Vanderpool, Naylon students gather for reunion

By Leota Clayton Hosman

pool and Naylon students came home for a day.

They came from far and wide to be with friends and even relatives whom they had not seen for 50, 60, or even 70 years.

Some of the folks had attended school as early as 1908.

Approximately 131 persons were present and about 65 of that number were former students.

There were six teachers present, including Mae Dell Perry Cornelius, Ralph Johnson, Yuval King Clayton, A.E. Briggs and Mrs. Johnson.

Finis Hooter Clayton gave a welcome and Hovt Foster gave a short history of the Vanderpool School and related several interesting stories.

The former Sis and Skeet Palvado, Lois Moore and Sophie Merkel said they had not sung together since they graduated.

James Noel, son of one of the first teachers at Vanderpool, Miss Mattie Noel, gave a memorial prayer before the dishes of food were spread over four or five tables.

After the meal, there were several hours of visiting and renewing old friendships.

The Vanderpool Schoolhouse is still in good repair and is used for church and local meetings. The older school was located several yards west of the present one.

Classes began in 1889 and the school was closed in 1943.

The committee arranging the reunion was comprised of Hoyt Foster, Sophie Falkenberg, Lois Boyce, Addie Jane Chaney, Hooter Clayton, Adele Huses, Louise Johnson, Rena Smallwood, and Leota Hosman.

Senator's intern program to be rekindled next year

State Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, will sponsor an internship program for the 71st legislative session which starts Jan 10, and ends June 1.

"This session promises to be very interesting," says Sen. Sims. "I will be able to handle more interns this year, so I am looking forward to having even more of my constituents involved in the legislative process."

Gary C. Gilmer, attorney from Rocksprings, said, "I regret that I could only spend two days as an intern, but I enjoyed the experience very much during the time I was there."

Another intern from Sen. Sims' district was Wanda Garner Cash, the city editor at the Kerrville Daily Times. Cash commented "that watching Texas government at work up close was one of the most eye-opening experiences in my career as a reporter."

Because of limited space in the senator's office, internships are restricted to residents of the 25th Senatorial District which includes Bandera and all or part of 37 other counties.

Residents of the 25th Senatorial District who are interested in working during the legislative session may call Sharon Allen, (512) 463-0125, or write to her in care of Sen. Sim's office, P.O. Box 12068, Capitol Station, Austin, 78711.

• Many people from the Gulf Coast came to escape Hurricane Gilbert.

County plans hearing on its spending plan

The Bandera county commissioners will hold public hearings on Thursday, Sept. 29, and Oct. 7 on the county tax rate and the county budget.

Thursday a public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. on the proposed 1988-89 $2,483,931 county budget, which is an eight percent increase over last year's $2,283,380 budget.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, the commissioners will hold a hearing on the 29.25 cents per $100 of property value tax rate. Last year's rate was 29.37.

At the Oct. 7 meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., commissioners will adopt the tax rate and make final approval of the budget.

All meetings will be held in commissioners court at the county judge's office in the county courthouse.

Training offered on M-44 device

Predator control and use of the M-44 device will be the topics of an instruction and training workshop Monday, Oct. 3 by the Texas Department of Agriculture. The workshop will begin at 7 p.m. at the Bandera Electric Co-op.

The M-44 is a restricted-use predator control device, according to Bandera County Extension Agent John Allen, and the 2½ to 3-hour workshop will include instruction and training for those who wish to use the device.

"All people with M-44 certification in the past must have their certification renewed," said Allen. "All current permits will expire Oct. 31."

Other topics of the workshop will include identification of predation, lethal and non-lethal methods of control, endangered and threatened species, livestock guard animal breeds and use of the M-44 device and certification and use training.

Smithheisler to teach at John Marshall

Bandera County extension agent in home economics Janet Smithheisler will leave her position with the A&M Extension services Friday, Sept. 30, and will begin a teaching position in San Antonio.

At the Appraisal Board meeting, Friday, Sept. 23, at 9 a.m. the previous (1989) budget that had been disapproved by 4 of the 5 taxing entities was again re-submitted. I want to know why, when a budget is rejected by 4 of 5 of the elected taxing entities can they re-submit the same budget without a change and expect it to be accepted?

South Texans support teachers

South Texas residents say teachers in their communities are doing a very good job; are caring and well-informed in their subject matters; are hard working and deserve a pay raise.

These findings are the result of a public opinion poll released today in the South Texas area by the Texas State Teachers Association. The telephone poll was conducted for TSTA by The Texas Poll which is sponsored by Harte-Hanks Communications and Texas A&M University and has a margin of error of three percentage points. It was conducted between Aug. 15 and Sept. 1.

Speaking at a San Antonio news conference this week, TSTA Vice President Ollie Besteiro said the poll shows that 80 percent of the South Texas region gives the local schools a passing grade, with 50 percent giving an "A" or "B." Similarly, nearly 56 percent graded teachers as "good" to "excellent."

Besteiro said TSTA commissioned the poll out of concern for a growing teacher morale crisis throughout the state. She said a similar poll of teachers conducted last spring found that 37 percent of Texas teachers were seriously considering leaving the profession due to low pay and low morale. The poll showed teachers believed that the public held the profession in low esteem.

"This new Texas Poll proves that South Texans support their local teachers," Besteiro said. "We hope these findings will be a big boost to morale everywhere."

The poll found that 81 percent said teachers are caring; 78 percent said they are hard working; and 79 percent said teachers deserve a pay raise. When asked how the raise should be funded, 68 percent said it should come from a combination of local and state funds.

"Only 11 percent believe that salaries should be paid exclusively by the state treasury," Besteiro said. "This should serve notice to those school districts which have been cutting back on local district salary supplements."

Seventy-nine percent said that teachers should have a say in formulating educational policies in their districts while only 14 percent felt that the school administrators and school board should make those decisions exclusively. These figures closely parallel those in a national NEA Gallup Poll which found that 63 percent of the American people want to see more teacher control over the decisions that affect how students learn.

The public is evenly divided on the the question of whether teachers earn more or less than other professionals, probably due to the Texas economy. Likewise, they felt teacher stress is about par with other professions, as is teacher capability.

"Unfortunately, nearly half believe teachers get less respect than other professionals, primarily because of low pay, as pointed out in other parts of the poll," the vice president said. Fifty-seven percent believe that salaries are the main reason teachers leave the profession.

In the area of teacher training, 58 percent believe that teachers receive the same quality of education as other professions.

In the area of school reforms, 50 percent believe that the changes have improved the quality of education in Texas schools and that the reforms have made the teachers' jobs harder (66%) but feel they have had no effect on teacher pay.

"We are asking parents and taxpayers to reach out to their faculties in the local schools," Besteiro said. "Teachers very much need to know that their communities support them. — from Uvalde to Del Rio and from Kerrville to Laredo. We are all striving for the same goals and that is to build a better future for our children through quality education today."

Bandera County salute planned at Sea World

In an effort to promote tourism in Bandera and other smaller towns around San Antonio, Sea World of Texas will hold a "Salute to Bandera County" the weekend of Oct. 8-9.

Music, entertainment, and tourist information from and about Bandera County will be in the front of the main gate to Sea World Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 8-9 to highlight the unique aspects of Bandera's part of the Hill Country, says Kim Ashton of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce.

Bandera County residents who wish to come to Sea World that weekend can pick up a discount coupon at Bandera-area businesses to save $3 off the one-day admission charge. Sea World will donate $1 to the Bandera County Youth Forum for each admission purchased with the coupons, says Ginny Lipe, spokeswoman for Sea World.

"Our goal is to promote Texas, not just Sea World," says Bill Smith, vice president of marketing. "We feel that the 'Sea World Salutes' program (that will promote other small towns) will give the visitors to our park the opportunity to learn about some of the fascinating communities just a short drive from San Antonio. Also, many San Antonio residents may not know about the unique activities these communities have to offer."

Seminar planned on arthritis

A San Antonio rheumatologist will discuss how to overcome the nation's number-one crippling disease at an Arthritis Awareness Seminar on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 6:15 p.m. at The Dietert Senior Citizen Claim located at 617 Jefferson Street in Kerrville.

The event is co-sponsored by the South Central Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation and Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital. Admission is free.

Dr. Joel Rutstein, a rheumatologist from San Antonio, will discuss a general overview of arthritis, different treatments available and how you can best manage your arthritis. A rheumatologist is a physician who specializes in the treatment of all forms of arthritis.

Selena Cook elected at Southern Mississippi

Selena Cook, a 1988 graduate of Bandera High School, has been elected to the University Activities Council at the University of Southern Mississippi where she is majoring in Financial Management with a minor in Speech and Communication.

SCS director to be chosen Oct. 1

One of the five directors of the Bandera County Soil and Water Conservation Board will be elected Oct. 1 at Homer Stevens' resort, The Farm. A program of landscaping, rangeland income resources, and beef grading will also be presented.

The election for district director to represent Zone 4 of the Bandera Soil and Water Conservation District will be held following three speakers, says Billy Griffin, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

The noon meal of barbecued sausage will be served following the program and election. A $3 donation for the meal goes to fund educational activities of the Bandera SWCD, says Griffin.

The Bandera Soil and Water Conservation District, Bandera County Extension Service, and the Soil Conservation Service will present the program for the day, says Griffin. Speakers will include Homer Stevens Jr. of Medina, agriculture range specialist Larry White, and livestock specialist Tom Troxel.

Stevens will provide a tour of his recreational facilities, speaking on topics such as landscaping with native plants, xeriscaping, and drip irrigation.

White, range specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will present a program on alternatives for producing income from rangeland resources, including ideas for leasing arrangements for livestock, wildlife, and/or recreation enterprises.

Troxel, livestock specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will present a program on the new beef grading system and how it will effect both the consumer and the livestock producer.

The members will elect one person to the board of directors of the Bandera Soil and Water Conservation District #229. The member to be elected must be a qualified voter in the subdivision, own land within zone #4 and be actively engaged in the business of farming or animal husbandry.

Zone 4 covers the western most fifth of Bandera county and includes land along FM Road 187, Vanderpool, and land along FM Road 470, west of Seco Creek.

Persons eligible to vote must be at least 18 years of age, reside in the county, and hold title to farm or ranch land lying in the district.

The current director for Zone 4 is Vernon Porter and eligible for re-election. The other directors are Fred Burch, Raymond Hicks, Tony Jennings, and Evelyn Reininger. The term of office is four years.

Interested land owners should assemble at The Farm, which is located on FM Road 2828, 2.7 miles east of the junction of FM Road 2828 and Highway 16 at 10 a.m. Oct. 1.

For more information contact Griffin at 796-3334.

The Bandera Soil and Water Conservation District, like other organizations around the state is assigned the task of finding the primary soil and water conservation problems and proposes methods to solve them.

The district is a subdivision of state government, organized and chartered in June 1948. The Bandera District has the same boundaries as the county.

Texas is currently organized into 201 local soil and water conservation districts. These districts, governed by five-member boards of directors, are responsible for policies concerning conservation activities in the area they serve.

The board of directors primary function concerns agriculture, specifically the soil to grow crops and graze and water which nourishes. Once a conservation problem is found, the district then decides the best method of solving that problem.

Bandera's district, like other local districts, develops a long range program and plan of work and an annual plan of operations which guides the district in solving its conservation problems. The plan establishes needed goals, objectives, and priorities. In addition, the plan specifies which agencies or private concerns are expected to assist in carrying out the objectives. The district updates its plan as needed.

Districts operate on the principle that participation in conservation activities is voluntary. They recognize that land is the property of the owner, and management is a responsibility of ownership. Conservation districts realize that farmers and ranchers are in a business to make a profit, and that all conservation practices must be economically sound.

Lakehills Legion post to host election watch Nov. 8

The American Legion Post in Lakehills urges all candidates and voters to make plans to be at its annual Election Watch Nov. 8.

Beginning at 6 p.m., TV's will go on and tote boards will go up to track the ni[illegible] election results. Everyone who comes is asked to bring a covered dish or finger foods, says spokesman Tony Kruse.

Many times candidates don't have a public place to wait for the results and the Legion wants to give them a place they can be located, says Kruse. "We want to let all candidates know that they are welcome and can notify news media that they can be contacted at the post," he adds.

Contemporary artists in SA exhibit

"The Poetic Object," featuring the work of 10 contemporary artists specializing in assemblage, collage and construction, opens at the San Antonio Museum of Art Sept. 10 and will continue through Oct. 30.

Cookoff, dart tourney planned at Lakehills

A chili cookoff and dart tournament to benefit the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department will be held at the Muleshoe Saloon and Cafe Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

The chili cooking will be held in the large backyard behind the cafe, says Blanche Crow, one of the owners of the Muleshoe. Picnic tables will be set up for the crowds, she adds.

Ken Grimm and his band are scheduled to play between 1 and 5 p.m., says Crow. A double-blind draw dart tournament will begin at 1 p.m. The entry fee is $2.

Entry fee for chili cooks is $10. The rules are simple: cooks must prepare a minimum four pounds of meat without beans. Chili must be cooked on location.

Chili judging and an auction will be held at 4 p.m.

The Muleshoe is located on Park Road 37 just west of the Lakehills Post Office. Call 751-3151 for more information.

Sheriff's candidates to meet voters in Lakehills Saturday

An opportunity to meet the two sheriff candidates will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lakehills Civic Center.

Both candidates, Republican Marc Sultan and Democrat Steve Forest will be present at the civic center to speak and answer questions from the public, says organizer Bob Caswell. "It's a chance for people in Lakehills to meet the sheriff's candidates," he adds.

Food and drink will be available at the center located on Park Road 37.

Lakehills

By James H. Frazar — 796-3718

Margaret Talk has been in San Antonio's Methodist hospital for tests since Monday. She wants to come home today, says her husband Joe Talk. But she needs to stay in for a few days.

• Era Wilkinson is visiting her daughter, Elaine and Joe Boston in Westhoff for a few days. They're probably doing some shopping in Victoria. She will return in time to join June and Smokey Settlemeyer for a trip to New Mexico and Colorado.

• Management of the Lone Star Ice House at Park Road 37 and FM Road 1283 underwent a slight shuffle resulting in two managers in one family.

Cliff Martin of Lakehills had been managing Lone Star #8, but has been transferred to the Lone Star on Loop 1604, just north of Highway 90 on the outskirts of San Antonio.

Cliff's wife Helen, who also works at #8, was promoted to manager of the Lakehills convenience store. Now they'll be coming and going more than ever, except they'll now have two days off together. It'll be the first time in two-and-a-half years that we'll have a day off together, says Helen.

• Remember the flea market at St. Victor's coming up Oct. 8. Tables and space are for rent. Call Elsa at 535-4293. Helen at 751-2904 or Cecilia at 751-2264 for reservations.

Deputy James MacMillan sets talk at St. Victor's Chapel

A program on drug abuse will be presented at St. Victor's Chapel Thursday, Oct. 6.

Bandera County Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan will provide the program for the Ladies Altar Society meeting at the Lakehills Catholic church. His program will concern recognizing drug abuse and understanding what it is. He will also have samples to show and to answer any questions.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. and the public is invited. The church is located on Park Road 37 in Lakehills.

Hermann Sons appoint Baxter

Betty Baxter of Lakehills was appointed as an agent for Hermann Sons insurance by the Bandera County Lodge. She may be reached by calling 751-3724 or [illegible] lodge president Evelyn Furrows.

The lodge has property donated by Millie Schenkat next to the Old Rooster Cafe in Lakehills that will be used for future activities. "The lodge is in the process of fixing up the park for our future activities and to resume our taco breakfast and bean cook off soon," says Furrows.

The lodge meets the third Wednesday of each month at Shirley's Cafe in Lakehills.

Adlof reunion set

The third annual Adlof family reunion will be held Sunday starting at 10 a.m. at Margaret Buchanan's property in Lakehills and will go on until 7 p.m.

The anticipated over 100 person crowd will be served turkey, ham, brisket, and all kinds of food with it, says Margaret Buchanan.

Mico chili cookoff to benefit firefighters

A chili cook off to benefit the Mico fire department will be held Oct. 8 at Cedar Point Landing next to Medina Dam.

Cooks will be located in Cedar Point's beautifully wooded picnic area and must be self sufficient, as no electricity is available. All cooking must be done on the premises, no mixes are allowed and cookers must begin with a minimum of 4 pounds of meat, says Smith.

An assortment of different meats may be used and people often come up with some unusual varieties, says Smith. The chili cooking time begins at 9 a.m. and judging begins at 5 p.m. A chili auction will be held at 6 p.m.

In addition to the chili competition, a volleyball tournament will be held just below Cedar Points large, scenic deck on the sand beach. A $5 registration fee for each 4 member team will get a discount for drinks during the tournament. Each team must include at least one woman and prizes will be awarded.

Horseshoes and a cakewalk will also be part of the day's activity.

Inside entertainment will include darts, dominos and live music all day long. Bob Macon's one-man band will entertain from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. and the Stormy Band, specializing in 60's and 70's rock and roll will play from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. For more information or registration please call 751-2275 or 751-3115.

Registration fee for chili cookers is $10, says Smith. The local chili champ, Christa Elliott, is registered to defend her title.

Mico longhorn judged "World Champion" cow

Anita has taken a blue ribbon in every contest she has participated in and was judged national grand champion at the Fort Worth Stock Show in 1985. "She is a superstar in every respect, having beautiful color and conformation as well as an impressive 59-inch horn growth," said Settles.

Her most outstanding daughter is HCR Miss Anita, now owned by John Ducan of the Honey Creek Ranch in Hunt, the first-place in the Red McCombs Futurity in 1986 and first place in the National Western Longhorn Show in Denver in 1987.

HCR Miss Anita holds the all-time record for horn growth. At 24 months of age, she measured an amazing 50 inches of horn.

Settles, a retired Air Force colonel, and his sons, Mike and Art, own the ranch in Mico, a ranch in Poteet, and all three reside in San Antonio. "It seems only natural from an sentimental point of view, that the world championship award for senior Texas longhorn brood cows should be won by a Texas cow" Ben Settles commented.

Family members enjoy slide show at Hollon reunion

The children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren of Arthur L. and Molly Tabor Hollon enjoyed fellowship, fun, food and fellowship the weekend of July 30-31. The reunion was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Byrd of Comanche.

Attending the reunion were Faye Hollon Lico and Stanley and Pam Lico and sons James and John Paul of Pipe Creek.

James Lico

Thirty-six family members also attended from places in Texas such as San Antonio, Shallowater, Spring Branch, Cleveland and Brownwood.

Charles Byrd even came from Orlando, Fla. Visitors were Wayne Campbell of Brownwood and Nancy Blanco of San Antonio.

The highlight of the event was the slide show prepared by Richard Byrd of Comanche. He has been accumulating pictures of family members for years and making them into slides just for this occasion. "I went through over 4,000 pictures before choosing the ones for the show," said Byrd.

Three slide projectors were used, and "The Way We Were" played in the background. Slides of the hair styles (or when some of the men had hair), thinner bodies and babies who are now parents brought forth strong memories, joyous laughs and some tears. "I for one wished that I could know what I know now and have what I have now, but look like I did then," commented Judy Byrd Odom of Shallowater.

The family members competed in a friendly fishing contest. However, when James Lico, 9, of Pipe Creek, caught a six-pound catfish from one of the tanks, everyone just teased him saying, "It's a minnow!" Approximately 30 fish were caught and most fried Friday and Saturday evening.

The children went on two scavenger hunts. They searched for colored eggs and kazoos, ribbons and pecans, grass and leaves. They were able to trade their grass and leaves for toys and candy.

The children also spent the afternoon riding ATVs and go-carts. Brent Flowers, 7, of San Antonio, was banned from driving, however, after crashing into a car, a fence and finally driving the three-wheeler into the tank.

Wharton's Dock

By John Ciarlo

Dewey Overholser, son of John and Marietta Overholser of Wharton's Dock, remains in the hospital recovering from skin graft surgery after being struck by lightning recently in Colorado.

The lightning entered the right side of his body and traveled down his body to exit at his ankles. His clothes were tattered by the lightning and his shoes exploded from his feet.

• Lakeshore volunteer firefighters met to finalize rescue plans prior to Hurricane Gilbert's landfall two weeks ago, but fortunately did not have to kick their plans into operation.

Many people from the Rio Grande Valley area stayed with friends in Wharton's Dock while Gilbert was showing its strength.

Marion and Marg Birch and Marian Trout drove to Corpus Christi to board up Trout's home before the storm hit. They placed plywood over the windows and doors.

• The monthly meeting of the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department's board of directors will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3.

The department will conduct a meet-the-candidates program Monday, Oct. 10, with hopefuls for the office of sheriff and county commissioner, precinct 1 present to respond to questions.

• Earl Evens is reported back in the hospital in San Antonio

• Boots and Perry Johnson are relaxing after an eventful period that included a trip to San Diego, Calif., and to Corpus Christi to prepare their home for the hurricane.

While in San Diego they visited the city's famed zoo, the space museum and theater, botanical gardens and other museums. At Anahiem they visited Disneyland and then headed north to Big Sur and San Francisco's Chinatown and Fisherman's Warf.

Six grandchildren shared the trip with their grandparents, including Glen, Phillip and Bryn Jackson of Helotes and Perry II, Keith and Tara Duderstadt of Austin.

Scarcely had the Johnsons returned their grandchildren safely to their homes that they had to go to Corpus to prepare their home there for Gilbert's visit. They packed up one of their daughter and her family to wait out the storm in the relative safety of Wharton's Dock.

The Graves are members of Castle Hills First Baptist Church in San Antonio where Carol teaches the seventh- and eighth-grade science and ninth-grade biology students in church school.

• The Copper Lantern will once again have its covered dish dinner Saturday starting at 7 p.m. The "First Saturday" celebration will have the restaurant furnishing barbecue sausage and chicken.

Those attending are asked to bring a covered side dish to go with the meal. "They can bring anything they want," says Juanita Shaffer of the Lantern. Bill Baker and his boys will play, Shaffer adds.

by bungy

The California State Fair has absorbed me so much that I think I've been here forever and that a place called Bandera is only a dream.

Lindsey Concessions is the company we're working for, and it just happens to be my sister and her fiance. They have up to 12 food and beverage stands in the western fair circuit.

It's a fascinating business that every week to three weeks breaks everything down, trucks it all to the next fair, sets up elaborate stands, hires up to 60 employees, orders food, and starts all over again.

It has evolved into BIG business. No longer are they "carnies."

So far, I've learned the ins and outs of "waffle cones," barbecued sandwiches, and "char-broiled hot dogs."

There was a contest here for twins and triplets, and we were all saying, all day long, "May I help you, help you, help you?"

There was also a "carrot-top contest" with loads of redheads wandering around and a Young American Spelling Bee with amazing kids spelling the oddest words—correctly.

The barns for the race track and horse shows have been increased to 2,000 stalls to accomodate all the steeds.

Those barns, incidently, are right next to the RV camp where we are staying. Every morning we're awakened by a bunch of neighs (and very few yeas!)

The race track is a 5/8-mile course, and in 1977 fully $49½ million passed through the pari-mutuel windows. That included a single day when $4,112,000 was wagered.

Its average daily attendance was 13,906. It was the first track to offer pari-mutuel wagering in California in 1933, and in that year 350,000 persons attended.

Today, over 50,000 guests stay at the local hotels for the 18 days of the fair.

The exhibits here are all the "biggest and best," of course. There's a Statue of Liberty carved from a 1,000-pound piece of nephrite jade, a 2,400-pound uncut piece of polished jade, the biggest mobile ferris wheel in the world (120 feet high), a high dive in which stuntmen (clowns) leap from an 87-foot tower into a 10-foot x 30-foot tank.

There's a lumberjack competition with log rolling, ax throwing, cross-cut sawing,contests log chopping and 65-foot tree climbing.

There's camel and elephant rides, and, naturally, I had to try them. The petting zoo includes llamas and baby camels, and the most popular prize at more than 60 "pitch" games on the midway seems to be a big, stuffed version of Gumbie.

There's a whole street full of computerized personality machines, fortune tellers, compatability machines and hand, head and probably even toe analysis.

The gimmicks being sold are incredible—fish bowls in gumball machines, fake and real tattoo parlors, organic odor destroyers (the "God-invented deodorizer") and massage pillows for head, feet and neck.

It costs $3 to park here and $7 to enter the grounds. A hot dog starts at $2.50, a baked potato with one topping is $2.75.

It must cost the average family at least $300 to have a good day and do all the things they want to.

There is, however, lots of free entertainment all day long on a stage where they have amateur contests for all kinds of dancing and, of course, Ballan holds forth periodically.

She had a group of handicapped kids singing along and clapping yesterday, and there were a few odd tears shed.

Johnny Bush

Johnny Bush to bring 'new' sound to Bandera

Johnny Bush and the Bandeleros will play at the Cabaret Saturday, Oct. 1 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Bush, who says it's been five years since he's performed in Bandera, brings a revamped band with him that has been expanded to 12 members. "We've got a 'new sound,'" says Bush with a chuckle. "It's the 1940 Bob Wills sound."

Bush says the Bandeleros instruments now include four fiddles, steel and lead guitars, bass, drums, piano and (move over Glen Miller) two trumpets, a saxophone and a trombone.

"We'll still do all the country-western favorites like before, but with the brass we can get into some big band sounds like 'String of Pearls' and 'In the Mood'," said Bush.

Bush says he plans to record a new album in October featuring the new sound.

Julie McDaniel to exhibit work at Frontier Times Museum

Bandera native Julia L. McDaniel will be featured in a one-man show at the Frontier Times Museum. The show opens October 1 and runs through the end of the month.

Julia, who in her twenty-five years as an artist, has taken the opportunity to study with several regionally important artists now passes on her knowledge and talent to others by serving as the "Beginner's Art" class instructor at the Silver Sage Corral Senior Center each Monday afternoon.

Ms. McDaniel works primarily in either pencil or oils and has a demonstrated proficiency in both media. She characterizes her work as "naturals in color, composition, and perspective," and credits the Bandera area as being her source of inspiration. "Hill country color is what I strive to illuminate in my work, the natural relationship of the hills, trees, and rock melded together in a palette of everyday beauty!"

The Frontier Times Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. Admission to the Museum is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children ages six through age 18. Children under age six or supporting members of the Friends of Frontier Times Museum are admitted free of charge. For more information, please contact the Museum at (512) 796-4969.

Benefit Sept. 30

A benefit to help pay medical bills of Bandera Inn hostess Norma Billings Schultz will be held Friday, Sept. 30, at the Bandera Inn.

Schultz has been under treatment for a tumor and proceeds from Friday's benefit program will aid in paying her medical bills. The event will be from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Museum gala set

The 18th annual San Antonio Museum Association Game Dinner and Gala is scheduled for Monday evening, Oct. 17, along the banks of the San Antonio River behind the Witte Museum.

Octoberfest celebration planned at site of first state capital

The 12th annual Octoberfest, a salute to the area's German heritage, will be held at Washington-on-the-Brazos Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 1 and 2.

Activities begin each day at 10 a.m. Admission is free to all events. A parade gets under way at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Antique sale

The 30th semi-annual antique show and sale will be held at the Civic Center in New Braunfels, 380 S. Seguin St., Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 14-15-16.

They didn't use the whole crawfish in their gumbo, but it took first place, anyway. Harold Buford and Paul Castillo of Joe Kelly's Oyster Bar serve up a sample of their gumbo that's won first place in the professional division for the San Antonio restaurant.

The pot's empty, so it must be first place! Marilyn Michalczak, left, and Myra Thamm representing the Bandera American Legion Post took first place honors in the amateur division at the Great Gumbo Cookoff in Lakehills.

Gumbo cookoff draws more than 2,000 spectators

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Joe Kelly's took first place in the professional division and the Bandera American Legion took first place in the amateur division at Saturday's Great Gumbo Cookoff at the Lakehills Civic Center while a crowd of from 1,500 to 2,000 came in and out all day long.

Myra Thamm and Marilyn Michalczak, both from Bandera, took top honors in the amateur division at the eighth annual Gumbo Cookoff with their entry representing the Bandera American Legion Post 157. They brought approximately five gallons of gumbo, but they sold out in three hours. "It's the first time we entered," said Thamm. "We were raised on gumbo," said Michalczak.

Second-place honors in the amateur division went to Gene Smith of Banders and his team of John Reushaw and Ollie Kay of San Antonio, and Cotton Krampota from Crosby.

The secret of gumbo is the base, known as the roux, says Krampota. "It took six hours to make the roux," he adds. The roux is made of flour and bacon drippings that is browned slowly. While the base is being made, they make the stock, boiling shrimp and crab meat and lifting out the part they want. Then the roux is added to the stock along with vegetables such as celery, green onions, bell pepper. Seasonings added are garlic, salt, pepper, seafood seasonings and other secret ingredients for another hour of cooking.

The Gene Smith team also took the Peoples' Choice award, voted by people who tasted the various gumbos.

First place in the professional division went to Joe Kelly's Oyster Dock and Restaurant of San Antonio, who has won the award now for the third year. Their gumbo, cooked by chef Cruz Guillen, contained king crab, shrimp, tuna, crab meat, shark, and oysters. Vegetables included okra, bell pepper, celery, and onion. "At the restaurant, our customers want the meat (of the gumbo)," says restaurant manager Harold Buford. "But here (at the cookoff) people want the roux," he adds.

Showmanship also went to Joe Kelly's with their two costumed crawfish who danced with children and Shamu who put in an appearance from Sea World.

Among the activities at the cookoff were music by three different bands, a cakewalk, and an arm-wrestling contest.

Winners in the boys' arm wrestling contests were Donnie Marvell, in the age 9 to 13 division, and Clint Pierce in the age 14 to 17 division. Winners in the girls' arm wrestling contests were Brandy Casillas in the age 9 to 13 category and Misty Bear in the age 14 to 17 category. For their efforts, the winners received a ribbon and a T-shirt.

In the men's arm wrestling contest, Wayne Saunder took top honors and Jamie Brooke Marvell took first in the ladies division. Their reward was a trophy and a ribbon.

There were about 50 total entrants, says contest organizer Michelle Aahmore. The referee was Rick Faulk in the single elimination test of strength.

Fifteen booths of arts and crafts, food, T-shirts, and the Democratic and Republican parties of Bandera County were present, says Peggy Ashmore, president of the Medina Lake Betterment Association, sponsor of the cook-off.

Harry Webb named head of aging committee

Harry Webb was elected chairman of the executive committee of the Bandera County Committee on Aging Friday, Sept. 23.

Other officers are Marie Holland, vice chairwoman; Mary Carpenter, secretary; and Mary Joe Kirkpatrick, treasurer.

Reelected board members are Dean Isaacs of Medina and Kirkpatrick of Bandera. Newly-elected board members are Arthur Bunch of Bandera, Peggy Vavrik of Bandera and Avis Huey of Lakehills.

The Committee on Aging serves as a governing board for the Silver Sage Corral and, in conjunction with the center's staff, is responsible for promoting senior programming and for maintaining a facility for the purpose of senior programs, says Glenn Wehmeyer.

Silver Sage Corral
By Glenn Wehmeyer

New inductees to the board of directors of the Bandera County Committee on Aging are Arthur Bunch, Peggy Vavrik and Avis Huey.

Bunch is a veteran of 34 years with the U.S. Postal Service and a four-year resident of Bandera. Arthur and wife Marion are very involved with the Melodiers and other musical programs.

Vavrik and her husband, Frank, are formerly from Leon Valley and moved to Bandera about five years ago following retirement.

Huey is a volunteer in the center's nutrition progam and a member of the Melodiers. Currently moving into a new home at Pebble Beach on Lake Medina, the Hueys operate a family business. Avis divides her time between clerical responsibilities for the company and her personal interest in metaphysics, music and people.

• The fourth and final offering of basic CPR instruction will be Oct. 4 and 6 from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Due to some last-minute sign-up activity, the class has been intentionally overbooked. Certified instructors Ginny Brient and Lloyd Hickman will accept students on a first-come, first-served basis until the class is full.

Citing poor attendance at previous classes and very full personal schedules, Brient and Hickman will not be available to teach CPR until next year, perhaps, so those serious about learning CPR should show up early and be prepared to work.

• A trip to the Alzafar Shrine Circus in San Antonio on Friday, Oct. 21, is being put together by Edith Evans, a veteran of many previous circus trips.

Jesus Is Lord
Repentance is an act of faith necessary in order to receive forgiveness for your sins. Jesus said in Luke 13:3 "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."
Repentance includes three definite actions: (1) Confession of all our sins. (2) Accpatance of Jesus Christ as Saviour. (3) Future commitment to Christ as Lord of all. The moment you repent, you are released from guilt and true faith comes into your life. Then you can say as Paul said in Gal. 2:20 "And the life I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me."

Medina Lake AARP plans Austin trip

The Medina Lake Chapter of the AARP held their first regular meeting since June with 43 in attendance on Sept. 24 and planned for an Austin trip and relived their district picnic.

Plans for a trip to Austin Oct. 17 were announced by Ruth Cowley. Those that make the trip will tour the capital and the LBJ library on the organization's regular fun-day. A bus will be provided for the trip. For those that wish to attend, call Ruth by Oct. 9 at 751-2073.

Events of the picnic were relived by a VCR tapes shown by David and Florence Mayer and another by Lenora Prater. The skits presented at the Sept. 14 picnic at Lady Bird Park in Fredericksburg were featured in the presentation along with the Melodiers from Bandera. "The Melodiers really added so much to the program," says spokeswoman Jane Settlemeyer. "The music (the group provided) stirred many memories," she adds. They sang appropriate songs for the skits which were from ten year periods beginning in 1900.

There are now 125 members in the Medina Lake chapter, reports membership chairman Jack Munns.

Health clinic set

Texas Department of Health will conduct an adult health clinic from 9-11:30 a.m. at Bandera's Silver Sage Corral Wednesday, Oct. 5.

There will be a fee for services assessed, according to TDH spokeswoman Amy Lopez.

• Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick visited friends Sunday and took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ.

Books on audio tape available for persons with failing eyesight

When grandma's failing eyesight makes it impossible for her to read, one of several library services may help compensate for this sensory loss.

"Although it's difficult for family caregivers to watch an elderly relative have to give up something he or she enjoyed so much, they can help by reading aloud," said Dr. Judith Warren, a gerontology specialist.

"However, family members aren't always around and like everyone else the visually impaired elderly like to choose what and when they read without having to depend on others," she said.

The solution may be as close as your telephone or local library, according to Warren, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

She said many local libraries have audio recordings of books for loan to residents who need them. Some libraries will also deliver or mail recordings to users.

"Local or state library services by mail can be of special importance to the visually impaired elderly who are home bound or live in rural areas," said Warren.

An audio cassette player-recorder may cost anywhere from $30 to $100. Those who qualify for State Library Services may have a cassette player furnished by the Texas Commission for the Blind, she said.

If you buy an audio cassette player, consider the quality of the sound. Words should be clearly distinguishable and stay clear at both low and high volume. Lightweight earphones will also help block out background noise and deliver the sound directly to the person's ears.

Warren, who has developed an educational program to train family caregivers which is offered through county extension programs, said families are often unaware of the resources available to support their efforts.

"Beyond basic needs, physical well-being and safety, families are concerned about their elder's quality of life," she said. "The mental stimulation and sheer enjoyment of reading is one thing they can help provide by knowing how to use available services."

The Texas State Library also has a variety of free services for visually handicapped people, including thousands of books and magazines on tape or records. The recordings are delivered to readers by mail at no charge.

Anyone who might qualify can request an application for services by writing the Texas State Library, Division of Blind and Physically Handicapped, Box 12927, Capitol Station, Austin, TX 78711. Or you can call 1-800-252-9605.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
We like this quotation by Arnold H. Glascow, "Let us be slower to condemn, quicker to forgive. If we knew the other fellow's troubles, we might hesitate to criticize. We might admire his courage for carrying on.
No one is perfect. We all make mistakes. With human nature as it is, hardly anyone can truthfully say he or she likes to be criticized. Even when it is asked for, harsh criticism is unwanted. When criticism is unasked for, and especially when it is diluted with the word-constructive-criticism tends mostly to offend. It lessens human dignity. It is resented. Sometimes it causes people to refuse added or future responsibility. Constructive? Not when it so often causes alienation among people.
A wise, old Sioux Indian once prayed, "Help me never to judge another until I have walked two weeks in his moccasins."

For, about and by students in Bandera schools

School principal seeks improved attendance

Improving attendance at Bandera High School is a major goal, and will take 100 percent effort from students and the staff, according to principal Richard Delamain.

The goal is to increase last year's attendance by two percent.

"We feel like if we can get the students here, then we can teach them," said Mr. Delamain.

Students' presence and participation in class is invaluable in the learning process. Teacher lectures and class discussion cannot be repeated exactly, and students who are absent cannot get every bit of information.

Students have one day for every day they are absent to make up work that was missed up to one week. Many students don't like to make up work and it frustrates them. Peer pressure also helps motivate students to attend class.

Each six weeks, activities or rewards will be planned for people who have perfect attendance for that six weeks. Each semester a drawing or something similar will take place for students with perfect attendance.

Class competition is taking place second period. The class having the highest percentage of attendance will have an ice cream party. As of Sept. 26, one class had 100 percent attendance, but others are very close behind.

Bulldog Band in contest

Forty six band members will participate Oct. 15, at area 1A, 2A, and 3A marching contests held at Medina Valley High School.

Bandera High School Band is opening with the traditional Yankee Doodle followed with an arrangement in a jazz or swing beat.

Being played as a ballad, Yankee Doodle will have a percussion feature followed by a grandiose closer.

Tiffany Moseley said, "Practice after school is strenous, but it is worth the effort."

Gifted, talented students gain own class period

For the first time a class period has been allowed for the Gifted and Talented program, which will be taught by Ms. Liz Vakey and Ms. Marilyn Wiles.

It will be a very busy class for the 20 ninth through twelfth graders, according to Ms. Vakey. They will have teacher taught units on such subjects as brain hemisphericity, study skills, test taking skills and research skills. The students will also attend out-of-school seminars and have research personnel come and speak to them on various topics such as preparing for the SAT's and scholarship money available.

Students will each do an indepth independent project in any area of their personal interest. The project will be in conjunction with a mentor outside the school, in that field of study.

To be placed in the G/T class, students must pass a battery of tests set up by the district. Some tests given are IQ and creativity tests. Students must have a high grade point average and teacher recommendation.

In the past, the G/T program was extracurricular, and students went on field trips to various seminars. When asked if the class could be better than in the past, Ms. Vakey said, "Yes. It's new and we're learning as we go along."

She asks that any resource persons in the community that would like to help, please call the principal, Mr. Richard Delamain, at the school office.

Bandera volleyball team loses to Randolph in three-game match

The Lady Bulldogs Volleyball Team was defeated 15 to 11, wen 15 to 6 and lost 15 to 1 against Randolph Sept. 20, losing the set.

In the first game the Lady 'Dogs put up a hard fight but were defeated 15 to 11.

After taking a breather and getting new plans that apparently fired them up from coach Peggy Swierc the Lady 'Dogs came back to beat Randolph 15 to 6 in game two.

Since each team won one game, the third game was the tie breaker. Bandera was unable to keep up the winning streak, scoring only one point in the third game.

The next game will be Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Southside.

Deadlines loom for enrollment in 4-H

The deadline for enrollment in 4-H is Saturday, Oct. 1, and the last day that youngsters may enroll in 4-H and be eligible to participate in the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show and Bake Show will be Friday, Sept. 30.

Enrollment forms are available at the Bandera Alkek Elementary School office, Bandera Junior High School office, Bandera High School office, Medina Schools office and the Bandera County extension office.

4-H is a national program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19 years, but in Bandera, 4-H'ers may join when they enroll in the first grade, regardless of age.

First and second graders can only participate in county activities. The Texas 4-H program is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The purpose of 4-H is to develop leadership and character in young people, says Janet Smithheisler, Bandera County 4-H program coordinator. 4-H'ers learn by doing through actively working on projects and participating in club meetings and 4-H activities.

Youth can participate in a variety of projects in 4-H, such as foods, clothing, animal projects, veterinary science, photography, arts and crafts, and many, many others. In fact, almost everything you want can be a project says Smithheisler.

"Most important, 4-H is a lot of fun!" says the extension agent. "Where else can you get together with other people your age and have fun while you learn?"

Boys and girls in 4-H are always on the move doing something and participating in various activities. For instance, the 4-H food and nutrition project attracts numerous youngsters each year who are interested in learning proper nutrition and menu planning. Livestock projects give youngsters a chance to be responsible for an animal and learn competitiveness and sportsmanship. 4-H'ers can even learn to make or consumer shop for their own clothes through clothing projects.

Other 4-H activities such as the Share-the-Fun give youngsters the chance to participate in organized recreation, notes Smithheisler. County 4-H Camp and Rally Day are times for playing games and making new friends. Members in 4-H can go on trips, take tours of interesting and educational places, and help finance their college education with scholarships awarded through 4-H.

Boosting the 4-H program is the private sector which provides resources of money, personnel and materials for the advancement of 4-H. The many business and industrial leaders who have supported and continue to support 4-H gives significant testimony that 4-H is a valuable educational program for America's youth, Smithheisler points out.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanagan of Lakehills, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Doreen Ann, to Dennis Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Luehlfing of New Braunfels. The bride-elect is a graduate of John Marshall High School in San Antonio. Her fiance is a graduate of Canyon High School in New Braunfels. The couple plan an Oct. 29 wedding in Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, New Braunfels.

Keese, Quillen engagement

Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Keese of M[illegible] [illegible] announced the engagement of their daughter, Darla Diane, to Travis Lee Quillen, son of Georgia and Johnny Quillen of Dennison, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Medina High School and has attended Southwest Texas State University and Abilene Christian University.

Her fiance is currently stationed at Dyess AFB in Abilene where he is an electrical technician.

Christian Fellowship film series starts Oct. 2

"A Father Looks Back," the first film in the "Turn Your Heart Toward Home" series by James Dobson will be shown Sunday, Oct. 2 at the Bandera High School Auditorium at 5:30 p.m.

The six-part film series is sponsored by the Bandera County Christian Fellowship, and will be shown at 5:30 p.m. each Sunday through Nov. 6.

"'A Father Looks Back' emphasizes how swiftly time passes, and appeals to all parents to 'turn their hearts towards home' during the all-important child-rearing years," said Franklin Pullin, spokesman for the group.

Welcome planned for new pastor

Sunday members and friends of Lakehills United Methodist Church [illegible] welcome the Rev. Bruce J. Rogers and his family to the church.

Members of the community are invited to meet and welcome Pastor B.J. and his wife, Lynn, and family, Bryan, 3, and one-month-old Bethany Rogers, says Lea Noble, chairwoman of the church's Pastor-parish relations committee. The reception will be begin at 2 p.m. and last until 4 p.m.at Lakehills United Methodist Church, Oct. 2.

Dessert-type refreshments will be served throughout the day as people come to meet the pastor and his family, adds Noble.

"We hope to have representatives from the commissioners court, the civic center, the EMS, and the American Legion, the fire department, AARP, Helping Hand, and other area organizations," says Noble.

This is Pastor Rogers' first full-time congregation. He was pastor of two churches in Southern Indiana while he attended Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky.

"Everyone is welcome to the reception," says Noble. Call the church at 751-2404 for more information.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO CANCEL ALTAMIRA HILLS SUBDIVISION, BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS
SEPTEMBER 2, 1988
TO: COMMISSIONERS COURT OF BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS

M and A Properties, Inc., a Texas corporation, acting by and through its President, Albert B. Alkek, and its attorney on this application, Ronald M. Jackson, Attorney at Law, hereby applies to the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, for permission to cancel Altamira Hills Subdivision, Bandera County, Texas, Volume 4, page 9, Map and Plat Records of Bandera County, Texas, and to cancel all dedicated easements and roadways thereon (except for utility easements on Tract or Lots not owned by M and A Properties, Inc.), and to reestablish the property as an acreage tract and/or tracts as it existed before the subdivision, all in accordance with Section 232.008 of the Texas Local Government Code. M and A Properties, Inc., is the owner of more than 75 percent of the property in said Altamira Hills Subdivision as evidenced by deed dated June 26, 1980, recorded in Volume 197, pages 642-644, Deed Records of Bandera County, Texas. Tracts or Lots 1, 4, 7, 12, and 13, of said Altamira Hills Subdivision are not owned by M and A Properties, Inc., however, upon cancellation of said Altamira Hills Subdivision as aforesaid, M and A Properties, Inc., shall grant a non-exclusive roadway easement over the existing roadway shown on the Plat of said Subdivision from F.M. Highway 3240 to each Tract or Lot not owned by M and A Properties, Inc., for ingress and egress thereto and M and A Properties, Inc., shall also grant a non-exclusive ten feet wide utility easement over and across and under the existing utility lines to each Tract or Lot not owned by M and A Properties, Inc.. Therefore, application is hereby made for notice to be made and hearing set as provided in Section 232.008 Texas Local Government Code, and after such notice and hearing that M and A Properties, Inc., be authorized to cancel said Altamira Hills Subdivision as aforesaid by order entered by the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, and to cancel all dedicated easements and roadways thereon as aforesaid by order entered by the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, all as provided in said Section 232.008 of the Texas Local Government Code.

Respectfully submitted,

M and A Properties, Inc.

TRI-Star football scheduled Oct. 8

The Bandera Optimist Club will hold its Tri-Star Football contest on Saturday, Oct. 8, at Bulldog Stadium.

The contest tests the skills of contestants in three of the basic skills of the game, place-kicking, passing, and punting.

Bandera head football Coach Sam Swierc and his staff will give a pass, punt, and kick clinic from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and the contest will begin at 2 p.m.

Boys and girls will compete in six age groups, 7 years through 12 years, against youth of their own age only. All that is needed to compete is a pair of gym shoes, says spokesman Sully Woodland.

The competition on Saturday will determine three finalists in each division who will compete prior to the Bandera-Brady football game in Bulldog Stadium on Friday night, Oct. 14, to determine first-, second- and third-place winners.

Plaques will be awarded to the first three winners in each age group. In addition, every contestant will also receive a mentento scorecard and a Tri-Star patch.

Entry blanks are available at Alkek Elementary School office, Bandera Junior High office, First State Bank, or at the contest site on the day of the competition. They may also be obtained by calling Woodland at 796-3014 or any Optimist Club member.

Cross country crew places third

The third cross country meet of the year for the Bulldogs was at Poteet Sept. 24. The Lady Bulldogs brought home the third place trophy from the Poteet Invitational.

Senior Ruth Mazurek placed third and Amie Nightingale placed fourth. Although the high school boys did not have enough to make a team, some still ran. Eric Wylie placed 36th, Victor Soliz placed 37th, Philip Soliz placed 38th, and Brent Hoffer placed 44th.

Junior high girls and boys did not have enough for teams but still ran. Traci Felton placed third, Rhonda Schmidt placed 11th, Windy Wagner placed 12th, and Patty Drew placed 18th.

The Cross Country Invitational Meet at Bandera High School Oct. 8 will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the junior high girls. Some 20 other schools are expected to participate.

Seniors view Lost Maples slides

Rare species of plants and birds are protected and nourished at Lost Maples State Natural Area, superintendent Roy Heidemen told members of the Sabinal Canyon Senior Council Foundation on Thursday, Sept. 15.

Heidemen showed a slide presentation depicting the park in each of the four seasons.

During the meeting five persons were recognized for having birthdays in September, S.J. Carson, Beryl Jones, Lola Scott, Ada Ruth Rieber and Bill Clepper.

Bulldogs even record at 2 and 2

Bandera boosted their gridiron record to an even 2 and 2 Friday when they blasted the hapless San Antonio Memorial Minutemen, 50-7.

It was the 44th loss in a four-year string for Memorial. "We were under a lot of pressure to win this one," said Bulldog head coach Sam Swierc. "We became more intense and it paid off," he said.

Having lost their previous two outings, the 'Dogs wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard. Moving from their own 29 on the first series of the game, the Bulldogs used seven plays before quarterback Scott Rogers scampered 16 yards for the score.

Jeff Henaley booted the conversion, the first of an evening's work that included three extra points and a field goal.

Fumbles and penalties slowed succeeding Bandera drives at critical moments. A little over a minute deep in the second period, Minuteman Rene Martinez blocked a punt and then picked up the ball and ran it in for Memorial's only TD. Roger Alvarado knotted the score at 7 apiece.

The 'Dogs got the scent again as they drove to Memorial's 10-yard line. After a first-down fumble, Rogers hit Jeff Pullin for a TD strike. The PAT was blocked.

Bandera lit up the board again in the third period when the game's leading rusher Brent Hoffer blasted over the 16.

Hoffer, who suffers from asthma, gained 100 yards on 14 carries, sometimes nearly collapsing from the effort.

Henaley added three more points to his total of 6 when he booted a 25-yard field goal midway through the final stanza.

Hoffer made a spectacular run down the sideline to an apparent TD late in the period, but the effort was called back. Seconds later the determined running back again moved Bandera close.

With time running out, the 'Dogs scored a final time when Pullin crunched in from the six.

Bandera will host Comfort on Friday, Sept. 30, when the school celebrates Parent's Night.

Blanco Panthers blast Bobcats, 26-9

Blanco-Blanco's Panthers presented Medina's Bobcats a gift worth nine points here Friday and then recovered to play 40 minutes of solid football and earn a 26-9 non-district victory.

The game was only a single minute old when Blanco snapped the ball over the punters head and out of the end zone for a two-point safety that forced the Panthers to punt from their own 20-yard line.

Bobcat Tony LeStourgeon returned the punt 24 yards to the Blanco 41-yard stripe, and it took Medina seven plays to score.

Quarterback Timmy Green gained 25 yards on a keeper to the left and he sneaked into the end zone from the one-yard line with 7:02 left in the first quarter.

Blanco got a break of its own midway in the second quarter, scoring on a 33-yard aerial from Jeff Hood to Joe Riba after Matt Malone intercepted a Green pass and returned it to the Bobcat 37-yard line.

Blanco drove 60 yards late in the first half to take the lead when Shane Johnson pounded into the end zone from the one-yard line with 13 seconds left in the half.

Hood, who passed for 121 yards in the game, hurled his second scoring pass of the night in the fourth quarter when he hit Tito Romero from the Medina 26-yard line with 9:54 left to go in the game.

The Panthers added to their lead with 34 seconds left after Medina turned the ball over on downs at its own 23-yard line.

Johnson hurdled tacklers on a 22-yard scamper to the one and then dove over for the touchdown from the one.

The defeat evened Medina's record at 2-2 and the victory for Class AA Blanco was its first in four games this year.

The Bobcats will try to come back Friday when they host Texas Military Institute in a parents night clash at 8 p.m.

Parents of players and cheerleaders will be introduced during brief ceremonies which begin at 7:15 p.m.

Bulldog parents to be honored

The parents of Bulldog football players and cheerleaders will be honored in a special ceremony before Friday night's game against Comfort.

The festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will include special performances by the Bulldog Band and flag corps.

The parents will be escorted onto the field by their son or daughter and presented with a flower as special recognition by the Bulldog Athletic Boosters. They will remain on the field to form a victory line before the start of the game.

Booster committee to make signs

The Spirit Booster Committee of the Bulldog Athletic Booster Club will meet every Monday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria to make signs, posters, and spirit surprises for the Bandera football, volleyball, and cross-country teams.

Parents, cheerleaders, band members, students, teachers, and fans are invited to participate. Supplies will be provided, and new and innovative ideas are welcome. The committee hopes to encourage a wide base of support to generate a new level of school spirit.

Bulldogs even record at 2 and 2

Bandera boosted their gridiron record to an even 2 and 2 Friday when they blasted the hapless San Antonio Memorial Minutemen, 30-7.

It was the 44th loss in a four-year string for Memorial. "We were under a lot of pressure to win this one," said Bulldog head coach Sam Swierc. "We became more intense and it paid off," he said.

Having lost their previous two outings, the 'Dogs wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard. Moving from their own 29 on the first series of the game, the Bulldogs used seven plays before quarterback Scott Rogers scampered 16 yards for the score.

Jeff Hensley booted the conversion, the first of an evening's work that included three extra points and a field goal.

Fumbles and penalties plowed succeeding Bandera drives at critical moments. A little over a minute deep in the second period, Minuteman Rene Martinez blocked a punt and then picked up the ball and ran it in for Memorial's only TD. Roger Alvarado knotted the score at 7 apiece.

The 'Dogs got the scent again as they drove to Memorial's 10-yard line. After a first-down fumble, Rogers hit Jeff Pullin for a TD strike. The PAT was blocked.

Bandera lit up the board again in the third period when the game's leading rusher Brent Hoffer blasted over the 16.

Bandera County, where Apples are king.

The Bandera County community of Medina was immersed in apples at the first annual Texas International Apple Festival in late July.

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

"Texas has long been number one in cattle, cotton and oil. Now we're ready to take on all comers for the title of America's best apple producers. The folks here in Medina will lead that fight by serving as the official 'Apple Capital of Texas.'"

With that statement Deputy State Agriculture Commissioner Mike Moeller opened the first annual Texas International Apple Festival in Medina Saturday, July 23.

The festival drew an estimated 5,000 people to the Hill Country hamlet and statewide attention to the coming of age of a new industry for Bandera County. An industry that may have the potential to, in a few years, help ease the financial crunch brought on by a softening economy. Bandera County's main source of revenue is tourism and a reason for a large-scale good time such as a festival is certainly a shot in the pocket book for the local merchants, but the apple business is a well to be tapped that's far deeper than a one-weekend bucket full.

Several years ago some enterprising Hill Country ranchers started looking around for a way to make their acres pay, since the cattle and goat businesses were on the skids and the oil industry was starting its trip down the drain.

Botanical genetics had produced a variety of fruit trees that would stand up to the harsh climate and soil conditions of the Edwards Plateau so the ranchers decided to gamble on apples in the orchard instead of petroleum in the futures.

Why apples? you say. Don't they come from Washington state?

True enough. Except that along about the end of May the familiar Red Delicious apples from the Northwest start tasting like cardboard. That's because they were put into cold storage after being picked green back in September of the previous year, says a local grower. One doesn't find fresh Washington apples in the store until October. That five-month hiatus can drive a fresh-apple lover to distraction.

Even when a person gets a "fresh" imported apple, its flavor still suffers from too early a picking. The longer an apple stays on the tree and moves toward peak ripeness the higher the sugar content and the richer its flavor. But fully ripe fruit cannot be shipped long distances or stored for extended periods of time. So, the Washington types "can't even come close" when compared to the sweetness and taste of a home-county-grown, tree-ripened Texas apple. A-fact many people in Bandera County are beginning to discover as more locally produced fruits are sold in area stores.

In addition to taste, Texas grown apples are available when those from afar are not...at least not worth mentioning. While most other places are dragging out their cold storage crop (picked the year before, remember?) Texas growers are providing juicy lunch box stuffers straight off their trees. Texas' harvest season begins in late June and continues through September and into the first days of October...right in the time slot left open by the big guys up north.

The dwarf trees can be planted quite densely and maintained through the dry Texas summers with drip irrigation. Most varieties are resistant to disease and produce fully after three years, so an orchard can be in business in a short time.

The Texas Department of Agriculture says 20,000 rapidly maturing dwarf apple trees have been planted in the area. Most of them are just now coming into optimum production according to Baxter Adams of Love Creek Ranch near Medina.

"We have 4,000 trees at Love Creek," he said, "and 3,000 of them produced their first real crop this year. Of the remaining 1,000, trees only about 500 are of the varieties that are viable and really made fruit this season."

Even with all those limiting factors, the ranch produced 10,000 pounds of fruit by the end of September and Adams estimates he'll harvest an additional 2,000 pounds before production ceases in October. With all his trees producing fully next season, Adams is enthusiastic about his potential yield. "I expect our crop will nearly double next year," he says.

Jack Davis of the Triple J.D. ranch near Bandera says his operation has 2,400 trees planted on just one acre of land. "We have the ultimate, high-density orchard," says Davis. "Our trees are in rows 6 feet apart and the plants spaced at 3 feet in the rows."

Davis says his trees are also just now maturing and his crop for the year was 300 bushels. "We're still experimenting to get maximum production," he said. Davis indicated that he expected at least a 100 percent increase in his harvest next year as more of his trees hit their potential. Davis' plans include expansion to four acres of trees as he refines his growing techniques.

If the next few seasons go as predicted, the apple harvest for the Bandera County area could soon reach 30,000 bushels of the red and green goodies. That translates to 1,200,000 pounds of fresh fruit in the local stores. At an average wholesale price of 50 cents a pound, the young agri-industry can have a $600,000 impact on the area's financial well-being.

In addition to the fruit sales, apple growers are finding a steady market for young trees in containers, ready for planting. Both Adams and Davis expect to have thousands of the dwarfs ready for the public next year. "With container-grown trees, anyone can have an orchard...on his patio or in his back yard," says Davis.

And then there's the other spin-off businesses that are products of the industry, including cider, jellies, baked goods and even the themecurio trade that comes from a likeable subject such as apples. And of course, it's a great excuse to have an annual shindig.

According to Adams the Texas apple industry is ready to "take off" in the next two years. He has an additional 4,500 trees on a ranch below Devine and he speaks of an "additional eight or ten operations by other growers" that are scheduled to come into production in that time frame.

"We're beyond the experimental stage," he says. "We are ready to go into serious commercial production. Within two years I expect to see hundreds of thousands of dwarf apple trees planted all over the Hill Country."

Starting an apple orchard is not inexpensive. Estimates indicate it will cost between $10 and $15 per tree to put in an orchard of 2,000 two-year-old trees and all the systems to nurture their growth.

However, results happen quickly. The first crop will come at 18 months and full production can be expected after 2½ years. The trees have a useful life expectancy of about 15 years, so rotational planting is advised.

The costs in money and time are high but a commercial orchard can be founded on a minimum of acreage. Therefore, land costs can be low and once the trees are established their maintenance is nominal, say the ranchers.

Considering the changes in the economic mainstream during the last few years this new crop may hold a bushel basketfull of solutions to Bandera County's cash flow.

Bandera County Courthouse

Bandera County courthouse stands on Main Street between Pecan and Hackberry, across from the county library. It was begun in 1890, and completed in September of 1891. The courthouse stood as it was completed until another wing was added in 1967.

County Commissioners on May 12, 1890 granted a petition signed by H.C. Duffy and several members of the community, to build on public square, and move from a site near Cypress Street where the courthouse had been in operation since 1877.

The original architect for the Bandera courthouse was B.F. Trester, who supposedly designed the building to resemble the Kerr County courthouse. Accounts differ significantly in the amount Trester was paid: A historical marker on the courthouse says the fee was $5. A book about Texas courthouses identifies the architect as "Lester" and says he was paid $50.

Minutes from the Bandera County commissioners court Aug. 11, 1890, indicate the initial payment was $500 for architectural services. Minutes from commissioners court Dec. 8, 1890, show the commissioners tabled a request for payment from Trester because "he had already been paid the sum of $500 for the job which was not yet completed."

Trester died early in 1891, and in March of that year commissioners ordered the plans and specifications delivered to A.B. Frankel.

In April, building contractors abandoned the building site, and were ordered to meet with commissioners. The contractor was fined $360 for the delay, and the county commissioners finished the $20,000 building, which had been scheduled to be finished May 15, in September, 1891.

"The building shows the influence of the Greek Renaissance Revival," says Bandera architect Robert Cowan. "Built from cut limestone blocks quarried locally, and with massive structural trusses made from Cypress, it takes on a sense of timeless permanency," he said.

"The original interiors with plaster walls, beaded wood ceilings and windows of large proportions must have been delightful," says Cowan. "Even today, as you go up the double staircase and the single grand staircase entrance into the courtroom, it is not difficult to imagine the area serving not only the courts of the day, but various meetings, dances, and parties for the entire community.

The courtroom, though it has been modernized, still contains touches from days gone by such as old wooden railings and bookcases.

"A visit through the judge's chambers, up the access stairs to the attic is most revealing," says Cowan. "The huge wood trusses are something else, especially the details of assembly.

"Going on up to the dome, with its louvers, one can see how ventilation was provided before the days of air conditioning," he explains. "Above the louvers are spaces for the clockworks, which need to be retrieved from the past and reinstalled.

"For those energetic enough to climb to the pinnacle of the building, into the cupola, the reward for looking through the windows is being able to see 'forever' in all directions."

"Yes, for a grand old lady almost 100 years old, the Bandera County Courthouse is truly beautiful and well worth pampering."

Silver Sage Corral

Bandera' s center is becoming well-known statewide for its hospitality and fine service, according to Glenn Wehmeyer, director of Silver Sage Corral.

"In our most recent survey by the Texas Department on Aging, we received the highest marks possible, across the board," said Wehmeyer, "and our innovative programs attract very favorable attention."

Bandera County's senior citizens' center was created twelve years ago, through the efforts of Kathryn McBryde, Della Mae Cox and Minnie Hayes. In 1984, the senior community broke ground on a brand new facility at 11th and Hackberry, to be called the Silver Sage Corral. When the new center was dedicated in April 1985, it focused new attention on Bandera County's senior citizen population. The Silver Sage Corral quickly grew from 65 monthly supporters in April of 1985 to over 400 by the end of 1987.

The Silver Sage Corral receives nutritional program funding from state and federal levels. Its operations and maintenance funding, however, comes strictly from fundraisers such as the monthly first Tuesday breakfast, gift shop sales, aluminum can recycling and from donations. One lady brings in a mayonnaise jar full of change every three months. It's her way of giving to the Silver Sage Corral.

The Silver Sage Corral is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Silver Sage Corral weekly schedule:

Monday: Exercise group, table loom weaving, table games.

Friday: Exercise group, Bridge, Melodiers (first and third Friday), advisory board (fourth Friday).

Senior Citizens Center

Pipe Creek Texas

Once Lipan Apache country, the land where Pipe Creek Junction stands was first granted to a railroad company. William J. Hamilton, son of Sheriff Henry Hamilton, patented the land on August 29, 1878 building a cotton gin and grist mill on the north side of Highway 16 and a little to the west. The gin's large cistern can still be seen from the restaurant.

Felix and Harriet Newcomer later bought the small portion of the Hamilton ranch which extended south of Highway 16 and sold the one-acre store corner to E.B. and Carrie Keefe on March 3, 1911 for $150. The Keefes built the first store at this location in the spring of that year. It was a two-story frame building with the store on the first floor and their residence on the second floor. After only a few months, the Keefes sold everything back to the Newcomers. The Newcomer's son Jim then ran the store adding shed wings to both sides of the original building.

In 1914 Tom W. Deskin, Sr. offered Jim Newcomer and his widowed mother a 480 acre ranch north of Pipe Creek as an even trade for the store and the offer was too much to resist. The Deskins then ran the store for the next four years. After the Deskins, a number of other people — Dick Cox, Ernest Jump and Henry Dorrow, John T. Dixon, Elmer Pickens, and Lawrence Edwards —tried their hand at running the store. Dick Cox was the first of the owners to buy a motor-powered truck to haul supplies which he purchased in 1918.

In the spring of 1924 Adolph and Laura Schott took over the operation of the store. Laura was Jim Newcomer's daughter. In 1930 Adolph built the dance hall to the east of the store doing much of the building himself. Dancing, movies, and skating were held in the hall. For a while the Mormons met there on Sunday mornings when they had no place to meet. In 1936 when the road to San Antonio was widened for the paving of Highway 16, the current store building was built. Again Adolph did much of the framing with help from Jonathan Newcomer and Dumpy McCarthy. Henry Gombert of Boerne did the rock work. The store was the first place in Pipe Creek to receive electricity from the Bandera Electric Co-op being connected December 24, 1940. In 1944 Adolph and Laura leased the store to the L.M. Claptons who built the cafe on the corner which Earl White later ran and where Hank Kruger has his real estate office.

In September 1951 Ed and Ann Jennings took charge of the store. After Earl White moved his cafe from next door, Ed began aiming more at the convenience market. The older natives continued to bring their eggs and some produce in to trade for needed staples until well into the 1960's. Ed made the store into a notable tourist attraction with his novel items and humorous signs posted around such as: the parking meter next to the real estate office with a sign that said "First and only parking meter in Bandera County", a post with a "City Limits" sign nailed to both sides of the post, a sign on the front door that said "No dogs or horses allowed", a coon skin cap placed on a mounted deer's head with a sign hanging around the deer's neck that said "Me too" during the Davy Crockett coon skin cap craze, a coconut hanging over the vegetable bin with a sign that said "Squeeze this, not the tomatoes," a large cracker barrel on the counter when Captain Gus was popular on T.V., and many more things. The "Marrying Oaks" in back of the store were a popular place to be married by Justice of the Peace Jennings. Ed operated the store for more than thirty years, retiring and closing the store in the fall of 1982.

Don and Ginger Lee, formerly of the "Helotes Cafe," purchased in the spring of 1986, the corner where the old store and dance hall sits. They remodeled the store into a restaurant "The Pipe Creek Junction Cafe" which opened on August 28, 1986. The restaurant is now open seven days a week serving breakfast, lunch and dinner. Hours are 6 a.m. till 11:00 p.m. 7 Days A Week. Wednesday night is "Fish Fry Nite" All-You-Can Eat. They are becoming well known for their freshly prepared food, the ample amount of portions and their reasonable prices. Pipe Creek Junction's menu varies from breakfast plates to breakfast tacos, lunch specials, to charbroiled burger & steaks, to homemade onion rings & french fries, to Mexican food to fresh salads to seafood. Their speciality is hand pressed fresh chicken fried steak and steak fingers with creamy gravy. Beer and wine now available. If you have a chance come by and dine with them or all their food is to go by call 535-4742. Pipe Creek Junction is located 9 miles east of Bandera on Hwy. 16.

Medina Lake Golf Association

There are two 18-hole golf courses in Bandera County. One is the 18-hole course at Flying L Ranch, and the other course is on the Lazy Oaks Ranch.

Flying L Ranch

Flying L Golf course is at Flying L Ranch just off State Highway 173 1½ miles south of Bandera on Wharton's Dock Road. This is a dude ranch where you can come as a family group or a larger group for overnight or longer. Many have bought their own lot and built a cottage or house to live in permanently. Bill Anderson is the golf course manager.

The 18-hole, 6,787-yard golf course wanders through the country side, over hills and around strategically placed lakes, making it a very testy course. It has plenty of trees that give the golfer a chance to use every club in his or her bag. The greens are excellent and undulating, so you need a good touch with the putter.

The par-72 course is a challenge to casual and pro golfers alike. Included at the course are a fully-equipped pro shop, snack bar and grill, 9-hole putting green, more than 40 carts, and paved cart paths.

Phone 796-3001, or Texas toll-free 1-800-292-5134.

Lazy Oaks Golf

Lazy Oaks 18-hole golf course is on Lazy Oaks Ranch, 4 miles southeast of Bandera on State Highway 16, also called Bandera Road as it comes from San Antonio.

Lazy Oaks also accommodates family or larger groups for overnight or longer stays. It is adjacent to Bandera Downs race track, and is managed by Scott Embretson.

The front nine holes are built among many, many oak trees with one water hole on the par-4 third hole. You have to hit long off the tee to clear the lake on the second shot. The front nine has two par-5 holes and two par-3 holes. Recently, Todd Ford, a member of the MLGA made a hole-in-one on the par-3 eighth hole during a tournament.

The back nine holes have very few trees, but some of the holes are pretty long. There is only one lake in the back nine and it runs for about 100 yards in front of the tee on the par-3 14th hole. The 18th finishing hole requires a well-placed shot on the tree-lined dog-leg hole.

Phone 796-3117 for information, and hours.

Medina Lake Golf Association

Two men, Sam Braswell, a Lakehills banker, and Bob Crist, a recently-retired automotive parts store owner from the Rio Grande Valley, started the Medina Lake Golf Association to "find a few people to play golf with."

Hoping to have at least 50 members by March 1, they started promoting the association. It has grown to over three times that number, with more than 120 men and 30 women golfers.

MLGA sponsors one 18-hole tournament each month, and during daylight savings time there is a 9-hole scramble tournament every Tuesday evening.

The scrambles begin at 5:30 p.m., and alternate between the Flying L golf course and the Lazy Oaks golf course. Cost is $5 per person.

Dining
in Bandera County

Fine dining can be found all throughout Bandera county, and of course each and every establishment offers a fine selection of the best menu items, from basics such as steak, chicken, and of course, chicken fried steak, to seafood and several ethnic specialties, such as authentic Mexican, Italian, Chinese, and Vietnamese food.

We recommend that you call in advance to check on specials, buffets and whether the establishment will accept checks, credit cards, etc., especially if you plan to drive some distance to dine in one of the outlying areas.

Many restaurants and cafes also serve beer, wine and/or mixed drinks, and a few have separate bar and lounge facilities.

In Bandera

Bandera Inn on State Highway 16 south features buffet lunch Monday-Friday with an expanded Sunday buffet. Senior citizen discounts, cocktails available, with separate bar, "The Starting Gate." Restaurant hours 6 a.m.-10 p.m., 7 days a week. Club hours noon-midnight. Phone 796-3093.

Bushee's Barbecue in downtown Bandera features a "complete barbecue menu" with all the trimmings, to eat in or take out. Open 10:30 a.m.-8 p.m., closed Monday and Tuesday. Catering also available. Phone 796-3153.

Butterfield Station, has soup, sandwiches, homemade desserts, pasta and chef salads. Open 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week. Phone 796-7463.

Cabaret on Main Street is open Friday through Sunday, and offers a variety including steaks, chicken and salad bar. Country and Western dance hall on the premises. Winter hours are Friday, 4:30-10 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, noon to 10 p.m. Bar open until 2 a.m. Phone 796-3095.

Dining
in Bandera County

Fine dining can be found all throughout Bandera county, and of course each and every establishment offers a fine selection of the best menu items, from basics such as steak, chicken, and of course, chicken fried steak, to seafood and several ethnic specialties, such as authentic Mexican, Italian, Chinese, and Vietnamese food.

We recommend that you call in advance to check on specials, buffets and whether the establishment will accept checks, credit cards, etc., especially if you plan to drive some distance to dine in one of the outlying areas.

Many restaurants and cafes also serve beer, wine and/or mixed drinks, and a few have separate bar and lounge facilities.

Fishing

It's good all winter long at Medina Lake

After Labor Day, the boaters become less numerous and anglers can actuallyu get some serious fishing done.

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Medina Lake contains its share of black bass, white bass, yellow and channel catfish, crappie and perch among other species. The clear water, depth of the lake and low amount of vegetation makes Medina Lake challenging.

Fishing is thought of as a summer sport, but two things keep this from being the norm at Medina Lake: the heat and boaters.

After Labor Day, the boaters become less numerous, and a fisherman can actually get some serious fishing done.

Just as it is hot for fisherman in the summer, so it is for the fish. They actually like the cooler weather. Fishing doesn't slow in the winter because of the fish, but because the wind is too cold coming off that water for the fishermen.

Each species of fish has its own ways of living and methods of feeding. The fisherman must adapt to the type of fish he is trying to catch.

Black Bass

Black bass can be taken from the shoreline, but most anglers fish from their boat. Bass fisherman such as Steve and Bill Clay of San Antonio try for bass at the points, along the shore, and in the coves. The lures they use are crank baits, spinners, and plastic worms. "We use whatever works. We try everything until we find what catches the bass," says Bill.

Crank baits are an artificial lure resembling a small fish or minnow with a "shovel nose" in front where the line hooks to the lure, explains Steve. He casts the lure towards the bank and cranks the reel in quickly so it'll dive and he keeps reeling it in fast. Bill adds, "The faster you pull it in, the faster it dives." He also cautions that if you're casting in shallow water, don't pull too fast or you'll hit bottom. As the crank bait dives and is retrieved, it "wiggles" back and forth giving action that attracts bass.

Spinner baits are a combination of a "head-shaped" weight with a spinner and a "skirted-hook". A set of dangling plastic or rubber strips surrounds the hook and gives the bait its action.

Colors are important to catch fish, which is due in part to the clarity of the lake, which is usually 4 to 6 feet, but can be as much as 20 feet in some places. The best color for spinner baits seems to be yellow-green (one shade known as fire tiger is particularly recommended) or chartreuse, says fisherman Jim Gerlach of Lakehills.

Plastic worms are always a favorite. But a plastic worm by itself isn't going to do much good without a weight to sink the worm hook to catch the fish. The most popular rigging is called "Texas-style rigging" says Steve. The "eye" of a large #1/0 to #4/0 "worm" hook is inserted through the front of the worm and the barbed end is then hooked back into the worm proper. A weight with a hole through its center (a "bullet weight") is slipped onto the line and the line is tied to the hook's eye.

Plastic worms are cast out and allowed to sink to the bottom and returned slowly with short jerks, reeling in the slack line. Since Medina Lake is a fairly smooth lake, you shouldn't get your lure caught on the bottom.

Other baits used are topwater lures that are used mainly around brush, and the fisherman uses action on the lure to make it look like a bug that's fallen into the water.

Jigs are also used, many times with a plastic florescent firetail. Jigs have to be worked up and down according to Gallagher. The jig is cast out and allowed to sink. Then "bump" it up and allow it to drop again by raising the rod tip about a foot to get action out of the lure's shirt. Keep reeling it in (not too fast) and continue the up and down motion every 15 to 20 seconds.

As long as it is hot, which includes September and some of October black bass must be fished from 20-30 feet deep, says Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop in Lakehills.

After a few cold fronts roll through the hills of Bandera County, the lake begins to get cooler, and the bass are caught in less depth. In winter, the bass move to more shallow water, says Gallagher.

In many ways summer and winter bass fishing is the same, except the temperatures are reversed. "Fish will go deep to warm water during the winter just like they go deep to cool water during the summer." Fish will seek the zone (thermocline) of water that has the most oxygen and is the most comfortable temperature for the cold-blooded animals. They also look for their food source.

The most popular rigging is called "Texas-style rigging" says Steve. The "eye" of a large #1/0 to #4/0 "worm" hook is inserted through the front of the worm and the barbed end is then hooked back into the worm proper. A weight with a hole through its center (a "bullet weight") is slipped onto the line and the line is tied to the hook's eye.

Plastic worms are cast out and allowed to sink to the bottom and returned slowly with short jerks, reeling in the slack line. Since Medina Lake is a fairly smooth lake, you shouldn't get your lure caught on the bottom.

Other baits used are top-water lures that are used mainly around brush, and the fisherman uses action on the lure to make it look like a bug that's fallen into the water.

Jigs are also used, many times with a plastic florescent firetail. Jigs have to be worked up and down according to Gallagher. The jig is cast out and allowed to sink. Then "bump" it up and allow it to drop again by raising the rod tip about a foot to get action out of the lure's shirt. Keep reeling it in (not too fast) and continue the up and down motion every 15 to 20 seconds.

As long as it is hot, which includes September and some of October black bass must be fished from 20-30 feet deep, says Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop in Lakehills.

After a few cold fronts roll through the hills of Bandera County, the lake begins to get cooler, and the bass are caught in less depth. In winter, the bass move to more shallow water, says Gallagher.

In many ways summer and winter bass fishing is the same, except the temperatures are reversed. "Fish will go deep to warm water during the winter just like they go deep to cool water during the summer." Fish will seek the zone (thermocline) of water that has the most oxygen and is the most comfortable temperature for the cold-blooded animals. They also look for their food source.

White Bass

White bass are fished entirely different from black bass. "White bass are a 'school fish,'" says Gallagher. Black bass are more loners.

The big time for whites is the spring, especially in April when they school for their run upstream to spawn. Easter Sunday is a good marker, says Gallagher, but the white bass run depends on the weather. If it gets cool again after they start the run, they may disperse back to the lake.

White bass will spend time schooling in the lake, storing food for their spring run up the river. Birds feeding off the lake's surface are an indication of white bass, says Bill Clay. The birds are most likely feeding on schooling shads, which is the same food that white bass eat. So if the shad are there, the white bass are probably there in a feeding on as many as they can get.

When the whites are found snapping at the small, silver-colored fish, throw any lure you can. "You'll catch them as fast as you can reel them in, because they'll be in a feeding frenzy," says Bill Clay. "Only problem is, it'll stop suddenly when the whites are done or the shad disperse," he adds.

Unfortunately, there are not enough birds at Medina Lake to make this a clear signal of where whites are schooling, says Gallagher.

Otherwise, look for schools of whites in the river. Troll the river and try to find where they're schooling, advises Bill Clay.

Catfish

There are two types of catfish: yellow and channel, and they usually bite on trotlines, but can be taken on rod and reel under murky water conditions.

There are two ways to fish for catfish, and the way you fish determines which kind you'll catch. Channel catfish hit the bait on a trotline quickly and yellow catfish take their time, reports Burgin Johnson of Goat Hill Camp.

"Channel catfish are like black bass, they grab the bait and run with it." If this is the type of fish, you're looking for, run a trotline three times a day, says Johnson.

For the large yellow catfish, bait the trotline once in the evening with large live perch and don't disturb it. Large yellow catfish bite mostly at night. "A yellow catfish might mouth a perch for an hour before he swallows it," adds Johnson.

Bait for trotlines can include almost anything. Baits used are perch, shrimp, worms, minnows, blood bait, dough bait, and crawfish. More exotic baits have been used, such as squid and canned wieners.

Catfish, especially channel will strike on a rod and reel when the river is murky. When there's been rain and the runoff clouds the river, catfish are disoriented and can't find their normal food source, says Jerry Acord of Pop's Place. Then hang night crawlers or shrimp into the river near the bottom and catfish will strike.

Crappie

Crappie averages 0.5 to 1 lb. in size, but is good eating. The black or "spotted" crappie looks like a cross between a perch and a bass.

Crappie should be fished at night, says Acord. Get to a dock or bank with a light that shines in the water or get in a boat and shine a light into the water around a brushy or rocky area. The fish will come to the light to feed. Use a cane pole or rod and reel with a light-weight line in the range of 4- to 6-pound test. Add a small-to-medium size hook, no weight, and a float, and bait the hook with a small minnow. Hook that bait so it can swim and lower it into the water and let the minnow do the work. If your line is too heavy, there won't be any action from the minnow and the crappie won't see your bait.

Perch

Perch, also called sunfish, that are seldom over one pound and usually much smaller. Perch are usually reserved for the children of the group. They can easily be fished from shore with a cane pole and worms, preferably smaller worms (not night crawlers).

Find a place where there's a "change", like a rock grouping or brush area. Perch have to be found. You've just got to try different areas. Perch aren't going to come to you you've got to go to the perch. But once you find one, you've almost always find more, because perch come in bunches.

For the military

Active duty military, retired military, and Dept. of Defense civilians have a place on Medina Lake: Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Camp.

The outdoor recreation facility offers picnicking, overnight camping, water activities, as well as indoor recreation. Located in Mico, the facility is open for authorized users Thursday through Monday and closed Tuesday and Wednesday.

Winter season hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. for the marina and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the sales store. After Nov. 1, the facility may be open only on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays until the summer season, says manager James Walker.

The facility has 14 tent pads plus additional areas for tenting, each which includes a barbecue pit, picnic table, and water. Primitive, but not that primitive.

Twelve recreation vehicles slots have water and electrical hookups, but no sewage connections. The camp does not have an RV dump station. There are five 22 foot trailers with air conditioning available for rent for overnight visitors.

There are three group picnic pavilions that can be reserved for events such as family reunions and large group activities. The pavilions can accommodate as many as 150 in a group.

The camp has a store with picnic supplies such as beer, soda, ice, snacks, chips, candy, ice cream, and charcoal. The store also sells bait for fishing including redworms, night crawlers, shrimp, minnows, catfish bait and artificial tackle.

An indoor recreation hall with a television area, pool tables, video games, and a game room for chess, checkers and other games is also available.

Water activities during the winter are boating and fishing. Personnel with their own boats have two ramps from which to launch. Thirty boat slips are available for private boat owners to leave their boat at the site, renting the docking position by the month.

The facility has boats for rent. Twelve, flat-bottomed, 14-foot "john" boats each with a 10-horse power motor are available for fishing. Eighteen fourteen-foot runabouts each with a fifty horse power motor are available for water skiing. Two pontoon "patio" boats each with 40 horsepower engines area available for sight-seeing, fishing, cruising around the lake for day outings.

To rent a boat, boaters must take a free class on boating safety held Saturdays at 9 a.m.

Most any camping supply can be rent from the sales store, including everything from back packs to water jugs and includes heaters, tables, minnow buckets, skis, and sleeping bags.

The facility is managed by Walker, retired military, with Staff Sgt. Bob Kittle as Non-Commissioned Officer in charge. There are also three recreation aides, who are also retired military. In the summer, three lifeguards are added to the staff.

Pets are not allowed at the camp.

Dude ranching

Bandera's Dude Ranches are known far and wide for their hospitality, and they pride themselves on their friendly atmosphere, pardner, but even though most of 'em offer standard guest ranch activities like horseback ridin' and wranglin', there's a few differences.

Bandera River Ranch/ Bandera Homestead located on State Highway 16 south is basically vacation ownership condominiums, but they offer "luxury lodgings at special rates from $75." Swimming pool, Medina River activities and horseback riding available. Phone 796-3751.

The Dixie Dude Ranch on the lower Tarpley Road (Ranch Rd. 1077), one of the Cowboy Capital's oldest and most popular resorts, is priced from $60 daily for single adult occupancy, $50—$55 double, which includes meals, horseback riding, nature trails, hayrides, etc. Open year-round. Children's rates are slightly lower, and the Dixie Dude offers group package rates and weekly rates. Phone 796-4481.

Flying L Ranch, another year-round resort has golf course, swimming, tennis, horses and an airstrip. Many group and package deals available, rates differ after September. Phone 796-3001, or Texas toll-free 1-800-292-5134.

LH7 Ranch off FM Road 3240 on Montague Lake offers individual rock cottages kitchen equipped, an Olympic-sized pool overlooking a 45-acre fishing lake. Beautiful social center and pasture tours. Camping and RV hookups available. Rates are $40 for 2 persons; $2.50 for each extra guest. There is a one-time linen charge of $7.50, or guests may bring their own. Exclusive use of all facilities per day— $500. Phone 796-4314.

Mayan Ranch is a full-service, family-run establishment with plenty of planned activities year-round. Cowboy breakfasts, hayrides, barbecues and Medina River activities. Follow the signs from downtown Bandera. Phone 796-3312 or 796-3036.

Peaceful Valley Ranch off State Highway 16 north off Highland Waters Road closes after Labor Day weekend, open Thanksgiving week, then closes again until Easter. This longtime Cowboy Capital establishment is geared toward family fun. Rates start at $175 weekly for four, or $35 daily with a two-day minimum. No meals included, but kitchen facilities provided. Phone 796-3681.

Silver Spur Dude Ranch, off Ranch Rd. 1077, has ultra-modern accomodations including color TV, king size beds in every room, and lots of entertainment. Centered in the main lodge is a huge lounge that includes a player piano, stereo, and comfortable surroundings. On Friday and Saturday evenings, entertainment includes western dances complete with live bands. Situated on about 275 acres, the Silver Spur is near the Hill Country State Park, and the wranglers regularly take guests into the beautiful natural area for horseback trips and hay rides. Meals and horseback riding are included in prices, which are normally $60 per day for adults, but during fall and winter months rates start at $51 daily. Phone 796-3639.

Twin Elm Ranch on State Highway 470, another resort located along the banks of the beautiful Medina River, closes after Labor Day weekend and opens again in mid-March, according to owner Mary Anderwald. It is a well-established Bandera family tradition famous for hayrides, trailrides and all the standard guest ranch fare, including homestyle meals. Reservations recommended. Phone 796-3628.

Frontier Times Museum

Bandera's Frontier Times Museum had its beginnings in a private collection of old west and pioneer artifacts belonging to the late J.M. Hunter Sr., but with the addition of many diverse and unusual artifacts that include some prehistoric items, the museum at 506 13th St. has become a Bandera landmark.

Many of the artifacts, due to their rarity and value, rival those to be found in much larger, more famous museums. Frontier Times Museum has one of the largest and most eclectic collections to be found anywhere, containing over 40,000 artifacts pertaining to hundreds of subjects.

Founded in 1933 by Hunter, and later owned by the F.B. Doane Foundation, the Frontier Times Museum has been jointly owned by the citizens of Bandera County since 1972.

Because the museum is owned jointly by some 9,000 citizens of Bandera County, it depends solely on private donations for its support and receives no city or county funds. It is operated on behalf of the local citizens by a board of directors, 25 people from different backgrounds and different areas of the county.

In addition to the museum's permanent displays, rotating exhibits are presented in the Doane gallery, featuring a different area artist each month. Watercolors, leatherwork, needlework, quilting, oil painting and ceramics are a few of the types of art exhibited. In October, Julia McDaniel's oil and pencil drawings will be on display. Ann Ruthven's porcelain art will be highlighted in November, and in December the museum will feature works from the permanent Doane collection, as well as works from local artists including Irene Frazier and Norma Anderwald.

The bells range from Russian sleigh bells, elephant and camel bells, and a Siamese dancer's collar and necklace to a Chinese gong from the Ming dynasty.

items in the Gordon collection is a throne chair from the Doge's Palace in Venice, Italy. This ornately-carved chair of Circassian walnut is over 400 years old, and was used by the royalty of Europe when they visited the Doge, or chief magistrate of Venice, to pay their respects.

Perhaps the rarest item in the collection is a reincarnation plate which comes from the Krishna temple in Benares, India, the birthplace of Hinduism.

The plate, intricately carved in silver, copper and brass, was used by the Hindu priests to teach their followers the cyclic theory of reincarnation. It was presented to Gordon by the leaders of an Indian province in gratitude for her financial aid during a famine.

The Charles Fagan Collection includes many items of South American origin, including a 400-year-old pair of brass conquistador stirrups, a porcupine fish, a wooden idol from Easter Island, an iguana lizard, an alligator tooth necklace and two shrunken heads.

The heads were shrunken by the Jivaro Indians, a tribal people living in the jungles of southeastern Ecuador and northern Peru. They carry on blood feuds among themselves, and in order to prevent the spirits of their dead enemies from inhabiting their bodies, they perform an elaborate ceremony that involves the shrinking of their victim's head.

Many of the museum's artifacts come from Texas and the southwestern United States. Among the pioneer items are assorted tools, saddles, furniture, weapons and clothing.

Tarpley's old telephone switchboard, used from the 1930s to the mid-1960s, several early model telephones, music boxes from the 1880s, an early permanent wave machine, a primitive baby incubator and a full-sized replica steam engine are among the many artifacts at the Frontier Times Museum.

The oldest artifact found in Texas is a sample of fiber netting used by prehistoric man who lived in the Chisos Mountains of the Big Bend territory nearly 3,000 years ago.

An unusual item is a camel hair pillow that belonged to Bandera County pioneer Amasa Clark, who was a camel herder during the 1850s "great Camp Verde camel experiment."

Frontier Times Museum is visited by over 12,000 people from around the world each year, and is open every day of the week. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 1-4:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1 for adults, 25 cents for students through age 18, and children under age 6 are admitted free.

Members of the Friends of Frontier Times Museum are admitted free. This organization helps support the museum and allows its members unlimited free admi sion to the museum for a one year period.

Memberships are available in the following categories: Senior Citizen $5; Individual $10; Family $15; Business $25; Patron $100 and Life Member $1,000. All immediate family members are admitted free with a family membership, and life members get perpetual free admission.

Getting that trophy

Deer can be tracked, but if the deer smells or hears the tracker, they're gone into the next 10 acres in a flash.

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Deer need to feel confident that a feeding location is safe.

Proper preparation for hunting deer Hill Country style requires picking the right location, getting the deer used to coming to that location, and knowing what to expect and when to expect it.

There is no absolutely wrong place to hunt, says Will Honeycutt, a hunter with 15 years experience and one of the owners of the Deer Stand in Bandera, a hunting specialty store. There are instances of a large buck being killed behind a barn, but scouting to find where the deer go will improve a hunter's chances, Honneycutt observes.

Locate the deer's feeding ground. They often feed on acorns from oak trees and have favorite fields to graze. There is no substitute for quietly looking and watching the deer, Honeycutt says.

Prior to hunting season, deer travel in large groups. They have specific paths from their bedding area, feeding grounds, and watering place, says Honeycutt. "There will be a tree they eat acorns from, a water hole they prefer, and a field that they prefer to graze," says Honeycutt. They'll take the same path daily, he adds.

Track deer, especially after a rain when it's easy to see the tracks. But don't walk on their tracks. They will put a human scent on their trail and they'll change their habits, says Honeycutt.

Other tell-tale signs of deer include signs of horn scraping on trees. Bucks lose their horns in the spring and grow new ones in the summer, says Honeycutt. They start to lose the velvet on their new horns in late September and early October and scrape the trees to rub the velvet off.

Hunters need to watch the movement of the deer, says Honeycutt. Bring field glasses when scouting and take notes, he recommends. Before the blind goes up, the hunter should locate himself in what he thinks is the ideal location for a blind and note the time of the deer's movement.

A location to hunt needs to be found and requires two items: 1) as far from human activity as possible, and 2) a spot near a clearing where deer are known to cross.

Deer can be tracked by walking about the hunting area, but if the deer smells or hears the tracking hunter, they're gone into the next 10 acres in a flash.

Most hunting in Bandera County is done from a stationary location, usually a small shelter called a blind at one end of a clearing. A deer feeder at the opposite end to attracts deer. This is practiced by 90 percent of the hunters in the area, says Honeycutt. "Set up a feeder and blind at reasonable rifle range," says Honeycutt. This method gives the hunter the advantage. But there's more to it than that.

The location of the blind is not as important as the location of the target area. Pick the wrong target area and all a hunter may watch are the scrub-jays (large blue-gray birds that are loud) pecking away at deer blocks and eating the deer corn.

Deer stay under cover as much as possible. They simply do not come out into the open unless they have to. It is widely believed, and probably true that a deer's instinct gives them clues to when hunting season starts and they modify their behavior.

Place your deer feeder and deer block at one end of a clearing near brush. Place the feeding station about two deer-lengths away from the brush border. Don't put the block directly under the deer feeder, but about another deer-length away. The site should be chosen with these points in mind:

- Locate near a point where two or more trails cross or are close by. Deer will break a trail and go 20 to 30 yards over if they sense they are in danger, says Honeycutt. The more tracks, the better, he adds.
- The feeding site should be chosen with the sun in mind. Do you want a rising or setting sun to glare right into you scope while you're aiming?
- The feeding site needs to be upwind of the blind, so the deer don't get the scent of the hunter. During hunting season, the wind usually comes from the north or northwest, says Honeycutt, so place the blind south of the area you want to hunt.

Deer have a tremendous sense of smell. "Deer can smell up to a quarter of a mile away, according to the strength of the smell and the wind," says Honeycutt.

- The deer feeder must be kept away from trees where squirrels, raccoons, and other small animals lurk. Squirrels learn quickly how to shake a deer feeder and drop the corn all over the ground. There are feeder to restrict climbing of small animals.
- The feeder should be high enough above the ground so raccoons and wild hogs don't drop corn out of the feeder.

Deer are creatures of habit and instinct like most other mammals. Just because you put deer corn out doesn't mean the deer will head to that location. Other factors to consider are territorial instincts of bucks and how they run.

Deer need to feel confident that a feeding location is safe. The first day of deer season is no time to convince a deer of

Along with our scenic beauty we have two capitals, Bandera, The "Cowboy Capital of the World" and Medina, the "Apple Capital of Texas."

We have some excellent guest ranches, friendly merchants, helpful citizens and a fine race track for the sports fans.

Our communities have fine schools, low crime rates and friendly neighbors.

We hope you enjoy your visit in our county and we invite you to return and share our vision of the future — "A dedication to orderly growth with sound economic development policies that will benefit everyone in Bandera County."

Starting at least a month, before the season opens, decide your hunting location. Set up deer feeders and deer block in its feeding location. It will take awhile, but the deer will discover it. Keep the site stocked with corn and deer a block.

The deer block, besides being a secondary feeding source, will provide nourishment if the feeder runs out of corn while you're gone.

Note herds of does, says Honeycutt. Where there's a herd, there will be at least one buck in charge and another buck ready to challenge.

When deer enter a field, the deer will smell for scents, says Honeycutt. "The deer are the experts (in the field). In a successful hunt, a hunter has to overcome their senses and especially their sixth sense that tells them of death," says Honeycutt. "Be it a camera or a rifle, once they hear that click, they're gone," he adds.

The payoff in deer hunting is an excellent supply meat. A young buck will weigh out in the field at 110 to 130 pounds, says Honeycutt. A larger whitetail will weigh in up to 200 pounds.

Storing and processing

Bandera County offers hunters a few places to store that trophy during the season. Some facilities offer processing as well as storage. Some of the larger ranches that lease to hunters have their own coolers.

Bandera

Bandera Ice House, located on State Highway 16 provides storage only. Their hours are 6 a.m.-midnight daily except Saturday when they stay open to 1 a.m. Phone 796-4737.

Medina

Kneuper Storage is located four miles up F.M. 2107 from its intersection with State Highway 16, north of Medina. They offer storage only and their rate is $5 for the first day, $1 per day after, up to a maximum of 10 days. Hours vary during the week so call first. Weekends they're open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Phone 589-2380.

Lakehills

Adolph's Store on Park Road 37 in Lakehills will store deer for $4 per day. Their hours are 10 a.m. to midnight daily except Tuesdays when they're closed. Phone 751-2240.

Utopia

Boyce and Davenport will process and store deer and also do smoking and make sausage. Storage is $10 for a maximum of 10 days and processing is $30 per deer. Hours are 5 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. Phone 966-3444.

Mercantile Co. stores and processes deer and also makes sausage and smokes. Storage is $10 for up to 10 days and processing is $30. They're open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. Phone 966-3311.

Tarpley

Howdy's Hilltop is west of Tarpley across the bridge and has deer storage $5 for the first day and $2 every day after. Hogs and turkeys at a different rate. Open 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Sundays. Hours will be expanded on the weekends during hunting season.

Hunting supplies

New and used guns, licences, ammunition and advice are available.

Supplying hunters with the feed, ammunition, and other supplies they need is taken care of by several Bandera County businesses.

stock eastward across Texas.

As the climate became more hot and dry in recent times, the Texas maples were restricted to sheltered canyon pockets like the park. This same explanation can account for other rare and isolated plants and animals in the canyon, and in other rugged, desiccated portions of the Hill Country.

Bigtooth maples (Acer grandidentatum) are close relatives of the celebrated sugar maples of commerce. The brilliance of this natural event depends on weather conditions in September and October. Adequate rainfall, cool, crisp nights and plenty of sunshine during this period will assure a spectacular blaze of red, yellow and orange the first half of each November. The maple groves along the Sabinal River are the easiest to see, but visitors claim that the harder-to reach stands in Hale's Hollow and along Can Creek and Dry Can Creek are the more rewarding.

The park's headquarters are open from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily, and day use permits are $2 per vehicle and are good until 10 p.m. There is no charge to senior citizens for daytime use of the park.

Dr. Gary Garrett of the TPWD's Heart O' the Hills Research Station at Ingram believes man-made changes in the habitat of Guadalupe bass and hybridization with smallmouth bass have combined to reduce Guadalupe numbers. "As with most cases of hybridization, these hybrids have characteristics that are intermediate to the two species," he said.

The TPWD will conduct surveys throughout the range of the Guadalupe bass. Goals of the project are to determine genetic purity, recommend habitat protection and develop sanctuaries for the species, Garrett said. "Sanctuaries are especially important in that they not only protect a group of individuals, but they also can provide pure populations for restocking native habitats in the event of future environmental problems," he said.

General camping is $6 per night, plus vehicle entrance fee, and primitive camping is $4 plus vehicle entrance fee.

For more information and camping reservations, call 966-3413.

Lost Maples State Natural Area is scheduled to become the first sanctuary for the only native Texas game fish found exclusively within the borders of the Lone Star State — the Guadalupe bass.

Evolved in the clear swift water of streams such as the Sabinal, the Medina and the Guadalupe, the Guadalupe bass has become threatened because of hybridization. That's why the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. is determined to take steps to insure its survival as a distinct species.

The Guadalupe bass is similar in appearance to its close relative, the spotted bass, which is native to East Texas rivers.

5,000 Guadalupe bass were stocked in the Sabinal River and nearly Can Creek this year to preserve the genetic integrity of the species.

Refuges in the Sabinal River and nearby Can Creek in Lost Maples State Natural Area were recently stocked with 5,000 Guadalupe bass. A new catch and release fishing program went into effect Sept. 1 for all Texas lakes, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife officials. New length and bag limit regulations were approved by the TPW commission.

Dr. Gary Garrett of the TPW's Heart O' The Hills Research Station at Ingram said the refuge is intended to preserve the genetic integrity of Guadalupe bass, a species that has hybridized with introduced species in some areas.

The new regulations state that all black bass, including the largemouth, smallmouth, Kentucky spotted and Guadalupe bass, will be subject to a statewide 14-inch minimum length limit standard, according to the TPWD. The daily bag and possession limit on black bass will remain five, and for the first time a limit has been placed on white bass.

A fishing license is required for fishing in Lost Maples park, and staff member Sandra Payne said it is about a one-mile hike to the fishing sites in the park.

Bigtooth or can maple trees create extravagant displ of color when they turn in fall, and the Lost Maples St Natural Area is one of T as' most famous and spect lar fall scenic areas.

The trees are ab nt, not only in the park, t in the surrounding ca ns, and spectacular colors ging in hue from yellows golds to bright orange an d draw scenery lovers fro far and near.

Located in we rn Bandera County on the Sabinal River, five miles north of Vanderpool on R h Road 187, the park was med for relict and unchan g stands of bigtooth maple trees that aren't really lost.

The maples are modern-day reminder of ice ge glaciers that deposited e seeds 12,000 years ago.

Conditions for fall colors to be at their prime must be "just so," according to park officials, but usually, he trees will begin to change in late October, and will tinue in their beauty until Novem-ber. Temperature nd weather conditions are t two of the factors that color intensity depends on.

"Past experiences indicate that the dryer the summer, the better the fall leaf color," said Sandra Payne with the park staff. "It looks like it's going to be a good year (for the colors), but it depends on a lot of things, and it's impossible to forecast it with total accuracy."

Predictions of an early fall may also make a difference in this year's color display, Payne said.

The park is a combination of steep, rugged limestone canyons, springs, plateau grasslands, wooded slopes and clear streams. Because of its unique features and biological significance, the area was designated a National Natural Landmark by the Heritage Conservation and Reclamation Service in 1980, but the lands were purchased by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Service in 1973 and 1974 to preserve and perpetuate this outstanding and scenic natural resource.

Development of the park has been consistent with conservation goals, and park manager Roy Heideman reports there are picnic and camping areas available for daytime and overnight use.

The day-use area consists of 20 picnic sites, parking spaces and a restroom. For more extended visits there are two types of camping, 30 general camping areas designed for RV and trailer use, but with no electrical hookups. There is dump station and restroom and shower facilities.

Eight primitive camping areas, where no vehicles are permitted, offer campers a more rustic experience using a backpack and hiking shoes.

The staging area near the trailhead has 20 parking spaces and the park has 10.5 miles of trails. Activities include picnicking, camping, hiking, nature walks, bird watching and sightseeing.

Archaeological evidence shows that this area was used by prehistoric peoples at various times in the past. The Apache, Lipan Apache and Comanche Indians ranged over the land well into the 19th century.

The park is located on the highly dissected margin of the Edwards Plateau and has a maximum relief of about 450 feet. High canyon walls of the Sabinal River and its tributaries enclose and protect the park from the drying winds and high summer temperatures of the region.

The canyon has been a natural refuge for thousands of years, sheltering a unique combination of rare or isolated plants and animals.

Upland plateaus are mostly open grasslands with scattered mottes of live oak and madronas. Upper slopes are dense woodlands of the Ashe juniper and Lacey oak with mixtures of Texas oak, Texas ash and escarpment black cherry. Canyon bottoms support sycamore, pecan, oaks, hackberry maple, walnuts and button bush.

Populations of American smoketree occur in thie area, and common witchhazel and Canada moonseed occur in the park isolated from the rest of their kind by hundreds of miles.

The endemic sycamore-leaf snowbell is noted for its graceful white blossoms in early spring.

Guadalupe bass and the greenthroated darter, both unique to Central Texas, are known from the spring-fed streams. These same springs host three secretive amphibians: the unique Texas salamander, the scarce barking frog and the Texas cliff frog.

Among the animals known to live in and around the park are the white-tailed deer, armadillo, bobcat, opposum, raccoon, gray fox, rock squirrel, fox squirrel, mountain lion, Russian boar and javalina.

Some of these animals are shy and exclusive and others normally are active only at night, but wildlife sightings are a common and enjoyable aspect of the natural scene in this park.

This species grows today in the Rocky Mountains from Idaho to West Texas and northern Mexico.

Right behind their home, they have seven full-service RV spaces with electricity, water, and sewer. Call 535-4187.

Lakehills

Goat Hill Camp. The camp along the Medina Lake has full-service RV spaces on the 14 acre fishing camp. The facility is simple and primitive, but has lots of space. It is down 19th Street, off Park Road 37. Call 751-2072.

Bob's Cove. Deep in Lakehills, past where Park Road 37 ends and the county road takes over, lies Bob's Cove. Nestled next to one of Medina Lake's many coves and covered in oaks, Bob's Cove offers RV facilities with electricity and a few with water. Because of the twisting roads and the space availability of the cozy camp, visitors with larger RV's should inquire before coming. Call 751-9923.

Thousand Trails. Membership camping, full facilities. Down 8th street off Park Road 37. Call 751-2444 or 751-2406.

Animal shelters

Bandera County does not have a publicly-funded animal shelter, but it does have two privately-funded animal sanctuaries.

Animal Aid Society, 535-4751, of Pipe Creek maintains over 100 abused, neglected, and unwanted dogs and cats. They work solely on donations and from funds from the operator's pockets.

The animals are kept uncrowded in large outside pens about the size of a yard so they have plenty of space to exercise. The cat pens have a high fence with chicken wire to keep the animals in.

St. Francis Animal Sanctuary, 535-6514, of Pipe Creek maintains over 50 forgotten, beaten, and discarded dogs, cats, and various fowl. This organization runs on money from the operators and donations.

The shelter seeks to be a voice in Bandera County to advocate proper care of animals.

More Than A Guest Ranch

A guest facility on a working ranch of historic Texas Longhorn cattle with more than a thousand acres to roam, bordered by the spring fed Medina River and ringed with scenic splendor.

Bandera County Library

Some 20,000 volumes, genealogy reference material, video tapes, and books on audio tape.

Bandera County Library is home to some 20,000 volumes, including approximately 5,000 children's books, a large print collection, a substantial Spanish language book collection, video tapes, and books on audio tape.

Genealogy reference books and newly published books on Bandera County history were presented to Bandera County Library recently by members of the Bandera Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR).

The library is currently undergoing a major change, according to librarian Dr. Jimmie Hughie.

"We are automating the library," she said. "We will be the only library in District 10 to have an on-line, in-house catalog."

One computer terminal is in place at the circulation desk, and another will soon be ready for library patrons to use in place of the old-fashioned card catalog.

"Genealogy, along with stamp collecting, is the leading avocation in the United States," said Peggy Tobin, a member of the Bandera DAR. "We invite all Bandera visitors and citizens interested in tracing their roots to take advantage of the growing genealogy collection of our very fine county library."

There are references available in Bandera, she added, which are not to be found in Kerrville or San Antonio. The collection includes "Baptist Century in the Sabinal Canyon," and "Reflections on Medina Lake."

Bandera County residents may obtain a library card free of charge, and visitors may check library materials out on a temporary card with a $10 deposit.

"The deposit is refunded when the materials are returned," said Hughie.

Most materials are available for a two-week checkout period.

Library patrons can take advantage of a paperback book exchange, which allows a book to be traded for another in "approximately the same condition," says Hughie.

Books by mail and interlibrary loan are added features.

The library also offers 16-millimeter films and projector, Wednesday morning story hour, and a summer reading program for children. Another program started recently is adult education, and includes classes in citizenship, literacy, English as a second language, GED preparation and basic adult education.

The adult education classes are held Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6-8 p.m.

The library is housed in a historic building that was erected during the depression out of donated stone under a Works-Progress Administration program. It stands on Main Street directly across from the county courthouse.

The front part of the historic building where the library is located was used as a city auditorium until the mid-1970s, when the library was enlarged and the building remodeled.

"Friends of the Library," a group of community supporters who work to promote the library and its continually expanding programs, meets on a regular basis to oversee library business.

Hours are Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Rock Wilderness RV Park, on State Hwy. 173 north, five miles out of Bandera offers full hook-ups. Phone 796-3346.

Sabinal Canyon Campland offers rustic canyon camping, with close proximity to Lost Maples State Natural Area. Included are RV water and electric hookups, dump station, pool, showers, and picnic area. Full RV hookups available. Phone 966-2323.

Yogi Bear's Jellystone Park in Bandera has full-service RV hookups, dump station, cable TV, bathrooms, Rec. room, swimming pool, laundromat, game room, miniature golf. Access to Medina River for tubing, swimming, fishing, canoeing, tent camping. Phone 796-3751.

Pipe Creek

Pop's Place. Further down FM 1283 from Pipe Creek, but before the Park Road 37 junction is the big blue sign for "Pop's Place." Travel down Alamo Beach road to reach the camp where the Medina River first begins to expand into the Medina Lake. Open seven days a week, there are full-service spaces for RV's with electricity, water, and sewer. Call 535-4366.

Diamond M RV Parking. Travel south 3.2 miles on FM 1283 from Pipe Creek, and just before you reach Red Bluff Creek, the Diamond M Yarns and Crafts shop appears on your left. The proprietor of the small craft shop, Marion Montgomery, and her husband are members of the Family Motor Coach Association, #20365. Right behind their home, they have seven full-service RV spaces with electricity, water, and sewer. Call 535-4187.

An island resort at Medina Lake

Medina Lake offers a place to stay that's a little more than unique, because it's an island, Tiki Island in Medina Lake.

Four cabins and a large pavilion on the approximately one acre island are for rent. Each cabin is has two bedrooms, two baths, and a kitchen. Everything's furnished but your food, including water and electricity, says agent Ronnie Basinger.

The pavilion has two large barbecue pits that are big enough to cook for as many people as can fit on the island. There have been as many as 300 people on the island at once, says Basinger.

The cabins can be rented by the weekend for $225, by the week for $385, or by the month on a negiotated price, says Bassinger. Rental of the cabins includes free launching passes so renters can get their boat back and forth, he adds.

The cabins are not heated, but are air conditioned, so to say the least they are not rented much in the winter, even though the weather doesn't get bad until Dec. 1. However, renters can bring propane heaters for cooler times.

Candidates for sheriff meet voters at Lakehills event

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Candidates call for improved investigation capabilities, citizens advisory council, more emphasis on prevention.

Sheriff's candidates Steve Forest and Marc Sultan met at least 80 people at the Lakehills Civic Center Oct. 1 and Democrat Forest said he was primarily an administrator and Republican Sultan said he was primarily an investigator.

Forest cited his 39 years law enforcement experience with 36 of those years as in administration and supervision. He says he wants to use his experience as a personnel manager, director, budgeter, and organizer in Bandera County's sheriff's department.

Sultan has 20 years in law enforcement dealing with felony criminal, arson, organized crime, and homicide investigation. Sultan said he sees a need for improved investigation in the department.

The sheriff's department is short-handed and its investigation abilities are limited, says Sultan. "The office of sheriff should be a working office," says Sultan. "The sheriff should be involved in investigations."

Forest said he feels the leader of a law enforcement agency doesn't have to have a strong investigation background. "The number one law enforcement agency in the United States is the FBI and is headed by Judge (Robert) Sessions. He has never been a law enforcement official and has never been a criminal investigator," pointed out Forest. "The sheriff needs to have his people out there doing the work."

"There is not enough investigation in drug sales and manufacture," says Sultan. Many burglaries are drug-related, he adds. The sheriff's department needs to perform a complete investigation of these crimes, using analytical, modern, and up-to-date methods.

Forest said he will require competitive exams and an oral interview for every position in the sheriff's department. This will be required of new-hires and may include current personnel. "I intend to put specifications on every job level," says Forest. "I have no intention to dismiss anyone, they'll have the decision whether to stay."

It is ludicrous and not feasible to clean house of current personnel, says Sultan. Current personnel must be reinterviewed and assigned positions they are best qualified for. "Better training is needed because that gives us a better officer," says Sultan. Sultan intends to retain the present chief deputy, Ken Mingo, if he wants the job, "because he is the most qualified individual in the department."

The key to establishing a more effective sheriff's department in a tight-budget county is to establish good public relations, says Forest. "We must gain the trust and confidence of the public to get information."

The sheriff is a liason officer to talk and visit with people to find out what's going on, says Forest. "We will have to rely on undercover officers to make a case on information received from the public."

A trained crime prevention officer is needed who will give information to victims of burglaries to keep it from happening again, says Sultan. He can also assist those that have not been struck so they know how to prevent it.

A 24-hour hot-line for citizens to report law violations and a more effective neighborhood watch program are also needed, he adds.

Beyond the preservation of the peace and lives, the sheriff must provide for protection of resident's property. However, the sheriff must be aware of the legal ramifications of his actions and apply more than common sense, says Sultan. The sheriff must have a good knowledge of the law. If a law-suit is filed against the sheriff's department, the taxpayer ends up paying for it.

Beyond law enforcement duties, the sheriff must administer all personnel, property, and material assigned by the commissioners' court, says Forest. A code of ethics, record system, and what the department's employees do are the responsibility of the sheriff. A physical inventory and records need to be maintained as well as what equipment is giving the department problems, he adds.

Under either candidate, the sheriff's office will be more accessible. "There will be no locked door (the public must go through) to get to me," says Forest. Both candidates are eyeing Justice of the Peace Tom Grant's office as theirs, though Sultan would like to have the sheriff's office in the courthouse.

Forest intends to establish a citizen's advisory council made up of people representing a cross section of the county.

To cut down crime, a resident deputy is needed in each area who knows where the people live and who they are, says Sultan. Because a deputy will be living in an area he patrols, he has a vested interest in maintaining law enforcement in that area. The deputy, however, will not be confined to that neighborhood. "Deputies will be used as needed in neighboring areas, but otherwise will work in their area," says Sultan.

Forest doesn't want to commit deputies to one area, but would supervise the daily activities of the deputies by a report detailing miles traveled, where patrolled, and what was done. "Officers need to exhibit a high degree of visibility," says Forest.

The state requires that all sheriffs, judges, and constables learn the administrative duties of their post in a school conducted by the state, says Sultan.

Sultan is a retired New York City homicide detective and has lived in the county for five years.

One more arrested by drug task force

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

Another Bandera County suspect has been arrested in the four-county drug investigation and roundup that has jammed the Kendall County Jail to the extent that the overflow landed in jail here. At least one additional person is being sought.

Gerald H. Persyn Jr., 31, of Bandera was arrested on warrants from Kerr County for possession and delivery of drugs and another man indicted by the Bandera County grand jury was not in custody at press time, according to Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan.

In other police-related news this week, arrests were made this week on charges ranging from criminally negligent homicide and assault to driving while intoxicated.

The 216th Judicial District Narcotics Task Force confiscated about four pounds of uncut methamphetamine, valued at more than $360,000, from a Kendall County drug lab. Officers executed a search warrant at about 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the River Ranch Estate subdivision about 1 miles north of Boerne on State Highway 474, according to Lt. Jim Harvey.

Byron Steven Goetz, 32, and his wife Cindy Goetz, 30, both of San Antonio, were arrested and charged with manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of methamphetamine, manufacturing of phenyl acetone and theft, Harvey said.

A Department of Public Safety chemist from the Austin DPS lab estimated that some 7,200 dosage units could have been made with the chemicals found at the lab.

Thomas Wells, 30, Reynoldo Algueseva, 33, and Harvey Glen Hoit Jr., 30, all of San Antonio, and William Robert Caudill, 19, and John Thorp Caudill, 21, both of Boerne, were arrested and put in custody in the Bandera County jail.

Wells and Algueseva were charged with possession of methamphetamine, and Hoit was charged with possession of a controlled substance. William Caudill was charged with delivery of cocaine, and John Caudill was charged on two counts of delivery of cocaine and one count of delivery of marijuana.

Christian Mathews, 19, of Pipe Creek was arrested and released on bond Sept. 30, following an indictment by the grand jury on charges of criminally negligent homicide.

The charges stem from a June 16 traffic accident near Pipe Creek in which a California woman, Billie Edith Pepper, 84, was killed.

No citation was issued at the time of the accident, according to DPS reports.

Samuel S. Benner, 28, of Bandera was arrested Oct. 2 and charged with assault. He was released on bond Oct. 3.

Chance Jones, 19, of Lakehills was arrested and released on bonds and fines Oct. 2 and charged with possession of marijuana.

Jerry B. Balter, 37, of Bandera was arrested Oct. 2 and charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released on bond Oct. 3.

Bandera sheriff's department investigated reports of three burglaries last week.

Wednesday, Sept. 28, Jesse Jaime reported his home in Pipe Creek was burglarized. Items valued at approximately $1,800 were reported stolen, including a color TV, VCR and microwave.

Thursday, Sept. 29, Marvin Volkmann of San Antonio reported his storage shed on his property in Pipe Creek had been burglarized, and a lawn mower was reported stolen.

Friday, Sept. 30, Sylvia Kappelmann of San Antonio reported her weekend house at Lakehills had been burglarized, and a color TV was reported stolen.

A San Antonio man received minor injuries Sept. 29 when the vehicle he was riding in struck a horse on State Highway 16 south, near Robin Dale Road and Bandera Downs. Sheriff's Deputy Jim Kimbrell investigated the accident, and reported that Gene Ott from Bandera Downs came and removed the horse from the scene, according to MacMillan. The accident reportedly happened in the early morning hours, while it was still dark.

A 1984 Corvette reported stolen from San Antonio at 9:30 p.m. Sept. 29 was found burning in a dry creek bed on Hwy 1283 near the Bandera/Medina County line at about 11 that same evening, according to MacMillan.

"The Lakehills VFD responded to the call and quickly contained the fire, but the car was totaled," said MacMillan.

DPS eyes gamblers here, officer says

Bandera County grand jury's indictment of a person still unnamed on gambling-related charges last week may not be the last time charges of this type come up in a Bandera courtroom, according to a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety Criminal Intelligence division in San Antonio.

Communicating gambling information and gambling promotion are both third degree felony charges that carry a penalty of 2-5 years in prison and/or $5,000 fine, according to DPS investigator Larry Benningfield.

Gambling promotion, or "bookmaking," is defined in the Texas Penal Code when a person is receiving, recording and forwarding more than 5 bets in a 24-hour period, and communicating gambling information occurs when a person communicates information as to bets and betting odds, or knowingly transmits such information, according to Benningfield.

"When pari-mutuel (wagering) passed, the legislature gave the power (to this department)," said Benningfield. "In all probability, the indication from other states (where pari-mutuel wagering has been legalized), there will be a lot more activity."

Benningfield said that even with legalized gambling, many illegal bets are made to protect the "odds" on a particular race. If a legitimate bet is made, it will bring the odds down, but if illegal bets are placed "on the side," with a bookmaker, it won't affect the odds.

Another reason the DPS investigator said for people to bet illegally is to keep from having to pay the Internal Revenue Service for money that is won.

Benningfield also called the illegal gambling activities "a good way to launder dirty money and drug money."

Appraiser defends size of district's budget

The Bandera County Appraisal District budget, much protested by citizens and taxing authorities alike, is actually low as compared to other districts of similar size, says Chief Appraiser Larry Reagan.

The Bandera County Appraisal District has 35,000 accounts that must be appraised and processed. It does that with the current $185,350 budget and three appraisers, including the chief appraiser.

As a comparison, Medina County has 30,000 accounts and a $270,000 proposed 1989 budget, or $9 per account. This compares with Bandera's $195,960 proposed 1989 budget, or $5.60 per account, Reagan said.

The salaries for chief appraisers of the two counties are about the same, $33,000 for Medina's and $34,740 proposed for Bandera. However, Medina uses three appraisers rather than two.

Kerr County also has 35,000

Voters must register by Friday or mail application by Oct. 9

The last day to register in order to be eligible to vote on Nov. 8 this year falls on Sunday, Oct. 9, and unregistered voters must sign up by Friday, Oct. 7, at 5 p.m. or have their application postmarked by Oct. 9, warns tax assessor-collector Marguerite Stevens.

A voter registration application is considered submitted at the time it is placed in the mail, Stevens said. Any voter who does not have a current, white registration card should contact the tax office for a replacement.

Applications for absentee voting by mail are now available through the county clerk's office, says clerk Vera King. Those eligible to vote by mail include those 65 years of age and over, those who cannot get out to vote because of illness or confinement or religious reasons, and those who expect to be out of the county on election day, Nov. 8.

Anyone can vote absentee by personal appearance at the courthouse during the period from Oct. 19 through Nov. 4. No longer do they have to give a reason for voting absentee.

"We really encourage those that are able to vote by personal appearance (instead of by mail)," said King. "It is less costly and time-consuming and it saves your tax dollars."

Electric bills to go up by 9.7 percent, co-op says

Electric bills are expected to go up by 9.7 percent on bills mailed in November, says Bandera Electric Cooperative manager Russ Vander Zee.

The rate increase requested by the co-op's supplier of electricty was approved Sept. 21 by the Public Utility Commission, Vander Zee said, and the size of the increase surprised Vander Zee and other observers.

He said he was expecting approval of a rate for the Lower Colorado River Authority that would result in an increase of about 8.3 percent, but commissioners did an "about face" and approved a higher increase, despite their own examiner's recommendation for the lower figure, Vander Zee said.

"As a result, Bandera Electric Cooperative's power bills will be somewhat higher than expected," Vander Zee said.

Although the LCRA is allowed to begin applying the rate increase immediately, there is still a possibility that the commissioners might change their ruling during an appeal phase of the case, Vander Zee said.

"Presently, however, the higher cost of electricity will begin showing up in our member's bills mailed in November," said Vander Zee.

Users of 1,000 kilowatt-hours of power per month can expect their bills to increase by approximately $3.50, he said.

Last week the Edwards Aquifer Research and Data Center in San Marcos held an "Instream Flow Workshop." Co-sponsors of the workshop included the Texas Water Development Board, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and Texas Water Commission.

"Methods Used to Develop Relationships between Habitat Quality and Fish Standing Crop: Aquatic HEP, Habitat Quality Index, Index of Biotic Integrity."

The most popular buzzword among folks who talk about such things is "IFIM:" Instream Flow Incremental Measurement.

Basically, the agency personel and counsulting engineers are trying to figure out how many fish (and other critters) of what kind are where in the rivers. They are trying because, hopefully, they can then tell the fools who dam our rivers how much water they need to release.

Enough water at the right time is obviously necessary to keep downstream fish populations alive.

Fishermen will be glad to know that the experts — with the help of science statistics and computers — admit that they are now always sure where the fish are.

That is reassuring. Many of us hope it works the same way in the presidential campaign.

We hope that the voters are out there swimming freely, where the opinion pollsters and media experts are not looking.

Prayer in Public Schools?

Congressman John Kasich (R-Ohio) was first elected to Congress in 1978. He serves on the House Armed Services Committee and the Investigations and Readiness subcommittees.

YES

Why do you support prayer in public schools?

As a nation whose heritage is based at least in part on the Judeo-Christian ethic, some sort of brief acknowledgement of a Supreme Being has been a longstanding tradition at most public gatherings, over the years. Prior to the Supreme Court's decisions in 1962 and 1963 effectively banning it, prayer in our schools had been a precedent of nearly 200 years. Public opinion polls today consistently show overwhelming support for a return to voluntary prayer in the classroom.

Do you believe children would be harmed by school prayer?

Absolutely not. Allowing a moment for silent prayer or meditation on a daily basis would help enhance the moral and spiritual climate in our schools and thus benefit our society as a whole. At the same time, it would assist in providing an atmosphere in our schools conducive to learning.

