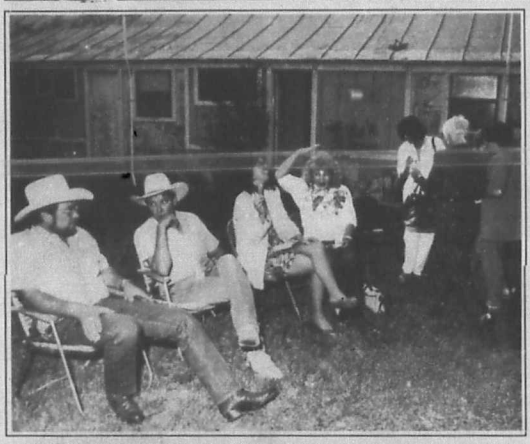
Lakehills will be swarming with these little critters Saturday, Sept. 26 at the 12th annual Medina Lake Cajun Festival. Please see the Bulletin's special section in today's paper for lots more about the event.



Conversations were animated during a mixer at the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce offices Tuesday, Sept. 15. More than 75 folks showed up to enjoy refreshments and to make new friends.

Commissioners set county tax rate at Monday meeting

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County Commissioners set the county tax rate at 38.77 cents per $100 property valuation Monday night in a 3-1 vote.

County Commissioner Dan Alanis of Lakehills stressed that the 1992-93 proposed county budget (to be approved Monday, Sept. 28) is $300,000 less than the current 1991-92 budget.

County Commissioner Roger Raser said he could not vote against a tax increase because he knew that would reduce county services to a point where county citizens would complain.

County commissioner Bennie Barker, intent on keeping a campaign promise of never voting to raise taxes, was the only commissioner to vote against the tax increase, though he did not offer any specific ways to cut the budget so last year's 36.02 cents tax rate could be used.

Approximately 19 people attend the tax rate meeting and public hearing on the budget Monday night at the courthouse.

Contractor Steve Montgomery of Pipe Creek was one of the few citizens not directly connected with county government to attend and speak up.

He encouraged County Judge Ray F. Mauer and the other commissioners to cut the budget rather than hike taxes. In statement after statement he asked them to look at each line of the budget and find amounts to cut.

The commissioners and judge told him time and time again that they had.

After a long exchange of non-specific recommendations, the commissioners pushed him for something specific.

"I don't think our sheriff's department is being run efficiently. The (sheriff's) budget needs to be scrutinized. Someone else needs to look at the sheriff's budget," said Montgomery. "The sheriff's budget is a joke in the cafes — the

Five full simulcasting days coming to Bandera Downs

If you wanted at least 20 races to bet each day on the weekend and 10 races to bet on Wednesday and Thursday, you'll have your chance at Bandera Downs starting Wednesday, Sept. 30.

That's when simulcasting resumes from Trinity Meadows to Bandera and Manor Downs near Austin.

On Wednesday and Thursdays starting next week Bandera will televise 10 races from Trinity Meadows with a 2 p.m. post time.

On Fridays Bandera will host 10 live races and 10 simulcast races. Bandera's live races will begin at 1 p.m. and will televise the first simulcast race from Trinity at 2 p.m. — after Bandera's third race.

Live and simulcast races will run alternatively about every 15 minutes with three simulcast races being televised after Bandera's live races.

"The pace will pick up at Bandera Downs if you are trying to bet both Bandera and Trinity races," said general manager Billy Bowers. "If you're betting just the live races, you'll have ample time to bet them, as you do now."

On Saturdays and Sundays, the first race at Bandera will be a simulcast from Trinity. (Their post time is 1 p.m.) Bandera's first live race will start at 1:15 p.m. The simulcast and live races will continue to alternate throughout the day.

Trinity has 10 races on Saturdays and Sundays and Bandera has been running 11 live races and one out-of-state simulcast race.

Some Trinity races will be omitted on the weekend if Bandera decides to take an out-of-state race of "national and historic" importance and Trinity does not. The out-of-state race would replace a Trinity race.

There will be two programs — one for Bandera ($2) and one for Trinity ($1) to avoid confusion. Bowers said the separate programs should eliminate any problems with people confused by betting both tracks. The racing form will continue to carry both

Robbery-in-progress foiled by local law enforcement

A robbery in progress was interrupted Thurs., Sept. 17 when renters showed up at the Polly Peak Storage facility. The alleged burglar showed a weapon, then fled with stolen property in a pick up truck.

The suspect is described as a black male approximately 5' 8" to 5' 10" and between the age of 35 to 45. He is said to have a light complexion, wavy hair and jagged teeth.

The man was pursued down Highway 16 towards Pipe Creek. He turned off on FM 1283 and was chased by Constable Ernest Reich. Reich tailed the suspect to the Park Road 37 and Highway 16 junction. The suspect ran a road block set up by the Bandera Sheriff's Department, crashed his vehicle, and fled on foot.

An air search of the area was made. A canine unit was brought in and used. Both failed to apprehend the suspect. Patrol Sergeant Keith Mansfield said an arrest is expected as soon as the man is identified. He said fingerprints were taken from the stolen property.

Any day now 'killer' bees could arrive in Bandera

Africanized insects aren't here yet, but just wait...

No Africanized Honey Bees have been spotted in Bandera County, but with the fall bee-swarming season is underway and it could be anytime.

Especially with the so-called killer bees sighted in Medina, Bexar and just recently Kerr Counties.

Medina County was quarantined without Africanized bees being sighted there when the overly-aggressive bees were found in Uvalde County. With the troublesome bees now confirmed in Medina, and Kerr and Bexar Counties quarantined, Bandera County could easily be next.

"I'm surprised we haven't been quarantined yet. When they found them in Kerr County, it thought they would quarantine us, too," said Bandera County agriculture extension agent Warren Thigpen. "When they found them in Kerr County, I thought they would quarantine us, too. We may or may not be quarantined (before the bees are found here)."

Thigpen said bees in Bandera County are starting to swarm with the cooler weather. He said he sent off a sample of suspect bees Sept. 17 and should hear this week about the condition.

He said when bees swarm, they are at their most docile state, so it is difficult to tell whether bees might be domestic honey bees or the Africanized variety just based on their aggressiveness when disturbed.

'Dogs will face West Campus in District opener Friday night

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The Bandera varsity Bulldogs start district play Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in San Antonio against the West Campus in their first district game in the eight-team District 26-AAA.

They'll take on the West Campus Cougars at South San Stadium off Palo Alto in San Antonio and the Bulldogs will have their work cut out for them.

The West Campus Cougars are 3-0 and have beaten Kenedy, Southside and Memorial — all 4A schools — in pre-district play. But 4A teams that are considered weaker 4A schools.

West Campus is new to 3A, having played in the same district with Alamo Heights, Kerrville Tivy and Boerne. West Campus was 7-3 last year. In district play, West Campus was third, with Alamo Heights first and Boerne second.

While West Campus sounds tougher than Marble Falls and Dripping Springs, they do have a weakness — youth. The Cougars were a senior ball club last year and many good players have been lost to graduation. With their six weeks just over, some players have been lost to grades.

Bandera head coach Chris Storer says their youth should work in the Bulldog's favor. "They're playing a lot of real young kids. They are good-sized, but not very fast with their big kids."

West Campus has a good quarterback (Adrian Bejar), running back (Richard Flores) and receiver Neal Vickers. "They throw quite a lot."

"Their kicking game is not as good as we've seen."

Another advantage Bandera will have is toughest of the schedule. "They've have not played as tough pre-district games as we have. We are

Basketball court will be topic of youth center meeting Tuesday

"Anybody interested" is welcome to attend a meeting Tuesday, Sept. 29 of Bandera County Youth Center, Inc., according to group president James MacMillan.

The meeting will be held at Mansfield Park at noon, and participants are invited to "bring a brown bag lunch." Iced tea and lemonade will be provided.

"We've gotten some generous donations," MacMillan said, "and we're going to build a basketball court."

MacMillan said the youth center was originally proposed by members of the Bandera County Christian Fellowship. Tuesday's meeting, he said, is for anyone who is interested in helping or participating in the group.

letters to the editor

Part of the furniture?

Dear editor:

I've been to several school board meetings in the past years and some have been pretty wild. But the meeting which took place last Tuesday was unbelievable. About a dozen people showed up - all apparently concerned about the 32% hike in the tax rate. There were several people from B.A.C.T., about six senior citizens and a few others. The meeting was called to order at 7:00. The chairman mumbled a little, the board members raised their hands (to vote on the tax rate I guess), he mumbled again and they filed out of the room to discuss other matters in executive session. At 7:04 the room was empty. The board never acknowledged that there were people in the room other than themselves. We were never addressed. It was as if we were part of the furniture. The B.A.C.T. people? They're tough - they'll be okay. Me? I was humiliated but I'll survive. But the senior citizens, some of whom made considerable effort to be there due to physical limitations, absolutely did not deserve the rudeness and arrogance with which they were treated. The school board is elected by the public to serve the public. The notice in the paper regarding the meeting said "public meeting." Frankly, when the taxes are raised nearly ONE THIRD, if the board had to listen to the whole dozen people, they'd be getting off pretty light.

Maybe the board was within its legal rights to shut the public out of that meeting - maybe it wasn't. No matter what, the bad manners were inexcusable.

Geri Valdez
Pipe Creek

P.S.: Bub Keese, school board member, called the next day to apologize and I sincerely appreciate that.

"City should feel proud"

Dear Editor,

The Bandera City Council should feel real proud of themselves. They have probably patted each other's backs.

Now is the time for a great deal of studied and farsighted planning for our city of Bandera, a prosperous and thriving little town.

Instead, the City Council- by misrepresentation and lack of public knowledge- have managed to abolish the Planning and Zoning Commission.

This action leaves open and clears the way for the council to do in the future as they have done in the past- just as they please.

The senior center is great

Dear Editor,

As many of you may be aware, I have resigned as Bandera County Coordinator, Services to the Aging person.

During the three and a half years I have served the community, I have seen many of the old programs improved, many new programs implemented, and others on the drawing board. All this progress could not have been possible without the support of the senior citizens of the county, the volunteers, the local and county government, and the local merchants.

It has been very rewarding to see the self esteem grow, the quality of life improve and the willingness to share among the senior citizens of Bandera County. I want to encourage everyone to continue to utilize the facilities of the center, to continue to perform volunteer work, and to keep your center the very best in the state.

In a final tip of my sombrero, I want to thank everyone for their support of the senior citizens. Keep in mind that Aging Is Everyone's Future.

Manuel Flores

No tax increase, he says

Dear editor:

In your paper last week, one of your writers (James Frazer) wrote regarding the status of our county budgets and a proposed 8% property tax increase. James went on to speculate that the vote on the increase and I quote, "the vote on the increase will probably be 3-1, however, with Barker having hinted that he'll make his usual tilting-at-windmill stand that nothing but get the other commissioners mad at him for going along with the tax increase and then voting against it."

That does not make much sense, as a commissioner, it is my responsibility to consider everything, weigh the merits and then vote to represent the best interests of our citizens. I have never voted for a property tax increase and I never will as long as there are other viable alternatives to property tax increases.

Here are two real good ones: 1. Reduce services and spending if it will prevent another property tax increase. This annual 8% increase that is protected from rollback is getting very expensive. 2. Use a sales tax instead. Our schools, roads and bridges, Sheriff's Department, Emergency Medical services and other county services are paid for by property owners alone. A sales tax would make everyone who uses them pay a fair share.

I know that Commissioner's Court meetings are often lengthy and boring, but if there is any confusion, James, just read my lips. I will not vote for a property tax increase until the voters tell me they want one, and I have a hunch I will be sleeping eternally before that happens.

Bennie Barker

She doesn't like "PP"

Dear editor:

I heard recently that Planned Parenthood will be opening a Bandera office. Planned Parenthood is the world's oldest, largest and best organized provider of abortion and birth control services. They have a $299,000,000 budget, one-third of which is taxpayer money. PP is committed to undermining the moral values of teens through its literature. It teaches kids to masturbate, endorses premarital sex, approves of homosexuality, encourages sexual experimentation. PP believes teaching children to say "no" to sex creates "moral conflicts" in children. PP vilifies Christian values, prohibitions and consciences.

Through the years PP has proposed that our government implement such things as compulsory abortion for out-of-wedlock pregnancies, federal entitlement payments to encourage abortion, and tax penalties for existing large families. PP has always sought mandatory population control measures. China has taken PP's suggestions to heart, launching a one-child-per-couple policy. Nearly 100,000,000, mandatory sterilizations and coercive infanticides later, PP continues to maintain that China's approach to population control is a "model of efficiency."

PP was founded in 1942 by Margaret Sanger. In her book, "Women and the New Race," she wrote that "the most merciful thing a large family can do to one of its infant members is to kill it." She advocated eliminating the "masses of degenerate" and "good-for-nothing" races. She was unquestionably a racist and sought to obliterate the "shiftless, ignorant, and worthless class" for the greater good of White Civilization. PP refuses to denounce Margaret Sanger who died in 1966, and they continue to promote her Eugenic philosophies.

On Sunday, Oct. 4, thousands of Texans all across the state will be uniting on highways everywhere to participate in "Life Chains" to show their support for the unborn. We will have a life chain here in Bandera. Participants will stand side-by-side for one hour holding signs that say "Abortion Kills Children." If you would like to join us, you may call Michelle Rosenbaum at 796-3364 or Dixie Cohn at 589-2874.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Railroad Commissioner Lena Guerrero – only weeks ago a shining star at the Democratic Convention – now finds herself at the crossroads of her political career.

Guerrero, accused of lying repeatedly about being a university honors graduate, endured an excruciating barrassing and relentless public exposure of her college career last week.

After a series of press confrontations, she put her college transcript on the table and her political life on the line.

Apologizing for errors, she said she never lied; her GOP opponent, Barry Williamson, called her a "fraud", and others demanded her resignation.

The case against her was a 12-year paper trail of her political biographies and resumes in which she claimed to be a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Texas.

According to her transcript, she lacked far too many hours to graduate and had a C average with four failures.

Media Feeding Frenzy

The week began with a media challenge of Guerrero's resume claims; her responses were quickly shown as flimsy, and only served to start a feeding frenzy that by mid-week left her credibility in a shambles.

By the end of the week, news stories were quoting tapes of her commencement speeches, including one when she told Southwest Texas State University students she remembered her own college – not high school – graduation ceremonies.

Her credibility lay in shambles, and her slim lead in the polls was considered in jeopardy, if not washed out.

Richards' Protege

Guerrero's excuse was that she left college, got that first job and "never looked back"; indeed, her career has been so exciting that few would want to.

A onetime national leader of Young Democrats, she rode party connections and the Texas feminist movement to the Texas House of Representatives in 1985.

There, as a freshman lawmaker, she sponsored a critical school finance tax bill and was, as agreed by all, a rising star in the Legislature. Ironically, she unsuccessfully sponsored a bill insuring privacy of college transcripts.

In the 1990 governor's race, Guerrero was a top general for her close friend, Ann Richards; Richards' first plum was given to Guerrero, a vacant Railroad Commission seat.

She is regarded as Richards' protege, as evidenced by the governor's personal help with the slim lead she held over GOP challenger Barry Williamson until last week.

Lies or Bad Memory?

How much her lead was damaged by last week's fragging, and whether she recovers by Nov. 3, depends on her ability to convince voters she is guilty of a bad memory, not lies.

The perception is there because her answers were shot down, one by one, much as if reporters were sawing off her long-grown wooden nose a piece at a time.

The paper trail is full of inconsistencies; she claimed to hold B.S and B.J. degrees with various majors in media fields and political science, and to be a Phi Beta Kappa honors graduate.

The inquiry grew relentless: she was even ripped for claiming falsely to have been a migrant field laborer.

Ironies, Certainly

What is a balanced view of Lena Guerrero? Detractors claim she deliberately distorted her image throughout her career to win votes, and friends say Lena is a hard-working public servant and a genuinely nice person.

Gov. Richards stands by her.

The ironies in this political drama are many:

- She is perceived as, nay she is, an Hispanic heroine, yet her transcript shows she failed a course on Mexican-AmericaÑs in the Southwest.
- She failed two courses on the Texas Legislature and government issues and policies, yet she became a Texas state representative and a governor's right hand.
- She failed Introduction to Image and Sound twice, but fresh out of college (with no degree) she founded Bravo Communications which brokered Spanish-language broadcast ads – and effectively helped elect several Hispanics in Texas.

Other Highlights

- Texas was in the middle of a U.S. Education Department list ranking the states' high school dropout rates. Texas has a 12.5 percent dropout rate and no cities listed in the 10 worst or best.
- Texas Health Department soon will distribute free tab/ets of folic acid donated by pharmaceutical companies to low-income women in Cameron and Hidalgo counties in hopes that the B vitamin will reduce the incidence of rare brain and spinal birth defects.
- Texas ranked 26th on a state-by-state ranking of the healthiest states, based on 17 indicators such as infant mortality, health care and crime rates.

Bandera Nursing Home subject of investigation

State Health Department officials were in Bandera this week investigating the operation and the care given at the Bandera Nursing Home. This disclosure came from Austin information officer, Jeanoyce Wilson.

Wilson said that the results of the investigation will not be released until the investigation is final. She acknowledged that complaints had been filed and were under investigation. She also said a news release would be prepared as soon as possible.

Allen Brunson, the administrator at the facility for the past two years, said he had "no comment" on the investigation or the results. Brunson at first said that he was unaware of the investigation in progress. When he realized he was being quoted, Brunson changed his statement to "no comment."

There's still ample time to register to vote- but hurry!

There is still plenty of time to register to vote in the November Presidential Election if you have not already done so.

Voters can register at the Bandera County Tax Office in the courthouse. According to assessor-collector, Marguerite Stevens, the potential voter must be a resident of Bandera County, at least 18 years of age and cannot be a convicted felon. "There is no maximum time of residence required," says Stevens. "If you've been a resident for one day, you can register to vote in Bandera County."

Registration must take place at least 30 days prior to an election. It is a painless process of filling out an information card and the whole thing takes only a few minutes.

Carol Wedgworth of the County Clerk's Office said Sept. 4 was the first day to apply for a ballot by mail and Oct. 27 is the last day to get a ballot by mail application turned in. The clerk's office could begin mailing out ballots for which applications have been received on Sept. 19. Voters who cannot travel to the polling places may find it convenient to apply for a ballot by mail from the clerk's office.

Oct. 4 is the last day to register to vote in the November election.

Early voting in person (formerly referred to as "Absentee Voting") begins in the courthouse on Oct. 14 and ends Oct. 30. Early voting is a convenience provided for voters who cannot make it to their regular precinct polling place on election day.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A lot is out of your control this week. Don't worry, though, because even if it doesn't look like it, partners do have matters well in hand. So when you finally DO get the explanations this weekend, you'll feel adored because of how it all went down.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Humor, my dear Bull, helps you deal with all the changes of the week. Your role as the stable, easygoing nurturer is definitely needed. A loved one falls in love with you all over again because of your superb control.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It'll be hard to put a halt to all the socializing you've been doing, but you need to concentrate on more serious matters. Expenses should be kept to a minimum, so watch your wallet. Use the weekend for some quiet reflection. You need to reassess your goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Most situations are rolling along exactly as you want, so enjoy your success. Be aware, though, by week's end, there may be a fly in the ointment. Take this in stride. Everything will work out well ultimately.

LEO (July 23-August 22) The beginning of the week finds you "paying for playing." However, by midweek, you're back in stride. Don't procrastinate with tasks at hand. They will only come back to haunt you.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Now that all is once again harmonious on the home front, it may be a good time for you to consider a weekend getaway together. In fact, the upcoming weekend seems perfect. Make plans now.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Since you've found how pleasant things can be when you're not being so stubborn, you'll be in a much more cooperative mood this week. Others pick up on this and flock to you, basking in your charisma. Enjoy the spotlight.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Since a meeting of the minds has occurred between you and your mate, spend some time just enjoying each other's company. Romance is highly favored this week, so take advantage of it. The weekend is good for having friends over.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) It's time to roll up your sleeves and get to work on those tasks you've been putting aside for a while. Once they're done, and the week is over, you will feel energized and productive. Spend the weekend with relatives.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) It's a good time for you to start thinking about physical fitness. Adopt an exercise regimen you know you can stick to, and get to it. This is no time to sit around as pounds may add up.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You often find yourself getting sidetracked by your socializing. However, you need to spend some time this week re-evaluating your goals. The important questions for you is, can you continue to be Peter Pan?

PISCES (February 19-March 20) All is right in your little kingdom, so feel free to relax and enjoy. In order to do this, you need to stop being so intense. Work will still be there when you decide to buckle down once again. Children require extra attention.

Sheriff's deputy Keith Mansfield, who has been working on the sheriff's budget with the commissioners on numerous occasions, should have been given a medal for the calm reply. "Let's not talk about how many times we've scrutinized this budget. The budget has been cut, re-cut and cut again."

Mansfield pointed out that increases in the sheriff's budget were due to items such as the addition of leasing vehicles to the budget and adding sheriff's department employees over-time. Mansfield said that previous vehicle purchases (1990) and over-time in previous years had been made from the cash seizure fund (the so-called "drug money").

Raser made the motion for the tax increase. "I would like not to see a tax rate increase myself," said Raser. "But we cannot provide services to county citizens without it."

Alanis second the motion.

Commissioner N.P. "Bud" Thompson voted for the increase.

Barker voted against.

After the vote, Mauer said, "You can put my name down as opposing it, too."(Mauer can only vote when the commissioners are tied.)

Alanis pointed out that the county tax rate is about the same now as it was in 1982. He said in previous years, the commissioners had reduced the tax rate when they didn't need as much revenue.

Alanis that the county's tax increase was small as compared with the school increase and citizens should complain to their legislators for the state to stop mandating things that cause local government to raise taxes. "All of us need to get on our legislators in this (upcoming) special session and change the school tax and get the burden off the property owners," said Alanis.

Alanis pointed out that the county's budget proposed of $3,360,114.35 was less than this year's $3,679,358.58.

Raser said the commissioners had reduced the budget by $578,000 from what was originally requested.

"I guarantee you that we looked at everything in the budget at least two or three times," said Mauer. "We're all against a tax increase, but we don't have any answer."

Both Mauer and County Treasurer Elizabeth James pointed out that some county salaries are so low that those county employees are eligible for food stamps.

Barker for the fourth year voted against a tax increase.

Barker informed the judge and the other commissioners at a tax rate increase hearing Sept. 17 that he would vote against the tax increase. Barker said the commissioners should cut the budget. "We should all go back to the drawing board."

As this meeting, Mauer said the commissioners should meet again in an emergency session to cut the budget so last year's tax rate could be adopted. "If you're going to oppose it so am I."

"We will have to cut $277,000 to get down to no tax increase. I don't know where we're going to cut without cutting salaries."

Alanis asked Barker to bring specific recommendations. "You should come in with a plan."

But when the commissioners arrived Friday and started working on the budget, they managed to cut, but also added. They ended up adding $3,000 to the budget when all was said and done. Barker offered no specific cuts Friday.

In a letter to the editor appearing on Page 2, Barker suggests two ways to avoid a tax increase: 1. Reduce services and spending if it will prevent another property tax increase. 2. Use a sales tax instead. ..."

A sales tax would have to go through the legislature, be voted on by the citizens and would take approximately two years before commissioners could start using the revenue from the sales tax.

Barker was asked after the meeting Monday to outline his specific budget cuts. He had none.

Comptroller's office to offer help Oct. 13 at county courthouse

"Government operates best when it's close to the people it serves. The public must also have accurate information about state taxes, and as Comptroller I want to make sure they receive it. To assist local businesses with their tax questions, I'm sending one of the Comptroller's tax experts to Bandera on Tuesday, Oct. 13," Comptroller John Sharp said today.

"If you are a business owner and you're not sure how to collect sales tax, you can talk one-on-one with someone who can help. Or if you are a consumer and need information on what items are tax-exempt, now is the time to ask," Sharp said.

Roy Perkins, from the Kerrville Field Office, will be available at the County Courthouse office in Bandera from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.

For additional information, contact the Kerrville Field Office at 512-896-3335. Those who cannot attend can still obtain tax assistance by calling the Comptroller at 1-800-252-5555.

Christian motorcycle group among those at Pipe Creek rally

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Everything one would not expect to find at a biker's rally was present at Pop's Place for the "Biker's Rights and Unity Rally": mothers, children, families, Christians, the American flag. Over 500 bikers from all over [illegible] the weekend rally, Sept. 18-20.

John Rehwaldt, Vice Pres. of the Christian Motorcyclists Assoc. said the purpose of the rally was to unite bikers and urge them to register and to vote. "Bikers are notoriously apathetical about voting and politics. We want to inform them. There is proposed insurance legislation which will drive the cost of insurance up and price them right off their bikes."

For lay evangelist Gary Manweiler from Seguin, and for members of the C.M.A. (Christian Motorcyclists Assoc.), the rally was more than just a political awareness [illegible] vices on Sunday. His wife, Ruth, led the singing. Manweiler attends some 35 rallies a year, and he uses them as a springboard for preaching, counseling, advising, helping to meet both the physical and spiritual needs of bikers.

Other members of C.M.A. used the rally to offer child care and non-alcoholic refreshment for bikers. The C.A.R.E. Camp (Christian Ambassadors for Rally Evangelism) served as a first aid station. Minor mechanical repairs were offered. Children were entertained with games, toys, puzzles, books and cartoons. [illegible] the group began operating at rallies this year "to give parents a break from their children. It lets them get out and ride their bikes. We give the children popcorn and pump them full of the gospel, gospel cartoons, puzzles, and coloring books."

Parish Hebert, from Converse, said the C.M.A. keeps children away from the nightly entertainment; dancing and drinking, and gives them a safe place to play. "It's become so popular in this first year of operation that we actually have clubs who are planning rallies call us to request our presence."

Willie Smith, Pres. of C.M.A., says that C.A.R.E. offers "a real basic service" and is appreciated because biker rallies have become so family oriented. Corpus Christi resident Bob Harris has his own reason for belonging to C.M.A. and attending rallies as a Christian. "My goal is to do what all believers are called to do. To shed light wherever there is darkness."

"Sputnik", named after the Russian satellite, organized the rally in an attempt to get bikers politically motivated and involved. "Motorcycle riders are pictured as a burden to the state of Texas. Even though the majority of crashes are the fault of car drivers, bike riders are picked out because we are a minority. The majority of the people have a concept of motorcycle riders as bad people. They're glad to let the bikers take the blame for accidents and make them carry the burden of separate insurance which would price riders right off their bike."

Sputnik is the State Chairman for the Texas Motorcycle Rights Association and is the only registered lobbyist for motorcycle rights in Texas. He created the organization on July 4. "Four is a sacred number to Indians. My grandmother was a full-blooded Cherokee. The individuality and independence of the Indian people put us into the position we are in now. We stood as separate tribes. The white men took us down, one tribe at a time. The same thing is happening to bikers.We have to unify and work together.

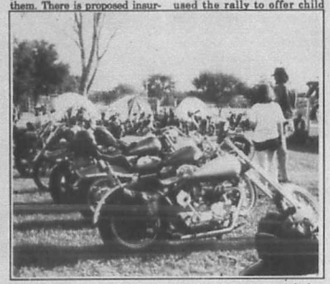
"I know some of us bikers look like I do. That's my privilege. I'm a veteran. I earned the right to look this way. You'll find more veterans in biker's clubs than any other organization. We're good enough to be sent over there to be shot at, but not good enough to be accepted back home."

Libertarian Candidate for U.S. Congress Dist. 21, Bill Grisham, said that the Pipe Creek rally was the first political awareness rally held. "Bikers pay to get into the rallies. The money goes for children's health care, the homeless, battered women, things like that."

Two differently motivated groups of bikers met at Pop's Place for the rally. The C.M.A. came to "spread light on the darkness" and "offer bikers the choice of Jesus Christ as Savior." They came to help and to serve.

Sputnik, Grisham, and others came to "wake up" bikers to the importance of their voices in government. They came to unite and to inform.

[illegible] changing image of bikers. Mothers and children and the American flag; families in tents with play pens and baby strollers outside; children playing together in the C.A.R.E. Camp. Uniting the different group was yet another American symbol. The Alamo Gypsys Motorcycle Club brought a homemade 100 gallon coffee pot. It gave bikers an incentive to "rally together" in the morning.



Rows of bikes punctuated the family statement made by bikers, lined up along tents, baby strollers and play pens.

Bill Grisham, left, "Sputnik", and Parish Hebert represented a blending of differently motivated bikers at the Sept. 18-20 "Biker's Rights and Unity Rally" at Pop's place.

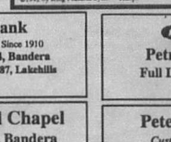
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Hold Out Your Hands

"Above all hold unfailing your love for one another, since love covers a multitude of sins. Practice hospitality ungrudgingly to one another."

— 1 Peter 4: 8-9



The custom of shaking hands when greeting someone is supposed to have originated when two strangers, wary of each other, extended that hand in which each would normally have held spear or sword as a symbol of peaceful intent. The practice of offering the hand of friendship spread until today it is a universally accepted greeting. It is easy to hold out one's hand, but Christian fellowship demands more on our part. Hold out your hands, definitely, but as Peter exhorted the faithful to whom he wrote, offer your hearts and your hospitality as well. That gesture gives true meaning to the symbolism of a hand clasp.

loway and Connie Young and their group of students report that their trip to Europe this summer was not only thrilling and entertaining, but it was also educational. They vow to return to Europe next summer.

Sue, Connie and a group of about 10 students and sponsors left May 31 for a trip that encompassed Amsterdam, Paris, Versailles, London and many points in between.

"We flew to Amsterdam first and toured alone," Sue Holloway explains. "We visited Rijksmuseum and saw Rembrandt's Night Watch. This painting is much lighter and larger than it appears in art books or slides.

"The Van Gogh Museum was impressive. I liked the canal trip we took and the flower market."

The Bandera group traveled to [illegible] they traveled to Versailles, Chartres, Chambord and Chenonceau. On June 7 they arrived in Mont St. Michel.

"We rode the Eurorail to Paris and met the rest of our tour group from a Catholic school in Kentucky," Sue continues. "Our tour guide was from London and all the girls fell in love with the handsome Alistaire.

"Chartres Cathedral was the most beautiful church I've ever seen. The stained glass windows are magnificent.

"We saw Winged Victory and the Mona Lisa at the Louvre.

"My main impression was how old everything is in Europe. The steps in the cathedrals are worn down by all the faithful who went to the churches. We climbed the endless steps to the top of Mont St. Michel."

From Normandy the group traveled to London, arriving there June 8. They took in the obligatory tourists sights including the Tower of London, Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, before returning to Texas June 10.

[illegible] London was exciting," Sue says. "I could hardly believe we saw so much in 11 days.

Gerald and Jean Witt joined Sue in London, and they "[illegible] sailed first class across England, hovercrafted across the English Channel, Eurorailed to the south of France," toured Italy, Switzerland and Germany. "I stayed another week in Germany after the tour ended.

"The Sistine Chapel is so beautiful that you can't believe it. It is perfect from every angle. I liked Italy the best."

Besides Sue and Connie, others who toured Europe in the group included Anna Comingore, Faye Comingore, Heather Willis, Jake Willis, Joey Kenyon, Claire Willis, Heather Gardner, Jarrod Harmier, Courtney Osgood and Diane Osgood.

Artists Sue Holloway and Connie Young have their works on display this month in the Frontier Times Museum, and Sue's tin ornaments are displayed at museums and shops in San Antonio, Comfort, Corpus Christi and Rockport.

This Bandera group reported that Paris was educational.

By Bungy

This is the story of the week: Will Hunnicut, one of our resident cowboys (knife maker and sharpener) was making a phone call right next to a public water faucet. As he was talking, water started spewing all over him and he looked up (to see if it was raining), and he looked around (in the meantime, getting sopping wet) and finally, he looked down where his spur had caught on the foot pedal of the water faucet and was "pressing it down" for on!

• Harvey of Harvey's Steak House has done a wonderful job of expansion. His new place is darling and the walls are unbelievable. Busbee better watch out if Harvey expands anymore! "First Main Street, den Bandera, den de woild!"

• At the Bandera Forge on Sunday afternoon, there were two fiddles, an upright bass, two guitars, a mandolin, a washboard and a long metal cannister that was played with a wire brush! While the music was going, "Hoot" started singing and someone's dog started barking and "Hoot" declared he didn't mind, if the dog would only bark in time!

• The Friday and Saturday night outside dances at the Frontier Hotel are also accompanied by huge steaks grilled outside under the stars. Can't beat that!

• The Bandera Bulletin's twice-a-year Visitor's Guide will be coming out at the end of October. In three months we've handed out about 300 of those to our guests at Lost Valley, and they love it. All this to say if you want to put your businesses' tourist advertising dollar to work, you couldn't find a better place. And for all of you with visiting relatives and friends, pick up some and keep them handy. It makes a nice piece of Bandera to take home.

There are so many unusual spots to visit around Bandera that it's hard not to be a tourist in your own town. The Frontier Times Museum is a must, at least once a year. The old Jail House, where Tom Grant (alias Junior) hangs out. The Bandera Ranch Store that has the oldest elevator west of San Antonio. Sims Spur Co., where they'll show you how they make "the finest spurs in the world." Don't we live in an interesting place?!

• Oh! How I love these fall mornings: the sun gently topping the hills, the fresh, sweet smells of the Hill Country woods, wafting over land, the small touch of cool. One even begins to think of a sweater - maybe!

SA Olympic Festival next summer will feature torch run, ceremony

Almost 4,000 Texans will experience the thrill of carrying the Olympic torch next summer as the 1993 U.S. Olympic Festival comes to San Antonio.

On Saturday, June 12, the torch will be lighted atop Pike's Peak in Colorado, and then will be transported by jet to Austin for a June 13 ceremony on the steps of the state capitol. From there, the torch will begin a 41-day, 4,600-mile odyssey across Texas in which it will traverse 100 of Texas' 254 counties. The climax of the torch run, the lighting of the Olympic Festival Flame, will occur Friday night, July 23 during the games' opening ceremonies at the Alamodome.

Bandera Masons plan open house Sunday

The Bandera Masonic Lodge 1123 will have an open house on Sun., Sept. 27 from 2-4 p.m.

"Everyone is invited to come and enjoy ice cream and hospitality," said spokesman William Reich. "We also will have representatives from the Shrine Eastern Star and the Blue Lodge. We hope everyone will come and have a good time."

Counseling begins

A Post-Abortion Counseling and Education program will begin Sept. 28 at the Kerrville Crisis Center. The class will meet on Monday nights, according to spokeswoman Amie McClain. For information, call 256-2166.

For lay evangelist Gary Manweiler from Seguin, and for members of the C.M.A. (Christian Motorcyclists Assoc.), the rally was more than just a political awareness vices on Sunday. His wife, Ruth, led the singing. Manweiler attends some 35 rallies a year, and he uses them as a springboard for preaching, counseling, advising, helping to meet both the physical and spiritual needs of bikers.

Other members of C.M.A. used the rally to offer child care and non-alcoholic refreshment for bikers. The C.A.R.E. Camp (Christian Ambassadors for Rally Evangelism) served as a first aid station. Minor mechanical repairs were offered. Children were entertained with games, toys, puzzles, books and cartoons.
the group began operating at rallies this year "to give parents a break from their children. It lets them get out and ride their bikes. We give the children popcorn and pomp them full of the gospel, gospel cartoons, puzzles, and coloring books."

Parish Hebert, from Converse, said the C.M.A. keeps children away from the nightly entertainment; dancing and drinking, and gives them a safe place to play. "It's become so popular in this first year of operation that we actually have clubs who are planning rallies call us to request our presence."

Willie Smith, Pres. of C.M.A., says that C.A.R.E. offers "a real basic service" and is appreciated because biker rallies have become so family oriented. Corpus Christi resident Bob Harris has his own reason for belonging to C.M.A. and attending rallies as a Christian. "My goal is to do what all believers are called to do. To shed light wherever there is darkness."

"Sputnik", named after the Russian satellite, organized the rally in an attempt to get hikers politically motivated and involved. "Motorcycle riders are pictured as a burden to the state of Texas. Even though the majority of crashes are the fault of car drivers, bike riders are picked out because we are a minority. The majority of the people have a concept of motorcycle riders as bad people. They're glad to let the bikers take the blame for accidents and make them carry the burden of separate insurance which would price riders right off their bikes."

Sputnik is the State Chairman for the Texas Motorcycle Rights Association and is the only registered lobbyist for motorcycle rights in Texas. He created the organization on July 4. "Four is a sacred number to Indians. My grandmother was a full-blooded Cherokee. The individuality and independence of the Indian people put us into the position we are in now. We stood as separate tribes. The white men took us down, one tribe at a time. The same thing is happening to bikers. We have to unify and work together.

"I know some of us bikers look like I do. That's my privilege. I'm a veteran. I earned the right to look this way. You'll find more veterans in biker's clubs than any other organization. We're good enough to be sent over there to be shot at, but not good enough to be accepted back home."

Libertarian Candidate for U.S. Congress Dist. 21, Bill Grisham, said that the Pipe cal awareness rally held. "Bikers pay to get into the rallies. The money goes for children's health care, the homeless, battered women, things like that."

Two differently motivated groups of bikers met at Pop's Place for the rally. The C.M.A. came to "spread light on the darkness" and "offer bikers the choice of Jesus Christ as Savior." They came to help and to serve.

Sputnik, Grisham and others came to "wake up" bikers to the importance of their voices in government. They came to unite and to inform.

changing image of bikers. Mothers and children and the American flag; families in tents with play pens and baby

They saw London, Versailles, Amsterdam and Paris

This group of students and their teachers say the trip was an amazing journey

loway and Connie Young and their group of students report that their trip to Europe this summer was not only thrilling and entertaining, but it was also educational. They vow to return to Europe next summer.

Sue, Connie and a group of about 10 students and sponsors left May 31 for a trip that encompassed Amsterdam, Paris, Versailles, London and many points in between.

"We flew to Amsterdam first and toured alone," Sue Holloway explains. "We visited Rijksmuseum and saw Rembrandt's Night Watch. This painting is much lighter and larger than it appears in art books or slides.

"The Van Gogh Museum was impressive. I liked the canal trip we took and the flower market."

The Bandera group traveled to Versailles, Chartres, Chambord and Chenonceau. On June 7 they arrived in Mont St. Michel.

"We rode the Eurorail to Paris and met the rest of our tour group from a Catholic school in Kentucky," Sue continues. "Our tour guide was from London and all the girls fell in love with the handsome Alistaire.

"Chartres Cathedral was the most beautiful church I've ever seen. The stained glass windows are magnificent.

"We saw Winged Victory and the Mona Lisa at the Louvre.

"My main impression was how old everything is in Europe. The steps in the cathedrals are worn down by all the faithful who went to the churches. We climbed the endless steps to the top of Mont St. Michel."

From Normandy the group traveled to London, arriving there June 8. They took in the obligatory tourists sights including the Tower of London, Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, before returning to Texas June 10.

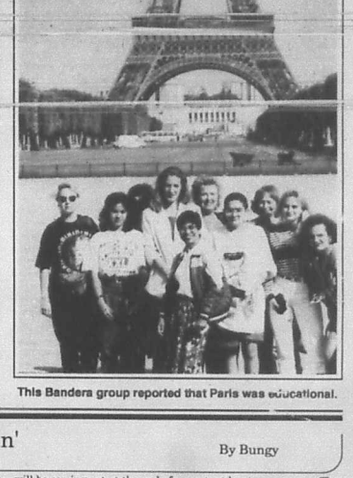
"The changing of the guard in London was exciting," Sue says. "I could hardly believe we saw so much in 11 days.

Gerald and Jean Witt joined Sue in London, and they "Burmailed first class across England, hovercrafted across the English Channel, Eurorailed to the south of France," toured Italy, Switzerland and Germany. "I stayed another week in Ger-

"The Sistine Chapel is so beautiful that you can't believe it. It is perfect from every angle. I liked Italy the best."

Besides Sue and Connie, others who toured Europe in the group included Anna Comingore, Faye Comingore, Heather Willis, Jake Willis, Joey Kenyon, Claire Willis, Heather Gardner, Jarrod Harmier, Courtney Osgood and Diane Osgood.

Artists Sue Holloway and Connie Young have their works on display this month in the Frontier Times Museum, and Sue's tin ornaments are displayed at museums and shops in San Antonio, Comfort, Corpus Christi and Rockport.



This Bandera group reported that Paris was educational.

By Bungy

This is the story of the week: Will Hunnicut, one of our resident cowboys (knife maker and sharpener) was making a phone call right next to a public water faucet. As he was talking, water started spewing all over him and he looked up (to see if it was raining), and he looked around (in the meantime, getting sopping wet) and finally, he looked down where his spur had caught on the foot pedal of the water faucet and was "pressing it down" for on!

• Harvey of Harvey's Steak House has done a wonderful job of expansion. His new place is darling and the walls are unbelievable. Busbee better watch out if Harvey expands anymore! "First Main Street, den Bandera, den de wold!"

• At the Bandera Forge on Sunday afternoon, there were two fiddles, an upright bass, two guitars, a mandolin, a washboard and a long metal cannister that was played with a wire brush! While the music was going, "Hoot" started singing and someone's dog started barking and "Hoot" declared he didn't mind, if the dog would only bark in time!

• The Friday and Saturday night outside dances at the Frontier Hotel are also accompanied by huge steaks grilled outside under the stars. Can't beat that!

• The Bandera Bulletin's twice-a-year Visitor's Guide will be coming out at the end of October. In three months we've handed out about 300 of those to our guests at Lost Valley, and they love it. All this to say if you want to put your businesses' tourist advertising dollar to work, you couldn't find a better place. And for all of you with visiting relatives and friends, pick up some and keep them handy. It makes a nice piece of Bandera to take home.

There are so many unusual spots to visit around Bandera that it's hard not to be a tourist in your own town. The Frontier Times Museum is a must, at least once a year. The old Jail House, where Tom Grant (alias Junior) hangs out. The Bandera Ranch Store that has the oldest elevator west of San Antonio. Sims Spur Co., where they'll show you how they make "the finest spurs in the world." Don't we live in an interesting place?!

• Oh! How I love these fall mornings: the sun gently topping the hills, the fresh, sweet smells of the Hill Country woods, wafting over land, the small touch of cool. One even begins to think of a sweater - maybe!

SA Olympic Festival next summer will feature torch run, ceremony

Almost 4,000 Texans will experience the thrill of carrying the Olympic torch next summer as the 1993 U.S. Olympic Festival comes to San Antonio.

On Saturday, June 12, the torch will be lighted atop Pike's Peak in Colorado, and then will be transported by jet to Austin for a June 13 ceremony on the steps of the state capitol. From there, the torch will begin a 41-day, 4,600-mile odyssey across Texas in which it will traverse 100 of Texas' 254 counties. The climax of the torch run, the lighting of the Olympic Festival Flame, will occur Friday night, July 23 during the games' opening ceremonies at the Alamodome.

Bandera Masons plan open house Sunday

The Bandera Masonic Lodge 1123 will have an open house on Sun., Sept. 27 from 2-4 p.m.

"Everyone is invited to come and enjoy ice cream and hospitality," said spokesman William Reich. "We also will have representatives from the Shrine Eastern Star and the Blue Lodge. We hope everyone will come and have a good time."

Counseling begins

A Post-Abortion Counseling and Education program will begin Sept. 28 at the Kerrville Crisis Center. The class will meet on Monday nights, according to spokeswoman Amie McClain. For information, call 256-2166.

Not content with a gumbo cook-off, authentic Cajun cooking, and other trimmings that appear Cajun, the sponsoring Medina Lake Betterment Association will host Cajun dancers, two — count 'em two — Cajun bands and a Cajuna futurist, all direct from Louisiana at their 13-hour celebration.

More than the 6,000 visitors that came last year are expected, especially with the VIA shuttle bus service from San Antonio. The bus will run hourly from Crossroads Mall at IH-10 and Loop 410.

Music starts off with Mulate's Cajun Band at 10 a.m. at the Panchita Thomson Pavilion. The band is from the world famous Cajun restaurant and dance hall — Mulate's of the Breaux Bridge, La., considered the crawfish capital of the world. The band will return to the stage at 2 p.m. They will also play on the Gazebo Stage at 5:15 p.m.

Returning to the festival is the San Antonio-based and Lakehills-favorite Whoosits Good-Time Big-Pile Garbage Band, who will put on their energetic and audience participation Spike Jones-style performances of folk music at noon and again at 3:30 p.m.

Making their first appearance at the festival is the Chapitre de Lafayette Cajun dance troupe. They will give dance lessons at 4 p.m. at the Gazebo Stage and demonstrations on the Thomson Pavilion at 11:15 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. with music by Mulate's.

12th annual Medina Lake Cajun Festival set

Son-of-a-gun gonna have big funin Lakehills, they expect 6,000 plus visitors Saturday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

For one day, Saturday, the Medina Lake community of Lakehills will take on the persona of the Bayou State as the 12th annual Cajun Festival kicks off at 10 a.m. at the Lakehills Civic Center on Park Road 37.

Not content with a gumbo cook-off, authentic Cajun cooking, and other trimmings that appear Cajun, the sponsoring Medina Lake Betterment Association will host Cajun dancers, two — count 'em two — Cajun bands and a Cajun futurist, all direct from Louisiana at their 13-hour celebration.

More than the 6,000 visitors that came last year are expected, especially with the VIA shuttle bus service from San Antonio. The bus will run hourly from Crossroads Mall at IH-10 and Loop 410.

Music starts off with Mulate's Cajun Band at 10 a.m. at the Panchita Thomson Pavilion. The band is from the world famous Cajun restaurant and dance hall — Mulate's of the Breaux Bridge, La., considered the crawfish capital of the world. The band will return to the stage at 2 p.m. They will also play on the Gazebo Stage at 5:15 p.m.

Returning to the festival is the San Antonio-based and Lakehills-favorite Whoosits Good-Time Big-Pile Garbage Band, who will put on their energetic and audience participation Spike Jones-style performances of folk music at noon and again at 3:30 p.m.

Making their first appearance at the festival is the Chapitre de Lafayette Cajun dance troupe. They will give dance lessons at 4 p.m. at the Gazebo Stage and demonstrations on the Thomson Pavilion at 11:15 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. with music by Mulate's.

Renown New Orleans futurist and Louisiana native, Ruth Gannon-Cook, will repeat her 1991 appearance at the festival. She is the creator of nationally syndicated psychic game, Inalite, the party game of predicting the future, as well as a radio personality, and Louisiana's foremost authority and propagatrician of the future.

Cook is a fourth-generation Cajun whose grandmother spent time with her cultivating her clairvoyance. She has many wonderful tales about her colorful heritage.

New this year is Cajun heritage discussions on the Gazebo stage conducted by WOAI radio personality Jud Ashmore of Pipe Creek.

At noon, Ashmore will interview musician Robert Reed, Bubba Breaux — the king of Cajun History, and Christine Balifa — the daughter of Doug Balifa, considered the Hanks Williams of Cajun music.

At 12:30, it will be a discussion of Cajun music with members of the Mulate's Band. They'll discuss how the "chank-a-chank" Cajun beat music and how it is different and yet the same as music found in Texas, the history of Cajun music, and why it's sung in French.

Cook will appear at 1 p.m. to discuss Cajun folklore including superstitions and how she uses Tarot cards.

At 1:45 p.m., the two fiddle players from the two Cajun bands, Terry Huval, the leader of the Jambalya Cajun Band of Scott, La., and Mitchell Reed of the Mulate's Band, and Gary Trial of Lakehills will discuss Cajun fiddle playing. Trial has been playing the Cajun music and country and western fiddle music for 20 years. The three will try to answer the question, "Why is fiddling different between Cajun and country and western music?"

Jake Kerns, owner of Mulate's Restaurant in Louisiana, Frenchie Guidry of Acadiana Cafe in San Antonio and Cajun Festival food director Barbara Engel of Lakehills will talk Cajun foods at 2:30 p.m.

The entire Jambalya Cajun Band will sit down with Ashmore at 3:30 p.m. to discuss how Cajun music has progressed from Louisiana to other states such as Texas. They'll discuss how the country and western beat is similar to the Cajun beat. The band is considered the top Cajun band in all of Louisiana and travels all over the world to play.

The Chapitre de Lafayette Dancers will give a Cajun dance demonstration at 4 p.m. It's 10 people (five couples) and their dancing is like clogging but to Cajun music with Cajun flair.

At 4:30 p.m., it's Cajun accordion time with Reggie Matte of the Jambalya Band and Corey McCauley of the Mulate's Bander. Cajun accordion is similar to Conjunto (Hispanic) accordion music. The accordion provides the beat in Cajun music and the songs revolve around the accordion.

All during the day, gumbo cooks will fill the grounds with their booths, competing for trophies in amateur and professional divisions as well as showmanship in the cook-off.

Festival goers can sample gumbo for $1.50 and can also vote for the "People's Choice" award that will be presented along with the professional and amateur divisions trophies.

Judges for the gumbo cook-off include Faye Breaux Kern, owner of Faye's Catering of Breaux Bridge, La. "She's the one people call when they need Cajun food catering," says organizer Bob Caswell. Her connections in the Cajun community include her husband, Jake Kern, the owner of Mulate's Restaurant and her father, Bubba Breaux, who has been the mayor of Breaux Bridge for 30 years.

The second judge is Mark Negro, the food director of Hilton Restaurants of San Antonio and New Orleans. According to Caswell, Negro was transferred from New Orleans to San Antonio to provide Cajun and sea food cooking at the San Antonio Hilton hotels.

The third judge is "Bubba" Casterline, the owner of Casterline Seafood of Rockport. Casterline provides all the shrimp for the Cajun festival since the festival first began. He also provides the shrimp for Shrimpfest at the University of Texas at San Antonio. His company is considered the largest shrimp distributor in Texas. The company is a family business that's been around for at least 30 years. "And he loves Bandera County," says Caswell.

The awards for the best gumbo cooks will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The festival will offer a large menu of Cajun specialities.

The popular crawfish pies, barbecued shrimp, shrimp and crawfish etouffe', Cajun bread pudding with whiskey sauce, Creole red beans and rice, boudin, Cajun boiled shrimp, sausage and ham jambalya, and Creole pecan pralines.

And for those that can't do without Texas-style foods, the MLBA will offer its famous beef and chicken fajitas, sausage and hot dogs.

There will also be vendors of various items and activities.

The festival will the Jambalya Cajun Band playing from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. According to Caswell, the band is so much in demand that the festival had to book the band two weeks after last year's festival to be assured to have the band in Lakehills for this festival.

Gates will open at 10 a.m. and close at 11 p.m. Admission is $3 and children under 12 are admitted free.

All proceeds go to the non-profit MLBA.

Public Notice
Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for optional Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone service, effective March 15, 1993, unless otherwise determined by the PUC.
These proposed rates will not increase or decrease the Company's overall revenues; the net effect will be neutral to the Company's annual revenues.
The Company proposes to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service for residential customers from $1.00 to 68 cents, and also to reduce the Touch-tone rates for business customers from $1.75 to $1.70. In addition, the Touch-tone rates for business PBX trunks will be reduced from $3.15 to $2.18.
This proposal to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service does not change the commitment that the Company made in the Docket No. 8585 Stipulation to reduce the rates for Touch-tone service in 1993.
The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling-8 and Speed Calling-30. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

	Residence Current Rate	Residence Proposed Rate	Business Current Rate	Business Proposed Rate
One Feature per line
Call Waiting	$2.10	$2.85	$2.65	$3.25
Call Forwarding	2.10	2.10	2.65	3.50
3-Way Calling	2.10	2.10	2.65	2.50
Speed Call-8	2.10	2.10	2.65	2.50
Two Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding	3.75	4.25	4.75	6.00
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling	3.70	4.25	4.75	4.75
Call Waiting, Speed Calling-8	3.70	4.25	4.75	4.75
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling	3.70	3.50	4.80	5.00
Call Forwarding, Speed Calling-8	3.70	3.50	4.75	5.00
3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	3.70	3.50	4.75	4.00
Three Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and 3-Way Calling	5.30	5.65	6.90	7.50
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.65	6.90	7.50
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.65	6.90	6.25
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	4.90	6.90	6.50
Four Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	6.90	7.05	9.00	9.00
Speed Calling - 30 code capacity	3.20	3.20	4.25	3.20

Most of the Company's residence and business customers who subscribe to Custom Calling Features and Touch-tone service will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring.
It is expected that the restructuring of Custom Calling Features will result in a rate increase for approximately 2.9 million residence customers and 280,000 business customers. The reduction in rates for certain Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone Service will affect approximately 4.3 million residence customers and 1.7 million business customers.
This rate restructuring is expected to have a "revenue-neutral" effect on the Company's annual revenues. The proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $19.8 million; while the reduction in Touch-tone rates will decrease the Company's annual revenues by $19.8 million.
This proceeding has been designated Docket No. 11382. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this proceeding should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline to intervene is October 30, 1992. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221. teletypewriter for the deaf.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Children today are faced with pressures and demands we adults sometimes either have forgotten and/or may have never known. They are victims of peer pressures, broken homes, insecurities, identity crisis, society demands and much more. Parents and significant others must take time to listen to that God-given alarm bell when something is not quite right. Take time to listen to them, talk to them, and show interest in their activities and interests. Try to find times when you are not hurried or tense and can focus just on them.

"A child is a person who is going to carry on what you have started. He is going to sit where you are sitting, and when you are gone, attend to those things which you think are important. You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they are carried out depends on him. He will assume control of your cities, states, and nations. He is going to move in and take over your churches, schools, universities and corporations. All your books are going to be judged, praised or condemned by him. The fate of humanity is in his hands."--Abraham Lincoln

It's time for prickly pear jelly!

These little 'tuna' delights make a beautiful sweet treat

If you're brave enough to get past its treacherous spines, the prickly pear cactus yields delectable juice for jelly from its fruit.

The heat of the Texas summer is beginning to ripen and darken the plump fruits of the prickly pear cactus. Many plants in local pastures are now covered by the deep purple tunas.

The fruit provides juice for one of the best native jellies and its exotic flavor is well worth the effort. Produce some for unique Christmas gifts for out-of-state friends.

Use caution in approaching the prickly pear. The fruits and pads are covered with nearly invisible and numerous spines. Wear heavy leather gloves and use tongs to hold the tunas for removal from the plant.

The best way to remove the spines is to hold the fruit over a flame and burn the bristles off.

Wash and slice the fruit into a saucepan, then add 2 cups of water for each cup of fruit. Cook until soft, and strain the juice through a jelly bag or several thicknesses of cheesecloth.

To make the jelly, you'll need 3 cups of prickly pear juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 pkg. powdered pectin and 4 1/2 cups sugar.

Measure the juices into a deep saucepan end mix in the pectin. Bring quickly to a hard boil, stirring in the sugar all at once. Bring to a full rolling boil, then boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat, skim and pour into jelly glasses.

This will make 6 to 7 glasses. The jelly will be a lovely soft pink in color and tastes delicious!

Jellies and preserves made of cactus fruit are not always dependable. Sugar, acid and pectin content of the fruit varies with ripeness and growing conditions.

Prepare only small amounts at a time. Jellies may not set for one or two days after making.

District FFA group elects Mason youth

Bandera and Medina candidates also vied in the competition

Hill District FFA delegates elected Shannon Grote of Mason as the 1992-93 president of the 16-chapter FFA district. The district coveres ten counties in the Hill Country.

Grote was elected to head the six-member officer from a field of 13 candidates. The election was held at Fredricksburg High School.

FFA Chapters in Bandera and Medina also fielded candidates but did not have any officers on the new officer team.

"I was surprised to win," Grote said. "I was the twelfth one to give my speech, and I thought everyone was nearly asleep when I got there."

Grote's election was a step in the footsteps of her older brother, Will. He served as district president and an area officer last year.

"I decided about two years ago to be district president when my brother served as an officer, and I saw how much it could do for you," she said.

Grote, a junior, also serves as chapter secretary. Her supervised agricultural experience program, a 150-head herd of registered Angus cattle has won her statewide honors. She first won as a star greenhand (1st year student) for the entire state, and then as a star chapter FFA degree recipient for the Area VII Association.

Bandera candidates Dennis Hargis and Kevin Munn battled obscurity and inexperience in the election. Neither candidate had the exposure through conferences, conventions and other activities through which political contacts are made.

"I loved the experience," Munn said after addressing a large audience for the first time. "I can't believe I didn't forget my speech. But any chance I get to get up in front of a large crowd is going to help me."

Bandera FFA Advisor Tom Maynard said that neither of them could have done anything differently in the situation. "Both of them had worked very hard to prepare, but we're just going to have to get these students out to meet the rest of the district more often if we intend to be competitive."

Hargis, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim McKay.

Munn, a sophomore, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Stein.

Bandera sent an additional six members as voting delegates and observers along with the district officer candidates.

Medina FFA threw a hat into the ring as well. Senior FFA'er Shane Keese was Medina's nominee. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Keese.

Bandera FFA group elects Hargis

Bandera FFA members elected officers for the first time in four years in an election held at their Sept. 21, 1992 meeting. Dennis Hargis, a junior, was elected president.

J.T. Turner was elected vice president; Kevin Munn became secretary; Woody Maddox was elected treasurer; Heather Rowley will serve as reporter, and Debbie Falardeau was elected sentinel.

State FFA Vice President Jim McFadin of Utopia addressed the group. He challenged them to compete in the contests, apply for the awards and scholarships, and to be active members. "When you put on that blue and gold FFA jacket, you represent nearly a half a million FFA members across the nation who are preparing for exciting, viable careers in agriculture."

McFadin represents more than 50,000 Texas FFA members. He is a freshman at Southwest Texas Junior College.

Newly elected Bandera FFA President, Dennis Hargis, outlined his goals for the year in an interview with the Bulletin. "One of our main objectives is to establish an FFA alumni affiliate in this community. People don't realize that FFA actually reaches beyond high school and that members can stay involved.

"We want to get more people involved in judging and leadership contests and in showing livestock."

Hargis admits the job is formidable. The FFA has not elected officers in about four years and has been only minimally active as an organization. "It's just going to take a lot of hard work, dedication and support to get it going again."

Joining his brother on the winning side was Brent Hargis. He bested five of his fellow members in reciting the five-paragraph FFA Creed in Bandera FFA's local Creed Speaking Contest.

First year FFA'ers are required to recite the page-long belief statement to obtain membership.

Feds won't help Bandera County, but there's still hope from the state

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County won't be getting any help from the federal government to rebuild county roads damaged by the unprecedented six months of steady rain that began in December and ended in June.

But there's still hope in a state grant.

And barring that, a possible — shudder — an additional sales tax that might help fund road and bridge work in the county in the future.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency told the commissioners in a Aug. 14 letter that their request was too late. "I regret that due to the time frame in which we had to conduct all necessary field work and respond to your request, we were unable to meet the 30-day deadline established by Public Law 93-288 as amended," said Ralph Freeman, assistant to state coordinator Tom Millwee.

In other words, as the rains kept pounding Bandera County, the commissioners would have had to put in a disaster request each month.

After talking to state officials in the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, the county may still apply for a maximum of $350,000 in assistance — a far cry from what is needed (approximately $900,000), but better than what the county has for flood repair, which is zip.

Because Texas Gov. Ann Richards included Bandera County in a disaster declaration, the grant is possible and commissioner Bennie Barker, with the blessing of the entire four-man board, will go to Austin to run the round of the state bureaucracy to see what paper work had to be filled out.

"Federal funds are very hard to get," said Barker. It was the continuous nature of the disaster — a little more adding on to a little more than made Bandera situation look different than other disasters around the country.

Commissioners are now faced with a extensive road repair and a smaller county budget to do the job.

One suggestion made by Barker is a specially-legislated sales tax.

The sales tax (from 1/4 cent to a full cent) could be initiated after Bandera County's legislative representative draws it up, the state legislature passes the Bandera County-only bill and if signed by the governor would go to Bandera County voters to approve or disapprove via the ballot.

A 1/4 cent sales tax — the most likely amount — could add $80,000 per year to the road and bridge budget. A paltry amount considering that the road and bridge budget looks like it'll be $693,199.

But right now, any of the commissioners would love to split $80,000 four ways.

"This may be the only hope if we don't get a state grant," said Barker. This is also a tax currently levied by Uvalde County.

Barker hopes that county citizens won't mind paying an extra tax — a tax shared by those that visit the county — if they can get their road maintained more often and get low water crossing and flood damage repaired.

Some county budget line items out of balance

As the 1991-92 Bandera County budget year closes, commissioners are going to have to move some funds around to make sure each budget item in the county's budget is balanced.

Two departments are currently in the red — Mansfield Park and the precinct 1 road and bridge. However, the total county budget remains in the black because other departments have not spent all their funds.

Mansfield Park was $17,506.25 in debt as of Aug. 31, according to the monthly budget report from the county treasurer.

Several major repairs had to be conducted at Mansfield Park — repairs of the capital outlay version — that contributed to the red ink.

According to Bandera County Judge Ray F. Mauer, the air conditioner at the recreation center had to be replaced and extensive work had to be performed on the rodeo arena grandstands (someone fell through the boards there recently). The replacement/repair cost was approximately $10,000.

Other repairs included a new water pump and chlorination equipment for the well. Also, earlier this year high winds blew down some poles and those had to be replaced.

Mauer said the Mansfield Park budget would be balanced with funds from other departments that didn't spend all the funds in their budget.

Commissioners' precinct 1 road and bridge budget, commissioner Bennie Barker's precinct, is in the red by $7,557.94 as of Aug. 31.

The budget that takes care of road maintenance in precinct 1 has no reserve and during August, the precinct's spending $14,743.81 — half of the current red ink. According to figures from the treasurer's office, the precinct has spent $10,634 so far in September and will spend more to cover road crew salaries.

Paving is also being conducted in precinct 1, which will add to the deficit.

The precinct 2 road and bridge fund has a balance of $24,186.32 including $7.32 in the county's regular checking account and $24,180 in the county's "Hi-Fi" investment account. Precinct 2 spent $12,061.18 during August. Precinct 2's monthly expenses could be higher in September because paving was conducted recently.

The precinct 3 road and bridge fund has a balance of $14,122.72 including $2.72 in the county's regular checking account and $14,120 in the Hi-Fi account. Precinct 3's spending in August was $14,055.65.

The precinct 4 road and bridge fund has a balance of $20,028.46 including $3.46 in the county's checking account and $20,025 in the Hi-Fi account.

Bandera County Treasurer Elizabeth James makes a habit of keeping as much of the county funds as reasonably possible in the investment account to earn the most interest possible.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has asked the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to offer new optional call management services called Caller Identification Service (Caller ID) and Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR).

Caller ID is a new optional phone service which allows subscribers to see the phone number and/or name of most local calls before they answer the phone. Caller ID also allows the recording of the date, time, name and/or phone number of calls. Currently, Caller ID would work only on most local calls, not long distance calls. It would also require that a separate display unit be connected to the telephone. These units that attach to the telephone will be available from various retail vendors, including Southwestern Bell, at a cost starting at approximately $50.

Southwestern Bell is also proposing that all customers be able to "block," or stop their name/number from being transmitted and displayed on a Caller ID device, free of charge. You would have this option of "blocking" your name/number on each call free of charge. There would be no need to subscribe to this service. All customers would have this capability when Caller ID is introduced in their area.

If you want to block your name or number, you need only press *67 on your touch-tone pad (or dial 1167 from a rotary phone) before dialing the telephone number. The person you're calling would see displayed a message such as "private" or "anonymous" on their Caller ID display unit.

Southwestern Bell also proposes that qualified domestic violence and law enforcement groups have the option of free per-line blocking, or free per-call blocking.

Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR or "block the blocker") allows subscribers to automatically reject all calls that have been marked anonymous, or "blocked" by the person calling. It is not necessary to subscribe to Caller ID Name/Number to subscribe to ACR. With ACR, your telephone will not ring if the person calling you has "blocked" his/her name or number. The person calling whose identification is blocked will receive a message to hang up and call back with caller identification unblocked. Following are the proposed monthly rates for Caller ID and ACR.

Proposed Rates (monthly)*	Residence	Business
Calling Number only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name & Number	$8.00	$12.00
Anonymous Call Rejection	$3/$1	$3/$1

* These rates are in addition to the initial installation charges and monthly basic service rate. For residence customers, installation charges are $2.70 per feature, with a maximum charge of $5.40. For business customers, the charges are $5.40 per feature, with a maximum charge of $10.75.

 Anonymous Call Rejection is $3 per month if purchased without Caller ID and is $1 per month when purchased with Caller ID Name or Number.

This proceeding has been designated Docket No. 11362, and a hearing on the merits has been scheduled for November 16, 1992. The PUC has jurisdiction to consider this matter pursuant to Sections 16, 18, 37 and 38 of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA). This application was filed pursuant to the provisions of the PUC's Substantive Rule 23.24. Among the issues that will be addressed in this proceeding is the legality of the Caller ID device and service under Texas wiretap laws.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline to intervene is October 26, 1992. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Elect
State Representative
TROY FRASER
Candidate for State Senate
District 25
During a news conference in Abilene Tuesday, Troy Fraser criticized his opponent for creating one of the biggest roadblocks to creating jobs in Texas and then offering "bad excuses" for sponsoring Texas' new corporate income tax.
Fraser led efforts in the House to cut over $3 billion from the state budget only to have the Senate restore those cuts. Even after all its budget trimming, the House plan would have fully funded public education & other essential services.
Sims's bill, HB 11, requires Texas corporations to pay a 4.5% state tax on income subject to federal income taxes. For example, a West Texas contractor saw his company's franchise tax increase from $1,200 a year to $4,500.

Medina Bobcats dropped second game of season to Asherton Friday night

By Larry T. Williams

The Medina Bobcats slipped another notch Friday night, Sept. 18 as they lost their second game of the football season to Asherton 21-0.

Two quick scores shocked the Bobcats and they could not seem to recover.

The Trojans scored on three touchdowns and a field goal, all in the first half. Medina's lone trip across the goal line occurred late in the last period.

Asherton set the tone of the game when Trojan running back Roy Martinez returned the opening kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown. The PAT was no good and the 'Cats started their own drive a few seconds later. Then came the second blow of Asherton's 1-2 punch.

Medina quarterback Clay Waggoner launched a first down pass that was picked off by Trojan defender Eugerado Torres who then raced 55 yards for the second Asherton score in 40 seconds. A two-point attempt went wide and the visitors settled for a 12-0 lead.

The rest of the half and most of the game Asherton controlled the football, rolling up 210 yards rushing and 62 more through the air.

Medina's Ely Hickman and Jody Carpenter accounted for 88 yards and 52 yards each as the 'Cats totaled 137 strides on the ground and 35 yards passing.

Penalty yardage again hurt the 'Cats with 15 [illegible] Medina 80 yards, usually at a point to break momentum. Asherton was ticketed 15 times for 110 yards mostly in five-yard bites for illegal procedure.

The 'Cats finally put together a scoring drive late in the late fourth quarter. Jody Carpenter sparked the drive with a 45 yard reverse that moved the 'Cats close to the goal. With 1:20 remaining in the game senior running back Clayton Watts carried the ball eight yards for the only Medina touchdown so far this year.

Medina, now 0-2, will visit Sabinal Friday for their district opener and then will host D'Hanis on Oct. 2.

Bulldogs suffered football defeat Friday at the hands of Marble Falls Mustangs

Quarterback Jimmy Stroud led the JV Bulldogs to a 6-0 victory Thursday over Marble Falls' JV. Bandera's record stands at 1-0 for the season. Their first two games were cancelled because of thunderstorms.

[illegible] Bulletin Staff Writer

The game could be summed up in one quote. "We didn't start playing until it was too late."

The word of Bandera Bulldogs head coach Chris Storer describe the 19-8 loss the varsity high school boys suffered at the hands of the Marble Falls Mustangs Friday night in Marble Falls.

But it could have been worse considering that the Mustangs had their eye on this week's game against another set of Bulldogs — the Bulldogs from Burnet, who they tied in post-season play and lost the chance to go further by the number of penetrations in the quarter-final game. "Marble Falls didn't play real well. Their mind was on their biggest game — next week with Burnet. We had a chance to upset them," said Storer.

As play progressed in the first half, Storer might have used to playing better teams.

"If we play up to our capabilities, we've got a pretty good chance of beating them. I feel we will play pretty good."

Starting quarterback Terry Robertson is expected back for signal calling duties after being out since the first game when he suffered a bruised shoulder. Doctor okayed him to play for this week, said Storer."

He can have contact (practice) Wednesday." Storer said he'd continue to work sophomore Kyle Woodland (who started last week) and junior Brian Flack as quarterbacks, as his standard practice methods.

Fullback Mike Martinez is expected to remain out with a knee injury.

West Campus is the first of seven opponents in district play this year.

In the coming weeks, Bandera will face former 2A school [illegible] ping Springs, as the Bulldogs played the Sept. 18 game like they did the Sept. 4 when the Bulldogs suffered at 26-18 loss.

"The first half was all them," said Storer. "It was just like Dripping Springs, we just wasted a half before we finally started playing."

Bandera was shut out in the first half and scored only one [illegible] all night.

Marble Falls drew first blood when quarterback Blain Klett ran an option and turned it into a 36-yard touchdown run with 6:19 remaining in the second quarter. The point-after attempt by Bill Burgess was good and the score was 7-0 Mustangs.

With 11 seconds left in the half, Mustang Leno Garza ran one-yard for six points. The Mustangs tried a 2-point pass play and failed. The score at the half was 13-0 in the Mustangs favor.

With 8:25 remaining in the fourth quarter, Bulldog junior running back Robert Bradford ran the ball one yard for a [illegible] shutout.

[illegible] quarterback Brian Flack threw a pass to senior wingback J.B. Neuenschwander for two points. The score was 13-8 and still in the Mustang's favor.

"We had a chance," said Storer. "All we had to do was [illegible]"

With 2:58 on the clock, Mustang fullback Joe Potter ran one yard for a TD. The PAT failed. The ending score was 19-8.

Bandera played a good game on defense. According to defensive coach Earl Byerley, Bandera was able to stop Marble Falls nine times out of 10 on third down situations. But that was not enough.

Rushing leader for Bandera was Bradford with 22 carries for 66 yards and on the Marble Falls side it was sophomore Victor Smith with 11 carries for 74 yards.

Senior starting quarterback Terry Robertson was still out with a shoulder injury and sophomore quarterback Kyle Woodland called the signals most of the night — his first game as starting quarter back.

Both teams had 15 first downs; Bandera had 46 carries for 135 rushing yards, Marble Falls 38 for 216; Bandera passed 19 times, completed 9 for 112 yards and suffered 2 interceptions while Marble Falls had 15 passes, 6 completions for 91 yards and didn't give up the ball in the air; both teams punted 5 times with Bandera averaging 30 yards and Marble Falls 35; Bandera had 2 penalties that cost them 10 yards and Marble Falls 6 for 55 yards; both team had a fumble, but Bandera lost theirs and Marble Falls didn't.

Ingram (homecoming, Oct. 2), go to San Antonio to play Cole (Oct. 9), play Hondo here (Oct. 16), travel to Somerset (Oct. 23), Devine at home (Oct. 30) and finish with Medina Valley there (Nov. 6). Bandera lost to Devine in bi-district play last year.

Last year the Bulldogs beat Cole 33-7, beat Somerset 26-14, beat Hondo 28-0 and lost to Medina Valley 28-0.

The Bulldogs are 1-2 on the year.

Rushing leader for Bandera was Bradford with 22 carries for 66 yards and on the Marble Falls side it was sophomore Victor Smith with 11 carries for 74 yards.

Senior starting quarterback Terry Robinson was still out with a shoulder injury and sophomore quarterback Kyle Woodland called the signals most of the night — his first game as starting quarter back.

Both teams had 13 first downs; Bandera had 46 carries for 135 rushing yards, Marble Falls 38 for 216; Bandera passed 19 times, completed 9 for 112 yards and suffered 2 interceptions while Marble Falls had 15 passes, 6 completions for 91 yards and didn't give up the ball in the air; both teams punted 5 times with Bandera averaging 30 yards and Marble Falls 35; Bandera had 2 penalties that cost them 10 yards and Marble Falls 6 for 55 yards; both team had a fumble, but Bandera lost theirs and Marble Falls didn't.

"If we play up to our capabilities, we've got a pretty good chance of beating them. I feel we will play pretty good."

Starting quarterback Terry Robertson is expected back for signal calling duties after being out since the first game when he suffered a bruised shoulder. Doctor okayed him to play for this week, said Storer. "He can have contact (practice) Wednesday." Storer said he'd continue to work sophomore Kyle Woodland (who started last week) and junior Brian Flack as quarterbacks, as his standard practice methods.

Fullback Mike Martinez is expected to remain out with a knee injury.

West Campus is the first of seven opponents in district play this year.

In the coming weeks, Bandera will face former 2A school Ingram (homecoming, Oct. 2), go to San Antonio to play Cole (Oct. 9), play Hondo here (Oct. 16), travel to Somerset (Oct. 23), Devine at home (Oct. 30) and finish with Medina Valley there (Nov. 6). Bulldogs suffered football defeat Friday at the hands of Marble Falls Mustangs ack Jimmy Stroud led the JV Bulldogs to a 6-0 hursday over Marble Falls' JV. Bandera's record 1-0 for the season. Their first two games were because of thunderstorms.

The game could be summed up in one quote. "We didn't start playing until it was too late."

The word of Bandera Bulldogs head coach Chris Storer describe the 19-8 loss the varsity high school boys suffered at the hands of the Marble Falls Mustangs Friday night in Marble Falls.

But it could have been worse considering that the Mustangs had their eye on this week's game against another set of Bulldogs — the Bulldogs from Burnet, who they tied in post-season play and lost the chance to go further by the number of penetrations in the quarter-final game. "Marble Falls didn't play real well. Their mind was on their biggest game — next week with Burnet. We had a chance to upset them," said Storer.

As play progressed in the first half, Storer might have wondered if he was in Dripping Springs, as the Bulldogs played the Sept. 18 game like they did the Sept. 4 when the Bulldogs suffered at 26-18 loss.

"The first half was all them," said Storer. "It was just like Dripping Springs, we just wasted a half before we finally started playing."

Bandera was shut out in the first half and scored only one touchdown all night.

Marble Falls drew first blood when quarterback Blain Klett ran an option and turned it into a 36-yard touchdown run with 6:19 remaining in the second quarter. The point-after attempt by Bill Burgess was good and the score was 7-0 Mustangs.

With 11 seconds left in the half, Mustang Leno Garza ran one-yard for six points. The Mustangs tried a 2-point pass play and failed. The score at the half was 13-0 in the Mustangs favor.

With 8:25 remaining in the fourth quarter, Bulldog junior running back Robert Bradford ran the ball one yard for a touchdown.

Back up quarterback Brian Flack threw a pass to senior wingback J.B. Neuenschwander for two points. The score was 13-8 and still in the Mustang's favor.

"We had a chance," said Storer. "All we had to do was score."

With 2:58 on the clock, Mustang fullback Joe Potter ran one yard for a TD. The PAT failed. The ending score was 19-8.

Bandera played a good game on defense. According to defensive coach Earl Byerley, Bandera was able to stop Marble Falls nine times out of 10 on third down situations. But that was not enough.

Rushing leader for Bandera was Bradford with 22 carries for 66 yards and on the Marble Falls side it was sophomore Victor Smith with 11 carries for 74 yards.

Senior starting quarterback Terry Robertson was still out with a shoulder injury and sophomore quarterback Kyle Woodland called the signals most of the night — his first game as starting quarter back.

Both teams had 13 first downs; Bandera had 46 carries for 135 rushing yards, Marble Falls 38 for 216; Bandera passed 19 times, completed 9 for 112 yards and suffered 2 interceptions while Marble Falls had 15 passes, 6 completions for 91 yards and didn't give up the ball in the air; both teams punted 5 times with Bandera averaging 30 yards and Marble Falls 35; Bandera had 2 penalties that cost them 10 yards and Marble Falls 6 for 55 yards; both team had a fumble, but Bandera lost theirs and Marble Falls didn't.

Heza Mean Je
Texas Breede

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

A quarter horse that lit the board twice in two futurities at the Gillespie County Fair grounds track this summer won the $22,404.60 Quarter Horse of Texas Breeders Futurity Division I Sunday at Bandera Downs.

The fastest qualifier from the Sept. 11 trials, Heza Mean Jet, trained by Jimmy Guerra Jr., had run fourth in the Quarter Horse of Texas Breeders Sale Futurity at Gillespie July 19 and third in the Gillespie County Fair Futurity Aug. 23.

But the 2-year-old gelding put on a show Sunday.

With jockey Wesley McDaniel in the irons, 3-2 favorite Heza Mean Jet was in front with 2-1 Native Ponti and 8-1 Werthersfirethersmok. At the top of the stretch, it was Native Ponti and Heza Mean Jet. In deep stretch, Heza Mean Jet pulled ahead and won by 1 1/2 lengths — "daylighted the field" as horsemen put it. The 18-1 El Cohete made a too-late challenge for second and Native Ponti settled for third in the 330-yard sprint.

Heza Mean Jet's only finished by a nose in the his trial last weekend. According to Guerra, when McDaniel rides in a trial, he "lets up a little to save the horse."

"Wesley said you don't win anything in the trial. But he scares us to death (by not pushing a horse hard in the trial)," said Guerra. "Today (Sunday) I told Wesley to day-

The Pipe Creek EMS Support team collected over $700 towards completion of its barn on State Highway 16 at the chili cook-off and fajita extravaganza Sept. 12 at Kelley's Shamrock Tavern.

The support team is also planning a barn sale Saturday, Oct. 3, and is looking for donations of items to sell.

A total of $785 was collected from the cook-off, raffle and auction, reports support team publicity chairman Bennie Honaker.

Raffle winners included Jim Clement of Pipe Creek, who donated $50 of his prize back to the support team and took the other $50 of the prize in lottery tickets.

Jennifer C. Persyn of Lakehills was among the 1,137 Southwest Texas State University graduates at summer commencement ceremonies Augt 14 and 15.

There were 913 bachelor's and 21 associate degree candidates.

Persyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Persyn of Lakehills.

She received a bachelor of science in interdisciplinary studies. While at SWT, Persyn was on the dean's list.

Heza Mean Jet wins Quarter Horse of Texas Breeders Futurity at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

A quarter horse that lit the board twice in two futurities at the Gillespie County Fairgrounds track in Fredericksburg this year. He's also won two handicaps at Bandera with Thundering Tina.

Horseowner Ronald Brandt of Alice said he plans to run Heza Mean Jet back in the Division II version of Sunday's futurity and the futurity championship, both later this year.

Brandt's Pampered Glass ran second at Manor Downs in the Austin Derby Sunday with Guerra's father, Jimmy Sr., handling the saddling duties.

Bandera also hosted the longest pari-mutuel Arabian race ever held in Texas Sunday.

The 20-1 Gentleman Jack came around the second turn of the 7 1/2-furlong ninth race where the 7-year-old gelding was behind 5-1 Tyx and the 2-1 favorite Eukandance. Gentleman Jack shared the lead at the top of the stretch with 25-1 Soaring Tiki Tu and Tyx as Eukandance fell back.

Down the stretch, jockey Wren Rivard urged Gentleman Jack on to win by a neck over Soaring Tiki Tu, Tyx and 5-1 Montesena. All top four finishers were within one length of each other at the finish line. For Rivard, it was her first win at Bandera.

Three of the top four finishing horses — Gentleman Jack, Soaring Tiki Tu and Montesena are recent imports from racing in Colorado.

Second-place in the drawing went to Jody Patrick of Pipe Creek ($50 cash) and June Settlemeyer of Lakehills ($25 cash).

Winners of the chili cook-off were Lucky Bucks Chili — who took first place in the cooking end of the contest and first place in the showmanship division.

Second-place chili went to Biker Chili. Third place was won by P.I.G.S. — the Presbyterian International Gourmet Society group.

Nuclear Chili won the worst chili dishonors and second-place showmanship.

Also at the event was Robert Cooke of Airlife who set up an information booth about the helicopter ambulance service and gave out keys chains and pins.

Meanwhile, back at the EMS barn, Jackie Buck donated paneling for the inside walls and Robert Blakemore worked two Saturdays to install the bathroom doors; put up all the trim on the windows, doors and baseboard; and put up the sheet rock in the bath; and framed the showers, at the barn.

The classroom area of the barn is almost finished and estimates are being taken for cabinets in the kitchen area, says Hanson.

Also donated was a deep sink by Roy and Mary Carpenter. Rusty Moore installed the sink and donated his time and plumbing supplies to complete the job.

The support team's barn sale is Saturday, Oct. 3, and the group is still looking for donations of any saleable item.

To donate and arrange for pick up of large items, call Helen McKandles at 796-3970 or Fay or Bennie Honaker at 535-4817.

The group will also conduct a bake sale that day. To donate to the bake sale, call Anita Ramsey at 535-4015.

In racing action Saturday, Illusive Credit won the $2,500 440-yard featured quarter horse race by 1 1/2-lengths under the ride of jockey Randy Edison.

The expected favorites, Bernie Express and Au Revoir Yawl, were scratched before the race.

In Friday's racing action, Triple Mama — as expected — won his elimination trial and qualified for the San Antonio Futurity to be run Oct. 4.

According to trainer Pat Doyle, the horse didn't expend all its energy winning the first trial by 4 1/2 lengths. "He (jockey Sam Thompson) didn't push her."

Also qualifying was Lachlan, who won his elimination race by 4 3/4 lengths in 1:11 1/5, the same time Triple Mama won her 6-furlong race.

Lachlan also was not "used," as horsemen put it. "He (jockey J.T. Cahanin) just sat there on him (Lachlan)," said trainer Vernon Pullin.

For Cahanin, it was his third win on the day.

Other qualifiers were Batty And Ratty, Here's To Sonny, Co Pilot To Pilot, Mystery Solved, Paco Doll, Southern Hope, Du Wah Didy Didy, and Solid Ambassador.

Jockey Tammy McHargue surprised race fans in the ninth race when the usually-absent-the-thoroughbred rider rode the quarter horse Lynn A Jet to a win from the no. 1 starting gate position by 1 1/4 lengths. The team paid $75.60 to win.

Bettors can go to most any pari-mutuel window to bet either track, but will have to specify which track they want to bet. Plans are to have specially designated Trinity Meadows-only windows, however.

"For new patrons, we'll have straight Trinity Meadows windows in designated areas," said Bowers. "For the more sophisticated bettor, they can bet any race at any window. Be sure to check your tickets thoroughly."

On Wednesdays and Thursdays, Bandera bettors will be able to bet all the Trinity exotic wagers except the superfecta. Bandera bettors can bet on Trinity's twin trifecta, Pick 6 and Pick 3. On Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, Bandera bettors will be able to bet Trinity's twin trifecta, but not Trinity's Pick 6, Pick 3, or superfecta.

The infield toteboard will only show Bandera odds and payoffs. Selected monitors at the track will show Trinity odds and payoffs.

