Polly's chapel in Bandera County.

Word of the grant was received this week by Peggy Tobin, chairwoman of Bandera County Historical Commission, in a letter from Ted Fehrenbach, chairman, and Curtis Tunnel, director of Texas Historical Commission.

Dr. Sarita Zajack of San Antonio, a granddaughter of famed Policarpo Rodriguez, appeared at a public hearing in Austin at which proposals for grant awards were made. The Rodriguez family has been raising matching funds since the chapel was built.

Tunnel and Fehrenbach pointed out that the grant provides Polly's Chapel is a site recognized as especially worthy of preservation. Only a few projects could be approved out of many candidates from around the state.

State funding for historic preservation is shrinking to the extent that only $22,377 has been set aside for 1988 by the state legislature.

According to Tobin, Mario Sanchez, commission staff architect, will be in Bandera soon for a meeting to plan administration of the grant. A final specific plan for the steeple restoration must be in place by March 4.

Interested church officials, Rodriguez family members, and local county historical commission members will be informed of the items was not the burglary.

Haners, Garrisons attend Farm Bureau convention

Mr. and Mrs. J. Haner and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Garrison Jr. of Medina represented Bandera County Farm Bureau at the 54th annual Texas Farm Bureau convention Nov. 25-Dec. 2 in Lubbock.

Politics directing the state's largest farm organization were adopted by more than 1,000 delegates from 216 organized Farm Bureaus. Approved recommendations on national policies will advance to the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting to be held Jan. 10-14 in New Orleans.

Speakers featured at the convention included Grant Teaff, head football coach of Baylor University; S.M. True of Plainview, TFB president; Neal Nurnett of Plainview, TFB secretary-treasurer (financial reports); and Warrant Newberry, TFB executive director.

The business session covered the final two days of the meeting. The last order of business was the election of the president, S.M. True.

County leaders also attended several special conferences on legislative, the TFB AGFUND, agriculture and the environment, international trade and immigration and farm labor. Commodity conferences were also held.

Delegates adopted several resolutions concerning the farm program. Among these was support for 1987 target prices and loan rates for 1988, and support for the 0.92 program, where farmers are paid for taking land out of production. They favored marketing loans for feed grains, soybeans and wheat, and urged more local input on conservation compliance provisions.

Also at the national level, the delegates supported the National Live Stock and Meat Board in its promotion of the meat industry. They supported check-off programs for the promotion of any farm and ranch products if producers are given the opportunity through a referendum to determine whether to continue or terminate the program.

At the state level, delegates called for a worker's compensation program with lower rates and a deductible clause for agriculture. They opposed animal rights legislation and supported the state's proposed agricultural education calling for the Commissioner of Agriculture's office to be an appointive office, opposed the taxation of underground water and supported the passage of legislation which assured that the Independent School District system in Texas is continued.

A girl, Kelsey Leann Moore, was born Nov. 25 to Steven and Betty Moore of San Antonio.

New Year's gala at civic center

The Medina Lake Betterment Association is finalizing plans for the annual New Year's Eve Party and Dance at the Lakehills Civic Center, MLBA president Peggy Ashmore said.

"Again this year we'll be taking reservations for individuals, couples, and for parties of 10," Ashmore said. To make reservations contact Marie Pickett at 751-2000. The cost will be $15 per couple. The charge includes party hats, noise makers, favors and at midnight we will serve black-eyed peas and cornbread.

"We're fortunate to have Hot and Dusty country western band again," she said. "They're the ones that played last New Year's Eve and at the Gumbo Cookoff in September."

The bar will be open for setup, ice by the cup or bucket, beer, and wine coolers. For mixed drinks persons will need to bring their own bottle, Ashmore said.

Hermanns Sons elect

Evelyn Furrows was elected president for the coming year at Hermann Sons Lodge 81 in Lakehills on Dec. 2. Also elected were vice president Betty Baxter, treasurer Clare Willis, and secretary Elaine Mison.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the regular January meeting.

President Bea Borchers reminds all members the annual Christmas Party will be Dec. 19 at the Lodge on Park Road 37.

Art Gallery moves down PR37

The Lakehills Art Gallery has moved to a new building on Park Road 37 near Miller's Curve.

Owners Ted and Linda Jacobsen purchased the building a few weeks ago and have been in the process of renovating the building.

"We almost had to start from the ground up," Ted said. "We're ready for our re-grand opening now. There's still work to be done but the important thing is we have the space we need to expand," he said.

The Jacobsens opened the original gallery in the old Tontz center in June.

The gallery offers a complete line of Christmas decorations, gift items, frames, custom framing, and many one of a kind handmade crafts.

The Jacobsens also make custom signs for businesses and yard signs for individuals.

"We hope everyone will stop in and visit our new shop and register for the prize we're giving away," Ted said.

Second dart tourney set at Fiddlin' Around

The second of two dart tournaments to benefit the Spirits of Christmas Presents will start Friday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. at Fiddlin' Around in Lakehills.

Shooters will vie from 8-12 p.m. Friday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday before finals begin at 8 p.m. Sunday and run until closing time.

At 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 13, Fiddlin' Around will feature music by Joy Rose and Bill Baker and the Outlaws. There will also be a covered dish barbecue, and Millie Harrison says barbecue will be provided. She invites everyone to come out, bring a covered dish and enjoy the dart tournament and the party which will benefit the Elf Karen project.

The Rev. Joyce Slade joins Melissa Schneider and June Settlemeyer and other women of the Lakehills United Methodist Church Women group for a gift-wrapping session. The ladies took over the task Wednesday, Dec. 2 to wrap dolls with custom-made costumes created by Dolores Thompson of Lakehills.

Community center meeting planned in Pipe Creek

A general meeting will be held for the area residents at the Pipe Creek Community Center on Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. center trustee Virginia Stricker said.

"Among items to be discussed will be rental fees on the building and insurance cost," she said.

All area residents interested in the Pipe Creek Community Center are urged to attend and any ideas or suggestions they have will be welcomed, Stricker said.

Thompson, for the second year, made costumes by hand for each doll. When the dolls are wrapped, they will be presented to Elf Karen and her helpers to be distributed to little girls in the county through the Spirits of Christmas Presents program headed by Karen Jackson and Kathy Gardner.

Wharton's Dock

A Christmas Musical Program will be held at Walker Memorial Chapel in Wharton's Dock at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20.

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department will have a general meeting Saturday, Dec. 19 at 11 a.m. to elect officers.

After the meeting, food will be served.

Bill Bentley is home from the hospital and doing fine after surgery.

Bo Reed and Bonita Proctor from San Antonio were visitors of John and Mary Wells, long time friends.

Returning from Illinois after Thanksgiving are new neighbors at Lakehills, Kent and Barbara Walton who are enjoying their new home next to Bill and Margaret Holmes.

Merle and Mary Lucille Welby from San Antonio were visiting Dick and Jeanie Srean and friends at Copper Lantern and Wharton's Dock.

Mildred and Randolph Alexander gave a barbecue for Dennis and Viola Crew at Wharton's Dock. Live music was furnished by Leonard, Charlie Mann, Jeff Masse and Dennis Crew.

Dell Lackey is recovering very fast and should be home soon.

A Thought For The Week

By John M. Grimes

One of the best quotes on happiness we have comes across is by J. Walter Sylvester. Happiness comes not from without but from within. It comes not from the power of possession but from the power of appreciation. The struggle to enjoy life, to be contented and satisfied, is a constant one. In recent years crime, corruption and crises of life added to the fast pace of modern living have made realization of contentment, peace of mind, true happiness even more difficult to achieve.

The secret is still the same, it lies in the mind. Those who are able to limit their goals, desires and dreams to reasonable ones, who will keep in mind the lot of those less fortunate than they and who accept the world as it is, and people as they are, can find happiness.

The key to happiness, then, is not to be found in money, power, position or influence over others. It is to be found in one's mind, in viewing life relatively, with a realistic sense of proportion, thereby achieving an inner peace (and here faith can help, neither human beings nor daily events can threaten).

The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson from the Grace Lutheran Church used for his text Sunday, May 1. Norma Barr was the pianist. Guests were Meljeaugh and Renee Hermanson.

Women from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church who came for Rosary Monday evening were Fannie Caffall, Marie Krueger, Aggie Batts and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

Montie and Avis Chipman visited Mada Dial, Winnie Chad dock and other friends Monday afternoon.

Norma Barr came by Tuesday and took Mary Koehler to Kerrville.

Mrs. Warren Lee and Mrs. Benny Barker brought by a beautiful candy treat they had made.

Claire Thaman of Kerrville visited her mother Agnes Fortinberry.

Leta Preston and Adele Akin visited their aunt Winnie Chad dock.

Martin Smith took Jack Holway to the basketball game at the High School Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Smith had Bible Reading for 18 residents Wednesday morning.

Ota Neely died early early Thursday morning. We will miss him, and extend sympathy to all his loved ones.

Elvie Kirsh and Ola Belle Allsup of Medina visited Julia Keese and Louis Allsup.

The women and children from Hill Country Chapel came Wednesday afternoon for their regular monthly meeting. Darlene Marks had the devotional, "He Gave the Very Best."

Judy John was the pianist. "When They Ring the Golden Bells" was sung by Darlene Marks. They brought lovely crocheted wreaths.

Other guests were Johnny Camp, Mona Miller, Summer and Kaci, Mickie Bellach, Jessica and Bryan, Nita Pillet, and Jessica and Jenny Shedd.

Laverne and Hoyt Hamrick visited friends in the home Wednesday and took Jack Holway to service at the Church of Christ that evening.

Anna Montague, Bob and Joyce Storr and the Rev. Ira Garrison visited the Rev. Mauley Reynolds, Annie Mayfield, Donna Mayfield, Helen Rugh, Winnie Chad dock, and Mada Dial.

Mary Slavens and Mary Frances Heinen have gone to Edgewood Care Center in Kerrville to make their home. We will miss them and hope the best for them.

The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson from the Grace Lutheran Church visited Mary Hoehler and Ruby Hillman.

We had a busy afternoon and evening with the parade and the Melodians from Silver Sage Corral. The weather was perfect and everyone got to go out front to enjoy the parade.

After the parade the Melodians with their Christmas Program, Florence Isaacs was the pianist, Judy Goodenough was the violinist, and Dean Isaacs announced the program.

Signing the guest book were Harry and Mabel Kentner, Doc Thompson, Janice Collier, Mary McCloskey, Arthur and Marion Bunch, Mary Worley, Fannie Caffall, Floyd and Mary Portman, Dolores Green, Paul and June Westmeyer, Carter and Dora Beach, Judy Goodenough, Dean and Florence Isaacs, Linda Barton and Mary Wells.

J.B. Edwards took his mother Edith Edwards to services at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek Sunday.

Norma Barr came by for Mary Koehler and they attended services at the Grace Lutheran Church and enjoyed dining at the OST.

Hoyt Hamrick visited friends and took Jack Holway to services at the Church of Christ. Martin Smith took Jack to the evening service.

D.J. Jordan visited Dock Jordan.

Visitors of June Mathis Sunday were her husband, Luther, and their younger son, Artie, and Artie's grandson Johnny.

Leta took everyone out for lunch, after which they went down to the ranch property near Pipe Creek. June enjoyed seeing the new EMS building on the Sam Armstrong property which is almost completed.

They also went to the neighboring River Oaks Ranch to view the remains of the Old Hubert Rohrbach home which burned several weeks back. It was this old home that they lived in for nine months when they moved from Corpus Christi in 1945 while they were having their new home built. It brought back memories of years in their past.

Helping Hand center plans thrift sale

Thrift Sale and Helping Hand Day at Boyle's Market come during the same weekend this month, and center director Mildred Treaster says she hopes there will be a good turnout for both events.

Saturday, Dec. 12, Helping Hand will have their monthly thrift sale from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Cypress St. across from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church. There are always lots of bargains, says Treaster.

Sunday, Dec. 13 is Helping Hand Day at Boyle's Market. One Sunday a month, local merchant Johnny Boyle donates one percent of his receipts to Helping Hand. Sunday, Nov. 8, Boyle's collected $18.73 for Helping Hand. Treaster urges shoppers to shop Sunday, and make their dollar count for Helping Hand.

Sage in bloom

By Vi Strand

Evelyn Reiningger molded children

Quiet and serene Evelyn Reiningger visits the Silver Sage Corral to be with friends.

My little granddaughter is the fifth generation to live on the ranch," she says proudly. "My son lives in the old homestead now."

She remembers a happy childhood, swimming and playing in the Bandera Creek near her home. "I was an only child, but we lived near the Goodenough family and they had nine children. We played together and even had Christmas together."

She liked riding horseback and rode a horse to school. "I graduated from SWSU (Southwest Texas State University) and taught in a country school in Millesant a year before I married."

"I had five or six pupils. I boarded on a farm and walked to school. It was an eight month school and I earned $100 a month," she said.

She married Alton Reiningger in 1941 and traveled with him while he was stateide. When he was shipped with the 36th Division to the European theatre, she returned to Bandera to teach.

After the war, in 1945, Alton built a house for them on her grandfather's ranch. Alton was employed with the Bandera Electric Coop for 28 years and Evelyn totaled 30 years in the Bandera School system.

They enjoyed traveling, hunting and fishing together and raised Charolais cattle.

In 1986 Alton passed away. Evelyn lives in the home he built and is close to her beloved granddaughter. She claims her number 1 hobby is her granddaughter, but she also likes crocheting, quilting and reading.

A member of the Bandera United Methodist Church, she was a choir member. She is a member of the DAR, Colonial Dames, Magna Carta and the Bluebonnet Homemakers Club.

Newly widowed, she is adjusting by meeting each day expectantly and finds the Silver Sage Corral a great help.

"The center is great for those who are at odds and ends. We can come and enter into whatever is happening."

Reflecting on her past, she said, "I must have touched a thousand children during my teaching career. I hope I was able to touch them in some way. Now I live each day as it comes and live it to the very best."

Utopia author to sign her books at museum

The Frontier Times Museum in Bandera will sponsor an autograph party for Annalee Burns of Utopia and her daughter, Anne Woodley, of Sabinal, featuring copies of their book, "Christmas Gifts 1987." The party will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The booklet, the first joint writing effort of the two, is composed of Christmas recollections by the family, holiday recipes, and instructions for making Christmas wreaths and decorations. Burns, author of four other books, formerly wrote the Utopia news column for the Uvalde Leader-News. She currently writes a column, "Diary of a Hill Country Housewife," as a weekly sec-

Community Bazaar called 'best yet' by Norma Barr

The third annual Community Bazaar sponsored by the women of Grace Lutheran Church, St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, and the Silver Sage Corral was the best yet, spokeswoman Norma Barr said. The support from the people of Bandera County and environs was wonderful, Barr said. "Among the many unusual arts and crafts items were hand and heart created pillows, quilts, household items, giant clothespin reindeer, ceramics, clothing, tree ornaments, jewelry, and an array of taste tempting and aromatic baked goods," she said. A new feature this year was a four star festive tea room decorated in Christmas colors emphasizing poinsettias from Books in Bloom. On the menu were mixed fruit appetizers, homemade chicken and noodle or vegetable soups served with sausage balls and cheese wafers, tuna and potato salads, ham rolls, miniature biscuits and rolls served in little baskets, and deviled eggs. "A fantastic dessert tray was passed which created a problem for high level decision. It contained pecan tassies, tarts of lemon, coconut, blueberry, and cherry, and chocolate chip brownies," Barr said. To be commended were the corps of young waitresses and water including Lisa Schantz, Tara Halson, Diane Mueller, Dawn Macon, Natalie Koehler, Cindy Valder, Kirsten Robinson, Tracy Felton, Danielle Cloud, April Koehler, and Tim Henry. "They gave exceptional, cheerful, courteous, and professional service,"

PTO to meet

Bandera PTO will hold its general meeting Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Aike Elementary Auditorium. "Christmas Around the World" will be presented by Mrs. White and the second grade classes. Mrs. Driskill's fourth grade class will present a Christmas Play. To coincide with Aike Elementary's campaign on Reading Development, Bandera PTO will award achievement certificates to those students who have read 100 books.

Walters, Oldham

Elizabeth Kay Walters and Michael Gene Oldham were united in marriage at Grace Lutheran Church in Bandera, on Nov. 28, with the Rev. Sheldon Hermanson of San Antonio officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom F. Walters of Sunray. The groom is the son of Siegfried Oldham of Cold Spring, Ky., and Joe Thomas Oldham of Falmouth, Ky.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Tom Walters. The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Teri Rae Walters. Bridesmaids were Kim Compton of Seattle, Wash., and Carroll Ann Walters, cousin of the bride, of Beaumont.

The best man was Christopher Kossack of San Antonio. The groomsmen were John Lindner of Long Island, N.Y., and Mark Calvert, cousin of the bride, of McAllen. Usher was Stephen Calvert, cousin of the bride, of San Antonio.

Music was provided by Jodi Helen on both the organ and piano. Jerry Neuschwander provided the vocal selections, "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's gown was of ivory silk tulle with a long train and a full skirt. The train was edged with lace and the skirt was edged with a wide band of ivory lace. The bride carried a traditional cascade of jasper orchids surrounded by stephanotis and English ivy.

The bride's attendants wore tea-length dresses of dusty rose satin overlaid with lace. The dresses had a dropped waist marked with a satin sash and bow. They carried a nosegay of rose carnations.

white fuzzi chrysanthemums with English ivy.

For the wedding the groom was dressed in a gray morning suit with a stephanotis boutonniere. The groomsmen also were outfitted in morning suits with mauve carnation boutonnieres.

A reception at Grace Hall immediately following the wedding. Members of the house party were Kristen Calvert of San Antonio, Kelly Ellis of Bandera, and Mary F. Evans of Bandera. Lynnette Morrow of Bandera regaled the guests.

Elizabeth and Michael are currently serving in the Electronic Security Command of the United States Air Force stationed at Kelly Air Force Base. The couple will reside in Bandera until leaving for assignment in Japan.

Don Grosshauser of San Antonio served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Ann Pavlik, of Houston, Joan Wilhite of Austin, Kim de la Houssage, sister of the bride, of Dickinson, Lorri Robbins, sister of the groom, of Bandera, and Leslie Pollett, sister of the groom, of Sweeny. Carrie Robbins, sister of the groom, of Bandera, was flower girl. They all wore gowns of sweetheart pink tulle taffeta, and the bridesmaids carried bouquets and the flower girl carried a white wicker basket, all with mauve roses, pink and white pixie carnations, baby's breath and Boston fern, with pink satin streamers.

Russell Hevenor of Bandera served as best man, and groomsmen were Roger Shultz, Mike Jurecki, and Paul Olsen, all of Bandera. Jim Bob Robbins, brother of the groom, of Dallas, and Frank Burger of Houston. Ushers were Robert Magarek, Todd Sandidge, Lionel Lopez, Clay Morrow, all of Bandera.

De la Houssage, Robbins wed

Kim de la Houssage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. de la Houssage III of Dickinson, and Chris Teley Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Teley Robbins of Bandera, were married in a candlelight service July 25 by Monsignor Eugene Cargill in the Shrine of the True Cross Catholic Church in Dickinson.

The bride wore a white satin gown with pearl drop accents, and a princess-line bodice adorned with diagonal rows of seed pearls. The key-hole back bodice and sleeves were draped with strands of pearls, and the lace-edged, cathedral-length train caught at the waistline had lace and pearl insets. The heart-shaped headpiece framed her face with strands of pearls, and the veil descended from a bouffant net pouf.

The bride carried a bouquet of bridal pink roses, pink and white pixie carnations and baby's breath accented with English ivy and white satin streamers.

brothers of the bride, of Dickinson. Tommy Robinson, Godson of the bride, of Lafayette, was ring bearer. The groom wore a pearl grey tuxedo with matching grey cummerbund and bowtie. Male attendants wore pearl grey tuxedos with tails, and pink cummerbunds and bowties. They all wore pink rose boutonnieres.

The mothers of the bride and groom wore blue, and each wore a corsage of bridal pink roses, white pixie carnations and baby's breath.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall, which was decorated with hanging baskets and plants. Connie Hebert presided at the bridal book.

The bride's cake was three-tiered, decorated with miniature cupid and pink flowers, topped with a traditional bride and groom under an arch. The groom's red velvet cake was in the shape of Texas, with cities of interest in the couple's courtship inscribed on the cake. Serving at the bride's and groom's tables were Jan Stutts, Donna Dawickie, Judy Wyatt, Charlene Cammack and DeeAnn Kling.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Cancun, Mexico, and currently reside in Cleburne, where Chris is assistant high school coach.

Santa's annual delivery was the theme of the Christmas celebration at Koehler Park. The Shoppers' Jubilee decoration judge's first prize for small businesses.

Local buildings weren't the only thing decorated for Christmas.

The Coover's newly restored old First State Bank Building was judged worthy of third place in the small business category.

A large crowd joined in singing seasonal songs along with Craig Hunt and the Bandera High School band.

Some businesses reported brisk sales but others closed up early due to a lack of customers.

Try An Experiment

Turn out the lights some night. Touch a match to a single candle, and watch the miracle that happens.

The flame wavers and then steadies. The whole room is bathed in a soft glow, showing new shadows and depths, new softness and warmth. It seems like you are living in another place, in another age.

Switch the lights on again and they seem dazzling, harsh, until your eyes get used to them.

Two entirely different atmospheres have been created in the same room. The candlelight has wrought a kind of magic, yet the message is real, sometimes even harsh. The teachings are as old as time, yet as new as tomorrow.

Go find out for yourself.

Wendy Lindley, BHS senior, is $250 richer in her preparation for college due to her talent and hard work in the annual Voice of Democracy speech contest.

The contest, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary, is centered around a speech concerning liberty. This year's topic is "Liberty: Our Heritage and Our Future." There are several criteria for the contest. The contest is open to high school sophomores, juniors and seniors. The speech must be recorded on a cassette tape, and be 10 minutes in length.

KERV radio station in Kerrville provided the equipment and assistance for Wendy's speech to be recorded. From there, Brenda Caldwell, Director of Night Students at Schreiner College, took the speech to the district competition.

Wendy was awarded $250 and advanced to district competition, where she placed third, winning $100. The first place winner advanced to state competition.

Wendy plans to attend the University of Texas in Austin or UTSA, and she wants to be a Speech Drama English teacher. She feels that this competition has sharpened her skills as a public speaker. She is also involved in several UIL literary speaking events, and has advanced to regional competition every year she has participated.

Nine Bulldogs football players were selected for the District 27 AAA All-district football team for 1987. They were chosen by all the coaches in the district.

Nival Graves, BHS senior, received honors in both offense and defense, making first team all-district offensive and first team all-district defensive line. Graves has played football for four years in high school.

Ronnie Bain, also a senior, made second team all-district secondary on defense, and second team all-district offensive back field. He has played high school football four years and is a member of Student Council, where he holds the office of sergeant at arms. During his sophomore and junior years he was voted Class Favorite, and during his junior year he was a homecoming candidate. This year he was named Mr. BHS at the Homecoming and is vice president of the senior class.

Emilio Rodriguez, BHS senior, made second team defensive end. He was a homecoming candidate in high school and senior years, and has played football all four years of high school.

Eric Koog, senior, was named honorable mention all-district defensive backfield, and has participated in football since his freshman year. In 1985, he was second at district in track long jump.

Senior Chris York was named honorable mention all-district.

New bylaws were approved at the ALS meeting held Nov. 23. President Noel Graves handed out copies of the bylaws to each member to read over and make suggestions. The bylaws were passed by the majority and are now in effect.

Speaker Terry Workman gave a detailed speech on Paralegals and explained the required years of schooling, the salary, and the work involved.

She emphasized that paralegals must be able to get along with people, since the majority of their work is on a one-to-one basis with others.

Commentary

Each year as December rolls around, the thought on everyone's mind is Christmas.

