PUBLIC NOTICE

All developers and subdividers planning projects in Bandera County are urged to obtain and follow the regulations governing subdivisions in Bandera county. Failure to follow these established regulations will almost certainly result in costly delays. Some of the most critical items are:

1. Written request to proceed accompanied by a statement from Bandera Electric Cooperative that electricity will be furnished.
2. Utility easements indicated by survey.
3. Road dedication indicated by survey.
4. Construction and maintenance bonds on roads.
5. All lots or tracts adequate in size.
6. Plats to be drawn to a scale of 200 feet to the inch, on 18" by 24" sheets. A key map shows the entire area to be drawn on. U.S. G.S. maps which are available in the County Judge's office.
7. Compliance with Bandera County Regulations covering sanitary facilities and water wells.

These directives, most of which have been in force since 1972, by order of the Bandera County Commissioners' Court, are available for any developer at the office of Permits and Inspections, County Courthouse. I urge all concerned to obtain this document and follow it closely during the course of your planning and development schedule.

Listed in the caption above are delinquent tax suits in which judgments of foreclosure have been rendered and orders of sale have been issued. The listing for each suit sets out: (1) the Cause Number; (2) the Plaintiff Tax Unit; (3) the Defendants; (4) the date of the Judgement; (5) the date of Levy; and (6) the Property Description.

Under the order of sale issued pursuant to each judgement above listed, I did at the time specified for each suit levy upon each Property in such suit as described above as the property of the Defendants named or designated in such suit. On the sale date specified above, which is the first Tuesday of said month, I will offer and sell at public auction, for cash, each property described above, and all the right, title, interest and estate in and to each such property owned or claimed by the defendants named in connection with each such property; provided, however, that no property shall be sold directly or indirectly to anyone other than a tax unit which is a party to that specific suit for less than the total amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs due against that particular property or any adjudged value decreed, whichever is lower.

The foreclosure sales under this notice will be held on the first Tuesday of said month, at the courthouse door of said county, at the time set out above, by and through the Sheriff of Bexar, P.O., 3001 N. Lamar Blvd., Suite 306, Austin, Texas 78705, telephone (512)476-4688 and telecopier (512)476-0325, my authorized representative.

The sale of each property shall be subject to the rights of the defendants named in connection with each particular property, and any successors in title, to redeem such specified property in the time and manner provided by law; and subject also to the rights of any defendants to have each particular property owned or claimed by such defendants sold and sold in less division than the whole as provided by law. The sale as to each property is to be made to satisfy the judgement rendered against that particular property and the defendants named in connection with that particular property. The proceeds of the sale of each property are to be applied to the satisfaction of the judgement against that particular property, and the remainder of the sale proceeds, if any, are to be applied as the law directs.

Notice is hereby given that a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Springhills Water Management District will be held Thursday, Jan. 2, 1992, beginning at 7 p.m. at 202 Twelfth Street (Old County Jail), Bandera County, Texas, at which time the following items will be discussed and possible action taken, to wit:

I. Call to order, roll call, certification of quorum and compliance with Texas Open Meetings Law.
II. Minutes of previous meetings
III. FY 91 audit - presentation by Eric Ede
IV. Speaking time limits
V. General Manager report
VI. Executive committee report
VII. General business
VIII. Adjournment

PUBLIC NOTICE

All developers and subdividers planning projects in Bandera County are urged to obtain and follow the regulations governing subdivisions in Bandera county. Failure to follow these established regulations will almost certainly result in costly delays. Some of the most critical items are:

1. Written request to proceed accompanied by a statement from Bandera Electric Cooperative that electricity will be furnished.
2. Utility easements indicated by survey.
3. Road dedication indicated by survey.
4. Construction and maintenance bonds on roads.
5. All lots or tracts adequate in size.
6. Plats to be drawn to a scale of 200 feet to the inch, on 18" by 24" sheets. A key map shows the entire area to be drawn on U.S. G.S. maps which are available in the County Judge's office.
7. Compliance with Bandera County Regulations covering sanitary facilities and water wells.

These directives, most of which have been in force since 1972, by order of the Bandera County Commissioners' Court, are available for any developer at the office of Permits and Inspections, County Courthouse. I urge all concerned to obtain this document and follow it closely during the course of your planning and development schedule.

Ray F. Mauer
Bandera County Judge

Suit No. 5224-91, Bandera Independent School District and Bandera County vs. Paula Livingston, et al., personal property consisting of improvements only, located on Abstract 180, W. judgement: Oct. 28, 1991, date of levy: Jan. 7, 1992.

Listed in the caption above are delinquent tax suits in which judgements of foreclosure have been rendered and orders of sale have been issued. The listing for each suit sets out: (1) the Cause Number; (2) the Plaintiff Tax Unit; (3) the Defendants; (4) the date of the Judgement; (5) the date of Levy; and (6) the Property Description.

Under the order of sale issued pursuant to each judgement above listed, I did at the time specified for each suit levy upon each Property in such suit as described above as the property of the Defendants named or designated in such suit. On the sale date specified above, which is the first Tuesday of said month, I will offer and sell at public auction, for cash, each property described above, and all the right, title, interest and estate in and to each such property owned or claimed by the defendants named in connection with each such property; provided, however, that no property shall be sold directly or indirectly to anyone other than a tax unit which is a party to that specific suit for less than the total amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs due against that particular property or any adjudged value decreed, whichever is lower.

The foreclosure sales under this notice will be held on the first Tuesday of said month, at the courthouse door of said county, at the time set out above, by and through the Steen and Steen, P.C., 3001 N. Lamar Blvd., Suite 308, Austin, Texas 78705, telephone (512)476-4888 and telecopier (512)476-0325, my authorized representative.

The sale of each property shall be subject to the rights of the defendants named in connection with each particular property, and any successors in title, to redeem such specified property in the time and manner provided by law; and subject also to the rights of any defendants to have each particular property owned or claimed by such defendants divided and sold in less division than the whole as provided by law. The sale as to each property is to be made to satisfy the judgement rendered against that particular property and the defendants named in connection with that particular property. The proceeds of the sale of each property are to be applied to the satisfaction of the judgement against that particular property, and the remainder of the sale proceeds, if any, are to be applied as the law directs.

R. Steve Forest, Sr., Sheriff

NOTICE

Any person residing within the corporate limits of the City of Bandera is reminded that a construction permit is required when:

A. Erecting a new place of business or a new residence.

Virginia S. Jackson of Medina and Richard L. Fiach will be married Feb. 15 at the First Baptist Church in Medina. She is the daughter of Tommy E. and Sinda S. Jackson of Medina and he is the son of Freddie and Mary Alice Fiach of Bandera.

Nancy Ruth Suhre and Byron Neal Boyd, both of Nashville, Tenn., were married Aug. 31. She is the daughter of Arthur and Barbara Suhre of Antioch, Tenn., and he is the son of Sue Turner of Fort Worth and Gene Boyd of San Antonio and a BHS grad.

Kazoo band looms in Bandera's future

The latest fad to hit Bandera for the new year, according to [illegible] Ellington, is what else? A genuine kazoo band.

The band was formed over the holidays when Ellington received 24 kazoos for Christmas who owns "Grant's Drum City" in Irving, sent her the instruments as a Christmas gift.

"The group will be available for concerts at any civic activities, and will certainly be available to march in all the Bandera parades, complete with banner," Ellington says.

Anyone interested in joining the band ("not many rehearsals needed! She stresses tion of kazoos each year, the this group hopes to get them to meet in Bandera in the future," she says.

Schreiner instructor's manuel helps gets her point across

Statistical analysis can be a valuable research tool if used correctly in order to produce meaningful results.

For that reason, Judy Beauford, instructor of mathematics at Kerrville's Schreiner College wrote a manual titled "Statistics in Science" as a guide for students and teachers working on science, math and computer science projects and experiments.

Appropriate statistical procedures are given for various types of experiments, Beauford said. These are done with most of the major statistical procedures use in high schools, she added.

When she taught mathematics at Boerne High School from 1981-91, Beauford said other teachers would send students to her two or three days before a science fair to learn correct procedure, so she started the project to produce guidelines on when and how to use statistics in science projects.

"This manual is an attempt to supply the student with the information and examples needed to present their projects with the correct analysis from which to draw sound conclusions," Beauford said in the forward to the manual.

Six nominated for four seats on chamber's board

Six persons have been nominated for four vacancies on the board of directors of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce.

Ballots were mailed to members last week and they will be counted Jan. 17.

Nominees include merchant Johnny Boyle, dude ranch owner Frank Anderwald, RV park and Beverage Barn operator Dave Koehler, Patricia Moore of Horseshoe Inn, attorney Billy Walker and Sheryl Perry of Guaranty Federal Savings.

The four persons receiving the most votes will join funeral director Joel Evans, attorney Robert Stubbeman, banker Kaay Camp and apparel store owner Jannett Moore on the eight-member board.

A statewide campaign to help school children cope with the Africanized honey bee began Dec. 10 with the distribution of hands-on teaching material to elementary schools in Hidalgo County.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is providing a honey bee "show and tell" kit—400 of them in all—to every public elementary school in the 18 counties where the Africanized honey bee has been found. By spring, 1,000 of the kits will have been given to schools throughout South Texas.

"As a group, young children are perhaps the least informed about the Africanized bee and yet are among the most vulnerable to it," said Dr. John Thomas, an entomologist with the Extension Service at Texas A&M University. "We hope these kits will give teachers the tools they have been requesting to help instruct children about the myths and realities involving this insect."

Africanized bees look like regular honey bees, but they are much more defensive in protecting their hives. As a result, they are more likely to sting in greater numbers, with less provocation, and at greater distances from their nests.

"These bees also will nest just about anywhere whey can find cover, so children playing in their backyards and in the fields and woods are likely to encounter them," Thomas explained.

"The first swarm of Africanized bees was found in Hidalgo County in Oct. 1990. To date, the insect has been found as far as north as Del Rio and Corpus Christi. By next fall, the bees are projected to have reached San Antonio and be within 50 miles of Houston.

"The message we want to get across to children is to be careful when around bees, period," said Brad Cowan, Hidalgo County Extension Service agent. "But this isn't a bug that's going to change our way of life, especially if we understand it. Like a rattlesnake, it's a nuisance that we have to learn to avoid and what to do if we encounter it."

Cowan and the other Extension Service agents in the 18 quarantined counties will be distributing the kits to schools over the next two months.

Each blue cardboard box, the same trap scientists hang in trees to monitor the movements of the Africanized bee, has a complete setup for teaching children in grades K-4 how to live with the new creatures: large photos of honey bees, an africanized honey bee preserved in resin, a color slide set with scripts and audio cassettes in Spanish and English, a plastic honeycomb, capsules of the scented pheromones bees use to communicate with each other and a teaching guide with cartoons and handouts to color.

The kits are the centerpiece of a general public information campaign on the Africanized bee in Texas supported in part by a $45,000 grant from the Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The grant also is supporting development of materials on the bees in Spanish to reach low-income Hispanics in the Rio Grande Valley spring.

Setting it straight

The poem on page 1 of last week's edition of The Bulletin was printed without a title and without crediting the creator.

It was, of course, "A Visit from St. Nicholas" (not "'Twas the Night Before Christmas"), by Clement C. Moore, published in 1823. According to reader Dr. Ted Samsel of Lakehills, Moore was an Episcopal minister and benefator as well as a poet.

Record number of entries in livestock show

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin Staff Writer

A record number of livestock entries including sheep, goats, cattle, rabbits and poultry, will be paraded through the show ring this weekend at the 56th annual Bandera County Junior Livestock Show, Jan. 9-11.

A record 691 entries, up over 617 entries last year and 525 entries in 1990, will compete for top honors, and contestants will vie for special awards including the Larry Bausch and M.R. Sandidge memorial awards, senior and junior showmanship, high point individual and the Masonic Lodge Achievement award.

The previous record number of entries in the livestock show came in 1989 when there were 664 entries. In 1988, there were 295; in 1987, 221; in 1986, 185; and in 1985, 220.

This year, there are 83 bake show entries, up from 42 last year and 41 in 1990.

Bake show superintendent Leanne Miller attributes this year's increase in bake show entries to the fact that Bandera and Medina High School home economics students are being encouraged to participate in the bake show.

But, the bake show will have to go some to bring the number of entries back up to 125, which they were in 1989. That was the year the livestock show directors passed a new rule that forced junior exhibitors to decide between the bake show and the livestock show auction.

But the following year, the ruling was revoked.

"I'm glad to see that (the exhibitors) are able to participate in both," Miller says. "I think there are a completely different group of buyers (at each auction)."

Last year, bidders paid $78,215 in the livestock show auction and $4,520 in the bake show auction. Neither figure was a record, but both numbers were up significantly over the previous year.

Saturday, between the bake show auction and the livestock show auction, Bandera County's extension homemakers will serve a barbecue lunch. Tickets are $4 for adults and $3.50 for children, and proceeds support local 4-H projects.

"We are still in need of financial support," says livestock show superintendent Speedy Hutcheson. "The show still needs donations to help with expenses.

"Anyone who wishes to buy an animal and support the show, but who cannot make it to the auction Saturday can contact me at 796-3684, or Harvey Faris at 796-3342," Hutcheson says. "You can authorize someone to bid for you, or just to donate to the general show fund."

This year, the livestock auction will be conducted differently than in years past, according to show secretary Carolyn Sells. This year, animals will be auctioned according to their placings, and the different types of animals will be alternated.

21 candidates entered in spring primaries, but deadline extended

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The deadline for filing for a space on March 10 (maybe) primary elections was extended to Friday, Jan. 10, but two more Bandera County candidates beat the old filing deadline by filing last week.

Twenty one candidates have lined up for 11 elective posts in the county.

Incumbent constable Wells Tom Fielder of Vanderpool filed as a Democratic candidate for his precinct 4 post, reports Bandera County Democratic chair Mary Autry.

Allen G. Hatley of the Sabinal Canyon area had filed in December to run for the Republican nomination to oppose Fielder for the precinct 4 constable post.

Texas Secretary of State John Hannah Jr. extended the filing deadline for all elective posts in the state last week in response to a three-federal judge panel's ruling.

Rancher and real estate agent Preston Jennings of Bandera has filed for precinct 3 county commissioner post in the Republican primary, reports Bandera County Republican chair Gary Johnston.

Jennings will go head-to-head with oil exploration man and current member of the Springhills Water Management District board of directors, Louis Vannatter, in the primary. Johnston says he expects the Medina man to have his paperwork filed in the next few days.

Propane businessman Ralph Chancy of Medina has filed for a place on the Democratic ballot for county commisioner in precinct 3.

In the sheriff's race, all three announced candidates have filed.

Republican Marc Sultan of Pipe Creek is the latest to file, handing his paperwork in last week to oppose James MacMillan in the Republican primary, the winner facing incumbent Democrat R.S. "Steve" Forest, still unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Both Republicans in the race for county attorney filed last week, reports Johnston. Bandera city municipal judge Kerry H. Schneider of Pipe Creek and incumbent Sam Darden will square off in the primary.

Tax watchdog and rollback leader Bobby Jones of Wharton's Dock was the third Republican to filej for county commissioner in precinct 1.

Incumbent Bennie Barker of Wharton's Dock and Bandera Builders owner Michael Jewett filed just before Christmas.

Bandera County tax-assessor collector Marguerite Stevens has filed for the Democratic primary, Autry says.

The constable races for precinct 1, 2, and 3 still have one candidate apiece, the incumbents.

Incumbent constable for pretinct 1 Donnie Walker of Pipe Creek has announced for the Democratic ticket, and Autry says she expects his filing to be complete shortly.

Incumbent constable for precinct 2 Ernest Reich III of Lakehills had previously filed on the Republican ticket and incumbent constable for precinct 3 William "Bill" Ellis of Medina had previously filed on the Democratic ticket.

Louise Karr of Lakehills is the lone filee for the Republican nomination for peace justice in precinct 2. She seeks election to the two-year term left by the late Preston Boggs of Lakehills. Karr was appointed to the post by Bandera County Commissioners.

In the political arena, Janet Cave of Bandera and Johnston of Bandera will square off in the Republican primary for county chair.

The new deadline for filing is Friday, Jan. 10, at 6 p.m. and candidates need to seek out Johnston if they want to run

Election March 10?

Date for spring primaries still unsettled as legislature continues to debate redistricting

The Texas Senate Monday gave tentative approval to a Texas House and Senate redistricting plan, but Republican senators threatened a filibuster at press time that could delay the primary elections until April 11 or later.

The bill approved Monday would keep the elections on March 10 unless court challenges make it necessary to push it back to April 11.

Generally, Democrats favor the House and Senate plans currently being debated in the legislature and the Republicans favor the plan drawn by a three-judge federal court panel Dec. 24.

The U.S. Justice Department Saturday reversed its earlier approval of a plan negotiated by Democratic senators, saying it had not "pre-approved" the plan and will have to look at the plan again.

The Senate Monday voted to approve the Democratic Senate plan, but Republicans were expected to delay action with a filibuster Tuesday.

State district judge Mario Ramirez in Edinburg Jan. 6 extended the filing deadline for the House from the federal court-imposed Jan. 10 to Jan. 15.

Senators hope to extend the filing deadline from Jan. 10 to Jan. 17.

The bill also states that if elections still cannot be held April 11, the secretary of state and state party chairs can determine the date for the primary.

If the primaries are not held March 10, Texas won't be part of Super Tuesday presidential primary sweepstakes.

Democrat precinct chairs needed

Two new precinct chairs are needed in the Democratic party for the new voting precincts in the Pipe Creek and Wharton's Dock area.

Bandera County Democratic party chair Mary Autry reports that she doesn't have a precinct chair for voting precinct 1 in the Polly Peak area and for voting precinct 11 in the Wharton's Dock area.

The voting location for precinct 1 is the Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church and for precinct 11 is the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department firehouse.

Record number of entries in livestock show

21 candidates entered in spring primaries, but deadline extended

By James Henry Frazar

The deadline for filing for a space on March 10 (maybe) primary elections was extended to Friday, Jan. 10, but two more Bandera County candidates beat the old filing deadline by filing last week.

Twenty one candidates have lined up for 11 elective posts in the county.

Allen G. Hatley of the Sabinal Canyon area had filed in December to run for the Republican nomination to oppose Fielder for the precinct 4 constable post.

Texas Secretary of State John Hannah Jr. extended the filing deadline for all elective posts in the state last week in response to a three-federal judge panel's ruling.

Rancher and real estate agent Preston Jennings of Bandera has filed for precinct 3 county commissioner post in the Republican primary, reports Bandera County Republican chair Gary Johnston.

Jennings will go head-to-head with oil exploration man and current member of the Springhills Water Management District board of directors, Louis Vannatter, in the primary. Johnston says he expects the Medina man to have his paperwork filed in the next few days.

Propane businessman Ralph Chancy of Medina has filed for a place on the Democratic ballot for county commisioner in precinct 3.

In the sheriff's race, all three announced candidates have filed.

Republican Marc Sultan of Pipe Creek is the latest to file, handing his paperwork in last week to oppose James MacMillan in the Republican primary, the winner facing incumbent Democrat R.S. "Steve" Forest, still unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Both Republicans in the race for county attorney filed last week, reports Johnston. Bandera city municipal judge Kerry H. Schneider of Pipe Creek and incumbent Sam Darden will square off in the primary.

Tax watchdog and rollback leader Bobby Jones of Wharton's Dock was the third Republican to filej for county commissioner in precinct 1.

Bandera County tax-assessor collector Marguerite Stevens has filed for the Democratic primary, Autry says.

Incumbent constable for pretinct 1 Donnie Walker of Pipe Creek has announced for the Democratic ticket, and Autry says she expects his filing to be complete shortly.

Incumbent constable for precinct 2 Ernest Reich III of Lakehills had previously filed on the Republican ticket and incumbent constable for precinct 3 William "Bill" Ellis of Medina had previously filed on the Democratic ticket.

Louise Karr of Lakehills is the lone filee for the Republican nomination for peace justice in precinct 2. She seeks election to the two-year term left by the late Preston Boggs of Lakehills. Karr was appointed to the post by Bandera County Commissioners.

In the political arena, Janet Cave of Bandera and Johnston of Bandera will square off in the Republican primary for county chair.

Election March 10?

Date for spring primaries still unsettled as legislature continues to debate redistricting

The Texas Senate Monday gave tentative approval to a Texas House and Senate redistricting plan, but Republican senators threatened a filibuster at press time that could delay the primary elections until April 11 or later.

The bill approved Monday would keep the elections on March 10 unless court challenges make it necessary to push it back to April 11.

Generally, Democrats favor the House and Senate plans currently being debated in the legislature and the Republicans favor the plan drawn by a three-judge federal court panel Dec. 24.

The U.S. Justice Department Saturday reversed its earlier approval of a plan negotiated by Democratic senators, saying it had not "pre-approved" the plan and will have to look at the plan again.

The Senate Monday voted to approve the Democratic Senate plan, but Republicans were expected to delay action with a filibuster Tuesday.

State district judge Mario Ramirez in Edinburg Jan. 6 extended the filing deadline for the House from the federal court-imposed Jan. 10 to Jan. 15.

Senators hope to extend the filing deadline from Jan. 10 to Jan. 17.

The bill also states that if elections still cannot be held April 11, the secretary of state and state party chairs can determine the date for the primary.

If the primaries are not held March 10, Texas won't be part of Super Tuesday presidential primary sweepstakes.

Democrat precinct chairs needed

Two new precinct chairs are needed in the Democratic party for the new voting precincts in the Pipe Creek and Wharton's Dock area.

Bandera County Democratic party chair Mary Autry reports that she doesn't have a precinct chair for voting precinct 1 in the Polly Peak area and for voting precinct 11 in the Wharton's Dock area.

The voting location for precinct 1 is the Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church and for precinct 11 is the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department firehouse.

Opinion

letters to the editor

Judge simply does not care

Dear editor:

"Letters to the editor" first. Recently, because of circumstances, one letter in particular came immediately to mind. It was from a young man who, in his and his family's opinions, was unjustifiable spending Thanksgiving in the Bandera County jail (The Bulletin, Nov. 27). He (Kenneth Alexander) wrote how his mother tried to help him prove a mistake had been made by trying to explain his dilemma to (Peace Justice) Bonnie Towers. Judge Towers' response was to become extremely rude and hang up on this woman.

I also experienced first-hand on Christmas Judge Towers' lack of compassion, her absolute rudeness, and I also was hung up on when I tried to receive help for my son.

The lady sure does not practice "good will toward men." I'm amazed that she stays in office when she treats people this way.

We are supposed to be innocent until proven guilty. In my opinion, she seems to read "guilty" only, and always, even before evidence is presented, and to try to defend yourself to her is out of the question.

She simply does not care.

I am truly disillusioned with how this small-town system operates, but because the way I've been treated, I will certainly take a much more active roll in the elections and campaigns and a harder, closer look at the people running for offices that are supposed to support, protect and work for "we the people."

Debbie Spoonire
Pipe Creek

She wants an encore

Dear editor:

A vote of thanks and appreciation is due the director, J.W. Neuenschwander, and all the singers and musicians who performed so well in the presentation of Handel's Messiah. It was a delightful Christmas present for Bandera.

Thank you not only for sharing their talents but also for the hours of dedicated practice that was necessary to make it all come together.

Many of us hope we can look forward to additional performances in the months to come.

Maple Cowan
Bandera

Don't let litter take over

Dear editor:

This is an appeal to the various civic groups, adult and student, in Bandera to mount an anti-litter campaign as (they do) in other parts of Texas – assigning certain distances along the roadsides for clean-up by participating groups.

Through the years, I've always enjoyed trips to and through the lovely Bandera countryside in spite of the sight of occasional litter.

But this Dec. 28, I was shocked at how it has increased, especially on (FM Road) 470 from Bandera to Tarpley.

At one of the roadcuts, where I stopped to look for fossils, I managed to pick up three bags of bottles and cans that had accumulated since I cleaned the area six months ago on a previous trip.

Sad to say, the litterers will probably always be with us. But please don't let them take over your beautiful countryside – Civic groups who care, Unite! Keep Bandera Beautiful.

Evelyn E.Trevino
San Antonio

More on trash

Dear editor:

TRASH! Never have I seen so much trash along the highways. We have lived in Bandera County for 21 years and never have liked the highway trash, but we never have I seen it this bad!

We live in beautiful countryside; we trash it up to look ugly.

The state law signs say $250 fine for trashing the highway. How many police tickets have ever been given and how many justices have fined a trash thrower? The sheriff's office is not doing its duty and the highway patrol is not doing its duty. The civic organizations are not volunteering to pick up trash, and they are not doing their civic duty.

Let us do it. Keep Bandera western; keep Bandera clean and beautiful.

National publicity

Dear editor:

5's show "Weekend Travel Update" seen all over the country was a very diverse show. The big island of Hawaii and its $50,000-a-week package, Yellowstone National Park in the winter, and a special on cowboy boots was shown.

The first scene with boots was our own Bobbie Roden and Joe Reidy. Next was the Mayan (Guest Ranch's) 40th birthday party complete with a German western band and Rudy Robbins, Gwen Raab, Frank Nueces and Annie Walker kicking up their cowboy heels. That's a lot of good free publicity for Bandera, and a shot in the arm on a rainy Sunday morning for a hometown gal.

It's amazing how others see us better than we see ourselves. Let's keep those tourist dollars coming in. With spots like this, more people's curiosity will be piqued to come see "the Cowboy Capital of the World."

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Using fancy footwork, Democrats in the Texas Legislature battled the clock with a series of trick plays, hoping to move the redistricting football past three federal judge linebackers.

Gov. Ann Richards' special session has until Jan. 10 to substitute new political boundaries for the court-drawn maps.

Basically, the session is a last-ditch effort by Democrats to regain control of the redistricting football which they fumbled away on Christmas eve.

After the Texas Supreme Court threw out the senate plan, federal judges drew their own maps since none legally existed, and ordered primaries to be held on schedule.

Afarmed that the court's plan might elect a Republican majority in the Texas Senate, Democrats unveiled some creative play-making, including a ploy to create more time.

Postpone Election

Senate Democrats threatened to withdraw Texas from the March 10 presidential primary unless federal judges allow them to protect white incumbents.

A bill by state Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, would postpone all state elections for this year only to April 11, if the Legislature fails to adopt a plan in time.

Texas Secretary of State John Hannah has said Jan. 10 is the last day candidates can file if Texas is to participate in the March 10 Super Tuesday primaries across the South.

Glasgow has a special interest in changing the court's plan, which added several GOP precincts to his district.

Less Than The Alamo

Invoking senatorial privilege, Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, kept senators from considering the maps for four days.

"The Alamo held out for 13 days. I don't know if we have it in us to hold out that long or not," Sibley commented.

House: Multiple Plans

House committee Democrats adopted the court-drawn plan for 1992 only, to be substituted with a plan favoring Democrats for 1994 and beyond.

House members appeared reluctant to delay the primary, and leaders predicted the roll call vote would not challenge the court.

Meanwhile, an East Texas lawmaker who is openly challenging House Speaker Gib Lewis said he will ask for an unusual vote to declare the speakership vacant.

Rep. Billy Clemons, D-Pollak, planned to ask members for a majority vote on his resolution declaring the speaker's post vacant, and installing Speaker Pro Tem Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin.

Lewis, who faces trial later this month on two misdemeanor ethics indictments, said he would announce before the end of the session whether he will seek re-election.

Colossal Waste of Money?

But despite the potential for upheaval, some lawmakers in both parties predicted the session was a tempest in a teapot.

Indeed, many observers' eyes are focused on the Legislature to see whether Gov. Richards' tactics will be a colossal waste of taxpayers' money.

Some leaders are already convinced that it is.

"This is a joke," said Tom Craddick, House GOP leader. "We're not even voting on a bill that affects the 1992 elections. Lawmakers will return in 1993 to undo whatever is done now for the 1994 elections. So, we're just wasting time and tax money."

Hispanic leader Rep. Roman Martinez, D-Houston, said any change for this year would ultimately end up back in court before the same judges before the election.

House Democratic Caucus leader Sam Russell, D-Mt. Pleasant, said: "Quite frankly, I don't want (every elected official) in my district on my back saying, 'If it hadn't been for you legislators trying to save your skin for 1992, we would have had the elections when we thought we were going to have them.'"

Duke Files in Texas

As the economy tightened last year, state governments followed a trend of cutting welfare benefits and demanding more from welfare recipients. Texas was not among those leaders.

Meanwhile, the nation's top welfare-basher, presidential hopeful David Duke, filed last week on the Texas GOP primary ballot, paying a $5,000 filing fee.

Ed Martin, director of the Texas Democratic Party, jibed sanctimoniously: "If Duke's going to run in any party, I think the Republicans invited it...you've seen them play the race card over and over again."

Martin has conveniently forgotten all about black activist Jesse Jackson's presidential campaign four years ago, commented one observer, who also wondered why Jackson has been silent about Duke.

as a Republican and Autry if they want to run as a Democrat.

According to secretary of state's spokeswoman Katie Davis, the extension came from language contained in a three-judge federal court's redistricting order.

The order extends the filing deadline for all elective offices, not just the Texas House and Senate.

Davis speculates that the primary may still be held March 10, but it's less likely with every day that passes and the legislature stays in session.

Johnston says it's a "toss up" whether the primary will be held in March or April.

The Republican candidates are telling Johnston that they'd just as soon have the filing completed and the races starting. "The general feeling is, 'Let's get this thing done and over with.' They've been grappling with it (candidacy) a long time and they want to get it over with," says Johnston.

Both Autry and Johnston expect no more filings by Jan. 10, but both are prepared to take new candidates.

"I don't expect any other candidates. They knew they had a Jan. 2 deadline and that deadline wasn't extended until late. If there were any latecomers or surprises, they would have come in Dec. 31 and Jan. 1," says Autry.

"I think we've got all we're going to get," says Johnston.

Water over lake's spillway for first time since 1987

The water level in Medina Lake has risen 37 feet in the past three weeks, and Tuesday water from the lake went over the spillway for the first time since 1987.

According to a spokeswoman for the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water District, the lake level was recorded at 1,072.02 feet above sea level Tuesday, Jan. 7. "It's going over about an inch," she said.

Water first started going over the spillway Monday, but that was only when the force of a wave would push it over the edge.

The run-off from five days of 10 and more inches of rain just before Christmas has been responsible for the spectacular rise.

Jan. 7 was the first day the water reached the benchmark 1,072-foot above sea level mark.

The lake reached a recent low of 1,015 feet above sea level in 1985.

Lamar Smith announces for re-election

U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith of San Antonio has announced his plans to file for re-election to the seat in Congress that represents Bandera County and all or part of several other

A Republican, he has represented the district since 1986.

he still bases his campaign on what he calls an effort "to reclaim control of our government."

His announcement statement called for tax incentives for independent oil and gas producers, market supports for ranchers, and fewer government regulations on business.

He also called for more and opportunities for high technology workers, but he did not put jobs or opportunities.

As of late last week, he was the only candidate to file for the 21st congressional district in either the Republican or Democratic primary.

According to Smith, his major priorities in 1992 are the economy, health, education and energy.

Part of his economic growth priorities include providing persons to withdraw money from IRAs for first-time home higher education expenses and medical needs, raise the social security earnings limit, cuts Social Security payroll taxes, increase the personal income tax exemption, cut the capital gains tax, establish urban enterprise zones, and make the Research and Experimentation Tax Credit permanent.

Smith also says that more and better jobs are needed, tax independent oil and gas producers can gain investors.

Regulatory reform can help in controlling their costs. Their markets must be supported.

"Small business owners want an opportunity to make a profit unfettered by unending government regulations," he said.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your focus may be work and friends this week -- it could also be intimacy and nurturing. You soar into the week ready for adventure and ... yes, a walk on the wild side. Your need to be an upstanding citizen bogs you down by the weekend. Please, where's your "raminess?"

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let another lead you to greener pastures. You actually could be spoon fed ... follow along and relish the occasion. The weekend may have you romping in this new field or back to daydreaming about still other pastures. Such wanderlust, Taurus.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your directness is being requested by a family member. They may withdraw to bring you forth. You cease to play games -- you go out and paint the town red the end of the week. You find yourself in the lullaby of your life."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You make all your resolutions, perhaps a little too early, and are off on a major adventure. You may start celebrating a little too early as well because you fall flat before the weekend. Who's surprised with all the recent shenanigans? You once more become a social creature this weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You do some heavy soul searching this week. You're also likely to make some heavy changes. Let your playful spirit take over just, you'll be a happier cat (so will everyone else). Get down to some housekeeping (cleaning your fur) this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Talk up a storm; consider a recent gain from the fall, and DON'T change your mind. Catch up on friends' news. You demonstrate your magic this weekend. Memorable events are likely.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Your materialistic side could get you into enormous trouble as the week begins. Give it up. Reach out for loved ones, friends, and foes this week. Stay on course; you'll get your just desserts by fall, if not sooner in a more ephemeral way.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You're the cat's meow as the week begins. You could fall flat (no betting on the football games). You rise to the occasion this weekend -- and who's this old friend returning?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Flagrant mopiness, indecision, and irritability could be your hallmark this week -- don't worry, you stage a comeback. Big time. You open up to the lighter side of the week and the mirthful qualities of your sign. You end the week on a high note -- very high.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Go for it as the week begins. You're likely to lasso in just what you want and vanish with your prize (quick as you can!). Hide out and leave others to their imaginations. You reappear (mum's the word) this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Whatever you're up to, know one thing -- another has their eyes on you big time. You may decide to take the road plunge into the unknown. You have no complaints, but then you're nowhere to be found ... at least until next week.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Forget daydreaming. You're likely to take off this week to make your fantasies real. This is likely to be an unforgettable time for you. Take notepad and pencil along so you can start writing your memoirs now. This weekend you're all grins... what's this, the Cheshire cat?

In previous years, grand champions and reserve champions were auctioned first, then other exhibitors' auction slots were determined by a random drawing.

Another change this year comes in the rules for senior rabbit exhibitors (7th through 12th graders).

This year, there are a total of 72 rabbit entries, compared to 112 entries last year. There are 20 breeding rabbits, compared to 22 last year; and there are 52 market rabbit entries, compared to 90 last year.

Hogs and sheep entries are up, poultry entries are down, and cattle entries are about the same this year as last.

This year's entries, compared to last year's: market goats 34, up from 17 last year; market lambs 125, up from 117; breeding sheep 52, up from 45; Angora goats 43, down from 65; dairy goats 29, up from 20; steers 16, down from 20; breeding beef stayed the same at 14 and breeding swine stayed the same at 5; market swine 122, up from 90; broilers 35, down from 54; turkey hens 19, down from 27; turkey toms 22, down from 27; and shop mechanics projects 31, down from 52 last year.

Last year, Mary Schmidt's substitute grand champion steer was bought for $2,278, or $2.10 per pound by the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association; and Brad Floyd's reserve champion steer was sold for $1,852 to Beverage Barn. Matt Sandidge showed the champion market goat and Schmidt showed the reserve champion market goat; Floyd won the senior showmanship award and Michelle Knowles won the junior showmanship award; Richard Meadows won the M.R. Sandidge Memorial Courtesy Award; Cindi Anderson won the Larry Bausch Citizenship Award; and Kristofer Leibold won the Bandera Masonic Lodge Achievement Award.

Fitzpatrick, school panel promote SA Stock Show

The importance of agriculture, information about 4-H and the San Antonio Livestock Exposition and a few rope tricks by Kevin Fitzpatrick were the highlight of an assembly at Bandera Junior High School Tuesday, Jan. 7 at 10 a.m.

Members of the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo school tour committee told the students about the upcoming 43rd stock show Feb. 5-16, taught them about the importance of agriculture in our area, and what the committee is all about. Representatives of 4-H, FFA and FHA talked to the students, explaining what their various organizations were and how to join them.

After the presentation, local trick roper Kevin Fitzpatrick, who is also a member of the San Antonio group, twirled his lariat and entertained the group of more than 300 students.

Geologist raps $82,000 report on water in Bandera County

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

An experienced geologist said Thursday that the water study recently completed for the Springhills Management District is full of omissions, false assumptions and strange projections."

Mohar, who says he has been a geologist for 30 years, did not claim he was speaking for anyone but himself, but he did echo some of the feelings of members of the Bandera Association of Concerned Taxpayers.

Mohar said the Springhills board should disregard recommendations for buying water, building a reservoir and building a county-wide distribution system; should not accept the report from $82,000 HDR Engineering report or should require HDR to make "major repairs" before accepting it; drill three observation wells at different locations in the county to monitor water levels; and prepare hydrologic maps of the county's aquifers with the quantity and quality of water expected.

District officials said they had no plans to implement the reservoir recommendations of the report, but did plan to pursue purchasing water from Medina Lake for the future.

Mohar said the water well water level data presented in graph form in the report is misleading because even though all show declines in water level, the time scale and depth scale on the wells is not consistent.

"This produces an illusion to the observer that all wells have significant declines. This is not the case."

Mohar points out that the only well with a significant decline is the Bandera city well in the Lower Trinity. "This well is obviously being overpumped."

The other wells show declines from zero to 53 feet, "none of which is particularly significant considering the aquifer is 450 feet thick and is still underlain by another 300 feet or more of the Lower Trinity Aquifer."

The decline in the Bandera well of 185 feet is the only significant decline.

"It is most likely caused by a cone of depression around the well head formed by intense pumping," said Mohar. When more water is drawn from a well than is allowed to percolate through the rocks to refill the missing water, an area where there is little water, called a "cone of depression" exists.

Mohar recommended that the city drill additional wells to spread out the water withdrawals out over a larger area, thus having smaller water level drops.

Mohar said the Town Mountain reservoir proposal to store water will lose almost as much water as is stored.

"It is proposed to be 120 acres with a capacity of 1,600 acre-feet initially and 4,200 acre-feet ultimately. Simple arithmetic reveals that the lake will have an average depth of 13.3 feet (for the lower capacity)."

With an evaporation rate of five feet and four inches a year, Mohar estimated that the reservoir would lose 636 acre feet per year to evaporation and again that much to percolation through the rocks.

Mohar said that HDR assumed good geology around the site, but the reservoir could have "cracks so big, you can't fill it with water.

"Eighty percent of the reservoir capacity will be lost each year (to evaporation and percolation).

"It will necessary to pump in 2,880 acre-feet of water a year to have 1,600 acre-feet.

"That's a waste, especially if you are buying the water." The water that would fill the reservoir that would be located near Bandera would be pumped from the Medina River and would be water purchased from the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water District.

Mohar also said that when the reservoir needed water — during the drought — is the time the river is likely to be low.

"One consequence of the Town Mountain Reservoir will the be number of new springs that will pop up downstream from the dam and in adjacent valleys.

"BMA will get this water back to sell again."

Mohar criticized the continually use of the highest population and water use levels in the report to forecast future water needs.

Quoting the projections to the year 2000, the report estimates a population increase of 26 percent; consumption rise from 114.6 gallon per day per person to 133 gallons per day per person, an increase of 16 percent; a 169 percent increase in irrigation from 468 acre-feet per year to 1,256 acre-feet per year; and a 15 percent livestock utilization increase from 440 acre-feet to 506 acre-feet per year, said Mohar.

"All of this adds up to a total need of 4,235 acre-feet by the year 2000, up from 2,871 acre-feet now, an increase of 47.5 percent," said Mohar.

Mohar said the river flow and lake level charts are meaningless since the report ignored climatology. "How long and how severe a drought is needed to affect river flows? One year? Two years? Or more? How long after one or more wet years are river flows maintained?"

Mohar said the report was not a good management tool — something Springhills director was to be. "It doesn't quantify the problem so not tells to give practical or economical solutions."

Mohar said the county does not have a groundwater supply problem "now or in the foreseeable future."

Springhills board president Phil Becker said the district had no plans to instigate the proposed reservoir or other alternate water supply proposals in the report. "We are not planning any big expenditures.

"We will need some kind of government assistance (state and federal grants) to build any of these projects."

HEARING TESTS FOR SENIORS

BANDERA-Free electronic hearing screening tests will be given at the Beltone Better Hearing Centers listed below. These free tests require an appointment WEDNESDAY, January 15, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Our monthly service center will be at BRAUN DRUG the third Wednesday of each month, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Many people with hearing problems don't need hearing aids, but only a test like the one now being offered can really tell for sure.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year. Even people now wearing hearing aids or those who have been told nothing could be done for them.

Call now. Appointments are limited. Bring a friend or relative, someone whose voice is familiar.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

Wednesday, Jan. 22
Dr. Womack's Office
Bandera, Texas
A Service of Transamerican Diagnostic Services
(Providing Mammography Services for over 5 years)
CALL 796-7713 FOR APPOINTMENT
According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every woman in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.
Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.
A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.
Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.
I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.
V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.
A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.
A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.
The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Winter Texans escaping cold weather have important economic impact on Texas and Bandera County

By Michelle Shear
Southwest Texas State University

They flock to Texas from the north every winter and roost in various parts around the state until spring. They can often be found at Top Hand's Jellystone Park in Bandera and Thousand Trails resort at Medina Lake. Are they members of a strange elusive variety of bird? Not really. Some people call them snowbirds, but they are actually winter Texans.

Most winter Texans own recreational vehicles, or RVs, that they begin to drive south when it begins to get cold in their home states. Some will stay in Bandera, while others will spend only a few weeks here before traveling down to the Gulf Coast or to another southern state.

Judy Johnson, office manager at Jellystone Park, says in the winter most of the people in the park are from somewhere up north, such as Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois.

"They arrive in and around the first part of October," she says. "The first part of May is when they start clearing out. Most of these folks in here will continue on down to the coast; they stay in the south."

In November, 75 percent of their customers are winter Texans, according to Johnson. The peak time is the end of February and the end of March. At that time, 175 to 180 of the 210 sites at Jellystone Park will be occupied by winter Texans.

One benefit of having winter Texans (who Johnson says take offense to being called snowbirds) come to Bandera is the economic effect on the town.

"We have about 120 (RV) units out there, and that brings about 240 shoppers to the Bandera businesses," says Johnson. "That's quite an impact."

A spokeswoman for the Bandera Chamber of Commerce says although she's not sure that winter Texans are buying souvenirs, they spend money on necessities like groceries and gas.

According to Darren Rudloff, research specialist for the Texas Department of Commerce tourist division, the only information available on winter Texans' economic effects is from a study conducted by the School of Business at the University of Texas - Pan American. The study, which was done in the winter of 1989, concluded that in February of 1989 there were 81,000 winter Texans in RV and mobile home parks in the Texas Rio Grande valley, extending from Brownsville to Laredo. The study also revealed winter Texans spent $117.6 million on necessities for day-to-day survival, such as food. Winter Texans spent about one-half that amount, $57.3 million, on "big ticket" or one-time items, such as appliances or RVs.

So why do winter Texans come to the Bandera area? Carolyn Schmid, assistant activities director at Jellystone Park, says people come here because "the people are friendly and because of the town itself." Schmid is also a winter Texan; she and her husband, Paul, who works as activities director, are from Colorado and are spending this winter in Bandera.

Another attraction of Bandera is its proximity to military bases, just 35 minutes away in San Antonio. Paul Schmid estimates that 90 percent of the winter Texans are retired military personnel. They stay in Bandera when they come to the bases for their yearly medical checkups.

Andy Skaarup, a winter Texan from near Vancouver, British Columbia, says, "This time of year it gets pretty rotten (in Vancouver), so we thought we'd head out. We go for 90 or 100 days and travel around the south."

Fred and Peg Bauer, winter Texans from Wisconsin, currently spend the winter in Port Aransas but are considering relocating to the Hill Country next year.

"We were looking at the Kerrville area, and San Marcos, but we concluded there wasn't much in that area for retired people," Bauer says.

The Bauers usually stay in Texas from mid-December to mid-March, and Bauer says the main reason they came to Texas was because a friend recommended it.

"One year we visited Arizona and then visited Port Aransas that same winter," says Bauer. "We liked Port Aransas a little better. We like Texas because there's no snow, and we have enjoyed the waterfront area."

Bauer's main concern in relocating to the Hill Country is finding a "nice area and associating with nice people." He said he would also like to stay someplace where there are plenty of activities in which he could participate.

In order to lure travelers to the town, a spokesperson for the Bandera Chamber of Commerce says the Chamber advertises in Winter Texan magazine and attends Winter Texan conventions in South Texas.

Once the tourists come to Bandera, Jellystone Park works hard to keep the winter Texans entertained. For example, Paul Schmid says activities such as ice cream socials, craft socials, pot luck dinners and marshmallow roasts are planned every day. Jellystone also features a miniature golf course and fishing on the Medina River.

Having the winter travelers come to Texas is a win-win situation: they have a nice warm place providing organized activities to spend the winter, and the Texas economy benefits from the seasonal visitors.

Don and Jeanette LaBounty of Minnesota join thousands of other "snowbirds" who journy to Texas each seeking warmer climes. "We've been coming to Bandera for four years now," says Jeanette. "We love the Hill Country."

Members of an advanced feature writing class at Southwest Texas University in San Marcos came to Bandera in November to gather information for some real feature stories. Michelle Shear's story is one of the results. Additional features will appear in future issues of The Bulletin.

Apple growers' co-op to meet in Kerrville

Texas' only apple growers marketing cooperative will hold its first ever annual meeting Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 13 and 14. at the YO Hilton Hotel in Kerrville.

The Texas Apple Growers Marketing Cooperative has its packing facilities in Medina.

It processed more than 40 tons of apples, or 2,022 bushels, valued at $32,000 this year, said executive director Roy T. Goodwin III.

It supplies fresh apples in season to several markets, including HEB, which also uses the co-op's apples for its Medina Spiced Apple flavored ice cream.

Co-op members will participate in a business meeting Monday morning followed by talks and discussions connected with commercial apple production in Texas.

Wolf clubbers bag 53 coyotes, 114 hogs

Fifty-three coyotes, 114 hogs and five foxes were reported killed during 1991 by the Bandera wolf club. The group met Monday, Jan. 6.

In December, a total of five coyotes, 27 hogs and one fox were reported killed. Two coyotes each were reported killed on the Browning Ranch and Flying A Ranch; and one coyote was reported killed on Silver Spur Ranch.

In November, three bounty-eligible coyotes and one non-eligible coyote were reported killed: two on the Schott Ranch, one on the Odom Ranch and one on the Flying A Ranch. One fox and 18 hogs were also reported killed during that month.

Free tax seminar for volunteers

A tax assistance office that will offer free tax help in Bandera is looking for persons who want to be trained to become volunteer assistants.

Qualified residents will be able to get free help filing their income tax forms at the Community Room of the Bandera Bank.

Volunteers will be trained at free seminars in Kerrville on Jan. 11, 18 and 25. They are also looking for bilingual people who can help without taking the income tax course.

A free income tax seminar Saturday, Jan. 11, in Kerrville will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Dietert Claim Senior Cener, 617 Jefferson St.

For additional information call area coordinator Frances Brown in Kerrville at 895-2598.

Marie and Travis Thompson celebrated 50 years of marriage Saturday, Jan. 4, with a renewal of their wedding vows at Medina Church of Christ with thier grandson, Michael Gillaspia of Arlington officiating. A reception following services was hosted by their children, Marie and Joe Campbell, Martha Schneider, and Judy and Robert Judkins. The couple was married Jan. 3, 1942 in Fluvanna, and they now have five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Study group to meet in Rio Hondo Jan. 16

The monthly Rio Hondo Extension Study Club meeting will be at the home of Jerry Hall on Thursday, Jan. 16.

All resident women at Rio Hondo subdivision are automatic members and welcome to attend meetings on the third Thursday of each month

Fourteen club members celebrated the holiday season with the club's annual salad luncheon at the home of Sandra duPerior on Thursday, Dec. 19.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Fear Not the Dark...

"The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it."

— John 1:5

Throughout much of the world at this time of year, there is a great deal of darkness, the result of the changing seasons. We all know that what follows will be brighter. Similarly, in each of our lives there comes that occasional period of darkness when we feel that we shall never see the light side again. Such moods are often as transient as the passing seasons, and we know in our souls that no darkness can forever overcome the light. All who have embraced the teachings of Jesus Christ are also aware that a light has been kindled within them, a bright hope that no depth of gloom can keep extinguished if we maintain but a flicker of that belief and hope sparked by faith. That light shines eternally and cannot be quenched by the darkness.

Family dance set Friday at Cabaret

The music of "Young Country" will be featured at a family dance Friday, Jan. 10 at the Cabaret Dance Hall in Bandera. The dance will last from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m.

"Families are welcome," says county extension agent Jan Bryson. "The Cabaret is donating the use of the facility.

"The door proceeds from the dance will benefit all Bandera County 4-H clubs." The money will help fund scholarships, leadership training and awards.

Admission to the dance is $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

"Young Country, whose five members are students at Southwest Texas State University, plays modern country throughout the Hill Country and San Antonio area.

"We encourage buyers (for the livestock auction) to come out Friday night and support the kids," Bryson says.

Lorri Robbins Cargill a UT graduate

Lorri Jean Robbins Cargill, daughter of Telvy and Gloria Robbins of Bandera, earned her bachelor of business administration from the University of Texas at Austin on Dec. 8. The degree was conferred during the annual fall commencement exercises.

Cargill completed her studies during the summer session and was 68th in her summer class of 243 business students. She was a member of the University Accounting Association, a two-year Texas Relays Student Committee member and chairman of the awards committee, and was listed as an Outstanding College Student of America.

She also was listed on the Dean's Honor List and received the Phi Beta Kinnoly ing Honor Fraternity and Book Scholarship while studying at the university.

A&M graduate

Eric Bird, son of Ron and Judy Bird of Medina Lake was a December graduate of Texas A&M University in aerospace engineering.

He has been employed by LTV in Grand Prairie.

Clinics planned

An adult health clinic and immunization clinic will be held Wednesday, Jan. 15 at the Lakehills American Legion Hall.

The adult health clinic will be conducted from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., and the immunization clinic will be held from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

A fee for services will be assessed, and children must be accompanied by a parent.

So—the magic year of turning points, past and present, 1992, is here. It is the year of national election in the USA, the year the European Community switches over to policies of open borders, universal passports and employment opportunities, and common currency, possibly with the exception of the proud British pound. It is the five-hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Christopher Columbus in the western hemisphere, the year he brought smallpox and measles to the natives and took syphilis back to the crowned and uncrowned heads of Europe.

Poor old Chris has been taking his lumps for months now from the makers of politically correct TV documentaries. The natives he displaced with European adventures have been restless to the point of protesting cheering sections at Atlanta baseball games.

(Where were they when Florida State, original home of the war-chant and tomahawk chop, was hacking away at the Aggies on New Year's Day?)

One of the things we've tried to learn over a lengthening life is that you can't rewrite history. You have to go with what you've got, even if it involves the difficult application of Christian forgiveness to any situation—global or personal.

It is fascinating to speculate on what would have happened had Christopher Columbus not sailed the ocean blue in fourteen-hundred and ninety-two. Cortes would not have burned the civilization of Mexico to the ground, but the Comanches would not have acquired the fast horses, brought by the Spaniards, to hold their buffalo hunting grounds for an extra two centuries. The Indians would have been stuck with their dogs and turkeys, the only domestic animals in the old new world.

The Great American Desert of the mid-continent plains of the United States might have remained just that. If God is the author of poetic justice, however, those plains are now being returned by divine will to desert. Farming is failing. Towns are dying. Ted Turner is stocking his ranch with bison.

It is true that thousands of Amerinds are languishing in drunken despair on desolate reservations, but it is also true that others are collecting oil and coal royalties and selling pots and sand-paintings to Santa Fe tourists for a couple of grand a whack. Making silver concho belts for cruising Hollywood starlets has become a major industry. In art galleries formerly selling cowboy art to Texans, one sees idealized portraits of native Americans being sold to Californians.

It is true that the Catholic church of Spain thought it had replaced Tonantzin, the Indian corn goddess, with the Virgin of Guadalupe. But the Guadalupe is not holding a baby! Think about it. Many anthropologists have!

What we're trying to sort out here, it seems, is the realization that while you can't rewrite history, divine will or poetic justice—or just the seesaw of cause and effect—will balance the accounts with the end result that all contending forces will be even. "Dios le Pague". He always does.

Sea World to add children's play area

Sea World of Texas will add a new tropical paradise-themed children's play area to an ever-growing array of family attractions in time for the 1992 summer season, officials of the San Antonio marine life park announced recently.

Construction of the project is just getting underway and will be completed late next spring, according to Robin D. Carson, executive vice president and general manager of Sea World.

"The addition of this children's area.... underscores an effort to make our park more child friendly," Carson said.

Sea World of Texas, which is currently closed through February, will reopen for its fifth season on March 7.

The children's activity area will be called "Shamu's Happy Harbor" and is the primary focus of a multi-million-dollar expansion for 1992 which also includes a new barbecue restaurant with shaded outdoor seating for 240. The restaurant is currently under construction in the southernmost section of the park near the Rio Loco river rapids ride.

Shamu's Happy harbor will be located on two acres in the heart of Sea World, making it easily accessible from most areas of the 250-acre park. The area will exhibit a distinct tropical island motif with palm tree designs and colorful wall murals decorating many existing buildings in the area.

The new activity center also will consist of several innovative play elements that encourage children to exercise their minds as well as their bodies. Included will be water-themed components, sand play areas, slides, net climbs and sway bridges. Food and merchandise vending locations and shaded seating for adults also will be offered.

Silver Sage Corral

"Watch what we do in '92 was a phrase I used in my article and the wheels of progress are already turning. The Board of Directors have appointed [illegible] myself to coordinate the activities concerning volunteers at the Silver Sage Corral. We urge you to come forward, otherwise, we will have to contact you and ask for your services.

One of our goals is to get as many volunteers involved with the center as possible. Ask Mary or myself to help you decide where your services will be best utilized.

For over five years, Judy Goodenough has led the exercise class each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at the center. Judy has decided to turn that privilege over to someone else, and that someone is LaVerne McClosky. She will be assisted by Marti Redman and Bettie Suddath. These three ladies [illegible] capable of making sure everyone is comfortable and doing the routines of the low impact exercises. We thank [illegible] you have devoted to this class. We expect to see you as every class, working out as usual.

•Bea Bradley, Tye Goff and Ruby Lambert co-hosted a birthday party Friday for Minnie Hayes. The center was the scene of many good wishes for Minnie as she oversaw the serving of cake and punch to about 40 guests.

•And last, but not least, a tip of my New Year's hat to Harry and Vivian Webb, Joe Glasscock and Les Abraham for their contributions to the center.

New classes in line dancing will begin at the Silver Sage Corral on Thursday, Jan. 16 at 7 p.m.

Line dancing, the craze of the 1970s began with the popular movie, "Saturday Night Fever" and it quickly became a disco [illegible] Disco to Country and Western Dance Halls. Now line dances called [illegible] "Boot Scootin' and "Cowboy Boogie" are danced to west-ern swing music instead of rock.

"You don't have to wait to be asked to dance, you don't have to match your steps to someone else's and, if you make a mistake, nobody knows or cares. In other words, no squashed toes," said one line dancer, who added, "it's a whole new experience."

Dr. George Meador is in charge of the music for the class.

"Line dancing is easy to learn and fun to do," Meador said. "Those who made New Year's Resolutions to try something new, lose weight and get more exercise should try this.

"Classes are free and open to all age groups," he said. "We meet at the Silver Sage because it's available, not because we're senior citizens. After we finish line dancing, we do some folk dances, Cotton Eyed Joe, Schottische, etc. and some ballroom dancing. Anyone who enjoys any type of dancing will find something they like at our Thursday night sessions.

"See you at 7 p.m."

The Rev Jarrell Sharp from Bandera United Methodist Church used for his text Sunday Matthew 2: 1-12. Judy Goodenough was the pianist. Other guests included Lillian Ray, Mickie Causey and Ben Causey.

The Rosary group that met Monday evening for singing and prayers included residents Cecelia Leal, Mae Eidenshink, Ada Sehon and Evelyn Hostetter; and from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church were Fannie Caffall and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

Norma Hamilton visited Mada Dial.

Horace Hines visited his sister Stella Philapy.

Volunteer service credits: a fresh new approach to planning for old age

Building a secure nest egg for your retirement years is a time-honored principle of financial planning. But for many Texans, it is a flat-out impossibility, according to the Texas Department on Aging.

"There are plenty of reasons why conscientious people fail to put aside money for the future, including low income, disability, catastrophic business losses or medical bills," says TDoA spokesman Russell Smith. "But regardless of their circumstances, all of these people share the same fear: an old age marred by disability, dependency and premature institutionalization.

TDoA has instituted a new volunteer program called "Time Dollars," or service credit banking.

"Through such programs, people perform useful volunteer work and earn 'service credits,' that can be redeemed later for social services provided by participating government agencies, business or other volunteers," Smith says. "The service credits are accumulated and used just like cash."

Local service credit "banks" keep track of earnings and expenditures, and may periodically issue balance statements to "account holders," he explains.

"A handful of pioneering programs in Texas have already shown that the Time Dollars concept works," Smith says.

Now, the TDoA, using federal grant money and informational resources gathered from a variety of sources, wants to help at least six communities around the state create their own programs.

"What these programs do, essentially, is create a new economy in which volunteer service is given a tangible value and takes the place of money," says TDoA executive director Polly Sowell. "Every hour of service earns you one credit. There's no limit on how many credits you can earn, and you can spend them with any individual or organization who has agreed to take part in the program.

"For example, senior volunteers might work at a retirement community doing housekeeping service or cooking. This would earn them credits they could redeem for similar service when they reach the point were they need it themselves.

"It's important to stress that no one gives or receives an outright donation. Regardless of where the credits are transferred within the system, they can always be redeemed for services from other participants," she says. "For many people it's an ideal situation. They can do the volunteer work they'd be doing anyway while earning credits for themselves or others, to be used anytime they wish."

Smith says the essential ingredient for a successful Time Dollars program is a strong, committed local sponsor (such as Bandera's own Silver Sage Corral). Typically, this sponsor provides material support for the program including any or all of the following: office space for the accounting office, computers and office supplies, volunteered administrative support from the ranks of their own employees, and assistance in doing publicity and marketing.

Most sponsors also assume the responsibility of recruiting, training and supervising volunteers, and monitoring quality of service for the duration of the project.

Once an organization or business agrees to sponsor a program, the Texas Department on Aging will provide technical assistance and reference materials which include step-by-step instructions for starting a Time Dollars project. For the first six areas selected, a locally-recruited volunteer may be provided to do marketing, training, fundraising, supervision and monitoring during the project's first year.

"Being a Time Dollars program sponsor is a big responsibility," Sowell said. "It shouldn't be taken on without a full understanding of everything it entails. But the benefits can be great and long-lasting. For example, a hospital sponsor would find a volunteer service credit system very useful in arranging post-discharge care for acute-care patients. When you know that in-home care will be available for your patients, that makes it much easier to do discharges in a timely fashion."

Other organizations which have been known to sponsor Time Dollar programs are senior centers, health maintenance organizations and continuing care retirement homes— all of which can realize savings by letting service volunteers perform services the already offer.

For more information, contact Russell Smith of the Texas Department on Aging at (512) 444-2727.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
...Dr. Samuel Johnson's injunction, "Keep your friendships in repair," should be applied to books as well as to persons. Books are friends at all times if we treat them well; we can enjoy their companionship when human friends have passed beyond our reach. In every phase of life they are loyal friends, and, if they show signs of wear, that only proves how much we have cared for them. They repay us by linking youth with middle age and refreshing us in our later years as they inspired us in our earlier years. Unlike friends who never answer letters, our books always speak when we open them.
Books are keys to wisdom's treasure.
Books are gates to lands of pleasure.
Books are paths that upward lead.
Books are friends. Come let us read. Author Unknown

Thank You

THANK YOU from THE GIFTS OF LOVE

We were absolutely overwhelmed by the outpouring of love shown by so many individuals as the Gifts of Love helped families in need at Christmastime.

Generous donations were made by Thelma Davenport, Ruth Mansfield, Chan and Chubby Chandler, The Rio Hondo Study Club, Bandera Downs Jockeys, officials, trainers and personnel, Tammie Gay, Billy Bowers, Jeff and Kimberly Stebling, Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Ramsey, Allen and Laura Maines, Dr. and Mrs. G.L. Morrow, David and Madeline Woodall, Mr. & Mrs. Todd Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Walker, Mr. & Mrs. Chad Mason, Mr. & Mrs. Danny LaVigne, Mr. & Mrs. Denny Campbell, Mr. & Mrs. Tim Boggus, Indian Springs Racing Stables, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Blair of San Antonio, St. Christopher's Guild, Sylvia Saffell of Saffell Enterprises, Inc., Peggy Ashmore of Shoe Biz, Michael & Diana Braun of Braun Drug, Eddie & Carol Rowe, St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, William and Darlene Richards, John W. Hughes of Vanderpool, Helen and C. W. Rhodes, W.J. and Lela Anderwald, Dr. & Mrs. F. Kelly Shipstrine of South Carolina, Bell C. Morrow, G. E. & Linda Barnet, Albert & Bobby Singleton, W.O.W. Life Insurance Co., Janett's, Dusty Britches, Col. Norris Wenger & Joanne, Robert & Dixie Cohn of Medina, Steve & Diane Hancock, Charles & Patricia Clesavor, John & Lisa Calvillo, Gary & Claire Johnston, Charles & Enid Perez, Art & Connie Hoog, Gene & Eleanor Laus, John & Skye Shilberg, Mr. & Mrs. C.D. Nicholas, Steve Forest of Forest Exotics, Col. & Mrs. Louis F. Duquette, Chylas Cardwell, Mr. & Mrs. D.W. Hicks, Mr. & Mrs. J.B. Edwards and many anonymous donors.

The children were so excited as we delivered the beautifully wrapped presents. Bobby, Mary and Hedwig Stein wrapped all the toys and gift items with special care and they also prepared the Christmas stocking bags filled with goodies.

The families each received a large box of food with a ham included and in addition to their toys and gifts, every child was given a new blanket.

All toys and gift items were purchased new and we shop very carefully to make certain that articles given are of high quality so the children many enjoy them for a long, long time.

I want to thank Dody Santos and Kathy Leal for helping with the deliveries and Ken Russell of the Hill Country Christian Retreat for donating Christmas trees.

In summing this up, I will mention how much we appreciated the two benefits given for the Gifts of Love this past year. Bandera Downs gave a Halloween party at the Cabaret from which we received the proceeds and Dusty Britches donated the contributions from his annual Christmas ball at the Silver Dollar.

It touches my heart to know that so many people came together to help these children and I want to say that you have given them much more than the shiny new gifts and toys they received at Christmas. In the giving of your donation you have made sure that each child had a feeling of love and caring that will remain with them through-out their lives.

Thank You

We cannot adequately express our gratitude to our friends and relatives for all their love and kindness. To each of you goes a heartfelt "thank you" for everything you've done -- your prayers, gifts, and things done for us anonymously. Without you, our world would be very dark. Thank God for people like your.

Carol and Patsy D'Spain

Thank You

To our dear family and friends who brought food, sent flowers, cards, donations and called, and those who were with us at our time of sorrow. To Bandera Nursing Home where George lived so long. The love and care you gave him will always be remembered. Thanks to everyone.

The Family of George and Rosemary Muennink

Thank You

The family of Jerry Mauer wishes to thank all of our friends and neighbors from the bottom of our hearts. The love and caring you have given has been the bright spot in our lives during the last few weeks.

Thank you so very much for all the cards, phone calls, flowers and memorials. We appreciate knowing how much others will also miss our loved one.

With love,
Ray, David and Sandy, Mike, Melinda and G-Daddy.

Thank You

We wish to thank all of Nola Baldock's friends for your kindness and visits during her 3 1/2 years at the Bandera Nursing Home.

Heather Harrell

Heather Harrell of Pipe Creek, a Bandera High School freshman, will reign over the 23rd annual Cowboy Capitol Trail ride Jan. 31-Feb. 6.

The trail riders will be making their 200-mile trek to San Antonio for the Stock Show and Rodeo.

The ride to San Antonio promotes the Bandera County area as the Cowboy Capital of the World, the trail boss says. It is one of 12 official rides sanctioned by the Alamo City's livestock show officials.

A warm-up ride and supper will be held at Anderwald's Twin Elm Ranch Sunday, Jan. 26. The ride starts at 2 p.m. and will be followed by a supper meeting at 5 p.m.

SA promotion here Friday

Ambassadors from the 43rd San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo will be in Bandera Friday, Jan. 10, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

They'll hang their hats at Arkey Blue's Silver Dollar as part of their five-city Hill Country tour, reports Bandera County Chamber of Commerce secretary Nancy Hopes.

Volunteer ambassadors will bring posters, brochures, and literature about the event, reports a spokeswoman with the San Antonio's stock show publicity office.

Bandera Chamber of Commerce directors, Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer, and the county commissioners are invited to attend.

Wins NO trip

Susan Neuenschwander won an expense-paid trip for two to New Orleans and $100 cash in a drawing of the Alpha Teens Omega Youth Group at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

Proceeds from the drawing went to pay expenses of senior members on a Colorado ski trip.

Tejano awards due

Some Texans are welcoming winter weather by implementing a few low-cost, home-heating tips from the Texas Energy Extension Service that save them money and save the world's resources.

One easy way to save on heating costs is to lower the thermostat on your central heating system. The Texas EES recommends setting the thermostat at 68 degrees or lower when you are at home and 60 degrees or lower when the home is unoccupied.

"This method will provide enough heat for normal conditions while helping lower your winter heating bill, says Texas EES spokeswoman Rhonda Snider.

Another low-cost, energy-saving measure is to plug gaps around windows and doors with caulking and weather stripping.

These leakage areas can be responsible for 20 to 25 percent of a home's heat loss. Additional insulation can be provided by tacking or taping blankets, towels or plastic over the inside of the window.

The extension service also suggests "movable insulation" as another low-cost way to lower winter heating bills. Draft stoppers are one form of movable insulation designed to block drafts at the bottoms of doors and windows. They can be made by filling a tube of heavy fabric with sand, perlite or Styrofoam beads.

Other forms of movable insulation include interior, roll-down window quilts, thermal curtains, interior shutters, and roll-down exterior shutters. These are the most popular forms of movable insulation because they can cut heat loss in half during the winter and help reduce heat gain during the summer.

Fireplace heating is not as efficient as it is attractive. Approximately 85 to 90 percent of the heat produced by burning wood goes up the chimney. Here's some suggestions for increasing efficiency:

- Control the air source to the fire by opening the outside air inlet or slightly opening a window near the fireplace.
- Build the fire on the floor of the firebox.
- Install a glass shield in front of the fireplace opening to keep heated room air from escaping.

Seven men nominated for chamber's Citizen of the Year Award

Seven persons have been nominated for the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce's Citizen of the Year, and the identity of the winner will be a closely-guarded secret until the chamber's annual Awards Banquet Saturday, Jan. 25.

Five persons have been nominated for the chamber's Cowboy Capital Award, including Clay Conoly, Dave Koehler, Judge Ray Mauer, Joe Reidy and Rudy Robbins.

The Cowboy Capital Award goes to the individual who has made an outstanding contribution to Bandera's Cowboy Capital image.

The chamber will also cite a volunteer of the year and give awards for the outstanding director and outstanding business community service.

The Awards Banquet will be a Mexican Fiesta featuring the Mariachis Escamilla.

Tickets are $18.50 per person, and the attendance will be limited to the first 100 persons who purchase tickets.

Cocktails at a cash bar will be served at 6 p.m. and dinner is at 7 p.m.

Lowly stink gourd may provide the key to controlling major enemy of corn plant

The lowly Texas buffalo gourd is finding a new use by helping researchers fight the corn rootworm, a major corn pest in Texas and across the Midwest.

A cooperative program between the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture has elevated the gourd from a nuisance along Texas roadsides to a lure that attracts insects to their fate.

Researchers are seeing positive results in test plots in South Texas and South Dakota and are hopeful that testing will do equally well in other Corn Belt states.

"It's got a lot of potential," says Dr. J.W. Stewart, entomologist with the extension service in Uvalde.

"If it works as well as I think it will, we could see a 15-percent increase in corn production in rootworm-infested fields in South Texas," he said.

The Mexican corn rootworm, which attacks the roots of the corn plant and hampers the flow of nutrients to leaves and [illegible] yields of non-rotated corn by 30 percent or more.

More than 1.5 million acres of corn are planted annually in Texas.

Considered the worst corn pest in the Midwest, the western corn rootworm, a cousin of the Texas variety, is blamed for $1 billion in control costs and yield reductions.

Twenty-five million acres of corn are planted annually in the Midwest, says Dr. Gerry Sutter, researcher with the USDA in Brookings, S.D.

Stewart and Sutter have tested the effect of soil types and longevity of soil pesticides on the rootworm for 112 years.

"Soil insecticides used at planting time do not always provide adequate control," [illegible] "With the bait, we're only using about 2 percent of the insecticide normally used in sprays for adult corn rootworm beetles," Stewart said. "The beetles feed on the bait until they get a toxic dose of the insecticide, which sometimes takes less than two minutes."

"If you do, some rootworms will always get by you."

Stutter adds that the researchers have come to the conclusion that they must control the adults. "Once the larvae start feeding on the roots, they're very difficult to control," he observes. "They're in the soil and tend to spend most of their time inside the root."

They have developed a new rootworm feeding stimulant that attracts and kills adult beetles.

Besting began this summer in a 110-acre field near D'Hanis and on a 16-square-mile area of cornfields in South Dakota.

A product, called Compel, is made from the roots of buffalo gourd. Combined with small amounts of pesticide, it is applied aerially. The sticky paste allows blobs to cling to corn plant leaves.

The buffalo gourd attracts [illegible]

On the South Texas site, the reduction in beetles in the treated corn fields was nearly total and literally seen overnight, he said.

In South Dakota, the treatment killed more than 600,000 beetles per acre -- an estimated 90- to 95-percent rate of mortality, Sutter said.

Both researchers acknowledged that the real test will come next spring when scientists determine how many rootworms emerge from the treated fields and when untreated and treated areas are evaluated.

"I feel confident that we're going to have a major reduction in egg-laying in 1993," Sutter said.

Another benefit of the bait is that it won't hurt other beneficial insects, such as lady beetles and predaceous thrips, Stewart said. The bait is expected to be available commercially in a couple of years.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

The Tarpley area continues to get showers, and now sunshine is needed.

• Birthdays to be observed in the area this week include Marie Hood's on Jan. 9 and Willie Morris' on Jan. 11.

• Bill and Willie Morris will also be celebrating their wedding anniversary on Jan. 11.

• Visitors at the Tarpley Baptist Church Sunday included Robert and Betty Schmeltekopt of Fredericksburg. He is the director of missions of the Medina River Association.

Other visitors were Glenn Tyra of Tuslumne, Calif.; Laura Smith and son Lorin of San Antonio; and Mick J. Taylor Jr. of Tarpley.

Tyra is here visiting his uncle, Victor Purvis, who is very ill and in U.S. Veteran's hospital in Kerrville since Friday.

• Mr. and Mrs. Willie J. Schmidt have had several relatives visiting them, including Gene Hull, Waco, and Maj. and Mrs. Terry Hull and Jennifer and Travis of Colorado Springs, Colo., all here from Saturday to Thursday; and Michelle and Jeff Price and Christopher Hull, all of Austin, and Brenda Schmidt and Stephen, both of San Antonio.

• Harold and Viola Jackson have spent three weeks visiting in Seymour for the 50th wedding anniversary of his cousin, Estes and Modina Miller, Dec. 20; in San Antonio Dec. 25 with Harold's granddaughter and her family, Debra and Rob Bridgeman and their four children; and in Amarillo Dec. 26 with his brothers and sisters.

Due to illness and snow, not many family members came, Viola reports. "Everything was covered with snow," Viola said. "It looked like a winter wonderland.

"Beautiful, but much too cold."

"Hawk" sparrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rhodes of Bandera..

Castle Lake Ranch damaged most

The over 10 inches of Christmas rain didn't hurt the roads in the Pipe Creek and Wharton's Dock area much, except in isolated areas such as Castle Lake Ranch.

And commissioner Bennie Baker says it should take his crews two to three weeks to complete repairs.

Several roads in the Castle Lake Ranch subdivision were washed out, reports Barker. Privilege Creek also needs work, he says. Some spot regrading of other washed out roads has been done to allow traffic to get through.

But all county roads in the precinct were hit. "We'll have to redo all the dirt roads. They are all rutted, though we didn't really lose many road surfaces." Though that work may wait until the particular roads dry out.

One place were work will be concentrated is the Madronna Ranch Road. Some 20 feet will have to be dug out and replaced, says Barker.

On the paved roads, road crews have been temporarily filling pot holes that have spring up to "keep people from having their front end knocked out," says Barker. "When it dries, we'll come back and patch the road properly."

The rain and concern over rising waters in the Medina River and Lake did not stop [illegible] Christmas festivities.

Arleen Gorol led the group in Christmas carols, the group ate sandwiches and cookies and drank punch.

Santa came to visit and each child told Santa what they wanted for Christmas and gave them gifts.

Santa explained the true meaning of Christmas and also told them his reindeer were parked at the Alligator Hole.

Santa told them Rudolph was glad to see all the water in the Medina River and he was glad for the chance to visit with his friend, Pete the Alligator.

Boots Johnson was the organizer and her helpers included Ola Harrell, Betty Ciarlo, Margaret Holmes, Marion Trout, Marge Birch, Mary Wells, Fran Hildenburg, and Marey Portman.

• The Walker Memorial Baptist Chapel conducted its first candlelight service in recent memory Dec. 22. The service was solemn and well received by the over 75 person attending.

At the end of the service of hymns and special music, candles held by individual members of the congregation were lit and remained lighted during the period of exhortation and meditation and the benediction. The congregation left the church with candles lit.

They moved on to the fellowship hall for the children's Christmas party. Cookies, sandwiches and drinks were served and Santa Claus made [illegible] and children.

• Following the Christmas program at the chapel Dec. 20, a dozen or more carolers assembled at the Lakeshore VFD and rode a pickup truck and a flat-bed trailer complete with bales of hail.

Using flashlights, they read their music as they traveled through the fog-filled areas of Lake Medina Shores and the Wharton's Dock area singing Christmas carols.

At the home of Mary and Turner Blakeney, they were all invited in for refreshments and to warm themselves up.

Carolocers include Bob and Dorothy Rucker, Marietta Overholser, April and Glen Byars, the Rev. Ken and wife Susan Brown, Bill and Margaret Holmes, Marion Birch, Fran and Wayne Hildenburg, Frank and Audry Curry, Arleen Gorol.

• Bob and Dorothy Rucker spent Christmas with her mother and dad, the Crossetts of San Juan in the Texas Rio Grande Valley.

This week, their grandson, Robert Cummings of San Antonio, is visiting.

• Lt. Col. Fred and his wife, Charolette, Ciarlo from Fresno, Calif., visited his parents, John "Bud" and Betty Ciarlo for the week of Christmas.

The over 10 inches of rain that deluged Bandera County during the Christmas holidays will be keeping county road crews in the west end of the county busy for the next two months.

The rain didn't cause that much flooding, but did cause many dry springs to run and that has forced road crews in precinct 4 to dig up the road and lay down new material, says commissioner N.P. "Bud" Thompson. "The Wet-weather springs starting running under the road.

"We have to dig out about 25 to 30 yards of the road and put in new rock and gravel," says Thompson.

The county has also hired, on a contract basis, a man and his maintainer to get many of the roads back in shape.

While it will take two months to finish the work on all the roads, Thompson says his crews were able to get the roads in shape enough for traffic to pass. "We got the people out, but the road will be rough."

Other repairs are at river and creek crossings.

The Kyle Ranch Road off FM Road 470 in precinct 4 had 20-feet of roadway six-feet deep washed out.

Other work will have to be performed on the Dixie Dude Road. When FM 470 was blocked, some traffic went through the road in the Hill Country State Natural Area after the creek in the park receded. With the increased traffic load on Dixie Dude, that road, too, will have to be worked on.

Thompson says he will also have to replace one or two culverts.

Texas winemakers teach a little to French masters

When 14 Texas winemakers traveled to Burgundy in November, their most important accomplishment was learning from the French how to improve the Texas wine industry. But they also taught the masters a lesson to two.

The group of Texans attended lectures from the region's wine experts at the Ecole Superieure de Commerce, a university in Dijon commonly known as ESC Dijon, on Nov. 24-29. They also toured various winemaking facilities, from small independent wineries to cooperatives to corporate operations.

"We learned many techniques we haven't been doing—in the vineyards, in winemaking, and standards of evaluation," said Dr. George Ray McEachern, a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas A&M University. "After all these tastings, we're in a much better position to evaluate our own wines."

McEachern, who helped organize the tour, said the Texans may apply lessons learned during the school to do a better job of viticulture in general as well as to improve their Chardonnays, and increasingly popular white wine variety in the United States.

One difference they found between the two regions is that Texas vineyards generally plant 500 vines per acre, while the French plant 5,000. Texans allow 30 to 40 buds to produce on each vine, while the French allow only six to eight.

"They concentrate their growth. They prune off all shoots except fruit-bearing shoots," McEachern said. Texas wineries waste much water and many nutrients by allowing too much foliage to grow.

"Nutients go to making foliage here and grapes in France," he said.

"We also learned the importance of good draining. Their soils drain extremely well," he said, explaining that well-drained but infertile soils in France encourage the growth of very deep root systems. That allows the roots to extract minerals that give wines their complexity, he added.

Texas vineyards tend to be in more fertile soil, where drainage may be less efficient. That means soils bind more easily, and root systems don't develop as extensively.

The biggest lesson may have been learned by the French, though, when a tasting on the final day pitted six Texas Chardonnays against six from Burgundy. Chardonnays are white wine grapes, and all Burgundy white wines are made from them.

A 1990 Puligny-Montrachet from Louis Carillon et Fils was the highest-ranked wine. Perhaps most surprising to the French, McEachern said, was that the second-highest score was received by a 1990 Chardonnay from Llano Estacado Winery in Lubbock.

Fall Creek Vineyards' 1990 Grand Cuvee finished fifth and Messina Hof's 1990 Private REserve finished eighth. Hill Country Cellars' 1990 Chardonnay finished ninth. Fall Creek is in Tow, while Messina Hof is in Bryan and Hill Country is in Austin.

Oberhellman Vineyards of Fredericksburg had the 11th-rates wine, in 1990, and Pheasant Ridge Winery of Lubbock had the 12th-ranked wine.

"The competition was surprisingly close, and Texas did extremely well," McEachern said. "It was apparent that the wines were all of comparable quality. All of the Texas and French wines were first-rate."

Judging was done by a panel of six of the Texans and six of the French wine and viticulture experts who taught the school.

McEachern said there are many factors that help good wines.

"One advantage Texas has is a growing season that ends before the hottest part of the summer, which helps produce grapes that make wine a fruity nose and good balances of acid and sugar."

Texas also uses good wine-making technology and is improving other wine-related technology, such as cold-and freeze-protection methods being developed by Texas A&M researchers in Lubbock.

However, the French didn't seem very interested in such research, McEachern said.

"The French wine industry is built on tradition and resistance to change," he said.

Property taxes based on values determined by local officials, comptroller points out

Part of a series

By John Sharp
Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts

The basics. Property taxes are based on the value of property. For example, the property tax on a vacant lot valued at $10,000 is 10 times as much as one valued at $1,000.

Property taxes are local taxes. Your local officials value your property, set your tax rates and collect your taxes. However, state law governs how the process works.

The property tax provides more tax dollars for local services in Texas than any other source. Property taxes help to pay for public schools, city streets, county roads, police, fire protection and many other services.

The Texas Constitutions sets out five rules for the property tax:

• Taxation must be equal and uniform.

All property must be valued and taxed equally and uniformly. This applies to similar types of property – for example, commercial property and utility properties. No single property or type of properties should pay more than its fair share of taxes.

• With some exceptions, all tangible property must be taxed on its current market value. The exceptions include agricultural land, timberland, recreational park and scenic land and others.

A property's market value is the cash price for which it would sell when both buyer and seller want the best price and neither one is under pressure to buy or sell. Land used for farming and ranching can be valued on its capacity to produce crops or livestock, instead of its value on the real estate market. This appraisal is known as agricultural appraisal.

• All property is taxed unless a federal or state law provides an exemption for it. An exemption includes all or part of a property's value from taxation.

• Property owners have a right to reasonable notice of increases in appraised property value.

• Each property in a county must have one appraised value. The only exception is a property that is part of a governmental unit – such as a school district – whose boundaries cross county lines.

Texas also uses good wine-making technology and is improving other wine-related technology, such as cold-and freeze-protection methods being developed by Texas A&M researchers in Lubbock.

However, the French didn't seem very interested in such research, McEachern said.

"The French wine industry is built on tradition and resistance to change," he said.

By John Sharp
Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts

Part of a series

The basics. Property taxes are based on the value of property. For example, the property tax on a vacant lot valued at $10,000 is 10 times as much as one valued at $1,000.

Property taxes are local taxes. Your local officials value your property, set your tax rates and collect your taxes. However, state law governs how the process works.

The property tax provides more tax dollars for local services in Texas than any other source. Property taxes help to pay for public schools, city streets, county roads, police, fire protection and many other services.

The Texas Constitutions sets out five rules for the property tax:

• Taxation must be equal and uniform.

All property must be valued and taxed equally and uniformly. This applies to similar types of property – for example, commercial property and utility properties. No single property or type of properties should pay more than its fair share of taxes.

• With some exceptions, all tangible property must be taxed on its current market value. The exceptions include agricultural land, timberland, recreational park and scenic land and others.

A property's market value is the cash price for which it would sell when both buyer and seller want the best price and neither one is under pressure to buy or sell. Land used for farming and ranching can be valued on its capacity to produce crops or livestock, instead of its value on the real estate market. This appraisal is known as agricultural appraisal.

• All property is taxed unless a federal or state law provides an exemption for it. An exemption includes all or part of a property's value from taxation.

• Property owners have a right to reasonable notice of increases in appraised property value.

• Each property in a county must have one appraised value. The only exception is a property that is part of a governmental unit – such as a school district – whose boundaries cross county lines.

Junior exhibitors get $84,000 at auction

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin Staff Writer

Buyers paid $84,358.95 Saturday, Jan. 11, at the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show and Bake Show for livestock and baked good exhibited by youthful showmen.

Tiffany Baker received the M.R. Sandidge Memorial Courtesy Award; Matt Welch received the Bandera Masonic Lodge Achievement Award; and Brad Floyd received the Larry Bausch Citizenship Award.

Todd Nightingale was named senior high-point individual, and Kathryn Miller was named junior high-point individual.

Buyers paid $77,008.95 at Saturday afternoon's livestock auction, down slightly from last year's auction total of $78,215. The record was set in 1989, when the livestock auction total exceeded $85,000, and 1990's total was some $67,000.

Saturday's bake show auction buyers paid $7,350, just slightly under the record figure of $7,590, set in 1989. The 1990 auction totaled $2,520, and the 1991 auctioff totaled $5,290.

Michelle Knowles' 1,415-pound grand champion steer was bought by Harvey's Steak House for $2,122.50, or $1.50 per pound. Knowles' steer was named champion European breed, and she received the award for senior showmanship. Last year, Knowles won junior showmanship honors.

Carrie Sandidge took junior showmanship honors at this year's show.

Tiffany Baker's 1,540-pound reserve grand champion steer was bought for $2,310, also $1.50 per pound, by the Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association.

Last year, Mary Schmidt's substitute grand champion steer sold for $2,278, or $2.10 per pound and Brad Floyd's reserve champion steer sold for $1,852 to Beverage Barn.

3-5 contests set in GOP primary

None on tap for Democratic voters

Bandera County Republicans will have as many as five locally contested races on their ballots, depending on their precinct, and Democrats will have none in the upcoming primary election.

Filing for elective and political office ended Friday.

Depending on which precinct Republican voters are in, they will have from three to five contested local races to decide.

Republicans will have to chose between former sheriff's deputy James MacMillan of Lakehills and detective Marc Sultan of Pipe Creek for the party's nomination for the sheriff.

Attorney and municipal judge Kerry Schneider and incumbent Sam Darden will vie for the Republican nomination for county attorney. Whoever wins that race will have the county attorney's post sown up, as there is no Democratic opposition.

The county commissioner nomination from commissioner's precinct 1 will be a three-way battle between the incumbent Bennie Barker, tax watchdog Bobby Jones and builder Michael Jewett.

The party's nominee will have clear sailing in the November election, as no one filed for the Democratic side.

Rancher and real estate agent Preston Jennings will face oil exploration man Louis Vannatter for the Republican nomination in the commissioner's precinct 3 race.

The other locally contested race is for Bandera County Republican chair between incumbent Gary Johnston and Janet Cave.

Other races of local concern will be in the Democratic primary for Texas Senator for District 25. The two Democrats running are state

Full reservoir could double business around Medina Lake: Merchants

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Medina Lake area businesses are hoping the lake stays full because by some estimates they expect business to double in the Lakehills and Mico area.

They're seeing an increase in business now, though it is the dead of winter.

"We're hoping that the lake will stay full."

When the lake is down, even the people that own property don't come out. "We're seeing a lot of people who have property out here that we haven't seen in a long time," says Solomon.

The businesses that will be helped are not just the waterfront business. He explains that if people stop at one business, they're likely to stop at another. "They may come out to look at real estate and they'll stop and buy gas.

"Business for any business is good for all businesses," says Solomon.

"If we have a good (wet) spring, we'll keep replenishing the water in the lake and (the irrigators) will have water for their fields downstream."

Myra Hanson, co-owner of Cedar Point Landing at the Medina Dam in Mico is very enthusiastic about the improved business climate and hopes the lake will remain high for at least three years.

"We're expecting it (the full lake) to bring us a bunch of people. We're looking for twice as many people (in the coming summer) as last summer."

They've already seen an improvement in business and have had to open a part of their complex that they usually keep closed during the winter. "The last two weeks we've opened the saloon and have had as many as two to three times the number of people we usually see in the winter."

But for their business to live through the next drop of the lake, they'll need a sustained high lake level for some time. "We're looking to get three good summers out of it."

While the lake was down, Jeff and Myra Hanson took road base material from the construction site on Suicide Hill and put it on their boat ramp to lengthen it. Even then, only four-wheel drive vehicles could be used to launch boats at Cedar Point. "The water kept going down further and further (as they lengthen the ramp)."

Cedar Point Landing will open its cafe in the spring, in part because they'll have the business to support it.

Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop in Lakehills has also seen an increase in customer traffic during the low traffic time of winter. "The full lake has brought the people out to either see it (the full lake) or to try to fish," says Gallagher.

Fishing is good for catfish and white bass, he reports, but Gallagher expects the black bass to begin biting in about a month.

"They (fishermen) are catching a lot of catfish, which is normal with the lake rising.

It's too early and too cold for white bass for white bass to spawn.

"They are catching white bass. It's not a (white bass spawning) run, but people are managing to catch quite a few whites in the river," says Gallagher.

Black bass fishing is still slow because the water is still a little murky from the floods.

What he hopes is that the lake will stay up, allowing the black bass to have a good spawning season. With the lake covering up what had been plants along the lake, they bass will have plenty of cover to spawn in.

"It could have a tremendous effect in two to three years (on the number of black bass in the lake)," says Gallagher.

But it might be just a little while before the lake is free of debris enough for heavy boat traffic. Reports from Bob's Cove indicate that there is a lot of drift wood from the flood still in the lake. Once the wood is waterlogged, it will sink to the bottom and be out of the way, about one month from now.

The full lake is a boom for one set of new business owners.

Start the ball rolling

Dear editor:

My plaudits to Carl Carlson for his letter (The Bulletin, Jan. 8) regarding a complaint about trash on our roads. Well said!

Suppose we all act to implement his suggestion (to ticket litterers), placing pressure on the law so to act. Who knows, if this succeeds he might have established a precedent allowing the process to advance upwards to more grievous problems such as:

- Illegal U-turns on Main Street.
- Drinking while driving.
- Racial prejudice.
- Legislative malfeasance.
- Tax fraud.
- And so on to the top.

Who knows, it might work. Let's give the Carlson Plan a try.

Winter Texan speaks up

Dear editor:

Our compliments on an excellent story on Winter Texans visiting Bandera (The Bulletin, Jan. 8). Unfortunately a couple of things omitted might have better served your area and the Winter Texans you host.

Bandera has several campgrounds, not just two, as well as several impressive and internationally known dude ranches. For example, we are staying in an RV park not mentioned and call Colorado home. There are others here from Colorado, Minnesota, Illinois, Ohio, Oklahoma and Georgia, as well as from Texas.

In addition, we don't just buy necessities (groceries and gasoline), but also enjoy the several fine restaurants in Bandera, purchase clothing, hardware, patronize the local dance halls, doctors, beauty shops, garages, banks and etc. Local churches are also included in the plans of Winter Texans.

Numerous RV rally groups meet in Bandera during the year and thus the area receives even wider exposure around the nation. Many of us are repeat visitors and spend from one to several months enjoying the Hill Country.

Betty and Clarence Hall

(Editor's note: Points well taken, of course. Obviously, Winter Texans also read The Bandera Bulletin. The story was not intended to be a directory of RV parks. For that, please see the semi-annual Visitor's Guide.)

She takes on administrators

Dear editor:

I wrote a letter to the editor that appeared Dec. 4 expressing my concern about the way my husband and I were treated by Mr. (N.T.) Donahoo and Mr. (Ted) Dockery on Nov. 26 when we went to the school about my son.

I went before the school board asking for a thorough investigation into the conduct of Mr. Donahoo and Mr. Dockery. After the president of the school board (Jim Wagner) conducted his investigation, he told me that neither gentleman did anything wrong. So I guess that the paid school officials can talk to parents and students any way they want and get by with it.

Now I have found that if a child has been suspended from school or had "on campus suspension" they may be denied permission to participate in any co-curricular trips. The decision is left to the discretion of the principal and sponsor.

My husband called the principal and was told that if a student has been suspended or [illegible] would apply, they were not sure. Later, the president of the school board called and stated that it is for one semester.

Now I'm asking how many times will our children be punished for their mistakes? I think there are too many things left to the discretion of the principals. To me, the principal just doesn't want to take the time to sort out the students who would really be a problem on a trip and who wouldn't. To me, we need to have some of our school policies changed and revised for our children, and not for our principals' convenience. If you care about what the school and school board are doing to our children, please come forward Jan. 14 at the school board meeting at the high school library and voice your opinion.

Last week's puzzle.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – The million dollar special session adjourned last week, and nobody could say for sure whether anything had been accomplished.

What is certain is that until a federal court speaks, the Texas primary election is now in chaos on several fronts:

- Candidates meeting the Jan. 10 filing deadline did so amid the uncertainly of unfinished boundary lines;
- Texas voters may not be balloting with the rest of the South in the March 12 Super Tuesday presidential primary; and
- The primary, whenever we finally get around to having it, may cost taxpayers an extra $1.4 million.

In the House, the end of an era came into sight when Speaker Gib Lewis announced he will not seek re-election, but told members he intends to remain presiding officer for another year.

Lewis, a conservative Fort Worth Democrat, faces trial on two misdemeanor ethics charges, but some insiders say he is tired of being hounded by liberals in his party.

The Gib Lewis Legacy

Since 1982, , flush with new seats, liberal Democrats have sought to organize the Texas House along party lines, like the U.S. Congress, in order to control it.

But Lewis swept into the first of five terms in 1983, heir to the system of predecessor Billy Clayton which handed out a fair share of plums to Republican lawmakers.

Since then, the Legislature has increased expenditures and taxes despite Lewis' attempts at restraint.

In 1993, a new era begins in the Texas House, perhaps with Democrats sitting on one side of the aisle and Republicans on the other.

Senate Democrats Prevail

In the Texas Senate, Democrats ran over their Republican colleagues and won approval of a redistricting plan that would preserve a Democratic majority in the Senate.

Last week, Attorney General Dan Morales was in Washington to plead with U.S. Justice Department officials to quickly accept the Senate plan.

"I remain hopeful and optimistic we're going to be able to keep the elections on time, March 10. A delay would have a negative impact," Morales said after meeting with officials.

The Senate plan must be "precleared" by the federal agency even though it is identical to a plan approved by the Justice Department last year.

More Speaker Hopefuls

One thing is certain, there will be no shortage of candidates to succeed Speaker Lewis.

As two more candidates jumped into the race, Capitol lobbyists moved to distance themselves from involvement in the campaign.

Reps. Sam Russell, D-Mount Pleasant, and Tom Uher, D-Bay City, said that they are officially candidates for the speakership.

The two lawmakers joined five other House members who have announced they will seek the post. The other candidates are Reps. Billy Clemons, D-Pollok; David Cain, D-Dallas; James Hury, D-Galveston; Pete Laney, D-Hale Center; and Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Lawmakers and lobbyists predicted that the race for speaker will be a long battle that might not be settled until November's general election or the start of the next regular session in January 1993.

House Reforms Eyed

One day after Lewis announced his retirement as speaker, a government watchdog group started campaigning to reform the chamber's rules and power structure.

Common Cause of Texas wants to make the House function more openly and democratically after the five-term speaker leaves office next year, said Mary Nell Mathis, state chair of the self-styled citizens lobby.

Electing the speaker by secret ballot is one of the reforms Common Cause is pushing. "This is the only secret vote Common Cause would ever support," Mathis said.

The group plans to mail letters to its 7,000 members to ask House candidates whether they will support reform of the House's operating rules.

After the filing deadline passes, the organization will send a questionnaire to candidates for the 150 House seats. They will be asked whether they back the reforms.

Other Highlights

- Gov. Ann Richards became the first governor in 20 years to grant an executive reprieve. Johnny Frank Garrett was sentenced to die for raping and killing a 76-year-old nun in an Amarillo convent on Halloween 1981.
- Texas Railroad Commissioners adopted a new system to set natural gas production allowables equal to the historic demand for gas from each field.
- A citizen advisory committee recommended that certain sexually oriented businesses be prohibited from selling lottery tickets. However, the proposed ban would not cover adult bookstores and other legitimate businesses whose activities are protected by First Amendment free speech rights.

Sen. Bill Sims of San Angelo and state Sen. Temple Dixon of Sweetwater.

Three Republicans have filed for Sims' seat: former mayor of Kerrville Charles Johnson of Kerrville, first-time state representative Troy Fraser of Big Spring, and Boerne School board vice president and former Fair Oaks city councilman Jim Deats.

Incumbent Democrat Robert Turner of Voss and Republican John Petsch Brelaford are unopposed for the nomination for state representative from District 73, Bandera County's new district.

In local voting precinct chair races, two Republican voting precinct posts are contested. Mildred Rader faces Judy Dunn in precinct 3 and Richard Thornber and Roger Raser will compete in precinct 5.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Watch that possessive side as you battle the green-eyed monster. Talks late mid-week relieve much of the stress. Reach out for another later in the week when your instincts are to return to the cocoon. Don't push too hard — you're only in first gear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The old bullish charm works wonders all week long. Another confesses you light up their life. Enjoy being a light bulb, but stay on track. This weekend you're busy chatting, meeting new people, etc. If life isn't perfect now, you'll have many opportunities to make it so, soon enough.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Use the beginning of the week to mull over a situation. Unusual for you — saying little and absorbing another's point of view. Act on what you want midweek. Make the most of your best asset, YOU, as the week continues. You've got what it takes and what another wants.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're on a winning streak as the week begins. (Just think about what you want before you go after it.) Midweek, you're concerned with the ramifications of a current situation. Know, Moonchild, how changeable you are. Get set for a whopper of a weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Step into the limelight and strut your stuff. Another has their eye on you. You decide how this plays out midweek when YOU (and not THEY) get what you want. Take an early weekend and enjoy a special relationship. You're certainly perky. See what some vacation time does?

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Look beyond the obvious as the week begins — in other words, read between the lines. Another cares and lets you know it this weekend. You may have to start the dance, but forget leading. Midweek, court a boss' favor. Yes, right now, what you do counts.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) As the week begins, don't get into a frenzy over money, love or partnerships. You'll find the way. Plug into a favorite friend who really cares; together you come up with the most unusual solutions. Fantasy and imagination guide your week. Reality and responsibility rule the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Go with another's ideas even if you feel lukewarm about it. You go from tepid to hot by the week's end. Acknowledge a partner's great idea and intensified bonding. Make plans to take off on yet another weekend adventure. (With or without this person — it's all up to you.)

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Handle personal matters before midweek when the moon throws you into a new social whirl. (Business or personal or both — no one will tell). All weekend long, you intensify a tie (for love or money, who knows?). What is known is that you are nowhere to be found.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You may not make an appearance (or really be present) at work this week until midweek. No one questions it since you tear through work and demonstrate your capabilities. By the weekend, you're ready to get out there and do the jig.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Life may feel like drudgery as the week begins, but then that old Aquarian wildness appears and you're off later in the week. Wherever you are, there's fun and play. You pay for this romp on the wild side this weekend. You either have to work or recuperate.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Be sure to write down every call that comes in this week. You have a hard time separating work and pleasure, though by necessity you ground out at the end of the week. Return a couple of those phone calls before you make those weekend plans. Your plans could change if you don't!

Ecumenical service notes week of unity

Members of 10 congregations representing six Christian denominations will come together for an ecumenical service celebrating the word of God on Wednesday, Jan. 22.

The service, which will be held in conjunction with the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, will take place at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church starting at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. J. Robert Scott, retired United Methodist minister, will speak, and the emphasis of his message, he says, will be taken from the Biblical passage where Jesus says, "Remember, I will be with you always," which is taken from Matthew 28, 19-20.

"Begun in 1908, the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is observed each year in big cities and small towns across the country and around the world," says the Rev. Eugene Peterson of Grace Lutheran Church. Peterson chairs the Bandera County Christian Fellowship, the group that is sponsoring the service locally.

"The public is cordially invited," Peterson says.

"International preparations involve the World Council of Churches and the Vatican's Pontifical Council for promoting Christian unity," Peterson said. "National preparations involve the National Council of Churches, the U.S. Roman Catholic Bishop's Secretariat for Ecumenical and interreligious Affairs, and the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute.

The world-wide 1992 Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is scheduled the week of Jan. 18 through Jan. 25.

Quietly turning away compliments on his latest honor is Albert Alley, [illegible] at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos has been named for him in gratitude for his generous help to the university and its projects. A major component of the library in the burgeoning Southwestern Writers Collection, curated by Richard Holland.

With the largest body of material comprised of the papers, notes, manuscripts and memorabilia of J. Frank Dobie, the collection also houses books and papers of most other notes Texas writers, past and present. Names shine forth like those of Katherine Anne Porter, John Graves, Larry L. King, and Larry McMurtry. The collection contains the original manuscript of a screen play, "The Streets of Laredo", written by McMurtry and Peter Bogdonovich in 1972, the scenario of which grew, thirteen years later, into the classic novel of the Western Trail, "Lonesome.Dove."

But while the library is gathering in works of modern-day writers of Texas, it has as its "cornerstone" the earliest work on Texas and the first overland travel book of the Americas. "La Relacion y Comentarios" by Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca was published in Spain in [illegible] and ashore south of Tampico to fend for themselves. Walking through Texas and across 3,000 wilderness miles, only David Ingram, Richard Twide, and Richard Browne made it safely to Nova Scotia. They boarded a French ship [illegible] Tuesday

1555. It is thought, you know, [illegible] to Vera, finding his way across Texas after being shipwrecked on the Gulf Coast in 1528, passed through our present-day Bandera County and camped at the [illegible] of the Guadalupe River. [illegible] all early visitors to Texas were Spanish, so it was an enlightening surprise to come upon a recent article in the publication of Texas Historical Commission.

According to the piece in the Medallion, there is an official Texas historical marker on the courthouse square in Kingsville commemorating the visit to South Texas in 1568 of twenty-six English sailors, survivors of a battle in the Gulf of Mexico between the Spanish Navy and six British trading vessels.

The British fleet had been on a mission to South Americs, trading African slaves for Peruvian gold, and was blown into the Gulf by a storm while attempting to return to England. Intercepted by the Spanish, four ships were sunk. Of the two still afloat, only one, commanded by Sir Francis Drake, made it back to England.

The other, overloaded with sailors from the lost ships, could not proceed because supplies were low. More than one-hundred Englishmen were uncere- to British authorities, describing the Rio Grande, the camp[illegible] Indians of the Texas coast, the birds, animals, and insects encountered, constitute the first account by an English-speaking European of Texas.

Here endeth today's history lesson. There will be a quiz on [illegible] report and man given Tuesday

Gennifer Callahan and Ernest Faris will be married Saturday, Feb. 15 at the First Baptist Church in Bandera. She is the daughter of John and Carol Wedgworth and he is the son of Ernest and Jean Faris, all of Bandera. She will be honored at a bridal shower Saturday, Feb. 8.

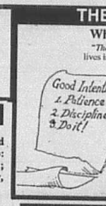
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Where Do I Get the Power to Change?

"The life I now live is not my life but the life which Christ lives in me."

— Galatians 2:20



All around us, we hear cries of human dissatisfaction in offices, homes, schools and hospitals. People say, "I wish I could be more patient ... I wish I were more disciplined ... I wish I didn't procrastinate or lose my temper." People want to change. But often we don't know how to change. During the fall season, we have every intention of being different, yet within a few weeks, we find ourselves right back in behavior patterns which annoy and defeat us. Why? We do not change because Good Intentions alone cannot change us. Perhaps today you might receive the power from Him to change. That is the only way to make our good intentions become realities!

City wants in on revenues from dog licenses

Bandera city council moved to cut the city in on proceeds from dog licenses sold to residents inside the city limits, but they'll have to wait to see if the commissioners court will relinquish the fees.

The council voted 4-0, with councilman Clint Dowell absent, to issue the city's own dog licenses and to use the proceeds to pay for its dog catcher and boarding fees for stay dogs.

Under the proposal, dog owners who live inside the city will pay only the city's fees and the county will get license fees only from those outside the city.

Council member Dorothy Darden, who proposed the plan, said she has received favorable reactions to it from county Judge Ray F. Mauer and treasurer Elizabeth James, but final action on the matter must be taken by county commissioners.

The city will issue colored licenses while the county will continue to issue silver tags.

In other action Monday, the council approved a resolution to re-establish a regional water planning agency, elected city secretary Judy Dunn to also be city treasurer, established 12 paid holidays for city employees, and agreed to furnish water services to Dick Baker for a home on Montague Drive that is outside the city limits.

The council zipped through the meeting in an hour and 15 minutes, short of a record, said Mayor Raymond Adamietz, but the shortest in recent memory.

Every motion passed by a unanimous 4-0 vote and there was little discussion on any of them.

Shelly Whitworth of the Alamo Area Council of Governments appeared before the council to explain the AACOG's request for a resolution backing a regional water quality planning agency.

She said the planning group, which would actually be AACOG, would not have any regulatory functions and would not affect water rights.

"This program has nothing to do with water rights," she said emphatically. "It is to aid municipalities and counties in keeping up with Environmental Protection Agency requirements, including a new one on stormwater runoff."

Dunn was named treasurer in addition to her other duties as city secretary and municipal court clerk in the wake of an amendment to city ordinances that became final last month which removed the requirement that the treasurer must be a resident of the city.

The city adopted a schedule of 12 paid holidays that is identical to the county's list. It includes Good Friday, April 17, which was not a holiday last year.

Others are President's Birthday Feb. 17, Memorial Day May 25, Independence Day July 3, Labor Day Sept. 7, Veteran's Day Nov. 11, Thanksgiving Nov. 26 and 27, Christmas Dec. 24 and 25, and New Year's Day Dec. 31 and Jan. 1.

The council OKed water service to Baker, a move which was in line with their policy of providing service to residents who live on existing water mains.

Public works director Rey Garcia said Baker intends to use city water for drinking and other household purposes while continuing to use his private well for irrigation.

City officials to meet Thursday with representatives of trash firm

With a fresh two-year contract in their pocket, officials of Garbage Gobbler, Inc., will meet with city officials Thursday, and they may receive some pointed questions.

Noting that rates the company charges in Boerne and northwest San Antonio are lower than Bandera's, council member said "I'm going to ask them why."

She also suggested polling city residents to see if they would accept once-a-week pickup at a lower rate, and council member Ross Bailey suggested exploring offering twice-a-week service to those that want it and once-a-week pickup for others, at appropriate rates.

The city gave Garbage Gobbler a new two-year contract last month, though a fledgling Tarpley company was the low bidder.

While she did not mention it during last month's council session, Darden said her investigation turned up questionable results of the low bidders performance on other contracts.

The council also postponed consideration of city's annual audit that was received Friday, Jan. 10, so that council members could study it.

Building permits in the city of Bandera increased from 19 in 1990 to 34 in 1991, the city's Planning and Zoning Commission reported this week in its annual report.

The commission said it also reviewed one demolition permit, compared to three in 1990, and 33 sign permits, compared to 31 in 1990.

In addition, the commission said one outdated sign was removed during the year but that one more still stands that has exceeded the 30-day time limitation for removal.

"There are several signs which are in violation and have been reported to the mayor and city inspector," the report stated.

In addition, the commission said it raised a question concerning a railroad car in the floodway at Jellystone Park and turned the matter over to planning agency, elected city secretary Judy Dunn to also be city treasurer, established 12 paid holidays for city employees, and agreed to furnish water services to Dick Baker for a home on Montague Drive that is outside the city limits.

There were 34 building permits issued in 1991 compared with 19 in 1990.

"No decision has been reported," the commission's report noted.

Chamber secretary Nancy Hopes was elected chairman of the P&Z Commission, succeeding Linda Stein who has served on the panel as long as authorized by ordinances.

Bob Reader was named vice-chairman and secretary, replacing Tom Laxson. Other commission members are Roy Rodriguez and ex-officio members Dorothy Darden and Raymond Adamietz.

Fifteen members of the "Internationally famous" Bandera Kazoo Band gave their first public performance Friday in front of Arkey Blues' Silver Dollar to greet the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo ambassadors. Organizer Bungy Grant says they'll probably need a rehearsal before their next appearance.

Kazoo band's debut a smash hit, sort of

"The Soon To Be Internationally Famous Un-Official Bandera County Kazoo Band" held its first concert last Friday to honor the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo Ambassadors visiting Bandera on their annual tour.

"Buffalo Bill" (Rudy Robbins), with Frank Anderwald and his "Desperadoes" riding shot gun, brought the Area Rodeo Queen and the tour bus with 60 ambassadors aboard, to Main Street (in front of Arkey Blue's Silver Dollar).

The kazoo band struck up "San Antonio Rose," then went into "Deep in the Heart of Texas," with a lot of audience participation, and when the audience still stood there waiting for more, the band went on to play "Cattle Call."

When they got to the yodeling part, they replaced their kazoos with yodels and were joined by a singing dog wearing a red bandana!

The band has decided they definitely need more rehearsal time, and they are also looking for tuxedoes for their spring concert, at which time they will be accompanied by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir (tape, of course).

Water lilies on program of arts club

The Fine Arts Club heard a program on water lilies and was entertained by a solo and a quintet at their Jan. 7 meeting.

Cooperative.

New Year's prayer.

A quintet of Mary Joe Kirkpatrick, Carmen Hicks, Doloras Greene, Marsha Cavin and Bettie Suddath sang "Silver Bells," "Sleep," and "Winter Wonderland," reports publicity chairwoman Enid Peres.

Karen Breaseale accompanied on the piano.

Dr. Clyde Ikins, a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, showed slides on aquatic gardening. He has been particularly interested in water lilies for over 50 years. He grows more than 300 varieties of water lilies, lotus, and water flowers on his Bandera ranch, reports Peres.

"He told us the ponds need six hours of sun, at least 18 to 20 inches of water, and if they are balanced with nature, only need to be drained yearly," says Peres. "He said this type of gardening takes less water to grow than grass!"

The next Fine Arts Club meeting will be Feb. 4 at the Bandera Electric Cooperative. The program will be on needle arts.

BCAT to meet

The recently completed Springhills Water Management District water study will be one of the topics addressed at the regular meeting of the Bandera Association of Concerned Taxpayers Thursday, Jan. 16.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Bandera Bank Community Room.

'Wee-skiing,' kazoo concert scheduled at Horseshoe Inn this Sunday afternoon

"You can ski, jam with the kazoo band, or just hang around the fire," says Horseshoe Inn owner Patricia Moore, "but come on out and join the fun."

She is referring to what may become Bandera's new favorite team sport: "wee-skiing"! That's right, this Sunday, Jan. 19 from 2 to 6 p.m. will mark the first annual "Ski Bandera!" celebration. The event will be held at the Horseshoe Inn (and there will be no snow or water involved).

"Skis will be provided, and all are invited to jam with the official Bandera County Kazoo Band," Moore says. "Bring your own kazoo or accompanying instrument and enjoy the music around the fire.

"There is no charge for activities, and bring your own refreshments," she says.

The idea for the event, Moore says, came from a photo and letter she received from England. Someone who apparently had been to Bandera sent a photo of several people engaging in the skiing sport, and on the back of the photograph were these instructions:

"Take two lengths of timber, nail some ties for your feet and then you race another team over a set course. You race while drinking whiskey so they have been named wee-skis."

Fresh off the tour bus, these queens representing the San Antonio Stock Show were given a ride down Main Street in an impromptu parade Friday. Included in the surrey are Cowboy Capital Rodeo Association Queen Jennifer Evans of Medina and Cowboy Capitol Trail Ride Queen Heather Harrell of Pipe Creek.

Delegation promotes San Antonio stock show

Take a mock hold-up, impromptu parade down Main Street, a kazoo band

Dusty Britches in Bandera's most famous saloon and you have the visit of the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo ambassadors in Bandera.

Volunteers and rodeo queens from San Antonio's 43rd annual stock show came to Bandera Friday aboard a tour bus and upon entry near Boyle's Market, were chased and then flagged down by mounted horsemen toting rifles.

The procession of 20 or more horsemen complete with horsemen carrying flags, one stage coach, one surrey, and the bus headed down Main Street to Arkey Blues' Silver Dollar.

were waylaid by Bungy Grant and her 15-member group and were treated to a kazoo concert in the newly-formed group's first public appearance.

The crowd then headed into the saloon for music by Dusty Britches and his band and food fixin's.

Among those attending were chamber president Joel Evans, chamber director Robert Stubbeman, Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer, county commissioners Dan Alanis, Roger Raser, Bennie Barker, Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers, Bandera Downs mascot Bandera Bud, and several political candidates.

"The Rattler," billed as the world's tallest and fastest wooden roller coaster, is nearing completion at Fiesta Texas in San Antonio.

The musical theme park, opening in March, is located on Interstate 10 near Sea World of Texas, about 45 miles from Bandera. (In fact, driving on 10 from Bandera to San Antonio, you can look off to the right and see the awesome roller coaster silhouetted against the sky).

The park will feature four major themed areas that will host 60 musical performances each day. The areas are Los Festivales (Hispanic), Spassburg (German), Crackaxle Canyon (Western 1920s) and Rockville (Nostalgic 1950s).

The family-oriented theme park boasts 14 other rides besides the Rattler, including the Gully Washer, a white-water river ride; a narrow gauge railroad with a 1920s western-style train and a turn-of-the-century German themed train and several rides specifically for children.

The Rattler features world record top speeds between 68 and 73 miles per hour along its more than 5,000 feet of track. Its gravitational pull is listed as a minimum of .5 "Gs", and a maximum of 3.5 "Gs". Its tallest vertical drop, another world's record, is 166 feet, 4.5 inches. At the end of a 60-second first climb is a 61.4-degree drop.

It coils on top of a plateau, shakes its tail, slithers over a cliff and darts into a cave, just like any other rattler.

"The Rattler is located above, below and inside 100-foot-high limestone cliffs in the park's Crackaxle Canyon western area," said Bill Hoelscher, Fiesta Texas general manager. "The coaster... offers a spectacular view of the rest of the park and the surrounding Hill Country."

Shower set

A wedding shower for Cammie Burger of Medina will be held Sunday, Jan. 19, at the Medina Methodist Youth Center at 3 p.m.

Burger is a Medina High School graduate and the daughter of Jesse and Barbara Burger of Medina.

"The Rattler," now visible from I-10 in west San Antonio.

Building location and design will be among the topics discussed when the Bandera County Youth Center group meets Thursday, Jan. 16 at 7 p.m. The meeting will be in the second-floor district courtroom in the Bandera County courthouse.

Committee members will present progress reports on the center's tax exempt status, building location and design and fundraising status.

Temporary chairman and spokesman County Commissioner Bennie Barker urged all interested parents and students to attend, and he also asked committee members to bring other guests and volunteers.

"We need help and input from anyone who is interested," Barker said. "Please plan to attend and help us get off to a good start."

Silver Sage Corral

Put on your dancing shoes, get your party clothes ready, bring your wallet and join us for a benefit dance Saturday, Jan. 25 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Kerrville. The dance, which will feature Ironman Combo, will last from 8 p.m. to "around midnight." Tickets are $8 per couple and $5 per person, and are on sale at the Silver Sage Corral.

Donated merchandise will be auctioned at the event, and all proceeds will benefit the Senior Nutrition Program for Kerr and Bandera Counties. If you have some merchandise you wish to donate to the auction, you can call the center and they will make arrangements to have it delivered to Kerrville.

The nutrition program is beneficial to Bandera County's senior citizens, and even if you don't wish to attend the dance perhaps you can make a cash donation to the cause.

—Saturday, Jan. 11 more than 60 campers at Jellystone Park were treated to a performance by the Melodiers. Some 17 members of that group braved the wet weather, thunder and lightning for the 7 p.m. performance, according to reporter Judy Goodenough.

"The campers welcomed us and joined in enthusiastically, singing along with our musical program for each month of the calendar year," Goodenough says.

"After the closing part of four songs about the state of Texas, and 'Happy Trails To You,' there was a standing ovation. By then we forgot all about the weather."

—The center volunteers will early March. Mary Garcia has offered to use her greenhouse to start plants and to grow cuttings for the sale.

If you have any plants you would like to donate, please bring them by the center, or call to arrange for someone to pick them up. It doesn't matter if they are a little "puny" as Mary has two green thumbs, and she will have them ready for our sale.

We will also need volunteers to help at the sale. In addition to plants we usually have hamburgers, cakes and pie for sale during the day.

—The Board of Directors of the Silver Sage Corral will hold their monthly meeting on Friday, Jan. 24 at 2 p.m. All board members are urged to attend.

—Our "top of the roof" award this week goes to Les Abraham, Tim Sanchez, Floyd Portman, Melvin King and W.B. "Kirk" Kirkpatrick for the super job they did repairing the roof of the Silver Sage Corral. We think this group is better (and cheaper) than the pros. Thanks, guys.

—I have it on good authority that Juanita Woodward will be coming home this week after a four-month stay in the hospital. Give her time to get both feet on the ground, then go by and say "welcome home."

Nest boxes for bluebirds available from state

A limited number of bluebird nest boxes will be available free to the public this month from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Nongame Resources Program.

The TPWD believes the coop- [illegible] the availability of nesting sites for eastern bluebirds and other cavity nesters such as chickadees, wrens and some flycatchers.

Artificial nest boxes are needed to increase the breeding success of bluebirds and other cavity nesters since natural nesting cavities, usually found in dead and hollow trees, have declined in recent years.