"There will be more entertainment and more excitement in a shorter period of time," said Bowers. "There won't be a whole lot of idle time or dull moments."

Bowers and track director of [illegible] Dianne Blumer will fly to Trinity this week to work out details of the plan.

The deal satisfies the Texas Racing Commission's desire to keep Texas tracks taking regular simulcast races only from other Texas tracks and Trinity Meadows' desire to have at least two tracks' simulcasts original if they are going to put it up on the satellite. When Trinity moved up its post time for the fall, the simulcasting plan they had used before would not longer work with Bandera and Manor.

Food, food, everywhere!

From taste-tempting etouffee` to bodacious boudin, beans bread puddin' or beingnets- you can find it at the festival

"...we feel it is the best Cajun food in these parts..." says Barbara Engel.

The food at the Medina Lake Cajun Festival is prepared by food Chairman Barbara Engel and her crew of volunteers, who spare no expense to create the dishes authentically. Some of the food available includes the following:

• Shrimp e`touffee` and Crawfish e`touffee` are made with a mixture of bell pepper, celery, onions, sauteed garlic, a hint of tomato, spices, and broth. It is simmered with a roux and served over rice. "E'touffee`" means "smothered", and the shrimp or crawfish (served for the first time this year) are indeed smothered in the delicious sauce.

• Crawfish Pies, which were met with skepticism when first introduced at the festival, have become one of the most popular dishes offered. Very labor-intesive to make, the pies' filling (similar to a crawfish e'touffee`) takes most of a day to prepare, and the assembly of the individual pies takes most of another day. There are 540 pies available this year, available on a first-come, first-served basis.

• Jambalaya, a popular Cajun dish, was invented to use up left-overs. The festival's chefs will make it from bell pepper, celery, onion, garlic, spices, tomatos, broth, ham, and smoked sausage.

• Red beans and rice are traditionally served on Monday in Louisiana, because Monday was "wash day" and the beans could be simmered while the lady of the house was up to her elbows in suds. Now wash is done any day, but Monday still remains "bean day". Though a humble dish, red beans and rice are almost revered by Louisianans, and much discussion is given to their preparation.

• Cajun Shrimp Boil is a delicious and simple-to-prepare entree. Louisianans boil their seafood with strong spices and cayenne pepper, which gives it a delicious, spicy taste. Festival cooks will prepare their shrimp boil with spices, corn, and new potatos, accompanied by a red horseradish sauce. The shrimp are purely Texan, purchased in Rockport at Casterline Fish Co.

• Boudin is a Cajun meat- (usually pork) and-rice sausage. It is being served for the first time this year due to the many requests for it. It will be served with Dijon mustard in bread.

• Bread Pudding with Whiskey Sauce is the most popular dessert at the Festival. It is slowly baked with french bread, milk, sugar, eggs, raisins, apple and vanilla. The whiskey sauce is made with sugar, egg, bourbon and real butter.

• Pecan Pralines are made from a recipe originating at a festival in Lafayette. The lady sharing the recipe was supervising 15-20 people cooking pralines there, and customers were lined up five-deep buying them. They will be made on site this year.

• Fried Popcorn Shrimp will be prepared in a spicy batter brought from New Orleans. This was a popular dish last year.

• Barbecued Shrimp, a favorite, is marinated before being barbecued.

• Sausage-on-a-Stick is another perenniel favorite, and is being included to round out the menu.

• Buzzy's Chicken & Beef Fajitas are favorites among visitors from Louisiana, since they can eat e'touffee` anytime. Wilbur Busby is famous for his fajitas, and both his beef and chicken fajitas are tasty, tender, and well-seasoned. This year Buzzy will cook 500 pounds.

• French Donuts, or beignets, are tender, square donuts rolled or sprinkled with powdered sugar. A visit to New Orleans is not complete without beignets and chickory coffee.

Barbara Engel has put together the second edition of the Medina Lake Cajun Festival Cookbook, which is available for sale for $3 at the festival. The cookbook includes lots of recipes including three-time Gumbo Cookoff winner Cat Reilly's recipe for Seafood Gumbo. Below, to whet your appetite, is one of Barbara's recipes:

Shrimp E'touffee`

"Shrimp e'touffee` has become a popular dish at the Cajun Festival. We have many requests for this recipe, and are happy to share it with you. If you wish, you may substitute peeled crawfish for the shrimp. Though crawfish are difficult to find in this part of the country, rumor has it that they reside in our own Medina Lake, though local residents call them 'crawdads,' and use them for fish bait."

1 lb. peeled shrimp
1 c. chopped onion
1/2 c. chopped green onion
1 c. chopped celery with tops
3/4 c. chopped bell pepper
2 or 3 minced cloves of garlic
1 stick of butter or margarine
1/4 c. flour
2 c. chicken broth
salt, black pepper and cayenne pepper to taste
1/2 tsp. tabasco sauce
1/4 tsp. each oregano and thyme
1 to 2 bay leaves
1/4 tsp. basil
1/4 c. vermouth
2 Tbl. tomato paste
1/4 c. chopped parsley

Saute` onions, celery, bell pepper and garlic in 1/2 stick of butter or margarine until translucent. While vegetables saute`, make a light brown roux of 1/2 stick of butter or margarine and flour. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until roux is about the color of a brown paper bag. Add tomato paste to roux and cook about 5 minutes. Combine vegetables, roux and all other ingredients except parsley and shrimp, and simmer about 30 minutes until flavors are well-blended. Add shrimp and parsley, and simmer 5-10 minutes. Serve over cooked rice.

Jambalaya Cajun Band: their roots are firmly planted in tradition

The Jambalaya Cajun Band's style is describe:l as "lively and upbeat," but those terms hardly do the group justice. They obviously enjoy their music, and their enthusiasm is contagious.

The group's five musicians have been playing, singing and writing Cajun music all their lives. They apprenticed at local clubs and restaurants (in Louisiana) like Mulate's Cajun Restaurant in Breaux Bridge; Tipitina's in New Orleans; and Randol's Restaurant in Lafayette. Their music has the foundation of tradition, firmly rooted in the Cajun culture.

The members of Jambalaya have their roots in the Cajun culture: group leader Terry Huval fiddles in a seemingly effortless style, and his body moves and sways in a natural rhythm. His face radiates with pleasure as he sings, and the chanteur has written beautiful Cajun songs rich in the tradition they represent; Reggie Matte learned to play accordion and sing Cajun songs at his grandfather's knee over 30 years ago (and has gone on to become one of the most outstanding accordionists and vocalists of our generatiɔn); Ken David (on bass guitar) has drawn from his 27 years of experience to develop many of the group's unique and bold arrangements; Bobby Dumatrait's rhythm and classical guitar accents the strong and soulful aspects of Cajun music, while the mature and dynamic drum style of Tony Huval enhances its beauty and richness.

The band's honors include designation by the Times of Acadiana as the "1988 Up and Coming Cajun Band"; Terry was named "1988 Best Up and Coming Musician"; Bobby was selected "1989 Best Cajun Guitarist" and Tony was named "1988 Best Cajun Drummer" and "1990 Best Cajun Drummer".

Jambalaya released its album entitled "Le Nouvel Esprit de las Musique Cadjine" (The New Spirit of Cajun Music) on Swallow records (the largest producer of Cajun music in the world) in October, 1988. This album was the biggest selling new album by an individual Cajun group or artist on the Swallow label in 1989. The group released its newest album and compact disc entitled "C'est Fun" in December, 1990, again an effort which shows that this dynamic group is indeed on the cutting edge of Cajun music. This album was the top selling new Cajun album in 1991. The group has now released its third album entitled "Instrumental Collection" in January, 1992.

Jambalaya has put together an impressive resume of festival and large concert promotions including the Houston International Festival, Festival International in Lafayette, the Breaux Bridge Crawfish Festival, the Tulsa Mayfest, Festivals Acadienne in Lafayette and the Spring Festival in Minneapolis. The group was also selected to perform at the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival and the Food and Wine Magazine convention in Aspen, Colorado.

Jambalaya is featured regularly on numerous local television programs, such as Passe Partout, Laissez Les Bons Temps Rouler, Cajun Country U.S.A. and the Rendez-vous de Cadjins at the Liberty Theatre in Eunice.

Individual band members have performed at National Folk Festivals in Lowell, Massachusetts and Wolftrap, Virginia, at the Cajun and Bluegrass Festivals in Rhode Island and Los Angeles, at the Festin de Bay St. Marie in Canada, at the Lincoln Center in New York City and at the Festival du Voyageur in Canada.

McCauley, Reed and Vidrine will entertain

Cory McCauley, Mitchell Reed and Randy Vidrine, better known as McCauley, Reed and Vidrine, are a Cajun dance band known to be faithful to the traditions of southwestern Louisiana.

The trio features fiddle, accordian and acoustic guitar, and they have been playing together for over four years. By playing the music of their ancestors, they strive to continue the rich heritage of music performed as it was decades ago: pure, honest and heartfelt.

"It's hard to write songs that sound like they're 50 years old," says Randy Vidrine. Many of the group's songs are faithfully rollicking interpretations of songs such as "Blues de la Prison," "Quoi Faire?" and "Lulu's Back in Town."

Cory McCauley started playing the accordian at age 16, and his first instructor was Hadlei Fontenot of the Balfa Brothers Band.

Mitchell Reed plays his violin in the style of his teachers Wayne Fruge and Adner Ortego.

Randy Vidrine, vocalist and guitarist for the band, has been playing since his musical career began in high school over 20 years ago. All the vocals are done in French, and his style is influenced by Adam Hebert, Laurence Walker and Rodney Balfa. "We've never done one song in English," Randy says.

Randy is also a violinist and on occasion joins Mitchell in twin fiddles while Cory plays guitar or a third fiddle.

Ruth Gannon Cook,

clairvoyant & visionary

New Orleans futurist and psychic Ruth Gannon Cook returns to this year's Medina Lake Cajun Festival to offer her insightful readings. She will share her Tarot card readings on the Gazebo stage.

Ruth Cook is a fourth generation Cajun whose grandmother spent years cultivating her clairvoyance. She has appeared on television and radio shows around the country, including Sonya 'Live from L.A., NBC's Spectrum, and New Orleans' Angela Hill Show.

The Story of Mulate's

The world's most famous Cajun restaurant

More than 11 years ago, restauranteur Kerry Boutte opened Mulate's in a tiny slice of a building on the edge of Breaux Bridge.

Today, Mulate's occupies a thrice-enlarged 10,000 square foot building. With live Cajun music seven days a week, Mulate's provides a showcase for more than 50 local musicians.

Tourists by the thousands visit Mulate's each year, and the restaurant and dance hall has been featured on all three major television networks. Mulate's has also opened in Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

Not only is Mulate's cuisine excellent and authentic, but the traditional Cajun music and live entertainment also brings in a crowd. The dance floor is packed seven nights a week.

Mulate's Cajun Band appears this year at the Medina Lake Cajun Festival at the Fais do do Pavilion.

All that authentic Cajun food and entertainment takes work

But Barbara Engel says all the many weeks of preparation are worth it for the crowd-pleasing results

"Come to the Twelfth Annual Cajun Festival this year while we're still young enough and crazy enough to do this," advises Barbara Engel, food chairman for 11 of the past 12 years. "Our festival is unique because it's for charity, not profit. I wouldn't do it for profit. It's too hard."

The hard part, as Engel and co-workers Barbara Boggs, Shirley Granberry, Terri Gutz and Billie Lyons know, is the preparation involved in the increasingly popular event held annually on the fourth Saturday in September.

Mountains of eye-watering (blinding) chopped onion, piles of chopped celery, huge cooking pots full of sauteed vegetables are just the beginning. The annual event has built a reputation for offering an unsurpassed array of authentic cajun delicacies.

When Engel married attorney Robert Caswell she was introduced to New Orleans style cooking. Trips back to Caswell's home helped her develop a taste for the food and a feel for how it should be cooked. "Cooking is a hobby of mine," Engel explains. "Over the years I learned Cajun cooking and was able to compile a cookbook." The cookbook is available at the Cajun Festival. Proceeds from the sale of the cookbook go to the Medina Lake Betterment Association, Inc.

The yearly event began 12 years ago when the Medina Betterment Association was unable to meet a mortage payment on the Civic Center property. "Most people don't realize that the Civic Center is not a public building even though it is used by the public. We are a non profit organization of about 100 members. We pay taxes and insurance and maintenance costs on the building and make the payments. Without the funds we raise at the festival, we probably would have to board the building up and close it."

Last year, the Medina Lake Cajun Festival swelled to a crowd of 6,000, and this year even more people are expected to attend.

Engel says the event is unique. "I'm excited about what we have to offer this year. We've built a gazebo. We are offering two real Cajun bands, authentic Cajun cooking, dance demonstrations and some Cajun heritage."

Bob Caswell, a driving force behind the festival, enjoys a dance at last year's event.

The amount of food needed for the event is "mind boggling." Ingrediants are chopped and measured at 50 to 60 cups at a time. It took two days and 40 pounds of flour to prepare the 500 crawfish pies for this year's Sept. 26 festival.

"We fix it all the hard way," Engel says. "Just like we would fix it in our home. We don't try to cut corners. Quality is what makes it sell. "

Engel spent two hours browning equal amounts of flour and butter to create the roux base which she says gives Cajun cooking its distict flavor.

"Louisana cooking is so interesting and different. It is a very distinctive local cuisine. It is a complex and sophisticated form of cooking even though it is usually used by country people who do not consider themselves to be gourmet cooks. They go to so much trouble with their cooking. It's what makes it so unique.

Cajun cooking, Engel says, was influenced by the French. Native ingredients were substituted by Acadians when they left Canada and settled in Louisana. The Spanish and African-American influence is also evident in the choice and use of spices. Typical ingredients include a roux base, tomatoes, onion, celery, bell pepper, green onions, parsley and garlic.

Authentic ingredients are used for the Cajun Festival. Crawfish are imported from Breaux Bridge, Louisana. Batter for the Cajun fried pop corn shrimp is shipped in from New Orleans.

Engel says that it has taken "a few years to find the right direction" for the event. Each year it becomes more successful and is more widely acclaimed. She said that is reward enough for her efforts. After all, she's doing it for love, not money.

Great Gumbo! The festival began as a little ol' cookoff...

And now chefs both professional and amateur return year after year for trophies and the prestige of being named the best

What is now known as the "Cajun Festival" started out as the "Great Gumbo Cook-off" and the 12th annual event at the Lakehills Civic Center will feature contestants both professional and amateur. (Professionals are those that cook for a living. Amateurs are everyone else).

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place in both divisions. A showmanship trophy will be presented to the entrant (in either division) that demonstrates the most flair, public appeal, entertainment, decorations, creativity and/or outrageous presentation of their gumbo. A People's Choice award will also be presented to the contestant in either division who receives the most votes from the general public. All awards will be presented at the Panchita Thomson Pavilion between 5 and 6 p.m.

Festival officials encourage cooks to make a lot of gumbo — eight gallons minimum. One quart must be provided for auction by the festival sponsor, the Medina Lake Betterment Association, and gumbo samples will be available to the public for $1.50 a cup.

Entrants may donate all the money earned to the MLBA or keep as much as 70 percent and donating the 30 percent to the MLBA. Selling time starts at 11 a.m. and can continue to 11 p.m. if the gumbo lasts that long — which it usually doesn't.

Cooks in the amateur division are assigned spaces on a first-come, first-served basis, and professional cooks will be in the "restaurant row" area.

Gumbo will be judged primarily on taste, but also on the type of roux, ingredients, aroma, appearance, texture, flavor, complexity, originality and composition.

Three out-of-town, non-politician judges will serve to grade the entries. Judges are Faye Breaux-Kern, owner of Faye's Catering of Breaux Bridge, La., Bubba Casterline, owner of Casterline Seafood in Rockport, and Mark Negro, food director of the Hilton restaurants in New Orleans and San Antonio.

A little gumbo, anyone?

Cajun fest 'biggest yet'

Crowd topped 8,000 mark

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

"It's the most successful festival ever," reports organizer Bob Caswell.

That's his assessment of the 12th annual Cajun Festival held at the Lakehills Civic Center Saturday, Sept. 26. Over 8,000 persons attended the 13-hour Cajun-gumbo-music festival designed as a fund-raiser for the Medina Lake Betterment Association. "No doubt about it, we had more people than last year," said Caswell.

The height of the day's activities was the Jambalya Cajun Band playing on the Panchita Thomson Pavilion for the night's dance. "The whole thing (pavilion and overflow area) was jammed packed. They blew everyone away," said Caswell.

The MLBA hired the Bexar County REACT CB organization to coordinate parking. The festival had as many as 10 lots and the REACT workers would rotate to a different parking lot to park the new arrivals as the lots emptied from those leaving.

Caswell said the association helped their parking situation considerably by having the festival volunteers park at the Lakehills American Legion parking lot and then shuttling them to the festival site. "It's counter-productive to have volunteers parking on the grounds (and taking up patrons' space)."

The VIA option — bringing people from San Antonio — worked, but wasn't as successful as it could have been. "We broke even on VIA. But it did bring in a lot of people from San Antonio," said Caswell.

Bandera's water to go off Monday for a while

All water service in the immediate area of the Cottonwood and 13th Street intersection in Bandera will be turned off for a brief period Monday, Oct. 5 starting at 8 a.m.

The water will be turned off so that a fire hydrant at that intersection can be replaced, and service will be resumed "as quickly as possible," says city secretary Judy Dunn.

She said that residential and commercial water service from Mulberry Street to Hwy. 173 and Cottonwood Streets will be affected.

For additional information, call the city office at 796-3765.

Bandera Bulletin has new owners

The Bandera Bulletin will have a new owner Thursday.

Sale of the 49-year-old newspaper to Dixie Newspapers of Lufkin was announced this week by Bill Dozier of Kerrville, president of Hills O'Texas Publications, Inc.

Dixie Newspapers publishes community newspapers in Ft. Stockton, Madisonvil Sealy and Gonzales. Include. in the purchase was the Boerne Star. The new owners take over the operation of the Bulletin and the Star.

Hills O'Texas has operated the Bulletin and the Star since purchasing them from Ray Marvin Hay in 1981.

"This marks our retirement from the newspaper business after more than 50 years," Dozier said. "We very much appreciate the privelege of publishing in Bandera for nearly a dozen years, and are most grateful for the way our readers and advertisers and our staff have responded to our efforts with the Bulletin.

"We have great confidence in the potential of Bandera and Bandera County, and we feel we are leaving your newspaper in good hands. We hear good things about Dixie Newspapers and are certain the new owners will prove to be good for Bandera and that Bandera will be good for them."

Jim Chionsini, owner of Dixie Newspapers, said, "We are excited about being in the Hill County. We believe the future for South Central Texas is outstanding, and we feel the Hill Country is the prettiest part of the area."

Chionsini added, "We are community newspaper oriented. We believe the best instrument for good in a town is its newspaper. We publish the local news about and for the readers of that community.

"We consider it a privelege to publish the newspaper in the towns we are in, and we run the paper as if the readers own the paper. We are dedicated to the advertisers and the readers."

Chionsini announced that Dan Sandidge will remain as general manager of the Bulletin, a position he assumed Aug. 1 when former editor-manager Nick Johnson resigned.

"Dan has done an outstanding job at the Bulletin and we welcome him to our team," Chionsini added.

Sandidge welcomed the Dixie Newspapers to Bandera, and he expressed his pleasure at the cooperative spirit expressed by the new owners. He also expressed thanks to Dozier for the many years of fine leadership he gave the Bulletin.

"The staff at the Bulletin looks forward to a rewarding association with Dixie Newspapers, and we are pleased with their interest in the community. I am sure that we will work well together," Sandidge said.

"Bandera is a great little town with a tremendous future and we are proud to be associated with the award-winning Bandera Bulletin," Chionsini said. "We are eager to get to know the staff and work with them."

Bulldog running back Robert Bradford ran for a total of 130 yards including one 37 yard romp for the Dogs' go ahead touchdown. Bandera won their district opener 14-12 Friday night against the district newcomer San Antonio West Campus. The next opponent for BHS is the Ingram Warriors, another new team to District 26-3A. For more on Friday's game against West Campus, please turn to Page 20. A bonfire Thursday night will prepare for the Homecoming celebration Friday, Oct. 2 when Bandera meets Ingram. to the editor

He offers gravy lessons

Dear editor:

I write you about a serious problem in our local restaurants. I will in good graces eat and enjoy most of the food they have to offer. To wit; Triple Battered Chicken-fried Steaks; lumpless, dehydrated potatoes; and Square Perch. (Someday I hope to catch one of those fish.)

To me, the greatest slap of all is the so called cream gravy. I have tried on occasion all of the restaurants in our city and they are all guilty of making something that no self respecting paper hanger would not be happy with. One of the establishments even has the gall to charge $.95 extra for a very small bowl of it.

I offer at no charge to instruct any concerned operator on how to make a good gravy at no additional expense as opposed to the commercially made barff they are now offering.

Dear editor:

Recently I received a call for help from Ms. Connie Villamain a senior citizen of my precinct, living on Robindale Rd, next to the Bandera Downs Race Track.

[illegible] off the road to the stable area have closed up the drainage ditch behind her house, causing the water to floodmouth of her yard.

Although the problem was not county related, I offered to help Ms. Villamain by contacting the Track's GM, Billy Bowers. Mr. Bowers was most cooperative. After hearing my request, he readily agreed to go with me to see Ms. Villamain and check the area. Without hesitation Billy offered to correct the problem and was very courteous and caring to Ms. Villamain.

I wish to take this opportunity to personally thank Mr. Bowers for his positive and willing attitude, and his condern for the citizens living in the proximity of the track. Mr. Bowers is a tribute to Bandera Downs and our community and I am proud to be acquainted with him.

HIGHLIGHTS

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Gov. Ann Richards' administration fought political spinout last week amid the resignations of two top appointees.

■ Railroad Commissioner Lena Guerrero quit her post after remorsefully admitting she did indeed lie on her political biographies and resumes; and

■ State prison board chairman Sheldon Hale resigned after board member Joshua Allen complained to Gov. Richards that Hale targeted him for a police probe.

Guerrero, whose appointment last year symbolized Richards' "New Texas", was the first woman and Hispanic to sit on the commission, which regulates oil and gas and trucking.

Richards and Guerrero drew flack because she had not one day's experience in any of those industries; now Richards is bleeding politically because Guerrero, it turns out, lied about having a college degree.

The governor, insiders said, was "madder than hell" over the damage done by her protege and campaign general.

But she and Guerrero have traveled too many roads to end their close alliance; when Guerrero asked for advice, she replied "do what is best for you as a person."

Guerrero apologized, but Hale did not.

Complains to Richards

Hale, an Amarillo attorney, had ordered a conflict-of-interest probe of fellow board member Allen, a Beaumont contractor.

But he did not first notify the governor's office, as required by law.

Allen, the first African-American to sit on the panel and also a Richards appointee, complained to her when he found out he was a target.

A governor's spokesperson said Richards believed the probe hurt unity on the board, but did not ask Hale to quit.

Hale won't say if she did; he did say he thought the probe was proper, even if it turned up no evidence, and that he would probably do it again.

Morales Steps In

Hale's departure could jeopardize a pending settlement of the long drawn-out Ruiz prison reform lawsuit.

Attorney General Dan Morales had also clashed with Hale, mainly over the proposed settlement of the Ruiz case.

Morales thought Hale, a trial lawyer, negotiated a pact too soft on inmates and favoring the prison lawyers' San Francisco lawyers at the taxpayers' expense.

Morales called on Richards to name a prosecuting attorney as Hale's successor, a tougher negotiator.

In response, the San Francisco lawyers for the prison inmates warned they may not sign off on the settlement, if they think the prison board is changing directions.

Guerrero: Odds Good

Capitol insiders give Guerrero a good chance at winning the election because she has $1 million in TV ads bought and paid for.

"Don't underestimate what a $1 million media buy can do," cautioned one veteran Democrat.

Her Republican opponent, Barry Williamson, doesn't have near the financial resources, although his chances of getting more contributions now are enhanced.

Guerrero's Credibility

The big issue is Guerrero's credibility; she may have shot herself in the foot again, even as she salved the first wounds.

After her press conference, Guerrero sought refuge at a warm campaign rally in Falfurrias, but not before lying one more time about her non-existent college degree.

In the wrap-up, Guerrero repeated her original story, that she first learned two weeks ago she had not graduated.

That prompted Carol Rylander, who lost her GOP primary bid for the post, to rip Guerrero for perpetuating the lie. Rylander said she knew Guerrero had no degree as far back as her own campaign.

After the press conference, Guerrero issued an apology, saying she wanted a degree so much, she had come to believe her own story.

Bush Taps Hutchison

President Bush appointed Texas State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison to be a member of the newly-established Commission to Promote Investment in America's Infrastructure.

The seven-member commission was established by Congress in the 1992 Transportation bill to study the feasibility of creating a type of security to permit the investment of pension funds in infrastructure construction in the U.S.

Other Highlights

■ A national study by the League of Women Voters ranked Texas among the top five states for ease and convenience of voter registration. A voter-friendly system has both registration by mail and at convenient sites, and quick response to purge notification.

■ State Rep. James Hury, D-Galveston, resigned last week to become a lawyer/lobbyist in the Austin office of Fulbright & Jaworski law firm. Hury, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was a candidate for speaker next term.

■ The State Board of Insurance approved rule changes allowing Lirger discounts on mortgage title insurance for owners refinancing their homes. The new discounts range from 15 percent to 40 percent.

■ The State Bar of Texas has disbarred four lawyers, suspended 27 and reprimanded 30 so far this year, a record pace for disciplinary actions.

Local Republican candidates expected to attend are Kerrie Schneider, candidate for county attorney; James MacMillan, candidate for sheriff; Louise Karr, justice of the peace candidate; Ernest Reich III, candidate for constable; Allen Hatley, candidate for constable; [illegible] and Louis Vannatter, candidate for commissioner.

Statewide candidates expected to be present are Barry Williamson, railroad commissioner; Joseph Devany, [illegible] Larry Meyers, judge, court criminal appeals; Craig Enoch, justice, supreme court; Sue Lagarde, judge, court criminal appeals; Bob Offutt, state board of education; Troy Fraser, state senator; Tom Rickhoff, justice, court of appeals; E. The Republicans invite the public to take this opportunity to meet these candidates before the upcoming November election.

Youth center group meets

Basketball court project is becoming reality

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The Bandera County Youth Center group is slowly, but surely, making progress to make its first project — a basketball court — a reality.

The group met Tuesday, Sept. 29, under the shade of the oak trees at Mansfield Park near one of the proposed sites for the court.

The group, led by interim president James MacMillan of Lakehills, wants to show progress on some project. The basketball court was selected because the surveys indicate demand for the court and the group has a $1,000 donation towards court construction and donations of two basketball goal posts and associated equipment.

Group members will explore the possibility of improving and taking over the existing, but damaged tennis court/basketball courts near the Bandera Junior High School.

The group will also get estimates on constructing a new court at Mansfield Park.

The group hopes to spark interest in the goal of a youth center by getting at least one project off the ground. If the basketball court is successful in Bandera, then they will consider construction — usually through cooperation of other area groups — in other parts of the county such as Pipe Creek, Lakehills and Medina. If the basketball courts work out, then they will attempt to build swimming pools in different areas.

The youth center group will meet again Tuesday, Oct. 27, at noon at Mansfield Park for a brown bag at lunch. They'll hear from the nominating committee, elect officers and discuss plans for the basketball court.

Horsewomen set sale near track

A women's auxiliary of the Bandera horsemen's association will host a garage sale Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 3-4, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. across from Bandera Downs.

The Bandera Women of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association are collecting items for their "Great Big" Garage Sale.

Homemade baked treats will also be available.

Money raised will be contributed to the Bandera Downs purse account to be used to pay purses of "overnight" (every day) races.

The women's group will also seek sponsors to add money to other purses.

PC postmaster Haynes to retire

Carmen Haynes will retire her position as Pipe Creek Postmaster. She has spent 26 years in the postal service and has served 12 years at the Pipe Creek location.

An Open House will be held to honor Haynes on Thurs., Oct. 1, 1992, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Post Office.

Everyone is invited to attend the open house.

Happy Birthday, Johnnie Wedgworth!

With love from Sandi, Wanda, Christopher, and Calvin

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) When you're quiet this week, you're very quiet. When you're loud, it seems as if you're thinking through your actions right now. (Maybe hatching a plot or two.) You don't need to go all through this, as you're a natural this winter. Use the weekend to build your self-confidence.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You experience the proverbial highs and lows this week. The good news is, there are twice as many highs as there are lows. You also zero in on what you want and, you old goat, you get it. Expect to do a lot of celebrating and partying this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Making your presence known has never been a problem, Aquarius. Keeping you under control can be. You demonstrate the know-how to get what you want in business. Socially, you're a whirlwind this week.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) (You have a very wild imagination, Pisces, and when you let it go... Whatever that daydream is, you're determined to make it happen by the weekend. Creative brainstorming with pals takes up a good portion of your time. You make a great show at work, as well.

TCI Cablevision presented $130 to Bandera Volunteer Firefighters

Tim Mathews, group manager of TCI Cablevision in Kerrville, said the $130 donation to the Bandera Volunteer Fire Department from TCI was a first step in becoming more involved in the Bandera Community.

The donation was the result a promotion held June-August throught the United States in conjunction with the showing of the Showtime movie, "Backdraft." For every new install in the Bandera system, five dollars was donated to the community. It was to be spent for either fire prevention training in the school or to purchase needed equipment.

Bandera is scheduled to receive another pay service, "Encore", and to benefit from expanded basic services. Beginning Sept. 1, maintenance will be available from the Kerrville office. A local number, 796-7483, will dial through to Kerrville for maintenance as of Oct. 10. This will save TCI customers the cost of a long distance call when needing repairs.

Bandera school librarian Patsy Small explains how to use a micro-fiche reader to a freshman class Thursday, Sept. 17 during a library orientation seminar.

Lillian Butcher and Diane Payne (not pictured) of the Bandera Independent School District recently completed a course for fourth grade teachers, "The Institute on Texas History and Culture." The course is offered to fourth and seventh grade teachers each summer by the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio.

Bandera Super S Foods store manager James Sloan was one of 25 store managers who recently won a seven-day, all expense paid Alaskan cruise for two aboard the Holland America's MS Noordam. Bandera Super S Foods market manager (not shown) was one of four market managers who also won an Alaskan cruise.

'Booktalking' at BJHS

Librarian Patsy Small uses a variety of incentives

Patsy Small, librarian at Bandera High School and Junior High, treated Junior High students to the first in a series of booktalks recently. They are presented as an incentive to get students to read.

Small presents talks on books which are included in the Texas Lone Star Reading List for grades 6-8. She does not disclose the ending of the stories. Students are encouraged to read as many of the 20 books on the list as they can, then answer a few simple questions. Rewards include bookmarks, book plates, reading certificates, paperback books, and ice cream sundaes provided by Dairy Queen.

The Texas Library Association, in conjuntion with the state's junior high schools, established the Lone Star Reading List. The purpose of the list is to promote the reading of current, entertaining, quality literature from a variety of genres such as realistic fiction, fantasy, mystery/adventure, and sports. Consideration is given to different reading levels and the number of male and female protagonists in establishing the lists.

Perry applauds bill to protect facilities

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry recently applauded Congressional passage of an animal enterprise protection bill, which makes it a federal crime to commit violent and destructive acts against animal research and agricultural production facilities.

"It's unfortunate that such a bill is necessary, but as more people become further removed from agricultural production, some may be swayed by irrational arguments against legitimate and humane treatment of animals in agriculture and research," Perry said. "The fact is, farmers and ranchers are the original animal welfare advocates. Their livelihoods rely on ensuring the well-being of their animals.

"This bill will now enable farmers, ranchers or other food and fiber producers to not only receive compensation if they are violently attacked by extremist groups, but also to seek criminal penalties," Perry said.

Among the measure's provisions are jail sentences of up to a year for anyone causing more than $10,000 in damage to an animal enterprise and restitution for the loss of food production or farm income.

By Bungy

Out at Lost Valley this past weekend we had a really funny coincidence. Someone named McCain had called and reserved four cabins. A few hours later, someone named McCain called up and reserved four cabins. Well, the logical conclusion was that the same family had called and were double-booking. Four cabins were reserved for them. Wrong! Saturday night arrived and McCains started checking in and coming back to the office to complain that they had been promised four cabins in a row and they weren't getting them because there were strangers next door. "Impossible," we said. "You've got four cabins in a row." We promised to show them the book and their cabin locations. It took a while to realize that there were two sets of McCains. They were all having a family reunion for the first time in 20 years. The grandmother and grandfather, who'd been divorced many years ago, had arranged the reunion but they wanted on separate sides of the ranch. And since no one else had seen each other in all that time, they didn't know each other. So like the song, "with a little 'comp' here and a little 'comp' there, and a little switch here and a little switch there-away, away to the merry green fields, away!"

And just when I thought everyone was settled and happy, a man came to the front desk and I said, "McCain?" And he said, "yes". As I waited with bated breath, he said, "could I have four quarters for a dollar?"

"Oh, yes! Oh, yes!" I gladly gave him four quarters for a dollar!

Are there any other silly Dude Ranch, hotel or tourist stories out there?

• On Oct. 4, from 4-7 p.m., the "Friends of the Library" are having their annual fund raiser, a sausage BBQ, at the fire house. It's the place to be to meet and greet and have fun with all the great entertainment and food. And your conscience won't hurt you 'cause it's all for a good cause- our county library! Which, by the way, is crammed with knowledge.

You want to write your own novel? They have the book! Find out about people around the world. Read up on the Bandera History. (Great collection!) Study different religions, (just ask), story telling sessions for your little darlings? (Every Tuesday at 10 a.m.

So, you see, that's what eating a little sausage on Oct. 4 brings you! (Plus a pretty fair county budget!)

On Saturday, Oct. 10, the American Legion is having a membership Renewal dinner-dance for all members and for those who may be eligible and want to join. Watch for the invitation in the Bulletin. Local musicians will be holding forth for you to dance Fraulein or the West Falls Waltz, and lots of good eats, too. Musician considered Louisiana's leading authority on Cajun history

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

The land of the Cajuns — the bayous and prairies of Louisiana — is like a different nation, a nation influenced by music, fishing, pirates, and [illegible]

But yet, they, too, are part of the American heritage.

Robert Reed of Lafayette, La., brought images of the Cajun heritage to Lakehills at the 12th annual Cajun festival Saturday, Sept. 26.

According to Cajun Festival organizer Bob Caswell, Reed, a lecturer at universities and fairs, is considered the fore[illegible] ry and heritage in the state of Louisiana.

The instruments of Cajun music are the fiddle, accordion, triangle and guitar.

While the fiddle (violin) is identified with Cajun music, when the Cajuns left France, the violin was not popular. According to Reed, the violin was not popular in France until the 1650s and 1660s. "Prior to that it was tin whistles and bag pipes," said Reed.

"The bag pipe was a very common instrument throughout [illegible]

When the Cajuns left southwest France and Normandy, they left with small whistles primarily. They were not fiddle players. Their language was a mix between Gallic and French.

"As they got to Nova Scotia, the fiddle became very popular through out all of Europe. You people (other colonists) coming over were introducing the fiddle to them."

So they did take up the fiddle. "When they (Cajuns) first started playing the fiddle, they would take the music they were playing on the whistle and play it on the fiddle. They never mixed vocals and instrumentation. For a hundred years to come, they never mixed vocals and instrumentation.

"All the singing was done without the accompaniment of instruments. Instruments were used to play only instrumental music. We never mixed the two.

Singing then was done by the women, even though there are few female Cajun musicians today. "The old ballads that came from Nova Scotia and France were passed on by the mothers."

They'd sing at night on their porch. They'd sing ballads, sing to their children to put them to sleep, and sing to put them back to sleep when they'd wake up. "That's how all our songs were passed down."

When the Cajun people were removed from Nova Scotia by the British, they were thrown on boats and separated from their families. "A lot of Cajun families never saw each other again." Missing also was musical instruments.

There were no instruments in Louisiana for them when they got there. So they sang and played percussion instruments. "They would hit on logs, wood, sticks, iron, anything they could find."

Eventually, the fiddle made its way into Louisiana. "The Cajuns picked it up and started playing the music from their past. It became their very first instrument. It had an Irish sound to it."

The early music had a Celtic sound to it. It was a mixture of German, French and pure Cajun. It sounded like jigs and reels. The [illegible] would be accompanied by the triangle. "The Cajuns gave up banging on logs."

While they didn't mix instruments and vocals in Nova Scotia, they started playing an instrument while someone would sing in Louisiana.

House bands soon started using two fiddles. One would play background and the other the melody.

House dances were held regularly — held on Wednesday (to celebrate the middle of the week) and on Saturday. Not Sunday — they had to work on Monday.

One of the children would go out on one of the plow horses, carry the family's flag to the neighbors and when he or she arrived, he or she would let out a Cajun yell. The neighbors would know from the flag where the dance was to be held that night.

They'd clear all the furniture out of the room for dancing. They'd make a big gumbo and the neighbors would bring something to add to the gumbo.

The gumbo was made out of old hens. Young hens still lay eggs. When they quit laying eggs, it was gumbo time.

Smoked sausage and smoked and salted pork were also added to the gumbo.

A Cajun hero? The pirate Jean Lafitte. "We hold pirates in high esteem in Louisiana," said Reed.

"The greatest thing was the role that he (Lafitte) played in the war against England. We had a small force — a few boats — and he was the brains of the operation. His strategy was to go in, hit them hard and get out of there before they could be hit.

"We still have people hunting for his treasure. In New Orleans, they'll be glad to sell you a treasure map to one of his treasures. Be very careful when you go to New Orleans. Don't buy anything in New Orleans. That's what I tell people. Just look and watch."

New Orleans is not a Cajun community, said Reed. "There are a lot of Cajuns there. The way of life (there) is not Cajun. You'll meet Cajun people there."

As you move south from New Orleans into the bayou territory, that's Cajun territory. "These people (in the bayous) have made a living fishing and trapping all their life. The majority of these people are still pure Cajuns — the Cajuns that came from Nova Scotia. They stayed isolated and never moved around much. They are the most cautious of the Cajun people. They speak the true Cajun French."

As you move west in Louisiana, get into the prairie Cajuns. These are the last Cajuns to move down from Nova Scotia. "They were given the dry prairie lands. No trees. No one wanted it. Today that's where all the oil and gas wells are."

(See HERITAGE, Page 23)

Cajun history expert Robert Reed of Lafayette, La., talked to the crowd at the Cajun Festival in Lakehills Saturday about the music of Cajuns.

TAXES O.K.

B.A.C.T. supports the necessity of a county tax increase due to the fact that there has been no major increase for ten years.

County administrators and personnel have forth-rightly communicated with the public and should be commended for their desire to serve and hold expenses down.

ROOKED AGAIN

B.A.C.T. opposes the school tax hike of 32% as the result of a collaboration to hike the tax rate up to just below the rollback trigger.

Those voting in favor of the hike: James Wagner, Bub Keese, Emit Dalton, Ann Samuel, Ken Vackey. Those opposed: Margaret Paradee, George Wesch.

Over and over it has been demonstrated that academic achievement is not tied to increasing expenditures of money.

The Bandera schools continue to decline academically as the money costs increase.

The real cost is that the government's school system of "tax and spend" is not working for our community in bettering standards for true education.

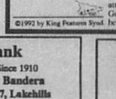
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The Prize That Comes From God

"I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Jesus Christ."
— Philippians 3:14



God the Creator has given mankind innumerable instances of His concern for their well-being on earth. He has provided the means whereby men can feed, clothe and shelter themselves. Naturally, since nothing comes without a price, there are ills to be encountered in life as well. But assuredly the good outweighs the evil. If we recognize that everything must be won by our own efforts, we can better understand Paul's exhortation to the Christians at Philippi to keep striving for that greatest attainment of all — the prize we must all seek in order to share God's glory in heaven. Jesus has taught us the way, and it will be through Him that we eventually may reach that goal.

Retirement means no work, right? Wrong! C.B. Oates says

By Carolyn Edwards
Bulletin Staff Writer

With a background of haunting flute and string Ecuadorian folk music, C. B. Oates told members of the First Baptist Church in Pipe Creek what it means to be a missionary.

Oates, who spent 10 years as a missionary to Peru with [illegible] years as an instructor for the Defense Language Institute at Lackland Air Force Base, considered herself retired. But then she got a call from Campus Crusade for Christ. They needed a translator to accompany a basketball team to Ecuador.

Oates had been to Quito, the equatorial capitol city, over 40 years ago and was amazed by the changes.

"The Indian Christian churches are really taking off," says Oates. "And I was gratified to see that women are playing a more important role in the churches. I even saw men carrying their babies, feeding them, setting the table for meals. That was something that simply was not done 40 years ago."

Quito is not a backward or primitive city. The economy is bolstered by mining, tourism and textiles. There is an expressway, two malls and the [illegible] MacDonald's and Pizza Hut.

The kids enjoy playing computer games, ping pong and chess.

[illegible] dusty with cool temperatures at night.

Food is relatively inexpensive, especially staples like rice and beans. Processed foods such as canned foods and instant can be expensive.

Meat is also somewhat higher, and butcher shops leave something to be desired in the quality of sanitation. In the Indian market an ax and a wood stump serve as the butcher's chief tools.

The meat tends to be "tough—tough—tough," says Oates, "so the pressure cooker is commonly used." But meat is eaten in small quantities, while fresh fruits and vegetables are eaten in abundance.

Shopping in the markets was fun and interesting. "A $500 bill is worth about 33¢ in American money," says Oates. "So we seemed to be carrying around huge amounts of money whenever we went out." All the women carry their money stuffed down the front of their blouses.

The Indians dress according to the district they are from, each area producing their own unique styles and colors. Pastel colors are not common and Oates said she stuck out like a sore thumb if she wore light colored outfits.

"But the Lord was looking out for me. When I was packing I kept asking Him to tell me what to bring and I kept grabbing my black skirts and slacks and dark blouses, so I was prepared when I got down there."

"There is really much more religious freedom there than we have here," says Oates. "Christians witness where ever they go and we were free to go into the children's hospital and the military hospital and hand out tracts and talk to people."

The hospitals are limited in the services they provide. In the children's hospitals there were no toys for the children and patients generally have to provide their own bed linens and go out to get their prescriptions filled and [illegible] injections.

Oates accompanied a group of girls called "Athletes in Action" to the outlying areas. [illegible] and showed a film called "Jesus." During the breaks, they would witness to the people and Oates served as translator.

She also translated for a revival held at the First Baptist Church in Quito and worked with missionaries there.

"Missionaries are ordinary people. I kept seeing people who reminded me of church members back home," says Oates. "You don't need any special intelligence or abilities to be a missionary, just a desire to serve the Lord."

"Of course," says Oates, "not all Christians are called to serve as missionaries, but we are all called to 'put on the whole armor of God' as we're told in Ephesians, and become prayer warriors. If you aren't a missionary, make it a point to pray for them and their work throughout the world."

Oates doesn't treat retirement as a time to sit in a rocker on the front porch watching the world go by.

An active member of her chuch, she has also taught Spanish at the Hispanic Baptist Seminary in San Antonio, helped with the conversational Spanish class at the Silver Sage Corral in Bandera, and assists with a Spanish mission in Comfort.

In her "spare time" she is editing a book on butterflies.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

As we go through life all of us at one time or another face many crises. When these crises occur confusion sometimes occurs. To face a crisis requires courage--and courage is a personal matter. Courage can not be leased, borrowed or bought. It must be drawn from one's self for one's self. And when courage is shown, it often draws out the courage in others. When courage is shown, confusion can and often does disappear.

Ever since time began, the greatest source for courage has been traced to a foundation on a faith. Faith creates hope. Without faith and hope, courage is difficult to come by. In spite of dark clouds, faith, hope and courage will always be the means to let us see the rays of sunshine again.

Gambling 'feeding frenzy' expected, Baptist Life Commission predicts

Texas should brace for a potential "feeding frenzy" by gambling promoters when the Texas Legislature reconvenes in January, according to Weston Ware of the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission.

With the Texas lottery in place and tickets still selling briskly, gambling proponents will seize the moment to lobby for a broad range of new gambling enterprises, from casinos on off-shore islands and riverboats to legalized video lotteries in neighborhood convenience stores, Ware predicted.

"Like sharks that have smelled blood and are feeding without thought or reason, those who stand to profit will push hard to expand gambling in Texas," he said. "The issue is simply whether Texans are willing to allow a feeding frenzy of gambling."

Dick Graves, chairman of the Texans Who Care anti-gambling coalition, echoed the sentiment, saying, "We must be concerned about the gambling frenzy that has infested Texas. We cannot just look the other way. We have to be involved."

One expected gambling proposal would allow up to 17 floating casinos on Texas rivers and lakes. Another would call for land-based casinos in South Padre Island hotels and on "Pleasure Island," near Port Arthur.

Amusement game manufacturers and vendors are expected to lobby the legislature.

Justice
Ron Carr
Court of Appeals

Dear Bandera County Voter,

This week I'll be visiting with you on the Fourth Court of Appeals New Alternate Dispute Resolution Program.

The Texas Legislature has authorized Alternate Dispute Resolution Programs across the state to carry out the state's policy of encouraging the early settlement of pending litigation through voluntary settlement proceeding. To implement this state policy, the Fourth Court of Appeals adopted local rules in 1991 to implement the court's new ADR program which will provide an effective alternate local forum for the early voluntary resolution of pending appeals at no cost to the tax-payer.

I'm proud to serve as your rural Judge on the Texas Fourth Court of Appeals and to be your voice of experience and integrity.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for optional Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone service, effective March 15, 1993, unless otherwise determined by the PUC.

These proposed rates will not increase or decrease the Company's overall revenues; the net effect will be neutral to the Company's annual revenues.

The Company proposes to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service for residential customers from $1.00 to 68 cents, and also to reduce the Touch-tone rates for business customers from $1.75 to $1.70. In addition, the Touch-tone rates for business PBX trunks will be reduced from $3.15 to $2.18.

This proposal to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service does not change the commitment that the Company made in the Docket No. 8585 Stipulation to reduce the rates for Touch-tone service in 1993.

The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling-8 and Speed Calling-30. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

	Residence Current Rate	Residence Proposed Rate	Business Current Rate	Business Proposed Rate
One Feature per line
Call Waiting	$2.10	$2.85	$2.65	$3.25
Call Forwarding	2.10	2.10	2.65	3.50
3-Way Calling	2.10	2.10	2.65	2.50
Speed Call-8	2.10	2.10	2.65	2.50
Two Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding	3.75	4.25	4.75	6.00
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling	3.70	4.25	4.75	4.75
Call Waiting, Speed Calling-8	3.70	4.25	4.75	4.75
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling	3.70	3.50	4.80	5.00
Call Forwarding, Speed Calling-8	3.70	3.50	4.75	5.00
3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	3.70	3.50	4.75	4.00
Three Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and 3-Way Calling	5.30	5.65	6.90	7.50
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.65	6.90	7.50
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.65	6.90	6.25
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	4.90	6.90	6.50
Four Features per line
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	6.90	7.05	9.00	9.00
Speed Calling - 30 code capacity	3.20	3.20	4.25	3.20

Most of the Company's residence and business customers who subscribe to Custom Calling Features and Touch-tone service will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring.

It is expected that the restructuring of Custom Calling Features will result in a rate increase for approximately 2.9 million residence customers and 280,000 business customers. The reduction in rates for certain Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone Service will affect approximately 4.3 million residence customers and 1.7 million business customers.

This rate restructuring is expected to have a "revenue-neutral" effect on the Company's annual revenues. The proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $19.8 million; while the reduction in Touch-tone rates will decrease the Company's annual revenues by $19.8 million.

This proceeding has been designated Docket No. 11382. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this proceeding should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline to intervene is October 30, 1992. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Disaster sign-up ends Friday, Oct. 2

Phase II of a three-part disaster program has been funded at $100 million. Signup began Sept. 8, and will end Oct. 2. It will cover wheat, oats and barley planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992.

Sept. 30 is the sales closing date for 1993 wheat, barley and oats.

When the farm's 1992 actual production and disaster payment or deficiency forgiveness is requested under Phase II or Phase III, 1993 multiple peril crop insurance is required. If 1993 multiple peril crop insurance is not obtained or is cancelled by a producer before the end of the 1993 crop year, 1992 disaster payments and forgiven advance deficiency payments must be immediately repaid with interest.

Producers must agree to obtain 1993 multiple peril crop insurance for the applicable farm and crop when the farm's 1992 actual production for the crop is less than 35 percent of the expected production. Multiple peril crop insurance is not required in 1993 when disaster payments are requested for 1990 and 1991 crops.

Phase III has been funded $665 million and will cover all commercial crops. Signup starts Oct. 13 and continues through Feb. 12. A farm that signs up under Phase II will be limited to only 1992 crops under Phase III. If a farm is not signed up under Phase II, it will have a choice of claiming 1990, 1991, or 1992 losses. Only one year may be claimed.

If 1992 Disaster is filed, 1993 Multi-Peril Crop Insurance is required.

"I've had that recipe for I don't know how long," she said. "I've had it for years and years and years."

The mystery was, how did the recipe come to appear in the cookbook?

Luella Vanderveer appears to be one of those wonderful and talented cooks whose humble and modest attitude would prevent her from doing anything that appeared to be bragging. But apparently someone that she shared the recipe with over the years thought it was good enough to share with others.

The daughter of Ed and Cora Mansfield, Luella was raised in Bandera. She credits her mother, whom she says was also a "good cook," with teaching her fine culinary skills.

On Page 227 of the Texas Country Reporter Cookbook is Luella's recipe for coffee cream fudge. Also included is Judy Kilpatrick of Kerrville's Smoked Sausage and Oysters.

"As a young girl growing up in Corpus Christi, my mother frequently fixed this smoked sausage and oyster dish when my aunts, uncles and cousins from around Texas gathered at our house for family get-togethers," Judy explains of her recipe in the book. "I didn't realize it then, but the origin of the recipe must be Cajun because as a young wife living in Louisiana, I discovered a similar dish."

Other recipes in the cookbook include ones for Mexican Eggrolls, Ostrich Stroganoff and John Wayne Casserole.

To further whet your appetite, here is Luella Vanderveer's recipe:

Coffee Cream Fudge

2 cups brown sugar
1/4 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup strong coffee
1/8 tsp. salt
2 Tbl. butter
1 cup chopped nuts

In a saucepan combine all ingredients except nuts and cook until mixture reaches soft-ball stage, then cool to room temperature. Beat until thick and creamy, add nuts, and pour into a buttered pan. Cool.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

RICK PERRY
Commissioner

Dear Fellow Farmers and Ranchers:

Allow me to introduce to you the man I feel should be your next State Senator from District 25--my good friend Troy Fraser. Troy and I have known each other since High School FFA programs, but that's not why I'm supporting him.

Troy Fraser is from a rural background. Like most of us, he grew up in the country, showed animals through FFA and understands the needs of rural Texas and Texas agriculture. Having served with him in the Texas House, I know Troy is a strong voice for rural Texas and Texas agriculture. Troy is leading efforts to stop the confirmation of Texas Water Commissioners intent on stealing the water rights of all Texans.

Just as important, Troy is a successful businessman who understands the heavy burden our businesses bear today. Troy knows first hand how hard it is to meet a payroll, deal with government regulation, and pay high taxes and insurance rates.

As you have heard me say before, the future of Texas agriculture is increasing value added processing in Texas. We must bring more agriculture related jobs to rural Texas. Troy knows to do this we must improve Texas' sagging business climate.

Together Troy and I led successful efforts in 1989 to overhaul the Texas workers' compensation insurance system. Today, Troy continues to work to make Texas more attractive to new businesses by leading the fight to repeal Texas' new business income tax, force government to live within its means, stop frivolous lawsuits and reduce unnecessary government regulation and reform.

With your help, Troy will put his effective leadership to work for District 25 in the Texas Senate. We need Troy in the Senate helping fight for the changes we want and need for rural Texas.

Best Wishes,
Rick Perry

Johanna Anthony and Cheerokee Rymers stand by a shirt reportedly worn by the world's "heaviest medically weighed human." The shirt is on display at Cherokee's Oldies Junk Shop in Lakehills.

Cherokee's Oldies Junkshop has the biggest shirt

Shirt belonglong to world's heaviest human is among their treasures

Rozanne A. Martinez, owner of "Cherokee's Oldies Junkshop" in Lakehills, proudly displays a shirt reportedly worn by Robert Earl Huges, "heaviest medically weighed human" in the world.

Is the shirt authentic? Martinez will never tell! She says that her grandfather, the late Nick A. Anthony of Lukin, had the shirt in his shop for twenty years. She inherited the contents of the shop after his death. "I was the only one of the family that took after him," she explains. "I've been collecting things for10 years. As for this shirt, I just take his word for it. To question if it is authentic would be to call him a liar. He says it belonged to Robert Earl Huges. It even has all the measurements on it."

The shirt is so large that it took Martinez three hours to iron it. It hangs on a specially welded hanger and weighs eight pounds.

Huges weighed 1,069 pounds at his death in 1958 at the age of 32. He was six-and-a-half feet tall. His chest was 124 inches; his waist was 122 inches; his upper arm was 40 inches, and he was buried in a coffin the size of a piano case. In fact, the coffin itself weighed more than 1,100 pounds and was lifted with a crane.

Martinez moved to Lakehills from San Antonio two years ago and has just held a "Grand Opening" for Cheerokees. The oldies shop is named after her daughter. She picked the name because she liked it. The building itself is constructed out of 50 year old lumber which was salvaged from Silvestre and Junita Casares' estate. A plaque recognizes the origin of the wood.

A hand-lettered sign tells the rest of the story for Martinez. "Cherokees is dedicated to my grandparents, Nick a. Anthony and Frances R. Anthony. (He inspired me and she encouraged me.) Special thanks to my dad, Rudy Anthony and my partner, Raymond Rymers who built it."

Martinez and Rymers expect to be married in the near future.

Government awareness to be topic of program

The Bandera County office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring a "Local Government Awareness" program on Tuesday, Oct. 20 at the High School Auditorium and Cafeteria.

The program will be conducted through the V.G. Young Institute of County Government located at Texas A&M University. The Institute's objective is to help county and district officials become more effective local leaders through a variety of conferences, workshops, seminars and printed materials.

County officials, departments and elected positions will give a presentation of their offices and what their responsibilities are. This program is open to the public. Many citizens are not aware of the roles of elected officials and various offices involved with county and local government operation. This will be a worthwhile, informative program.

The High School Young Republicans Club and the Texas Association of Future Educators are willing to participate in role-play situations and as hosts and hostesses.

PC EMS Support Team to sell 'a barnfull' of items

The Pipe Creek EMS Support Team has a barn-full of items that they'll be selling at their barn sale Saturday to raise funds to help complete their ambulance barn.

Items that have been donated include a hospital bed, stove, sink, cabinet with a sink in it, wood table, meat slicer, hand-knitted afgan, bed frame, strollers and car seats for young children, all kinds of clothes, kitchen items, some tools, car vacuums, new and old doors, some toys, old records and "typical garage sale stuff," says spokeswoman Fay Honaker.

The sale begins at 9 a.m. at the Pipe Creek EMS barn on State Highway 16 and will continue "until we're sold out," says Honaker — probably about 5 or 6 p.m.

In conjunction with the barn sale, the support team will also host a cake sals.

The support will also have fajitas for sale.

The EMTs will have medical forms available that people can fill out in anticipation of an emergency that may come up in the future. It's a patient information form that will list a person's medical problems (allergies, medications, conditions) and where they live (a place to draw a map) so that if EMS has to come out, they'll be ahead of the game.

Tables 'going fast' for St. Victor's event

Tables for the Oct. 10 flea market at St. Victor's Catholic Chapel in Lakehills are going fast and it looks as though there will be plenty of vendors offering items for fall shopping.

All the tables under the pavilion are rented and 12 long tables outside the pavilion are rented, reports spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann. "We have some long tables for rent and quite a few small tables," says Hartmann.

Persons interested in obtaining a table or space should call 751-2628, 535-6247 or 751-2284. Tables are $5 and space for $3 each.

Concession stands will offer breakfast tacos, nachoes, taquitos (corn tortillas with chicken or beef inside), soft drinks, coffee, tea, and desserts such as cookies and cake.

The flea market will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the chapel's site on Park Road 37.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON – Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity — by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter their usual eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals.

Will it hurt, Doc? seems to be the dog's question as Bandera Hill Country Veterinary Hospit Doctor Layne Holmes prepares a rabies vaccination. Brian Edwards holds the relu nt patient which, by the way, could use a good home. Staff photo by Larry T. Williams

T reat of rabies is more prominent during fall, winter months, vet says

As autumn comes upon us and winter approaches the threat of rabies becomes more prominent, and in 1992 a record number of rabies cases have already been seen in Bandera County, according to veterinarian Conrad Nightingale.

Rabies is a threat to both humans and domestic animals. In Bandera county alone, six cases of rabies in animals have been confirmed in the last year and a half. As recently as July, a cow was diagnosed as having rabies. Other reports include one cat, three foxes and a bat. As migratory wildlife enters the area this fall, pet and animal owners are urged to take extra precautions to make sure pets are current on their vaccinations.

All warm blooded animals are at risk of developing rabies, however, certain animals are much more at risk than others.

Skunks, foxes and raccoons are the most common carriers of rabies in the United States and in Texas. Foxes are also a major source of wildlife rabies and rabies in raccoons has increased dramatically since the early 1970's.

Cats on the other hand, are becoming more of a threat for rabies exposure to humans because of the number of people who choose cats as pets and yet do not get them vaccinated for rabies. Cats generally have more contact with wildlife.

Rabid cats often become vicious and will attack humans and other animals when they are disturbed. The best way to prevent the vulnerability of human rabies cats or any pet is to make sure all pets are vaccinated every year.

Deputy Sal Obiedo honored

He's made 272 arrests in Medina Lake Park

Would-be law breakers at the Bandera County Park at Medina Lake will not miss Bandera County law enforcement officer Salvador Obiedo. He has made some 272 arrests leaving to join the narcotics task force, working as an undercover agent.

Obiedo joined the Sheriff's Department in 1989 as a reserve officer. When a full-time position became available, Obiedo took it. He was honored on Mon., Sept. 21, by receiving the "Distinguished Law Enforcement Award" from Associated Texans Against Crime, ATAC.

Ed Hodges of U.S. Senator Phil Gramm's office and State Rep. Harvey Hildebran, representing ATAC, presented Obiedo with the award.

A few of Obiedo's accomplishments as a law enforcement officer were highlighted during the award ceremony. On Jan. 1, Obiedo was investigating a stranded motorist. He came into contact with two additional subjects and arrested them when they gave him alias names. They were in possession of several burglary tools, including a grammed police scanner. A consent to search was performed. Jewelry at an estimated value of $30,000 was recovered. All three subjects were taken into custody.

On April 4, Obiedo was off duty when he received a report of drowning victims at the Bandera Dam. He found three swimmers caught in the undertow at the dam. He jumped into the water with two other rescuers. After 10 to 15 minutes of battling the current, all three victims were pulled to safety and transported to Sid Peterson Hospital.

The entire Bandera County Sheriff's Department was also recognized by ATAC during the Sept. 21 ceremony. Gramm said the award was given because the Bandera County Sheriff's Department had demonstrated a commitment to making the streets of Bandera County a safer place to live, work and raise a family.

"1992 Distinguished Law Enforcement Award on behalf of the Bandera Department, ATAC representative Harvey Hildebran presented the award.

ATAC was founded in 1984 as an anti-crime public policy organization dedicated to studying the Texas criminal justice system, making recommendations to improve the system and increasing public awareness of criminal justice issues. During the past 8 years, ATAC has been instrumental in influencing legislation on making multiple murders a crime. It has helped prevent appeals based on technicalities in indictments and made the possession of child

The Medina High School student body will vote on a Homecoming King and Queen. The winners will be crowned on Oct. 16. The senior nominees who make up the royalty court are: Clayton Watts, Jody Carpenter, Scott Williams, Jennifer Evans, Misty Phipps, and Elizabeth Johnson. Many activities are planned in Medina for the Fri., Oct. 16 game and for Sat., Oct. 17.

Bandera Cross Country Meet set Oct. 10

Barbara Masurek, meet director for the 17th Annual Bandera Bulldog Cross Country Invitational Meet, said 51 schools have already accepted for the Oct. 10 run. That number could increase in the next two weeks. The meet will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Masurek said the running event is financed entirely by entry fees. She said the event is successful because it is well organized, has strong parental support, and draws on the continuity of workers. She has directed the event for the past 17 years. Tom and Doris Doebbler have also worked in the meet for 17 years.

The First Annual Cross Country Invitational was held at Mansfield Park. It was held because Bandera students needed a place to run. "The way it works," Masurek explained, "is reciprocal. We invite a school, then that school invites us. It has grown through the years and has now become a fairly big meet."

The new track will not be finished this year in time for the 17th running of the event. Construction of the new track has altered the course.

Medina defeats Sabinal for first season victory

The margin was narrow, but it was enough

Medina came from behind and then held on through a last second assault to defeat the Sabinal Yellowjackets 14-13 Fri., Sept. 25. It was the first Bobcat win of the season.

Sabinal took an early 7-0 lead with a 10-yard pass play midway through the first quarter and then stymied the 'Cats until late in the half. Bobcat quarterback Clifford Watts found Jody Carpenter with a 60 yard pass and two plays later threw a 10-yard strike to end Scott Foglie for the touchdown.

Nathan Vannatter booted the PAT and tied the score. Sabinal fumbled but got the ball back next play with an intercepted pass that left the 'Jackets on the Medina 30 with ten seconds remaining in the half. A field goal attempt missed and Medina went to the locker room with their best halftime position of the year.

Five Medina mistakes aided the Yellowjackets' second touchdown as Sabinal began driving from their own 11 yard line and moved to the Bobcat 5 yard stripe.

On the first play of the last period, Yellowjacket Julio Alejandiro ran in for the score. A two-point conversion attempt failed and Sabinal again led 13-7. On Sabinal's next possession, the Bobcats forced the 'Jackets to punt. Jason Small stormed through the blockers, spoiled the boot and Medina suddenly had great field position on the Yellowjacket 30.

Eli Hickman, Carpenter and Chris Lewis moved the ball to the half-yard marker to set up a final plunge. Hickman took the handoff and tied the game with 3:15 left to play. Varnatter added another PAT and Medina led for the first time.

Sabinal managed to drive inside Medina's 10-yard line but could not score in three tries against the fired up 'Cat defense. With 10 seconds left, a jacket field goal attempt flew wide and Medina had their first win, 14-13.

Medina's cross country runners place at Whataburger UTSA meet

Medina's cross country runners placed at the Whataburger UTSA meet in San Antonio last week.

Bobcat Misti Wells led all her running mates with an 8th place run of 14:18. Laki Johnson took 9th just six seconds later.

Sherri Scafidi placed 29 and Alicia Mims, Kelly Lookingbill, and Becky Taylor were 59th, 62nd and 92nd.

Bandera defeats West Campus

Game ends 14-12 after a scoreless second half

Bulletin Staff Writer

The game ended 14-12 in Bandera's favor after a scoreless second half.

But the game could have ended differently if the West Campus Cougars had succeeded in one last desperation ing attempt.

With three seconds left in the game, West Campus at home in South San Antonio Stadium Friday night was at the Bandera 33-yard line and made a 50-yard field goal attempt. Two Bulldogs managed to block the kick.

"He (their kicker) was kicking 45 yarders warming up," said head coach Chris Storer. But there's a big difference between warm up and action on the gridiron.

It was a good way to start district play.

Bandera's offense played a good first half — something they haven't been doing this year. "We played a whole lot better earlier on than we had been playing and we still played a good second half," said Storer.

"On defense, our best defense was in the second half." The Cougars had 10 first downs in the first half and 5 in the second half.

"It's the best we've played so far this year as a team. It's a nice feeling to start district four games into the season with a win, especially against a former 4A school."

"The only thing that stopped us were fumbles and penalties. We got more penalties than we

The game did not start auspiciously for West Campus. The Cougars fumbled the opening kick-off and the Bulldogs got the ball about midfield and started down the field on the ground.

Bandera quarterback Terry Robertson threw a 28-yard touchdown pass to junior running back Aaron Lacey. "It was the first pass we tried and he was wide open," said Storer. Kyle Woodland kicked the point after and it was 7-0.

Later in the quarter, Bandera fumbled the ball to West Campus who drove 57 yards. They cumulated their drive with a 3-yard touchdown run by Cougar running back Candelario Muniz. The kick for the point after failed. The score was 7-6, Bandera with 3:34 remaining in the first quarter.

Another Bandera fumble and another West Campus score. On the third play of the series, West Campus quarterback Adrian Bejar threw a 32-yard touchdown pass to flanker Hector Brooks. The Cougars tried a 2-point conversion, but failed. The score was 12-7 West Campus with 1:03 remaining in the first quarter.

At 3 1/2 minutes into the second quarter, junior running back Robert Bradford ran the ball 37 yards for six points and Woodland kicked the extra point for a 14-12 score.

And that ended the scoring on the night.

Bandera made 13 first downs and two penetrations while West Campus had 18 first downs and three penetrations.

The Bulldogs had 42 rushing carries for 209 yards and the Cougars had 32 carries for 193 yards.

Bandera attempted six passes and completed four for 55 yards. West Campus had six, completed 10, and earned 149 yards.

No interceptions by either team, but Bandera fumbled three times and lost them all. West Campus fumbled three times and lost two.

Penalties were nine for 75 yards for Bandera and five for 50 yards for West Campus.

Bandera punted twice for an average 38 yards and West Campus four punts for an average 30 yards.

Rushing leaders for Bandera were Bradford with 23 carries for 130 yards and junior running back Marlon Santos with 10 for 42.

Rushing leaders for the Cougars were Muniz with 23 carries for 73 yards and Edward Rodriguez with 5 for 30.

Senior Bandera quarterback Robertson played all night, after being injured in the first game of the season and sitting out the second and third. "He's fine. He's a little sore. But that's just like the doctor said he'd be," said Storer.

Bandera kept the ball on the ground most of the night. "We were averaging 5 yards on each snap, I didn't see much reason to pass," said Storer. Bandera was averaging 8 yards per snap in the first quarter.

Bandera is 2-2 on the year and 1-0 in district play.

Michael Mazurek

Mike Mazurek makes team at academy

Michael Mazurek, a graduate of Bandera High School and a freshman at the Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y., has been named to the Varsity football squad at that school.

Mazurek excelled in football and baseball at BHS, and he also earned second team all-district honors in football. He is the son of Kenneth and Dianna Mazurek of Bandera.

Michael is majoring in marine engineering at the academy, and his current grade point average is 3.61, according to his mother.

BHS will host Ingram at Homecoming game

Amid all the homecoming celebrations at Bandera High School this week, there's still a game to be played.

The Bandera Warriors in Bulldog Stadium Friday at 7:30 p.m. going against the 1-0 in district and 2-2 overall Bandera Bulldogs.

Ingram recently moved up from 2A to 3A and also has the disadvantage of being young — only as many as five seniors on the squad.

According to Bandera head coach Chris Storer, there's lots of juniors and sophomores on the squad and their team is not as big (size-wise) as some of the teams Bandera has played "but they have a lot of quickness."

But don't expect Ingram to roll over and play dead for the 'Dogs — the Warriors have multiple defenses and multiple offenses. "They have five or six different defenses and they stunt out of those defenses," said Storer.

Their "stunt" defense involves lining up one way before the ball is snapped and then move to different position to cover holes when the ball is snapped. It's designed to "mess up" their opposing team's defense. "They were ahead of Medina Valley 7-0 for awhile using that defense," said Storer. (The 4-0 Medina Valley beat Ingram 54-7 Friday.)

They also have five different offenses and pass the ball. "They throw quite a bit — as much as 50 percent of the time."

But to the Warriors' advantage is that the formations are not new — having started the multiple offenses and defenses last year under head coach Greg Althof, Ingram's former defensive coach who was promoted to head coach last year.

The player threats of Ingram's are junior quarterback John Mosty — Storer calls him their best player — running back Arthur Gonzales — Storer calls him a real good running back. Gonzales played at Junction last year. Mosty's favorite receiver is Jason Olson.

All the Bulldogs are healthy, but running back Mike Martinez is still questionable. "He's working out this week and we'll see how he progresses."

Otherwise, Storer sees Bandera making good progress in district. "We'll try and execute a little better."

In district play last week, the favorite to win district, Devine is 4-0 after beating San Antonio Cole 27-0 Friday. Hondo beat Somerset 12-8.

Wednesday, Thursday simulcasting begins again

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Full-card simulcasting from Trinity Meadows resumes Wednesday, Sept. 30, and Thursday, Oct. 1, at 2 p.m. at Bandera Downs with free admission to the Lower Jockey Club and $1 admission to the Upper Jockey Club.

But there will be a change. The Pick 9 will be introduced at Trinity with bettors from Bandera and Manor Downs able to bet the Pick 9 on Trinity simulcast races.

Also, Bandera will continue to simulcast Trinity races five days a week through Dec. 20. Yes, once the live meet is over, there will still be simulcasting.

Bandera bettors will be able to bet on Trinity's twin trifecta and Pick 3 wagers on Wednesdays and Thursdays. The Trinity twin trifecta starts at $23,333.25 Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Trinity will host 400-yard 2-year-old quarter horse trials for the Speedhorse Gold and Silver Cup Futurity both weekdays this week.

Full-card simulcasting of Trinity races (10 on Fridays and 12 on Saturdays and Sundays) will continue when live racing resumes Friday. The simulcast races will run between Bandera's live races.

Starting later in the week — possibly as soon as Saturday — race fans will have a new wager — the Pick 9 — to bet on Trinity races.

To win the Pick 9, a bettor must pick the winners of the first nine races on Trinity's simulcast card.

Trinity ended its Pick 6 [illegible] start the Pick 9 as soon as computer software arrives to allow Bandera, Manor, and Trinity to co-mingle the betting pools by computer communication through telephone lines.

The Pick 9 will be offered on Trinity races 1-9. To win the Pick 9, a bettor must pick the winners of all nine races. There will be a consolation Pick 9 paid to those that get close. The jackpot for the Pick 9 is expected to get much higher than the twin trifecta or the tri-super.

Also being added is additional simulcasting days this year.

One day added will be Monday, Oct. 12, (Columbus Day). But after Bandera's live meet ends, Nov. 29, Bandera will continue offering simulcast races Thursday through Sunday during December through Dec. 20.

Utopia 4-H achievement night set, volleyball scores reported

Youth stay busy in Utopia. Cases in point: the Utopia 4-H club will hold an achievement night Oct. 3, the Utopia volleyball team competed against Comfort and Medina, and the cross country teams competed.

The Utopia 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Sept. 17.Uvalde County Extension Agent, Darrel Smith instructed the chapter members in the preparation of enrollment forms, to outline activities members will participate in during the year. Smith also announced Achievement Night to be held at the Uvalde Civic Center Saturday, Oct. 3. The next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 22, at 3:45 p.m.

Utopia and Comfort played on Sept. 15, at Utopia. The J.V. and Varsity both came out on top. The J.V. played getting scores of 2-15, 15-10, and 15-11. Utopia coming up with the victory for the match. Also going over very well was the Gazebo Stage with interviews by Jud Ashmore of Cajun experts and music by Cajun artists. "The Gazebo Stage went over incredibly well. There were 100 to 200 people there constantly to hear about Cajun heritage," said Caswell.

Any changes next year? Few if any. "I can't think of anything to change. It was the most successful festival ever. If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

There were 21 professional and amateur gumbo cooks at the festival. "We had just about the number (of cooks) that I want. You try eating 21 gumbos (like the judges did)."

The cooks had a larger area for their booth than in year's past. "They had 20x20 or 30x30 spaces instead of 10x10."

First place in the amateur division went to Sam Haynes of Lakehills and Tom Hill of Baton Rouge with Baton Rouge Cajun Delight Gumbo.

Second place went to Art Lessard of San Antonio. Third place went to Phil Marley and Steve Erickson of Ingram.

"If a Cajun, especially a musician, has a business, makes money and does well, they sell it. That's the end. They get back to enjoying themselves, playing music, traveling and having festivals."

Private schools teach half the day in French and public schools teach more French than the public schools.

Cajun French is different than French in Europe, but they are different. Our French is over 200 years old. We did not have automobiles, refrigerators, the things that you have to worry about today. We gave them (the new things entering the culture) our own names. That's the basic difference in our language, except for our accent. Our accent makes it kind of hard to understand. [illegible] better (than the French). We have to watch them (Canadians). We read lips and listen at the same time."

Laws in Louisiana are different — Louisiana is the only state in the union that is under the Napoleonic code of justice, though it has changed. [illegible] instead of case law. The only compliant attorneys have in Louisiana is that they can't refer back to previous cases. We stick with statute law. But even that's changing at this point."

Shirley Short, Bandera's postmaster, has announced she will retire Oct. 2. She and other postal officials in the county have taken advantage of the postal system's high-incentive early-retirement plan. Short is a 27-year veteran of the postal system, and she has served Bandera for one year. She previously was postmaster in Spring Branch for 10 years. After her retirement, she plans to help her husband, Joe Short, another former Bandera postmaster, with their ranch near Vanderpool.

Discount beverage store opens on Main Street

Her store opened in the old Triple Oaks Liquor Store building and sits across from the new Triple Oaks Liquor Store building.

But that's as close as Ann's Discount Beverage and Tobacco Products Store gets to a liquor store.

Ann Wilson, former manager of the Bandera Mini-Mart, and her husband, Jerry, have opened a store featuring beer, soda, tobacco, and soon wine at discount prices.

The couple will run the store themselves to give personal service.

They also have the only drive-up window in town for soda, beer, and tobacco products.

Wilson has been working in the convenience store business for the 11 years.

She says she plans to offer "everyday discount prices plus in-store sales."

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has asked the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to offer new optional call management services called Caller Identification Service (Caller ID) and Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR).

Caller ID is a new optional phone service which allows subscribers to see the phone number and name of most local calls before they answer the phone. Caller ID also allows the recording of the date, time, name and/or phone number of calls. Currently, Caller ID would work only on most local calls, not long distance calls. It would also require that a separate display unit be connected to the telephone. These units that attach to the telephone will be available from various retail vendors, including Southwestern Bell, at a cost starting at approximately $50.

Southwestern Bell is also proposing that all customers be able to "block," or stop their name/number from being transmitted and displayed on a Caller ID device, free of charge. You would have this option of "blocking" your name/number on each call free of charge. There would be no need to subscribe to this service. All customers would have this capability when Caller ID is introduced in their area.

If you want to block your name or number, you need only press *67 on your touch-tone pad (or dial 1167 from a rotary phone) before dialing the telephone number. The person you're calling would see displayed a message such as "private" or "anonymous" on their Caller ID display unit.

Southwestern Bell also proposes that qualified domestic violence and law enforcement groups have the option of free per-line blocking, or free per-call blocking.

Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR or "block the blocker") allows subscribers to automatically reject all calls that have been marked anonymous, or "blocked" by the person calling. It is not necessary to subscribe to Caller ID Name/Number to subscribe to ACR. With ACR, your telephone will not ring if the person calling you has "blocked" his/her name or number. The person calling whose identification is blocked will receive a message to hang up and call back with caller identification unblocked. Following are the proposed monthly rates for Caller ID and ACR.

Proposed Rates (monthly)*

	Residence	Business
Calling Number only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name & Number	$8.00	$12.00
Anonymous Call Rejection	$3/$1	$3/$1

* These rates are in addition to the initial installation charges and monthly basic service rate. For residence customers, installation charges are $2.70 per feature, with a maximum charge of $5.40. For business customers, the charges are $5.40 per feature, with a maximum charge of $10.75.

 Anonymous Call Rejection is $3 per month if purchased without Caller ID and is $1 per month when purchased with Caller ID Name or Number.

This proceeding has been designated Docket No. 11362, and a hearing on the merits has been scheduled for November 16, 1992. The PUC has jurisdiction to consider this matter pursuant to Sections 16, 18, 37 and 64 of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA). This application was filed pursuant to the provisions of the PUC's Substantive Rule 23.24. Among the issues that will be addressed in this proceeding is the legality of the Caller ID device and service under Texas wiretap laws.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline to intervene is October 26, 1992. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Do Ya' does at Bandera Downs Sunday

Jockey Sam Thompson shows his form Sunday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Staff Writer

Jockey James Tucker Cahanin from Louisiana and now of Bandera know what he was doing when he put his [illegible] day's featured 7 1/2-furlong thoroughbred contest.

From [illegible] stands, around the first turn and down the back stretch, Do Ya' kept right behind the 30-1 Model Age, ridden by jockey Frank Betancourt.

But at the top of the second turn in the $1,900 claiming race, both Do Ya' and 2-1 Raja's Majesty (which had been [illegible] four), started to turn on the speed.

[illegible] by jockey Brian Leonard, made his biggest move at the top of the stretch and where it counted — at the wire.

In other racing action Sunday, jockey Sam Thompson won three races aboard American Princess in the second race, Disco Elaine in the seventh, and Tonys White Shoes in the ninth.

Thompson has been in a slight slump lately. His assessment Sunday after the races? "Just lucky," said Thompson.

Thompson showed some of the form the 20-year-old jockey brought to Bandera at the beginning of the season in the ninth race. Tonys White Shoes was behind a wall of four horses going down the back stretch of the 1 mile ninth race. As they neared the second turn, the wall started to break up and Thompson prompted his horse to cut through the openings and was in the lead as they headed into the top of the turn and was leading by three lengths in the middle of the turn. Tonys White Shoes finished first by 2 3/4 lengths.

In the seventh race, Thompson made it look easy, as Disco Elaine fired late in the stretch of the 350-yard quarter horse race to win by a neck beating out the 4-5 favorite Cash For Kurt Zee. Cash For Kurt Zee, owned by 16-year-old Misti Pate of Alleyton, has been in several quarter horse futurity trials at Bandera this year, but was injured and has been sitting out the summer. The 2-year-old filly put on a good show for her first out after her injury.

Thompson started off the day well in the second race, when he took American Princess to a 3-1/4 length win in the 5-furlong maiden contest. The 3-year-old filly was about three wide throughout the turn, but Model Age finished third and Raja's Majesty came up strong and cut Do Ya's lead to 2 1/2 lengths at the wire.

In other racing action Saturday, jockey Sam Thompson won the featured $2,400 350-yard quarter horse allowance just taking the win at the wire from Gable Talks, who ran second. The 2-1 favorite Sorrento Beau and Gables Talks were early leaders in the race, forcing Beau [illegible] finished third.

Jockey Stuart Dolphus rode the 5-1 3-year-old filly to finish ahead by a nose. The race was Dolphus' first win at Bandera Downs. Dolphus has ridden the New Mexico racing circuit for many years.

In other racing action Saturday, Silver Echo won the $2,100 featured thoroughbred race by a nose, just edging out Mystical Ace, who finished second. Thompson was aboard Silver Echo and Tammy McHargue on the second-place horse.

In the last race on Saturday's card, apprentice jockey Raye Ann Russell didn't take to the lead early — as she usually does — but pulled her horse, Anniedor, over to the rail once she saw she wasn't going to be the early leader in the $1,700 1-mile thoroughbred race.

Anniedor, at Russell's prompting, flew into the second turn from about fourth or fifth.

When the horses came out of the turn, it was 9-5 Germania at the rail, Kat's Vine along side and Anniedor outside.

Germania started to pull away, but so did Anniedor and at the wire it was Anniedor by 2 lengths, Ms. Palencia (who came up late) for second, Germania third and Kat's Vine fourth.

Anniedor was claimed by new owner/trainer Miles Massey in the race from trainer Randy Gibbs.

In Friday's racing action, Thats Our Policy won the featured 1,000-yard quarter horse and thoroughbred race by a neck. Walton Bar finished fifth.

Bandera's leading jockey, David Brown, was aboard Thats Our Policy. It was Brown's third of four wins on the day.

Brown also won on Leaderon in the second race, Hooked On Yawl in the fourth race, and Lova Cash in the ninth race Friday.

Brown won two races Sunday (Mr Jet Smith in the first race and Swift Willow in the third) and that put him over the century mark — at 101 wins — for the year.

Brown, last year's second leading rider, had 134 wins in 1991 and the 1991 leading rider, Buck Harris, had 146. There are 27 more racing days left in the season.

In betting action Friday, a San Antonio man won the trifecta super and was paid $10,793.20 before taxes.

The twin trifecta carryover stands at $4,068.75 and the tri-super carryover stands at $2,586.75.

Futurity, trials featured

Bandera Downs will feature the San Antonio Futurity Sunday and six trials for the Alamo Quarter Horse Association Futurity Friday.

In the trials, trainer Jimmy Guerra Jr.'s Easy Too Easy makes his return to Bandera. The quarter horse holds two track records at the Gillespie County Fairgrounds track.

In the 6-furlong SA futurity, Triple Mama and Lachlan are the expected favorites. Triple Mama is trained by Pat Doyle and Lachlan is trained by Vernon Pullin.

Bonfire! Last Thursday the flames leapt high, but spirits were higher as a giant bonfire and spirited pep rally prepared the Bulldogs for their victory the next night. Please turn to Page 17 for more photos.

Jerry Thomas rode out of Michigan in a February snowstorm with $145 in his pocket, a spare shirt and pants in his saddlebags, a 30-30 rifle and a rope on his saddle and a dream before his eyes.

He's a travelin' man, on a travelin' horse--

By Larry T. Williams
Bulletin Staff Writer

Jerry Thomas rode into Bandera last Monday after a very long time in the saddle. Six months in the saddle to be exact.

Actually, he wasn't in the saddle when he crossed the Bandera city limits line. He was walking beside his companion and usual source of transportation "Big Dog."

Jerry and his horse Big Dog traveled via hoof and foot for more than 3,000 miles. Six months from Michigan to Texas. And then on beyond.

"Big Dog came up lame on me between here and the 'apple place,'" said Thomas. "I got off and walked on in. He got a cactus thorn in his ankle and it festered but it's OK now. He just needs some rest."

Thomas, who is 24 rode out of his home town of Novi. Mich. on Feb. 29 in a blowing snow storm, with $145 in his pocket, a spare shirt and pants in his saddle bags, a 30-30 rifle and a rope hung on his saddle and a dream before his eyes.

"Yeah, we left in February and got to Texas in September," said Thomas. "Leap Day to Labor Day. I'd promised myself that by the time I was 27, I'd own 10,000 acres of land." I decided that a book was the best way to make that kind of money.

'Killer' bees invade Bandera County

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Africanized Honey Bees were found in Bandera County on Sept. 23 at Pebble Beach. Bee keepers in the county have been given three months to move to a non-quarantined area.

According to a news release from the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, the chances of being injured by an Africanized or any honeybee is less than that of being struck by lightening.