Department stores begin reminding us as if we would forget that Christmas is near. They hold pre-Christmas sales and fill the stores with colorful Christmas decorations. If you went to a mall on Nov. 27 (the day after Thanksgiving), you would have seen what is called the biggest Christmas shopping day of the year. Wall to wall people try to find and buy that special something for everyone on their Christmas list.

Homes are also decorated, as people buy trees and adorn them with ornaments, garland, and bright lights. Cooking, cakes and pies are made and children make their final Christmas lists. Their first ones were probably around September.

All this is generally the first idea most people get when Christmas is mentioned, but where did Christmas originate?

Christmas has traveled down through two thousand years, as the holiday celebrating the birth of Christ. The name derives from the Old English "Christes Masses" of "Christ's Mass." The present spelling probably came into use around the 16th century.

Christmas was not always regarded as a day of joy and happiness, however. Many early Christians considered the birth of Christ a solemn occasion, and not until 1860 did Christmas become a legal holiday.

Many people view Christ's birth as the bringing of a new spirit of joy into the world. Customs of the celebrations around the world have been added together to make Christmas the most celebrated holiday in the world.

Cards of Thanks Public Notices

THANK YOU
Treatment for an illness gives relief for the affliction, but the thoughtfulness of kind friends is a attention that uplifts the spirit, cheers the soul, and gives positive evidence of good wishes. Many many thanks to each and every person for the phone calls, cards and flowers that brightened my days in the V.A.

Don't pollute.

Buckle Up
A reminder from this newspaper and the Troopers of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

There was a time when people only shot pictures.
Over the past three decades, use of our nation's forests has suffered dramatically.
But now has vanished.
Some forested areas. Trees have been cut down. Public facilities destroyed.
What will take to turn the face against vandals?
Simple determination.
A commitment to ourselves
And to our young people to help them appreciate the forest for what it really is. A precious and unparalleled gift.
Vandals. It's time to draw the line.

Sabinal Canyon

By Lillie Thompson — 986-3493

Lillian and Mary Howard enjoyed the company of 30 family members for Thanksgiving dinner, including the Howard's three children and their families, Tommie and Barbara of Sabinal, Dahl and Gale of Kerrville and Joana and J.B.

Others included Ernie Haby, Ernie Jr. and his wife and baby daughter, Grace Ann and husband David.

• David and Iris Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Fields and Lillie and husband, Dan, all of Houston, are spending a week at the Lillie Thompson home.

• Monday, Dec. 14, is the day set aside to pack Christmas baskets for senior citizens and the sick. Participants are urged to bring cookies, cup cakes, fruit or candy to pack in mixed boxes.

• Morgan Chastine of Vanderpool spent Thanksgiving with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Porter of Boerne. They were joined by Morgan's granddaughter and her family, Judy and Richard Smith and two children, Stacy and Stanton, of San Antonio.

• Many friends from Utopia and Vanderpool attended funeral services for Rex Kelly at Sabinal Cemetery.

• Marjorie Griffin returned from Pryor Okla., Friday after spending 15 days with her mother, Mrs. J. L. Griffin, who is recovering from a recent surgery.

• She stated "Home never looked so good" and reports her husband Bill fully agreed.

• A large crowd enjoyed a catered steak supper provided by Tracy Redden on Saturday night, Dec. 5, at Baptist fellowship.

• Prizes sponsored by the men's Sunday School Class Hall, were awarded to many lucky winners, games played and everyone reported a great time.

• Seniors to meet
Sabinal Canyon Senior Council will meet Dec. 16 at 10:00 a.m. at the Community Building, with Janice Tubbs serving as hostess. The AARP sponsored a driving school Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. The senior council's float won a blue ribbon for its third consecutive year in the Halloween Parade. It was announced at their Nov. 20 meeting, and the council also sponsored a Heart Alert Clinic Nov. 19.

• Certificates recognizing their contributions were presented to former teachers who live in the area by Ruth Stewart at the November meeting.

• Guest speaker was school superintendent John R. McFadin, who discussed the impact of House Bill 72, and outlined the changes brought about by the bill. Thanksgiving lunch was then served to some 60 members and guests.

Sabinal EMS may disband for lack of volunteers

Sabinal Emergency Medical Service may shut down operations at the end of December unless additional daytime volunteers can be trained, says the Uvalde Leader.

The 12-year-old department is in desperate need of people who can work the daytime shift, a spokesperson said. The department has only three persons who are available during the daytime.

There are approximately 18 members of the Sabinal EMS. According to the newspaper, the last three times a class for new trainees was scheduled no new volunteers were gained.

Junior high cagers win pair of opening games

Basketball season began for the Jr. High boys, with victories for both eighth and seventh grade Bulldogs.

Eighth grade Bulldogs, coached by Coach Roy Grant, have a 1-2 record. Eighth grade Bulldogs scored 14 points at the last game against Pleasanton, Nov. 30. Coach Grant says his team plays best defensively.

Seventh grade Bulldogs, coached by Coach Jay Newberry, also have a 1-2 record. Seventh grade Bulldogs scored 10 points at the Pleasanton game. According to Coach Newberry, the seventh grade team plays best offensively, and he is confident of his players this season, saying, "We have good team effort."

Medina

By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

Members of the Medina Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star plan to go Christmas caroling on Friday, Dec. 18.

Interested members are asked to meet at the Lodge Hall at 6 p.m. They will carol at several homes in Medina and then meet at the home of Elsie Krusch for refreshments.

Medina Baptist Church will have their Christmas program Sunday night, Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. The adult choir and the youth will present a program of music and narration commemorating the birth of Jesus. All are invited to come and celebrate the glorious event of Christmas.

Yvonne Batist, a sophomore at Medina High School, has been selected to represent the school at the annual High O'Bray Young Symposium at Lakeland Air Force Base.

The Hugh O'Brian Foundation has conducted state and international seminars for high school sophomores at no cost to the school or student since 1968. This seminar brings together sophomores with demonstrated leadership qualities and a group of distinguished leaders in business, education, government and the professions.

A celebration of joy

The Medina Youth Choir, now called "The Servants," will perform "A Celebration of Joy" on Dec. 20 and 21 at 7 p.m. in the Medina School Auditorium.

The stage is designed in the shape of a Christmas Tree. The musical show is an approximation of one hour.

— Robert Keeling

Christmas concert

The Medina Christmas Concert Sunday, Dec. 6, was opened by fifth graders on a lively note with "Jingle Bells," then "Good King Wenceslas," "Jolly Old St. Nick," "Up On The Housetop" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

The sixth grade followed with "Deck the Halls," "On Come All Ye Faithful," then "Jingle Jolly Christmas," "Silent Night," "Good King Wenceslas," and closed with "Away in a Manger."

The high school bandmen played "Christmas Bell Carol," "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree," "White Christmas," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

The concert ended on a mellow note when the band played a page full of songs which got everyone in the mood for Christmas.

— Amy Martin

Theater Arts class of Medina, taught by Mrs. Long, will present a Christmas play, "The Santa Claus Express," on Thursday, Dec. 17, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria. The elementary age children will present a Christmas program on the same night. Their directors, Mrs. Cordova and Mrs. Long, invite everyone to attend.

Guests

Thanksgiving guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Flowers were Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Harwood of Lawton, Okla., Paul Flowers, Thelma Fouts, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stewart, Chip, Bobby, and Anna Mae Stewart, all of San Antonio.

Mayfield moves

Thanksgiving is currently residing at the Leslie Place Nursing Home on Leslie Drive in Kerrville, and says she would enjoy visits from friends.

Bazaar re-scheduled

The annual Christmas bazaar of the Medina United Methodist Women was postponed until this Saturday, Dec. 12, at 9 a.m. in the Medina Garden Club Center.

Child custody rows feared

Row over child custody in a case involving divorce cases, and one case resulted in the arrest of a parent, "Deputy James MacMillan reported."

"We can only attribute this to the approaching holiday season and the fact that both parents in these cases want the child or children with them at Christmas time."

In one case a parent went so far as to find her child changing classes at the Bandera Junior High School and she talked the child into leaving the school grounds with her, MacMillan said.

Assembly of God to celebrate

The choir of Faith Assembly of God in San Antonio will present the Christmas cantata "Noel" at the Community Assembly of God at 1209 Cottonwood St. in Bandera at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 16.

The performance in Bandera is one of a series the choir was making during the Christmas season in San Antonio and the surrounding area.

An assembly spokesman said the entire community is invited to the presentation "to share the true meaning of Christmas."

Latham, Quintanilla named top trainer, jockey at track

David Latham of Boerne, whose horses won 41 times this year at Bandera Downs, was officially cited as trainer of the year at the track Sunday and Joe Quintanilla, who rode 36 winners during the year, was named leading jockey.

Quintanilla's margin of victory over Tim Wortman was slim, but Latham was going away, earning 315 points to Paul Lieb's 170. Points are awarded on the basis of five for a win, three for placing and two for showing.

Wortman actually piloted more winners at Bandera Downs than Quintanilla, but the winner had more second-place and a whole lot more third-place finishes than Wortman.

Quintanilla won back-to-back outings Sunday, the last racing at Bandera Downs for 1987, when he guided Flam's Slipper to victory over 400 yards in the fourth race and Rosie Koon to a win, also over 400 yards, in the fifth.

Wortman came back to win one of the day's feature events, the Gobbler Sprint, taking the $2,740 purse aboard Tabasco Piney Jet, a Latham-trained gelding.

Upset winner of the big feature Monday was Scott's Loom, whose qualifying time was dead last among the 10 finalists in the race. Scott's Loom nipped the fastest qualifier, La Generala, at the wire to win the 400-yard test in 20.01 seconds, a razor-thin one-hundredth of a second in front of La Generala.

Doctor Shake turned in a 106 speed index of 15.36 seconds over 300 yards to win the second feature Sunday, the Rahbar Jones Maternity.

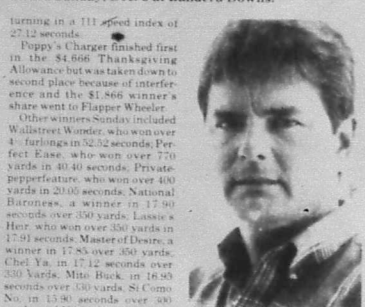

The 5-year-old stallion out-paced Ridgeview's Deight, whose second-place time was a 104 speed index at 15.42 seconds. Third place was taken by Marc Us A Winner, with Steve Fuller in the irons.

Doctor Shake's part of the purse was $3,226.

Other winners Sunday included Scott Charlie, who won $1,674 and the 550 Championship by Joe Quintanilla won two races and the top jockey award Sunday, Dec. 6 at Bandera Downs.

31-days of non-betting races planned at BD

Bandera Downs this week announced 31 days of non-betting races during 1988, including racing on at least two days of every month of the year.

Track coowner and operator Stan Scruby says he will ask the Texas Racing Commission for 132 days of pari-mutuel racing, which he hopes will begin as early as July. The racing commission hasn't even been appointed yet, however.

The races announced this week

Medina girls second

The Medina girls took second place in the Harper basketball tournament, Dec. 4-5, beating Honda's JV, 48-26 in the pre-finals and falling to Fredericksburg's JV, 40-16, in the finals.

The Bobcats were unable to pull a win out of two close games and went down in succession to Keystone 67-62 and Fredericksburg's JV, 66-62.

In spite of the losses, the Medina girls did gain a few honors for the weekend. Allen Simons was high point-in both games with 24 and 19 and he also received the all-tournament trophy.

Medina's Amy Powers was high point against Honda with 17 and both Debbie Reyes and Lovey Ortiz received All-Tournament awards.

The Bobcats will try their skill in another tourney at Ingram Dec. 15 and then visit D'Hanis on Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Lady Bulldogs down Medina

Lady Bulldogs pulled off a big win over Medina Tuesday, Nov. 24 with a final score of 41-15. All the Lady Bulldogs played a good defense, and Christi Schindler was outstanding on the defensive boards.

Outstanding on offense was Laz Fernandez with 8 for 7 from the field, and Kriska Kilina with 4 for 5 from the free throw line.

Medina had six outbursts at every position but our tough defense kept the pressure on and they couldn't score, and Coach Young, Bandera played man-to-man for 4 quarters with only 7 team fouls resulting — that is a key focus because we are short in

Friday, Nov. 20, Varsity Lady Bulldogs lost to Ingram, with a final score of 45-23. Ingram's full-court pressure and strong inside game kept the Bulldogs off their own game all night. Explained Coach Young.

Ernie Kilina scored 18 of the 24 points scored by the Lady Bulldogs. The high light of the game was a fast break by Ernie Kilina that tied the game, but as the buzzer sounded at the ball.

December 10 is the Lady Bulldogs will travel to Honda for a Girls Basketball Invitational Tournament.

Subdivision hunters targeted

Commissioners may prohibit shooting amid homes

County commissioners may prohibit hunting on subdivision lots of less than 10 acres, but they stopped short of ordering such a prohibition Monday while they seek the views of residents.

County Judge E. F. Mauer said he knows of a subdivision that has a hole in the middle of it. The hole is the site of a subdivision lot of less than 10 acres that is not in a subdivision.

A draft order drawn by county attorney Sam Darden would have prohibited discharging any firearms in subdivisions, but commissioners may want to qualify the prohibition.

"We need to know what our options are," said Alanis. "Can we say no shooting with certain exceptions?" he asked.

If someone was shooting toward my house, I'd be scared and mad," said commissioner Pete Reed. "I'm one who really believes in hunting, but there's a time and place for everything."

Commissioner Jimmy Russell said he wouldn't favor such a prohibition, however. "I sure don't want to tell someone he can't use a firearm on his own property," the long time Bandera commissioner said. "In fact, I'm not going to do it."

Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan told commissioners the sheriff's department would welcome such a prohibition. "We get calls from Medina River Ranch, for example, all the time," the deputy said, but he said law enforcement personnel are powerless to prevent such shooting.

Most of the subdivisions have

Creche:

(Kresch, 'Krash' noun (old French creche of manger, crib): a representation of the Nativity scene. Used to describe figures depicting the Baby Jesus, Mary and Joseph, and other traditional Nativity elements.

Nativity scenes from around the world, and a few made locally were exhibited at Grace Lutheran Church last week.

Each nativity scene had common elements, including a depiction of the baby Jesus, and Mary and Joseph. But each set had differences, many representing the different cultures of peoples and nations.

Most of the collection, belonging to the Rev. Sheldon Hermanson, but Erna Koenig, Earline Lindig, Diane Tobin and Kathy Hunt also brought pieces to add to the display.

The oldest piece, belonging to Rev. Hermanson, came from the Black Forest region of Germany. He acquired the set around 1882.

"My favorite is the one done in El Greco style, from Spain," he said.

There were scenes from Poland, Germany, Spain, Italy, Israel and the Philippines. The Rev. Hermanson traveled with the Air Force from 1964-66, and collected some pieces then.

There was also a miniature nativity done by Indians of New Mexico. Another German representation of the birth of Christ was patterned in a circle, with candles around the edges causing the scene to turn like a merry-go-round.

A highlight of the display was a table with a cardboard do-it-yourself nativity kit assembled. Under the table, were more kits for kids, for the asking.

"I think children will remember more if they can put the nativity together, put their hands on it and create a scene themselves," the Rev. Hermanson explained.

The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson shows his favorite among the collection, an El Greco style nativity scene. The piece inset is the oldest in his collection. It comes from Germany.

City taking wait-and-see fund attitude

By Nick Johnson

Bandera city council eliminated a few expenses Monday but decided to wait before laying off any employees in the hope that collections of lagging property taxes will make such a step unnecessary.

An explosive resignation by the city's building inspector punctuated Monday's meeting which covered a lengthy agenda with few other fireworks.

Building inspector Jerry Gray slammed a stack of code books and other documents on the council table in front of councilman Carl Adamietz after the councilman mentioned four separate official complaints that have been lodged against Gray.

Contractor Al Maldonado, who admitted he was working without a city permit, accused Gray of "curbing" his employees during an incident on Nov. 6, a charge Gray denied.

This is the fourth complaint this year against Gray, Adamietz pointed out. "I think that's enough. We have to do something about Mr. Gray. He either needs to be curtailed or relieved," Adamietz said.

At that point Gray gathered up a stack of rule books. "When I make inspections I use all these codes and rule books, and from now on I am going to do them," he told Adamietz, and he marched out of the room.

As he was leaving, council member Chuck Haver asked Gray to turn in his resignation. "The mayor has it," he said as he exited the building.

Mayor Raymond Adamietz acknowledged that he did indeed have Gray's letter of resignation, but had not revealed its existence earlier because "I talked him Gray into withdrawing it."

Gray's resignation became one cost-cutting measure the council members hadn't counted on, but later in the evening they directed public works director Melvin King to perform those inspections he is qualified to do and to try to locate others to perform some.

The council also instituted a few other measures to save money, but acknowledged that funds on hand were insufficient to pay current bills.

In action to deal with the fiscal crisis, the council increased the minimum charge for out-of-city water service from $6.50 per month to $10.50 per month, cut janitorial services from twice a week to once a week, and agreed to work with city attorney Terry Mason to reduce their reliance on his legal services.

Water department executive Margaret Callahan estimated the increased minimum charge for out-of-city water service will raise $400 a month for the city. The cut in janitorial services could save as much as $160 per month, and council members said they hope to reduce the amount they pay Mason in the coming year by $2,500.

The council immediately slashed the amount of help they hope to get from the increased minimum charge by stipulating that 50 percent of funds raised from this source be earmarked to pay off outstanding general fund indebtedness that resulted from earlier fund transfers from the water department.

The members stopped short of any far-reaching belt-tightening. Though they appeared to favor laying off one employee to cutting the hours of all workers, they took no action on that matter, preferring instead to wait and see if the level of property taxes will increase.

They also stopped short of a general water rate increase, preferring instead to study that issue further before acting. Callahan told council members that the city's current charge of 75 cents per 1,000 gallons was significantly lower than other cities in the area.

Both the water rate hike and laying off employees are still alive, but the council will watch closely the level of tax collections to determine whether to enact either.

City secretary Ella Mae Sandage reported receipts during November of $31,559 and expenditures of $26,789 and a Dec. 1 bank balance of $7,124.

Sales and property tax receipts received so far this month are insufficient to pay expected expenses, however.

In other action Monday, the council appointed Sally Rodriguez and Frankie Eckhart Camp to the Planning and Zoning Commission; voted for all the nominees to the Bandera County Appraisal Board, including their own nominee, banker Fabian Mazurek. OKed the purchase of grass seed to plant at the now-defunct landfill south of Bandera; decided to have a fence made necessary by a court agreement built by the city crew when no one bid on constructing it; voted to reimburse the First Baptist

Sales tax collections here up slightly over last November

Sales tax collections in the city of Bandera during the month of November were slightly ahead of collections a year ago, but collections for the year are still lagging behind those by 6.13 percent.

The city of Bandera received a check for $7,783.92 this month, a mere $656.91 more than was received a year ago.

For the year, Bandera has received $127,319 as its share of the sales tax collected by the city's merchants. That is 6.13 percent of the $2,076,440 collected during the first 11 months of 1986.

That shortfall, coupled with lagging property tax collections and a slightly lower tax rate, have caused a severe cash flow problem for city officials.

Still, Bandera's collections during the first 11 months of the year have been about average for area cities.

For the year, collections in Johnson City are down 6.34 percent, Ingram down 7.8 percent, Rocksprings down 8.6 percent, Devine down 12.4 percent and Natalia down 14.7 percent. Collections in Blanco are down 5.8 percent, Kerrville down 5.6 percent, New Braunfels down 5.5 percent, Fredericksburg down 3.2 percent, Helotes down 1.8 percent, and Hondo down 1.7 percent.

Collections in Leakey, however, are up by 0.3 percent compared to last year. Uvalde up 1.3 percent, Boerne up 7.4 percent, Castroville up 7.5 percent, and Leon Valley up fully 29.4 percent.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

Is there such a thing as organized crime? The experts who have investigated and studied crime say that whenever the government outlaws something the public wants to buy, someone will go into business to provide the illegal product or service.

For the businessman who sells the illegal product, the downside is the risk of arrest and punishment; the upside, the profit from selling a much-desired but hard-to-get item.

There is another risk. Since the transaction is illegal, there are no contracts and courts to prevent cheating on a deal. "No honor among thieves."

The way to avoid those risks is to join an organization. In exchange for a piece of the action, the organization bribes cops and judges, hires lawyers, hunts down cheaters, and keeps competition from getting out of hand.

That all sounds good in theory, but does it really happen, and is there one big organization?

Some historians say yes. Between 1900 and 1920, the Progressives reformed America because they thought liquor, gambling, vice, violent crime, official corruption and poverty were all connected to one another. They were not entirely wrong, but they were mostly wrong.

Starting in 1895, the lotteries and casinos were shut down. In 1904, Western Union stopped wiring race results to the pool rooms. The peak year of Progressive reform was 1919. The 18th Amendment prohibited making, selling or distributing liquor.

None of it worked for very long. Racing still flourished in Kentucky, where Col. Winn had saved betting by pulling some 25-year-old pari-mutuel machines out of a store room.

Americans could also follow the tracks in Canada. A Parisian, Pierre Oller, had invented the pari-mutuel machine in 1865. The story is that he got the idea after a long stretch of losing to the bookies. His basic idea — bettors betting against one another — was called "auction pool," "French pools," or the "totalisator," the "tote."

Legal gambling, however, has never pushed illegal gambling out of business, and may even encourage it. Businessmen-criminals like Monty Tennes got control of the wire service that transmitted horse race results across the country, from Chicago to San Antonio, for example.

Even illegal gambling was a sideshow compared to bootlegging. Prohibition did more than turn millions of honest Americans into criminals. It was government's biggest favor ever for criminals, because it did three things for them.

Prohibition brought many more organized groups of criminals into business. It led them out of their neighborhoods and into national relationships with one another. It made them legitimate and even admired businessmen in the eyes of many citizens.

But did it turn them into that legendary power called the mob, the boys, the syndicate Mafia, La Cosa Nostra?

We hear both good and bad about our local medical people. So, it is a great comfort to know that our families have such good care available.

Hats off, judge
Dear editor:
Your article on the city of Bandera's financial condition of Dec. 10 was very interesting, especially the attitude of Judge Schneider, city judge.

If the justices of the peace of Bandera County would adopt Judge Schneider's attitude, they also could cut down on crime and arrests and enforce the law. Money collection seems to be their primary concern. This would create a more peaceful county. After all isn't this their job: Justice of Peace?

Hats off to Judge Schneider.

Justice criticizes telecast that rapped court's ruling

Two days after television's "Sixty Minutes" criticized the Texas Supreme Court as justice for sale, one high court judge charged that the broadcast was tainted.

He also blasted Gov. Bill Clements for publicly criticizing the court's decision not to review the controversial Pennzoil-Texaco megabucks lawsuit.

Justice William W. Kilgartin told Capital reporters the CBS network had motives for slanting the program which focused on campaign contributions to Supreme Court justices from lawyers representing both Pennzoil and Texaco.

The Texas Supreme Court last month refused to review the lower court verdict which found for Pennzoil, and "Sixty Minutes" reporter Mike Wallace said Pennzoil's lawyers gave more campaign dollars to judges than did Texaco's lawyers.

Kilgartin told reporters that Wallace never asked him for an interview.

CBS-Texaco link
He also said the network singled out Texas because CBS chairman and CEO, Lawrence Tisch, testified for Texaco and faced a grueling cross-examination by Pennzoil's counsel, Houston attorney Joe Jamail.

Kilgartin said Texaco's lead attorney in the case, David Bones, had previously represented "Sixty Minutes" producer George Crile, when CBS was sued for libel by Gen. William Westmoreland. Crile was the producer of the network's segment which reported on Vietnam casualty numbers.

High court fights back
As for Clements, Kilgartin said the governor should not denigrate a decision by saying it was bad for Texas business, but should focus on the law and the facts.