The department's boxes are made of specially treated weather-resistant cardboard material and may last over two years. They must be placed at least 100 yards apart to prevent territorial disputes among nesting birds. Those [illegible] to keep a written record of usage by bluebirds and other nesting species observed.

About 2,000 boxes will be available and will provided to those contacting the department by Jan. 27. Send requests to TPWD, Nongame Resources Program, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Tx. 78744. Indicate how many boxes you would like to receive.

Here's signs of heart attack. If you notice them, get help immediately

Persons who have any of the following signs of heart attack should get help immediately, says the American Heart Association:

• Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting more than a few minutes.

• Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck or arms.

Nutrition the topic

Dr. Stephen L. Smith will speak on nutrition at the Tuesday, Jan. 14, meeting of the Diabetes Support Group at 7 p.m. at the First christian Church, 1180 Junction Highway, Kerrville.

Pharmacist's discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON -- After solving the problem of his own obesity, a pharmacist, now director of National Dietary Research, may have discovered the solution for others with the same problem.

Dr. William Morris, pharmacist, inventor and author has discovered a natural food tablet, aptly named Food Source One, that replaces some of the calories normally obtained from food. Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with other natural food ingredients with little or no caloric value so you can lose weight without giving up all your favorite foods, as explained in NDR's Lifestyle Maintenance publication, available where Food Source One is sold. "The secret to meaningful weight loss is not in decreasing the amount of food you eat, but in controlling the fat," says Dr. Morris.

According to Dr. Morris, weight loss results while using Food Source One will depend on how many pounds a person needs to lose. However some overweight people are experiencing extra-ordinary results with Food Source One. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great" she added.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts: cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Most of us, at certain important and appropriate times, have something to say. We have things to say to our spouses, to our children, to our friends and to our fellow workmen, etc.

We all know that the lower forms of life do communicate with one another. Even the dumb animals have their own way of [illegible] and [illegible] for existing needs in one another. There is scarcely a moment between dawn and dusk that we do not have "something to say." It should behoove us to think well of how we exercise this right. Let us use it rather than abuse it...having a purpose behind what we say, makes the distinction between mostly ignored "small talk" and our being actually heard and listened to.

Some famed men of history were fairly quiet men...They said little but did much. George Washington was one of the silent men of the American scene. He talked when it was necessary; was not hesitant, however, to speak up when directions were to be given or advice sought...Lincoln had his silent hours when he appeared withdrawn from the social chatter around him...Yet in a few words spoken at Gettysburg, he set a standard of oratorical excellence that has probably never been surpassed!

By Janice Carr Hodges
Bulletin Staff Writer

Raymond and Letha Smith, both descendants of Bandera County pioneer families, celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Jan. 12.

In 1926, Raymond Smith rode into Bandera County Courthouse. Bandera's Main Street had not yet been paved, and there were considerably fewer buildings in town.

Raymond recalls, there was an artesian well on the site where First State Bank now stands, and Bandera's newspaper, the "New Era," a predecessor to the Bandera Bulletin, was still being run by J. Marvin Hunter.

Bandera's postmaster was Fred Mansfield, and the old post office building stood on the northwest corner of Cypress and Main Streets, where Shoe Biz now stands.

Sidney Raymond Smith, the son of William Denaley "Seco" Smith and Elizabeth Akin Smith, was born and raised in Medina. At that time in Medina, Vernon Williams had first opened his barber shop, "Aunt Fannie" Adams had a hat shop and Marvin Hatfield was the proprietor of the Medina Theater.

Raymond also lived with his four brothers and sisters: Beulah, Ester, Austin and Valentine, and as he says, Letha was just a friend of his sister. But one day he asked Letha Clark on a date, and the rest, as they say, is history. Less than a year later Raymond and Letha were married.

Letha Lahree Clark, the daughter of Edward and Emma Walker Clark and the granddaughter of Bandera County pioneer Thomas Cuney, grew up in rural Bandera County near Winan's Creek. She was the youngest of 12 children, and she lived with her parents until her mother's death in 1919. Letha then lived with her sister and brother-in-law, Mary and Gus Charles Clemstein until her marriage in 1926.

"Stories of Indian fights, bears wandering through the hills and the good old days are a part of the heritage passed down to these two Bandera County natives," said their granddaughter Diane M. Schiffers in an account published in 1986 in the Bandera County History Book Committee's "History of Bandera County, Texas."

"Amasa 'Grandpa' Clark loved to tell his adventures of the Mexican War, but his biggest delight was to have an audience to listen to his tales of life in Bandera before the town was born." Schiffers said. "He recalled many Indian raids and the daring rescue of many captives. He truly was 'Grandpa,' as he was called by everyone, because he was the first permanent settler and thus became Grandpa to all who came after him.

"Seco was a colorful character in his younger years," she said, "he was wild and fun-loving. He too was a great story-teller.

"He recalled his experiences as a Confederate soldier in the Civil War and his many experiences with Big Foot Wallace, noted Texas Ranger and frontiersman," Schiffers said. "Seco was an Indian fighter and a true pioneer who cleared the way for others to follow."

After Raymond and Letha were married, they lived at several rural locations where Raymond did farm and ranch work for various people in the area including Gus Clemstein. In January of 1945, the Smiths moved to the city of Bandera. Raymond worked for a time at a local cypress saw mill and then he worked as a building contractor until his retirement in 1970.

Raymond was a charter member of the Bandera City Council, serving from 1964 to 1963. He is a past master of Bandera Masonic Lodge 1123, and he and Letha are both members of Bandera Eastern Star Chapter 643. Both are also members of Bandera United Methodist Church.

Raymond and Letha have one daughter, Lahree Wilson, who like her parents is still living in Bandera; two grandchildren, Diane Lahree Schiffers of Hondo and Joe Ray "Butch" Munsch of Dallas; and great-grandchildren Jennifer and Melissa Schiffers and Felicia and Hillary Munsch.

"The stories we share knit us together into families, friends, neighbors, nations. They are the link between generations, strengthening the values, beliefs and dreams that shape our identity. They are the threads that connect us to other cultures, the collective memory that returns us to distant times. With a storybook in our hands, we hold the cords that bind us into the fabric of humanity."

When I became the Library Director in August, I said that one of my top priorities was to increase and upgrade our material for children. In keeping with this, approximately 300 new books have already been added to the children's sections of the library—books for preschoolers through the children as well as having crafts, music/songs, puppets and other kinds of exciting, fun activities that stimulate and encourage reading and use of the library.

Our new preschool storytime will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 21, from 10 to 10:30 a.m. It will be a weekly event throughout the school calendar year. Please bring your child so that he or she may be a part of this valuable sharing resource. This is a marvelous way to introduce your child to all that the library has to offer.

With the new year just under way, it is also the opportune time to begin a storytime for the preschoolers of our community. Our very qualified part-time help, Barbara Craven, will be in charge of this new program. Barbara plans to

Camp country music revue planned at Trinity in February

The fictional Double Cupp Diner is the setting of "Pump Boys and Dinettes," a camp country music revue due Feb. 14-16 and 20-23 at Trinity University.

The musical will be performed by Trinity University's speech and drama department in Ruth Taylor Theatre One. Curtain time is 8 p.m. with a 2:30 p.m. matinee on Sundays.

The Double Cupp Diner, located on Highway 57 somewhere between Frog Level and Smyrna in rural America, is the setting for such songs as "The Night Dolly Parton Was Almost Mine," performed on guitar, piano, bass and kitchen utensils.

Lake chamber to elect officers Monday

Directors for 1992 were elected at the last meeting and are Kraig Josenhans of Thousand Trails, dentist John Leland, Lakehills Art Gallery owner Ted Jacobson, Lloyd's Guns owner Lloyd Mays, Fresh Young Things owner Bob Solomon, and jewelry store owner Louise Mays.

Officers for 1992 will be elected from among the directors.

The public is invited to the meetings, says president Bob Solomon. Those wishing to address the group should call him ahead of time at Fresh Young Things at 751-3550 or the chamber at 751-PISH to make sure they leave enough time in the meeting. "But if someone has a spur of the moment idea, they should just come on down," says Solomon.

Chamber meetings are held the third Monday of each month.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m.

PC EMS group to elect Tuesday

The Pipe Creek EMS Support Team will elect officers Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the Pipe Creek EMS barn beginning at 7 p.m.

Officers to be elected are president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Nominations for the posts will be taken from the floor.

To be eligible to vote, members must have attended at least two meetings in 1991, says nominating committee chair Mary Carpenter.

"Please attend this meeting and vote," she says.

Sen. Bill Sims sworn in as president pro tempore

Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, who represents Bandera County, now stands third in the line of succession to the governorship of Texas as a result of his election as president pro tempore of the state Senate.

He was elected on the same [illegible] special session of the Texas Legislature, which wound up Wednesday, Jan. 8.

In making the nomination of Sen. Sims to the position, Sen. Chet Brooks, dean of the Texas Senate, hailed Sims as a person of great integrity who truly represented the views of the people in his district.

Sims has represented District 25 in the Senate since 1983. The district is the largest in area of any in the state and includes 38 counties, including parts of El Paso and Bexar Counties.

On occasions when Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bullock are both out of the state at the same time, Sen. Sims will serve as governor.

Additionally, the state's chief [illegible] opportunity for the president pro tempore to serve as governor during which the residents of District 25 will be invited to attend a special celebration at the State Capitol.

Sen. John Montford of Lubbock administered the oath of office during the opening session of the Senate.

In taking the oath of office, Sen. Sims expressed his gratitude to his Senate colleagues for the honor and voiced his pride in having the privilege of representing the people in District 25.

Wharton's Dock

Walker Memorial Baptist Chapel will host a covered dish dinner Sunday, Jan. 19, following the morning worship service.

A baked ham will be furnished and there is always an abundance of gourmet dishes to choose from and the ladies out do themselves making deserts.

The dinner will be held in the fellowship hall.

— Visitors to Bonnie Hauer and Dan Iler at their Lake Medina Shores home were Hauer's daughter, Barb, and her husband, Paul Gunderson, and their two children, Missy, 6, and Gary, nine months.

Expecting to see a lot of sunshine, they ran into rain, rain and more rain.

Hauer played grandma and watched the two grandchildren when Santa made his visit as Missy was sure that Santa would not find her and her brother in Texas.

But Santa's visit made a believer out of Missy.

With guests gone, she reports everything is back to semi-normal, as she had fun spoiling the grandchildren as much as she was allowed.

— Special music at the Walker Memorial Baptist Chapel was provided by the Rev. Ken Brown. His wife, Susan, presented the words of his solo in sign language.

— There have been some changes in the Wharton's Dock are since the river rose and the lake filled. Boats that were for sale a few months ago, have lost their signs. Land and house improvement projects have been put on the back burner while improvers have gone fishing.

Las Vegas night set

The Lakehills American Legion will host a Las Vegas Night Saturday, Jan. 25, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Seven types of wild game on menu of Grace Lutheran Church event

Wild pig, black buck antelope and Barbados sheep will be among the exotic game meats available at Grace Lutheran Church's annual Wild Game Dinner Saturday, Jan. 25 from 5 to 9 p.m.

As many as seven type of wild game meat dishes will be available.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat dinner are $7 for adults and $3 for children under 12 years of age.

Proceeds benefit the building fund for the already-completed Grace Hall.

The menu will also include white tail, mule deer, axis deer, fallow deer and elk. Rounding out the meal will be beans, potato salad, slaw, dessert and a drink.

Lady Bulldogs lose opener in district play, 50-48

By Bob Hopper
Special Correspondent

[illegible] the water fountain in the first half Monday night, the Bandera Lady Bulldogs couldn't buy a basket until the closing minutes Monday and lost to [illegible] 50-48.

Bandera turned five steals into nine points and [illegible] before the half to take a 25-24 lead over the Lady Ro-Hawks at the Bulldog gym before dropping the district opener for both teams.

With Bandera's leading scorer, Lisa Wharton, 16 points for the night, in foul trouble early in the third period. Randolph dropped in eight unanswered points late to tie the score.

Randolph's Tania Grace hit a pair of charity shots as the third quarter ended to give the Lady Ro-Hawks a two-point advantage they held through the fourth period.

Bandera's Marika Cook, five points in the game, swished a three-pointer with nine seconds to go and bring the Bulldogs within two of a tie.

Nicki's 10-point total was second highest for the Bulldogs.

Other scorer's for Bandera included Tandie Clements and Natalie Koehler with six each, while Courtney Cota teased 4 [illegible] from the free throw line.

The Lady Bulldogs next game is at Hondo. The frosh girls will play at 6 p.m., the JV at 6:30, and the varsity at 8 p.m.

Bulldogs edged by Wimberley after early-season blowout

Squaring off against a team that trounced them by 37 points earlier in the season, the Bandera Bulldogs came within a rebound and two points of collecting their third win in non-district play before losing to Wimberly, 51-53, Friday night at home.

With the Bulldogs up by one point, 51-50, Wimberly's Jason White collected the rebound from a missed Bulldog field goal and drove the length of the court for the go-ahead basket and the Wimberly win.

Point guards J.B. Neuenschwander and Ricky Gard combined quick hands and quick feet with three-point shooting to offset Bandera's height disadvantage to keep the Bulldogs in the game from the opening tip-off to the final buzzer.

J.B. and Ricky combined for 24 points, with nine of those points coming from long distance, two three-pointers from Ricky and one from J.B.

John Kistner dropped in 12 for the Dogs, with Terry Robertson coming up with 6 points, followed by Linden Stricker with 5 and Jimmy Johnson and Scot Thomas adding 2 each to the point total.

Jockey still serious after 4-horse spill

In a 6-furlong claiming event for 2-year-olds, Deal Rowdy, with John Velazquez aboard, stumbled and flipped over at the three-eighth pole.

The horse suffered a broken cannon bone and had to be killed. The other three horses and jockeys were less seriously hurt.

Public Notice

On October 4, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) that proposes a new optional service called DigiLine℠ Service. The application was assigned Docket No. 10655.

DigiLine Service uses a 144 Kbps facility, typically divided into two 64 Kpbs B Channels and one 16 Kbps D Channel to provide access to and from the public switched telephone network for circuit-switched voice communications. DigiLine Service also provides transmission of circuit-switched data and packet-switched data within the customer's service office area only. This service allows the simultaneous transmission of voice and data over a single residence or business telephone line from a serving office equipped for DigiLine Service.

The monthly recurring charges for DigiLine Service consist of three major rate elements: Basic Interface Facility ($19.00); Basic Interface Equipment ($12.00); and, an Integrated Services Network Component for each B Channel (rate varies from $1.90 to $7.25 per B Channel depending on the customer's class of service and location.) Other charges may also be applicable depending on the options requested by the customer.

DigiLine Service operates only with compatibly-equipped FCC Part 68 registered equipment. The service will be offered initially in the following exchanges and within the following serving offices:

Exchange	Serving Offices
Dallas	Fleetwood, Richardson, Riverside
Austin	Fireside
San Antonio	Capitol, Medical Center
Houston	Clay, Medical Center

DigiLine Service may be furnished in other serving offices in any of the above exchanges in combination with foreign serving office charges. In addition, DigiLine Service may be available in other exchanges upon a customer's bona fide request. A bona fide request is a written request for service. Upon receipt of the bona fide request, Southwestern Bell will conduct an economic analysis to determine the financial viability of offering the requested service.

Southwestern Bell expects DigiLine Service to generate first-year revenues of approximately $236,000.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this docketed proceeding should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but not later than by February 10, 1992. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at 512-458-0256. The telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) number is 512-458-0221.

Invoices missing: Auditor

Sheriff's 'drug fund' purchases questioned

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County auditor Tommy Tomlinson told Bandera county commissioners Jan. 13 that documents showing where the money goes from Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest's cash seizure fund, the so-called "drug money," are missing.

Tomlinson, in a letter to the commissioners, recommended the sheriff improve his system and made no accusations of wrong-doing.

He said several financial records, specifically invoices that would support a purchase order, and interlocal agreements that show how money is transfered from one cooperating law enforcement agency to another, were missing.

That caused Tomlinson to say, "Because of the absence of the supporting documentation, I can not express an opinion as to the compliance of all transactions to Chapter 59, Code of Criminal Procedure.

"In some cases payment was made without invoices," he said "Payment should not be made without proper documentation."

Tomlinson's audit revealed that the sheriff had a cash balance $44,015.80 in Sept. 30, 1990, received $176,441.95 in revenue from forfeitures and received $2,730.06 in interest, and paid out $160,864.29, leaving him with $62,323.52 balance as of Sept. 30, 1991.

The Bandera County Sheriff's Department works with other sheriff's departments, drug task forces, the DEA and other law enforcement agencies in a co-ordinated investigations and arrests of allegded drug dealers.

Once the drug dealer is convicted, a civil proceeding confiscates the property and money the dealer received from his drug business. The

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

My congratulations to Dorothy Callahan, Louis Postert, and St. Stanislaus Catholic Church for their interest in preserving [illegible] work of the historic church.

St.Stanislaus is the second oldest Polish parish in America and Bandera County is still being enriched today through the lives of the descendants of the original 16 families who arrived here in the midst of winter in the mid-1850's.

Overcoming hardship and prejudice, these pioneers grew to be leaders of their faith and their community.

A knowledge of history can lead us to avoid mistakes of the past, to an understanding and tolerance of other cultures and creeds, and to a pride in that part of ourselves which reflects our past.

I encourage all "old-timers" to share their knowledge of the past with their families and others. (And in these days of technological juggernaut and fast-forward, anyone over 25 can consider themselves "old-timers.")

The Historical Commission welcomes such written reminiscences for our files and possible publication in "The Historian," a quarterly publication of the Commission.

Carolyn B. Edwards
Chairman, Bandera County Historical Commission

She likes Mr. Donahoo

Dear Editor:

Enough is enough! I have read several letters in your "Letters to the Editor" column putting down Mr. N.T. Donahoo, principal at Bandera Junior High School. Accusations have been made that tell only one view of a situation.

It's time for the other side of the coin. I am a secretary at Bandera Junior High School. I see former students and their parents returning uncounted numbers of times to visit with Mr. Donahoo. They appreciate the time he has made for them, the encouragement he has given, the long hours he has worked, the times he has worried about the right courses for them to take, the many games he has seen them play, the ankles he has wrapped, the rides given home because of missed buses, the evenings he doesn't get home until well past dinner time– I could go on and on. He is a person that cares about his students.

Mr. Donahoo makes countless decisions daily, not only who may or may not attend a field trip. Each decision is important to him although some must take precedence over others. This man works daily with 350 junior high age students. Some of us have trouble controlling one child. Multiply this by 350!

I see first hand each day what a difficult job he has and how well he handles it.

Not enough on bake show

Dear editor:

It seems that in your Jan. 15 paper, if you could find space to cover a kazoo band, you could also have found the space to do a better job of covering the 80-plus students who competed in the bake show as part of the county's (Junior Livestock) Show last Saturday. We are used to your poor coverage of events involving Medina students, but the students and buyers from the Bandera area were omitted also. Your minimal coverage of the show does little to encourage buyer participation next year. Extension agent Jan Bryson, the bake show director (Leanne Miller) and workers deserve better also.

Marcia Ingram
Medina

(Editor's note: The Bulletin last week devoted to Junior Stock Show coverage 45 photos, including eight of bake show winners and buyers, and a major front-page article continued on Page 3, and there is additional news of the show in this week's edition. We hope no buyer will be discouraged from participating next year because of that coverage.)

Geologists VS. Engineers

Dear Editor,

The Springhills Water Districts costly HDR engineering study is like a shallow well into gyp water. While the report is of questionable scientific value, it is a "management tool" as our water district claims – a political tool to gain favorable business conditions for special interests, such as HDR's interest in conducting more studies in the future as stated in their current report. So far, the work done by our water districts and their engineers is a salesman's pitch (at taxpayers expense) to lay the foundation for Springhills to become a big water sales and distribution business in the future.

Remember that we voted for the formation of a water district in order to protect our water from San Antonio, not to set the stage for inviting San Antonio in to consume it. Sounds far fetched? The genius of influence by development interests, those who have become accustomed to using other people's money and financial institutions (including government programs) that finance development interests are the keys to understanding what this is all about.

Who's fault is this flawed study? The engineers, our elected representatives, or us? What do we, as citizens, deserve when we do not participate in the public hearings that are provided? There were several hearings last fall concerning the HDR study with the engineers present to note public comment. Possibly there was not enough public input when it would have done the most good. Sadly, what comments and questions there were concerning the omissions of climatology, hydrology and geological data evidently fell on deaf ears.

Some fair considerations are due to the current Springhills board members who were not on the board when the water supply study was instigated in the fall of 1990. This year, our current board may be willing to take a hard look at the direction the water district is heading and consider making some course adjustments.

A good start would be in returning the water study to the engineers and requiring them to design for a possible future of stabilized demands, rather than larger consumption of water. Common sense programs such as brush control and small recharge dams to slow and absorb runoff can be expanded. HDR's wasteful proposal of purchasing expensive surface water now for some inflated projected need 30 years away should be rejected.

Respecting the needs and best interests of the current residents of this region is what its all supposed to be about. However, it will not happen unless more citizens decide to come forward and work with their government to insure that the historic uses and freedoms to water in this district are not impaired. Based on what we have learned about suburbia and cities in these last few years, very few of us want the kind of urban sprawl that some board members and the engineers from Austin would have us pay the way for.

Regretfully, our water district put the cart before the horse by hiring engineers first, instead of geologists. With a geology study, we would be farther ahead now in collecting data and understanding more about the county's various aquifers, and the quantity and quality of water to be expected.

A successful regional water plan, like any plan, must limit its own scope to the range of predictability of the data on hand. A weather report may be accurate on the near term; but the degree of accuracy decreases with the length of time in the forecast. Thus, the question which we must ask the planners is this: Are you honest with the facts at hand in you forecast or are you assuming the role of prophets?

Last week's puzzle.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – The U.S. Supreme Court may have brought Texas, screaming and kicking, into a new decade where two bona fide political parties will compete for independent voters.

Last week, the high court rejected the state attorney general's request to throw out federal court redistricting plans which Democrats fear will give Republicans a majority in the Texas Senate and close to one in the Texas House.

Ruling Blasted, Praised

Immediately, various Democrats loudly criticized the three-judge federal panel, the Texas Republican Party, and even their own leaders for misplaying their legislative cards.

"What the Republican Party failed to accomplish at the ballot box, they've engineered from behind the bench, cloaked in the black robes of Republican judges," said Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

But the Republican Party of Texas hailed the ruling.

"For the first time, we're going to have fair elections for the state Senate," GOP chairman Fred Meyer said.

The court's ruling means that Texas will be among the 11 states holding presidential primaries on Super Tuesday – March 10.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Dan Morales said he will continue his investigation into allegations that state Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio, assisted James Nowlin, a federal judge in Austin, in drawing the court's Senate plan.

Morales said he would not have made the investigation public and brought it to the Supreme Court's attention if Nowlin had not sealed the court's records detailing how it drew its maps.

Firsts in Speaker's Race

The race to replace Speaker Gib Lewis drew two historical firsts last week: the first woman and the first black candidates.

State Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, became the first woman to announce, closely followed by Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, the first black to seek the spot.

The rules reform movement seems to be all the rage with speaker candidates now, as the oft-criticized committee chairmen of Speaker Lewis now talk reform.

Judges Went Too Far?

U.S. Attorney General William Barr said federal judges went too far in trying to correct unconstitutional conditions in Texas prisons and will support efforts to remove court-imposed limits on prison populations.

State officials estimate 3,000 empty prison beds could be freed for use.

The population limit placed in Texas by federal judge William Wayne Justice prompted the early release of thousands of criminals from Texas prisons and spurred the Legislature to raise billions for new prisons with taxes and bonds.

New Ethics Commission

Some describe it as a "weak sister," but the new Texas Ethics Commission got a political football thrown at it right off the bat, nevertheless.

Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen, a watchdog group, asked members to regulate campaign contributions in the coming House speaker's race, and "fill in the gaps", of a traditionally loose structure.

Smith said the commission also should decide if outgoing Gib Lewis can continue to use political funds to pay legal expenses for his upcoming ethics trial in Austin.

Lottery Start-Up

State Lottery Director Nora Linares said she has mailed out more than 56,000 applications to retailers who want to sell $1 lottery tickets for the state.

Linares hopes to enlist 15,000 to 20,000 retailers in the next four months. The retailers will make a nickel on every dollar ticket they sell.

To receive a license, applicants must submit a $125 application fee, a set of fingerprints, and undergo a criminal history check.

Other Highlights

▪ Former Gov. Mark White resigned from the Hermann Hospital Trust board, the third trustee to do so amid a probe of trustee abuses. Media reports linked the Houston hospital's $245,00'0 meat purchase from financially troubled Granada Foods to White, a partner in the law firm representing Granada.

▪ State Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, challenged Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, to a "street bowl," to promote anti-gang and drug efforts. The bowl will feature community teams fielding questions about gangs, drug abuse and school drop-outs in a college bowl format.

▪ Some 25 House incumbents, or one-sixth of the membership, will not be returning to the Legislature.

▪ State Sen. Gene Green, D-Houston, candidate for a new congressional seat there, said he has plans for a national health care system which guarantees health insurance for all without a tax increase.

▪ The quasi-governmental Texas Workers' Compensation Insurance Fund said it now sells coverage cheaper than the assigned risk pool, the insurer of last resort.

▪ With $1.2 billion to build 12 new prisons, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice is getting proposals from several towns which would like one.

Audit

property is sold and the proceeds are distributed to the different agencies, including the sheriff's office, according to the contribution of each agency to the fund.

Under the current system worked out with commissioners, the sheriff receives a check from the district attorney or the federal Drug Enforcement Agency as Bandera's share of the revenue from a drug bust and turns it over to county treasurer Elizabeth James, who deposits it in a special account.

The sheriff submits a budget to the commissioners annually and submits purchase orders to buy equipment or pay overtime salaries of his employees from that account.

The commissioners have complained to Forest about what they term "excessive" overtime and they reached a compromise with him that any holiday or over-time pay for his employees be paid from the cash seizure fund.

That amount was $54,587.41, or 34 percent, of his expenditures between Sept. 30, 1990 and Sept. 30, 1991.

Tomlinson also criticized the sheriff's summarized budget. "The budget must be detailed and clearly list and define the categories of expenditures," Tomlinson quoted from the law.

Tomlinson said that even if the sheriff doesn't know his income on the account, which the sheriff doesn't, he said a "detailed budget for expenditures of known cash balances would exhibit proper planning."

Tomlinson also recommended that the sheriff also get commissioners' approval for any employee-related expenditure from the cash seizure fund. "The head of the agency (sheriff) may not use the existence of an award (money in the fund) to increase salary, expense, or allowance for an employee of the agency who is budgeted by the commission- ers court unless the commissioners court first approves the expenditure," Tomlinson stated from the law.

Tomlinson said that the commissioners should have approved the $10,292.81 spent on uniforms.

Other expenses by the sheriff from the fund include $38,174.15 for investigative expenses, $29,285.16 for equipment, $13,096.99 for repairs, $5,683.98 for training, $3,041.51 for telephone, $2,326.72 for supplies, $540.96 for dues and subscriptions, and $3,834.62 for other operating expenses.

Forest had no immediate comment about the audit, but said he wanted to study the audit and the law first.

Tomlinson also audited the jail's commissary funds and said the records were good and control of the inmate's personal funds were good.

The commissary fund is the account that the prisioner's money he has at the time of his arrest is kept and the prisioner can spend that money in the jail for specific items that can be bought from the commissary.

"Each expenditure is documented and upon release each inmate acknowledges receipt of unused funds by signing his ledger which becomes a part of a permanent file," complimented Tomlinson.

He did recommend that the deposit slip note each the amount of each inmate's deposit.

At Tomlinson's recomendation, the county will pursue a obtaining a computer program for jail administrator Tom Renton to use to help document the inmate's funds they use while they are incarcerated.

Tomlinson also audited Peace Justice Bonnie Tower's books and said they were good.

Sims

man, Concho, Coryell, Lampasas, Llano, McCulloch, Mills, Mitchell, Nolan, Runnels, San Saba, Shackleford and Taylor.

Counties or parts of counties that are in the district are Bexar, Blanco, Brewster, Comal, Crane, Culberson, El Paso, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Kendall, Loving, Medina, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Reeves and Terrell.

Sims will first have to take on state Sen. Temple Dixon of Sweetwater in the Democratic primary March 10, reports the state Democratic party.

The two Senators were put into the same district by the redistricting scheme.

Three Republicans have filed for Sims' seat: former mayor of Kerrville Charles Johnson of Kerrville, first-time state representative Troy Fraser of Big Spring, and Boerne Independent School District board vice president and former Fair Deats of Fair Oaks near Boerne.

Both Deats and Fraser currently live in Senate District 25, but the federal court ruling drops the residency requirement, thus allowing them to run for the post.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You heat up the day and the night as the week begins though by midweek, you need (you must have) precious R & R or else. You do manage to get some work done. The bad news or maybe the good news is you're up to no good AGAIN by the weekend. Have you considered taking an early vacation?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your creativity oozes from every pore this week, though you must look at a domestic issue as the week begins. For some unknown reason, we find you working hard, yes, very hard toward the weekend. Over the weekend, let a loved one take you away from it all.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You definitely have your priorities in line this week. And you are one of the few signs that seems to be grounded. Check out a long-term investment though you may need to mull it over. Laughter surrounds you later in the week. Count on a long and glorious weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may feel like the switchboard of life this week, since everybody needs to talk to you, get your advice, needs a phone number, etc. You short circuit later in the week. This is a time to make your needs top priority. You recuperate over the weekend to finish the weekend with a wallop!

LEO (July 23-August 22) You are the "personality kid" as the week begins (you are generally anybody) – however you need to take a look at the boring side of life midweek. You perk up again by the weekend and fizz (just like champagne) into the weekend. You don't have to go far to find the action. It's all around you.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You start the week on a down cycle but not for long. You become a veritable force to deal with by midweek. What's this? Your wish is another's command. Make the most of it; it's short lived. Before splashing into the weekend, check out finances. You may decide to play it low keyed.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Don't stand on ceremony as the week begins. However, step back and take another look. Some soul searching (as well as imagining how it feels to be another) takes you a long way. Toward the weekend, you beam into the social scene. Wherever you go, there's special magic all weekend long.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Make the most of a boss' focus on you. You could be nervous – or make the most of it. You have reason to celebrate midweek, and you'll do so until the weekend when reality hits. Seems as if you need to get a lot done and rather quickly at that.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Your creativity is high (and practicality low) as the week begins. You can't get a grasp on what's going on until someone tells you point blank. Pokes on work till the weekend when you find you're ready to socialize. Such highs and lows!!

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You are ready, willing and able as the week begins. Let another know where you're coming from. You're off on adventures through to the weekend when you must (alas) be responsible. Your more convivial side comes out. How you enjoy the lighter side of life, Capricorn.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Let another take the lead this week. (This is only temporary, since the sun is in your birth sign right now.) If you play follow the leader just right, by midweek you enjoy a real treat. Accept a more than appealing adventure (invitation) as the week ends. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, AQUARIUS.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You may be a little out of sorts this week. Plug into work and you even out. Let another seek you out midweek. Take their hand when they offer to take you down a new path. You close the week happy as a clam after you receive the rewards of a special partnership. Hmmm, not bad.

Medina lass competing for Hill Country crown

Reindeer and Leakey are the only communities of the 12 in the program which have no [illegible] practicing a dance routine, aerobic exercises, presence and composure in anticipation of the final event at the Fredericksburg High School Auditorium Feb. 8.

The winner will be awarded a scholarship to the college of their choice and becomes eligible to compete in state and national competition.

Organizers are soliciting donations to fund the scholarship portion of the award, which last year totaled $4,600.

Michael Mazurek

Local student Michael Mazurek named to attend Merchant Marine Academy

Michael Mazurek of Bandera has been nominated to attend the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., by U. S. Rep. Lamar Smith of San Antonio. He is a senior at Bandera High School, and is the son of Kenneth and Diana Mazurek.

Mazurek is one of 10 students in Smith's congressional district nominated to attend the school for merchant seamen and 57 nominated to attend four military academies.

Alex Wagner of Center Point, who attends high school in Hamburg, Germany, was nominated to attend the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Thirty-two of the nominees are from San Antonio, four each from Midland and New Braunfels, three from Kerrville, two each from Boerne, Canyon Lake, Sonora and Crane, and one each from Stonewall, Marfa and San Angelo.

Smith said he chooses his nominees based on the recommendations of two five-member boards consisting of community leasers from the district.

Nominations are only the first step in acceptance to the academies which may offer two or more students a position in the class of 1996. If accepted, students would begin this summer.

Your Basic Bandera

Peggy Tobin

Since before Christmas, it has indeed rained on the just and the unjust! It is tragic that some parts of Southeast Texas have begun to resemble the water-soaked deltas of Bangladesh, but perhaps we have all learned finally that building in the floodplains of rivers is not only wrongheaded but lethally foolhardy.

Aren't you relieved to realize that our Medina River bend around town, thanks to federal regulations, will never again be the site of death and destruction? The park and natural area, now assured, have turned the old negative into a big plus for all Bandera County and the Hill Country. Reports are that almost all the land in question now has been acquired.

With a sparkling sunny day now and then, we can begin to notice some bright spots in the local news while we wait for what will be a spectacular spring of wildflowers.

Thanks to a series of phone calls by Tim Tobin, a new organization to be known as Friends and Neighbors of the Tarpley Highway has signed up to keep trash off a four-mile stretch of the road — from the river crossing to Rudy Robbin's gate. Rudy's cowboy band will provide music at the kick-off barbecue to be given by Mary and Frank Anderwald at Twin Elm Ranch.

The new effort was inspired by a recent complaint to the editor of the Bulletin regarding the atrocious condition of county right-of-way. How about it, friends and neighbors of Highway 16 East? Jim Evans of Peachtree Ranch is already taking care of a long stretch of the Hondo highway! This place is getting to be festooned with plastic again!

We fell into conversation the other day with a tourist couple from Canada, who were parked in front of St. Stanislaus Church armed with their map of Bandera's historic landmarks. They said they have chosen Texas over Florida as a destination because the people are so friendly here. But they are put off by the slovenliness and litter in private yards as well as public spaces. We promised to tell you that they thought we ought to do better.

But on to other brightnesses — these showing up in the mailbox.

Karen Kitzman Jackson has another well-written and researched article in Texas Highways magazine, this one on the experience in Texas of Robert E. Lee. Karen has another year on her teaching assignment in Germany.

Linda Schott, honor graduate of Bandera High School, who went on to gain a Ph.D. in history, will be principle speaker at the Women and Texas History luncheon to be held in connection with the annual meeting of Texas State Historical Association in Austin, Feb. 27. Linda is now associated with the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Seaward Grant, Bungy's son and one-time star drummer of Bandera Bulldog Band, is the handsome groom in the wedding picture sent from Irving as a Christmas greeting. The beautiful brunette bride is Michelle. Mega-wishes for the best of everything!

Last but not least — are the bright and beautiful sights we can see as we go about every day, litter or no litter. The creeks and rivulets and rivers of the Hill Country are once again dashing along, clean and turquoise-blue. the water is going over the spillway at Medina Dam. The water politicians are off the hook for a little while!

French dances set

Sensual and elegant dances from the salons of the French Court will be the featured attraction of "Dances with Gambas" in the Great Hall at the Texas Boys Choir Building in Fort Worth Friday, Jan 31, Call 817-927-1722 for ticket information.

Money show set

The 34th annual Money Show will be held in Houston Saturday through Monday, Jan. 25-27,

The show is a marketplace of 120 coin dealers from throughout the United States. The event will include numerous educational displays.

'Ski Bandera' called a success

Organizers begin planning next year's party

By Bungy Ellington
Bulletin correspondent

A winning combination of [illegible] lots of enthusiasm helped make the first annual "Ski Bandera" event a huge success, with over 100 people attending, including [illegible] February-- probably Valentine's Day weekend. With the [illegible] found in abundance Sunday, the next event should prove to be even bigger, but the challenge will be to plan something that will provide even more [illegible]

Participants in the "Ski Bandera" event are busy figuring out [illegible] and in event an February-- probably Valentine's Day weekend. With the [illegible] found in abundance Sunday, the next event should prove to be even bigger, but the challenge will be to plan something that will provide even more [illegible]

The ambience was enhanced not only by the perfect weather, but by the wood smoke smell from the campfire, hot chocolate, spiced apple cider and plenty of beans and tortillas to eat.

The "skiers" were grouped in teams of four with names like "Horse-shoettes" (they had top billing, since the event took place at Patricia Moore's Horseshoe Inn), Buntucklans, Oddballs, Las Bonitas (all girl team) and more. The idea was for the team members to fit their feet into rope brackets on boards, then at the "Go" signal, the left feet of all four had to be lifted in unison, and then the right foot, in order to move forward. There was a lot of falling down all over each other and even more laughing. And you should have been there to hear the design improvement ideas for next year's event. Bigger and better skis, including some moon-glo pink ones, are planned.

Around the campfire, music abounded with guitars, mandolin and dobro-- and of course Bandera's newly formed kazoo band. Kazoo membership ranks swelled by three Sunday afternoon. The group is up and coming.

Rudy Robbins jumped in to lead them off, and what a leader he was with his guitar. He actually got the group harmonizing. "Begin with what you have," says Finch. Draw your [illegible] graph paper. Include permanent features, such as buildings and trees. Note [illegible] taking advantage of your property's assets and liabilities.

"Leave room for a 'whim garden,'" says Finch. "That place where you just have to try that exotic plant you see in the gardening catalog in the middle of January!"

Because of their high water and maintenance levels, principle two calls for appropriate use of turf grasses. Limit lawn areas to pathways, play areas and small open areas.

The third principle involves the prolific use of mulch. Mulch reduces water use, keeps soil temperature lower (combatting cotton root rot), reduces weeds, and keeps soil friable. Mulch is relatively inexpensive. The City of San Antonio Solid Waste Office [illegible] free, as does the Bandera Electric Cooperative.

Efficient use of water constitutes the fourth principle of [illegible] Plants of similar water needs should be planted together. New plants, especially natives, need more water until they are established, but then their water needs go down drastically.

Drip systems and automatic sprinkler systems need to be checked periodically to make sure they are working properly. "Don't water the parking lot," says Finch.

Many native shrubs and ground covers won't need watering once they are well-established except perhaps once or twice during the deep summer.

A fifth principle involves the selection of well-adapted plants. "Crape myrtles, irises, day lilies, antique roses, and native plants are all good selections," says Finch.

Exotics such as azaleas and hybrid tea roses will require a good deal of special soil preparation, maintenance and water and are not xeriscape plants for this area.

Soil preparation is the fifth principle. Herbicides may need to be used to kill grass when your convert large lawn areas to xeriscape. Flower beds and vegetable gardens need to be thoroughly tilled with four inches of compost or other humus mixed in.

When planting trees and shrubs, plant in native soil. Adding a lot of nutrients to the hole simply "forms a bucket in the soil, causing the plants to drown," says Finch. Add nutrients to the top layer of soil or mix it in the mulch, suggests Finch.

The final principle is maintenance. If principles one through six are followed, maintenance should be limited.

In spring of 1992, the Bexar County Extension Service will have a ground cover and turf grass experiment station open to the public on Jones Maltesberger at Loop 410 and Hwy. 281. People will be able to come by and see the various varieties growing, to help them plan their for their own needs.

A 26 page booklet titled "Xeriscape" by Gerald E. Jones is available from the Bexar County Extension Service Office, 1143 Coliseum Road, San Antonio, Texas 78219 for $3. It covers the seven principles in more detail, contains planning suggestions and lists of plants suitable for xeriscaping in this area.

The Bandera County Extension Service also has a pamphlet and a list of suitable plants for Bandera County.

Local ACS chapter plans Valentine Dance

The Sheriff's Posse Band will make music Friday, Feb. 14 at the annual Valentine Dance sponsored by the Bandera County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

"The tickets are only $3.50, so please plan to come," said ACS communications chair Meleese Rugh. "This popular event will be at the Cabaret."

The ACS group planned the dance and discussed other activities at their January meeting. The group meets on the first Monday of each month at 2 p.m. at the First State Bank.

"This is a very important film and can be made available to any organization," Rugh said.

TAFE sets reception for local vets

"America," performed by the Grace Lutheran Church children's bell choir, will highlight a Teach-In and reception at the Bandera High School library on Tuesday, Jan. 28 starting at 7 p.m. The event will honor local World War II veterans, and is sponsored by the Bandera High School chapter of the Texas Association of Future Educators (TAFE).

"The community is invited to hear our veterans present first-hand accounts of their war experiences," says BHS librarian Patsy Small. "To familiarize both the public and BHS students with major events of the war years, the library's collection of World War II books will be on display Jan. 22 through Jan. 31."

Those veterans not contacted who are interested in participating are asked to contact Small or TAFE sponsor Claire Roberts at 796-3753.

Local businessman Clarence Rhodes, owner of Rhodes Processing reported that a record 278 deer and wild hogs were processed at his establishment during the latest hunting season.

Rhodes said that the 278 animals represent the highest number that he has processed in one season.

Part of the proceeds from the "bumper crop" will help drill a new well at Camp Covenant, a church-affilliated summer camp operated by Rhodes and his family in Bandera County.

Groups from all around the state and also from other states use the camp, he said.

Anderson, Kneuper named by DAR for 'Good Citizen' scholarships

The Bandera chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution named a Bandera and a Medina high school senior as the recipients of their "Good Citizen" award Jan. 16.

Shannon Christine Kneuper of Medina and Colby Lee Anderson of Bandera will each receive a scholarship from the club.

According to DAR Good Citizen chairwoman Peggy Alanis, the club makes the award to one high school senior from Bandera and one from Medina each year.

The students are nominated by their teachers and the selection is made by their senior class.

The girls also wrote an essay on "American heritage and my responsibility for preserving it."

The essay judge, this year a local retired teacher, picked Anderson's essay as the best and Kneuper's as the runner-up.

Anderson's essay will be entered in the state DAR competition, says Alanis.

In Anderson's essay, she quoted Jean Jacques Rousseau who said that freedom is the power to choose our own chains.

From this, she said that freedom gave citizens the power to make their mark on history, by choosing what cause they would support. "Whether it be an environmental cause, or a government policy, or an opinion about their school or community," she said.

According to Kneuper, keeping the "American Dream" of freedom alive requires knowing the heritage and possessing a pride of the country.

Pride is as easy as standing at attention during the playing of the national anthem, not littering, and helping to clean up the highways.

In other action at the Jan. 16 meeting at the First State Bank, DAR members elected delegates to attend both the state conference in March and the continental congress in Washington in April.

Medina girl's 'grandfather' story published

'He was the greatest man I ever met,' Levesque says

(Editor's note: This story by Medina high school student Leanne Levesque was published in the January issue of High School Writers, a monthly magazine published by Writers Publishing Service, Inc., Grand Rapids, Mich. Publisher Donald [illegible] high school and language arts classes throughout the country."

By Leanne Levesque
Medina High School

My grandfather was the greatest man I ever met. He was my mother's dad. I don't think my mother learned to appreciate him until she was much older, though. We was a great father, husband, friend and preacher. He was the kind of man who helped anyone in need, physically, emotionally, or spiritually. Everyone I knew admired him.

When I was little I used to crawl up in his lap and he'd tell me the most interesting stories. As I grew older, I discovered they were stories from the Bible.

My grandfather was the only man I'd ever met who made learning fun. He made everything fun.

In my early teenage years we would sit under huge trees and discuss life. He would tell me how life was when he was young. He would compare the [illegible] of now and then. Today's, he would always say, are much [illegible] walks together and he'd talk [illegible] thank God he's where he worked so hard to be.

Even though he's no longer living, I've realized that he'll never be truly gone because the memories I have of my grandfather will never die, but will remain in my heart forever.

Since my own father never took any part in my life, my grandfather also played a fatherly role to me. I often envied my mother because she had him for a father. I used to dream I had a father like him. He taught me to take pride in myself and never to be ashamed of who I am and where I came from. He taught me to love myself as well as others.

Then one day he was gone.

I tried to convince myself that he wasn't gone, he just wasn't there. For some reason the fact that he wasn't coming back never even crossed my mind.

I didn't understand how a man as strong as he was could just leave the earth so quickly. It's true that death can sneak up on him like a thief in the night. For a long time I was mad at everyone and everything. I cursed God for taking someone so close to me. Now I [illegible] memories [illegible] remain in my heart forever.

VOTE FOR BOBBY JONES

FOR COMMISSIONER

Pct. #1, Mar. 10, 1992, Republican Primary

The Incumbent's Record:

Proposed and voted for one of the largest tax increases in six years and then denied it in The Bandera Bulletin.

From Commissioners' Court Special Meeting Minutes, Sept. 13, 1991, "The court passed unanimously a motion by Comm. Barker, seconded by Comm. Thompson to propose a tax rate of .3602, an increase of .0261 per $100 of taxable value or .0780% compared to last year. This voids the previous proposed rate of .3346, proposed on September 10, 1991, changes due to math errors and misinformation."

From The Bandera Bulletin, Nov. 15, 1991: "Bennie Barker announces for re-election." Quote from 2nd column, "I have voted consistently against the tax increases and will continue to do so, he promised."

FACTS REGARDING PCT. 1 FINANCIAL RECORD:

Debt Service (loans) as of Dec. 5, 1991	$60,777.33
Annual payments on Loans	$26,559.01
Interest Payable Annually on Loans	$ 2,213.35
Spent to Build Himself a Private Office	$ 7,256.17
He Budgeted for Road Paving in 1992, only	$17,000.00

Senior beauty, 70, to compete for title

Alsbury will travel to Grand Prairie for contest

By Patrick Ginnelly

When one thinks of retirement there is a picture of a relaxed and easy lifestyle free of juggling between family and work, a time to slow down after [illegible] the scenario that most will face in retirement but that is not the case for Ruby Alsbury. Now five years into retirement she intends to participate in a senior citizens' beauty pageant.

Alsbury, 70, will be a contestant in the Ms. Senior Texas America Pageant in Grand Prairie, Feb. 26-29. The contest, titled the "Age of Elegance," will showcase senior citizens from all over Texas.

"I got the idea from an advertisement in Mature, a senior citizens' magazine. I saw the article and it looked interesting to me. I'm a competitor so I decided to enter," said Alsbury, who lives in San Antonio but frequently visits the house she owns at Medina Lake.

According to Alsbury, the pageant consists of three events. An evening gown competition, an interview and a talent contest.

"The interview is really talking about your philosophy of life." She isn't positive about which talent she will perform in the contest but thinks she will do some type of Mexican hat dance. "I have one but I'd like to keep it a secret until the pageant," Alsbury said.

"I'm not sure about it, but I've started taking lessons and it's a lot harder than I thought because I can't bend the way that I should anymore," Alsbury said.

Alsbury is beginning preparation for the Feb. pageant. She is hoping to find some sponsorship from merchants in and around San Antonio to share the costs of her flight, evening gowns and other clothes for the four-day event.

"I've put out feelings to H.E.B., Montgomery Ward and Saks Fifth Avenue, but many of those companies are promoting education so I don't know what I'm going to do but it's going to be expensive.

"Alsbury will be the San Antonio representative in the competition and hopes to win and move on to the national contest later this year in Atlantic City.

Though she is not a veteran of beauty pageants, Alsbury has some experience in the area. In 1963 she entered the Miss Texas Pageant at the age of 43.

"It was so exciting to be in it and I made it to the semi-finals but I'm much more excited about this one," Alsbury said.

Although she has already [illegible] behind her she intends to perform in the contest she has other talents to fall back on. At 70 Alsbury maintains that the secret for longevity is to remain active in everything that she does.

"I do all kinds of things. I walk two to three miles a day, I swim each day and I do all kinds of dancing, tapdance and clogging but my favorite thing is to go roller skating," Alsbury said. "I still like to go."

Even though Alsbury had been retired from elementary teaching for five years, she still does some substitute teaching in all grades to stay active.

"Time is so important in teaching, you have to get the children motivated and that has to start at home, but teachers need more freedom in the classroom," Alsbury said.

She also keeps busy with her family and has just become engaged to a retired lieutenant colonel.

In between all of these activities Alsbury has time to devote attention to one of her favorite loves, her pets. She has two dogs, four cats and two goats and to top off the party, she has 150 catfish in her swimming pool.

"I had some goldfish and I no longer used my pool because I would swim at the YWCA so I put the goldfish in the pool and forgot about them, Alsbury said. "Several months later I notices that they had grown to develop a serious illness it can cost you all the money that you've saved or retirement. Then what can you do? Alsbury [illegible] save nothing in the bank down but today it seem like you have to spend everything you have just to stay alive. We spend so much on help to foreign nations I think that it's only right that we help the senior citizens."

Alsbury's children are behind her in everything that she does and she believes that being around young people is what keeps her young. She said she also feels that other senior citizens can also remain young by becoming involved in activities around the community.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Have you ever had the terrifying experience of running out of gas on a busy road or highway? There you are--hoping you can at least coast to the curb--with horns honking, people yelling or perhaps a policeman saying, "How come?"

Let's take this situation and think about the possible kinship between this traffic problem and the moral and spiritual situation many people find themselves in today. There are many people who do not have any power within themselves. They can be pushed and pulled around. As far as their own motive power is concerned they are helpless. Sadly, they have developed nothing which makes life go for them...

Beware of emptiness. Whether the emptiness is emptiness of thought, or emptiness of heart, or emptiness in life, be sure that it is just as unnecessary as for any of us with normal common sense to allow ourselves to run out of gas...

Springhills pursues BMA water purchase

Becker says board may be in negotiating position

By James Henry Frazer
Bulletin staff writer

The Springhills Water Management District board of directors is prepared to purchase up to 5,000-acre feet of water from Medina Lake from the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water District.

And board president Phil Becker said earlier this week that the district may be in a position to start negotiating on terms of a contract with the BMA by the first of February.

But they won't be negotiating to buy water right away, but for BMA to hold the option open for Bandera County until the county needs the water [illegible] to distribute it [illegible] Becker remains nebulous on the amount of water and when the district will request the water.

However, the BMA appears [illegible] time.

Within the Aug. 19 contract BMA negotiated with the Bexar Metropolitan Water District in San Antonio, Bexar Met will annually buy any water BMA does not use BMA's 65,000 acre-feet allocation.

The contract contains a clause that allows Springhills to buy up to 5,000 acre-feet of BMA's excess water — water that would go to Bexar Met if Springhills does not buy the water.

In a letter dated Nov. 6, Becker made the formal request to buy as much as 5,000 acre-feet of water, but made no commitment about when and how much, in line with the wishes of the Springhills board of directors.

In a response from BMA attorney Edmond R. McCarthy Jr., BMA asked Springhills to submit a written request "specifying the quantity of water desired and the dates SWMD anticipates commencement of diversion of said amount."

McCarthy confirmed that Springhills could ask for "staged" amounts of water — start by diverting a portion of the 5,000 acre-feet and increasing its diversion until the amount purchased reached 5,000 acre-feet per year.

"Please note that based upon my understandings of the recommendations of Springhills' engineering consultants (HDR Engineering, which performed the recent water study), that the full 5,000 acre-feet of water would not be required on an annual basis until sometime around the year 2030.

"Moreover, it is my understanding that between now and the year 2030, your engineering consultants have several 'predicted dates' on which increasing amount of the proposed allocated 5,000 acre feet per year might be required," says McCarthy.

If BMA charges Springhills the same amount as they plan to charge Bexar Met, the cost will be 17 cents for 1,000 gallons or $56 per acre-foot.

"The availability of the water is there now. The Bexar Metropolitan Water District will take it all if we don't," Becker said Thursday, Jan. 2, at a Springhills district meeting.

However, he also cautioned that the district was not planning any big expenditures at this time.

"We're going to try to buy Medina Lake water rights for a minimum cost, zero if we can achieve it."

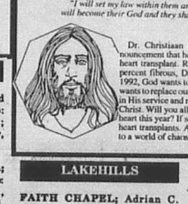
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Do You Need a New Heart?

"I will set my law within them and write it on their hearts; I will become their God and they shall become my people."
— Jeremiah 31: 33-34



Dr. Christiaan Barnard startled the world with the announcement that he had performed the world's first successful heart transplant. Replacing a diseased heart that was over 50 percent fibrous, Dr. Barnard put a new heart in its place. In 1992, God wants to give every one of us a heart transplant. He wants to replace our diseased hearts which have been lukewarm in His service and replace them with hearts set on fire for Jesus Christ. Will you allow God to write His new covenant on your heart this year? If so, then you will be one of God's successful heart transplants. And, you will be God's ambassador of love to a world of chaos!

Alzheimer's Disease—Understanding the Reality.

Alzheimer's Disease is not:
- A natural part of aging
- Easily diagnosed
- Covered by government or most private health insurance
- Limited to the elderly
- Currently curable

Alzheimer's Disease is:
- A progressive, dementing, fatal brain disease
- The fourth leading cause of death among adults in the United States
- The cause of more than 100,000 deaths annually
- A disease which knows no social or economic boundaries—it is found in all segments of the population
- An emotional and financial nightmare for victims and their families
- An economic time bomb for the decades ahead
- Potentially curable—with your support

Other lamb and sheep reserve champion exhibitors included Ray Hutcheson, finewool lamb; Denise Harp, finewool cross lamb; Joanne Harvey, mediumwool lamb; Cody Wells, Southdown lamb; Charles Kneuper, commercial finewool sheep; Bo Evans, commercial mediumwool sheep; Todd Nightingale, registered mediumwool sheep; and Misti Wells, registered finewool sheep.

Other champion goat exhibitors included Kathryn Miller, dairy goat; Rick Mayfield, Angora goat and registered Angora buck.

Other first place winners in the livestock show included Roxanne Walker and Jason Thigpen. First place winners in the lake show included Mandy Crowther, Cully Doyle, Naomi Jackson, Lacy Helmle, Megan Adamietz, Sara Campbell, Joe Baggot and Todd Knutson.

This year, there are a total of 72 rabbit entries, compared to 113 entries last year, in breeding rabbits, compared to 22 last year; and 52 market rabbit entries, compared to 90 last year. Other entries: market goats 34; sheep, lambs, breeding sheep, Angora goats 43; dairy goats 29; steers 16; breeding beef, 14 and breeding swine, 5; broilers 8; turkey hens 19; turkey toms 22; and shop mechanics projects 31, down from 52.

Carilee Robbins

'Carilee's menagerie' includes champions

Sixth grader Carilee Robbins is already a livestock show veteran, having shown animals since her first grade year. When she took grand champion honors with her turkey at the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show for the second consecutive year recently, it [illegible] and her family.

Carilee is the youngest of the five children of Telvy and Gloria Robbins, and the Robbins kids have been participating in the Bandera show since oldest daughter Leslie Lynn started showing animals in 1966. Chris, Jim and Lorri followed.

A tradition started years ago, Telvy says, is that the kids would start a bank account when the first animal sold at auction.

Carilee showed the reserve champion turkey in 1990, and that year she was named high point junior exhibitor. She also showed broilers, a hog, a lamb and two goats.

In 1991, in addition to showing the grand champion turkey, she showed other animals including rabbits.

She sometimes names her animals, "but not the turkeys," she says, grinning. This year, she took second place with her [illegible] will participate in the livestock shows in San Antonio and Houston, but she will exhibit different birds, mainly due to animal age requirements. She got her grand champion turkey in September, when it was a day-old chick.

Carilee's "menagerie" includes 30 turkeys, 40 chickens, seven dairy goats, two horses, six pot bellied pigs and numerous cats and dogs. Taking care of them all is no small task— they have to be fed and tended to morning and evening. But Carilee appears to be a dedicated animal-lover who plans to continue her successful career as a junior livestock exhibitor.

Local 4-Hers to help with SA tours

Some 18 Bandera 4-H members will be among the tour guides selected by the School Tours Committee during the upcoming San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo.

Feb. 5 guides include Debbi Falardeau, Heather Rowley and Marika Cook; Feb. 6, Falardeau; Rowley, Ashley Godfrey and Quinn Godfrey; Feb. 7, Reagan Bishop, Cody Doyle, Michelle Knowles and Jason Thigpen; Feb. 11, Lucy Campbell, Tracy Felten and Ryan Shipp; Feb. 12, Campbell, Penny Cudd and Lacey Sorrell; and Feb. 13, Brad Floyd, Becky White, Celeste Borchers and Kevin Munn.

New marketing director at Bandera Downs

Douglas "Bucky" Vair, 41, a native of Baltimore, has given up his own horse racing advertising and promotion business at Pimlico to come home to Texas and be the marketing director at the Class II track north of San Antonio.

Vair said he is familiar with all facets of media, having started out as a sports journalist at KVUE-Austin, sports anchor at KXAS in Dallas and radio talk show host. He has also worked in New Orleans in electronic sports media.

He has covered the Dallas Cowboys, Texas Rangers and the Olympics. He has even announced the Preakness, the second jewel in the thoroughbred racing Triple Crown.

He did radio and television commercials and a weekly television thoroughbred show on cable for his company in Baltimore since 1987 for the Maryland Jockey Club, i.e., the Pimlico Racecourse, and nearby Laurel Racecourse.

He also hosted a weekly radio talk show, "This Week in Racing," on WCBM and WFBR radio reaching the Baltimore-Washington D.C. market, innovated a weekend handicapping seminar at the track where fans got a close up look at the nation's leading racing personalities. Also also did televised [illegible] the morning line odds.

"I've done everything that can be done with media promoting horse racing," Vair said.

Vair said he became interested in horse racing when he was 10 years old after his grandfather took him and his family to [illegible] Calif. "I was enamored with the game.

"Horse racing is the most exciting sport for what I want out of sports as a spectator."

Vair says he sees horse racing and breeding as a major, clean industry in Texas that could have an eventual $1 billion economic effect on the state.

"I've been waiting to come back because Texas is on the threshold of a major explosion of the industry," said Vair. "I was born, raised and educated in San Antonio."

According to Vair, the state of Maryland did a economic impact study in 1984 and found that the horse racing and breeding industry was a $1 billion industry and created 20,000 jobs.

Horse racing had three times the effect on the state's economy than all the major and minor league professional sports in the state and those that draw crowds from the state. "The Colts, Orioles, Capitals and Bullets — football, baseball, hockey and basketball — (combined) had only one third of the economic impact as horse racing," Vair said.

Vair graduated from Southwestern University in Georgetown in 1971 and has been a horse owner-breeder since 1981.

County must meet EPA rules or close Medina landfill in 1993

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners have known that the Medina landfill's days were numbered, but the state has finally told them how many days [illegible] the landfill prior to Oct. 1, 1993, or apply to upgrade the landfill to stringent Environmental Protection Agency guidelines.

Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer and the commissioners have ruled out the possibility of keeping the almost full landfill open or expanding it.

The state has made the [illegible] ation of a landfill too expensive for a rural county to maintain one.

Minimum requirements that will be in effect Oct. 9, 1993 include covering the landfill each day, installing a leakproof liner in all new trenches, drill test wells to monitor for pollution of the groundwater, and provide for monitoring and maintenance of the landfill for 30 years after it is closed.

According to a letter from the Hans J. Mueller, the Texas Department of Health Bureau of Solid Waste Management director for surveillance and enforcement, commissioners must notify the state by June 1 of their intentions.

In closing the dump, commissioners must "submit a closure plan and a schedule of closure activities to implement closure," writes Mueller.

Commissioners were in agreement Monday, Jan. 13, to close the dump and pursue an alternative so citizens in the Medina and the west end of the county would have a place to take their trash.

One option, the easiest to implement, would be to set a [illegible] garbage Gobbler trash compactor in Medina, similar to the one in Bandera and Lake Hills.

Another option is to contract with one of the bidders that sought the city of Bandera's garbage disposal contract.

Mauer said he is still pursuing a regional landfill with other counties around Bandera as a solution in case the landfills in Bexar County, where Garbage Gobbler takes the trash, are closed.

Mauer said he fears that the city of San Antonio will persuade the Texas Legislature to [illegible] district in Bexar County, and that district would control and [illegible] limit the dumping of out-of-county trash in Bexar County.

A spokesman for Garbage Gobbler has said that if the Bexar County landfill becomes unavailable to Bandera County, other options are available.

Mohair extravaganza set in Kerr County center

The World Mohair Extravaganza will be held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 24-25, in the Hill Country Youth Exhibit Center in Kerrville.

The tribute to the Angora goat industry will feature the world series of goat shearing, sheep dog exhibition, trade show, demonstrations and fashion show of fine mohair garments.

Lakehills store has new owners

The Lakehills Variety Store and More has new owners and they report they will have a grand opening just as soon as they can get their craft merchandise into the store.

J.D. and Shirley Wootan bought the store from Mary Biedermann just a few days before Christmas and just a few days before the flooding that eventually filled Medina Lake.

"We bought the store in good faith and an empty lake," says Shirley Wootan. "With the lake up, it is a bonus.

"I'm seeing people coming out that I haven't been her in two or three years."

Wootan says they wanted to have a crafts store, but weren't sure the retail traffic in the Lakehills area would bear the load of a crafts-only store.

But the variety store merchandise will be their "safety valve" whenever the crafts move slow to keep them in business.

She says they had been selling their crafts at shows, but wanted a permanent place to show their wares.

The Lakehills American Legion will host a Las Vegas Night Saturday, Jan. 25, with some changes that might will make the event easier to attend for patrons.

The necessity of advanced reservations is out, a reduction in the price for beer and other drinks is in, and players can get more play money if they want to.

The event will start at 6 p.m., with playing ending at 9 p.m. and an auction of prizes at 9:30 p.m.

The price per person is down to $5 from $15, reports spokesman Tony Kruse.

The $5 will get a player $5,000 in play money to bet at the gaming tables. If he or she is unlucky and loses most or all of it and wants to try again, another increment of $5,000 in play money can be had for another $5.

Games to try are Black Jack, stud poker and beat the dealer. The craps table won't be on the slate this time, however, as the usual Legion craps table operator will be gone during the event.

What will be available is Pia Gow poker, a game that Kruse says is sweeping Las Vegas. "You have to stand in line to get to the table in Vegas."

The game involves playing two hands, one or seven cards and one of five. "You have to lose with both hands to lose and to win, you have to win with both hands. Otherwise you tie," says Kruse.

The dealer will be able to qualify the worst and help the players set their cards up in the best hand, says Kruse.

After the games, the prizes will be auctioned off.

The first five prizes will be held in the blind, and players will have to bid on the prizes without knowing what they will get.

The intent of the blind bidding is to give those persons who didn't win much a chance to get a prize. Kruse says that he expects the "high-rollers," those that did all the winning, will hold back from the blind items and wait to bid on items they can see.

Some of prizes donated or collected include a ceiling fan, complete set of dishes, lady's handbag, crock pot, complete set of cookware, coffee pot and a blender.

The bar will be open and setups will be available.

The ladies auxiliary will have the kitchen open with snacks and finger food available.

Advanced reservations will be taken, but those that show up at the door, can purchase their tickets there.

To get an advance ticket, mail $5 in check to the American Legion, care of Tony Kruse, P.O. box 397, Lakehills. Kruse will mail back their ticket good for admission and the $5,000 in play money.

Call Kruse at 751-2121 for more information.

The event will benefit the Legion's building fund. Kruse says the Legion plans to construct an open-are pavilion on some newly acquired property.

The Lady Bulldogs played the strategy game to perfection Tuesday night as they won the proverbial squeaker by a point, beating Cole 43-41. The win advanced the Lady Bulldogs to 15-6 overall and 3-0 in district play.

In the nightcap, Cole's boys defeated Bandera, 81-51, despite a 17 point scoring effort by Lee Jenkins. The Bulldogs knew they were in trouble when the Cougars began substituting late in the first quarter.

With the Cole girls keying on Lisa Wharton, the Bandera guards fed the ball to Niki Rouch under the basket for the easy 2 point shot. When the Lady Cougars turned their attention to Rouch, Lisa took the ball [illegible] assists from the guards for the field goal. Niki led all scorers with 17 points, while Lisa finished the game with 12.

The Bandera girls again turned the theft of the basketball into a big part of the game, scoring 14 points on 12 steals.

"With our opponents defense concentrating on Lisa, it leaves our younger players to carry the offense and they are." Says Coach Young.

After a low scoring 3rd period [illegible] for Bandera and [illegible] for Cole, the Bandera girls [illegible] to a 6 point lead 39-33.

With Bandera holding a razor-thin 41-40 lead and :52 seconds left in the game, thoughts of the 2 point loss last week to Randolph were definitely [illegible] on the second tied the game at 41-41.

Whistles punctuate mismatch with Tivy

A storm outside seemed to follow the Bulldogs into the gym.in the form of frustrated play and technical fouls.

Curiously enough, the T's began not with the Bandera team, but from the boys from the big school up north.

The referee's assessed two technicals against Tivy for obvious "Oscar-Myer" (as in hot-dog) play, such as grabbing the rim after a successful field goal.

The Bulldog's frustration at not being able to score against an obviously superior team led to a pair of T's being called against them in the second half.

Quick whistles from the ref's brought the game back in perspective for both teams.

By the end of the third period the Bulldogs acknowledged that overcoming a 51-point deficit in 8 minutes is impossible..

The Bulldogs actually had a 2- point lead, 6-4, at 5:12 of the first period before Tivy cranked up its long-distance shooting.

Antlers popped three from outside the 19 foot line for 9 points and added an additional 3 with a bonus shot after a foul on a field goal and it was good-bye Dogs.

Ricky Gard led the Bulldogs in scoring with 14 points and Scott Thomas scored 8. Tivy's Eric Allen paced all scorers with 30, with team-mates Perkins with 15 and Duncan roaming the home side of the bleachers.

A two-shot foul by the blue and white team sent the green and gold's best free-throw shooter to the line with the

There will be two shotgun starts, at 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The tournament will kick off a promotion by radio station KKYX in San Antonio to raise funds for the Children's Hospital. The station will broadcast live from the golf course from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m.

Entry fee is $40 per person, which includes the green fee, a cart, scoring, attendance prizes, and a fajita dinner,

A 1992 GMC pickup will be awarded to anyone who makes a hole-in-one on a specific hole to be announced.

Medina Lake fishing report

Jan. 16

Water in Medina Lake is clearing and catfish angling is good, with fish up to five pounds being caught on nightcrawlers and shrimp, the Texas Wildlife Department reported this week.

White bass fishing has been fair, with fish to 1 1/2 pounds being taken on L'il Georges in the river area.

Fishing has been slow for black bass, striper and crappie.

Public Notice
On October 4, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Southwestern Bell) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) that proposes a new optional service called DigiLine℠ Service. The application was assigned Docket No. 10655.
DigiLine Service uses a 144 Kbps facility, typically divided into two 64 Kpbs B Channels and one 16 Kbps D Channel to provide access to and from the public switched telephone network for circuit-switched voice communications. DigiLine Service also provides transmission of circuit-switched data and packet-switched data within the customer's service office area only. This service allows the simultaneous transmission of voice and data over a single residence or business telephone line from a serving office equipped for DigiLine Service.
The monthly recurring charges for DigiLine Service consist of three major rate elements: Basic Interface Facility ($19.00); Basic Interface Equipment ($12.00); and, an Integrated Services Network Component for each B Channel (rate varies from $1.90 to $7.25 per B Channel depending on the customer's class of service and location.) Other charges may also be applicable depending on the options requested by the customer.
DigiLine Service operates only with compatibly-equipped FCC Part 68 registered equipment. The service will be offered initially in the following exchanges and within the following serving offices:

Exchange	Serving Offices
Dallas	Fleetwood, Richardson, Riverside
Austin	Fireside
San Antonio	Capitol, Medical Center
Houston	Clay, Medical Center

DigiLine Service may be furnished in other serving offices in any of the above exchanges in combination with foreign serving office charges. In addition, DigiLine Service may be available in other exchanges upon a customer's bona fide request. A bona fide request is a written request for service. Upon receipt of the bona fide request, Southwestern Bell will conduct an economic analysis to determine the financial viability of offering the requested service.
Southwestern Bell expects DigiLine Service to generate first-year revenues of approximately $236,000.
Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this docketed proceeding should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but not later than by February 10, 1992. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at 512-458-0256. The telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) number is 512-458-0221.

The event is held to honor those in the community who contribute most to the growth, quality of life and promotion of Bandera County.

Conoly, who is chairman of the Bandera County Convention and Visitors Bureau, also co-chaired this year's Hunter's Barbecue. In accepting the award, Conoly said the honor really belonged to his grandmother, Billie Crowell, who won the award in 1983. Her father, William "Dad" Whitley, founded the Dixie Dude, a Bandera institution, in 1936.

Aside from the chamber, Holland is a director of the Silver Sage Corral senior center board. She also works with the Helping Hand distribution center, the Extension Homemakers clubs and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Cotton Griffin was awarded the Directors' Award for contributing the most to further the aims of the chamber in promoting Bandera County. Griffin, a retiree from Texas City, announces all of Bandera's parades. He also cooks the sausage for the Hunters Barbecue.

The Business Community Service Award was given to Boyle's Enterprises, and Johnny and Holly Boyle accepted the award. Boyle's Enterprises includes Boyle's Market, True Value Hardware Store, Star Video and other local businesses all of which are built in western architecture to enhance Bandera's western image.

New directors elected to the chamber include Dave Koehler, Johnny Boyle, Patricia Moore, Frank Anderwald and Billy Walker. Other directors include Janett Moore, Joel Evans, Kay Camp and Robert Stubbeman. Officers include president Janett Moors; vice president Billy Walker; and treasurer Kay Camp.

The Mexican theme of the banquet was carried out with margaritas and authentic south-of-the-border cuisine. After the awards were presented, the honorees and guests were serenaded by a mariachi band playing authentic Mexican music.

Party primaries scheduled March 10

Early voting period to begin Feb. 19

The date is set: the Democratic and Republican primary will be March 10 and the early voting period starts Feb. 19.

The last day to register to vote is Sunday, Feb. 9.

The decision by the U.S. Supreme Court Jan. 16 cleared the way for the Texas statewide primary to be held as scheduled, keeping Texas as part of the 12-state Super Tuesday presidential primary.

Texas state officials had asked the highest court in the land to reverse an Austin three-federal judge panel's decision to throw out the Texas Senate redistricting plan passed by the January special session.

The U.S. Supreme Court turned down the request without comment, keeping the primary from being delayed by another attempt to redraw the Texas Senate and House lines.

Bandera County Democrats and Republicans voting in person during the early voting period, formally called the absentee voting period, will cast their ballots at the Bandera County Clerk's office beginning weekdays Wednesday, Feb. 19, reports Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates.

Early voting ends Friday, March 6.

Persons that need a mail-in ballot can apply to the clerk's office. Bates says she needs information including a signature, voter registration number, address, and whether they are a Democrat or a Republican to mail a ballot.

The deadline for registering to vote is Sunday, Feb. 9, but according to a spokeswoman for the Bandera County tax-assessor collector's office, the voter registration office in the county, they will accept mailed voter registration applications that are postmarked through Monday, Feb. 10. Persons who wish to walk into the office to register must do so by Friday, Feb. 7.

In the March 10 primary, Bandera County Republicans will have from three to five locally contested races on their ballot depending on their precinct and Democrats will have none in the upcoming primary election.

On the Republican side, they have to chose a nominee in the sheriff's race — between James MacMillan of Lakehills and Marc Sultan of Pipe Creek.

Two Republicans vie for county attorney: Kerry Schneider and Sam Darden.

Republicans will have to choose between Gary Johnston and Janet Cave for county chair.

Other races include county commissioner nomination precinct 1: Bennie Barker, Bobby Jones and Michael Jewett.

Also, county commissioner precinct 3 between Preston Jennings and Louis Vannatter.

In local voting precinct chair races, two Republican voting precinct posts are contested. Mildred Rader and Judy Dunn will vie for the top political voting post in precinct 3 and Richard Thornber and Roger Raser will compete for the voting precinct 5 post.

Bandera is added to Turner's District 73

January special session creates 16-county House district

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

If you'd grown attached to Tom Cate as the Texas House Representative from Bandera or were hoping that Bandera was redistricted into Harvey Hildebran's district, then you're out of luck.

Bandera County is now in a 16-plus county House District 73, currently represented by Robert Turner of Voss.

As a result of the January special session of the Texas Legislature and the Austin three-federal judge panel's decision, Bandera will be in District 73, which consists of Bandera, Brown, Coleman, Concho, Menard, Mason, Llano, Kimble, Edwards, Real, Crockett, Sutton, Schleicher, Crane, Upton, Ward and voter-district 408 in southern Ector County.

Turner had been elected to District 65, which was Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, McCulloch and Runnels Counties, in a special election in March to replace State Representative Jim Parker. Parker resigned his seat to become Gov. Ann Richard's legislative liaison.

Turner describes himself as a ultra-conservative Democrat. He is a sheep raiser, retired as a Lieutenant Colonel and is in the Army Reserve, with 35 years total service. He is a former school board president and has served on the his local school board for 17 years.

He is the executive director of the Coleman County Economic Development Company, past president of both the Coleman Chamber of Commerce and the Coleman County Farm Bureau. Turner served five years on the board of directors and one year as vice president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Turner was named outstanding rural citizen by the Coleman Chamber of Commerce in 1990.

Turner is currently a member of Gov. Ann Richard's newly formed Health Care Task Force and presently chairs the National Animal Damage Control Advisory Committee for the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

"I am extremely concerned about rural Texas, the unique problems that are ours, the lack of representation and voice rural residents have," says Turner.

"Further, I am very interest-

In the March 10 primary, Bandera County Republicans will have from three to five locally contested races on their ballot depending on their precinct and Democrats will have none in the upcoming primary election.

On the Republican side, they have to chose a nominee in the sheriff's race — between James MacMillan of Lakehills and Marc Sultan of Pipe Creek.

Two Republicans vie for county attorney: Kerry Schneider and Sam Darden.

Republicans will have to choose between Gary Johnston and Janet Cave for county chair.

Other races include county commissioner nomination precinct 1: Bennie Barker, Bobby Jones and Michael Jewett.

Also, county commissioner precinct 3 between Preston Jennings and Louis Vannatter.

In local voting precinct chair races, two Republican voting precinct posts are contested. Mildred Rader and Judy Dunn will vie for the top political voting post in precinct 3 and Richard Thornber and Roger Raser will compete for the voting precinct 5 post.

Bandera is added to Turner's District 73

January special session creates 16-county House district

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

If you'd grown attached to Tom Cate as the Texas House Representative from Bandera or were hoping that Bandera was redistricted into Harvey Hildebran's district, then you're out of luck.

Bandera County is now in a 16-plus county House District 73, currently represented by Robert Turner of Voss.

As a result of the January special session of the Texas Legislature and the Austin three-federal judge panel's decision, Bandera will be in District 73, which consists of Bandera, Brown, Coleman, Concho, Menard, Mason, Llano, Kimble, Edwards, Real, Crockett, Sutton, Schleicher, Crane, Upton, Ward and voter-district 408 in southern Ector County.

Turner had been elected to District 65, which was Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, McCulloch and Runnels Counties, in a special election in March to replace State Representative Jim Parker. Parker resigned his seat to become Gov. Ann Richard's legislative liaison.

Turner describes himself as a ultra-conservative Democrat. He is a sheep raiser, retired as a Lieutenant Colonel and is in the Army Reserve, with 35 years total service. He is a former school board president and has served on the his local school board for 17 years.

He is the executive director of the Coleman County Economic Development Company, past president of both the Coleman Chamber of Commerce and the Coleman County Farm Bureau. Turner served five years on the board of directors and one year as vice president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

Turner was named outstanding rural citizen by the Coleman Chamber of Commerce in 1990.

Turner is currently a member of Gov. Ann Richard's newly formed Health Care Task Force and presently chairs the National Animal Damage Control Advisory Committee for the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

"I am extremely concerned about rural Texas, the unique problems that are ours, the lack of representation and voice rural residents have," says Turner.

"Further, I am very interest-

He wants positive substance

Dear Editor:

Bobby Jones placed a political ad in the Bandera Bulletin recently that is grossly misleading and a direct attack on (Bandera County Commissioner) Bennie Barker. We all deserve clean political campaigns and should expect no less.

Mr. Jones should be telling the voters more about himself and presenting positive substance to tell what he plans to do for our county if elected.

I for one would like to know more about him and especially his qualifications before I cast my vote. I only know at this point that he is a retired sergeant from some branch of the military who can't seem to decipher county budgets and court minutes on proceedings and procedures properly. That definitely is not a plus for anyone seeking a county commissioner's position.

I know he initiated a tax rollback and circulated a lot of false and misleading information. The manner in which he accomplished it caused a lot of hard feelings throughout the county and caused him to be left out of the (Bandera Association of Concerned Taxpayers') elections for officers.

He was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Lakeshore VFD board of directors and resigned a short time later in a fit of anger after telling the board and members that they didn't know how to run their fire department.

His latest "accomplishment" was another appointment to fill a vacancy on the tax appraisal board. When the election came around a short time later, he lost out and received only one percent of the total votes, which leads me to wonder if Mr. Jones doesn't have a serious problem with administrative ability and in public relations.

I have personally observed Commissioner Barker working with the road crews and in several instances he was on the business end of a pick and shovel. I've also seen him operating some of the equipment and although I'm not an expert I believe he knows building and road maintenance.

I haven't made any decision about who I will vote for in any part of this election yet, but unless Mr. Jones can change his negative pattern, run a clear campaign, tell us about his experience in building and repairing roads and protecting our interests I will take him out of consideration.

Bring your tank, take a drive...

Dear Editor,

I'd like to invite anyone who owns a tank to take a nice little ride down the Mayan Road (especially after a rain).

I live out in the country off the Mayan Road. We travel this road several times a day. Please go from where the road starts at the river (Mayan Ranch end) to where the road ends at the Tarpley road. This road is ruining our vehicles.

The workmanship done on this road is a joke. It will look pretty good right after it's done, but the first sign of rain and we have a rutty mudhole. It is dangerous at times. Whoever is doing this work needs to go back to school to learn the correct way to fix a dirt road. It seems that each effort to repair this road just makes it worse.

It is my understanding that County Commissioner Bud Thompson is responsible for getting this job done properly. This past year has been the worst that I can recall.

Mr. Thompson, please take the time to ride down the road and I think you'll decide it needs some serious help. I realize that the population on this road isn't huge, but we are all important voters too. Paving would be wonderful, if your budget allows this. If not, it needs something done badly. Please take time out of your busy day, decide what needs to be done and have it done, please. We don't want our vehicles ruined. It doesn't take long for a bad road to ruin a new vehicle. Give our road the help it so desperately needs.

Thanks to a good Samaritan

Dear Editor:

Many thanks to Henry Mesa of Pipe Creek who stopped to help my wife when she ran out of gas last week. She was on her way to San Antonio and was about five miles from San Antonio when this happened. Though it was raining, he stopped and took her into Helotes for a can of gas.

This was already more than most people much more. He took her and the can of gas back to the stalled car where he poured the gas into the tank and helped get the car started. Next he followed her back to the station again to finish filling the car's tank. Finally, he pumped the gas into the car's tank. We were [illegible] the gentleman.

He turned what could have been into a very unpleasant and even dangerous situation into a very pleasant one. Henry Mesa was truly helpful when so many of us hesitate to get involved in such a situation. We wish to publicly thank him for his help and kindness that day.

She thinks JP got 'bad rap'

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my personal defense of Justice (of the Peace) Bonnie Towers, having read a couple of "bad raps" about her in the (Letters to the Editor section of the) Bandera Bulletin. I have recently had two occasions requiring Ms. Towers jurisdiction and was impressed with her professional, caring and prompt handling of both matters. She has my vote!

Student approves of Donahoo

Dear Editor:

I am a student at Bandera Junior High School and I am president of the sixth grade student council. I am (like some other people in our community) very tired of reading letters disapproving of the way Mr. Donahoo handles matters at our school. He has helped the student council plan and organize fund raisers, recycling projects, parties, dances and much more. Not only has he helped the student council but he has helped all of the students on countless occasions. Long after most of the students and teachers have left, Mr. Donahoo checks around the school to make sure that everyone has been picked up. I have seen many times when he has given a student a ride home or to where they could meet their parents. Not only does Mr. Donahoo have a family at home, but his students and staff are also his family. He really cares about us.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – A Rio Grande Valley district judge ruled last week that Texas discriminates against Mexican-Americans in college funding and gave legislators 16 months to find a remedy.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock reversed his call for a state income tax, saying he would not work for a tax increase next session.

In other events last week:

▪ House Speaker Gib Lewis pleaded no contest to two minor charges and paid $2,000 in fines, in exchange for prosecutors dropping two ethics charges on which he faced trial this week.

▪ The National Women's Political Caucus toured Gov. Ann Richards as a potential candidate for vice president; Richards pushed the wreath away again, but rumors persist she wants it.

▪ Former Gov. Mark White resigned from a Houston hospital board and his law firm in the wake of a conflict of interest scandal and personal financial problems.

Judge Overrules Jury

In striking down the Texas university aid college funding system as unconstitutional, Judge Ben Euresti Jr. said it denies Mexican-Americans equal opportunity.

Texas Atty. Gen. Dan Morales, who unsuccessfully defended the state, afterwards said he also thinks the state discriminates against minorities in its funding system.

The jury determined Texas didn't give Hispanics equal access to the University of Texas and Texas A&M, but found no discrimination against Hispanics in distribution of higher education funds.

Euresti overruled the jury on the discrimination question.

The ruling, issued in a lawsuit filed by League of United Latin American Citizens, comes at a time when many state officials believe the Texas Supreme Court will soon throw out the Legislature's reform of public school finance.

Unhappy with federal judges who rewrote the Legislature's redistricting law, Gov. Richards lashed out last week against judicial meddling, and included a warning to Texas Supreme Court justices that the Legislature may let them write a new school funding law if they strike the reform.

Lost Tax Dollars?

In case that happens, some of the state's largest businesses sought relief to insure the return of school property tax dollars they expect to pay by Jan. 31.

But State District Judge Scott McCown took only 15 minutes to reject their request to delay collection and use of those taxes.

State law holds that once a tax is paid, it cannot be refunded; the pre-empory challenge to the new tax might get businesses past that stopper.

Homeowners and businesses which paid school property taxes in '91 in order to receive a federal income tax deduction will lose the tax money, even if it is declared collected illegally, income tax deduction will be out of luck.

Lewis Avoids Trial

Speaker Lewis took the no contest deal to avoid the public embarrassment of a trial, and 18 months jail term if found guilty, but afterwards he claimed to have been railroaded by political foes.

The indictments against Lewis came out of a probe into lawmaker-lobbyist relationships by Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle.

Last week, Earle said the probe, which cost thousands of tax dollars, was worth it because Lewis was finally removed from office. "The clear winner is the public," Earle said.

Earle, an Austin political fixture, was elected chief prosecutor in the '70s when Gov. Ann Richards served as a Travis County Commissioner.

Bullet Train Gift Slapped

Texas Railroad Commission chairman Lena Guerrero, a Richards appointee, came under heavy fire last week for accepting $10,000 from a partner in the bullet train syndicate which last week won a $5 billion state contract.

Dallas oilman Barry Williamson, her Republican opponent, said she should "give a complete accounting of all contributions she had asked for or gotten from high-speed rail interests."

Guerrero said the gift did not influence her vote, that she had gotten political contributions from project opponents, and that "Unlike Mr. Williamson, I do not have the personal wealth to draw on to finance my campaign."

Other Highlights

▪ Watchdog group Public Citizen asked the Texas Ethics Commission to monitor political gifts made by lobbyists to candidates for speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

"Some of the most .....outrageous rulings have been here in Texas," he said, urging tougher punishments for lawbreakers.

▪ The man sentenced to death for raping and killing an elderly nun, who was given a 30-day reprieve by Gov. Ann Richards, will get a pardon and parole board hearing this week.

The prosecutor, Potter County DA Danny Hill, accused Richards of pressuring the board into granting a commutation.

▪ Gay rights activists asked the State Board of Education to require public school textbook publishers to reveal homosexual and bisexual historical figures.

"Lack of rural understanding of our rural problems so we've got to overcome that needs to be overcome if rural Texas is to survive. There generally is a willingness on the part of urban legislators to support [illegible] if they are educated in the needs and concerns of rural Texans, says Turner.

Turner is married to the former Ann Holt of Santa Anna. The couple have three grown sons and two daughters-in-law.

Turner will run unopposed in the Democratic primary.

He will face John Petsch Brelsford in the November general election. Brelsford is running unopposed in the Republican primary.

Hildebran of Kerrville, said he was hoping he would get Bandera County in his district, as he has business interests in the area.

Hildebran will be in District 53, which includes Kerr, Gillespie, Kendall, Blanco and Burnet Counties.

Hildebran hopes that the lines could be redrawn in the future to allow him to represent Bandera County.

Medina and Frio Counties are now part of District 43, which also includes Uvalde, [illegible] Counties and part of Webb County.

Cate has filed for re-election to District 43, which is now comprised of Atascosa, Wilson, Live Oak, McMullen, Duval and Zavala Counties.

A spokeswoman for Cate's office, Chris Richardson, said the Representative was disappointed that he could not keep Bandera County. "Our current area had a good mix (racially) of people. We had rural farming and a community of interest.

"Now our district goes down to Alice and Hebbronville," said Richardson.

Cate will continue to represent Bandera County at the state level until 1993.

"Even though we were unsuccessful in our attempts to keep District 43 intact during the redistricting process, I will continue to represent the citizens of Medina, Bandera and Frio Counties through Dec. 1992, the end of my current term," said Cate.

Sheriff taken to hospital

Bandera County R.S. "Steve" Forest [illegible] after a late Friday night operation for a ruptured hernia.

Forest estimates that he'll be out of the sheriff's office for at least a week.

According to chief deputy James Kimbrell, Forest was in pain Friday afternoon and was taken to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville Friday evening by his son.

He was on the operating table until midnight.

Forest was released from the hospital Monday afternoon.

"The doctor tells me I can't drive or get out of the house for a week," said Forest Tuesday morning.

"I'm not jumping very high," he joked.

He said he's had the hernia since a 1946 motorcycle accident.

County appraisal district to swear in new members

Three new members of the Bandera County Appraisal District will be sworn-in at the district's first meeting of the year, Thursday, Jan. 30, beginning at 5 p.m.

Current Bandera Independent School District president James Wagner, former BISD vice president Ken Vakey, and Norris Warner of Pipe Creek, all elected by BISD trustees, will be sworn in and join re-elected members Gary Johnston and Louise Karr.

The election of officers from among the board members will follow.

Directors will received building, financial, appraisal review board, computer system and the Texas Association of Appraisal Districts conference reports.

Directors will also approve the appointment of agriculture advisory board members.

Directors will vote on the approval of the aerial photography contract and discuss the district's holiday schedule for 1992 and personnel policy manual.

The directors will meet in executive session to discuss "ratification of the chief appraiser's employment contract and pending litigation," the agenda states.

The meeting will be held at the appraisal district's office on the Bandera Junior High Campus at the end of Ninth Street.

Republican HQ to open Feb. 1

The Bandera County Republican Party will open its headquarters in downtown Bandera Saturday, Feb. 1, at 11 a.m.

The headquarters will be open Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is located in the Family Dollar building, reports party chair Gary Johnston.

As the March 10 primary approaches, the headquarters is expected to be open on weekends.

County won't maintain roads

Bandera County will not be taking over the maintenance of roads in the River Bend Estates subdivision, despite the hopes of at least one resident.

Bandera County commissioners were thrown into a state of confusion Monday when representatives of the River Bend Estates property owners association complained that the county could not take over their roads.

But the flap arises from one person jumping to conclusions after talking with a commissioner from a different precinct than the one she lives in.

River Bend Estates association vice-president Cliff Larned said he was told that the commissioners were planning to re-work and re-pave the subdivision's roads.

Larned pointed out to the commissioners that when county sued George Day, Linda Smith and Marvin Richardson in 1985 over the size of the subdivision lots, 216th district judge Robert Barton ruled that the county "shall not be required to accept any roads within the River Bend Estates..." and "such roads shall hereafter be maintained as private roads at the sole expense of the owners of the lots in said subdivisions, or any homeowners' association..."

Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer confirmed that it would be "illegal" for the county to take over the roads. "We'll go on record that we have no intention of taking over the roads."

Larned said that a resident of the subdivision had talked with Barker of Wharton's Dock and that he supposedly told her that the county could take over the five miles of road in the subdivision and bring the roads back into shape for $17,500.

Barker said Tuesday that he had simply talked with the unnamed resident and told her the going rate for county road re-working/re-paving, without implying any commitment.

The county apparently was caught between an ongoing conflict between a few property owners and the majority, represented by the property owners' association.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Stay focused on the "bigger" picture this week, and you won't be disappointed. Your imagination knows no limits and can create the wildest of scenarios. Of course, you could use this energy at work. For the weekend, you're wall-to-wall smiles. You get what you want, or you're just about to.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make the most of those magnetic rays that flow nearly the whole work week. Make special time for one-to-one chats. There's time for daydreaming after midweek (the material comes from the beginning of the week). You need to be responsible this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rest up while you still can. Midweek sees you the most sought after sign in the zodiac. Later in the week, you begin to come to terms with a partnership — an intense phase with many side benefits. You function best this weekend on a one-to-one level.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are the epitome of sensuality and creativity as the week begins. Too bad, because by midweek you must get down to the nitty-gritty (like work). Try to get some snooze time in because you're in demand again all weekend long. Relish it.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Focus on the priorities in life as the week begins. Don't worry about fun and games — they do fit in midweek. Count on being taken care of and adored this weekend. You don't have to lift a finger. Someone knocks on your door, another calls ... always in demand, Leo.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Work on your communications this week, and you'll be much happier. Look inside for answers midweek — by the weekend you could be living a charmed life. Ask and you shall receive. Your positive attitude works with a flirtation, and you're likely to feel very fulfilled!

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Watch that needy, possessive side — it can backfire on you. Some feedback midweek gives you new insight (notice how hot someone is on your trail). You have a hard time stabilizing with all the attention. Simply enjoy what is being offered to you, especially this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You are the epitome of desirability ... at least as the week starts. Insecurity suddenly hits later in the week, and you find yourself jealous and coveting (yes, you). Openness alleviates the problem later in the week. Nestle in this weekend with a favorite person.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Get needed rest as the week begins because by midweek you are so busy (and happy), you want to cram new hours into each day. By the weekend, you settle down, but you're still so happy, you may want to indulge the entire universe. Everyone should have a week like this.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You start the week focused on your friendships and what you want. Someone throws a boomerang your way midweek and it causes you to rethink your priorities. By the weekend, you give up on all the analyzing and throw caution to the wind. As a result ... What a weekend, lucky you!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Accept what is and you'll be much better off. As the week begins, this could look like being another's slave (this too could be fun). Midweek, you are the main shackle of the party — your friends are up for play. And for reasons unknown, you disappear this weekend. Oh dear.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You may have a hard time this week getting practical, but then, when don't you? The only hint of escape (touching base with life's lighter side) comes later this week. An early weekend has you happy as a clam, feeling in touch with all those in your life. The party goes on.

Ride will loop through county over the weekend

The Cowboy Capitol Trail Riders will hit the road to the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo Monday, Feb. 3.

The trail riders will be riding [illegible] the weekend, but will parade out of Bandera Monday morning at 9 a.m.

As many as 50 riders are expected, trail boss Frank Anderwald says.

Riders will assemble at the Twin Elm Ranch arena Saturday starting at 8 a.m. and they'll hit the trail for Tarpley at 9 a.m.

They'll stop for lunch at Marilyn Dean's Ranch and stop for supper at Howdy's Hilltop in Tarpley. The group will camp out at the Tarpley Community Center.

Sunday morning the riders will hit the trail at 8 a.m. for the Hill Country State Natural Area and stop for lunch at the park. They'll camp at the Twin Elm Ranch after an evening party at the Bandera Econo Lodge.

The ride to San Antonio will get started Monday at 9 a.m. from the Loughorn Saloon in Bandera.

The riders will hit the trail Tuesday at 8 a.m. and stop for lunch at the Hill and Dale at Loop 1604.

They'll trailer the horses that afternoon and drive to the Joe and Harry Freeman Coliseum and camp on at the coliseum camp grounds that night.

The trial riders will meet other trail riders for welcoming ceremonies Wednesday morning and trail bosses, queen and some riders will participate in the rodeo grand entry Wednesday night.

Harrall, 15, enjoys riding, dancing and spending time with family and friends.

She is the daughter of Donnie and Helen Hamilton of Bandera.

There are 11 other trail rides that converge on the 43rd annual stock show.

"Trail riders are living memo- [illegible] that settled Texas, and to a way of life that was once [illegible] and romantic," says stock show spokesperson Deanie Putnam.

Some of the riders and organizers are expected to participate in the Cowboy Breakfast Friday at Central Park Mall in San Antonio before saddling up for the ride Saturday morning, says Anderwald.

The stock show will begin Wednesday, Feb. 5.

Patti Drew

Bandera girl to reign over Laredo Trail ride

Bandera County's own Cowboy Capitol Trail Ride has its own Bandera County queen, but one of the other 11 trail rides to the San Antonio Stock Show had to come to Bandera to find their queen.

She has been the 1990 Bluebonnet barrel racing senior champion and the 1991 senior reserve champion and the 1991 Bandera Youth Rodeo reserve champion in the senior division. She has also been the MCAEC trail ride queen.

Drew attends Bandera High School.

She says she wants to attend college and be part of a rodeo team program.

Drew says the people on her ride are friendly, fun, family-type and all look out for each other.

She also enjoys football.

Drew and the other riders will depart Laredo Thursday, Jan. 30, and ride through Encinal, Cotulla, Pearsall, Lytle and into San Antonio.

Re-Elect
BENNIE BARKER
County Commissioner, Precinct #1
In the Republican Primary Election
March 10, 1992

Dear Friends,

With the election season close at hand we will be subjected to a lot of political advertising. Please bear with me in correcting the political advertisement by an opponent that makes some untrue and misleading implications.

* It was implied that I lied about my record of voting against all property tax increases when in fact that is precisely what I have done. The quote in the ad said I voted for one of the largest tax increases in six years. The truth is that we voted to consider a new rate after Judge Mauer informed us that previous revenue projections were not accurate and we were facing a shortage of approximately $3,000. A public hearing was scheduled to consider the new rate. After considering it, I voted against it anyway because I believe that by applying cost reduction programs, eliminating duplication and cutting services if necessary, we can prevent the annual increases.

* It was implied that I had built "a private office for myself" using $7,256.18 of county funds. We did build a carefully budgeted and debt free 24' by 30' Road Maintenance Shop Building because ours was sold several years ago. As a result we now have a place to store our tools and supplies to prevent them from "walking off." We have a telephone and recorder so you can call us at any time about road problems and we can respond quickly. I am working as a full-time commissioner as I promised to do. I go to work with the crew each morning, I supervise them directly and it is producing good results. We have a time clock, inventory and purchase controls, equipment and preventative maintenance programs and other cost saving and improvement techniques that help us to get the most out of your tax dollars.

* It was implied that I was spending too much on equipment loans when in reality we are spending less than 20% of our total budget to replace old smaller capacity equipment with larger, newer equipment that eliminates down time, reduces operating costs and increases efficiency. The annual equipment loan payout will drop by more than half when the big item, a diesel powered Catepillar track loader is paid off in FY 92-93. It was badly needed to properly accomplish proper repairs and paving.

* It was implied that we had a deficit of $24,094.66 as of Dec. 31, 1991. Certain County financial reports showing cash balances each month often reflect cash flow shortages in precinct budgets at the first of the year as tax revenues are slow in coming in after the holidays. We paved several miles last October which contributed to the cash flow shortages. Anyone having knowledge of budgets is aware deficits occur when you spend more than your budget allows. We are within the budget, folks. We had a $7,000 surplus last year and hope to have more this year as I continue to work full time to improve our county roads and reject county property tax increases. While the "tax watchdog" is doing all the barking, I have been biting the bullet to spare you from any more tax increases. A majority coalition on the court should turn it around and I will continue to lead that effort.

* It was implied that I only budgeted $17,000 for paving in 1992. That was all the money for paving that was available. It will go a long way since we acquired our own paving equipment. We are paving more miles of road than was ever before possible at a savings to our taxpayers of more than $10,000 per mile compared to contracting for paving.

I believe my many years in the heavy construction industry building roads and bridges and over 2 1/2 years maintaining and improving your county roads has been of great benefit. Please lend me your support in Republican Primary and the General election so we can continue our progress in paving and improving your roads and eliminating the annual property tax increases. Please do not hesitate to call if you have any questions or need assistance.

Sincerely,

Bennie Barker

To The Citizens of Bandera County

In reply to the article 1/22/92 "Invoices Missing: Auditor" I would like to let the people know the complete picture. First, no money is paid out of any account unless a Purchase Order has been issued. The purchase order describes what is being purchased and has the signature of the employee making the purchase. There will be times when no invoice is attached to the purchase order for various reasons. First, if we are getting money to make a drug buy in an investigation, clearly there will be no invoice. As in all purchases, however, there will be a purchase order, but the name of the drug user or the name of the undercover person will not be on the purchase voucher. To divulge the name of the people in these instances would be to place their lives in danger.

When I took office there was no system on purchases except to have them charge it to the County and send the bill to the treasurer. I feel that the purchase order system is a big improvement and is used widely.

In reference to Financial Records that would show an interlocal agreement and show money being transferred from one Law Enforcement Agency to another are missing. This is true, because the Sheriff does not have the authority. This is done by our District Attorney. When we have a case seizure, it is turned over to the District Attorney. He makes the decision as to how the money is to be allocated or divided. He writes the agreement, then the ones that are involved sign the agreement. All the Sheriff gets is a check in the mail for that particular operation. The District Attorney has these records and he is the person responsible for distribution of the funds.

A monthly statement is given at the end of each month showing where every penny was spent and what it was for. A complete audit trail is available on all expenses and there are no funds missing...

Before my taking office as Sheriff in 1989, Felony type cases, ie: burglaries, murders, sexual assaults, arson, etc., were primarily worked/investigated by the Deputy that originally took the call. This call was primarily that officer's responsibility to follow up on. Overtime was being closely monitored by County Commissioners Court. This action resulted in a situation where cases could not be adequately worked. Also, along with a shortage of Deputies.

When I took office I immediately recognized this problem and implemented a Criminal Investigation Division to handle the investigation of all Felony cases. Forfeiture and seizures of Drug money was being accomplished by this department and other agencies. My deepest concern was for the citizens of the County of Bandera. Therefore I elected, with the approval of the Commissioners Court, to pay Officers and other personnel overtime and Holiday pay (whenever required) out of the Cash Seizure Fund. The positive results of this action has shown a drastic decrease in major crimes. In burglaries alone this county had only 168 occurring in 1991, compared to 320 burglaries in 1989. This shows a 47.5% reduction. We have also had numerous individuals sentenced in District Court for burglary alone.

In reference to the comment on the summarized budget, this Drug Seizure money is for Law Enforcement use only and this has been strictly adhered to. In the past I have submitted an annual budget, to the Commissioners Court, showing the balance of the seizure money and also showing a percentage of that money that I would spend, in the fiscal year, in order to keep my Department upgraded and operating in a professional manner. However, in the future, I will provide a detailed list and categories of expenditures that I foresee for that fiscal year. I must emphasize that I have always supplied a detailed list, at the end of the year, showing where all monies have been spent.

In reference to Mr. Tomlinson's opinion that the purchase of uniforms should have been approved by the commissioners, Mr. Tomlinson has misinterpreted the statute. Mr. Tomlinson quotes that the money can't be used "to increase salary, expense or allowance for AN EMPLOYEE of the agency who is budgeted by Commissioners Court unless the Commissioners Court first approves the expenditure." We contacted Brock Stevens Assistant U.S. Attorney (Northern Dist.) about this expenditure. Brock Stevens is one of six Attorneys with the "Texas District and County Attorney Association" who actually drafted and had this "quoted" statute passed into law. Brock Stevens advised that standard equipment (including uniforms) does not need the approval of Commissioners Court. He advised that, if each Deputy received a "uniform allowance," from Commissioners Court, the Sheriff would need Commissioners Court approval to increase that allowance. That situation did not exist. The Commissioners Court budgeted $700.00 to buy uniforms for the whole Department in fiscal year 1990-1991. For the fiscal year 1991-1992 the Commissioners Court completely took away the uniform allowance leaving a zero balance.

Along with this letter, I have submitted my annual report which clearly shows and defines the accomplishments of my deputies and staff. The money that has been spent on upgrading the Department equipment and training of personnel has saved the taxpayers, in Bandera County, a considerable amount of money while providing them with professional and dedicated Law Enforcement.

I want to thank the citizens of Bandera County for their support, and hope to continue to receive your support in the future.

...And so begins the introduction to the wonderful stories by James Herriot. James Herriot grew up in Scotland and after attending Glasgow Veterinary College, moved to Yorkshire, England, in the 1930s to begin his practice. Yorkshire, a land of hills and dales and lonely moors is the largest county in England and one of its chief agricultural centers. Herriot's books have been enjoyed by millions of readers over the years and include: All Creatures Great and Small; All Things Bright and Beautiful; All Things Wise and Wonderful; James Herriot's Yorkshire and The Lord God Made Them All.

We have now added two new titles to our collection (both in large print) for those of you who may have missed his previous books or simply want to re-read these marvelous stories about his life practicing veterinary medicine. It Shouldn't Happen to a Vet and If Only They Could Talk are both ready to take home and read for your enjoyment.

Children are also in for a real treat! Individual stories taken from Herriot's books have been written and beautifully illustrated for young readers! The stories captivating and they can be enjoyed by children of all ages. Titles include: Moses the Kitten; The Christmas Day Kitten; Only One Woof; The Market Square Dog; Oscar, Cat-About-Town; Bonny's Big Day; Blossom Comes Home; and our very latest, Smudge, the Little Lost Lamb.

Our Children's Story Time is off to a super start. We had 21 eager children attend this week!

To The Citizens of Bandera County

In reply to the article 1/22/92 "Invoices Missing: Auditor" I would like to let the people know the complete picture. First, no money is paid out of any account unless a Purchase Order has been issued. The purchase order describes what is being purchased and has the signature of the employee making the purchase. There will be times when no invoice is attached to the purchase order for various reasons. First, if we are getting money to make a drug buy in an investigation, clearly there will be no invoice. As in all purchases, however, there will be a purchase order, but the name of the drug user or the name of the undercover person will not be on the purchase voucher. To divulge the name of the people in these instances would be to place their lives in danger.

When I took office there was no system on purchases except to have them charge it to the County and send the bill to the treasurer. I feel that the purchase order system is a big improvement and is used widely.

In reference to Financial Records that would show an interlocal agreement and show money being transferred from one Law Enforcement Agency to another are missing. This is true, because the Sheriff does not have the authority. This is done by our District Attorney. When we have a case seizure, it is turned over to the District Attorney. He makes the decision as to how the money is to be allocated or divided. He writes the agreement, then the ones that are involved sign the agreement. All the Sheriff gets is a check in the mail for that particular operation. The District Attorney has these records and he is the person responsible for distribution of the funds.

A monthly statement is given at the end of each month showing where every penny was spent and what it was for. A complete audit trail is available on all expenses and there are no funds missing...

Before my taking office as Sheriff in 1989, Felony type cases, ie: burglaries, murders, sexual assaults, arson, etc., were primarily worked/investigated by the Deputy that originally took the call. This call was primarily that officer's responsibility to follow up on. Overtime was being closely monitored by County Commissioners Court. This action resulted in a situation where cases could not be adequately worked. Also, along with a shortage of Deputies.

When I took office I immediately recognized this problem and implemented a Criminal Investigation Division to handle the investigation of all Felony cases. Forfeiture and seizures of Drug money was being accomplished by this department and other agencies. My deepest concern was for the citizens of the County of Bandera. Therefore I elected, with the approval of the Commissioners Court, to pay Officers and other personnel overtime and Holiday pay (whenever required) out of the Cash Seizure Fund. The positive results of this action has shown a drastic decrease in major crimes. In burglaries alone this county had only 168 occurring in 1991, compared to 320 burglaries in 1989. This shows a 47.5% reduction. We have also had numerous individuals sentenced in District Court for burglary alone.

In reference to the comment on the summarized budget, this Drug Seizure money is for Law Enforcement use only and this has been strictly adhered to. In the past I have submitted an annual budget, to the Commissioners Court, showing the balance of the seizure money and also showing a percentage of that money that I would spend, in the fiscal year, in order to keep my Department upgraded and operating in a professional manner. However, in the future, I will provide a detailed list and categories of expenditures that I foresee for that fiscal year. I must emphasize that I have always supplied a detailed list, at the end of the year, showing where all monies have been spent.

In reference to Mr. Tomlinson's opinion that the purchase of uniforms should have been approved by the commissioners, Mr. Tomlinson has misinterpreted the statute. Mr. Tomlinson quotes that the money can't be used "to increase salary, expense or allowance for AN EMPLOYEE of the agency who is budgeted by Commissioners Court unless the Commissioners Court first approves the expenditure." We contacted Brock Stevens Assistant U.S. Attorney (Northern Dist.) about this expenditure. Brock Stevens is one of six Attorneys with the "Texas District and County Attorney Association" who actually drafted and had this "quoted" statute passed into law. Brock Stevens advised that standard equipment (including uniforms) does not need the approval of Commissioners Court. He advised that, if each Deputy received a "uniform allowance," from Commissioners Court, the Sheriff would need Commissioners Court approval to increase that allowance. That situation did not exist. The Commissioners Court budgeted $700.00 to buy uniforms for the whole Department in fiscal year 1990-1991. For the fiscal year 1991-1992 the Commissioners Court completely took away the uniform allowance leaving a zero balance.

Along with this letter, I have submitted my annual report which clearly shows and defines the accomplishments of my deputies and staff. The money that has been spent on upgrading the Department equipment and training of personnel has saved the taxpayers, in Bandera County, a considerable amount of money while providing them with professional and dedicated Law Enforcement.

I want to thank the citizens of Bandera County for their support, and hope to continue to receive your support in the future.

Robbins, Cargill married in fall evening ceremony

Lorri Jean Robbins and Craig Stanton Cargill were married Saturday, Sept. 7, 1991 in a fall evening double ring ceremony at the Bandera United Methodist Church with the Rev. Jerry Hall officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Toby and Gloria Robbins of Bandera, and the groom is the son of Sue Stewart of Del City, Okla. and John E. Cargill of Oklahoma City.

Soft candlelight with evergreen accents decorated the church sanctuary, with English ivy and white carnations adorning the several candelabra. A brass archway with iridescent plum bows and English ivy graced the entrance to the sanctuary.

Wedding music on the organ and piano was provided by Karen Zickler, with special vocal and guitar selections by Mark and Genie Wright. The mothers of the bride and groom lit the family candles before being seated.

Maid of honor was Lisa Nieft of San Antonio. Bridesmaids were Leslie Follett, sister of the bride and Lynne Robbins, sister-in-law of the bride, both from Sweeny; Gayla Adams of Bandera and Brenda Newcomer of Douglas, Ariz. Junior bridesmaid was Carilee Robbins, sister of the bride, from Bandera. Flower girls were Megan Largent, niece of the groom, from Oklahoma City; and Robbin Follett, niece of the bride.

Mark Ashworth of Oklahoma City served as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Murray of Edmond, Okla.; Jeff Largent, brother of the groom, and Mike Burnett, both of Oklahoma City; and John Williams of Yukon, Okla. Ushers were Chris Robbins of Sweeny and Jim Robbins of Dallas, brothers of the bride; and Chris Key and Kevin Gibson both from Oklahoma City. Brothers of the bride also served as candlelighters. Ringbearers were Jeffrey Largent, nephew of the groom, and Ryan Follett, nephew of the bride.

The bride's bouquet included white and sterling silver roses,, white heather, baby's breath, pearls and tulle accents. The bride presented her mother and the groom's mother each with a single red rose.

The bride's attendants wore iridescent plum tissue taffeta gowns featuring a fitted sweetheart bodice, scalloped neckline and puffed, gathered sleeves. They carried round nosegay bouquets of sterling silver roses, white carnations and baby's breath accented with iridescent streamers.

The flower girls wore ankle-length dresses of white gingham cord accented with purple baby cord bows. They carried dainty white wicker baskets containing white and lavender rose petals.

The groom wore a white full dress Pierre Cardin tuxedo with tails, with a white and lavender rose boutonniers on the lapel. The ring bearers were dressed in similar white full-dress tuxedos with tails, pillows decorated with wedding lace, bridal ribbon and small dove rings. All the male attendants and the father of the bride wore black cable full dress tuxedos with iridescent plum ties and matching cummerbunds. The father of the groom and the step-father of the groom were black tailored suits, and all the men wore single lavender rose and baby's breath boutonieres.

Special wedding guests included the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Rudolph Mueller of Nordheim; grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Marion Sorrenson of Bethany, Okla.; God-parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. John G. James and Mr. and Mrs. Al Heep, all of Bandera; and the groom's brother and sister-in-law Steve and Terry Largent, and their children Kyle, Casie, Kelly and Kramer of Tulsa, Okla.

Following the ceremony, a dinner-dance reception was held at the Farm Country Club, and the guest table attendant was Cammie Burger of Medina.

The bride's cake was four-tiered with circular cakes around the bottom. Miniature purple flowers and ribbon decorated each layer, and a flowing purple fountain enhanced the bottom layer. Serving the cake was Mrs. George Flores of Medina, who also made the bride's cake. Elizabeth James and Jean Heep served the punch.

A special feature of the cake was the top decoration which was made by the bride's sister, Leslie Follett, as a gift to the bride and groom. It had a western-style bride and groom with a rope surrounding them, signifying "tying the knot."

The groom's cake was made of German chocolate, and was designed in the shape of the states of Texas and Oklahoma, representing the couple's pride in their respective home states. On top of the cake was a Texas longhorn with a "UT" brand on its hip, pulling a replica of a "Sooner Schooner," going from Texas into Oklahoma. Serving at the groom's table were Janet Scharfe of Austin and Beth Anne Henrichs of Lockhart, cousins of the bride.

A Mexican fajita dinner was served to approximately 300 guests who also later danced to the music of "The Sevilles" of Austin. Starting the dancing festivities was a grand march led by Leslie and Mike Follett, sister and brother-in-law of the bride— a first for most of the Oklahoma guests. The grand march concluded with the double ring around the bride and groom and they danced their first dance, "Drift Off To Dream."

After a week's stay in Jack Tarr Village Resort in Nuevo Vallarta, Mexico and an intermediary stay in Fort Walton Beach, Fla., the couple is living in Oklahoma City.

County zeroes one debt, $1.1 million left to pay

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County made the final payment on a 17-year old road improvement bond during the last quarter of 1991, a report from the county treasurer's office shows.

But while that $300,000 debt has been zeroed out, the county still has a total of $1,147,794 in bonded indebtedness to pay off.

According to county treasurer Elizabeth James, the county road bonds issued in 1974 have been paid with the final payment totalling $20,635.

The result will be a reduction in the county road bond tax next year.

The bonds were used primarily to buy right-of-way along State Highway 16, FM Road 3240 and FM Road 337. The money was also used to replace fences that were taken down when the roads were expanded by the state highway department.

The next road bond to disappear is the 1976 issue of road bonds. The $2'5,000 bonds will be paid off in March 1995, according to the present schedule, says James. The county still owes $175,000 on those bonds.

Those bonds were also used to purchase right-of-way along Highway 16 and FM 337.

The largest debt held by the county include the 1981 issue of "Permanent Improvement Bonds" with a balance of $670,000. Those bonds were used to build the jail and to make improvements on the courthouse.

Other bonds owed by the county are a 1989-purchased John Deere motor grader with a balance remaining at $31,728.15, a 1990-purchased paving equipment bond at $20,000, a 1990-purchased used tractor trailer at $13,333.34, a 1987-purchased motor grader at $5,000, a 1987-purchased John Deere tractor-loader at $1,638.14.

Bonds outstanding for commissioners' precinct 1 include a 1988-purchased loader with a balance of $23,200, a 1990-purchased Chevrolet dump truck at $12,978, a 1991-purchased used dump truck at $10,000, a 1990-purchased new pick up at $8,999.33 and a 1989-purchased water truck $5,600.

Bonds outstanding for commissioners' precinct 2 include a 1991-purchased tractor-loader-boom mower with a balance of $31,714.92, a 1988-purchased vibratory compactor $9,713.62 and a 1989-purchased dump track $2,833.35.

Bonds outstanding for commissioners' precinct 3 include a 1989-purchased dump truck with a balance remaining $10,500.

Bonds outstanding for commissioners' precinct 4 include a 1991-purchased new John Deere motor grader with a balance of $81,555.60, a 1990-purchased loader at $24,000 and a 1991-purchased used dump truck at $10,000.

Bandera VFW re-dedicates post

The Bandera Veterans of Foreign Wars Post home on Montague Drive in Bandera was renamed to honor one of Bandera County's oldest veterans Saturday, Jan. 4.

The O.J. Clark Memorial VFW Post 9176 of Bandera was officially re-dedicated in honor of Orange Judd Clark in the brief ceremony conducted by post commander Bill Brown.

Clark, who died in 1990 at 3 1/2 months short of his 100th birthday, had been the oldest living veteran in Bandera County.

He was the son of Bandera pioneers Amasa and L. Clark.

Refreshments of coffee and cookies were served by VFW Auxiliary members after the ceremony.

Horse psychologis tBob Allen

He can train horses by 'understanding instincts'

Kerrville horse psychologist Bob Allen says he can train horses in minutes using psychology.

"Horse psychology is understanding a horse's natural-born instincts and learning how to use these instincts to develop a direct line of communication to horse and rider," he explains.

He says he has worked with horses at Bandera Downs and at most of the guest ranches in the area as well as owners of pleasure horses in the area.

Allan says he can eliminate any problem from any horse, anywhere, anytime, and he can do it in minutes and hours, not weeks or even months that it takes a traditional trainer.

"Ultimately, the professional trainer might not even get results or correct the problem, even though he uses fear and gimmicks," Allen said.

Owners bring their colts and problem horses to Allen's clinics and seminars to learn how to communicate with their horses, he says.

"I help bridge the gap between the silent world of the horse and the verbal world of the human," he says.

He has worked with a diverse group of horsemen ranging from veterinary students at Cornell University in New York to international polo players in West Palm Beach, Fla.

He also works with race, ranch, rodeo, dressage, and hunter-jumper horses.

He and his wife, Tammie, live in Kerrville, and they have a son, Lynwyatt.

Johnson will end his campaign

The seat is currently held by Democrat state Sen. Bill Sims of San Angelo.

Johnson told the Kerrville Daily Times that family and personal concerns were at the heart of his decision to take his hat out of the ring.

Johnson's name will be on the ballot along with first-time state representative Troy Fraser of Big Spring, and Boerne Independent School District board vice president and former Fair Oaks city councilman Jim Deats of Fair Oaks.

The winner of the Republican nomination March 10 will take on either Sims or state Sen. Temple Dixon of Sweetwater.

The two Senators were put into the same district after the new Texas House and Senate lines were drawn as a result of the 1990 census.