It took the Africanized honeybee (AHB) more than 30 years to migrate from Brazil to the United States. Some scientists expect them to remain in the southern regions of the country. Others say they will survive wherever other honeybees are kept. They are thought to average between 100 and 300 miles of travel a year.

They sting in greater numbers and with less provocation than other honeybees. They attack when their nest is threatened by invaders. They defend their hives more quickly than other bees and pursue intruders further.

The bees look like any other honeybee to the naked eye. They fly approximately 12-15

Local nursing home under investigation

Numerous complaints may result in facility's loss of Medicaide funding, TDH says

By Janna Sandidge
Bulletin Editor

Reports of physical abuse, inadequate care and unsafe or unclean conditions at the Bandera Nursing Home were released this week to the Bandera Bulletin by the Texas Department of Health Bureau of Longterm Care.

According to TDH, Bandera Nursing Home, Inc. is owned by Richard Martin and First Texoma Health Care, Inc. of Addison.

As a result of a TDH investigation, the nursing home faces the possibility of losing its certification, as well as its state funding.

"We have given them 90 days to correct their problems, or they will lose their Medicaide contracts" said Jeanoyce Wilson, information service specialist with the TDH. "We have every reason to believe they will try to correct the problems."

When contacted by the Bulletin Tuesday, Bandera Nursing Home administrator Allen Brunson indicated that the nursing home had taken steps to meet the state's compliance requiremepts, and he said that the problems the state found during their investigation had been remedied.

"They are all corrected now," he said.

The report, dated Sept. 18, stated that "during six complaint investigations and one incident investigation, conditions were identified which pose health and safety hazards to the residents."

According to the report, on about Aug. 1, "two nurses aides stated that while in a resident's room with the director of nurses they witnessed the director of nurses slap the resident on the upper thigh... the two aides were in the room to assist the director of nurses with a treatment. The resident was on her abdomen and was having spastic movements of her lower extremities. The resident's lower extremities knocked the dressing tray off the bed spilling its contents. The director of nurses then slapped the resident's right upper thigh."

The report further states that "the facility staff failed to report an allegation of abuse... and facility administrator (Allen Brunson), once told about the alleged abuse, failed to report it to the licensing and certification agency in a timely manner..."

The two nurses aides did not report the incident, which they witnessed, to the administrator. When questioned as to why they did not report the incident their reply was, they had not told the administrator because anything they had reported to him in the past had gone unnoticed."

Apparently, Brunson was told of the allegations of abuse on Sept. 15 by the TDH investigators. He "questioned the investigators as to whom, or if, he should report the incident of alleged abuse. He was informed to call the Texas Department of Health in Austin." The report indicated that the incident was received by the TDH on Sept. 16.

The report also stated that "the facility failed to provide appropriate incontinent care to residents." During investigations on Sept. 11 and Sept. 16,

'Dogs saved Homecoming against Ingram Friday

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

Bandera pulled out a homecoming victory with few points to spare in Friday's 27-22 win over the Ingram Tom Moore Warriors at Bulldog Stadium.

The win puts the varsity Bulldogs to a 2-0 record in District 26-AAA play at 3-2 overall for the year.

Bandera head coach Chris Storer was glad to squeak out with the win and impressed with Ingram's play. "They deserved to win. They outplayed us. It was our homecoming and our players had other things on their minds."

Storer also said that Ingram had improved drastically between the time the film they saw showing Ingram was made and Friday.

Ingram had moved up from 2A into Bandera's 3A district this year and some observers and players in the game may have expected an easier time than Ingram gave the Bulldogs.

"I evidently don't do a good job coaching a homecoming game. I'm going to have to do thing differently in the future," said Storer.

A big change that the Bulldogs hadn't expected was Ingram coach Greg Althof moving his junior quarterback Jon Mosty to a receiver and sophomore wide receiver Clint Stehling to quarterback. "It was a good change for them," said Storer.

The first score of the night was in the first quarter and gave Bandera a lead they wouldn't lose until the fourth quarter. With 4:24 left in the first quarter, Bandera junior running back Robert Bradford ran four yards for a touchdown. Sophomore Kyle Woodland kicked the extra point for a 7-0 score.

Bandera will look for three in a row Friday

With two district wins under their belts, the Bandera Bulldogs will take on the San Antonio Cole Cougars Friday at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Bulldogs are currently 2-0 in the standings in District 26-AAA.

Bandera head football coach Chris Storer said his team is just going to have to "play a little better" than they did when they squeaked out a win against Ingram 27-22. "They (Cole) is better than Ingram," said Storer. And he was confident that his Bulldogs would not take the Cougars as lightly as they had apparently taken the Warriors.

Cole's record looks bad — 1-4 with losses to Randolph (now a 2A team and in the top 10

About Planned Parenthood

Dear editor:

Regarding Dixie Cohn's distribe against the teachings of Planned Parenthood (Bandera Bulletin, Letters to the Editor, Sept. 23), one wonders if those feelings are based upon a fear that eliminating ignorance of birth control would affect the business of homes for unwed mothers.

She marched pro-life

Dear Editor,

This past Sunday, I participated in "Life Chain" - a silent demonstration against abortion. Although the number of people who participated was not as large as we had hoped for, it was wonderful to see how many younger people took an active part. After all, our youth are our future.

An incident happened as I was going home from participating in "Life Chain." As I walked back to my car, I passed a local bar. A woman emerged from the bar with a sign that said, "I work for sex." Instantly, my first thought was, she had better head for the unemployment line but then I realized that wasn't a very Christian thought. And besides, the "Life Chain" code of conduct clearly stated that any misconduct from a passerby should be met with silence and a kind smile. So, I smiled at the woman as she continued to parade her sign in front of a child who was holding an "Abortion Kills Children" sign. And, by the time I reached my car, I had said a prayer for that sad woman. Why? Maybe because people like her, who are for abortion, don't even know that there is a God. Isn't it funny that people who are for abortion are already born? Isn't it sad that we use the excuse, "the rhetoric of choice", to justify killing unborn babies?

Somehow, somewhere, "Life" has become expendable.

Those cemetery voters!

Dear Editor,

On Monday, Oct. 5, I was driving past the Bandera Cemetery and I was appalled to see a political sign for Mr. Fraser, who is running for the State Senate, posted in the main entrance to the cemetery. Is nothing off limits to political candidates? I feel that the candidate and/or his supporters have shown, in this action, that they have no respect for the citizens of Bandera County.

Nationwide Fire Prevention Week

Nationwide Fire Prevention Week runs from Oct. 4-10. Larry Upton, Captain of the City of San Antonio Fire Department, said that approximately 5,500 people die in fires in this country annually. That includes about 100 firefighters. Another 30,000 civilians are injured.

Upton said that fire is the third leading cause of accidental death in the home. At least 75 percent of all fire deaths occur in residences. Direct property loss due to fires is estimated at $11.2 billion annually, at a total cost to the public of $50 billion annually.

"Having served in the Fire Service for over 25 years in the city of San Antonio Fire Department," Upton said, I am keenly-aware of how many fires and deaths could have been averted by some common sense practices and knowledge.

"Senior citizens are at the higest risk of being killed in a fire- more than double the average population. People under 19 account for 25 percent of the annual fire deaths. Children under age five are at serious risk of being killed in a fire- more than double the average population. About 25 percent of the fires that kill young children are started by children playing with matches."

Upton blames careless smoking for the majority of residential fire deaths. He says that smoke detectors and smouldering-resistant bedding and upholstered furniture are significant fire deterrents.

Careless smoking is also blamed as the leading cause of hotel/motel fire deaths which claim approximately 80 people a year.

Arson is the second largest cause of residential fires and the major cause of death and fire loss in commercial properties.

Woodstoves are becoming a particular problem. Heating is the third leading cause of residential fire deaths.

Coming next week- more tips from Larry Upton on fire prevention and fire safety in the home.

This week the Bandera Bulletin got a FAX machine!

The very first document I received over this little jewel of technology was a 27 page document from the Texas Department of Health outlining their investigation and subsequent findings at Bandera Nursing Home (see story on Page 1). Quite frankly, I was disgusted.

Page after page of the narrative described physical conditions at the facility, including graphic descriptions of the conditions of patients who were not identified by name, only by room number or complaint number. The comments included: reports of a patient being slapped; many reports of patients being found by state inspectors to be lying in or smeared with their own feces and/or urine (often it was dried, indicating it had been there for a while); many, many residents with pressure sores and conditions aggravated by being left laying in waste matter; and patients who were unable to feed themselves being left sitting in front of their food for so long that the hot stuff got cold and the sherbet was a pool of warm liquid-- well you get the picture. And I apologize if what I just described offends any of my readers. But I cannot tell you how angry and sad it made me to read all this stuff.

Folks, I realize that it is difficult to take care of an older person. Even their loved ones can sometimes become exasperated with trying to keep them clean, happy and well-fed. It is a difficult task. But professionals are paid to do that, and it is reasonable for a community to expect its elders to be cared for in a decent manner. After all, we will all be there sooner or later. It is a part of life that as humans get older, their bodies begin to fail in various ways. Do we value our older citizens so little? Can our outcry cause a change in the way they are being treated?

More to the point– just what is it about life that we value? I find it profoundly ironic that at the same time a "Life Chain" lined our Main Street expressing the outrage that "abortion kills babies," the disturbing news of elder abuse and neglect doesn't seem to stir up much more than a raised eyebrow or two.

Perhaps with the graphic photographs of aborted fetuses that certain groups are showing to their children, they should include photos of Grandmas and Grandpas in the degrading conditions contained in that 27-page report. Now that would be shocking.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – The re-entry of Dallas billionaire Ross Perot into the presidential arena makes Texas, more than ever, a key electoral battleground.

To observers across the nation, Perot might as well have flown a blimp shaped like a big, black question mark over the Lone Star State.

Campaign students keen on historical footnotes might want to note that the home bases of President Bush, Perot and Gov. Clinton draw a tight geographical triangle between Houston, Dallas and Little Rock.

Here in his home state, Perot may have more influence; as one veteran Democrat said: "Perot hurts Clinton in other states, but he hurts Bush in Texas."

A scenario having Perot winning texas and one other key state, say recession-plagued California, ends with Bush or Clinton denied a majority of electoral votes, throwing the election into Congress.

There, each state gets one vote, decided in caucus by its newly-elected House members; 26 votes are needed to become president.

Six months ago, political pundits were predicting an easy Clinton win, since Democrats control most state delegations about 2 to 1.

This week, the picture is less clear.

A Cleaner House?

The number of congressional incumbents not returning is already more than 25 percent, thanks in no small part to Perot, who has been drumming up a "clean House" movement. "Clean out the barn," he often said.

If Perot's candidacy energizes his war against Congress, the congressional turnover can only climb higher.

With regard to Congress, it's a whole new ballgame now, and historians may well note that Perot's biggest impact was to increase the number of new faces in Washington.

■ The national media isn't likely to let voters forget that Perot dropped out of the presidential race in July: some have dubbed him "The Yellow Ross of Texas."

■ The number of crimes dropped five percent in the first half of 1992; Houston showed the largest decrease with 16 percent.

Pipe Creek postmaster retires after 13 years

Carmen Haynes retired on Friday, Oct. 2, ending a career in the postal service which fell three weeks short of a full 27 years. Friends and workers at the Pipe Creek Post Office held an open house for her on Thursday, Oct. 1.

Haynes has seen the Pipe Creek area "double" during the 13 years she spent as Postmaster. She watched the construction of the present building "from the ground up." It is three times the size of the old building, according to Haynes, and was very much needed to serve customers. "When I first came, there were two mail carriers. Now there are four."

Haynes said that she expects the growth trend in Pipe Creek to continue. The major changes she has seen in her 13 years as Postmaster include the growth of the area and computer bookkeeping. However, changes in small towns are not as drastic as in large cities. The mail continues to be hand-sorted at the Pipe Creek location and customers are recognized and greeted by name by postal employees.

The thing she will miss most, Haynes said, is contact with the people. What she will miss least is the alarm clock.

She plans to travel with her husband. But already, her granddaughter has other plans for her retirement. "She's twelve years old. She wants me to take her to her soccer games, her dance, her piano lessons. She plans to keep me busy!

"I've enjoyed the people in Pipe Creek and Lakehills. This has been a very rewarding job. If I could do it all over again, I wouldn't change careers."

Dottie Anders, of Medina Lake, will replace Haynes. Anders has 20 years of experience in the postal service. She was Postmaster for Waring Texas for 13 years. There will be no interruption of services or any major changes at the Pipe Creek Post Office.

Natasha's Stars

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A lot is out of your control this week. Don't worry, though, because even if it doesn't look like it, partners do have matters well in hand. So when you finally DO get the explanations this weekend, you'll feel adored because of how it all went down.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Humor, my dear Bull, helps you deal with all the changes of the week. Your role as the stable, easy going partner is definitely needed. A loved one falls in love with you all over again because of your superb control. Do real up this weekend — this is only the beginning.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It'll be hard to put a halt to all the wild goings-on this week. Partners change course midstream, and of course, this is supposed to be okay with you. You might as well make it so, because you have little choice. This weekend you discover how much fun lies in this present uproar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Turbulence and change are part of this week's scenario. Someone pops into your life whom you haven't seen or heard from since April. Be smart — don't be impulsive. Choose to mull everything over this weekend. Then see just how you feel. Hmmm...

LEO (July 23-August 22) Once you get started this week, you're on a roll. Your personality melts barriers. Surprises lurk on the work front, but the big Lion can handle them. You really are master of your destiny, but you do need to express your feelings. Get into loving vibes on the home front this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Count on an unusual week and you won't be surprised. Think over decisions carefully as the week begins, especially when it comes to a creative venture and/or a major flirtation. (Now, what have you been up to?) You can have what you want — just decide.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) With the sun going into your sign, you shift into high gear this week. You feel good, though ever so slightly surprised, by what goes down. Money comes in more easily, but you may be spending even more easily. You peak this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Venus goes into your sign this week, and there is no resisting you. It would be wise to think before you leap, because you may be unhappy with the end results. Look to the long run. Accept responsibilities, yet make plenty of time for fun and rest.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) A money matter that's been on the back burner since April pops. Be focused on what you want. Friends are unusually vibrant, as they want you clearly to join them. Don't mope about what you think is a slight. Let it go and be happy. Your weekend is for celebration.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You surprise yourself this week, much less all those in your immediate circle. You reverse course and decide, not once, but twice, to go a totally different direction. Talks with partners are important, if you are to keep it together. Share those exquisite dreams, too.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Go with those flashes of insight this week. You are very much into, significant others, joint assets and the gifts of a relationship. Go away this weekend, in your imagination if not really, with a loved one.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Work is difficult, but as we all know, a must. By week's end, major distractions fall in your path. Make your choices quickly. Be careful with friends — the 'flaky' become stable and vice versa. Count on an intimate, close weekend.

Inter-agency council welcomes the public at an Open House

A year's worth of meetings and setting goals coalesced in success for the Bandera County Inter-Agency Council on Friday, Oct. 2. Representatives from the seven agencies now quartered at 1207 Cottonwood (previously Dr. McAnally's office) held an open house for county residents. Agencies housed in the office building include: Texas Department of Health, Juvenile Probation, (WIC) Women, Infants, and children, Job Training Partnership Act, Southwest Family Life Center, Mental Health/Retardation, and the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Landowner Clarence Rhodes owns the building and remodeled it to meet the needs of the various agencies.

Marcia Short and County Judge, Ray F. Mauer both served in the Inter-Agency Council from its inception. Marilyn Vogt from the Texas Dept. of Mental Health and Mental Retardation; Comellia Rue from Community Services; Mildred Treaster from Helping Hand; Martha Groomer and Betty Staples from the Texas Dept. of Health; Diana Martin and Trina Ward from the Dept. of Human Resources; and Carolyn Dougherty from the Texas Rehabilitation Commission were also in the Inter-Agency Council from the beginning.

The council's objective was to find what it would best serve Bandera County and make it a better place to live. The concensus was that community-help organizations needed to be grouped together to provide more convenience and better access by county residents.

Marilyn Vogt, an outreach worker from the Kerrville State Hospital, said that the goal of her program is to screen potential patients and get them the help they need. If they are hospitalized and then released, follow-up ensues. "We want to make sure they don't need to go back into the hospital. That's our intent. We have about 85 clients in Bandera and Boerne. House visits are time-consuming and are not cost effective. With this office, there's a place to meet with them. We have a doctor in the office weekly and if patients will call the Boerne office to make the connection, help is always available.

"It's a neat thing to have all the state agencies in one location. a person can walk right across the hall. I think it's unique. It doesn't happen often. In the past, some people have become frustrated because they had to run all over the county to get to help and then they would find the offices were closed by the time they got there."

Neal Matthews, Director of MHMR, agreed with Vogt. "We certainly appreciate this. It's a real asset to people receiving treatment and to the Bandera community as well. It's actually a change suggested by the state. Texas Governor Ann Richards said she wants services centeralized so they will be easier to access. She calls it, 'one-stop shopping.'"

Kevin Engel of Alamo Council of Government attended the open house as a representative for the Job Training Partnership Act. His goal is to let county residents know that federal funding is available for vocational training and for short-term college, and for nursing school. He sees an average of 10 Bandera County residents a month. His office is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Carol Lobert and Tony Langfield want county residents to know that help is available for battered women and children. The Southwest Family Life Center is also located at 1207 Cottonwood. Counseling and crisis intervention are their main objectives. Shelter for victims of domestic violence is available in Hondo at a 20-bed facility. Lobert and Langfield work with a 12-county area and head up a support group in Lakehills. Their goal is to help the women get "anything they need including legal service."

Bees

miles an hour and have been known to [illegible] the quarter-mile.

To avoid the danger of confrontation with AHB, keep away from all bees and swarms. Swarms usually do not chase intruders.

Watch for bee nests and keep away from them. Nests may be found in trees (felled or standing), tree stumps, large rocks, deserted buildings or in isolated, sheltered areas. Always watch for foraging bees and keep an escape route in mind in case encountering them. If a colony is accidentally disturbed, run for cover. Running zig-zag through tall bushes is helpful.

Never stand still, crawl into a hole or assume a position which is difficult to leave. Bees tend to sting around the head and face. Try to protect your face with a shirt or jacket or anything available as you run. Do not slap at the bees. Keep running until you are clear of bees.

If someone else is attacked, that person should run from the bees. Try to steer a clear path away from the area and get the victim to follow. A faulty rescue attempt endangers both rescuer and victim. Do not try to rescue a trapped victim without something to protect both of you; blankets, sheets, or clothes can be used.

The Bantex, Bandera's Modern New Theater Opens Tonight

All Bandera theater-goers are rejoicing today, for tonight our ing picture theater, The Bantex

Mrs. J. C. Webb
NEWSPICTURES CO-OP.

J. C. Webb

opens up for its initial run, with a splendid program.

The handsome new building, equipped with all modern conveniences and the latest appliances, stands completed — a beautiful structure that is the pride of the town. After months of patient waiting all of the kiddoes of the community hail the reopening of the Bantex with delight, for since the theater was burned out some months ago the town has been without a picture show. Tonight it opens again in its own building, which is fireproof, air-cooled, sanitary and safe in every way. Despite war conditions, and the extreme difficulty in getting labor and building material, as well as motion picture equipment, Mr and Mrs. J. C. Webb managed to overcome many of the obstacles and rebuild the theater. The enterprising task fell largely on the shoulders of Mrs. Miriam Webb, as Mr. Webb was inducted into the armed forces some time ago, and could not be here to superintend construction of the building.

NEWSPICTURES CO-OPERATIVE

The new theater is of the stadium type with a seating capacity of 400, and it is safe to predict that when its doors open tonight every seat will be taken, and even standing room will be at a premium.

Everyone in town will be glad to welcome the Bantex back to the town's need for a first class picture show.

For weeks decorators and workmen have been preparing the new building for this opening night. Glenn Moore was the interior decorator, and also did the outside painting; the Malitz Plumbing Company did the plumbing, Lunsford's Electric Shop did the electrical work and installing of sound equipment. Thrailkill & Johnson, of San Antonio, were the contractors, and certainly did a tip-top job.

We are all justly proud of this handsome new theater, which will be a credit to the town for years to come. Its central location and its inviting appearance impresses every visitor to our town with the fact that its owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Webb are progressive and enterprising.

ALSO CHAPTER ONE:

"Man Hunt On Mystery Island"

recent column written by Peggy Tobin Isetin, E.N. Dalton says he began thinking about the old Bantex Theater, and when he tage copy of the Bandera Bulletin in his garage, he wanted to share what he found.

The front page of the 4-page edition, dated Aug. 31, 1945 bragged that "The Bantex, Bandera's modern new theater opens tonight," and two ads for the new business appeared inside the newspaper.

Emblazened under the 1945 Bandera Bulletin's masthead was the motto: " 'Tis Neither Birth, nor Wealth, nor State, but Get-up-and Get that Makes Men Great." The Bandera Bulletin was published on Friday by owner and publisher J. Marvin Hunter, and his daughter, Mrs. John V. (Nettie) Saul was the editor and business manager.

Also on the front page of the Bulletin that week was a story about "Saturday Night's Rodeo," put on by the Bandera County Fair Association at Mansfield Park. According to the Bandera Bulletin:

"Rodeo fans viewed a fine rodeo, and dance lovers danced to the strains of Adolph Hofner's famous orchestra...

"At the rodeo, Bob Mansfield led the grand entry with Morris Witt of Uvalde carrying Old Glory and Rudy Schmidt carrying the Lone Star flag of Texas."

Others involved in putting on the rodeo were Roy Nunnelley, Doodlebug Teich, Roy Fly, Slats McKay, Fabian Anderwald and Gilbert Hallford. Cowgirl Helen Tindall won the ladies' flag race; Bob Mansfield won the tie-down roping competition; and Jim Edwards won the break-away roping competition.

Rodeo competitors mentioned in the newspaper included Lem Reeves, Felix Billings, Fabian Anderwald, Frank Weed Jr., Ray Wharton, Francis Faltin, Joe Walters, Adrian Hinds, Morris Witt, Victor Schmidt, Jack Preston, Poochie Eckhart, Raymond Hicks, Howard Billings, Bennie Adamietz, Scooter Fries, Lane Langford, Tadpole Clark, Mata Hunt, Edna Rackley, Pat Crawford, Doodlebug Teich, Mrs. Jim Edwards, Ann Riley and Mrs. Fred Fellows.

Also in the Bulletin were reports of American troops occupying Japan, and a story on the front page told of the death of Private Alton E. Hodges of Pipe Creek, who "made the supreme sacrifice for his country."

Other front page news items told that Claude Miller had leased the Best Yet Cafe, and that Mrs. Ashley Rugh was among those who would participate in the program when the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce Banquet was held on Sept. 6.

It was also reported that Joe Parks was bitten by a large diamond back rattlesnake on Tuesday. "He became very ill, but was fortunate to procure medical attention immediately... his physician reported his condition satisfactory Wednesday."

Koehler competed

Natalie Koehler, daughter of David and Sharon Koehler, was one of 10 competitors in the District Miss Farm Bureau Contest on Saturday, Oct. 3.

Koehler went into the contest "excited" but was not disappointed when she did not win. "I know I tried and I did the best I could do. It was good experience."

She went into the contest [illegible] family is very supportive," she said in explaining her involvement in sports and other activities. She plays volleyball and basketball and runs track. She raises and markets goats for her 4-H project; is a Student Council representative, and a member of BPA (Business Professionals of America). Koehler is also a member of the National Honor Society.

Asked how she manages such a full schedule, Koehler replied, "it's tough. But I like to be involved."

She plans to use her desires to be involved in her future. "I'm real outspoken. I like to speak my mind. I plan to go to UT and study Law. There's a wide choice of careers in Law. I feel I can use my willingness to speak out on behalf of people."

During her interview in the beauty contest, Koehler said that history is her favorite subject because she has a good teacher who makes learning fun. "I would like to become a lawyer. I think history is a very important subject. I'm for the people."

Koehler described her playing position on the basketball team as being a post and a forward. When she was asked what a post was, she replied, "we're the ones who get beat up. We don't let anyone score."

Koehler is six feet tall.

By Bungy

Well, it was a whizz bang, shoot-'em-up affair. Friends of the Library Barbecue, that is. They just get more organized and bigger every year. The food was great, the service was all smiles and the Banderans that come out of the woodwork for this are amazing!

Bruce Montague, as usual, was terrific with his ropes--his finale with the "Texas Skip" is a test of real endurance, and what a crowd pleaser!

Ballan Grant Keen, the Little Wrangler, sang and yodeled for over half an hour, much to the delight of the crowd.

The Hilltoppers' music, which is also an annual event, was as fun as ever. Next year, they ought to push back some tables, though and let everyone "trip the light fantastic!"

• The Hilltoppers got their start about 35 years ago, in Medina, when Sherrill Johnson began playing for his own amusement, then along came J.W. Moffat and Buddy Bauerlein.

They entertained the dears at the Hilltop Nursing Home in Kerrville, so that's how their name evolved. (I thought they must practice on a hill!)

There have been different members over the years, but now, it's Sherrill Johnson on fiddle (still!); Randy MacNaughton, lead guitar; Murry LeStourgeon, rhythm guitar; and the vocals with guitars are Linda Barton and Shirley Phillips.

They've not only played a jillion benefits around the county, but they've gigged at the S.A. Convention Center, La Villita, Castroville and Quihi.

Quihi was a German settlement and one time, while playing a golden wedding, an old Dutchman came up and said to them, "You poys are c—— good, but vy don't you play more valtzes?" So they did!

They've not only done golden weddings, but a few 60-year ones, too, and are looking forward to someone's "Diamond Jubilee"!

• For a re-cycling effort, Lost Valley Ranch is offering a challenge to the other ranches or restaurants in the area. It's who can make the largest aluminum ball by the time our "Christmas in Bandera" comes along. We'll have to display them somewhere downtown! Get busy and start creating!

• The Bandera Convention and Visitors Bureau (a part of the Chamber of Commerce) has done a terrific job of using the "bed tax" money collected from the guest ranches and motels, to promote tourism here. People are coming from all over to inquire about over-night and group bookings everywhere. The restaurants are booming. The Silver Dollar had two big charter buses filled to the gills on Saturday night.

Arkey had a huge smile on his face that I bet he couldn't get off for days, his business was so good! Bandera is being re-found, and in a nice way, too.

• On the way home from work, Sunday, The Forge was booming with another jam session, so naturally, I had to pull in! And had the great pleasure of hearing Ceasar Masse on his fantastic fiddle.

Anti-abortion event stretched through here

Bandera County was one link in the "Life Chain"

Over 113 people lined up on both sides of Bandera's Main Street on Sunday, Oct. 4, to participate in the 1992 Life Chain, which stretched from the city limits on the Hwy. 173 junction.

The "quiet protest," with individuals standing 10 feet apart holding signs, was so unusual for the quiet western town that a few patrons of the Purple Cow came out to form a noisy counterprotest.

Michelle Rosenbaum, director [illegible] Chain, explained her role in organizing the event in Bandera. "It's not that we don't believe that women are intelligent enough to make decisions [illegible] but they must realize; it's more than just their life that's affected in the decision to abort a baby. This is America. In our country, our rights end where another's rights begin. We believe that unborn children have rights too."

The Life Chain was held in more than 700 cities and towns [illegible] lion participants in all 50 states stood "in support of the unborn" from 2:30-3:30 p.m. on Sunday. Participants stood ten feet apart, forming chains along the protest routes. They held signs which read, "Abortion Kills Children," "Jesus [illegible] Adoption: the Loving Option."

The Life Chain began in Yuba City, and Marysville, Calif., in 1987. Last year's Life Chain involved 770,000 Americans in 373 cities, joined by 100,000 Canadians.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Faith Without Question

"Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen."

— Hebrews 11:1

It would not be difficult to deny faith in a God no one but a few visionaries ever claimed to have seen. And the same could be said for Jesus Christ, the savior for whom there are no historical records save for the stories set forth by the gospels. Yet though there are many things in life we cannot perceive visually, our senses tell us they exist. We cannot see the heat of the sun, yet we bask in its warmth; nor witness the freeze of winter, but we experience its chill. Thus, though we do not behold God or His Son, we are aware of Their presence around us and in our lives. How else to explain the glories of nature and the commandments that enrich our being?

Wharton's Dock

Bud Ciarlo

Susan and Ken Brown mixed business with pleasure in a recent trip to Orlando. Susan was scheduled to attend the National Association of Homes for Children so a visit to Disney World was combined with the convention for a memorable vacation.

The Browns camped their way to Florida and then stayed at the Buena Vista Palace, part of the Disney complex where NAHC met.

Three and a half days were spent at Epcot Center, MGM Studios and the Magic Kingdom. On their return trip, the Browns visited the Kennedy Space Center and the new home of Arlene Gorol, who recently moved to Shalimer, Florida from Wharton's Dock.

It was a marvelous trip and a fun-filled vacation according to Susan and Ken. A stop by the home of their kids and grandkids in Houston just added to the enjoyment.

Now back home, tired but happy, and it's back to work for both of them.

Now is the time to make a circle on the calendar for the 24th of October. That is the day of the turkey shoot at the Lakeshore VFD. There will be a whole day of entertainment, bingo and a children's shoot with BB guns, Mexican food and of course, a raffle with the first prize being a full-building lot located in Lake Medina Shores.

The VFD receives no financial support from county, state or federal taxes, so it has to make money any way it can to pay for its equipment and operating expenses. There will be a flea market for all you treasure hunters, so mark you calendar and join in the fun.

Saturday, Oct. 3, Dorothy Rucker entertained Red and Jacket Smith and Dana Simmons on the deck of her home at Wharton's Dock.

On Oct. 4, Susan Brown, wife of the Rev. Ken Brown of the Walker Memorial Chapel was happy to have her mother, Constance Swander with her at church service.

On Monday night, Sept. 28, a large crowd turned out at the Copper Lantern to wish Melisa Price a happy birthday. Melisa and husband Larry are the owners of Copper Lantern.

The Walker Memorial Chapel welcomed Mark and Donna Lane and daughter, Amanda, into the membership of the church. The Lanes joined two weeks ago.

Arts and crafts show set at Lakehills VFD Nov. 21

The second annual Ole' Fashioned Arts and Crafts Show will be held Saturday, Nov. 21, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department central firehouse.

The event is sponsored by the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary.

And while it's over a month away, the limited number of tables are already going fast. Of the 28 tables inside the department, 16 are rented. Tables that are 10x10 to rent $20 and tables that are 8x4 are $15 to rent.

Auxiliary members will offer as many as ten different food items for sale including nachoes, hot dogs, crispy tacos and coffee and tea. Also part of the event is a cake walk.

Items that are expected to be displayed include woodwork, specially-designed clothes, jewelry, and Christmas decorations. "All items will be handmade," said organizer Sherry Feriend. "No flea market or garage sale merchandise allowed."

For more information about the show, contact Feriend at 751-2669 or the auxiliary president, Dolly Dresser at 751-3335.

St. Victor's to host flea market

Merchandise, food will be available

St. Victor's Catholic Chapel in Lakehills will host its fall flea market Saturday on the church grounds on Park Road 37 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

And there are so many vendors that they don't have any tables left to rent. But they do have spaces for people that wish to sell out of their car, truck, or off their own table that they bring.

Vendors will take up 22 tables, three booths, and at least seven spaces with their wares, reports spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann. "It's the biggest flea market they've had," she said.

Church volunteers will offer breakfast tacos, nachos, taquitos (corn tortillas with chicken or beef inside), hot dogs, soft drinks, coffee, tea, and desserts such as cookies and cake.

"We'll have more breakfast tacos this year because we sold out last year," said Hartmann.

Persons interested in obtaining a space should call 751-2628, 535-6247 or 751-2264. Spaces rent for $3 each.

Medina Mavericks celebrate Columbus

The Medina Mavericks Volksport Club will host a 10 km walk and 25 km bike event on Oct. 10-11 to celebrate the Columbus Quinscentennial. The events will be held from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. and will start and finish at the SAS Siesta Valley Ranch, 10 miles west of Medina on Highway 337.

SAS Shoemakers and Utopia Water are co-sponsors of the family-oriented activities.

PC EMS Barn Sale termed 'a huge success' by group

The recent Pipe Creek EMS Barn Sale was "a huge success," according to EMS Support Team publicity chairman Bennie Honaker.

"Thanks to Anita Ramsey who did such a good job organizing, and the great cooks who baked for us, our cake sale brought in $479," Honaker said. "The barn sale including donations and the cake sale all together brought in $1,850. The community really came through for us.

"Special credit goes to Helen McKandles, the Carpenters, the Terrals and Jackie Buck for their hard work and efforts."

The EMS group is currently getting estimates for kitchen and bathroom cabinets, and any cabinet makers who want to submit an estimate are invited to call Fay Honaker at 535-4817.

"Everyone is getting really excited as our building gets closer to being finished," Bennie Honaker said. "Tom Cavin will be starting on tiling the bathrooms and kitchen floor soon.

"Norris Warner has made us a generous offer of an airplane tour of the Lake Medina and Bandera area in his classic Luscombe 'Silvaire,' with all proceeds going to Pipe Creek EMS.

"Suggested donation is $25," he said. "For information, call Mr. Warner at 535-4334.

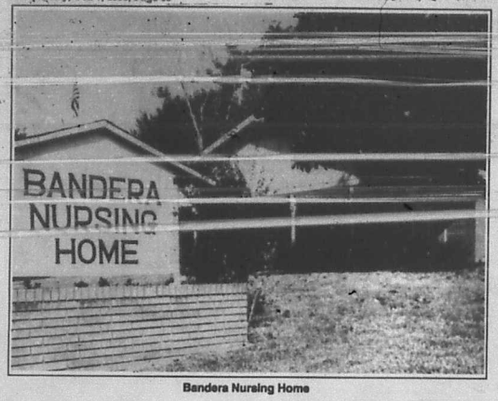
They will live in San Antonio where both are employed.



Bandera Nursing Home

twelve residents were reported to have either dried urine and/or feces on their bedding, clothing, or bodies. In addition, "two oriented continent residents needing toileting assistance stated there sometimes is a 30 to 45 minute delay from the time they activate their call lights until a staff member responds. These residents stated they have suffered incontinent accidents while waiting and have ended up lying in their excrement and added it was just terrible to have to do this."

According to TDH, "the facility failed to provide a comfortable environment for the residents during meal times. One alert resident was observed during the noon meal on Sept. 16 trying to feed herself. She was lying in a prone position with her over-bed table placed to the right side of her bed and her siderails were up. This resident was observed trying to prop herself up with one hand and reaching over her body with the other hand in order to eat. The resident stated it would make it easier for her if they would position the over-bed table over the top of the bed and elevate or prop her up during her meals."

On Sept. 11, TDH said that "two residents were observed... to have their lunch and dinner trays placed in front of them uncovered, in excess of one-half hour. Both residents require assistance or prompting during feeding. It was only after this was brought to the attention of the director of nurses by a complaint investigator, that these two residents were attended. The food bowls were cold to touch and one resident's orange sherbet was now liquified."

Many residents who had entered the facility without pressure sores were reported to now have pressure sores; and there were also reports of "excoriated areas." The report stated that "the health care plans and minimum data sets were not current to determine if the pressure sores were unavoidable. Excoriated areas do result from residents remaining in wet and soiled conditions."

The TDH reports also stated that: "the facility failed to assure that all drugs and biologicals were kept under lock and key at all times;" because there was inadequate personnel on a 24-hour basis, "showers were not given for periods of up to a week when only one or two nurses aides were on duty;" residents were not always appropriately dressed; that some female residents, though they had specifically requested that they be attended by female nurses aides, were attended to and bathed by male aides; that staff members "failed to address residents in a dignified manner"; many of the rooms and bathrooms had a strong odor of urine and/or feces; and dried feces and/or food and other stains were found on the floors and other areas in some rooms.

In addition, the report detailed rusting bed frames and other rusted equipment, soiled walls and floors, leaky faucets, sticky or slippery floors, clogged sinks and dusty buildup.

The TDH report noted many problems with patient health care plans and data, and it also noted many occasions when nurses and aides did not wash their hands or change gloves after dealing with soiled bed linens and/or providing incontinent care.

It also stated that "the facility failed to ensure that resident call cords were accessible to the residents at all times... during rounds... it was observed that 18 of 40 residents' call lights were not in reach of the residents."

The TEH report also indicated that at least some of the sides and staff were found to have inadequate training and/or certification.

Justice
Ron Carr
Court of Appeals

Dear Bandera County Voter,

I take this means to personally ask for your vote and support for re-election to the Court of Appeals.

My record on the Court of Appeals is one of independence, impartiality, and productiveness. No other candidate can bring this actual on-the-job experience to the court. Our district has thirty-two (32) counties with a 1990 population of 1,884,373 which is 11% of the population of Texas and is a greater population than Washington D.C. and 16 states of the union: Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Nevada, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, and Wyoming. Approximately 60% of the district's population reside in Bexar County and 40% reside in the other thirty-one (31) rural counties. I believe that it is both a benefit and an asset to the entire district to have on the Court an elected Justice from a rural county with a rural perspective. I am proud to serve as that rural Justice.

I ask for your vote to continue serving the people of the district to provide the effective justice you deserve.

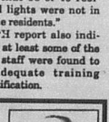
A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes



Each of us is blessed with a unique personality. Some out-going and imaginative. Others cautious and shrewd. But it is a rare personality that is well-liked by all his companions in his social and business life. "You can't please everyone,"--traits that appeal to some people are irritating to others. We all may benefit, however, from winning other's respect, good will and hopefully, friendships...

A well-developed personality depends first of all on the ability to be oneself. You may be a bit on the solemn side or you may be an extrovert and "back-slapper." Start from what your are. Don't try to be something you are not...Take a great and real interest in other people. Be sparing in your criticism. Try to find out everytime you come in contact with something novel and unusual just what it is that gives this situation its appeal. In other words, touch life at many points. Be generous and understanding.

Granted, this may seem like trite and obvious advice, but it is the kind of thing that develops rich, charming, over-whelming personalities...

Whose idea was it anyway? Ashley Rugh's, that's who!

By Peggy Huffman
Special to the Bulletin

The idea of honoring Bandera County's visiting hunters was the brainchild of Ashley Rugh. In 1963 the Bandera Chamber of Commerce was looking for a project that would promote good will and get the ladies' auxiliaries and other citizens working together. Rugh studied Bandera County's assets. Heading the list were talented musicians, inspired chuck-wagon cooks and folks who loved a party. Add beautiful scenery, crisp autumn weather and fantastic hunting and the answer seemed obvious.

Ashley Rugh operated the Texaco station at the corner of Main and Cypress for 32 years. This put him in contact with many of Bandera's visiting hunters.

"Let's show our appreciation for the hunters who come here and spend lots of money with us. Let's give them a free supper," was his proposal.

The idea quickly won support from citizens throughout the county. A committee headed by Rugh and Leslie Bill Sharp was formed to organize the event.

The committee's name brought about a comment that had the whole town laughing. Rugh, a pillar of the community and mainstay of the Methodist Church, thought of the abundance of deer, turkey and wild boar available to hunters, so he called his committee the "Wildlife Committee." Another citizen, thinking of the honky tonks, stompedes and wingdings said, "I think this town has had all the 'wild life' it can take."

Rugh quickly proved himself to be a crackerjack organizer. He, with his wife Meleese and his helpers, had everything running like clockwork. Lists of donors read like the county census. Many businesses donated $500. Just as important, waitresses, cow pokes, school children, etc. gave $1 or $2 each. It was a wonderful outpouring of community spirit.

Meleese Rugh laughs at some of Ashley's solutions to small inconveniences. Once a hunter drank a little too much and was getting in everyone's way. He ended up obstructing traffic in the serving line where he was trying to help. Meleese removed him from his chosen station by dancing with him. A smashed toe convinced her that some other solution had to be found.

"What am I going to do with him?" she asked Ashley.

"Put him to selling toothpicks," replied Ashley.

Meleese gave the inebriated hunter a box of toothpicks and told him to sell them for the barbecue fund. The man was thrilled that he'd been given a worthwhile job. His sales pitch to his fellow hunters was brilliant.

"Don't act like a bunch of hayseed. If you don't buy a toothpick for $1, you'll have to pick your teeth with your knife." The hunters were not only amused, they enjoyed contributing to such a wonderful party. The toothpick salesman ended up selling $50 worth of toothpicks.

And Ashley Rugh's brainchild is still working! Each year, hundreds of repeat visitors turn out for the event.

Jerry and Big Dog

I work with horses and I ride a lot so the trip seemed like a good idea. I sold everything I had, saddled up and left."

On the way Thomas encountered wild dogs, red bugs, fire ants, slim rations, lonely nights in swamps—and lots of strange looks.

"What I'm doing now was nothing 75 years ago. Everybody rode a horse everywhere...just like they'd done since Roman times. Then one day one man changed the whole world...Henry Ford invented the automobile. And now it is unusual to see a man traveling by horse."

As he traveled, making about 30 miles a day, Thomas worked at whatever jobs he could find in order to earn the little money he needed to keep on moving.

"I did a little of everything," Thomas grinned. "I built fence, worked hogs with the Amish, milked cows, hauled hay, worked stock and cleaned barns. I even worked as a pick up man at a rodeo in Jasper.

Thomas says most people were willing to let him work for short periods of time and were supportive of his quest. "People were generous," he says "but I never took a hand out. I always worked for whatever I was given...food...a place to sleep. I even traded...swapped a knife for a coat...things like that."

A man and a horse alone on the trail are at the mercy of the weather. Thomas and Big Dog were blown through the Cumberland Gap by a blizzard and thoroughly drenched by the remnants of hurricane Andrew in the swamps of Louisiana.

"Now THAT rain was really something. You can stay dry only so long in that kind of a storm. Even with rain gear on. We really got soaked."

Thomas discovered that even though the Ku Klux Klan is still alive and well in Alabama and the deep South, most folks are friendly and willing to take a stranger in for the night.

"I really didn't have any trouble with them (the Klan), but I could feel the attitude. I guess a young black man traveling on a horse wasn't a threat since they knew I wasn't going to steal their television set and ride off with it across my saddle. Actually, only one man refused to shake my hand.

"The thing that bothers me a lot is the fact that of all the places I stayed...all the people that took me into their homes...only two families were black. Even in the deep South.

"Women were cautious too," said Thomas. "The wives were always concerned about a strange man sleeping in the barn. Even though their husbands said it was OK.

"I'll tell you one thing, though, I was well fed. Those wives, even though they were about half afraid of me always saw to it that I got a hot meal that night...always."

Thomas learned that nights alone on the trail can cause a man to look at himself and his thoughts to turn inward.

"I learned that I'm not the loner that I thought I was. I've learned what I can do with out...how little a man needs to get by. What most people think they NEED is just what they would like to have.

"I've learned that people no longer work at their dreams to make a living. Instead, they work at a job in order to obtain their dreams...and usually they never succeed.

"I don't want to end up like that. I don't want to be an old man some day sayin wish I'd done this or that."

Amen.

Jerry Thomas plans to remain in Bandera for a few weeks while Big Dog's wound heals and is now staying in the Mayan ghost town. He will work for the Dixie Dude Ranch for a while and then move on out to west Texas. "I plan to try and find a job and spend the winter. I want to start my book. I've got more than enough material."

Bandera JV beats Ingram, frosh loses, 7th and 8th graders win big

The Bandera junior varsity football squad beat Ingram 20-0 at Ingram in Thursday night play.

Quarterback Jimmy Stroud passed to Brad Pfeiffer and again to Matt Maurek for two scores and Stroud did a 10-yard keeper for a third score.

The JV is 4-0 in play, having beaten Marble Falls, West Campus, Ingram and Dripping Springs.

The freshmen football team lost to Medina Valley 21-8 at Medina Valley last week. The freshmen are 0-4.

The eighth-grade Bulldogs beat Ingram in Bandera last week 22-8 and the seventh-graders did in the Warriors 30-0. Both games were in Bandera.

The eighth-graders are 2-1 and the seventh-graders are 1-2.

Optimists to host Tri-Star punt, pass and kick competition Oct. 10 here

The Optimist Club of Bandera will hold a Tri-Star Football contest on Saturday, Oct. 10 at the Bandera Bulldog Stadium. The program tests the skills of each contestant in three of the basic skills of the game—place kicking, passing, and punting.

Head football coach Chris Storer, his staff, and football players will hold a pass, punt, and kick clinic from 1 to 2 p.m., and the contest will start at 2 p.m.

Boys and girls will compete in six age groups, 7 through 12, against youth in their own group only. All that is needed is a pair of gym shoes.

The competition on Saturday will determine three finalists in each division. These finalists will then compete at the Bandera/Hondo football game in Bulldog Stadium the following Friday evening to establish 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners.

There will be plaques awarded to the first three winners in each age group. In addition, every contestant will also receive a momento-score-card.

Entry blanks can be completed and turned in at the football field October 10th. Registration will begin at 12:30 on the football field. Parents need to be there in order to sign the registration form.

If you have any questions, contact any member of the Bandera Optimist Club or Sully Woodland at 796-3014.

Utopia volleyball teams competed Sept. 26

The Utopia volleyball teams traveled to Harper on Saturday, Sept. 26 for a game against the Lady Longhorns. Utopia Junior Varsity downed Harper in just two games, 15-11 and 15-4. Star players for the Lady Buffaloes were Shannon Smith and Toni D. Clark. The varsity ended the evening with a two game sweep, 15-7 and 15-9. Star players were Amy Jones, Sugar Moore and Vicki Bownds. Currently the varsity holds a record of 8 and 2.

11-yard pass to junior tight end Jason Olson for six points with 10:37 left in the second quarter. The extra point kick was wide and the score was 7-6.

Bandera senior quarterback Terry Robertson ran a quarterback sneak for one yard into the end zone with 7:19 left in the second quarter. Woodland kicked the extra point.

Bandera went into the locker room with a 14-6 lead.

The Bandera defensive line forced an Ingram fumble and Bandera junior defensive lineman Adam Alviso recovered the ball in the end zone and scored six points. The kick was good. Score 21-6. It was the third quarter with 3:49 left.

With 56 seconds left in the third quarter, Ingram intercepted a Robertson pass which set up a Stehling one-yard TD pass to Olson for their second-shared touch down on the night. ITM converted a two-point passing play with the hot Stehling-Olson combo for a 21-14 score.

In the fourth quarter, Woodland was in at quarterback and was sacked at third down and 13 yards to go. Bandera had to punt and Ingram started to move from their 5-yard line. That move included a 64-yard reverse run by Mosty stopped by Bandera junior defensive end Kyle Everett.

The Bulldogs pulled an offside penalty deep in their own territory and gave Ingram a first down with five yards to go at the Bandera 14-yard line. Shortly after a Ingram bobbled pass at the sideline that was declared good, Ingram junior running back Robbie Middleton ran the ball in from the 7-yard line for a 21-20 score. At two-point conversion on the hand off from Stehling to Middleton gave Ingram the lead at 22-21.

Then Bandera had two lucky breaks. With less than five minutes to play, senior running back Jake Stricker made a 27-yard run, hit the ground and the ball popped loose. If he'd fumbled before he hit the ground into the arms of a Warrior, the story would be different, but the ball was ruled grounded and therefore not a fumble.

Ingram gave away 15 yards when they made a late hit with Bandera was within 30 yards of the end zone.

With less than three minutes to go, Bandera was at fourth down and three yards to go. Stricker was sent through the middle of the line and came up short.

Ingram was given the ball on their own 20-yard line and all they had to do was eat up the remaining 2:33.

But on their first play on what should have been their last series of plays, they fumbled and Bandera recovered the ball on Ingram's 19-yard line.

At third and six, Ingram went offsides and gave Bandera a third down and one yard. Bandera junior running back Marlon Santos made a four-yard run to give a first-down and then Bradford went through the line on the next play.

With second and goal, Santos took the hand-off, heading around to the far side, was hit once behind the line, and crossed into the end zone standing up.

Woodland's kick was blocked by Ingram's senior tackle Tory Phelps and the score was 27-22 back in Bandera's favor.

Ingram tried with 52 seconds remaining, and Stehling and his team showed they could move the ball under pressure, but they made no further scores.

In the last play, Stehling dropped back to pass, saw Mosty, passed to Mosty, but Bandera defender Ricky Gard got in the way and intercepted.

According to Storer, future teams that play Ingram better watch out. "If they take them lightly, it will be tough.

"Stehling is good. He was very maneuverable and very accurate tonight (Friday)." Storer said Mosty also played well as a receiver.

Stats on the night: Bandera 15 first downs, Ingram 20. Penetrations were four for both teams.

Rushing yardage was 150 for Bandera and 211 for Ingram.

Passing was nine attempts for Bandera, three completions and one interception with 20 yards achieved. Ingram had 32 attempts, 16 completions, two interceptions and 211 yards in the air.

Bandera punted five times for a 37-yard average. Ingram four times for a 31-yard average.

Bandera incurred no fumbles. Ingram coughed up the ball six times and gave it away three times.

Rushing leaders for Bandera were Stricker with eight carries for 53 yards, Bradford 12 for 43, Santos 11 for 40 and junior full back Braon Moseley with seven for 30.

Ingram's rushing leader was Middleton with 19 for 96 yards.

Kansas Futurity will move here next year

What it is is the Grade I run at Bandera Downs next year.

What was one of the triple crowns of quarter horse racing will be moved from Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico to Bandera Downs next year and general manager Billy Bowers, the Kansas Quarter Horse Association, similiar to the Texas Quarter Horse Association, has committed to run the race at Bandera in 1994.

The move is major coup in the horse racing business. The Kansas Futurity was the first race in the Triple Crown of Quarter Horse racing which included the Rainbow Futurity and the All-American Futurity — all run at Ruidoso Downs.

The announcement was made Saturday at the American Quarter Horse Association convention in California and in Bandera by Bowers.

The purse of the Kansas Futurity was $215,428.26 when it was won by the then top 2-year-old quarter horse in the country, Deceptively May 24. As a comparison, the purse of the Rainbow Futurity (the second crown run July 11) was $230,130 and the purse of the All-American Futurity (the final crown and the richest quarter horse race in the world run Sept. 7) was $1,890,986.

Part of the reason the Kansas Futurity was moved to Bandera was Bowers' connections with quarter horse racing for 15 years including his time at the Del Rio track in Val Verde County, LaBahia Downs in Goliad and Manor Downs in Austin — all sites where he's run his Graham Farms Futurity, now the third richest quarter horse race in the world behind the All-American and the Heritage Place Futurity at Remington Park in Oklahoma. "I've been home state in Oklahoma)," said Bowers.

Details on the purse and the day of the race and trials are still being worked out, but Bowers said he has a firm to run the race at Bandera for two years.

Additionally, Bandera will get the companion Grade I Kansas Derby in 1994 and could run the 1993 Kansas Derby, too, if Ruidoso decides to let the race go. (There is money invested in the derby from the futurity and Ruidoso controls those purse strings.) The Kansas Derby had a purse of $167,649 when it was run May 31.

Bowers expects the 43rd running of the Kansas Futurity will be run during the last two weeks in May.

The race, along with the Graham Farms Futurity, is expected to draw some of the best quarter horses around. "A race like that brings (top) horses and brings bettors. It's a domino effect," said Bowers.

With the Grade I Graham Farms Futurity in April, quarter horse owners and trainers will have the opportunity to run in two big money races within two months. The purse of the Graham Farms was $388,911.60 when it was run April 12.

Trinity Meadows is back on track

Turmoil among horsemen and jockeys at Trinity Meadows over the resignation of their racing secretary has apparently been resolved.

Trinity is the source of Bandera's regular simulcast signal. Racing secretary Warren Groce resigned his position last week in an apparent salary dispute.

60 schools to compete in 17th Cross Country

Bandera High school, said that 60 schools have now accepted invitations to the Oct. 10, 17th Annual Cross Country Meet. It will be held at Bandera High School beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Mazurek said the the event is successful because it is well organized, has strong ed the event for the past 17 years. Tom and Doris Doebbler have also worked in the meet for 17 years. Tom is the offical finish line scorer. Doris runs the scoring table. The couple began working the event when their oldest daughter was in the 7th grade and entered the cross country. Even though they have no more children in school, the Doebblers continue to support the annual sports event.

Mazurek said she appreciates other parents as well, who like the Doebblers, have no children left in school, yet continue to work the meet and support it. She said that cross country running takes a lot of dedication both on the part of parents and students. "The students begin practicing at 6:30 a.m., then showers, change and go to school. For Junior High students and students who are not driving yet, the parents must get them here for practice."

The First Annual Cross Country Invitational was held at Mansfield Park. It was held because Bandera students needed a place to run. "The way it works," Mazurek explained, "is reciprocal. We invite a school, then that school invites us. It has grown through the years and has now become a fairly big meet."

Mazurek said that coaches from other schools like the Bandera track "because of the hill. It's good practice for the state meet at Georgetown. Approximately the first one-half mile of that track is uphill. And spectators like the Bandera hill because they can see most of the track."

There will be 10 divisions in the race. One-hundred medals will be given. Bandera's Neil Peterson of Peterson Woodcrafts will custom design the plaques as he has done for the past eight years. He will make 28 this year.

Mazurek expects a good crowd of spectators again this year. She said she had no idea the event would draw such a large participation this time. She said only 29 schools participated last year. This year, in addition to the 60 schools entering, class runners are expected. They include individuals and teams which have won state track meet honors.

Bandera High School will enter 12 runners. Mazurek credits the commitment of parents, faculty members, and the runners themselves for the continued success of the annual run. "That commitment," she says, "gets us through the meets."

County 'reclaims' Medina Lake park

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera County officials have initiated action to reclaim the County-owned park at Medina Lake. The park has been cleaned, trash containers installed, and a sign advising the public of the proper use of the park has been erected.

The Medina Lake park is owned by Bandera County and jointly operated by the county and by the Texas Parks and Wildlife, Ramps Division. Lakehills Justice of the Peace, Louise Karr said vandalism and "rough" behavior have been serious problems at the park. "It's terrible. I won't let my daughter come down here at all. It's off limits to her. We need a caretaker down here and tighter security. There's drug traffic...it's scary."

County Judge Ray Maur said the county has been looking for solutions to the ongoing problems for several years. "Making it presentable and drawing family-oriented people here is a first step. We've had too much of the others- alcohol and drug users. The type of people that have been coming are destructive. We need to draw families."

Lakehills Constable Ernest Reich agreed. "It's pretty bad when you have to restrict your

Three arrested for burglary

Mischief investigation nets stolen vehicle suspects

Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera deputies found more than they bargained for on Sunday, Oct. 4 when an investigation into a malicious mischief call turned into a stolen vehicle/burglary/possession of stolen property case that ended with the arrest of an adult male and two juveniles.

Deputy Rick Guerra was answering a report that three people were bashing a car at the public boat ramp at Medina Lake, and received radio information that the trio had left the scene in a grey Honda. As Guerra drove down Park Road 37, he spotted the Honda in a driveway and investigated.

The deputy's alertness resulted in the arrest of 19-year-old Jabin Travis of San Antonio and two male 15-year-old juveniles, all charged with two counts of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and one count each of burglary of a habitation and malicious mischief.

It seems that the Toyota which the trio was trashing was stolen in San Antonio after a Ford pickup (also stolen in Laredo in late August) quit because the suspects put diesel fuel in it instead of gasoline.

The three had driven that pickup around San Antonio and had even taken a side trip to Corpus Christi before ditching the vehicle in a west-side parking lot in S.A., said Bandera Sergeant Lynn Holt.

After boosting the Toyota, the three suspects drove to Medina Lake, broke into a home and stole $500 worth of personal items. They then attempted to enter the Lakehills Lone Star Ice House, but were frightened away by the store's alarm.

Travis is now in Bandera County Jail with a $23,000 bond set, and the two youngsters are in custody at the Juvenile Detention Facility in Hondo, says Holt.

A follow-up investigation is underway by Bandera officers to see if the trio can be tied to any other crimes that have occurred in the area.

Bandera meets Hondo here Friday night, 7:30 p.m. Medina's Homecoming celebration is set for this weekend. For more, please see Sports in section B.

Tri-Star football finalists will compete Friday night

Finalists in the Tri-Star Football contest will compete before Friday night's Bandera Bulldog football game. The Bandera Optimist Club sponsored the contest held Saturday, Oct. 10 at Bulldog Stadium. Friday's competition is scheduled to begin at 7:15 p.m.

The program tested the skills of contestants in three of the basic skills of the game: place-kicking, passing and punting. Head football coach Chris Storer, his staff, and players gave a pass, punt and kick clinic to demonstrate and teach the techniques involved as well as allow kids some practice time under their direction.

Boys and girls competed in six age groups, 7 years through 12 years, against youth of their own age only.

The competition on Saturday determined three finalists in each division. These finalists will now compete to determine first-, second-, and third-place winners. They will be given one final opportunity to better their previous score by punting the football.

The finalists in each age group are: 7-year-olds - Brad Shearhart, Chris Martinez, Sasha Ybarra; 8-year-olds - Chad Thompson, Dustin Heep, Scott Jennings; 9-year-olds - Bobby Cummings, Dylan Jackson, Todd Knutson; 10-year-olds - B.J. Newcomer, Coy Pfeiffer, Kerry Schindler; 11-year-olds - Chris Obledo, Oscar Hinojosa, Simon Ybarra; 12-year-olds - Justin Schindler, Justin Knight, Katie Jennings.

letters to the editor

'It's a critical situation'

Dear Editor:

Thank you for publishing a detailed account of the deplorable conditions which have existed at our local nursing home. Although I have not had a family member as a patient there since 1981, I have visited the nursing home occasionally (certainly not as often as I should have) through the years, and have observed patient neglect and unsanitary conditions become more prevalent during the past four years. Several times I have called to report these conditions to the Texas Department of Health in Austin and was always told that they would check into the matter. They did some minor investigation and always called back saying that they were pursuing the facts. But nothing changed. Conditions in the nursing home only worsened.

Finally, after more calls this summer, and numerous other calls made by other people, we were able to obtain some results with a more thorough investigation performed by TDH, the results of which you published.

Folks, this is a critical situation, and although steps are being taken now to correct these deplorable conditions which existed, just remember that the owner and the present administrator, who permitted those conditions to develop and exist, are still in charge. It is our responsibility and Christian duty to monitor the nursing home conditions and make every effort to see that the residents there are receiving proper care and living in sanitary conditions. The patients are unable to do this themselves, so it is imperative that others, you and I, take the time to visit there and observe the treatment and surroundings. If you detect conditions that need to be corrected, report it immediately. I suggest that you contact the administration first; then if no proper corrections are made in reasonable time, you should call one of the following numbers: 1-800-252-5400 to report elderly abuse to the Texas Dept. of Human Services; 1-800-252-9106 to contact the Texas Dept. of Health in Austin; or for perhaps quicker and better results, call 512-342-3300 to contact the Texas Dept. of Health in San Antonio. If you wish, you may remain anonymous, or you may give your name. I always give my name and a number where I can be reached, but you may do as you choose.

Please, I implore you, help to make life better for our nursing home patients, as well as the staff working there. Many of the devoted and efficient employees are no longer there because they were unable to tolerate the conditions that existed. Don't make petty complaints, but don't let legitimate complaints go unreported. If you need assistance, ask others to join you in making calls to the proper authorities. There is strength in numbers! In my opinion, it would be better to not have a nursing home in our community than to have one in which the patients must suffer due to such deplorable conditions. Their welfare is my concern, and I hope it is yours also!

Community responsibility

Dear Editor:

I am addressing the recent articles about Bandera Nursing Home as a friend of many of the residents and employees and as a former administrator of Purple Hills Manor, Inc.

No doubt many people shared Ms. Sandidge's feelings of being "angry and sad" when reading the results of the Texas Department of Health's survey. But why would a community like Bandera need a lengthy report of problems faxed to the local paper to inform us of these conditions?

I was angry and sad as an administrator that so few people from this community came to visit our residents. Mada Wedgworth's column in this paper reports the same visitors' names over and over every week. Many of the people who live in the nursing home have been here all of their lives. Is it possible they all know the same handful of people and only those people?

No. It isn't possible. It is possible that we are all afraid to go into the nursing home. We are afraid to go in and visit and we are afraid that maybe someday we will go in to live. Avoiding our friends who are living there and pretending that we will never have to go there hurts all of us.

The nursing home is an institutional environment. The rules that are designed to keep it clean, safe, efficient and economical [illegible] able to everyone also make it unfamiliar and disturbing to [illegible] there are further down life's road and reveal to us the unsettling glimpses of our possible future. Those things are the facts.

Nothing else that we believe about the nursing home experience has to be a fact. People do not have to be lonely; they do not have to worry about getting to the bathroom; they do not have to struggle to eat their dinner; and they certainly do not have to suffer any abuse.

But, the catch is the community must support the residents and the staff. And we can't do that by just driving by or just attending the Christmas party. We must get out of our comfortable homes, our cars, our golf carts and our daily routines to check on our elderly neighbors. If we aren't satisfied with their living conditions we won't have to wait for a 27 page document from the Department of Health to initiate change. We will have already done it.

'An atrocious attack'

Dear Editor:

I have been a nurse since 1947-- yep, that's 45 working years! I've never seen such an atrocious attack on any medical institution in my life, and I hope I never will again.

I work at Bandera Nursing Home, because I love everyone there, including hard working nurses aides, housekeepers and kitchen personnel. The main object for everyone employed there is the patient. They truly love the residents.

Yes, we have problems, and are working hard to correct problems. In no way has anyone harmed residents there. Many of our residents arrived at the home malnourished, unable to stand up (much less walk), dirty and full of "sores." Abused by these "loved ones," thrown from a car and left to suffer on the lawn of a hospital.

We have nursed and cared for many, many people, described above. They have all gained weight and begun to walk again because we have a very fine ROM (range of motion) person who walks and exercises everybody there every day.

We also have a very good activity director who provides entertainment and plans parties, and volunteers come there and cheer them up. A beautician is on board for shampoo and haircuts for residents.

Nurses work 12 hour shifts, to be sure everyone is cared for. They do a darn good job of it.

We are not as bad as the article portrays.

Helen Dalton, R.N.
Bandera

'The residents need you!'

Dear Editor:

I had been employed at Bandera Nursing Home for almost two years when I quit at the end of August. When I started back to work there in June, things had really started going bad. The good director of nurses had been fired, and they hired the woman who ended up hitting a resident. She (the director of nurses) shouldn't have been there to begin with.

In my opinion, the worst of all is the administrator who happened to get a DWI arrest July 4. He doesn't care about the welfare of the residents. Speaking as a former employee, I don't think that the example he sets is very good for the employees who are supposed to look up to him.

And now, ex-employees aren't being allowed inside the building, when they want to come visit the residents that they had grown close to during the time they worked at Bandera Nursing Home. This administrator is going against the rights of the residents. It's their HOME, after all.

My heart really goes out to the nurses and aides who are still up there, trying to work under these difficult conditions. It's not their fault these things are happening—you can only do so much with as little help as they have.

Hang in there for the residents of Bandera Nursing Home— they need you!

Bandera County clerk tries to increase voting

[illegible] Bulletin Correspondent

If the voters won't come to the ballot box, then the ballot box will come to them.

You could call that the theme of Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates' "branch voting" program [illegible] Vanderpool and continues during October in Medina, Lakehills and Pipe Creek.

Also, Saturday voting will be offered Oct. 24 at the courthouse.

Early voting — what had been called absentee voting in previous years — begins Wednesday, Oct. 14, at the clerk's office. Any registered voter can cast their ballot at the clerk's office in the courthouse between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. (yes, the clerk's office is open over the noon hour) through Oct. 30 for the Nov. 3 general election.

Under the branch voting scheme, voting will be held Friday, Oct. 16, at Taylor Voting House in Vanderpool; Monday, Oct. 19, at the Medina Public School; Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Lakehills Civic Center; and Friday, Oct. 23, at the Pipe Creek Community Center. Voting hours will be 2 to 7 p.m.

Any registered voter in any precinct can vote at any of the branch locations, says Bates, but she says she expects only those from the precincts that surround the branch location to come to cast their ballot. Bates says she will bring ballots from all 11 Bandera County precincts to each branch voting location, but plans to bring only a few ballots of the precincts that are not in the area of that day's branch location.

Essentially, branch voting is just like coming into this office (the clerk's office) to vote," says Bates.

Saturday voting will be available Oct. 24 at the courthouse in the clerk's office from 7 a.m. [illegible] registered voters in any precinct.

"If this doesn't help to increase voting, then we'll drop it," says Bates.

Bates says the law allows counties with 200,000 population or less to conduct temporary branch voting. It is not required and is considered "above the call of duty." Also, the branches can be set up anywhere (should be aimed to be convenient to voters) and voting hours can be any time within the early voting period.

Branch voting was approved by the Bandera County Commissioners earlier this year.

And if you want to vote for write-in candidates for president/vice president, they are: president/vice president, Howard Phillips/Albion W. Knight, Quinn Brisben/Barbara Garson, James Bo Grits/C.W. "Cy" Minett, Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr./James L. Bevel, James Wellington Wright/Levi M. Cunningham, Lenora B. Fulani/Maria Elizabeth Munoz, and John S. Hagelin/Mike Thompkins.

Four party candidates are on the ballot for president/vice president: Republican George Bush/Dan Quayle, Democrat Bill Clinton/Al Gore, Libertarian Andre Marrou/Nancy Lord, and, yes, independent Ross Perot/James Stockdale.

The other write-in candidate that Bandera County voters can select is Richard S. Landon for railroad commissioner.

'Los Gringos' were a part of the event from its very beginnings in 1963

By Peggy Huffman
Special to the Bulletin

The Los Gringos band played at the very first Hunters Barbecue in 1963. At the annual Hunters Barbecue on November 6 this year, two of the original band members, Dr. George Meador and Jim Russell, will play for their 30th barbecue.

Dr. George Meador was one of the founders of the Los Gringos band. He came to Bandera from Virginia and established a medical practice. Playing the mandolin and violin was his hobby. Looking around for someone to play with, Dr. Meador found Efraim Escamilla from Hondo. Escamilla came to Bandera regularly to act as slaughterer for the local locker plant.

Dr. Meador was fascinated by Escamilla's musical ability on the boco sexton, an electric double six-stringed instrument. In layman's terms it was a twelve-string rhythm guitar. Mexican music and Dr. Meador was immediately converted to the Mexican style of playing.

The second original member of the Los Gringos band, Jim Russell, played guitar. During the 1940s he had played with a band called The Stompeders. He was self-taught and played by ear.

"Can't read a note of music," he says. "I enjoy playing music with a Latin beat. That kind of music talks to you.

"George and Frank Montague were addicted to Mexican music too. We really hit it off as a band."

The other fiddler in the band was Frank Montague Jr., a rancher and banker in Bandera. Montague had taken lessons from a Mexican music teacher in San Antonio and he enjoyed playing Mexican music more than any other kind. An accomplished musician in all types of music, Montague's fiddle was much in demand at dances.

Bill Spencer, a chicken farmer out in the Highland Waters sub-division, played the upright bass. His chicken operation consisted of 40 or 50 thousand laying hens. Spencer had played with big orchestras all around San Antonio during the 30s. That was the "big band" era when every hotel had a ballroom. There was plenty of work for a good bass man and Bill Spencer was one of the best.

The last member of the Las Gringos band in 1963 was Russell Blair, who lived in the Indian Waters subdivision and was a salesman for the Colgate-Palmolive Company. Blair wasn't really a musician, but what he lacked in musical talent he made up for in personality. He did a wonderful job as emcee for the Los Gringos band at the first Hunters Barbecue. He also beat the drum literally as well as figuratively.

The Los Gringos got their name from their love of Mexican music. Two of the members had learned a lot from Mexican teachers and realized that, to a "real Mexican musician," they would never quite get the beat. So they poked fun at themselves by choosing a name that is a less-than-flattering Mexican word for non-Mexicans.

Tara Jain Miller

She's a star in the 4-H

Tara Jain Miller, daughter of Tommy and Leanne Miller of Pipe Creek, won the Silver Star award in 4-H.

Miller is in fifth grade at Alkek Elementary School. She entered her record book under "Bread" this year, but has been active in Food, Clothing, Sheep, and Shooting. She considers her Sheep project the most outstanding because she enjoys working with the lambs. If fact the funniest experience she lists on her long list of achievements is related to her Sheep project. She was walking with her lamb when the noise from her grandfather's truck startled it. "I took a nose dive in the dirt," she explains.

A few of her service activities have included making aprons for the Senior Citizen's Center; picking up trash on the highways; collecting canned goods for Helping Hands, and helping serve at Hunter's barbecue.

She won first place for three years in a row at the Medina Apple Festival with her apple pies. She has given demonstrations on how to make pie crust and how to style the edges. She has also won first place honors for all five of the years she has been active in 4-H in her Food and Fashion projects.

Golf is her favorite hobby. What she has learned in 4-H, she says, is to work hard, set goals, get new ideas-and most of all, have fun.

Coral snake makes unwelcome visit

Vernell Mullenax, Sidney Skinner, and Abra and Cathy Cassel all breathed a sigh of relief on Monday, Oct. 5, when a Coral Snake incident ended. Skinner killed the snake which measured 30 1/2 inches long.

Coral snakes are related to Cobras and are the most deadly North American snake because their venom affects the central nervous system. The snake found in Mullenax's yard was a Common Coral Snake, the larger of the two species found in the United States. They range from 30 to 39 inches long while their western counterparts seldom grow longer than 18 inches.

Coral snakes are secretative, burrowing reptiles which feed mainly on lizards. They are not usually considered a serious threat to humans because of their small size. They are mostly unable to open their mouth wide enough to bite anything larger than a child's finger.

SPRINGHILLS WATER MANAGEMENT DISTRICT

NEWSLETTER

VOLUME 2 NO. 1 — FALL 1992

WATER CONSERVATION PLAN

In keeping with its goal to develop and promote programs to encourage wise water use and water conservation, the District has officially adopted a water conservation plan.

The water conservation plan contains eight conservation methods. The methods are outlined below:

1. Public Information and Education
2. Water-Conserving Plumbing Fixtures
3. Water Conservation Retrofit Program
4. Water Conservation-Oriented Rate Structure
5. Public Water Supply Meter Testing
6. Water-Conserving Landscaping
7. Leak Detection and Water Audits
8. Wastewater Reuse and Recycling

For a more detailed explanation of the conservation methods and a description of the means of implementation, pick up a copy of the plan at the District's office.

TAX CUT

The FY'93 tax rate adopted by the District reflects a 19% decrease from last year's tax rate. The tax rate decrease was not as much as the 26% budget decrease due to the decline in property valuations. In his report, Randy Schou, Budget Committee Chairman, said, "We have stream-lined and tightened the budget to what we believe it will take to maintain the District. We worked hard to bring about a 26% decrease in the budget." The budget and tax rate were unanimously approved by the Board of Directors.

ABANDONED WELLS

It is important to properly seal an abandoned water well. An abandoned well can allow runoff water to flow directly down to the aquifer, often carrying surface contaminants to the groundwater. This bypasses the natural filtering and degradation that takes place as these materials move through the soil.

Groundwater quality may be endangered also if an abandoned well connects two aquifers of different quality, allowing the exchange of water between an important drinking water aquifer and another water-bearing zone which has poor water quality. Many complaints of water quality deterioration have been received by this District this past year. It appears that the water quality problems are a result of the high rainfall and improperly sealed water wells. It's important to remember that new water wells that are properly sealed can be contaminated by a nearby abandoned well.

The basic concept governing the proper plugging of abandoned wells is the restoration of the subterranean relationship of ground to water that existed before the well was drilled and constructed. Merely capping the well is not enough to prevent it from becoming a problem. Instead the well must be sealed--or plugged--to be made safe and sound.

OBJECTIVES IN PLUGGING A WELL

1. Elimination of a physical hazard.
2. Prevention of groundwater contamination by surface runoff contaminants.
3. Prevention of groundwater loss from artesian or flowing aquifers.
4. Prevention of mixing of desirable and undesirable groundwater.

If there is an abandoned water well on your property it is advised that you contact a water well contractor to arrange for plugging.

NITRATE CONTAMINATION

Recently, during a routine water quality test on a water well the District detected nitrate levels in the well water that exceeded the established standards for drinking water.

An investigation revealed several other water wells in the vicinity with nitrate levels exceeding 10 milligrams per liter (mg/l). The Texas Department of Health has established the standard for nitrate in public water supplies at 10 mg/l.

Nitrates are produced by decaying organic matter, animal and human wastes, fertilizers, and natural occurrences in the soil. High concentrations may suggest that the well water is polluted. Water high in nitrate may cause methemoglobinemia (blue-babies) and according to the Texas Department of Health should not be used in infant feeding.

This District recommends that you have your water quality checked periodically to detect any trends in water quality changes.

BOOK COVERS "COVERAGE"

The District has received very positive feedback on the book covers it furnished to the area school districts. For the past two years, as part of it's education program, the District has furnished 5,000 book covers with water conservation and water awareness messages to the Bandera, Medina and Utopia school districts. One set is designed for elementary age children and the other set is designed especially for older kids. Look for the water conservation "coverage" on your children's book covers.

WELL LOCATION AND CONSTRUCTION

It's been said that in real estate, three things are important - location, location, location. The same is true when constructing a well. If you choose the wrong location, you're inviting trouble by risking contamination of the well water.

In general, it pays to locate your well on the highest ground available, above the flood level of any nearby stream, and certainly on higher ground than nearby sources of pollution such as animal pens and septic tanks. This will help prevent contamination runoff water and other materials from entering your well.

'. . . locate your well on the highest ground available, above the flood level of any nearby stream, and certainly on higher ground than nearby sources of pollution such as animal pens and septic tanks. . .'

There are other, potential sources of pollution to avoid, too, and acceptable setback distances to your well site will vary with the soil type. In general, if you have soil with good filtering properties, a 150-foot setback is an acceptable guideline - but only a guideline. Storage areas for gasoline and diesel fuel, and areas for the preparation and storage of farm chemicals should be at least 150 feet from a well site.

If you have a more permeable soil type, you may need a greater setback. In areas with shallow soil and fractured limestone greater setbacks are advised. Be sure and check with the county inspector for setback requirements.

Finally, it's important to locate a well where it can be easily maintained and serviced.

Long-term sanitary protection for a well begins with the casing and sealing material. The casing and sealing material (typically a cement or cement/bentonite grout) prevents surface runoff and easily-contaminated shallow groundwater from entering the well and contaminating the desirable water that is generally found in deeper soil formations.

'. . . Long-term sanitary protection for a well begins with the casing and sealing material . . .'

Surface runoff and shallow groundwater are more likely to contain petrochemical products from leaking storage tanks or chemicals and bacteria from animal wastes and septic tanks. A tight, cement grout or other sealant around the casing will prevent surface water and shallow groundwater from flowing down the outside of the casing and contaminating the well.

Decisions about well site location and construction are as important to your family's economic health as they are to your personal health. Proper planning will help you locate and construct a well that is safe for years to come.

WELL MONITORING

October is the month that the District will begin the Fall monitoring program on area water wells. Selected water wells are monitored for water quality and depth to water. Water quality constituents tested for include: 1) pH; 2) conductivity; 3) hardness; 4) alkalinity; 5) sulfate; 6) chloride; 7) nitrate; 8) fluoride; 9) iron; 10) total dissolved solids; and 11) fecal coliform.

The program is set up to monitor the water wells in the Fall and Spring. If you feel this information would be useful to you and are interested in having your water well evaluated for inclusion in the program, please call the District office.

WATER TESTS

The District conducts water quality tests for the general public every Tuesday. Space is limited and samples are analyzed on a first come-first serve basis. The tests must be scheduled with the District before the test date. See calendar below for scheduled test dates.

The chemical analysis which includes pH, Nitrate, Sulfate, Iron, Total Dissolved Solids and Fluoride is offered free of charge. A five dollar donation is requested for a bacteriological analysis.

Black powder hunting available at natural area

Deer hunters who want to take advantage of an early hunt and the cool weather that is now prevailing in Bandera County can sign up for one of six black powder only hunts being conducted at the Hill Country State Natural Area on F.M. 1077 (Dixie Dude Road) from Oct. 7 - Nov. 13.

Hunting time for each two day session is from noon on Wednesdays to noon on Fridays with a brief orientation period at the beginning of each session.

The hunts are available on a stand-by basis which means that individuals wanting to hunt need to check in at park headquarters before noon on Wednesday to sign up and pay a $50 fee for that particular hunt. If the number of stand-by people does not exceed the number of hunters already assigned by a drawing, everyone present gets a slot. If the stand-bys exceed the number of places available, they in turn will draw for the slots among themselves.

All hunters must comply with all state hunting regulations including possession of a valid hunting license and wearing the required 400 square inches of day-glow orange clothing, says HCSNA manager Shaun Haby.

According to Haby, the hunts will be "compartment" hunts with designated areas for each hunter. Would-be Daniel Boones may hunt either sex white-tailed deer until the Oct. 21-24 session. That period begins the time when antlerless tags must be used, he says.

Smoke polers should find few disturbances during their hunts, for the park will be closed to the general public during hunt days until after Nov. 19. Non-hunting visitors are welcome from noon Fridays until 10 p.m. Sundays. After the special hunting season, the park will return to the regular hours.

Primitive camping will be allowed at the equestrian camp ground near park headquarters. Water and toilet facilities and also a public telephone are available.

For more information, call the Hill Country State Natural Area at 796-4413.

The Squirrel Traps of youth.

[illegible] daughter and my mom were setting squirrel traps one evening and the bull pinned my mom's older sister against an oak tree and he jumped up. His front hooves were over her head! My mom ran to their house and started screaming for help. She thought the bull was going to kill her sister! Her mother followed her to where her sister was. Her sister was alright and the bull had left her alone.

They were told that the bull was sold but after that they had a lot of meat in their freezer!

'Project Horizon' G&T nominees sought before Oct. 23 deadline

Nominations of kindergarten and first grade students are being accepted for participation in Project Horizon. Project Horizon is Bandera Independent School District's gifted/talented program.

Any parent or community member may make a nomination by contacting Alkek Elementary School before Oct. 23.

Nominations should be made for children who, when compared with others of like age, possess to a marked degree some of the following characteristics: an unusually advanced vocabulary; "original" ideas; an unusually good long-term memory; a long attention span; uses longer sentences; uses reasoning powers and thinks clearly, comprehending meanings; displays an unusual curiosity about things outside his/her immediate environment.

Questions should be directed to Mary Kling at 796-3753.

Pep rallies eliminated

Pep rallies will not be held at Bandera High School this year. It is also expected to result in more "school spirit" during actual games.

Principal Richard Delamain said that eliminating Pep rallies is a break in tradition but was done for the benefit of the entire school body and the athletes themselves.

Bandera will celebrate week of 'Texas High School Activities'

Bandera I.S.D. students will be among some 1.3 million Texas high school students taking part in Universatiy Interscholastic League (UIL) programs. Governor Ann Richards has declared the week of Oct. 19 to 23 as Texas High School Activities Week.

Texans have always been accused of bragging about having the biggest, the oldest or the greatest. With UIL, this is no idle boast. It is the oldest and [illegible] in the nation. It is among the best you and offers programs ranging from typing to tennis, cross to calculator contests. One out of every two graduating seniors partici[illegible] test prior to graduation.

The week is being celebrated on a national level, also.

"Participation in activities such as athletics, speech, music, debate and drama generally leads to positive development for students and often to superior achievement," Richards said when announcing Texas High School Activities Week.

The governor added that "participation in extracurricular activities often contributes greatly to the social development and interaction of...students. This social development benefits local communities by channeling young people's interests and talents into positive efforts and instilling in them and early sense of civic duty and community pride."

This year's event marks the twelfth observance of National High School Activities Week. National High School Activities Week was developed by the National Federation of State High School Associations as a means to increase the public's awareness of the values and needs of activity programs.

October 19 has been designated as "Officials Day. "Speech and Music Day" has been set for Oct. 20. October 21 is "Chemical Health Awareness Day." "Sportsmanship Day" is Oct. 22, and Oct. 23 is "Coaches Day." October 24 is "Fund Raising Day."

from Texas Farm Bureau
Friends of Agriculture Fund, Inc.

Sept. 29, 1992

Dear Bandera County Farm Bureau Member:

There seems to be some confusion regarding the endorsement by Texas Farm Bureau AGFUND of Senator Bill Sims for the Texas Senate. Senator Sims has been endorsed by AGFUND for both the March Primary and the November General Election.

The confusion surfaced at the Bandera County Annual Meeting held Saturday, September 26, 1992. Hopefully, this letter will set the record straight.

Bill has been a close ally while in the Texas Senate. He currently serves as Executive Secretary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association and is also a rancher. In the Senate, he serves as the chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, though which passes nearly all agriculture related legislation, as well as issues pertaining to water and all other natural resources.

The recommendation to endorse Senator Sims was made by representative of County Farm Bureaus in the Senatorial District. This recommendation was approved unanimously by the AGFUND Board of Directors.

If further questions arise, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
Joe Maley
AGFUND Coordinator

LAMAR SMITH
Knows The Value Of A Dollar.
Isn't that what we want in a Congressman?

A Leader In Cutting The Budget.
Lamar went to work to cut government's wasteful spending, especially overhead like travel and food where it spends more than it does on defense.

New Ways To Save.
He asked Congress to cut overhead 10%, saving nearly $30 billion. He got Republicans and Democrats together to take on the leadership in Congress, successfully amending Appropriation Bills to cut overhead by $142 million.

Lamar's Idea Is Catching On.
It's been endorsed by Citizens Against Government Waste, Citizens for a Sound Economy, and other anti-tax groups. It's our money they're wasting — the taxpayers of America — not government's.

'Carolee's Bee' shows off

Quilters display their talents at Frontier Times Museum

Artists of the Month for [illegible] throughout the month.

Museum are quilters informally referred to as Carolee's Bee. A variety of quilts and quilted crafts will be on display [illegible] Youngblood, meet occasionally in each other's homes to socialize and work on their quilting projects.

"Everyone does their own [illegible] share techniques and new materials and processes as we learn about them."

The group has been working together for [illegible] years. "[illegible] you could say we're [illegible] loosely patched together," says member Phyllis Smith.

Members whose quilts will be on display include Evangeline Wilson, Peggy Tobin, Phyllis Smith, Pat Chapman, Ann Dale and Jane Graham.

Chapman has on display a project she calls a "Quillow." What looks at first glance like a lovely pillow, magically unfolds into a lap cover, the perfect little cover-up for TV watchers on those chilly winter evenings. "It's takes about an hour to make one," says Chapman.

Quilting techniques on display during the show include applique and pieced articles.

Two quilts based on early Bandera County brands reflect the history of the craft. The oldest has dark brown brands appliqued on an ecru cotton background and was a raffle prize in the 1940s. A more modern version is made of faded denim and was a group project.

A 160 year-old quilt once belonging to Martha Pickens holds place of honor on the show.

"Quilting has a long tradition of sharing and handing down patterns and skills," says Youngblood.

"Basically, quilting is a simple process that only looks difficult. Anyone can do it, they just need someone to show them how."