Kilgartin's remarks are the first full-scale defensive against growing criticism of the sitting justices, all Democrats.

Clements and Texas Republicans have let it be known they intend to go after the judges at the voting booth with a full slate of replacement hopefuls.

GOP gains in Texas
Capital Republicans took heart last week when the results of a poll taken before two significant events showed an increasing number of Texans are planning to vote in the Republican primary.

The poll, which the Texas Democratic Party criticized as "horribly skewed," indicates 58 percent of respondents favor Vice President George Bush and that as many will vote in the Republican primary as in the Democratic primary.

The sample was taken in mid-November, before the U.S. Soviet summit and the nationally televised presidential debate.

Texas Republicans had worried about a drop in GOP popularity following the "Pony gate" scandal and the Iran-Contra affair.

State Capitol Highlights

Bandera County potpourri

By Nick Johnson

The Tourism Division of the Texas Department of Commerce, new Texas Tourist Development Agency, says many consumers will certainly re-think spending plans for travel and other major expenditures in the wake of the recent stock collapse.

That's bad news, of course, for Bandera County's tourism-based economy. The tourist agency's conclusion are based on a survey by the Los Angeles Times that reported that nearly one-third of all Americans have been impelled by the recent market collapse to cancel or cut spending on such things as vacations.

"Thus, we must work harder at our job of marketing Texas as a travel destination," says Larry Todd, who's now called the deputy director of tourism for the Texas Department of Commerce.

The same is true of our work here in Bandera County, of course. We must work even harder at our job of marketing Bandera as a destination.

Of course, help is on the way. Construction at Sea World of Texas, for example, is ahead of schedule so the park has moved its opening date up to April 15, almost six weeks ahead of its planned May 28 opening. Tickets are already on sale, including one-year passes.

And Bandera Downs officials still have their fingers crossed that pari-mutuel racing may come to town as early as June, or at least by July.

Computers are a lot like new babies when you first bring them home. Until you get them on program (schedule), they seem to keep you up until 2:30 in the morning. Then suddenly, as their systems get full, they burp, and bingo, all is calm.

They require a lot of attention, and they're very demanding when they know you want to get on with other things. Like babies, they can eat faster than you can shovel it in sometimes.

Another thing they have in common with babies is the messes they can make. Have you ever spent hours trying to straighten out a mess a toddler made with a stack of papers? Well, computers can make just as big a mess of a story as a baby can make with a month's book-keeping receipts if left unattended for an hour.

Of course, these things occur only when you're really rushed and don't have time to give them all the attention they're demanding.

The nasty notes the computer puts on the monitor screen is just as frustrating as a toddler that screams everytime you try to lay it down to go to sleep.

Like with a baby, all you can do is keep trying a different position or command until you find just the right spot or instruction to get them back on schedule.

Also like a new baby, if the computer is quiet too long, you feel you have to go touch them. Just to be sure they're all right. Then you're really sorry because you can't shut it off for hours.

Don't think a computer is just a new toy. It requires a lot of attention, patience, understanding, and guidance, just like a new baby.

But also like with a baby, you can't help but love it and soon you wonder what you ever did without it.

Pipe Creek candidate enters sheriff's race

Marc M. Sultan, a 41-year-old Navy veteran is married and he and his wife have three children.

He said his experience will enable him to deal with any law enforcement situation and direct operations in high pressure, fast-paced work environments.

"Of equal importance has been my ability to work and communicate well with people on all levels," he said. "Totally results oriented, I pride myself on integrity and on my ability to pay great attention to detail while at the same time being highly efficient."

He worked for the New York City Police Department from 1969 until 1983. "My documented success as a detective includes a letter of commendation from the regional director of the FBI, Federal Bureau of Investigation and various departmental awards and medals," he said.

He has been with the Bexar County DA's office since 1983 and two years ago was made a special deputy U.S. marshal and has assisted two separate fugitive investigative strike teams whose work he says resulted in the arrest of 1,727 persons.

Devine Republican joins race for state rep

Charles A. (Charlie) Britsch of Devine has announced his candidacy for state representative in District 45 in the March 8 Republican primary.

District 45 includes Atascosa, Bandera, Frio, Live Oak, Medina and Wilson counties. Democrat Eldon Edge of Frio is the incumbent and he has announced his intention to seek a new two-year term.

Britsch says he does not expect any other Republican to enter the race. Filing deadline is Jan. 3.

The Medina County native has been in the restaurant business since 1982. He has owned and operated three restaurant corporations since that time. Britsch has also been associated with the ranching and farming interests of the family, established in 1862.

He is married to Penny (Christen) Britsch and they have two children, Christina (Tina), 4, and Taylor, 2.

"I was born and raised in Hondo and am a fifth generation Texan," Britsch says. "My family helped found Medina County. As a young boy, I worked on the farm to support my family."

Britsch said, "and I'm still very close to agriculture. A graduate of Hondo High School and Texas Lutheran College, where he was captain of the football team and played on two national championship teams."

He and his wife both have teaching certificates and are a teacher.

"I have been in business eight years and am optimistic about opportunities in South Texas," he says.

Britsch says he wants to work at the state level to market Texas products and resources, both nationally and internationally, and to coordinate with local and state officials to create industry to District 45 to create more jobs.

Active in the campaigns for Congress of Jeff Wentworth and Van Archer, Britsch says he reflects their conservative views.

Pete Reed says he'll run for another court term

Incumbent county commissioner A.A. Pete Reed formally announced this week that he will seek a second term as commissioner in precinct 3. Reed defeated Bob Ashley of Medina in 1984.

Reed, a Democrat, will seek his party's nomination in the March 8 primary election. No other candidates have indicated intention to contest Reed either in the Democratic primary or in the general election in November.

"Since our one-unit centralized road system has been abolished and Buddy Hubble has retired, I will be a full-time commissioner as I have no other occupation or job to occupy my time," he said.

The commissioner once operated a floor-covering business in Bandera County but has retired. "I have been your commissioner for almost three years," he reminded the people of his precinct this week in a special statement. "I want to thank all of you for your friendship and for your kind patience with me."

He said that, if re-elected, he will keep on serving constituents to the best of his ability.

Boerne voters say no
Boerne school district voters defeated two propositions that would have provided $6.45 million for the construction of a new school and other improvements.

If approved the bonds would have increased the district's tax rate 10.7 percent, from $4.22 cents to $4.63 cents per $100 valuation.

According to superintendent Joe Doenges, the district has an enrollment of 2,580 students and has grown at the rate of five percent a year.

New voter group formed to monitor sheriff's race

"We're going to grow in Bandera County," says organizer Richard Osgood of the newly formed Bandera County Voter Awareness Group. "Rapid growth is neither always good nor always bad," he says.

The politics of pari-mutuel betting will be responsible for rapid growth, but it will be the politics of Bandera County that will decide the beneficial effects of this growth. Only through voter awareness and knowledge of political candidates will we have a county that runs the politics rather than have politics run the county," he said.

Osgood met Thursday evening with a group of interested citizens in Lakelands for a strategy planning session. The recent announcement of Sheriff Guy Pickett that he intends to retire when his current term in office is up has prompted the formation of this group," Osgood said.

"The sheriff's office can have an enormous impact on the direction of the entire county. For this reason we must elect the right man. In order to elect the right man we must know all the candidates and what they stand for," he said.

The Bandera County Voter Awareness Group is currently planning "Meet your Next Sheriff" get-togethers in all parts of the county. They will consist of informal hand-out sessions followed by answer periods, he said.

"We need to know which people in the county think this election, as well as voter awareness in general, are worth getting involved with," he said.

Anyone wishing to join the group can do so by sending a postage stamp along with their name and address to Bandera County Voter Awareness Group, Route 1, Box 1203, Pipe Creek, 78063.

The postage stamp is so we can get back to those interested in the cause with schedules and updates. We don't need or want contributions, we only want concerned voters," Osgood said.

5 more burglaries in Pipe Creek area

Another five homes in the Pipe Creek-Lakehills area were victims of burglaries this week, one Pipe Creek residence was ransacked as well as stripped of $825 in valuables, Deputy James MacMillan reported this week.

B. J. Greenwald of San Antonio discovered his weekend place in Pipe Creek was broken into and vandalized on Friday. "Books and pillows were torn up and scattered throughout the house and all drawers were ransacked and contents were strewn on the floor," the deputy said.

Among the missing items valued at $825 were stereo speakers, a stereo, bow and arrows, lawn edger, and beer.

The great loss reported during the week was at the Lakehills home of Michael Zeman. "He reported tools, water skis, life jackets, fishing rods and reels, a toasteroven, and popcorn popper among the $6,500 in valuables taken from his tool shed and camper on Tuesday," MacMillan said.

A deer feeder, rolls of barbed wire, and a lantern were reported taken from the weekend place of Tom Bailey in Pipe Creek on Tuesday. "He placed a value of $300 on the missing items," MacMillan said.

Another Tuesday burglary at the Lake Medina Shores property of John Berry netted thieves a 35-horsepower outboard motor valued at $1,000," MacMillan reported.

Christal Gilmore of Lakehills discovered a portable television set and jewelry valued at $350 taken from her Pebble Beach home, also on Tuesday, the deputy said.

An apartment at the Log Cabin Apartments in Bandera was entered and $150 in cash was stolen from a glass jar, MacMillan said. "Kevin Parker reported the cash was the only thing missing."

Howard Edward Chapman, 22, was arrested by the Caldwell County Sheriff's Department on an indictment from the Bandera County grand jury charging him with compounding. MacMillan said. "This was as a result of the Bandera County grand jury's investigation that led to the arrest last week of L. C. Kelley of Pipe Creek on the same charge," the deputy said. "Chapman was released Saturday after posting bond."

Texas Department of Public Safety troopers arrested two men last week for driving while intoxicated. Thomas Click, 52, of Bandera and William Joseph Kelley II, 46, of Eldorado were both released after posting bonds.

rules prohibiting hunting, but there's no way of enforcing them," MacMillan said. "It is a county order prohibiting hunting on small subdivision tracts may not prevent it, but if we do catch them — and we do catch them sometimes — we can fine them."

The new state law authorizes counties to make such hunting a class C misdemeanor, with a fine of up to $200 in justice courts.

"Some people feel they live on their property and they should have the right to shoot deer that walks up in their back yard," Judge Mauer acknowledged.

"Some say it's part of the constitutional right to bear arms. On the other hand, there's people who live in subdivisions with bullet holes in their walls," he said.

Another new tax to begin on Jan. 1

Merchants and residents in Bandera County and 81 other Texas counties will begin collecting a half-percent sales tax on Jan. 1.

"Voters in these cities and counties have elected to levy this additional sales tax as a method to generate money to reduce city or county property taxes," Bullock said. Bandera County voters OK'd the tax on Aug. 8 by a vote of 308 to 276.

The fiscal option sales tax was approved by the Legislature in 1986 and could raise about $9.1 million for cities and counties where it has been enacted, Bullock said.

The law allows either city or county residents or both to add the extra sales tax.

Businesses in cities and counties that adopted the tax on Jan. 1 says comptroller Bob Bullock.

"For one of your New Year's resolutions, you ought to be prepared for this increase," Bullock told merchants and citizens.

The extra revenue from the half-percent sales tax must be applied toward property tax reduction, Bullock said. The amount of reduction will vary from area to area.

Property owners in these cities and counties may see property tax changes after the 1988 tax rates are set in the fall of next year.

New tax form due

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Monday that Texas businesses will start 1988 with new state sales tax return forms that will cut government paperwork.

This may be the most radical change in tax return forms in state history, but it's also the best one," Bullock said.

According to Bullock, the new long and short return forms will be easier to process and will replace several of the old forms in most cases.

Now most of the taxpayers can use one form to file their returns, Bullock said, and the rest will be able to use very simple supplemental forms.

One feature of the new tax returns is a detachable billing coupon, similar to those sent with a credit-card statement, that can be ready by a machine for speedier processing, Bullock said.

There are at least a couple of dozen possible tax rate combinations in the state now. We had to find a way to process all of them," Bullock said.

that Church some $200 it had paid for fees and permits to construct the new Mason Bautista on 11th Street, and heard Ray Buck of the Bandera County River Authority promote a concept of combining the authority and a single-county underground water district into a single entity.

Buck said the people of Bandera County are going to have to make a decision soon whether to join other counties in a multi-county underground district or form a single-county district in Bandera County.

He pointed out that a multi-county district would offer more "cloud with the state," but at the expense of local control.

He said members of the authority favor a single-county entity combining the underground and surface water responsibilities.

Special ed program facing change?

Trustees for the Kerrville Independent School District approved by a six to one vote a proposed revision of the Special Education Cooperative Program which covers six school districts in Kerr and Bandera counties.

Some parents and former school officials say the proposal is the first step toward Kerrville ISD withdrawing from the coop that serves nearly 900 students.

The program director Janie Whitewood, a former principal at Bandera Junior High School, has been supervising the program from a central office on Peterson Middle School campus. She works with a support staff of 20 counselors, diagnosticians, speech therapists, and other specialists.

The coop management board includes superintendents Ted Dockery of Bandera ISD and Jerry Hulse of Medina ISD. The board unanimously agreed recently to the restructuring that would reassign most of the support staff directly to the districts in which they currently work.

KISD would collect less in pooled-revenues, and the re-assigned support staff would be paid directly by the districts where they work. Only Whitewood, a clinical psychologist, and a secretary would remain on the payroll at KISD to work at the central office.

Kerrville superintendent Jack

Cockrell says the coop will remain under the parents of special-ed students in Kerrville say the decentralization to save money will affect their children. Those parents fear cuts in service will be made.

Cockrell foresees the reorganization saving dollars for KISD, Bandera, Ingram, and Center Point, while Medina and Hunt would have to pick up more of the cost.

He said Medina ISD says any additional costs would be minimal. "If we combine personnel, there will actually be a reduction in cost," he said. "If anything, we would have an increase in services for the students. We would be sharing support personnel with Bandera and Center Point," he said. Grant of Dallas.

At this time Medina has one student in the special ed program in Bandera and none in Kerrville, he said.

"It's too early to predict just what changes we would make in our program locally," Dockery said in Bandera. "I was not aware the trustees in Kerrville would act so soon on the proposal. I will present it to our trustees at the January meeting," he said.

"We will still be a part of the program, but we'll probably have fewer students going to Kerrville," he said.

Lack of rain causing low feed levels for deer

Someone once characterized the climate of Southwest Texas as "continuous drought interrupted by periodic flooding."

The area has missed its "usually reliable" fall rains and ranchers and landowners may be faced with a period of continuous drought again, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The availability of winter weeds for deer is acutely low and the increasing number of deer carcasses on roadsides is mute testimony to the poor foraging conditions in most pastures," said Dr. Dale Rollins, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in San Angelo.

Winter forbs like plantain (tallow weed), sida, bundleflower and others are important food items for white-tailed deer, Rollins said.

"For deer that don't have the luxury of having access to small grain fields, such weeds represent a valuable source of dietary protein," he explained.

High lawn crops have placed additional nutritional strain on lactating does, he added.

With the acorn crop being very spotty across the Edwards Plateau, body condition of deer will continue to decline until there is some forage growth, he said. As such availability of winter browse will be especially important to deer this year, he added.

Under drought conditions landowners should keep in mind that Mother Nature takes a "pay me now or pay me later" approach to deer herd carrying capacity, Rollins emphasized.

"At the high deer densities presently found across most of the Plateau, we could be primed for hard times ahead. Whereas livestock can be taken to the sales barn anytime of the year, the only time a landowner can decrease his deer herd in a productive manner is during the hunting season," he said.

Most ranches continue to carry deer population that are too dense, especially of antlerless

Floyd Teat, a Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fishery technician from Waco, displays the 6½-pound smallmouth bass that has now been certified as a new state record. Teat caught the fish on Nov. 21 at Lake Whitney, using a crawfish-colored crankbait. The fish was just over a half-ounce heavier than the previous record smallmouth, caught from Lake LBJ in 1985.

Recipe Roundup

By Valerie Coyle

When you're planning a party, it's always nice to have dishes that can be prepared ahead of time so that you can have more time to enjoy your guests and be more relaxed at party time. This recipe for Spinach Balls from Amelia Verley of Corpus Christi certainly meets that requirement.

because they are made ahead and frozen until ready to bake and serve. Amelia says they make a wonderful appetizer for any occasion, but especially for holiday parties. Another plus, they don't taste like spinach, which means you can sneak a little nutrition in to those who would object to eating spinach in some other form. (Do you know anyone like that?)

do. Thanks, Amelia, for sharing your recipe with all of us.

NOTE: It is important to drain the spinach thoroughly. Remove as much water as you possibly can, says Amelia Verley. If your mixture seems too wet to shape into balls, try adding just a bit more of the herb stuffing and chill completely before shaping into balls and freezing.

Western art collection on exhibit at museum

Frontier Times Museum, 306 South Street, Bandera, is exhibiting the F.B. Doane collection of Western paintings along with selections from the Museum's collection of photographs which have recently been copied. The exhibit will continue through Saturday, Jan. 9.

Paintings in the Doane collection many of which were painted by the late F.B. Doane became a part of the Museum's permanent collection during the time Frontier Times Museum was owned by the Doane Foundation from 1960 through 1972. The foundation built the Gallery of Western Art to house the collection which features a variety of Western scenes done in oils.

The photographs on exhibit provide a sample of the Museum's extensive collection. Among them are scenes from frontier days and the Old West. The entire collection of several hundred photographs, many of them quite rare, are being professionally copied by the Institute of Texas Cultures in San Antonio as part of an extensive conservation and preservation project currently underway at Frontier Times Museum.

Frontier Times Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children and students ages six through 18. Children under six and members of the Friends of Frontier Times Museum organization are admitted free of charge. For more information please call the Museum at (512) 796-3864.

Fine Arts Night planned

The Baddest Angel Band will be just one of the highlights of the Bandera Junior High School Fine Arts Night, Thursday, Dec. 17 at 7 p.m.

There will be close to 200 kids involved, said Barbara Barge. The theater arts, speech, art and music departments will combine their efforts for the evening's entertainment.

The admission price of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students will go toward a new curtain for the gymnasium stage.

The theater arts students will present "The Baddest Angel Band," the speech students will present a Christmas skit, the art students will display Christmas art and the sixth and seventh grade bands will play Christmas music.

American art on exhibit in SA

A collection of 82 American paintings by 82 artists will open at the San Antonio Museum of Art Dec. 20 for its only Texas stop.

The exhibition entitled "American Masterworks: Two Hundred Years of American Art" chronicles the development of art in America from the Colonial period through the Modern movement. The works chosen represent a well-balanced survey of American art.

Featured are many of America's most talented and noted painters such as Copley, Stuart, Audsley, Church, Inness, Chase.

The exhibition's earliest painting is John Singleton Copley's portrait of Thomas Aston Coffin, ca. 1738, which illustrates the trend by early American painters to practice in European traditions and styles.

Georgia O'Keeffe's great artist in a field dominated by men illustrates her juxtaposition of one of nature with another in a way with Federalist, 1943. Her abstraction seeks something transcendent in the landscape.

"American Masterworks" will remain in view Dec. 20-Feb. 25 at the Museum of Art, 200 West Jones Avenue. The exhibit is accompanied by a fully illustrated color catalogue featuring all 82 works in the exhibition. It will be available in the museum gift shop.

Music highlights party of Fine Arts Club

Musical selections by pianist Jodie Holen and vocalist Kathy Hunt highlighted the Dec. 13 Christmas Party meeting of the Bandera Fine Arts Club at the home of Kerry and Dorthey Hevener.

"It was a beautiful day, and hostesses made and brought traditional family favorite recipes, including a few that were handed down from Grandma," said hostess chairperson Carolee Youngblood.

Holen and Hunt began with a recitative and aria from Handel's Messiah, "Behold A Virgin Shall Conceive" and "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings." Holen played two mazurkas by Chopin, then accompanied Hunt singing "Memory" from the musical "Cats."

A Christmas carol sing-along followed, and members sang traditional holiday favorites as they exchanged gifts and sampled holiday refreshments.

Designate a driver

Designated drivers help friends remain safe, alive, and out of jail. The designated driver in a group agrees to remain sober and drive others safely from a party or other event where alcoholic beverages are served.

Using the slogan "Drive your friends home... be the LIFE of the party," the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and other safety-conscious organizations are promoting the sixth annual National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week, Dec. 13-19. Gov. William P. Clemente recently signed a proclamation designating the observance in Texas.

Use of the designated driver concept works as the centerpiece of this annual promotion aimed at saving lives and avoiding injuries. According to the National Safety Council (one of the leading groups promoting the lifesaving concept), it originated in Sweden and the United Kingdom, where designated drivers place their car keys in their empty beverage glasses so they are not served.

Even with concerted efforts across the nation during the 1986 awareness week, 23,000 persons still lost their lives during that year in alcohol-related highway crashes. Department of Public Safety statistics for 1986 show 1,304 persons died in DWI involved accidents in Texas. Other individuals experienced the trauma of painful injury due to the combination of alcohol and driving.

Texas Safety Association's president, George R. Gustafson, added his organization's support to the designated driver concept. "Decide to help a friend keep a driver's license, avoid a fine, stay out of jail, avoid embarrassment, and stay alive."

Friends can help keep their friends alive and safe by adopting the designated driver concept, promoting the idea among colleagues and co-workers, and respecting those who act as designated drivers.

Raymond E. Stotter Jr., engineer-director of Texas' State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, under-scored the importance of the designated driver concept. "Arrive alive. Start three lifesaving habits this holiday season: drive sober, buckle up, and encourage others to do the same. Remember — first a friend, then a host."

Horsepower

Once their decision was made, the Aylsworths immediately began searching for a mare. They found "Emily" (Swartdale Emerald) in Fort Worth in the stable of Zane and Jill Brainerd, who operate a carriage service in the city.

"They had several mares for sale and I just watched them move around for an hour or so," Ann said. "This one kept trying to get into my pockets and I wound up picking her."

"Of course, I picked the most expensive one," she recalled, but she didn't reveal the exact purchase price.

The then two-year-old Emily had been bred twice and supplied the Aylsworths with two more mares for their enterprise. First Bonnie Rose and then Abby rounded out the brood stock that the ranchers planned for their new two-year-old stallion that they purchased from Canada.

Those plans proved costly when the male horse died in Fort Worth due to suspected mishandling during shipment. "After he had been paid for," laments Aylsworth, "I won't tell you exactly how much," she said. She did indicate the animal's cost was "in five figures."

Program for elderly care receives $50,000 grant

The Texas Department on Aging has awarded $50,000 to the Alamo Area Agency on Aging to develop a community-based care demonstration project for Kerr, Kendall and Bandera counties. Community-based care is a system in which an elderly person's medical, social and economic needs are evaluated by a care manager who helps the client match his or her needs with appropriate in-home and community services.

Care managers work closely with hospital discharge planners so that community-based care can begin as soon as the patient leaves the hospital. In cases where a client needs resources that are unavailable, the care manager can sometimes help develop them.

A seamless network of in-home and community-based care often helps an older person avoid costly, unnecessary institutionalization.

The Alamo Area Agency on Aging was awarded the funding after its proposed project plan was evaluated and approved by the Texas Department on Aging. "We think every indicator for success is present in this plan, and we're pleased to be able to help get it underway," said TDOA Executive Director O.P. Bobbitt.

A fully trained to harness Clydsdale can fetch $12,000.

The cart or wagon and the trailers (but they have to be stout). And of course there's feed. Lots of it. About twice as much as for a riding-size animal. As Ann laughingly said, "You don't make money in the horse business."

But she plans to stay in the business. "It's like eating peanuts," she says, "once you start, it's hard to quit."

This stud gave the Aylsworths another scare by turning up sick with what was thought to be colic. His ailment was finally determined to be a twisted colon. After a rather bizarre treatment that consisted of suspending the horse and then rotating him almost 360 degrees to let his internal organs rearrange themselves, he ceased to be ill and was shipped to Pipe Creek.