'Great Outdoors' set to feature Bandera

Wild hog, turkey and deer hunts in and around Bandera County will be featured in upcoming episodes of ESPN's "Great Outdoors" show.

A deer hunt with Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Randy Tomlin is scheduled Feb. 15 at 7:30 a.m.

"We hope this will stir up interest for Bandera," said Bandera County Chamber of Commerce vice president Billy Walker. "These were very exciting hunts, particularly the hog hunt.

Bandera cable customers may view the program on channel 23, and Lakehills channel 13.

Vannatter resigns from Springhills district

Springhills Water Management District director Louis Vannatter of Medina resigned from his water district post so he could run for Republican nomination for Bandera County Commissioner precinct 3.

Vannatter gave no specific reason for resigning from the board in his announcement, but recommended three men as possible replacements: Gilbert Scheele, Jerry Sides, and Chip Landry.

Jerry Sides is a water driller. He also repairs and installs water well equipment.

Chip Landry is in the agriculture business.

On Monday, Feb. 10 Bobbye Burkhart will instruct a class on painting designs on sweatshirts. Bobbye will furnish the Tri-Chem paints and you need to bring a sweatshirt that has been washed. This class will have a very limited enrollment. Call the center and sign up for this interesting class.

Sue Lowe of the Kerrville State Hospital needs volunteers to serve some "booties" for the residents of the hospital. These "booties" are made of terry cloth with an elastic top. The pattern and alb material will be provided, all we need is you serving and skills. We need about 100 pairs as soon as possible. Let us know if you can help by calling 796-4969.

The February Pancake Breakfast will be on Monday the 4. This is a very popular fund raiser for the center and we would like to see uyou there. The orange juice will be cold, the coffee hot, the pancakes, bacon and sausage cooked to preparation, and the best part is that you can eat all you want for a small donation of $2.50.

A recent vacancy on the board of directors has been filled by Marti Redman. Marti and her husband Travis are no strangers to the center. Mary Garcia has accepted the responsibility of being the treasurer. Thank you to both of these individuals.

The Silver Sage Corral needs quilters as you may know this group finishes quilts for anyone who needs their services. There was fee for this work and this fee is donated to the center. The quilters meet each Tuesday morning for 2 or 3 hours of quilting, Chit-chat, and eating sweet rolls. Even if you don't know how to quilt, come and sit in on one of their sessions. They will soon have you quilting like a pro.

Thank you to those of you that have donated plants to be used for our Plant Sales on Sat. March 4. It looks like we'll want to get started early in March. Bring your plant donations by the center as soon as possible. This year, with the plant sale, we will have space available for arts and crafts. The space will be made available on a first come first serve basis. A deposit of $10 must be made when you seek your spot.

Instructional video made at Silver Sage Corral

The Silver Sage Corral was turned into a video studio Thursday. An instructional video was recorded for use in the teaching of Line Dancing. Producer Dr. George Meador taped the session with Peggy Huffman, Betty Suddath and Vonda Buser demonstrating the dances. The hour long instructional video finished off with twenty-two line dancers going through the dance routines.

The Line Dancing Video was produced for use at the Bulverde Senior Citizen Center. Having heard of the popularity of the Bandera class, they requested help with starting a class in Bulverde. The distance between the towns presented a problem so a video tape was the solution. The new class at Bulverde now has video instructions for six popular line dances along with music best suited to the routines. Bulverde has thirty people signed up and waiting eagerly for the lessons to begin.

A spokesman for the Bandera Line Dancing class said, "We're generating so much fun here in Bandera we decided we could afford to export a little of it."

A Thought For The Week

A reader sent me the following poem by an unknown author and we would like to share it with you...

If with pleasure you are viewing any work a men is doing
And you like him, or you love him, say it now!
Don't withhold your approbation 'Till the parson makes oration
And he has lain across his new silk gown.
For no matter how you shout it, he won't mind a bit
If you think some praise is due him
Now's the time to hand it to him
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead!
More than fame and more than money,
Is the comment kind and sunny
And the hearty warm approval of a friend;
Oh! it gives to life a savor, And strengthens those who waver
And it gives one heart and courage to the end.
If one earns your praise--bestow it!
If you like him--let him know it!
Let the words of true encouragement be said!
Let's not wait 'till life is over, and he lies beneath the clover
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

There is no substitute for praise from a well-meaning and good heart.

New pastor at Faith Chapel to expand youth program

The Rev. Bob O'Dell has [illegible] Faith Chapel in Lakehills and he and his wife, Denise, plan to expand the youth program at the church.

The O'Dells, both 30, were youth ministers at Faith Chapel a few years back, but [illegible] Nations Bible College in Dallas earning theology degrees during the last two years.

[illegible] non-denominational, charismatic Faith Chapel this month from the Rev. Adrian Rains Jr., who has gone on to mission work.

Part of the reason the church called the O'Dells [illegible] program, says Bob.

The O'Dells plan to get the youth of the church more [illegible] mission trip. We'll go to a mission where the youth will dispense food and perform skits- [illegible] they (the youth) don't speak Spanish, [illegible] overnight skits.

Some of the youth of the church have been working on skits and performed them in church. Bob hopes to expand the program that is currently organized by the youth themselves.

They'll also do camp trips and expand the youth meetings.

While the O'Della were in Dallas, they were youth pastors and worked with innercity youth.

Other plans include expanding the work of God's House, the food and clothing center maintained by the church.

The O'Dells will continue their theological instruction; primarily by correspondence with Tyndale Bible College in Ft. Worth, though Denise will be doing the concentrated work on her master's degree initially.

Denise's role in the church will be to help Bob keep things organized and be in charge of the Sunday School. "She'll be helping me with all those things I'm responsible for," says Bob.

Bob says he received the calling [illegible] he was saved and as a response for what God has done for him in his life. "God did a big thing in my life," says Bob. "Christ gave me a wife [illegible] in the early 1970s as "overnight — a complete change.

"God brought me out of a lot of trouble."

Bob is a native of San Antonio and Denise is a native of Massachusetts. They moved to Lakehills about five years ago.

They have two children, Michael, 4, and Steven, 1.

Perral elected to PCEMS support team post

Kenneth Perral Jr. was elected president of the Pipe Creek EMS Support Team at the organization's meeting Tuesday, Jan. 21.

Other officers elected were vice-president Roy Carpenter, secretary Mary Carpenter and treasurer Sandar Standish.

Kenneth Perral Sr. was elected board member at large and Bennie Honaker was appointed publicity chairman.

"We owe a great deal to our outgoing officers, Columbus Stutes Jr., Richard Kremske, Jackie Buck and Ginger Stutes," says Honaker. "They worked hard to get a pump house erected around our well, get the plumbing complete and much of the interior work accomplished."

"At the current time, we're working on getting panelling up," says Honaker.

Possible future plans include a workday Feb. 7 and a barbecue for all workers that have worked on the barn, says Mary Carpenter.

Future work on the building includes fans and lights.

The next meeting of the support team is Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Members of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church of Bandera gathered Saturday, Jan. 25, to plant eight big-tooth maple and two Afghan pine trees as part of an early Arbor Day observance on the church property.

St. Christopher's plants native maple trees

Trees are 'ideally suited for area,' expert says

Big-tooth maple trees are an ideally suited for this area, according to an area horticulturist, and that's one of the reason members of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church of Bandera gathered Saturday, Jan. 25, to plant eight big-[illegible] Arbor Day observance.

Arbor Day is traditionally celebrated on the last Friday in April, and this year Arbor Day is observed on Friday, April 24. The annual tree-planting day was first observed April 10, 1872.

The maple trees, the same as those in the Lost Maples State Natural Area, were planted along the street south of the church to form an entry to the rear of the church, said Richard Thornber, who was charge of the planting.

According to Thornber, big-tooth maples are xeriscape trees and are excellent for the Bandera County area.

The native trees don't use much water, are troubled by very few insects pests, and make beautiful fall color, said Thornber, making them ideal for the area.

The minimum recommended spacing between each Big-Tooth Maple is 30 feet, said Thornber, as the tree can grow to a height to 65 feet.

The nursery usually provides an instruction sheet that should be committed for the planting, said Thornber.

Before the hole for the tree is dug, the grass or other plant life around the hole should be [illegible] away.

[illegible] should be about twice the diameter of the bucket.

[illegible] similar to the potting soil in the tree's bucket and some of the soil taken from the hole. "This gives the tree's roots a good transition from the soil in the pot to the surrounding soil," said Thornber.

Place the tree in the hole and in the bucket the tree came in. If the hole is dug too deep, the extra soil that fills the hole will compact and make a depression. If the tree sinks into the ground, it could develop foot rot.

The diameter of the hole [illegible]

Inspect the roots of the tree and prune any roots that are [illegible] way branches are pruned. "You don't want the roots to grow around and strangle themselves," said Thornber.

Put the tree in the hole, add the soil mixture, and soak the soil gently.

Place shredded pine bark mulch to cover the soil surrounding the tree. The mulch is used to keep the moisture around the tree.

Jenschke takes over as family life center worker

Denice Jenschke of Bandera has been hired as the outreach worker for the Bandera County office of the Medina County Family Life Center.

Jenschke will deal with various family problems including violence in the home.

Jenschke replaces Yolanda Arnold of Bandera, who has resumed a career in nursing. Arnold will remain as a full-time volunteer with the agency.

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The phone number is 796-3449.

"As a resident of Bandera County, I am looking forward to working with everyone here. Please do not hesitate to call if you need help," says Jenschke.

Jenschke is a former employee of Noah's Ark Day Care and the Bandera Independent School District.

Basic-level EMT class to be offered by Bandera County EMS volunteers

The Bandera County EMS is looking for more volunteers and a basic-skill level emergency medical technician class is expected to form in the near future to give those volunteers training.

The class would start sometime after Feb. 26 at a location not yet determined.

Lakehills EMS spokeswoman Brenda Reich says that the class' location will be determined after the applications have been turned in.

A bare minimum of 10 students need to complete the course to the testing level for the class to be offered. Since students do drop out usually, more than 10 students are needed to start the class.

Persons must be at least 18 years of age to be an EMT, but the task is not just for the younger folks. Older persons should not let their age stop them from applying. "If you feel physically able to do the job, EMS would like you to join," says Reich.

Persons interested in becoming a volunteer EMS should contact the EMS secretary, Anne Faye Bausch at 796-4282 for an application or contact one of the local EMS chapters.

"Please try and get your application filled out and returned by Feb. 26," says Reich.

"We need more volunteers," she says.

Small business management counseling will be available in [illegible] nity Room. The service is sponsored by the Bandera Chamber of Commerce.

"Do you have a question, problem or concern?" asks chamber secretary Nancy Hopes. "If you are a small business owner, or just thinking of going into [illegible] for yourself, then you are eligible for management and technical assistance from the [illegible]

The SBDC offers counseling for growth/expansion, productivity, management, pre-venture feasibility, loan packaging or any matter concerning operating a business.

One-on-one counseling sessions can be arranged by appointment by calling the chamber at 796-3045.

Debra Schueneman is the counselor for the Bandera area," said Hopes. "She is a former business owner.

"Debra will be here on Feb. 5 at the Bandera Bank Community Room. Your appointment and counseling will be held in strict confidence."

Your Basic Bandera — Peggy Tobin

It has been a [illegible] and terrified mule deer who never [illegible] until recently.

Meanwhile down in Denver, beaver, run out of their own wilderness creeks, are beginning to [illegible] watered rose gardens and [illegible]

The situation has, of course, in these days and times resulted in a bitter controversy between eradicators and animal-rights people. The last we heard, the city of Denver was going to try to give female beavers birth-control devices. Just how city fathers proposed to carry out the actual implantations or pill-givings, we are not sure. The program would seem to present a few difficulties.

The irate landscape gardeners of Hollywood Park are also looking into the idea of birth control for careless does or engaging the services of Parks and Wildlife to haul the offenders off. To where? The Dominion? Fair Oaks Country Club?

We must say we're with the countryfied old gentleman shown on the newstape at the hearing on the deer menace who said he was much more worried about fire ants than anything else.

Speaking of fire ants, who do constitute a genuine threat to everyone's ecology, two new deterrents have come down the media pipeline to our attention.

Texas A&M agriculture extension service area vegetable specialists Jerry Parsons says the agricultural extension service in Georgia has had real success killing our fire-ant mounds with ground citrus rinds. Then just lately we heard Bob Webster, of KTSA's garden show, recommend diatomaceous earth, the white stuff of swimming pool filters. The tiny sharp diatoms supposedly cut hapless ants to the point of their bleeding to death. Do you believe this? Are you also saving grapefruit shells?

With so much Hill Country wildlife habitat being cut up into residential developments, where do these people think the deer are going to go? Especially since roses taste so good! And are so rich in Vitamin C!

These same people would probably protest a local ordinance allowing deer-proof fences we lucky ones in Bandera County can put up if we insist on growing things for fun instead of for animals to eat. High fences can be unsightly. And of course affluent suburbs must always be sightly!

They are having trouble like this along the Front Range of the Rockies where Denver has sprawled all over the prairie at the foot of the mountains and is now reaching its asphalt fingers up canyons and draws beyond Idaho Springs and Evergreen.

There were stories in the Canyon Courier last summer viewing with alarm the number of coyotes and mountain lions turning up in backyards and frightening the toy poodles. Why are they coming so close, the yuppies cried? The real question is why are people moving in and encroaching on mountain lion territory, especially since their jobs are two hours away in the big city?

Our neighbors in our little mountain park in Colorado have jobs east of Denver and drive in and out of at all hours keeping weird schedules at the separate hospitals where they work. While they are away, their dogs run loose around the hillside chasing surprised

Jesus The Nazarene

"And he went and he dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken by the prophets might be fulfilled, 'He shall be called a Nazarene'."

— Matthew 2:23

There are many places in scripture associated with Jesus' name. Yet with the exception of the two years when Joseph and Mary and her Son into Egypt and the few years of His adult ministry, Jesus' life was bounded by the perimeters of Nazareth, where He grew to manhood and helped Joseph as a carpenter. We know little of those years in Nazareth, but it is obvious that in that village, Jesus prepared Himself for the mission for which He had been born. It is ironic that the teacher whose life and travels were so limited should become a universal figure, loved and revered in every area of the world. There can be no doubt that God's will was fulfilled

Jewelry burglars caught, $30,000 in loot recovered

Three San Antonio men were arrested Thursday, Jan. 23, and charged with a Junction burglary, and more than $30,000 in jewelry was recovered.

Dexter Hoover, 47, Wallace Manning, 21, and Michael [illegible] the result of a 12 hour investigation involving units of the Bandera County Sheriff's Department patrol and criminal investigation divisions along with the Junction Police Department and the Texas Rangers.

The burglary was committed in Junction the previous week.

According to Patrol Sergeant Keith Mansfield, Thursday, around 12:30 a.m., Deputy Sal Obiedo, while assisting three stranded motorists, became suspicious of their circumstances "due to conflicting statements" of names, destinations and other details. Obiedo contacted Mansfield for assistance, and the two officers proceeded with a vehicle search.

"The search of the vehicle resulted in the recovery of the stolen jewelry, which was secreted in the car, and numerous burglary type criminal instruments," Mansfield said.

At that point, Lt. M.W. [illegible] the sheriff's criminal investigation division became involved. Texas Ranger Joe Davis was contacted, and from the description of the jewelry, it was determined that the jewelry was probably stolen from a Junction jewelry store. Later that morning, the jewelry store owner positively identified the recovered merchandise, and charges were filed in district court out of Junction.

Charges of possession of stolen property are pending against the three individuals in District Court in Bandera.

Burglaries in county down overall

Burglaries in Bandera County have dropped nine percent since last year, reports Bandera County Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest.

The total number of burglaries reported were 168 in 1991, down 17 from the 185 in 1990.

The number is a substantial drop from 1989, when 350 burglaries were reported, says Forest.

He attributes the reduction to his two law enforcement departments "Getting out there and getting with it."

He has the department divided into the Patrol section and the investigation section.

The patrol section "is doing all they can" to patrol the area and make the reports when a burglary occurs.

"The investigation section is gathering the evidence and making the arrests," says Forest.

"It's just hard work. We're going to have to stay at it to stay ahead. It's persistence."

The two largest months with reported burglaries were in April with 26 and May with 27. That was primarily due to the arrest of the late Jason Chesnut, Eleazor Bermudez, and Santos Adam Olvera.

Chesnut was killed Oct. 11 when his motorcycle struck a car in an early morning accident.

Cowboy artists workshop set March 23-27

Roy Grinnell and Mehl Lawson award winning members of the Cowboy Artists of America, will present an innovative workshop March 23 through 27. Mixing the concepts of painting and sculpture, the workshop titled "In Paint and Bronze" will be at the Cowboy Artists of America Museum in Kerrville.

The workshops will combine the strengths of sculpture and paintings to improve the participants' proficiency in both fields. Grinnell is noted for his draftsmanship, use of light, shadow and color. Lawson's knowledge of anatomy is expressed in the people and animals of his sculpture.

Both artists portray the historical aspects of Western life. Solid knowledge of history and artifacts blend with imagination to produce creative views of our Western Heritage.

Applications for the workshop will be accepted until Feb. 24 at the Cowboy Artists of America Museum, P.O. Box 1716, Kerrville, Texas, 78029, or call (512) 896-2553.

Family dance set at Legion hall Feb. 1

The dance is "for the entire family," says band member Van Cook, and he encourages teens, parents and "anyone who wants to have a great time" to come to the event.

Members of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church of Bandera gathered Saturday, Jan. 25, to plant eight big-tooth maple and two Afghan pine trees as part of an early Arbor Day observance on the church property.

St. Christopher's plants native maple trees

Trees are 'ideally suited for area,' expert says

Big-tooth maple trees are an ideally suited for this area, according to an area horticulturist, and 2 that's why one reason members of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church of Bandera gathered Saturday, Jan. 25, to plant eight big-tooth maple and [illegible] pine trees as part of an early Arbor Day observance.

Arbor Day is traditionally celebrated on the last Friday in April, and this year Arbor Day is observed on Friday, April 24. The annual tree-planting day was first observed April 10, 1872.

The maple trees, the same as those in the Lost Maples State Natural Area, were planted along the street south of the church to form an entry to the rear of the church, said Richard Thornber, who was charge of the planting.

According to Thornber, big-tooth maples are xeriscape trees and are excellent for the Bandera County area.

The native trees don't use much water, are troubled by very few insects pests, and make beautiful fall color, said Thornber, making them ideal for the area.

The minimum recommended spacing between each Big-Tooth Maple is 30 feet, said Thornber, as the tree can grow to a height to 65 feet.

The nursery usually provides an instruction sheet that should be consulted for the planting, said Thornber.

Before the hole for the tree is dug, the grass or other plant life around the hole should be [illegible]

[illegible] as deep as the depth of the soil in the bucket the tree came in. If the hole is dug too deep, the extra soil that fills the hole will compact and make a depression. If the tree sinks into the ground, it could develop foot rot.

The diameter of the hole should be about twice the diameter of the bucket.

In the hole, mix potting soil [illegible] the tree's bucket and some of the soil taken from the hole. This gives the tree's roots a [illegible] the soil to the surrounding soil," said Thornber. Don't mix any of the grass in with the soil.

Take the mixture out of the hole.

Take the tree with the soil out of the bucket. "Never pick up a tree by it's trunk," cautioned Thornber.

Inspect the roots of the tree and prune any roots that are growing in circles similar to [illegible] "You don't want the roots to grow around and strangle themselves," said Thornber.

Put the tree in the hole, add the soil mixture, and pack the soil gently.

Place shredded pine bark mulch to cover the soil surrounding the tree. The mulch is used to keep the moisture around the tree.

Denice Jenschke of Bandera has been hired as the outreach worker for the Bandera County office of the Medina County Family Life Center.

Jenschke will deal with various family problems including violence in the home.

Jenschke replaces Yolanda Arnold of Bandera, who has resumed a career in nursing. Arnold will remain as a full-time volunteer with the agency.

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The phone number is 796-3449.

"As a resident of Bandera County, I am looking forward to working with everyone here. Please do not hesitate to call if you need help," says Jenschke.

Jenschke is a former employee of Noah's Ark Day Care and the Bandera Independent School District.

The Bandera County EMS is looking for more volunteers and a basic-skill level emergency medical technician class is expected to form in the near future to give those volunteers training.

The class would start sometime after Feb. 26 at a location not yet determined.

Lakehills EMS spokeswoman Brenda Reich says that the class' location will be determined after the applications have been turned in.

A bare minimum of 10 students need to complete the course to the testing level for the class to be offered. Since students do drop out usually, more than 10 students are needed to start the class.

Persons must be at least 18 years of age to be an EMT, but the task is not just for the younger folks. Older persons should not let their age stop them from applying. "If you feel physically able to do the job, EMS would like you to join," says Reich.

Persons interested in becoming a volunteer EMS should contact the EMS secretary, Anne Faye Bausch at 796-4282 for an application or contact one of the local EMS chapters.

"Please try and get your application filled out and returned by Feb. 26," says Reich.

"We need more volunteers," she says.

Small business management counseling will be available in Bandera on Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the Bandera Bank Community Room. The service is sponsored by the Bandera Chamber of Commerce.

"Do you have a question, problem or concern?" asks chamber secretary Nancy Hopes. "If you are a small business owner, or [illegible] eligible for management and technical assistance from the UTSA Small Business Development Center."

The SBDC offers counseling for growth/expansion, productivity, management, pre-venture feasibility, loan packaging or any matter concerning operating a business.

One-on-one counseling sessions can be arranged by appointment by calling the chamber at 796-3045.

Debra Schueneman is the counselor for the Bandera area," said Hopes. "She is a former business owner.

"Debra will be here on Feb. 5 at the Bandera Bank Community Room. Your appointment and counseling will be held in strict confidence."

Your Basic Bandera — Peggy Tobin

It has been amusing, watching the TV news the past few days, seeing the residents of [illegible] wood Park take on so much the worry into their weekend [illegible] ning to gnaw down trees and build dams inside city limits. The situation has, of course, in these days and times resulted in a bitter controversy between eradicators and animal-rights people. The last we heard, the city of Denver was going to try to give female beavers birth-control devices. Just how city fathers proposed to carry out the actual implantations or pill-givings, we are not sure. The program would seem to present a few difficulties.

The irate landscape gardeners of Hollywood Park are also looking into the idea of birth control for careless does or engaging the services of Parks and Wildlife to haul the offenders off. To where? The Dominion? Fair Oaks Country Club?

We must say we're with the countryfied old gentleman shown on the newstape at the hearing on the deer menace who said he was much more worried about fire ants than anything else.

Speaking of fire ants, who do constitute a genuine threat to everyone's ecology, two new deterrents have come down the media pipeline to our attention.

Texas A&M agriculture extension service area vegetable specialists Jerry Parsons says the agricultural extension service in Georgia has had real success killing our fire-ant mounds with ground citrus rinds. Then just lately we heard Bob Webster, of RTSA's garden show, recommend diatomaceous earth, the white stuff of swimming pool filters. The tiny sharp diatoms supposedly cut hapless ants to the point of their bleeding to death. Do you believe this? Are you also saving grapefruit shells?

Meanwhile down in Denver, [illegible] was [illegible] of [illegible] ing [illegible] walnut rose gardens and driveway border plantings. With so much Hill Country wildlife habitat being cut up into residential developments, where do these people think the deer are going to go? Especially since roses taste so good! And are so rich in Vitamin C!

These same people would probably protest a local ordinance allowing deer-proof fences we lucky ones in Bandera County can put up if we insist on growing things for fun instead of for animals to eat. High fences can be unsightly. And of course affluent suburbs must always be sightly!

They are having trouble like this along the Front Range of the Rockies where Denver has sprawled all over the prairie at the foot of the mountains and is now reaching its asphalt fingers up canyons and draws beyond Idaho Springs and Evergreen.

There were stories in the Canyon Courier last summer viewing with alarm the number of coyotes and mountain lions turning up in backyards and frightening the toy poodles. Why are they coming so close, the yuppies cried? The real question is why are people moving in and encroaching on mountain lion territory, especially since their jobs are two hours away in the big city?

Our neighbors in our little mountain park in Colorado have jobs east of Denver and drive in and out of at all hours keeping weird schedules at the separate hospitals where they work. While they are away, their dogs run loose around the hillside chasing surprised

Jewelry burglars caught, $30,000 in loot recovered

Three San Antonio men were arrested Thursday, Jan. 23 [illegible] burglary, and more than $30,000 in jewelry was recovered [illegible]

[illegible] Manning, 21, and Michael Moore, 18, were arrested as the result of a 12 hour investigation involving units of the Bandera County Sheriff's Department patrol and criminal investigation divisions along with the Junction Police Department and the Texas Rangers.

The burglary was committed in Junction the previous week.

According to Patrol Sergeant Keith Mansfield, Thursday, around 12:30 a.m., Deputy Sal Obiedo, while assisting three stranded motorists, became suspicious of their circumstances "due to conflicting statements" of names, destinations and other details. Obiedo contacted Mansfield for assistance, and the two officers proceeded with a vehicle search.

"The search of the vehicle [illegible] the recovery of the stolen jewelry, which was secreted in the car, and numerous burglary type criminal [illegible]

[illegible] Deputy Sal Obiedo, Kaiser and Robin Price, both of the sheriff's criminal investigation division became involved. Texas Ranger Joe Davis was contacted, and from the description of the jewelry, it was determined that the jewelry was probably stolen from a Junction jewelry store. Later that morning, the jewelry store owner positively identified the recovered merchandise; and charges were filed in district court out of Junction.

Charges of possession of stolen property are pending against the three individuals in District Court in Bandera.

Burglaries in county down overall

Burglaries in Bandera County have dropped nine percent since last year, reports Bandera County Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest.

The total number of burglaries reported were 168 in 1991, down 17 from the 185 in 1990.

The number is a substantial drop from 1989, when 350 burglaries were reported, says Forest.

He attributes the reduction to his two law enforcement departments "Getting out there and getting with it."

He has the department divided into the patrol section and the investigation section.

The patrol section "is doing all they can" to patrol the area and make the reports when a burglary occurs.

"It's just hard work. We're going to have to stay at it to stay ahead. It's persistence."

The two largest months with reported burglaries were in April with 26 and May with 27. That was primarily due to the arrest of the late Jason Chesnut, Eleazor Bermudes, and Santos Adam Olvera.

Chesnut was killed Oct. 11 when his motorcycle struck a car in an early morning accident.

Cowboy artists workshop set March 23-27

Roy Grinnell and Mehl Lawson award winning members of the Cowboy Artists of America, will present an innovative workshop March 23 through 27. Mixing the concepts of painting and sculpture, the workshop titled "In Paint and Bronze" will be at the Cowboy Artists of America Museum in Kerrville.

The workshops will combine the strengths of sculpture and paintings to improve the participants' proficiency in both fields. Grinnell is noted for his draftsmanship, use of light, shadow and color. Lawson's knowledge of anatomy is expressed in the people and animals of his sculpture.

Both artists portray the historical aspects of Western life. Solid knowledge of history and artifacts blend with imagination to produce creative views of our Western Heritage.

Applications for the workshop will be accepted until Feb. 24 at the Cowboy Artists of America Museum, P.O. Box 1716, Kerrville, Texas, 78029, or call (512) 896-2553.

Family dance set at Legion hall Feb. 1

The dance is "for the entire family," says band member Van Cook, and he encourages teens, parents and "anyone who wants to have a great time" to come to the event.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Jesus The Nazarene

"And he went and he dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken by the prophets might be fulfilled, 'He shall be called a Nazarene.'"

— Matthew 2:23

There are many places in scripture associated with Jesus' name. Yet with the exception of the two years when Joseph took Mary and her Son into Egypt and the few years of His adult ministry, Jesus' life was bounded by the perimeters of Nazareth, where He grew to manhood and helped Joseph as a carpenter. We know little of those years in Nazareth, but it is obvious that in that village, Jesus prepared Himself for the mission for which He had been born. It is ironic that the teacher whose life and travels were so limited should become a universal figure, loved and revered in every area of the world. There can be no doubt that God's will was fulfilled

James and Tammy Bennack

McMullen, Bennack wed

James Bennack and Tammy McMullen, both of Pipe Creek, were married Saturday, Jan. 11, at the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek with the Rev. Ted Bosworth presiding.

The bride is the daughter of George and Shirley McMullen of Pipe Creek and the groom is the son of Lynn Bennack of Pipe Creek.

The maid of honor was Allison Meyer of Pipe Creek and the bridesmaid was the bride's niece, Desirae Sutton of Bandera.

The best man was John Ammen of Boerne and the groomsman was Tiger Meyer of Pipe Creek.

The ringbearer was Austin Calloway of Boerne.

Coleman receives award for home

Bandera resident, Lois Coleman, builder and owner of Heartland Custom Homes, Inc. was the recipient of a certificate of award for her company's restoration efforts on the Voges/Smothers farmhouse. The Boerne Area Historical Preservation Society honored Coleman at its Annual Awards Luncheon held on Nov. 20 at the Fair Oaks Country Club.

The award came as a result of many months of research and preparation as Ms. Coleman anticipated the Voges/Smothers House's participation in the showing of the Ninth Annual Historical Tour sponsored by the Society on Oct. 6. Coleman worked very closely with the society and the Texas Historical Commission to achieve authenticity that the house originally had as a Palisades style home, a style that was in use during the 1870's in the Hill Country, with its tin roof and vertical cedar log walls.

Jennifer and her brother, Bo Evans, a seventh grader, have shown goats, sheep and lambs at the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show since the two were mere tykes.

"Jennifer began in the third grade, after we moved back here," says Bonnie Pember Naumann, Bo and Jennifer's mother. Bonnie grew up in Bandera, and she and her brother Willie, and her sisters Shirley, Maudie and Kay all showed livestock in the Bandera arena.

Bonnie's father, Mike Pember has "been around goats all his life," she says, and he and his mother Maude Pember raised Angora goats for many years. The bloodline in some of the Pembera' breeding stock goes back many years, when another Bandera County livestock legend, Howard Hay, was also in the business of promoting Angora goats.

"Kids that work with breeding stock have a different experience," Naumann says. The animal isn't the only prize-- one single Angora fleece can bring a very high price, depending on the quality.

Jennifer has won the Sonora mohair show for the last four years, and her champion fleece last year sold for $275-- and [illegible] of mohair.

Pember and Son have also won the mohair competition at the San Antonio Livestock Show.

Two mohair exhibitors got a "punch bowl"- trophy, and when they win consistently, they get to keep their trophies. After winning her fourth consecutive Sonora show, Jennifer got to keep her trophy. She plans to attend Tarleton University with the money she has earned showing the livestock.

"Texas really needs a mohair textile factory," Bonnie said. The industry, she says, is growing, through incentive programs and other statewide measures.

At the Kerrville show, Bo Evans showed the second place registered aged buck, fifth place commercial doe kid, tenth place light weight medium wool lamb, 12th and 15th place registered yearling doe, and the 16th and 21st place commercial doe kids.

Jennifer Evans showed the first place commercial yearling group, the first and fourth place commercial yearling does, sixth place registered yearling doe and the 13th place middle weight medium wool lamb.

Seguin show set

The Guadalupe County Youth Stock Show will be held on the Guadalupe County Fairgrounds in Seguin Friday and Saturday, Jan. 31-Feb. 1. Call 512-379-1972 for more information.

UIL meet set

Bandera Junior High School's campus will become the field of academic competition for sixth, seventh and eighth graders from [illegible] districts when over 200 contestants meet here in one of the state's largest UIL academic contests. The meet began Tuesday, Jan. 28 and continues [illegible]

Besides Bandera, other communities represented are Boerne, Cole and Kerrville.

Setting it straight

Fourth and fifth-generation family members were omitted from a story about the 66th wedding anniversary of Raymond and Letha Smith.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

The rains came again during the weekend, leaving the Tarpley area with 2.4 inches. The creeks are filling up again.

•Long-time Tarpley resident Victor Purvis, 80, died Friday [illegible] the Kerrville Memorial Veterans Administration Hospital after a long illness.

His obituary appears elsewhere in this newspaper.

Helen Bryant expressed her appreciation to everyone in the community who gave her support following the unexpected death of her husband Roland J. Bryant Jan. 12.

A Rio Hondo memorial was established in his name by the study club.

Jerry Hall was appointed chairwoman for 1992.

•Pat and Wilma Taylor of San Antonio attended Tarpley Baptist Church services Sunday morning and were the dinner guests of Pat's mother, Mrs. Clay Taylor.

•Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood drove to Baytown Tuesday to attend funeral services for their daughter-in-law's father, Rufus LeBouf on Wednesday.

They returned home Thursday.

They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Hood from King Salmon, Alaska.

•Elzie and Nettie Dean drove to Abilene Friday to visit their son and his family, Dr. and Mrs. M.L. Dean and their son, Michael. The Deans also visited with the younger Dean's daughter, Sara Hope Dean of Seattle, who was home for two weeks.

A big debt of gratitude

Dear Editor:

We at Environmental Fuel Systems want to express our gratitude to Chief Tommy Adams and all the members of the Bandera Volunteer Fire Department. Their prompt response and professional firefighting skills helped save a portion of our business, allowing us to stay in operation. Also, our appreciation goes to Mike Bolton of the Bandera Police Department who spotted the fire while making his evening rounds.

The services provided by our fire department and our law enforcement groups are most often taken for granted. That it takes a catastrophe such as this to make one give thanks is a shame. Nevertheless, we at EFS are very lucky that so much was saved and that our jobs will survive.

Bill Hayes, Fabian Mazurek, Cal Chapman, Ann Holan, Stan Scott, John Perry, Linda Cleveland and Jack Martin

Coverage was good: Speedy

Dear Editor:

I do not agree with Mrs. Ingram's letter concerning the paper's coverage of the livestock show and bake show. The paper gave us front page coverage plus two full pages in the middle the week following the show. They also gave us coverage for three to four weeks prior to the show and also the second week after the show. I have been involved in our show for over 28 years and this was the best coverage we've ever had.

Speedy Hutcheson
Supt. of the Bandera Co. Jr. Livestock Show

Read it for yourself, he says

Dear Editor:

Allow me, if you will, to correct some gross inaccuracies and misrepresentations of facts stated in the "Letter to the Editor" by Mr. James Hannah.

I served on the board of directors of the Bandera County River Authority and was subsequentially elected to the Springhilla Water Management District (SWMD). In all, I served from 1987 to 1991. Although I am no longer on the board of directors, I can safely say that I have attended virtually every meeting since 1987. Having served as an elected official and as a citizen, I believe that I can speak credibly about the actions of the SWMD.

Mr. Hannah really says nothing substantial in his letter. He appears to allude to some conspiracy that would invite San Antonio to take our water. Come now, Mr. Hannah, of what possible interest would it be to SWMD for San Antonio to take our water? He also appears to allude to some games of influence by development interests, those accustomed to using other people's money and financial institutions that finance development interests, as keys to understanding what this is all about. Mr. Hannah needs to be more specific. I know of no interest groups that influenced SWMD's directors when they decided to have HDR do the water study.

I served on the committee that recommended hiring HDR to perform the water study. HRD Engineering has been in operation since 1917and is one of the top 50 firms in the country. They have worked for the Edwards Underground Water District, the Nueces River Authority and many others. They employ over 750 people nationwide with 30 in the Austin office. They employ hydrologists and geologists as well as engineers. In short using the word "engineer" [illegible] access to only "engineers" is irresponsible. If Mr. Hannah had taken the time to acquire all the facts, he would have known that several hydrological studies including a recent study by experienced hydrogeologists with the state and the [illegible] formed in Bandera County. This data indicated a potential problem with the amount of water available to Bandera County citizens and the quality of that water.

I am sad to say that many times pertinent information is left out of the newspaper. I have personally attended meetings where important information was discussed, yet none of this information was reported. In fact, on Jan. 21 I attended a water district meeting that lasted about an hour, yet only a speech given by an individual that claimed to be an "expert" and was critical of the water study was published in the newspaper.

I know each and every person on the board of the SWMD. I think Mr. Hannah is acting not only irresponsibly in castigating the water study and HDR but is conducting a personal vendetta via the newspaper. I have read the water study and I believe there is some very useful information contained in the report and that it is a good management tool.

I would ask that you contact your district representative or go by the district office and check out a copy of the study to read for yourself. Don't rely on Mr. Hannah's biased interpretations.

Joe M. Cantu

It sure is old news, she says

Dear editor:

I would like to have the (Bandera Bulletin) paper before it is a week you. You mail it Wednesday night and it is Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday of the next week before I receive it.

My postmaster says it is within the Bandera post office, not moving the papers until last.

This is not right.

I enjoy the paper, but it is sure old news.

They apologize for behavior

Dear editor:

We, Eugene and Kimberley Hayes were told by (Bandera ISD school board president) James Wagner at a meeting Nov. 26, at the junior high we had conducted ourselves in a rude and obnoxious manner with the staff, Mr. Donahoo and Mr. Dockery at a meeting concerning our son.

As concerned parents we were upset at actions taken against our son by the staff, Mr. Donahoo and Mr Dockery without knowledge or prior notification to us as parent.

Actions are viewed by different people in different ways, and for how our conduct was viewed, we deeply apologize.

Eugene and Kimberley Hayes

'Highly destructive' oak wilt disables vascular system

It produces a substance that clogs the tree's water carrying tissue

The fungus prevents an affected tree from taking up essential moisture and nutrients. The tree, in effect, dies of thirst.

What trees are susceptible?

In Central Texas, oak wilt is most dramatically apparent in live oaks, trees particularly vulnerable to the disease because of their growth pattern in dense clusters with interconnected roots.

In fact, trees in the red oak group -- specifically blackjack and Spanish oak in this region -- are actually more vulnerable to oak wilt than are the live oaks; moreover, diseased red oaks play a critical role in the external transmission of oak wilt, a fact essential to understand to effectively control the spread of disease.

Trees in the white oak group, such as burr oak and chinkapin, are considered resistant but not totally immune to oak wilt; no trees outside the oak genus have been found to be infected by the disease.

Although Texas is the only state whose live oak population has been affected by oak wilt, the disease has been identified in red oaks across a wide area of the eastern United States, bounded by Minnesota, Texas, Pennsylvania and South Carolina. But while the species of red oaks affected in other states may differ from trees affected by oak wilt here in Texas, the fungus causing the disease is identical.

Is oak wilt new?

Not really. Oak wilt may have existed for some time before the disease was correctly diagnosed: the causal agent, C. fagacearum, was first isolated and identified in 1941 in Wisconsin. As research progressed over the next decades, oak wilt seemed to spread dramatically quickly through the Midwest, a rate of spread at least partially due to improved disease recognition.

Even after the disease organism causing oak wilt was identified, scientists doubted that it could survive in climates as far south as Texas, for the fungus was known to be vulnerable to high temperatures. In addition, the disease pattern in live oaks is very different from that of red oaks, and the organism causing oak wilt is not easy to isolate in these trees. As a result, plant pathologists did not immediately suspect oak wilt as the cause of massive live oak losses across the State starting in the early 60's. In 1979, Texas scientists finally confirmed through laboratory analysis that the disease affecting our live oaks in epidemic proportions was indeed oak wilt. Up till that time, the problem was attributed to "oak decline".

What is the difference between oak wilt and oak decline?

The term "oak decline" is just [illegible] or deterioration, a gradual loss of health and vigor characteristic of oak trees under stress. Oak decline is not considered a disease, but rather a syndrome - generalized symptoms indicative of the tree's gradual decline. It may be caused by a variety of factors such as drought, insect damage or other environmental stresses and some secondary disease organisms; if the causative factors are not relieved, the tree can eventually die.

Although oak decline is in fact a serious problem in the Southeast forests, it is oak wilt, not oak decline, which is responsible for the massive tree losses we have suffered. C.fagacearum, the fungus causing oak wilt, is known as a "primary pathogen": in contrast to the minor pathogens associated with oak decline that can further weaken a tree already stressed, the oak wilt fungus is powerful enough to infect any susceptible species of tree exposed to it - healthy or weak, young or old. Symptom development is rapid, the damage is irreversible, and the disease is usually fatal.

Isn't it too late to stop oak wilt?

Observing the path of devastation caused by oak wilt, the disease might appear uncontrollable. In the thirty or more years since it was first observed in Texas, oak wilt has spread at an alarming rate. Each year its boundaries widen; as of October 1991, oak wilt was confirmed in 46 counties of Texas. Locally, our Medina survey conducted in 1991 indicated that over half of the landowners responding had already lost trees to oak wilt, with new infection developing in areas which until very recently had been untouched by disease.

Yet, even in our disease-ravaged region, oak wilt is not as pervasive as it may seem from the road. From a small plane, you can see that in remote areas there is surprisingly little evidence of disease; most oak wilt infection sites occur near houses, along the highway, along utility lines and fences. It is clear that where there are people, there is oak wilt. This observation should be an encouragement and a warning: while we have lost many, many trees, those that remain are still at risk. We are witnessing an ecological disaster in the making - we cannot afford to stand by as our surviving trees fall victim to the disease.

Is there a cure?

[illegible] found for oak wilt, and researchers admit that many unanswered questions remain. Within the past decade, though, scientists have learned a great deal about the nature of oak wilt, solid information that can help us take effective action against it.

Even without a cure, existing disease centers can often be contained by prompt, aggressive action. More significantly, new incidences of disease can be dramatically reduced at little or no cost, by means of simple prevention procedures.

In the weeks ahead, this column will explore how oak wilt spreads, and how to identify it; what measures can be taken to limit the destructive potential of existing disease sites; and, most important, how to help prevent future outbreaks of oak wilt, to slow the spread of disease.

The first in a series on oak wilt exploring the nature of the disease, how it is spread, how it can be controlled and how new outbreaks may be prevented. The series is prepared by Susan Crawford Tracy of the Medina Committee to Stop Oak Wilt.

Ladies win 'big time' against MV Panthers

By Bob Hopper
Special Sports Correspondent

After playing three games where the outcome was decided by two points or less, the Lady Bulldogs were [illegible] Tuesday night as Bandera gym, beating Medina Valley 59-46 in the first half of the twin bill.

The girls were quickly greying out Coach Julie Young's hair after a two-point decision a week ago against Cole and a one point come -from-behind 48-47 win over Somerset last Friday night.

The boys varsity roundballers may not be back, but they 're on their waaay. Trailing the Panthers by 14 points midway through the fourth period, the Dogs scrounged back to within three with :25 seconds left in the game.

Medina Valley's Robert Vasquez sank 4 of 4 free throws for the 59-52 win as Bandera fouled intentionally, trying to get the ball back for a possible 3 point shot and a tie game.

The Bulldogs have steadily gained experience and expertise as the season has progressed. Last Friday night's 19 point loss to Somerset may have signaled the beginning of a turnaround for the boys.

[illegible] lively cause 7 point loss to the Panthers the Dogs are beginning to get a little respect.

It may not be very lady-like but the Lady Bulldogs continue their thieving ways on the basketball court, mostly to their opponents suprise and frustated dismay. The girls in blue turned 15 thefts into 9 points on their way to their third district win against one loss. 15 of 22 from the free throw line helps a great deal as well.

With Tandy Clements and Melisa Schneider rejecting Medina Valley under the basket, Lisa Wharton and Niki Rouch hit the hoops for 20 points each. Clements hit for 8 with Natalie Koehler close behind with 7 points. Wharton's 11 rebounds were complimented by Rouch's 5 steals.

Part of the boys improvement comes from their play under the net. Linden Stricker and John Kistner are beginning to take advantage of their height and strength to block shots and come out of the hassle under the rim with both offensive and defensive rebounds.

That, coupled with ball-handling from Ricky Gard and J.B. Neuenschwander and help from the bench from Scot Thomas and Lee Jenkins are bright spots for the young Bulldogs.

Boerne volleyballers set league meeting

The Boerne Volleyball Club will hold their Spring League meeting Feb. 4 at 7 p.m. at the Guaranty Savings on Main Street in Boerne.

"All persons age 16 to 100 who are interested in playing USVBA co-ed volleyball should attend!" says group president Mike Fincke.

Anyone interested in putting together a team prior to the Feb. 4 meeting can call Fincke at 1-512-249-8361.

"Come see what fun volleyball really is," Fincke says.

PRCA rodeo set in Los Fresnos

A Special Salute to the Hill Country
FEB. 9-10
1992 is the Year of the Volunteer. It is the loyal dedication of many generous south Texas volunteers that makes the Annual San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo a reality. It is because of your support that we are able to raise money for youth in agriculture. Because of these efforts we salute you! The first 1,000 visitors from the Hill Country area attending the show Feb. 9-10 will receive a limited edition San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo commemorative pin. Just stop by the Information Center located near the entrance to the Family Fair and tell them you're from the Hill Country. Wear it proudly, knowing you have contributed to the educational advancement of our Texas youth!

High water threatens homes in area

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

After as many five inches of rain through Tuesday morning, the rising water of the Medina River threatened some Bandera County homes that months ago had been a long way from the water line.

Volunteer fire department and sheriff's deputies Tuesday afternoon were warning some residents of the Alamo Beach area south of Pipe Creek and river-side residents in the Wharton's Dock area to be on the look out for rising water.

The Medina River, which was at 8.8 feet Tuesday morning, was within six inches of the doorsteps of some homes in Alamo Beach, reports constable Ernest Reich.

Just in one hour Tuesday, from 10 to 11 a.m., the river rose three inches and from creek run-off, the water was expected to rise another six to 11 inches, reports Reich.

Bandera County Sheriff's Chief Deputy James Kimbrell said Tuesday morning, that no evacuation was going on, but residents in the low areas were being cautioned to keep their eyes on the water.

But if additional rainfall occurred, evacuations could be necessary.

"If we get anymore, we'll have to pay a lot of attention to it," said Kimbrell.

Rainfall reports during the current rainy spell which started Saturday night include 4.3 inches in Bandera, 3.7 inches in Lakehills, 4.3 in Pipe Creek, 2.9 in Medina, 2.5 in Vanderpool and 5.9 in Tarpley, as of Tuesday morning.

Road closures were minimal and primarily occurred Monday night.

According to the State Department of Transportation, FM Road 187 between FM Road 470 and Vanderpool was closed Monday afternoon.

According to county commissioner Bennie Barker, English Crossing was closed Monday morning and remains closed. Roads crossing Julian Creek and Red Bluff Creek were closed at times Monday night.

Only one car ran off into water. One woman's car tried to cross a low water crossing behind the Pipe Creek Volunteer Fire Department fire house. "She was rescued by the (Pipe Creek Volunteer) Fire Department," said Kimbrell.

No area schools were closed due to the rain, though students in the Utopia Independent School District was let out one hour early Monday.

Bandera Downs prepares for racing

Third season set to begin Feb. 28

Believe it or not, it's less than one month to the start of racing season.

And preparations at the track for the start of the third season of pari-mutuel racing at the Class II Bandera Downs are underway in anticipation of the Friday, Feb. 28, opening day.

Construction on two new barns to replace the temporary haul-in barns will begin as soon as it's dry. "We've started hauling in dirt for the barns and the equipment is set. We just need to start excavating when it's dry," says director of publicity Don Rhine.

Large heaters are being installed underneath the grandstands in the Paddock Cafe area to heat the area during the cooler months this winter and spring.

As many as 1,500 stall applications were received by the track for the 855 stalls.

The nominations are the highest ever in the $100,000-added Graham Farms Futurity, the only Grade I race in the state of Texas. The race will be held at Bandera Downs April 12. The race was run at Manor Downs last year.

A total of 57 3-year-olds have been nominated in the $36,524-added Grade II Graham Farms Derby to be run April 11.

A total of 13 quarter horses 4-years-old and up have been entered into the $10,287-added Graham Farms Maturity to be run April 11.

Simulcast wagering won't be offered initially by the track this year. The track had planned to offer from two to four televised races from tracks in California or other states after running from 10 to 12 live races at Bandera.

However, the final simulcast rules from the Texas Racing Commission won't be approved until the TRC meeting opening day, Feb. 28.

One sticking point is the amount of take-out for purses from simulcast races.

Generally, a total of 7.3 percent of the amount bet by the bettors is dedicated to pay for purses on live races run at the track.

Horse owner and breeder groups have wanted the purse rate to remain at 7.3 percent, the same rate as live races.

The rules as presented in a TRC meeting last month would keep that percentage at that level.

Voter registration deadline for primary is Sunday

Persons wishing to register for the March 10 Democratic and Republican Presidental primaries have until Friday to register in person and Monday to register by mail.

Officially, the last day to register to vote is Sunday, Feb. 9.

However, the Bandera County tax-assessor collector's office, the voter registration office in the county, will accept mailed voter registration applications that are postmarked through Monday, Feb. 10. Persons who wish to walk into the office to register must do so by Friday, Feb. 7.

The start of the early voting period is Wednesday, Feb. 19, for the March 10 primary.

Early voting ends Friday, March 6.

Herbert Bilhartz's experience includes big band, classical

Members of an advanced feature writing class at Southwest Texas University in San Marcos came to Bandera in November to gather information for some real feature stories. Chris Wilson's feature story about Herbert Bilhartz is the final effort that will appear in the Bandera Bulletin.

Herbert Bilhartz quietly sang the first lines of a German polka tune called "Rosamunde," in an effort to give an example of the style and content of the German music that he often plays and directs. A bit self-concious at first, Bilhartz sang the first bars from memory.

"Rosamunde, I'll always be true, because today, my Rosamunde, my heart beats only for you," Bilhartz's hand expertly moved to the beat.

It's the type of music that arouses passion in his heart, and he possesses a near-encyclopedic memory when recalling composers and tunes. But his expertise includes all types of music-from the big-band era to classical. A member of the Air Force and Army for 26 years, Bilhartz rose to the rank of Chief Warrant Officer before his retirement to the Hill Country around Medina in 1977. This followed three years as director and band master of the U.S. Army Europe Band based on Heidleberg, Germany.

"I had not been overseas since Vietnam, and I was fortunate to be assigned to the Heidleberg band," said Bilhartz. "I was the number-one officer and commander of the band and completely responsible for the personnel in my unit."

Born and raised in San Antonio, Bilhartz was a graduate of the University of Texas in Austin in 1951 with a degree specializing in symphonic music.

"I first came into the Air Force right our of U.T." Bilhartz said. "The Korean war was going on and at that time you either joined the service or the service joined you. About 10 years later, I was offered the Band Master Warrant Officer appointment by the Army. So the Air Force released me after the Army decided that I was qualified enough."

His first band assignment for the army was at Fort Bliss, Texas, where he served for four years. Some of his responsibilities included rehearsing the band members and directing them during ceremonies and reviews.

"I was then sent to Vietnam as band master of the 25th infantry band in Cu Chi, which Bob Hope used to say Vietnamese for, 'You want it, you can have it!'" Bilhartz said with a laugh.

He said his most rewarding experience while serving as band master in the Army are linked to his appointment in Germany. Bilharts could speak the language fluently and was a lover of German band music. He was delighted with the opportunity.

"Germany was a bandsman's dream," said Bilhartz. "They love band music and want to hear it. The band sound is still an important part of the musical scene in Heidleberg. German bands love to play polkas, folk songs and waltzes and the audience sits there with a glass of beer and sausage, and they sing along with the band. They get up and sway back and forth and generally have an enjoyable evening."

While band master is Germany, Bilhartz was faced with hundreds of demands to play at festivals throughout the country. Sometimes the band, under his direction, would play to crowds as large as 7,000-something that was unheard of in America.

"The German people are extremely fond of American big-band music. Glenn Miller and the works of John Philip Sousa were big favorites," Bilharts said.

In addition to the large crowds that they played for regularly, Bilharts directed his bands before such political figures as Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Prince Charles of Wales. He enjoys recalling his meeting with the Prince of Wales.

'No wilderness to cherish'

Dear Editor:

As I see the Nature Conservancy mentioned as the great "land preservationists," it occurs to me that these lands that they are working are lands that have already been "preserved" Saved in most cases by generations of ranchers who loved and preserved their private lands. Were these lands not in their preserved, pristine beauty the Nature Conservancy wouldn't want them for their "land grab."

It has been stated that the Conservancy and similar groups are free-wheeling, tax-free, self-serving, land acquistionists.

Their tax-exempt status allows them an unfair advantage removing them from the tax-rolls, which in turn affects the local tax base creating higher taxes for the remainder of the private property owners.

In 1989 and 1990 the Nature Conservancy generated $88 million and $42.7 million in income through land sales to state and federal agencies —purchased with our tax dollars.

Aldo Leopold (1887-1948) had the vision to observe that, "All conservation of wilderness is self-defeating, for to cherish we must see and fondle, and when enough have seen and fondled, there is no wilderness left to cherish." Case in point, many of our national parks!

Another Donahoo supporter

Dear Editor:

In the past few weeks there have been several letters about Mr. Donahoo. I am a sixth grader of Bandera Jr. High School. On several occasions, whether it be for sixth grade student council or as a student, he has taken time out of his busy schedule to hear what I had to say. He has always been very fair and honest with me. He has always treated me with respect. I believe Mr. Donahoo is a real asset to the educational system at Bandera Jr. High School and so do many of my fellow classmates.

City officer a big help

Dear Editor:

I have been thinking about the day in November when I broke my arm and your (Bandera) city (police) officer Audrey Husion came to the rescue. Thinking about it, yet not knowing how to express the emotions which had been simmering within. Well, I finally decided to simply write this letter and allow the feelings to be released. They are like this:

In the first place, one doesn't expect to be in a situation like that.

And who would believe that the rescuer would be a tiny lady officer of the law.

And that she would be so kind and merciful to spend the time to so attend, and even accompany him to the hospital.

Or that her employer, the Bandera Police Department, would sanction and even encourage an act like this.

Or that there are Emergency Medical people who volunteer their time to be a part of the goodness.

I have lived in and have been a part of this community for most of my life. I thought I fully understood the goodness of the Bandera ilk, yet it took this situation to make me fully aware of it and how fortunate I am to be a part of it. I want you to know I felt thanks and am sure that as is said in the Bible, you, the giver, are more blessed than I, the recipient, of this noble deed.

He loves the 'snow birds'

Dear Editor:

Our winter visitors, our beloved "snow birds" are very important to us. Their being here means more money to all of us in different businesses and services.

And they are good friendly neighbors. We are losing them. I know personally of three RV friends who have moved to Kerrville. The cause of this: The stupid, moronic nerds in their vehicles blasting thru our city and area at all hours of night and day.

We cannot afford to lose winter visitors. We can certainly do without the immature idiots who cause so many people to be upset and concerned with their blasting noise.

If there is not a city ordinance against this "noise pollution" there should be, and it should be rigidly enforced.

Visitors come here to visit with us during the winter months. They expect a nice western quiet town. Let's return Bandera back to that. We cannot afford to lose any more (winter Texans).

I certainly expect those in city office to be aware of this problems and act at once to bring peace and quiet to our nice town.

Name withheld by request.

Bandera 'justice'

Dear Editor:

Again I find myself mystified and disillusioned as to the way this county's judicial system operates. Justice is not being served.

In your Jan. 1 issue, there was an article about two boys who had been arrested for public intoxication and later charged with burglary of the high school. A lot of details were given as to how the arrest took place, the bond & charges, however, nothing was mentioned about what was stolen, when in fact, absolutely NOTHING was stolen. The high school principal, Mr. Delamain, has positively confirmed that fact to me personally. To constitute the felony charge of burglary, it is my understanding that burglary consists of the "taking and carrying away of items or the intent to do so." Since nothing was stolen, there was no burglary--as for intent, well you tell me, is it common practice for a burglar to break in, take nothing, leave the scene, to to the car wash and then return to steal? Not likely! However, burglary it is they say and an impossible bond is set for these boys, therefore they must stay in jail until a pre-trial hearing. As the mother of one of these boys I was concerned about how long this would take. I learned district court only sits in Bandera once a month, it would be the end of January. A month in jail at least. (The right to a speedy trial is imagined.) We tried everything we could to get a court appointed attorney whom we believed we had a right to, free of charge. That was a joke and the Miranda warnings are a fantasy here.

After learning the other boy had been released, I began to make calls and ask questions such as why? My son was taken to court in Fredericksburg the next day and released also. Was justice done?

NO WAY! No trial was held, he was made an offer, you plead guilty and we'll give you 5 years probation. A public defender was present, he advised him to take it and charged him $75 for attorney fees. My son wanted out now, so he did, against my advice. It is my understanding the other boy made the same deal. These boys did in fact commit crimes, they were drunk, they tore up the school yard, broke windows and entered the ag shop. They were caught and they should be punished, but for vandalism, criminal mischief, or even breaking and entry, not burglary. Justice is not being served by ruining a 17-year-olds life (first offense) with a felony charge on his record, when everyone from the arresting officer to the judge knows that was not the case at all.

Congratulations, Bandera! You now have 2 more convicted felons in your community. It's ridiculous!

It has been said "A lot of smart young men have come out of Bandera, the smarter they are, the faster they come out."

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – The Texas Supreme Court struck down the Legislature's plan to hike school property taxes, but left the illegal tax structure in place until next year.

By giving lawmakers — including those who will be elected to the next Legislature — a long deadline, justices dodged the task of writing the controversial law themselves.

Somewhat defusing the politics for now, the court did not shut down state funding of public schools, but it probably catapulted the issue to the top of voter shopping lists for 1992.

This marks the third time in as many years the High Court has rejected the Legislature's remedy, despite Gov. Ann Richards' pointed warning that frustrated lawmakers may just let the justices write the new law themselves.

Reacting last week, the governor accused the GOP-dominated court of "calling for an income tax."

"What's happening in all this Mickey Mouse is that the administrators, the teachers cannot plan because they never know how much money they're going to have," she said.

Conservative Victory?

But conservatives hailed the 7-2 decision as a victory over liberals, pointing as evidence to the fact that only liberals reacted angrily to the ruling.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, sponsor of the now-dead measure, accused the court of "posturing politically."

"Republicans, who are on the court who participated in the first double-tough opinion, caught a lot of flack from their constituents...and they started looking for a way to backpedal," Parker said.

Attorney General Dan Morales did not criticize the justices and said he didn't think the decision was political.

"We believe there is ample opportunity and ample time over the course of 1992 to prepare for a situation where the Legislature can hit the ground running," Morales said of the 1993 regular legislative session.

Redistricting Aftermath

In the aftermath of the redistricting battle, Federal Judge James Nowlin reopened court records which were sealed amid Democrat cries of foul play.

Meanwhile, Morales angered some Democratic senators by firing two attorneys chosen by lawmakers to help the Texas Democratic Party with redistricting.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, was critical: "Morales could well be the father of Republicans taking over the Texas Senate."

In a peripheral issue, Republican lawyers criticized Democrat lawyers representing minority groups for billing the state for more than $750,000 in fees.

But Jim Herrington, of the Texas Civil Rights Project, said the fees were "cheap" compared to previous redistricting lawsuits, and predicted Texas taxpayers will probably pay more than $6 million in attorneys' fees to lawyers suing the state over redistricting.

This doesn't include the $1 million it cost taxpayers to finance the recent special session which produced the plan rejected by the court.

Conflict of Interest?

Wise County Appraisal District officials criticized Texas Supreme Court Justice Jack Hightower for not recusing himself from a case for conflict of interest. They maintain that his daughter, Amy Hightower Brees of Austin, was a lobbyist for a company that benefitted from the court's 5-4 decision on a case involving property taxes on limestone deposits.

Legal Action Threatened

Trade groups for out-of-state utility companies asked U.S. Secretary of Energy James Watkins to take legal action to stop the Texas Railroad Commission from putting caps on production.

Several Texas officials have in the past two years called for more use of natural gas, a cheaper fuel. The utilities say the commission's caps will drive up prices and utility rates.

Other Highlights

- School district property values remained level statewide in 1991, although some districts saw sharp rises or falls, Comptroller John Sharp said last week. As of Jan 1, 1991, Texas school district taxable wealth totaled $364 billion, about one-half percent more than the previous year, Sharp said.
- Although Texas provided $727 million in additional state aid for public education this year, Texas dropped from 32nd to 35th among the states in the average salary paid to teachers, said Olivia Besteiro, Texas State Teachers Association president.
- Deann Friedholm, an aide to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, told an audience that Texas' healthcare systems is fragmented and underfunded, and will probably stay that way until Americans make health care affordable for all.
- Thousands of applicants for licenses to sell lottery tickets showed up to be fingerprinted last week as part of the application process.

Joel Evans leaves area

Joel Evans, who has served as funeral director and manager of Bandera Funeral Home in Bandera and has served as president of the Bandera Chamber of Commerce for the past two years, will be moving [illegible] Christi soon.

To honor Evans, friends in the community are sponsoring a covered dish supper on Thursday, Feb. 6 at 6 p.m. at the Cabaret.

"(He's) an outstanding volunteer, but most will remember his great compassion and help in the time of their bereavement," says Nancy Hopes.

Local author Barbara Catlin Craven said she was "very pleased" this week to learn that her latest novel, "Shotgun Wedding," published under the Silhouette Special Edition label, has retained its national number one spot on the charts for the second consecutive week.

The book, Craven's fourth, was listed by Walden Books as the best-selling romance novel nationwide for the second week in a row.

"Having the number one spot for one week was wonderful, but [illegible] goodness of [illegible]," Craven said. She writes under her maiden name, Barbara Catlin.

"Shotgun Wedding" takes place in San Antonio, and is the story of a single woman who tells a "little white lie" about being married in order to adopt a child. The heroine meets a handsome stranger who agrees to help her, and the rest... is romance.

The book is due to go off the stands Feb. 12, and has already sold out in many places. Later this month, Craven said she hopes a limited number of autographed copies will be available for purchase at the Bandera Bulletin and at Boyle's Market.

guest of honor and reviewing officer, and I was invited to meet him afterward at the reception. I was given specific instructions on how to act and talk to him. So I chatted for awhile and had my picture made with him," Bilhartz said.

During 1976, when America was celebrating its bicentennial, Bilhartz and his band released an album salute to American big-band music that included a successful German tour where they played to large audiences. Some of the selections they played included Aaron Copeland's "Fanfare For The Common Man" and "Lincoln Portrait."

"We had great attendance for that tour, playing such places as Munich and Nuremberg," Bilhartz said. "Years later, after a concert given by Copeland in San Antonio, I told him of how we successfully performed 'Lincoln Portrait' with the words of Lincoln in German. He said that was the first time that 'Lincoln Portrait' had ever been performed in that fashion," Bilhartz said.

Following his retirement from the Army in 1977, Bilhartz directed and taught the Medina high-school band for two years. He is currently involved with the Hermann Sons', Lodge German band where he serves as the band director. This mutual benefit society originally was limited to American citizens with German ancestors like Bilhartz, but now includes people from all backgrounds. Bilhartz's band specializes in playing German music at many social functions in the area.

"We started that band just about a year ago," said Bilhartz. "It's a small band, around 20 pieces, and we normally get strong reactions when we play. On Oct. 5, German-American day, we did a commemorative program at the Alamo with the guest of honor being the Consul General of the Federal Republic of Germany, Dr. Klaus Aurisch. Two of the heroes of the Alamo were born in Germany, and we performed a short ceremony there before the tourists and media."

Bilhartz has three children who, naturally, all play musical instruments. He mentioned with great pride that his youngest son is a Captain in the Army and heroically served in Operation Desert Storm as a company commander of an armor battalion. His daughter lives in Missouri and his oldest son works for the Navy Department in Washington, D.C.

After the globe-trotting success of directing the Army's band in such locations as Switzerland, Belgium, Great Britain and, of course, Germany, his most pleasant memory is linked to his wife while in France.

"On Memorial Day in 1976, we played eight memorial services in Paris. It also just happend to by my 25th wedding anniversary. I took my wife along to celebrate our anniversary in Paris that evening. She went along with us to all these programs, but they were scheduled so closely together that I told the major that we were never going to make it. There was just no way that we could get from one show to the other in time.

He thought that it would be allright because we had a police escort. Well, the French bus driver, after having stopped for lunch and eating, insisted on having his brandy and coffee. Even though we were running late, he refused to go until he had his usual after-lunch drinks. Remarkably, we were still able to make it by the skin of our teeth," Bilhartz said with a laugh.

Though officially retired, it seems as if Bilhartz is busier than ever. Another current musical endeavor he's involved in his small, mail-order business that specializes in tapes of German band music. In addition, he's a regular member of the Austin and San Antonio symphonies.

So the lover of music seems to be leading an enjoyable life in retirement.

"I love music and staying busy," Bilhartz said. "But I like to get out and have fun with the German tunes once in awhile too."

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You do much thinking this week about a new beginning. Don't make this heavier than it is, dear Ram. You put on your dancing shoes just in time for the weekend. You, your personality (and your dancing shoes) are on display all weekend long. Don't hesitate; go for it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Wish fulfillment becomes a reality rather than a possibility this week. But, just like a little kid, you want to gloat over your most recent acquisition, success, or... You are not to be found this weekend because you are so happy with GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You actually put into reality what you have been dreaming of. Reactions (yours and the world's) may be rather strong to all of this. Nevertheless, you are ready, willing, and rearing to go as the weekend begins. You will know what it means to wish upon a star, Gemini.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much of this week is spent looking at other points of view, assessing possibilities and then making a decision. You travel unknown realms as the week comes to a close, and because of your willingness to risk and pull in close, you may get a close glimpse of never-never land.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Go for the unknown and be more into another and what could happen. You may get an unbelievable opportunity. Don't risk and turn this one down... or do risk and walk through a new door. Romance, mystery and a deeper connection are all part of the scenario.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Your efficiency is tested this week, Virgo. Take another glimpse at a relationship or a potential relationship on the horizon. It is your choice if this is a soaring or falling star. You will be much happier this weekend if you go with the scenario of a rising star.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Don't take a loved one for granted who was gracious enough to forgive and forget. Know which side your bread is buttered and stay aware. Recognize you cannot keep all options open all the time. Listen to this person and demonstrate your caring — if you are to be a happy camper.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Clear out a family problem once and for all. You know what you can and cannot take. Once freed, even 'serious you' are able to soar like a butterfly and enjoy yourself. Let those creative juices flow as the weekend begins. Do what is good for you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Fantasize, play and talk, but really think twice before turning this idea into reality. A loved one or a child gives you important and significant feedback. Know what is, know what is real. Nevertheless, count on this weekend spent in the clouds.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Sensible and careful to a fault, you proceed very much in this manner this week. You may simply be unwilling right now to take any more risks, to reveal any more, or to make yourself vulnerable. You pay the consequences of this stance this weekend. Reconsider while you still can.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You are moving mountains right now, Aquarius, and you feel very creative. Do less crowing about who you are and how great you are. Be willing to be a little humble. If patient, you get your just desserts (and treats) this weekend. You just love what goes on.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) A flagrant attitude midweek may not help you. Make up your mind for now to stay mum. Also, be aware that all your opinions could change at any given moment in the next few weeks. You roll into the weekend a little insecure but for now, all the better. Do some soul searching, Pisces.

Water study focuses on usage

Rapidly growing population may force shift in allocation

By James Henry Frazar

(Editor's note: this is a [illegible] series on the Springhills Water Management District water study.)

The $82,000 water study conducted by the Springhills Water Management District calls attention to the likely increased load of water usage the rapidly growing county population is placing on the water table.

Water usage is proportional to the number of people in the area. The more people, the more water used.

The HDR engineers who conducted the study note that Bandera County has been the ninth-fastest growing county in the state of Texas during the 1980s, with a total growth rate of 49.1 percent, compared to a state rate of 19.4 percent.

Extrapolating population estimates, that takes the 10,562 people counted in Bandera County in the 1990 census to as few as 19,524 in 50 years and to as many as 32,745 in the same period.

Some observers would say Bandera County may have no or little growth in 50 years. Some would advocate placing limits to growth.

Rather than determine highly political speculation, HDR engineers stuck to current trends and assumed growth rates in the future as growth has occurred in the 1980s. For the low projections, they assumed the 1980s rate lagged 10 years.

In the year 2040, Bandera County will need a from 4,568 to 8,199 acre-feet of water per year for all its demands depending on growth rates, water use rates, and the success of a water conservation program.

Total groundwater availability for the county is 7,200 acre-feet per year, of which 6,500 acre-feet comes from the Trinity Group of Aquifers and 700 acre-feet from the Edwards Plateau Aquifer.

Surface water rights in Bandera County total 3,166 acre-feet per year, bringing the total possible water availability to 9,366 acre-feet. Most of the surface water rights is used for irrigation, that is, agriculture.

So the county's highest projected water usage in 50 years still does not exceed the total water available in the county.

The problem comes when considering where the water is Water. Bandera County has plenty of it-- just not in the right places, according to a study commissioner by the Springhills Water Management District.

at and where the people are at.

Most of the population of the county will be concentrated in the eastern one-third of the county in the year 2040, and the water demand per square mile will exceed how much groundwater can be taken per square mile.

Surface water already allocated presents further problems.

1. Just because there is a water right, doesn't mean there is any water. In a dry year, the creek the water is to be drawn from will be dry or the river too low and state officials will instruct persons with water rights to take less than they are authorized — the purpose of the Water Master program.

2. Surface water rights are generally owned by individuals, individuals who will not likely give up those hard-earned water rights easily.

3. Surface water rights are dedicated to a type of usage by the Texas Water Commission. Irrigation water must be used for irrigation only.

So except for agriculture use, the surface water currently allocated can be ignored.

That still leaves an estimated 5,629 acre-feet of municipal water needs.

According to the HDR engineers, 80 percent of the high-sided projected municipal demand in 2040 will be in the eastern 25 percent of the county.

Using wells, HDR estimates that the county will exceed the safe groundwater supply by 2,000 acre-feet in 2020 and 3,200 acre-feet by 2040.

In other words, some wells, those in the Pipe Creek, Lakehills, and parts of the Bandera area, will go dry from over-pumping.

To counter this, the HDR engineers proposed several options for moving water from one place to another.

In the future installments of this series, the options to move water around in the county will be considered, water conservation measures, and a closer look at the population concentration.

The study was paid for half by the Springhills District with local tax dollars and half paid by a grant from the state.

A complete copy of the report is available for inspection at the Bandera County library, Bandera high school library, Medina school library, the county judge's office and the Springhills district office.

'Wildflower 100' bike tour slated

The 14th annual Baptist Memorial Hospital System Wildflower 100 Bicycle Tours will wind their way through the Texas Hill Country on Saturday, May 2, with a staggered mass start beginning at 8 a.m. at Rolling Oaks Mall in San Antonio.

This year, a new 35-mile tour route will be added to the 100-mile (century), 62.5-mile, 50-mile, 25-mile and 10-mile tour routes that wind their way through the Hill Country. Each tour will be clearly marked, with sag support and energy-boosting refreshments along the routes. Preregistration is $16 per person or $40 for a family of four.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

Starting Saturday evening rains came again amounting to 4.8 inches. Very few days of much-needed sunshine.

Sunday, the congregation at Tarpley Baptist Church sang birthday greetings to Mrs. Clay Taylor. She is the pianist for the church.

Wednesday, Jan. 29, members of the choir at Bandera United Methodist Church sang birthday greetings to Willie, and had a party for him after choir practice.

•Georgia Holcomb of Seeligson, Ariz., was a recent guest of Elzie and Nettie Dean. She was on her way to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. to spend the winter months. She especially enjoyed the mountain scenery and shopping in Bandera.

•Glen Tyra of Tuolumne, Cal. was a visitor at Tarpley Baptist Church Sunday. He came to spend several weeks to attend business matters for his late uncle, Vic Purvis, and to attend funeral services.

Last week's obituary should have listed Victor Purvis' parents names as Benjamin and Alice Purvis, who came to the Tarpley area in 1921.

•The next meeting of the Williams Creek Extension homemakers Club will be Tuesday, Feb. 11 at marilyn Haner's home. The program on "Women's Suffrage" will be brought by Gerry Sharp.

Youth building site selected by group

The Bandera County Youth Center committee selected the area occupied by the old stock barns at Mansfield Park as a possible site for a new youth [illegible]

The group at the meeting composed by Bennie and Pat Barker, Steve and Jeanne Montgomery, Bob Cowan, James and Nancy MacMillan, Bub Keese, Janet Cave, Louis Vannatter, looked over the recreation center at Mansfield Park, but passed on remodeling the existing building.

The new building would replace the old stock show barns immediately adjacent to the recreation center [illegible] with a new building so the youth could identify with the new structure and more readily accept it.

The new building would tentatively house a skating rink — suitable for also for dances and maybe even basketball, a video game room, a pool table room, concession area with full-kitchen.

The dancing area could be used for big parties and even the high school prom, said Montgomery. Also included should be a study room and music system.

Other reasons for passing over the recreation center was its use by other groups for wedding receptions and other parties, roof repair that was needed, and new kitchen equipment that was needed.

The number one reason for chosing a new site, however, was that the youth needed to feel the building was theirs to use, not a building they could use when no one else needed it.

Some consideration was given to putting the building in front of the baseball practice field near State Highway 16, but the possibility of flooding from the nearby Medina River relegated that site to second choice.

Barker said he expects the youth center to be on Monday's commissioner court agenda.

Barker also said that the youth center would be built without county tax money. "It'll be privately funded. No tax money involved."

Future plans include a bowling alley — which could be used as a revenue-generator for the youth center — and a swimming pool built somewhere on Mansfield Park.

New categories broaden cook-off

Changes in consumer lifestyles have generated changes in the 1992 Texas Beef Cook-Off--including more opportunities to win as much as $3,000 in prize money.

Entries in five categories are being accepted until March 1 for this annual event that will be held April 23-24 at the Ramada Inn in Wichita Falls.

This year, 15 winners will receive a total of $10,000 in prize money. First place overall will win $3,000, second place overall will win $2,000, and the winner of each of the five categories will win $1,000.

The five categories will are: "Beef Meals Kids Like," "Best Under 300 Calories per Serving of Beef Recipe," "Most Convenient Beef Recipe," "Beef Recipes for Entertaining," and "Budget Beef Meals."

Contestant entries must be postmarked by March 1. For an entry form and information, contact the Texas Beef Cook-Off, 8310 Capital of Texas Hwy. N., Ste. 440, Austin, TX 78731-1081; (512) 345-3531.

Rabies drive set

A rabies drive is scheduled Saturday, Feb. 8 from 8 a.m. to noon at the Bandera Fire Station.

Rabies vaccinations will be available for $5, and city and county dog licenses will also be available.

Baby shower Feb. 16

There will be a baby shower for Rachel Simons Sunday, Feb. 16 at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Medina.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend, says spokeswoman Dixie Cohn.

Padre bike tour set

As many as 500 bicycle enthusiasts will participate in the Border Surf and Citrus 100 Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 8-9, from South Padre Island to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

A Response to B.J. Holmes' Letter to the Editor (Bandera Bulletin, Jan. 29)

ALL SORTS OF BUGS CRAWL OUT OF THEIR HOLES AT CERTAIN TIMES!

B.J. Holmes wrote to the BB editor Jan. 29. It was filled with untrue statements, so let's set the record straight.

Some of us at Wharton's Dock know why Bobby is not a member of the fire department. The same reasons so many of us have quit. Constant fighting, lack of leadership, and disrespect for members are only three reasons.

Bobby was on the appraisal board long enough to help select an honest and fair chief appraiser which was his goal.

Bobby's successful rollback effort was conducted in a professional, honest manner with nothing but the truth in all he said. The school used threats and little children to defeat him; it didn't work. Character assassination was tried; it didn't work then and it won't work for you.

Bobby's character is squeaky clean! His honest and pleasant attitude are something new in our community. He is a champion at public relations, always greeting people with a smile and a kind word.

B.J., you indicated Benny's pick and shovel abilities. The voters don't elect a pick and shovel man, they elect an administrator who hires his pick and shovel workers. Who knows, maybe the new commissioner will offer you a job on his work crew.

B.J., you sure know how to insult the backbone of the military, the sergeants. Do you have a hang-up with sergeants or something? Has some mean ole sergeant given you a pain you can't locate? There are a lot of them living in our precinct. Better watch your slurs.

A few Citizens of Wharton's Dock Area who prefer reading the truth, not trash.

Dance set to 'appreciate' Winter Texans

Winter Texans will get in free with a campground ID at a dance Saturday, Feb. 15 at Bandera's Cabaret dance Hall.

Door prizes, free munchies and a DWI cash bar will be featured at the dance, which has been called "An Appreciation Dance for Winter Texans." The dance is sponsored by the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce and local merchants.

HCAF comedy begins Feb. 5

Neil Simon's comedy, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will be presented at the Hill Country Art Foundation's Point Theater in 10 performances in Ingram.

The three-act play will be staged indoors Wednesday through Sunday, Feb. 5-9, and Wednesday through Saturday, Feb. 12-15.

All shows will be at 8 p.m., except the Feb. 9 performance will be scheduled at 2 p.m. On Feb. 15 there will be two performances, at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Directed by Douglas Balentine, the play will star four Kerrville actors, Patrick Cass as Barney, Peggy N. Graham as Elaine, Anne Reynolds as Bobbi, and Aletha Ann Galland as Jeanette.

According to Balentine, the play is a "tragi-comedy," a comedy with tragic undertones, though it was not described that way when it opened on Broadway in 1969.

For tickets and more information, call the HCAF office at 512-367-5121 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Hooraye, buzzahs, and ole after ole for the organizers of the Styrofoam Roundup announced in last week's Bulletin. Since clean-up crews were to meet at River Front Motel, we assume that Tom Larson has had much to do with the latest effort to rid [illegible] in.

Something going on in Bubba's head had inspired him to throw out the cups and other trash in greater quantities than ever before, turning our pleasant rural countryside into one big litter bin. Surely ole Bubba is not necessarily responsible for the killing in Somalia or even lay-offs in Detroit. Psychologists say that messiness is a sign of emotional depression or despondency. Like what's the use.

But a great cheer-upper is to get in there with a broom and trash bag and get rid of all the clutter. It works every time. After the Styrofoam Roundup tidies up the environs we'll ALL feel better! Besides cleanliness and beauty inspire more cleanliness and beauty.

Years ago in San Antonio, when Thomas Jefferson High School was being built out in what was called Spanish Acres on the far edge of the city, some people protested the incorporation into the plan of handsome patios, Spanish tile floors, and colorful arches in the school auditorium. Careless students would just kick the place to pieces anyway.

But canny old principal, T. Guy Rogers, (whom Hull Youngblood and Jane Graham remember if none of the rest of us do) said, no, the elegant architecture and bright surroundings would inspire students to find inspiration and pride in their school and take care of it.

T. Guy was right. At least for the first fifty years, Jefferson was spared graffiti and litter. Of course, we will have to admit that during the early period of the school's history, the two cardinal sins of the campus were to shoot paper clips at the metal chandeliers because they speak some truth about us. Just teed off at our sending armies our to defend the whole world does not justify our being so sloppy at home.

Many [illegible] to march down to the Town House and sort junk of our own. We frankly admit that the Green [illegible] something we cannot decide to throw away, is in such a disgraceful state that we would like to ask Chief Welch for a long yellow ribbon saying, "Crime Scene. Do Not Enter."

Legion sets Valentine dance

Bob Mason and his "One Man Band" will be featured when Bandera has a Country and Western Valentine Dance Saturday, Feb. 8 from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Admission is $2.50 per person, and the public is invited.

Mr. Mason has become well-known around Bandera County for his talent, versatility [illegible] says Carolyn Purach. "Although western music will be featured Saturday night, he is capable of providing any type of music the dancers request."

As an added attraction, two free tickets to the American Dance Feb. 14 at the Cabaret will be given away as a door prize.

Because the post does not have a liquor license, Purach says that those attending the event are welcome to "bring their own bottle. Soft drinks, set-ups ad coffee will be available for a nominal charge," she said.

Commander Clyde Rowley says that proceeds will go to the building fund, to repair several newly-discovered roof leaks.

A Special Salute to the Hill Country
FEB. 9-10
1992 is the Year of the Volunteer. It is the loyal dedication of many generous south Texas volunteers that makes the Annual San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo a reality. It is because of your support that we are able to raise money for youth in agriculture. Because of these efforts we salute you! The first 1,000 visitors from the Hill Country area attending the show Feb. 9-10 will receive a limited edition San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo commemorative pin. Just stop by the Information Center located near the entrance to the Family Fair and tell them you're from the Hill Country. Wear it proudly, knowing you have contributed to the educational advancement of our Texas youth!

Reba McEntire

She has won top country music awards for the last eight years and Sunday and Monday, Feb. 9-10, she'll be appearing at the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo.

Reba McEntire, the 1991 Academy of Country Music [illegible] ed to spin tunes from her recent and 20th album, "For My Broken Heart," a collection of heart-breaking, emotionally charged songs.

The title track deals with the realization that life goes on despite a broken relationship.

That's a standard C-W theme for songs, but in this album she addresses the issue of mercy killing in "Bobby."

The collection closes with "If I Had Only Known," a song dedicated to her seven band members and tour manager who died early in 1991 in an airplane crash.

The album is [illegible] is this album, but while sad, she [illegible] songs often has a way of healing a situation. It gets the hurt out in the open, into the light, out of the darkness."

The Oklahoma-native got her break in 1974 when as a 19-year-old she sung the national anthem at the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City. She was whisked off to a recording studio to record her debut album with Mercury Records.

McEntire has starred in a horror-movie with a twist, "Tremors" and more recently in NBC mini-series "The Gambler IV." McEntire took the female lead opposite Kenny Rogers.

She has one son, Shelby, born in February, 1990.

Other entertainers scheduled to appear include Clint Black, Alabama, Mark Chesnutt, Alan Jackson, Ricky Van Shelton, Tanya Tucker, Joe Diffie, the Charlie Daniels Band, Travis Tritt, Shenandoah and the Texas Tornodoes.

Cindi Richter

Local woman to vie for 'Mrs.' crown

Cindi Richter of Pipe Creek will be competing in the Mrs. San Antonio USA Pageant Sunday, March 1, 2 p.m. at the Scottish Rite Auditorium in downtown San Antonio.

She will be competing with at least 10 other women from the San Antonio area for the title with the hope of going on to the state and national pageant. As far as she knows, she is the only women competing from the Hill Country.

Richter, 36, says she had seen an advertisement for the pageant several times and got curious.

"It uplifts the idea of marriage, and the accomplishments of a married woman," says Richter. "Family and marriage is important to me and I felt it was time that the marriages and family got uplifted, too."

She says she has known her husband, Curtis, for almost 21 years.

She has four children, Lisa, 17, Justin, 15, and her twins, Kurt and Jacob, 11.

Is the pageant she will be competing in aerobic wear, which will count as 25 percent of the judging; evening gown, 25 percent; and interview for 50 percent.

The interview is done with six judges one-on-one. "That's where they get to know us and about our family life."

As part of the competition, she has put together a family album that include dating her husband, her children and family life.

Richter is an independent sales contractor with Associate Advertising of San Antonio. She is a member of Hill Country Chapel of Pipe Creek.

So far she has competed in a fashion show as part of the event.

Proceeds from the pageant go to support the San Antonio Public Library.

Tickets are $12 in advance through a contestant, such as her, through Feb. 19 and $15 at the door.

Susie Short and "Flannery Bay."

'Flannery Bay' wins Kerrville art show

"Flannery Bay," a sculpture by local artist Norma Jean Anderwald, took first place honors when the Kerrville Art Club (KAC) held their annual Juried Art Exhibition Jan. 26 in Kerrville.

The exhibition was directed by Susie Short, and was held at the Duncan-McAshan Gallery in the Hill Country Arts Foundation. Juror was Kathy von Tilberg Evans of the Tejas canyon Studios of San Antonio.

"With her expertise, 'Bandera's own Susie' was the standing committee director," Anderwald said. "The club president said this was the most extensively presented exhibition ever shown by KAC and its artists.

"Short is to be highly commended for her abilities in putting it all together for us," Anderwald said. "We have certainly advanced our personal goals and those of KAC."

Other artists who placed in the show included Mary Zirkel of Medina, who won second place for her oil "Red Oak;" and Short, who won second place in the watercolor division for a floral interpretation "Classic White."

Other Bandera County artists who participate in the club include Ernesto Carino, Joi Carrington and Lee Hassell. Carino is January artist of the month, and is a finalist for the artist of the year competition in May.

"This exhibition has presented some of the best competition to be offered anywhere, and the academic reach of each artist has indeed elevated their club status and promotion in the visual arts," Anderwald said.

"There is one award yet to be presented in February, so come to the HCAF in Ingram and vote for your choice for best of show through Feb. 23."

The gallery is open to the public, without charge, weekdays from 10 a.m. through 5 p.m.

Olga Bolduc is back from vacation and will resume her duties as instructor for the popular art classes each Tuesday. Get your paint brushes cleaned up and be on hand to welcome Olga back.

•The State Hospital in Kerrville needs our help. Some of the residents require tercycloth booties. These are simple to sew. In a couple of weeks the pattern and materials will be made available so we can commerce making these items. If you are willing to sew some of these booties at home call me at the center and let me know. We will accept knitted house shoes but the terrycloth ones are so easy to launder.

•As I have reported before the Silver Sage Corral will have a plant sale on Saturday, March 7. In addition to selling plants we will have space available for those of you that wish to sell arts and craft items. These spaces, large and small, will be available for a small donation and will be on a first come first served basis. And to top all of this off we are going to have those delicious char-broiled hamburgers, pies and cakes made by faithful volunteers. Coffee, lemonade and soft drinks will also be available

If you have any plants you wish to donate, please bring them by the center, or call and we will make arrangements to pick them up. We also invite you to come help with the sale, and spend a few pleasant hours working. Please let us know what you can donate and if you can work.

•Marie holland, president of the board of directors at the center has captured another coveted award-- she received the Volunteer of the Year award at the Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet last week. This is the second honor bestowed on Marie recently.

•Offer someone a word of encouragement each day, and it will make you feel good.

Germanfest features sausage, band

Sausage, German band, and old-time demonstrations will be part of the Germanfest set in Violet Sunday, Feb. 9.

Costumed band members will play German music and demonstrations of old-fashioned lard rendering and sausage preserving will be part of the entertainment.

Other events include a silent auction. Home-baked goods, homegrown vegetables and crafts will be offered in a country store.

The Violet Museum will be open all day. Call 512-387-2308 for more information.

Concert set

The Mid-Texas Symphony will present a concert Sunday, Feb. 9, at Jackson Auditorium in Seguin. Call 512-372-8180 for ticket information.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

There is an old-fashioned word that is used rarely these days. The word is "mettle." It means courage and even more than courage. It is an ingrained capacity to bear up under strain. To be on one's mettle is to be roused or prepared to do one's best with spirit, courage and ardor.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, who traveled a different road before he found the key to triumph, wrote, "He must keep his faith in himself while the incredulous world assail him with its utter disbelief."

That, I suspect, is where all of us have to begin when our hopes are thwarted. Faith in ourselves is one thing we never can afford to surrender. It is the key to "mettle," to courage to keep going when we feel drained. When we cease to believe in ourselves and our God-given powers and possibilities, we are finished. It is the man/woman who can go on believing in himself/herself while the incredulous world assails him with its utter unbelief who comes thru undefeated.

And, yes, these are times to test the "mettle" of us all.

Crafts are so big in their lives — they bought a store

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

They wanted a place to display their crafts and sell them to be Gypsies going from one show to the next.

J.D., 77, and Shirley, 57, Wootan have been plying the craft trade with [illegible] paint brushes, screwdrivers and the like now for almost [illegible].

It's therapeutic. "When J.D. and I retired in 1966, we read every Louis L'amour book there was. We didn't know what to do with ourselves," says Shirley.

"When we discovered crafts, we didn't have enough time to do everything."

Their craft work started out four years ago when they made a lamb footstool for their great-granddaughter.

The wooden footstool was covered with cloth in the shape of a lamb.

"Both of us love to work with our hands. People started asking us to make crafts for them."

They found the crafts were a good alternative to buying presents, as it is for other folks. "It's like the pioneer spirit. A handmade gift is more appreciated."

But craft work is not just for retired folks. "Young people do it. They go to a different craft show every week."

But making a lot of money at crafts should not be the aim. "It breaks your heart, but you can't charge for your time (making the crafts). The price would be too high.

"You have to love what you're doing."

The Wootan's work is unique. That comes from inspiration.

"Our inspiration comes from the same place anyone else gets it. We see what an artist does, then that starts your idea process. By the time you've finished (with your craft), the other artist won't recognize it."

There is another source of ideas and they walk in the door now. "Our customers are our best inspiration," says Shirley.

But before they had a permanent location, they would show their wares every month at the South Texas Trade Fair starting in 1987 in Leon Springs and then in Boerne.

Lambs are a central theme to the Wootans and that goes back to family roots. "Lambs have always been in the Wootan and Lynch (her) families," said Shirley. "Our nephews have a big lamb feeding operation in Minard."

She started a "Lamb of the Month" where she designed a new lamb every month. "First came the Little Sheep, then Bitty Sheep, then Cheap Sheep and then the flat sheep holding the shelf up."

Her challenge now is finding a new sheep design each month. That challenge has included making a wooden sheep that hangs from a chain that can be used as a ceiling fan pull.

Two-inch yellow pine is cut out in the shape of an animal. The inside of the animal shape is also cut out. Plexiglass is then secured to both sides of the wooden shape. A hole is cut in the bank for the coins.

Designs include goats — a best seller in this part of the country, Shirley says, and dinosaurs, rabbits, and of course, lambs.

One custom design is a "His & Hers" bank. It's shaped like a house with two compartments, a "His" and "Her" compartment. Drop a coin into the hers slot and the coin falls into the her compartment. Drop a coin into the his slot and the coin falls into the her compartment. Local joke.

Other work done is hand woven cord coverings for lawn chairs — replacing the usual plastic.

Most of their crafts are called, "Country art," painted in an Americana style. One such item is a wooden decorative chicken painted like Dominecken chicken. "I tell people they're made by a little lady in the hills."

J.D. specializes in wind chimes made of metal water pipe and plastic birds whose "wings" when hung out in the yard "flap" when the wind blows.

Another simple, but highly called for craft, is the cow chip on a wooden plank, which usually contains a poem called "Ode to a Cow Chip."

"We had an order for 10 (cow chip boards) before Christmas." Their search was complicated by the massive rains during the days before Christmas, but they found a willing rancher and "we went out into the pasture and got those steaming piles," says Shirley.

They had two days to dry out the chips. So they used a barbecue grill. The barbecue grill has been converted to a permanent cow chip drier.

Their craft store is more than a business. It's a way of life. "Our store is to provide a unique place for people to buy crafts at affordable prices — crafts that you'd have to go to Kerrville or San Antonio to get."

Shirley is a past president of the Bandera County Artists Association and has organized two of the courthouse lawn arts shows for the club.

Public Notice
Southwestern Bell Telephone Company recently filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to redefine the location of the demarcation point, or demarc. The demarc is where Southwestern Bell Telephone wiring connects with customer-maintained wiring.
This request will not increase customers' service rates. This request simply changes the point within the wiring where Southwestern Bell's maintenance responsibility ends and the customer's maintenance responsibility begins. As before, customers will be able to connect their own wiring directly to Southwestern Bell's network at points up to the new demarc.
Southwestern Bell is seeking approval of this new demarc location to bring its tariff into compliance with a Federal Communications Commission Order in CC Docket 88-57.
More information will be included in customers' bills beginning February 1, 1992. Persons who wish to comment on the application should notify the PUC by March 20, 1992. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, TX 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Wildseed expert to speak

The Bandera Chapter of the Native Plant Society of Texas plans to meet Thursday, Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. at the Bandera Electric Cooperative Meeting Room, says President Bill Myhre.

The speaker for the evening will be John Thomas of Wildseed, a wild flower seed company from Eagle Lake, Texas. Thomas will have this year's wild seed [illegible] available."

The public is always invited to meetings and activities of the Native Plant Society, an organization dedicated to the use and preservation of native plants and their environments.

The Bandera Chapter meets the second Thursday of each month. Future programs will feature Liz Druitt on "Found Roses" on March 12, Hanz Hansen on "Heirloom Vegetables" on April 9, and Elizabeth Winston on "Extracting Dyes from Native Plants" on May 14.

Balloon sculptor set at SA stock show

A Bandera man will be sculpting balloons at the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo from Wednesday, Feb. 7, to Sunday, Feb. 18.

Gavin Pearson, doing business as Gavin's balloons, will be in the family fair area in the stock show.

Jazz concert set

The Lamarissimo! Jazz Concert in Beaumont Tuesday, Feb. 11, will feature Lamar University jazz bands. Evening performances will be in the Julie Rogers Theater.

Grief, aging and stress to be workshop topics

Three separate workshops dealing with grief, aging and stress will be offered at the Lakehills United Methodist Church during February.

Each two-hour workshop will be taught by [illegible] gerontologist who consults with businesses, religious organizations, social agencies, and retirement communities, as well as individuals and families on issues concerning older adults.

Each workshop is $10 and $25 for those persons who wish to attend all three.

The first workshop Tuesday, Feb. 11, will cover grief. The discussion will be on what grief is, situations that may cause it, and ways to recognize it.

The workshop will include methods to help individuals, families and congregations cope with grief.

The second workshop, Tuesday, Feb. 18, is entitled, "Aging and the Spiritual Journey."

According to Blanks, a spiritual journey can be taken at any point in a person's life and when the journey is taken later in life, the journey can prepare the person to "face, with confidence, the many issues of older adulthood."

She also recommends the workshop to persons faced with taking care of an older relative.

The third workshop Tuesday, Feb. 25, covers stress: the ways to recognize it, use it, and make it work for the stressee.

Lunch will follow each workshop.

Each session will be limited to 30 persons.

Church spokeswoman Carol Lobert has indicated if the workshops fill up, another series of workshops can be set up in the future.

Blanks uses visioning techniques in designing and developing senior adult programs.

She is active in the United Methodist Church at the local, conference and national level in senior adult ministries.

Blanks co-developed the program, "Aging and the Spiritual Journey: the Use of Group Process."

Until recently, she was the program coordinator for the 55-Plus program at Southwest Texas Methodist Hospital.

She has a masters degree in social gerontology from Incarnate Word College.

Gerontology is the study of aging and the problems of aging.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Do You Pursue Peace?

— Psalms 34:14

Peace is a condition of man's existence that should be regarded above all others. It is a time we do not celebrate in any special manner unless it comes at the end of some long conflict — as we did after the World War I Armistice and the conclusion of wars since. Nevertheless, peace is something we all want and wish for. It is that period of life Shakespeare described as "above all earthly dignities." Yet all too often, we use the word in context of armed strife, nation against nation. In reality, peace is a state that we seek in our daily lives, a relaxation of personal strife, a harmony in our relationships with family and friends. Yet peace is all too easy to lose. As the Psalm says, we must "pursue it." Yet peace can be attained, for both our outer lives and inner contentment.

Spores are transferred to healthy trees, expert says

By Susan Crawford Tracy
Special correspondent

Note: This is the second in a four-part series on oak wilt, describing how the disease spreads and what conditions are necessary for infection to occur.

How is oak wilt spread?

The initial source of disease is spores of the oak wilt fungus which are produced on red oaks (specifically Spanish or blackjack oaks, in our area) recently infected by oak wilt; infection can occur when these spores are transferred to the vascular system of a healthy but susceptible tree.

How, where and when do ...

Some months after a red oak is infected by oak wilt, fruiting structures, known as "fungal mats", may develop beneath the bark of that dying tree. On these mats grow the spores that are the first link in the oak wilt chain of infection, the fungus in its sexual, highly contagious phase. Fungal mats do not develop on all diseased red oaks, however: they form only if environmental conditions are just right; the tree, once completely dead, ultimately dries past a point at which spores' development is possible.

If fungal mats do form, they will appear some months after the tree had been infected; occasionally in late autumn, but more typically between late February and June, depending on the weather. March to April is considered the prime period for mat formation. Once fungal mats form, the spores remain viable only for a few weeks, they are unlikely to survive the hot dry weather of a typical Texas summer.

Oak wilt fungus develops spores only on infected Spanish and blackjack oaks. Fungal mats have never been found on diseased live oaks.

How do the spores reach a healthy tree?

The primary vector for the external spread of oak wilt is a sap-feeding beetle, a tiny insect attracted both to the sweet-smelling fungal mats on a diseased red oak, and to the sap flowing from very fresh tree wounds. The beetle crawls through the thin vertical cracks caused by an expanding fungal mat; feeds at it and emerges contaminated with spores. If the beetle then alights upon a fresh wound on a nearby red oak or live oak, the fungus can invade that healthy tree through the access point of the wound. The beetle's normal range is several hundred yards, although wind (not to mention long-distance transportation in firewood!) can obviously take it further.

Part two of a series

What happens to a tree infected with oak wilt?

It's tree infected with spores of the oak wilt fungus belongs to the red oak group, it will very likely succumb to the disease, within a few weeks after symptoms first appear. Again, fungal mats may form; our sap-feeding beetle may pick them up before ... freshly pruned or otherwise wounded. If that tree is a susceptible species of oak, the disease can come full circle.

What about live oaks?

If a live oak is infected with oak wilt, the cycle takes a very different turn. Once one live oak is infected, a spreading disease center is likely to form, as the fungus moves into adjacent trees sharing roots with the diseased tree. The infection can continue to spread from tree to tree to tree, traveling underground through the wide-spreading and interconnected roots typical of live oaks. But as we mentioned already, fungal mats have never been ... roots: eventually, it will play itself out, stopped by a natural barrier such as a riverbed, very wide treeless field or rock ledge.

... severing root connections with adjacent trees, there is no known way to stop the underground spread of disease once the fungus invades live oaks. A key objective must be prevention: disrupting the disease cycle before that first tree is put at risk. Looking back, we can see that for initial, above-ground infection to occur, there are three essential components.

•First, there must be viable spores.

•Second, insects must carry the spores to a healthy susceptible tree.

•Third, there must be fresh open wounds on that target tree.

By focusing on these weak points in the disease cycle, we ... risk that an infection center ... how, starting with the spores. Is there any way to prevent spores from developing?

... oak by burning it, as soon as it is apparent that the tree is dying, will eliminate any chance that fungal mats can form. Just cutting the tree down may not suffice, unfortunately, for if enough moisture remains, spores may form some time afterwards on the cut wood.

For this reason, firewood from areas of known oak wilt should be treated with great ... but diseased red oaks, transported long distances, has been implicated in the spread of disease to areas far from where it had previously occurred. To prevent any chance of spreading oak wilt through the careless handling of firewood:

•Burn any fresh firewood that may have been cut from red oaks, by mid-February.

•Store any fresh wood from areas of known oak wilt covered completely with clear plastic, to prevent beetle movement.

•Purchase only well-seasoned firewood: any spores that may ... have developed are unlikely to be viable after the bark of the wood has become crumbly and dry.

Can we get rid of beetles?

Unfortunately, no. These little ... virtually impossible to eliminate the tiny common nitidulid responsible for transmitting oak wilt. The best we can do to combat it is to be aware of periods of peak insect activity: in very cold weather, and very hot weather, the beetles are less active than during the mild spring and autumn months.

Can a tree be protected?

Actually, an undamaged tree ... wilt through external transmission. The reason for this is that the nitidulids, the beetles acknowledged as the primary if not the sole insect vector for oak wilt transmission, are sap-feeders. Unlike the bark beetles responsible for spreading Dutch elm disease, the nitidulids cannot drill through the bark to make their own wound. As a result, the bark of even a susceptible species of oak protects it from invasion by the disease organism causing oak wilt, just as your own skin protects your body from infection.

Commissioners consider new car, discuss overtime pay and insurance

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Constable Bill Ellis told Bandera County Commissioners Jan. 27 that he needs a new patrol car.

In other action at commissioners' meeting Jan. 27, they approved over-time pay for a county employee, [illegible] ment with the county, and accepted a bid for law enforcement liability insurance that was lower than last year's.

Ellis told commissioners that the patrol car he has been using is worn out and will barely make the rounds.

Ellis said he saves the county considerable money by driving prisoners from the Bandera County Jail to the Texas [illegible]

Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest gave Ellis an old patrol car when he bought new patrol cars a few years ago.

"Last year I went 19,722 miles for the county. I served 220 citations and made 262 calls last year," said Ellis.

Ellis' gets no mileage expense and uses fuel from the county yard, as do the other sheriff's patrol cars.

Ellis is paid a salary of $1 a year. He had been taking mileage expense in lieu of the salary when he used his own truck for patrolling.

But when he got the patrol car from the sheriff, he gave [illegible]

NEWSLETTER

VOLUME I NO. 2 — WINTER 1992

GET THE FACTS

The other day I was reading a children's story book to my son. I was really struck by the story of the grasshopper and the ant. You probably remember the story. The ant worked hard during the summer planning and preparing for the harsh winter months. The grasshopper spent the summer months doing absolutely nothing. In short, because he didn't plan or prepare for the future, the grasshopper found himself cold and hungry with no place to live when winter arrived. His very survival was threatened because he didn't plan or prepare for the future.

Over the last few years, I have had the privilege of discussing water issues with many people. Some people will flatly ignore the facts. Like the proverbial ostrich, they bury their heads in the sand and hope the problems will just go away. These people will often sermonize without offering any solutions. Unfortunately, they would lead us down the same path the grasshopper traveled. At the other end of the spectrum you have the "chicken-littles". Like the storybook character, they run around yelling. Most often the "chicken-little" fans the flames of dissention by attacking personalities and ignoring facts. They become obsessed with "getting" someone. Is it possible that one can be so consumed with bitterness that they cannot see the good in others?

In all facets of life decisions must be made. Decisions regarding our water resources must be made. You owe it to yourself to get the facts. Don't rely on gossip or biased reporting. Talk to your District representative.

WATER SUPPLY STUDY

The water supply study has been the topic of discussion in recent weeks, most notably by a few individuals with grievances toward members of the Board of Directors for this District. Although the facts have been stated many times, the following is a summary of the events leading to the study and of the study itself.

In July, 1990, the Texas Department of Health (TDH), Public Health Region 6, informed Springhills Water Management District (District) that Bandera County is deficient in drinking water supply, and particularly emphasized the deficiency in the eastern part of the county. In September, 1990, the Texas Water Commission (TWC) declared Bandera County's groundwater supply critical and included Bandera County in the designated Hill Country Critical Area.

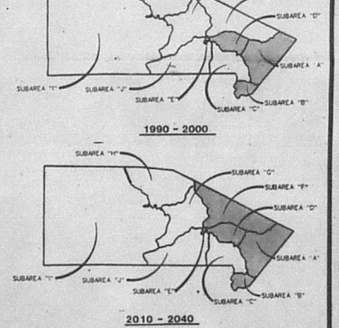
In November, 1990, the District applied for $41,000 in grant funds from the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB). A 50-50 matching grant was approved in January, 1991. HDR Engineering, Inc. (HDR) was retained by the District in March, 1991, after a qualifications review period, to serve as the consultant for the development of a regional water supply plan for Bandera County. The plan was completed in October, 1991, after review of the final report and approval by the District's Advisory Committee and the TWDB.

To develop the water supply plan HDR was charged with determining all available water supplies, forecasting water needs, and finally recommending ways to meet those water needs. Data from several independent entities was used in assessing supply and demand.

Several areas in Bandera County were identified as showing depletion of groundwater and in need of additional water supply (see figures this page). HDR also forecasted demand based on population growth projections that considered recent growth, school enrollment data and economic development.

Finally, HDR outlined ten ways that they believed would alleviate the water problems in the water short areas. One alternative involves transporting groundwater from low use areas to high use areas. The other nine alternatives involve utilizing surface water to augment groundwater.

It is important to note that all data indicate a gradual depletion of groundwater in several areas of the county. This does not mean that we will run out of water tomorrow, but it does indicate a potential problem for the future - a problem that may never come to pass with proper planning today. Now is the time to plan for the future and that is exactly what this District is doing.



STATE CONTROL

The Texas Water Commission (the regulatory arm of the State government that deals with water resources. Additionally, the Water Commission is the head of the new State agency, Texas Resource Conservation Commission. Governor Ann Richards, with an unusually rare opportunity, has named all three Texas Water Commissioners since she took office last year. This is rare since the office of Water Commissioner is a six-year term and only one or two terms normally expire during the term of the Governor.

Pam Reed, a County Commissioner from Travis County is the second of Richard's appointments. Reed fills the vacancy left by the death of John Birdwell of Lubbock.

Upton County Judge, Peggy Sue Garner, is Richard's third appointment. Garner replaces Buck Wynn who resigned to head the EPA Region VI.

The Commission, now made up of two members from Austin and one from West Texas, can definitely change the way we manage groundwater. A ruling by the Attorney General this past Fall gives the three member Commission the power to write rules regulating groundwater use.

This ruling overturns a 1941 Attorney General's opinion that the State has no regulatory authority to control a landowner's right to use the groundwater under his property.

John Hall has stated that the Water Commission will limit it's involvement to those cases where local solutions are not being developed.

...the Water Commission will limit it's involvement to those cases where local solutions are not being developed...

In a meeting with Commissioner Hall, this District informed him of the steps we were taking to address problems at the local level.

...Commissioner Hall, the Commission will only intervene in areas where the local districts fail to address water quality and water quantity problems.

This ruling will be put to the test if a regional solution to the Edwards Aquifer problem is not reached. The Water Commission has set a deadline of February 4 after which time the Commission may move to implement a State management plan for the Edwards Aquifer. It is entirely possible the AG's opinion will be challenged in court.

Groundwater management is changing. The Springhills Water Management District and other districts in Texas are committed to local control and private ownership of groundwater. This District has worked on and been directly involved in legislation that has protected local control and private ownership of groundwater for the last two legislative sessions. In fact, work has already begun for the next legislative session. We will continue to work with all those involved in preserving local control and private ownership of our water resources.

It is not always easy nor is it an enviable task to plan for the future. Who knew, in 1940, that Bandera County would have over 10,000 people in 1991?

Many items in the study have been taken out of context and have been used as instruments of terror by those that oppose any type of sound planning. It is a sad day when those that oppose ideas resort to "personality bashing". This District stands on its record of protecting water rights for its constituency and the integrity of its directors. Bandera County cannot wish the future away. Our best hope is to prepare for the future and plan for it. This water study provides the foundation for that plan.

Bulldogs drop two

...Behind only a basket in the final minutes against the Ro-Hawks Friday night at Randolph, the Bulldogs almost pulled off their first district win before losing 64-52.

Tuesday's night game against Hondo was not quite as close of a game. The Bulldogs were never in the game against the Owls, trailing 18 points at the half, the Dogs had trouble finding the handle on the roundball and simply gave up too many turnovers to stay with Hondo, losing 36-52.

The boys varsity will begin their second round of district play this Friday night at Cole. Both varsity teams travel to Cole with the Lady Bulldog game starting at 6:30 and the boys scheduled to tip-off at 8p.m.

It's dormant oil spray time for fruit trees

Late January and early February is prime time to apply dormant oil to fruit trees, nut trees and various landscape trees as well.

Scale insects are a primary target of the oil spray. Scale are tiny sucking insects that can severely injure or kill branches or entire trees. They attach themselves to twigs, limbs and major branches with smooth bark and each insect seals itself under a protective covering. The coverings are visible as scaly crusts ranging from a dull grayish-white with San Jose scale (the most common scale on fruit trees) to snow-white to dull brown for other types of scale.

Scale insects tend to be especially serious problems on peaches, plums and other stone fruits, as well as apples and pears. Numerous ornamental trees and shrubs are also attacked. Silver maple has been noted with especially serious scale infestations.

Dormant oil sprays are also applied to kill overwintering eggs or various insects and mites. Phylloxera eggs are a primary target on pecan trees. Phylloxera galls on pecan leaves and twigs were particularly heavy in 1991.

The dormant oil spray can be applied anytime when the tree is fully dormant and before it has leafed out or begun to bloom. Late winter is a better time than early winter because the scale insects weaken and become more vulnerable as winter progresses.

Spray on a day when the temperature is between 50 degrees and 80 degrees and when no hard freezes are expected within the next few days.

Mix an insecticide with the oil for best results. Spray dormant oil at a rate of 1.5 to 2 gallons per 100 gallons or 3 oz. (6Tbsp.) per gallon of water. Lorsban or diazinon are insecticides labeled for tank mixing with dormant oil.

Good spray coverage is important since the primary mechanism of kill is suffocation by an oil film. Air sprayers and other low volume sprayers are not as good as handgun application although air sprayers will do the job if care is taken to insure good spray coverage.

Do not over-apply dormant oil or tree injury may result. Heavy scale infestations may require more than 1 dormant oil application for eradication. If a second oil spray is applied, wait at least 3 weeks after the first spray or until after heavy rainfall has occurred.

Oil-related tree injuries sometimes occur because of poor mixing in the spray tank so be sure that your spray tank has good agitation immediately, before and during spraying.

Williams completes basic training course

Pvt. John L. Williams has completed the basic field artillery cannoneer course at Fort Sill, Okla.

During the course, students were taught the duties of howitzer or gun section crewman. They also received instruction in communications, maintenance and the handling of ammunition and explolives.

He is the son of Mitchell and Mary Alice Williams of Pontiac.

Livestock show, rodeo set in El Paso

The 64th Southwestern Livestock Show and Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association Rodeo continues through Sunday, Feb. 9. in the El Paso County Coliseum with livestock shows, rodeos and country-western entertainment.

Over 850 of the country's top rodeo performers are expected to compete in bull riding, team roping, calf roping, barrel racing, saddle brone riding and bareback brone riding events.

The extravaganza will include horse shows, livestock exhibitions and competitions, chili cook-off and agriculture and commercial exhibits.

Dear Friends,

The recent excessive rains, while welcome and necessary, have created road problems for all Precincts of Bandera County. Our road and bridge crews are working to clear low water crossings, stabilize dangerous and impassable soft spots, clear plugged discharge culverts and apply patches to damaging potholes in paved areas.

We are reluctant to attempt any grading of dirt roads other than extreme emergencies as the high moisture content can destroy the existing road base and create more problems with muddy roads.

Please bear with us, we will begin grading and permanent repairs as soon as it dries out again. If you have a road problem, please call us at our Road Maintenance Shop, telephone #796-8303 and we will assist you as quickly as possible.

Thank you for your patience and understanding.

Sincerely,

Bennie Barker

Mayan Bridge nearing completion

Rains have delayed county's work

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The Mayan Ranch Road bridge is just three weeks from completion, according to a state highway official.

The bridge may not be open then, however, as rain has delayed the county's work on their part of the project.

Work will commence soon on improvements to low-water crossing along FM Road 337.

The Mayan Ranch bridge project is a joint county and state project. "The old bridge will continue to be open until the county completes their work," says assistant resident Garland Galm of the Texas Department of Transportation in Hondo.

The bridge slab and supports are in place and the contractor is laying the road base for the approaches to the bridge, says Galm. Other work needed includes pouring the concrete rip-rap that protects the ditches around the bridge.

The bridge surface and the 150-feet of roadway approaching the bridge will have to be paved by the contractor.

Bandera County road crews have been digging out land to connect the bridge to the Mayan Ranch Road. The new bridge is downstream from the old bridge.

According to the state-county agreement, the building of a new connecting road is the county's responsibility.

The county has been digging out a route for approximately 1,000-feet of road that will connect the approach to the bridge on the west side with the existing Mayan Ranch Road. No extra road construction is needed on the east side.

The work on the county road is not yet complete, in part, due to the heavy rains that have stopped all road construction. That same rain has kept the commissioners' precinct 4 road crew, the primary county road crew on the project, busy rebuilding county roads washed out by new springs and high water.

Commissioner N.P. "Bud" Thompson of Vanderpool, whose precinct the project is in, says it'll take about a week of work to move then earth. Then they can start building the road.

The Texas Department of Transportation, formerly known as the Texas Highway Department, awarded the $197,763.50 contract for the bridge to Aaron Construction of Elmendorf in October.

Bandera County has contributed $42,032 in county funds towards paying the state's part of the project. The county will have to spend additional funds in completing their part of the project.

The bridge will be approximately eight feet above the river level and will be a 25-foot wide bridge.

The bridge will be two lane, as opposed to the current one-line bridge. Each lane will be 12-feet wide.

The county will have to foot the entire bill for the construction of the 1,000-feet of con-

Reduced charge for Brooks

Former deputy pleads guilty to concealing crime

Former Bandera County Chief Sheriff's Deputy Ferris Theodore Brooks pleaded guilty to a reduced felony charge Friday, Feb. 7, in a San Antonio U.S. district court.

Brooks pleaded guilty to "misprison of a felony" in U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle's court as part of a plea-bargain arrangement the U.S. Attorney's office.

The "misprison of a felony" means that he had knowledge of a felony and did not report it.

Technically, he knew that a large amount of marijuana — 150 pounds — was out of his control and would be distributed. Allowing large amounts of marijuana to be distributed is considered a violation of the state health code by the Texas attorney general.

Brooks was arrested for distribution of marijuana in San Antonio Oct. 25, 1990, almost 1 year, 3 months ago, and was indicted by a Guadalupe County Grand Jury in early 1991 on two felony counts of distributing marijuana.

His trial was set several times and delayed several times in U.S. District Judge H.F. "Hippo" Garcia's court in San Antonio.

City takes no action against Rey Garcia

Complaint lodged by Linda Stein not made public

By Nick Johnson
Bulletin Editor

The Bandera City Council Monday took no action after studying a complaint formally lodged by activist Linda Stein against public works director Rey Garcia, but Stein promised she would continue to press the matter.

Stein's charges against Garcia were not made public.

They were contained in a letter submitted to Mayor Raymond Adamietz and considered during an hour-long session behind closed doors. It's not known how long the council deliberated over Stein's charges against Garcia because they also were briefed by city attorney Randy Richards of Boerne of developments in an unrelated lawsuit in the same private session.

Stein asked to be heard in the executive session, but Mayor Adamietz said he asked the council members if they wanted to hear Stein after they had considered her written complaint, and they demurred.

They did call Garcia briefly, and he was in the closed-door council room for two minutes.

In other action the council formally accepted a new garbage collection contract with Garbage Gobbler that has already resulted in a 3.6 to 4.9 percent increase in rates, effective Jan. 1.

The increase was assured last month when council voted to extend its contract with Garbage Gobbler at higher rates instead of selecting the low bidder whose service would have resulted in a decrease of rates, especially for senior citizens.

As usual, hardest hit were the small users. Residential rates were increased by 4.6 percent and small commercial rates were upped by 4.9 percent, but large businesses found their rates increased by only 3.6 to 3.7 percent.

The council also voted to give city secretary Judy Dunn a $100-per-week bonus for performing the duties of the vacant water board clerk for an estimated seven weeks. The second job has been vacant since Jan. 10 and Dunn has been working overtime and diligently during regular office hours to perform the duties of both jobs, said councilman Ross Bailey, who proposed the "bonus."

City's new garbage rates, effective Jan. 1

	Old rate	New rate	Percent
Residential rate	$9.85	$10.30	4.6%
Out of city rate	$11.85	$12.30	3.8%
Small commercial	$13.48	$14.14	4.9%
Large commercial	$20.23	$21.18	4.7%
Small biz container	$49.45	$51.25	3.6%
Large biz container	$104.10	$107.88	3.6%
Extra pickup, 2 yds	$11.70	$12.13	4.7%

letters to the editor

He questions local 'justice'

Dear editor:

I am continually impressed by the quality of writing in The Bandera Bulletin (the "BB" as they call it here in the [illegible] Hilton), both by your staff writers and in letters to the editor by persons in the community.