"That's why we're starting the Bandera Quilt Guild on January 14. The guild will meet every other month at the Episcopal Church in Bandera. We will have show and tell as well as demonstrations. We will also work on quilting projects," says Youngblood.

Justice Ron Carr
Court of Appeals

Dear Bandera County Voter,

I take this means to personally ask for your vote and support for re-election to the Court of Appeals.

I have been a practicing attorney for over twenty (20) years and have served as a Judge in several of our Texas courts for almost fourteen years. My background includes: Justice, Fourth Court of Appeals 1989 - present; Zavala County Judge 1981-1988; Justice of the Peace 1978-1981; Austin Assistant City Attorney 1972 - 1973; Assistant Attorney General of Texas 1969-1972; University of Texas Doctor of Jurisprudence 1969 and Business Administration in 1966. I am 48 years old, married with 5 children and two grandchildren.

My record on the Court of Appeals is one of independence, impartiality, and productiveness. No other candidate can bring this actual on-the-job experience to the court. In addition, I believe that it is both an asset and a benefit to the entire district to have on the Court an elected Justice from a rural county with a rural perspective. I am proud to serve as that rural justice.

I ask for your vote to continue serving the people of the district to provide the effective justice you deserve.

"Santa and His Helpers" visited the Bandera Bulletin and many local businesses recently promoting the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce's "Cowboy Christmas in Bandera. Merchants are being invited to participate in the annual Shoppers Jubilee event on Friday, Dec. 5, from 5-9 p.m. The Bandera County Chamber of Commerce is suggesting to merchants that they set out a punch bowl or a few Christmas cookies; something to give shoppers strength to 'shop 'till they drop.' They also say it is an excellent time to offer special discounts to customers. There will be prizes for decorating the outside of stores. On Saturday, Dec. 6, historical re-enactors will be in town. Merchants, employees and townspeople are encouraged to dress in period costume. From left, Chamber members Patricia Moore, Christy Kitchens and Dan Reese donned their "Santa gear" to promote the event.

Your Basic Bandera

By Wesley Tobin

What better time and place to make a leaping re-entry into the Bandera scene than the Library Benefit on a night that saw high-pressure fall day! We saw almost everyone we had fondly missed all summer as we toured the grain belts of America.

Kiddo Wright and her stalwart band of veteran cooks, [illegible] congratulated again on their usual success with Bandera's [illegible] weren't there, you were probably the only one who wasn't!

• Having seen all the wheat there probably is in North America in June, we viewed all the corn there probably is, following the Platte River from Wyoming to its juncture with the Missouri near Omaha, and [illegible] and Illinois to a meeting at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

The radio in the corn states kept warning of an impending freeze, but farmers were apparently hoping for a tick upward [illegible] out harvesting their ripe fields. Row on row for miles and miles, the browning stalks were waiting for the big green machines to come for the bounty.

Ogallala, Nebraska, one of the destinations of our old Western Trail, was celebrating its annual "Indian Summer Festival", with cornstalks tied to all the downtown porch-posts and light poles. We couldn't stop, but noted there were to be rodeos, pow-wows, craft and quilt shows. The more small-town events there are, the more they are alike!

• Meanwhile, back in old Bantucky, members of the informal organization known as Carlee's Bee was gathering quilts they had made or collected for an October show at Frontier Times Museum, assisted by gallery curator David Arny.

The group of friends has been meeting for several years at each other's homes to sew and learn the art of patchwork [illegible] piecing, applique, and quilting, inspired by the enthusiasm of Carolee Youngblood. Now they are ready for "prime time", hoping to get going in January with official organization of a Bandera County Quilt Guild.

The museum display is colorful and interesting. Go see it! And the museum, despite what has come to be the usual [illegible] patronizing put-down by a Dallas travel writer as a "collection of attic-cl-anings", looks the best it ever has.

The Dallas Morning News article on Bandera carrying the deprocatory museum mention has been syndicated widely. We saw it in Omaha, and brother Dick sent it to us clipped from the Raleigh, North Carolina News-Observer. Luckily, the author had a blast out at Dixie Dude with Diane and Clay Conoly and also enjoyed staying extra days at Twin Elm with Mary and Frank.

• Which reminds us that we heard San Antonio's Marty Wender on the air the other day touting another "destination" in the form of a "Real West" theme park. Three hundred acres of "Bison City" would show the folks what life was really like back when. Having seen Dodge City, Fort Laramie, Scott's Bluff, and Chase County, Ks. lately, we can't believe the Real West can come to life next door to Sea World!

by Bungy

"There's good news tonight" (wasn't that H.V. Cultenborn on the radio in the 40s?). Tim at the Captain's Car Wash is happy to announce that after a period of about two weeks, the "final rinse" is operating properly once more, and he's on his way to Paris for a ten-day vacation. Texas, that is!

• As election time draws near, wherever one goes for coffee, the subject of politics comes up more often, and the other day, that beautiful character, Ike Clark, got started at the OST. He was born seven miles west of Tarpley, 81 years ago. His first campaigning stint was for the Republican, Herbert Hoover, who was running against Al Smith. He didn't really like the way that went, so in the next election he voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt and has been an independent Democrat ever since. If you want to hear a brilliant discussion on politics through the years up to the present, sit down beside him and be prepared for a history lesson! He's great!

•The other day, Baily O'Neill and his horse-trading buddy, Meirs Johnson, got started talking about how old cowboys solved the problem of getting on their horses... A few climb a fence, some have wooden milk boxes, one built up a stack of railroad ties and another built up a dirt mound in the middle of the corral so no one would realise he was having a problem.

The best one was not about mounting a trusty steed, but how to saddle up, 'cause those saddles are pretty heavy and awkward. This cowboy finally rigged up a saddle on a set of pulleys hung from the barn rafters. He'd lead his horse under the saddle, lower away, cinch up and was gone with the wind. Beautiful!

Meirs is one of those true Texas cowboys who tell stories about everything and everybody from the last 50 years - and all funny. He told stories non-stop. He told stories while loading "unloadable" horses. He told stories while a highway patrolman was giving him a "warning ticket" for "numerous violations." He told stories absolutely non-stop. I really don't think there is anyone in this whole world who can tell a story better and funnier than an ol' Texas cowboy.

Bill and Carmen Boyington have a lot of golfing buddies that work and are only able to play golf after 5:00 each evening - so that means they can only get in nine holes, especially since the days are shorter, so they put their thinking caps on and came up with this brilliant idea. A midnight golf tournament! All the balls will be "glow in the dark" ones, the flags designating the holes will glow in the dark, too. It's next Saturday night at the Flying L, in case you want to go on out and watch or play. I wouldn't miss it for anything! It's just too much of a fun idea in the "Cowboy Capital"!

• Bandera's own Hazel Billiugs, 89, was visiting from New Mexico last week, and her daughter arranged for all her old "buddies" to gather for a lunch at the OST. "Old times" flew fast and furious. Bandera sure misses her!

You won't find her in Poteet this weekend

If you have seen her colorful balloon drifting across Bandera's skies and thought about taking a ride with pilot Diane Mullins, don't look for her at the First Annual Poteet Strawberry Balloon Fest, Oct. 16-18. She won't be there. She's too busy.

"October is the best month of ballooning," Mullins explained. "The weather is usually good. Cold fronts move in and clear the haze out of the air and the air is more stable."

Because October is a good month, Mullins, who is a licensed instructor and teaches ballooning to five or six students, will be staying in Bandera. She divides her time between her life-long hobby-flight- and helping her husband at his business, Boyle's Pharmacy. Husband, Bob, is also a licensed balloon pilot. He took lessons from Diane.

Diane runs her own business, "Balloon Safaris of Texas." She averages three flights a month. "I would do more if the weather would cooperate. It's been a bad weather year."

Mullins says it's hard to make a living with a balloon business in the hill country area even though San Marcos is the next closest place to find balloon rides. Besides needing good weather to fly, the balloon business is hampered by hunting season. Mullins closes down her operation on the first day of dove season and during deer season. "The balloon scares the deer and [illegible] them out. I close down to keep peace in the neighborhood. I've never been shot at yet, but I don't want to give anyone an excuse to shoot at me!"

Flying has been a part of her life for so long that Mullins does not remember ever not flying. "My dad was a pilot. He took me on flights as far back as I can remember." She has a commercial pilot's license and is an instructor. The crash she suffered in June, 1991, did not rob her of her love for flight. Her plane crashed after take off in an air race in Mountain Home Arkansas. She spent a month in the hospital, recovering from burns.

Bob and Diane moved to Bandera from Corpus Christi five years ago. "I love it here. I could stay here the rest of my life," she says. "I think when you move here from somewhere else, you appreciate it more. The uniqueness of the population and the beauty of the area."

The Mullins own a sailboat and enjoy sailing now and then. But mostly, two things keep them busy; the pharmacy and the lure of flight. And because they are so busily happy in their adopted home, Bandera, they will not make this year's Poteet Strawberry Balloon Fest.

Groundbreaking ceremony set at Lakehills Methodist Church

The Lakehills United Methodist Church will hold a groundbreaking ceremony next Sunday, Oct. 18, in a [illegible] brief, but important ceremony.

[illegible] support only after the required third church conference that will be held that night presided over by Kerrville District Superintendent Shirley Hill.

The church members have to vote a third time on the issue to finalize the action that will allow them to increase the number of people the church can seat at a service.

The meeting will begin with a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p.m., followed by the conference at about 7:30 p.m.

Church members are scheduled to turn ground about 7 p.m. [illegible]

Then, the actual shovel ceremony may occur shortly after 8:30 p.m. (The second conference lasted no more than 15 minutes.)

A much bigger "to do" is expected after the building is built and the dedication ceremony is held.

Senior housing unit complex due here

Richard Grams, Director of the Farmer's Home Administration in Seguin, said that a loan application for a housing unit complex in Bandera is one of 33 applications under review by his department. The proposed 40-unit apartment complex would house the elderly with a low to moderate income level.

The project, Bandera Retirement, Ltd., was presented by Emanuel H. Glocksin, Jr. If accepted, it will be developed and constructed under the FmHA 515 program. It will provide 40 rental units in six buildings. Each unit will have central heat and air conditioning. Handicap accessibility is taken into consideration in the planning of the units.

The proposed site is located within the city limits of Bandera on the northwest side of town at the end of Twelfth Street. Access to the proposed site will be provided by a 24 foot wide concrete drive from Twelfth Street.

Grams said that the project received favorable review from the Alamo Area Council of Governments. It is now being considered by the FmHA along with 33 other applications from 18 counties. It will be ranked in importance after consideration is given to the need for the project in Bandera County. "We look at the highest needs on these applications. One that gets 110 points would be funded before one that gets 60 points regardless of which one we receive first. We have to decide how best to spend the money," Gram said.

Medina EMS support team sets garage sale Oct. 24

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Faith Without Question

"Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen."

— Hebrews 11:1

It would not be difficult to deny faith in a God no one but a few visionaries ever claimed to have seen. And the same could be said for Jesus Christ, the savior for whom there are no historical records save for the stories set forth by the gospels. Yet though there are many things in life we cannot perceive visually, our senses tell us they exist. We cannot see the heat of the sun, yet we bask in its warmth; nor witness the freeze of winter, but we experience its chill. Thus, though we do not behold God or His Son, we are aware of Their presence around us and in our lives. How else to explain the glories of nature and the commandments that enrich our being?

Fall color may appear soon at Lost Maples

The leaves at Lost Maples State Natural Area are just beginning to turn, reports park officials.

But whether there will be a memorable display of fall color this year will depend on the weather.

So pray for a little rain and cooler temperatures.

If it remains "hot and dry" as it has for the last couple of weeks, the leaves on the Big-Tooth Maple trees will go mostly from green to brown. "If it remains hot and dry there will be some color, but not outstanding," says a spokesman for the park. "If it stays cool at night — in about a week the trees will have color," he said Sunday.

If cooler temperatures come, the color in the trees should hold on until the end of the month.

The crowds at the park have kept park rangers "real busy," but those coming to the Vanderpool park were still able to park in the park itself this past Sunday.

Park officials recommend that, if possible, those that want to visit the park for its fall color should come during the week.

Seniors

Silver Sage Corral

On Monday, Oct. 8 at 7:15 p.m., the Melodiers and AutoAngels, musical ambassadors from the Silver Sage Corral, gave a program at the Elderhostel now being held at the Twin Elm Guest Ranch each week on the subject of Texas Hill Country Studies. The participants in this Elderhostel came from several different states, including Colorado, California, Kansas, Missouri, North Carolina, Wisconsin,.and Michigan; also, several were from Texas. All of these folks took part in the sing-along of Texas songs and familiar folk songs which followed our program.

On Tuesday, Oct. 9, the Melodiers shared their music with their friends who reside at Bandera Nursing Home.

Once again, the Quilt show was a great success. The list of winners will be posted in next week's column.

Along with the Quilt show, we had a very successful bake sale and plant sale. For those of you that donated baked goods and plants, we want to say a great big "thanks". Without your contribution, and all your help, none of this would be possible. Again, thank you.

Our quilting and crafts class is really gearing up for the holidays. They are making some of the most unusual items to sell in our boutique shop and for their personal use at home. If you are interested in making hand-made items for gifts or decorations, please come join the classes. Also, the quilters and crafters are in need of a portable sewing machine. If anyone has a machine they would like to donate to the Center, we would be very grateful.

The Horseman's Association at Bandera Downs Race Track has donated several free general admission daily passes and free parking tickets to be given to our Senior Citizens. We want to thank the association very much for these tickets.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are just around the corner. My, what a thought. But the time has come to start making plans for the holidays. We are in need of some organization or church group to adopt one of the holidays to help prepare the meal for our Meals-on-Wheels participants. If you are interested or know of someone who would like to help organize this, please come by the Center or call 796-4969. Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Just want to remind you of our covered dish luncheon on the fourth Tuesday, which will be Oct. 27 this month, to celebrate the birthdays for the month of October. We want to invite everyone to come, bring a covered dish, and join in the fun and fellowship, not to mention all the home-cooked goodies you will get to sample.

We want to welcome our new county driver, Mary Nell Schultz to our staff. We are back in business for our out-of-town trips. We will be going to Kerrville on Mondays, San Antonio on Wednesdays, and will bring the county clients into Bandera to shop and for doctors' appointments on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. If you need this service, please call 796-4969 the day before to make your reservation.

Medina EMT requests 'help from residents' on form

Mary B. Walker, a Medina Volunteer E.M.T. , is requesting help from Medina residents in implementing a plan which she believes could save lives. She is asking residents, especially those with special medical needs, to take time to write down basic medical information and send it to her.

"I have these special forms I made up on the computer. If they will just write out the information and get it to me, I'll fill out the forms. It will be put in a notebook with the names listed alphabetically, and kept in the ambulances."

Walker said that the advance medical information on the forms will make it possible to take vitals, then "load and go" when an ambulance is needed. Information needed includes: name; address; city; phone number; person to be notified (family member or friend and that person's relationship to patient, name and phone number); patient's date of birth; allergies; medication being taken on a permanent basis; hospital preference; doctor's name and phone number. It also needs to include physical directions to the patient's residence. Information about insurance and any other special notations will also be helpful.

Walker stresses the importance of this information. "It's what an E.M.T. needs to know when responding to a call. Sometimes we have to talk to a child or to family members who are upset and not thinking clearly. It's hard to get the information."

All information received will be accepted, transfered to forms, and kept in the ambulances. They may be sent to: Mary B. Walker, P.O. Box 67, Medina, 78055-0067.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

When you think about it, there is nothing mysterious or complex about "human nature." Human nature is nothing other than human habits. Human nature is therefore changeable the same as human habits are changeable. Surprisingly, human nature is often mentioned to excuse personal offenses and misbehavior. It is equally surprising that the inherent goodness in man is seldom mentioned as human nature.

The human habits of love, tolerance and respect are certainly as much of human nature as the faults of greed, distrust and other vices. Actually, when you look around, you see far more love, trust and selflessness than hate, distrust and selfishness. In these troublesome times in human relations, it is still true that goodness exceeds the bad. And more importantly, it is good to stress that bad habits can be changed to good habits if a will to do so exists. In short, "human nature" can be changed. Just change "human habits".....

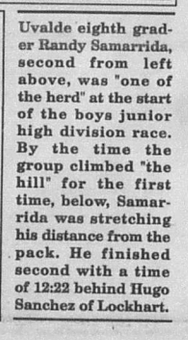
Long distance runners!

From 53 different schools they came— and to Coach Mazurek that was enough

"After looking back," Girl's Athletic's Director Barbara Mazurek said, "53 schools were enough." Fifty-three schools entered and 664 runners finished in Saturday's 17th Annual Cross Country Invitational Meet at Bandera High School. Sixty schools were expected.

Uvalde eighth grader Randy Samarrida, second from left above, was "one of the herd" at the start of the boys junior high division race. By the time the group climbed "the hill" for the first time, below, Samarrida was stretching his distance from the pack. He finished second with a time of 12:22 behind Hugo Sanchez of Lockhart.



Mazurek said that the race was the "smoothest ever" and gives credit to parents and to the 49 adult workers at the meet. "Hats off to the workers," he said. "It takes a lot of cooperative effort to have such a smooth race. It feels good. I kept saying all day that 'everything was a go.' All the workers showed up early and went to work. There were no false starts in the race. Everything was a go.'"

Mazurek said she also received cooperation from the administration and the maintenance department. "Coaches have already asked to come back. They said it was an excellent meet. They said Bandera has a beautiful campus. And they liked seeing so much of the course."

Three slight injuries occured during the race. Emergency Medical Technicians Anton Haner and Dennis Winright were on hand with the Tarpley ambulance.

Bandera's Regina Montague took first place in the Jr. High division.

Ouida Wyman, Amber Shelton and Julia Langston represented Bandera High School.

The Jr. High Boys took 5th place. Jacob Vander Zee, Alan Beavers, Jeramy Maynard, B.J. Rouch, Jeffery Scott and David Lane ran for Bandera.

Varsity Boys placed 9th. They included: Jess Edwards, Aaron Lacey, Charlie Robertson, Brad Pfeiffer, Terry Robertson, Ramiro Tirado, David Shankles, Justin Edwards, Brent Mansfield and Jim Bob Davis.

Bandera runners will compete again on Oct. 17 at Ingram.

For Medina, Nathan Venmatter placed 12th; Shane Keese placed 22; Ritchie Mums placed 36; Keith Mitchell placed 60 and Terrell Bradford placed 68th.

The Medina girls placed first in the Jr. Varsity division with Misty Wells 4th; Lehl Johnson 6th; Shanti Cossio 10; Alicia Mims 21; Kelly Lookingbill 23; Decley Taylor 25th. The girls won the meet with 66 points.

For Jr. High, Sherr Laizer Leish placed 7th; Megan Mills 23; Bo Evans; Bobby Schidiminski and Curt Jones all competed.

The Medina runners will compete at Ingram on Saturday, Oct. 17.

The Cross Country Meet District will be held in Medina on Oct. 31, beginning at 10 a.m. Hamburgers, chips and cokes will be served at noon. The meal will cost $3. Everyone is invited.

Bandera's Regina Montague placed first in her division— see story below.

She's a running champ, and she plans to continue

Eighth grader Regina Montague added another win to her impressive list of cross country victories in Saturday's 17th Annual Cross Country Invitational. This year's victories for Montague include a first place at Medina Valley and Schreiner and a second place in Pearsall.

Regina is the daughter of Anna and Bruce Montague of Bandera. This is her second year of cross country competition. She won district last year.

"I like running because you can work at it as an individual. You don't have to work as a team. You don't have to be good to run. You just keep running and practicing and you get better."

Montague is also plays basketball, volleyball, and does trick roping with her dad. "I just like athletics. I get a lot of support at home. Mom gets up real early to take me to practice. Dad and my brothers try to make it to at least one of my meets."

She began running because all her brothers were active in sports. "They all had something that they were good at. I'm not that good in team sports. I plan to continue running."

Montague says that running has made her a stronger individual and helped her develop self-confidence. She practices both with other runners at school and on her own when she's at home. "I just like running."

She also likes school work. Math, history and science are her favorite subjects. "But I like just about everything."

Bill and Lenna Walker have just returned from what they described as a marvelous vacation trip. They flew to Indianapolis, Ind. to visit with Bill's brother John and his wife Lena and to attend a memorial homecoming reunion. Some of those attending were Bill's sister, Leona Schille from Paris, Ill., James A. Walker from Fresno, Calif. and Dr. Lewis H. Walker and his wife Charlotte from Akron, Ohio. Also attending was Bill's aunt, Katherine Underwood, a young 95 years of age. The days were used for sight-seeing; they visited the Indianapolis speedway highlighted with a bus trip around the actual race surface of the track. They also enjoyed visiting the Racing Hall of Fame museum. They had to go by the schools they attended and the churches; they also stopped by the Methodist Hospital at which Lenna was employed as a registered nurse during World War II. After a good evening meal, they settled down to reminisce about their younger days and the part that each of the brothers played while in the military during WWII. After a full week of activity, the Walkers returned home on Tuesday, Oct. 6.

Chris Jose and two friends from San Antonio made a surprise visit Friday evening to grandparents Nola and Phil Bledsoe. One of the friends who was raised in New York City had never been fishing or boating, so Phil took them out on his boat for awhile. On Saturday evening the boys fished off of the Bledsoe's pier and had a good time catching several perch.

'Little Red' Guilbault, third generation, takes his auto business seriously

By Linda Palmer
Special to the Bulletin

Unable to bear the disastrous look of my truck, a local contractor suggested that Bob Guilbault might be able to tackle the rust-blotched body. "He lives here at the lake, maybe he could take it in for you."

The truck was dropped off Tuesday evening. It was ready on Friday, as promised, at the price he quoted, painted as we agreed (to his liking). The windows were re-tinted and the headliner was replaced. A first-rate job at a reasonable cost.

Bob is the third generation of Guilbaults to repair automobiles. The business originated with Grandfather Guilbault who had a farm outside of Springfield, Mass. He earned $18 a week working as a mechanical engineer for Ingersoll-Rand Corporation, and to help support his nine children, he converted part of the stable area into an auto repair shop in which his sons were obliged to work.

"I worked on Model A and Model T Fords," says Roger, who at age 13 was determined to be a mechanic. The smallest of the boys, he was called "Little Red."

Little Red had learned to weld, and was prepared when a customer brought in four bent fenders. He netted $26 and new respect.

At age 14, he was asked to straighten the frame on a Chevy. He did it, with the help of a tractor, some log chains, and an assist from his brother.

"How old is that boy?" an astonished customer asked.

Roger opened his first shop at age 26, two years after getting married.

A small figure sits on a platform high above the garage at 710 S.W. Loop 410. Roger "Little Red" Guilbault, 71, is "helping out" son Bob by fixing a fan. It is Saturday and Roger's Painting and Body Shop is closed. Bob is conferring with George Hagy, a race car driver whom he helps sponsor.

San Antonio International Speedway is the only one-half mile, asphalt, high bank, oval track in Texas. It has been a NASCAR-sanctioned track for three years. This year, for the first time, the Winston Cup drivers, cream of the "roundy-round" racing, came here to compete.

George Hagy III drives in the Charger Division. His car was chosen to be driven by Winston Cup driver, Terry Labonte of Corpus Christi who went on to win the San Antonio race with it. As of August, Hagy was in fifth place in the Sunbelt Circuit, one of sight regions in the NASCAR Circuit.

Bob has sponsored Joe Aramida, 1991 Charger class champion at the speedway, as well as Terry Mason whose vehicle was painted with Rogue's name.

Bob's interest in auto racing started in 1978 when he worked on a car for Alan Whipple which was driven by Winston Cup champion Geoff Bodine.

"That was the highlight of my career," he says. As to future plans, "we got our guns loaded."

Stewart Ransom, Bob's constant companion and general manager, agrees. He was with Bob at Race Week in Daytona this year, as was daughter, Brandy.

Brandy, a freshman at Bandera High School, is pursuing a modeling career. She often cheers on brother Jeff, who drives in the Charger Division in Florida.

Brandy recently transferred back to Bandera schools. She likes the country kids, country text books which are easily understood, and individualized instruction.

Stewart philosophically notes that racing on sanctioned tracks involves many safety checks. At the Speedway, Terry Branden and four spotters are on the lookout for problems during the race. They stop a driver if unsafe conditions exist. Special tires and other equipment used on the vehicles are regularly checked.

Next door to San Antonio International Speedway is Alamo Dragway- two different facilities that offer completely different kinds of auto racing.

A brief, random survey reveals that several of Bandera County's auto people are involved in drag racing at different levels:

• Ken Andreas of Ken's on Cottonwood Street has a Super Sport Chevy which he races in the quarter mile.

• Phil Martin of Phil's Automotive has two sons who race. Rick, 21, races a drag bike and Dale has a '65 Mustang.

• The MacDonald family at K&M Repair is a family affair. Jack, Glenda and Brian attend the races frequently and son Brian is helping a friend building a racing car.

• Joe Heisler of Pipe Creek says "I keep my money at home." His vehicle is covered with lights and sits high atop a pole, going 0 miles per hour, along Hwy. 1283.

• Bandera Body Shop owner Johnny Rodrigues and his son are working together on a '69 Camaro which Johnny Jr. says can go a quarter mile in 11 seconds.

Both say they believe racing should be done on tracks, for safety reasons. Johnny Jr. says that because of several serious accidents in recent months, "people are not running around as much."

Dad agrees. "Teen-agers need not be drag racing here on the streets."

Arkey to perform in Houston Oct. 17

Arkey Blue and his Blue Cowboys will perform at The Step In in Houston. The Bandera musician will play for a Hunter's Warm up Dance on Saturday, Oct. 17.

The entertainment will begin at 9 p.m. and continue until 1 a.m. Gabe Tucker will be a special guest.

Thank You

Thank You
Words cannot express the appreciation, love and gratitude that we feel for all the people who have come to our aid at the death of our mother, Callie Rees. All of the staff at the Bandera Nursing Home showed her - and us, such love and concern during those last difficult days, we don't know how we could have coped without them. Beatrice Caleway and Gloria Orandy have become like sisters to us these last years, their love and care of Mother went above and beyond and they were always there when we needed them. Martin Smith of the Church of Christ was absolutely wonderful with Mother - he visited her every time he went to the nursing home and always made her feel better. We cherish his comforting words before, during and after her funeral. The tribute in song and the friendship of Shelly Postert shall always be treasured. All of the flowers, cards, memorials, food, thoughts and prayers have - and will - continue to sustain us. The ladies from the Methodist Church who made and those who came with all the food and stayed to serve after the service are all very dear to us. It is times like this that we realize just how precious our friends and family are to us. May God bless each and every one of you.

Fire is third leading accidental death cause

Urban, rural residents at higher risk than suburban, small town residents

Approximately 5,500 people die in fires in this country annually, according toBandera County resident Larry Upton, Captain of the City of San Antonio Fire Department.

Upton said that fire is the third leading cause of accidental death in the home. At [illegible] fire deaths occur in residences. Direct property loss due to fires is estimated at $11.2 billion annually, at a total cost to the public of $50 billion annually.

"Having served in the Fire Service for over 25 years in the city of San Antonio Fire Department," Upton said, I am keenly aware of how many fires and deaths could have been averted by some common sense practices and knowledge.

"Senior citizens are at the higest risk of being killed in a fire- more than double the average population. People under 19 account for 25 percent of the annual fire deaths. Children under age five are at serious risk of being killed in a fire-more than double the average population. About 25 percent of the fires that kill young children are started by children playing with matches."

Upton blames careless smoking for the majority of residential fire deaths. He says that smoke detectors and smouldering-resistant bedding and upholstered furniture are significant fire deterrents.

Careless smoking is also blamed as the leading cause of hotel/motel fire deaths which claim approximately 80 people a year.

Arson is the second largest cause of residential fires and the major cause of death and fire loss in commercial properties.

Woodstoves are becoming a particular problem. Heating is the third leading cause of residential fire deaths.

Cooking is the leading cause of apartment fires and the second most frequent cause of single-family residential fires. These often result from unattended cooking, human [illegible] of dying in a fire than those in suburban areas and small towns.

His advice for avoiding fires and property includes: purchase and install smoke detectors in your home, discuss fire safety with family members, and practice an exit drill with your home. He said it is important to sit down with family members and discuss what action each should take in the event of a fire. Include escape routes and alternate escape routes. Do not go back into the burning house once you have exited.

"Children of all ages must be made aware of the dangers of playing with matches and lighters."

Upton also advises checking your residence with a fire safety checklist. Is it fire-safe?-

Use particular caution when burning brush or trash. "Fires have been front-page news this year as a result of urban wildland fires...An inappropriate decision to burn on a windy day or under dry conditions could be catastrophic.

"Support your local volunteer fire department. These volunteers provide a valuable service to the communities they serve! I speak from personal experience when earlier this year Bandera and Pipe Creek responded to a fire at my home in the Bandera area. Their quick response and actions held to a minimum what could have been a catastrophic loss for me and my family. Although I had always contributed financially and made myself available for training when requested, I never dreamed I would require their service! My family and I will always be thankful the volunteers were there when we needed them."

"Just the knowledge that a good book is waiting one at the end of a long day makes that day happier." - Kathleen Norris

Have you missed the [illegible] of the Library barbecue supper [illegible]. It was great fun and great eating. We thank all the volunteers from the Friends as well as all the other participants for their effort on behalf of the Library. Our book sale in the Library was also a success. We wish to thank all those who supported it.

This past week we lost our part-time clerk, Barbara Craven. Unfortunate for us, but a gain for readers of her books, Barbara decided that she needed to concentrate all of her time and efforts on her writing. We wish her well, and will look forward to her next novel when it becomes available.

At its September meeting the Library Board bade farewell to two members: Diane (Dee) Osgood (President of the Bandera County Library Board of Trustees this past year) and Reverend Marion Birch. These members will be missed for their support of the Library. New Board members were welcomed to the Board at this meeting: Mr. Jeff Parten-heimer, Vice President of First State Bank and Mrs. Ann Edge, a former Library volunteer. Mr. Arthur Caprio, the newly-installed President of the Bandera County Library Board of Trustees, presided over the meeting. Board meetings are held in the library on the second Monday of each month at 3:00 p.m. and are open to the public.

We wish to extend a heartfelt thanks to our newest volunteers in the Library. Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell come in together and put books up for us once a week. In addition, Ruth Juren has been with us for awhile. Ruth helps us in any manner in which we need her - and need her, as well as others, we do. Volunteers are always needed and welcomed at the Library.

GED classes as well as ESL (English as a Second Language) continue to be held each Monday and Tuesday evening from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. No pre-registration is necessary. New students are welcome at all times.

Does anyone have this?

Dear Editor:

Does anyone out there have copies of "The Pride Wrangler" which was published printed in the Bandera area in the 1950s? I would especially like to see a copy of Vol. 7 #2 from April 1955 which contained an interview with J.E. Adamietz.

He apologized

Dear Editor:

In your Bulletin of October 7, Mr. William M. Richards expressed his dislike of a Fraser for Senate campaign sign placed near the cemetery. I personally contacted him and apologized for offending him or others. I too felt that it was poor taste on my part to place the sign there and returned within 24 hours to remove it. Since my parents, four grandparents, and many other relatives dating back to 1865 are buried there, I would not consciously do anything to show disrespect toward them or others resting there. Since I have such complete confidence in Troy Fraser, I was perhaps overzealous in trying to inform our voters.

She finds no irony there

Dear Editor:

Regarding the editorial in Jest & Thyme in last week's Bulletin and the deplorable conditions found at the Bandera Nursing Home, the editor found great irony in the fact that while this condition exists others should be protesting abortion in the "Life Chain."

I find no irony in the two situations. When human life is devalued to the point of abortion and euthanasia, mercy killing, etc., small wonder that the totally helpless unborn person or the helpless elderly are expendable.

I would also remind the editor that probably many of those same people demonstrating for life are also those who spend time visiting those in the nursing homes.

Jeanne Evans
Bandera

(Editor's note: The irony noted was that while one group turned out in great numbers advocating the "right to life" for the unborn, just up the street there appeared to be the evidence of suffering with no visible advocacy group. There was no implication that the two gatherings somehow cancelled one another out. I am, however, aware that the entire "abortion issue" in this country has created many victims of many sorts. There is lots of suffering evident in our world. If you doubt it, read on, gentle reader.)

Here's another viewpoint

Dear Editor;

I saw your article on the pro-life chain and was compelled to give another viewpoint.

When I was in my early 20s, I was "in love" with a young man who said he felt the same. A few months into the relationship I became pregnant. When I informed the young man, he ran the other direction with no offer to help. I was on my own with a job that paid little. I had a difficult and painful decision to make. After much thought, prayer and tears I chose abortion. I could not give the unborn child the quality of life it deserved.

I have never regretted my decision. I only regret that I was not more responsible about birth control.

I am now in my 40s, married to a wonderful man, and I have two beautiful children to cherish.

I've often wanted to ask pro-life advocates, why they don't put their energies into abused and abandoned children? Our prisons are bursting at the seams with people who were unloved and abused as babies.

My second question for them is, why don't they put their time and energies into (helping) the unborn babies whose mothers are drug addicts and who have no chance of a normal life, unless the mother stops taking drugs early in the pregnancy. Something does need to be done for theese unborn babies. Pro-life advocates never seem to mention these tragedies.

I chose as an American not to reveal my name, to protect my privacy, as I had the right to choose an abortion as I would not bring another child into this world that would not have a fair chance at life.

And still another story

Dear Editor;

Please don't use my name, because the past should stay in the past.I once had a baby, but because I was an unmarried teenage girl, I gave my little girl up for adoption. It was the hardest thing I have ever done in my life.

In the beginning, I thought it would be easy, but after carrying that baby for nine months, she was a part of me. I still don't know how I managed to give her away, and I regret my decision to this day. But if I look at it realistically, I don't know how I would have managed to take care of a baby. My family and the baby's father were not at all supportive, and I was disgraced.

My point is this: even though I did not choose to have an abortion myself, I still feel guilt about the little girl that I couldn't raise. And I'm sure that there are many people out there who have either given their children up for adoption or had abortions, who feel that it was very traumatic for them. We are victims, believe me.

If you feel that you must support your cause, please do not resort to tactics that will further victimize someone who made a very tough decision at a very difficult time in her life.

There's a 'void,' she says

Dear Editor;

Has anyone really read the political ads for the sheriff's candidates? I have found a void of information in one candidate's ads.

One says he has 10 years of experience in law enforcement with Bandera County, then he proceeds to list the jobs he has held, each requiring a Texas law officer's certification. The other claims over 43 years in law enforcement experience- period. How many of those 43 years was he a Texas certified law officer? What are the actual jobs he has held during those 43 years? We know he was a communications officer (dispatcher) for the Texas Department of Public Safety- how many years did he hold that position? We know he [illegible] Sheriff of Bandera County for three-plus years. During that time we have had one of the worst drug scandals in Bandera history in the sheriff's department.

What other jobs has he held during that 43 years? If one claims "x" number of years duty in law enforcement, the voting public is entitled to a breakdown by job. I would appreciate a public reply.

Don't be fooled by look-alikes

Dear Editor;

The Bandera County Unit of the American Cancer Society is composed of concerned members who, like many of you, continue to receive solicitations from look-alike organizations.

One such organization is now planning a door-to-door drive in November. I encourage you to read "Facts About the Cancer Center" on the back of the letter in which they appeal to volunteers.

Only 40 percent of the contributions are used for program services. I quote, "A portion of the money included in the program services category is expended pursuant to voluntary agreement settling causes of action regarding previous mailings." Other than legal expenses, it does not mention what these "program expenses" are. The rest of the money collected goes for administration and fund-raising. No money is allocated for research.

The Texas Attorney General's office has asked for help in collecting copies of the several mailings of look-alike organizations. Anyone receiving such letters is asked to forward them to: Ms. Pat Thomas; Investigator; Consumer Protection Division; Attorney General's Office; P.O. Box 12548; Austin, Tx. 78711-2548.

Bandera blanks Cole in third district win

Bulldogs are in a three-way tie for first in 26-AAA play.

The Bandera Bulldogs shut out the San Antonio Cole Cougars 35-0 at Ft. Sam Houston and the win puts the varsity boys in blue into a three-way tie in district 26-AAA play.

The win puts the Bandera Bulldogs record to 3-0 in District play and 4-2 overall. Devine and Medina Valley teams are also 3-0 in district play, but both are undefeated in the entire six-game season.

Bandera head coach attributes the win to the maturing of his squad during the season. "We played a lot better (Friday). We played as we were capable," said Storer. "It's the best game we've played in a long, long time. We thoroughly dominated the game.

Cole wasn't an easy win. "They've (Cole has) moved the ball against Devine and Holy Cross. They moved the ball up and down the field against Randolph. They should have beat Randolph," said Storer.

But it sure looked easy. "They had three first downs on their first series, got a first down on a penalty and had none in the second half," said Storer. "On defense we completely shut them down."

Bandera also excelled in special teams, such as punt returns. "We had good punt returns by J.B. Neuenschwander and Jess Edwards."

The Bulldogs scored all five touchdowns on the ground with two by junior running back Robert Bradford.

In the first quarter with three minutes left, Bradford ran 30 yards for the touchdown. Jimmy Stroud kicked the point-after to give a 7-0 score.

Junior running back Marlon Santos ran the ball six yards for six points in the second quarter at 5:49. The extra point was no good and the score 13-0.

Still in the second quarter, Bandera got the ball back and with one of several good punt returns during the game, scored on a 4-yard run by junior fullback Bracn Moseley. Junior second-string quarterback Brian Flack ran the ball into the end zone for the two-point conversion to give a 21-0 score.

At the beginning of the third quarter, Bradford scored his second touchdown on a three-yard run with Stroud kicking the point-after for a 28-0 score.

At the top of the fourth quarter, senior running back Jess Edwards ran six yards for the TD and Stroud tacked on the extra point. The final score was 35-0.

Sophomore Stroud has taken over the kicking and third-string quarterback position on the varsity squad from sophomore Kyle Woodland.

Bandera takes on Hondo Friday at Bulldog Stadium

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

The football rivalry of Bandera and Hondo will resume Friday night at Bulldog Stadium as the Bulldogs take on the Owls at 7:30 p.m.

Bandera comes into the [illegible] in a three-way tie for first-place in district.

But that tie for first place will be meaningless unless Bandera can tack on more wins. The Bulldogs have yet to play the other two top teams — undefeated Medina Valley and Devine — both considered top contenders for district championship.

And with the current play-off scheme, Bandera will almost assuredly have to beat at least Medina Valley or Devine to [illegible]

And to keep that momentum going, there can't be any let up for the Bulldogs.

[illegible] doesn't think last Friday night's blowout against Cole will give the Bulldogs an easy win (against Cole). It'll give the guys a lot of confidence."

Just like the San Antonio Cole victory was one of the Bulldogs' best games of the year, the game against the Owls needs to have similar vitality because there's a rivalry between the two towns along State Highway 173. Even though Hondo is 1-2 in district play and 2-4 overall, the Owls are expected to put on a show. "I expect them (Hondo) to play one of their, if not their, best games of the year," said Storer. "So we'd better be ready to play one of our best games."

[illegible] have a multiple offense with many formations. Their offense also varies from game to game as [illegible] looks to see what works and gets to know his team. "Some games they run a whole lot, some pass a whole lot," said Storer.

The Owls have no true standouts among their varsity squad, but they are experienced, as they only lost two seniors to graduation last year. "They are about the same team as last year. They play good together. They are playing better than last year."

Bandera's JV continues undefeated, 'playing hard, and playing together'

The Bandera Bulldogs junior varsity football team continues in its undefeated ways, having beaten Cole by the same score as the varsity squad — 35-0.

The JV — aided by some freshman players Thursday night because Cole did not have a freshman team — extended their winning record to 5-0 on the season.

The coaching staff's comment about the boys? "They are playing hard and playing together."

Scores were all on the ground and made by John Minturn, Adam Diaz (freshman), Perry Holt, Eric Gratteau and Mike Kincade.

Quarterback Kyle Woodland, who rotated to the JV squad from the varsity to let Jimmy Stroud have some varsity experience, kicked five extra points.

The eighth graders tied Cole 14-14 and the seventh graders won their game 20-0. The eighth graders are 2-1-1 and the seventh gradera are 2-2 in this season's play.

Medina downed Harper in 36-0 win Friday, Oct. 2

The Medina Bobcats bettered their District 28-A record to 2-1 Friday, Oct. 9 with a 36-0 win over the Harper Longhorns.

Jason Small and Chris [illegible] led the Medina attack with 82 and 73 yards, but Eli Hickman followed closely with 59 yards and Joel Alvarado and Jodi Carpenter each totaled 347 yards on the ground while holding the 'Horns to only 62.

The Bobcats also passed around their scoring chores. After heaving a 51 yard pass to Nathan Vannatter to put the 'Cats on the Harper 15 yard line, quarterback Clifford [illegible] with a one-yard plunge with 3:42 in the first period. Vannatter followed with a successful PAT.

Randy Rose recovered a [illegible] two-and-a-half minutes later, Jason Small scored his first points with a four-yard run. Vannatter's boot again parted the uprights giving the 'Cats a 14-0 lead.

Midway through the second quarter, Scott Faglie snagged a Longhorn pass and then caught a Clay Waggoner toss for a 28 yard gain inside the Harper five. Quarterback Waggoner scampered four yards for the TD and the 'Cats led 20-0.

Faglie got his second interception [illegible] minutes later to set up yet another Medina scoring drive.

Chris Lewis broke free on first down and side-stepped Medina score, after which Faglie tossed a two-point conversion pass to Carpenter and the Bobcats led 28-0 at the half.

Late in the third stanza Small added two more points to the Medina total with a safety sack of the Harper ball carrier, and then Waggoner, with 58 seconds left on the third quarter clock heaved a 24-yard TD strike to Carpenter for the 'Cats' final score.

Medina will host Nueces Canyon for a Homecoming bash Friday, Oct. 16 with pregame festivities beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Deadly Dart wins Bandera Championship

The toteboard told the story- he won by a nose

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

It was so close neither jockey knew which one won the race.

Amazingly, even in the tight quarter horse races, the jockeys know whose won when they look across the wire at the competitor that they see.

When jockeys Mark Page aboard Deadly Dart and Sam Thompson looked Sunday, they didn't know.

When they returned from the run down after the race, the "toteboard told the story — it was 10-1 Deadly Dart, officially a nose over 10-1 First Oscar in the 440-yard $5,500 Bandera Championship. Though it was actually a lot closer, there's just no designation smaller.

"I didn't know if I won or if the 5 (First Oscar) won it," said Page. "Sammy (Thompson) and I couldn't tell," said Page.

What was surprising is that the 3-2 favorite Smart Lil Native was fifth and 4-1 Thunder ing Tina was eighth.

But you put that many good horses in one race, and some of them have to run back.

Deadly Dart, the winner of seven races and the highest money earner in the field at $291,604, doesn't usually get out of the starting gates very well. "He broke good. He usually comes from off of it," said Page. "He was third or fourth out of the gate and right where I wanted him to be. He's usually about one or two lengths behind. He just doesn't have the footing."

Also helping today was the distance — 440 yards — that gives horses that don't leave the starting gate first a chance to speed ahead down the stretch.

Just before the finish line, Deadly Dart and First Oscar were both tied for the lead. "It must have been that last jump where he nailed them," said Page.

It was also Deadly Dart's first race on Lasix and Deadly Dart was the only horse to use the anti-bleeding medication in the race.

In other racing action Sunday, Uncle Will won the $3,200 Best of Class Sprint Series No. 3 by 2 1/4 lengths. Buck Harris rode the 6-year-old gelding for trainer Bill Stevens.

Stevens has been using various jockeys throughout the season, including Tammy McHargue, apprentice April Lokey and Tim Boggus. But he said he's settled on Harris and Thompson. "Whichever one has a commitment (to ride for another trainer), we get the other to ride for us," said Tracy.

Harris was last year's leading rider and currently is Bandera's leading thoroughbred rider. Thompson, 20, came to Bandera this year and showed considerable promise as a rider at the beginning of the season and again recently.

According to Stevens, he and his wife claiming (bought in a claiming race) Uncle Will last year and have been pleased with the acquisition. "He's just an honest, old hard-knocker," said Stevens.

Raise A Govenor returned to Bandera Downs and won the last race of the day Sunday, a $2,500 thoroughbred allowance sion I and Division II of the futurity last year when it was run at Manor Downs with Beyond The Blue Neon — a horse owned by country music star George Strait.

The Division I futurity has already been run at Bandera this year.

El Cohete (who ran second in the Division I futurity) ran second in his trial Friday with a time of 18.272 seconds, making the Colombian Arabian trained gelding the third fastest qualifier.

Deadly Dagger, trained by Glen Atkinson, set a time of 18.26 seconds to give the horse the fourth-fastest time.

Hes Hooked, sired by the local stallion Hooked On Cash and trained by one of the top trainers in Texas Cody Brock, was the fifth fastest qualifier with a time of 18.34 seconds.

Hes Hooked ran eighth in the Division I futurity.

Hesa Mean Jet, who ran third in the second trial, chalked up the sixth fastest time with 18.37 seconds. The Jimmy Guerra Jr.-trained gelding won Division I of the futurity Sept. 20.

Other qualifiers for the Quarter Horse of Texas Breeders Futurity Division II were Eyes Fine, trainer Brad Marcom, in 18.49 seconds; A Simple Bye Bye, Shawn Clark, 18.53; and Tropical Mac, Danny Uballe Sr., 18.57.

In other racing news, if you want to see jockey Doug Gilbert ride horses, you'll have to come in the morning. Gilbert, who is a kidney transplant recipient, returned to race riding at the start of this year's Bandera meeting, but upon his doctor's recent advice, he'll just be galloping and breaking horses in the future.

Bandera Downs continues to offer mid-week simulcasting sessions of Trinity Meadows races Wednesday and Thursday. Post time for the 10 televised races-only is 2 p.m.

Bandera Downs is awarded two national quarter horse honors

Bandera Downs was awarded two national awards by the American Quarter Horse Association in October at its annual racing conference in Marina del Rey in California.

The "Bandera Bud" campaign produced by Bandera Down's advertising agency, Stanhope & Geiger, was named the recipient of two Sprint Awards in the 1992 competition. The AQHA Racing Council's Sprint Awards competition honor outstanding media coverage, artistic portrayal and racetrack promotion of American Quarter Horse racing. The award is a limited edition bronze of a racing American Quarter Horse, "America's Fastest Athlete," by renown sculptress Lisa Perry of Springtown, Texas.

The "Bandera Bud" campaign was named the winner in the category of promotional campaign — tracks with an average daily handle of more than $200,000, and the "Bud Knows" television spot was the winner in the category video production — short subject, advertisement.

Serving as judges for this year's Sprint Awards competition were Dan Mearns, managing editor of The Blood-Horse magazine in Lexington, Kentucky; Dr. Ed Smith, journalism professor at Texas A&M University; Dave Hooper, coordinator of the University of Arizona Race Track Industry Program; Kay Ledbetter, farm and ranch editor of the Amarillo Globe-News; and Coco Duckworth, partner in the Amarillo-based GP&D Advertising.

Your Health and Comfort Is Our #1 Asset

TECH-MATIC™

Manufactured by a leading maker of adjustable beds for more than 100 years

Patent Pending
Exclusive Adjustable Pillow Height

The world's most comfortable bed lets you select your own perfect position for reading . . . snacking . . . watching TV . . . and for sleeping or just plain wide-awake rest. Just a touch of the finger awakens our Electronic Control which will shape your Tech-Matic swiftly and silently to a new kind of comfort not found in any other adjustable bed. Tech-Matic has Head Adjustment . . . An extra moveable section that positions head and shoulders for unbelievable comfort, perfect for reading, watching TV, sitting up or sleeping. It's just like having a built-in pillow . . . and it's yours with the Tech-Matic adjustable bed.

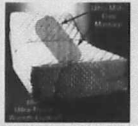
Bedrooms are not just for sleeping anymore. It can become a center for many activities: reading, TV, sewing, studying and the ultimate "breakfast in bed". Total Relaxation! Tech-Matic offers a size for every need from roomy twin to the new Dual King model . . . An ideal choice for couples who prefer different positions. Each spouse has their own control panel for their side of the bed. Each side in complete control of their own desirable position.

Just plug in the cord and Tech-Matic is ready to go to work for you instantly and quietly at the touch of a finger. All Tech Matic's are compatible with standard headboards and can be attached to your own headboard, if desired. Available in all sizes: Twin, Full, Queen, Dual Queen, and Dual King!

Can be a blessing for the bed-ridden. No cumbersome toggle switches. Our new Electronic Touch Hand Control just needs a touch to relieve the monotony, nervous tension, aches and soreness from remaining in one position too long. And done with virtually no assistance from others. Eliminate your uncomfortable hospital bed. Side rails available on all sizes.



Want or need a soothing blood circulating massage? Just touch the control for Ultra-Matic and enjoy a full-bodied massage right in your own bed. Feel the tension slip away. Just like having a skilled masseur RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME!

Enjoy Ultra-Therm for controlled warmth. Lets you select the level of heat desired. Since heat rises from the mattress, it is, therefore retained by the lightest of coverings. Much more efficient than an electric blanket.

Electronic Touch Control

Here is how our Electronic Touch Hand Control does your bidding. Just a touch of a finger automatically controls all these functions. Adjust back section, adjust pillow section, adjust leg section, and gives full-bodied soothing dual massage with two controls. One for top half, one for bottom half, or both together at the same time. RIGHT FROM YOUR OWN BED!

Daylight Saving Time Ends Sunday

Don't forget to Fall Back this weekend. Yes, it's once again time to say goodbye to Daylight Savings Time, which ends officially Sunday at 2 a.m. It's recommended that folks set their clocks BACK one hour before they go to bed on Saturday night. Don't be the one poor soul who shows up an hour before church begins Sunday morning!

This young man was on target at one of the fun booths during Medina's Homecoming Carnival Saturday, Oct. 17. Hundreds of "Medina-ites", past and present gathered for the annual parade and fun. Please see Page 8 for more. Staff photo by Larry T. Williams

'Dogs take on Somerset in Friday's gridiron clash

For more Bulldog football action and highlights, as well as photos, please turn to Pages 20-21.

After narrowly defeating the Hondo Owls last week, the Bandera Bulldogs will travel to Somerset for their fifth district game Friday night.

Three games are left in regular season play for the varsity Bandera Bulldogs: Somerset there, Devine here and Medina Valley in Castroville.

While Bulldog football fans anticipate the upcoming show down with the Warhorses and Panthers (who will play each other this Friday), Bandera head coach Chris Storer, his staff and the varsity boys are concentrating on the Bulldogs — the Somerset and Bandera Bulldogs.

Somerset is in tied for fourth-place in district play (1-3) along with West Campus and Hondo after being shut out by Medina Valley 31-0 last Friday. The Somerset Bulldogs are a team a lot like Hondo, said Storer. The Bandera-Hondo game was a heart-stopper at 15-14 Bandera.

Bandera is tied for first-place in district with Devine and Medina Valley and to stay on top of the district race, they'll be working on what hurt them in last Friday's game.

"The main thing we'll be working on this week is eliminating mistakes that we made last week," said Storer. "We didn't play poorly. We had a few mistakes at the wrong time that kept us from getting into the groove."

What Bandera will face at Somerset's stadium is a team that mixes up the pass and the run. "They have more success with the running," said Storer.

Somerset shows many formations — as many as nine in the last three games. (Though some formations are seldom used.)

Their favorite formation is an offset "I", a formation similar to the one used by West Campus. Another often used formation is a single-back, double wing.

Players the Bandera Bulldogs will have to stop are running backs Mike Reyes (usually a tail back) and Roger Gonzales (usually a fullback).

Reyes appears to be the fastest of the two backs and Gonzales the most powerful runner. "But Gonzales has the speed if he can break into the open," said Storer.

Storer describes Somerset's quarterback, Carlos Mendoza, as a "good scrambler." His favorite receiver is Jerry Navarro.

Lakehills bank branch will celebrate fifth

Sam Braswell, Vice President and manager of the Lakehills branch of the First State Bank, said the bank plans a fifth birthday celebration on Thursday, Oct. 22 from 5 to 7 p.m. A tent will be set up on bank property adjacent to the Lakehills Ice House which is located on Park Road 37 and 1283 in the Lakehills Ice House Center.

Customers and prospective customers of the Lakehills branch are invited to attend. The Lakehills bank is a branch of the First State Bank in Bandera. Braswell has been the manager of the branch bank "since the doors opened five years ago."

Braswell said he has seen moderate growth in Lakehills. "We look forward to added growth now that the lake is full. We have over four million in deposits at the Lakehills branch and over a thousand customers. We thought there was a need for a bank in Lakehills and it has proved itself. It's been very successful. We expect to be here in years to come.

The birthday celebration will include fiesta-style decorations and Mexican food. Braswell, the employees at the Lakehills branch, and some of the Bandera branch's employees will be present for the occassion.

Alcohol consumption and "boredom" allegedly culminated in a two-day mail box robbery spree, according to Bandera County Sheriff's Department Sergeant Lynn Holt. Two suspects, Jody Smart, 19, of Tarleton Univerasity, and Stephen Moseley, 22, of Tarleton University, were arrested on Sunday, Oct. 17 at 4:30 a.m.

Complaints of missing mail and removed mail boxes along FM 1283 reached the Sheriff's Department on Friday, Oct. 16. The univerasity students were stopped on Sunday when Deputy Abbot spotted a car stopping on 1283 and backing up in the middle of the road. The vehicle stopped briefly at a mailbox, then returned to the road. Abbot stopped the car and found a large quanity of mail in it.

Smart and Moseley were arrested and charged with 13 counts of theft. They were released on a $10,000 bond each on Monday. If convicted, they will be required to make restitution and could be fined up to $6,500 each. They could also face federal mail tampering charges. The federal charges could earn them a five-year sentence in the penitentiary.

Some 20 separate pieces of mail were recovered in the vehicle when Smart and Moseley were stopped. Another 20 pieces of mail were recovered along the side of the road. More mail was recovered in Medina. "They were very destructive," Holt said. "Several of the boxes had checks in them. The checks were ripped up and thrown out the window. They kept coupons and magazines. Alcohol was involved. It removes a lot of inhibitons."

Holt said the suspects were "cooperative." "We feel like we've recovered all the mail taken." The recovered mail will be returned to the rural route box holders.

The locations where the thefts occured include: FM 1283; north on Highway 173 into Kerrville; FM 2771 (Lower Turtle Creek Road); Highway 16 north of Medina and back through Medina, and the west end of the county.

Holt said other isolated mailbox thefts have occured in the past where one or two individuals complained of stolen or hidden mail. He said this is the first case where a large amount of mail was involved or when the thefts occured over a period of time. He warned that tampering with mail is a federal offense and carries a stiff penalty.

Those who suspect they are missing mail should contact postal authorities.

These local businesses have moved

Bandera's business facade is changing as established buildings "hopscotch" around town.

The Texas Rose Boutique moved to a larger store on Main Street, vacating the facility now housing the Republican Party's Bandera County Headquarters. Duperier Texas Landman has moved down Main Street, from the building now occupied by Texas Rose, to the building recently vacated by McMullan Insurance Agency.

Last week, the Bulletin carried a story written bu Stephanie Logue, about reclaiming the park at Medina Lake-- unfortunately, the last part of the story was accidentally omitted from the paper. We apologize for the error, and hope that it didn't keep too many of you breathless all week. Please turn to Page 4 to read the story in its entirety.

Alkek Elementary School nurse Sherry Hayes and teacher Lynn Salyers help a group of fifth graders load some of more than 600 pounds of food collected last week by students of the school. The food was presented to Bandera County Helping Hand as the school's contribution toward a World Food Hunger Week program. The edibles will be distributed throughout the Bandera community as needed. It was Heater, he says

Dear editor:

In her otherwise excellent column "What's Bustin'" Penny has made a semi historical error which I would like to correct, for the sake of the readers who were not alive at the time. "There's good news tonight!" was and is the clarion call of the news commentator Gabriel Heater when he extolled the virtues and philanthropy of Mutual of Omaha, for whom he worked. The late H. V. Kaltenborn, a newscaster of the 30s and 40s, is remembered primarily for the occasion upon which (in his clipped, stentorian delivery) he announced the election of Harry Truman: "It appears that Mr. Truman has won and Mr. Dewey has lost and it's terrible but there doesn't seem to be anything that can be done about it."

Thank you, class, for your attention. This will be on the final.

Candidate's son responds

Dear editor:

In response to the letter by Wauneta D. Taylor last week I will try to clarify for her. Our current Sheriff volunteered for the service during WWII, saw action in the Pacific, came home and went to work as a motorcycle policeman (before Law Officers Certification was required). He was then hired by the Texas Dept. of Public Safety as a dispatcher. He worked his way up to supervisor, then retired. As you can see, our current Sheriff is experienced in all facets of law enforcement, with many letters of commendation for public service.

Grandma wants to see more school spirit

Dear editor:

This letter is in regard to an article I read in the paper stating that there will be no more Pep rallies at the High School.

Traditional things are always being taken away (majorettes, etc.) from the children at BISD.

Doesn't someone realize that there are children who live too far away or who cannot afford to go to the games and that the Pep rallies are

A good doctor and staff!

Dear editor:

Over the past couple of years, I have had both the occasion, and the need, to solicit the services of Dr. James Womack, Bandera Family Practice Clinic. In every instance I have been impressed with Dr. Womack's professional abilities and the results of his recommendations. In a recent situation he referred me to a specialist in San Antonio and maintained contact with both of us until the problem was in total control.

But, the good doctor can only do so much by himself. The rest is up to his staff and Dr. Womack has the best. Lucy and Earlene in the Medical Dept., with Penny, Tammy and Pam in the Admin. Dept., all excel in the area of responsibility to the patient. The make you feel welcome with their warm and pleasant attitude, quick smile and responsiveness. This is often difficult to find in today's society.

Bandera is fortunate to have Dr. Womack and his excellent staff here to help us and I appreciate the good treatment and friendly greetings from these folks.

Her vote is her revenge

Dear editor:

At last the elections are upon us, and for me, my most meaningful, because this term I have scores to settle and rewards to give, and I'll do it with my vote.

As I sit down with my ballot, I will remember vividly the days from Christmas throughout January when my son had an altercation with the law and was detained at the Bandera County Jail. Unable to afford bail or an attorney, I was desperate to find help and didn't know how. I called everyone pleading for advice or legal representation.

I'm glad I didn't give up on the first call, because it was by far the worst. I'll never forget J. P. Bonnie Towers' cold and bitter tone before she slammed the phone in my ear, nor right after that will I forget the raspy, stuffy sound of Judge Ray Mauer's voice when I unknowingly called him at home where he was nursing a cold. He very patiently and kindly listened to my story and told me who I needed to contact. After failing to reach the District Judge or the District Attorney, I called Kerri Schnieder in hopes of snatching any legal advice I could get. She was very helpful. I wish I could have paid her to represent him. She would have earned every dime.

My favorite call was to Sheriff Steve Forrest. After learning the other boy had been released, I called him and demanded to know how and why. He "passed the buck" to a Deputy Price. He wasn't sympathetic nor was he unsympathetic. He listened and he talked. Even though he never agreed on the issue, he patiently and clearly explained procedures, options, and he helped me to understand some of what was happening. He was very professional, he does his job well. He arranged for my son to be released the very next day but it was on his terms. Too bad he's not on the ballot.

Yes my revenge is coming, my vote is only one, but IT WILL COUNT!!

He says you are welcome

Dear editor:

During this highly charged political season of presidential and vice-presidential debates, charges and counter-charges, we the average citizens are forced to make our political selections based on information the media makes available to us. Since very few of us have direct access to the candidates themselves, in this case, the media provides a very important and much needed service. It is up to each individual to decide the merits or bias of the information presented. This does not have to be the case where Bandera Nursing Home is concerned.

Your readers do have access to the Nursing Home and, contrary to editorial claims by an ex-employee in your Oct. 14 edition, they are welcome to visit our residents. As a matter of fact, I was in Bandera Nursing Home on Oct. 12 and 13 and I saw that same ex-employee come into the home, ask for and receive permission from the administrator to visit the residents. With the exception of that particular editorial (letter), I feel your writers were, for the most part, well intentioned and genuinely interested in the welfare of Bandera Nursing Home. So are we! There is no doubt that some problems have existed at the home. There is also no doubt in my mind that we have taken permanent, positive steps to eliminate these problems. Obviously, the Texas Department of Health agrees with that assessment, because on Oct. 16, they visited the nursing home and cleared all deficiencies previously written as published in your paper.

We recognize that in caring for the residents in our nursing home, we cannot allow ourselves a very large margin of error since the quality of life of everyone entrusted to our care is paramount. Such a responsibility, however, brings the challenge of placing the right people in the right positions. I believe overall we have succeeded in that regard and we appreciate the dedication and effort of our present staff in working together to improve our nursing home. We ask that your readers not judge Bandera Nursing Home without personally visiting with us and meeting some of our residents. Unlike our presidential candidates we are accessible and you are welcome.

He says "fight illiteracy"

Dear editor:

How many American adults are functionally illiterate? Would you believe the number is over 27 million? You may think that, because you can read this, illiteracy is no problem for you. You need to think again.

Illiteracy lowers business productivity. Illiterates may not be able to learn enough to know the difference between low and high quality. During training, everything must be explained orally to illiterates. These costs are passed along to the consumers—us.

Illiterate workers are prone to have accidents because they cannot read. Literate people can be hurt by the accidents. Illiterates who cause accidents are more likely to draw worker's compensation and other insurance benefits, sometimes involving lawsuits. Insurance rates are based on averages, and ultimately we all pay higher insurance because of accidents resulting from illiteracy.

Illiteracy drives people into low-paying jobs, unemployment, even welfare. Thus illiteracy weakens the tax base while increasing the benefits paid. The federal debt, over $4 trillion, has partly arisen from unproductivity rooted in illiteracy. The federal debt hurts each of us when we borrow money and face high interest rates.

In turn the federal debt worsens the illiteracy problem because the government cannot fund programs to attack illiteracy when so much is [illegible] and [illegible] to pay the [illegible] from illiteracy.

Companies leave America to go where the workers can read. The jobs go too. Revenues decline while the government's bills continue. Companies are especially reluctant to invest jobs in areas where illiteracy and resulting problems are ubiquitous.

Now is the time to stop illiteracy. Inquire at your local library about literacy campaigns. We are all paying for illiteracy.

He is anti-pro-choice

Dear editor:

I've only known one perfect speller, he lived at the Johnson Chapel store near DesAre, Arkansas. And I don't believe, he would've fell hook line and sinker for pro-choice. Pro-choice causes innocent blood to be shed.

"At 17 days, the new life has developed its own blood cells; the placenta is a part of the new life and not of the mother."

God hates, "Hands that shed innocent blood." (Proverbs 6:17)

If pro-choice, "Be of men, it will come to nought." (Acts 5:38)

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Amid the debates and headline warfare last week, Texas opened its early voting program.

As reporters watched, Gov. Ann Richards officially cast the first ballot at an East Austin grocery store to announce and underscore how easy it is to vote in Texas.

"This is the first vote in Texas cast for Bill Clinton, I'll tell you that," Richards said.

This is also the front line for electoral votes and Richards and her Democrats appear poised to win it in Texas.

Texas Democrats plan to score 1.75 million votes during the early voting period; Texas Republicans are just as serious. They are phone-banking reminders to voters.

Mobile Voting Stations

Texas Secretary of State John Hannah said mobile early voting sites — in mour houses and station wagons —can be used.

That means a vehicle can roll into a neighborhood and start collecting ballots, all supervised, of course.

But as opponents of the program point out, in these days of massive welfare fraud and other "credentials" crimes, how easy will it be to commit voter fraud?

Special Session Nov. 10

It's official. Gov. Richards has chosen Nov. 10 as the date legislators meet in special session on school finance.

Press secretary Bill Cryer said the date, a week from the November elections, would give lawmakers time to prepare.

The Texas Supreme Court three times has overturned school finance laws, ruling that they discriminated against property-poor districts.

Richards said she, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis are working on a new plan to present to lawmakers next month.

The last legislative effort created higher property taxes which the Texas Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional, but allowed to be collected.

Back Into Court

The Texas Supreme Court began hearing arguments on whether the Texas Constitution mandates that all citizens have equal access to public colleges and universities.

In January, Brownsville judge Benjamin Euresti reversed a jury and ruled Texas has discriminated against Hispanics in the Rio Grande Valley by not building enough colleges there.

Attorney General Dan Morales appealed Euresti's decision; his staff lawyers argued last week that the Constitution makes no mandate for higher education equal access.

Attorneys for Hispanics in the Valley argued that the Constitution's "efficiency" requirement for lower public school systems also applies to higher education.

Euresti,' in pushing aside the jury's finding of no discrimination, gave the Legislature until May 1, 1993 to draft a remedy or face a court-ordered halt of all higher education funding.

Mauzy, Enoch Duel

Allegations of misuse of public funds surfaced last week for opposing candidates in a race for Texas Supreme Court.

First, a former secretary for 5th Court of Appeals judge Craig Enoch alleged she did campaign work on state time. Enoch, a Republican challenger, denied it, then later wrote the state a check for about $570 to cover it.

That prompted Democrat incumbent Justice Oscar Mauzy, a former state senator, to comment the allegations "raised serious questions about Judge Enoch's suitability to serve on the state's highest court."

The ink was barely dry on Mauzy's quote when one of his former secretaries popped up with similar charges, that Mauzy required her to do his personal clerical work on state time.

Latest Texas Poll

According to a Texas Poll survey for Oct. 1-8, Republican Barry Williamson has overtaken scandal-plagued Democrat Lena Guerrero in their railroad commission battle.

Williamson leads Guerrero by five points, 37 percent to 32 percent, with some 31 percent undecided.

Guerrero resigned from the commission last month, apologizing for making false claims on her resumes and biographies.

The poll also reported that Gov. Richards has a 59 percent approval rating, down from 72 percent in August.

Stop Sludge Dumping

Attorney General Dan Morales urged the Texas Water Commission to immediately halt a company from spreading sludge in West Texas.

Morales told the commission last week to revoke permission granted to MERCO Joint Venture to spread New York City sludge on a ranch near Sierra Blanca, about 70 miles southeast of El Paso.

Morales said the MERCO project does not meet state regulations.

Other Highlights

▪ Gov. Richards took Morales' advice and appointed a prosecutor to head the state prison board: former district attorney Carol Vance of Houston! Vance, who already sits on the board, replaces Sheldon Hale, who resigned last month; Morales said then that a prosecutor would negotiate a prison lawsuit settlement tougher on prison inmates.

▪ Richards asked the State Board of Insurance to adopt a plan to use independent information to set auto insurance rates, not data supplied by insurance companies. Industry representatives said the new plan would drive up premiums.

▪ Fortune magazine ranked Houston second behind Seattle in a list of best U.S. cities for business.

Bandera merchants to present fashion show

Texas Rose Boutique [illegible] is a message bonfire for [illegible] Annual Christmas Style Show! "shop at home." The style show will be held at Flying L Ranch on Monday, Nov. 9, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Take reservations," Stephens said. "There is limited [illegible] Make them early. Reservations are closed [illegible] in, a lot of them from Medina."

Bandera merchants participating in the show include: the Texas Rose, Janett's, Shoe Biz, Hill Country Fashions and Herby's Sports Shack. The three dollar donation collected will benefit the Bandera Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Hair styles will be furnished by Hair Unlimited, Hair Ways and Special Effects. Jamie Ashmore and his Texas Music Machine will provide music.

Stephens said the annual show began as an attempt to get Bandera's merchants "involved and working together to get people to shop at home. It's great fun and pretty fashions. We have a lot of models. It's a way to show Bandera residents what we have to offer them right here."

Last year, 150 attended the show and the proceeds went to the Silver Sage Corral.

Local folks turn out to 'meet the candidates'

The Bandera Optimist's Club sponsored a "Meet the Candidates Night" on Monday, Oct. 19. Approximately 40 people attended the meeting which was held in the Bandera Bank's Community room.

Mary Autry shared an interesting news item she gleaned from the Dallas Morning News, Oct. 19. An article written by Sam Attlesey caught her attention with the headlines: "Independent Voters May Swing Election...Bandera's a 3rd party pattern watched."

Attlesey said that "Bandera County has voted for 3rd party candidates more than any other county in Texas...Bandera County, famed for its Dude Ranches and rodeos and still refered to by local residents as the 'free state of Bandera', has voted three times for Presidential candidates not running as Republican or Democratic nominees."

Local candidates meeting the voters Monday night included both Republican candidate James MacMillan and Democratic candidate and incumbent, Steve Forest. Other local candidates attending were precinct four constable candidates Allen Hatley, Republican, and Tom Fielder, Democrat; and Rebublican candidate for County Commissioner, precinct three, Louis Vannatter. Democratic candidate for precinct three, Ralph Chancy, was unable to attend.

For state races, only Republican candidate for State Representative, District 73, John Brelaford, was present.

Mary Autry spoke on behalf of State Senator Bill Sims, Democrat. Republican candidate for State Senate, District 25, Troy Fraser was represented by Mike Hachtman, campaign manager.

Bob Turner, Democratic candidate for District 73, was represented by John Hofmann.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your creative engines are going full fire as the week begins, and you charge this high voltage energy into your work. This is almost a guarantee of success in the business world. The exhilaration from this high carries you right into the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You slowly come out of your shell this week, but once you get started, you go wild. Your energy is high and on target at work and at play. The problem is you'll need most of the weekend to recuperate. Others don't give you a choice. They want you now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others wish you would you chat less and work more. You kind of get the message midweek when you finally become silent. Your mind is on other things and more important problems. Once they're solved, you roll into a carefree and wonderful weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You really are a force to be dealt with this week, as you clear paperwork, get the job done, and just feel good about you. You opt for a homey, though certainly not boring, weekend. You won't want any distractions, TV or anything. Relish this one.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You plunge into the work week ready to conquerr the world. And you do, at least in your own domain. As the weekend comes on, you move into a more relaxed frame of mind. Catch up on news, hang with friends, and be your more flirtatious self.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You continue to mull over taking an important action, though by midweek you could care less. Others are drawn to you and lay out their plans for you simply and directly. You spend the weekend recovering from this change in image.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You're into those mood swings again, Libra. It's okay, because you start up and end up, just in time for the weekend. You leave your mark at work. (You just don't mince your words, do you?) Take your diary with you this weekend. We'll all want to read your memoirs.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You're in the limelight this week. Refuse to be cornered by a boss. He may just be jealous of that insight and your ability to pinpoint. No matter what you do, you get what you want, so make sure your wish list is big, very big. Snooze some this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Check out what is going on behind the scenes, before you leap into action this week. Then manifest your power. Your determination makes for a success story. Whether your conquest is money, love or work, you celebrate all weekend long.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You're a sign that seems to always draw money, though your tactics could be changing. Expect to be in your mind most of the week, daydreaming away. (Some of those dreams could be a little spicy.) You really don't start to enjoy your weekend until later, but it's worth it.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Others seek you out all week long, and the more social you are, the happier you become. Work does become a minor issue, but the intensity of the moment more than compensates for it. Might as well call it an early week, as your mind is not on work.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You are incredibly efficient this week, and it's a good thing too, because there are a lot of good reasons for you to be distracted. Seriously consider a partnership offer — financial or emotional — made late in the week or during the weekend. Please take your time deciding, Pisces.

County officials reclaim lake park

Bandera County officials have initiated action to reclaim the County-owned park at Medina Lake. The park has been cleaned, trash containers installed, and a sign advising the public of the proper use of the park has been erected.

The Medina Lake park is owned by Bandera County and jointly operated by the county and by the Texas Parks and Wildlife, Ramps Division. Lakehills Justice of the Peace, Louise Karr said vandalism and "rough" behavior have been serious problems at the park. "It's terrible. I won't let my daughter come down here at all. It's off limits to her. We need a caretaker down here and tighter security. There's drug traffic...it's scary."

County Judge Ray Mauer said the county has been looking for solutions to the ongoing problems for several years. "Making it presentable and drawing family-oriented people here is a first step. We've had too much of the other...s alcohol and drug users. The type of people that have been coming are destructive. We need to draw families."

Constable Ernest Reich agreed. "It's pretty bad when you have to restrict your own kids from using the park. We need to get more moms and pops here."

Mauer said the county has made progress in reclaiming the park for family use. "When we first came, it looked like a landfill. We put someone down here cleaning it up and installed the big dumpster and the individual trash containers. We lost the individual containers at first. Vandalism. They'd got pushed off down into the water. They've been staying put lately. Now we need to get the grass cut and make it look more presentable. Then we'd like to put in a play ground for the kids and do something about restroom facilities."

Installing restroom facilities, Mauer said, is top priority. "Environmentalists are interested because of the contamination posibility. When you get between 200 and 300 people down here on a weekend, it's a problem."

Refueling of watercrafts on the lake is also forbidden, Mauer said, because of possible contamination.

Jim Patterson, of the BMA Water Improvement District said that his department oversees water control issues on the lake.

Game Warden Ernie Lerma said that it is the responsibility of park users to read the newly erected sign at the park. "It's the law. They pass it on the way into the park. They should take time to read it."

Lerma said Rio Medina Boy Scouts will clean the park

Mauer said the county's next step will be to figure out how to install portable restroom facilities in a way which will circumvent anyone "turning them over and pushing them into the lake." The big issue at the Medina Lake park, he said, "is the type of people we've been getting in here."

Lerma is optimistic that vandalism and other problems at the park are on the way out. "By next spring, we'll have this place like another Fiesta Texas- without the roller coaster and fireworks."

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $70.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

All the politicos, no doubt are right. It looks as though after Nov. 3, the country will either be headed south in a hand-basket propelled by Tax-and-Spend, or four more years of Trickle-Down Economics. We're done for no matter what.

Meanwhile, if our household is any indicator, Americans are going to be forced to loosen up and invest in big-ticket items. Here at the ranch, the dishwasher operates only be means of an intricate system of hand operations of all the buttons, turning off here, turning off there.

Roger Roberts has never found the knobs to replace those lost off the oven, so we likewise switch back and forth the one we have left to turn things on and off. One oven door doesn't really close, so anyone who puts the canned biscuits in the wrong place ends up with charcoal.

Down at the wash-house, the dryer works on only one cycle, and the clothes washer hiccups and quits in the middle of most spins. We should have ordered a new one but decided that the leaky water heater consisted the highest priority this week.

We are sure that Ross Perot, America's leading priority-setter, would agree with our decision, even though other things are broke and we ain't fixin' em. Not till we absolutely must.

— It is much more fun not to think about investments in our personal infrastructure but to join other fellow citizens in looking through the stack of Christmas catalogs from around the country or to go over to Comfort and dream our way through the antique shops all decked out now for the holiday season.

No offense, Fredericksburg, but you are too crowed and too stuffed with commercialized fake-country glitz. The place to go to feel the spirit of Christmas fun for which German popular art is to justly known is Comfort. Quieter. More personal. More really real.

Shirley says she would have loved to get her shop started in Bandera or Medina but couldn't find a place as welcoming as the beautifully restored nineteenth-century building adjoining what in the old days was the Brinkman Store and home.

Bandera artists like Patsy Muller with her opulent wreaths for all seasons and Pat Chapman, who makes delicate Christening bonnets for new babies out of fine linen, handkerchiefs, are represented in Shirley's shop.

These romantic things contrast with the colorful Gene Autry-style Western items such as dinnerware, table decorations, and one-of-a-kind wearables which have gone on center stage nation-wide lately in fashion circles.

— Are you keeping up with the controversy raised by national motel corporation "Comfort Inn", claiming that the old Faust Hotel in Comfort cannot operate as "Comfort Common"? Trademark infringement, they are calling it! Since Comfort, Texas, was laid out and along the Guadalupe, we think that those old free-thinkers should rise from their graves and sue the motel chain.

After all, if dead people can vote in South Texas, dead hill country Germans ought to have the right to file suit?

By Bungy

After many ups and downs, the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce has evolved, over the last few years, into a well-oiled machine, working for the betterment of the whole county. The "Hunter's Barbecue" coming up on Nov. 6 is a good example. Not only is this for out-of-towners, but locals pour in, too. Go on out and see the fun for yourself at Mansfield Park.

Election time is growing near and those running are seeking every vote possible. Well, in Kuwait, the custom is to feed anyone you've invited to your home, so when a certain candidate has a rally, he's technically inviting all those people who come to dinner. So everytime they give a speech they have to cook sheep for 2,000 or 3,000, in a huge tent, then, lay out all the plates neatly in the sand, so all can eat. Now this being a semi-democracy, the supply and demand for sheep at this time is pretty high, so the price goes up and they're finding that slipping a few camels in with the sheep is hardly noticeable (except to the camels, of course!). The logistics of the styrofoam plates, if a sudden desert sand storm comes up, is mind-boggling!

In Kentucky, they've passed a law where they can arrest you for drunk driving of a non-motorized vehicle. So the other day, they arrested a drunk cowboy on his horse and threw him in jail. One doesn't really think of Kentuckians being cowboys! I guess the other vehicles would be bicycles, those single-blade roller skates, skateboards and scooters!

Halloween's coming up and all kinds of organizations are putting on great, scary things for the county's little spooks to attend.

And for the bigger spooks, dances with prizes for best costumes and lots of fun will be in full swing. Lost Valley Ranch is opening up the famous Bella Union Dance Hall in their ghost town for this night of nights. All of these dances can be attended with or without costume. A lot of the shop windows have had a lot of effort spent on them. Books in Bloom is great. Be sure to slow down and take a peek as you're going by. The staff at the OST always does a terrific job of decorating themselves up and working all day in costume, the banks and others join in, too. So, if you can save up all your town errands for that day (Oct. 31), do it, it's worth it!

Dianna Sultenfuss, a business reporter for the S. A. Light, tells us that all the fixin's for Halloween are grown right here in Texas. Pumpkins from Floydada, popcorn (for balls) the Panhandle, and naturally, apples for bobbing, from Medina!

Archery clinic will be part of festivities

H & S Archery from San Antonio will sponsor an archery clinic for this year's Hunter's Barbecue on Friday, Nov. 6. It will be held from [illegible] p.m. to 9 p.m.

Chamber of Commerce Vice President and this year's Chairman of the Barbecue, Billy Walker, said that the archery clinic is an effort to "focus on youth." Parents, Walker said, have been reluctant to bring youngsters to the Hunter's Barbecue because of the beer and music. "This is early and it's free."

Gary Stewart, owner of H & S Archery, and Tommy Delong, manager, will not be able to close H & S early to attend the barbecue but are supporting local archers who will attend and demonstrate archery equipment and skills. Stewart has been in business at the Blanco Road location for eight years.

Delong, winner of both the Indoor and Outdoor National Archery competitions, said that the challenge of bow hunting is what drew him to the sport. "You have to sit quietly for an average of three to six hours at a time to let the deer get close enough for a shot."

He killed a seven point buck at the beginning of archery season. Archery hunting opened on Oct. 1 and runs concurrently with the general white-tailed deer season.

Delong has been bow hunting for 10 years. He shoots everyday, practicing from one to three hours at a time.

Stewart and Delong are hunting partners with Stewart's grandson, Ricky Lovelady, and with Foy Wagner. All of them are helping to sponsor the Archery Clinic at the Hunter's Barbecue. All of them also find archery a "challenging" sport. Unlike rifle hunting, bow hunters are able to hunt together in fairly close quarters. All face the same hardships: hunting in the open regardless of weather conditions; needing complete camouflage; and developing the patience to sit totally still for long periods of time.

"Gluckspiel" Oct. 24

St. Mary's school in Fredericksburg will host a Festival & Turkey Dinner and "Gluckspiel" Casino Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 24-25.

The "Gluckspiel" will be held on Saturday, and the turkey dinner will be held on Sunday.

Archery champ Tommy Delong started out bow season by bagging a seven-point buck.

Bandera's Hunters Barbecue memories are 'some of the best memories of his youth'

By Peggy Huffman
Special to the Bulletin

"Oh yes, I remember the Bandera Hunter's Barbecues during the 60s! They were some of the best times of my youth," said Joel Scott, a lawyer from Humble, Texas.

Seeing the Hunters Barbecues from a visiting hunter's viewpoint hammers home the magnitude of the goodwill this annual event brings to Bandera County.

"I was fourteen years old. My dad and I had been hunting on the Middle Verde Ranch for five years when we went to the first Hunter's Barbecue," Scott continued.

"I was a wide-eyed teenager with the appetite of a starving hippopotamus. I realize food never tastes as good after you're grown, but I remember that barbecue as being the best food ever cooked by man. At first it was mostly goat with some hog and wild meat.

"It was the custom for the ranchers or ranch hands to take their hunters to the barbecue. This gave the ranchers a chance to get to know their hunters and the hunters a chance to get to know each other. There were lots of hunters from Humble." Scott laughed, "I remember thinking there were more Humble people in Bandera during hunting season than there were in Humble."

Scott was impressed with something that no one in Bandera seems to remember. He said some man played a fiddle and danced at the same time. He didn't think the man was a member of the band. He was some local character who loved to entertain. Joel said, "All the hunters called the man the 'fiddling dancer'."

Evidently, this type of entertainment went on while the Los Gringos Band was taking a break. There were several amusing acts making their debuts at this event. In 1970 a group of ladies calling themselves the "Local Folksi Yokels" treated the hunters to their repertoire of seven songs. The crowd loved it. There was only one musician in the group: Marilyn Morris played the guitar. The other ladies, Addie Foster, Grace Hicks, Dorothy Canfield, Sherry Miller and Chubby Clendenen played such instruments as drum, tambourine, kazoo, gut bucket and washboard.

Joel Scott took another sip of coffee and gazed out the window of the OST. "I remember a little black-haired girl who sang with the band. She was just a kid but she could sure belt out a song."

Scott was remembering Janett Russell, daughter of band member, Jim Russell. Today she is Janett Moore, owner of Janett's and president of Bandera County's Chamber of Commerce.

Joel Scott grew up, got his law degree, married his childhood sweetheart and has a family. He still comes to Bandera County for the good hunting and good times.

"I like bringing my children out here," he says. "We enjoy the atmosphere of family fun. We appreciate the beautiful scenery, friendly people, good times...", he pauses and smiles.

"To us hunters, Bandera is the Heartbeat of the Hill Country."

Homecoming '92

Staff photos by Larry T. Williams

Scott Williams and Jennifer Evans were named Homecoming King and Queen.

The first grade's "Mayflower" was judged best illustration of a "picture out of history."

The sixth grade fought the Alamo battle to third place.

The Class of 1983 took a vintage ride, above, while the Apple Festival royalty rode in four-wheel style.

The Bobcat team clawed their way to a 10-7 Homecoming victory over Nueces Canyon.

It's bad enough Bill Sims voted to give himself a 324% pay raise.

Incumbent Democrat Senator Bill Sims also used $67,560.87 in campaign contributions to pay personal expenses over the last six years. Among the items he spent campaign money on were . . .