Scotty and his master all now await the results of his socializing with all three of the mares. The Aylsworths show their horses in the ring and of course plan to sell them. An 18-month-old youngster that's untrained will bring "$6,000-$7,000" and a fully trained to harness Clydsdale can fetch as much as $10,000-$12,000.

Before anyone rushes out to get a Clydsdale, however, one should be aware that a complete double harness outfit of show quality can set you back the same amount and then there's she recalls with pleasure working with horse-drawn implements in the fields with her father. A special memory was when he would tell her mother and sister to have a "freer of cream" ready at four o'clock and they would go in from the field for a cool treat. "Every Saturday he would take my sisters and me into McKinney so we could shop and spend our money," she reminisced.

Virgie married Everett Gilbert, a farmer, in 1925. After their first child was born, Everett told her he had a dream. He felt the call to be a Baptist preacher. "I agreed if that was what the Lord wanted, that's what we should do," she said.

She recalls the ensuing years as holding many heartbreaking moments, but as a whole it was wonderful. They had five children and that has since produced 14 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The Gilberts came to Medina in 1959 and Everett pastored the First Baptist Church until his retirement in 1967. In 1971 he fell victim to a fatal brain attack. Virgie lives in Medina and believes in being happy. She finds pleasure in her church, friends and the center. She appreciated the Tuesday morning bus service to the center.

At home, she likes to crochet, and her cat keeps her company. "I call them all Kitty and they come running," she chuckled. The pattern of her life is trying not to say anything that would hurt someone. "If I make a mistake, I want to correct it. Honestly if the best way to live," she said.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeier

Nine of the 15 members of the Corral's board of directors attended the Area Agency on Aging's Senior Advisory Council meeting at the Alamo Area Council of Governments in San Antonio.

Present along with Marie Holland and Carter Beach, who serve as delegates to the council, were Dr. Tommie Thompson, Doris Dallye, Mary Carpenter, Harry Webb, May Bachelor, Katherine Thompson, and June Westmeyer.

The objective was to provide board members with first-hand information on the workings of the Area Agency on Aging and its advisory board.

The council is comprised of two delegates from each of the 11 counties members of the district. A delegate from each of the sub-contracting service providers and the staff of the AAA round out the council.

The senior advisory council is charged with overseeing the activities of local senior centers, making peer review of each center, budgetary requirements, dispersal of federal, state, and foundation grant monies, and as information and referral center for various business aspects of the center's operations, and areas of special interest such as the upcoming Texas Silver Haired Legislative elections.

After promoting two other Christmas Bazaars in our community, the Silver Sage still finds itself with an outstanding array of holiday and handmade goodies available for Christmas giving.

A table (or two) will be set up with these items slightly marked down.

In addition to several quilts, we still have ceramic gifts, quilted wreaths, crocheted and woven selections, and stocking stuffers of every variety. If you still have a question mark on some of your gift list names, stop by the Silver Sage Corral and let us help you fill in the blanks.

There is only one pre-Christmas concert left for the Melodians after performances at Shoppers Jubilee, Purple Hills Manor Nursing Home, the AARP Christmas at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 19.

This 20-plus member group has worked for several months to provide a wide selection of holiday favorites. Members invite everyone to come out and hear them perform.

Seven members of the Auto-Angels on autoharp, Judy Gough on autoharp, George Menden on acoustic guitar, and Florence Leeson on piano, will accompany the Melodians.

The members of Junior Girl Scout Troop 576 in Bandera have volunteered their offering to our Christmas Day Meals On Wheels delivery. These 10 girls have prepared and packaged their offering to our senior shut-ins under the direction of co-leaders Debbie Foster and Marianne Clifton.

In addition to the cookies, we also need donations of food items and some volunteers to assist with packaging and assist Manuel Flores, our county sponsored driver, will be available for meal delivery on that day, but he needs help.

The Silver Sage Corral will be open on Christmas Day for a covered dish luncheon and afternoon activities under the capable hand of Fannie Caffall and Anne Brainerd.

Those who would care to come by the center on that day and enjoy lunch and fellowship may call the center and bring along an item for the buffet table, if they can.

Marie Holland, Ruby Lambert, Mary McCloskey, Harry and Vivian Webb and others will be at Saturday, Dec. 19, for the big EXPAN-S-I-O-N Fund Bake Sale.

This is the first attempt at this type of fund raiser. Volunteers have offered their culinary expertise in the form of home baked cakes, cookies, and candies for sale at more than reasonable prices.

Booths in several locations about town will set up at about a m.

Girls win consolation at Hondo tournament

Lady Bulldogs won consolation at the Hondo Invitational Tournament Dec. 16-17. Thursday night against Utopia, Erika Klum scored 15 points and Kari Marwick scored 6. Eve Elkins held Utopia's high scorer Janice Boyer to field goal in an outstanding defensive effort. The score was tied 17-17 at the half but Utopia won in the end, 14-14. Lady Bulldogs beat Cole Friday night 14-10. In the first half Bulldogs defense held the Cougars to 3 points. The entire Lady Bulldog team was outstanding in defense with full court press and tough half court defense. Erika Klum scored 18 points, Liz Fernandez scored 8, and Ann Chaffin scored 6.

Saturday afternoon the Lady Bulldogs won the consolation final defeating Val Verde 50-21. Again, Lady Bulldogs were tough in the first half, holding Val Verde to 11 points. Erika Klum had 23 points and Liz Fernandez had 13 points to lead the Bulldogs. Sophomore Christi Parker and Junior Ann Chaffin did a great job in the place of Eve Elkins, senior starter, who left to take college entrance exams.

Join the Spirit of Christmas Presents

Christmas is a time of year when families and friends from all around, come together to exchange gifts and share their love for one another. Yet so many people around us don't have family and friends to gather with, cannot afford Christmas dinner, and might as well be hungry during the holidays.

BHS in an effort to bring happiness this holiday season has organized a canned food drive as part of The Spirit of Christmas Presents. All canned foods or new toys will be appreciated to make someone's Christmas a little merrier.

If you have a donation, and would like to give a little for Christmas, bring gifts to room 32 at the High School.

Help him get into Guinness

Everyone at one time or another has wanted to have his or her name in The Guinness Book of Records.

In Scotland, there is an eight-year-old boy named Buddy who has a terminal cancer. He would like to have his name in The Guinness Book of Records as the person who has received the most postcards.

The journalism classes at BHS has undertaken a project to help Buddy and would appreciate a little of your time to help make a little boy happy.

Sending a postcard to Scotland costs 33 cents, but that postcard would mean so much. To send a postcard to Buddy, write to: Buddy, P.O. Box 76, Paisley, Renfrewshire, Scotland.

Bulldog cagers place second and third

At the Bandera Invitational meet, Dec. 16, the Bandera varsity girls defeated two out of three teams, Cole, 26-12, and Comfort, 30-34. The Lady Bulldogs lost to Medina Valley, 34-47. Medina Valley was the tournament winner, with Bandera in second place. The Bandera varsity boys defeated Comfort, 32-39, but lost to Boone, 31-30 and Cole, 29-61.

The varsity boys' high scorer was Erika Klum, with 44 points. Erika scored 11 points during the Cole game, 18 points during the Comfort game and 15 points during the Medina Valley game. Other outstanding players were Liz Fernandez, Christi Parker, Mizurek, and Ruth Mizurek.

This was the girls' second win over Comfort this year after losing to the Deer twice last year.

The varsity boys' high scorer was Steve scored 10 points against Comfort, 20 points against Boone and 7 during the Cole game. Other outstanding players were Epi Cardenas, Chris Vogt, Ronny Bain and John Scott.

The Bandera Invitational meet was well organized by Mrs. Barbara Mazurek, the junior high and high school coaches and Mrs. Elous Mangold.

Bausch applications due

The Larry Bausch Agricultural Citizenship Award is presented by the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show Association to FFA and 4-H students in either Bandera or Medina Schools.

Larry Bausch graduated from Bandera High School in 1968 and graduated from Texas A&M in 1972. He died in 1976 of cancer.

While he was in school he held FFA offices and honors including chapter sentinel 1967-68, chapter reporter 1968-69, star greenhand of chapter 1964-65 and star chapter farmer 1966-67. He also held national and state honors including American Farmer Degree, 1969 and Lone Star Farmer Degree, 1968.

To be eligible for the award the candidate must be a junior or senior in high school, must be enrolled in either Medina or Bandera High School, and must be actively participating in the exhibition of livestock during the 1988 Bandera stock show. Consideration is given for participation in other livestock show activities such as the farm projects and bake show.

Agriculturally related activities in FFA or 4-H outside of the livestock show competition, such as judging teams and club awards will be granted merit. Other school activities including scholastic achievement, leadership position, extra-curricular activities and grades are considered.

Evidence of church and community service will aid in selection, and all show entries and awards, club and school activities, and community involvement must be verified.

Applications are due at the office of the superintendent of schools by Jan. 5.

AIDS: It concerns every person who lives on the planet earth

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, or AIDS, is a public health issue that concerns not only the people infected with the AIDS virus, but every person on this planet. There is no vaccine yet for AIDS, and it is important for people to know how to avoid transmission.

AIDS breaks down part of the body's immune system, according to the National AIDS Information Center, a program service of the American Social Health Association. Without a healthy immune system, the body cannot fight off infection. People with AIDS contract infections at a relatively rare or not considered severe for people with healthy immune systems. For example, a person with AIDS could easily die from a common cold.

The first AIDS cases in the U.S. were reported in 1981, but since then that number has doubled each year.

AIDS has been fatal in more than 50 percent of reported cases, but no one diagnosed with AIDS has recovered.

AIDS is caused by a virus known by many names including human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), human T-lymphotropic virus type III (HTLV-III), lymphadenopathy associated virus (LAV), and AIDS related virus (ARV). Those infected with the virus do not always develop AIDS or even become ill, but they can transmit the disease to others, says the information center.

The virus attacks cells that direct the body's defense against infections. Scientists are currently studying whether an infected individual is likely to develop AIDS from repeated exposure to it. They are also studying the effects of drinking, smoking, drug abuse and various other infections on the development of the disease.

AIDS is most commonly transmitted through sexual contact, according to the center, and appears to be spread by exposure to infected semen or blood, and possibly vaginal or cervical secretions, urine and feces. Although the virus has appeared in saliva and tears, there is no evidence currently that the disease is spread through these fluids during casual contact.

Conditions reportedly provide protection when properly used, one week, white spots or unusual bluishness on the tongue, in the mouth or in the throat, and memory loss, depression and other neurological disorders.

These symptoms are observed in many other illnesses, but with the virus infections, they last for months or keep coming back.

One specific, life-threatening condition associated with AIDS is Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia. PCP is characterized by a persistent dry cough or shortness of breath not due to allergies or cigarette smoking.

Another disease is Kaposi's sarcoma. KS symptoms include the appearance of pink or purple blotches on or under the skin or inside the mouth, nose or eyelids.

There is a blood test that detects antibodies to the virus that causes AIDS. A positive test does not necessarily mean a person has AIDS, but it means that a person is infected with the AIDS-causing virus, and is capable of infecting others.

Property Tax Relief

A New Tax... Starting January 1, 1988

Voters in our county have adopted new sales taxes to allow it to reduce ad valorem property taxes. The additional tax collected may be used to offset a reduction in your county property tax assessment.

The new local property relief sales tax will be collected throughout the county in addition to our city 1 percent and the state 6 percent sales tax. The local property relief sales tax will be collected in the same manner and on the same items as state and city sales taxes.

The cards at right show the new sales tax rates which will apply in our community starting January 1, 1988. The cards are for you to clip and save.

Thanks, Ranger. Here's some oats for a reward

Rudy Robbins' four-year-old gelding, Ranger, happily picks a red bandana from the ground, left, and hands it to Robbins in exchange for a handful of oats, right.

Ranger also picks the bandana from Robbins' pocket and actually unties it from his own leg. Those are three of some 10 tricks Robbins has taught his horse. Robbins once played in movies and wild west shows and learned some of his horse-training skills from the trainer that handled Roy Rogers' Trigger.

Purple Hills Manor

By Mada Wedgworth — 796-4736

The Rev. Franklin Pullin from First Baptist Church gave a narration on the glory of Christ. The Christmas Cantata, written by Rosemary Pullin. Opening Prayer was led by Carter Beach and the closing prayer by Rev. Pullin. Rosemary Pullin was the pianist. Guests were Adele Akin, Leta Preston, Jeanette Kaka, Ann Edge, Debbie Michalek, Pete and Leslie Pigott, Odie Grassom, Charlotte Stevens, Doris Beach, Amy Stevens, and Diane Hopkins.

• Women from the St. Stanislaus Catholic Church who came for Rosary Monday evening were Aggie Batte, Dorothy Callahan, Marie Krueger, and Annette Kaka Schulte.
• Vera King visited Pearl Edwards and Maude Sprout.
• Women from Walker Memorial Chapel came by Tuesday afternoon and brought some gifts for the residents and visited Dell Lackey. They were Mary Blake, Doris Flanders and Fran Hidenburg.

• Lee and Viola Williams visited Myrtle Heinen.
• The Happy Notes, Jan Kuebel and Joyce McGriffen from Dover came to play and sing last week.
• Leta Preston and Adele Akin visited their aunt, Winnie Chad-dock.
• Martin Smith from the Church of Christ had Bible reading for 14 residents Wednesday morning. He also took Jack Hollows to Church services that evening.
• The Rev. Sheldon Herman-son from the Grace Lutheran Church visited Mary Koehler Thursday afternoon.
• D.J. Jordan visited his father, Dock Jordan.
• Nell Smith, Vera Kirk, Paul Kirk and Frances Hayes from the Bandera Chapter No. 643 of the Eastern Star brought Christmas gifts for all the residents.

• Fay Lewis from Ingleside visited her sister, Mary Koehler.
• Landon Kelly of Houston visited his mother, Clara Kelley and they had lunch at the OST.
• Tena Allen came by to visit friends.
• Mary and Kathryn Mengers of Tynas, Tex. and Ordina Kestor of Mathis, Tex. visited June Mathis.
• Lucy, Jana, Magan, Lea, Holly and Sharon Jones and Kim Helmle from Brownie Troop 375 came by Saturday Morning to bring cookies they had baked that morning.
• Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Edwards of Gonzales and his daughter, Sue Burkhardt of Austin, came with Gail Bowie of Houston to take Edith Edwards to Pipe Creek, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards to the Pipe Creek Junction Cafe. After lunch Mrs. Edwards was taken on a shopping spree and to a Games Party at the home of their aunt, Rowena Delguchi. J.B. Edwards took his mother to service at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek Sunday.

• The women from the First Baptist Church came Saturday morning to get everything ready for a shopping spree for the residents. They brought all kinds of gifts for the residents to choose from and even gift-wrapped them. The residents look forward to this shopping spree every year. It enables them to get gifts for their families, without any cost to them.
• Norma Barr took Mary Koehler to services at the Grace Lutheran Church Sunday morning.
• Hoyt Hamrick visited friends in the home Sunday and took Jack Hollaway to services at the Church of Christ.

Safety advocate urges use of car seat belts

Texas motorists who gift-wrap their families with safety belts will get a head start on a happy holiday season, a leading traffic safety advocate announced today.

"Most of us wouldn't send a fragile gift through the mail without protective packaging," said George R. Gustafson, president of Texas Safety Association and spokesperson for the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts. "It's equally important when we get into moving vehicles, to minimize the risk to our bodies by using safety belts and children's car seats."

Safety restraints are important the year round, but they're even more critical during holiday seasons, Gustafson noted.

"We urge all Texans not to drink and drive," said Gustafson, and to remember that a safety belt is your best protection against drivers who fail to heed this advice.

Quit smoking.

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

The Tarpley Baptist Church will sponsor a covered-dish Christmas dinner at noon Sunday, Dec. 20.

Visitors at church services Sunday morning were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brasington of San Antonio, who have recently purchased a home in the Rio Hondo subdivision area.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Schmidt's guests for a birthday dinner for Olga included Fred and Helen Schmidt of Berghem, Steve and Delora Zerr and children Joseph and Katie Marie of Hondo. Velma and Elmer Sathoff of Hondo, Mr. and Mrs. David Berger and two children of Kerrville, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilson of Uvalde, Billy Schmidt of Hondo, and Tommy Schmidt and son Bryan of Burleson.

Tommy and his son spent several days here.

Mr. Charles H. Dean and 4-year-old son Jacob flew to San Antonio Sunday from Haskell, Okla. Jacob will be spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Dean, while his dad will attend classes at Brooks AFB, San Antonio.

Dinner guests Sunday night of the Elzie Deans were Donnie Newcomb and children Molly and Jonathan of San Antonio and Maj. Dean and Jacob.

Those on the sick list this week include Elzie Dean and Mr. H.E. Haner.

Guests over the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jackson were their old traveling friends, Billy and Topsy Jarboe of Corpus Christi.

Saturday they all went to San Antonio for the day and were impressed with the beautiful lights on the "River Walk." They went through several shopping malls and report an enjoyable day.

Safety should be prime concern when selecting toys for tots

Giving is a word that comes to mind naturally when thinking of Christmas. The giving and sharing of holiday spirit and a tree laden with special gifts are traditional holiday images.

Children especially are enchanted by the prospect of find toys under the tree on Christmas morning. Parents should be particularly careful, however, in choosing toys for their children, because some can be dangerous and even life threatening.

The Texas Department of Health's (TDH) product safety program, in conjunction with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), works throughout the year testing and inspecting thousands of toys to identify those that pose safety threats.

Each year TDH and CPSC find toys containing hazardous materials such as lead paint. Other toys are poorly constructed, such as those made from brittle plastic or sharp metal, or those containing small detachable parts that can be easily swallowed by young children.

Inappropriate labeling for the intended age group is another hazard that can add to the possibility that a child may be hurt or killed.

The latest figures from CPSC show that in 1985, 608,000 children were injured by hazardous or defective toys and that 22 of them died.

In 1986, 55 different toys were found to be unsafe, and their manufacturers were ordered to recall them. Among them were a variety of baby rattles and pacifiers which could cause choking, some stuffed animals with easily swallowed eyes, noses and ornaments, crib mobiles that can cause strangulation, and a number of imported toys which contained lead paint.

The most recent recall was a defective spring rocking horse whose body had broken on numerous occasions, resulting in 40 reported injuries. On Oct. 15, CPSC recalled its toy "Wonder" Horse manufactured between March 1984 and May 1986. The recall affected all such horses with a stock code number 86207 or below.

Dan Sowards, director of programs, Food and Drug Division, said that the majority of toys (about 66 percent) recalled each year as safety hazards are imported.

Foreign manufacturers are not as conscious of safety regulations as American manufacturers, he said.

In October, CPSC conducted a "search and seizure" blitz — called Operation Toyland — on toy importers. Within two weeks, 145 different toys worth $3.7 million were seized. That is about three items the number of toys normally recalled each year.

Sowards said.

Sowards also urged parents to be especially cautious about buying all terrain vehicles (ATVs) for their children.

"They are very dangerous to those who are inexperienced or careless," he said. In five years ending in June, 789 deaths from ATV accidents were reported in the U.S. In 1986 alone, some 86,400 injuries were recorded nationwide.

For those parents who are considering buying an ATV for their child, Sowards offered these words of advice: "Do not buy a large ATV for any child under 14." He said, "And if parents do buy an ATV for a child under 14, make sure the child has hands-on training, wears proper safety gear, and takes an operator's course."

Medina

By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

The Medina school's Board of Trustees met Thursday, Dec. 10 in their regular monthly session and acted on several items on the agenda.

According to school superintendent Jerry Huie, the board voted approval of all the appraisal district's nominees for representatives. Those up for election are W.M. Kirkpatrick for Bandera County, Fabian Matutek from the city of Bandera, Joe C. Hearn III from Bandera ISD, Murry H. Sturgeon from Medina ISD and Joe B. Snider from Utopia ISD.

In other action the board approved an expenditure of $1,695 for a laminator, agreed to allow the senior class members to select their own graduation speaker, subject to the principal's approval, approved the list of Texas Educational Agency's sanctioned extra-curricular activities, and authorized the purchase of five more band uniforms at an estimated cost of $225 apiece.

Huie reported to the board that teachers and Elaine Chaney had resigned effective Jan. 4 to accept a position with the Central Tax Appraisal office in Kerrville. Huie also reported that Connie Pembers of Bandera had been hired to replace Chaney at the Alternative School at the Medina Children's Home.

The board performed its required evaluation of the superintendent for the year and then set a special meeting for Thursday, Dec. 17, at 6:30 p.m. to hear an auditor's report by the firm of Coleman, Schuler and Elley of Kerrville.

Living Christmas tree

Medina's Youth Choir will present their "Living Christmas Tree" program in the school auditorium Sunday and Monday, Dec. 20-21 at 7:30 p.m.

The choir, which is made up of young folks from the seventh, 12th grades and all three local denominations, will perform the musical score from "Sing Christmas."

The Common Concerns of local government usually effect the County, the City and the school districts on an equal basis. I intend to work closely with the Commissioners Court and officials of these areas to insure that these concerns are properly addressed and resolved.

GOOD NEWS
THE ALL-PURPOSE ATV THAT WENT FROM ZERO TO INDUSTRY LEADER WITHOUT EVEN SHIFTING GEARS.

The Polaris Trail Boss 250. With our unique no-shift PVT (Polaris Variable Transmission), powerful 250cc engine, and six inches of suspension travel on both ends, it has become the class of the all-purpose class. From the day it was introduced, Trail Boss set new standards for power and handling in all-purpose ATVs. Standards that still haven't been equalled.
There are a lot of all-purpose ATVs, but one has no competition. The Trail Boss. See it at your Polaris dealer.

A Merry and Bright Christmas

The Bandera Bulletin

Our 44th Year, No. 24

Thursday, December 24, 1987
Twenty-five cents

Daddy's tree now everyone's

As you come into Bandera from the south after dark, you can hardly miss the lighted Christmas tree by Eckhart's Flower Shop. It stands majestically, with the star like a beacon on top, but the tree that has become a community tradition began in 1958 as a living Christmas tree that nobody wanted.

Living Christmas trees were the fashion that year, according to Punkie Eckhart, and when Eckhart's Flower Shop didn't sell the tree, Howard Eckhart planted it and kept the lower limbs trimmed so it would grow straight and tall.

"For years, daddy would decorate the tree, and mother called it a Christmas card to the community," Punkie says.

As the tree grew, it became increasingly difficult for Howard to decorate it.

"One of his loves was trees," explains Punkie, "and it finally outgrew him. He was afraid to hurt the tree, and after a while he stopped putting the lights on."

Howard Eckhart died in 1973, and since that time, Bandera Electric Cooperative has helped put the lights on every year with their "cherry picker."

Howard and Elsie Eckhart opened their shop in 1964, and their son Howard Carl, who was in high school at the time, helped out with the business.

Howard Carl Eckhart worked at the shop throughout high school and college, then he moved to Dallas, and began his own floral business.

In 1970, Punkie returned to help with the shop, and in 1980 became the sole owner. According to Punkie, Elsie is far from retired, and contributes her years of expertise to the family business.

And the tree continues as a reminder of a tradition started by Howard and Elsie Eckhart all those years ago.

"We just call it 'Daddy's Tree,'" says Punkie.

'It's a miracle'

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

"As many people that we saw, there were at least one third more that need it, that we don't know about," said Santa.

"That bothers me. I'd like to come into their lives."

Santa and his elves delivered toys, food and gifts in Bandera County Sunday. He said the day was epitomized by two children who wondered why he was making deliveries in a pickup truck instead of the customary sleigh.

"I told them the sleigh was in the shop in Kerrville, and that I had to borrow this truck to get everything delivered before Christmas," he said, with a twinkle in his eye.