John H. Buchanan, an ordained Baptist minister and a former eight-term Republican member of Congress from Alabama, is chairman of People for the American Way, a 270,000-member constitutional liberties organization.

NO

Why do you oppose prayer in public schools?

Voluntary prayer in school is a reality right now. Any child can pray individually if he or she does so without disrupting the educational program. So you can be sure there will be prayers in school as long as students have to take math tests. When the state gets involved, that's another matter. No matter how pure the motive, state-sanctioned school prayer violates one of the most basic premises of the Constitution — the separation of church and state laid down in the First Amendment.

Do you believe children would be harmed by school prayer?

Government-mandated prayer could place a young child in a very difficult position. The child could be forced to choose between exercising his or her constitutional rights and defying peer pressure and the teacher's authority.

Organized public prayer in schools can also be offensive, both to children who could not in good conscience recite a particular prayer and to those who consider words created by some government bureaucrat a bland substitute for religious devotions. Columnist George Will, for example, warned that public school prayer could reduce religion to "mere attitudinizing, a thin gruel of vague religious vocabulary."

Hill's endorsement puzzles state capitol observers

On the surface they're trying not to acknowledge its significance, but Capitol Democrats are privately seething over former favorite jurist John Hill and his endorsement of the Republican candidate for chief justice.

And Hill, who has always been controversial and gutsy, has put a lot on the line.

Hill, a Democrat, has held two statewide offices and narrowly missed winning the Governor's Mansion, but he rocked the Democratic establishment last week by endorsing his successor to the High Court.

The whole thing is puzzling to politicos who operate in the Capitol mode, yet it's clear if one knows that John Hill is a man who isn't afraid to take the heat for what he believes is right.

There are plenty of reasons why he shouldn't endorse Tom Phillips, at least according to the Democrats.

For starters, when Hill resigned last winter, Phillips was appointed by the governor who defeated Hill in a 1978 upset that turned Texas into a two-party state: Bill Clements.

Still a Democrat

A little-hailed proposed constitutional amendment on the November ballot is coming to the forefront. Amendment No. 3 would allow four huge state endowment funds to divert one percent of their assets to job growth and economic development in Texas.

The proposition would create the Texas Growth Fund and jumpstart it with assets from the Permanent University Fund, the Permanent School Fund, the Teachers Retirement School Fund, and the Employers Retirement System.

The four currently control about $28.5 billion in assets.

Those favoring the amendment want a sliver of the money steered into small and medium-sized businesses wanting to build or expand in Texas.

Highlights

By Lyndell Williams

Several top state officials, lesser state officials and board members overseeing those funds favor the proposition.

Opponents fear the funds could be weakened by the risk factors involved.

Hispanic switch to GOP?

In a week of surprising endorsements, the mother and siblings of the late Willie Velasquez, the hero credited with forging Hispanics into a powerful voting bloc with his Southwest Voter Registration Project, endorsed the Republican opponent of veteran San Antonio Congressman Henry B. Gonzalez.

Twenty-seven years ago, Gonzalez became the first Hispanic congressman from Texas, but last week the Velasquez family called him a "patron" and backed Lee Trevino, a San Antonio community college trustee.

Republicans were quick to point out that the stunning endorsement, plus the showing of Roy Barrera Jr. in the 1986 attorney general race, plus the appeal of Bush, means that Texas Hispanics are coming over to the Republican Party.

Other highlights

- State Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, drew praise from members of a Congressional panel when he tied a strong defense to a strong farm economy, calling it, "a defense food program rather than a farm program."
- In the wake of Hurricane Gilbert, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro held another clean beaches rally which attracted some 2,000 volunteers to Galveston.
- A new school finance plan that would cost the state an additional $1.5 billion annually won praise from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Comptroller Bob Bullock. The plan was prepared by the 60-member School Finance Working Group.

Bandera County

potpourri

By Nick Johnson

An old friend of mine from Mission gave a party this week at Sea World in San Antonio and it gave me an opportunity to preview the Sea World Salute to Bandera County that takes place Saturday and Sunday at the big marine park.

They call it "a showplace like no place on earth," and it's truly a party place like no place on earth.

It will be a Bandera party place Saturday and Sunday, with Bandera entertainers performing at the main entrance and the Sea World promotion team pulling out all stops to attract as many visitors from Bandera County as they can.

If you go, be sure to use the special "Salute to Bandera County" coupons instead of the others that are everywhere and that also give you $3 off (or 15 percent off) the $21 admission fee. The Bandera Youth Center will receive $1 for each person that uses the special salute coupons.

It's an understatement to say that visiting Sea World is a worthwhile way to spend an afternoon or evening, especially when the weather is as delightful as it has been lately.

My only advice to the first-time visitor is to wear comfortable shoes and to prepare yourself mentally to do a lot of walking. The sheer size of the place is part of its charm. Attractions aren't squeezed together like cages in a zoo, but spread out over sprawling, landscaped grounds that are pleasant to linger in.

But like the zoo, the animals are the thing!

Above all else, Sea World is a giant promotion, and part of the promotion is the impression they are able to convey that Shamu and the other performing whales actually enjoy what they are doing.

The admission price is actually $18, but the advertised price (the impression) is $21 and then "$3 off" coupons are spread around so liberally that anyone who cares about the cost can get them. Restaurants, hotels and motels and others gleefully push the coupons.

The Sea World Salute to Bandera County this weekend is nice recognition and provides people here a good excuse to visit the park's varied shows and marine exhibits while helping the Bandera Youth Center.

And at the same time see some mock gun fights, country singers and other entertainers from Bandera County gleefully lending (literally) their talents to Sea World.

Public hearing Friday on county's $2.5 million budget

By James Henry Frazar

The citizens won't be getting much more in county services, but mainly the people of the county are getting the same services as last year," he said. "What's in the budget is (only) what we have to do."

There are no funds in the budget for road damage repairs, roof repairs, expansion of courthouse office space, what the judge called needed new equipment for the sheriff's department, ambulances and ambulance equipment, or road maintenance machines.

The budget contains only modest increases in funds for the sheriff's department (up 6.3 percent over last year to $377,200), clerk's office (up 7.3 percent to to $135,950), and tax assessor-collector's office (up 1.9 percent to $125,110).

Hefty increases are included for the treasurer's office (up 25.3 percent to $73,500), county attorney's office and county court (up 24.5 percent to $30,900), and the justice courts (up 35 percent to $82,055).

It contains a 2.2 percent increase in the county's share of appraisal district expenses to $56,200.

Other items that will have to be dealt with in future budgets is bringing up the standards of the roads. "Roads that washed out are not going to be repaired (in this budget)," says Mauer.

There is no new paving in the proposed road and bridge portion of the budget. There is $539,361 in the road and bridge portion of the budget, up only slightly from $535,000 last year. The money is divided among the four precincts by approximately how much was contributed by the taxpayers living in each precinct.

There is no new paving planned in precinct 1, says commissioner Jimmy Russell. Paving planned of one mile of English Crossing has been cut to keep the budget down.

The $47,000 in road funds for precinct 4 will be used for repair rather than new seal coating, says commissioner Bud Thompson.

Of the $40,000 that is set aside for precinct 2, the funds for paving will be used to seal coat existing roads to keep them in shape rather than new paving, says commissioner Dan Alanis.

When rains washed out roads last year, money that would have gone to paving went to repair, says Mauer.

"The tax rate is lower because property values went up in some areas and we picked up new properties on the tax rolls," says Mauer.

"Even though the budget is 8 percent higher than last year, to generate the income to meet that budget, we can and did lower the tax rate," says Alanis.

The total appraised value of property in the county has gone up from $5,000,000,000 to $540,660,778, 7.4 percent increase. The total property value for the county has not been established, as there is about $7 million still before the appraisal review board.

Attorney Bob Caswell acted as moderator for the evening, fielding questions from the audience to the candidates.

The purpose of the meeting was to let the people of Lakehills know who the candidates were. With the defeat of candidates Gene Ott and James MacMillan, Lakehills residents were left with two candidates they didn't know much about, says Caswell.

accounts, and it plans to operate with a proposed $341,152 budget, or $9.75 per account.

Kerr County's chief appraiser makes $42,000 in salary and Kerr County's district has four appraisers.

The average cost per account for appraising property in the state of Texas in 1988 was $11.46, says Reagan. This makes the proposed budget of Bandera County less than half of the statewide average at $5.60 per account, he said. The average cost per account for appraisal districts of Bandera's size (35,000 to 49,999 accounts) was $8.05 in 1988, Reagan said.

Bill Ellis to seek constable's position

Bill Ellis of Bandera has announced his intention to seek the office of constable for precinct 3 as a write-in candidate.

No candidate will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot for the office as neither a Republican nor a Democrat sought the job in last spring's primary election.

Ellis says he's lived in Bandera for 15 years. He lists as his qualifications for the office: 24 years in police work, including 10 years as a sheriff's deputy for Bexar County, eight years as an investigator in Balcones Heights and six years with Olmos Park Police Department where he was a sargeant and was night chief when he retired in 1972.

Ellis says he is concerned about the apparent increase in crime in the Bandera area. "The more populated we get, the more burglars we'll have," he says. "Crime is moving in (to our area) from San Antonio."

Ellis says he would like to get the precinct residents involved more in crime prevention possibly by organizing a reserve unit.

Mayor seeks input on park matters

Bandera Mayor Raymond Adamietz is seeking citizen input and citizens and businesses interested in working with the City Parks Commission as it begins planning for the expansion of city park with a $600,000 grant.

The grant, which must be matched in kind or by donation of land, was approved last month by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. It calls for expanding the current city park at the State Highway 173 bridge over the Medina River and the installation of jogging trails, restroom facilities, picnic facilities, fishing access and other improvements.

Mayor Adamietz says the expanded park will be fenced and access limited to persons who pay a fee for entry. Funds realized by fees will be used for upkeep of the park.

The Park Commission was established by the city council in May 1987. Current membership includes councilmen Chuck Haver and Carl Adamietz and citizens Linda Stein, Sally Rodriguez and Tom Laxson.

Bus driver problem 'resolved:' Dockery

Complaints by parents against a school bus driver were "resolved" in a meeting with Bandera superintendent Ted Dockery, the administrator reported this week.

"The bus driver has been driving for us for 17 years, as well as being the chief mechanic," said Dockery. "We look into every situation that is reported."

Dockery said of five parents present at the meeting, at least three or four expressed support for the driver. "I feel the situation has been resolved," Dockery said. "I invite concerned parents to call us at the school any time," he added. "We're here and we listen."

Altamira Hills to return to acreage

The Altamira Hills subdivision on Ridge Route Road will be returned to acreage tracts starting Oct. 10, unless there is public opposition or county commissioners disapprove the application at their meeting Monday.

The subdivision, owned by M & A Properties, has only sold a few lots since it was established as a subdivision almost 10 years ago, says County Judge Ray Mauer. Since that time, the property hasn't sold. The owner, Albert B. Alkek, has been running cattle on the unsold lots.

Forest supporters plan barbecue

The supporters of Steve Forest for Sheriff are having a barbecue on Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Pipe Creek Community Center.

The group will furnish meat and tea and each family is asked to bring two dishes, either vegetables, salad or desert, and their eating utensils. The meal will be served at noon.

Anyone wishing to help may call Helen McKandles at 796-3970.

Brenda Smith named assistant cashier

Brenda Smith was named assistant cashier at the First State Bank of Bandera at the bank's board of directors meeting Sept. 16, according to bank president Sully Woodland.

Her duties include loan administration secretary and marketing representative. Other tasks that come into her position include opening of new accounts and writing certificates of deposit.

Smith has been with First State Bank for four years. She has an associate degree in office administration from University of Southwestern Louisiana and has received her applied banking diploma in April.

She is a resident of Bandera, is married, and has one son.

State tax specialist to be in Bandera Oct. 11

There will be a state tax specialist from the State Comptroller's office in Bandera on Tuesday, Oct. 11, to answer state tax questions and to assist taxpayers with returns. The tax specialist will be at the Bandera County Courthouse from 2:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Bandera County taxpayers who can't stop by the courthouse can still get individual tax assistance by calling the Comptroller's toll free number, 1-800-252-5555 from anywhere in Texas.

Appraisal district budget on agenda

Bandera County Commissioners will consider recommendations on appraisal district budget and will discuss the upcoming election at their meeting Monday, Oct. 10.

The Bandera County Appraisal District has resubmitted its $196,950 budget to the county and other taxing authorities for approval. A letter explaining the district's reasons for resubmitting the same budget that was disapproved by four of the five taxing entities has been received at the county judge's office. Commissioners will consider the letter and recommendations about the appraisal district's budget.

Commissioners will discuss whether the county is ready for the general election Nov. 8. Items such as whether the ballots are ready and whether there are enough poll watchers and poll judges will be discussed.

Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan will address the court on the county's drug awareness program.

The conversion of Altamira Hills to acreage tracts from a subdivision will be considered by commissioners.

Other items may be added to the agenda, which is finalized Thursday at 5 p.m.

Fire Prevention Week October 9-15

Gov. William P. Clements Jr. has proclaimed the week of Oct. 9-15 as Fire Prevention Week, citing the tragic loss of lives and property from fire each year in Texas.

"Fire continues to be a major threat to all our citizens, particularly the young and the old," Governor Clements said.

Fires in Texas killed 322 people, injured more than 2,000 and destroyed in excess of $300 million in property during 1987. Much of this tragic loss could have been prevented. We have the knowledge and technology today to prevent much of the needless loss of lives and property in this state and we urge every Texas citizen to practice fire prevention every day in an effort to conserve our valuable Texas resources," he said.

This year marks the 66th anniversary of National Fire Prevention Week. The weeklong observance was first established in 1922 by President Warren Harding in memory of the so-called "Great Chicago Fire" of October 9, 1871.

That conflagration killed 250 people and destroyed 17,430 buildings at a cost of $168 million. People began thinking in terms of fire prevention in addition to fire fighting as a result of this fire.

Fire prevention guidelines

The State Board of Insurance, and the State Fire Marshall's Office offer the following guidelines for practicing fire prevention in the home:

- Make sure that heating and cooking appliances are properly installed and used according to instructions.
- Do not use gasoline or flammable liquids for cleaning in the home. Do not use them to start or freshen a fire for heating or cooking.
- Provide proper ventilation for portable gas and oil heaters or fire places.
- Do not smoke in bed.
- Before going to bed, check upholstered furniture to ensure that smoking materials are not lodged in the furniture.
- Dispose of smoking materials safely. Store them out-of-doors in a metal containers and immerse them with water to make sure that they are completely out.
- Keep matches and lighters away from small children.
- Use only the corrrect size fuses in fuse boxes.
- Keep basement, closets, attic and garage cleared of combustibles such as papers, cartons, old furniture, clothes or oil-soaked rage.
- Store gasoline and other flammable liquids in closed containers away from heat, sparks and children, preferably away from the house. Never store flammable liquids in glass jugs, old bleach bottles or makeshift containers.
- Keep paint stored in closed containers and discard paint-laden brushes.
- Furnaces, stoves and stove pipes should be kept well away from combustible walls and ceilings. These appliances should be installed and maintained by qualified service people.
- Heating equipment should be checked yearly by qualified service people.
- Do not overload electrical circuits with too many appliances.
- When adding electrical wiring or appliances, have a qualified electrician do the installation.
- Only special circuits should be used for heavy-duty appliances such as air conditioners.
- Use only appliances that carry the seal of a nationally recognized testing laboratory.

Plan ahead.

Purchase a smoke detector with a nationally recognized testing laboratory label and install one or more at least outside the sleeping areas of your home. Check your detectors every week to make sure that they work properly. Clean the detectors according to manufacturers instructions. If detectors are battery powered, put in new batteries at least yearly.

Determine at least two means of escape from each bedroom. One will be the normal exit from the house or apartment. The other can be a window or a second door between bedrooms. Consider installing an escape ladder from windows.

Draw floor plan to indicate the location of doors, windows, stairs and roof tops that can be used for escape. Always keep escape routes free from obstructions.

Agree on a warning device to be used when a fire is discovered. Set a meeting place outdoors for a head count of occupants.

Practice escape procedures:

Sleep with your bedroom door closed. It could increase escape time.

If you suspect fire, test the door. If it is hot, do not open it because the area on the other side of the door is too hot to enter safely. If you think it is safe, brace your shoulder against the door and open it cautiously. Be ready to slam the door if heat or smoke rush in.

Adlof reunion draws 40 from 4 generations

Descendents of the three Adlof brothers who immigrated in the 1880s came from such places in Texas as Sherman, Paris, Evans City, and Cuero. Others came from as far as Buena Park, Calif. and Rochester, Pa.

David Adlof of Waxahachie went by the old homestead Friday before the reunion to inspect the old Wilhelm Adlof homestead in New Baden. The old log cabin is gone, but the cemetery is still there, reports Adlof. "The headstone still has the German script on the tombstone."

There were originally five children of the Frederick Wilhelm Adlof marriage in Austria. Four immigrated to the United States soon after the death of their father and one remained in Austria. The children sold the weaving factory their father had.

Carl Traugott Adlof came first in 1879 from Bületz-Biala, Austria (now Bielsko-Biala, Poland) and entered the United States through Ellis Island in New York. He came to Industry, Tex. where he bought a farm, says David Adlof.

His brother Frederick Wilhelm Adlof and married sister Augusta Turk with her husband Alexander and children came in the early 1880s through Pelican Island in Galveston, the equivalent of Ellis Island, says Elroy Adlof. "They were quarantined there for three weeks like other immigrants."

Frederick helped found the German colony in New Baden where he settled into farming. Augusta Turk and her family settled in Cuero.

Another Adlof sibling came to the United States, Rosa Hirt and her husband and son. Because of the son's death, there are no descendents of Rosa, says David Adlof.

"They all became farmers," says Rudy Adlof Haak. "They all learned farming the hard way," says Elroy Adlof. "They had to learn real fast, and fortunately they had a lot of boys," adds Haak.

Luther Edwards Jr. named to cemetery board

Luther Edwards Jr. was elected to a three-year term to the board of the Pipe Creek Cemetery Association at a meeting Sept. 10.

Edwards replaces his father, Luther Edwards Sr., on the board and joins Milton Lewis and Jay Edwards as directors.

The board makes sure the grounds of the cemetery located just south of Pipe Creek on FM Road 1283 is kept clean and neat, says Edwards. They also make sure that plots are sold in the cemetery to family members that need them.

The cemetery that has been in existence since the late 1800s has a membership fee of $15 a year and Pipe Creek residents in the 535 telephone exchange can become members.

The election is held every year on the first weekend after Labor Day to elect a new director to the board, allowing a new director to join each year.

Cookoff to benefit Helping Hand

A chili cookoff to benefit Bandera County Helping Hand will be held Saturday, Nov. 12 at Pop's Place in Pipe Creek.

As if a spring and summer chili cookoff for the Pipe Creek EMS wasn't enough, Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place has announced plans for a fall event, this time to benefit Helping Hand.

Live music will be featured during the day and night Saturday, Nov. 12, says Acord. Chili judging will begin at 4:30 p.m. and an auction will follow, he adds.

The entry fee for chili cooks is $15. Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third place and worst chili. A trophy for showmanship will also be awarded.

A night before party open to the public will be held Friday, Nov. 11, says Acord. Live music will be furnished, beginning at 8 p.m.

For more information, call 535-4366, 535-6121, or 535-4384.

Two flea markets planned in Lakehills this month

A flea market will be held at St. Victor's Chapel in Lakehills this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The American Legion post's flea market will take its turn Oct. 15.

A flea market at the Catholic church in Lakehills will be held Oct. 8 and is open to all vendors. "We are expecting a bigger turnout of vendors than the flea market we held Sept. 3," says spokeswoman Elsa Billingsley. The church will sell cakes, cookies, pies, and drinks Saturday.

Reservations for tables will be accepted through Friday, says Billingsley. "Since we have such a large space, people that want to just rent a space could come that day," she said.

A large table can be rented for $4, a small table for $3, and a space for $2. People who rent a space will need to bring their own table or sell their items out of their pickup truck or station wagon. Vendors are encouraged to have food booths.

• The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 will hold a flea market Saturday, Oct. 15 starting at 9 a.m.

Tables will be rented for $7.50 inside and $5 outside. Contact Sue Kruse at 751-2121 or Mary Peterson at 751-3334 to reserve a table. The kitchen will be open all day, says Kruse.

Lakehills
By James H. Frazar — 796-3718

Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan will present a program on drug abuse at Thursday night's meeting of the Ladies Altar Society. The regular monthly meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at St. Victor's Chapel.

• Margaret Talk left Methodist Hospital Sept. 28 after a three-day stay for tests. "I'm getting back to normal," says Margaret.

• The Lakehills United Methodist Church's annual meeting was attended by at least 50 members Sept. 27. The annual business meeting was chaired by district superintendent Shirley Hill.

The budget and programs for the church starting Jan. 1 were approved. The 1987 programs, events, and functions of the church were also reviewed. The building, pastor-parish relations, finance, education, and worship committees were also voted into office.

Hill is the first woman superintendent in the Southwest Texas Conference. Hill is superintendent of the Kerrville District which includes Lakehills.

Pipe Creek
O.H. (Henry) Davis 535-4127

The Rev. and Mrs. M.D. Oates visited last week at the First Baptist Church in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

• Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mifflin of Fayetteville, Ark., visited recently with his mother, Margaret Mifflin, and with his brother and sister and families, the Keith Mifflins and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Vakey.

• Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cloud returned last week after a visit with a new great-grandson, Robert Case, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff D. Case of Liberty Hill.

• Irene Smith is returning this week from San Diego, Calif., after spending several days with her new granddaughter, Amanda Rose, the daughter of David and Debbie Honeigdoun. Amanda Rose has a brother, Jason.

• Jack Gilbert says he has had a fantastic time with his two daughters visiting with him recently. They were Sherry Lynn Singleton of South Bend, Ind., and Gail Yvonne Aldridge of Las Vegas.

• Lucy Whiteside is recovering well but slowly after suffering a broken leg a few weeks ago. All her children have visited her during the recovery. They are Jeannie and Amanda Harwood, Kathy and Jason Pauling, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whiteside and children, all of San Antonio.

• Weldon Jones is home after spending time at Audie Murphy U.S. Veteran's Hospital in San Antonio; J.B. Edwards is slowly recuperating from an automobile accident June 20 when he received numerous broken bones and lacerations, and Neal Howell has made progress from eye surgery recently.

• The fall Chicken Barbecue of the Pipe Creek VFD is Sunday, Oct. 16. Serving starts at 11 a.m.

The department has its business meetings the second Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. and has training meetings on the fourth Thursday at 7 p.m. The next meeting is Oct. 13 at 8 p.m.

• The Pipe Creek First Baptist Church sponsored the "fifth quarter" with food and fellowship after the other four quarters of last Friday's football game in Bandera. The event at the First Baptist Church in Bandera was under the direction of Judy Thompson and the Pipe Creek Baptist Youth Fellowship.

• Tammy McMullen, daughter of George and Shirley McMullen, celebrated her 18th birthday Sept. 10 at her parents' home at Alamo Beach. Also celebrating was her boyfriend, John Miller, who turned 22 on the last day of August. Twenty to 25 people attended the party. Tammy's birthday was Sept. 19.

• The Medina River Ranch Association will elect officers at their quarterly meeting Saturday, Oct. 8, at the home of association president, Rex Homeyer.

Some of the candidates in the Nov. 8 general election, including those for justice of the peace and sheriff, will come to the meeting. County commissioner Dan Alanis will also attend the meeting to discuss, what else, roads.

A covered dish dinner will be served after the meeting.

Wharton's Dock
and the Lake Medina Shores area

E.C. and Helen Kennedy, former residents of Wharton's Dock, dropped in for a short visit with Betty and Bud Ciarlo on Tuesday, Sept. 27. They inquired about all the people in the area.

E.C., who worked on the maintenance of the Lakeshore VFD trucks, was very interested in how the equipment was running.

She was riding with her sister in a pickup truck and as they rounded a corner the door flew open and Helen went flying through the air landing on her left arm and shoulder. Her left arm was broken just below the shoulder. Helen was not wearing a seat belt.

• Chuck and Maradelle DeWitt returned to their home at Wharton's Dock after a few months traveling through the United States in their Air Stream trailer.

They spent two months in Oregon visiting Chuck's mother, Sarah Spethens, who is 100 years old, celebrating her birthday in August.

They also visited Chuck's sister, Jessie Steele, and while traveling through Wyoming, they stopped in Sheridan to visit with Jim and Leona Fergus. Jim lived at Wharton's Dock for many years and was very active in civic matters. He extends his greetings to his many friends here.

He caught the DeWitts up on all the news of Bandera while they were there as he gets the Bandera Bulletin.

They stopped in Denver to visit with Chuck Jr., and both Chucks went to a football game to see the Broncos and the Raiders.

• The Lakeshore VFD board of directors met on Monday, Oct. 3, discussing the Turkey Shoot Festival and the preparation of the budget for 1989.

Many items are needed for the auction and flea market. Contact Charlie Highnote at 796-3387 or Bennie Barker at 796-3354 for further information.

The Turkey Shoot will be with 12 gauge only. Bring your own shotgun or use one of ours, ammo will be furnished.

• Bob Carpenter and Irene Jordan were married Sept. 29 at St. John's Lutheran Church in San Antonio. After the wedding, they came back to Bandera, stopping at Olivia Andrade's and Jack Collins' home to have a toast, and went to the Copper Lantern to visit friends and to Wharton's Dock lounge.

• Copper Lantern's First Saturday covered dish dinner was a great success, reports Mary K. Andreas. The group celebrated Ray Byrd's birthday that night.

• Saturday will find two benefits at Wharton's Dock and the Copper Lantern.

Copper Lantern's Menudo Cook-off will start with a Friday night party with live music. Saturday morning the menudo competitors will start cooking at 9 a.m. and judging will be a 4 p.m. The cook off will benefit the Bandera and Pipe Creek EMS.

Wharton's Dock will hold a Disabled American Veterans benefit Saturday, Oct. 8 starting at noon. The "Octoberfest" will feature barbecue plates and live music. Call 796-7445 for more information.

Would have been nice if the two benefits were scheduled on separate days so people wouldn't be quite so played out.

Hamilton's Hillbilly Chili best at Muleshoe cookoff

Diane Hamilton of Lakehills with Hillbilly Chili took first place at Saturday's chili cookoff at the Muleshoe Restaurant and Lounge.

Andy Brieno's Cactus Chili took second place chili and showmanship honors at the benefit for Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department. David Ransom of San Antonio was judged third best with Kickass Chili.

Worst chili honors went to Robert Brown of McCulley with Fowl Chili. His mixture of turkey sausage and ground turkey was not to the judges' liking.

Ken Grimm's band played.

Jake Wilson shot off his antique pistols, and the fire department's siren blared throughout the day as 14 cooks stirred and 200 people came throughout the day.

The dart tournament was won by Russell Ransom and James Hoffman. Frank O'Brien and Tom Brandon took second place, says Kathy Bradshaw.

$85 was donated to the fire department as proceeds from the cookoff, says Eddie Crow.

Judges for the chili included Wyman Jones, Robert Hardy, David Caldwell, Ray Mauer, and Gary Pundt, says Blanche Crow.

by bungy

The California State Fair is finally on the "countdown."

I'm practically walking on my knees, and what is so remarkable is that those who work the entire nine-month fair circuit are also counting.

When all they do is tear it all down, transport it, and put it up at another fair, why count down?

It's a mile's walk to get to work each morning, and there are all kinds of interesting things to see on the way.

The race horses are being exercised, the show horses groomed, elephants walked, zebras led to the petting zoo, camels saddled, Budweiser Clydesdales harnessed.

Today was draft horse, mule and pleasure driving competition, and h. horses of all kinds were being groomed and exercised, mules were getting "gussied up" with ribbons, and all sorts of horse-drawn conveyances were being slicked up and oiled.

• At the race track this week there was a "ladies-take-all" race with women trainers' horses coming in first and second and a lady jockey winning third.

• For the OST gang, I figured out the approximate number of coffee pots made at the Saddle Club, the cafe near the race track. It turned out to be about 300 pots, and that's in the a.m. only!

• The Chinese guy who invented the "egg roll on a stick" is at the fair, and the "largest porch swing in the world" here accomodates 12 to 14 swingers.

The program lists "pigmy goat judging" followed by a milk drinking contest. I wondered if they served the milk in teensy, weensy glasses.

• There's contests of every sort. Sheep shearers clip more than 50 fleeces in an hour, and there's speedy ice cream scooping and hula-hoop hula-ing.

But the best by far was the Rapid Razorback Pig Races.

They take place, of course, at "Pork Chop Downs," and the stands are packed and excitement runs high. The crowd is divided into four groups of "professional pig cheerleaders."

Colors are placed on four pigs' backs with velcro. The bugle sounds, the gates open, and the porkers scoot around the track for a pan of Oreo cookies at the finish.

My favorite entries were Magnum P.I.G., Charles Bronswine, Silvester Swinilone and Arnold Swartzhogger.

Through it all, however, I'm coming to the realization that Bandera has practically everything worthwhile they have here at "the largest county fair in the world."

Medina plans weekend Jamboree series

Entertainers are invited to participate in a five-weekend jamboree in Medina each Saturday beginning Oct. 15 says Ray Tate, co-chairman of the series which is sponsored by the Medina Development Corporation.

"We want everyone with a talent or skill to join us," said Tate. "Musicians, singers, jugglers, comedians, dancers ... it's open to all entertainers," he said.

Sited next to the Cider Mill Store, the Oct. 15 kickoff will be a preliminary session to get interested folks together and to brief them on the next four weekends, which will be a contest.

Winners will be announced on Saturday, Nov. 12, and the whole shindig will culminate in an "old-fashioned barn dance similar to the one at the apple festival," says Tate.

Dusty Britches and his band will provide the music for the dance and he and Tate and Larry Williams will participate in the opening show.

There will be limited booth space for folks interested in selling arts and crafts, says Tate. More information on booths can be obtained by calling Dot Hatfield at 589-2553.

The Medina Development Corporation is already hard at work planning next year's Apple Festival and they intend to have "several events like this" (jamboree) to keep Medina in the public eye.

"We hope lots of talent will show up," says Tate. He urges all entertainers to BYOC (bring your own crowd) and spectators too, "bring your own chair."

Benefit postponed

A benefit to help Norma Billings Schultz pay for medical bills, planned for last Friday, was postponed until Friday, Oct. 7, Schultz said, because of bad weather.

The hostess at the Bandera Inn has been under treatment for a tumor. The event will be from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Fest in Boerne

Octoberfest in Boerne is Oct. 8 at the Boerne Community Center, 820 Adler, from 1 to 10 p.m.

Live German music begins at 3 p.m., puppet shows from the Institute of Texan Cultures, German cuisine, and a beer garten spotlight the event.

Admission is $4 for adults and $1 for children under the age of 13.

Sea World to salute Bandera County Oct. 8-9

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

San Antonio's marine park, Sea World, will feature Bandera County on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 8 and 9.

Cowboy Capitol entertainment including trick roping, live music and mock gunfights, will be featured inside the main entrance to Sea World along with an information booth from the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment will be from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9, says Kim Ashton, secretary.

Rudy Robbins' Wild West Performers will stage comedy gunfight skits at 1:30, 3:30, 4:30, and 6 p.m. Saturday and 12:30, 1:30, and 4 p.m. Sunday.

Marvin Richardson, Hagen Savage, Lolo Rodriguez, Reed and Vera Boseman, Ballan Grant, and Robbins, all of Bandera, and Mack Konz and Manny Gutierrez of San Antonio will perform. Savage and Rodriguez are sponsored by the Flying L Guest Ranch, says Robbins.

Bruce Montague will perform at 1, 2, and 4 p.m. Saturday and 1, 3:30, and 4:30 p.m. Sunday. His appearance showing cowboy and Mexican vaquero rope tricks is sponsored by the Silver Spur Dude Ranch, says Robbins.

The Bandera County Band will perform at noon, 2:30, and 5 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday. The band is composed of Dusty Britches, Roger and Charley Heinen, Grant, and Robbins.

Dude ranch representatives from the county will answer questions about what they have to offer tourists, says Ashton. Manning the chamber's booth will be chamber officers; Bandera County Fair Queen Candi Saathoff; and representatives from the Flying L Guest Ranch.

The chamber of commerce's booth will have signs from county businesses to advertise what they have. "We are promoting the area in general, not just tourism," says Ashton.

Many of the entertainers are volunteers who are spending two days at the San Antonio park, says Robbins. "Hopefully we can get some folks down here (to Bandera) to spend some money (in the county). That's what it's all about," he said.

The park is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. The Bandera booth will be on the right-hand side, just inside the main gate, says Robbins. The main gate is off Highway 151 between Loop 1604 and Potranco Road on the west end of San Antonio.

A $3 discount coupon is available at Bandera area business good for admission on Oct. 8 or 9 only.

"Sea World of Texas will donate $1 to the Bandera County Youth Forum for each admission purchased with the coupon," says Bill Smith, vice president of marketing.

Thomas Callahan Jr. completes training

Cadet Thomas C. Callahan Jr., son of Thomas C. and Linda F. Callahan of Bandera, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at McClellan Air Force Base, Calif.

Callahan is a student at the University of Texas, San Antonio.

Field training attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Weddings

Heinze-Durkee

Celeste Heinze of Lakehills was married to Kevin Durkee of Lake Odress, Mich. at Lakehills United Methodist Church Saturday, Oct. 1.

Celeste is the daughter of Frank and Vera Heinze of Lakehills. Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durkee of Lake Odress, Mich.

The Heinzes had lived in Michigan while Celeste was in high school. She kept in touch with Kevin over the years.

Celeste will continue her college education at The University of Texas at San Antonio and Kevin will be working in San Antonio and continue his education next year.

The reception was held in the Pipe Creek Community Center for about 100 guests. Friends came over to the Heinze home after the reception for more food and fellowship, says Vera Heinze.

Both parents, sister Jan, and brother Kyle flew in for the wedding as well as an aunt from Mich. and uncle from Ok. Long-time friends Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pratt came in from Ada, Ok. as well as Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ellis from Corpus Christi, who are former residents of Lakehills to visit and attend the wedding.

Ferracio-Byam

James R. Byam Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs Jim Byam of Pipe Creek, was married Saturday, Sept. 10, to Leesa Jo Ferraccio of Fort Worth at the Fielder Road Baptist Church in Arlington.

A graduate of Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, Byam is employed as a senior computer programmer for Computer People, Inc.

They will live in Bedford, near Fort Worth.

The groom's sister, Toni, was married in August.

Bucky and Eleanor Densford of Pipe Creek have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan Claudine to Daniel Wayne Clark, son of Dewey and Dorothy Clark, also of Pipe Creek. Susan is a 1987 graduate of Bandera High School and Clark graduated from BHS in 1986. The couple is planning a November 19 wedding.

Robert Gene Case

Robert Gene Case

A son, Robert Gene Case, was born Sunday, Sept. 18, to Catherine and Jeff Case of Liberty Hill at Seton Hospital in Austin.

He weighed 9 pounds, 8 ounces and was 21 inches long.

Grandparents are Lois Case of Pipe Creek and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Rock of Austin. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Cloud of Pipe Creek, George Lott of Amarillo, Jewell Newton of Austin, and Lucy Rock of Beaver, Okla.

Randall Scott Olsen

Randall Scott Olsen

A son, Randall Scott Olsen, was born Aug. 9 to Malcolm Scott and Geneva Irene Olsen in Humana Women's Hospital, San Antonio.

He weighed 7 pounds, 1 ounce, and was 20 inches long.

Ryan Alexander Dorang

A son, Ryan Alexander Dorang, was born July 26 to Kyle and Susan Dorang in Northeast Baptist Hospital, San Antonio.

Art classes held

Art classes with local artist Susie Short are being held every Thursday afternoon and evening at the Bandera Bank meeting room, according to the artist.

The classes are held from 1-4 p.m., and again from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Beginners and intermediate students are welcome and can pay monthly or by the lesson. Tuition is $35 monthly or $10 per lesson.

North in Kerrville

Lt. Col. Oliver North, who has been indicted in connection with his activities in the Iran-Contra affair, will appear in person at the YO Hilton in Kerrville Thursday, Oct. 6 for a fund-raising luncheon and reception.

Setting it straight

Chief appraiser Larry Reagan's salary in the proposed budget of the Bandera County Appraisal District is $34,740, not the higher figure used in the article in last week's issue.

The same article reported that the district's board of directors may have violated the Texas Open Meetings Act by discussing salary schedules in executive (secret session.)

Reagan maintained this week, however, that it was not a violation of the law because the directors met in private to discuss "personnel, salaries, and litigation" and that the executive session, which was closed to the public, was listed on the agenda posted in the courthouse.

The Open Meetings Act authorizes discussion of personnel and actual or pending litigation in private, but not salaries. The fact that the matter was listed on the agenda is not a factor in whether it is in violation of the law.

Bluegrass fest

The Old Settlers Bluegrass Festival will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 15 and 16, 1988 at Old Settlers Park in Round Rock.

Republicans, top, and Democrats each opened their Bandera County Campaign headquarters in Bandera Saturday with plenty of candidates on hand in each case. Among those at the GOP's opening were Charles A. Britsch of Castroville, nominee for state representative; sheriff's nominee Marc Sultan, and peace justice Preston Boggs. Democrats on hand included commissioner nominees Bennie Barker and Pete Reed, appeals justice nominee Ron Carr of Crystal City; and State Rep. Eldon Edge of Poth. GOP county chairwoman Lila MacMillan presided at the Republican event and Democratic chair Nick Johnson was at the other opening.

Fair cites three persons

Three persons have been given honorary memberships in the Bandera County Fair Association in recognition of their volunteer contributions to the group.

Jill Moody was recognized for her work on the Fair Association's float, Fabian Mazurek was cited for his fund-raising and other work on behalf of the fair, and Eric Stutes was cited for coordinating booth sales at the fair.

The Fair Association meets on the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the First State Bank. Its governing board meets on the same day at 6:30 p.m.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

Out going board chairman Marie Holland, member-at-large May Batchelor, and center staff members Mary McCloskey and Glenn Wehmeyer will be at the 34th annual State Volunteer Services Council meeting in Laredo this week.

They'll be attending workshops and seminars on such diverse topics as fundraising, AIDS, programming networks, and social agency roles in rural settings.

There are some 23 other volunteers and staff members from the four other senior centers in our district also attending and this year's conference appears to be one of the biggest and best yet. That's just another way of proving that things get better with age.

• Joyce Sellberg and Verna Schafer are seeking assistance with planning, organizing, and decorating for a Halloween party to be held concurrently with the Birthday Luncheon on Oct. 25.

Last year's event provided so much fun that we decided to do it again, complete with prizes for best, worst, and most unusual costume.

Commentary

With the presidential debates, the landing of Discovery, and the few hundred hours of Olympic coverage offered via television in the last two weeks, conversation around the Silver Sage has centered on pride in America's accomplishments, endeavors, and system of government.

However as one of our sage regulars stated, "It'll be nice to get back to a live entertainment format, namely the activities here at the Center!"

That prompts us to offer some comparison between programs of the big television networks and ours. Just what do the Silver Sage Corral (SSG) and the National Broadcasting Corp. (NBC) have in common?

Both of us seek to entertain, and in doing so we also hope to enrich and enliven. NBX offers commentary, comedy, commercials, and cancelations of your favorite prime-time show. Similarly, SSC offers commentary in a two-way, give-and-take format called conversation. When conversation is light, cheerful, good natured, and enjoyable, it can usually take the place of any situation comedy, especially 30-year-old reruns of "Mr. Ed" or "My Favorite Martian."

We both offer opportunities to escape from the daily humdrums. They do it with game shows. We do it with cards, dominoes, crafts, music, art, and so on.

The closest thing we have to a commercial break is trying to make an announcement during the Birthday Luncheon every fourth Tuesday and we don't ever cancel programs, prime time or anytime!

Both NBC and the SSC try to provide glimpses into other people's lifestyles, traditions, environments, and idiosyncrasies to broaden one's understanding and comprehension of the world in which we live. They do it by showing scenes filmed in far off, exotic places and we do it by asking you to volunteer your time and talents right here in Bandera County.

The networks want to help you improve your life by offering bits of information on such topics as nutrition, health, exercise, and social attitudes. They give you Julia Childs, Dr. Red Duke, Richard Simmons, and Phil Donahue in regularly scheduled broadcast.

Not only will we counsel with you on good nutrition, we'll invite you to stay for lunch! We'll help you understand your health concerns by putting you in touch via The Healthline with agencies and organizations that can give straight answers to your questions when you need then, not just at 12, 6 and 10 o'clock.

Not only do we show you exercises that are safe and effective, we do them with you! Oh yes, the social attitudes we promote mostly begin with "Thou shalt..." Sorry Phil!

Both programs are basically available at the consumers convience. But any TV afficionado will argue that television has the upper edge in that it's there for you almost 24-hours-a-day, 7-days-a-week, day-in and day-out, and the best we can provide it a time slot from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Monday through Friday, including many holidays.

But, we can tell you to call us at 796-4969 with your questions, comments, ideas, inspirations, and insights. Have the networks ever given you their phone number?

Milton Berle was once quoted as saying that, "Television is a great invention ... but it'll never take the place of live entertainment!" That's possibly the way our friend was feeling when she said how nice it would be to get back to her favorite programs at the center. Programs that are LIVE and happening right now, without benefit of satellite beams, de-scramblers or remote controls.

There is one glaring difference between our programs and those of the networks that we need to warn you of. With them you have to SIT DOWN in order to catch up. With us, you have to GET UP!

Public hearing scheduled here Friday on grant for repair of housing

Public hearings on a federal grant for low-income housing improvements are scheduled for Friday and Oct. 17.

County commissioners will hear public comment Oct. 7 and 17 concerning a federal grant to refurbish houses for low-income people at no cost to the homeowner.

The county plans to file an application to the Community Development Fund of the Texas Department of Commerce asking for a $261,000 to finance the project. The money is to come from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The grant will be used on selected houses in the county to renovate a house or improve water and sewage facilities.

The grant request must be filed by Oct. 27.

Friday's meeting begins at 6:45 p.m. and the meeting Oct. 17 begins at 7 p.m. The meetings are held in commissioners' courtroom in the courthouse.

Program set on Alzheimer's

Practical aspects of home and institutional care for patients with Alzheimer's Disease will be covered during programs on the disease Oct. 6-8 in San Antonio's Holiday Inn-Riverwalk.

Activities centered around the conference "Emerging Concepts in Alzheimer Care" will begin Oct. 6 with a public meeting of the Texas Council on Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders.

Speakers during the conference beginning at 7:30 a.m. Oct. 7 will include Dr. J. Thomas Hutton, who chairs the state council and directs the Texas Tech Alzheimer's Center, with an overview of the disease; Dr. Harry S. Lipscomb of the Texas A&M College of Medicine on medical management of Alzheimer's disease; JoAnn Shroyer of Texas Tech on new concepts in environmental design for patients; and Joyce Flaugher of Houston's Sheltering Arms Day Care Center on blueprints for Alzheimer's day care.

The conference will conclude Oct. 8 after a luncheon address by State Sen. Chet Brooks, who chairs Senate Committee for Health and Human Services.

Sponsored by the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center, the conference is open to health professionals and the general public. Registration is $90 at the door. For details, contact Vicki Hollander, TTUHSC Office of Continuing Medical Education, Lubbock, Texas 79430, (806) 743-2929.

Whose mailbox is it anyway? the postal service's that's whose

Bandera residents may remember the day when they walked into a store and paid good money for a mailbox to be erected at their home. Like the rest of the property around the house, they thought the mailbox belonged to them.

"However," postmaster Joe H. Short said, "what postal customers may not realize is that every letterbox or other receptable intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail is designated an authorized depository for mail under federal law."

This means that, legally, your mailbox must be used exclusively for matter which bears postage, according to the postmaster.

"No part of a mail receptacle may be used to deliver any matter not bearing postage. This applies to items or matter placed upon, supported by, attached to, hung from, or inserted into a mail receptacle." (Newspaper receptacles attached to the same post don't apply.)

What kinds of illegal articles are found in mailboxes?

"Most anything," Short said. "We find wedding invitations, birthday party invitations, business advertisements and solicitations for charities appearing in mailboxes — all without benefit of postage."

When such mailable matter is found in mailboxes, the carrier is required to remove it and take it back to the post office. The person or firm responsible for placing the matter is then asked to pay postage due on each piece illegally placed in mailboxes.

"This procedure often causes bad feelings on the part of people who say they didn't know the article was illegal," he explained. "Nevertheless, the law which prohibits the placing of unstamped matter in mailboxes is the same which keeps mailboxes free of extraneous material and assures room for legitimate mail delivery by the carrier.

"Today's Postal Service is committed to providing the best possible mail delivery," said Postmaster Joe H. Short. "Adequate mailboxes, reserved exclusively for mail, help us reach that goal.

Drug awareness meeting Oct. 13

The Bandera County Committee on Drug Awareness is holding a meeting on Thursday, Oct. 13, 7 p.m. at the sheriff's office meeting room.

"This meeting will be to find out what you can do to help Bandera County and America become drug-free and all it takes is a little red ribbon," says committee chairman Ken Finley.

The Red Ribbon Campaign originated when federal agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985, Finley said. "The Red Ribbon became the symbol to reduce the demand for drugs, just as the yellow ribbon symbolized the hostages in Iran," he explained.

Native Plant Society plans meeting Oct. 11

The Native Plant Society will meet at the old jail on Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7:30 p.m. for the election of officers.

A program on drying native plant material and its decorative use will be presented by Cindy Kline of Turpley. The artist has experimented for over a year with the locally available flora and will show several examples.

A hands-on demonstration of microwave drying will be featured, and members are invited to bring a piece of plant matter to try.

The annual state meeting of the Native Plant Society of Texas will be held in San Antonio on Oct. 14 and 15 at the San Antonio Garden Center, 3310 N. New Braunfels, with a choice of four field trips offered Sunday morning, Oct. 16.

For more information, or to volunteer to assist with registration, please contact Dorothy Mattiza or Gunsight Mountain Ranch and Nursery at Tarpley, 562-3225.

Tarpley

There wasn't any news to report last week, and we appreciate the comments on Tarpley column being missed — but your help is needed to continue.

• The Rio Hondo Study Group met last month at Billie Riley's guest home with Bobby Singleton the hostess.

• Bob Stanley of Glade Springs, Va., came to Tarpley to see his niece and her husband, Mary and Ray Hietalahti.

It was his first trip to Texas.

• Barbara Kosko, former Rio Hondo area resident, spent several days here.

She's a missionary with youth missions based in Kailua-Kena, Hawaii. She recently returned from Asia, and now will be on a three-month's assignment in Pawhatan, Va.

In January Barbara will return to Hawaii before going to Guam for three months.

• Visitors at Tarpley Baptist Church Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brasington of San Antonio and Mrs. Bobby Groteus of San Antonio. Mrs. Groteus was a weekend guest of her brother, Bill Thompson and daughter La Rue Harp and son Erik.

• Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Hood had as guests from Tuesday through Saturday his brothers, Elmer and Clifton and his wife Irene of Shepherd, Tex.

• Mrs. Lillian and Marilyn Haner spent two days at the State Extension Homemakers Meeting in Abilene last week. They reported having "a nice time."

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Abraham Lincoln once said: "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live in it so that his community is proud of him."

In a mideastern city is a street of once comfortable homes. It had become a shambles. One man got tired of the filth, and did something about it. He swept his walk, nailed up his fallen steps, washed his windows, and picked up the trash in his yard. His neighbor next door liked what he saw, and did the same. Soon other neighbors started to clean their places up. They even did it together for an old couple and another neighbor who was confined to a wheelchair.

People a few streets away heard about it ... came to look ... went back home and got their own streets started. In time fourteen areas, some white, some black, in that city had cleaned their areas up. They did this, aided by nothing but their two hands and self-respect.

Salad luncheon scheduled at Lakehills UMC Oct. 9

A salad luncheon will be served at Lakehills United Methodist Church Sunday, Oct. 9 starting at 11:30 a.m.

The United Methodist Youth Fellowship will host a salad luncheon with adult plates for $2 and a child's plate for $1. Different salads will be available as well as crackers, and drinks.

Serving will continue for about an hour to an hour-and-a-half, says spokeswoman Sandy Trenkelbach. "We'll serve until the food's gone," she adds.

The luncheon will be held at the church on 8th Street.

The youth group is made up of junior high and high school youth.

Other donations will be accepted, says Trenkelbach.

Students get vocational skills

Kathy Gardner, special education teacher, said older students are now being taught daily and vocational skills, and are learning cleaning, cooking, and laundry.

"It's their responsibility to keep the classroom clean," said Mrs. Gardner. "Some of our younger students assist them, however, their work is not as intensified."

The younger students are continuing a program similiar to previous years, doing work on motor skills, and in art and music.

Another change is a new look in the classroom itself. Over the summer, carpeting was put in for the younger students, and an air conditioner, washing machine, dryer, and refrigerator were installed. Also, the special education teachers painted and added wallpaper.

Several projects are being planned for this school year. The students plan to make arts and crafts to sell at Christmas and some time during the year try their hand at making T-shirts. They will also raise rabbits in the 4-H program. Students will feed, groom, show, and finally sell their rabbits.

"The money they make will possibly be used for a trip to Sea World," said Mrs. Gardner.

The special education teachers are Kathy Gardner and Kathleen Carr. They are assisted by two teacher's aides, Shelley Quarles and Therese Maddox.

Lady 'Dog volleyball teams split with Southside

Lady Bulldogs Volleyball Teams had one win and one loss against Southside, Sept. 27.

Losing 15 to 11 in the first game and 15 to 12 in the second, the varsity Lady Bulldogs played a competitive match that was hard to beat.

Playing outstandingly on defense were Ruth Mazurek and Kim Lukachik. Mazurek digging the ball and Lukachik blocking it put up a tough match for Southside.

The freshman team beat Southside after a three-game match. Losing the first, 9-15 they came back winning the second and third games, 15-5 and 15-1.

Junior Varsity Team was defeated 3-15 and 8-15 in a two-game match.

Stacy Sides, Viola McHorse, and Lisa Wharton playing outstanding on defense, becoming more powerful each game. Setters Marci McGoldrick and Lacey Fellows also attacked the ball aggressively, toughening up their net game.

Southside played a strong defensive game which disabled the Lady Bulldogs in scoring many points. The Lady Bulldogs stand 0-4 in district.

Head volleyball coach, Peggy Swierc said that everyone, including JV and freshmen, were in shape when volleyball season began.

Varsity's first district game Sept. 6, against Somerset ended with a score of 12-15. Bandera also lost to Medina Valley Sept. 13 and Randolph Sept. 20.

Junior Varsity lost their first game in district, Sept. 6, against Somerset. Sept. 20, they again lost against Randolph. They now stand at 0-4 in district.

Coach Julie Young said the 'Dogs could have won the game against Randolph, but they didn't have the plays needed to win. "This is the best Junior Varsity we've had in three years," said Coach Young.

Freshmen volleyball team includes Stacey Wakeley, Reagan Bishop, Eva Dice, Julie Cherry, Violet McHorse, Colby Anderson, Ranelle Meyers, and Dianna Martinez.

Although they have come a long way, the team agrees that they need some work. They do have plans for the future.

"We need to work more as a team rather than individually," said Bishop. "It's a big team and we expect a lot out of them because they're a good group of athletes," said Coach Young.

Bulldog runners in top ten at Tivy meet

Amie Nightingale placed fourth in the high school girls division. Traci Felton placed sixth and Tandie Clements placed eighth in the junior high girls division.

Bandera will host an invitational meet Oct. 8. Presently 24 schools are signed up to participate in the Bandera meet. It is scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. and should be finished by 12:30 p.m. Spectators should arrive before the traffic is blocked off before each race.

Ten championship and eight runner-up plaques will be awarded, along with 100 medals and a Winning Coaches award in each division.

FHA workshop draws 100

The first Future Homemakers Association Leadership Workshop was held Monday, Sept. 26.

The FHA workshop was hosted by the Blanco and Fredericksburg chapters. Each school has one regional officer.

Bandera, Comfort, Junction, and several other schools participated in the FHA workshop, and about 100 students attended. Activities were arranged to help FHA members build a more active chapter.

The regional meeting is in San Antonio Jan. 28 and 29.

Librarian suggests wonderful things to do

Librarian Ms. Patsy Small lists 28 wonderful things to do in the library, and she says to visit the junior high or high school library to read the rest of her list. (She has 42 more things.)

If you can think of one imaginative and one useful reason to visit the library, leave your suggestions at the circulation desk. Winners' names and their entries will appear in the paper and they will get their choice of a paperback book.

• Read. • Find a date-historical or for tonight. • Request a book from another library. • Find out who won the game yesterday. • Learn who won the World Series in 1959. • Write a letter to your representative. • Find out who your representative is. • Bug the librarian. • Hug the librarian. • Ask the librarian a difficult question. • Read about a famous Supreme Court decision on microfiche. • Find a play for your drama class. • Find a movie review in "Reader's Guide". • Ask the librarian to show you how to use "Reader's Guide". • Find out about the seven signs of cancer. • Find a recipe for roasting a pig. • Find an editorial in "New York Times Current Events". • Learn how to repair your transmission. • Sharpen your pencil. • Sharpen your wits. • Find out when the Chinese New Year is celebrated this year. • Request a magazine article from another library. • Learn how to prepare a bibliography. • Check out a book. • Get warm. • Get cool. • Get smart. • Read some more!

Annual bookfair slated at Alkek Elementary Oct. 10-14

Alkek Elementary School Library will have annual student book fair Monday through Friday, Oct. 10-14. During the book fair, students may browse and purchase books on display in the library. The fair will be open during school hours from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. daily.

"We would like to invite all students, parents and visitors to attend the fair," said librarian Leila Kindla.

"The fair will encourage student interest in reading and in building home libraries, and will also contribute to the addition of many needed materials for the library.

"The book fair display includes attractive new books from many major publishers in all popular price ranges — wonderful books to read or to give as gifts," she said. "All reading interests will be represented, including classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, crafts, mystery and reference books."

PUBLIC NOTICE
All Developers and Subdividers planning projects in Bandera County are urged to obtain and follow the regulations governing subdivisions in Bandera County. Failure to follow these established regulations will almost certainly result in costly delays. Some of the most critical items are:

1. Written request to proceed accompanied by a statement from Bandera Electric Cooperative that electricity will be furnished.
2. Utility easements indicated by survey.
3. Road dedication indicated by survey.
4. Construction and maintenance bonds on roads.
5. All lots or tracts adequate in size.
6. Plats to be drawn to a scale of 200 feet to the inch, on 18" by 24" sheets. A key map shows the entire area to be drawn on U.S.G.S. maps which are available in the County Judge's office.
7. Compliance with Bandera County Regulations covering sanitary facilities and water wells.

These directives, most of which have been in force since 1972, by order of the Bandera County Commissioners' Court, are available for any developer at the office of Permits and Inspections, County Courthouse. I urge all concerned to obtain this document and follow it closely during the course of your planning and development schedule.

Ray F. Mauer
Bandera County Judge

NOTICE
Any person residing within the corporate limits of the City of Bandera is reminded that a construction permit is required when:

A. Erecting a new place of business or a new residence.
B. Remodeling or enlarging an existing structure.
C. Constructing in the flood plain.

Failure to obtain appropriate permits may result in loss of valuable time, higher cost, and possible legal action against property owners. 38-1tqc

PUBLIC HEARING
COUNTY OF BANDERA
There will be a public hearing Tuesday, October 7th, 1988 at 6:45 p.m. in the Commissioners Court room of the Courthouse in Bandera for the purpose of hearing the public on the proposition of the County of Bandera filing an application with the Texas Department of Commerce Community Development Fund. The proposed grant application is in the amount of $261,000, and such grant funds are proposed to be used for a comprehensive housing program to consist of rehabilitation grants, voluntary relocation grants and the provision of private water supply and or sewage disposal facilities where warranted.

The grant program is competitive. The source of funds is the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, small cities program, as administered by the State of Texas. The subject application is to be filed on or before October 27, 1988. The county courthouse is accessible to the handicapped. All public input is invited.

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO CANCEL ALTAMIRA HILLS SUBDIVISION, BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS
SEPTEMBER 2, 1988
TO: COMMISSIONERS COURT OF BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS

M and A Properties, Inc., a Texas corporation, acting by and through its President, Albert B. Allkek, and its attorney on this application, Ronald M. Jackson, Attorney at Law, hereby applies to the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, for permission to cancel Altamira Hills Subdivision, Bandera County, Texas, Volume 4, page 9, Map and Plat Records of Bandera County, Texas, and to cancel all dedicatedo easements and roadways thereon (except for utility easements on Tract or Lots not owned by M and A Properties, Inc.), and to reestablish the property as an acreage tract and/or tracts as it existed before the subdivision, all in accordance with Section 232.008 of the Texas Local Government Code. M and A Properties, Inc., is the owner of more than 75 percent of the property in said Altamira Hills Subdivision as evidenced by deed dated June 26, 1980, recorded in Volume 197, pages 642-644, Deed Records of Bandera County, Texas. Tracts or Lots 1, 4, 7, 12, and 13, of said Altamira Hills Subdivision are not owned by M and A Properties, Inc.; however, upon cancellation of said Altamira Hills Subdivision as aforesaid, M and A Properties, Inc., shall grant a non-exclusive roadway easement over the existing roadway shown on the Plat of said Subdivision from F.M. Highway 3240 to each Tract or Lot not owned by M and A Properties, Inc., for ingress and egress thereto and M and A Properties, Inc., shall also grant a non-exclusive ten feet wide utility easement over and across and under the existing utility lines to each Tract or Lot not owned by M and A Properties, Inc.. Therefore, application is hereby made for notice to be made and hearing set as provided in Section 232.008 Texas Local Government Code, and after such notice and hearing that M and A Properties, Inc., be authorized to cancel said Altamira Hills Subdivision as aforesaid by order entered by the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, and to cancel all dedicated easements and roadways thereon as aforesaid by order entered by the Commissioners Court of Bandera County, Texas, all as provided in said Section 232.008 of the Texas Local Government Code.

Respectfully submitted,

Parents' attitudes add to problems

If your child is having trouble adjusting to school, parental attitudes may be one possible problem, the Texas Medical Association says.

Sometimes parents are afraid to let new people care for their children. Children pick up such signals and also become anxious. Parental stress about busing or other problems also can make a child feel uncomfortable.

Doubts and fears of parents and children can be eased by visiting the school and talking with the teacher. Such discussions can familiarize everyone with the child's schedule and upcoming activities. A visit also can give parents an early opportunity to inform the teacher about the child's special abilities, problems, or complicating situations, such as a recent family divorce that may have upset the child.

Another important discussion can be between parent and child. It can help reassure the child that he or she can handle new circumstances just as in the past. Getting frequent updates about the child's progress and attitudes can help parents keep in touch with problems.

Persistent problems may mean the child had a learning disorder. To find out about possible problems quickly, tests can be done to determine hearing, sight, or learning handicaps that can cause the child years of frustration and failure if undetected, TMA says. The teacher often can give recommendations about available testing.

No matter what the cause of poor performance in school, it is important to help the child before troubles last too long. Help may be something as simple as aiding the child with homework. Or it may involve getting medical attention. But TMA urges parents to take action to help keep the child from falling far behind in class.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 28,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state.

Medina
By Barbara Walters 589-2861

Medina school superintendent Jerry Huie urged parents to insure that students attend classes this month because the amount of state funds received by the schools is based on average attendance during October.

"Please make every effort to have your children in school," he said.

The accounting period for all schools in Texas is Oct. 3 through Oct. 28, Huie said.

He urged parents to schedule necessary appointments after 9:30 a.m. "The reason for this is that attendance is taken (during) the second period class."

As an incentive for students to attend school during the month, the school is offering $3 cash plus a certificate good for an individual-sized pizza from Mr. Gatti's in Kerrville, Huie said.

"If an (entire) class maintains an attendance rate of 98 percent, everyone in the class will receive $3," Huie said.

The school dad said six-weeks tests are scheduled for Oct. 11 in the seventh period, Oct. 12 in the second and fourth periods, Oct. 13 in the third and sixth periods, and Oct. 14 in the first and fifth periods.

Report cards will be issued on Oct. 20.

Senior portraits will be taken on Oct. 11 and he reminded students that they must pay a $10 deposit at that time. Class pictures, which must be paid for in advance, will be taken Oct. 28 beginning at 8 a.m.

Medina School menu

October 10-14

Monday — Hot dogs, pork and beans, chips, fruit and milk.
Tuesday — Sausage, potato salad, carrot stix, fruit and milk.
Wednesday — Chicken fried steak, green beans, mashed potatoes with gravy, fruit, rolls and milk.
Thursday — Burritos, peas, corn, fruit and milk.
Friday — Hamburgers, salad, French fries, dessert and milk.

Chaney commissioned

Greg Chaney, a 1984 graduate of Medina High School, recently completed Officer's Candidate School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and received his commission as 2nd lieutenant with the Texas National Guard's Corp of Engineers.

He has been assigned to the 111th Engineering Platoon at Abilene.

2nd Lt. Chaney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Chaney of Medina and will be attending Abilene Christian University this fall where he will be completing his senior year majoring in industrial education.

Completes training

Airman Robert E. Maxon, son of Judith B. Gagnon of San Diego, Calif., and Robert G. Maxon of Medina, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base.

Tri-Star Football, sponsored by the Bandera Optimist Club will be Saturday, Oct. 8, at Bulldog Stadium, beginning at 1 p.m. Tammy Timmons, 11, Kurt Box, 12, and 11-year-old Jace Neuenschwander pass, kick and punt to illustrate the three needed skills in the contest while Optimists Dave Arny, Peter Chapman, Sully Woodland and Gail Stone look on. Three finalists in each division will compete in the T.S.F. finals before the football game on Friday, Oct. 14.

Comfort hands Bulldogs third loss of season

Comfort's Bobcats put together a 74-yard touchdown march late in the second quarter here Friday to break up a scoreless defensive struggle and went on to spoil Bandera's parents' night salute, 21-0.

Starting quarterback Scott Rogers went out with an ankle injury on the first play of the second half, and the Bulldogs' offense never got untracked.

Still, the defense was stubborn and gave up yardage only begrudgingly. But with Comfort in possession of the ball most of the time, the 'Cats managed to hang up two more touchdowns before the final gun sounded.

The first came with 2:26 left in the third quarter after Bandera failed to make a first down at the Comfort 47-yard line. Jason Steiler, who scored the first Bobcat touchdown, got the second also on a 47-yard reverse.

The final Bobcat touchdown came after a 70-yard drive that got started when Comfort intercepted a halfback pass from Phil Soliz that was tipped at the goal line.

Both teams were plagued by penalties, but the infractions against Bandera seemed to be more damaging.

Senior captain Solis acknowledged that the Bulldogs were flat. "The 'Dogs just didn't show up for this game," he said. "We didn't play to our potential."

They will have to play this Friday when they open district play at Llano. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Green leads Bobcats over TMI, 41-0

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

If high schools picked the most valuable player for a game, Medina's Tim Green would have to be the overwhelming choice of Friday night's 41-0 bash over Texas Military Institute of San Antonio.

The senior quarterback scored three touchdowns under his own power and threw two TD strikes to junior Josh Turpin.

Running back Jason Childers accounted for the sixth touchdown and Dudley Goodwin gathered two points when he sacked the TMI quarterback behind their goal line.

Place kicker Chris Keiser had an even night, hitting three PATs out of six attempts.

The 'Cats got off to an early lead when, on their first possession, they used eight plays to cover 65 yards with Turpin grabbing the final 25 yards and the score on a Tim Green pass.

Three and a half minutes later Jason Childers ran off 20 yards of his 114 total for the night and scored six more points for the Bobcats. Keiser hit his first conversion and Medina led 13-0. Childers wound up the second leading rusher for the night, only slightly behind Muttalib Ibrahim, who had 116 yards.

Green scored his first of three with 6:46 left in the second quarter on a keeper that covered 17 yards after a motion penalty had set the 'Cats back five paces.

Turpin caught his second TD pass with 4:16 left in the first half and that made the score 25-0 as the intermission gun sounded.

Green scored again half-way through the third period on a five-yard plunge and this time Keiser's toe found the correct direction on the PAT.

It was Green one more time at 10:20 in the final chapter from the 14 yard stripe and Keiser added the extra point.

Finally, with 5 long minutes left in the game, the harassed Panthers found themselves backed against their own goal. Junior quarterback Carlos Canales traded back in his end zone in a desperate attempt to pass his team out of trouble.

Dudley Goodwin squelched that idea when he burst through the Panther line and pulled down the frustrated passer for the final Bobcat two points and a 41-0 victory.

The 'Cats amassed 335 yards rushing off of 62 plays and moved another 86 yards on four completions out of eight pass attempts. They held TMI to 30 yards total and a single first down.

Friday, Oct. 7, the Bobcats will open district play against the Rocksprings Angoras at Rocksprings. Game time is 8 p.m.

Volleyball, cards at Youth Center

Bandera Youth Center will be the site of a Spades tournament Friday, Oct. 7, and volleyball games will start at 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8.

The Spades tournament will begin at 8 p.m. Friday, and prizes will be awarded to the winning teams, according to a spokesman for the center.

Volleyball will last until dark Saturday, and games, refreshments and fellowship will follow.

The Youth Center closes at 10 p.m. each night.

Bike event set

The Octoberfest Bicycle Classic in Boerne Oct. 8 featured four recreational rides through the Texas Hill Country.

Participants can choose from 10, 35, 50 and 100 miles. Proceeds benefit the charitable programs of Rotary International. To register call 249-8000 in Boerne.

The Bandera
Bulletin
1988 Bandera Bulletin

45th Year, No. 14 | Thursday, Oct. 13, 1988 | Twenty-five cents

Jockey Eddie Cox is certain of his mount's finishing position in the 11th race at Bandera Downs Sunday, Oct. 9. For more racing results please see page 22.

Sea World Salutes Bandera County

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

Bandera folks may not have turned out in droves when Sea World saluted Bandera County Saturday and Sunday Oct. 8-9, but Chamber of Commerce members, entertainers and several others from the community came both days to represent Bandera in proper Cowboy Capital fashion.

Sea World's new fall program invites communities across south Texas to showcase their heritage, attractions, history and local entertainment during a specially designated week at Sea World.

A total of 111 "Bandera County" coupons good for $3 off admission were taken at the gate, according to Sea World officials. For each coupon accepted, Sea World will be donating $1 to the Bandera County Youth Forum. Thirty-seven coupons came in Saturday and 74 came in Sunday.

The Bandera Cowboy Band performed songs about cowboys and the old west throughout both days, and featured Ballan Grant, Charlie Heinen, Dusty Britches, Rudy Robbins and Roger Heinen.

Bruce Montague performed roping tricks, and Rudy Robbins and 8 or 9 helpers performed a comedy gunfight skit that kept Sea World visitors transfixed.

Sea World has a few stars of its own to show off, too. The most famous, and rightly so, is Shamu, but there are also various dolphins, whales, penguins, and sharks to see.

The park covers some 250 acres, and for those who have never been, it deserves its reputation for spectacular entertainment. But, as anyone who has been there will warn you, be prepared to walk a lot.

Taking a few minutes to look at the map and schedule of activities they hand you as you enter is a wise investment of your time. There are lots of things to see, and they are spread "halfway to kingdom come," as one woman said towards the end of a long day.

To your right, as you enter, is the New Friends show, the Meadow and Shamu Stadium. Farther along, in one of the remote corners of the park, is the penguin exhibit and "Boardwalk Baseball," complete with midway games. It will save you some walking if you plan to see these things and the water ski show before you walk to the other end of the park, where you will find Sharks and The Coral Reef, the Garden of Flags, a giant United States map, and Joplin Square.

On the back side of the park are the feeding pools, sea lion, walrus and otter exhibit, "A Place to Meet," Texas Walk, and in the middle, Cypress Gardens West.

There are more things to do and see than one person can possibly squeeze into one day.

New Friends show is continually changing because whenever a new animal is added, the trainers have to put it through several steps. Saturday's show featured several types of dolphins and whales, and was a delight to see. Four gray dolphins, named Cindy, Dolly, Sandy and Starbuck raced through the water and performed a series of jumps and stunts that captivated the crowd. Starbuck performed some high jumps and flips that a guy like Shamu will never try.

Namu is expecting a "blessed event, any day now," according to Sea World officials, but Saturday's crowd was somewhat disappointed to find out that today was not the day a bouncing baby Shamu would come into the world.

The killer whales' tricks consist of much the same as the New Friends, but somehow, seeing an animal the size of Shamu performing those tricks increased the magnitude of how impressive it was. A killer whale is a very large animal. When it comes leaping out of the water, it is hard not to be impressed.

In both stadiums, New Friends' and Shamu's, there is a "splash zone," in the first few rows. The announcer warns that if you sit there, you will very likely get wet, and it is no exaggeration.

During the performances, waves and sheets of cold, salty water cascaded into the crowd. The first few rows were populated mostly by kids who tended to shriek and laugh with delight. Shamu splashes a lot, and occasionally manages to get so high out of the water that the volume of water coming out of the tank is almost unbelievable.

The marine mammal pool gives adults and children alike the opportunity to see dolphins up close, and to even feed them during certain hours.

Sea World will salute Pleasanton, Jourdanton and Poteet Oct. 15-16, and they will salute Goliad Oct. 22-23.

Freak accident kills Mico para-sailer

By Carol Smith
Special Correspondent

David Robert Mangold, 35, apparently died of a severe neck injury after becoming entangled in a tow rope.

A 35-year old Medina Lake man, David Robert Mangold, died Sunday afternoon in an freak water-skiing accident on Medina Lake.

Mangold was para-sailing behind his boat driven by a neighbor when the tow rope and harness became entangled about his neck, killing him.

Para-sailing utilizes a parachute attached to the harness on a skier's body which gives the skier lift into the air. When the boat's engines speed up, the parachute becomes filled with air and the skier is carried into the sky.

Mangold was a new resident of the Medina Lake area. He and his wife had just recently moved to the waterfront property in Cherry Cove. Mangold's boat was operated by a neighbor, who didn't want to be identified.

The para-sail with Mangold in the harness ascended from the dock in Cherry Cove and the boat headed in the direction of Tiki Island. The driver of the boat said that Mangold appeared to motion to ascend and descend several times, finally motioning to descend and stop, which the driver did.

When the driver of the boat went to pick him up, Mangold was found to be unconscious. Mangold was not wearing a life jacket.

The tow rope and harness to the para-sailing rig were entangled around the victim's neck and body. The driver of the boat immediately solicited aid by waving down another boat in the area. The boat which came to his aid was operated by a San Antonio doctor and his wife, who is a nurse.

Mangold was immediately and continually given CPR while the doctor, who remains unidentified, proceeded in his own boat to the Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Center to call for an ambulance. The nurse rode in Mangold's boat, trying in vain to resuscitate him while the driver proceeded to Lackland.

Upon arrival at Lackland, the doctor again checked Mangold's vital signs; which were non-existent. Ernest Lerma, Texas Parks and Wildlife game warden for Medina Lake was on the scene at the recreation center and radioed for an ambulance from Lakehills.

After the doctor reexamined the victim at the marina, a justice of the peace was called and upon arrival pronounced the victim dead.

Although there were no rope burns, the victim apparently died of a severe neck injury from becoming entangled in the harness and tow ropes. No water came out of the victim during CPR, thereby making drowning an unlikely cause of death.

"It appears to be a freak accident," says Lerma. "It was a perfect day for para-sailing and the victim received immediate, professional aid."

The victim did not have any identification on his person and the driver knew the man only as Bob. Because the victim was not immediately identified, his family was not notified until later in the day, says Lerma.

No funeral arrangements are known at this time.

Appraisal district's budget dealt triple-whammy by taxing groups

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Three Bandera County taxing entities this week voted again to disapprove the Bandera County Appraisal District's 1989 proposed budget, apparently killing it a second time.

The spending document was rejected last month and then resubmitted in the same form for a second time.

The Bandera Independent School District Board of Trustees voted 6-0, with Ron Jackson abstaining, to reject the appraisal district's $196,950 budget Tuesday, Oct. 11; the Bandera city council unanimously rejected the budget Monday, Oct. 10; and the Bandera County Commissioners rejected the $1,740 raise for chief appraiser Larry Reagan, but otherwise approved the proposed budget at their meeting Monday.

Appraisal district president Fabian Mazurek said the effect of the county's action was to reject the budget.

The seven-member school board expressed concern over salaries, per diem for the appraisal review board members, and mileage expenses for the appraisers.

The budget contains $6,000 to pay the appraisal review board members $40 per day plus mileage and meals. Field appraisers are to be paid a $250 per month travel expense.

Salaries for employees other than Reagan range from $12,780 a year for the abstractor and field appraiser, $13,440 for the data processor, and $20,160 for the administrator of appraisal services.

Reagan said the proposed salary levels are necessary to prevent unnecessary turnover among appraisers. "The appraisal district cannot afford to be the training ground for appraisers," he said.

The average appraiser's salary statewide ranges from $17,590 for starting appraisers and $22,588 for highly trained appraisers, said Reagan in documentation that was submitted to the taxing entities comparing the district's budget and employee salaries to surrounding counties.

Uvalde County's district has a salary range of $12,979 to $19,950 for its four appraisers.

Members of the Citizens for Good Government attended the three meetings at which the proposed budget was considered this week, and they spoke out mainly against Reagan. "Our group is dedicated to the removal of Mr. Reagan (as chief appraiser)," Norman Mansfield told the school board.

Norma Gray told the Bandera city council that the group now sought a "compromise" eliminating Reagan's raise and OKing the remainder of the budget.

City councilman Ross Bailey spoke out against the appraisal office salaries at Monday's city council meeting and criticized Reagan's defense of the budget by comparing it to other districts. "It bothers me comparing us with other people. I could care less what other people pay. It's what it's worth to us and what we can afford."

Bandera County commissioners unanimously approved the appraisal district's budget with the exception of the chief appraiser's salary of $34,740, which they said should go back to the 1988 level. "The $30,000 salary and $3,000 travel expense for Reagan will be all right," said County Judge Ray Mauer.

"The $1,740 more she's to receive in the proposed budget) is

Money woes give rise to deincorporation talk

By Nick Johnson
Editor

The specter of deincorporation raised its head at the Bandera City Council table Monday as one of three solutions to the city's persistent fiscal problems that have plagued city fathers for two years.

The other solutions: raising taxes dramatically and eliminating certain basic city services.

"What would happen if we deincorporate?" councilman Robert Skinner asked. "Would the citizens lose out?"

He answered himself by pointing out that the move would put the responsibilities of police protection and road maintenance back into the hands of the county and would eliminate most other city services. "We pay county taxes already," he said.

The city's attorney, Randy Richards of Boerne, cautioned against more serious consideration of the matter by pointing to the troubles of the community of Wimberly, near Austin, that has refused to incorporate.

He said a nearby resort, called Wood Creek, recently incorporated and annexed or otherwise took control of Wimberly (by use of its extraterritorial jurisdiction powers).

The discussion came as a result of a dreary report from the city's auditor, John McBrine, who told the council for the second consecutive year that it must raise taxes significantly or face bankruptcy.

"You are going to have to raise the revenues on one hand or cut expenses, or a combination of the two," he told the council. "I think you've done an excellent job of cutting the fat. I don't see any 'three-martini lunches' in (the audit of expenditures) at all."

His annual audit report revealed an operating deficit of $48,000 over the past year, the second consecutive deficit spending year the council has experienced.

Actually, the real deficit is about $36,000, he explained, because $12,000 of the apparent shortfall was due to the closing out of the city's revenue sharing funds. The balance in that fund of about $12,000 was spent, but not replenished when the program was discontinued.

Still, a $36,000 deficit on the heels of the prior year's shortfall has left the city's fiscal picture drab.

McBrine's audit covered the fiscal year that ended July 31 and city secretary Ella Mae Sandidge had continued bad fiscal news for the council Monday when she reported receipts in September of $10,055 and expenditures of twice that—$20,641. That left the city's general fund balance on Sept. 30 at only $1,105 with bills to be paid amounting to nearly 10 times that.

Mayor Raymond Admietz used a little sleight of hand to keep the public from objecting too strenously when the council dealt with that problem after midnight

"Good fences make good neighbors." When the poet said that he meant to say that it was best to avoid neighborly conflicts that could not easily be resolved.

Stray animals grazing where they should not, trampling young corn, and just generally being obnoxious are guaranteed to start feuds that can last for generations.

Good fences, unfortunately do not come cheap.

A recent article in Texas Farmer-Stockman reported that the choices are many, but, given current labor and materials costs, an electric fence is the clear winner.

If 110-volt AC is available, it is preferred to DC because of its superior performance in grass and brush. In remote areas, battery power is used.

A comparative experiment in Georgia ten years ago came up with this range of costs. Ten-foot spacing on wood posts supporting woven wire add two strands of barbed wire cost $3,062 a mile. A permanent electric fence, with ten-inch spacing on four strands of smooth wire supported by fiberglass posts at seventy-five feet apart costs $775 a mile.

Perhaps you have seen the television commercial in which a friendly North Carolina banker invites you for a cup of coffee so he can talk about loaning you money.

He is telling you there is no need for a fence between the money earned by hard-working Texans and the decisions made in Charlotte, North Carolina on what to do with that money.

He is telling you there is no need for good fences.

Last week, Dallas based MCorp went belly up. It was the last of the state's big banks — mismanaged by cowboy loan officers taking Mafia advice — to bite the federal welfare bullet.

Next time you run into Texans Lloyd Bentsen and George Bush, ask them what they are going to do about our fences.

What do they think? is cedar, mesquite or post oak our best bet for keeping the out-of-state stock from grazing our pastures?

Dear editor:

At one of the local football games on Friday night I observed several of the teenagers dancing to music. I love to dance too, but not to the "Star Spangled Banner" during the flag-raising ceremony. The kids were talking, fluffing up their hair and chewing gum instead of honoring our great flag.

I would like to have people of Bandera read the following:

Remember Me?

"Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your flag, the flag of the United States of America. Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you.

"I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally, I was leading every parade, proudly waving in the breeze. When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it over his heart. Remember?

And you, I remember you. Standing there as straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat but you were giving me the right salute. Remember your little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you, with her right hand over her heart. Remember?

"What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have a few more stars since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

"But now I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and I may get a small glance, then you look away. I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take off his hat and then look around. He didn't see anybody else with theirs off, so he quickly put his back on.

"Is it a sin to be patriotic any more? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been —Anzio, Korea, Guadalcanal, and Vietnam. Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometime, of those who never came back to keep this Republic free. When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

"Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart, and I'll salute you by waving back. And I'll know that you remembered!"

I am really writing this letter to say "you are welcome" to the group or persons who decided that they needed the American flag more than the American Legion Post 157. I hope it is flying over your home now because, of course, you would never use it for window curtains or a bedspread. It was so nice to come into Bandera at night and see the flag over the American Legion building waving in the lights that were shining on it. The Veterans of our Post 157 try to help people any way we can, so we hope you enjoy the use of our Old Glory. But if you decide that you really don't need it after all, please return it because we are proud to be Americans and stand tall for our flag of freedom.

Letterwriter says poisoning is cruel and unnecessary

Dear editor:

There is a practice that exists among some goat and sheep ranchers in the Bandera area that most rational people would consider cruel and unnecessary.

The goat ranchers bait their fence lines and draw their neighbor's domestic dogs in with poisoned meat. When non-poisoned meat is used, the dogs are trapped and shot.

No effort is made to contact the owners of these sometimes very expensive animals with hundreds of man hours worth of training in them. The bodies are disposed of with their license tags intact. Many of these pets, some even puppies, are simply shot on sight, no matter which side of the fence line they are on, for their "potential danger."

I know of no responsible dog owner who would not be glad to reimburse a neighbor for damages, whether it be a $5 chicken or a $50 goat in exchange for notifying him that his $200 to $300 dog is out of its fence.

The above stated practice is all the more contemptible when conducted on 10 acre tracts where neighbors know who owns what dogs. To conduct this practice under the charade of "killing wild dogs and coyotes" is ridiculous. Any rational being knows the difference between a wild dog and a tagged puppy or any other obviously well-cared-for pet. These dogs are shot arbitrarily because they pose a supposed threat to the rancher's livestock, whether or not they have actually attacked anything.

I know of no situation whereby a domestic dog owner shot goats on sight because they were out of their fence and posed a threat to the neighbor's landscape or garden. That is, not yet.

I also question the statistics of the "wolf club" and how many of their "wild dogs" are neighbor's tagged pets. Not much sport in this type of game hunting.

One thing I know for sure, though. There are a lot more domestic dog owners than there are goat ranchers in a ten-acre tract subdivision.

Animals need care

Dear editor:

We want to thank those who have donated to St. Francis for their support. We've temporarily misplaced the named of a person or two, but the rest of you should be getting to hear from us in the near future.

Things have been busy at the shelter. We have taken in five new litters of kittens. Some are being bottle-raised. We were called out to take in a mama and her puppies abandoned on Bear Springs Road. We were brought a nursing age pup from Mico abandoned on the road and found by someone looking for land to buy.

All of these critters require much care and keep us from being out there to do what we must to survive, namely raising funds for the shelter so it can continue.

We must raise $4,000 for vet expenses, to winterize the shelter and put in new buildings to house the many animals you have asked us to take in. We must raise this in the next six or eight weeks or close down the shelter. To those of you who are on the waiting list to get animals into the shelter, hang in there. We're working on it.

If everyone in the county over 21 years of age contributed only 50 cents, we would just about be where we need to be to serve everyone better.

Hefty explanation

Dear editor:

After an article appeared in your paper this week referring to a "hefty increase in the budget of the County Treasurer's office" (as well as other departments) without stating any reason for this increase, I feel that the taxpayers should know the reasons for the increase in the treasurer's budget.

First of all, when I prepared the 1987-1988 budget for this office in June 1987, I wasn't aware that the county commissioners each planned to assume control of the four precincts in the county and discontinue the county-wide operation under the supervision of the county road superintendent. In September 1987, they also established a department for the repair and maintenance of all county-owned vehicles and equipment. Where, for several years, we only had one account for the Road and Bridge Department, in October 1987, it became necessary to set up five separate accounts in order to maintain accurate records of the receipts and disbursements of each commissioner's precinct as well as the maintenance department.

In addition to this, the Juvenile Probation Department and Indigent Health Care program became active in our county during the last fiscal year, and the garbage collection station at Lakehills was opened. Each new department or function creates the need for keeping additional records of receipts and disbursements. Also, for many years, there was only one state fee account, whereas now there are seven for which the county treasurer's office must keep records and submit quarterly reports to the state comptroller. The county has also made it possible for employees to participate in an IRS approved "cafeteria plan" for health and dental insurance, which necessitates detailed records.

Computerization of the records in the treasurer's office and the payroll was also requested by the commissioners court, and is under way. This procedure makes it necessary for us to maintain manually posted ledgers as well as the computer-produced records for at least one year so records can be compared to verify the accuracy of the new methods of accounting. The payroll is scheduled to be produced on our computer in January.

I did not allow for these additional costs in the budget of the treasurer's office for 1987-1988, but they occurred, and the court had to amend this budget for the past year by $7,500 to cover the cost of additional employees' salaries, equipment, office supplies, and a storage cabinet placed in the hall because we have no additional space in which to store necessary records in my office. With an amended budget for 1987-1988 totaling $68,690, and an estimated budget of $73,500 for 1988-1989, there is an actual increase of 7 percent in the 1988-1989 budget for the county treasurer's office.

I am definitely not proud of this budget increase, but it seems to be necessary in order to perform all the duties that are delegated to the treasurer's office in Bandera County since we have no county auditor. By performing the functions of both the county treasurer and the county auditor in the Bandera County treasurer's office, a minimum of $40,000 is saved in our county each year.

Former Mayor Bob Cowan was here too late to place an ad for a family financial management seminar scheduled by the Bandera United Methodist Church beginning next week (see article elsewhere in this issue).

He's telling everyone about the guy that transferred from The University of Texas at Austin, Cowan's alma mater, to Oklahoma University—raising the I.Q. of both schools.

He didn't have any jokes about the two schools' football teams, however. Apparently, it's times like these that tea sippers begin talking about academic excellence.

• Our new Pipe Creek correspondent, Henry Davis is telling this one about the Aggie who won a gold medal in the Olympic Games: He hurried back to College Station to have the medal bronzed.

• Staffer Janna Sandidge suggests a political debate between county commissioner hopeful Roger Raser and State Rep. Eldon Edge. She'd bill it as the Raser-Edge debate.

• Her birth announcement attributed this quote to Kazmie Sharee Jureczki, who was born Sept. 27: "My daddy (Lawrence Jureczki) says that I'll be the world's champion barrelracer in the year 2000."

Nice trick for a lass who will only be 12 years old at the time.

• Cartoonist Barry McWilliams, whose work has appeared on the Bulletin's editorial page for the last several years, writes to remind us that this month marks his 10th anniversary in the cartoon business.

"Ten years ago this week I quit my job and headed out with a bunch of cartoons under my arm and my last $20 in the gas tank," he recalls. "Literally, I had to sell my stuff just to get back home."

Sell it he did, and his J.P. DOODLES has appeared in more than 1,000 papers coast to coast, including the Bulletin, of course.

"Since the beginning, I've had a lot of heartwarming response to my cartoons and I've also upset my share of readers, mostly local officials," he admits.

"The amazing thing to me is that, after 10 years of running against deadlines and dealing with all the ups and downs of the news business, I love to draw today more than ever," he writes.

"And I hope it shows."

We think it does.

Tuesday morning by borrowing $10,000 from the water department to make ends meet, for the present at least.

He had quietly posted a notice for an "emergency meeting" Monday afternoon to fulfill the letter, if not the spirit, of the law, and after most spectators had left in the wee hours of Tuesday morning, he reconvened the council to act on financial matters.

The subject of borrowing from Peter (the water department) to pay Paul (the city's current obligations) arose during the regular council session earlier Monday, but no hint of the impending "emergency meeting" was given.

True emergency meetings are authorized by the state's Open Meetings Act as few as two hours after posting notice, but in such cases the law also requires the mayor to give notice by other means to news media. A reporter was present at Monday's regular session, but he was not informed of the so-called "emergency or urgent public necessity."

The possibility of deincorporation has been discussed informally in recent months, but Skinner's raising of that possibility at the council table Monday was the first time it has been brought up seriously and officially. Such a move would require the assent of the citizens in a plebiscite.

In other council action Monday the city fathers gave preliminary approval prohibiting persons from living in travel trailers in the city for more than a total of 14 days in any one year, and postponed action on ordinances prohibiting glass containers and overnight camping in the city park, clarifying the prohibition against portable signs, and adopting the newly-drafted code of ordinances.

They rejected the proposed budget of the Bandera County Appraisal District for the second time after hearing from Louise Karr and Norma Gray, both of Lakehills, who said they now sought a compromise eliminating any salary hike for chief appraiser Larry Reagan.

The council also postponed action on the city's stray dog problem after hearing from veterinarians Steve Selle and Mark Richardson. It will be the subject of a workshop session this month, along with the proposed ordinances on signs and the park.

They also passed a resolution containing the necessary assurances and certifications required to accompany a request for a $50,000 grant to aid in drainage construction on 8th Street between Maple and Cedar streets, and authorized advertising for bids on the drainage contract and the construction of a pump house on Rugh Hill that public works director Melvin King estimated would cost $4,000.

They also authorized a survey of the now defunct Cedar Street well to see if it is repairable and gave King the go ahead to research the possibility of allowing the use of treated wastewater to irrigate the golf course at the Flying L Ranch.

Budget

what we're opposed to," said Commissioner Dan Alanis.

"The main objection against the appraisal district is Reagan's salary," said Karr. "We're not quarreling with the budget, but Reagan doesn't deserve a raise," she said. "We don't want to give the man (Reagan) a raise if he doesn't do his job right," said Karr.

"Reagan's messed up the appraisals so badly, he shouldn't get a raise," said Gray.

Judge Mauer says he views the commissioners' action as approval of the budget, but Mazurek disagrees.

"We actually approved the budget with the one exception, the raise (for Reagan)," says Mauer. "They (the appraisal district board) just have to change that one line entry."

The county's approval of the budget with the exception to the raise is taken as a disapproval of the whole budget by appraisal district board president Mazurek. "They've got to approve it all together or not at all," says Mazurek. "If they disapprove any part of the budget, then they've disapproved it all," he emphasized.

Botanical garden trip fun-filled

It was a fun-filled day at the San Antonio Botanical Gardens for members of Bandera Fine Arts Club Tuesday, Oct. 4, according to club spokeswoman Dorothy Ann Roberts.

"It was a most interesting tour to view many beautiful and exotic plants," said Roberts. "Some of the unusual flowering plants and trees included the dancing lady orchid, cortisone leaf plant (which looks like a turtle's back), burlap-textured rock palm tree, a 130-pound coconut seed, chenille plant, fruiting papaya, natal plums, clap board plant and many others."

"Work on the Botanical Gardens began in the 1970's, and the San Antonio Botanical Center Society is one of 17 botanical centers that is trying to save rare and endangered world-wide plant species.

The club members lunched at Earl Abel's Restaurant after their visit to the botanical gardens, then club president Pat D'Spain presented a past president's pin to outgoing president Trina Sandidge.

Accused murderer sues over jail conditions

James Michael Clark, one of four accused in the murder of Randy Sherwood and a prisoner in the Bandera County jail, has brought suit against Sheriff Guy Pickett, jail administrator James MacMillan, and Ron Below for federal civil rights violations.

Clark, who in the past has been on the county work detail used to pick up trash and clear brush, has been taken off the detail. He is set for trial Nov. 7, and the department on conduct want anything to happen to him," according to MacMillan.

In the suit brought against the three officials, Clark, who has been in the jail for about a year, contends that the sheriff's department has violated his civil rights and asked the federal court to order Bandera County to update the jail, according to MacMillan.

Acting as his own attorney, Clark complains in his suit that there is no law library for him to use to research his case in the jail. He has asked for a book from the county law library and it has been given to him, said MacMillan.

Further, Clark contends that jail personnel wear their guns in the jail. MacMillan denied that guns are worn by the officers in the jail cell area.

Clark said in his suit that the jail's kitchen does not have a dishwashing machine to properly clean the dishes, and the jail's cook does not wear a net on his hair.

An area must be provided in the jail for washing dishes, according to jail standards, said MacMillan, and there has been no complaint about hair in the food.

Medication is not distributed by proper medical personnel, according to Clark's complaint, but jail standards do not require medical personnel to hand out medication, according to MacMillan.

There is no dining, recreation, or day room area, complains Clark, but MacMillan said the day room, complete with a table for eating and use as a desk, has been incorporated into each cell. There is a recreation area available and a ping pong table and equipment.

"We're following the rules of the jail commission," said Pickett, "and they say what we're doing is right.

"He (Clark) wants to run the jail," the sheriff continued. "We're going to run it as long as we have the key."

Augustine (Tena) Anderwald Allen

Augustine (Tena) Allen, 86, of Bandera, died Wednesday, Oct. 5, in St. Luke's Hospital in San Antonio.

She was born in Bandera on Aug. 27, 1902. She married W.B. (Bill) Allen on August 5, 1938. She was a housewife and worked with her husband at Bell Telephone Co. in Bandera. She was preceded in death by her husband on May 13, 1973.

She was a member of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, the Altar Society, American Legion Post 157 Auxiliary, Silver Sage Corral and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Services were Friday, Oct. 7, at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church with Monsignor Ralph Smith officiating.

Burial was in St. Stanislaus Catholic cemetery.

Public meeting planned on watermaster plan

By James Henry Frazer
Staff Writer

A public information meeting on the state's watermaster plan will be held in Kerrville Monday to explain what effect new regulations have on Bandera County water rights holders.

A public hearing will be held Oct. 24 in Austin to set the watermaster program's budget.

Businesses, government entities, and agriculture interests must obtain a water rights use permit from the Texas Water Commission to use water from rivers and creeks, says James Kowis, assistant director of Water Rights and Uses Division of the Texas Water Commission.

Permit holders include irrigation, municipal, and recreational users. Domestic use of river and creek water is exempt from a permit.

The water rights use permit tells the Texas Water Commission how much water can be diverted from a stream, but not how much actually is being diverted, Kowis explains.

Under the watermaster plan, a meter at each pumping station will measure how much water is being diverted from a stream.

Water users who draw water from the San Antonio River Basin, of which the Medina River is a part, the Nueces River Basin, and the Guadalupe River Basin will have to use meters to report the amount of water they are using to the watermaster or his deputies for the South Texas Water division.

There are a total of 50 water rights holders in Bandera county. Three are municipal, 38 are irrigation, and 10 are recreational permits.

Permit holders include the city of Bandera, Bandera Electric Cooperative, Castle Lake Land and Development Company, Medina Development Company, Clarence Lautzenheiser, Don Hicks of the Mayan Ranch, and Maudeen Marks of the LHZ Ranch.

Some permit holders may have two use permits, says Kowis.

Bandera county's river and streams drain into all three river basins effected by the regulations established in August of 1988. The Sabinal River drains into the Nueces River Basin. Some creeks in the northern part of the county, such as Verde Creek, drain into the Guadalupe River Basin.

Three of the water rights granted in Bandera county are for streams that drain into the Guadalupe River Basin, 10 for the Nueces Basin, and 37 for the San Antonio River Basin.

Everyone with a water permit will be required to have a water meter at each diversion point, says Ray Buck, executive director of the Bandera County River Authority. The price range for a meter will be $300 to $700 for a normal irrigation draw, says Kowis.

The whole purpose of the watermaster plan is to conserve water. If a creek is going dry, water diversion will be curtailed, says Buck.

Monday's information meeting will be held at the Comptroller's Training Center at 125 Lehman in Kerrville and will begin a 2 p.m.

The public hearing on the watermaster budget will be held Oct. 24 beginning at 10 a.m. in Austin.

The watermaster plan for the three river basins is in effect, but needs to be funded and there will be ample time for permit holders to get meters.

Trustees veto appraisal budget, will help track obtain license

Bandera Independent School District trustees again played to a full house Tuesday night as they reconsidered the tax appraisal budget, and again, rejected it.

The board also voted to send a letter to Don Essary, president of Bandera Downs, expressing their support of pari-mutuel racing at the track.

Board member Ron Jackson discussed a suggestion by County Judge Ray Mauer for the tax appraisal district representatives to meet with members from the different taxing entities, and the board seemed to agree that such a meeting would be helpful. Jackson also questioned Reagan at length about specific appraisal practices and equalizing methods.

"All property owners need to be aware of their values," said Reagan.

The board voted to table their consideration of a performance audit for the appraisal district.

The board also approved a letter that will be sent to Don Essary reaffirming their support of parimutuel racing at Bandera Downs.

"On behalf of board members, this is to let you know that the board will work with you to help in obtaining required license from the State Racing Commission," said the letter.

"Bandera Independent School District can expect a small increase in student enrollment when pari-mutuel racing in Bandera County begins, but we do not feel this will cause a negative impact on the district. Additionally, a positive effect on the local economy and the school district is anticipated."

Church of Christ minister Martin Smith and former school board president Bub Keese were among those who voiced disapproval of the school board's action. Keese said he thought the matter was not school board business.

"I think this letter is too committal for the board," Keese commented.

The board voted to send the supportive letter in a 5-1-1 vote, with Ken Vakey voting against sending the letter and Emmet Dalton abstaining.

The board also voted to change their next meeting from Nov. 8 to Nov. 15, to avoid a conflict with the upcoming election.

Another arrest reported in drug investigation

Victor Woods, 26, was arrested Saturday, Oct. 8, on two counts of delivery of methamphetamine.

Woods, along with several others, was indicted on drug-related charges by the Bandera County grand jury Sept. 23.

The suspects were indicted on evidence gathered by a four-county drug task force that has made many arrests in Bandera, Kerr, Kendall and Gillespie counties.

Also arrested on drug-related charges this week were Franklin Garcia, 36, of San Antonio, and Lorenzo Garcia, 27, of Bandera. Both were arrested Oct. 8 and charged with possession of marijuana.

Roy Whitfield, 40, and Paula Whitfield, 31, both of San Antonio were arrested Oct. 5 and charged with theft.

Henry Mesa, Jr., 24, of Pipe Creek was arrested Oct. 5 on DPS warrants and charges of burglary.

There were five arrests this week for driving while intoxicated. George Salinas, 21, of Andrews was arrested Oct. 6; Russell Holby, 32, of Bandera was arrested Oct. 7; Paul K. Attaway Jr., 31, of Houston and William Cope, 55, of Bandera were arrested Oct. 8; and Bryan Alan Peters, 23, of Bandera was arrested Oct. 11.

Carl Nall of Missouri City reported a burglary at his place at Castle Lake Oct. 7. Numerous items valued at $2,179 were reported taken.

Judges named for election

Election judges and alternates have all been named for the upcoming election Nov. 8, according to Bandera County Clerk Vera King, and there will be "more election clerks and helpers than ever," she said this week.

Bandera County Commissioners Tuesday approved extra help where needed for the election judges and workers for the election.

There should be one election official for every 100 voters, but there will be at least three or four workers at each polling place according to King.

Election judges appointed include Marianne Sandidge, precinct 1; Helen Edwards, precinct 2; Johnnie Newcomer, precinct 3; Dorothy McCracken, precinct 4; Telvy Robbins, precinct 5; Shirley Phillips, precinct 6; Martin Smith, precinct 7; Arthur Erfurt, precinct 8; Marjorie Jordan, precinct 9; and Charlsie Porter, precinct 10.

Alternate judges include Olga Bolduc, precinct 1; Cindy Martin, precinct 2; Millie Radar, precinct 3; Doris Roemer, precinct 4; Mildred Brown, precinct 5; Juanita Baker, precinct 6; Meleese Rugh, precinct 7; William C. Morris, precinct 8; Arilla Adams, precinct 9; and Cynthia Mauldin, precinct 10.

Bonnie Bruce and Bernice Bates will conduct absentee balloting in the county clerk's office, starting Oct. 19 and continuing through Nov. 4.

Applications for absentee voting by mail are available at the county clerk's office. Those eligible to vote by mail include those who cannot vote in person for reasons of illness, confinement or religious reasons, and those 65 and older.

For more information, you can call the Bandera County Clerk's office at 796-3332.

Bandera County Tax Assessor/Collector Marguerite Stevens, is wrapped up in her work as the office's new computer system prints out the names of an increasing number of registered voters which had topped 6,400 by the Oct. 11 deadline.

Voter registration reaches record level in county

Some 6,394 Bandera County voters had registered by Tuesday, Oct. 11, but about 40 more registration cards arrived by mail that day, and more will probably come in during this week, according to Mae Vion Meyer with the Bandera County Tax Assessor/Collector's office.

This number represents a 12.2 percent increase over 5,698 voters registered in November 1987.

Pipe Creek's number of registered voters has increased the most since November. There are 1,555 now in their two precincts, an increase of 279, or 21.8 percent. Bandera's three precincts now have 2,556 registered voters, 239 more, or 10.3 percent than a year ago. Lakehills has 1,037 registered voters, for an increase of 13.5 percent. Medina's 729 registered voters, 52 more than last year, represents a 7.6 percent increase.

Lakehills Precinct 4 has the highest total number of voters for a single precinct, followed by Bandera Precinct 1 with 1004, a 16.6 percent increase over November.

Pipe Creek Precinct 3 has 938 registered voters, representing a 22.7 percent increase; Bandera 7, 873, or 2.5 percent increase; Bandera 5, 679, or 12.2 percent increase; Pipe Creek 2, 617, or 20.5 increase; Medina 6, 382, or 13.6 increase; Utopia/Vanderpool 10, 364, a 1.3 percent decrease; Medina 9, 347, or 1.7 percent increase; and Tarpley 8, 153, or 4.7 percent increase.

Bandera County reported 2,402 registered voters in 1970, but by March of 1977, there were 3,724 registered voters in the county. In 1981, the figure jumped to 4,427.

By November 1984 (the last presidential election year), Bandera County reported 5,259 registered voters.

Steve Forest rally not covered dish

A rally for Steve Forest, Democratic nominee for sheriff of Bandera County, Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Pipe Creek Community Center will be a free barbecue, not a covered dish event as reported last week.

A noon-day meal of barbecue and all the trimmings will be served and utensils and other "niceties" will be furnished, according to spokesman Donnie Walker.

Three amendments on Nov. 8 ballot

By Nick Johnson
Editor

Bandera County voters will have three proposed constitutional amendments to consider Nov. 8, including one which will use the investment of school funds to create jobs and economic growth in Texas.

Others on the ballot include one that would make crystal clear that federal reimbursement of highway funds could be used only for highway purposes and another that would establish a "rainy day" fund from surplus or unspent money remaining in the state treasury at the end of each fiscal biennium.

Amendment No. 1

The first amendment at the lower left of the ballot would dedicate, or set aside, for the purposes of acquiring rights-of-way and constructing, maintaining and policing public roadways all money that is received from the federal government for state money that is dedicated and spent for these purposes.

The state must pay for most of the planning, land acquisition and construction of all highway projects, and if projects meet federal aid specifications, the state is reimbursed from federal money for a major portion of its expenses (90 percent in the case of interstate highways).

During the fiscal crisis of 1986 and 1987, inquiries were made as to whether federal reimbursement could be used for purposes other than highways. This amendment would make it clear that they cannot.

Persons opposed to the amendment charge it would tie the hands of the legislature by restricting its ability to set fiscal priorities. They claim it could result in higher state taxes to support other services when a surplus of money is available for highway purposes.

Those for the measure, including road contractors of the Good Roads Association, say the amendment will retain the status quo and maintain the quality of transportation projects and services that Texas have come to expect.

Amendment No. 2

The second amendment, which will appear at the bottom center of the ballot, would establish a "rainy day" fund in good times to help the state through not-so-good times, or prevent or eliminate temporary cash deficiencies in the state's general revenues.

The fund would consist of one-half the unused general revenue from the previous fiscal biennium, three-fourths of oil or gas production taxes that are in excess of the amount received in 1987, and interest and investment income credited to the fund.

Those who favor the amendment claim it would have the effect of an enforced savings plan by requiring the state to put aside money against unexpected shortages.

Those opposing it point out that general revenues would not be available for future appropriations and that the situation would arise in which the state would be raising taxes though it had money available in the so-called "rainy day" fund.

Amendment No. 3

The third proposal, at the lower right of the ballot, creates a "growth fund" for private business in Texas that are having difficulty obtaining financing from traditional sources.

Money for the fund would come as investments from the permanent school fund, the Teacher Retirement System of Texas, the Employees Retirement System of Texas and other pension systems.

Those who favor the proposal claim the it would support development of business in Texas because money to finance many ideas, products and methods cannot be obtained from banks or other traditional sources of financing.

Those who oppose it say that adequate private sources of financing exist for worthy ventures and that funds being held for students and retired employees should not be used for "risky" investments.

Discovery makes stop in San Antonio

The space shuttle Discovery prepares to leave San Antonio aboard its Boeing 747 carrier-aircraft Saturday. Thousands turned out to see it land and half as many stayed to see it leave for Florida during its refueling stop at Kelly Air Force Base.

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The brief refueling stop of the space shuttle Discovery lined the access roads and the road along Kelly AFB's runway in San Antonio with crowds numbering in the thousands.

The space shuttle Discovery set atop its Boeing 747 carrier-aircraft arrived in San Antonio Saturday, Oct. 8, at approximately 1:15 p.m. to a crowd assembled along Highway 90 north of Kelly Air Force Base and along the road that loops around the main runway of the San Antonio Air Force base. Cars lined either side of Kelly's road next to the runway and several lanes of cars were parked in the highway median between Highway 90 and the access road.

During the time, many just stood and watched as the refueling tankers refilled the 132,000 pounds of fuel used during the trip from Edwards. After the initial landing, some of the children began to play. One family's children brought their own shuttle toys and threw them into the air as 5 to 7 year olds would.

The base was closed to the public, but military personnel and their families were allowed a closer look inside Kelly's fenced perimeter during the shuttle's stopover from Edwards Air Force Base in California.

[illegible] tion was proceeded into the sky by NASA's "Pathfinder" KC-135 airplane with the other crew. The KC-135 is a military version of a Boeing 707. It's mission is to fly 20 minutes ahead to scout ahead for bad weather and turbulence, says Steve Nesbitt, public information officer at the Johnson Space Flight Center in Houston.

At Kelly the flight crew for the Pathfinder switched with the 747. The KC-135 is flown by NASA over the Gulf of Mexico for zero gravity experiments, such as astronaut training.

The shuttle is not powered or manned during the approximately 8.5 hour transport across the country from its landing point from space at the dry lake bed in California to the space center where it will be conditioned for another flight scheduled Feb. 18.

The shuttle's engines are enclosed in a protective tail cone during flight to improve the aerodynamics, says Nesbitt. The tail cone smooths out any turbulence that may caused by the shuttle's three rocket engine nozzles during the flight on top the 747.

Because of the bulk of the orbiter Discovery, which is 194,000 pounds compared to the 747's 334,000 pound empty weight, the Boeing has an extra stabilizer wing added to its tail section.

The space shuttle is secured to the larger aircraft by three specially fabricated supports. The 747 is structurally modified to handle the additional stress, says Nesbitt. The additional [illegible] to the body of the aircraft make it stronger." NASA has only one such modified 747 now, but recently has arranged to purchase a second shuttle-carrier, says Nesbitt.

The Discovery piggy-backed on the Boeing 747 left the airfield at 2:53 p.m., heading south. It turned east and headed for Florida and the Kennedy Space Center.

The Discovery and its carrier landed at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida that day after the 3 hour 20 minute flight from San Antonio, says Nesbitt. It landed at the same airstrip used by some of the previous shuttles on their return from space when a landing at Kennedy is chosen.

The shuttle flew at a maximum altitude of 16,000 feet on its journey to San Antonio and on its second leg flew at 15,000 feet. The carrier and shuttle combination flew in the vicinity of 350 mph, says Nesbitt.

Farm Bureau PAC endorses Eldon Edge for reelection

The Texas Farm Bureau Friends of Agriculture Fund, (AGFUND), Inc. has announced support for State Rep. Eldon Edge of Poth who is seeking reelection to the Texas House of Representatives from District 45 in the Nov. 8 General Election.

The AGFUND endorsement is based upon the candidate's views in regard to key issues affecting farmers and ranchers and other rural Texans, said AGFUND treasurer Warren Newberry of Waco.

"It is important that we exercise our rights as citizens and actively support candidates for public office who will best serve the interests of the state of Texas," said Newberry.

The endorsement is the result of evaluation by local farmers and ranchers of the candidate's views on issues such as environment, transportation, property rights, and others that relate specifically to agriculture, Newberry said.

U.S. Rep. Smith presented tax watchdog award

U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith of San Antonio has been given his second consecutive Golden Bulldog Award for consistently voting to cut federal spending, eliminate waste and reduce the deficit.

The award was presented to Smith in a recent Capitol Hill ceremony by Watchdogs of the Treasury Inc., a non-profit and non-partisan conservative group.

This prize was awarded for Smith's voting record on the floor of the House of Representatives in 1988. Earlier this year he was given his first Bulldog Award for his 1987 voting record.

Greenpeace set at Schreiner

Greenpeace, the environmental organization with more than 800,000 members and offices in 17 countries, will present a slide-illustrated view of its activities and exploits at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, in Schreiner College's Dietert Auditorium.

The presentation is the first of Schreiner's 1988-89 Special Events Series, a program which each year brings speakers on a variety of topics to the campus for students and community members, alike.

Most visible in its campaigns to protect whales and seals, Greenpeace takes on a wide range of environmental issues to rid chemical poisoning of the earth, air, and water. Through educational materials, proposed legislation, scientific research, and direct confrontation, the organization has influenced national and international environmental policy.

The program, presented by Greenpeace representative Christopher Childs, is free and open to the public. For further information, contact the Schreiner College Relations office at 896-5411.

County Commissioners will meet with Appraisal district board

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners Monday decided to meet with the Bandera County Appraisal District Board after objecting to the chief appraiser's salary in the district's proposed budget while 120 students from Bandera's Alkek Elementary school and 18 other citizens watched.

Commissioners voted to approve the $196,950 proposed 1989 Bandera County Appraisal's District if the $1,740 raise for chief appraiser Larry Reagan is removed.

Commissioners also tabled the cancellation of the Altamira Hill subdivision and decided to advertise for bids for the courthouse roof repair. Commissioners proclaimed Oct. 23-30 as Red Ribbon drug abuse awareness week.

Commissioners also voted to allow use of the county vans for overnight trips, as long as the trips do not exceed 72 hours. In other action, commissioners set a bail bond approval fee of $20.

The commissioners plan to meet with the appraisal district board in an open meeting to discuss differences on the district's budget and appraisal methods.

"We will meet with the appraisal district board as soon as a meeting can be set up," said County Judge Ray Mauer. "We need to get their side of the story." The meeting will be open and anyone that would like to be there can attend, he said.

Commissioners set items on the agenda for the meeting with the board to include the appraisal district's budget and appraisal methods. Specifically, commissioners will discuss the chief appraiser and his salary. The appraisal district will have the opportunity to add items to the agenda and we can combine the two, said Mauer. There is no reason why the board won't want to meet, said W.B. (Kirk) Kirkpatrick, the county's representative on the appraisal board.

Commissioners took no action on a petition from Louise Karr with 300 signatures asking the commissioners to terminate the appointment of Kirkpatrick as the commissioners' representative on the Bandera County Appraisal District Board. "We will go to each taxing unit and ask them to remove their director," said Karr.

Commissioners proclaimed the week of Oct. 23-30 as Red Ribbon Week on drug awareness in the county. Sheriff's Deputy James MacMillan brought the resolution from Sheriff Guy Pickett which proclaims the use of red ribbons by organizations, businesses, and individuals to show their concern on drug abuse.

Commissioners set a new policy for use of the county vans, allowing a non-profit or government organization to use the vans overnight. Under the old policy, the vans could not be used for more than one day. With the new policy, commissioners will allow the use of a van for up to 72 hours without a mileage restriction, subject to a need by the county or a previous request by an organization.

The commissioners set a bond approval fee of $20 for prisoners held in the Bandera County jail, effective Nov. 1. The fee, authorized by the state for the last four years, is in effect in the 11 area counties, says county treasurer Elizabeth James. The bond fee in addition to the bond itself, would be collected from the bail bondsman before the prisoner is released.

Commissioners tabled the cancellation of the subdivision plats for Altamira Hills subdivision until the next commissioners meeting so the property owners could be personally contacted. The unsuccessful subdivision has had no written objections to its return to acreage tracts.

Commissioners will advertise for bids to repair the leaks in the courthouse roof.

Commissioners accepted the monthly and quarterly county treasurer's report from James.

The monthly report showed the county with a cash balance of $11,425.54 in the general fund and $3,290.19 in the road and bridge fund Sept. 30, 1988.

Students from the six fourth-grade classes of Alkek School listened as the commissioners discussed subdivision, voting, and appraisal district matters during the first half of the morning's meeting held in the upstairs courtroom.

"We are talking about the different levels of government in social science classes," says teacher Karen Zickler. Other teachers included Cindy Waltisperger, Jimi Driskill, Pam Dewbre, Joann Peterson, and Dorothy Larimer.

Bandera County sales decline compared to August 1987

By William Wall
Interstate News Service

AUSTIN — August retail sales in the city of Bandera declined 5.25 percent compared with one year ago, according to the latest statistics released by the state comptroller's office.

The 914 Texas cities that levy the 1 percent local sales tax along with the state sales tax have been sent checks for their share of the $64.8 million collected statewide, officials said.

Bandera will receive $8,454.32, compared to $8,922.63 for August 1987, according to the monthly City Sales and Use Tax Summary.

The October checks represent taxes collected by merchants who file monthly reports in August and reported to the comptroller's office by Sept. 20, comptroller Bob Bullock said.

"The October allocation for Bandera is smaller than last year due, in part, to the absence of one taxpayer who has since changed from a monthly filer to a quarterly filer," said Eddie Reeves, department spokesman. "The sales tax revenue collected by this merchant will show up in next month's allocation when quarterly returns are processed."

Texas tax laws allow merchants who collect less than $1,500 in sales taxes a year to file once a year in December. Those who collect less than $1,500 but more than $500 in a quarter are required to file quarterly. Retailers whose collections exceed those amounts are required to file monthly.

Bandera's year-to-date allocations total $102,474.43, a 2 percent decline compared to 1987, according to the summary.

Cities in neighboring Kerr County reported a 32.27 percent overall increase in August retail sales. Boerne, like Bandera, is the only city in its county that imposes the city sales and use tax.

August retail sales increased in Medina County by 7.31 percent and in Real County by 61.5 percent, while August sales declined in Uvalde County by 16.7 percent, the summary said.

The Comptroller's office also sent checks totaling $6.3 million to 81 counties that levy the one-half percent county sales tax. Bandera County's share of October allocations was $6,749.99, bringing year-to-date payments to $59,699.59, according to the report.

Department analysts said earlier this year that Bandera County's projected 1988 revenue from the new tax would be about $96,700.

Unlike the state law enabling cities to use sales tax revenue for anything listed in the city budget, income received through the county tax can only be used to help reduce the county's effective property tax rate, according to officials of the comptroller's office.

Four of the five surrounding counties also have adopted the county sales tax and have been sent checks for their share.

Kendall County will receive $20,715.34, Kerr County $59,622.86, Medina County $6,042.13 and Uvalde County $30,083.20. Real County does not have a county sales tax.

Statewide, this month's allocations increased by 17.09 percent, a $9,462,531.00 jump from a year ago, according to the summary. Year-to-date 1988 payments are up 12.57 percent from 1987, $88,396,398.39 ahead of last year.

Bullock said that a surge in sales tax rebates to several large metropolitan areas reflects an increasing statewide economic growth and stability. "The state's metropolitan areas are doing better than forecast," he said. "I'm glad to see Texas sitting on solid ground again," Bullock said.

Mary Jilek

Mary Jilek wins trip

Mary Jilek of Bandera will take a free trip to Walt Disney World courtesy of her employer, Lodging Host Hotel Corp., the Longview management company that runs Bandera Inn and five other inns in Texas.

Jilek's trip is a reward for being named the firm's employee of the year from among 200 workers in six locations.

Her selection made it a clean sweep for the Bandera Inn whose general manager, Mary Wetherill, was honored as the firm's manager of the year at the firm's fall awards banquet in Bandera.

"I would personally like to thank the employees and members and the Bandera community for making the Bandera Inn a success in the business community," said Wetherill.

The firm this week announced the takeover of a sixth inn in its stable, the Raintree Inn in Stephenville, which is about 1 hour south of Fort Worth at the junction of U.S. Highways 281 and 337.

The Raintree consists of 70 guest rooms, a restaurant, gift shop, pool and meeting rooms. Some upgrading and renovation will be done at the property, according to Kevin P. Hilchey, the firm's president.

O.H. (Henry) Davis 535-4127

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Edwards honored their daughter, Shiloh, on her 10th birthday on Sunday, Oct. 2, with a barbecue lunch.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mansfield, Bo, Connie, and Brent of Lakehills; Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Edwards of Gonzales; Sue Burkhart and Jennifer of Austin; Gail Bowie, Royce, Marie, and Russell of Houston; Edith Edwards of Bandera; Rowena Delucchi, Jerry Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Edwards and Jess, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Edwards, Justin and Shiloh, all of Pipe Creek.

• Lee and Linda Sadlowski, formerly of San Antonio, have moved to the place formerly owned by the late Mr. and Mrs. Biasiolli, parents of Mrs. Gunderman, in the Liveoak Acres subdivision.

• Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gunderman, Andy and Roger spent a weekend recently fishing on the Gulf Coast at Laguna Madre. Although fishing was not so good, the trip was enjoyable, they report.

• Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Drapalla spent four days recently in New York City on a pleasure and sight-seeing trip.

They saw the Brooklyn Bridge, Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, and Central Park as well as three Broadway shows while there.

The weather there was beautiful, they report, and they did lots of walking and shopping.

• Jeremy Ray was born a few days ago to Lance Cpl. and Mrs. David Crook Sr. The father is home on leave for a few days from serving in the marines in Korea.

A baby shower was given recently for Mrs. Crook at the home of Peggy Byam with Georgia Bosworth and Helen Edwards serving as co-hostesses with Mrs. Byam. Seventeen were in attendance.

• Conrad Berube left this week for the U.S. Navy. He is an '88 graduate of Bandera H.S.

• Carl and Nan Loeffler, Lem and Logan of London spent the weekend with her parents, Henry and Oleta Davis. They all attended the Comfort vs. Junction football game Friday night when Lem played on the Junction Eagles team.

• Bryan and Sara Gillaspy are moving this week to Bryan.

• The Pipe Creek Baptist Youth have fellowship and sponsors volleyball games each Sunday after services which start at 6 p.m. Youth of the surrounding area are invited.

• Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Thompson, Amy, Kathy, Staci, and Chad and Jeff Hensley of Bandera visited recently with Mr. Thompson's father, George Thompson of Seguin.

• The JOY Sunday school class met Saturday at the home of C.B. Oates for their monthly business and social meeting. A devotional was brought by Lucy Whiteside.

Plans were also discussed for helping these children at Christmas. Ten members attended.

Meeting the candidates gets more popular as election day approaches. Over 30 residents of the Wharton's Dock area listened and asked questions Oct. 10 at the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department. Four generations of the Smalley family celebrate birthdays this week. Ethel will be 86 on Oct. 18, Al is 50 on Oct. 22, Kenneth is 27 on Oct. 16, and Shane Alan is 2 on Oct. 13.

And Al and Bernice Smalley have recently become grandparents again. Randall Roy Salinas was born Sept. 2, weighing 6 pounds, 5 ounces and measuring 18 inches long.

• Phil and Nola Bledsoe have returned from a two-week trip to Tulsa to visit their daughter Marcia, her husband Gary, and grandson Jessie.

Jessie was awed when they took him to Show Biz Pizza, almost as much as his mother and grandmother.

They traveled to Gloverport, Ky. to visit with daughter Sherry, grandsons Joey and David, and son Tim.

Son-in-law Kenneth works on a river boat on the Tennessee river and was unable to be home.

From there they traveled to Jackson, Mo., for a get-together with Phil's brothers and sisters. They returned home Saturday morning.

• Frank and Ola Harrell have returned to their home here after spending the summer at their home in McCall, Idaho.

They went to Eugene, Ore., for three weeks to visit their son, Gary, and their two granddaughters, Wendi and Mandi, and to Crater Lake, Ore., through Redwood Forest in California and Newport, Ore.

Mico firehouse draw 200 at chili cookoff

By Carol Smith
Special Correspondent

The first ever chili cookoff for the Mico fire department Saturday at Cedar Point Landing next to Medina Lake Dam drew almost 200 celebrants to watch six cooks and a volleyball tournament and generally enjoy the afternoon and raised over $300 for the fire department.

There were six entries for the cookoff. The first place went to Don Sittre and Sam Hardy with Inguay Mongstein chili, a name whose meaning is known only to the the cooks who did their cooking near the waterfront. Second place went to the Red Horse Chili and the showmanship went to the Road Kill Chili team from Lakehills.

Chili judges were volunteers from the Mico Volunter Fire Department and the Lakehills American Legion. Judges included Mary Alice and George Driffill and Johnny Cavazos of Lakehills as well as Don Rowley and Mark Gromer of Mico.

The winning chilies were bottled in decorative quart jars and auctioned off to the highest bidder by Frank Stone, father of Roger Stone, Mico's assistant fire chief.

The first place chili brought $60 and was bought by Jeff Hansen of Cedar Point Landing and Mark Avery, foreman for Medina Ranch, and Robert Seabold from Mico.

Second place chili brought $25 from Frank Stone.

Cake sales were brisk, with a total of 21 cakes, pies, and assorted homemade sweets donated by ladies of the fire department were sold, says Pat Perkins, department secretary-treasurer.