Country Club Dues	$5,860
Exclusive Austin Dining Club	$8,015
Lease for New Model Luxury Car	$8,303
Year-round Austin Condominium	$22,792
Condo Furnishings	$8,654

Texas Ethics Commission documents also show Sims spent campaign contributions on everything from a new VCR, a microwave, a new TV, bedroom suite, artwork, interior decorations, new upholstery, even utility bills and housesitting fees for his pets.

It's wrong for Bill Sims to use campaign contributions for personal living expenses.

Every year he's been in Austin, Sims spent more and more campaign money for personal use. That's what happens when we have career politicians serving with no term limits.

It's Time For A Change.

We need a State Senator committed to term limits and strong ethics.
We need Republican Troy Fraser.

BHS band to perform Saturday in Hondo

The Bandera Bulldog Band will march off to contest Saturday in Hondo.

The band will go onto the field [illegible] this [illegible] Friday, but there's more to it, said band director Milton Fox.

The band will start with the Firebird Suite, continue with music from Fantasia — play parts of Toccata and Fugue in D Minor and Night on Bald Mountain. The dance and flag team are expected to be masked and dressed in a black cape that they will open like wings to reveal a yellow and red pattern. They will do that part of the routine with their capes instead of the flags.

Also part of the show will be Hall of the Mountain King with Jess Edwards playing a tuba solo.

The competition of bands from A, AA, and AAA schools is expected to start at noon and continue until 7:30 p.m. The first band, Sabinal, is set to perform at 1 p.m.

Class AAA schools, which includes Bandera, will begin performing at 4:45 p.m.

Hondo's marching band is scheduled to perform at 7:15 p.m., and they will be the last band to perform.

FOREST FOR SHERIFF

A Native Son & WW II Vet

Dear Friends,

Together we have accomplished much since the last election. We have fought a successful battle against drugs. We generated over 1/2 million dollars through seizures and forfeitures. Since June 1992, we have seized over 1/2 million dollars worth of marijuana. You now have a modern well-equipped sheriff's department with well-trained personnel paid for with the drug money. We have cut the burglary rate and other crimes and made Bandera County a safer place to live. We are actively and aggressively pursuing the criminals, and yes, the word is out: Bandera County is tough on crime! Together, we are winning the battle against crime. We have accomplished much, but we still have a long battle ahead. I am asking for your vote and support this election in order to continue our successful policies.

Thank you.

Sheep and goat vote set

The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association is sponsoring an October Sheep and Goat Referendum for predator control. If passed by producers during an Oct. 29 ballot election, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., the referendum will provide funds solely for predator control. Funds are to be raised through a per-head-sold checkoff of not more than 20 cents per head.

Any sheep and goat producer whose operation lies within 111 designated Texas counties (see map) is eligible to vote.

Ballots will indicate: First, whether or not the voting producer is interested in supporting a referendum dedicated to area-wide predator control, which would be additional control on predation and second, producers will vote for three directors to represent their district on the commodity producers' board, provided the referendum passes.

Prospective board member candidates must contact the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association office for necessary paper work. They also need ten producer names on a petition to be listed on the ballot.

The local county Extension offices serves as the voting site.

For more information about the referendum, contact the Bandera County Extension Office, 796-7755.

Youth center group invites folks to 'bring your own sack lunch'

The Bandera County Youth Center, Inc. will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 27 at noon at Mansfield Park. Those wishing to attend should bring their own sack lunch. Tea and lemonade will be provided.

The meeting will be to discuss plans for a basketball court site and the cost of construction. Election of officers will also be held, according to spokesman James MacMillan. He says that parents of children participating in soccer may particularly be interested in attending Tuesday's meeting.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

Mark Twain once confessed that he could live for three weeks on a compliment, and Twain was not an exceptionally vain man. He was just admitting openly what most of us feel privately.

One might say there is good flattery and bad flattery. Bad flattery is the kind which the flatterer engages in because it will "pay" him. He might get something out of it. No person of sense or sensibility can help but see through it and despise it.

The other sort of flattery-the good flattery-is not extended because it gives profit to the donor but because it gives pleasure to the recipient. And most of us need this sort of life from time to time.

When most of us pay a compliment, we generally pay it to the person's strongest, and most obvious, point. But to do the greatest good a compliment should be directed to the person's weakest point-or what he thinks is his weakest point.

Twain could not be elated because somebody came up and told him what a fine writer he was; the whole world accepted that fact. But he was radiant if someone complimented him on an invention he had helped develop...

Oscar Wilde once said-"An acquaintance that begins with a compliment is sure to develop into a real friendship."

Extended & branch voting continues here

First ever Saturday voting scheduled Oct. 24 at the courthouse

By James Henry Frazar

Branch voting continues in Bandera County Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Lakehills Civic Center and the Pipe Creek Community Center. Voting hours will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Also, the first ever Saturday voting in Bandera County courthouse Oct. 24 from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The Bandera County Clerk's office will also conduct a public testing of the new ballot counting machine Thursday, Oct. 29, at 9 a.m.

Early voting — what has been called absentee voting in the past — continues Monday through Friday at the clerk's office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., including during the lunch hour. The last day of early voting is Oct. 30 for the Nov. 3 general election.

Turnout in the branch voting was small — 10 persons at Vanderpool and 10 persons at Medina. Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates said she expects to conduct branch voting next time, but will publicize the opportunity earlier and will probably start branch voting on the eastern side of the county rather than the western end. "I want the people to have the opportunity to vote," she said.

Any registered voter in any precinct can vote at either the Lakehills or Pipe Creek location, as the clerk's office will have ballots from all precincts at each of the branch locations. Essentially, branch voting is early voting at a temporary location and at a location other than the courthouse.

In early voting at the courthouse, 202 persons had cast their ballots through Tuesday and [illegible] received a request for 168 mailout ballots by Tuesday morning.

The county traded in its manual [illegible] and has purchased an approximately $30,000 automatic ballot counting machine. Bates estimates that with the new ballot counter, the clerk's office should be through processing the Nov. 3 election by 10 p.m., complete with every report they have to issue.

However, the exact time of the end of ballot counting will depend on when the ballots get to the courthouse from the 10 polling places in 11 precincts across the county. (Two Medina precincts both vote at the Medina school.)

Local offices up for election include the sheriff, county tax assessor-collector, county attorney, the constables in all four commissioner precincts, county commissioners from precinct 1 and 3, peace justice precinct 2 (unexpired term previously held by Preston Boggs).

The regular peace justice election for all four justices of the peace will be held in two years.

Other seats up for election include District Judge and District Attorney for the 216th Judicial District, state board of education member, State Senator District 25, State Representative District 73.

Wild and young, but an ideal house guest; the night-rambling, potty-trained opossum is on the way back to the wild.

Is it really housebroken? opossumbly so...

Bandera has it's own category for "Believe it or Not." A Lakehills' family thought it was unique to be raising a litter box-trained baby opossum until they learned of a Medina Shores' couple who had a toilet-trained opossum!

The wild visitor entered the couple's home nightly and flawlessly used their commode. That is, flawlessly unless one minds bath powder opossum tracks on the seat and occasional wet spots when the animal failed to aim properly.

Even though the wild animal had such nice house manners, the couple trapped the opossum and sent it out to a ranch where it has room to roam, but alas, not the convenience of indoor plumbing.

In Tennessee, they were in Gatlinburg, and went from there to Pigeon Ford, seeing shows there. They also saw Dolly Parton's famous home called "Dollywood" and also "Opryland". [illegible] recording studios were in residential areas of bungalow homes and even log cabins. They drove back through the French Quarter in New Orleans. They were gone a week and drove Don's large bus, equipped with beds and all conveniences. After Billie arrived home, she visited old friends Sterling and Sally Baber of Austin and spent four days with them. Sally was in the hospital.

...e will be discharged

Conrad Berube, son of the late Conrad Berube and Olivia Berube, will be discharged [illegible] ors on Dec. 10.

Berube is a 1988 graduate of Bandera High School. He enlisted in the Navy and worked at Lackland Air Force [illegible] Basic Training in San Diego, CA, on Oct. 10, 1988. He is [illegible] "Arcadia."

Berube's father died when he was a little over two years old. He began working for a farmer at age 13 to help his mother meet expenses. He also worked selling cedar posts, for Cotton Fitzgerald, and at Super S. He put in such late hours at Super S that he often fell asleep in class. Once he was asked by a teacher if he would like to go home and sleep, then come back later to take the exam. He refused the kindness, saying he would "be okay."

They came, they walked-- and they were 700 strong

Over 700 volksporters took part in the Medina Valley Volksport Club 10km walk and 25km bike events at Siesta Valley Ranch on Oct. 10-11.

The first walk, in 1989, drew 483 walkers.

[illegible] plans for the 1993 walk are already underway. The Medina club is one of 14 scheduled to put on a walk in conjunction with the AVA 8th Biennial Convention in Austin. It is expecting 1,000 volksporters from around the country and around the world.

The walk went around the lake, up the canyons and, for the strong of heart, up the [illegible] which is located 10 miles west of Medina, began when cowboys on horseback directed cars into parking slots. Three hundred walkers received their start [illegible]

The walk went around the lake, up the canyons and, for the strong of heart, up the [illegible] 2kms extra. Newer walkers were able to take advantage of a 5km walk which was designed as a "confidence-builder."

Oranges and bananas were at all check points as well as Utopia spring water.

When walkers/bikers came to the finish, each spun the famous Wheel of Fortune. Everyone won something; a water bottle, fanny pack; t-shirt; walking stick, or pair of SAS walking shoes. Prizes were furnished by the SAS Shoemakers.

SAS Shoes and Utopia Water co-sponsored the family-oriented [illegible] walk in Medina will be held in March.

A walk is scheduled almost every weekend in the Central Texas/Hill Country area.

Meteor showers continue this week

Look in the sky, it's a bird, it's a plane, it's a ..., it's a ..., but it's dark — it must be a meteor!

The Orionid meteor shower is expected to continue this week. These meteors are in the orbit of Halley's Comet.

As many as 15-30 meteors per hour are expected to fall from the sky and burn up in the atmosphere creating the fast, colorful streak across the sky.

The best time to see the meteors are after midnight and before dawn in the eastern sky.

Clouds could interfere with the meteor display.

Justice
Ron Carr
Court of Appeals

Dear Bandera County Voter,

I take this means to personally ask for your vote and support for re-election to the Court of Appeals.

I am the only candidate with any Appellate Judicial Experience. In my first three years on the court I have served on 225 court panels, have authored over 200 court opinions, and have participated in the resolution of over 600 pending appeals in 150 fields of law. My record on the Fourth Court of Appeals is one of independence, impartiality, and productiveness. No other candidate can bring this actual on-the-job experience to the court.

In addition to my judicial service on the Court I was a leader in the organization and adoption of the Fourth Court of Appeals Alternate Dispute Resolution Program and the Fourth court's first written Internal Rules. The court's new ADR program will provide an effective alternate local forum for the early voluntary resolution of pending appeals at no cost to the tax-payer.

In the area of law enforcement my re-election is endorsed by the several Police Officer's Associations and numerous District Attorneys and County Sheriffs across the 32 County District because of my strong commitment to law enforcement and effective criminal justice.

In addition, I believe that it is both an asset and benefit to the entire district to have on the Court an elected Justice from a rural county with a rural perspective. I am proud to serve as that rural Justice.

I ask for your vote to continue serving the people of the district to provide the effective justice you deserve.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is asking the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to provide optional Extended Metropolitan Service (EMS) between the Bandera exchange and the San Antonio exchange beginning July 1993, and the Hondo exchange beginning October 1993.

EMS is an optional service that will provide customers in the Bandera exchange unlimited, two-way calling between the two exchanges for a fixed monthly rate. Currently, those calls are billed by Southwestern Bell as long-distance calls.

If approved by the PUC, residence customers would have the option of EMS for a monthly rate of $36.80. EMS would be available for one-party business customers at a monthly rate of $81.10; for multi-line hunting business customers for $85.25; for PBX trunk business customers for $125.95; and for hotel/motel trunk for $69.85.

Because of technological reasons, customers who subscribe to EMS would also be required to change their telephone number. Service connection charges for number changes will apply.

Customers are not required to subscribe to EMS and, if desired, can continue using long-distance service to call between the Bandera exchange and the San Antonio and Hondo exchanges.

The PUC has assigned this matter Project No. 11485. Interested persons should direct any comments that they may have about the Company's application to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Or they may call the PUC's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

For questions regarding how EMS service operates, please call Southwestern Bell's business office at the number listed in your local telephone directory.

Once the application for EMS is approved, customers will receive information in the mail about EMS, as well as a ballot to subscribe to the service.

American Legion pavilion project begins

Construction on the new outdoor covered pavilion at the Lakehills American Legion Post has begun.

The dream of almost doubling the Legion's seating capacity and expanding their beer garden started Wednesday, Oct. 14, when contractor Paul Wilson began spreading dirt at the site next to the Legion post home.

Adrian and Gladys Heisler of Lakehills donated the 100-foot by 180-foot piece of property next to the post to the Legion.

The pavilion will be open air, cover 2,400-square feet, have a 20-foot bar, and a ramp from the ground to the floor. The pavilion will have an air space in the roof to take hot air up or bring cool air in. With the ramp, the pavilion will be handicapped accessible.

When a band plays for an outdoor event at the Legion, they'll be in the pavilion instead of the grass in the beer garden or on the ground of the parking lot. The chili cook-off will be held aorund the pavilion.

But post commander Tony Kruse says the Legion's beer garden is not being abandoned. The garden will be close to the pavilion — within parent's eye shot of their children.

Hey Tony, start shoveling! Lakehills American Legion Post 410 commander Tony Kruse pauses with an "honorary"shovel as contractor Paul Wilson starts laying down the first load of fill dirt for the Legion's new 2,400-square foot outdoor covered pavilion Oct. 14.

Wharton's Dock

Bud Clarlo

It is normally a good feeling attending church, but Sunday 18 October it turned out to be a great one. Gilbert Koepke who underwent very serious surgery two weeks ago walked in the Walker Memorial Chapel for morning service. Gilbert had four bypasses and is slowly regaining his strength. He asked to go up to the pulpit to say a few words; he wanted to thank the congregation for their prayers, cards and concern. Making it a great day was Becky Atnip, daughter of Rev. Ken and Susan Brown, who sang a duet with Jonathan C. Donley from San Antonio. They accompanied themselves playing their guitars.

Bill and Margaret Holmes enjoyed visiting with Bill's sister Betty and her husband Lane Lewis from Arlington this past weekend.

Well, Saturday, 24 October is the day for you to try out your shooting eye, and/or look for that special something at the Flea Market and Turkey Shoot at the Lakeshore VFD, Wharton's Dock. There will also be bingo, a country store, and Mexican food. The country store will feature home-baked items such as cakes, pies and other good-tasting items.

T. and Mary Blakeney of Wharton's Dock have just returned from a short but enjoyable vacation, a four-day cruise to the Bahamas. They went on Carnivale Cruise line ship, the Carnavale. They had four wonderful nights on a floating hotel. They report that the food and service was superb. The scenery and sun deck were greatly enjoyed. Mary says, there was so much to see and do that there just was not enough hours in the day to see and do it all. T. enjoyed skeet shooting off the stern of the ship. Mary stated that T. was the only shooter on board to shoot a perfect round.

VLVFD Auxiliary elects officers

Margaret Buchanan was elected president when the Medina Lake Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary elected officers.

Kathy Bradshaw was elected vice president; Mary A. Correa will serve as secretary; and Dollie Dresser will be this year's treasurer.

The telephone committee includes: Ruth Cowley, Marge Mayer, Dollie Dresser and Maggie Buchanan.

The membership committee includes Ruth Glover and one member from all the other committees.

June Settlemeyer will be in charge of publicity. Cecilia Hartmann will be this year's Sunshine person. Mary Alice Henry will be the historian.

Election watch scheduled Nov. 3 at Lakehills American Legion

The Lakehills American Legion will host an election watch, Tuesday, Nov. 3, at their post following bingo.

Post commander Tony Kruse estimates that the election watch will start about 9:30 p.m. and he invites all candidates and voters to come and watch the results come in.

Kruse said the Legion will bring out a toteboard for local election results and a television for national results.

If any election result becomes known before 9:30 p.m., Kruse said they'd announce the results during bingo.

Persons attending are asked to bring snacks and "munchies" to share. The Legion's bar will be open.

"All candidates are invited to drop in and meet with the citizens," says Kruse.

Lakeshore VFD to host turkey shoot

Persons looking to try their aim at shotgun target shooting hoping for a frozen turkey reward should be at the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department's firehouse on Wharton's Dock Road Saturday, Oct. 24.

The department will host its annual fundraising "turkey shoot" beginning at 10 a.m.

Shooters will compete in one of three categories: 16-year-old-and-up (adult), 12-15-year-olds (junior), and up to 11-year-olds (little junior).

The cost per adult per round is $2 and the department will ask for a 25 cent donation to cover the cost of the shotgun shells.

Shooters are invited to bring their own guns, but the department would like everyone to use the same type of shells so everyone has an equal chance. The department will have 20-, 16-, and 12- and 410-gauge shells (7 1/2 shot) available and a limited number of shotguns available for use.

Fourteen shooters will line up and shoot at targets. The closest to the bull's eye will win a 12 to 16 pound frozen Butterball turkey, says organizer Wayne Hildenburg.

Bass club to conduct tournament Oct. 31

The Lake Medina Bass Club will host its first tournament of the 1992-93 season and the "Top Six Fish-off" for the 1991-92 season Saturday, Oct. 31.

Boak check will be held from 6 to 6:30 a.m. at the Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Center in Mico. Start time is 6:45 a.m. Weigh-in is 3 p.m. at the Lackland Marina.

Candidate forum set

A "Meet the Candidates" bipartisan political forum will be held Saturday, Oct. 24 at the Lakehills Civic Center. The event begins at 3 p.m., and refreshments will be available.

State and local candidates have been invited to the event.

Utopia United Methodists celebrate 100th anniversary

Members of the Utopia United Methodist Church celebrated their 100th [illegible] this past weekend with non-stop festivities. Activities included a mens' breakfast, womens' luncheon, covered dish supper, special worship services and singing, and a historical tour of the Jones Cemetery.

Perhaps the most festive event was a special parade of horses and colorful wagons filled with "pioneers", reminiscent of the frontier days when the early Methodists held "brush arbor" camp meetings.

The sanctuary building, still in use today, was built in the early 1890s by members of the congregation. However, Methodists of the Sabinal Canyon gathered as a congregation as early as 1859. They met either at members' homes or in the old log schoolhouses.

In the summers the church members would travel by buggy, wagon, or horseback, some of them travelling for days, to hold revivals which came to be known as "brush arbor days." Says 86-year-old Katherine Redden, who has been a member of the Utopia congregation since she was a child, "the men went down and cut sycamore trees and covered the arbor with them...and out down hay to lay the babies on."

And then what a time they had. These revivals often lasted for two weeks or more. The [illegible] played and swam in the cool waters of the Sabinal River. The congregation camped in covered wagons under the stars and cooked over open fires. They engaged in worship and hymn singing throughout the day and into the night.

Pastors, called "circuit riders", travelled for days, braving the dangers of the trail in order to direct the worship services. After the sanctuary building was completed, the brush arbor meetings became more of a symbolic event rather than one of necessity.

In 1967, the Texas State Historical Survey Committee designated the sanctuary building a "historical building." The building is a beautiful example of early Texas architecture, with Gothic style windows and a pretty steeple. A monument not only to their faith, but to hope, to future generations, it has endured. Hand-hewn 100 years ago, withstanding the test of time, like so many of its lifelong members.

A full historical account of the Church has been written and published in 1992 by Annalee Burns, titled, "A History of the Utopia United Methodist Church", Nortex Press.

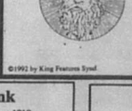
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

God Does Wonderful Things

"O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things; plans formed of old, faithful and sure."

— Isaiah 25:1



Three words, "plans formed of old, faithful and sure," bring round the famous apothegm, "Grow Me Thee Old Time Religion." That old time religion has endured for some 20 centuries now, built on the old, faithful and sure. God, indeed, has done wonderful things, as any who ponder on the mission of the cross and the life therein will appreciate. Enormous wonderment is that He has planned so well, providing a functional use for everything and everyone in this world's existence and a haven ahead for all when our mortality days are over.

Rickie Gard makes a difficult tackle in Friday's Bulldog match against Hondo.

Bulldogs beat Hondo 15-14 Friday in Bandera gridiron confrontation

The Bandera Bulldogs met the Hondo Owls on the Bandera gridiron and the local varsity boys came away with a close 15-14 win.

While the score of the game [illegible] that's where it ended. The Bulldogs played better than against Ingram, but slipped up here and there.

Bandera head coach Chris Storer said the game was close because Bandera made mistakes at the wrong time and that helped Hondo to score.

Scoring started early in the second quarter with 10:50 on the clock. Senior tight end Trey D'Spain made a 55-yard pass reception from senior quarterback Terry Robertson for six. Sophomore Jimmy Stroud kicked the extra point for a 7-0 Bandera score.

With less than a minute to go in the third quarter, Hondo's Gauna threw a long bomb from mid-field to set up first and goal.

From there, senior wingback Jimmy Gonzales ran the ball eight yards for Hondo's first score of the night.

In a switch-oh, change-oh point-after play, Hondo set up to kick the extra point, shifted position to a regular play and Gauna passed to Gonzales again. The Bandera defenders got to Gauna, but not before he crossed the goal line.

The third quarter ended with the two-point conversion. It looked uncomfortable for the Bulldogs with a 8-7 Hondo lead, but then there was a full quarter to go.

Bandera took the kick-off at the goal line and the Bandera receiver slipped and fell to his knees. The ball was marked inches from the goal line. Three plays later, Bandera punts and Hondo's senior Ermilio Quintanilla runs past Bandera defenders to the Bandera 21-yard line. It's starting to look bad.

On the fourth play of the drive, Gauna executes a 3-yard pass to [illegible] for six points.

More trickiness as Hondo sets for the place kick, but there's no fooling the Bulldogs as the Owls shift to a regular play for razzle-dazzle. The ball is handed off to junior halfback Albert DeLeon, who tries a pass, but the throw is blocked by Bandera.

The score is 14-7 Hondo, but there's hope.

Bandera drives on the strength of junior running back Robert Bradford's open field running and second-effort rushes and two long passes to senior wingback J.B. Neuenschwander when Robertson was being chased by two Owls both times.

Bandera scored with 2:21 left from the 1-yard line with Bradford through the line of a tight formation. The result is a 14-13 score, still in Hondo's favor.

No switch-oh, change-oh here. Bandera sets up for two points, Robertson keeps the ball and runs around the line on the near side for a heart-stopping two points.

Hondo tried desperately to score, but energized Bandera defenders clobbered the Owl pass receivers. With 1:44 left, Beesley with third and four inches to go, is caught from behind while trying for a pass and on fourth and seven Bandera's Aaron Lacey Jr. almost intercepts a pass.

With Bandera with the ball back on the Hondo 15 yard-line, Robertson takes the snap and kneels on the ground to keep any last breath of hope out of the Owls' sails despite being in easy scoring range. But then, it's only a minute to go. Why take chances?

The Bandera Bulldogs extended their District 26-AAA record to 4-0 with the win.

[illegible] of Bandera offensive mistakes and very good play by Hondo — a team that was 1-2 in district and 2-4 overall coming into Friday's game.

"They (Hondo) were gambling," said Storer. "They had lost two games in a row, saw that the game was close (early), and they saw they had a chance. "They played better (Friday night) than in their last four games.

They gambled by playing unusual defensive formations. "They left some open areas." Bandera took advantage of the openness and worked a screen pass — something they've not done well this year — and a "hide" pass (similar to a screen).

Hondo also played quarterback shuffle in the second half — alternating last year's starting quarterback senior Doug Beesley (who was injured early this year) and this year's starting quarterback junior Arthur Gauna.

Storer said Bandera's mistakes on offense — jumping offsides, a fumble and interception — helped Hondo. "Our defense played real well. Our offense played well enough to win.

The defense played so well, they sacked the quarterback six times giving the two quarterbacks a combined net of negative 33 yards rushing.

Stats on the night. Bandera had four penetrations and 12 first downs. Hondo had two and eight.

Bandera rushed for 134 yards and Hondo 55 yards. In the passing category, Bandera passed seven times, completed four, was intercepted once and gained 117 yards in the air. Hondo has 19 attempts, 11 completions, one interception and 111 yards in the air.

Both teams punted four times. Hondo had a 31-yard average and Bandera a 28-year average. Penalties were seven for 49 yards for Hondo, five for 40 yards for Bandera. Both teams fumbled once and lost the ball once.

The rushing leader for Bandera was Bradford with 31 for 120 yards. Storer was trying something Friday night and on the run — Bradford got the ball most of the time.

Mixed couples golf group enjoys covered dish event

The Flying L Mixed Couples Golf Association had a new experience Saturday, Oct. 17.

Forty-five members had a covered dish supper at the home of Bill and Carmen Boyington at 6 p.m.

At 7:45 the group started play on the back nine for a scramble. Special lighted balls were used and the cart paths and tee boxes were lit with luminarias. The greens had a dimly-lit flagstick. No artificial light was allowed during the play.

The winners were Cameron Walter, Art Haner, Jean Sanchez and Carol Martin in first place. Ron Merier, Ray Mauer, Flossie Allen and Joyce Quarles came in second. Steve McHorse, Tommy Miller, Georgeanna Brestel and Iris Mauer took third and Mark Lascano, Larry Upton, Kim Martin and Judy Taylor won fourth place.

All returned to the Boyingtons for coffee and dessert and to compare play. Everyone reported having a great time and no one was lost in the rough. The weather also cooperated to make it a memorable event.

The next play will begin at 3 p.m. Sunday, October 25. Interested golfers are invited to join the group.

Bandera JV remains undefeated

The Bandera Junior Varsity football team remains undefeated this year after beating Hondo 30-1 at Hondo.

T.J. Lukachik and Domingo Hinosa both intercepted Hondo passes.

The JV is now 6-0 on the season.

The freshman played Hondo in Hondo and came up with a 14-6 loss.

The eighth and seventh grade football teams played Hondo in Bandera. The eighth grade lost 22-0 and the seventh grade won 18-0.

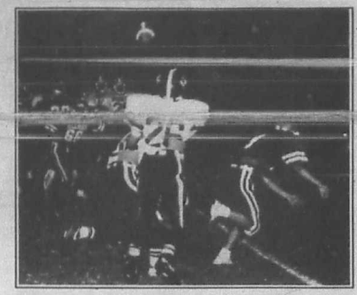
BULLDOGS

BANDERA

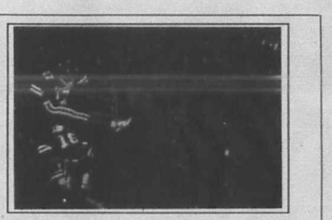


Bulldog defensive back Aaron Lacey bats down a Hondo pass in the closing seconds of the game. The fourth down incompletion ended the Owls final hope of a last minute victory drive.

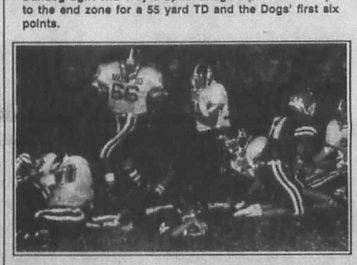
With the slimmest of leads and 1:44 left in the game Coach Storer and Adam Alvise discuss how to shut down Hondo's offense one final time.

Bulldog tight end Trey D'Spain snags a pass and romps to the end zone for a 55 yard TD and the Dogs' first six points.

HERE'S THE SCORE



Jimmy Stroud tacks on an extra point to give the 'Dogs a 7-0 first quarter lead.



Robert Bradford dives into the end zone for the Bulldogs' second touchdown. With less than two minutes in the game the 'Dogs have pulled within one, 14-13.

Bulldog quarterback Terry Robertson would not be turned away from the end zone on the two point conversion. The score gave the 'Dogs the lead and the win 15-14.

Bobcat Nathan Vannatter boots a 30-yard field goal during Medina's 10-7 Homecoming victory over the Nueces Canyon Panthers Friday, Oct. 16. Scott Faglie (83) later ran a fumble recovery 92 yards for the 'Cats go-ahead score.

Linebacker leads Bobcats to 10-7 Homecoming win over Nueces Canyon

Bobcat linebacker Scott Faglie pinched a Panther fumble and scampered 92 yards for a touchdown to lead Medina to a 10-7 homecoming win over Nueces Canyon Friday, Oct 16. The victory was the first for a Medina homecoming since 1990 and bumped the Bobcats to a 3-1 record in District 28-A.

The Panthers were on the Medina eight yard line with 7:38 remaining to play and a 7-3 lead when Jason Small and Faglie charged through the Nueces Canyon line and disrupted the play.

Small smacked quarterback Brian Borchardt causing him to fumble while Faglie snatched the football in mid-air and charged 92 untouched yards for the winning TD. Nathan Vannatter tacked on the extra point.

The Panther players were so shocked by the fluke play that Faglie got a 15 yard head start before anyone realized what had happened. That was enough to make him the hero of the night.

The game was a tough defensive grind with both teams stopping each other short of the goal line several times.

Nueces Canyon finally scored with 51 seconds left in the first half when Panther quarterback Borchardt dropped back to punt on fourth down and instead tossed a surprise pass to Billy Joe Nevarez. The Bobcats rushed ten men with hopes of blocking the expected punt, so Nevarez was able to race to the score down a clear field. Adam Hidalgo kicked the extra point to give the Panthers a 7-0 halftime lead.

The Bobcats got back in the game mid-way through the third period when Vannatter booted a booming 30 yard field goal on fourth down. Vannatter really put his leg into the kick. The ball sailed far enough to have scored from the 50 yard stripe.

Medina faces Rocksprings on the road Friday, Oct. 23 and then journeys to Leakey the following week. The Bobcats will end their regular season play at home against arch rival Center Point on Nov. 6.

Medina cross country girls ranked high in the state

Medina's girls' cross country runners are ranked at least fifth in the state according to Track and Field News and team coach Greg Harbour.

"That probably will move us even higher in the ranking."

Misti Wells led her teammates at Ingram with a 13:20 fourth-place finish, followed by Alicia Mims, tenth at 13:54, Laki Johnson, 12th at 13:56 and Sherri Scafidi, 22nd at 14:23. Becky Taylor, Kelly Lookingbill and Dusty Reed finished 23rd, 35th and 41st respectively.

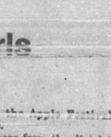
Junior High runner Sherri Lautzenheiser placed a heart-breaking step behind winner Regina Montague of Bandera. Lautzenheiser, who led the race until the final few yards, finished with a 13:43 time.

Shane Keese paced his high school mates with a ninth-place finish.

Medina has a week to rest before hosting the district cross-country meet on Saturday, Oct. 31. The Junior High runners will start at 10 a.m. at Cinco B Ranch. The course will wind around and cross the Medina River at Moffitt Park and then wind to the finish line at the Alamo Downs grounds.

Winners from the district race will advance to the regional meet at UTSA in San Antonio.

In this year's election for State Representative you have a choice. A choice between a candidate who says he is a conservative but then goes to Austin and votes with the liberal special interests, or a man who will give his pledge to never, ever vote to raise your taxes. Period.



"My name is John Petsch Brelsford. I'm a farmer and rancher, and own a small business. I know how much higher taxes and more government regulations have hurt Texas. If you elect me as your State Representative I will say "no" to a state income tax, "no" to a statewide property tax. "No" to higher taxes of any kind. You have my word on it. And you can count on that."

Jockey Stu Dolphus wins futurities at Bandera Downs Sunday, Oct. 18

Jockey Stu Dolphus rides back on illusive Princess after winning the Alamo Quarter Horse Breeders Futurity Sunday at Bandera Downs.

Jockey Stu Dolphus, in recently from New Mexico, made his mark on Bandera Downs racing Sunday.

He won both $50-yard futurities, the Horse of Texas Breeders Futurity Division II on 11-1 A Simply Bye Bye and the $72,177.50 Alamo Quarter Horse Breeders Association Futurity aboard 4-1 Illusive Princess.

Dolphus and A Simply Bye Bye beat out 6-1 El Cabete by a nose. The 9-5 favorite, Heza Mean Jet, ran third by a neck. The race was close throughout, with most any horse in a position to take the win.

Dolphus and Illusive Princess won by 1 1/4 lengths. The 2-1 favorite Smasher Jackstraw ran fifth.

Dolphus was so excited Sunday he couldn't remember at the moment if he'd won two futurities in one day before. But he did remember about the Alamo Futurity. "This is the third time I've won this futurity. I won it twice at Del Rio," said Dolphus.

Princess, Jerry Windham of Bryan, said his 2-year-old filly would most likely be turned out to pasture for the rest of the season and resume racing in Texas in 1993.

Windham said his filly started ... and ran well in the Freshman Futurity trials at Bandera. But she ... for the Alamo trials.

Kansas Futurity moves to Bandera Downs

After nearly 40 years, the Grade I Kansas Futurity has been moved from Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico to Bandera Downs in Texas during the 1993 racing season. One of the highlights of the quarter horse racing season, the Grade I Kansas Futurity will compliment an ever-expanding series of racing in the state of Texas. The Grade I Kansas Futurity along with the Grade I Graham Farms Futurity adds even more prestige to the growing racing program at Bandera Downs.

The prestigious Kansas Derby will also be moved to Bandera Downs in 1994. The addition of the Kansas Futurity and the Kansas Derby to the Bandera Downs racing program will mean a strong influx of superior racing quarter horses making their way to Texas. "We are ecstatic to have the Kansas Futurity and the Kansas Derby at Bandera Downs," said general manager Billy Bowers. "With an early racing program of the Grade I Graham Farms Futurity and the Grade I Kansas Futurity, we expect to possibly attract some of the best two-year-old quarter horses in the nation," continued Bowers.

Quarter horse is 'fastest athlete'

The American Quarter Horse has been billed as "America's Fastest Athlete." Some of the fastest quarter horses have been clocked at speeds of over 40 mph. Unlike their counterparts, the thoroughbreds, quarter horses are bred to run a short distance of ground at full speed. The quarter horse actually derived his name from his amazing ability to sprint 440 yards at top speed.

"I'm Voting For Troy Fraser

To be our new State Senator. Troy is a businessman who has built his own business. He knows what it's like to meet a payroll, fight frivolous lawsuits and pay high taxes and workers' compensation insurance. Troy also realizes Texas' new business income tax is costing Texas jobs.

Bill Sims, Troy's opponent, is a career politician and was the committee sponsor of Texas' first business income tax.

We need real change in Austin.
We need Troy Fraser in the Texas Senate."

Local forgery ring foiled by lawmen

By Larry T. Williams
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera Sheriff's Department investigators broke up a burglary and forgery ring Monday night, Oct. 26 with the arrest of four Bandera residents.

Super S cashier Jol Lynn Peterson, 17, and 25-year-old Margie Martinez were arrested and jailed on one count each of burglary and one count each of forgery, according to Sergeant Lynn Holt. Two female juveniles were also detained and transferred to the Juvenile Detention Center in Hondo, Holt said.

The arrests were the result of a month long investigation that began after an individual reported his suspicion of a forged check and ended with the discovery of post office boxes being tampered with and checks in excess of $500 being forged.

The original $70 check was passed at Bandera Ice House, cleared the bank and was returned to the writer in a statement. The forgery was not discovered until the person to whom the check was originally written called the writer and reported not having received the chit.

"When we first began our investigation, we were up and down," said Holt. "We would make progress and then everything would come to a halt. But the more we looked into the case, the more people we found involved. We finally got a tip (from an un-named source) that tied it all together and we moved on the suspects."

According to Holt, the suspects had devised a way of opening the combination locks on the post office boxes and were sifting the mails for money and checks. Any mail that was not of interest to the thieves was replaced and the box relocked with no trace of the tampering evident.

A $550 check and one for $175 was passed at Super S, and a $350 burner got by Boyle's Market. Other checks ranging in amounts from $10 to $25 were slipped through Herby's and Bandera Ice House.

"The federal investigators may prosecute the whole case," said Holt. "They are real interested since burglary of post office boxes and mail tamperings are part of the case."

Holt asked for the public's assistance in locating two checks, known to be forged but still missing from the evidence. "One is a $10 check which was made out blank at Herby's. The forger wrote in "Herby's" in the pay to slot and also wrote a fake 796 telephone number on the back. The second bouncer again was cashed at Herby's and is for $25 and signed by Debbie or Debra someone from Medina." If these checks show up in a persons bank statement, the Bandera Sheriff's Department would like to hear from that person.

Election Day is Nov. 6, but more than 1,000 have already voted

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Voters will go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 3 for the general election, but Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates said extended voting turnout has been "real good." As of Tuesday, Oct. 27, 1,011 of Bandera's 6,776 registered voters have voted early.

With three days remaining for early voting, an average of 100 to 150 voters daily are filing into the Bandera Courthouse to vote. Early voting will end at 5 p.m. on Friday, October 30. In the meantime, any registered voter in any area of the county may vote at the Courthouse location.

No ballots will be tallied until the November 3rd election day. Absentee ballots will be counted during the day beginning at 10 a.m. on Nov. 3. Other ballots will not be counted until after the polls close at 7 p.m.

The new computerized ballot counter will be tested on Thursday, Oct. 29 at 9 a.m. The public is invited to attend the machine testing.

Bates said that this year's absentee voting may be "one of the largest ever. I'd have to check figures, but I really believe it's a record." So far, 143 ballots have been received through the mail, 69 of them from individuals in the military service.

Bulldogs shut out Somerset 3-0

Bandera and Medina Valley currently tied for first in District

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

It was so close.

The Bandera Bulldogs shut out the Somerset Bulldogs 3-0 with a 33-yard field goal by sophomore Jimmy Stroud in the last 14 seconds of the game.

With the win, Bandera keeps it perfect string of wins in district play going and with Medina Valley beating Devine, Bandera and Medina Valley share first place with district records of 5-0 in District 26-AAA play.

Both Bandera's and Somerset's defenses were on top of their game and were a strong contributing factor to the low score. "Our defense played really well," said head coach Chris Storer. "Somerset has an excellent defensive line."

Bandera's defense kept Somerset from scoring, but Bandera's offense still suffered the same problem that's faced them for the last couple of weeks. "Our offense was not playing well," said Storer.

Bandera had at least three scoring opportunities beyond the game-winning one, but the offense didn't come away with any points.

Bandera was driving for a touchdown and fumbled the ball away — Somerset recovered the ball on the 1-yard line. Another time, a Bandera receiver dropped the ball in the end zone.

"We were moving the ball fairly well. We had a 90-yard drive on one series," said Storer.

Stroud had the chance to add 3 points in the first half, but the try was wide to the right of the uprights. The attempt was from 35 yards out and he missed by a foot. Storer has confidence in the sophomore. "Jimmy's a good kicker."

Bandera also was in trouble at one point when Somerset blocked a punt. But the Bandera defense kept them from capitalizing on the recovery.

Somerset also got to Bandera quarterback Terry Robertson at least three times in the second half when he was scrambling to pass.

Bandera had 14 first downs, to Somerset's 5; Bandera had 2 penetrations to Somerset's none.

Bandera was assessed with four penalties for 20 yards and Somerset seven for 32 yards. Bandera lost one fumble, Somerset none.

In the punting department, Bandera kicked the ball away four times for an average 37-yards. Somerset punted seven times for an average 35 yards.

In passing, Bandera threw the ball 11 times, completed five, lost one to an interception for a total of 80 yards. Somerset put the ball in the air 10 times, completed four and gave none away to interceptions for a total of 47 yards. Most of the 47 yards came on one play.

In the rushing department, Somerset moved the ball on the ground for a total of 67 yards and Bandera 135 yards.

Bandera's rushing leaders were Robert Bradford with 108 yards on 31 carries and Marlon Santos with five carries for 31 yards.

Bulldog receiver J.B. Neuenschwander snares a sideline pass and picks up a 1st down in Bandera's Friday win over Somerset's Bulldogs.

A "guest editorial"

Dear editor:

The following was written by Abraham Lincoln:

"You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
You cannot strengthen the weak, by weakening the strong.
You cannot help the wage earner, by pulling down the wage payer.
You cannot further the brotherhood of man, by encouraging class hatred.
You cannot help the poor, by destroying the rich
You cannot keep out of trouble, by spending more than you earn.
You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves."

He says district is poor

Dear editor:

An article appeared in the San Antonio Light on Oct. 21 concerning state funding for schools.

My concern is that our district, according to the current classification system, is considered a rich district. This is based on our high property value per pupil. THE PROPOSED SYSTEM WILL TAKE TAX REVENUE FROM OUR DISTRICT AND GIVE IT TO OTHER DISTRICTS.

The state legislature will be considering this plan in January. The article in the Light quoted Paul Williams, the governor's chief of staff, as saying that a poll had been taken and the people favored this kind of equalization plan. I was not polled and I bet you weren't either.

Please call or write the governor and your state representatives. Tell them that the proposed classification system, based on property tax values, is not appropriate.

Questionable tactics

Dear editor:

I was very disturbed to find that once again, without my permission, my son had been subjected to questionable sales tactics. I am referring to the current fund raising drive at Alkek Elementary. It is my understanding that during my child's P.E. class, he was shown the potential prizes and later given an order card.

Despite the P.T.O. disclaimer which reads, "May we remind you that this is not a door-to-door program..." the order card and the prize display certainly influence the children into thinking that they must sell for the good of the school.

The order card lists people the CHILD should sell to (Mom and Dad, grandparents and other relatives, neighbors and friends they know well, and church, clubs, etc.) and even includes words for the child to say ("We are raising money for our school. I hope you will help.") I believe that is not the district policy to have children solicit funds for their school. This fund raising activity was NOT first directed to parents and I believe that it is in conflict with this policy. If it had been directed at the parents, the information could have come in an envelope addressed to them or handed out at a P.T.O. meeting and the children would not have been involved in any way.

I realize that the fund raiser was quite successful last year and required a minimum of effort on the part of the school or the P.T.O. However, I have been taught that the easiest way is not always the best way. Additionally, I feel that my child should not be pressured into selling items, especially without my knowledge or prior consent. Finally, I feel that this is an additional drain on a community that already generously supports its many youth groups and organizations.

It would have been simpler to purchase one small item and avoid conflict or to throw the catalogs away and ignore the situation completely. However, as I stated at a P.T.O. meeting last year, we cannot expect our children to stand up to what they perceive as wrong unless we as adults are also willing to take an unpopular stance. I urge you to also say, "No."

She chooses Pro-Life

Dear editor:

I would like to answer some questions posed in your paper since the life chain.

Q: What is it about life that we value?

A: Speaking for myself and all the pro-lifers I know, we value each individual with their unique contributions which they can make to society - that includes not only the unborn, but the elderly, the handicapped and all who have been created.

Q: Why don't "they" put their energies into helping abused and abandoned children?

A: We are. To imply that pro-lifers are all talk and no do shows that you have a misconception about pro-lifers. To date, more than two truckloads of goods have been donated by the life chain participants to be sold at one section of the Medina community garage sale on October 24, and the proceeds will go to the Kerrville Crisis Pregnancy Center. Some who took part in the life chain have also taken classes to become volunteer counselors.

Incidentally, child abuse has increased rapidly since abortion was legalized. In fact, there are now ten times more abused children than there were just 20 years ago. Furthermore, a study by Dr. Edward Lenoski (Univ. of S. Cal.) shows that 90% of abused children were from planned pregnancies. Therefore, working to restore a respect for life is one way of working to reduce child abuse.

Unfortunately, the "choice" which women are presented with today is by no means a TRUE choice. Typically, they are not informed of the risks involved such as complications in future pregnancies (which can include sterility, a higher rate of tubal pregnancies, placenta previa and many others), increased risk of breast cancer, and emotional and psychological disturbances (occurs in 50% of women who have abortions according to a journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology). For those in the community who have had an abortion and are dealing with feelings of guilt, there is help available through the Kerrville and Boerne Crisis Pregnancy Centers. And to the young lady who gave her daughter up for adoption despite pressure from those around her to abort the child, you made a decisions which required not only courage but a great deal of love as well. I applaud you for both your love for your child and for your courage to withstand opposition.

Pro-lifers are not ignorant to the problems women face as a result of an unplanned pregnancy; we just don't view the termination of a human life as the solution to the problems.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN —Two of the governor's top confidants scrapped publicly over ethics last week, and Texas legislators facing re-election learned they'll face a $3 billion deficit in January.

Senate Finance Committee chairman John Montford, D- Lubbock, told a taxpayers group that despite a $2 billion increase in state revenues, it will take at least $3 billion more to fund other needs.

Meanwhile, former congressman Barbara Jordan, now the ethics advisor to Gov. Ann Richards, stunned everyone when she advised embattled Lena Guerrero to resign if she wins the Railroad Commission election next week.

Guerrero resigned from the commission after she was forced to admit that she had lied for years about having a bachelor's degree from the University of Texas.

"Ethical High Ground"

Richards gave protege Guerrero the first political plum in her "New Texas" administration by appointing her to an unexpired term on the Texas Railroad Commission.

Likewise, the governor honored Jordan by naming her ethics advisor; in 1966, Jordan became the first black woman to serve in the Texas Senate, and later the state's first black woman to serve in Congress.

"In my opinion, if Lena Guerrero is elected, the high ethical ground position would be for Lena Guerrero to resign that seat and allow the governor to have a new appointment," Jordan said.

In a prepared statement, Guerrero said "I have great respect for Barbara Jordan, but I believe that since I have already resigned my seat on the commission, I have placed this matter before the people of Texas."

Hispanics Denounce Jordan

Hispanic leaders across the state criticized Jordan for her anti-Guerrero statement, which came only a day before top independent oil industry leaders endorsed her election.

The timing of Jordan's remarks — and her motivation — had political advisors spinning.

Was Guerrero hurting Clinton in Texas? Was Richards damaged by their friendship? Were black Democrats angling to get one of their own appointed to the railroad commission?

Probably none of the above. Jordan was responding honestly to a reporters question at a press conference on an unrelated matter. She is the ethics advisor, she was asked about ethics, she was doing her job.

Asked if she still supports Guerrero, Gov. Richards said: "I looked down the list and didn't find any attractive alternatives."

Bullet Train Torpedo

The ballyhooed Texas bullet train project, already in financial trouble, faces more hurdles from a coalition of rural lawmakers next session.

One of its leaders, state Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, has drafted a bill to strip the project of its power of eminent domain to condemn farm and ranch land for the track right-of-way.

It would also abolish the high speed rail authority and put the project under the Texas Railroad Commission.

Judicial Campaign Reforms

Chief Justice Tom Phillips of the Texas Supreme Court proposed that basic changes be adopted in the way Texans elect their judges.

Included: limit campaign contributions, such as those imposed on lawmakers and top officials; shorten the campaign season to allow judges to spend more time deciding cases; and tighten financial disclosure requirements and strengthen their public access.

Influence Peddling Charged

Former state parole board chairman James Granberry — now a parole consultant — is reported to be under federal investigation for alleged influence peddling, taking money from prisoners' families for promises of early release.

Granberry denied the charge.

A few weeks ago, he was questioned by a state Senate panel wanting to know if he solicited clients from a confidential list of potential paroles leaked by prison system employees.

Early Voting Double

The pace of early voting in the 1992 election is about double that of the first seven days of extended voting in 1990 in the state's metropolitan counties, figures from the Texas Secretary of State's Office show.

Early voting began Oct. 14. During the first seven days, the number of ballots cast in person (as opposed to mail-in ballots) was more than double the number cast during the same period in 1990 in Houston, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Other Highlights

- Sometime after the election, the 15-member State Board of Education will decide whether to approve proposed rules allowing girls to play high school football next year.
- Houston oil industry giants Oscar Wyatt and L. Patrick Collins endorsed Guerrero in a direct mailing to 8,000 independent oil and gas producers.
- In preparation for a Nov. 10 special session, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock last week briefed state senators on a newly-developed plan that would redistribute about $400 million from property-rich school districts to property-poor ones.

Bandera students 'vote' in presidential election

If Bandera County voters vote for the same man for president as the students in Bandera High School, it'll be a landslide for independent presidential candidate Ross Perot.

As part of the televised news and information service used in Bandera high and junior high schools, Channel One, Bandera High School students cast 163 survey votes for Perot, 110 for Republican President George Bush, 63 for Democratic challenger Bill Clinton and 27 for other candidates.

However, the nationwide student results of the Channel One survey gave a landslide victory to Clinton.

Clinton won 44 states and received 504 survey electoral votes. Perot won four small states and Bush carried two states.

According to high school government teacher Claire Roberts, the students voted in their second-period home room class last week and the results were phoned in. The results were given out on Channel One Wednesday, Oct. 21.

"This year's election is a good example for students of how voting for the presidential election and the electoral college works, says Roberts.

With the three-way race, it is possible that the election could end up in the U.S. House of Representatives. To become president, a candidate must receive 270 electoral votes. If no one does, the election will go to the House. To win a state's electoral votes, a candidate must get the most votes in a state — not a majority.

Students watch the 12-minute Channel One presentation during a specially set-aside time during second-period home room that doesn't take away from class time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You jump through hoops this week, as you try to please partners, relatives and a boss. What is this servitude, Aries? Obligations call most of the weekend, yet you still manage to find the time to regain your perspective.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others are "in command" all week, and throwing a tantrum just doesn't make a difference. Work on understanding where others are coming from. Once you get there, life becomes a snap. Be a little experimental this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Count on distraction — the nice kind — this week, and you won't be disappointed. Use the quiet moments to plunge into your work and prove your efficiency. Call it a early weekend. Yes, you give in to temptation, and, yes, you make hay while you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your creativity makes a difference, as you cut through your work and come up with the new and different. Finally, Moonchild, you get your just desserts. Enjoy all the congratulations, compliments and adoration. You just soar into the weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Understand where you are coming from, and know you will find the solution. Humor, flirtation and a special opportunity knock on your door. The sign of love, you go with the moment. The bad news is that you spend most of the weekend catching up on your work.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You change your position on an important security issue this week. Life gets so crazed, you decide it's all irrelevant as you throw up your hands. Now is the time to perfect the art of flirtation and romance, and you do so this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Worry less about money and domestic matters. Learn to talk, risk and be vulnerable on a deeper level. You are surprised (and delighted) by others' response and support. You rediscover a special relationship this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Your more possessive and needy side comes out this week. Discussions lead to an interesting chain of events. Stay open to all the possibilities. You don't have to go very far to taste the milk and honey this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) This week you prove you can handle all the vicissitudes of life. You glow as you command the ship at work. Don't neglect an important bill, however. A slip-up could mar your weekend. Insecurity hits out of the blue and suddenly you're "not sure."

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Much of this week you're stuck in your own head, having an intense and conflicting inner dialogue. While you mentally play out the possibilities, events throw you into action. You're a tough one, you old Goat, and you bring in exactly what you need.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Take a bow this week and accept your laurels. All your hard work and understanding finally pay off. Another important project — catching that cute flirt — also comes to a successful conclusion. Make no plans this weekend, as you are likely (and will want) to vanish.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You finally understand another's point of view. Once you do, you are able to take the lead and make it happen. A boss is in the wings watching how well you handle all this. For your sake, and so that your work performance record remains tiptop, call it an early weekend.

Shelsea and Sean McDonough

Comeaux, McDonough wed in Oct. 11 ceremony here

Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Comeaux announce the marriage of their daughter Shelsea Lynn to Sean Michael McDonough on Oct. 11.

Sean and Shelsea exchanged their vows in the Walker Memorial Baptist Church with the Rev. Ken Brown performing the ceremony.

The reception immediately followed the service, and was held in the fellowship hall.

After a short honeymoon, the couple will live in Bandera.

Merry Stricker, Jarod Balson wed Oct. 10

Merry Stricker Balson

Merry Heather Stricker and Jarod Lee Balson were united in marriage on October 10, 1992, at Grace Lutheran Church in Bandera. The double ring ceremony was performed by Eugene Peterson, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Sherry Stricker. The groom is the son of Rick and Linda Balson. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Andy Anderson.

The bride's gown was white satin trimmed in pearls, iridescent sequins and lace, with a cathedral-length train. Her headpiece was a wreath of flowers with a layered, tulle veil. She carried an arm bouquet of Pink Minuet and cream roses, adorned with baby's breath, ivy and ferns, and a baby-bonnet, heirloom handkerchief which was a baby gift to the groom upon his birth.

The groom, his father, the bride's grandfather and groomsmen were black tuxedos with bow ties and vests.

The church was decorated with English ivy, baby's breath and spring bouquets.

The maid-of-honor was Bertha Duran; bridesmaids were Lori Cargill, Tara Benton-Balson, sister of the groom and Luci Ramos. The bridesmaids wore midnight blue, taffeta dresses. Best man was Troy Balson, brother of the groom; groomsmen were Key Stricker, brother of the bride, Matt Kelley and David Edwards. The flower girl was Lacey Redwine, daughter of Monte and Autumn Redwine; and ring bearer was Barrett Keifer Holen, son of Loren and Jodi Holen, and god-son of the groom's mother.

Special music was provided by Jodi Bergland-Holen, pianist/organist. Soloist Claire Roberts sang "Thy Word", and Claire Roberts and Jerry Neuenschwander performed a duet of "Borning Cry."

The reception was held at Grace Hall at the church. The bride's table was decorated in pink and the four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with orchids and green leaves. The groom's cake was chocolate trimmed with green leaves. English ivy and a pink tulle bow adorned a large heart accentuating the cake tables.

An oak tree, given to the church by the bride and groom in honor of their marriage, was decorated with pink and white wedding bells and white lights. Tulle streamers in shades of pink and wedding bells adorned the hall, along with chrysanthemums in shades of mauve, pink and plum and bouquets of spring flowers.

A white limousine provided transportation for the couple to San Antonio, prior to their departure for a honeymoon in northern California.

FOREST FOR SHERIFF
A Native Son & WW II Vet

Dear Friends,

Together we have accomplished much since the last election. We have fought a successful battle against drugs. We generated over 1/2 million dollars through seizures and forfeitures. Since June 1992, we have seized over 1/2 million dollars worth of marijuana. You now have a modern well-equipped sheriff's department with well-trained personnel paid for with the drug money. We have cut the burglary rate and other crimes and made Bandera County a safer place to live. We are actively and aggressively pursuing the criminals, and yes, the word is out: Bandera County is tough on crime! Together, we are winning the battle against crime. We have accomplished much, but we still have a long battle ahead. I am asking for your vote and support this election in order to continue our successful policies.

Thank you.

A Service of Transamerican Diagnostic Services
(Providing Mammography Services for over 5 years)

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, ● even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $70.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Optimists pledge to continue helping community's youth

At the first Optimist Board of Directors meeting held Monday, Oct. 26, newly elected president, Al Heep, renewed a pledge which is part of the club's by-laws that every cent of budget will continue to benefit Bandera County youth and community projects.

Heep stated that the 1993 budget has been increased by 87%. Projects that will benefit the youth and community include: increased facilities for Sandidge Park children's play area, a high school scholarship, youth golf program, football and basketball competitions for pre-high-school boys and girls, Spirit of Christmas fund, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, junior livestock group, high school UIL academic competitions, Special Olympics, highway clean-up, as well as a variety of school projects, plus a fund for needy students. Club budgets and financial statements are available for inspection by any county citizen.

Heep added that only 51 Optimist members are involved in 1993 projects. He stated that the Optimists welcome any dedicated adult, male or female, young or old, to become members of the Bandera Optimists. "We need all the help we can get."

Michael Klein, President-elect of South Central Texas District of Optimist International, congratulates Bandera's Al Heep at Bandera Optimist officers' installation ceremonies.

Somebody said that Fredericksburg got an inch and a half of rain that Wednesday night when the first real norther came through, but we counted only eight and a half spatters on the old tin roof.

Tough as it is to accept, our great period of record rain is probably coming to an end, and southwest Texas will revert from lush green to its usual olive-drab dryness. We'll miss seeing the creek running over all the rocks and little pour-offs, but the memory of the wettest year in history will have to sustain us during the kind of dry time we are used to putting up with most years anyway.

--Red alert, red alert! If you get housewares catalogs in the mail or look at department store ads in city papers, you will note that the market is currently being flooded with hand-made patchwork quilts in all the classic American patterns like Double Wedding Ring or Grandmother's Flower Garden.

It had to happen. Poor Chinese or Indian villagers are being hired, no doubt for pennies, to knock off the traditional designs of quilts and coverlets made for generations by American women.

Patchwork has become recognized as a true art form, whether produced by Amish farm wives or high-style Pamela Studstill of Pipe Creek, Texas. But now, because USA cotton fabric is being shipped to Asia to be utilized in this new industry, it will become more and more difficult for the average buyer to judge which is true blue Americana and which is imitation.

Quilters of America Unite. You have nothing to lose but your Irish Chain!

Mr. Perot and Senator Gephardt, are you listening? Not just auto workers are losing their jobs!

---Dry as it has been, the fall display of Maximilian sunflowers in all the swags along Highways 16 and 173 is making a vivid splash of bright yellow. These tall many-flowered prairie perennials are blooming now across the American heartland. We began seeing them recently in Nebraska, then noted their presence across Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma as we headed home.

Writing in her book, "Wildflowers of Texas", Geyata Ajilvsgi points out that these sunflowers are favorites of livestock, which is the reason we see them only in such protected sites as roadsides. Deer, she says, love them most. (Of course, deer can jump fences, so we suppose there would be even more yellow fall flowers if deer were not in such numbers.)

We always assumed that for some reason or other, the name "Maximilian" referred to the ill-fated emperor of Mexico of the past century. But we now read that the plant is named for a Prince Maximilian of Wied Neuweid, one of the European naturalists so enamored of the American West during the early nineteenth century. Read and learn!

--Incidentally, sports fans and Bulletin readers, old columnists never die. They just get crowded out of the paper by more important items!

BHS Student writes of 'drunken beast' as a Red Ribbon Week reminder

Bandera High School English teacher Irene Stone submitted the following essay, written by one of her students.

Ms. Stone says she is also the sponsor of STAND (Students Taking Action Not Drugs).

"Since this is Red Ribbon Week, I thought it might be an appropriate time to put such an article in the Bulletin. We really would like to get our message across to the community," Stone explained.

The Drunken Beast

by Laura Wakeley

Picture it: your handsome boyfriend, with bulging biceps, pulls up in your driveway in a brand-new emerald green DeLorean. You hop in. Both of you are off to a hot party given by the most popular person in the whole school, who just happens to live in a gigantic mansion where the party will be held. Y'all plan to have a fantastic time. Little did you know that there would be alcohol at this party, which you strongly disapprove of. You were upset, but you blew it off, knowing that it might spoil your fun if you said anything to him.

Walking hand in hand, up the big steps leading to the pearl doors of the mansion, your boyfriend gives you a huge smile, hoping that this will be the greatest party y'all have ever attended. Reaching the top and opening the doors, both of you see tons of people dancing and having a great time.

Your friends meet you at the door and ask you to come with them for a little gossip. Leaving your boyfriend behind to mingle, you reluctantly follow.

Time passes, and the party is almost over. Realizing you had not seen your boyfriend throughout the whole party, you disappear on a journey to find him. Walking through the entire mansion, not finding him yet, you walk into the dance hall, and guess what, he was there.

Approaching him slowly, you realize that he is plastered. Now you are really mad. Asking him what his problem is, he replies rudely, "I don't have a problem. I'm just having fun with a few of my friends!" Cruelly staring at him, you stand back and whack him across the face! Now both of you are furious!

All of a sudden, you see his one head turn into three dragon heads and he's spitting fire. You run away, scared to death. You now know there is a beast in all drunks.

More on Red Ribbon Week on next page.

Branch voting and Saturday voting was also hailed as a success by Bates. Both are "firsts" for Bandera County. Bates said branch voting and early voting will continue "as long as the Commissioners approve it. The branch voting was manned by myself and volunteers at a very minimal cost."

Bates said she is enjoying her first term in office, especially the voting and Election Day preparation. "It's just a real good response. I'm pleased. I am really pleased."

BHS band earns 2nd division

The Bandera Bulldog band received a "II" in marching contest competition Saturday the fifth year the high school band ent[illegible]

Band director Milton Fox said the II rating is considered "excellent," which is fine until you heard what a "I" is — superior.

The competition for over 40 high school bands was held in Hondo.

Fox took some comfort in that the three judges did not award very many "I"s and only the largest bands got a one rating.

All three judges gave Bandera a two rating.

According to judge Ralph Vamarippa of Abilene, Bandera's band had a "good sound, great blend and balance. The unison passages were unbelievable.

"You're the best band I've heard all day." The competition started at noon and Bandera performed at 5 p.m.

While the band's sound was excellent, the marching was inconsistent and that hurt the performance. "Not everyone was in step or in synch. The execution was tentative and very insecure.

In general, Vamarippa said the band's marching got in the way. "You're a winner if your marching is up to par with your music."

The other judges said much the same.

"Great music, good solos, nice blend of music to the drill. Tuning is good," wrote Robert Dalripple of Round Rock. But in marching, "far too many mistakes. All stops were not good."

Judge Robert Teague of Plano said Bandera's marching needs work. "The alignment suffers. Numerous individual mistakes."

Teague said the color guard (flag and dance team) added to the performance and the show itself was well designed.

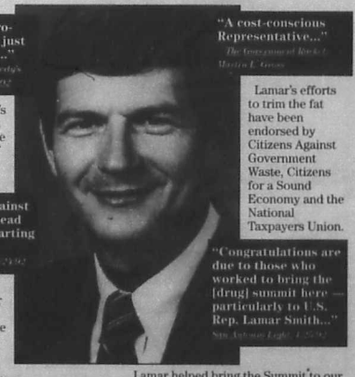
LAMAR SMITH
Let's Keep Him Working For Us.

"He wants to produce more than just a voting record..." Congressional Quarterly's Politics in America 1992

"A cost-conscious Representative..." The Government Watch-Dog Group



Lamar does what's right even if it isn't popular. He's made a name for himself as a strong, independent leader.

Lamar's efforts to trim the fat have been endorsed by Citizens Against Government Waste, Citizens for a Sound Economy and the National Taxpayers Union.

"Patient war against excessive overhead spending... is starting to pay off." San Antonio Light, 7/7/92

"Congratulations are due to those who worked to bring the [drug] summit here — particularly to U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith..." San Antonio Light, 1/25/92

To cut government waste, Lamar Smith won an historic battle with the tax-and-spend Congressional Leadership to save taxpayers $142 million.

Lamar helped bring the Summit to our area, along with new jobs, business and $47 million in benefits.

"Lauded for immigration-reform..." San Antonio Express-News, 8/2/90

To keep illegal aliens from taking Americans' jobs and costing taxpayers more money, Lamar fought to detain and deport illegals and beef up Border Patrol forces.

Fall color at Lost Maples turns orange

After two or three weeks of [illegible] display of colors by the Big-Tooth Maple trees of the Lost Maples State Natural Area [illegible] ning to make its mark, but you've got to go hunting for the color in the park.

Also, if you want to see the maple trees in the color that they will have this season, now's the time to go, because it may not last long and the leaves are starting to fall off the trees.

The dominate fall color that nature is displaying at the state facility located in Bandera and Real County on State Highway 187 north of Vanderpool is orange.

Many trees are still green and other trees' leaves are going directly from green to brown. The problem is the weather. It's been dry and warm.

But if you are willing to walk the trails (take a canteen of water and a trail snack), you can find color among the canyons.

Local students join nationwide 'Red Ribbon' anti-drug effort

The national effort known as "Red Ribbon Week" found students in Bandera schools eager to combat drug use and abuse in their community.

The elementary school has observed Drug Awareness month. The nurse and counselor have given anti-drug, drug-awareness instruction to all grade levels. Additionally, a drug related question was asked in the morning over the intercom system. Students researched the answer, using both library and classroom materials, and answered the question during the course of the day. The class with the correct answer was drawn out of the "answer pool" at the end of the day and announced as he winning class. Prizes were awarded.

Students in second through fourth grade were given Weekly Readers which focused on anti-drug themes. Pencils with anti-drug slogans were issued to students at all grade levels. Red ribbons and stickers reinforce anti-drug themes for Red Ribbon Week.

The junior high counselor, Sherry Nichols, says that students in grades 6-8 will took mini-tests on drug abuse and awareness during Red Ribbon Week. Prizes were awarded. The National Junior Honor Society and the Student Council decorated trees on campus with big red ribbons.

All grades will compete in a poster contest in which anti-drug themes will be displayed. The judging will be held at the end of the week. The winning class will be awarded a "popcorn party." All students and staff members were given red ribbons to wear.

Bandera high school students will be observing a special week in Novemeber in conjunction with STAND: Students Taking Action, Not Drugs. One day each week will use the letter of the organization in drug awareness activities. Steroids will be addressed on Monday; Tobacco on Tuesday; Alcohol on Wednesday; Narcotics on Thursday, and Death, as caused by drug use on Friday.

The Red Ribbon Campaign is a project that links, via red ribbons, millions of Americans who are convinced that the war on drugs is winnable. It is sponsored by the National Federation of Parents.

The Red Ribbon Campaign orginated when Federal Agent Enrique Camarena was murdered by drug traffickers in 1985. The red ribbon became the national symbol to reduce the demand for drugs.

During Red Ribbon Week, communities will participate in activites designed to promote a drug free America. Individuals can create positive peer pressure about drug-free choices by wearing a red ribbon.

Hallelujah Party Saturday in Medina

The party is for children through the sixth grade and will begin at 6:00. It ends at 8 p.m. with a pinata nicknamed Ballaam's Donkey. As this is an alternative to Halloween party, children are encouraged to dress as something God made or in a happy costume; no witches, ghosts, goblins, etc.

For more information, contact Dixie Cohn at 589-2374.

Halloween festivities include costumes

"Ava and Sheri are having a Halloween Party Saturday, Oct. 31."

The fun will begin at both the Wrangler and Longhorn in Bandera at 7:30 p.m.

Judging for best costume begins at 10 p.m. at the Longhorn and 11 p.m. at the Wrangler. The same four judges will judge both contests.

Bar tabs totaling over $100 and two chicken fried steak dinners will be given as prizes.

Hundreds of bargain seekers turned out for the second "almost annual" Medina Garage Sale Saturday, Oct. 24. One booth owner said would-be buyers were at his spot at dawn. Organizer Dixie Cohn estimated over $10,000 was spent in Medina for the sale.

Halloween will be celebrated all around Bandera County

Bandera County will offer several Halloween celebrations.

The Women of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association will offer a Halloween carnival at Bandera Downs Thursday, Oct. 29, and the Cub Scout Pack 146 will conduct its annual Halloween carnival Saturday, Oct. 31, at the Pipe Creek Community Center.

The first Halloween celebration in the county will be held in the grandstands area of Bandera Downs Thursday from 6 to 11 p.m.

Activities offered include costume and dance contests and face painting. A haunted house will be offered ($1 ticket).

Other activities are treasure chest (25 cents), cake walk ($1), apple bobbing (25 cents), dunking booth ($1), pie throw ($1), fishing pond booth (25 cents), and toilet paper toss (25 cents).

Food and drink will be offered. The bar will be open starting at 9 p.m.

Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children 15 years old and under.

Proceeds from the event will be used by the Women of the HBPA to add money to the purse account at the track (and thereby sponsor part of the purse money for some races).

In Pipe Creek, the Cub Scouts will host their activities at the Pipe Creek Community Center from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Activities include a haunted house. Games include the usual assortment including bean bag tosses, ring tosses, cake walk, knock-knock door and fishing pond. Each game will cost 25 cents, says organizer Barbara Story.

A costume contest will be held at 8 p.m.

Food offered includes nachoes, frito pies, hot dogs and hamburgers.

The event is the Cub Scouts' only fund-raiser of the year and proceeds from the night will go to paying for beads, achievement awards, summertime fun projects and other activities.

"It's also for a safe night of trick-or-treating," says Story.

Anyone wishing to donate cakes for the cake walk should contact Story at 535-4797 or Nita Pillet at 535-4722.

Lone Star Trail Riders will host third Toys For Tots Trail Ride Dec. 5

The Lone Star Trail Riders of Bandera will again host the Third Annual Toys for Tots Trail Ride on Dec. 5. Roger Raser, LSTR president and trail ride manager, is planning for a record 100 riders this year. The 1991 ride included 55 horse riders and one mule team.

The fee will again be $15 per rider and each rider will receive a taco/coffee breakfast, barbecue sandwich lunch and a chicken-fried steak dinner, all compliments of several of our generous Bandera merchants and restaurants.

The Bandera Forge will host the registration point and will provide a picket line for horses. Registration will commence at 7:30 a.m. and continue until ride time. Trail riders will assemble at 9:30 a.m. behind the First State Bank for a briefing prior to departure. All riders must register and receive a badge to be eligible to ride.

At 9:45 a.m. the ride will proceed south through Bandera to the river, then west along the river to Mayan Ranch Road, continuing west to Tarpley Highway (Hwy. 470), then north to Twin Elms Ranch for the lunch stop. The afternoon ride will take us back to the forge by the same route, for arrival around 4:15 p.m.

All proceeds go to charity for underprivileged children of Bandera County. This is a great chance to help the children while having a good time with old and new friends, on horses. Early registration is encouraged. Call Roger Raser at 796-8457, Kathy Nugent at 796-8168 or Jody Gibbens at 796-7470 now.

Births

Cody Quillen

Cody Quillen

Cody James Quillen was born July 24, 1992, weighing 8 lb., 8 1/2 oz. and was 22 inches long. His parents are Travis and Darla Quillen of Sembach, Germany.

He is welcomed by brother, Seth, grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Jim Keese and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Feagan of Medina. His paternal grandparents are [illegible]

Mrs. Johnny Quillen, and great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Quillen and Margo Risley, all of Urichville, Ohio. He has numerous aunts, uncles and cousins.

Darla is the former Darla Keese of Medina.

Kelsey Moore

Valerie and Ernie Moore of Utopia announce the birth of their second daughter, 8 1/2 pound Kelsey Lea. Kelsey Lea was born at 8:46 a.m., Oct. 16. Big sister, Kimber Lynn, age 5, takes most of the credit. Proud grandparents are H. E. and Frankie Moore and Milton and [illegible] Judy Georg. Judy and her husband Charles have lived in the Bandera area for 12 years. Some of you may most recently remember Judy from Star Video. She has had experience in a variety of positions in and around Bandera, and we feel very fortunate to have this competent lady join our staff.

If you have not already done so, be sure and look at the wonderful arrowhead collection that is temporarily housed in our curio cabinet. It is on loan from Pat Burrow, and a [illegible] findings for the exhibit were found and collected in this area over the past several years.

We continue to add new books daily to our ever-growing number of books - both in the fiction and non-fiction areas. For our "die-hard" mystery fans, we have added such titles as Thyme of Death by Susan Wittig Albert; A Fatal Attachment by Robert Barnhard; Decked by Carol Higgins Clark; All That Remains by the popular new author, Patricia D. Cornwell; Catering to Nobody by Diane Mott Davidson; The Last Camel Died at Noon and The Snake, the Crocodile and the Dog, both by Elizabeth Peters; and for our cat enthusiasts, we have Lilian Jackson Braun's latest book, The Cat Who Wasn't There.

In this purrrfectly delightful tale, akulduggery strikes the Bonnie Scots Tour as Jim Qwilleran and his friends from Pickax set forth on a never-to-be-forgotten Scottish adventure in the classic, best-selling Cat Who... series. Distraught over the death of one of their party, the remaining members try not to panic as Jim tries to figure out why his Siamese Koko is licking photographs and tackling him on the stairs.

I must make a correction to a statement I made in my last article. I said, "Board meetings are held in the Library on the second Monday of each month at 3 p.m. and are open to the public." The Bandera County Library Board of Trustees are not "open to the public." Anyone may, however, ask to get on the agenda.

Space shuttle to fly over Bandera County

The space shuttle, presently in orbit around the Earth, can be seen near dawn in Bandera County skies Saturday and Sunday.

Persons interested in seeing the shuttle should look about 10 to 15 degrees above the southwest horizon Saturday about 6:33 a.m. and Sunday about 6:09 a.m.

The shuttle, orbiting at 130 miles, will appear as a bright, fast moving star — like a planet, but moving fast. It should cross the sky in a minute or two.

Persons interested in seeing the shuttle should get out 10 to 15 minutes ahead of time to adjust their eyes to the light. The less light in the area around the southwest horizon, the better. The shuttle can be see in the city of Bandera as long as city lights are not directly in the way.

Medina will host district cross country meet Saturday

Medina will host the district cross-country meet this Saturday, Oct. 31. The race starts at 10:00 at the Cinco B Ranch. The course will wind around and cross the Medina River at Moffitt Park and then wind to the finish line at the Medina Apple Festival grounds.

A hamburger lunch will be served at 12:00 for $3, and will include a hamburger, chips, and drink. The public is welcome.

Participating schools are Harper, Rocksprings, Nueces Canyon and Medina. Both junior high and high school students will be running.

The Province of the Heart

An additional smiling face greeting you from behind the front desk at the library is that of our new part-time [illegible] Judy Georg. Judy and her husband Charles have lived in the Bandera area for 12 years. Some of you may most recently remember Judy from Star Video. She has had experience in a variety of positions in and around Bandera, and we feel very fortunate to have this competent lady join our staff.

If you have not already done so, be sure and look at the wonderful arrowhead collection that is temporarily housed in our curio cabinet. It is on loan from Pat Burrow, and a [illegible] findings for the exhibit were found and collected in this area over the past several years.

We continue to add new books daily to our ever-growing number of books - both in the fiction and non-fiction areas. For our "die-hard" mystery fans, we have added such titles as Thyme of Death by Susan Wittig Albert; A Fatal Attachment by Robert Barnhard; Decked by Carol Higgins Clark; All That Remains by the popular new author, Patricia D. Cornwell; Catering to Nobody by Diane Mott Davidson; The Last Camel Died at Noon and The Snake, the Crocodile and the Dog, both by Elizabeth Peters; and for our cat enthusiasts, we have Lilian Jackson Braun's latest book, The Cat Who Wasn't There.

In this purrrfectly delightful tale, akulduggery strikes the Bonnie Scots Tour as Jim Qwilleran and his friends from Pickax set forth on a never-to-be-forgotten Scottish adventure in the classic, best-selling Cat Who... series. Distraught over the death of one of their party, the remaining members try not to panic as Jim tries to figure out why his Siamese Koko is licking photographs and tackling him on the stairs.

I must make a correction to a statement I made in my last article. I said, "Board meetings are held in the Library on the second Monday of each month at 3 p.m. and are open to the public." The Bandera County Library Board of Trustees are not "open to the public." Anyone may, however, ask to get on the agenda.

A Thought For The Week
By John M. Grimes

In less than a week we will have a chance to exercise one of our great privileges as Americans. Yes, it's time to vote again. Election Day is next Tuesday, November 3rd. We can exercise a right that nearly every American is willing to fight to maintain, yet pitifully few exercise and fewer exercise seriously.

No need to discuss at length the reasons for low voter participation. The reasons given vary little over time...no good candidates, too much corruption, my vote doesn't matter, not registered but may register and vote next time, etc., etc.

Granted, some of the folks we elect leave much to be desired, but if all the smart people who didn't vote or weren't registered had been registered and had voted, maybe we'd have elected better. It is so easy to agree with Harry Truman who said, "Ninety percent of politicians give the other ten percent a bad reputation," but if we don't vote, there is no chance of improvement...

Let us, as Americans, make next Tuesday a very special day. Let us exercise our very special right. Let us "in droves" go to the polls and vote for the candidate of our choice and for the issues we believe in...

Clark historical marker to be dedicated Oct. 30

Bandera County pioneer, Amasa Clark, and his family will be honored with the dedication of an historical marker for the family cemetery Friday, Oct. 30 at 10 a.m. The ceremony will be held at the marker site on FM 470 approximately 1 mile west of the intersection of 470 and Hwy. 16 west of Bandera.

The [illegible] will be conducted by the Bandera County Historical Commission under the direction of the chairman, Carolyn Edwards, and the Bandera County Commissioner's Court, headed by Judge Ray Mauer.

Special guests will include Bessie Clark Schmidtke, surviving daughter of Amasa Clark, and her daughters, Minnie Ola "Mickey" Huber or San Antonio, and Bessie Ruth Osborn. Gene Berge, of Kerrville, Clark's granddaughter and other family members are also expected to be in attendance as honored guests.

The marker, granted by the Texas Historical Commission to commemorate historical sites, salutes the Clark Family Cemetery, located nearby. The marker states: "Clark Family Cemetery. Located on the original homestead of Bandera County pioneer Amasa Clark, this small cemetery contains the graves of several generations of the Clark family. The first recorded burial was that of Clark's first wife, Eliza Jane, in 1883. A veteran of the Mexican War and the Civil War, [illegible] permanent settler of Bandera, Amasa Clark operated an orchard and nursery at this site for many years. He lived to age 101. His grave is located here along with those of his first wife, Eliza; his second wife, Lucy; and a number of his nineteen children."

The cemetery was deeded to the county by Clark and his wife, Lucy, over 70 years ago, and in 1987 the Commissioner's Court voted to maintain the cemetery as an historic site. Under the encouragement and leadership of Raymond "Spot" Wright, a drive among veteran's organizations in the county produced the funds to pay for the marker.

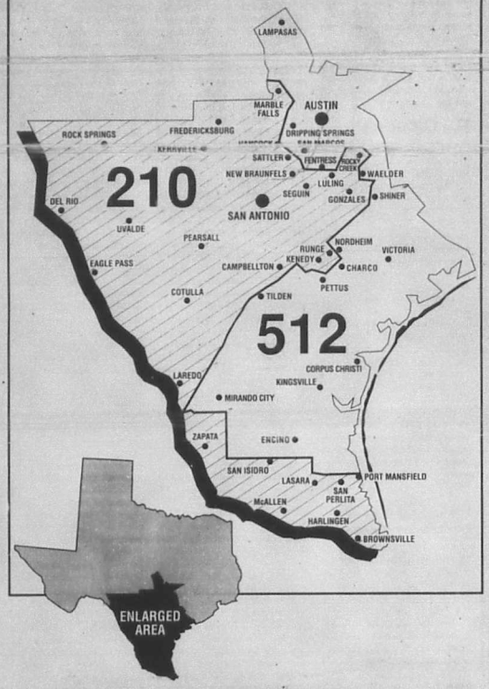
The New 210/512 Area Code Boundaries



Bandera County will have new area code on Nov. 1

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera's area code will change from 512 to 210 on Nov. 1. The new 210 area code will serve San Antonio and the surrounding area north to Marble Falls, south to Laredo and the Rio Grande Valley.

Southwestern Bell is dividing one of the largest geographic areas in the country to be served by just one area code. The 512 area code will continue to serve the area just north of Austin, Austin proper, and continue south to include Corpus Christi and Victoria.

The 512 area code has served Central and South Texas since 1947. Popularlion growth and growth in telecommunications services have depleted the available telephone number supply, according to area manager, Tim Tippit.

Tippit said that the announcement of the impending division of the 512 area code was made in Nov., 1991. Notification letters, bill inserts and other communications have been distributed to customers, long distance companies, telecommunications equipment vendors and the media.

"Most of the major national telecommunications companies have taken the necessary actions to be prepared for the impending change," Tippit said, "but I would advise customers to follow up with their own telecommunications vendors. In some cases, businesses across the country will need to have their business systems reprogrammed to recognize the new 210 area code," Tippit said.

Tippit explained that many business systems are programmed to recognize certain numbers as local or long distance calls. Over 90 percent of the problems were caused by equipment vendors not complying.

Residential customers may need to re-program speed calling lists or automatic dialers if the programmed number includes the 512 area code.

From Nov. 1, 1992 until May 3, 1993, anyone who accidentally dials 512 to reach numbers in the new 210 area code will have their calls automatically switched to the 210 destination.

From May 3, 1993, on Nov. 1, 1993, customers dialing the incorrect area code will reach a recording instructing the caller to re-dial the number using the new area code.

area code is created, some of the systems won't recognize it unless the system is updated. Southwestern Bell, Tippit said, has contacted companies that sell and maintain these types of systems.

When new area codes were implemented in California last year, many customers complained they were not receiving

More details are available at

(See HUNTERS, Page 2B.)

...But where was the first one held?

Walk along the Main Street of Bandera and ask everyone you meet where the first Hunters Barbecue was held. You'll probably get a different answer from each person you ask.

Dr. George Meador, founder of the Los Gringos Band, remembered that the first one was held at Rio Vista Cafe and Dance Hall. Gilbert Scheele said it was held at the New Frontier Chevrolet building on Highway 16 where Anderson Ford is now located. Meleese Rugh, whose husband, Ashley, came up with the idea of the Hunters Barbecue, remembered it as being at the Frontier Town that had just been built at Lost Valley Dude Ranch. Jim Russell, a member of the Los Gringos Band, said the first Hunters Barbecue was held out at Mansfield Park.

A quick check through the files of the Bandera Bulletin proved Jim Russell to be right. The first Hunters Barbecue was held on Saturday night, November 16, 1963 at Mansfield Park.

The other answers as to the Barbecue site were memories that had just slipped a year or so. Meleese Rugh was thinking of the second Barbecue which was held at the Frontier Village. The festivities were on Saturday night, November 14. The Village had held their grand opening on the Fourth of July of that same year.

Dr. Meador and the Los Gringos Band had played at the first two barbecues, but he remembers the third location as being the first. In 1965 the Rio Vista, a large wooden building that housed a restaurant and dance hall, hosted the event. The Rio Vista was located on the right-hand side of Highway 173 just across the Medina River. It sat up on the hill with a beautiful view of the river and town. That year the Hunters Barbecue was moved from Saturday night to Monday night, November 15.

In 1966, the Hunter's Dinner (as it was then known) was again at the Rio Vista, but the dance hall had changed its name to The Round Up Club.

It was in 1967 that the popular event was held at the Frontier Chevrolet location where Anderson Ford now does business. It may be that Gilbert Scheele was remembering another popular Bandera event. The Lions Club's annual turkey shoot was usually held about a week before the Hunters Barbecue.

In 1968, the new County Recreation Center had been built out at Mansfield Park. It was in this building that the Hunters Barbecue finally found its permanent home. For 25 barbecues it has been bursting at the seams with the enthusiastic crowds attending the event.

Thirty years can dull anyone's memory of exact locations. After all, the site of the Barbecue was changed four times in the first five years.

The memory of the Hunters Barbecue as being a rollicking good time never dulls. Each year someone says, "It just don't get any better than this, folks!" But each year, it does.

They decided to bring wild turkeys back to Bandera County area

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

When predators and roost hunters wiped out the entire population of eastern turkeys on his ranch 20 years ago, Billy Walker and his family decided to bring wild turkeys back to Bandera. They were put on a three-year waiting list and finally received 20 Rio Grande chicks which have now produced six flocks.