A case in point is the very well composed letter by Debbie Spoonire that was printed last week on the issue of Bandera "justice." If there were an award for "writing excellence by a community member," Debbie, it would be yours. You concisely described a frustrating ordeal that is repeated more often than we dare say. Right?

I know the two boys during their three-week stay here and from what I learned, I would tend to agree with you. They should have been in jail perhaps a day or two at the most on an appropriate charge, released on a reasonable bond, and then allowed to pursue an appropriate defense of the charge. Such is the stuff that dreams are made of. Who would profit by a situation where "things" are done the way they should be? Forgive me, the sarcasm could (should) get deep.

We cheered their release, but along with you, I grieve over the inappropriate burglary conviction or the records of two 17-year-old boys. That's hard to live with.

As for the persons in "the system" who condone and perpetuate this kind of activity, don't forgive them, for they know what they've done. The next time the boys have a lapse of good judgement, they will be eligible for — get this — "enhanced sentencing." In other words, as "habitual offenders." they will stay in jail longer on higher bonds, and the system "smiles." See how it works?

I take issue not with the jail, but with all the other components of "the system." The staff of this jail all perform their duties with the highest level of professionalism. The ordeal of being in jail is minimized here. If there were a statewide contest for the best little jailhouse in Texas, Bandera would win it and Marvin Zindler would be in it. (Just kidding, Marvin, keep your socks in or on or whatever).

In case you were wondering, I'm a 30-something-year-old computer systems analyst from Orlando, Fla., where my wife and daughter are. When I was 19 I tried to get my girlfriend's car back from her ex-boyfriend. I ended up getting convicted of robbery in what should have been an auto theft and a verbal abuse with intent to cause emotional injury. I've been here for six months on a $50,000 bond after being extradited from Los Angeles. I'm facing a burglary charge too. "The system" is cracking up.

Justice was served: classmate

Dear editor:

I am writing in response to Debbie Spoonire's letter in last week's paper. I am appalled by Ms. Spoonire's attitude about her son's situation. He committed a crime and she's acting like he deserves a break. Well, I'd like to tell her something about a break.

I am a senior at Bandera High School. I'm consistently on the honor roll and in the paper for various reasons. I've worked very hard to maintain a high grade-point average. Throughout my high school career, several break-ins at the school have occurred. It is those people that cost our school so much money. Because of people like your son, Ms. Spoonire, the school has had to buy a new burglar alarm instead of that new computer or those new football uniforms. And now, the school will have to fix whatever damage your son has inflicted. This truly angers students like myself.

Ms. Spoonire, your son is not the victim here. We, the students of Bandera High School, are the victims. Maybe you should remember that before you write yet another letter about our county's judicial system.

'His little ad was a little off...'

Dear editor:

Again Bobby Jones placed a political ad in the Bandera paper without substance and instead chose to launch a personal attack.

I'd like to set the record straight concerning his little ad. First of all, I was a sergeant in the military for several years. I served in the Asiatic-Pacific theater during World War II, in Korea during the Korean conflict, and in Vietnam both before and during the conflict there. I wonder what Bobby Jones was doing during those periods? Unlike Mr. Jones, my being a sergeant did not give me any [illegible]

However, it did teach me that there are many ranks and grades and that all are necessary and important to the success of any endeavor, be it military or otherwise.

Mr. Jones still did not or cannot tell the voters what plans (if any) he has for this county if he should be elected, what changes he would like to make, or how he proposes to implement these changes. In view of these still unanswered questions, I think we can safely assume that he has no plan, hasn't the faintest idea of what a county commissioner's duties consist of and is, short is merely looking for a pay check.

As for the rest of Bobby's little tirade, I don't think anybody need worry about asking him for a job. He hasn't won an election since he's been in Bandera County and that includes the time he ran for president of our local fire department and he lost that one too.

B.J. Holmes
Wharton's Dock

His ad insulted lots of citizens

Dear editor:

The recent ad in The Bulletin titled, "All sorts of bugs crawl out of their holes at certain times" was in very poor taste and an insult to just about everyone. Its origin is even more suspect with the transient general delivery address belonging to the "Citizens of Wharton's Dock."

If that group consisted of "a few citizens from Wharton's Dock who prefer reading the truth, not trash," that number has probably dwindled down to their candidate only, after all the insults.

The ad insulted everyone but Mr. "squeaky clean" himself. It insulted the Lakeshore VFD and some 200-plus members and volunteers, the schools and the "little children" that tried to defeat him (Jones), the real rollback workers who did more than collect contributions and take all the credit, Commissioner Barker for using a pick and shovel when the road and paving crews needed help, B.H. Holmes for daring to ask for a positive campaign and qualifications in building and repairing our roads, and all military personnel who were anything but a sergeant, and probably most of them also.

The final insult was, "Bobby's character is squeaky clean! His honest and pleasant attitude are something new in our community." I take that to mean that no one else but Bobby himself has those sterling qualities in our little community of Wharton's Dock. That's too bad. I guess we will have to find us a candidate who [illegible] our schools and children, the honorable people of Wharton's Dock.

We bet he could still make it

Dear editor:

Thanks for the article on me which you ran in the Feb. 5 issue. I thought Southwest Texas University student Chris Wilson did a great job in putting together all the rambling reminiscences I hit him with.

Only one small item I feel needs to be corrected. Using the present tense, he writes that I'm "a regular member of the Austin and San Antonio symphonies."

During my student days at UT Austin in the late 1940s and early '50s, I was a regular member of the Austin Symphony and occasionally played extra horn in the San Antonio Symphony.

I'm afraid I don't practice on my horn nearly enough to even come close to holding down a regular position in either of those fine symphony orchestras.

Thanks for trying, Bud

Dear editor:

Thanks for trying to fix the Mayan Road, Bud Thompson. The effort didn't go unnoticed, it just didn't work.

Shelly Postert
Bandera

She has a road solution

Dear editor:

Shelly Postert's letter (The Bulletin, Jan. 29) got my attention. So did the River Bend roads article. I wish my letter of about a year ago on the roads had gotten more attention, but better late than never.

[illegible] roads in Bandera County are a disaster. A number of roads in Bandera County have been paved previously. Property taxes include a road tax, presumably to pay for previous paving. Vehicle registration fees include road taxes. Repairs, to quote Shelly, are a joke. Our vehicles are being torn up by bad roads.

Wit all of the road taxes, I do not understand our commissioners saying, "No money!" I also do not understand why anyone [illegible] would [illegible] taxes so that all of Bandera can have paved roads, not just a privileged part of the county.

Problems like the River Bend can easily be solved in the future by mandating that developers put in their own roads up front....

We should have good roads for ourselves, but there is a by-product here. Better roads will make others want to come to Bandera and support our businesses. If nothing other than sales taxes, that will add to our till and help defray some of our expenses.

That strikes a real nerve in me. My mother — a not so poor widow — visits Texas at least once a year from South Carolina. She refuses to stay out here because of my road. Instead she stays in town (San Antonio), buys expensive boots and cowboy clothing for her grandchildren, and supports VISI. I would much rather see that money end up here in Bandera County. It's only thousands, not millions, but it is money).

Let's solve this problem and move onto bigger and better projects.

When he was a lad, in 1928, his family moved from Lake ... father owned a pharmacy there, and at the time Harry probably never dreamed that in 1992 he would celebrate his own 50 years of being a pharmacist.

He attended San Antonio schools, and later attended the University of Texas at Austin, where he graduated with a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy on Feb. 4, 1942.

In addition being a pharmacist for the past 50 years, Fleming was also a chiropractor, a graduate of Texas College in San Antonio; and a naturopathic physician, a graduate of Naturopathic College in Dallas.

"Before working for anyone as a pharmacist, I owned my own pharmacy which was previously owned by my father in San Antonio," Fleming says. "I have since worked for White Cross Pharmacies, Sommers chain pharmacy, Walgreens, St. Anthony Hotel pharmacy and the Nix Hospital in San Antonio."

Fleming came to Medina in 1971, and started working for James Angell at Gibson's Pharmacy in Kerrville, and he has been there ever since. In 1978, the Flemings moved to Bandera.

Besides his wife, Alicia, who is a teacher, Harry Fleming's family includes son Anthony, who works as an artist in New York; daughter Rhonda, a state trooper in Bryan; Harry III, who works for the Kerrville Ppolice Department; and daughter Christine, who attends college and is also a peace officer.

"Throughout the years, I also was involved in law enforcement in Bexar County...at present, I'm a deputy constable for precinct three in Bandera," Fleming says. "I graduated from Schreiner College with honors and received my bachelor's degree in law enforcement."

In his earlier years, Fleming also worked as a flight instructor, with ratings of single engine, multi-engine and sea plane (proficiency).

"I even taught my wife to fly," he grins.

"All in all, I have led a very colorful life, and when someone asks me, 'would you do this all over again?' I smile and say YOU BET!"

By Friends of Peggy Tobin

The day dawned bright and sunny after rain, rain, rain. The Tobin ranch was all spiffied up for the grandest of all celebrations, Pegs and Don's [illegible] The children, (all 8!) had planned this for months and oh! What a party!

Even a downpour could not have dimmed the spirit of the participants in the festive occasion held at the beautiful ranch home on the banks of the Medina River, Saturday, Feb. 1.

Children and grandchildren reflected a lifetime of loving family life. Present were Don Jr., Tim, Martha, Phillip, Mark, Patrick, Kathleen, Ann, and their active and delightful offspring. What a handsome group to gather for pictures and videos!

The honored couple were married 50 years ago "practically between classes at UT" with only their parents in attendance at St. Mark's Church in San Antonio. So this day in 1992 was a special one for them—a kind of wedding reception and golden anniversary combined.

Folks from far and near gathered to pay tribute to this lovely couple who have done so much for this community through the years. The guest list reflected the broad range of interests and concerns developed by the Tobins through the years: educators, conservationists, preservationists, historians, clergy, engineers, geologists, ranchers, artists and many others.

Friends greeted old friends and met new, and everyone enjoyed rubbing elbows with the like of television personalities and politicians such as [illegible] and Texas railroad commissioner, Bob Krueger.

The lawn was manicured and green (after two wild wet rainy days), the crystal clear swimming pool held a canoe floating lazily around. Food tables were scattered throughout the yard and house, each with a different display of food or drink. The soft melodies of the band provided a soothing backdrop for conversation and reminiscing.

Warmth and hospitality were felt as one entered the beautifully decorated home filled with a lifetime's collection of [illegible] shared. Guests circulated through the house and out onto the back lawn where the view stretched away to the East, across the Medina River Valley to the tree-covered hills beyond.

Was anyone hungry? No need to be! Tamales and the hottest jalapenos this side of Texas A & M provided a taste treat on the massive Spanish trestle tables in the dining room. Outside around the pool were [illegible] wind picked up and a light sprinkle of rain began to fall. The crowd of over 200 began to seek the warmth of the house and the cheery fireplace. As they all got closer together, everyone started having an even better time.

They'd come from San Antonio, Austin, Houston & Dallas, and points beyond to wish that wonderful couple a Happy [illegible]

In this day of rampant divorce and un-marriage, when we have to search for a word approriate to describe those couples who occupy the same living quarters but have not had the blessing of clergy, celebrations of silver and gold anniversaries are becoming endangered species. Therefore, an opportunity to join in such a celebration becomes a fine honor. Happy 50th, Don and Peg!

Bandera High Schoo [j]unior Lee Jenkins recently scored a 34 on the ACT college preparatory exam. A score of 34 points on the scale of 36 is considered "phenomenal," and Jenkins, who has excelled in higher level math and science University InterscholasticLeague competitions also ranked in the top two percent nationally of students taking the PSAT exam. Last year, he competed at the state level in UIL.

Bandera High School senior Eva Dice recently scored 1,350 on the SAT (scholastic aptitude test). The score was called "outstanding" by high school principal Richard Delamain. Usually, anything above 1,000 is considered "a pretty good score" on the test that has a possible 1,600 points. Dice is currently ranked first in her class at BHS.

Tax time is here again — unfortunately.

We have a copy of J.K. Lasser's "Your Income 1992" and the 1992 edition of Consumer Reports Books' "Guide to Income Tax Preparation."

In addition, each Wednesday from noon until 4 p.m., free tax assistance is available at your library for taxpayers who are "elderly, handicapped or have low to moderate incomes." This service, which is provided by the American Association of Retired Persons, will be available through April 15. No appointment is necessary.

Your library is not the proud owner of a wonderful laser printer, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Alkek. Their recent donation to the library provided us with enough funds to purchase this. We thank them again, and J. Hoskelis, who not only chose the laser printer; he also ordered it, delivered it and installed it.

Your library now has the means to make your library card more permanent. With funds provided by the Friends of the s, we have a brand new laminating machine. For a nominal charge (25 cents to cover our cost) we can make your card long-lasting and very professional looking. A thank you to the Friends for the means with which to purchase this.

We have lots and lots of new books. Among them, for you "cat lovers" (and I include myself in this category) are Lilian Jackson Braun's books, "the Cat Who..." series. Even for those folks who might not otherwise read a mystery, these are purrfectly delightful reading.

Applications may be submitted through March 13 for eligible agricultural producers seeking federal payments for losses caused by drought, flood and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991, the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service reminds.

Peggy Adams of the local office brought The Bulletin a news release quoting the state ASCS chairman Jerry Harris explaining the program.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent," Harris said. "Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent.

The crop disaster program provides cash payments from the federal government for production losses on wheat, feed grains, and several other crops.

A special mailing has gone out to producers containing specific information on the program. Any that did not receive the information by may should call the Bandera County ASCS office, Harris said.

He explained that a producer may not file on one crop on a farm for one year and a different crop on the same farm for the other. "However, the producer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm," he explained.

Harris said disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill, and he expects to begin issuing payments to farmers by April 16.

Catholic "Renew" program to begin March 1

St. Stanislaus Catholic Church will begin its fourth season of their "Renew" program Sunday, March 1.

Area Catholics and other persons interested in popular prayer, Bible readings, and discussion sessions can sign up at all Masses at the church Sunday, Feb. 16, says spokesman William Krampert.

The Lenten session begins March 1 and continues on a weekly basis for six weeks.

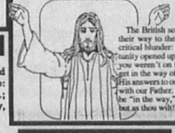
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

In the Way or On the Way?

"He fell on his face in prayer, and said, 'My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass me by.'"

— Matthew 26:39



The British soccer team needed one goal and they were on their way to the championship. Then a star forward made a critical blunder: he tripped on the ball just as a scoring opportunity opened up. As the team filed out, a fan hollered, "Today, you weren't on the way, you were in the way!" So often, we get in the way of God's plans. Instead of patiently waiting for His answers to our prayers, we charge ahead without consulting with our Father. If we are to overcome this human tendency to be "in the way," we must pray Jesus' prayer ... "not as I will but as thou will."

Dog survives multiple gun shots

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

[illegible] neighborhood of Lakehills, continues to live.

Karen Ripley's red-haired Australian sheep dog, Red, was out on a walk with a neighbor and his two dogs Saturday, Feb. 1, when an unknown assailant shot the dog, presumedly with a .22 caliber gun.

"Red ran point ahead of his dogs." The dog was away from the Ripley's friend when the [illegible]

When Red returned to the house where Ripley was, Ripley's friend, Wayne Saunders, said the dog had returned from the walk wet and covered with mud.

Ripley said she quickly saw that the "mud" was blood. "I saw her legs covered with blood and her mouth literally drooling with red slime. I [illegible] back, probing inside her mouth, holding her close as if [illegible]

Her neighbor that had took the dog on the walk, then returned to report he heard .22-caliber gun shots.

They took the dog to Bandera Veterinary Hospital that night. "[illegible] (the vet) found a .22 (bullet) had entered her back and exited her neck. A second bullet had gone through her [illegible]

A bullet also shattered her jaw. A metal clamp was placed in her jaw. If the clamp is rejected by the dog's body or the dog scratches the metal clamp loose, the jaw could shatter. That would lead to the dog's death when it couldn't eat.

The 7-year-old dog recently had her first litter of pups — [illegible] after the shooting.

Ripley said what shocked her, was that this was a residential neighborhood that she normally walked in. "Our neighborhood has been victimized as surely as anyone's whose property has been violated and whose lives have been endangered. We've lost our peace of mind."

Bandera County sheriff's [illegible] investigated the incident said Tuesday that no suspects in the shooting had been found.

Ripley says that neighbors in her area in the past have observed young teen-aged boys running in the cedars and shooting a .22 or a shot gun.

Lake AARP to meet

The Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will hold its fun day Monday, Feb. 17, at the Lakehills American Legion hall.

The executive board will hold its meeting at 11 a.m. with a pot luck lunch at noon. This will be followed by games of choice.

"All members are welcome to come and enjoy the fellowship and good food," says a spokesman for the club. "Just prepare your favorite dish and bring it to the American Legion Hall for a pleasant afternoon."

The regular business meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 24. A new roster of paid members will be going to the printer April 1. "If you have not paid your dues of $3 for this year please make your check payable to Medina Lake AARP and send it to Lucille Moore at HC04 Box 2236, Lakehills, 78063," says the spokesman.

The program for the Feb. 24 meeting will be a slide presentation of the Holy Land by Cleo Taylor.

Roadrunners to play at Civic Center Saturday

The Roadrunners will play at the civic center Feb. 15 from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Tickets are $3 a person or $5 a couple, says MLBA program chairman Gordon Nordlund. "This is a social event sponsored by the MLBA. It's part of our plan to hold a dance at the center each month."

Fishing improving at Lake

As the water continues to flow over the spillway by more [illegible] are taking to the waters of Medina Lake and are coming back with rewards.

Reports of black and white bass catches are coming in.

Black bass catches last week include two three-pounders and one five-pounder, reports Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop. "One man caught eight bass and four were keepers."

Black bass are being caught on a Berkley Power Worm, says Gallagher. It's a plastic worm rigged with the standard Texas-rig, but puts out a strong scent in the water.

Reports of white bass catches in the upper reaches of the Medina River have been reported, but Gallagher says it's not the start of the annual white bass spawning run, something the schooling bass haven't been able to do in the river for the last two years due to low water levels.

White bass are being caught in 20s and 30s by various [illegible]

Gallagher says that's likely the male bass schooling around in the fresh flow of water coming from the river. "It's some place they haven't been in awhile."

The water temperature is hovering around 56 to 57 degrees and the water needs to be at 62 degrees for the female white bass to head up the river.

"It'll be six weeks before the run starts. It depends on the temperature. It's still cool at night."

Flea market set

The St. Victor's Catholic Chapel altar society will hold a spring flea market May 2, reports spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann.

The altar society will furnish the food for the event, says Hartmann. Persons can rent tables and spaces to sell their flea market and craft items at the market. The rental price will be the same as last year.

Wharton's Dock

Bud Ciarlo

The Copper Lantern has reopened under the new management Joyce Reese.

Reese reports they will continue to have their Friday night all-you-can-eat catfish special for $4.99.

They will also resume the first-Saturday-of-the-month community dinners March 7.

The monthly dinner has a 25-year history and older residents of the area report they missed the dinners when the Lantern was closed.

At the March 7 event, the Lantern will furnish the barbecue and beans with participants bringing a covered dish.

Reese says she plans on opening the Copper Lantern on Sundays at 9 a.m. beginning this Sunday.

-- Meanwhile, Shaffer says she's seeing better and without prescription glasses after surgery on her right eye in November and surgery on her left eye in January at the Southwest Eye Institute.

-- Bandera and Wharton's Dock were both mentioned in international news Monday, Feb. 3. Bill Bently called Bud and Betty Ciarlo from Paris and said he had just listened to the news and heard that the Medina River was on a rampage and people were being evacuated from Bandera and Wharton's Dock. Of course, the news was just a little premature, as no one was evacuated.

-- The Rev. Ken Brown, pastor of Walker Memorial Baptist Chapel, was surprised by three members from his former parish in Kirby in the Wharton's Dock pews Sunday. Attending were Marilyn Polk, Betty Marshall and Lee Turcatte, who visited with Brown after the service.

Thank You

THANKSGIVING NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
St. Jude Novena, say it when problems arise or when one seems to be deprived of all visible help or for cases almost despaired of. Most holy apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the Church honors and invokes you universally as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me. I am so helpless and alone. Make use I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings, particularly—here make your special request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O Blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron, and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen. Say this prayer for nine consecutive days, by the end of the 9th day your prayer will be answered. Publication must be promised. Thank you for a favor received. E.S

Local swimmer qualifies for state level competition

Bill Wyman, a 14-year-old freshman at Bandera High School, has qualified for the Texas Age Group Swimmer (TAGS) State Championship Swim Meet to be held March 13-15 at Palo Alto College in San Antonio.

Wyman recently competed in the Greater Southwest Swim Meet in Addison. In order to participate in this meet, a swimmer must have an "A" time or better in at least three events. Due to this stipulation, the meet attracted top swimmers from across the state, as well as a large number of out-of-state competitors.

"It was an opportunity to experience a high level of competition prior to the state championship," said Bill's mother Kathleen Wyman.

Bill competed in eight events, including the 100 yard backstroke, 100 yard butterfly, 50 yard freestyle, 100 yard freestyle, 200 yard freestyle, 200 yard individual medley, 200 freestyle relay and the 400 yard medley relay. He qualified for the state meet by achieving a TAGS time and placing second overall.

"Bill is less than five tenths of a second from qualifying in the 50 free, and two tenths from qualifying in the 100 yard backstroke," Kathleen said. "He is within two seconds or less in his other events and hopes to achieve TAGS times at the upcoming South Texas Championship meet which will be held in February."

Bill swims with the San Antonio Heights Aquatic Club. He is the son of Bill and Kathleen Wyman, and the grandson of Jenna Montague.

Medina girls lose in overtime contest

Medina's Lady Bobcats lost a 10-point advantage to Sabinal in the final quarter when several of their starters retired from the game with five fouls, and the Yellowjackets outscored Medina by a single point in overtime for a 54-53 victory.

Medina's Jennifer Evans fouled out in the first half and Laki Johnson fouled out with 3:18 left in regulation time.

Little league plans meeting Thursday

The Bandera County Little League Association will hold its first general meeting of the year Thursday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bandera Electric Co-op building.

Officers will be elected and fund-raising events will be discussed, says vice president Carol Teich.

"We want all the people interested in little league to come (to the meeting) if they can," she said.

Lady Bulldogs clinch at least a tie for loop title with victory over Somerset

By Bob Hopper
Special Correspondent

The Lady Bulldogs captured the lead in district play Friday night with a 60-46 win over Cole and clinched a play-off [illegible] Somerset 54-40.

A balanced offense, 16 points from Lisa Wharton, 11 from Nikki Rouch, 7 by Tandie Clements and 6 from Natalie Koehler was backed by a strong defensive effort from Courtney Cota and Nikki [illegible] time indicated the defensive effort put forth by both teams. The Lady Bulldogs from Bandera slowly began pulling away from the Lady Bulldogs from Somerset as the third period ended with Bandera ahead by 10, 33-23.

Full-court pressure by Rouch and Cota kept Somerset from going to a set offense, forcing the visiting team to shoot off-balance and out of position for their offensive rebounds.

Lisa netted 8 of her game leading 16 points in the final period on assists form those rebounds.

The Bandera girls' district record is now 8-1. Medina Valley was 6-2 Monday. The score of its game with 0-8 Hondo was not available at press time Tuesday night.

The Somerset boys hit three in a row from another area code to go ahead by 11-0 in the first 2 minutes. Somerset hit a total of 11 3 point baskets in a 79-39 romp over the Bandera Bulldogs.

[illegible] saw in a 14 point effort for Bandera, while Dennis Henarung went a perfect 6 for 6 on three pointers for Somerset.

Both Bandera teams will travel to Medina Valley this Friday night. The Lady Bulldgs will start a 6:30 with the boys game to follow at 8 p.m.

Medina cagers blast into playoffs with 66-56 victory over 'Jackets

Medina basketball Coach Rick Ingram says his Bobcats will win its bi-district showdown with Thorndale "if we play together."

Jody Carpenter led the Medina effort with 19 points and four rebounds and Fred Sides added 17 points and five rebounds.

Page 13

Seniors jay Hart had 11 points and 7 rebounds and Sherrill Johnson had 8 points and 5 caroms.

In all, Medina grabbed one-half the offensive rebounds and 76 percent of the defensive caroms.

Coach Ingram is confident of his team's chances against Thorndale, which will be played in either Marble Falls or Dripping Springs.

"Yes, we should win bi-district if we play together," Ingram said. "If we play as a team, we are unstoppable," he said. "We have to keep our heads and play with composure, however."

Thorndale is 17-4 on the season and 8-0 in district play. "They're a lot like us," said Coach Ingram. "They have a strong bench and good outside shooting."

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company recently filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to redefine the location of the demarcation point, or demarc. The demarc is where Southwestern Bell Telephone wiring connects with customer-maintained wiring.

This request will not increase customers' service rates. This request simply changes the point within the wiring where Southwestern Bell's maintenance responsibility ends and the customer's maintenance responsibility begins. As before, customers will be able to connect their own wiring directly to Southwestern Bell's network at points up to the new demarc.

Southwestern Bell is seeking approval of this new demarc location to bring its tariff into compliance with a Federal Communications Commission Order in CC Docket 88-57.

More information will be included in customers' bills beginning February 1, 1992. Persons who wish to comment on the application should notify the PUC by March 20, 1992. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, TX 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Fire causes 'total loss'

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

She returned to her childhood home and was promptly devastated by a fire.

She had just moved in, had lined up a job, and had three pets.

Now she has lost everything she owns and all her pets perished in a fire Sunday that engulfed and totally destroyed her Wharton's Dock home.

She was lucky to have escaped with her life.

Belvedere B. Thomas, an RN with a job set at the Veterans Administration Memorial Hospital in Kerrville next week, moved to Wharton's Dock last week from Big Spring.

She unpacked Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the two bedroom mobile home with an addition.

She woke up Sunday morning about 7:30 a.m. She was a little chilled in her nightgown and robe and turned up the thermostat.

She went to the window and admired the Medina River flowing in front of her river front home.

Her two dogs started barking. She told them to hush, but they didn't.

When Thomas turned around to investigate, she saw something that can be described as a wall of fire — the inside of the house was on fire.

Thomas took the only and logical course — she ran outside in her bare-feet without changing.

She called back to the dogs, but they were apparently so scared, they didn't follow her.

The house was in flames.

Both dogs and her canary perished in the fire.

The alarm was turned in by Phil Bledsoe after two fishermen contacted him.

Juan Valdez and his father were returning to the river the Medina Lake and saw smoke. They went to Thomas' dock, but couldn't find anyone.

Thomas was out front looking for help.

Valdez heard Bledsoe's dog barking and went to his house. Bledsoe called the sheriff's office.

By the time the Lakeshore and Bandera Volunteer Fire Departments arrived, the home was a flaming inferno.

The home was a total loss.

But she is not without family and friends. Her daughters, Darleen Scarbrough of Big Spring and Sabrina Dennis of Alice, came immediately to assist.

They spent most of Monday going through the debris looking for their mother's jewelry.

Her son, Michael Thomas, a chief petty officer on USS Guadalcanal at Norfolk, is coming from emergency leave. Her daughter Leilini White will arrive this week.

Collections are being made at the Walker Memorial Chapel and the Copper Lantern to assist her.

Bandera County Sheriff's department arson investigator Lynn Holt was unavailable for comment on the cause of the fire.

Bud Ciarlo also contributed to this story.

Nealy 'guilty' in SA robbery

Former Bandera man will be sentenced April 28

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin Staff Writer

Jack W. Nealy Jr., a 1981 graduate of Bandera High School and suspended San Antonio police officer, was found guilty Friday of the Sept. 21 robbery of the Texas Commerce Bank.

In the robbery that was called the "one of the biggest bank robberies in San Antonio history," some $242,624 was reported taken from the Oak Park branch of the Texas Commerce Bank.

According to a report in the San Antonio Express-News, as U.S. District Judge Edward Prado read the jury's findings, 19-year-old Lisa M. Silvas Nealy broke into tears. Her husband reportedly showed no emotion.

Sentencing is set for April 28, and the maximum the two could get is 25 years, with an additional five years to run consecutively for using a gun in the holdup.

Mrs. Nealy's bond was revoked, and the judge ordered that she be taken into custody. Jack Nealy has been held without bond since his Oct. 15 arrest.

The evidence that convicted Nealy included testimony by FBI agent Curtis Hunt that Nealy's step-father found $147,779 in a black plastic bag in the brush near the home of Nealy's mother and step-father, Charles and Victoria Murray.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Frels expressed surprise that the jury only deliberated for an hour and 45 minutes. In his closing argument Friday, he referred to the crime as "an almost perfect robbery."

Jack Nealy was voted "wittiest" of his BHS graduating class, and was an active participant in school activities and sports. He was president of his police academy graduating class of 1989.

Throughout the trial, Nealy maintained his plea of innocence.

Lady Bulldogs clinch district title in 'barn burner' against Panthers

By Bob Hopper
Bulletin Sports Writer

"These girls are here to play basketball and we're going to let them," the referees said prior to Friday night's district 25-AAA that gave Bandera girls' the school's first outright district title since 1970.

The match-up at the Medina Valley gym had everything a championship game is supposed to have, intensity, close scoring, good officiating, excellent playing, and a last second win.

The win was Bandera's, 50-44, and it gave the Lady Bulldogs a league crown that Bandera girls have been chasing in vain for more than two decades.

The Lady Bulldogs will try to win a bi-district crown Saturday at 7 p.m. when they take on Joudanton in Southwest High School's gymnasium in San Antonio.

In the first half Friday, Medina Valley closed off the area under the basket, forcing Bandera to shoot from the outside, while Bandera allowed some penetration up the middle and stopped the outside shoc

When the Panthers drove up the middle, Natalie Koehler, Tandie Clements and Melani Schneider were there to force the ball back to the outside.

The Bulldogs led by only a single point, 14-13, at the end of the first period. The game was tied 24-all at the half.

After swapping ends of the court, the Lady Panthers jumped out to a nine-point 40-31 lead with 2:07 minutes to go in the third period. The Lady Bulldogs rallied with nine unanswered points, tying the game for the ninth time.

Two points from Natalie Koehler knotted the game for the 10th time at 44-44 with 1:14 to go. Rouch drilled a short outsider for her 15th and 16th points of the game and 27 seconds showing on the clock.

Being the winners in several close games paid off for the Lady Bulldogs. Applying pressure with finesse, the girls in blue forced the Panthers to turn the ball over on a traveling call.

"We've been in some tight situations this year, especially in district play," said Coach Julie Young. "But the way the girls reacted tonight just shows the character of the team."

Inbounding the ball with seven seconds to go and a two-point lead, all Bandera had in mind was not losing the ball or causing any kind of foul.

The Panthers, knowing they had to foul to get the ball back, were tagged for an intentional foul instead of a one and one penalty. Opposition to the call from the Medina Valley bench added a "T" and two more free throws to the original two-shot intentional foul.

Rouch went to the charity stripe with the four opportunities with only one free throws necessary to lock up the district championship.

No bang, no clang, just net on all four shots for the 50-44 win and the district title.

A total team effort all season long enabled the Lady Bulldogs to win their first district title since 1981. Every one of the eight varsity squad members contributed in Friday night's victory.

Said Coach Young, "This is the most closely-knit, hardest working team I have had at

Now down to the main point. If I may, I beg to be so presumptuous as to correct the facts about the way the finances work in a situation like this.

Any expenses for the broken windows and resculptured lawn that the school incurred the school/school board will be reimbursed by the insurance company (the school has to be insured). The insurance company will be reimbursed by the crime auxiliary fund, which collects its income from persons on probation who are required to make restitution payments.

The boys, or their families in this case, would have been required to make restitution whether the boys were convicted of burglary (a second-degree felony, since it was a building) or the more correct charge of criminal mischief (Section 28.03 of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, "knowingly damaging the property of another"), which — and this is the point Debbie Spoonire and Doc Sullivan were trying to make — is a misdemeanor conviction on the boys' records.

Consider what's going to happen 10 years down the road when the "boys" have a wife and two kids to feed and they can't get a job because of the inappropriate felony conviction on their records. I ask you, what are they going to do?

I'm in the Bandera Hilton (county jail), also being charged with in inappropriate charge of another person who is walking around free! This is worse.

If you take a step back and say, "dudes, what's wrong with this picture?", you should be able to see that it is the entire community that suffers from outrages like these and the individuals in "the system" slyly smile as the votes roll in at election time.

Hydrogen: Very explosive

Dear editor:

Your recent news report of the fire on Oak Street (Jan. 22) quoted (Cal Chapman's) statement that "hydrogen is flammable but not explosive." It also noted that the tanks had safety release valves.

This might be misleading to some readers; volunteer firefighters in particular should be made aware that hydrogen is extremely explosive. Hydrogen is what exploded in the space shuttle Challenger accident. I would guess the vents were on the inert-gas bottles — a venting hydrogen bottle would be very dangerous.

Commissioner seeks patience

Dear editor:

There is no question that Susan Hooker, Shelly Postert and all of our other citizens who are suffering with damaged roads have a valid complaint and every commissioner in every precinct is working to repair the damage as quickly as possible. Limited repairs are being made until the roads dry out and can be repaired properly. Anyone with a problem should contact their respective commissioners and they will respond as quickly as possible.

Susan said she did not understand "why anyone would mind a small increase in our taxes so that all Bandera County can have paved roads, not just a privileged part of the county." Let me elaborate on that and try to explain it properly.

The road and bridge fund we use to repair, maintain and improve county roads by paving is not derived from property tax revenues, but from license, registration and other user fees, so raising taxes would not be the answer.

The answer lies in paving. There have been no privileges extended to [illegible] because the majority of the existing county roads that are paved were done by communities and people donating the money to have their roads paved. There is a light at [illegible] however. The county has invested in our own paving equipment and we are now able to pave for approximately $3,500 per mile in materials, compared to contract costs of about $15,000 per mile.

The goal countywide is to pave the major traffic areas first as our budgets and weather allows. When this is accomplished, we can then turn to the lighter traffic areas. If [illegible] paved instead of waiting until the major areas are completed, they might want to discuss it with their commissioner and see if they can fit it in the schedule, if they are willing to pay for the materials.

I hope this has been of some help, and all of the commissioners appreciate your patience and understanding.

Bennie Barker
County Commissioner

Reading comprehension?

Dear editor:

I am writing about my ex-classmate's letter headlined "Justice was served (Feb. 12). I am sad to see that another student of Bandera high School suffers from reading comprehension problems, like myself. Yet, even I understood the point that Debbie Spoonire clearly stated in her Feb. 5 letter of Bandera "justice."

She, in no way, shape nor form even remotely suggested that the boys deserved a break. Her point was that the boys were arrested on the wrong charge and then encouraged – even worse – allowed to plead guilty to burglary when they should have been in jail on the right charge to begin with, provided an adequate attorney, and if determined guilty, then allowed to plead guilty to something more like vandalism.

Last April, my friend Jason Chestnut, another ex-classmate, was arrested on 31 counts of burglary. He was out (of prison) in about six weeks on 10 years probation. Before he died in an accident in October, he told me that he really didn't do all of those burglaries.

Anyplace else, an accused is "presumed to be innocent until, if and when they can be proven guilty." In Bandera County it's almost the opposite: You are "assumed to be guilty until allowed to plead guilty – sometimes to the wrong charge, sometimes to something you didn't even do." It's ridiculous!

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Regarding two issues of major importance to Texans — the presidential primaries and public school finance reform — Attorney General Dan Morales last week:

■ Persuaded a federal appeals court to probe what Morales says is improper conduct by another judge who scuttled the Democrats' redistricting plan;

■ Asked the U.S. Supreme Court to delay state senate primary elections because of the controversy; and

■ Through an assistant, said his office would not ask the Texas Supreme Court to reconsider its ruling that the school finance tax is unconstitutional, but must be paid anyway.

Morales went to Washington, D.C. to ask Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia to halt the March 10 primary for the state Senate only, and allow other balloting to proceed as scheduled.

Several political forecasters have predicted that the new Senate districts crafted by U.S. District Judge James Nowlin will end Democrat domination of the state Senate.

Two Emotional Issues

While increased retail sales indicate the state's economy is gaining speed, Texas taxpayers are irritated at having to pay illegal state taxes which, once collected, may never be returned.

And with the primary just days away, Democrats are very emotional about what they feel is a royal shafting by Republicans.

If it appears that Morales is ignoring taxpayers to concentrate on party politics, an aide explained that several federal lawsuits will challenge the ruling that the illegal tax must be paid anyway.

The high court ruled the Legislature violated the Texas Constitution by imposing a statewide property tax, and by levying the tax without voter approval.

The lawsuits challenge the mandated payment as a violation of taxpayers' right to due process.

Insurance Companies Racist?

Some officials want Morales' list of official chores to include investigating insurance companies for refusing to sell health insurance to people who don't speak or read English.

Cavazos, who chairs the House Insurance Committee and the House Mexican-American Caucus, waved a letter from G. Scott Smith, president of National Health Insurance of Grand Prairie, stating policy that persons not understanding English are considered ineligible for coverage.

Company officials explained they do not have personnel to handle claims for persons who do not speak English.

Other Highlights

■ A federal grand jury indicted former Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher in connection with bogus land development schemes that cost investors nearly $1.5 million. Mutscher, who fell from power in the 1970s Sharpstown scandal, was indicted on 14 counts of mail fraud, money laundering and other charges.

■ Texas Railroad Commissioner Bob Krueger endorsed Democrat presidential hopeful Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts, causing some observers to speculate whether Ark. Gov. Bill Clinton is losing ground in Texas. But Clinton garnered the Texas State Teachers Association nod from its president, Olivia Bestiero.

■ Krueger also split with commission chairman Lena Guerrero over selection of a firm to do an environmental impact study of the proposed Texas bullet train. Guerrero chose the firm endorsed by the consortium which won the contract to build the train; Krueger questioned whether the study would be objective.

■ Gov. Ann Richards, speaking at a U.S.-Mexico business conference in San Antonio, urged both countries to build roads and bridges to accommodate a free trade agreement. The governor wants to build new international bridges at El Paso and Laredo to connect with U.S. interstate highways, and to build a toll road from Laredo to Corpus Christi.

■ Five Texas cities were among 23 nationwide which posted value increases for used homes last quarter, led by Fort Worth with 11.8 percent gains.

■ Capitol reporters twitted Gov. Richards for using a state-owned, Ford Crown Victoria that is federally classified an import, even as she urges consumers to buy Amgrican. "Oh, give me a break!" she said when told the car was assembled in Canada.

■ Comptroller John Sharp said law enforcement officials will routinely check state lottery offices for wiretaps to protect the confidentiality of the process for selecting the winner of a contract to operate the state's first on-line lottery.

■ State Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno said the career ladder system that rewards good teachers should be scrapped and replaced with a more equitable bonus system. "The current system wrongly pits teacher against teacher. We need teamwork, not competition," Meno said.

■ Roy Wood Jr., a former assistant executive director of the Louisiana Racing Commission, has been named director of racing for the Texas Racing Commission.

Lisa Wharton had 4 points, 2 assists and 4 steals. Kimber Vos added 2 points plus an offensive rebound. Melani Schneider, Courtney Cox and [illegible] contributed a steal, an assist and a rebound respectively as well as much needed relief late in the game.

Coach Julie Young's Lady Bulldogs wrapped up regular season play with a 20-6 overall record and 9-1 in district play. This is Coach Young's sixth year at Bandera High and this will be the second trip for her roundballers to the district playoffs. Last year they were district runners-up. The Lady Bulldogs fell to Divine in last year's post-season play.

According to Coach Young about this year's playoff pic[illegible]

The Lady Bulldogs will meet district 26-AAA runner-up Jourdanton Saturday, February 22 at a site to be announced. Game time will be 7 pm.

Chamber of commerce wants to fill its calendar

Deadline for submissions of events, barbecue and activities of interest to visitors and local residents alike is March 15, says chamber secretary Nancy Hopes.

The chamber asks that churches, service organizations and charity fund raisers register the dates of their special events on the chamber's activity calendar, says Hopes. This will aid in the planning of such events and avoid conflicting dates.

"Any event that is open to the public and isn't a regular weekly or monthly affair should be listed," says Hopes. Fund raisers such as luncheons, craft fairs, dances, musicals, and cook-offs need to be registered as soon as the dates are decided. Parades, rodeos and special events should be registered as far in advance as possible.

Having the dates of special events registered on the Chamber's calendar makes this information available to the many tourists who call and come by the chamber office, she says.

"Please call 796-3045 to register your organizations special event or to check for what's happening in Bandera County."

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The full moon this week has everyone howling, but, for you this stellar event is laden with good news. You are full of spunk, creativity and the joy of living. Loved ones, children and co-workers respond. Follow another's wishes as the work week ends, and the weekend will be nirvana.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As long as YOU know what you want, this week can roll smoothly. If not, expect some upset. Don't worry too much, because in the long run, the turbulence is just what the doctor ordered. It will help you to know what you want. Expect a most loving weekend, if you can be a docile bull.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may need to anchor before you can make a statement of any sort. Romance can be hot and heavy as the week comes to a close. Don't even think that another is not noticing you. You are the star in this person's life. Be sure, my dear twin, that this is what you want!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Count on being moody and somewhat crabby. Get down to the basics. Don't take action until you are sure what it is you really desire. You will be much more certain by the weekend. When you are clear, others respond to your energy. Let your creative energy flow.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Expect a wild week, and you won't be disappointed. You are quite capable of dealing with the different and vibrant energy. You end the week on a low note, when you need to vanish and think and consider. You may be at a crossroads in your domestic life. Ponder the weekend away.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You are on the proverbial roller coaster of life. Though the good news is, you peak several times this week and end up on a strong positive note. What you need to do is talk and ask for what you want. Know there are a lot of people who care — a whole lot.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Just when you think you have it all together, the unexpected occurs, and you feel like you're all alone and groping for straws. The good news is by the weekend, you have recuperated from this momentary slump and are once again ready and fit as a fiddle to deal with your universe.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Excitement surrounds you this week. You are a strong sign and you can have whatever you want. You swing between aggressively going after what you want, and just lying back and considering your choices. Whatever you discover, by this weekend the world is your oyster.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Check out a proposition — look behind the scenes to find out what's really going on. Don't even think that this could be your last offer, because this week you discover your own popularity and desirability. It is simply a question now of choosing.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Review what is put on the table. An intimate chat reveals what is expected, however you may have a difficult time landing. Dreams, romance and new possibilities all come together. Expect a weekend to be remembered!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Bend and flow with another's requests and desires. You see life a whole different way. As you interact and get to know this level of you and another, expect to not be of this planet. Your mind is full of dreams and romance. Never fear, you'll land by the end of the weekend.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Get as much done as you can, whenever you can. This is a week where you will enjoy "the others" in your life. Others knock at your door and they want to share and talk. Let others reveal their true colors right now. Now is the time for you to just lie back.

Gwen Raab and Carol Taylor

Two local women graduate, become vocational nurses

Bandera residents Gwendolyn Raab and Carol Taylor graduated from Schreiner College's vocational nursing program Thursday, Jan. 30.

Raab, who owns the OST Restaurant in Bandera, was chosen as the class honor graduate, an award that recognizes outstanding academic achievement and clinical performance. Raab says she plans to continue her education.

Taylor plans to work for Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville.

Schreiner's vocational nurses complete a 12-month program which has helped them earn among the highest passing rates (over 90 percent) on the Texas state licensing exam.

Volunteer event set

An organizational meeting of volunteers interested working locally with the Medina County Family Life Center is scheduled Wednesday, Feb. 26 at 7 p.m. in the St. Joseph's school building at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

"If you would be interested in becoming a volunteer involved in the prevention of family violence, the Medina County Life Center needs you," says outreach worker Denice Jenschke.

OOPS, HE DID IT AGAIN!!

A negative political ad last week suggested COMMISSIONER BARKER did not know the duties of a County Commissioner because he passed the question off to the County Judge and another Commissioner.

The truth?? Anyone at the Bandera County Republican Women's "Meet the Candidates" luncheon knows that was a wrong statement. COMMISSIONER BARKER was asked a two part question. COMMISSIONER BARKER referred the first part (about a budget matter in another department) to the County Judge as he is the County's Fiscal officer. The first part could not be answered definitely as the budget information was not available at the session.

The Moderator, out of courtesy to out-going Commissioner Roger Raser and to COMMISSIONER BARKER'S two opponents, asked Commissioner Raser if he would care to explain the duties of a commissioner. When Commissioner Raser finished, then COMMISSIONER BARKER made additional comments about the necessity of close cooperation between commissioners and other local governments such as school boards and city councils.

COMMISSIONER BARKER KNOWS A COMMISSIONER'S DUTIES WELL AND WORKS AT THE JOB ON A FULL-TIME BASIS. HE IS NOT AFRAID TO PICK UP A SHOVEL OR OPERATE EQUIPMENT WHEN THE ROAD CREW IS SHORT HANDED. IT SAVES THE COUNTY MONEY, AND IT ALLOWS THE NECESSARY PROGRESS AND SUPERVISION TO IMPROVE AND PAVE OUR ROADS AND DOES NOT INTERFERE WITH HIS ADMINISTRATIVE DUTIES AND ABILITIES.

RE-ELECT BENNIE BARKER, COUNTY COMMISSIONER, PCT. #1 IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ON MARCH 10.

Track will try again on traffic control funding by county

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Officials from Bandera Downs will ask Bandera County Commissioners Monday to reinstate county-paid traffic control in front of the race track beginning Friday, Feb. 28.

The request will likely fall on deaf ears, though.

Bandera County Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest quietly objected to the decision, saying that the commissioners were heading for one disastrous wreck in traffic control.

The county had been paying sheriff's deputies and reserve deputies trained by the Department of Public Safety $15 a hour to direct traffic for two to three hours in front of the track. The funds to pay for traffic control came from the county admission tax the county collects on each ticket sold.

Traffic control on State Highway 16 must be under either the direct supervision of the sheriff or state officials. The track cannot have traffic control officers directing traffic without the sheriff's permission. The sheriff has indicated he wants any person directing traffic on highways in the county to be certified by the DPS.

In a Feb. 17 letter, track officials agreed to restore the traffic control for 60 days starting Feb. 28 "while we all make an effort to work this problem out."

Track president Stan Scruby told commissioners traffic control didn't have to be provided by the county, but "some department should protect the [illegible] public."

[illegible] $37,000 in gate admissions fee. "This amount is several times the funds required for good, safe traffic control in 1992."

Track officials suggested a traffic light manually operated by an officer, not a track employee. "Electricity is available at this site and would be furnished by Bandera Downs."

"The operator of the traffic light could not be a track [illegible] have to be an officer not under track control or supervision. The track cannot assume the liability of a situation where they are not legally responsible."

Track officials warned that the highway is hazardous. "If some legally responsible [illegible] trol at this point, we feel that a greedy trial-attorney will have a hay day in the event of a bad accident at the expense of the county or state."

Bandera County Judge Ray F. [illegible] gate admissions tax money is not specifically designed to pay for traffic control or any other track-related expense. The change in the racing law last year allows the county to use the money for any purpose it sees fit.

Commissioners budgeted the money they expected to receive from the track and did not leave a budgetary item for traffic control at the track.

[illegible] organizations with events drawing large number of people hire local police to direct traffic and the track should do the same.

He noted that in Bexar County, local police or deputies provide traffic control for events such as the stock show and then the organization reimburses the police for their expense.

Mauer noted that in discussions with state department of transportation officials last year, the transportation officials objected to a traffic [illegible] the track, saying there was not enough traffic to warrant a light.

Mauer said the state officials told him that a light would create more problems than it [illegible] operated only a few hours for a few days a week.

If the county does resume traffic control, they will not be able to pay the deputies $15 a hour for the work.

[illegible] Commissioner Elizabeth James, the state wage and hour division of the employment commission said the county could not pay its employees contract wages, as was done last year for traffic control, even if the work was outside their normal scope of employment.

Track officials proclaim free entry on opening day Friday, Feb. 28

Bandera Downs will reopen for pari-mutuel racing in just nine days, Friday, Feb. 28, and those passing through the gates that day will do so free — the $3 general admission fee will be waived opening day, reports director of publicity Don Rhine.

And fans will have a new wager to bet and more handicapping information on how to lay their money down.

Bandera Downs will have two jackpot wagers — the Pick 6 and the twin trifecta.

In the Pick 6, bettors must pick the winners of the third through the eighth race, said Rhine.

In the twin trifecta, bettors must pick the top three finishers in exact order in both the fifth and sixth race.

Since both wagers are difficult, it's likely no one will have the exact winning combination for either of the wagers. A jackpot will be established for each wager and that amount "carried over" to the next day. Each jackpot will continue to build until someone wins it. Each wager's jackpot will be separate.

Handicapping help will include new betting guides, a "beginner's" window in every mutuel window aisle, and a handicapping center for patrons to ask questions, says Rhine. "Race fans will be able to look at programs, racing forms from last year, and they'll get hints on how to bet."

Each day either Rhine or director of marketing Doug Bair will conduct an handicapping seminar 45 minutes before post time. "We'll show people how to read the program and make wagers. We'll take a lot of questions and give answers."

Current plans call for 10 races on Friday and 12 on Saturday and Sunday, said Rhine. But the number of races is not cast in stone.

Simulcasting is still on hold, as the track will wait for the simulcasting rules to be passed Friday, Feb. 28, by the Texas Racing Commission. After that, the track will have to negotiate a contract with the horsemen's organization before simulcasting can begin.

Simulcasting could be available as soon as the second weekend of the 1992 season. With simulcasting, bettors can bet on races from other tracks at the usual pari-mutuel windows and see the results of the race live on the television monitors.

Construction will be commencing soon on the track's two new barns in the stable area. Rain has hampered construction efforts and Rhine said the excavation should begin this week now that it's dry.

Post time will be 1 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Post time for Fridays only will go to 3 p.m. starting April 10.

5,000 jam Manor Downs on opening day Saturday

Manor Downs opened its 1992 spring meet Saturday, Feb. 15, with 2,766 fans turning out to wager a total of $255,202.

That was one of Manor Downs best days ever, said director of publicity Steve Fallon. Manor Downs is located 10 miles east of Austin in next to the small town of Manor.

A total of 2,237 fans came out Sunday and wagered $205,826. "I could not have been more pleased," said track general manager Gary Williams. "The weather was perfect, and the races were extremely competitive. I look for even better things as the meet progresses."

The fastest qualifier for the 350-yard final was Roses Moonlight, with a time of 17.58. Six of the 10 finalists were under the 18-second mark.

The other qualifiers for the 3-year-old maiden final were Don Roel, at 17.91 seconds; Rio Easy Baby, 17.96; Totallt'c Rocket, 17.96; Advancing Easy, 17.97; Gala Man Oak, 17.99; Dashing Dividend, 18.00; Howdy Man and Easy Miss Oak, both at 18.03; and Biolage Balm at 18.05 seconds.

The purse will total $20,995.

Post time is 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Manor Downs will run weekends only until April 10. At that time, Manor will start Friday racing with a 3 p.m. post time, says Fallon, who is also the track announcer.

Manor Downs conducts quarter horse races only.

POLITICAL PAID ADVERTISEMENT BY SIMS FOR SENATE, P.O. BOX 910 SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS 78292 BILL PITCHER, TREASURER

I am asking for your vote and support because I want the taxpayers of our precinct to be more involved in the decisions we can control.
Specifically: 1) I WILL hold meetings periodically to gain input from Precinct #1 residents, discuss your problems and concerns, cover progress made and list future priorities. 2) I WILL publish and mail a newsletter--at my expense--to update all Precinct #1 citizens on the issues, current projects and future plans.
I pledge to be a commissioner who will work with the people and for the people. I am convinced that we can work together for the good of the entire precinct--and Bandera County, too--when we finally rise above petty politics. Let's put an end to the bickering, and NOW!
I am a family man with children in our Bandera schools. I founded Bandera Builders, Inc. eight years ago, and have brought this company along steadily to the point where we are among the leaders in the area and to the place where I can now give the required time to my community. As a general contractor for commercial, ranch, and residential projects, I am knowledgeable in all phases of road construction and property improvement.
These have been tough times, as we all know, but through plain old hard work, common sense and a reasonable and steadfast approach to good management, we have prospered. I will bring this proven record of sound business management to Commissioners' Court to serve all of us with fairness. I can promise quality decisions to provide quality services for all our taxpayers--not just for select areas.
I sincerely urge you to call me with your concerns at 535-4313/535-6511

Fisherman flock to Pop's Place

It's been open for almost a month and during that time the fishermen have returned to the Medina River and Lake.

Pop's Place in Pipe Creek has been open seven days a week since since the ...

... proprietor Shirley McMullen said this week.

And since then, they've had from seven to 7 to 50 boats launched each day. "We've had 50 boats launched Saturday, 20 Sunday, 20 Monday and 15 ...

Fishermen in the boats have been catching mainly male ... and recently many day some crappie. They've been fishing up the river.

Fishermen report they've been catching the fish on artificial bait including spoons, small rattle traps, and a small spinner called "Little George," which is a jig-like lure with a dime size spinner near the head and no skirt on the hook.

... weekend with the Buckskins playing at 4 p.m. Sunday.

AARP to see travelog

Smith deployed to Mediterranean

Navy Airman Apprentice Steven W. Smith, the son of Howard W. Smith of Pipe Creek, was recently deployed with Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron-11, Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla. for a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea.

While embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS America, Smith will participate in Various operations and training exercises with his squadron.

Smith's squadron flies the SH-3H Sea King helicopter, used to detect, track and destroy enemy submarines. It is also used for search and rescue missions while deployed aboard an aircraft carrier.

Smith is a 1990 graduate of Bandera High School.

Verstuyft completes training

Pvt. Vanessa L. Verstuyft has complete wire systems installation training at Fort Gordon, Augusta, Ga.

She is the daughter of Billy J. Verstuyft of Lakehills and Ramona J. Vaught of San Antonio.

The course provided instruction for soldiers to install, operate, and perform operator and organizational maintenance checks and services on voltage and current protection devices, telephones and auxiliary equipment.

New state certification for record fish

Texas anglers can now submit their big-fish catches for state certification at a variety of locations using new, certified scales.

The following inland fisheries lake now weigh submitted fish on certified scales obtained from the Texas Department of Agriculture: Denison Fisheries Lab, 214-786-2389; Fort Worth Fisheries Lab, 817-732-0761; Waco Fisheries Lab, 817-799-5190; Bryan Fisheries Lab, 409-822-5067 and San Marcos Fisheries Lab, 512-353-0072.

The newly acquired scales were obtained to make it easier for anglers in rural areas to quickly weigh in their catches.

Wharton's Dock

The Walker Memorial Chapel will hold their monthly covered dish dinner Sunday, Feb. 23, after the morning service. Fried chicken will be the main course with side dishes furnished by the culinary experts of the church.

Wharton's Dock Lounge is under renovation and owners are hoping for a March 1 opening. Much of the interior decorating has been accomplished, but reports indicate there is much more to do. Work is planned on the decks and dance patio.

... sons, David and Joseph, have arrived here from Tell City, Ind. The boys are visiting their grandparents, Phillip and Nola Bledsoe.

The boys have already been enrolled in the Bandera school system. Sherry, Nola's daughter, is planning to enter nursing school.

— Bob and Dorothy Rucker recently visited with their son Bobby Cummings, in Llano, La. who has been discharged from the Army. He has been employed by Lockheed, who has a contract for maintaining Army vehicles at Fort Polk, La.

— Al Smalley of Lake Medina Shores is reported to be in the hospital with a severe case of pneumonia.

— Bill Walker Jr. and his wife, Ricky, and their two children, Rachel and Roxanne, have recently returned from a five-day visit in Florida.

Rachel and Roxanna both said they enjoyed the realistic ride through the Age of Discovery at the Exxon pavilion.

... memories were driving a car in the Magic Kingdom and watching a Benjamin Franklin robot perform at the U.S. pavilion in Epcot.

They also traveled to Reptile Haven where they saw cobras and cottonmouths being milked of their venom.

Meanwhile, on the homefront, grandpa Bill Walker had the task of taking care of Roxanne's small zoo of frogs, mice, lizards and other small creatures.

He said he didn't mind the duty one bit.

Of course, sometimes Roxanne's zoo has snakes.

— Long-time friends of John "Bud" and Betty Ciarlo, Dave and Cathy Stocker, of Austin visited Saturday, Feb. 8, to check the water level in the Medina River and to see if they could help with any damage from the high water from the recent flooding. "We told them we were in no danger, so we just had a good visit reminiscing about our many years together in Panama," said Bud.

Public hearings on TPW regulations set

Public hearings on hunting and fishing regulations will be held March 4-5.

A public hearing is set Wednesday, March 4, at The Texas A&M Engineering Student Lounge at 9350 S. Presa in San Antonio and at the Uvalde Civic Center in Uvalde.

A public hearing is set Thursday, March 5, at the Kerr County Courthouse in Kerrville.

This season department staff are proposing various statewide regulation changes for yellow bass and flat-head catfish, public freshwater netting, and several other fishing issues, including a Spanish mackerel bag limit increase from three to seven fish.

The most notable change will increase the minimum size limit on flat-head catfish from nine to 24 inches in length. A recent survey indicated flatheads don't reach maturity until they are two to four years old, when they usually measure 17 to 26 inches.

Another proposal would remove the current bag limit of 25 daily, 50 in possession on yellow bass.

There is only one proposed change in wildlife regulations. This would make it unlawful to possess both a broad-head hunting point and a firearm at the same time during archery-only season.

If approved, all of the proposals except public freshwater netting will go into effect Sept. 1., except the nettingprohibition.

Fiddlers to perform here

Country music set at Legion Hall

As many as 40 fiddlers from the Old-Time Fiddler's Association are expected to draw their bows across their strings at the Bandera American Legion hall Saturday.

The almost annual event will be held from 1 to 5 p.m., reports Legion spokesman Chuck Hu...

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 157 will offer barbecue plates of chicken, sausage, beans, potato salad or cole slaw and a roll for $3.50, reports auxiliary secretary Carol Pursch. Beer and soft drinks will be available in the ... auditorium.

Admission is free. "The public is encouraged to come, have dinner, and enjoy an afternoon ... music," says Pursch.

Proceeds from the food sales will go to the building fund.

Country & Western legends to play

Two of the oldest continuously active country-western bands in the state of Texas will perform together on the same bandstand for the first ... time ever in Kerrville Saturday, Feb. 29.

Adolph Hofner and the Pearl Wranglers and the Texas Top Hands Band, both of San Antonio, will perform at the K.C. Hall (formerly the Long Branch) in Kerrville from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Admission for this big dance will be $5 per person.

Hofner's biggest recording was "Maria Ellena". The Texas Top Hands Band, directed by Ray Sczepanik, who joined the band in 1967, and became sole owner and band leader in 1979, will be performing two of their biggest hits, "The Bandera Waltz" and "The Cottoneyed Joe". "The Bandera Waltz", written by former band leader "Easy" Adams, was also recorded by other such artists as Ernest Tubb and Slim Whitman.

... started performing in 1937. The Texas Top Hands band were organized in 1945.

Beethoven band to play in Boerne

The Beethoven Concert Band of San Antonio will perform at the Rainbow Senior Center Foundation in Boerne Saturday, March 7, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Admission for the sixth annual benefit is $4 for adults and free for children under 12.

The senior center is located one block west on Main Street behind the Catholic church.

German favorites and selected contemporary music will be played reports Beethoven Mannerchor publicity chairman H.H. Copeland.

Selections include "Danube Waves," the original Austrian composition from which the American melody, "Anniversary Song" was taken; "Das Ist Musik," German waltz; "Vaquero" and "Espana Cani" for a Spanish touch; and "Themes Like Old Times" and "Swinging Glenn Miller" for American traditional music.

"The Hungry Five" - a new small ensemble formed in 1991, will play informal music of real German style, starting at 7:10 p.m.

Millions of Americans suffer from over 100 sleep disorders

Most people take a good night's sleep for granted. But not the case for millions of Americans who suffer from one of over 100 sleep disorders.

They may be irritable, confused, disoriented or forgetful due to lack of sleep or disturbed sleep. Some fall asleep suddenly during the day. Others complain of headaches, chronic fatigue, or depression.

Paul T. Ingmundson, Ph.D, Audie L. Murphy Memorial Veterans Hospital staff psychologist and clinical assistant professor of psychiatry and neurology at The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, says most sleep disorders can now be diagnosed and treated successfully. The key to diagnosis is the Sleep Lab, located in Medical Center Hospital and run jointly by Audie Murphy Hospital and the Bexar County Hospital District.

Here, patients bed down for the night in two rooms fitted up to be as comfortable and homey as possible. While they sleep, a polysomnograph and other equipment measure brain waves, heart rate, eye movements, muscle tone, and breathing, which help define the stages of sleep and identify sleep problems. A video camera and microphone record movement and snoring or other verbalizations.

Sleep disorders fall into three categories, Ingmundson says: insomnia, or literally "lack of sleep;" hypersomnia, or sleeping too much; and parasomnia, in which strange behavior happens during sleep.

Insomnia, the most common sleep problem, is usually handled by the patient's primary care physician. While insomnia is often treated successfully with short-term drug therapy, difficult cases may be referred to the Sleep Lab.

Far more serious is sleep apnea, a form of hypersomnia affecting some 2 percent of the population, and very common among veterans. Overweight, middle aged men are prime candidates for the disorder because of excess soft tissue in the upper airway.

Ingmundson explains that when the muscles in the upper airway relax too much during sleep, the airway collapses, causing the person to stop breathing-sometimes 400 to 500 times a night. Apnea causes dramatic changes in heart rate and blood pressure, and although most sufferers aren't aware of being repeatedly "awakened," they complain of extreme daytime sleepiness, fatigue and other side effects of disturbed sleep.

And, heavy or irregular snorers take note: snoring is actually a "sub-clinical" form of apnea in which the airway relaxes but vibrates instead of collapsing completely. Ingmundson advises heavy snorers to seek medical advice before the problem becomes more severe.

Christopher Allen completes basic

Air Force Reserve Airman Christopher W. Allen of Tarpley has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base.

During the six weeks of training, Allen studied Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, Allen earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Allen of Tarpley.

Allen is a 1989 graduate of O.W. Holmes High School in San Antonio.

The Alamo, "Shrine of Texas Liberty," will be honored with an Alamo Memorial Day ceremony Friday, March 6 in San Antonio. The ceremony honors the defenders of the Alamo on the 156th anniversary of the day the battle ended. A color guard will present the flags that have flown over Texas, and the event is open to the public. The present building is the old chapel of Mission San Antonio de Valero, founded in 1718 by the Franciscan padres. In 1836, during the war for Texas independence, the Alamo was the scene of one of the most heroic events in the history of our nation. All of the 189 defending Texas soldiers were killed.

Elementary students celebrate western week

Students at Aikek Elementary School were entertained by a [illegible] band of Texas, and were clothing with a western air during the school's "Western Week" Feb. 3-7.

Trick roper Bruce Montague enlisted the help of his son, Cyrus, a second grader, for a few of the many rope tricks he performed on Wednesday, Feb. 5, and Ray Tate, Roger Heinen and Cal Berry of the Spirit of Texas band played for students [illegible] Feb. 6.

Kindergarteners Stacy Stehling and Jeffrey Wilkerson were recognized as "best dressed cowboy and cowgirl" in their class on Friday, Feb. 7.

Other class winners were first graders Tori Huggins and Brett Hicks, second graders Amanda Mayfield and Clynt Yerkes; third graders Jennifer [illegible] Rodriguez; fourth graders Liz Carpenter, Tommy Haines and Ray Lee Hutcheson; and fifth graders Shawna Teniente and Logan Wheeler.

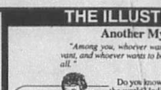
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Another Mystery of Faith



"Among you, whoever wants to be great must be your servant, and whoever wants to be first must be the willing slave of all."
— Matthew 20:26

Do you know anyone who has really "made it" in the eyes of the world? Individuals within our society measure success in terms of money, power, prestige, authority and titles. In this passage from Matthew, however, Jesus radically reorients the criteria by which success is measured. Real success, according to this new criteria, is servanthood. When one serves his fellow human beings with costly acts of love, he is a success in the eyes of God. This, it is possible to be a success in the eyes of the world, but a failure in the eyes of God. Wouldn't it be marvelous if we viewed our homes, jobs and financial resources as vehicles for loving God! By whose criteria do you want to be a success?

Classes utilizing materials in Roberta Magee's "Search for Significance" concept of building self-esteem will be offered beginning Sunday, March 1, at the Community Assembly of God.

LeRoy Rogers will be instructor of classes that begin at 9:45 a.m. and conclude at 10:30 a.m. so that participants may attend services in another church if they wish, says [illegible].

"Self esteem is one of the driving factors in a person's quest for success," says McGlaun. "Many face [illegible] deep desire to understand the meaning and importance of his life," she says. "Many face frustrations and bondadges that are neither understood or faced with insight or solutions.

"In his book, 'Search for Significance,' Magee gives a fresh approach to self understanding. Truths presented in this work form four foundational cornerstones that bring together the balance of clinical and spiritual therapy used in the Rapha treatment program."

Rapha is a nationwide chain of therapeutic centers founded by Magee, a professional counselor, lecturer and writer.

Coffee and donuts will be served to those who attend at the Assembly at 1209 Cottonwood St. in Bandera, behind Boyle's Market. "All ages are encouraged to attend," said McGlaun. "And child care is available." For more information call 796-7298 or 796-8456.

Davis heads apple group

Leonard Davis of Bandera was elected president of the Southwest Texas Apple Growers Association Thursday, Feb. 15, at the group's meeting in Bandera. Davis replaces president Bill Weber of Medina.

Julie Dinse of Bandera was elected secretary-treasurer.

Both officers were elected by acclamation and are the only two officers of the 50-plus member group.

"There is a considerable growing interest in apples," says Davis.

Many members come from across the state. Membership in the group is open to growers of apple products, hobbyists, people who want to sell to apple growers and food stores.

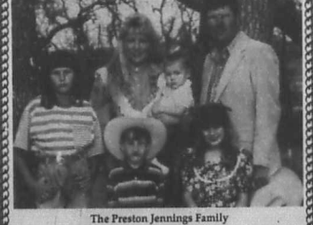
The Strength of Experience



The Preston Jennings Family

GETTING TO KNOW PRESTON: Preston is a 32-years old prepared to do the job correctly and effectively. Born and raised in Bandera County, Preston completed Bandera High School and continued his education at Schreiner College in Kerrville. Raised as a farmer/rancher, he married Susan Riedner. They have four children. In 1984, the challenge of life presented an opportunity for Preston to start in the heavy equipment and earth-moving construction business, a trade that has in the most part been his profession to date. Preston's ongoing desire to learn has rewarded him with a license to practice real estate of which he holds the designation of Realtor. His entry into the real estate industry has given him extensive experience in public relations as well as in-depth experience in the computer hi-tech field. Preston is always pleasant and accommodating. His concerns are for all people, but you can be certain that Preston is his own man. He will work hard for Precinct #3. He will be an interested, viable and visible spokesman on the Bandera County Commissioners' Court. On the phone or in person, Preston will stop and listen to your concerns and act accordingly. Preston D. Jennings has accepted no contribution from any group or individual in his campaign for election.

Silver Sage Corral

Manuel Flores

This has been a busy month so far. On Friday, Feb. 14 the American Cancer Society sponsored a benefit dance at the Cabaret. Some volunteers from the Silver Sage Corral helped decorate the dance hall with balloons, ribbons, cut-out cupids and hearts and anything else they could think of. The Sherrif's Posse provided good music for dancing and everyone had a good time. Thank you to those of you that bid on the auction items.

The next night, Saturday, Feb. 15th, local merchants and some other local organizations sponsored a dance to welcome the "Winter Texans". There was plenty of food, good fellowship and the Sound Machine provided music to dance by. Thank you "Winter Texans" for choosing Bandera as one of your stops and hope to see you next year. Thank you to the volunteers from the Silver Sage Corral for providing the chicken salad and pimiento cheese finger sandwiches for the party.

The Birthday Luncheon this month will be Tuesday, Feb. 25th. For those of you that have not joined us before please bring a covered dish and join us for lunch. This in one of the most popular events of the month and there is always a lot of good food.

Friday, Feb. 28th is the date of the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors. If you are on the board we urge you to attend.

Saturday, March 7th will be our annual plant, hamburger, and arts and crafts sale. From all indications we are going to have an early Spring and we will be just in time to help you out with plenty of bedding plants for the upcoming season. We will also have charbroiled hamburgers and lots of other goodies to eat and hopefully will have several vendors for arts and crafts. The space for the arts and craft booths will be on the lawn and you may take as much space as you need for a donation of $10. Please call the center and let them know if you would like to set up a table.

We still need plants donated for our sale. If you don't have time to pot them up bring them by the center and we will do it. If you can't bring the plants by the center call and we will make arrangements to pick them up.

Emergency farm loan applications are now being accepted by FmHA

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by severe thunderstorms and flooding occurring Dec. 20, 1991, are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Fredericksburg, Texas, FmHA County Supervisor Donald West said.

Bandera, Kendall, and Kerr counties are three of 48 counties in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Madigan as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the severe thunderstorms and flooding.

West said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," West said. Farmers participating in the PIK of Federal Crop Insurance program will have to figure in proceeds from those program in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until Sept. 2, 1992, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season," West said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Fredericksburg is open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Bandera Nursing Home

Made Wedgeworth

Rev. Jarrell Sharp from the Bandera United Methodist Church had the Church Services Sunday afternoon. Karen Zickler was the pianist. Guest were Lillian Ray and Marley Johnson.

The Rosary Group met on Monday evening for prayers and singing included residents Ada Sehon, Evelyn Hostetter, "Sis" Perry, Mae Eidenshink, Cecelia Leal and from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church were parishioners Aggie Batto, Joyce Sellberg, Mary Fitzpatrick, Dorothy Callahan and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

Brownie Troop 443 under the leadership of Janet Slade and [illegible] visited residents Jennifer Slade, Kathryn Miller, Holly Burrow brought Valentines they had made for everyone.

Sandee Vannatter, Betty MacNaughton and Dixie Cohn brought their Sunday nite Bible School Class by with Valentines for everyone. They also sang songs for us. Signing the guest book were Sandee Vannatter, Betty MacNaughton, Dixie Cohn, Cince Coates, Scott MacNaughton, Causey, Tiffany, and Charles Cohn, Laci, Beth and Trey Faglie, Jeremiah and Levi Sawyer.

Oleta Davis visited Luther Mathis.

Mrs. Ray E. Palmer brought Evelyn Carnes some pretty roses for Valentines Day.

We had our Valentine Party last Friday afternoon and [illegible] crowned Queen and Jack Holloway was crowned King. Delicious refreshments was served by the Dietary Staff. Signing the guest book were Laura Holliman, Thelma Rankin, Georgia Gragg, Casey and Jody Williams, Herman Click, L.R. and Lillian Holloway, Horace and Gladys Hines, Gaston and Ophelia Thurman, Mildred Bunch, Melissa Bunch and Vera King.

Jack Holloway attended the Dance at the Cabaret Friday evening.

Lillian and Leon Ray took Jack Holloway to Church Services Sunday at the Church of Christ.

Bro. Ted Bosworth from Pipe Creek Baptist had Church Services Thursday, Martin Smith from the church of Christ had Bible Reading on Wednesday and Rev. Michael McManus from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church had Services Friday morning. Other volunteers last week were Chase, Jesse, Pue, Tim Sanches, Shirley Phillips, Lila Sprott, Rosemary [illegible].

We're sorry to report Fay Crosswhite died Saturday. Funeral services were Tuesday. We will miss her.

German style 'Mardi Gras' celebrated in Fastnacht

The German version of Mardi Gras, Fastnacht, will host costumed partyers from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 22, at the Beethoven Home, 422 Pereida St. San Antonio.

Fastnacht, which originally began as a heathen celebration of spring, evolved into a German tradition of fun-filled revelry traditionally held before Lent.

The annual Faschings party, sponsored by the Beethoven Damenchor (women's choir), features the music of Arthur Hillert Orchestra. There will be surprise entertainment, prizes for the best costumes, and door prizes, says publicity chair Bobbie Hale.

Admission is $10 per person which includes a German meal, and tickets can be purchased at the door.

The German celebration culminated in the 16th century when noted poets, musicians, writers, and composers produced short, witty dramatic tales, satires, farces, funny plays, and musical performances.

"Today, German cities, such as Cologne and Mainz, continue the traditional celebration from the Three Holy Kings Day in January to the midnight before Ash Wednesday," says Hale.

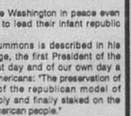
A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes



"I was summoned by my country, whose voice I can never hear but with veneration and love." These words were spoken on April 30, 1789, by a tall, tired man. After losing many battles, but winning a war, he had hoped to retire from public life to his beautiful and beloved home on the banks of the Potomac.

His countrymen, though, needed George Washington in peace even more than in war. They called upon him to lead their infant republic forward.

How Washington responded to the summons is described in his Inaugural Address. In an eloquent passage, the first President of the United States gave his countrymen of that day and of our own day a responsibility which should always guide Americans: "The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply and finally staked on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people."

We Americans have preserved this heritage; its future rests in our hands today, as surely as when the Father of His Country gave his trust to those who heard him on April 30, 1789. We, like Washington, are summoned by our country to preserve "the sacred fire of liberty."

Pharmacist's discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON—After solving the problem of his own obesity, a pharmacist, now director of National Dietary Research, may have discovered the solution for others with the same problem.

Dr. William Morris, pharmacist, inventor and author has discovered a natural food tablet, aptly named Food Source One, that replaces some of the calories normally obtained from food: Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with other natural food ingredients with little or no caloric value so you can lose weight without giving up all your favorite foods, as explained in NDR's Lifestyle Maintenance publication, available where Food Source One is sold. "The secret to meaningful weight loss is not in decreasing the amount of food you eat, but in controlling the fat," says Dr. Morris.

According to Dr. Morris, weight loss results while using Food Source One will depend on how many pounds a person needs to lose. However some overweight people are experiencing extra-ordinary results with Food Source One. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great" she added.

Food Source One is available at pharmacies without a prescription. © 1991 Dawson International. All rights reserved

PACKY

Packy wasn't very famous, he didn't have a pedigree.
Maybe that's how I got 'im, Packy was just like me.
He didn't know 'bout money, he just lived for love an' fun.
Guess that's why we hit it off, 'cause I didn't have none.

It just seemed to happen, but I bet the Lord could tell you more.
He made it look like a twist of fate, but I seen 'im work before.
There was something missin' in my life, an' he knew Packy needed me.
It ain't the Lord is sneaky, He just didn't want us to know, you see.

His master couldn't keep him, so he brought him here one day.
He asked if I would take him, I said I guess it would be okay.
'Twas the understatement of my life, okay was not the word.
If ever a happier tale was told, 'tis one I've never heard

I couldn't show no weakness, a macho man must play the part.
Packy seemed to understand, so 'twas he that stole my heart.
He'd nonchalantly rag along, leaving me to have my way.
Pretending all the while that I'd decide, if he should go or stay.

Like a spider weaves its web, so's to catch the wary fly.
He'd weave his way into my heart, an' hardly even try.
So it was to be, I'd be his and he'd be mine.
'Course I would be the boss, that suited him just fine.

For a couple of blissful years, me and Packy seemed like one.
Life was full of meaning, each new day was filled with fun.
We would do the daily chores, and then sometimes we'd play.
The only thing that wasn't right, was the shortness of each day.

Then one day the Lord decided, I'd had him long enough.
My pretense to understand, at best was just a bluff.
A man's not s'posed to cry they say, even midst the pain.
Guess I better go inside now, seems I felt a drop of rain.

I'll leave you with a message, one sent from up above.
Livin' don't seem to matter much, without the gift of love.
You say you once had a dog, that's why you understand.
But Packy wasn't just my dog you see---I was Packy's man.

State board agrees to drop proposed water well rules

State Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, and State Rep. Rob Junell, D-San Angelo, this week jointly announced that the Texas Water Well Drillers Board has agreed to drop all proposed rules which would put controls on an individual's water wells.

The action came as a result of a meeting in Austin between Sims' office, Junell, Frank Del Rio, and Texas Water Commissioner Peggy Garner.

In addition to dropping the proposed rules, the board also agreed not to require the licensing of windmill repairmen.

Ranchers, farmers and landowners with private water wells voiced opposition to the regulations, saying that many would have to pay from $400 to $1,600 per well to bring existing wells up to specifications.

Ned Meister of Waco, director of regulatory affairs for the Texas Farm Bureau, called the revision in the rules "a tremendous stride to make the regulations comply with the bill."

Medina High School performs one-act 'Apollo'

"The Apollo of Bellac," a romantic comedy, is Medina High School's one act play effort this year.

The play is about a shy girl who goes for a job interview and is ignored until a nondescript man from the town of Bellac aids her. He shows her that she can have her way with any man if she will upon [illegible] handsome and compare him to the statue of the Apollo of Bella (nonexistant). She does this beginning with the clerk and works her way successfully to the chairman of the board.

Missy Phipps plays Agnes, and Gretta Floyd is her understudy; Cali Barton plays Therese and Terry Espinosa is her understudy.

Other actors include Sherril Johnson as the clerk; Josh Simms as The Man; Garrick Childers as the vice president; Roger Phillips as Mr. Crachefon; George Flores as Mr. Lepedura; Chad Hurt as Mr. Schults; Karl Murphy as the president; Dusty Reed as Chevredent with Sherri Scafidi as her understudy; and Nathan Vannetter as the chairman of the board.

"The crew practices daily for an hour and a half, memorizing [illegible] going very well," says Nora L. Barber. The group began blocking and characterizing Thursday.

"Even in early rehearsal we are starting to see some real moments of actual theatre, where you believe the characters and want to know what will happen next," says Ann Leppiks.

According to Barber, the play is so funny that it is hard for the actors to keep straight faces during rehearsals.

"They're really having lots of fun with this," she says.

Scouts to deliver cookies

A lot of people must like Girl Scout cookies, as members of the Kendall County Girl Scouts are delivering over 7,000 boxes of cookies this month.

A total of 7,644 boxes of Girl Scout cookies were delivered to the seven troops in Bandera County Saturday, Feb. 5, and the girls started delivering the cookies to those persons that pre-ordered right away.

[illegible] sponsored by Alkek Elementary School, had the highest number of orders at 1,716, reports troop spokeswoman Laura Lara.

Lara reports that the ordering was up 15 percent from last year and attributes the increase to more girls in the program.

From the orders, the favorite in Bandera County is Twin Mints, says Lara, with the new Golden Nut Clusters coming in second.

The girls will be selling cookies around the county starting Friday at $2.50 a box.

Flavors available will be Golden Nut Clusters (pecans and caramel), Thin Mints, Samoas (chewy chocolate and caramel), Tagalongs (peanut butter and chocolate), Trefoils (shortbread), Chalet Cremes (lemon and vanilla sandwiches) and Do-Si-Dos (peanut butter and oatmeal).

Booth sales will continue until March 9.

Girl Scouts Jennifer Jennings, 8, Crystal Anderson, 7, Emily Morris, 7, and Sarah Berg, 8, of Troop 794 stand by some of the Girl Scout cookies unloaded in Bandera Saturday, Feb. 8. They and their counterparts have been distributing the cookies to persons that have pre-ordered. Their troop had more cookie orders than any other troop in the county.

Fine Arts group sees Norway craft work

Norway craft work made for all the appearances of a county fair at the Bandera Electric Co-operative meeting room Tuesday, Feb. 4, when the Fine Arts Club met.

Nick Vandernakker, from Leiden, Holland, brought displays of Hardanger needlework to show, reports Fine Arts Club publicity chair Enid Peres.

Each piece is a series of pulled threads, intricate stitches, and cutwork which he explained was done on extremely strong cotton material. It is so expensive that he uses every last piece making coasters or tree ornaments out of the scraps. Hardanger is a city in Norway and because the women of the town used this type of needlework on their blouses, skirts and aprons, the name of the town became the type of needlework.

Smocked dresses, bonnets, a Christmas ball, and a little boy's suit were displayed. She also brought a small pleating machine which she uses to gather the material prior to starting on the smocking pattern.

The Vandernakkers traveled around the country from Oregon to Mexico and inland before settling in Kerrville. On the way, they exhibited their work in various arts and crafts shows. In Flagstaff, Ariz., every piece they entered in a county fair won a ribbon.

Also present were Carolee Youngblood of Bandera, a quilting teacher and judge. She teaches a quilting class at the Silver Sage Corral. She and her quilting group brought their recent work including pillows, table runners, placemats, a Christmas tablecloth as well as quilts, reports Peres.

The next meeting of the Fine Arts Club will be March 3 and will be a luncheon and style show by local merchants beginning at noon in the Flying L Ranch dining room. "Please note that this is a change of location," says Peres.

"An $8 reservation check, made payable to "Fine Arts Club," must be sent to Mary Garcia by Feb. 22.

Youth center site approved Feb. 10

Bandera County Commissioners gave the go-ahead to the Bandera County Youth Center Committee Monday, Feb. 10 to [illegible] for a youth center.

The committee had suggested the site next to the recreation center at a recent scouting meeting at the county-owned park. The old barns would have to be torn down to make way for a center that would be built with private funds on county property.

County Commissioner Bennie Barker, who is temporary [illegible] and fundraising committee, said Feb. 13 at a committee planning meeting that the committee is "past the talking stage."

Temporary chairman James McMillan reported that application for tax exempt status for the committee is well under way.

The Youth Center group has decided there will be three phases.

First phase will include erection of a large new and attractive metal building that will include a roller skating rink, canteen and commercial kitchen facilities, a large multi-purpose area behind the skating section with good acoustical qualities for dances and banquets. When not in use for these purposes, it will house a video game center and movie area, pool tables and other entertainment facilities.

The second and most expensive item will come later and depend on grant and foundation money for funding: an Olympic size swimming pool. Fees will be charged and it will also be open the public.

The third phase will be a bowling alley that will also be open to the public to [illegible] the Youth Center. Doug Ellington, a member of the fundraising committee says it will create jobs for the youth and credits can be earned to pay skating and other entertainment fees.

Bub Keese, chairman of the Youth Committee, is working with the student body in Medina and the junior high and high schools to generate interest from the youth and support [illegible]

Barker said a "massive" fundraiser probably in the form of a dance and barbecue is planned early in the summer and details will be finalized at the next meeting.

Barker again urged everyone to attend and get involved. Plans call for the architectal drawings to be revealed at the fundraiser, soon to be announced.

"We are also urging sponsors to contact us in the near future when we have a financial plan to take to the bank. We are hopeful that we can get enough sponsors to underwrite the building so they did with great success when the show barn was built at Mansfield park.

"Fixed revenues from the youth center activities and two large fundraisers should be sufficient to pay the annual bank payments and operating costs," said Barker.

The next meeting of the committee is Saturday, March 14, at 9 a.m. at the EconoLodge. All committees will be meeting prior to that date and give plans and progress reports March 14.

In spite of deadly disease's name, live oak trees don't really 'wilt'

This article, the third in a [illegible] Crawford Tracy of the Medina Committee to Stop Oak Wilt.

Why is a wound critical?

To start with, our sap-feeding beetle is attracted to the moisture oozing from a very fresh wound. When in the [illegible] stream through a deep fresh cut on your skin, the oak wilt fungus spores, with which that beetle may be contaminated, can readily enter the tree's water-carrying tissue through the access point a deep wound provides.

Wind damage (to which Spanish oaks are particularly prone); domestic or wild animals chewing through the [illegible] or heavy equipment, pruning cuts: all create wounds that provide potential access for the oak wilt fungus. While some damage from natural causes is inevitable, remember than relatively few live oak wilt infection sites develop remote from human activity: people are clearly a factor in the spread of disease. Given the direct connection between fresh wounds and the likelihood of oak wilt infection, it is easy to see the effect careless wounding or ill-timed pruning of oak trees can have.

some useful insights into the probability of infection. One, for example, indicates that wounds to the trunk area of a tree render it particularly vulnerable to infection. Another shows that infection is most likely within the first three [illegible]. A third found that [illegible] ly dressing a wound with tree paint significantly lowers the risk of infection, effectively sealing the cut surface.

What does oak wilt look like?

An expanding patch of dead and dying live oaks in varying stages of defoliation, a sight sadly familiar to anyone living in this part of Central Texas, is a typical pattern of infection. For other diseases some [illegible] live oaks tend to look a bit shabby now, for live oaks are "persistent deciduous" trees, shedding their old foliage as the new growth develops. Later on in the growing season, the symptoms of disease will be easier to spot.)

Starting in the spring, look closely at the leaves on a live oak suspected of infection, and at newly fallen leaves beneath it. Sometimes, tip burn will be evident on end of the leaves; the foliage may be chlorotic (yellowish) or necrotic (brown and dry). None of these patterns is considered definitive, however. The one leaf symptom [illegible] positive assumption of oak wilt in live oaks is a pattern called "veinal necrosis": a distinct bronze or brown branchlike pattern running throughout the vein area of the leaf. Absence of leaves with veinal [illegible] exhibiting this very distinctive pattern are seen as evidence of oak wilt. Note that only live oak leaves develop veinal necrosis; the pattern is not seen on the foliage of diseased Spanish and blackjack oaks.

What are foliar symptoms?

In spite of the disease name, the leaves of infected live oaks don't really "wilt." Live oaks tend just to defoliate gradually, over a period of weeks or months. Partial crown loss, with perceptible thinning of the canopy, may suggest oak wilt infection. (February is not the time to panic about crown loss, however. Many healthy live oaks tend to look a bit [illegible] disease correctly, for managing an oak wilt infection center is by no means a quick or easy fix. Property owners can call on a trained expert to take samples from a symptomatic tree; the samples are then sent to the plant pathology lab at Texas A&M for analysis, with results back usually within a month.

Is there a lab test?

Yes, and when foliar symptoms are ambiguous, tree samples can and should be tested. [illegible]

Cost of the lab test is nominal, but the process is not infallible. Even with samples carefully collected by specialists, a false negative may result, for the test relies on spore production from the fungus, which, highly vulnerable to [illegible] tion, heat and drying, may die en route to the lab. A positive result, however, is definitive: if spores are produced, oak wilt was indeed present.

What are red oak symptoms?

As the [illegible] cal of five oaks, it's easy to overlook a lone Spanish or blackjack oak dying out in the pasture: an isolated tree does not command the same attention as does a large and spreading stand of dead live oaks. (Occasionally an oak wilt infection center can develop in a dense grouping of Spanish oaks; in this instance, as with [illegible] spread through the trees' shared roots and may move by means of root grafts to adjacent trees, though these sites are seldom as extensive as live oak infection centers.)

But while disease symptoms in the red oaks are very different from those of live oaks, and the loss of a single tree may not seem significant at the time, it is critically important to learn to recognize oak wilt in blackjack and Spanish oaks, for the fungus spores that may form beneath the bark of these trees shortly after they die are the initial source of future disease.

Symptom development in the red oaks is generally more rapid than in live oaks; foliar symptoms are more dramatic. And, once symptoms do appear, a red oak stricken with oak wilt has even less chance of survival than does a [illegible] able die within a few weeks or months.

The first sign of disease, indicating that the tree's vascular system has been compromised, may be a sudden overall wilting of foliage: the whole tree, or one section after another, may develop limp, dark, almost wet-looking foliage.

Unless you were watching for it closely, you might not see the red oak "wilt", but the dramatic color change that can follow this stage is hard to miss.

Ted Dockery's coaching career remembered

San Antonio newspaper recalls his state championship team

Bandera school superintendent Ted Dockery was featured Sunday in the San Antonio Express-News' sports features called "Where Are They?"

The article focused on Dockery's [illegible] coaching career and his Mar- [illegible] Class AAA state championship.

Dockery and members of that team will be honored during this year's state tournament before the 2:30 p.m. game March 14 at the Super Drum in Austin.

Dockery remembers the team members well. "They were not only good athletes but good [illegible] als," he told sports writer Harry Page. "We never had to worry about grades or anything like that with these guys," Dockery recalled.

Dockery, 56, has been with the Bandera school system for [illegible] for the past eight years.

He said the biggest thrill of the year was just getting to play in historic old Gregory Gymnasium on the University of Texas campus in Austin. "The place was packed and people were hanging from the [illegible] rafters." People hanging from rafters for big games was a trademark of Gregory Gym. "Both games went down to the wire," Dockery recalled.

"We beat Andrews (53-52) in the semifinals and went into overtime against Clear Creek," he said. "You bet that there was some anxiety moments. It was a thrill of a lifetime, one that I'll never forget."

Dockery started coaching when Highlands High School opened in San Antonio in 1958. He coached junior high teams that advanced to the playoffs.

Dockery left coaching in 1973 when he became assistant principal at MacArthur, a post he held for five years.

"I'd coached for 15 years and that's an awful lot of coaching," Dockery told Page. "What I miss most is working with the young men, and enjoying the big games and the big seasons.

"It was a thrill of a lifetime, one that I'll never forget." – Ted Dockery

Al Heep volunteer chairman of tourney here benefitting children's hospital

Al Heep, long-time Bandera area rancher, will serve as volunteer chairman of the "Flying L Fling" an 18-hole golf scramble tournament scheduled all day Friday, March 6 at the Flying L Guest Ranch.

The tournament, featuring both morning and afternoon shotgun starts, will benefit Santa Rosa Children's Hospital, a regional facility which treats and cares for the most seriously ill and injured children in Southwest Texas.

Heep has recruited a nine-man team to assist in fund-raising and other arrangements for the tournament, expected to attract a field of some 250 players.

"Really, it's both fund-raising and fun-raising because these guys like to play golf and they also have a sensitivity for the cause of sick children," he said.

A donation of $40 per player is being asked, the fee to include green fee, cart, a fajita dinner prepared by the Bexar County Pharmaceutical Representatives Association, and a chance to win one or more prizes donated by J.C. Penney at Ingram Park Mall. The store is giving $1,000 in merchandise for the good and the lucky participating in the tournament.

The tournament is part of the "March Across South Texas" being promoted by radio station KKYX, AM680, which will have its premier morning show host, Bill Cody, broadcasting live from the tournament most of the day.

Other major sponsors are Ruud Air Conditioning and Heating Contractors, South Texas GMC Truck Dealers, Allen and Allen Lumber and JC Penney, Ingram Park Mall.

Hole sponsors checking in with donations of $100 or more include Captains Corner Car Wash, Air-Con Mechanical Contractors, McCullough Claims Service, Heep Wildlife Management Ranch, St. Luke's Men's Club, Girard Signs, Pipe Creek Trading Company and Flea Market, D'Spain Sales and Service Inc., Pipe Creek Junction Cafe and Barrell House Hardware and Feed.

Heep said afternoon tee-off spots were going rapidly and he predicted the p.m. flight soon will be sold out. However, he noted, because of that the duplicate or equal prizes for both morning and afternoon flight winners.

"Essentially, that means we will have two tournaments with prizes for all contests—closest to pin, longest drives, etc.— to be awarded to both morning and afternoon winners."

Persons interested in making reservations for the tournament may call the Flying L Pro Shop at 796-8466.

TRUTH and ACCURACY ARE IMPORTANT IN THE PCT. #1 COMMISSIONER'S RACE!!

☆ A negative political ad last week implied that COMMISSIONER BARKER was a big spender because Pct. #1 has spent $416,450.47 during the administration of COMMISSIONER BARKER and we were not getting our money's worth.

☆ The truth is that COMMISSIONER BARKER has spent that amount up-grading equipment, increasing efficiency and reducing costs to make your tax dollars stretch further as the Road & bridge budget continues to decrease.

☆ The total Road and Bridge Budget for 88-89, 89-90 and budgeted expenditures for 90-91 come to $2,185,907.30, for all four precincts. The $416,450.47 spent by Pct. $1 is less than 20 % of that total.

☆ By comparison, Pct. #2 spent $503,701.65 during the same period Pct. #1 spent $416,450.47, SO WHO IS TRYING TO FOOL WHO?

☆ COMMISSIONER BARKER'S PRECINCT #1 HAD 140 miles of road to maintain and Pct. #2 HAD APPROXIMATELY 90 MILES. COMMISSIONER BARKER WITH EXPERIENCE AND DEDICATION IS DOING MORE WITH LESS AND WILL CONTINUE TO WORK TO IMPROVE YOUR ROADS AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

RE-ELECT BENNIE BARKER, COUNTY COMMISSIONER, PCT. #1 IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ON MARCH 10.

Niki Rouch faces two Jourdanton defenders under the basket in the Lady Bulldogs' bi-district victory Saturday.

Fourth-quarter Lady Bulldog rally falls short in area showdown

Seguin – Bandera's Lady Bulldogs scored 25 points in a torrid fourth-quarter rally Tueday at Seguin, but it was not enough to overcome a 20-point advantage built up by Yoakum, who hung on for a 58-47 victory.

The defeat put an abrupt end to the Lady Bulldogs' most successful season ever.

The teams were similar down to their nicknames and blue and white uniforms, and while Bandera matched up well with Yoakum size-wise, they could not match their speed nor their ability to hang on to the ball. Bandera suffered 14 unforced turnovers in the first half and fell behind 28-16 at halftime and 42-22 at the end of the third quarter.

Kim Jetter of Yoakum led all scorers with 23 points and Natalie Koehler scored 17 for Bandera and senior Lisa Wharton added 16.

Most interest in GOP in upcoming election

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

If there was ever any doubt that the Republican party has seized political control of Bandera County, the initial votes cast in the March 10 primary early voting period should end it all as Republicans out voted Democrats almost five to one.

Add to that the urging of a current Republican county commissioner for his Democratic friends to vote in the Republican primary and a former Democratic party official who says he intends to cross the line.

Top it off by the only locally contested races are in the Republican primary.

But at the polls Tuesday, March 10, massive numbers of voters may be confused as they will be voting in new commissioner precincts, new voting precincts, and at new voting locations as a result of redistricting.

As of late Tuesday afternoon, Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates reported 87 persons had voted in the Republican primary and 18 persons had voted in the Democratic primary either by personal appearance at the clerk's office or by mail ballot.

Observers attribute the lopsided voting to the number of locally contested races in each primary.

On the Republican side, James MacMillan and Marc Sultan seek their party's nomination as sheriff. Incumbent R.S. "Steve" Forest has no opposition in the Democratic primary.

The battle for the Republican nomination for county attorney between incumbent Sam Darden, a party-switcher, and Kerry Schneider will decide who will be in that office in through 1-97, as there is no Democratic opposition.

The commissioner precinct 3 post has two men vying for the nomination in the Republican primary (Preston Jennings and Louis Vannatter) and one in the Democratic primary (Ralph Chancey).

For the nomination to county commissioner precinct 1, Republicans will decide who holds the office. Incumbent Bennie Barker is struggling against Bobby Jones and Michael Jewett.

Even the Republican county chair position is contested — between incumbent Gary Johnston and Janet Cave.

In local voting precinct chair races, two Republican voting precinct posts are contested, while some Democratic voting precinct posts don't even have a nominee.

In Barker's struggle to retain the commissioner's post he's gone through two elections to get and keep, he encourages Democrats to cross over.

"The local Democratic candidates are unopposed in the primary and do not need your vote until the general election in November," he points out. "Your support in the Republican primary will help commissioner Barker ... and it will not effect your ability to vote a mixed ballot ... in the general election," Barker says in a political ad appearing in The Bulletin.

Even former Bandera County Democratic party chair Nick Johnson says he intends to vote in the Republican primary. "There are no contests in the (local) Democratic primary, and besides I want to send a message to George Bush by voting for Pat Buchanan."

Confusion may reign supreme on Super Tuesday, March 10, however.

"Many voters are in new voter precincts and some voters are even in new commissioner precincts," says Bandera County Democratic party

Vander Zee trial begins

Money laundering charges to be heard in federal court

The trial of former Bandaran Harlan Vander Zee on drug money laundering charges opened Monday in Judge Lucius Bunton's federal courtroom in San Antonio.

He is charged along with another banker, Herbert E. Pounds Jr., of knowingly laundering some $750,000 for accused drug kingpin Mario A. Salinas Trevino, leader of an international drug-trafficking ring.

Vander Zee is formerly of Bandera and brother of former County Judge Rien Vander Zee.

Attorneys for Vander Zee, 61, and Pounds, 49, said the bankers had no knowledge of the bank transactions they handled on three separate dates in 1987 involved drug money.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Frels, however, said the money was brought to the bank in cardboard boxes "designed to disguise and conceal" the ownership and source of the money.

The bankers are accused of laundering more than $300,000 on each of two occasions and another $100,000 on a third occasion.

Frels said the money was turned into certificates of deposit in the names of Salinas' confederates and then returned to Salinas in the form of loans totaling nearly $1 million.

At the time of the incidents, March 31, June 5 and Oct. 27, Pounds was president and chief executive officer of Stone Oak National Bank and Vander Zee was executive vice president.

Salinas' drug trafficking ring was known as "the Jet Set ring" because its leaders used private jet aircraft to ferry drug money across the country and into Mexico.

Leap Year is something that most of us learn about in grade school — the year has 365 days, except for every fourth year which has 366 days. (A solar year is defined as the period of time it takes for the sun to pass the vernal equinox twice.)

Calendars have been around almost since recorded history began, but the modern-times legal reckoning can be traced to 13th century English law, which declared that Feb. 28 and 29 were the same date, for all legal purposes.

Even Gilbert and Sullivan, in their whimsical Victorian opera "The Pirates of Penzance," dealt with the subject of leap years in a humorous plot twist. Frederick, a young reluctant pirate, is indentured to serve the pirate band until

But was the dog tagged?

Dear Editor:

I would like to object to staff writer James Frazar's reporting of the dog shooting incident that was presented (The Bulletin, Feb. 12). Mr. Frazar, you didn't go to the trouble to obtain a copy of the Bandera County animal control laws which state in part, "...it shall be unlawful for any person having control of any dog, four months or more of age, to permit or allow said dog to run at large unsupervised..." The law goes on to include statements about said dogs having to be registered with the county treasurer in the county in which said dog resides. The law also goes into the legality of killing [illegible] may be obtained from the Bandera County Judge's office.

Mr. Frazar, you didn't tell the public how long the dog was away from the sight of the neighbor. Was the dog registered with the county and was it tagged and had it had its necessary shots that the law requires? Karen apparently has no idea where the dog was or what it was doing when it was shot. Mr. Frazar and Karen, please understand that I am not agreeing or disagreeing about the shooting. Mr. Frazar, it would be interesting to know a lot more about the incident.

I catch and trap dogs for the city of Bandera and the city ordinance plainly stated that all dogs will be contained, either by a good enclosure or on a leash – no exceptions. It makes no difference whether they are tagged or not, they are not to be free to roam.

We don't let livestock such as sheep, goats and cows run loose on our neighbors. Why do we think dogs are any different? A dog can cause much larger problems than most other animals.

Mr. Frazar, please print the whole story. Not just the part that you think will draw attention and stir up problems and create unrest in a good neighborhood.

Irvin Stevens

(Editor's note: The dog was shot three times in a residential area.)

But on the positive side...

Dear Editor:

Last month we ran an ad in the paper for our grand opening and were very happy with the response from the public.

However, a week later James Frazar wrote an article (The Bulletin, Feb. 5) about my husband and me and our little store. (Wootan Crafts and Variety Store). The article was great – accurate – and brought tears to my eyes. James made us celebrities! People are still coming in saying "Hey, I saw your article in The Bulletin and just wanted to meet you." Even people who have lived in Lakehills for years and had never frequented the store in the past are coming in. I never knew J.D. and I were so interesting until I read James' article.

Thank you for having people like that on your staff.

He admires Clark's poem

Dear Editor:

I don't know when I've ever read a poem as touching as the one by Raymond Clark (Bandera Bulletin, Feb. 19). When someone writes, it is usually a part of their character, and I would believe that this writer is a sensitive, wonderful person. "Old Packy" was lucky.

This poem was worth the cost of the subscription of your paper. It's refreshing to read something nice for a change.

Wanted: positive campaigns

Dear editor:

In regard to the current campaign for sheriff. Accusations and doubts regarding the incumbent are a bunch of bunk. It's time for the mud slinging and back stabbing to stop!

Let's have a clean campaign, and may the best man win.

Dear editor:

Last week our homeowners' association had a meeting to discuss our streets and security matters. Some politicians were invited as they were elected officials responsible for these concerns. All homeowners were invited, and apparently a few [illegible] were also invited. Those politicians attending were allowed to speak, and most handled themselves quite admirably.

Without naming names, as that would be a political endorsement for his opponent, one candidate was particularly discourteous in his behavior. He, and some cohorts, continuously interrupted our current commissioner with questions and accusations concerning another part of the county. Only after several appeals from us did he discontinue his barrage of [illegible].

The point of my letter is this: Right or wrong, most people are concerned about issues that impact them in a direct and obvious way. A negative campaign only blurs the real issues. The real issue is not what someone else did wrong, but what you as the candidate are going to do differently. Please tell us exactly what you are going to do and how it will impact our lives. Our time is important too.

A new name, perhaps

Dear editor:

I should begin by saying that my remarks are not based on actual court cases and that any perceived reference to persons living or dead is purely coincidental. With that disclaimer out of the way, I will proceed.

Consider, please, our criminal justice system. I understanding that our courts must consider the circumstances of each case that that each case should be judged on its own merit or demerit. I don't understand, however, why some convicted criminals receive a 50-year sentence for armed robbery while others receive five years; why some receive the death penalty for murder while others receive receive probation; why some receive "life" for rape while others receive six months; or why some receive 10 years for distributing, or attempting to distribute, one pound of marijuana while others receive a lesser sentence for attempting to distribute much more. I could continue, but I think it's unnecessary. I'm certain that you can remember many inequitable court decisions.

Perhaps we should rename the system. Maybe we should just call it the "criminal system" since there seems to be so little justice in it.

Van Cook
Bandera

(Editor's note: Perhaps the seemingly inequitable sentences have something to do with the amount of money the defendant can afford to spend on his defense. Maybe we should call it "the best criminal justice system money can buy.")

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – The partisan politics of redistricting still twitched like a dying rattlesnake last week, fangs intact, in the sacred courtroom of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Justices twice refused to halt the March 10 primary for the Texas Senate, rejecting requests first from Attorney General Dan Morales, and later by Texas Democratic Party chairman Bob Slagle.

Texas Democrats are furious with a federal judge's new map for state senate districts which some have predicted will undo the senate's Democratic majority.

Morales, a Democrat, has spent a month investigating whether there was improper contact between Republican Judge James Nowlin and state Rep. George Pierce, R-San Antonio.

Last week, Morales submitted a letter to the special federal panel looking at the affair, in which he also revealed he had information that Democratic legislators also had "unexplained contact" with Judge Nowlin.

Cover-Up Alleged

The disclosure left Morales open to a counter-strike from Texas Republican Party chairman Fred Meyer, who accused Morales of covering up wrongdoing by Democrats at the same time "hypocritically and dishonestly" alleging the same offense by Republicans.

Morales said only a dozen legislators from both parties were potentially involved.

Earlier, Meyer had trained his guns on Comptroller John Sharp, criticizing his handling of the new Texas lottery.

Sharp's retort: "My daddy told me never to get in an argument with a man who wears a Size One hat."

Outside Lawyers Rapped

On another issue, Morales' agency scrutinized contracts between state agencies and private law firms and so far has approved more than 200.

But Morales said last week state officials should be careful when they hire outside lawyers who also double as Capitol lobbyists.

State law says agencies can't pay salaries to employes for lobbying the Legislature, say for increasing the agency's budget.

Morales wants the state to stop entirely from hiring private lawyers; he said undoubtedly some of them end up doing tasks that lobbyists would do for the agencies, even if they're not called lobbyists while doing it.

Safety Discounts Due

Insurers are refunding $10.5 million to about 500,000 Texans for failing to give them discounts for having air bags and automatic seat belts in their cars, Georgia Flint, the state's interim insurance commissioner, said last week.

Flint said she expects that at least $1 million more will be refunded once the Texas Department of Insurance receives additional information from insurers.

About $8.5 million was refunded last fall by State Farm Insurance. Another $1 million is coming from Aetna, state officials said. In all, 22 companies are making refunds.

Other Highlights

■ The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission is investigating whether a top administrator, Leonard Lorenzo, illegally profited from his job by collecting rent from two bars he regulated and commandeering confiscated liquor. Lorenzo denied wrongdoing, and is suing the agency.

■ Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation directors reportedly agreed to pay an extra year's salary, $105,000, to a top administrator who resigned under fire to go for a Ph.D. Comptroller John Sharp confirmed there was an extra salary benefit approved for Joe McCormick, which he opposed.

■ Houston police investigated a charge by a former aide to state Rep. Sylvester Turner, D-Houston, who said Turner threatened his life in connection with a financial dispute. Darryl Carter, who worked for Turner during his race for mayor, said his father reported the alleged threat to police after a phone call from Turner.

■ Texas Railroad Commissioner Bob Krueger was at the side of New Hampshire presidential primary winner Paul Tsongas at the victory announcement, and had introduced Tsongas at several rallies.

■ A study made by the nation's state health officials reported Hispanic factory workers get hurt on the job more often and more seriously than whites and blacks. It concluded most injuries came to young, little-educated immigrants who took hazardous, low-paying jobs spurned by most Americans.

■ A Texas poll indicated that 70 percent of Texans were unhappy with the health-care system and 34 percent backed a national health care program paid for by taxpayers.

■ The Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority okayed spending $900,000 to buy a West Texas ranch to convert to a low-level waste dump.

■ Disability rights groups are recommending that Travis State School in Austin and Fort Worth State School be the first of 13 state institutions for mentally retarded people to be closed or consolidated.

■ Five bidders have applied to replace John Pittman, Texas' first lottery consultant, who resigned three weeks ago amid allegations of a potential conflict of interest.

Carol Anne Boyle to be honored March 3

First State Bank to celebrate 25-year achievement

The First State Bank will salute 25-year employee Carol Anne Boyle with an appreciation day Tuesday, March 3, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the bank.

March 3 will mark the 25th anniversary of Boyle's association with the First State Bank.

The Board of Directors, officers, and employees would like to express their appreciation of her hard work and loyalty by asking everyone to join them at a reception honoring Mrs. Boyle for her 25 years of dedicated service to the bank," said bank spokeswoman Brenda Smith. "Everyone is invited to join the bank staff in congratulating Mrs. Boyle on March 3 as the celebration this anniversary."

A long-time resident of Bandera and graduate of Bandera High School, Carol Anne began her banking career in 1967 when she was hired by J. Burgin Davenport for a position in the bookkeeping department of First State Bank. While in the department, she advanced to teller and later to head bookkeeper.

Boyle was promoted to Assist Cashier in 1974, Assistant Vice President in 1980, Cashier in 1983 and to her present position of Vice President and Cashier in 1985. She also serves as security officer, head of operations, and internal auditor.

Boyle attends courses and seminars offered by the American Institute of Banking and is an active member of the Hill Country group of Financial Women International where she currently serves incoming Financial Manager at the state level as State membership. In October 1986 she completed a two-year course of study of the Bank Operations Institute as East Texas State University.

Carol Anne has two daughters, Deborah in Wichita, Kansas, and Brenda in New Orleans, Louisiana. Her husband Pat is a rancher and real estate broker in the Bandera area.

Her community involvement includes being a member of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, a member of both Bandera and Medina Wolf Clubs, Treasurer of the Bandera Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and as Junior Achievement consultant.

Campaign signs taken down, then replaced at courthouse

Legally placed political signs are back up on the courthouse lawn after a few days absence, apparently removed at the direction of County Judge Ray F. Mauer but replaced when the judge reversed himself on the matter.

Mauer was out of town Tuesday and unavailable for comment.

Attorney Kerry H. Schneider, a candidate for the Republican nomination for county attorney, had four campaign signs removed and complained to Judge Mauer.

"Campaign signs not only serve to enlighten voters as to those individuals seeking public office, but also serve as a reminder to all citizens to assume their responsibility of voting," she said.

"Hopefully, by ordering the removal of the signs you are not espousing the position that an uninformed electorate is a good electorate," she told the judge.

Her opponent, incumbent Sam Darden, said he didn't "complain" to the judge about the signs, but merely asked him what are the rules governing such advertising. Since the signs reappeared, Darden said Tuesday he plans to erect signs of his own at the site. "I'm going to match my opponent sign-for-sign," he said.

Signs are prohibited within 100 feet of a polling place, but the placards in question were clearly beyond that limit.

"I for one can think of no more appropriate place for campaign signs than the courthouse lawn, so long as the signs are not offensive, do not interfere with the walkway, and are placed the legal distance from the voting place," Schneider told Mauer.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This week, take another look at someone you've put on a pedestal. Rumors fly, and you may be intrigued. Stop by the travel agent and pick up a couple of brochures to flip through. It may be time to plan that fantasy trip. Expect to end the weekend on a high note.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Get into a partner's ideas and relish getting to know this person more closely. You discover you have a treasure trove. Before making this general announcement explore your options ... please. Wherever you are this weekend, you are proud as a peacock.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may have a difficult time staying focused this week since there are plenty of distractions. Make the most of this high-energy cycle. Cupid, perhaps a little late, strikes with his arrow and you walk into a heavenly weekend. Others may find you distracted, but you enjoy for now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can get a lot accomplished this week if you're organized. However, you may want to take an early weekend or get into the social circuit at work. Whatever way you go, you spread your wings and become the proverbial social butterfly. You may not even land till next week.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Creativity blends into your work this week and so, perhaps, does play. The end result is, you like this balance — the boss does not. Expect to work part of the weekend when you finally decide enough is enough. Oh dear, it seems as if you have an early case of Spring Fever.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) The star energy hits you hard and you just can't seem to work — especially as the weekend looms on the horizon. There are just so many better things to do. However, practical you turns the candle at both ends, only to understand by the week's end the true meaning of exhaustion.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Communications mix with security and a little romance, this week. You like how it feels. You may even make some resolutions about it. By mid-weekend, however, the wilder side of Libra comes out. Wherever you are, you are blazing a trail of memories right now.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Your ability to communicate is unusually strong this week. If you have to talk a partner into your way of thinking, NOW is the moment. In fact, you could talk anyone into nearly anything. Spend the weekend close to the pad, and exclusively with loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Your magnetism is at an all-time peak this week, so put it to good use. It's your choice, of course, as to what area of your life you would like to use it on. Stay focused and don't scatter. You discover how easy it really is, as the weekend rolls in.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) As the week gets older, you get better. In fact you feel as if you are on a steady uphill ascent, until the weekend, when you hit a plateau. Do yourself a big favor. Even if you do get bored, don't cause any unnecessary uproar. You need to rest before you plunge onward.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Count on being on a roller coaster ride — and on a great adventure — this week and you won't be disappointed. Do remember, where there are highs, there are also lows. However, the lows don't have to last long. By the weekend you peak. The world is your oyster — for now.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You are focused this week and get much accomplished. (Put yourself on the back.) In fact, one of your most important projects rolls to completion. Not only do you need to reflect this weekend, but you also need to recharge those batteries. Do it with a favorite person.

Eastern Star school of instruction held

"School Bells are Ringing in Cowboy Town," a school of instruction, was conducted Feb, 3 and 4 at the Bandera Masonic Lodge Hall. The school was hosted by Bandera Chapter 643 and Medina Chapter 988 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

The school of instruction was for district five, section three of Grand Chapter of Texas, OES.

Monday, Feb. 3 at 6:30 p.m. there was a "Howdy Partner Get-together" featuring a salad supper at the Bandera Masonic Lodge Hall. The program of "good old country music" was provided by Sherrill Johnson and friends.

Tuesday morning coffee hour and registration started at 8 a.m., then the school was called to order at 9 a.m. by deputy grand matron Allie Dorine Wheeler. Other school officers included Jane Gregory, worthy grand matron; Glenn Whitaker, worthy grand patron; Nannette Nelson, grand examiner; Shirley Jones, district deputy grand matron; and Nell Smith, school co-chairman.

Linda Stein brought greetings from the City of Bandera to the group.

"Chuck Wagon Time," courtesy luncheon was held at Grace Lutheran Church at noon, and "Stars are Bright Banquet" was held at Ecore Lodge at 5:30 p.m. Musical entertainment was provided by James Korman of Fredericksburg. The "Humanitarian Presentation" was made by district five chairman Robyn Merchant.

At 8 p.m., the joint fraternal visit of the worthy grand matron and worthy grand patron was called to order by worthy matron Mary Jo Eason and worthy patron Paul Kirk, both of Bandera chapter 643. The officers for the evening represented the 12 Eastern Star chapters in section three.

Jerry Neuenschwander performer "The Impossible Dream."

"Many members from Bandera and the other hostess chapters spent much time and effort bringing this school to a successful end," Wheeler said. "All visitors reported having a wonderful time in Bandera and enjoyed shopping in our town."

Chairmen and helpers included Alice Koenig, Odessa Roach, Loretta Lindley, Wanda Terry, Susan Neuenschwander and John Hayes.

MICHAEL JEWETT
Bandera County Commissioner, Precinct #1
Republican Primary, March 10, 1992

I am asking for your vote and support because I want the taxpayers of our precinct to be more involved in the decisions we can control.

I pledge to be a commissioner who will work with the people and for the people. I am convinced that we can work together for the good of the entire precinct--and Bandera County, too--when we finally rise above petty politics. Let's put an end to the bickering, and NOW!

I am a family man with children in our Bandera schools. I founded Bandera Builders, Inc. eight years ago, and have brought this company along steadily to the point where we are among the leaders in the area and to the place where I can now give the required time to my community. As a general contractor for commercial, ranch, and residential projects, I am knowledgeable in all phases of road construction and property improvement.

These have been tough times, as we all know, but through plain old hard work, common sense and a reasonable and steadfast approach to good management, we have prospered. I will bring this proven record of sound business management to Commissioners' Court to serve all of us with fairness. I can promise quality decisions to provide quality services for all our taxpayers--not just for select areas.

I sincerely urge you to call me with your concerns at 535-4313/535-6511

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Howard Black, Treasurer, Rt. 1, Box 1140, Pipe Creek Tx., 78063

New audit ordered of seized drug money fund

First audit shows no wrong-doing in handling cash

Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners called for a second audit of the sheriff's drug fund Monday after a petition signed by almost 400 citizens was presented calling for an investigation.

Commissioners tabled an investigation, however, until an outside audit was complete.

Signers of the petition, 68 percent from Lakehills, called for a investigation by the Texas Rangers into what they see as wrongdoing based on the recently completed audit of R.S. "Steve" Forest's cash seizure fund, the so-called "[illegible]"

Forest was prepared for the confrontation Monday and brought a San Antonio attorney, who told the commissioners that the sheriff had acted correctly.

The sheriff said Tuesday that the petition was politically motivated.

Commissioner Bennie Barker broke ranks with the other commissioners Tuesday and said the county should drop the second audit, which would be conducted at county expense, and "refer the matter to the proper investigative body" in order to keep from spending hundreds and even thousands of unbudgeted county tax dollars.

Susie Armstrong brought the petition containing 370 signatures to [illegible] Monday. She explained that [illegible] Romjue of Bandera, the spokeswoman for the petition sponsors, was out of state tending to her mother's illness.