An angel food cake decorated in a Halloween motif, donated by Marti McKay was purchased by Linda McNelly for $18. "We made almost $200 on cake sales, and we would like to personally thank all the women who made them on such short notice," says Perkins.

Five teams competed in the volleyball tournament. All four-person teams were required to have at least one woman, but the first-place team had only one man, George Richards of Castroville.

Other winning team members included Michele McCoy and Valerie Stone of Mico. "The Hometeam from Cedar Point Landing was undefeated until we played them," said McCoy. "We had to play four straight games and we still beat everybody. Boy, are my arms sore!"

The benefit chilli cookoff held at Cedar Point Landing for the Mico Volunteer Fire Department was a big success, says Yvonne Wood, president of the fire department.

"The annual fall barbecue we usually have as a fund raiser was cancelled in favor of doing this cookoff," says Woods. "I'm really glad it was successful as it was."

Wharton's Dock menudo event raises $350 for benefit of EMS

Seven cooks and a 150-member crowd raised a total of $351.80 for the Bandera County EMS at Copper Lantern's menudo cookoff Saturday, Oct. 8.

First place was taken by Larry Simms, cooking for Copper Lantern with South of the Border Menudo. Second place was awarded to Olivia Andrade with Jalapeno Power Menudo. Melvin J. (Bitsie) Tschirhart took third place with H.O. Eliminator Menudo.

Worst menudo dishonors went appropriately to Hog Breath Menudo by Bennie and Pat Barker, but they also got the showmanship award. Pat was dressed up Mexican-style complete with red-chili earrings. A poncho and a wide sombrero was Bennie's contribution to showmanship.

Bill Baker and his band started playing music at 2 p.m. and didn't stop until 11:30 p.m. Saturday, says one of the organizers, Juanita (Sister) Shaffer. Jack Collins was the other organizer.

Dave Turner of Kirby, creator of the menudo cookoff trophies, auctioned donated items in his persona of Dr. Feelgood, and $85 and $45 was bid for two cakes donated by Shaffer. Jack Collins donated a lawn mowing job that got $25 from Jerry Acord. However, Collins will have to mow the 6 to 8 acres at Pop's Place.

"There was no place to sit, walk, or anything else," says Shaffer. The inside area, patio, and out under the trees of the Copper Lantern was full. "It was the first time the Copper Lantern has had anything like this," she says.

Chicken not chili on menu for PC barbecue Sunday

Barbecued chicken will be the main item for Sunday's fire department barbecue in Pipe Creek.

Serving begins at 11 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 16 at the Pipe Creek Volunteer Fire Department firehouse, just south of Pipe Creek on FM Road 1283. Plates are $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children and for the money the meal comes with potato salad, beans, and trimmings.

In addition to the meal, beer, soda water, tea, and coffee will be available. Dessert items including ice cream, cakes, and cookies will be sold.

Proceeds from the benefit will be used for another payment on the new tanker. The 750-gallon reservoir truck is in full service with some of the truck's lights and the side rails left to put on, says department president Jeff Larson.

Proceeds will also be used for gasoline and maintenance of the present trucks as well as building maintenance.

Fire protection equipment also needed is fire coats, helmets, pants and rubber boots, says Larson. We have five old coats and only one new coat and no pants. "It's time to replace them," he says.

Thursday's meeting at the firehouse will discuss the barbecue preparations. The firemen will meet at 8 p.m.

The department's next training session is Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. and the first business meeting after the barbecue is Nov. 10 at 8 p.m.

Flea market planned by American Legion

A flea market will be held at the American Legion post home in Lakehills this Saturday starting at 9 a.m.

Tables can be rented for $7.50 inside the post and an outside table for $5 from the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit #410.

The post's kitchen will be open for food and drink.

Proceeds from this event will help the legion's ladies auxiliary with their scholarship and Girls State program, says spokeswoman Sue Kruse.

DAV Oktoberfest draws 150

The Disabled American Veterans' benefit drew at least 150 people Oct. 8. The barbecue dinner was held at Wharton's Dock lounge.

Plates of barbecued brisket, potato salad, beans, and the trimmings were served at the Octoberfest celebration. Music was played by friends in the area including Charlie Mann, Bill Ross, members of the Texas Two, and Jerry Acord, says Mary K. Andreas.

The crowd spent their time between Wharton's Dock and the EMS Menudo Cookoff at the Copper Lantern. "They went up to the Copper Lantern and then they came down here," says Andreas.

Door prizes were given to meal ticket purchasers. Prizes were donated by area merchants.

Bean cookoff planned Oct. 22

The Hermann Sons Pinto Bean Cookoff will be held at Hermann Sons Park, next to Millie's Pavilion Oct. 22.

Bean cooking will begin at 10 a.m. and the judging will be at 2 p.m. by all-local, cooked-bean experts, says Garren. "We will have a auction and the proceeds will go to the Lakehills EMS Support Team," he said. The cooked beans will also be sold. Sy Turner will be auctioneer.

Hallelejah! I'm back in Bandera and oh, so happy to be here! A month is a long time to be away from paradise.

I had a wonderful visit with my mother, who lives in a house built on the side of a small cliff in the middle of majestic redwoods forest. The house has ceiling-to-floor windows and it makes you think you're in a tree house near the top of one of the 300-foot redwoods. It's kind of scary 'til you get used to it.

The town is Mendocino, which sits on a headland with it's face to the whole Northern Pacific Ocean. They've claimed the whole 1850s village an historical site and the tour buses roll in all the way from San Francisco (3 hours of twisty, twiny road).

I can remember when the town was a depressed area, with at least one-half its residents on welfare. They all got together and started moving forward. Now, it's loaded with tourists even when the gales are blowing in from the sea!

On the way home, Ballan dropped me off with friends in Anthony, N.M. They have horses running at Suniland Park, there.

Anthony's fun. A speed bump separates Anthony, N.M., from Anthony, Tex.

What if you had a house and the kids' rooms were on one side of the border and your rooms were on the other; or you owned a restaurant and ½ the waitress' stations were in Texas and ½ in New Mexico?

At a rest stop this side of Ozona, on IH10, is a nice tourist lay-out of the Hill Country, with a big spread of pictures taken at the Mayan Ranch and the Medina River at the city park. It mentions the museum, the cowboy champions, Saturday night western dances, and two whole paragraphs on Bandera Downs.

• It was a "Bandera Weekend" at Sea World and I hear Bandera pulled it off really good with Rudy Robbins Western Show and Kim holding for the Chamber.

But it makes the bees in my bonnet start to buzzing. It's probably the first "Texas" thing Sea World's done, and they wonder why they're not getting the number of tourists they thought they'd get.

Before they opened, I wrote several of their executives a few suggestions on how to promote this particular Sea World, since it's in a spot of uniqueness. Things like hire Kelly Scott to haul their penguins around to all the local parades in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana and dress them in cowboy hats and bandanas.

Ballan went to an audition and wasn't hired because she was so western and that wasn't what they wanted.

The "All Girl Pony Express" from Bandera to Sea World, last month was hardly recognized when they arrived. If the sales/-promotion department had any sense, they could've gotten nation-wide coverage from it, they could've run it for their Japanese and European hoped-for tourists.

Do people come to Texas for something that they've got on both sides of the U.S.?

No!

They come to Texas for cowboys and Indians. So wouldn't you give that to them, in whatever "Theme Park" you were putting together?

One of the troubles, as far as I can see, is that all the executives are very nice, but come from someplace else and have never even been near anything Texan or even western.

Thank you, one and all for letting me get this off my chest! There are only a few bees buzzing around, now!

• On Friday night, if you bring the Bulletin ad, you can get in free to the dance at the Cabaret.

They've got Twin Fiddles playing on Saturday, and the jam fest dance is back on Sunday from 5 p.m.-10 p.m.

Cal Chapman's organized another longhorn cattle drive which will come from Helotes to Bandera and right down Main Street on Oct. 22. He's got a trail ride combined with this one.

• The OST has a new covered wagon salad bar. Not only is the salad stuff good, but it's fun to "come 'n get it" now, too.

• Those crazy girls at Books 'n Bloom have struck again. They're setting off a bunch of balloons each day at noon. They look so pretty and free heading off into the wild, blue yonder. (The balloons, that is!).

Jam Session planned for Jubilee kickoff

The first of a series of musical programs in Medina will kick off with an open jam session for all interested musicians Saturday, Oct.15, at 11 a.m. at the Cider Mill Store.

"The first session is open to all musicians and entertainers," said organizer Ray Tate. "It's to serve as an introduction to the contests to follow," he said.

The next three weekends will be a contest among the entrants and prizes will be awarded for each, with a final winner selected out of each weeks' winners, said Tate.

Limited booth space will be available for arts and crafts sales except for the weekend of Oct. 22. The jubilee will be a part of the annual Fall Festival and homecoming carnival on that day and the booths will not be allowed.

Dusty Britches and his band will be featured at an old-fashioned barn dance the evening of the final contest on Nov.12.

Herd of Longhorn cattle to be driven up Bandera's Main Street on Oct. 22

Bandera's second annual Longhorn Cattle Drive will be Oct. 20-22 and will raise money for the March of Dimes during its 50th Year Anniversary of birth defect prevention and research.

The itinerary for this year includes a party and dance at Floore's Country Store, Thursday evening, Oct. 20, 1988 as the drive's kickoff event with entertainment by Clay Blaker and the Texas Honkytonk BAnd.

A trailhead ceremony in downtown Helotes Friday morning, Oct. 21 will feature officials from Helotes, San Antonio, Bexar County, Bandera, and Bandera County March of Dimes child ambassadors will start the drive;

A barbecue and dance at Kelley's Shamrock, Pipe Creek will be held Friday evening, Oct. 21, with music by Blaine Keith and Sundown and a lunch stop will be made at McCall's Flea Market west of Pipe Creek on Highway 16 Saturday afternoon.

A welcoming ceremony in Bandera, at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22 will be climaxed by cattle being driven up Main Street of Bandera.

A party and dance with Clay Blaker and the Texas Honkytonk Band will be held at Bandera's Cabaret, Saturday evening, Oct. 22.

A trial ride open to the general public accompanies the cattle drive. Registration for the trail ride should be made by Oct. 15. Several wagons will be on the trail, and additional wagons may also be registered until Oct. 15.

Trail ride fees are $20 for one day or $30 for both days and include the evening meal plus dance admission.

The drive includes about 40 head of longhorn steers and the remainder of roping steers. Ranches making their cattle available include the YO Ranch of Mountain Home, the Hicks Ranch of Bandera County; John Singleton and Roger Raser.

Many media personalities will be involved in the drive. KCYY "Y100" Radio is covering the Cattle Drive live.

KSAT TV-12's Sue Calberg will tape her "Twelve Country" program on Friday morning on the trail. WOAI and KTSA both plan to have news crews out on the road.

Medina thespians at Kountry Kitchen

Tate says the theater group gives a 15-minute performance at the cafe each week as an aid to the student's skills and a "little bit of promotion."

"This coming Monday will feature David Pickle and Chad Parker in a scene from 'No Time For Sergeants' by Ira Levin and Mac Hyman," said Tate. "Other weeks will showcase other students and drama or improvisation and comedy," he said.

Family financial seminar planned at Bandera UMC

A family financial planning seminar focused on a Christian point of view will be offered by the Bandera United Methodist Church, says spokesman Bob Cowan.

The seminar is designed for couples who want to know how to improve their finances, says Cowan.

Kirk Francis, vice president of the San Antonio office of Payne-Webber, will lead the two-session seminar from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 20, and on Oct. 27 at the church's fellowship hall.

Cost of the seminar, including an in-depth financial manual, is $45 per couple, Cowan said. The event is limited to 20 couples and reservations along with full payment must be received at the church office no later than 1 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, says Cowan.

Interested couples may send their fee to the Bandera United Methodist Church, Box 128, Bandera 78003, Cowan said.

Third Dobson film set

"Power in Parenting: The Adolescent," the third film in the James Dobson film series titled "Turn Your Heart Toward Home" will be shown Sunday, Oct. 16 at 5:30 p.m. at the Bandera high School Auditorium.

The film series is sponsored by the Bandera County Christian Fellowship.

Wellness clinic planned Oct. 17

A wellness clinic for adults will be conducted in Bandera on Monday, Oct. 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the United Methodist Church by the Texas Department of Health.

The clinic coincides with Adult Health Month in Texas.

The health department clinic staff will offer testing for anemia, cholesterol, blood pressure, diabetes and cancer and vaccine for tetanus-diphtheria and influenza. Special counseling will be given those who complete a health risk profile to determine what may be necessary for a better lifestyle, a spokesman said.

Spooks will haunt Institute of Texan Cultures

The Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio will be "haunted" the day before Halloween by ghosts and goblins gathered for "Spooky Sunday" activities from 2 to 4 p.m. October 30. The event is free to the public.

Participants are encouraged to come in costume, and to bring a pumpkin from home to decorate with materials which The Institute will provide.

Other activities will include decorating trick-or-treat bags, face painting, fortune-telling and bobbing for apples.

A costumed witch will tell stories, a "Horror Marathon" of movie clips including "Abbott and Costello Meet the Mummy," "Dracula," "Frankenstein" and "Wolfman" will be shown, and a Halloween puppet show will round out the entertainment.

Events will culminate in a Grand Murch of costumed visitors at 4 p.m., led by a piper and a fiddler.

The Institute is located on Bowie and Durango Streets on HemisFair Park in downtown San Antonio. For more information call The Institute at 226-7651.

Pilot's classes set

Ground school for a private pilot's license will be offered beginning Monday, Oct. 17, at 6:30 p.m. at San Antonio College.

Students will learn the Federal Aviation Agency's requirements for private pilots in the areas of aircraft safety, operations and control.

A fee of $34 will cover the course which meets three hours weekly through Dec. 19 in Room 120, Gonzalez Hall on the SAC campus.

Special services set at Oak Hills church

Frank and Ida Mae Hammond of Plainview will conduct services at the Oak Hills Bible Church in Kerrville on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 19 and 20, says the Rev. Mike Dukes, pastor.

Pep rally moved to afternoon

The main reason behind the switch was to make the day run smoother. The pep rallies are now held from 3:15-3:45 p.m. instead of 9:55-10:10 a.m. which was originally break. When the pep rallies were held in the morning, many teachers complained because students came late to third period. They were excited because of the pep rally which made it more difficult for the teachers and the students.

So far, there have been no complaints about the switch. Most of the teachers are apparently for it and it proves beneficial to the football team. "With the pep rally at the end of the day, the football players leave with more enthusiasm and are better prepared for the game," stated Mr. Delamain.

Mazurek, Nightingale win Bandera cross country meet

Amie Nightingale finished first and Ruth Mazurek placed second in the girls two mile Cross Country race at the 13th Annual Cross Country Meet hosted by Bandera Saturday, Oct. 8.

Overall the girls placed fourth in the 3A division. Sally Langston, placed 22nd; Viola McHorse, placed 27th; and Yesinia Benitez, placed 34th.

The boys did not have enough runners to make a team, but four placed in the boys three mile race. Eric Wylie placed 17th; Phil Solis placed 28th; Victor Solis placed 30th; and Troy Arnold placed 31st.

UIL programs under way; first meet in December

Bandera High School UIL activities are underway as the coaches and students start to practice and work with selected material.

Although the first meet isn't until December, practice material has been ordered. The first meet, in math and science, will be at John Jay High School in San Antonio. The rest of the meets will not begin until January, continuing through February and March. Bandera will host its third annual meet March 4.

Each UIL event has a sponsor, including Mr. Bill Marshall, science; Ms. Michelle Barnett, spelling; Ms. Marylin Wiles, literary criticism; Ms. Barbara Opperman, OAP and poetry; Mr. Wade Nanney, ready writing; Ms. Julie Young, debate and informative and persuasive speaking; Ms. Margie Keese, journalism, typing and accounting; and Mr. Russell Zickler, number sense and calculator. Mr. Zickler is also the head coordinator of UIL events.

There will be a drama fall festival in November involving the UIL high school, junior high and elementary school.

Students organize anti-drug campaign

Bandera students and many members of the community are joining together to fight the war against drugs with a special campaign Oct. 21-30.

Bandera County Commissioners proclaimed the week of Oct. 23-30 as "Red Ribbon Week" to promote drug abuse awareness in the county at their meeting Oct. 8.

Commissioners proclaimed the week of Oct. 23-30 as Red Ribbon Week for drug awareness in the county, which encourages the use of red ribbons by organizations, businesses, and individuals to show their concern about drug abuse.

The commissioners ask citizens to participate in drug awareness and drug-free activities as a visible statement against drug abuse. The proclamation signed by the county commissioners and county judge Ray Mauer asks, "Business, government, law enforcement, schools, religious institutions, service organizations, youth, medical, senior citizens, military, sports teams, and individuals (to) demonstrate their commitment to drug-free, healthy lifestyles by wearing and displaying red ribbons during this week-long campaign."

During the week of Oct. 21-30, students agree to be drug free for nine days, and will show their spirit by wearing a red ribbon.

A group of Bandera students meet in Kerrville each Monday with students from Tivy, Comfort, Center Point and Peterson Middle School. Each Wednesday, BHS and BJHS students meet and plan ways to stop the drug problem throughout all the Bandera schools.

"It is really a neat program," said freshman Peggy Whitehead, who is active in the campaign. "We just wish we had more members."

Members of the group include Freddy Richardson, Kim Kibbe, Willie Bates, Galy Kluna, Ruth Mazurek, Eric Wylie, Sharon Wehmeyer, Michele Hermann, Sally Langston, Shannon Walbrun, Clint Schantz, Nicki Nickler, Gloria Obiedo, Tammy Lynd and Melissa Howard.

The National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth and the Drug Free Youth of America are coordinating the grass roots effort to get the last full week in October as drug-free week nationwide.

JV, freshmen lose to Cole

Bandera's JV and Freshmen Volleyball teams played and lost against Cole of San Antonio Oct. 4. The score was 12-15.

Sophomore Kim Brittain played her best game ever, and junior Candi Grimes had a perfect serving game. Substitute, Yesenia Benitez came off the bench and also served well.

"With games this close, we played tough as a team on both offense and defense," said Coach Julie Young. "We are hitting the ball well, but we're getting beaten by the teams that just free the ball over the net. I feel that both teams (Cole and Bandera) played good aggressive fundamental ball."

JV are 0-5 and Freshmen are 1-3 in district.

BHS yearbooks' arrival to be delayed, sponsor says

One of the main concerns of the Bandera High School annual class, directed by Miss Jan Todd, is getting last year's annual published and ready for distribution.

"We don't know exactly when they will come in," said Miss Todd, "and there will be no extras printed for students to purchase." There has been a delay in printing.

Presently the annual staff is trying to sell ads to pay for this year's annuals which will come out next year. The next fundraiser will be the sale of 1988-89 yearbooks, and will begin next six weeks. Yearbook staff officers include Jevonne Meyer, Business Manager; Mary Molina, Photographic Editor; Candi Saathoff, Editor; Tasha VanderZee, Art Editor, and Shannon Walbrun, Copy Editor. The officers were chosen by Miss Todd based upon their abilities and previous enrollment in the Journalism class. Other members of the yearbook staff include Angie Fernandez; Patti Kindla, Dianne Moeller, Gloria Obiedo and Colter Wallace.

Student Council gains five when freshmen elected

Lisa Wharton was elected president after a third run-off. Vice President, Heather Perk, and Secretary/Treasurer, Julie Cherry, were elected after a second runoff.

Other class officers and student council representatives were elected last school year.

PTO to meet Oct. 18

The Bandera Parents-Teachers Organization will meet Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Alkek Elementary School Cafeteria.

The kindergarten will present a program during the meeting.

The PTO is having a membership drive Oct. 17-25 and is offering a prize to the class with the highest parent membership at the Oct. 18 meeting, a spokeswoman said.

A $25 cash prize will be given to the class with the highest parent membership at the end of the drive, the spokeswoman said.

Purple Hills Manor

By Mada Wedgworth — 796-4736

The Rev. Frank Pullin from the First Baptist Church used for his text Sunday, Psalms Chapter 100. Rosemary Pullin was the pianist.

Guests were Hoyt and Laverne Hammrick and Marley Johnson.

• Ophelia and Gaston Thurmond of Gonzales visited her sister, Stella Philapy.

• Residents Ada Sehon, Christine Kalka, Ruby Hill, Evelyn Hostetter and Martha Fitzpatrick joined Aggie Batto, Fannie Caffall, Joyce Sellberg and Annette Kalka-Schulte on the patio Monday evening for Rosary and prayers.

• The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson of the Grace Lutheran Church visited Mary Koehler, Ruby Hillman, Lorena Bowman and other friends.

• Margie Teich and Bill Short took Mama Jo Turner to the eye doctor in Kerrville last week.

• The staff would like to remind everyone visiting the nursing home to please sign the guest book. On two occasions last week flowers were brought by and no one signed the book. They are beautiful and the residents are enjoying them, however.

• Margaret Paradee and Jeanie visited Winnie Chaddock.

• Arthur Mathis and Dick Windstrup of Corpus Christi visited Arthur's parents, Luther and June Mathis.

• A new resident is Dorothy Nicholas of Dallas.

• The women and children from Hill Country Chapel came Wednesday afternoon for their regular monthly meeting. The Devotional, "Keep your eyes on Jesus" was by Linda McGhee. The text was from Daniel 3:1-30. Pianist was Judy John.

Guests included Linda McGhee, Paul, Chris, Adam and Sarah; Mona Miller, Summer and Meredith; Judy John, Kevin and Kaci; Evelyn Herrera, Shelly, Stacy and Jennifer; and Darlene Marks and Paul.

• The Melodiers and Auto Angels came Friday evening and took residents on a "Sentimental Journey Down Memory Lane" in song. Signing the guest book were Floyd and Mary Portman, Paul and June Westmeyer, Fannie Caffall, Arthur and Marion Bunch, Mickie Causey, Dolores Greene, Dean and Florence Isaacs, Judy Goodenough, Evelyn Reininger and special guest Faye Christian.

• Virginia Henry came by Sunday and took Mary Koehler to services at the Grace Lutheran Church.

• Elizabeth James took Nola Baldock to services at the Bandera United Methodist Church Sunday.

• Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick, visited friends and took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ.

Silver Sage Corral

The Sagettes exercise class, which works out Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8:30 a.m., has added a new member, Avia Huey.

LaVerne McCloskey and Dorothy Callahan filled in as exercise class leaders while Judy Goodenough was in St. Louis with her husband, John, to attend a reunion of the 757th Tank Battalion.

John served in the battalion's Service Company during World War II. Judy reports a great reunion and a good trip.

• The Melodiers and Auto Angels are sporting new collars made from bandanas and trim, med with white eyelet. They unify the group and add a Cowboy Capital touch.

Cancer support group needed, says Overholser

The Bandera County unit of the American Cancer Society has seven new patients in the area who are using its services, according to Mr. Merritt, service representative.

John W. Overholser urged the creation of a cancer support group in Bandera County and said he is very interested in working on it. He said he has the support of the Bandera County unit's representative, Janet Knutson.

Anyone interested may call Melesse Rugh.

Details of the ASC's Master Card program were explained at the meeting. The credit card company will make a contribution to a special fund benefiting the American Cancer Society every time a card holder uses the card.

The program will be advertised on television and in newspapers soon, says spokeswoman Jo Russell.

Five from Bandera attend ACS meeting

American Cancer Society volunteers from eight counties, including Bandera County, attended the annual District 5 meeting of the American Society (ACS) in San Antonio on Sept. 21.

Jo Russell, Melesse Rugh, Dorothy Darden, Dorothy Warmach and Muriel Strange represented the Bandera Unit of the ACS. The annual meeting serves as a kick-off and training for ACS volunteers preparing to inform their local communities of ACS programs and services and to implement these programs. Bandera's unit handled the registration.

"Over $200,000 was raised by volunteers in District 5 last year to support the American Cancer Society's three-fold attack on cancer through research, education and patient services," stated Jo Russell, Communications Chairperson.

Telephone assistance program helps elderly, disabled

A financial assistance program, aimed at older, disabled Texans, has been established by the Texas Legislature in cooperation with the local exchange telephone companies throughout the state.

"Tel-Assistance" is the name given to the new program.

"Tel-Assistance will reduce certain charges on a qualifying person's telephone bill by 65 percent," according to Tim Raven, President of the Texas Telephone Association. "Eligible customers may have Touchtone service or custom calling services, however, the discount will not apply to these services."

Raven adds that Tel-Assistance service recipients will also receive appropriate reduction of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) line charge. Discounts do not apply to long distance, telephone equipment or installation charges.

The Tel-Assistance program is under the direction of the Texas Department of Human Services. To qualify for Tel-Assistance, an applicant must meet several requirements.

Applicants must be 65 years of age or older and must be disabled. Additionally, applicants must be the head of a household and have an income at or below the Federal poverty level.

"Additional information regarding Tel-Assistance is available from the Texas Department of Human Services," Raven said. "Interested parties can call toll-free, 1-800-343-8353, or write to Tel-Assistance Service, Texas Department of Human Services, Mail Code 952-X, P.O. Box 2901, Austin, Texas 78769."

Applicants for the program are processed by the Department of Human Services, as well. The Department will advise telephone companies if a person is eligible for Tel-Assistance.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

It has been said that a smile costs nothing, but gives much. It enriches those who receive it, without making poorer those who give. It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business, and is the countersign of friendship. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and it is nature's best antidote for trouble. Yet it can not be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away.

Few of us realize the power of a smile. Many clergymen do as do politicians and salesmen.

Granted some are, naturally shy-in our fast, loud world. Some are, understandably, burdened by problems and worries... Others are under various forms of tension, pressure or emotion. So it is not always easy.

Nevertheless, practice smiling. The results will astonish you, in making friends, better friends and better business relationships.

Cards of Thanks and Public Notices

THANK YOU

The Alfred Schulte family says thank you to our family and all our friends, especially those at Grace Lutheran church, who took such good care of us.

Thank you for your prayers, food, flowers, plants, calls, childcare and cards while I was a patient at Methodist Hospital in July, while Chris was there for surgery in August, and while Jr. (Alfred) was there in September. Also for Granny Fleta Elsworth, Lois' mother, who was a patient in October.

May God bless you all!

Alfred Schulte Jr.
Lois, Chris
and Granny Elsworth, too!

THANK YOU

A heartfelt thank you to all who contributed, worked and made purchases at our rummage sale at Bandera Chapter #643, Order of the Eastern Star.

PUBLIC NOTICE
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF BANDERA
IN THE NAME AND BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO:

Reynaldo O. Martinez; and the following persons who have been personally served in this tax suit, but are named in this Citation by Publication because they are defendants in this suit and the law requires that all defendants be named in the citation by publication whether they have been personally served or not: none; all of the stockholders, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and its attorney, of each and all of the corporate defendants enumerated above; all partners, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and to its attorney, of each and all of the defendants enumerated above, which are or were partnerships; all members, beneficiaries, and interest holders, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and to its attorney, of each and all of the defendants enumerated above, which are or were trusts, joint stock companies, or other unincorporated associations; all of such persons and their legal status, viz., whether incorporated or unincorporated, and if incorporated, whether in good standing or defunct, being unknown to Plaintiff and its attorney, if living, and if any or all of the above named defendants be dead, the unknown heirs of each or all of the said above named persons who may be dead, and the unknown heirs of the unknown heirs of said above named persons, and the unknown owner or owners of the hereinafter described land; and the executors, administrators, guardians, legal representatives, legatees, devisees, husbands and wives, of the above named persons, and any and all other persons including adverse claimants, owning or having or claiming any legal or equitable interest in or lien upon the following described property delinquent to Plaintiff herein, for taxes, all of said property being located in said County and State, to-wit: Tract 1: 12.0 Acres, more or less, James Priestly Survey 254, Abstract 299, Bandera County, Texas, as described in Volume 154, Page 936, Deed Records of said County, Texas. Tract 2: A parcel of land assessed as 31.10 Acres, F. Cruz Survey 254, Abstract 498, Bandera County, Texas, referred to in Volume 154, Page 936, Deed Records of said County, and described in an earlier conveyance to Adriano Obando recorded in the County Deed Records.

Which said property is delinquent to Plaintiff for taxes in the following amount $1,200.41, exclusive of interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs, and there is included in this suit in addition to the taxes all said interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs thereon, allowed by law up to and including the day of judgment herein. You are hereby notified that suit has been brought by Bandera County, Plaintiff, against the above named persons, as Defendants, by petition filed on the 23rd day of April, 1987, in a certain suit styled BANDERA INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT VS. REYNALDO O. MARTINEZ, ET AL for collection of the taxes on said property and that said suit is now pending in the District Court of Bandera County, Texas, 216th Judicial District, and the file number of said suit is 4166, that the names of all taxing units which assess and collect taxes on the property hereinabove described, not made parties to this suit are: None.

Plaintiff and all other taxing units who may set up their tax claims herein seek recovery of delinquent ad valorem taxes on the property hereinabove described, and in addition to the taxes, all interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs allowed by law thereon up to and including the day of judgment herein, and the establishment and foreclosure of liens, if any, securing the payment of same, as provided by law.

All parties to this suit, including Plaintiff, Defendants, and Intervenors, shall take notice that claims not only for any taxes which were delinquent on said property at the time this suit was filed, but all taxes becoming delinquent thereon at any time thereafter up to the day of judgment, including all interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs allowed by law thereon, may upon request therefor, be recovered herein without further citation or notice to any parties herein, and all said parties shall take notice of and plead and answer to all claims and pleadings now on file and which may hereafter be filed in said cause by all other parties herein, and all of those taxing units above named who may intervene herein and set up their respective tax claims against said property.

You are hereby commanded to appear and defend such suit on the first Monday after the expiration of forty two (42) days from and after the date of issuance hereof, the same being the 14th day of November, A.D., 1988, (which is the return day of such citation), before the honorable District Court of Bandera County, Texas, to be held at the Court house thereof, then and there to show cause why judgment shall not be rendered for such taxes, interests, penalties, attorney fees and costs, and condemning said property and ordering foreclosure of the constitutional and statutory tax liens thereon for taxes due the Plaintiff and the taxing units parties hereto and those who may intervene herein, together with all interest, penalties and attorney fees allowed by law up to and including the day judgment herein, and all costs of this suit.

Issued and given under my hand and seal of said Court in the City of Bandera, Bandera County, Texas, this the 29th day of September, 1988.

Medina

By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

PTO

Green says there are collection jars at the Medina school office and at the businesses in town so folks can drop in their donations.

Any excess funds collected will be put in a account and applied to the insurance costs next year, said Green.

Youth Choir plans spaghetti supper

Tickets are on sale for the homecoming spaghetti supper of the Medina Youth Choir.

The supper will be in the Medina School cafeteria on Friday, Oct. 21, from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Tickets, available from any choir membef, are available for $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children 12 years of age or younger. Tickets at the door will be $3 and $2.

The choir will make its first appearance of the season during the super.

It will perform again on Saturday, Oct. 22, when it will present "Friends Forever" in its entirety in the cafeteria. "Friends Forever" is a light and lively program, a spokeswoman said.

Shower planned

A miscellaneous shower will be held for Hobbit Hawkins on Wednesday, Oct. 19, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Medina Methodist Youth Center.

School lunch menu

Oct. 17-21

Monday — Pizza, salad, scalloped potatoes, fruit and milk

Tuesday — Tacos, salad, corn, fruit and milk

Wednesday — Salisbury steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, fruit, rolls and milk

Thursday — Chalupas, salad, corn, fruit and milk

Friday — Hamburgers, salad, French fries, dessert and milk

Cloe Sill sweetheart of Medina FFA chapter

She will represent the club in the Hill District sweetheart contest in May, according to chapter reporter Tracy Baker.

Biologist Bill Armstrong of the Kerrville Wildlife Management Area spoke to members of the Medina chapter at the Oct. 4 meeting.

Other activities during the meeting included a discussion of the group's participation in the annual homecoming carnival and parade, which will include a float in the parade and a dunking booth at the carnival, according to Baker.

It was decided that greenhands, or relatively new members, will paint their hands green and offer themselves to be dunked at the dunking booth.

It was also decided that two members of the chapter will raise the flag at every home football games.

Hill Country CattleWomen meet Oct. 18 at LBJ Park

The Hill Country CattleWomen will hold their regular meeting Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the LBJ Park on Ranch Road 1 at Stonewall. The location will be at the Party House behind the tennis courts.

The members will meet at 10 a.m. for coffee and visitation and the business meeting will be called to order at 10:30 a.m. by President Margie Benignus of Johnson City.

Officers will be installed, including President Sharon Spenrath of Comfort, 1st vice president Geraldine Reeh of Comfort, 2nd vice president Beth McNutt of Mountain Home, 3rd vice president Pat Grote of Mason, 4th vice president Donna Price of Junction, secretary Kay Daigle of Fredericksburg, and treasurer Jeay Eyhorn of Boerne.

Reservations may be called to Jeanne Evans at 512-796-4248 by Oct. 13.

Brush country days

The fourth annual Brush Country Days Festival on Nov. 4-6 in Carrizo Springs will include a parade, 5K and 10K run, pecan bake-off, entertainment, games, food booths, arts and crafts, dances, and a wildlife exhibit.

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

He is improving and was to be home Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Your correspondent has spent most of her time in San Antonio also, staying with her family Mr. and Mrs. Don Newcomb and children.

• Visitors of Mr. Dean have incuded Mr. and Mrs. M.G. Dean of D'Hanis; Brother and Mrs. Vernon Andrews of Devine; Larue Harp, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood, all of Tarpley; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Perkins and Charles Krause of San Antonio; and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Krause and daughter, Maxine Black.

• Visitors in the Tarpley community last Monday were Peter and Johanna Mahlstetten (nee Sauter) of West Germany; Doris and Selvie Reid of Miami, Fla.; Erlene Estes and husband Jerry Scott of Poway, Calif.; and Delores Estes of Sherman.

Doris and Delores and her daughter Erlene Scott were former Tarpley residents and are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Tobie E. Sauter.

Delores and Clarence Estes were married in the Tarpley Baptist Church.

• Kay and Vi Strand combined business and pleasure while in the Dallas area by visiting their son's family, Ed, Vichie and Kurtis Strand in DeSota, and their granddaughter's family, David, Kimberly and Michael.

Stars scheduled at polo match

Actor Tommy Lee Jones will co-captain the San Saba-Chukka Creek polo team of plastic surgeon Dr. Tolbert Wilkinson, whose Bandera County ranch is called Chukka Creek Ranch, in competition this month at the San Antonio Polo Club, formerly the Retama Polo Center.

Jones, Loretta Lynn's husband in "Coal Miner's Daughter," will team with Dr. Wilkinson and 9-goal player Tommy Wayman and Dr. Ron Horne of Austin.

Several international stars will be leading other teams in matches played on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday, including Charles Smith, Mike Azzaro and Stewart Armstrong. Premier 12-goal competition will be held on Sunday afternoons at 4 p.m.

The Polo Center is located on Lookout Road near the intersection of IH 35 and Loop 1604 north of San Antonio.

Rocksprings Angoras outrun Medina Bobcats, 39-12

By Larry T. Williams
Staff Writer

Tough Rocksprings running and a decided lack of tackling on the part of Medina led to a 39-12 defeat of the Bobcats in their district opener Friday, Oct.7.

The loss to the Angoras left the Cats 3-3 over-all and on the bottom of the district 29-A heap since Leakey is now out of football for the rest of the season.

Determined running and lots of second and third efforts enabled running backs Javier Ortiz, David Gonzales and Chuckie Rendon to score three Angora touchdowns after they had apparently been stopped by Medina tacklers.

The Rocksprings defense also held the Bobcats away from a score for four downs inside the five-yard line after Medina had driven all the way from their own 36 and looked certain to tie the game for the third time.

The Goats got on the board first with 3:03 left in the first period. Quarterback Tommy Van Winkle, rolling right to pass on fourth down, decided to keep the ball and ran to the end zone. He was met on the one by Medina tacklers who drove the runner back two yards, but the hard running Angora shook off the defenders and scored anyway.

Javier Ortiz proved to be a difficult goat to catch during Medina's 39-12 loss to the Rocksprings Angoras Friday, Oct. 7.

Medina came right back and moved quickly from their 37-yard stripe to the one foot line as the buzzer sounded.

Five seconds into the second quarter, Bobcat Jason Childers blasted in from the four to knot the score for the first time.

The Angoras got right back in the lead, using up six minutes and moving from their own 24 in the process. This time, running back David Gonzales scampered 15 yards for the score. Van Winkle missed his second PAT attempt and the score stood at 12-6.

Medina then drove to the Goat 20 and rode a pass interference call to inside the five. Tim Green carried the ball in to tie the score at 12 and complete the half.

Rocksprings came roaring back after the intermission with an 80 yard drive that used only a minute and 20 seconds to retake the lead.

Rendon went 19 yards up the middle for the TD after the Goats moved 61 yards in three plays. Again the PAT went wide.

Once again the 'Cats ground out yardage and finally reached the Angora five-yard line. With a first down and momentum, Medina seemed certain to tie the score once more.

Not so.

The Goat defense stopped the 'Cats cold four downs straight. That seemed to take the heart out of the Medina players, and as the Angoras applied more pressure, Rocksprings lit up the board again with 7:57 left in the game when Rendon plunged in from the nine. This time Ortiz ran the two-point try and gave the Goats a 26-12 cushion.

After a fumble stopped the Bobcats on the Angora 12-yard line, Rocksprings quickly claimed another six points, traveling to the score in nine plays. With three minutes to play, Gonzales carried the final 12 yards, slip tackle that apparently had him stopped short of the goal.

Rocksprings' final tally came a minute-and-a-half later, when Gonzales again carried for the TD from the one and Ortiz added another point to round out the score, 39-12 Angoras.

Medina will host Nueces Canyon, Friday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. for round two of the district 29-A schedule.

Medina loses one, gains another opponent

Leakey, the scheduled team for the Oct. 21 game has cancelled it's football for the remainder of the season. The Eagles were down to 11 players, according to athletic director Richard House, after injuries, grades and lack of enthusiasm depleted the already slim ranks.

"It's hard to find a team with an open date at this time of the year," said Medina coach Jerry Dodson. "After district starts, everyone's schedule is full," he said.

Uvalde played Rocksprings to a 6-6 standoff two weeks ago.

Austrians film series here for TV documentary on writer

A film crew from the National Austrian Television in Vienna shot footage for a documentary television show at Kelly Scott's place on Wharton's Dock Road Friday, Oct. 14.

Scott, who has appeared in several movies and has furnished wagons and western equipment for several more, was helping the film makers find locations for a number of scenes in a documentary on Austrian fiction writer Karl Postl, a.k.a. Charles Sealsfield.

Sealsfield became a United States citizen and traveled extensively through the South and Southwest during the 1800s writings of the struggles for expansion and freedom.

"He was one of the first fiction writers to produce material in Europe about Texas and its fight for freedom" said Babette Raidmayr, writer of the documentary.

Scott and Chris Anderwald both appear in the footage shot locally. Anderwald is seen riding toward the camera at a gallop when his horse shys and the rider gets dumped. Scott rides into the scene and helps Anderwald retrieve his wayward mount.

After six takes, Anderwald's look of pain was beginning to appear real when the director said "lets do one more."

The final shot worked, and once a couple of close up "falls" were in the camera, the whole crew was off to spend the day shooting scenes on a large area ranch.

Record turnout expected Nov. 8

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

As the Nov. 8 election draws nearer, there are more indications that there will be a record or near-record turn out in Bandera County. Some 6,440 voters have registered in Bandera County, and at least 60 percent of those voters are expected to turn out on election day, according to Mae Vion Meyer with the Bandera County tax assessor/collector's office.

"Hopefully, there will be even more (than 60 percent)," Meyer said.

In the 1984 election, 3,978 voted in Bandera County, a figure that represented 75.6 percent of the 5,259 registered voters. In 1980, there were 3,310 votes.

The increase from 1984's 5,259 registered voters to 1988's 6,440 registered voters represents a whopping 22.46 percent increase in the number of registered Bandera County voters in four years.

"I expect a higher turnout than usual, for several reasons," said Steve Forest, the Democratic candidate for sheriff. Forest said the presidential election and several elections between other officials would make a difference, but in Bandera County, the sheriff's race would bring out a lot of voters.

"There has been a lot of interest given to the sheriff's race," said Forest. "There have been 10 or 11 debates. This is unusual, and when you consider all those factors, I believe there will be a higher turnout than usual."

Republican candidate Marc Sultan said he definitely thought there would be a good turnout in Bandera for the Nov. 8 election, but he said the number of registered voters in other counties was also high.

"Bexar County (number of registered voters) increased by 100,000," said Sultan, who said he thought the increase in the number of registered voters in Bandera County was probably not due solely to the sheriff's race.

"The presidential election has sparked a lot of interest," said Sultan. "There are two candidates with quite opposite views. I think we will see less voter apathy in this election."

In the presidential race, Republicans George Bush and Dan Quayle are challenged for the presidency and vice presidency by Democrats Michael S. Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush's home is in Maine, and he is currently serving as vice president of the United States. Dukakis is currently serving as governor in his home state of Massachusetts. Bentsen is a U.S. Senator from Texas, and Quayle is a U.S. Senator from Indiana.

Other presidential and vice presidential hopefuls include Libertarians Ron Paul and Andre Marrou, and New Alliance party candidates Lenora B. Fulani and Rafael Mendez.

Republican Ed Emmett, Libertarian Richard Draheim and New Alliance Party member Reynaldo Lozano Jr. all challenge incumbent Democrat Jim Nugent for the office of Railroad Commissioner. Democrat Clint Hackney challenges incumbent Republican Kent Hance for

Absentee voting gets off to quick start Wednesday

Absentee voting started with a flurry Wednesday, Oct. 19, when about nine persons appeared in the first hour, but the biggest news is that voters no longer have to provide a "valid reason" why they need to vote absentee.

In the past, voters were required to swear they expected to be out of the county on election day, or come up with some good reason they needed to vote before the polls opened on election day. Now, the legislature has finally decided that voters that show enough responsibility to register to vote have the responsibility to vote absentee without showing any reason why they need to.

To vote absentee, registered Bandera County voters come to the county clerk's office in the courthouse, show their current voter registration card, and request a ballot. They mark their ballot, drop it into the ballot box provided. It's that simple.

Applications for absentee ballots by mail must be recieved by the clerk's office by Tuesday, Nov. 1. Voters may vote absentee in person in the clerk's office through Friday, Nov. 4.

The Bandera County Clerk's office is open Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. They close from noon to 1 p.m. for lunch.

County to seek federal grant to cover rodeo arena

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Bandera County will begin the process of applying for state and federal grants that will place a roof over the county's rodeo arena and add improvements that will increase Bandera's tourism and claim to the Cowboy Capital title.

As a result of Monday's public hearing at commissioners court, a committee of chamber of commerce and rodeo association members will develop a plan and drawings to build a cover over the existing Mansfield Park rodeo arena.

The purpose of the hearing was to finalize a $261,000 grant application for low-income housing in the county, and it was changed to $249,000 with no matching funds from the county.

There were no county commissioners present at the meeting.

While 12 citizens from the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce and Cowboy Capitol Rodeo Association listened, County Judge Ray Mauer explained that there was money available now in government grants for economic development in counties such as Bandera. The grant money could be used to improve the county's rodeo arena, he said.

To qualify for the grant, an engineering study and an economic impact study will have to be conducted before the Dec. 15 grant filing deadline.

"The county will need an engineering or architectural plan or study to apply for the grant," says Joyce Wallis, a grant management consultant that works with the county and other Bandera agencies. That study could only take 30 minutes for a qualified engineer to develop, says Wallis. "We don't need a breakdown of every item needed in the project," she said. "The grant will pay for the final plans."

"Someone needs to identify what's needed at the rodeo arena," said Mauer. There will need to be a cost estimate for the project so the grant will have a request figure, says Mauer.

A committee of chamber and rodeo association people were formed, including Joe McMullan, Gary Johnston, Roger Raser, and Frank Anderwald. The other people at the meeting will be part

Red ribbons to promote anti-drug campaign here

Next week, Oct. 23-30, a student will probably approach you and ask you to wear a red ribbon.

Not only should you wear it, but they are hoping the citizens of Bandera County will make the commitment to get involved in the ongoing war against drugs.

The Red Ribbon Campaign in this area is coordinated through both the Student Assistance Program (SAP) and the Kerr County Substance Abuse Coalition (KCSAC), according to chairman Annette Butler.

"We need to support the youth in this because they are our next generation. How they perceive our reaction to the drug problem is important," said Butler.

Bill Buchell, SAP counselor, said Red Ribbon Week is a way for kids in the student assistance program to make a visible commitment to the fact that they are ready to take a stand against drugs.

"Two students from each high school and junior high are members of the Student Assistance Program," said Buchell, whose area includes Bandera, Kerrville, Ingram and Center Point.

"Those students attended the Texans' War On Drugs Youth Conference this summer in Georgetown and it was during that time they approached me to see what they could do to fight this problem of substance abuse," he said.

Through word of mouth, 60 kids showed up at the first meeting three weeks ago, Buchel said. The Red Ribbon Campaign was underway.

"All students in (Bandera) schools will have ribbons available to wear, and starting Saturday, Oct. 22, they will be contacting businesses," said Ken Finley, president of the Bandera County Committee Drug Awareness.

"They will be putting flyers in windows, handing out and wearing red ribbons," said Finley.

Did you ever get polled?

It is a little like losing your virginity, or getting arrested for the first time.

It makes you part of that great, shapeless, unwashed mass: the American people.

The American people. Will they vote for Bush or Dukakis? Will they watch the television premieres? Will they buy a Chevrolet or Ford this fall? Will they spend every spare cent on Christmas? Will they get back into the market, a year after the market took them for every spare cent?

Back to polling. The man calls up, says he is from the National Research Center (sure), and wants to know if you are going to vote.

"I guess so."

(That makes you a "likely to vote" for the evening news.)

"If the election were held today, would you vote for Bush or Dukakis?"

At least when they call up to sell you siding or storm windows or magazines they are willing to deal with ambiguity. If you say, "I don't know," they are willing to discuss the possibilities with you.

Not so with the presidential pollsters. It is all or nothing. Do not try to tell them about your cold, or the sunset you saw tonight, or the relative whose health is now much improved.

Do not try to tell them that you used to care who was president, but gave that up after LBJ lied about Vietnam, but now you are thinking about taking it seriously again.

You will not interest the pollster.

You will not interest Bush or Dukakis either.

A lot of people are saying that they are bothered by what they see as a lack of choice in the presidential election.

A lot of people whine.

They want to vote for a combination of Robert Redford, John Wayne and Elvis, who will have the government develop a potion to cure warts, piles and corns.

It is very simple. If you do not like this presidential election, call your favorite party's county chairperson. Tell them you want to work on the election, and are willing to do whatever needs to be done.

Do it. Then stay with it. Four years from now you will be singing in a different tune. You will be slimmer. You will look younger. Your investments will be profitable. Your cows will drop healthy calves, your mares will foal easily. Strangers will approach you for advice.

It is that easy. You will have learned that politics is the art of the possible. You take what you get and you make the best of it.

Guilty before proven

Dear editor:

On Sept. 23, I was arrested at my home on charges of "felony theft" from Calhoun County and taken to Bandera County jail.

I was not allowed a phone call, or informed that I could not make bond in Bandera County. I certainly was not informed that I was being transported to Calhoun County the next day, until the officer came and got me.

In the first place, I have never stolen anything in my life! The items mentioned certainly don't add up to $750, which I understand is the starting amount for a felony theft. But most important, the items were my own personal belongings, taken out of my own place of business here, several weeks ago, and were given back to me!

It's scary to know a person can be arrested, booked, fingerprinted, mugged, and locked up, without having even committed a crime!

Even though Harvey Saab was a very ill man, he made every effort to bail me out, but the bond was "conveniently" lost. I'd like to publicly apologize to him for his efforts, and thank him for what he did.

I'd also like to apologize to Travis and Crazy Bob for the time and expense they put in for my (scheduled) appearance at Crazy Bob's Saloon, for the nice ad you put in the Buletin, and for me not being able to be there. I hope I can make it up to you someday.

I am guilty until proven innocent!

How many mistakes?

Dear editor:

Early Sunday morning, Oct. 16, while I was driving from Bandera to my home in Pipe Creek, I became very sleepy so I pulled my truck into Medina River Ranch, parked near the house of a friend and took a nap. Around 7:45 a.m. a deputy sheriff knocked on my window, woke me up, checked my driver's license and informed me there was a DPS warrant out for my arrest. To make a long story short, even though my mother and I protested that we did not owe any fine, we had to pay it or I would not be released.

Monday we were told by Bonnie Tower's office that it was a mistake and that we would receive a refund for the money in the mail. We were told that evidently back in August when the ticket was paid it was not taken off the computer.

My name was called over the police scanner with all the information that is usually given on someone being arrested. I wonder how many times this has happened in Bandera County?

Owner must control dogs first-time letter writer says

Dear editor:

I woke up this morning at 4 a.m. thinking about the letter to the editor complaining about the treatment of dogs that get into a rancher's flock of sheep or cattle or begin running deer. I finally decided that the only way to get some rest tomorrow morning was to get up and write my first letter to the editor.

The problem comes along when the uncontrolled dog gets into livestock to play or chase or attack. There is a leash law in this county and if it were followed, the problems would not occur.

I doubt that the letter writer has ever seen close up and in graphic detail the aftermath of dog or coyote attack on a flock of sheep, much less have to doctor and ease the suffering of the victims. And they do suffer when hunks of meat and skin are torn out, bones broken and the animal disemboweled and left alive. I have doctored sheep mourning and night every day for a month to try and save some of these animals. Recently we had 14 ewes and lambs in a pen that we were having to treat after an attack. They need shots, wound dressing, and during warm weather it is not a pleasant experience to have to clean fly eggs and maggots from these wounds. I have never seen an owner of one of these "wandering pets" volunteer for this duty.

Sheep never seem to get completely over one of these attacks. If they do heal, they never do as well and the market value of these animals is lower. This is not to mention all the time and medicine put into trying to heal the animals. As to the $30 or $40 to be paid for the loss, this seems inadequate when fat lambs will bring $60 to $80. This does not consider the damage done to the rest of the herd from weight loss, orphaned babies and damage to fences.

Another part of the problem is that these dogs have more instincts than good manners and do not stay around to sign the bill for their damage.

It is not always possible to locate the dog(s) or their owners. Many of the dogs are not wearing tags. And at 100 yards with the animal running from the rancher, tags cannot always be seen, much less read.

As for dog owners volunteering to pay for the losses caused by their pets, I know of an instance where the offending animal was taken back to the owner and she did not volunteer to pay for anything. When confronted with the possibility of charges, she was not the least worried. I know of others who had the damages paid out of their homeowners insurance for their dog's transgressions.

I know of dogs that have been followed all the way back to town and when the owner has been confronted, denied the animal lying in their front yard was even their dog. So much for responsibility.

I doubt that a supermarket owner would be very tolerant of a dog running into his store, jumping into the meat display, making a selection and running out. All of these cases are assault and theft.

As far as a loose or wandering dog is concerned, it is obviously not cared for or it would be inside a fenced yard or tied. I see no reason for people with livestock or with garbage cans to have to tolerate the expense of loose running dogs from town or 5-10 acre subdivisions, much less the wild dogs. Just because one moves from the city to the country is no reason to leave your manners behind. People in the country have rules and laws too.

It boils down to the fact that the dog owner has the responsibility to control the animal. As one rancher put it to me a few months ago, you can't shoot the owners.

If you love him ...

Dear editor:

In response to the letter writer who is crying because no one bothered to contact them to tell them their dog was killing sheep and goats, I am sick and tired of hearing it! Especially since this same week, we had one goat bitten, our neighbors had two or three badly bitten, one goat killed, and one still missing, sure to be dead. And all by a dog whose owners have been asked repeatedly to keep their dog at home.

Do you know what the response invariably is when you do contact the owner — the same as when we saw the neighbor's dog carrying off a little two-week old kid in it's mouth: "He's been right here the whole time. Never left the place."

I don't know of one rancher that does not have at least one, and usually more dogs. Do you think we love our pets any less than you do? Definitely not; that's why we keep them penned or tied. Both because we love them and out of respect for our neighbors.

Never have we paid $30 for a goat. Try $2,500, $1,700, or $1,200, etc. etc. Would you be glad to reimburse for those damages? You couldn't, because often that goat laying there ripped to pieces represents years of work to improve the breed.

If you love your animal, show him, keep him at home where he belongs!

Creatures deserve compassion

Dear editor:

Ray Wayne's letter of Aug. 4 referred to the Bulletin's July 28 article about "hero" Bill Harmon and his animals as "a disgusting glorification of ignorance."

The Harmons feel as many humane people do, that all living creatures deserve compassion. Those who allow their animals to starve, suffer mistreatment and run at large are the disgustingly ignorant ones.

For Wayne's edification, I quote two very wise and learned men:

Emmanuel Kant: "We can judge the heart of man by his treatment of animals; for he who is cruel to animals becomes hard in his dealings with his fellow man."

The chief seattle of the Dunamish Indian tribe: "What is man without the beasts? If all the beasts were gone, man would die of great loneliness of spirit, for what happens to the beasts happens also to man. All things are connected."

The Harmons are proof of truth of the above quotes. Their compassion for animals and their compassion for people are one and the same. I know, because their compassion for all creatures has been shown by their great kindness to me.

That letter in last week's edition complaining of some ranchers' practice of putting out poison in areas where dogs have killed livestock drew an emotional response from some readers, including a thoughtful pair whose answers appear elsewhere on this page.

When I get the chance, I usually try to convince letter writers that their message is stronger when their name is included. I'm not always successful, and periodically we withhold the identity of letter writers, as we did last week and are doing again this week.

To be sure, the letters are signed and the authors known to us. Anonymous letters are not considered for publication.

I sometimes scoff when a letter writer asks to have his or her name withheld. Usually, they say, they fear that old boogy man, Retaliation.

We once got an anonymous letter praising the writer's mom, apple pie and the flag.

After some of the reaction to Name Withheld's letter last week, however, I will act more slowly in the future before doubting someone's fear of retribution.

At least two who contacted me last week did so at the urging of motives other than idle curiosity, I fear.

One demanded I furnish him the name of the writer because some kind of law required it. I told him I didn't think Big Brother had made that much of an inroad (yet), and I asked him why he wanted to know the writer's name so desperately.

"I just like to keep up with those people," he replied, and I regret I never found out how he defined "those people."

The second was more direct.

Unable to determine the identity of the letter writer, he threatened me with retribution. He called me a dirty name.

These were the reactions of just two persons. Most ranchers and pet owners (including the overwhelming majority of ranchers who are pet owners) take a more traditional approach to the serious problem that livestock losses to dogs represent.

They realize that if an answer is found it will result from a thoughtful discussion and a serious consideration of the problem. Not from childish outbursts of rage, retaliation or retribution.

of the committee or he asked for their help and input, said McMullan.

Besides the cover for the rodeo, making rodeo less likely to a rainout, improvements were suggested in the pens and stalls, new restrooms and storage rooms, and a concession stand under the roof. "We need an arena large enough for pro rodeo," said Frank Anderwald. Many rodeos organizers don't consider Bandera because it doesn't have a cover, he said.

A drawing for the proposed rodeo arena modifications will also have to be made, said Wallis.

The justification for the grant is to stimulate the county's economy and promote tourism, said Mauer.

The county may have to come up with matching funds for the project, said Wallis.

The county will have to maintain and upkeep the facility after it is built, said Mauer.

It is much easier to have a facility that pays for the maintenance, rather than the facility also paying for a mortgage, said McMullan.

If the grant is not ready by Dec. 15, application can be made two months later for the next grant completion, said Wallis.

"We are pushing it now, because we know there is money available," said Mauer.

There will be two public hearings on the grant when the proposal is ready.

The funds, originally from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, come through the state economic development agency.

"The agencies are looking for a community that is willing to work together," said Wallis. The government agency making the grant wants to see how jobs will be created by the improvements made by the grant, she said.

The hearing was originally called to finalize the grant application for low-income housing in the county. A grant will be requested for $249,000 without matching funds from the county to provide economic stimulation by adding construction jobs and improving the livability of the homes of low-income residents.

In the orginal grant application, the county was requesting $261,000, with $12,000 destined to be returned to the granting agency as matching funds. This method was ruled out and by the authority granted by the county commissioners, Mauer reduced the grant to $249,000 without any matching funds from the county.

Drought program

Ranching during drought and methods of handling risk will be the topic of an Open House-Field Day to be held at the Texas A&M University George Lyles Ranch at 8 a.m. Nov. 1.

This 1978 Dodge van was a total loss by the time Bandera firefighter Phil Tobin finished dousing the flames Wednesday, Oct. 12 around noon. Fortunately, no one was hurt, even though the van was in full bloom on Main Street during a busy part of the day. The van driver, Bulletin staff member Dan Sandidge, suddenly smelled gasoline as he pulled onto Main Street from the Super S parking lot, heading north. According to Sandidge, the van backfired once, then black smoke began pouring from under the hood. He managed to pull off onto the shoulder, and get out of the vehicle with his 35mm camera before flames began licking up out of the engine. Although volunteers at the scene had fire extinguishers handy, they were useless against the blaze, and when firefighters arrived the van was already "a goner," according to eyewitness reports. The blaze began around 11:30 a.m.

another Railroad Commissioner position.

Republicans Paul Murphy, Nathan Hecht, Charles Ben Howell, Barbara G. Culver and Eugene Cook vie for Texas Supreme Court Justice, Places 1-5; Democrats Lloyd Doggett, Bill Kilgarlin, Raul Gonzalez, Jack Hightower and Karl Bayer vie for the same five positions. Libertarian Calvin Scholz will compete against Howell and Gonzalez for place three.

Republican David A. Berchelmann Jr. challenges incumbent Republican Mike McCormick for presiding judge, court of criminal appeals. Libertarian Egon Tausch challenges incumbent Democrat Chuck Campbell for place one, judge of criminal court of appeals. Republican Tom Rickhoff and Libertarian Carol Caulchinger challenge incumbent Democrat Chuck Miller for place two, criminal court of appeals.

Republican John Shields, Democrat John Sullivan, and Libertarian George Meeks will compete for district 45, state board of education.

Republican Charlie Britsch of Castroville challenges incumbent Democrat Eldon Edge of Poth for State Representative, District 45.

Republican David Peeples will face Democrat A.G. (Tony) Cantu for place one, and Republican Sam Dibrell will challenge Democrat Ron Carr for place six, both in the fourth court of appeals, but Democrats Shirley Butts, Blair Bruzzie Reeves, Fred Biery and Alfonso Chapa are uncontested for places 2-5, fourth court of appeals.

Republican Steve Ables is running unopposed for District Judge, 216th Judicial District. Judge Bob Barton, who is currently serving as district judge, announced his retirement earlier this year.

Incumbent Republican E. Bruce Curry is running unopposed, for district attorney, 216th Judicial District, and incumbent Democrat Sam Darden is also running unopposed for Bandera County attorney.

Incumbent Democrat Marguerite Stevens runs unopposed for Bandera County Tax Assessor Collector.

In Precinct 1, Republican Cotton Fitzgerald and Democrat Bennie Barker vie for County Commissioner. One of the candidates will fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Jimmie Russell. Incumbent Democrat Donnie Walker runs unopposed for constable.

In Precinct 2, Republican W. Preston Boggs and Democrat Jacque Galvan vie for the unexpired term of justice Ed Jennings, who retired last year. Democrat Ernest Reich, III runs without a Republican opponent for the position of constable, but Robert Galvan has mounted a write-in campaign for that office.

In Precinct 3, Republican Roger Raser will oppose incumbent Democrat A. A. (Pete) Reed for county commissioner. Bill Ellis will run as a write-in candidate for constable, though no name appears on the ballot for that position in precinct 3.

There are three amendments on the ballot. Amendment #1 would clarify the use of federal highway funds, amendment #2 would create an economic stabilization fund, and amendment #3 would authorize investment of employees' retirement funds to foster economic growth.

Closing date extended on wheat and oats

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has extended the sales closing date for 1989 wheat and oat insurance until Oct. 31, says spokesman Tom Jean of Hondo.

FCIC Manager John Marshall said the action was taken to provide producers the opportunity to comply with the intent of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988 which requires producers to carry insurance on a given crop for the 1989 crop year if 1988 disaster payments are forthcoming on losses exceeding 65 percent of a normal crop.

"This sales closing date extension from Sept. 30 to Oct. 31 will accommodate the crop insurance purchase requirement of the act where appropriate, Jean said.

Ribbon

This will identify them with [illegible] for this campaign."

Bandera County commissioners and Bandera Mayor Raymond Adamietz have both signed proclamations declaring the week of Oct. 23-30 as "Red Ribbon Week" to promote drug abuse awareness in Bandera and Bandera County. Other groups that have become involved in the Red Ribbon campaign include Southwestern Bell Telephone, according to spokesman Gary Brittain.

The Bandera county and city officials encourage citizens to participate in drug awareness and drug free activities as a visible statement against drug abuse. The proclamation asks, "Business, government, law enforcement, schools, religious institutions, service organizations, youth, medical, senior citizens, military, sports teams, and individuals (to) demonstrate their commitment to drug free, healthy lifestyles by wearing and displaying red ribbons during this week long campaign."

The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth and the Drug Free Youth of America are coordinating the grass roots effort to get the last full week in October as drug free week nationwide.

Four school districts, Kerrville, Ingram, Center Point and Bandera, have joined forces for Red Ribbon Week activities. Monday and Tuesday, students will continue placing ribbons in businesses, and on faculty members and students.

Wednesday, the four school districts will join in a Red Ribbon [illegible] at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, [illegible] at the First United Methodist Church in Kerrville at 6:30 p.m., then marchers will carry a banner to Louise Hay Park, where there will be a pep rally, cheerleaders, and a skit by Tivy High School students.

Suzanne Young, youth coordinator for Texans War on Drugs, will speak to the group. The program should last until about 8 p.m.

A bus will leave Bandera High School at 5:30 p.m. for the rally. High school or junior high school students that want to attend the Kerrville rally will be allowed to ride the bus.

Thursday, student leaders will be tying red ribbons on cars. The junior high football team will run through a "Red Ribbon" banner at their game Thursday night.

Friday, BHS students plan to perform a skit during the pep rally, and Saturday student leaders hope to still be tying ribbons all over town.

"This campaign offers a perfect opportunity for youth and adults to work together. A drug-free America means a drug-free youth," said Brittain, "and that translates into a strong America."

Bandera student leaders include Peggy Whitehead, Tiffany Moseley, Kim Lukachik, Priscilla Obiedo, Angelika Kluna, Shannon Walbrun, Clint Schantz, David Kelly, Freddy Richardson, Deborah Weltens, Kimber Bos, Tandie Clements, Marika Cook, Jennifer Wharton, Braon Moseley and Minnie Whitehead. Other members include Kim Kibbe, Ruth Hazurek, Sally Langston, Tammy Lynd, Michele Hermann, Willie Bates, Eric Wylie, Sharon Wehmeyer, Nicki Nickler, and Melissa Howard.

The Red Ribbon Campaign originated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. The Red Ribbon became the symbol to reduce the demand for drugs, just as the yellow ribbon [illegible] symbolized support for the [illegible]. The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth assumed the leadership role in the organization of the first National Red Ribbon Campaign.

Sunday, Oct. 23 is National Red Ribbon Sunday, and Wednesday, Oct. 26, is National Wear Red and Rally Day. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 28-30 is Red Ribbon Sports weekend.

Businesses are encouraged to purchase red ribbons to distribute to customers and employees, and display red ribbons and posters on the interior and exterior of building.

Families are encouraged to purchase or make red ribbons for family members and friends; display a red ribbon on front door, mailbox, trees or some other prominent place to show a commitment to reduce the demand for drugs; communicate a clear, no use message to under-age children; plan drug-free family activities; and practice ways to say no to drugs.

Churches and religious organizations are encouraged to distribute red ribbons at services the weekend before the red ribbon week; sponsor fellowship groups, such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Alanon, Alateen and Naranon; and hold prayer vigils for those affected by substance abuse and their families.

A special emphasis of Red Ribbon Week is education. Families, churches, government and service organizations, professional groups, businesses, schools and youth organizations are encouraged to sponsor or undertake some kind of educational program, both to increase drug awareness and to help educate and close the gap of alcohol and substance abuse.

Watermaster's role explained by TWC

James Kowis

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The purpose of the state watermaster for the South Texas Water Division is to measure how much surface water is available in the Nueces, Guadalupe, and San Antonio River Basins, which includes the Medina and Sabinal rivers and allocate that water to those that have a right to it first.

The regulations that the watermaster will enforce will be paid for by water rights permit holders by a yearly fee starting at $50 a year.

There are at least 50 water rights holders in Bandera County that will be effected by the watermaster regulations. These include Parker Drilling Co., Grover Williams Jr., Brewington Lake Ranch Association, Ann Darthula Mauldin, Don F. Tobin, the Bandera Electric Co-op, and the City of Bandera.

Each of the water rights holders will have to pay a $50 fee per year as long as they hold the water rights, whether they pump river or stream water or not.

In addition, water rights holders will pay a fee based on how much water their permit allows them to draw, not what they actually use, says James Kowis, assistant division director for the Water Rights and Uses Division of the Texas Water Commission. The bills will go out 10 to 15 days after the Oct. 24 budget meeting and water rights holders will have 45 to 60 days to pay the bill, or an additional $25 reinstatement fee if they are late, he said at a public hearing in Kerrville Monday.

For irrigation land holders, a fee of 4.82 cents per acre-foot of water applies. For instance, Dorothy Baird Bean, who can draw up to 128 acre-feet, will pay a fee of $6.17 in addition to the $50 base fee.

The fee applies to the amount of water a water rights holder is allowed to draw, not how much they actually draw, says Kowis.

A water meter will have to be purchased by many water rights holders. The watermaster will need to know how much water is being diverted by water users.

A meter for a typical 4-, 6-, or 8-inch pump ranges from $600 to $700, says Kowis. However, water rights holders should not rush out and buy meters, but wait to meet with the watermaster to see if they actually need a meter, he says. "For small users, the watermaster may be able to find another method to accurately measure the water used," he says.

This period of transition could take one to one-and-a-half years, says Kowis.

The state has control of surface water and the watermaster, when hired by the Texas Water Commission after Jan. 1, will use data from water permit holder's meters and flow gauges on the rivers and streams that flow into the San Antonio, Guadalupe, and Nueces river basins to find out how much water there is available.

During 1989 and 1990, the watermaster or his deputy will meet with each water permit holder that diverts water from rivers and streams to determine if they need a meter and to explain the rules, says Kowis.

The underlining purpose of the watermaster is to assure that water permit holders that have a priority claim to surface water get it first.

Priority is established by the date the permit was issued. The older the permit, the higher the priority. The "first in time has first in right" rule applies, says Kowis.

The watermaster as a surface water allocator will not begin immediately, but data collection of stream flows and gauging stations may take until 1990 to establish a true allocation system, says Kowis.

Another purpose of the watermaster operation is to detect and stop illegal water diversion by people without a permit. "With the watermaster program in place, we will find a helluva a lot more illegal diverters a helluva lot faster," says Kowis.

The regulations only apply to surface water. This is water that flows in a water course, such as stream bed, says Kowis. "A water course has defined beds and banks," says Kowis.

A dry creek bed is considered a water course and the water that flows in it at flood times to be surface water. "A water course does not have to have water in it to be a water course," says Kowis.

Diffused water is not regulated by the watermaster. Kowis defines diffused water as "water that falls on land and flows by sheets into a stream bed." Diffused water is private water, just like ground water, says Kowis. "Capture the (diffused) water before it gets to a stream bed and it's yours," he says.

The Texas Water Commission and the watermaster do not regulate underground water, and as such do not effect pumping from wells, unless that well has water that comes from a nearby stream. "Tests have to be run to determine if it is ground or surface water," says Kowis. "If it is ground water, it is your private water."

The watermaster operation does not apply to exempt water diverters, including domestic users. Kowis defines domestic use as "personal, household, watering the lawn, garden, and fruit trees, as long as none of the produce is sold."

Other exempt water diversion uses are watering of cattle in a trough or stock tank, says Kowis. However, commercial operations such as feed lots and irrigation of range land, need a water permit.

Camp Verde store robbed

The employees and neighbor[illegible]

Verde General Store feel violated after the Oct. 6 burglary resulting in a loss of items totaling over $10,000.

The historic general store has been broken in before within the last ten years, but in that burglary thieves took items like drinks and cigarettes. This time, the burglars knew what they were doing and took valuable jewelry, among other items, says store owner Mary Allen.

"We think of our place (store) as a home away from home for ourselves and for the people that come in," says Allen. The store has many antique and speciality items. "That someone would come in and take or destroy something that can't be replaced is destroying history," she says.

Customers and neighbors are very sympathetic about the burglary, says Allen. They feel violated, just like the employees do, she says.

A burglary changes your attitude, says Allen. "You look carefully at people that are questionable, but it doesn't change your attitude toward the public as a whole." The burglars were believed to have cased the store before the robbery.

Debris and two broken glass display cases were found by employees the morning following the robbery. "It could have been a lot worse. They could have vandalized the whole place," says Allen.

Many of the items in the store were not catalogued into an inventory. "In six months, we'll look and find something missing," says Allen.

Items taken were mainly good and expensive jewelry and some unusual items, says Allen. The burglars took a mounted chicken, but left a $400 Bowie knife lie right next to where the bird had been, says Allen.

The burglars picked out one doll from a whole roomful of dolls. "It was like they shopped," says Allen. "I imagine they were in here for quite a while," she adds.

The burglars entered through one tiny window upstairs that did not have bars, says Allen. The entire store has bars on the windows except there. "We live in the store during the day and it is depressing to have to have bars on windows," says Allen.

Lots of people come in and out every day and check on us, says Allen. "We have an ex-FBI agent and a Texas Ranger that comes through the store," she says.

Some of the items stolen in the Oct. 6 burglary were recovered at a motel apartment in Kerrville Oct. 16 and one of the two burglary suspects, a 21-year-old Michigan man, was arrested. The second man, a 27-year-old Kerrville man, was arrested Sunday evening at Boerne City Lake.

Tourist group plans its program for 1989

The Texas Hill Country Tourism Association plans to engage in cooperative advertising and marketing, public education and publicity during 1989, according to the group's president, Omer Mathiason of Kerrville.

The THCTA is a group of business and civic leaders from the Hill Country dedicated to promoting the area as a tourist destination. Several Bandera businesses are among its members.

The group's board of directors formulated its program during a three-day retreat at a guest ranch in Ingram. It will be discussed at the group's annual membership meeting at the Inn of the Hills in Kerrville on Thursday, Oct. 27, at 11:30 a.m.

"The main question we faced during the meetings was how we could help members increase their rate of growth and help them become more profitable by decreasing their costs," said Mathiason, who is manager of the Inn of the Hills motel in Kerrville.

The cooperative marketing and advertising campaigns will allow members of the association to join other members to share advertising costs in print media, he said.

Businesses with similar themes, like guest ranches or bed-and-breakfast spots, will meet together during the year to develop marketing strategies, Mathiason said.

The education programs would involve seminars or individual consulting on topics such as marketing, advertising and publicity, he said.

"The publicity programs would help increase the awareness of the Hill Country as a tourist destination through articles and ads in publications, information booths at travel shows, and familiarization tours for both travel writers and travel professionals," Mathiason said.

"This program we will offer will be of great benefit to both the current members and the future members of the association," he said. "We have a lot of hard work ahead, but the cooperation from the businesses and the cities in the Hill Country has been great. We all know that together we can make things happen that otherwise would be impossible," he said.

Persons interested in learning more about THCTA can contact Mathiason at the Inn of the Hills in Kerrville at 1-895-5000.

Grants available

The Texas Historical Commission is accepting preliminary applications for 1988 Survey and Planning grants to further local preservation planning and to identify cultural resources eligible for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

Former PC musician in SA band

Ken Ryan

Ken Ryan, formerly from Pipe Creek, is performing in Bandera and San Antonio with the band, Deuces Wild.

The grandson of Faye Lico of Pipe Creek, he attended Bandera Elementary School through the fifth grade before moving to San Antonio in 1981. He is a 1988 graduate of John Marshall High School and is currently employed by Pilgrim Cleaners.

Ken plans to start college in January and will continue to pursue a career in the music business.

Deuces Wild have performed at the Brass Rail and the Bandera Inn as well as other clubs in the San Antonio area.

Completes basic

Pvt. Karl B. Schumacher, son of Barbara Schantz of Pipe Creek, has completed basic training at Fort Sill, Okla.

Police report

A San Antonio man reported a burglary at his place in Medina Shores last week, and was surprised to discover Bandera County sheriff's deputies had warrants for his arrest.

Louis Fox Jr., 49, of San Antonio was arrested Wednesday, Oct. 12 on a warrant issued against him for issuing bad checks, according to the sheriff's report.

Fox reported guns and welding equipment and supplies, valued at $3,550 were stolen in the burglary, which occurred sometime in the past few months, possibly as early as July, according to Fox.

Also Wednesday, Oct. 12, Richard Gabe of Pipe Creek reported his place broken into, and two jacks were taken.

Sunday, Oct. 16, Mike Foreman reported a burglary at his place at Medina Lake. Missing items included an air conditioning unit valued at $500. The burglary occurred sometime between April and Oct. 16, according to sheriff's deputy Ken Mingo.

Monday, Oct. 17, Bill Prokopik of Pipe Creek reported a burglary at his place. Missing items include a tire tool and jumper cables from his well house and a box of coin [illegible]. Items were valued at approximately $150.

Thomas Gossett Jr., 49, of San Antonio was arrested Oct. 16 on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Tax bills to be mailed next month

If you haven't received your county tax bill, it's because they haven't been mailed out yet. The county tax statements for 1988 will be mailed around mid-November, says tax assessor-collector Marguerite Stevens.

"We're working as hard as we can to get the bills out," says Stevens.

The tax roll, which is 98 to 99 percent complete, has been entered into the county's new computer system and is being proofed carefully to keep errors out of the files, says Stevens. "We expect the completed tax roll (from the appraisal district) this week," she said.

Uvalde group to present 'Butterflies'

The Uvalde Area Community Theatre will open its 1988-89 season at the Grand Opera House on Oct. 15 with Leonard Gershe's bittersweet comedy, "Butterflies Are Free."

Other 8 p.m. performances are slated for Oct. 20, 21, 22 with a matinee scheduled for Oct. 16 at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are $7.50 for reserved seats and $5 for festival seating. Tickets may be ordered by writing to the Opera House box office, P.O. Box 1451, Uvalde, TX. 78802 or by calling 512-278-4184.

Pinto bean cookoff slated by Hermann Sons

The Hermann Sons Pinto Bean Cookoff will be held at Hermann Sons Park, next to Millie's Pavilion Oct. 22 in Lakehills.

"The gala Lakehills blowout will be held between the Old Rooster Cafe and the Lakehills post office on Park Road 37," says Francis Garren, public relations officer for the Hermann Sons.

Bean cooking will begin at 10 a.m. and the judging will be at 2 p.m. by all-local cooked-bean experts, says Garren. "We will have a auction and the proceeds will go to the Lakehills EMS Support Team," she says. The cooked beans will be auctioned off by Sy Turner.

Live music by Ken Grimm and the Buckskins will play between 1 and 5 p.m. Gennie Hall and Mark Wright, the other two members of the trio will play Country and Western during the afternoon with Grimm.

Cold drinks, games, funnel cakes, and hot doga will be available. The Lakehills EMS will have the modulance at the site.

Trophies made by the Lakehills Art Gallery will be awarded for first-, second-, third-place and showmanship.

The beans must be cooked on site and a minimum of three pounds must be prepared. Cooks must provide their own non-electric cooking equipment, tables, chairs, and cover, says Garren. Hermann Sons provides the space only.

Eleven cooks have registered so far, with more expected, says Garren. First-time cook Karoline Moreland of Lakehills will try her hand at the pinto bean cookoff Saturday. Sy Turner, John Cavajos, and the Bradleys from the Muleshoe will also cook beans for the contest.

The entry fee for pinto bean cooks is $10 and applications can be picked up at Lakehills Variety Store, the Muleshoe Lounge, or Shirley's Restaurant. "Have you picked up your application yet?" asks Garren. For more information call Garren at 751-2348.

The Hermann Sons next meeting is Oct. 19 at the Schenkat Hall at 7 p.m. Shirley's Restaurant is currently housed in the Millie Schenkat Hall. Officers will be elected at the Nov. 16 meeting.

Beauty event set

Girls between 3 months and 8 years of age may enter a March of Dimes beauty contest Saturday, Nov. 12 at 1 p.m. at the Shoppers City Mall, S.W. Military and Pleasanton in San Antonio.

All proceeds benefit the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, South Central Texas Chapter. Call 927-3886 for more information.

what's rustlin'

Is this beautiful weather, or what?

The mornings come with gentle breezes wafting and the clouds have a blush of pink and there is the slightest touch of autumn in the air.

It's absolutely perfect.

• Thuy's (pronounced TWEE'S, but not related to the mesquite variety) has a great Friday night Chinese buffet with all kinds of savory things on it and served amid a nice family atmosphere.

• A shop has opened on Main Street just in time for the hunting season. It's called The Deer Stand, and it carries hunting supplies; buys, sells and trades guns; creates all kinds of knives and implements from deer antlers; and sharpens any kind of knife from pocket to machete.

• Crazy Bob's is up and running. It's a bar-hotel one-half way between Bandera and Mansfield Park.

It's all done in handcrafted wordwork, and the first of five hotel rooms the proprietor hopes to fill with hunters is complete.

• I don't know why the word "liberal" has been made into a bad word. According to Webster's Dictionary, it is: "Free; not literal or strict; not narrow or bigoted; broad-minded; of democratic or republican forms of government, as distinguished from monarchies, aristocracies, etc.; now low in birth or mind; one who advocates greater freedom of thought or action."

A conservative? "Tending to preserve old institutions, methods, customs; adhering to what is old or established; opposing or resisting change."

• Donna Bryant, who has a video production company and "shoots" everything in Bandera, says she puts vacant wasps nests beside her fireplace for a matchholder. Neat idea, huh?

• Part or all of the Bible has been translated into 1,884 languages, and 36 were added just this last year.

Grace Lutheran Church is having its eighth annual Spaghetti and Meatball Roundup Sunday, and Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department of Wharton's Dock is having its second Turkey Shoot Festival Saturday.

So all you meatballs and all you turkeys, "come on down."

• The Overland Cattle Company's longhorn cattle drive and trail ride will come through town Saturday.

It'll be just like John Wayne and Montgomery Clift in "Red River."

We all know what happens to a beach when a spill happens, if we've been to the Gulf Coast. But not only the beaches are threatened, but the salmon fishing and abalone diving too.

What's so odd about it all is that there are thousands of capped oil wells right here in Texas, plugged because there's no profit in production and hasn't been for three years.

Young comedian John Dolen of Medina pauses during his performance during the Music Jubilee Saturday, Oct. 15. Dolan and other area performers will continue to appear each Saturday through Nov. 12. This weekend the jubilee will be combined with the homecoming festivities at the school bus barn but will return to the Cider Mill Store on Oct. 29, at 11 a.m.

Bandera VFD schedules turkey shoot

The Bandera Volunteer Fire Department will have its second annual fundraising Turkey Shoot Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Bandera Gun Club on Dixie Dude Road.

Shooting will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until everyone goes home or it gets dark, says spokesman Raymond Adamietz. There will be contests for shotguns, pistols and rifles, says Adamietz.

"If we get at least five black-powder shooters, we'll do that too," he says.

Fees are $2 or $5, depending on whether a person shoots for a chicken or a turkey, he says. A barbecued lunch and cold drinks will be available also. Proceeds go to help finance the VFD.

LH convenience store closes for the winter

The Lone Star convenience store in downtown Lakehills closed Monday for the winter, but will reopen in the spring after it is remodeled.

The Lone Star Ice and Food store #57, located on Park Road 37 at 26th Street in Lakehills has been closed for the winter," says Connie Coats, Director of Operations for Lone Star in the San Antonio area. "During the winter months, business falls down," he says.

"After the store is remodeled, it will be reopened sometime in March of next year. "We will reopen it. We're going to look at it and probably be remodeling it during the winter," says Coats.

Coats does not anticipate closing the store next winter. "For right now, it is a one-time thing," he says.

Employees of the convenience store are being transferred to other stores and will come back after the store reopens, says Coats.

"We invite (area residents) to go to the location 2.5 miles down the road," says Coats. The other Lakehills Lone Star is located on Park Road 37 and FM Road 1283.

Fifth graders, seniors make trip to SA's Shrine Circus

Students from Bandera Elementary and Bandera County Senior Citizens will enjoy the Shrine Circus this year thanks to ticket purchases by area businesses and individuals.

Some 62 citizens and businesses bought books of tickets and proceeds from book sales go to taking the school children and senior citizens to the circus, says Tony Kruse, ambassador of Bandera County for Alzafar Temple.

About seven special education and fifth grade students from the Bandera school will go to circus Saturday, Oct. 22.

At least 21 senior citizens plan to go to the 2 p.m. matinee showing of the circus Friday. They will have dinner following at Luby's, says Glenn Wehmeyer, coordinator for the Bandera County Committe on Aging.

The list of donators include businesses and individuals from all over Bandera County and includes six people and businesses from San Antonio.

Rebel Bass Club schedules fourth fishing tourney

The Rebel Bass Club will hold their 4th annual open tournament at Medina Lake Sunday, October 30.

Fishermen will compete in three divisions: men, women, and junior. Fishing will be by rod and reel and from a boat. Competition will be for cash, prizes and trophies.

Prizes for the mens division include a $800 cash first-place prize plus a trophy. There will be at least 40 prizes for the mens division. Entry fee is $30.

Prizes for the womens division include a $150 cash first-place prize plus a trophy. There will be at least 5 prizes for the womens division. Entry fee is $20.

Prizes for the juniors division include a $100 cash first-place prize plus a trophy. Juniors are 14 years old or younger. There will be a total of 5 prizes for the junior division. Entry fee is $20.

Fishing starts at 6 a.m. and all contestants must be in line for the weigh-in by 3:15 p.m.

All fishermen must come to Red Cove for their boat check. Boats can be launched anywhere on the lake, but fishermen must motor to Red Cove to check in before they begin fishing.

Candidates to meet voters October 29

A meet-the-candidates session will be held Saturday, Oct. 29 starting at 6 p.m. at Pop's Place in Pipe Creek.

All local candidates have been contacted, says Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place. Candidates for justice of the peace precinct 2, sheriff, and constable, among others are expected, says Acord.

Everyone who attends is asked to bring a covered side dish. Barbecue chicken or sausage or both will be provided by the Alamo Beach camp, says Acord. Music will also be part of the evening.

"There are no long speeches planned," says Acord, though the candidates will be introduced. It is a chance for candidates to mingle with the crowd, he says.

Call 535-4366 or 535-6121 for more information.

Somsels return from trip to five midwestern states

Pete and Helen Somsel returned from their two-week vacation in September after touring Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

Evergreens were prevalent with blue spruce and other pine trees. The trees were just perfect for Christmas trees, says Helen. People get a permit from the forest service and cut one down for their home, she adds.

Helen and her son tried their hand at salmon fishing on the Dead River, but after four hours, they didn't catch a thing. When they were leaving, a man had just landed an almost 30-pound salmon and was milking the fish for eggs to use as bait. They asked and received the fish, as he was interested in only the bait. That night they had thick salmon steaks on the grill with corn on the cob; too. Sometimes it pays to ask.

The fall colors of the trees were just starting when they arrived. By the time their vacation was over, the trees had, "every color in the rainbow," says Helen. For awhile on the way back, Helen had Pete stop the car every 15 minutes to take pictures of the birch, poplar, and sugar maple trees.

Pipe Creek

O.N. (Henry) Davis, 535-4127

Georgia Bosworth, Anna and Lea spent the weekend recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hare of Bryan. They also visited with one of her uncles who has been seriously ill.

• Visitors last week with Mrs. Bill Bybee were Ed and Barbara Bybee of Fairfield, Calif.

Bill Bybee is in the North Gate nursing home in San Antonio and is reportedly doing fairly well at this time.

• Justin and Cameron Homeyer have been staying some with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Homeyer, while their parents are moving from McAllen to New Orleans.

• In addition to the regular places, you can now pick up a copy each week of the Bandera Bulletin at L.A. Hair Shop which along with the Yarn Shop is open every day except Sunday. Laura Ann Walton is the new beautician at the location.

• Dorothy Smith was admitted to the hospital in San Antonio recently and has been making a satisfactory recovery.

• Alan Hamlin from California visited last Thursday with the Rev. and Mrs. Ted Bosworth.

• Joslyn Edwards of Marble Falls spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards.

• Tony and Lawanda Scott, Tony II and Brandi of Boerne visited Sunday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Jones.

• Sixty-five descendants of the Thomas Augustus Riggs family attended a reunion at the Pipe Creek Community Center on Oct. 9. The gathering took place at noon with a covered-dish meal.

The family tree was the center of attraction with much sharing of family information and pictures.

At the business meeting, recognition was given to those coming from a great distance. Some had traveled here from California, Georgia, Florida, Oklahoma, and Arizona as well as from many towns in Texas. It was decided that the reunion will be held every five years in October.

Local relatives attending included Mr. and Mrs. Montie Chipman of Bandera, Panchita Thompson of Lakehills, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Meyer, and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards of Pipe Creek.

• In order for the children and others to have fun on Halloween, the Boy Scouts are sponsoring a party at the Pipe Creek Community Center from 6 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 29. This will eliminate some unsafe practices of trick or treating.

There will be games, a cake walk, food and drink, and a costume judging contest.

• The Youth and Children of Hill Country Chapel will be combining Christianity with the fall season as they will have a "Harvest Fest" on Monday night, Oct. 31 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Everyone is invited to attend and enjoy a play they will present, games and refreshments.

Radiologist to speak Monday to Medina Lake AARP members

Alternatives to X-rays will be the program at the regular monthly meeting of the Medina Lake Chapter of the AARP, 1:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 24 at the Lakehills American Legion Building.

Dr. Larry Hurdiss, M.D., diagnostic radiologist from the San Antonio Imaging Center will be the guest speaker at the American Association of Retired Persons meeting. Hurdiss will discuss X-ray, mammography, CAT scans, magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and sonograms which are used by doctors to look inside a person to make a better diagnosis. Local EMTs will be guests and other interested people are also welcome.

On Oct. 17, 25 people went on a trip to Austin and toured the Governor's Mansion, Capitol building, and the LBJ Library.

You've Heard The Rumor That First Federal Has New Owners.

Here's What's Behind It.

MASON BEST COMPANY

TEMPLE-INLAND INC. A FOREST PRODUCTS COMPANY

Trammell Crow Company

With a go-ahead from the FSLIC, we are extremely pleased to have formed the "new" GUARANTY FEDERAL SAVINGS BANK, of which First Federal Savings – Austin will operate as a separate division. It will continue to be a strong and stable place for your money to grow.

As an 80% owner, Temple-Inland, Inc. knows about growth. We've been growing forests for years. A Texas resident since 1893, we're a NYSE company with over 10,000 employees and 1.8 million acres of timberland, including diversified interests in manufacturing, real estate and finance. For the past 25 years, we have been active real estate lenders in a mortgage business that is currently servicing over $3.2 billion dollars in loans.

The third Texas partner, Mason-Best Company, is a privately owned merchant banking partnership known for its ability to spot growing concerns.

Together, we believe we're facing limitless opportunities. And, there isn't a more promising place for our future to be, than in Texas.

Of course, if you're a First Federal customer, you deserve to be reassured about the change in ownership.

So here it is: We promise the things that are working well won't change. You can feel secure about having federally insured deposits.

The phone numbers are the same.

There's scarcely anything we'll do in the immediate future that isn't very much like we've done it in the past.

Of course, our number-one mission is to help give our new family of savings and loans a much-needed shot in the arm. And we have the financial and people resources to do it, and do it well.

It's not going to be easy. We're not beginning this resurgence in boom times. But we want you to know this:

We believe the most significant contribution we can make is fostering a positive vision of the future. And that is best accomplished by supporting the development of vibrant, growing and productive communities.

We look forward to meeting that commitment with an unbridled respect for marketplace needs. An undaunted drive for excellence. And an absolute focus on customers.

Ultimately, that true test of our success will be how well we fulfill our promise to you. We have the combination of talent, the experience, the commitment and now, the financial structure to help the resurgence of the American dream in Texas.

We're free to make money available in serving your needs. Our direction is clear. Our willingness is genuine.

So speak up. Tell us about the savings plan you want. Tell us about a home you've got your eye on, or the financing options you're looking for. We promise we'll listen, and we'll act.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS

The New Guaranty Federal Savings Bank. A re-structured and federally insured savings & loan group, created by combining the assets of Guaranty Federal Savings & Loan – Houston and Dallas, Dallas Savings – Alvin, and First Federal Savings – Austin. The "new" institution has over $4 billion in assets and 62 offices throughout Texas. First Federal Savings will operate as a separate division of Guaranty Federal Savings Bank. MEMBER FSLIC

Purple Hills Manor

By Mada Wedgworth.— 796-4736

The Rev. Ann Locasion of the United Methodist Church of Medina used for her text Sunday Hebrews 5:1-6.

Pianist was Janna Sandidge and guests included Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick, Melese Rogh, Elsie Krish, Florine Williams, Loma Murphy, Victor Basaldna, Thelma Gallant and Kim Culberson.

• Residents Martha Fitzpatrick, Evelyn Hostetter, Josephine Chapman, Christine Kalka and Ada Sehon joined Dorothy Callahan, Fannie Caffall, Aggie Batto and Annette Kalka-Schulte on the patio for Rosary and prayers Monday evening.

• Lum and Lillian Holloway of San Antonio visited his brother Jack Holloway last week. They went to Kerrville for lunch after picking up Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick. They returned to the Hamrick's home where they visited and enjoyed refreshments.

After returning Jack to the home, they returned to San Antonio.

• Luther and June Mathis' guests last week were Bill and Irene Smith of Pipe Creek and their son, Arthur Mathis, and Dick Winstruck of Corpus Christi.

Arthur and Dick took June to lunch and attended dessert and coffee hour at the nursing home.

• Mama Jo Turner's visitors were Ethel Fitzgerald, Charlene Garvick, Carol and Samantha Teich, Margie Teich, Bill Short, Ray and Cheryl Turner, Jim, Debbie, Kayla and Travis Chastain, and Paula and Daniel Teague, from the Dallas-Ft. Worth area.

• Paul and Betty Garrison visited Armand and Edna Markwordt.

• Three new residents admitted last week included Phoebie Moore, Bessie DeWitt and Anna Smith.

• Julie Donaldson LVN, was in the wedding of Bill and Denise Jenschke and brought her bouquet to the nursing home for all to enjoy.

• A dessert and coffee social last Thursday evening drew several guests for cakes, pie and coffee. Another get-together is planned next month.

• Maude Sprott went with her son and daughter-in-law, Leroy and Lila Sprott, to services at the Bandera United Methodist Church Sunday.

J.B. and Helen Edwards took his mother, Edith Edwards, to services at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek, and Elizabeth James came by and took Nola Baldock to services at the Bandera United Methodist Church Sunday.

The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson took Mary Koehler to services at the Grace Lutheran Church, and Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick took Jack Holloway and Elizabeth Kornegay to services at the Church of Christ.

• Ada Sehon's daughter, Lois D'Spain, entertained in her home on Oct. 15 to honor Ada on her 91st birthday.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

The Bandera County Committee on Aging will hold its regularly scheduled monthly meeting Friday, Oct. 28 at 2 p.m. At the top of the agenda that day will be the induction of new board members and officers of the committee. While there is no ceremony planned for the occasion, anyone interested in coming down, meeting our Board of Directors, and sitting in on the meeting is more than welcome. The BCCOA, as a publicly sponsored organization, is bound by the articles of the Texas Open Meetings Act, and the public is always welcome to attend.

• The Melodiers, our Center's musical ambassadors, will soon be taking on an international status. They have been asked to perform along with groups from Austria and Germany at the 8th annual Kristkindle Markt in Fredericksburg in early December. The Markt features Christmas gift items, holiday foods, and seasonal music from the Bavarian heritage of the Fredericksburg area, and the Melodiers and accompanying Auto-Angels will present early American Christmas songs and carols.

In addition to the December 10th show in Fredericksburg, the choral group also has scheduled several other performances at the VA Hospital in Kerrville, and locally at the Shoppers Jubilee and at the annual Christmas party at Purple Hills.

• The annual sojurn to the Alzafar Shrine Circus is on for Friday, Oct. 21. The trip to the afternoon matinee at Freeman Coliseum departs the Silver Sage Corral at 1 p.m. sharp and returns that evening at 7 p.m. Dinner at Luby's Cafeteria follows the circus. As usual, all purchases, dinner, and a gasoline donation are the responsibility of the individual participants using the Center's van.

• The Center is accepting donations of new or good condition used items for resale in our Gift Boutique. In addition to moving and redesigning the sales room we have also revamped the operations. Marie Holland has agreed to serve as the business manager for the boutique and will be working with other volunteers to create a whole new environment in that area. So far, the shelving and furniture are in place but we are still waiting for a nice looking dress rack for use in the boutique. We've been saving back good quality items for months now and the sales room will be stocked literally to the roof with goodies just in time for Christmas.

• Silver Sage Corral's second annual Halloween party will be combined with the monthly birthday luncheon Tuesday, Oct. 25. There will be prizes for the best and worst costumes, and for the most unusual costume. Everyone is invited to attend this festive gathering.

Radon test device offered

A low-cost gas testing device that may prevent an increased risk in lung cancer is now available through the American Lung Association of Texas.

"Radon poses a potentially significant health risk," Wade Thomason, environmental health specialist for the American Lung Association of Texas, said. "Radon testing has not been done in Texas on a wide-scale basis. Therefore, we wanted to offer a testing service the average homeowner could afford."

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, "exposure to high levels of radon gas over a long period of time is associated with an increased risk of lung cancer." The EPA estimates 5,000 to 15,000 annual lung cancer deaths result from exposure to excessive levels of radon gas.

Requests for the kit must be submitted by mail to the American Lung Association of Texas, c/o Radon, P.O. Box 26460, Austin 78755. A check for $24.95 payable to the American Lung Association of Texas should be included along with name and mailing address with each order.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

We all have in our minds a broad outline of what we expect to accomplish on any given day. But so often the unexpected disrupts our carefully laid plans and we have to revise those plans. We have to decide what is most important, less important, and relatively unimportant. We establish our priorities according to our values, and therefore each person has a different set of priorities.

One might ask ... wouldn't life be so much less complicated if all we had to choose between was the good and the bad ... if everything were black and white? But there are always varying shades of gray, the variables and the imponderables. Choices are often between the good things and the better things; between the better and the best; or between our best and God's best. And yes, sometimes we have to make our choices between the lesser of two evils ... There are so many things that compete for our time and attention; so many things that compete for a place in our thoughts in our lives ... If one were to engage in a little self-analysis, one might ask themselves, what occupies most of my time ... what do I think about more than anything else ... what do I talk about most of the time?

Wouldn't today be a good day to take stock of our lives and reorder our priorities, if necessary?

Spaniel available for adoption

"Kodie", a medium-sized springer spaniel, is available for adoption from St. Francis Pet Sanctuary. He had a broken leg and is now out of the cast. His family couldn't afford to give him the care he needed, so he was brought to the shelter.

The 8- to 10-month old dog was not fenced in his original home and ran out in front of a car, was hit, and got a broken leg for its trouble.

The dog had a steel pin placed in its leg at Hill Country Veterinary Hospital to hold the leg together says Katy Niska-Cortez, operator of the shelter. While the cast is now off, the pin will be removed later when the dog is neutered. The dog should be able to walk normally or with a slight limp, she adds.

Call Katy or Carlos at 535-6514 to find out how to adopt Kodie or one of the other 50 dogs and cats at the Pipe Creek animal shelter.

Standard time due to return

Daylight Savings Time will end Oct. 30 as everyone will turn their clocks back one hour to return to standard time.

The sun has been breaking over the horizon about 7:40 a.m. and has been slipping under the horizon around 7:00 p.m. during the days of Daylight Savings Time. Once Standard Time returns 10 days from now, the sun will rise around 6:35 a.m. and set about 6:30 p.m. starting Oct. 30.

The clock officially goes back one hour at 2 a.m., Sunday, Oct. 30, but the usual suggestion is to set it back one hour when you go to bed Saturday night.

The rule of "spring forward, fall back," is the easiest way to remember the change, but wait until next weekend to change your clock.

Hansens return from reunion

Ray and Margie Hansen of Wharton's Dock flew home from Nashville, Tenn. Oct. 10 after a four-day reunion of the crew of the World War II destroyer, DD 427 Hilary P. Jones.

Ninety members and wives were present at the reunion, all staying at the Airport Ramada Inn. They met in three hotel rooms that served as a hospitality room which they used as a base to meet to go on trips and to gather for drinks, refreshments, and food.

The husbands and wives went to the Grand Ole Opry Friday night and were treated to about a dozen performers including Little Jimmy Dickens and Ricky Skaggs.

All day Sunday was spent on the General Andrew Jackson paddle boat. The stage show was a salute to America with songs and dances while the show boat traveled up and down the Columbia River.

Next year's reunion will be in Indianapolis, Ind.

The Lake Medina Shores Owners Association had its "get-acquainted" covered-dish picnic Saturday, Oct. 15 at the pool area.

The Lakeshore VFD had a brush truck on display along with full turn-out gear for a fireman. The VFD explained the operation of the truck along with the cost of the various items of equipment.

Many of the owners showed interest in the fire department and were surprised to find out that we had fire coverage for their area.

Theresa Venturs, daughter of Phil and Nola Bledsoe has accepted a job in Austin and will be at the Bledsoes waterfront home on weekends. Grandson Kevin James will be staying with the Bledsoes for a few weeks until Theresa gets settled and finds a place to live. Theresa's husband Al, now working on a construction job in Nevada will be joining her mid-November when his job is finished.

Don and Michelle Shippy report they are enjoying the visit of Don's mother, Bobbie Delzell and his great aunt, Jessie Stone, both from Illinois; and his grandmother, Clotine Noble from Florida. They are all seeing many things including the riverwalk in San Antonio and the boat ride on the river. They went to New Braunfels and the hill country near Kerrville and Hunt.

One of the first things they did was travel to Eagle Pass and across the river to Piedras Negras, Mexico where they did some Christmas shopping.

The targets for the Lakeshore VFD Turkey shoot Saturday, Oct. 22 did not cost the VFD any money, thanks to Harold Bentley and Nick Johnson.

The turkey shoot will be with 12-gauge shotguns and ammo will be furnished.

Jacque Galvan, Preston Boggs seek JP post

With the retirement of Ed Jenning as justice of the peace for the Pipe Creek and Lakehills areas, the county commissioners appointed W.P. (Preston) Boggs to fill the vacancy until January.

As a result of the March primary, there are two candidates, Democrat Jacque Galvan and Republican W. Preston Boggs.

Precinct 2 is composed mainly of the southeast corner of Bandera County. Most of Precinct 2 is the area between Highway 16 and FM Road 1283. Additional areas are the land north of Highway 16 and east of Highway 46 as well as the land south of Red Bluff Creek, but east of the Medina River and Medina Lake. This includes all of Lakehills.

The term for the JP office is four years.

Jacque Galvan

Jacque (pronounced Jackie) Galvan is running for justice of the peace, Precinct 2 as the Democratic nominee. Her experience in the Bandera County legal system has been employment as a dispatcher/jailer with the Sheriff's Department. She lives in Pebble Beach 1 near Lakehills and has been a resident of the county for 4½ years.

Galvan's previous experience includes 11 years as a district manager for a corporate furniture supplier acting as a manager, representative, troubleshooter, and maker of client presentations. As such, she has made corporate decisions that affected numerous people, she says, including traveling to different cities and states to finalize and solve problems with management.

Galvan says she uses common sense to talk to people, gets to the "bottom line," and treats everyone as an individual "because everyone has needs."

Galvan states she has, "worked with people all my life, all types of people. I believe that if someone came before me (as JP), that I'd be fair, yet firm. I feel that I will show no favoritism or conflict of interest to anyone that comes before me."

While working with the sheriff's department she says she dealt with all types of stress situations. She has worked with the EMS system, civil defense, constables, sheriff's reserve deputies, drug enforcement agencies, Texas Department of Public

Preston Boggs

William Preston Boggs is currently the justice of the peace for Precinct 2, having been appointed by commissioner's court in December to fill out Ed Jenning's term. He is a 9 year Bandera County resident, currently living at Medina Lake in Lakehills.

Boggs retired from civil service in 1986 with 31 years experience managing taxpayer's money and property as a senior logistician with the last 15 years in management.

His position had him managing government resources: people, government properties, and the people who manage these government resources. He worked in international logistics, working to bring the full range of parts, technical orders, training, and facilities maintenance into a foreign country.

He made the decisions needed to receive, operate, and maintain a weapon's system in a foreign country. He also presented these plans to Pentagon and Congressional officials as well as the authorities and chiefs of staff in the receiving foreign countries.

Boggs believes the, "Judge in a JP court is about weighing all the facts and coming up with a fair and impartial decision." He also says that a, "Justice of the peace's responsibilities are carried out by good sound judgement and thought-out decision-making process."

During January, he completed the 40-hour Texas Justice Court training course in Austin, required of all new justices of the

Barker, Fitzgerald seek commissioner' position

With the retirement of County Commissioner Jimmy Russell, the post of county commissioner, precinct 1 is open at this Nov. 8 election. Two candidates are vying for the post: Democrat Bennie Barker of the Wharton's Dock area and Republican Cotton Fitzgerald of Pipe Creek.

Precinct one includes area north of Highway 16, but west of Highway 46 and east of FM Road 689 and the Mason Creek area. Precinct one also includes areas of Pipe Creek south of Highway 16, but west of FM Road 1283 and north of Red Bluff Creek. Precinct 1 also includes the Wharton's Dock area and part of Bandera City, and areas east of Highway 173 and west of the Medina River.

The term of office is four years and the new commissioner, either Barker or Fitzgerald, will take office Jan. 1.

Bennie Barker

Democratic candidate Bennie Barker is a retired heavy construction worker and a former mayor of a small town in Alaska.

"The number one problem in precinct one is our roads," says Barker. But there isn't enough money in the road and bridge budget for precinct one to fix all the roads, he says.

The basic problem with many roads is that the county had previously accepted substandard roads in subdivisions, says Barker. Bandera Ranch Acres' 15 miles of narrow roads are an example. There was not enough preparation of the road before the one coat of asphalt was put down, says Barker. As a result, portions

Cotton Fitzgerald

Republican Cotton Fitzgerald is a self-employed road contractor and has worked for other construction firms on road projects. He is also actively engaged in farming and ranching.

Forty percent of the work of a county commissioner involves taking care of the roads, says Fitzgerald. "I've been working on roads for 45 years," he says.

Fitzgerald says he has been a sole proprietor since 1957, working on private roads and doing work for the different county commissioners. He is currently rebuilding 3.3 miles of road in the Hill Country Natural Area (Merrick Ranch).

Besides working on roads,

Dr. Beth Hawkins of Medina has announced the engagement of her daughter, Barbara (Hobbit) Harrell, to Matthew Lloyd McGuffin, son of Jack and Katherine McGuffin of Ingram.

The bride-elect attended Medina High School and the prospective groom attended San Marcos Baptist Academy. They plan an Oct. 29 wedding and plan to live in Kerrville.

Sabinal Canyon

By Lillie Thompson — 966-3493

A miscellaneous shower and "pounding" honoring Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moreland will be held Sunday, Oct. 23, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Utopia Baptist Church Educational Building.

• Glenn and Alta Rynes had as their guest his brother, John Rynes of Alaska, at the Baptist Church Sunday.

A birthday cake, cookies, nuts and punch were served to more than 60 guests from Corpus Christi, Vanderpool, Sabinal, Taft, Portland, Houston, Bandera, Kerrville, San Antonio, Plano, Carrollton and Utopia.

• Doris Foster has been seriously ill in Methodist Hospital in San Antonio for a week. Scans, tests and a biopsy were run for brain tumor. She was allowed to come home Sunday until further diagnosis and treatment can be determined.

Hoyt Foster became ill this week and was taken to the emergency room of Sid Peterson Hospital in Kerrville.

He was relesed but due to go back for further tests.

Emergency farm loans available in county

Farm losses in Bandera County caused by Hurricane Gilbert's heavy rains and tornadoes are covered by the federal emergency farm loan program, says Donald West of the Fredericksburg office of the U.S. Farmers Home Administration.

Applications are being accepted now, he said.

Bandera County was one of 14 counties in Texas recently named by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng as counties in which agricultural producers are eligible for loans to cover part of production losses resulting from the hurricane.

West said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses. They may also be eligible for operating loans of up to $500,000 to continue in business at 4.5 percent interest.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30-percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," West said. Farmers participating in other crop insurance programs, such as the so-called PIK (payment in kind) of Federal Crop Insurance Program, will have to figure in proceeds from those programs to determine their loss, he said.

Applications will be accepted until next June, but West urged farmers to apply as soon as possible. "Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing," he said, possibly into the new farming season.

The FmHA office in Fredericksburg is located in the Security State Bank and Trust Building, 108 South Crockett Street.

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

Last Sunday Arthur and Georgia Mae Erfurt were hosts for a "family get-together" when they entertained with a barbecue dinner and the trimmings for 40 guests.

Jack and Hilda Erfurt Caldwell of Atkin, Ark., came to spend a week with the Erfurts and were special guests along with other relatives of the late Henry Erfurt decendants.

There were uncles, aunts and cousins who came from Arkansas, New Braunfels, Bulverde, Kendalia, San Antonio, Bandera, Hondo and Tarpley. This was the first time in many years the families were together.

• Little Miss Ashley Billings of Utopia is visiting her grandparents this week with Mr. and Mrs. Felix Billings.

• The Williams Creek Extension Homemakers met last Tuesday at the home of Gerry Sharp and it was "a smattering of computer literacy." New officers were submitted by Mrs. Lillian Haner and will be installed in January 1989. Mrs. Bobby Singleton was chosen as the club woman of the year. Seven members were present. The roll call was "If you were going to the moon and could only take one item, what would it be?"

• Elzie Dean returned home from the Methodist Hospital last Tuesday. He has several weeks of recuperation ahead of him. Visitors have been Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood, Anton Haner, LaRue Harp and over the weekend Dr. and Mrs. Larry M. Dean and son Michael of Abilene and Mr. and Mrs. Don Newcomb and children Molly and Jonathan of San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. (Bill) Morris' name was left out in Elzie's visitors while in the Methodist Hospital.

• The Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Andrews visited the Dean's. Also Marvin and Mary Jo Dean of D'Hanis visited on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schmidt Sr. of Westfield, Penn., came down for eleven days of visiting with his brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Willie Schmidt and their son Arthur Schmidt Jr. came for a weeks visit. Arthur Sr. and Hazel and son Arthur are enjoying visiting with other relatives also while here.

Other guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Schmidt the weekend were their grand niece Pamela Linza and her friend Judy Tate of Tarzan, Tx.

Fire ant conference planned in Austin on Oct. 24-25

A conference on the impact of fire ants in Texas will be hosted by Sportsmen Conservationists of Texas (SCOT) Oct. 24-25 at the Radisson Plaza Hotel, 700 San Jacinto, in Austin.

Officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and other state agencies, private conservation organizations and the Welder Wildlife Foundation are expected to participate in the two-day event.

SCOT President Tom Martine said the conference has been endorsed by Gov. Bill Clements. Martine said 26 experts from Texas and the Southeastern United States will present research papers at the meeting, but he indicated the event is not just for experts.

Topics include fire ant control, research status, needed research, impacts to birds and mammals, agricultural problems, general biology of the insect, impacts on society and tourism, beneficial impacts, economics of controls, medical impacts and others.

Safety officers, game wardens, and juvenile probation officers.

From her knowledge and experience she feels that, "It is of the utmost necessity that a JP1 be available whenever they're needed. It should be a full-time position. If I can't do it full-time, I won't do it."

"I feel that it is necessary for all the JPs (in the county) to cooperate and be compatible with the law enforcement in the county," she said.

If elected, she anticipates keeping the office on a five day week schedule with business hours. She feels hours need to be set so, "The public will feel comfortable to go and talk to the JP." The hours may have to be adjusted due to magistration responsibilities and courthouse business.

As her strong points, Galvan says she, "can uphold the law - that's the whole reason for doing the job." She feels if a person breaks the law, then that person should be punished accordingly.

She does not want to start doing "favors" for people. "When you start letting people have a break, then others will want it, too. You have to treat people equally. You have to treat everyone as an individual, the same way."

Her advice to the community is, "If people in the precinct want a JP that is fair, firm, and will uphold the law, that's what I offer. If that's not what they want, then they shouldn't vote for me."

"I believe that the people that live in precinct 2 want to be able to raise their families in a safe environment and their homes and businesses to be secure. We can work together and help each other to make our communities enjoyable," says Galvan.

Boggs

peace. The course is a review of traffic laws, beverage laws, bond forfeiture procedures, and a review of the Texas judicial system, says Boggs.

Boggs wants to continue what he calls fair and impartial hearing of cases. "The JP post needs someone qualified in the decision-making process, needs someone with a proven community background, and needs someone who can give full time." He feels his community involvement, reputation for fairness, and experience in decision making qualifies him for the post. He says he wants to offer his services to the people of the community.

The JP job is a five-day-a-week job that can easily stretch into six or seven days a week, says Boggs. Since he is retired, he says he can devote as much time as needed to the job.

Boggs reminds residents that the JP is the judicial side of the law. Residents need to get the sheriff's department to apprehend law breakers such as trespassers. Whenever a violation of the law is made, a complaint must be filed for any court to take action, he says. "The JP job is to adjudicate, not to enforce the law."

Boggs feels the justice of the peace position is very important to the average citizen. "More than 90 percent of the public's contact with the Texas judicial system is with the JP court," says Boggs. Also the JP judge "may not always have jurisdiction of the event or decision, but will many times be the first person (in the judicial system) to be contacted."

Barker

of the paving have had to be taken up.

The Mason Creek subdivision has a similar problem.

The first step to repair these roads will be to prepare the road bed properly where the paving was taken up, then pave it, and then seal it, says Barker.

Money for the needed road work could come from successful lobbying of the state for direct are also state and federal grants available, says Barker.

There are state and federal funds available to eliminate low water crossings with culverts and raised road beds. As an example, Kerr County got a $3,500,000 in grants from the state to repair roads and bridges. "They got it because they pursued it," says Barker.

Barker defends use of state and federal grants, because "that's our tax money anyway and we should get a part of it returned to us."

To relieve the tax burden, Barker says the county needs economic development. "If we can bring new businesses and jobs to the county, it'll create a larger tax base and take some of the burden off the current taxpayers." Operating costs are rising and the county budget will rise, says Barker.

If elected, Barker wants to form a citizens' advisory committee composed of a representative from each heavily populated area in the precinct. "We would formulate a four-year plan for road improvements, taking the worst case first," says Barker.

"With the needs of the county growing, we need a full-time commissioner to get things done," says Barker. "I am fully retired and can spend full-time to help Judge Ray Mauer get the grants."

Barker is retired from the heavy construction industry which dealt with oil patch, dam, chemical plants, and hydro-electrics.

Barker was mayor of Whittier, a town 50 miles south of Anchorage, Alaska, for six years.

Barker was born and raised in Arizona and has lived in the Wharton's Dock area since 1982.

Fitzgerald

Fitzgerald has been in farming and ranching since 1958. "You've got to be a manager in farming and ranching," says Fitzgerald. A farmer or rancher makes one crop in three; so farmers and ranchers must manage their business, he says.

There are a lot of people moving into the area and this causes problems on the county because of overhead, but it also brings more revenue to the county and that should balance out, says Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald does not see federal grants as the answer to county budget needs. When tax dollars are sent to the federal government, a third stays behind for the bureaucracy and only two-thirds comes back as grants, says Fitzgerald. "It is better to pay our own way with local money," he says.

Fitzgerald owns and maintains his own road equipment which includes loader, trucks, tractors, bulldozers and a maintainer that blades roads.

Fitzgerald has worked for companies such as H.B. Zachry, Killion-House, and Texas Paving. He says he was on the job that built Loop 410 in 1951-58. He also says he worked on jobs that built farm-to-market roads in Oklahoma, subdivision roads for Ft. Hood in Killeen, and road building in Mississippi. "I've done a thousand miles of road in my life," says Fitzgerald.

In the county budget, the sheriff's department needs more funds, says Fitzgerald. "The deputies need a little more pay," he says. The budget must be worked to put a little more money in the sheriff's budget. "If we have a real good deputy, we need to keep him," says Fitzgerald.

Some stretches of roads may need to be paved to save the county time and money. Where roads "eat go over a hill keep washing out, it is cheaper to pave that stretch over the hill, says Fitzgerald.

The amount of traffic on a road tells how a road should be cared for. "The more traffic on a road, the more you (the county) need to maintain it. If it is too busy, then we need to pave it," says Fitzgerald. "There is no way to keep a road in good shape except to work it."

"I was born here (Bandera County) and it is worth trying to make a better life to live here," says Fitzgerald.

Value-Added Concept

Cider another product from Texas apples

Texas-grown apples are now being used to make a new value-added product, cider.

Dr. Al Wagner, food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the product offers exciting new opportunities for growers and processors provided they follow food safety regulations.

Wagner said a number of growers already are operating successful cider businesses in Texas.

"Texas currently has about 1,000 acres of apple trees and a great potential for expanding, thus processing and marketing of apple cider is being considered by other growers and marketing firms," he said.

"The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has a standard of identification for apple juice — defined as an apple drink with less than 0.5 percent alcohol — but has no general standard for apple cider," he said.

"However, cider generally is considered to be fermented apple juice containing from 0.5 percent to 8 percent alcohol. A product containing more than 8 percent alcohol is defined as apple wine," Wagner said.

He said a single apple variety seldom makes good cider, but a blend of varieties can result in a better quality product.

Wagner said a good mature apple also is needed, but cautioned against over-mature apples which may result in off flavors.

He said considerations for a quality product include careful grading of apples used to assure quality, washing of fruit with a high pressure system, grinding facilities of stainless steel or metal for easy cleaning, and hydraulic presses that use plastic slotted boards for easy sanitation maintenance.

"In addition, cider that is not pastuerized by heat needs to be frozen or kept refrigerated," Wagner said.

Processors also need to consider a label that contains the product name, a list of ingredients, net weight of the product and name and address of the manufacturer.

Wagner said food processors also must register with the Texas Department of Health, Division of Food and Drugs, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756. The telephone number there is (512) 458-7248.

Wagner said it is important to check with local county health departments about their regulations.

He said individuals or firms interested in more information on the processing of apple cider may want to order a copy of an Extension Service publication called "A Food Processor's Handbook." It is available by writing to Wagner at Room 225, Horticulture/Forestry Sciences Building (2134), Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

Bandera wolf clubbers learn use of cyanide

Use of the cyanide gun for control of coyotes and predators was the topic of a meeting of the Community Wolf Club Monday, Oct. 3.

"The work shop taught those who were interested in obtaining a permit to use the cyanide gun, and to be able to buy ammunition, for control of the coyote," said Wolf Club reporter Bob Mansfield.

"A representative from the Texas Department of Agriculture was in charge of the work shop, and had pamphlets for each one there to read," he said, "and films on animals killed by each kind of predator. He showed us how to identify the predator by the method in which it killed its prey."

About 40 attended the work shop, Mansfield said.

The club also reported one coyote killed in the past month, on the Batty Kelso Overholser ranch on Red Bluff Creek.

Dewitt Leibold reported 10 wild hogs killed on his ranch, and Randy Schott reported four wild hogs killed on his ranch.

Vickers appointed sales director

Kathy Vickers

Kathy Vickers of Wichita Falls has been appointed sales director for Bandera Inn and Hunter House Motor Inn in Ingram, according to the management firm that runs both facilities.

She has been assigned to Park Inn International in Wichita Falls, another of the facilities managed by Lodging Host Hotel Corporation of Longview.

Vickers will direct the marketing programs of both Hill Country inns and introducing Lodging Host's First Choice program to local businesses.

She has been with Lodging Host for six months.

Karen Smith named assistant editor

Karen Parris Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Parris of Bandera, has been named an assistant travel editor for Travel South magazine, a publication of Southern Progress Corporation, which also publishes Southern Living magazine.

Smith joined Southern Progress in 1982 as an editorial assistant and in 1986 was named assistant to the creative director.

In 1987, she was named editor of an in-house publication, Southword. She has also written travel articles and book reviews for Southern Living, says Travel South magazine editor Karen Lingo.

Elizabeth Batto elected by banking women's group

Elizabeth Batto

Elizabeth Batto, cashier, at the Bandera Bank, was elected vice president of the Hill Country Group of the National Association of Bank Women, Inc. at a meeting of the membership Thursday, Sept. 29.

Dorothy Burow, assistant vice president of Comfort State Bank, Comfort, Texas, was elected president.

Batto began her banking career at the old First National Bank of Bandera in 1973 and was named cashier of Bandera Bank in 1986 when the bank changed owners.

She has received her diploma from the Texas Tech School of Banking and has completed the first level of the East Texas State Bank Operations School. She has attended numerous AIB courses and is active in her church and community, as well as her local chapter of NABW.

Festival planned at Camp Chrysalis

The first annual Fall Festival at Lutheran Camp Chrysalis will be held Saturday, Oct. 22 in Kerrville with food, games, music, and arts and crafts.

Activities will begin at 10 a.m. says the Rev. Gary Stevenson, camp director.

There will be 12 to 14 arts and crafts booths featuring items such as wood carving, ceramics, jewelry, and cookbooks, says Stevenson.

Choirs from different area congregations, including Blanco Fredericksburg and Harper will sing.

Food available on grounds will include sausage-on-a-stick, sloppy joes, nachoes, ice cream and cold drinks.

Ten teams from different Hill Country congregations will participate in a chili cookoff. To assist in the fund raising, those that want a taste will pay 25 cents for a sample of a team's chili. For every quarter a team earns, they'll have a vote for their chili to determine a winner, says Stevenson.

"We will have activities for young and old," says Stevenson. There will be a "42" domino tournament. Teams can sign up by noon and will start playing at 2 p.m. There will be volley ball, face painting, and ring toss for the youth.

The day will conclude with an evening service at 5 p.m. "We will have a brief worship experience in the chapel to close up the day," says Stevenson.

Proceeds from the event will be used to build a bath house at the pool. Lutheran Brotherhood will match all the money that is received.

The camp's address is 760 Upper Turtle Creek Road and the phone number is 257-6300.

Chrysalis is approaching its 40 year anniversary, having been established in 1949.

Election watches scheduled in Bandera and Lakehills

[illegible] will be the site of Election Watches Tuesday, Nov. 8, starting at [illegible] p.m.

Bandera County Youth Forum and Bandera Assembly #279, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, will sponsor the election watch at the Youth Center. Hot dogs, soft drinks and baked goods will be served, and results will be constantly updated. There will also be a big screen TV with national election results, said youth center spokeswoman Janna Sandidge.

There will be three TVs at the Lakehills American Legion, so each channel will be covered, and there will also be tote boards, according to spokesman Tony Kruse. Viking Enterprises will provide the cabling for the television sets.

Constant contact with the county clerk's office will be kept by radio contact at both locations. Ernest Reich will be in charge of radio messages at the Lakehills site and Marc Sultan will coordinate the Bandera radio messages.

The legion anticipates a crowd of at least 150, according to Kruse. There were at least 186 people at the legion's primary election watch, Kruse said.

The Rainbow Girls hosted a primary election watch at the Bandera County River Authority, and according to reports, about 150 people came and went that evening.