The present turkeys range widely in age and degree of wildness. Three flocks of approximately 15 birds each are regulars around the house of parents Bill and Lenna Walker. They roost there, safe from predators and hunters. Other wilder flocks visit the perimeter of the ranch.

Because so little information was available on restoring the wild turkey population 20 years ago, Ricky Walker began following the flock with binoculars and learning thier habits. She found that they nest on the ground in brush, usually under the canopy of a live oak. The Walkers set protected nesting sites as their first priority in the restoration of the birds. They followed that first step with providing protected roosts and predator control.

Turkeys enhance the value of hunting leases. They control pests and enrich the ground putting back into it what they have taken out of it. "Besides," Ricky says, "they're conversation pieces. They're just fun to have around. I like watching them."

The Walker family began feeding the turkeys, both throwing corn to them in the yard and setting up milo feeders with screens designed to keep deer out and allow the turkeys to feed. They also set aside 100 acres along the creek as a no-hunting area.

Turkeys forage in a five square mile range daily, returning to the roost at night. The Walkers encourage the birds to roost near the ranch house where they will be safe from predators and hunters.

Predator control, the Walkers found, is an important aspect of restoring the wild turkey population. Billy Walker said skunks do the most damage since the birds nest on the ground. Skunks love eggs and rob nests. John Hamilton, who will be taking part in the predator calling at the Hunter's Barbecue, helps rid the ranch of predators annually. Raccoons, skunks and foxes all prey on turkeys.

Human predators, or poachers, the Walkers found, are another serious enemy turkeys face. Poachers killed turkeys in their roost on the Walker ranch 20 years ago, depleting the wild population. The Walkers still occasionally find trespassers on their land. "Trespassers are terrible," Ricky explains. "They come on to your land, then sue you if they fall and get hurt. They hunt-or poach- at night when it's hard to catch them. They hunt with spotlights which is not fair to the animals."

Daugthers Rachel and Roxanne help with feeding the turkeys and have learned to call them. Mom, Ricky, said that the entire family is sold on the ranch way of life. "We wouldn't trade it for anything. My daughters think they are in paradise. Roxanne says she plans to live here the rest of her life."

That's encouraging. Wild turkeys, the Walkers have found, are beautiful, curious birds much in need of human protection- and protection from some humans.

"Bud" and Betty Ciarlo celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary Oct. 28.

Wharton's Dock

Bud Ciarlo

The Lakeshore VFD held their fund raising Turkey Shoot on October 24 under beautiful weather. There was a steady crowd but not as large as hoped for. The financial report has not been completed yet but they did make money to help the VFD operation.

They said it would not last six months. Yes, that was what some people around Dayton, Ohio were saying on Oct. 28, 1939, when Betty Hewitt and John "Bud" Ciarlo were married. Now after 53 years, they are still together. They have two children, son Fred in McGraft, Alaska and daughter Judy Hines in North Carolina. They also have six grandsons, seven great-granddaughters and two great-grandsons.

On Oct. 17, 1992, Stephanie Richey and Carl Wilkenson were joined in marriage at Lester and Pat Coffey's residence at Wharton's Dock. Pastor Ken Brown of the Walker Memorial Chapel officiated the service on their rivet bank. Stephanie's father, Jimmy Mixon, gave the bride away. Stephanie is the daughter of Pat's sister, Shirley Richey. There were approximately 30 in attendance.

On Oct. 25, Lester Coffey with the help of Debbie and Clyde Dugie surprised Pat Coffey with a over-the-hill birthday party. Her friends were there to help her through the day with barbecue and fixings. There were 15 guests. Pat has reached that dreadful age of 40 but has not yet learned that life begins at 40.

Election watch event Tuesday in Lakehills

If candidates and voters are looking for a place to wait out the election, the Lakehills American Legion hall will be the place Tuesday.

After the Legion finishes bingo, about 9:30 p.m., they'll move everything around in the Legion hall, set up a tote board for local election results and roll in a television for national results.

And 9:30 p.m. might be just the right time, because Bandera County Clerk Bernice Bates estimates that if everything goes according to plan with their new election equipment, 9:30 p.m. is the absolute earliest that county results would be out.

Persons attending are asked to bring snacks and "munchies" to share. The [illegible] will be open.

[illegible] invited to come in and watch the results, says post commander Tony Kruse.

Kruse says folks can come early to the watch and wait for the bingo session to finish (or play bingo, too).

Kruse says it's a different atmosphere presented by candidates that have come to watch the election results come in with the election over. "It's like all the mud is washed off and they stand together and watch it (the results come in). It's all over but the counting."

Lakehills Legion auxiliary will have cookie drive

The Lakehills American Legion Auxiliary Unit 410 will conduct a cookie drive during the first part of November to send "goodie" packages to the men of a U.S. Navy ship stationed in the Persian Gulf.

Homemade cookies and other overseas-shippable items will be sent to the men aboard the USS Chosen Monday, Nov. 9. Persons interested in dropping off cookies and other such baked goods can come to the Lakehills Legion hall Sunday, Nov. 8, between noon and 4 p.m. to leave their donations, says special projects chairwoman Sue Kruse.

John Conran, a 1990 graduate of Bandera High School and now a fireman aboard the USS Chosen, writes to his mother, Beverly Struthoff of Lakehills, that very few of the men aboard ship receive "goodie" packages from home. Conran shares the homemade treats he receives with as many of his fellow shipmates as possible, but there is never enough to go around.

"If this project receives a good response, maybe we can brighten the day of all the men on the ship," says Kruse.

The auxiliary members will package the treats Nov. 8 and ship them the next day. The Legionnaires have volunteered to pay the postage.

"The auxiliary will welcome baked goods from any ladies in the community," says Kruse.

Parents should be sure their children have a safe Halloween, TDH expert says

Parents need to be certain their children follow a few, simple safety tips this Halloween so that the festive occasion turns out to be a happy and healthy event.

"Supervised parties at home or school are the safest way for children to enjoy Halloween," said Charles L. Branton, head of the Product Safety Program at the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

He warned that if small children go trick-or-treating, they should be accompanied by an adult. The adult should carry a flashlight to show the way to make the children more visible to motorists.

Branton offered these additional safety tips:

• For clear vision, use make-up, instead of masks.

• When buying a costume, look for the label stating it is fire-resistant. Costumes should be brightly colored, and dark colored ones should have fluorescent or reflective tape on them.

• Teach children not to eat any treats before bringing them home for examination by an adult. Remember, many hospitals offer free X-raying of treats.

• Keep children out of the street and never let them run between parked cars.

• Parents should control the amount of treats children eat to avoid stomach aches and indigestion.

Branton said that children should stop only at homes with outside lighting and not enter the home of anyone they do not know.

He has some safety tips for homeowners, as well. "Homeowners welcoming trick-or-treaters should turn on their porch lights, restrain their dogs and clear the lawn of objects that a trick-or-treater might trip over," he said.

In addition, jack-o-lanterns and other candle-burning devices should be kept away from doorsteps and walkways to prevent igniting a costume.

Anyone wishing more information about Halloween safety can call the TDH Product Safety program at 512/458-7519.

State leaders strive for a new school funding plan

The Texas Supreme Court ruled last January that the present school funding plan violates the Texas Constitution by imposing a statewide property tax and by levying a property tax without voter approval. State lawmakers were given until June 1, 1993, to establish a new school funding plan.

The present plan being developed by state leaders would redistribute approximately $400 million from Texas' wealthiest school districts to poorer ones.

Governor Ann Richard's chief of staff, Paul Williams, said the plan being developed would require voter approval of a constitutional amendment. He said the governor's office commissioned a statewide poll about two months ago. The poll indicated that Texans support a proposal to equalize school funding by redistributing local property tax money.

The proposal is similar to the current system. Property tax is shifted from school districts with more property wealth to those with less, within county education districts.

The new proposal would capture about $400 million of local property tax revenue from about 100 to 120 of the state's 1,000-plus school districts. That money would be redistributed statewide to meet a state Supreme Court mandate that school districts receive similar revenues for similar tax effort.

First State Bank Lakehills branch manager and Vice President Sam Braswell and bank President Sully Woodland draw names for saving certificates during the Lakehills branch 5th birthday party celebration. Approximately 200 bank customers attended the birthday celebration. Joe H. Lucas was drawn for the $50 savings certificate, and Tony Kruse won the $100.

'Power worm' is a great lure, fishing tackle expert says

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

Two types of artificial lures dominate bass fishing at Medina Lake.

Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop in Lakehills says the Berkeley Power Worm is the bait of choice with rattletraps also popular. Also top water is working, especially if the sky is overcast — typical of a fall or winter day.

The Power Worm, which is rigged with a "Texas-rig" hook and weight "buried" in the center of the worm, gives off a scent in the water.

"It really attracts them," says Gallagher. "The fish hold onto it a long time." Yes, it stinks. But if it works....

The popular lengths for the worm are 4 inches and 7 1/2 inches. The best colors for the 4-inch worm are pumpkinseed and red shad. For the 7 1/2-inch worm, it's the red shad and blue fleck — especially for a clear water lake like Medina.

Other colors that work on Medina Lake are motor oil and June bug.

The rattletrap-type (Rat-L-Trap) of lures contain several B-Bs in the body of the lure. The knocking sound the lure makes as it is retrieved through the water attracts the fish. "It gets their attention," says Gallagher.

Good colors for the underwater lure are chrome with either a blue or black back. Other colors that have caught fish include chartreuse, gold and fire tiger.

Fishermen cast the lure out and retrieve it at about a six to eight-feet depth.

Most lures are going towards making sounds, says Gallagher. "Most every bait has some kind of rattle."

Top water lures that are used in the mornings are the Pop R and Zara Spook and the old reliable Tiny Torpedo.

The Pop R looks like a big popper, makes a "pop pop" noise in the water to get the fish's attention. The best colors to use are chrome or clear.

Top water lures can be used on overcast days and when the fish are shallow.

"Sometimes other things (lures) get hot," says Gallagher. One fisherman will try something and it works, then "others start hearing a good thing and everyone uses it."

Then the lure's popularity dies. "A fish may have a brain the size of a pea, but after awhile, it sees the same thing all the time and his buddies keep getting yanked out, the fish wise up."

Of course, worms remain popular, as they have since their introduction and the number one artificial lure on Medina Lake.

Coach Barbara Mazurek's cross country varsity boys team came up with a hard-fought second place finish in the district meet held Saturday, Oct. 24 at Medina Valley High School in Castroville, qualifying them for the regional meet at UTSA on Nov. 7.

Battling illness and injury, the team came up with a total of 74 points, beating a friendly rival, Hondo, who finished with 83 team points. Ingram's Tom Moore High School won the district match with a low team total of only 21 points.

Mazurek credits the victory to [illegible] part of team members. Jess Edwards brought home an individual medal, coming in 8th in the three mile test of speed and endurance. Brent Mansfield and Justin Edwards both ran personal best times in the meet.

Bandera will face Devine Friday

A victory would assure the Bulldogs of a spot in the play-offs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

There are two big games left for Bandera [illegible] play-off spot with a win over Devine Friday.

But if they don't win at home this week, then they will have to win next week in Castroville and even a win there may not ensure the Bulldogs of post season play.

Bandera got help in its district play-off hopes when the Medina Valley Panthers beat the Devine Warhorses 21-14 last Friday. Both Medina Valley and Bandera share first place in district with a 5-0 district record. (Medina Valley is undefeated this season.)

The loss by Devine shows the Bulldogs that their opponents this week are defeatable.

Storer said the Bulldogs have to be ready to play Friday's game and he looks forward to playing two of the best AAA teams around in these two final games. "It's why coaches conch and players play.

"It (the season) has been building to it all year. I'm excited about playing a team like Devine."

Bandera was defeated by Devine last year in the play-offs and Bandera will see a team that runs similar plays as last year.

Devine has good defense and [illegible] runs more rushing plays than most teams. "They use quite a lot of options," said Storer. Bandera is also an option team on offense.

"They have the dive, speed and counter option," said Storer. Their quarterback also runs a lot out of the option. Devine uses two quarterbacks in their offense.

They also run a wingback counter run. In that play, the play looks like it's going to the right, the hand-off looks like it will go to the wingback with him going right, but the wingback goes left. Classic misdirection. It's still used because it still works.

The biggest threat from Devine is senior linebacker and running back Matt Botone. "He's better than their last year's linebacker."

Also a threat is defensive back Doug McCormick, who also plays wide receiver on offense. "He has lots of interceptions."

Storer does not expect Devine to be "down" after its loss to Medina Valley. "Devine might have been down Saturday, but they'll be ready to play us this Friday night. That loss won't make that much difference."

In that game Medina Valley went to an early 21-0 lead and then got conservative. Devine took advantage of that and was able to score twice on misdirection plays.

Bandera's advantage against Devine this year will be that the Bulldog team has played together all year.

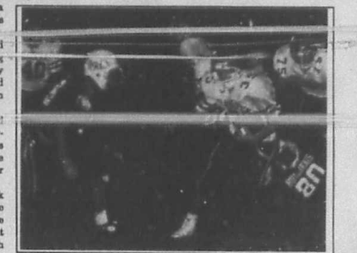
When Bandera took on Devine in the first round of the play-offs last year, Bandera was adjusting to new quarterbacks (Terry Robertson and Brian Flack) because Chris Henaley was injured. Also out with injuries was Ethan Timmons and Cody Woodland. In all, five starters weren't in the that play-off game.

For Bandera to get into the play-offs this year, the best plan is to win the last two games. No questions asked, Bandera's in first.

If Bandera beats Devine and loses to Medina Valley, Medina Valley will be in first, Bandera second and Devine in third. Bandera will go to the play-offs as the district runner-up.

If Bandera loses to Devine and beats Medina Valley (and Devine wins their last game), there will be three teams with a 6-1 district record. Then the play-off representatives are determined by positive points — the two teams that have the largest positive point differential in the games involving the three teams will go on to the play-offs.

That's best explained with an example: team one beats team two 21-14. Team one has a positive point differential of 7. Team two beats team three 20-17. Team two has a 3- point differential. Team three beats team one 28-17. Team three is up 11. Team three and team one go to the play-offs. (There are no negative points and the maximum differential from a game is 14 points.)



Bandera running back Robert Bradford eluded Somerset tacklers Friday night and picked up first down yardage. Bradford was the leading rusher in the Bulldogs 3-0 district victory.

Rocksprings Angoras best Bobcats 15-3

Mistakes slip Medina to 3-2 district record

The Rocksprings Angoras took advantage of Medina mistakes to score three times and hand the Bobcats a 15-3 loss Friday, Oct. 23. The defeat dropped the 'Cats to 3-2 in District 28-A.

The Angoras recovered a Jason Small fumble on the Bobcat 24 yard line late in the first quarter. A few plays later running back David Ortiz carried the ball in for the score from the two.

Halfway through the second period Medina again dropped the ball when Clifford Watts lost the handle and Rocksprings snatched it on the Bobcat 20. The resultant Angora TD gave Rocksprings a 13-0 lead with six minutes left in the half.

Medina put their only points on the scoreboard with a Nathan Vannatter field goal after the 'Cats could get no closer to the goal than the Angora 6 yard stripe.

The goats trapped Bobcat running back Chris Lewis behind the goal line for a safety in the final two minutes of the game to round out the score to 15-3.

Medina will journey to Leakey on Friday, Oct. 30 and will host Center Point the following week to end their regular season play.

Bandera JV team remains undefeated with 7-0 record

The Bandera Junior Varsity football team once again beat its opponent and remains undefeated this year with a 7-0 record after beating Somerset 31-0 in Bandera Thursday, Oct. 22.

Because Somerset had no freshman team, the Bandera freshmen suited up with the junior varsity. (And some of the JV suited up with the varsity Friday, Oct. 23, but because of the close game, the JV players didn't get to play.)

Rushing touchdowns were made by freshmen Adam Diaz (35 yards), Eric Gratteau, and two by freshman James Williams (one for 45 yards). Matt Maszurek took a 5-yard touchdown pass from Kyle Woodland.

Only one of the five extra points was good.

John Minturn would have had a touchdown, but it was called back on a clipping penalty.

The eighth and seventh grade football teams played Somerset in Somerset. The eighth grade lost 12-0 and the seventh grade won 14-6. The coaches commented that even though the eighth grade lost, they played better than they had before.

Dear Bandera CountyVoter,

I take this means to personally ask for your vote and support for re-election to the Court of Appeals.

I have been a practicing attorney for over twenty (20) years and have served as a Judge in several of our Texas courts for almost fourteen years. My background includes: Justice, Fourth Court of Appeals 1989 - present; Zavala County Judge 1981 - 1988; Justice of the Peace 1978 - 1981; Austin Assistant City Attorney 1972 - 1973; Assistant Attorney General of Texas 1969 - 1972; University of Texas Doctor of Jurisprudence 1969 and Business Administration in 1966. I am 48 years old, married with 5 children and two grandchildren.

My record on the Court of Appeals is one of independence, impartiality, and productiveness. No other candidate can bring this actual on-the-job experience to the court. In addition, I believe that it is both an asset and a benefit to the entire district to have on the Court an elected Justice from a rural county with a rural perspective. I am proud to serve at that Justice.

I ask for your vote to continue serving the people of the district to provide the effective justice you deserve.

Brent Hargis advances to FFA area competition

Brent Hargis was Bandera's ace in the hole in FFA District Leadership contests held here on Oct. 20. Hargis, winner of the Creed Speaking competition, was the county's lone contest winner out of eight entries fielded by Bandera and Medina FFA chapters. Kyle Phillips of Medina finished third in the Creed Speaking competition.

Bandera's FFA's radio team finished second. They now qualify for the area competition which will be held in San Marcos on Nov. 2. The radio contest requires team members to host a six to eight minute radio program. Radio team members are: Dennis Hargis, Debbi Falardeau and Greg King.

Brent Hargis

Leadership contests are hosted annually by the FFA organization. They test skills in communication, critical thinking and organization.

Hargis bested eight other contestants in the Creed Speaking contest in which contestants recite from memory the five-paragraph FFA Creed. The Creed is a statement of beliefs and principals espoused by the FFA organization.

"I wanted the chance to compete and win, so I feel that this was a great opportunity for me," said Hargis. "I felt good about the contest. I just wasn't sure if it was good enough to win."

Bandera FFA advisor Tom Maynard, who is coaching teams for his first year in Bandera said of Hargis, "Brent has exhibited remarkable enthusiasm and a tremendous work ethic in preparing for this contest. His work really paid off."

Veteran Bandera FFA advisor Telvy Robbins said, "We did real well overall. We had a late start with the teams this year, and next year we will do even better."

Medina placed Third in Junior Chapter Conducting Team.

Contest results include: Brent Hargis, First Place in Creed Speaking; Debbi Falardeau, Dennis Hargis and Greg King, Second Place in Radio; Susie Dice, Gabe Lacey and J.T. Turner, Fourth Place in Junior Skill Demonstration; Fifth Place in Jr. Chapter Conducting with Brent Hargis, Brandye Moore, Scott Schindler, Jesse McAlister, Stacy Kincy and Wesley Cudd; Fifth Place in FFA Quiz with Shane Clark, Michele Knowles and Jason Lopez, and another Fifth Place for Dennis Hargis in Extemporaneous Public Speaking.

McFadin recognized in Utopia FFA

On Saturday, Oct. 3, Jim McFadin was recognized as a State FFA officer at a banquet held as an opening to the State Fair of Texas. Jim was presented with a medal to commemorate the 1992 state fair. Jim was elected Vice President of the State FFA organization in July at a convention held in Seguin. His office enables him to travel throughout the state speaking to FFA chapters on the importance of agriculture, leadership and teamwork, all goals in FFA. Also attending the banquet were Rick and Suzie McClelland, FFA advisor and Jessie McFadin. Jim is the son of John and Jessie McFadin of Utopia.

Bulldog Seniors lead the way

Coach attributed much of season's success to their leadership

By Tim McGrath
Special to the Bulletin.

If you are searching for positive role models for the young children of our community, you need not look further than the Bandera Bulldog seniors.

The '92 Bulldogs improved their District 26AAA record to a perfect 5-0 with a last-minute victory at Somerset last Friday night, and according to Bandera head coach Chris Storer, much of this season's success can be attributed to the leadership provided by the senior Bulldogs.

"You very rarely see a successful high school or college team without senior leadership and here at Bandera our seniors exhibit good leadership by example," Storer said.

At the nucleus of the Bulldog roster is a group of 17 senior players who set the example with their hard work ethic, enthusiasm, determination and pride. It must be noted that their positive influence is hardly limited to the football field, but can be seen and felt throughout the entire community.

"We stress role model behavior here and remind our players that with participation there is responsibility," Storer commented.

"It's important that our seniors understand that they are looked up to and are admired by the younger students and athletes in our school district, so making good grades and proper behavior are important factors in 'leading by example'", Storer said.

"We also encourage participation in community activities and events and even have our players go to the elementary school to talk to the younger students. It's a good experience for them and creates more awareness of their role as models for younger children," Storer remarked.

The 1992 Bulldog seniors include Adam Alvizo, 66; Hans Box, 59; Gordon Bradford, 64; Harlan Dews, 87; Trey D'Spain, 88; Jess Edwards, 26; Rickie Gard, 30; Matt Hussion, 8; Joe Lopez, 77; Mike Martinez, 40; Donald Mattern, 69; J.B. Neuenschwander, 25; Terry Robertson, 5; Jake Stricker, 27; Ramiro Tirado Jr., 37; Wes Upton, 86; and Cody Woodland, 60.

This fine group of young men have assumed their roles as leaders while inheriting the responsibilities passed on to them by former graduates of Bandera High. Their performance, both on and off the field, is certainly admirable and deserving of much praise.

While the Bulldog seniors participate in their final year of football at Bandera, most have one eye on the future and expectations are high. Following graduation in May, they will embark on a new journey with greater responsibilities and tougher competition.

Alvizo, whose present interests include drawing and carpentry, plans to attend college and enter the field of architecture after graduation. He is the son of Ben and Yolanda Alvizo of Lakehills.

Box, a member of the National Honor Society and University Interscholastic League, is headed for Texas A & M University where he will major in engineering. He is the son of John D. Box of Pipe Creek and Astrid M. Box of Bandera.

Bradford, whose athletic activities also include basketball and track, has his sights set on the University of Texas and a career as an environmental engineer. His parents are Roger and Debbie Roberts of Bandera.

Notre Dame is the college of choice for Dews, while a scholarship in engineering is a major goal for the future. Dews is the son of Hampton and Patricia Dews of Bandera.

D'Spain, who enjoys calfroping in his spare time, hopes to attend college as a business major while participating as a member of the rodeo team. Trey is the son of Ray D'Spain of Pipe Creek and Judy May of Tarpley.

Edwards plans to attend college on a Marine ROTC scholarship while majoring in education. He is presently a member of the Texas Association of Future Educators. Jess is the son of Jay and Jill Edwards of Pipe Creek.

The 17 Bulldog seniors represent a wide variety of hopes and ambitions for the future, but the groundwork and foundations are being set today, as senior leaders at Bandera High School.

Storer summed up their present and future success this way: "The main reason for their success today and in the future is their work ethic. They are all individuals but realize the significance of 'being in this together.' We here at Bandera are certainly proud of their accomplishments and the contributions they have made to our community. They are the leaders but we are all Bandera. We are all Bulldogs and we are all in this together."

AQHA grades eight races at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

The American Quarter Horse Association has graded eight of Bandera Downs' quarter horse races in 1993 [illegible] This means that not all 2-year-old quarter horses can enter the futurity, just ones meeting race criteria.

The championship futurity is [illegible]

And two of those races be Grade I, the highest grade available, up from one this year.

The two Grade I races are Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bower's Graham Farms Futurity and the already announced Kansas Futurity that was transfered from Ruidoso Downs to Bandera.

The new graded race is Bower's Quarter Horse of Texas Breeders Championship Futurity, given a Restricted Grade III. A "Restricted Grade III" status means that not all 2-year-old quarter horses can enter the futurity, just ones meeting race criteria.

The championship futurity is [illegible]

that were nominated to the race, i.e., horseowners pay into the futurity account once and then can run in the races in the series. The $22,400 division I and II of the breeders futurity was run this year and the $57,400 championship is set for Nov. 29, the last day of the 1992 racing season.

Other races that have the same grading they had last year are the Graham Farms Derby (Grade II), Six Flags Futurity (Grade III), and Six Flags Derby (Grade III).

Bass Club schedules tournament

An after-tournament party will be held for members of the Lake Medina Bass Club after its first tournament of the 1992-93 season and the "Top Six Fish-off" for the 1991-92 season Saturday, Oct. 31 at the Lackland Air Force Recreation Center in Mico.

Weigh-in is at 3 p.m. and the party will start after a short meeting to hand out prizes for the tournament and the fish off and discuss when the next tournament will be held.

Funds for the party come from Jim Gallagher of Jim's Rebait Tackle Shop in Lakehilla. Ten percent of the money bass club members spent at Gallagher's store on Park Road 37 was set aside for the party. There will be hot dogs and drinks "as long as the 10 percent holds out," said Gallagher.

Boat check for the tournament will be held from 6 to 6:30 a.m. at the Lackland Air Force Base Recreation Center in Mico. Start time is 6:45 a.m.

The entry fee is $10 per person. Fishermen wishing to participate in the "Big Bass Pot" can add $2 to their entry fee.

Ninety percent of the entry fee is awarded to the first-, second-, and third-place fishermen.

Todd Rouch

Rouch completes basic training

Todd Rouch, a 1991 graduate of Bandera High School, completed the second step of his U.S. Army training on Oct. 5, and is now serving as a parts and records specialist at Fort Hood in Killeen.

He enlisted in the Army in May, and he completed his basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C. on July 23. Rouch then completed his second step, or Advanced Individual Training (AIT) at Fort Lee, Va. He recieved several awards, including medals for marksmanship and hand grenade skills, and he graduated with a 92 percent grade average.

Breeder's Cup races to be telecast at Bandera Downs

Bandera Downs will host the Breeder's Cup Championship races live via satellite on [illegible]

Breeder's Cup will be run in Gulfstream Park in Florida and promises to be one of the most well-balanced fields in recent history.

The gates will open at 11 a.m. on Saturday. The first post time will be at noon. Bandera Downs will also accept [illegible] million dollars to last year's winners. Advanced wagering will also be accepted on all of the Breeder's Cup races including the National Pick-7 on Friday, Oct. 30.

The Breeder's Cup Classic could prove to be a showdown between the United States and [illegible] breds. Leading the charge for the U.S. will be the almost invincible Pleasant Tap, and this year's classic winner, A.P. Indy. While the Europeans will send Arazi and Rodrigo de Triano as a pair of formidable opponents. The Breeder's Cup Classic could well determine Horse of the Year honors this season.

Other highly regarded individuals include: (Sprint Division) Rubiano, the fast closing gray who has been unstoppable in sprints on the East coast; (Distaff Division) Paseana, the top handicap mare in the country who strung together six consecutive victories before suffering defeat in the Pacific Classic; (Turf Division) Sky Classic, who recently broke the 1 1/2 mile record held by Secretariat for more than a decade, and (Juvenile Division) Gilded Time, the undefeated two year-old colt who has already sprinted six furlongs in 1:07.4 and was even more impressive at one mile.

The first 1000 patrons entering Bandera Downs on Bandera's Cup Day, Saturday, Oct. 31, will also receive a wallet containing a mutuel ticket good for a $2 wager on Sunday, Nov. 1.

Lakehills man was the first to encounter Africanized bees

Bandera County's first reported occurrence of Africanized honey bees, the so-called "killer bees," were found in a water meter in Pebble Beach by a Lakehills man.

The Bandera County Extension Service announced the county was under a bee quarantine last week after tests confirmed the sample of bees. It was the third sample the extension service has sent for testing from Bandera County, but the first one to come back confirmed Africanized.

Bandera County Fresh Water District No. 1 (Pebble Beach Water Supply Company) worker Clyde Kelly of Lakehills was checking water meters in the Pebble Beach subdivision — the southernmost and a far east section of Bandera County — when he found the bees.

Kelly said he went to an underground water meter just as always and a few bees swarmed out. So he "stomped them." He admits that was a "bad thing to do."

The bees became agitated and a swarm flew out after him. "I headed for truck, but they were going into the truck." He changed his mind about hiding out in the truck and "headed down the road."

He went to former sheriff and deputy constable Guy Pickett's house and they returned to the truck with insect spray after about 15 minutes. "They had settled down, but some were still flying around," said Kelly.

"We sprayed them good and killed them," said Kelly. But Pickett commented that the bees seemed too active for regular bees. That led to the first suspicion that these were more than just regular honey bees.

An invasion of $2 bills? Bandera Downs announced plans to pay their employees in $2 bills during the weekend of Oct. 23-25, and now they are tracking the bills' progress. "By paying our employees in $2 bills, we hope to show the merchants in the surrounding areas how much of Bandera's payroll is actually being spent in their locations," said track spokesman Don Rhine. "This will also give our marketing department a way of tracking the economic impact... to the region." Rhine asked that merchants keep track of the $2 bills they receive.

Brilliant Kem grabbed a win last weekend in thoroughbred contest at Bandera Downs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

[illegible] started from the back of the quarter horse chute.

Nine thoroughbreds tried an approximate 1-3/16 two turn route race at Bandera Downs Sunday.

And except for the start — when it seemed like forever before the horses would cross in front of the grandstands for the first time, the race boiled down to the the standard strategy that wins a route race — lay back and save your horse, then take off in the final turn and zoom down the stretch.

Brilliant Kem, ridden by former Louisiana jockey J.T. Cahanin, did just that and the 5-year-old gelding grabbed his third win in a row and 10th life-time win.

Sunday's $1,900 thoroughbred starter allowance (the 10th race) first saw Tonys White Shoes, with jockey Sam Thompson in the irons, take the early lead coming out of the shute and was five lengths ahead as the horses passed by the grandstands for the first [illegible] turn, 3-1 Tonys White Shoes was still the leader by five with 5-2 Brilliant Kem and 10-1 Mite E. Wolf positioned second and third, not letting the early leader get too far away.

As the horses reached the far turn, Brilliant Kem and Mite E. Wolf had caught up with Tonys White Shoes and Brilliant Kem was at the rail and took over first in the turn with Tonys White Shoes racing a little wide and holding on to second as Mite E. Wolf tired and kept third.

Coming into the stretch, Brilliant Kem was leading and running strong, Tonys White Shoes was second and a little wide with 13-1 Co Pilot coming into third at the rail.

As the horses crossed the wire, Brilliant Kem couldn't be run down and won by 4 3/4 lengths, Co Pilot was up late for second, Tonys White Shoes tired but held on for third, and Mite E. Wolf barely beat out Oriana Slew for fourth (by a neck).

The 8-5 One Star General never fired, was never near the front and finished sixth.

While Thompson missed winning the 10th race, he did win the previous race — an $1,500 Arabian allowance — aboard the 5-2 Tyx.

Tyx came from fourth in the back stretch of the 6-furlong contest and was battling for first with 5-1 Pave, ridden by Jody Wright, at the top of the stretch. Pave and Tyx raced neck and neck down the stretch with Tyx beating out Pave by a head at the wire.

In Sunday's featured race, the 8-1 thoroughbred Loom Fruit, with jockey Jerry Lee Yoakum (known for riding [illegible] won the 6-furlong $2,800 allowance beating out the 8-5 favorite Udino by a head. Both Loom Fruit and Udino, ridden by leading thoroughbred rider Buck Harris, pulled ahead in the last three strides of the race. Loom Fruit just made bigger strides.

Down the stretch, it had looked like 9-5 Silver Echo was heading for the win, but the Chad Mason-ridden 8-year-old horse had to settle for third and 8-1 Captain Bingo ran fourth, when it had looked like the 6-year-old gelding had a good chance for second.

In Saturday's racing action, jockey Ben Lewis rode three winners, 9-5 quarter horse Jetin Toro in the fifth race, 7-1 thoroughbred Mister Don C. in the eighth race, and the 8-5 favorite thoroughbred Mattie Moonlights in the ninth race.

"It's a wonderful day," said Lewis on the walkway back to the jockey's room after the last race of the day. "Three (wins) out of five (races) isn't bad.

"I thank the good Lord (for the day)."

Lewis is an Oklahoma [illegible]

Louisiana for the last eight years before coming to Bandera last year.

In other racing action Saturday, the 3-1 Pocita In The Money won the featured race, a $2,400 400-yard quarter horse allowance. The 3-year-old filly, ridden by Frank Betancourt, won the straight-away race by 3/4 lengths, beating out 7-1 By Yawls Hand (second) and the even-money favorite Shake Me Easy, which ran third.

In Friday's racing action, jockey Tad Leggett rode three winners — the 6-1 quarter horse Prissys Glass in the first race, the 4-5 favorite thoroughbred Princess Dove in the second race, and the 2-1 favorite thoroughbred Tia's Cheetah in the tenth race.

In other racing action Friday, two time trials for 2-year-old quarter horses put Sure Streakin as the fastest qualifier for the $7,900 350-yard Freshman Futurity with a time of 17.98 seconds for trainer Toby Keeton and jockey Nicky Wilson.

ahead as the horses passed by the grandstands for the first turn, 3-1 Tonys White Shoes was still the leader by five with 5-2 Brilliant Kem and 10-1 Mite E. Wolf positioned second and third, not letting the early leader get too far away.

As the horses reached the far turn, Brilliant Kem and Mite E. Wolf had caught up with Tonys White Shoes and Brilliant Kem was at the rail and took over first in the turn with Tonys White Shoes racing a little wide and holding on to second as Mite E. Wolf tired and kept third.

Coming into the stretch, Brilliant Kem was leading and running strong, Tonys White Shoes was second and a little wide with 13-1 Co Pilot coming into third at the rail.

As the horses crossed the wire, Brilliant Kem couldn't be run down and won by 4 3/4 lengths, Co Pilot was up late for second, Tonys White Shoes tired but held on for third, and Mite E. Wolf barely beat out Oriana Slew for fourth (by a neck).

The 8-5 One Star General never fired, was never near the front and finished sixth.

While Thompson missed winning the 10th race, he did win the previous race — an $1,500 Arabian allowance — aboard the 5-2 Tyx.

Tyx came from fourth in the back stretch of the 6-furlong contest and was battling for first with 5-1 Pave, ridden by Jody Wright, at the top of the stretch. Pave and Tyx raced neck and neck down the stretch with Tyx beating out Pave by a head at the wire.

In Sunday's featured race, the 5-1 thoroughbred Loom Fruit, with jockey Jerry Lee Yoakum (known for riding the day)."

Lewis is an Oklahoma Louisiana for the last eight years before coming to Bandera last year.

In other racing action Saturday, the 3-1 Pocita In The Money won the featured race, a $2,400 400-yard quarter horse allowance. The 3-year-old filly, ridden by Frank Betancourt, won the straight-away race by 3/4 lengths, beating out 7-1 By Yawls Hand (second) and the even-money favorite Shake Me Easy, which ran third.

In Friday's racing action, jockey Tad Leggett rode three winners — the 6-1 quarter horse Prissys Glass in the first race, the 4-5 favorite thoroughbred Princess Dove in the second race, and the 2-1 favorite thoroughbred Tia's Cheetah in the tenth race.

In other racing action Friday, two time trials for 2-year-old quarter horses put Sure Streakin as the fastest qualifier for the $7,900 350-yard Freshman Futurity with a time of 17.98 seconds for trainer Toby Keeton and jockey Nicky Wilson.

PIPE CREEK, TEXAS

Once Lipan Apache country, the land where Pipe Creek Junction stands was first granted to a railroad company. William J. Hamilton, son of Sheriff Henry Hamilton, patented the land on August 29, 1878, building a cotton gin and grist mill on the north side of Highway 16 and a little to the west. The gin's large cistern can still be seen from the restaurant.

Felix and Harriet Newcomer later bought the small portion of the Hamilton ranch which extended south of Highway 16 and sold the one-acre store corner to R.B. and Carrie Keefe on March 3, 1911 for $150. The Keefes built the first store at this location in the spring of that year. It was a two-story frame building with the store on the first floor and their residence on the second floor. After only a few months, the Keefes sold everything back to the Newcomers. The Newcomer's son Jim then ran the store adding shed wings to both sides of the original building.

In 1914 Tom W. Deakin, Sr. offered Jim Newcomer and his widowed mother a 480 acre ranch north of Pipe Creek as an even trade for the store and the offer was too much to resist. The Deakins then ran the store for the next four years. After the Deakins, a number of other people-- Dick Cox, Ernest Jung and Henry Dorrow, John T. Dixon, Elmer Pickens, and Lawrence Edwards-- tried their hand at running the store. Dick Cox was the first of the owners to buy a motor-powered truck to haul supplies which he purchased in 1913.

In the spring of 1924, Adolph and Loura Schott took over the operation of the store. Loura was Jim Newcomer's daughter. In 1930 Adolph built the dance hall to the east of the store doing much of the building himself. Dancing, movies, and skating were held in the hall. For a while the Mormons met there on Sunday mornings when they had no place to meet. In 1936 when the road to San Antonio was widened for the paving of Highway 16, the current store was built. Again Adolph did much of the framing with help from Jonathan Newcomer and Dumpy McCarthy. Henry Gombert of Boerne did the rock work. The store was the first place in Pipe Creek to receive electricity from the Bandera Electric Coop, being connected December 24, 1940. In 1944 Adolph and Loura leased the store to the L.M. Clepton's who built the cafe on the corner which Earl White later ran and where Hank Kruger has his real estate office.

In September 1951 Ed and Ann Jennings took charge of the store. After Earl White moved his cafe from next door, Ed began aiming more at the convenience market. The older natives continued to bring their eggs and some produce in to trade for needed staples until well into the 1960s. Ed made the store into a notable tourist attraction with his novel items and humorous signs posted around such as: the parking meter next to the real estate office with a sign that said "First and only parking meter in Bandera County," a post with a "City Limits" sign nailed to both sides of the post, a sign on the front door that said "No dogs or horses allowed," a coon skin cap placed on a mounted deer's head with a sign hanging around the deer's neck that said "Me too" during the Davy Crockett coon skin cap craze, a coconut hanging over the vegetable bin with a sign that said "Squeeze this, not the tomatoes," a large cracker barrel on the counter when Captain Gus was popular on TV, and many more things. The "Marrying Oaks" in back of the store were a popular place to be married by Justice of the Peace Jennings. Ed operated the store for more than thirty years, retiring and closing the store in the fall of 1982.

-Jay Edwards

Don and Ginger, former owners of "Helotes Cafe," purchased the property in the spring of 1986, the corner where the old store and dance hall sits. They remodeled the old store into a restaurant known as "The Pipe Creek Junction Cafe" which opened August 1986. The cafe is open 6 a.m. till 11 p.m. six days a week proudly serving breakfast, lunch and dinner. They are well known for their freshly prepared food, the ample portions and their reasonable prices. Pipe Creek Junction Cafe's menu varies from breakfast plates and tacos, to weekday lunch plate specials, to charbroiled fresh steaks and burgers, to fresh seafood, rabbit, frog legs and chicken breast, to homemade onion rings, chicken fried steak, to fresh baked pies, cookies, fudge, bread and homemade ice cream. Beer and wine served. Tuesday thru Friday all-U- care-to-eat specials with farm raised catfish (W-F) and fried fresh gulf shrimp (Tu-Thur). Customer special orders available for dinners and baked desserts. If you have a chance, go by and dine with them in their casual, antiqus (B.S.) filled, friendly dining rooms. If not, the full menu is available to go by calling 535-4742 for directions. Pipe Creek Junction Cafe is located 9 miles east of Bandera on Highway 16 at FM 1283.

Maple trees.

One local grower says getting the right variety is what's important

By Larry T. Williams

Maple trees are not hard to grow in Texas. According to Baxter Adams of Medina, you just have to plant the right type of maple.

He says the proper maple tree for Hill Country planting is the one which grows here naturally. That is, it used to until an over population of livestock and now white-tailed deer have eaten the maple into near non-existance in many areas.

The native big toothed maple, Acer Grandidentatum, says Adams is a favorite munchie for browsing animals and is seldom seen in its infant stage where large populations of deer, goats, cattle and sheep dominate. But the trees thrive when a balance of natural predators keep browsing animal numbers reasonable.

For years Lost Maples State Natural Area has been a favorite destination of visitors to the Hill Country who have marveled at the scenic beauty of the fall colors painting the rugged limestone scarps and hills.

This isolated and insulated pocket of 'lost' maple trees located in the far northwest corner of Bandera County is renown state wide and beyond for its spectacular show of fall color, highlighted by the brilliant reds, yellows and oranges that flame from the branches of the big toothed maples native to the area.

Now folks can take a little of that glorious color home with them in the form of trees which, if planted and maintained PROPERLY, will grow to an admirable size in five years or so.

Adams, whose Love Creek Orchards in Medina is better known for apple growing, now has over 5,000 ready-to-plant big tooth maples in stock and will include how to plant instructions with each tree sold.

"We've been trying to grow maples since about 1983," says Adams. "The fall of 1982 was the best year for color I've seen and that's when we got interested in maples. That was right after we bought our ranch and we really didn't know one tree from another. As the trees colored that year, each day just got more spectacular."

Adams started trying to find someone who sold big tooth maples and couldn't locate anyone. "No one was propagating the trees and everybody told us that they couldn't be grown from seeds, he said.

The Love Creek folks began digging and transplanting seedlings that year and found that process successful. "We discovered the hardest problem was finding the small trees before the deer got to them," said Adams. "The trees are a type of sugar maple and may be sweet tasting to the deer. The only place we could locate baby trees was in an area near our house where the deer didn't come."

Through experimentation the growers learned that the young trees thrived on high nitrogen fertilizer and water. "We found that if the trees were planted in a well drained site and fed about four times a year for the first three to four years, they would usually grow in excess of five feet a year," said Adams.

"The tough time for us is growing the baby trees that are an inch high and have two leaves into plants that are six to eight inches high...the first year is hard. Once we get the trees that large, they just take off. The trees we sell are three years old, five to six feet tall and in five gallon pots."

Even with his growing skills improving, Adams could not keep ahead of the demand for his trees. "We'd gather maybe 500 new trees a year and we easily sold that many just by word of mouth," he said. Then about three years ago, Adams was told of a place that was full of maple trees. "I took a look and found more maple trees than you can imagine. There sure weren't any deer in THAT valley," he laughed.

A deal was struck with the land owner and now Love Creek has a steady supply of baby trees and a growing supply of transplantable big toothed maples. "We have the largest number of propagated maple trees in the state," says Adams. "These trees are a great substitute if someone has oak trees that are dying. They're good hardwood trees that are not affected by insects or disease. They will of course grow in our alkaline soil and also do well in acid soils like one finds in east Texas. We even have customers with healthy trees in Lubbock. They are also drought tolerant and once they are established, require very little care."

The Love Creek crew places the tiny fall harvested seedlings in a mist house which keeps the plants at a proper humidity and temperature. Even with all their care, a 10 percent loss is common the first year. After the growing trees are potted, a further loss of five to 10 percent is still expected. "Our losses are considerable but the trees that reach three years old are of tough gene stock. They'll survive."

Adams says one of the main reasons transplanted maple trees fail is injury from string trimmers. "Nearly every time I'm called to check on a tree that has problems, I find trunk damage from string trimmers, says Adams. "Some have been completely girdled. Maple trees have tender bark for several years and are easily damaged. People need to keep grass at least four feet away from the tree's trunk and instead provide a six inch deep layer of mulch," he says. "That not only eliminates the string trimmer damage but also keeps the tree's roots cool and moist."

Right now is the perfect time to start planting potted trees," says Adams. "Once the leaves have begun to turn, the trees are entering dormacy and will transplant just fine."

Lost Maples will remain a favorite destination, for few places exhibit such a clustering of colors to be enjoyed in a small area. But land owners can not only add to their own personal landscapes by planting maples. They can help continue a natural beauty of Texas that will extend far beyond the present.

Vivid and intense

Local color.

Bigtooth Maple trees display their finery at Lost Maples State Natural Area near Vanderpool.

By Peggy Tobin

Springtime in Texas has always been known far and wide for the expanse of wildflowers blanketing much of the state in a kaleidoscope of color– from intense bluebonnet blue to the vivid firewheel red and yellow.

Fall is also a time of color in Texas, if you know where to look.

There are the romantic shimmers of turning hardwoods in the forests of East Texas and the desert colors of mountain trees in the Big Bend.

And, in sheltered draws and shaded hillsides of the Balcones Canyonlands of Southwest Texas, there are hidden treasures of red and gold. Such treasures can be discovered in abundance in Bandera County.

While Texas red oaks blaze in autumn on steep slopes and such rarities as the American Smoke Tree send flashes of rose-red through fading greenery along creeks, the star of Nature's show in the Bandera Hill Country is the Bigtooth Maple. There are two similar varieties, the endemic Uvalde Bigtooth Maple and its close cousin, the Bigtooth Maple found also in many places across southwestern highlands and in Mexico.

Small stands of these bright trees can be encountered in nooks and crannies around the county where they are being protected from grazing animals, but the largest and most accessible colonies have been set aside for public enjoyment in Lost Maples State Natural Area. At the headwaters of the Sabinal River, this outstanding amenity is located five miles north of Vanderpool on Ranch Road 187.

Mid-October to early November is said to be prime time to visit the area, and since development of the preserve by the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife began in the 1870s the stream of botanists, artists, nature lovers, campers and hikers has increased each year.

Weekends during the high season bring crowds, so park rangers urge those who can get away from the workaday world during the week to come then for maximum enjoyment of the serenity of the scene.

Most visitors choose the easy walk from the main parking lot which traces the course of the rippling river, with steps carved out on rocky rises alternating with a level trail following what was an old ranch road. Most people turn back at the point where the trail leaves the river to take a sharp left up a side draw.

Those who go on find themselves passing primitive campgrounds under pleasant shade before turning sharp left again to climb to an upland oak-juniper ridge which seems to extend for miles. Ridges like this are limestone fingers of the Edwards Plateau, a major feature of Texas topography.

After topping out and extending for a way along the ridge, the trail takes a steep downward plunge to reach a watery bottomland canyon before completing this most-popular walking tour of Lost Maples by coming back once more to the parking areas.

The maples draw most attention along the way, though typical Texas trees such as the ubiquitous ashe juniper or cedar, escarpment black cherry, sycamore, native pecan, various oaks and Texas ash trees can be noted.

Fall is not the only season when visitors come to Lost Maples to see unusual sights of nature. Because of the beautiful cover of trees and undergrowth, the protection from extreme heat and cold, and the never-failing flow of water, many wild animals and hundreds of species of birds either live or migrate through the Sabinal Canyon.

Best known because of their controversial status as rare and endangered species are the golden-cheeked warbler and the black-cap vireo. In Spring when they are singing and nesting, birdwatching groups come from all over the world to observe these small birds.

In line to one of Nature's intricate little plans, golden-cheeks build their nests only with the fibrous strips of bark shed by mature juniper trees and for that reason have a habitat confined to the Balcones Fault zone of Texas where the trees occur abundantly. Lost Maples is one of the havens most favored by the warblers.

On any given day in April, there can be a busload of birders from North Texas on their spring expedition or an intent couple from the state of Maine raising binoculars to view a female golden-cheek sitting calmly on her nest in a branch overhanging the very trail where so many people pass.

As easy as the warbler is to see, it is more common only to hear the elusive black-cap vireo. This bird is very small and lacks the vivid coloration of the other. For some reason, this tiny creature can usually be found in Lost Maples on the hill side next to the RV parking lot, where though he rarely shows himself as he flits about, his song filters through the thick growth of oak and juniper.

The black-cap is said to enjoy commotion, not solitude, so perhaps that is the reason birders have established that the RV lot is the place to hear him, if not see him. Mr Vireo likes hanging out where the action is.

With so many visitors vying for spaces to stay overnight or for a long weekend in the park, it is good to know that 20 picnic sites, 30 general camping spaces designed for RVs and trailers, and eight primitive camping areas are available. Especially in Spring and Fall, it is necessary to call park headquarters for reservations. The number is 966-3413, and office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week, extending till 8 p.m. on weekends.

Historical postscript: Anglo-American settlers began arriving as early as the 1850s to live in the Sabinal Canyon. Some of them, to their sorrow, thought the maple trees they found there could be tapped for sugar, New England style. They killed the trees from which they attempted to extract syrup but made a success of farming with an unusual system of irrigation ditches by means of which they diverted river water to their fields.

They were unwittingly carrying out the dreams of a French socialist of the 19th century, Victor Prosper Considerant, acquired 20,000 acres in the canyon, to which he hoped to move his colony of political dissidents after a failure at La Reunion, now part of Dallas.

Operating from San Antonio, Considerant and his backers went broke again and never realized their grandiose plan.

Strangely enough, these dreamers and doers were not the first Europeans to see the Sabinal. Juan de Ugalde, a Spanish army officer, whose name was misspelled when the town of Uvalde was named for him, conducted forays against the Indians in the century before.

But the first white man of all was none other than Cabeza de Vaca, the first white man to tour any part of Texas. Noted historian, the late J.W. Williams, in his book, "Old Texas Trails," takes careful pains to prove through on-site study of terrain and trees mentioned in the diary of Cabeza de Vaca, that the tough old Spaniard camped and rested at the head of the Sabinal, now Lost Maples, as he made his way across Texas after a Gulf Coast shipwreck in 1528.

While commenting on many of the natural aspects of the location, de Vaca did not say whether he enjoyed the fall color of the maple trees or the springtime music of warblers and vireos.

juniper or cedar, escarpment black cherry, sycamore, native pecan, various oaks and Texas ash trees can be noted.

Fall is not the only season when visitors come to Lost Maples to see unusual sights of nature. Because of the beautiful cover of trees and undergrowth, the protection from extreme heat and cold, and the never-failing flow of water, many wild animals and hundreds of species of birds either live or migrate through the Sabinal Canyon.

Best known because of their controversial status as rare and endangered species are the golden-cheeked warbler and the black-cap vireo. In Spring when they are singing and nesting, birdwatching groups come from all over the world to observe these small birds.

In line to one of Nature's intricate little plans, golden-cheeks build their nests only with the fibrous strips of bark shed by mature juniper trees and for that reason have a habitat confined to the Balcones Fault zone of Texas where the trees occur abundantly. Lost Maples is one of the havens most favored by the warblers.

On any given day in April, there can be a busload of birders from North Texas on their spring expedition or an intent couple from the state of Maine raising binoculars to view a female golden-cheek sitting calmly on her nest in a branch overhanging the very trail where so many people pass.

As easy as the warbler is to see, it is more common only to hear the elusive black-cap vireo. This bird is very small and lacks the vivid coloration of the other. For some reason, this tiny creature can usually be found in Lost Maples on the hill side next to the RV parking lot, where though he rarely shows himself as he flits about, his song filters through the thick growth of oak and juniper.

The black-cap is said to enjoy commotion, not solitude, so perhaps that is the reason birders have established that the RV lot is the place to hear him, if not see him. Mr Vireo likes hanging out where the action is.

With so many visitors vying for spaces to stay overnight or for a long weekend in the park, it is good to know that 20 picnic sites, 30 general camping spaces designed for RVs and trailers, and eight primitive camping areas are available. Especially in Spring and Fall, it is necessary to call park headquarters for reservations. The number is 966-3413, and office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week, extending till 8 p.m. on weekends.

Historical postscript: Anglo-American settlers began arriving as early as the 1850s to live in the Sabinal Canyon. Some of them, to their sorrow, thought the maple trees they found there could be tapped for sugar, New England style. They killed the trees from which they attempted to extract syrup but made a success of farming with an unusual system of irrigation ditches by means of which they diverted river water to their fields.

They were unwittingly carrying out the dreams of a French socialist of the 19th century, Victor Prosper Considerant, acquired 20,000 acres in the canyon, to which he hoped to move his colony of political dissidents after a failure at La Reunion, now part of Dallas.

Operating from San Antonio, Considerant and his backers went broke again and never realized their grandiose plan.

Strangely enough, these dreamers and doers were not the first Europeans to see the Sabinal. Juan de Ugalde, a Spanish army officer, whose name was misspelled when the town of Uvalde was named for him, conducted forays against the Indians in the century before.

But the first white man of all was none other than Cabeza de Vaca, the first white man to tour any part of Texas. Noted historian, the late J.W. Preserving Bandera's Frontier Times Museum and Utopia's Sabinal Canyon Museum.

The Frontier Times Museum in Bandera and the Sabinal Canyon Museum in Utopia are two very different and fascinating collections of memorabilia and rare artifacts.

Frontier Times Museum had its beginnings in a private collection of old west and pioneer artifacts belonging to the late J.M. Hunter Sr., but today it is owned jointly by the 8,000-plus citizens of Bandera County. It includes some prehistoric items, Tarpley's old telephone switchboard, and a special exhibit room each month features the work and talent of a local artist or group of artists.

An unusual item found in the museum is a camel hair pillow that belonged to Bandera founder Amasa Clark, a camel herder during the 1850's "great Camp Verde camel experiment."

Frontier Times Museum is visited by over 12,000 people from around the world each year, and is open every day of the week. For more information, call the museum at 796-3864.

The Sabinal Canyon Museum is just outside Bandera County on it's southwest corner, but the history that it tells is primarily that of its namesake canyon that lies primarily in the western end of Bandera County.

The history told in the 1,200 square-foot facility on State Highway 187 in downtown Utopia dates back to its first permanent white settlers in 1852.

The museum is open Saturday and Sunday from Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 - 4 p.m. Call 1-512-966-2313 to confirm times on special events and holidays when the museum may be open.

The museum exhibits donated and on-loan pieces including pistols, farm implements, clothing, appliances, spurs, photographs, tools, household items, barbed wire, and knick-knacks, primarily from the 1850-1920s.

Bandera County Courthouse.

Bandera County Courthouse is built from cut limestone blocks quarried locally, and features massive structural trusses made from cypress.

Last year, the county celebrated the 100th anniversary of the great two-story stone structure that continues to dominate Bandera's skyline.

For many years the courthouse served as the centerpiece of Bandera's community life. Dances and social events featuring old-time fiddle and guitar music, and church revivals and ice cream socials were held regularly on the courthouse lawn.

Towering over Bandera in the center of the city, in the 500 block of Main Street.

In May of 1890, Bandera County fathers decided it was time to build a new courthouse for the forward-moving Bandera. They granted the petition to build a courthouse on public square, and move it from a site near Cypress Street where the courthouse had been in operation since 1877.

The building process was fraught with political difficulties, financial tangles, mechanical problems and personal tragedy. There were factions contending over whether the county seat should be moved from Bandera farther west in the county, which then extended over present-day Real County, and to add to the already difficult situation, the architect died suddenly, leaving the project in confusion. It took several months, but finally, in February of 1891, Bandera County Commissioners appointed architect A.B. Frankel to supervise the job to its completion. On March 17 Braden petitioned the court for a 45 day extension, then on March 26, the workmen walked off the job.

Finally, in September of 1891, months after it was originally supposed to be finished, Braden and their subcontractors E. Huffmeyer & Bros. reported that the $20,000 building which had been scheduled to be finished May 15 was finally ready for inspection.

Bandera County Courthouse stands on Main Street between Pecan and Hackberry Streets, across from the Bandera County Library. Housed in the courthouse are the offices of the county judge, county clerk, county tax assessor and county treasurer, as well an Bandera County EMS.

Upstairs is the courtroom where District Judge Steve Ables presides each month.

Bandera County Court meets each month in a small courtroom downstairs, and in the event of a jury trial, county court is held in the larger courtroom upstairs.

Bandera County Commissioners also hold their regular monthly meetings in the judge's smaller courtroom.

They're monumental.

Testimonials on the courthouse grounds.

Five landmarks, honoring war heroes and veterans, rodeo cowboy champions, and commemorating Camp Montel and Bandera County pioneer Amasa Clark, stand on Bandera County Courthouse square. The monuments stand in a line across the front on the courthouse, along Main Street.

The Clark monument is a huge granite boulder that was erected as a memorial to Bandera pioneer Amasa Clark, who died in 1927 at the age of 101.

Clark, the first permanent settler in Bandera county, came here in 1852. He was a veteran of the Mexican war, and the stone marker originally stood in the National Cemetery at Ft. Sam Houston.

In 1945, when officials at Fort Sam Houston needed to move the marker to erect a building on the site, the granite monument was moved to Bandera.

Clark is buried in a little family cemetery about four miles west of Bandera.

The rodeo cowboys champions' monument honors local rodeo champions including Toots Mansfield, Ray Wharton, Buddy Groff, Todd Whitewood, Scooter Fries, Clay Billings and Jimmy Adams. Another world champion from Bandera, steer roper Jim Davis, has yet to be included on the monument.

Find it.

On the grounds of the Bandera County courthouse.

Topped by a bronze statue of a cowboy on horseback roping a calf, the monument calls attention to Bandera's nickname as the "Cowboy Capital of the World."

The war heroes monument is a memorial to Bandera County men who sacrificed their lives in World War I. Some 23 names are inscribed on the granite monument that has stood since 1924.

The veterans' monument is the newest monument on the courthouse square, and is placed in honor and memory of all war veterans by the Bandera County veterans and auxiliaries. It is pledged as a "tribute to valor" in "patriotic allegiance to sanctify God and country."

The Camp Montel monument is a memorial to the Texans who served in the Confederacy. It commemorates Captain Charles DeMontel, and the Texas Civil War Frontier Defense. The monument was placed by the state of Texas in 1964.

"Texas had 2,000 miles of coastline and frontier to defend from Union attack, Indian raids, marauders, and "bandits from Mexico" it says on the back of the granite monument. "defense lines were set to give... protection with the few men left in the state."

What do Bandera and Dodge City have in common? Both "Cowboy Capitals" were once linked together by

The Western Trail

By Peggy Tobin

Almost any day on Main Street in Bandera, there you are, perhaps a visitor from the midwest or even Europe, studying the inscription on one of the monuments lining the stone retaining wall in front of Bandera County Court House. You learn that the handsome inscription beneath a bronze sculpture of a cowboy on his horse honors the cowboys who learned to ride and rope in Bandera and went on to win honors in national rodeo events.

"Cowboy Capital of the World" is Bandera's big brag, heard round the world as folks from everywhere come to go trail-riding, camp out on the river, or watch a new generation of cowhands competing in weekend rodeos.

But where are all the cattle? Pastures roundabout seem to be grazed by whitetail deer, goats, sheep, and various exotics. The oldest business in town, now operating as Bandera Ranch Store, is still known to locals as the Wool Warehouse. Obviously the livestock industry here was historically dominated by sheep. Hang on!

Now go almost a thousand miles north, across miles of hill country land edging up into arid prairies. On a low bluff overlooking the Arkansas River in western Kansas, sits Dodge City, today surrounded by grain elevators and feed lots and displaying signs on its restored "Gunsmoke" street proclaiming "Cowboy Capital of the World." Can Bandera and Dodge truthfully make the same claim? Well, yes!

The answer is easy. For the two most romantic decades in the history of the American West, Bandera and Dodge City were connected by the Western Trail, up which thousands of Texas cattle were driven from brush country pastures to markets at railheads being established across Kansas Territory after the Civil War.

Bandera County, as is plain today, never has been suited to the raising of cattle on a big scale. Farmers and cypress shingle-makers coming into the hill country as early as the 1840's brought only enough livestock to support themselves. Abram Moncur of the Mormon Colony on the Medina River registered the first brand in newly-organized Bandera County in 1856, and Captain Charles Jack set up a ranch operation between Bandera and Hondo. But stock-raising was difficult, beset with danger from Indian raids and problems with thin eroding topsoil. Once the original tall grasses indigenous to the Texas Hill Country were grazed off, they were usually gone for good.

Texas in general was "down for the count" following the defeat of the Confederacy in the War Between the States. But when railroads began pushing across the heartland prairies to the north, Texans saw their chance.

Demand for beef was great, South Texas coastal pastures were teeming with longhorn cattle, and upland communities like Bandera were populated with young lads anxious for adventure and paying jobs. With tremendous courage and bravado, entrepreneurs put together huge herds, hired brash youngsters yearning to be cowboys, and began moving up new trails to Kansas.

The trail most celebrated in song and legend was the Chisholm Trail, which went straight north to Wichita and Abilene from points meeting at Bexar. But after a few years, farmers began plowing the rich blacklands traversed by the trail. They put up fences and brought in their own English breeds of cattle. They raised objections to the passage of ornery longhorns and rag-tag cowboys through their lands, claiming damage to fences and pastures and infection of their livestock by diseases carried by the moving herds.

What to do? Railroad tracks by this time had been extended farther west toward the Rockies. Texas drovers simply avoided more controversy by moving their route away from settled areas.

Feeder trails from the lower country, like braidings of a mountain stream, wound their way northwest, converging into one main trail just north of Brady, proceeding through rowdy Fort Griffin on the Brazos to ford the Red River into the Indian Nation at the fabled Doan's Crossing. This was the Western Trail.

One of the principal roads onto the main trail began on the Medina River, where Bandera and Medina County ranchers established big holding pens and contracted to take South Texas herds to the north.

Old accounts show that one of the first ventures was that of John Vance of Castroville, who hired Bladen Mitchell as trail boss to take a large herd to Kansas in the spring of 1873. Michell had built his pens at Ten Mile Crossing of the Medina, now covered by waters of Medina Lake. Louis Schorp of Rio Medina drove the cattle to the Mitchell place and then went up Elm Creek to take part in a roundup of stock owned by the partnership of Perryman and Lytle. Schorp and four cowboys, the story continues, pushed the Vance cattle on up the river to Bandera, where the herd was road branded, inspected by "a man named Pus" and then shoved off through Bandera Pass to begin their trek to Kansas.

Schorp and his brothers-in-law, John and Joseph Spettel, went on to become prominent in the enterprise of contract droving which brought boom times to Bandera and began the cowboy tradition. Among many other contracters during the 70's and 80's were Charles Schmidtke and George Hay, Huffmeyer Brothers, and Charles Schreiner.

The rodeo cowboys whose names adorn the monument on the court house square are actual or cultural descendants of the young lads of strength and daring who left Bandera to become cowboys on the Western Trail. Reminiscences of old-timers recorded later by historian J. Marvin Hunter are replete with stories told by former farm-boys, rookie schoolteachers, or wandering greenhorns who found work and excitement as herders on the trail. Thus, as they say, Bandera had few cows but many cowboys!

The wild bunch, memorialized in fiction and on TV in Larry McMurtry's "Lonesome Dove" were going up the same Western Trail to Dodge City, Ogalalla, Nebraska, and finally, Montana, where some of the Texas boys decided to stay for good.

Now, Bandera visitor, to whom this discourse is being directed, proceed from Main Street, with its visible reminders of its part in creating the legend of the American cowboy, up the country through Bandera Pass, Fredericksburg, and Brady.

North of Brady at Cow Gap in the low-lying Brady Mountains, you can stop to read a monument to the "Western Trail, last of the old-time cattle trails", and picture the trepidation of the drovers leaving the well-watered hill country for the dry prairie.

Check off picturesque Santa Anna, named for a Comanche chief, not the Mexican general, on your way to the spiffy county seat of Shackelford County, Albany, An English bicyclist took this very tour up the Western Trail, and stopped last summer to talk to local historian, Shirley Caldwell, before going on to the site of old Fort Griffin, now a state park.

Then just off US Highway 283, you'll find the quiet remnant of Doan's Crossing of the Red River, once a thriving commercial outpost, where the boys from Bandera stopped to rest a while and raise a little h—before making the final push to Dodge.

There is an impressive monument to the trail drivers at Doan's Crossing, citing their ventures as the means by which Texas pulled itself out of depression and defeat after the Civil War. Listed on one face of the tall stone are many of the names associated with the movement of cattle through the Medina-Guadalupe area of the Texas Hill Country.

Now follow on to present-day Altus, Oklahoma, where the Rotary Club last year erected a large cowboy statue on the court house lawn titled "Crossing the Red" and praising the memory of the Western Trail.

Take a deep breath and drive on across the treeless prairie to the end of the trail for most of our cowboys, and picture their riding whooping and hollering into Dodge City. Even today, old Dodge is still the end of the trail for thousands of cattle stacked up in feedlots along the railroad track and the lazy Arkansas River.

Or perhaps you want to go on up the line, as did the Lonesome Dove characters, to Ogallala, Nebraska, where the two forks of the Platte River begin to close in on each other. You can imagine the joy of the boys from Bandera upon seeing water, trees, and people after so many empty brown miles across the plains.

And how glad they must have been to turn back South, possibly to ride home to Bandera in the luxury of a wagon, to visit Mama before going up the Western Trail once more!

South Texas was once teeming with Longhorn cattle.

What do Bandera and Dodge City have in common? Both "Cowboy Capitals" were once linked together by

The Western Trail

By Peggy Tobin

Almost any day on Main Street in Bandera, there you are, perhaps a visitor from the midwest or even Europe, studying the inscription on one of the monuments lining the stone retaining wall in front of Bandera County Court House. You learn that the handsome inscription beneath a bronze sculpture of a cowboy on his horse honors the cowboys who learned to ride and rope in Bandera and went on to win honors in national rodeo events.

"Cowboy Capital of the World" is Bandera's big brag, heard round the world as folks from everywhere come to go trail-riding, camp out on the river, or watch a new generation of cowhands competing in weekend rodeos.

But where are all the cattle? Pastures roundabout seem to be grazed by whitetail deer, goats, sheep, and various exotics. The oldest business in town, now operating as Bandera Ranch Store, is still known to locals as the Wool Warehouse. Obviously the livestock industry here was historically dominated by sheep. Hang on!

Now go almost a thousand miles north, across miles of hill country land edging up into arid prairies. On a low bluff overlooking the Arkansas River in western Kansas, sits Dodge City, today surrounded by grain elevators and feed lots and displaying signs on its restored "Gunsmoke" street proclaiming "Cowboy Capital of the World." Can Bandera and Dodge truthfully make the same claim? Well, yes!

The answer is easy. For the two most romantic decades in the history of the American West, Bandera and Dodge City were connected by the Western Trail, up which thousands of Texas cattle were driven from brush country pastures to markets at railheads being established across Kansas Territory after the Civil War.

Bandera County, as is plain today, never has been suited to the raising of cattle on a big scale. Farmers and cypress shingle-makers coming into the hill country as early as the 1840's brought only enough livestock to support themselves. Abram Moncur of the Mormon Colony on the Medina River registered the first brand in newly-organized Bandera County in 1856, and Captain Charles Jack set up a ranch operation between Bandera and Hondo. But stock-raising was difficult, beset with danger from Indian raids and problems with thin eroding topsoil. Once the original tall grasses indigenous to the Texas Hill Country were grazed off, they were usually gone for good.

Texas in general was "down for the count" following the defeat of the Confederacy in the War Between the States. But when railroads began pushing across the heartland prairies to the north, Texans saw their chance.

Demand for beef was great, South Texas coastal pastures were teeming with longhorn cattle, and upland communities like Bandera were populated with young lads anxious for adventure and paying jobs. With tremendous

In south Bandera County near Tarpley are creek-bed evidence of pre-historic life. The dinosaur tracks found imbedded in the Hondo Creek are reminders that long before the human race populated the planet, a race of giant creatures walked the earth. Experts speculate that upright-walking carnisaurs (meat-eaters), perhaps even the great Tyrannosaurus Rex, made the tracks several million years ago. They appear not only in the Hondo Creek but in several locations around the county. The Hondo Creek tracks are probably the most easily accessible to the general public. They are located on the property of longtime Tarpley resident W.J. Schmidt, who lives directly across the creek from the tracks. Schmidt says he doesn't mind folks visiting the tracks, as long as they follow a few simple guidelines: no littering, and basically observe common sense and courtesy. On your way back to your car, you might drop a donation in the slot on the signpost to show your thanks for the view into the past. The money is used to help with the site's upkeep and maintenance. To get to the tracks, drive south from Tarpley on FM Road 462 south for about 1 1/2 miles, and you will see a sign on your right. The Bandera County tracks aren't the only ones— there are 13 counties statewide with similar marks left by the giant beasts. All the tracks appear in similar bedrock material that was part of a huge ocean shoreline across Texas.

Bandera County's apple industry has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years, and each July the Texas International Apple Festival is held in Medina.

A giant rocking chair sits beside Texas Hill Country Rocker at 1202 Cypress Street in Bandera. Here, owners Eileen and Ray Whitehead make sure the rocker is protected from the weather. The unusually large "demonstrator model" is a favorite tourist photo spot.

Polly's Chapel.

A hand-hewn, native rock church of great historical significance.

The serenity of the site of the 100-year-old chapel erected by pioneer Jose Policarpo Rodriguez east of Bandera befits the historic and religious importance of the place.

Polly's Chapel has a medallion and plaque designating it as an officially recorded Texas landmark. It has been recommended and is a candidate for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Sites of the U.S. Department of Interior.

The hand-hewn native rock place of worship is sometimes spelled "Poli's Chapel." Built in 1882 by Jose Policarpo Rodrigues, a man identified by historians as a dreamer, fearless doer and possibly the most towering figure in the history of the Hill Country. He was also an Indian fighter, scout, frontier guide and surveyer.

He was a central figure in the U.S. Cavalry's bizarre camel corps at Camp Verde near Bandera Pass. When the Civil War ended the camel experiment, Polly decided to stay in the area, having acquired land on nearby Privilege Creek in 1858 where he became devoted to the well-being of the Privilege Creek community and to the church he built there.

Before Jose Policarpo Rodriguez died in 1914, he wrote the story of his life and his church in a book originally published in 1908 by the Methodist Board of Missions. A fictionalized book of his life, written for the younger reader, was published in 1989 by Corona Publishing Company of San Antonio.

The thrill of the Hunt-

Good for visitors and for Bandera.

Hunting, local attorney Billy Walker says, is a much-neglected lure for the tourism industry in Bandera County. Walker is the Vice President of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerece.

He says that hunting brings "good guests" into Bandera County. "They are largely affluent people who enjoy the outdoors. They like our hills and water and put more into the economy of the county than they take out of it. They help us to develop our resources to the fullest, rather than pollute or destroy them."

Walker has first-hand knowledge of hunters and hunting. "Our ranch has been in the family for 97 years. We're trying to be good stewards of the land. That's why we are restoring the turkey population. My grandmother told about all the turkeys on the land. Then, 20 years ago, the eastern turkey population was wiped out. So we started over with Rio Grande turkeys, which are native-type birds and resist drought and harsh conditions better than the eastern species did."

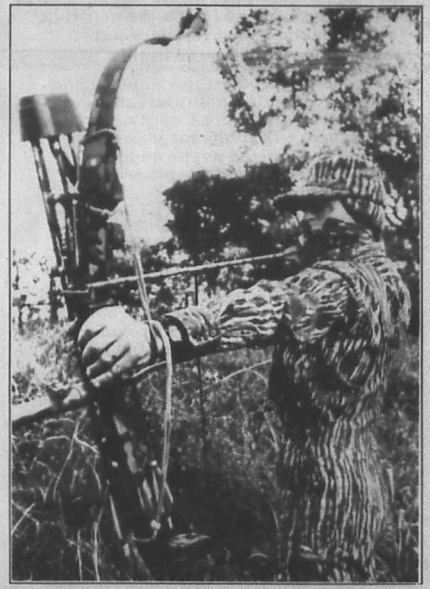
Walker points to the increasing turkey population in Bandera County as one valuable hunting resource. "The spring turkey season gives hunters an additional period of time to pay for leases in the county. This means they will also buy groceries and gas here and patronize the restaurants. The money they spend in those places trickles on down to professionals. We all benefit by the hunters."

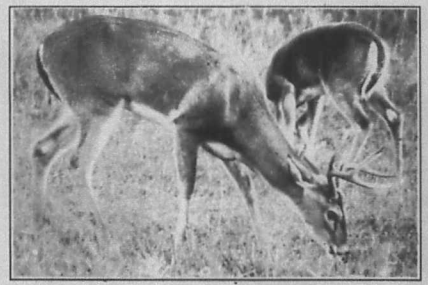
Because Walker wants the world to know how beautiful and unique Bandera is, he spearheaded a national sports television program last year which was shown for three straight weekends and then shown again in reruns. Dixie Dude Ranch, Bar 7 in Medina, and Flying A Ranch, along with Richard Giona, organized the nationally aired network special.

ESPN sports network sent program host Steve Bartkowski spent 10 days in Bandera during last year's hunting season with a camera crew. Bartkowski made national news when the 300 pound trophy boar he was hunting, turned to hunt him. The camera man dropped his camera and scrambled up a tree. Someone else filmed the wild chase of hog and man through Medina.

Hogs, another valuable wildlife resource, may be hunted year around in Bandera County.

Walker said that the prevelence of hogs in Bandera County and the fact that they are sometimes killed as nuisances rather than hunted for sports points to a serious neglect. "We don't give hunting enough publicity. Hogs tear up wildlife feeders and rip up fences and kill baby goats. We have a lot of wild hogs here- some of the biggest anywhere. They could bring money into the county from hunters. But because the fact is not publicized, a lot of them just get eliminated. It's hard to get a whitetail lease here. Everyone is leased up. But there's leases open for exotics and hogs and spring turkey season. Hunting can make money for everyone."





Hunting Season in Bandera County

If there is no cold storage processing facility established on property where hunting occurs, a person may only quarter a deer or antelope in the field--

It is against the law to use crossbows for taking game animals, and it is unlawful to hunt with a broadhead hunting point while in possession of a firearm during "Archery Only" seasons.

Venison for the hungry.

How hunters can share their bounty with those less fortunate.

With the help of several public and charitable organizations, including the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, hunters can provide thousands of meals to hungry people across Texas by sharing their deer and antelope with the Hunters for the Hungry program.

For the third consecutive year, hunters this fall and winter can donate freshly killed deer and antelope that will be delivered to one of 20 food banks in the state. The program, sponsored by the End Hunger Network-Houtston, gives Texas hunters an opportunity to participate in their sport while providing hungry Texans an excellent source of low-fat red meat.

Hunters will be asked to contribute $15 (tax deductible) to the meat processor to pay for processing and packaging. For an additional $10, the meat plant will cape out the deer for a trophy mount. Two-pound frozen packages of meat will be picked up by representatives of food banks around the state and distributed to the needy through Second Harvest Food Banks.

About 148 meat processors have volunteered to accept meat donations so far this year.

In 1991-92, hunters donated an estimated 75,000 pounds of meat, providing 225,000 meals to hungry Texans.

For more information, call 1-800-922-9767.

No Bandera meat proocessors are listed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, however area meat processors participating include: Farmer's Meat Market, Boerne; Dan's Meat Market and Dziuk's Meat Market, Castroville; and Presa Frozen Foods and Eddie's Quality Meats, both of San Antonio.

Hill Country State Natural Area

Camping, hiking, horseback riding and cycling are just a few of the activities available, but the real attraction is the scenic beauty.

The word "natural" describes exactly the state of the environment at the Hill Country State Natural Area southwest of Bandera.

The state natural area provides a place to camp, hike, ride a horse, pedal an all-terrain bicycle, or just observe nature in the Texas Hill Country.

Find it.

10 miles southwest of Bandera on FM 1077, also known of Dixie Dude Road.

But while it is part of the Texas Parks and Wildlife system, it is not the full-facility park that a casual visitor to the state park might expect.

The park is closed Tuesday and Wednesday and the park office is open from Thursday through Monday from 8 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m. Visitors need to obtain a permit from one of the rangers for park use.

The park is designed as a wildlife and native plant habitat that has only been lightly grazed by human hands. The park is the nesting place of two species of migratory song birds on the endangered species list, the Golden-Cheeked Warbler and the Black-Capped Vireo. Both nest in the cedar and oak stands of trees between April and August in the park. The Texas Hill Country is one of the few places these rare birds nest.

While these endangered birds and unique plant life are one of the reasons for the existence of the area, the park is also a special place for people with camping in five areas and 30 miles of trails for horse-back riding, all terrain bicycling — not "street" bikes — and hiking.

Motor bikes of any kind are not permitted, and neither are guns, except in the special hunts conducted at the park by the state.

While camping conditions are designed primitive, the simple beauty of the 5,381 acres that make up the park enable visitors to forget that there is only minimal water outlets and only a few dirt roads in the park.

Two of the cleared areas for camping are next to a road and three others can be reached by hiking.

Campers choosing the sites next to the road will need to be willing to share the space with horse riders, as equestrian users can pull their horse trailers directly into the shaded camping area.

The park is one of the few public natural areas in the state that is open to horse riders. At least two groups conduct organized endurance rides in the summer at the park ranging from 20 to 50 miles in length.

The traditional ground camp fire is not allowed, but fires can be built in park-provided fire barrels. Campers can use their own propane or gasoline cook stoves.

The park is a bird-watchers' delight. Beyond the two endangered species of birds, the park has a large population of Red-Tailed and Red-Shoulder Hawks.

A wide and abundant variety of native Hill Country plant life abounds in the park covering most types of Hill Country habitats - river bottom, savannah grasslands, and steep and rocky escarpment.

Fishing is available in the park for black bass, catfish and sunfish, but limited since only about 1 1/2 miles of the 3-miles of spring-fed West Verde Creek runs through the park.

Reservations are needed for large groups, clubs or organizations, but not necessary for individuals, families or small groups. However, remember to bring everything you need with you and be prepared to take it all back, because in keeping with the low-impact form of camping practiced, there is limited litter facilities and park staff to clean up after guests.

The park is 10 miles southwest of Bandera at the end of FM Road 1077, also known as Dixie Dude Road. Call 796-4413 for more information.

Tour No. 2

11. The Old First State Bank (1840s) On a site bought by the city's founder John James in 1842 at 11th and Cedar streets, the old two-story rock building was used as a school between 1860 and 1879. •19. St. Joseph's School (1920) Now a parish hall, this hipped-roof symmetrical two-story rock structure was designed from older plans of a Bandera public school and therefore looks older that it actually is.

Silver Sage Corral
Bandera's senior citizens center

Quilting is making a strong comeback at Bandera's Silver Sage Corral, and many other activities – some quiet and sedate, others active and quite breathtaking - are available for the asking at this award-winning senior citizens' center.

Most any weekday, visitors stopping by the Silver Sage Corral can find a cup of coffee, active fun and friendly faces. There always seems to be something going on during regular hours, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, with a mixture of both locals and visitors.

The center's not just for senior citizens, though adults age 55 and older are given first priority when there are limited resources. But usually, both the young and the young at heart are welcome, and visitors are also welcome at most activities held there.

The Silver Sage Corral is known state-wide for its excellence, and Bandera senior center has also been studied as a model for other centers.

Regular classes available to participants include German and Spanish language, western dancing and line dancing, low impact aerobics, weaving, leatherworking and ceramics. Card games and jigsaw puzzles are also available.

Another group that meets regularly is the Melodiers, who consider themselves musical ambassadors of the Silver Sage Corral. Accompanied by a variety of musical instruments, including a piano, violins and autoharps, the singers not only get together on a regular basis to just have sing-alongs, they make public appearances. One of their regular performances is a monthly visit to the Bandera Nursing Home, where their upbeat renditions of folk songs, oldies and some new songs too bring smiles and laughter to the residents there.

Bandera's senior center was founded almost 13 years ago, and in 1984 they broke ground for the facility where the Silver Sage Corral is currently located. It was dedicated in April of 1985.

Winter Texans.

They come by the thousands, staying at Yogi Bear's Jellystone Park, Thousand Trails, and other local RV facilities.

They don shorts and tennis shoes rather than cowboy hats and spurs but they consider themselves, for the winter months at least, Texans. Fleeing their homes to avoid cold weather, Winter Texans flock to the Bandera area.

Thousand Trails, in Lakehills, averages 28 of these northern visitors a month. That number reflects merely the campers signed up under the five-year old "Winter Texan Program." It does not reflect the 30,000 night campers who visit between Sept. and April 30, nor does it reflect the daytime users of the park.

Additional lodging, RV and camp facilities are listed starting on Page 37.

Ron Solomon, security supervisor for the past five years, says that a lot of the Winter Texans come back every year. Add to that the new visitors, and Bandera County residents and merchants begin to feel the positive impact of winter Texans on the local economy. "They like to support local merchants," Solomon explains.

Thousand Trails is one of the largest reserves in Texas with 320 acres and 387 campsites. It offers an olympic-sized pool and a kiddie pool; a hot tub; a laundrymat; a beauty shop, and a full-service restaurant which is open Thursday through Sunday year around.

It also offers horseshoe pits, shuffleboard, volleyball, basketball; a boat launch, and fishing piers.

Solomon says that most of the staff of Thousand Trails are long-time employees, which gives the camping reserve stability. He finds that most Winter Texans came south looking for a warmer climate and discovered Bandera County. Now they schedule vacations or even move to Thousand Trails for the winter. "They come from Canada, Washington, Nevada, California- you name it. Any place that gets really cold in the winter. We get new ones all the time. A lot of them used to go to the Valley but discovered Bandera is a fun area. Now they just come here."

Yogi Bear's Jellystone Park in Bandera also caters to Winter Texans. It is located on the Medina River and has 210 RV campsites and 70 pull throughs. It has a family recreation center and a laundry mat; mini-golf; a swimming pool; and shuffleboard. It also offers canoeing; tubing; fishing; horseshoes; and pool tables. It also hot showers for campers.

Jellystone plans activities for its campers and for its Winter Texans. A hamburger fry is held on Saturdays; a pancake breakfast is scheduled for Sunday mornings; Monday is potluck day and Thursday is arts & crafts day. Friday is set aside for an ice cream social.

Let's go for a Sunday Drive!

Much of Bandera County's scenic beauty can be appreciated from behind the wheel.

There is perhaps no better way to begin appreciating Bandera County than to make the loop from Bandera to Tarpley to Vanderpool to Medina back to Bandera. That trip will take you around the county's backbone.

Buckle up, and remind yourself not to hurry. These roads can be steep, narrow and twisting, and you are likely to get behind a stock trailer or two.

All these roads more or less follow the Medina or Sabinal Rivers or their tributaries. (The roads tended to go where people settled, and that was generally near the water.)

Traveling north from Bandera on State Highway 16, you can take a left about three miles outside Bandera and drive the 14 or 15 scenic miles to Tarpley via Farm-to-Market road 470.

After about seven miles, you come to what used to be called Indian Pass, now called Tarpley Pass. The Hondo Canyon view will open up before you.

A few miles down the road, you will pass through Tarpley, and to your right is Williams Creek Road, in days gone by, a stop for the Overland Express Stage.

You will pass over a bridge, crossing the Hondo Creek, then you have several miles winding through the Seco Pass, and into Vanderpool. During this stretch of road, the elevation changes from 1,400 to 2,150 feet above sea level. Continuing past Vanderpool, you could stop at the scenic Lost Maples State Natural Area. In this northwest corner of Bandera County, you are in an area called "The Divide." (So named because Bandera, Real and Kerr Counties all intersect there at the edge of the Edwards Plateau.)

Finally, on the last leg of your journey, turn towards Medina on FM Road 337. You will pass Love Creek Ranch before you arrive in Medina, then when you get to Medina, turn back towards Bandera. A few miles down the road you will find Ranger Crossing. Stop and go wading before returning to Bandera.