Armstrong said the petition [illegible] the Bandera Bulletin about the missing invoices in the sheriff's drug fund, the county auditor's report (on which the article was based), and because some purchases by the sheriff's department were made without competitive bidding.

"The sheriff should be able to produce invoices on how the money was spent," said Armstrong. "[illegible] finances) as tight as they are, we have to watch everything."

Armstrong said the petition had support from all over the county.

But an investigation revealed there were 251 signatures with addresses in Lakehills, 49 in Pipe Creek, 26 from Tarpley, 24 from Bandera, 14 from Utopia, three from Vanderpool, two from Medina and one person that listed her address as San Antonio.

"We ... request commissioners court to pass a resolution forthwith formally requesting an investigation and audit of the sheriff's department by the Texas Rangers and/or the attorney general's office of the state of Texas," the 24 page petition concluded.

Forest's attorney, Collis White, disputed each of the petition's claims.

"In regard to the purchase of nine vehicles (patrol cars) and one radio operations panel, there was no violation (of the law)."

While the purchases exceeded the $15,000 limit at which government agencies must advertise for competitive bids, Article 59 of the Texas code of criminal procedure specifically expempts purchases from the drug seizure funds from obtaining competitive bids, said White.

Also, the law "makes it clear that the attorney for the state (in Bandera's case, District Attorney Bruce Curry) and the law enforcement agencies are in control of the money," not county government.

White also said the sheriff had presented a budget for the expenditure of the drug funds and that "if you (the commissioners) require a more detailed budget, then ask for it."

White said the sheriff would welcome an audit and the request for an investigation is simply a "witch hunt."

"There is clearly no violation of the law.

"To investigate this man is a waste of time, tax dollars and the Texas Rangers' time."

Forest also came to his own defense before commissioners Monday.

"We have a voucher system (for using the drug fund)," he said. "No purchase is made without a purchase order. It describes the property, who bought it, and what it is for."

The only time invoices would be missing would be when something was paid through a monthly billing procedure rather than an invoice or an informant was paid, said Forest. "An informant is not going to give you an invoice."

Commissioner Roger Raser said that in "fairness to both parties," the county should call for a second, outside audit by someone other than the county auditor, Tommy Tomlinson, since he performed the first audit.

Raser and Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer both cautioned that the audit would require additional county money.

Mauer told Armstrong that [illegible] for the audit, as requested, but table asking for an investigation until the results from the audit returned.

Forest said Tuesday that he never refused to give the auditor anything he asked for, as alleged by the petition signers. "The auditor had free run of my records.

"The auditor said I was not guilty of any wrong doing."

Forest blamed the petition on politics. "It looks like a purely political instrument," he said.

Barker said Tuesday that the county should reconsider its action to hire an outside auditor. "We have already received an audit report from our county auditor on this matter. It would be foolish to spend thousands of unbudgeted taxpayers dollars on this politically motivated complaint," said Barker.

The county should "refer the matter to the proper investigative body since the sheriff and his attorney have indicated a desire to clear the matter up, also.

"I can in no way support any effort to accomplish a political objective by using commissioners court and our taxpayer money," Barker said.

Texas Public School Week March 2-6

Two local school districts schedule activities

More than three million students across the state, including those in Bandera and Medina Independent School Districts, will celebrate Texas Public Schools Week March 2-6.

Special activities are [illegible] Bandera will issue invitations to parents and the community to visit classrooms and watch education in action.

"Taxpayers and parents are always welcome in our school," Bandera ISD superintendent Ted Dockery said. "This week we are going all out to show them the exciting things happening in the district."

This year's theme, "Stars [illegible]," will be used in each of the 1,069 school districts across the state of Texas. The theme is meant to epitomize the achievements of Texas school children.

Open House is scheduled in Medina Monday, March 2 at 7 p.m. at the school. Visitors are "welcome anytime during the year, but especially during that week," says principal Dale Naumann, who invites parents and interested persons to call and schedule an appointment to visit the school.

In Bandera, several activities are scheduled during the week:

•The annual Alkek Elementary School Talent Show will begin at 7 p.m. on Friday, March 6 at the Bandera High School Auditorium.

•Alkek Elementary School will feature a presentation for "Chapter One"-eligible students' parents on Thursday, march 5 at 7 p.m. in the Chapter One classroom. Marilyn Stubbeman, Chapter One reading specialist, will demonstrate the unique Slingerland Reading Method utilized in her classes.

•Bandera Junior High School will host visit our parents daily with refreshments and the showing of a video tape, "A Day at Bandera JHS" (prepared by the National Junior Honor Society) in the junior high school library. [illegible] normal program will be from [illegible] to 12:00 p.m.

•Students at Alkek Elementary School will decorate local supermarket grocery bags which patrons will enjoy when purchasing their groceries before and during Public School Week. The bags will be decorated with the week's theme, and will offer personal invitations to visit local schools.

•Bookmarks sporting the Public School Week theme will be distributed to all campus libraries and will be available to all community residents at the Bandera County Library.

•Wednesday, March 8 has been designated across Texas as Student Law Day, and Bandera Junior High eighth graders will visit the Bandera County Jail and Courthouse. Law enforcement officials will make a presentation for the students.

•Parents visiting the junior high campus will be allowed to judge a scrapbook prepared by BJHS Target classes. The scrapbooks will be available for judging in the junior high school library.

•During Public School Week, Bandera Masonic Lodge 1123 will announce the winners at each campus of the Lodge's Educational Contest, which will determine who will be the winners of the computers that the Lodge annually provides as prizes.

"All campuses will welcome visitors during this special week, says administrator Ken Kline. "For more information about Texas Public Schools Week, call the principal's office of the campus you wish to visit at 796-3753."

BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS
COUNTY ATTORNEY
P. O. Box 518, Bandera, TX 78003 (512) 796-3728

February 21, 1992

TO THE VOTERS OF BANDERA COUNTY:

The duties of the County Attorney's Office consist of rendering legal advice to the various county officials and the County Commissioners' Court, and the prosecution of all misdemeanor criminal cases arising within the county. The prosecution of criminal cases occupies approximately 95% of the County Attorney's time.

On an average, there will be approximately forty-five Class A & B misdemeanor cases filed each month in County Court, and approximately seventy-five Class C misdemeanor cases filed in the various Justice of the Peace Courts each month.

The prosecution of a defendant in a County Court case normally brings in an experienced criminal defense lawyer on each case. These guys are tough, and know all the tricks. It takes a good, experienced trial lawyer to handle them. During the past eleven years, I have successfully prosecuted 95% of all contested cases. I have proven that I can stand up to these tricksters, and take on their criminals as they come.

I practiced criminal defense law for twenty-six years, and for the past eleven years, I have been a prosecuting attorney...thirty-seven years of successful criminal trial practice. My record shows that I am tough on crime.

Does my opponent have any experience either defending or prosecuting a criminal case?

Can you count on my opponent to adequately represent you against the criminal element?

Your vote is important if you are concerned about crime. You can vote absentee today at the county courthouse.

MAKE YOUR VOTE COUNT
IN THE PRIMARY ELECTION ON MARCH 10!

COUNTY COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER NEEDS YOUR HELP. With two Republican opponents and no Democratic opponents, Commissioner Barker needs your vote in the Republican Primary on March 10.

If you previously voted Democrat, it does not prevent you from voting in the Republican Primary on Mar. 10, if you would like to have a voice in the selection of the county commissioner for Pct. #1.

The local Democratic Candidates are unopposed in the primary and do not need your vote until the general election in November. Your support in the Republican Primary will help commissioner Barker to continue the road improvement and paving programs planned, and it will not effect your ability to vote a mixed ballot (Democrat & Republican) in the general election.

The only exception is that if you signed a petition in lieu of a filing fee for a candidate, then you must vote in the primary in that candidate's political party election. It does not obligate you to vote for the candidate you signed the petition for.

Dancer didn't play the fiddle, but he had his g-string

Dancers at the American Cancer Society's traditional Valentine's Dance Friday, Feb. 14, were "treated" to a [illegible] performed his speciality for them as well as wedding guests who apparently arranged the performance.

[illegible] spokeswoman Barbara Myhre.

The Cabaret was donated by proprietor Pat Tate to [illegible] time of the year for the annual fling, but this time a wedding party joined the cancer fighters, interrupting the dancing while the nuptials were performed at center stage by Peace Justice Tom Grant.

The stripper was arranged for by friends of the pair, apparently without the knowledge of the newlyweds, said Myhre.

She stressed this week that the cancer fighters had nothing to do with the wedding nor the peep show. "I'm not a happy person," she said.

Bandera County Sheriff Steve Forest and his musical group, the Sheriff's Posse, were playing for the Valentine's Dance when the stripper began to do his thing, [illegible].

Forest called the local police when the dancer began to get out of hand — or more accurately, out of his jeans — because the Cabaret, of course, is in the jurisdiction of the municipal police.

Officer (Charles M.) Bolton responded to the call. "But by the time he got there, he (the stripper) was finished," Chief Walter Welch said Tuesday. No arrests were made, the chief reported.

While the faces of the cancer fighters were flushed even this week, it was not in embarrassment but with success. "We raised over $2,000, including $600 to $700 during our cake auction," said Myhre.

A Force to be Reckoned with

I am full of wisdom, humor, tears, passion and love. I am that which is held tightly to the breast, lightly on the lap, peered at, sighed over and remembered. I bring you foolish fancies; I bring friendship to the lonely. I take you with me to the far reaches of the Earth from India to China to Mars, to Venus, and probe into the habits of chimpanzees.

I reach into your mind; I show you things that are unbelievable and make you believe them. You must treasure me, protect me. I give you a knowledge of life you never dreamed of. Don't desecrate me; I fill the empty places of you life. I give myself to you gladly; seek me out and find me—I am a Book.

—Author unkown

We've had some projects completed in the last two weeks in our Library—projects that improve and enhance the building. Additional lighting in both the front and back of the interior of the Library have been put in, as well as a light outside that will remain on during the night. We will no longer be totally in the dark. "Night lights" inside will also remain on all night. Next, we had insulation installed in the ceiling and three exhaust turbines put in the roof. Hopefully, our utility bills will show a dramatic decrease!

We have lots and lots of new books—too numerous to list. New books for children, teens and adults in both fiction and non-fiction. We currently have almost all of the New York Times Bestsellers and some even in Large Print.

Until my next column, take the time to read a good book.

Carnival del Rio set

A Pre-Lenten bash, "Carnival del Rio," will transform the San Antonio River Walk into a multi-ethnic carnival of music, food and fun Friday, Feb. 28, to Tuesday, March 3. Festivities include a glittering river parade on "Fat Tuesday," March 3. Call 512-227-4262 for more information.

King Royal Circus returns to Bandera

The circus will come to Bandera's Mansfield Park Sunday, [illegible] performances.

The Bandera County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the return of the Ringling Brothers Circus for performances at 2 and 4 p.m.

The King Royal Circus is the same circus that performed in Bandera two years ago.

The circus is scheduled to arrive in Bandera between 10 and 11 a.m. Sunday and the big top will be pulled up by the circus elephants between 11 a.m. and noon.

Tickets are available through Saturday, March 28, at the chamber office, Janett's, the Mercantile, and Bandera EconoLodge for $6 for adults and $4 for children. Tickets at the gate Sunday afternoon will be $8 for adults and $6 for children.

Performers include Little Miss Sophia on the aerial ladder, Miss Gi-Gi on the swinging the trapeze, Oklahoma Shorty and his novelty western specialties, elephants, jungle cats, and clowns Bumbles [illegible].

The King Royal Brothers Circus will travel over 25,000 miles this season, showing in four Canadian provinces.

The circus is on the road nine months out of the year, generally playing in a different town each day.

The remaining three months are spent at the show's winter quarters in South Texas preparing for the next season.

The show travels on 15 motorized units and is a complete city in itself, with its own [illegible], commissary and water supply.

St. Patrick's Day dance scheduled

"Shamrocks" will mix with "diamonds" Saturday, March 14, when the Bandera chapter of the Knights of Columbus holds a St. Patrick's Day dance at the Mansfield Recreation Center in Bandera.

Shamrocks will come from the expected Irish tilt of the celebration and the diamonds from the band, Denim and Diamonds, featuring Debbie Rice. The band will play from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Beer will be sold by donation and soft drinks, set ups, popcorn and nachos will be available for sale, says deputy grand knight Doug Moreau.

Tickets are $4 in advance and $5 at the door. Contact Dan Wall at 796-4559 for advance tickets.

The local Knights of Columbus formed a little less than two years ago and works in connection with St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

Proceeds from the dance will be used by the club to fund youth activities and scholarships, says Moreau. The group would also like to build a hall, but that's in the future.

The club is like the Lions and the Optimists, but is restricted to members of the Catholic church.

Leap year birthday festival scheduled

Persons born Feb. 29 will be honored at a two-day birthday celebration in Anthony, the Leap Year Capital of the World.

Activities Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 29 and March 1, include a parade, carnival, golf tournament, "42" domino tournament, target shoot, Sadie Hawkins Day events and a square dance.

Other attractions included in the largest gathering of "29ers" are hot air ballons, art and crafts and food.

Call 915-886-2540 for more information.

The relentless rains experienced in Texas for the past [illegible] months are providing a graphic lesson in surface geology. [illegible] arroyo, and river running hard, it is easy to see how [illegible] leys, canyons, and breaks. Water erosion off the Balcones Fault over millions of years has carved the topography of what we call the Hill Country. At least in small ways, the process continues even now. New chunks of rock are falling off into the river, and new gravel bars are changing the channel of many a creek.

Not even one old-timer discussing the weather while [illegible] office boxes or leaning on grocery carts in Boyle's can remember a rain spell quite like the one we have been experiencing. Especially in winter.

We remember one childhood summer when it rained every day in June. We kids had to play in the garage all day, being banned from both the house and sodden yard. Our father was teaching summer school at the University and could not come home for weeks because the Colorado River was over the bridge in Austin. Those were days in the thirties before LBJ came along to build [illegible] safe while floodwaters go on down to inundate the lower [illegible] battle against the elements.

[illegible] Preda Barefield of Pipe Creek called to report that she is going to try the ground-up citrus rind method of killing mounds. She says some other stuff she tried killed to many songbirds.

—Returning to his old home parish for a second year with a lecture series, Father George Montague of St. Mary's University is speaking to a sell-out crowd at St. Joseph's Hall each Wednesday evening at 7:30. Four more sessions on the topic of the Gospel According to St. Matthew remain. Father Montague's clear and breezy style along with his compassionate sincerity has attracted an ecumenical audience. Taking notes and listening are several Methodists, Episcopalians, and Baptists.

One thing Father George said a couple of weeks ago has stuck with us, as we listen to all the dire news of recession (don't you think it's time Washington George admits it's a depression?) and hard times. Mother Teresa, coming to the United States from the true squalor of the Third World pointed out recently that we in America don't actually know [illegible] poverty. But we suffer, as Father [illegible] best of the poor elsewhere do not suffer. We suffer from the poverty of loneliness.

Which brings to mind the old one-liner: Money cannot buy happiness, but you can be utterly miserable in a better part of town.

So, as the pitiful array of third-rate presidential aspirants slop about in slush of February in New Hampshire [illegible] should do to make our lives better, it seems the best thing for the rest of us to do is to take charge of our own lives, and "do ye next thing", as did the New Englanders of old. Which is to be careful with what we've got and share it with the person next to us!

Self-esteem workshops to begin at Community Assembly of God

"Self-esteem is an emotion," says the Rev. Brian McClane of the Community Assembly of God. "It is the degree to which [illegible] feel good about [illegible]

"Thus it follows that self-esteem is genuine love of self."

Classes utilizing materials in Roberts Magee's "Search for Significance" concept of building self-esteem will be offered beginning Sunday, March 1, at the Community Assembly of God.

"Self esteem is definitely not egotism," McClane said. "In fact, egotism is a classic symptom [illegible] self-esteem.

"If you truly accepted and loved yourself, you would not have a driving need to impress others with your worth and self-importance."

LeRoy Rogers will be instructor of classes that begin at 9:45 a.m. and conclude at 10:30 a.m. so that participants may attend services in another church if they wish.

[illegible] their work form four foundational cornerstones that bring together the balance of clinical and spiritual therapy used in the Rapha treatment program, according to McClane.

Rapha is a nationwide chain of therapeutic centers founded by Magee, a professional coun- [illegible] the Assembly at 1209 Cottonwood St. in Bandera, behind Boyle's Market. All ages are encouraged to attend, and child care is available. For more information call 796-7298 or 796-8456.

Disaster loans available here

Bandera County is one of 114 counties in Texas where small business disaster loans are available for damage caused by this winter's severe thunderstorms and flooding.

"If a small business was normally able to met its bills and pay its operating expenses, but cannot do so now as a direct result of the disaster, it may be eligible for an economic injury loan, said Rodney W. Martin, district director of the Small Business Administration in San Antonio.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
The Lord Loves All

"The compassion of man is for his neighbor, but the compassion of the Lord is for all living beings."
— Ecclesiasticus 18:13

Ecclesiasticus — or as it is also known, the Book of Sirach (after its author, the Hebrew scribe Joshua ben Sira (Jesus the son of Sirach) — appears in the Apocrypha, that selection of religious texts which somehow fall into no decided category within the framework of the Old and New Testaments. The meaning of the texts, however, is no less clear nor explicit. As Joshua notes, the love of the Lord God is all-encompassing. Just consider your own likes and dislikes, not only among people, but among the creatures of the field, or the plants of the earth. Naturally, no one will make claim to a universal delight in everything, yet these are all things of God's own creation, things and beings which He has nurtured and which He holds dear. Consider yourself fortunate that humans are among the recipients of God's favor.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

Monday morning cooler temperatures and rains of more than an inch came at the end of a week of warm, spring-like weather. Some fruit trees have already begun to bloom, optimistic that a late freeze won't take them.

—Recent visitors at Tarpley Baptist Church were Jolyn and Vern Shrock of Santa Cruz, Calif. They have purchased part of Boots and Dainty Wood Hicks' land near Tarpley, and will be building a home there. Jolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Flores.

•Bill and Willie Morris returned Sunday night from a ten-day vacation where they attended an Elderhostel program at the Beaver Creek Golf Resort at Montezuma Lake, Ariz. (near Flagstaff). The Morrises were the only Texans out of 34 Elderhostelers there.

Besides golf, the other activities included a study of the geology of the Verde Valley, Hopi Kachinas Indian silver working and Yayapai Apache basket-making.

The group made a field trip to Oak Creek Canyon; saw the Montezuma well and Montezuma castle. They had programs about the reptiles of Red Rock country, and at night they were entertained by authentic Indian music and cowboy poetry.

The group also enjoyed a snowfall in Flagstaff and Prescott.

Though the Morrises report that it was "a wonderful trip," Willie said it was good to get back to the green grass of the Hill Country.

—Glenn Tyra of Tuolumne, Calif. has been a house guest of Elzie and Nettie Dean for the past ten days. He will leave for his home Tuesday. Sunday, he was a visitor in services at Tarpley Baptist Church, and afterwards he drove to Utopia to have lunch with cousins Ruth and Jack Preston.

Saturday, Donnie Newcomb and his children Molly and Jonathan visited the Deans for a dinner celebrating Donnie's 50th birthday.

Jennifer Riley of San Antonio spent the weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Riley, and their grandson Woody Riley from San Antonio visited them Sunday.

•Barbara Koako, a former resident of the Rio Hondo subdivision, is here for an indefinite time. She has been a missionary of the Micronesia area, and is stationed on the island of Guam. She has for several years worked with the "Youth with a Mission" program out of Hawaii.

—John and Lou Brosnahan of Kansas City, Mo. came in Tuesday, Feb. 18 to visit his sisters Margaret Cain and Jerry and Tom Hall of Rio Hondo. They will return home this week.

•The Rio Hondo Study Group met Thursday, Feb. 20 at the home of Helen Bryant. Jerry Hall is the new chairwoman of the group, and after calling the meeting to order and completing business, the group discussed assisting the Williams Creek Extension Homemakers with the celebration of Bandera County's founder's day celebration March 21.

The groups will sponsor a cake sale, and a small flea market in Tarpley to benefit the Tarpley Community Center.

Ginger Spencer presented the program on floral arranging, and ten members were present.

The next study group meeting will be at Mary Heitalahti's home, and extension agent Jan Bryson will present the program "Women Driving Alone."

VOTE FOR BOBBY JONES
Commissioner, Pct. #1

I'LL MAKE NO PROMISES I CANNOT KEEP.

I MAKE ONLY ONE PROMISE. THAT IS , TO MAKE GOOD SOUND DECISIONS AS MANAGER OF YOUR TAX DOLLARS.

IT IS YOUR MONEY, AND I WILL SPEND IT WISELY AND IN THE BEST INTEREST OF ALL RESIDENTS ON A FAIR AND EQUAL BASIS. MORE MONEY IS NOT THE ANSWER; BETTER MANAGEMENT OF THE FUNDS AVAILABLE IS THE ONLY VIABLE SOLUTION.

NO SYSTEM FAILS WHEN SOUND MANAGEMENT PRACTICES PRODUCE A QUALITY PRODUCT AT A REASONABLE COST.

REMEMBER: FAILING TO PLAN IS PLANNING TO FAIL!

I DON'T INTEND TO FAIL SO ELECT ME COMMISSIONER OF PCT. #1.

I WILL DEVELOP A GOOD SOUND MANAGEMENT PROGRAM, SET GOALS, ESTABLISH PRIORITIES AND FOLLOW THROUGH TO GET THE JOB DONE.

I WILL PREPARE FOR COURT SESSIONS BY DOING RESEARCH ON ALL ITEMS ON THE AGENDA.

I WILL GET TO KNOW OTHER ELECTED OFFICIALS, THEIR GOALS, THEIR CONCERNS, AND THEIR PROBLEMS.

HOW CAN A COMMISSIONER SIT ON THE COURT, SET A TAX RATE, AND APPROVE OR REJECT ANOTHER ELECTED OFFICIAL'S BUDGET WITHOUT KNOWING THEIR NEEDS?

YOUR VOTE ON MARCH 10 WILL BE APPRECIATED.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE MORE OF MY VIEWS,

YOU MAY CALL ME AT 796-8395.

Almost-Eagle Scout William Elliott explains a map of Castle Lake subdivision to Bandera County Sheriff Steve Forest. Elliott planned and supervised the gathering of information for the area and produced the map and a listing of all the property within Castle Lake as a community service project. The information will enable deputies, firefighters and EMTs to easier locate the source of a call in the subdivision. Elliott says he spent more than two months on the project.

Travel writers to visit area

In a joint project involving the convention and visitors bureaus of Bandera and San Antonio, the annual meeting of the Society of American Travel Writers will visit both cities in June, a move officials of both groups hope will result in a windfall of publicity for both cities.

It's unknown at present just how many writers will be in the group, but they'll be feted at Bandera Downs and the Silver Dollar Saloon and be entertained with a wild west show at historic Mansfield Rodeo Arena.

As has become a tradition here, the group will be "highjacked" by a posse of mounted cowboys and "escorted" to cocktail hour, a barbecue and the wild west show.

Diane Mullins' hot air balloon will be pressed into service at the park for rides aloft. "What better place than the Texas Hill Country to take a ride in a hot air balloon," remarks Clay Conoly, who with Roger Raser is event co-chairman.

The event will be on June 5, and the travel writers from throughout the country will arrive at Bandera Downs to begin the Bandera portion of their tour at 2:30 p.m.

"Bandera Downs will have a race named in honor of the group," said Conoly. "Should be a winner!"

They'll leave the race track at 4 p.m., bound for Arksy Blue's Silver Dollar Saloon. "A quick stop to wet your whistles at a true Texas honky tonk, where a cowboy can still hock his boots for a beer," Conoly says.

"There's more," says Conoly in a letter to his counterpart with the San Antonio Convention and Visitors Bureau, Sharon Eason.

"Words can't describe our famous Texas barbecue with all the fixin's along with a trick roping exhibition," he says.

"Then grab your partner for a twirl on the ol' dance floor with music provided by your friends and mine, Dusty Bitches and his Rhythm Ranch Hands," Conoly told Eason.

The group will depart Bandera at about 9:30 p.m. "with an epidemic of Bandera fever," says Conoly, who is manager of the Dixie Dude Ranch as well as president of the Bandera County Convention and Visitors Bureau. His co-chairman, Raser, is Bandera County commissioner.

Of course, there's several events scheduled in San Antonio both before and after the Bandera portion of their visit.

Coordinator of the meeting is senior travel editor Gary D. Ford of Southern Living magazine.

The Society of American Travel Writers is an organization of editors, writers, photographers, broadcasters and public relations professionals.

Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the group usually meets in exotic locales throughout the world, but their policy requires one domestic convention site such as San Antonio-Bandera every three years.

"Convention sites are selected to provide newsworthy destination story possibilities for media members," says the society's promotional material.

Conventions include professional development programs and is designed as an interchange of ideas and story-gathering opportunities.

Leather festival set

The city of Yoakum will offer a variety of activities dealing with its leather industry Friday through Sunday, Feb. 28 March 1.

Museum and leather factory tours will be offered Friday, Feb. 28.

Dances at the community center, chili cook-offs, contests and games will also be offered.

Silver Sage Corral

Manuel Flores

"On The Road Again" seems to be the theme song of the Silver Sage Corral's Melodiers and AutoAngels. And like all major league teams they are sometimes called on to play a double header. Feb. 15th was one such occasion. At 5:30 p.m. they gave a program at Skyline RV Park of the Happy Travelers, whose members come from different areas within the state of Texas. Then at 7 p.m. the Melodiers presented a program at Jellystone/Yogi Bear RV Park for the campers assembled there, who are from many different states.

Another busy group at the center is the Silver Sage Corral Weavers. The first weaving class at 1992 is progressing very well. Jan Bryson, Maple Cowan and Melvin King have completed their first experience in weaving and are now dressing the loom for a set of place mats.

The second class will start Sept. 1. Individuals signed up for this class are Margaret Callahan, Marye Fest, Lois Schulte and Helen Waters.

The first class for 1993 has one vacancy to complete its four students.

The Silver Sage Corral Weavers are still looking for a spinning wheel. We would prefer a saxony or castle model. We are able to do repairs to put them in operating condition. We will be grateful if you have a spinning wheel and would be willing to donate it to the weavers at the center.

The Board of Directors of the Silver Sage Corral will meet on Friday, Feb. 28 at 2 p.m. at the center.

Fay Leatherwood has resigned her position at the Silver Sage Corral and her duties will be performed by volunteers. Mary Portman, Marie Holland, Bettie Suddath, Lillian Ray and Fannie Caffall will take turns at answering the phone and performing the other duties at the center in the afternoons.

On Tuesday, March 10th the Volunteer Services Council will hold their meeting at the Silver Sage Corral. We will be hosting guests from Kerrville, Boerne and Comfort. As usual we want to give them a big Bandera welcome. If you want to help contact the center and let us know that you will be available to work.

The plans for the best plant sale in Bandera are all made and we want to you to come by the center on Saturday, March 7 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Not only will you find the best plants in this area but we guarantee the char-broiled hamburgers "will be made your way". Barbara Lockhart and Tom Reece are in charge of the food booth. We need donations of cakes, pies and cookies to be served (for a small donation) to the guests that come to procure plants. There will be 8 to 10 Arts and Crafts booths scattered around the grounds of the center.

Deadline is Friday

Friday, Feb. 28 is the deadline to file for the Texas Silver-Haired Legislature, and candidacy forms and petitions are now available at AACOG's Bexar and Alamo Area Agencies on Aging.

Created in 1985, the Silver-Haired Legislature is a non-partisan body composed of 116 members elected from 28 regions in Texas that holds sessions in even-numbered years to discuss issues affecting Texas senior citizens.

Prospective candidates must be at least 60 years old prior to Jan. 1, 1992, registered to vote in Texas and live in the district from which they are seeking election.

Martin Smith from the Church of Christ used for his text Sunday, Deut. 30, "A Blessing or Cursing". Opening prayer was led by Tim Sanchez. Other guest were Judi Bishop, Yvonne Fenner and Lena and Lillian Ray.

The Rosary group meeting Monday evening for prayers and singing included residents Ada Sehon, Mae Eidenshink, Evelyn Hostelter and the parishioners from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church were Fannie Caffall, Dorothy Callahan, Aggie Batto and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

Luther and Zuita Mathis of Corpus Christi visited his father Luther Mathis, Sr.

Cora Belle Nunn from Kerrville played musical selection on the piano for the residents.

Brenda Adam is in the hospital. We hope she will get to feeling better and come home soon.

Iris Durhan and Fern MacDonald from Lakehills American Legion Auxiliary served delicious refreshments at the games party Wednesday afternoon.

Recent visitors of Russell and Mickie Stribling have been Martha Mueller and Mae Stribling of San Antonio, Helen Bayless, Raymond and Letha Smith and Mildred Bausch of Bandera.

Elphie Holliman, Gracie Wilson and Mae Eidenshink celebrated Birthdays last week. They enjoyed the pretty cake, flowers and Presidential Birthday Greetings. Family members came by to help them celebrate.

Carey and Jody Williams visited Soloma Kinsey.

Other volunteers last week were Doris Keese, Shirley Phillips, Fran Pue, Overa Jones, Rosemary Ford, Aggie Batto, Lois Hayes, Rev. Michael McManus, Tim Sanchez, Martin Smith and Ramah Whiteside.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Doctors estimate that as many as three out of four patients who seek medical care are suffering from psychosomatic illnesses -- emotional ailments which manifest themselves in physical ways...

J.A. Schindler, M.D. suggests these eight preventive "pills": 1. Stop listening for a knock in your motor. People who look for trouble frequently find it. 2. Learn to like your work. If you hate your job, find a job you can like. 3. Have at least one hobby and work hard at it. Hobbies are invaluable for relieving tensions. 4. Learn to enjoy people and to forgive and forget affronts. 5. Learn to accept with equanimity what cannot be changed. 6. Learn to accept adversity. If you live long enough, you are certain to meet with it. 7. Learn to be cheerful even when you don't feel cheerful. The sunshine you spread will warm you as well as those around you. 8. Learn to face life with confidence and decision.

These are eight beautiful "pills" to take for better living! Don't you agree?

SOS out, chili in

In celebration of the birthday of the American Legion, Lakehills post 416 will host a chili cook-off cook-off Saturday, March 14, starting at 10 a.m. and lasting until the Legion will keep half [illegible]

Entry fee for cooks is $10.

The minimum amount of meat to be cooked is five pounds. Contestants must cook on premises and cannot use open fires on the ground.

"We provide the space, you provide everything else," says Kruse.

"After the entry form is received, the official rules will be sent out to each contestant," says Kruse.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third place

A trophy for showmanship and last place will also be awarded.

The last place trophy is primarily for people who are competing in a cook-off for the first time. "The last place trophy is not to make fun of anyone, but for the people that are giving it a try," says Kruse.

Samples of chili will be sold by each contestant for 50 cents. The Legion will furnish the cup and spoon for the samples. The contestants will keep half the proceeds from the sales, and the Legion will keep half.

The Wimberley Good-time Garbage-pile Band will play in afternoon from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Space will be available for food, game and craft booths.

For the first time this year, individuals that want to put up a booth can rent space, says Kruse. In previous years, the Legion had limited the booth concession to non-profit organizations. Now [illegible] are encouraged to rent a space, says Kruse.

The rent will be $15. "They keep all the money they make," says Kruse. "We don't take a percentage.

To reserve a space as a cook or a booth, contact co-chairman George Driffill at 751-3066 or Kruse at 751-2121.

All proceeds from chili cook-off will be used to start construction of a new pavilion to be erected on property donated by Adrain Heisler next to the Legion.

Water district to elect directors

Voters in the Bandera County Fresh Water Supply District #1, which supplies water service to the two units of the Pebble Beach subdivision and the Jones Beach subdivision, will elect three directors May 2 on the five-member board.

The early voting period starts April 9 and continues through April 28. Persons in the district can vote at the district's office at 18 Water View Drive in the Pebble Beach subdivision from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays during the early voting period.

Voting on election day will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The posts currently held by Bob Solomon, Richard Osgood and Wilbur Bradford are up for election, but as of Tuesday, no one had filed for a place on the ballot.

The three posts are for four year terms.

To be a director, a person must be a resident of the district, own land in the district and be 21 years of age and older, reports water district secretary Louise Mayes. Applications for a place on the ballot can be picked up at the water board's office.

Lake AARP sees travelogue

The Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons were treated to a tour by alides of Israel Monday at their regular meeting at Lakehills American Legion hall.

Cleo Taylor gave a 30 minute slide show of her 1967 trip showing the Holy Land including churches, synagogues, temples, the area around the Dead Sea and the Sea of Galilee.

She was part of a choir from a San Antonio Baptist Church and on the trip and she spent Christmas Eve in Bethlehem with 20 choirs performing. She said the Christmas Eve experience was the most memorable of the trip for her.

She was able to visit the traditional site of the birth of Christ and the field where the angels are said to have announced the birth of Jesus.

Another special memory was crossing the Sea of Galilee to the Jordan River.

One guest and 29 members attended Monday's meeting. The club has 52 paid members as of Feb. 24, reports public relations chairman Delmar Stark.

Billy and Malisa Graham with the Rev. B.J. Rogers.

Vows renewed

Billy and Malisa Graham were married eight years ago, but one month ago, they renewed those vows at their new church home.

The Rev. B.J. Rogers presided over the renewal ceremony Jan. 31 at the Lakehills United Methodist Church.

James Schmidt was best man and Ronda Jones was the Maid of Honor.

Billy has lived in Bandera County for 25 years and Malisa moved to Bandera County eight years ago. Malisa graduated from Bandera High School.

They have two children, Brett Allen and Christina Demetria.

"We've been members of the Lakehills United Methodist Church for one year and decided to renew our vows in our new church home with family and friends," said Billy.

Wharton's Dock

Bud Ciarlo

It's not just the March winds that we have to look forward to, but two chances in the early part of the month to vote on important matters that concern the Lake Medina Shores and Wharton's Dock area — the quarterly general membership meeting of the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department and the March 10 Democratic and Republican primary.

The Lakeshore VFD meeting will be called to order at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 7, at the fire house on Wharton's Dock Road.

Votes are expected on an amendment to the by-laws, revision of the standing operating rules and the date for the next barbecue fundraiser.

This does not eliminate the possibility of other major items being brought up by the membership to vote on.

The meeting is important meeting and persons that care about the fire protection plan for the area should attend.

The other election will be party candidates for the various political offices March 10. In the United States, it is a privilege to vote and we should use it or not complain on how things are done.

— Lakeshore VFD president Marion Birch said he is distressed over what he feels is the "unfair portrayal of the Lakeshore VFD" during the recent tug-of-war in political arguments that have appeared in the Letters to the Editor section of the Bandera Bulletin.

He said he hopes new recruits coming to the regular training sessions will not be adversely influenced.

"Let's pull together for the good of the community," said Birch.

— Other fire department businesses includes a "on hands" firefighting training for the Lakehore VFD Thursday, March 5, starting at 7 p.m.

— Since the river has come up, a pair of prescription glasses has been found in the river across from Pop's Place on the Wharton's Dock side of the river.

The lossee can call 796-3322 or 796-3225 to identify.

Youth rodeo group to meet here March 5

The Bandera Youth Rodeo Association will hold its first general meeting of the year Friday, March 5, at 7 p.m. at the Mansfield Park Recreation Center.

"All members are encouraged to attend to discuss old and new business, including rule and by-law changes and dates for the 1992 season rodeos," says secretary Fonda Chesson.

The Bandera Youth Rodeo Association sponsors a youth rodeo every Friday night beginning in June with about eight to 10 rodeos during the summer season.

"The organization had paid memberships from 77 families last year and hopes to increase this number this year," says Chesson.

The annual family membership fee is $10, all of which is paid back to the participants at the end of the season. "Membership fees will be accepted at the meeting," says Chesson.

Painting exhibition

Inner Visions/Outer Visions, an exhibition of paintings by Elizabeth Van Pelt of Kerrville and Julie S. Watson of Laredo, will open Sunday, March 8, in Ingram.

New shop specializes in small engine and RV repairs

One of Bandera's newest businesses is DKL Enterprises, called "a highly diversified company" by owner Doug Livingston.

"My shop is capable of repairing almost anything from deer feeders to electric wheelchairs," Livingston said. "Of course we specialize in small engine and RV repair."

Livingston has lived in the Kerrville and Bandera area for 20 years.

"I am looking forward to operating in Bandera, and my photography studio will be opening soon," he said.

Hispanic career day planned in Houston

A Hispanic career and education day will be held in the George R. Brown Convention Center in Houston Saturday, Feb. 29. Call 713-522-8077 for more information.

TBA seminar set

"Reviewing Regulation Z" will be the topic of a seminar March 12 in San Antonio. The seminar is sponsored by the Texas Bankers Association.

"Regulation Z is one of the most comprehensive, complex consumer regulations and imposes strict compliance responsibilities on lenders," said Gwen Spain with the TBA. "This seminar is targeted toward lending personnel, compliance officers and auditors."

Instructor will be Wayne Barnes. For additional information, call Spain at 1-800-462-7295.

Cowtown marathon

Thousands of runners from throughout the world will compete in a marathon foot race Saturday, Feb. 29, from the historic Ft. Worth Stockyards through area neighborhoods. Call 817-735-2033.

Classes for adults still available in Kerrville's school program

It's not too late to register for community education classes with an emphasis toward the majority of compter courses have already been filled.

Still available, however, are courses on managing a hard disk, intermediate DOS, Lotus 123, Word Perfect, desktop publishing, computer trouble shooting, and ordering computers by mail.

Registration is at the Auld Center, 1121 2nd St., weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Information is available at 257-2218 in Kerrville.

Other classes still open, according to the school district's community education office, include upholstery, low-maintenance landscaping, vines and house cleaning.

Arts and crafts classes available include intermediate crochet, Brazilian embroidery, battenberg lace, painting on fabric and beginning oil painting.

There are also courses on personal finance, dancing, learning to speak Spanish, the metric system, and computer literacy.

Other courses include leadership; Native-American spirituality; dog obedience; non-beginners Spanish.

Of special interest may be a series of classes on the natural history of the Hill Country; a series on the political system by the League of Women Voters, and a series on recognition and prevention of sexual harassment and rape.

This is the 24' by 30' road maintenance shop building that was built for $7,256.18 because the old precinct #1 building was sold previously.

Commissioner Barker's opponents would have you believe that "He built himself a private office." The truth? It is a road maintenance shop building, shared equally with Pct. #1 and Pct. #4 road and bridge crews and their commissioners.

Tools, supplies and equipment are stored in the building. There is a workshop area where the crews can work on signs and repair and maintain equipment. A small office is used to hold safety meetings, evaluate and cross train personnel, keep equipment maintenance and repair records and to conduct the administrative duties of a county commissioner.

There are telephones and recorders so calls can be received about road problems at any time and acted upon quickly. The telephone number is 796-8303 for Pct. #1 and 796-7257 for Pct. #4 if you need assistance.

Yes, there will be traffic control at Bandera Downs, after all

Bandera County Commissioners Monday voted to hire extra help to control traffic at Bandera Downs through March 29.

Both commissioner Roger Raser and Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer said they were besieged by phone calls from citizens concerned about their safety on the highway if the county did not provide deputies to direct traffic on State Highway 16 after the races.

Bandera section supervisor for the state transportation department Charles George said he would make further inquiries about a temporarily operated traffic light at the intersection of the track and Highway 16.

He will take a program to educate the public that the "Steve" Forest.

Commissioners remained adamant that the track should foot the bill for traffic control.

However, Raser noted that "we don't want the public to go unprotected."

Distasteful campaign

Dear editor:

I was a guest luncheon several weeks ago with my government/economics class. Candidates introduced themselves and opened the floor for questions. I asked county commissioner Bennie Barker what the specific duties of a county commissioner were and if approving funds was one of these duties. I went further in saying that I was asking this because I understood (Sheriff) Steve Forest had been training deputies without anyone's authority or approval. Mr. Barker was very polite in hinting that county officials were as much in the dark as I was. He then answered the other part of my question pertaining to specific duties.

He then passed the question concerning [illegible] to the judge, Ray Mauer, and the county judge (Ray F. Mauer). No real answer could be given to why Mr. Forest was doing this except that he isn't showing it on his budget....

I feel that I must clarify this situation due to the utilization of my question as a subject for paid political announcements. Election time sees every politician in the country trying to get their name mentioned in the paper one way or the other. I will not, though, mention the name of the person who began this distasteful campaign war over my question. I would not want to give the one who distorted what happened such publicity or credit. I do not appreciate people who twist events around for their own personal benefit.

James Clifford
Bandera

(Editor's note: The way I understand it is that commissioners approve spending plans for county funds but do not have a role in approving or disapproving the use of funds in the cash seizure fund, which is supervised by the district attorney.)

There you go again

Dear editor:

You're doing it still: publishing Bennie's (Barker) self-serving, back patting, "now let me elaborate and explain it properly" letters. Couldn't he have called or written the two persons named in his letter? No, because he, in my opinion, wanted to politic for free in your editorial column and you, in keeping with past practice, permitted him to do so. I can't blame Bennie for getting free publicity if you permit it or, possibly, encourage it.

Will you also permit other candidates for county office equal space to campaign in your editorial column? Feeling that you wish to maintain your eminently fair editorial policy, by copy hereof to party leaders and all candidates of each party, I'm suggesting they request equal space in that column.

J.R. Turner
Pipe Creek

(Editor's note: The columns of this newspaper are open to the free and [illegible] of the issues, but they are not available for political endorsements. Mr. Barker's letter was in reply to issues raised in letters to the editor. The same courtesy will be offered to any candidate to reply to issued raised in letters, even to Mr. Barker if he chooses to reply to your missive.)

Church deserves better

Dear editor:

Just recently new front doors were installed at St. Stanislaus (Catholic) Church. The shiny, highly-shellacked, blondish-brown doors sharply clash with the gray native rock Gothic structure. The venerable church deserves better than this.

Unless the old doors have already been committed to the burning pile, as was the communion rail some years ago, perhaps they could be retrieved, repaired and rehung. If this proves to be an impossible task, more appropriate doors in keeping with the architecture of this historic church should replace the current eyesore.

St. Stanislaus Church, site of the second-oldest Polish parish in the United States, bears an official Texas State Historical Marker. Any replacements, repairs or renovations must respect the tradition that this church of worldwide significance represents.

—Leap

his 21st birthday. But, alas, when the happy day arrives, the 21-year-old Frederick gets caught on a technicality— he has actually only celebrated five birthdays, and must tell his beloved Mabel that he is honor-bound to stay with the pirates until he is a octogenarian (but still, technically, only 21 birthdays old).

Actually, in England, King Henry VIII had in the 16th century decreed that those born on Feb. 29 would, during non-Leap Years, celebrate their day on Feb. 28, but G&S would never let something like logic get in the way of a plot twist.

The modern version of the calendar as we know it, came to be following a series of events that began in 1545, when the Council of Trent authorized the then Pope, Paul III to revise the existing Julian calendar. Most of the actual mathematical work was done by Father Christopher Clavius, and by order of Pope Gregory XIII, Thursday, Oct. 4, 1582 was the last day of the Julian calendar, and the next day, Friday, Oct. 15, was the first day of the new Gregorian calendar.

In the interest of long-range accuracy, a formula was devised: every fourth year is a leap yea,r unless it is a century year. Leap years can be evenly divided by four, and century years can be leap years only when divisible by four (the next one is 2000).

Protestants chose to ignore the new calendar until 1698, when German professor Erhard Weigel persuaded the Protestant rulers of Germany and the Netherlands to adopt the Gregorian calendar.

Some modern proposals for calendar reform suggest doing away with the Leap Year system, but one proposal calls for a 364-day year which begins every time with Sunday, Jan. 1. At the end of each year would be an extra day, called "Year Day," (a holiday), and every four years the holiday is extended over a two-day period.

Proponents says that this calendar would be ideal, because you wouldn't have to deal with a different calendar every year – you could memorize one calendar, and the days would always be the same. (Except in Texas, where days are never the same).

A final note – according to the "Information Please" Almanac, the U.S. Naval Observatory adds an extra second, or a "leap second," to the end of a year, to compensate for the difference between the earth's actual rotation and the atomic clock system, which is purported to be accurate to within a billionth of a second per day.

"For as long as man has kept time, he has set his clock by marking the passage of the sun and the stars across the skies," the book says. "Unfortunately, the earth rotates irregularly, sometimes speeding up, but usually slowing down..." (and you thought it was just your imagination).

Third season to open at race track

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera Downs enters its third season Friday, Feb. 28, with a racing club, new wager, greater emphasis on beginning bettors, and more handicapping help.

All race fans will have free general admission opening day.

Post time is 1 p.m. Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Current plans call for 10 races on Fridays and 12 races on Saturdays and Sundays, [illegible] of publicity Don Rhine.

Additional simulcast races will be offered after the Texas Racing Commission approves the rules and Bandera Downs officials reach an agreement with horsemen.

For $20, race fans can join the "Bandera Racing Club" and receive free general admission and a free program every Friday, a Bandera Downs cap and shirt, and discounts at the track's gift shop.

Handicapping help will abound with a handicapping seminar at the north end of the grandstands at 12:15 p.m., a handicapping center, and beginning windows on each pari-mutuel aisle.

The track has added a second jackpot wager, the Pick 6 – which they call the Tex 6 – a wager where bettors pick the winners of six races in a row, at Bandera in races three through eight.

If no one picks all six winners, 25 percent of the jackpot wagered that day will be paid out to the closest winners and 75 percent will be carried over to the next day.

The twin trifecta will return as the original jackpot wager. To win the twin trifecta, bettors must pick the top three winners in exact order in the fifth and then the sixth race. The twin trifecta jackpot will remain separate from the Tex 6 wager. There will be no consolation twin trifecta paid each day (except closing day, if no one wins the wager.)

The standard win, place, show, daily double, quinella, exacta and trifecta wagers will also be offered.

The superfecta (pick the top four finishing horses in order) will be held on the fourth, sixth, and last race of the day.

The track will not offer the Pick 3 on a 10-race card. That decision has still not been made for a 12-race card, said Rhine.

Other new attractions include a video game room and a new gift shop.

Ticket prices remain the same as last year, $3 for general admission, $5 for grandstand reserved, $7 for Turf Club Terrace, $10 for the Lower Jockey Club, and $12 for the Upper Jockey Club.

General admission for military and senior citizens is $1.

General parking remains free, with preferred parking at $3, and valet at $6.

Children must be accompanied by an adult and children six years and younger are not allowed in the Jockey Clubs or the Turf Club Terrace.

Grade I champion to race at Bandera Downs Sunday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

He could be the most acclaimed quarter horse to race at Bandera Downs since the current era of pari-mutuel racing began.

The purse for the race is estimated at $13,500, with 60 percent going to the winner.

Magic Dozen, under the schoolage of trainer Tommy Zarate and whip of jockey Nicky Wilson, won five races in a row after jockey Mike Short broke the colt's maiden in his first race.

In the 9-race, 6-win, 1-second place and 1-third place record last year, Magic Dozen earned $280,307.

No wonder that racing secretary Dean McKinney assigned the high weight to Magic Dozen, at 125 pounds.

The race is a handicap, with the racing secretary assigning the highest weight to the horse he considers having the best chance of winning.

The 3-year-old colt won the Gillespie County Futurity last year, but was an also ran in three futurities at Manor Downs. Hips Passing Gear accumulated $33,055 in winnings last year.

Catch Yawl will make his first appearance at Bandera. The gelding won three races in a row at Delta Downs in Louisiana, but failed to perform in his two outs at Manor.

Trainer Lyn Lehman's Ruling Stone, may be better than the 118 pounds assigned. The colt ran second in both the Lone Star State Futurity and the Fiesta Futurity at Bandera.

Also Sunday, the "Best of Class" race series will begin with a 350-yard sprint for $2,500 claiming quarter horses.

Late last year, Bandera Downs board of directors members L.C. Robbins and others at the track developed the Best of Class series that allowed claiming horses, the horses that run day-in and day-out at the track, could run for a bigger purse.

This year, Bandera will host approximately one Best of Class race each racing weekend. The races will be divided equally among the thoroughbreds and quarter horses and among the two breeds, the races will be divided into sprint and distance divisions.

Top horses from individual races will qualify for the championship racing weekend.

Sunday's race could carry a purse of $3,600.

Horses likely to compete in the event include Elope, which won his first two races at Bandera last year, before heading to Trinity Meadows to race, and Forty Dollar Oil, who broke his maiden at Bandera Sept. 22 and has raced second race Nov. 23 after three poor performances.

Another contender is Goodtime Spirit with a 9-start, 2-win, and 3-second place record in 1991.

Other horses entered are Bed of Diamonds, Bid It All, Coda Yen, Dreamin Bunney, Follow the Fox, Kipty Kid, Mystic Concept, Summer Hill North, Warren Zevon and a horse from Michigan, Send Flowers, which should not be counted out.

In Saturday's race action, Bonaparte will try to repeat as the winner of the Mission City Handicap.

Last year, the gelding ran a startling 57 3/5-second 5-furlongs to win by 1/2 length in the 1991-edition of the Mission City Handicap at Bandera. The horse was ranked as a 37-1 longshot.

But he didn't get such high odds after that.

Bonaparte, whose principal rider was Ricky Walker, won three races, placed two times and showed three times out of 10 starts. The horse only failed to run in the money once, May 4, in the Derby Day Handicap on a sloppy track.

Bonaparte draws the high weight at 123 pounds in Saturday's handicap.

Flying Uncle has been assigned the second highest weight at 122 pounds.

The colt won two races in a row at Bandera last year.

This year, Flying Uncle has a new owner and trainer in C.D. Glosson and Roy Ragland.

Another horse nominated to the race, Rowdy Amigo, beat Bonaparte in the Alamo Handicap June 30. While not as consistent as Bonaparte, the colt has proven he can achieve Bonaparte's speed.

Ohprettyone, the oldest among the four horses that carry the highest weights, is not as consistent as Bonaparte and Rowdy Amigo. The 7-year-old mare has done best when ridden by jockey Isaac Chapa.

A surprise in the contest could be Foolish Flash. The 3-year-old colt ran second in the Bandera Futurity to track record holder Random Brown.

Friday's 10-race card will feature Whatasignature with Frank Bentancourt in the irons in a $2,100 350-yard race for $2,250 claiming quarter horses and Black Breeze with Betty Harless as jockey in a $2,100 5 1/2-furlong race for $6,250 claiming thoroughbreds.

Grade I champion to race at Bandera Downs Sunday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

He could be the most acclaimed quarter horse to race at Bandera Downs since the current era of pari-mutuel racing began.

Magic Dozen, winner of the Grade I Graham Farms Futurity at Manor Downs near Austin and winner of the Grade I Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico, is the favored horse in the 350-yard Texas Classic Sunday at the Class II Bandera track.

The purse for the race is estimated at $13,500, with 60 percent going to the winner.

Magic Dozen, under the schoolage of trainer Tommy Zarate and whip of jockey Nicky Wilson, won five races in a row after jockey Mike Short broke the colt's maiden in his first race.

In the 9-race, 6-win, 1-second place and 1-third place record last year, Magic Dozen earned $280,307.

No wonder that racing secretary Dean McKinney assigned the high weight to Magic Dozen, at 123 pounds.

The race is a handicap, with the racing secretary assigning the highest weight to the horse he considers having the best chance of winning.

The 3-year-old colt won the Gillespie County Futurity last [illegible] three futurities at Manor Downs. Hips Passing Gear accumulated $33,055 in winnings last year.

Catch Yawl will make his first appearance at Bandera. The [illegible] won three races in a row at Louis Downs in Louisiana, but failed to perform in his two outs at Manor.

Trainer Lyn Lehman's Ruling Stone, may be better than the 118 pounds assigned. The colt ran second in both the Lone Star State Futurity and the Fiesta Futurity at Bandera.

Also Sunday, the "Best of Class" race series will begin with a 350-yard sprint for $2,500 claiming quarter horses.

Late last year, Bandera Downs board of directors members L.C. Robbins and others at the track developed the Best of Class series that allowed claiming horses, the horses that run day-in and day-out at the track, could run for a bigger purse.

This year, Bandera will host approximately one Best of Class race each racing weekend. The races will be divided equally among the thoroughbreds and quarter horses and among the two breeds, the races will be divided into sprint and distance divisions.

Top horses from individual races will qualify for the championship [illegible] weekend.

Sunday's race could carry a purse of $3,600.

Horses likely to compete in the event include Elope, which won his first two races at Bandera last year, before heading to Trinity Meadows to race, and Every Bonus Bit, who broke his maiden at Bandera Downs [illegible] race Nov. 23 after three poor performances.

Another contender is Goodtime Spirit with a 9-start, 2-win, and 3-second place record in 1991.

Other horses entered are Bed of Diamonds, Bid It All, Coda Yen, Dreamin Bunney, Follow the Fox, Kipty Kid, Mystic Concept, Summer Hill North, Warren Zeven and a horse from Michigan, Send Flowers, which should not be counted out.

In Saturday's race action, Bonaparte will try to repeat as the winner of the Mission City Handicap.

Last year, the gelding ran a startling 57 3/5-second 5-furlongs to win by 1/2 length in the 1991-edition of the Mission City Handicap at Bandera. The horse was ranked as a 37-1 longshot.

But he didn't get such high odds after that.

Bonaparte, whose principal rider was Ricky Walker, won three races, placed two times and showed three times out of 10 starts. The horse only failed to run in the money once, May 4, in the Derby Day Handicap on a sloppy track.

Bonaparte draws the high weight at 123 pounds in Saturday's handicap.

Flying Uncle has been assigned the second highest weight at 122 pounds.

The colt won two races in a row at Bandera last year.

This year, Flying Uncle has a new owner and trainer in C.D. Gleason and Roy Ragland.

Another horse nominated to the race, Rowdy Amigo, beat Bonaparte in the Alamo Handicap June 30. While not as consistent as Bonaparte, the colt has proven he can achieve Bonaparte's speed.

Ohprettyone, the oldest among the four horses that carry the highest weights, is not as consistent as Bonaparte and Rowdy Amigo. The 7-year-old mare has done best when ridden by jockey Isaac Chapa.

A surprise in the contest could be Foolish Flash. The 3-year-old colt ran second in the Bandera Futurity to track record holder Random Brown.

Friday's 10-race card will feature Whatasignature with Frank Bentancourt in the irons in a $2,100 350-yard race for $2,250 claiming quarter horses and Black Breese with Betty Harless as jockey in a $2,100 5 1/2-furlong race for $6,250 claiming thoroughbreds.

Lady Bulldogs down Jourdanton, 60-54, to win bi-district crown

By Bob Hopper
Bulletin sports writer

[illegible] and wear a blue uniform?" Ask that question of the Jourdanton Squaws girl's basketball team, and chances are the reply would be, "The Lady Bulldogs."

[illegible] using their height advantage to its fullest, the Bandera girls advanced to the area playoffs [illegible] at Southside [illegible] gym with a 60-54 win over Jourdanton.

The victory takes the Bandera girls to unfamiliar territory. Their game Tuesday night at Seguin against Yoakum will mark the first time ever for a Bandera girl's basketball team to advance beyond bi-district play.

"Our girls met the pressure that Jourdanton put on them," said Coach Julie Young, "and actually improved under the [illegible]."

The pressure came in the fourth quarter after the Lady Bulldogs ran off a 16-7 point advantage in the third period. The Squaws played a furious 6 and 1/2 minutes of the final eight to tie the game at 54-54.

With the pressure on, the Bulldogs played their best game of the year. They gave up the ball only six times all night. Their season average was 20 turnovers per game.

None of the turnovers came in the [illegible] four of the starting Bandera five went into the fourth stanza in foul trouble, and all four managed to keep from fouling out.

"We knew they were going to shut Lisa (Wharton) down," explained Coach Young. "So we pulled Lisa up to the high post position." That move forced the Squaws to move their tallest player, 6-foot Shannon Hahn, out from under the basket in order to stay with Wharton.

With Hahn on Wharton, the Bandera guards of Courtney Clements, Melani Schneider and Natalie Koehler, Each at 5-11, the Bandera trio had a [illegible] over the other Jourdanton players.

The lead changed hands several times before Bandera went ahead 15-14 in the opening seconds of the second period. Ahead 29-27 at half-time, Bandera applied some pressure of [illegible] sion.

Niki Rouch and Courtney Cota met the Squaw ball handlers at mid-court and escorted them to mid-court to a waiting Lisa Wharton or Melani Schneider.

The full-court press rattled the Squaws, allowing the Bulldogs to jump out to a 45-34 lead at the end of the third.

With the Bulldogs circled up solid inside, the Squaws began shooting from outside in the [illegible] basketa added six points to the Jourdanton side of the score board and gave a tremendous mental boost to the Squaws.

The mental lift from the three-pointers and 4-of-4 from the free-throw line put Jourdanton right back into the game. The Squaws' Patricia Garcia hit on a jumper to tie the score at 54-54 with 1:38 minutes to go.

Fouling to get the ball back on the rebound from a missed shot is probably a sound tactic. Especially if the opposing team is shooting 36 percent from the charity stripe, as Bandera was up until that time.

Perfect from the line on three previous attempts, she promptly [illegible] one to put the Bulldogs ahead by a pair.

Jourdanton, not used to the thieving ways of Courtney Cota and Tandie Clements, turned the ball over six times in the next minute and 10 seconds.

Before the fracas was over in that 70 second span, Bandera [illegible] to the line for 14, that's not a misprint, count 'em 14, free throw attempts.Jourdanton never took the ball back over the mid-court line.

"We played the way you have to at the end of the game, Coach Young remarked, "No turnovers."

Koehler and Rouch led all scorers with 17 points each, followed by Clements with 14, and Wharton with 5.

Medina, Utopia in playoff games

Medina's basketball boys and both Utopia's teams will be in Class A playoff action this weekend, Medina playing Thorndale at Marble Falls at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Utopia's girls facing Leakey and boys taking on McMullen County.

Utopia's girls was to meet Leakey at Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde at 8 p.m. Tuesday and the boys will play Mcmullen County (Tilden) at Somerset Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Medina's Bobcats were runnersup in District 54-A with a 6-2 league record and 13-11 overall. Utopia's boys won its three-team district title with a 4-1 mark and 19-5 record overall. The girls were undefeated in district play and lost only one game of 23 played during the season.

Rocksprings' boys, champion of District 54-A, plays Holland at 7 p.m. Thursday in Llano.

In District 61-A, Harper finished second in the both the girls and boys divisions, and the boys play Austwell-Tivoli at 7:30 p.m. Friday in LaVernia.

Elect
MICHAEL JEWETT Bandera County Commissioner, Precinct #1
Republican Primary, March 10, 1992
PRECINCT #1 TAXPAYERS
THANK YOU FOR YOUR POSITIVE RESPONSE!
In meetings and private discussions around our precinct, I have been greatly encouraged by your support for my platform. It seems obvious that our citizens are ready for good business management and fair treatment across the board.
Your present commissioner recently mailed out a campaign advertisement stating that the following roads would be paved during the present fiscal year:
Bear Springs Road, River Bluff Lane, Privilege Creek, English Crossing, Bandera River Ranch, Red Bluff Road, Oliwell, Goat Ridge, Deer Creek, Green Oaks, Bandera Ranch Acres, Lakeshore, Hummingbird
Of the $17,000 budgeted for paving this year, $10,083 has already been spent, leaving funds available for paving less than two miles, a tiny fraction of what he has promised.
Taxpayers of Precinct #1--can your vote be bought with these impossible promises?
It's time for honest answers on realistic projects.

Junior baseball registration to begin Thursday, try-outs open Saturday

Registration for the summer's junior baseball program in Bandera County will be Feb. 27-29 and March 7, association officials announced this week.

Try-outs will be at the Mansfield Park Little League field at Bandera and the Pipe Creek field.

Players may register at Alkek Elementary and Bandera Junior High schools from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 27 and 28.

They may also register during try-outs that begin at 9 a.m. on Feb. 29 and March 7.

Players who were members of a major league team last year need not attend try-outs if they register by Feb. 29.

Players registering are reminded to bring a certified copy (not a hospital copy) of their birth certificate along with a fee of $15.

Families with more than two children playing pay a maximum of $30, said league spokeswoman Carol Teich.

The Little League Association will meet Thursday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Bandera Electric Co-op building.

Persons interested in coaching, umpiring or any other aspect of junior baseball are urged to attend the meeting, said Teich.

Opening weekend 'hits big'

Bandera Downs sees crowd of more than 11,000

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Take a sunny day without rain, temperatures in the shirt-sleeve range, family discounts, and the opening weekend of pari-mutuel horse racing at Bandera Downs, and you get crowds.

Attendance for Bandera's third opening weekend surpassed last year's opening weekend, but failed to exceed the inaugural season's opening weekend attendance in 1990.

The first opening day was in July just after the July 4th weekend and it was the first opening of a Class II pari-mutuel horse race track near San Antonio in this half of the century.

A total of 11,292 persons passed through the starting gates Feb. 28 to March 1.

The weekend's attendance exceeded track officials' projections of 11,000 and was higher than last year's opening weekend (March 1-3) level of 10,065.

A total of 18,716 persons attended Bandera's inaugural opening day (July 6-8, 1990).

The handle, the total amount bet, was the highest of the opening weekends — at $979,664. The 1991 opening weekend handle was $903,121 and $968,828 for the first time.

Opening day set the pace, especially with free general admission to everyone Friday as a one-time promotion.

Attendance at the opening of Bandera's third season was higher than last year's opening day (March 1) level of 2,243, lower than the inaugural's season's opening day (July 6, 1990) figure of 5,723, and right in line with track official's projection of 3,500.

Families, who would have to pay as much as $12 for a family of four last year will get a huge break all season long. "Parents with children can get in for $1 for each person 16 years old and over. Everyone (in the family) under 16 is free," said Rhine.

The offer also can include a food and drink for the family. "For an additional $1 per person, you can get a free hot dog, free Pepsi, free box of popcorn and four free tokens each.

"So a family of six with four children under 16, can pay $8 and get into the races, eat, drink, and play games in the video game room." The track plans to keep the offer going all season.

Rhine cautioned that patrons must tell the personnel at the admission gates that they want the family plan before entering.

Each person that pays the extra $1 for food and drink will get an envelope with coupons for the food, drink and the tokens.

The video game room was a popular diversion for the youngsters.

It was so popular, Rhine said they had to open the machines to get more tokens out and 15,000 more tokens are on order.

According to marketing director Doug Vair, the purpose of the family plan is to create new fans. "We're expanding our market. We have a family place. This is family entertainment.

"You can't go to any professional sport and find these prices."

Bandera director of operations Brian Elmore said he sees nothing but bigger crowds coming out, especially as the fields of horses in each race reaches the maximum of 10. "People don't like to bet on a six-horse field. More money is bet in a full field." Several races during the weekend had six, seven, and eight horses. Several races were full fields, with 10 races each.

When the crowds increase, so will workers that sell tickets, food, programs, and the rest.

The one-time free admission Friday was an attraction for people like college students Patty Smith and Clinton Roedes of Victoria, who said they came because "it was free." Roedes said he came about every three weeks last year.

Regular race fan and senior citizen Herman Kosub of San Antonio said he was out for the opening. His brother, Claudie Kosub, said he liked the free general admission for senior citizens. The track offers free general admission and grandstand reserve seating to all senior citizens with valid id every Friday.

Another patron whose been to Bandera before, summed up the general feeling, "I enjoy horse racing, it's a nice day and maybe I'll win some money," said Rick Petty of San Antonio Friday.

Two San Antonio men in near-drownings at city dam

Two men took their lives into their own hands Sunday as they apparently entered the swirling waters of the Medina River in Bandera.

And they almost lost their lives.

Ifrel Gomez Casias, 30, and Martinez Leyson, 31, both of San Antonio apparently entered the fast-moving Medina River, either to wade or swim, near the dam in the Bandera city park, and were swept away by the current.

According to Bandera chief of police Walter Welch, the two men were rescued by friends or by-standers and pulled out of the river on the north-side of the river.

Both men appeared "half unconscious," said Welch. "They had taken on a lot of water."

Welch said both men were wearing blue jeans either cut-off or rolled up and weren't wearing a shirt.

They were in the water by the dam "right where they always get caught," said Welch, who arrived at the scene after the men had been rescued.

Both men were taken to the hospital by Bandera County EMS.

Primary elections on Tuesday

By Nick Johnson
Bulletin Editor

Bandera County Democrats and Republicans will go to the polls Super Tuesday to pick their nominees for November's General Election, but most of the action locally will be in the Republican Primary where there are a pair of contested races in county-wide races, a contested race for county chairman, and a non-binding referendum on limiting terms.

Democrats will find few choices other than a presidential preference contest, and many party faithful have indicated an intention to cross party lines to vote in the GOP primary.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at 11 locations in each primary.

Members of both parties will go to precinct conventions at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday to choose delegates for the the parties' county conventions later in the month. Conventions are located at the same site as voting in each precinct.

Tuesday the Bandera County chairman of the Libertarian Party, Larry Cothran of Lakehills, surfaced to announce that his party too will hold precinct conventions Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., all 11 precincts at his home on Park Road 37 next to Jim's Rebait Tackle Store in Lakehills.

They too will elect delegates to the party's county convention, which will also be held at his home, on Saturday, March 14. The major parties hold their county conventions in the county courthouse.

In order to participate in Libertarian conventions, however, a person must vote in neither of the major party primaries earlier in the day.

Republicans will vote for former deputy James MacMillan of Lakehills and former federal deputy and New York City policeman Marc Sultan for sheriff.

Most of the effort in this race has been directed against incumbent Democrat R.S. "Steve" Forest, though he is unopposed Tuesday but will take on the Republican nominee in November.

In the other county-wide contested race, incumbent county attorney Sam Darden, who switched parties earlier this year, is being challenged by a long-time Republican, Bandera municipal judge Kerry Schneider of Pipe Creek.

Republicans in two of the county's four commissioners precincts will also find contested races for the party's standard-bearer.

Incumbent commissioner Bennie Barker of Precinct 1 is being challenged by a two opponents, school tax critic Bobby Jones of Wharton's Dock and builder and political novice Michael Jewett of Pipe Creek.

Nomination is tantamount to election since there is no Democratic candidate for the job.

Letters to the editor.

Wants names revealed

Dear editor:

I have always objected to anonymous letters, especially those sent to the public press. It allows the writer to make any statement he or she wishes without taking any responsibility for such statements.

Since my coming to Bandera, almost three years ago, I have noticed many anonymous letters in which there were personal attacks on individuals, which perhaps were half truths or worse still, were completely false. I have also noticed anonymous letters condemning volunteer groups and individuals which helps to discourage volunteerism in a community.

For these reasons I strongly urge you to adopt a policy for your paper of never publishing a letter to the editor without publishing the name of the person who wrote the letter. I know that you would have the support of the vast majority of your readers if you adopted this policy.

A person who is afraid to have his or her name published in a letter to the editor is basically a coward. A coward is defined as one lacking in courage; one who prefers to act in an underhanded manner.

The individual who wrote an anonymous letter to your paper last week is certainly very much in a minority among our parishioners. The vast majority were very complimentary of the new doors. One comment I heard most often was, "It was about time we got new doors." To any observant person the old doors were falling apart and were an embarrassment to the church community. Instead of criticizing the volunteer effort of a concerned parishioner, a good Christian should and would commend such an individual for his or her effort in beautifying our church building. The new doors greatly enhance our church building.

Michael G. McManus
Pastor, St. Stanislaus Church

(Editor's note: It is the policy of this newspaper to refuse to publish anonymous letters. We do, however, publish signed letters, withholding names if requested. We do this to protect letter writers from possible retaliation. In this our policy is the same as all other newspapers and news magazines we know of.)

Ancestors would be proud

Dear editor:

This letter is in response to the unsigned letter concerning the new doors donated to the St. Stanislaus Catholic Church. The color may not be to your liking and possibly doors more in keeping with the architecture of the church should replace the current "eyesore." But, these doors were donated and should be appreciated as such.

The strong criticism in your letter does not seem appropriate for someone who lacks the courage to sign his/her name to a letter publicly condemning the craftsmanship and heartfelt donation of a follow parishioner. Maybe you did not sign your letter because someone might ask, "What have you done, lately, for the church?" Would you have an answer?

My ancestors were among the founders and builders of the St. Stanislaus Church, and I would like to think they would be proud of any new doors that were donated to the church.

Basketball program

Dear editor:

Medina has just completed its first season of junior league basketball. The season was very successful with 11 teams competing. Students in third through sixth grades participated, and the basic fundamentals (of basketball) were taught.

The season ended Saturday, Feb. 29, with an awards banquet. All students, coaches and other helpers were treated to an all-you-can-eat hot dog lunch. Former Medina athlete Robert Hubble, a Texas high school basketball all-star player and former all-Southwest Conference football player from Rice, was guest speaker.

Everyone who helped in any way – coaches, referees, concession stand workers, time keepers, et. – should be commended for a job well done.

Coaches Rick Ingram and Leann Tom did a great job of arranging everything.

Door prizes were given to the adult volunteers at the banquet and the people and businesses that donated these and other items need to be thanked for their support of the program. They are: S.W. Johnson Construction Co., Dr. William Dutton, Medina Rotary Club, Filling Station Cafe, Suzie's Cafe, MacNaughton Insurance, Bob and Marcia Ingram, John and Lois Derry, Cabe Farm Bureau Insurance, Medina Western Star, Love Creek Orchards, Collins of Texas, Jennie Vaughn Designs, Hatfield Realty, Elaine's Beauty Shop, Faglie's Texas Cedar Products, Hubble Embroidery, Old Timer, Louis Vannatter, Maynard and Shirley Phillips, and Woodmen of the World.

Where's Bush from?

Dear editor:

How can Americans vote for George Bush? We question his honesty because he claims Texas as his legal residence. Could this be because of th 27 Texas electoral votes? Everyone knows he realy lives in the state of Maine. This is dishonesty and should not be allowed.

Sid Wilkenson
Tyler

(Editor's note: We take issue with your statement that "everyone knows" he lives in Maine. Some "know" he lives in Washington, D.C., others "know" he lives in Connecticut."

They want to bypass those pesky voters

Dear editor:

Our sheriff has already been hand picked for us. The county's big politicos have a list of lies and plenty of taxpayer monety to use to try to drive our (current) sheriff out of office, then they can appoint the candidate of their choice, bypassing those pesky voters who insist on learning what a candidate is going to do for us or has done for us in the past.

I hope everyone is watching the mud slinging, power-abusing, slandering, sign meddling politics going on.

Name withheld by request

Not part of strip show

Dear Editor:

Who ever heard of a male stripper at a wedding (Dancer didn't play the fiddle, The Bulletin, Feb. 28)?

We take great offense at any reference of us being a part of such ludicrous acts. If Barbara Myhre is supposedly a spokeswoman, we suggest that she seek out the facts first, before she speaks.

The only wedding guests present were close family, and anyone that knows our family, knows that we would not take part in such an activity.

We had no real plans to get married at The Cabaret, but upon seeing Judge (Tom) Grant's physical condition, and with his persuasion, we joined him center stage. We are sorry for "interrupting the dancing," and as far as not making a donation, please check your records again.

We would like to thank everyone that did make this event a special one for us.

John & Kay (Evans) Keeling
Kerrville,

Nice day wish

Dear Editor:

I just wanted to acknowledge Mr. J. R. Turner's letter from last week. I do not agree with him, but that does not make me dislike him either, and I hope he has a nice day.

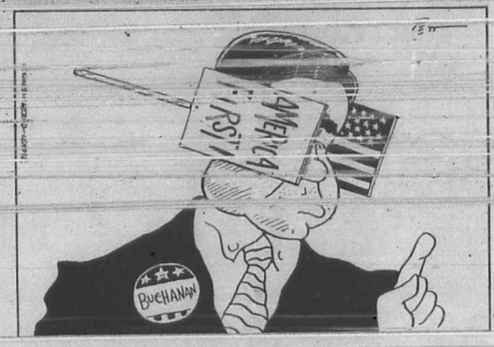
Obviously prejudiced

Dear Editor:

Your perseverance is nothing short of amazing as demonstrated by: 1. Publication of excerpts from a paid political ad on the front page under the ruse of it being a news item. 2. That same "news item" stating you're jumping party lines as suggested in that paid political ad, and, 3. Your open solicitation for that same candidate to send yet another campaign letter for publication in your letters to the editor column.

Many perceive this practice to be unfair to other candidates as well as intellectually insulting. However, most readers are so conditioned to your bias, they merely chuckle to themselves while attributing it, with regard to this election at least, to loss of editorial and reportorial objectivity and integrity by an obviously prejudiced editor.

J.R. Turner
Pipe Creek



The Bulletin solicits your letters on any subject of general interest. Each letter must be brief (200 words maximum, shorter if possible), in good taste, and free of libelous material. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for these reasons. While political endorsements and thank you notes will not be accepted as letters, we will be happy to arrange advertising space for these purposes.

Local American Cancer Society hopes to increase donations

Group sets $10,000 goal

Bandera County cancer fighters hope to increase donations to the American Cancer Society to more than $10,000 this year, up 43.8 percent over last year's total and 14.0 percent above the best year they've ever had.

Valentine's Day when the Bandera County Unit of the American Cancer Society raised some $2,000 at their traditional Valentines' Dance and accompanying bake sale.

It will continue on Monday, March 27, when the cancer fighters stage their Lights On Walk of Life in which volunteers will prowl the county and call on residents who turn on their porch lights indicating they want to make a donation.

County commissioner Bennie Barker of Wharton's Dock is Cancer Crusade chairman, and he's confident the local unit will attain its goal of raising $10,400 this year because he thinks people will be willing to contribute when they learn how the money will be spent.

"The breakdown of how American Cancer Society funds are spent in Texas represents one of the best returns on the dollar that I know of," said Barker.

"It is one part of the ACS we're most proud of and I think our friends and neighbors will be more willing to give to contribute when they know how well their money is being spent," he said.

Last year the Bandera County Unit spent $6,477 on public education and $7,733 on patient services. Personnel and administrative costs were completely volunteer.

The public education expenditures went for leaflets, pamphlets and videos, and unit figures show they contacted 762 adults and 1,150 youth last year. The unit also coordinated the Great American Smokeout in the county.

They served 29 cancer patients last year, giving them aid in traveling to medical appointments, hospital and other medical equipment, and, of course, lots of moral support.

"Programs that help people are our priority," said Barker.

The unit also sponsors a fund-raising golf tournament in June, which this year will be headed by John Junker.

Chuck Hayes, school nurse at Alkek Elementary School, is in charge of the unit's public education effort and Eleanor Merritt heads the group's patient service efforts.

Melecse Bugh in the group's communications chairmanship and Edith Chandler heads its memorial fund program. Barbara Myhre is local president and Muriel Strange is vice president of the 24-member group. Bandera city council member Dorothy Darden is secretary and Chandler is treasurer.

The unit meets the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Bandera Branch.

Church tours will be part of 'Founders' Day' event

Guided tours of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church and Bandera United Methodist will be featured during the observance of Founders' Day in Bandera County on Saturday, March 21, said co-chair Patricia Moore.

The tours are just a couple of events scheduled elsewhere in Bandera and in communities throughout the county for the first celebration of the county's birthday.

St. Stanislaus Catholic Church is the second oldest Polish-American parish in the United States and the Bandera United Methodist Church will celebrate its 125th anniversary later this year.

Also scheduled for March 21 are an Irish stew cookoff at the American Legion Hall in Bandera and an arts and crafts fair and entertainment nearby at the old jail and old courthouse building.

There will also be a dance in Lakehills, a volksmarch and other events in Medina, a bake sale in Tarpley, a special artist's exhibit at the Frontier Times Museum, and an art show.

Entertainers in the old jail area will include school kids, Bandera's unique kazoo band, and music by "the little wrangler," former Banderan Ballan Grant Koen.

Local students make honors

Four students from Bandera and Medina were listed on the B honor roll at Tarleton State University for the 1991 fall semester. Candace Grimes and Michelle McGee from Bandera, and Cynthia Anderson and Letitia Huie were all listed on the honor roll, and all were classified "Distinguished Students."

Students on the B honor roll must have a grade point ratio between 3.0 and 3.99 with no grade lower than B.

"Distinguished Students" includes underclassmen who have a minimum GPR of 3.25 with no grade lower than C, and juniors and seniors who have a minimum GPR of 3.50 with no grade lower than C and are in good standing.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Go with the roller coaster ride this week, because the bumps could even be harder if you fight it. By the weekend you see a clearing. You start acting like your effervescent self again. Others adore you this way — and they let you know it. A lot.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make the most of the clear sailing this week, because, as the weekend arrives, you may have a downhill swing. Too much, too soon, too fast. Luxuriate in the positives and in the heightened connection between you and another. Recharge those batteries before Monday.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Handle responsibilities early in the week, because suddenly something pops into play as the weekend appears on the scene. And play you will. Of course, with the stardust that falls on you, consider roping in that special career opportunity (if you don't want to play, that is).

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Progressive thinking gets you what you want this week. Do your research before you make your proposal ... you may have a hard time talking another into your way of thinking. Though you start your weekend late, you make up for lost time. Get into a celebration mode.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Expect others to dominate this week, and you won't be disappointed. Count on that Leo charisma — you purr, they follow. You're into one-to-one relating, be it business or personal. Carry that theme into all the different parts of your life. Follow through on a fantasy this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Work on that Virgo perfectionism this week and lighten up. You discover how much you can really enjoy life and still be efficient. The ton-toms call to you all week. It's time for some quality play and a powerful exchange of energy. Close that business deal first.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Stop playing peekaboo with an important relationship that could impact your business as well as your personal life. Focus on hard core realities and take off your rose-colored glasses. Listen to an associate, friend or relative. They're all saying the same thing.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Those creative urges do wonders this week. You can either plug into work, and open up what seemed to be a locked idea, or you can launch into an early case of Spring Fever. The odds are, you'll have chosen both options. Hey, are you hot stuff!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Give up talking and retreat back into the think tank this week. Creativity and action combine as the weekend appears. Use this intense combination to light up your romantic life. Make a work situation better; a present relationship more compatible. You want it all? Now get it.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Vibrate with the moment. Be open to question: this week, even if you find yourself painfully insecure. Go back to the drawing board and look at the holes in your thinking. Use the weekend to relax and choose your options. Over the weekend, you appear — a force to be dealt with.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You think you've got a tiger by its tail, but events during the week convince you that this may not be the case. Your reactions are so strong, it's clear you're the tiger, and no one's leading you by the tail. You go your own way this weekend. (P.S. You have a great time.)

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You peak midweek and seem to have everything(?) under control. Another's flak goes right by you. By the weekend, in fact, you've forgotten it. Be careful, however, of that Pisces trait of overdoing. You could go wild now, very wild. And there may be damages. Tread with care.

—Election—

Precinct 3 will choose between Preston Jennings of Bandera and Louis Vannatter of Medina, both also seeking election [illegible] for the right to take on Democrat Ralph Chaney of Medina in November.

Incumbent Roger Raser of Bandera is not seeking a new term as commissioners but is on the ballot for a party job.

Republicans throughout the [illegible] party chairman from between incumbent Gary Johnston and Janet Cave, no kin but a friend of Mary Jane Cave, who was ousted from the party office by Johnston two years ago.

There will also be a contest in Republican voter Precinct 3 for precinct chairman between Millie Rader and Judy Dunn [illegible] missioner Raser and incumbent chair Richard Thornber.

In Republican voter Precinct 9 in the Medina area there's not only no contested race for precinct chair on the ballot, there isn't even a race. While write-in are allowed in party contests, there's no space on the Precinct 9 ballot for write-ins.

Republicans will also be asked to express an opinion on a non-binding referendum on limiting the terms of governor and other major state offices to two four-year terms and similar limits in the for other offices.

Democrat Mary Autry of Pipe Creek is unopposed in her quest for a second term as county chair, and Democrat precinct chair spots are being sought by Candy Sapp in Precinct 2, Johnnie Newcomer in Precinct 3, Dot McCracken in Precinct 4, Lynn M. Ellis in Precinct 5, Shirley L. Phillips in Precinct 6, Martin Smith in Precinct 7, Arthur H. Erfurt in Precinct 8, Marjorie Jordan in Precinct 9, and Roy J. Gazaway in Precinct 10. All are incumbents.

There are no candidates in Precincts 1 and 11.

Other Republicans seeking precinct chair positions include Mary Jane Cave in Precinct 1, Helen C. Edwards in Precinct 2, Norman H. Mansfield in Precinct 4, John K. Lowe Jr. in Precinct 6, Peter F. Chapman in Precinct 7, Bill Morris in Precinct 9 and Billy Walker in Precinct 11.

Democrats will find 11 candidates for their party's presidential nomination on the ballot, but most of the attention has been focused on five -- Paul E. Tsongas, Bill Clinton, Tom Harkin, Bob Kerrey and Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Others on the ballot include J. Louis McAlpine, Lyndon H. LaRouche, Tod Howard Hawks, Rufus Higginbotham, George W. Benns and Charles Woods.

Republicans will find their equivalent to "one of the above" on their ballot for presidential where they will be able to vote for "Uncommitted" or incumbent George Bush and challengers Pat Buchanan and George A. Zimmermann and Tennie Rogers.

There are some contested in statewide and regional races on the Democratic ballot, most notably, for state senate. A couple of incumbent Democrats were placed in the same district by the redistricting bill which is being challenged in court because of alleged irregularities between some Republican [illegible] and the Republican judges that drew the plan.

State Sen. Bill Sims of San Angelo, who has represented District 25 for years, must compete against another veteran state senator, Temple Dickson of Sweetwater. The winner is expected to face an uphill campaign in November in a district drawn by Republicans to [illegible] a congressional winner.

On the Republican side, the first person in the race has pulled out, but too late to get his name off the ballot. Former Mayor Charles Johnson of Kerrville is on the ballot, but he's withdrawn from the race, leaving the choice between Jim Deats, a political newcomer from Boerne, and Troy Fraser, a three-term legislator from Big Spring.

Other statewide races in the Democratic Primary include those between incumbent Lena Guerrero and David Young for railroad commissioner, incumbent Jack Hightower Paul Banner for justice of the supreme court, between incumbent Charlie Baird and Sam Paxson and between incumbent Morris L. Overstreet and Gene Kelley for the court of criminal appeals, and between Bennye Frazier and Ted Coulter for state board of education.

Republican contests include a race between former Austin Mayor Carole Rylander and Barry Williamson for railroad commissioner, Charles Ben Howell and Craig Enoch and John D. Montgomery and George Barbary for supreme court, and between Joe Davany and Jim Vollers and Ed Gray and Larry Meyers for court of criminal appeals.

Voting for both the Democratic and Republican parties will be in the same location in all 11 voting precincts.

Voters in commissioners' precinct 1 vote in one of three locations depending on where they live: voting precinct 1, Pipe Creek Presbyterian, Church; precinct 2, Pipe Creek Community Center; and precinct 11, Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department firehouse.

Commissioner's precint 2 has two voting precincts: precinct 3, whose voters vote at Louise Karr's Justice of the Peace office on FM Road 1283 just south of Park Road 37, and precinct 4, at the usual Lakehills Civic Center.

Commissioner's precint 3 has three voting precincts: voting precinct 5 at Bandera Electric Cooperative, and the combined precincts 6 and 9 vote at Medina Community Center and precinct 10 at Taylor Voting House.

The machines will be used in the Tuesday, March 10, primary to tabulate election results.

The test is a required procedure to ensure that votes are counted accurately.

The test is open to the public.

YOU HAVE BEEN DECEIVED

I attended Commissioners' Court on Monday and was SHOCKED to hear the FALSITIES presented to the Administrative Body of this county. Suzi Armstrong testified before the Court that a petition was being presented against the Sheriff's Department that represented 10% of the voters of Bandera County, and was prompted by recent newspaper articles relating to the Auditor's report.

Three hundred and forty-six (346) citizens signed this petition from the following geographical location by the percentages listed:

Lakehills	65.6%
Pipe Creek	14.4%
Bandera	7.0%
Tarpley	7.5%
Utopia	4.0%
Vanderpool	.8%
	99.3%

The first two paragraphs of the petition read:

WHEREAS, the Bandera County auditor, a C.P.A. firm, reported to commissioners' court that the Sheriff's Department refused to provide sufficient information to perform an adequate audit of the drug fund for the fiscal year 1989-1990; and

WHEREAS, the Bandera County auditor, Tommy Tomlinson, reported to commissioners' court that the Sheriff's department did not have invoices to support purchases; and he believed the law had been violated with respect to use of the drug moneys for the fiscal year 1990-1991.

The County Judge, with support from the Commissioners, rebutted the allegation in the first paragraph by stating that NO RECORDS HAD BEEN REFUSED to be given to the Auditor, a point further substantiated by my own testimony. Indeed, nothing in the Auditor's report, or the newspaper, even remotely suggests a lack of cooperation on the part of the Sheriff's Department.

Regarding the allegation of a law violation in the second paragraph, perhaps we should quote the Auditor's statement as it appeared in the Bandera Bulletin on January 22, 1992: "Because of the absence of the supporting documentation, I can not express an opinion as to the compliance of all transactions to Chapter 59, Code of Criminal Procedure."

The third paragraph of the petition read:

WHEREAS, the Sheriff's department continues to make substantial purchases without going out for bids, obtaining commissioners court approval, or preparing a budget;

Collis White, a private practicing attorney of San Antonio, and former Assistant U.S. Attorney of Del Rio, quite clearly set the record straight as he explained the money from drug related funds is not county funds, but belong solely to the law enforcement agency, and are not subject to competitive bids. Mr. White quoted current laws, current Attorney General Opinions, and explained the Legislative intent of the law as given to him by Brock Stevenson, Assistant U.S. Attorney in Dallas, and author of the Bill that created drug funds for the respective agencies involved in asset seizures.

The fourth paragraph of the petition read:

WE THE UNDERSIGNED, respectfully request Commissioners Court to pass a resolution forthwith formally requesting an investigation and audit of the Sheriff's department by the Texas Rangers and/or the Attorney Generals Office of the State of Texas.

An audit has been completed and submitted to the Commissioners Court, with no indication that funds are missing. For each expenditure made where an invoice is unavailable, there is a purchase order that fully explains the nature of the expense. These records, along with all other records and documents were available at the time of audit, and no one within this Department denied anyone access to them.

This petition caused the Commissioners Court to order a new audit, which I stand ready to assist in, however, it should be noted this will be conducted by a private firm at an unspecified expense to you, the taxpayer.

Could it be that the presenters of this petition TACITLY DECEIVED some of Bandera County's finest citizens, especially a large majority in the Lakehills community? Was this done in good faith or for POLITICAL REASONS? Perhaps the individual who solicited your supporting signature should be asked to explain the motive and the UNTRUTHS.

Sincerely,
R.S. "Steve" Forest

Fighting for
The Future of Rural Texas

"Some people might think it's a tough job representing a district that's spread out all over West Texas and the Hill Country.

"But the way Kathy and I look at it, what kind of job could you have where you get to see so much beautiful country? What could you do where you have the chance to meet so many folks?

"Whether it's working with an entire community to create new jobs, or working with one person to solve their problem, it's the best job anyone could have.

"We've raised our family in West Texas and hope our grandchildren can look forward to a bright future in our state.

"Kathy and I would truly appreciate your support in this election. We've worked as hard as we know how to do right by people. We're prepared to keep on working for the people.

"I hope that's good enough to earn your support."

Alkek Elementary School talent show scheduled Friday in BHS auditorium

The Alkek Elementary School will host its annual talent show featuring students from kindergarten through fifth grade Friday, March 6, at the Bandera High School auditorium beginning at 7 p.m.

The theme will be "Hooray for Hollywood," reports director Carla Lukaschik.

The 15th annual elementary school talent show will feature 53 acts with 186 kindergarten through fifth grade students.

Acts include the Danger Zone doing a gymnastic routine, four Teen-age Mutant Ninja Turtles, singing Ghostbusters, a gymnastic routine to "Great Balls of Fire," a little "Miss Shirley Temple" singing "Lollipop," a ballet dance to "Greensleeves," and a girl to sing, "Ain't gonna rain no more," said Lukaschik.

Tickets are $1 for adults, 50 cents for junior high and high school. Elementary students and very young children are free.

County treasurers meet in Bandera

The Capitol Hill Country County Treasurers Association met in Bandera Wednesday, Feb. 19, with Bandera County Treasurer Elizabeth James and her deputies as hosts.

Treasurers and their deputies from Region 7 participating in the seminar were from Blanco, Burnet, Comal, Gillespie, Kendall, Llano, Mason, Medina, Real, and Wilson Counties.

Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer welcomed the group to Bandera and Mason County Treasurer Jane Hoerster gave the invocation. John Fuller and Johnny Haire from the County Affairs Section of the Attorney General's office in Austin presented an overview on recent legislation pertaining to county governments, including the effects of Senate Bill 3 on general fund revenue, drug testing for county employees, tax matters, donations to counties, payroll regulations.

When the group reconvened after lunch, Robert L. Ross and Allen Hulings, vice-president of Kemper Securities Group, Inc., spoke on opportunities for public funds management and also warned of the disadvantages of some investment proposals being offered to counties.

Katy Gilmore, Burnet County Treasurer, was selected by Region 7 as the nominee for the 1992 Outstanding County Treasurer's award.

The next area meeting for Region 7 County Treasurers will be held in New Braunfels Aug. 19 with Comal County Treasurer R.A. "Bart" Bartholomew as host.

The Cabaret closes its doors

The finest honky-tonk and dance hall in Bandera County is closed.

The Cabaret, the place of Hank Thompson, Willie Nelson, and the illustrious American Cancer Society dances, is no more as the building is ready to be sold.

According to Mike Tarr, one of the leasers, owner Dr. Cal Chapman Sr. said he was ready or sell the building.

"And we weren't really interested in re-leasing," said Tarr.

Tarr said he had put all the money he had into it and so did he (Chapman)," but they couldn't make a go of it.

Tarr blamed high overhead and insufficient traffic to keep the doors open.

JOSE OBIEDO HERRERA

King Royal circus to perform

Tickets for the King Royal [illegible] appear at Bandera's Mansfield Park Sunday, March 15, are available at Janett's, The Mercantile, Bandera EconoLodge and the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce office.

Performances are scheduled [illegible]

The King Royal Circus is the same circus that performed in Bandera two years ago.

Tickets are available through Saturday, March 14, at $6 for adults and $4 for children.

Tickets at the gate Sunday afternoon will be $8 for adults and $6 for children.

Elephants, trapeze artist, aerial ladder performer, jungle cats and clowns will make their appearance.

The chamber is sponsoring the return of the circus.

Male stripper at Cabaret dance 'wasn't hired for wedding'

The parties that employed the male stripper to perform at the Bandera Volunteer Fire Department Sweetheart Society's Valentine's Dance Feb. 14 was not part of a wedding that was performed there that night, the couple and attendants each said this week.

The president of the Bandera Unit of the ACS was quoted in last week's Bulletin complaining about the dancer's presence at the party and said the newlyweds [illegible] did.

Actually, it was a third party that employed him. The Bulletin has learned, and someone connected with [illegible] the time the male stripper began to peel. The persons or persons that did invite the stripper to perform have not come forward, and The Bulletin decided it would not to identify them unless they voluntarily come forward.

Book fair set at BJHS

Books will be available for sale Monday through Thursday, March 9-12 during a student book fair at Bandera Junior high School.

"By encouraging their children to make a selection, parents will foster student interest in reading and in building home libraries," said librarian Patsy Small. "It also will provide a contribution to the library as all profits will be used to purchase new books."

A title list with prices will be distributed to students, and payment may be made by checks payable to Bandera Independent School District.

Sea World of Texas in San Antonio, the world's largest marine-life park, will reopen on weekends only starting Saturday, March 7. As a Spring Break special, Sea World will be open daily March 16-22, then return to weekend operation until summer. Above, youngsters look on as Sea World of Texas senior animal trainer Diane McHugh interacts with beluga (or white) whales at the park's whale and dolphin stadium, where the world's largest collection of belugas will appear in a new show this year.

Your Basic Bandera

Peggy Tobin

Driving across Highway 90 from Austin to Fredericksburg this past week, we felt all the bittersweet emotions of springtime— the exhilaration upon seeing redbud pink and laurel lavender beginning to emerge in the grey-white landscape mixed with the realization that some living things will not be coming back for another green round of summer.

Gillespie County still has the large flocks of sheep grazing on oatfields which used to characterize the countryside in Bandera County. Upon arriving home, we were faced with a dramatic illustration of one of the reasons people have had to go out of the sheep business here, namely, the increase in the subdivision of historic ranches and the consequent increase in a population of new residents who do not take responsibility for the behavior of their dogs.

Four years ago, Speedy Hutcheson acquired for us four bred ewes. The idea was that this little token bunch of fine-wool sheep would keep the pecan orchard free of weeds along with symbolizing a long-held family interest in the sheep business reaching all the way back to Guadaloo Mountain in County Cork, Ireland.

The ewes had their lambs, we kept back the females and acquired a sturdy buck from Abel Herrera, who moved to Austin and no longer needed him. Werner Lindig was nice enough to come shear our small herd, and mutton lambs went to market. The orchard looked good.

The big mistake was made in opening the lane from the orchard this winter to let the bunch, now numbering ten, come up into the corral to water rather than drink from a metal tub formerly rigged up in the three acre pecan plot. Our quiet neighborhood seemed safe.

The other morning, there was a riotous sound of barking. Don and Phil found Abel's ram backed into a corner of the pen, bravely trying to free himself from the jaws of a large black dog, firmly clamped on to his bleeding nose. Nearby, three other nondescript canines were piling onto ewes, shaking them by their noses or ripping at their legs. One ewe already lay dying along with two yearlings. Two of the lambs born last month were already dead.

There are five survivors, limping, still bleeding from their faces, scarcely able to walk about to drink, graze or nibble from the hot feed with which we're trying to restore their strength and will to live. Only one new lamb, now an orphan, was unhurt.

The murderer dogs, who were killing just for the fun of it, are probably somebody's dear little pets or noble guards. They sped off like the drive-by human gangs of city streets and so far have not been apprehended. Their owners no doubt do not realize what their irresponsibility is doing to destroy an old economic base and a cultural tradition of the hill country— livestock raising. It is ironic that most of them probably moved here because they enjoy the ranch atmosphere now being killed off. Literally.

From now on, our remnant herd will have to be kept locked up in the orchard and never let out to eat any green grass elsewhere. Isn't that wrong somehow? The law says that DOGS must be kept penned up.

State treasurer's list for unclaimed money includes 49 from Bandera County area

Forty-nine persons and businesses from Bandera County are among those listed on the state treasurers list of persons with money in the state's unclaimed money fund.

They have $50 or more in checking and savings accounts, utility deposits, oil royalties and stocks turned over to the state treasury because their owners cannot be located.

Bank accounts which have been dormant for a year or more and in three years or more, for example, are called "inactive" and reported to the treasurery.

More than 10,000 names are on the list that was published in major newspapers over the weekend. People and businesses on the list have more than one coming to them, if they can be located.

Last year more than $50 million was returned.

Persons who find their name on the list should call 1-800-654-3463 to receive instructions on how to claim their money.

Bandera people on the list include Helen Ruby Abbott, Peter Barnett, Gregory L. Bass, Floyd Isaacks, Robert E. Johnston, William P. Jordan, John H. Lieck, Loyd Edgar, Irma O. Mason and Carol A. Mayorga.

Also, J.D. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Montgomery, Governor P. Plummer, Mrs. Roy L. Renschler, Robert Gonzales Patinting, Oliver C. Sentrunk, Ofren A. Stevens, Lewis Storms, Charles Wyatt S., and Leticia Ybarra.

Lakehills people include Joseph E. Burns, Jane A. [illegible], Gertrude Zoller.

Kerrville's Lions Camp uses 'horse therapy'

"Horses are good therapy for everyone," says Stephen Mabry, horsemanship supervisor at the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville.

People, young and old, have a special fascination with horses [illegible] of the partnership between a horse and rider, Mabry says.

"Children can learn many of life's lessons by working with horses, lessons such as responsibility, self-confidence, patience, coordination, teamwork – all while having fun," he explains.

Beginning March 16, the Texas Lions Camp will resume western horsemanship classes for children aged 5 to 14 years. Private lessons are available for those 14 years of age and older.

This year, a new program will begin in which students may elect to be tested under Camp Horsemanship Association standards and be certified as a beginner or advanced rider based on their skill level. A certificate and patch will be awarded to recognize the students' accomplishments, says camp spokeswoman Charla Bierschwale.

The camp will also offer a stable management course for children. "I have met many parents who wish to buy a horse for their child, but want to make sure both the horse and the child have a good experience," says Mabry.

The stable management course is specifically designed for kids who either own or wish to own a horse and want to know more about its care.

Children will either be assigned a horse or may board their own horse at the camp. Subjects include horse nutrition, grooming, detecting health problems, minor first aid, and the "how tos" of safely haltering and leading a horse.

They will also compile their own horse management calendar to help them in learning parasite and vaccination schedules.

Mabry holds four certifications to teach western English, therapeutic horsemanship and stable management from the CHA, the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association, and the Chaff Foundation in Augusta, Mich.

Classes are limited to four riders per class and are filling quickly, says Bierschwale. For more information or to register, call Mabry at (512) 896-8500.

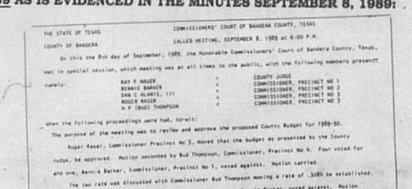
TRUTH AND ACCURACY ARE STILL IMPORTANT!!

Negative and untruthful advertising by COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER'S OPPONENTS needs to be corrected. Their advertisement said that COMMISSIONER BARKER voted for one of the largest property tax increases in six years...

THE TRUTH?? COMMISSIONER BARKER HAS VOTED AGAINST PROPERTY TAX INCREASES EVERY YEAR SINCE HE HAS BEEN IN OFFICE, BECAUSE HE BELIEVES THAT THROUGH ELIMINATION OF DUPLICATION AND IMPLEMENTATION OF OTHER COST SAVING MEASURES, WE CAN BE SPARED FROM THE ANNUAL INCREASES.

• COMMISSIONER BARKER VOTED AGAINST THE INCREASE IN 1989 AS IS EVIDENCED IN THE MINUTES SEPTEMBER 8, 1989:



THE STATE OF TEXAS — COMMISSIONERS' COURT OF BANDERA COUNTY, TEXAS

On this the 8th day of September, 1989, the Honorable Commissioners' Court of Bandera County, Texas, met in special session, which meeting was at all times in the public, with the following members present, namely:

Ray F. Mauer	-	County Judge
Bennie Barker	-	COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO 1
Dan C. Alanis, III	-	COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO 2
Roger Raser	-	COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO 3
W. F. (Bud) Thompson	-	COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO 4
and
Vera Kirg	-	County Clerk

When the following proceedings were had, to-wit:

The purpose of the meeting was to review and approve the proposed County Budget for 1989-90.

Roger Raser, Commissioner Precinct No 3, moves that the budget as presented by the County Judge, be approved. Motion seconded by Bud Thompson, Commissioner, Precinct No 4. Four voted for and one, Bennie Barker, Commissioner, Precinct No 1, voted against. Motion carried.

The tax rate was discussed with Commissioners and Bud Thompson moving a rate of .3686 be established. Seconded by Commissioner Dan Alanis. Four voted for, one, Bennie Barker, voted against. Motion carried.

No opposition from the floor. The meeting adjourned at 6:30 P.M.

Silver Sage Corral

Manuel Flores

The Silver Sage Corral's great plant, food and arts and crafts sale will be held Saturday, March 7, at the center.

Homemade pies, cakes and other pastries will be available starting at 9 a.m. The plant [illegible] will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Char-broiled hamburgers will be served from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Don't be confused with all the times scheduled for each of the activities. Come and spend the day with us and you won't miss anything.

If you have, or intend to donate plants, please have them at the center before noon Friday. This will give us time to sort, price and display all of our plants before the crowd gets to the center Saturday.

If you plan to donate a cake or pie please have it at the center by 8 a.m. Saturday.

If you have any questions please call the center at 796-4969.

•The Silver Sage Corral will host the monthly meeting of the Volunteer Service Council based in Kerrville Tuesday, March 10. On this day we plan to have a number of activities going on before and after the meeting.

The Melodiers and AutoAngels will sing and play prior to the meeting, the board of directors will be on hand to [illegible] brief explanation of the services provided by the center, the weavers will be weaving, the artists will be painting, and the list goes on and on.

If you want to visit the center during all of this merriment, please feel free to do so. And yes, there will be refreshments [illegible].

•We would like to take this opportunity to thank Pat Terr and her son Mike.

During the time they operated the Cabaret, they were very supportive of the Silver Sage Corral by donating the facilities for our annual benefit dance and donated the cover charges collected at a style show to the center. It is rewarding to know that we have people like this in our community. We would like to wish them both the very best in whatever endeavor they undertake.

•A tip of our Easter bonnet to Grace Wootton for her contribution to the center.

Grey Forest senior citizens get free garbage pick-up service

Senior citizens in the Grey Forest area near Helotes will now have free garbage pick up, according to a recent report in the Echo.

According to the story, the Grey Forest city council unanimously approved the ordinance that gives free garbage pick up to citizens over 65, replacing a previous ordinance that allowed senior citizens who earned less than $6,000 a year to pay only half of the monthly garbage pick-up charges. The new ruling does away with income requirements.

Ceramic workshop in black firing set

The Hill Country Arts Foundation will offer a ceramic workshop in black firing earthenware in the spring.

The three-day workshop, Black Firing Ceramics, will be taught by Jerome Langston Friday through Sunday, April 3-5, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuition is $80 plus a supply fee.

Langston will introduce primitive clay work to all levels of adult ceramic artists. The first day will also include pot design and construction. The second day, the artist will learn the techniques of sanding, burnishing, and carving in decoration. These pieces will be pit-fired with dung, wood and sawdust on the final day.

Langston is a craftsman working in ceramics, sculpture and jewelry in his Kerrville studio. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in art from an Oklahoma university.

The workshop will be held at the HCAF's Duncan-McAshan Visual Arts Center on State Highway 39 west outside Ingram.

Call Betty Vernon or Shirley Bell at 512-367-5121 for more information.

The HCAF is a non-profit visual and performing arts educational organization.

Art at SA museum

"Still Life with Fruit and Sliced Lemon," considered a major 19th century American still life painting by artist Severin Roesen, went on display at the San Antonio Museum of Art on March 2 as the museum's featured item of the month.

It will remain on display through April 3.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

An English statesman once said, " Almost everything that is great has been done by youth"...Agree or disagree? Read the list below and make up your own mind...

* Mozart was 8 when he composed his first symphony...Cervantes completed 'Don Quixote' when he was nearing 70...
* Albert Einstein published his first articles on the theory of relativity when he was 26...Verdi composed 'Othello' at 73...
* Alexander Graham Bell patented the telephone when he was 29...George Bernard Shaw wrote his famous drama 'Saint Joan' at 67...
* Jane Addams founded Hull House when she was 29...Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross at 59...
* John Keats wrote most of his best-known poems when he was 23...Benjamin Disraeli became Prime Minister of England for the second time at 70. AND he's the one who said, "Almost everything that is great has been done by youth!"

After reading this list one might tend to support Disraeli's theory, but there's proof, too, that no one should have to apologize for being over 30!

Archbishop to dedicate St. Victor's new building

The Archbishop Partick F. Flores of San Antonio will preside at ceremonies Sunday to consecrate the new building at St. Victor's Catholic Chapel in Lakehills.

Flores will be the celebrant of the mass beginning at noon Sunday, March 8, at the chapel on Park Road 37. Also with Flores, will be the Msgr. Michael McManus, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Charles Blasen, who regularly conducts services at the church.

A covered dish dinner will be served at 1 p.m. in the church's dining/fellowship hall afterwards, says church spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann.

"All friends and neighbors are invited to attend the celebration," says Hartmann. Those attending should bring a covered dish to be shared at Church members bought an old barracks last year and have been converting it into a Sunday School building over the past several months.

CCD classes have begun to use the building.

Fish business booming at Bob's Cove

Who would expect the crowds at a lake front camp to be better in the middle of winter than on Labor Day?

Not too many folks, but Bob's Cove owner Ralph Lehmann loves it, as for the last three weekends, crowds have packed the Lakehills campground.

"It was better last weekend than it was last Labor Day weekend," says Lehmann.

"The big difference is the lake coming up."

Water continues to flow over the spillway at the Medina Dam at just under one foot above the 1072-foot line, keeping the Medina Lake full.

Most of Lehmann's customers have been fishermen. Some bring boats and some take advantage of the lighted fishing piers at the camp. "They fish off the bank where they camp out."

Fish being caught include black bass around 2 1/2 pounds, 1 1/2-pound crappies, and three- to four-pound stripers. Catfish and white bass are being caught, reports Lehmann.

The white bass are being caught between Goat Hills Estates and Bob's Cove.

Stripers are being caught, mostly in very deep water.

The black bass and crappie are responding to minnows, yellow- and white-tail spinners and Rattletraps, says Lehmann. The stripers are hitting on the deep-diving Rattletraps.

Lehmann says fishermen are having luck off the shore, as the grass and other foliage that was growing on the dry lake bottom that had been exposed to the air for so long is attracting fish to the "shallower waters.

While the water was down last year, Lehmann says he had a bulldoser brought in to "cut the cove" to make the cove deeper. "This way, when the water goes down (in the future), there will still be water in the cove." Water in the cove is now 30-feet deep.

The deeper cove will allow his 20-stall marina to remain in the cove when the lake level goes down.

But as the rain continues, the springs expel water and the creeks flow, it might be awhile before the lake goes down appreciably.

And as long as there is plenty of water, there will be plenty of people.

"I've seen more people in the last two weeks. It looks like it was back in the 1970s.

"It's going to be one hell of a good year."

New water company planned in PC subdivision

After years of struggling with low water pressure, residents of the Medina River Ranch and Rio Rancheros subdivisions south of Pipe Creek will be looking to better service from a new subdivision water company.

The Blue Medina Water Supply Corporation, headed by president Rex A. Homeyer Jr., has applied to the Texas Water Commission to transfer the water supply certificate, i.e., license, from the Rio Vista Water Company to the Blue Medina Water Supply Corporation.

The Rio Vista Water Company has been headed by subdivision developer Calvin Vick.

The water company will provide water supply service with the existing lines and wells "with some modification," a complete new board of directors and a paid bookkeeper.

There will be no public hearing on the matter, unless someone requests such a hearing from the Texas Water Commission.

Vick has been under pressure from state agencies to improve the water system or turn it over to someone else.

Legion's SOS cookoff picks up more entries

Entries and booths for the Lakehills American Legion chili cook-off Saturday, March 14.

Two booths have already been rented: the Medina Lake Shrine Club will serve polotaces — Polish sausage in flour tortilla and the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will host a dessert booth, offering homemade pies and cakes.

The rent for a booth will be $15.

The Legion is particularly looking for game booths, says co-chairman Tony Kruse. "Contact us early to get your choice of a site."

The Medina Lake Shrine Club will also cook chili. Joanne Wallace will take charge as chief cook of the Shrine club's entry. "She won second place in the S.O.S. cook-off two years ago," says Kruse.

Brian Hutcherson will cook "B&B Chili."

The cook-off starts at 10 a.m.

Entry fee for cooks is $10.

To reserve a space as a cook or a booth, contact co-chairman George Driffill at 751-3556 or Kruse at 751-2121.

Medina Lake AARP to sponsor '55 Alive' driving course March 19-20

The Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will sponsor a "55 Alive" driving class for all motorists age 50 or over.

June Settlemeyer will teach the class Thursday and Friday, March 19-20, at the Lakehills United Methodist Church.

"You must attend both days," says Settlemeyer.

The eight-hour classroom refresher consists of six separate sessions given as three session each day.

Session one is an overview that describes the characteristics of the driver age 55 and over. Group discussion centers on driving frustrations and the effects of aging on individual driving behavior.

Session two discusses unrecognized, but normal losses in vision, hearing and reaction time as they relate to driving performance.

Session three concentrates on the basic rules of driving including right-of-way at intersections, road signs and pavement markings.

Discussion in the second day relates to interaction with traffic, safety belts, adverse driving conditions including night, inclement weather, and rush hour.

Also covered is RVs, pedestrians, animals, and motorcycles.

Call Settlemeyer at 751-2297 to enroll in the class or for more information.

Market has takers

The St. Victor's Chapel flea market, scheduled for May 2, already has some takers.

Church spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann reports that the church has already rented four tables and one booth at the market, even though the church's altar society, the sponsor of the market, has not started promotion yet.

Election watch set Tuesday at Legion

The Lakehills American Legion hall will hold a election watch Tuesday, March 10, the day of the presidential primary.

Doors will open at 6 p.m. and the Legion will have a tote board for local election results and a television for national results.

"Be sure to get out there and vote for the candidates of your choice. Exercise your right to vote," says spokesman Tony Kruse.

Persons attending the watch should brings some munchies to share.

Ranch to conduct subdivision meeting

The MedinaRiver Ranch Association will conduct a meeting Saturday, March 7, at the home of association president Ralph Raby.

Members will first assemble at the entrance to the subdivision on FM Road 1283 and River Trail at 9 a.m. to work on the quarterly highway litter pickup.

The association meeting will follow at 2 p.m. at Raby's home, less than 1/2 mile into the subdivision on River Trail.

Mark and Kelly Roark

Kelly Kindla, Mark Roark married in Nov. 9 ceremony

Kelly Ann Kindla and Mark Roark were married Nov. 9 at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church in Bandera by the Rev. Michael McManus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kindla of Bandera and the groom is the son of Barbara Roark of Spring and Roger Roark of Houston.

Given by her father in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white satin, schiffli lace, pearls and iridescent sequins. The fitted, dropped-waist beaded bodice was adorned with a sheer panel of tulle from the satin to the high neck of lace, pearls and sequins, which then flowed into an open back, edged with lace, to the waist. The full lamb sleeves were appliqued with lace and pearls. The full circle skirt flowed into a full-length train edged with lace, with lace cutouts with sheer tulle, pearls and sequins. Her crown-shaped headpiece of floral silk and satin flowers, pearl sprays and tulle veil was designed and made by her sister Suzanne Tonne and Ellen Tonne.

The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, purple and white iris, baby's breath and green ivy draping down the middle with a greenery background.

Music was provided by organist Sherry Jones and vocalist Leslie Blasing, both of Hondo.

Scripture readings were by Mary Ann Kruckmeyer of Austin, grandmother of the bride; Raymond Batto of Bandera; and David M. Pomerinke of Bandera. Eric Weich of Bandera and Laura Clark of San Antonio, cousins of the bride, presented the offertory gifts.

The bride's mother wore a purple street-length suit, and the groom's mother wore a teal blue tea-length dress.

Attending the bride were sister of the bride Suzanne Tonne, matron of honor, of Hondo; bridesmaids Valarie Holland of Galveston; cousin of the bride Toni Kunz of Bandera; sister of the bride Patricia Kindla of Austin; Mindy Pomerinke of Lamesa; and Stephanie Cordova of Fort Stockton. Alley Duennenburg of Boerne was flower girl.

The bride's attendants were iridescent purple taffeta floor-length dresses styled with an off-the shoulder shawl collar and a V-dropped waist. A necklace of white pearls with a tear-drop of diamonds was their gift from the bride. Each bridesmaid carried long-stemmed pink gladiolas and purple statice tied with iridescent purple and green ribbon. The flolwer girl carried a basket of the same flowers.

Attending the groom were best man Michael Martin of Spring; groomsamen Michael Hadwin of Spring; Craig Morrisey of Houston; Raymond Ramirez of Pecos; Preston Dyess of Houston; and Jeffrey Tonne of Hondo. Bradley Wheeler of Austin was ring bearer.

Ushers were brothers of the bride Keith Kindla of Austin and Bryce Kindla of Bandera; and Kelly Minyard of Austin.

The groom wore a white evening tuxedo and tails with matching accessories. His attendants, ushers and father of the bride all wore matching black tuxedos and accessories.

Vicky Cantrell of Austin registered the guests; Toni Batto of Bandera and Bernie Batto of Jourdanton presided over the bride's table, and Gigi Hadwin and Lori Pierucci of Houston presided over the groom's table. Sharron Moreau and Elizabeth Batto of Bandera presided over the cheese table.

The bride's cake was spice with cream cheese filling and frosting and was four tiers with light green sweet peas as the floral decoration with white icing ruffles. The groom's cake was a white cake decorated with chocolate frosting.

After a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas, the couple is living in Alice.

Local students recognized for American history essays

Local DAR chapter sends them to district competition

Three American history essays by Bandera County elementary students were submitted [illegible] by the Bandera County chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

[illegible] competition were recognized by the DAR recently, said DAR American History Month committee chairwoman Ruth Ann Tips.

Medina fifth grader Natalie Green, Bandera fifth grader Rachel Diane Payne, and Alkek sixth grader Melissa Wilson wrote about famous women of the American Revolution.

In Green's essay, she described Deborah Sampson's [illegible] Washington's army.

"Sampson was a farm girl who was taken from her poverty-ridden home and indentured to a kindly farmer. Since she worked on the farm so much, Deborah became very strong and muscled up," wrote Green.

"Deborah was a very patriotic person who regretted she did not have the opportunity to shed blood for her country."

[illegible] using the name Robert Shurtleff to enlist in the war May, [illegible]

"When Robert/Deborah was wounded the first time, she went into a cave where she [illegible] unseen."

"In June 1782 Robert/Deborah was hospitalized with a fever and the doctor found out she was a woman."

She was honorably discharged from the army. "In 1805, the U.S. Congress awarded Deborah Sampson a pension because of her military services and her wounds.

"I think Deborah would have like being alive today because she could have fought in a war [illegible] look like a man.

"I think it taught our country a lesson that women have just as much right to fight as men do."

In Payne's essay, she describes another woman at the frontlines during the American Revolution.

Payne wrote that patriotic Molly Pitcher, then Molly Ludwig, married John Hays when she was 15 and when John joined George Washington [illegible] army, they were not about to let the war keep them apart, so Molly Hays went with [illegible]

At the Battle of Monmouth, she was taking pitchers of water to the soldiers, [illegible] knocked down by the blast of a cannon shot, and when she returned with more water, she found her husband had fallen from the heat of the sun and the cannon,he was firing.

"Molly soaked a rag with cool water from the pitcher and tied it around his head," wrote Payne.

"After that Molly, took John's place firing the cannon.

"When the cannon was fired she burned her hands on the hot metal. She was also coughing from the gasses that spewed from the cannon whenever it fired.

"No matter how tired she was, she would not give up.

"Finally darkness came and the shooting stopped. The Battle of Monmouth was over, the British fled during the night.

"When George Washington heard of Molly's bravery, he made her a sergeant in the army and pinned a badge of honor on her. From that day on, she was known as Molly 'Pitcher'.

"Many times in school, we [illegible] history who were great heroes. We also must remember that [illegible] showed bravery in all the wars of this country."