Over 100 families with about 270 children were served by the delivery, according to Elf Karen (Jackson).

"It was the best year yet," she said.

Friday, elves gathered at Mansfield Park and sorted, wrapped and packaged Christmas gifts, food and toys for children and families in the Bandera area who for various reasons need Santa and Elf Karen's help.

"There must have been 100 people from the community out wrapping at different times Friday," said Elf Karen.

"It's a neat experience," explained Elf Linda (Balsom).

"Everyone should do this at least once."

Most of the elves agree that once a person helps, they are inclined to help out every year. The need is definitely there.

"One year, we saw some people burning their furniture, just to stay warm," said Santa. "We also delivered to a family who were having a particularly rough time this year. The kids live with their grandparents, and the grandfather had just come home from having emergency surgery at the hospital."

"The grandmother was so grateful, and said she didn't know what they would have done for the kids' Christmas."

Elf Sandi (Kling) explained she really enjoyed making the Sprites of Christmas happen. The faces of the children are the best reward," she said.

"It's the best part of my Christmas," said Elf Norma (Barr). "This year Santa and I delivered for the second time to a child in a wheelchair. She had typed a letter of thanks to Santa, which was a real accomplishment for her."

"The children's anticipation, running down to the gate all scrubbed and ready to see Santa," said Elf Linda. "It's all very satisfying."

"Kids up to junior high age are so eager to see us," said Santa. "Families all dressed up, waiting for our arrival, and then, hugs when we get there."

"Those hugs mean a lot," he said, with a wistful gaze.

"You see their faces, and it's a miracle," said Santa. "That's what Christmas is all about."

Bob Bullock to speak at chamber's banquet

State comptroller Bob Bullock will speak and one of six nominees will be cited for promoting Bandera as the Cowboy Capital during the annual awards banquet of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce on Friday, Feb. 5.

Nominees include David and Gen Valdez, Bungy Grant, Bill Minter, Ken Finley and Cal Chapman. The winner will be selected by vote of chamber members and the identity of the winner will be a secret until announced at the banquet.

The Cowboy Capital Award is the highest award given by the chamber.

Bullock, a former state representative from Hillsboro, was first elected comptroller in 1974 and re-elected in 1978, 1982 and 1986.

He worked as an assistant attorney general and administrative assistant to Gov. Preston Smith and secretary of state under Smith. He has announced as a candidate for lieutenant governor in the March 8 Democratic Primary.

Criteria for the Cowboy Capital award requires that the nominee be someone "who has made an outstanding contribution to Bandera's image as the Cowboy Capital of the World."

"She is consistently welcoming tourists and showing the best in Texas hospitality," her nomination read. "She is a chamber of commerce all by herself."

Minter raises longhorn cattle and mules near Bandera and has used his animals to help promote Bandera as the Cowboy Capital. "He has established his superlative longhorn steer, Geronimo, as an unofficial symbol of the Cowboy Capital," his nomination said. He generally donates his time and animals to help publicize special events and was instrumental in bringing a mule and donkey show to the city during the Bandera County Fair.

Chapman is the operator of The Cabaret dance hall and restaurant in Bandera and is a former president of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce. "He has spent a tremendous amount of time, money and energy promoting Bandera, not only in the Hill Country but throughout the U.S.A.," his nomination says. "He is very generous in offering the facilities of the Cabaret to non-profit organizations to help in fund-raising events."

Finley, executive vice president of Bandera Bank, is winding up his second year as president of the chamber. "What with all the other duties and weighty obligations his time was devoted to, he, with attentive courtesy and fine diplomacy, administered to the fractured interests of the chamber with dedication," said his nominator.

The Valdezes are Realtors with offices in Pecos and in Bandera. "Their avid promotion and hard campaigning for pari-mutuel horse racing" caught the eye of their nominator. They were

Just how organized is organized crime? Television, movies, Congressional hearings and the statements of law enforcement officials periodically recreate the public image of a single organization. Its headquarters are in southern Italy. Its American franchise is run by Italian Americans in New York, New Jersey and Las Vegas. It can trace its origins more or less directly back to Prohibition and the Roaring Twenties.

Its main lines of business have been things the law says people cannot buy. Liquor was the big seller until 1933, and narcotics have become increasingly important since the 1950s.

Illegal gambling has provided steady business all along. There is no reliable estimate on the annual amount of illegal gambling, but the guesses run into the billions of dollars. Likewise, there is no agreement on whether or not sports betting (college football and basketball, professional football, basketball and baseball) has replaced horse race betting as the gamblers' favorite play.

In fact, the limited evidence on the public record has convinced several criminologists that the popular image of organized crime is much exaggerated. These criminologists criticize politicians and law enforcement officials for failing to define clearly what they mean by "organized crime," for not having consistent information on who and how many are involved in what ways, and for using a glorified image of organized crime to win votes and budgets.

The criminologists say that the myth of a unified, all-powerful criminal organization ignores the evidence of distrust and endless feuding among those criminals who call themselves mafiosos.

The criminologists also say that sports betting does not need the central wire service that old-style bookmakers bought from the "syndicate." Betting, the profit margin from bookmaking is probably small, perhaps no more than five percent. Bookies not surprisingly face an extremely high number of bad debts.

The criminologists also dismiss the law enforcement argument that profits from illegal gambling finance organized crime's narcotics operations. That argument ignores the enormous profits from which the international heroin and cocaine trade finances itself.

Does all this mean that horse race gambling, especially legal gambling, is clean of organized criminal influence? Not necessarily.

12 months of good will

Dear Editor:
Christmas is generally the season to spread good will and peace to our fellow man. There are many churches, organizations and individuals in Bandera County that have done this every year without any publicity or fanfare. Local pastors and their congregations can probably relate many instances when they have taken action to help local residents and transients with food, transportation and finances throughout the year.

Slagle justified his act by explaining that Democrats are begging him to prevent another "Mondale-Ferraro" catastrophe. Certainly that's true, but as the non-Gore Texas Democrats fume about his course of action, many are vowing it's time for him to go and take his prize, Holman, with him.

Hart lacks support
Slagle wasn't at the bottom of the dog list last week, however.

My sincere desire for 1988 would be that the Christian community display goodwill January through November as we encounter the growing needs around us.

Chairman surprises Demos by endorsing Sen. Albert Gore

Some Texans were happy, some were angry, but just about all Democrats were surprised last week when their state party chairman took sides in the presidential sweepstakes.

Democratic party chief Bob Slagle announced his personal endorsement of Tennessee U.S. Sen. Albert Gore at a Capital press conference with Gore.

His move delighted Gore's Texas supporters, who hope it will propel him past second-place holder Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis to catch the leader, the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

But Slagle's move also angered the many other Democrats who support one of the six other candidates, particularly those who think Slagle as chairman should stay neutral.

His endorsement, along with that of former Gov. Mark White's campaign manager, Dwayne Holman, came the same day all candidates except late entry Gary Hart were holding an unprecedented debate in Edinburg.

Timing embarrassing

The timing of Slagle's endorsement was embarrassing to the other candidates, and indicated they didn't mean anything to the party's state chairman.

But Slagle has never really been one to stay neutral during his eight-year tenure, the longest anyone has ever held what used to be a temporary plum.

On several previous occasions, he has jumped into state and federal races with an endorsement well before the primary. In this case, he hasn't even waited until the filing deadline.

Slagle justified his act by explaining that Democrats are begging him to prevent another "Mondale-Ferraro" catastrophe.

Certainly that's true, but as the non-Gore Texas Democrats fume about his course of action, many are vowing it's time for him to go and take his prize, Holman, with him.

Hart lacks support
Slagle wasn't at the bottom of the dog list last week, however.

Bandera County potpourri

By Nick Johnson

Merchants throughout Bandera County, in the city and out, will start collecting a still another new tax on Jan. 1. It's a one-half percent sales tax that you approved in August — remember?

Additional revenue generated by the new tax may be used for anything in the county budget, with a few exceptions. The intent of the law is to reduce local property taxes by an amount that would match dollar for dollar the amount of new revenue the local government expects the new tax will bring in.

Merchants who collect the tax will send it along with the state's 6 percent and the city's 1 percent to the comptroller's office who will return the county's share. Bandera County will receive its first allocation from the comptroller's office in March.

The reduction of property taxes will take place when the 1988 property tax rate is set this summer and fall.

The new tax puts a new twist on the shop-at-home pleas of local merchants. The arguments for shopping at home have been ample, but now you have another, perhaps more compelling reason: When you shop in Bandera County, for example, now you'll be helping reduce property taxes there while assuring your own remain high.

The city of Bandera opted not to use the new tax. Not the case, however, in Del Rio or Ingram, Pearsall, Marble Falls or Llano. Shop in those towns and you will not only be paying to keep their county taxes low, while assuring your county's stay high, but you will also be chipping in on the property taxes of property owners in those cities.

Oh, what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to obscure.

A view from the lake

By Lila MacMillan

When I hear the expression "agony of defeat," I always picture an athlete being carried off a game field with the spectators booing loudly in the back.

But now, my nine-year-old German shepherd has painted a new picture of defeat for me.

Bo, my dog, has been a member of the household for all but the first five weeks of his life. He never knew what it was to be chained, fenced, or penned until we moved three months ago.

We paid a lot of money to have a chain link fence installed just for Bo. In a new neighborhood, it would be best for him if he didn't roam and wander, we felt.

After just three days in his new environment, Bo decided it was time to go back home and be with his cronies. He dug out under the new fence and traveled about 30 miles back to the old house.

Since he was never one to stay home, we checked back twice a day and left food for him. Finally after five days we found him there and brought him back home. This incident repeated itself twice more and then I got the brainstem. I decided not to leave anymore food in the old house.

Sure enough, Bo took off again last week, and Saturday he returned to the new place. Tired, wet, and hungry. But triumphant. He came back this time on his own. Finally he's accepted the move and he's content at the new place.

Of course, I have to leave one of the three shiny gates open for him so he can come inside the fenced yard and leave whenever he pleases. That's the battle I lost. But Bo, he's won his freedom, and he's happy to just hang close to home as long as no one closes the gate behind him.

Bo joins me in saying, "Have a very Merry Christmas and may your holidays be filled with love."

Chamber— 5 more burglaries reported in LH-PC

primary spokespersons for a group promoting the ballot issues on par mutual wagering in November.

Don and Judy Hicks of the Mayan Ranch were also on the list of nominees, but chamber officials decided that anyone who received the award in the past cannot be nominated again.

The Awards Banquet will be held at the Mayan Ranch. Chamber members also discussed their Hunter's Barbecue and Shoppers Jubilee at the Dec. 15 meeting, and secretary Debbie Quiver reported that both events, though receiving some mixed reviews, are being called "successful" by the chamber.

Members also decided to submit a change of chamber bylaws to a vote of the members to specify eight directors instead of 10. Dr. Kathryn Washer of the Bandera Chiropractic Center joined the chamber this month; it was reported.

Four more burglaries were reported in Lakehills this week and one more reported in Pipe Creek. Deputy James MacMillan said.

Chuck Harrison of Fiddlin' Around Lounge on Park Road 37 in Lakehills reported Sunday someone had broken into the business and $80 worth of beer, wine and food was missing. MacMillan said.

A tabletop refrigerator and two small propane bottles were taken from a one-room cabin in Lakehills on Wednesday. MacMillan said. The owner of the cabin, Jay Hartman of Lakehills, valued the stolen items at approximately $100 and said it could have happened anytime in the past week, the deputy said.

Margaret Ann Lee of Lakehills reported Tuesday there were no signs of forced entry at her Lakehills residence, but a gold bracelet worth over $2,000 and $600 in cash were missing. MacMillan said.

When deputies investigated a report of a suspicious vehicle at the old state park in Lakehills Wednesday, they discovered the vehicle has been stolen from San Antonio earlier that morning, he said. The 1986 Mercury Cougar had been stripped of the tires and radio. No suspects were around at the time the vehicle was discovered.

Among arrests reported during the week were two men on assault charges, one man on a burglary charge, one man and one woman for driving while intoxicated, and four persons for public intoxication.

Mark Edward Gaines, 28, of Lakehills was arrested for simple assault during a family disturbance on Sunday. MacMillan said. He was released the same day after paying a fine, the deputy reported.

Enrique Gene Mesa, 28, of Lakehills was arrested on Saturday on a warrant for assault and he was released the same day after paying bond. MacMillan said.

George Yarborough, 30, of Kerrville was arrested Monday, Dec. 15, for burglary of a habitation and remained in Bandera County Jail this week in lieu of paying bond, the deputy reported.

Dan Gus Matthews, 48, of Pipe Creek and Mauida Valdivia, 38, of Hondo, were arrested by troops of the Texas Department of Public Safety in separate incidents this week. Both were released from jail after they paid bond, the deputy said.

The leak detection team uses sophisticated audio sensing equipment which feeds readings to a computer. The computer program contains information on the system lines and meters and can pinpoint the location of water leaks.

During the demonstrations the team developed a master meter testing procedure to provide accurate data on losses through raw water meters and to insure proper recording of water diverted from LCRA storage.

These surveys have pinpointed breaks in lines, faulty meters and problems with fire plugs, said Steve Parks, survey supervisor.

Two candidates say they'll run for state board of education

A Democrat and a Republican have filed for the district 5 seat on the State Board of Education in the March 8 primary elections.

J. R. Hardin of Beasley and Dr. J. Raleigh Jackson of LaGrange both have announced as candidates for the position on the State Board of Education in the upcoming primary elections.

Both men have backgrounds in the education field.

State Board of Education members were elected from 1949 to 1984, but an appointed state board was one of the education reforms proposed by Texas bills. On the Senate Select Committee on Education passed by the Texas Legislature in 1984.

The reform bill called for a reduction from 27 to 15 board members, who were appointed by Gov. Mark White. It also stipulated that the board revert to an elected panel in 1988. Texas voters last month voted to return to the elected method of securing members.

J.R. Hardin

J.R. Hardin, 60, of Beasley is seeking the District 5 State Board of Education seat in the March 8 Democratic Primary.

District 5 contains all or part of Harris, Fort Bend, Brazoria, Wharton, Waller, Austin, Cole-redo, Lubbock, Washington, Fayette, Gonzales, Guadalupe, Bexar, Comal, Kendall, Bandera, Real, Kerr, Gillespie, Mason and Kimble counties. Voters in all 21 counties in the district will select a Democratic nominee for the November 1988 general election for the post.

Hardin served on the board of the Lamar Consolidated Independent School District in Fort Bend County for 15 years and currently is vice chairman of the Region 4 Education Service Center in Houston. He also serves on the Rosenberg/Richmond Area Chamber of Commerce education committee and is past president and a life member of the Gulf Coast Association of School Boards.

Manager-owner of Beasley Lumber Co. in Beasley and chairman of the board of FirstBank Savings Association in Missouri City, Hardin is a World War II Naval Air Corps veteran. He graduated from Lamar High School in Richmond and attended the University of Texas at Austin. He is a 1967-68 president of the Rosenberg Rotary Club, and director and past president of the Fort Bend County Fair Association since 1965.

Hardin is married to Maxine and has four children: David, Susan, Marcia and Russell.

J. Raleigh Jackson

Dr. J. Raleigh Jackson, LaGrange, has announced as a candidate for a position on the State Board of Education in the March 8 Republican Primary.

Dr. Jackson has had experience at every level of education; a high school teacher in Alvin, Schulenburg and LaGrange, a university professor, Texas A&M, deputy superintendent and superintendent, Brazosport ISD, and junior college president Brazosport College (Lake Jackson). He served seven years on the A&M Consolidated ISD board of trustees (two years as president). He has also served as a member of the Texas Education Agency Commission on School Accreditation, member (two years as vice-chairman) of the Advisory Council for Technical and Vocational Education in Texas, and as co-chairman (two years) of the first Board of Directors of Region IV Education Service Center.

He is a life member of the Texas State Teachers Assn. and the Parent Teachers Assn., a past member of the Texas Assn. of School Administrators, National Education Assn., American Vocational Assn. and the Texas Vocational Assn.

Since retiring and moving back to LaGrange, where he started his professional life as a teacher, after 40 years educational experience (which includes 4 years duty as an officer in the army during World War II) he has been active in his church, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Masonic Lodge, AARP, Retired Teachers Assn. of Fayette County. He was elected in 1986 to the First Texas Silver Haired Legislature. He was elected

Setting it straight

A sentence-ending period was omitted from a cutting under a picture of county commissioners looking over renovation plans at the old jail building in Bandera in last week's edition.

Pictured were County Judge Ray F. Meier, three county commissioners, contractor Mike Jewett, and (an unidentified) member of Jewett's staff. Present but not pictured was commissioner Danny Alanis of Lakehills.

A period omitted from between "a member of Jewett's staff" and "Danny Alanis is not pictured" made it appear that Alanis was a member of Jewett's staff, which of course is not the case. The Bulletin apologizes for any misunderstanding caused by the error.

AARP installs officers

Pat Works of Kerrville, assistant state director of the American Association of Retired Persons, installed the new Bandera Hills AARP officers Dec. 16.

New officers installed are president Floyd Portman, vice president Davis May, secretary Vivian Webb, treasurer Doris Dolle, new nominating committee member Marjorie Bunch, and new board member Arthur Bunch.

"Money and toys were collected at the meeting and delivered to Elf Karen," spokesman Salie Lewis said. "A full scale Christmas dinner was enjoyed by all after the meeting," she said.

ed by the 116 members as Speaker, a position which will expire in July, 1988. He has recently been appointed by Governor Clemente to the newly created Texas Council on Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders.

PTO raises $477

The PTO Bazaar held Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Bandera Firehouse brought in some $477.50, said a spokesman for the group.

The money raised will be used to buy teaching equipment and supplies.

Peace and Good Will

Conditions haven't changed very much since Jesus was born and served the souls of those in spiritual stress — lost, confused, frightened, and in need of guidance and direction.

Transpire if you will, known and imagined circumstances in the structures of civilization as it existed some two thousand years ago to the present, as it is brought to our attention by the various media of publications and electronic communication.

Peace on Earth, Good Will toward All. That is not an empty phrase. It was viable and proved far sought by many in sincere appeals and supplications, individually and congregationally, those many years ago.

With all we know or think we know, there is no substitute, certainly no contradiction, to that ideal of harmony and tranquility, isn't that with the foundation of our exchanged greetings at Christmas?

Pause for an instant and consider your purposes, in the reflection of world events, the turmoil, conflict, and depredations in every category of influence, the financial, political, religious, and social fractures confronting our minds, concentrating our attention, give thought to a blessing. Is it not the season to appreciate, and be appreciated, the season to love, and be loved, to convey hospitality and accept, thankfully, the goodness gifted? I think so, and for a Christmas Greeting, I wish you to think so, too.

Hardin's candidacy for the State Board of Education is based on his many years of local and regional school board experience and on his belief of "being responsible to the educational needs of our children."

J. Raleigh Jackson

Dr. J. Raleigh Jackson, La-Grange, has announced as a candidate for a position on the State Board of Education in the March 8 Republican Primary. Dr. Jackson has had experience at every level of education; a high school teacher in Alvin, Schulenburg and LaGrange, a university professor, Texas A&M, deputy superintendent and superintendent, Brazosport ISD, and junior college president, Brazosport College (Lake Jackson). He served seven years on the A&M Consolidated ISD board of trustees (two years as president). He has also served as a member of the Texas Education Agency Commission on School Accreditation, member (two years as vice-chairman) of the Advisory Council for Technical and Vocational Education in Texas, and as co-chairman (two years) of the first Board of Directors of Region IV Education Service Center. He is a life member of the Texas State Teachers Assn. and the Parent Teachers Assn., a past member of the Texas Assn. of School Administrators, National Education Assn., American Vocational Assn., and the Texas Vocational Assn. Since retiring and moving back to LaGrange, where he started his professional life as a teacher, after 40 years educational experience (which includes 4 years duty as an officer in the army during World War II) he has been active in his church, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Masonic Lodge, AARP, Retired Teachers Assn. of Fayette County. He was elected in 1986 to the First Texas Silver-Haired Legislature. He was elect-

Setting it straight

A sentence-ending period was omitted from a routine under a picture of county commissioners looking over renovation plans at the old jail building in Bandera in last week's edition.

Pictured were County Judge Ray F. Mauer, three county commissioners, contractor Mike Jewett, and (an unidentified) member of Jewett's staff. Present but not pictured was commissioner Danny Alanis of Lakehills.

A period omitted from between "a member of Jewett's staff" and "Danny Alanis is not pictured" made it appear that Alanis was a member of Jewett's staff, which of course is not the case. The Bulletin apologizes for any misunderstanding caused by the error.

AARP installs officers

Pat Works of Kerrville, assistant state director of the American Association of Retired Persons, installed the new Bandera Hills AARP officers Dec. 16. New officers installed are president Floyd Portman, vice president Davis May, secretary Vivian Webb, treasurer Doris Dolle, new nominating committee member Marion Bunch, and new board member Arthur Bunch.

"Money and toys were collected at the meeting and delivered to Elf Karen," spokesman Sallie Lewis said. "A full scale Christmas dinner was enjoyed by all after the meeting," she said.

Peace and Good Will

Conditions haven't changed very much since Jesus was born and served the souls of those in spiritual stress — lost, confused, frightened, were they and in need of guidance and direction. Transpire, if you will, known and imagined circumstances in the structure of civilization as it existed some two thousand years ago. To the present, as it is brought to our attention by the various media of publications and electronic communication. Peace on Earth, Good Will toward All. That is not an empty phrase. It was viable and proved far-sought by many in sincere appeals and supplications, individually and congregationally, those many years ago. With all we know or think we know, there is no substitute, certainly no contradiction, to that ideal of harmony and tranquility, isn't that the foundation of our exchanged greetings of Christmas? Pause for an instant and consider your purposes. In the reflection of world events, the turmoil, conflict, and deprivations in every category of influence, the financial, political, religious, and social fractures, confronting our minds, concentrating our attention, give thought to a blessing. Is it not the season to appreciate and be appreciated, the season to love and be loved, to convey hospitality and accept, thankfully, the goodness gifted? I think so, and for a Christmas Greeting, I wish you to think so, too.

No red drum for Medina Lake

The Parks and Wildlife Department has stocked red drum (red fish) into five Texas freshwater lakes recently, but Medina Lake was not included.

Among the lakes receiving the fingerlings were nearby Braunig and Calaveras lakes in San Antonio.

Red drums have proven to be an excellent addition to sport fisheries at power plant reservoirs with abundant forage.

Nuts from the state tree furnish festive holiday dishes

The pecan tree, named the State tree, can be found growing in 152 counties in the Lone Star State," advises Irene Elizondo of the Texas Department of Agriculture. Commercial pecan production is concentrated in South Central Texas, the Cross Timbers, the El Paso area and some counties in West Texas.

"There are 200,000 acres of managed native pecans and 110,000 acres of the improved varieties in the state," said Norman Winter, executive director of the Texas Pecan Growers Association.

Pecan Vegetable Salad

3 C. leaf or iceberg lettuce
Salt
Pepper
Sugar
1 1/2 C. shredded Swiss cheese
1 (10 or 18g) thawed frozen peas
4 sliced hard-boiled eggs
1/4 C. broken pecans
1 med. head romaine or 1 1/2 C. spinach
1/4 C. salad dressing or mayonnaise

Place lettuce in the bottom of a large bowl. Sprinkle with a little salt, pepper and sugar. Top with the cheese. Spoon pear on top of cheese spreading evenly. Arrange egg slices and pecans over peas. Sprinkle eggs with salt. Remove heavy midrib of romaine or spinach and tear into bite-size pieces. Arrange on top of eggs and pecans. Spread salad dressing or mayonnaise on top, sealing to edge of bowl. Cover and chill the salad in refrigerator for 24 hours or overnight. Toss before serving.