Let's go fishing.

Medina Lake's catfish-fishing is "best kept secret in the state."

Game warden Carl Becker said catfish fishing in Medina Lake is the "best kept secret in the state."

According to Becker, catfish weighing up to 90 pounds have been pulled from Medina Lake. "Some of them have been taken to the San Antonio zoo for exhibition. it's the hottest fishing place in Texas. But most people don't know it."

Lack of publicity, Becker said, has allowed Medina Lake to keep its secret. "It's as good as any other lake in the state of Texas. It's a fantastic lake. But it is weather controlled as to the rise and fall."

Medina Lake is full now for the first time in years. Will it keep its secret?

Turk's knows the "best kept secret"

If catfish fishing in Medina Lake is really the "best kept secret in Texas," then Turk's Store is in a position to tell it. The store, expanded from a 1940 real estate office, keeps a set of scales which will ruin even the best 'fish stories.'

After the fun of guessing the fish's weight is over, Turk's scales record the real weight. Gene and Barbara Ott have run Turk's since 1977. They, along with their friends and customers, have watched Medina Lake rise and fall many times. When the lake is full, as it is now, boaters can pull right up to the back of the store and "fish by boat."

Lakehills landmark

Although many things in Lakehills have changed, the Lakehills business which Irene and Adolph Mazurek bought in 1931 still bears the name "Adolph's". They expanded the old tin garage building and completed a main addition in 1952 which was a step up from the dirt-floor building.

After the new store, with modern conveniences, was completed, a kitchen was opened. A party room was added in 1969, to be used for parties and public meetings. Dorothy Alatorre, in writing "Lakehills at Medina Lake, 1836-1986", said that Adolph's is a landmark representing "the spirit of Lakehills with its rock-like stability coupled with forward-looking plans for the future."

They're not laughing now

When Ted and Linda Jacobson moved to Lakehills over five years ago and opened up an art gallery, residents "laughed" at them. But now, watching the third expansion of the business, residents are applauding the couple's success.

The art gallery will move to a new location off FM 1283 this spring. Ted says the move grew out of a need for more room. "We've outgrown our present store. The Lord has watched over us and blessed us so much. When we first opened up, all these people laughed at us and told us it 'wouldn't last 30 days.' Well, it's been five-and-a-half years and it's still growing. We well realize that this is the Lord's blessing."

Meanwhile, in Pipe Creek...

Moving towards fame & fortune

Texas Custom Coach, in Pipe Creek, is moving steadily towards fame, if not fortune. A personal letter from Janie Fricke hangs in the office and other country/western entertainers are driving motor coaches designed and built by the company.

Owners Jack and Tammy Brannan opened Texas Custom Coach seven years ago. They now employee 15 full time workers. Sons-in-law Steve and Kevin Mauldin run the business when the Brannans travel. Traveling is part of the job of bringing in bare metal buses and transforming them into elaborate motor coaches.

Barrel House, "NOT a beer joint!"

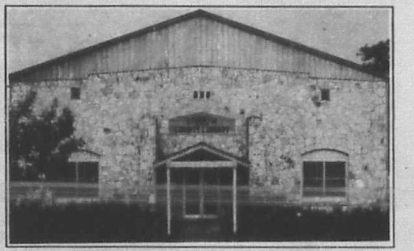
Barrel House owners Joe and Sue Cantu kept the age-old "Barrel House" name when they opened their Pipe Creek business. Now, at times, the couple is plagued by the name.

"We kept the name because it was so well known for this location. When C.B.s were popular," Cantu explained, "we would hear calls all the time, 'I'm on this side of the Barrel House.' Now, people look at our business card and say, 'Barrel House. That sounds like a beer joint."

The Cantu's Barrel House includes auto parts and repair, a feed and hardware store, and even a convenience store which is leased out at the moment.

The Cantus purchased the property in 1973 and have three long-time employees. Their business has grown, "spread mainly by word of mouth." They have raised a family in Pipe Creek.

Sue finds novelty in the historic location's past. "The old building burned down in the 50s or 60s. We have a picture of it. J.B. Edwards did a lot of research on it and included it in his book. There was once a circus here. You could drive by and see elephants out back. We keep chickens in what used to be the monkey cage."



Bandera's public library is located on Main Street across from Bandera County Courthouse. Visitors are always welcome at the Bandera County Library. Non-residents of the county can obtain temporary check-out privileges for a refundable $10 deposit. Bandera County residents can obtain a card free of charge.

The library also houses an extensive genealogical research and Texana Collection.

Most materials are available for a two-week checkout period, and books by mail and interlibrary loan are an added feature. Check out period on video materials is two days.

The paperback book exchange allows one book to be traded for another in "approximately the same condition."

Library hours: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, noon to 5 p.m.; and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Let's go fishing.

Medina Lake's catfish-fishing is "best kept secret in the state."

Game warden Carl Becker said catfish fishing in Medina Lake is the "best kept secret in the state."

According to Becker, catfish weighing up to 90 pounds have been pulled from Medina Lake. "Some of them have been taken to the San Antonio zoo for exhibition. it's the hottest fishing place in Texas. But most people don't know it."

Lack of publicity, Becker said, has allowed Medina Lake to keep its secret. "It's as good as any other lake in the state of Texas. It's a fantastic lake. But it is weather controlled as to the rise and fall."

Medina Lake is full now for the first time in years. Will it keep its secret?

Turk's knows the "best kept secret"

If catfish fishing in Medina Lake is really the "best kept secret in Texas," then Turk's Store is in a position to tell it. The store, expanded from a 1940 real estate office, keeps a set of scales which will ruin even the best 'fish stories.'

After the fun of guessing the fish's weight is over, Turk's scales record the real weight. Gene and Barbara Ott have run Turk's since 1977. They, along with their friends and customers, have watched Medina Lake rise and fall many times. When the lake is full, as it is now, boaters can pull right up to the back of the store and "fish by boat."

Lakehills landmark

Although many things in Lakehills have changed, the Lakehills business which Irene and Adolph Mazurek bought in 1931 still bears the name "Adolph's". They expanded the old tin garage building and completed a main addition in 1952 which was a step up from the dirt-floor building.

After the new store, with modern conveniences, was completed, a kitchen was opened. A party room was added in 1969, to be used for parties and public meetings. Dorothy Alatorre, in writing "Lakehills at Medina Lake, 1836-1986", said that Adolph's is a landmark representing "the spirit of Lakehills with its rock-like stability coupled with forward-looking plans for the future."

They're not laughing now

When Ted and Linda Jacobson moved to Lakehills over five years ago and opened up an art gallery, residents "laughed" at them. But now, watching the third expansion of the business, residents are applauding the couple's success.

The art gallery will move to a new location off FM 1283 this spring. Ted says the move grew out of a need for more room. "We've outgrown our present store. The Lord has watched over us and blessed us so much. When we first opened up, all these people laughed at us and told us it 'wouldn't last 30 days.' Well, it's been five-and-a-half years and it's still growing. We well realize that this is the Lord's blessing."

Meanwhile, in Pipe Creek...

Moving towards fame & fortune

Texas Custom Coach, in Pipe Creek, is moving steadily towards fame, if not fortune. A personal letter from Janie Fricke hangs in the office and other country/western entertainers are driving motor coaches designed and built by the company.

Owners Jack and Tammy Brannan opened Texas Custom Coach seven years ago. They now employee 15 full time workers. Sons-in-law Steve and Kevin Mauldin run the business when the Brannans travel. Traveling is part of the job of bringing in bare metal buses and transforming them into elaborate motor coaches.

Barrel House, "NOT a beer joint!"

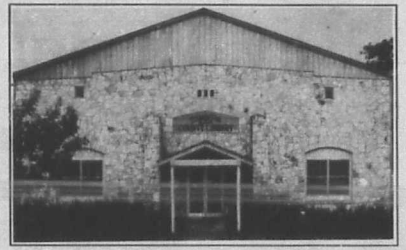
Barrel House owners Joe and Sue Cantu kept the age-old "Barrel House" name when they opened their Pipe Creek business. Now, at times, the couple is plagued by the name.

"We kept the name because it was so well known for this location. When C.B.s were popular," Cantu explained, "we would hear calls all the time, 'I'm on this side of the Barrel House.' Now, people look at our business card and say, 'Barrel House. That sounds like a beer joint."

The Cantu's Barrel House includes auto parts and repair, a feed and hardware store, and even a convenience store which is leased out at the moment.

The Cantus purchased the property in 1973 and have three long-time employees. Their business has grown, "spread mainly by word of mouth." They have raised a famly in Pipe Creek.

Sue finds novelty in the historic location's past. "The old building burned down in the 50s or 60s. We have a picture of it. J.B. Edwards did a lot of research on it and included it in his book. There was once a circus here. You could drive by and see elephants out back. We keep chickens in what used to be the monkey cage."



Bandera's public library is located on Main Street across from Bandera County Courthouse. Visitors are always welcome at the Bandera County Library. Non-residents of the county can obtain temporary check-out privileges for a refundable $10 deposit. Bandera County residents can obtain a card free of charge.

The library also houses an extensive geneaological research and Texana Collection.

Most materials are available for a two-week checkout period, and books by mail and interlibrary loan are an added feature. Check out period on video materials is two days.

The paperback book exchange allows one book to be traded for another in "approximately the same condition."

Library hours: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, noon to 5 p.m.; and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

For additional information, call the Bandera County Library at 796-4213.

Hey, Dude!

Dude Ranching helps make Bandera the "Cowboy Capital"

By Bungy

Bandera has been catering to "dudes" since at least 1895, when the "Old Duffy Hotel" was built on Main Street. Girls, with their families, would travel out from Houston for the summer, and young cowboys from the surrounding ranches would ride their horses in on Saturday and Sunday, just to show off to them.

The first guest ranch was the Dixie Dude in 1937, and from then on it was up, up and away.

Today, we have 6 or 7 true guest-Dude Ranches, several motels and lately some good "Bed 'n' Breakfasts." The majority of tourists are still out of Houston, but an increasing number of foreigners are finding Bandera. They come from France, Britain, Germany, New York, Michigan, and even Oklahoma to enjoy the "Free State of Bandera", which it was once called. That was at the time that some of its citizens tried to secede from the Union! Bandera is called "Cowboy Capital of the World", and everyone's invited to come and play "cowboy" anytime.

Mayan Dude Ranch

Go to library downtown and follow signs.

The Mayan Dude Ranch is a true family affair since the Don Hicks family took it over in 1957. They have 12 children who were all raised catering to the "Dude", and now they have all the spouses of those children showing the guests a great time, and three grandchildren now have jobs there. There is great continuity at the Mayan, and they have fourth-generation tourists coming back each year.

The Mayan was built as a Girl Scout camp in the late 1930s and evolved into a true Dude Ranch. At one point, during the 40s and 50s the guests were supplied with little carts pulled by donkeys, so they could drive themselves into Bandera to shop.

One wrangler they've had since 1956 has "Texas" in 14 K. gold across the front of his teeth.

LH7 Ranch

Through Bandera, out 173 towards Kerrville, left at first "Y" (Ridge Route Road) about two miles.

Maudeen Marks bought this 2,000 acre ranch around 1980 and is raising her oldest, purest strain of Texas Longhorns there. Her daddy was the first one to realize the need to preserve a pure longhorn, and that was in 1920 on their LH7 Ranch near Houston. The ranch has kitchenette cabins and a pretty lake with a beautiful, old Main Lodge.

Outside guests can make reservations to see them "working" the longhorn cattle. The tour is really popular with foreign tourists. See Ad on Page 15.

Lost Valley Ranch

Hwy. 16 south next to the race track, three minutes to Bandera.

Lost Valley Resort Ranch was built in 1946 and became the social hub of Bandera, with barbecues and dances every weekend. The spacious grounds and large lodge with its Spanish tile work adds a Tex-Mex flavor of gracious living to the Bandera Dude Ranch scene.

The ranch was recently re-opened and is offering Dude Ranching and overnight lodging. The 18-hole golf course is open from 7 to 7 with great golf and golf/lodging packages, and the Bella Unions Dance Hall, in their ghost town, has recently been renovated. The Fred Morgan family has owned the ranch for the last 30 years.

Twin Elm Dude Ranch

This ranch began in 1939 as a guest ranch and was bought by Frank and Mary Anderwald in 1959. They wanted to "come home" to Bandera. Frank is a third-generation Banderan, and now they have grandchildren working on the ranch. That's five generations of Bandera cowboys!

A great many of the summer guests run to three generations and keep coming back for "Mr. Frank's" world-renowned barbecue.

They've joined the "Elder Hostel" Network and each winter, they now have back-to-back Senior groups learning how to rope, ride, Texas-Two-Step, and in general, "How to be a Texan."

During the summer, they put on a weekly rodeo that guests from all the other ranches attend.

Flying L Guest Ranch

Col. John Lapham, a WWII flying ace, created the Flying L on 542 acres of beautiful Texas Hill Country in 1946. His motto was "where a modern person can go and find himself in the midst of yesterday." With his love of flying he built the air strip (which has recently been made into a golf driving range) and operated a flying school. A Frank Lloyd Wright associate re-designed the original single cabins into elegant villas. The layout of the ranch is such that an overview shows it to be laid out in the shape of an airplane.

An 18-hole golf course was created in 1972, and under the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Seeland, new luxury suites and a conference room were built. They have full Dude Ranch capabilities, overnight lodging and great golf packages.

Dixie Dude Ranch

Go south on 173, over the bridge to Dixie Dude Rd., take a right and go nine miles.

This ranch has been in the same family since 1901 as a working stock ranch. In 1937, they opened it as the first working guest ranch in Bandera, and the second-oldest in Texas. Billie Crowell, whose daddy owned the original ranch, took it over and ran it for 51 years. Her "chicken every Sunday" dinners were renowned world-wide. Clay Conoly, Billie's grandson, is running the ranch now, as a full-blown Dude Ranch. There is a 100-year-old working barn on the ranch, and an honest-to-goodness old cowboy range war cemetery.

Silver Spur Dude Ranch

This modern facility has 13 deluxe cabins on a 275-acre ranch with hunting, cookouts, family-style meals, hayrides, horseback riding, Olympic-sized pool, volleyball, playground, game room, dance and party lounge, meeting rooms, hiking, western entertainment. Located off FM Road 1077 10 miles south of Bandera. 796-3037.

Horseback Riding

Lightning Ranch- On Hwy. 1283, right off Hwy. 16 in Pipe Creek. 75 acres with 2,000 acres available. If you have to wait a bit for your ride going out, the wranglers teach you how to rope or play horseshoes. This ranch also has Bed & Breakfast in individual cabins, Shetland pony rides, hour, half-day, and whole-day rides available. You take your pick. See Ad on Page 24.

Luna Creek Livery - Hwy. 16, four minutes south of Bandera. 400 acres of beautiful Hill Country, it was part of the original 10,000 acre Heinin Ranch. Has hour, half-day or all-day rides available. Also, hay rides are offered in a Belgian/Percheron-pulled wagon.

"Runnin' R Ranch" - 12 miles out from Bandera on the Dixie Dude Road. 400+ acres abutting onto the 4,000 acre Hill Country State Natural Primitive Area. They offer hour, half-day, and all-day rides, and have a very popular sunset ride that ends with a bonfire hotdog and marshmallow roast.

The Bandera
Bulletin
Our 49th Year, No. 18

Hunting season begins Saturday, Nov. 7. Barbecues, dances and an arts and crafts show will be among the highlights of the weekend.

Bessie Clark Schmidtke, 99 years old and Bandera County's oldest voter signs in at precinct 7 to cast her ballot. The nonagenarian voted for "the sheriff" (Steve Forest) and then an otherwise straight Republican ticket. Staff photo by Larry T. Williams

James MacMillan is Bandera's new sheriff

Bandera County voters elected James MacMillan over incumbant Sheriff Steve Forest, 2,983 to 2,279. Bandera voters turned out in force on Nov. 3, with 5,319 of the 6,776 registered voters casting ballots for a total of 78.50 percent.

Although Bill Clinton was elected president, Bandera voted Republican with President George Bush getting 2,674 votes to Ross Perot's 1,537 and Clinton's 1,059.

In other local races, Allen G. Hatley beat Tom Fielder, 623 to 417 for Constable, Precinct 4. Ralph Chancy was the only opposed Democratic candidate on the ballot to win locally, edging past Republican Louis Vannatter 675 to 607 in the race for County Commissioner, Precinct 3.

Local candidates who ran unopposed and were elected include: Kerry Helgren Schneider, County Attorney; Marguérite Stevens, County Tax Assessor-Collector; Donnie Walker, Constable, Precinct 1; Ernest C. Reich, III, Constable, Precinct 2; William L. (Bill) Ellis, Constable, Precinct 3; Bennie Barker, County Commissioner, Precinct 1; and Justice of the Peace Louise M. Karr for Precinct 2.

State Senator for District 25, Bill Sims, lost locally to Troy Fraser, 1,965 to 2,981.

Bandera's vote for United States Representative, District 21, went to Lamar Smith, 3,868 to James M. Gaddy's 942 votes.

Democratic candidate Lena Guerrero lost her bid for Railroad Commissioner to Barry Williamson, 3,654 to 1,035.

State Representative, District 73, candidate John Petsch Brelsford took a victory over Democratic candidate Robert (Bob) Turner, 2,880 votes to Turner's 1,874.

Bandera picked Bob Offutt over Ted Coulter, 2893 to 1,722 as a member on the State Board of Education, District 5.

For court-related offices, Bandera cast 3892 votes for unopposed Bruce Curry, District Attorney 216 Judical District, and 3,948 votes for unopposed Stephen B. Ables for District Judge, 216 Judicial District.

Tom Rickhoff beat Ron Carr, 3,067 to 1,851, for Justice, 4th Court of Appeals District.

For Justice, Supreme Court, Place 1, it was Craig Enoch

(See ELECTION, Page 8.)

She's seen nearly a century of elections, and she was determined to vote

Bessie Clark Schmitdke didn't want to miss this election. Just 4 months short of her 100th birthday, she wanted to follow in the footsteps of her father, Bandera County pioneer, Amasa Clark in demonstrating the importance of voting.

Clark, at the age of 101, rode eight miles or more on horseback into Bandera in the November 1936 election to cast his vote for his friend, Claude Hudspeth, a candidate for Congress.

Hudspeth expressed his thanks to Clark in a letter, saying he had read about the event in the Bandera New Era, and "no statement in the press since I have reached the age of maturity has impressed me with such a deep sense of gratitude as that..."

Born when Benjamin Harrison was president of the United States, Schmidtke has observed a century of political shenanigans. The last surviving child of Mexican War veteran Amasa Clark, she is still active on her ranch on Indian Creek.

Bandera County Artists event on courthouse lawn

The Bandera County Artist's Association will sponsor the Annual Hunter's Weekend Art & Crafts show on Nov. 7 & 8 at the Bandera County Courthouse. It will be held from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Forty booths are already sold for the event. Only 65 booths will be available, due to space limitations.

This year, the booths will be set up along the Hackberry Street side of the Courthouse and along the back. Additionally, one lane of Hackberry will be closed to traffic to allow more safety and convenience for the public. Concession stands will sell food and beverages. Music will be provided by the Happy Notes Singers.

Publicity in the Texas Highways magazine, the Where It's At magazine, and local newspapers have brought artists from all around the Hill Country to Bandera for the Hunter's Weekend show. Local artist, and Vice President of the Artist's Association, Olga Bolduc, surmised that the show could draw a crowd of 3,000. "It all depends on how many hunters come to town. Also, we get a lot of people on the way to Lost Maples and people from the race track. This is a good time of the year for this art show. We get a lot of tourists and a lot of arts and crafts people have heard about the show."

Bolduc said that Bandera County public school students have been a boost to plans for the art show this year. They made posters announcing the event. Winners were awarded savings certificates. The posters are on display around town.

Hunters Barbecue Friday

Will the 30th annual event that signals the opening of hunting season break attendance records?

Last year, more than 1,000 plates of barbecue were served at the Hunter's Barbecue and the 1,200 pounds of prepared brisket ran out before the event ended. Will this year beat that record?

The Bandera Chamber of Commerce sponsors the annual event and uses proceeds from it to defray office costs and to promote Bandera. Last year, a year, a net of $10,000 was realized.

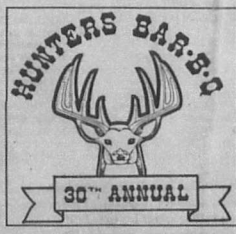
Cold weather and the opening of Deer Season drew last year's crowd. This year, cold weather is again expected for the opening of Deer Season. And, again, entertainment is being offered for the entire family.

This year's Hunter's Barbecue will be held at Manafield Park on Friday, Nov. 6, with serving beginning at 5 p.m. Special events, including a predator calling demonstration, a turkey calling demonstration, and an archery clinic, will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Additionally, Flying L will sponsor a golf tournament. It begins at noon sharp and offers prizes including two 1993 GM Products from Rodeo Chevrolet.

Live music will entertain; an auction will be held; deer feeder, horn rattling; bowfishing; predator and turkey calling demonstrations will be presented. Hunting equipment and archery clinics will be held. And if that isn't enough to draw a crowd to the 30th Annual Hunter's Barbecue, there will be FOOD.

Hunter's Weekend will continue on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 7 & 8 with an Arts & Crafts Show at the Courthouse. Forty artists and crafts persons have already reserved booths for the two-day show.



Everything is ready for a record-breaking crowd.

Johnny Bush to play for park benefit dance

Johnny Bush and the Bandoleros will play for the Hunter's Ball at Mansfield Park on Saturday, Nov. 7 from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Money from concession stands will go into the construction fund for the proposed city park.

The Hunter's Ball is being sponsored by the City of Bandera. Profit from the event will be added to the $79,000 currently in the construction fund. Bandera must match half of the grant fund amount they receive from the Texas Parks and Wildlife.

The May park fund raiser with Johnny Bush netted around $1,000. Volunteers on the City Park Committee are hoping this fund raiser will net more for park construction.

Committee members include Joe Glasscock, Johnny Boyle, Jim Hannah, Roy Rodriques, Peggy Tobin and Dorothy Mattiza, along with Bandera Mayor Raymond Adamietz.

Glasscock said support is needed at the fund raising event. Individuals wishing to help with concession stands will also be welcomed.

Style show Nov. 9 will benefit local ACS

Bandera's second annual Christmas Style Show will be on Monday, Nov. 9 at the Flying L Conference Center beginning at 6:30 p.m. and due to limited seating, only ticket holders will be admitted. Tickets are available at Shoe Biz, 301 Main Street.

A total of 22 models will show four to seven outfits each. These will encompass the entire spectrum of fashion from sportswear to evening wear. They all have one thing in common: they are available in Bandera. The emphasis of the fashion show will be: shop at home. Bandera has a lot to offer.

Participating merchants include: Shoe Biz, Texas Rose, Janett's, Flying L Gift Shop, Hill Country Fashions and Sport Shack.

Hairstyles for the models will be provided by: Margie's, Special Effects, Hairways and Hair Unlimited.

Entertainment will again be provided by The Texas Music Machine.

There will be refreshments and door prizes, and all donations will go to the American Cancer Society.

Robin Price

Sheriff's Deputy Price departs for El Paso

Bandera Sheriff's Deputy Lieutenant Robin Price will report to El Paso Monday, Nov. 16 to begin service with the United States Border Patrol, says Sheriff Steve Forest.

Price, a six-year law enforcement veteran will attend the USBP Academy for a four month period and then go to work as an agent for the El Paso sector.

Price began his service with Bandera in 1988 as a Deputy and moved through the ranks of corporal, sergeant and finally Lieutenant in charge of the Criminal Investigation Division.

"This is something I've wanted for a long time," said Price. "I've had my application in for a long time. These people really check you out."

Price credited his acceptance into the Border Patrol to the varied experiences in investigative work he encountered with the Bandera department. "I learned more working for (Bandera) than I ever did any where else," he said. "I got a wealth of good training here."

to the editor

Her kids felt no pressure

Dear editor:

As a parent and member of our P.T.O. (Parent-Teacher Organization), I wish to respond to last week's letter to the editor regarding fund raisers at Alkek Elementary School. I have two children enrolled at Alkek Elementary School.

I was notified about the fund raisers in a letter sent home. This letter was not enclosed in an envelope, but it was addressed to the parent. I feel an envelope would have been an unnecessary expense. Several days later, I received an order form and catalog. After reading this letter I clearly understood that there was no requirement for the children to participate. My children were enthusiastic about the project and felt absolutely no pressure.

I attended the first general meeting of the PTO. The cafeteria was packed full of concerned parents. There were no objections stated by any parent about fund raisers.

Much work is always put into each and every effort made to assist our school. A lot of hours of work and preparation goes into everything done. This is indicated by the items that were purchased with last year's fund raisers. Just a few are listed below: a nice marquee for the front lawn, TVs, laser discs, VCRs, playground equipment, a projector screen and more. I can't recall everything.

I'd like to encourage the community to support all fund raising efforts made by the PTO. You do not have to be a parent to be concerned about the development of our children. In the past you have been so generous and it is very much appreciated.

I feel it gives the children a great sense of pride to have contributed something to their school. In turn, this should give our community a sense of pride in our children and their efforts.

As you know, state funding for the school is limited and we as concerned parents should want to always do as much as we can to help the school. Of course, not to the point of placing a drain on our families. Too often we only see the negative in everything. We should consider fund raisers as a positive effort to contribute to our school and community. A successful school system creates a successful community.

I urge you to show pride in your school and community by getting involved and saying YES to any positive effort made to aid our school system.

He'll soon be a Husker

Dear editor:

I have lived in Bandera for several years, and I consider it my home. I am about to leave this place that I've called home to attend the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, where I plan to study communications.

All the years we have lived here, all the kindness and friendship of the folks here has been just great! All the help and support my family received when we went on our walks, and on other projects was more than we ever expected!

I will miss Bandera's friendliness, and I just want everyone to know how much I appreciate the years of support and friendship. And I'm especially like to thank Kerry Schneider, Albert Alkek and Thelma Davenport for their help. They have been just great.

Veterans Day ceremony

Dear editor:

Commander John Wheeler of the Bandera American Legion Post 157 extends an invitation to all members of Bandera's veterans' post and chapters, and all veterans and families that have lost a loved one in the service of his country, to join us in the ceremony Nov. 11 at 11 a.m. on the Bandera courthouse lawn.

On this day, Veterans' Day, we are commemorating the service of all veterans of all wars. If you are able, please try to attend this somber ceremony in honoring our fallen comrades.

Again this year, the U.S.N.J.R.O.T.C. Honor Guard from John Marshall High School of San Antonio will conduct the flag raising ceremony in a patriotic salute.

An angry letter

Dear editor:

I put a "Thank You" in the Bulletin last week, and it was read back to me, but when it was printed the name of my husband was omitted, making him a "laughing-stock." I do not appreciate this error and wonder if there is any proofreading ever done by your staff.

'Smell the coffee,' she says

Dear editor:

I think it's about time Americans woke up and smelled the coffee. Women in particular. As a mother of four, I cannot imagine any mother killing her own baby. I keep hearing pro-choice. Don't you women understand you do have a choice? Either to get pregnant or not! If you don't want babies don't get pregnant—that's your choice. This is the 90s, you have many choices of birth control-USE THEM! Come on America, wake up, take a stand. Thou shalt NOT kill! I can't be a part of this. Can you?

In answer to "Another Viewpoint" (Oct. 14), if aborted babies aren't abused and abandoned, who is? Your second answer was found on page 5B, Oct. 14, under "wanted", fifth one down. My advice to you, before you criticize someone, get the whole story. I'd tell you how to spend your time and energies but that would be like closing the gate after the cows were out.

Another EMT resigns

Dear editor:

Several months ago there was a great deal of fuss over the county's EMS system, with resulting suspensions and resignations of many of our county's EMTs. After much ballyhoo, the commissioners reinstated one paramedic, letters were written about what a good job EMS is doing, a building was donated, and two new ambulances were purchased. The noise died down and things continued to roll on as usual, down the same old ruts.

On October 12, I requested $100 county training funds to attend a two-day class so that at least one of the three paramedics still actively on-call could gain American Heart Association certification in Advanced Cardiac Life Support (A.C.L.S.). This would have given me hands-on refresher training in procedures learned in paramedic school (for which the county did not pay $650), and boosted my confidence level in utilizing these potentially life-saving techniques.

My request for funds was forwarded through my chapter representative, as I have been told this is now the proper procedure. I emphasize that I was told this, as the written protocols I signed and agreed to abide by gave Chapter Reps authority basically in scheduling and settling personnel grievances. The written protocols currently being used as "guidelines" by the "powers that be" have still not been distributed to the EMTs being governed by them.

My request was considered by the P.A.G.C. made up of one representative from each chapter - only one of whom is a paramedic and, as you must be a nurse, M.D., or paramedic to take the A.C.L.S. course, therefore, the only voice with knowledge of what the training might mean. The P.A.G.C.'s decision, as relayed to me by my chapter rep, was that I do not have enough experience to benefit from this training. Their incredible suggestion was that I "practice" for another year on critically ill county citizens, then I'd have enough "experience" to benefit from being trained to take care of these folks.

My contention is that, if, after maintaining one of the highest grades in my class and having one of the highest scores on State certification tests, eight years experience in ICU and ER nursing, and nearly eight months of utilizing paramedic training (which cost the county nothing), I am too inexperienced to benefit from "practicing" techniques on high-tech plastic dummies, then I am too inexperienced to "practice" on my fellow citizens. When I told my rep this, I was told that the PAGC did not have all of this information when they made their decision. How can they make good decisions when they continually make decisions without asking for needed information to make informed decisions?

I have, therefore, resigned from Bandera County EMS. I have no wish to be affiliated with a system which continually makes uninformed decisions, enforces their decisions with protocols unseen and unsigned by its personnel, and advocates practicing on people before getting training.

To the citizens I will no longer be serving, I offer an apology. To the "system" I offer a suggestion—wake up before it's too late and another citizen's life is lost by putting the cart before the horse in the name of the almighty dollar.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — While the limelight focused on elections last week, a handful of staffers labored backstage to prepare the Capitol for the Nov. 10 special session on school finance.

Gov. Ann Richards is bringing lawmakers back to Austin to attempt to remedy their third consecutive beat — the "Robin Hood" plan, which the courts declared unconstitutional.

The new plan was such a well-kept secret until after Election Day that left-out lawmakers speculated there actually wasn't one.

Of course, there was, but with every state House and Senate seat up for election, only a fool would bring up the subject of new taxes.

Of illegal taxes. The Texas Supreme Court struck down the Robin Hood plan for creating an illegal state property tax.

The tax was collected all summer anyway, and still is today — even as lawmakers sit down to the opening gavel.

It is the third time that lawmakers — most of them lawyers — got a failing grade in bill writing.

No, this is not the stuff political careers are made of.

Session A Gamble?

Some observers see little chance the legislature will approve anything in a special session; some believe it is a big gamble by the governor, now riding high in popularity polls.

In the Democrat-dominated legislature, Republicans still have more than one-third of the House votes, enough to stop a proposed constitutional amendment.

7 Deeplis a high number of lame ducks, the votes may not be there for a routine tax increase so soon after balloting.

The best Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock may hope for is to repeal the illegal aspects of school finance and try only for a consensus on a statutory concept of fair play for school funding with no tax increase.

Actual funding — the dollar amounts — would be minimal at best or delayed until new members meet in the January regular session.

The gamble for Gov. Richards is the special session may produce nothing, expanding her image of ineffectiveness on the school finance issue.

Rudd Unveils Reforms

A leading contender for Texas House Speaker last week unveiled sweeping reform proposals that would curtail the role of the powerful but secretive Calendars Committee and realign key committees.

Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, sent copies of his proposals to House members, who will elect the next speaker in January. He and Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, are thought to be locked in a battle for the 76 votes needed. Rep. David Cain, D-Dallas, also is thought to be a front-runner.

Rudd proposed the following:

- Abolish the Calendars Committee. Bills passed by committee would stay in the chief clerk's office until 30 House members state in writing their support for bringing the bill to the floor for debate.
- Require that the chair of the Corrections Committee come from an urban area.
- Prohibit the chair of the Insurance Committee from being a trial lawyer or a person who has a financial interest in the insurance industry.
- The chair of the Public Education Committee would have to be committed to education policy, not education finance. Education finance issues would go to another committee.
- A House Finance Committee would be established by merging the Ways and Means and Appropriations. Three permanent subcommittees would be created: expenditures, revenue and strategic planning. Members of each subcommittee would elect their chairs.

Meanwhile, speaker hopeful Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, ended his candidacy in favor of Laney.

Bee County Prison Talks

Bee County officials have agreed to negotiate with the state prison system, which wants to buy or lease parts of Chase Field to relocate a backlog of prisoners now jamming county jails.

The Beeville-Bee County Redevelopment Council voted unanimously to begin negotiations, said Brad Arvin, the group's executive director.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice wants to locate the prison system's regional headquarters, training facilities and maximum-security cluster units at the defunct military base.

Other Highlights

- Hundreds of Texans picked up $125,000 in unclaimed money and stock at this year's State Fair of Texas. "More than 33,000 people visited the state Treasury's unclaimed property booth at the fair," said Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison.
- Former state Rep. David Hudson, a vocal lottery opponent, has been hired to watch over the state's lottery contracts. Hudson, of Tyler, said his opposition to the lottery while he was a lawmaker would not hinder his ability to oversee the contracts.
- Three groups of Texas farmers will travel to Paris for a firsthand look at the French high-speed rail transit system and to ask their French counterparts if the train has disrupted their lives. Texas TGC Corp., holder of the Texas franchise, is sponsoring the trips. Many Texas farmers are opposed to the train, with would connect Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Austin.

She's the new 'Zeke' in town

Edwina Black, from Junction, is the new owner-manager of 'Zeke's. "I was looking for

Black and her family own a business in Junction, "Brown's Fried Chicken." She said she could never have made the Bandera business move without the help and backing of her father, Gilbert Lopez.

"My mother and dad love Bandera. I came here and fell in love with it. It's appealing. The people are nice. I like the 'Bandera style.' I don't know any other way to put it."

Black plans no immediate changes in Zeke's. Her aim is to keep customers happy. "They've let me know they don't want any changes." She will be bringing one worker with her from the Junction location, Leah Smith. But all current Zeke's employees will remain.

After Black lost her husband in Viet Nam, she raised two children alone, a son and a daughter. She began her restaurant career by accident in 1974 in Nashville. "It was Halloween night and I walked into this place and they had no help. I pitched in and started working. I began as a waitress. I worked my way up to district manager. They flew me to Texas.

"I worked for Segovia for seven years. It was a truck stop restaurant. I did everything from waitress to manage to mop the floors and cook. I left and went to Junction to get back into a rural community."

Black does not applaud herself for her years of struggle in raising her children alone. She credits her success to her love [illegible] people. "I'm a people person. I love love people. That's what got me through."

What it got her through was hardship and disappointment. Looking back, Black says that if it had been possible then, she would have become a doctor. "I worked in a doctor's office four four years. I worked up to a medical technician. I loved it. I wanted to study nursing but I never could afford it. I tried to get help. I was refused over and over. They said that making five dollars an hour while supporting two children was too much money for me to qualify. They advised me to quit working and go on welfare. They told me to become destitute and stay that way for six months and they would help me finance nursing school. But I couldn't do that because of the children. Who could do that to their children?"

So Black worked and slaved doing "anything to support the children."

Her children are now grown. Her son, Matt is in a military intelligence unit and will leave for Germany on Oct. 20. He will be gone three years. Daughter Gina Holekamp lives in Sonora with her husband and four children. They operate "Red Hoss Feeds."

Black said she is "too old and tired" and that it is too late in life to change careers and get into the medical field. "So now, instead of taking care of them, I just feed them."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Once more you see the wisdom of focusing on your goals, and you know that success can be yours. The question is, do you have to have instant gratification or can you wait till the weekend? Let your personality flow all weekend long.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You go from low to high this week. Because you radiate such high energy, you feel wonderful and are able to move in many new directions. Try finding something you really care about and embrace it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Follow through on a fantasy. You can have it all, if you're willing to break through your own limitations and just let things happen. You rush through the work week — you have so much to do, and you do it quickly. Greet the weekend with open arms.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Knock out financial and emotional agreements as soon as you can. Be in contact with people who don't reflect your own views. It will help you to "stretch" and understand more. Plan on being around home this weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Get to the bottom of a problem quickly this week. It could cost you some money or a couple of heartaches, but, if handled well, you and another could both be winners. Plan on a mini-vacation this weekend — the more exotic, the better.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Though you start the work week well, you may discover you are rather scattered by week's end. The good news is, how you get scattered and with whom may truly be a delight. Count on plenty of intimate talks, romantic dinners and warm moments this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Creative forces are high, and you make headway quickly. Touch base with a loved one who means much to you for long lengthy talks. You need to meet this person halfway if you know what is good for you. By the weekend, another's wish is your command.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) What to do with a family or domestic matter may distract you from work this week. However, once resolved or accepted, you move into a highly creative period where you are full of ideas and ready to experience every vestige of life to the fullest.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You enjoy the swift pace and the happy moments as another makes it quite clear how they feel about you. You have many choices ahead, and you are just getting a glimmer of your options. Don't get bogged down by the thought of choices.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Though you may be inclined to hold on tightly to funds, you come up with more ideas, errands and ways of spending the almighty buck this week. The way you need to trim the red tape in your life without adding extra expenses. Spend a mellow weekend at home with loved one.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) The planets add extra get up and go this week into your plate. You may also notice when you aren't busily answering a call or accepting an invitation that you are getting what it is you want. You learn the power of a positive presentation. Exercise this talent all weekend long.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Your vitality may be down this week, but at the last minute, charisma, vitality and charm exude out of you, making this not only a banner work week but also a banner weekend. Do be careful about that Piscean trait of going overboard.

Clark Cemetery marker dedicated

Over 40 relatives and friends of the Amasa Clark family gathered for the dedication of the historical marker honoring the Clark family cemetery Friday, Oct. 30 at 10 a.m. at the site of the marker on FM 470.

Carolyn Edwards, chairman of the Bandera County Historical Commission, opened the program asking the Lord's blessing and then thanked two people instrumental in the creation of the marker, Raymond "Spot" Wright and Peggy Tobin.

A brief history of Bandera pioneer, Amasa Clark, and his family was given. County Judge Ray Mauer introduced members of the commissioners court present and explained the process of getting the marker.

After family members introduced themselves, attendees enjoyed visiting and taking pictures.

Bandera pioneer Amasa Clark's life included hunting, war & more

By Carolyn Edwards
Bulletin Staff Writer

Amasa Clark lived an adventurous life that included service in the Mexican War [illegible] of war. After his release, he spent time earning his living as a freighter. He came to the Medina River Valley in 1852, led by Delaware Indian friends to a spot which provided fine hunting.

As he says in the book, Reminiscences of a Centenarian, a recording of his memories by Cora Tope Clark, "The country was full of bear, deer, turkey, and there were bee caves and bee trees to be found everywhere, so we were kept supplied with bear meat, venison, turkey, wild honey, and lived on the fat of the land."

The Milstead, Odem, and Sauer families were camped on the Medina about where Bandera is today, operating a shingle business when Clark arrived. He found employment with them and "liked the country so much, I decided to remain. It reminded me somewhat of my native state, New York."

On one job, Clark traded his share of the shingles for a wagon and then went into business for himself [illegible] making enough to buy four mules.

Clark was soon joined in the rich river valley by a party of Mormons who arrived in 1854, and in 1855 sixteen Polish families came to work for John James and Charles de Montel, who had by this time set up a saw mill on the river.

Shingle making continued to provide life's necessities for the settlers. As Clark says, "the main road from Bandera to San Antonio was first by way of Castroville...but a road was opened from Bandera, passing along about the same route now followed by State Highway No. 81 (now SH 16)

Eliza Jane Wright, a Llano County girl who was "a very pretty girl, all of the young men wanted to spark her," gave her consent to Amasa and he soon found himself journeying to Llano County to ask her to be his wife. Eleven children blessed this union. After marriage, the Clarks worked for Orange White, but [illegible] take care of the camels at Camp Verde.

When Clark bought his land on Indian Creek, he decided to try growing fruit and started a nursery. "In 1921 I marketed over 1,000 bushels of pears from my orchard." Clark also grew peaches and was the first to try apples in Bandera County.

In 1885, Clark married Miss Lucy Wedgeworth and eight children were born to them.

Born in 1825, Amasa Clark died January 28, 1927, having witnessed over a century of strife and growth, adventure and progress. He survived Indian attacks and bear attacks, raised a large and devoted family, and contributed to the welfare of Bandera County through his intelligence and industry. His body is buried in the Clark Family Cemetery.

Bandera sculptors Mike Paulsbo and Bill Stevens.

Local artists will show their work in Tucson

Bill Stevens and Mike Paulsbo's sculptures will be exhibited by Mountain Oyster Club

Bandera will provide two of the 180 artists who will show selected works in the prestiges 23rd annual Mountain Oyster Club Contemporary Western Art Show and sale in Tucson, Ariz. Sunday, Nov. 23.

Mike Paulsbo and Bill Stevens will each exhibit three bronze sculptures at the event which, according to a club spokeswoman, attracts art lovers from all over the Southwest.

Paulsbo's art centers around cowboys and their related animals and equipment and is distinguished by polychrome patinas applied to accent certain areas of his works.

Stevens' bronzes are aimed more toward Native American themes and reflect to a large degree the mystic relationship the Indian warriors had with their deities.

Both artists are past exhibitors at the annual Kiwanis art show during the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo and each has been invited to participate again this year.

Paulsbo and Stevens both have had professional rodeo careers and each still enjoys "tossing a loop" now and then.

Art enthusiasts who want more information about these artists and their work can contact Paulsbo at 796-3114 and Stevens at 796-8120.

Bandera students 'hold their own' in area FFA competition Monday

Local students finished in the middle of the pack in tough area FFA competition in leadership contests in San Marcos.

Brent Hargis, first place district winner in creed speaking, placed sixth in the area contest. He competed against between 60 and 70 contestants.

Bandera's radio team, which had placed second in the district competition, placed seventh in the area competition.

"We are very proud of our students," said Bandera FFA advisor Tom Maynard. "But area FFA competition is very tough and the judges are very picky."

Maynard said that this year's contest is a learning experience for the chapter. "This is just a starting place for us. We are going to be much, much stronger in years to come."

TOWN MEETINGS SET FOR BANDERA SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT SEARCH

Bandera Board of Education has hired the Texas Association of School Boards to assist in the search for a new superintendent of schools to replace Mr. Ted Dockery, who will retire at the end of this school year.

One of the first and most important parts of the search is to develop a profile of the new superintendent. This will be accomplished by a TASB consultant who will come to the district and meet with as many community patrons as possible. The consultant will be in the district on Nov. 17 to conduct nine meetings with community groups to seek suggestions as to the professional and personal characteristics the community would like in their new superintendent. The following is a schedule of these meetings:

Tuesday, Nov. 17, 1992

Group	Time	Place
Administrators	9 a.m	Superintendent's office
PTA, Booster Club	10 a.m.	High School Library
Business-Civic Leaders	11 a.m.	High School Library
High School students	12 p.m.	High School Library
Support Staff	2 p.m.	High School Library
Teachers	3:30 p.m.	Auditorium
Media	4:30 p.m.	High School Library
Board of Trustees	5 p.m.	High School Library
Town Meeting	7 p.m.	High School Library

The town meeting is intended to give any citizen who wishes the opportunity to make comments regarding the selection of a new superintendent. At each of the group meetings, participants will be asked to present the characteristics they would like in a new superintendent. Comments will be summarized and a profile developed that will be used to evaluate applicants.

A timeline for the search has been approved by the board, which shows applications being accepted through Feb. 12, 1993. The board will then select six to eight candidates to be interviewed on Feb. 25, 26 and 27. Three finalists will be selected and invited for a second interview on Mar. 4, 5, and 6. The new superintendent will be selected at a meeting of the board on Mar. 12 and be on the job approximately June 1, 1993.

Halloween in Bandera is always a lot of fun with everyone up and down Main Street getting into the spirits of the day and dressing up in spectacular [illegible] night are great, too. And to add to this year's excitement, about 10 p.m., the lightning started flashing, the thunder started cracking, the wind started howling and then, the rain swooshed down in sheets. And then the wall of the "Silver Dollar" started leaking, and soon the dancers were dancing through a lake! And then, the roof started leaking at the "Bella Union" in the Ghost Town at Lost Valley, and tables had to be shoved around; when I remarked on the big puddle in the middle of the dance floor which they were all dancing through or around, one cowboy said, "It doesn't bother me. I wore my hat!"

The Forge was in fine "fiddle" again on Sunday evening with a stand-up bass, an accordion, two guitars, drums, a washboard (yours truly playing this-didn't have my kazoo!), and—get this—FOUR fiddles. When all four of them struck up with "Maiden's Prayer", "Orange Blossom Special" and "Westfalia Waltz", the crowd went wild. Quite a concert.

• Since I really feel quite happy in Bandera I don't go anywhere much, but the airlines were offering such a cheap flight, I leaped at the opportunity to visit my daughter Dede and her husband Dale in Boston, and what a trip it was!

It was a "commuter flight" and the culture shock was really great. While everyone was deplaning, they were all exchanging business cards, so I pulled out my wooden nickel from Lost Valley and gave it to the guy next to me as he wanted to bring his family to Bandera for a vacation!

We flew over the mighty Mississippi with its beautiful rich delta, and on to Boston.

My "darlings" live in a 1660s town, in a 1700s carriage house (re-done: the horses are gone!). Fall colors were everywhere. [illegible] let, tangerine, brown, orange and greens of every shade. Through the bowed windows of the living room were red apples dangling off a big tree and golden maples. My bedroom view was filled with shimmering reds and yellows.

The homes are HUGE, SOLID and old with some kind of Christmas tree in each front yard. Pumpkins everywhere, from roadside farm stands to front porches. Fresh cold apple cider and hot delicious clam chowder at every turn.

The first night, we went "countra dancing" in a big VFW hall. All ages grab a partner and form a long line. The band was fiddles and piano with a caller calling out twists and turns and swirls as the couples inter-dance up and down the line. Big smiles abound, it's such an alive, active dance. I wore the first skirt I'd worn in years! It was worth it. It's an Irish/New England dance that's sweeping the country. It just hasn't hit Bandera yet!

Then, the next night, it was western dancing at the "King Phillip Ballroom." Actually, it was country western ball-room dancing! With dips and twirls and intricate patterns—oh! For a good ol' Texas two-step! The dance floor looked like a 1930s musical extravaganza.

A dinner party, at home, for about 15 people. These were 30-ish business execs, scientists, or computer specialists and the talk naturally got around to politics, so we took a poll. Eight Perot, two Bush and five Clinton.

Then, to Mystic Seaport, a living museum of the 18th-century whaling scene. Dark rain clouds scudding overhead with a brisk breeze. The ocean white-capped and wind whipped. All we needed were a few flurries to set the scene! [illegible] making, fish drying, how to "catch" a whale, and we even got to haul up on a square sail to a sea chanty. One of the instructors was a fifth-generation boat builder and is still building wooden boats.

On to the U.S. Maritime Museum and a tour of the first nuclear submarine, U.S.S. Nautilus. The first submarine was like a diving bell and was tried out (without success) in the Revolutionary War. -

The next day, we took the ferry over to Martha's Vineyard Island, with a 45-minute ride out into the Atlantic. It was COLD and brisk and I felt like any cobwebs I had were dashed away, and I was very glad of the long johns I lived in the whole trip! 200-year-old solid homes were all over the island, having lasted through many a hurricane. The coastline was magnificent and I got to add to my shell collection from white long beaches. A car, in front of us, had a bumper sticker, "Kerrville Music Festival"!

And then, a tour of the Christian Science Church Center, where the world-wide movement of Christian Science is headquartered. Dede has worked there for four years and took me around everywhere. Not only did I get to tour the mother church, the church center and the Publishing Society (where our international newspaper, the Christian Science Monitor, is published), but I got to go to three different church services at the mother church. The organ has over 1,000 pipes. It was magnificent, and hearing familiar hymns ring out was soul-inspiring!

It was a beautiful, wonderful, great trip—BUT—"we're home, Toto, we're home!"

Bald eagles return to Texas Hill Country

Eagle tour guide Jim Ketchum and Captain Daniel Boren of the Vanishing Texas River Cruise reported the first [illegible] of eagles on Oct. 17, 1992. Passengers aboard the Texas Eagle II tour boat were excited as Capt. Boren eased the 70-foot vessel up to the towering cliffs of the Colorado River where the eagles were perched and proudly posing for the camera buffs as camera shutters snapped repeatedly. The boat gently pulled away from the shore and at that instant, one of the giant birds spread its six-foot wing span and propelled itself upward into the sky. Suddenly, like a giant missile, the massive bird dived in front of the boat, hit the water with its powerful talons, and retrieved a large fish. The passengers and crew felt the excitement of watching a rarely-seen moment of nature in action. Add to this the beauty of the incredible wilderness setting and you have a picture never to be forgotten. "Everyone on board was absolutely spellbound", remarked tour guide Jim Ketchum.

According to Captain Boren, this year should prove to be one of the best eagle seasons ever. The eagles have returned about four weeks earlier than expected and both Lake Buchanan and the Colorado River channel are four feet above normal. "Along with the eagles, we have also seen wild turkey, osprey, cormorant, blue heron, deer and Spanish goats."

The Vanishing Texas River Cruise offers world class bird watching, plus the incredible beauty of the Colorado River, beautiful waterfalls, towering cliffs, and an abundance of native Texas wildlife.

Vanishing Texas River Cruise president, Shawn Devaney, reminds everyone to make plans early to visit the area. "Officially, our eagle season is from Nov. 15 through the end of March", says Devaney, "but this year with eagles arriving much earlier, we anticipate a banner year."

Above average rainfall for the year, and two to three consecutive years of good reproduction have increased the Rio Grande turkey population across the state. Turkeys are available for Texas hunters and are in good physical condition. A $5 turkey stamp is required in addition to a valid Texas hunting license to hunt turkeys.

TPWD surveys deer population

Wildlife personnel with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently completed annual deer population surveys here in Bandera Co[illegible] mate of 83 deer per 1,000 acres, or about 39,000 deer county wide.

Bandera County's deer season opens on Saturday, Nov. 7 and continues through Sunday, Jan. 3. The bag limit is four deer; no more than two antlered bucks.

Doe permits or special doe tags will not be issued or required to harvest antlerless deer in the Edwards Plateau. Hunters need to use the appropriate tag from thier hunting license and to have landowner permission to tag doe or antlerless deer in Bandera and other "either-sex" counties.

Local wildlife personnel are recommending that Bandera County landowners try to harvest one doe or antlerless deer for every 75 acres and one buck for every 250 acres.

Predator and turkey calling demonstration will be part of Hunters Barbecue event

Turkey and predator calling demonstrations will be an added attraction at this year's Hunter's Barbecue on Friday, Nov. 6. The demonstrations will run from 5:30 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Local residents are providing the demonstrations mostly for the benefit of youth. Billy Walker, organizer of the event, said the main purpose is to expose young hunters to the possibilities open to them in excelling in the sport. Skilled callers will be at the barbeque and will work with interested individuals "one-on-one."

Walker, chairman of this year's Hunter's Barbecue, said that turkey calling, especially, is designed for the benefit of youth. "We want to emphasize youth this year at the Hunter's Barbecue. And turkey calling is a skill they can learn and use for fun. You can call turkeys so close to Bandera- right along the Medina River- and they come. You don't have to call them to kill them. Just call them for fun. It's cheap entertainment. A caller costs about $1.50. Any amateur can learn to call them in about five minutes."

Those participating in the turkey and predator calling include Billy Walker, John Hamiliton, Skip Ondrovick, Paul Olsen, Rick Anderson and Emmit Schmidt.

Hamiliton said it is important for those wishing to participate in the demonstration to bring their own caller. They are available at hardware stores and sporting goods stores. He uses the same caller with different blows to attract foxes, racoons and coyotes. He will demonstrate this technique at the Hunter's Barbecue but disclaims any designation as an "expert."

"I learned when I was young- from my brother. But I'm still learning everyday. I don't like the use of the term 'expert.' It implies too many things. I'm not an expert. It's just something I like to do."

Lakehills veterinarian Skip Ondrovick will be demonstrating a wild turkey call. He said that although turkeys act on instinct and not on higher thought process it is hard to "sneak up on them." He said their capabilities of vision and hearing make them a challenge to hunt. The turkey call he will demonstrate at the Hunter's Barbecue is one blown strictly by mouth. This eliminates movement which could alert the turkey.

Ondrovick said hunting turkeys is 20 percent calling and 80 percent knowledge of the quary and its habits. "I do a lot of reading and study in the wild. I spend several weeks before the season opens going out to the area and listening. They gobble on their roost. Only male turkeys gobble and they are the ones to hunt. I can tell how many there are and where they are roosting and what direction they fly down and where their strutting area is. They display to females just like peacocks do."

He said the object of turkey calling is to trick the gobbler. "You're trying to tell him you're a female. I walk around and make a lost turkey call. When one answers, I set up in the brush with camouflage and call him."

While this talent may serve him well now, it did not win him popularity with his family in the beginning. "About 16 years ago I started trying to learn. I listened to tapes and copied the sounds. My family relegated me to the van."

Ondrovick has killed three of the four different varieties of turkeys in the country. But he no longer shoots the wild birds. "I just like to call them up. I can buy a turkey at the store for $12. To me, it's worth that just to see them out here.

By Bungy

Halloween in Bandera is always a lot of fun with everyone up and down Main Street getting into the spirits of the day and dressing up in spectacular [illegible] night are great, too. And to add to this year's excitement, about 10 p.m., the lightning started flashing, the thunder started cracking, the wind started howling and then, the rain swooshed down in sheets. And then the wall of the "Silver Dollar" started leaking, and soon the dancers were dancing through a lake! And then, the roof started leaking at the "Bella Union" in the Ghost Town at Lost Valley, and tables had to be shoved around; when I remarked on the big puddle in the middle of the dance floor which they were all dancing through or around, one cowboy said, "It doesn't bother me. I wore my hat!"

The Forge was in fine "fiddle" again on Sunday evening with a stand-up bass, an accordion, two guitars, drums, a washboard (yours truly playing this-didn't have my kazoo!), and—get this—FOUR fiddles. When all four of them struck up with "Maiden's Prayer", "Orange Blossom Special" and "Westfalia Waltz", the crowd went wild. Quite a concert.

• Since I really feel quite happy in Bandera I don't go anywhere much, but the airlines were offering such a cheap flight, I leaped at the opportunity to visit my daughter Dede and her husband Dale in Boston, and what a trip it was!

It was a "commuter flight" and the culture shock was really great. While everyone was deplaning, they were all exchanging business cards, so I pulled out my wooden nickel from Lost Valley and gave it to the guy next to me as he wanted to bring his family to Bandera for a vacation!

We flew over the mighty Mississippi with its beautiful rich delta, and on to Boston.

My "darlings" live in a 1660s town, in a 1700s carriage house (re-done: the horses are gone!). Fall colors were everywhere. [illegible] let, tangerine, brown, orange and greens of every shade. Through the bowed windows of the living room were red apples dangling off a big tree and golden maples. My bedroom view was filled with shimmering reds and yellows.

The homes are HUGE, SOLID and old with some kind of Christmas tree in each front yard. Pumpkins everywhere, from roadside farm stands to front porches. Fresh cold apple cider and hot delicious clam chowder at every turn.

The first night, we went "countra dancing" in a big VFW hall. All ages grab a partner and form a long line. The band was fiddles and piano with a caller calling out twists and turns and swirls as the couples inter-dance up and down the line. Big smiles abound, it's such an alive, active dance. I wore the first skirt I'd worn in years! It was worth it. It's an Irish/New England dance that's sweeping the country. It just hasn't hit Bandera yet!

Then, the next night, it was western dancing at the "King Phillip Ballroom." Actually, it was country western ball-room dancing! With dips and twirls and intricate patterns—oh! For a good ol' Texas two-step! The dance floor looked like a 1930s musical extravaganza.

A dinner party, at home, for about 15 people. These were 30-ish business execs, scientists, or computer specialists and the talk naturally got around to politics, so we took a poll. Eight Perot, two Bush and five Clinton.

Then, to Mystic Seaport, a living museum of the 18th-century whaling scene. Dark rain clouds scudding overhead with a brisk breeze. The ocean white-capped and wind whipped. All we needed were a few flurries to set the scene! [illegible] making, fish drying, how to "catch" a whale, and we even got to haul up on a square sail to a sea chanty. One of the instructors was a fifth-generation boat builder and is still building wooden boats.

On to the U.S. Maritime Museum and a tour of the first nuclear submarine, U.S.S. Nautilus. The first submarine was like a diving bell and was tried out (without success) in the Revolutionary War.

The next day, we took the ferry over to Martha's Vineyard Island, with a 45-minute ride out into the Atlantic. It was COLD and brisk and I felt like any cobwebs I had were dashed away, and I was very glad of the long johns I lived in the whole trip! 200-year-old solid homes were all over the island, having lasted through many a hurricane. The coastline was magnificent and I got to add to my shell collection from white long beaches. A car, in front of us, had a bumper sticker, "Kerrville Music Festival"!

TPWD surveys deer population

Wildlife personnel with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently completed annual deer population surveys here in Bandera Co[illegible] mate of 83 deer per 1,000 acres, or about 39,000 deer county wide.

Bandera County's deer season opens on Saturday, Nov. 7 and continues through Sunday, Jan. 3. The bag limit is four deer; no more than two antlered bucks.

Doe permits or special doe tags will not be issued or required to harvest antlerless deer in the Edwards Plateau. Hunters need to use the appropriate tag from thier hunting license and to have landowner permission to bag doe or antlerless deer in Bandera and other "either-sex" counties.

Local wildlife personnel are recommending that Bandera County landowners try to harvest one doe or antlerless deer for every 75 acres and one buck for every 230 acres.

Above average rainfall for the year, and two to three consecutive years of good reproduction have increased the Rio Grande turkey population across the state. Turkeys are available for Texas hunters and are in good physical condition. A $5 turkey stamp is required in addition to a valid Texas hunting license to hunt turkeys.

CLEAN TEXAS 2000
QUESTIONS TO THE CLEAN TEXAS 2000 HOTLINE: 1-800-458-9796

Q: We go through dozens of batteries every year for flashlights, toys, tape players and radios. Would rechargeable batteries really save us money? They seem to cost a bunch, and you have to spend $20 for a recharger.

A: Yes, you could save a surprising amount of money by switching to rechargeable batteries. A study conducted at Carnegie-Mellon University and reported by The New York Times compared battery usage in a cassette player that was used for two hours each day for three years. The total savings, even when the recharger and electricity were added, was estimated at $631. The good news extends to the environment. Using the rechargeables would keep 53 pounds of trash, including mercury and cadmium, out of landfills. Both substances can leak, pollute water supplies and have harmful effects on human health.

Q: I live 40 miles from anything, even a convenience store, so it would be expensive for me to get rid of household chemicals even if you had a collection site near me. What should I do?

A: The first step for you is to reduce your use of materials that might eventually need costly and sometimes dangerous disposal. The Texas Water Commission will send you a brochure describing safe, non-toxic alternatives for almost any household use. For those products that you still have, if you can't use them for their intended purpose or find a neighbor who can use them properly, we can talk with you about safe methods of disposal. In some cases, the best thing may be for you to store the products in a locked or otherwise safe place until you can conveniently take them to a disposal location. We are working to make disposal sites available in all areas of the state.

Your newspaper runs this column as a public service in cooperation with the Texas Water Commission. If you have questions about reduction, reuse or recycling of waste, call the Texas Water Commission Environmental and Recycling Information Center at 1-800-458-9796, or write CLEAN TEXAS 2000, P.O Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087.

Bandera Sheriff Forest concurred. "That's the way it is in a small town," he said. You get good but inexperienced men into your department and you spend time and money training them and then they move on to a better paying job somewhere else. We hate to see [illegible] a real asset to the Bandera department. But he has a career ahead in law enforcement and this move will benefit him and his family. I wish him well."

Sheriff Forest said that Deputy Sergeant Lynn Holt will be promoted to Lieutenant and take over the CID post Price leaves vacant as of Nov. 16.

Medina sale 'a success'

The Medina city-wide garage sale was called a gigantic success. Garage sale enthusiasts came from as far as San Antonio, Hondo and all over the Hill Country.

[illegible] Medina Volunteer EMS said they were pleased that nearly $1,000 was raised to benefit the local Medina unit.

Spokesperson, Jayne Rambin, expresses the group's appreciation to all the people who donated and those who purchased baked goods and garage sale items, and to those who worked hard to make the event a success.

If you wish to make a donation, you may make a donation at any time. You may wish to honor the memory of a loved one. Be sure to designate on your check if you want your donation to benefit a particular EMS group.

There will be an ambulance unit set up at the Medina Hunter's Barbecue on Nov. 7 to take blood pressure and to answer questions. Mary Walker and other volunteer EMTs have patient forms for those who have special needs, in case of an emergency.

Merchants Boyle and Mazurek attend True Value market event

John Boyle and Sid Mazurek of Bandera True Value Hardware were among several thousand True Value Hardware and V&S Variety retailers who attended Cotter & Company's recent national Fall Buying Market in Chicago, Ill. Cotter & Company is the licensor of the True Value Hardware and V&S Variety retail businesses, all of which are independently owned and operated.

Over 1,200 manufacturers exhibited their products and programs, many with special pricing that enables Bandera True Value Hardware to offer customers more competitive prices on well-known brand name products and on True Value's exclusive brand of quality products.

"In addition to the many new products and programs that can benefit our customers, market highlights included seminars and workshops where we learned of new and better ways of giving our customers the service they expect," said Sid Mazurek, manager of True Value.

In addition to the market's focus on the latest in Lawn and Garden products for the 1993 selling season, Cotter & Company's entire inventory of over 50,000 items was also well-represented.

Cotter & Company's management presented a recap of the company's progress, along with a review of the $100 billion hardware industry's latest trends, including better ways to service the do-it-yourself (d-i-y) customers.

The d-i-y consumers represent over 70% of the hardware industry's retail sales, according to "Do-It-Yourself Retailing" magazine, which is published by the National Retail Hardware Association (NRHA).

Acts 10:34-35

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

God Accepts the Good

"Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality, but in every nation any one who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him.

Paul's words to the Roman centurion, Cornelius, a godly man but a Gentile, set forth clearly the doctrine that God recognized no distinctions between men. Jews, Romans and other peoples were fully welcome in God's eyes if they followed His precepts of righteous living and offered Him the awe and respect which were His. We have but to look at the universality of Christianity today to realize how far-seeing was Paul. From its humble beginnings in those narrow confines in which Jesus' ministry flourished, the faith He imbued in His followers has been spread around the world. No matter where or among what peoples, God's impartiality can be seen where good men believe.

Festival of the Arts

The Fall Festival of the Arts on Saturday, Nov. 7, 10 to 5, at Hill Country Arts Foundation in Ingram features a full day of art in a variety of media."Hands-on" arts and crafts, as well as artisans' demonstrations, will be a opart of the event.

Bandera Nursing Home residents show off winning costumes. Thelma McCain won first place while Jack Holloway took second place with his clown outfit. Juan Basquez slipped into third place with his "masked bandit" look.

Not to be outdone, nursing home employees joined residents in a costume contest. Debbie Bascom's Batman costume took third place; Ranae Clark's peaked fashion took second, and the stunning winner was Clay Day on the far right.

Silver Sage Corral

The Silver Sage Corral honored all the October birthday celebrants with a covered dish luncheon. The food was delicious and there was plenty of it.

Doloras Greene was given an award for her outstanding volunteer work at the Center. Three people won door prizes.

• On Nov. 3 at 11 a.m., the Melodiers visited the Bandera Nursing Home to bring to the residents a program entitled "Traditional Texans", reminding the listeners, in music, of the diverse ancestry of the citizens of present-day Texas.

• Soon our Tuesday morning will include Christmas music, as we have already booked five appearances in December. The Melodiers will be presenting a concert during the Open House that the Silver Sage Corral will host from 6 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 5.

• Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 7:30 a.m., a brave group of ladies take off from the Silver Sage Corral for a two-mile walk in the invigorating morning air. Some of the group is pictured as they returned from their walk one recent morning. After their walk, they remain at the center to join in the Low Impact Aerobic Class held on these mornings at 8:30 a.m. They certainly earn an "E" for Excellent or Effort.

• The Center is always looking for volunteers who can spare a few hours a day or a week sharing their talents or just visiting with us. We are a friendly group of people and we would love to have you.

• Frank Adamo and B. Hughs from the Alamo Area Council of Governments will speak here in the Board of Directors' room at 11 a.m. The subject will be "Funding for Your Center." They will pause for lunch at noon and continue at 1 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend this informative session. This meeting has been made possible through the efforts of the Board of Directors, Silver Sage Corral.

The "Two-Mile Walk Group" includes, from left, Lois Hayes, Marjorie Sullivan, Bettie Suddath, Maple Cowan and Meleese Rugh.

FRANCISCA P. TRISTAN

It was about 1:30 a.m. on the day Francisca P. Tristan died, that she asked one of her sons to please turn her in bed. "I'm sorry to be such a bother to you," she said, as she tried to straighten her son's shirt collar.

This anecdote typifies the kind of person Mrs. Tristan was, a very self-sufficient person who was always reluctant to ask anything for herself. She was always ready to help those in need, especially her children. This was a legacy she instilled in them.

Born in San Luis, Potosi, Mexico, she came to the United States at the tender age of four. Her childhood was spent in New Braunfels where she attended St. Peter and St. Paul School. She married the late Guadalupe Tristan in New Braunfels on July 4, 1932.

Mrs. Tristan and her family moved to San Antonio in 1938, where she spent the rest of her life raising her seven daughters and two sons. A good education was a must in the home, and she always made sure her children's clothes were not only clean, but neatly ironed. To her, cleanliness was next to Godliness as she always gave very special attention to her children's spiritual formation. They could always count on a warm, well-prepared meal at the proper time. Most important, Mrs. Tristan was never too busy to listen to any of her children's problems or give them a piece of her wise advice. Nothing would give her more joy than to have all her children and grandchildren come and enjoy her cooking on weekends.

Mrs. Tristan is survived by her sisters, Dominga Gonzales of New Braunfels, and Mrs. Tomasita Compean of Mexico. Her children include Mary Serna of San Antonio, Leonor Hernandez of New Hudson, Michigan; Amelia Martinez of Austin; Vickie Carrillo of South Bend, Indiana; Frances Rodriguez of Bandera; Mary Espinoza and Isabel Mancinas, and her sons Alfred Tristan and Lupe Tristan Jr., all of San Antonio. She is also survived by 34 grandchildren and 39 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Tristan passed to eternal life on October 11, 1992 at the Baptist Memorial Hospital. After a Mass at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Mrs. Francisca Tristan was laid to rest at San Fernando Cemetery #2 in San Antonio, Texas.

What's the secret of success? Since success can mean different things to different people, success itself should first be defined. Just what is success? An accumulation of money? In some cases, yes. In others, no. For example, what satisfaction is there in eventually being known as the richest man in the graveyard?

Some people say success is power...power to persuade or control the thoughts and actions of other people. But power isn't permanent either. Hitler, for example, dreamed success, sought success, thought he had it.

What is it then? As we see it, we think success means only ONE thing: acquisition of a good reputation and this includes a reputation for doing the best you can with whatever ability, talent or skill you have.

Lakehills American Legion hosts open house Nov. 14

The Lakehills American Legion Post 410 will host its annual Veterans Day open house Saturday, Nov. 14, beginning at 6 p.m.

The Legionnaires will offer free homemade chili, tamales and beer while it lasts as a way to thank folks for supporting their activities through the year.

A drawing for a three-day, two-night trip to the Golden Nugget in Las Vegas, including air fare and ground transportation will be held.

Proceeds from the drawing will be used to help fund the new pavilion construction begun last month.

Other prizes include an oil painting by Iris Mauer with custom framing by Lakehills Art Gallery, a $70 dinner for four at the Mayan Dude Ranch in Bandera, a three-foot white stuffed teddy bear donated by post commander Tony Kruse, a $50 savings bond from First State Bank of Lakehills, a handcrafted man's long sleeve shirt complete with the drawing of an eagle by Gloria Kelley, a $25 gift certificate from Lakehills Ice House and a $20 gift certificate from Boyle's Market in Bandera.

Kruse says the chances on the drawing are pretty good, as only 1,500 tickets are available. The Legion expects to raise $4,000 with the drawing.

The Las Vegas trip last year was won by Pat Tarr of Bandera.

Proceeds from the drawing will be used to help pay for the open air, 2,400-square feet pavilion that the Legion broke ground for last month.

Other work around the Legion in connection with the pavilion includes putting permanment game booths in the beer garden and those booths will have ceiling fans. Picnic tables in the beer garden will be moved to the pavilion.

Some of the improvements has been completing overhangs on the outside part of the Legion building in the beer garden.

The Legion expects the pavilion to be ready in time for the July 4th celebration, but Kruse says he'd like to see it completed for the chili cook-off that's held in March.

But the work has just begun. Once the base is laid, the lines for the water and electricity must be laid, reinforcement steel added, and cement poured. Then comes the rest of the construction. Kruse says the Legion has crews lined up to pour the cement.

Sea World Veterans' Day Discounts

Sea World of Texas in San Antonio will offer discounted park admisions to veterans and American Legion members on Saturday, Nov. 7, in recognition of Veteran's Day, which falls on Nov. 11.

Emergency Medical Service Support Team president Ernest Reich, of Lakehills, presented plaques to Nancy MacMillian and Marie Pickett to show the appreciation "of all board members and EMTs" for being instrumental in the founding and growth of the Lakehills chapter. Pickett began using a station wagon borrowed from the Lakehills Volunteer Fire Department in 1978 to transport patients needing emergency medical treatment. MacMillan served two terms as director of the EMS and never missed a meeting. EMTs will be on the corner of Park Road 37 and FM 1283 this weekend, Saturday, Nov. 7 through Sunday, Nov. 8, from 10 a.m. until dark collecting funds for the Lakehills branch. All funds collected will be used in Lakehills for the support, maintenance and growth of the Lakehills EMS. Work has started on an addition to the present building. The addition will be used to house ambulances and provide state-mandated training for EMTs.

"Jason" and a wicked witch were among the hobgoblins that showed up at the Bandera Cub Scout Pack 146 Halloween Carnival in Pipe Creek. Costume contest first place winners were Donna Lovejoy, Casey Hauer, Jessica Smith and Michael Konvicka.

Al and Berneice Smalley have just returned from a trip to Boone, Iowa where they located an apartment for Al's mother, Ethel Smalley, who they helped move from her home in Lake Medina Shores. Ethel is 90 years old and has many relatives in the area. On their return trip, Al and Berneice took time to visit Wisconsin, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas. They spent a week in Wagner, Okla. with the Church of God International celebration, "The Feast of the Tabernacles." They report that they had a great time, enjoying a hayride, a big bonfire and a sing-along. They are back home now, tired but happy, and ready to get back to work. Ethel's new address is: Ethel Smalley, 515 Mamie Eisenhower, Boone, Iowa 50036, and for those friends who might want to call her, the number is 515-432-7929.

Bonnie Heuer of Lake Medina Shores enjoyed the short visit over the weekend of her aunt and uncle, Grace and Beans Affield. They stop in at Bonnie's, using it as a pit stop on their way to their winter home in Edinburg from Minnesota. They all attended the Walker Memorial Chapel on Sunday morning and enjoyed the service while meeting many of Bonnie's friends.

Marietta Overholser's daughter Debbie and son-in-law Bill Cody from San Marcos visited Marietta for the weekend. Marietta and Debbie attended Walker Memorial Chapel on Sunday; Bill wanted to go, but they forgot to bring clothes for Bill.

'Deer detective' coming to Bandera Downs Nov. 6

Renowned author and foremost authority on white-tail deer, John Stein, will be in person at Bandera Downs on Hunter's Weekend, Nov. 6-8. Through years of diligent detective work, Stein has put Texas back on the map as one of North America's big buck regions. Stein has worked on his new book, "Big Rack IV" for about eight years, traveling all over the state of Texas collecting deer heads, stories and pictures and has logged over 200,000 miles on his Suburban while searching for all new leads.

John is also an "official scorer" for the illustrious "Boone and Crockett Club" and has been responsible for discovering and uncovering many new deer antlers entered in their famous "Record Book."

Arabian Tyx wins big again, Breeders Cup is simulcast

Tyx won his third race at Bandera Downs.

The 6-year-old Arabian horse has taken to the track in Texas six times this year and came away with his third win in the featured race at Bandera Downs Sunday, a $2,600 6-furlong Arabian allowance.

Jockey Sam Thompson rode Tyx for trainer James "Bob" Owens and owner Arthur Naquin of Canton.

The big racing news Saturday was the Breeders' Cup races simulcast from Gulfstream Park in Florida to many tracks across the country including Bandera Downs.

The 1,946 race fans at Bandera bet $286,583 in the seven Breeders' Cup races, six simulcast races from Trinity Meadows and five live races at Bandera. (They bet $125,707 in the Breeders' Cup races, $56,179 in the Trinity races, and $104,697 in the live Bandera races.)

Last year's crowd of 1,957 persons bet $160,670 in the seven Breeders' Cup races.

Track publicity director Don Rhine resigns

One of the last track officials that started with Bandera Downs has resigned.

Track handicapper and director of publicity Don Rhine left Bandera Downs Sunday.

Rhine came to Bandera in 1990 from Prairie Meadows where he was employed as a quarter horse coordinator/placing judge and alternate associate steward.

Rhine was for a time the track's cooridinator of simulcasting.

Special time for simulcasting set

Bandera Downs continues to host mid-week simulcasting Wednesday and Thursday, but post time this week will be just a little different.

Post time Wednesday will be 2 p.m., as usual, for nine simulcast races from Trinity Meadows.

Post time Thursday will be 1 p.m. as Trinity will host 11 400-yard trials for 2-year-old quarter horses for the Speedhorse Sprint Futurity.

Admission is free to the Lower Jockey Club and $4 for the Upper Jockey Club.

Selected purses dropped at track

The purses on most maiden claiming and claiming races for the lowest price tags have been dropped by $100 to $300 at Bandera Downs. The previous bottom level for purses was $1,400 — given to maidens and maiden claiming horses.

But this past weekend, some of those purses were $1,100, $1,200 and $1,300.

Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers said the purses were readjusted on those races because the betting public did not wager as much on those races.

Bandera Downs Derby featured this weekend

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

The Grade II Bandera Downs Derby is the highlight of Bandera Downs racing this weekend.

And promotions in connection with the hunting season, including a visit by a famous hunter/author are on tap.

Three-year-old quarter horses will compete in the 440-yard Grade II Bandera Downs Derby Sunday. The race will carry a purse of $44,115.

Two time trials for the 3-year-old contenders were held Oct. 30 and horses trained by Toby Keeton and ridden by jockey Nicky Wilson won both trials.

In trial no. 2, they won with Six A Frisco, who turned in the fastest time at 20.05 seconds in the 440-yard race. Six A Frisco won the contest wire to wire.

In the first trial, they won with Life In A Small Town. The 3-year-old colt turned in a time of 22.41, which was the fifth fastest time.

Other qualifiers were Marcy Darling, trainer Bobby Martines, with a time of 22.10 seconds; Hooked On Request, Dave Correll, 22.18; Tricky Manuevers, Jonn Tally, 22.39; Ruidosa Brown, Simon Escamilla, 22.41; Mr Easy Sir, Johnny Bustamante, 22.49; Special Stormy June, Ted Stokes, 22.49; Stepping Smash, Andres Castaneda, 22.49; and Blooming Bell, Bobby Willis, 22.50.

In racing action Saturday, 2-year-old quarter horses will compete in $7,900 350-yard Freshman Futurity.

Sure Streakin, the fastest qualifier for with a time of 17.98 seconds, is the expected favorite. The horse is trained by leading trainer Toby Keeton and is expected to be ridden by leading quarter horse jockey Nicky Wilson.

In the horse's trial Oct. 23, the 7-2 sure Streakin and 8-1 Kid Creole were the early leaders leaving the rest of the pack behind in the first trial last Friday. At the wire, Sure Streakin made the win look easy by jumping ahead to a 1 1/4-length win.

Horsewoner David Sadler of Marble Falls said he raised the 2-year-old gelding from a baby. He had Sure Streakin racing at Ruidoso Downs and noiminated for the All-American Futurity there. "We had bad luck out there with him and so we gave him to Toby Keeton (to train)," said Sadler.

Kid Creole was the second fastest qualifier, at 18.11 seconds, also trained by Keeton.

Ollies De Regina won the second trial Oct. 23 in a time of 18.22 seconds for trainer John Gess and jockey Stu Dolphus.

Other qualifiers are Tee For Cash, 18.22 seconds, trainer Dave Correll; Socks And Cash, 18.23, Keeton; Glimpse Of Toro, 18.26, Keeton; Bye Bye Me Gone, 18.28, Correll; Nugget Dust Lady, 18.31, Keeton; Ihlang, 18.33, Leticia Perez; and Our Last Quarter, 18.35, Johnny Bustamante.

Racing action Friday includes two time trials for the Grade III Bandera Downs Futurity. The futurity will be run Nov. 15 and will carry an estimated purse of $70,400.

Promotionally, Bandera Downs will offer free admission to anyone with a valid Texas hunting license or a Bandera County Chamber of Commerce Hunter's Barbecue ticket.

Hunters with a valid hunting license may register all three days for prizes including a trophy hunt in Old Mexico on a ranch that has not been hunted on in 20 years.

Other prizes include two exotic hunts, a wild boar hunt and a white-tail deer shoulder mount.

Bandera shut out by Devine 28-0 Oct. 30

The Bandera Bulldogs varsity football team was shut out by the Devine Warhorses 28-0, the same team they lost 29-0 to in first-round playoff game last season.

With Friday's loss, Bandera is 5-1 in District 26-AAA play and tied for second-place with Devine. Bandera must win Friday night to go to the play-offs. No ifs, ands, or buts.

Bandera head coach Chris Storer's anaylsis of Friday's last home game was simple. "We got a good country whipping. The best team won tonight (Oct. 30)," said Storer.

Devine didn't put any points on the board until early in the second quarter.

Late in the second quarter, Bandera was able to stop Devine near the goal line via an interception and Bandera pushed the ball out, in part due to one of Devine's many penalties.

With 23 seconds left in the first half, Rickie Gard punted on fourth and five.

Then with seconds left on the board, another halfback option pass attempt — an attempt Bulldogs defenders foiled.

In the third quarter, Bandera was able to stop Devine on their first drive.

Devine punted and Bandera took over on their 38-yard line. But Devine senior defensive back Doug McCormick intercepted for a touchdown. Devine executed a "swinging gate" two-point conversion and the score was 15-0 in the Warhorses' favor.

Then, with 10 minutes left in the fourth quarter,Devine ran the ball in from the one-yard line for a 21-0 score.

Devine scored with two minutes left and a kicked extra point for a 28-0 score.

Devine had 12 penalties for 100 yards while Bandera had five for 25 yards.

A win Friday would send 'Dogs to playoffs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

All the Bandera Bulldogs have to do Friday night is win to make it to the play-offs for the second year on a row.

They'll have to overcome the Medina Valley Panthers on the Castroville gridiron, a team undefeated all season. "We just have to win," said Bandera head coach Chris Storer.

Medina Valley beat West Campus 30-0 Friday, thus staying clearly in first-place going into this week with an undefeated 6-0 record in district. Medina Valley beat Devine 21-14 Oct. 23 and with Devine's whipping of Bandera Oct. 30, both Devine and Bandera are 5-1.

With a win Friday night, Bandera will be in a three-way tie for first place with Devine and Medina Valley — all three with 6-1 records and all three tri-district 26-AAA champs. (Assuming Devine wins Friday — considered likely).

With a win by Bandera over Medina Valley, the decision for who is the first-place representative from the district goes to the "positive points" rule since all three teams will have identical win-loss records. "The championship in a three-way tie is decided by positive points," said Storer.

In a three-way tie, Devine is the likely first-place team since they beat Bandera by 28 points last week. (Actually, the most positive points Devine can have is 21. Last week, the Bulletin reported the most positive points was 14, but Storer said this week the point cap was 21, not 14, as he said last week.)

Positive points for Medina Valley is 7, based on the Oct. 23 Devine-Medina Valley game.

If Bandera wins Friday night, Bandera will have positive points of the difference between Friday's score. So unless Bandera clobbers Medina Valley in a runaway (not likely as Friday night's game is expected to be close), Devine will have the most positive points of the three teams. That makes Devine first.

Second-place (as far as who goes to the play-offs) is then determined by head-to-head competition, i.e., between Bandera and Medina Valley. "Once first place is decided, then it's no longer a three-way tie, it's a two-way tie, and that's settled by head to head competition," said Storer.

A win by Bandera sends Bandera to the play-offs and Medina Valley's season is over. A win by Medina Valley — Medina Valley goes to the play-offs as first-place (7-0 record), Devine goes to the play-offs as second-place (6-1) and Bandera starts to work on basketball with a 5-2 district record.

Storer sees Medina Valley as beatable. "Their offensive is not that good. They rely on their defense to get them the ball."

Medina Valley shut out Bandera 28-0 last year, but the team that Bandera will face is not the same as last year. "They are not as big as they were last year," said Storer. "On defense ... they have excellent speed.

"Their defense is better than their offense. Their defense tries to shut down their opponent's offense without any gain. If their opponent punts on their 20-yard line, then Medina Valley gets the ball about mid-field.

"There's a big difference between going 80 yards and 50 yards (for a touchdown)."

And one other bit of good news — Medina Valley is not as big as Devine, though they are bigger in size than Bandera's team.

Regional qualifying cross country team coach Barbara Mazurek, Brent Mansfied, Jim Bob Davis, Aaron Lacey, Charlie Robertson, Jess Edwards, Ramiro Tirado, Terry Robertson, Brad Pfeiffer and Justin Edwards. The team will run in the Region IV meet at UTSA at 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 7.

Bobcats tromp Leakey, improve district record

The Medina Bobcats improved their district 28A record to 4-2 Friday night, Oct. 30 with a 26-12 win over the Leakey Eagles.

Turnovers led to all four Medina touchdowns and offset the 145 yards the Bobcats moved backwards due to 16 penalty flags.

A fake punt allowed Leakey to score first midway through the first period. Medina did not even the count until after Bobcat Rhett Johnson pounced on an Eagle fumble at the Leakey 33 yard line with about two minutes left in the quarter. Two plays later quarterback Clifford Watts kept the ball and sprinted 30 yards for the tying score.

The 'Cats scored again after Jason Small blocked a late second quarter Eagle punt and Nathan Vannatter picked it up on the Leakey 13. Senior Clayton Watts got the call on fourth down and scored from the four yard marker to give the 'Cats a 12-6 halftime lead.