Wilson's essay described the black poet Phyllis Wheatley, who was a slave in Boston during the American Revolution.

Phyllis became a slave at the age of eight when she was brought from Africa.

Wheatley was the slave of John and Mary Wheatley, who encouraged her to learn to read and write, "study hard and to learn as much as she could.

"Phyllis was anxious to learn and would spend hours studying geography, history and Latin by candlelight.

"Phyllis began writing poetry at about the age of 13 or 14. One of her first poems was about her African heritage. Phyllis also wrote many poems on various other topics, many dealing with the (American) Revolution."

Her first book of poems was published in 1773 in London when she was about 20 years of age.

"During the revolution, many people felt America should have been named Columbia after the explorer Christopher Columbus. Phyllis was the first of many poets from the original 13 colonies to use the name Columbia to describe the new nation that was to become the United States."

The essays will be further judged at district level. If tghey pass the muster at district, essays can be advanced to state and national competition.

"Last year, one of the Alkek students' essays placed fourth in state," said Tips.

★★ OOPS, THEY ARE DOING IT AGAIN!! ★★

As the March 10 Primary election draws near, COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER'S opponents increase the negative and misleading advertising.

The latest one states that "we can work together for the good of the entire precinct--and Bandera County, too--when we finally rise above petty politics. Let's put an end to the bickering and NOW!"

COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER has been working toward that same goal ever since he has been in office!! COMMISSIONER BARKER has the political courage to stand up to special interests.

The "fly in the ointment" occurs each year when COMMISSIONER BARKER, with the tenacity and determination of a pit bull, pushes for equal distribution of the Road and Bridge funds for all precincts.

COMMISSIONER BARKER does not think it is fair for Pct. #2 to receive over $2,000 per mile for road maintenance while the remaining precincts get an average of only $1,000 per mile.

COMMISSIONER BARKER intends to continue pushing for fair distribution of funds for all precincts. If that is "bickering" to some folks who have benefitted from the uneven distribution of funds in the past, then we need more of it to protect our interests rather than sitting like a puppet on a string and letting someone take our share of badly needed funds.

Another part of their negative and misleading advertising states that "Quality decisions to provide quality services for all our taxpayers...not just for select areas" will be provided.

COMMISSIONER BARKER has been doing that also. With 140 miles of roads in the old precinct, over 10 miles have been paved in a broad coverage of the precinct in the short time the county has had use of their own paving equipment. There has been paving in Wharton's Dock, Lower Mason Creek, Bandera Ranch Acres, Bandera River Ranch, River Oaks, Deer Run, Madrona Ranch and Castle Lake. The schedule has been revised to include areas in the new precinct one and COMMISSIONER BARKER is predicting that all major traffic areas should be paved at the end of the next 4-year term.

At least COMMISSIONER BARKER HAS A PLAN AND A GOAL. It may vary because he has said "the good Lord determines the weather and thus our progress, " but COMMISSIONER BARKER has a good start. PLEASE SUPPORT COMMISSIONER BARKER IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ON MARCH 10. COMMISSIONER BARKER'S opponents don't have a plan, only negative criticism. RE-ELECT A FULL-TIME, EXPERIENCED COMMISSIONER that does not have a private business to run or a bone to pick with our school district and our schools. RE-ELECT BENNIE BARKER, COUNTY COMMISSIONER OF PRECINCT ONE IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION ON MARCH 10!!

TSONGAS
FOR PRESIDENT

TO THE VOTERS OF BANDERA COUNTY:

I am writing to personally ask for your support of Senator Paul Tsongas for President of the United States. Mr. Tsongas served in Congress with my husband and we know him to be a man of the highest integrity and intelligence. He is a pro-business Democrat whose economic conservatism is balanced by progressive stands on the social issues facing us today.

For three days I travelled with Mr. and Mrs. Tsongas and their children in New Hampshire. During those many hours together both in public and in private, I became increasingly convinced that I was in the presence of a truly exceptional man.

His vision for America, his tough stands on the economy, his spirituality and keen intellect set him apart from any other candidate in the race.

America is a nation called to greatness, Let us not settle for mediocrity. Please cast your vote for Paul Tsongas.

Thank You.

Commissioners keep second audit, discount call for investigation

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners reiterated their call for a second audit of the sheriff's drug funds Tuesday, but discussed the need for an investigation as requested by [illegible] petition.

But in action Tuesday, the audit, which will be conducted for the three years of the drug fund instead of just the last one, will conducted by the county auditor, not an outside [illegible]

As a second thought measure, prompted by at least two [illegible] rehashed with Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest and his attorney, [illegible] keeping in the sheriff's cash seizure fund and the way the sheriff bought large ticket items with the money in the fund.

The county auditor, Tommy Tomlinson, county attorney [illegible] and assistant county attorney Robert Stubbeman were also present along with several [illegible] County sheriff's deputies and constables.

[illegible] mously to deny the part of the petition that called for an investigation by the Texas Rangers or the state attorney general's office. Last week Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer said the request for the investigation would be tabled until after audit.

Commissioner Bennie Barker was one of the commissioners who called for renewing the matter. "The petition contains hearsay and the (commissioners) court doesn't need to spend time on it.

"I don't see anything worth messing with," said Barker. "We need to put the matter to rest."

Commissioner Roger Raser, who said Tuesday that, he too, wanted to reexamine the need for an audit and investigation. He said the audit conducted by the county auditor showed no wrong doing, just some bookkeeping problems that needed to be corrected.

But Raser did not lean on the petition signers, either. "I don't think there's a need for an investigation if we don't have an audit that shows a problem.

"They (the petitioners) are honest in their request."

Commissioner N.P. "Bud" Thompson said he failed to see any wrongdoing on the sheriff's part, but if the petition signers wished to pursue the matter, they should contact the Texas Rangers or the attorney general themselves.

Only commissioner Dan Alaniz was more cautious. "We already voted to perform an audit. We could take the auditor's suggestions and make it (his results of the expanded audit) part of the public record."

Commissioners voted to take Tomlinson up on his suggestion to get a county employee, either from the courthouse or the sheriff's office, to go over all the sheriff's drug fund records, make a list of receipts and expenditures, have Tomlinson review them, and then record the receipts and expenditures in a document in the county clerk's office for public inspection to clear up any questions.

Tomlinson, whose audit only concerned the 1990-91 fiscal year, will perform an audit from the beginning of the start of sheriff's drug fund, in fiscal 1988-89.

"The public wants to know where the revenue came from and what it was spent for."

Once the work is complete, it will be available for anyone to look at."

[illegible] cated as the county will have to obtain copies of the 1988-90 records seized by the Department of Public Safety in connection with the arrest of former Bandera County chief deputy Ted Brooks on drug charges.

White, a former U.S. assistant attorney, said the copies of those records could be obtained from U.S. assistant attorney Charlie Straus' office.

Tomlinson said he reported some invoices "missing" because, while he found purchase orders to account for all the money, he did not find an accompanying invoice to show someone actually took the money. "I can't say the funds were used only for law enforcement purposes. The purchase order said it was for law enforcement purposes, but there was no third party invoice to back up the purchase."

Tomlinson said that if he found definite wrongdoing when auditing, he would go to the commissioners and the DA. "My first stop will be the district attorney's office if something is wrong."

Darden and White battled over the legality of the purchase of the sheriff's patrol cars two years ago and the purchase of a $21,000 recording machine recently.

Darden said he had seen no evidence that the sheriff had sought competitive bids, as required when county funds are used to purchase an item of $15,000 or more, even the drug money.

White contended that since the district attorney was ultimately responsible for the funds and the intent of the asset forfeiture law "under which the sheriff has been operating, competitive bidding was not needed.

The sheriff revealed that in the case of the $21,000 recording machine, he avoided going through the commissioners to avoid controversy and that the purchase had been conducted through a state agency, who had sought three bids.

The sheriff also contended that he had received oral bids on the police cruisers that he bought from Thoroughbred Chevrolet. "The DA told me I didn't have to get three written bids," said Forest.

"The sheriff went out and got the best deal for the county," said White.

Tomlinson recommended that in the future the sheriff "should go beyond what is legal. Maintain a set of [illegible] from arising.

"Even though the investigation side of the petition was denied, the county may still call for an investigation depending on the outcome of the re-audit. "If we find a discrepancy, then we'd be obliged to investigate," said Mauer.

Mauer had set an executive session on Tuesday's agenda to discuss in an attorney-client mode how the commissioners should proceed concerning the audit and the possible investigation, the attorney being Darden and the client being the commissioners.

White, in a letter to Mauer, said the sheriff wanted nothing to be discussed behind closed doors.

[illegible] current issue didn't meet any of the three requirements of the open meetings law that allows a secret session.

[illegible] cussions can only be held behind closed doors when it applies to current litigation. The sheriff's drug fund is not currently before any court.

Susie Armstrong brought the petition containing 370 signatures to commissioners Feb. 24.

Armstrong said the petition was started due to an article in the Bandera Bulletin about the missing invoices in the sheriff's drug fund, the county auditor's report (which the article was based), and because some purchases by the sheriff's department were made without competitive bidding.

"The Big Picture," Christian Operetta, will be presented at the Walker Memorial Chapel Sunday, March 8, at 5:30 p.m. by the youth choir from the Kirby Baptist church.

The Rev. Ken Brown believes that this will be their first presentation in Bandera County.

The Big Picture is a youth musical about God's providence, featuring the music of Michael W. Smith.

After the program there will be refreshments served in the fellowship hall.

The public is invited to attend.

•After hearing so much about youth gangs, it would be a pleasure to hear a youth gang that is in the form of a church choir.

•The First-Saturday-of-the-Month Community Dinner resumes at the Copper Lantern after a two month absence.

Barbecued chicken and beans will be furnished. Persons are asked to bring a covered side dish. Serving will start at 7:30 p.m.

•The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department quarterly general membership meeting will be called to order at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 7, at the fire house on Wharton's Dock Road.

•All meetings are important, but with the agenda that is scheduled makes this one an important one. Refreshments are expected to be served.

•A small group of home owners of the Lake Medina Shores and Wharton's Dock area gathered at the Lake Medina Shores pavilion at the lake to discuss issues in the community Wednesday, Feb. 26.

Many things were discussed and suggestions were made to enhance the public image of the area.

Ideas on how to support the local VFD and the small church in the area. Also, how to have the community get-togethers on the various national holidays.

All agreed that the area is growing and we need to know each other better.

•The Wharton's Dock Lounge reopened Feb. 29 as Happy's Wharton Dock. The grand opening is currently set for March 21.

They plan on having a limited supply of staple goods, such as milk, bread and an assortment of canned goods. They will open at 6:30 a.m. to serve breakfast for the early risers.

Happy says that the locale will be a family-oriented and will be available for birthdays, parties, weddings, and whatever.

The Hildenburg's granddaughter, Valorie Sharp, came to see Grandma and Grandpa for a few days. She had recently returned from Hawaii to San Antonio. They had not seen each other for over two years.

•Perry Johnson was "bachelloring it" at their place in Wharton's Dock the week of Feb. 17-21 while his wife, Boota, took care of the four Jackson grandchildren in Helotes.

The grandchildren visited both Johnsons in Wharton's Dock over the Feb. 22-23 weekend. Grandson Phillip and his friend, Chris Jenson, fished off the pier and caught five bass.

•Leonard Dowleann of Wharton's Dock was transported to the Veterans Administration Memorial Hospital in Kerrville by Bandera EMS Sunday morning, March 1. Symptoms indicated a possible heart attack.

Despite the threat, the state has no funding or legislation on oak wilt

The final installment of a series.

This article is the fourth and last in a series by Susan Crawford Tracy of the Medina Committee to Stop Oak Wilt.

By the time visible symptoms of oak wilt develop in a black or Spanish oak (live oak), the fungus has already killed many of the tree's roots. Leaves, followed by rapid foliar color change), the tree has been compromised irretrievably.

The diseased tree will die, almost invariably, within a few weeks or months.

Once the tree is clearly dying, the critical action is to destroy it promptly, to eliminate the possibility that fungal mats, the source for future disease, can form under its bark a few months later.

In instances when prompt disposal of the tree by burning or burying on site is not feasible, an experimental method developed during 1991 in the Medina community may prove effective in hastening drying the wood past a point at which spores can form.

The standing tree is deep-girdled through to the white wood with an axe, effectively preventing further moisture from being drawn up into the dying tree. During the coming year, scientists will be monitoring the diseased red oaks the committee treated last year to determine the success of this simple procedure.

Do infected live oaks ever survive?

Live oaks are by nature slightly more resistant to oak wilt than the red oaks: an estimated 15 percent of infected live oaks survive the disease, although in many cases they stabilize with such a high percentage of crown loss that what remains is of little value.

In addition, chemically treating individual trees with Alamo, a trade-marked systemic fungicide that became commercially available two years ago as a prevention and treatment for oak wilt in live oaks, can significantly improve the the chances for survival of live oaks very near a spreading oak wilt center.

How effective is it?

Alamo, a propaconisole-based fungicide, might best be considered a short-term preventive vaccine, not a cure.

In the six years it has been studied, this product has proved statistically effective in reducing crown loss and mortality of live oaks subsequently infected with oak wilt, as long as they were healthy at the time of treatment.

Once a tree exhibits signs of disease (in live oaks, common symptoms of oak wilt include partial crown loss with some leaves showing veinal necrosis, the very characteristic browning from the vein outward), survival rates drop sharply. Applied at the earliest stages of infection, the chemical may save a diseased tree from total defoliation, though it cannot reverse vascular damage already caused by the fungus.

The primary value of the fungicide is that it may prevent crown loss of individual high-value trees in imminent danger of infection.

Lack of long-term research data into the possible loss of potency of the fungicide over time, the invasive nature of the treatment, and its cost (treating with Alamo costs about $3 per inch of tree diameter, plus equipment or labor costs), are factors to consider when deciding whether the treatment is appropriate.

Trees other than those directly threatened by disease may be better protected by proper maintenance (avoiding any unnecessary wounding, particularly in the spring, and immediately painting any wound with tree paint) than by injection.

It is important, too, to understand that injecting one tree with the fungicide does not stop the spread of oak wilt. A treated tree may not show symptoms, but the disease can still travel through its roots to infect adjacent trees.

How is Alamo administered?

To date, the only known way to contain a live oak infection center is by trenching mechanically severing all root connections between diseased and healthy trees, effectively preventing the underground spread of the fungus.

The Texas Forest Service, which has been using this procedure in the field over the past several years, estimates an overall success rate of better than 70 percent when trenching is accomplished according to their specifications.

The current treatment procedure involves injecting a very dilute solution of fungicide, under low pressure, into the tree's flare roots, through a series of holes drilled 3 to 6 inches apart. Landowners can contract with a professional arborist to treat their trees, or may choose to do the work themselves after first completing the required training administered by the Agricultural Extension Service.

After infection develops, how can it be stopped?

Oak wilt typically spreads through a group of live oaks through their common roots and through root grafts with nearby trees. But because wilt-infected live oaks do not form fungal mats, a live oak disease center is considered to be internally self-contained. Eventually the disease will play itself out, stopped by a broad tree-less area or other natural barrier.

To reach its natural boundaries may take years, however, with ensuing destruction as the circle of infection widens. Prompt action is essential if the potential damage of a spreading live oak infection center is to be minimized.

Simply treating individual trees with Alamo does not solve the problem, as the chemical will not prevent the oak wilt fungus from spreading to untreated adjacent trees.

Nor does just cutting down dead live oaks halt the disease. Root samples from trees killed by oak wilt have revealed isolated viable fungus from a tree dead for at least a year and a half, which indicates that portions of the root systems of infected trees within the trench area which are still healthy with disease-free connections to diseased trees within the infection circle.

Ideally, all symptomatic trees [illegible] ones beyond them toward the trench barrier should be uprooted, to further reduce the possibility of root-borne transmission past the trenching line, although few people can make the difficult decision to push over a tree which is still alive.

Technical assistance and supervision provided by staff foresters is free.

Even if a site is ineligible for cost-sharing, as, for example, [illegible] disease centers are spreading toward areas of healthy trees, trenching a circle around those healthy trees can effectively protect them from underground infection. The per-hour cost for a bulldozer with the required ripper bar is surprisingly reasonable, particularly when contrasted to the cost of dead tree removal and overall loss of property value. Some disfigurement of the land caused by upturning the soil is inevitable, but compared with the effect of a widening disease center, the effect is minor.

Are there any new developments?

Current research efforts include a search for resistant strains of live oaks, for naturally-occurring bacteria that may protect exposed trees, and for a simpler and more reliable diagnostic test to confirm the disease.

Cibe-Geigy is testing a delivery system less cumbersome than the current high-volume injection process. In addition, the company is planning to rename Alamo for distribution on a national level, for oak wilt and other fungal diseases against which it has proved effective.

As far as disease management, the Texas Forest Service remains committed to cost-sharing with landowners as part of its oak wilt suppression project, and plans to initiate a program for replanting oak wilt sites with species of trees appropriate to the region.

The Agricultural Extension Service continues to educate the public about oak wilt through seminars, newsletters and other publications; the Department of Plant Pathology at Texas A&M provides diagnostic tests for oak wilt.

Judging from current research and management directions, a breakthrough is not expected any time soon. The problem is likely to be with us in this region as long as we live.

Yet state government has provided no funding or legislation to help control it. A handful of urban neighborhoods have introduced local ordinances designed to reduce the risk of spreading the disease, limited measures that rely on volunteer compliance. Elsewhere throughout Texas, the primary responsibility for disease identification, control and prevention remains with the individual landowner. It is up to each of us to take every measure we know of to stop the spread of oak wilt.

HCAF schedules figure studies event

The Hill Country Arts Foundation announces a Figure Studies workshop to be held Monday, March 30, through Friday, April 3.

The workshop will be monitored by James Pendleton, since the class is unstructured. The types of pose and length of time, however, will be organized. "This is an opportunity for any level of artist to paint or draw from live nude models and share models' fees," says HCAF spokeswoman Betty Vernon.

Community Assembly of God Pastor Brian McClane is one of the group's advisors.

Self-esteem classes continue at Community Assembly of God

Classes designed to build self-esteem continue to be offered at the Community Assembly of God.

LeRoy Rogers instructs the classes that begin at 9:45 a.m. and conclude at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday morning

A series of five false beliefs, and how to avoid them, are a part of the self-esteem training, according to the Rev. Brian McClane. The false beliefs include:

- My self-worth is based upon the opinion of others and my performance;
- I must have the approval of others before I feel good about myself;
- I must meet certain standards before I feel good about myself;
- Those who fail are unworthy of love and deserve to be punished; and
- I am what I am, I cannot change, I am worthless.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
The Lord Loves All

"The compassion of man is for his neighbor, but the compassion of the Lord is for all living beings."

Ecclesiasticus 18:13

Ecclesiasticus — or as it is also known, the Book of Sirach (after its author, the Hebrew scribe Joshua ben Sira (Jesus the son of Sirach) — appears in the Apocrypha, that selection of religious texts which somehow fell into no decided category within the framework of the Old and New Testaments. The meaning of the texts, however, is no less clear nor explicit. As Joshua notes, the love of the Lord God is all-encompassing. Just consider your own likes and dislikes, not only among people, but among the creatures of the field, or the plants of the earth. Naturally, no one will make claim to a universal delight in everything, yet these are all things of God's own creation, things and beings which He has nurtured and which He holds dear. Consider yourself fortunate that humans are among the recipients of God's favor.

RE-ELECT
County Republican Chairman
GARY JOHNSTON

A third-generation native, Gary is the son of the late Gene Johnston and grandson of early-day Bandera County builder-ranchman M.F. Johnston.

Gary has demonstrated his commitment to provide the leadership needed to make the party an instrument for good.

We support the re-election of Bandera County Republican Chairman
Gary Johnston.

He has worked hard to build and expand the party in all areas of the county.

Most interest in GOP in upcoming election

By James Henry Fraser
Bulletin Staff Writer

There was some big doin's that the Republican party has retired political control of Bandera County, the initial votes from the March 10 primary, early voting period, party officials all say. Republicans not voted Democrat Almost free to vote locally contested races in each primary.

The Republican side, James McClellan and Mary Sellers each their party's nominee for sheriff. Incumbent B.S. "Steve" Forest has no opposition in the Democratic primary.

The battle for the Republican [illegible] Sheriff's struggle to retain the commissioner's post he got and keep, he explained, desirable to cross over.

Dear Friends:

[illegible] and a good year for our Road & Bridge Department. The extensive but welcome rain threw our 4-year road improvement plan set in motion by the voters in 1988 behind schedule. We are catching up again. There are [illegible] have added another year to the schedule before we can complete the projects we've initiated and I expect that to be [illegible] shortage of paving funds in the next 5 years.

We would like to thank J.R. EDWARDS, RAY WHARTON, VERNON HANNOLD, CLINEY CHANNON, DELL WALLACE, GERI CLINE AND THE MANY OTHERS, WHETHER DONATING MATERIAL TO THE PAVING FUND OR LAND, I would like to thank our paving and road and bridge crews. We have given [illegible]

THE 3RD EARLY SCHEDULE (May-June-July) includes paving in the following: BEAR SPRINGS ROAD, BOX 67 HILLS LANE, PRIVILEGE CREEK, ENGLISH CROSSING, BANDERA RIVER RANCH and HILO HILLS ESTATES SUBDIVISION.

THE 2ND LATE SCHEDULE (Aug.-Sept.-Oct.) includes paving in the following: OLDWELL & COAT ROAD, CASTELL LANE, DEER CREEK, 481 HWY 90, GREEN LOOKS and 1283, BANDERA RANCH ROAD, LOCUST

Krueger ordeal has continued for 8 years

Former pilot's 'bizarre obsession' resurfaces

When Kathleen Tobin Krueger visited her hometown of Bandera recently, she agreed to give staff writer Janna Sandidge and The Bandera Bulletin an exclusive statement about an ongoing ordeal in the life of herself, her husband Bob Krueger [illegible]

When The Bulletin first covered the story more than three years ago, a pilot that formerly worked for the Kruegers, had been arrested and was charged with making death threats against Bob.

But according to Kathleen, the ordeal has continued, and even from a jail cell the man has continued to taunt the Kruegers with threats and his "romantic obsession" with Kathleen.

Here, in her own words, is Kathleen's account of a situation that has now gone on for almost eight years:

For the third time in four years, Thomas Michael Humphrey, 38, has been arrested for death threats against Bob. His obsession began almost eight years ago, when he worked for us as a pilot in our 1984 U.S. Senate campaign. After our loss (in the election), the entire campaign staff went on to pursue other jobs – all but Tom Humphrey.

It became increasingly and alarmingly clear that he was not going to move on and what began as a cordial and friendly working relationship suddenly turned threatening and bizarre. Apparently he became romantically obsessed with me and wanted to kill Bob..."

In January 1988 Humphrey was arrested, and The Bulletin carried a story of the Krueger's ordeal. Kathleen's narrative continues:

After his initial arrest, (Humphrey) was sentenced by federal Judge Hippo Garcia in San Antonio. He served about a year and a half of a five-year sentence and was then granted probation or "supervised release," as they call it.

He was told very explicitly by the judge and subsequently by his parole officer that any contact with us would result in his immediate imprisonment.

For about four months he controlled himself, but then his obsession got the better of him and he phoned Bob's New Braunfels office. By that afternoon federal authorities picked him up, his probation was revoked and he was back in prison.

After serving for about another year, he was released again and put on "supervised release" in Austin. Apparently, he got a job with a landscaping company and was required to seek psychological help, as well as to report to his probation officer once a week.

For about nine or 10 months we did not hear from him, and I basically had put the whole situation out of my mind.

In August 1991, Bob received from the Travis County district attorney a copy of a rambling and threatening letter [illegible] Speaker Gib Lewis, land commissioner Garry Mauro, San Antonio attorney Oliver Heard (who had represented me against Tom Humphrey when [illegible] which was addressed to the Travis County district attorney and signed anonymously "A Concerned Citizen."

As soon as Bob and his longtime staff assistant Nina Guinn read the letter, they knew it was vintage Tom Humphrey. We have received so many dozens of letters and hundreds of phone calls from Humphrey [illegible] machine tape that they know his "style."

Bob alerted the Travis County district attorney of his suspicions as to who the author might be and they began their investigation into the matter. They did conclude that it was written by Tom Humphrey, but I don't know, Janna, where the investigation stands now.

This letter in August was Bob's first indication that the problem was still very much alive and that Humphrey's obsession (was) apparently still very much in place. A month later Tom Humphrey violated the specific guidelines of his probation and phoned Bob's New Braunfels office. He again, in his usual style, left a series of "messages" on the answering machine. Since Tom Humphrey began his gruesome threats I have refused to listen to the tapes or read any letters he sends. Before turning the tape over to the F.B.I., however, two of Bob's staff members listened to it. Bob's Railroad Commission staff attorney, Bob Baird, was one of those who listened to the renewed threats. He warned me 'It's very bad, Kathleen, DON'T listen to it.' He went on to say that in addition to threats against Bob, Tom went on in very strong terms about his 'love' for me.

Again, Tom Humphrey was immediately picked up by Travis County Law Enforcement officials in Austin. I found little solace in that, however, because I knew that only about nine months remained of Tom's original sentence and that after all these years he was still just as sick and dangerous as he had been from the beginning of this nightmare.

Shortly after this most recent arrest Bob and I met with the U.S. Attorney on the case to learn what our options were legally in this matter. Tom McHugh, the U.S. Attorney assigned to the case, ended our meeting on a very somber note. He said "In my many years as a U.S. Attorney I have only a few times stood next to a defendant in a courtroom and felt 'this is a killer.' In each of those cases I have come to find out that that that individual either HAS killed someone in the past or he soon thereafter DID kill someone." He paused and looked down and then said, "I don't have a good feeling about Tom Humphrey." These words have, at times, haunted me.

I felt terrified and so helpless. I knew that there were only two things that could help us: God and the judicial system. I trust Judge Hippo Garcia to make the right decision, but I wrote him an emotional letter and included a photo of my family. I wanted him to SEE what was at stake.

Since then, Tom Humphrey did a very stupid thing, but one that might indirectly benefit us. He wrote a letter threatening Federal Judge Hippo Garcia, U.S. Magistrate Robert O'Connor, U.S. Attorney Tom McHugh, his probation officer, the District Clerk in Bexar County and others. Tom McHugh told me yesterday (Feb. 28) that ONE of the things he said was that he was going "to blow up the courthouse."

After that, Humphrey was sent to a federal psychiatric prison facility in Springfield, Ill. for psychiatric evaluation. He has now been returned to Bexar County where he is awaiting a hearing on his parole violation in September. No new charges have been brought against him yet. The U.S. Attorneys would like to review the psychiatric report before taking an additional course of action.

For the first four years of the ordeal, Kathleen says that she and Bob spoke to "virtually no one" about Humphrey's threats. "We just didn't want to allow him to dominate our lives," she explains. But now, she says, sharing the problem with friends seems to help a great deal:

"My oldest and dearest friends are in Bandera," says Kathleen. "Perhaps I am hoping that they, through their prayers, will help us share this burden which seems to never end."

BUILDING ISSUE

On January 29 - The incumbent's ad states:
"We did build a carefully budgeted debt-free 24'x30' road maintenance shop building."
On February 26 - The incumbent's ad states:
"Building costs $7256.18" "Opponents would have you believe that he built himself a private office."
FACT - Building was NOT budgeted in FY 1990-1991 budget.
FACT - When this "building" first surfaced in Commissioners Court and Mr. Barker made his first request to re-allocate road funds, the building was described as being a 20' by 20' storage shed.
FACT - The building was NOT budgeted at all and Precinct #1 had to request from Commissioners Court a line item amendment in the Precinct #1 Budget on three occasions: Feb. 11, 1991; Feb. 25, 1991; and Mar. 25, 1991.
FACT - It is debt-free, but at the expense of Precinct #1 road work.
FACT - The $7256 spent on this building was for materials--your Precinct #1 road crews took time away from road maintenance to construct this building, again at the expense of road reconditioning.
FACT - This building is a combination storage facility, office and has bathroom facilities.
FACT - A septic system was installed without the required permit and inspection.
FACT - This building, located well away from Precinct #1, has a time clock for all three employees to "punch-in" prior to leaving for work in the field, as well as clocking in the close of the day.

SPENDING IN ADVANCE OF REVENUE RECEIPTS

PRECINCT #1s RED INK PROBLEMS
FACT - Of the four precincts, only Precinct #1 continues to spend well beyond revenues received.
FACT - At the end of the first fiscal quarter ending Dec. 31, 1991, Precinct #1 had spent $26,000 more than the county had received for that precinct.
FACT - January 1992 spending was $16,000 more than what was taken in, and by Feb. 25, 1992, the red ink was over $20,000.
FACT - When the County Treasurer must cover "Red Ink", County CDs and other savings are liquidated to satisfy this over-run.

Far from having a $7,000 budget surplus, the 1990-91 FY Precinct #1 Budget of $150,000 had been over-spent by $13,000. Sooner or later, this must stop. The precinct needs to build up money for use in emergencies, such as we have had this past winter due to weather.

Bear Springs Road	Bandera River Ranch	Green Oaks
River Bluff Lane	Red Bluff Road	Bandera Ranch Acres
Privilege Creek	Oilwell	Lakeshore
English Crossing	Goat Ridge	Hummingbird
Deer Creek

Of the $17,000 budgeted for paving this year, $10,083 has already been spent, leaving funds available for paving less than TWO miles, a tiny fraction of what he has promised.

TAXPAYERS OF PRECINCT #1 CANNOT AFFORD THIS KIND OF MANAGEMENT FOR ANOTHER FOUR YEARS.
IT IS TIME FOR HONEST ANSWERS ON REALISTIC PROJECTS
All stated facts are available from the County Courthouse records.

Medina's cagers eliminated by Thorndale

Senior Sherrill Johnson named all-district

Medina Bobcats' hopes for an extended post season were dashed Friday, Feb. 28, in Marble Falls as the district [illegible] dale, 70-61, in Marble Falls.

"We did not play well in the second half," said assistant coach Randy Joseph. "Thorndale played a full-court press and we turned the ball over too many times.

Head coach Rick Ingram noted that the 'cats seemed to go cold on their outside shooting during the third period and fell behind too far to catch up.

The Bobcats led 17-14 at the end of the first quarter, but [illegible] 35-28, at the halftime intermission.

Thorndale outscored Medina 14-7 and 21-16 in the final to periods to walk away with the [illegible]

Medina ends the season with a 13-12 record. Thorndale advances to the area round of the playoffs and was to meet Ben Bolt Tuesday at South[illegible] High School in San Antonio.

Juniors Fred Sides, Jody Carpenter on second-team

Medina senior Sherrill Johnson was named to the first team of the All-District 54-A honor team released Sunday and a pair of Bobcat juniors were named to the second team.

Fred Sides and Jody Carpenter of Medina's district runnerup Bobcats were second-team selections on the mythical team.

John Davis of district champion Rocksprings was named most valuable player and Lincoln Truelove of Sabinal and Billy Jo Nevarez of Nueces Canyon were named top newcomers.

Joining Johnson on the first team were Andrew Martinez of Center Point, Abel Cardova and Todd Derrie of Rocksprings, and Bernie Garcia of Sabinal.

Joining Sides and Carpenter as second-team selections were Craig Moldenhaur of Center Point, Jason Aley of Sabinal, Jimmy Medina of Sabinal, Brian Borchardt and Paul [illegible] of Nueces Canyon.

Yoakum claws its way to Austin with regional tourney title victory

Yoakum's Squaws, who eliminated Bandera's Lady Bulldogs in the area playoffs, won the Class AAA regional tournament Saturday in Kingsville with a 51-45 victory over Lyford.

The Squaws won their way into the regional finals by defeating Rio Hondo Friday, 56-36.

Their victory in the title tilt eliminated once-beaten Lyford, which had won 32 games this year. It ran Yoakum's record to 35-5 and earned the Squaws a spot in the state tournament in Austin Thursday where they'll face 35-3 Winnsboro at 2 p.m.

In other girls playoff games this weekend, Rocksprings and Utopia were eliminated in the quarterfinals of the Class A regional tourney in Seguin, and Devine, which beat Medina Valley in the area round, was ousted in the quarterfinals of the Kingsville tourney by Lyford.

Medina Valley's boys defeated Jourdanton, 61-55, in bi-district play Friday and Utopia fell to McMullen County, 70-61, in the area round of Class A.

Rocksprings lost to Holland, 87-77 and Ingram lost to Liberty Hill, 99-83.

In coming games, Medina Valley's boys take on Edna (13-5) and Devine (25-5), which defeated District 25-AAA runnerup Cole, takes on Stafford (24-8).

PRECINCT #1 TAXPAYERS
THANK YOU FOR YOUR POSITIVE RESPONSE!
In meetings and private discussions around our precinct, I have been greatly encouraged by your support for my platform. It seems obvious that our citizens are ready for good business management and fair treatment across the board

I pledge to be a commissioner who will work with the people and for the people. I am convinced that we can work together for the good of the entire precinct--and Bandera County, too--when we finally rise above petty politics. Let's put an end to the bickering, and NOW!

I am a family man with children in our Bandera schools. I founded Bandera Builders, Inc. eight years ago, and have brought this company along steadily to the point where we are among the leaders in the area and to the place where I can now give the required time to my community. As a general contractor for commercial, ranch, and residential projects, I am knowledgeable in all phases of road construction and property improvement.

These have been tough times, as we all know, but through plain old hard work, common sense and a reasonable and steadfast approach to good management, we have prospered. I will bring this proven record of sound business management to Commissioners' Court to serve all of us with fairness. I can promise quality decisions to provide quality services for all our taxpayers--not just for select areas.

Among those who are working with me to bring better management to Precinct #1 and Bandera County are:

Ronnie Baysinger	Jud Ashmore	Joe Cantu	Kerry Hevenor
Neil Peterson	Randy Dixon	Sue Cantu	Jim Samsel
Mike Mullins	Leon Salzman	Dale Keith	Jerry Willis
Sharon Mullins	Charlotte Salzman	Don Quimby	Mike Forsythe

Thank You

To all the wonderful people who were responsible for the baby shower hosted at The Wrangler for Laurie and for all the fabulous gifts and most of all for the out powering of love that was so evident-our heartfelt gratitude and a big "We love you."
Laurie's Mother and Grandmother.

Thank You
To the ladies of Medina who brought food, thank you and God Bless you. There are so many people in Medina and Bandera who did so much for my mother Hayesee Grobe after she was confined to her home or while she was in the hospital.
Sincerely, Sharon Mellon

Magic Dozen starts his sophomore year at Bandera Downs with a victory

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Last year's seventh-leading money winning quarter horse was the Texas Classic at Bandera Downs Sunday.

Such a race would be easy picking for the winner of the Grade I Graham Farms Futurity at Manor Downs near Austin last year and the Grade I Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico.

But the highly-touted Magic Dozen was not even entered for the Rainbow Futurity and didn't have a prayer at the All-American Futurity after fell sick.

His owner, Jerry Windham of Bryan, said he wasn't sure the colt had gotten over his illness.

On Magic Dozen's first appearance on the Bandera Downs racing surface Sunday, the 3-year-old broke on top, [illegible] was coming down the stretch, drifted across two lanes. Not to worry, Magic Dozen was well ahead of the competition next to him.

The colt won the 350-yard $13,100 Texas Classic and by 1/2 length.

Windham has from 75 to 100 horses on his ranch and included in that number is Magic Dozen's mother, Indigo Illusion, the 1983 champion 2-year-old filly quarter horse and 1984 Kansas Derby winner.

Windham, who wears the buckle he received for Indigo Illusion's award, said, "I've owned Indigo Illusion when and now this son ever [illegible]," said Windham.

Starting his yards to go in the Grade II Graham Farms Derby at Bandera in April and races that will follow in Ruidoso Downs. "He'll have to prove himself as a 3-year-old if he's going to be better than some of my horses."

[illegible] day, Coda Yen won the first "Best of Class" series race, a $3,600 350-yard sprint for $2,500 claiming horses.

In Saturday's racing action, 7-2 Flying Uncle launched the Bandera Downs stakes schedule by winning the $4,675 5-furlong Mission City Handicap.

Jockey Betty Harless was not tempted to keep up with Buck [illegible] out front early down the back stretch.

She bid her time, going into the turn fourth, around the turn third, and into the stretch second.

"He (Flying Uncle) was really into the bit and I (knew I) could catch him (Curtis Easy) anytime, so I waited until we turned for home (going into the stretch) and then turned him loose," said Harless.

C.D. Glosson of Dripping Springs, in race his daughter with Flying Uncle, but not the biggest win of his career. Glosson earned $92,000 in the Jean Laffite stakes race at Delta Downs in 1986.

After Flying Uncle's appearance at Bandera last year, Glosson ran the 350-yard race in 18.10 seconds.

"She was a decent 2-year-old and looks like a good 3-year-old," Glosson said. The horse has a 10-start and 3-win lifetime record.

The 6-5 favorite, Tawis Rebel, ran sixth.

Handprints

The first Tex Six jackpot was won Sunday when one woman won $4,377.80 after picking all [illegible] through eight.

Additionally, eight persons were paid $70.60 each as a consolation for picking five of six winners.

The Tex Six jackpot will start at zero Friday.

• No one the twin trifecta Sunday and its jackpot will start at $10,071.75 Friday.

• The superfecta in the last [illegible] board, but $10,450.50. The payoff on the tote board was based on a $2 superfecta bet, but the man with winning superfecta ticket had made a multiple bet based on a $1 superfecta, yielding the half payoff. A total of $13,934 was bet in the 11th race's superfecta.

• Chad Mason ended the week as the leading jockey at Bandera with six wins on the weekend, two on each day.

A jockey new to Bandera this year, Doug Gilbert, starts in an early second-place with three wins, one each day.

The early start for either of the riders could quickly disappear.

• Last year's leading jockey and leading apprentice jockey both won their first race Saturday.

Buck Harris brought 8-1 Forward Control to a 6-furlong win by a nose in the fourth race.

Apprentice Tammy McHargue took Clever Chick to a 2 1/4-length win in the 5-furlong fifth race.

• Last year's fifth leading jockey, Danny Lavergne, is still waiting out recovery from surgery.

'Best of Class' series continues at Bandera Downs on Sunday

The "Best of Class" series continues Sunday at Bandera Downs with a 7 1/2-furlong contest for thoroughbreds carrying a claiming price tag of $2,500.

A total of 18 horses were nominated this weekend to the contest and the purse will exceed $3,700.

The Best of Class series was developed by track officials last year to enable claiming horses, the horses usually at the track and that run in races day-in and day-out, to run for bigger purses from time to time.

Six of the 18 horses ran this weekend: Ramblin Raz, Mojave Joe, Affirmed Prince, Our Halo, Tony's White Shoes, and Lease Agreement, are entered in the contest.

Ramblin Raz ran second in Sunday's fourth race to Determine Springs.

Mojave Joe won a one-mile contest Friday.

Affirmed Prince ran second in a 1 7/2-furlong contest Sunday.

Lease Agreement won a 6-furlong contest Sunday.

The twin trifecta jackpot will start at $10,071.75 and the Tex Six jackpot will start at zero Friday.

Vote
for the candidate of your choice.

Troy Fraser is the Republican for the Texas Senate who has fought for Texas jobs and against wasteful government spending, higher taxes and the powerful personal injury lawyers.

Here's why others say Troy should be in the Texas senate.

"Troy has been an effective legislator fighting for conservative causes and rural concerns."
Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry

"Troy led the fight to cut $6 billion from the state budget. We need more leaders like Troy."
State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison

"The Republican candidate who can win in November."
Former Congressman Tom Loeffler

"One of the brightest members of the legislature. Troy will make a great State Senator."
State Rep. Bob Hunter (R-Abilene)

"He understands the needs of the Hill Country."
Former State Rep. Gerald Geisenendt

"Experience and knowledge make Troy Fraser the preferred candidate."
San Angelo Standard Times 3-24-92

"He is articulate, knowledgeable, persuasive . . . loyal to conservative principles."

WANTED

for County Commissioner
Bandera County, Precinct 1

COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER has the qualifications and experience we need in Precinct 1:

- Former mayor (Alaska) and member of Governor's Pipeline Impact Committee.
- Former construction worker and supervisor on all phases of construction, including the Alaskan oil and gas pipelines, Prudhoe Bay oil fields, and many roads and bridges throughout Alaska.
- Currently performing all the duties and assuming all the responsibilities of a county commissioner.

COMMISSIONER BENNIE BARKER has ability and dedication:

- To work with Commissioners Court on all county problems.
- To assist in attaining our goals for quality education.
- To help tackle our drug problems in Bandera County
- To say no to special interests.
- To plan for and develop better and safer roads.
- To work with our local government agencies to solve our problems and protect our environment.
- To help pursue our economic development goals.

We need a county comissioner that works on a full-time basis to improve our county. We need a county commissioner that can respond to all our needs and is well-qualified to handle these responsibilities at all levels.

Please help us to retain Commissioner Bennie Barker and allow him to continue to help us in improving our roads and our quality of life.

Field already full for golf tourney at Flying L benefiting SA hospital

The Flying L Fling, an 18-hole golf scramble due to be played at Fling L Guest Ranch's course near Bandera for benefit of the Santa Rosa Children's Hospital on Friday, March 6, has been completely [illegible] according to general chairman Al Heep of Bandera.

More than 280 golfers have already made reservations for the 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. shotgun starts, Heep said. "We regret that we've had to turn away so many folks who wanted to play," he said.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Santa Rosa Hospital's neo-natal intensive care unit. The 36-bed facility will be completely renovated and modernized at a cost of more than $1 million, hospital officials said.

Major sponsors are the Flying L Guest Ranch, which is donating the course and golf carts for the day; Ruud Air Conditioning and Heating Dealers; South Texas GMC Truck Dealers; JC Penney at Ingram Park mall; and Allen & Allen Lumber Company.

The event is part of the "March Across South Texas," a project of San Antonio radio station KKYX, which will be broadcasting live from the tournament most of the day.

The station's early-morning host, Bill Cody, will originate his show from near the Flying L's pro shop from 5:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. After that, the station will do live remote cutaways from the site, hospital officials said.

The Bexar County Pharmaceutical Representatives Association will cook a fajita dinner for some 300 golfers and volunteers, according to Lou Lutz, spokesman for the group which also will make a donation of $300.

"We also have had outstanding support from the business communities of Bandera, Pipe Creek, Kerrville and San Antonio," said Heep. "I think our volunteers have sold something like 30 hole sponsorships at $100 each.

Local firms among the hole sponsors include Captain's Corner Carwash, Air-Con Mechanical Contractors, Heep Wildlife Management Ranch, D'Spain Sales and Service, Grimes Funeral Chapels, Mayan Dude Ranch, the Bandera Optimist Club, Pipe Creek Trading Company and Flea Market, Pipe Creek Junction Cafe, Barrel House Hardware and Feed, Edwards Ranch Realty, Lightning Ranch and Stables, McNaughton Insurance Agency, and Little Engine Shop.

Diverse group to discuss cougar's future in Texas

Diverse interest groups will gather in April to try to forge a consensus on the future of mountain lion (cougar) management in Texas, the Parks and Wildlife Department announced this week.

As many as 100 conservationists, landowners, urban citizens livestock producers, hunters, preservationists, news reporters, wildlife biologists, researchers and legislators will sit down in round-table groups of about 10 each.

Each group will be charged with developing constructive ideas toward a long-range mountain lion management strategy.

The consensus of each group will then be compiled [illegible] projection of needs and the analysis of data to effectively manage the species in Texas.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department plans to expand efforts to collect harvest and mortality data and educate the public about mountain lions.

Opinions about mountain lions are diverse, the wildlife agency said.

Some livestock producers regard the animal as a threat to their livelihood, but the Sierra Club recently petitioned the department to protect mountain lions in Texas.

They are currently classified as non-game animals, so there is no restriction on their harvest.

"I'm confident that the proposed management forum and future research will provide the pathway for us to effectively address the mountain lion issue in the future," said Andrew Sansom, TPWD executive director.

Department wildlife biologists have recommended making no changes to the mountain lion's classification and regulations at this time because information indicates stable or increasing populations.

A few of the organizations and individuals invited to attend the round-table include the Sierra Club, the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Boone and Crockett Club, the Audubon Society, university researchers and biologists from state and federal agencies.

The department's goal for the round-table is to have the broadest possible representation of diverse interests. Past round-tables on other topics have proven to be an effective tool to identify problems and work toward cooperative solutions, the TPWD said.

Saturday last day for registration for junior baseball program

Registration for the summer's junior baseball program in Bandera County will continue through Saturday, March 7, association officials announced this week.

Try-outs are at the Mansfield Park Little League field at Bandera and the Pipe Creek field.

Players may register during the second session of try-outs Saturday.

Players who were members of a major league team last year need not attend try-outs if they registered by Feb. 29.

Players registering are reminded to bring a certified copy (not a hospital copy) of their birth certificate along with a fee of $15.

Families with more than two children playing pay a maximum of $30, said league spokeswoman Carol Teich.

Bobcat nine to open its season Thursday

Medina's baseball Bobcats will begin heir season Thursday, March 5, at 2 p.m. against Johnson City in a tournament at Comfort, says coach Randy Joseph.

The 'Cats will have the whole squad back from last year and will feature a mound corps consisting of Shawn and Scott Faglie and Chris Whitehead.

"I think we'll be pretty strong pitching and we look really good hitting the ball," says Coach Joseph. "Our batters are very good for this early in the season.

"I think we'll do well in the district this year," the coach said. Medina was 1-15 last year, their first season in baseball in more than 20 years.

Bandera Downs offers a wide variety of pari-mutuel wagers

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Betting on the horses is what Bandera Downs is all about, and there is plenty of opportu[illegible] for beginning and experienced bettors alike.

Win, place, show, quinella and exacta bets are offered on every race. Trifectas are scattered throughout the race card.

The daily double is held on the first and second races. Superfectas are held on the fourth, sixth and last races of the day. The twin trifecta will be held on the fifth and sixth races. The Tex 6 will be held on the third through the eighth races.

The track will offer more handicapping help, including new betting guides, a "beginner's" window in every mutuel window aisle, and a handicapping center for patrons to ask questions.

At the handicapping center, race fans will be able to look at programs and racing forms from last year and they'll get hints on how to bet.

There will be a handicapping seminar, not a list of picks, by either track handicapper Don Rhine or director of marketing Doug Vair 45 minutes before post time to show people how to read the program and make wagers. There will also be questions and answers.

Betting:

[illegible] to betting is the odds on the tote board. The odds on a horse are determined by how much money bettors place on the horse. The more money, the lower the odds.

Those odds are directly related to the payoffs. The higher the odds, the higher the payoffs.

The favorite is the horse with the lowest odds. Other horses with low odds are "favored by the bettors."

The longshot is the horse with the highest odds. However, many people refer to longshots as any horse with odds of 10-1 or higher.

Whenever a bettor places a bet, it's done by the numbers, that is, tell the pari-mutuel clerk the program number, not the name of the horse.

Win

The win bet is the simplest form of betting, sometimes known as "putting $2 on the nose of the horse." A bettor bets his or her horse will come in first.

Payoffs are in the $4 to $8 range for a favored horse and climb to $20 and more for longshots. Highly favored horses (less than even odds) that win will pay less than $4, but always more than the $2 [illegible]

Bettors sometimes make multiple [illegible] winning, such as betting the horse they think is going to win and then a longshot that has a chance. More than two win bets are usually not profitable.

Place

The place bet is like the win bet, except the horse picked must finish first or second, so a bettor has two chances to win on one horse.

Place bets pay in the $3 to $7 range, with the amounts at $10 and higher for a longshot.

Place bets are good when a bettor has a question about a supposed "lock" horse.

Bettors will sometimes bet $2 on the horse they think is going to win for sure and $4 or more on the same horse in case the horse finishes second.

Show

The show bet is best for beginners, because even with remote luck, a bettor can usually come away with a payoff, albeit a small one.

To win, the chosen horse must finish first, second, or third.

Show payoffs usually range from $2.40 to $5. The highest show payoff at Bandera was $[illegible] Oct. 5, 1991.

Quinella

[illegible] at the track. To win, pick the two horses that finish first and second. It doesn't matter which horse finishes first or second.

The return on a quinella for two favorites is about $6. The payoff ranges from $14 to $20 for winners that aren't highly favored.

Many bettors "box" three horses in a quinella. Two of the three horses in the box must come in first or second. The bet is really three bets and costs $6.

Exacta

The exacta is the richer cousin to the quinella — pick the top two finishing horses in exact order.

Payoffs are generally twice a quinella's payoffs. A $24 to $30 payoff is usual for a favorite and a horse of higher odds. Payoffs have reached the several hundred dollars and even over $1,000. But then, those would be longshots.

Many bettors bet a two-horse exacta box — that allows either horse to run first or second. Cost $4. It defeats the purpose and makes the bet like a Call (512) 796-3105 or (800) 352-3810.

A four-horse exacta box is also common. The amount invested in a four-horse exacta box ($24) can be won back with a profit if horse selection by the bettor is good.

Trifecta

The trifecta is for calculating types. Pick the top three finishing horses in exact order.

[illegible] $100. Payoffs can reach the thousands of dollars easily when longshots come in.

Plenty of study is required and trifectas are almost always boxed (three or four horses) or keyed. An example four-horse trifecta key would be the 3-horse to come in first, and either the 4-, 5- or 6-horses to come in second or third.

A trifecta can be a $1 base bet if keying or boxing. The cheapest trifecta would be a $1 key with the bettor picking one horse to finish first, another horse to finish second, and one of two additional horses to finish third. Cost is $2. A good throw-away bet that might pay off once in awhile. Of course, the payoff will be half what's on the board.

Daily double

The oldest exotic. Pick the winners of two races in a row. At Bandera, it's the first and the second races.

Bettors can box and key the daily double, but because payoffs are in the $10 to $20 range, it is best not use more than four horses.

Since the first and second races usually have maidens or low-priced claiming horses, payoffs can be higher because longshots are more likely.

Superfecta

Big payoffs are available for those that can pick the top four finishing horses in a row — almost always in the hundreds of dollars and usually the thousands. The wager has become more popular than the twin trifecta, in part because there must be a payoff in each race with the wager (races 4, 6, and the last race of the day).

Serious bettors will pick one horse to come in first and then box three others to come in second, third, and fourth. Cost is $12 for the four-horse superfecta key. Try it with five horses, one to win and three of the four to come in second, third, or fourth and the cost of the five-horse superfecta key is $48.

Problem: the horse picked to come in first must win.

Boxing four horses is also norm — cost $48.

Boxing five horses is a staggering $240. However, if a bettor can pick horses and can stand to lose a couple of $240 bets, they can turn a profit if they keep plugging.

A $1 superfecta key and box is also available. Half-price bets and half-price payoffs.

Tex 6

The new wager at Bandera Downs is the Tex 6, also known as the Pick 6.

Win it by picking the six winners of races three through eight.

This wager will have a jackpot, like the twin trifecta.

Unlike the twin trifecta, however, the wager will have either a winner (all six horses correct) who takes home all the money in the jackpot or a consolation winner (the next best pick — such as [illegible] cent of the money bet that day which is not dedicated to the take-out (track commission, purses and tax) and 75 percent will stay in the jackpot.

Payoffs will be in the twin trifecta range or better.

Conceivably, a patient bettor, picking six horses in six races and putting down $2 a day could win the Tex 6 one of these days.

More bettors are likely to box and key this wager, too.

Two horses in each of the six races will cost $128 (64 bets).

The wager does have the lure of being "easier," as it's easier to pick winners than it is to pick the top three horses in any race.

So this is either a wager to try for fun or try hard to win. Medium weights can get burnt here.

Twin trifecta

Play this wager for fun or play this wager with big bucks.

Pick the top three finishers in the fifth race in exact order and the top three finishers in the sixth race to win.

Bettors can box three or four horses in the fifth race and for their $12 to $48 investment, they get one exchange ticket to use in the sixth race.

That's right one ticket — one chance to pick the top three finishers in exact order. A longshot for any handicapper.

To get around that, bettors box three or four horses in the fifth race from six to 24 times. If they've got the winning combination in their boxed horses, they'll get from six to 24 winning exchange tickets, allowing them to do the equivalent of boxing or keying.

To get the six to 24 winning exchange tickets, costs from $72 to $1,152 in the fifth race. Bring your suitcase of money.

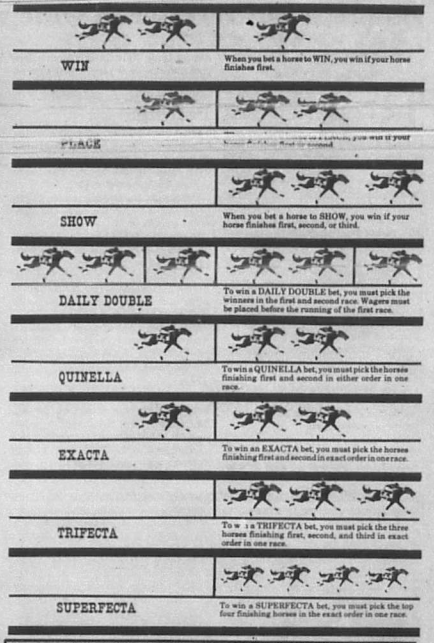
One nice thing, each winning exchange ticket from the fifth race has a payoff in the trifecta range, so there is some return on the investment.

Since few people win the trifecta in the sixth race, the amount in the pool is held over until the next day and the next, until someone wins the wager.

The jackpot has risen as high as $206,000 in 1990 and $47,000 in 1991.

Most winners are bettors who work at the wager and bet it most every day, though at least two men have won the wager with minimal investments.

As the jackpot climbs higher and higher, more people shoot at the wager.



Hit the jackpot

Twin Trifecta — To tap the TWIN TRIFECTA jackpot, pick the horses finishing first, second and third in exact order and get a ticket to try to do the same in the sixth race.

Tex 6 — To get part or all of the TEX 6 jackpot, pick the winners in each of the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth races.

Good luck!

Female jockey makes top-10 list at Bandera Downs as apprentice

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Tammy McHargue is a petite, mother of one, but she's be looking to fulfill her 45-win apprenticeship before April, the end [illegible] in the saddle.

At the end of the year, she was the 10th winningest jockey at Bandera Downs with 38 wins, 40 second-place finishes, and 34 third-place finishes in 379 starts.

Since stakes wins, such as aboard Star Testamony in the San Antonio Derby, and quarter horse wins (she's had at least one at Bandera) don't count toward reducing the apprenticeship, she's has a few more races to win beyond 45.

In an interview with The Bandera Bulletin near the close of last year's season, the 28-year-old Kansas native said she began her career as an exercise fresh out of high school.

McHargue's interest in horses was natural – she grew up on her parents' farm in Emporia, Kan., and started working with horses in 4-H at the age of 7 years. "I showed horses for 12 years in 4-H in horsemanship, pleasure and reining."

She started galloping horses and raced in her first official race at non-pari-mutuel Eureka Downs in Eureka, Kan., on a quarter horse.

She came to Texas to escape the cold and began working at Stan Scruby's Columbus horse ranch just as he was beginning to become involved in purchasing the Bandera Downs. Scruby is now Bandera Downs board chairman.

She made the rounds in Texas horse racing, working in Albany near Abilene and at G. Rollie White Downs in Brady before that now-closed track went pari-mutuel.

McHargue worked for current Bandera Downs trainer Ted Sudderth at his Cedar Creek Farm near Bastrop after Brady.

She returned to Brady when the track opened for pari-mutuel racing in 1989, but when the track closed, she moved on to Delta Downs in Louisiana and rode thoroughbreds there. "I ran a lot of seconds and thirds. Everything I got on was at 99-1 (odds). They paid good."

Last year she returned to Bandera, in part because her husband, Jackie, has parents living in Bandera County, and partly because "I always liked Bandera."

She started as an apprentice, which allows her to carry five pounds less than her thoroughbred is assigned.

By the end of April, she had her fifth thoroughbred win and the 12-month clock started ticking.

If she can win 45 races in 12 months, the apprentice allowance of five pounds, called a "bug," will be removed.

She tacks, that is weighs with saddle and riding gear, 106 pounds – very light for anyone.

The racing secretary assigns the weight based on the conditions of the race and the age, sex and past performance of the horse.

It usually make a difference. "The five pounds makes a two- or three-length difference on some horses. On some it doesn't," McHargue said.

[illegible] with the whip that typified her riding — she puts the whip out in front of the horse and shakes it twice, then she whips the horse twice in what looks like a tapping pattern.

"I take the stick and show it just below their eyes and shake it at them. It helps a lot of the horses run better."

Then she reinforces the eye contact with physical contact and hits the horse with the whip on the rear. "The hit is harder than it looks."

She says she doesn't have any problems with the male jockeys. "I get along with all of them."

Her biggest win this year was on Star Testamony in the San Antonio Derby.

McHargue has been married four years and took off from riding for one year to give birth to a daughter, Tara, who was 3 at the end of the 1991 racing season.

Bandera Downs' general manager a 'natural'

He owned his first horse at the tender age of six months

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers started in the horse racing [illegible] men at Bandera Downs, with his family.

He differs from others perhaps on a drive to do more, promote more, and try different things when the time is right.

In a interview with The Bandera Bulletin shortly after he took over the operating reigns of Bandera's Class II track Aug. 26, Bowers revealed himself as a man who looks ahead and knows when to change things if they need changing.

But his experience with horse racing dates back to the days at his grandfather's ranch.

Bowers grew up there in Pawhuska, Okla.

They had the third leading stud in the nation during the 60s and 70s and one world champion and three champion running horses came off the ranch.

Bowers followed naturally in the family business.

"I was raised with it. It was my life. I knew nothing else. That's what our family business was — horse racing," Bowers said last fall.

He got his start as a 6-month old when his grandfather gave him his first horse. "I've been in it all my life. I've been a jockey, I've trained. I was Jesse Yoakum's jockey agent."

Yoakum is a former jockey that trains horses at Bandera and Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico. Yoakum's son, Jerry, is now a jockey at both tracks.

"I've been in all fashions of it — a groom, a hot walker, cleaned stalls. I've done it all."

Bowers was a jockey for about 12 years and trainer for six years.

His family had the third leading stud in the nation during the 60s and 70s, and a world champion.

Success followed Bowers then, too. "I made a good living at both of them. The reason I quit riding was my grandfather — my grandparents practically raised me — died of cancer, and when he did, that left the ranch and everything to my grandmother. I took it over, and that's the reason I quit riding.

"I didn't try to train for a lot of the outside public. We had a lot of our own horses. That was my grandfather. When he went to the races, he didn't want to have anybody else's horses. Just took what were bred and raised at the ranch."

Part of that training was to run horses in the Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Bowers went into management when he ran the Del Rio track on a lease from Val Verde County. He held non-pari-mutuel quarter horse races with the longest being 660 and 770 yard events.

"I got into the management end of it when I got to Del Rio," he explained. "I was there training (horses) for a couple of years.

"They had a quarter horse meet put on by the Alamo Quarter Horse Association and they would only run two weeks out of the year. I got to watching what they were doing.

"I got tired of traveling, going back and forth from race track to race track. So that's when I made a proposal to the county to lease the track whenever the Alamo people weren't using it.

"That's when I got into the management part of it. It's kinda like you did it all then — racing secretary, stall man. I was everything."

He moved on to LaBahia Downs in Goliad after 12 to 14 years at Del Rio.

"I ran both tracks for a while. Goliad came to me. They were having trouble with their meet, and hired me to run theirs and mine.

"Then it looked like Texas was going to pass pari-mutuel, which I felt real strong about," he said.

When passage of pari-mutuel was assured, Goliad made him an offer to "close my stuff down and move it over there." Goliad was closer to the San Antonio market — where race fans would come from — and the move simply made good business sense.

He was at Goliad for two years. "I stayed there until they figured out they weren't going to go pari-mutuel. They could never get the financing to build the track.

"Manor (Downs, near Austin) asked me to come in there. I already had my races (the Graham Farms Futurity and Derby) running there."

He first worked in an advisory capacity and then as general manager.

Bandera directors came to Bowers when Don Essary stepped down from as GM s July 25.

Buck Harris led jockeys in 1991.

Buck Harris

Buck Harris was new to Bandera Downs in 1991, but almost immediately he set a pace for the other riders to shoot at. He led all Bandera riders with 146 wins setting a new riding record for the state of Texas, according to Bandera Downs publicity director Don Rhine.

With Harris' multi-wins per day, Harris became a crowd favorite, playing to the crowd's applause and cheers. Of course, those who play to the crowd, are sometimes shocked by the crowd. When he lost on bettor's favorites, he was sometimes booed.

Harris, like other jockeys, has had his share of acrobatics, having to bail off or struggle with horses that didn't cooperate. His worse incident was May 25 when he bailed off a quarter horse headed straight for the rail in a "hook" race. Though shaken after plowing into the track surface after two horses hit the rail in that 11th race, he came back to win the 12th race. Harris said he knew he had a winner in the 12th race and wasn't going to give it up.

Towards the end of the season, Harris rode most of leading thoroughbred trainer Jim Hudson's horses, as well as any other horses Harris' agent could get him on.

Harris was born in Sulphur, Oklahoma in the middle of the Kiamichi Mountains. He is a fifth generation jockey whose father rode for 35 years and whose great-great-grandfather rode in Ireland.

Harris began riding Aug. 12, 1984, on his 16th birthday and his career has taken him to Louisiana Downs, Remington Park, Blue Ribbon Downs, Birmingham, Delta Downs.

David Brown

David Brown could easily be called, "the work horse" of the track. He has ridden more mounts at Bandera Downs than any other jockey at Bandera.

In 1991, he rode for top trainers Toby Keeton and Roy Marcom.

Brown is the only Bandera Downs jockey to win six races in one day, a feat he accomplished July 27.

Brown began his riding career in 1985, leaving high school before his 17th birthday to pursue his life's ambition.

He has raced at Evangeline Downs, Delta Downs, Mt. Pleasant Meadows, Remington Park, Bluegrass Downs, Beulah Park, Churchhill Downs and Ellis Park.

Brown suffered a broken collar bone during the 1990 season, possibly preventing him from earning the leading rider title for Bandera's inaugural racing season.

Brown, while second in wins, led all riders in money won for the 1991 season.

Brown was born in Kinston, North Carolina Dec. 28, 1966.

Chad Mason

Chad Mason began his riding career in 1988 when a rodeo buddy, who was also a jockey, suggested he give horse racing a try.

It didn't take Mason long to be successful. After winning his first race, he went on to ride six more winners for a total of seven for that weekend.

Mason's career has taken him to racetracks in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Mason's 1991 stakes victories include the Fiesta Futurity and the El Primero Training Center Futurity as well as the Bandera Challenge Series Championship aboard Quarter Horse of the Meet, Physical Boy. Mason rode Physical Boy to two track record s in the Bandera Challenge Series for quarter horses and thoroughbreds running "hook" races.

Mason was born May 31, 1967 in Fort Worth.

Ricky Walker

Ricky Walker was encouraged by his friends to ride thoroughbreds and won his first race in 1983.

Walker has raced in California, New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma, Louisiana and at Texas tracks.

Walker tied for leading rider with Nicky Wilson and Elbert Minchey during Bandera's 1990 inaugural racing season gaining his 46th victory aboard the very popular Mr. Collier.

He is known this year for riding Bonaparte. Walker rides most of trainer Vernon Pullin's horses.

Walker was born in Nixon Jan. 29, 1957.

Danny Lavergne

Danny Lavergne began his riding career at the very early age of 14 when [illegible] encouraged him to give it a try. It was love at first sight for Lavergne.

Lavergne has ridden at Delta Downs, Jefferson Downs, The Fairgrounds, Blue Ribbon Downs, La Mesa Park, Los Alamitos and all Texas tracks.

Lavergne's highlight of the season came when he scored his first thoroughbred stakes victory aboard Marc's Winner in the Texas Thoroughbred Breeders Association Sale Futurity.

Track announced Don Alexander dubbed Lavergne the "King of the Hook" for his numerous wins in "hook" races — races where quarter horses and thoroughbreds race either 870 or 1,000 yards around the turn.

Lavergne was born in Kinder, La. October 27, 1959.

Jesse Sauceda

Jesse Sauceda comes from a family with a deep tradition in horse racing. Sauceda's father, an uncle and cousin were all jockeys. He now dedicates his riding to his cousin, Leonard Cantu, who was killed a few years ago.

Sauceda is well known in the San Antonio area, having won the riding title in 1988-1989 at Bandera Downs during its non-pari mutuel days, although he only began to ride in 1986.

Sauceda has ridden at Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park as well as all the racetracks currently operating in Texas.

Sauceda arose as the crowd favorite in 1990 and was the first Bandera Downs jockey to win five races in one day at Bandera.

Later in 1990, he tested positive for narcotics and was banned from riding.

He returned in 1991, after complying with strict testing provisions and has gradually risen in standings in his riding.

Sauceda rides for trainer Todd Taylor and under Taylor's schooling, the quarter horse rider has begun to ride in "hook" races and even thoroughbreds.

Sauceda was born July 16, 1969 in San Antonio.

Danny Campbell

Danny Lee Campbell's riding career began in 1973 and his interest in racing came from his horse-trainer father.

Campbell has ridden in Los Alamitos, Delta Downs and Ladbroke DRC, Sunland Park, Beulah Park and all

Killer Bees, or Africanized Honey Bees, have been found in 18 counties in South Texas and are expected to make it as far north as San Antonio this year. Bee traps have been placed in Bandera County, and experts are watching the bees to begin swarming. Please see story on Page 6.

Barker, Jewett in runoff; Vannatter Janet Cave win in GOP primary

By Nick Johnson
Bulletin Editor

Bandera County Republicans Tuesday overwhelmingly repudiated incumbent county attorney Sam Darden and nominated former Deputy James MacMillan of Lakehills to take on incumbent Sheriff Steve Forest in November's general election.

Incumbent county commissioner Bennie Barker of Wharton's Dock was forced into a runoff by political newcomer Michael Jewett of Pipe Creek, while tax activist Bobby Jones ran a poor third in the three-man race.

Louis Vannatter of Medina took the nomination for commissioner in precinct 3 with 53.7 percent of the votes in the closest major race of the day.

Republicans also repudiated their party chairman, turning Gary Johnston out of office by giving challenger Janet Cave 54.5 percent of the vote.

The county's Democrats gave Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton a clear majority of 55.8 percent of their votes for their party's presidential nomination, and President George Bush got a comfortable vote of confidence from the county's Republicans with 65.1 percent of the votes.

Republican challenger Pat Buchanan got 23.4 percent and Klu Klux Klan leader David Duke polled a paltry 3.6 percent.

In the most lopsided victory of the day, Bandera city attorney Kerry Schneider polled 1,367 votes to Darden's 509 to unseat the long-time county attorney with fully 72.9 percent of the vote.

MacMillan's victory was nearly as big. He got 1,243 votes to challenger Marc Sultan's 605, a clear majority of 67.3 percent of the votes cast.

His victory sets up a rematch of the race he lost against Forest in 1988's Democratic Primary. MacMillan switched parties to seek the Republican nomination this year.

Barker missed winning without a runoff by 1.1 percent, compiling 48.9 percent of the votes cast to Jewett's 35.7 percent. Jones polled 15.3 percent.

He needed 285 votes to win without a runoff, and he missed that total by a mere seven votes.

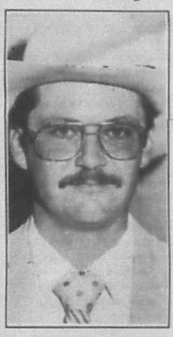
He carried his home box in Wharton's Dock with 70.1 percent of the votes and carried voting box No. 1 in Bandera with 52.3 percent.

He also carried Jewett's home box with 43.0 percent of the votes to Jewett's 42.2 percent, but the Pipe Creek builder's 157 votes in that box was seven more than he needed to throw the race into a runoff, which will be held next month.

Nomination in the Republican primary is tantamount to victory since there was no Democratic candidate.

Schneider carried each of the county's 11 voting box in overwheming Darden. She polled 205 votes to Darden's 50 in Box No. 7, Darden's home box, a majority of fully 80.4 percent.

Kerry Schnieder



James MacMillan

She got a majority of 82.9 percent, 63 to 13, in Box No. 11, Wharton's Dock.

MacMillan carried nine of the 11 boxes with healthy majorities, but Sultan managed an 18-18 tie in Box No. 8, Tarpley, and eaked out a narrow, two-vote victory in Box 10, Vanderpool, 32-30.

MacMillan got an overwhelming 494 to 87 majority, or 85.0 percent, in the two Lakehills voting boxes.

Johnston managed slim majorities in two voting boxes – No. 6 (46-32) and No. 9 (45-36), both in Medina.

But Cave led in the remaining 11 boxes to take a 910 to 759 victory.

She takes office immediately following next month's runoff election, as do the precinct chairs elected Tuesday. The remainder of the winners must await November's general election, and the eventual winners take office on Jan. 1.

A total of 2,015 voters cast their ballots in the Republican primary, fully 74.7 percent of the total. Only 681 voted in the Democratic primary where there were no local contested races.

Republicans gave Bush a rousing vote of confidence with 1,262 votes to Buchanan's 453. A total of 150 voters cast their ballot for "uncommitted," the Republican's version of "none of the above."

Bandera County Republicans favored former Austin mayor Carol Rylander for railroad commissioner with a 53.0 percent majority, and gave a 52.9 percent majority to Charles Ben Howell for supreme court justice.

Democrats favored challenger David Young over incumbent Lena Guerrero.

Republicans favored Jim Deats over Charles Johnson of Kerrville, who had pulled out of the race for state senate too late to keep his name off the ballot. Deats got a mere 55.6 majority, however, over a man who wasn't even in the race.

Short-handed city council gives workers 3- and 5-percent raises

Bandera city council Monday gave 3 to 5 percent raises to city employees that will cost the city $4,222.40 over the next 12 months.

Nine of the 10 full-time employees got hikes. Public works director Rey Garcia is covered by a separate contract and didn't share in the council's Monday-night generousity.

Council member Vera King held out for higher increases for two employees who were passed over last year while Ross Bailey, with the support of Mayor Raymond Adamietz, wanted equal across-the-board hikes for all employees.

Clint Dowell urged postponing action on the raises until a full council was present, but King and Bailey pressed for immediate action. Bob Abbey and Dorothy Darden were absent.

Brian Cummings and James Sutton got 5-percent hikes while the other seven got more modest 3-percent increases. Cummings and Sutton did not get raises a year ago when the last round of pay hikes was handed out.

Cummings' new hourly rate is $6 and Sutton's is $5.67.

Police chief Walter Welch's pay was increased to $10.39 per hour, or $21,611.20 per year.

City secretary Judy Dunn's hourly pay was raised to $8.47, or $17,617.60 per year, but she got a $700 bonus last month.

Police officer Mike Bolton was given a 23-cents per hour hike to $7.74, or $16,099 per year, not counting overtime, and officer Shane Merritt was increased to $7.34 per hour, or 15,267 per year.

Julian Campos was increased to $6.32 per hour, or $13,146; Jose De La Fuente to $5.67 per hour, or $11,794; and Mike Cardenas to $5.15 per hour, or $10,712.

Only three council members were present Monday, and they whipped through a short agenda in exactly one hour.

In other action they renewed the city's agreement with the Farmers Market Association for use of city property and waiving of vendors' permit fees.

They also designated April 12-19 as Clean Up, Fix Up and Paint Up Week in Bandera, scheduling the annual pickup of bulky material for April 20, endorsed a commercial device sold by Lurker Family Industries of Bandera which is reported to save energy costs, and refused to consider increases in utility rates.

They also appointed Martin Smith election judge for municipal elections next month and named Sally Rodrigues clerk and alternate judge and Pauline Stevens clerk.

One charged in murder of Bandera youth gets life

The San Antonio man who pleaded guilty to killing Alan Lynn Richardson, 18, of Bandera on July 10, 1990, must serve at least 15 years in prison before he can be considered for parole and has been ordered to pay $3,000 to the Richardson family.

Frederick Eugene Herrera, 20, of San Antonio was sentenced to life in prison for his role in the robbery and execution-style slaying of Richardson after pleading guilty. A second charge of aggravated robbery against him was dismissed.

A second San Antonio man, John Jesse Martinez, 24, was also charged in the case.

The killing occurred after Richardson apparently left a northwest Bexar County convenience store with the pair during discussion of the purchase of stereo equipment.

According to Bexar County criminal investigator Jim DeLoedernier, Richardson was killed when he resisted an attempt to rob him.

Mourners overflowed Grimes Chapel at Richardson's funeral after the school refused a request from the youth's family to hold the services in the school auditorium.

Opinion

letters to the editor

It wasn't a tough town

Dear editor:

Hurriedly I w rite. Please forward this letter to Karen Ripley (owner of dog shot three times in Lakehills). I am an old Bandera person and I am so ashamed that her dog was shot. I am in sympathy with her.

When I knew Bandera more than 40 or 50 years, it was not a tough town. Now as we know it, people were interested in one another and everyone did for each other. I am so glad that I knew it during the "zenith" days The dude ranches were bursting at the seams, and we had repeat business.

I think back now and there are not too many people whom I knew. L.G. Bill Crow (in my personal mind) is in a home. The western store's A.D. Small could have told you about me. I was once a three-year guest at Mayan (Ranch.) I lived there, then in town. The Bill Morrises owned it then. Howard Short and Snuffy I think are still there, but when you get old so does everyone else.

I have taken The Bulletin for years (a Dixie Dude Ranch gift) and I try to keep up with people.

I wish you luck and I do hope the dog recovers.

Wants animal control

Dear editor:

This letter is in response to "Your basic Bandera," by Peggy Tobin (The Bulletin, March 4). The innocent slaughter of those shep by loose dogs is nothing short of deplorable! This is not the first time, and unfortunately will not be the last that I have read about incidents such as this.

Loose dogs, cats and other animals as well, seems to be a real problem that has escalated since I retired and made Bandera my home.

A solution that may be considered is to establish two full-time "animal control" positions, or one full-time and one volunteer position. Negligent owners of loose animals should be fined, and the monies from those fines would help defray some of the expenses associated with animal control.

I believe that requiring our law enforcement officials (county or city) to perform this function is perhaps stretching the "to serve" part of "To Protect and To Serve" logo just a little too far, and demeaning as well.

Because money is tight, the funding for animal control is certainly a major issue. However, if the residents of Bandera County should truly wast animal control, then perhaps the appropriate "county officials" could determine the source from which the money could be made available.

It made me proud

Dear editor:

To all the residents of Bandera and Wharton's Dock, I would like to publicly say thank you for all the assistance following the recent fire.

The American Red Cross was not only helpful with providing a place to stay those first two nights and basic clothes, but also providing a means to relocate and rent an apartment. Their immediate response aiding in getting emergency leave for my son, Chief Petty Office Michael Thomas, home from Norfolk, Va., meant so very much.

Even though my home was a total loss, I would like to thank the Bandera Fire Department for their assistance and the (Lakeshore) Fire Department at Wharton's Dock for containing the fire, thus preventing further tragedy.

I do not know the names of all those from Wharton's Dock that helped, but to them and the congregation of the Walker Memorial Baptist Church, thanks to all of you.

Thank you seems so inadequate, but it is especially times like this that makes me proud to be an American.

Lesson learned

Dear editor:

At the Alkek Elementary School Talent Show last Friday night some inappropriate music was played for one of the acts. This music was not the music the girls auditioned or rehearsed with and was not approved at any time. Below is a letter from the young ladies responsible for this error.

Carla J. Lukachik
Teacher, Alkek School

Dear editor:

Our names are (withheld by the editor), and this is about the tape at the talent show. We did not follow Ms. Lukachik's directions when she told us to have our song on a blank tape. We did not know that the song we brought to Ms. Lukachik had bad words on it, and she trusted us and used what we brought her. We are very sorry that we used that song and will never play that music again.

We learned a lesson and we hope everyone will forgive us.

The taxpayer paid

Dear editor:

A short time ago we received an elaborate "report" from (State) Sen. Temple Dickson. This report, complete with multiple photographs, so-called honors and unabashed self-laudatory anecdotes, was about all the great things that our senator has been doing for us.

You can imagine how surprised we were to earn that this was apparently paid for by taxpayer dollars — our money. When asked about this at the McMurray (College) Forum by reporter Bob Bruce of the abilene Reporter-News, Sen. Dickson's reply was couched in the elusive double-talk of a skilled trial lawyer. As Mr. Bruce paraphrased his answer, "legal, nothing improper, within the guidelines as prescribed by law."

Senate records indicate that on the average each of such mailings to 160,000 households costs $32,700. As this was very clearly a campaign blurb, we would appreciate it if Sen. Dickson would pay for this out of his campaign funds rather than with our tax dollars.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Gov. Ann Richards will likely call lawmakers into a mid-May special session for a fourth try at reforming public school finance.

Some think she will unveil her own plan for legislators to adopt; three previous tries were all ruled unconstitutional, a puzzling phenomenon since lawyer-lawmakers dominated the bill-writing process.

In May, the political heat on lawmakers should be at the lowest point, since Texas held its primaries this week and the general election won't be held until November.

By then, politicians hope, voters will be so enmeshed in the presidential fury they will have forgotten whatever grudge may arise – probably higher taxes – from the coming special session.

Workers Comp Appeal

The Texas 4th Court of Appeals opened hearings to decide whether a lower court judge erred in declaring unconstitutional the 1989 Texas workers compensation insurance reform.

Judge Ray Perez of Maverick County struck down the law last year as restricting workers' access to courts; a pro-business group is suing to reinstate the reform which they contend is equitable and less expensive.

House Speaker Gifts

House Transportation Committee chairman David Cain, D-Dallas, has received more political contributions, over $250,000, than any other candidate for House speaker.

Other top gift leaders are Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, with almost $134,000; James Hury, D-Galveston, $106,000; and Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, with $85,000.

Five other Democrat hats are also in the ring, but veteran lawmakers caution that despite the money, the real race may not shape up until after November, when Republicans tally their membership.

Term Limits Boosted

Regarding Texas House issues, citizens group Texans for Term Limitations released its poll showing one-third of incumbent state representatives want term limitations for state officials.

More telling, about three-fourths of challengers for House seats support limiting terms of office for politicians.

On a different front, state Rep. Dan Kubiak said 85 percent of current House members plan to support his proposed amendment seeking to limit terms of the House speaker only.

Kubiak also wants to cap speaker campaign expenditures at $15,000, or twice the amount of legislators' annual salary.

Morales, Megatons, Ministry

Attorney General Dan Morales said he opposes the Department of Energy plan to build a nuclear waste dump near Amarillo, calling it a potential environmental disaster.

The feds plan to dismantle 2,000 nuclear warheads a year at Pantex Plant and store about 100,000 pounds of plutonium there until a permanent site is found.

Tilton said Morales faxed copies of the probe's lawsuit to the media before serving it to the church.

Morales started the probe for fraud last year and was temporarily restrained by the judge last month.

Other Highlights

■ State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchinson said the Texas Legislature's "budget creep" and high state taxes were taking their toll on business expansion and consumer spending.

She warned that as state legislatures nationwide restructure their tax bases, "only those that bit the bullet instead of dodging it will survive these tough times."

■ U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office said he is neither encouraging nor discouraging petitions to draft him as the presidential nominee at the Democratic National Convention.

■ The Massachusetts candidate, Paul Tsongas, gestured toward the Alamo, during a speech in San Antonio last week, and accused Presidents Bush and Reagan of disparaging the honest Texans who defended the Alamo.

■ Texas Comptroller John Sharp reported the 205 counties outside metropolitan areas had a net loss of 2,000 jobs between 1985-90.

But the top 15 non-metropolitan counties added jobs faster than the statewide average, with the top 10 counties tripling it.

The top 15: Hunt, Titus, Nacogdoches, Angelina, Erath, Maverick, Wharton, Calhoun, Frio, Uvalde, Cherokee, Val Verde, Robertson, Hood and Hale counties.

Sharp's report also said the number of counties without a doctor rose from 10 to 19, and that half of the rural counties have a critical shortage of primary-care physicians.

■ Two national reports said factory orders were up, as were sales of American-made cars and trucks; the rate declined for Americans behind on their mortgage payments.

gave their state Sen. Bill Sims of San Angelo a healthy 70.8 percent majority over his opponent, Sen. Temple Dickson, also an incumbent who was thrown into the same district as Sima by the controversial senate redistricting bill passed earlier this year.

The Democrats gave Ted Coulter a 260-193 majority for state board of education.

Republican precinct chairs who won in contested races include Judy Dunn, 168 to 57, over Millie Rader in Precinct No. 3; and county commissioner Roger Raser, 125-98, over incumbent Richard Thornber.

The county's GOP voted overwhelmingly in favor of a non-binding referendum favoring limits on the number of terms elected officials may serve.

The local Republicans favored the limitations 1,219 to 202, or fully 85.8 percent of the votes cast.

Schmidt, Colburn injured in head-on collision

Two Bandera men were injured in a head-on collision Wednesday, March 4 on State Hwy. 16 1.9 miles north of Bandera.

According to a report by Department of Public Safety trooper Dan Butts, a 1983 Chevrolet pick-up driven by Timothy Schmidt, 31, and a 1985 Ford pick-up driven by Louis Colburn, collided on Hwy 16 at the intersection of FM 470.

According to Butts, Schmidt was traveling south and Colburn was traveling north, and Colburn turned left in front of Schmidt, causing the collision.

The road was wet from recent rain, and the flood-swollen river was visible from the intersection, causing Butts to speculate that "this may have distracted Colburn," causing him to fail to yield the right-of way. Schmidt's vehicle laid down 57 feet of straight skid marks, Butts said.

Both men were transported via EMS to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital.

Third quarter sales down locally

Gross sales in Bandera County in the third quarter of 1991 were fully 31.7 percent below sales a year earlier, according to figures released this week by the state comptroller of public accounts.

Sales of all kinds in the third quarter of last year totaled $8.4 million, down from $12.3 million during the same three months of 1990.

The number of retail sales outlets also dropped dramatically, from 176 in 1990 to 147 in the third quarter of 1991. Of the $8.4 million in sales in the county from July through September, &5.4 million were subject to the state sales and use tax, the comptroller said. During the same period sales in Bexar County were up 15.0 percent and up 4.2 percent in Kerr County.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be ready to talk through recent problems. By the weekend, you will get to the bottom of the matter. Celebrations come after a resolution. Meanwhile, you may hear a lot of sidebar comments and whispers. Just know that others are responding to the week's weird vibes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are a powerhouse to deal with from the get-go. Nobody really minds until you and a partner get into a tug-o-war. Careful as you cruise into the weekend, you think everything is okay. You could discover you have pushed too hard, back when you were feeling your oats.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Get used to the roller coaster ride because it's already in motion, and what would be even scarier would be to jump off. Greed, jealousy, etc. (most of Pandora's box), prevail by the weekend. Make love not war' needs to be your weekend motto.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Read Gemini for a hint. (It seems you both bought a ticket to the same roller coaster ride, only you're sitting further back.) When you set sail for the weekend, you may only encounter — if you're lucky — a slight swaying into the wind. Do be careful ... not to fall overboard.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You're on a high cycle this week. You do a major juggling act with your personal and professional needs. The good news is the act works. General celebration runs riot in the middle of the week. You need to refuel'as the weekend begins — you once again take off for yonder lands.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Really check it out, before you make any definitive statement — you'll be much happier. Accept what is and simply focus on 'getting the job done'. Consider starting on an early weekend since you've been so dutiful. You know, the bait is certainly there.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Being a duo is what you're looking at. Please, look into other solutions or call in an expert problem solver if your motives aren't pure. You work late into the weekend. When you let loose, you really do. Don't count on appearing at work next week, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Let another call the shots — you're pleased and delighted. You can learn a lot about this person. Look to arriving at new agreements. Try a more adventuresome approach. Prepare to take off at the drop of a hat. Whatever comes up, you're ready, willing and able.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You may have good intentions, perhaps even great intentions, but the social beast in you awakens and you're off and away (at least from work). Consider taking some vacations days since you're not really present anyway. Spring fever (hot pursuit!) dominates the weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) That surge of creative ideas comes out and helps you score bonus points this week. Listen more, concentrate more, and you are amply rewarded. Your social life responds to your intensity. My, my — aren't we in demand? Get into the fever .. hey, don't forget your little black book!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may have a hard time getting going this week, but once you do ... there's no stopping you. Be less bewildered and more direct. By the way, it wouldn't be a bad idea to make time for work this week, even if there are better things to do. Discipline yourself, Aquarius, discipline.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Talk all you want, post all you want, be coy, too, if you must — but nothing is going to change the facts. Stay centered and handle what is unavoidable. Make time for friends and loved ones as the weekend begins. You discover you really can jump this hurdle.

"The earth is the kosher of all creatures.

She gives them life and they give her songs.
Great trees and tiny herbs, roaring seas and whispering winds,
Wind and waves-all have a soul.
Woodland breezes in spring, buzzing insects in fall
-all sing their songs to the Earth.
The breeze's sigh and the torrent's roar
-both are hymns to life.
Let all living things rejoice in this!"

- hymn from Shinto, Japan's oldest religion

Japan. The Japanese call their country Nippon or Nihon which means "source of the sun." Michael Crichton's best selling novel, "Rising Sun" was rushed into stores across the country a month early following President Bush's embarrassing trip to Asia and the continuing headlines detailing Japan's contempt toward U.S. goods and workers.

In this murder mystery, Crichton makes the case that the U.S. has gotten soft and had better wake up in its economic dealing with Japan. He argues persuasively that the Japanese have seized control of our economy through unfair trade practices and bought off the media, the universities and the U.S. government itself.

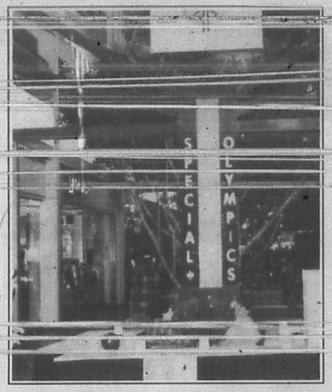
On the surface, "Rising Sun" is the story of how two Los Angeles detectives (one fluent in Japanese) solve the killing of a beautiful blond call girl on the night that the Japanese corporation Nakamoto is opening its giant L.A. headquarters. Crichton opens the book with the Japanese motto, "business is war."

Michael Crichton was born October 23, 1942, in Chicago. He graduated summa cum laude from Harvard College and received his M.D. from Harvard Medical School (does not practice). Crichton's books include, Jurassic Park, The Andromeda Strain, The Terminal Man and Congo. He has directed several films, including a film version of his own book, The Great Train Robbery.

In 1987 Crichton buying American cars: He currently drives a Ford Explorer. "It's very simple," he says. "I want Americans to buy my books and I want to put my money back into American products."

Your Library has a copy of "Rising Sun" ready to be checked out- if it's in that is. We will be glad to put your name on our reserve list for this or any other book, if you so wish.

Until next time, Happy Reading.



This apparatus, built by Hearn Products, inc., of Bandera, will be used to entice 25-cent donations for the Special Olympics in the Food Court area of North Star Mall March 24-April 20. The unique display accepts quarters on a series of tracks, sliding from the top to the bottom and setting off a series of lights on a giant pachinko machine styled after the Special Olympics logo.

Elephant's birthday to be a part of circus

The 25th birthday party for "Bo," a veteran circus elephant, is one of the activities surrounding the King Royal Brothers circus appearing at Bandera's Manafield Park Rodeo March 15.

The birthday party will be held at 1 p.m. and all area children are invited to "attend the elephant birthday party," says circus spokeswoman Norma Frazier.

The Indian elephant weighs 3 1/2 tons and the children are invited to bring "presents" such as apple, carrots and fruit.

The children will be treated to cake and will be able to touch the elephant.

The circus also has an African elephant. "She's the one with the big ears," says Frazier.

There is no charge for the birthday party.

Circus performances are scheduled for 2 and 4 p.m.

Tickets for the circus are available at Janett's, The Mercantile, Bandera EconoLodge and the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce office.

Tickets are available through Saturday, March 14, at $6 for children.

Tickets at the gate Sunday afternoon will be $8 for adults and $6 for children.

Elephants, troupe artist and clowns will make their appearance during the circus.

One more dog story and we'll let go for a while.

Our shack in Colorado is located on a hillside in a community of cabins which have been there long enough for the entire area to be placed on the National Register of Historic Sites. Originally the little mountain park on the South Platte River was the site of a lumbering operation of the boomtimes of the late nineteenth century.

Early photographs show an almost barren desert-like scene created by the intensive cutting of virgin timber. It has taken all of a century for pine and spruce to come back and for grass and forbs to cover the red gravel slopes and erosion ditches.

Only recently have deer and elk returned. Only now is there something for them to eat. Because they have been so rare in the past, it is a real thrill when we can look out the car window to watch elk crossing the road or to look out the kitchen window to see mule deer quietly working down our gulch.

There they were one morning last fall. But no sooner had we spotted them when two big yellow dogs came rushing up the hill, barking and snapping and causing the deer to turn tail in utter panic. We could hear the dogs for a long while after they went out of sight still in hot pursuit of the thrill of killing for the fun of it.

The dogs belong to neighbors who moved out into the mountains this past summer to get away from the hassle of Denver. They still work in the city, keeping hours in hospital jobs which mean that nobody is ever at home except on weekends.

At first they kept the two big yellow dogs tied on long clothesline leashes but then turned them out to run free. Late at night we can hear them whistling and calling their pets to come home from wherever they have been roaming all over the national forest.

At this point it seems the dogs are in charge of the neighborhood. The deer, the rabbits, elderly citizens out walking, or little kids climbing up the Bathtub Rock all venture out at their peril. Suddenly the country is no safer than the worst city street. —Ya basta. Let's change the subject.

If you missed the debate, which was really a roundtable discussion, moderated by Peter Jennings on ABC the other night, among the Democratic candidates for president, you missed one of the best frank exchanges on our nation's current situation yet aired. We had not been taken previously with any of the candidates of either party, but we must say that we were impressed with these guys and their detailed knowledge of the real issues.

Even Bill Clinton, who we have been thinking missed his calling when he chose politics rather than going to TV to give away blue jeans and Roper boots to buyers of Japanese pickup trucks. Even Senator Harkin, who had been coming across as a sour practitioner of the politics of envy. Even Jerry Brown, whose distrust of the Insiders is almost a mirror image of that of the Libertarians. And especially Paul Tsongas, who just keeps telling it like it is.

Tsongas has been put down for "talking funny." We understand that nobody listened to the Gettysburg Address at the time because Abraham Lincoln spoke in a high-pitched twang. HE TALKED FUNNY!

Soup and salad set to benefit Girls State

The Bandera American Legion Auxiliary will host its semi-annual soup and salad luncheon Thursday, March 19, at the Legion hall in Bandera.

The Unit #157 auxiliary will offer two kinds of soup and a large selection of salads and desserts.

Proceeds from the event will be used by the auxiliary to sponsor two girls to attend Girls State this summer. One girl will go from Bandera High School and one girl will go from Median High School. Marika Cook of Bandera has been selected to attend and Jean Flores is the alternate. Elizabeth Johnson of Medina has been selected to attend and Naomi Cook is the alternate.

The schools pick the girls based on their academic and other qualifications.

Moreno to appear

Rita Moreno will appear in concert with the San Antonio Pops Orchestra March 13-15 starting at 8 p.m. each night at the Majestic Theater.

Moreno, who in 1961 won the academy award for her performance in West Side Story, has also won the Grammy, Emmy and Tony award.

Africanized bees may hit Bandera

Bee traps span Hwy. 173

per, Africanized honey bees are expected to split out of winter hives as warm weather arrives, and according to Bandera County extension agent Warren Thigpen, there are several "bee trap" boxes in Bandera County.

"The traps are located about every mile from Hondo to Kerrville along (State Hwy.) 173," Thigpen said, "and we're telling people 'don't mess with them.'

"The public is being asked to leave the bee traps alone."

The traps are light turquoise-blue colored boxes that are hanging in trees along the highway right-of-way. Thigpen says the traps contain a bee attractant that attracts all bees, both the Africanized type and the European honey bees that are already here.

Thigpen said the bees are lured into the traps, then about every two weeks the traps are checked. Any bees found are taken to a lab and analyzed.

He also advised that anyone who sees a swarm of bees around one of the traps should stay clear of it and contact the extension office immediately.

Because Texas has had excessive rainfall and a temperate winter, a heavy increase in Africanized honey bee populations is expected, officials who monitor the bees said recently.

"We expect the amount of swarming activity to be a nightmare," said Elba Quintero of Harlingen, head of the South Texas AHB program for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). "We've already had a positive (AHB) sighting 15 miles south of Corpus Christi."

That AHB find comes about two months earlier than expected. The first AHB swarm last year was not found until April. Honey bees tend to swarm, or leave a hive en masse to find a new nesting site, mostly in the spring.

More than 450 AHB swarms have been detected in Texas since the first migrating swarm was discovered near Hidalgo in October 1990, according to APHIS documents.

Paul Jackson, Texas Apiary Inspection Service chief, expects the increase in swarm numbers to begin in late March.

"After the weather breaks into warmer temperatures, it usually is about three weeks later that we begin to see a lot of swarming," Jackson said.

With warmer weather, honey bees begin to rear brood which needs about three weeks to hatch, Jackson explained.

"Colonies begin to get crowded as the bees bring in a lot of pollen and nectar and new bees hatch out," Jackson said. "That's what starts the swarming."

Scientists at the USDA-Agricultural Research Service in Weslaco also believe South Texas is in for a "real boomer this spring."

"We are preparing for March to be wild in terms of collecting swarms," said Dr. Anita Collins, lead scientist. "If we get a hard freeze that kills the blooms, then it would delay the swarming for a while."

Tuesday at press time, a freeze was predicted for the

A concerned Wayne Hooper of Santa Fe, NM looks on as Pipe Creek EMT Tom Cavin attends Hooper's wife Beverly Monday afternoon, March 9. The Hoopers were traveling east on State Hwy. 16 on their way to Victoria when their late model Ford van struck an Oldsmobile sedan driven by Buck Powell of Kerrville at the intersection of Bear Creek Road. A witness said Powell's vehicle attempted to stop at the intersection but slid in front of the Hooper van because of gravel on the apron.

'Spring fling' scheduled in Boerne

The sixth annual "Spring Fling" Arts and Crafts Fair will be held in Boerne Saturday and Sunday, March 14 and 15, at the new dance hall on the Kendall County Fairgrounds.

As many as 65 dealers from all over the state will have quilts, folk art table arrangements, wreaths, music boxes, T-shirts, pillows, bird houses, and ceramics.

The fair will open at 10 a.m.

Obituaries

Thelma Stevens

Thelma M. Stevens, 88, of Midland died March 10 at her son's home in Midland. She was born April 26, 1903 in Nimrod, moving to Bandera to teach at the now closed Myrtle Creek school. She married Sam W. Stevens in 1927, and worked in later life as a bookkeeper in Kerrville. Her husband died in 1980.

She was a member of the Methodist Church, and was a past worthy matron of Bandera Chapter 643 of the Order of the Eastern Star. She started the first assembly of the Order of Rainbow for Girls in Bandera.

Survivors include a son, Sam Marshall Stevens of Midland; a sister, Julia McDaniel, and a brother, John E. Brown, both of Bandera; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Graveside services were scheduled to be Friday, March 13 at 2 p.m. in Bandera Cemetery with the Rev. Jarrell Sharp officiating.

Byron Harrison

Byron C. Harrison Jr., 56, of Plano died March 8 in Plano. He was born March 22, 1935 in Mineral Wells.

Survivors include his wife, Joan Harrison of Plano; a son, Byron A. "Tony" Harrison of Houston; daughters Jeanette Gilstrap of Addison and Jamie Dean of Plano; brothers Tom Harrison of Georgetown and Bill Harrison of Cleburne; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were Tuesday, March 10 at Ted Dickey Funeral Home Chapel in Plano. Burial was to be Wednesday, March 11 at 2 p.m. in Bandera Cemetery.

James Clarke

The Rev. James H. Clarke, 84, of San Antonio, father of Tadie Ruth Walker Gomez of Lakehills, died Thursday, Feb. 28 in Humana Hospital in San Antonio.

Other survivors include his wife, Myrtle Clarke of San Antonio; a son, James H. Clarke of San Antonio; four other daughters, Katheryn Valerio, Mary Ellen Hunt, Sandra Dvorak and Peggy Jean Wurth, all of San Antonio; three sisters, Mary Ruth Clarke, Tadie Prokopchak and Fay Gadd, all of San Antonio; 29 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren. Services were conducted Saturday by the Rev. Barry Mattock at Mission Funeral Home North.

Carolina Grosser

Carolina Erfurt Grosser, 91, of Wetsmore, died March 8. She was the sister of the late Henry Erfurt of Tarpley, and the aunt of Arthur Erfurt of Tarpley, Leroy Erfurt of Bandera and Hilda Erfurt Caldwell of Atkina, Ark.

Gallagher new ASCS director

Joy Gallagher became Bandera's ASCS county executive director on Feb. 10. Gallagher succeeds Timothy Dahl, who moved to Pleasanton.

A native of Mason, Gallagher has a degree in agricultural economics from Texas A&M University and she worked in Georgetown before coming to Bandera.

"Our main goal is to help the (agricultural) producers," Gallagher said. Two main focuses are successful cedar eradication and wool and mohair production.

Another area ASCS is currently working on is a 1990-91 major disaster program that gives assistance to those with failed crops or low yield.

Gallagher has a husband, Garland, who is employed at Bandera Downs. The couple has a 19-month-old daughter Robin.

Joy Gallagher is Bandera County's new executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). She is a native of Mason, and worked for a year in Georgetown.

Parenting classes set to begin

Emphasis different in each of four groups

Improving relationships between parents and children will be the focus of four parenting classes that are scheduled to begin March 23-31. The classes are sponsored by the Bandera County Parenting Coalition and the Bandera County Extension Service in cooperation with Bandera Independent School District and the Bandera County Christian Fellowship.

"Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP) encourages mutual respect between parents and children," says county extension agent Jan Bryson. "It leads to increased cooperation, more effective communication and a more responsible, self-reliant attitude among youth.

"Parenting classes address the special challenges faced by parents of teenagers, elementary, and toddler ages."

The first class, "Strengthening Step-Families," is a 9-week class, and is designed to aid the "His-Hers-Ours Family" to cope with its challenges. The class is scheduled to begin Monday, March 23 from 7 to 8:30 a.m. at Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church (Little Rock Church.) Cost is $60.

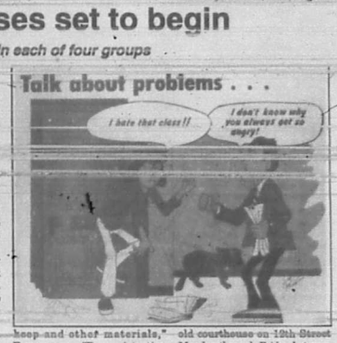
"Systematic Training for Effective Parenting" is designed to aid the parents of elementary age children, and is scheduled to begin Tuesday, March 24 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church. Cost is $15 for the seven-week class.

The third class, "STEP for Parents of Teens," is a 10-week class, and is scheduled to begin Tuesday, March 24 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Pipe Creek Presbyterian Church. Cost is $10.

Finally, "STEP Early Childhood," a series of six classes, is scheduled to begin Tuesday, March 31 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church. Cost is $15.

"The class fee includes your own parenting handbook to keep and other materials," Bryson says. "Pre-registration is required."

Participants can register at the County Extension Office in the old courthouse on 12th Street Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. For additional information, call Bryson at 796-7755.



FACTS OR MORE MISLEADING ADVERTISING???

Commissioner Barker's opponents talked about a "building issue" and "red ink problems" in their political advertising last week.
Again, it was a lot of budget figures and statements that were deliberately used out of context to create doubt and confusion.

The shop building WAS budgeted for in the miscellaneous line item of the road and bridge budget and it was APPROVED by Commissioners Court. County employees pitched in one half a day to help get the roof shingles on before the rain. The rest of it was done on contract labor that did not take away from road maintenance. The county septic inspector inspected each phase of the septic system installation for the building. The county does not show any record of issuing permits to itself for any septic installations on county property in the past. If it is determined that a permit is required, Pct. #1 will comply.

Commissioner Barker made no promise on paving, he reported a schedule in his progress report and cautioned that weather could throws it off schedule. He also stated that if that happened, they would do those behind schedule in the next season, so where is the beef?

The so-call "red ink problems" occur for each precinct in the county from time to time and county records clearly indicate that they ALL must contend with cash flow shortages when taxes are slow coming in.

Your roads will be properly maintained and within budget, and we thank you for your support of Commissioner Bennie Barker.

The Archbishop Patrick F. Flores of San Antonio consecrates the new CCD building at St. Victor's Catholic Chapel in Lakehills Sunday as one of the youths that will be using the building looks on. The large meeting room of the building was packed with adults and children, including Msgr. Michael McManus, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Charles Blasen, who usually conducts services at the church.

Archbishop Patrick Flores consecrates CCD building at St. Victor's Chapel

The Archbishop Patrick F. [illegible] consecrated the new CCD building at St. Victor's Catholic Chapel in Lakehills Sunday with the Msgr. Michael McManus, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Charles Blasen, who usually conducts services at the church present.

The project started one day short of a year before the dedication when McManus asked members of the St. Victor's finance committee to consider a new building for CCD, i.e., Catholic education classes, reports Nancy MacMillan.

The committee discussed building a new building, find [illegible] proposals and settled on purchasing a barracks from Ft. Sam Houston in August. The building was moved to a brush-cleared location behind the church that same month.

With Stanley Tschirhart and David Mayer as project managers, work began.

Members of the church donated labor and materials in the renovation of the building.

But not only did church members contribute, but members of the community also contributed to the renovation of the building. "We are extremely proud of those who worked on this project, who do not attend our church," said Macmillan. "It is the Lakehills 'Spirit of Community' help which comes to the fore whenever there is a job to be done, which always benefits our community as a whole."

The 2,400-square foot building has five classrooms, one large meeting room, restrooms and an office.

The building was first used for classes Oct. 20 in the partially completed building.

The CCD program is opened to children from age four through junior high. As many as 60 children are in the program.

"Work continues on the building, but we now have a structure building well suited to not only our purposes, but it may also be used by other members of the community who were so generous in helping this project become a reality."

Well, the rains seem to come each week and last Tuesday night was no exception with as much as 3 inches of rain in our area, causing creeks to rise again and water gape to wash out.

•I need to make a correction in a news item recently. It should have read Joel and Mary Garcia's daughter Jolyn and husband Vern Shrock of Santa Cruz, Calif are moving to Tarpley area to make their home-not that Jolyn is the daughter of Manual Floresscorry about that.

•Saturday March 21,the Williams Creek Extension Homemakers and the Rio Hondo Study group ladies will sponsor a bake sale and "small articles" flea market in down town Tarpley to benefit the upkeep of the Tarpley Community Center building.

•Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood received word Saturday of the death of her sister in law Mrs. Gladys Partner of Baytown. They left Monday to attend her services on Tuesday at 10 p.m. in Baytown. They will return home on Wednesday.

•Mr. and Mrs. Anton Haner visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tatsch of New Braunafels, Tx. Sunday.

•Sorry to report those not feeling so well are Ashley and Clacy Billings-twin daughters of Clay and Lindy Billings.

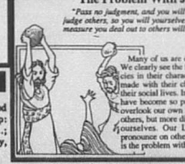
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The Problem With Judging Others

"Pass no judgment, and you will not be judged. For as you judge others, so you will yourselves be judged, and whatever measure you deal out to others will be dealt back to you."
— Matthew 7: 1-2



Many of us are experts on how other people ought to live. We clearly see the flaws in their personalities and the deficiencies in their character. We can tell the mistakes others have made with their children, their marriages, their careers, and their social lives. In this passage, Jesus boldly declares that we have become so preoccupied with the sins of others that we overlook our own failures. It is easy to recognize mistakes in others, but more difficult to recognize those same mistakes in ourselves. Our Lord reminds us that the judgment we pronounce on others will be the judgment applied to us. That is the problem with judging others!

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

...Have you ever had a day that didn't begin just the way you thought it would? You got out of bed with the confident feeling that the day would be a great one...and there was no soap in the shower--the toast burned and you spilled your juice and you had to change your shirt. You finally get to work late and find you had left your brief case at home!

Do you wonder why there are days like those? I believe there is a purpose for such days. I believe we can learn from adversity what we sometimes can't learn from prosperity. I believe that adversity causes some people to break down, and others to break records.

When you have such a bad day, try making a list of all the adversities and then ask yourself this question: "What can I learn from these difficult situations and what was God trying to teach me?" There is a reason He brings us good days and not so good days. There is a purpose in all our life's encounters. Each day is a new one and each will bring its lessons with it. Have the courage to face each day with the attitude that you will prosper from it even if it brings some adversity rather than prosperity...

Jeannette Saul, left, Judy Pue, and Margaret Evans sign the papers to turn over the rights to the Bandera County History Book to the Frontier Times Museum as museum representative Wanda Fitzpatrick looks on Thursday, March 5.

History book rights, title turned over to museum

The three members of the Bandera County History Book Committee turned over "all right and title" to the Bandera County History Book Thursday, March 5, to the Frontier Times Museum.

Members Jeannette Saul, Judy Pue, and Margaret Evans gave a check totaling $1,025.43 as the final proceeds from sales of the book to the museum. "It's all the money we had left," said Pue.

According to Pue, the museum now has the copyright to the book. "It's our contribution to the community of Bandera County," said Pue.

Madrona Garden Club to meet

Silver Sage Corral

Manuel Flores

What a beautiful day it was last Saturday for our Spring plant sale. We had five arts and crafts vendors and of course the chef broiled hamburgers.

Our group of volunteers [illegible] day to get everything ready and Saturday morning everything began to take shape.

The volunteers had a grand time talking over the different plants and how best to grow them. There was a lot of trading and promises to bring starts of this and that kind of plant next year.

The hamburger booth had all [illegible] it opened. Our apologies to those that had to wait. Next time we will have two charbroilers.

It would be very difficult to thank everyone who donated plants, worked, or otherwise helped with this special day. We would however, like to take this opportunity to thank Fred and Kim Mahaffey for donating the hamburger and buns for our food booth. These two are very special friends of the Silver Sage Corral and all the senior citizens of Bandera County.

•The Silver Sage Corral was host to the monthly meeting of the Volunteer Services Council from Kerrville March 10. There were representatives from Kerrville, Boerne, Comfort and Bandera. The volunteers at the center gave demonstrations on various arts and crafts projects, the Boutique was open, refreshments were served and questions concerning different programs sponsored by the center were answered. The Melodiers and AutoAngels presented a program at the Silver Sage Center for the council. Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer was there. In other words, we treated the council to a Bandera Welcome.

•The Melodiers and AutoAngels have decided to host their Sing-Along quarterly instead of monthly from now on. The Sing-Along will be followed by a covered dish dinner.

The date of the next Sing-Along and dinner will be June 5. The Sing-Along will begin at 5 p.m., and dinner will be at 6 p.m.

The event is open to anyone who enjoys singing, not just members of the Melodiers.

The Melodiers and AutoAngels presented a program of Irish songs to the residents of the Bandera Nursing Home March 3. Through their songs they traveled to Dublin, Claddaugh, and Galway Bay and other Irish locations.

After the Melodiers and AutoAngels played for the monthly meeting of the Volunteer Services Council March 10, the immediately left and traveled to Kerrville to entertain at the Edgewater Care Center. This is a very busy group.

•One of the morning exercise class members is now a licensed pilot:

Congratulations Marti Redman, we are proud of you!

•We would like to remind you that the Silver Sage Corral is not only for senior citizens but for anyone who wants to learn something new and remain active. Come visit the center and see all the things we have to offer.

Artists schedule pot luck dinner

Bandera County Artists will have a pot luck dinner at their next regular meeting Monday, March 16 at the Bandera bank COmmunity Building. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m.

All members are asked to bring a covered dish.

The group will participate in an arts and crafts show Saturday, March 21 in Bandera, near the Bandera County Jail.

For more information about the show, contact the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce, or contact Patricia Moore at the Horseshoe Inn.

Mada Wedgworth

Rudy and Helen Soliz and Reedy from the First Baptist Church conducted church services for the residents Sunday afternoon. Several songs were sung. Guest were Lillian Ray and Marley Johnson.

•The Rosary group met for prayers and singing Monday evening and included residents Cecelia Leal, Evelyn Hostelter, Ada Sehon, and from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church were Dorothy Callahan, Aggie Batto and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

•The Melodiers and Auto Angels from the Silver Sage Corral came last week to sing some good ole Irish songs. M.C. was Dean Isaacs, Director, Florence Isaacs, and Judy Goodenough played the fiddle. Solos were sung by Paul Westmeyer and Art Bunch. Others signing the guest book were Dolores Heeg, Dolores Greene, Betty Laguier, Mary Wells, Marion Bunch, Fannie Caffall, Bob Wyatt, Lola Hayes, Dorothy Callahan and Judy Goodenough.

•The Rev. Ted Bosworth from First Baptist Church of Pipe Creek visited Luther Mathis.

•Linda, Kim and Greg Beschle, Judy John, Kevin and Kaci and Jeanie Chastain from Hill Country Chapel came Wednesday afternoon for their monthly visit. Devotion was by Linda Beschle, also the tokens.

•Lillian and Leon Ray took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ Sunday.

•Laverne Hamrick of Kerrville came by to see Ruby Hillman, Frieda Mosely, Jack Holloway and other friends. Laverne and her late husband, Hoyt, did volunteer work for the nursing home for 19 years.

•Walter Rankin is a new resident. He is a brother of C.C. Rankin, one of our residents.

•Other volunteers last week were Doris Keese, Aggie Batto, Rosemary Ford, Rev. Michael McManus, Marjorie Sullivan, Shirley Phillips, Kyle and Kelly, Martin Smith, Fran Pue, and Overa Jones.

others an old family Bible to pay tribute to their grandparents.

Laura Stanciana Field wrote a book to pay tribute to her mother, and appropriately for the Italian woman, a cookbook.

The book contains 34 recipes ranging from soups, vegetables, casseroles, pasta and desserts.

Field says she wrote the book to preserve the recipes and the down in print.

One of her favorite is the Easter Cheese Pie. "We only had it at Easter, because it was so rich." The pie is made from richotta cheese, Italian ham, and Italian sausage in a special crust. "You can make a meal of it with a salad."

Field has sold about 350 books and has about 30 left. The book is in its second printing.

Proceeds from the book have been donated to St. Victor's Altar Society, Lakehills and have been used to purchase a chalice and two crystal goblets for use in holy communion.

Lakehills girl's art work selected

A work of art by Teri Harrison of Lakehills has been included in the Youth Art Exhibit at the William B. Travis Building in Austin and will be on display from March 15-21.

Approximately 1,000 entries are submitted state-wide each year from and only the top 10 percent are selected for exhibition.

Harrison is the daughter of Chuck and Millie Harrison of Lakehills

Harrison is a 10th grader at Bandera High School.

Driving class

The 55 Alive driving course sponsored by the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held on two consecutive days: Thursday and Friday, March 19-20, at the Lakehills United Methodist Church. Call instructor June Settlemeyer at 751-2297 to sign up.

MLBA to meet

The Medina Lake Betterment Association will conduct a general membership meeting Thursday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Members can bring a covered dish at 6:30 p.m. to eat at the Lakehills Civic Center before the meeting.

Legions seeks cooks, vendors for chili cook-off Saturday

There's only five firm cookers signed up for the Lakehills American Legion Post 410 chili cook-off Saturday, March 14, but the promise of many more is out there as the deadline for entry looms.

Three new entries — Boots Laue and Randy Botts of Lakehills and Kelley's Shamrock Tavern of Pipe Creek — have joined Brian Hutcherson and the Medina Lake Shrine Club as contestants.

There's plenty more space for more cooks and the deadline is Friday, says co-chairman Tony Kruse. "It isn't too late for cooks or booths," he says.

Entry fee for cooks is $10.

Also open for selection is food, game, and craft booths that can be set up on the Legion grounds for a nominal $15 fee. The deadline is also Friday for the booths.

Booths already reserved include a sweets booth by the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons and a polish-sausage-in-a-flour-tortilla booth by the Medina Lake Shrine Club.

Kruse says the Legion is especially looking for game booths and those operating the booths do not have to be non-profit organizations, as it has been in the past.

The event begins at 10 a.m. and the Legion Auxiliary will be offering breakfast tacos in the morning.

The Whoosits Good-time Garbage-pile Band will play in afternoon from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Sponsors for the band are Western Title Company of Bandera and Dan Alanis, Realtor of Lakehills. Refreshments for the band will be furnished by Mauer Insurance.

A country and western band from Kelley's Shamrock is expected to play from noon to 2 p.m.

Chili cook-off in Mico

Mico Inn will sponsor a chili cook-off for the Mico Volunteer Fire Department Saturday, March 14, from noon to 5 p.m.

Entry fee for cooks is $7.50 and cooks must prepare a minimum five pounds of meat on the grounds at Mico Inn.

Deadline for entries is noon Saturday. Judging will be at 5 p.m. Five trophies will be awarded.

Thank You

Friends,
To all the caring and thoughtful people of Pipe Creek and Bandera who have helped me in my fight against Cancer,
My family and I express our gratitude and thanks for all your help and prayers. Your support has helped make this trying period on all of us a little easier. There are too many wonderful people to name here, but I know who you are — thank you!
I hope to start the process for a bone marrow transplant sometime next week.
My brother Donnie has been matched as a donor and I thank him, and God for this second chance at living.
Please keep praying, and keep up the faith.
Many thanks and love,

Contest on to design Apple Festival logo

Texas International Apple Festival coordinator Genie Strickland announced Thursday that entries for the 1992 festival logo contest are now being accepted.

"We had so much success with [illegible] we decided to hold one each year," she said.

The winner will receive $100 and will be able to autograph "logoed" items at the festival in July, she said.

The winning design will be used on T-shirts, hats ad other festival items, said Strickland.

Designs should incorporate three colors on a white background and reflect the spirit of the Apple Festival and the Hill Country.

All contest entries must be turned into the festival offce in Medina or to Larry Williams at the Bandera Bulletin by 5 p.m. Thursday, April 30.

"Food booth applications will be accepted from only Bandera County residents between April 1 and April 30," said Strickland. "After May 1 we'll accept applications from out-of-county people too."

For more information cal 796-7324.

This year, the festival's pageant will be Friday, July 24, the night before the apple party.

Children between the ages of 4 and 8 may vie for the crown Miss Apple Dumpling and Mr. Johnny Appleseed. For pageant information call Gina Sawyer at 589-2452.

Plant Society plans mushroom hunt

They'll be gathering the elusive morchella esculenta during the "Morel Hunt of the Century" Sunday, March 15, at the Gunsight Mountain Ranch and Nursery north of Tarpley.

Morels, or scientifically "morchella esculenta," are edible mushrooms that grow under cedar, oak and cherry trees on hillsides when moisture is good.

Why hunt morels? "Because conditions are the best of this century, because morels are rare, because morels are delicious, because we know they are here, and because they appear at the same time of the year," answers hostess Dorothy Matizza, former president of the Native Plant Society of Texas.