Pecan Broccoli

Makes 10-12 servings

2 lb. broccoli
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
Fresh lemon juice
1/3 C. pecans
4 T. unsalted butter
1 finely chopped garlic clove

Remove and discard large leaves and tough portions of stem from broccoli. Wash broccoli; drain and tie securely into bunches with cotton string. Cook tightly covered, in small amount of water 15-20 minutes or until tender. Drain; remove string. Arrange broccoli on warm platter. Season with salt, pepper and sprinkle with lemon juice. Saute pecans in butter until lightly browned. Add garlic. Sprinkle garlic butter and pecans over broccoli. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Orange Pecandy

2 C. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt

4 T. corn syrup
1/4 C. evaporated milk
Juice of 1 orange
1 cup. grated orange peel
1/4 C. butter
1 tsp. vanilla
1 C. lightly toasted pecans

Special education students Sandi Wilson, left; Lisa Gaines and Mario Rodriguez enjoy their "Christmas bears" as teacher

Kathy Gardner watches. Not shown is Christopher Dugosh and teacher Shelley Quarles.

Honor students 'adopt'

Bandera High School National Honor Society has taken the special education class "under its wing" and this year, for the fourth time, they presented the kids with a Christmas present — a teddy bear for each of them.

The "special ed" kids just loved those bears, said teacher Kathy Gardner. They hugged them and held onto them. It was a great idea.

NHS sponsor Mary Welch started the project for the group when she became NHS sponsor in 1984, and she says every year they have money making projects to fund the "special ed" project.

One year, they gave each child a Christmas stocking with candy and a toy, and once the stocking had a hand puppet, Gardner said. Last year it was a little Christmas tin with candy and a toy.

These NHS kids are bright and physically active, and it has made them realize how fortunate they are, said Welch. They enjoy doing it, and it gives everyone a good feeling.

Although she has only been Bandera's NHS sponsor since 1984, Mary (Clark) Welch has roots in the organization. She belonged to NHS during her high school years at BHS, and was president her senior year, 1964. She has taught for 16 years, four years in Lockhart, and the past 13 years in Bandera.

Welch said this is the only special project NHS endavors every year, but they have a variety of other projects. She says they are planning a school cleanup project for this spring.

Second graders need practice, teacher says

The most important objective in the second grade is that the students apply their knowledge in a variety of reading situations," says Linda Parsons, teacher at Alkek Elementary School.

Parsons suggests using the holidays as an opportunity to let youngsters practice reading and writing skills by helping read and address Christmas cards, writing thank-you notes, making instructions on a new game, or making shopping lists.

The children need to see the importance of reading and how it will apply to their lives now and in future years," said Parsons.

Optimists to sponsor dance

The Bandera Optimist Club will sponsor a New Year's Eve dance for junior high school students from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. New Year's Eve.

Admission tickets will be sold to students, spokeswoman Gail Stone said.

More chaparrals are needed to sponsor the dance. Tickets are $5.00 or after Sunday, Dec. 27, $6.00.

Refreshments will be served and games will be played. Prizes are planned for the students, she said.

The dance will be held at the Ryan Youth Building. The old washroom.

800 new books

Over 800 new books are now available at the Alkek Elementary library reports librarian Lela Korda.

Ebenezer Scrooge is visited by three Christmas Spirits in an Alkek Elementary School production of Dickens' Christmas Carol.

Alkek fifth graders present Dickens' 'A Christmas Carol'

Ebenezer Scrooge, Tiny Tim and a host of other characters from "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens were brought to life when JoAnne Wilson's fifth grade class at Alkek Elementary School presented the play for parents and other students last week.

The kids came up with costumes," said Wilson. "Twenty-seven students participated."

They presented the play on the cafeteria stage at 9 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 17. Thursday afternoon, Alkek Elementary students presented a program including choral and music pieces and skits.

Christmas parties were held Friday, Dec. 18, before classes were dismissed for the holidays.

Super S chief baker Donna Moore, center, is joined by Jennifer Entler and Naomi Martinez in showing off some of the Christmas season goodies offered by the store's bakery. Moore has lived in Bandera since 1953.

Baking is her specialty

By Janna Sandige
Staff Writer

Along with trimming the trees, stringing lights and hanging stockings, Christmas baking is a tradition that many people associate with the holiday season, and Donna Moore says her family have traditional favorites they always get at Christmastime. "I love to bake," Moore says. "I have a lot of favorite recipes, and people have favorites they always ask for."

Her daughter, Glenda, asks for a coconut pecan cake that is made with sweetened condensed milk, and son-in-law Dean gets one of Donna's special fruitcakes that has "just enough butter to hold all the fruit and nuts together."

Donna began working at Bandera's Country Shopper almost 15 years ago, and now that she is bakery and deli manager at Super S, she spends a lot of her time making the sweets and "goodies" that are sold there. "There are so many specialties," she says. "I love to make doughnuts, and we make bread pudding from scratch."

Another favorite, green addition, are the gourmet cinnamon rolls. "Virginia is beautiful, but it's too cold," Donna says. "I came from a town in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The summers are beautiful there. It's a beautiful place."

On June 8, 1953, in Bandera, she married Wayne Moore. Wayne worked at Baker's Humblestation, and Donna worked at the Duse Dine Ranch for the next 17 years.

"I did a little of everything then," Donna says. "Cooking, cleaning, registering guests."

Donna's Blue Ridge Broccoli Casserole is a favorite. "The vanilla wafer cake is very good," says Donna. "I don't remember when the recipe came from. The broccoli-casserole recipe comes from Virginia."

Vanilla Wafer Cake
Mix and bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 or 2 hours in greased and floured stem pan or bundt pan. (Donna says be sure to grease the pan well, because this cake is so rich it might stick otherwise!)

Donna's Blue Ridge Broccoli Casserole
1 pkg. chopped broccoli (frozen)
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/2 c. mayonnaise
1 egg (beaten)
1 small onion (chopped)
1/2 c. grated cheddar cheese
1/2 c. 1% Pepperidge Farm herb seasoned stuffing
Several pats of butter or margarine

Place broccoli in boiling water and bring to a boil. Drain and place broccoli in bottom of casserole dish.
Mix together cream of mushroom soup, mayonnaise, egg and onion. Pour over broccoli.
Add grated cheese, then top with stuffing and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Samantha Jo Pina of Medina registers her displeasure after receiving an injection from registered nurse Judy Esparza of the Texas Department of Health. Samantha was among only 37 children immunized at the clinic held Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Clinic draws 37 participants

Only three Bandera County children were immunized with the new Hib vaccine, according to nurse Betty Staples, but some 37 youths ranging in age from 2 months to "in their 20s" came to the Department of Health Immunization Clinic Wednesday, Dec. 16, in Bandera.

The Hib vaccine immunizes against a specific influenza virus that causes meningitis, among other complications. Staples indicated the development of the vaccine was "significant."

"I'm surprised more preschool age children didn't get the newly available Hib vaccine," said the nurse. "We got information to local daycare centers, but the kids just weren't there."

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
Christmas is one of the busiest and happiest times of the year for millions of Christians throughout the world. Gifts are exchanged and Christmas cards exchanged, expressing sentiments of joy, goodwill, health and happiness. A typical card may carry this message: "Love was born at Christmas. We wish you love and joy at this beautiful season." The custom of exchanging Christmas gifts began when the wise men brought gifts to the infant Jesus. The story of the birth of Christ is the heart of the Christmas story. The birth of Christ is the heart of the Christmas story. The birth of Christ is the heart of the Christmas story.

Pain is a WARNING SIGNAL
If you're suffering from PAIN visit us for a free spinal examination.*
1. Headaches, neck aches, dizziness, tension, face pain.
2. Neck pain, stiffness, numbness, tingling, arm pain.
3. Muscular pain of upper back, shoulder, arm, or leg.
4. Difficulty in breathing, bronchitis, asthma.
5. Stomach and liver disorders.
6. Shingles, distal numbness of upper limbs.
7. Skin disorders, mid-backache.
8. Lumbago, low back pain, hip pain.
9. Sciatica, constipation, urinary, menstrual problems.
10. Colon disorders, leg pain.

If you have any of these symptoms, consider that the cause could be a pinched or irritated nerve. A simple, painless spine and nerve test can help reveal whether your problem is nerve related.
Why FREE? To make it easy for you to find out, without obligation, if your problem might be helped by chiropractic care.
Free examination includes case history, consultation with the doctor, and free contour analysis posture. Not include any x-rays, treatment, laboratory tests and orthopedic/neurological tests. If indicated, these are normally covered by most insurance policies.
*The patient and any other person responsible for payment has a right to refuse to pay, cancel payment, or be reimbursed for payment for any other service, examination, or treatment which is performed as a result of and within 72 hours of responding to the advertisement for the free service, examination, or treatment.

County to purchase data processing system

Bandera County commissioners are studying bids for a computer system to be purchased for $51,900 from three firms for data processing equipment and software for county offices.

The system will include a central computer with 200 megabytes of disk capacity and 12 video terminals dispersed in the various county offices.

It will give the county the capability of operating in accordance with the "Standard Financial Management System for Texas Counties." The standard system that interfaces with the state system.

Commissioners opened bids from three firms Monday, Dec. 8, but found that one of the bidders used a different configuration and a different brand of computer that he said could do the job for considerably less money.

Commissioners decided to take time for the low bidder to demonstrate to county officials that his system could do just as good a job as the other, more costly systems.

Low bidder was Hill County Software and Support of Comfort, which said it could install a comparable system for $51,850, including hardware, software, operator training and "fully hooked up and ready to go."

Life and the New Year

January 1: New Year dawning; old year past. All sorts of words bounce around as old gates clang shut and new ones spring open: freshness, newness, suns rising and new moons.

But the big word that surfaces on this day that stands between "endings" and "beginnings" is life.

LIFE: a gift provided by God, produced by parents love, and programmed as a trust to you.

LIFE: set in motion by tender emotions, sustained by loving motives, and granted freely for enjoyment and fulfillment.

YOUR LIFE: it reaches back into history, touching forebears of generations past, carrying legacies passed on to you by persons never seen, bequeathing qualities never before known until expressed in your life and love.

YOUR LIFE: special, unique, one-of-a-kind, saturated with wonder, throbbing with dreams, lifted by visions. And it's all yours; it is you.

Happy New Year. And Happy Life.

Sage in bloom

Bandera
Nybargs enjoy
corral's fellowship

Happy and content with the "bluebird of happiness" sitting on their shoulders, Jerry and Bertha Nyberg find the congeniality and warmth of the Silver Sage Corral make it a pleasant place to meet local people.

Jerry, a Swede born in Illinois, remembers the rigors of the Depression. His family worked farm shares and he recalls the misery of shocking oats in the hot weather and his mother washing his one pair of jeans every day.

He attended school through his sophomore year, then joined the U.S. Air Force, working as a mechanic on B-17s.

He married Melinda in 1942 and they had three children. He was a fire truck mechanic before working for the Cat Manufacturing Company for 23 years.

He moved to Iowa in 1960 and worked for McLoughlin Body Company until his retirement in 1982. In 1983, Melinda died and Jerry migrated to Texas during the winter months.

Iowa born Bertha recalls one of her happiest childhood memories was going in town to grandma's house. She attended grade school in Cedar Rapids. In 1933, she married Thomas Greene, a Norwegian painter. They had two children.

She was employed by Collins Radio and when Thomas died in 1968, she managed to support herself and put two children through college. "A highpoint, when my children were still at home, was having a foreign exchange student from Austria," she said.

Bertha also winter-vacationed in Texas. While in Bandera in 1966, Emma Peterson, a mutual friend, invited Bertha and Jerry to dinner.

As the conversation went and they compared notes about Iowa, they discovered that they had been living just seven miles apart for several years.

Their friendship flowered. Cupid shot his dart, and they were married in August 1987 in Louden, Ia.

Jerry discovered the Silver Sage Corral in 1986 when Glenn Wehmeyer, the center's coordinator, rescued Jerry's dog, Penny, who was wandering lost on the highway.

He liked what he saw at the center and he and Bertha started going and enjoying the fellowship.

Bertha believes, "live each day to the fullest as it comes" and Jerry thinks, "treat others as you would like to be treated."

Corral to open Christmas Day

The Silver Sage Corral will be open Christmas day for a covered-dish luncheon and afternoon activities.

Those persons volunteering their time or items for the Meals-on-Wheels delivery that day are reminded to be at the Center at 10 a.m. so that delivery may be completed by noon. Those persons attending the luncheon at the Center or bringing items for the seniors are asked to wait until about 11:45 before coming in. This is to cut down on congestion in the kitchen, and to help both programs run more efficiently.

Thanks to all of you who have contributed so much to these two efforts.

Linden and Stella Wheeler help Jane Dry select food for the elderly boxes before the Elf Karen Spirits of Christmas Presents delivery.

Katherine Thompson and Ruth Meador have volunteered as Bandera County liaison to the steering committee working towards the Texas Silver Haired Legislature elections in May, 1988.

The Texas SHL was created in 1985 by Gov. Mark White to provide senior Texans with a representative body accessible on a local level as well as to our state's law makers.

The 110 local representatives concern themselves solely with present and future needs of the 60 plus population of the state. Last session, the Silver Haired Legislature proposed several pieces of direct impact legislation to the Texas Senate and House, four of which have since become amended items to the state constitution.

Any person, age 60 by Jan. 1 and a registered voter of Texas, may file for candidacy to the SHL, regardless of political affiliation.

In their job as representatives to the steering committee, Katherine and Ruth will be disseminating information, preparing news releases, and working to inform our local seniors about the Silver Haired Legislature.

They will be available to other senior groups in our area to speak and provide literature explaining the history, role, and goals of the SHL. If you would be interested in learning more, contact the Silver Sage Corral at 796-4969 and we will help set an appointment for your organization.

Due to the holidays, several of our classes are on break with participants and instructors may be free to celebrate the season. Spanish classes are on break until Jan. 7. Sages until Dec. 30, and Art class until further notice.

It may be wise for you to call the Center in advance to find out if particular classes are going to be in session.

Breath club formed

A Better Breathing Club has been organized for the Kerrville area for persons with breathing problems or pulmonary disease. It will meet the third Sunday of every month beginning Jan. 17 at 3 p.m. at the Y.O. Ranch Hill.

99-year-old remembers World Fair of 1904

By Janne Sandidge
Staff Writer

French Glascock was born 99 years ago in Paris, Mo., and he says at age 16, his adventure by train to the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis was "quite an adventure for a country boy."

"I had never been out of the county I was living in," says Glascock. "We rode the train to St. Louis. There were 136 of us, and we camped in tents 15 miles out of St. Louis."

We slept on cots that cost 25 cents per night, and we took our meals on the fair grounds. All the nations of the world were represented."

He recalled the Philippine Islands were represented with grass huts on the banks of the Mississippi River.

Glascock moved to Oklahoma before it was a state. In 1907, when Oklahoma joined the nation, he remembers just where he was when he heard the news.

"I had a team of mules and a wagon on some scales at a weigh station with a load of hay when the news came through," he reminisces. The weighmaster went outside the door and fired some shots from his gun, causing the mules to run away, and the wagon to overturn.

In 1910, French married Callie, whom he called the "prettiest girl in Welch, Okla." He says he was first attracted to his handsome horse and buggy. They courted at church socials, box suppers and hayrides.

After they married, four children, Robert, June, Hazel and Vernon, came.

Glascock remembers the presidential elections between William McKinley and William Jennings Bryan. His grandfather, French T. Glascock, served in the U.S. Congress.

He is a freemason and joined the organization some 66 years ago in New castle, Wyo. He moved his family to south Texas during the Great Depression, and worked as a carpenter and building contractor.

French and Callie Glascock moved to Purple Hills Manor in Bandera in 1966, where they were closer to daughter June and her husband Rex Oberg, who live at Camp Bandera.

Callie died in May of 1986.

Though legally blind, Glascock still enjoys watching football games on television, and sometimes listens to baseball on the radio. He walks nearly a mile "most every day," and usually goes to the OST for coffee in the morning with son-in-law Rex.

He says he has seen much change during his lifetime, spanning from horse and buggy days to an era of space travel.

GOOD NEWS

Evans draws praise from SA ag students

Jeanne Evans of Bandera, past president of the Texas Cattlewomen's Association, has been credited with inspiring and promoting the agriculture science program at James Madison High School in San Antonio.

The team and the script it produced for a statewide leadership contest was adjudged first in the state. "Without Jeanne, we would probably still be fumbling with our direction," said the school's most processing teacher, John Mack.

"We were struggling with different ideas on a script for the FFA (Future Farmers of America) contest," Mack explained.

Using information presented at the seminar, Mack's students were able to write the script on the weaknesses and strengths of the beef industry, the teacher explained.

"Not only were we supplied with literature and actual nationally known speakers, but also the support and encouragement of the entire cattlewomen's association," Mack said.

The team and its script placed second in the Alamo District, first in Area VII, and first in the state competition.

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

The tables at the Tarpley Baptist Church were decorated with the Christmas motif Sunday and food was served to 22 guests.

Visitors included Jeff and Donna Jekell and their daughter, Amanda, of Ft. Worth and Linda Karr.

Linda graduated Dec. 18 from Texas A & I University in Kingsville.

They were all visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Karr. Other visitors at Church were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Dean and children, Jacob and Rachel of Spring Valley, Ohio.

LaRue Harp has a birthday Dec. 18, and Donna and Jeff Jekell observed their wedding anniversary, so all three were honored by singing anniversary greetings.

Showers of rain fell most of last week in the Tarpley area, bringing over two inches of slow rain.

Saturday and Sunday we enjoyed sunshine, and more rain on Monday. Everyone is happy for the much needed rain but we are hoping for good weather for the holidays.

Auxiliary members seek 14 new recruits

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 157 in Bandera are seeking 14 new members to meet the quota set by the district headquarters.

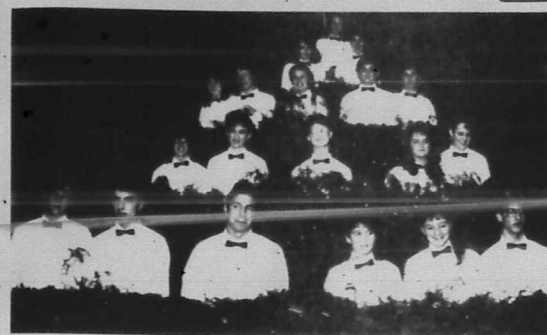

Members must be the wife, daughter, sister or other close relative of a member of the U.S. Armed Services who served during wartime periods and are eligible for membership in the American Legion.

The Bandera auxiliary chapter now has 32 members and are currently engaged in a drive to bring their membership to 46 members by Jan. 31, Holland says.

She said auxiliary membership offers the opportunity to perform services for veterans. The local auxiliary, for example, serves cake, coffee and punch on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at the U.S. Veterans Hospital in Kerrville.

Dues are just $9 per year and local members are among the nearly 1 million women who are auxiliary members.

They are members of some 14,000 organized units. Each state and territory has its department organization which gives direction and coordination to the activities of the local units. Holland said.

Students plan children's story

Fine Arts students from all three Bandera schools will present the "Velvetene Rabbit," a musical production, based on a book by Margery Williams, on Jan. 23 in the high school auditorium.

"Velvetene Rabbit" is a children's story about a toy rabbit who wants to become real and the presentation will spotlight the fine arts departments from Alkek Elementary, Bandera Junior High, and Bandera High School.

Mrs. Barbara Opperman will coordinate the musical production, assisted by Ms. Carla Lukaski from the elementary school.

Mrs. Barbara Opperman will coordinate the musical production, assisted by Ms. Carla Lukaski from the elementary school.

This is the first time all three schools have tried to coordinate a program of this magnitude.

Bandera Bank President Ken Finley presents seven-year-old Jessica Keegan a wagon full of Christmas presents Friday, Dec. 18. The smiling lass won $100 worth of gifts in a drawing sponsored by the bank.

Farmers Market to close

The Saturday Farmers Market will close for the season and will re-open in the spring of 1988.
"Thanks to all those who were faithful in supporting us—those who came each Saturday, loyal and eager to buy," says Carol Adams, spokeswoman.
The market expects to re-open in May.

Live Country Music show to air in SA

A new live country and country music variety show, called "Country Jubilee," and home-based in San Antonio, will feature well-known recording stars in the country music field.
First show is Jan. 9.
Country Jubilee will be presented live and on-stage at the Scottish Rite Auditorium in downtown San Antonio, three blocks from the Alamo and the Riverwalk.
Odey Crabtree, Country Jubilee president, said the show is a long-time dream and he was Drunk driving fatalities down 5 percent

Drunk driver fatalities in Texas are decreasing.
Findings of a study made for the highway department based on post-mortem examinations indicate the percentage of intoxicated drivers fatally injured in traffic accidents dropped from 51 percent in 1983 to 46 percent in 1986.

Mitzi and Keith Witt and their children Mason and Morica enjoy a brief moment of winter time fun rarely enjoyed in the Hill Country. Keith brought the raw material for the snowman from Amarillo during a business trip last week.

The Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University studied medical examiners' blood-alcohol concentration tests from 2,300 driver fatalities during the 1983-1986 period.
The figures were released in conjunction with National Drunk and Drugged Drivers Awareness Week, Dec. 13-19.
While driving while intoxicated fatalities in Texas decreased, they still were above the national average. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates fatally injured drivers who were legally intoxicated nationwide declined from 42 percent in 1983 to 39 percent in 1986.
Other findings suggest many fatally injured drivers were not just social drinkers. The average blood-alcohol concentration of drivers killed in 1986 who were above the 0.10 legal intoxication limit was over twice that limit at 0.209.
Legally intoxicated driver fatalities were highest among males and drivers in their 20s. A high proportion resulted from single vehicle accidents and accidents occurring late at night and early in the morning.
The study found that the level of intoxication among drunk driver fatalities did not vary significantly by either the age or the sex of the victim. For example, male and female had almost identical blood alcohol concentrations.
Although drivers 18 years old and younger were below the legal drinking age in Texas during the entire study period, roughly 20 percent of the driver fatalities in that age group proved to be legally intoxicated.

Drivers in the 19-20 age group were below the minimum drinking age in one year of the study, 1986. The percentage of intoxicated driver fatalities in that age group dropped from 55 percent in 1985 to 44 percent in 1986. While the decrease is noteworthy, Nancy Hatfield, the principal researcher in the study, said it appears that legal restrictions on the purchase and consumption of alcohol are not sufficient to eliminate drinking and driving among many young people.
Motorcycle operators were included for the first time in 1986, with results similar to those observed for motor vehicle operators. The average blood alcohol concentration level for DWI motorcyclists, however, was lower, at 0.189, that for car and truck drivers, 0.209.
Hatfield noted a marked improvement in reporting alcohol involvement in traffic accident reports. In the first three years of the study, reports on less than 30 percent of the accidents involving legally intoxicated drivers had alcohol cited as a contributing factor. In 1986 the proportion was 48 percent.
Hatfield said this trend is encouraging, but the under-reporting of alcohol involvement in accident reports remains a problem.
The study stressed the need for complete blood alcohol concentration testing and reporting for all driver fatalities.

Bandera County total burglaries down, thefts up, so far in 1987

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

Although burglaries were down through Nov. 1987 for the second year in a row, thefts were up slightly, deputy James MacMillan said.

In comparing reported offenses in Bandera County in 1987, 1986, and through November 1987, we found the actual number of burglaries has decreased each year since 1985, he said.

"This decline is probably attributable to the formation of Neighborhood Crime Watch programs, which have been implemented in several communities in the county," the deputy said.

Burglaries reported in 1985 were at an all time high in the county with 162, in 1986 the total dropped to 124, and through November of this year there were 102 burglaries reported. "Our projected total for the year through December is 111," MacMillan said.

Although thefts reported total 76 through November, with a projected total of 84 for the year, the total is higher than the 60 reported in 1986, but is considerably lower than the 97 reported in 1985, MacMillan said.