Since there is no central place for news media to contact Bandera County candidates, Kruse said they can come to the Lakehills legion post and notify the media to contact them there.

Although there is not a phone at the Bandera Youth Center, Sandidge said candidates are welcome to come watch the election results in the non-partisan atmosphere of the youth center.

Churches to sponsor Youth Center party

"Alternative Halloween" will be sponsored by several Bandera churches at the Bandera Youth Center Monday, Oct. 31.

"Grace (Lutheran) has provided the Bandera community with an alternate to Trick of Treating for numerous years," said Linda Balson. "This year we hope to coordinate our efforts with the Youth Center and other churches so that more and better activities can be provided for more people."

"Alternative Halloween" will attempt to provide a safe, fun atmosphere for children who want to celebrate the holiday.

Faith Chapel to begin special ministries

Faith Chapel of Lakehills has begun regular "Youth Answer" meetings each Wednesday evening and has started a women's Bible study scheduled each Wednesday morning, starting Oct. 19.

Youth ministry leader Bobby O'Dell and his wife Denise are beginning a new youth ministry at the Lakehills non-denominational church. They will meet every Wednesday starting at 6:30 p.m. "All youth in the community are welcome," says the Rev. Adrian C. Rains. Call 751-2712 for more information.

A Bible study for women will be held each Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon at Norma Colley's home, says Rains. The women will study the attributes in God using a book entitled, "Behold your God" by Myrna Alexander. Call 751-2476 for more information about the study.

Fourth Dobson film, 'The Family Under Fire,' set Sunday

"The Family Under Fire," the fourth film in the James Dobson film series titled "Turn Your Heart Toward Home" will be shown Sunday, Oct. 23 at 5:30 p.m. at the Bandera High School Auditorium.

The film series is sponsored by the Bandera County Christian Fellowship.

For more information on the film series call 796-4171.

For, about and by students in Bandera schools.

'Tom Sawyer' to be in theater festival

Students in grades 5 through 12 will be putting on the Second Annual Theater Arts Fall Fest this year on Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. at the BHS auditorium.

The featured play will be "Tom Sawyer," and ticket prices have not been decided yet. One admission price will include a dinner in the cafeteria before the play, and one price will include admission to the play only.

Each class will be in charge of different things for the play. Grade 5 will be responsible for ticket sales, while the sixth grade is in charge of set. Seventh graders are making the costumes, and eighth graders are responsible for the publicity of the play. Students in grades 9-12 will be "in charge," and will get to work with a little of everything. The Director, Coach Julie Young, says she is excited about the play and looks forward to the performance.

The title character, Tom Sawyer, will be played by Allan Anderson. Jeff Thatcher, Corey Winfield; Mrs. Thatcher, Amie Nightingale; Becky Thatcher, Kim Lukachik; Aunt Polly, Marci Elliot; Sid, Todd Vercighio; Cousin Mary, K.T. Holcomb; Ben Rogers, Brent Mansfield; Joe Harper, Jim Ruede; Jim Hollis, Jennifer Skloss; Ted Austin, B.J. Chafin; Amy Lawrence, Patti Kindia; Lyda Hollis, Marika Cook; Widder Douglas, Belinda Sanchez; The Preacher, Brett Emmons; Judge Thatcher, Eric Wylie; Hope Austin, Elizabeth Edmonson; Suzie Harper, Courtney Osgood; Sam Rogers, Louis Tirado; Faith Harper, Samina Wasinfuddin; Huck Finn, T.J. Lukachik; The Schoolmistress, Anne Brown; Doc Robinson, Stacy Skloss; Injun Joe, John Mallia; Muff Potter, Tasha Vanderzee; and The Constable, Bill Wyman.

Lady 'Dogs JV defeated

Junior Varsity team jumped to a 5-0 lead in game one while Viola McHorse served the ball. Floresville came back with strong serves and pulled ahead 5-11 before the JV team could score again. They lost in a two-game match, 8-15 and 4-15. JV stands 0-6 in district.

Freshman team lost, 6-15 and 5-15.

"The girls all played hard," said Coach Young." Even though they didn't have a winning season. We are going to have to get our heads together in the next couple of weeks because we will win in basketball!"

— Carlyn Pearson

Setting it straight

The names of Eva Dice, Lisa Farris, and Amy Calder were unintentionally omitted from the Lady Bulldog Freshman volleyball roster.

Lady 'Dogs varsity team defeated by Floresville

Christi Parker was the top server, and Ruth Mazurek played an outstanding game on defense. Parker and Ann Chafin, scoring on soft sets, played outstanding on offense.

The district tournament will be held Thursday, Oct. 17.

Commentary

After the last week of August and the first day of September the students realized the final days of summer were over. It is now that time of year when each of them has to learn to become students again.

Monday nights of cruising Main St. and Wednesday nights of going to San Antonio will have to wait until June. The students are now faced with more immediate activities like homework and cramming or not cramming for that killer test the next day. They now attend an 8:10 to 3:15 day, five days a week.

Students have tried every way possible to get out of class. And when they failed there was only one way out. Try again!

You can always hope for an assembly, pep rally, play or even a film so you can get your next class' homework finished. They think teachers are naive. The "famous excuses" (which really are not) are probably used year after year.

What this all boils down to is that those important weekends that really kept us going will have to wait. For some who will be graduating, it may be a long time. Let's all make the 1988-89 school year the best it can be.

TEAMS to be taken at Bandera High School

Bandera High School juniors and some seniors will take the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimal Skills, or TEAMS, Oct. 25 and 26, at the school.

"During the 1985-86 school year, the Texas Education Agency instituted the TEAMS program," said Ken Kling, administrative assistant with the BISD. "This program, mandated by House Bill 72, measures basic minimum skills in the areas of mathematics, reading and writing in grades 1,3,5,7,9 and in mathematics and English language arts in grades 11 and 12."

The test given to 11th and 12th graders is an exit level examination and both the mathematics and English language arts sections of the test must be passed by students before they are awarded a diploma.

"The TEAMS exit level test is administered at least twice each school year," said Kling. "For the October test administration, 11th graders will be tested for the first time and students who have previously not demonstrated mastery on both sections of the test will have the opportunity to retake the assessment instrument," Kling said.

BHS juniors and the seniors that need to take the tests will take the mathematics portion of TEAMS Tuesday, Oct. 25, and the English language arts portion on Wednesday, Oct. 26, at the Bandera High School.

Jellybean winner gets pizza, comes within 7 of actual number

Sophomore Lacey Fellows was the winner of a jellybean guessing contest sponsored by the BHS Speech and Theatre Arts classes Oct. 3-7.

The object of the contest was to guess how many jellybeans were in a sealed glass jar. Anyone who wished to participate was required to pay 50 cents.

Lacey won a large pizza from the OST Restaurant, for her guess of 650. The actual number of jellybeans in the jar was 657.

Ronny Clark placed second, and won a burger, fries and shake from Zeke's Restaurant.

Pride, self-esteem goals of 4-H group

What do youth who raise animals to show at the junior livestock show have in common with children raising their self-esteem to avoid later problems with substance abuse, dropping out and teenage pregnancy? The answer is 4-H.

Through a program called "It's Up To Me," developed by Texas 4-H, thousands of school children are studying topics such as "accepting yourself," "dealing with peer pressure," and "competing instead of comparing," this school year.

The 10-lessons and age-related activities were designed as a resource for teachers and youth workers to use in their classrooms and programs with children in grades 3 through 8.

Working cooperatively with the Texas Education Agency (TEA), the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has already distributed 1,200 of the teaching guides to school districts in Texas.

The focus on building self-esteem is nothing new to 4-H, an 80-year-old youth development program that's part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, an educational outreach arm of the Texas A&M University System.

"The techniques we've used have always worked. Our programs teach kids practical life skills through learning projects ranging from nutritious meal planning or consumer shopping skills, to computers and community service projects," said Tom Davison, assistant director for 4-H and youth.

"But the point of any project is to also give youngsters the opportunity to plan, accept personal responsibility and interact with responsible adults. All things that build their self-esteem and sense of worth," he said.

Awareness of the problems facing young people prompted a 35-member statewide group of 4-H volunteers, specialists and extension specialists to put together the teaching guide, said Dr. Judy Flynn.

Flynn, district extension director from Amarillo, has trained more than 350 counselors, school administrators, county extension agents and juvenile probation officers to use the teaching guide. "We felt one of the important things accomplished by the training was putting concerned youth workers from different organizations in touch with each other so they could plan for action in their counties," she said.

Donna Brauchi and Joe Van Zandt, extension agents in rural Gray County, helped develop the program and have trained 45 school teachers and numerous 4-H leaders in their county.

"People think growing up in rural areas is ideal," said Brauchi. "But every child at some time goes through a phase of low self-esteem and the kids here are just as likely to experience peer pressure and other problems as those who live in the cities," she said.

According to Harris County extension agent Sandra Farris, a unique element of the Houston area program is that 79 4-H Ambassadors, outstanding 11th and 12th grade 4-H members, have received the training and are now teaching some of the lessons and serving as role models for youngsters enrolled in after-school day care programs.

Youth to volley

Bandera Youth Center will be the site of volleyball and movies Saturday, Oct. 22, from 6-10 p.m. The evening will be sponsored by Bandera Optimist Club.

Volleyball play will begin with set up at 6 p.m., and when it gets too dark to continue the game, movies and refreshments will follow, according to Optimist Gail Stone.

Fear of being fat can spell teen trouble

Being svelte and attractive will perhaps always be a concern of teenaged girls and their college counterparts. But exaggerated concerns about body size and shape can cause malnutrition, dental problems, and impaired concentration and memory, according to the September issue of Texas Medicine.

These and other health problems can result from two eating disorders, anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa, where fear of being fat is the hallmark. These disorders "primarily affect adolescent's and young women. Only about one patient in 20 is male," according to author Dr. David A. Waller, Dallas.

In anorexia nervosa, the patient is at least 15 percent below the weight expected for persons of their age, sex, and height, yet they continue to consider themselves fat and are fearful of eating, states the article in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association. However, other illnesses also may cause the person to lose weight, such as a specific type of brain tumor or depression.

With bulimia nervosa, victims have recurrent episodes of binge eating followed by attempts to get rid of the food, usually by self-induced vomiting, writes Dr. Waller, Associate Professor, Department of Psychology and Director of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry, The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, Dallas.

Laxatives and diuretics also may be used to control weight. "It is as though they (persons with bulimia nervosa) were in the grips of an addiction; there is great distress and embarrassment at not being able to control the behavior," the article states.

Bulimia nervosa is difficult to diagnose because the person's weight remains relatively stable. "Physicians may screen for this syndrome, particularly in young women patients, much as one would screen for alcohol and/or other substance abuse behavior," writes Dr. Waller.

The article cautions there may be other reasons a person cannot keep food down, such as nausea or other gastrointestinal discomfort.

Dr. Waller concludes that the primary physician has an important role in early detection, diagnosis, and treatment of medical complications of anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa and that the road to recovery may be a difficult one.

Bandera loses dogfight with Brady

By Michael T. Goode
Pen & Pew Writer

It was dubbed by some the battle of the Bulldogs and by others the great dog fight, but no matter what it was called, Bandera's Bulldogs lost their second district game, 28-6, to Brady's Bulldogs Friday, Oct. 14.

Bandera came out strong and scored in its second possession on a 15-yard keeper by junior quarterback Scott Rogers with 4:18 left in the first quarter.

Frosh Chris Hensley kicked the extra point, substituting this night for his injured brother, junior Jeff Hensley.

The touchdown was set up by some aggressive defensive play by Chris Marrs and Leroy Brown. Marrs sacked Brady quarterback Colie Reno on successive downs, forcing Brady back to the Bandera 47 yard line to the Brady 25, both times with the aid of Brown.

That forced Head Hunter Michael Sillemon to punt on a fourth and 38 situation from the shadow of his own goal posts.

A nifty punt return set the stage for Rogers' scoring heroics that gave Bandera the lead, temporary as it was.

Brady came back quickly, going 64 yards in three plays to tie the score in 1½ minutes. The TD was set up by Michael Sieller on a 19-yard run and scored by Sillemon on a 39-yard scamper.

Brady put together successful drives of 61, 86, and 77 yards as its greater size and depth began to be obvious.

Bandera tried to get something to cheer about again with his outstanding punting. In the second quarter he booted a 59-yard boomer that went out of bounds on the Brady 4.

Karate students win titles in Louisiana

Bandera karate students Peggy Whitehead, 16, and 11-year-old Shannon Ohlenburger won championship trophies at the Louisiana State Championship tournament in Ruston, La. Saturday, Oct. 15.

Whitehead won first place in Kumite (sparring) in the women's colored-belt division.

Ohlenburger took first in Kata (form techniques) and also won a second place in Kumite for boys and girls 11-12 years old.

Sixteen-year-old Katie Holcomb took fourth in sparring in her division and Michael won fourth in Kata in his.

The two top girls have won first, second or third five times between them in three tournaments, says their instructor Toby Watson.

Watson, a third-degree black-belt teaches the martial art classes Monday and Wednesdays from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church school.

These Bandera martial arts students attended the Louisiana State Championship Karate tournament in Ruston, La. Saturday, Oct. 15. In back from the left, Katie Holcomb, fourth in sparring, Tina Dodd, participant, Shannon Ohlenburger, first in Kata and second in sparring, Peggy Whitehead, first in sparring and Michael Killinger fourth in Kata. David Lane, in front, participated.

Deer lease register still available from TPWD

Landowners who have not yet leased their properties for hunting this fall and wish to do so can be listed on the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Deer Lease Register.

The free listing is distributed to prospective lessors on a request basis, with the department acting only as a clearing-house for getting hunters and landowners in contact.

Officials also request that landowners listed in the register contact the department if their property has already been leased for the upcoming deer season, so their listing can be removed.

To list land or obtain the register, write Deer Lease Register, TPWD, 4200 Smith School Rad., Austin 78744, or call toll-free 1-800-792-1112.

Medina's homecoming this weekend

A parade, bonfire, coronation and dance are among the highlights of Medina's annual Homecoming celebration starting Thursday evening, Oct. 20 with a bonfire at the school at 8 p.m.

Homecoming coronation will begin Friday at 7 p.m., followed by a football game between Medina and the Uvalde junior varsity team.

After the football game, there will be a sock hop dance at the high school gymnasium.

"Bandera students and everyone else is invited to the homecoming dance after the football game," said Sandy Parker.

There will also be an after-game fellowship party at the bus-barn, starting immediately after the game.

Saturday's festivities will kick off with the PTO Carnival in the bus barn starting at 10 a.m. The carnival is scheduled to last until 4 p.m., and will include all types of booths, music, and a costume contest.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m., and will be followed immediately by a costume contest for kids through 12th grade.

Former students of Medina School will be honored at an open house at the school Saturday at 6:30 p.m. Special recognition will be given to graduates from 1979, 1969, and other years in 10-year increments from this year's graduating senior class.

Hinds was custodian and bus driver "on and off" at Medina schools for some 50 years, with his last stint from 1971 to 1986, when he retired.

Carl Wheeler was the superintendent of schools when Hinds began his work there, and Miss Jenny Kirkland was one of the early teachers. In the location of the present football stadium there was a farm, complete with cows, chickens, pigs and corn.

Each morning before daylight, Hinds recalls he was at the school filling the old wood stoves, keeping them filled throughout the day. He hauled water from the well for washing and drinking, and everyone brought their lunches.

Medina

By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

Michele and Randy Barker and baby Heath from Anchorage, Alaska, were guests of her parents, Charles and Medina Goodenough last week.

On Sunday they were honored with a dinner. Those present were Charlie and L.D. Moore; Bill and Laverne More; Bill, Tracey and Megan Moore all of Medina; Helen and Buddy Hicks of Austin; Bob Moore of Jacksonville, Fla., who was home from the Navy. John and Judy Goodenough of Bandera came in the afternoon.

The Barkers are en route from Ft. Richardson, Alaska, to Ft. Eustis, Va. where Randy will enter watercraft operator school.

Homecoming dance

There will be a dance immediately following the football game Friday night in the Medina High School gymnasium.

All ages are welcome to come listen and dance to music provided by Musicmaster from Magic 105 radio station of San Antonio.

Admission will be $2.50 per person and refreshments will be available from the junior class.

Hard soled shoes are not al owed on the gym floor, but tennis shoes or socks are acceptable, a spokesman said.

Spaghetti supper to benefit choir

The supper will be served in the Medina School cafeteria on Friday, Oct. 21, from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30. Tickets at the door will be $3 for adults and $2 for children. Advance tickets are 50 cents cheaper.

Zirkel reunion

The Otto Zirkel family reunion Saturday, Oct. 1 at the Rohlfs' 7-acres near Medina drew 75 family members.

Lula Zirkel Boezinger, 102½, was the oldest person present. She made a speech, thanking everyone for coming and urging everyone to be present again next year.

Raymond Zirkel, 88, also spoke, recalling the fact that three members of the family had died between the 1987 and 1988 reunions.

During the afternoon there was much visiting and some domino and horseshoe games. The children spent the afternoon riding horses and playing in the creek.

Youth recovering

Keith Mitchell, 11, of Medina is recovering from injuries and was expected to return to school Wednesday, according to a family spokesman.

Mitchell was injured when his bicycle collided with a car Monday, Oct. 10 on College Ave. (Stringtown Rd.) in Medina. He was transported to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville via EMS.

Apparently, Mitchell was riding his bike on the road at a "blind spot" when a car topped the hill. Both Mitchell and the car swerved in the same direction, and Mitchell received injuries including scrapes and abrasions to both knees and his forehead, a bruised rib, bruised kidney and a broken bone in his left foot.

Luckily, the driver was traveling slower than the speed limit, or about 29 MPH, according to Deputy Jim Kimbrell. The bike and rider made contact with the left corner of the fender.

Medina EMS personnel responding to the call included David Swit, Joyce James and Bob Keeling.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO:

Reynaldo O. Martinez, and the following persons who have been personally served in this tax suit, but are named in this Citation by Publication because they are defendants in this suit and the law requires that all defendants be named in the citation by publication whether they have been personally served or not; none; all of the stockholders, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and its attorney, of each and all of the corporate defendants enumerated above, all partners, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and to its attorney, of each and all of the defendants enumerated above, which are or were partnerships; all members, beneficiaries, and interest holders, all of whom are unknown to Plaintiff and to its attorney, of each and all of the defendants enumerated above, which are or were trusts, joint stock companies, or other unincorporated associations; all of such persons and their legal status, viz., whether incorporated or unincorporated, and if incorporated, whether in good standing or defunct, being unknown to Plaintiff and its attorney; if living, and if any or all of the above named defendants be dead, the unknown heirs of each or all of the said above named persons who may be dead, and the unknown heirs of the unknown heirs of said above named persons; and the unknown owner or owners of the hereinafter described land, and the executors, administrators, guardians, legal representatives, legatees, divisees, husbands and wives, of the above named persons, and any and all other persons including adverse claimants, owning or having or claiming any legal or equitable interest in or lien upon the following described property delinquent to Plaintiff herein, for taxes, all of said property being located in said County and State, to-wit: Tract 1: 12.0 Acres, more or less, James Priestly Survey 254, Abstract 299, Bandera County, Texas, as described in Volume 154, Page 936, Deed Records of said County, Texas. Tract 2: A parcel of land assessed as 31.10 Acres, F. Cruz Survey 254 ¼, Abstract 498, Bandera County, Texas, referred to in Volume 154, Page 936, Deed Records of said County, and described in an earlier conveyance to Adriana Obieda recorded in the County Deed Records.

Which said property is delinquent to Plaintiff for taxes in the following amount $1,200.41, exclusive of interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs, and there is included in this suit in addition to the taxes all said interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs thereon, allowed by law up to and including the day of judgment herein. You are hereby notified that suit has been brought by Bandera County, Plaintiff, against the above named persons, as Defendants, by petition filed on the 23rd day of April, 1987, in a certain suit styled BANDERA INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT VS. REYNALDO O. MARTINEZ, ET AL for collection of the taxes on said property and that said suit is now pending in the District Court of Bandera County, Texas, 216th Judicial District, and the file number of said suit is 4166, that the names of all taxing units which assess and collect taxes on the property hereinabove described, not made parties to this suit are: None.

Plaintiff and all other taxing units who may set up their tax claims herein seek recovery of delinquent ad valorem taxes on the property hereinabove described, and in addition to the taxes all interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs allowed by law thereon up to and including the day of judgment herein, and the establishment and foreclosure of liens, if any, securing the payment of same, as provided by law.

All parties to this suit, including Plaintiff, Defendants, and Intervenors, shall take notice that claims not only tax any taxes which were delinquent on said property at the time this suit was filed, but all taxes becoming delinquent thereon at any time thereafter up to the day of judgment, including all interest, penalties, attorney fees and costs allowed by law thereon, may upon request therefor, be recovered herein without further citation or notice to any parties herein, and all said parties shall take notice of and plead and answer to all claims and pleadings now on file and which may hereafter be filed in said cause by all other parties herein, and all of those taxing units above named who may intervene herein and set up their respective tax claims against said property.

You are hereby commanded to appear and defend such suit on the first Monday after the expiration of forty two (42) days from and after the date of issuance hereof, the same being the 14th day of November, A.D., 1988, (which is the return day of such citation), before the honorable District Court of Bandera County, Texas, to be held at the Courthouse thereof, then and there to show cause why judgment shall not be rendered for such taxes, interests, penalties, attorney fees and costs, and condemning said property and ordering foreclosure of the constitutional and statutory tax liens thereon for taxes due the Plaintiff and the taxing units parties hereto and those who may intervene herein, together with all interest, penalties and attorney fees allowed by law up to and including the day judgment herein, and all costs of this suit.

Panthers nip Bobcats 28-27

By Larry T. Williams
Staff writer

In spite of a 21-point Bobcat halftime lead, Medina fell to the Nueces Canyon Panthers, 28-27, Friday night in their second District 29-A game of the season.

Panther running back Roland Hernandez rushed for 199 yards on 24 carries and scored two TDs in a game that was all Medina in the first half and all Nueces Canyon the final 24 minutes.

The Bobcats took advantage of four interceptions to score three touchdowns in their half of the game, one by Tim Green and the other three by Josh Turpin. Turpin has a total of six aerial thefts for the season.

After stopping N.C.'s offense, the Cats again drove through the Panthers for a touchdown. With 27 ticks left on the clock, Green turned an option keeper up field and boogied 37 yards for the second Bobcat score. Keiser's toe found the mark and Medina led 14-0.

Turpin snatched two more Panther passes in the second period and also grabbed a 31-yard fling from Green for the Cat's third TD with six minutes left in the half. Keiser's boot was good and the halftime score board read Medina 21, Nueces Canyon 0.

A charged-up Panther team began to erase the Bobcat lead when Hernandez scored from the one after a sustained drive ate up nearly four minutes of the third quarter. A two-point conversion narrowed the margin even more.

The Panthers scored again with four minutes left in the same period and then added six more points to narrow the Bobcat lead to one at the top of the final 12 minutes on a 15-yard pass to Ignacio Sanchez.

With five minutes left to play, Hernandez put the Panthers on top with an 11-yard run for the score. A two-point pass play to Massey iced the game.

Medina had a chance for the win after Green scored on a two-yard keeper with a minute to go, but the two-point attempt after a fake kick was intercepted in the end zone. The Panthers fell on the ball for the final seconds and the score remained 28-27.

Medina will host the Uvalde junior varsity for homecoming on Friday, Oct. 21. Homecoming festivities will begin at 7 p.m. in the stadium with game time at 8 p.m.

Equestrian grand prix planned in San Antonio December 8-11

A Christmas horse show will be held Dec. 8-11 at Twin Oaks Exposition Center in San Antonio to benefit the U.S. modern pentathlon team.

A $25,000 grand prix will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 10, with the average cost of horses negotiating the difficult course estimated at $100,000, says Linda Palmer of Pipe Creek, a member of the show committee.

Tables for viewing the show will be sold for $300 each, Palmer says, and program ads and class sponsorships ranging in price from $5,000 to $100 are also available. Program advertising ranges in cost from $35 to $175, Palmer said.

The Twin Oaks Exposition Center is home of the pentathlon horses. The facility is headed by two-time bronze medalist and hall-of-famer Col. John Russell.

Bandera Bulletin

1988 Bandera Bulletin

Our 45th Year, No. 16 | Thursday, October 27, 1988 | Twenty-five cents

The emotions of the moment are clear on the face of Linda Weichlein Burrow, right, as her daughter, kindergartener Holly Weichlein, is loaded into a Bandera County EMS ambulance by technician Ginny Brient Tuesday afternoon. Weichlein and three women were injured in a four-car smash-up just south of Bandera on State Highway 173. Valerie Humphries, 20, of Bandera was transported to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital by EMS. Burrow, Weichlein, and Barbara Doyle were transported to Clear Fork Medical Center for stabilization. Weichlein had possible spinal injuries and Borrow suffered injuries to her eye socket and orbit, according to Dr. Royce McAnally. Humphries, Weichlein and Burrow were all admitted to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital. They are going to be okay, Dr. McAnally said. The driver of the fourth car, Erna Flach, was not injured, according to preliminary reports from DPS trooper Nolan Metz.

Absentee voting totals here at all-time record level

Some 259 absentee voters had appeared in the Bandera County clerk's office and cast their vote by the close of business Tuesday, Oct. 25. Absentee voting is at an all-time high at the end of the fifth day of absentee voting.

In the March primary, 230 voted absentee during the period between Feb. 17 and March 4. In the general election in 1984, there were a total of 431 absentee voters. Some of that number voted by mail, according to King.

King said Tuesday that 83 of the 165 ballots mailed out have already been returned, and 82 have not been returned.

Wednesday, Oct. 19, the first day to vote absentee, the clerk counted 49 voters, and Thursday, Oct. 20, 50 appeared. Some 51 voted Friday, bringing last week's three-day total to 150.

Monday, Oct. 24, the clerk reports 62 came into the office to vote, and Tuesday, 47 appeared. This 259 total, added to 165 ballots mailed out, totals 424.

"We will have to rethink our election procedures for the future," said King. "If we have this many voting absentee, there may not be as many at the polls Nov. 8."

Absentee voting will continue through Friday, Nov. 4.

Any registered voter in Bandera County may vote absentee in person on weekdays from Oct. 19 through Nov. 4 at the Bandera County Clerk's office in the courthouse between the hours of 8 a.m. and noon and 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Absentee voting by mail

To be eligible to vote by mail, a person must be a registered voter of Bandera County and

- Over 65 years of age, or
- Unable to vote on election day because of disabilities, religious reasons, incarceration, or out-of-the-county on election day AND during the absentee walk-in voting period Oct. 9-Nov. 4.

Veteran game warden predicts good hunting season

Veteran game warden Carl Becker says 1988 is shaping up as an excellent year in Bandera County for deer hunters because a good acorn crop is providing bountiful feed for whitetail deer.

The acorns come just in time to provide nourishment for the deer who had been suffering because the summer's lack of moisture that has depleted vegetation in pastures, Becker says.

Becker will be enforcing game laws in Bandera County this year for the 27th year in a row and he says the biggest change in hunting over the years has been the number of hunters participating.

"The (annual) Hunters Barbecue once had an attendance of 100 to 125 or 150 people," he recalls. "Now it's in the thousands." The Hunters Barbecue is a dinner thrown for visiting hunters by the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce on the eve of the opening of hunting season. The 1988 edition will be on Nov. 4 at Mansfield Park.

Becker said deer currently are not coming to feeders in large numbers because of the ample crop of acorns. "They prefer acorns to corn," he said. But he said he expected the deer to be in good physical condition by the time hunting season opens in Bandera County (Nov. 5) because of the abundance of acorns.

"Oat fields may be good hunting (sites) because of the depletion of vegetation in the pastures," he said.

Though there are few changes in game regulations this year, the differing dates of seasons in Bandera County and neighboring counties of Medina and Uvalde may cause some confusion, Becker fears.

He said the exact location of the county lines are unknown on some ranches, but hunters who use "good judgement" won't be penalized because of the obscure borders.

The season opens on Nov. 5 in Bandera County and closes on Jan. 1. The season in Medina and Uvalde counties opens on Nov. 12 and runs through Jan. 8 and these two counties have a special antlerless-only deer season Jan. 4 through Jan. 29.

That means that on some ranches or leases that straddle county lines, the seasons will differ at various points on the property. "If they (hunters) use good judgement, I will work with them all the way," Becker said.

He urged all hunters to pay particular attention to the proper tagging of slain deer. "Tag it immediately (after killing it) and put the county in which it was killed on the tag," he urged.

He said it is permissible to possess a deer killed in Bandera County in Medina or Uvalde counties, though the season is still closed in those counties, if it was killed and tagged legally.

The bag limits in all area counties are identical and unchanged from last year. Hunters will be allowed to possess four deer per person as long as only two bucks are among them, Becker said.

He said hunters in Bandera County do not violate the law as often as they once did, though there are more hunters in the field. He attributes this to a variety of factors, including better hunter education.

He also said that stiffer penalties for violations ($500 each), a get-tough attitude among justices of the peace, and heightened "game consciousness" among ranchers have contributed to the fewer violations.

"Ranchers are my eyes and ears, and they help suppress violations in the county," Becker said.

He has called Bandera County's four justices of the peace "the best in the state of Texas" for their cooperation in leveling stiff fines against violators.

He said the increase of game violation fines to $500 per incident has also helped.

Bandera community uniting behind red-ribbon anti-drug campaign

By Joana Sandidge
Staff Writer

Many Bandera students and citizens are wearing red ribbons this week as a symbol that they are not only involved but committed in the ongoing war against drugs in Bandera County.

Red Ribbon Week in Bandera is a way for kids in the student assistance program to take a stand against drugs, according to Bill Buchell, counselor with the Student Assistance Program (SAP).

"Our students in Bandera are only reacting to the example being set," said Buchell. "Our main goal (with this campaign) is to make a visible commitment and to create community awareness."

Bandera County commissioners and Bandera Mayor Raymond Adamietz signed proclamations declaring the week of Oct. 25-30 as "Red Ribbon Week" to promote drug abuse awareness in Bandera and Bandera County. The proclamations ask, "business, government, law enforcement, schools, religious institutions, service organizations, youth, medical, senior citizens, military, sports teams, and individuals (to) demonstrate their commitment to drug free, healthy lifestyles by wearing and displaying red ribbons during this week long campaign."

Other groups that have become involved in the Red Ribbon campaign include Southwestern Bell Telephone Company through spokesman Gary Brittain.

The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth and the Drug Free Youth of America are coordinating the grass roots effort to get the last full week in October as a drug-free week nationwide.

This year's campaign slogan is "The Choice is Me, Drug Free."

The Red Ribbon Campaign originated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. The Red Ribbon became the symbol to reduce the demand for drugs, just as the yellow ribbon symbolized the hostages in Iran. The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth assumed the leadership role in the organization of the first National Red Ribbon Campaign.

Buchell and Brittain were instrumental in getting Red Ribbon Week off the ground in Bandera, according to school superintendent Ted Dockery.

"We do a lot at the school to try and educate, and to prevent (drug abuse)," Dockery said. "But we need more involvement from the community and from parents."

Dockery and Buchell both said the red ribbon campaign is a way to let the students and young people know that the community is aware of the problem and that they care.

School officials must be constantly on the alert to keep drugs off campus, according to Dockery. One method they have employed is the use of drug-sniffing dogs. The school has been using the dogs for three years now, and their unannounced visit comes monthly.

"I believe it does some good," Dockery said. "The dogs have alerted on some students in the past."

"I think the students are aware, and they understand what the dogs can do. The main purpose of it is to keep the drugs off campus," he said.

What happens after the dogs "alert" depends on what is actually found, Dockery said. No students have been expelled, but several have been suspended and sent to "alternative school."

Charles Graves said the drug problem in the schools has gotten continually worse in the nine years he has been Bandera schools counselor. Alcohol and marijuana are widely accepted, according to Graves, and even students that have been in treatment for substance abuse can come right back in the community to find drugs and alcohol readily available to them.

"The community is in the denial phase," said Buchell. It's easier to face if you deny there is a problem.

Community education and support help to break down denial, according to the expert, but as long as alcohol is easily accessible and marijuana is socially acceptable, then will continue to be a problem, he said.

"Kids continue to get the message that it's all right to get sloppy drunk on the weekend," said Buchell. "They are reacting to a community that says that type of behavior is okay."

Just wearing red ribbons isn't enough to solve the problem, according to pence justice Tom Grant. Parents and other adults must take more responsibility, Grant said. Citizens should take action rather than remaining silent when they become aware of drug traffic and people "pushing drugs."

"Nothing is going to help until we take a stand against these people," Grant said.

Wednesday, the four school districts joined in a Red Ribbon Pep Rally in Kerrville. Suzanne Young, youth coordinator for Texans War on Drugs, spoke to the group, and a balloon release, marching, pep rally, cheerleaders, and a skit also highlighted the event.

Thursday, student leaders will tie red ribbons on cars, and the junior high football team will run through a "Red Ribbon" banner at their game Thursday night. Red Ribbon Week poster contest entries are due at the high school office before 3:15 p.m. Poster contest winners will be announced Friday.

Friday, BHS students plan to perform a skit during the pep rally, and Saturday student leaders hope to still be tying ribbons all over town.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 28-30 is Red Ribbon Sports Weekend.

County considering 911 phone system

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners Monday approved preliminary investigation of the 911 emergency telephone system in Bandera County.

The system may cost telephone rate payers an additional 50 cents a month, but may improve the county's emergency calling procedure.

In other action at the Oct. 24 meeting, commissioners discussed the rodeo arena and low-income housing grants. Commissioners also tabled any action on replacing W. B. Kirkpatrick as their appointee to the Bandera County Appraisal District.

Commissioners also affirmed the minimum lot size requirements for septic tanks. Commissioners also considered changing the county van policy, but tabled any action until the next meeting.

Commissioners took the first step towards a 911 emergency phone system in the county Monday by agreeing to be a part of the planning phase with other surrounding counties. The system

Who's the real wimp? Who's soft on [illegible] man, a man's man?

Who does 1,000 sit-ups before breakfast, Bush or Dukakis? Which candidate is not afraid to sit with Arlo Guthrie on the Group W bench?

You may have heard that the Democrats finally counterattacked the Bush campaign's claim that the Massachusetts prison furlough program was soft on crime.

The Democrats have for the most part stayed away from the "arms for terrorists" and "drugs from Noriega" issues. Now they have decided to see if the "racism" label will stick to Bush.

The Democrats are being more than a little sensitive on the furlough issue. This is not the first campaign in which nasty charges have been made.

As Bush noted in the last debate, the Democrats started it in Atlanta; especially, as Bush put it, "that woman (hand gestures indicating hairdo unacceptable to New England Republicans) from Texas."

Some facts may help answer the question: Who's soft on crime?

First, law enforcement is not primarily a federal responsibility. In fact, criminal justice is one of the few areas left in which state and local authority has not shifted to Washington, D.C. over the past 50 years.

Most of the laws against crime are still state laws, and most law enforcement personnel are still local officials.

Second, everything short of the kitchen sink and bathtub has been thrown at crime over the past 20 years. Increased numbers, salaries and training of police. Court reform and mandatory sentences. Police department reorganizations, intensive enforcement campaigns, and community relations programs. Tougher laws on crimes involving drugs and guns. New prisons, packed to the rafters, and trying everything from behavior mod to 23-hour lock-up to furlough. Executions.

None of it worked.

Maybe things would be worse without all those policies. No one cay say otherwise. But crime, and the poor, are still with us.

Most violent crime involves people known to one another, and cannot be reached before the fact. The rest of violent crime, that by strangers, is still increasing despite all best efforts.

So how should we "solve the crime problem?" Simple, you knew it already, and Bush and Dukakis should know better.

Good families, good neighborhoods, good churches, good schools and, most important, good jobs.

Letterwriter reminds readers stray dogs can be dangerous

Dear editor:

Reading the letters of the past two weeks about the stray animal controversy reminded me of something that happened to our family here in the summer of 1958. My grandmother, Nonie Anderwald, had just passed away and her sister, whom we fondly called "Auntie," was visiting here doing what she loved to do, cooking up a storm in the kitchen and taking care of everyone. One evening we all sat down to dinner and, upon tasting the black-eyed peas, we all agreed that they tasted terrible, very bitter. That was an insult to Auntie, for she took great pride in her cooking. Luckily, none of us ate any of the peas. After dinner my Grandpa, Tom Anderwald, threw the whole pot of peas out down the hill.

The next morning Grandpa's dog was very sick and he quickly hauled him to the vet, who advised him that the dog was poisoned, probably with strychnine.

Things began to add up in Grandpa's mind. Upon returning home, he asked Auntie what she had put in the peas. She answered salt, pepper, and some small packages of salt pork she had found in the freezer. Then Grandpa knew! The packages of salt pork were some he had laced with strychnine to put out in the pasture to poison stray dogs that had been killing his sheep. Our aunt, who had lived all her life in the city, never dreamed some people in the country kept poisoned meat in their freezer. And evidently the poor dog had eaten some of the discarded peas —— but at least we were all still alive!

I can just see the headlines (that may have been in) the Bandera Bulletin for that week in 1958: "Local Family Poisoned by Meat Meant for Sheep-Killing Dogs." We can laugh about it now, but back then it scared the stuffing out of all of us, just thinking about what might have happened.

Seriously, leash laws must be obeyed and ranchers must protect their source of income. I understand both sides of the controversy, and also a third side, the one that backfired on us.

letters

Dear editor:

In response to the article in the October 20 Bulletin, on the Red Ribbon campaign.

We would like to give our support in the Red Ribbon campaign. We need to do something to stop drugs.

We are encouraging businesses, families, and others to make a stand for a drug-free world. This is a perfect opportunity for the youth to take their stand and fight for a drug-free community.

Dear editor:

Let's pull together

Dear editor:

Monday night, Oct. 17, commissioner's court conducted a public meeting to discuss opportunities for economic growth in Bandera County. Specific discussion for this meeting was the covering of the rodeo arena at Mansfield Park through the use of grant monies available from state and federal funding.

A cover would make the arena an all-purpose facility usable for a large variety of functions. The advantages realized by the county and private businesses within the area are too numerous to mention here, and the real bonus is that there will be little or no costs to the county or taxpayers.

The meeting was attended by Joe McMullan, economic development committee, members of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce, several members of the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association, and County Judge Ray Mauer. Not one of our county commissioners saw fit to attend this very important meeting. However, Roger Raser, commissioners candidate for Pct. 3 was interested enough to attend and serve on the committee.

A committee was formed to study the project and prepare a presentation to the State Funding Office by Dec. 15. I would urge every business man and woman to lend their support to this project as it will be a tremendous boost to the economic status of the County.

And we are not limited to this one project, either. As we develop other ideas for additional growth, we can apply again for more grant funds. All we need to provide is the interest and the effort.

How much easier can it get?

Again I would like to urge everyone, including our commissioners, to get behind this committee and lend their support to accomplish this project.

More coverage

Dear editor:

At the last meeting of the Bandera Bulldogs Athletic Boosters Club, it was agreed we write you a letter concerning the lack of coverage of Bandera High School and Junior High School sports events.

Many readers of your paper (not just players' parents) rely on the Bulletin for information concerning school sports and over the past few years we have been sorely disappointed. Little or no coverage of Bandera football games has been the norm this year and we would like to know why.

The Bandera-Llano varsity game was not mentioned in the Bulletin at all — not even the score. Several parents called to complain about this fact, and one parent was told that there would be a write-up on the Llano game the following week. There was no write-up the following week — why? We realize that Llano is a long way from Bandera, but there are game films available for viewing and coaches available for interviews.

The pictures on the Bulldog Scrapbook page are great, but, that page is paid for by many loyal Bulldog supporters. The Pen 'n Paw cannot be expected to cover everything concerning the school in the amount of space they are given.

There has been a steady decline in school and community spirit recently and we feel our students need to know the community cares about them and is interested in their endeavors. Our main concern at this point is school sports, but in discussing this with many people, we find concern over the lack of coverage of all community events. We would appreciate your efforts to provide more complete coverage of any/all school related activities.

We feel our children and their activities are of major interest to this community!

Lissie Schneider, President
Bandera Bulldog Athletic Boosters

Reserves cost $600

Dear editor:

Because I have been questioned so often this week about the county's cost for reserve deputies in the Sheriff's Department, I have researched records and find that it costs between $500 and $600 per year per reserve deputy. This figure covers the cost of the bond, liability insurance, and workers' compensation coverage. Additional expenses are involved when a reserve deputy uses a county-owned vehicle or other equipment and supplies while performing volunteer law enforcement duties under the direction of the Sheriff's Department.

Bandera County has been advised that the cost of workers' compensation coverage will increase in 1989, but new rates with which to figure the actual cost are not available at this time. Although the sheriff's reserve deputies are not paid a salary, and are considered volunteers, the county pays for insurance coverage on them as it does for the volunteers in the emergency medical service.

Elizabeth James
Bandera County Treasurer

A plea for James

Dear editor:

I have heard that there has been discussion of whom to retain from the present positions in the sheriff's office.

I would like to make an appeal for Deputy James MacMillan. As almost everyone knows, our family recently suffered a tragic loss. Deputy MacMillan was the first official to arrive and put forth a tremendous effort. In the days following, it seemed whenever help was needed, Deputy MacMillan was there. And, no, he wasn't a close friend where this could have been expected. I respectfully submit to both candidates that Bandera Co. cannot afford to lose a person with Deputy MacMillan's

Your faithful columnist attended the annual Gridiron Show of the Austin chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, this Saturday to pick up some jokes about Dan Quayle, Ann Richards, Ronald Reagan and even staid, colorless Lloyd Bentsen.

The show is put on by Capital City journalists to raise funds for journalism scholarships and to fight legal battles keeping meetings open and information free.

The journalists take verbal jabs, mostly at politicians, in music and skit, and the result is a terribly entertaining evening that well nigh fills the beautiful Performing Arts Center in Austin.

Almost no one is spared in the songs and witty stories that make up the show, least of all, of course, young J. Danforth Quayle of Indiana. He was portrayed singing, to the tune of "Back Home in Indiana," these poignant words:

"I spent the war in Indiana,
Getting shot was not for me...."

Lloyd Bentsen was there in the person of a lanky journalist who intoned, in an excellent imitation of the senior senator, "It's good to be back in Texas where you can have breakfast with anyone you wish to."

Ann Richards was there in her Keynote Address finery singing (to the tune of "I Could Have Danced All Night"), "I could have talked all night, I could have talked all night, and still debated more."

The program is a tongue-in-cheek newspaper published by the Austin American Statesman and full of gags, mostly also lampooning political creatures.

Nancy Reagan was shown contemplating the time in January when she will become "one of the homeless wandering the nation's back alleys."

Gov. Mike Dukakis is shown delivering a speech standing on a pillow the program said was designed by John Tower. And Barbara Bush is shown in a snapshot with her thumb pointing down in a defiant gesture the program says is her answer to Sen. Edward Kennedy's question, "Where was George?"

This column by quoting has knocked around some who may be your favorites, but (in the words of the program) "please remember that this is all in good clean fun, for a very good cause."

No more trust

Dear editor:

In reference to your letter from "Guilty Before Proven" and "How Many Mistakes?": You're guilty regardless.

When I first moved to Bandera, I was constantly harassed by one particular police officer. I never changed my route home, and one day he stopped me and said I had run a stop sign. I told him I had not. He promptly handed me a ticket and said "Take it up with the judge." Which I did.

The judge claimed I was guilty because, as he put it, the officer was an employee of the city of Bandera and in so many words he claimed the officer had no reason to lie!

I made several attempts to seek legal counsel to represent me in the matter and all my attempts were of no avail. The only advice I got was to pay the ticket, that I could not fight a ticket in the city of Bandera, or that I couldn't fight the "Good Ole Boys System in Bandera."

Since then I have no trust in the law enforcement here and certainly not in the courts of Bandera.

Surplus commodities program halted

The distribution of government surplus commodities to low-income families will be halted, but may resume in January.

Due to the cut back at the federal level, there will be no more surplus commodities until further notice, says Comellia Rue, [illegible] for the Community Council of South Central Texas. The program will possibly resume in January.

The program has served approximately 600 individuals per month that meet the income guidelines, says Rue.

We hope that in January we can distribute more items, says Rue.

Distribution points have been at the First Baptist Church in Bandera, the American Legion Hall in Lakehills and the Garden Club in Medina.

Appraisal board budget to be considered anew

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The Bandera County Appraisal District Board will hold a budget workshop Tuesday, Nov. 1, starting at 5 p.m. to consider the appraisal district's 1989 budget that has been rejected twice by the financing taxing authorities.

The district's $196,950 proposed 1989 budget has been voted down twice by the taxing entities that support the district and use its services. The appraisal district resubmitted the budget for the second time after their Sept. 23 meeting.

The meeting Nov. 1 will begin at 5 p.m. in the chief appraiser's office with only one item on the agenda, "Budget Workshop."

In a letter to taxing entities, the appraisal district invited taxing entities in the district to come and give their input. In the letter, chief appraiser Larry Reagan said, "The board will consider any input you (taxing entities) may have regarding the 1989 appraisal district budget."

The taxing entities that can vote on the budget are Bandera County, Bandera Independent School District, the City of Bandera, Medina Independent School District, and Utopia Independent School District.

Bandera County Commissioners started the ball rolling downhill when they rejected the budget at their meeting Oct. 10. Commissioners took exception only to the chief appraiser's salary of $34,740, which commissioners believed should go back to the 1988 amount. "The $30,000 salary and $3,000 travel expense for Reagan will be all right," said Mauer.

"The $1,740 more (he's to receive in the proposed budget) is what we're opposed to," said Commissioner Dan Alanis.

The Bandera city council members unanimously rejected the appraisal district's budget Oct. 10.

The Bandera Independent School District board of trustees rejected the budget Oct. 11, expressing concern over salaries, per diem for the appraisal review board members, and mileage expenses for the appraisers.

The appraisal district's budget contains $6,000 to pay the appraisal review board members $40 per day plus mileage and meals for their time reviewing protested appraisals. The field appraisers are to be paid a $250 per month travel expense from the $6,000 allocated in the proposed budget.

Salaries for employees other than Reagan range from $12,780 a year for abstractor and field appraiser, $13,440 for the data processor, and $20,160 for the administrator of appraisal services.

The average appraiser's salary ranges from $17,590 for starting appraisers and $22,598 for highly trained appraisers, says Reagan in documentation submitted to the taxing entities comparing the district's budget and employee salaries to surrounding counties. Uvalde county's district has a salary range of $12,979 to $19,950 for its four appraisers.

Cholesterol screening planned at bank

A cholesterol screening clinic will be conducted Friday, Nov. 4, at the First State Bank in Bandera between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. by the Hill Country Memorial Hospital in Fredericksburg.

A similar clinic was conducted here in July and the heavy response to that event led hospital officials to make a few changes to reduce waiting time, says hospital spokesman Jeanette Tilley, registered nurse.

She said appointments will be available this time by calling the First State Bank at 796-3014 and talking to Brenda Smith or Opal Word. "We'll take walk-ins, but appointments are preferred to cut down on waiting," said Tilley.

Council members eye $10,000 lawyer's bill

City council members [illegible] sing concern this week over a [illegible] bill for two months of service from the city's law firm, Hollon, Marion and Richards of Boerne.

Randall Richards, a partner in the Boerne law firm and the attorney that generally represents the firm in its dealing with the city of Bandera, wrote a cover letter to accompany the bill in which he tried to explain the size of the bill.

"I would emphasize that your expense for legal fees is directly correlated to the number of assignments undertaken by the firm on your behalf," he said.

"By careful consideration of which matters should be referred to counsel (the law firm), your legal expense may be more closely anticipated," he said.

Councilman Joe Fox, for one, certainly didn't anticipate a bill of $10,000 "when the city's broke," he said. The council two weeks ago, in a hastily-called midnight meeting, borrowed $10,000 from its own water department to pay current bills, which did not include the $10,000 statement from the law firm.

"This bill not only raised eyebrows (among council members) but is a matter of great concern," Fox said.

Richards pointed out in his cover letter that lawyers from the law firm "spent considerable time in the last several months in the matters involving the Federal Emergency Management Agency and its proposed revision of the floodplain map for the city of Bandera and in the review of the code of ordinances presently being considered by the city council."

Fully 19 pages of what Richards called "specific itemization of the legal services performed...and the hours incurred" accompanied the cover letter.

The largest item in the itemized list of services rendered is $750 for 7½ hours (@ $100 per hour) during which time Richards traveled to Bandera and attended a city council meeting on Sept. 12. It includes a conference with Robert D. Magnussen on "disqualification of council member" and phone conversations with Carl Shahady of the Texas Municipal League and Sheri B. Asbell on a proposed revision of the parks ordinance.

Magnussen and Asbell are also attorneys with Hollon, Marion and Richards of Boerne.

Other major items on the statement include $637 worth of research (7½ hours) by Asbell Sept. 13 on building permits and drafting a letter appealing FEMA floodplain data and $446 on Sept. 14 when she completed the letter, [illegible] for a conference with Mayor Raymond Adamietz, a [illegible] attendance at council meeting on Aug. 8.

Of particular concern to Fox, at least, are informal conferences among lawyers in the firm at a cost of $21 to $446 each. For example, Richards visited with Asbell and Magnussen on Aug. 2 to discuss proposed ordinances at a cost to the city of $75. Later in the day, Richards met alone with Magnussen on one of the ordinances ($21) and worked with Asbell alone on the others ($234).

In all, attorneys of the firm charged the city $3,124 for 25 meetings among themselves during the two-month period, the statement shows.

One of the meetings was between Richards and another principal of the firm, Gordon L. Hollon, on Sept. 19 on the subject of contact the firm had had with U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith on the Bandera FEMA floodplain study.

One item listed "attempted to contact L. (Linda) Stein" as among the items the city was charged $625 to complete on Aug. 8. Many others were phone consultations with Mayor Adamietz or city secretary Ella Mae Sandidge.

The city's agreement with the firm calls for payment of a monthly $500 retainer, or minimum fee, that will be used to pay for the first $500 of legal services used by the city.

Legal services are billed out at various rates depending on who is involved. The usual hourly charge in the statement rendered Oct. 7 was $100 when Richards was involved and $85 when Magnussen or Asbell was rendering the services.

An addendum to the main bill contained additional charges of $510 and $595 for services rendered to municipal court for the two months. Credit of $500 each was given on these bills for two $500 retainer fees.

Sheep women to meet

The Hill Country Chapter of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Texas Sheep and Goat Raiser's Association will meet Monday, Oct. 31, at the Turtle Creek School House, one mile off Highway 16 on FM Rd. 1273 between Kerrville and Medina.

Social hour will begin at 10 a.m. followed by the business meeting and program on rights of landowners will be presented by Arthur W. Nagel of Boerne.

Waldean Groff will report on the Fall Fashion Show. Marje Nicholson, president, will preside at the meeting. A salad luncheon will be served at noon.

County

would be similar to that used in Bexar county.

Under the 911 system, a person would dial 911 from any phone in the county and be routed to the emergency headquarters in Bandera County, this would most likely be the sheriff's dispatcher.

When the call is answered, the caller's telephone number is displayed to the 911 dispatcher while he talks to the caller, so he can verify the location of the caller from a cross reference map. This is especially important when a child who is excited call's and doesn't give all the information to the dispatcher before the child hangs up, says County Judge Ray Mauer.

Funds from the county budget will not be needed to pay for the 911 system, but the telephone rate payers of the county will have up to 50 cents added to their phone bill a month to pay for the service if the county adopts the system. There will also be a half-of-one percent increase in the rate charged for intrastate calls if the 911 system is finally approved.

The state will require all counties with 120,000 population or more to have the 911 system, starting next year. The aim of the house bill that plans, finances and implements the emergency system is to get the 911 system state-wide, says Mauer. The system is not mandatory for Bandera County.

The system is being proposed for 12 surrounding counties. All counties have agreed to get into the planning stages, Mauer said.

In other action, commissioners heard a preliminary report on a proposed roof for the Mansfield Park rodeo arena. Because the current arena is in the 100-year flood plain, a totally new facility may have to be built on the hill between the barn and the outside pavilion.

Grants to make the arena a multi-purpose facility would come from the state and federal Economic Development Fund. The county or another source working through the county may have to match some of the funds to get the project approved.

In related action, commissioners approved the application for low-income housing rehabilitation grant, leaving the judge and the grant consultant, Joyce Wallis, to find the best level of funding that will give the county the best chance of getting the grant. The grant amount will probably be in the $175,000 to $200,000 range. The higher the funding request is made, the least likely it is to have a grant approved.

Funds for the state and federal grant will come from the Community Development Fund from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The county will not have to contribute any matching funds.

Commissioners took no action on a letter from Virginia G. Gibson and John T. Halliday asking for the removal of W. H. Kirkpatrick from the Bandera County Appraisal District board. During as support a petition of almost 300 signatures turned in at the Oct. 10 commissioners meeting. Gibson and Halliday said, "He (Kirkpatrick) is not responsive to the responsibilities of the job or to the (commissioners) court."

Louis Karr, Gilbert Scheele, and Norma Gray were recommended by Gibson and Halliday as possible replacements for Kirkpatrick.

Commissioners decided to wait on any decision to replace Kirkpatrick until after the Nov. 1 appraisal district board budget workshop meeting.

In other action, commissioners reaffirmed their decision to deny septic tank permits on lots less than 10,000 square feet in River Bend Estates. "If we do one exception, we'll have a whole stream (of exceptions) coming in," says commissioner Dan Alanis.

The county currently requires that in a subdivision, lots must be a minimum of 20,000 square feet to have a septic tank if a well is used as the water source. For a lot that gets its water from a centralized water system, the county requires a 15,000 square foot minimum lot size.

River Bend Estates is allowed to have a 10,000 square foot minimum because of a district court ruling in 1985.

Commissioners tabled revision of county policy on use of the two county vans until their next meeting. The two vans are available for non-profit county organizations and government entities to use in their activities. However, the vans sometimes come back with scrapes and dents on the side, says Mauer.

The commissioners and county judge expressed concern over credentials and abilities of the van drivers. The judge will draw up recommendations on a new policy for the next commissioners meeting.

Commissioners cancelled the Altamira Hills subdivision, thereby finalizing the action of their Oct. 10 meeting. The current roads leading to property owners' land will be given to them as an easement. The property owners will be responsible to maintain the roads rather than the county.

Helen Hansen was approved as a deputy treasurer and Carol Callahan was approved as a deputy clerk by commissioners.

Workers struggle to free Ann Rinehart from wreckage.

Accident near Pipe Creek injures two persons

Ann Rinehart and her grandchild were injured in a one-car accident in Pipe Creek Thursday, Oct. 20.

According to reports, three Pipe Creek men pulled the metal away from Rinehart, who was trapped in the vehicle. Firefighter Allan Meyer and local wrecker drivers Bennie Honaker and Phil Martin assisted in the efforts to free the 70-year-old woman from the wreckage.

It took a reported 40 minutes to free Rinehart.

"It would have taken a lot longer without the help of the three men," said EMT Tom Cavin. "We had our hands full with the patient, much less trying to extricate her out of the car with it smashed up around her."

Rinehart and the infant were transported to Methodist Hospital in San Antonio.

Spooks in Castroville

The St. Louis Child Development Center in Castroville is hosting a Halloween Carnival on Saturday, Oct. 29, from 6-8:30 p.m. at Koenig Park.

7 burglaries reported here this week

By Donna Sandidge
Staff Writer

Seven burglaries and thefts were reported by the Bandera County sheriff's office in the past week.

John Thomason reported Thursday, Oct. 20 the hasp had been pried off his barn door, and a vehicle stolen from inside. Some time later, the vehicle was spotted near Tarpley, and officers arrested Tommie Lee Heinen, 20, of Bandera.

Heinen was apprehended in Medina County, between Tarpley and Bandera, and was charged with burglary of a building and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, according to the sheriff's report.

Tuesday, Oct. 21, two burglaries were reported by the sheriff's office. Lori Parker of San Antonio reported numerous items missing from her Lakehills property, including a boat trailer, boat motor and several other items valued at a total of $1,600; and Bungy Grant of Bandera reported someone entered her residence and took $150 cash.

Friday, Oct. 21, Delores and Ken Olsen reported a burglary of their place outside Bandera. The burglary occurred sometime Monday or Tuesday, and there was no forced entry into the house, according to the sheriff's report. Jewelry items taken were valued at over $3,000.

Saturday, Oct. 22, Robert Tschirhart of Lakehills reported his place had been burglarized sometime during the past week, and guns and other items valued at more than $700 had been taken.

Obituaries

Mildred Walker Childs

Mildred Walker Childs, 92, of Kerrville, died Friday, Oct. 21, at Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville.

She was born Feb. 27, 1988 in the Reservation community in Gillespie County. She married Jesse Judson Childs on Aug. 27, 1920, in the Reservation community. He died Oct. 27, 1977.

She was a member of the Trinity Baptist Church and an early teacher at the White School on Johnson Creek in Kerr County. She had earned her 1,000-hour pin for volunteer work at the Dietert Claim, senior citizens center in Kerrville where she wrote the Take-It-Easy newsletter for a period of time. She served for 25 years as Sunday school teacher at the First Baptist Church in Medina.

Survivors include two daughters, Kathryn Treadway of Kerrville and Arnell McMillin of Baton Rouge, La.; three sons, Jesse J. Childs Jr. of Kerrville, Kenneth Callahan Childs of Medina, and Berry Walker Childs of Odessa; one sister, Kitty McGaughy of Bandera; a brother, Weldon Walker of Harper; 7 grandchildren; and 7 great-grandchildren.

Services will be Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the Grimes Funeral Chapel in Kerrville with Dr. Bill Blackburn officiating. Burial was in Nichols Cemetery in Ingram.

Loice Wade Odom

Loice Wade Odom, 61, of Lakehills died Tuesday, Oct. 25, at St. Rose Catholic Hospital San Antonio.

He lived in Lakehills for 10 years after coming from San Antonio. He was born in Pipe Creek.

He was a member of the Lakehills United Methodist Church and the Community Wolf Club of Bandera.

Survivors include his wife, Agnes Rosalee Odom of Lakehills; a son Kenneth Wade Odom of Lakehills; mother, Lela E. Odom of Boerne; a sister, Una M. Hill of Boerne; a brother, Harley R. Odom of Lakehills; and one granddaughter, Tonya Joy Odom of San Antonio.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Joyce Odom in 1965.

Services are scheduled to be in Grimes Chapel Friday, Oct. 28, at 10:30 a.m. with the Rev. B.J. Rogers officiating.

Burial will be in Pipe Creek Cemetery.

Banking women plan convention for March

Five Bandera women were among those present Sept. 29 when the Hill Country Chapter of the National Association of Bank Women began planning for the first statewide convention of the banking women to be held in the Hill Country.

The statewide event will be March 10-12 at the YO Hilton Hotel in Kerrville. Up to 300 banking women from all over Texas are expected. "This will be the first time that this convention has been brought to the Texas Hill Country," says spokeswoman Susan Goodwin of Kerrville's First National Bank.

Among those at the Sept. 29 meeting in Kerrville were Elizabeth Batto of Bandera Bank and Carol Anne Boyle, Brenda Smith, Deborah Hutcheson and Opal Word, all from First State Bank in Bandera.

Batto was installed as chapter vice president by Jean Pittman, former president of the San Antonio Chapter of the NABW that sponsored the Hill Country Chapter's formation.

Academy cites Bandera artist Susie Batman

Susie Short Batman of Bandera was selected Artist of the Month for October by the faculty of the Coppini Academy of Fine Arts for painting she calls "John Verse, 14:4:5."

Her selection as artist of the month for October qualifies her for competition among other monthly winners for Artist of the Year honors at the art school that will be announced at the academy's annual banquet and exhibit at the Fort Sam Houston Officer's Club in January.

Batman was sponsored by J. Warren Hunter of San Antonio and Bandera artist and sculptor Norma J. Anderwald, both previous recipients of the Coppini Gold Medal and Artist of the Year awards.

Batman is currently conducting watercolor workshops in Kerrville, Bandera and San Antonio.

Bandera pair complete basic

Daniel Madden and Emelio Rodriguez, both 1988 graduates of Bandera High School, have completed basic training with the U.S. Navy at Great Lakes Naval Training Center and are both now undergoing naval hospital corpsman's school, also at Great Lakes.

The two long-time friends joined the navy under the "buddy system" in which the navy promised they would stay together for the initial part of their training.

Madden is the son of Robert and Donna Madden of Bandera and Rodriguez is the son of Louis and Frances Rodriguez, also of Bandera.

Standard time back Sunday

Daylight Savings Time will end this Sunday.

The clock officially goes back one hour at 2 a.m., Sunday, Oct. 30, but most people set the clock back one hour before they go to bed Saturday night.

Daylight Savings Time was originally conceived as a way to give an additional hour of daylight during the summer's evening, corresponding with peoples' normal working hours. With Daylight Savings Time in effect, the sun rose closer to when most people woke up or left for work, and this left an extra hour of daylight when they came home.

Daylight Savings Time was first adopted by many countries, including the United States during World War I to save lighting expense. Daylight Savings Time was repealed after the war.

Daylight Savings Time was again used during World War II, but its use was again discontinued after the war effort.

The Uniform Time Act established Daylight Savings Time in the United States in 1967. Clocks are to be set forward one hour on the last Sunday in April and clocks are to be set back one hour on the last Sunday in October.

The rule of "Spring forward, fall back," is the easiest way to remember which way to set clocks.

Carnival, contests, costumes and parties celebrate Halloween

"The costume contest will begin at 6:30 p.m.," said Linda Balson of Grace Lutheran Church, one of several sponsors of the event. "We will have prizes in several costume categories.

"The haunted house will be open from 7-9 p.m."

There will also be contests and games for elementary and junior high age children, Balson said.

A final planning meeting to put the haunted house together will begin at Bandera Youth Center at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 28. At 8 p.m., judging will begin for a ... pumpkin jack-o-lantern contest.

"There will be prizes for the best, scariest and most creative jack-o-lanterns," said Janna Sandidge, spokeswoman for the center.

Sunday Oct. 30 at 1 p.m., youth and sponsors will gather at the center to decorate for Halloween.

PC Cub Scouts

Cub Scout Pack #146 will host a Halloween Carnival at the Pipe Creek Community Center, Saturday, Oct. 29 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

A best costume ... will be held for at least two different age groups.

Games, including a cake walk, will be available. The Webelo den will run a haunted house. Members of Boy Scout Troop #144 will park the cars at the center. Halloween trick-or-treaters attending will need to buy tickets to play the games.

Pop's Place

A Halloween party will be held at Pop's Place Oct. 31 for children and adults alike.

Local people bring their kids down for free treats, says Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place. Games for the evening include apple bobbing. Activities will start about 7 p.m.

Last year, 40 children came down to the Alamo Beach camp. "We've done it every year for at least the last five years," says Acord.

Adults, too, dress up in costume, says Acord.

A bonfire is also planned.

Spirits of Christmas Presents gets under way

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The first meeting of the Spirits of Christmas Presents Oct. 10 started the program again that provides Christmas toys to those children that need it the most, keeping the spirit of the season alive in their hearts.

The organization of the "Elf Karen" project, as the Spirits of Christmas Presents is known, starts real early, maybe earlier than people think, says spokeswoman Kay Ochoa. At least 15 people are needed for tasks of overseeing and organizing, as well as between 10 and 20 volunteers who take time and heart to play Santa or an elf when it comes time to deliver the gifts.

There are at least 40 people who help in the effort plus supporters from the community that contribute and collect donations, says Ochoa.

The glass jars will be out by Hunter's Weekend for monetary donations, says Ochoa. Almost all cash contributions are used to buy food and gifts, she says. Since the Elf Karen project uses all volunteer workers, there is no administrative cost except for advertising and stamps.

After Thanksgiving, the collection of canned food will begin. A note is sent home with the school children to bring canned goods to the school for this program. "Many of the items in the Christmas dinner boxes come from school children," says Ochoa.

Names of children and the families that need to be served are collected each year. Names come from teachers, social workers and club leaders. Families are referred to the Spirits of Christmas Presents by someone who works closely with the family, says Ochoa.

The sorting, selecting and wrapping of gifts gets into high gear Friday Dec. 16, but the gift-buying goes on all year, says Ochoa.

Donations of toys and gifts come from area businesses, including Bandera Ice House, Boyle's, and the Sears distributing center in Bandera. Boxes are placed at local banks to accept toy donations from the public.

On Dec. 16, volunteers will gather at the Mansfield Park pavilion to sort the toys into four groups, ranging from very good toys to stocking-stuffers. A volunteer, called a buyer, will then receive a child's first name and their age and then will select one item from the each toy group, keeping in mind that child and his or her age.

"The buyer's selections are then wrapped with the child's name on it," says Ochoa. The presents then go into the sack with the family's name on it.

Other organizational work includes planning of the routes to the houses to be visited by Santa and organization of the volunteer Santas and elf helpers.

This year, the Santas and their elf helpers will go out on Dec. 24, a weekend after the presents are wrapped, to deliver the gifts, rather than the day after the gift wrapping, as in previous years.

Discussed at the Oct. 10 meeting were concerns such as what kinds of gifts will be bought, especially for junior-high-age girls and boys. "They're harder to select gifts for," says Ochoa.

For those that want to help, call Sandi Kling at 796-7274 or Karen Jackson at 796-4870.

Halloween party planned Oct. 31 in Lakehills

A Halloween party for area children will be held at the Lakehills Civic Center Oct. 31 starting at 6:30 p.m.

The annual event for all the children in Lakehills features cookies, bags of candy and prizes, and punch to costumed children from about 6:30 p.m. to sometime before 9 p.m., says Louise Terry.

There will also be games such as bobbing for apples and pinning-the-tail-on-the-donkey. There will be first and second prizes for the best costume in four age groups.

There is no charge for the event, sponsored by the Medina Lake Betterment Association.

Cycle event

San Antonio's Alamo Dragway, long a site of automobile drag racing events will hold a motorcycle event on the weekend of Oct. 29-30 when Dragbike USA produces its all-Harley Davidson championship motorcycle races.

Shopping center receives face-lift

"Construction on an eight-foot canopy with a Mansard roof began around the first of October," says Adren R. Heisler, who owns the building with his wife Gladys. The addition to the front of the seven store center will dress it up and make the 180 foot building cooler, says Heisler.

An eight foot concrete sidewalk will be added along the front, to serve to keep cars from parking right next to the building, giving store customers more room to walk, added Heisler.

The new canopy that extends out from the present roof line will cut down glare from the afternoon summer sun, says Johnnie Nordlund, one of the owners of Viking Enterprises, which has two offices in the center. The larger side with will make it easier to move store goods and other materials, she says.

Heisler engineered and planned the project. He, his wife, and one worker helps him build the project, including the concrete, carpentry, and finish work.

The original building, located on Park Road 37, west of Lakehills Civic Center, was built in 1972. Three offices were added in 1987-8, says Heisler.

Lakehills EMS Support Team to benefit from fund drive

Lakehills EMS Support Team will collect donations at the intersection leading into Lakehills in a fund raising drive Saturday and Sunday Nov. 5 and 6.

Lakehills EMTs and Lakehills Support Team Officers will be stationed at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37 to accept donations from the public between 10 a.m. and dark, says spokeswoman Sue Kruse.

Lakehills and Mico residents will receive letters from the support team prior to the drive.

Funds raised are designated for building maintenance and utilities, special classes, training aids, and ambulance equipment. Some $1,700 was spent recently for a much needed new stretcher to better equip one of Lakehills ambulances, says Kruse. Lakehills EMS has 2 EMTs in training to upgrade to para-medics.

Cedar Point Landing adds convenience store in Mico

Cedar Point Landing has opened a new convenience store in Mico between the post office and the restaurant-saloon as a continuing part of its major renovations.

The store will be open seven days a week, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and will carry the convenience "basics": milk, bread, eggs, and cigarettes. Also available are selected grocery items most franchise convenience stores carry.

Gasoline is not carried by the Cedar Point convenience store.

"I know a lot of the local people wanted a convenience store in Mico," says Jeri Hansen, proprietor of Cedar Point Landing. "Before now if you lived in the 'downtown' Mico area, the closest convenience store was in Lakehills, about 5 or 6 miles away."

Si Turner's secret must have been that double boiler under his bean pot at the Hermann Sons Pinto Bean cookoff Saturday. He took 1st place honors for the second year in a row.

Si Turner's pinto beans Lakehills' best

Si Turner's pinto beans took first place at the Hermann Sons Pinto Bean Cookoff that collected $500 in auction donations for the Lakehills EMS Support Team Oct. 22.

Turner, first place winner last year, repeated his championship with his entry that garnered $75 at auction, with George Miller as the purchaser. Turner used a large tub as a double boiler to cook his beans, coming out with a nice consistency.

The Showmanship award went to Karoline Moreland of Lakehills along with her five assistant cooks making "Little Toot Beans." Railroad caps and a cardboard "toot" station brought them their trophy. Their beans took a $12 donation at auction.

Jerry Acord's beans took second place. Even though it was the first time he cooked in a bean cookoff, his Pop's Place Poppers received $30 in donations at auction. He used black pepper instead of jalepenos and a whole ham and suggestions from Belle Dickey and some equipment from Shirley McMullen.

Third place best beans went to John Cavasos, whose cooked product, named Borracho Beans netted a $25 donation at auction.

There were 10 cooks in all.

Other items were auctioned off after the beans were sold including a hair dryer, telephone, steak dinner, shrimp dinner, cakes, and pies donated by Lakehills businesses and community members.

The total proceeds from the auction was $422.50, to which was added $72.50 contributed by David Furrows to make it an even $500 in donations reports Frances Garren, spokeswoman.

Barbara Ott, Sandi Mauer, and Karen Cameron kept the auction lively, by bidding up the prices and coming home with some of the goods, says Garren.

Food served to the crowd of included chalupas (with lots of refried beans, of course), hot dogs, and carne guisada. They sold out of funnel cakes.

Medina Lake productive site for scuba diving adventure

By Jack Stanton
Special Correspondent

If you have spent any time at Medina Lake you have probably seen them. Scuba divers clad in heavy, complicated equipment waddling into the water then disappearing into the depths.

What's it all about and how did it start?

In the late fifties when scuba equipment first became available to the general public, only a hearty few got to enjoy the underwater world. Now, new technology has made the equipment simpler and more reliable, and complete training is available from a growing number of dive shops.

Any healthy person can become a trained certified diver.

The word "scuba" stands for "self-contained, underwater breathing apparatus." The primary equipment is the air system. This includes a high pressure tank of air with a system of valves and regulators that supplies the air in breathable amounts to the diver's mouthpiece.

The tank is also connected to an inflatable vest that controls whether the diver sinks or floats. Along with this air system, the diver needs a mask to see through, foot fins to swim with, and a neoprene suit to keep warm.

Medina Lake is a training ground for Dive World of San Antonio. In the cove at Cedar Point Landing, the people from Dive World have built two underwater platforms that serve as classrooms for beginning divers.

In the 11 years of scuba classes, the fish in the cove have become quite tame. So tame that they swarm around divers expecting free handouts of food. In a typical day at the cove a diver will see schools of perch and at least one of every kind of bass. Some of the bass and catfish are so big they would make a rod and reel angler turn green with envy.

Some of the terrain under water is as rocky as the hill country above water. Much of the lake bed is covered with mud flats over a hundred feet below the surface where sunlight never penetrates.

There are places where giant oaks grew before the valley was flooded. Now, these trees stand draped with over sixty years of lost fishing lines and anchor ropes which look like riggings on an old sunken sailing ship.

At night, the diver experiences yet another side of the underwater world. Equipped with powerful, submersible spotlights, divers find the bass and perch sleeping motionless among the nooks and crannies of the limestone. Occasionally, a large gar will appear out of the darkness to investigate the lights then slowly swim away.

During the warm months an alert night diver can find the freshwater eel poking his head from the rocks waiting for a small snack to come swimming by.

Wharton's Dock
By John Ciarlo

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department Turkey Shoot drew a fair crowd.

Steve Forest's band and the Bill Baker band furnished the music for dancing at no cost to the VFD.

The B-B gun shoot for the small boys had Lance Andreas winning the air rifle and Glen Zentner giving him a run at top honors.

A total of 13 turkeys was awarded during the day.

• Kay Jones of Bandera, a regular bingo player at the fire house was admitted to Wilford Hall Hospital at Lackland on Sunday with severe chest pains. She was placed in the Cardiac Intensive Care Unit at the hospital.

• Joe Baker and Earl Evens are both out of the hospital and back in their homes at Wharton's Dock.

• Bill Barrett of the Fire Protection Training Division of Texas A&M University will present classes at the Lakeshore VFD on Nov. 3, 4 and 5.

In November he will start with teaching principles and then move on to pump operations. All VFD firemen of the county are invited to attend, classes on Nov. 3 and 4 will start at 7 p.m. and at 9 a.m. on Nov. 5.

• John Chancellor and his wife Martha have moved into the Lake Medina Shores area from San Antonio. John had many years work with VFD's while living in Missouri. John jumped right in and helped on the Turkey Shoot and his help was appreciated.

• The Bandera EMS was called out to Harvey Saab's home at Wharton's Dock on Saturday at 7 p.m. After a close check of Harvey, the EMS did not transport him.

Lakehills
By James H. Frazar — 796-3718

Remember to make your plans for the Election Watch Nov. 8 at the American Legion Post. The night of three TVs and remote radios bringing in results will begin at 6 p.m.

• Sergeant Millie Schenkat underwent surgery at Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans Administration Hospital in San Antonio Oct. 12. Millie should be coming home between Oct. 26 and 28.

• Irene Hildebrand's 77th birthday was celebrated at Adolph's Store Oct. 23 by many people of the community. Nice when you've been in the community for 50 years to have so many people turn out. She also had the pleasure of dancing with her son, Adolph.

The party was shared with Dale Latour. Her husband, John, did a lot of the party planning. The Latours come out to the lake on weekends.

• Smokey and June Settlemeyer returned from a trip to New Mexico where they visited the space research center at White Sands, which is Holliman Air Force Base, outside the city of Alamogordo, which was the first base of the space program.

The Settlemeyers were in Albuquerque during the national hot-air ballon races, but they weren't flying them the day they came through. We were able to see the beautiful ballons on ground, along with the other 80,000 people who came to the races, says June.

The trip continued north to Durango, Colo., and the scenic drive to Silverton, Ouray and Telluride. Telluride has become a center for country-western music festivals during the summertime. Does Bill Baker and Ken Grimm know about this?

One of the nicest scenes was the snow, says June. "We enjoyed the cool weather." They came back by way of Taos and Santa Fe, New Mex., where the weather was quite cool, as evidenced by 28 degrees in Taos in the morning. Era Wilkinsons, June's mother who went with them, used the blankets on the cool mornings in their motor home.

The Aspens were in all their fall glory, says June. Hopefully she'll be reminded of them again when the Spanish Oaks start their fall parade here in Bandera.

Apple season was in full swing, and so they bought some New Mexico apples. Wonder if Medina knows about the competition?

St. Victor's plans supper

The annual turkey supper at St. Victor's Chapel will be held on Hunter's Weekend, Nov. 5, starting at 5 p.m.

Plates of turkey and dressing, green beans, sweet potatoes, celery, bread, and tea or coffee will cost $3.50 per adult and $2 for children, says Nancy MacMillan, general chairwoman of the event.

Desserts of pie and cake will be available by the slice or whole. A boutique of Christmas gift arts and crafts will be available.

There will be a pickup window for people who want their food to go, says MacMillan.

Meet the candidates

A meet-the-candidates session will be held Saturday, Oct. 29 starting at 6 p.m. at Pop's Place in Pipe Creek.

Local candidates will be out to meet the people, says Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place. No speeches and no debates, but the candidates will be introduced, he says. "It's a chance for candidates to mingle with the people," says Acord.

Everyone who attends is asked to bring a covered side dish. Barbecue chicken and sausage will be provided by the Alamo Beach camp, says Acord. Music will also be part of the evening.

"I sincerely feel I can serve and give our community the services needed," he said in making his announcement.

Write-in votes are counted in the general election in November only when they have declared as an official write-in candidate and filed an application with the county judge. Galvan filed in County Judge Ray Mauer's office.

Galvan is a retired U.S. Navy chief petty officer, and he and his wife, Jacque, have lived in Pebble Beach 1 subdivision for 11 years.

A graduate of the Peace Officer's Academy who is state-tested and state-certified, Galvan said he will work closely with law enforcement agencies in the counties when necessary.

"Being retired, my availability will allow me to devote full time to this position which is of the utmost importance," he said.

Medina celebrates 60th

Marvin Hatfield, the only living graduate of Medina High School's class of 1919, told more recent graduates at Saturday's homecoming program of the achievements of many former students and described the condition of the school, the community and the country at the turn of the century.

His presentation was one of the features of the annual event that also included a "stage full" of former and present Bobcat cheerleaders rekindling that old school spirit, and class photographs of each of the honored class groups.

Hatfield was a teacher, school principal and superintendent and later a pharmacist in Medina before moving to San Antonio, where he is still a practicing pharmacist.

Members of the Medina High School's Beta Club registered ex-students, served refreshments, and coordinated the program and last year's queen and king, Letitia Huie and Maurie Simon, were on hand to crown the 1988 king and queen.

Present from the class of 1949 were Thelma Nilsson Hillman of Las Almas, N.M.; Lucille Light Chancy of Medina; Janie Whitehead Whitewood of Kerrville; R.E. Adams of Coppell; Oscar Mayfield of League City; Opal Hinds Keenan of San Antonio; and Rose Buchanan Whitehead of Medina.

Medina VFD plans Hunters Barbecue

The annual Hunters Barbecue of the Medina Volunteer Fire Department will be Friday, Nov. 4, with serving beginning at 11 a.m. at the Medina Phillips 66 station.

Plates will be $3.50 each, which will include brisket, cole slaw, beans, bread, pickles, onions, and either iced tea or coffee.

Desserts, either whole or individual servings, will also be available.

Joyce James, who is in charge of the event, says that donations of baked goods are still needed. She can be contacted at 589-2639.

Benefit dance set

There will be a dance, Friday night, Oct. 28, to raise funds to help pay medical expenses for Kenny McMahon.

The dance will be at the Cabaret in Bandera and the music will be provided by the Texas Tune Wranglers beginning at 8 p.m.

Admission will be $3, but additional donations will be appreciated, organizers said.

McMahon, a member of the Beavis family of Medina, was burned over more than 75 percent of his body in a dune buggy accident on Sept. 24. Since that date, he has been in the Brooke Army Medical Center burn unit in San Antonio where he has been receiving extensive treatment and has undergone several successful operations.

In addition to the dance Friday night, donations can also be made at First State Bank in Bandera, to the Kenny McMahon Special Fund.

Rummage sale to benefit Elm Pass fire department

Three truck-loads of furniture will be the highlight of the one-day Oct. 29 sale at the Elm Pass fire department from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m.

Dining room and bedroom suites are included in the list of items for sale. Also available are washing machines, dishwashers, winter clothes, and handmade crafts. The furniture is in good condition.

"We will make arrangements to deliver the furniture," says Bob Harle, department treasurer.

Funds for the operation of the Elm Pass Volunteer Fire Department are raised by a rummage sale twice a year at the firehouse, says Harle.

"The money raised is to be used for operations for the fire department," says Pat J. Keller, department president.

Items are kept in the firehouse in case it rains, says Keller.

To get to the Elm Pass firehouse from Bandera, drive five miles out Highway 173, take a right on Elm Pass road, and go six miles to the fire station. The firehouse is located six miles from Center Point.

"Our district serves the Bandera Hills, Elm Pass I, and Elm Pass II subdivisions," says Keller. "Our (fire protection) district is in Bandera and Kerr county," he says.

"We back up the Center Point and Bandera volunteer fire departments when needed," says Harle.

For more information call Harle, 634-2286, or Keller 634-7225.

Local author to sign second novel in SA

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Barbara Craven

Local writer Barbara Catlin Craven's second book, "Smoky's Bandit," is scheduled for release in November and she will be at Waldenbooks, Ingram Park Mall holding an autograph party, Saturday, Oct. 29, to celebrate.

Craven's second romance novel, published under the Silhouette Special Edition with the pen name Barbara Catlin, is set on a ranch near Tarpley, using scenes from Bandera, Kerrville, Hondo, and San Antonio as part of the story.

Alamo Writers of San Antonio extends an invitation to everyone to visit the Bandera County resident at Ingram Park Mall's Waldenbook store from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 29. She will be on hand to autograph early copies of her paperback, which will be on the newstands in November.

The book uses many situations and locales from the Bandera County area, including the Bandera County Stock Show and Hill Country Spring Water of Texas. The book also has a map of the area inside the book, prepared by Trina Sandidge. "My situations and characters (in the book) are fictitious, but I used details from local events and places," says Craven.

Craven says she writes romance novels because that's what she wants to write. Many people consider romance novels to have predictable endings, but Craven strives to get rid of the predictability within the plot itself. "I love the predictability of a happy ending. I don't like the predictability along the way," says Craven.

The books known as Silhouette Special Edition, which she writes, are a different line of romance novels. The novels are longer, have more plot, heavier characterization, and are more realistic, says Craven. "There are no princes and runaway models in Silhouette Special Editions," she says.

The book is dedicated to her sister, Jerry Upton of Bandera.

Craven's first book was "Prisoner of Love" and was out in March 1986. Her third book, "Mr. Right," has been accepted for publication in April 1989. Her third book, keeping with the western motif, is set on a large cattle ranch near Santa Anna in Central Texas.

"Smoky's Bandit" will be available in book stores, supermarkets and department stores.

The book will also be published in Canada, England and Australia, says Craven. Later, translations will be done for foreign editions in many other countries, including Germany, France, Spain, Greece, and Japan, she says.

what's rustlin'

by bungy

"Rollin, rollin', rollin', keep them longhorns rollin'..."

They sure were rollin' here Saturday right smack dab down Main Street, of Bandera. It was a thrilling sight, just like a Louis L'Amour book.

Tourists, dudes from the local ranches, and residents lined the streets to watch the parade of cattle.

They loved it.

• Rushworth M. Kidder's recent column in the Christian Science Monitor, was certainly appropriate for this week's "Red Ribbon Campaign" in Bandera.

"It (drugs) have no place in such communities — precisely because drugs destroy individuality, corrode the bonds of respect, and turn freedom into license," he wrote. "For those reasons, in fact, a strong supportive sense of community may well be the best defense against drug abuse. Build that into a school and you're tackling the root causes of so much drug abuse; alienation, loneliness, and fear of failure.

And that's what all the red ribbons are for all over town. A community getting behind their kids, and going for a community touchdown!

• The Baptist Church is running a film series at BHS auditorium, with this week's showing titled, "Overcoming a Painful Childhood." The series is called "Family Under Fire" and is a great individual, family and community strengthener.

• Various groups all over town are preparing great 'treats' for the kids on Halloween, with fun houses all over the county.

The Wicked Witch, from Salem, Mass., complete with bubbing caldron, will be holding forth at Oma's Haus Beverage Barn.

I can't understand why she's so wicked, when she'll have candy for the kiddies! I bet it'll be really scary for them to collect it, tho!

• There's a new "Arts and Crafts" cooperative at 13th and Sycamore Streets. Great timing for the Christmas season!

• Dusty Britches threw his annual Birthday Bash at Crazy Bob's this year. It's always a lot of fun 'cause his musician buddies show up and everyone jams.

• It seems like every week, this season, some group is throwing a 'turkey shoot', and is giving an opportunity for you primo target shooters to show off your talent and talk turkey.

• Nov. 3, a TV crew from Public Broadcasting System in New York City, will be shooting Bandera as part of their series, "The Perfect Trip." So watch for them and join in to let the world know Bandera, as "Cowboy Capital."

Author to sign

John R. Erickson, author of the "Hank The Cowdog" series of books will appear at several events in San Antonio this week.

The author will perform "Hank the Cowdog and the Case of the Halloween Ghost," Saturday, Oct. 29 from 2-4 p.m. at The Red Balloon I-10 at Wurzbach in The Collonade Shopping Center in San Antonio.

Also Saturday, Erickson will perform at a Halloween party at Witte Museum, 3801 Broadway, at 5 p.m. Admission is $2.

Sunday, Oct. 30 Erickson will appear at the Institute of Texan Cultures at 2:30 p.m.

"Hank the Cowdog" books are available at the Bandera Bulletin.

Bass club plans tournament Oct. 30

The Rebel Bass Club will hold their 4th annual open tournament at Medina Lake Sunday, October 30.

Fishermen will compete in three divisions: men, women, and junior. Fishing will be by rod and reel and from a boat. Competition will be for cash prizes and trophies.

All fishermen must come to Red Cove for their boat check. Boats can be launched anywhere on the lake, but fishermen must motor to Red Cove to check in before they begin fishing. Check in time begins at 4:30 a.m. but fishing cannot begin until 6 a.m.

The rules state specifically that, "Anyone not in line by 3:15 p.m. can't weigh their fish."

Kerrville shelter helps control strays

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Kerrville's Freeman-Fritts Animal Shelter has taken in 8,000 animals in the last two years and costs the Animal Welfare Society of Kerr County $6,000 per month to fight the stray, unwanted, and lost dog and cat problem in Kerrville, Ingram, and Kerr County.

The privately-owned shelter currently accepts from 5 to 10 dogs and cats a day. Animals are brought in by animal control officers of Kerrville, Ingram, and Kerr County and by private citizens.

The shelter has a contract with the three Kerr County entities that provides them a guaranteed $3,500 a month fee, says Margret Freeman, treasurer for the Animal Welfare Society of Kerr County.

People who surrender a dog or cat or litters of puppies or kittens must pay a fee of $20. Private citizens give up their pet to the animal shelter for a variety reasons ranging from "they've moved and their pet is not allowed in their new apartment," to the person's age, or they "can't give all their puppies away," says Rose Hall, manager of the Freeman-Fritts Animal Shelter.

The shelter vigorously places the unwanted and stray animals with people who want a pet. The shelter adopts out one to three dogs and cats a day, says Hall.

Potential adoptors must fill out an application and wait 24 hours before they can pick up the animal they've selected. The potential pet owner's application is checked by the staff to see if they can actually maintain a good home for the cat or dog.

Where the animal is kept, whether they've surrendered a pet to the animal shelter before, and care given for pets they've previously owned are questions that need to be answered on the application.

For renters, "we check with the apartment or rent-house owners (to check) that it is okay (for the applicant) to have a pet," says Hall. The staff checks with the applicant's vet to see if they've been bringing their previously owned animals in for care, she says. References are also checked.

A signed contract promising proper care and treatment of the animal is required of pet adopters. When the new pet owner can no longer care for the pet, they must bring the animal back to the shelter, rather than give away, abandon, or sell the animal, says Hall.

The contract requires the new pet owner to "provide proper and sufficient food, water, shelter and veterinarian treatment at my (pet owner's) expense for the life of the animal."

With an approved application, a pet adopter must pay $40 for a dog or $30 for a cat. This fee pays for the animal's preparation to leave the shelter, says Hall. Each animal must be spayed or neutered, given a rabies shot, and given deworming medication and immunization shots before it can leave the shelter, says Hall.

Animals are adopted out as pets, guard dogs, and ranch dogs. The national average for placing pets in a new home or back in the home they strayed from is one percent, while the Kerr County shelter has an adoption and reclaim rate of close to 20 percent last year, says Freeman. Reclaims are animals that were lost, picked up by an animal control officer, and retrieved by the owner from the shelter.

Animals that can be adopted are advertised by the shelter in the local newspaper. It costs $270 per month to advertise in the Kerrville paper, says Freeman. Some 30 people contribute $10 per month to keep the page of animal pictures going.

Once a month an adoptable animal from the shelter is shown on KENS-TV in San Antonio.

Spaying and neutering is done to cut down the over population of dogs and cats. "We cannot ever make an exception. The animal must be spayed or neutered before it leaves the shelter," says Hall.

The shelter has 18 pens for large dogs, 16 cages for puppies, and 44 cages for cats. There is an outside fenced area for the animals to exercise.

The walled pens for the dogs are kept inside the shelter's building and have tile floors. Food and water are kept in each pen. The pens are large enough for the animals to walk around.

The stainless steel cubicles that hold the puppies and cats are kept in another room inside the building. Cages are sheetmetal on all sides except the front, where a heavy wire mesh door can be opened for access to the animal. Each cage has newspaper on the floor, a bowl of water, and a bowl of food for each animal.

The pens and cages are not kept full, because the shelter must have space for the three animal control officers to bring in animals, says Hall. Empty pens and cages must be kept in reserve to transfer animals when the pens and cages are cleaned.

Besides the shelter manager, there are two other full-time employees. One employee cares for the cats and one cares for the dogs, says Hall. There are also two part-time employees that care for the animals on the weekends.

While the shelter uses volunteers in its low-cost spay and neuter program, it only uses paid employees in the care of animals in the shelter. The board of directors decided to not use volunteers in the shelter because of liability due to bites and the possible resulting rabies, says Hall. All employees have rabies vaccinations.

Stray animals brought in by the animal control officers are kept for three working days, not counting the day they're brought in, says Hall. Animals that are adoptable are kept longer, she says. Animals that must be observed for rabies are kept for 10 days.

Because about 10 animals a day are brought in and only one to three animals a day are placed in new homes, some of the animals must be euthanized. Four to nine animals are "put down" each work day, for an average of five to six a day, says Hall.

The unclaimed and unadoptable animals to be euthanized for the day are placed in a cage with separate compartments, which are slid into a metal and glass chamber. Carbon monoxide is pumped into the chamber to kill the animals. The animals get drowsy, lay down and go to sleep, says Freeman.

It takes a few seconds to put the animals to sleep with the carbon monoxide, says Hall. Once dead, the bodies are placed in plastic bags, frozen, and then buried at a special place in the city dump.

Old, very young, injured, ill, and very docile dogs and cats are euthanized by injection, says Freeman.

The shelter is not in the euthanasia business, but for some animals there is no other choice, says Freeman. "If someone would give us a solution to euthanasia, we'd be the first to do it," she says.

"Euthanization is not addressing the problem (of dog and cat overpopulation)," says Freeman. It is just a temporary measure, she says.

The shelter takes in an average of 300 animals a month. When the shelter opened June 2, 1986, the city of Kerrville estimated 125 animals a month would be brought into the shelter, says Freeman. Since the shelter's opening, the amount of animals has been almost triple that, she says.

Shelter manager Rose Hall inspects one of the large dog pens at the Freeman-Fritts animal shelter in Kerrville. The pens will hold one or two dogs, depending on their size. Solid walls separate the dogs from each other on two sides. The floor and entire animal retaining area is kept sparkling clean.

Veterinarian Conrad Nightingale holds a female tan and white, hound-type, approximately 4-month-old puppy that was picked up stray and brought to Hill Country Veterinary Clinic. The docile and apparently healthy dog is available for adoption through the clinic. "No trade-in necessary," says Nightingale.

Bandera veterinarian hunts homes for strays

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The Hill Country Veterinary Clinic of Bandera will take in stray dogs and attempt to find homes for them in a new program announced last week.

As of Friday, Oct. 21, one day after the announcement, the Hill Country Veterinary Clinic of Bandera had taken in four stray dogs and had had requests to adopt out animals, says veterinarian Conrad Nightingale.

The clinic on Highway 173 South plans to keep stray dogs brought in for as long as they have space, probably about a week, says Nightingale. "That should be enough time for people to read the weekly ad in the paper and come by to see the animals," he says. Every attempt will be made to place an animal, including in-person and telephone calls at the clinic, says Nightingale.

If someone adopts a dog or cat through this program, the animal must be spayed or neutered to cut down the animal population in the county. To adopt a pet, a fee will be charged to cover the cost of the surgery and vaccinations. A female dog will be $56, a male $46, a female cat $48, and a male $38. "These are reduced rates for people who adopt a pet," says Nightingale. "There is no one subsidizing us," he says.

The stray animals are vaccinated the day they arrive at the clinic. A dog will get rabies, distemper, hepatitis, lepto, kennel cough, parvo, and corona virus vaccinations, says Nightingale. A cat will receive rhino, calici, feline leukemia, and rabies vaccinations, he says.

"If we think there's a chance an animal can be adopted, we'll keep them longer than seven days," says Nightingale.

Other vets have had the same problem, says Nightingale. In small counties and cities, where there was no city pound or county-wide humane shelter, the local veterinarians would take it upon themselves to set up an adoption option, he says. "It has worked successfully in other places," says Nightingale.

Boarding animals normally costs the clinic $6, says Nightingale. The clinic will help with the stray animal problem to return something to the community as a [illegible]

The animals will not be kept in cages all day, but will be walked a couple of times a day, says Nightingale.

There are 38 million dogs and cats born every year in the United States, says Nightingale. Nearly 13 million dogs and cats are caught and destroyed by animal control officers each year, he says from information furnished in professional publications. Some 14 percent of dogs [illegible] by animal control officers find homes.

There are currently four dogs at the clinic. One is a white Buff-part male Spaniel, approximately one-year-old. This dog, which has a collar, can be used for companionship, says Nightingale.

There is also a six-month-old female hound-cross dog that is tan with white. A new owner for this puppy should be able to train the dog to a person's specific [illegible]

A hard-to-come-by Afghan Hound is also available for adoption at the clinic. It is a female, slightly matted, but lovable, according to Nightingale.

There is also a mixed breed, tan with one blue eye and one brown. The short hair male should be easy to take care of, assures the veterinarian.

Barbecue, dance to benefit shelter

A barbecue and dance benefit in Nelson City will be the start of a fund-raising drive to bring in $3,200 to winterize the Pipe Creek St. Francis animal shelter.

The Nelson City Feed and Fuel General Store and Dancehall will offer a barbecue and dance Sunday, Oct. 30, from 4 to 10 p.m. to benefit the St. Francis Animal Sanctuary of Pipe Creek. There will be live music by several bands and things to do for adults and children alike, says Katy Niska, operator of the shelter.

The Nelson City Feed and Fuel is housed in a hundred-year-old building that contains a general store, gas station, small cafe, beer garden, and dance floor, says Mario Alvarado, store owner.

So far R & A Express and Nelson City Band are planned. There are still openings for any band that would like to play, says Niska. Call 535-6514 or 537-4765 to coordinate.

To get to the tiny town of Nelson City, take Interstate Highway 10 six miles north from Boerne, and take the Welfare exit, No. 533. Turn right off the access road and Nelson City is less than a mile down the road past the hill. The store is next to Po-Po's Restaurant.

The shelter receives no government support and is solely funded by donations to support its work housing and caring for abandoned and abused animals, says Niska.

Medical technician bitten

Emergency medical technician Anita Ramsey got bitten by a dog when she responded to a call at the Mesa residence in Medina Lake Estates Oct. 4. She reported the incident to the sheriff's office immediately.

The dog was examined Oct. 14, 10 days after the incident, by veterinarian Steve Sells, who said the dog showed no sign of rabies. Sells said the sheriff's office notified him of the dog bite about one or two days before he examined the dog.

The EMS responded to the call and reported that a man, Edward Mesa, had received numerous injuries, including a human bite on his abdomen. Ramsey was bitten by one of two large German Shepherds that were in the yard at the residence. Sells said neither dog had been vaccinated for rabies recently.

State law requires that when a dog bites someone, first it should be examined by a veterinarian as soon as possible. There is a mandatory 10 day waiting period, or quarantine period, after which the dog should be examined again for any sign of rabies. Even if no sign of rabies appears at that time, Sells said there are "still no guarantees."

"If we aren't notified, we can't do anything about it," Sells said.

Purple Hills Manor

By Mada Wedgworth — 796-4736

Martin Smith from the Church of Christ used for his text Sunday, "A Cure for Loneliness." Opening prayer was led by Hoyt Hamrick and the closing prayer by Ray Marvin Hay. Song leaders were Martin Smith and Hay.

Guests were Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick, Mary Ann Smith, Marley Johnson, Nettie Saul, Tim Sanchez and Renee Cottingham.

• Residents Martha Fitzpatrick, Cecelia Leal, Christine Kalka, Josephine Turner and Evelyn Hostetter joined Fannie Caffall, Joyce Sellberg, Aggie Batto and Annette Kalka-Schulte on the patio for Rosary and prayers Monday evening.

• Gasto and Ophelia Thurmand of Gonzales and Jim Philapy visited Stella Philapy.

• Mama Jo Turner's visitors last week were Ray and Cheryl Turner, Gene and Jo Turner of Houston, Charlene and Ron Garvick and John T., Margie Teich, Bill Short and Rachel Short.

• The Rev. Sheldon Hefmanson of the Grace Lutheran Church visited Mary Koehler and Ruby Hillman Thursday afternoon.

• Edith Edwards was the guest of the teachers and fourth graders at Alkek Elementary School on Friday where she gave a talk about elections and voting.

Mrs. Edwards has voted in Pipe Creek since 1920 and has helped hold several elections since that time. Her talk emphasized women voters since 1920 when she first voted at Pipe Creek.

• Luther and June Mathis' guests were Oleta Davis, Irene Smith from Pipe Creek and Pat Hicks from Houston.

• Helen Rugh celebrated her birthday last week with a cake, flowers and birthday greetings from everyone.

• Ruth and Ed Love from Yancey visited Anna L. Vaughn.

• Nola Baldock's visitors last week were Roland Thallman and Mrs. Williams.

• American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 of Lakehills came for their regular games party last Wednesday. Refreshments were served by Elaine Mixon and Mary Peterson.

• On Saturday, Mama Jo Turner went with Margie Teich and Jo Turner to Margie's to visit and on Sunday Gene and Jo Turner and Clay Davenport and Helen came by and took Mama Jo to Margies for another visit with family and friends.

• Mary Jane Care, chairman for Beau Boulter for Senate Committee brought residents donuts from Beau Boulter Breakfast Club.

• Terry Nicholas comes by every day to visit his mother, Dorothy Nicholas.

• Four residents are in the hospital at this time, including Stella Waraksa, Mabel Jones, Minnie Brokenbrough and Bill Kilman.

• Residents will have a Halloween Party Monday afternoon, Oct. 31 at 2:30 p.m.

There will be a costume contest for the residents and a contest for the employees. Prizes will be awarded. We're also looking forward to the "Little Spooks" who plan on paying us a visit Monday morning.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

Into every nice, harmonious situation, a little crises must rear it's ugly head. Life's highway isn't top coated too frequently, and there are bound to be a few chug-holes. We've encountered a few as of late.

First off, due to some changes in the staff, some temporary changes will be made in the way transportation services are operating. Mary McCloskey, who has been the assigned driver, will take over duties at the desk as one of our co-directors, and will split responsibilities for the daily operation of the Silver Sage Corral with Glyn Taylor.

For a while volunteer drivers will be used. That means that the van will not be available for local transportation before 9 a.m. each Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday and that afternoon availability will depend on each volunteer's personal schedule.

Manuel Flores, county sponsored driver, will continue with rural routes on Monday and Tuesdays without change. Meals-on-Wheels will continue to have priority each day, and no request for transportation will be accepted between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Volunteers interested in assisting with transportation are urged to contact one of the center directors. Anyone 55 years of age or older with a good driving record, a Texas license, and with a familiarity of Bandera County who is interested in applying for the driver's position may contact Glenn Wehmeyer.

• The center is itself a little short of items for the Christmas Bazaar scheduled for Dec. 3, and the craft ladies will be working every Monday morning between now and then to supply some handmade items for the bazaar.

• Manuel Flores, Joyce Sellberg, Verna Schaffer, and assorted assistants did a bang-up job of decorating the center for Halloween. Spider webs, crepe paper, balloons, and other items really made for a festive look at the monthly Birthday Luncheon. Almost 60 people participated, about half in Halloween costumes.

• Southwest Airlines is again offering "Home For The Holidays," a free round trip ticket to any city serviced by that airline, just in time for the holidays.

Registrants will be selected on the basis of age, distance, and time since they last visited "home for the holidays." Drawing for the one Bandera County ticket will be on about Nov. 30, so you need to register now.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

There is an amazing railroad over the Simplon Pass which links Switzerland and Italy. It passes across 611 bridges and through a tunnel 12½ miles long, the longest tunnel in the world. You can look down on glorious views of the Alpine mountains and lakes part of the way and then complete darkness until the train comes through again to some of the grandest scenery in the world...

Like Simplon Pass our life has intervals of light and darkness. Sometimes we go through dark tunnels and other times we enoy the blessed assurance, the hymn writer describes so beautiful. As the hymn goes, sometimes trusting, sometimes doubting, sometimes joyful, sometimes sad. Darkness and light, the seasons, the ebb and flow of tides are part of the balance of nature. God's first act in creation was to divide the light from darkness. The evening and the morning were the first day...

Yes, it is natural and normal for us to go through tunnel experiences, and when we do, let us hold on to our faith, believing that we shall come through to blessedness and joy again....

PEN in PAW

For, about and by students in Bandera schools.

Class of 88's colors to be blue and gold

Seniors voted on their class colors, song and various other things concerning graduation at the class meeting Nov. 19.

Ballots were handed out and the seniors chose the white rose from six different flowers. Out of the six different choices for class colors, the combination of midnight blue and gold won the vote. They chose the song "Forever Young" by Rod Stewart, out of the four they had to pick from and four different mottos made the ballot. A motto will be chosen by a run-off between two.

Seniors had to decide the date and location of commencement exercises. Commencement will be Friday, June 2 at the football stadium, if the school board approves it at their next meeting. If it is unapproved, graduation will be held in the BHS auditorium as it has been in previous years.

Seniors also decided not to have a speaker at their graduation exercises, and chose from three designs for a class t-shirt and sweatshirt.

BHS class officers named

Bandera High School elections are finally over, and class officers have been chosen for all grade levels. Seniors, juniors, and sophomores elected their officers last school year, but the freshmen recently held their final voting.

While the seniors and juniors have all males in office, sophomores and freshmen have all females. Seniors chose Brent Hoffer as their class president; David Kelley as vice-president; and Clint Shantz as secretary-treasurer. Juniors voted Brett Emmons, president; Eric Grenet, vice-president; and Colter Wallace, secretary-treasurer.

Oratorical contest planned

For the third year in a row the Bandera Optimist International Oratorical Contest, sponsored by the Optimist Club of Bandera, is open to all boys and girls who have not reached the age of 16.

Participants will be required to speak on the subject of "Challenge the Summit." Their speech must not be less than four minutes or longer than five. Scoring will be based on personal qualities, material, organizational delivery, and presentation and over-all effectiveness.

The contest is open to all boys and girls in public, private or parochial elementary, junior and senior high schools who fulfill the qualifications for a contestant and who are sponsored by an Optimist Club. Boys and girls will compete in separate contests.

Awards will be given to first, second and runner-up (in each division). In addition the first place winner of the contest will be eligible for further competition with a top prize of a $1,500 scholarship.

'Welcome to the jungle' theme of homecoming

Preparations for Homecoming '88 are now in full swing. "Welcome to the Jungle" will be the theme. The Homecoming Court has been chosen by the student body.

Candidates for Mr. and Miss BHS include: freshmen, Ethan Timmons, Johnny Stroud, Heather Perk, and Stacy Wakley; sophomores, Bo Mansfield, Leroy Brown, Carrie Fellows, and Shayne Felton; juniors Brett Emmons, Scott Rogers, Candi Grimes, and Patti Kindla; and seniors, John Scott, Walter Stricker, Kim Lukachik, and Priscilla Obiedo.

Mr. and Miss BHS 1988 will be announced during halftime ceremonies at the football game between Bandera and Hondo, Nov. 4 at Bulldog Stadium.

Gifted, talented students studying birth order facts

Gifted and Talented recently did a project on how birth order has a say in the way we are and how we act. As a guide, they used "The Birth Order Book" by Dr. Kevin Leman.

Initially, the GT class compared their personalities with descriptions in the book.

"We all had some of the basic characteristics, but overall, the book was right," said GT student Galy Kluna.

Here is a summary of the characteristics brought out in the book according to birth order:

• Only children: These children are often perfectionists. They are super reliable and super conscientious. On the outside they appear to have it all together. However, on the inside they may feel inferior because they've had standards set for themselves that are too high. Frequently they are very lonely.

• First-born: The first in the family are very much like only-children. They often take life seriously and aren't much for surprises. They like to be in control, on time and well-organized. They are usually achievers and leaders. He or she usually receives more discipline and punishment than his younger siblings.

• Middle-born: These children are often mediators and negotiators that avoid conflict. Many times they go outside the home for companionship because they feel left out of the family. They often "run with the pack" as teenagers. Middle-born children are many times prone to embarrassment but never admit it.

• Last-born: Youngest children often love the limelight. They can be outgoing charmers and manipulative. Also, these babies of the family can be affectionate, uncomplicated, and absent-minded. Often times the last born is the family clown or entertainer. However, sometimes they feel they aren't taken seriously and are equipped least to cope with life.

Homecoming mums on sale

The junior class meeting began with the announcement that Homecoming mums will be on sale Oct. 19-28.

The sooner they are ordered, the sooner the mums will be ready for Homecoming. They are being sold on a pre-pay basis, to avoid last minute cancellations.

This is the second fundraiser the juniors will have. The first was the Varsity football concession stand Sept. 30 for parents' night, when about $800 was earned to help sponsor the Junior-Senior prom.

Bulldog Band gets Division II

At Medina Valley High School Saturday, Oct. 15, the Bandera Bulldog band competed in the District Marching Contest where they received a Division II rating.

The Band is conducted by director Milton Fox, drum major Faye Comingore and flag corp captains Jevonne Meyer and Julie Hearn. Outstanding band members include Casey Trenkelbach, Tobey Sandidge and Kristi Henry.

Mr. Fox was asked if he was satisfied with the band this year.

"Yes, but there is a long way to go before we are a top band in class 3A," Mr. Fox said. "We were the smallest band at the contest in our class. The average size band had 125 people, our Bulldog Band had 47."

The band practices 12 to 15 hours a week, and the flag corps is taught new routines about every other week.

One of the up-coming events that the band is getting ready for is the Christmas Concert. No date has been set for it.

The main goal that Mr. Fox is trying to teach all the band members is to have pride and discipline.

Sweden exhibit set at Texan Cultures

"Sweden and American 1638-1988: A History Celebrated" will be on display at The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures from Oct. 25 through Dec. 11.

The exhibit, which documents the contributions Swedes, Swedish immigrants and Swedish Americans have made to America, consists of 12 large panels with photographs and text on both sides, with information on the New Sweden colony founded in 1638 in what is now Delaware, the immigration period and the present day relationship between Sweden and America.

Approximately 1.25 million Swedes immigrated to the United States between the Civil War and World War I, according to the Swedish Council of America. The first Swedish settler in Texas, Sven Mangum Swenson, arrived in 1838. Swenson promoted Swedish immigration to Texas, and his uncle, Svante Palm, who moved to Texas in 1850, became known as one of the most learned men in Austin.

They'll cut the ribbon at renovated Helping Hand Center on Nov. 5

A ribbon-cutting and open house will be held Nov. 5 beginning at 1 p.m. at the new Bandera County Helping Hand building on Highway 16 northwest of Bandera.

The old Grimes Funeral Home, donated by John and Susie Grimes, was moved to county property between Mansfield Park and the Bandera Electric Cooperative in June. Since that time, electricity, propane, telephone, heating and cooling, and other refurbishing has been done to make the facility ready to serve the county's needy citizens.

The actual ribbon cutting will be held at 1 p.m. and the open house will continue until 3 p.m., says Barbara Boggs, spokeswoman for the Helping Hand Open House Committee. Tours of the new facility will be given and refreshments will be served.

All county citizens are invited, says Boggs. "We are sending out 300 special invitations to county and city officials and business people," she says.

All of the building, except one room, is currently being used by the Helping Hand organization. One room is dedicated to the Spirits of Christmas program. A representative of the program that brings Christmas presents and food to needy county children will be present during the open house.

The Helping Hand Center is two miles northwest of Bandera on Highway 16. It has a separate road leading to the building outside the county yard's fence. Parking will be available Nov. 5 on the lot at the electric cooperative near the soccer field. People who come should look for the new sign, says Mildred Treaster, center director.

The last two Saturdays have been work days at the center when siding was put up along the underside of the building, says Treaster. The underpinning will help keep heat in the building when winds due this winter come blowing through.

New lights have been installed inside the building, says Treaster. "You wouldn't recognize the inside of the old building," she says.

The work days have also been to put up the inside displays, says Boggs. Shelves are still being put up as well as daily work to set up the inside.

Additional outside work will be finished after the grand opening, says Treaster.

The facility has been operating for the last month-and-a-half, says Boggs. The center opened its operation in its new facility, Sept. 1.

Catholics plan All Souls Day Mass

St. Stanislaus Catholic Church will celebrate a Mass commemorating All Souls Day Wednesday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m.

All Souls Day is a traditional time commemorating the departed souls of friends and loved ones.

There will be special devotions including a candlelight procession to the church cemetery and prayers at the site of the large cross.

After the devotions, coffee, hot mulled cider and cookies will be served at a lantern-lit country reception on the porch of the historic old convent.

"Parishioners and non-parishioners alike are invited to attend the special observance," said spokeswoman Annette Kalka-Schulte.

Harvest festival to be marked by members of Hill Country Chapel

Children and adults alike will celebrate the time of harvest at Hill Country Chapel's Monday night Harvestfest, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Children are invited to come dressed up as farmers, animals, Biblical characters, or anything that has to do with the harvest season.

There will be games, food, and refreshments in the church's dining hall, says the Rev. Albert Marks. There will be a devotion time that brings the theme of harvest into the harvesting of souls.

All ages including adult are invited, says Marks. The event will start at 7:30 p.m. and go on until 9 p.m.

Hill Country Chapel, the Mount Zion Mission, is located off Highway 46 towards Boerne. The mission's sign is on the left, pointing the road to the church.

Walk of Life Crusade covers 3,500 miles

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

After almost six months of inclement weather and blisters, Robert Moller and his mother, LaJune, returned to Bandera triumphant this week following a cross-country Walk of Life Crusade that covered some 3,500 miles.

The cross-country walk, which extended from Carmel, Calif. to Boston benefitted the American Cancer Society and the Kidney Foundation. So far, there are no figures available to tell just how much the Walk of Life Crusade raised for the two charities.

The Mollers left Bandera in April, where they intended to meet Clint Eastwood and leave from Carmel for their trek. They never got to see Eastwood, but they ate at his cafe, The Hogs Breath, and stayed at some cottages he owns.

Robert and LaJune left Carmel April 26 and arrived in Boston Oct. 17. The weather was windy, rainy and cold, and they had traveled through 25 states by the time they arrived.

Robert, whose right leg was amputated after he suffered a bone infection eight years ago, visited several hospitals and saw many people being treated for cancer and kidney disease.

"We saw one man in Arizona who was treated for cancer, and whose two brothers both had cancer," said Robert. "He was covered [illegible] and he had a really positive attitude. I think the message is don't let cancer beat you."

Robert was both inspired by and an inspiration to the people he met, according to LaJune.

"He was really determined to finish that walk," she said.

"I was really inspired by all the people, particularly kids, who came out to walk with us," said Robert.

"My motto for the trip was, winners never quit, and quitters never win," Robert said.

The Mollers met John Pusser, brother of the late Sheriff Buford Pusser in Jackson, Tenn. Pusser's life inspired the movie "Walking Tall." They saw Elvis Presley's Graceland in Memphis, and visited Fort El Reno in Oklahoma.

They saw the Liberty Bell and Betsy Ross's home in Philadelphia, and when they arrived in Boston, they traveled the Freedom Trail, where they saw the burial sites of such famous Americans as Samuel Adams and Paul Revere.

The Mollers aren't sure of the date of their next walk, but they are sure there will be one.

"Next time we want to go to Canada," said Robert, with a big grin.

Big bucks due at Downs during November racing

A $5,000-added Lone Star Derby for 3-year-olds will be run at Bandera Downs on Nov. 13, track officials announced this week, and a $2,500-added Lone Star, Futurity will be run for 2-year-olds on the same day.

Trial heats for the two feature races will be run on Nov. 5 and 6, track officials said.

They also announced a trio of races with a total of $11,000 added to the purse in addition to entry fees to be run on Jan. 29 with trials on Jan. 22.

The three races will be called the January Futurity, January Allowance and January Maturity. The first two events will be $5,000-added events and $1,000 will be added to the purse of the maturity. Futurities are for 2-year-olds, the allowance is for 3-year-olds, and the maturity is for quarter horses 4 years of age or older.

The gross purse of the 1988 January Allowance reached $40,500, the track said. The winner earns 35 percent of the purse.

The Lone Star Futurity and the Lone Star Derby will be over 330 yards, the January Futurity over 250 yards, and the January Allowance and Maturity over 330 yards.

Conditions were announced this week for 29 races on Nov. 5, including trials for the Lone Star Futurity, the Long Neck Allowance and the Quarter Horse Breeders Classic Futurity.

Twenty-nine races were tentatively scheduled for Nov. 6 also, including trials for the Armadillo Sprint and the Lone Star Derby.

A total of 30 races were tentatively scheduled for Nov. 13, including the finals of the Lone Star Futurity, the Armadillo Sprint and the Quarter Horse Breeders Classic's southwest region finals.

Races are held in those events that draw a sufficient number of entries, so the actual number of races held may be fewer than conditions are announced for, track officials have explained.

Other features on the current schedule include the Yearend Championship Races, the Whitetail Sprint and the Holiday Allowance on Dec. 18, with trials on Dec. 11.

In exercise

Staff Sgt. Michael P. Lucas, 24th Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, recently participated in a deployment for training exercise in the Dominican Republic.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Estenson of Bandera.

The exercise was done in conjunction with the Dominican Air Force. It was a chance for the U.S. Air Force to train with the Dominican Air Force.

He has been in the Air Force for 11 years.

'Dogs to attack 'Goats from air, says Swierc

By Nick Johnson
Editor

Bandera's starting quarterback Scott Rogers is out for the season, Bulldog Coach Sam Swierc said this week, but that won't change the coach's plans to fill the air with footballs at Fredericksburg Friday.

Rogers' injury, incurred Sept. 30 in the Comfort game here, was diagnosed this week as a chipped bone in his arch, Swierc said.

That means the junior signal caller will sit out the rest of the season, turning the reins of the Bulldog offense over to Jason Schneider.

He's only a sophomore, but he's already logged a lot of quality minutes substituting for Rogers, whose injured foot has nagged him since Sept. 30.

Swierc thinks the Bulldogs' best chance to move the ball against Fredericksburg Friday is through the air, and he'll be looking to his sophomore man-under to provide the arm.

"If we can pass, that's what we're going to do," Swierc said Tuesday.

Rogers and Schneider are the only quarterbacks listed in the Bulldog program, but Swierc says senior fullback Phil Soliz can play quarterback and will be available for backup duty.

The second-year Bandera coach said his scouting reports show that the most productive point of attack against the Billie Goats of Fredericksburg has been through the air.

Swierc hasn't gone to the air much this year, but came out passing last week at Sonora.

Rogers completed a pass for a first down on the Bulldogs' second offensive play of the game, but was intercepted on the next play.

That took momentum away from the Bandera team, and it never fully recovered. A clipping penalty on a punt return also hurt, Swierc said.

Sonora was able to pass almost at will in the second half to build on its not-insurmountable 13-0 halftime advantage.

Sonora went on to bash the 'Dogs, 39-0.

"We're kind of down," Swierc acknowledges. "It's kind of tough to go through practice knowing we should be 4-4 (instead of 2-6)," he explains. He says he feels the 'Dogs should have won at Natalia and Llano, games they narrowly lost on last-minute incidents.

Still, the Bulldog players are working hard in practice and no one has quit the team, Swierc says.

The brightest part of Friday's game at Sonora was the play of sophomore linebacker Bo Mansfield, whose 21 unassisted tackles brought his season's total to 110.

Mansfield also leads the team in assisted tackles with 52, and blocked kicks with 2, and is tied for the team lead in causing fumbles with 3.

Punter Leroy Brown, also a 10th grader, continued his punting wizardry at Sonora. He averages about 42 yards per punt this year, Swierc says, and many of his efforts have been out of bounds inside the 20-yard line.

"I don't think there's a better sophomore punter (than Brown) in Texas nor a better sophomore linebacker (than Mansfield)," Swierc said Tuesday.

Brown is also an excellent defensive end who leads the team in tackling opposing players for losses, recovering fumbles and making "big plays."

Kickoff Friday in Fredericksburg will be at 8 p.m., and Mansfield, Brown and the rest of the Bandera defense will probably get good looks at No. 31 Derrick Dietrick and No. 40 Russell Mollendorf.

Those two big backs carry most of the Billie offensive load, Swierc says.

'Cats clamp Coyotes, 28-25

Medina place-kicker Chris Keiser provided the winning edge for the Bobcat's 28-25 homecoming win over the Uvalde junior varsity Coyotes Friday, Oct. 21.

Both teams scored four touchdowns for the night, but Keiser out-toed the Coyotes' kicker by booting four consecutive points after touchdown. The visitors could only muster one extra point.

Bobcat quarterback Tim Green grabbed pay dirt first when he eluded the entire Uvalde defense on a keeper from the 30-yard stripe halfway through the first quarter.

The Coyotes came howling back early in the second period on a 12-yard pass that netted six points.

Two minutes later the 'Dogs grabbed a short Bobcat punt and raced 40 yards for the score. This time their PAT attempt was blocked by David Pickle.

Medina tied the score again with four minutes left in the half when Green ran in from the 20. Keiser's boot gave the 'Cats a slim 14-13 lead.

Uvalde spoiled the half when they completed an 11-yard TD pass with 26 seconds to play, but failed on the 2-point conversion attempt.

Six minutes after the intermission Medina was back in the lead when fullback Tony LeStrougeon rammed over the Coyote goal from the three.

The Coyotes tipped the balance back with 53 seconds left in the period on a one-yard run. They opted once more for the two-points and again failed.

The 'Cats claimed the lead for the final time when Thomas Fields carried the ball in for six points on a 5-yard run with 9:56 left to play.

The sophomore running-back made a good showing in this, his first varsity game. In addition to the TD, Fields rushed for 61 yards in 10 carries.

Unfortunately, the win does nothing to advance the 'Cats in district 29-A. Uvalde was a substitute team to replace the originally scheduled Leakey Eagles who cancelled their season.

Medina will visit Center Point on Friday, Oct. 28. Game time is 8 p.m.

Bandera Downs Year End series Dec. 11 and 18

A Year End Championship series, with $4,000 added to entry fees, will be held at Bandera Downs Dec. 11 and 18, the track announced this week.

It also announced a pair of races on the same dates calling attention to the hunting and holiday seasons, with $3,000 added.

Trial heats for all six races will be on Dec. 11 and finals on Dec. 18.

The championship series will include a juvenile championship over 350 yards for 2-year-olds of any sex and championship races of 250, 550 and 770 yards for 3-year-olds and up, again with no sex allowance.

The Whitetail Sprint, with $1,500 added to the purse, is for 2-year-olds with a speed index of 79 or less and the Holiday Allowance, also with $1,500 added, is for 3-year-olds with a speed index of 79 or less.

There will be no consolations in any of the events, the track said.

The Bandera Bulletin

Our 45th Year, No. 17 — Thursday, November 3, 1988 — Twenty-five cents

Spell for you. Halloween parties were the rule this Monday and pictures to prove it are on page 1B.

This time it was Ed Jennings' turn to say, "I do."

Marrying judge Jennings says 'I do' himself

After 1,747 weddings, Judge Ed Jennings, 73, took the plunge Oct. 29 and said, "I do" rather than "I now pronounce you..." to Sue Marshall.

Jennings, retired justice of the peace for Precinct 2, who marries as many as two to three couples a week under his "Marrying Oak" at his home in Pipe Creek, had Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Bonnie Towers officiate at the afternoon wedding.

Jennings, a Louisville, Ky. native, met Marshall, a Missouri native, at a Lakehills Civic Center dance almost three years ago. "One thing led to another," says Jennings.