Members of the society and "a few special friends" will gather the morel morsels at Matizza's ranch, and guests are asked to bring a paper bag or basket to collect the delecacies.

First State Bank of Bandera issues its own Visa, Mastercards

First State Bank will issue its own Visa and Mastercard credit cards to provide comprehensive banking services to Bandera area residents and encourage local spending.

"We know our customers and are better able to respond to their credit needs while offering a competitively-priced card and hometown service" says bank President Sully Woodland. "And by helping our customers secure credit locally, we feel that we can help increase the amount of money that stays in our community — and that benefits everyone."

First State Bank, in cooperation with the Independent Bandera Association of America (IBAA), began issuing its cards on March 6. Traditionally, community banks have acted as agents of larger financial institutions, promoting their correspondent banks' cards. In issuing its own card, First State Bank joins over 1,200 community banks across the country who operate their own credit card programs.

The average interest rates and annual fees charged by community banks are generally lower than average bank card rates and fees nationwide. The average rate for large national issuers is over 19 percent. The First State Bank current rate is 13.92% with no annual fee.

Floods strike again

Full creeks and road damage reported

By James Henry Frazer
Bulletin Staff Writer

As much as five inches of rain hit Bandera County Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, March 3-4, swelling [illegible] and the Medina River to flood stage.

Bandera schools were closed Wednesday because bus routes that crossed low water crossing were blocked by overflowing streams.

MAny roads in the county were closed for a time Wednesday, and [illegible] were threaten in one subdivision, but only minimial damage was reported. As many as 75 families were cut off for two days in Pipe Creek from an overflowing Red Bluff Creek.

A total of 5.08 inches was measured officially in Bandera with other reports of 5-inch totals from around the Bandera area, reports Billy Griffin of the Soil Conservation Service.

[illegible] Bandera reported rainfall amounts ranging from 2.5 inches to 4 inches.

The run-off swelled the Medina River to 11.3 feet above the river bottom at the State Highway 173 bridge from its normal 5-foot depth and the 6- to 7-foot depth the river has had lately due to all the rain.

Residents of the Alamo Beach subdivision south of Pipe Creek and on the shores of the Medina River were cautioned about possible evacuation by sheriff's deputies, but evacuation was not required. Many homes had standing water in their back yards and one home reportedly had water over its porch.

At least 15 RVs were moved from near the river at Jellystone RV Park in Bandera to the Bandera Downs and Super S parking lots.

Some RVs were moved from low-lying areas at Thousand Trails campground in Lakehills.

The river was flowing from 18 inches to two feet over the bridge at FM 470, said Charles Georg of the Bandera County section of the state Department of Transportation.

The main trouble with state highways was water pouring over the roadways in many, many areas, "The rain came down so fast and the ground was already saturated," said Georg. "There was no damage to the (state) roads. Mainly clean up."

County roads, already damaged by the heavy rainfall, suffered again.

The approach on one side of a low water crossing over Red Bluff Creek on the road behind the Pipe Creek Volunteer Fire Department firehouse was washed out by the raging creek and the water was so high that 75 families remained cut off for two days.

County work crews were on hand Thursday placing gravel in the wash out and helping to direct trucks and other brave drivers across water that was at least two feet over the crossing. "It was crossable Friday," said commissioner Bennie Barker.

Barker said that he would approach the other commissioners for emergency funding to fix the bridge. "The slab is undermined," he said.

Shredded newspapers can transform hardpacked soil, scientist figures

Old copies of The Bandera Bulletin and other newspapers may have a higher use than as wrapping for fish and chips.

James H. Edwards, a soil scientist with the Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service in [illegible] other ingredients, he is growing cotton, corn and soybeans [illegible]

"A finger can't penetrate it," Edwards said.

The technique may also work in soil dominated by limestone which abounds in the Bandera County area and the rest of the Hill Country.

Edwards said he has prevailed over the hard stone-head by using shredded back copies of the Opelika-Auburn News combined with chicken litter mixed with soil.

When cotton plants are grown in the mix, roots reach four feed deep, Roberts said, instead of the six inches common in the Southeast. The roots aren't stopped by the hardpan common to the region, he said.

The recipe Roberts has been using calls for 50 percent shredded newspaper, 50 percent soil and 10 percent to 15 percent of chicken litter.

He uses it to fill a trench four feed deep and six inches wide. The chicken litter causes the newspaper to decompose rapidly, a fact Edwards says is probably due to the microbes and ammonia it contributes to the mix.

Edwards says a two-foot trench might be best for commercial use. And he says he is testing the mix on the surface at depths of only six inches.

"It's a mistake to call newspapers, laves and grass clippings waste," Edwards says. "They loosen soil, add organic matter, provide nutrients and beneficially effect soil pH."

Edwards said that in the future he probably will lower the amount of chicken litter he uses to 5 percent or 6 percent to reduce the level of nitrate leaching from the litter.

"The idea is to find the percentage needed to turn the newspaper cellulose into soil-softening humus without having excess nitrates that can harm ground water," he said.

The Bulletin gives away its leftover papers, mostly to people who want them to wrap items for transient and other like purposes. Few people recycle newspapers because the price paid for old newspaper in San Antonio, for example, does not pay the expenses even of transporting it.

LaKi Johnson named to all-district team

LaKi Johnson of Medina was named to the first team of the All District 30-A basketball team and Shannon Kneuper Judy Simons were named to the second team.

Jennifer Irvin and Jammie Grants were given honorable mention.

Center Point's Shanna Moldenhauer and Rocksprings' Brandi Sweeten were co-most valuable players.

Others on the six-member first team were Ranee Ramirez of Rocksprings, Mandy Witt and Amber Brown of Center Point, and Mary Dalton of Nueces Canyon.

Joining Simons and Kneuper on the second team were Paige Grooms and Tiffany [illegible] worth of Rocksprings, Lori Valdez of Center Point, and Felisha Reyes of Sabinal.

Others honorably mentioned were Ann Phillips of Nueces Canyon, Courtney Lemon of Center Point, and Lolly Martines of Sabinal.

Register available of lease sites for spring gobbler hunting

Potential spring turkey hunters who have not found a place to find a gobbler this year may call the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department ad ask for the new Spring Rio Grade Turkey hunting Lease Register.

The only place in Bandera County appearing in the register is the LH7 Ranch in Bandera. Thirteen Kerr County ranches and one in Kendall County – Auerhahn Ranch in Boerne – are included

The register, compiled from listings in the 1991 Hunter's Clearinghouse Directory, will provide interested spring turkey hunters a list, by region and county, of 144 landowners who offer leases.

The register includes the landowner or ranch's name, address, telephone number, acreage, nearest airport, types of hunts available, and whether overnight facilities or guides are available.

The Rio Grande turkey season is April 4-May 3 in most of the state. Eastern turkey season in parts of East Texas is April 4-19.

The LH7 Ranch may be contacted by calling 796-4314. The register reports it contains 1,200 acres and offers day hunts, overnight facilities and guides.

To order the register call 1-800-792-1112.

Texas hunters donate venison to hungry people

Texas hunters donated an estimated 75,000 pounds of venison to the hungry during the 1991-92 deer hunting season, eight times the amount donated the previous year.

About 2,500 hunters donated the meat to End Hunger Network through its Hunters for the Hungry program. During the 1990-91 season, 8,000 pounds were collected, said Sister Francia Klinger, president of the End Hunger Network.

Bulldogs fall victom to Billie's big bats

Fredericsburg's Billies of District jumped on the Bandera's Bulldogs for 7 runs in the fourth inning Tuesday, March 3, on route to a 31-2 victory.

Sophomore hurler Scott Thomas was on the hill when Fredericksburg's big inning started, but Michael Mazurek finished the frame, and he gave way to Cody Woodland in the fifth inning.

Kidney transplant doesn't slow this jockey

Doug Gilbert takes 13-1 longshot to opening day victory

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

When racing gets in the blood, not even a kidney transplant can remove it.

Doug Gilbert returned to riding race horses at Bandera Downs opening day with a win on a 13-1 long shot in the fourth race and a second-place finish on a 7-2 maiden in the second.

He went on to win two more races that weekend.

Nothing unusual about a new jockey coming to Bandera or [illegible] first day, or winning three in a weekend for that matter.

For Gilbert, it was his first race in four years after kidney failure threatened his life.

Following a kidney transplant at the age of 18, three years of recovery, rehabilitation, exercising, dieting to return to the proper jockey weight, and getting back his "form," Gilbert was ready to ride.

As he sat in the starting gate Feb. 28, he recalled his fiancee's, Lisa Rentz's, words, "It's the moment you've been waiting for."

So he remembered his own advice, relax.

[illegible] everything he learned about riding returned when the gates flew open. "It came for me yesterday," Gilbert said Feb 29.

Gilbert, 22, was born in Vinton, La., in a family of 10 children and an environment of horses.

His father, Ray Lee Gilbert, rode horses in his younger days and trains horses there [illegible] Bandera.

Five of Gilbert's six brothers are jockeys, and his mother, Elaine, is the agent for last year's leading rider Buck Harris, Ben Lewis and leading apprentice Tammy McHargue.

Gilbert was in the saddle at age 5. "When we were little bitty kids, we all had our own Shetland ponies."

Later, the obvious came to him as he watched his older brother doing well. "From the time I was 10, I wanted to be a rider.

"It's like a craving. I couldn't wait to get old enough to ride."

He started riding at 16, the legal age for a jockey, and rode [illegible] fell in a race and broke a leg. He broke his collarbone.

He won his first race at Delta Downs, where he usually raced, in January, 1987, aboard Getsabee.

Then his kidneys failed when he was 18.

He had just ridden that weekend, and fell sick in the middle of the week. "I thought it was over when I fell sick. I thought [illegible]

"The doctors thought I wouldn't live."

He was on dialysis for a year. "It was depressing to be kept from riding while I was on dialysis."

He had a kidney transplant in August of 1988 and began his long rode back to recovery.

"It's been right at three years to get my weight right, my form, and my seat back on the horse."

He's been jogging, working out, playing basketball and dieting to help him get the weight off. Spinach, salads, boiled eggs, and lots of water are his normal fare.

Getting that weight off has been the hardest part of his recovery. "When you're already a little person, 35 pounds is a lot."

Franciso Pena decided he'd win Sunday

Francisco Pena ran like a winner Sunday with jockey Betty Harless in the irons and he beat out Model Age by 1/2 length in 7 1/2-furlong $2,700 Post of Class Distance Series #1.

Owner Lee B. Davis of San Marcos said his horse is "stubborn."

"Sometimes he doesn't want to race. It depends on the mood he wakes up in."

Harless said she's been able to convince the horse to race for her and Davis indicated that Harless, whose record on the horse is two wins and two second-place finishes, may be the jockey for Francisco Pena in his future.

The [illegible] Saturday, Jacinto Glory won the $2,200 5 1/2-furlong allowance Saturday even though a first-time starter gave race fans a trill.

First-time starter and maiden Cannan's Ego took an early lead, advancing the margin on the rest of the field by five lengths at one timb.

In the turn the 3-year-old went wide and David Brown took Jacinto Glory in at the rail and to the front for a 7 3/4-length win.

In racing action Friday, 7-2 Power Position won his second race in a row, taking the featured $2,200 350-yard quarter horse allowance by 3/4 length.

Power Position broke his maiden seven days ago at Bandera by an impressive 1 1/4 lengths after 350 yards.

Hoofprints: Yes, that was a pari-mutuel clerk standing by the horse like an owner in the winner's circle after the seventh race, and yes, she did kiss the jockey.... Shawn Collazo leased Beginner's Choice and [illegible] Hemp, Jet Smooth Rider.

Architect Bob Cowan's rendering of the proposed $600,000 youth center which a committee of community leaders hopes to finance with loans backed by committee members, donations and fund-raising activities. Plans released Monday show 19,500 square feet of room for a variety of youth-oriented purposes.

$600,000 youth center will include skating, game room, video arcade

By Nick Johnson
Bulletin Editor

The preliminary plans for a $600,000 youth center at Mansfield Park were made public this week by architect Bob Cowan, and they include two stories with a room for dancing or skating, a lounge, video arcade, and a game room.

The facility contains approximately 19,500 square feet and will be located at Mansfield Park where the old sheep shed now stands, with 13,500 feet on the first floor and 6,000 square feet on the second floor.

The $600,000 estimated building cost includes only the cost of constructing the building, not the land, which will be provided by the county, nor furnishings.

But organizers admit they have none of the required $600,000 building cost in hand.

Finance committee chairman Bennie Barker says his group is currently working on financing and fund-raising details.

He said the committee is contacting people who might serve on their board of directors and help guarantee a loan.

The committee is also looking into the possibility of foundation grants, "Barker said.

Operating capital will come from fund-raising events, donations, and admission and user fees, Barker said.

"It's important to stress, and we've already approached the county commissioners on this, that no taxpayer money will go into this," said James MacMillan , temporary chairman of the organizing committee.

The focal point of the facility will be a 75-feet by 100-feet "multi-purpose" room suitable for roller skating, banquets, dances and proms, and even basketball.

Other facilities:

- A lounge with a snack bar, an old-fashioned soda fountain, juke box, tables, chair and "a little dance floor," Cowan said.
- A video arcade.
- A kitchen capable of serving the lounge and of serving banquets.
- Large game room on the second floor capable of being furnished with a pool table, ping pong table and similar items.
- Multi-purpose rooms on the second floor, each about 30-feet by 30-feet in size, suitable for small meetings or to be equipped with a large TV screen for special shows.
- A sound-insulated music/reading room.

Founders' Day celebration set Saturday

Scheduled events will include church tours, stew cook-off and more

Celebrate Bandera County's 136th birthday Saturday by attending an Irish stew cookoff, touring a couple of venerable old churches or an apple orchard, or attending an arts and crafts show or a car rally.

These are only a few of the activities scheduled from one end of the county to the other Saturday in honor of the county's Founders' Day, scheduled for March 21 by the commissioners court earlier this year.

There will be activities in Bandera, Medina, Vanderpool, Tarpley and Lakehills.

Bandera County was forged out of Bexar and Uvalde Counties in 1856.

Focal point of the Bandera activities will be the American Legion Post 157's Cowboy Irish Stew Cookoff at the American Legion Hall Saturday.

While the stew chefs work their magic nearby, there will be entertainment by the winners of the Alkek Elementary Talent Show, Ballan Grant Keen, Roger Heinen, and Charlie Heinen and Friends.

Historical tours of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, the second oldest Polish Catholic parish in the country, begin at 10 a.m. and tours of Bandera United Methodist Church, celebrating its 125th anniversary later this year, step off at 11 a.m.

Visitors will be able to tour downtown buildings, including the courthouse, the old jail and old courthouse at 12:30 p.m., 1:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

There will be an arts and crafts show downtown and artist Bill Stevens will sign a limited number of calendars during a special showing of his work at the Frontier Times Museum.

There will be a youth rodeo at 2 p.m. at the Twin Elm Guest Ranch arena off FM Road 470.

In Medina, participants will be able to go on a free tour of the Love Creek Orchard, the Cider Mill and Country Store, and listen to live music on the lawn of the Cider Mill from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Orchard tourists will meet at

Circus elephant "Bo" celebrated her birthday at Mansfield Park with numerous presents of carrots, apples, bananas from as many as 75 area children as well as chocolate birthday cake. The celebration occurred before the first performance of the King Royal Brothers Circus Sunday. About 300 persons attended the two performances of the circus. Charges against Vander Zee dismissed before trial

The federal indictment against banker Harlan Vander Zee, formerly of Bandera, was dismissed by Judge Lucius Bunton a week ago before Vander Zee and another banker charged in the case even had to present their defense.

According to information obtained by The Bulletin, the judge ruled that Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Frels failed to present enough evidence to warrent continuing the trial.

Vander Zee and fellow-banker Herbert E. Pounds Jr. were accused of knowingly laundering some $750,000 for accused drug kingpin Mario A Salinas-Trevino.

Vander Zee apparently reported each transaction with Salinas-Trevino exactly as required by law, and Frels was reportedly unable to present evidence he knew he was dealing in drug money.

Man jailed, accused of murder

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

One man died from a gunshot wound during a family argument late Thursday night in Lakehills and a sheriff's deputy may have prevented a second shooting.

Dead is Charles Francis Bucher Sr., 43, of Lakehills.

Charged with murder is William Earl Landers, 61, of Lakehills, the victim's father-in-law.

A family argument reportedly erupted at 14th and Spur Streets in Lakehills and a single 9mm pistol shot about 10 p.m. Thursday, March 12.

According to Bandera County Criminal Investigator Lt. M.W. "Dickie" Kaiser, Bandera County Sheriff's Deputy Sal Obiedo was first at the scene and "discovered a second volatile situation occurring" with Bucher's family members assaulting Landers.

"One person inside the residence had a (separate) firearm and was attempting to locate ammunition for the firearm when Obiedo arrived," said Kaiser.

Obiedo went in alone and put his life on the line to protect the lives of the other people in the house, said Kaiser.

Obiedo took Landers into custody, but Landers was not arrested at the time, said Kaiser.

Following an investigation conducted by Kaiser, Sgt. Robin Price, and other members of the patrol division, Kaiser said a quarrel had erupted between Landers and another family member, not Bucher.

The quarrel escalated to a point where Landers went into another room to retrieve his pistol, said Kaiser.

Bucher and Connie Landers Bucher, Bucher's common-law wife and Landers' daughter, followed Landers into the other room as Landers went to get his weapon.

"According to witnesses, the victim (Bucher) was trying to get the offender (Landers) to calm down and put his gun away when the shooting occurred," said Kaiser.

Bucher suffered one gun shot wound to the head.

Bucher was pronounced dead at 10:45 p.m. by Peace Justice Louise Karr, who ordered an autopsy. The autopsy will be performed by Bexar County Medical Examiner's office.

Karr said an autopsy is usually called for anytime there is a homicide or someone dies alone. "It is prudent to ask for an autopsy."

She expects preliminary results this week and a complete report next week.

While at the sheriff's department for questioning, Landers complained of chest pains and was transported to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital for treatment in the custody of jailer and reserve deputy Rick Guerra.

Landers was arrested for murder when he returned to the sheriff's office in the early morning hours Friday. "He wasn't out on the street (at any time)," said Kaiser.

Landers was arrested and placed in the Bandera County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond and he remained in jail as of Tuesday morning.

According to Kaiser, Landers is charged with murder, a first degree felony and if he is convicted, his punishment could be from five to 99 years or life imprisonment. "He is charged with murder, intentionally or knowingly causing the death of an individual."

Kaiser said the only charge higher is capital murder, such as killing a police officer in line of duty, or killing someone in the course of robbery. If a

Bandera Historian celebrates county's origin and birthday

The Spring edition of the Bandera County Historian features the very origin of Bandera County.

The publication of the Bandera County Historical Commission traces the establishment of the boundaries of Bandera County and a copy of the petition for the creation of Bandera County, filed Nov. 21, 1855.

The Historian was published only once in 1991, but commission chairman Carolyn Edwards said it will be published quarterly during 1992.

The current issue, Volume 14, Number 1, lists the names of the 90 signers of the 1855 petition to form the county and traces the formation of Real County out of Bandera and other counties in 1913.

The Historian is sent free upon request to Rt. 2, Box 6408, Pipe Creek 78063.

On the drawing board, says Edwards, are issues focusing on women in county history, the Polish immigrants, the history of Old Main Street and the Tarpley area.

Too much Spurs static

Dear editor:

Professional basketball players make as much as $25,000 a game. I can imagine the players hate to see the professional basketball season end April 12. I am personally delighted that the San Antonio Spurs season is coming to a close. I don't have any complaints about the players. In fact, I admire many of the players, particularly David Robinson.

My disaffection for the Spurs is the with current management.

First, they formed a flack team and began a media blitz. It starts off on the front page of the morning newspaper and doesn't stop until late-night television. You cannot turn it off, tune it out, or get away from it. It is everywhere! You would think they wee selling cars. Very likely, there will be Spurs talk shows in the great hereafter.

Along with the media blitz came the hiring of Coach Larry Brown from Kansas. Brown's departure from Kansas coincided with the basketball program at Kansas being put on probation for four years for rules violations by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Shortly thereafter the Spurs began giving out "Larry Brown Achievement Awards" to San Antonio high school students. I presume the message was: "Go out into the world and cheat and violate the rules and you can make millions as a coach of the Spurs." Brown is gone now and I certainly hope the Spura can find a coach to take his place with a little character.

Two things are for certain. One is that the Spurs management needs improvement. The second is that I am really going to enjoy a couple of months without "Spurs Talk."

(Editor's note: Have you forgotten about the playoffs, that six-week-long marathon that "begins" when the regular season "ends.?"

Ruling interests her

Dear editor:

I read in The Bulletin, on the front page of the last issue in February, that a verdict in the case against Harlan Vander Zee would soon be made.

A few days later, as I read the judge's verdict in the San Antonio Light, a KENS-TV reporter also detailed the conclusion of the case. Both report contained three elements: (1) the judge's verdict and his evaluation that (2) the prosecution did or did not prove guilt, and that (3) the defense did or did not show innocence. I found this third comment most interesting. While in most countries the accused must prove innocence, in our country the burden of proof is on the prosecution to show guilt.

I had expected to read the verdict in The Bulletin, because you had reported the story step-by-step since the first charges were filed.

I'm awaiting your report.

AT ISSUE

One-Dollar Coin?

U.S. Rep. Jim Kolbe (R-Ariz.) is a member of the House Appropriations and Budget committees and the sponsor of legislation to replace the $1 bill with a $1 coin.

YES

Should a gold-tone $1 coin be introduced into the U.S. monetary system?

Yes. The U.S. currency system is in desperate need of change. The effects of periodic inflation have thrown our currency system out of alignment. Today's dollar is the quarter of the 1960s. The United States has one of the lowest-valued circulating coins among the world's industrialized nations. Not only will the minting of a new gold-colored $1 coin save $862 million every year, but it also will help realign the U.S. currency system.

What impact will the coin have on the nation's monetary system?

In spite of the vast impact of checks and credit cards, currency and coin in circulation today constitute a larger portion of the basic money supply than it did in the beginning of the century. Half of all bills printed are $1 notes. Those bills last only 17 months; coins last 30 years. The cost of so frequently replacing tattered paper money is an enormous and unnecessary expense to the taxpayer.

What effect would this change have on the American public?

Our minting of the Susan B. Anthony $1 coin in 1979 was a sensible acknowledgment of inflation. That coin lacked public acceptance, not because the need for a $1 coin didn't exist, but because the coin looked and felt like a quarter. Moreover, it was an alternative rather than a replacement dollar. Just as with uniform product codes and bank-check encoding, Americans resist change until we understand the benefits. With increasing automation and with vending machines selling everything from stamps to hot soup, the $1 coin is simply a more convenient way to pay for goods. Instead of carrying a pocket full of quarters for coin-op laundries, phone calls, newspapers and parking meters, consumers actually would carry fewer coins. The subsequent increase in the demand for the $2 bill simply would assist in the realignment of our nation's currency threshold.

Brenda L. Yost is chairman of the Retail Payment Services Unit of the American Bankers Association and vice president of Versatel Businesses of Bank of America.

NO

Should a gold-tone $1 coin be introduced into the U.S. monetary system?

Absolutely not. The American Bankers Association (ABA) believes that the replacement of the $1 bill with a coin would be inappropriate for several reasons. A recent Gallup poll found that 59 percent of the American public opposed a $1 coin, and only 15 percent supported the replacement of the $1 bill. While the General Accounting Office says it will save $300 million annually, not a dime will be saved for more than 13 years due to the start-up costs of a new coin. Also, experience with the Susan B. Anthony $1 coin shows that it's questionable if the new coin would be around long enough to be anything but an added expense.

What impact will the coin have on the nation's monetary system?

An unnecessary slowdown in service. Banks are the main intermediary between the U.S. government and the general public when it comes to currency. During the days of the Susan B. Anthony $1 coin, customers perceived tellers were fussing the coin on unwilling recipients. This would hamper the progress our industry has made in providing fast, convenient service to our customers. One thousand $1 notes weigh about three pounds. One thousand $1 coins weigh about 17 pounds — more than five times as much. The increase in transportation and processing costs would be substantial.

What effect would this change have on the American public?

Higher costs — it's that simple. This new coin would mean retrofitting millions of pieces of equipment. Everything from vending machines to cash drawers would need to be changed. The estimated additional cost to the banking industry alone would be in the tens of millions of dollars. Perhaps the old adage "If it ain't broke, don't fix it" rings true in the case of this proposed new $1 coin.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – House Speaker Gib Lewis last week proposed massive, forced consolidation of school districts to satisfy a court order to equalize education funding.

The lame-duck speaker's proposed legislation would reduce the number of independent school districts from 1,066 to 188. The new megadistricts would use the boundary lines of the year-old county education districts.

"Consolidation is the ultimate, permanent solution to the issues of equality and school finance," Lewis said, endorsing the idea that is viewed by many as politically risky as a state income tax.

Gov. Ann Richards is expected to call a special session in mid-May to overhaul the present system of school funding which was ruled unconstitutional by the Texas Supreme Court.

Balance Rich and Poor

Lewis said consolidation would not require a constitutional amendment, would balance funding among rich and poor districts, and save an estimated $422 million next year by trimming bureaucrats.

Lewis said his plan would probably close some rural schools. But he said it would provide every child in Texas with equal access to education funds.

The last forced consolidation of school districts occurred in 1949, when the Gilmer-Akin education reform law eliminated 2,000 school districts, leaving 2,800.

Opponents of the idea fear it will diminish local control of school districts; in metropolitan counties, it could lump 300,000 to 500,000 students into one district.

"I don't like it myself," said Lewis, "but at the same time we have to realize that we must move on. Nothing else would be as fair."

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock reserved judgement on Lewis' plan, explaining that he is working on one of his own. But Bullock said Lewis' plan is "a real solution to the school finance problem and it will solve the problem. People in Texas are in no mood for taxes. It doesn't raise taxes."

Buchanan Warned

Days after the eye of the primaries passed through Texas, both parties tried to bring the inner-healing process.

National GOP chairman Richard Bond, touring the Astrodome where Republicans will hold their national convention, warned challenger Pat Buchanan to quit bashing President Bush or his record being shunned.

"It's time for the healing to begin and the fighting to stop," Bond advised. "Turn out the lights, the party's over."

Bond also said David Duke wasn't welcome at the convention. "He's a racist and a bigot, and we don't want him."

Buchanan wasn't warming; he told the press he would not endorse President Bush if Bond stayed as party chairman.

Clinton Likes Bentsen

Meanwhile, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said Democrat front-runner Bill Clinton would endorse U.S. Sen Lloyd Bentsen, if Clinton's own campaign is derailed.

Mauro, who is Clinton's campaign manager in Texas, told party leaders at the Texas AFL-CIO headquarters that Clinton has twice given Bentsen that same message.

Should another scandal knock Clinton out of the race, which Mauro said was not going to happen, it is a real possibility that Clinton would ask his delegates to endorse Bentsen.

Castration Request Halted

A Houston sex offender who asked to be castrated in lieu of a life prison sentence has changed him mind, a lawyer for the man's family said last week.

Steven Allen Butler said that instead of undergoing the surgery, he wants to go to trial on a charge of aggravated sexual assault of a 13-year-old girl, according to his lawyer, Charles Freeman.

Earlier, State Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said he would seek the impeachment of Judge Mike McSpadden, if the castration took place.

Butler, 28, was on probation for molesting a seven-year-old girl when he was arrested last April in connection with assaulting the teen-ager. He is in jail without bond.

Wilson and other black activists said McSpadden's decision was racist; Butler is a black man.

McSpadden responded: "Based upon Mr. Wilson's performance in the Legislature, he'd better get some help in drawing up an impeachment order."

Other Highlights

■ The 3rd Court of Appeals upheld a lower court ruling that the state's sodomy law — which outlaws gay and lesbian sex — is unconstitutional because it violates the Texas right to privacy. Attorney General Dan Morales said he would probably appeal the decision to the Texas Supreme Court, but Gov. Richards applauded the ruling, saying the law "hasn't any business being in the statute books."

■ Texas could lose up to $105 million in federal highway funds if it doesn't remove 9,000 billboards which do not comply with the Highway Beautification Act. Owners of illegal signs are supposed to remove them by June 18.

■ Comptroller John Sharp said the new lottery operator, GTECH Corp. of Rhode Island, will hire 500 employees for 11 regional offices to conduct the state lottery, starting before July 1.

Simulcasting of 5 races set at Bandera Downs Friday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera Downs bettors will [illegible] Derby May 2 if the Texas Racing Commission approves a temporary order for simulcasting.

Approval, barring unforeseen [illegible] down this week.

Bandera track officials are prepared to televise five races from Santa Anita in California for Friday's race card.

The California races will be displayed on the television monitors and the simulcast racing will begin after the 10th race Friday, giving an 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th race.

Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers said he anticipates five simulcast races on days when there are 10 live races. The number of simulcast races would drop as the number of live races increase.

He reaffirmed this weekend his position that the track would not drop a live race to televise a simulcast race.

Saturday's simulcast race card will include the $300,000 Grade III Louisiana Derby from the Fair Grounds.

The 1-1/16 mile thoroughbred contest for 3-year-olds will have post time of 4:45 p.m. and the race will be televised during [illegible] program.

The probable field for the Louisiana Derby is Line In The Sand, Sheik To Sheik, Hill Pass, Greinton's Dancer, Ecstatic Ride, Navigator, Prince [illegible] West Vermont, and Say Guv.

Also to be simulcast Saturday is the Grade I West Texas Futurity for 2-year-old quarter horses from Sunland Park in New Mexico.

The horses that are likely to enter the race include Mr Eye Opener, Dancing Turf, Rocket On Over, Mighty D Bull, It Aint No Bull, Super Duper Cooper, Shake It Special, and Blame It On The Rio.

Also proposed to be offered Saturday is the Santa Lucia Handicap from Santa Anita, as well as one other race from the California track.

Sunday's simulcast card includes the Grade III Protrero Grande Handicap from Santa Anita.

Other major races on the proposed schedule include the Jean Lafitte Futurities from Delta Downs March 29, the Santa Anita Derby April 4, California Derby from Golden Gate April 11, Bluegrass from Keeneland April 11, Wood Memorial from Aqueduct April 18, Arkansas Derby from Oaklawn Park April 19 and the Kentucky Oaks from Churchill Downs May 1.

The track also hopes to simulcast the Graham Farms Futurity to other tracks April 12, but those plans are still in the works.

However, announced Saturday that the contracts with the horsemen and the tracks, who will provide the television signals, are signed and the contracts will submitted to a sub-[illegible] Commission with approval possible early this week.

[illegible] able at Trinity Meadows near Dallas since early this year, but it is not even available at the Bandera as management and horsemen were struggling to reach a compromise.

What is simulcasting?

Bettors at Bandera Downs got a taste of simulcasting last year during the Breeders' Cup races, but with the likely approval this week of simulcasting by the Texas Racing Commission, Bandera bettors will be getting up to five televised races a race day.

Bettors will find the simulcast past performances in the racing form and the same program information on the simulcast races in the program.

Bettors will be able to see all the pre-race activities including the post parade and the race itself live over the numerous television monitors at the track.

Bettors will go to the same pari-mutuel windows and lay down their wagers in the televised races as they would in the live races.

Most of the televised races will be broadcast from Santa Anita in California after the live races are conducted at Bandera.

During the simulcast races, Bandera bettors would be betting against themselves and not jointly with the bettors at the other tracks. "We're not going to common pool. There are not the proper telephone connections in Bandera to hook up their computers with our computers," said Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers.

Bettors will have all the usual standard and exotic bets that Bandera normally offers in the simulcasting races.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you find yourself feeling like a pressure cooker this week, don't be surprised. The heat's on, and there's plenty of steam. Partners are testy; what you took as a given may not be. Nerves are frayed by the weekend when you regroup, hopefully with the support of a special partner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Steer a steady course, since someone has taken the till and caused major emotional upheaval. A partner gets even more stubborn (is that possible?) than you. You are both likely to lock horns if you don't try grazing in some quiet pasture. Kiss and make up this weekend. Phew!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your ruling planet, Mercury, goes retrograde (yes, moving backward) and your soul, spirit and body seem to join to turn this period to major uproar. The good news is, you've dealt with this before. Take it easy on co-workers and partners — you may be left holding the bag — alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Communications are up and down all week. The full moon has you howling. Be careful what comes out of your mouth — the damages could be major. Uproar surrounds you. This weekend, you get a special opportunity to patch up the cracks you created this week. Still, be careful.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Finances get you into a tizzy, and you snap at another and another. Your claws are out and you may not have noticed, but you haven't filed them down recently. You may fuss all weekend as long as you growl from your den. Know you aren't the only one who is fit to be tied.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Your ruler goes retrograde this week, and it has you singing the blues. The full moon further exacerbates an already difficult scenario. You find it isn't safe until the weekend. A partner then comes through for you and you get to talk it out, get nurtured, whatever.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Expect the roller coaster ride of the past few weeks to have a few more bumps. You need to let go and clear. Situations surrounding money, personal worries and home keep you on a razor's edge. Consider going on retreat this weekend. Stay grounded on what you know is for sure.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Be ready to intercede when things get crazy this week. You are one of the few signs that has some control (but that's your issue, isn't it?). Loved ones can be found yowling and carrying on. They miss you. What a wonderful, loving weekend you are in for!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Work, bosses, people you put on a pedestal — all collapse into their own woes (while you try to do a jiggling act). Don't worry about a partner's tantrum, they settle down. Watch what you say; you cannot erase those butts. Keep tame. Do what you need to for you this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) A rumor or change in plans may leave you dumbfounded. Just go with the flow. Get plenty of exercise to help reduce the stress. You could be one of the hacker signs this week, if you stay cool. Certainly, odds are, you will have cause for celebration this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Have you ever considered that maybe you don't want a stable love and/or financial life? Think about that each crazy, topsy-turvy day this week. (What's going on here?) Don't worry, everything should stabilize soon. Watch for the return of an old lover the next few weeks.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You've drawn the wild card — use it with care. Handle the ebb and flow of partners carefully. You do get a boost but you need to be careful nonetheless. A family member may decide to call it quits. (Let them think they can — for now). You glide into smoother seas this weekend.

person is found guilty of capital murder, they face the death penalty or life imprisonment.

According to Karr, who wrote the warrant, the arrest pursuing is, "Intent to cause serious bodily injury and to commit an act clearly dangerous to human life that causes the death of an individual."

[illegible] the investigation were Lynn Holt, Jeff Abbott, and reserve deputy Stan Rossow, who conducted the crime scene investigation.

Kaiser and patrol sergeant Keith Mansfield conducted witness interviews.

Complicating the matter is a second woman who claims Bucher as her husband.

Linda Bucher of San Antonio, came to Bandera this week to claim the remains. She says she is unsure a wife but has been separated for eight years.

There is no telephone listing in San Antonio for a Linda or L Bucher.

Bucher was born in Canton, Ohio and has lived in Lakehills for the past eight years with Connie as his common-law wife.

Bucher was in the Air Force from 1971 to 1975 and was self-employed in the construction business.

Survivors include his mother, Marian Milhoff Bucher of Canton; sons Charles F. Bucher Jr. of Lakehills and Jeff Bucher of San Antonio; a daughter, Denisa Villalobos of San Antonio, brothers Robert Upton of Canton and James Bucher of Alabama; two sisters; and two grandchildren.

Two memorial services will be held for Bucher.

A memorial service will be held at Faith Chapel in Lakehills beginning at 2 p.m. Friday with the Rev. Bob O'Dell officiating.

Memorial services in San Antonio will be conducted by the Rev. Francis Thorn Coley Friday beginning at 11 a.m. at Villa de Paz at 3114 West Ashby in San Antonio.

The Bulletin found no listing for Villa de Paz and Rev. Coley in the San Antonio telephone [illegible] and [illegible] Church.

[illegible] conduct extensive investigation. An archivist with the Archdiocese of San Antonio said that Coley had been a priest and had broken away from the Catholic church to found his own church.

Cate faces run-off in his new district

State Representative Tom Cate of Lytle will face Richard Raymond of Benavides in the April 14 run-off.

[illegible] dera County in Austin during his 1991-92 term, was redistricted into District 44 and out of District 45, the district he was elected to in 1990.

Bandera County was in District 45, but has been redistricted to District 73.

Cate received 40 percent of the vote, Raymond, a former chief of staff to railroad commissioner Bob Kruger, received 33 percent and Albert T. Martinez of Duval County received 27 percent of the vote.

Cate's district includes Atascosa, Duval, Jim Wells, Live Oak, McMullen, and Wilson.

District 73, which includes Bandera County, has one nominee from each party seeking the House of Representatives post.

Incumbent Democrat Bob Turner of Voss and Republican challenger John Petsch brelsford of Marble Falls.

Both are ranchers.

There will be a bake sale and flea market next to the Tarpley General Store from 8:30 a.m. until noon, and tours of the old Tarpley School will be available.

Activities close out in Lakehills where the Country Surprise western band will play for a dance at the Lakehills Civic Center from 8:30 p.m. through 12:30 p.m.

There will be a $3 per coupe, $2 per person cover charge, and while participants will have to "bring your own bottle," beer and set-ups will be available.

The stew cookoff competition will brew their specialities between the hours of noon and 3 p.m. and competing for trophies in showmanship as well as cooking skills.

Stew will be judged on aroma, color, ingredients, appearance, fat content, taste, and aftertaste. Trophies will be awarded at about 5 p.m. and an auction of samples of the winning dishes will be held after 5 p.

A fee of $10 will be charged participants, and proceeds of the cookoff will be used for the American Legion's Boys State Scholarship Fund.

Setting it straight

It was funeral home officials, not the family, that requested use of the high school auditorium for the funeral of Alan Richardson, his mother Rosa Richardson said this week.

Perry won't speak

Land Commissioner Rick Perry has withdrawn as speaker of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's 115th annual convention, March 22-25, according to Steve Munday of the TSCRA's Fort Worth office.

Bandera County

To the Citizens of Bandera County:

Thanks to each and everyone of you who turned out to Vote on March 10, 1992. I am honored by your overwhelming support and pledge to continue working hard to maintain your trust and confidence.

My family and I are deeply touched and appreciate the dedication and hard work many of you gave to bring us this far in this campaign. But, we are only half way through the process. We must continue to work towards the November General Election. There is still a long race ahead and I ask for your continued support and assistance. Now that the Primary is over I ask that anyone who did not have the opportunity to participate in the Primary Campaign but wants to assist in the General Election Campaign please call me at 751-3244 or Route 4 Box 4586 in Lakehills, Texas 78063. All assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Again, I thank everyone for their assistance and vote in getting the campaign this far. It is a great feeling to have the support of so many. My family and I look forward to meeting and working with all of you in the coming months.

Sincerely,
James MacMillan

The sea sparkled with diamonds from the bright sun and a gentle breeze wafted through the tops of the tall palm trees, rustling their leaves. The gigantic outdoor fireplace crackled with the happy fire contained within. This was the place where I grew up, and this was the setting for the memorial service my sisters and I recently held for our mother, George Malcolm Hedley.

Dear friends and relatives had gathered from far and near to share the love we all felt. Instead of formal carnations and roses, guests brought the huge bunches of daisies, sweet peas, mums, daffodils and gladiolas of all colors that were more like Mother. Beautiful flowers, including a huge shiny copper pot spilling over with nasturtiums, were everywhere.

George Malcolm's granddaughter Ballan, softly played the guitar and sang hymns, and family and friends took part in the service, one reading a poem George Malcolm wrote, another reading the Sailor's Version of the 23rd Psalm, and others taking turns reading Bible verses and such until the end, when guests were invited to speak and tell their memories of George. The stories of love and happiness that flowed were wonderful and uplifting, just like George's life.

Mother and Daddy (Weldon Ell, who went on 10 years earlier) were so close that no one quite noticed how hard it was to separate the two of them, even in stories recalled. They just belonged together, and the many stories recalled their lives together which was also our lives as we were growing up.

They had built our house from stuff we all found on the beach. You entered the house through a door that once was a row boat. "The Cove" that was our home, the State of California finally bought for a state park— 2,000 feet of Southern California coastline.

"The Cove" even has a terrazo dance floor. It was like being raised in a tropical paradise or on a desert island. Movie stars would drive all the way up from Hollywood to stay "only for an hour," and would end up staying for days and days. Gary Cooper, Tab Hunter, Raymond Burr, and on and on the old guest book reads.

The first time Gary Cooper visited, mother said he had to stay for tea, so he and daddy were upstairs in the living room, which overlooked the Pacific Ocean. The kitchen was downstairs, and Mother and a sister had fixed an elaborate silver tray with fancy tea pot, cream and sugar and some kind of cookies. They got so excited that they ran into each other on the stairs and the whole thing crashed onto the flag stone floor below. My dad declared that Gary Cooper didn't even miss a beat or raise an eyebrow, he just kept right on talking. It must have happened to him all the time.

I remember many parties with guests numbering between 50 and 200, and mother would get them all to dance the Virginia Reel under a full moon. I also remember times of homework done by candlelight because a gale blew in across the ocean and knocked out the lights.

We had ordinary pets like cats and dogs, but we also had a pelican named "Abraham." We would step to the edge of the ocean, clap our hands and yell his name and he would slowly rise up off his ocean floating, flap his mighty wings, circle and land at our feet.

We had friends who sailed right off our coast, anchored, and rowed in for dinner. Hawaiian friends who gave big luaus with whole pigs cooked in the ground, and who taught me how to play the ukelele and catch squid along the rocky beach. Raymond Burr would come down with his arms simply loaded with flowers for mother, and we would have a big bonfire, or he would cook bouillabaise over our three-sided fireplace that had a ship's funnel for a chimney. Then, sitting in chairs made of barrels with ships' wheel for a back, we'd eat around a table made of 12-foot weathered planks. Glasses were hand-blown Japanese sakkbottles cut in two and placed in a cork with sealing wax.. Our soup bowls were abalone shells. My room was a ship's cabin with a swinging bunk that hung on huge ropes from the ceiling, my window a past hull.

Mother came to Bandera once about ten years ago, and she loved it. She always meant to return, but could never pull herself away from a home built on the side of a cliff in the giant redwoods— it was like living in a tree house. She had lived there with one of my sisters since Dad passed on.

The memories, tears and laughter that were so prominent last week at that gathering will be with me forever, as will the memory of my whole upbringing.

Thanks, George Malcolm, for a wonderful life!

THANK YOU!

Thank you for recognizing that sound financial management must be restored to Precinct #1.

Your vote for me in the primary was an important first step, and now your participation in the runoff on April 14 is crucial if we are going to be able to bring reform to Precinct #1.

I now ask all concerned Precinct #1 taxpayers to redouble their efforts for the good of all. We must not let our drive towards sound management falter!

Barker, Jewett scheduled for runoff

Republican candidates vie for commissioner bid

There will be a run-off election Tuesday, April 14 between two candidates for Bandera County Commissioner. The run-off in the Republican county commissioner precinct 1 race got underway with the first ads appearing in [illegible] this week.

Incumbent Bonnie Barker received 48.9 percent of the votes in the Tuesday, March 10, Republican primary, narrowly forcing him off into a run-off with builder Michael Jewett, who received 35.7 percent of the vote.

The third candidate in the contest, tax watchdog Bobby Jones, came in a distant third with just 15.3 percent of the vote.

Registered voters that voted in the Republican primary and registered voters that did not vote in the March 10 primary can vote in the run-off.

According to the secretary of state's office, early voting begins Monday, April 6, and ends Friday, April 10. Early voting will be in the county clerk's office in the courthouse. [illegible] by mail must apply by April 7.

Barker said Thursday that supporters had encouraged a recount of the narrow seven vote margin, but after examining the cost of the recount (if the recount did not change the results), the low margin for error in the ballot counting [illegible]

Bill Sims, Troy Fraser to square off in November general election

State Senator Bill Sims and [illegible] state congressman [illegible] will face each other in the November general election as a result of the March 10 primary.

Democrat Sims of San Angelo beat Senator Temple Dickson of Sweetwater with 65.7 percent of the vote.

Dickson and Sims were thrown into the same district, District 25, as a result of redistricting due to the 1990 census.

District 25 is a 30-county district that includes Bandera and Kerr Counties as well as Abilene and Brownwood.

Bandera County Democrats voters gave Sims 576 votes, or 70.1 percent of the vote, and Dickson 168 votes, or 29.3 percent.

Sims will face the Republican nominee, Fraser.

Fraser of Big Spring, defeated Jim Deats of Boerne with 61 percent of the vote.

[illegible] in the district, though Deats said he had plans to move back to his family's hometown of Llano.

Bandera County Republican gave Deats 519 votes, or 35.9 percent of the vote, Fraser 511 votes, or 35.4 percent, and Charles Johnson of Kerrville, who pulled out of the race early, 414 votes, or 28.7 percent.

Kaiser wins easily

Incumbent Kerr County sheriff Frances Kaiser won the March 10 Republican primary by 5,501, or 75 percent of the vote, and swept all 16 Kerr voting precincts.

She will face former Kerr County sheriff Cliff Greeson in November.

Former Bandera man named to assistant director position

David C. Hicks, son of Speedy and Carmen Hicks of Bandera and a 1971 graduate of Bandera High School was recently named assistant director of development for the College of Engineering at Texas A&M University.

Hicks graduated from Texas A&M in 1975 with a degree in business management.

He and his wife Robin are active in the community, and they enjoy sports events including skiing, softball and Aggie sporting events.

Prior to joining the development foundation staff, Hicks was vice president of Homestead Savings Association of Texas in College Station. He expressed an eagerness to join the work-force at his college alma mater.

"It seems that almost everyone I meet or work with has a very strong desire to do something for Texas A&M," Hicks said, "from the corporation that realizes the value of quality graduates to the former students who want to give something back.

"This makes for a very rewarding work environment."

Alkek to be honored by Texas A&M

Bandera's Albert B. Alkek will be honored Friday, April 3, when Texas A&M University dedicates its program in biosciences and technology in Alkek's name.

The Bandera oilman and philanthropist has made gifts to the university that made the school's expanded biosciences and technology programs possible.

The dedicatory ceremonies will be at 3 p.m. at the Texas Medical Center on Shamrock Drive in Houston.

A reception follows at the Texas Medical Center Conference Facility at Shamrock and Holcombe Streets in Houston.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Basking in God's Radiance

"Restore us, O God; let thy face shine, that we may be saved."

— Psalm 80:3

A shining face turned toward us is always heartwarming. What is more pleasurable than a smile from a loved one, the glowing grin of a child, an approving expression from a superior, even the open-faced friendliness of a stranger? All these and more are necessary for our everyday well-being, yet there is another radiance just as — if not more — important to us. That is the faith and hope instilled in us by the smile of a beneficent god, shedding his radiance down upon us. He is the master of our fate, the redeemer of our souls. How much better to be saved with a smile than denied with a scowl.

Your Basic Bandera
Peggy Tobin

So, well, the one last breeding ewe died early Monday morning of the wounds suffered when a big black dog and three canine accomplices attacked our peaceful little bunch of sheep. It seemed pointless to keep the unproductive survivors. Speedy Hutcheson came to haul Abel's ram, a young mutton, and a yearling ewe to Fredericksburg. The problem of what to do with a nursing lamb which had been injured in the original assault was solved by her just up and dying on us. Trauma and strange new feed got her, we have to suppose.

So we're out of the sheep business again.

We carry on discussion of this incident at our place for yet another week, not only to hope at least a few dog-owners are paying attention, but to make another point.

We carry on discussion of this incident at our place for yet another week, not only to hope at least a few dog-owners are paying attention, but to make another point.

As politicians wear themselves out flying about the country offering this scheme and that for getting our country out of its economic mire, we think that the fact that we can't use our land to raise mutton and wool is symbolic of the fact that—more and more—nobody is producing anything of basic value in the United States of America.

We do raise cotton, grain, and lumber much of which is processed abroad, profiting others. The domestic oil business is all but dead, while George goes off to save the Saudis and Kuwaitis. We all know what has happened to Detroit and others centers of manufacturing which once supplied the world with the machines we had invented and perfected, but which are now made better elsewhere.

The few pounds of wool and meat we personally were producing were scarcely of cosmic importance in the economic picture, but they were real, and they were something being produced on a piece of caliche land otherwise capable of producing little or nothing. Is a hill country ranch only scenery? Looks that way.

More and more, Americans are only consuming and not producing.

the candidate Carol Sylander ceaselessly points out in her tiresome TV spots, the blue jeans are being shipped from Taiwan to Dallas. The hamburger meat is coming out of the cut-over rain forests of South America. We've already heard enough about the cars and the electronic gadgets coming from Japan.

Incidentally, if you want to get as stirred up as we feel right now, read Pat Choate's "Agents of Influence," subtitled "How Japan Manipulates America's Political and Economic System." Bookstop has it.

While several previous presidents played into the hands of the Japanese, as the latter began to corner more and more of the world's cash, it was Ronald Reagan and George Bush who presided over fawning concession after major concession to demands by Japan for special privileges and exemptions from fair play in international trade.

The reason? Of course it is, as smiling ambassadors from the rising sun never failed to point out, Japan has been financing the spending spree of the last eight years buying all our government IOUs. Without Japan we would be as dead as the old Soviet Union.

Republicans like to bash Democrats because they "tax and spend." We seem to have gotten into quite as much trouble through the recent Republican policy of borrow and spend. Either way we're broke.—Now how did seven dead sheep get us going on all this?

Soup and salad luncheon scheduled

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 157 will host a soup and salad luncheon Thursday beginning at 11 a.m. at the Legion hall in Bandera.

Two kinds of soup and a large selection of salads will be offered for $3.50. A drink of tea or coffee is included with the meal.

Desserts will be available for 50 cents each.

Proceeds from the event will be used by the auxiliary to sponsor one Bandera girl and one Medina girl to attend Girls State this summer.

The HORSESHOE INN
512-796-3105

Due to an opportunity to work more closely in the Bed & Breakfast industry in San Antonio, the focus at The Horseshoe Inn is changing.

As of Friday evening, March 20, daily meals will not longer be served. However, the dining room will still be available for groups wishing to use it and I'm more than happy to cater for you here or elsewhere. Just give me a call and at least 48 hours notice!

The Horseshoe Inn continues to be Bandera's small country-style Inn offering personable service, a quiet relaxed atmosphere with a down-home breakfast at affordable rates.

Judith Butler and Richard Bennett II

Butler, Bennett engaged

Judith Jolene Butler and Richard Allen Bennett II, both of Sabinal, will recite marriage vows June 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Hondo.

Butler is the daughter of Norman E. and Jodie Butler of Pipe Creek.

Bennett is the son of Richard A. and Dorothy Bennett of Sabinal.

Butler is a 1987 graduate of Bandera High School and currently a student at Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde. She is majoring in criminal justice.

Bennett is a 1983 graduate of Sabinal High School, the law enforcement academy at Southwest Texas Junior College and is currently the chief of police in Sabinal.

Entertainment's name of the game at Fiesta Texas in San Antonio

Entertainment is the name of the game at Fiesta Texas, the Lone Star State's newest attraction.

The 200-acre park located in San Antonio officially opened March 14, and offers four distinctly themed areas, each reflecting a part of the state's vast culture through design, food and of course, entertainment.

Fiesta Texas will be open each Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. o 9 p.m. through April 26.

Starting May 1, the park will also be open Fridays from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Starting May 25, Fiesta Texas will be open daily from 10 a.m. through 11 p.m.

The parking lot opens one hour before the admission gates and closes one hour after the park closes its gates.

Admission is $22.95 for one all-day ticket for persons 12 or older. The admission price includes all shows and rides. Children's one-day tickets are $15.95. Admission for two consecutive days is $34.95 for adults and $24.95 for children.

The musical styles featured at Fiesta Texas echo the theming of each area — Los Festivals, a Hispanic area; Crackaxle Canyon, an early 1910s western area; Spasaburg, a German area; and Rockville, the park's 1950s-60s nostalgia area.

Guests in each of the miniature villages are treated to an authentic sampling of culture through sights, sounds, smells and tastes. Each themed area has two theaters, except Spasaburg, which has one.

Entertainment ranges from street entertainers to fully choreographed Broadway-style performances put on in sumptuous theaters.

Guests to the park may sample from a smorgasbord of 60 entertainment performances daily during the summer season, with regularly scheduled shows running at least four times.

Each day's entertainment concludes with a spectacular laser and fireworks show, the Lone Star Spectacular.

Fiesta Texas "Streetmosphere," or street entertainment, features everything from Sheriff Wyatt White in Crackaxle Canyon to an unexpectedly delightful Frau Spitz Shinen in Spasaburg.

The largest theater in Fiesta Texas is Lone Star Lil's, in Crackaxle Canyon. The theater seats about 4,000, with 1,600 covered seats, and is home for the "They Went Thataway" show. This 45-minute show with 20 singers/dancers and 14 musicians takes the audience back to the 1920s in oil-booming west Texas. The precisely choreographed yet rollicking production has cowboys, dance hall girls, oil men and all the trappings.

PC Community Center seeks three directors

Three Pipe Creek-area persons are sought to become directors of the Pipe Creek Community Center.

Senior director Bucky Densford announced that an election to fill the three director positions will be held in early April.

Usually one director is elected once every three years, so that each three-year term is staggered allowing only one new director to be elected each year.

However, directors Ronald Basinger and Blenda Moss have moved out of the Pipe Creek area and Densford's term is expiring, making three vacancies on the board.

"The community center is getting more and more important for community meetings, elections, reunions, wedding receptions, fund-raisers and training classes as the Pipe Creek area becomes more populated," says Densford.

"Directors manage the rental income, scheduling of use, repairs, improvements and the distribution of the keys."

Announcement of the date of voting will come as soon as a slate of candidates is set.

To be nominated as a director or for more information, call Densford at 535-4632.

Whitaker celebrates 'Leap Day' birthday

There's at least one girl in Bandera County that was born on leap day.

Jessie Lynne Whittaker celebrated her fourth birthday Feb. 29 at the home of her parents, Charlie and Sue, of Lakehills.

A total of 20 guests, both adults and children, celebrated the occasion that can usually be celebrated on the actual day only once every four years.

The party included barbecue and a vanilla birthday cake decorated with the "the Little Mermaid Ariel, the ocean and fish.

Bad news for Jessie, when she's 12 in the year 2000, there isn't a Feb. 29 leap day that year. The calendar skips leap day on any year evenly divisible by 400 to make a very minor correction in the calendar to compensate for the Earth's orbit.

Medina Lake AARP to learn about quiche

A demonstration of quiche preparation will be featured at the regular meeting of the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons Monday, March 23, beginning at 1 p.m. at the Lakehills American Legion hall.

Bandera County Extension Service aides Carol Lee Youngblood and Ruth Ann Tips will provide the cooking demonstration.

At the club's executive board meeting March 16, it was reported that the dessert table at the American Legion Chili Cook-off realized a good sum to add to the club's treasury.

Persons who donated sweets were thanked.

The club currently has a total of 99 paid members.

MLBA sets dance, market

The Medina Lake Betterment Association-sponsored monthly dance will feature Country Surprise playing country and western music Saturday, March 21, at the Lakehills Civic Center.

The dance will start at 8:30 p.m. and continue until 12:30 p.m. with tickets at $2 per person and $3 per couple.

The MLBA will also sponsor a flea market Saturday, March 28, at the center from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Inside tables and outside booths will rent for $10 and outside spaces are $5.

To reserve a space, call 751-3126, 751-3331, or 512-490-9008.

Shrine Club wins chili cook-off

The Medina Lake Shrine Club won the American Legion Post 410 chili cook-off Saturday in Lakehills.

Joan Wallace lead the team of cookers with their "The Best Little Chili House in Texas" chili.

She was assisted by Ruby Reilly, Flora Waldschmitde and Katy Fairchild.

Kelley's Shamrock Tavern of Pipe Creek's "Lucky Bucka" chili won second-place and the showmanship award.

Kelley Letcher said the Legion's cook-off their first of the season attempt and they'll enter three teams in the Bandera American Legion Cowboy-Irish Stew Cook-off this coming Saturday.

While they had dance-hall girls at the Lakehills cook-off, Letcher said they'll have the complete Western booth for the Bandera cook-off.

One secret to this year's chili was "no green food color" in the chili to honor St. Patrick's Day. Last year the chili tasted good, but with the color, it just didn't quite leave the right impression.

Third-place went to Sy Turner's Oh So Good Chili sponsored by Viking Enterprises.

Last place went to B & B Chili, cooked by Bryan Hutcherson of Lakehills and Glenn Abaney of San Antonio.

At the site, they renamed their chili "Dirty Sneaker Chili."

Hutcherson said they "filleted the sole and cut out the tongue.

A total of 12 chili cooks participated and Legion spokesman Tony Kruse said it was the most they've had at their cook-offs.

Plant, bake sale set

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 will host its annual plant and bake sale Saturday, April 4, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Legion hall on 26th Street in Lakehills.

A flea market will also be held along with the event, says spokeswoman Sue Kruse.

A wide variety of fresh plants will be offered plus home-baked cakes and pies.

Bandera County Judge Ray Mauer, here with Marie Holland, proclaimed March 8-14 "Older Worker Week."

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes
ARE YOU A CHEERFUL GIVER?
Many people find it easy to give by sharing their time, energy, and substance. Others may be unaware of the joys and opportunities of volunteering and performing "good works." Sadly others may feel that they have little to give.
For a moment, let us picture ourselves as cheerful givers, giving the greatest gift we have to give: OURSELVES. Perhaps someone we know would be grateful for help in their home or yard. Perhaps someone would be appreciative of having an errand run for them. Perhaps we might watch our neighbor's child while they run an errand.
We may share special knowledge, talents, or skills that help entertain, enlighten, or enrich others. We may choose to offer our time, donations or prayers on behalf of some worthy cause. We can always give a warm hug, lend a listening ear and be a considerate, kind friend.
Wouldn't today be a good day to be a cheerful giver?

Silver Sage Corral

Manuel Flores

Mauer proclaimed the week of March 8 through March 14 "Older Worker Week" in Bandera County. The balance of the month of March will draw [illegible] programs such as the Senior Texans Employment Program.

The purpose of the proclamation is to draw attention to the fact there are numerous older persons in our community that have good work skills and are willing to work. It is also to draw attention to the fact that the older worker is often more reliable and is less likely to miss work days because of illness. We would like to take this opportunity to invite you to stop by the center and have a cup of coffee with us and discuss any employment problems you might be having. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

—The transportation program that offers trips to Kerrville each Monday and to San Antonio each Wednesday has some rules that must be followed. The person wishing transportation must call the Silver Sage Corral before 8:30 a.m. on the day they need transportation. It would be helpful if you could call earlier than the day you wish to go to Kerrville or San Antonio. We will take reservations only from the person needing transportation. The phone number is 796-4969.

—The Birthday Luncheon for March will be Tuesday, March 24. As you might already know this is a covered dish luncheon. The people celebrating March birthdays do not have to bring a covered dish, but everyone else is asked to bring a covered dish that will serve at least six people. Please comply with this request so that we do not run short of food.

—The Silver Sage Corral Board of Directors will meet Friday, March 27 at 2 p.m. at the center. All board members are urged to attend.

—A tip of our sombrero to Emmett Lockhart, Les Abraham and Ina Woolsine for their donations to the Silver Sage Corral. Your thoughtfulness is appreciated.

The center is in need of volunteers to answer the phone each Monday through Friday. If you wish to volunteer, please call the center.

The Rev. B.J. Rogers of the Lakehills United Methodist Church conducted religious services for residents Sunday afternoon. Guests were Lillian Ray, Lisa and Joe Calvillo and Marley Johnson.

The Rosary group meeting for prayers and singing Monday evening included residents Ada Sehon and Cecelia Leal and parishioners Joyce Sellberg, Fannie Caffall, Mary Fitzpatrick, Dorothy Callahan, Aggie Batto and Annette Kalka-Schulte.

• The Rev. Ted Bosworth from the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek led worship services Thursday morning, and while here he visited with Luther Mathis.

• Gaston and Ophelia Thurmond of Gonzales and Horace and Gladys Hines from Camp Bandina visited Stella Philapy.

• Elizabeth and Leslie Martin of Dallas visited Evelyn Carnes.

• Arlin Habenicht visited Mickie and Russell Stribling.

• Brenda Adams has had her family visiting from England, including her sister, Chris Fitzpatrick; two brothers, Victor and Edward Batchelor; and a brother-in-law, Wilfred Pavey. Her husband, Herbert from Kerrville, visits her daily.

[illegible] the Church of Christ Sunday.

• The nursing home's new rhythm band got together Monday morning, under the direction of Roxie Huggins and Shirley Phillips.

They were assisted by Woodman Rangers Casey and Michelle Dexter, Kelly and Kyle Phillips, and Lori and Caleb Huggins.

• Other volunteers last week included Overa Jones, Fran Pue, Tim Sanchez, Martin Smith, Missy Gulley and baby daughter, Lila Sprott, the Rev. Michael Mcmanus, Aggie Batto and Rosemary Ford.

Farmers Market will open May 23, members asked to pay dues now

Members of the Bandera County Farmer's Market can pay their dues with an anticipated opening day of May 23.

An election among members to select one executive committee member is also set.

Dues are $10 and can be paid to secretary-treasurer Carol Adams at HC02 Box 52, Medina. The dues are the same as last year.

The market will open Saturday, May 23, the same day as scheduled Funtier Day parade activities.

Hours will be from 8 a.m. to noon. Stall space will be $5.

Gerald Persyn will be the market manager and he asks that marketeers come early and help him put up the tent at vacant lot next to the Bandera firehouse.

President Richard Thornber will be selling camp-fire coffee, with proceeds going for weed herbicide and fire ant insecticide. Thornber said he would also appreciate donations of kindling wood for the fire.

Other members of the executive committee are Shermalee Mack and Bill Weber.

Persyn's three-year term is up and he can be re-elected or someone else elected to fill his place.

Weber and Mack have one more year to serve and Adams and Thornber have two more years to serve.

Call 580-7750 for more information.

Spring gardening to be the topic, Jerry Parsons to be the speaker

"Everything You Wanted To Know About Spring Gardening But Were Afraid To Ask" will be the topic of a spring gardening program Thursday, March 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bandera Electric Co-op.

Dr. Jerry Parsons, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in San Antonio, will be the featured speaker.

Parsons will discuss methods of soil preparation, fertilization and selection.

The meeing is sponsored by the Bandera County Horticulture Committee. For additional information, contact the Bandera County Extension Office at 796-7755.

Umpires sought

Persons interested in helping officiate little leagues, T-ball or softball are urged to attend a meeting Thursday, March 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church.

"Please come and help support our kids," urged spokesman Stanley Lico, who can be reached for more information at 535-6194.

★ ROAD IMPROVEMENTS & PAVING: "We have paved over 10 miles in our precinct in the short time since we acquired our own paving equipment. This effort is saving over $10,000 per mile compared to contractors' costs and it reduces per mile maintenance costs. Our road improvement and paving plan should see all major traffic areas paved in the next four year term."
★ ANNUAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASES: "The 8% increase that can be applied annually without roll-back consequences is bad state legislation and should be eliminated. We should be able to cut costs by eliminating duplication and increasing efficiency and even cut services if necessary to prevent these devastating increases. We need to work harder on a full -time basis to solve the problem"
★ SPECIAL INTERESTS: "They are a problem and they can rob our citizens of equal treatment. A prime example is the division of Road and Bridge funds for road maintenance. One precint (Pct. #2) currently receives over $2000 per mile for maintenance while the other precincts struggle with more miles and an average of around $1000 per mile. We must stop this kind of special interest, no matter what it takes to do it."

Lamb industry struggles to survive

Solution may be getting more people to eat lamb, expert says

A flock of problems has the U.S. lamb industry struggling for survival, but a report from Texas A&M University suggests one thing will help alleviate the situation: getting more people to eat more lamb.

While the bottom-line answer sounds simple, it will take concerted efforts by all industry segments to increase consumption, says Dr. Gary W.Williams of Texas A&M.

"Producers can exert some control over the direction, competitiveness and profitability of their respective industries by going directly to the consumer with their message," said Williams.

"The hard lesson to be learned is that if producers do not find the resources and take the initiative to aggressively promote and position their product in the market, no one else will."

Williams is director of the Texas Agricultural Market Research Center, which recently completed a comprehensive one-year study of lamb marketing from feeding to retail levels for the American Sheep Industry Association. The report suggested a number of strategies to reverse the trend of declining U.S. lamb consumption. The study was conducted by a team from Texas A&M University, the University of Wyoming, and Colorado State University.

Williams said the U.S. lamb industry has faced steadily deteriorating demand, increased concentration in the lamb-packing industry, greater competition from foreign producers, and ever-higher retail prices, unpleasant cooking odor, lack of preparation knowledge, and several other factors.

Retail prices are high, but there is little profit in the industry because demand is low. The report said that lamb is a labor-intensive retail product, which contributes to high prices.

While the difficulties are numerous, they're not impossible to overcome, the market research center's report concluded.

It offered three broad recommendations for the industry.

- Funding a national consumer study to find out how consumers feel about lamb's positive and negative attributes. The study also would identify areas where promotion is needed.
- Adoption of the "integrated consumer concept" to provide a better framework for marketing, merchandising and promoting lamb. The concept focuses on increasing lamb profitability through product development, consumer education and "system coordination."
- Greater cooperation among key industry players to help reach consensus on issues and programs.

The USDA lists Texas as the top sheep-producing state in the country, with 2.1 million head at the beginning of 1990. California, with 1 million head, was second.

U.S. LAMB CONSUMPTION

Consumption of lamb and mutton has declined from more than 4 pounds per capita in the early 1980s to only 1.5 pounds in the early 1990s.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

A bake sale and flea market in downtown Tarpley will help celebrate Bandera County's birthday party Saturday, March 21 from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the Tarpley Community Center building.

Tours of the historic Tarpley school building will also be available that day.

•"Women Driving Alone" was the program presented by extension agent Jan Bryson to 13 members of the Rio Hondo Extension Study Club when they met March 12 at the home of Mary Hietalahti.

A guest at the meeting was Susie Ross of Mendham, N.J., who was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Morris.

The club's next meeting will be April 16 at Billie Riley's home. Zella McLemore will demonstrate oil painting.

•Bobby Singleton, accompanied by her mother Virginia Terrell and her sister Dorothy Maness of San Antonio drove to Houston recently where they visited Bobby's niece and her husband, Cindy and Larry Williams.

They also drove to historic Nacogdoches, where they saw old Victorian homes and many trees in bloom. There they visited Bobby's niece Shalyn Williams.

•Don and Ginger Spencer's guests during the weekend were their daughter Julie Shearhart and children Bradley, Kelly and Brice of Bandera. Julie's husband had flown to Mound Valley, Kansas to visit his parents Jim and Pat Shearhart. His father is very ill.

Julie and her children were visitors at Tarpley Baptist Church Sunday.

•Visitors of Bill and Willie Morris Sunday were their daughter, JoAnna Seaman and her children Brett and Allison, who will spend a few days with their grandparents.

Pharmacist's discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON -- After solving the problem of his own obesity, a pharmacist, now director of National Dietary Research, may have discovered the solution for others with the same problem.

Dr. William Morris, pharmacist, inventor and author has discovered a natural food tablet, aptly named Food Source One, that replaces some of the calories normally obtained from food. Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with other natural food ingredients with little or no caloric value so you can lose weight without giving up all your favorite foods, as explained in NDR's Lifestyle Maintenance publication, available where Food Source One is sold. "The secret to meaningful weight loss is not in decreasing the amount of food you eat, but in controlling the fat," says Dr. Morris.

According to Dr. Morris, weight loss results while using Food Source One will depend on how many pounds a person needs to lose. However some overweight people are experiencing extra-ordinary results with Food Source One. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it." says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great" she added.

Food Source One is available at pharmacies without a prescription.

The Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department will raffle off one of three donated lots at their May 23 fund-raising spectacular.

Department members voted at a special March 14 meeting to use one of the non-contiguous lots in Lake Medina Shores as the prize in a special drawing.

The drawing is expected to the highlight of the barbecue, flea market, auction and other goings on.

She is the daughter of Joyce Reese and granddaughter of Juanita "Sister" Schaffer.

Punkie Camp and Dorothy Rucker gave the shower at Copper Lantern with 43 guests attending.

Included in the guest list were friends, neighbors, and relatives from Midland, Austin, Devine, Houston and More.

Long-time friend Donna from Houston took care of the baby book listing guest and gifts.

Fingerfood, punch, cake, dips and chips were offered. Tyree

Madrona garden club discusses landscaping

Landscaping plans for the courthouse grounds was the subject of a meeting of County Judge Ray Mauer and Madrona Garden Club representatives Sherlie Vangness and Helen Ahr.

The garden club has been instrumental in planting trees on the lawn and will be involved in assisting with the landscaping plans for the lawn.

Vangness is club president and Ahr chairs the club's civic beautification committee.

The club's theme for the year is "Releaf Texas" (with trees and garden club members), the members will be celebrating Arbor Day next month and encouraging their friends to plant trees.

DAR members to attend state event

Four members of the Bandera chapter of the Texas Society Daughters of the American Revolution will represent the local chapter at the DAR's 93rd state conference March 22-24 in Fort Worth.

Local members who plan to attend are Mesdames John K. J.O. Evans Sr.; and Robert W. Alexander, chapter regent.

Mrs. Harrell will preside at the meeting which is expected to attract about 800 DAR members and guests from all over Texas. There are 177 chapters in the sate with 17,000.

Prayers to St. Jude
Almost a year ago, I began to pray to Saint Jude. Saint Jude is known as the Patron of Hopeless Cases; of things almost despaired of. Five months ago, my prayer was answered, how ashamed I am that I am just now ever mindful of this great favor. I promise, O Blessed St. Jude, to honor you always as my special powerful patron and grateful to encourage devotion to you.

Bulldogs finish third in Ingram tournament

Bandera' baseball Bulldogs won third place in the 12th annual Ingram Baseball Tour- [illegible] final less to the eventual champion, Blanco.

The Bulldogs defeated Hondo's junior varsity in first-round action Friday, 21-0, and then were edged, 7-6, by Blanco in the second round.

Medina lost, 21-1, Friday to Ingram, and were beaten by Fredericksburg's JV, 9-5, in consolation round play.

Ingram eliminated the state's sixth-ranked Class AA team, Johnson City, in semi-final play Saturday, advancing to the finals of their tournament [illegible] opposite Blanco.

Blanco won the title tilt, 4-1, to run its season's record to 5-0.

Scott Thomas hurled seven innings of top-hit baseball and struck out 12, in leading Bandera to a third-place win over state-ranked Johnson City, 3-0.

The win was Thomas' second in three decisions this season and ran Bandera's season-long record to 5 wins and 3 defeats.

Medina's game against Llano's JV for seventh and eighth places was canceled. Kerrville Tivy JV beat Fredericksburg JV, 5-1, for the consolation [illegible]

Al Fancy Logo wins Sunday feature at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar

"The horse was standing there (in the starting gates) and looking down the track like he was ready to run," said Jockey Tad Leggett.

[illegible] year-old colt won the featured $3,300 quarter horse allowance Sunday aboard Al Fancy Logo after completing the 350-yard contest in 18.16 seconds.

The horse was the first one out of the gates and never let go of the lead.

"I hit him three times (with the whip after they left the gate) and he ran his own race. I didn't make him run," said Leggett.

The 4-1 horse finished an impressive 1 1/2 lengths ahead of the 4-1 Tolltac Rocket, which made an late run for the wire.

[illegible] Number, ran third.

In other racing action Sunday, Loom Fruit was his first race of the year in the $2,100 7 1/2-furlong thoroughbred claiming race for horses carrying a price tag of $5,000.

Jockey Ricky Walker took the 6-5 favorite Loom Fruit to an early lead in the two-turn race while Tammy McHargue kept Crown Cavern and David Brown kept Mojave Joe close to Walker and Loom Fruit throughout the contest.

Walker kept his horse in front the entire trip and won by 1/2 length.

Crown Cavern ran second, Mojave Joe ran third, and Mastman ran fourth.

Normally, distance horses are run in one short race before a long contest after they've had a few months off. But Loom Fruit, who last raced Nov. 24, didn't seem to need the preparation race Sunday.

"I was hoping he won't get short on his first out, but he came and ran a big race," said Walker.

In other racing action Sunday, two foals of Kentucky Derby winners ran 1-2 in the last race of the day.

Affirmed Prince, a gelding fathered by Triple Crown winner Affirmed, won the a $1,500 1-mile thoroughbred maiden claiming race for horses with a price tag of $3,200.

Apprentice jockey McHargue let Affirmed Prince run second to Ace E. Doodle most of the trip, but in the turn, she set her horse on his way, taking the lead.

Time To Sizzle, a colt fathered by 1985 Horse of the Year and Kentucky Derby winner Spend A Buck, had been shadowing McHargue and Affirmed Prince on the outside all the way around the track.

Jockey Brown prompted Time To Sizzle on pass Ace E. Doodle and at one time in the [illegible] from Affirmed Prince.

The even-money favorite, Affirmed Prince, held on to win by 1/2 length.

In other racing action Sunday, Loom Fruit's stablemate Sheaky, stumbled out of the starting gate in the first race of the day and could [illegible] striking This Girls Got It. That accident started a chain reaction that interfered with Cash In Sight, Singapore Sig, Cash Your Dreams, and Hemps Tee Time.

The pounding the horses received allowed the only two untouched horses, The Quick Request and Vagabound Express to race 1-2 in the 350-yard quarter horse contest.

Only O.S. Caribe IV's Cash In Sight was able to regain [illegible] third.

In Saturday's race action, Leggett took Coalmine to win in the $3,400 5 1/2-furlong "Best of Class" Sprint Series race for claiming horses carrying a $4,000 price tag.

The 11-1 long shot was the early trailer in the race, but Leggett took the 4-year-old filly to the rail in the back stretch and bid his time, holding excellent position.

While the 6-5 favorite Lease Agreement was trapped behind at least two horses in the turn, Leggett kept Coalmine at the rail, running third in the six-horse field in the turn.

When the pack of three horses turned into the stretch, Leggett prompted Coalmine to sneak through at the rail and take the lead.

For the last 220 yards, Leggett and Coalmine cruised to the win to finish ahead of 7-2 So Be It by 1 1/4 lengths.

In other racing action Saturday, Flying Uncle won his second race in a row at Bandera this year.

Jockey Betty Harless, who looks to be the horse's regular rider this season, took the 3-2 favorite to an early lead in the 6-furlong allowance race and kept him there. Harless raced the horse down the stretch [illegible] gaining, i.e., without whipping him, and won by 2 lengths.

"We let him run his own race," said trainer Roy Rayland.

[illegible] Leasy, with last year's leading jockey aboard, ran second and the winner of the Mission City Handicap, 2-1 Bonsparte, ran third.

In Friday's racing action, the fastest qualifier in the Seguin Sale Futurity trials was first-time starter Mary Mystic with a time at 17.33 seconds, winning the third trial by 3/4 length in the 330-yard dash.

Mary Mystic and nine other horses will compete in the $10,000-added Seguin Sale Futurity set for Sunday, March 22.

Owner Gene Vose of San Antonio and Keeton have a second horse in [illegible] with Carlos Martinez's Easy Debby, for the 10th fastest slot at 17.69 seconds. Voss won the "shake" that determined who raced March 22 and who didn't.

The second fastest qualifier was also Man Shes Fabulous, ridden by Randy Edison and trained by Hay Bustamante with a 17.375-second time.

The third fastest qualifier was Rockets Eighty Eighty, ridden by Jerry Lee Yoakum and trained by Duane Hartzell with a 17.44-second time.

Other qualifiers were Dashin Coin, jockey David Brown, trainer Roy Marzcom, 17.465 seconds; Bald Mystic, Tram Telg, Cody Brock, 17.495; Pass The Pyro, Anna Landolt, David Pawelek, 17.50; Creole Crystal, Rodney Carter, Noe Everett, 17.605; A Cash Connection, Gene Wasson, Hector Rodrigues, 17.65; and Mystic Moon Lady, David Brown, Chuck Jackson, 17.685.

In betting action Sunday, A San Antonio man won the first twin trifecta of the season and was paid $35,265 minus the 20 percent Internal Revenue take.

The twin trifecta jackpot will start at zero Friday.

The track has begun a "guaranteed" $10,000 Tex Six jackpot last weekend.

If anyone picks all six horses correctly in the races three to sight, they will get at least $10,000.

Al Fancy Logo wins Sunday feature at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar
Northern Star Writer

"The horse was standing there (in the starting gates) and looking down the track like he was ready to run," said Jockey Tad Leggett.

And he was ready, as the 3-year-old colt won the featured $2,300 quarter horse allowance Sunday aboard Al Fancy Logo after completing the 350-yard contest in 18.16 seconds.

The horse was the first one out of the gates and never let go of the lead.

"I hit him three times (with the whip after they left the gate) and he ran his own race. I didn't make him run," said Leggett.

The 4-1 horse finished an impressive 1 1/2 lengths ahead of the 4-1 Tolltac Rocket, which made an late run for the wire.

In other racing action Sunday, Loom Fruit won his first race of the year in the $2,100 7 1/2-furlong thoroughbred claiming race for horses carrying a price tag of $5,000.

Jockey Ricky Walker took the 6-5 favorite Loom Fruit to an early lead in the two-turn race while Tammy McHargue kept Crown Cavern and David Brown kept Mojave Joe close to Walker and Loom Fruit throughout the contest.

Walker kept his horse in front the entire trip and won by 1/2 length.

Crown Cavern ran second, Mojave Joe ran third, and Mastman ran fourth.

Normally, distance horses are run in one short race before a long contest after they've had a few months off. But Loom Fruit, who last raced Nov. 24, didn't seem to need the preparation race Sunday.

"I was hoping he won't get short on his first out, but he came and ran a big race," said Walker.

In other racing action Sunday, two foals of Kentucky Derby winners ran 1-2 in the last race of the day.

Affirmed Prince, a gelding fathered by Triple Crown winner Affirmed, won the a $1,500 1-mile thoroughbred maiden claiming race for horses with a price tag of $3,200.

Apprentice jockey McHargue let Affirmed Prince run second to Ace E. Doodle most of the trip, but in the turn, she set her horse on his way, taking the lead.

Time To Sizzle, a colt fathered by 1985 Horse of the Year and Kentucky Derby winner Spend A Buck, had been shadowing McHargue and Affirmed Prince on the outside all the way around the track.

Jockey Brown prompted Time To Sizzle on pass Ace E. Doodle and at one time in the stretch looked like he'd be the winner.

But Ace E. Doodle dug in and ran second to Affirmed Prince.

The even-money favorite, Affirmed Prince, held on to win by 1/2 length.

In other racing action Sunday, Sheeky, stumbled out of the starting gate in the first race of the day and veered outside striking This Girls Got It. That accident started a chain reaction that interfered with Cash In Sight, Singapore Sig, Cash Your Dreams, and Hemps Tee Time.

The pounding the horses received allowed the only two untouched horses, The Quick Request and Vagabound Express to race 1-2 in the 350-yard quarter horse contest.

Only O.S. Carlton IV's Cash In Sight was able to regain [illegible] competitors to run third.

In Saturday's race action, Leggett took Coalmine to win in the $3,400 5 1/2-furlong "Best of Class" Sprint Series race for claiming horses carrying a $4,000 price tag.

The 11-1 long shot was the early trailer in the race, but Leggett took the 4-year-old filly to the rail in the back stretch and bid his time, holding excellent position.

While the 6-5 favorite Lease Agreement was trapped behind at least two horses in the turn, Leggett kept Coalmine at the rail, running third in the six-horse field in the turn.

When the pack of three horses turned into the stretch, Leggett prompted Coalmine to sneak through at the rail and take the lead.

For the last 220 yards, Leggett and Coalmine cruised to the win to finish ahead of 7-2 So Be It by 1 1/4 lengths.

In other racing action Saturday, Flying Uncle won his second race in a row at Bandera this year.

Jockey Betty Harless, who looks to be the horse's regular rider this season, took the 3-2 favorite to an early lead in the 6-furlong allowance race and kept him there. Harless raced the horse down the stretch [illegible] gelding, i.e., without whipping him, and won by 2 lengths.

"We let him run his own race," said trainer Roy Ragland.

[illegible] Lane, with last year's leading jockey aboard, ran second and the winner of the Mission City Handicap, 2-1 Bonaparte, ran third.

In Friday's racing action, the fastest qualifier in the Seguin Sale Futurity trials was first-time starter Mary Mystic with a time at 17.33 seconds, winning the third trial by 3/4 length in the 330-yard dash.

Mary Mystic and nine other horses will compete in the $10,000-added Seguin Sale Futurity set for Sunday, March 22.

Owner Gene Voss of San Antonio and Keaton have a second horse in the Seguin competition, a colt with Carlos Martinez's Easy Debby, for the 10th fastest slot at 17.69 seconds. Voss won the "shake" that determined who raced March 22 and who didn't.

The second fastest qualifier was also Man Shes Fabulous, ridden by Randy Edison and trained by Ray Bustamante with a 17.375-second time.

The third fastest qualifier was Rocketa Eighty Eighty, ridden by Jerry Lee Yokum and trained by Duane Hartsell with a 17.44-second time.

Other qualifiers were Dashin Coin, jockey David Brown, trainer Roy Marcom, 17.465 seconds; Bald Mystic, Tram Telg, Cody Brock, 17.495; Pass The Pyro, Anna Landoit, David Pawelek, 17.50; Creole Crystal, Rodney Carter, Noe Everett, 17.605; A Cash Connection, Gene Wasson, Hector Rodrigues, 17.55; and Mystic Moon Lady, David Brown, Chuck Jackson, 17.685.

In betting action Sunday, A San Antonio man won the first twin trifecta of the season and was paid $35,265 minus the 20 percent Internal Revenue take.

The twin trifecta jackpot will start at zero Friday.

The track has begun a "guaranteed" $10,000 Tex Six jackpot last weekend.

If anyone picks all six horses correctly in the races three to eight, they will get at least $10,000.

Medina teacher Doug Townsend and some of his high school agriculture students tend their bedding plants Monday, March 23, in anticipation of planting them outdoors soon. Warming weather and abundant spring rains make this season one of the best on record for gardeners, but wait. Jerry Parsons says it's too early to move those tomatoes outside.

'Don't plant tomatoes yet'

Parsons advises local gardeners

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Spring has sprung and so has gardening fever.

But Area Agriculture Extension Service Specialist Jerry Parsons says don't stick those tomato transplants into the ground just yet.

"The optimal time to plant tomato transplants is March 15 in San Antonio and April 10 in the Hill Country," said Parsons at the first of his spring gardening seminars, presented to Bandera County citizens at the Bandera Electric Cooperative March 19.

The tomato transplants are out in the nurseries and other retail outlets and Parsons says there are four varieties that grow well here.

The first is Celebrity. "If you can't grow Celebrity, you can't grow tomatoes."

Celebrity was bred for flavor when it was introduced, but it will crack more than other varieties, says Parsons.

To avoid cracking, use Bingo and Whirlaway. "They won't crack as easily, they have thicker skin."

A fourth variety is Carnival.

The highest quality tomato as far as firmness is concerned is Bingo.

For flavor, Whirlaway is the best. "For flavor there is no one is better.

"Now it won't taste as good as tomatoes did 40 years ago, but most of your taste buds have been killed.

"Grow some of each and taste for yourself."

For those that must have something new, there is a fifth variety.

"The new tomato, Surefire, has a lot of good applications for Hill Country," says Parsons.

Surefire will be most useful in fall gardens in the Hill Country, Dallas-Ft. Worth and Wichita Falls area, as most other fall-planted tomatoes don't have ripe fruit by the time the first fall frost hits.

"This one will ripen 30 days faster than Celebrity. It's a heat setter. You plant it in July."

Once the fruit starts to ripen, it comes quick. "You'll pick all the fruit in the first two to three weeks. It all ripens at once."

Problems are that Surefire produces medium size fruit.

Advantages are that it is a meaty tomato, good for sauce and catsup.

Surefire was supposed to be introduced in the fall, but is available for the spring season in some nurseries as a transplant.

If it is planted this spring, it will produce tomatoes 10 days to two weeks early. "The first fresh tomato of the season is important to people," says Parsons.

Surefire has another advantage — it is the first one that will set fruit in the dead of summer. "That's June here," says Parsons.

For those that like to grow tomatoes from seed, Surefire seed is available from Porter and Sons in Stephenville for $1/packet.

"Plant the seeds about the first to middle of June," says Parsons.

Planting Surefire in the fall will replace the idea of keeping tomato plants grown in the spring growing through the summer and then trying to get a second crop in the fall. "You do better with new plants, but we never had one (variety) fast enough (to start after the summer heat is gone)," says Parsons.

Tourists assist in city river rescue

By Nick Johnson
Bulletin Editor

Tourists from San Antonio on riverside outings were joined by Bandera County emergency medical technicians to snatch three desperate teenagers from the deadly clutches of the undertow at the dam in Bandera City Park.

It was the second near-drowning incident of 1992 at the site which claimed the lives of two San Antonio young men on a midnight outing at the park in 1990.

Duane Maher, 16, of Pipe Creek and Roxanne McCloud, 17, of Bandera, and a third youth were transported to Sid Peterson Memorial in Kerrville where they were treated and released after a 45-minute ordeal in the undertow.

A second tourist, who happened to be a medical doctor and chief of the emergency room at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, was also on the scene, and he administered CPR to Maher, attention that may have saved the youth's life.

Matilda Moreno, 27, was on her first off-duty trip to Bandera with John G. Bautista, 29, both of San Antonio. She had visited the city a couple of weeks ago on a sales trip for her employer, Sams Club of San Antonio, and liked it so much she came back.

After unloading their barbecue equipment, the couple heard screams coming from the river beneath the dam.

Armed with a rope that was part of their camping equipment, Bautista climbed on the dam in an effort to get a line to Maher, who was struggling desperately in the undertow.

Moments later the two of Maher's companions, on the dam in concern for their struggling friend, were swept off the structure and dumped into the same undertow.

Bautista struggled for what was estimated by Moreno as as much as 45 minutes. The victims at times were all at the end of Bautista's rope, but one-by-one they slipped off.

Police arrived on the site, but they did not become involved in the drama, Moreno said.

It was the arrival of emergency medical technicians who quickly joined Bautista with more rope.

As the drama continued, Maher's companions were finally snaked out, but the 16-year-old remained, exhausted and near death, in the swirling undertow created by so-called "hydraulic current" at the base of the dam created by the sheer dropoff behind the dam.

"He kind of relaxed in the water," recalls Moreno, "and drifted down to the center (of the river) and was able to swim out of it."

He was met at the shore by Dr. Burner, who administered CPR and accompanied Maher in the ambulance to the hospital, Moreno said.

The treacherous undertow is created at the base of the dam by the water that flows back toward the base and sucks objects, including people, under the falls again and again.

To escape the hydraulic effect, experts say, the victim has two choices. He may dive to the river bottom and swim with the current downstream until the flow brings him to the surface. Or he can attempt to exit parallel to the dam, staying as close to the structure as possible.

But ordinary methods of escape are virtually fruitless, they advise.

Bandera city council has often discussed taking measures to reduce the undertow, but to date nothing has been done except to erect warning signs.

The last major discussion took place on Aug. 13, 1990, after the death of two San Antonio men at the site. Engineers testified that creating a slope at the downstream side of the dam would reduce the dangers.

City attorney Terry Mason warned the council that they were not only endangering lives by allowing the hazard to exist, they were inviting lawsuits.

"If you do nothing, you'd better get your checkbook out," he warned. Nothing has been done.

No candidates for three offices May 1

Suppose they gave an election and nobody ran?

That's not exactly the case in the May 1 municipal and school elections in Bandera County, but almost.

There's one candidate for mayor of Bandera, but none for two city council seats subject to the May 1 election, and there's one school board seat begging for a candidate.

They have a full boat in the Medina school elections, however, and even a contested race, between incumbent Fred Burch and chalenger Jerry Sides, a welder/driller, for position 6 on the Medina school board.

Incumbent hardware store operator Andy Lautzenheiser, chairman of the Bandera County Eduction District, and insurance agent Randy MacNaughton, a former school board member, are unopposed in positions 7 and 4.

MacNaughton seeks the unexpired two-year term vacated last month by Dekres Uribe.

In Bandera, incumbents Thomas H. "Bub" Keese of Bandera and James Wagner of Lakehills are unopposed for places 7 and 6, but there are no candidates for place 5 being vacated by Herb Young, who served just a single year.

Wagner is a San Antonio firefighter and Keese is a ranch manager.

Mayor Raymond Adamietz is the only candidate who filed before last Friday's deadline in municipal elections, also May 1, and volunteers for two seats at the Bandera city council table are needed.

letters to the editor

Why hurry to buy what we may already own?

Dear editor:

The P.S. (Public Spirited) Party (formerly the Rose and Stupid Party) asks the Springhills Water District board (or directors) why it is trying to purchase from "foreigners" at BMA (Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water Improvement District) what is probably our own Medina River water – or at least our own water rights.

OK, maybe BMA ain't "foreigners," but they sure ain't gen-u-ine, local, taxpaying, rodeo-lovin', Bandera County residents.

BMA does own the Medina Dam and probably controls the water it impounds. But PS asks, Those BMA thereby own all of the water in the river all the way back to the West Prong? If so, when did it buy it? I'm not sold on these "24-wampum" deals.

PS asks our local Springhills board not to purchase Medina River water from BMA until we're sure Bandera County doesn't already have a legal claim to draw water from our own river. Our state Water Code assigns ownership of surface water to the citizens of Texas. As citizens, why can't Bandera residents (or Springhills Water District, for that matter) petition the Texas Water Commission for our own allotment?

If Bandera needs more water, as our "Chicken Little-the-sky-is-falling" bureaucrats and real estate speculators claim, even they project that the possible need is many years into the future. PS isn't convinced lack of water is a present or immediate future problem – but, if we desperately need water, let's build our own water plant and drink our own water (not BMA's). Buying water that we probably already own from BMA is the type of deal that has the potential to keep present and future Bandera residents "poor and stupid" indefinitely.

Hey, Springs, What's the hurry?

LD charges are a boor

Dear editor:

I just wrote to our county commissioners asking them to file for Extended Area Telephone Service with the Public Utility Commission. I am not sure that I understand the filing process, but I am sure that I need a San Antonio telephone number. I am in the Northside School District and toll charges to call the school are outrageous. Everyone in Bandera County does not have this problem, but almost all of us get hit with a call into town now and again, and it is expensive! Consequently, I would like to ask every citizen out here to support this action. It may cost us a one-time line fee. It may increase our cost for monthly service a bit. However, in the long run it should save all of us a lot of money.

If we do this, not only would San Antonio be a local call, but so would Boerne and Medina (for all of us). I doubt that we can get this extended into Kerr County right now, but this is a good start.

Sealcoating is not paving

Dear editor:

I can't stand it any longer. Every time I read about this so-called "paving," it makes me wonder how people are being deceived by this topcoating job being called "paving."

If base is laid in with water and a roller properly, you don't get chug holes on a five-month-old topcoating job.

If you pave, you use hot asphalt, 340 degrees to 375 degrees fahrenheit at about $35 to $45 a ton. This is rolled down with a rubber-tired roller and then a flat-wheel roller. The base for paving is crushed rock or gravel with a good binder ratio to get maximum compaction for the roadbed. This is meant for density to make sure it will hold up to traffic.

Please watch the way our tax dollars are being spent and you can tell right away how the county is saving this $10,000 a mile.

It may be a saving now and it may look good, but will it last, or will it look like a dalmatian in a few months when it has to be patched because of improperly laid roadbase?

You as a voter can also be a quality control person. So don't listen to "it's been a wet year" as an excuse. When you build a proper road, it will drain down the bar ditch. When you find a soft spot in the road, dig it out; install a French drain or put more base in. Don't put more cold patch upon patch upon patch.

I don't care who gets to be a new commissioner, but I am concerned about my tax dollars being wasted on cold patch material as it is now.

Remember, topcoating or sealcoating is not paving.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Texas Comptroller John Sharp, who boldly ventures where most fear to tread, last week proposed that Texas legislators abolish school property taxes statewide.

Sharp thinks lawmakers should do this in the fast-approaching mid-May special session on public school finance.

In response, most lawmakers remained mum, either considering its merits or in shocked silence.

To replace the property tax revenues, Sharp wants to substitute a value-added tax on goods and services at each stage of production, at 3.75 percent.

He said the value-added tax, used in Europe and other industrialized nations, would raise $9.5 billion annually, about $2 billion more than the $7.5 billion raised by local school property taxes.

That's enough money to let lawmakers abolish the corporate franchise tax, too, Sharp said.

"A Lousy Tax"

Sharp called the property tax "a lousy tax," having been raised 146 percent in nine years.

The new tax would mean cheaper house payments, a wider tax base, more money circulating in the economy, and postponement of a state income tax.

The tax would be value-added to goods and services, minus labor and raw materials costs, at each stage of production.

Business Tax Pool

Meanwhile, Gov. Ann Richards may push a business tax pool which would remove businesses from local school property tax rolls.

Still being formulated, the basic structure would put all business property, including utilities and minerals, in a separate tax base which would be distributed equitably statewide.

Bullock: Crime Next

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock told Houston business leaders he thinks that, for the first time in history, the crime issue will be more important than education.

"I anticipate cuts in education," he said, meaning education social services. Public school spending, adjusted for inflation and enrollment, has decreased 1.7 percent per year since 1987.

Once the state completes construction of 40,000 new prison beds, an extra $1.5 billion yearly will be needed to run them, still with no assurance that the state can take the 16,000 felons held for the state in county jails, Bullock said.

Performance Budgeting

A key state budget official last week said higher education funding should be tied to how well a college or university achieves its goals rather than other factors such as student enrollment.

But educators and some lawmakers attending a meeting of the Joint Select Committee on Higher Education said the so-called performance-based budgeting could lead to numerous practical and political problems.

State Rep. Rick Williamson, vice chairman of the House budget-writing committee, defended his proposal, saying that it is necessary to ensure that taxpayers are getting their money's worth.

"It is the way government will be funded whether we like it or not," said Williamson, D-Weatherford.

Sen. Carl Parker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said he supported Williamson in theory, but added, "Performance-based budgeting in education is a dead issue."

Keep Chevron U.S.A.

Gov. Richards wants Chevron U.S.A. Products Co. to keep its Port Arthur facility in production by selling all or part of it, possibly in a joint venture with Mexico.

"The state has a few tricks up its sleeve that can help keep Chevron's Texas operations profitable," she wrote Chevron.

A Chevron official said the company is willing to listen to her plan to save 700 jobs.

Other Highlights

■ Sharp reported a $2.91 billion increase in 1991 state revenues, while state spending increased $3.5 billion for the same period.

■ John Hall, appointed by Gov. Richards as the first black chairman of the Texas Water Commission, complained that lawmakers have underfunded his agency, preventing full protection of the state's environment. He also ripped agency red tape, bureaucratic delays and poor management.

■ Richards, on a two-week tour to "sell Texas," made stops last week included New York and Waxahachie, to visit the supercollider being built there. Accompanying her was state Sen. Eddie Bernice Johnson, now running for Congress, who said she wants to see more hires of women, black males and Hispanics before she would consider more funding.

■ The Texas Low Income Housing Service, a non-profit advocacy group for the poor, blasted the Texas branch of the Farmers Home Administration for returning millions of unspent funds to Washington, D.C.

■ Freshman state Rep. Paul Sadler, D-Henderson, entered the race for Texas House speaker last week, calling for abolishment of pledge cards, the calendars committee and other rules reforms.

"The 400 meter oval is now completely graded off level," says Bandera High School coach and boys athletic director Chris Storer about the running track that is being built at the school. Storer anticipates that the track will be finished "sometime during the summer, maybe June or July," but according to superintendent Ted Dockery, "If the weather holds, it could be sooner." Work on the earthen berm still has to be completed on the east side of the track, to deflect water from the track, and loads of fill dirt must still be brought in by the county before the asphalt track surface can be applied. "The county has been a big help to us," said Dockery. The school trustees voted to pay for the track with $175,000 from the Bandera County permanent school fund, and the additional $3 to $8 thousand will be paid for by BACIT, Dockery explained.

Landers indicted for murder

Lakehills man stands accused in "family argument"

William Earl Landers, 61, of Lakehills was indicted by a Bandera County grand jury Monday for the murder of Charles Francis Bucher Sr., 43, of Lakehills.

Landers remains in the Bandera County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

According to Bandera County Criminal Investigator Lt. M.W. "Dickie" Kaiser, Landers was indicted on one charge of murder with two definitions.

Landers is alleged to have shot Bucher when Bucher was trying to calm Landers down during a family argument. Landers had his pistol and is alleged to have shot Bucher one time through the hand Thursday, March 12.

According to Kaiser, one definition of murder used by the grand jury is to "intentionally or knowingly causing the death of an individual."

The other definition is "intent to cause serious bodily injury and to commit an act clearly dangerous to human life that causes the death of an individual."

Landers will be formally in 216th District Court.

According to the investigation conducted by the Bandera County Sheriff's department, [illegible] and another family member, not Bucher.

Bucher is the common-law husband of Landers' daughter, Connie Landers Bucher.

Bandera County's birthday bash included music, festivities

The "Luck of the Irish" held on Saturday for Bandera County's 136th birthday bash. It didn't rain until a slight drizzle arrived in the late afternoon, and the county was loaded with fun! Lakehills, Bandera, Medina and Tarpley all joined in for this first annual celebration.

It all started when Judge Tom Grant decided we should have a certain day for this auspicious occasion, so he went to the County Commissioners and they designated March 21 as our official birthday. Patricia Mayes of Hondo [illegible] to emcee the event, and things were off and running.

[illegible] by the American Legion included an entertainment stage featuring musicians Trey Velvin, Jim Suddath, Roger Heinen and Ballan Grant Keene; talent show winners from Alkek Elementary School; and Roxie Huggins singing gospel and cowboy songs. Trey and Jim played throughout the day, with others joining in. Bandera's kazoo band was also on hand for the festivities.

The historical tours were also very popular with the tourists.

Bandera deputy Kimbrell appointed to task force

Bandera County Sheriff's Department chief deputy James Kimbrell has been appointed field supervisor of the 216th Judicial District Drug Task Force, Bandera County Sheriff R.S. "Steve" Forest announced this week.

Kimbrell was officially appointed March 12 and in his position will be the second man in charge on the task force.

Forest said he will keep the position of chief deputy open until the next fiscal year, Oct. 1, 1992. He, Lt. Dickie Kaiser, and the sergeants will share Kimbrell's duties.

"He will do us more good over there (on drug cases) than he can do here," said Forest Monday.

Many drug buyers/sellers are close-knit groups and difficult to investigate locally, said Forest.

Kimbrell will be involved in drug busts, but will not be one of the undercover officers making the initial contact with drug dealers.

Kimbrell will remain part of the sheriff's department, but on detached duty.

Kimbrell's salary will be paid for by a state and federal grant, with Bandera County paying Kimbrell's retirement, medical insurance, and social security and income taxes.

Republican sheriff nominee Jammie MacMillan was the previous member on the drug task force from Bandera.

Forest said the drug task force was reorganized in a meeting with the district attorney and county sheriffs in the 216th district several months ago.

Forest said he will hire a new deputy to take up patrol duties. "This will decrease our need for over-time," the sheriff told Bandera County Commissioners Monday. Over-time pay has come from the sheriff's ca..h forfeiture fund, the so-called "drug money," a fund that is being depleted.

The difference in salary between the new deputy and Kimbrell will be distributed as raises to the sheriff's department employees on their anniversary dates.

No raises had been given in the sheriff's department so far this fiscal year, as there was no money programmed for salary increases in the sheriff's budget.

Two EMTs relieved

Bandera paramedic Lloyd Hickman and Lakehills paramedic Mark Burke were relieved of all Bandera County EMS responsibilities Monday by Bandera County Commissioners.

After a 30-minute executive session, commissioners voted unanimously to remove them from the rolls of Bandera County EMTs because of violation of EMS protocols.

No open discussion was made and no further information was given.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This week goes down in your history books. You blend imagination with responsibility, and you come out a winner. This weekend favors a personal celebration — something joyous to share with friends. For those romantically inclined, ask for that introduction — you're irresistible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Build a better sense of connection between you and a partner (could be business, personal, or both). This week holds daydreaming material, which you create, just by being little old you. Be ready to further a cause that is close to your heart this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be a docile follower this week and you'll be amazed at what pops up for you. Togetherness is the theme — and plenty of it. You need to let another have their way, if you are to flourish in the long run. Be willing to take off and try a joint venture this weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Charge through your work and get it done as quickly as possible. It's simply ridiculous to work, when you can play and have such a good time. Once the good times start rolling, they are unlikely to stop. Make time to get to know a new face or keep a current torch glowing.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Make time for work this week, though your inclination is to live out the theme of your sign: LOVE. You come down with an early case of Spring Fever, or (excuse me) you already have one. You plunge into the weekend, primed and ready. It's that old saying, the nicer, the merrier.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Check with yourself and know — before you start a whole brouhaha — that you're coming from a centered space. Build on your security. Know what you want in the long run. Listen to your higher self and roll with the punches. Keep doing that all weekend long.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Talks reveal another side, and you are able to move a situation in a different and happier direction. You feel good as the weekend comes on (phew!). Make the most of the playful moments, the flirtation and the gooey eyes. There is nothing like a Libra in love.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Watch expenditures, investments and feeling like you have to keep up with the Joneses. It's also wise for you to stay mum and act like you know nothing. You may be shocked at some of the things you hear. Spend the weekend recuperating, hopefully in the company of another.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Make this one of your more upbeat weeks. Your personality radiates; you feel great and all goes well, if you just remain sensible — no walks on the wild side. A weekend chat can help a relationship. If single, join friends, have dinners in cozy spots, be available.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You cannot seem to get off the roller coaster ride. But once you go through the valley this week, you rise to the pinnacle. Though every day cannot be that great, there is certainly no reason for investing in tissues. Be careful with wildness in general this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You're up, you're down. You don't know. Expect to be moody and contrary — you just might surprise yourself. In the darkest moment, as the weekend begins, comes a glimpse of change. You have a whole other opinion by Monday. "Life is so wonderful."

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Make the most of the work week, though please, Pisces, pace yourself if you are going to get any enjoyment at all from the weekend. You will need to recharge those batteries, since you have been so busy scurrying here and there. Vanish with a favorite, "live-wire" friend.

County workmen grade a new road way to connect the recently completed Mayan Ranch Road bridge to the existing Mayan Ranch Road. The road was still closed Thursday, but the roadway was open Tuesday, even though the county still has work to do on the bridge.

Mayan Bridge complete, road 'still needs work'

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The Mayan Ranch Road bridge is complete, though the road on the west side of the Medina River still needs work.

The bridge was officially completed March 13, reports Texas Department of Transportation engineer Garland Galm of Hondo.

The road remained closed, however, at least through March 19, as county workmen continued to work on roadway connecting the Mayan Ranch Road to the bridge.

The roadway was open Tuesday, March 24, to traffic.

The old bridge across the Medina River is closed to traffic.

The Mayan Ranch bridge project is a joint county and state project, using federal funds.

The bid price of the project was $197,763.50, with Bandera County contributing $42,032 in county funds towards paying for the project.

However, the county has and will continue to spend additional funds in completing a roadway connecting the bridge.

The state's contractor, Aaron Construction of Elmendorf, built the bridge and worked the 150-feet of roadway approaching the bridge on both sides between the recent floods this winter.

Since the bridge is several hundred feet further down river from the existing bridge, a new road had to be constructed to connect the existing Mayan Ranch Road to the new bridge.

The county carved out an approximately 1,000-foot route and has the basic road base down, but still must finish the road.

According to county commissioner N.P. "Bud" Thompson, who in charge of the county work, work crews need five more days to finish building the road base for the route.

Then in the summer, they will pave the strip, says Thompson.

No extra road construction was needed on the east side, as the paved part of Sixth Street now connects directly to the bridge.

According to Galm, the bridge is higher than the old bridge and the river will have to have a six- to seven-foot rise before flood water will come over the bridge.

So while the bridge will still be closed during a flood, it should be open sooner as the water gradually recedes.

In other county work, Galm said the plans to replace small pipe culverts under FM Road 337 are complete and the plans are in the review process.

The project to pave FM Road 1077, the Dixie Dude Road, from where the pavement now ends to the entrance of the Hill Country State Natural Area, is still awaiting the completion of a highway right-of-way maps and the acquisition by Bandera County of the additional land needed on the side of the road.

the garden now, even though it is warm. "April 10 is the first frost freeze day here."

One thing gardeners can do [illegible] starts is to grow larger transplants. "There's nothing more dangerous than a gardener with nothing to do. Man, they might even get out the rotor tiller."

Anxious gardeners can buy the small transplants and put them into a larger pot and grow larger transplants, just like the larger transplants that are available in some nurseries. "Two of the larger plants will out yield six of those little dead ones. The big ones are easier to transplant."

Gardeners add potting mix, not soil, and slow release fertilizer into the larger, preferably black pot. "Don't put your soil in the pot. It turns into a brick.

"Then put that little kitty transplant in sun. It will grow faster in black pot because the sun's heat warms it."

When gardeners start planting the transplants, Parsons recommended not planting them all at once because hail in April could still kill them. While still in the pot, the plants can be moved.

Also, don't over water the plants. "Put your finger in soil. If it's moist, walk away, don't water. If you over water it, you will kill it."

Other recommendations are to grow tomatoes in container gardens — five gallon buckets or larger containers such as whiskey barrel halves with holes punched in them to drain the water. Water those plants with a water soluble fertilizer.

When a virus strikes, there is nothing a gardener can do. "If a plant gets it, pull it up and throw it away. It's gone."

Gardens can use a product called, Grow Web to house their plants once they are planted in the garden. "It's thin enough to be translucent, so enough light gets in and so air moves through it."

"You never have to open it (except to pick the fruit). It keeps out any bugs. It will keep out hail, too. It also keeps out any hard wind."

For birds and deer, Parsons recommends a fake snake in the garden.

For grasshoppers, "There is nothing you can do. Grasshoppers migrate. Grasshoppers are carnivores. They eat the ones you kill with insecticide and then eat your tomato plants for dessert."

Will these [illegible] you can try. The Grow Web will help keep the grasshoppers out.

The temperature inside the Grow Web will be five degrees warmer than on outside, so it will take care of a heavy frost, also.

"A plant can take the freezing, but can't take the thawing out."

Petition calls for SWMD to change surface water purchasing practice

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

A petition authored by geologist John Mohar and well-driller Murray Walker will be presented to the Springhills [illegible] their regular quarterly meeting Thursday, April 2, asking them to abandon purchasing surface water for Bandera County in the near future.

They further ask that Springhills try to secure Medina Lake surface water rights from the state for the long-term future use, rather than buy water from the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water District.

The petition, which has been aided and sponsored by the Bandera Association of Concerned Taxpayers.

The Springhills district has been in the process of negotiating plans that would allow a water distribution system in Bandera County to buy as much as 5,000 acre-feet of Medina Lake water a year from the BMA.

BMA has a right to an annual [illegible] acre feet a year of water from [illegible] Lake and because the need for water for irrigation for the members of the BMA district has dropped off, the BMA has negotiate a contract to sell the excess water to the Bexar Metropolitan Water District in San Antonio, with the option of sell some to Springhills.

This would allow BMA to keep its 66,000-acre feet allocation from the state, rather than have the state reduce the allocation through the normal review process.

Rather than legitimize BMA's claim on water in Bandera County by Springhills buying water from BMA, Walker says in his petition that Springhills should "direct their efforts to legally regain our rightful water rights."

In the petition started by Mohar, the man who disputed the need for developing surface water as outlined in the report to Springhills from HDR Engineering, BMA did not agree to provide the 5,000 acre-feet of water to Bandera County "just to be good neighbors."

"There must be some benefit to BMA for including such a provision in their contract.

"Perhaps BMA feels a need to reinforce their claim to the waters of the Medina (River) watershed. Water purchased from BMA by Bandera (County) and Springhills would in fact demonstrate that Bandera County recognizes BMA's right to the water.

"It (such a deal) would probably invalidate any claim for surface water that Bandera might wish to pursue in the future. It would amount to a de-facto recognition and endorsement of BMA's water rights forever."

Mohar states that Springhills should "abandon negotiations with BMA to purchase surface [illegible]

Springhills [illegible] establish a right to surface water for the future by advising BMA that Bandera's municipal water needs supercede BMA's irrigation water rights, and by filing for water rights with the Texas Water Commission."

According to BCAT director Jim Hannah, the petition is an attempt to "slow down the process and negate the necessity of purchasing water from a private company downstream."

This petition promotes dropping the purchase of water from BMA "as unnecessary for Bandera's current and future needs," says Hannah.

"If a possibility of needing surface water is 20-30 years away, then the people of Bandera County, through their water agency, have plenty of time to develop the case and prove a need for surface water, if in fact it should become necessary."

Hannah said the petition is non-binding, but will act as a show of support for those water directors that want to take a slower, more conservative approach.

Bandera 'Sweetheart' inspired a song

Becky James said she 'hadn't heard a word' for three years, then ...

I met her in a truckstop in some little Texas town,
She looked up from the counter, surprised that anyone would come around...
She was a sweetheart if there ever was one
We were havin' all the fun....
--Poul Krebs

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin Staff Writer

Three years ago, when Becky James struck up a conversation with some customers in the Bandera restaurant where she was waiting tables, little did she expect that she would become the subject of a hit song in Denmark.

Becky, whose last name was Butterfield at the time, was working at Deanie's Barbecue when songwriter Poul Krebs and two other musicians, all from Copenhagen, Denmark, came in for a meal. Becky [illegible] where you worked," Madsen wrote. "I was there for a couple of hours with two of my friends, Frank Marstok and Poul Krebs, and we all came from Denmark.

"What you don't know is that Krebs [illegible] to write a song which was recorded by a Danish artist in 1989 and became a major hit in Denmark," Madsen continued. "The song is called 'Sweetheart'.... I am bringing a whole TV crew to make a full program about Texas music for Scandinavian television, and we would actually like to record a meeting between you and Poul again."

The men were in Austin March 11-15 for the "South by Southwest Music Seminar," and at that time they arranged for a meeting in Austin with Becky.

"This has all been so exciting," Becky says. "It's really my song. The words contain [illegible] the men, and before they left she had apparently inspired Krebs to write the song "Sweetheart."

In January of this year, she got a letter from John Lind Madsen, one of the musicians who was with Krebs that day in Bandera:

"I wonder if you remember me, from three years back, when I visited a restaurant [illegible] my life history.

"These guys came into Deanie's where I was working then, and we just started talking. I told them about my life, [illegible] got my address so they could [illegible] hadn't heard a word [illegible] three years.

"Then, one day, I got the letter from John..."

The song was recorded by Henning Staerk, a popular artist in Denmark. Background vocals were sung by the Jordansaires, who also sang with Elvis Presley.

"Country music is just getting started there," Becky says. "It has become very popular."

Other musicians who performed in the song included Erik Jepsen, Jan Moule Poulsen, Carsten Egholm, Erik Lodberg and Charlie McCoy. The Jordaqaires are Neal Matthews, Gordon Stoher, Louis Nunley and Duane West.

Bandera woman Becky James inspired a song that became a huge hit in Denmark. Recently, she met with the musicians again in Austin, including guitarist Jan Mols Poulsen, left, and songwriter Poul Kreba.

Senior, Big League 'ball registration, try-outs set

Registration for senior and big league baseball and softball will be held Thursday, March 26, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the Bandera Junior High School.

Try-outs will be held Saturday, March 28 and April 4, beginning at 9 a.m. at Mansfield Park, reports Little League public relations chairwoman Vicki Richardson.

Boys and girls interested in the program can also register at the try-outs and high school students can pick up a registration form at the high school.

The registration fee is $15 and youths must bring their "original" birth certificate, i.e., a certified birth certificate, along with another copy that the Little League Association can keep in their records.

Participants must bring the birth certificates and registration fee when they register, whether at the school or at the try-outs.

"Everyone must register. Even those players returning from last year," says Richardson.

Senior League baseball is for boys age 13, 14, and 15, and Senior League softball is for girls 13, 14, and 15.

Big League softball is for girls 16, 17, and 18.

Anyone interested in coaching a softball team or other volunteer work is encouraged to call Nell Landrum at 535-6200, says Richardson.

911 system on line March 31

The 911-emergency call network is scheduled to go on-line March 31 in Bandera County.

And two of the final workshops of the program are scheduled for Tuesday, March 31, in the Bandera Bank Community Room and Wednesday, April 1, in the District Courtroom in the Bandera County Courthouse.

Business seminar set

Small business management counseling will be available in Bandera Wednesday, April 1, at the Bandera Bank Community Room. The service is sponsored by the Bandera Chamber of Commerce.

One-on-one counseling sessions can be arranged by appointment by calling the chamber at 796-3045.

More people are using the service, says chamber secretary Nancy Hopes. The counselor, Debra Schueneman, has been up twice since the Feb. 5 session.

The service is for new and existing businesses and the sessions will remain confidential.

Major painting on display in SA

"Still Life with Fruit and Sliced Lemon," considered a major 19th century American still life painting by artist Severin Roesen, went on display at the San Antonio Museum of Art on March 2 as the museum's featured item of the month.

The recently acquired painting is the museum's first major 19th century American still-life and is an important addition to the American painting collection. It will remain on display through April 3.

Your Basic Bandera — Peggy [illegible]

Isn't it strange how small things trip you up? Parkinson's Law says that the board of directors will vote unanimously to close debate and approve thirty million dollars for an atomic plant but will argue for hours into the night over putting a new roof on the bicycle shed.

So it is with the Clintons. There were a few days of excitement over all the Jennifers and other questions like the Vietnam draft and funneling of state business to Ms. Clinton's law firm, but there was no damaging fall-out at the polls. There were not floods of calls to talk shows.

But when Hillary tossed off a flippant remark to the effect that SHE would not stay home to "bake cookies and have teas", she provoked a firestorm of comment. The implication was a put-down of stay-at-home moms, most of them probably the wives of the blue-collar workers to whom Governor Bill is trying to appeal these days.

To us, it only ahows what Hillary is what we used to call a station wagon liberal, who has no inkling of the life of any stay-at-home mom or the vast majority of working moms, who would love to have time off from heavy cleaning and cooking to bake a few cookies and invite the church over for tea. They can't because they never even get the laundry put away!

There is a good chance that Linda Ronstadt did not bake cookies on a Coleman camp stove when she went with Governor Brown to Africa. Luckily Jerry doesn't have to put up with "help" from any kind of helpmate these days.

If you'd like his "800" number, call us. We wrote it down the other day. We're trying to get up the courage to call. (Whispered aside-it's 800-426-1112).

Meanwhile we expect that the next puff piece coming out of the White House will tell us of Barbara Bush's entry into the Pillsbury Bake-off, or campaign spots featuring endorsement by Betty Crocker and Julia Child. Will the invisible now Mrs. Tsongas go on the air with recipes for Boston Brown Bread?