"Another interesting thing we found in making our comparison is the total value of property stolen has continued to drop each year since 1983. Through November, stolen property was valued at $217,908 compared to a total of $246,306 in 1986, and the all time high of $321,348 reported in 1985," he said.

In making the comparison, chief deputy Ken Mingo and MacMillan discovered the stolen property recovered in 1987 through November totaled $31,386 compared to $31,812 in recovered valuables in 1986, and $45,454 recovered in 1985.

"In comparing Bandera County with other counties statewide our clearance rate on burglary offenses is 13.7 percent, just 3 percent below the state average of 14 percent. Statewide, 19 percent of thefts are cleared, compared to 12.3 percent in Bandera county. According to the State Crime Statistics published annually, the statewide rate for clearing motor vehicle thefts is only 16 percent and here we have a 40 percent clearance rate," MacMillan said.

Although the city of Bandera does not report monthly to the State Crime Statistics reporting division in Austin, Bandera police chief Walter Welch says Bandera had only three burglaries reported this year and all three of them were cleared and the stolen property returned to the owners.

"We still have one burglary open from 1986 on our records," the chief said. "Our crime statistics are reported with the sheriff department's. We're too small to report them separately."

"On assaults in the county, we've averaged 100 percent in arrests compared to 61 percent statewide," MacMillan said.

There were three armed robberies reported in the county in 1987 and suspects were arrested, prosecuted, and convicted in all three cases, the deputy reported.

In 1986, only one armed robbery was reported. "A lone gunman robbed the Lone Star Ice House in Lakelands and fled in the store clerk's car, forcing her to accompany him. He later released her in San Antonio unharmed. The suspect has been indicted in that case but still continues to elude arrest," MacMillan said.

The murder of Randy Sherwood was the only murder reported in the county in 1987. That investigation led to the arrest and indictment of one man on a capital murder charge and two men and one woman on murder charges," he said.

"There was only one murder reported in 1986. Victor Medley of Lakelands was found beaten to death in his car. That case is still under investigation, but no arrest has been made, yet," MacMillan said.

"There were two rapes (sexual assaults) reported in 1987, one in the county and one in the city of Bandera," MacMillan said.

"The suspect in the city case has been arrested and indicted and the county's case is still under investigation."

"Bandera County is doing pretty good, compared to other counties in the state where there is an overall increase in crime," he said.

Based on the latest figures from the State Crime Reporting Division, burglaries have increased 21.3 percent, murders are up 6.2 percent, rapes are up 7.3 percent, robberies up 28.3 percent, aggravated assaults up 23.3 percent, and thefts are up 11.6 percent.

MacMillan attributed the increase in theft reports to more minor thefts being reported. He explained the value of the stolen property is lower although the number of thefts has increased.

"This is because many minor thefts, which went unreported previously are being reported now, such as shoplifting incidents, and people driving away from gasoline pumps without paying," he said.

Hill Country peace officers name slate for 1988

Among the new officers taking the helm of the Hill Country Peace Officers Association in January will be Bandera County jail administrator James MacMillan, who was elected second vice president of the association.

Other officers elected to head the association, which is one of the oldest law enforcement organizations in the state, are president-elect Lee D. Spain Jr., sheriff of Kendall County; first vice president Tommy Hall, with the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission in Kerrville; third vice president Walt Myers, Bourne, chief of police; sergeant at arms Edward Thompson, jailer in Gillespie County; and secretary Jim Wendel, chief deputy in Gillespie County.

The new officers were introduced to the association's members at the annual Christmas party on Dec. 11 at the Notre Dame Reception Hall in Kerrville, by president Joe Davis of the Texas Rangers.

"After dining on tamales, members and guests enjoyed an evening of entertainment donated by Frenchie Burke."

"The association provides an opportunity for officers from different agencies to meet and exchange information, provide education and training, keep abreast of new and proposed legislation, and provide fundraising and support to officers injured or killed in the line of duty," MacMillan said.

Membership is open to all law enforcement personnel or any individual interested in assisting their local law enforcement agency, the deputy said.

EMT Training to begin Jan. 25

Bandera County's latest emergency medical technician training class will begin Monday, Jan. 25 at Medina High School. The classes will be three nights a week, and will continue through the end of March, according to spokesman Dennis Winright.

"Membership is at a critical point right now," said Winright. He urges that "anyone eligible" be interested in becoming a state certified, qualified EMT attend the training.

For more information, you may call Winright at 589-2836.

A view from the hill

By Tom Denyer

Granted that there is much organized criminal activity, but no single all-powerful criminal organization. Granted that, for more than a century, the American love of gambling on sporting events has helped keep organized criminals in business.

What does that have to do with legal horse race gambling, especially in Texas and Bandera?

There are several, possible connections. You will often hear it said, even though no one can approve it, that organized crime cannot be kept out of horse race gambling. Organized legal gambling encourages organized illegal gambling. At the very least, legalized gambling makes a statement, that society does not disapprove of gambling.

The large cash flows generated by betting are always a temptation for corruption. Fixing races by drugging the favorite can be most controlled, but the attempts can never be stopped, and some will be successful.

The legalization of gambling in America began in Nevada in 1931, picked up speed with New Hampshire's lottery in 1963, and really took off with Atlantic City's casinos in 1976.

As was the case in Texas this Fall, the arguments are usually that gambling is a revenue source the public wants to provide, and state control keeps organized crime out of the gambling business. The facts after legalization, however, have usually turned out differently.

A state's gambling take is usually about as predicted the first few years after legalization. Then, as the novelty wears off, the revenue slows down. So the state begins to encourage gambling by relaxing controls, advertising, permitting off-track betting, and increasing the number of tracks and races.

Eventually, lotteries and casinos get on the ballot.

In the meantime, the huge sums and profit involved mean that those with investments in racing and gambling have understandable reasons for keeping taxation and regulation to a minimum.

They also have the financial ability to buy influence with those making the decisions on taxation and regulation.

But is that not a small price to pay for all the financial and recreational benefits brought by gambling to an area?

George Sternlieb and James W. Hughes, in "The Atlantic City Gamble," report that the city's nine casinos are roughly one hundred times more profitable per square foot than a shopping center. The casinos have provided 30,000 jobs.

Yet the total number of unemployed in Atlantic City has not substantially decreased, nor has the number of people on welfare. The housing supply has declined and housing costs have soared.

The New Jersey state government gets more than $100 million a year from the casinos, but local government revenues have been more than offset by the costs of increased municipal services, especially public safety.

The large visiting population has had ripple effects, like prostitution. Yet the millions of visitors have done nothing to revitalize Atlantic City's declining tourist industry outside the casinos.

Yoters in Texas and Bandera went for gambling presumably because they love horses, hate taxes, and believe that we can have gambling without the unpleasant side effects.

Let's hope they did the right thing.

"Dear editor:

As some of you may know, I am no longer receptionist at the Frontier Times Museum. Oct. 9, 1987, I was notified that I was no longer the president of the board could have my position. I was never given a reason for my dismissal. Back in the 60s I worked in the museum when Mrs. Batts went on vacation, and later I filled in for John Saul when he took time off or was ill. In Feb. 1985, Mrs. Saul asked me to take the job permanently, as Johnny wanted to retire. I did so, and am happy to say that I enjoyed the work very much.

Where else would I have met Stone Phillips of ABC News, who called later from New York, to verify a quotation on one of the exhibits. I would never have met "Tumbledown Smith" who put the museum on radio, thus having people from Laredo to Austin call in to inquire about KENS-TV's Randy Beamer had Bandera and Frontier Times on the "Early Morning Sunrise" program.

At all times, I tried to promote Bandera and the museum in a very positive way. In many respects, the museum is like a chamber of commerce, and represents Bandera County.

Last September, numerous students from various colleges called for interviews because they were writing papers on small town museums. A boy from A&M was so impressed, he promptly sent his money for a copy of "100 Years in Bandera." A letter was forwarded to me recently from a student at Southwest Texas State University thanking me for all the help I had given him.

I lost track of the number of people who came through wanting information on a family history. Guests from all over the world browsed around and said Frontier Times was the most interesting and unique museum they had ever visited.

Due to my efforts, the Totem Pole that stood in front of the museum for about 40 years, is being repaired by a retired wood carver in Mico. It should be finished sometime in 1988.

There are only a few of the things that happened while I was working in the museum.

Perhaps most of you forget, or don't know, that the Frontier Times Museum belongs to you, the citizens of Bandera County, and it is your duty to be interested in whatever goes on. Attend the meetings, and voice your opinion on things pertinent to the museum.

I would like to thank all those who stood by me during the time of my dismissal. I found out who my real friends are.

A view from the lake

By Lila MacMillan

Saturday, people in the Medina Lake area and surrounding communities were shocked to learn of the sudden death of Clinton Oehler. Better known as Clint, the fire chief, the EMT, and the photographer.

The heart attack that took Clint was so sudden and swift there wasn't anytime for goodbyes.

But, many of us will think of Clint every time we pass the main firehouse in Lakehills, the firehouse in Pebble Beach, and the site for the new firehouse that caused a soft glow in his eyes when he talked about it being built.

Clint was fire chief for the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department for the largest portion of the last two decades. He was almost always one of the first on the scene and one of the last to leave when the alarm sounded in Lakehills. He was dedicated to the department, whether it was through raising funds, training the men, participating in the business meetings, or fighting fires.

His dedication to the Lakehills community didn't stop with the fire trucks, it was just as strong with the Lakehills EMS unit. He and his wife Nancy were among the first EMTs to serve the lake area. He put many hours into the effort to get Lakehills its own EMS barn and training room, and to upgrade the ambulances.

His tireless efforts have left their mark in Lakehills and throughout Bandera County. Clint was also a very dedicated photographer. Many will remember him every time they go through their family albums. Yes, it was Clint that took the children's wedding pictures, the parents' anniversary pictures, the family pictures given as gifts on special occasions, and even the aerial shots of the home, ranch, lake, and Medina Dam.

Clint's leadership in Lakehills didn't stop with the fire department and EMS. He supported everything in Lakehills. He was very active in the Lakehills United Methodist Church and always supported the Medina Lake Bottomless Association and the American Legion in their activities.

Perhaps one of the nicest tributes to Clint's leadership occurred last week. While discussing the possibility of a movement to incorporate Lakehills, Clint's name came up twice as a possible mayor if a city was organized.

Clint knew how to have a good time, whether it was attending a dance at the Civic Center, taking pictures at the County Fair, driving the fire truck in the 4th of July Parade of Lakehills, or relaxing in his boat on Medina Lake with his family and friends.

Clint may be gone, but he certainly won't be forgotten. Our heartfelt sympathy goes to his wife, children, step-children, and grandchildren.

Finally, any enterprise which clearly shows evidence of the ability to bring in large sums of money, either legitimately, or illegitimately, is subject to becoming the target of criminal activity groups.

State Capitol Highlights

By Lyndell Williams

State Capitol halls were quiet during the Christmas holidays, but Texas campaign trails were dusty and crowded as presidential aspirants continued to pay lots of attention to the Lone Star voters.

With a little over two months remaining before the March election, Texas politicians are almost giddy from the early and ardent wooing.

When Texas leaders gave the nod to joining the new Super Tuesday primary over a year ago, their strategy was to lure candidates to Texas early, to pay attention to us early.

To give us clout early?

In 1984 and earlier, New Hampshire was the darling of the candidates, never mind that it isn't much bigger than some West Texas counties. It still got all the early hugs and kisses because whoever came out of its early primary the winner was dubbed the frontrunner and got millions of dollars in free press.

Super Tuesday working

It set the pace for candidates and some seemingly good candidates never really made it past the first curve. Remember Ohio Sen. John Glenn, the former astronaut whose Texas NASA ties were an edge?

Texas never got a chance to vote for or against him, because his campaign chest couldn't hold on for our late primary.

But the strategy behind the Super Tuesday seems to be working even better than expected. Now Texas voters, along with most of the South and a few Yankee states, are the ones which will help dub the frontrunner.

It's not important, then, why has Sen. Albert Gore virtually withdrawn his campaign effort in Iowa to concentrate on Texas and the rest of the South? He and the others are here every week, because a new circuit demands a new plan.

New trial date granted in Sherwood case

By Lila MacMillan
Staff Writer

Continuances were granted Wednesday for the four suspects in the Randy Sherwood murder during a pre-trial hearing by 26th District Court Judge Robert Bob Barton.

James Michael Clark, ex brother-in-law of the murder victim, was the only one of the four suspects indicted by the Bandera County Grand Jury in November present in the Bandera District courtroom Wednesday. He has remained in the Bandera County Jail since his arrest on capital murder charges on Oct. 6 in lieu of a $250,000 bond.

Clark's sister, 24-year-old Shannon Sherwood, 32-year-old Robert Coulson, and Lee Corriher all three were released from jail in October and November on reduced bonds on murder charges.

The capital murder charge against 21-year-old Clark stems from his allegedly accepting payment from his sister for his part in the execution style slaying of his ex brother-in-law on July 11, Randy Sherwood, was indicted by his co-workers in his fashionable lakefront home in Lakehills with his throat slashed twice and two bullet holes in his head.

According to earlier statements from sheriff Guy Pickett the motive for the brutal killing was a disagreement between the Sherwoods over visitation rights for Randy to see their young son.

Judge Barton also gave permission to Clark's attorney Roy Barrera Jr. to withdraw from the case and appointed attorney Bill Palmer of Boerne to represent Clark.

Officers arrest three persons for paraphernalia possession

One woman and two men were arrested last week for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges in unrelated incidents, according to police reports.

Michael Scott, 67, of Bandera was arrested Dec. 20 for public intoxication and when city officers checked her car they discovered a small amount of marijuana and paraphernalia in her possession. Bandera police chief Walter Welch reported.

Clarence Rutledge of Pipe Creek returned home from work on Tuesday and discovered his residence had been burglarized. Televisions, a videotape player, jewelry, a rifle, and tools valued at almost $1600 were stolen.

The weekend residence of Ruby Paul Joyce in Lakehills was reported broken into on Sunday. A compact disc player and assorted fishing tackle valued at $325 was taken, the deputy said.

L.C. Kelley announces candidacy

L.C. Kelley of Pipe Creek has announced his candidacy for county commissioner in precinct one. He has owned property in Bandera for nine years, and currently lives in Castle Lake subdivision near Pipe Creek, where he and his wife Barbara own and operate Kelley's Shamrock restaurant and lounge.

L.C. and Barbara Kelley have been married for 26 years, and have two sons, Mike, a graduate of SUTSU, with a degree in criminology, currently works as a policeman for the Carrollton police department. Mark recently got off active duty with the U.S. Army, and is with the Texas National Guard.

Kelley is a 49-year-old retiree from the U.S. Air Force, where he was in charge of base training programs, and served as special agent for the Office of Special Investigations, investigating all criminal matters.

He further served on the presidential protection teams of presidents Johnson and Nixon, and secretary of the Air Force Seminars. Upon his retirement, Kelley took a position as operations manager for Wackenhut Corporation's San Antonio area office, where he worked for six years. While there, he managed the security and investigation for companies including Datapoint, San Antonio International Airport, and San Antonio Museum Association.

"I want to see Bandera County start planning for the future," says Kelley. "I believe the main problem to deal with is road repair."

Extension homemakers honor four local women

A major attraction at the first annual Bandera County Extension Homemaker's Day Thursday, Dec. 17, was when four extension homemakers were honored by their clubs, reports county extension agent Janet Smithheiser.

The four women honored were Helen Ahr, Pipe Creek Extension Homemakers; Marie Holland, Bluebonnet Extension Homemakers; Jo Morganster, Bandera Extension Homemakers; and Marilyn Haner, William's Creek Extension Homemakers.

These ladies were chosen by their club members based on involvement and willingness to give, not only in their clubs, but in their personal lives. Each lady received an engraved pin, presented by Janet Smithheiser.

The quick action of the driver of this Basse Freight Line truck possibly saved the company many thousands of dollars by turning the ignition off when he discovered the truck was on fire while he was driving north of Bandera on Highway 173. Deputy sheriffs, first on the scene to assist, arrived with fire extinguishers in hand but found they weren't needed since the fire went out as soon as the driver killed the ignition. Next on the scene was Bandera volunteer firefighters who also found their equipment and tanker weren't required. The fire apparently started Friday morning when oil from a leaky line dripped on a hot manifold. Chief Deputy Ken Mingo said.

Wharton's Dock

By Mary K. Andreas — 796-8834

Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department elected Charlie High note, president. Joe Sowell, vice president. Floyd Portman, secretary. Pat Barker, treasurer for 1988, and Paul Laganier and Dr. Marion Birch, directors. 44 members were present.

The officers and fire fighters of the Lakeshore VFD want to thank all the residents of Lake Medina. Shores and Wharton's Dock area for their fire safety. The VFD was only called out 4 times in the past year," said a spokesman.

Wharton's Dock annual community children's Christmas party was held on Dec. 19 and each child received a package of goodies from a very joyful Santa.

The party this year was held at the Copper Lantern. Walker Memorial Chapel presented a Christmas program, titled "What Child Is This?" Dec. 20 with over one hundred people attending. Music director was Marion Birch, pianist was Betty Laganier, organist was Marjorie Birch, and narrator was Rev. Paul Flanders. Children's play director was Pat Coffey, and preschool song leader was Doris Flanders.

After the program, everyone moved over to the old chapel where cookies and punch were served, and Santa made a visit to pass out some goodies to the many children present.

It was a full house at Mary and T. Blakeney's Christmas Eve, with Deb Blakeney from Kansas City, Mo., Pam and Howard Thursty and their children Steve and John from Tallahassee, Fla., and Dudley and Emily Glanney and their three children from the Houston area, all present. Christmas morning they loaded up and headed for the Big Bend area of West Texas for some blue quail hunting. They were met there by Mark and Cathy Blakeney from Dallas.

Timothy Blume, grandson of Marie and Harold Bently, is visiting from Tulsa, Okla., where he is in his third year at the Tulsa Jr. College. Timothy has spent most of his life in Papua, New Guinea where his parents, Mary and Jim Blume are doing missionary work.

The Carls had as their guests for Christmas dinner their grand son, Chris Himes and his wife Beth from Pipe Creek, also Dr. Marion Birch and his wife Marjorie and her sister Marian Trout from Corpus Christi.

Lena and Bill Walker enjoyed the holiday season as their son Bill Jr. and his wife Rickie and their two children, Roxanne and Rachel from Denver spent the holidays with them. When they visit, Bill Sr. has no time for his cattle as he spends it with his grandchildren.

The Lakeshore VFD flew their American flag at half mast in honor, and memory of Clinton H. Oehler of the Medina Lake VFD who died over the weekend. Annie Theford spent an enjoyable Christmas day with her son Tommy and his family in LaCoste. The Lakeshore VFD will resume playing Bingo on Jan. 6. "Start the new year off by visiting with friends and neighbors while playing Bingo and helping the VFD at the same time," said a spokesman.

Betty and Charlie Highnote spent the holidays in Dallas with Betty's mother, Doyle Loftis and her husband Donna and her son Ronny and his wife Karen Sanders, and Betty's brother Jim Loftis and his wife Carrie.

Joyce and Buddy Reese of Alvin, their daughter Kim, and Ray Byrd were visiting Juanita Shaffer and Oscar Koehler. Dick and Deanne Newman had Christmas with their daughter in San Antonio. Their son Ronnie Newman and his family from Austin also visited.

Dell Lackey got a pass from Purple Hills Manor Nursing Home and went to see friends at Copper Lantern. Deanne Newman and Mary K. Andreas then returned her to the nursing home.

Karen Queen was taken Monday night by ambulance to Wilford Hall Medical Center in San Antonio.

Walter Burrell and his granddaughter Becky from San Antonio were here visiting the Andreas family.

Joe Baker is home and reported doing well.

Edna Mae and Jeff Brown were here from San Antonio visiting friends.

From Roseville, Calif., Ida and Harry Washburn spent a week waiting on their friends Floyd and Mary Portman. They visited with Deanne and Dick Newman.

Karr earns degree
Linda K. Karr, of Bandera, earned her bachelor's degree from Texas A&I University recently. The university conferred degrees on 292 graduates Dec. 18, including Karr. Of the degrees awarded, 207 were to bachelor's candidates and 85 to master's recipients.

Waiting period begins Jan. 1 for marriage licenses

Persons applying for a Texas marriage license will find a 72-hour waiting period effective Jan. 1. A new state law requires couples to wait 72 hours after the license is issued before they marry.

According to the new law a marriage is voidable and subject to annulment if the marriage ceremony takes place before the 72 hours has expired.

The only time a marriage ceremony may be conducted before the 72-hour waiting period has expired is if an applicant for the license is a member of the armed forces and is on active duty or obtains a court order from the district court.

The fee for a marriage license is $25, a spokeswoman in the Bandera County Clerk's office said. Anyone with questions regarding the new marriage license waiting period may question the County Clerk's office at 796-1902.

High school juniors find TEAMS test tough

Bandera High School juniors found the new state requirement to correctly answer 50 out of the 72 questions to pass on the TEAMS math a difficult assignment, because 27 percent did not master this part of the test given earlier this fall.

Last year 99 percent of the juniors passed when 39 correct answers were required to pass.

I Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
Christmas 1987 has come and gone. The Christmas trees have been taken down and all the decorations that added a sparkle of beauty to the holiday season in homes, churches, and places of business have been taken down, some stored for another year and some cast to the wind.
Batteries have run down on mechanical toys and children as well as adults will spend a lot of time now mastering the fine new points of their computers, robots, trains, etc.
Most of the Christmas candy and nuts have been eaten.
Mothers have been busy for several days cleaning the house and trying to vacuum small particles of Christmas droppings from the rug.
The holidays for many families was a joyous season, but for many, especially the unemployed family bread winner, things were bleak.
As we enter the New Year it is our prayer, our hope and wish that every family in the land will have a happier, healthier and more prosperous New Year.

County agent, 4-Hers plan Jr. Livestock Show

A large number of 4-Hers have been working towards entering the Bandera County Jr. Livestock Show to be held January 14, 15, and 16. This can be seen by the attendance at 4-H Project Meetings all fall, says Bandera County Extension Agent, Janet Smithheiser.

Following the 4-H enrollment deadline of Oct. 1, 4-Hers with animals are required to attend at least one project meeting to learn more about raising their animals," explains Smithheiser. "Care and showmanship are examples of topics covered by 4-H project leaders."

One of the major goals in a 4-H animal project is that the child has a responsibility and follows through on it while learning industry standards, selection and marketing practices. 4-H leaders working with sheep are Buddy Wells, Bub Reese, Kathy Hunt and Ken Knowles. Howard Frazier and Bob Sandage worked with those in beef projects. Barbara Maurek and Leon Skloss headed up Swine project meetings and Ernest Mayfield held the poultry meetings. The rabbit project leader is Bill Stoops and in Medina, Alan Simons had helped 4-Hers in this project.

"Others too numerous to name also give their time and effort," says Smithheiser. "As you can see, the success of our 4-H livestock projects is due greatly to adult leader support."

"Thank the adult leader that works with you 4-Hers next time you see them."

Area riders place in cutting finals

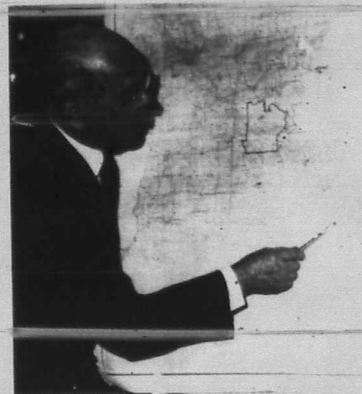

Leon Harrel teamed up with Smart Date to win the Purina National Cutting Horse Association world championship futurity in Fort Worth the weekend of Dec. 12.

Smart Date, who is owned by Waltrip Ranches of Anderson, Tex., earned $120,326 for her efforts. The win was the second for Harrel who got his first futurity victory in 1974.