Jennings proposed to Marshall on a recent trip through the Cumberland Mountains in Tennessee. "The spirit moved him and I was ready," says the new Mrs. Jennings, who is 65, and "proud of it."

Some 100 area friends attended the ceremony, which was short, sweet, and to the point, like many of Jennings' jokes. Also attending were four Pipe Creek EMTs who gave him oxygen to compliment Jenning's practical joke mannerism.

Richard Towers stood as best man for Jennings and Marshall's son, Glenn, gave away the bride. Also part of the ceremony was Marshall's daughter, Priscilla Vordenbaum, who served matron of honor. Marshall's granddaughter, Kristy Vordenbaum, 11, caught the bride's bouquet.

Plans for the Jennings include more marriage ceremonies for whoever wants their vows repeated underneath Ed's Marrying Oak. "As long as the good God keeps producing them, I'll keep marrying them," says Jennings.

As far as a trip for the wedding couple, Sue Jennings says plans are in the works for a trip to the Rocky Mountains.

Absentee turnout heavy

Absentee voting began with a "bang" Oct. 19, and the record number of voters that are showing up daily at the county clerk's office to mark their ballots doesn't show any sign of letting up before the close of absentee voting Friday, Nov. 4.

Some 715 voters had cast their vote either by mail or by personal appearance by the close of business Tuesday. Fully 578 of those voted in person, and 137 voted by mail. A total of 302 ballots have been mailed out, and Bandera County clerk Vera King said she is expecting "lots more to come in" before the week is out.

The absentee total in 1984, including both personal appearance and mail-ins, was 431.

"This is more than we have ever had," said King. "The number of absentee voters is at an all-time high."

So far, the peak voting days have been Monday, Oct. 31, when 85 appeared to vote, and Friday, Oct. 28, when 82 voted.

Take one buck per 200 acres, says state agency

Wildlife personnel are recommending that Bandera County landowners try to harvest one doe or antlerless deer for every 50 acres they own and one buck for every 200 acres.

"The recommended rates result from the need to better balance the sex ratio observed in the (county's) herd and from a desire to produce a healthier deer population that is properly matched to the existing supply of deer foods in the county," the wildlife department said.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said this week, in a news release that did not quote any single individual, that its annual deer population survey in Bandera County showed a slight decrease from last year's estimated population.

Its deer population surveys indicate 59 deer per 1,000 acres, or about 30,000 deer county-wide.

The wildlife department acknowledged the recommended harvest rate was based on county-wide averages and may not be completely suitable for each individual ranch in the county.

Deer hunting season opens in Bandera County 30 minutes before sunup Saturday, Nov. 5, which comes at 6:50 a.m., and veteran game warden Carl Becker said he anticipates a good harvest of deer whose physical condition will be helped by a bumper crop of acorns.

Doe permits or special doe tags will not be issued nor required for the second straight year and the bag limit is also the same as last year—four deer but no more than two antlered deer.

While the season opens in Bandera County on Saturday, Nov. 5, it won't open in neighboring Medina and Uvalde counties until Nov. 12. Becker urged successful hunters to tag their slain deer immediately and put the county in which it was killed on the tag.

Hunters' Barbecue beckons sportsmen, townsfolk alike

If Minnie Hayes has tears in her eyes Friday night, it won't be because she's sad nor will be an unusual phenomenon for her this time of year.

It's happened to her in early November every year for the past quarter century.

Minnie has cut the onions for the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce's annual Hunter's Barbecue for the past 25 years and barbecue chairman Leanne Miller says she'll be cutting up 60 pounds again this year.

It's enough to bring tears to your eyes.

She won't be the only one contributing sweat and tears, if not blood, Friday when the community pays tribute to their hunting visitors by throwing a barbecue at Mansfield Park in which townspeople and visiting hunters dine together in friendly fellowship.

Of course onions won't be the only thing on the menu, Miller says. She says she's ordered 1,500 pounds of brisket to be barbecued to a turn by a crew of experienced cooks headed by banker Fabian Mazurek. They'll also cook up a quarter ton of sausage, Miller says.

Several of the guest ranches in the area are donating and cooking 20-pound pots of beans, and together with 10-pound pots contributed by ordinary citizens, Miller hopes to have available 140 pounds of the brown beauties to ladle onto the waiting plates of hunters and natives.

Volunteers will also serve some 170 pounds of slaw, Miller says.

She's expecting between 1,100 and 1,200 diners Friday when serving begins at 5:30 p.m. Friday. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for children.

It has been a Bandera tradition that lease owners purchase tickets to provide a free dinner to visiting hunters who lease their land for hunting. Townsfolk pay their own way for the privilege of dining with the hunters and telling them thanks for coming to Bandera.

Besides dining, there will be entertainment and prizes. Dr. George Meador and his Tune Wranglers, also a Hunter's Barbecue fixture over the years, will play and singer Ballan Grant will sing during intermissions.

Appraisal board says it'll adjust budget

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

After hearing 15 commissioners, councilmen and school trustees urge cuts in chief appraiser Larry Reagan's proposed salary, the Bandera County Appraisal District's directors Tuesday promised an acceptable budget before its Nov. 20 deadline.

They plan a budget workshop session Tuesday, Nov. 1.

No action was taken Tuesday, however, to reshape the $196,950 budget for 1989 that has been twice rejected by a majority of the taxing entities that pay for it.

Appraisal district directors present Tuesday included board president Fabian Mazurek, W.B. Kirkpatrick, Joe Hearn and Joe Snyder. Murray LeStourgeon of Medina was absent.

Mazurek announced there would be another budget meeting at which the taxing authorities would be invited back and the board would prepare another 1989 budget. "We will sit down and draw up a budget acceptable to the taxing entities," he said.

School board president Charlette Salzman of Pipe Creek said Reagan's salary was the main reason the school board turned down the district's budget. The consensus of its Oct. 11 meeting was that the chief appraiser's salary should be reduced by $1,740, she said. This would allow Reagan a $30,000 salary and $3,000 in travel expenses.

A letter from the city of Bandera gave the salary increase for Reagan and the map system as their main concerns, recalled Mazurek. The four city councilmembers in attendance agreed and councilman Robert Skinner suggested that the board consider the Blanco County appraisal district budget, which is set at $99,041 for 1989.

The Bandera County district has 40,495 accounts while the Blanco County district has 12,203 accounts, therefore making an unfair comparison, said Reagan.

An account is a set of contiguous properties that is not separated due to a different taxing classification. One house on one lot, ten lots with houses all homesteaded, and 24 lots plus a house, all with a single owner, were all examples of single accounts given by Reagan. An example of two accounts was one owner who has a lot plus a house in town and 10 acres outside of

"It's all over but the shouting, the last hurrah."

"That's how it ends, with a sound bite not a bang."

There is not joy in Mudville tonight. Mighty Casey has struck out."

Might as well keep those lines handy. You can use them not only after the election is over, but also when the Dallas Cowboys' season comes to a merciful end.

(The rumors that Dan Quayle is in line for Tom Landry's job are just rumors — so far.)

Dukakis-Bentsen are not out of it yet, even though the polls become increasingly accurate as election day nears. If Dukakis-Bentsen pull it out, it will at least tarnish the products sold by the media wizards.

Even if Bush-Quayle win, they will have won no mandate for any policies other than everybody gets to keep their personal fire-power, and let's buy whatever the defense contractors are selling.

If Dukakis-Bentsen win, they will have little more on which to govern. Many analyses will say, "Boy, were you guys lucky."

Either ticket once in office, will be under attack almost immediately. Bush-Quayle for, How are you going to cut the deficit? Dukakis-Bentsen for, How are you going to differ from Reagan?

Who is to blame?

Certainly the candidates and their advisers.

Yet there is enough blame to go around.

Some Americans seem to have become incredibly simple about politics. They expect the man on the white horse to ride into town, gun down Black Bart, and leave them to private lives with plump children and fat Christmas stockings.

We should know better after losing the wars on poverty, crime and Vietnam.

Government only takes you so far.

Politics is only in part what government does to make things work. Politics is, when it happens, in large part and in the first place, what people do to make their government work.

Government is not like putting an automatic transmission in drive, or flipping the handle on a flush toilet. Government is more like doing a valve job on a flathead Ford, or hand-digging a privy in limestone.

Besides, it has not been all that bad. Sure, most of the commercials stink and the debates were lame. Still, there have been bright moments.

Dukakis in the tank is a hoot, as endearing as Reagan cupping his hand to his ear when he gets on the helicopter. Bill Clements as the coach of the Texas Supreme Court in the locker room is comic genius.

It is a much more authentic piece of Texana than that beer commercial made in San Francisco for a Wisconsin company.

How does that jingle go again? "Give me soft jobs, hard-working women, and rich relatives."

State Capitol

Highlights

By Lyndell Williams

As campaign armies march on to Election Day, the heat was turned up last week when two top state officials traded partisan charges of balloting fraud and voter intimidation.

Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains, a Republican, ordered the impoundment of absentee paper ballots in Hidalgo County while he investigates possible voter fraud there.

Firing back, Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, who heads the Dukakis-Bentsen campaign in Texas, accused Rains of trying to intimidate South Texas Hispanic voters with radio ads, Texas Rangers and FBI agents.

Rains is looking at improperly printed absentee ballots which he said could have led to some votes for the Bush-Quayle ticket being thrown out on Election Day. If it's proven the ballot was designed for that purpose, other legal action may follow.

A typographical error on the ballot might lead a voter to unknowingly void his own ballot by simultaneously voting for Bush for president and Bentsen for vice president.

Valley voting crucial

Ever since history turned up the story of how LBJ won his statewide election with mysterious votes from a Duval County graveyard, vote tallies from South Texas have always been suspect — whether rightly, wrongly or hypocritically — by-at least a few pols in other parts of Texas.

Historically, South Texas has been a Democratic bastion, growing stronger with each election and placing more and more of their number into the political State Capitol establishment.

Some observers speculate, perhaps naively, that South Texas is now strong enough to divide into a two-party region.

However, if South Texas imitates other regions which went from Democrat to Republican, it will first develop a large block of independent voters, or ticket-splitters.

That could happen as early as this year, because Republicans are wooing Hispanics more ardently than ever before.

Municipal judge urges citizens to become involved with courts

Dear editor:

Reading Ms. Clara A. Eigner's letter to the Editor "No More Trust" caused concern, especially her statement that "I have no trust in the law enforcement here and certainly not in the courts of Bandera." Because Ms. Eigner received her ticket from a city officer and a trial before the city's municipal court, her accusation deserves a response.

The facts are that Ms. Eigner received a trial before a jury of six of her peers and was not found guilty by the judge as alleged. An unfavorable ruling does not necessarily mean an unjust ruling. Further, an unfavorable ruling should not automatically breed distrust.

This is not to say that all actions taken by law enforcement and courts in Bandera County should be condoned. I applaud Ms. Eigner for bringing forward a concern I hear all too often in our community. We do, like most communities, have our problems, but none that cannot be resolved if each of us accepts more responsibility in holding both law enforcement and our courts accountable to the standards we expect.

We have taken the first step by requiring that candidates seeking the job of sheriff become more accessable to our concerns. After the election, continue to expect the sheriff and your elected judges to live up to the trust conveyed upon them.

At the city level, if a police officer is less than professional, file a complaint with the chief of police with a copy sent to each member of the city council.

As to the municipal judge, again accept your responsibility. The judge is appointed. Less than fair and impartial treatment need not be tolerated. Again put your complaint in writing and submit it to the city council. An active grievance committee should be created to consider complaints against both the police and municipal court.

The four justices of the peace in this county are elected and deserve the same scrutiny in your selection. Such scrutiny must continue after election. When was the last time you attended a proceeding in the county, justice or municipal court? When was the last time you took the time to talk to a police officer or deputy? Do your law enforcement and courts share your values, your concerns, and your hopes for our community? How will you know unless you get involved? If we are doing a good job, then lend us your support. If we are not, then hold us accountable.

Our government officials are supported by your tax dollars; you are the employer. I wonder how successful any business would be if the employer only occasionally gave direction, but rather through indifference allowed the employees to exclusively determine the standards and business operation. Why should your law enforcement and courts be any different? The problem as I see it is not distrust, but rather apathy.

I have served as municipal judge since August 1987, and attempt to hold court on a regular basis. Unfortunately, concerned citizens do not attend the court proceedings to evaluate my operation. How do you know I am worthy or unworthy of your trust? The same certainly needs to be asked of our other judges. To find out the court's trial dates, call the court clerk, make it a point to make your own determination.

If you feel that a court's conduct is improper, don't just complain to your friends then write off our entire system. Rather take positive action by discussing the matter with the judge, with your elected officials, and if necessary file a complaint with the Texas Commission of Judicial Conduct, a state agency designed to monitor the conduct of our judges. Their phone number is (512) 463-5533.

To facilitate its public scrutiny, I recommend that each justice court hold its proceedings, whether by judge or jury, in the open courtroom in the county's courthouse. Further, a regular schedule of court trial dates, whether county, justice or municipal court, should be available and posted at least monthly in the newspaper.

Hopefully you will find that our courts are indeed operating with the integrity and dignity that your trust demands. Hopefully you will find that persons appearing before our courts are afforded their constitutional right of a fair and impartial trial. On the other hand, with continued indifference and apathy, you may find that you may be getting no more than you deserve. Trust is not something automatically bestowed upon law enforcement and the courts, but rather something that is earned through your constant evaluation of our performance and commitment to the laws we have taken an oath to uphold and enforce.

Keep them penned

Dear editor:

I want to tell what dogs will do. We had 10 black Spanish-bred nannie goats and one billy to keep our weeds down. Thursday night after midnight, Oct. 27, our goats were in the pen and shed.

A pack of dogs came and killed five nannies and crippled the billy and chewed up the other five nannies and part of them can't walk yet. These dogs came from Polly's Peak subdivision.

We love dogs as well as you do. We love our goats too. We ask every dog owner to keep his dogs in a pen to where they can't mix with their neighbors and kill stock.

Training IRS agents

Dear editor:

Taxes in Bandera County have increased to the point that a lot of senior citizens cannot afford to own property any longer. I have personally sold everything I own in Bandera County and purchased a motor home to live in. Have you noticed how many RV's are on the road today? If you think taxes are bad now, just wait until after the election next month.

Remember, more taxes less freedom; less taxes more freedom.

The Internal Revenue Service and the Bandera Appraisal District have a lot in common. The appraisal district would make a good training school for IRS agents.

Bandera County

potpourri

By Nick Johnson

Political endorsements per se are not published as letters to the editor, but a couple received this week also contain some discussion of the issues of this campaign, such as they are:

Dear editor:

It is shameful that the American people and especially the people of Texas must be subjected to the propaganda being recklessly tossed about by the senior senator of our state, Lloyd Bentsen. The statement he made, "You are no Jack Kennedy," was not only uncalled for, it showed the arrogant character of our senior senator. Sen. Dan Quayle did not compare himself to the second most degrading president this country has had to suffer through (Lyndon Johnson being first) because then he would be confessing to the morals of an alley cat. Let us get the record straight. Although assassinated while president, the late John F. Kennedy was the most over-rated politician in American history and his one achievement as president, the Cuban missile crisis, was overshadowed by his withdrawal of the promised air support at the Bay of Pigs.

There is no choice in this presidential election. The record of Michael Dukakis as governor of Massachusetts is as sorry as any record with which I am familiar. He DID work to pass a bill to let murderers, rapists, etc. go on weekend passes. He DID veto a bill requiring the pledge of allegiance to the flag of our country. He is claiming to have cut taxes in his state, when in fact the people there call him "Taxakakis" and refer to their state as "Taxachussettes." He CLAIMS to be the environment candidate yet Boston Harbor is so filthy you can smell it all the way to the governor's office.

At least three supreme court justices will retire before the next presidential term has expired. The man we elect to the highest office in the world will make appointments to the next occupants of these seats on the court. Think about this, my friends. Do you want a man with Dukakis's record to appoint men that will decide what the constitution says about the rights of the victims of crime, about the rights of unborn babies, about the water you drink and about the air you breath? I don't and neither do most Americans.

Dear editor:

Let's talk about drugs. The LA Times has a series of articles entitled, "Cocaine and the White House." These claim White House — namely George Bush — participation in drug dealing.

Bill Moyers special, "The Constitution in Crisis," also discusses similar happenings, and another special entitled, "Guns, Drugs, and the CIA," picks up the same theme.

Time Magazine on June 15, 1987, discussed a visit to the White House by H. Ross Perot, Texas multi-billionaire, who informed Reagan and Bush about a huge heroine trade involving assistant secretary of defense Richard Armitage. Nothing was done, except that Perot was told to lay off by Carlucci.

Col. James Gritz, the most decorated Green Beret commander of the Vietnam War and the inspiration behind Rambo, "Uncommon Valour," and "Missing in Action," and hero of Gen. Westmoreland's documentary, "A Soldier Reports," came back from Burma with an extraordinary offer from Gen. Khun Sa to end heroine traffic from the golden triangle — 1,200 tons a year or about $50 billion worth. Bush said he had no interest, and the justice department is trying to put the man in jail. Gritz also reported possible involvement by Armitage and others.

There is no way that between now and the election George Bush can be found guilty or innocent of crimes as may have been suggested, but something is wrong when all these reports are surfacing and Bush does absolutely nothing but try to cover them up.

With 5 percent of the world's population using 50 percent of the world's drugs, we have a problem. George Bush is directly responsible for that problem. George Bush did nothing, but try to hide it. Is that what we can expect of him as president?

If, on the other hand, complicity is discovered after he is elected, will we have another impeachment? The American press should think twice before it prematurely elects a George Bush president without a vote of the people.

City delays hiring fourth policeman

Citing financial problems, the Bandera City Council Monday voted to delay consideration of hiring a third patrolman until its Nov. 14 meeting, despite a plea from Police Chief Walter Walsh that he needed the additional hand this weekend for the opening of hunting season.

The council voted 4-1, with Ross Bailey voting no, to table consideration of hiring George Riojas, a five-year veteran of law enforcement work, Mayor Raymond Adamietz said. Voting to delay hiring a replacement were Joe Fox, Carl Adamietz, Chuck Haver and Robert Skinner.

"They used the city's financial situation as an excuse," commented Mayor Adamietz. The city hasn't generated enough revenue in recent months to pay all their obligations and have had to borrow funds from its water department to make ends meet, once in a so-called "emergency meeting" held after midnight.

Chief Welch had recommended the council hire Riojas to replace James (Red) Evans, who quit the Bandera police force Aug. 14 to join the Uvalde Police Department. He is the second Bandera policeman to join the Uvalde department in a little more than a year, Mayor Adamietz said.

Welch said the crowds of deer hunters expected in Bandera for the opening of hunting season Saturday, Nov. 5, would cause additional pressures on his current police force which has been working overtime recently because it is one man short.

There are currently two patrolmen besides Welch on the Bandera police force, including Doyle Brooks and Mike Bolton.

Election Watch planned at Youth Center

Hot dogs, sodas, cakes, cookies and coffee will be among the goodies available at the Bandera Youth Center Tuesday, Nov. 8 when Republicans and Democrats alike will gather after polls close for an election watch.

Bandera's Rainbow Girls will provide baked goods, tea and coffee; and Bandera County Youth Forum will have hot dogs and sodas available. There will be at least two televisions, one tuned to CNN and the other monitoring national network news results, according to spokeswoman Janna Sandidge.

"We will also have a radio link-up with the court house," she said. "Donnie Walker volunteered the use of his radios when the others we were promised fell through last week. We will have the results as soon as they are available at the Bandera County clerk's office."

The Youth Center will open at 6 p.m., and will remain open until "all the results are in, and there isn't anything left to watch," Sandidge said.

The Election Watch is sponsored by the Bandera County Youth Forum and Bandera Rainbow Assembly.

County eyes grants to promote tourism here

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Bandera County with the assistance of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce is applying for two $4,000 grants, one to pay for a study to make the Mansfield Park rodeo arena a multi-purpose facility and another to find ways to further promote tourism in the area.

Both grants, coming from the U.S. Department of Commerce as part of the Rural Economic Development Technical Assistance Grant program, are based on promoting economic development in the local area by creating jobs in private business.

Part of the funds for the studies would have to come from the chamber of commerce, county, city, or other sources.

One grant would fund a development study to determine if a roof can be placed over the current Mansfield Park rodeo arena to make it an all-weather facility, says Joe W. McMullan, chairman of the economic development committee for the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce. The grant may also explore other options, such as a separate facility.

The $4,000 grant would not be used for any construction, but only for the planning. The grant would cover the preparation of a proposal that would be used to request a major grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce to build a covered exhibition facility, says McMullan.

The covered arena would be a multi-purpose facility for exhibitions, shows, and other events, and not just limited to rodeo, says McMullan. "We want to create a facility that will benefit everyone in the county."

In the grant application, McMullan says, "We hope to further enhance our position as the Cowboy Capital of the World by improving our county park's arena area by making it an all-weather, multi-purpose facility."

Money from outside the county must be used to prepare the covered-arena proposal, because the county can't afford the paid staff other government entities have to prepare grant requests, says McMullan. "We don't have that luxury."

The second grant that the county will apply for through the chamber of commerce is more general in nature and seeks to find ways to further develop the county for tourist-related activities, says McMullan.

To receive either grant, however, the chamber, county, city, and other interested parties will have to provide a minimum of $1,000.

There is grant money available for economic development studies, says County Judge Ray Mauer, who is on the Alamo Area Council of Government Committee that recommends grant applications to the state for approval. Surrounding counties have received these type of grants, he says.

The grant program is designed to provide funds so a study or a plan can be developed that will be useful in improving unemployment and underemployment in economically distressed rural areas.

A response to the application is anticipated by the end of the year, says McMullan. If the Center for Economic Development established at the University of Texas of San Antonio, which administers the grants, selects either or both Bandera grants, then a formal application package will have to be completed and submitted.

The county is also applying for a $249,000 low-income housing rehabilitation grant from the state and federal government, which was submitted in late October.

The chamber of commerce is also exploring the possibility of the Lower Colorado River Authority providing a study to find economic factors in our area that can bring further economic activity to Bandera County, says McMullan. This is part of the river authority's major thrust to generate economic activity in rural counties.

The LCRA is currently assisting the Bandera Downs in filing their application for a racing license.

Unemployment here up in September

By William Wall
Interstate News Service

Austin — Bandera County's unemployment rate in September increased by 1 percent over August, according to figures released Tuesday by the Texas Employment Commission.

The monthly Texas Labor Market Analysis showed that Bandera County's jobless rate for September was 3.8 percent, up from the August figure of 2.8 percent.

The rate in September 1987 was 4 percent.

The statewide unemployment rate for September was 7.1 percent, a four-tenths of one percent increase from August, but a 1.4 percent decline from September 1987.

"The state and regional economies are still relatively soft and we're not seeing many significant changes in less populated counties like Bandera," said Terence Traviand, assistant chief of economic research for the TEC.

"A 3.8 percent unemployment rate is still low and, compared to September 1987, there were close to 400 more people employed in the county last month," he said.

The latest report showed that all but one of the surrounding counties had an increase in the jobless rate from August to September.

Unemployment increased in Kerr County by one-tenth of one percent to 2.9 percent, in Uvalde County by four tenths of one percent to 10.4 percent, in Medina County by two-tenths of one percent to 5.5 percent, and in Real County by 3 percent to 6.5 percent.

Kendall County unemployment dropped by three-tenths of one percent to 2.7 percent over the same period.

TEC statistics indicate that 4,461 persons in the Bandera County civilian labor force were employed in September out of a 4,639. Unemployment benefit claims were filed by 178 persons during the month.

In comparison, the county's total work force in August was 4,565, of whom 4,439 were employed.

Figures taken from the September 1987 report showed the county's total work force was 4,252, with 4,084 employed.

The statewide statistics showed 7,793,200 persons employed in the state out of a total civilian labor force of 8,469,300, the report said.

Figures from the September 1987 report showed 7,569,200 were employed in Texas out of 8,273,200.

"The statewide increase in unemployment from August to September reflects a downward trend in the oil and gas and construction industries," Travland said. "Employment in the mining sector dropped by 1900 jobs over the month and figures are 2300 below last year's totals.

Plant meeting re-set

The November meeting of Bandera Chapter of the Native Plant Society of Texas has been postponed until Tuesday, Nov. 15, according to an announcement this week by the group's new president, Jimmie Maxwell.

The change was made, said Maxwell, so members might watch election returns on the regular meeting date.

Planting and cultivation of madrona trees will be the meeting topic, to be presented by Dorothy Mattiza, society member who is an acknowledged expert on the successful propagation of madronas.

The meeting will be held as usual in the Old Jail building at 7:30 p.m.

Candidate's wife due to campaign here Saturday

Rosemary Boulter, wife of U.S. Senate hopeful Beau Boulter, will be in Bandera Saturday, Nov. 5, to meet with Bandera voters.

According to Mary Jane Cave, Bandera County Boulter chairperson, Mrs. Boulter will be arriving at Republican Headquarters in Bandera at 8:30 a.m. From there they will go to the OST.

Anyone wishing to meet Rosemary should be at Republican Headquarters between 8:30 and 9 a.m.

There are approximately 2,300 property owners in Bandera county, said Reagan. There are also 5,500 accounts that deal with automobiles, he said.

Managerial procedures need to be corrected so the tax rolls will come out on time, said County Judge Ray Mauer. "We want the tax rolls done and the district should have the personnel and maps to do the job, but we don't want to give a raise to someone who doesn't deserve it."

"The budget is not the problem, but it's our only tool to get the board's attention," said county commissioner Dan Alania. The district needs appraisal procedures to get fair appraisals, better management to meet deadlines, better cooperation between the district and taxing entities, and correct the adversarial attitude of the Appraisal Review Board, he said.

Commissioner Pete Reed expressed his concern over Reagan's salary and commissioner Bud Thompson agreed that the salary of Reagan was the main problem.

Commissioner Jim Russell questioned the submission of the budget a second time without any change.

Submitting the budget without change the second time was not intended as a slap in the face of the taxing entities, board member Joe Hearn replied. "We felt strongly about the budget and there is no hard proof that Reagan is out of line."

Other representatives from taxing authorities included Bandera school superintendent Ted Dockery, Bandera ISD tax-assessor collector Margrit Guenther, Bandera County tax-assessor collector Marguerite Stevens, and Bandera County River Authority executive director Ray Buck.

There were no representatives from Medina ISD and Utopia ISD.

The taxing entities that can vote on the budget are Bandera County, Bandera Independent School District, the city of Bandera, Medina Independent School District, and Utopia Independent School District.

There were also 25 concerned citizens at the meeting, but none were allowed to speak. Board president Mazurek closed the floor to all but elected officials of the taxing entities.

Afterwards, Frank Anderwald expressed his frustration by saying this is the sixth meeting on the appraisal district's budget and apparently the elected officials aren't directing the board and the board won't tell the chief appraiser how to appraise property. "I have the feeling that they (the appraisal district board members) are not listening. There is a lack of communication between the taxing entities and the board," he charged.

Great Smokeout to be on Nov. 17

The topic for the American Cancer Society meeting on Monday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m. at the First State Bank will be the "Great American Smokeout."

Fredericksburg's Vintage Car Club will be in Bandera on Saturday, Nov. 12, to start Bandera's Smokeout Campaign on Nov. 17. The Smokeout is sponsored by the ACS each year on the Thursday before Thanksgiving to encourage tobacco users to set aside their cigarettes, cigars, snuff and chewing tobacco for 24 hours.

Houston Astro pitcher Nolan Ryan is the Texas Honorary Chairman for the "Smokeout" of '88.

"Please come to the meeting and help us plan this campaign," says Jo Russell, communications chairman for the Bandera unit of the ACS.

This year's Smokeout, Nov. 17, is the 12th anniversary of the national day off from smoking and tobacco use.

"My philosophy is you've got to take care of yourself," honorary chairman Ryan said. "There are no benefits to smoking or using tobacco, but plenty of good reasons to quit. The Great American Smokeout is a chance for smokers to take care of themselves, and get some support while they're doing it," he added.

Ryan has pitched for major league teams for 22 years, and has been with the Astros for eight years. He won his 100th game for the Astros this season and recently published his autobiography, "Throwing Heat."

Ryan is featured in a thirty-second television public service announcement to be distributed statewide this month.

"The Great American Smokeout has a successful batting average, and I respect that," he said. "I hope my participation will help maintain that success."

Last year, according to a Gallup survey, 19.6 million American smokers participated in the Smokeout by quitting or cutting down for the day. The Society hopes at least one in five of the nation's 50 million smokers will make the attempt this year.

"We're delighted that a sports figure of Nolan Ryan's caliber is getting behind our effort," said Jim McLean, R.N., chairman of Smokeout campaign in Texas.

"There's no question he's a hero to young people and baseball fans, and we hope they will follow his example of a smoke-free, healthy lifestyle," McLean said.

Alice Lynne and Scott Hicks

Fitzpatrick, Hicks married in Kerrville

Alice Lynne Fitzpatrick and Scott Ernest Hicks were united in marriage at Notre Dame Catholic Church in Kerrville, on Sunday, Oct. 2.

Father Robbins said the wedding Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Wanda Fitzpatrick of Bandera and Alfred Fitzpatrick of Carrizo Springs. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hicks of Bandera.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an old-fashioned ivory satin and lace gown with a full skirt which flowed into a chapel length train with a satin ruffled apron. Her veil was ivory with a headpiece containing tiny pearls and silk flowers. She carried a cascading bouquet of ivory and purple flowers.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with tails and an ivory shirt.

Maid of honor was Sandy Fitzpatrick, the bride's sister, of Bandera. Bridesmaids were Darcy Quarles, of Lakehills; Armella Montague of Lynchburg, Va.; Billie Joan Keith of Escondido, Calif.; Susan Kerley of Balmorhea; and Elizabeth Schardt of Houston. Each wore tea length purple satin dresses with a lace covered bodice and flured skirt.

Best man was Tommy Duggan of Bandera. Groomsmen were Dustin Fitzpatrick, the bride's brother, of Bandera; Paul John Smith of Columbus, Ohio; Jimmy Duggan of Berkeley Heights, N.J.; Jay Flusche of Houston; and Doug Morrisett of Bandera. Each work grey tuxedos with matching grey bow ties and cummerbunds.

Ushers were Greg and Randy Hicks, brothers of the groom; Doug Keene of Austin; and Tim Custer, the bride's cousin, of Oceanside, Calif.

Amy Custer, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore an ivory satin and lace dress with purple sash. Beau Watkins, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. He wore a black tuxedo with tails.

Special music was provided by Kelly and Lane Orton, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hicks left the Church and arrived at the reception in a horse drawn buggy driven by Kelly Scott.

The reception took place in the Y.O. Ranch Hilton ballroom. The bride's cake consisted of three tiers. The bottom layer was several heart shaped cakes. A flowing fountain was in the center enclosed by branches of greenery and purple wisteria. The next tier was a cluster of wedding bells decorated with purple and grey roses. A western style bride and groom ornament decorated the top of the cake. The groom's cake consisted of three horseshoe shaped german chocolate cakes. Music for the reception was provided by the Good, Bad and Ugly Band of Hoston.

Flanagan, Luehlfing wed in New Braunfels rites

Doreen Ann Flanagan of Lakehills and Dennis Wayne Luehlfing of New Braunfels were married Saturday, Oct. 29 in Prince of Peace Catholic Church in New Braunfels. Doreen is the daughter of Thomas and Catherine Flanagan of Lakehills, and Dennis is the son of Ewald and Loretta Luehlfing of New Braunfels.

Cynthia Hormuth of San Antonio was maid of honor, and Tod Marbach of New Braunfels was best man.

Bridesmaids were Irene Lehmann, sister of the groom; Debbie Gil, sister of the bride, and Denise Speas, sister of the bride. Stefani Nicole Speas, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Jonathan Thomas Speas, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Groomsmen were Thomas Daniel Flanagan, brother of the bride; Gerald Lehmann, brother-in-law of the groom; and Kelly Marbach. Ushers were Charles Saur, Ronnie Krueger, Mike Schneider and Steven Foerg.

Some 400 guests were present for the ceremony, performed by Father Peter McKenna.

The bride wore white satin with net insets at the sleeves and sweetheart neckline empire waist and handmade, appliques of sequins and pearls. Her six foot train was carried by her nieces, Jennifer and Jackie Gil, and she carried a cascade of silk roses in a small nosegay bouquet.

Music was provided by B.C. Smith and Country Breeze, and a reception dinner was held at Saengerhalle following the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to Aruba, the couple will make their home in New Braunfels.

Maj. Haver in D.C.

Army Maj. Charles Haver, son of Charles L. and Bessie D. Haver of 901 Cedar, Bandera, has arrived for duty at the Military District of Washington.

Haver is a 1983 graduate of Johns Hopkins University, Washington.

Kelly, Jenschke rites at Bandera Co-op

Denice Cody Kelly of Kerrville married William Christian Jenschke of Bandera Saturday, Oct. 15, in the Bandera Electric Cooperative auditorium with peace justice Bonnie Towers of Pipe Creek officiating.

Jenschke is the son of Ruby and the late Erwin Jenschke and is employed by the Bandera Electric Cooperative. Kelly is the daughter of John and Janet DeLaurier of Kerrville.

Maid of honor was Julie Schulte-Donaldson of Bandera and the best man was John Jenschke, brother of the groom from Bandera.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, John DeLaurier. James Itz of Kerrville was the usher.

The bride wore a dusty rose-colored dress with two rows of pleats on the bottom and long sleeves. As accessories, she wore ceramic rose earrings and pendant and a wreath in her hair. She carried a bouquet of dusty rose-colored and maroon roses.

A reception given by the family was held at Mansfield Park for some 80 persons.

The couple plans to live in Bandera.

Lillian Ray says she enjoys helping

Lillian Ray recently retired after serving three years as a director at Silver Sage Corral, but she says she intends to stay active at the senior center because she likes to help people.

"They'll have a hard time getting rid of me," Lillian laughs. "I enjoy it. I just love the people."

It's evident that lots of folks there look forward to seeing her smiling face. When she walked into the center Tuesday, she had to stop at several tables to visit with friends and ask people how they were doing.

Lillian and her husband, Leon Ray, spent 23 years in Mansfield, Ark., before moving to Tarpley in 1983. They moved "closer in to town" in 1985.

Lillian Nelson was born in Mountain Home in 1919, but her family moved to Kerrville when she was seven, shortly after her mother's death. When she was in fourth grade, they moved to McAllen.

Leon and Lillian Ray were married in 1937, and they lived in Rio Grande City, where Leon worked for Conoco Oil Company. After his retirement, they moved to Arkansas.

Lillian describes herself as a "farm girl."

"I just loved that chicken house, taking care of the cattle and feeding the animals," she says. "I'm not a housekeeper. I'd rather be in the yard."

She says she doesn't have many hobbies, but she does manage to stay busy. She enjoys planting tulips in the spring, and says she has enjoyed taking Joel Garcia's Spanish class at the senior center for several years.

There have been lots of changes, and plenty of growth at the Silver Sage Corral since she has been there, Lillian says.

She says she will continue to volunteer at the Silver Sage Corral, where she says one of her favorite duties is cleaning up the kitchen.

"I like working," she explains.

Silver Sage Corral
By Glenn Wehmeyer

Bandera Silver Sage Corral will again this year have a covered dish luncheon Thanksgiving Day only if someone "volunteers to host the event," according to center director Glenn Wehmeyer.

"Karen Evans and neighbors at Bandera Acres have offered their services again this year for Thanksgiving Day meals-on-wheels," Weimeyer said. "As of yet, no one has stepped forward to offer organizational assistance for the covered dish luncheon usually held at the center on Thanksgiving Day. The luncheon must be organized and managed separately from Meals on Wheels."

Meals will be delivered only to the elderly residents, and the center will not supply dinner to person who are visiting or to family members not usually entitled to the service, according to Wehmeyer.

"We also need this type of assistance for the Christmas holiday," he said.

"For those individuals in the community that know of an older person or couple that may not otherwise celebrate Christmas or Thanksgiving due to lack of family contact, financial status or hardship, or who lack the ability to provide for a holiday meal for themselves, please contact the center no later than Nov. 18."

Legion to mark Veteran's Day

The Lakehills American Legion Post will hold an open house Nov. 12, Veteran's Day.

Post 410 will serve free homemade chili, tamales, and drinks starting at 6 p.m. "It is our way of thanking the community for attending our fundraisers such as the July 4th celebration," says spokesman Tony Kruse.

Medina Lake AARP hears cancer detection tips

The Medina Lake chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons heard Dr. Larry Hurdess tell members that a complete physical is the best way to pinpoint cancer.

With 49 members and nine visitors, Dr. Hurdess, of the San Antonio Imaging Center gave his main talk on advances in radiology. He emphasized that preventive measures including a complete physical were the best way to find colon and breast cancers. He urged those attending the meeting not to wait until symptoms develop, which then indicate that treatment is necessary.

To compliment the program given by Dr. Hurdess, a "Cat Scan" skit was presented by "Dr. Jack Munns and Staff" with Jack Munns as the doctor, Evie Angel as the nurse, and patients Clarence Hosmer and Keith Cress, reports spokeswoman June Settlemeyer.

The chapter was commended by AARP's assistant state director, Faye Gardenhire, for hosting the AARP District picnic in September. The new officers that will be elected in November have workshops they can attend, says Gardenhire.

The AARP has 29,600,000 members nationally, says Gardenhire. Texas has 1,798,000 members in 38 chapters with an additional 206 retired teachers chapters, she says.

The AARP is invited to the Bandera County Helping Hand open house on Nov. 5, reports Corresponding Secretary Edith Evans.

The whole Medicare program is changing and everyone will be effected, reports legislative chairman Waldo Blanke. He recommends that everyone read the literature about the new Medicare plan sent to all people receiving Medicare, rather than not paying attention to it.

Blanke urged all AARP members to vote on Nov. 8.

A bus trip to Yoakum on Dec. 13 is planned, announces tour chairwoman Florence Mayer. Those interested in the trip must sign up by next month, she says.

The nominating committee reported its nominees for the Nov. 28 election of officers. Nominees include Dorothy Webber for president and Carol Lobert for vice-president, reports Evie Angel, chairwoman.

Officers elected at the Nov. 28 meeting will be installed at the Dec. meeting, which will be held Dec. 12 rather than Dec. 26 to avoid conflict with the Christmas holidays. The December meeting will include a turkey dinner.

There is new material for the driver improvement program which will be in use in the spring, reports driving program chairwoman June Settlemeyer. A workshop is set for next month to review the information with the instructors.

The Medina Lake chapter of the AARP now has 127 members, with two new members joining Monday. The first member from Mico joined Monday, reports Settlemeyer.

Medicare brochure available

The State Board of Insurance has published a 28-page brochure to help Texas seniors shop for Medicare supplement insurance.

The brochure explains Medicare supplement coverage and consumer rights under Texas law and provides tips on shopping for insurance to fill certain "gaps" in Medicare.

Consumers may obtain copies free of charge by writing to State Board of Insurance, Attn: Information Services, 1110 San Jacinto, Austin, 78701.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Maturity is many things. First, it's the ability to base a judgment on the big picture-the long haul. It means being able to pass up fun-for-the-minute and select the course of action which will pay off later. One of the characteristics of infancy is the "I want it now" approach. Grown up people can wait... Maturity is the ability to stick with a project or a situation until it is finished... Maturity is the capacity to face unpleasantness, frustration, discomfort and defeat without complaint or collapse. The mature person knows he can't have everything his own way. "Nobody wins 'em all." He can defer to circumstances, to other people-and to time... Maturity is the ability to do what is expected of you, and this means being dependable. It means keeping your word. And dependability equates with personal integrity. Do you mean what you say-and so you say what you mean... Maturity is the ability to make a decision, and then to stick with it, riding out whatever storms may follow. This calls for clear thinking backed with the courage to stand by your position, once you've taken it. Immature people spend their lives exploring endless possibilities and then doing nothing. Action requires courage. And there is no maturity without courage... Maturity is the ability to harness your talents and your energies and do more than is expected of you. The mature person refuses to settle for mediocrity. He would rather aim high and miss the mark, then aim low-and make it...

On Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1988, you have a chance to make a positive change in Bandera County.

VOTE AND ELECT

MARC M. SULTAN

For Sheriff

If elected sheriff, I want to do the following:

• Reduce response times to emergencies to minutes by having more trained VOLUNTEER reserve deputies (your neighbors) located throughout the county to supplement our regular deputies and try to enact a resident deputy program.

• Thorough investigation and evidence collection (photos, fingerprints, etc.) to build solid cases thereby reducing plea bargaining resulting in ineffective light sentences. Reduce loop holes to defense attorneys by proper investigation.

• Insure FAIR and PROPER treatment under the law.

• Utilize Bandera County constables for the job they have been elected to do.

• Notification of loved ones involved in serious and/or fatal accidents.

• A close working relationship with all our emergency services, EMT and fire departments.

• A community oriented sheriff's department - sensitive to the needs of the community.

• Assist the youth of Bandera County residents to fulfill their potential as citizens and future leaders by:

1. Drug awareness programs — grade school and up;

2. A 24 hour hot line to receive information about illegal drugs and related activities — callers may be ANONYMOUS:

3. Work with surrounding counties and agencies to reduce the influx of drugs and crime related activities to our area.

4. More responsive to the needs of our YOUTH and foster a trust through MUTUAL respect.

I am qualified to conduct arson investigations thus fulfilling the need for an ARSON INVESTIGATOR in our county. I am highly familiar with PARI-MUTUEL RACING and related activities — excess of 5 years of investigations and undercover assignments in this field.

"This is OUR county and OUR sheriff's department. They are there to PROTECT and to SERVE. Help make OUR sheriff's department one which we can all TRUST and be proud of."

Lake Area

Lake group to hear EUWD board member

Medina Lake Area Community Association will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 8, at the Medina Lake Fire Department.

Ken Aelvoit, a director of the Upper Guadalupe River Authority and a director of the Medina Lake Area Community Water Control and Improvement District has been invited to attend the meeting.

The preservation society celebrated the 50th anniversary of the completion of the Medina Dam last year by releasing helium filled balloons and 200 homing pigeons and staging a boat parade, para-sailors and a fireworks display.

Aelvoit will be joined at the meeting by environmentalist attorney Kirk Patterson of San Antonio and technical advisors from the Ed Wall Co.

In addition to the speakers, there will be a panel discussion and the public will be encouraged to ask questions of the panel and MLPS officers, says MLPS vice president Carol Smith.

The MLPA is a group chartered in 1987 to promote the preservation of Medina Lake and awareness of the lake as a valuable Texas resource. Marylin Schlitz is the group's president and Jerry Sievert is secretary-treasurer.

Pipe Creek dentist closes practice

Pipe Creek dentist Luther Bullock closed his practice in October and moved to Houston, transferring his records to Lakehills dentist John Leland.

Dr. Bullock moved to Houston for personal reasons and where he is closer to his father, says his former assistant Sue Looney. Dr. Bullock is currently working for a dental company.

Patient records were left with Dr. Leland's office in Lakehills by Dr. Bullock. His patients can come and pick up their dental files to transfer to a dentist closer to their home or leave them at the Lakehills office, says Dr. Leland.

Lakehills

By James H. Frazar — 796-3718

Frank and Vera Haines were overjoyed that their daughter, Tammy Heimer, was able to come down from Michigan for her sister Celeste's wedding to Kevin Burkee and to visit with the family.

She drove down from the northern land straight through 24 hours Wednesday, Sept. 28, to get to Lakehills to arrive Thursday night, enabling her to be in the wedding on Saturday.

Tammy and friends also went to Sea World and shopping at Lackland. After lunch at home with friends Tuesday, she left for Michigan that night. Vera reports Tammy got home fine Wednesday night.

• Sue and Tony Kruse spent four days in Las Vegas celebrating their 31st wedding anniversary. Both hit nice jackpots and as Sue says, "We won enough for two more trips to 'Glitter City'."

They stayed at the Golden Nugget, in downtown Las Vegas. They enjoyed a performance by Yakov Smirnoff, the popular Russian comedian.

Joan and Dan Barbarick, formerly of Lakehills and who now reside in California, met the Kruses to enjoy a few days together. Also seen in Las Vegas were Gene and Barbara Ott and Gwen Anders.

We all know now who to take for guides to Las Vegas now, right?

• Millie Schenkat, affectionately known as Sergeant Millie, remains in Addie I. Murphy Memorial Veterans Administration Hospital in San Antonio after undergoing surgery Oct. 12. She's on the fifth floor. Best guess when she'll be back is Nov. 12.

• The Lakehills EMTs and Lakehills Support Team Officers will be out at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37 holding out those cans to collect donations between 10 a.m. and dark.

The funds that are raised are used to maintain the building, pay the utilities, and fund special classes, training aids, and ambulance equipment.

• The AARP highway cleanup along FM Road 1283 was rained out Monday. So far, the cleanup date has not be rescheduled, but you can bet Smokey Settlemeyer will set a date as soon as possible.

• For all those thinking about Christmas gifts, (yes, it is that soon), Dolly Dresser, president of the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary, reminds all that the auxiliary has cookbooks for $5.

• Yes, that was a witch, a California raisin, and Baby New Year 1989 that was headed down to Stuffy and Lillie Stufflebean's house Oct. 31. The Halloween tradition of goodies and Halloween visitors, some second and third-generation trick-or-treaters happened again Monday night. Lillie says she's looking forward to having more children visit them next year.

• The Lakehills Civic Center had a crowd with about 105 children and 55 adults. First place costume contest winners were Katie Quarles in the 0-4 age range, Travis Lara for ages 5-8, Scott Dunne for the 9-12 years group, and Phillip Munns in 13 and over age group. Pin-the-nose-on-the-pumpkin winners were first place Travis Lara, second place Stephanie Quarles, and third place Bekah Quarles.

Menudo cookoff to benefit EMS

A menudo cookoff will be held at the Fiddlin' Around Lounge in Lakehills Saturday, Nov. 5 to benefit the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

Menudo cooking will begin at 9 a.m. and a jam session will begin at 2 p.m., says Millie Harrison, lounge owner.

The entry fee for menudo cooks of $10 is due Saturday, but would be preferred sooner, says Harrison.

Cooks so far registered are Cathy Bradshaw, John Cavazos, Jack Collins, Muleshoe Saloon, and Pop's Place.

The judging will begin at 4 p.m. with an auction following. "Last year were raised $200 to $300 for the fire department," says Harrison. The menudo cookoff alternates annually between the fire department and EMS, she explains.

Trophies will be awarded for first-, second-, and third-place as well as showmanship. There will also be a "Damnit I tried trophy" for last place.

Call 751-9915 for more information.

St. Victor's sets turkey supper

The annual turkey supper at St. Victor's Chapel will be held Sunday, Nov. 6, starting at 5 p.m.

Plates of turkey and dressing, green beans, sweet potatoes, celery, bread, and tea or coffee will cost $3.50 per adult and $2 for children, says Nancy MacMillan, general chairwoman of the event.

Desserts of pie and cake will be available by the slice or whole.

There will be a pickup window for people who want their food to go, says MacMillan.

A boutique of Christmas gift arts and crafts will be available. There will be handmade arts and crafts for sale, says MacMillan. "They will make especially good Christmas gifts."

"We try to cater to community people and the hunters who come to the area," says MacMillan.

The church members usually serve 700 people supper.

The annual fund-raising event, which has been going on for at least the last 30 years, is used to pay upkeep and maintenance of the church and grounds. Funds are used for such items as the paving on the parking lot, says MacMillan.

Election watch set at American Legion

The American Legion Post in Lakehills will host an Election Watch Tuesday, Nov. 8, beginning at 6 p.m.

Three televisions will be available for viewing, says spokesman Tony Kruse. Tote boards will be maintained to keep the totals. Contact with the county clerk's office will be kept by radio.

Finger foods and snacks will be available at the legion hall, but anyone wishing to bring such items is welcome.

All candidates and area citizens are welcome to American Legion Post #410 to watch how election night's returns come in, says Kruse.

Candidates can be contacted at the post by news media, says Kruse.

TWO THINGS TEXANS DON'T LIKE ARE BAD HIGHWAYS AND BROKEN PROMISES.

The money we send to Washington every time we fill up our cars comes back to Texas. The government promises that this money will be spent to build, repair and maintain our highways.

Diverting those Federal Highway Trust dollars to some other purpose could devastate our highway system for years to come.

- It would halt vital road construction;
- Cancel needed safety improvement;
- End repairs to roads and bridges.

Texans can stop this threat by voting for Proposition One which makes certain that highway dollars are spent on highways. Let's keep the promise to Texans.

On Election Day look at the bottom of your ballot and find Proposition One, the Highway Amendment. Proposition One continues the Texas plan for good jobs, economic growth and safe roads without raising taxes and most importantly . . . keeps your family safe.

A lot is riding on the promise of good Texas roads.

Keep highway money for highways and the jobs they create. Proposition One is endorsed by the Texas Highway Commissioners, local and statewide officials of both political parties, and hundreds of civic groups because they know that building good roads keeps Texas moving.

Bass Club hauls 110 pounds Sunday

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Some 209 contestants competed in an open bass tournament and 45 fishermen and fisherwomen weighed in 64 fish for a total of 110 pounds at the Rebel Bass Club tournament on Medina Lake Sunday. The fish were released live back into the lake to be caught again.

Andy Hernandez was the first-place winner in the men's division, weighing in a total of 8.6 pounds of bass at Red Cove, Sunday, Oct. 30. He fished in 6 to 17 feet of water, mainly off ledges with artificial grubs and plastic worms.

Frank Valuk of Lakehills took second place, weighing in 7.2 pounds worth of bass. He is mainly a crappie and catfish fisherman that competed in his first tournament Sunday, says Larry Steuves, tournament director. Valuk caught his fish early and in Elm Cove. His 3.8 pounder was caught in 20 feet of water.

John Watson brought in 6.48 pounds of bass to claim third prize.

Robert Dunlap won fourth place, but his claim to fame that day was bringing in the largest bass weighing in at 5.4 pounds.

Junlap used a plastic worm and did his fishing in the Medina River, up past Pop's Place. He saw the fish in 6 inches of water and flipped his lure over to it, hooked it, and reeled the lunker in.

Some 20 women competed in the ladies division, and Toni Ludzeski took top honors bringing in 2.1 pounds of bass. She used a plastic worm and caught hers in three feet of water.

Some 12 juniors competed and Anthony Duke took top honors by weighing in 1.1 pounds of bass. He caught his fish in 40 feet of water on an artificial grub.

Some 127 prizes were awarded totalling $10,000 in cash and merchandise, says Steuves. "Not a single prize was under $20." All 12 junior entries received a prize, with even the 8th through 10th place receiving a graphite rod.

A donation of $1,010 will be made to the Elf Louise project from proceeds of the tournament.

The Rebel Bass Club is a 100 percent live release club, says Steuves. This year, only one fish of the 64 weighed died, and it was brought into the weigh station deceased, he says.

The cool front that came in the Friday before the tournament shut down the larger bass, says Steuves. "It seems that the 14-inch and above fish were almost non-existent Sunday."

Robert Dunlap's 5.54 pound black bass caught in six inches of water was the largest at Sunday's Rebel Bass Club tournament on Medina Lake.

Mico building

The Mico Volunteer Fire Department is constructing a building to cover their well to replace one built when the well was dug in 1964.

A slab was poured Wednesday, the working area in front of barbecue pits was cemented, and a small slab poured for an additional mens' restroom outside near the picnic area.

Several walkways on the outside of the original building slab were patched.

"We had discussed replacing the pumphouse earlier in the summer but it was just too hot for a lot of our older members to work," says Yvonne Wood, president of the Mico VFD. "Now that it's cooler, we also knew we had better beat the hunting season." "I was very proud to see at least 10 men had shown up on very short notice," she said.

MVFD general meetings are held on the second Tuesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall on the Medina Dam Road, but because of election day, the general meeting will be postponed until the following Thursday, Nov. 10, at the regular time of 7:30 p.m.

Castle Lake VFD to hold turkey shoot Saturday

A turkey shoot will be held at the Castle Lake Ranch fire house Saturday, Nov. 5, starting at 10 a.m.

The fire department has 40 10- to 12-pound, self-basting, frozen turkeys available that the best shots will "be able to pick up at the firehouse," says Helen Martin, spokeswoman for the Castle Lake Ranch Volunteer Fire Department.

The rounds begin at 10 a.m. and go "until we run out of turkeys," says Martin. The shooting can go on till 4 or 5 p.m.

Contestants should bring their own shotguns. Acceptable gauges are 410, 20, 16, and 12, says Martin. Contestants can bring and use their own factory-loaded birdshot ammunition. No scopes or pre-loads are allowed. The fire department will also have ammo available, says Martin.

Each round will cost $2. There will be special ladies and children's (with adult supervision) rounds.

Paper targets with the pellet closest to the center of the target is the winner, says Martin. The shooting will be in the caliche pit bank behind the firehouse.

There will be food including the department's "famous firehouse frito-pie," sausage-in-a-blanket, hot dogs, chili, cold drinks, and coffee, says Martin.

There will also be a special drawing at the firehouse, she says.

The turkey shoot is one of two main fund raising events for the fire department, along with their spring chili cookoff.

The department has held the turkey shoot for at least the last [illegible] of hunting season, says Martin.

The firehouse is located five miles north on Bear Creek Road, off Highway 16. Turn north at Wehmeyer's Machine Shop, between Bandera and Pipe Creek, to find Bear Creek Road.

Nominations for new trustee Nov. 16

A general meeting at the Pipe Creek Community Center will be held Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. to take nominations from the floor for the position of trustee on the center's board of directors.

Each year, one of the three trustees' term expires and president Bob Woodall's term has now expired, says Virginia Stricker, board secretary/treasurer. The person to be elected to the board will become a trustee. As per the bylaws of the community center, Virginia Stricker will become president and Bucky Denaford, who currently holds a trustee position will become secretary/treasurer.

All Pipe Creek citizens may attend the meeting Wednesday, Nov. 16, to nominate the next board member. "We will take nominations from the floor," says Stricker. The trustee will serve for three years, advancing in office each year.

The three-member board maintains the community center and organizes the scholarship fund raiser once a year, says Stricker.

Lake group to hear EUWD board member

Medina County representative on the Edwards Underground Water District, Jim Anderson, will speak to members of the Medina Lake Preservation Society Saturday, Dec. 3 at 3 p.m. at the Mico Fire Hall.

Anderson will be joined at the meeting by environmentalist attorney Kirk Patterson of San Antonio and technical advisors from the EUWD.

In addition to the speakers, there will be a panel discussion and the public will be encouraged to ask questions of the panel and MLPS officers, says MLPS vice president Carol Smith.

The MLPA is a group chartered in 1987 to promote the preservation of Medina Lake and awareness of the lake as a valuable Texas resource, Marylin Schlitz is the group's president and Jerry Sievert is secretary-treasurer.

Cliff Mudlet, president of the Upper Verde Watershed Improvement District, has been invited to attend the meeting.

The preservation society celebrated the 35th anniversary of the completion of the Medina Dam last year by releasing helium-filled balloons and 200 homing pigeons and staging a boat parade, para-sailors and a fireworks display.

The group also sponsored publication of a book by its president, Marilyn Schlitz, that was called "Reflections on Medina Lake."

The group is currently engaged with studying the feasability of incorporating the city of Mico, said Smith, who also said she plans to step down soon as the group's vice president.

Pipe Creek dentist closes practice

Pipe Creek dentist Luther Bullock closed his practice in October and moved to Houston, transferring his records to Lakehills dentist John Leland.

Dr. Bullock moved to Houston for personal reasons and where he is closer to his father, says his former assistant Sue Looney. Dr. Bullock is currently working for a dental company.

Patient records were left with Dr. Leland's office in Lakehills by Dr. Bullock. His patients can come and pick up their dental files to transfer to a dentist closer to their home or leave them at the Lakehills office, says Dr. Leland.

Frank and Vera Heinze were overjoyed that their daughter Tammy Heinze, was able to come down from Michigan for her sister Celeste's wedding to Kevin Durkee and to visit with the family.

She drove down from the northern land straight through 24 hours Wednesday, Sept. 28, to get to Lakehills to arrive Thursday night, enabling her to be in the wedding on Saturday.

Tammy and friends also went to Sea World and shopping at Lackland. After lunch at home with friends Tuesday, she left for Michigan that night. Vera reports Tammy got home fine Wednesday night.

Lake group to hear EUWD board member

Medina County commissioners Clifton Mayes, precinct 4; Ray Bekar, Medina; Atascosa County Water District and Burgess Water Supply Corporation will attend the meeting.

The preservation society celebrated the 75th anniversary of the completion of the Medina Dam last year by releasing helium-filled balloons and 200 homing pigeons and staging a boat parade, para-sailors and a fireworks display.

The group also sponsored publication of a book by its president, Marilyn Schlitz, that was called "Reflections on Medina Lake."

The group is currently engaged with studying the feasability of incorporating the city of Mico, said Smith, who also said she plans to step down soon as the group's vice president.

Pipe Creek dentist closes practice

Pipe Creek dentist Luther Bullock closed his practice in October and moved to Houston, transferring his records to Lakehills dentist, John Leland.

Dr. Bullock moved to Houston for personal reasons and where he is closer to his father, says his former assistant Sue Looney. Dr. Bullock is currently working for a dental company.

Patient records were left with Dr. Leland's office in Lakehills by Dr. Bullock. His patients can come and pickup their dental files to transfer to a dentist closer to their home or leave them at the Lakehills office, says Dr. Leland.

Frank and Vera Haines were ... Tammy Heinze, was able to come down from Michigan for her sister Celeste's wedding to Kevin Durkee and to visit with the family.

She drove down from the northern land straight through 24 hours Wednesday, Sept. 28, to get to Lakehills to arrive Thursday night, enabling her to be in the wedding on Saturday.

Tammy and friends also went to Sea World and shopping at Lackland. After lunch at home with friends Tuesday, she left for Michigan that night. Vera reports Tammy got home fine Wednesday night.

• Sue and Tony Kruse spent four days in Las Vegas celebrating their 31st wedding anniversary. Both hit nice jackpots and as Sue says, "We won enough for two more trips to Glitter City".

They stayed at the Golden Nugget, in downtown Las Vegas. They enjoyed a performance by Yakov Smirnoff, the popular Russian comedian.

Joan and Dan Barbarick, formerly of Lakehills and who now reside in California, met the Krusess to enjoy a few days together. Also seen in Las Vegas were Gene and Barbara Ott and Gwen Anders.

We all know now who to take for guides to Las Vegas next ... to Stuffy and The Stuffebean's house Oct. 31. The Halloween tradition of goodies and Halloween visitors, some second and third generation trick-or-treaters, happened again Monday night. Lillie says she's looking forward to having more children visit them next year.

• The Lakehills Civic Center had a crowd with about 105 children and 55 adults. First place costume contest winners were Katie Quarles in the 0-4 age range, Travis Lara for ages 5-8, Scott Dunne for the 9-12 years group, and Phillip Munns in 13 and over age group. Pin-the-nose-on-the-pumpkin winners were first place Travis Lara, second place Stephanie Pope, and third place Bekah Quarles.

• Millie Schenkat, affectionately known as Sergeant Millie, remains in Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans Administration Hospital in San Antonio after undergoing surgery Oct. 12. She's on the fifth floor. Best guess when she'll be back is Nov. 12.

• The Lakehills EMTs and Lakehills Support Team Officers will be out at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37 holding out those cans to collect donations between 10 a.m. and dark.

The funds that are raised are used to maintain the building, pay the utilities, and fund special classes, training aids, and ambulance equipment.

• The AARP highway cleanup along FM Road 1283 was rained out Monday. So far, the cleanup date has not be rescheduled, but you can bet Smokey Settlemeyer will set a date as soon as possible.

St. Victor's sets turkey supper

The second turkey supper at St. Victor's Chapel will be Saturday, Nov. 5, starting at 5 p.m.

Plates of turkey and dressing, green beans, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, and tea or coffee will cost $3.50 per adult and $2 for children, says Nancy MacMillan, general chairwoman of the event.

Desserts of pie and cake will be available by the slice or whole.

There will be a pickup window for people who want their food to go, says MacMillan.

A boutique of Christmas gift arts and crafts will be available. There will be handmade arts and crafts for sale, says MacMillan. "They will make especially good Christmas gifts."

"We try to cater to community people and the hunters who come to the area," says MacMillan.

The church members usually serve 700 people supper.

The annual fund-raising event, which has been going on for at least the last 30 years, is used to pay upkeep and maintenance of the church and grounds. Funds are used for such items as the paving on the parking lot, says MacMillan.

Menudo cookoff to benefit EMS

A menudo cookoff will be held at the Fiddlin' Around Lounge in Lakehills Saturday, Nov. 5 to benefit the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

Menudo cooking will begin at 9 a.m. and a jam session will begin at 2 p.m., says Millie Harrison, lounge owner.

The entry fee for menudo cooks of $10 is due Saturday, but would be preferred sooner, says Harrison.

Cooks so far registered are Cathy Bradshaw, John Cavazos, Jack Collins, Muleshoe Saloon, and Pop's Place.

The judging will begin at 4 p.m. with an auction following. "Last year were raised $200 to $300 for the fire department," says Harrison. The menudo cookoff alternates annually between the fire department and EMS, she explains.

Trophies will be awarded for first-, second-, and third-place as well as showmanship. There will also be a "Damnit I tried trophy" for last place.

Call 751-9915 for more information.

Election watch set at American Legion

The American Legion Post in Lakehills will host an Election Watch Tuesday, Nov. 8, beginning at 6 p.m.

Three televisions will be available for viewing, says spokesman Tony Kruse. Tote boards will be maintained to keep the totals. Contact with the county clerk's office will be kept by radio.

Finger foods and snacks will be available at the legion hall, but anyone wishing to bring such items is welcome.

All candidates and area citizens are welcome to American Legion Post #410 to watch how election night's returns come in, says Kruse.

Candidates can be contacted at the post by news media, says Kruse.

TWO THINGS TEXANS DON'T LIKE ARE BAD HIGHWAYS AND BROKEN PROMISES.

The money we send to Washington every time we fill up our cars comes back to Texas. The government promises that this money will be spent to build, repair and maintain our highways.

Diverting those Federal Highway Trust dollars to some other purpose could devastate our highway system for years to come.

- It would halt vital road construction;
- Cancel needed safety improvement;
- End repairs to roads and bridges.

Texans can stop this threat by voting for Proposition One which makes certain that highway dollars are spent on highways. Let's keep the promise to Texans.

On Election Day look at the bottom of your ballot and find Proposition One, the Highway Amendment. Proposition One continues the Texas plan for good jobs, economic growth and safe roads without raising taxes and most importantly . . . keeps your family safe.

A lot is riding on the promise of good Texas roads.

Keep highway money for highways and the jobs they create. Proposition One is endorsed by the Texas Highway Commissioners, local and statewide officials of both political parties, and hundreds of civic groups because they know that building good roads keeps Texas moving.

Bass Club hauls 110 pounds Sunday

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Some 209 contestants competed in an open bass tournament and 45 fishermen and fisherwomen weighed in 64 fish for a total of 110 pounds at the Rebel Bass Club tournament on Medina Lake Sunday. The fish were released live back into the lake to be caught again.

Andy Hernandez was the first-place winner in the men's division, weighing in a total of 8.6 pounds of bass at Red Cove, Sunday, Oct. 30. He fished in 6 to 17 feet of water, mainly off ledges with artificial grubs and plastic worms.

Frank Valuk of Lakehills took second place, weighing in 7.2 pounds worth of bass. He is mainly a crappie and catfish fisherman that competed in his first tournament Sunday, says Larry Steuves, tournament director. Valuk caught his fish early and in Elm Cove. His 3.8 pounder was caught in 20 feet of water.

John Watson brought in 6.48 pounds of bass to claim third prize.

Robert Dunlap won fourth place, but his claim to fame that day was bringing in the largest bass weighing in at 5.4 pounds. Dunlap used a plastic worm and did his fishing in the Medina River, up past Pop's Place. He saw the fish in 6 inches of water and flipped his lure over to it, hooked it, and reeled the lunker in.

Some 20 women competed in the ladies division, and Toni Ludzeski took top honors bringing in 2.1 pounds of bass. She used a plastic worm and caught hers in three feet of water.

Some 12 juniors competed and Anthony Duke took top honors by weighing in 1.1 pounds of bass. He caught his fish in 40 feet of water on an artificial grub.

Some 127 prizes were awarded totalling $10,000 in cash and merchandise, says Steuves. "Not a single prize was under $20." All 12 junior entries received a prize with even the 5th through 12th places receiving a graphite rod.

A donation of $1,010 will be made to the Elf Louise project from proceeds of the tournament.

The Rebel Bass Club is a 100 percent live release club, says Steuves. This year, only one fish of the 64 weighed died, and it was brought into the weigh station deceased, he says.

The cool front that came in the Friday before the tournament shut down the larger bass, says Steuves. "It seems that the 14-inch and above fish were almost non-existent Sunday."

Mico building

The Mico Volunteer Fire Department is constructing a building to cover their well to replace one built when the well was dug in 1964.

A slab was poured Wednesday, the working area in front of barbecue pits was cemented, and a small slab poured for an additional mens' restroom outside near the picnic area.

Several walkways on the outside of the original building slab were patched.

"We had discussed replacing the pumphouse earlier in the summer but it was just too hot for a lot of our older members to work," says Yvonne Wood, president of the Mico VFD. "Now that it's cooler, we also knew we had better beat the hunting season." "I was very proud to see at least 10 men had shown up on very short notice," she said.

MVFD general meetings are held on the second Tuesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. at the fire hall on the Medina Dam Road, but because of election day, the general meeting will be postponed until the following Thursday, Nov. 10, at the regular time of 7:30 p.m.

Castle Lake VFD to hold turkey shoot Saturday

A turkey shoot will be held at the Castle Lake Ranch fire house Saturday, Nov. 5, starting at 10 a.m.

The fire department has 40 10- to 12-pound, self-basting, frozen turkeys available that the best shots will "be able to pick up at the firehouse," says Helen Martin, spokeswoman for the Castle Lake Ranch Volunteer Fire Department.

The rounds begin at 10 a.m. and go "until we run out of turkeys," says Martin. The shooting can go on till 4 or 5 p.m.

Contestants should bring their own shotguns. Acceptable gauges are 410, 20, 16, and 12, says Martin. Contestants can bring and use their own factory-loaded birdshot ammunition. No scopes or pre-loads are allowed. The fire department will also have ammo available, says Martin.

Each round will cost $2. There will be special ladies and children's (with adult supervision) rounds.

Paper targets with the pellet closest to the center of the target is the winner, says Martin. The shooting will be in the caliche pit bank behind the firehouse.

There will be food including the department's "famous firehouse frito-pie," sausage-in-a-blanket, hot dogs, chili, cold drinks, and coffee, says Martin.

There will also be a special drawing at the firehouse, she says.

The turkey shoot is one of two main fund raising events for the fire department, along with their spring chili cookoff.

Nominations for new trustee Nov. 16

A general meeting at the Pipe Creek Community Center will be held Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. to take nominations from the floor for the position of trustee on the center's board of directors.

Each year, one of the three trustees' term expires and president Bob Woodall's term has now expired, says Virginia Stricker, board secretary/treasurer. The person to be elected to the board will become a trustee. As per the bylaws of the community center, Virginia Stricker will become president and Bucky Densford, who currently holds a trustee position will become secretary/treasurer.

All Pipe Creek citizens may attend the meeting Wednesday, Nov. 16, to nominate the next board member. "We will take nominations from the floor," says Stricker. The trustee will serve for three years, advancing in office each year.

The three-member board maintains the community center and organizes the scholarship fund raiser once a year, says Stricker.

Reed, Raser seek precinct 3 post

Roads concern incumbent, growth concerns challenger

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The precinct 3 county commissioner election Nov. 8 is between incumbent Democrat A. A. (Pete) Reed and Republican Roger Raser.

Precinct 3 is to the north of Highway 16 between Bandera and Medina and includes the north half of Medina. It is bounded on the west by FM Road 2107 north of Medina to Rocky Creek Road and then west along Rocky Road and Creek to the county border. Precinct 3 is bounded on the east by Highway 173 up to Elm Pass Road and then the boundary continues along Elm Pass Road to the county line.

The term for county commissioner is four years and the new term begins Jan. 1.

Roger Raser

Republican candidate Roger Raser wants precinct 3 voters to have a strong voice in commissioners court.

Raser says he wants to establish opportunities for citizens to suggest, comment, and complain about county affairs. "We may find out things that people want or don't want in the precinct," he says.

Raser says he also wants to establish open communication with precinct citizens by telephone and door-to-door canvassing.

He says he wants to establish a closer relationship between precinct residents and the commissioners court. "In visiting voters, many people are unsure what precinct they're in and the name of their commissioner," says Raser. "Citizens should be aware of what's going on in commissioners court, what issues are being voted on, and how it effects them," he says.

Raser also wants to establish periodic precinct meetings. As commissioner, Raser wants the opportunity to explain where county tax dollars go and why.

Revenue-producing activities and facilities need to be established in the county that would foster the growth of the community and ultimately relieve some to the tax burden, says Raser. The reason usually given for not providing a county service is, "we can't buy (do) this (service) because we don't have the money in the budget," he says.

The planned roof to cover the Mansfield Park rodeo arena, making it a multi-purpose facility is an example of a revenue-producing activity, says Raser. The county needs to look at other future projects that can be funded by state and federal grant money, he says.

If elected commissioner, Raser says he wants to develop a road maintenance schedule that would only be interrupted by emergency situations. "People should be able to expect routine maintenance on their roads," says Raser.

Raser anticipates accelerated growth in the county because of the popularity of the Hill Country. Bandera is the next natural step for population growth now that Kerrville and Boerne have experienced their growth, says Raser.

The county needs a five- and ten-year plan to anticipate facilities and services needed for population influx into the county, says Raser. This includes sewage, water, and fire and police protection, he says. The county needs long-range planning to know what our limitations are regarding underground pollution and over-taxing the county's water supplies, says Raser.

Raser has supervisory and managerial experience including retail grocery store and wholesale distribution. He says he has managed budgets up to $13 million.

Raser owns a business that distributes recreational vehicle and mobile home parts with Raser acting as a manufacturer's representative. He has been in business for himself for the last 11 years.

If elected, Raser will place his son into his business or sell it. "I will devote full-time to the commissioner's job," says Raser.

Raser bought his property in precinct 3 five years ago and has lived full-time there for the last three years, and half-time the two years before.

A. A. (Pete) Reed

Incumbent Democrat A. A. (Pete) Reed is seeking his second term as county commissioner of precinct 3 to continue the work he has started during his first four years of service.

Reed says his plans for the next four years are to continue to maintain and upgrade the roads. "I have made pretty good progress and I know there is still and always will be a lot to be done," he says.

Many roads are at the head of canyons, such as Rocky Creek, Wallace Creek, Benton Creek, and Hicks Creek, wash out when it floods. "That creates a lot of work," says Reed. During the July flooding, people that lived up by Rocky and Benton Creek were stranded for three days, he says. "We got up there as soon as possible to blade and fill in washed out places in the road."

Reed says he plans to fix crossings so that it will be harder to wash out when it floods, "so people don't have to be stranded after a flood."

The Wallace Creek bridge is an example of an upgraded low-water crossing. The crossing had an old slab about 30 years old, says Reed. The slab was getting dangerous because a driver couldn't see the bridge when water ran over it, he says. The new bridge is two-and-a-half feet above the old one and is now 14 feet wide, says Reed.

"There were no guard rails to tell where the slab was. It was a long slab, and was hard to follow," says Reed. There will be guide posts every two feet on the bridge so it can be seen, he says.

The people that live along the road donated all the money except $2,000 to build the bridge, says Reed; "it was a great help to me as well as to them."

Precinct 3 has 60 miles of county roads with about 10 miles that are paved, says Reed. Precinct 3 has the smallest tax base of any precinct in the county because it has the smallest population and much of the land has an agricultural exemption due to the ranching in the area.

The county needs economic development, says Reed. Bandera County could use a good business to put county residents to work, he says. "Our county is good for tourism and ranching because of its location, as it is not on a major highway."

When the race track gets going there will be a lot of people coming into the county, says Reed. "The race track will have an impact on the entire county."

State and federal grant money is not always easy to get because there are a lot of other counties and cities applying for the money, says Reed. County road improvement funds from the state usually take a long time to materialize, says Reed.

Reed says he will always listen to precinct citizens and do the best he can to solve their problems. "Anytime you have a problem that I can help you with as your commissioner don't hesitate to call me," he says.

Reed retired in 1982 from his floor covering business that he owned for 20 years. He took office as commissioner in Jan. 1985.

Reed was born and raised in Bandera County and has lived in the county for 65 years.

Bill Barrow of the First Protection Training Division of Texas A&M University will present classes at the Lakeshore VFD on Nov. 3-5, teaching principles and pump operations.

All volunteer firefighters of the county are invited to attend. Classes on Nov. 3 and 4 will start at 7 p.m., Nov. 5 at 9 a.m.

• Myron (Buck) Jones, a resident of Wharton's Dock area, died this week. Burial was on Nov. 2 at the Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery.

• Kay Jones is out of the hospital and back playing her favorite game, Bingo. She was seen at one of the Bingo games in town on Friday and doing her share of yelling "Bingo."

• Ross and Lois Bailey celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary at the Copper Lantern on Monday, Oct. 31. Joyce Reese also joined in as she celebrated her birthday.

• Joe Baker suffered a stroke while visiting his daughter in Houston on Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Joe was rushed to the V.A. Hospital in Houston where he is now a patient.

• On Sunday, Oct. 30, Annie Thetford of Wharton's Dock fell in her home about 10:30 a.m. She was not found until about 1 p.m. when her brother, Willie Kaika of Bandera, came for a visit and heard her yelling for help.

She was transported by Bandera EMS to the Medina Memorial Hospital in Hondo. X-rays did not show any broken bones but she is suffering from a severely bruised tailbone.

Annie's son, Tommie from LaCoste, expected her to be released from the hospital on Nov. 2.

He will take Annie to his home until she is able to manage on her own.

Pipe Creek

O.H. (Henry) Davis 535-4127

A steering committee, the pastor, and other members of the congregation of the Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church attended the Mission Presbyterian in Kerrville where the Church was sanctioned and recognized as a fully organized church.

About 20 people attended including the church development committee.

• Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cloud and daughter, Lois Case, went to Seguin to visit another daughter, Mrs. Stowe. Their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Case and Robert Gene from Liberty Hill, were also there.

• R.D. and Lucy Whiteside enjoyed their granddaughter, Amanda Harwood, from San Antonio during the weekend.

• Neal Howell, principal of Passmore Elementary School of the Northside ISD and daughter, Holly, attended the "Just Say No" drug rally in Austin on Saturday. They accompanied about 30 students and several teachers from his school.

• Bill and Irene Smith visited relatives last week at Lake Livingston and drove their RV back through interesting places in East Texas piney woods on through the hill country of Johnson City and Fredericksburg.

• Elizabeth Rider of Houston has been staying some at their place in Pipe Ceeek.

MLVFD group changes time

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department has changed their meeting time to 10 a.m. rather than 7:30 p.m., starting Nov. 14.

At the November meeting, one of the firefighters will report on the progress toward a new fire station for the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department.

The service organization has been meeting the second Monday of each month at the Medina Lake fire house. The ladies auxiliary will start meeting in the morning at 10 a.m., at the request of members, says president Dolly Dresser.

The meeting will be held at the fire house on Park Road 37 near D & H Automotive and Turk's Grocery.

Porcelain pottery exhibit at museum this month

Frontier Times Museum's gallery in November will feature hand-thrown porcelain pottery created by Bandera artist Anne Ruthven.

The many pieces are intended for use in the home and include bowls, platters, pitchers, vases, ashtrays, mugs, steins, cream and sugar sets. All items on display will be for sale.

The work is decorated not only by Anne Ruthven, but there will be numerous pieces featuring designs by Bandera's own "singing cowgirl," Ballan Grant.

"I have admired Ballan's graphics as well as her vocal talents," said Ruthven. "It's been fun to work together in the studio, and it should be of interest to people to see the same general form receiving entirely different treatments." Ballan's work emphasizes rodeo cowboys, race horses and other Western motifs.

Anne Ruthven was born and reared in Jefferson City, Mo., and moved to Bandera two years ago after living for 13 years in New York City where she received her training in ceramics. She initially did pottery on a full-time basis, but found that she didn't like being alone in her studio all of the time.

She currently is assistant manager of Campus South Bookstore near UTSA at San Antonio, and works in her studio located in the back of the Bandera General Store during evenings and weekends.

An artists' reception, open to the public, will be held during the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 5, at Frontier Times Museum. The pottery exhibit will run through the month of November.

Frontier Times Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children ages 6 through 18. Members of the Friends of Frontier Times Museum are admitted free.

by bungy

Get ready! Get setlin'

The deer hunters will be off at day-light on Saturday. This season is supposed to be good for hunters, and the next two months are always good for the whole economy of Bandera.

Beginning this weekend, a number of shops in Bandera will be open each Friday night until 9 p.m. until Christmas to try and lure the local people in for a look-see at their holiday gift ideas.

• Over at Pop's Place on Sunday afternoons they've got a jam session going and "The Little Horse Duo" heads them up with lots of bluegrass, so bring your banjos and fiddles!

• Val S. Raitz has moved to Bandera.

Why is that so interesting? 'Cause she was Miss American Paint Horse Association in 1980-81, and she brought a couple of paints and a miniature horse with her.

Just another champ for Bandera.

• Lackland Air Force Base has the finest English Language in the world, and once or twice a month it brings groups of foreign pilots from all over the world to Bandera to play cowboy for the day.

They give them an hour on Main Street to shop and then they head on out either to the Twin Elms or Silver Spur, where they get a taste of the cowboy flavor.

They love it, and can't you see them telling everyone back home" all about it!

• There is a horse named "Flaming Thought," that has been racing at Bandera Downs for three years. He was "Horse of the Year" on the Texas Circuit in 1986 and that year he broke the track record.

Earlier this year, he broke that record, and in April he broke that record.

Alex Fry is the horse's owner, and can't keep buttons on his shirt 'cause his chest swells out when he starts talking about him!

• The Bandera County Chamber of Commerce publishes a "Calendar of Events," a yearly list of things happening all over the county.

Have you got one?

The tourists from San Antonio, Houston, Dallas and Austin love them.

A big "hip, hip, horray," goes out to Bandera Downs, OST, Cabaret and the Silver Dollar for footing the bill.

• After the election, no matter which way it goes, it would be nice to consider not what divides us, but what unites us.

• Medina, as the "Apple Capital of Texas," is really taking off. There was an article in the San Antonio Express-News last week about the community's "Apple Cider Sundays," and people from San Antonio poured out Sunday to get a taste. So many, in fact, that they ran out.

Sixth Dobson family film to be shown Sunday

"The Heritage," the sixth and final film in the series "Turn Your Heart Toward Home" by Dr. James Dobson will be shown Sunday, Nov. 6 at 5:30 p.m. at Bandera High School Auditorium.

The film series is sponsored by Bandera County Christian Fellowship.

Pastor to be cited

The Hill Country Chapel will host a song fest fellowship Sunday, Nov. 6, for the members of Lakehills United Methodist Church to welcome their new pastor to the community.

Rohlfs to speak

The Rev. Dr. Claus Rohlfs will speak at the Medina United Methodist Church on his recent trips to East and West Germany and China.

He will tell about living conditions in the countries he visited and will show slides.

Prior to Rev. Rohlfs' presentation, there will be a meal in the Youth Center. The public is invited to both the meal and the presentation, and organizers asked those who intend to eat to bring some type of snack food.

CCD classes offered

Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) classes will be offered Wednesdays from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at St. Victor's Chapel in Lakehills.

The CCD classes will be followed each Wednesday by Bible study from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., a spokesman said.

AF graduate

Air Force Reserve Airmen Leon J. Swonke Jr. has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft loadmasters course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Swonke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Swonke of Pipe Creek. He is a 1986 graduate of Bandera High School.

During the course, students were taught dual rail systems and winching techniques in order to implement and carry-out aircraft loading and unloading plans. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Helping Hand sets ribbon cutting Saturday

The new Bandera County Helping Hand building on State Highway 16 northwest of Bandera will be presented to the public at a ribbon-cutting and open house Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

The ribbon cutting at the new facility by the county maintenance yard will be held at 1 p.m. and the open house will continue until 3 p.m., says Mildred Treaster, center director. Visitors will come in the front door, sign the guest book, and then they will be free to walk through the different rooms, she says. Refreshments of cake, cookies, punch and coffee will be served next to the kitchen.

All county citizens are invited, says Treaster. The center mailed 345 special invitations to county and city officials, county businesses, sponsoring organizations, and others on the mailing list, she says.

One room of the building is currently being used by the Spirits of Christmas program. A representative of the program that brings Christmas presents to needy county children and food to their families will be present during the open house.

The Helping Hand is now located in the old Grimes Funeral Home building which was moved to the county property between Mansfield Park and the Bandera Electric Cooperative in June. The building was donated by John and Sue Grimes. Much of the work that went into refurbishing the building for use came from volunteers.

The new Helping Hand center is two miles northwest of Bandera on Highway 16. There is a separate road leading to the building outside the county yard's fence.

Parking will be available Saturday on the lot at the electric cooperative next to the soccer field. "Our parking area is limited," says Treaster. Anyone with a wheel chair or who can't walk that far should park at the center, she says.

Helping Hand is a crisis intervention center for those that need help with food, clothes, supplies, and referrals. "We help those that need help, whether in an emergency or not," says Treaster. "We help (low-income) people with food until they can get a job again." The center also provides school supplies for low-income families.

The center now has a thrift-sale on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week for low-income families, says Treaster.

Sixth Dobson family film to be shown Sunday

"The Heritage," the sixth and final film in the series "Turn Your Heart Toward Home" by Dr. James Dobson will be shown Sunday, Nov. 6 at 5:30 p.m. at Bandera High School Auditorium.

The film series is sponsored by Bandera County Christian Fellowship.

Pastor to be cited

The Hill Country Chapel will host a song fest fellowship Sunday, Nov. 6, for the members of Lakehills United Methodist Church to welcome their new pastor to the community.

Rohlfs to speak

The Rev. Dr. Claus Rohlfs will speak at the Medina United Methodist Church on his recent trips to East and West Germany and China.

He will tell about living conditions in the countries he visited and will show slides.

Prior to Rev. Rohlfs' presentation, there will be a meal in the Youth Center. The public is invited to both the meal and the presentation, and organizers asked those who intend to eat to bring some type of snack food.

CCD classes offered

Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) classes will be offered Wednesdays from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at St. Victor's Chapel in Lakehills.

The CCD classes will be followed each Wednesday by Bible study from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., a spokesman said.

AF graduate

Air Force Reserve Airmen Leon J. Swonke Jr. has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft loadmasters course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Swonke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Swonke of Pipe Creek. He is a 1986 graduate of Bandera High School.

During the course, students were taught dual rail systems and winching techniques in order to implement and carry-out aircraft loading and unloading plans. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Helping Hand sets ribbon cutting Saturday

The new Bandera County Helping Hand building on State Highway 16 northwest of Bandera will be presented to the public at a ribbon-cutting and open house Saturday beginning at 1 p.m.

The ribbon cutting at the new facility by the county maintenance yard will be held at 1 p.m. and the open house will continue until 3 p.m., says Mildred Treaster, center director. Visitors will come in the front door, sign the guest book, and then they will be free to walk through the different rooms, she says. Refreshments of cake, cookies, punch and coffee will be served next to the kitchen.

All county citizens are invited, says Treaster. The center mailed 345 special invitations to county and city officials, county businesses, sponsoring organizations, and others on the mailing list, she says.

One room of the building is currently being used by the Spirits of Christmas program. A representative of the program that brings Christmas presents to needy county children and food to their families will be present during the open house.

The Helping Hand is now located in the old Grimes Funeral Home building which was moved to the county property between Mansfield Park and the Bandera Electric Cooperative in June. The building was donated by John and Sue Grimes. Much of the work that went into refurbishing the building for use came from volunteers.

The new Helping Hand center is two miles northwest of Bandera on Highway 16. There is a separate road leading to the building outside the county yard's fence.

Parking will be available Saturday on the lot at the electric cooperative next to the soccer field. "Our parking area is limited," says Treaster. Anyone with a wheel chair or who can't walk that far should park at the center, she says.

Helping Hand is a crisis intervention center for those that need help with food, clothes, supplies, and referrals. "We help those that need help, whether in an emergency or not," says Treaster. "We help (low-income) people with food until they can get a job again." The center also provides school supplies for low-income families.

The center now has a thrift-sale on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week for low-income families, says Treaster.

Capital City anti-drug rally disrupted by pro-pot protestors

Red Ribbon Week was termed "successful" in Bandera County and statewide, despite the efforts of pot marijuana protestors who disrupted an Austin Rally attended by several Bandera students, according to Student assistance counselor Bill Buchell.

Red Ribbon Week was highlighted by a Wednesday pep rally in Kerrville and a concert and rally Saturday in Austin. But during the week, many in the community expressed support by wearing red ribbons.

"It's a shame we can't do this 365 days a year," said Jim Harvey, chief of the 4-county drug task force. Education is a critical factor, and involvement of the schools on a full-time basis is important, he said.

Almost 100 students from Bandera, Kerrville, Ingram and Center Point traveled to Austin Saturday for an anti-drug rally and concert sponsored by Texans War on Drugs and the federal drug task force of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency.

"It was the largest 'Just Say No' gathering in Texas ever," said Buchell. "About 10,800 Texas students met at The University of Texas campus, then marched to the Frank Erwin Center (the Super Drum)."

Commodores, Club Nouveau, Valentino, Tracy Spencer, and Michael Cooper were among the celebrity guests that performed at the concert.

Pro-marijuana protestors staged a demonstration that forced the group to curtail its activities earlier than scheduled, Buchell said, but the group's positive energy was "overwhelming." On the way back, Buchell said students discussed ways to create an organization to involve all four school districts on an ongoing basis.

At Wednesday's rally in Kerrville, some 500 marchers traveled from First United Methodist Church to Louise Hays Park for cheers, skits, music and speeches. More than 65 Bandera students attending the rally included Clint Schantz, who emceed the program.

Guest speaker was Tivy High School senior Tiffany McGowan, who replaced Suzanne Young, youth coordinator for Texans War on Drugs, who was scheduled to speak to the group. Young had to make an emergency trip to Austin when the pro-marijuana protesters took their stand.

Towards the end of Wednesday's program, 500 red balloons were released. Buchell was surprised with a plaque recognizing him for his efforts in the war on drugs.

Bandera student leaders include Schantz, Peggy Whitehead, Tiffany Moseley, Kim Lukachik, Priscilla Obiedo, Angelika Kluna, Shannon Walbrun, David Kelly, Freddy Richardson, Deborah Weltens; Kimber Bos, Tandie Clements, Marika Cook, Jennifer Wharton, Braon Moseley and Minnie Whitehead.

Other members include Kim Kibbe, Ruth Mazurek, Sally Langston, Tammy Lynd, Michele Hermann, Willie Bates, Eric Wylie, Sharon Wehmeyer, Nicki Nickler, and Melissa Howard. One of the faculty sponsors is Julie Young.

"I think Red Ribbon Week gave some of the kids a chance to step to the forefront," said Young. "We had some kids that really worked hard."

A group of students meets on a weekly basis to continue the anti-drug effort, according to Young.

Homecoming week activities set at BHS

Homecoming week is filled with spirited activities for BHS students, including a window painting contest of downtown businesses and a hall decorating contest.

Each class or organization can sign up to decorate a downtown business window. Windows will be judged on Thursday and the prizes will be given at the Pep Rally on Friday.

First place, sponsored by the Booster Club will get $100; second place, sponsored by Joe Hearn, will receive $50; third place will receive $25.

Each class also has a designated hallway at BHS in which they can put posters and signs for Homecoming.

Besides class activities, there has been a theme each day of the week for dressing-up. Halloween costumes were worn Monday. Tuesday's theme was "punk" and Wednesday's was "long jam's day." Thursday is "peace" day and Friday is "blue and white day."

Thursday, Nov. 3, a bonfire at Mansfield Park will begin at 8:30 p.m. All varsity football players will speak and the cheerleaders will lead yells.

Attendance awards presented to 171 Bandera students

Some 171 students had perfect attendance during the first six weeks as BHS launched a campaign for improved attendance.

"Each six weeks students with perfect attendance will receive an award that we're still working on," said BHS principal Richard Delamain.

Students with perfect attendance for the semester and year will receive special prizes.

The three second period classes that have the best attendance record also receive an award. For the first six weeks, Mr. Homer Stevens' Biology class, Mrs. Barbara Opperman's English class, and Mrs. Mary Welch's Computer Math class had an ice cream party. For the second six weeks, a pizza party is planned for the three second period classes with the best attendance.

Over the summer, BHS officials attended a workshop and decided that attendance was a problem, and that improvement was needed. Prizes are being offered to give students incentive and motivation to come to school.

"What we're trying to do is to get students here so that we can teach them. If they aren't here, they can't be taught," said Mr. Delamain.

When a student is absent, the parents are called to see what the problem is. "We want the parents to be conscientious enough to call us first," Mr. Delamain said.

The overall goal of the program is to get 96 percent of the students in attendance.

Mr. and Miss BHS nominees named

This year, the BHS Homecoming Court consists of sixteen students, four from each grade level nominated for Mr. and Miss BHS.

Two boys and two girls from each class were elected by their peers. Senior candidates are Kim Lukachik, John Scott, Priscilla Obiedo and Walter Stricker; junior candidates are Brett Emmons, Candi Grimes, Patti Kindla, and Scott Rogers; sophomore candidates are Shayne Felten, Bo Mansfield, Carrie Fellows and Leroy Brown; and freshman candidates are Heather Perk, Ethan Timmons, Johnny Stroud and Stacy Wakely.

Students in all grades voted for one girl and one boy and the results will be announced at the Homecoming game Friday, Nov. 4 during halftime.

Texas high school students prepare for SAT

Thousands of high school students in the state of Texas are expected to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) Saturday, Nov. 5, many of them still unsure of the test's role in college admissions. Nearly half-a-million students throughout the nation will be tested that day, the largest SAT administration of the year, according to Janice A. Gams with The College Board.

"In Texas, more than 142,000 students take the SAT annually — nearly 15,000 in November alone," Gams said.

The College Board, which sponsors the SAT, has prepared a short true-or-false quiz to help put the test in perspective and separate myths about the SAT from facts.

1. SAT scores can make or break a student's academic future.

False. By itself, the SAT won't get a student into college, or keep most students out. That is because the SAT is one of several factors that college admission's officers consider in deciding who is admitted.

Before most colleges look at SAT scores, they look at grades and evaluate the strength of the student's academic program.

2. High school grades are better than the SAT in predicting how well students will do in college.

True. At most colleges, high school grades are somewhat better than SAT scores in predicting how well students will do in a particular college. But the combination of grades with scores produces a better predictor than either used alone. (At other colleges, Achievement Tests are most valuable in predicting performance.)

3. Fewer colleges are using the SAT every year.

False. The number of colleges using the SAT is increasing, not decreasing. More than 1,600 colleges use the SAT today for admissions, and guidance and placement; that's 435 more than in 1978.

4. The best preparation for the SAT is a coaching course.

False. Despite decades of research, it is still not possible to predict ahead of time who will, or will not, improve their scores — and by how much — through coaching courses. For that reason, the College Board does not recommend coaching courses.

5. The SAT is biased against women and minorities.

False. As individuals, women and minorities score as high, and as low, as white males. Average group scores, however, do show a gap between most minorities and whites and between women and men. It is very simplistic to blame differences in scores on bias in the test. Women and minorities who take the SAT frequently have unequal educational, social, and other background experiences that may be reflected in their performance on the SAT and other standardized tests.

ELECT
MARC M. SULTAN
FOR SHERIFF
BANDERA COUNTY

As a serious candidate for Sheriff of Bandera County, MARC SULTAN has already talked with many of you about the law enforcement issues that are important to Bandera County.

- MARC SULTAN believes that drugs and drug related crimes can not be ignored, and can only become more of a problem in Bandera County in the future.
- MARC SULTAN has said that leadership in the next Sheriff's Department must "come down from the top". Bandera County can not afford second best in law enforcement.
- MARC SULTAN has also stated that "there is not always enough investigation in cases dealing with drug sales and manufacture", and that "many burglaries in this county are drug related".
- MARC SULTAN has experience, and knows the state and federal drug laws, and methods used in fighting drug related crimes. As a husband and father of young children, MARC SULTAN has a strong interest in keeping out schools and county drug free.
- MARC SULTAN is a career law enforcement officer, with a proven track record in drug related arrests. He knows the laws, and can help make the difference in our fight against illegal drugs.

...ity council to consider ...og law enforcements

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

...ssibility of the leash law, ...ew of euthanizing unwanted ...nimals and other aspects of the ...dog problem in the City of ...dera will be taken up at the ...Council's Nov. 14 meeting.

At the Oct. 10 workshop session, council members recommended enforcement of the city's dog ordinance, action which will be taken at the Nov. 14 council meeting.

The council members will vote at their Nov. 14 meeting whether to strictly enforce the city's current dog ordinance, says Mayor Raymond Adamietz.

The current city ordinances limits citizens to a maximum of four dogs and cats, excepting only kennels and related businesses.

The ordinance says noisy animals are not allowed. "It shall be unlawful for any person to own, keep, or be in control of any animal which causes unreasonably loud or unnecessary noise that causes material annoyance, distress, or discomfort to persons of ordinary sensibilities in the immediate vicinity," says Article 10-1-2, Section b-8, of the dog and animal regulations.

The ordinance also provides that every pet owner should restrain their animal at all times. Restrained is defined as, confined within a fence or closure, leashed by a rope, chain, or leash, within a vehicle, or "At heel beside a competent person and obedient to that person's command."

City council will also discuss a city license for dogs in addition to the county's. A city license tag would be made more visible to assist enforcement, if used, says Adamietz.

The current city ordinance authorizes use of a dog license for a fee of $2 per pet.

At the Oct. 10 Bandera city council meeting, council members decided to investigate euthanizing the city of Bandera's stray dogs at the Freeman-Fritts animal shelter in Kerrville. The council will hear the results of that investigation, says Adamietz.

Under the current ordinance, the city can impound any animal that is not confined or restrained. The city can also destroy or transfer ownership of an impounded animal, if the owner does not claim the animal.

Council members at their Oct. 17 workshop session recommended that the city police should help with the stray dog problem, says councilman Carl Adamietz. "But to pick up a stray dog, you need a cage to keep it," says Adamietz.

"We have been approached with the stray dog problem over the past few years," said veterinarian Steve Sells at the Oct. 10 council meeting. "It is not just a city problem, but a countywide problem. In our opinion there is not enough population or tax revenue in city and county combined to build and maintain an (animal) facility," he said.

Veterinarians Sells and Mark Richardson appeared at invitation of the Bandera city council Oct. 10 to explain the cost of an animal shelter.

The cost to keep one average-size dog for three days is $20, said Richardson.

Animal shelters in Bandera County such as the Harmons have 55 dogs now, said Sells.

"I don't think we can leave the dog problem lie. Something has to be done," said Carl Adamietz.

This female dog, probably a cross between a red hound and an Irish setter, was found at Godkin Ranch, complete with a puppy. This well-behaved and obedient dog is not the kind of stray dog ranchers worry about, until it starts to get hungry and no one in the area will take it in. This dog was feeding puppies and the best guess is that the owner gave as many puppies away as possible and decided to have no more puppies. Unfortunately, the solution was to dump the mother, not have it spayed.

Freeman-Fritz Animal Shelter costs $6,000 per month

The Freeman-Fritts Animal Shelter which, serves the stray animal problem in Kerrville, Ingram, and Kerr county, costs $6,000 a month to operate and only 58 percent is paid for by the government entities it serves.

A similar, but smaller operation for Bandera County could cost as much as $1,600 a month, based on four sets of 20 dogs kept for three days.

At Freeman-Fritts, stray animals are collected by animal control offices and brought to the shelter. Private individuals also surrender animals to the shelter. Maintenance of these animals until they are adopted or euthanized costs the shelter money. "We've taken in 8,000 animals over the two years," says Margret Freeman, treasurer for the Animal Welfare Society of Kerr County that operates the facility. There was a definite problem that surfaced when the shelter began operation, she says.

The shelter must rely on donations to keep operating at its current $6,000 per month rate. Kerrville, Ingram, and Kerr County pay $3,5(.) a month for the society to maintain the shelter, leaving a $2,500 deficit that must be made up, says Freeman.

Some 40 percent of the shelter's expenses are met by donations. Fund raisers such as a Sept. 20 fashion show, and a Nov. 5-6 bake sale net donations. The society also runs a thrift shop at 223 Water Street, open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to raise money.

The shelter's building cost $160,000 to build. Much of the equipment and cages were extra.

The shelter has 18 pens for large dogs, 16 cages for puppies, and 44 cages for cats.

Vet says animal shelter would cost $50,000

The cost of a city or county-sponsored animal shelter would be $50,000 to build and $20 for each 40- to 60-pound dog to maintain, estimates veterinarians from Bandera Hill Country Veterinary Clinic.

The $50,000 building would include adequate facilities for 20 animals including cages and dog kennels or "runs," says Veterinarian Steve Sells. The estimate includes the metal building, insulation, concrete slab and plumbing, says Sells.

The $50,000 estimate does not include land acquisition. The estimate assumes the shelter would be built on county or city land, says Sells.

A 40- to 60-pound dog would cost $20 to bring in, clean up, house and feed for three days, and euthanize at the end of the three-day period, says veterinarian Mark Richardson. Smaller dogs and cats will be cheaper, he says.

The dog runs (kennels) must be large enough that the dog can stand in a normal position and turn around, says Richardson. For health requirements, stray dogs must be kept in kennels that are separated by a wall so there is no nose-to-nose contact, he says.

A nine-pen kennel costs $3,300, says Richardson. The pen can hold nine dogs and is eight feet across and 30 feet deep. A two-foot by 30-inch metal cage used for cats costs $300 each.

To pick up stray or loose animals, a complainant will have to sign a release form, says Richardson. The person who reports the loose animal will have to state that they know the stray animal is not their neighbor's and to the best of their knowledge, the dog or cat hasn't bitten anyone, says Richardson.

"To transport a stray animal that has been caught, there will need to be a cage or a fiberglass kennel to keep the dog or cat, says Richardson. The cages would have to be strapped down, such as in the back of a pick-up truck.

"You can't just put the animal in the back of a police car," he says.

There is no set standard for how long the stray animal must be held, but the average is 72 hours for a town Bandera's size, says Richardson. Animals can be euthanized sooner for medical reasons, he adds.

Once destroyed, the animal's body must be disposed of. If buried in a landfill, it must be covered by dark, says Richardson.

In any animal shelter, a veterinarian will have to be involved because of the medication used, says Richardson.

The housing and the disposing of animals is phenomenally expensive, Sells told the Oct. 10 Bandera city council meeting. "If it were lucrative, you would see private enterprise taking care on it. There is no easy solution," says Sells.

Some areas utilize cooperative efforts among cities and counties with the help of private individuals, says Sells.

In Bandera County, there is the Animal Aid Society which cares for about 100 dogs and cats, and the St. Francis Animal Sanctuary, which cares for about 50 animals. Neither receive government support and rely on private donations. Both shelters euthanize animals only if they are very old or very sick.

"The problem is here. We don't have an easy answer. We don't see any way it (a shelter) could be self-sufficient without a lot of outside donations," Sells told city council.

Florida bass beneficial to Texas

Electrophoretic tests of largemouth bass collected from Canyon Reservoir have shown that introductions of Florida-strain bass have had a positive effect.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Mike Ryan of San Marcos said 84 percent of bass collected at the 8,200-acre reservoir west of New Braunfels were pure Florida bass or intergrades.

Florida-strain bass are identical in appearance to native (northern) bass, but they generally grow faster and attain larger maximum sizes than natives.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Fish Hatchery at Uvalde stocked 34,320 Florida bass fingerlings at Canyon in 1987, Ryan said, adding that the apparent success of the stocking could translate into better fishing for Canyon Lake anglers because of the fishes' faster growth rate.

Pipe Creek youth places twice in Pine Wood Derby

Weebelo scout Justin Stade, 9, won first place among all Weebelos and third place overall of pine wood derby racers at the Boy Scouts area meet Saturday, Oct. 22.

After a dozen races with his eight-inch "Sharkmobile" racer in area competition Justin took first place among 50 other Weebelo scouts and third place among at least 200 boy scouts at the Alamo Area Scout fair in San Antonio.

A pine wood race car is cut and carved from a block of pine wood. The wheels and axles are then inserted into the painted body. The car is raced by gravity downhill along an over 40 feet wooden track.

Justin previously won second place in racing among his fellow Bandera area scouts in April. He also took first place with the most unique car.

Justin won third place in racing at the district competition in May. Justin competed with other scouts from the local Hill Country area.

This is the first time Justin has competed at the 58-district Alamo Area Council competition.

Justin is the son of Karl and Janet Stade of Pipe Creek.

Justin Stade, Weebelo Scout from Pipe Creek, competed in his first area-wide pine wood derby Oct. 22 and came away a winner. He holds his unique Sharkmobile that won him first place among all scouts in his age group and third place among all competing boy scouts. Previously he won third place at district and second place locally.

Spaying and neutering: the best solutions

The best solution to the stray and unwanted dog and cat problem is stopping the problem at its source: spay and neutering pets.

The Freeman-Fritts Animal Shelter in Kerrville has to euthanize unwanted dogs and cats because there is no better solution, except to get the public to reduce reproduction of dogs and cats, says Margret Freeman, treasurer for the Animal Welfare Society of Kerr County that operates the facility.

The shelter provides a low-cost spay and neutering clinic the first and second Sundays of the month. The operation to keep a dog from reproducing is $25, whether the animal is large or small. To spay a female cat is $20 and to neuter a male cat is $12.50. If the animal does not have proof of a rabies vaccination, the shot is required and costs $5. Immunization shots for $10 are optionally available.

The spay and neutering clinic cost the shelter money, says Freeman. "All money collected (from the pet owner) goes to the veterinarian," she says. The shelter pays for the cost of the drugs and takes care of the administration of the clinic, cleanup, and assisting the veterinarian. "It costs us $10 per animal," says Freeman. She gives as an example, rubber gloves that cost $1.50. The animal welfare society funds the clinic because, "we feel it's worth it," says Freeman.

The shelter's phone number is 257-4500.

Neil Simon comedy set at Schreiner on Nov. 9

The Repertory Theater of American/Alpha Omega Players will present "I Ought To Be In Pictures," a Neil Simon comedy, on Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in Dietert Auditorium on the Schreiner College campus.

Hosted by Schreiner College Student Services, admission to the play is free and open to the public.

The Repertory Theater of America, established in 1967, is a national touring company which has the distinction of staging more performances annually than any similar organization in the country. The company is comprised of three separate units which tour nationwide for nine to ten months. Each year more than 600 actors and actresses audition for only 12 positions.

"I Ought To Be In Pictures" is the story of a unique father-daughter relationship of discovery, as Libby appears on her father's Hollywood doorstep (after 16 years) to enlist his aid in breaking into the movies. Nathan Thomas will play Herb, a fading Hollywood scriptwriter, while Heidi Busch will appear as Libby. Also appearing will be Jill Giles as Steffy; Herb's girlfriend.

This is the third year that Schreiner has brought the Repertory Theater Of America to Kerrville. Thomas and Giles may be remembered for their roles in last year's production of "Barefoot in the Park."

Grand jury indicts seven, no bills two Oct. 28

Seven true bill indictments were returned when Bandera County grand jury convened Friday, Oct. 28. The indictments included three for delivery of marijuana, two for forgery, one for possession of a controlled substance and one for burglary of a habitation.

The grand jury returned two no bills, or Frank Mitchell on theft charges and on Pam Jones for delivery of marijuana.

Henry Mesa Jr., currently in custody in Bandera County jail, was indicted for burglary.

The three marijuana indictments were a result of an ongoing investigation by the four-county drug task force that has netted several arrests in Boerne, Bandera, Kerrville and Fredericksburg.

The task force goes up for renewal Dec. 1, according to chief Jim Harvey, who said according to Lamar Smith, "money will be available."

"The word is, we're going to be renewed," Harvey said.

Postmaster urges shoppers to mail early

Though it seems early, Bandera postmaster Joe Short this week reminded mailers that the first deadlines to mail surface mail to foreign countries have already passed.

The first deadlines were on Oct. 3 and Oct. 16, Short said.

The veteran postmaster urged holiday shoppers to mail early this year and to make certain that mail is addressed correctly, including ZIP codes, and that packages are wrapped correctly.

"This will help to insure that your cards and parcels reach their destination in plenty of time for the holidays," he said.

The key to successful holiday mailing is to mail early and correctly. "That includes planning now for gifts that must travel long distances by Christmas," he said.

"Many overseas dates, especially those destined for military personnel overseas, occur during the months of October and November." Short explained. "Specific information is available for your convenience at you local post office," he said.

"Last year, our customers helped us tremendously," Short said. "They mailed early in the season and early in the day. "We hope they will choose to cooperate with us again this year so we both will have an enjoyable holiday season."

Police in county report quiet Halloween night

Two arrests for driving while intoxicated were reported by the Bandera County Sheriff's department this week, but Halloween was quiet, according to sheriff Guy Pickett and Bandera city police chief Walter Welch.

"The little kids were all enjoying trick or treats and having a good time, but everything was real quiet," said Welch. "You could hardly get down the street (by Bandera Youth Center)."

Mario Molino, 19, of Kerrville, and Kenneth Andreas, 30, of Pipe Creek, were arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated. Molino was arrested Oct. 29 and Andreas was arrested Oct. 30.

Friday, Oct. 28, John Towers of Pipe Creek reported his place burglarized and numerous items including TVs, VCRs, guns, jewelry and other miscellaneous items stolen. Total value of the missing merchandise was reported to be over $6,800.

E.B. Baker of Bandera reported Thursday, Oct. 27 someone entered his residence and took a VCR valued at $411.

Please help our youth on Nov. 8th. The Bandera Youth Center and the Rainbow Girls will host an election count-down at the Bandera Youth Center, 1103 Cedar Street in Bandera beginning at 6 p.m. election day. Join the local candidates of both parties for hot dogs, pastries and non-alcoholic beverages as the vote results are posted. Everyone from all political persuasions welcome.

Firewood: Getting a cord's worth

It's that time of year again when ads for firewood begin to appear in the newspapers. People with fireplaces and woodburning stoves start to worry that they won't have enough wood to get them through the winter.

Some people will be looking for sale-by-the-truckload lots alongside the road.

When buying firewood by the pick-up load, consumers really have no way of accurately knowing how much wood they are paying for because truck bed sizes vary from small to large depending on the make of the vehicle. Consumers should also be wary of firewood dealers who offer a quick discount for delivery of unstacked wood. The problem is that when wood isn't stacked, there is no way to measure it accurately.

Most consumers don't realize that there is a standard measure of firewood called a cord. Knowing the legal dimensions of a cord makes a wise purchase easier to make. A cord is not a "pick-up full" or a "load" or a "rick." A legal cord is a well-stacked pile of logs that measures four feet high by four feet wide by eight feet long. But no matter how a cord is stacked, it should equal 128 cubic feet.

Firewood is usually sold in 16- to 24-inch lengths. If you are buying only a portion of a cord, neatly stack the wood and multiply the height of the stack by its width and length. Divide the result by 128. The final figure tells you how much of a cord you are buying. If, for example, you end up with one-fourth of a cord, multiply the cost of the wood by four. Then you'll know how much you are paying "by the cord."

If you buy a full cord of firewood, here's an easy way to find out if you are getting what you pay for. Before you have the wood delivered, measure off a 4x4x8-foot area.) Then, before you pay for the load, have the delivery person stack the wood in that area. If you pay for the wood and then stack it yourself, chances are that the delivery truck will be long gone by the time you realize that you have have been shorted on the deal.

The costs for a cord of wood will vary according to what type of tree the wood came from and how well seasoned it is. Green, or unseasoned, wood will be cheaper, but it won't be suitable for burning for another six to 10 months. The best time to purchase unseasoned wood is in late spring and early summer, when the demand for wood is low then and so is the cost. You'll also have plenty of time to let the wood dry out for better burning during the winter.

Oak and mesquite are preferred for firewood because they are slow-burning hardwoods. Softwoods like pine and spruce are less desirable firewood choices — and usually cheaper — because they burn faster.

The fungus that causes oak wilt can grow on the bark of red oak. Even dead red-oak bark can host this fast-spreading fungus. If you purchase red-oak firewood it is best not to store it for later use, because of the danger that insects might spread the fungus to healthy trees. If you buy firewood of an unknown origin, it is best to burn it all this winter before insect activity picks up.

When stacking firewood, avoid placing it against an outside wall. If firewood is stacked against a wall, the insects and other small animals that may move into the stack for shelter will have an easier time moving inside your house or garage. To prevent this invasion, stack your firewood along a fence or make it a free-standing stack in a corner of the yard.

Bobcat pelt tagging period starts Nov. 15

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials remind hunters and trappers that bobcat pelts taken for the purpose of sale must be tagged, and only bobcat pelts taken from Nov. 15-Feb. 15 may be sold.

The pelts must be permanently tagged prior to purchase, sale or transport outside Texas. Pelts may be presented to registered bobcat dealers for tagging at no cost, whether or not the pelt is sold to the tagging dealer.

Individuals shipping or selling bobcat pelts out of the state must file a report on a form supplied by the department within 20 days of each shipment, stating the number of tagged pelts shipped and the name and address of the consignee.

A hunting license is the only license required to take bobcats.

For further information on bobcat and furbearer regulations obtain the TPWD's Fur-Bearing Animals Regulations Digest at department offices across the state.

Bob Galvan
Write-In Constable Prec. 2

Robert A. (Bob) Galvan of Lakehills is a write-in candidate for constable in precinct 2.

"I sincerely feel I can serve and give our community the service needed," he said in making his announcement.

Write-in votes are counted in the general election in November only when they have declared as an official write-in candidate and filed an application with the county judge. Galvan filed in County Judge Ray Mauer's office.

Galvan is a retired U.S. Navy chief petty officer, and he and his wife, Jacque, have lived in Pebble Beach 1 subdivision for 11 years.

A graduate of the Peace Officer's Academy who is state-tested and state-certified, Galvan said he will work closely with law enforcement agencies in the counties when necessary.

"Being retired, my availability will allow me to devote full time to this position which is of the utmost importance," he said.

Sunshine, cool nights create 'ideal' maple color

By Janna Sandidge
Staff writer

October brought a "beautiful display of colors" at Lost Maples State Natural Area on Monday.

Cool weather during early October brought a "beautiful display of colors" at Lost Maples State Natural Area on Monday.

Cool nights and sunny days are ideal conditions for the transformation of the trees from green to shades of red, orange and yellow.

Rain and wind over the past weekend made many of the colorful leaves drop, but with the right weather conditions, the best may be yet to come, according to Heideman.

"Right now, we are between stages," said Heideman, "but Monday and Tuesday's weather was perfect, and if it stays dry, there are still lots of trees that haven't changed.

"We need the sunshine. There is lots of potential there if we can get some cool nights and sunny days," he said.

Heideman hiked through some of the more remote areas of the park Monday on his day off, and he reported that some of the best color is along the one mile stretch of drive into the area.

Weekends are busy, though, at the scenic park. Come during the week if at all possible, Heideman urged.

Lost Maples State Natural Area is located in western Bandera county on the Sabinal River, five miles north of Vanderpool on Ranch Road 187.

Park headquarters are open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Park entrance costs $2 per vehicle for day use, but senior citizens (65 and older) get in free. Day permits are good until 10 p.m., but there is limited parking.

There are picnic and camping facilities available for day use and overnight use. The day use area contains 26 picnic sites, parking spaces and a restroom. Overnight accommodations are available, but reservations must be made well in advance, especially during this time of year, when scenic splendor is at its prime.

The park is named for its impressive stands of bigtooth maple trees. Their fiery display of fall colors is legendary, and on a really good year, people come from hundreds of miles to view them during the autumn months when the air is crisp and cool.

The park is a combination of steep, rugged limestone canyons, springs, plateau grasslands, wooden slopes and clear streams. The area was designated a Natural Landmark by the Heritage Conservation and Reclamation Service in 1980.

Archaeological evidence shows the area was used by not only prehistoric peoples, but by groups like the Apache and Comanche well into the 19th century.

Valero profit

Valero Energy Corporation, which has a booster plant near Bandera, this week reported third quarter net incomes of $7.5 million, or $.13 per common share. Valero's net income for the first nine months of 1988 was $20.7 million, or $.32 per share.

For the third quarter of 1987, Valero reported a net loss from continuing operations of $11.9 million, or $.57 per share, and for the first nine months of last year, the company had a net loss from continuing operations of $21.0 million, or $1.09 per share, before an after-tax gain of $72.8 million from the formation of Valero Natural Gas Partners, L.P. on March 25, 1987.

Austin man issued citation for removing maple branches

A formal complaint was issued this week against an Austin man charged with removing branches from trees in the Lost Maples State Natural Area Sunday, Oct. 23.

Thomas Eleiser of Austin was issued a citation by Jimmy Mangum, game warden and a complaint against Fleisner was signed by park ranger Ray Hatchett, park superintendent.

"I caught him up in a tree, taking the branches," said Heideman. "People take them because they're pretty.

"We feel it is destroying the plant life, of a protected species. The maples are what we're trying to protect here," he said. "We need to get the word to people, they can be fined for this."

Anyone caught removing branches or damaging the trees will be "fined heavily," according to justice of the peace Tom Grant.

Hunters get final reminder on either-sex deer bag limit

Reports from the field indicate some Texas hunters are confused about either-sex bag limit regulations for white-tailed deer.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said the either-sex system simply eliminates the use of landowner-issued antlerless deer hunting permits (doe permits) in certain counties.

In any of the 137 counties that have the either-sex system, a hunter needs only to tag antlerless deer with the appropriate tag from his hunting license, just as for buck deer.

This system was adopted to encourage hunters to utilize the antlerless segment of the deer herd. Landowners, however, still retain the right to specify the numbers and sex of deer to be taken from their property.

Most of the state's prime deer hunting regions now have the either-sex system. The Edwards Plateau and South Texas regions were included for the 1987-88 deer season, and most of East Texas was added for the upcoming season.

The regular deer season for most of Texas is Nov. 5-Jan. 1. In some South Texas counties, the season is Nov. 12-Jan. 8.

Hunters take 141 alligators during public hunt, TPWD says

Hunters participating in public hunts on the J.D. Murphree Wildlife Management Area during September harvested 141 alligators, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said.

A total of 297 hunters participated, for a 48 percent success rate. The gators ranged in size from four feet, eight inches, to 12 feet, six inches, and from 10 pounds to 690 pounds. The average length and weight of all gators taken was eight feet, one inch and 136 pounds, according to Kirby Brown, area manager.

This was the fourth year for public alligator hunts on the area, Brown said. In 1985, hunters took 44 animals during an experimental firearms hunt. In 1986 the harvest increased to 104 gators, and in 1987 hunters took 178 alligators using two lines per hunter. This was reduced to one line per hunter in 1988 to provide opportunity to additional participants.

Hunters were allowed to select from several methods to boat an alligator, including hook and line, long bow and arrow, harpoon, gig and hand-held snare. Three gators were taken with bow and arrow in this year's hunt, with the remainder caught on hook and line.

The public hunts were conducted under strict harvest guidelines with tags allocated for surplus gators. Hunters were selected by drawing. Those interested in participating in next year's hunt should contact the TPWD through the toll-free number, 1-800-792-1112 ext. 4505, or the Murphree Area at (409) 736-2551 during June or July 1989.

To The People of Precinct 3

I have now been your commissioner for almost 4 years. For the last year since I took over the road supervision of my roads in Pct. 3 I have tried hard to upgrade all my roads. I think I have made pretty good progress and I know there is still and always will be a lot to be done, that is why I am asking you for your vote Nov. 8 for I think in 4 more years I can upgrade all my roads.

I think you all know that I will listen to your problems and work with you all that I can.

I will try to keep taxes down and will spend your money where I think it will do the most good.

You people in my pct. have been very considerate and understanding with me since I have been in office and I want you to know that I appreciate your patience very much and I want to thank each and every one of you and if you re-elect me I will continue to do my very best for you.

Remember that any time you have a problem that I can help you with as your commissioner don't hesitate to call me. I'll always listen and do the best I can.

Sincerely,
A.A. (Pete) Reed

THANKSGIVING NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

O Holy St. Jude, apostle and martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ. Faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. To you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition, in return I promise to make your name known and cause to be invoked.

Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us, and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail.

Here make your request.

NOTICE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, Worker of Miracles, pray for us. St. Jude help the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 9th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you, St. Jude.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

To all that donated time, food, music or money, on my behalf.

May God bless you and yours.

ADOPT A PET OF BANDERA

Are you plagued with stray dogs or cats? Bandera County does not operate a Humane Shelter at this time.

What to do with the stray pets?

Consider carrying the stray pet to the veterinarians at Hill Country Veterinary Hospital (across from Alkek Elementary). Stray animals will be sheltered for a short time while hospital staff attempt to place the pet in a home.

Two requirements exist:

1. No UNWANTED pets-strays only!
2. Adopting pet owners will be responsible for required vaccination expense and a nominal spay or neuter fee if applicable at time of release.

Call Hill Country Veterinary Hospital Day or night for further information at 796-3787.

Medina FFA qualifies for State

Medina's Future Farmers of America land judging team took second place in the area contest at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos Monday, Oct. 24.

The number two finish qualifies the team to advance to the state competition at Tarleton State in April 1989.

The team members were Tim Wells, also high point individual, Will Hatfield, Josh Turpin and Shannon Kneuper.

Medina's range judging team of Cindi Anderson, Tracy Baker, Christy Long and Lovey Ortiz also attended the contest.

Tarpley

By [illegible] Dean — 582-3464

Rains fell Friday night in much the same area as last week measuring from 1 to 1½ inches.

• Friends are invited to attend a reception honoring the 50th wedding anniversary of Earl and Marie Hood given by their children and grandchildren Saturday, Nov. 12 from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. at Tarpley Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

• Tarpley Baptist Church visitors Sunday night included old friends of Brother and Mrs. Vernon Andrews, the Rev. Larry Barecky and wife Myrna of Wimberly.

Rev. Barecky was the guest speaker, and they visited the Andrews Sunday. Rev. Barecky is the nephew of Mr. August Barecky who was principal at the Medina High School for several years. They now live in Kerrville.

• Your correspondent received a phone call Sunday from her brother and his wife, Chester and Hazel Krause of Knights Landing, Calif. They have had a very warm summer there and no rain for quite awhile. They live near Sacramento, Calif.

We also received a call from niece MaryAnn Woods in Hemet, Calif., who reported many of their fires are set by those in drug busts that retaliate when caught.

• Those attending the Tri-County A Fair at Boerne last Thursday from Tarpley were Marilyn Haner, Olga Schmidt, Gerry Sharp, Bobby Singleton and her mother Mrs. Rigdon Terrell of San Antonio.

The theme of the program was "From lemons to lemonade" and the tables were decorated with this motif.

• The next meeting of the Williams Creek Extension Homemakers Club will be Tuesday, Nov. 8, at noon with a tasting party at the new home of Betty Thigpen. Members are reminded to bring their recipe with the food.

• Mrs. Ridgon Terrell of San Antonio spent several days last week visiting her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Singleton and family.

• Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dean of D'Hanis were visitors last Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Dean.

• Mr. and Mrs. Felix Billings hosted a traditional Halloween party Saturday Night for the little folks and their parents totaling 33 in number.