Seriously, folks, the question of cookie-baking is not really trivial. With so many kids going home to cold houses after school because Mom MUST be out working to help pay the bills, it seems that a warm plate of cookies now and then would sooth the lonesomeness in many a savage little breast. But bad economic times mean both parents have to work away from home.

A school bus driver going on the long run all the way down to the lake told us that some of the kids did not want to get off the bus but begged to stay on and just ride around. There wasn't going to be anyone at home at the end of the long lane from the highway.

Whether Mom or Dad should be the one waiting at the door with the hug and the snacks is not a question we'll get into. The simple fact is that Mom is usually the one who, in the old-fashioned phrase, "Takes the Thought" and is the one who at least tries to be there. But we must say that American dads are, by and large, the best dads in the world. They're better than the Russian men who inspired the old proverb, "The women will do all of the work, and the man will do the rest."

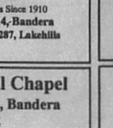
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Be Wise and Seek God

"The Lord looks down from heaven ... to see if there are any who act wisely, that seek God."

— Psalm 14:2



It might seem to many in this period when violence and corruption and evil seem to dominate the world that godliness has gone from the earth. That is not so. Goodness does not make for sensational headlines or news programs, yet those who labor for the love of their fellow man and the deeds they perform receive the attention they deserve — in the hearts of those they help and in the sight of God. The wise man does not choose the devilish path of the evildoers but follows the route of those who do God's work. They seek God and the spirit of the Lord that will allow them to live in peace and in the holy glow of the Father. It is not always easy to elect the wiser course, but once chosen it will truly ease the search for God.

Lakehills stew chef wins

Silas "Cy" Turner of Lakehills won the Bandera American Legion Cowboy-Irish Stew Cook-off with his "Oh So Good Viking Enterprises Irish Stew" Saturday, March 21.

The event was part of Bandera County Heritage Day.

Kelley's Shamrock Tavern of Pipe Creek had two winners in the event, reports Legion vice-commander Arthur "Sonny" Pursch.

Krazy Karol's Kitchen won second-place and their Lucky Bucks Tavern won the showmanship award.

Third-place went to the Texas Hill Country Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2030 with their "Genuine Irish Stew," making the awards a sweep for the Pipe Creek-Lakehills area.

A total of 10 contestants entered, reports Pursch.

Meals on Wheels volunteers honored

The "Meals on Wheels" volunteers were honored at Fresh Young Things Restaurant in Lakehills Sunday, March 22, by the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, which sponsors the delivery of hot meals to shut-ins in the Lakehills and Pipe Creek area.

Dorothy Webber, program coordinator, presented certificates to volunteers with 100 hours of service or more, report public relations chairman Delmar Stark.

Bass club tourney set March 28 in Mico

The Lake Medina Bass Club will hold its first tournament Saturday, March 28, based at Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Center in Mico.

The club fishes Medina Lake exclusively and plans to conduct [illegible] tournaments.

Boat check-in begins at 6 a.m. at the Lackland center and fishing starts at 6:30 a.m.

Entry fee is $10.

Participants can launch their boats anywhere, but need to be checked at Lackland. Boat launching will be available for $2 fee.

Each boat must have an adequate livewell. Fish caught will be released, except for trophy bass.

The weigh-in is at 3 p.m. at the Lackland center.

Prizes will be offered for first-, second-, and third-place from 90 percent of the entry fees. An optional big bass pot will also be available.

Call Jim Hess at 751-3444 for more information.

Flea markets scheduled in Lakehills

At least three flea markets are scheduled in Lakehills in the upcoming weeks.

The Medina Lake Betterment Association will sponsor a flea market Saturday at the Lakehills Civic Center from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Inside tables and outside booths will rent for $10 and outside spaces (you provide the table) are $5.

The MLBA will sell breakfast tacos, other food and drinks during the day.

To reserve a space, call 751-3136, 751-3331, or 512-490-9008.

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 will host a flea market along with its annual plant and bake sale Saturday, April 4, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Legion hall on 26th Street in Lakehills.

The flea market is open to anyone wishing to rent a table inside or outside the Legion hall for $5.

Contact Jackie Halsell at 751-2628 or Sue Kruse at 751-2121 to reserve a table.

The altar society of St. Victor's Catholic Chapel will be held Saturday, May 2 and the tables are going fast.

A total of 13 long tables, three short tables, and all three booths have been rented, reports Cecelia Hartmann.

The altar society will have breakfast tacos, hot dogs, soda water, coffee, and tea.

Long tables rent for $4, short tables for $3, and spaces for $3.

Medina Lake AARP hears about crepes

Ruth Ann Tips and Carolee Youngblood presented a crepe cooking demonstration to the Medina Lake Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons at the chapter's regular meeting Monday, March 23.

The two Bandera County Extension Service volunteers showed those attending how to make chicken and dessert crepes.

According to Tips, a crepe is a French pancake. "It's made from a batter of eggs and flour." The crepe is then fried in crepe pan or an iron skillet to make it firm.

Pipe Creek EMTs practice a rapid extrication at the Pipe Creek EMS barn Saturday, March 24. Several practice removals from tight situations such as a wrecked car were practiced to teach and renew skills. Staff photo by James Henry Frazar

Smiths to celebrate 35th anniversary

Ray and Patsy Smith of Pipe Creek will celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary Sunday, March 29, in San Antonio in a family gathering with their five children, their spouses and nine grandchildren.

The Smiths were wed in Waco in 1957 in a service conducted by a justice of the peace.

They renewed their vows at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Waco 10 years later.

This would be a good time to let the public know of the [illegible] that are sponsored by the Center. If you haven't had a chance to come visit with us please do so. Our visitors are amazed at the beautiful facilities and the amount of participation in the many activities [illegible]. Our activities include some of the card games, do some quilting, join the Spanish class or any of the many other projects. WE are always looking for someone with a special talent to teach a craft class or to conduct a language class.

We have a pancake breakfast on the first Tuesday of the month and a birthday covered dish luncheon on the fourth Tuesday of the month. Some of our other activities include low impact exercise on Monday, [illegible], leatherwork and arts and crafts on Monday morning. On Tuesday we have Quilting, oil painting, weaving, ceramics and the Melodies. Wednesday we have the German class and our very popular Line Dancing on Thursday evening. On Friday we play Bridge and other table games.

The Center has been very fortunate in having is number of volunteers to carry out these projects. Volunteers spend hundreds of hours each month to make sure the Center runs smoothly. We have volunteers who maintain the grounds around the Center, volunteers who perform minor repairs, some who teach classes, and volunteers who help other [illegible] and the list goes on and on. This is truly people helping othes and we encourage anyone in Bandera County who would like to be a part of our group to come by the Center and take a look for yourself.

Our transportation system provides coordinated transit to all area of Bandera County with additional access to [illegible]. Local usage of the system is restricted to persons who are medicaly disabled, elderly, or who lack transportation to medical appointments, social services agencies or local shopping. A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Why? Why, why, WHY did this have to happen to me? When misfortune, disaster or tragedy occurs, the question is difficult to try to answer. Even if there is a known answer, and most of the time there is none, it is an unacceptable answer.

If one is presumptuous enough to try to answer; if one resorts to the retort of courage being needed, one knows how futile it can be.

Yet, when bewilderment and grief exist a mortal human being can help. In one such instance, there was an unforgettable scene which will always be remembered.

A close friend of a grief-stricken family stopped in, unaware that tragedy had struck. Shocked at the bomb shell news, he stumbled around for words. Then in impromptu and certainly in unrehearsed manner, he replied, "I can't tell you. No one can. I'm not an overly religious man as you know, but I think it will do us all good. Let's pray. I believe it would help."

It was a beautiful prayer. And it helped. It always can...

Re-Elect
Bennie Barker County Commissioner on April 14!

Commissioner BARKER
Works for you FULL -TIME to insure that your roads will be properly maintained and paved.

Commissioner BARKER
Believes that a Commissioner should not attempt to run a private business while attempting to take care of County business, because it deprives citizens of proper road maintenance and often creates conflict of interest situations that can take away from good county government.

Commissioner BARKER
Realizes that the days of a part-time commissioner are past and it takes full-time dedication to get the job done properly.

Commissioner BARKER
Needs your help in the Republican Run-off Election on April 14. If you were not able to vote in the recent Primary Election, you can still vote on April 14 unless you voted in the Democratic Primary. You may vote early at the County Courthouse from April 6 through April 10.

Wade Williams brought the lesson and led the singing Sunday in the absence of Martin Smith from the Church of Christ. Guest were Sherry Powers, Yvonne Fenner and Judi Bishop.

Residents Ada Sehon, Evelyn Hostelter, Cecelia Leal joined Dorothy Callahan, Joyce Sellberg and Aggie Batto from St. Stanislaus Catholic Church in Rosary and Prayers Monday evening.

Recent visitors of Russell and Mickie Stribling were Mary Ruth and Ima Mae Stribling, Jewell Davis, Martha Meuller, Linda Hunter and children Guy and April of San Antonio, Anita Booker of Pipe Creek, Mildred Bausch and Arlin Habenicht of Bandera.

Mary Peterson and Anita Ramsey of American Legion Auxiliary of Lakehills served delicious refreshments at the games party last week.

Maude Sprott celebrated her 94th Birthday last Wednesday with a pretty cake, flowers, Presidential Birthday Greetings. Her daughter, Vera Kuntz, came by to wish her a "Happy Birthday".

Everyone celebrated St. Patrick's Day last Wednesday with delicious refreshments served by the Dietary staff.

Luther Mathis celebrated his 94th Birthday with pretty flowers, cake, Presidential Birthday Greetings and gifts. Helping him celebrate were his son and wife Luther Jr. and Quita Mathis of Corpus Christi, Bill and Irene Smith and grandson Jason, and Calvin Cartrett.

Cora Belle Nunn of Kerrville came Sunday afternoon and played serveral piano selections for the residents.

Ople Boyle brought Edwina Boyle some pretty flowers Monday morning from the celebrations of Monsignor James Boyle who celebrated 60 years of Priesthood. She also brought flowers for the nurses station.

Sorry we didn't get the name of who brought the pretty flowers over the weekend. Residents are enjoying them.

Lillian and Leon Ray took Jack Holloway to services at the Church of Christ.

We're sorry to report Juan Bozques and Tom Click are both in the hospital at this time. We miss them and hope they get to feeling better and come home soon.

Other volunteers last week were Overa Jones, Aggie Batto, Rosemary Ford, Doris Keese, Fran Pue, Tim Sanchez, Shirley, Kyle and Kelly Phillips.

AARP convention set in SA

Lee Iacocca, Ed Bradley, Mel Torme and Mitzi Gaynor will highlight the 1992 biennial convention of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) being held June 2-4 at San Antonio's Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center.

Television personalities Ed Bradley, Hugh Downs, Louis Rukeyser, Eric Sevareid and Dr. Art Ulene; psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers; consumer advocate Ralph Nader; automobile executive Lee Iacocca; former first lady Lady Bird Johnson; and journalist Irving R. Levine are among the speakers.

The theme for this convention is "Generations Growing Together" and it will feature dozens of nationally known experts on issues including personal finance, health and fitness, the future of the economy, consumer fraud, and the environment.

"Many issues facing our nation will be covered by these excellent speakers," said Jippie Tolbert, Texas AARP state director and chief volunteer in the state. "I encourage all older Texans, even if they're not AARP members, to attend this three-day event."

The convention will include daily sessions on health and lifestyle issues, consumer and financial concerns, and politics and public affairs. Two fitness walks are planned and more than 200 displays featuring everything from volunteering to travel to consumer goods will be available in the convention exhibit area. Hands-on demonstrations of new technologies that may change the way we live will also be available.

Special evenings performances by Mitzi Gaynor and Mel Torme are also scheduled.

The convention registration fee is $3, which covers entrance to the sessions, the exhibit halls and all convention activities (except the two major entertainment events).

Tickets for the Mitzi Gaynor and Mel Torme shows are $8 per ticket, per show. Limited seating is available for all activities. All fees are non-refundable.

For information about the June convention, write: AARP Convention Activities, 601 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20049.

Finding fabulous flowers

Wildflowers get thousands of Texans and tourists on the road each spring, looking for the most spectacular stands of bluebonnets, phlox, coreopsis, and many more varieties. To help in this search, the Texas Department of Transportation begins its Wildflower Reporting Service this week.

Every week, workers in all 24 highway districts note stands of blooming flowers and, via computer, share the information with other TxDOT offices. Wildflower seekers can call TxDOT's toll-free travel information hotline (1-800-452-9292), department headquarters in Austin, one of 11 Texas Travel Information Centers, or the nearest district office for directions to the best place to see flowers.

In Bandera County, wildflowers have not really begun their colorful display yet, and according to Charles Georg, TxDOT supervisor in the Bandera area, this area is not likely to have an abundance of bluebonnets this spring.

"Bandera's (wildflower display) is more in the late summer," Georg said. "And usually it's not bluebonnets, so much as the goldenrods, and yellow types.

"We've planted a lot of bluebonnet seeds, but for some reason they just don't do as well here as in other places."

Statewide, more than 450,000 pounds of wildflower seeds have been planted by TxDOT over the past five years.

Four years ago, more than 100 pounds of wildflower seeds were scattered across the county, Georg said.

"I think that with so much caliche soil, bluebonnets don't grow as well here," he said.

Georg said that mountain laurel displays are visible along State Hwy. 173 south of Bandera and on Park Road 37 toward Lakehills.

Dog agility contest this weekend

–Canine obstacle courses, tunnels, assorted jumps and hurdles will be on the menu at the [illegible] March 28 and 29 at Mansfield Park when the Bexar Regional Agility Team hosts a US Dog Agility Association-sanctioned Pedigree Grand Prix regional [illegible] agility test.

Admission to the event is free, and according to event organizer David Hanson of Kerrville, some 65 dogs with more than 300 entries are [illegible] competition. Owners will check their dogs in between 7 and 7:30 a.m., and the competition is scheduled to begin "shortly after 8 a.m."

Hanson's Golden Retriever, "Airlie," will be among the dogs competing.

"Dog agility is an excellent spectator sport," Hanson said. "It is a competitive sport in which a handler directs his dog over a timed obstacle course, with scoring based on faults as in equestrian jumping events.

"Because of its face pace and simple, objective scoring system, dog agility has become an [illegible] sport."

The approved obstacles for dog agility include the A-frame, weave-poles, table, pause box, see-saw, dog walk, cross-over, pipe tunnel, collapsible tunnel, and assorted jumps and hurdles. Dogs are classified according to their height, Hanson says, and different breeds often compete together.

He said that some border collies and other typical "working" type dogs are expected to compete Saturday and Sunday.

"It is frequently said that dog agility is a 'sport for all dogs,' in that the sport permits both purebred and mixed-breed dogs to compete," Hanson explained. "However, not all breeds are well suited for the sport because of their physical build."

Dogs will compete in two basic classes: mini-agility class, for dogs measuring 16 inches or less at the withers, and the open agility class.

USDAA's 1992 Pedigree Grand Prix of Dog Agility will consist of [illegible] to be held between Feb. 1 and June 30, followed by semifinals and finals competition in Houston Sept. 11-13.

"Several winners of national agility titles have registered to [illegible] competition," Hanson said. "Some of the 1991 national finalists plan to attend," Hanson said.

Top competitors in the Bandera event include:

• Gene Abrahamson and his dog, Shadow, a Keeshond, from Dallas: open class third place winners at the 1991 National Grand Prix event;

• Felicia Whaley, from Houston, with Dash, a border collie: first place masters level team competitors at the 1991 national [illegible] and members of the 1991 U.S. World Cup Team.

"Of course, it's any dog's race," says Hanson.

Tarpley

Nettie Dean

There was lovely spring weather the past week, but Saturday felt much like the spells we have at Easter time – cool and misty all day.

• The bake sale and flea market Saturday turned out very well, in spite of the weather. The sponsoring Rio Hondo Study Group and the Williams Creek Xxension Club have expressed their gratitude to everyone who helped.

• Helen Bryant was honored at a salad and dessert luncheon at the home of Jerry Hall on Wednesday, March 18.

Fifteen Rio Hondo subdivision women attended and welcomed three guests, Billie Ann Burrell of D'Hanis, Bonnie Jaks and daughters of Rio Medina, and their niece, Marilyn Riggs of Sabinal.

Helen plans to reside part time in Vernon and part time in Corpus Christi. A hummingbird window suncatcher was presented to her as a memento.

• Out-of-town visitors at Tarpley Baptist Church Sunday included Patricia Brasington of San Antonio, Bernice Wickware of Amarillo, and Jeff and Rozanne Pate of Levelland.

The Pates are enjoying vacationtime in Rio Hondo subdivision at the home of Chaplain and Mrs. Ed Gates.

• Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hood were happily surprised when their grandson, Adlai Taha of East Brunswick, N.J., flew in last week for several days of visiting.

Others visitors at the Hoods included their daughter and her family, Gladys Ann, Harold and Steffani Smith of Baytown.

• Guests of Harold and Viola Jackson last week included Harold's brother, Bud Jackson, and his sisters, Bernice Wickware and Elene Kelly, all of Amarillo. Bernice stayed over for two more weeks of visiting.

• Willie and Olga Schmidt's recent visitors included her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Staffel of San Antonio, his nephew, Tommie and Dee Ann Schmidt of Burleson, and Billy Schmidt of Hondo.

• Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dean of D'Hanis visited Elsie and Nettie Dean Friday.

• Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morris spent the weekend in Houston visiting their son and his family, Billy, Tori and 10-month-old Courteney Morris.

• Kay and Vi Strand report a lovely trip to DeSoto where they attended the wedding of their grandson, Kurtis Strand, to Carla Gross in DeSoto Feb. 15.

Kurtis is the son of Ed and Vicki Strand. Kay and Vi's great-grandchildren, Michael and Karissa Aldridge, were ring bearer and flower girl, and 4-year-old Cassie Gross followed her mother to spread rose petals.

The Strands happily reported Kay's lengthy health problems are solved and they are able to enter an active life again.

• Mr. and Mrs. Anton Haner's visitors last week included their daughter-in-law,m Lou Ann Haner and her two children Erick and Holly, of Mesquite. Holly celebrated her third birthday while here.

They also visited with Judy H. Johnson and her children.

• A joint birthday celebration Sunday at Arthur and Georgia Mae Erfurt's home honored Nora Anderson and Carrie Sandidge.

Present were hosts Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Erfurt, their children, Artie and Bunny, and their daughters, Sara and Lauryn of Bandera.; Ella Mae and Dan Sandidge of Tarpley; Charles and Peggy Anderson and two daughters of San Antonio; Leigh Flores and daughter and Charles Anderson Jr., all also of San Antonio; and Elizabeth and Mark Ramsey of Collega Station.

• Pat and Wilma Taylor were guests of his mother, Mrs. Clay Taylor Saturday. Mrs. Taylor's grandson, Lorin Day Smith of San Antonio, spent last week with her.

Ordered by libraries is as necessary as that of the press, the colleges, or the schools. In less political and more philosophical terms, we exist to serve freedom."

–Timothy Healy, president, New York Public Library

In addition to the many books we've added recently to our collections (in every area), we have a large and exciting addition to our genealogy section.

• Recently, Mrs. A.B. Alkek graciously and generously donated approximately 300 books from her personal collection for the benefit and enjoyment of our community.

Books include histories, census, family records, wills and estate records, obituaries, marriage and tax records, biographical sketches, and much more, from many of our states.

We hope to make these genealogy books available for browsing and research in the near future.

• We also have plans for major renovation in the genealogy section of the library. All the existing shelves will be replaced with handcrafted bookcases to house all the genealogy books.

• I would like to remind [illegible] Story Time on Tuesday at 10 a.m. Be sure to bring your preschooler to share in the reading program and activities.

• The GED and ESL (English as a Second Language) classes continue to meet on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

County political conventions set

The Bandera County Democratic and Republican conventions will be held separately Saturday, March 28, at 10 a.m. at The Bandera county courthouse.

The Democrats will meet in the commissioners courtroom and the Republicans will meet in the upstairs district courtroom.

According to Democratic county chair Mary Autry, the 11 delegates elected at the precinct conventions held election night March 10 are expected to attend the county convention.

They will select four delegates to go to the state convention in Houston in June. A total of 127 pledged delegates plus other VIP delegates are expected to attend the statewide convention.

A total of 54 Republican delegates are expected to attend their convention, reports county chair Gary Johnston.

They will elect eight delegates to the state convention to be held June 18 in Dallas.

Tax help available from IRS program

There are three tax credit options availabale to taxpayers this year, and a Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program spokeswoman says most taxpayers will be eligible to benefit from one or the other.

Volunteer coordinator Emma Mueth says VITA volunteers are on duty each Friday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. through April 10 to help prepare tax returns for low-income, elderly and disabled persons and persons who have difficulty with the English language.

The service is free, Meuth said. Taxpayers seeking VITA assistance should bring copies of their tax returns for 1990, if available, plus all W-2, W-2P and 1099 forms and Social Security printouts, she said.

Jockey Jeff Jones trying to re-establish his reputation this year at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Fraser
Bulletin Staff Writer

Jockey Jeff Jones '91 steps is starting to make a mark on racing at Bandera Downs.

But he's spread his brush wide in racing after more than a decade of riding at tracks [illegible] Wyoming to California and Columbia and Alberta.

"This year's been best [illegible] (apprentice rider) again," says Jones about coming to Bandera Downs this year. "I have to build up my reputation here, just like any new location."

Jones has six wins so far this year and in racing action Saturday one of those wins was the $3,900 "Best of Class" Distance Series race for quarter horses aboard the 8-6 favorite Rockyton.

Coming into the turn of the 870-yard race, it looked like Rockyton would lose his lead, as the 7-year-old gelding ran as many as six horse-widths [illegible] coming out of the turn and into the stretch, opening a [illegible] Toro and 9-1 Oh Magic to run for the finish line.

Rockyton kept his speed and outran them, winning by 1 1/2 lengths.

Jones said the trainer, Larry Kopycinski, told him Rockyton raced that way. "He likes to race in about the three or four lane. He doesn't like the rail. I let him run his own race."

If try a jockey tries to fight the horse to the rail, the horse won't cooperate and race properly. "I let him run his own race [illegible] he can speed on me."

But in the next race, he wasn't so fortunate. The 20-1 No Tell Hotel stumbled to his knees as the starting gate opened. The dirt was in his nose." The quarter horse ran [illegible] last.

Earlier Saturday, Proven Package was running well in the 330-yard sixth race, and then in the stretch, the horse jumped over the hoof prints made in the track during the post parade "and then the 3-horse (Red Man War and the winner) kicked up dirt in his face and he just kinda lost it."

Lost it indeed. The 3-year-old colt started jumping as Jones [illegible] control of the horse, avoiding clipping the heels of a horse in front of him and a possible disaster.

"He didn't buck, he's just a green horse."

Jones has had better days.

"One day I won seven of 11 races in Washington. I had two seconds, a third, and fifth, also. It was an awesome day."

No Bandera Downs jockey has ever won more than six races in a day, a feat that David Brown has to his credit.

Jones doesn't come to Bandera as a big stakes winner, but as a man who is willing to ride as many mounts as he can get and can turn those mounts into more than his share of winners.

A man like David Brown.

Unlike so many jockeys and trainers, Jones didn't come from a long line of horsemen.

Jones started working on a ranch for a man with race horses. The man headed [illegible] horse stable and Jones was selected because he was known as a "good hand with the horses," Jones said. He became a groom and galloped horses to exercise them.

[illegible] as a jockey came one day in 1979 in a South Dakota racing office when trainers were entering horses.

A man turned to him and asked Jones to ride his horse.

He said, "Yes," and 20 minutes later he proved to the track stewards he could get a horse out of the starting gate.

He rode Dok Sah Payday three days later and won [illegible] fourth.

[illegible] his first race in the fall of 1979 on Bossofall for trainer Mark Melvin.

Jones soon became Melvin's main rider. "He gave me my first shot at riding for a stable."

During that time, he spent 3 1/2 years in college learning to operate computers and minor in business.

He also spent 1 1/2 years in the military, but was given a medical discharge in 1984.

He was on leave and was galloping a horse. The horse flipped and Jones broke his pelvis, collar bone and bruised his hip, thus ending his military career.

That adventure kept him out of the saddle for most of a year. "I went back to riding three months afterward, but I couldn't walk for the next couple of days and decided to take a little more time off."

Jones has won the Colorado Breeders Sale Futurity and the Indiana Derby Futurity and Derby.

What he remembers most is being leading rider at Energy Downs in Gillette, Wyo. in 1987, 1989, 1990, and 1991.

He's also been leading rider [illegible] and was the third leading rider in 1986 at the now closed Canterberry Downs in Minnesota.

During his career in the western and northern states, he rode most every race on the card. Winning four or five races a day at the tracks in the Mid West was common.

Jones said he came to Texas because here he has the chance to ride [illegible] all the time in a state where it's seasonal.

Jones has no plans to retire any time soon. "I'm still riding because I have the physical and mental ability to ride."

When he does retire his racing silks, he'll take his college education and look for work in the racing office as either a steward, clocker or a racing official."

"Anything to be in racing."

Jones rides both quarter horses and thoroughbreds. "The transition comes smoothly for me.

"In quarter horse racing, a you should help your horse out of the gate and maintain a straight course.

"You need to see if he (the horse) is giving his all.

"Some like to be whipped, some don't, You can fell it under your saddle."

Jeff Jones

For thoroughbred riding, Jones says a jockey needs to "keep a clock in your head."

There are three types of horses, horses that come from off the pace (from behind), speed horses (horses that go to the front early), and horses that do both.

"If you have a horse that is coming off the pace and the pace is slow, you move him up sooner, otherwise the (early) leader has too much (strength) left (and can win).

"Speed horses are generally younger and as they get older, they may want to come off the pace."

He notes that horses that come from off the pace generally stay "sounder," i.e. healthier, without developing structural defects, than speed horses.

Chief appraiser reminds businesses of tax deadline

Inventory must be 'rendered' by March 31, or they'll estimate it

Chief Appraiser P.H. "Fourth" Coates this week reminded Bandera County business a that they must file property rendition forms with the appraisal district by March 31.

The forms list the businesses' taxable property which they owned or managed as of Jan. 1.

State law requires that anyone who owns or manages income-producing personal property on Jan. 1 must file a rendition statement with the local appraisal district, Coates pointed out.

"For example, businesses must report their inventories, furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment and other tangible business property on a rendition," Coates said.

"Filing this annual report is actually to their benefit because chief appraisers use the renditions to establish a property's value," Coates said. "When a businesses' personal property is not rendered, the chief appraiser can only estimate the value."

Coates also announced Tuesday that businesses whose property was damaged by a storm, flood or fire last year may file a decreased value report which could lower their final tax bills.

While business owners and operators are required by law to file renditions, any property owner – including homeowners, farmers and ranchers – may voluntarily file one, or the report of decreased value.

All property owners may also receive a 30-day extension for either form, but must still file a written request with the appraisal district by the March 31 deadlines, Coates indicated.

He noted that homeowners who voluntarily file a rendition are in a better position to exercise their rights as taxpayers. First, he said, they are ensuring that the appraisal district has their correct addresses so that they are notified of any scheduled hearings or actions that may affect their property tax bills.

"If the tax collector cannot deliver a tax bill because of an incorrect address, a property owner is still responsible for paying the taxes plus the penalties that may result from late payment," Coates said.

Also, a rendition offers an opportunity for property owners to record their opinions of their property's value.

'Render property by March 31.

A "rendition" is a report to the appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you owned or controlled on January 1st of this year. The rendition form is available at your local appraisal district office... or you may draft a similar form.

Who must file a rendition?

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property that is used to produce income—such as the inventory and equipment used by a business.

Are there any advantages to you?

The advantages of filing a rendition are:

☞ You give your opinion of your property's value. If the appraisal district believes the value is higher, it must notify you in writing of the higher value and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board.

☞ You record your correct mailing address so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments.

☞ You can also file a "report of decreased value" to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation of the value of your property in 1991. The district will look at your property before assigning a value in 1992.

What's the deadline?

The last day for filing or postmarking 1992 renditions is Tuesday, March 31. You can get an extra 30 days if you ask for it in writing by the March 31 deadline.

Where do you file?

Thank You

Thank You
A great big Thank You is in order for all the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit #157 who worked so hard to make the Soup and Salad Luncheon such a big success on Thursday and also those who worked on Saturday in the concession stand at the Cowboy Irish Stew cookoff. You are a great group of ladies. Thanks to those who participated at both functions.
Marie Holland, President
American Legion Auxiliary Unit 157

Thank You
In the bereavement which follows when one near you passes away, the emotional and spiritual support from family and friends is so important. The Family of Juanita M. Fernandez would like to thank everyone who sent flowers, cards, brought food, donated money and contributed with their time to make this healing process much easier. A "Special" thank you to Pat Banks and to Tommy and Betty Kindle, we thank you.
God gives us life, death is a part of life.
Robbie and Bobby Madrid

Ramiro Tirado wins triple jump in Hondo meet

Ramiro Tirado of Bandera won the triple jump with a leap of 38 feet, 11 3/4 inches and took third in the high jump Saturday at the Owl Relays in Hondo.

The boys finished seventh with 162 points while Medina Valley won the girls division with 134 points.

Ingram boys won five of 16 events, including the one-mile relay. Medina Valley girls won six events, with 1,600-meter relay.

Bulldogs finished eighth with 20 points.

Natalie Koehler of Bandera won third in the shot with a put of 30 feet, 5 3/4 inches.

Ingram won the boys division field and the Lady Bulldogs

Ingram's Hector Meschaca set a meet record with a 6-6 effort in the high jump, and L. Santos of Pleasanton set a 119-4 1/2 girls record in the discus.

Mountain lion's future is topic of wildlife commission meeting

Proposed new status of the Mountain lion (cougar) will be presented during a public meeting of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission March 26 in Austin.

The proposals follow a wide-ranging workshop that included all viewpoints, and comment by participants in that meeting will be part of the public comment presented to commissioners.

Committee meetings on March 25 preceed the commission meeting, which opens at 9 a.m. March 26 at 4200 Smith School Road in Austin.

Commissioners will also hear results of muzzleloading public hunts and surveys, a briefing on a proposed white-tailed deer management/control permit, a discussion of several issues raised during public hearings, and a status report on hunter safety.

Commissioners will hear the results of public comment on several proposed fishing changes and discussions of boat ramp funding, park bonds and waterfowl management.

Llano park to reopen after turkeys roost

The day use area at South Llano River State Park is scheduled to reopen to park visitors at 8 a.m. April 1. The park is regularly closed during the winter roosting period of wild turkeys that is near the picnic ground.

Golf tournament April 26 to benefit athletic plant

Area golfers are invited to enter the BACIT Golf Tournament at the Flying I Golf Course Sunday, April 26.

Proceeds benefit Bandera Athletic Capital Improvements Fund for a weight room at the high school and to help the school district construct a running track at the school.

A lucky competitor could win a 1992 Ford XLT Lariat pickup with extended cab if he holes out on the 12th hole during the tournament. The pick-up is from Jennings Anderson Ford in Bandera.

There are lots of other prizes that will be given away for certain. First place wins a set of metal woods for each member of the four-person winning team.

Second place team members each get a golf bag, third place finishers win putters, fourth place team members each get a dinner for two, and fifth-place team members each get a dozen golf balls.

Longest drive on the first hole, fairway, wins four tickets to the Golf and Country Club at Bandera Downs from the First State Bank.

Closest to the pin on No. 2 wins a pair of green fees and cart at Tapatio Springs Country Club in Boerne. Closest to the hole on No. 7 wins green fees and cart at Pecan Valley Golf Club, on No. 19 at Flying I, and on No. 17 at Scott Schreiner Golf Course in Kerrville.

The tournament will be for four-person teams playing the Florida scramble format. Tee times start at 10:30 a.m.

Student caddies will be provided for each golfer, and the entry fee is $40 per person ($50 with cart).

Cat fishing 'good' at Medina Lake

Fishing for catfish has been good at Medina Lake through March 19, with fish up to 9 pounds being taken on nightcrawlers and liver.

The water is clear and 1 foot above spillway level of 1,072 feet above sea level.

Regular simulcast starts Friday

By James Henry Frazar
bulletin staff writer

After a one weekend delay, Bandera Downs will start a regular program of simulcasting up to five races a day Friday.

A last minute snag with the Texas Racing Commission caused the delay last weekend as Bandera Downs simulcasted the Louisiana Derby and the West Texas Futurity Saturday.

It seems someone forgot to invite someone to the dance — the Texas Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

Track management had negotiated a contract with the Bandera chapter of the HBPA.

When the Texas Racing Commission met to approve the contract, they didn't see the signature they expected and sent it back.

The contract was approved.

In a marathon session Thursday, track management and the Bandera and Texas HBPA got together and confirmed the deal.

Bandera Downs will simulcast five races from Santa Anita Park in California starting at 5:12 p.m. with the last post time at 7:15 p.m.

The schedule Saturday calls for the $500,000 Jim Beam Stakes from Turfway Park in Kentucky for 3-year-old thoroughbreds going 1 1/8 mile to be simulcast at 4:10 p.m. Three other Santa Anita races will be simulcast that day include the $75,000 Miramantes.

Sunday's sch dule includes four simulcast races from Santa Anita including the Grade I $300,000 San Luis Rey for 4 year olds and up going 1 1/2 mile on a turf course. The best older horses in North America are expected in this race.

The last post is 7:15 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

In simulcasting betting Saturday, Bandera Downs race fans bet $31,940 in the Louisiana Derby simulcast, $3,887 more than the $28,053 average amount bet on each live race Saturday.

The $154,115 Texas Futurity simulcast from New Mexico, however, wagering only $19,485, $8,568 less than the average amount bet on each live race.

The apparent difference was placement. The Louisiana Derby televised from the fairgrounds in New Orleans, while the Texas Futurity from Sunland Park in New Mexico was the 13th and last race on the card. As soon as the 12th race was over, a small, but significant portion of the crowd left, accounting for the smaller amount bet.

The West Texas Futurity from Sunland Park in New Mexico was the 13th and last race on the card. As soon as the 12th race was over, a small, but significant portion of the crowd left, accounting for the smaller amount bet.

Seguin Sale winner to run in Graham Farms Futurity

Dashing Coin won the $65,025 Seguin Horse Center Sale Futurity Sunday at Bandera Downs.

Trainer Roy Marcom said Sunday he expects the owner will use some of the $22,759 in first-place winnings to pay the late and entry fees to enter the 2-year-old filly to the $500,000 Grade I Graham Farms Futurity.

She's not like she didn't earn enough to be entered in the futurity.

"If she pulls up good, we'll supplement her into the Graham Farms Futurity."

The 7-1 A Cash Connection ran second after hopping in the air when the starting gates opened.

The favorite was the 5-5 Cena Voss-owned entry of Cashtan and Mary Mystic. Mary Mystic ran fourth and Cashtan tied for fifth with Pass The Pyro.

Jockey Nicky Wilson, who rods Mary Mystic, called an objection against David Brown, who rode Dashing Coin, for interference.

But the stewards ruled that what looked like interference occurred after the finish line and that doesn't count.

In other racing action Sunday, there were two upsets.

The 17-1 long shot Crepe Disco upset the $2,400 quarter horse allowance Sunday when the 5-start, 1-win filly made a late run and beat the 3-2 favorite Implied Warranty by a head in the 400-yard contest.

The 13-1 Bionic Hero ran s Super Duper-style race in the $2,000 5-furlong thoroughbred claiming race. Bionic Hero went to the front early in the contest, with Super Duper running second.

The 4-year-old gelding had too large a lead on the usually in-the-front Super Duper and the rest of the field.

Bionic Hero won by 9 1/2 lengths and Super Duper raced second, 2 3/4 lengths ahead of the rest of the eight-horse field.

In racing action Saturday, jockey Jesse Sauceda won the $2,700 quarter horse allowance aboard trainer David Latham's 10-1 Fort Knox Junior.

The win was a combination of luck for Sauceda and an unlucky break for the favorite, Smart Lil Native.

"We got away from the (starting) gates good," said Sauceda. That's step one in any quarter horse race, a good, clean break.

Smart Lil Native, last year's Bandera Downs Derby winner, wasn't as lucky. "If Smart Lil Native hadn't have stumbled, he would have won." Too bad for the favorite, but that's quarter horse racing.

No one won the twin trifecta Sunday and after a three-day build up. The twin trifecta jackpot stands at $9,860.25 for Friday's races.

After a slow build-up taking nine days, the Tex Six jackpot climbed above the track guaranteed $10,000 to $10,399.54 Sunday.

If anyone would have picked all six winners in races three through eight before it reached $10,000, the track would pay the difference between what the bettors had built up and $10,000 guarantee.

Presumedly, the track will reinstitute the $10,000 guarantee after someone wins the wager.

Yes, it's time to "spring forward" once again. Remember to set your clocks ahead one hour at 2 a.m. on April 5. And, the National Association of State Fire Marshals advise that it's also a good time to change the batteries in your smoke detector. It could save your life.

Springhills expected to 'take exception'

Petition to be examined at Thursday meeting

The Springhills Water Management District expects to take exception to a petition calling for the district to abandon pursuit of a Medina Lake water purchase agreement.

They'll bring out Texas Water Commission Director of Watershed Management James Kowis to explain water rights and the water rights permitting process at their quarterly meeting Thursday, April 2.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the Old Jail Building behind Bandera Ice House.

Other issues on the agenda is the swearing in of new board member L.D. Moore, who will replace Louis Vannatter, who resigned to run for county commissioner.

Not on the agenda, however, is the discussion of the possible purchase of up to 5,000 acre-feet of surface water from the Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Water Improvement District.

Though that will likely dominate the night's meeting.

According to an advertisement in this week's edition of the Bandera Bulletin, a spokesman for the district says people who were "misinformed and possibly confused by the petition which makes many untrue assertions regarding the actions of the Springhills Water Management District and the ownership of surface water in the Medina River and the Medina Lake."

The petition the spokesman refers to has 469 signatures on it from a group headed by geologist John Mohar and well driller Murray Walker.

According to Jim Hannah, a member of the Bandera Association of Concerned Taxpayers, who is sponsoring the petition drive, the petition will be presented to the Springhills District Thursday.

In a letter petition backers sent to the Springhills directors, they assert that the buying water, not the water rights, is the wrong way to go. "There is not a more expensive way to acquire water than this, and it will result in a very high, ongoing expense to provide for Bandera's future needs.

"It must be apparent to the board that BMA, in their contract with Bexar Metropolitan Water District, did not provide 5,000 acre-feet for Bandera just to be good neighbors. There must be some benefit to BMA for including such a provision in their contract."

Springhills and BMA have been negotiating a purchase, and while no price has been revealed for that purchase, the price BMA will sell water to the Bexar Metropolitan Water District under the same contract is $56 an acre-foot. If Springhills buys the entire 5,000 acre-feet at that price, it will cost $280,000 a year.

"Perhaps BMA feels a need to reinforce their claim to the waters of the Medina watershed. Water purchased from BMA by Bandera and Springhills WMD would in fact demonstrate that Bandera County recognizes BMA's right to the water. It would probably invalidate any claim for surface water that Bandera might wish to pursue in the future. It would amount to a de-facto recognition and endorsement of BMA's water rights forever."

What they want is for Springhills "to concentrate instead on the efficient management and preservation of existing groundwater resources.

"Begin to establish a right to surface water for the future by advising BMA that Bandera's municipal water needs supercede BMA's irrigation

Controversy swirls around EMS firings

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin News Editor

Reactions to last week's dismissal of two Bandera County EMS personnel varied from "shocked disbelief" to anger, but there is more to come in the situation, according to one county commissioner and several EMTs.

Bandera County Commissioner Bennie Barker said Monday that he felt that it was "definitely a mistake" for commissioners to act so hastily in the matter of the dismissal of paramedics Lloyd Hickman and Mark Burke.

"We should have gotten all the facts first," Barker said. "We took action based on what Judge Mauer told us."

Barker said that he, Roger Raser and Bud Thompson were all ready to re-examine the issue, and to perhaps reverse the action taken on March 23. Barker said that he wanted to hear "the other side of the story" from the EMS personnel involved. He was unsure of where the county judge had gotten his information.

Judge Mauer said Tuesday that he felt the main problem was a lack of communication. He indicated that he was still "open" for a discussion in the matter, and he said there was a meeting planned April 8 or 9 with EMS medical director Leonard Marks.

After a secret, closed meeting of EMS personnel Friday, March 27, at least three EMTs indicated they would resign from Bandera County's EMS force.

Even spouses of EMS volunteers were not allowed in Friday's meeting, and one woman was told to leave the meeting.

Barbara McKay, whose husband Tim McKay was partnered with Lloyd Hickman, was told she could not sit in the meeting with her husband, and was forced to leave.

Tim McKay tendered his resignation to Judge Mauer after Friday's meeting. Others indicated their resignations were forthcoming.

Hickman's partner of 15 years, retired paramedic Ginny Brient, said that she was stunned by what happened to Hickman and Burke. (See letter on Page 2.)

Brient called Hickman "an outstanding paramedic who is held in very high regard... a real professional."

'It's a communications failure,' says former EMS volunteer

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

An Emergency Medical Service controversy that has erupted into public is simply poor communication and division over whether Bandera County should have an EMS director, says a suspended volunteer.

James Terry says the suspension of para-medics Lloyd Hickman and Mark Burke March 23 happened when the proper channels for grievances were leap-frogged and the so-called "problem" went straight to the county commissioners.

Terry was suspended by Bandera County Commissioners in December because of "irregularities in his application" with the state of Texas.

His own suspension was also a violation of proper procedures, he says. The first he knew of his own suspension came in a letter informing him he had been suspended.

The action was taken after an executive (secret) session to which he was not invited.

Texas Department of Health chief investigator Vick Dwyer said the state reviewed his application and found n problem area, which he did not explain. After an investigation by department attorneys, they advised the state to drop the investigation.

Dwyer said the state withdrew its objection to his application Jan. 28 and certified him as a paramedic March 24.

Dwyer commented that Terry had apparently "ruffled feathers" among some people in

Fifth graders are learning first-hand about Russia after the Soviet Union from 10-year-old Russian

The thawing of the cold war is being brought home to fourth-grade students of Lillian Butcher via a person-to-person relationship among students and a 10-year-old Moscow student.

It started when the Bandera students penned a letter to Miska in Moscow, a name given them by the grandmother of one of the students.

She came to the class to tell them about her adventures in Moscow that included helping a Russian citizen set up a dog grooming business in a newly-Capitalist world.

He answered immediately, sending besides friendly words a variety of items he apparently thought were important. Among them was a picture of himself and his brother, a map of the city of Moscow, some Russian postage stamps, and pictures clipped from newspapers.

"It looks like what he did was empty his drawer of things he thought important," said teacher Butcher.

A Significant loss

Dear editor:

Shocked disbelief was my reaction to the [illegible] comments made by Bandera County [illegible] relieved of all Bandera County EMS responsibilities" [illegible] Paramedics.

I wondered— what "protocols" were violated? Did these two fail to treat with skill and compassion the injured and ill? Did they not respond promptly when called, regardless of the hour or the weather? Had they neglected those in need of their care?

For some fifteen years Lloyd Hickman was my paramedic partner; we received our professional medical training together, and together we instructed numerous volunteers wanting to become EMTs or Advanced Skills personnel. Lloyd Hickman is an outstanding paramedic who is held in very high regard by physicians and emergency department staff throughout this region; his work has been commended by officials of the Texas Department of Health. Never have I found him failing to fulfill the responsibilities of his job. He is a real professional!

In the process of dismissal did the judge and commissioners summon these two paramedics to their meeting to confront them with their alleged deficiencies? Were they given the opportunity to face their accusers and respond to the accusations?

There are too many unanswered questions for me to comprehend the full implications of the actions of the judge and the commissioners, but I know Bandera County EMS and the citizens of this county have suffered a significant loss.

Not unshaven protesters

Dear Editor,

With reference to your March 11 article on "Agent Orange" and the claims of Vietnam vets, I found this piece to be short on facts and long on innuendo. This media style is the prime means to perpetuate, over the last 20 years, what is proving to be a cruel "hoax" on the Vietnam Vet.

I am a Vietnam Vet with my share of direct combat i.e. 750 combat missions over 27 months. Half of these missions were with daily direct bodily contact with 2-4-D & 2-4-5 T ("Agent Orange") with no protective gear other than the standard flak jacket and helmet. There were 1,282 men in my unit over the 11 war years. Their tour exposure to "Agent Orange" in all forms i.e., liquid, gaseous and residual, is fully documented and accepted as the greatest "at risk" group serving in South East Asia.

Since 1982, over 94 percent of this group have voluntarily taken four extensive three-day physical exams paid for by the U.S. Government at the country's leading medical research facilities such as Scripts at La Jolla Ca. and Kelsey Seybold in Houston to determine the effects of "Agent Orange"/dioxin, if any, on Vietnam vets. The exams are in a "double blind" study using a 2,000-man comparison group of similar background except for no known exposure to "Agent Orange." These exams go on for 10 more years.

Finding to date, which are presented to Congress after each exam, show the 1,282 "at risk" group is equally as healthy as the comparison group. One significant result is the development of a complex, very accurate, but expensive ($1,000/each) 5-day test using a blood sample to determine the amount of dioxin in a person's body. The dioxin is measured in parts-per-trillion (PPT). The regular U.S. citizen and the study comparison group both averaged 4 PPT while the "at risk" 1,282 averaged 14.7 PPT with the highest man measuring 617 PPT. This man had the duty of crawling into a drained 1,000 gallon "Agent Orange" tank for periodic cleaning. The medically accepted threshold for bodily damage by dioxin is anything above 10,000 PPT. Additionally, it is interesting to note that although the "at risk" group had a significantly higher dioxin absorption rate (over three times) than of the comparison group, the rate of birth defects recorded for 7,000 births was exactly the same between the two groups.

Most Vietnam vets served with honor and distinction in our most unpopular war. They are not the unshaven camo-wearing protester stereotyped by the media. They have returned home and moved on with productive lives putting this experience behind them. Some returned with real problems, [illegible] need help. Others, led by three national figures, [illegible] ing scientific evidence of the above research. They have influenced and been joined by some veterans groups apparently because results are not what they wanted to hear. These people do not represent me or the folks I served with and in my opinion are doing a great disservice to those they profess to help.

More than one kind

Dear Editor,

Robin Shaw's letter last week stating that seal coating is not paving might cause some confusion. In the many years I worked in the construction industry building roads and bridges, we always called it paving. There is "seal coat" paving in which we use small chipped rock and AC-5 oil. We use two layers when paving a road.

Asphalt paving is the more expensive variety. If this county had a few oil wells, we might be able to afford the asphalt paving, but since a big majority of our tax payers want their roads paved as soon as possible, we must go with the "seal coat" or poor mans paving so we can get the job done.

Potholes or chug holes start from the ground up. Wet weather such as we have just experienced will take its toll on any type of paving, you need only to look at some of the state roads in the west end of the county to realize that it happens with expensive asphalt paving also.

Cold patch material is an efficient material to prevent tire and automobile damage and help prevent accidents on paved roads. Any contractor realizes that after applying base material and watering and compacting prior to paving, you may still encounter soft spots as moisture works its way to the top. If we get 4 or 5 potholes in newly paved roads of a mile, we figure we have a good road and we don't mind patching when that occurs.

We are paving far more than we could ever have hoped for without our own paving equipment. Paved roads, whether of the seal coat or asphalt variety saves automobile damage, reduces accident possibilities and are far cheaper to maintain. We will continue to work toward the goal of one day having our roads paved, for all the obvious reasons.

Bennie Barker
County Commissioner, Pct. #1

How's his business?

Dear editor:

Bennie says he is a full-time commisioner. He has previously stated, "I spend a lot of time picking up roadside litter." Well, la-de-da and woowee!

Further, he believes that a commisioenr should not attempt to run a private business while attempting to take care of county business. Additionally, he tells us "the days of the part-time commissioner are past."

What changes his mind? This election? His letter to the editor responding to Ben Nolan's letter of Aug. 14, 1991, stated, "Ben's company produced graphic art that can be used in materials promoting Bandera County....I am forming a compnay that will be producing on a part-time basis some of the same types of material that Ben's company does."

I wonder what happened to his "company?" Does it still exist? Was it or is it now a corporation, partnership or sole proprietorship having partners and/or associates in the graphic arts, publishing or other businesses, who are willing to carry on the work while "I spend a lot of time picking up roadside litter" to the complete exclusion of his own private enterprise?

J.R. Turner
Pipe Creek

(Editor's note: Barker says his company has not become active because of the full-time nature of being county commissioner.)

Conservation on hold?

Dear Editor,

Why should our taxes go up because somebody else is moving in? Our future economy can be planned in a way that will not allow governments to tax us in order to subsidize or bail out special interests.

In regards to our newest government agency, the ambitious Springhills Water Management District, there is no real conspiracy; only the misguided use of taxpayer capital for designing water systems for subdivision development. Perfectly legal, proper and logical if suburban sprawl is what we want to pay for. However, many current residents feel that true conservation is being put on hold because of anticipated real estate and water marketing.

Since the publication of its engineering study, our water district has been put on the defensive, and for good cause, because the leadership has strayed far and wide from the intent most voters had when we voted for forming the district. Springhills is supposed to be a water conservation district to provide for preserving, protecting, recharging and preventing waste of our underground and surface water. How our water government will go about fulfilling this directive is the subject of much debate. More citizen input is welcome from all sides. This is the time to participate. Not only are our rights to future water at stake, but the shape of our culture.

I agree with my critics on this issue that taxpayers should make time to go to the water district office, check out a copy of the HDR report and decide for themselves. Copies of the report are also available for review at Bandera County's Library.

Exception must be taken to the districts verbal and written claims that "the engineering study is not a course of action." Bull. Actions speak louder than words, and Springhills is continuing negotiations for the purchase of surface water (as recommended by their engineers) in order to become a water distribution company is creating a widening credibility gap.

911 on-line ceremony scheduled Friday, April 10

[illegible] work on-line in Bandera County and the official cut-over ceremony will be held Friday, April 10, at 10 a.m. on the courthouse lawn.

Workshops were held Tuesday, March 31 and Wednesday, April 1, to discuss [illegible] how to identify streets and number the houses and buildings in Bandera County.

According to 911-coordinator Tommy Adams Sr., 911 committee members have been [illegible] see how the equipment works.

Under the current system, a phone number will appear on a computer screen when a 911 call is answered in the sheriff's department. That phone number will help identify who is calling.

The workshops covered the next phase — rural addressing.

Under this advanced system, which the county may not have for one or two more years, when someone calls 911, not only their phone number, but their address will appear on screen, the phone number of the [illegible] will get the sheriff's department and on their 911 computer.

With this, sheriff's deputies, EMS and fire departments will be able to respond more directly.

"One of our suggestions was [illegible] and see what ideas they have, since they are ahead of us."

The street addressing will have to be coordinated with the post office, as the same addresses to be used by the 911 [illegible] addressing system will be [illegible] post office.

Rescuers will ask city [illegible] to fix dam situation

Persons involved in the 45-minute life-or-death struggle to save three youths below the dam at Bandera city park will urge the Bandera city council on April 13 to do something to prevent more tragedies.

Musician Dusty Britches, real estate man Joe Russell, firefighter Brad Cummings, and tourist John G. Bautista teamed up to pull a trio of youths from the undertow created at the dam whenever the water in the river is high.

It was the second near-tragic incident of 1992 at the site where two San Antonio men drowned in 1990.

According to nearby motel operator Tom Laxson, Britches and Bautista will address the council during its regular monthly meeting April 13.

The city's attorney told the council in 1990 the city had better get its checkbook out if it decides to do nothing about the obvious hazardous conditions that exist at the site when the water is high.

Laxson says he favors erecting a fence prohibiting entry to the area, at least temporarily.

The hasard is created by the sheer drop-off of water as it passes over the dam, technicians say. Most dams, especially those where swimmers are downstream, have a gradual slope on the downriver side to enable the water to slide over the dam instead of plunge over it.

Bautista, preparing to picnic nearby, was the first to get a rope to floundering Duane Maher, 16. Firefighter Cummings "risked his life" when he waded in to assist, says Russell, who was passing by.

Britches, a well-known figure in entertainment circles here, lives nearby and says he was attracted to the site by the sounds of the rescue. It was he who dragged Maher out of the river to the waiting arms of an emergency room physician, Dr. Scott Burner, who also was picnicking in the area and who administered CPR.

Former council member Charlie Eckhart tried often to get the council to improve the safety of the area, but the matter has been dormant since his term on the council expired.

Laxson said, however, it will be revived April 13 in the wake of the latest incident.

6,000 eligible locally to save income tax payments: VITA

An estimated 6,000 persons in Bandera County-are eligible to save income tax payments through one of three tax credits available this year, tax specialists estimate.

The estimate, from Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program volunteers is based on the total number of persons 18 years of age or older in Bandera County, reported to be 8,054 persons by the U.S. Census Bureau office in Austin.

VITA site coordinator Emma Meuth points out that VITA volunteers will be on duty each Friday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. through April 10. They will assist low-income, elderly, disabled and people who have difficulty with the English language prepare their tax returns so that all available tax credits can be claims.

The service is free, Meuth added.

Interpreters are also available to assist non-English speaking taxpayers, she said.

Three earned income credits are available this year to taxpayers with incomes below $21,250 who have at least one dependent child in the household, she said. But, even though no taxes are owed, individuals must file a return in order to receive any of these credits, Meuth said.

Taxpayers seeking VITA assistance should bring copies of their 1990 tax returns, if available, plus all W-2, W-2P and 1099 forms and Social Security printouts. They should include statements of health insurance paid and birth certificates for children born in 1991, plus Social Security cards for all children over the age of one.

Further information is available from Meuth at 535-4358, or from Frances Brown, area coordinator, at (512) 895-2598 in Kerrville.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may perk with ideas for a good part of the week (some of them good, some of them naughty), and you will try them out for size by the weekend. The fallout could be very interesting, too, since it involves self-indulgence. You pick up the pieces to start all over again.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may think the world is your oyster for most — at least two-thirds — of this week. (And you're right.) Aim for the bull's eye and don't get too down if you miss at first. Remember, practice makes perfect and you get to practice all weekend long. Lucky you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Right now, so it seems, you are unusually practical and logical. Work first, play later. You do this juggling act so well. Do remember even the resourceful twin does need time to rest and relax. Ask a favorite partner along for an isolated weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The Moon child is ever so full of daydreams and fairy tales! Yet others will watch you live these daydreams and fairy tales this weekend. Let your creativity spin you many a web and peak through the many different life alternatives you have. It could be wild.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Togetherness generally pleases the old lion, as I-ng as he has his space to pound his chest and be noticed. Midweek, you launch into your independent stance not to return until next week. Though you love the limelight this weekend, you also notice it's ever so lonely. Buy tissues.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Popularity peaks and it looks like you have the tiger by the tail. Never take anything for granted, but do enjoy the pace in this wonderfully intriguing week. You enter the weekend writing the script for the next romantic blockbuster. You're likely to produce it, too.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You, a workaholic? It may just look that way, nothing more. You do manage to make time by the weekend to demonstrate the true values of the sign of partnership (yes, you Libra). Take responsibility for the closeness you create this weekend. Yes, it takes two to tango.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Spring fever or creative juices — whatever — you're in an offbeat mood where you must(?) be footloose and fancy free. Do make time for work and those little details that make your life work. Otherwise, there is no stopping you now. Plunge into a wild, social weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Stabilize before you plunge into the next few days. Somehow your timing is off all week. You play when everyone else works, and vice versa. You could find yourself sadly out of sorts unless you decide to be more in synch with conventional ways. Tame that independence — a little.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Talk is cheap and another calls you on just that. Don't retreat. Be that gusty goat and keep on going. You get your just desserts by Saturday when others celebrate your presence. It was worth eating your pride. Now, let others ravish you with their delight!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You can be very, very overindulgent (in one of your "feeling courcuits" moods). Use caution, or you may be singing the blues all weekend long. Talk about your feelings, and you will discover that another is responsive. You are likely to be moon-gazing all weekend long.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You're on a roll this week, and no one wants to (or could) stop you. Use caution with credit cards and a need to simply overdo, overdo, overdo. This weekend, you do much chatting and visiting. Phones ring, doors knock, everyone wants you. Oh — to be able to clone yourself!

A 14-year-old Medina youth received citations after his 1976 Chevrolet pick-up lost a wheel and careened into a tree Sunday night, March 29. The underage driver was treated for minor bruises at the scene and released, said investigating Department of Public Safety trooper Nolan Metz.

EMS

Bandera County with his outspokeness, and the county can suspend who they feel they need to.

Terry felt it was necessary to violate the usual gag order placed on all EMTs to let the public know that the only problem with EMS at the present is squabbling among volunteers and that squabbling appears to be from lack of communication.

The controversy started with discussions of a possible EMS director for the county.

The county EMS is divided into four chapters in Bandera, Medina, Pipe Creek, and Lakehills. Each chapter electa officers, including a personnel representative, training officer and supply officer.

The chapter representatives meet as a grievance committee when a non-medical problem comes up.

Written EMS procedures provide that problems that cannob be solved by the grievance committee are refrered to the county judge, the EMS director.

The next step up is the county commissioners. However, medical problems are handled by the county's medical director, Dr. Leonard Marks of San Antonio.

Terry says the procedure provides technicians an opportunity to appear with commissioners to answer negative reports, if they get as far as commissioners court.

"I was never informed. This process has not been followed," said Terry.

"Some of the commissioners did not understand this (the procedure). It was not thoroughly explained to them."

Terry said he wasn't going to open up about the problem with some EMTs and others going around the proper procedure, but after Hickman and Burke were suspended, it was "the straw that broke the camel's back."

According to Terry, the current problem started with a closed meeting of paramedics March 18 to discuss the possibility of an EMS director separate from the county judge.

"The people that weren't paramedics got angry. They were apprehensive," said Terry. Those upset with the meeting called the commissioners and county judge Ray F. Mauer. "Everyone over-reacted immediately," said Terry.

"The following Monday (March 23), in commissioners' court, people came forth (EMS personnel) and some gave testimony before the commissioners (in executive session) and out of that came two suspensions. No (established) procedure was followed."

The problem is political, who is going to be EMS director, said Terry.

"There is a faction of the EMS that believes if we have a EMS director under the county judge, who is empowered to take care of county protocols (standard operating procedures) without going up to commissioner court meetings, that it would be a lot better," said Terry.

According to Terry, the idea of an EMS director is not new. "We had a county-wide EMS meeting one year ago in the Bandera County courthouse. It was discussed to look into an EMS director. The county judge was at the meeting. All the talk out of that meeting was positive."

"Kendall County has a EMS director, who is at the very least, strict," Terry said.

The problem perceived by some, according to Terry, is that since Bandera County utilizes volunteers as EMTs, "if we tell what to do, they'll run off."

"If we have the right volunteers, they won't run off — not the people who are concerned with taking care of patients. Only people will run off are those with the 'little u, big I,' i.e., big egos."

The job of an EMS director is to resolve non-medical problems that come up, not to strip power from the county judge, says Terry.

"The EMS director can't say whether to wear a certain shirt or to have shoes polished.

"The biggest problem is just communications and just put the egos aside," he said.

"We need to be proud of the EMS in Bandera County, not just (each) Pipe Creek, Lakehills, Bandera, Medina chapters, or a crew that rides one night — 'Oh, we're the best'."

Terry said part of the problem is jealouly between chapters.

He said he was pumping gasoline one day in Bandera when an emergency arose. "People came and got me because I was there." He helped stabilize the patient, but when the ambulance crew arrived, he stepped back.

"I then called the medical director and the county judge immediately. I was afraid someone would take exception," he said.

"It should go without saying, that anyone else should have done the same (in a similar situation), but in the current atmosphere...

"I can't say 'Because I'm not a Bandera EMT, I can't do CPR on you.'

He says some people are resistant to any change, even medical procedures. "Some people say because we didn't have paramedics before, it means we shouldn't have them now."

Terry believes county citizens should know about the tremendous load that EMTs carry. "They pick up a patient and find out it's a friend or a cousin. It's a very stressful situation."

Daylight Savings Time

Junior and Sis will have quite a shock when they go out to catch the bus Monday, as the sunlight of the recently risen sun they had been standing in Friday will be replaced by the darkness before dawn. Daylight Savings Time takes effect Sunday.

'Back To School Week' meeting scheduled Thursday at BHS

An organizational meeting for "Back to School Week" in Bandera will be held Thursday, April 2 at 7 p.m. in the Bandera High School library.

"We want to encourage people to come, and sign up either to teach or to take a class," said event organizer Bungy Ellington.

According to Ellington, Back to School Week will be designed so that different members of the community can come and teach others a skill, water rights, and by filing for water rights with the Texas Water Commission."

What Kowis is likely to say is that BMA's water rights supercede almost anyone's water rights along the Medina River, and that there are low water rights available on the Medina River for Bandera County — [illegible]

Stumbling blocks that remain to be crossed before Springhills can buy water from BMA is that the BMA must get the Texas Water Commission to accept their contract with Bexar Met.

The contract allows BMA to declare as "excess water" any of its 66,000-acre feet annual water allocation did does not use for irrigation.

It will then sell all that water to Bexar Met, with the exception of up to 5,000 acre-feet that Springhills could have.

Currently, BMA has an irrigation right. To sell the water, it must have a combined municipal and irrigation right. The TWC must approve that agreement also.

★ Experienced ★★★ Dedicated ★★★ Effective ★
★ A good example of a part-time commissioner is a candidate with his own building contracting business. If elected, he would have to devote most of his time to his business and the county's business would be secondary. As a result, roads could quickly deteriorate and paving schedules could fall along the wayside. Conflict of interest problems could be created when voting in commissioners court on plat approval for subdivisions and then bidding to build homes in those subdivisions.
★ A good example of a full-time commissioner is County Commissioner Bennie Barker. He works for you on a full-time basis to insure that your roads are maintained and paved. He does not have a business to run and is available and accessible on a 24-hour basis to look after your best interests.
★ Please vote for Bennie Barker on April 14. ★
Pd. by Re-Elect Barker Committee, Pat Barker, Treasurer, Box 63594, Pipe Creek, Tx. 78063

Elect
JEWETT
Commissioner
April 14

The incumbent seems upset that I am a successful businessman. I believe a sound business background is absolutely crucial if a commissioner is to properly fulfill the duties of his office. I manage many times more than the amount of money Precinct #1 spends during the year-- and quite well enough to remain out of the red-- which would be a new experience for the incumbent. If I operated my business in the same careless fashion as the incumbent mismanages your money, I would be bankrupt and out of business in a month's time.

The other three commissioners are all businessmen as well as commissioners. The facts show that each of the other precincts still has money to spend. Precinct #1's "full-time" commissioner has the only overdrawn account. And it's badly overdrawn.

I have achieved success in a highly competitive industry. Now I have the experience and time for public service. I am asking for your vote and support for the privilege of returning something in the form of service to the taxpayers of Precinct #1.

I am president and majority stockholder in Bandera Builders Inc., a Texas corporation. Two other men are associated with me as owners and managers. They are Norris Warner and Jim Samsel, who are supportive of my candidacy. These gentlemen are fully capable of filling in for me at Bandera Builders whenever necessary to permit me to get the Precinct #1 job done fully, completely and properly.

The incumbent claims proficiency in road-building and maintenance skills. Yet after more than two years we see no sign that he understands Bandera County road problems.

Voters: Since your present commissioner brags that he is "a full-time commissioner" and wants you to believe he is out every day leading his crews--ask yourself how many times you have seen him on your road. And is it really a full-time job to manage three employees?

Canine agility event draws crowd, 18 doggie champions advance

Champion canines showed their agile stuff at Mansfield Park Saturday and Sunday, March 28 and 29, when the Bexar Regional Agility Team hosted US Dog Agility Association-sanctioned Pedigree Grand Prix regional tournament agility test.

Six qualified for titles in Saturday's doggie dexterity event, and Sunday 18 of them qualified to advance to the semi-finals in Houston in September.

Canine obstacle courses, tunnels, assorted jumps and hurdles were on the agenda, and many spectators turned out in spite of the rain, according to organizer David Hanson from Kerrville. Hanson's Golden Retriever, "Airlie," was among the doggie competitors.

"Dog agility is an excellent spectator sport," Hanson said. "It is a competitive sport in which a handler directs his dog over a timed obstacle course, with scoring based on faults as in equestrian jumping events.

"It is frequently said that dog agility is a 'sport for all dogs,' in that the sport permits both purebred and mixed-breed dogs to compete," he said.

USDAA's 1992 Pedigree Grand Prix of Dog Agility will consist of 20 qualifying heats to be held between Feb. 1 and June 30, followed by semifinals and finals competition in Houston Sept. 11-13.

The first place dog (and handler) in each class will compete in the semifinal event.

Cliff fendler-bush blooms such as this example photographed near Medina have not been reported in the area for nearly 150 years.

Have you seen this plant?

Rare cliff fendler-bush spotted in Bandera County

By Susan Crawford Tracy
Special to the Bandera Bulletin

Two years ago this spring, a flowering shrub, known commonly as a "cliff fendler-bush," was sighted on a hilltop in western Bandera County, an event which precipitated statewide horticultural interest. Botanists have since identified. Botanists have since identified the plant as "Fendlera rupicola," in its first recorded Hill Country sighting since 1851 when the German botanist Ferdinand Lindheimer was known to have collected a specimen of the plant near New Braunfels.

Until its rediscovery near Medina, plant scientists had assumed that the eastern limit of the cliff fendler-bush was the Stockton Plateau. The plant is more familiar in the Trans-Pecos and west to New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado.

The cliff fendler-bush is related to our mockorange, but while the two have similar foliage, the Fendlera in bloom is far showier, with masses of large distinctive white flowers appearing early in spring; the display lasts about two weeks.

Paul Cox, supervisor of the San Antonio Botanical Center and co-author of "Texas Trees— a Friendly Guide," noted on a recent visit to the Medina site that the flowers on this specimen— almost an inch and a half across, appeared to be about twice the size of those on plants he'd seen in the Trans-Pecos.

Benny Simpson, horticulturist from the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Dallas, wrote in a paper on the Medina Fendlera, which he presented at the Texas Native Plant Symposium in Kerrville. (Oct. 1991), that.no other similar plants have been seen in this area "although they are to be expected." Unfortunately, the native population of the cliff fendler is likely to have been virtually eliminated by grazing animals, as it is highly palatable to sheep, goats, cattle and deer, according to Dorothy Mattiza, owner of Gunsight Mountain Native Plant Nursery in Tarpley. The Medina specimen, a healthy but leggy plant about seven feet tall, was naturally protected from browsing animals by its location in the shelter of a large Texas mountain laurel, a species avoided by deer and livestock. Now, as the sole known surviving specimen of Fendler rupicola in the Hill Country, it is surrounded by a tall wire fence.

Mattiza urges landowners to be on the lookout for the Fendlera in habitat similar to that of the Medina sighting. This week, while the shrun is in full flower, is the time to watch for it, for the fendler-bush is spectacular in bloom but inconspicuous at other seasons. She suggests looking on and near the topmost outcrop of limestone ledges around our hills, particularly those ledges facing north and east.

Xeriscaping not only saves water, but saves time and can increase land value

One of the water conservation [illegible] Springhills Water Management District and local environmentalists is xeriscaping, a landscaping method that not only saves water but the water district says also lowers maintenance, reduces labor and saves money.

"We want people to understand that xeriscaping is more than just brown rocks and trees. A good xeriscape will increase your property value by as much as 15 percent," says Bonnie McKinney of the water district staff.

She says urban environment can be designed with landscapes which require a fraction of the water of traditional landscapes. "They will also [illegible] stand drought," her material states.

The water district office has an extensive library of information that will help property owners xeriscape. It plans to develop a video library that will be available to the public.

local people that can assist with xeriscape needs," she said.

Woodmen youth group schedules benefit sale Friday, Saturday

Among those going all the way to the coast from Bandera to view the replicas of the Columbus fleet, the Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria, this past week were Ruth Ann and Craig Tips and Donna Alexander. The visit, a part of a tour of Spain to commemorate the quincentennial of the arrival in America of Christopher Columbus, had sailed across the ocean blue just as had the crew's forebears.

Vast crowd greeted the tiny wooden vessels as they anchored in Corpus Christi Bay, but Ruth Ann reports that boarding was easy and the Spanish sailors most friendly and appreciative of their welcome to Texas. Galveston was to be the next port-of-call on the Texas Gulf Coast.

—Meanwhile back in the hills, cousins from Boston were being welcomed to Bandera. On their first trip to Texas were Misses Connie and Ruth Houghton and their brother, Jack. Before going on out to El Paso to board the Copper Canyon train, they enjoyed a day at Tobin Ranch and another with Bungy Grant Ellington. Bungy's daughter, Dede Pelletier, has a position working with Christian Science Publishing Society, with which the Houghtons have been involved for years. Small world.

—Book review for members of the Native Plant Society: A good idea of the way Texas looked and what was growing wild here back in the 1840's can be gained by reading a book recently issued by Texas A&M University Press, "A Life Among the Texas Flora" by Minetta Altgelt Goyne, being a compilation of letters written by Ferdinand Lindheimer to his patron, George Engelmann, with commentary by the editor.

—Before finally settling down in New Braunfels to raise a family and edit an influential newspaper, Lindheimer spent [illegible] collecting specimens and seeds of native plants to send to Engelmann in St. Louis to be studied, named, and sold to other interested botanists.

The privations of living in the open, putting up with mud or blowing dust, Indian danger, disease, and slow communications with the outside world did not deter early Texians like Lindheimer from accomplishing far more in their lifetimes than we can with fast cars, fax, and antibiotics. Awesome!

But they were human too, these pioneers. Lindheimer displays envious professional rivalry in remarks about the work of a Scottish botanist, Thomas Drummond, who came to Texas a decade earlier to collect plants, especially mosses. But wildflower books, giving scientific names, are sprinkled equally with varieties "Lindheimeri" and "Drummondii". So the two both made history.

Also is you have the idea, looking at their orderly scenes today, that German colonies like Fredericksburg and New Braunfels were settled by disciplined utopians, read Lindheimer's complaints against crime, corruption, adultery, expense padding, fraud, embezzlement, personal and political quarrels. The famous Adelsverein, the organization bringing so many German colonists to the Republic of Texas, was only human. We may need the mythical idealistic view of history, but truth is also helpful.

The cast of "Anne of Green Gables."

BACH Players to present 'Anne of Green Gables'

A presentation of "Anne of Green Gables" will be presented at the Bandera High School auditorium Sunday, April 5, at 2 p.m. by the Boerne Area Christian Homeschoolers (BACH) Players.

It is the group's first performance in Bandera.

The performance is an encore presentation from the group's performance at the Boerne Middle School Friday and Saturday, April 3-4 at 7 p.m.

Performers include Tricia File in the part of Anne, Rachel Davis as Marilla, Israel Turner as Matthew, Paul McGhee as Gilbert, Emily Weber as Rachel Lynde and Meredith Miller as Diana Berry, reports spokeswoman Joella Bean. "The youthful cast are striking in their professional approach to the overall production," she says.

The renowned story has a following made popular through a recent PBS series.

The BACH Players have gained a following since they started three years ago when 14 students presented, "Heidi" in Boerne.

Last year, they put on the "The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe" with 40 home schoolers from Pipe Creek, San Antonio, Bandera and the Boerne area.

Due to the number of students, it was double cast to allow all the students to participate in the production. Each night was a "first night" for the actors.

This year 33 players participate. Many have been in all three productions. Turner appeared as Aslan and Davis gave a dynamic, terrifying portrayal of the witch in last year's production. Summer Miller was the ideal "Mrs. Beaver" in last year's production.

Director Sandra Thomas teachs her students to act during the production. The students help with costumes and sets and work together toward their performing goal.

Parents work closely with the group as Thomas directs. The parents take responsibility for costumes, sets, promotion and other "crisis" happenings.

This year Thomas held auditions for the first year, especially because so many students wished to play Anne. Thomas video-taped auditions and let a San Antonio theatrical group make the selection for "Anne."

Thomas is considering the possibility for a "Little Women" production the fall.

Last year she worked with the BACC-Door Children's Theatrical (Boerne Area Little Theater Company) production of the well received "Velveteen Rabbit".

A qualified teacher, Thomas began home teaching after she and her family moved to Boerne three years ago.

When she failed to find a school that compared in Christian psychology to the one she left in Pennsylvania, she taught fourth grade to her daughter, Nikki. She soon found the Boerne area had a home schoolers support group.

She continued home teaching and teaches Nikki at the ninth grade level and Elizabeth as a third grader.

While home schooling is usually conducted on an individual level, certain subjects such as drama, art, music or physical education are taught in groups by qualified parents or at local school.

For further information on the production of "Anne of Green Gables, contact Linda McGhee at 535-4512.

Witte holds auditions

Auditions for a new gallery theatre presentation, entitled "Diego de Landa,' will be held at 7 p.m., Monday, April 13, at the Witte Museum, 3801 Broadway, San Antonio.

Two male actors are required to portray a Franciscan friar and a Mayan Indian. Actors will need to be available to perform from June 5 - August 16 on Fridays at 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Performers will be paid.

"Diego de Landa" will be presented in conjunction with the exhibition "God, Gold and Glory: Conquistadores in the Americas," opening June 6 at the Witte Museum.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Crisis and confusion are a part of living. Each of us must face some sort of crisis or confusion sooner or later. To face a crisis requires courage--and courage is a personal matter. Courage can not be leased, borrowed or bought. It must be drawn from one's self for one's self. And when courage is shown, confusion can and often does disappear.

Ever since time began, the greatest source for courage has been traced to a foundation on a faith. Faith creates hope. Without faith and hope, courage is difficult to come by. In spite of dark clouds, faith, hope and courage will always be the means to let us see the rays of sunshine again...

"Life would not be worth living without faith. Faith in God; faith in ourselves; faith in our fellow-men; we should omit none of the three. Without faith in God, there is no hope for the soul; without faith in self, life is a miserable failure; without faith in each other, we should miss the sweet joys of friendship. Keep your faith bright, let its luster never grow dim!" - Ida Scott Taylor

Bandera Downs will have racing Thursday

Graham Farms Futurity trials set for April 2 and 3

Bandera Downs will conduct non-holiday racing on a Thursday for the first time April 2 in order to host two days of trials for the Graham Farms Futurity.

Horsemen have nominated 2-year-old horses in record numbers to the only Grade I race in Texas, a race whose purse is expected to top $500,000.

But the horses will have to race in the trials Thursday and Friday to qualify for the big money.

Post time will be at 1 p.m. both Thursday and Friday with the gates opening at 11 a.m.

The Graham Farms Derby and Futurity trials will be run Saturday and the Sophomore Maiden Stakes will be run Sunday.

The futurity itself will be run Sunday, April 12.

The track expects to conduct 10 live races each day simulcasting up to five races from Santa Anita Park in California, [illegible]

[illegible] expect it will be our biggest," said general manager and Graham Farms Futurity president Bowers.

"More people are staying in Texas to race because of us, Manor, and Trinity Meadows. Not as many are going to New Mexico.

"People are getting back into the horse business."

Many new trainers, such as [illegible] Graham Farms. Also, people from Oklahoma.

"The larger purse is attracting them. Texas horses have [illegible] Park), and Ruidoso in the past," said Bowers.

Government-sponsored event will promote wild horse adoption

Wild horses, symbols of our nation's western heritage, will be coming to Santa Fe, Texas for a horse adoption sponsored by the U.S. government. The adoption will take place Saturday and Sunday, April 11-12, at the Range Park Rodeo Arena.

Hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day and admission is free.

Horses may be viewed from noon Friday, April 10.

There will be 50 halter-trained horses from the southern New Mexico correctional facility at Las Cruces, NM and 50 head fresh from the range available to qualified adopters.

The adoption of animals is a "first come first serve" process. Adoption fee is $125 for each horse.

The Adopt-A-Horse Program began in 1973 by the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management in order to control the increasing populations of horse herds on Federal land in the West. Prior to the late 1950's, the wild horse herds had been preyed upon by "mustangers," men who cruelly rounded up the horses and sold them to be processed for dog food. However, this activity was outlawed in 1971 when Congress passed the Wild Free-Roaming Horse and Burro Act. This law was enacted to protect the wild horse herds from extinction and to preserve them as "living symbols of the historic and pioneer spirit of the West." Under Federal protection the wild herds increased rapidly, since they have virtually no natural predators. In addition, wild horses now compete for limited forage and water with native wildlife and domestic livestock that also graze public lands. Vast areas of these Western rangelands are in an overgrazed and seriously deteriorated condition. In 1973 the Government began removing excess numbers of wild horses in order to achieve designated herd management levels. As part of this management activity, the government instituted the Adopt-A-Horse Program to ask the public to provide these animals places to live. More than 120,000 horses and burros have been relocated as a result.

The adoption fee is only $125 for each horse which helps recover some of the government's expense for transportation and veterinary care. Before shipping, every animal rounded up by BLM is thoroughly checked by a veterinarian, Coggins tested, and vaccinated for various equine disorders. A person may adopt up to four animals in a 12-month period. Individuals interested in adopting will need to provide adequate shelter of 12' x 12' (144 sq. ft.) and 20' x 20' (400 sq. ft.) of corral space with sturdy fencing 6 feet high, and a solid horse trailer with a covered top and side-swing back gates (drop ramp gates are not permitted). Four horse or larger trailers are preferred. BLM wranglers sort out adopted animals, halter and load them onto the adopter's trailer.

Application forms and additional information are available from Bureau of Land Management, Albuquerque District Office, 435 Montano NE, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87107, or call (505) 761-8700.

People who wish to adopt horses from the government must sign an agreement to provide proper care for the animals and not abuse them or commercially exploit them. With care and patience, wild horses can be tamed and used for pleasure riding, farm work, showing, barrel racing, roping, or other non-commercial purposes. On the one-year anniversary date of the animal's adoption, the adopter is eligible to make an application for certificate of title. If the animal has been humanely cared for, the Bureau of Land Management will award the adopter clear title to the animal. Until that title is issued, the horse or burro remains Janessa Lee Ewerz of Wilson celebrated her first outing following a bone marrow transplant at Bandera Downs Saturday with her family and friend, Bandera Bud.

Bone marrow transplantee visits Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Would the race track be the first place you'd want to visit after recovering from a bone marrow transplant?

It was for one little girl Saturday at Bandera Downs.

Janessa Lee Ewerz, 11, the daughter of John and Brenda Ewerz of Wilson underwent a bone marrow transplant at Santa Rosa Children's Hospital in San Antonio March 4.

Before her operation, the track's mascot, Bandera Bud, visited her. She was so impressed with the tall "horse," she said Bandera Downs was the first place she wanted to visit once she was out of the hospital.

During the third race March 21, she received an autograph from winning jockey Tad Leggett in the winner's circle and was photographed with the winning horse and trainer, complete with Bandera Bud.

Ewers didn't have a favorite horse in the race, but her favorite color was purple. The no. 8 horse, 7-2 Mr Moon Cash, ran fourth in the race.

According to Brenda Ewerz, Janessa has been on chemotherapy for leukemia since she was 3 months old and has been in the hospital for separate 10-day to 2-week stints for pneumonia throughout her life.

After the operation, Janessa was released 18 days after the transplant, breaking the previous record at Santa Rosa of 32 days, said her mother.

According to Brenda, Janessa was anxious to come to the track Saturday. "She tried to get everyone going about 7:30 this morning."

And she really liked Bandera Bud. "She hung his picture up next to Miss Universe."

State-mandated achievement tests begin

NAPT scheduled week of April 6

Students in grades 3-11 at Bandera ISD, like students throughout Texas, will take a new state-mandated achievement test during the week of April 6, 1992. The test, titled the "Norm-referenced Assessment program for Texas (NAPT)," will be administered to students in grades 3-11 on the following dates: Monday, April 6th, Tuesday, April 7th, Wednesday, April 8th, and Thursday, April 9th.

The test is administered in accordance with Texas state law which has established two testing programs: the NAPT and the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS), which are designed to provide different kinds of information.

NAPT can be used to compare the performance of students in a particular grade with that of students in the same grade across the United States. TAAS measures how well students in Texas have mastered the essential elements of the statewide curriculum.

The content of the NAPT tests represents various curricula across the United States. A few areas tested by NAPT at a certain grade level may not be taught directly in a Texas school, or may be taught in that school sometime after testing has been completed. Most of the items in a subject area test are moderate in difficulty. Some are easy and some are difficult. Some measure differences among students' achievement.

Content tested in the NAPT include:

Reading—word meaning and reading comprehension;

Language—spelling, capitalization, punctuation, usage and expression;

Mathematics—computation, concepts and problem solving;

Science—life science, earth and space sciences, and physical sciences;

Social Studies—history, geography, political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, related social studies;

Study skills—map and graph interpretation, computation;

Gasoline leak at Lakehills under control, says state official

A gasoline leak at a Lakehills service station is "under control" and efforts to clean the soil and water in the area are [illegible] way, reports a state official.

The Arkansas [illegible] motive in Lakehills has been torn up and a state contractor is repiping fuel lines at the station.

According to Jim Bard of the Texas Water Commission office in San Antonio, the gasoline leak at the station the TWC has been investigating for about a year appears to be from the piping and not the fuel tanks.

Gasoline constituents have been found in the well water at D&H, says Bard.

The contractor has been removing the contaminated soil, has been venting the soil and aerating ground water in [illegible] water and soil of the hydrocarbons.

According to Bard, the state had D&H test their system several years ago, but the leak problem is so minor, the test then didn't detect any leaks.

D&H has registered its tanks and has paid the registration fees for its gasoline tanks and is required to apply for a state remedial fund grant that will help pay up to $1 million of the cost, with a $1,000 deductible, says Bard.

Hilltop Bassmasters to conduct bass tournament

The Hilltop Bassmasters club of San Antonio will conduct an open team bass tournament on Medina Lake Saturday, April 18, with a possible $1,000 first-place prize.

Fishing will be restricted to Medina Lake and the tournament headquarters will be Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Center in Mico.

Registration for each team is $100 in advance and $125 the day of the tournament. The deadline for pre-registration is April 13. Day-of-the-tournament registration starts at 4:30 a.m. April 18 at the Lackland marina.

Each team is made up of two persons.

Each team may launch their boat at any site on the lake, but all boats must check-in at the Lackland marina before fishing starts.

Start time is 6:30 a.m. or "safe light."

All boats must have a live well to store the bass. All bass, except trophy bass, must be released back to the lake after weigh-in.

Weigh-in is at 3 p.m. at the Lackland marina and contestants must clear the check-in point prior to 3 p.m.

Only black and smallmouth bass will be weighed. No iced, frozen or pale-gilled fish will be weighed.

Only artificial lures cast by rod and reel may be used. No trolling allowed.

Each team may weigh-in five fish with a minimum length of 14 inches measured with the mouth closed and tail bunched on a flat board. No more than five fish will be allowed.

Prizes (based on 50-team field) is $1,000 for first place, $750 for second place, $650 for third place, $450 for fourth place, $350 for fifth place, $100 for sixth through 10th places.

An optional big bass pot will cost $10 per team with a 60/40 percent split to the team with the biggest bass and the second biggest bass.

For more information, contact tournament director Jim Hess at 751-3444 or Walt Ritter at 512-652-5118 or 512-

Wharton's Dock

Bad

The First-Saturday-of-the-Month community covered dish dinner will be held at the Copper Lantern Saturday, April 4, at 7 p.m.

Meat will be provided by Gerry Wright and his [illegible] of chili dogs or hot dogs with sauerkraut. Those attending should bring a covered side dish to share.

• The Ruckers, Dorothy and Bob, had a covered dish-pot luck dinner at their home Saturday, March 28.

Attending were Glen and April Byers, Audry and Frank Currey, Olivia Andrade, Harry Warkentin, and Bill and Margaret Holmes, and Bill's sister and brother-in-law, Betty and Lane Lewis from Arlington, and Betty and Bud Ciarlo.

• Okie Treaster was released from the hospital Monday, March 23, and is now home regaining his strength and health.

• Col. Henry Ruff, who had a waterfront home at Wharton's Dock, passed away March 21 of a blood clot to the heart.

Memorial services were conducted Thursday at the MacArthur Park Lutheran Church with burial at the Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery with full military honors.

Col. Ruff was a strong supporter of area activities. He [illegible]

• Betty and I took a week off [illegible] where Betty took part in a slot machine tournament at the Flamingo Hilton.

We stayed at the Flamingo until Wednesday, March 25, and then moved down the strip to Vegas World where we met up with Bob and Dorothy Rucker and Bill and Margerst Holmes from Wharton's Dock.

The six of us took in the show at the Riviera on Wednesday night.

The Ruckers had breakfast together Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and Dorothy did not see Bob again until 5:30 p.m. Bob states he was out looking for her, but couldn't find her. He walked down to Circus Circus and he got carried away with the circus acts, particularly the magic ones.

We all returned to Wharton's Dock Friday, March 27, tired but happy and already planning for the next trip.

Oh, yes, Betty placed 18th out 479 in the slot tournament.

Hat Day parade set in Mico

By Carol Smith
Special Correspondent

The Medina County Association for the Handicapped is holding its Fourth "Almost Annual" Hat Day Celebration Saturday, May 16 in Mico.

The Hat Day event benefits the M.C.A.H. Rockabilly Fund, which annually awards scholarships to Medina County youth for college or technical and trade schools.

The hilarious hat day parade will begin at 4 p.m. Be sure to wear you hat while viewing this illustrious event or the "sheriff" of the jail float will charge you with "indecent exposure of the cranial cavity". Bond may be posted in the form of a donation to the M.C.A.H.

The parade will begin at the Medina Dam in front of Cedar Point Landing and continue up the Medina Dam road to the intersection of FM Road 1283 at the Hilltop Cafe where the floats will turn and head back towards beautiful downtown Mico with a brief "turn around" in Red Cove.

The original hat day float is an Abe Lincoln stove pipe hat which carries the parade grand marshall and a group of happily hatted helpers. The "most unusual hat" contest and judging will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Cedar Point Landing. Other games will include a "cow chip" toss and a car smash.

A chili cook-off will be held in conjunction with Hat Day. The entry fee is $10 and all cooking must be done at the site provided at Cedar Point Landing. A minimum of five pounds of meat is required. The judging will be held at 7 p.m. and trophies for the first, second, and third places will be awarded.

A dance will start at 8 p.m. with live music in the saloon at Cedar Point, the "fine" of a $2 cover charge will be voided with a validated "reward poster." The poster must be picked up at Cedar Point at anytime during the day and then taken to Red Cove, Mico Inn and the Hilltop Cafe. These other local businesses will "shoot' a hole in the poster. Return the poster full of holes to the dance at Cedar Point for your "reward," one free admission.

Any other small towns or groups with in the M.C.A.H. service area (Medina County) are invited to participate in the parade. Floats must follow a hat theme of some sort. Cash donation jars will be located in Red Cove, Mico Inn and the Hilltop Cafe throughout the month of April.

For further information please contact Sandra Shavely, President of the M.C.A.H. Scholarship fund at 751-2250 or Myra Hanson at Cedar Point Landing, 751-3115.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Rejoicing Springs From Sorrow

"Truly, truly, I say to you, you will weep and lament, but the world will rejoice; you will be sorrowful but your sorrow will turn into joy."
— John 16:20

Rejoicing and sorrow may seem to be contradictory, yet when Jesus used them in the same line to His disciples, His meaning was quite clear. He knew that He was reaching the end of His earthly journey, that the hour of His God-destined mission was drawing near. Yet He also knew that out of the sadness of His going, of His sacrifice, would come the joyousness occasioned by His resurrection. His abiding presence would be felt by all those who believed His message would spread to the ends of the earth. Sorrow is a negative emotion, but when good arises from that sorrow, then all the past is forgotten in the rejoicing that follows.

Plant, bake sale set in LH

Bedding and potted plants will be offered for sale at the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 annual plant and bake sale Saturday, April 4, beginning at 9 a.m.

According to auxiliary president Betty Baxter, members will offer flower and vegetable bedding plants including tomatoes, peppers and marigolds.

Larger plants in larger pots suitable for house plants or flower beds include geraniums, pansies, and anemones.

Baked goods of all kinds will be available.

Ten tables have been rented so far for the flea market, reports Sue Kruse, and there is still room for more. Table inside or outside the Legion hall rent for $5.

Family counseling offered

Family counseling will be availalble in Lakehills each Tuesday and Thursday starting this week.

Fred and Beth Richardson of K-Star in Kerrville will offer counseling services to families at the justice of the peace office in Lakehills each Tuesday and Thursday, JP Louise Karr announced this week.

The Richardsons will be at her office on FM Road 1283 south of Park Road 37 starting at 3:30 p.m. and will be available for appointments until 9 p.m.

"Anyone can call my office and I can set up the initial appointment," says Karr.

Her office number is 751-3535.

The service is offered to help families in crisis because of drug/alcohol abuse, families with children that are on the verge of running away, and situations where there is family violence and/or sexual abuse.

The Richardsons opearte a family counseling service and shelter in Kerrville.

"There are several families in our community that need the help," says Karr.

CLRVFD to elect officers

Castle Lake Ranch Volunteer Fire Department will elect officers at its annual membership meeting Sunday, April 12.

The meeting starts at 2 p.m. with nomination of candidates. Those elected will serve a one-year term, reports department president Clara Albright.

A Mexican dinner will be served afterwards.

Membership dues are $25 per family.

The department conducts two fund-raisers a year, a chili cook-off in June and a turkey shoot in November, says Albright.

Department expenses include fire truck operating costs (tires, batteries, gasoline, oil and required maintenance), liability insurance, utilities (electricity, propane and telephone).

Bandera County Extension Agent Warren Thigpen discusses how to use a "killer bee" kit with Medina elementary school teachers Wednesday, March 25. The kitbox he holds is a replica of the light blue traps now installed along state highway 173 in Bandera County. The Agricultural Extension Service has designed a classroom program that familiarizes children with the Africanized honey bee, and teaches them what to look for and how to avoid problems with the insects. Staff photo by Larry T. Williams

Program shows people they can survive with "killer bees," or Africanized bees

A pilot program is demonstrating that the general population can survive with the so-called "killer bees."

The Bexar County Bee Masters program trains volunteers who go out into the community to train the community about the Africanized honey bee.

"We can survive if we have killer bees in this part of Texas," said Mark Parker, assistant superintendent of the Somerset ISD and one of the volunteers.

Parker, who presents the program to students at the middle and high schools there, says, "We live in the boondocks out here. There's a lot of people who work outside. They're (the students) are relieved that they aren't going to have to lock themselves indoors when the killer bees get to this part of the country."

The first AHB swarm in the United States was confirmed near Hidalgo in the Rio Grande Valley in October 1990. The bee was released accidentally from a Brazilian lab in 1957 and has been moving northward at about 200-300 miles a year.

Even before the first swarm of Africanized honey bees was detected, extension agents Andy Vestal and Brent Batchelor became concerned about educational programs for the city.

"We felt like San Antonio was going to be one of the first major cities in Texas to have the bees," explained Vestal.

They approached Bexar County Commissioners for funding for an extra person to plan and present the needed instruction. They were turned down because of budget constraints. State funding was equally as scarce.

"There wasn't enough money in the kitty. We had to find an alternative to county or state funding so we decided to use volunteers," he said.

Seventy-eight volunteers from the Telephone Pioneers, 4-H clubs, police and fire departments, emergency medical services (EMS), and local Air Force bases have been trained thus far. Volunteers receive four hours of intensive training.

In return, participants have to contribute at least eight hours (or four public presentations) of volunteer time.

With material and slides provided by the extension office, the speakers have given presentations at local service organizations such as the Lions' Club, schools, retirees, church groups, the winter Boat and RV Show, and at fall festival at a mall. Parker also has presented the program at his local volunteer fire department.

"Training helps ease fears," said Jim Beal of the San Antonio chapter of the Telephone Pioneers, in explaining why that organization got involved in the training. "We don't want to someone falling off a (telephone) pole because he's been stung by a killer bee and thinks he's going to die within a few minutes."

The Pioneers train telephone employee groups as well as other civic and service clubs, he said. Beal's first presentation was to the administrators of the Elderly Housing Projects in San Antonio.

Little League season begins here April 10

The Bandera County Little League season will kick-off Friday and Saturday, April 10-11, with 10 games at Mansfield Park and a benefit barbecue and drawing.

The first ball will be thrown April 10 at 6:30 p.m. with the Medina squaring off on the Mansfield Park ball diamond, reports Bandera County Little League public relations director Vicki Richardson.

The rest of the games begin April 11 at 8 a.m. with the minor league Woodmen playing OST at Mansfield Park.

Other minor league games include Pipe Creek II vs. Gingerbread House at 10 a.m. and Medina I vs. Pipe Creek III at 12:45 p.m.

Other games include T-ball games Medina vs. Hearn Products at 8:30 a.m., Guaranty Federal Savings vs. Bandera Family Practice at 10:15 a.m. and the Pipe Creek Lakers vs. Alanis Roofing/Harvey's Steak House at 1 p.m.

Major league games are Cardinals vs. Bankers at 2:45 p.m., Rangers vs. Astros at 5 p.m. and Giants vs. Rebels at 7:15 p.m.

Fund-raising activity Saturday includes barbecue plates for sale beginning at 11 a.m. Patrons will have a choice of barbecued brisket, chicken or sausage, Richardson says.

A drawing for 17 prizes will be held at noon.

Prizes include a baseball card collection; a baseball glove furnished by the Bandera Ice House; $10 gift certificates from Taco Roundup and El Jacalito; $25 gift certificates from Dairy Queen, EconoLodge Bandera, Everetts Jewelry, Steins Western Wear, Super 8 Pharmacy and Western Auto; a medium pizza from River Oaks Restaurant; an oil, lube and filter change from Jennings Anderson Ford; four green fees/two carts on a weekday from the Flying L Golf Course; and two pizzas and two dinners-for-two from Harvey's Steak House.

Tickets are $1 each or six for $5 anytime prior to the drawing. Persons need not be present to win.

T-ball baseball is for boys and girls age 6-7, minor league is for boys and girls age 8-10 and major league is for boys and girls age 10-12.

Harvey B. Norton

Harvey Bruce Norton, 69, died at Sutter Davis Hospital in Davis Calif. Sunday, March 15.

He served in the U.S. Army Air Corps from 1942 to 1944, and was honored with the Purple Heart and Silver Star medals. He was a member of Medina Masonic Lodge 1319, Medina Order of the Eastern Star 988, Scottish Rite bodies of San Antonio and the Ballut Abyad Shrine Temple of Albuquerque, N.M.

Survivors include his wife, Hortense Keese Norton of Davis; son Larry Norton of Napa, Calif.; daughters Martha Norton of Walnut Creek, Calif. and Anita Norton of Belmont, Calif.; sisters Geraldine Rutherford and Ora Nell Haradam, both of San Antonio, and Mildred Norton of Kalama, Wash.; and grandchildren Robert Robbins and Tami Robbins.

Services were March 18 at Davis Funeral Chapel, with burial at Davis Cemetery.

Daniel M. O'Connell

Daniel Marion O'Connell, 88, of Mico died March 28 at Wilford Hall USAF Medical Center in San Antonio.

He was a retired Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Air Force, a charter member of the Mico VFD, first civil defense director for Medina County, past commander of Weiss-Wurzbach American Legion Post 460, member of the 0X5 Aviation Pioneers, a member of Randolph Masonic Lodge 1268, and a life member of the San Antonio Scottish Rite and Alzafar Shrine.

Survivors include a son, Donald W. O'Connell of Mico; a daughter Patsy J. Berger of Mico; sisters Vera Gower of San Antonio and Lola Keyes of Washington D.C.; seven grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Prayer service was Monday, March 30 at Tondre-Guinn Funeral Home in Castroville. Graveside service and burial was Tuesday, March 31 at Ft. Sam Houston National Cemetery with full military honors. Pallbearers were the U.S. Air Force Honor Guard.

Ada May Heinen

Ada May Heinen, 74, of Bandera died March 28 in her home.

She was born May 3, 1917 in Bandera and was a lifelong resident. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Peggy Heinen of Bandera; a son, Earl Wayne Heinen of Bandera; two brothers, Gib Gray of Lakehills and Coy Gray of Houston; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Memorial services were to be held Wednesday, April 1 at 3 p.m. in Bandera Cemetery.

PUBLIC NOTICE
All developers and subdividers planning projects in Bandera County are urged to obtain and follow the regulations governing subdivisions in Bandera county. Failure to follow these established regulations will almost certainly result in costly delays. Some of the most critical items are:
1. Written request to proceed accompanied by a statement from Bandera Electric Cooperative that electricity will be furnished.
2. Utility easements indicated by survey.
3. Road dedication indicated by survey.
4. Construction and maintenance bonds on roads.
5. All lots or tracts adequate in size.
6. Plats to be drawn to a scale of 200 feet to the inch, on 18" by 24" sheets. A key map shows the entire area to be drawn on U.S. G.S. maps which are available in the County Judge's office.
7. Compliance with Bandera County Regulations covering sanitary facilities and water wells.
These directives, most of which have been in force since 1972, by order of the Bandera County Commissioners' Court, are available for any developer at the office of Permits and Inspections, County Courthouse. I urge all concerned to obtain this document and follow it closely during the course of your planning and development schedule.

CURES TEEN DEAFNESS!!

SYMPTOMS OF TEEN DEAFNESS...
1. You call from work and tell him to put the roast in the oven. You get home 2 hours later expecting to smell the delicious odor of baking beef only to find the roast still in the fridge.
2. You ask, "Did you hear me?" and she answers vaguely, "Uh huh."
3. You stand in an obviously empty room and whisper, "Anyone interested in running into town for pizzas?" and get trampled on your way out to the car.

Parents, these variations in hearing ability are the most obvious symptoms to the insidious disease of TEEN DEAFNESS! Immediate medical attention is called for in order to prevent your own decline in mental health.

Until now, you suffered in silence. There was no cure. But now AUDIO/AUDIO is proud to announce a CURE FOR TEEN DEAFNESS!

A simple surgical procedure attaches the AUDIO/AUDIO HORN to your teen's head. The attachment is permanent for seven years at which time the sutures dissolve and allow for easy removal of the hearing amplification device. DON'T SUFFER NEEDLESSLY! Ask you doctor about the AUDIO/AUDIO HORN.

THE AUDIO/AUDIO HORN IS AVAILABLE IN ALL THE HOTTEST COLORS. YOUR TEEN WILL BE PROUD TO BE SEEN ANYWHERE!

Billy and Jody Proctor

Proctor and family entertain at Kelley's

Billy Proctor and various members of his family have become familiar entertainers at Kelley's Shamrock Tavern at Pipe Creek, but he thinks his 16-year-old son Jody is more serious about music than his older children.

Jody plays the keyboard and guitar with his dad as they turn out a variety of tunes, including country and western, rock, blues and music from the 1950s and 60s.

Proctor has been touring the Southwest for the past 12 years, performing sometimes alone but most of the time with one or more of his family seven.

Only four children travel with Billy and his wife, Glenda, who have taught all six of their children through the same correspondence course used by the Osmond family.

Besides Jody, the Proctor children include Joni, 15, and 13-year-old twins Joli and Joey.

Jody is the only one who performs with dad now, but wife Glenda works the crowd while her husband and son perform.

"We get to know the crowd that [illegible] what they want to hear."

They'll be performing for the seventh year in a row at Kelleys beginning Thursday. "I try to come whenever my schedule allows," Proctor says.

While his oldest children didn't follow him into the music business, Proctor says they may be an exception as a performer and writer. He's published his music and the family is in the process of sending it around to various markets.

"It's a hard business, because [illegible] lot of competition," Proctor acknowledges. "But I think he'll make it. He's got a lot of drive and determination, and he's a natural showman.

Dad says young Jody is animated. "He doesn't just sand there on the stage, he gets their attention," Proctor says.

The family travels all year long in a 33-foot mobile home.

14th annual Wildflower 100 Bicycle Tours set May 2

The 14th annual Baptist Memorial Hospital System Wildflower 100 Bicycle Tours will wind their way through the Texas Hill Country on Saturday, May 2, with a staggered mass start beginning at 8 a.m. at Rolling Oaks Mall in San Antonio.

This year, a new 35-mile tour route will be added to the 100-mile (century), 62.5-mile, 50-mile, 25-mile and 10-mile tour routes that wind their way through the Hill Country. Each tour will be clearly marked, with sag support and energy-boosting refreshments along the routes. Preregistration is $16 per person or $40 for a family of four.

Cyclists will receive a souvenir T-shirt and water bottle with their registration information. Awards will be given to the youngest and oldest finishers of all tours, and to the first and last cyclists who finish all but the 10-mile tour. Cyclists also will be eligible to win attendance prizes during the registration packet pick-up dinner on Friday, May 1 at Wyatt's Cafeteria in Rolling Oaks Mall and the day of the event.

This year, proceeds will benefit the Nursing Scholarship Fund of the hospital system's School of Professional Nursing. For more information about the event or to request a registration brochure, contact: Sharon Speer at (512) 222-8431, ext. 3327.

Drug conference set

"Together We Can Make A World of Difference," will be the theme of the world's largest drug abuse conference, the 15th annual PRIDE World Drug Conference April 30-May 2 at the George R. Brown Convention Center.

Local woman interviews prospective host families

Bonnie McKinney of Bandera, Local Coordinator for the Academic Year in America program of the AIFS Scholarship Foundation, has begun interviewing area families who would be interested in hosting an international student on the AYA program during the 1992/93 school year.

Mckinney has the applications of several boys and girls who would like to live in this part of Texas next year. AYA students are between the ages of 15 and 18, have solid academic records, at least three years of English and the maturity and flexibility required for a year abroad. A family can select a student from Germany, France, Brazil, or any one of 30 other countries around the globe. AYA students have their own spending money for personal expenses and full medical insurance. The host families are asked to treat them just like their own son or daughter.

Students arrive next August to begin the school year with their American classmates. They attend the local public high school, carry a full course load and join clubs, sports and other activities. The cross cultural learning is returned two ways. A student comes to understand how Americans really live, work and think. The host family discovers how holidays are celebrated in the student's homeland, learns a few phrases of his language and experiences a new way of looking at things they have long taken for granted. Families that decide to host are now invited to choose the student they would like to welcome. Lettera can be exchanged immediately and the friendship begins.

Interested families should call Bonnie McKinney at 512 796-3585, or call 1-800-322-4678.

Kittie and Hugeley Fergusson were recognized last month when the Bandera County Junior Livestock Show Association dedicated its show barn in their name "for all the support they've given over the years and their help with building the barn," said association president Speedy Hutcheson. The Fergusons dedicated the barn back to the community. "Without the support of people like the Fergusons we couldn't do something like this," said Hutcheson. He said the association plans to add a wing to the barn that will include restrooms and concession stands. Construction onn the 30-feet by 200-feet building expected to cost up to $30,000 is scedule to begin this spring.

SOMETHING WILD

– Starting A Wildflower Garden Is Easy –

Bright yellow lance-leaved coreopsis and black-eyed susans, as well as white oxeye daisies and purple rocket larkspurs are popping up in beds and meadows everywhere – in backyards, along sidewalks and driveways, and even as decorative trim along the front of houses [illegible] home landscapes across the country.

[illegible] the key to growing wildflowers successfully is to understand the conditions they require in [illegible] soil type, average rainfall, temperature range, shade and sunlight are all important factors. Consequently, the wildflowers best suited to your property are the same that would grow naturally under your property's environmental conditions.

Most wildflower seeds come prepackaged in mixtures. These mixtures usually contain blends of annuals, perennials, biennials and a "nurse" grass seed, such as a hard or tall fescue. The nurse grass will germinate quickly, thus preventing weed growth while the wildflowers grow and become established.

Pinto Wildflower mixtures by Lofts Seed are designed to grow in different North American temperature zones: Canadian, northern U.S., southern U.S., southwestern U.S., tropical and Texarkana. Homeowners can also choose semi-shade tolerant mixtures for shady areas, and all annual and all perennial flowers. Each mix should contain several species to ensure good growing results.

Selecting the right mixture to meet your specific needs depends on several factors besides geographical area, soil type and color. These important factors are:

Germination. If there's no rainfall after seeding, a thorough watering will promote germination and early establishment. Established wildflower plants will survive dry periods without water, but won't flower as often.

Bloom and Height. Some annual species will bloom six to eight weeks after planting. Other flower species require various degrees of maturity before they can flower. Depending on the environment, the flowering plant's height will range from two to three and one-half feet.

Flowering Expectations. Perennial wildflowers will persist the first year and bloom the next, while annuals will grow and flower the first year, produce seed, then germinate and bloom the following year. The first season is always the showiest for annuals. To preserve the original balance of the mixture, reseed every two years. Otherwise, native species will dominate over the years.

Once you've decided which wildflowers to plant and where to put them, it's time to sow the seeds. First, remove all weeds from the planting site. Thoroughly rake the soil to loosen it, then rake again lightly to form grooves. Loose, exposed soil is a must because good soil-to-seed contact is essential for successful seed germination.

In the south, Pinto wildflower seeds can be planted in early spring or mid- to late autumn; northern climates require an early or mid-fall seeding. Spread seed by hand or use a drop or cyclone spreader. Typical seeding rates for small areas are one ounce for 250 square feet or one pound to cover 4,000 square feet. As a rule, most wildflower seeds can be spread at the rate of four to six pounds per acre.

Double the recommended seeding rate for sloped areas.

THE HILLS ARE ALIVE WITH WILDFLOWERS – And your garden can be, too. Wildflowers are a natural addition to any home landscape and many now come prepackaged in mixtures, such as Pinto Wildflowers by Lofts.

[illegible] play scheduled [illegible] this week

[illegible] will compete with their one-act play; [illegible] trict one-act-play competition Saturday, April 4 at Bandera High School.

[illegible] performances of the play for the general public will also be held April 2 at the high school. There will be a salad supper put on by the parents of cast and crew members. Tickets for supper and play are $3.

Area competition will also be held in Bandera, on Saturday, April 11. Regional competition will be held April 24 in Kingsville, and state competition is May 8 in Austin.

The play was cast before Christmas, and the students have been practicing each morning before school.

Speed, strength and perseverance paid off for Medina FFA-er Tiffany Baker recently during the calf scramble at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Tiffany was one of 28 determined contestants who was challenged to halter and maneuver one of 14 unruly calves across the Astrodome floor into the winner's square. Tiffany won a $1,000 calf purchase certificate, and will be required to maintain monthly progress records, monetary records and a scrapbook detailing the project which will culminate in 1993 when the heifer will be returned to the Houston show for a special showring composition. Working along with Tiffany will be agricultural science teacher Doug Townsend, who will supervise all work with the animal.

2.3-pounder wins Medina Lake Bass Club's opener

Twenty-six fishermen of both sexes took to Medina Lake Saturday in the driving rain of to fish in the first tournament of the newly-formed Medina Lake Bass Club.

It wasn't a sparkling day for big bass, however, as only three fish were big enough to be weighed.

Participants caught from 10 to 15 base, but all but three, were short of the 14-inch legal limit for black bass.

Mark Schachle of San Antonio caught the "big" bass of the day at 2.3 pounds and brought in a second bass weighing 1.6 pounds, giving him the high total of the day at 3.9 pounds.

Schachle said he caught his bass on a motor oil-colored, four-inch "Power worm," a plastic worm that gives off a scent. "I don't use much of anything else," said Schachle.

Randy Burgos of San Antonio brought in a bass that weighed 1.1 pounds.

Schachle won over $175 for his efforts, $117 in first-prize money, $46 from the big bass pot and half of the $47 third-place money (since only two fishermen weighed in).

Burges received a $117 for second place.

"Considering the weather, it was a good tournament," said tournament director Jim Hess of Mico. "It was nasty out there (in the morning). I thought it would never stop raining."

The club's next tournament will be Saturday, April 25, with a start time of 7 a.m. and a weigh-in of 3 p.m.

Club tournaments are open to anyone. Tournament fee is $10 and a $2 "Big Bass" pot is optional.

Bobcats pound Junction, 10-3

Medina's baseball Bobcats scored three runs in each the first, third and fifth inning to build up a 9-0 advantage and then coasted to a 10-3 victory at Junction Tuesday, March 24.

Scott Faglie started on the mound hurling to catcher Sean Faglie, and the brothers switched positions in the fifth. Sean pitching and Scott catching. Between them they struck out 16 batters in seven innings.

Scott also hit a pair of home-runs and drove in four. Ritchie Mims stroked a two-run homer in the third frame.

Medina netters win four in contest with Bandera

Medina's tennis court Bobcats took four of seven matches [illegible] March 26, in what was almost [illegible] dera County schools.

Medina boys won two of three matches and the girls split four matches.

Bobcat Luis Concalvas defeated Bandera's Matt Sandidge, 6-2 and 6-2, and Bulldog J.R. Forsythe was pushed to three sets before defeating Medina's Randy Rose, 6-3, 5-6, 6-5.

Bobcats Scott Williams and Nathan Vanatter defeated Wes Upton and Lee Jenkins in [illegible] and 6-3.

Mandy Crauthers of Medina beat Shannon Godfry, 6-3, 6-4, but Bandera beat Jennifer Moreau, 6-4, 6-4, but Bandera beat Medina in two girls doubles matches.

Becky White and Marika Cook defeated Jennifer Hardman and Dusty Reed, 6-3, 6-2, and Kelley Bruney and Liesel Schantz defeated Missy Phipps and Andi Bristlee, 6-2 and 6-2.

Bonzal Billy breaks away for Brown at Bandera

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

David Brown rode 5-1 Bonzal Billy to an easy win Sunday in the $4,750 Bluebonnet Handicap at Bandera Downs beating out the 3-5 favorite Flying Uncle in the 5 1/2-furlong contest.

Brown brought the 3-year-old Bonzal Billy alongside the leader, Flying Uncle, in the back stretch and the two ran neck and neck through the turn.

Despite having just broken his maiden and despite competing against older horses, Bonzal Billy had the strength to pass Flying Uncle and win his second race for trainer Roy Marcom by 1 3/4 lengths.

Marcom said he is considering nominating the horse to the Texas Derby and Bandera director of racing Dean McKinney said the horse just might have a chance to make the field.

But for Brown, the day was a mixed bag.

Less than two hours earlier, Brown was laying on the race track surface with bruised ribs after falling head over heels off his mount in the eighth race.

Brown was riding Alphaverde near the rail in the 5 1/2-furlong thoroughbred claiming eighth race, when Beach Pilot, ridden by Doug Gilbert, crowded Alphaverde as they went into the turn. "The no. 2 horse (Beach Pilot) was coming into my lane. I looked for a way out so the no. 3 horse (Coalmine racing inside Alphaverde at the rail) and my horse wouldn't get into trouble," said Brown. He was concerned about the horse colliding. An unusual happening, but the horses were very tightly bunched going around the turn, the most dangerous part of the longer races.

The horse slowed in the turn and Brown looked to his left and right for an opening, but there was none. "I clipped heels with the no. 2 horse (Beach Pilot), my horse fell and I fell. I felt a horse jump over me."

It was Bold Resure, ridden by Tammy McHargue, that barely missed Brown.

Beach Pilot, which won the race, was disqualified in a rare double-disqualification ruling by stewards for interfering with Alphaverde.

In all instances, it happened a fraction of a second later, So Be It, ridden by Marvin Curtis, interfered with Our Native Land, ridden by Ricky Walker, in the same turn and in much the same way, but without the dire consequences. For his trouble, So Be It was also disqualified.

In Saturday's racing action, apprentice jockey Tammy McHargue won the featured mixed-breed allowance Saturday at Bandera Downs aboard Chill Con Queso, one of two thoroughbreds in quarter horse/thoroughbred races, a normally dominated by quarter horses.

The 14-1 long shot Chill Con Queso raced lead (of 10 horses going into the turn of the 870-yard contest. In such as short race, where speed is everything, surely McHargue and Chill Con Queso were beat.

But there was an opening at the rail and McHargue slipped the 7-year-old gelding in at the rail and let him fly.

Local sheep herd goes on rampage

A herd of vicious sheep went on a killing spree this week and left several dogs dead and an [illegible] scarred for life.

"My dog was just minding his own business, and had just wandered into my neighbor's pasture to have a little time to himself," said Flora Carbon. [illegible] wasn't hurting anyone, and those evil sheep attacked him.

"There weren't actually any physical wounds, but we had to have poor little Terminator put to sleep because of the emotional trauma."

Carbon, who witnessed the attack, said a gang of about five or six sheep would take turns running in front of the dog, apparently taunting him and calling him "the wool-less wonderhound." Terminator began to bark for help, and several other dogs from the neighborhood rushed to his rescue. But alas, many of them met with a similar fate.

"Fluffy," a miniature poodle was temporarily accepted into the sheep's number until one of them realized that she was actually a dog and not a small lamb that had been punk-sheared. When the sheep discovered the hoax, they surrounded Fluffy and called her "bitch" until she passed out cold. Her owner, Lema Lesson, later snuck into poodle's lifeless body.

After several days of hospitalization, Fluffy is now home, and vows she will never be able to look at a wool sweater again without whining.

What, me worry?

The King was in Bandera! He was photographed by Bandera Bulletin staff writer James H. Frasar in the winners circle at Bandera Downs recently. Elvis said that he had been spending most of his time in his powerboat on Medina Lake since the lake level has come up. The King's appearance at Bandera Downs squashed the rumors that he had assumed another identity and had been running a restaurant in downtown Pipe Creek.

"Women belong in the kitchen," says local philosopher. Women agree. Town closes.

"What's wrong with the world today isn't a flood of better quality cars from Japan, or cheap labor in Mexico," said noted philosopher M. Shaw Vinist, in an address at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Pessimists International.

"What we need are for all the women to stay at home where they belong," Vinist continued. "Our kids today wouldn't be joining gangs if they had some one at home baking them fresh homemade

A number of professional business women in the audience soundly applauded Vinist and in an impromptu consciousness-raising session held at the close of the Pessimist meeting, voted to refuse to go to work at their jobs the following day.

As a result, a major business slow-down occurred in Bandera Tuesday. The two male bank staffers threw up their arms in despair at 10:30 AM when they realized they could not balance the accounts without female assistance. No real estate was sold in the county as female realtors and real estate agents did not answer their phones.

Angry, and still hungry, patrons stormed out of local eateries after endless waits for what could only generously be referred to as food harassed waiters, who complained, "The tips are absolutely lousy today! Our dishwasher doesn't cook too good."

At the county courthouse, most offices were closed for lack of staff, although the Commissioners' Court did meet, briefly until they realized their didn't know how to keep the minutes. Sheriff's deputies had to public service each other all day because there were no dispatchers on duty.

Male administrators found themselves to be the only staffers present at local schools. "We would have closed the doors, but no children showed up anyway, " said principal, I. Wunswazacoach. "All of our bus drivers are women."

Local grocery merchants were delighted with an unexpected windfall, however. "We couldn't keep enough said canned goods manager, Will Stockem.

The editor and advertising sales manager of the Bulletin decided to call a state of emergency when they found themselves hand-lettering the newpaper. But when they called the governor's office, she was out, too!

Murphy's statement on the power of negative thinking: It is impossible for an optimist to be pleasantly surprised.