Area riders placing in the money were Bill Riddle on Aglow First Rio, owned by Fares Ranch of Fredericksburg, third place, $69,141; and also on Poco Hickory Rio, also owned by the Fares, 21st place, $5,480.

In the non-pro division Anne Riddle of Fredericksburg took 12th place and $15,024 on Clark's Little Fanny and Lance Harrel of Kerrville tied for 11th on Smokin' Spook Rio to claim $12,999. Wade Rust of Rocksprings tied for 12th place and $800 in the non-pro division with less than $10,000 total winnings riding Glo Berry.

Nelson Gremillion points out a spot on a map of Louisiana during his talk on the the historical origins of families of that state and Texas. The geneologist spoke to a joint Christmas meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution at the Mayan Dude Ranch Thursday, Dec. 17.

Texas stocker calf conference called in Marlin

All aspects of the Texas stocker calf industry will be on display at the 1988 Texas Stocker Calf Conference Jan. 7 at the National Guard Armory east of Marlin on FM 147. Conference registration will begin at 1 p.m. with a $5 registration fee to cover the evening meal.

Highlighting the conference will be an 8:30 p.m. address by U.S. Congressman Charles Stenholm of Stamford, whose topic, "Government Policy - Friend or Foe?" will deal with policy development and issues influencing agricultural commodity imports and exports.

Stenholm chairs the House Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy and Poultry and organized the Congressional "Boll Weevils" a few years ago.

The afternoon portion of the conference will feature mini seminars by allied livestock industry companies, educational booths, and exhibits. The stocker industry is presently in a transitional period, according to Hale, who says it is becoming a statewide industry instead of being localized in the Central Texas region as in past years. This transition is due in part to government programs and policies which have encouraged more small grain producers to take advantage of small grains for both forage and grain. Hale points out.

The Texas Stocker Calf Conference is an educational program of the South Central Beef Herd Improvement. Cooperating with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in conducting the conference are the Falls County Beef and Forage Committee and allied livestock industries. More information on the conference is available from the Falls County Extension Office, (817) 833-2526.

Frenchie Burke

Frenchie Burke to welcome new year

"A fiddle is like a woman — treat her bad and she squeaks and squawks. Treat her with love and she'll play beautiful music!" So says Frenchie Burke who will be providing the music to dance by at the Cabaret New Year's Eve.

Burke played with Ray Price, Little Jimmy Dickens, Johnny Bush and others. While with Bush he recorded his first record, "Warm With Love In Here."

The record that put Burke on the map however was "Big Mamou," a lively version of an old Cajun waltz. Released in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma in November 1974, the record hit the charts with number one ranking. Ten weeks after its release, "Big Mamou" was picked up by Twentieth Century for national release and climbed to No. 1 on radio stations across the nation.

Burke's latest album, "The Best of Fiddlin' Frenchie Burke" was released in March 1987, featuring the single "Let's Go Get Drunk and Be Somebody."

Texas artist shows in San Antonio

Visitors to the San Antonio Art Institute will have a chance to view the paintings of Texas artist Joe Guy Jan. 4-Feb. 4. A free exhibit opening lecture reception with the artist will be Thursday, Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Guy's works are constructed by processes similar to the traditional craft of Japanese paper screen fabrication. Wet paper is stretched over skeletal grids of various designs, then over this, Guy lays pure graphite, a layer of wax, and then, with a simple stone, burnishes the surface.

For years Guy has pursued the study of Eastern philosophy and mysticism, which he says triggers his imagination and enables him to focus on his craft.

He lives in Fort Worth and is Associate Professor of Architecture in the School of Architecture and Environmental Design at the University of Texas at Arlington.

Arthur Mitchell art at CAA museum

A major exhibit of more than 25 paintings by the late Arthur Mitchell of Trinidad, Colo., opens at the Cowboy Artists of America Museum in Kerville Jan. 16, and continues through March 13. The exhibit will open with a reception and preview at the museum from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 16.

While Mitchell was not as well known to the public as some other artists of the West, he was among the most respected painters of this genre and much honored by his peers. Griffiths C. Carnes, director of the CAA Museum said.

The paintings on exhibit are on loan from the A.R. Mitchell Museum and Gallery in Trinidad. Mitchell was born near Trinidad in 1889 and died in Denver in 1977.

Pronghorn antelope transplanted

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wildlife biologists trapped 235 pronghorn antelope Dec. 8-10 on the Rocker B Ranch in Reagan and Irion Counties northeast of Big Lake.

After trapping, 100 antelope were sent to the Arizona Game and Fish Department to help that state in its pronghorn restoration efforts. In the past, Arizona has assisted Texas in obtaining broodstock for this state's bighorn sheep restoration program.

Another 40 antelope were moved and released on the Flattop Ranch in Bosque County, 40 to the Chadstone Antelope Ranch in Nolan, Runnels and Taylor Counties, and 55 to the south end of the Rocker B Ranch in a cooperative effort to expand the pronghorn range on the 172,000-acre ranch.

Of the 235 total pronghorns, 64 were adult males, 122 were adult females, 25 were male fawns, and 24 were female fawns.

For the past 15 years, the Rocker B Ranch has been the source of some 2,500 to 3,000 antelope trapped and moved to other parts of Texas. It has the state's single, largest herd of pronghorns and continues to support hunting in addition to trapping.

1987 ... One more time ...

By Nick Johnson
Editor

The year 1987 was an eventful one in Bandera County with back-to-back floods in late May and early June being the most significant news story of the year.

The floods inundated some 32 homes in the Medina Lake area and wreaked havoc with the county's roads and especially stream crossings.

Damage was sufficient to get Gov. Bill Clemente to authorize any state aid, however, but the destruction was ample to throw the county's road repair finances into chaos.

So county officials wrestled with the aftermath of the early summer floods throughout the rest of the year.

Not far behind the flood in significance were the effects in Bandera County of the current recession in Texas and the passage of part mutual wagering in November.

Some see part mutual wagering as the thing that will lead Bandera out of the economic doldrums.

Bandera Downs officials say they'll double the spectator capacity and lengthen the track and are preparing for a crowd of up to 10,000 for the first part mutual racing, which they hope will begin July.

Falling revenues from the sales tax in Bandera was evidence of the economic slowdown, and it caused the city of Bandera to search for some budget cuts to avert laying off or reducing the hours of employees.

Here is a month-by-month review of the year 1987 in Bandera County.

January:

The year began with tragedy and triumph, and abundance and generosity.

Two test car drivers were killed and a third seriously injured on Jan. 6 when their small sports car went out of control near Tarpley, throwing the men out of the vehicle.

Dead were George B. Comer, 35, of Sabinal and Scotty Dwayne Adams, 21, of Uvalde.

Citizens responded generously to the plight of two families including seven children whose home was destroyed in the last days of 1986. They received clothing, household goods, furniture and some cash, friends said.

And a San Antonio man, Alan B. Earnest, 29, beat his automobile senseless with the butt of a rifle. He was charged with reckless damage and destruction.

Purchasers paid $75,255 to youthful exhibitors at the 51st annual Bandera County Junior Livestock Show just $179 short of the record.

Tarpley, brothers Tobey and Manny Sandiego, walked away leading the grand champion and reserve champion calves, and Tobey a substitute grand champion was purchased by Bandera Ranch Store for $1,600 or $1,600 per pound.

Shanna Sall of Medina won the coveted Larry Houcht Citizenship Award of the livestock show association.

Near record payments were made to the youthful exhibitors of the 51st annual Bandera County Junior Livestock Show. These four exhibitors were all winners.

Ruth Mazurek raised and exhibited the grand champion hog at the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo in February.

Bandera County finally dug into its pockets to pay a $24,000 liability insurance premium enabling commissioners to lift a restriction against the use of Main Field Park by any group without its own insurance.

Robert R. Cook, 37, was elected to the position of Bandera Mayor after playing a game of "catch me" with friends on a rooftop near the city water tower.

March

Bandera Mayor Wilvie Smith became embroiled in controversy with some members of the city council when it was learned he purchased a used pickup truck for $8,000 without seeking competitive bids.

State law requires competitive bidding on any purchase of more than $5,000.

School board members were besieged by parents protesting disciplinary action taken against some—but not all—students involved in an incident in Mexico in which some students purchased alcoholic beverages.

Tax critic Doyle Ely of Pipe Creek was fined $15,600 in 216th District Court for drilling water wells without a license.

Bandera County commissioners increased the general homestead allowance by $2,000 and adopted a $15,000 homestead allowance for persons over 65 years of age.

The Bandera High School band was awarded its sixth-straight first division rating at the annual UIL concert contest.

Plane crash

Three members of an Ingram family died Sunday, March 15, when their plane crashed on a ranch four miles north of the Bandera Kerr counties line. Dead were Gerald and Barbara Dubois and their 12-year-old son, Christopher.

At month's end, a fire believed to be set by a burglar to cover the crime, destroyed much of the home of Eric and Dorothy Denton in Lakehills.

Lal Bit Shiny, a 3-year-old stallion trained by Hugh Tucker at Bandera Downs, finished down the 300-yard Bandera Downs track in world record time of 15.12 seconds on March 29.

"He's just one of those horses that comes along once in a lifetime," said Tucker.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;

April

An Oklahoma firm announced plans to build a small hydroelectric power plant below the dam at Medina Lake, and the Texas Water Commission announced that Bandera County was included in the area selected for the first detailed study of groundwater resources.

At year's end, Prodek, Inc. of Tulsa was still making preparations for the power-generating facility and the groundwater study was proceeding according to schedule.

County agent Scott Durham announced plans for a massive Medina River cleanup project in June, but Mother Nature washed it out. Voters in Bandera ousted councilman Ross Bailey, electing Chuck Haver to his seat on the council along with incumbents Joe Fox and Carl Adamietz. School board president Hub Keene and incumbent trustee Kate Ruede were defeated by Emmett Dalton of Bandera and Linda Edmonds of Pipe Creek.

Medina voters selected John Derry, James E. Brown and Sharon Chambliss.

The Bandera school board elected attorney Ron Jackson as its president, then accepted the resignation of long-time band director Tomie Walters.

A Lakeville Republican, Ray F. Mauer, was sworn in as the first GOP county judge in Bandera County history, and before the month had flown he proposed a one-cent sales tax and a hotel room tax.

It was found later that the county does not have the authority to impose a hotel room tax, but the sales tax was subsequently approved by voters.

Mauer also proposed $350,000 in road bonds later in the year, but voters rejected that, giving Mauer a one-for-three record in imposing new taxes.

Bandera County Sheriff Guy Pickett checks out some of the loot recovered after a man and woman were arrested for armed robbery of the Lone Star store in Pipe Creek.

Bulletin cartoonist Barry McWilliams, creator of J.P. Doodles, conducted a one-hour cartooning workshop for some 300 Bandera Junior High students in mid-month and A.B. and Elaine Small celebrated 40 years in business at month's end.

An anonymous telephone call led to the arrest of two men and the recovery of more than $1,600 in stolen merchandise and a few days later an unidentified woman helped foil an armed robbery of the Lone Star Ice and Food Store in Pipe Creek.

Rhonda Smith stepped forward a week later to acknowledge that she followed the robber as he fled and returned to the convenience store after she saw him change cars east of Pipe Creek.

Sheriff Guy V. Pickett said Smith was fully responsible for the apprehension of a man and his wife near Boerne.

Folks keep a watch as the rampaging Medina River laps at the state highway 173 bridge on May 29. Fortunately the water never reached the bridge.

May

A retired firefighter from Lake Hills was shot and killed after he kicked down the door of the lake's front home of Darrel and Heidi Stockinger on Plum Cove.

No charges were brought against Stockinger, however, in the death of Roy A. (Sonny) Baumann, 57.

The state highway department announced it did not include English Crossing Road in its latest two-year work schedule.

County commissioners had recommended that road be adopted into the state's farm-to-market road system, but the latest move means residents here will have to wait at least another two years.

The Bandera Bulletin published its first visitor's guide and publisher Nick Johnson said its acceptance by visitors and residents alike and by advertisers made him decide to publish updates semi-annually.

Bandera city council refused to grant a permit for the construction of a fire service station in the floodplain on State Highway 16 and the city said it refused to provide city services to the old Sands Hotel on Main Street until it was brought up to city health and safety standards.

Barbara Hildenbrand was crowned Miss Lakeville at the annual pageant of youth and beauty at the lake.

Lorri Robbins was valedictorian and Mark Evans was salutatorian as the class of 1987 marched through commencement exercises. Michael Greenwalt was valedictorian in Medina and Dan Reid was salutatorian.

The Parks and Wildlife Department announced that permits for antlerless deer would not be necessary during the hunting season that started in November.

The wildlife agency also put 22,000 baby smallmouth bass into Medina Lake, the first to be stocked in the lake since 1979.

Bandera city council approved a budget calling for spending $631,000 and giving employees a 5 percent across-the-board pay hike. Joe Fox and Carl Adamietz voted against the budget.

Wind and hail caused an estimated $22,000 damage in mid-month, but that was only a precursor to things to come.

On May 29, rains inundated the county, sending streams out of their banks and sending water 6.22 feet over the spillway at Medina Lake.

No injuries or loss of life were reported, but damage from the Friday rain was quickly pegged at more than $1 million.

But Ed Laundy of the state's Division of Emergency Management took a two-hour log at damage in the county and declared there was not enough destruction in the entire county to qualify for state aid.

County commissioners had counted on state aid to pay for the emergency measures they took. When the governor denied it, they found the county's road and bridge funds were exhausted.

The answer, a $350,000 bond issue. Voters tuned down that idea, however, and county funds were sent in search of belt-tightening measures.

As water receded, two persons died in unrelated accidents while enjoying recreational pursuits on the river and at the lake.

Jeffrey M. White, 28, of San Antonio, was killed when he fell from a jet ski to the path of an oncoming speedboat.

Anetta L. Garrison, 44, of Houston drowned when she fell from an inner tube while floating on the rain-swollen Medina River west of Bandera.

Neither death was officially attributed directly to the flooding.

Several persons narrowly averted drowning at city park in Bandera when they were pinned beneath the rain-swollen river by the undertow beneath the dam.

Private citizens strung warning lines and erected hand-made signs, but the near-drownings continued.

The Bandera County Chamber of Commerce told the Bandera City Council it was broke and could not continue to promote tourism in the city unless it received aid.

The council voted to spend up to $1,000 per month for six months from the city's motel bed tax to keep the boosters going.

June

As officials talked about damage from May's flooding, a second rainstorm battered the county with rains equal or surpassing May's totals.

Water levels reached new heights and homes flooded in May at Alamo Beach and Wharton's Dock were inundated again.

Stream crossings throughout the county were washed out and many families were stranded for several days. Among those marooned was Bandera Mayor Willie Smith.

Bandera County road workers went to work immediately and commissioners let emergency contracts to rebuild some crossings so that residents could reach the highways.

County Judge Ray F. Mauer pleaded with Gov. Bill Clements for state aid. "The damages are of such severity and magnitude that effective response is beyond the capability of Bandera County government and additional assistance is necessary," he said.

Heavy rains swelled Medina Lake beyond its limit. Flood waters roared more than 6 feet over the spillway and raged downstream to do more damage.

July

Tragedy in the water continued into July when a 15-year-old Boy Scout drowned in a Medina area swimming pool, a 17-year-old girl was injured while diving from a Medina Lake cliff, and a 15-month-old was pulled from Medina Lake unconscious.

Juan G. Canillo drowned at Lutherdale Camp near Medina after apparently slipping off the side of the pool, a Kerr County peace officer said.

Gov. Bill Clements re-appointed Paul L. Garrison Jr. of Medina to the board of directors of the Bandera County River Authority and appointed Jose Cantu of Pipe Creek, Kenneth Leighton of Van derpool, and Craig A. Tips of Bandera.

Officials continued to wrestle with the aftermath of the back-to-back floods of June and May.

Judge Maurer officially proposed a $350,000 road bond issue to pay for repairs to flood-ravaged roads and the Bandera city council, in the absence of Mayor Smith, banned swimming year-round within 50 feet either side of the dam at city park, where at least 15 persons narrowly escaped drowning.

The council was to reverse itself a month later, however.

Jerry T. Wilson of Bandera joined Pickett and Forest in the race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff.

A rising lake threatens houses. The Wharton's Dock area was just one of many places plagued by high water during the heavy rains in May and June.

August

Albert Love Jr., 23, a Wharton's Dock father of two was killed when his 1986 Chevrolet pickup struck a tree near English Crossing Road shortly after 6 a.m. on Aug. 11.

Only 11.3 percent of eligible voters showed up, but they adopted the one-half percent sales tax in the county by a vote of 368 to 276. It goes into effect Jan. 1.

Commissioners decided to place the county option pari-mutuel wagering issue on the Nov. 3 ballot when voters statewide decide on the issue.

Including it on the Nov. 3 ballot could mean Bandera Downs will conduct the first pari-mutuel racing in Texas, if voters OK the measure.

Veteran peace officer Ed Jennings of Pipe Creek told commissioners in August that he wanted to take a three-month leave of absence while recuperating from a hip operation, and they named controversial San Antonio broadcast personality Jud Ashmore temporary JP.

Commissioners also gave up on the county's centralized road department that had been in operation here since 1982, and new classrooms were under construction in Medina.

A cherry picker from Louisiana under contract with the Bandera Electric Cooperative was destroyed by fire in Pipe Creek, and damage was placed at nearly $100,000.

Maria Ortega of Medina placed first in the buying division of active sports and specialty wear at the state 4-H fashion show.

The Medina River ruled in June. High water over bridges kept people either in or out of their homes... at times for days.

More flooding

September

Record crowds were on hand for the Cowboy Capital professional rodeo and Bandera County Fair on Labor Day weekend when Paula Paige-Maier, 17, was crowned queen of the fair.

Police said the fun seekers were well behaved, but in an unrelated incident, a 29-year-old Bulverde hitchhiker was beaten and raped by three men in two separate automobiles.

Rodeo champion Jim Houston Evans, 19, died of injuries received in a grinding one-vehicle accident on Sunday, Sept. 13, on State Highway 16 east of Pipe Creek.

A record breaking 83 percent of the eligible voters in Bandera County expressed their wishes on the Nov. ballot and when the dust had settled, three out of four had said yes to pari-mutuel wagering. Betting on the horses may begin as early as July.

An accompaniment was injured.

The Bandera city council fired municipal judge Mike Smith after he sought treatment for alcohol and prescription drug dependency at Starlight Hospital in Comfort.

The Census Bureau said Bandera County's population reached 9,400 in 1986, up from 8,100 in the official 1980 count.

A foreign welding customer was charged with aggravated assault after he threatened employees and customers at Kelley's Shamrock Tavern in Pipe Creek.

A quick thinking employee disarmed the intruder before police arrived.

A Bandera County grand jury later indicted the operator of Kelley's, L.C. Kelley, for allegedly offering not to press charges in exchange for money.

Armando Martinez of Houston watches his Pipeline Construction Co. crew as they prepare a section of State Highway 16 to receive concrete rip-rap. The road construction is part of the continuing repair work being done to undo the damage caused by back-to-back flooding in May and June.

Pari-mutuel

County Fair

Paula Maier was selected Bandera County Fair Queen.

October

Three persons were arrested and charged with murder in connection with July 16 shooting of Randy Sherwood, and Sheriff Guy V. Pickett said more arrests may be in the offing.

Sherwood's former wife, Sharon Sherwood, 24, and her 21-year-old brother James M. Clark, were arrested in San Antonio and Robert Coalson, 22, of San Antonio was arrested in Oklahoma City and brought to Bandera.

Coalson and Sherwood were later released on bonds, but Clark remained in jail at year's end as legal proceedings began.

Six-year county extension agent Scott Durham said he has accepted a position in Comal County.

Sam Brown and Richard Young raise the colors during the Veterans' Day celebration Wednesday, Nov. 11.

December

David Latham of Boerne was named trainer of the year at Bandera Downs and Joe Quintanilla, who rode 36 winners during 1987, was crowned jockey of the year at Bandera Downs, announced 31 days of non-betting races at the track in 1988.

Record voting

Republican William Boggs of Lakehills was selected to replace Ed Jennings of Pipe Creek as justice of the peace.

The Bandera school board said it is opening a campaign for donations to construct a football stadium and track at the Alkek Elementary School campus south of Bandera.

No public money will be used for the stadium, trustees said. John Wayne Allen of Del Rio was named county agent for Bandera County.

Bandera Bank and Koehler Park won first-place awards in November

Bandera County voters approved a pari-mutuel wagering by a 3-to-1 margin and rejected the sale of road bonds to finance repairs of flood-damaged roads with 54.2 percent of voters against the measure.

Fully 83 percent of eligible voters cast ballots in the election which also considered 23 constitutional amendments.

Two long-time officials, Bandera Mayor Wilvie Smith and Pipe Creek justice E.S. (Ed) Jennings each submitted their resignations in surprise moves.

Jennings, who is suffering from terminal cancer, was in the second month of a three-month leave of absence when he decided to quit.

Smith shocked observers by calling it quits, blaming a couple of vocal council opponents.

City Secretary Tammy Kneuper also resigned, also blaming "certain council members."

Mayor pro tem Raymond Adamietz took over as mayor.

Ballot counters had barely finished their jobs when Department of Public Safety agents arrested three persons for gambling at Bandera Downs.

DPS officials denied the county passed pari-mutuel referendum played any part in their decision to make the arrests.

Throngs of hunters and hunters' camp followers jammed the streets of Bandera on the opening weekend of hunting season. Game Warden Carl Becker and Bandera merchants agreed it was a successful opening weekend.

Former Bandera Arnold Rave Strickland, 35, was shot and killed by Oklahoma police following, a high-speed chase covering 20 miles.

County commissioner Jimmy Russell of Bandera announced he would not be a candidate for reelection on March 8.

The county started renovation of the old jail building which will house the offices of the Bandera County River Authority and other county offices.

Teri Short of Bandera was named one of 10 finalists in the queen competition of the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo.

Homecoming King at Medina was Maurice Simon and queen was Letitia Huie, and former Medina student Nancy Dodson was named homecoming queen at A. Jene Christian University.

Ronnie Bain was named Mr. BHS, and Lisa Pullin, Miss BHS.

Council changes

Staff Photos by Larry T. Williams

When the state racing commission says go Bandera Downs will have a good start toward getting ready for legalized wagering.

Crowds like this one appraising an entrant are expected to increase greatly when pari-mutuel begins.

awards banquet and nominees for their Cowles "Capital Award" were Cal Chapman, Bill Minter, Burgie Grant, Ken Finley and Gerv and David Valdez.

Officials were baffled over reports on the evening of Dec. 24 of a vehicle propelled by reindeer and actually flying through the sky.

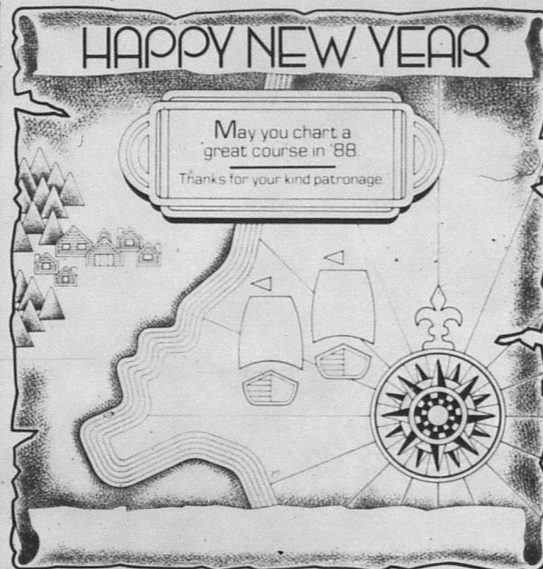

No arrests were made in the incident, but the driver was described as "rather plump and dressed in red."