Water on agenda

Attorney Jay Beitel will speak on water and mineral rights, with a special emphasis on surface water vs. rights to ground water, during a meeting of San Antonio Board of Realtors at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the SABOR offices at 9110 I 10 Northwest.

Sabinal Canyon

By Lillie Thompson — 966-3493

The Sabinal Canyon received 1½ inches of rain Friday night when a cool front passed over with plenty of thunder and lightening and slightly cooler temperatures.

• Joy Denton of Plainview has been a visitor of her sister and husband, Anna Pearl and Hamilton Gabriel.

• Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moreland and families were given a "pounding" last Saturday at the Fellowship Hall by the Baptist ladies.

Sunday morning Mrs. Moreland and her daughter moved their church letter from Medina Baptist Church to Utopia.

The Church will have the privilege of hosting the associational Baptist men Tuesday evening. Supper will be served at 7:30 p.m. and the program will follow.

• The Utopia Arts and Craft Guild will be sponsoring the annual Fall Fair on Saturday, Nov. 5. Because hunting season opens in Bandera County on Nov. 5, and in Uvalde County on Nov. 12, local artists will be displaying their items for purchase on both Saturdays instead of Saturday and Sunday as usual.

• The senior class of Utopia High School will provide a barbecue lunch Nov. 15 and the junior class will provide a meal on Nov. 12. Local musicians will be entertaining in the afternoons.

• Doris Foster is home for the weekend and doing just fine.

• Bonnie Fowler is in Corpus Christi under a physician's care. Her daughter lives in Corpus and states she is improving.

• Gary and Pat Thompson of Poteet came up Sunday bringing his dad Lon Thompson to visit with Francis and Lillie Thompson and Iva and Frieda Heideman.

• Nick and Carmen Schryver of Vanderpool are visiting their daughter and family in Florida.

Medina

By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

The Medina Youth Choir will present its "Friends, Forever" musical in the school cafeteria on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

The 21 member choir includes sopranos Shannon Kneuper, Jennifer Kishpaugh, Holly Pittman, Laryssa Robinson, Laki Johnson and Nora Barber.

Altos are Virginia Jackson, Tracei Kriedler, Karen Kennedy, Missy Hodge, Janet Traweel, Naomi Jackson, Sherri Scafidi, Dusty Reed, Julie Traweek and Maya Lay.

Tenors and basses include Robert Keeling, Charles Kneuper, Larry Pederson, Chris Keiser and Jimmy Keeling.

The choir is under the direction of John Kennedy. The public is urged to attend.

Goodenoughs at sea

Charles and Medina Goodenough of Medina spent their vacation a day in Miami Beach and seven days cruising in the Carribbean.

Islands visited were St. Maarten in the West Indies; Mayreau in the Grenadines; Martinique, St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands; and Puerto Rico.

They returned home Sunday, reporting a wonderful trip.

Sophomores raising funds

The sophomore class of Medina High School will hold a garage and bake sale on Saturday, Nov. 12. It will be on F.M. Road 337, one mile off of Highway 16, in front of the Keiser house.

Sue Keiser says donations of any salable items, including clothes and baked goods, will be appreciated. She can be contacted at 589-2575 for further information.

IN case of rain, the sale will be postponed until the folowing Saturday, Nov. 19.

Hunter's breakfast in Medina

A hunter's breakfast will be held Saturday, Nov. 5, from 5 a.m. until 11 a.m. at the Country Kitchen Cafe in Medina benefitting the Medina FFA and the Medina school eighth grade class.

Officers of the Medina Future Farmers of America will serve breakfast tacos for $1 and coffee for 30 cents Saturday morning, says Doug Townsend, agriculture instructor at the Medina school. Co-sponsoring the breakfast will be the Medina 8th grade class serving sweet rolls and baked goods to enjoy at the cafe, take to the hunting blind, or take home.

The breakfast will benefit the Medina FFA and help pay for the 8th grade graduation, says Townsend.

Kyla Green cited

Kyla Green, daughter of Kye and Tim Green of Medina, has been accepted into membership in The American Dietetic Association (ADA).

Green is enrolled in General Dietetics at The University of Texas at Austin College of Natural Sciences.

The professional association of nutrition experts, ADA currently has a membership of 55,000. ADA promotes health and nutritional status for Americans and provides direction and leadership for quality dietetic practice, education and research.

Setting it straight

Bobbie Ann Odgen of the Medina Class of 1969 was present for the homecoming parade last week. Her name was inadvertently omitted from the list of graduates present.

Medina horse wins

Drilling Easy, a quarter horse owned by Homer and Helen Waters of the Haywire Ranch in Medina, won first place in the finals of the four hundred yard division of the Quarter Horse Breeders races at La Bahia Downs in Goliad Sunday, Oct. 30.

Drilling Easy will race again on Nov. 20 when he will be entered in time trials for the 440-yard division at La Bahia Downs.

Tobin to write local history

Articles on the town of Bandera and the Medina River to be included in the new "Texas Handbook" being published by the Texas State Historical Association have been assigned to writer and historian Peggy Tobin.

The new handbook will update and replace the current multi-volume encyclopedia of Texas and will cover every aspect of Texas history, geography, and culture, the historical association said.

Almost 30,000 entries will comprise the handbook, according to Ron Tyler, director of the Austin-based historical association. With 7,000 articles completed and 3,000 more assigned, target date for completion is 1995. No other state in the United States has attempted such a comprehensive and ambitious publication, project editor Thomas Cutrer said.

An article on the history of Bandera Pass has already been finished and filed by Tobin, who, in addition to the major pieces on Bandera and Medina River, has been invited to contribute a number of short entries on county streams, creeks, and landmarks.

Arts, crafts fair planned in Utopia

Arts, crafts, food and fun will be on hand for the 26th annual Utopia Arts and Crafts Guild Annual Fall Fair Saturday, Nov. 5 and Nov. 12.

"There will be a unique arts and crafts fair, gun show and a meal served both Saturdays starting at 11 a.m.," said Lynn Scotty, spokeswoman for the event.

The fair hours are 10 a.m. — 5 p.m.

Ranchers Roundup records are now available

Proceedings for the International Ranchers Roundup are available for 1982 through 1988, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says.

"The proceedings have always been popular with not only those people who have attended the IRR every year since it began, but also those ranchers who may have missed a year or two," said Dr. Tom Troxel of Uvalde, extension livestock specialist and chairman of the event.

"We always have ranchers who want entire sets for themselves or to keep in their offices," Troxel said.

The proceedings for 1982-1988 are available as a set for $75 or by each year. The proceedings for 1981 have been sold out, he said.

Previous meetings were held in Del Rio in 1981-1982; San Angelo in 1983-1984; Laredo in 1985; and Kerrville in 1986-1987. The cost for the proceedings are 1982 to 1986 - $5 each, 1987 - $20, and 1988 - $30.

They may be ordered from International Ranchers Roundup, P.O. Box 1849, Uvalde, 78802, telephone 512-278-9151.

Ten Planks of the Communist Manifesto

1. Abolition of property in land and the application of all rents of land to public purposes.
2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.
3. Abolition of all right of inheritance.
4. Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels.
5. Centralization of credit in the hands of the State, by means of a national bank with State capital and an exclusive monopoly.
6. Centralization of the means of communications and transport in the hands of the State.
7. Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the State, the bringing into cultivation of waste lands, and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan.
8. Equal liability of all to labor. Establishment of industrial armies, especially for agriculture.
9. Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries; gradual abolition of the distinction between town and country, by a more equitable distribution of population over the country.
10. Free education for all children in public schools. Abolition of children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with industrial production, etc., etc.

Explanation of Manifesto

Karl Marx designed his manifesto with one thing in mind. It is a formula to destroy a middle class. The United States of America became the greatest Nation in all of history because we had a robust middle class who made our free enterprise system work.

The first plank is the property tax which has destroyed our right to own property. You are now little more than a tenant on your own property. If you don't pay your property rent (taxes), you will be removed in favor of someone who will pay the rent (taxes). You will not get your day in court as some Judge will decide that due process does not pertain to such cases. This is in violation of the 4th, 5th, 7th, 9th, 10th and 14th amendments. The government is your landlord and they will evict you if you don't pay your rent.

The number two plank of the manifesto is a progressive income tax. This tax is designed to destroy incentive, initiative, profits and therefore production of wealth. It is the nightmare that ruined the American Dream.

The third plank is inheritance taxes and this is contrary to scripture which says, "A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children" (Prov. 13:22). Many tax-consuming high school and college teachers are now teaching that when an individual dies, his estate should go to the State.

You will notice the fifth plank endorses our Federal Reserve Bank system. This has led to the present near collapse of our economy and has placed an impossible debt on our unborn generations to come.

The sixth plank can best be illustrated by two troublesome departments of government. The Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission. These two bureaucracies would please Karl Marx.

Read the ten planks and compare with our lawful Constitutional Republic. Note the free education in Public Schools recommended in the tenth plank. Remember! Freedom is won or lost in the minds of men and women, so we must learn to protect our minds from tampering and control. Love your country, but don't trust your government. You need to do nothing to become a pawn in a socialist-communist state. You must and you will fight if you wish to be free.

Pirates 'trick' Medina, 57-20

The Center Point Pirates were a pre-Halloween nightmare for Medina's Bobcats Friday night, Oct. 28, trouncing the visitors 57-20.

Pirate runningback Craig Wall haunted Medina all night, racking up 213 yards on 23 carries and two touchdowns. Teammate Darwin Lemon accounted for an additional 97 yards and two more TDs.

Tight end Tim Evans grabbed three air deliveries from Rodney Kitchens for as many scores and a total of 107 yards.

Medina could only muster 187 total yards and didn't score until nearly two minutes deep in the third period. Bobcat quarterback Tim Green sprinted 36 yards for the score but Center Point already has a 32-point lead.

The Pirates upped their advantage again with two minutes left in the quarter and again at 6:46 in the final stanza.

Then, 45 seconds later, Pirate Billy Luehr swiped a Green pass and added another six points to make the tally 51-6.

Jason Childers proved the 'Cats were still breathing by blasting 38 yards for his only TD. With only 35 seconds left to play, Green got an interception of his own and raced 82 yards for Medina's final touchdown. Josh Turpin caught the two-point-conversion pass to boost the Bobcat points to 20.

The Pirates fired one last salvo at the sinking Bobcats when Wall got his second TD with six seconds remaining, this time from the one yard stripe.

Medina, who drops to a 1-3 district record, will face 29-A leader D'Hanis on Saturday, Nov. 5, for the final game of the season.

Bulldog homecoming hopes high against Hondo

It's homecoming and the final game of the season for Bandera's Bulldogs, and the luck of the draw couldn't have been better.

The Bulldogs, despite a 2-7 mark through their first nine games and a 61-0 humiliation at Fredericksburg last Friday still on their minds, have a chance to salvage the season by beating arch rival Hondo this Friday.

The Owls' record at 1-8 is more dismal even than the Bulldogs', and the two teams will be battling for undisputed claim to last place in District 8-AAA.

Hondo upset Fredericksburg, 22-21, for its only win of 1988, and a victory by Bandera in its homecoming attraction Friday will knot the two teams in last place with identical 1-4 district records.

In that case, Bandera's victory over Hondo would give it bragging rights, at least, to fifth place in the six-team league.

A Hondo victory, however, would seal Bandera in the district's cellar.

Bulldog cheerleaders and other classmates intend to stir the spirit pot to encourage the Bandera team to climb out of the basement, with a pep rally, a bonfire Thursday at Mansfield Park at 8:30 p.m., and colorfully decorated windows in downtown stores.

Bulldog coaches hope the homecoming hoopla will get the players' minds off black Friday at Fredericksburg.

The Billies began their methodical disection of the Bulldogs on the third play from scrimmage Friday when tailback Russell Moellendorf went up the middle and broke into the clear for a 45-yard gain to the Bandera 6-yard line.

A shoestring tackle by Robert Bloxham kept him from scoring, and Bandera's defense kept the Billies out of the end zone for three downs before Raymond Sollohub booted a 25-yard field goal to give Fredericksburg an early lead.

The Billies managed two more scores on an 81-yard drive and 40-yard march after an interception, but led by only 15-0 late in the second quarter when things really began to go wrong for Bandera.

In a minute and 15 seconds, the Battlin' Billies scored three touchdowns to put the game away before halftime.

Derrick Dietrich took a pitch out in from 17 yards out with 2:20 left in the half to climax a 42-yard drive after a short punt.

After three plays by Bandera that lost two yards, Billie Steve Upshaw blocked a Leroy Brown punt and Jose Noreiga picked it up and ran it into the end zone for another Fredericksburg score.

The home team recovered Jeff Pullin's fumble on the ensuing kickoff at the Bulldog 17, and on the next play quarterback Craig Grona flipped a 17-yard touchdown pass to Doyle Kornegay to give Fredericksburg an insurmountable 34-0 halftime advantage.

The touchdown pace slowed in the second half, but only a little. Moellendorf scored on 7-yard and 18-yard bursts, Grona scored on a 20-yard keeper, and Kornegay scored from the 10 to give Fredericksburg its most lop-sided victory of the year.

Injuries continue to plague the Bulldogs. Linebacker-running back Bo Mansfield suffered rib injuries Friday and T.R. Andreas was sidelined by a pulled muscle in his back.

Kickoff Friday in Bulldog Stadium will be at 8 p.m.

Bandera County voters gave a big enough majority to George Bush and Dan Quayle Tuesday to sweep a pair of underdog Republican candidates for county commissioner into office, but not enough to carry Marc Sultan into the sheriff's office.

Democrat Steve Forest defeated Sultan for sheriff by capturing 59.4 percent of the vote, 2,517 to 1,721, but Republicans Cotton Fitzgerald of Pipe Creek and Roger Raser of Bandera won seats on the Bandera County commissioners' court.

Raser, a newcomer to politics and to Bandera County, defeated incumbent A.A. (Pete) Reed by capturing 54.9 percent of the votes cast in voting precincts 3 and 4. The unofficial total was 373 votes for Raser and 306 for Reed.

Fitzgerald got 61.2 percent of the votes cast in his home voting box, and that was enough to overcome Barker's advantage in his home box and in absentee balloting.

Fitzgerald polled 540 votes, or 51.7 percent of the total, to Barker's 504.

Lakehills and Pipe Creek voters gave incumbent Republican Preston Boggs 74 percent of the votes in his race with Democrat Jacque Galvan for the unexpired term as justice of the peace which was given up by E.S. (Ed) Jennings of Pipe Creek.

Lakehills constable Ernest Reich III beat back a write-in challenge mounted by Galvan's husband, Bob Galvan. Reich got 79.9 percent of the votes in that race.

Unopposed candidates elected in the county included county attorney Sam Darden, tax assessor-collector Marguerite Stevens, and constables Donnie Walker of Bandera and Tom Fielder of Vanderpool.

Bill Ellis of Bandera got 35 write-in votes for constable in precinct 3. He was the only candidate.

A total of 74.8 percent of the county's 6,440 registered voters voted, and the 4,817 voters was a general election record in the county.

In 1984, 3,978 persons voted, 75.6 percent of the registered voters.

All records were smashed for absentee voting this year. A total of 1,045 cast their ballots prior to Tuesday, and vote counters toiled into the early morning hours Wednesday to tally the absentee votes.

Of the absentee votes cast, 862 were by personal appearance and 183 were by mail.

Bandera County voters gave Republicans Bush and Quayle fully 73.8 percent of their votes and even gave GOP U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter of Amarillo a 55.3 percent majority in his race with U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Democrat Jim Nugent of Kerrville received a slim 50.5 percent victory for railroad commissioner and State Rep. Elden Edge polled 40.2 percent of the Bandera County votes in his race with Charles Britsch of Castroville.

Lights...camera...action. It's showtime in Bandera again

Bandera's in the spot lights again. This time the Cowboy Capitol will be a part of a feature titled "The Perfect Trip" about the Hill Country area around San Antonio and South Texas to be broadcast in December on the travel cable channel. Film director Frank Berin of New York City kneels as the camera rolls while local sculptor Joe Reidy of the Bandera Forge explains his metal sculpture techniques.

Jury selection under way in capital murder case

Capital punishment is one of the subjects potential jurors are being questioned about during jury selection that began this week in Bandera County. Some 350 jury candidates were called, and Bandera County clerk Vera King said this is the first time that many jurors have been called at the same time.

"Usually there are around 200," she said.

Jury selection will probably continue into next week, according to district judge Bob Barton. Of the 16 prospective jurors that had been examined through Tuesday, Nov. 8, eight qualified, Barton said. He said they will qualify 42 jurors, then each side will be given the opportunity to strike jurors from the list.

Barton said the murder trial will take precedent, and will begin as soon as the jury selection is completed.

The indictment against James Michael Clark alleges that he murdered Randy Sherwood, and the capital offense alleges that the murder was committed for remuneration, according to the judge.

Clark and three others have been charged in connection with the 1987 murder. Sharon Sherwood, Clark's sister and ex-wife of Randy Sherwood, also faces charges in connection with the alleged murder.

Appraisal district bows to pressure, eliminates chief appraiser's raise

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The Bandera County Appraisal District relented Monday and reduced chief appraiser Larry Reagan's salary by $1,740 to gain approval of its 1989 budget by the five taxing authorities that vote on the budget.

Board president Fabian Mazurek said the district will not back off next time, however.

After an executive session, board member Joe Synder moved that the district adjust Reagan's salary from $34,740 to $30,000 plus a $3,000 travel expense allowance, so his salary and expense allowance will correspond to last year's budget.

The action changes the $6,000 travel expense line item to $9,000, so it now includes the $3,000 allowance for Reagan. The total proposed budget as approved by the board is $195,210.

"I feel pressured," said Snyder.

W.B. Kirkpatrick seconded the motion as well as Synder's comments and added his own. "We (the board) are being pressured. That's not the way to operate."

The board will not back off from citizen, taxing authority, or employee pressure in the future, said Mazurek after the motion passed unanimously. "We backed off this time to get this budget out. We will not allow ourselves to be held for ransom again," he said.

Four appraisal district directors attended the meeting, with only Joe Hearn absent.

The board took no action on petitions that had been circulated to remove Kirkpatrick and Hearn from the board of directors and comments from Louise Karr. "It is up to the taxing units to ask us to resign," said Mazurek.

Noting the difficulty of getting volunteers to serve on the appraisal board, Mazurek asked, "If we don't do the job, who will? What quality of people will you get to run this district?"

The current appraisal district system is a step in the right direction, defended Robert Alexander. "The legislature saw the appraisal system was a mess and provided that the valuation of property (for tax purposes) be done by appointed, not elected officials," said Alexander who has served on the appraisal review board in the past.

The efforts to change the board's opinion on its budget perverts the intent of the law to keep the appraisal process out of politics, says Alexander. "These efforts are trying to dictate to this (appraisal district) board through politics."

County residents spend money elsewhere

Less than half the money spent by Bandera County residents is spent in the county, and it's getting worse instead of better, according to figures released this week by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Bandera County residents did 38.5 percent of their spending in 1987 with Bandera County merchants, the extension service said. That's less than in 1986 when they did 39.9 percent of their spending inside the county and 60.1 percent outside the county.

Actually, the figures are worse than they appear because they include tourist dollars spent in county. With tourist dollars taken into consideration, the figures mean that Bandera County residents and tourists in Bandera County spent a figure that is equal to 38.5 percent of what Bandera County residents alone earned during the year.

The extension service says the figures, called the "draw factor," tell how well Bandera County merchants have been doing over the past several years by measuring the extent to which merchants have penetrated the market in the county.

They are calculated by comparing statewide and county sales to income.

"Counties with unusually small draw factors are probably losing substantial consumer spending to other counties," said economist Dennis U. Fisher of the extension service.

Bandera County's figures are considerably lower than neighboring counties, including Medina County which actually has more sales than income because of out-of-county shoppers, many of whom probably come from Bandera County.

Medina County's market penetration figure in 1987 was 101.4 percent, compared to Bandera County's 38.5 percent.

"If the draw factor in a county is greater than 100 percent, merchants in that county are capturing more sales than expected," says Dennis U. Fisher of the extension service. "Apparently consumers are coming from outside the county to spend money."

Market penetration in Kerr County in 1987 was 67.6 percent, down from 77.5 percent a year earlier. Kendall County's penetration was 84.5 percent, almost the same as its 1986 figure of 84.6 percent.

Uvalde County merchants had sales equal to 106.9 percent its residents' income, up fully 14.5

from the hill

By Tom Denyer

The deer is the number one big game animal in the U.S.

The biological family, Cervidae, has forty different species, over one hundred ninety subspecies. They are indigenous all over the world except in Australia, New Zealand and most of Africa. Even there they have been introduced and have become abundant.

The white-tailed deer ranges from Canada to the northern half of South America.

You would expect such an animal to have considerable survival skills. Its keen eyesight (with respect to movement) and hearing are well known.

The deer spends most of its life within a one square-mile area, and so gains intimate knowledge of its territory.

Like cattle, deer are ruminants. They have four stomachs, and chew their cud. This enables them to get their feeding done in an hour or two, then return to a location more safe from predators, including man.

They browse, taking a bite here and a bite there, heading into the wind. This means they are moving away from any predator following them, and smelling any ahead.

Likewise, if they spend their days on hilltops and ridges, the rising air brings predator scent to them. Feeding at night in lowlands accomplishes the same purpose.

Some observers report that a doe will protect her fawn by repeatedly jumping, with all four hooves held together, on a rattlesnake.

Deer can swim, although they are not Olympic material.

Over short distances, deer can reach speeds of thirty-five miles an hour. They can leap thirty feet.

Births of fawn quadruplets have been recorded. Twins are common.

Never, never adopt an "abandoned" fawn. Its mother is almost certainly nearby.

Deer, especially the young ones, play leapfrog.

In 1919, Albert Tippett shot a deer near Trout Lake, Michigan. It dressed 354 pounds.

Deer families join herds, if enough food is available. Families are headed by older does, and have pecking orders.

If bucks shed their antlers every year (after breeding season), why do we not stumble over them in the brush? Mostly they are gnawed by rodents, and even deer themselves, for the minerals.

Keep us going

Dear editor:

The Bulletin is and has been for years my source of information and pleasure. In fact, this week a lady teacher who taught at Mico in 1920 called me having read the Bulletin and found my name. She lives in California and enjoys over the years her Bulletin to scan for news she enjoys from "back when."

I am especially concerned over a recent conversation I had with a very prominent doctor. He asked me where I was living. When I explained, "at Lakehills, which is on Medina Lake," he shook his head and explained that he "was there once but would never go back again."

After the shock, I meekly wanted to know why. When he explained that he belonged to a running group that had planned to run a few miles in Bandera County. He also explained that he was almost run over several times; that the people up here think they own the whole road and did not share any part of it.

I felt very badly and would like anyone who pleases to try to amend bad relations and try to move over a bit.

There are people who like to walk, and I know from my own experience with our roads it is not easy, for there is little room beyond the path of cars.

May our Bulletin keep us going in the right direction.

Institute programs

Dear editor:

The 17th annual Texas Folklife Festival was really one for the record books, with excellent weather, our second biggest crowd ever, and even more to see and do than usual. Announcements and coverage provided by the Bandera Bulletin contributed greatly to the festival's success, and we appreciate your efforts to inform the people of your community about this annual celebration of Texas history and heritage.

Now that the 1988 festival is behind us, we are moving on to other projects. Through Dec. we will be exhibiting "Sweden and America 1683-1988: 'A History Celebrated,'" which documents the contributions Swedish immigrants and Swedish Americans have made to this country and explores the relationship between Sweden and America. This will be our last exhibit for the year, as we will close our doors Jan. 2 for six weeks to complete the renovations and remodeling begun this year. We are scheduled to reopen Feb. 14. Announcements about our six-week closure, and a schedule for the reopening and next year's exhibits will follow soon.

Thank you again for your continued support of the Institute of Texan Cultures and the Texas Folklife Festival.

Joycelyn (Jo) Eckerman

Terry Nicholas will return next week.

Campaign may have changed the way we seek office

State Capitol

Highlights

By Lyndell Williams

The 1988 election may be remembered as one which changed forever the way campaigns are waged in Texas, and a few words during the closing days by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen may best sum it up:

"In Texas, politics is a contact sport."

Indeed, it was.

Some observers say this election has permanently altered future campaigns. Others disagree, certain that Texas will not see another election like this one for years to come.

With two Texans on the presidential ballot, it is certain to be many years before the stakes are so high.

From the early primary days to Election Day polling, Texas was visited, wooed, and crisscrossed by every candidate who could beg, borrow or steal a plane to fly here.

Texas: big enchilada

This was the first year of the Super Tuesday primary. Texas was the big enchilada. All the hopefuls appeared and returned as often as appearances could be scheduled.

When the primary dust settled, two Texans sat at the top of the tickets, and every voting household felt the pressure.

Both parties let loose with heavy shelling in the form of relentless television spots.

The candidates spent untold millions on television and travel budgets while ignoring more traditional aspects of political campaigning.

Remember when most candidates would save funds so they could purchase last-minute spots?

Not this year. Both parties started buying time before the Labor Day picnic and never faltered.

For ten long weeks, voters endured a blitz of negative political messages.

For voters, the silver lining was first-time absentee voting without being out of town as an excuse. The positive aspect of the election is that voters participated in record numbers.

Hispanics file against FBI

The FBI has harassed and intimidated Hispanic agents who successfully sued the bureau for racial discrimination, according to documents filed in U.S. District Court in El Paso.

In papers filed last week, lawyers representing more than half of the bureau's 440 Hispanic agents asked for an injunction to prevent the bureau from harassing employees who joined in the suit.

One Hispanic agent said in an affidavit that the bureau had taken away his pistol in retaliation for his decision to testify in the trial last summer.

MCorp asset move

The Federal Reserve Board has temporarily ordered MCorp to prepare a plan to move $400 million in holding company assets into subsidiary banks that are short on cash.

According to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, a source who requested anonymity said the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency contacted MCorp subsidiary banks needing a cash infusion, asking them to provide an explanation of how they intend to increase capital.

MCorp, Texas' second-largest bank holding company, will file for protection under the U.S. bankruptcy code if it receives a permanent order for a cash transfer, the course told the newspaper.

Houston bingo probe

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office launched a probe into reported irregularities in Houston bingo halls.

Attorney General Jim Mattox called for the investigation following reports of rigged games to steal money from charities.

Bullock has also asked Mattox to rule whether he can regulate high-stakes games planned for the Kickapoo Reservation in Eagle Pass.

Other highlights

While the spotlight was on the election, Capitol halls were business as usual.

• Meeting in Laredo, directors of the University System of South Texas voted to make their schools part of the Texas A&M University System. A&M officials will decide this month if it will take over Laredo State, Corpus Christi State, and Texas A&I.

• State Rep. Glenn Repp tested electronic monitoring of non-violent parolees by wearing the anklet transmitter device for three days. Repp, a Duncanville Republican, said he will push for use of the device as a safe alternative to expensive prison terms.

• Thirty-five prospective track operators have told state gaming officials they want licenses to build horse and dog racetracks across the state.

• State Employment Commissioner Ronnie Luna was buried last week amid tributes from state and party officials for the long-time Democratic Party activist.

She was treated unjustly

Dear editor:

In reference to Judge Schneider's letter in last week's edition: She is correct in saying I had a jury trial, although I question the fairness of that trial. I could hear the jury (members), acquainted with each other, talking among themselves, and it seemed that they had already decided my guilt before I presented my case.

Let me say that this did not take place in Judge Schneider's court, but in the court of her predecessor (Mike Smith). Having had no justice, I then appealed to county court where I found myself in the situation I described in my previous letter.

In conclusion, I still believe I was unjustly treated in the Bandera courts, but thank God that we have freedom of the press.

An absurd insult

Dear editor:

In reference to Doyle Ely's segment in Bandera Bulletin Nov. 3, the true reason you see so many RVs on our Texas highways is because these people have participated in society. They have worked, raised families, saved money, and paid their taxes! They now can enjoy our great resources in Texas by traveling in their RVs visiting our state parks, state wildlife management areas, state beaches, state historical homes and landmarks as well as our beautiful state highways with their roadside parks.

We all pay taxes and I have never felt that my freedom has been diminished in any way when we have tax increases or appraisal district increases. I personally take offense when someone compares the government of the United States of America to the Socialist-Communist Manifesto. Doyle Ely's idea that the "American Dream' in buying a home and a TV is ruined because our government of the United States of America and Bandera County is following the number two plank of the Communist Manifesto is absurd and an insult to anyone in his right mind.

Tim P. Freeman

Dear editor:

Many thanks for your kinds words about Sea World of Texas in the Oct. 6 installment of "Bandera County Potpourri." Also, we greatly appreciate Janna Sandidge's front page story and Dan Sandidge's photos in your Oct. 13 edition.

It was indeed a pleasure saluting Bandera County at Sea World of Texas. We hope everyone who participated thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Wayne and Lorraine Wilson's hunting trip was postponed Saturday, when he lost control of his truck and trailer at Red Bluff Creek on Highway 46.

Mishap slightly injures couple

Wayne and Lorraine Wilson's trip to their hunting lease in Pipe Creek was interrupted Saturday morning when their truck and trailer turned over on Highway 46, narrowly missing an oncoming truck.

While their vehicle and trailer were heavily damaged, they escaped with only minor injuries.

Wayne Wilson of Boerne was heading south on Highway 46 when his truck and trailer began to fishtail above the Red Bluff Creek.

John Broadis of San Antonio said he was close enough that his small truck was almost hit by the Wilsons. "I thought I was nailed for sure," says Broadis.

Contents from the pickup's bed were spilled on the highway.

Wayne Wilson suffered a skin abrasion on his right cheek and was treated by Pipe Creek EMTs.

Councilman Skinner proposes reorganization of city staff

Bandera city councilman Robert Skinner has proposed reorganizing the operations of the city to include supervision of the police force by the county sheriff and combining the city water and street crews.

His plan, which he paid to have published in the Bulletin, would also combine the municipal court secretary with the rest of the city administrative staff and could result in laying off some employees, he said.

The proposals are his way of dealing with a persistent fiscal problem in the city that already has resulted in laying off two street employees and a delay in replacing a policeman who resigned.

He charged that the current solution to the money woes is to simply wait for the property tax to be collected "to straighten things out."

That approach has not worked. "Leaving things alone has not helped," he said. "To continue with this policy is to become as an ostrich burying our head and ignoring the problem."

His proposal calls for establishing a new working relationship between the sheriff's department and the city police department in which the sheriff would actually schedule the hours of city policemen and help patrol the city.

It would also make use of the municipal court secretary to help the city secretary with the city's administrative chores and the city treasurer with billing and receiving water department payments.

He also is calling for combining the city water and street crews under a single person to manage the crew and draw up daily work schedules. He said layoffs of some crew members may be possible.

Skinner said his proposals would result in decreased insurance expense, if employees were laid off, and he said legal fees could be decreased "with better decision and judgement of city council."

—Appraisal—

process will generally work said Norman Mansfield. "We are not trying to change the system," he said. "The chief appraiser has not done his job properly and the board of directors has not done its job properly," he charged.

The chief appraiser's salary was the topic of the executive session shortly after the 5 p.m. meeting opened, said Mazurek. But after the 30-minute session, he corrected himself and said, "It (the secret session) was to discuss personnel, not salary."

County commissioner Dan Alanis objected to the board meeting in executive session. "We'd like to know what you're thinking," he told them.

Mazurek defended the use of executive session to protect the board and the employees of the district. "I wouldn't want someone discussing my salary or job performance in public," he said.

The appraisal district's budget surplus from 1987 of $55,000 and its cash on hand of $77,000 as of Oct. 31 could be used to finance next year's budget, said Alanis. Reagan confirmed that the appraisal district had a $55,661 surplus as of Dec. 31, 1987.

In the current budget year, the appraisal district has spent 83 percent of its budget in the first nine months and has 17 percent of its budget left for the rest of the year, says Reagan.

The $6,000 in the current budget for legal counsel will not be enough to handle the 11 lawsuits from this year and last year, says Reagan.

"The budget surplus will be consumed this year by fees for legal counsel, said Synder.

"When the contingency fund runs out, we will have to ask for more money from the taxing authorities to pay for lawyers," says Reagan.

percent from 92.4 percent in 1986. Real County's sales were lower than Bandera County's at 36.1 percent of income.

Ten years ago Bandera County merchants had sales equal to 47.7 percent of income in the county, but the percentage has been getting smaller during the past decade, though it reached a high of 52.3 percent in 1978.

The percentage was 48.8 in 1979, 46.4 in 1981, 48.3 in 1883, and 39.1 in 1985, according to the extension service.

Much of Bandera's income is probably spent in Bexar County, which realized sales in 1987 that were 97.6 percent of the combined income of its businesses. That was down slightly from 104.4 percent in 1986 and only a little above its 94.4 percent figure of 1977.

Smokeout to be promoted by vintage cars Saturday

The Great American Smokeout, proclaimed by the city of Bandera, is scheduled Nov. 17 and will be promoted in Bandera Saturday, Nov. 12, by a vintage car tour.

Some 15 cars from the Fredericksburg Vintage Car Club will arrive at the Bandera County courthouse at noon Saturday, Nov. 12, says Dorothy Warmack, education chairwoman for the Bandera County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

The club, whose members are from all over the Hill Country, will start in Fredericksburg Saturday morning and journey through Kerrville, Comfort, Bandera and end up in Boerne. During each stop, club members will promote the Great American Smokeout.

"The cars have banners proclaiming the Great American Smokeout Nov. 17," says Meleese Rugh, chapter president. The Smokeout is sponsored by the American Cancer Society to encourage tobacco users to give up their cigarettes, cigars, snuff, and chewing tobacco for 24 hours.

The 25 people driving the antique cars will gather for lunch at the city park, weather permitting, with the Bandera chapter serving coffee and tea. In case of inclement weather, the group will gather at Jellystone RV Park.

The city of Bandera supports the Chapter's activities through a proclamation signed by Mayor Raymond Adamietz, Nov. 3, setting Nov. 17 as the observance of the Great American Smokeout. Adamietz says he'll give up his cigar for that one day.

The American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout is held annually on the Thursday before Thanksgiving, and this year will mark the event's 12th anniversary.

The Smokeout is an upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up smoking cigarettes for 24 hours. It focuses supportive attention on smokers from coast to coast, and nonsmokers join in the fun, helping them quit for the day.

Travel counselors to visit county tourist attractions

About 20 counselors who help visitors to Texas at the tourist information centers at the state's borders will tour Bandera and other Hill Country spots Monday-Thursday, Nov. 14-17, to acquaint themselves with the area's many attractions.

The tour is sponsored by the Texas Hill Country Tourism Association, which has several members from Bandera, and includes two visits to Bandera County, one on Tuesday morning, Nov. 15, to Lost Maples State Natural Area in Vanderpool and Love Creek Apple Orchard west of Medina, and another on Wednesday, Nov. 16, to LH-7 ranch, Bandera Downs and the Mayan Guest Ranch.

They will also visit Castroville, Hondo, Sabinal and Uvalde on Monday, Nov. 19; Kerrville and Ingram on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 20; and San Antonio on Thursday, Nov. 17.

Beverly Cox of Bandera, owner-manager of Sundance Travel Agency, is a member of the board of directors of THCTA and planned the trip on behalf of the association. The Highway Department travel counselors will be traveling in vans provided by the Inn of the Hills in Kerrville and the Lazy Hills Guest Ranch in Ingram.

"The THCTA wants to increase the profile of the Hill Country as a (tourist) destination," explains spokesman Richard Cook. "This trip will definitely help increase our profile with the traveling public."

He pointed out that the travel counselors talk to "literally thousands of people each year who want more information about things to do while they travel the state."

Air Force Tech. Sgt. Mary A. Ries, daughter of Roger J. and Olga R. Bolduc of Bandera, has been named orderly room supervisor of the quarter with the 812th Civil Engineering Squadron, Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D.

Lost Maples park reports one of busiest Octobers ever

With an estimated 30,383 visitors to the park, October was one of the busiest months Lost Maples State Natural Area has ever seen, and certainly the busiest October ever, according to park superintendent Roy Heideman.

Cool weather during early October brought a "beautiful display of colors" at Lost Maples State Natural Area near Vanderpool, according to Heideman, and people flocked in, especially on the weekends.

Weekends are busy at the scenic park, and Heideman urges visitors to come during the week if at all possible.

More visitors are expected this month, according to Heideman.

"November is always, by far, our busiest month," he said. In November, 1987, an estimated 31,059 visitors came to the park, and that figure was "off, compared to previous years," Heideman said. There were an estimated 19,000 visitors in October, 1987.

Rain and wind over the past weekend made many of the colorful leaves drop, but the main problem has been unseasonably warm weather.

"This heat wave we're having isn't doing a thing (for the trees)," said Sandra Payne Tuesday. "It's just too hot for them."

"Right now, we are between stages," said Heideman, "but there are still lots of trees that haven't changed."

If the weather gets back down into the 40s, the park officials said there are still enough leaves on the trees for a magnificent color display.

Lost Maples State Natural Area is located in western Bandera county on the Sabinal River, five miles north of Vanderpool on Ranch Road 187.

Park headquarters are open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Park entrance costs $2 per vehicle for day use, but senior citizens (65 and older) get in free. Day permits are good until 10 p.m., but there is limited parking.

There are picnic and camping areas available for daytime and overnight use. The day-use area contains 20 picnic sites, parking spaces and a restroom.

Ideas Wanted!

My growing concern for the City of Bandera's financial situation has had me review our past four years of financial statements. The last two fiscal years, the city spent $96,000 more than it received. If we continue to spend as we have for the last four fiscal months, we will have spent $48,000 more than we will receive for this fiscal year.

A. Revenue of the city is basically the same
B. Expenditures increased over the last four years:
1. Salaries by approximately $50,000.
2. Insurance and legal fees by $20,000.

There are a few other increases, but these two seem to be the major ones.

Revenues need to be increased. A promotional program to increase business for merchants to create more tax dollars for the city would be one way. An association of business men and women needs to be formed to address the city council on ideas and their needs. Annexation might occur if the public surrounding the city views the city as working together for the welfare of us all.

Expenditures need to be decreased. I offer these ideas to be considered by council members and citizens of Bandera. Setting a date and time to hold a public workshop on these ideas and hopefully those ideas the citizens have submitted to council.

Reconstruction Plan

A. Incorporation of city water and street crews
1. Layoffs in these departments
2. New job title
a. Person to manage crew
b. Daily work schedule for crew
B. Incorporate Municipal Court Secretary with city department
1. Help city secretary
2. Billing and payment of water department
C. Establish working relationship and contract with county.
1. Sheriff to oversee city officers — scheduling of hours, etc.
2. Patrolling the city
D. Elimination and lay-offs of most job titles
E. Insurance decreases with lay-offs.
F. Legal fees decrease with better decision and judgment of city council and Mayor

It has been city policy the last two years to borrow money from the water department to pay city bills and to wait for the property tax money collected to straighten everything out. The property tax money has not straightened things out. Leaving things alone has not helped. To continue with this policy is to become as an ostrich burying our heads and ignoring the problem.

Co-op to celebrate its 50th anniversary

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Established on Nov. 11, 1938, the Bandera Electric Cooperative will celebrate its 50th anniversary with an open house Friday, reflecting on its beginnings and its progress in servicing its members.

The open house will feature demonstrations of the procedures of putting up electric poles with pole pikes as was done when the cooperative started and with bucket trucks, as it is done now. The demonstrations will be at different times during the day, says spokeswoman Pam Keese.

There will be tours of the cooperative's building and the cooperative's first truck, known as "Old Number One" will be on display. Refreshments will be served, including fingerfoods and cakes.

The open house will last from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the Bandera and Comfort offices. An open house will also be held at the new Leakey office from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. The demonstrations will only be done at the Bandera office.

The beginnings of the Bandera Electric Cooperative arise from the depression-era rural electrification program and the dreams of at least nine men in Bandera county.

In 1938, Raymond Hicks and Dr. J.O. Butler of Bandera, A.H. Schott and Floyd Prue of Pipe Creek, E.H. Sewell and P.L. Garrison of Medina, Capt. Thomas P. Grant of Trapley, J.J. Leighton of Vanderpool, and Stafford Smith of Utopia formed the first board of directors after convincing the Rural Electrification Administration that the rural residents of Bandera needed the service, says Keese.

The system won't pay with so many people who are too far apart, was the complaint of the REA in 1937, says Keese. But after several meetings and 400 original applications for service in Bandera, Kerr, and Kendall counties, the REA finally conceded that the project would be worthwhile.

But getting those original applicants wasn't all that easy. Any potential customer had to pay a $5 membership fee and be willing to spend at least $2.45 a month for their electric service. While this amount seems meager to people in the 1980s, during the 1930s, 50 cents would buy a month's supply of kerosene for lamps and coffee was 39 cents a pound, says Keese.

Electricity was not new in the area in the 1930s, as the cities of Bandera and Medina got their power from a generator near the present location of the Bandera Ice House.

In March, 1939, the REA authorized the loan of $154,000 to build approximately 200 miles of electric line on 400 farms and ranches, says general manager J.R. (Russ) Vander Zee.

The cooperative's first two employees were project superintendent Guy S. Rambie and stenographer Theodore Tripp.

Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, 1939, had more than presents under the tree, as the first power lines were energized, bringing power to ten customers in Pipe Creek.

The Bandera Cooperative building was completed in 1942. That building is now the present reception, billing, and members services area, says Keese. It was built on the site of an old Texas Ranger station, for which the Ranger Crossing on FM Road 470 was named.

With the building complete, no more miles of line were added for two years due to World War II. There was no quality electric line available during the two years, even though the cooperative's consumers increased, says Keese.

The Aug. 2, 1978 flood brought 4.5 feet of water in the cooperative's building. Records and documents were destroyed and the engineering office was completely destroyed, says Keese. The pole yard, service equipment and office equipment were also destroyed.

Some 60 percent of the system was without power due to the flood, said then cooperative manager Shannon Seale in 1978. Much of the widespread outrage was caused by destroyed transmission line leading into the areas surrounding Medina and Bandera.

Dedicated employees worked through mud to separate the paper work, while the other employees set up office in the Catholic school in Bandera. "We were conducting business as usual," said Seale. "Well, almost as usual."

With the help of surrounding electric companies, from as far away as the Rio Grande Valley, power was restored to all permanent residents with electrical service by Aug. 11, he says.

One way to measure how many people the electric cooperative serves is by the number of electric meters. In the 1944, there were 1,155 meters billed by the electric cooperative and 109 miles of electric line. By 1988, the number of electric meters billed is 15,885 and the cooperative maintains 3,127 miles of electric lines, says Vander Zee.

In the early days of the cooperative, the electric poles were harder to put up than now. All the holes for the electric poles were dug by hand, and the poles were set by pole pikes, says Keese.

The base of the electric pole to be installed was laid at the hole's opening. Insulators and other items that could be attached were. Pole pikes, which were two rods, were used to lift the pole as high as possible. Then the pikes were moved one at a time to another position on the pole to raise it higher, straightening the pole, until it slid into the hole.

Once the pole was secured, the linemen must climb the pole and string the line by hand, says Keese.

Today, the cooperative has digger trucks to dig the holes, A frame pole trucks to set the poles, and bucket trucks to eliminate a lot of the climbing, says Keese. Line men must still climb the poles to finish the job, she adds.

The number of hours the average electric customer doesn't have electricity is currently less than one hour per year, which is more than twice as good as the acceptable average. "The cooperative has a service interruption rate of 0.73 hours per consumer for 1988," reports general manager Russ Vander Zee. "The acceptable average is 2 to 3 hours per consumer in a year."

During the 1978 flood, the cooperative managed to hold its average power-outage rate to 32.27 hours per consumer. Not all members had power outages during the flood, says Vander Zee. The flood caused an estimated $502,000 in damage, he says.

The area served by the cooperative is 2,500 square miles with 11,000 members and goes beyond Bandera County. Besides the towns and cities of Bandera County, the cooperative serves Leakey, Utopia, Comfort, Waring, Welfare, and Boerne. The cooperative also serves portions of six other counties, including the northern parts of Medina and Uvalde, east half of Real, southern part of Kerr, and western part of Kendall, says Vander Zee.

The cooperative started as a service to the members and that's where it is today, and that's where it's going to be, says Vander Zee. "The Bandera Electric Cooperative, Inc. has reached the point where it is today through the dedicated efforts of the boards, employees, and members before us, and it is our intention to carry on with the Cooperative tradition of providing adequate and dependable electric service at the lowest possible cost," he says.

When Vander Zee came to the cooperative in 1967, he says he found the employees with pride in the strong electrical lines they maintain. "The employees of Bandera Electric Cooperative take pride in their work and in the service they provide to our members. This is one of the reasons we recently scored number one in an independently conducted survey of several area-wide electric utility systems," he says.

The Bandera Electric Cooperative's first power lines were energized on Christmas Eve, 1939, from its start from a dream in 1937. The electric supplier to Bandera County and parts of six surrounding counties has grown to over 15,000 electric meters and over 3,000 miles of power lines.

I want to extend a heartfelt thank you and sincere appreciation for the wonderful support in the election. Also, a special thank you to a special person and great campaigner, my wife Pat.

American Legion plans Veterans' Day observance

The Lakehills American Legion Post will hold its annual Veterans Day celebration Saturday.

Post 410 will serve free homemade chili, tamales, and drinks starting at 6 p.m. in an open house format. "It is our way of thanking the community for attending our fundraisers such as the July 4th celebration," says spokesman Tony Kruse.

A benefit drawing will be held for an oil painting by Iris Durham. Tickets are available only from legion members, says Kruse.

There is no charge for the event, he says.

Poppies to be sold in Lakehills

American Legion volunteers will distribute the familiar red, handcrafted poppies honoring America's war dead at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37 and in front of the Lakehills Variety Store on Park Road 37, Saturday, Nov. 12.

The red crepe paper poppy is handmade, petal by petal, by disabled and hospitalized veterans, in poppy shops run by auxiliary volunteers, says Elaine Mixon, chaplin for the Lakehills American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 410. It is a part of a physical and psychological therapy program by veterans for veterans, she says.

The memorial flower was adopted by the American Legion Auxiliary in 1920 and since that time has been offered to the public, not at a price, but for a contribution, says Mixon. "A few cents to say America remembers".

"When you see these volunteers with a bouquet of red poppies on Saturday, please don't rush past, return their smiles, make a contribution, pin on the poppy, and wear it with pride," says Mixon. "You will be honoring America's heroes who gave their lives for freedom" she encourages.

Boy Scouts bake sale

Boy scout troup #144 will host a bake sale Saturday, Nov. 19 at Pipe Creek's Barrel House.

Pies will lead the list with other baked items available starting at 9 a.m. with the sale going on until noon, or until the baked items run out.

Mico RV Park expects full operation in spring

Mico's new recreational vehicle and tent campground located near Hilltop Inn will be in full operation by this spring.

The new Hilltop R.V. Park and Campground is to be located at the intersection of the Medina Dam Road and Friendly Point Road about one mile from the Hilltop Inn. The site has a beautiful view of the lake and will contain about 30 to 40 recreational spaces when complete.

The spaces will be approximately 30 feet by 40 feet and will have picnic tables, water, and electricity at each pad. Also available will be a dump station for RVs, mens and womens restrooms, and a shower facility.

There will be spaces for tent camping nearer the lake.

"If you have a self-contained R.V. or you would like to camp, we have spaces now," says Ken Lee, proprietor of the park. Landscaping is still to be done and a laundry may be added in the future. The R.V. park expects to be fully operational by the spring of 1989, says Lee.

LOWER COLORADO RIVER AUTHORITY
NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST

The Lower Colorado River Authority (hereinafter "LCRA") has filed an Application for Authority to Change Rates with the Public Utility Commission of Texas and the City of Austin. The effective date of the proposed changes, which involve the LCRA's 44 wholesale customers and 73 retail customers throughout LCRA's service territory, is December 8, 1988.

For the period ending May 31, 1990, the proposed changes are expected to result in a system-wide annual revenue increase of $46,675,446 which is a 17.80% increase when compared to the fully adjusted total operating revenues for the test year ending March 31, 1988.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. # VFD auxiliary to hear report on firehouse progress

The Medina Lake VFD Ladies Auxiliary will meet at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 14 to hear a progress report for the department's new firehouse.

A representative of the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department will discuss the plans for the new fire station at the Monday morning meeting, says Dolly Dresser, auxiliary president. "All ladies of the community are cordially invited to participate in the auxiliary, even though they may not have a family member in the fire department," says Dresser.

The meetings had been held in the evening, but the time was changed from 7:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. to better accommodate members, says Dresser.

"The Ladies Auxiliary to the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department is a community service organization dedicated to the support of the MLVFD and the community at large to include victims of a fire when there is a need," says Dresser.

"Bring your neighbor and come have a cup of coffee with us," says Dresser. For more detail please contact Dresser at 751-3335. The meetings are held at the main fire house on Park Road 37.

Clean-up Saturday in Pebble Beach

The members of the Pebble Beach Property Owners Association will pick up trash along three miles of FM Road 1283 Saturday starting at 9 a.m.

The residents and land owners of the Medina Lake subdivision will meet at the subdivision's main park (Pebble Beach I) at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, and then go out on the highway debris pickup detail, says association vice-president Susan Sims.

As part of the Texas Highway Department's Adopt-a-Highway program, the property owners of the Pebble Beach subdivision will pickup highway trash every three months starting for the first time this Saturday along the three miles of FM Road 1283, south of Park Road 37 and north of the Medina County line.

Coffee and donuts will be available to the participants.

Wharton's Dock

By John Ciarlo — 796-3225

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department will elect officers during its general membership meeting Saturday, Dec. 3, at 11 a.m.

Offices to be filled include president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, and one director.

- Bill Walker Jr. of Colorado got a buck on the first day of hunting at the Walker ranch in Wharton's Dock.
- James (Red) Drewry and his wife Marie visited Sunday with Red's sister and brother-in-law, Marie and Harold Bently.

They plan to join Marie's cousin and his wife, Marvin and Ariel Drewry from the Rio Grande Valley, to try some West Texas style hunting near Sonora.

- Robert Hines Jr. and his wife Sharon and their four children visited their grandparents, Bud and Betty Ciarlo, at Wharton's Dock Friday, Nov. 4. Grandpa and the four great-grandchildren, Sara, Ashly, Trey and Jennah, enjoyed watching a tape of "E.T."
- Marietta and John Overholser drove to San Marcos to visit their daughter, Debbie, and her husband, Bill Cody.

On Saturday they went to Bastrop to attend a Halloween Party being given by their son, Dewey, and his wife, Elizabeth. Grandson D.J. went to the party dressed as a physician, and of course grandad Jay was dressed as the patient, bandaged head and all.

Pipe Creek pilot flies with Civil Air Patrol

There are innumerable opportunities for cadet and senior members with programs and seminars on administration, aerospace education, moral leadership, civil defense, communications, emergency services, finance, leadership training, operations, personnel, safety, supply, testing, and transportation, among others. The programs hold both awards and rewards for its membership.

The CAP owns approximately 530 aircraft and through it's members have over 9,000 private aircraft available.

The CAP flies 80 percent of the hours flown in emergency services missions directed by the air rescue coordination center of the United States Air Force.

It is not unusual for the CAP to fly over 12,000 hours in a year on search and rescue and other emergency life-saving flights.

For lack of current statistics, in 1986 the CAP found 1,551 search objectives and saved 136 lives.

Anyone interested in the Hill Country Composite Squadron, which holds its programs at S&M Aviation, Kerrville Municipal Airport, may contact Gino Mondini during the day at 249-3516 or Gloria Blank at 535-4693.

Gloria Blank, a Civil Air Patrol lieutenant from Pipe Creek, joined the members of the Hill Country Composite Squadron of the CAP in a practice search and rescue mission at Pecos County Airport in Fort Stockton.

Over 100 members of the Texas Wing of the CAP from Albuquerque to Houston and Dallas were on hand for the activity, and there were several dozen private and CAP aircraft flying 38 sorties, starting at 8 a.m. on a hot and sunny Saturday morning.

The objectives of the mission were to provide a safe, realistic, and organized search and rescue operation for the planning, management, experience, evaluation, and training of Texas Wing personnel. This included proficiency and training of aircrews in efficient and safe flying techniques, enroute navigation and visual search procedures and training of the mission staff as well as aircrews, ground teams and staff personel in search and rescue procedures.

The CAP is an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force with national headquarters at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala.

The motto of the CAP is "always ready," and its philosophy is to use its resources to meet emergencies, to encourage aerospace education, and to motivate young men and women to ideals of leadership and service through aerospace education and training.

Mico's bait shop open for winter

The bait shop next to Hilltop Inn in Mico has re-opened for the winter season.

The Hilltop Bait Shop is located directly next door to the Hilltop Inn at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and the Medina Dam Road. The bait shop will be open 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"If the Hilltop is open, the bait shop is open," says Charlotte Lee, manager of the Hilltop Inn and the bait shop.

The shop will carry a wide variety of baits, such as minnows, night crawlers, red and black worms, shrimp and even crawfish. Artificial lures, plastic worms, dip nets, fishing line, hooks, and P.F.Ds. are also available.

Bill and Faye Burchfield recently had their grandchildren, Matthew and Alison Reile of Floresville as visitors and they took them to the circus for entertainment.

• Christine Land of Apache Junction, Ariz., and a friend, Lee of Kearney, Ariz., spent a day last week with her sister, Oleta and Henry Davis.

• Peggy Byam is home from the hospital after major surgery last week. Special visitors for her and Jim was their daughter, Mary, and her husband, Bod Corley of San Antonio.

• Bob and Brenda Fodge and Kimberly spent some time at Port Aransas having fun and doing a little fishing. Other family members joining them there were Jack Vermiller of Pleasanton, the Ingram family of Meyersville, and Lisa and John Wells of New Braunfels.

Bradshaw wins cookoff for second consecutive year

Kathleen Bradshaw of Lakehills repeated her first place finish in the menudo cookoff held at Fiddlin' Around Saturday. She was able to win this year's and last year's contests with her "good ol' seasoning," she says.

The benefit for the Lakehills EMS Support Team had five contestants and was able to raise $100 in donations, according to Millie Harrison, owner of Fiddlin' Around lounge.

Other winners included Raul Ramirez of Lakehills using his Magic Menudo Hangover Cure recipe to get him second place and his eyelid-decorated costume and mannequin to get showmanship.

John Cavossos of Lakehills took third place with his Prime Menudo recipe sponsored by the Hermann's Sons Lodge #81.

Menudo, made of tripe and pickled-pigs feet, is considered a Mexican soup, arising in the days before refigeration. Hominy, onion, and spices are added to bring out the flavor.

Theater group plans Comedy Revue

On Thursday, Nov. 10, at approximately 7:03 p.m., the Broadway Street Players will present a comedy revue in the Medina school auditorium. The show will include stand-up comedy, improvisation, and satire.

Featured will be a scene from "No Time For Sergeants" and an inside view of the Medina School's teacher's lounge. There will also be several stand-up comedy scenes performed by Chris Keiser, David Pickle, and John Dolien.

For a highlight at the end of the production, suggestions from the audience will be taken for an improvisational scene to be performed by the actors.

Admission will be $2 for adults, $1 for students, and 50 cents for children under 12.

Big sale

More than 100 families and organizations will have garage sales on Saturday, Nov. 19, all over the little Central Texas town of Rosebud, 35 miles south of Waco on U.S. Hwy. 77.

Bandera novelists will autograph books

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

Two Bandera authors will appear at Bandera County Library Tuesday, Nov. 15 to autograph copies of books that are being released nationally this month.

Gayle Buck and Barbara Catlin Craven will be at the library from 3-5:30 p.m. signing copies of "The Righteous Rakehell," Buck's fourth book and "Smoky's Bandit," Craven's second.

Both books will be available for purchase at the autograph party, but there is no obligation to buy a book, according to the authors.

"We mainly want to have a chance to meet and visit with people," said Craven. "The books will be there, available for purchase."

Buck has been writing since she was in the fifth grade and won the 1986 Reviewers Choice Award for best new Regency author. Her books are published by Signet, and are set in Regency England, a period that lasted from 1800 to 1821, during the reign of King George III.

Her first book, "Love's Masquerade," the story of an English girl, was released in October 1986 was followed by a second effort, "The Demon Rake," in December of 1986. "The Demon Rake" is the saga of a heroine who is one-half Portuguese. "Lord John's Lady," her third historical novel, was released in March.

Craven's second romance novel, published by Silhouette Special Edition under the pen name Barbara Catlin, is set on a ranch near Tarpley, using scenes from Bandera, Kerrville, Hondo, and San Antonio as part of the story. The book uses many situations and locales from the Bandera County area, including the Bandera County Stock Show and Hill Country Spring Water of Texas. Included is a map of the area prepared by Trina Sandidge.

"My situations and characters (in the book) are fictitious, but I used details from local events and places," said Craven.

Silhouette Special Editions are a different line of romance novels. The novels are longer, have more plot, heavier characterization, and are more realistic, according to Craven.

"There are no princes and runaway models in Silhouette Special Editions," she said.

Craven's first book, "Prisoner of Love" was released in March 1986. Her third book, "Mr. Right," has been accepted for publication in April 1989, and in keeping with the western motif, is set on a large cattle ranch near Santa Anna in Central Texas.

"Whether 'our' people won or lost on Tuesday, the democratic process still works! Isn't it great?

And chilvary in Bandera works too!

Speedy Hicks and I were standing on Main Street, Friday, watching the tons of traffic go by, when a friend of his came up and said she didn't know how she'd ever get across the street.

Speedy leaped to her side, gallantly offered his arm, and saw her safely into her car.

What a beautiful sight!

• This past weekend, everyone had on their dancing boots, starting at the Hunter's Barbecue, when Frank Anderwald and gang cleared tables aside and the crowd started "Cotton eyed Joeing" to the Texas Tune Wranglers.

All the dances in town were jam packed with lots of cowboy Capital style Fred Astaires and Ginger Rogerses. This went on through the weekend, day and night, finally winding down late Sunday.

The restaurants and shops were booming along, too.

The crowd went wild at the barbecue, when Wilton Cryder got up and did a bunch of yodeling! He's certainly one of the mainstream characters around here.

• A couple of weeks ago San Antonio held "The World's Richest Barbecue" cookoff, and Cotton Griffin of Bandera walked off with fifth place, which was really good, considering the tremendous amount of competition there was.

Those characters down at the Bandera Forge, Kenneth Stroud, Joe Reidy, Nancy Hopes and Jane Sheldon, won $1,000 plus a big trophy for "first place in Showmanship." They just moved their anvil band to San Antonio and their friends came along and joined them and who could've topped that?

They were on TV all over Texas recently and a New York TV crew got them the other day, too.

• Would everyone please get your noggins a workin' and think of someone who would make a super Grand Marshal for the Memorial Day Parade (I think most of us will agree, no politician please.)

• The American flag that flew over Ken's Two Propane was stolen the other night, right from inside the City of Bandera. Why, I always thought a bolt of lightening would strike me if anything like that ever even entered my mind!

Cotton Griffin

• The Bandera Cowboy Capital Squares have begun their season of square dancing. They meet each Monday night at the Bandera Bank Community Building.

If you don't feel like joining in then be a spectator. It's lots of energy and fun being thrown around.

• Linda Carrigan, who does that terrific "broken pottery jewelry" is doing very well with out-of-town shows. Her next will be at the Southwest Texas Trade Center, on the Boerne Stage Road, Nov. 12 and 13.

The Hill Country Arts Foundation will present "Snap Judgements," an exhibit of black and white photographs by Kerrville photographer Don Murray, Nov. 13 through Dec. 10 in the HCAF Gallery in Ingram.

An opening reception is set for Nov. 13 from 3 to 5 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

Exotic game to be served in Junction Saturday, Nov. 26

The fourth annual Wild and Exotic Game Dinner in Junction Saturday, Nov. 26 features a combination of native and exotic game donated by area landowners and hunters.

The venison on the menu comes from a variety of deer including native whitetail and exotic axis, sika and fallow. Other meats include Barbados and mouflon sheep, eland, black buck antelope, Catalina goat, mountain oysters, and alligator tail. Game birds, including dove, quail and wild turkey, are also served.

The alligator is the only animal on the menu which is not usually found live in Kimble County, says the Kimble County Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the event.

Music festival finale set Saturday, Nov. 12 in Medina

Saturday Nov. 12, will be the finale of the four-weekend Fall Music Festival next to the Cider Mill in downtown Medina.

Audiences have been entertained, free of charge, by many musicians including Dusty Britches of Bandera, Pat Godkin of Pipe Creek, and Ray Tate, Wilton Crider, Larry Williams, Linda Barton, David Brownell, and Sam Fenner, all of Medina, among others.

Saturday's jam session will begin at 11 a.m. and anyone interested is welcome to come sing, play, or just enjoy listening to good music, organizers said.

There will be a dance Saturday night to cap off the festival. It will take place at the Old Hatfield Store fom 8 p.m. to midnight with music provided by Dusty Britches and the Rhythm Ranch Hands. Admission to the dance will be $3 per person and refreshments will be available.

The music festival and dance are being sponsored by the Medina Development Corporation Festival Committee with proceeds going to the Medina park fund.

Lotteries

The U.S. Senate has passed a bill which would allow newspapers to advertise bingo games and other legal lotteries in all newspapers. The House previously passed a version of the bill and is expected to accept the Senate version.

Newspapers are currently prohibited by postal regulations from accepting advertising of legal lotteries such as bingo. Under the new bill, publishers could advertise any legal lottery conducted by a nonprofit organization or any governmental entity.

All lotteries are prohibited in Texas, except bingo when conducted for charitable purposes. The proposed law will not affect illegal lotteries which newspapers will continue to be prohibited from publicizing.

Cookoff aids Helping Hand

A chili cookoff will be held at Pop's Place Saturday, Nov. 12 to benefit Bandera County Helping Hand.

The first annual chili cookoff to benefit Bandera County Helping Hand will feature music along with the chili cooking and auction.

The music begins Friday night with a "Night before party" for cooks and the public, says Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place. The duet, Little Horse with Linda Gail and Ricky Lee Nobles will play country and western music with a flair of bluegrass starting at 8 p.m. The Nobles are from North Carolina and play lead and bass guitar. They have written songs such as "Does She Love Me?", "No Time to Waste" and others.

Bill Baker and the Outlaws will begin playing at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Little Horse will return to finish the evening beginning at 8 p.m.

J. Phillip Anderson of radio station KTSA has volunteered to be a chili judge along with Marc Sultan, Jacque Galvan, Bob Galvan, and Hal Olson.

Chili cooks lined up so far include "Crankcase Chili" made by a team from Southwest Research Institute. Teams will also come from Copper Lantern and Wharton's Dock. Si Turner with "Oh So Good" chili will cook for Viking Enterprises. "We're expecting between 15 and 20 cooks," says Acord.

Custom, rustic trophies will go to the winners of first-, second-, and third-place showmanship, and worst chili. Entry fee is $15 and the last time to register is midnight, Friday, says Acord.

Judging of the chili will begin at 4:30 p.m. and auction will follow. Items for auction will include the winning chilis, mirrors and signs from beer distributors, and other donations from local businesses.

Dorsey's band due

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra is playing for a concert/dance in the Medallion Center at Inn of the Hills River Resort in Kerrville on Thursday, Nov. 17.

The orchestra will be led by Buddy Morrow, long identified with the orchestra as the trombone player.

Tickets at $15 each are available at 1-800-292-5690.

Purple Hills Manor

By Mada Wedgworth — 796-4736

The Rev. Sheldon Hermanson from the Grace Lutheran Church used for his text Sunday, Matthew, Chapter 5, "Sermon on the Mount." Pianist was Norma Barr.

Guests included Renee Hermanson, Melesse Rugh and Laverne and Hoyt Hamrick.

• Residents Evelyn Hostetter, Josephine Chapman, Mildred Woltersdorf, Ada Sehon, Christine Kalka and Martha Fitzpatrick joined Jannie Caffall, Joyce Sellberg and Annette Kalka-Schulte in the living room Monday evening for Rosary, prayers and singing.

• Mabel Jones and Minnie Brokenbrough are home from the hospital feeling much better.

Mama Jo spent Sunday at Margie's with her family.

• Claire Thaman and Dolores Brister of Kerrville visited Claire's mother, Agnes Fortinberry.

• Martin Smith from the Church of Christ had Bible reading for 17 residents Wednesday morning.

• Harvey and Lois Bowman from Lakehills came by Wednesday and took his sister, Lorena Bowman, out for lunch and shopping in town before returning home.

• Elwien Yose is a new resident at the home.

• Mary Glasscock and Della Mae Cox visited Ada Sehon.

• Martin Smith from the Church of Christ took Jack Holloway to services at the church Wednesday evening.

• Rev. Hermanson from the Grace Lutheran Church visited Mary Koehler, Ruby Hillman, Lorena Bowman and other friends Wednesday afternoon.

• The women and children from Hill Country Chapel came last Wednesday afternoon for their regular monthly visit. Judy Jolin was the pianist. Nita Pillet sang the special song, "He Died For me." Linda McGhee brought the Devotional, "Can You Begin Again?" based on John 4:1-26.

Guests were Linda McGhee, Chris, Adam and Sarah, Nita Pillet, and Beau, Justin Shantz, Mona Miller, Summer and Meredith, Val Raitz and Judy John, Kevin and Kaci.

• Thursday seemed like a perfect day for a picnic, so several residents were taken to Lost Maples to see the colorful leaves and have a picnic. Residents that went were Mary Koehler, Juan Bosquez, Jack Holloway, Evelyn Carnes, Meda Hatley, Edith Edwards, Lorena Bowman and Anna Laura Vaughn. Staff members were Tish Rogers, Gloria Oranday and Mada Wedgworth.

• Dottie Davis from Medina visited Winnie Chaddock.

• Ashley and Claire Rugh visited their aunt and uncle Helen and Charlie Rugh.

• The Melodiers and Auto Angels from the Silver Sage Corral came for their regular visit Friday evening. Narrator was Art Bunch, Director Florence Isaacs and violinist was Judy Goodenough. They entertained us with a lot of old Cowboy songs. Guests were Mickie Causey, Marian and Arthur Bunch, Fannie Caffall, Mary Wells, Floyd and Mary Portman, Dolores Greene, Dean and Florence Isaacs, Judy Goodenough, Paul and June Westmeyer, Lois Hayes, Mary McCloskey and Avis Huey.

• We're sorry to report Ruth Hayes and Phoebie Moore passed away last week. Our sympathy to all their loved ones. We will miss them.

• J.B. Edwards took his mother Edith Edwards to services at the Pipe Creek Baptist Church.

• Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick visited friends in the home Sunday morning and took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ.

• Retired Col. John Barr and wife Norma took Mary Koehler and Lorena Bowman to services at the Grace Lutheran Church. After services they enjoyed the turkey dinner at the St. Stanislaus Catholic Church and went to the home of the Barrs where they visited before returning home.

• Ola Belle Allsup of Medina visited her brother-in-law Louie Allsup Monday morning.

• Ruby Hillman celebrated her birthday Monday with a pretty cake, flowers, Presidential greetings and "happy birthday" wishes from everyone. Her guests were Amy Stevens, Grace Burch and Bill and Lucy Dickey of Kerrville.

• Evelyn Hostetter celebrated her birthday last week too. She received Presidential greetings, cake, flowers and birthday greetings from everyone.

Shots may prevent flu as season approaches

The influenza season is just about upon us, and right now is a good time for certain high-risk individuals to be immunized against this disease usually associated with the winter months.

"Influenza kills about 20,000 individuals in the U.S. each year, most of them in the high-risk categories," said Steve McInelly, a public health advisor with the Immunization Division of the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

"By high-risk categories, we mean persons age 65 or older, persons with chronic respiratory and cardiovascular conditions, and children weakened by health problems," he explained.

Flu season is most intense from December through April, although cases can occur in any month. And since the virus mutates frequently, immunizations should be updated yearly. The strains of flu predicted to be most threatening this year are A-Taiwan, A-Sichuan and B-Victoria. A single vaccine guards against all thre of these strains, and persons immunized last year need to be immunized again this year to be fully protected. Because the vaccine is improved, it causes very few reactions, and takes full effect within about two weeks of the "shot."

"Contact your personal physician or local health department if you have questions about immunization," McInelly advised.

Typical influenza illness is characterized by an abrupt onset of fever, accompanied by a sore throat, "dry" cough and extreme malaise. Severe cases may lead to pneumonia or may be fatal to persons with other weakening conditions.

"Parents should always use caution in giving aspirin to children under age 16, because the ingredients in aspirin have been linked to the development of Reye syndrome," McInelly added. Reye syndrome is a neurologic disorder which can develop in young persons during recovery from flu or chickenpox.

In general, flu lasts for five to seven days, and physicians usually recommend bed rest, fluids, and sometimes prescripton drugs.

78-year-old hunter bags 900-pound Colorado trophy

Jim Hill of Medina says he won't need to go elk hunting anymore. He's satisfied with the 5x6 point, 900-pound trophy he brought back from Colorado.

Well, ol' Jim happens to be 78-years-old and he's got five bypasses in his heart, a microvalve and a pacemaker. He took the elk at 10,000 feet elevation.

Hill and his two sons and a friend were hunting in Southern Colorado just above Chama, N.M., when they all scored.

Jim Hill Jr. of San Antonio got a 6x7, brother Ken of Brenham took a 6x6, and their friend, Bob Mann of Cleveland, nailed a 5x5.

The elder Hill says he killed his bull in the early morning of Oct. 22, at 175 yards with a 30.06 after his guide had bugled the beast out of the brush.

"I don't think I'll go again," says Hill. "This was my first (elk) and probably my last."

"WE CARE ABOUT PEOPLE"

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Counterfeit is mostly thought of in terms of money. But it is a fact of life that we willingly accept many things in life as counterfeit. And they are pleasantly welcomed.

The millions spent for cosmetics, for example, show a form of counterfeiting which most of us, for the most part, find pleasing. We accept a form of counterfeiting in jewelry, clothing and other items. When we know we have substitutes for the genuine, no harm is done.

It is tragic, however, when love is counterfeited. Many persons, by the very nature of things, have mistakenly picked a lemon in a counterfeit garden of love. That, too, is a fact of life. Even emotion can be counterfeited. It is difficult to detect because only the person who displays the emotion knows for sure whether the emotion is genuine or counterfeit. A conscience is the only guide.

This brings us to the one thing in life that can never be counterfeited. CONSCIENCE! Conscience is strictly a personal possession for which there is no substitute. One can not counterfeit a conscience.

Hill Country Chapel building continues

Anticipating a spring 1989 completion date, the congregational members of Pipe Creek's Hill Country Chapel continue to build their sanctuary expansion that will seat 300.

The non-denominational church is filled to capacity every Sunday [illegible], says the Rev. Albert (Skip) Marks. "When you get to the back door, you stop growing." To continue the growth, the church decided to build a new sanctuary of twice the size attached to the old church building.

As the new sanctuary stands now, the walls are up and framed with outside paneling. The roof was finished two weeks ago, says Marks. This last Saturday, work was done to prepare the area along the outside of the new sanctuary so the porch slab could be poured.

Work began in April with the men of the church doing most of the construction every other Saturday, says Marks. Only the slab for the sanctuary's floor, which was done in July, and the trusses of the roof were done by outside contractors.

In addition to work-as-you-go construction, the new building is a pay-as-you-go proposition. Funds come from congregational members and bank loans to the church are not used to pay for the building. Progress on the building is totally dependent on when church members give money. "It all depends on our Faith Promise Program," says Marks.

In the spring of 1989, the building should be 80 percent complete with the sheet rock and insulation on the inside walls, says Marks. Next will come the inside furnishings. "That's when the expensive work begins," he says.

The new sanctuary will have a six-foot wide elevated stage at the front of the sanctuary, says Marks. A cry-room and an office will be added to the rear of the new building.

The outside of the building will have a rock wall on the side facing the road, as the old sanctuary does now, says Marks. The other outside walls will have rock up to four feet high.

The old sanctuary will not be forgotten in the expansion, however. An eight-foot door will be cut in the present sanctuary, leading into the new building, says Marks. The old sanctuary will be converted into Sunday School rooms, and a smaller sanctuary. "The old sanctuary will continue to be used as a worship area, though smaller," he says.

Thanksgiving dinner planned at Lakehills chapel Nov. 16

Faith Chapel of Lakehills will host a Thanksgiving supper on Wednesday, Nov. 16, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the mission church "Christ is our refuge" in San Antonio will be present with members of the Lakehills church.

At 7:30 p.m. a praise service will follow with guest speaker Rev. John Dean from San Antonio's Eagle's Nest fellowship.

The church is located on Park Road 37, west of the EMS ambulance building.

Pipe Creek Presbyterian to become official Sunday

Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church will celebrate and commemorate its organization as an official member of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. Sunday, Nov. 13 at 3 p.m.

Organization service will be conducted by a commission of seven elders and ministers appointed by Mission Presbytery, which encompasses much of South Texas.

Although the congregation formed in September 1985, the Presbytery requires that a church meet certain requirements such as having an ordained Presbyterian minister who is a seminary graduate, a mission design, and a steering committee which is the representative body of the congregation that carries out its mission.

The Rev. Dale Hines, retired Air Force chaplain, serves the congregation half-time. Elders will be nominated, elected, ordained and installed in this organizing service, and those elders will become the session of the church.

The community is invited to attend, says spokeswoman Patsy Small. A reception will follow the service.

Methodists plan Harvest bazaar

Handicrafts, Christmas items, woodcrafts, a country store and chili lunch will highlight the annual Harvest Festival Bazaar sponsored by Bandera United Methodist Church Saturday, Nov. 19 at Bandera Youth Center.

"The bazaar begins at 9 a.m., and will last until 5 p.m.," said Vernell Mullenax, one of the organizers of the event. "This will be a good opportunity to do some Christmas shopping."

Chili lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Bandera Youth Center is located at 1103 Cedar, next to Ken's TV.

Food, nutrition show set by 4-H

Bandera 4-H will sponsor a Food and Nutrition Show Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Catholic Church Education Building.

The show will begin at 1:30 p.m., and winners will be announced between 3 and 4 p.m., according to spokeswoman Jane Dry.

Hill Country Chapel building continues

Anticipating a spring, 1989 completion date, the congregation members of Pipe Creek's Hill Country Chapel continue to build their sanctuary expansion that will seat 300.

The non-denominational church is filled to capacity every Sunday with 150 in attendance, says the Rev. Albert (Skip) Marks. "When you get to the back door, you stop growing." To continue the growth, the church decided to build a new sanctuary of twice the size attached to the old church building.

As the new sanctuary stands now, the walls are up and framed with outside paneling. The roof was finished two weeks ago, says Marks. This last Saturday, work was done to prepare the area along the outside of the new sanctuary so the porch slab could be poured.

Work began in April with the men of the church doing most of the construction every other Saturday, says Marks. Only the slab for the sanctuary's floor, which was done in July, and the trusses of the roof were done by outside contractors.

In addition to work-as-you-go construction, the new building is a pay-as-you-go proposition. Funds come from congregational members and bank loans to the church are not used to pay for the building. Progress on the building is totally dependent on when church members give money. "It all depends on our Faith Promise Program," says Marks.

In the spring of 1989, the building should be 80 percent complete with the sheet rock and insulation on the inside walls, says Marks. Next will come the inside furnishings. "That's when the expensive work begins," he says.

The new sanctuary will have a six-foot wide elevated stage at the front of the sanctuary, says Marks. A cry-room and an office will be added to the rear of the new building.

The outside of the building will have a rock wall on the side facing the road, as the old sanctuary does now, says Marks. The other outside walls will have rock up to four-feet high.

The old sanctuary will not be forgotten in the expansion, however. An eight-foot door will be cut in the present sanctuary, leading into the new building, says Marks. The old sanctuary will be converted into Sunday School rooms, and a smaller sanctuary. "The old sanctuary will continue to be used as a worship area, though smaller," he says.

Thanksgiving dinner planned at Lakehills chapel Nov. 16

Faith Chapel of Lakehills will host a Thanksgiving supper on Wednesday, Nov. 16, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Members of the mission church "Christ is our refuge" in San Antonio will be present with members of the Lakehills church.

At 7:30 p.m. a praise service will follow with guest speaker Rev. John Dean from San Antonio's Eagle's Nest fellowship.

The church is located on Park Road 37, west of the EMS ambulance building.

Pipe Creek Presbyterian to become official Sunday

Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church will celebrate and commemorate its organization as an official member of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. Sunday, Nov. 13 at 3 p.m.

Organization service will be conducted by a commission of seven elders and ministers appointed by Mission Presbytery, which encompasses much of South Texas.

Although the congregation formed in September 1985, the Presbytery requires that a church meet certain requirements such as having an ordained Presbyterian minister who is a seminary graduate, a mission design and a steering committee which is the representative body of the congregation that carries out its mission.

Handicrafts, Christmas items, woodcrafts, a country store and chili lunch will highlight the annual Harvest Festival Bazaar sponsored by Bandera United Methodist Church Saturday, Nov. 19 at Bandera Youth Center.

"The bazaar begins at 9 a.m., and will last until 5 p.m.," said Vernell Mullenax, one of the organizers of the event. "This will be a good opportunity to do some Christmas shopping."

Chili lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Bandera Youth Center is located at 1103 Cedar, next to Ken's TV.

Food, nutrition show set by 4-H

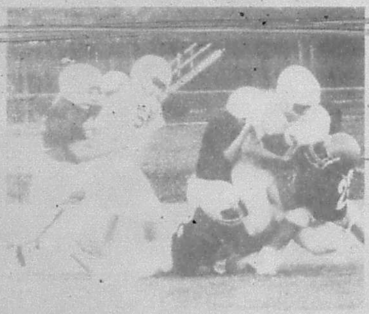
For, about and by students in Bandera schools



Brian Flach (#5) hands off to Marlin Santos who struggles for gain against the Medina Valley Panthers.

Junior High 'Dogs defeat Pleasanton Eagles, 15-6

Seventh grade 'Dogs faced and defeated the Pleasanton Eagles Sept. 20 with a final score of 15-6.

The Eagles scored the first and their only points of the game in the first quarter. The 'Dogs were quick to return the favor. The 'Dogs however managed to score their point after, while the Eagles could not. The score of 7-6 lasted until the third quarter.

Marlin Santos scored again for the 'Dogs, and the two point attempt was good for the final score of 15-6.

Santos scored both touchdowns for Old Blue, on runs of 65 and 35 yards. Also praised was Luke Maier who tied with Santos for most tackles.

— Michael T. Goode

Junior 'Dogs win one

Bandera Junior High seventh grade Bulldogs defeated the Medina Valley Panthers 16 to 6 Thursday, Nov. 3.

Luke Maier and Marlin Santos were outstanding runners for Bandera.

Lady 'Dogs end season

Losing at the district tournament against Floresville, Thursday, Oct. 27, 0-15 and 7-15, the Lady bulldogs volleyball team wrapped up the season.

The Lady Bulldogs were successful in their pre-season games standing 8-5, however they were not as fruitful in district, 0-7, and stood 8-12 for the season.

"Every week the Lady Bulldogs never gave up or quit and played with desire, dedication, and pride," said Coach Swierc.

Scott, Lukachik Mr. and Miss BHS

Bandera High School Homecoming '88 was highlighted by the crowning of Mr. and Miss BHS, seniors Kim Lukachik and John Scott. This was the climax of a week of spirited activities concluded by a Homecoming dance.

Other Senior representatives were Priscilla Obiedo, escorted by Walter Stricker.

Junior representatives were CAndi Grimes, and Patti Kindla, escorted by Scott Rogers and Brett Emmons. Sophomore representatives were Carrie Fellows and Shane Felton, escorted by Bo Mansfield and Leroy Brown. The Freshmen were represented by Stacy Wakely and Heather Perk, escorted by Ethan Timmons and Johnny Stroud.

Winners of the BHS Window Painting Contest of downtown businesses were seniors, first place; freshmen, second place; and sophomores, third place. The Seniors received $100, the Freshmen received $50 and the Sophomores received $25.

Thursday night, a large crowd gathered at Mansfield Park for the annual bonfire. It was started by the lighting of the fire. The band played songs such as Mony-Mony, Surfin' U.S.A. and the Fight Song. Pep talks were given by the Senior Varsity football players and Max the Bulldog. The Varsity, J.V. and Jr. High cheerleaders led various chants and cheers.

Friday was a spirit-filled day at BHS with face painting at lunch, pep rally, Homecoming game and dance. Mrs. Connie Young's art classes painted various symbols on faces during lunch. At the end of seventh period, all students went to the gym for the pep rally. Jr. High cheerleaders were there to help the High School cheerleaders. They built a pyramid and did several cheers. The football sweetheart, Michele Hermann, was also named. The window painting winners were announced and the Seniors, for the second year, formed their circle down on the gym floor.

Ending the week was the Homecoming dance. It was held in the jr. high gym. A D.J. was hired and a fog machine/lighting system was rented by the Student Council for the occasion.

— Lauri Reagan

Luke Maier runs for a touchdown.

Seniors win bucket brigade, $450 raised for Homecoming

The week of October 10-14, the High School held their 1988 Bucket Brigade.

The purpose was to get more pennies in your class bucket than any other class. If someone put silver change or dollar bills in your bucket, that amount was subtracted from the pennies.

After a long, hard struggle, the seniors pulled ahead. The final score was Seniors $95.23; Sophomores $91.34; Juniors $40.82; Freshmen $8.79.

The $450.15 that was raised went toward decorations and expenses for the Homecoming dance.

Co-op sponsoring essay contest

Win an all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., June 15 through 27, by entering the Bandera Electric Cooperative Contest.

To be eligible to enter, you must be between the ages of 14 and 19, and your parents or guardian must be a member of the Bandera Electric Cooperative.

Contestants are required to write an essay of 500 words of less about "What Electricity Means To Me." Entries must be in the Bandera Office by Feb. 28 for the judges to have the appropriate time required to read and select winners.

The winners, one girl and one boy, will join other contest winners from across the state of Texas for a joyful trip, experience and an unforgettable visit to our nation's capital.

Please contact your school office or Bandera Electric Cooperative, Inc. for more information and for entry forms.

Second annual Fall Fest set at BHS Saturday night

The second annual Fall Fest will be held at the Bandera High School Auditorium, Saturday, Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. Tickets at the door will be $2. Student tickets bought in advance are $1.

A fun-filled night is planned when the legend of Tom Sawyer comes alive on the BHS stage. All three schools will participate in the production of lively antics and music, which is sure to envoke an hour of nostalgia for some and genuine entertainment for all.

All concerned have worked hard to bring a most entertaining night to the community. Practices for the play have been before school from 6:30 to 8 a.m. in the morning and it is sure to be an enjoyable evening.

BHS cross country team places ninth at regional

The Bandera's Lady Bulldog cross country team placed ninth overall out of 14 teams when they competed at regional Saturday Nov. 5 at University of Texas at San Antonio.

The BHS Lady Bulldogs advanced to regional for the 14th consecutive year when they placed second in district at Medina Valley.

Amie Nightingale placed first at the district meet with a time of 12:54, and she placed 15th at regional.

Ruth Mazurek placed fourth at district and 47th at regional.

Sally Langston placed seventh at district, and 71st at regional.

Also placing at the regional meet were Viola McHorse, 74th; Violet McHorse, 99th; and Yesinia Benitez, 104th.

A runner qualifies for regional by either being on the first or second place team at district or by being one of the top five individuals, according to coach Barbara Mazurek.

Steve Abbott placed 12th and Eric Wylie placed 13th in the boys' district meet.

Being a regional qualifier requires many hours of practice, according to coach Mazurek.

"Every individual was faithful to be at practice since Aug. 8 at 6:30 every morning," she said. "They all showed a vast amount of improvement.

"Speaking for our runners, we would all liked to have turned in a better performance, however, that is 'water under the bridge' now.

"I have nothing but admiration for my cross country runners, and for their hard work and good attitude throughout the season," said the coach.

"For the seniors, this was their last meet, but for the underclassmen, there's always next year."

Crystal City placed first at the regional meet; Port Isabel placed second; and La Feria placed third.

Carlyn Pearson

Honor society had bake sale

The National Honor Society made $136.10 on their annual Halloween Cookie Sale, Monday, Oct. 31.

Members of NHS gathered at Sharon Wehmeyer's house the Sunday before the sale to make necessary preparations. Cookies, brownies, and "jack-o-lantern cupcakes" were sold separately and in decorated boxes and jack-o-lanterns.

The money is used to purchase pins and patches, and for the induction ceremony to be held this spring.

"We would like to thank all of the students, parents and faculty who made donations and purchased our goodies. We appreciate your support," said NHS president, Shannon Walbrun.

NHS plans another cookie sale around Valentine's Day.

— DeLeene Wilkirson

Alkek Elementary School fifth grader Sean Clark was named one of five semi-finalists Oct. 28 in a writing contest sponsored by the San Antonio Light. Clark and his language arts class submitted endings to a story started by author John R. Erickson, creator of the "Hank the Cowdog" series of children's books. Clark received a Light T-shirt for his placing. The contest was won by 10-year-old Mark Lauterstein of San Antonio.

Pets

ADOPT A PET OF BANDERA
Are you plagued with stray dogs or cats?
Bandera County does not operate a Humane Shelter at this time.
What to do with the stray pets?
Consider carrying the stray pet to the Veterinarians at Hill Country Veterinary Hospital (across from Alkek Elementary)
Stray animals will be sheltered for a short time while hospital staff attempt to place the pet in a home.
Two requirements exist:
1. No UNWANTED pets-strays only!
2. Adopting pet owners will be responsible for required vaccination expense and a nominal spay or neuter fee if applicable at time of release.
Call Hill Country Veterinary Hospital
Day or night for further information at 796-3787.
Conrad K. Nightingale, D.V.M.
Kurt A. Zermuehlen, D.V.M.
Just because someone threw these dogs away doesn't mean they can't be a first pick dog for you!
These dogs are aching to find a home.
At least stop by and see them.
1. A very sweet German Shepherd cross female. Perfect family pet & guard dog.
2. Everyone at the hospital loves the white cocker cross. It will make someone a wonderful companion.
3. This hound-pitbull cross female pup will definitely win you over if you give her a chance.
4. A wirehaired, mix breed female, black, would make a great friend for any youngster.
5. One 2 year old male border collie-come see it.

600 pounds of brisket consumed in Medina

Hundreds of hunters and community members turned out Friday for the annual Hunters Barbecue sponsored by the Medina Volunteer Fire Department. Approximately 600 pounds of brisket, ten gallons of cole slaw, thirty two pounds of beans, several pounds of potato salad, and dozens of cakes and other baked goods were served and consumed.

Spokesman for the Fire Department, Murry LeStourgeon, says the success of the barbecue was due to the many volunteers who contributed time and food to the effort, and that it could not have been accomplished without the support of all who helped.

Tarpley
By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

Lynn and Louetta Holt of the Tarpley General Store hosted a luncheon on Tuesday, Oct. 25, for State Sen. Bill Sims. Those in attendance included County Judge Ray Mauer, Ray Buck and Phil Becker.

• Bernice Monier was admitted to Humana Hospital in San Antonio Saturday morning.

She had been in St. Luke's Lutheran Hospital for several weeks and had returned home a short time ago.

• Tarpley Baptist Church visitors Sunday included George and Mavis Mitcheson of North Wales, United Kingdom, and Mrs. Shane Stacy and children, Travis and Tara.

The Mitcheson's are here from North Wales on business and are guests at The Shadow Dance Ranch.

Other visitors included Judy Moseley of Bandera and 2 sons, and a friend of her son's, James May.

• Ethel Thompson, 91, of Monongahela, Pa., is visiting her son, Bill Thompson and her granddaughter, Larue Harp and son Erik.

Bill and grandson Erik flew to Pennsylvania to accompany her on her trip to Texas.

• The Tarpley Baptist Church sang "Happy Birthday," to Earl Hood who has a birthday Friday, Nov. 11, and "Happy Anniversary" for Earl and Marie's 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 12.

A reception will be held at the Tarpley Baptist Church from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the Hood's relatives and friends.

Sabinal Canyon
By Lillie Thompson — 966-3493

Visitors in Utopia Baptist Church Sunday included Alvin and Rosemary Hicks of Boerne.

• Visiting Frieda Heideman and Lillie Thompson Sunday was a cousin, Katie Pheiffer of Kendalia, and her daughter Henritta.

• Ray and LaVern Harp of Texas City are spending a week doing some hunting and visiting her parents, Hub and Lillie Thompson.

• Hoyt and Doris Foster have been commuting back and forth to San Antonio five days a week for Doris's treatments.

She was pleasantly surprised and honored on Thursday by receiving a large orchid pot plant covered with blooms from Chicago and delivered, by none other than Leota Clayton Hosman, Hoyt's cousin.

• Vanderpool Wolf Club trapper Lonnie Bomer reports catching 12 coyotes and 14 hogs August through October.

One coyote was caught Oct. 28 and 1 coyote Nov. 1 on Elton Boultinghuse's ranch.

• The 26th annual Fall Fair on Nov. 5 was a great success. Many arts and crafts were displayed and sales were great.

Barbecue was served at lunch by seniors of Utopia. Make plans to attend Saturday on Utopia Town Square for another display of arts and crafts.

• Utopia EMS volunteers are very proud of the new ambulance received last week. There will be an open house so the community might view this fine piece of equipment.

• On Sunday night Nov. 20 the Baptist Church will have the privilege of hosting the community Thanksgiving services with the Methodist pastor holding the services. Flowers on the altar table Sunday morning were in memory of Mrs. John Whatley, sister of R.C. Cuter.

Garage and bake sale

There will be a garage and bake sale on Saturday, Nov. 12, which will be to raise funds for the sophomore class of Medina High.

The sale will take place on West Prong road, one mile west of Highway 16.

Medina School lunch menu

Nov. 14-18

Monday — Barbecue on bun, salad, chips, fruit and milk.
Tuesday — Sausage, potato salad, peas, fruit, rolls and milk.
Wednesday — Chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes with gravy, green beans, rolls, fruit and milk.
Thursday — Turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes with gravy, green peas, dessert, rolls and milk.
Friday — Hamburgers, salad, French fries, dessert and milk.

Bulldogs lose finale, 18-0

The curtain came down Friday mercifully ending the 1988 football season for Bandera's Bulldogs with a mark equal to last year's 2-8 record.

The exclamation point was put on the season in the final game by Hondo which managed to scratch out an 18-0 victory over the Bulldogs and leave the Bandera team in sole possession of last place in District 8-AAA.

The Bulldogs wound up winless in five district games and with victories over Pearsall and San Antonio Memorial, which now has the nation's longest losing streak at 50.

Hondo put together a 51-yard touchdown drive in the first quarter for the only score in a first half that featured good defensive play by both teams.

Owl quarterback Steve Tapia hit Rick Moos with a 43-yard touchdown pass with 4:41 left in the first quarter to give Hondo all the advantage it would need, and for a while it appeared it was all the Owls would get.

The two teams played the remainder of the first half in the middle of the field, though Hondo drove to the Bulldog goal line early in the second period only to lose the ball on a fumble in the end zone.

The Owls got their second touchdown after their longest drive of the night, a 62-yard push in seven plays climaxed by a 10-yard sweep into the end zone by fullback Chris Carroll with almost 8 minutes gone in the half.

The Owls got their final touchdown less than 3 minutes later after a pass interception by David Barrios gave Hondo the ball on the Bandera 22-yard line.

Ismael Palacios got the touchdown on a 1-yard dive with 5:10 left in the second stanza.

Bandera penetrated Hondo territory only three times and the closest it got all evening to the Owl goal line was the Hondo 41-yard line where a penalty put the ball in the final quarter.

Two big defensive plays rocked the 'Dogs back to their own 42, however, to end any hopes of a score by Bandera.

Bandera's Bulldogs had trouble slowing the Hondo offense.

D'Hanis drops 'Cats, 33-0 to wrap up district title

Medina's Bobcats ended their season with a 33-0 loss to the district 29-A champs in D'Hanis Saturday, Nov. 5.

The Cowboys finished with a 5-0 record in district and 8-1 overall.

Medina wound up 1-4 in district play and 3-6 overall. The 'Cats' only notch in the district win column came from a forfeit after Leakey cancelled its football program.

Medina, which was touted as a possible bi-district contender before the season opened, suffered from the loss of five starters during its schedule.

"We lost about 2,000 yards of offense with (Scootie) Melton and (Al) Ferguson," said head coach Dodson. "I was disappointed in our season, of course, but I really don't know what happened. We started out high and went flat," he said.

"Offensively we moved the ball pretty well...and we had a 19 point (scoring) average which should be good enough to win," he said. "Defense is where we let down."

Ground Fault Receptacle

TGTR215I

Circuit interrupters are designed for use on circuits serving bathrooms, kitchens and any other areas where you could come into contact with water while using any electrical device.

Ground fault receptacles will sense as little as 5/1000 of an amp of electricity not returning through the neutral wire. Considering that it takes 1/3 of an amp (barely enough to light a 60 watt bulb) to be lethal, installing these recepticals to protect your family and your home is well worth the expense and effort.

Recount of votes in one race here

A specially-appointed team will begin recounting ballots at 7 a.m. Thursday in the general election race for county commissioner in precinct 1 that was apparently won last Tuesday by Republican Cotton Fitzgerald of Pipe Creek over Bennie Barker of Wharton's Dock.

Fitzgerald led Barker by 36 votes out of 1,150 cast in unofficial returns reported this week by county clerk Vera King.

King said returns released at 4 a.m. last Wednesday did not include one group of absentees ballots counted by a second counting team, and she released new totals in every race this week.

The new figures did not change the outcome of any of the contests on the ballot, including the Fitzgerald-Barker contest. The incomplete returns released last week showed Fitzgerald ahead by the identical margin of 36 votes out of the 1,044 counted. According to King's figures, Fitzgerald and Barker split the 106 votes that were previously unreported.

The State Election Code permits a recount when the margin of victory is 10 percent or less. Fitzgerald's margin is 3.1 percent.

Barker filed his request for a recount with County Judge Ray F. Mauer along with a $75 deposit to pay the expenses of recounting the ballots cast in voting precincts 1 (Bandera High School) and 2 (Pipe Creek Community Center) and the absentee ballots cast by residents of commissioner's precinct 1.

Barker will have to pay for the costs of the recount unless the count changes the result, in which case the county will shoulder the costs.

Barker was quick to point out that he was motivated to call for a recount only because of the closeness of the vote, and he made no charges of fraud or any other kind of intentional manipulation.

"Since there is a difference of only 36 votes and the official tally was changed recently from 1,044 votes to 1,150 votes, there is sufficient reason to believe the closeness of the tally and the confusion would justify a recount," he said.

Honest mistakes from the long effort put in by election workers may have introduced errors, Barker believes. "No one has implied nor do I personally believe that any intentional errors were committed that might change the outcome of the election," he said. "It was a long and grueling night for the election workers and honest mistakes can certainly occur under this type of situation."

If mistakes did occur, the recount will correct them, says Barker. "I have been beleaguered with requests from supporters for a recount. It is even possible that the recount may improve my opponent's margin of victory. At regardless of the outcome, we can all sleep a little better at night knowing that if mistakes did occur, they will have been corrected by the recount."

Candidates or their representatives can be present at the recount, says Mauer.

Barker received 264 and Fitzgerald received 203 from voting precinct one, which votes at Bandera High School.

Fitzgerald received 222 votes to 141 in voting precinct 2 which votes at the Pipe Creek Community Center. Fitzgerald also led in absentee voting with 115 to 99.

Mae Vion Meyer, an employee of the tax assessor-collector's office, was named by Mauer as chairman of the recount committee. Other members of the counting team were to be named Wednesday, Mauer said.

A complete list of the new absentee totals and the new totals appears elsewhere in this issue.

Smokers here to give it up in Great American Smokeout

Thursday, Nov. 17 will mark the 12th anniversary of the Great American Smokeout. In Bandera county, the smokeout was celebrated last Saturday when the Fredericksburg Vintage Car Club came through town to promote the event.

In Kerrville, the Everett Reed Memorial Golf tournament promoting the smokeout begins at 1 p.m. at Scott Schreiner Golf Course, according to GASO co-chairperson Cecelia Schmidtke of Bandera.

Schmidtke invited non-golfers to join a "chain of hands" forming at River Hills Mall from 10 a.m. to noon Thursday. Also at the mall that day will be celebrity smokers Ace Reid, cartoonist, and Kinky Friedman. Both men will try to quit smoking and at the same time try to encourage others to stop, Schmidtke said.

The goal of the 1988 Great American Smokeout is to get at least one in every five smokers to give up cigarettes from midnight to midnight on Thursday, Nov. 17.

Anyone getting a late start on Thursday can extend the 24 hour period as long as necessary past the midnight deadline to get in a full day.

The Smokeout is celebrated in a variety of ways across the country. National programs such as "Adopt a Smoker" will be used, and actor Larry Hagman, national chairman of Smokeout '88 demonstrated his committment to the non-amoking cause by returning to head up the event for the eighth consecutive year.

More than 19.5 million or 39.1 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers tried to kick the habit for the day in 1987. The success of the smokeout and other anti-smoking efforts is reflected in the decrease in the number of smokers. Smokeout '86 statisticswere based on 54.5 million smokers, and last year the more realistic figure of 50 million was used.

In only 12 years, the idea of taking a day off from smoking has spread to other countries such as Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, France, Australia, South Africa, Norway, Finland and Swedgen. Although names and dates vary in other countries, there are increasing signs that non-smoking efforts are growing in other countries. Last year, the World Health Organization announced an increase in its budget for anti-smoking efforts in other world nations, and governments in countries like Cuba are backing non-smoking education programs.

'Not tonight, dear,' may be response to smokers' odor

Dear editor:

The threat of lung cancer didn't make you quit; the threat of heart disease didn't make you quit; so perhaps it's time to tell you about a consequence of smoking the surgeon general hasn't mentioned. I'm not sure why he hasn't, except perhaps because we Americans are so hung up about personal hygiene, our grocery and drug stores have aisles of shelves full of products to cleanse, deoderize, anti-perspirate and perfume our bodies. What the surgeon general wouldn't tell you (but your best friend will), smoker, is that you have B.O., and that's with a capital B!

Taking a shower and using all those products don't really help you either. The odor permeates your clothes, your hair, your skin. The more you smoke, the longer you smoke, the worse it gets. Because smoking affects your sense of smell, you may find it hard to believe you even have this personal stench (which resembles something dead with fur, left out in the rain). However, if your partner doesn't smoke, this odor may be responsible for a number of "Not tonight, dear's."

Yes, smoker, smoking stinks, and I'm sorry to say, so do you. So do us all a favor this Thursday — QUIT!

Cigarette smoking costs more than $3 billion year

The updated figures are in. It's one of those stories nobody wants to talk about over the breakfast table. It's about death and dying; what smoking costs us Texans in a year's time.

Smoking costs Texas — its citizens and taxpayers — an estimated $3.3 billion per year, says Ron Todd, coordinator of the Office of Smoking and Health at the Texas Health Department.

That's $1,036 for every smoker age 18 or over.

It's $198 per year for every man, woman and child in the Lone Star State. For every pack of cigarettes sold, Texas taxpayers pay a $1.78 bounty in health care costs and lost productivity due to illnesses caused by cigarette smoking.

"And this is only cigarettes. It does not include medical costs related to cigars, pipes or smokeless tobacco," said Todd, who recently completed a statistical analysis, "Annual Cost of Cigarette Smoking in Texas" funded by the Texas Cancer Council.

Cigarette smoking kills Texans at the rate of 16,697 per year, according to the report. That's something equivalent to eradicating the population of four towns about the size of Bastrop.

One of the four federally required warnings on the side of your favorite brand of cigarettes states that "smoking causes lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and may complicate pregnancy." What it does not tell you is that it causes 30 percent of all deaths from heart disease, the leading killer in both the state and the nation.

Cancer, "The Big C" as John Wayne called it, and smoking are no strangers. One-third of all cancer deaths in the nation are caused by cigarette smoking, including 85 percent of all lung cancer deaths, the leading cancer killer of both men and women.

A traditional argument is that while smoking may be a bad habit, it produces tax revenue. But it doesn't bring in enough. The costs associated for medical treatment and lost time is more than six times greater than the revenue generated by cigarette sales.

The Texas costs attributable to deaths, lost productivity, and medical treatment were analyzed in three broad categories, explained Todd.

"Direct health care costs" include $1,618,085,731 spent per year for prevention, diagnosis and treatment of smoking-related diseases and medical conditions.

"Indirect mortality costs" now add up to $1,070,462,215 yearly.

Mayor's belt-tightening plans calls for Callahan's retirement

By Nick Johnson
Editor

Mayor Raymond Adamietz Monday proposed a sweeping reorganization of the city's operations that called for the early retirement of long-time city employee Margaret Callahan, laying off another city worker, and hiring the municipal court secretary as both judge and secretary.

His proposal joined one made public last week by councilman Robert Skinner to deal with the city's fiscal crisis and represented an abrupt about-face for the mayor who had until Monday said that the crisis would be solved when taxpayers paid their 1988 taxes in early 1989.

"I feel it is my duty to put forth workable solutions," the mayor said Monday in proposing a nine-point program to deal with the city's money problems which deepened this month when the city's law firm submitted a $10,000 bill for two months of legal services and when expenditures of $39,295 exceeded income by $6,850.

The mayor's suggestions called for removal of municipal Judge Kerry Schneider, 37-year employee Callahan, and one other unnamed employee and the assumption of some duties now being performed by the city crews by public works director Melvin King, also a 37-year city employee.

It also provided continued support of a three-man police force instead of a four-man department. Taking note of this, the council later Monday did not act on a request by Chief Walter Welch to replace James (Red) Evans, who quit Aug. 14.

The mayor didn't offer his plan as an "all or nothing" proposal, but invited the council to use it as a starting point. "I'm not suggesting that we have to adopt all of (the nine points)," he said. "They are for your thoughts and consideration."

The mayor's proposal was greeted favorably by councilman Joe Fox, who has often been at loggerheads with the mayor. "Very good, very good," Fox commented after Mayor Adamietz had read his proposal to the council and about 30 persons in the audience. "I think this is the

Clark accepts 45-year term in Sherwood case plea bargain

By Janna Sandidge
Staff Writer

James Michael Clark was sentenced to 45 years in Texas Department of Corrections after he surprised courtroom observers by pleading guilty last week to the murder of Randy Sherwood of Lakehills.

Clark had been charged with capital murder, and if convicted he might have received the death penalty. Following his conviction that affirmed he used a deadly weapon, Clark will be eligible for parole in 15 years, according to district attorney Bruce Curry.

At the time of Clark's arrest, it was charged that he and two other men, Lee Corriher and Rob Coalson, killed Sherwood for pay. It was charged that Clark's sister, Sharon Sherwood, gave him a diamond ring in exchange for his killing her ex-husband, Randy Sherwood, but during a pre-trial hearing, Sharon Sherwood's statement was thrown out, and ruled inadmissable as evidence by District Judge Bob Barton.

Clark's signed statement, which implicated him as Sherwood's killer, was admitted into evidence.

Jury selection began Monday, Nov. 7, and some 350 potential jurors were notified they would be examined before the trial. One of the selection criterion was indeed what their feelings were about the death penalty, and Judge Barton said capital punishment was a distinct possibility if Clark were convicted of capital murder.

Thursday, Curry announced "the state desires to dismiss the capital element alleged in the indictment, to-wit, the portion which reads: 'for remuneration and the promise of remuneration from Sharon Sherwood,' as the defendant has entered into an agreement to enter a plea of guilty to the murder charge contained in such indictment."

Clark pleaded guilty to charges that on July 16, 1987, he "did then and there intentionally and knowingly cause the death of an individual, namely Randy Sherwood, by shooting him."

"The remuneration was dependent on some things that changed," said Curry Tuesday. Apparently some key witnesses, including James A. Graue, are now confined in TDC on other charges, and their credibility was damaged, Curry said.

According to reports, Graue

Before the white man came to the Americas, there were probably fewer deer than today. There was much more virgin timber and much less deer habitat.

Once the hardwoods were clear-cut, especially in the 1800s, deer browse grew in and their numbers increased. In the meantime, a very effective war was waged on predators. They took cattle, horses, sheep and goats, but also kept the deer population in check by culling the weaker animals.

Deer populations mushroomed at first, but then "market hunters" and massive forest fires stepped in to reduce herds. By 1900, the U.S. deer population reached an all-time recorded low.

In 1887 Teddy Roosevelt called together a select group of politically well-placed big game hunters and organized the Boone and Crockett Club. Others followed, including the National Association of Audubon Societies.

Many states formed fish and game associations. "Bucks only" laws were passed. The elimination of predators continued. At first, herds recovered, but then overpopulation returned and, with it, nature's ultimate predators: disease and starvation.

To these man has added the highway and motor vehicle. They are problems here, as many a body shop can testify, but things are getting fatally serious in the congested regions of the Northeast.

We have not yet learned how to handle our role as the dominant predator on top of the food chain. Soil and vegetation, topography and climate, fires and grazing, geologic and human history — all interact in complex and continually changing ways to produce wildlife populations.

Here is one lesson, from Aldo Leopold's 1944 essay, "Thinking Like a Mountain." In the early 1920s, he had just killed a wolf and was watching

". . . a fierce green fire dying in her eyes . . . there was something new to me in those eyes — something known only to her and to the mountain. I was young then and full of trigger itch; I thought that because fewer wolves meant more deer, that no wolves would mean hunters' paradise. But after seeing the green fire die, I sensed that neither the wolf nor the mountain agreed . . .

"Since then, I have lived to see state after state extirpate its wolves. I have watched the face of many a newly wolfless mountain, and seen the south-facing slopes wrinkle with a maze of new deer trails . . . . every edible bush and seedling browsed . . . . every edible tree defoliated to the height of a saddlehorn . . . . In the end the starved bones of the hoped-for deer herd, dead of its own too-much, bleach with the bones of dead sage, or molder under the high-lined junipers."

Following the letter?

Dear editor:

After reading "No More Trust" and the fine letter from Judge Schneider, I think that relating something that happened to me might still the waters somewhat.

In 1963, after serving in the Army, I went to work as a police officer. Sometime during 1963 or 1964 I stopped an elderly lady for running a stop sign (keep in mind that at the age of 21, anyone over 35 was elderly in my eyes). That I stopped her was one thing, but I also wrote her a ticket.

I have wished all these years that I had not written that ticket. The lady did not believe that she had run a stop sign and did not know that she had run a stop sign. I believe to this day that she could have done a polygraph and sworn that she had not done so and been telling the truth.

After stopping the lady and explaining what she had done, then, when it became apparent that she had no knowledge of having committed any violation, I should not have written a ticket. I should have assured her that she had in fact failed to stop, warned her to be a little more careful and bid her "Good day."

Had I done that, the lady would have gone around telling people about what nice young policemen the city of University Park had. Instead I left her with a bad taste in her mouth for our department.

Were justice and truth served? I think not. The law was upheld, yes, but at what price? Should I have followed the letter of the law or bent a little and gained a patron of law enforcement?

Supercollider project is boost to hopes of Texans everywhere

Good news not only travels fast, it has an immediate healing effect.

Texans everywhere got a real psychological boost when the Department of Energy announced the lucrative supercollider project would be built near Waxahachie in Ellis County.

The $4.4 billion physics lab, the largest scientific project ever undertaken, promises to bring thousands of jobs and billions of dollars to Texas' hard-pressed economy.

The announcement, which came on the heels of a Texan's election to the White House, also served as a reminder that bipartisan political clout is invaluable.

On Nov. 8, voters showed much independence and divided the offices among both parties. Texas Republicans won the White House and a few high court seats, but Democrats gained in congressional and statehouse seats.

Moment of unity

The Supercollider announcement was balm to sore political wounds because Texas Republicans and Democrats could claim a share of the credit.

In this instance, both parties worked for the good of all Texans, a shining moment in a political season otherwise noted for harsh attacks, mud-slinging, charges of voting fraud and racism.

It was a moment of unity which cannot last in the contact sport that is Texas politics, but can always return again.

Rains, Hispanics

Hopes for heavy Republican gains among South Texas Hispanic voters were dashed by a heavy turnout for Democrats which some say was a backlash to tactics by Secretary of State Jack Rains.

Rains' office implied voting fraud and prepared to police balloting there, but was turned back by a lawsuit and a countercharge of racism and tyranny by Democrats.

If Rains runs for governor in 1990, as many predict, he will no doubt face an uphill battle for votes along the Rio Grande.

State drug testing

Gov. Bill Clements said the state should emulate many private employers and start drug testing new employees in state agencies.

"If you're going to have testing in the private sector, why shouldn't you have something like it in state government, particularly for people in sensitive jobs?", he asked.

Clements is expected to submit proposals for drug testing state employees to the new Legislature.

A spokesman for the Texas Public Employees Association said the group will fight any attempt to test new or current state workers for drug or alcohol abuse.

The governor also ripped state agencies for "turf fighting" which creates costly duplication of services.

Battleship Texas

The Battleship Texas is scheduled to "sail" next month from its San Jacinto Battleground berth to a Galveston drydock for repairs to keep her afloat.

The repairs will be largely funded by private dollars raised in several grassroots efforts.

Textbooks approved

Following the state's approval of textbooks last week, conservatives criticized some of the selections as "trash, filled with errors," and "providing no hope."

One critic submitted a 50-ft. long list of potential errors which the State Board of Education said it will analyze.

The board ignored all requests to delete classic literature from books.

"That's a big victory," said Mike Hudson, Texas director of People for the American Way, a national organization that urged the board to retain the stories.

Early retirement

Hundreds of Texas public employees will be able to retire early if the Legislature adopts a plan proposed by the State Board of Education.

The board recommended that lawmakers change the retirement eligibility requirements of the 500,000-member Teacher Retirement System.

Presently, a school employee can retire with full benefits if his or her age and years of service totals 95. The board proposal would lower that total to 85.

Other highlights

A governor's taskforce told Clements the law automatically suspending driver's licenses for teens who abuse drugs and alcohol is not being enforced but could be an effective deterrent.

The panel also recommended that medical schools be required to teach a course on substance addiction.

- The closest statehouse race involved 15-year incumbent state Rep. Ed Watson, D-Deer Park, who lost by 12 votes to Republican Mike Jackson. A recount could change the results.
- The chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission said the commission is willing to assume jurisdiction over the Alamo if the Legislature wants that, but isn't pushing for the authority.

Bandera County

There's a new sign going up in your favorite bingo hall. It's a warning sign and also a sign of our times. The sign tells people how to alert Bullock's boys about bingo complaints.

"Help enforce Texas bingo laws!" the sign exhorts. "If you have questions or complaints about bingo games at this location meeting the rules and regulations of the state of Texas, write:..." and there follows the address and toll-free phone number of the office of state comptroller Bob Bullock, soon to be your friendly candidate for lieutenant governor.

There are 1,217 bingo halls in Texas, including several in Bandera County, and that translates into a lot of legal gambling in Texas.

Still they're not taking bets at Bandera Downs as the Texas Racing Commission continues to drag its feet on licensing tracks to provide pari-mutuel racing that was mandated by the people of the state a year ago.

The local track, with the help of a cross section of the community that includes governmental bodies and private interests, is working feverishly to assemble its application, which is due Dec. 15.

I've long since stopped paying attention to anyone's prediction of the pari-mutuel's maiden race, but I wouldn't expect it until next fall.

And that's a shame!

There is another game in town, or soon will be, and it's making its debut Saturday afternoon in the HemisFair Arena when Bandera's basketball Bulldogs takes on Smithson Valley as a prelude a San Antonio Spurs National Basketball Association game with the new Charlotte (N.C.) Hornets.

A $5 ticket (available at First State Bank and Bandera Ice House) is good for a courtside seat for the 3 p.m. Bulldog game, a 4:45 p.m. game between Uvalde and Victoria high schools, and the Spurs game which will feature some of the world's greatest athletes.

Sounds to me like the best entertainment value since the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association's Labor Day rodeo and the County Fair at Mansfield Park.

See ya there!

Tip leads to recovery of loot from burglary

Bandera county sheriff's deputies this week recovered nearly $3,000 in stolen merchandise including two semi-automatic rifles and several pieces of jewelry.

Deputy James Kimbrell recovered a Remington 30.06 rifle and a Winchester .12-gauge shotgun that were reported stolen by Danny Lee Campbell in October. The deputy recieved an anonymous tip as to the whereabouts of the guns.

Kimbrell also on a tip from a citizen recovered some $2,000 in jewelry from three juveniles this week. The jewelry was reported stolen by Deloras Olson in October.

Kimbrell and reserve deputy Bruce Elliker used a metal detector to find the jewelry, according to deputy Ken Mingo.

"They did a fantastic job of recovering those things," said Mingo.

Vicki Maxey, 24, of Lakehills was arrested Nov. 5 and charged with possession of marijuana.

Three men were arrested nd charged with driving while intoxicated in the last two weeks. Barry Bissell, 36, was arrested Nov. 3; Tony Celestino, 33, was arrested Nov. 14; and Michael Miller, 28, was arrested Nov. 15.

Nancy Oehler of Lakehills reported Wednesday, Nov. 2, a storage building was broken into. She reported missing a chain saw and a gas blower valued at $450.

Saturday, Nov. 5, Roger Isbell of Lakehills reported his place burglarized. A radio and VCR tape were reported missing.

Sunday, Nov. 6, Vicki Maxey of Lakehills reported her place was broken into and a VCR, cassette player and numerous tapes were reported missing.

Bloodmobile due in town Saturday

A plea for blood donors has gone out to Bandera County residents. South Texas Blood Bank Bloodmobile will be in Bandera Saturday, Nov. 19 from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Bloodmobile will park by Langford Realty, at the corner of Main and State Hwy. 16.

The blood donated Saturday will be credited towards the account for Linda Emmons, who died this week after an extended hospital stay.

All the blood donated Saturday will be credited to this cause, said Peggy Ashmore.

Reservist Keuten is AF graduate

Air Force Reserve Staff Sgt. Alfreda L. Keuten has graduated from the U.S. Air Force course for aeromedical specialists at Brooks Air Force Base in San Antonio.

She is the daughter of Alfred O. and Nell Day of Lakehills.

Graduates of the course are trained in aerospace physiology, emergency treatment procedures and medicine necessary for the care of airborne personnel. They also earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Local escapee surrenders in SA

Kenneth Alexander, 22, of Pipe Creek surrendered to Bexar County authorities last week, and was in Bandera County jail at press time.

Alexander, whose parole was revoked in June, eluded Bandera lawmen when they attempted to take him into custody. He remained at large until Thursday, Nov. 3, when he surrendered to a Bexar County constable, according to Bandera County sheriff's deputy Ken Mingo.

Alexander had been on probation since a 1986 conviction for entering a habitation with intent to commit theft.

—Mayor—

Fox said."

The council has another bill raised last week by councilman Skinner which calls for supervision and scheduling of the police force by the county sheriff, combining the municipal court secretary with the rest of the city administrative staff, and combining the city's street and water crews, a move which he said could result in the laying off of at least one employee.

One of the more controversial proposals among Mayor Adamietz's ideas was his suggestion to disband the Planning and Zoning Commission, a measure that is perhaps not so much related to the city's fiscal problems as it is with the mayor's running disagreement with outspoken P&Z member Linda Stein.

That proposal brought immediate disagreement from councilman Chuck Haver. "I'm not for disbanding the P&Z," he said, "because I think it will be needed in the future."

Stein's term on the panel expires in January, and she urged councilmen Monday to begin immediately trying to find her replacement.

Disbanding the P&Z Commission was one of two of the mayor's nine suggestions that was not meant to deal directly with the fiscal crisis. The other was meant instead to counter criticism of the council's "borrowing" from the city's own water department to pay for non water-related obligations.

"If we continue to nit-pick over 'borrowing' from the utility department, we should review the insurance premiums the city has been paying for all departments in the past and pro-rate the charges accordingly," read the last of the mayor's nine suggestions.

The mayor also took issue with at least two references in the Bulletin of a "midnight meeting" of the council on Oct. 10 to appropriate funds from the utility department. Minutes of the meetings show it was convened at 11:10 p.m., instead of "after midnight," and was adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

The mayor didn't name the city worker who will lose his job, along with officers Callahan and Schneider. "One city worker's job will have to be cut and we will ask that Melvin (King) take up the slack (in such areas as) reading meters," Adamietz said.

He also said that utility and street department workers will "work wherever they are needed," and he urged consideration of reducing the hours worked by employees.

He also suggested the city not renew its liability insurance policies. "A lot of small cities are doing this now," he said. Insurance costs have skyrocketed in recent years, making it a significant factor in the city's fiscal crisis.

Former Chamber of commerce secretary Judy Dunn is municipal court secretary and confirmed Monday that she has already talked with the mayor and would assume the dual role of city judge and court secretary. Dunn was given a 15.5-percent pay raise April 11 at the insistence of Judge Schneider. She now earns $1,000 per month.

Adamietz's proposal on a three-man police department is only temporary. "The city will maintain one police chief and two officers until such time as the city is operating in the black," the mayor recommended. He urged the recruitment and use of unpaid reserve officers "to help patrol." He would replace Callahan with a part-time employee paid a minimum wage of $3.35 per hour or offer part-time employment to Callahan herself, apparently also at a reduced rate of pay. He also called for installing a "night drop" to collect utility and municipal court money and consideration of reducing the hours the city offices are open.

The mayor's seventh point did not offer any concrete money-saving ideas but only pointed out that King has offered some alternatives that may also be considered.

Rhea Mansfield's Simbrasins called 'cattle of the future'

Bandera ranchers heard of a new breed of cattle that produces leaner, higher quality beef when they gathered for a charter membership drive of the International Simbrasin Association Nov. 3.

Simbrasin, billed as "the cattle of the future," is a breed that combines the qualities of the simmental and limousin cattle.

Thursday's meeting was designed to provide information for "all persons interested in the development of a superior beef breed, and for those who have animals from the original foundation herd," Rhea Mansfield and Raymond Batto were among leaders present to enroll charter members in the association.

For more information about the International Simbrasin Association, contact Raymond Batto or Rhea Manafield.

County keeps W.B. Kirkpatrick as appraisal district rep

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners decided to retain W.B. Kirkpatrick as their representative to the Banderp County Appraisal District despite protests from commissioner Dan Alanis and Louise Karr of the Citizens for Good Government.

Bandera County commissioners voted to approve the 1989 Bandera County Appraisal District budget at their meeting Monday, Nov. 14.

Commissioners also set a precinct budget workshop for Wednesday, Nov. 16 and heard from residents in Altamira Hills and Medina River Ranch concerning subdivision restrictions.

Commissioners declined to remove W.B. Kirkpatrick as director of the Bandera County Appraisal District, despite a motion from commissioner Dan Alanis and a petition from Bandera County citizens.

Alanis' motion to recall Kirkpatrick failed to gather a second from the other three commissioners after commissioners heard Kirkpatrick's response to Alanis' charges.

Kirkpatrick has failed to attend meetings and voted in direct opposition to the opinion of commissioners court, charges Alanis. "By not removing him (Kirkpatrick), we are condoning that behavior," he says.

Not all the 265 signatures of the petition, presented to commissioners at their Oct. 10 meeting, were from Lakehills, says Alanis. Some 115 had Bandera addresses and phone numbers and the other 250 were split between Pipe Creek and Lakehills, he says.

More signatures would be on the petition if more work was done, says Louise Karr, spokeswoman for the Citizens for Good Government. "That is an effort of five days and we didn't cover the whole county," she says.

Kirkpatrick recalled that he was told by commissioners at his appointment that he did not have a direct responsibility to the commissioners, but rather, he was to make decisions based on his best judgement.

Kirkpatrick said the appraisal district board felt so strongly about their $196,950 budget, that they sent it back a second time with information relating their decision.

When the budget process is behind the board, the appraisal district can concentrate on problems that have been brought to the board's attention, says Kirkpatrick. "Larry Reagan is doing a good job, he has made mistakes, and he has admitted to those mistakes," he said.

Based on the regulations covering the appraisal district, we are not to advise or direct him, says Mauer. In order to keep politics out of the appraisal process, "He will have to make decisions as best he sees as a concerned citizen." However, when a majority of the taxing entities reject an appraisal district decision, they should reconsider their decision, he says.

"If we start dictating to the appraisal district, we are going to circumvent the system. We should change the system rather than tamper with it," says Mauer.

Kirkpatrick's term will expire in January 1990.

Commissioners voted to accept the $195,210 appraisal district budget which has the chief appraiser's salary adjusted to the figure commissioners recommended at their Oct. 10 meeting.

The appraisal district board deleted the $1,740 raise for chief appraiser Larry Reagan as the commissioners requested, says Judge Mauer.

Commissioners scheduled a budget workshop session for Wednesday, Nov. 16, to set the commissioners' road precinct budgets. At the September and October budget meetings, commissioners knew they would have $539,261 in tax revenue for the precinct budgets, but they estimated how much each precinct would receive.

Commissioners will have adjusted their precinct budgets to conform with the actual property tax revenue for each precinct rather than the estimated revenue at Wednesday's meeting. Precinct 1 will have $134,222, precinct 2 will have $146,409, precinct 3 will have $101,542, and precinct 4 will have $157,087 from the 1988 tax collections.

Commissioners delayed action on reinstating the cancelled Altamira Hills subdivision.

The only permanent residents of the cancelled Altamira Hills Subdivision petitioned commissioners court to reverse their earlier decision to abandon the subdivision. Gary Whitfield and his wife protested the abandonment of the subdivision and complained that they were never notified.

Plans are afoot to run Santa Gertrudis cattle on the 160 acres, reports Gary Whitfield. The subdivision restrictions had prohibited raising any animal for commercial purpose.

The cancellation of the subdivision is laid out in the deed restrictions and that procedure was not used, says Whitfield.

Even though commissioners legally posted their notices, this action is not morally or ethically right, says Mrs. Whitfield.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

Wednesday, Nov. 30, 1988
Bandera, Texas

A Service of
Bandera County
Chamber of Commerce

CALL 796-4312 FOR APPOINTMENT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, ● even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 796-4312.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Bandera on Wednesday, Nov. 30, 1988.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstretricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts, cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

For more information or to make an appointment call 796-4312.

Tony Downing

Rodeo group elects Downing

Tony Downing was elected president of the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association at its monthly meeting, Nov. 9. Joe McMullan described to the association the development grant to study the covering of the rodeo arena.

Downing, who served as acting president in 1988, took office Nov. 9 as president. Also elected was Sheila Fries, vice president, and Doris Marshall, secretary. Lisa Tarr, the current secretary, was elected treasurer. All officers have a one-year term.

Clifford Flach of Medina and Leonard Ripps of Pipe Creek were elected to a two-year term to the board of directors. Jan Tallichet of Bandera was elected to a one-year term to complete Fries' term.

The association sent its flag with Australian rodeo champion Lulu Lundholm to be used in the Grand Entry at the Australian national rodeo finals Dec. 9-11 in Coonamble, New South Wales. The flag will be returned to Bandera complete with autographs of the Australian rodeo committee members.

In other action, the association rented office space in the Plaza Building to maintain a central office location and to be used as a site to coordinate activities.

81 local 4-Hers to compete in food show here Saturday

Some 81 local 4-Hers will compete at the Bandera County 4-H Food Show Saturday, Nov. 19 at 1:30 p.m. at the education building at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

Judges for the event will travel from Kerr and Medina counties for the event.

Recipe books containing recipes of all the entries will be for sale at the show.

Thomas Lealon Freeman

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McGuffin.

Hawkins, McGuffin wedding

Barbara Harrell Hawkins of Medina was married to Matthew Loyd McGuffin of Kerrville Friday, Oct. 29, in the Medina United Methodist Church.

Barbara is the daughter of Dr. Beth Hawkins of Medina. Matthew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. McGuffin of Ingram.

The bride wore a ballet length dress of white Chantilly lace with a juliet cap and finger tip veil. The dress was modeled after her mother's bridal gown and was designed by her cousin, Janine Harrell of San Antonio. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. Barbara's brother, Charles F. Hawkins of Dallas, gave the bride away.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mollie Hawkins Sharpe of Austin. The maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Jennifer Fuller, also of Austin.

The groom's brother, Mark Allen McGuffin of Fort Worth, was the best man. His groomsman was James Slaughter.

Members of the house party were Andrea Jimenez, Kristen Newman, and Martha Dyer, all from Austin. Page Barteau and Leslie Baker, the bride's cousins, also assisted.

The service was performed by the Rev. Claus Rohlfs and the Rev. Ann Lacasio, both of Medina. Florence Isaacs was the organist.

After a honeymoon trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the couple will reside in Kerrville.

Carolyn Battaglia

Cash, Battaglia rites

Carolyn Elaine Cash and Lee L. Battaglia were married at the Highland Park United Methodist Church in Dallas on Nov. 5. The Rev. Bill Smith officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Donna Bryant of Center point and Mr. and Mrs. B. Cash of Dallas. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Battaglia of Dallas.

Carolyn represented Boerne as Bergesfest Ispchess and was also a Greyhound cheerleader.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda the couple will live in Dallas.

Adult troop leader sought for 11 anxious Brownie members

"We have a lot of Brownies, but no leader," laments junior Girl Scout leader Debbie Foster, who says 11 young ladies in the first, second and third grades are anxious to get started in the many Brownie activities.

A leader doesn't have to be a mother or even a grandmother, but can be anyone who wants to work with young girls in the Brownie program, Foster says.

The only requirement, other than good character, is payment of a $2 training fee and attendance at a one-day training session in San Antonio, Foster said.

"The training is a lot of fun, and a leader doesn't have to do it right away. We'll work it in," she said.

Brownies undertake activities pretty much as decided by the leader, and those available include some camping trips, field trips, arts and crafts, and earning "try it" badges. Brownies generally meet once each week, but that also is up to the troop leader and the members, Foster said.

Anyone interested may call Beverly Gerlach at 751-3336 or Foster at 796-8268.

Co-op's anniversary stirs memories

By James Henry Frazer
Staff Writer

The open house Nov. 11 to celebrate 50 years of service by the Bandera Electric Cooperative stirred memories from retired employees as well as area electric customers.

Some 355 people attended the open house at the cooperative offices in Bandera, Comfort, and Leakey that commemorate the signing of the original charter, Nov. 12, 1938.

Joe Preston, who started with the cooperative in July, 1940 and retired in 1979, remembers drilling holes to put the electric poles in. When he worked the countryside, workers had an eight-foot steel bar with a bit on one end and a point on the other. They would pound what was usually rock with the bar by raising it up, dropping it by its own weight, turn it, raise it, and drop it again, says Preston. Over and over and over again.

The workers would have a spoon-like dipper to get the dirt out of the hole as they dug deeper and deeper, says Judge Tom Grant, formerly a rodman and inspector for the cooperative and son of one of the cooperative's founders, Captain Tom Grant. The extremely heavy bars would put "muscles in your earlobes" and wear out a pair of gloves every day, he says.

The job of digging holes took brute strength, but no awkwardness. "A man had to know what he was doing," says Grant.

The workers would dig a hole in that manner about five-and-a-half feet deep and three to four inches in diameter, says Leroy Sprott, who hired on in May, 1947 and retired in June, 1987. Then in the solid rock, they would load up to five sticks of dynamite, set the cap, and blow the hole to get the six-foot depth and shatter enough rock to get a diameter to put the electric pole in.

Then the work really began, says Sprott, as they'd have to "shovel all day" to get the broken rocks and dirt out of the hole. "Sometimes the resulting hole would be bigger than the top of a table and it would narrow as it went down." In that case, once the pole was in the hole, they had to tap the rest of the rocks back into the hole.

Air compressors weren't in widespread use until 1950, recalls Sprott.

Brush had to be cleared to get the poles and the trucks into the area to be worked. Six-foot cross-cut saws with a good partner were used in the early days of the cooperative, says Sprott. "All we had were axes and cross-cut saws to clear the right-of-way."

With the hole dug, and insulators put on the pole, the pole had to be raised. The steel gaff of four pike-poles were used to lift the pole up in the hole, says Percy Koennecke, who was hired by the cooperative in April, 1948 and retired in April, 1987. Beginning in 1967, boom trucks were used to raise the poles and set them in place, he says.

The wire would be strung out on the ground first and then the lineman would climb the pole, says Wayne Ruede, who hired on in March, 1952 and is currently a line superintendent with the cooperative. The wire would be carried up with the lineman or a rope would be used to raise it, he says.

Wire would be laid out on more poles, until the end of a series, says Koennecke. Then you would tighten the wire with a hoist (come-a-long) to get the right amount of sag (tension) in the wire, he says.

The tension on the wire has to be equal from one end to the other, says Raymond Hicks, who was the first president of the cooperative and is currently the secretary-treasurer. The sag is to allow for expansion and contraction in summer and winter.

The cooperative got its first bucket truck in 1972, which eliminated some of the climbing, says Ruede. Linemen must still climb the poles for some work. The poles can be from 30-feet to 65-feet high, he says.

The idea of electricity in the rural areas in the 1930s took awhile to catch on, says Hicks. A dollar meant something in those days. "You can't imagine what 4 bits meant to someone then."

Many people didn't have the $5 membership fee and the directors and others would sometimes pay the fee themselves, says Grant.

It was hard for many to visualize a use for electricity except for lights, and then they had kerosene lamps for that, says Hicks. They didn't see the uses of electrical water pumps and refrigerators in the days of wood cookstoves.

The cooperative worked out ways for people to buy electrical appliances, says Hicks. When submersible pumps came out, many more people wanted electricity. Once people without electricity saw what those that had electricity had in their homes, they came around, says Hicks.

A man showed one of the cooperative's director's his home one day, says Grant. It had one 25-watt bulb and a light switch. He'd switch on the light when he got home, find his matches, light his kerosene lamp, and turn off the light, says Grant.

Medina Children's Home to mark its 30th anniversary

Medina Children's Home will celebrate its 30th anniversary with a barbecue and other activities Saturday, Nov. 19.

The activities will begin at 11 a.m. and will be held on the campus of the home on Highway 16 between Kerrville and Medina. Members of the community are cordially invited to attend these activities, says Pat Chaney.

Medina Home began because of the involvement of the Medina community. The original group was known as the Medina Association.

The Medina Rotary Club also became involved in the effort to bolster the Medina public school system with students. Two of the Members of the 1958 Medina Rotary Club, Paul Garrison Sr. and Hough LeStourgeon will attend.

The Medina group asked the Church of Christ in Kerrville to investigate the possibilities of the Churches of Christ in Texas establishing a children's home. Through their combined efforts, Medina Home was established.

The home started with three boys. Since then it has grown to serve about 120 children per year. The home is licensed for ages 5 to 17.

In addition to the residential group care program for children, Medina Home also has the mother-child program for single women who need to keep their family together and provide for their young children. The mothers live and work at the home.

Medina Home is governed by a board of directors. It is privately supported by Churches of Christ and interested individuals. Admission to the home is based on need, without regard to race, religion, or sex.

Tarpley
By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

The Tarpley Baptist Church will host its covered-dish dinner at noon Sunday, Nov. 20.

The dinner is usually held on the first Sunday of the month, but has been delayed this month to be a pre-Thanksgiving dinner.

• The Williams Creek Extension Homemakers had their regular meeting Tuesday at the new home of Betty Thigpen.

Eight members and two visitors were present, including Alvina Reiber of Hondo and Mrs. Avis Todd of the Tarpley area.

After the business meeting, Marilyn Haner and Lillian Haner gave a report from the Extension Homemakers state meeting at Abilene, which they attended.

Roll call was answered with an answer to "what I do when I'm depressed."

Dec. 10 was set for the Extension Homemakers covered dish holiday supper, on Saturday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Tarpley Community Center.

• Mr. and Mrs. Elzie J. Dean were in San Antonio Friday and visited Marie and Don Newcomb and children Molly and Jonathan, and Wayne Perkins.

Elzie went for his medical check up and is improving nicely from his surgery.

Visitors of the Deans for the weekend were their grandson, Michael Dean and a friend Sha Griffin of Abilene.

• Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hood of Alaska are here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood.

The Hoods 50th wedding anniversary celebration was observed on Nov. 12 at the Tarpley Baptist Church.

Medina
By Barbara Walters — 589-2864

There will be a wild game barbecue to benefit Kenny McMahon on Saturday, Nov. 19 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. next to the Cider Mill in downtown Medina.

Plates will be $3.50 and meat will be available for purchase for $4 per pound.

Proceeds will be used to help pay medical expenses which Kenny has incurred since his dune buggy accident on Sept. 24.

• The Medina Jolly Elders have several activities planned for the holiday season, including their annual Thanksgiving turkey dinner Friday, Nov. 18.

The turkey, dressing and gravy will be furnished and members are asked to bring related foods for the noon meal. Guests are welcome.

On Friday, Dec. 2, members will go in the Baptist Church van to San Antonio to see the Christmas decorations and do some shopping. Anyone who wishes to go must sign up prior to that date with Lillian Whitehead or Andra Atchison.

Departure time from the church will be 8:30 a.m. Return time will be approximately 4 p.m.

On Friday, Dec. 16 the annual Christmas Party and gift exchange will take place. Details will be discussed at earlier meetings. Guests are also welcome to this party.

Anyone needing transportation may notify Andra Atchison, president at 589-2445.

• The members of the Medina United Methodist Women are preparing for their annual Christmas Bazaar, to be held Saturday, Dec. 3 at the Garden Center in Medina, starting at 9 a.m.

Many unique items will be on display to buy including crafts, food and baked goods. The community is invited and always looks forward to this sociable as well as beneficial event, organizers said.

DRT seminar

District representative Delma Cothran of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas will conduct a seminar at the Institute of Texas Cultures, at 10 a.m. Nov. 18 focusing on DRT growth as it pertains to new chapters.

Women who are not members of DRT and have a special interest in the Republic of Texas era due to ancestral lines are invited to attend, she said.

River authority, nursery recognized for xeriscaping

The Bandera County River Authority and the Gunsight Mountain Nursery were recognized for their promotion of Xeriscape by the third annual Texas Xeriscape Conference held in College Station.

Dorothy Mattiza, owner of Gunsight Mountain Nursery, and Ray Buck, executive director of the Bandera County River Authority, were nominated for the 1988 Xeriscape Awards.

They were recognized for a demonstration project in front of the Old Jail Building in Bandera as well as their work in promoting xeriscape by meetings and seminars.

Xeriscape is the selective use of plants in the landscape so that water is conserved. This may be done through native or non-native plants that are adapted to the climate.

The 26th annual Fall Fair Saturday, Nov. 12, featured an oat grist mill in full operation and the sale of 2-pound packages of corn meal.

One lady baked 16 fresh apple pies which were soon sold.

Local musicians furnished music for entertainment all afternoon.

• Last weekend visitors of Nita Hawkins included her daughter and husband, Marva Ann and Richard Hill of CalAllan. This week's guests were a sister-in-law, Margurrite Williams, of Conroe, and a friend, Margaret Bryan of Madisonalville.

• Corkey Lewis is a patient in Uvalde Memorial Hospital seriously ill.

Nita Cornelius suffered a partial stroke and was hospitalized a week, but is now back home.

Her husband Jess has also been a patient in the U.S. Veterans Hospital in Kerrville.

• Mrs. Arne Grienert of Vanderpool is a patient in Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital after an accident that fractured her arm.

• The Rev. Gordon Miller, pastor of Utopia Methodist Church will bring Thanksgiving community services at Baptist Church Sunday night.

Everyone is invited to come and bring a friend.

what's rustlin'

by bungy

A really neat kickoff to the holidays will be the Harvest Festival Bazaar of the Bandera United Methodist Church at the Youth Center, next to Ken's TV, on Saturday.

They'll have a cornucopia of arts, crafts and white elephants spilling out and devilish chili at noon.

The weeks ahead will see more of those sales here and there. Keep your Christmas dollars working in Bandera.

• Saturday night, Hank Thompson will be belting out "Whoa, Sailor" at the Cabaret. Maybe he should change that, for that night only, to "Whoa, Cowboy."

• John Pronk from Channel 8 TV in Dallas, called and wanted to know who in town had been put into the old jail house, climbed out the air vent at night to go dancing, and came back at dawn. He wants to come down and film the dancing escapee telling about it.

Now, I've heard these stories all over town, but do you think I could find one that would 'fess up this time? Come on, you guys, one of you come forward!

When I asked Alfred Anderwald, he gave me a fun bit of history. A miller named Browning used to work behind the OST restaurant. "Browning was the miller, Miller was the plumber, and Plumber was the funeral director," Anderwald chanted. They were all on original Main Street along with a doctor, barber, dry goods store, and others.

• Deer hunters are complaining about the warm weather. Not many deer are moving around.

I've got a good idea for some enterprisin,, kids. Hire yourselves out as "beaters," like they do in Africa, so you can get the game moving.

Hank Thompson

But be careful out there.

• A new, interesting business might be coming to our area. Belgian Coffee, Ltd., is looking for a ranch (farm) property to start a coffee plantation.

They're growing coffee in Beliz and also Kona, Hawaii, already. And they swore they'd import Juan Valdez to pick it! Maybe John Pronk would "do" that!

• Let's have some fun, and a really unusual Christmas shopping list for Bandera County. Let me know anything different that you might have for sale and we'll try wooing the local dollars.

Susie Short gives tips on water colors

"Autumn Water Colors" was the program presented by Susie Short Batman at the Fine Arts Club Tuesday, Nov. 1.

While club members and guests observed, the artist painted while she explained watercolor techniques. As they watched, a beautiful nature scene appeared.

Batman has studied art under her great uncle, Warren Hunter. Her latest honor was awarded when she was named artist of the month in a competition at the Coppini Academy of Fine Arts for a painting called "John 15 Verse 4-5."

An art major at Sul Ross University in Alpine, she also studied art at Schreiner College in Kerrville and at the Hill Country Arts Foundation in Ingram. She belongs to the Kerrville Art Group and is currently teaching art in Kerrville and Bandera.

The art of painting is therapy for the mind like aerobic exercise is therapy for the body, according to Batman.

Pecan show Saturday at Kerrville shopping mall

Pecan producers from five counties will gather at the Hill Country Pecan Show Dec. 2-3 at River Hills Mall in Kerrville.

"Any pecan producer, whether it be a yard, tree owner or an orchard owner, is eligible to participate," said John Allen, Bandera County Extension Agent.

"Each producer may enter one entry of each improved variety and as many natives as you have. If you do not know what variety or varieties you have, this is one good way to find out," said Allen.

One entry consists of 45 nuts of one variety, and all entries will be judged for ribbons and cash prizes, Allen said.

Grand Champion Shelling, Inshell, and Native Divisions receive $50 in cash and Reserve Champion will receive $25. They will both be awarded rosettes, and statistical categories for heaviest pecan, highest percent kernel, and lightest native will also be awarded rosettes.

For rules of the show, entry information, and schedules of arrival times and events, contact John Allen at the County Extension Office at 796-7755.

Kerr County association group plans dance, auction at YO Hilton ballroom

The Kerr County Fair Association is having a dance and auction on Wednesday, Nov. 23, at the YO Hilton Ballroom from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Wayne Kennemer and Texas Style will provide the dance music.

The auction, which starts at 9 p.m., includes horseback riding lessons, a deer rifle, and an Ace Reid original drawing.

Admission is $5 per couple.

Methodists plan bazaar to mark harvest season

Handicrafts, gift items and a country store will be just a few of the delights at Bandera United Methodist Church's annual Harvest Festival Bazaar Saturday, Nov. 19 at Bandera Youth Center. There will also be a chili dinner starting at 11:30 a.m. and serving until 1:30 p.m.

"There will be hand-made items, including wood crafts and handicrafts, and lots of good food," said spokeswoman Vernell Mullenax.

"Last year's festival was a great success, and we hope that everyone will come out and do some Christmas shopping, and enjoy the day with us."

Youth Center group to meet Tuesday

Bandera Youth Forum will meet Tuesday, Nov. 22 at 7:30 p.m. at Bandera Youth Center to discuss ideas for Youth Center activities and organizational structure.

"All those interested in this town's future — its young people — are urged to come to this meeting," said Maureen Sharp. "New ideas for Youth Center activities will be discussed, and new input is welcome and encouraged. New organizational ideas (for 1989) will also be discussed.

For more information, contact Janna Sandidge at 796-3718.

Photographic exhibit at Bandera Bank

A photographic exhibit by Carmilla Brown, official photographer of the 1986 Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train, will be at the Bandera Bank for the next two weeks.

Brown has exhibited at the Texas State Fair in 1986 and in an Americana exhibit in El Paso.

She spent five months in 1986 traveling over 3,000 miles in Texas by wagon train as part of the observance of the state's 150th birthday.

Many of the photos on display in Bandera were taken during that commemorative journey.

Larry Lafton, top, and Billie Lynn of Tip Top Tower Service in Pleasanton lower a section of radio station KHLC's tower Friday, Nov. 11.

Radio station moves tower

Radio station KHLC of Kerrville and Bandera will soon be a little easier to tune in on area radios thanks to a relocation of the station's transmission tower, says program director J.E. Blankenship.

The 3,000-watt station is moving its 360-foot tower to the top of a hill adjacent to Bandera Pass. The change in location will result in nearly a 1,000-foot increase in elevation, said station announcer Paul Hughey. The newly located tower will share a site with Dimension Cable, says Hughey.

The radio station's signal will be microwaved to the tower as is being done now to a temporary antenna, he says.

Once the re-erected 160-foot tower on the mountain is in operation KHLC's signal should reach clearly all the way to Ingram and maybe Hunt, says Blankenship.

"Our coverage to the south and east should stay the same or slightly improve," he says. "But our signal toward the Kerrville area will improve greatly. That's our main market area," he said.

Blankenship estimated that the new mast and main antenna would be in operation by next week with other, secondary equipment being installed later.

Holiday exhibit open

German-influenced Christmas tree paper ornaments, on loan from the Smithsonian Institution, are the focus of one of the trees in the Witte Museum's exhibition, "A Witte Merry Christmas: Tannenbaums to Tumbleweeds," opening Sunday, Dec. 4, at the Witte Museum, 3801 Broadway, San Antonio.

Just as it takes many volunteers and sponsors to support Bandera County Helping Hand, so it takes many officials to cut the ribbon on the new Helping Hand building, Nov. 5. Pictured are John Grimes, left, Oleta Davis, center president Roy Carpenter, Rev. B.J. Rogers, Comellia Rue, center director Mildred Treaster, Vic Purvis, county commissioner Pete Reed, and Linden Wheeler.

Cardiac specialist visits Bandera

Dr. Randy White, cardiac specialist at several major San Antonio hospitals, and president-elect of San Antonio Heart Association came to Bandera's Clear Fork Medical Center Friday, Nov. 11.

White met with Dr. Royce McAnally and his staff to go over protocol and usage procedures for t-PA, a new treatment that will soon be available in Bandera.

Activase, or t-PA, is state-of-the-art therapy in cardiac care, according to White, and in selected cases can virtually reverse the effects of an acute heart attack.

White is a graduate of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, and has been in private practice in San Antonio for five years, following his internship there.

Ribbon cut at Helping Hand Center

Approximately 150 attended the open house and ribbon cutting at the new Bandera County Helping Hand Center on Highway 16, Saturday, Nov. 5.

Roy Carpenter, president of Helping Hand, welcomed the group and the Rev. B.J. Rogers of Lakehills United Methodist Church prayed the invocation.

Special recognition was given by Linden Wheeler, building committee chairman, to John and Susie Grimes who donated the building, the county judge and commissioners who provided the lease, and Vic Purvis and others whose monetary contributions helped to pay to move the building.

Also recognized were Richard Young, Adrian Reid, and Olen Hughes who did structure and roof work, as well as working on the ducts. Kenneth Shinn was recognized for repairing plaster on walls. Ken Schrieber who installed the propane lines and donated the pipes, and Les Willoughby who did the telephone wiring. Volunteers came out almost every day to work on the building, says Comellia Rue.

Recognition was also given to Comellia Rue, founder of the Helping Hand, Mildred Treaster, center director, and Oleta Davis, assistant center director.

"Without our many volunteers, directors, supporters, and workers, we wouldn't have gotten the job done," says Rue.

The building is almost complete, with the building undergirding and some of the exterior walls to be completed. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company donated $200 towards completing the building. The money will be used to finish and weather proof the exterior wall and finish the eaves, says Rue.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

Many people have responded affirmatively to our requests for help. Holiday pledges of food and assistance have come in from all over Bandera county.

Karen Evans and a host of caring folks from Bandera Ranch Acres will be on hand Thanksgiving to handle the Meals-on-Wheels menu and delivery for the second year.

Floyd and Mary Portman, Harry and Vivian Webb and Pat and Bennie Barker will be on hand to open the center and set up for the covered dish luncheon to be held at the Silver Sage. This is an open invitation to any citizen of the county, regardless of age, to bring a suitable covered dish and share a Thanksgiving lunch with others.

For Christmas Day festivities, Joan Broomall has volunteered to open and set up for lunch. She will also be decorating tables and is looking for volunteers to lend a hand. So that Joan can spend time with her holiday guests, an additional person will need to volunteer to close up the Center following lunch and entertainment.

Frances Hayes, Minnie Hayes, Maria Ward, and the ladies of the Bandera chapter of the Eastern Star have volunteered to handle Meals-on-Wheels preparation and delivery for Christmas. Also, several individuals and church groups have offered to assist.

• There will be the usual Birthday Luncheon on Tuesday, Nov. 22.

• Representatives of the Humana hospital system will be at the center Monday, Nov. 21, at 2 p.m. to discuss recent changes in Medicare and to explain what the new federally-sponsored Catastrophic Health Plan means.

• The annual Christmas Bazaar on Dec. 3 at the Lutheran Church will feature some unique decorations for tables and walls and some real dazzlers for your Christmas tree put together by the girls at the center.

Volunteers are still needed. Several tables have been set up in one of the new classrooms and they are loaded with sequins, trims, fabrics, styrofoam, and all the necessities to make up a decoration for the sale.

Feel free to explore your creativity and help out the center at the same time.

• The Melodiers, our musical ambassadors, have a solid month of upcoming performances scheduled. So far they will be appearing on Dec. 2 at the Shoppers Jubilee in Bandera at 5 p.m. and at Purple Hills Nursing Home at 6:30 p.m.

They will perform on Saturday, Dec. 3, at the U.S. Veteran's Medical Center in Kerrville and have a tentative date to perform for the annual Volunteers Awards Tea at Kerrville State Hospital on Dec. 6.

They have been booked by the Kristkindle Market in Fredericksburg on Dec. 10 and for a performance at The Jellystone RV camp on Dec. 16.

These folks have been working on their Christmas recital material since about August and believe me, they really deserve the showcase opportunities they have been offered. Try your best to catch at least one of these scheduled performances.

The Rev. Franklin Pullin from the First Baptist Church used for his text Sunday Psalms, Chapter 40. Guests were Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick, Marley Johnson and Odie Grissom.

• Residents Martha Fitzpatrick, Christine Kalka, Ada Sehon and Evelyn Hostetter joined Aggie Batto, Fannie Caffall, Joyce Sellberg, and Dorothy Callahan on the patio Monday evening for Rosary, prayers and singing.

• Mama Jo Turner's guests have been Ethel Fitzgerald, Margie Teich, Bill Short, and Ray and Cheryl Turner.

• Martin Smith came by and took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ Wednesday evening, and had Bible reading for 17 residents Wednesday morning.

• Evelyn Akin came by Friday and took Nola Baldock out to lunch and spent the afternoon at her home.

• Janna Sandidge, who plays the piano and organ for the First United Methodist Church, played popular music for residents Wednesday evening.

• George and Kay Redus from Devine visited their cousin, Winnie Chaddock.

• Residents celebrating birthdays last week were Pearl Edwards, Stella Philapy and Eunice Johnson. They each received a birthday cake, a corsage, flowers and presidential birthday greetings. Family and friends came by to wish them a "happy birthday."

• Callie Rees is new to the Purple Hills' family.

• Lillian Ray visited friends in the home Saturday afternoon.

• Gladys Heisler visited Pearl Edwards.

• J.B. Edwards took his mother, Edith Edwards to services at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek.

• Norma Barr came by and took Mary Koehler to services at the Grace Lutheran Church and they enjoyed dining at the OST before Mary returned home.

Octogenarian C.E. Blackstock of Medina shows Medina fourth and fifth graders how to make arrow heads Friday, Nov. 11. "My wife and I have always enjoyed looking for points," he said. "I was curious and started trying to make them about 20 years ago." Blackstock's demonstration was part of the students' studies of Texas' history and the resident Indians.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

A fellow was talking the other day about his way of living. He was telling-actually bragging-about his experiences with 'quite a gal'. They live with each other. They coddle and cuddle every day. She is wild about him and he is crazy about her. In hardly no time at all, she discovered how she could twist him around her little finger. He likes it, and that is putting it mildly.

There is nothing strange about this at all. His experiences, his way of living, is a natural way of living. It happens regularly and everywhere. And thank goodness it does... Do you doubt or dispute this? DON'T. Ask any Daddy to tell you about his two or three year old baby daughter. He will tell you how true it is, just as this man did... (Incidentally, the twist of this little story shows how easy it is at times to form a quick, mistaken impression, a wrong conclusion... before all the facts are known).

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST

The Lower Colorado River Authority (hereinafter "LCRA") has filed an Application for Authority to Change Rates with the Public Utility Commission of Texas and the City of Austin. The effective date of the proposed changes, which involve the LCRA's 44 wholesale customers and 73 retail customers throughout LCRA's service territory, is December 8, 1988.

For the period ending May 31, 1990, the proposed changes are expected to result in a system-wide annual revenue increase of $46,675,446 which is a 17.80% increase when compared to the fully adjusted total operating revenues for the test year ending March 31, 1988.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. # Archaeologist finds 2,000-year-old site

By Carol Smith
Special Correspondent

Mico-area archaeologist, Ralph Snavely, has found Indian artifacts approximately 2,000 years old at a construction area in Mico.

Ralph's latest excavation was conducted on private property at the intersection of the Medina Dam Road and Friendly Point Road where impending construction would disrupt the present landscape. Several artifacts were discovered during the dig, dating from the middle Archaic period about 2,000 years ago.

The term "dig" is very misleading as the process used is more like dissection of the soil. From this type of research (mainly in the Balcones Fault area), Snavely has formulated a scenario of what it was like for the Indians to "make a living" during the Archaic period, 2,000 to 4,000 years ago. "Reconstructing the environment was very difficult," Snavely reflects. "It was much wetter and cooler and at one period there was a mini-ice age."

Items found at the excavation site include large pieces of flint used to produce arrow heads. "Large pieces were quarried, crudely worked, and then used as 'blanks'," Snavely explains. Smaller pieces were chipped off of the blanks for the production of arrow heads, he says. "Blanks were often used as a trade item to the people further south due to the scarcity of flint in their regions."

Since 1979, Snavely has concentrated on specifically how native people use natural botanical resources of this area. Snavely has determined that these ancient peoples processed vegetable matter and grains that made up the bulk of their diets. Their main sources of protein were various rodents and insects.

In the past five years, Ralph has also been working with spelunkers to study the use of caves in this region by early man.

Taking a walk with Ralph Snavely is like a learning experience: not only does he know the geology of this area, he is very well versed in the "flora and fauna". He has written 20 technical archeology publications.

The area was previously occupied by a thriving and prosperous ancient Indian culture, says Snavely. People don't suspect what the past was like until they receive that special thrill that comes when a person finds a piece of flint and realizes that this may be the first time a human has touched it since it was laid there 4,000 years ago.

Snavely has lived in the Mico-Medina Lake area for about 10 years. At present he is a graduate student at the University of Texas at San Antonio and hopes to be a doctoral candidate at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. Eventually, Snavely would like to teach at the college or university level. His master's thesis concentrates on the prehistoric subsistence patterns of the native American Indians of South Central Texas.

Snavely spends approximately four to five months a year working as a technical staff assistant for research at archaeological sites in the country of Belize (in Central America, below the Yucatan Peninsula) and the state of Oaxaca in southern Mexico. His doctoral thesis will concentrate on his extensive studies in these Mexican regions.

Despite his busy schedule, Snavely makes himself available for lectures and speeches (complete with a spectacular slide show) to local schools and almost any interested group.

Snavely is also an accomplished travel agent and tour guide for archaeological sites in Mexico. "In October of 1989, I'll take a group of local residents on a three-week tour into Mexico," says Snavely. The trip will be highlighted by a river rafting adventure in the tropical rain forest, he says.

Boy Scouts in Pipe Creek to hold bake sale Saturday

Boy Scout troup #144 will host a bake sale Saturday at Pipe Creek's Barrel House, starting at 9 a.m.

Brownies, pies, cakes, and cookies, will be available from 9 a.m. until noon, reports spokeswoman Susan Henry. Coffee and hot chocolate will be available, depending on the weather.

This is the main fundraising event for the Pipe Creek and Lakehills scout troop, Henry says.

Person interested in ordering a special pie or cake should contact Virginia Henry at 535-4513.

Monthy flea market set at LH Civic Center

A flea market will be held at the Lakehills Civic Center Saturday, Nov. 19, at 9 a.m.

Tables can be reserved for $7.50 inside the building. Outside spaces will be available for $5 outside the community facility, weather permitting.

The Medina Lake Betterment Association, which maintains the civic center, will sell hamburgers, hot dogs, cold drinks, and baked goods.

For table reservations, call Louise Terry at 751-3246.

Bids being accepted for MLVFD firehouse

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The Medina Lake Fire Department has exceeded its goal of $40,000 and is accepting bids for the new firehouse they plan to build on Park Road 37 across from the EMS ambulance building.

The new firehouse with three drive-through bays and six rolldown garage doors will be built at the department's property at 5th street and Park Road 37, reports department president Marion Heisler.

The 60-foot by 75-foot building will have six 12-foot by 12-foot doors for the fire trucks. There will be a driveway around the building, so trucks can be parked facing out without having to back into the building.

There will also be water pipes on the driveway outside the building so all the trucks can be filled at once, says Heisler. This will be an improvement, as trucks could only be filled one at a time at the old firehouse.

One side of the building will have a serving line with steam table and kitchen facilities. There will be space reserved to enclose a training room.

The other side of the building will have a storage room, restrooms, and a site for a communications room.

The building will have three doors for public entrance and 12 three-foot by four-foot windows.

The 4,500 square-foot facility will be large enough to have the spring and fall barbecues in the building, says Heisler. "The barbecues and associated donations are our main source of funds for the fire department."

The training room, communications room, and a room for lockers for the fire fighters will be completed after the building is erected and as funds permit, says Heisler.

The site currently has a well and water storage tank.

The department will take separate bids on the slab and construction of the building.

Ground breaking is planned before Christmas, says Heisler. The construction should be complete enough in April to hold the spring barbecue in the new firehouse.

The present fire house at Park Road 37 and Georges Road will be retained as a substation, with at least one truck kept there, and for storage, says Heisler.

The department also has a single-bay sub-station at the Pebble Beach subdivision with a single tanker-pumper truck kept there.

The fire department currently has three tanker-pumper trucks each with a capacity of carrying 900 to 1,000 gallons of water. The department also has an all-wheel drive Army one-ton vehicle with a 350 gallon capacity. A one-half ton utility truck is also in the department's compliment. It is used to carry a generator, coats, chain saws, and air tanks for breathing apparatus.

Public hearing planned on sale of Medina Lake water rights

By James Hase Fenzel
Staff Writer

The sale of Medina Lake water rights will be open to public comment by the present owners of the water rights, the Edwards Underground Water District, which could use its water to recharge the Edwards Aquifer.

The district will hold a public hearing at the Devine Community Center, Monday, Nov. 21, starting at 7 p.m.

The Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Counties Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 owns the water rights to Medina Lake and is considering selling those rights to the Edwards Underground Water District, which could use its water to recharge the Edwards Aquifer.

The results of a public opinion survey of voters and taxpayers in the district, conducted by the district, were released last week.

The survey showed that about half of the responders opposed the sale, but only a little more than a fourth returned their questionnaire.

The BMA will have held a public meeting Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. at Southwest High School in Bexar County for residents to have voiced their opinions on the issue.

The second public meeting will be held in Medina County will be Monday.

Though response to the public opinion survey was limited to 28 percent of district members in the three counties, less than 40 percent of those that did respond were in favor of the sale.

A questionnaire was mailed in September to over 4,200 taxpayers and voters in the BMA District. Of the 1,217 who responded, 36 percent favored considering the sale or lease if an offer was made, while 61 percent opposed it, reports Cliff Mueller, president of the BMA.

The remaining 3 percent of respondents had no opinion, he said.

Taxpayers, particularly those living in Medina County, were more likely than non-taxpayers to want the proposal considered. In addition, a majority of taxpayers who owned 20 or more acres supported considering the sale or lease, says Mueller.

While a majority opposed considering the proposed sale of lease, 87 percent favored having a public poll or vote if the issue does come before the BMA board of directors.

No offer to buy has been made by the Edwards Underground District, though they are studying the matter. "At this point, we have just begun talking with the Edwards District and we don't know what the offer might be," says Mueller. "Therefore, we made sure that the poll didn't propose anything specific in return for the water rights. Citizens are, understandably, hesitant to endorse a proposal until they know more facts.

"The public needs details and a specific proposal before we can determine whether people would accept or reject it," Mueller concludes.

Water from Medina Lake is currently used to irrigate crop land in Bexar, Medina, and Atascosa counties.

Chili cookoff raises $500 for Bandera Helping Hand Center

Saturday's chili cookoff at Pop's Place raised $500 in donations for Bandera County Helping Hand.

Auctioned items included the winning chili and mirrors and signs from beer distributors. A mirror donated by Butch Johnson received $100 in donations at auction and a hanging lamp received $125, reports Jerry Acord, manager of Pop's Place. A hunter's jacket from Tipton Carson Distributing in Kerrville brought $60.

Second place went to Lloyd Bastin Sr. and Joy Bastin of the Disabled American Veterans with their Hot Stuff Chili. Lloyd is the commander of the DAV Chapter 69 and Joy is the newly elected president of the auxiliary. Their entry brought in $25 at auction for the benefit.

Showmanship and third place went to Charlotte Clark with her 4Cs Chili. They had a small open-air cabin complete with roof on a trailer they have used as a float in parades. Her house has won her first- and second-places in many parades over the last nine years. Recently, Clark won second place at the Lakehills American Legion July 4th parade this year.

Honorable mention showmanship went to the Hoot 'n' Holler Lakehills Hillbillies with Tracie Love assisting Margie (Rosebud) Ramirez.

Worst chili dishonors went to Toni (Sam) Jimenez and Franklin (Blackie) Lespreance with a chili called Koon-se-Chili-lae.

The first annual chili cookoff for Bandera County Helping Hand had a packed house Saturday night as the crowd stayed to enjoy music performed by the Little Horse duet. Some 500 people were estimated to visit the cookoff during the day, reports Accord.

The next chili cookoff planned at Pop's Place is May 13 for the Pipe Creek EMS Support Team and June 10 for Helping Hand, reports Acord.

Monica Wilson

Pipe Creek's Monica Wilson becomes certified paramedic

EMT Monica Wilson was certified as Pipe Creek's first paramedic Nov. 9, thus enabling the Pipe Creek EMS to give better care to its patients.

Wilson started her training in May and ended her classroom instruction in September. Then followed 100 hours of internship in hospital emergency room, intensive care unit, operating room, and the psychiatric ward. Other field training was 100 hours of ambulance rotation, with at least seven calls requiring the use of advanced life support skills, which she completed Oct. 26.

She was certified Nov. 9 after taking the written state exam and the state skills test.

A paramedic has advanced life support skills, which separates them from basic or special skills EMTs. ALS involves use of a heart monitor, administration of cardiac drugs, intravenous therapy, and endotracheal (breathing) tube therapy, all under medical supervision, such as by radio contact, says Wilson.

"Because of the long transports (from Pipe Creek to San Antonio hospitals), we can give better care in the field," says Wilson.

Two more EMTs from Pipe Creek will complete their paramedic training in January, reports EMT Tom Cavin. A fourth EMT will start training in March or April, he says. "Pipe Creek is upgrading our level of care so we can be a lot more effective."

Future plans include upgrading paramedics to instructor status, says Cavin.

Benefit successful

A benefit Saturday, Oct. 29, to help cancer patient Patricia Daniels raise funds to pay her medical bills achieved its goals, said spokeswoman Louise Barton.

—Murder

had earlier told Texas Rangers that Clark told him two weeks prior to Sherwood's death that he knew how to make some money and that Sharon Sherwood wanted her ex-husband killed. Graue told Rangers that Clark admitted to him he killed Randy Sherwood.

Sherwood's body was found by business associates July 16, 1987, in his Lakehills home. He had been the owner of Randy's Rodeo in San Antonio, and Sherwood Van Lines, and at one time ran unsuccessful campaigns for Bandera county judge and Bexar County commissioner.

No arrests were made in the case until October, 1987. At that time, Sharon Sherwood, James Michael Clark and Robert Coalson were arrested around Oct. 5 and 6, in connection with the murder and Corriher was arrested in the latter part of October.

Clark was indicted when the grand jury met in October, and the other three were indicted in November.

Sharon Sherwood and James Michael Clark were both to be defended on murder charges by attorney Roy Barrera, Jr., but when the grand jury indicted Clark, and his sister, Sharon Sherwood, were arrested at the Cimarron Apartments near the medical center complex in northwest San Antonio. Clark testified he had just come from the bathroom, after injecting cocaine, and blood was still trickling down his arm from the needle track when Texas Rangers Joe Davis and Al Cuellar and a Leon Valley police officer came in, grabbed him and cuffed him.

Clark admitted he was crying, hysterical and "strung out," but said he asked several times to see an attorney, and that he was told by officers that if he didn't talk, he would be given a "lethal injection."

Clark's mother testified that Sharon Sherwood was also hysterical, but that she "does not do drugs."

Sharon Sherwood later testified that Texas Ranger Al Cuellar used scare tactics to intimidate her into signing a statement implicating her in the murder. According to the statement she signed at the time, she said she would "give up her diamond ring if someone would bump off" Randy Sherwood.

Barrera questioned Cuellar at great length, at times asking him to repeat testimony. Barrera said Cuellar wrote "what he needed, based on his investigation," on Sherwood's statement, and Cuellar retorted "I told her we had the ring, and we knew it was a payment."

Cuellar's testimony was eventually discredited, and Sharon Sherwood's statement was removed.

Corriher and Coalson are set to go to trial Dec. 5, but Curry said it is possible charges will be reduced, since there is a doubt whether both men should be tried for murder.

"To commit murder, you have to intentionally cause the death of an individual," Curry said. He called the circumstances of the murder "bizarre," and said their participation was questionable.

Sharon Sherwood's indictment is still pending, according to records in the county clerk's office.

Clark could be paroled in 15 years.

New school nurse likes Cubs and Spurs

Going to Spurs basketball games and being a Den Leader for the Cub Scouts are what BJHS and BHS nurse, Lo-Rena Scott, does in what little free time she has.

"I really don't have time for hobbies," said Mrs. Scott, the mother of BHS senior John Scott.

BHS students to vie in Citizen Bee

Bandera High School students will participate in a social studies academic competition which could lead to a scholarship, prizes and a study trip to Washington, D.C. later this year.

The Citizen Bee is an academic competition that focuses on social studies and progresses through school, regional, and state events. Finalists compete for the national title in Washington in June 1989. Three Bandera students will advance to regional competitions with top students there going to the state finals later this year.

State winners earn a trip to Washington to participate in the Foundation's government studies program and the competition.

Claire Roberts, government teacher at Bandera, will be coordinating the event.

'Dogs due at SA arena

Basketball season started in Bandera with the boy's varsity and junior varsity teams playing their first scrimmage against the Smithson Valley Rangers at the new Smithson Valley High School.

All during football seasaon Coach Long was working hard with the boys in off-season to prepare them for the upcoming season. Football players who decided to play basketball were given several days to 'rest and recuperate' before starting practice, and some boys had only two days of practice to get ready for the scrimmage.

The 'Dogs seemed to do better in the second half which showed all they needed was a little time to warm up.

The 'Dogs will open their season by playing the Rangers again Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Hemisfair Arena. The opening Spurs game will follow against the Charlotte Hornets. Tickets for the games are available at the High School office or at the Arena itself.

Students agree with voters

While everyone 18 and over was voting for various elections on Tuesday, Nov. 8, some thought at Bandera high school, the students were missing out on all the action.

Mrs. Claire Roberts, the high school government and history teacher, decided to try a student "mock election."

During first period, students voted for President and Vice President of the United States. At the end of first period, Mr. Delamain came around to collect the ballots.

Government classes counted the votes, and after third period it was obvious who the high school students would elect. Bandera students agreed with the rest of the voters, electing Bush and Quayle for President and Vice President. Bush had 54% of the votes, Dukakis had 15% and write-ins had 1%.

Alkek almost full, board talks of another school

Bandera School Board members heard superintendent Ted Dockery discuss a new elementary school in Pipe Creek or Lakehills, and did not vote on the appraisal district budget at their meeting Nov. 15.

"All but one room is now being used at Alkek (elementary school)," Dockery told the board. He suggested they begin to think about the possibility of building a new elementary school in the Pipe Creek or Lakehills area. The superintendent said that area was the most rapidly growing area in the school district.

Trustees Emmett Dalton and Hop Campbell expressed concern that Joe Hearn, the BISD representative on the appraisal district's board of directors, had apparently not acted in the board's interest. Voting to approve or disapprove the appraisal district budget was on the board's agenda.

"I was disappointed with our representative," said Campbell "and with the representation he was supposed to have given us."

"I don't think he listened to the board," said Dalton. "I think the directors should have handled two months ago what we're having to deal with.

"I'm not happy with this, and I resent having to do this tonight."

Commentary

The beginning of the holiday season is rolling around with the celebration of Thanksgiving Day on Nov. 24 of this year.

Thanksgiving Day occurs on the fourth Thursday in November every year, and is a legal holiday in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Canal Zone, Guam, Puerto Roci and the Virgin Islands.

Complete with roast turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pies, there is no holiday observed that is so distinctively American as Thanksgiving. It is a time for giving thanks for the blessings the year has brought.

The celebration of this day originated in 1621 in America, but the inclusion of religion didn't occur until 1623. This is the year most people believe Thanksgiving began in America.

One of the ways in which the United States generally celebrates Thanksgiving is the sharing with the less fortunate. Churches, rescue missions and charities make it their goal to see that no one goes hungry on this truly American holiday.

Most importantly, it is a day for the gathering of the family. Arthur Guiterman once wrote of this holiday:

"So once a year we throng, Upon a day apart; To praise the Lord with feast and song, In thankfulness of heart.

— Ronda Raser

Theater arts, speech students, tour Trinity drama facilities

Theater arts class and speech class from the high school and junior high attended a field trip to Trinity University Friday, Nov. 4.

Chamber Theater performed five individual acts. The first skit was written by Edgar Allan Poe, and tells of a young man who is on the brink of insanity and kills the old man he takes care of. He almost gets away with it, except for the "Tell-Tale Heart."

Ichabod's last ride, an excerpt from "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," told of the spooky, yet comical story of Ichabod Crane, the schoolmaster that fell for a spooky tale.

W.W. Jacobs's story of suspense, "The Monkey's Paw," was the third skit to tell of a cursed talisman that was thought to have brought sorrows in trade for a wish.

The fourth skit, "The Necklace," was a story of greed and its high price.

"The Notorious Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," was the fifth skit about a smart aleck who finally learned his lesson.

All the skits were well performed, according to the students.

Kelly leads BPOA

Business Professionals of America elected officers and members for the 1988-89 school year. President is David Kelley; Vice President, Kim Lakachik; Secretary, Christy Parker; Treasurer, Ronda Raser; Reporter, Jevonne Meyer; Sergeant at Arms, Kim Kibbe; Parliamentarian, John Scott.

Business Professionals of America is a professional organization for secondary, post secondary, and collegiate students enrolled in vocational education programs, preparing for careers in business and office occupations.

Involvement in the club helps students develop leadership skills, poise, self confidence, communication skills and the ability to be able to work with people in the business workd, according to sponsor Mrs. Kathy Stevens. The club plans a trip to the word processing center and will hear various speakers on careers.

Sweetheart chosen

Senior Michele Hermann was chosen Bandera High School's 1988 football sweetheart at the Homecoming Pep Rally, Nov. 4.

Football sweetheart has been a tradition at BHS for over 26 years. The selection process begins when the football team nominates approximately three girls that have shown outstanding support and spirit toward the team. Then, the team votes by means of a secret ballot to decide who will be football sweetheart.

In the past, football sweethearts have either been a senior girl or a teacher.

Michele is Co-Captain of the Varsity cheerleading squad. She is also editor for the Pen-N-Paw in the Bandera Bulletin, and a member of Business Profession-als of America.

"I love supporting the guys," said Michele, "I think they were all winners, because it takes a winner to keep going out during a tough season. I feel honored being elected football sweetheart."

Retakes set

Junior High picture retakes are set for Monday, Nov. 21.

G & T see Madla

From poetry writing to zoology, 14 gifted and talented students and three teachers attended a variety of sessions held at the Madla Ranch Monday, Oct. 31.

Joe Craven attended the snake show and said, "I liked the show because I got to handle many different snakes and was able to understand and respect snakes. I also enjoyed the archaelogical diggins and the physics in nature sessions."

Other available sessions included: nature photography, where students developed their own film; historical cemetary and rubbings tour; botany and zoology; math in nature; oil painting; T-shirt painting; creative writing; nature walk; and poetry writing.

Since the GT class is new this year, the students are studying different topics including brain hemisphere dominance test taking techniques, critical thinking skills, self esteem and motivation, and research skills. This will lead to independent research projects to be developed during the second semester. Also, many professional areas and interests are covered each Friday by a different guest speaker.

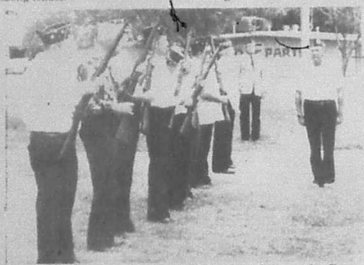
Medina pastor to speak at special Thanksgiving services

The Rev. Ann Locasio from Medina United Methodist Church will be the guest speaker at the Bandera County Thanksgiving service Sunday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. The service will be held at First Baptist Church in Bandera.

The Rev. Franklin Pullin of Bandera's First Baptist Church will be the choral director and song leader.

Pullin invites church members and all residents of Bandera county to the service. Refreshments will be served following the service.

Bandera County Christian Fellowship is sponsoring the event. Other activities sponsored by the group include Easter Sunrise Service and the Cowboy Camp Meeting.



Veterans prepare a salute to Veterans Day at the Bandera County courthouse Nov. 12. Members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled American Veterans participated.

—Obituaries

Ruby Nell Kothmann Albert

Ruby Nell Kothmann Albert, 56, of Bandera, died Saturday, Nov. 12, in Humana Hospital in San Antonio.

She had lived in Bandera since 1974. She was born Jan. 12, 1932 in Mason, and was married to Charlton E. Albert on July 27, 1956 in San Antonio. She was a member of Grace Lutheran Church in Bandera.

Survivors include her husband Charlton Albert of Bandera; two daughters, Cindy Coss of Crystal Lake, Ill., and Dianne Farmer of Spring; one son Sammy Albert of Bandera; two brothers Raymond Kothmann and Daniel Kothmann, both of Menard; and four grandchildren.

Services were Wednesday, Nov. 15, in Grimes Chapel with the Rev. Sheldon Hermanson officiating.

Burial was in Bandera Cemetery.

Mary Swayze Stevens

Mary Swayze Stevens, 88, of Bandera died Monday, Nov. 14, in Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital.

She was born Dec. 21, 1899, in Yazoo City, Miss. She moved to Center Point as a child and taught school in Kerrville and Junction until marrying Homer T. Stevens in 1929. She also taught school in Medina.

She was a member of the [illegible] Garden Club and the Medina Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son Homer T. Stevens of Bandera, and three brothers, Pat Swayze of Irving, Dick Swayze of Center Point and Francis (Fuzzy) Swayze of Kerrville.

Graveside services were Tuesday, Nov. 15, at Oak Rest Cemetery in Medina with the Rev. Wesley Stevens officiating.

Ephraim L. Caffall

Eph Caffall, 81, of Bandera died Saturday, Nov. 12, at St. Luke's Hospital in San Antonio.

He had lived in Bandera since 1935, after moving from San Antonio. He was born Dec. 19, 1906, in Tarpley, in a house his father, Tom Caffall, built. He was a rancher in Bandera County for many years. He worked as an aircraft mechanic at Kelly Field, and was married to Linnie Jeffery on Aug. 18, 1928, in Corpus Christi. He also worked for a time at Mooney Aircraft in Kerrville, and Swearingen Aircraft in San Antonio.

Survivors include his wife, Linnie Caffall of Bandera; two sisters, Rena Sandidge of Tarpley and Vera King of Bandera; two brothers, Leland Caffall of Bandera and T.H. Caffall of Rio Hondo. Pall-bearers were Rob Sandidge, Dan Sandidge, Russell Zickler, Keith Goode, David Allen Jeffery, and Glenn Jeffery.

Services were Monday, Nov. 14 at Bandera United Methodist Church with the Rev. Jarrell Sharp officiating.

A Masonic burial at Bandera Cemetery followed.

David Reid

David Reid, 24, of Albuquerque, N.M., died Nov. 15, in Albuquerque.

He lived in Albuquerque since January after graduation from Texas A&M with honors. He was born in Brownfield. He was involved in a motorcycle accident several weeks ago in New Mexico.

Survivors include his mother and father, Judy and Jerry Reid of Abilene; grandparents, Vivian and Jack Taylor of Levelland; and two brothers, Doug Reid of Abilene and Dan Reid of Houston.

Services will be at the First Baptist Church in Medina at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 20 with Tommy Curbo officiating.

Burial will be in Oak Rest Cemetery.

Annie Geneva Keese

Annie Geneva Keese, 80, of San Antonio, died Thursday, Nov. 10, in San Antonio.

She was born in Medina and lived there until moving to San Antonio two years ago. Her husband, W.L. Keese preceded her in death in 1986. She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include a son, Gerald Keese of San Antonio; a sister, Vada Miears of Ingram; a brother, Wilson B. Norwood of Kerrville; two grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and eight great-great-grandchildren.

Services were at Grimes Chapel, Saturday, Nov. 12 with Martin Smith officiating.

Burial was in Oak Rest Cemetery in Medina.

Linda Emmons

Linda Emmons, 41, of Pipe Creek died Wednesday, Nov. 16 at Humana Women's Hospital in San Antonio.

She is survived by her husband, Rex Emmons; and three sons, Scott, Brett and Thad Emmons.

She was a member of the Bandera Independent School District Board of Trustees.

Funeral services were pending at press time.

NOTICE OF AN APPLICATION TO APPROPRIATE PUBLIC WATERS OF THE STATE OF TEXAS
Notice is given that WILLIAM N. ALLAN, and wife THELMA B. ALLAN, Box 23, Tarpley, Texas 78883, applicants, seek a permit pursuant to sec. 11.121, Texas Water Code, and Texas Water Commission Rules 31 TAC sec. 295.1, et seq. to divert not to exceed 300 acre-feet of water per annum from two springs, approximately 14 miles southwest of Bandera, Texas, adjacent to Hondo Creek, tributary of the Frio River, tributary of the Nueces River, Nueces River Basin in Bandera County, Texas. Water will be pumped from the springs through a covered concrete water storage tank to a small pressure vessel for filtering and chlorination. The water will be sold to customers for municipal purposes in bulk quantities. The storage tank will have a capacity of 206,000 gallons and will be in the Antonio Gomez League, Abstract No. 154 at point North 38 degrees East, 3850 feet from the south corner of the league. The vessel will have a capacity of 3750 gallons and will be in the aforesaid league at a point North 13 degrees East, 5750 feet from the said league corner. Water will be diverted from a spring adjacent to the north or left, bank of Hondo Creek that is North 15 degrees East, 4,500 feet from the said league corner at a maximum rate of 0.22 cfs (100 gpm) and a spring adjacent to the south, or right, bank of Hondo Creek that is North 40 degrees East, 5,100 feet from the said league corner at a maximum rate of 0.22 cfs. (100 gpm.
Application No. 5197 was received on September 27, 1988, and accepted for filing on October 13, 1988. The Executive Director has reviewed this application and declares it to be administratively complete.
No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person requests a public hearing. Any such request must be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and telephone number of the requester; (2) the application number or other recognizable reference to this application; (3) a brief explanation of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester would be adversely impacted by the granting of this application; and (4) a clear statement of the objections of the requester or represented persons.
This application will be presented to the Commission for final decision on January 16, 1989 at 10:00 a.m. in Room 118 of the Stephen F. Austin State Office Building, 1700 No. Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas unless a sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of newspaper publication of this notice. If a hearing request is filed, and the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue relevant to the decision on the application, and/or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission will remand the application for public hearing. If this application is remanded for hearing, no further notice of the hearing or hearing date will be issued other than advising all interested persons of the time and place where the hearing is to convene. There fore, all individuals who wish to be notified of the setting of a hearing must submit a written request for notification to the Texas Water Commission.
Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to Claire P. Arenson, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-7875.

Congressional tax cutting to benefit farmers here

Farmers and ranchers will benefit from the repeal of two taxes, according to ... of Tarpley, president of Bandera County Farm Bureau.

"On the last day of Congress, farmers and ranchers got two big corrections in tax laws," said Haner. "One dealt with deisel fuel tax and the other, the so-called 'heifer tax,' pertained to an income tax provision regarding expenses," he said.

One correction restores a tax exemption on farm-used fuel at the retail level. The "heifer tax" restores preproductive expensing of livestock.

"Both tax corrections are very important to the farmers and ranchers of this county," Haner said. "The Budget Reconciliation Act passed by Congress last December, changed the collection point for the deisel tax from the retail to the wholesale level, forcing users to pay the tax and then apply for a refund."

Both taxes have now been repealed by the technical corrections bills passed just before congress adjourned, he said.

American Farm Bureau Federation credits Texas producers with playing a key role in obtaining final passage of the bills. Hundreds of letters were received by Texas members of congress, Haner said.

Few women opt for careers, pastor tells banking group

Few women actually choose to work, the Rev. Barbara Ruth told members of the Hill Country Chapter of the National Association of Bank Women, but those who do provide a major part of the nation's economy.

The pastor of Gaddis Memorial United Methodist Church in Comfort was joined by the audience in giving a rousing cheer for the working women of America. She spoke to the bank women during their monthly meeting in Welfare.

Members continued to work on plans for the first state convention of NABW to be held in the Hill Country, which is scheduled for March in Kerrville. Up to 300 women and their husbands are expected to attend.

Bandera banking women present at the meeting included Elizabeth Batto, Carol Ann Boyle, Kay Camp, Deborah Hutcheson, Opal Word and Brenda Smith.

Bandera's Albert Alkek dropped from list of richest men

Bandera oilman and philanthropist Albert Alkek, 77, has been dropped from the list of the 400 richest men in America by Forbes magazine, though it estimates his fortune at $310 million.

"Continued oil industry weakness and unclear stock holdings at this point make (Alkek's) net worth difficult to determine," the magazine said.

Alkek has ranked as high as 56th on the list of 400 richest persons, but was dropped off the list two years ago and reappeared last year. His worth last year was estimated at above $310 million.

Alkek borrowed $250 from his rancher-father in the 1930s to try his luck in the up-and-coming oilfields. His first well became a producer in 1939, the magazine said.

He met mentor-patron Harry F. Sinclair, founder of Sinclair Oil Company, in 1941 and the company became Sinclair-Alkek Company in 1948 and Sinclair's interest was bought by Alkek in 1952.

Since 1965, the annual volume of Alkek's personal stock market trades has been $75 million, Forbes said. He is the biggest individual giver to Baylor College of Medicine and Methodist Hospital in Houston and has made sizeable donations to Bandera County, Bandera Independent School District, the University of Houston at Victoria, St. Mary's University in San Antonio, and Texas Military Institute in San Antonio.

Friend's recommendation aids in picking agent

A friend's recommendation is the single most important factor used by prospective Texas homebuyers when selecting a real estate agent.

More than half the homebuyers responding to a survey by the Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University said the recommendation of friends carries the most weight when selecting an agent or broker.

Another 24 percent cited the firm's reputation as the most important criteria for agent or broker selection. Others said they had used the agent previously (5 percent) or saw the firm or agent's name on a yard sign (5 percent).

Nearly three out of four homeowners said they used or were using an agent to sell their home. Those selling more expensive homes were more likely to use an agent.

Keeping the seller informed was rated as the most important service provided by the agent. Other services sellers said they wanted from an agent included showing the home to appropriate buyers, advertising the home, devoting sufficient time to the sale and providing advice on the initial asking price.

"These results indicate agents and brokers need to provide a number of services well to draw a broad clientele," said Dr. Richard L. Floyd, Center director. "Clients expect their real estate agent to provide a variety of different services."

A report on "Factors Related to the Use of Real Estate Agents" is available from the Real Estate Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843-2115 for $1. Request publication number 640.

Local officials attend Houston Eastern Star meeting

Some 4,507 delegates, including eight from Bandera, attended the 106th session of Grand Chapter Order of the Eastern Star in the Houston Astro Arena Oct. 27-29.

Allie Dorine Wheeler, worthy matron; Warren Wheeler, worthy patron; Vera Kirk, associate matron; Nell Smith, secretary; Louise Leibold, treasurer; Mary Jo Eason, associate conductress; Gay Carnes, past matron; and Dorothy Littlepage, dual member represented Bandera OES Chapter 643 at the event.

" 'The Giver and the Gift' session was beautifully presided over by Mrs. Sherrill R. Coin, worthy grand matron and Mr. B.F. Hutson, worthy grand patron," said Dorine Wheeler.

"Friday evening the district five banquet was held at the Marriott Hotel carrying out a fiesta theme," she said. "Dorothy Littlepage gave the welcome and Warren Wheeler gave the invocation."

"Part of the program included a style show of costumes of different countries."

Dorine Wheeler represented Bandera in a Polish costume; Vera Kirk represented her Alsatian heritage; and Mary Jo Eason wore a Mexican dress.

"The session ended Saturday night at the 107th installation of grand officers," said Wheeler. "Doris Efird was installed worthy grand matron and Harry Cunningham was installed worthy grand patron.

"The 107th session of grand chapter will be held in Fort Worth in October 1989."

Dodson to step aside as Bobcat grid coach

Jerry Dodson

Medina High School's Jerry Dodson has decided to step aside as head football coach, he said this week.

Dodson said M[illegible] that he had requested school superintendent Jerry Huie to re-assign him to the position of junior high coach. "I felt like it was time to step down," he said. "It seemed like there was need for a change," said Dodson. "My wife and I like living in Medina and we didn't want to leave the area or the school," he said.

Dodson took over the reins of Medina's athletics five seasons ago and collected a 13-35-2 overall record for varsity football during that time.

Superintendent Huie confirmed that Dodson would continue to teach PE, history and driver's education and would "most likely be re-assigned to junior high athletics."

"We [illegible] opportunity to improve our athletic program," said Huie. "We are now looking for a new head football coach with a certification in math also," he said.

"With a junior high coach the kids can practice after school three days a week, have a Thursday game and then the coach can scout for the varsity on Fridays," he said.

"We think this will help develop more team spirit at an earlier level. He (Dodson) is a real asset. He has such a high moral leadership with the youngsters. We're glad he's staying," Huie said.

The Bandera Bulletin

Our 45th Year, No. 20 | Thursday, Nov. 24, 1988 | Twenty-five cents

It's turkey day time again and this fifty-pound-plus monster's look reflects his general attitude toward the whole idea. Actually the [illegible] Roy King at Medina's Camp Corpus Christi and he is scheduled to help produce little turkeys, not serve as a main course. We here at the Bulletin wish you all a happy and safe holiday. Have a Happy Thanksgiving!

Medina rancher Woody Ousley holds a traditional Thanksgiving dinner guest Monday, Nov. 21. Ousley has several of the birds and hasn't decided which one will grace his holiday table. This gobbler was making a great attempt to look skinny while being detained for his photograph.

Recount confirms Fitzgerald's victory

A complete recount of ballots cast in the Nov. 8 general election for commissioner in precinct 1 Thursday left the result unchanged and confirmed the election of Republican Cotton Fitzgerald of Pipe Creek over Bennie Barker of Wharton's Dock.

Recounted returns indicate that Fitzgerald gained 18 votes during the recount while Barker gained four, increasing the Pipe Creek man's majority to 50 votes out of 1,172 votes cast.

Fitzgerald's winning total was 611 to Barker's 561.

"While I'm disappointed that I didn't make it, I am pleased with the numbers," Barker said following the recount. "I am extremely grateful to all my supporters and I wish Cotton the best of luck during his term as commissioner."

Barker, who asked for the recount when returns announced after the election showed him trailing by 36 votes, praised the election workers who originally counted the ballots. "The recount did not reveal any major mistakes and the additional votes were simply from determining a voter's intent, which is sometimes difficult to determine accurately."

The recount was performed in [illegible] hours by a counting team headed by Mae Vian Meyer and including Robert Miller, Clare L. Willis and Beth M. Hempstead. Barker's supporters contributed the money to pay the expenses of the recount.

County Judge Ray F. Mauer observed the entire process and other observers included Barker; Johnnie Lou Newcomer and Joanne Hempstead, representing Barker; and Nick Johnson and Patricia Barker, representing the Bandera County Democratic Party. The Republican Party did not designate observers, but Judge Mauer is a Republican.

An observer representing Fitzgerald was not permitted to observe because Fitzgerald did not execute the proper certificate required by the Texas Election Code. Fitzgerald, who was ill, made a brief appearance and then returned home to await the results.

The recounted returns gave Fitzgerald nine additional votes and Barker one additional vote in voting precinct 1, Barker's home box that includes Wharton's Dock, and Fitzgerald three more votes and Barker one more in voting box 2, Pipe Creek.

Fitzgerald picked up six additional votes and Barker gained two among absentee voters.

Cotton Fitzgerald

The recounted returns

| | Voting Pct. 1 | Voting Pct. 2 | Absentee Votes | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Fitzgerald | 212 | 225 | 174 | 611 |
| Barker | 265 | 142 | 154 | 561 |

Cancer causes death of Linda Emmons

School board member Linda Ann Little Emmons, 41, of Pipe Creek died Wednesday, Nov. 16, in San Antonio after a bout with cancer.

She was in the midst of her first term on the board of trustees of the Bandera Independent School District. She lived in Pipe Creek five years, coming from Oklahoma City. Born in Dallas in 1947, she was married to Rex M. Emmons Jr. in 1967 in McAllen.

She was a member of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church in Bandera, serving on the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (CCD) board's scholastic committee and teaching CCD classes.

In addition to serving as a trustee, she was a homeroom mother at the school and was a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Survivors include her husband, Rex (Buddy) Emmons Jr. of Pipe Creek; three sons, Robert Scott, Jonathon Brett and Michael Thad, all of Pipe Creek; her father and mother, Olen and Nell Little of Brownsville; and a brother, Robert E. Little of Brownsville.

Services were held Friday, Nov. 18, at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church with Monsignor Ralph Smith officiating. Burial was in the Catholic Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Scott Hamme, Fred Hobrecht, Ronny Baines, Ernest Malone, Carl Walker and Travis Daugherty. Honorary pallbearers were Dick Armstrong, Colter Wallace, Scott Rogers, Ronald Emmons, David (Banjo) Smith, Emelio Rodriguez, and Hop Campbell, also a school trustee.

No Christmas parade scheduled during annual Shoppers' Jubilee

There won't be a traditional Christmas parade in Bandera this year, but Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will pay a visit to the city anyway during the Bandera Chamber of Commerce's Holiday Shoppers Jubilee Friday, Dec. 2, and they'll arrive Cowboy Capital style in a carriage pulled by a team of Clydesdale horses.

Chamber officials said Bandera County merchants outside the city of Bandera will be invited to "set up shop" in the parking lot at Main and Cypress streets to make the Jubilee a county-wide affair designed to give county citizens an opportunity to do their holiday shopping at home.

There'll be caroling on the courthouse lawn, lighting of the traditional Christmas tree, both at 5 p.m., and many local merchants will remain open until 9 p.m. to offer hospitality and holiday gift suggestions.

The crowds may be swelled by visitors from Comfort, Castroville, Pearsall, Crystal City and Natalia who will be in town for the annual Bandera Bulldog Invitational Basketball Tournament at the high school and junior high school gymnasiums.

The chamber has extended invitations to area churches and musical groups to participate in the caroling on the courthouse lawn.

It has also invited merchants from Vanderpool, Tarpley, Pipe Creek, Medina and Lakehills to "set up shop" at the parking lot of the late Johnny Langford at Main and Cypress streets to offer their products to holiday shoppers.

Booths of out-of-town merchants will be set up and open by 6 p.m., chamber officials said.

Judging in the chamber's annual Christmas decoration competition will be on Thursday evening and awards will be distributed Friday, Dec. 2, as usual. Competition will be in two classes, for small and large businesses.

Theme of the decorating contest will be "An Old-fashioned Christmas."

"We need the interested businesses to register so we won't miss judging anyone on Thursday evening," said chamber secretary Kim Ashton. Entry forms are available at the chamber offices in the municipal building on Main Street, Ashton said.

Two more arrested by drug task force

Drug task force officers made two more arrests in Bandera last week, and the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission took administrative action against a local bar owner as a four county drug sweep continued.

Julie Fender, 34, and George Torres, age unknown, both of Bandera were arrested Thursday, Nov. 17 and charged with possession of LSD, marijuana and methamphetamine with intent to distribute the drugs.

The arrest was the result of several weeks of investigation, and drug task force chief Jim Harvey called Fender "a major distributor" of methamphetamine.

Tommy Hall with the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission said Tuesday the agency took action against Brass Rail owner Bonnie Biederman because the alleged drug purchase she was arrested for in September took piace in the bar.

Hall said the TABC gave Biederman the choice of a 30 day permit suspension or a $4,500 civil penalty. He also said if she is convicted on the felony drug charges, TABC will cancel the permit altogether.

Biederman and Walter Russell O'Donnell were scheduled for pretrial hearings Wednesday, Nov. 23, but district attorney Bruce Curry said motions for continuance had been filed.

The four-county drug task force sweep began June 13 with the arrest of 18 individuals indicted by a Kendall county grand jury. Included in those indicted were Mike D'Spain and Laura Lee Hendrickson, also known as Laura Flood. D'Spain was arrested almost immediately and Hendrickson was apprehended in Montana June 19.

The drug task force arrested at least four more people in September and October, including Bonnie Biederman, Walter O'Donnell, Victor Woods and Gerald Persyn.

Torres and Fender are the seventh and eighth persons charged locally by the task force.

Larry Creech of Lakehills was arrested Nov. 15 and charged with delivery of a controlled substance. He was indicted by a Bandera grand jury in October.

School board may appoint successor

Bandera school trustees and administration are not yet sure what they will do to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of school board member Linda Emmons.

"At this point, probably nothing will be done before the next regular meeting," said board president Charlotte Salzman. "We really haven't discussed it much, but it is hard because everyone was so fond of her."

"School board policy states that they can appoint someone to serve until the next regular election, which will be in May," said BISD superintendent Ted Dockery. "I'm not sure what will be done, but that is one possibility." Dockery said another option available to the board was to not name a replacement, and to leave a vacancy until election time.

The terms of board members Hop Campbell, Peggy Ashmore and Ron Jackson will expire in May. Each board member is elected for a three-year term, but if an election to fill the vacant position is held in May, it will be for a one-year unexpired term of office.

Judge Ray Mauer to seek legislation authorizing county guest room tax

Legislation authorizing Bandera County to impose a tax of as much as 4 percent on guests in motels and guest ranches in the county will be sought in the next session of the state legislature which convenes in January, says County Judge Ray F. Mauer.

If passed, this tax will be in addition to a similar tax of 3 percent charged by motels inside the city limits of Bandera.

Mauer proposed a guest room tax in 1987 before finding out that counties were prohibited by law from imposing such a tax.

The money raised by the tax will be used to promote tourism and visitor activities in the county, says Mauer. The same restrictions apply on the use of the city of Bandera's hotel tax, sometimes referred to as a "bed tax."

Mauer said he has approached State Sen. Bill Sims of San Angelo and State Rep. Eldon Edge of Poth about sponsoring the legislation in the next session of the legislature. Edge said Tuesday, however, he would introduce the legislation only if all the businesses and people of Bandera supported it.

Now that the election is over, the real business of governing can begin.

Wall Street is putting the word out through dozens of channels. Forget the "Read My Lips" gimmick, George. Forget the wish list of toys for the generals. Forget about Social Security being a sacred cow.

The big boys are worried about all that paper they are holding.

Lots and lots of paper, with I.O.U. written all over it. They want reassurance that the feds will make their paper good.

Now that a true son of the Street is where one belongs, in the White House, they expect action even before he takes the oath.

George may want to hide in the glamorous world of foreign policy, hobnobbing with heads of state and sending the CIA off to bribe and assassinate.

But the big boys will not let him. Too much is riding on it, too much debt.

Government debt, corporate debt, consumer debt, Third World debt — thousands of billions worth.

It seems likely that Reaganomic creative financing — reducing debt by creating debt — will not work much longer.

If not, the debt will be liquidated — either by paying it off or writing it off.

Can the liquidation be spread over many people and over a long period of time? In that way, the political and economic repercussions would be softer.

A few more homeless people here and there, a banker's son or two that has to go to Michigan instead of Harvard.

Or will the liquidation fall heaviest on some and not others, and happen all at once?

Dukakis should breathe a sigh of relief. He will not have to perform the difficult juggling act facing George Bush for the next four years.

Uncircle the wagons

Dear editor:

Both Democratic and Republican Parties have just come through a hard-fought and occasionally bitter political campaign. Both parties had some winners, and some losers. Politics dictates that there are clear winners and losers, but Bandera County does not have to be one of the "losers."

I for one worked as hard as anyone for my party's entire slate of candidates. But the campaign is over, the votes have been counted, and we should all, I believe, congratulate the winners and help the winning candidates make this a better place for all of our citizens to live and work in.

It's time to uncircle the wagons, and work together to solve our county's problems.

It is at this point in life that the winning candidates and their staffs should rise above the politics of the campaign and get on with the job of representing everyone, no matter who they voted for. The losing candidates must also put the campaign behind themselves, and work with the winners for the betterment of our community.

Just as George Bush and Lloyd Bentsen know how and when to put aside campaign rhetoric and tactics and be the president for all of the U.S. and the senator for all of Texas, Bandera County commissioners, constables, JPs, and sheriff will only be respected and successful if they too show that they have the capacity to reach out and work fairly with all of the citizens in every part of the county.

I am personally very, very happy that it's a long, long time before the next election.

Delinquent loan payments, prison furloughs announced

While legislators prepare to convene in January, one Democrat departed radically from normal party rhetoric and called for a tax cut for the oil and gas industry.

Meanwhile, with the election over, other officials took up business that could not otherwise be conducted without controversy:

- The feds started sending delinquent notices to some 3,700 Texas Farmers Home Administration loans, and
- The state prison board relaxed the tough restrictions on prison furloughs which were quickly adopted last month after becoming an election issue.

Among those now eligible for furlough are inmates convicted of homicides, manslaughter and aggravated robbery.

How quickly postures change after an election.

Severance tax cut

Railroad Commissioner John Sharp, who headed the Dukakis campaign in Texas, announced his plan to cut the state severance tax to encourage Texas oil production.

The bill, which will be sponsored by state Rep. Rick Petty, D-Haskell, quickly drew the endorsement of Comptroller Bob Bullock as the best proposal lawmakers are likely to see.

Plaudits deserved

Here's a Democrat calling for a tax cut, and not just any Democrat: Sharp was the point man for Dukakis in Texas.

Moreover, his proposal has the backing of Bullock, the man who stood tall during the revenue crunch by returning unspent funds.

Skeptics might say this proposal is designed to please conservative businessmen. If that were so, it's still more than is offered by liberals who plead for a personal income tax.

Dukakis, the liberal's liberal, got thumped, and not because of any fault of John Sharp. In fact, some who knew Sharp as a conservative senator, wondered how he fit the Dukakis mold.

The answer, of course, is party affiliation. But unlike some in his party, Sharp apparently heard the voters' message. Whether the liberals hear Sharp's message remains to be seen.

Hightower vs. Gramm

One who apparently didn't hear the message is Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who holds the unapologetic far left position among statewide officials and was a Jesse Jackson supporter.

Hightower surfaced in Washington at an environmental group press conference to promote reduction of the use of oil because it pollutes, the day after Sharp called for increased production.

Such mixed messages may confuse Texans, but Hightower surprised no one by saying he will announce within weeks whether he will run against U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm in 1990.

Farm foreclosures

Hightower also ripped the FHA for giving some 3,700 Texas farmers 45 days to work out debt problems or face foreclosure.

He thinks it's a heartless blow, and for Texas to lose that many farmers would be staggering, supercollider or no.

Certainly, this news coming in the same week that OPEC threatened $5 oil is hardball indeed.

Alamo battle

San Antonio state Rep. Orlando Garcia will ask lawmakers to put the Alamo and its budget, run since 1905 by Daughters of the Republic of Texas, completely under state oversight.

"We're serving notice that the Alamo isn't their exclusive shop," Garcia said.

A DRT spokesperson said, "We don't argue with oversight. We've always filed an annual fiscal report with the governor. If the governor wants to come down and check our books, we'll welcome him — but not every member of the Legislature."

At issue is a $1.8 million surplus from souvenir sales and what some feel is the lack of recognition for Hispanics who died at the Alamo fighting against Santa Anna.

Mailing draws fire

A Houston Republican drew fire from a colleague for mailing an office newsletter with a voter petition for a proposed remedy to a controversial school funding court decision.

State Rep. John Culberson denies he used state funds to illegally influence the fate of a legislative issue, but a crosstown Democrat, Paul Colvert, rapped Culberson's newsletter as one-sided.

Culberson wrote that if the court ruling is upheld by the Texas Supreme Court, then "Judge Harley Clark will control the Texas public school system the same way that Judge William Wayne Justice now controls our state prison system."

Thanksgiving is the season, of course, to give thanks for the many blessings that are ours. Some of those who frequent the Silver Sage Corral have mentioned the things they are most thankful for on Page 11 of this issue, and fittingly, their health, their families, and the United States of America led their lists.

Barry McWilliams, creator of J.P. Doodles who appears weekly on this page, itemizes some more of our blessings in the cartoon below.

Not the least of the blessings that J.P. feels strongly about is having the election behind us, and we wouldn't argue with that viewpoint one bit.

Now those of you who didn't vote can spend the rest of the year complaining about the candidates the other fellows elected.

There are, of course, additional blessings not mentioned either by the silver-haired sages or by the irascible Mr. Doodles, and now would be a good time to reflect on some of those.

- I'm thankful, for example, that we won't have any more recounts in the election contest between Bennie Barker and Cotton Fitzgerald. Another count and we could quit calling the winner "Cotton" and start calling him Landslide Fitzgerald.
- As a confirmed fan of the Bandera Bulldogs on Friday, the Texas Longhorns on Saturday, and the Dallas Cowboys on Sunday, I'm personally thankful that the football season is over.

Not over, you say?

It is for me. You can look for me Wednesday evening at the Spurs-Atlanta Hawks basketball game in the HemisFair Arena, and disappointed Bulldog football fans will find plenty to cheer about in town this weekend at 24 schoolboy and schoolgirl basketball games.

- Deer hunters are thankful, of course, that the weather has turned colder. Until now, the only shooting most have done has been pool, craps and bull.
- Racing fans are thankful God didn't use the same timetable in creating the world that the Texas Racing Commission uses to create pari-mutuel racing in Texas.

If He did, Adam would still be in Eden, alone and waiting for Eve to be licensed.

- And Bulletin staffers are thankful that their gentle readers continue to share the news of the week with them regularly.

Happy Thanksgiving.

Two grant applications submitted to UTSA

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

Two grant applications have been submitted to the Bandera County and the city of Bandera have been submitted to the Center for Economic Development at The University of Texas at San Antonio to study the cost of covering the Mansfield Park rodeo arena and to further develop tourism in the area.

Bandera's rodeo arena in Mansfield Park, if covered, will have something to offer groups in surrounding counties, Joe McMullan, chairman of the Economic Development Committee of the Bandera Chamber of Commerce, told the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association at their monthly meeting, Nov. 9.

An all weather facility will enable rodeos to be performed without the threat of rainout and allow other groups to put on exhibitions such as horse shows, dog shows, and music concerts, McMullan says. "This will not just be for roping or rodeo, but a multi-purpose facility for 4-H and other organizations."

The covered arena will enable Bandera to compete for events that are now going to Kerr County and other locations, bringing those dollars to Bandera county, he says.

The UTSA grant would pay for a study to plan the arena and determine the impact on the county's economy, says McMullan. With the study completed, another grant may be sought to build the facility.

Bandera's arena is larger than the arena inside San Antonio's Joe Freeman Coliseum, McMullan said. The inside arena at Joe Freeman Coliseum is 110-feet by 95-feet, while Bandera's is 150-feet by 300-feet. The arena at Seguin is 180-feet by 300-feet, he said.

The arena cover would have 54,000 square feet under the roof, says McMullan. This would include covering in front on both sides of the arena for larger audiences on both sides.

Current plans include concession stands under the grand stands, covering a 25-foot chute area on one side of the arena and a 60-foot holding area on the opposite end.

When complete, the covered arena, "will be a first class facility," says McMullan.

The grant request is for $4,000, with an additional $1,000 to be added from local sources.

The requests were submitted Nov. 9 and a reply is expected by early December, McMullan said.

A second grant, also for $4,000 with $1,000 matching contribution, will be to identify factors to enhance tourism in Bandera County. "Development of tourism as our major industry is of primary importance in any economic development," states the grant written by McMullan.

The project will be to find the best means to promote tourism. "A primary need is to determine the most effective areas of promotion, both in location and media. But we also hope to explore the possibility of developing a 'theme park' in the area due principally to our proximity to San Antonio as well as other tourist attributes," states the grant to describe the project.

Most local businesses to be closed Thursday

Thanksgiving holidays will be observed both Thursday and Friday in local government offices, but many local businesses that are closed Thursday will be back to business as usual Friday, Nov. 25.

Bandera County courthouse and Bandera city offices will close Thursday and Friday for the Thanksgiving holidays, but garbage will be picked up as usual in the city of Bandera Friday.

Local banks will be closed Thursday for the holiday, but will be open for regular business hours Friday and Saturday.

Super S will be open until 5 p.m. Thanksgiving Day, but Super S pharmacy will be closed. Both will resume regular hours Friday.

Boyle's Market and Boyle's Bandera Pharmacy will be closed Thanksgiving Day, but will open again Friday at their usual time.

Braun Pharmacy and Clear Fork Medical Center will be closed Thanksgiving Day, but will be open Friday.

In case of emergency, Dr. Royce McAnally of Clear Fork Medical Center will be available, and all three local pharmacies have emergency numbers available for the holiday.

Bandera's Dairy Queen, Butterfield Station, Chou My's and the OST will be among the Bandera restaurants closed Thanksgiving Day, but many local eateries including the Wrangler, Bandera Inn and Un Taco Mas restaurants will be open Thursday. Shirley's in Lakehills and Hill Top Inn in Mico will also be open Thanksgiving Day.

Bandera County Fair Association's regularly scheduled meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 1, instead of the fourth Thursday, which falls on Thanksgiving.

The Bandera County Library will be closed Thursday through Saturday, and librarian Dr. Jimmie Hughey reminded patrons that books (but not videos) may be deposited in the book drop near the library's front foor.

In Lakehills, the bank, the post office, the veterinarian's office, the Lakehills Variety Store and More and D&H Automotive will be among the businesses closed.

The Bandera Bulletin office will be closed both Thursday and Friday.

Burglary reported in Rio Hondo area

A Mt. Vernon, Tex., man reported Saturday that a tool shed on his property in Rio Hondo Ranch subdivision had been burglarized.

A generator, water pump and tools valued at approximately $1,000 were reported missing.

Also on Saturday, a 1979 Oldsmobile reported stolen in San Antonio was found stripped on a vacant lot in Lakehills, the Bandera County Sheriff's Department reported.

Fredericksburg boosts hotel-motel tax rate

Visitors to Fredericksburg who make use of overnight lodging facilities will be paying an additional 1 percent on the city's hotel-motel occupancy tax as a result of action taken Monday, Nov. 14, by the city's commission.

The city fathers hiked the tax to 7 percent, said the Fredericksburg Standard. The state collects an additional 6 percent tax.

Bandera's hotel-motel tax is 5 percent.

Medina County raps U.S. landfill rules

Medina County Commissioners last week passed a resolution opposing the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's proposed new criteria for municipal solid waste landfills.

"The prohibition of burning agricultural means brush and other such materials cannot be burned," the commissioners noted in a resolution passed Monday, Nov. 14, according to the Hondo Anvil Herald.

Sides, Stoops engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lynn Sides of Bandera have announced engagement of their daughter, Shaylyn, to Jeff Douglas Stoops, son of Richard Stoops of San Antonio and Gwen Stoops of Pipe Creek.

The bride-elect is a 1987 graduate of Bandera High School, attended Temple Junior College and is currently employed with Guadalupe Savings and Loan in Kerrville.

The groom-elect is a 1986 graduate of Bandera High School, attended Texas A&M University and is now stationed with the U.S. Army at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina.

A December 30th wedding is planned at Grace Lutheran Church in Bandera.

Genealogy assistance at the library

There's help available for those looking for branches of their family tree at the Bandera County Library, says librarian Dr. Jimmie Hughey.

Volunteer members of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas will be in the library from 10 a.m. to noon on Friday, Dec. 2, to offer assistance in using the extensive resources of the library, Dr. Hughey said.

If the program proves to be successful, the volunteers will make themselves available on a regular basis, the librarian said.

Bandera's first female American Legion commander wanted to be a sailor from the time she was a little girl, and even though she was only in the U.S. Navy Reserve for two years before she had her first daughter, her life has always revolved around the military.

"I love the Navy life," said Patricia Downing, "I got pregnant in 1963, and at that time, you couldn't have a baby and stay in (the navy). Otherwise, I'd probably still be in."

Downing is the first female commander Bandera's American Legion has ever had, and indeed, one of only about six women members of the local group. For the last 2½ years, she has worked full-time as secretary to the chief of surgery at Kerrville's veterans hospital, and she has been in civil service for 15 years.

Only about 20 of Texas' more than 600 American Legion posts have women commanders, Downing said.

Downing grew up in Mobile, Ala., and one recollection she has is looking at a picture of her mother's brother that was killed aboard the U.S.S. Juneau in World War II.

"I looked at that big picture, and I always said I was going to be a sailor and I was going to marry a sailor," she said.

One half of her prediction came true, when in 1961 she joined the U.S. Navy. She met and married her husband Tony, also a sailor.

"I graduated in June, and headed off to boot camp in Cambridge, Md., in August," Downing said. "I cried all the way there."

One of the hardest things about military life is moving all the time, and the Downings have lived in many different places, including Boston, Virginia, Newfoundland and Taiwan.

"Military life is very hard," she said. "People don't understand that. My kids went to nine different schools in 11 years.

"Moving around, you meet a lot of people and have been stationed with before, at other places. You form closer bonds of friendship, I think because you know you'll only be there for a year or two.

"I just love Bandera," she said. "I like coming into the CST and seeing at least 10 people you know. The people here are so nice, and I really enjoy getting involved with the community."

Downing takes her duties as commander very seriously. Community involvement is one of her chief goals for the legion, and the Downings are members of the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association and the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce.

"Our main goal is to let veterans know what their benefits are, and to help with any problems they might have," she said. The legion sponsors dances, bingo, a local canteen, and twice monthly they visit the Kerrville veterans hospital where they play games and bring home-cooked "goodies" to the patients.

The Bandera American Legion Post #157 celebrated Veterans' Day with ceremonies including a 21-gun salute on the courthouse lawn Friday, Nov. 11.

Atlee Ward is second vice commander and Roland Leonard is first vice commander of the Bandera legion post. Howard Strange is adjutant; Joe Beh is finance officer; Curtis Michalczak is sergeant at arms; Phillip Singleton is chaplain; Sam Darden is judge advocate; and Lloyd Bastin is service officer. Before Downing was elected commander, Chuck Haver held that position for four years.

Veterans from World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam are eligible to join the American Legion. They must have served between at least one of the following dates: from April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918; from December 7, 1941 to Dec. 31, 1946; from June 25, 1950 to January 31, 1955; and from Dec. 22, 1961 to May 7, 1975, according to Downing.

Electric bills to go up again next summer

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

The cost of electric power from the Bandera Electric Cooperative is expected to go up in the summer of 1989 as a result of cooperative's electricity supplier requesting a 17.8 percent rate increase to repay its loan on its Fayette County electric generating plant.

The Lower Colorado River Authority, which supplies electric power to the Bandera Electric Cooperative, filed a rate increase request with the Texas Utility Commission Nov. 3. The Bandera Co-op's board of directors is considering intervention to see that its customers do not pay more than their share, says Russ Vander Zee, general manager of the cooperative. The rate increase will be passed to the cooperative's customers in June, 1989.

In April, 1988, the 400-megawatt coal-fired generating plant, owned by the LCRA, began producing commercial power at the Fayette Power Project near La Grange. Under state law, the LCRA is to pass on the cost of the plant to its customers. To be included in the rate increase are about two-thirds of LCRA's annual debt-service costs for the Cummins Creek mine project, says John Williams, information supervisor for the LCRA.

In the fall of 1986, the LCRA and its wholesale electricity customers, including the Bandera Electric Cooperative, reached a consensus to pay for their share of the cost of the new electric generating plant by a gradual rate increase over the following three years. "It was the consensus of LCRA's customers that it would be best to bring the debt service into the wholesale rates over a three year period in fairly equal amounts to lessen the impact to retail rate payers," says Vander Zee.

The first rate increase of about 13 percent was approved in the fall of 1987 by the Texas Public Utility Commission.

In March of 1988, the LCRA filed the second of three rate increases. The Bandera cooperative, as well as other wholesale customers of LCRA, protested the 16 percent increase. "There was a great deal of disagreement associated with this rate filing, the result being a settlement reducing LCRA's revenue requirement to 9.21 percent," says Vander Zee.

Disagreement continued, however, among the wholesale customers to how to divide the LCRA rate increase fairly, says Vander Zee. "The PUC's hearings examiner eventually submitted findings to the three (PUC) commissioners, and recommended a wholesale rate felt by this cooperative to be the fairest of all to the wholesale customers as a group."

The PUC's final order, in a two-to-one vote, rejected the hearing examiner's recommendation, resulting in an increase of 9.7 percent in the wholesale rates of electricity for the Bandera cooperative, which was larger than the 8.32 percent increase expected, says Vander Zee. "This translated into an increase of approximately $3.50 for each 1,000 kilowatt hours."

The new rate increase is slated to be an overall 17.8 percent increase, which if approved is expected to go into effect sometime in June, 1989, says Vander Zee. "We take no issue with LCRA's need to service the debt for the new power plant through the three rate increases originally planned; however, our concern is that the increases are correct in amount and that the apportionment among LCRA's customers is made fairly.

LCRA anticipates that the wholesale electric rates will remain stable for at least a three-year period unless fuel cost increase, says Williams.

Craig and Ruth Ann Tips of Bandera take advantage of a book-signing party by local authors Gale Buck seated left, and Barbara Catlin, center, at the Bandera County Library Tuesday, Nov. 15. Seated at the right is local artist Trina Sandidge, whose map of the Tarpley area appears in Catlin's novel. The two new romance novels, "The Righteous Rakehell," by Buck and Catlin's "Smokey's Bandit" are just off the press.

Notes and comment on old times, new developments, sights, sounds, and things that really matter around here:

At least to Aggies and us! God and Nick willing, we'll try to get to the heart of the matter by noting the natural color of our Hill Country.

Even though northers are late, it's deep fall now, and the tall-growing masses of yellow Maximilian daisies along the highway have gone down along with the spikey purple Dotted Gayfeather. These native plants are our best fall bloomers, and, thanks to mowing policies of the highway department, have been brightening the scene for commuters and Sunday drivers.

Now color is coming through in the rust and red tones of roadside sumacs and seedheads of ubiquitous KR Bluestem grass. We're waiting for the lone maples at the bridge at Pipe Creek to put on their yearly show.

• Irma Macon of Bandera Emporium has collected cotton bolls in far South Texas to decorate natural Christmas wreaths. It's hard to realize that a century ago such fluffy bolls could have been gathered in Bandera County. Cotton was a cash crop for early farmers, with gins operating in the old days in Bandera, Medina, and Pipe Creek. Alas. By the 1920s, the thin limestone soils were worn out, and Mr. Boll Weevil moved in to finish things off.

• Bessie Schmidtke, one of our great local ladies, remembers picking cotton out on Elm Creek, planted by her father, Amasa Clark. Some of Mr Clark's pear trees are still there, but the cottonfield is long gone.

• With cash crops of any kind harder to come by (we're not thinking about strange things the sheriff may find being grown under glass), you can tell that the old rural scene is changing. We had to use rent-a-steers for the cattle drive.

There are just as many pickups on the road, but beribboned poodles hang out the windows, not hard-working border collies.

• Rhea Mansfield is one long-timer still hanging in there out on the Big Flat as a rancher and stockgrower. Ask him about his big passion — the crossing of Simmental, Brahman, and French Limousin cattle to produce a superior new breed he has called "Simbrasin."

The new beasts are a macho bunch. One of Rhea's bulls, on loan to our neighbor, recently crashed through the fence and tried to wipe out a hefty Santa Gertrudis named Felipe Rey. Felipe had to recruit two girl friends, Big Mama and Ugly, to help run off the stranger.

Local junior high scholars fourth in science meet

Bandera Junior High School students placed fourth over 18 other area schools at a math science meet at John Jay High School in San Antonio Saturday, Nov. 19.

Over 2,000 students participated in the meet, said math teacher Tom Doebbler. Bandera brought home two first places, a second, three fourths and three fifths as well as other placings.

Those placing in the top ten were sixth grade science, first Bill Elliott, Heather Ellinger tied for fifth and Bill Wyman got ninth.

In seventh grade science, Elizabeth Edmondson was second, Paul Davis and Braon Moseley shared fourth and Terry D'Spain was eighth.

In eighth grade science, David Harrison was first.

In seventh grade number sense, Michael Waid took fourth.

In eighth grade number sense, Lee Jenkins was fourth and also took fifth in eighth grade calculator.

Sea World plans holiday schedule

Sea World of Texas will be open Thanksgiving Day as well as the entire holiday weekend. The Cypress Restaurant will offer a traditional buffet Thanksgiving Day, according to George J. Becker Jr., chairman of Sea World of Texas.

"At our parks in California and Florida, Thanksgiving is a popular time for families to visit Sea World," said Becker.

Fitzpatrick ropes in Kuwait

Bandera performer back after gig on the Persian Gulf

Bandera trick roper Kevin Fitzpatrick is home recuperating from jet lag after a three-day gig in Kuwait as a feature of a British Airways-sponsored show for American employees in Kuwait at the country's most luxurious hotel, the Regency Palace.

Fitzpatrick was joined by sharpshooter Joe Bowman of Houston and a four-piece western band headed by Leon Pappy Selph, also of Houston.

One of the most memorable moments for Fitzpatrick was a taxi ride at speeds he said approached 100 miles-per-hour, which is the speed limit in that Persian Gulf nation that borders Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

"The people were shocked by the guns (of sharpshooter Bowman)," Fitzpatrick said. The people of Kuwait are not allowed by law to own guns. "Only the police have guns," he said.

The Texans performed before about 300 spectators at each performance, which were held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 15-17. The first performance was for British Airway's American employees and the last two performances were open to the public, which was, of course, mostly American, Fitzpatrick said.

Bowman is an internationally-known performer called "the straight shooter," Fitzpatrick said. Selph's band is known as the Blue Ridge Play Boys. Fitzpatrick is a professional trick roper.

He said they eat western-style food in Kuwait, but there's no drinking of any kind in public places. Most of the people wear robes and traditional desert-type headpieces and most of the women wear veils.

"We were instructed not to look at women," Fitzpatrick said. He usually uses a woman from the audience in his act, but that part was changed in respect to the country's customs, he said.

"All the people you see are young people," the local roper said. "Older people live further out in the desert."

All the drinking water in Kuwait is mineral water distilled from the ocean, Fitzpatrick said. The money, the Kuwaiti dinar, was unusual because it was expressed in three decimal points.

Garden clubbers stage mini flower show here

Members of the Madrona Garden Club enjoyed a "Mini Flower Show" Friday, Nov. 18, when those present brought flowers show-and-tell fashion, and they heard readings on the activities of World Hunger Relief, Inc., and on bird sanctuaries.

Program chairwoman Helen Ahr read about world hunger from an article in Lone Star Gardner which explained the support of World Hunger, Inc., by Belle Fleur Garden Club in Waco.

WHI's primary purpose is to teach hungry people of the world how to feed themselves through backyard gardens and by digging water wells in areas where fresh water is not available.

The group produces seeds, plants and animals for food production and development, Mrs. Ahr said. On-site technical evaluation and program development for churches, schools, orphanages, leper colonies and other ministries are given upon request, she said.

Club president Mrs. M.M. Chipman presented a reading from the National Gardener urging the establishment of bird sanctuaries, a conservation effort recommended by the National Council of State Garden Clubs and the Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., Mrs. Chipman said.

A bird sanctuary may be as small as a garden in a city or as large as a whole city, she said. Whatever the size, the birds in the sanctuary must be provided with food, water, nesting places, and protection from predators, Mrs. Chipman said.

A garden club should seek cooperation of the Texas Highway Department to erect signs declaring that the city is a bird sanctuary, she said.

Other types of sanctuaries include those in a public places such as city parks and those in the gardens of club members.

The group's next meeting at noon on Dec. 9 at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church in Bandera is an "old-fashioned Christmas party and gift exchange" under the direction of Mrs. Ahr.

Steve Forest will soon be known, all over Texas, at least, as the "fiddlin' sheriff of the Cowboy Capital," kind of like the famous U.S. Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia.

The pot luck supper Saturday honoring Forest took me back at least 10 years to the close feelings that used to exist around here all the time. Those present represented one of the best cross sections of "old-timey Bandera" that I have seen in a long time.

There was so much food brought in and such a variety that organizers had to keep adding more and more table.

Sheriff-elect Steve's band played and a lot of his friends joined in. Most popular number was "Pretty Red Wing" and when it played the place was like a Henry Fonda western movie set.

Someone said this kind of thing should happen three or four times a year, just to preserve the living history of Bandera.

I agree.

• Ballan (Little Wrangler) Grant just cut her second record and ought to have a 12-song cassette out by Christmas, she says.

Dusty Britches, another local favorite, wrote one of the songs on the record, a yodeling duet, and they sing it together.

Ballan recorded the album at the Loma Ranch Studio on the other side of Fredericksburg. It's a big, old, well-preserved German ranch house on 200 acres of rolling Hill Country, complete with antiques in every room.

They've turned four upstairs bedrooms into a kind of bunk house where a band, for example, can stay over free and sleep in old, four-poster beds to boot.

A huge bank of dials and knobs in the recording studio look like the cockpit of a 747 jetliner.

The recording was on a 24-track system, which means that each individual voice and instrument (up to 24) was recorded separately. If someone in the group hits a wrong note, for example, they just cut that one out and do it over until it's right correctly.

The musicians worked long and hard in order to be able to leave at midnight, but Ballan wanted to do some harmony, so she slept over in one of the fourposters with a feathery comforter. When everything was complete, she was really excited about how well it turned out.

• Come spring yet another new business will be visible on State Highway 173 near Bandera, but you can expect it to smell better and look even more beautiful than our other businesses.

Owner Don Ramey has planted more than a million wildflower seeds at his "Sprigs of Texas." What a beautiful highway sight that will be!

Jay Eric will appear at the Cabaret Friday, Nov. 25, with Blieder's Creek.

New bingo regulations require player verification

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday adopted emergency amendments to clarify general restrictions on bingo games in Texas.

"This should answer any questions on the spot about whether or not a bingo game is being run fairly," Bullock said.

The amendments state that winning bingo cards must now be verified by one or more players other than the winner. Players may also ask to see the numbers on bingo balls that remain in the machines.

The emergency ruling gives comptroller personnel the right to inspect bingo equipment at any time. The amendments also call for bingo balls to be replaced with new ones every six months.

Bullock said that tampering with or modifing bingo equipment so that numbers are not chosen randomly is now expressly prohibited. Changing numbers or symbols on the face of bingo cards is also prohibited.

Licensed bingo organizations are still responsible for seeing that all bingo equipment is in proper working condition, according to Bullock.

The Comptroller's office is responsible for regulating charity bingo in Texas.

The office issues bingo licenses and has the authority and responsibility to interpret the law and write the rules governing bingo in Texas.

The amendment to Rule 3.538 is adopted on an emergency basis under Texas Civil Statutes, Article 179d.

Comfort's merchants plan holiday shopping extravaganza

"Christmas in Comfort" will be celebrated Saturday, Nov. 26, when the magic of yuletide will be observed in the historic settlement.

Open houses, food booths, a bake sale and flower show will highlight the celebration. Activities are set to begin at 10 a.m., and this year sections of High Street and Seventh Street will be closed to automobile traffic, according to spokeswoman Joanna Parrish.

A live nativity scene will take place at the Lutheran Church from 7-8 p.m. Both the historic church and the new church will be open and the Christmas tree inside will be decorated with traditional chrismon symbols.

Comfort's museum will open from 6-10 p.m., and will feature entertainment by coloratura soprano Ruth Ann Harmon at 7:30 p.m.

Comfort Art Guild will hold an exhibit at 707 High Street during the day Saturday, and a special attraction will be the Living History Association from San Antonio.

"The group will dress in clothing from the 1830's, demonstrating candle dipping, weaving, tomahawk and knife demonstrations and drilling of militia," said Parrish. "Enjoy caroling, vintage 1830, as offered by this group of historians."

A community Christmas tree will be lighted and St. Nick and his helpers will visit the stores and mingle with the crowds. A life-size manger scene will also be located on High Street.

Cowboys plan Ball number 56 in Anson

The 56th annual Cowboys Christmas Ball Dec. 16 in Anson, near Abilene, will feature dancing to the two-step, Virginia reel, schottishe and cotton-eyed joe.

The original ball, held in 1883 to furnish entertainment for the local ranchers, inspired Larry Crittendon to write the poem, "Cowboys Christmas Ball." In 1934, an elderly English teacher instigated the annual re-enactment of the ball, which was a family affair, to preserve the area's heritage.

A dart marathon Friday, Saturday, and Sunday collected $138 in donations for the Spirits of Christmas Presents at the Fiddlin' Around lounge.

Some 13 contestants threw darts Friday from 6 p.m. until closing, Saturday from 10 a.m. till 1 p.m., and Sunday noon till 8 p.m., says Millie Harrison, lounge owner.

A dart tournament was held Sunday at 8 p.m. after the marathon as a "thank you" for everyone that participated, says Harrison. In that tournament, Harrison took first place and Shirley Jones took second.

Bandera County librarian Dr. Jimmie Hughey wields a light pen to check out a book for Isaac Kenney using the library's new computer system. "We're the only library in district 10 that is totally in-house computerized," said Hughey, "including San Antonio." When the system is completely in place after Thanksgiving, library patrons will be able to access 20,000 volumes by using a keyboard and monitor instead of the old card system, said Hughey. The computer network system's cost of "about $16,000" was covered by a grant from the Gnade Trust and "did not cost the taxpayers a cent," said Hughey.

Kristi Henry, 16, may not choose marine biology as a career, but she knows more about it since her trip to Texas A&M University at Galveston this summer as part of the Bandera school's gifted and talented-student program.

During her two week experience June 12-25, the Bandera High student joined 19 others from across the nation to participate in marine sampling from shore and ship, study the ecology of the Gulf of Mexico coast line, find beach pollution from a throw-away society, and socialize in coast life style.

Kristi, the daughter of Cliff and Susan Henry of Pipe Creek, is part of the gifted and talented program in the Bandera school system. Her interest in expanding her education horizons led her to Texas Tech last year to study law and theater arts in the Gifted and Talented Institution of Texas Tech program.

Kristi attended the Galveston Island Adventure at Texas A & M University this summer. The two-week program, sponsored by the Gifted and Talented Institute at Texas A&M, brought students to the campus at Galveston and to choose the field of work they wanted to experience.

There were 10 class days during the two weeks, and eight hours of each day were devoted to field work on and around Galveston Island and work in the laboratory and classroom lectures.

"We spent most of the class time in the water, with a professor and three of his graduate students as assistants, taking bottom samples, seining, and testing the water for clarity, salinity, and temperature," says Kristi. The tests indicate what kind of animals are likely to be found in the area, she says.

The students didn't just stay along the beach, however. "We studied the marsh, the beach, and the bay from shore," says Kristi.

One day was spent on a research ship, called the Roamin' Empire. The ship, owned by Texas A&M, is used by biologists to do research in deeper water, she says.

The study sites proved to be the similar, as one would expect, but Kristi found the sampling locations totally opposite in other ways. "We noticed the differences in the bottom, the energy produced by water, and the species of fish, crabs and shrimp," says Kristi. The bottoms of the bays are packed mud, marsh bottoms are silted mud, and the shore is sandy.

Energy on the shoreline is vast and the movement of the water never stops. Burrowing and sessile (attached) animals live in the beach waters, says Kristi.

Small fish and shrimp look for what is termed a "nursery" environment to breed and leave their young, she says. The animals find nurseries in marshes where there is a large amount of tall grass and very little water energy.

Returning after a morning of field work to the campus lab the students sized, identified species, counted and preserved all their catches from the field. "We noted the date, location and the Latin name for all the species of animals we caught," says Kristi.

Study was not limited to the animal life in the area, but also the environment where the fish and other creatures live. "We studied the contour of the river and the delta that empties into the ship channel," says Kristi.

It is amazing the impact of the islands around the ship channel, says Kristi. The silt from the river emptying into the bay continues to flow between gaps on the island, slowing the filling of the bays with silt. "The islands keep a river-line action running out to open waters outside the bay," she says.

"We learned about the different salinity levels in different areas and how rivers affect the salinity of the bays," says Kristi.

Kristi Henry

One eye opener was the pollution on the beaches and in the waters off the coast, says Kristi. "The plastic bags, six-pack holders, balloons, and trash of all kinds really is annoying once you see the pictures of what they can do to the mammals of the sea." The slides were like watching a movie about horrible traffic deaths and many of the students were crying by the time it was over, she says. "When you hear about a beaching of animals it is usually because it is not eating due to plastics in their stomachs that is packed so tightly the animal is usually not saveable."

Kristi met a dolphin and a Ridley's turtle, who were found stranded alive and were able to be saved. The dolphin, named Lucky, is now doing shows at Sea-Arama Marineworld which is a reduced version of Sea World, she says.

The turtle is living at the H.E.A.R.T (Help Endangered Animals, Ridley's Turtles) barns, but will remain there until his death because the animal will never make it in the wild, she says. "The turtle's right front flipper had to be amputated due to the fishing line that was tangled around it so tightly that it was almost severed."

Social time, including sightseeing and parties was part of the two-week trip. Sightseeing came aboard the Colonel, a large paddle boat that travels the ship channel and walking the historic Strand district, says Kristi.

On the weekend the students attended an oyster-lugger party with oysters harvested from a coastal Texas bed. "We were served gumbo and a 'bar' was set up for oysters on the half shell," says Kristi. "They weren't as bad as we originally thought," she adds.

New friends and memories were made to last forever, as well as stories shared Kristi reflects. "Although we were up by 8 a.m. and worked a long, hard day, we stayed up to almost 11 p.m. and had enough fun to satisfy us."

"I am hoping to return next summer as a student assistant to Dr. Andre Landry and extend my experience in the field so I can use it as a stimulant for my career decision," says Kristi.

The classes are a great investment for those interested in classes such as veterinary medicine, space science, or archeology says Kristi. "I would like to see more students attend from our area."

Wharton's Dock

By John Ciarlo — 796-3225

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department has announced that the regular weekly Bingo game scheduled for Nov. 23 will be cancelled due to Thanksgiving. It will resume on regular schedule the following week.

The LSVFD executive board will meet at 7 p.m. at the firehouse on Monday, Nov. 28, to prepare a tentative budget for the general membership meeting in December. Members are urged to attend as your comments and suggestions are welcome.

• Phil and Nola Bledsoe's son, Eric, and his wife Norie and daughter Christy will be spending the holidays here.

They arrived recently from Clark AFB in the Phillipines. It is Norie's first trip to the United States as well as the first time for Phil and Nola to have their 2-month-old granddaughter with them.

• Wayne and Fran Hildenburg can be seen walking at a brisk pace trying to keep up with their little grandson, Dustin, who is visiting them.

• The Rev. Marion Birch and wife Marjorie were guests of Tom and Nel King recently on a trip to Ennis.

They tell us their eyes, ears and emotions were surcharged with exciting music from the Braschler Music show in concert in Ennis. A rich variety of solo, instrumental and quartet numbers spiced the program along with a clever and witty clown and an outstanding bass singer, Larry Randolph.

• All is well that ends well, they say. Turner and Mary Blakney's stolen Buick was returned to them recently with only minor damage.

It was stolen in San Antonio from a friend's driveway while parked and locked. Mary says it was the Lord's car anyway, so she knew it would come back home. Now who would argue with that? Certainly not the suspected thieves, who are sitting in Bandera County jail.

• You can tell that winter is in the air. Retired Col. Louis Duquette was seen in his workshop trying to figure out a way to hook up a seat warmer for his lawn mower. Or maybe he was just tuning it up?

• Warren and Doris Lee can't keep their project under wraps any longer. A recent fly over for reconnaissance purposes revealed a beautiful deck being built around their house overlooking the lake.

Doris says that Warren also plans to put a Jacuzzi up there for her.

We all wonder how the whole neighborhood is going to fit in when it gets colder.

Lakehills EMS receives gift of $1,700 stretcher

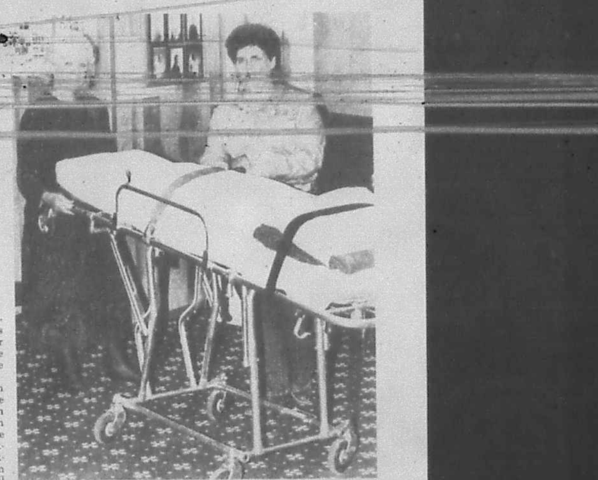
A new stretcher for the Lakehills EMS ambulance has replaced an older and more cumbersome stretcher, thanks to donations from the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

Some $1,700 was spent recently for a much needed new stretcher, says Nancy Oehler, president of the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

The new one-man stretcher will allow one person to load and unload the stretcher with patient into the ambulance, says Oehler. "This replaces the old two-man stretcher which could only be loaded and unloaded by at least two people."

The new stretcher is interchangeable with the other Lakehills ambulance and most other ambulances in the county, says Oehler. "The patient doesn't have to be unloaded off one stretcher and loaded on the other stretcher if ambulances are switched," she says.

Lakehills EMTs and Lakehills EMS Support Team officers, stationed at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37, accepted donations the first weekend in November to replace Support Teams funds that were used to buy the stretcher and for monthly training expenses.



Staff Photo by James Frazor

MLVFD Auxiliary makes yule plans

The Medina Lake fire department ladies auxiliary held its monthly meeting Nov. 14 to hear about the plans for the new fire house and make plans for the Christmas party.

Some 24 ladies enjoyed an informative briefing from fire department president Marion Heisler and fire chief Ralph Dresser on plans for the new fire station, says Dolly Dresser, auxiliary president. A ground breaking ceremony is anticipated in the near future and members will be notified of the exact time and date.

The auxiliary will host its annual Christmas Party Sunday, Dec. 11, at the main fire station with decorating to begin at 2 p.m. All members of the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department and the Ladies Auxiliary are invited to attend the party starting at 6 p.m., says Dresser. "Each family attending is requested to bring a dish of finger-type food," she says.

There will be no gift exchange among members at the party, says Dresser. "Those who desire, may bring a child's gift which will be distributed through the Elf Karen Christmas Program." There seems to be a greater need for boy's gifts this year, she reminds members.

The Christmas party will serve as the auxiliary's December meeting, she says.

Pipe Creek

O.H. (Henry) Davis 535-4127

Steve Geering of Carson City, Nev., visited the Roy Carpenters last week.

The Carpenters are also expecting their children and grandchildren, Glen and Melinda, Danna and Sam; and Steve Carpenter of League City; Mrs. Carpenter's twin sister Jackie Buck of Bellaire and her children Clayton and Sue Buck and John David of Spring; her daughter Amanda of Beverly Hills, Calif., and her friend, Phil Persinger.

• Nancy and Dick Westley have moved into their new home in Pipe Creek, and already they have had several of their friends from both the East and West coasts visiting them, and more are expected for the holidays.

• Melvin and Earlene Cloud, C.B. Oates, and Margaret Mifflin drove to Utopia, Leakey, back over the mountains to Vanderpool, Lost Maples State Park and home through Medina last week.

Taxpayer groups merge in Boerne

Members of the Kendall County Taxpayers League voted to accept a proposal to merge with the Boerne Citizens Committee.

"I think this (merged) organization should come out and support candidates for office," said member Art Mace. "That's the way to become more powerful."

Turkey shoot proceeds retire Castle Lake Ranch VFD's loan

Some 200 to 300 people attended the event which awarded 40 turkeys to winning contestants, says spokeswoman Helen Martin.

James L. Bell of San Antonio, winning six turkeys, led the field. Ozzie Aguilar and L.C. Kelley of Pipe Creek each won three turkeys with their shotgun skills.

Kathy Bowman of Pipe Creek, winning two turkeys, was best in ladies division. Chris Leal of Bandera took top honors in the children's round.

Proceeds from the benefit shoot enabled the volunteer fire department to pay off its bank loan, which has insulated and improved the fire house on Bear Creek Road as well as purchased fire fighting equipment.

Bandera County librarian Dr. Jimmie Hughey wields a light pen to check out a book for Isaac Kenney using the library's new computer system. "We're the only library in district 10 that is totally in-house computerized," said Hughey, "including San Antonio." When the system is completely in place after Thanksgiving, library patrons will be able to access 20,000 volumes by using a keyboard and monitor instead of the old card system, said Hughey. The computer network system's cost of "about $16,000" was covered by a grant from the Gnade Trust and "did not cost the taxpayers a cent," said Hughey.

Gifted student studies the sea

Kristi Henry, 15, may not choose marine biology as a career, but she knows more about it since her trip to Texas A&M University at Galveston this summer as part of the Bandera school's gifted and talented student program.

A new stretcher for the Lakehills EMS ambulance has replaced an older and more cumbersome stretcher, thanks to donations from the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

Some $1,700 was spent recently for a much needed new stretcher, says Nancy Oehler, president of the Lakehills EMS Support Team.

The new one-man stretcher will allow one person to load and unload the stretcher with patient into the ambulance, says Oehler. "This replaces the old two-man stretcher which could only be loaded and unloaded by at least two people."

The new stretcher is interchangeable with the other Lakehills ambulance and most other ambulances in the county, says Oehler. "The patient doesn't have to be unloaded off one stretcher and loaded on the other stretcher if ambulances are switched," she says.

Lakehills EMTs and Lakehills EMS Support Team officers, stationed at the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37, accepted donations the first weekend in November to replace Support Teams funds that were used to buy the stretcher and for monthly training expenses.

MLVFD Auxiliary makes yule plans

The Medina Lake fire department ladies auxiliary held its monthly meeting Nov. 14 to hear about the plans for the new fire house and make plans for the Christmas party.

Some 24 ladies enjoyed an informative briefing from fire department president Marion Heisler and fire chief Ralph Dresser on plans for the new fire station, says Dolly Dresser, auxiliary president. A ground breaking ceremony is anticipated in the near future and members will be notified of the exact time and date.

The auxiliary will host its annual Christmas Party Sunday, Dec. 11, at the main fire station with decorating to begin at 2 p.m. All members of the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department and the Ladies Auxiliary are invited to attend the party starting at 6 p.m., says Dresser. "Each family attending is requested to bring a dish of finger-type food," she says.

There will be no gift exchange among members at the party, says Dresser. "Those who desire, may bring a child's gift which will be distributed through the Elf Karen Christmas Program." There seems to be a greater need for boy's gifts this year, she reminds members.

The Christmas party will serve as the auxiliary's December meeting, she says.

Pipe Creek

Steve Geering of Carson City, Nev., visited the Roy Carpenters last week.

The Carpenters are also expecting their children and grandchildren, Glen and Melinda, Danna and Sam; and Steve Carpenter of League City; Mrs. Carpenter's twin sister Jackie Buck of Bellaire and her children Clayton and Sue Buck and John David of Spring; her daughter Amanda of Beverly Hills, Calif., and her friend, Phil Persinger.

• Nancy and Dick Westley have moved into their new home in Pipe Creek, and already they have had several of their friends from both the East and West coasts visiting them, and more are expected for the holidays.

• Melvin and Earlene Cloud, C.B. Oates, and Margaret Mifflin drove to Utopia, Leakey, back over the mountains to Vanderpool, Lost Maples State Park and home through Medina last week.

Taxpayer groups merge in Boerne

Members of the Kendall County Taxpayers League voted to accept a proposal to merge with the Boerne Citizens Committee.

"I think this (merged) organization should come out and support candidates for office," said member Art Mace. "That's the way to become more powerful."

Turkey shoot proceeds retire Castle Lake Ranch VFD's loan

Some 200 to 300 people attended the event which awarded 40 turkeys to winning contestants, says spokeswoman Helen Martin.

James L. Bell of San Antonio, winning six turkeys, led the field. Ozzie Aguilar and L.C. Kelley of Pipe Creek each won three turkeys with their shotgun skills.

Kathy Bowman of Pipe Creek, winning two turkeys, was best in ladies division. Chris Leal of Bandera took top honors in the children's round.

Proceeds from the benefit shoot enabled the volunteer fire department to pay off its bank loan, which has insulated and improved the fire house on Bear Creek Road as well as purchased fire fighting equipment.

May date given for water purchase

Studies to determine if EUWD will offer to buy water rights

Linda Jacobson, left, of Lakehills and Viola Henke of Floresville display their latest shirt and earring crafts at Saturday's flea market. Their T-shirts have hand-painted silk flowers and their balsa wood earrings are decorated with paint, markers, glitter, and rosin. About eleven tables of vendors were at the Lakehills Civic Center.

The Edwards Underground Water District will offer to buy the water rights to Medina Lake from irrigators south of Medina Dam by May, if studies now underway show water from the lake can be economically pumped to recharge the Edwards Aquifer.

The Edwards Underground Water District's decision to buy the water rights to Medina Lake will be made as a result of a four-part, $350,000 set of studies being performed for the district.

Three parts of the study, the hydrology, structural, and environmental phases, should be complete in December, says Russell Masters, general manager of the Edwards district. The Edwards board will study the results in January and release the results in February, he projects.

The fourth part of the study, the economics of the proposal to recharge the Edwards Aquifer with water from Medina Lake, should be complete not later than May, says Masters. "We will have a determination (and then will make an offer in May," he proposes.

However, the next phase, the legal issues, will take as much as a year to a year-and-a-half to complete, thus putting the actual purchase off into at least 1990, says Masters.

In two public meetings, Nov. 16 and Nov. 21, the directors of the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Counties Water Control and Improvement District No.1 heard negative and positive comments from residents on the sale, at South West High School in Bexar County last week and at the Devine Community Center in Medina County this week.

A survey sent out by the BMA district to voters and taxpayers in the district showed 82 percent want more information, says Cliff Mueller, district president. The public meetings are the chance for citizens to learn more, he says.

The same survey also showed 61 percent did not want to sell their water rights. Water from Medina Lake is used to irrigate agricultural land in the three counties served by the Bexar district.

A show of hands of the 150 citizens attending the Nov. 21 meeting showed a preference by approximately half of those attending to have the BMA district continue investigating the sale, with only a few definitely opposed even to investigating the sale any further.

"If the sale goes through, the Edwards district would own the Medina dam and the diversion dam below Medina Lake, says Mueller. The district would also control the 66,700 acre-feet-a-year of water rights allocated by the Texas Water Commission. This involves surface water only, not water from the wells, he adds.

Water will not be available in irrigation canals once the Edwards takes over, says Masters.

The Edwards district board has promised not to use eminent domain to take the Medina Lake water rights, says Mueller, in response to questions from the floor that the Edwards district would seize the lake to supply San Antonio's water needs.

The Edwards district is interested in recharging the Edwards aquifer only, says Masters. The Edwards district is not in the water selling business, he says.

"Our board has never used eminent domain," Masters adds.

However, Masters admits that San Antonio is the biggest user of Edwards underground water.

A possible agreement, which the BMA district board supports, would allow irrigators to use Medina Lake water for 15 years if the Edwards district buys the water rights, says Mueller. The BMA district would continue to maintain the canals, but other details will have to be worked out, he says.

The Edwards district initially approached the BMA district, says Masters. "We are a willing buyer, if you are a willing seller," he told the crowd attending the public meeting Monday. He stressed that the Edwards district was not trying to take the water rights. "If the dam's okay, the water's okay, and you (BMA district members) are willing, then fine, else the deal's off."

The results of the study will be turned over to the BMA district, says Mueller. "The state has been after us (the BMA district) to do these studies) for 10 years," he says.

"The hydrology study will determine if Medina Lake water can recharge the aquifer and by how much. This phase will determine how much water there is and where it comes from, says Masters.

The structural study will determine how long the dam will be useful. This phase will determine if the Medina dam is structurally sound, what work it requires, and how much that work would cost, says Masters.

The environmental study will determine if the water quality can be maintained and if the water will enhance the aquifer. The study will determine the water quality of the main lake and the diversion lake, where the water goes, and how it effects the downstream area, says Masters. The study will also determine how much water must be released from Medina Lake to satisfy the Texas Parks and Wildlife equirements for fresh water to pour into the brackish coastal bays and estuaries, enabling shrimp and small fish to spawn.

The economic study will determine how much the water is worth paying for.

Lakehills

By James H. Frazar — 796-3718

Kat Reilly has returned to Lakehills after spending several weeks in San Antonio at the home of her son and daughter-in-law. She was convalescing after a stint in the hospital and surgery this past summer.

Kat is on the way to recovery and she says she is anxious to hear from and see her friends.

• "Sergeant" Millie Schenkat's 73rd birthday was celebrated by approximately 65 people at Shirley's Restaurant Friday, Nov. 18. Millie was out on an evening pass from the Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital and returned to the hospital after the party.

Millie went into the hospital Oct. 12 for surgery and spent 31 days there. She returned home for three days in mid-November, but went back in for another week.

Best guess is that Millie will return home this week.

• The Lakehills column seems to come and go, appearing one week in the paper and not the next. That has to do with material, folks. We at the Bulletin want to write about who's doing what, who's at what party, and who's in the hospital, but we need your help. Call 796-3718 next week during the day or 535-4779 at night and leave a message for James so he'll get your batch of neighborhood news.

Lakehills Methodists to decorate church

The United Methodist Church of Lakehills will host its fifth annual Hanging of the Greens Sunday, Nov. 27, beginning at 3 p.m.

Beginning at 3 p.m., members and friends of the Lakehills church will decorate the church for the Christmas season. "The Hanging of the Greens is a celebration of decoration of the church on the first Sunday of Advent," says organizer Carol Lobert.

Children will furnish chrismon ornaments and everyone will hang the Christian symbols on the tree in the sanctuary. Symbols include a fish, butterfly, lamb, and five- and six-point stars, says Lobert. Terry Gutz will explain what the symbols mean as the ornaments are placed on the tree.

Participants will bring ingredients to be cooked into soup that afternoon and corn bread for a meal that will be served at 6 p.m. with a short worship service held before supper.

"Everyone in the community is invited," says church member Doris Keslar. Call the church at 751-2406 or Keslar at 751-2512 for more information.

The church is located on 8th street, off Park Road 37, west of the EMS ambulance building.

Property owners elect Ralph Raby

The Medina River Ranch Association elected Ralph Raby as vice-president at their quarterly meeting Saturday, Oct. 8, at the home of association president, Rex Homeyer.

Other officers re-elected were Rex Homeyer, president; Doris Frazar, secretary; and Linda Morris, treasurer.

Don Johnson, Scott Morris, and Tony Vargus were re-elected to the board of directors to serve another term. Louise Beckham and Robert Paniagua were newly elected to the board of directors.

AARP members see slides of Europe trip

A European-tour slide show and a comedy skit on traveling will highlight the Monday, Nov. 28, meeting of the Medina Lake AARP at the Lakehills American Legion.

David and Florence Mayer will present slide shows from a tour of Europe at the regular meeting of the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons Monday, Nov. 28. There will also be a skit by Jack Munns and others on traveling.

The executive board of Medina Lake AARP met Monday, Nov. 19. New membership lists were made available and contain 132 names. Thanks were given to Jack and Mureil Munns and especially Jack's computer for the list, reports June Settlemeyer.

The highway cleanup on FM Road 1283 was held on Monday, Oct. 31, and was well attended, reports Smokey Settlemeyer. The next scheduled clean-up will be in January.

The future plans of the AARP include a dinner and installation of officers at their noon Dec. 12 meeting, says Settlemeyer. Other events of the day will be a Christmas program and songs by a choir.

Further down the road at the January meeting, there will be a program presented by local banker Sam Braswell.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

Taking a cue from the election pollsters, the Silver Sage senior center decided to run its own "man on the street" interviews with participants at the Center.

The question asked was a seasonal: "For what are you most thankful during this Thanksgiving holiday?" Some of the responses were unusual, some quite thought provoking, and a few were amusing.

Fully 78 percent of the respondents cited health, family, and The United States of America as their number one reason for being thankful. The other 22 percent said friends were number one.

Some 54 percent said freedom of religious worship was important, as opposed to the 46 percent who felt being able to live in a country where we could vote for the person of our choice to lead us was a great privilege for which we should be most grateful.

An unusual 30 percent said they were thankful for life in general, 30 percent said they were for giving thanks for today's youth, and the remaining 36 percent said that the security and pleasure they derived from living in a town like Bandera was a definite nod for grace at the Thanksgiving table. The last 4 percent said Texas was the place for which they were most grateful.

The Silver Sage Corral and its volunteers and staff were recognized by 93 percent of those surveyed, with the other 7 percent calling for a Thanksgiving blessing to people who donate time to improve the lives of others regardless of circumstances.

Here are some of the specific responses:

Mary Portman: "Good health, good friends, and the Silver Sage Corral."

Mary McCloskey: "My kids and my grandchildren, all of our good health, and for this wonderful county in which we live."

A.J. (Shorty) Searcy: "I'm thankful for the Lord and His assistance. I am thankful for this fine country, for our little town (Bandera), for the good health of my friends, my family, and myself, and for the young people and their future."

Manuel Flores: "I'm most thankful to live in a free country. Where else can you exercise your right to vote, worship as you please, voice your opinion without fear, and live your life as it pleases you?"

Marie Holland: "Being with my family and friends, our community, being able to attend church, and being in a position to help the less fortunate to enjoy this special holiday."

Julia McDaniel: "I'm thankful for my good health and that I still have my right mind. I'm thankful for having been able to maintain my sense of humor, for being a senior citizen, and for not having to worry about living another 80 years."

Glenn Rhines: "I'm thankful for that higher power, Jesus Christ. I'm thankful for The Silver Sage Corral and the wonderful work that it does. I'm thankful for family and friends and for my pets, for being an American and the religious freedom that we enjoy, and for clean air, clean water, peace of mind, and many of the little things we often take for granted."

Ollie Velvin: "I'm just thankful to be alive and have a wonderful family. I'm thankful for my friends, for The Silver Sage Corral and the people who work there, and for the fact that I'm able to go and enjoy the day there with all kinds of sweet, helpful people."

Ruby Lambert: "I'm thankful for my family and friends, and for the good health we all enjoy. I'm glad to live in a country where I can live as I please, read what I want to read, and think what I please."

May Bachelor: "I'm thankful for my husband, my children, my grandchildren, my great-grandchildren, my great-great-grandchildren, and all of my families' good health."

Joyce Sellberg: "For health, for older people who share their warmth and wisdom, for our country and its freedom and diversity. I'm thankful for small town living, for people that are helpful and courteous, for little children, for honesty and sageness and for young adults who are willing to listen. I'm grateful for the beauty and inspiration of our hill country, and for volunteers of all ages who work to improve and brighten the lives of others."

Purple Hills Manor

Members of Lakehills United Methodist Church came for church services Sunday. The Rev. B.J. Rogers used for his text Matthew, chapter 6, beginning with verse 26.

The youth choir, Rev. Rogers and the Sunbeams sang special songs.

Guests were Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick, David Noble, David Chupp, Margaret Lunblad, Wendy Kuemmerle, Aimee Kummerle, Shelly Charles, Kristina Conran, Jenny Roach, Brandi, Miles Wellis, Lynn Rogers, and Laura Crist.

• Residents Josephine Chapman, Ada Sehon, Evelyn Hostetter, Martha Fitzpatrick and Christine Kalka joined Fannie Caffall, Dorothy Callahan, Joyce Sellberg, and Annette Kalka-Schulte in the living room Monday evening for Rosary, prayers and singing.

• On Thursday, Nov. 10, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowman of San Antonio came by and took his sister, Lorena Bowman, to San Antonio to visit Brackenridge Park. They went by Charles' home and had a visit with Carmen's mother, Maria Mateu.

• Mary Ann Smith came by and took Jack Holloway to the basketball game at the high school.

• American Legion auxiliary members from Lakehills came for their monthly games party. Refreshments were served by Ruth Cowley and Gertrude Dohrow.

• Bill and Irene Smith visited Luther and June Mathis. Other visitors were their son and grandson, Artie and Johnny Mathis.

• Martin Smith from the Church of Christ had Bible reading for 15 residents Wednesday morning.

• Jeannette Hood and Ruby Shade visited Winnie Chaddock.

• Mama Jo Turner celebrated her birthday last week with a pretty cake, flowers and "happy birthday" wishes from everyone.

Visitors included Louis Postert, Ethel Fitzgerald, Margie Teich, Bill Short, Debbie, Jim, Kayla and Travis Chastain, and Ray and Cheryl Turner.

• Clare and Ashley Rugh came by to visit Uncle Charlie and Aunt Helen Rugh. They took Charlie to Bandera Downs to see the horse races.

• Members of the First Baptist Church of Pipe Creek came for their regular monthly meeting. The Rev. Ted Bosworth used for his text Psalm 100.

• Allen Akin visited Nola Baldock.

• J.B. Edwards took his mother, Edith Edwards, to services at the Pipe Creek Baptist Church.

• Mary Koehler attended services at the Grace Lutheran Church, thanks to Norma Barr.

• Hoyt and Laverne Hamrick visited friends in the home and took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ.

• Charlie and Helen Rugh spent the Sunday at home with family members.

• Judy Goodenough took Nola Baldock to services at the Bandera United Methodist Church.

• Mary Koehler's cousin, Sandy Hyatt of Kerrville visited her Sunday afternoon.

• Virginia Pue is home from the hospital, feeling much better.

• Cally Rees' visitors last week were Barbara Stevens, Lola Post, Dorothy Wyatt and Raymond and Letha Smith.

"WE CARE ABOUT PEOPLE"

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
Americans tend to believe that Thanksgiving is a private invention native to these shores, and in thousands of expatriate American homes around the world foreign friends are invited to share in the Thursday board. Foreigners rarely pass up an invitation of that kinds, particularly in countries where food is not plentiful ... The delights of the Thanksgiving table are world famous, but sometimes foreign guests are privately amused by the host's belief that the harvest festival originated in New England.
Actually, Thanksgiving, without the capitol letter, is in fact one of the oldest of celebrations. The Romans had formal banquets in honor of Cere, and the Druids always had a harvest rite on November 1. In many lands, the bringing in of the grain is accompanied by the symbolic ritual. All of these celebrations are rooted in early belief in a "corn spirit" or a "corn mother."
But we digress. It does not make any particular difference that the Thanksgiving turkey is the sacrifice to an ancient custom. The simple fact is that no other people in history has ever had as much to be thankful for as Americans. And that's not just cranberry sauce!

Linda Scruby of Bandera Downs gives a tour of the local race track to a group of representatives from the Travel Division of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Thursday, Nov. 17. Members of the group, who man the ports of entry stations at Texas' highway entries, got a three day look at Bandera County from Sundance Travel so they would be better equipped to inform tourists of the attractions in the Hill Country.

Institute of cultures plans Holiday Fest

Celebrate the holiday season with a touch of the Texas Folklife Festival at The Institute of Texan Cultures' third annual Holiday Festival Dec. 3.

Festivities will take place from 7 p.m. to midnight, and will include some of the sights, sounds, crafts and flavors of the Texas Folklife Festival.

The fundraising event will feature food from Polish, Lebanese, Italian, Wendish, Czech, Scottish, Mexican, Filipino, German, Belgian and Greek chefs, and from the Poteet Strawberry Association.

Festival craftspersons will demonstrate bobbin lacemaking, basket weaving and pinata-making techniques. Beekeepers will display a "winter hive," and other crafters will create paper silhouettes and fashion Polish wianeks (hair decorations).

Guests will be greeted at the door by participants in ethnic costume and the sounds of Christmas carols sung by a quartet from the Fiesta City Chorus of Sweet Adelines. The San Antonio Pipes and Drums and Ed Kadlacek and the Bavarian Village Band will entertain guests before and during dinner.

8:30 p.m. to midnight, with music provided by The Swing Set, a Dallas group specializing in the "Big Band" sound.

Admission is $25 for Institute members and $50 for non-members. Proceeds from the event will benefit a variety of Institute research, education and community service.

The Institute of Texan Cultures is located at 801 Grange Boulevard and Bowie Street on Hemisfair Park in downtown San Antonio.

For more information, or to make reservations, call The Institute at 226-7651.

Breast cancer detection unit due here Wednesday,

A mobile breast cancer detection unit will be in Bandera on Wednesday, Nov. 30, offering screening mammograms to local women for a $50 fee, according to the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the unit's appearance here.

Appointments may be made by calling 796-4312.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation, usually comparable to dental x-rays. It is designed to find very early cancers, chamber officials said.

According to the American Cancer Society, women who have no symptoms of disease should have a base-line mammogram when they are between the ages of 35 and 40, once every two years when they are in their 50s, and annually thereafter.

In addition, a mammogram is suggested for women of any age who experience a mass in the breast, nipple discharge, skin changes, or unexplained breast pain.

Bandera postmaster says 'Keep packages wrapped tight 'n tucked'

Aerobics instructors regularly remind their students to keep their tummies "tight" and "tucked." The same advice applies to preparing holiday parcels for mailing, says Bandera postmaster Joe Short.

"All that's necessary is choosing sturdy cartons or boxes, sealing them smoothly and tightly with the proper tape," Short says. "The paper can tear and the twine can get tangled in our mail processing equipment. Also, using paper or string isn't necessary if you're using proper boxes or cartons. If you feel a need to wrap and tie a box, that may be a signal that you don't think the box is sturdy enough to begin with. Get another one instead."

Parcels should be sealed with a type of tape designed for sealing packages - pressure sensitive, nylon-reinforced kraft paper or glass-fiber-reinforced pressure sensitive. Short advises against using cellophane or masking tape, because they're not strong enough.

"Correct addressing is as important for parcels as for letters," Short says. "If the box has been used before, be sure first to remove all old labels and addresses."

"The top of the package should show the name of the person to whom you are sending it, their house number and street, and the apartment number, if there is one. The last line should contain the city, state and ZIP Code and be sure to use the ZIP Code!"

The mailers' return address and ZIP Code should be in the upper left corner. And use smudge-proof ink, Short adds.

Preparing the inside of a package or box is as important as preparing the outside. The contents should be cushioned carefully with crumpled paper, with foam shell or air-pocket padding that is commercially available. Don't leave any empty space in the box.

"Before you seal the package, it is also a good idea to enclose a slip of paper showing the name and address of the person to whom you are sending the package," Short says. "Although it doesn't happen very often, parcels can get damaged so the outside address can't be read."

Finally, if a package contains irreplaceable valuables, send it by registered mail, Short advises.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 27,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, ● even before it can be felt.

Appointments may be made by calling 796-4312.

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Bandera on Wednesday, Nov. 30, 1988.

The American Cancer Society has established guidelines for mammography in asymptomatic women. (Women who have no symptoms of disease). Those guidelines have been adopted by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American College of Obstretricians and Gynecologists, and The American College of Radiology. Those guidelines are:

I. 35-40 years of age - One base-line mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $50.00. The Unit accepts, cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Tom Sawyer production filled with excitement

The production of Tom Sawyer, filled with excitement, mystery and love was considered a smashing hit by many who saw it. It was presented Nov. 12 in the BHS auditorium.

The play took you back to life on the Mississippi with Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer, and the cast consisted of jr. high and high school students.

Act I starts on a village street. Tom Sawyer, played by Eric Wylie, meets Jeff and Becky Thatcher, a new family in town. Tom falls for Becky. Jeff was played by Corey Winfield, and Becky was played by Kim Lukachik.

Tom is late for supper and has skipped school. Sid (Todd Vercighio) tells Aunt Polly (Marci Elliott) and Tom's punishment is painting the fence. While Aunt Polly is asleep, Tom talks his friends into painting it for him by telling them it's fun. They finish and Tom is rewarded.

At the opening of scene 4, Act 1, Tom is trying to learn a Bible verse for a contest. Before the contest, he talks his friends into their "tickets", so he can win but when Judge Thatcher (Richard Delamain) asks him a Bible question he can't answer it.

In the next act, the kids are in the schoolyard and the bell rings. Tom stays outside with Huck and they talk about going to the graveyard and casting a spell with a dead cat, to remove warts.

During lunch Tom convinces Becky to stay and share his lunch and he promises to teach her to draw. Tom's real intent is to become "engaged" to Becky. They kiss and promise not to tell her parents.

In scene 2; act 2, Tom and Huck go to the graveyard and witness the murder of Doc Robinson (Stacy Skloss). They promise each other and "shake" on it that they won't tell because they're afraid Injun Joe (John Malia) will murder them if he finds out.

Act 3 begins with the jailing of Muff Potter (Tasha VanderZee) who was drunk at the time of the murder and was blamed for it. Because of the situation Huck and Tom decided to run away.

Aunt Polly and the villagers can't find Tom so they assume he has drowned. They have a funeral for him, but during the ceremony, Tom and Huck show up.

At the trial for Muff Potter, Tom tells the judge who really murdered Doc, and Injun Joe races out of the room.

Later at a picnic, Huck, Tom and Becky go to a cave looking for treasure. They find Injun Joe and when he tries to take Becky he falls into a pit and dies.

Huck runs to tell the people and Becky and Tom get the treasure. Judge Thatcher divides the treasure equally among Tom, Becky, and Huck, and the village rejoices.

Other cast members included Mrs. Thatcher, Amie Nightingale; Cousin Mary, Elizabeth Edmonson; Ben Rogers, Brent Mansfield; Joe Harper, Jim Ruehl; Jim Hollie, Jennifer Skloss; Ted Austin, B.J. Chafin, Amy Lawrence, Pattie Kindla; Lydo Hollis, Marika Cook; Widder Douglas, Belinda Sanchez; Hope Austin, Julie Traweek; Suzie Harper, Courtney Osgood; Sam Rogers, Louis Tirado; Faith Harper, Samina Wasinfuddin; the school mistress, Anne Brown; and the constable, Bill Wyman.

The fifth grade chorus class, under the direction of Gwen Qualls, provided music for the production, and many other students and parents helped in the production of "Tom Sawyer: An American Legend in Music."

The play was directed by Julie Young, Barbara Barge, Peggy Swierc, and Carla Lukachik. Mary Molina was the student director.

Spirit quilt made

The Home Economics Apparel Class along with Ms. Lonette Wilton's help designed and constructed a "spirit" quilt consisting of 24 squares for the BHS athletes.

Each of the students designed his or her own square for the quilt. Every square had messages and designs of cloth covering it.

Measuring 16'x6', the quilt cost about $20 to make.

"We hope to display it in some manner as a gift from the Home Economics Department and FHA to the high school," said Ms. Wilton.

The quilt, along with the FHA's "Blue Machine" banner, were displayed at Janett's. They are intended as a booster for school spirit in all athletic competitions.

Younger students learn from BHS drug free group

Bandera High School's drug free campaign went to the elementary and junior high schools. A few active members of the campaign presented a program for the younger audience.

Kim Lukachik acted as the addict. Her character had been rejected by her parents so she had turned to drugs as the answer. She tried many different kinds of drugs, and found herself trapped in the world of drugs, realizing that the only way out was through her family. Clint Schantz and Galy Kluna portrayed her parents and David Kelley was her brother. The rest of the cast portrayed the various kinds of drugs she tried.

After the skit, Peggy Whitehead, Clint Schantz, David Kelley, and Alfredo Richardson spoke to the children about the harmful effects of drugs. Then a question-and- answer session was held.

"Elementary kids participated a lot in the question-and-answer session," said Kim Lukachik. "We were impressed with how open they were. It worries us that the kids understand and some have already come in contact with the drug problem.

Seniors order caps, gowns for graduation exercises

Seniors took one more step towards graduation as they prepared to order caps, gowns, and announcements.

Josten's representative Jim Yancy came to BHS Nov. 18 and showed the seniors a short slide presentation on what they could order. They each received a brochure and price list.

In addition to caps, gowns, and announcements, seniors will also order name cards, thank you cards, memory books, and other graduation paraphernalia.

This year, Josten's is featuring a new "Texas" tassel with a larger number.

Book club to meet at high school

Bandera Book Club will discuss poetry by poets "both far away and local" at their next meeting Wednesday, Nov. 30 at 4 p.m.

The group meets at the Bandera High School library, and recent discussion topics have included "The Color Purple," by Alice Walker; and "The Birth Order Book," by Kevin Leman.

Wednesday's program will include the writings of local poet Sue Holloway.

For more information, contact the Rev. Ann Locasio in Medina at 589-2646.

Bandera High School special education teachers Kathryn Beavers, left and Helen Real make a point about computers during a classroom discussion.

New vocational teacher is Comfort native

Going down the hall of BHS, students have noticed a few new faces that weren't those of students.

One of these faces is a new teacher, Mrs. Real. She teaches special education courses in English, history, geography and economics. She attended and graduated from Comfort schools, and then attended and graduated from Texas A&M where she received a degree in industrial education. She returned to Comfort when she married, and she now resides there.

Mrs. Real chose Bandera because of the job training program titled "the VAC Program." Her title is Vocational Adjustment Coordinator.

Different projects have been proposed for the year such as the kids making crafts for the Shoppers' Jubilee in December. They'll be working with Mrs. Kathy Gardner, the special education teacher for the multi-handicapped at the Junior High, and her class.

Crafts will consist of Christmas decorations and other seasonal items. The money made from the project would go back into the program and toward a trip to reward the students.

When asked if she enjoys her job, Mrs. Real stated, "I do like it. They are a really neat group of kids."

Patricipants 'survive' smokeout with help from their friends

Bandera High School students and faculty who smoke, dip snuff or chew and wished to quit for at least the day, signed up with an FHA student last week during the Great American Smokeout. FHA members prepared each person who signed up a survival kit to help them make it through their tobacco-free day, Thursday, Nov. 17.

The kits contained various items such as candy, stickers, gum and puzzles, and were handed out on break on Thursday. A few of the smokers were "adopted" by friends who tried to help them make it through the day smoke-free.

In all, 60 bags were prepared for participants.

Julie Hearn's name was inadvertently omitted from Professionals of America. Julie was elected Historian.

Art winners named

Bandera High School sponsored an art contest Nov. 12 for all art students.

Robert Bloxham placed first; Roger Rizner placed second; Christi Schindler placed third; and Shannon Richardson and Willie Bates received honorable mention.

For Art I, the winners were Kenneth Wilson, first; Kathryn Holcomb, second; Guy Celis, third; and Raymond Quigg, Anthony Andrade, Lea Martin, and Wade Mayfield, honorable mention.

"The Art II classes took a field trip to the San Antonio Museum of Art Nov. 17, and Dec. 1 there will be another trip for Art I.

Art students are preparing for many spring art shows.

Judges were impressed with the talent represented at BHS.

"My students work hard and produce some excellent art," commented Mrs. Connie Young.

Daycare & Learning Center

Pre-school daycare is often necessary for a family. Some families find they need both parents working to pay the bills and buy additional items. Other families are single parent families with no other option. Some mothers just need a day out. Noah's Ark Day Care at Grace Lutheran Church has a charter to provide a Christian orientation in this caring, trained and caring adult workers, and a 10½ hour center five days a week.

Grace Lutheran is proud to serve the families of the Bandera area with this center, which includes after school care. Call 796-4722 for information.

Thanksgiving dinner shows Texas bounty

[illegible] ed in Massachusetts, but the foods that [illegible] traditional meal have also become important Texas agricultural products.

The star of Thanksgiving dinner is the turkey and about 7.4 million of them are grown in Texas each year.

According to Dr. David Mellor, a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Extension Service, Texas is about the 11th largest producer of turkeys in the country.

However, chances are that the whole turkey carved at your Thanksgiving table won't be from Texas.

"Most of the Texas grown turkey ends up in value added products such as cooked boneless breasts, luncheon meat and prepared products which are sent to the East and West Coasts," said Mellor.

In the meantime, fresh and frozen whole birds are shipped in from Arkansas, Missouri and other producing states for the Thanksgiving feast.

From the corn meal for cornbread stuffing to the whipped cream for your pumpkin pie, just about every dish served at Thanksgiving in Texas.

Sweet potatoes are produced in central Texas around Elgin, in the Lubbock area and in east Texas where they're harvested in the early fall.

White potatoes are grown in Texas too, although by Thanksgiving most white potatoes are coming from Idaho and other northern states. The Texas white potatoes are harvested in July and August.

Fresh fall vegetables for your dinner, especially winter squash, cauliflower, broccoli, carrots and spinach come from Texas' Rio Grande Valley and the winter garden area of southwest Texas.

Although many of these vegetables are shipped out of state for processing, they are also offered fresh through stores and farmer's markets.

Pecans are grown commercially in 183 Texas counties. This year's crop is estimated at 45 million pounds. Although the pecans are slightly smaller due to the drought, they're of excellent quality.

The Thanksgiving meal illustrates the fact that Texas agriculture is increasingly diverse.

Maple leaves are 'gone,' park spokesman discloses

Less than ideal weather conditions are the main reason that Lost Maples' colorful display is probably over for the season, according to officials at the state natural area.

[illegible] Lost Maples State Natural Area. "Some of the Spanish oaks may turn red, if we have several more days of the cooler weather, but even some of those leaves have already turned brown."

Although the colorful display is reportedly over, Payne said the park is booked solid for the holiday weekend, and they are expecting capacity crowds.

ADOPT A PET OF BANDERA

Are you plagued with stray dogs or cats? Bandera County does not operate a Humane Shelter at this time. What to do with the stray pets? Consider carrying the stray pet to the Veterinarians at Hill Country Veterinary Hospital (across from Alkek Elementary). Stray animals will be sheltered for a short time while hospital staff attempt to place the pet in a home. Two requirements exist: 1. No UNWANTED pets-strays only! 2. Adopting pet owners will be responsible for required vaccination expense and a nominal spay or neuter fee if applicable at time of release.

Call Hill Country Veterinary Hospital Day or night for further information at 796-3787.

Cards of Thanks and Public Notices

THANK YOU
We, the family of O.S. "Pop" Darden, wish to express our heart felt thanks and gratitude to our friends who share our grief and sorrow at the passing of our father and husband. The floral arrangements, memorials and food are deeply appreciated and will long be remembered. A special thanks to Rev. Daunt, the nursing staff of the Edgewater Care Center in Kerrville, and Grimes Funeral Home.

NOTICE
This is notice of intent to introduce a local bill in the forthcoming session of the Legislature to impose a Tax on Occupancy in a hotel, motel, or similar facility in Bandera County.

PUBLIC HEARING
Dear Lot Owner:
On Monday, December 12, 1988, at 9:00 a.m. at the Bandera County Courthouse, Commissioner's Courtroom, Bandera, Texas, a public hearing will be held for the replatting of Lots 12, Block 40, and Lot 1, Block 39, Avalon Ranch Subdivision "D", on Elmhurst Drive. The owner, Ernest H. Allen, is replatting his two lots to combine them into one lot.
In accordance with Bandera County Subdivision Regulations, as well as State Regulations, if you are an owner within 500 feet of these said lots, this notice is to serve as notice of this Public Hearing and your right to attend and present disapproval or approval of this replat. If you wish, you may send your vote of approval or disapproval in writing to: Baker Surveying, Inc. 11003 Wye Drive, San Antonio, Texas 78217.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS OF PROPOSED TEXAS HIGHWAY MAINTENANCE WORK

THANKSGIVING NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
O Holy St. Jude, apostle and martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ. Faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. To you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause to be invoked.
Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us, and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail.
*Here make your request.

HAVE A BIG TIME IN TEXAS

Thanks

Tarpley
By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Tarpley Baptist Church.

The fellowship hall rocked with cheer as 84 guests congratulated Marie and Earl Hood and renewed acquaintances with friends and relatives. Guests traveled from as far away as Alaska and New Jersey.

Marie was thrilled with the surprise appearance of her Aunt Zelma, the surviving member of her generation. Four of the Hoods' children, four grandchildren and a great-grandchild were among the 28 persons who attended.

The table arrangement was composed of shades of gold with a three-tiered cake. Ceremonies featured Earl and Marie cutting their cake and feeding a piece to each other.

The observance ended with a banquet at the Bandera Inn with Earl and Marie as the honored guests.

Hosts for the celebration were the Hoods' four children and their spouses: Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hood of King Salmon, Alaska; Mr. and Mrs. Nabil Taha of Brunswick, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cheatham of Burnet; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of Baytown.

• Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Dean drove to Lost Maples Park Tuesday morning. The leaves are falling fast now, and there's not too much golden color there but it's nice to see.

In the afternoon they visited the Reverend Mr. Murray Hulse at Leakey and enjoyed seeing their taxidermist museum.

Bandera Bulldog cagers to host 24-game tournament here Dec. 1-3

Four basketball teams from [illegible] the annual Bandera Bulldog Invitational Basketball Tournament here Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 1-3.

"As is the custom, the tourney will be round robin affair in which each team plays all other teams in the field. The team with the best record is declared the winner.

Competition will be among varsity and junior varsity boys and girls teams. Entries include Comfort, Medina Valley of Castroville, Pearsall, Crystal City, Natalia and Bandera.

In all there will be 24 games played in both the high school and junior high school gymnasiums. Action gets under way at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 1, when Comfort's varsity girls take on Medina Valley at the high school gym and Bandera's junior varsity boys face Natalia in the junior high gym.

Bandera's varsity girls open at 6:30 p.m. Thursday against Natalia and play Comfort at 6:30 p.m. Friday and Medina Valley in the tourney's final game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Bandera's varsity boys open at 8 p.m. Thursday with Natalia, face Pearsall at 8 p.m. Friday and Crystal City at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Bandera junior varsity girls play Cole at 5 p.m. Thursday, Comfort at 3:30 p.m. Friday and Medina Valley at noon Saturday. The Bulldog junior varsity boys play Natalia at 3:30 p.m. Friday, Pearsall at 5 p.m. Friday, and Crystal City at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Varsity games and Saturday's junior varsity games will be played at the high school gym and Thursday and Friday junior varsity games will be in the junior high gym.

Sophomore Bo Mansfield goes high into the air to save the ball during the Bulldogs' appearance Saturday in HemisFair Arena. Smithson Valley won the game, 55-44, to spoil Bandera's opener. The Bulldogs will play three games here this week in the Bandera Bulldog Invitational Basketball Tournament which gets under way Thursday.

Ranchers 5, Coyotes 0

Bounty was reported paid on five coyotes killed last month when the Community Wolf Club met Monday, Nov. 7.

Bounty was paid on coyotes reported killed on the Dewitt Leibold ranch on Bump Gate Road, the Henry Schaffer ranch south of Bandera, the Loyce Odom ranch southeast of Pipe Creek, the Betty Kelso Auerhahn ranch on Red Bluff Creek, and the Flying A Ranch. Coyotes not eligible for bounty were also reported killed on the Flying A Ranch west of Hondo, the Forest Stevens ranch near Myrtle Creek. A coyote was reported shot by a hunter on the LH7 Ranch northwest of Bandera.

A coyote was reported run over by Steve Forest on Hwy. 2828, according to Wolf Club reporter Bob Mansfield. "Steve was running for sheriff so fast, this coyote had no chance," commented Mansfield.

Mansfield also reported 14 hogs and two goat-killing dogs killed on various ranches in the area.

"This makes a total of 18 coyotes paid bounty on this year, and 19 killed ineligible for bounty," Mansfield said. He also reported 115 wild hogs, 35 predator dogs, two bobcats and one red fox killed this year.

Steer roping

Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association's steer roping world standings as of Nov. 15, 1988

1. Shaun Burchett, Pryor, Okla. $28,097; 2. Roy Cooper, Durant Okla., $25,255; 3. Guy Allen, Eunice, N.M., $19,716; 4. Jim Davis, Bandera, $18,855; 5. Phil Lyne, Cotulla, $16,468; 6. Bob Harris, Voca, $15,02?; 7. Tee Woolman, Llano, $14,875; 8. Rod Hartness, Pawhuska, Okla., $14,302; 9. Dan Fisher, Andrews, $14,003; and 10. Roy Angermiller, Uvalde, $12,966.

Wild turkeys had poor nesting year in 1988

Hen-poult counts conducted by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists indicate spring 1988 wild turkey production was the lowest in recent history.

Extremely dry weather during the critical early spring period cut into nesting success and poult survival, according to Don Wilson, upland game program leader.

However, hunters still should see plenty of turkeys during the upcoming fall and spring hunting seasons. "This year was a bad one for production, but 1987 was outstanding," Wilson said. This means there are enough holdover birds to keep overall populations fairly high, he noted.

The statewide average count of poults per hen this year was 0.25, compared to 2.67 poults per hen in 1987. Wilson said that of the 6,021 hens observed during 1988 surveys, only 469 were seen with poults.

This lack of production was consistent throughout the state's turkey range. Counts averaged less than one poult per hen in the five major ecological regions that comprise most of the state's turkey range.

The fall turkey hunting season runs concurrently with the white-tailed deer season. In most of Texas the regular season is Nov. 5-Jan. 1. In South Texas, the whitetail season is Nov. 12-Jan. 8.

4 arrested in drug bust

Property and narcotics with an estimated street value of $200,000 were seized and four people were arrested Monday when federal drug officers, assisted by drug task force agents and Bandera county law officials, converged on a location near Pipe Creek.

At the same time, the district task force has recently heard their funding will be extended into 1989.

Robert Smallwood, Marty Brown, Debbie Bullock and Sandra Goff were arrested and taken to a San Antonio federal facility, according to Bandera county sheriff Guy Pickett.

"At about 11 a.m. I was contacted by Greg Whitlock, an agent with DEA, and advised of an ongoing investigation he was working in Bandera County," said Pickett.

"We drove by a residence on Rio Ranchero Road and the odor of a meth lab was very strong from the street in front of the Robert Smallwood residence," the sheriff said.

Whitlock had a federal search warrant sent from San Antonio, and had several DEA officers come up to help serve the warrant, according to Pickett.

Drug task officers also assisted DEA agents, according to task force chief Jim Harvey.

"At about 5 p.m. we converged on the residence and executed the warrant," said Pickett, who added that property and narcotics with a street value of about $200,000 were seized.

"Also, we recovered two stolen vehicles, a 1985 Toyota van and one Chevrolet blazer," Pickett said.

The 216th District drug task force got a 30 day extension on funding that was to run out Nov. 30 and prospects "look good" for funding that will allow the program to operate next year.

"All task forces have been extended and will be reviewed for extensions in January to run through September when the funding cycle begins," said John Coffell of the state's Criminal Justice Department.

The 216th was one of 14 from the state's 33 task forces due to expire at the end of November. All 14 programs have been extended, Coffell said.

Not all task forces are guaranteed of being extended in January, but the 216th is "certain for continuation through the end of next year," said 216th attorney Bruce Curry, task force coordinator.

Curry said the task force just recently got the news of their extension, and that the outlook is "favorable."

The state received Federal Justice Assistance money to help fund the task forces and has $2.3 million still remaining to be used for amending each force's budget to meet the extensions, according to Coffell.

The 216th district task force has been involved in or responsible for at least 10 drug indictments in Bandera since June, and they have also been active in Kerr, Kendall and Gillespie counties.

Judge rules Raser eligible to serve

County Judge Ray E. Mauer ruled Monday that errors made when Roger Raser was named to replace Republican nominee Gary Smith on the Nov. 8 general election ballot were "administrative" and do not warrant declaring Raser ineligible to serve as county commissioner.

Raser was named to replace Smith on the ballot in August by the Bandera County Republican Executive Committee, which also ruled the party's elected nominee ineligible to serve as county commissioner because he had moved out of the county.

The county clerk was not notified of the action in writing prior to the deadline established in the Texas Election Code.

The oversight caused the matter to be thrown in Judge Mauer's lap. His written ruling was dated Monday, Nov. 28.

"There were some administrative errors made in this regard, but not to the extent that the candidate, Roger Raser, would be declared ineligible," Mauer said. "I have coordinated this ruling with the secretary of state's office," the judge said.

Raser defeated Democratic incumbent A.A. (Pete) Reed, 393 votes to 334.

Judge Mauer said his ruling may have been different had the matter been called to his attention earlier. Though the Texas Election Code directs that the matter be decided by the county judge if it is called to his attention after the election, Mauer made reference to another provision of the code that applies to removing a candidate's name from the ballot.

Roger Raser

Reed brought the matter up Monday, Nov. 21, when he delivered a letter to county Democratic chairman Nick Johnson asking the party to investigate the matter and "take the appropriate action." Johnson referred it to Judge Mauer for a ruling.

Bandera spirits assure others' Christmas

By James Henry Frazar
Staff Writer

"Will I get anything for Christmas?" It's not a question most of us ask. Rather, we ask, "How many?" But for far too many, Christmas could come and go without any gifts, save for Bandera County's Spirits of Christmas Presents.

The Spirits of Christmas Presents organization strives to make sure that each child in Bandera County has gifts for Christmas and that their family has a Christmas dinner. Last year the organization served 125 families in Bandera County, many rural, but some also in the county's towns.

The people of The Spirits of Christmas Presents don't want any child to go without Christmas, no matter what the reason. "We go knowing that these children may not have a Christmas without us and their family won't have a Christmas dinner," says Jim Evans, one of the directors of the organization.

This year on Christmas Eve, several Santas each with an elf helper, bags of toys, and boxes of food will drive to predetermined homes to deliver their gifts. The presents are marked with the child's first name, making the gifts a little more personal. The project tries to give four gifts to each child, with at least one very good toy.

Sometimes the children open the packages while the Santa and Elf are still at the home, says Evans, who has been a Santa for several years. One time a girl wanted a watch, he recalls. She tore into each package, hoping for that one special gift, all the time glad for what she received.

There wasn't a watch among the presents, but before the girl could get through all the gifts, the elf had brought in a wrapped watch from the truck. "Oh, Santa, you 'dropped' one gift on your way in," Evans' helper told him. Evans says he neyer expected to see such joy in someone at receiving a watch.

There are other cases when the gift was just right. Evans recalled a used bike they gave one boy as being exactly what he wanted.

Gifts are purchased from Bandera merchants by members of The Spirits of the Christmas Presents project using donated money. Gifts are also donated directly by area residents. There are collection boxes at the First State Bank, Bandera Bank, and the Dairy Queen in Bandera, says Evans. Canned food donations are also accepted at these sites.

Donated toys should be new preferably, but used toys in good condition can also be used by the project. Donated toys should be sturdy. "The donated gifts need to be a real playable gift, as what the children receive this Christmas may be the only toys the children have," says Evans.

Donated toys should be in the middle to lower price range. "We don't get many ex- sive toys, and that makes it difficult to distribute (the toys) evenly among the children," says Evans.

The project serves children from age 0 to 18, and the fewest gifts they have are for junior high age children, "because they are so hard to buy for," says Evans. Clothes and games seem to be the usual gifts for junior high children.

Families are referred to The Spirits of Christmas Presents from sources such as school teachers, nurses and the school lunch program. The project also gets referrals from Helping Hand, the Texas Department of Human Resources, and clergymen. "Anyone can refer someone," says Evans. "We get the names of those that need a visit from Santa from people that notice that a child has a need."

Information needed for a referral are the name, age, and sex of each child in a family, each child's size for clothes, and the location of the family's living quarters.

Representatives of The Spirits of Christmas Presents and a Santa will be in front of Shoe Biz in Bandera during Friday's Shopper's Jubilee to hand out flyers, describe the project, take names of volunteers, and accept donations, says Evans.

To help or make a referral, call Karen Jackson at 796-4870 or Evans at 796-3201.

Donations may also be mailed to The Spirits of Christmas Presents, P.O. Box 282, Bandera. All donations are tax deductible, says Evans.

from the hill

By Tom Denyer

George Bush may or may not deal handily with debts, deficits, cutbacks and taxes. Central America and the Middle East may or may not blow up in his face.

It almost seems not to matter, as far as the Democrats' prospects for recapturing the White House go. Whether or not Bush drops the crown, the Democrats may not be in shape to pick up the pieces.

The struggle for the party's heart and soul has already begun. One point of view sees the party as too identified with something called "liberalism," whatever that means now or in the past. So the party will have to become less liberal — whiter, more masculine, friendlier to giant corporations.

Another point of view sees the party as already trying too hard to be Republican. Why vote for an imitation Republican when you can have the real thing? Instead, according to this viewpoint, Democrats should organize non-voters who number at least one of every two eligible voters.

Having organized these potential Democrats, the party would get them to the polls with "populist" and "progressive" candidates and programs.

The "we're too liberal" viewpoint predominates among Democratic elected officials in cities, counties, governors' offices and state legislatures, and the U.S. Congress. The party's activist rank and file — minority group leaders, labor and community activists, and intellectuals — prefer to expand the electorate and transform the party into a social movement, not just a device for putting people in office.

In Texas, for example, established party leaders say that Bentsen's presence on the ticket made a 7 percent difference in the vote for president and contributed to Democrats regaining two of the six Congressional seats lost in the 1984 Reagan landslide. Bentsen, after all, polled 59 percent to Bush's 56 percent.

The party establishment spent $3 million identifying and mobilizing supporters, including 1 million "swing voters."

Liberals respond that swing voters — also known as Reagan Democrats and "the Bubba vote" — number about 900,000. Registered Hispanics number 1.2 million. Blacks about 700,000. With higher registration and turnout among Hispanics and Blacks, a statewide Democratic candidate needs only slightly less than 40 percent of the Anglo vote to win.

To put it another way, Texas Democrats will never be competitive in presidential elections without carrying Bexar and Harris counties (San Antonio and Houston) by substantial margins, while developing populist appeals to economically discontented, working-class Anglos.

The battle will be joined in Texas when treasurer Ann Richards and Attorney General Jim Mattox face each other in the spring 1990 primary. The conflict will also surface if, as expected, commissioner of agriculture Jim Hightower challenges Phil Gramm for his senate seat.

So it looks like the Democrats are in for some rough and tumble. Does that mean Republicans are home free?

Not necessarily.

Terry Nicholas will return next week.

U.S. would support tariff, if..., Kent Hance says

Texas' man in Vienna, Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance, last week warned that Texas, Alaska and other oil states could convince the rest of the nation to support a tariff on imported oil if OPEC let prices drop as low as $10 a barrel.

Hance made his statements while monitoring the closed-door talks between Iran and Iraq which threaten to flood the market with more oil, a move that would stall the recovering Texas economy.

Hance said West Texas intermediate oil, the nation's benchmark, might fall to $10 unless OPEC moved to bolster prices.

He was in Vienna, Austria with Louisiana state Sen. Samuel Nunez, who commented that stability at $10 is better than instability at $20.

Texas currently produces about 2 million barrels a day, approximately 25 percent of U.S. production.

Consumers nervous

A Texas poll showed consumers lost confidence in the Texas economy during the price fall, indicating how sensitive Texans are to the oil market.

According to the survey, 39 percent of respondents expected good times for Texas businesses in 1989, compared to 47 percent in a similar summer poll.

Thirty-nine percent said they will be worse off, compared to 43 percent during the summer survey.

Coming issues

Sleeping with one eye open during the oil price fall were members of the next legislative session, who will go into session in the black for the first time in years.

Among the top issues lawmakers will tackle are school finance and workers' compensation insurance costs.

The cost of workers' comp insurance rose 74 percent in the last three years, and will go up another 19 percent in 1989.

Economic development efforts have been adversely affected by the high rates. One lawmaker said workers' comp costs in Missouri are $175 per employee compared to $750 per worker in Texas.

The 71st Legislature is expected to look at the worker safety program, as well.

Hubbard retiring

Texas labor will also have a new look this session, with long-time AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard's plan to step down.

Hubbard won't seek re-election, but instead will support the promotion of Secretary-Treasurer Joe Gunn to the top spot.

Gunn is a veteran to the ways of the Legislature and will get his chance to shine this session lobbying for labor issues.

Dead on arrival

Thirteen Texas senators, pledged last week to block any legislation making English the state's official language.

"It's dead on arrival," said Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, at a Capitol news conference.

Edwards was joined at the press conference by Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, and Sen Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth.

"To designate Texas as 'English only' is simply unnecessary at best, and divisive at worst," Edwards said. "It's time for Texas to pull together, not be pulled apart."

Under Senate rules, 11 senators can block legislation from passing in the 31- member chamber.

• State Comptroller Bob Bullock said he will block 10 organizations in the Houston-Beaumont area from sponsoring bingo games due to numerous violations of state law.

Helping others

Dear editor:

When I was a little girl growing up in Bandera County, Christmas was always such a happy time for me. I just couldn't wait until Christmas Eve and I always received so many nice things and had a wonderful Christmas day.

After the Christmas holidays were over and school started again, I would always hear that there were some children who did not have a happy Christmas and it would make me sad. I didn't understand it then, but I understand it now.

Some families in our area just cannot afford to have a nice Christmas without the help of others, and this is why I enjoy working with the Gifts of Love Organization.

The people who contribute to the Gifts of Love program are thoughtful, caring individuals who enjoy sharing their many blessings with others less fortunate.

It is truly a heart-warming feeling to be involved in a worthy project of this type and if you would like to help this year, you may send your donation to Gifts of Love, Rt. 1 Box 771 Bandera. We also have an account open at First Federal Savings for those who want to contribute in that manner.

It would really help to have all donations in by Dec. 16 as all items given are new and we like to shop for them while there is still a nice selection in the stores.

To be forgotten at Christmas time is a lonely feeling for anyone, but it is especially so for children. They stare out the window and wonder why Santa did not come to their house this year.

In the giving of your gift, you will be making sure this does not happen to the underprivileged children in our area.

No child, of any age, should ever have a Christmas without presents that is "just another day."

Pat D'Spain
Bandera

It just hurts

Dear editor:

Someone threw a beautiful puppy into our yard which is totally fenced, and the poor little thing died of internal injuries before we found it.

Now, we were looking for a puppy — just about like this fluffy little one. If the people who threw him in our yard had only come to our door and asked if we wanted him, he would not be dead today.

Disposing of unwanted puppies and kittens seems to be a growing problem. I think, one of the problems here is money. Most people can't afford $50 or more to have their bitches spayed — and nearly that amount for kitten factories. It's a little less for males, but not affordable for people trying to feed their families.

I know the vets need to pay their expenses — and their time and expertise is worth money.

I don't have any answers. It just hurts to find a beautiful puppy dead in our yard.

Bandera County

potpourri

By Nick Johnson

The city of Boerne is suing the state of Texas because it wants to keep secret some documents the attorney general says it must make public. The case is especially interesting here because the city of Bandera gets its legal advice from the same law firm, indeed the same attorney, that advised Boerne to spend thousands of dollars to challenge a state law.

Attorney Randall Richards of the Boerne law firm of Hollon, Marion and Richards acts as city attorney for both the city of Boerne and the city of Bandera.

Richards drew fire here in city council chambers two weeks ago from a couple of citizens concerned about more than his $10,000, two-month bill to the city.

They also questioned his habit of refusing to answer questions from citizens or council members unless he is in a secret, executive session.

Any questions. About any subject.

He says his answer to any question amounts to "legal advice" and he does not give legal advice in public. (All the while, his $100-per-hour meter is running, whether in public session or private, whether he's giving "legal advice" or refusing to give it.)

The same kind of reasoning is behind the lawsuit he filed this week for the city of Boerne.

The Hill Country Recorder quotes that city's Mayor Patrick Heath explaining the information the city does not want to make public falls into three categories: (1) information considered protected by the attorney-client privilege, (2) an attorney's work product, and (3) the identification of citizens who offered information that led to the resignation of Police Chief Walt Myers.

Point No. 3 is a valid concern. The Boerne city council should have been advised to warn those citizens that their identity (but not their testimony) would be made public, as required by state law.

As for points No. 1 and 2, the Open Meetings Act is explicit. "Private consultation between a governmental body and its attorney are not permitted...;" the act reads, with three rather narrow exceptions listed.

And nowhere in the Open Meetings Act do I find anything that might remotely justify treating an attorney's work product any differently than, for example, an engineer's work product or a certified public accountant's.

The Recorder published one more revealing quotation from barrister Richards: "Some things should be withheld or a government can't be as good a government as they could be," observes the attorney.

The question is, counselor, who's to decide what part of the people's information should be withheld from the people?

Keeping $ home called chamber's 'job one'

"Keeping local dollars at home rather than sending them out of the county is the primary goal of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce," says economic development committee chairman Joe McMullen.

The chamber is working through the Texas Department of Commerce to focus attention on diversifying the economic base of Bandera County to include such areas as food processing, Main Street mercantile growth, and general tourist development, says McMullen, and he hopes these efforts will result in more of the dollars carried in the county being spent here.

"Special attention is going to activities for greater local dollar growth for the county wide business community," says McMullen.

Pointing to figures released recently by the Texas A&M University extension service that show more than one-half of the money spent by Bandera County residents is spent in other counties, McMullen said the thrust of his efforts is to encourage more spending locally.

"It will be a monumental task," McMullen stated, "to get the governmental units and schools as well as local citizens spend money out of the county."

He suggests involvement with chamber activities as one way local residents can help curtail the dependence of local persons and groups on out-of-the-county merchants. "We urge everyone in the community to plan becoming involved (with chamber activities) as the New Year approaches," he said. "You can begin thinking about how your goals, together with your neighbors, can begin to form guidelines to improve the economy, yet maintaining its character."

Figures produced in a statewide survey by the extension service show that sales in Bandera County represent only 38.5 percent of income, a figure well below neighboring counties.

Sales in Kerr County represent 67.8 percent of income, Comal County (New Braunfels) 74.4 percent, Bexar County 97.6 percent, and Kendall County 84.5 percent. Sales in Medina County (Hondo and Castroville) actually exceeded income.

Dry November puts area 13 inches under normal

November's rainfall came to an official 0.02 inches for Bandera, giving a total for the year of 17.75 inches, short by 13.35 inches of the average 31.1 inches that normally falls during the first 11 months of the year.

November's rainfall came Nov. 10 when the 0.02 inches drizzled. Average rainfall for November is 2.22 inches. Measurements are taken at the City of Bandera.

October's rainfall was short by 3.18 inches, with the county receiving officially a meager 0.77 inches of rain. Only during the last three days of October had there been any significant rainfall events. Saturday, Oct. 29 gave 0.54 inches, followed by Oct. 30th's 0.04, and Oct. 31st's 0.15 inch reading.

Hurricane Gilbert, whose rains brought an official 3.99 inches to Bandera over a four-day period Sept. 17-20, has helped many farmers and ranchers with their crops, says conservationist Billy Griffin of the Bandera Soil and Water Conservation District.

The 4.84 inches of rain received in September was early enough to get the county's crops going, says Griffin. The warm days and warm nights of the last three months have enabled the grasses and crops to grow. However, it has not been a banner year for crop growth, he says.

Rainfall from Gilbert varied from 4.5 inches in Lakehills, two inches in the Medina area, and only one inch in other parts of the county.

In the past 37 years, three other years received 17 inches of rain or less for the year. With 15.93 inches of rain in 1951, 13.19 inches of rain in 1954, and 11.63 inches by the end of 1956, 1988 is shaping up as the fourth worse year for rainfall since records were kept.

The lack of rainfall is still not serious, but if rains do not come this winter, then there will be no moisture stored in the ground to start the spring crops, says Griffin. "If we miss out on rains in April and May, then it could be serious for the crops," he says.

The average rainfall for December is 1.47 over the past 37 years, with rainfall varying from zero in five separate years to 6.49 inches in 1986.

Rainfall for 1987 was 36.42 inches, 3.85 inches above average.

Grand jury indicts five

Bandera county Grand Jury handed down six indictments or true bills, and one no bill Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Tommie Lee Heinen was indicted on one count of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and one count of burglary of a building. Heinen had at least two prior convictions for burglary, and Wednesday's charges were enhanced.

Rafael Yniguez Jr. and Lester Comeaux were both indicted for burglary of a habitation.

George Torres and Julie Swainson (also known as Julie Fender) were both indicted on charges of possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

The grand jury no billed Edmundo Aleman on a charge of involuntary manslaughter stemming from an accident in August that killed one San Antonio man.

Training for cookie managers

Girl Scout volunteer troop cookie managers will be trained in the art of selling Girl Scout cookies through Dec. 5 in the San Antonio and Kerrville area.

Trainings at the Girl Scout Service Center, 10443 Gulfdale in San Antonio will be held Dec. 1 and 2 at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., and Dec. 3 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Kerrville Girl Scout House, 800 Barnet in Kerrville, will have a training Dec. 1 at 7 p.m.

Palo Alto College, 1400 Villaret in San Antonio, will have a training Dec. 5 at 6:30 p.m.

Registration is 15 minutes prior to the meeting time, and sessions are set to last about 1½ hours, officials said. Packets containing troop sales aids and forms will also be available for participants.

The Girl Scout cookie sale is set to begin with order-taking Jan. 7-22, and direct sales Feb. 16-March 5.

For more information, contact Julie Rose at 349-2404.

Workshop planned

There will be a reception on Friday, Dec. 2, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. for 24 artists selected from the 144 participants in four recent workshops sponsored by the Cowboy Artists of America Museum.

This exhibit, the fourth annual Showcase, will feature new works by 20 painters and 4 sculptors. It will continue at the Museum through January 8, 1989.

Emergency clinic busy during holiday weekend

Several emergency EMS runs had patients "stacked three deep" in the emergency bay at Clear Fork Medical Center Friday, according to Dr. Royce McAnally.

With the unusually high volume of calls that day, there were virtually no ambulances left that weren't in use, the doctor said.

A Iowa man staying at the KOA park was admitted at the emergency facility in cardiac arrest, but several attempts to revive him were in vain, McAnally said.

A Utopia man arrived by EMS with amputated fingers, then a woman from the lake area suffering from anaphylaxis arrived for treatment.

"She was suffering from some type of reaction," said McAnally. "We're not sure what the offending agent was. It's possible she received some type of insect bite while she was sleeping."

Commissioners plan year's last meeting

Bandera County Commissioners will hold their last meeting of the year Monday, Dec. 12, unless sufficient business necessitates another meeting.

Commissioners' regular meeting Monday, Nov. 28, was cancelled as there were not enough items on the agenda, reports County Judge Ray Mauer. Currently, there are no plans for the commissioners to meet Dec. 26. Commissioners regularly meet the second and fourth Monday of each month, with the second Monday meeting being required by state law.

Since the Christmas holidays fall on a weekend, current plans have the courthouse closed Friday, Dec. 23, and Monday, Dec. 26.

The agenda for commissioners' meeting is finalized the Thursday before the Monday meeting by 5 p.m.

The condition causes breathing passages to constrict, and unless emergency medical treatment is administered, a person with this reaction could suffocate.

Finally, a 4-year-old with complications related to Downs Syndrome received emergency treatment for congestive heart failure secondary to the Downs' Syndrome. She was stabilized, then sent to a San Antonio hospital.

Seven incidents reported this week

Four burglaries and three thefts were reported by Bandera sheriff's officials last week.

Tuesday, Nov. 22, Robert Tschirhart reported stolen a cutting torch valued at $300.

Friday, Nov. 25, Joe Smith of Houston reported a portable spotlight stolen in a break in at his place off State Highway 46.

Saturday, Nov. 26, Frank Failla of Stafford reported the theft of a cattle trough and butane tank, valued at $300, from his place on State Highway 173 south of Bandera.

Sunday, Nov. 27, Bob Jordan of Bandera reported stolen in a burglary an electric heater, valued at $30, from his place in Lake Medina Shores.

Monday, Nov. 28, William Smith of Pipe Creek reported a television and a telephone, valued at $440, stolen in a break-in at his place.

Health clinic slated

The Texas Department of Health will conduct an adult health clinic from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 7, at the Silver Sage Corral senior citizen's center.

A fee of an unstated amount will be charged for services rendered, the health department said.

Rural communities need communication, leadership

Communication and leadership are two vital ingredients for successful revitalization of rural communities, according to a chamber of commerce official.

Honey 'C' Dowdy, executive director of the Caldwell chamber said that nothing can be accomplished without communication between civic organizations and people willing to take leadership roles.

Dowdy was a key speaker in the "Revitalizing Communities in Rural Texas" session held in conjunction with the recent State Extension Conference at Texas A&M University.

Many rural communities are in serious trouble. Jobs are disappearing, citizens are moving away and the tax base is shrinking. Goal of the session was to provide training for Extension faculty on revitalizing their communities.

Dowdy said there are many advantages in living in rural communities, including knowing everyone, their interests and how they interrelate.

"However, in many smaller towns, the downtown areas are losing businesses and the young people are going to urban areas," Dowdy said.

To have a dynamic revitalization program, communities have to be aggressive in attracting new businesses and helping existing businesses stay alive, she said.

The first step in any revitalization effort is a critical assessment of community resources, she said. Positive aspects should be strengthened.

"The more you sharpen your positives, the more you'll find your negatives will disappear," she said.

A common thread to pull the community together should be found, Dowdy said. Caldwell's Czechoslovakian heritage is highlighted with its annual kolache festival. That common thread in the community also happens to bring in tourist dollars, she said.

Educating citizens on current events and perceptions and on attitudes of visitors to the community also is important, Dowdy said.

Extension employees should let everyone know what they have to offer and what they've accomplished, she advised. "The county agent can be a vital leader and the most respected person in the county," Dowdy said.

Speakers in the session also included representatives of the newly-formed Texas Department of Commerce and the Small Business Administration, who described services available to rural communities.

Price Arrendondo of Austin, deputy director for small businesses with the Texas Department of Commerce, said that organization has been set up to consolidate economic development efforts under one roof. It provides education and training for people wishing to start their own businesses.

The Small Business Administration is more than a loan institution, according to K.E. (Ken) Struble, assistant director for regional development.

He said it provides one-on-one counseling and training, import-export assistance, inventor services, capital formation, information and referral, legal assistance, computer and office automation services, assistance with procurement of government contracts, energy assistance, and help with waste management.

'Nonpoint pollution' can be controlled

Many current headlines mention the issue of "nonpoint source pollution" of Texas water.

Just what is nonpoint source pollution and why is it important to Texas and regional agriculture?

Dr. John M. Sweeten, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that a nonpoint source (NPS) can be defined as an "area that contributes uncontrolled rainfall runoff in which water contaminants are conveyed through drainage pathways to streams, reservoirs or groundwater."

Sweeten said this type of pollution usually is not traceable to a single identifiable source.

"Common types of nonpoint sources are urban streets and parking lots, industrial plants, construction sites, forests, crop and pasture lands," Sweeten said.

"Types of materials that may be considered pollutants transported in rainfall runoff include nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorus, pesticides, organic matter such as animal wastes, heavy metals and other chemicals," Sweeten said.

"When identified, NPS water pollution can be reduced by planning and management techniques, including application of so-called best management practices to the land," he said.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is among agencies and organizations involved in helping solve nonpoint source pollution through educational programs, demonstrations and technical assistance and soil and water testing.

Sweeten said that every state has developed an assessment and a management strategy recently for nonpoint sources of water pollution. These reports are being sent to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency according to deadlines in the 1987 Federal Clean Water Act.

Usually not traceable to a single source.

"Draft assessment and management reports for Texas have been compiled by the Texas Water Commission (TWC) in conjunction with several other agencies, including Councils of Government for several other agencies, including Councils of Government for several urban areas and the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board (TSSWCB)," Sweeten said.

"The latter agency is the state's lead agency for control of agricultural and silvicultural nonpoint sources on areas identified as containing known or suspected problems with agricultural nonpoint source pollution," he said.

Boerne police ordered to meet ticket quota

The city of Boerne had a "quota system" requiring police officers to issue 30 citations and 30 warnings and make two arrests every month, documents made public last week revealed.

The so-called quota system was instituted by the city's police chief without the knowledge of the city council, the documents showed.

The information was contained in a heavily-edited report of an investigation of the police force conducted last month.

Investigators reported that officers of the Boerne Police Department were called on to issue approximately 30 citations and 30 written warnings each during a 30-day period and make approximately two arrests per month.

The report also cited inconsistencies in hiring and firing policies and in handing out promotions, and reported that "multiple" personnel files were maintained on each officer, one in the office of the city administrator and another, containing disciplinary measures, kept by the chief of police. Some of the files were kept in the chief's home, the report says.

The report that was made public contained huge portions "blacked out," according to Boerne Mayor Patrick Heath. The portions withheld were done so at the instructions of the attorney general, Heath said.

The city's legal council, Randall Richards of the firm of Hollon, Marion and Richards, filed suit Monday, Nov. 26, against the state of Texas in an effort to withhold the edited portions of the report. The attorney general had issued an official opinion requiring release of the entire report.

Public meeting scheduled to discuss water rights

The Medina Lake Preservation Society will host a public meeting to hear representatives from the Edwards Underground Water District and the water district that controls Medina Lake irrigation rights at a meeting Saturday afternoon in Mico.

Guest speakers will be V.P. Velvoit, Medina County representative on the Edwards Underground Water District board and Kirk Patterson, environmentalist and attorney from San Antonio.

Also invited to speak are representatives from the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water Control and Improvements District #1, as well as technical advisors from the EUWD.

The meeting will discuss the issue of water in Medina County, with the focus on Medina lake. The public is invited to attend and a portion of the meeting will be set aside as an open forum for the citizens to ask questions of the panel.

Issues concerning Medina Lake's water are the possible EUWD purchase of the BMA district's water rights.

The public meeting Saturday will begin at 4 p.m. at the Mico Volunteer Fire Department fire hall. The fire hall is located on the Medina Dam Road approximately one-half mile from the Medina Dam.

For more information, call the vice-president of the MLPS, Carol Smith at 751-3607.

Remembering veterans

Recently, members of the Lakehills American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 410 remembered those who served their country with the sale of poppies Nov. 12 and activities at the Kerrville V.A. Hospital, a convention, and a meeting.

Members of the Auxiliary offered handmade red crepe poppies in two locations in Lakehills, says Elaine Mixon auxiliary chaplain.

Adult members assisting with the distribution of the poppies were Muriel Munns, Helen Somsel, Dorothy Comingore, Laura Crist, and Elaine Mixon. Junior members were Anna Comingore, Brandi Crist, Wendy Holt, Dawn Cowley, and two friends, Carrie Calderos and Mellisa Martinez.

Monies collected will be used for hospitalized veterans, she says.

Auxiliary members were hostesses for bingo Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at the Kerrville Veterans Administration Hospital. Sandwiches, cookies, cakes, chips, dips, coffee and punch were served to the veterans in the hospital's recreation hall. "Unit 410 is host for bingo at the hospital four times a year," says Mixon. Members going in November were auxiliary president Mary Alice Driffill, Sue Kruse, Helen Somsel and Mary Petterson.

In other activities, American Legion Auxiliary Department President, Ben Furhman, was in Kerrville last week for a tour of the Kerrville V.A. Hospital. Attending from the Lakehills unit were Evie Angell and Elaine Mixon.

Angell and Mixon presented the auxiliary V.A. Hospital representative, Jimmie McDonald, with 23 handmade caps to be used by the patients in the V.A. nursing home. "The caps were made by ladies in the Lakehills area," says Mixon.

Past Presidents' Parley of American Legion Auxiliary met recently for a salad luncheon and business meeting at Hill Top Inn in Mico. They voted to contribute in November, which is PPP month, to the Past Presidents' Parley Nursing Scholarship Fund. Scholarships will be awarded to children of veterans.

Richard and Elaine Mixon were in Kerrville recently to attend the 21st District fall convention of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. Department Commander Lindon Williams was guest speaker with Kerrville Post 208 host, reports Mixon.

No Pebble Beach tax this year

Pebble Beach Water District members will not be required to pay an ad valorem tax this year to pay for water system bonds, the district's board of directors decided.

The board voted to use interest earnings from investments to meet this year's bond requirements, and to give the taxpayer a break, says Wilbur L. Bradford, board president. "We are sure that this would be appreciated by property owners in the district," he says.

"The board reminds delinquent taxpayers that previous year's taxes are still due, and that an attorney has been retained for collections," says Bradford. Unpaid taxes become a lien upon the property.

There are five elected officials and one tax collector for the district. The board meets the second Wednesday of each month at the water board office on Waterview Drive in Pebble Beach, says Bradford. "These meetings are open to the public and all interested parties are welcome to attend," he says.

The board does not anticipate any water rate increase for the coming year, says Bradford. "We just installed a new system to help reduce the iron content in the water, and the system is looking good," he says.

Ad valorem taxes may need to be collected next year, however.

Retired persons elect Dorothy Webber president

Dorothy Webber was elected president of the Medina Lake chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons Monday, Nov. 28.

Other officers are vice-president Carol Lobert, secretary Betty Baxter, treasurer David Mayer, and corresponding secretary Virginia Thornton. Terry Gutz was elected as a new member on the board of directors.

Officers will be installed Monday, Dec. 12, following the noon lunch. Members will bring items for the dinner, says spokeswoman June Settlemeyer.

Ruth Cawery announced a trip to River Center Mall in San Antonio on Jan. 30. Those who wish to go will leave the park and ride at Park Road 37 and FM Road 1283 at 11 a.m. The group will have lunch at the mall and shop. "Anyone who did not sign up may call Ruth at 751-2073," says Settlemeyer.

The members voted to distribute $500 to support several community activities, including as The Spirits of Christmas Presents, American Legion Christmas Dinner, Lakehills and Pipe Creek EMS units, Medina Lake and Pipe Creek Fire Departments, and the Medina Lake Fire Department Building Fund.

New membership books were distributed and seven new members have joined, says Settlemeyer.

A driver improvement course will be given locally if there are enough students who need it, says instructor Settlemeyer. "Taking the course will give a discount on insurance for three years as well as make the students more aware of their driving practices," says Settlemeyer. Interested students should call Settlemeyer at 751-2297.

Second gun shop opens in Lakehills

Alvin (Sarge) Wilson of Northwest Sales and Trades has opened a gun outlet just north of the corner of FM Road 1283 and Park Road 37 next to the Fresh Young Things building.

Wilson recently leased office space from Lloyd's Guns and operates in conjunction with owner Lloyd Mays. Each shop will have its own inventory, but, "We'll sell each other's guns as the customer wants," says Wilson.

Wilson operated a gun shop for many years in San Antonio and decided to move his business to the Hill Country. Wilson has been interested in guns all his life, and except for his gun business, he is retired.

The gun shop will be open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and will offer new and used guns, ammunition, and other related items.

Balloting in Pipe Creek to continue through Dec. 7

Chris Hines and Robert Wood all have been nominated for trustee of the Pipe Creek Community Center governing board and voting by ballot is open for Pipe Creek residents until Dec. 7.

At the Nov. 16 meeting of the Pipe Creek Community Center, Chris Hines and current board president Robert Woodall, were nominated to the three-year position. Write-ins are permitted.

Pipe Creek residents will be able to vote by written ballots, which are available at the Pipe Creek Lone Star convenience store, Pipe Creek Junction Cafe, and in this issue of the Bandera Bulletin.

Ballots may be given to a present trustee, dropped at the ballot box at the Pipe Creek Lone Star or the Pipe Creek Junction Cafe, mailed to The Community Center. (P.O. Box 63074), or brought to the Dec. 7 meeting when the ballots will be counted.

Ballots must be signed in order to be counted and the voter's address should be included, says Virginia Stricker, secretary-treasurer of the board. The deadline for ballots is Dec. 7. Present officers are Woodall, Stricker, and trustee Bucky Densford.

An eligible voter must be at least 18-years old and a resident of Pipe Creek. For the purpose of balloting, Pipe Creek's boundary lines are defined as the area bounded by the Kendall County line, Bexar County line, Privilege Creek, Medina River, and the intersection of FM Road 1283 and Bump Gate Road.

Wharton's Dock

By John Ciarlo — 796-3225

Kennon and Connie Maxon and their children, Keith and Karen from Dallas, spent some time with Bill and Lenna Walker over the Thanksgiving holiday. Connie is Lenna's niece.

• Joe and Joyce Sowell of Wharton's Dock had a house full for Thanksgiving, including Charley and Betty Highnote, Butch and Irene Highnote, Harry Hanekey and his mother Anna and son Tom and Nancy from Bandera, the Santos from San Antonio, and Butch Andiff from Bandera.

• The first-Saturday-of-the-month community dinner will be held at the Copper Lantern on Dec. 3. Chili and beans will be served and guests are asked to bring a covered dish for what is always a good time.

• Marietta and John Overholser traveled to San Marcos for Thanksgiving with their daughter, Debby, and her husband, Bill Cody.

They all traveled to Bastrop the next day to visit with their son Dewey and his family.

• The Eye Institute of San Antonio's Eyecare Outreach program will be at the firehouse on Wharton's Dock Road Wednesday, Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The purpose of Eyecare Outreach is to deliver information about the benefits of quality eye care to senior citizens.

The leading causes of blindness in this age group are cataracts and glaucoma. There is no charge for this examination, and all senior citizens are invited.

• Doris Duguette reports that her father, Robert Norwood Knight, died in Sarasota, Fla., at the age of 98 on Nov. 24. Mr. Knight came from pioneer stock in the Tampa-Sarasota Florida area.

A small community known as Knight's Station located west of Tampa is named after his family. He moved to Sarasota prior to World War I where he became manager and owner of the first drug store in the community. He served in France in World War I.

• Irby and Lurleene Cole had their children from Houston visiting for Thanksgiving, June and Kaylon Adams and children Tracy and Brian; Linda Kay and Gerald Humphrey and children Tera and Wesley; Kaylon's mother, Lorena Adams from Kerrville; and her sister, Sandy Humphrey from Kerrville.

Lakeshore VFD plans meeting of members Saturday, Dec. 3

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department will have its general membership meeting Saturday, Dec. 3, at 11 a.m. for the election of vacated offices, which are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and one director.

The budget for 1989 will also be discussed. After the meeting there will be a covered-dish lunch.

Bill Barrett from the Texas A&M Fire Protection Training Division will present instruction Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 5 and 6 on pump operations. All firemen in the county are invited to attend.

Pipe Creek

O.H. (Henry) Davis 535-4127

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulford and son Scott from Columbia, Md., joined Mr. and Mrs. David Donahoo and daughter Mallory from Houston to celebrate Thanksgiving with their parents, Jeanine and Truman Donahoo. Great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.F. Burkhardt and Mrs. Estele Buckley, also enjoyed the holiday celebration.

• Angela Grenet and her children, Marsha and Joshua, helped her father, Fred Knoeller, in Huntington to celebrate his 73rd birthday on Saturday, Nov. 19.

• Approximately 150 descendants of the Braxton (Brack) Callahan family attended the family reunion at the Pipe Creek Community Center.

The family tree was the center of attraction with sharing of family information and pictures of this early-day settler of Bandera County.

At the business meeting, recognition was given to those coming from distances as great as from California, Georgia, Florida, Oklahoma, Arizona, South Dakota, New York and distant places in Texas.

It was decided that the reunion would be held every five years in October.

Local relatives attending included Mr. and Mrs. Louis Postert, Patty Adamson, Tommy Callahan, Mrs. Calvin Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Callahan, all of Bandera; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schott, Howard Schott, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Edwards and Jess; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Edwards, Justin and Shiloh; Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards, all of Pipe Creek; and Mrs. Keith Mansfield and Brent.

• The Rev. Steve Oates, minister of religious education at Windsor Park Baptist Church in Corpus Christi, spent Thanksgiving with his parents, the Rev. M.D. and C.B. Oates.

• Michael Grenet, who is attending Texas State Technical Institute in Waco and studying diesel mechanics, spent Thanksgiving with his parents and family.

• Mr. and Mrs. Victor Chesky and son, Morgan, of Kerrville were visitors in the First Baptist Church. Mr. Chesky gave a talk about Gideons and their work.

• David Edwards, who is attending Baylor University in Waco, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Edwards and Jess.

Other Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Edwards and Jess included Jan Turner and Jana of Bonham; Emmett Edwards of Gonzales; Sue Burkhart and Jennifer of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mansfield, Bo, Connie, and Brent of Bandera; Joslyn Edwards of Marble Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Edwards, Justin and Shiloh; and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Edwards of Pipe Creek.

• Henry and Oleta Davis had all their children and grandchildren visit them.

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE REQUEST

The Lower Colorado River Authority (hereinafter "LCRA") has filed an Application for Authority to Change Rates with the Public Utility Commission of Texas and the City of Austin. The effective date of the proposed changes, which involve the LCRA's 44 wholesale customers and 73 retail customers throughout LCRA's service territory, is December 8, 1988.

For the period ending May 31, 1990, the proposed changes are expected to result in a system-wide annual revenue increase of $46,675,446 which is a 17.80% increase when compared to the fully adjusted total operating revenues for the test year ending March 31, 1988.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. Important safety tips from Lone Star Gas

You can take comfort in Natural Gas.

Trusting gas for your home is a natural. After all, Lone Star Gas Company has been faithfully serving its customers for more than 75 years. Through the years, we have worked to earn your trust by providing safe, dependable natural gas.

Do you know why gas has a strong odor? Because we have added a harmless odorant to the gas that lets you know it's there. This is for your safety, so if you ever smell the strong odor of gas in your home, follow these rules:

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Do not use your own telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity). Do not strike a match, and do not do anything that might cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open for ventilation.
3. Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause before returning to your home.

Since gas lines run underground, you should also take precautions against disrupting these lines, particularly if you plan to:

1. Put in a new fence.
2. Install an underground sprinkler system.
3. Perform any major landscape renovation.

Before you dig, call your local Lone Star Gas office. If you smell a gas odor while you're outside, immediately contact Lone Star Gas.

In our continuing effort to provide better, safer service, local Lone Star Gas offices are ready to answer any questions that contractors may have concerning the location of gas lines in their areas.

The safety record for natural gas is impressive, and peace of mind is an important part of what natural gas has to offer. By following these simple rules, you can take even greater comfort in natural gas.

Even though every other theater in the world is closed on Monday, according to Medina teacher Ray Tate, these zanies will be on stage in the Medina auditorium Monday, Dec. 5, at 7:03 p.m. The broadway Street Players' Comedy Revue was postponed twice because of scheduling conflicts, says Tate, but now is firmly slated. Features include a scene from "No Time For Sergeants" and improvisations based on suggestions from the audience, says Tate. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children under 12.

Breakfast with Santa planned in Kerrville

The fifth annual edition of "Breakfast with Santa" will be held on Saturday, Dec. 10, from 8:30 to 10 a.m. in the cafetorium at Peterson Middle School in Kerrville. This popular holiday event is sponsred by Kerrville ISD's Community Education program.

Children of all ages from throughout the Hill Country are invited to come have breakfast with Santa and enjoy the fun. Those under the age of 16 must be accompanied by an adult.

A continental breakfast of cinnamon rolls, juice, milk and coffee will be served. Santa will visit with the children at their tables, and parents are encouraged to bring cameras to record the visit.

Tickets must be purchased in advance. Tickets are on sale now with sales ending on Wednesday, Dec. 7. Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce, 1200 Sidney Baker, Kerrville, and at the Auld Adult and Community Education Center.

Kinky Friedman to appear at St. Mary's

Fresh from reviews of his new book, Kinky Friedman, well-known country music singer turned mystery novelist, will bring his "Renaissance Texan" show to St. Mary's University on Dec. 2.

The event, free and open to the public, is at 3 p.m. in Treadaway Auditorium on campus.

Friedman will share his writing experiences, entertain on guitar accompanied by a violinist, and answer questions from the audience.

A book signing for his latest mystery-thriller, "When the Cat's Away," will follow the show.

Friedman, a native Texan raised near Kerrvile, is the author of "Greenwich Killing Time," scheduled to go into film production this fall, and "A Case of Lone Star." His next book, "The Grasshopper Game," is also due out soon. Friedman was the lead singer for the country cult band, the Texas Jewboys before his writing career.

WOAI Radio "Morning Magazine" program hosts Eliza Sommerland and Pat Rodgers will interview Friedman on his career and his latest book at 10:10 a.m. Dec. 2.

St. Mary's English and Communichion Arts Department and the English Guild are sponsors of his appearance.

For more information, contact the English and Communication Arts Department at 436-3107.

Need a great Christmas idea? There's afways plenty at the annual Christmas Arts and Crafts Trade Fair of the Bandera Volunteer Fire Department.

It's this Saturday at the firehouse in Bandera, of course.

• I'm sentimental, I know, but the lighting of the Christmas tree and the caroling by singers with hands joined during Bandera's Holiday Shoppers Jubilee always brings tears to my eyes.

A few weeks ago I made a plea for unusual gift ideas among those of you in readerland. Well, we got some lulus!

The Deer Stand has a complete set of hand-made stag horn dining and kitchen utensils. The Mercantile has a complete line of various colored chaps, including pink, mauve and forest green.

The Bandera General Store will bronze your little (or big) baby's cowboys boots, and the Bandera Bulletin has a complete set of Hank the Cowdog paperback books. The Bandera Forge has camouflaged Christmas stockings and camouflaged bonnets for lady hunters.

Main Street Rags is featuring Southwest-flavored sweaters from New Mexico and Bandera Emporium's newest and most unusual item is an elegant Christmas basket of super gourmet candy.

Bandera Feed Store has just been taken over by the famous Sim's Spur Family, and you can order that special set of spurs for your favorite cowboy or cowgirl.

• Bandera is fast becoming the "in" place for the rich and famous. The Silver Dollar had a surprise guest the other day when Melissa Gilbert of "Little House on the Prairie" fame dropped in. She didn't dance through the sawdust, however, because she was "enceinte" (in foal).

• Mary Anderwald of the Twin Elm Guest Ranch tells this one: Two groups of Soviet chemists have been guests at the Twin Elm recently. They're training with some company in Houston, Mary says.

Because it was November, Mary worried about her guests' comfort. It can get pretty cool at this time of year, she thought, and she expressed her concern to the fellow doing the booking. "I really wouldn't worry about what you call 'cold'," he said. "They live 100 miles from the Artic Circle."

The Soviet guests loved the weather and even went swimming in the Medina River, and they were amazed at the size of the steak Mary served when they were through.

Traditional holiday festival planned in historic Goliad

Artists and craftsmen will display original works for sale on the courthouse lawn in historic Goliad from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3.

Christmas in Goliad, featured in the 1988 December issue of Southern Living magazine, is an annual Christmas festival that has become a tradition in the small South Texas community.

A homes tour, antique toy show, a knife and gun exhibit and the traditional Christmas pageant, Las Posadas are activities scheduled for the day. Local organizations will serve holiday and ethnic food, including 'reinsect' burgers, tamales, Mexican rice and beans, barbecue sandwiches and hot chocolate and cider. A gingerbread house will feature homemade candy.

There will be games, face painting and the breaking of candy-filled pinatas, in conjunction with the Las Posadas pageant.

The historic courthouse square will be decorated with white lights, wreaths and Christmas banners. Five historic structures, decorated in Christmas finery will be on tour from 12-5 p.m. Two bed-and-breakfast inns, two homes and one church will be featured. Tickets are $5 and may be purchased the day of the tour.

Sharon Elaine Bay, granddaughter of Roscoe L. Hayes of Bandera, has become engaged to Joseph Anthony Labus of Edinburg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary E. Bay of Victoria and is employed in Edinburg at the dental offices of Drs. David Adame and Larry Ball. He is employed by Valero Energy Corporation in Pharr. The couple plans a Jan. 28 wedding in Edinburg.

Native Plant Society to mark holiday with social event

The Bandera County chapter of the Native Plant Society of Texas will have its first annual Holiday Social Tuesday, Dec. 13, at their regular meeting place in the Bandera County River Authority offices at 7 p.m.

Members and interested people, are asked to bring a covered-dish recipe, preferably made with native edible plants. A door prize donated by [illegible] Nursery will be given away.

Coffee and punch and serving utensils will be provided.

A $1 donation will be asked of non-members. For more information call Faren Hoskelis at 796-3823.

Bandera

By Peggy Tobin

There were probably even more people from Bandera County in attendance at the Texas Water Commission hearing over in Kerrville the other week than those we recognized, who included Ray Buck, Anton Haner, Phil Tobin, Paul Lavon Garrison, Baxter Adams, and the Gerald Persyns.

We all listened to the nice man with the answers to questions about the upcoming Water Master program. Landowners with permits to take irrigation water from area rivers and state-regulated tributaries will soon be required to pay $50 a year for the right-turned-privilege.

There will be an acre-foot charge to be calculated by a meter installed by the landowner. And we'll have to call the Water Master, probably stationed in Kerrville, for permission to turn on the pump.

Most people at the meeting would agree that fair allocation of increasingly scarce water is a necessity in this newly-crowded Hill Country world. We're happy to share with each other. But there is a sneaking fear that we're being softened up by a series of slow moves which will end in the taking of massive quantities of the Hill Country water we're used to regarding as ours alone to keep fountains splashing at Hemis-Fair and carpet grass growing in San Antonio.

Oh well. Maybe it will rain on the just and the unjust.

Retired school man Doc Gray lived as a child in a house up at the back of our pasture, the foundations of which are now just barely visible. He says he used to walk down to Miller Creek, a far piece, to fetch water from a fern-bank spring. The spring, overhung with wild cherry trees and black haw, stopped running this year. Doc says four days of good rain have always brought it back. He didn't say what his family did for water in dry times. Perhaps they rationed from a cistern or hauled water — but from where? It wasn't that long ago that people in Bandera town relied on cisterns and buckets carried from the river.

Most of us now get our water by means of submersible electric pumps drawing from a stratum of the Glen Rose limestone, principal outcrop of Bandera County. Do we know exactly where our recharge is? There are no signs to tell us such as are now posted in Bexar and Comal counties announcing entry into the Edwards Aquifer zone.

While it's possible that some of our ground water comes from farther up the country, it seems likely that we're basically living all over the top of our own aquifer. We'd better not complain when inevitably tighter regulations on sewage and waste disposal are put on. We'll need those regs to be able to go on living here.

Speaking of waste disposal — the kind carried on by rolling down the car window and chunking out the trash on the highway, it seems Bandera has become the recipient of foreign aid in dealing with the problem.

Shoppers Jubilee to kick off at 5 p.m. Friday

Bandera business large and small is gearing up this week for Bandera's annual Shoppers Jubilee Friday, Dec. 2. Merchants on Bandera's Main Street and in other commercial areas will spend the week decorating, trimming and lighting their businesses for the night of festivity that will be highlighted by a visit from Santa and the lighting of a community Christmas tree.

The theme of this year's decorating contest is "An Old-Fashioned Christmas."

Some five small business entries and two large business entries had been received Tuesday, but Kim Ashton with the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce said entry deadline is Thursday afternoon, and she expects several entries to come in that day.

Judging will be Thursday evening, and awards will be presented Friday evening at the courthouse lawn celebration. Judges are all out-of-towners, and will include Pedie Ginnow, Bonnie Groff and Catherine Taylor.

Bandera Bank, last year's winner in the large business category, and First State Bank had entered Tuesday.

In the small business category, entries had been received from Books in Bloom, Cleaf Fork Medical Center, Sam's Barbershop, Everett's and Braun Drug Tuesday.

Last year's winner in the small business category was Koehler's Park. Books in Bloom placed second, and the old First State Bank building on 11th Street placed third. Gingerbread House took top honors in 1986, and Janett's won both in 1985 and 1984.

Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus will arrive at 5 p.m. at the Bandera County courthouse to be part of Friday's Christmas celebration of caroling and festivities in Bandera.

This year, Mr. and Mrs. Claus are scheduled to arrive at 5 p.m. in front of the Bandera County courthouse. They will travel in a carriage pulled by a team of Clydesdale horses, owned by Ann Aylesworth.

Santa and Mrs. Santa will join a living nativity, the Silver Sage Melodiers and Bandera High School band in front of the courthouse for a community celebration of caroling. Rogers will emcee the program and lead the caroling.

Caroling, awards and festivities will be followed by a night of merchants staying open until 8:30 or 9 p.m. for shoppers to travel from place to place, sampling goodies and looking for just the right gift for "that special someone."

To give the jubilee a more county-wide appeal, local merchants outside the city of Bandera will be invited to "set up shop" in the parking lot at Main and Cypress Streets. Officials hope this will encourage county residents to shop locally.

Booths of out-of-town merchants will be set up and open by 6 p.m., chamber officials said. The invitation was extended to businesses in Vanderpool, Tarpley, Medina, Pipe Creek and Lakehills.

Visitors from Natalia, Crystal City, Pearsall, Castroville and Comfort will be in town for the Bandera Bulldog Invitational Basketball tournament at the high school and junior high gymnasiums that night.

The chamber extends invitations to all area churches and musical groups to participate in the festivities on the courthouse lawn.

Boerne plans two-day Christmas Fair this weekend

Oma's Christmas Fair will be held at the Kendall County Fair Grounds Saturday and Sunday in Boerne. There will also be a sporting goods show at the fair grounds.

The two-day fair will feature folk art, Christmas trimmings, herbs and teas, wood crafts, toys, and quilts from 65 booths in the new dancehall. A $1 gate admission will be charged.

A knife, gun, and sporting equipment show will be held in the old dancehall and exhibition hall with a $2 admission charge. At least 175 dealers are expected.

The event will begin Saturday, Dec. 3 at 10 a.m. and continue until 6 p.m. On Sunday the fair will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A Tree Christmas puppet show will be presented Sunday from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. by Cindy Gonzales of the Institute of Texan Cultures.

The fair grounds is located on Highway 46, just east of Boerne.

Food and drinks will be available.

The event is sponsored by the Kendall County Fair Association Women's Auxiliary. Call 1-249-3075 or 1-537-4512 for more information.

Legion to decorate Christmas tree

The annual trimming of the Christmas tree at the Lakehills American Legion hall Sunday, Dec. 4, will begin at noon.

A native cedar tree will be trimmed with strings of popcorn and cranberries as well as homemade ornaments. Children will be encouraged to decorate the tree, but the afternoon will be geared to both adults and children, says spokeswoman Sue Kruse.

Those attending are asked to bring homemade ornaments for the tree and finger foods, says Kruse. "The legion will serve punch, tea, and coffee," she says.

Fine Arts to meet

Piano selections by local musician Jodi Holen will highlight the Bandera Fine Arts Christmas program Tuesday, Dec. 6.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. and is at the Holen residence in Pipe Creek. For more information, contact Kathryn Thompson at 796-8271.

People pleasin' Texas pecans

Pecans are a favorite food among Texans. They are a tasty, nutritious year-round treat. Pecans lend not only crunch, but add rich and distinctive flavor to appetizers, salads, desserts, and main dishes.

A must in holiday cooking, pecans are very much a part of most traditional dessert favorites. The nutty crunch of pecans also adds a special flair to vegetables and meats.

The following recipes are from the Texas Pecan Growers Association. For a free pecan brochure filled with pecan information and recipes, write the Texas Department of Agriculture, 122 Heiman, San Antonio, Texas 78205.

Pecan Cheese Crisps

½ C. butter
8 oz. grated cheddar cheese
1 T. Worchestershire sauce
1¼ C. flour
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. red pepper
¼ tsp. tabasco sauce
1 C. finely chopped pecans

Cream butter and cheese and add remaining ingredients. Chill dough until firm enough to form into rolls 1-inch thick. Place rolls in freezer (may be stored indefinitely). Defrost 10 minutes and slice into thin rounds. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake about 10 minutes at 360 degrees F. Makes 4-5 dozen.

Cream Cheese Pecan Tarts

1 (3 oz.) pkg. cream cheese
1 stick (½ C.) butter
1 C. sifted flour
1 egg, beaten
¾ C. brown sugar
1 T. butter, softened
1 tsp. vanilla
⅛ tsp. salt
1 C. chopped pecans

To make dough, soften cream cheese and butter at room temperature. Cream softened cream cheese and butter; add flour. Chill one hour, then mold in tart pans. Prepare filling by combining egg, brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, vanilla, salt and pecans. Fill each tart cup 2/3 full. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Remove from pan when cool.

Texas Pecan Pie

1 C. white corn syrup
1 C. dark brown sugar
1/3 tsp. salt
1/3 C. melted butter
3 slightly beaten eggs
1½ C. pecan halves
1 (9 in.) pie crust

Mix syrup, sugar, salt, butter and vanilla. Mix in slightly beaten eggs. Add pecans. Pour into pie crust. Bake at 350 degrees F. about 45 minutes. Note: To make ruffled edge on pie crust fit raw dough into pan. Place thumb and index finger about 1 inch apart on pastry rim. With other index finger, pull pastry between fingers and toward outside.

Hot Turkey Salad

1 C. cooked turkey, cubed
1 C. chopped celery
1 C. chopped pecans
½ C. mayonnaise
1 T. lemon juice
1 T. chopped onion
1 C. grated cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper to taste
Crushed chips

Mix all ingredients except chips and place in baking dish. Cover the top with crushed chips. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 20 minutes (or until salad bubbles around the edges.)

Golden Pecan Ham Steaks

1½ lb. ham steaks (cut into 6 serving pieces)
2 C. oranges, sectioned
¼ C. seedless raisins
1 C. pecan halves
½ C. onion, chopped
1 T. butter
1 T. cornstarch
2 C. orange juice
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. ground ginger
1 tsp. salt
3 T. brown sugar

Sear ham steaks and place in a 2-quart casserole. Spoon oranges, raisins and pecans over ham. Set aside. Brown onions in butter in a saucepan. Dissolve cornstarch in orange juice and pour into onions. Add mustard, ginger, salt and sugar. Cook until slightly thickened. Pour over ham and bake at 350 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Serve with 3 cups cooked rice. Makes 6 servings.

There are many recipes for pecans this holiday season.

Leftovers no problem with these suggestions

Christmas dinner means a lot of great things—family, conversation, and of course, food to eat. But the best thing about Christmas dinner is all the leftovers. That is if your family does not resemble a bunch of locusts. If you've got leftovers, you won't have to cook for days.

The first thing to do after everyone has enjoyed Christmas dinner is to debone the turkey. That is if there's anything left. Never leave what's left of the turkey on the table for munching.

Precautions should be taken with leftover turkey. Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) home economist Carol Guthrie recommends refrigerating or freezing turkey leftovers within two hours after serving. Turkey that is not eaten the day it is cooked, must be stored carefully and immediately refrigerated, to reduce the risk of food poisoning. Large quantities of leftovers should be divided into smaller portions and stored in several covered containers. Smaller portions will chill quicker than larger portions.

Separate the stuffing from the meat and refrigerate leftover stuffing and turkey in separate containers. A covered dish should be used for storing cooked turkey to prevent drying. Stuffing should be used within two days; meat will keep in the refrigerator for up to three days.

Of course, freezing will extend the storage life of cooked turkey. When freezing, slice, chop, or cube the meat, and then freeze for future use. Gravy and dressing can also be frozen. However, gravy and stuffing should be eaten within a month. Turkey will keep for up to six months in the freezer if properly wrapped in air-tight containers.

If you're looking for an appetizing and appealing way to serve that left-over turkey, the following recipes will please the eye and the palate. For recipes featuring turkey write to Texas Department of Agriculture, 122 Heiman, San Antonio, TX 78205.

Appetizing and appealing uses for leftovers.

Sweet and Sour Turkey

1 C. pineapple juice (reserved from chunks)
1/3 C. vinegar
1/4 C. packed brown sugar
2 T. cornstarch
1 T. soy sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
2½ C. cooked, diced turkey
1/2 C. green pepper, cut in 1½ in. strips
1/4 C. thinly sliced onion
1 (No. 2) drained can pineapple chunks
Cooked rice

Combine pineapple juice, vinegar, brown sugar, cornstarch, soy sauce, and salt. Cook over low heat until thickened and clear, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add turkey. Let stand for 10 minutes. Cover green pepper strips with boiling water and let stand for five minutes; drain well. Add green pepper, onion, and pineapple chunks to turkey mixture. Heat and serve over cooked rice. Makes 4-6 servings.

Turkey Pie

6 T. butter
6 T. flour
1 tsp. sale
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 C. turkey broth
3 C. cooked, chopped turkey
3/4 C. celery
3/4 C. sliced fresh mushrooms
1/8 tsp. cayenne pepper
Pastry

Melt butter in heavy saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add turkey broth and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Place turkey, celery and mushrooms in shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with cayenne and cover evenly with sauce. Top with pastry cut with several air slits. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 25 minutes.

Dining Train revives tradition of luxury

By Larry T. Williams
Staff writer

In the popular board game Monopoly, if a certain card is drawn, one may "take a ride on the Reading Railroad," and usually good things happen.

When the game was invented, rail travel still carried with it an aura of style and class. It was still considered an elegant means of going from here to there.

Now that feeling of luxury and comfort can be enjoyed again for an evening by booking a place on The Texas Dining Train.

A few weeks ago, several Bandera County residents took advantage of a group tour from Sundance Travel and "took a ride on The Texan."

The group enjoyed a wine and cheese bus trip into San Antonio where they were delivered to the Southern Pacific Amtrak station. Once arrived, everyone had a brief time to check out the 85-year-old terminal which has been partially restored to its former elegance.

After boarding the train, everyone was shown to a club car where hors d'oeuvres and cocktails, served by starched, white-coated waiters and waitresses set the mood for the evening.

The cars themselves lent a mood of grace and comfort with their stainless steel and wood surfaces and fixtures and plush covered seating, all restored to their original art deco elegance.

Gentle motion and a rythmic, distant clatter informed one that the trip was under way and shortly after a hostess led the guests to their tables in a dining car where a four-course meal was served on authentic dishes of the period.

The three-hour trip out and back seemed to take no time at all as the guests relaxed in the sumptuous atmosphere and enjoyed cross-car conversation with other diners, along with an after-dinner dessert and a final night cap.

Conversation among the Bandera folks during the bus ride back to the Cowboy Capital seemed mostly positive with regard to the trip and several mentioned a desire to make a repeat journey.

If you are interested in enjoying a bit of the romance left over from a past era, you may find out more about the Texan Dining Train by calling Sundance Travel at 796-3065 or Texas Southern in San Antonio at 377-2900.

Give yourself a yuletide break
Keep track of holiday spending

Keeping track of the money you spend on the holidays this year may be one of the best gifts you can give yourself for 1989.

"Many people never get a handle on what the holidays really cost them," said Nancy Granovsky, an expert on family budgeting.

"Every year they have trouble stretching the paycheck to the end of December and wind up with credit card bills they can't pay off in January."

"Even in families where they plan ahead for major gift expenses, it's easy to get caught short by the other hidden costs," she said.

According to Granovsky, who is a family economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, getting a grip on holiday expenses involves knowing how much you spend for the following:

- Gifts you buy and the cost of materials or ingredients for gifts you make.
- The cost of food and liquor for parties at home; feeding visiting relatives or friends; taking foods to parties or pot-lucks; the cost of ingredients for Christmas baking.
- Tickets to events; hair styling and new clothes to attend events.
- Special contributions made at church or to charities.
- Indoor or outdoor decorations; replacement bulbs; Christmas tree.
- Wrapping, cards and postage.
- Gasoline and food away from home for shopping trips; travel expenses of visiting friends and relatives.

Many holiday expenses don't seem extraordinary, especially when they're mixed in with other items, such as normal grocery shopping. But they do add up to significant amounts of money, said the specialist.

"By keeping receipts or making a list of all holiday expenses you can get an idea of actual costs and plan ahead for next year," she said.

One strategy for financing the holidays is to save a portion of the total cost each month. Another method is to shift some of the expenses to other months by, for example, buying gifts throughout the year or stocking the pantry in October and November.

"Any strategy for planning holiday spending can help people avoid over-extending themselves on credit," said Granovsky.

Since finance charges on credit spending are no longer totally tax deductible, the specialist said families will also be money ahead when they finance the holidays on their own.

Bazaar has solutions to gift-giving dilemmas

The Christmas season is here, and you don't have time for all the baking, but want to serve homemade goodies at those special gatherings.

It's time to purchase gifts, and you'd really like something unique for those special people on your Christmas list.

The kids would like to buy a gift or two, but their allowance won't stretch quite enough at the toy store.

The Parent-Teachers Organization Christmas Bazaar might be just the solution for all these dilemas. The doors to this one-stop "shop" will open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 3 —during the Shoppers' Jubilee weekend — at the Bandera Fire Station.

Sweet temptations for holiday entertaining will range from candy to cookies and jellies. Craft items handmade by a special team of PTO elves will help solve many gift problems. The Kid's Store will have a wide selection of toys, good books, and many other items for sale.

All funds raised at this third annual PTO Christmas Bazaar go towards equipment and teaching aids for the children at Alkek Elementary.

Lutherans plan bazaar, tea room

Grace Lutheran Church's annual Bazaar and Tea Room will be held Saturday, Dec. 3, at the church.

Gifts created by members of the Lutheran church and by senior citizens will be sold at the bazaar. Refreshments will be available in the tea room, says spokeswoman Lois Love. All proceeds will be used for special charitable projects, Love said.

Landmark open house

Castroville's Landmark Inn State Historic Site, owned by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, is having an "Old Fashion Christmas" and Open House on Friday, Dec. 9, from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The 1850s stagecoach inn will be decorated inside and out and entertainment will be provided by local church and scout groups, a classical guitarist, and a Spanish choir; all singing christmas carols.

Bandera DAR discusses orphan trains of past

Wagon trains made up of orphans and children from families who could not care for them in the New York City area came to the Midwestern states from 1854 through 1929, and survivors of those trains have united in an organization that brings them together.

Mrs. C.E. Hogan of Kerrville discussed reunions of survivors at the monthly meeting of the Bandera Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is the past president of the Kerrville Genealogy Society.

Children on the so-called orphan trains were taken to Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois and Iowa where they were chosen by local families, Mrs. Hogan said. Some became family members; others were little more than slaves, she said.

The Orphan Train Heritage Society of America brings together survivors of these trains where they discuss and record their experiences. An episode of television's "Unsolved Mysteries" will be devoted to the orphan trains in February, Mrs. Hogan said.

During the chapter meeting, a nominating committee was elected and charged with giving a nominating report in January. Members are Mrs. Don Tobin, chairman; Mrs. James O. Evans Sr.; and Mrs. Jon W. Dowell.

Chapter regent Mrs. Herbert Bilhartz announced that several volunteers from the chapter will be present in the genealogy department of the Bandera County Library from 10 a.m. to noon Friday, Dec. 2, to assist persons who want help in genealogy research.

The annual luncheon of the combined Bandera Chapter DAR and Lt. Abraham Cantine Sons of the American Revolution will be held on Thursday, Dec. 17, at the Mayan Guest Ranch with Mrs. Wayne Douglas Tiner, former state DAR regent and past national vice president general, as guest speaker.

Mrs. Tiner is a candidate for recording secretary general at the National Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution Continental Congress in April.

Medina school revives patriotism

Medina school has revived a patriotic tradition that's been lost in the shuffle of House Bill 72 and the ever increasing demand for space in an already-busy school day.

Monday, Nov. 29, the school once more officially began its day with a recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Medina superintendent Jerry Huie said that the school board voted in its last meeting to provide flags for every classroom and to re-introduce the "opportunity to say the pledge."

"It was brought to our attention that many students and adults alike were not showing respect for the raising of the flag or the National Anthem at athletic events," said Huie.

The board felt that perhaps re-introducing the "pledge" would help make the students more aware of what their flag represents and why it's important, he said.

Several teachers expressed their support of the pledge and were in favor of its re-instatement at the school.

Student reaction was mixed and ranged from "I don't know why it's such a big deal," to "I'm glad. It's good to remember who we are and what we have and why."

The pledge apparently fell from favor when the Supreme Court ruling on prayer in school was delivered, said Huie. "It (the pledge) was not banned by my knowledge," he said. "But schools stopped using it anyway."

Huie emphasized that the Medina students were not being required to participate. Those that choose not to involve themselves for religious or personal reasons may remain seated and quiet during the brief ceremony, he said.

Christmas countdown begins

Planning parties, making decorations, wearing festive clothes, singing Christmas carols, and seeing family and friends are all part of the Christmas tradition.

Another important tradition for students is the vacation from school. It is the break from school of Christmas morning you like? Either way you don't have long to wait. For those waiting for vacation there are only nineteen days to wait, and for those who can just barely wait for that one morning there are 25 days to wait. You hurry to get your shopping finished and take in all the Christmas cheer you can before another one slips by again.

Students learn more about AIDS prevention

Assertive, dynamic, and convincing are what some students and teachers called the lecture on AIDS given by Carolyn McGhee Thursday, Nov. 17.

Mrs. McGhee is a physician's assistant at the V.A. Hospital in Kerrville and head of the AIDS Task Force in Kerrville. She spoke to the students about Aids, or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, in an open and direct manner, explaining what it is, how you can get it and she answered questions the students had.

She told the students that it is impossible to get AIDS from parties, schools, swimming pools or simply being near a person infected by the virus. She said no person has been infected by mosquitos, donating blood, kissing or eating at a restaurant. There are only three main ways the disease is transmitted, she explained: having sex with an infected person; sharing needles and syringes with users of illegal drugs; and from a mother infected with the AIDS virus to her newborn babies.

Basically, Mrs. McGhee stated, AIDS causes the body to lose the ability to fight off infection. It can damage the brain, but cannot kill by itself. It allows other diseases such as cancer or pneumonia to enter the body and with no immune system, the body has no defense. These diseases are what can kill. She said it is possible to have the virus without having the disease or appearing ill.

As of now, there is no known cure for AIDS and no vaccine that prevents the disease. You can be tested for AIDS by having a blood test done by a physician. If anyone has any questions concerning the disease, they may call Mrs. Carolyn McGhee at 896-2020 ext. 341 or Betsy Colvin, R.N., at 896-4200. For general information, an AIDS hotline is available at 1-800-342-AIDS.

Ed center representative speaks

Melissa Cotropia, a High School Coordinator in Public Relations for the National Education Center in San Antonio spoke to BHS students Tuesday, Nov. 22 on how to handle job interviews.

Cotropia gave the students many helpful hints on how to have a successful job interview, including the proper handshake, dress codes, answering questions and how to treat a secretary. Cotropia said that many times "the boss will ask the secretary how the job applicant acted away from the boss."

Cotropia showed a video where students could compare two job applicants. One was prepared, dressed neatly, and organized while the other was not prepared, unorganized, inconsiderate, and sloppily dressed.

The students also received checklists for determing whether or not they had good manners for job interviews.

Experts call Reye's Syndrome relentless killer of young people

Reye's Syndrome can strike any child or young adult with little warning after a bout with the flu, chicken pox, or other viral illness.

Reye's Syndrome has lately been in the news because of its association with the use of aspirin, but symptoms are unfamiliar to most parents and many health professionals. Unless diagnosed and treated successfully, Reye's Syndrome can cause death, often within a few days. It is a swift and deadly killer.

After a viral infection has seemingly run its course, symptoms may occur in this order: relentless or continuous vomiting; listlessness (loss of pep and energy); personality change (such as slurred speech); drowsiness (excessive sleepiness); disorientation or confusion (unable to identify whereabouts); combativeness (striking out at those trying to help); and loss of consciousness.

A person's life can depend on early diagnosis. Reye's Syndrome should be suspected in anyone with flu or chicken pox who vomits repeatedly. There is a 90 percent chance of recovery when the syndrome is treated in its earliest stages by physicians and nurses experienced in the treatment of Reye's.

If you have a flu-like illness or chicken pox, consult your physician before using any drugs, particularly aspirin or anti-nausea medicines. recent studies have shown a link between the use of aspirin and the development of Reye's Syndrome. Anti-nausea medicines may mask the symptoms of Reye's Syndrome.

Epidemiologic research has shown an association between the development of Reye's Syndrome and the use of aspirin for treating the symptoms of influenza-like illnesses, chicken pox, and colds. The National Reye's Syndrome Foundation the U.S. Surgeon General, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Center for Disease Control recommend that aspirin and combination products containing aspirin not be taken by anyone under 19 years of age during fever-causing illnesses.

Aspirin is another name for acetylsalicylate; some drug labels may use the words acetysalicylate, acetylsalicylic acid, salicylic acid, or salicylate instead of the word aspirin. There is no data as to whether other forms of salicylate than aspirin may be associated with the devbelopment of Reye's Syndrome. Until further research has answered this question, the NRDF recommends products listing any of these substances should not be taken by people of this age group during episodes of these illnesses.

Fear of nuclear war a top concern of youth

Fear of nuclear war ranks among the top three concerns of young people worldwide, according to the October issue of Texas Medicine.

Studies show concern about nuclear holocaust does not appear to adversely affect the development or behavior of young people. However, adults should educate young people about the facts and encourage an open exchange on nuclear fears, the article reports.

Younger teens and females appear to be the most worried, writes Dr. John M. Goldenring, assistant professor of pediatrics, adolescent and preventive medicine, New York Medical College, Valhalla, NY.

Dr. Goldenring's conclusions stem from a review of studies similar to the ones he and his colleagues first began in 1983. "So far, concern about nuclear war has been second or third in all European and North American countries studied ... In addition, it has been reported as the number one concern in Sweden and the Soviet Union," claims the author.

"From 10 to 12 percent are very worried and even dream about nuclear war," according to the official journal of the Texas Medical Association.

Dr. Goldenring writes, "...the most worried young people also report that they talk more with their parents, other adults, and their own peers about the nuclear issue than do young people who say they are not worried." He concludes that sharing concern is very useful and explains why young people may feel optimistic about the future despite being quite worried about it.

Very few respondents said that they themselves can have any effect on the future of nuclear weapons. Dr. Goldenring surmises this attitude may be an outgrowth of increasing political cynicism among adults. "This sense of powerlessness is antithetical to the democratic process. It also represents a potential danger to young people who may, as a result, retreat from appropriate anxiety with a positive outlook, into denial or despair," he writes.

Adults should recognize that anxiety among young people about nuclear war is legitimate, and that it must be dealt with constructively. "Conflict resolutions" curricula could help teach young people how to listen and communicate more effectively and to solve day to day problems. "Such curricula are long overdue and urgently needed, ... to help our young people move in a positive fashion into the 21st century," concludes Dr. Goldenring.

Silver Sage Corral

By Glenn Wehmeyer

The Thanksgiving festivities held here at the Center are being hailed as the "best yet" with some 46 persons present for the covered dish luncheon and 21 meals being sent out to those unable to attend. With all of the support and assistance we got from the community, we were assured of a success.

The folks who live at Bandera Ranch Acres, organized with the assistance of Karen Evans did an exceptional job of providing for the Meals-on-Wheels program. Along with Karen, Shannon Ripp helped to deliver the prepared dishes to the Center on Thanksgiving Day. Contributors included Johnny Boyle and Kay Wolfe, who donated ham and turkey, Mary Garcia, Patti Heep, and Karen who brought yams, and Alisha Ivres, Mary Wheeler, Elsa Fernandez, Minetta Stourjohann, Linda Balson and Shannon Ripp who brought in other vegetable dishes.

Also contributing to Meals-on-Wheels from Bandera Ranch Acres were Harry and Vivian Webb, Margie Broomall, Olga Holdue, Ann Guilott, Lois Mortenstern, and Dottie Fink, who prepared everything from stuffing to cranberry sauce and rolls. Fresh fruit was contributed by Sharon Morreau and Bunny Smirch with cakes, pies, and ice cream sent by Peg LaWare, Helen and Joe Korom, Pat and Jane Martin, M.J. Cave, Sally Blackford and Sally's granddaughter Kim were on hand to help prepare and serve the individual meal containers.

Mary Portman brought muffins, Mary Smith an extra salad, and Grace Hinojosa a box of homemade candy.

Avis Huey coordinated the boxing of the meals and finally Sue Black and Manuel Flores did the delivery.

After the delivery was on its way, Floyd and Mary Portman, Harry and Vivian Webb, and Avis Huey then set up and organized the covered dish lunch held at 12:30. To name everyone who contributed to that part of the program is impossible, but know that we are all grateful for your time and consideration.

• The annual volunteer's awards tea will be held at 2 p.m., Dec. 6 at the Particia Ernst Auditorium on the grounds of Kerrville State Hospital. The awards, to acknowledges the work of volunteers from all of the combined centers and work areas in our three county district. This year we have twenty six volunteers receiving individual awards for cumulative time.

So that all staff and volunteers of the Silver Sage Corral may attend, the center will close at 1 p.m. that day. We have two vans available to transport persons to the tea. One is reserved for the Melodiers, who will be performing selections from their Christmas concert series, and the other is available for those persons who need a ride. If you wish to go on the van, please let us know in advance.

• M.J. Cave and Sundance Travel have put together a special Christmas treat for seniors. They have arranged a motorcoach tour of the Riverwalk and the Windcrest subdivision in San Antonio to view the Christmas lights and decorations. The Windcrest subdivision is noted as being one of the most elaborately decorated residential areas in the city and homeowners spend months planning their yuletide displays. The coach will leave the Silver Sage at 4 p.m. Dec. 13 and return to the center at approximately 10 p.m. They have also made arrangements for supper at Luby's Cafeteria.

The cost of the Christmas lights tour is $12 not including supper and there is space for 30 participants. We already have fourteen reservations so, if you want to go along, sign up now. Also, payment should accompany your reservation with Sundance Travel.

• Frank Adamo, Executive Director of the Alamo Area Agency on Aging and his assistant Barbara Hughes made a surprise visit to the center Tuesday, Nov. 29. Frank was well pleased with the new addition to the Center and praised our local volunteers for all the hard work they did, not only raising the funds but in the actual construction of the addition.

While Frank and Barbara visited there were about five other things going on at The Silver Sage and both questioned whether we were always this busy. The resounding answer is yes and that's the way we like it.

• Don't forget the Christmas bazaar Dec. 3 at Grace Lutheran Church. Several organizations will participate in this annual event. Marie Holland and the craft ladies have put in a hard two weeks preparing for the sale and will have some exceptional and unusual items available.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

It seems a great many people these days complain that their work is boring. The tendency is to blame the job for lack of challenge. What usually makes work drudgery, however, is a person's attitude — not the work itself.

No task need be boring, for the simple reason that every job contains within it a hidden challenge. What is this challenge? That challenge is this. How can it be done better?

Could anything be more boring than sweeping floors? ... Many years ago Murray Spangler, a department store janitor in Canton, Ohio, didn't think so, even though the dust made him cough and wheeze. Many men would have given up and quit. Instead, Spangler set out to find a better way to clean floors. ... Why not eliminate the broom, he wondered, ... maybe something that would suck up dirt. ?

Spangler's question led to a crude but working vacuum cleaner, which he induced an old friend in the leather business to finance ... You guessed it! The friend's name was H.W. Hoover.

Your Child's Foundation

The home is the basic institution of learning for children. Put another way, children learn where they live. They live in the home; they learn in the home.

- Schools can teach mathematics, but integrity to use numbers is learned in the home.
- Schools can teach children about business, but character to use such knowledge comes basically from the home.
- Schools can teach children law, but attitudes of the home determine whether or not the child will grant justice to all humankind.

The home is the basic institution of learning because it precedes both religious and educational institutions; and, neither religious nor educational organizations stand much of a chance unless the home assumes its God-given responsibility of being the FOUNDATION for child development.

Older adults value independence extension expert says

Older adults are in better control of their destiny if they properly prepare themselves, according to a gerontology specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Learning to cope with emotional, social and financial situations is very important to the happiness of older adults," said Dr. Judith Warren. "Enhancing independence in older adults is one of the goals of the Extension gerontology educational programs."

Speaking during the state faculty conference of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Dr. Alice Franzke of St. Mary's University, San Antonio, told the group that being old is bad only because our culture says it is bad.

"We have a feeling in our culture that young is the desired age," she said. "This is not necessarily true since research has shown that older adults can continue to learn and take on new responsibilities."

Franzke said that people must learn to be assertive to avoid becoming victims of shams, false claims and unethical solications. This assertive ability also can help individuals have better relationships with family members to solve problems and create congenial living conditions.

The training program was designed to assist county Extension agents conduct local programs for older adults.

Joyce Foulds, Hood County Extension agent, described a pilot program that trained Extension master volunteers in money management. These local volunteers received intensive training in money management, record-keeping, goal setting, budgeting and related topics.

Each volunteer also had agreed to donate at least 50 hours of "payback" work with citizens on budget planning and financial management. Most of the volunteers have exceeded that 50 hours and are still conducting programs.

Gail Treece, information specialist-nutritionist with the Brazos Valley on Aging, described the "Gatekeeper Program," which emphasizes periodic checks on the physical, financial and social well-being of senior citizens.

Numerous governmental agencies and private companies are cooperating in the program.

Many communities are finding that senior citizens comprise 40 percent or more of their population. Therefore, the influence of this segment of the population is growing continually, Treece said.

Ag biotechnology called 'mind boggling'

Its potential for increasing agricultural productivity is truly "mind boggling."

This is how Dr. Ernest E. Davis described the current era of agricultural biotechnology, which already is impacting the animal agriculture industry. Davis is an economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Davis said we've seen much of today's technology developed during our lifetimes. "Half of all the technology we know today has been developed in the last half century," he said.

"But hang on, because present estimates show that during the next two decades, technological change — mostly biotechnology — will take place 500 times faster than during the past 20 years," Davis said.

Davis said a U.S. Government Accounting Office report has defined biotech as "any technique that uses living organisms to make or modify products, to improve plants or animals or to develop microorganisms for specific uses."

"This could help to provide for mankind's most basic needs, ranking from food supplies to biomedical needs and health care," Davis said.

Davis said that biotech certainly is not new to the cattle business.

"Artificial insemination came along in the 1930s and frozen semen made its debut in [illegible]. Embryo transfer work began in 1953, frozen embryos followed in 1971, and microsurgical embryo splitting began in 1982," Davis said.

"But this is just the beginning. In the future, more will be achieved through genetic engineering by developing vaccines to prevent disease or designing cattle to fit specific needs or consumer demands," Davis predicted.

He said that from new biotechnologies, cattlemen can expect improved calving and survival rates, higher lean-yielding cattle with lower cholesterol levels, improved beef quality, better feed conversions and generally higher protein grasses.

"Biotech advances will enable cattlemen to tailor a product more in keeping with consumer desires, increase productivity and lower production costs." He said this increased productivity means more beef production per cow. This ultimately may mean fewer, more technology intensive cattlemen.

Davis said that higher productivity and relatively lower costs of such competing meats as poultry and pork will force cattlemen to make investments in biotechnology.

He said that increases in consumer demand for beef must keep pace with increases in beef productivity.

"Otherwise, continued liquidation of the cow herd will be required for beef supplies and demand to equate at profitable levels," he said.

He said that with biotech's potential to produce cattle with certain desired traits and the concentrating packer segment demands, cattlemen will be pressured to develop cattle conforming to these packer specifications.

"If cattlemen do not invest in biotech advances, packers or private firms will, and they will own the new genetics. When developed, the genetically improved cattle likely will be expensive for traditional cattlemen to buy. They may only be able to contract to raise and condition these select cattle," Davis said.

Tarpley

By Nettie Dean — 562-3464

Sunday morning a household garbage fire got out of control on the [illegible] place. High north winds spread the fire through the dry grass, and fire trucks were called from Tarpley and Bandera.

Firefighters contained the blaze.

• The annual Christmas covered dish dinner will be served at noon Sunday, Dec. 4, at the Tarpley Baptist Church.

Out-of-town guests this Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brasington of San Antonio.

• Jerry Hall and her sister, Margaret Cain, spent Thanksgiving at the Marriott Hotel on the river in San Antonio.

Jerry's husband Tom left on Nov. 2 for his annual Village Mills Club hunt, and he has bagged the limit of four deer. While in East Texas, Tom visited with his family and many of his former schoolmates.

• Women residents of Rio Hondo subdivision have been invited to attend a salad bar luncheon at the home of Marie Hood at noon on Thursday, Dec. 15, the annual Christmas meeting of the Extension Club.

Those attending are asked to bring canned goods for the Helping Hand of Bandera and to provide a salad covered dish.

• The Rigdon Terrell home was the setting for a holiday dinner Thursday for 24 adults and five children.

• Visitors last week of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. (Skeet) Singleton were their son Byron, Amy and little daughter, Amber of San Antonio.

Holiday weekend visitors were their son Rick and Donna Singleton and daughters Kaci and Ginni of Temple and Donna's father Robert Gilmore, also of Temple.

• Thanksgiving visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Taylor and son Jr. and Mrs. Clay Taylor were Pat and Wilma Taylor of San Antonio, Dorothy Warmack and daughter Annie of Bandera, and Mrs. Lauren Smith and two sons of San Antonio.

Clay returned home with her son Pat and Wilma to visit awhile.

• Elzie and Nettie Dean's guests for the holiday were Donnie and Marie NewComb and children Molly and Jonathan of San Antonio.

Visitors on Sunday afternoon at the Deans were old friends Joe and Mary Kolos of Divot and Emily Kolos Fritz of Las Vegas.

They report it is very dry in Frio County.

• Friday afternoon Judge Grant officiated at the wedding of Michelle Duclos and Jack Vanderveer in Rio Hondo subdivision.

ADOPT A PET OF BANDERA
Are you plagued with stray dogs or cats?
Bandera County does not operate a Humane Shelter at this time.
What to do with the stray pets?
Consider carrying the stray pet to the Veterinarians at Hill Country Veterinary Hospital (across from Alkek Elementary)
Stray animals will be sheltered for a short time while hospital staff attempt to place the pet in a home.
Two requirements exist:
1. No UNWANTED pets strays only!
2. Adopting pet owners will be responsible for required vaccination expense and a nominal spay or neuter fee if applicable at time of release.
Call Hill Country Veterinary Hospital Day or night for further information at 796-3787.