Medina got their third break of the night late in the third stanza when Jody Carpenter intercepted his second Leakey pass on the Eagle 46. A halfback pass from Clayton Watts to Vannatter put the Bobcats on the Eagle one foot line. Watts then took the handoff in for Medina's third score of the evening.

The Bobcat defense continued to push Leakey around and forced a fourth quarter fumble which Rob McFarland grabbed on the Bird's 16. Medina moved to the Leakey four and then Clifford Watts tossed a touchdown strike to Eli Hickman for the final Bobcat TD. Joel Alvarado upped the numbers with a two point conversion and Medina lead 26-6 with five minutes left to play.

The Eagles managed to up their side of the score board with a 27 yard pass as the final gun sounded but it was too little too late and Medina left town with their fourth district win 26-12.

The Bobcats finish their season in Medina Friday night against Center Point. at 7:30 p.m.

Bulldog defensive back J.B. Neuenschwander makes a sideline tackle on a Devine runner. The 'Dogs picked up their first district loss of the season Friday night, setting up a "must win" situation this week in order to advance to the playoffs. Staff photo by Dan Sandidge

Bandera shut out by Devine 28-0 Oct. 30

The Bandera Bulldogs varsity football team was shut out by the Devine Warhorses 28-0, the same team they lost 29-0 to in first-round playoff game last season.

With Friday's loss, Bandera is 5-1 in District 26-AAA play and tied for second-place with Devine. Bandera must win Friday night to go to the play-offs. No ifs, ands, or buts.

Bandera head coach Chris Storer's anaylsis of Friday's last home game was simple. "We got a good country whipping. The best team won tonight (Oct. 30)," said Storer.

Devine didn't put any points on the board until early in the second quarter.

Late in the second quarter, Bandera was able to stop Devine near the goal line via an interception and Bandera pushed the ball out, in part due to one of Devine's many penalties.

With 23 seconds left in the first half, Rickie Gard punted on fourth and five.

Then with seconds left on the board, another halfback option pass attempt — an attempt Bulldogs defenders failed.

In the third quarter, Bandera was able to stop Devine on their first drive.

Devine punted and Bandera took over on their 38-yard line. But Devine senior defensive back Doug McCormick intercepted for a touchdown. Devine executed a "swinging gate" two-point conversion and the score was 15-0 in the Warhorses' favor.

Then, with 10 minutes left in the fourth quarter,Devine ran the ball in from the one-yard line for a 21-0 score.

Devine scored with two minutes left and a kicked extra point for a 28-0 score.

Devine had 12 penalties for 100 yards while Bandera had five for 25 yards.

A win Friday would send 'Dogs to playoffs

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

All the Bandera Bulldogs have to do Friday night is win to make it to the play-offs for the second year on a row.

They'll have to overcome the Medina Valley Panthers on the Castroville gridiron, a team undefeated all season. "We just have to win," said Bandera head coach Chris Storer.

Medina Valley beat West Campus 30-0 Friday, thus staying clearly in first-place going into this week with an undefeated 6-0 record in district. Medina Valley beat Devine 21-14 Oct. 23 and with Devine's whipping of Bandera Oct. 30, both Devine and Bandera are 5-1.

With a win Friday night, Bandera will be in a three-way tie for first place with Devine and Medina Valley — all three with 6-1 records and all three tri-district 26-AAA champs. (Assuming Devine wins Friday — considered likely).

With a win by Bandera over Medina Valley, the decision for who is the first-place representative from the district goes to the "positive points" rule since all three teams will have identical win-loss records. "The championship in a three-way tie is decided by positive points," said Storer.

In a three-way tie, Devine is the likely first-place team since they beat Bandera by 28 points last week. (Actually, the most positive points Devine can have is 21. Last week, the Bulletin reported the most positive points was 14, but Storer said this week the point cap was 21, not 14, as he said last week.)

Positive points for Medina Valley is 7, based on the Oct. 23 Devine-Medina Valley game.

If Bandera wins Friday night, Bandera will have positive points of the difference between Friday's score. So unless Bandera clobbers Medina Valley in a runaway (not likely as Friday night's game is expected to be close), Devine will have the most positive points of the three teams. That makes Devine first.

Second-place (as far as who goes to the play-offs) is then determined by head-to-head competition, i.e., between Bandera and Medina Valley. "Once first place is decided, then it's no longer a three-way tie, it's a two-way tie, and that's settled by head to head competition," said Storer.

A win by Bandera sends Bandera to the play-offs and Medina Valley's season is over. A win by Medina Valley — Medina Valley goes to the play-offs as first-place (7-0 record), Devine goes to the play-offs as second-place (6-1) and Bandera starts to work on basketball with a 5-2 district record.

Storer sees Medina Valley as beatable. "Their offensive is not that good. They rely on their defense to get them the ball."

Medina Valley shut out Bandera 28-0 last year, but the team that Bandera will face is not the same as last year. "They are not as big as they were last year," said Storer. "On defense ... they have excellent speed.

"Their defense is better than their offense. Their defense tries to shut down their opponent's offense without any gain. If their opponent punts on their 20-yard line, then Medina Valley gets the ball about mid-field.

"There's a big difference between going 80 yards and 50 yards (for a touchdown)."

And one other bit of good news — Medina Valley is not as big as Devine, though they are bigger in size than Bandera's team.

Regional qualifying cross country team coach Barbara Mazurek, Brent Mansfied, Jim Bob Davis, Aaron Lacey, Charlie Robertson, Jess Edwards, Ramiro Tirado, Terry Robertson, Brad Pfeiffer and Justin Edwards. The team will run in the Region IV meet at UTSA at 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 7.

Bobcats tromp Leakey, improve district record

The Medina Bobcats improved their district 28A record to 4-2 Friday night, Oct. 30 with a 26-12 win over the Leakey Eagles.

Turnovers led to all four Medina touchdowns and offset the 145 yards the Bobcats moved backwards due to 16 penalty flags.

A fake punt allowed Leakey to score first midway through the first period. Medina did not even the count until after Bobcat Rhett Johnson pounced on an Eagle fumble at the Leakey 33 yard line with about two minutes left in the quarter. Two plays later quarterback Clifford Watts kept the ball and sprinted 30 yards for the tying score.

The 'Cats scored again after Jason Small blocked a late second quarter Eagle punt and Nathan Vannatter picked it up on the Leakey 13. Senior Clayton Watts got the call on fourth down and scored from the four yard marker to give the 'Cats a 12-6 halftime lead.

Medina got their third break of the night late in the third stanza when Jody Carpenter intercepted his second Leakey pass on the Eagle 46. A halfback pass from Clayton Watts to Vannatter put the Bobcats on the Eagle one foot line. Watts then took the handoff in for Medina's third score of the evening.

The Bobcat defense continued to push Leakey around and forced a fourth quarter fumble which Rob McFarland grabbed on the Bird's 16. Medina moved to the Leakey four and then Clifford Watts tossed a touchdown strike to Eli Hickman for the final Bobcat TD. Joel Alvarado upped the numbers with a two point conversion and Medina lead 26-6 with five minutes left to play.

The Eagles managed to up their side of the score board with a 27 yard pass as the final gun sounded but it was too little too late and Medina left town with their fourth district win 25-12.

The Bobcats finish their season in Medina Friday night against Center Point at 7:30 p.m.

Drug use and youth violence

Community leaders say they're here, and they are a 'major problem.'

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Community leaders issued a warning after a Bandera High School student overdosed on drugs last week and was sent to Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital in Kerrville: Drug use and the potential for youth violence are increasing in Bandera County.

Justice of the Peace, Louise Karr, addressed the County Commissioner's Court on Monday, Nov. 9. Her message to them was: "This is EVERYONE'S problem. Those who don't have children in school here often have extended families; grandchildren or friends with children or grandchildren in school. We have to do something. There's children carrying guns and knives and using drugs. If we don't do somehting, we'll end up like San Antonio. It's like a screen setting- all the actors are here and in place for a drive-by shooting."

For a look at changing problems faced by schools and the communtity in dealing with juveniles, an article written by Dr. Lee Salk before his death in May, 1992, makes a comparison. "The top seven school problems in the 1940's were: talking in class, chewing gum, making noise, running in halls, cutting in line, dress code violations and littering. The top seven school problems in the 1990's are: drug abuse, alcohol abuse, pregnancy, suicide, rape, robbery and assault."

Sheriff elect James MacMillian said, "I agree that we need to take a look at where Bandera is and where it's headed. We have some former gang members in school. I do think it's a concern. It's there and we can't ignore it. It won't go away."

Lakehills Constable Ernest Reich said he is concerned about San Antonio gangs frequenting the Bandera County Park at Medina Lake. He is also concerned about alcohol use and abuse.

"The biggest problem I see is alcohol. We need to educate

Bulldogs end season third in district play

Though the Bulldogs put forth a valiant effort, Bandera's football season came to a close Friday night in Castroville when they fell 18-0 to the Medina Valley Panthers.

Bandera held their opponent to just 118 yards rushing and 95 yards passing, but Panther powerhouse Michael Brawley had 15 carries totaling 43 yards.

"We played well, but they are a better team than we are," said Bulldog coach Chris Storer. "They had a good defense.

"Most of them have played together on varsity since they were sophomores."

The Bulldogs had seven first downs and no penetrations; total rushing was 43 yards and completed passes was 90 yards.

Medina Valley had 12 first downs and three penetrations; total rushing was 118 yards and completed passes was 95 yards.

Bandera ended the season with a 6-2 district record and a 7-4 overall record.

Medina Valley clinched the 26-3A district championship, and they will face District 25-3A runner-up Marble Falls Saturday in Medina Valley.

District 26-3A runner-up Devine plays District 25-3A champion Burnet Friday at Smithson Valley.

Medina cross country girls take top rank in region

They will compete Saturday, Nov. 14 at state meet

Medina's girls cross country team found the path to the state championships by winning the 10-A first place at the regional meet Saturday, Nov. 6 at the UTSA campus in San Antonio.

Freshman runner Misti Wells paced her team mates, finishing eighth. Laki Johnson followed in 15th, Alicia Mims was 19th, Becky Taylor came in 24th, Dusty Reed finished 26th, Sherri Scafidi was 33rd and Kelly Lookingbill placed 40th.

The placings gave Medina 69 points and first place, ahead of Rock Springs who had 89. Both teams will meet again on Saturday, Nov.14 at the state meet in Georgetown. Starting time is scheduled for 10 a.m.

The Medina boys team finished the regional meet in eighth place.

On Oct. 31 the Medina Junior High boys cross country team won their district meet with Bo Evans placing fourth, Bobby Schmidtzinski fifth, Nathan Shropshire eighth, Josh Tucker 10th, Josh Peche 12th and Curt Jones 14th.

James MacMillan

MacMillan ready to 'get to work'

Sheriff-elect James MacMillian is putting "ideas down on paper" for reorganizing the Sheriff's Department and making it more efficient. He does not expect difficulty in the transition process.

MacMillan was elected as Sheriff of Bandera County in the November 3rd election. He replaces Steve Forest who has served Bandera for the past four years.

MacMillian has set some goals for the Sheriff's Department. He would like to get free more deputies from administrative duties and put them out on patrol. He expects to work closely with Bandera schools in anti-drug, gang programs. And he would like to

letters to the editor

'Your viewpoint counts'

Dear editor:

The Bandera I.S.D. school board will be hiring a new superintendent of schools to replace Mr. Ted Dockery, who is retiring at the end of this school year. A consultant from the Texas Association of School Boards, Mr. Don Killough, has been hired to gather information from the community in order to assist the board in its selection. It is important that we hire the right person to serve our schools; therefore, an invitation is being issued to community and school organizations, faculty and staff of the schools, and community members to let us know what characteristics they want in the new superintendent.

Our schools serve Bandera, Tarpley, Pipe Creek and Lake Hills. Hopefully, community group representatives from all four locales will come to the high school to share their views at the appointed times during the day on November 17, as mentioned in the ad in this paper. Individuals are invited to share their views during the town meeting at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The new superintendent will be responsible for managing a school budget of over $6,000,000, providing quality education for over 1,600 students, and seeing that they are safely transported whenever they ride a school bus. The job will require supervising 200 employees, half of whom are teachers, and working to see that our school district has the classrooms to educate our children. In addition, the superintendent must communicate effectively with the public and be responsible to the school board.

The superintendent has a big job, and we owe it to ourselves to choose the right person. Citizens who live in the school district, our point of view counts. Come give it.

Demonstrate your caring

Dear editor:

The BISD school board chose the Texas Association of School Boards to advise them on prospective applicants for the job of school superintendent. This is a very important matter since the superintendent is the person charged with the day-to-day administration of our school system. Additionally, this person works—at the Board's direction—for implementation of long-term objectives such as curriculum and funding. The Board is to be commended for their decision to involve the community in the selection process from the start. This is the perfect opportunity for all concerned citizens to express their views about the sort of person we want for this position. The consultant will be taking comments on Nov. 17th. Please demonstrate how much this appointment means to all of us—especially our children—by availing yourselves of this "comment period."

She wants to clarify point

Dear editor:

I would like to clarify a point made by Capricho Morales on the subject of maternity homes. As a previous administrator of the Elsie Talley Hill Country Maternity Home in Kerrville, I would like to tell you about the business of the "Talley House" maternity home. The Talley House is solely supported by the generous contributions of donors in our local communities. We are a non-profit organization and only have three people on staff. Our boardmembers work for a small wage plus room and board and they do much of what they do as a ministry to women in need. They work long hours (24 hours per day, seven days per week) with only an occasional weekend off. You may find them in the middle of the night driving to Fredericksburg in order to get one of these young women to the hospital or perhaps spending innumerable hours in counseling one of these women through a particularly [illegible] time or any number of other things that may arise unexpectedly.

Each year local churches participate in a drive to provide the basic food, laundry, cleaning and hygiene products for the home and the clients in the home. We must conduct three or four fundraising projects each year in order to raise the amounts of money needed to support these young women and their babies. Most of the work in the fundraising events is done through the generosity of volunteers who work for no reward other than a heart for the women in the home. I could go on about the many people who give to this ministry unselfishly of their resources but space will not permit.

I also worked for a smaller salary than average because I saw the pain of women suffering at the hands of the abortionists and I truly believe that Christians should provide a loving alternative to abortion. I also believe a woman has a right to know the whole truth about abortion before she makes a decision to abort her child. Planned Parenthood earns a substantial amount of money for the abortion industry. Crisis Pregnancy Centers and the Talley House Maternity Home do not. Everything we do is free of charge to the client. We furnish maternity clothes, baby clothes and equipment, transportation, counseling, room and board and all at no cost whatsoever to the client. We also do not receive any state or federal funds.

The main question is, who has something to gain by abortion? When you can honestly [illegible] then you will have the answer to why it is such a controversial issue. Abortion is a multi-billion dollar business. I cannot speak for all maternity homes but as for the Talley House, there are certainly no large profits, only the concern of people who care for women in crisis.

She liked the local news

Dear editor:

What a pleasure it was to look at this week's Bulletin (Nov. 4), and see all the front page filled with the upcoming hunters weekend events in Bandera, and with all the local news. It's the first time in years the Bandera paper has carried all the Bandera news on Page 1.

It was a great service for the community, and for the merchants and people here. We thank you.

She says 'Today' is bad news

Dear editor:

I am so very, very angry. Sometime ago, I stopped watching the Today Show on NBC because of the perversion of its host. Such as the shoe fetish the hostess has with men's shoes and the host's ridiculous attitude. This morning when I turned my set on it had been on this channel and again I realized why I don't watch that stupidity. However this time I don't think that switching channels is going to be enough. I would like to urge everyone to watch the program one time and see who is advertising and not buy any of these products. These corporations pay for and allow this kind of programming and it should be stopped, and idiots like these irresponsible hosts should not be allowed to be on the air. My very strong feelings were brought about this morning by the host's comments about the suicide programming on cable. He said they had a right to be on and that they really weren't that bad. He also suggested where a teenager could go and purchase other ways of committing suicide. What kind of responsible programming is this. I would like to ask these advertisers who has more rights. The hosts or the mothers and fathers and sisters and brothers and friends of these suicide teenage victims? If you think this really isn't that bad, give your office a test. Ask everyone if they know someone who has committed suicide or someone whose family member has committed suicide. How many of your kids have lost friends to suicide. I'm urging people..."Please don't buy what is advertised on this program - money talks."

Did they sell in error?

Dear editor:

Reference is made to an article listed under "Public Notices" in your paper published Wednesday, Nov. 4, 1992. Said article stated in part that a 1990 Schultz 16' x 80' manufactured home #N213982 was to be auctioned on Nov. 18 (no year, date, or time quoted) at 207 Main St., Bandera, Bandera Co., Texas due to default by debtor under terms of security agreement.

On Nov. 5, 1992 at approximately 9:35 a.m., I went into given location to obtain information on said article to be auctioned and was informed by one of the employees that stated article had been sold.

My past experience with banking institutions requires at least three written bids or by public auction with date, time and place of bid opening or public auction is to take place and should be so stated in the public notice and no sale or action should be taken prior to date and time of sale.

It is my thinking that the institution was in error to sell said article prior to date of auction given and that the sale of same should be null and void and should be re-advertised for sealed bid or auction.

Don't contribute to rip-offs

Dear editor:

Twice in the past two weeks I have received solicitations from cancer organizations saying that the solicitation was for the Pipe Creek area. One came from Seattle, Washington, and the other from Washington, D.C. The first one, in a note made to look personal, asked me to canvas five homes requesting donations. BOTH OF THESE ARE RIP-OFFS. Reading the "fine print" tells me that the money is very unlikely to go anywhere except into the pockets of a fund raising organization and/or back into the process of soliciting still more funds. Please, area residents, just in case you haven't seen through these groups already, DON'T CONTRIBUTE to them; give your money instead to the American Cancer Society (if you want to sponsor cancer research).

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate will be more conservative when four new Republicans sit in the chamber in January, but this week a share of the reins is still in the hands of a handful of retirees and defeated members.

Texas legislators trooped back to the Capitol this week for a special session on school finance, namely to remedy their plan which the Texas Supreme Court struck down for illegally levying property taxes.

Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock are pushing a proposed constitutional amendment, which will send more money from the wealthier districts into the Teacher Retirement System.

State money to the retirement system would be reduced by the same amount, and those funds would be used to guarantee a basic grant of about $2,850 per student at a tax rate of $1 per $1,000 of property value.

For example, if a local district set a tax rate of $1 and that brought in $1,500 a student, the state would guarantee and kicking $1,350.

Republican leaders call the plan "a money laundering scheme." Other observers say the hidden agenda for the special session is to:

- Allow House Democrats time to build a consensus for a new speaker in the next regular session in January; and
- Allow current senators the opportunity to approve Gov. Ann Richard's pending appointments before new members join the club in January.

He said he planned to remain land commissioner and to act as an energy advisor to President-elect Clinton, a long-time friend from their McGovern campaign days.

Bad Debts, Campaign Phones

The news was especially bitter for Mauro's political team: he was Clinton's campaign manager in Texas and speculation placed him in position to be secretary of energy, interior or even agriculture.

Sources in Washington said last week it was more likely that Clinton would not appoint Mauro to any job requiring Senate confirmation.

Exposing Mauro to hostile senators was risky, not only because of his debt problems and a past probe of his agency by the FBI, but because it would reopen complaints that Mauro and his staff used state phones and equipment to campaign for Clinton.

School Reform Plan

Lawmakers in Austin are studying a proposal to replace the "Robin Hood" plan with the "Fair Share Plan," that would redistribute $400 million in local property taxes.

Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock are pushing a proposed constitutional amendment, which will send more money from the wealthier districts into the Teacher Retirement System.

Top names are U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, and former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros.

In one of those whirlwind reversals which sometimes occur overnight in politics, Mauro's future in Washington may have been damaged by late-breaking news of his impending bankruptcy.

In a copyright story, the Houston Chronicle reported Mauro is on the brink of personal bankruptcy and potentially liable to the federal government for more than $4 million in bad loans.

Mauro confirmed much of the story, saying he had been stuck with the debt by three business partners who had already declared bankruptcy.

He said he planned to remain land commissioner and to act as an energy advisor to President-elect Clinton, a long-time friend from their McGovern campaign days.

New Legislature Tally

Republicans gained four seats in the Texas Senate, giving them 13 — more than the one-third bloc needed to scuttle bills under current Senate rules.

Not surprisingly, Democrats plan to change those rules to void the new GOP advantage.

Republicans claimed a 58th seat in the 150-member Texas House, saying that a late count of 41,000 write-in votes made Robert E. Talton the winner of the 144th district in Harris County.

But Democrats said their nominee, Donald Fogo, was still the winner and began talking about a recount and legal action.

Consolidation of Funds

State Comptroller John Sharp announced that 278 special government bank accounts — including the Barber Examiners Fund and the Confiscated Liquor Fund — are being consolidated for a one-time savings of $540 million.

The plan, authorized by the 1991 Legislature as a budget-tightening measure, will help unravel a costly hodge-podge of special accounts, Sharp said.

Other Highlights

- A baseball autographed by the 1934 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals, a 65-carat opal broach, coins, jewelry, stamps, guns and art will be sold at this year's unclaimed property auction, State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison announced. The auction will be held Saturday, Nov. 14, 11 a.m., at the George R. Brown Convention Center in Houston.
- Defeated former Texas Railroad Commissioner Lena Guerrero said she will return to college to finish her degree. Guerrero, defeated after public outrage over her false degree claims, said she would write about the experience in an academic thesis.
- Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, says she will make a fourth attempt to pass a bill to automatically suspend the drivers license of anyone who is arrested for drunken driving and fails or refuses to take a blood-alcohol test.

Guess who I ran into in town the other day-Jimmy Ray Beaudare! You remember him- his brother Billy Bob used to pal around with Tom Denyer back in the boys' "salad days."

Jimmy Ray's been living up in Chicago, but he came back down when he heard that "Lotto" was about to start up here.

"I just had to come back and see it for myself," he said. "Y'all are fixin' to make history. We got the Lotto in Chicago, and it's just great!"

But, I argued with him, isn't Lotto gambling? And isn't that considered a sin by lots of folks?

"Well, technically, it is gamblin', but with those little ping pong balls floatin' around there with the numbers on them, it's more like a game. And you're more in control of it, 'cause you pick the numbers yourself."

Well, then, I told him, I suppose a person has to have some sort of system for picking their numbers. So we went down to the "convenient" store, where we found a nifty little brochure called "How to Play Lotto Texas." He assured me that just picking up the playalips and the instruction brochure was not gambling, and that you didn't technically cross over the line until you picked the numbers and gave them your dollar.

The instructions make it sound easy, and not at all sinful.

"Winning millions in LOTTO Texas is simple. All you have to do is pick six numbers. Any numbers from 1 to 50. If those numbers are drawn in any order- you win."

Now. What number do you choose? Where does one begin?

"Well-l-l-l—" Jimmy Ray drawled out slowly, perusing the playslip carefully, "—I find that a person has lots of significant numbers to choose from. Start with birthdates and number of girlfriends named Wanda Jean, and go from there."

So then, I turned over the playslip, and things began to get real complicated. Lots of fine print. But, I eventually figured out that EACH PLAY COSTS $1. The potential sort of blew my mind, and my hands started shaking. Jimmy Ray turned and looked at me, shook his head and laughed.

"Don't fret so much! You don't have to spend a bunch of money, and, after all, you don't have kids or anything— it's not like you're taking food out of their mouths or anything," he hissed into my ear, souding a little like a forbidden apple salesman.

So, I thought to myself, what's the catch? It all sounds too easy. So I decided to try it. Yes, I will be brave and pick those numbers, and win that $2 million dollars! So by the time you hear from me next week, I'll be busy spending all those big bucks, cause I just know I'll win!!

School finance plan 'exercise in futility'

County now and in the future both agree that there is little support in the Legislature, or in the state at large, for the school finance plan that state leaders have put before a special session which began here Tuesday.

"It's an exercise in futility," said Rep. Bob Turner, the Voss Democrat who will represent Bandera County officially beginning in January. "I don't see any consensus for the governor's plan."

The so-called "Fair Share Plan" offered this week by Gov. Ann Richards and legislative leaders calls for property taxes to rise from 16.2 percent in the Bandera school district and 27.2 in the Medina school district between now and 1995.

Turner agrees with lame duck Rep. Tom Cate of Lytle, who technically represents Bandera County; the governor's plan as it now stands is doomed.

Cate has represented Bandera County but the redistricting act moved the county into one in which Turner was re-elected this month. While Turner does not actually represent Bandera County until the general session that convenes in January, he says he feels an allegiance to the county now.

Bandera County was the only country in his far-flung district that extends all the way to rural Odessa, however, that did not give a majority of its votes to Turner on Nov. 3. He won election over Republican John Petach Brelsford with 61.2 percent of the vote.

Cate, whose district lost Medina as well as Bandera County as a result of redistricting, lost his bid for re-election in District 45 and will leave the Legislature this year.

The governor addressed a joint session of the Legislature Tuesday afternoon, plugging her plan and a constitutional amendment that will be necessary to implement it.

"Public schools are expensive," the governor told the legislators. "But closing them is even more expensive, and we meet today under the very real threat of closing our public schools."

Legislators have been ordered by the Texas Supreme Court to eliminate inequities in the $15 billion school finance system by June, 1993, and the governor said local school districts will have to pay their fair share of the tab.

She told hundreds of school superintendents Monday that districts had better not count on a state tax increase to help education.

Noting that the state doubled the amount it pays for public education in the past five years while enrollment increased by only 18 percent, the governor said, "We have to face reality and so do local districts."

Both Turner and Cate were skeptical of the governor's plan because of its effect on local school taxes in future years.

"I have a lot of problems with the (governor's) plan, and the school superintendents do too," said Turner Tuesday, minutes before Richard's joint session address.

"We need something that includes state dollars and local tax dollars in equity," he said, noting that many school districts, like Medina's, face school tax hikes of up to 30 percent. "We are talking about a state that has a declining property value and an increasing need because of population growth," he said.

"Somewhere we are going to have to change the method of financing schools by use of property tax," Turner said. "It simply is not equitable."

Turner, 58, is a sheep rancher in Voss, near Brownwood. His district stretches all the way from Bandera County to part of Ector County (Odessa).

The heart of the governor's Fair Share Plan, which also has the support of Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis, is a constitutional amendment that would set an equity standard for Texas school districts.

Equity would be achieved by limiting the amount of money property-rich districts can raise and shifting about $400 million in local tax revenues from ultra-wealthy districts to poor districts.

It would abolish county education districts and create a "Good Schools Fund" from $1 billion in the Available School Fund and distribute those funds on an equalized basis to local school districts.

It also limits administrative costs and provides incentives for quality education.

Bandera High School graduating class of 1973 will have their 20th reunion on the last Saturday in July, 1993, it was announced recently.

The July 31 event will be held at The Farm Country Club in Bandera, and reunion organizers are preparing a mailing list, and they ask that anyone who graduated in that class send a postcard with their name, address and phone number to Janna Sandidge at the Bandera Bulletin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Dig in your heels, concentrate on work, and make money this week. You will have plenty of excuses to spend it, enjoy it, and feel indulged by it. Besides, this weekend you'll want to either entertain massively or order in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let the sunshine in this week. You beam (actually you radiate) everywhere you go. There are absolutely no problems, unless you decide to make one. Your good humor helps you get your point across and make others understand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You find yourself on life's roller coaster once again. Be less uptight about what is happening, and just go with it. As usual, your personality carries you through the ups and downs, and you come out a winner. The one thing you can count on this weekend is overindulgence.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Expect the unexpected this week, and you won't be disappointed. There may be some moments when you feel the work week will never end. But it does, and early at that. You are a force to be dealt with all weekend long.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Accept being a leader — no one is better suited. Be careful, though. You may burn up too much energy playing out that other role — party animal. You just may need to recuperate this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You find the answers very easily, deep in your imagination. Be more perky about what is going on, and just watch those doors open for you. Yep, you are going to have whatever your little heart desires. Celebrations are in order over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) One-to-one relating is highlighted this week. You negotiate a money deal, if you want, or an emotional partnership, if that is your delight. Whatever you do, your spirits skyrocket you into the weekend. It gets better and better.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Listen to your inner vibrations right now. They tingle and stimulate. How you use this high energy and whether you charge it into a money deal or a love deal is your choice. Be ready for an offbeat solution or idea that could really work.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Plunge into work early in the week and be ready for the unusual, the happy, and the eccentric. You find many opportunities to mix business with pleasure. Your ability to succeed in this combination will amaze even you.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Go with the flow this week. If you feel a rumbling to play, then go ahead. If suddenly you come up with a brilliant idea, take it into work or wherever it belongs. Trust yourself this week and you will notice everyone else will too.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may be entrenched in some crucial domestic battles this week, but don't let them get to you. Indeed, once you let go, the fun begins. Let your creativity soar and everything benefits — work, love, even those problems at home.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Stop fussing. Just pick up the phone and get what you need cleared up. You're able to make your point. Expect a hectic yet rewarding pace this work week. If you can, plan on taking a day off, as you are likely to be distracted. Temptation calls this weekend.

Shelly Lynn Herrera, a 15-year-old sophomore at Bandera High School, was crowned Miss Junior Teen San Antonio 1992 on Sunday, Nov. 8 at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. She now advances to the Cities of America National Pageant to be held at the Disneyworld Hilton in Orlando, Fla. from Jan. 2-7.

A preliminary interview was held on Oct. 10and actual competition included a personal interview Nov. 7, and modeling of sportswear and evening gowns on Nov. 8. Contestants were judged on poise and personality. Shelly competed with 35 girls in her division from San Antonio, Austin and surrounding areas. Her prizes include a modeling scholarship from Barbizon, jewelry, and a three-foot trophy.

Local sponsors include Texas Hill Country Rockers, Lightning Ranch, J & J Customs and Cabinet Shop, Game Pro Feeders, along with friends and family.

Shelly will again seek sponsors for her trip to the nationals.

Mayan Ranch family called 'exceptional'

Don and Judy Hicks and family, owners and operators of the Mayan Ranch, were presented the Commissioner's Special Citation Award in October. The award from the Food and Drug Administration from Washington, D.C. recognized the Mayan Ranch for 20 years of providing "an exceptional training facility and learning environment" for FDA staff.

The Hicks family was awarded a memorial bronze. The original bronze is exhibited in Washington, D.C. in commemoration of the founding father of the Pure Food and Drug law, Harvey W. Wiley. The Hicks family also received a letter with the memorial bronze. It states: "To be selected for special recognition should be most satisfying since accomplishments such as yours impact the well-being of the public."

Hundreds of FDA staff have taken one to three weeks of training at the Mayan site. Training classes are held three to four times a year.

Judy Hicks said that the FDA came to the Mayan looking for a place to hold west coast meetings 20 years ago. Apparently, they found it.

the youth on what happens to them if they get caught breaking the law. Parents need to realize they are liable for their children. We can pass all the tough laws we want and if they aren't implemented, it won't do [illegible] line, someone has to be held responsible."

Juvenile Probation Officer Frank Garcia also named alcohol use as the major problem facing Bandera County. "Percentage wise, I don't think our problems with youth are any worse than any other area. When you get a number of people together, a certain percent refuse to adhere to the laws. A very small percent cause a large percent of the problem."

Garcia holds substance abuse classes in Lakehills every Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m. "The big thing I'm aware of is alcohol [illegible] other drugs or violence during a regular school day. "We always have our eyes open. We don't have the problems that lots of larger schools in San Antonio have. We bring in drug dogs once an month, unannounced. They search for drugs, alcohol and weapons in cars and in lockers. But there's just so much you can do."

Most people don't see it as a problem. It's taken for granted that kids will drink. There is a lot of peer pressure among the kids to drink.

"During prohibition, these hills were full of stills. That's how ranchers made their money. There's a degree of acceptance of alcohol you don't see in other places."

Reich said that the excuse given by alcohol users is, "I'm not hurting anyone but myself. " He pointed out the fallacy of that excuse by saying, "but then they go out and get in a vehicle and smash it up and someone gets killed."

Garcia said that alcohol has killed more people than all the wars fought by the United States, combined. "That's how many people die of alcohol every two years. If it was a war killing that many, someone would be protesting it."

Reich said the answer to Bandera's increasing youth problems and the potential of even more violent crime was to "instill good moral and Christian values in them while they're young."

Garcia said sound parenting is the key. "The best thing is a role model. If a parent says 'do as I say, not as I do', it won't work. The kid will say, 'you drink, you smoke. It's acceptable. If the parent is going to sneak out on the spouse and drink, etc., it sends a message to the kids that it's okay."

Garcia also listed love and acceptance as vital parenting skills. "Some kids go to list their positive traits and can't think of even one. But they can fill up a whole page with negative ones. They are convinced they are bad, so they live out a role. They say, 'so what if I smoke and drink and die young? I'm worthless anyway.'

"The Reverend Jesse Jackson says that our attitude in life determines our altitude."

Bandera High School Principal Richard Delamain said that there is no major problem [illegible] going to happen."

"It's a sign of the times. Where the country is going and what will happen in the end- I really don't know. Without serious prayer, I don't see how we can turn it around. We need to [illegible] to God or it's Delamain named changes he would like to see instituted; more vocational schools built, parents required to take parenting classes, education for students on their own accountability under the law.

Elementary Principal, Jack Massa, said he sees parents falling away from ther responsibilities as their children get older as a major problem. "For pre kinder programs and on up to first grade, we get huge parental support. Then, in the upper grade levels, we start to see fewer and fewer parents. Fewer attend meetings and programs."

He sees intervention in the elementary grades and a key to stopping youth violence and substance abuse problems. "We see students that are having problems. They're at the crossroads. They could go either way. I don't want to paint a bleak picture. We do have some potential to turn them around before they get there."

Janet Cave, a member of the High School Campus Improvement Committee, said that she feels communication between parents, teachers, law enforcement officers and students is the key. "We've lived in Washington State. We saw the drug and violence problem bloom. It's happening here."

Sue Armstrong wants youth problems stopped before they reach Medina. "It can creep up here quickly. That' s why I'm concerned. I try to get a lot of community awareness. We need to attend school board meetings and let them know we will support firm decisions to curtail these problems. We're here from San Antonio. We watched the problem develop there. We're on the verge of it here. Some kids have weapons. We want to make a difference. But first, the community has to admit there is a problem. Bandera is not a sleepy little town any more."

TOWN MEETINGS SET FOR BANDERA SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT SEARCH

Bandera Board of Education has hired the Texas Association of School Boards to assist in the search for a new superintendent of schools to replace Mr. Ted Dockery, who will retire at the end of this school year.

One of the first and most important parts of the search is to develop a profile of the new superintendent. This will be accomplished by a TASB consultant who will come to the district and meet with as many community patrons as possible. The consultant will be in the district on Nov. 17 to conduct nine meetings with community groups to seek suggestions as to the professional and personal characteristics the community would like in their new superintendent. The following is a schedule of these meetings:

Tuesday, Nov. 17, 1992

Group	Time	Place
Administrators	9 a.m	Superintendent's office
PTA, Booster Club	10 a.m.	High School Library
Business-Civic Leaders	11 a.m.	High School Library
High School students	12 p.m.	High School Library
Support Staff	2 p.m.	High School Library
Teachers	3:30 p.m.	Auditorium
Media	4:30 p.m.	High School Library
Board of Trustees	5 p.m.	High School Library
Town Meeting	7 p.m.	High School Library

The town meeting is intended to give any citizen who wishes the opportunity to make comments regarding the selection of a new superintendent. At each of the group meetings, participants will be asked to present the characteristics they would like in a new superintendent. Comments will be summarized and a profile developed that will be used to evaluate applicants.

A timeline for the search has been approved by the board, which shows applications being accepted through Feb. 12, 1993. The board will then select six to eight candidates to be interviewed on Feb. 25, 26 and 27. Three finalists will be selected and invited for a second interview on Mar. 4, 5, and 6. The new superintendent will be selected at a meeting of the board on Mar. 12 and be on the job approximately June 1, 1993.

World hunger event is 'grassroots' approach

A "World Hunger Supper" will be held Thursday, Nov. 19 starting at 7 p.m. at St. Stanislaus Hall. The event, called "Oxfam America," is sponsored by area churches and the Social Concerns Committee of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

Churches participating in the event include St. Stanislaus Catholic, Bandera United Methodist, St. Christopher's Episcopal, Grace Lutheran, First Baptist and Pipe Creek Presbyterian Churches.

"Oxfam America is a nonprofit international agency that works with poor people in Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean and – beginning this winter, here in the United States," Helen Bayliss explains.

"Oxfam America also provides relief assistance when disaster strikes, and works to educate the American public about hunger and development issues. Oxfam America differs from other aid agencies in that it neither seeks nor accepts government funds, is not affiliated with any religion or political party, and looks beyond emergency relief to long-term solutions to hunger and poverty," she says.

The name "Oxfam" comes from the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, founded in England in 1942. The international family of Oxfams celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. Oxfam America was established in 1970.

Oxfam, dedicated to the "grassroots approach," looks for small-scale projects where a few dollars go a long way.

"Since 1974, millions of people have fasted for Oxfam America," Bayliss says. "This year, the fast happens at the beginning of the holiday season, a time when both U.S. and world hunger are on a lot of people's minds."

The menu for the World Hunger Supper will be rice and beans, and Bayliss says that the message of the event is very clear: "We can do something about world hunger." Those attending the meal will be asked to donate the amount they would normally spend to dine out.

For information, contact Helen Bayliss, or call St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Casting For Men's Souls

"And Jesus said to them, 'Follow me and I will make you become fishers of men'."

— Mark 1:17

Simon and Andrew were fishermen on the Sea of Galilee when Jesus bade them join His fellowship. As fishermen, they, like all who cast their nets upon the waters whether for profit or pleasure, knew the value of bait to attract the quarry to their lines or nets. Jesus, too, recognized that He had to attract converts to His following. Yet His methods employed no brightly colored and deceptive lures; rather, He held before His audiences the shining truth about God and His love and the gains to be made by following His laws. Just as many fish will reject a false lure no matter how bright, so too will many men turn from the obviously deceptive. Those were the souls that Jesus and His followers cast for with honesty and love.

Your Basic Bandera

Peggy Tobin

One thing of which you can be sure. By the time you see this page of the Bandera Bulletin, we will all know who is going to be the next president of the United States and who is one new Augustchor. And whatever we thought of Taxandspend or Trickledown as threats to the future, we can all make it, if we will only take it upon ourselves to Bubble Up!

Having traversed thousands of miles of Heartland America, north, west, east and south this past year, we have met all kinds of people. There was the dusty old character in the Colorado mountains, salting a mining claim with a few low-grade topaz specimens and selling dirt by the bucket to tourists hoping to sift out shining gems.

There was the elegant southern lady standing in her shining hallway in Natchez lecturing on the antiques decorating her elegant home and pointing out the rooms out back in slave quarters converted into bed and breakfast accommodations.

There was the black lady sitting at a card table out on the street in front of the showplace mansion selling pralines she had made, probably taking in as many tourist dollars as the Scarlett look-alike in the hallway. They both need the money.

There was the unemployed geologist driving the ice-mobile up and down a Canadian glacier lecturing to tourists on the cosmic processes by which ice-fields have been formed over the millennia—and now are shrinking. Global warming? Our fault or Nature's way?

What we're getting at in outlining the foregoing examples of people doing what they have to do to make it where they find themselves is that we all need to Bubble Up. Instead of waiting for Slick Willie to grease the wheels or deciding to Let George Do It, we should pick ourselves up and Do It Ourselves.

The old puritans of New England had a go-ahead maxim for curing depressions or discouragement, "Do Ye Next Thing." Whether the Next Thing is the laundry or the mess out on the highway, we need to get to it. Once we start moving, one thing leads to another, and pretty soon the world is just naturally better!

So down with the Trickle Down. Let's Bubble Up!

• Meanwhile back at the old typewriter, we need to clarify a thing or two. Well, maybe one thing. It is perfectly clear to anyone who reads a newspaper that typos and deletions are par for the course, and we trust that when a glitch creeps in here as to spelling or word order that it is easy enough to supply the missing or correct phrases.

However, week before last, an entire paragraph was left out. We were trying to tell y'all about Shirley Hatfield Kitzman's joyous enterprise over in Comfort known as Seventh Street Collection. Most of the descriptions of Shirley's shop were intact but her name and the name of her business were left out.

It is an inescapable fact of life that [illegible] and they out people have to whack and snip away at whatever is in the way of making a newspaper page come out even, for all the ads and stories and pictures to fit. So we're not really complaining. We just think Shirley Kitzman's Seventh Street Collection of Comfort, Texas needs to be noted in print in Shirley's hometown paper.

I would like to honor a special hero this week.

She was born on December 15, 1923 in Bandera off of Highway 2828. She was raised in Medina. She was blessed with only one child, Lois Derry. But this didn't keep her from raising at least two generations of children.

For 26 years, this amazing women changed, fed, and loved more kids than most of us has in a lifetime. She has cried with them, laughed with them and most of all, she taught them morals that somehow has faded over time.

The love and respect that she has taught has made all her kids better from the inside out. Maedale Carpender is a very special woman.

Cake auction nets big bucks for Utopia High School senior class

The Utopia High School senior class cake auction at the conclusion of the Fall Festival acfivities on Saturday netted $5,355 for the 17 members of the group. The auction was well attended and excitement ran high as auctioneer Dan Haby of Uvalde took bids for as much as $500 on delicious homemade cakes. This money, along with that from the senior class dunking booth at the carnival on Saturday, will be used to finance the senior trip.

The members of the senior class appreciate the support of the community, their parents and families, and the help of Dan Haby in making this one of the most successful cake auctions in school history.

Sounds of local musicians and the backdrop of an old-fashioned grist mill punctuated the "Fall Fair" in Utopia on Sat., Nov. 7. Saturday marked the 30th annual event sponsored by the Utopia Arts & Crafts Guild. Handmade knives, cedar doll houses, photography, quilts, and Christmas decorations were displayed by local exhibitors. Utopia High's cheerleaders painted fun designs on the faces of the youngsters and the young at heart. The artists will gather again on Nov. 14 for one more day of exhibits, music and fun. The Junior Class of Utopia High will be selling tamale lunches. A good opportunity to combine a trip to check out the fall color at Lost Maples and get a head start on that Christmas shopping.

TIPS ON STAYING SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

For more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

• Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.
• Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.
• Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

IF YOU SMELL GAS in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:
1 Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.
2 Do not switch anything electrical on or off.
3 Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).
4 Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.
5 Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

CONTRACTORS, BEFORE YOU DIG, call your local Lone Star Gas Office, and we'll help you avoid any potential problems.

SAFETY TIPS. We've put together a brochure that includes safety tips designed to educate your whole family about the proper usage of natural gas. For a copy, or if you have any questions, call us at 1-800-545-3427.

what's rustlin'

By Bonnie

Whew! What a weekend. The town was bulging. Janett says it was her best "Hunters' Weekend" she ever did. Arkey Blue says he'll have enough to get him through February! And the rest say "Hallelujah"! The "Hunters" poured into Bandera and they poured into the dance halls and they poured into the shops and they poured into the restaurants, especially for the breakfast hour - you know - from midnight to 3 a.m.! If all bills don't get paid this weekend, something's wrong!

The Hunters Barbecue was great, with a wonderful turnout of locals and hunters. It was re-arranged this year, with all kinds of interesting exhibits to view before entering the huge crowds of the barbecue. On one side was a "fox caller" (we know him as Rickie Anderson), and on the other side was a "turkey caller" (I'm sorry I don't know his name). Ballan made me a hat for the occasion. It was a camouflage cap with a small set of real deer horns attached. Was that a perfect outfit, or what?

We've just got to find an attraction for the hordes during January or February. Patricia Moore, of Horseshoe Inn, started her "Ski Bandera" Weekend last year. We should have handed out fliers all over town for it. It's where you divide up into teams of five, jump on boards that have straps for everyone's shoes, and then proceed to get five people to move their feet at the same time across a grassy field without falling down. She says she's going to make an obstacle course this time (in January!), just to add to the excitement. I got an old pair of water skis I'm working on for "The Bandera Rustlers." We're going to win this time! Get your team together and you can even figure out costumes!

A young friend of mine, Don Clark, blew into town to say "hello." He'd never been to Bandera before and so was in for quite a shock, especially since he's in San Antonio for six weeks, making a movie called "Honor Among Thieves", starring Patrick Swayze. The production company is called "Rare Touch Productions" and the art director, set decorator and one of the actresses came out and couldn't believe how many "sets" there were in Bandera. (We call them businesses and homes and ranches!) I just happened to have a yard sale going when they were here and they bought a bunch of stuff to ship back to Los Angeles! Maybe we can talk them into a small pre-cast party, when they're finished shooting in S.A.

This is Monday as I'm writing this, so— Rain-rain-glorious rain! Drink it up, little plants, and rivulets and streams and rivers!

open the lines of communication between the Sheriff's Department and the community.

"I don't know what has been done in the schools so far in the way of programs, but I believe there's a lot more we can do. I would like to see a D.A.R.E. (anti drug/alcohol educational) program here. I know it will cost something to get it started, but the Sheriff's Department has a commitment to serve the community. That includes youth. I definately want to take a look at getting D.A.R.E. here.

"I used to present programs at the schools once a month, one grade level at a time. We presented drug awareness programs, 'beware of strangers' and other topics. We did it for two or three years. It gave kids a chance to get to know a cop without thinking they were going to get arrested."

MacMillan said he is looking forward to meeting the challenges of the Sheriff's Department. He has been a Bandera County resident for 17 years and is married to Nancy Tschirhart MacMillan. The couple have two children, Jimmy, 11, and Christina, 5.

Nancy owns and manages "Nancy's Kitchen" at Thousand Trails in Lakehills. She is a past board member on the Lakehills Emergency Medical Service Support Team. She teaches programs at St. Victor's Chapel.

Since the birth of the republic, millions of Americans have died for their country on the field of battle. Millions more have placed themselves as a living shield between their country and her enemies, emerging unscathed through the benevolence of a Merciful Creator.
On Veteran's Day, we honor the dead and the living whose actions have testified to their courage and devotions to our country. We honor their heroism...We give thanks for their sacrifice, and we share it only briefly and inadequately--the grief of loved ones who survive them.
Let us on this Veteran's Day remember that we have preserved our freedom only through the continued willingness of brave men and women to risk the sacrifices of their lives for its sake.
On Veteran's Day, we honor them all: those who wore a uniform in days past and those who wear it today. We honor them with a recognition of a debt that can never be repaid. It is beyond price...

Great American SmokeOut set

Smokers are encouraged to quit for a day-- possibly for good

The Bandera Unit of the American Cancer Society will participate in the 16th Annual Great American SmokeOut on November 19th by encouraging smokers to quit for a day [illegible] Thursday.

A Gallup poll conducted after the 1991 Great American SmokeOut found that a record number of smokers, 5.8 million, stayed off cigarettes longer than 24 hours. That's nearly one million more than the previous year.

Of the 35.5% of American smokers who participated in the event, 7 million gave up cigarettes for the full 24 hours.

[illegible] officially began in 1977, the event's roots reach back to 1971. That year, Arthur P. Mullaney challenged the citizens of Randolf, Mass. to give up cigarettes for the day and donate the saved money to a high school scholarship fund. Mullaney coined the term SmokeOut.

Later, Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Monticello Times in Minn., spearheaded that state's first D-Day, or "Don't Smoke Day." D-Day spread like wildfire throughout Minnesota, and then blazed west to California where it became the Great American SmokeOut.

It is estimated that there are 38 million ex-smokers in the United States.

It's easy to fall prey to cons and bogus deals-- don't get embarrassed, just be more careful

An elderly Bandera resident allegedly lost $500 in a con after she received a call about a bogus sweepstakes win.

"They told me I had won. Oh- thousands. And all I had to do was write them out a check for $500 so the armored truck could bring the money right to my house. The lady that called, she was real nice. She gave me her company's name, something like 'Awards Bureau International-and her name and phone number. She said a courier would be by to get my check.

"When the man came in a pickup truck with Tennessee license plates, I wondered to myself. 'Now, how did he get here so fast?' But I didn't think to get his license plate number because he showed me identification and made me sign a pink slip before I gave him the check.

"My son said, 'Momma, you've got to be careful.' He was right. I thought I was being careful. I wasn't being careful enough. It's just an old woman's dumbness to take something over the phone. I should have known better. But something inside me was saying... 'if you only had that money, just think what you could do.'"

The Bandera resident does not have that money. Nor does she have the $500 she gave the "courier." Her bank, Guaranteed Federal, told her that the $500 check was cashed the same day it was written.

"It's these sweepstakes," she said sadly. "They come in the mail all the time and they always give you a certain time limit. Like if you don't send it in within a certain number of days or hours, it disqualifies you from winning. I was afraid if I didn't give them the check I would never get the money."

Bandera County Sheriff's Department Deputy Keith Mansfield has some advice for Bandera County residents on avoiding cons. "You can NEVER get something for nothing. That's the main thing. Get the proper identification from the people involved. Always check with the Better Business Bureau."

Asked how to tell if a sweepstakes is legitimate, Mansfield chuckled. "Are ANY sweepstakes legititmate? I don't know. But treat junk mail for what it is- junk. And never cut loose of any funds without getting proper identification."

He had one more piece of advice about answering "junk" mail. "Don't get in a hurry."

That advice might have prevented an elderly Bandera resident from losing $500.

'Dramatic increase' reported by expert in number of checks stolen or forged

David Bowles, President of Check Technologies, a San Antonio-based check verification and recovery company, reports a dramatic increase in the number of personal and business checks that have been stolen, forged and passed to its member merchants. Retailers have been hit hard in recent months. The business and individuals who have had their checks stolen, unfortunately, must spend endless hours trying to clear up their otherwise spotless credit reports and get their names off "hot check" lists.

Merchants that have been burned by a stolen check may refuse to accept the check-writer's legitimate checks for many years to come. Bowles advises, "always consider your checks as cash, do not leave your checkbook laying around." Immediately destroy all checks from closed accounts. Open your new checks on arrival and inspect for missing checks. One check snapped out of your checkbook can result in hundreds of checks reproduced with the new high-quality photo copiers now available.

Guard your check re-order forms. If a thief can make your life miserable by stealing just one check, just think what he could do with a box of 500 checks. Should you discover checks missing, Bowles warns, "contact the bank and freeze the account. Contact the holders of your legitimate outstanding checks and advise them that they may be returned. Report the theft to your local police, and contact Check Technologies to list your checks as stolen on our electronic check verification network."

Their phone number is (210) 646-9595.

Public invited to use school track

Bandera County residents are invited to use the new track at Bandera High School. For the safety of the individual and the protection of the track, some standard rules apply.

Joggers and walkers need to wear flat soled running or walking shoes. Walkers and joggers should also use lanes 5, 6 or 7.

No cleated or spiked shoes will be allowed on the track. Also, no bicycles or skateboards are allowed. Pets are not permitted.

Obeying these rules will keep the track in good shape and make it a showcase for the community.

School art project produces 'western theme' ornaments

Bandera County school students of all ages are engaged in a "Western Theme" art project which is producing wooden Christmas tree ornaments. The ornaments will be placed on the Bandera City Christmas tree located outside the library.

Sue Holloway, Connie Young and Toby Robbins are directing the student effort. All work on the project is underway in art classes on all campuses. Students are creating ornaments throughout November.

The finished decorations will be placed prior to the tree lighting ceremony on Dec. 4.

The "Runt" Gets Revenge

My great-grandfather was known as the runt of the family out of three brothers. One day his brothers found a beehive in a stump of an old dead tree. They thought it would be funny to send my great-grandfather in with the bees to get the honey.

He crawled in the hold of the old stump to get the honey and the stump tipped over and when the bees started to swarm he laid down flat. They went right over him and chased his brothers all the way to the house. Later he showed up with a bucketful of honey while my great-grandmother was treating bee stings on his two brothers.

School-time Trouble

My great Uncle Jack Shaw was in study hall in 1937. While the teacher was out of the room, Jack decided to have some fun. He took five crackers out of his hip pocket and lit them one by one and threw them out the window.

When the teacher came back he had a lit one in his hands, so he took his fingers and squeezed the fire out and put it back in his pocket, but it was not out and lit the others and blew his pants up.

Bandera High School joins Texas effort to enhance student resources available

Bandera High School has joined Texas in leading a national effort to improve education by enhancing the resources available to students and teachers. Texas is the third state in the nation to engage in a CLASSICS program which is designed to help public high schools improve book collections in their libraries. It puts the collected works of America's best writers in the hands of students through the generosity of The Brown Foundation.

The award was made after secondary librarian, Patsy Small, sent an application to The Library of America and pledged $600 from library funds toward the cost of the books. The pledge was matched by $600 from The Brown Foundation of Houston.

The Library of America is a nonprofit publishing enterprise committed to preserving the works of America's greatest writers in handsome and authoritative hardcover editions. Although a set of 60 volumes normally costs $1,850, CLASSICS enables each participating high school to acquire the books for only $600.

Each of the 60 volumes averages 1,200 pages in length and includes several works by one author. The supplementary notes and the chronology of the author's life and career in each volume make the collection especially useful for students. The library will receive the first 40 to 50 volumes of the series within the next few months. The remaining volumes will be shipped within a year's time.

Volumes published to date include the works of: Henry Adams, Willa Cather, Stephen Crane, W.E.B. Du Bois, Ralph Waldo Emerson, William Faulkner, Benjamin Franklin, Henry James, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Jack London, Flannery O Connor, Eugene O Neill, Edgar Allan Poe, Mark Twain, Edith Wharton and Walt Whitman.

Turkey shoot 'blessed', with beautiful weather

The weather looked dismissal early in the morning Saturday, Nov. 7, as the Castle Lake Ranch Volunteer Fire Department set to host its annual turkey shoot.

But then it turned into a beautiful day.

"We couldn't have asked for a better blessing," said department president Clara Albright.

At least 80 guns were registered at the shoot, much more than they have had before at previous shoots — when 30, 40 or 50 were registered.

They had 38 rounds of shooting at 15 people per round which comes to 570 targets blasted. "We did super good," said Albright. The department also sold food and drinks and conducted a benefit drawing.

Donations from the event will be used to repair their brush truck and pour a new slab that eventually will become an addition to the fire house.

The department has had a brush truck, "Old Red," that was given to the department by the U.S. Forestry service 18 years ago. But the jeep-style vehicle with four-wheel drive has had electrical problems and it could not be used at night.

Proceeds from the shoot will be used for a new alternator, batteries, and other repairs to put the truck on-line as their third truck.

In addition to fire-fighting duties, the truck has a hoist that can be used for rescues such as pulling cars out of ditches during flooding conditions.

"We're putting it back together," said Albright. The truck has been essentially out of service for up to four years.

The department currently has two operating trucks, a 2 1/2-ton tanker truck that carries 1,000 gallons of water and a pumper truck.

Following the repair of the third truck, Castle Lake Ranch firefighters hope to pour a 4-inch thick slab behind their firehouse.

The slab would serve as a parking place for a new fourth truck the department hopes to get in the future.

Eventually the slab would have walls erected around it and it would become part of the firehouse. "The firehouse would be a drive-through," said Albright.

So after the brush truck is repaired, it's buidling time. "First the slab, then enclosure and then the truck."

Albright said they were very pleased with the public's response. "We really appreciate everyone who came out," said Albright.

As many as 15 shooters lined up at one time at the Castle Lake Ranch Volunteer Fire Department Turkey Shoot Saturday. They did that 38 times for a total of 570 shot-up targets.

Bandera FFA increased membership

Bandera's FFA chapter increased membership by a whopping 100 percent over last year according to roster figures submitted by the chapter to the state office.

Last year's membership was 37. The chapter now has 79 dues-paid members for 1992-93.

"I think that the students are beginning to see what FFA is all about and what it can be for them," said Bandera FFA secretary Kevin Munn.

FFA advisor Tom Maynard was pleased with the dramatic increase. He says there is still room for considerable improvement. "Our department has an enrollment of about 150 or more students. We'd like to see all of them be FFA members."

FFA membership, while not a requirement, augments and supports much of the classroom agricultural science curriculum. FFA members have the opportunity to develop lifetime leadership skills via contests, conventions and conferences offered by district, area, state and national FFA organizations. Senior members are also eligible to compete for scholarships.

Legion group will host open house Saturday

Veterans Day may be Wednesday, but the Lakehills American Legion Post 410 will host its annual Veterans Day open house Saturday, beginning at 6 p.m.

The Legionnaires will offer free homemade chili, tamales and beer while it lasts as a way to thank folks for supporting their activities through the year.

A drawing for a three-day, two-night trip to the Golden Nugget in Las Vegas, including air fare and ground transportation will be held.

Wharton's Dock

Bud Ciarlo

Well: it's going to be an old-fashioned covered dish dinner at the Walker Memorial Chapel Fellowship Hall on Sunday, November 15. There will be no brisket, baked ham, fried chicken or other meat prepared by the Chapel. So, bring a covered dish and share it with your friends and neighbors. The covered dish dinner will follow morning worship services.

Leaving their home at Wharton's Dock in early June, Frank and Ola Harrell travelled to McCall, Idaho where they have been spending their summers for the past few years. They report it was a nice cool summer, not like the heat we were having here in Texas. During the summer they took several short trips to Boise and Pocatello, Idaho. In August they travelled to Corvallis, Ore. to attend their granddaughter, Wendi's wedding. Frank and Ola started their trip back to Texas on October 23, stopping in Pocatello to visit their son Gary. Gary drove the Harrells back to Wharton's Dock, arriving on October 26. Frank and Ola are glad to be back home even though they are tired but they are happy.

It was a gala night when the young people from the Wharton's Dock, Lake Medina Shores area and the youth group from the Walker Memorial Chapel got together for a Harvest party at the home of Rev. Ken Brown and his wife Susan. After a good time with games, they settled down to a bonfire, roasting hot dogs, flame-scorched marshmallows, etc. The youth also enjoyed bobbing for apples, and eating chips, candies and their goodies. Yolanda and Mike Phipps were sponsors of the youth group from Walker Memorial Chapel. This event made for a nice safe Halloween or trick-or-treat night for the youth.

Chris Hines, Betty and Bud Ciarlo's grandson, his wife Beth and their two children Megan and Chelsie enjoyed an early Thanksgiving dinner, turkey and all the trimmings at grandma's on Sunday, Nov. 9. Chris attended Bandera High School prior to entering the United States Army. After serving a tour of duty in Korea, Chris left the military and took residence in Pipe Creek and worked for Donnie Walker for a short time. Chris went back in the service and was assigned to Fort Sam Houston where he will be discharged on Dec. 1. He is moving to Kansas City, Kan. hoping to get into law enforcement as a member of the Kansas City police department.

Bud says: you know you're getting old, when the little old lady you help across the street in Vegas is your wife.

To keep weevils and other mealy bugs out of your flour and cornmeal, place a few bay leaves in the container.

Bandera JV ends football season undefeated

The Bandera junior varsity football team ended a highly successful season with a 9-0 record and having let their opponents score only once against them all season.

The JV shut out Medina Valley 19-0 in Bandera to be district champs.

The freshman beat Medina Valley 12-6.

Bandera varsity football was a 'sucessful' season

The Bandera Bulldogs ended their season successfully, with a 5-5 district record and a 6-4 overall record.

It just didn't end the way many Bulldog fans would have liked it to ... in the play-offs.

Head coach Chris Storer confirmed that the season was successful. "You always want to play a little longer," said Storer.

The Bulldogs didn't start off the season very auspiciously. They were 1-2 after the third game of the season. They lost a close one to Dripping Springs (17-15), made dog food out of the Comfort Bobcats (20-0), and held their own, but lost to Marble Falls 19-8.

But then the two games against the perennial powerhouses of Dripping Springs and Marble Falls have their purpose — you don't improve if you don't find out where you're weak spots are.

Play began in the new eight-team District 26-AAA that Bandera had moved into on the southside of San Antonio against West Campus. A former 4A team that had the rumblings of being formidable. Bandera won 14-12.

That was the beginning of a series of close games interrupted by only the blow out of San Antonio Cole. (Ingram beaten 27-22, Cole beaten 35-0, Hondo 15-14, and Somerset 3-0).

Undefeated-in-district Bandera was in second-place with all the chance of getting into the play-offs when they met Devine on the hometown gridiron. Devine humbled Bandera 28-0 in a game where shear size of the players and mis-direction plays bombarded the Bulldogs despite a huge amount of penalties being assessed against Devine.

Then there was Medina Valley. 18-0 Panthers says it all.

The high point of the season came during the first part of district play. "We won four first five district ball games. Five wins in a row makes a big difference in morale," said Storer.

Bandera's best play came against San Antonio Cole. "We played real well against Cole. They were a better team than their record indicates. They played so many tough teams early and had a chance to win them all."

Also, the Bulldogs showed persistance. "We played close ball games that were decided in the last minutes. It takes quite a bit to come from behind."

Despite the loss to Medina Valley, Storer said the Bulldogs played better against the Panthers than they did the week before against Devine. But that's been the Bulldogs method this year — improving every step of the way.

Bandera will have to lay its 1992 6-4 record alongside last year's 7-4 record when they went to the play-offs for the first time since 1985 and were beaten by by 26-AAA champion Devine 29-0 at in Uvalde's Honey Stadium.

Their 1992 6-4 record will also have to lay alongside their 1990 7-3 record, the first winning record since 1985.

Bandera will lose 17 seniors.

Bandera Downs could have 117 racing dates in 1993

Season pared down from asked-for 204 days begins on March 6 next year

AUSTIN — Bandera Downs will conduct as many as 117 dates of racing in 1993, but the meeting next year will be heavily quarter horse in the spring and early summer and more thoroughbred in the fall.

This the result of a compromise struck at the Texas Racing [illegible] Austin after the horse racing commissioners attempted but failed to get Trinity-Meadows to improve its facility.

Bandera Downs' season will be up to 117 days, with racing Friday through Sunday and holiday Mondays March 6 - Nov. 28 with two weeks off in August. Bandera will take off the weekends of Aug. 13-15 and Aug. 20-22, thus allowing the Gillespie County Fairgrounds track to run unopposed — the same procedure as 1992.

But Bandera Downs general manager Billy Bowers, through TRC executive secretary David Freeman, said Bandera would run more races for quarter horses into August and more races for thoroughbreds from late August through the end of the meet.

The reason? Trinity Meadows had left the meeting and as the Austin skies darken after 6 p.m., she insisted that the commissioners provide the TRC staff direction on how to proceed with 1993 dates.

Freeman said the staff suggested the racing commission [illegible] the compromise.

Blodgett, who had originally opposed giving Trinity dates until improvements at Trinity's facility were made, moved that the compromise be accepted. Wilson, who had also severely criticised Trinity, seconded the motion. The two horse racing commissioners, Holt and ex-officio member deputy comptroller Bill Hamilton, representing State Comptroller John Sharp, agreed unanimously.

That motion included Bandera's dates and Manor's.

Manor Downs will have 66 days in two meetings, Saturdays and Sundays and holiday Mondays Feb. 13 - June 6, and Sept. 4 - Dec. 12.

Trinity: March 6 - Aug. 8 for thoroughbreds (92 days) and Aug. 19 - Dec. 31 for quarter horses (77 days).

Ex-officio commission member and Public Safety Commission chair Robert Holt rejected the compromise and moved that the commission approve the dates Trinity had requested as a mixed meeting with both breeds. The motion died for lack of a second and the commission went on to other business.

Commission chair Pat Pangburn (a greyhound commissioner) was not about to let the issue die however, and after Fitzsimons had left the meeting and work out a compromise.

They did while the commissioners continued one of the longest meetings in commission history.

Approaching 5 p.m., Freeman brought in a compromise that gave a more equal split of racing days to the two breeds at

Students say alcohol's the main problem

By Stephanie Logue
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bandera High School students questioned say there is a drug problem in the community and they know where to go for drugs if they want them. The majority of the students named alcohol as the main problem. "That's what we do here," one student said. "Alcohol. It's our thing."

The good news for concerned parents and community leaders is that students who are kept busy with school work, sports, and community service projects say they have no time to experiment with drugs and no desire to use them. "My friends don't use them. We know who does and where they are and we just stay away from them."

Most of the students questioned also expressed concern about youth violence. They named "talking tough" and threatening as serious problems on the school campus. One student expressed concern that, "so far it's mostly talk. But I always wonder what could happen if it got out of control."

Wondering what could happen if it got out of control is what sent Lakehills Justice of the Peace, Louise Karr, to the Nov. 10 school board meeting. She addressed the board saying that youth were being lost to drug and alcohol use. "We have to come together to stop it."

She also named youth violence as an increasing problem. "I'm talking about life-threatening incidents like the discharge of a firearm in a scuffle at Ranger Crossing."

According to a Sheriff's Deputy, the firearm incident wounded a juvenile in the arm and forehead. "He was that close to being dead." Alcohol use was involved in the accidental shooting.

Karr said her daughter is among those who have been threatened at school. "When children receive notes saying, 'your blood is going to paint the school red,' I take that seriously. And we do have a problem on the school buses. Lakehills may be the worst. Like the underarm deordant that was set on fire in a seat. Someone could have been hurt."

Karr's appeal to the school board to consider the problem and seek solutions won a round of support from parents at the meeting. Several of them who had asked to be placed on the board's "Audience to Patrons" said Karr had adequately expressed their concerns.

A comment by one board member that he felt he was well informed and was unaware of a drug or violence problem at the school brought a wave of protest from the audience. "It's here," one parent replied. "It's not just San Antonio. Some of our High School students are wearing 'colors' (related to gang involvement) now. We have to address this before we start losing children. It's just a matter of time until we have drive-by shootings start if we don't do something."

'Great American Smokeout' Nov. 19 encourages smokers to give it up

When the news reports a killer is on the loose, most people lock their doors. Yet millions of Americans let a killer into their lives every day—whenever they light a cigarette.

Everyone knows smoking causes cancer. The main problem for smokers, though, is getting themselves to stop. Potential quitters who pledge to stop smoking "next year" often let their best intentions go up in smoke.

"You might have a little more success if you try to make quitting as much fun as possible," says Larry Laufman, Ed.D., stop-smoking coordinator at The Institute for Preventive Medicine in the Methodist Hospital in Houston. "And, the best time to try is the 'Great American Smokeout,' sponsored by the American Cancer Society November 19."

Last year, a record 5.8 million smokers were able to stay off cigarette smoking for longer than 24 hours.

Laufman stresses, to be successful at giving up smoking, people must want to quit for themselves. Nagging a friend or loved one will only defeat the purpose.

However, once you're ready to take the plunge, here are some tips on how to avoid smoking:

*Plan ahead by targeting a quit day;

*Write down situations that make you want to smoke and change your normal habits connected with smoking. For example, leave the dinner table soon after eating to avoid the desire to light up;

*On quit day, throw away all cigarettes, matches, lighters, and ashtrays;

*Stay busy. Hold a pencil or pen instead of a cigarette;

*Drink lots of water and fruit juice to flush out nicotine;

*Go places where smoking is not allowed;

*Reward yourself for successes.

"Remember to take one day at a time, and if you slip up, that's okay. Just keep trying and remember your goal," says Laufman. "Eventually, you will be able to kick the habit. It's toughest getting through those first few weeks."

Utopia cross country runners win state championship

The Utopia cross country boys team took first place honors when they traveled to Georgetown on Saturday, Nov. 14 to compete at the state meet.

The Utopia boys took the meet by storm, placing Willie Garcia first with a time of 16:37.49; Bernie Garcia third; Steve Duke seventh; David Findling 16th; Wayne Moore 17th; Robert Snow and Raul Morales also ran for Utopia.

In the girl's division, Stephanie Duke won her third consecutive girl's individual state championship with a time of 12:01.65 and Sandra Esparza finished 30th in a field of 118.

Putting school funding on the ballot may be the only way to find an equitable solution, according to State Sen. Bill Sims. For more on what Sims had to say, please turn to Page 3.

Medina tracksters take statewide honors

Freshman Misti Wells took ninth place, and the team placed second overall.

They competed, they experienced and they, almost conquered.

The Medina girls cross country team won second place at the state meet in Georgetown Saturday, Nov. 14 with a score of 107, finishing only five points behind Booker.

Freshman Misti Wells once again led her teammates across the finish line. Completing the distance in 12:57 gave Wells ninth place overall.

"The girls ran very well," said Medina coach Greg Harbour. "They gave it everything they had. They not only ran hard, they ran an intelligent race too. They knew when to conserve their energy and when to really stride out and push," he said.

The Medina runners came within one place of winning the top slot in the meet, said Harbour.

"We were SO close (to first place)," said Harbour. "Five points is one place. That's the distance from here to there," he exclaimed, pointing to a wall about 10 feet away. "If any one of the girls had moved up just one more place, we would have had first. It was that close."

The team will remain almost intact for next year's season. Senior Becky Taylor will be the only member to move on. "I'm happy," said Taylor. "This is the first year I ever ran and I got to go to state. I'm very happy with that."

Juniors Laki Johnson, Dusty Reed and Sherri Scafidi; sophomore Kelly Lookingbill and freshmen Misti Wells and Alicia Mims will all return in 1993.

"We will miss Becky," said Harbour, "but we have some good runners moving up from junior high. I believe we will do well next year. I believe that missing a state championship by five points has awakened a sleeping giant in these girls and made them that much hungry for the title next year."

It's a truly wonderful gift

Dear editor:

At the recent meeting of the Bandera ISD Board of Trustees, Jerry Neuenschwander, direc[illegible]

Gwen Qualls, the Chorus' accompanist, presented to the Board a receipt for the purchase of a beautiful Chickering grand piano. Mr. Neuenschwander explained that, although the Community Chorus spearheaded the fund-raising effort, the monies raised for the piano's purchase came from many local area citizens.

He further explained that it was the consensus of all who raised the monies that the piano be housed in the Bandera High School's Auditorium, and that the piano be available to all Bandera ISD students for use in preparing and presenting their musical programs (with the proviso that the school assume the responsibility for the piano's security).

On behalf of the students, the staff, the administration, and the Board of Trustees of Bandera ISD, we thank the Bandera Area Community Chorus and all those who contributed toward the piano's purchase, for this truly wonderful gift. The gift is regarded as a symbol of harmony between the school and the community.

She says get involved

Dear editor:

I appreciate the article on the front page of your paper last week titled "Drug use and youth violence." Having been involved in this community for the last twelve years we have seen this coming but there seemed no way to slow it down. All of the people who you spoke to in the article had excellent ideas. The Bandera County Youth Center Organization has been working for over a year to get the community involved to get a building constructed for the youth of the county to "hang out" and to provide wholesome activities for them. We need every concerned citizen to get involved in this project. This is a project which can be built by donations and grants but no taxes will be involved.

It will take a commitment from law enforcement, schools, parents, civic leaders and churches, but we can turn the situation around in Bandera County. Being a parent in these difficult times is something few of us are equipped for but we can do it with the help of God and our community. The alcohol problem in this county is shared by both adults and our youth. How do we teach our children the responsibilities that go with consuming alcohol when we have adults serving minors or allowing minors to drink in their presence or on their property?

We must, as a community, take a stand for what is morally right and stand by that no matter what, and we will make a difference. Support the efforts of the schools, churches and law enforcement and help make a better community for our children.

Keep up the good work.

He likes the west end stuff

Dear editor:

I want to commend you and your staff on the improvement of the Bulletin since the new management has taken over.

The entire newspaper has improved, but the coverage of the western end of the county has improved 100 percent. Examples are the new Upper Sabinal Canyon weekly column and coverage of Utopia school athletics.

I am recommending to my friends in this area to subscribe to the Bulletin so they can learn what is going on in their end of the county as well as what is going on in other parts of the county, state and nation.

A plea for volunteers

Dear editor:

Some of your readers may remember the story of Brent Gustin being on the Santa Rosa telethon. He's my three-year-old son who was born with a terminal illness. He's still holding on and he amazes me each time he survives another crisis. He is currently at the Fiesta Care Center in Hondo.

My purpose to write this is to let Bandera and Pipe Creek know how lucky they are to have so many loving and helpful residents. We couldn't have made it through this far without the emotional support and help we got from so many fine companies, organizations, churches and individuals.

We received anonymous letters with "surprises" enclosed and there must have been at least a thousand prayers going out each day! Anyone who is weighing small town life versus city life should remember that small towns take care of their own personally and with loving affection.

Appreciation for Mr. Massa

Dear editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to Mr. Jack Massa, our principal at Alkek Elementary School. I have known Jack for several years and have learned what a loving, giving, generous individual he is. We are extremely fortunate to have Mr. Massa in our school system. He is genuinely concerned about our youth and his door is always open.

The next time we see Mr. Massa and our teachers and administrators, let us show them our appreciation by giving them a smile, a kind word, a handshake or a pat on the back. Our educators have a tough job and they deserve a lot of credit as well as encouragement.

She doesn't want tower

Dear editor:

I wish to express my concern and to alert other property owners in the Pipe Creek area about the Southwestern Bell tower offer. There's a possibility that a tower for cellular phones will be put in Bandera County, one mile north of Timber Creek Road off of Highway 16. As a property owner facing head-on this tower site, I'm concerned. My family moved from San Antonio and invested in a home for the peace and beauty of the country, but how beautiful will our property be with a tower and blinking lights going 24 hours a day. The beauty of our property is not my only worry, but also the depreciation of the property. As a family that invested all of any savings to buy the property (at cost for the view), this concerns me deeply.

There are neighbors that also feel as I do and hope that by expressing our concerns we might be able to make a difference to this landowner who holds the decision. We all love our homes and hope we are not forced to move at an extreme loss. Please help preserve the beauty of Bandera County.

Tammie L. Fischer

They want independence

Dear editor:

Thank you to the 234 senior citizens, volunteers, and other concerned citizens that signed our petition to reinstate Manuel Flores as the coordinator of the Silver Sage Corral and to find a way to become an independent center. This petition has been submitted to the Board of Directors of the Silver Sage Corral and as of this date we have not received a formal reply.

If the Board of Directors adopts a plan, within the period of one year from today, for the Silver Sage Corral to be completely independent of the Volunteer Services Council of Kerrville, I will pledge $1,000 to be used by the center in any fashion they see fit. I also urge the business people and citizens of the surrounding area to pledge whatever they can afford to make the transition as easy as possible. Perhaps when the Board of Directors see how concerned and determined we are they will act accordingly.

From time to time we will keep you informed of the pledges that have been received.

Jest & Thyme

a little funny, a little spicy...

Janna Sandidge

Well, I just have a short missive this week, to recognize someone that I consider an exceptionally good sport.

Last Wednesday on a federal holiday (Veterans Day), one of our local postal employees came down to the post office on his day off and sorted your Bandera Bulletins into your mailboxes, so you wouldn't have to wait until Thursday to get your paper. I call that being a good sport, to come to your workplace when you could be doing something infinitely more festive and holiday-like.

Tony Downing, stand up and take a bow! We salute you. Only in friendly little ol' Bandera do you find such "above and beyond" behavior.

By the way, when you stop by the post office this week, be sure you stick your head in the door and tell Tony "Thanks." It's the little things people do that make life so much fun.

Write to them.

HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — On opening day of the special session last week, Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, claimed he has enough votes to be elected speaker in January's regular session.

Meanwhile, across the rotunda, senators quickly adopted a proposed constitutional amendment to shift money from property-rich to property-poor school districts, then prepared to confirm some 300 of Gov. Ann Richards new appointments.

But in the session's opening days, Laney's announcement completely overshadowed the called purpose of the session: to remedy the state's system of funding public schools.

Sources close to lame-duck Speaker Gib Lewis said one scenario has him stepping down this session — when all other business is finished — to let House members elect Laney immediately.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, did not seek re-election, and the House must elect a new speaker at the beginning of each regular session.

Organize, Save Time

By installing a new speaker now, the House could make the January election a formality, avoiding the traditional two-week slow period while the new speaker hires his staff and makes committee appointments.

By week's end, all other major speaker candidates had conceded to Laney, fueling the early House organization theory.

Ironically, Laney's victory claim came one day before former House Speaker Gus Mutscher pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit mail fraud in a land development scam that bilked investors out of nearly $1.5 million in Washington and Fayette counties.

Mutscher, 59, pleaded guilty minutes before he was to stand trial before a federal jury in Galveston on 14 felony charges including mail fraud and money laundering. Sentencing is set for Jan. 8.

Senate Passes Amendment

Senators approved, 29-2, a proposed constitutional amendment labeled the "Fair Share Plan," drafted by Gov. Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and Lewis.

It makes no provision for a tax increase, but opponents — mostly Republicans — say it will necessitate a state personal income tax in the near future.

The Senate plan would write minimum school funding standards into law and allow property tax dollars to be shifted from rich to poor school districts.

The Culberson Plan

House Republicans, who have enough seats to block any proposed amendment, are backing the Culberson Plan.

Rep. John Culberson, R-Houston, proposed a constitutional amendment that would bar the courts from judging the school finance system.

His plan removes the minimum funding standard and caps the percentage of funds which can be shifted between schools.

Hispanic members called Culberson's plan "racist."

Crazy Enough to Do It

State District Judge Scott McCown has threatened to cut off state revenue to schools — shutting them down — unless the Legislature equalizes funding by June 1.

Last week, Lewis warned House members, "the judge is crazy enough to do it. I've had him checked out and he's crazier than a stone-dead possum."

Culberson told members Judge McCown "is determined to control the entire school finance system in Texas from his courtroom."

McCown has been often quoted for saying: "If there's no education in Texas for six months, who cares?"

Audit Finds School Waste

While Republicans were opposing a raid on property-rich districts, school administrators were preparing to lobby for more money.

But a warning from Lewis to back off, plus the release of a new state audit showing the state can save $640 million annually on public education by 1997, quieted their push for funds.

"They ought to clean up their own house before they come here to ask for more money," Lewis said.

Dan Casey of the Texas Association of School Boards called the report by State Auditor Lawrence Alwin "the auditor's version of a drive-by shooting."

Beef Tariffs Blasted

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said Mexico violated the spirit of the free trade agreement last week by placing high tariffs on U.S.-produced beef and live cattle.

Several Texas ranchers, cattle feeders and meat packers reacted angrily to the tariff. Some speculated the tariff was a warning to President-elect Bill Clinton not to dismantle the free trade agreement.

Other Highlights

▪ The State Board of Education textbook committee fined publishers more than $20,000 for 300 errors found in U.S. history textbooks being used now in Texas schools.

▪ Investigations by the Texas Workers' Compensation Commission have resulted in three felony convictions and at least 22 arrests or indictments since June 1991, state officials said.

'Put it to a vote!'

Sims says it's necessary to meet court-ordered school funding deadline

By Nick Johnson
Special correspondent

Austin – State Sen. Bill Sims, who represents Bandera County [illegible] of equitable school funding on the ballot for the people to decide is a necessary first step to meet a court-ordered deadline.

"I feel like we have to get something before the people for an up and down vote," the newly-re-elected senator said this week after the state senate approved its version of a constitutional amendment that will make Gov. Ann Richards' Fair Share Plan work.

It's not exactly what Sen. Sims wanted, but he's a practical lawmaker. "I would go for a different approach," the senator said.

The amendment as approved by the senate this week contains a standard of equity that requires 95 percent of both state and local revenue in the public education system must be equalized.

"I favored an amendment that said simply, 'the State of Texas would furnish its citizens a public education'," he said. "I don't think we should put formulas in the constitution. It just clutters it up."

The House of Representatives is considering a different version of a constitutional amendment, one that doesn't include a constitutional standard of equity.

That means the final version that will appear on the ballot will be written by a conference committee of a few senators and a few representatives who work out the differences in the two versions.

Should the people defeat the amendment at the polls, Sen. Sims says there's time to come up with an amendment that does not lock formulas and other specifics into the constitution and still meet the court-ordered deadline of June, 1993.

The Texas Supreme Court has ordered the legislature to eliminate inequities in the $15 billion school finance system or face a takeover of the system by judges.

In a related development this week, results of audits of 55 of the state's 1,053 school districts revealed what appeared to be widespread waste in the system, and Gov. Richards and legislative leaders have called for audits of every district.

The governor called on education groups to concern themselves with improving classroom instruction while school districts are held accountable for their spending.

"We have got to show the taxpayers that we are spending our school dollars wisely, that Jay Leno tickets don't make the cut," Gov. Richards said in a news conference Monday. The audit turned up an instance in which a school board used district funds to buy tickets to performances by comedian Jay Leno and singer Kenny Rogers.

The audit of 55 districts, commissioned by a legislative committee, said school districts waste more than $300 million a year because of inefficiency and frivolous spending.

It also took aim at small districts like Medina's and Utopia's, calling for consolidation of many.

State auditor Lawrence Alwin said in the audit that Texas could save $640 million annually by 1997 if it re-draws school district boundaries, consolidates some districts, limits administrative expenses, and phases out special funds for small districts.

The governor also singled out for criticism school groups that oppose reform efforts, saying their focus on getting more money from the state for public education was undermining efforts to improve schools.

"What we should be talking about is the best way to teach these kids, how verbs agree with nouns, how one and one almost always makes two, and why what goes up usually comes down," she said.

She said that while the state has reduced its percentage of public school funding, it has increased the dollar amount from $2.86 billion in 1981 to $6.35 billion this year. When adjusted for inflation and enrollment growth, Richards said, state funding has increased 54 percent.

Sen. Sims was re-elected to a new term earlier this month in a district which was significantly changed by the redistricting law of 1990. He got 51.7 percent of the votes in District 25 to defeat Republican Troy Fraser.

He failed to carry Bandera County, however, a result he said he found surprising.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are a real live wire this week. You start wild, and you end up even wilder, with partners hanging on the edge, dreaming, wishing and desiring. Oh well, make the most of the quiet times mid-week to get work done, errands run, etc.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may think you can get into the groove this week, but guess what? A tantalizing offer appears before the work week ends, and you're off. The boss will see red if you don't get the job done, so don't be surprised if you're in the office over the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You won't believe what you hear this week, and you'll want to hear it all. You're the sign of the communicator but also of the twins, so be careful what you say and to whom. Consider isolation to prevent foot-in-mouth disease.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Since you are guided by the moon, you could really be out of whack this week. Watch out for extreme mood swings, possessiveness and overspending. You switch to high beams this weekend, when another zeros in and responds to your energy.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Sorry, my dear cat, but you peak early on in the week. When it's good, it is really great, and when things start going downhill mid-week ... well, it still isn't that bad. Once you bring home the bacon, you'll want to enjoy a little early T.G.I.F.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You start the week in low gear, but once you make that shift into high ... well, you're on a roll all week long. Be more aware of how extravagant you can be. Enjoy the lavish life, at least for a day or two.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Bingo! Everything falls into place easily this week. Or does it? Plans fall apart easily, but once you rebuild, it's on stronger ground. You fly into the weekend in great shape, ready to conquer the universe. All you need to do is smile and radiate.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Responsibility is key this week. If your work performance shines, you could be up for a promotion. Better yet, a member of the opposite sex could start winking at you. Try to put a little fun into your schedule.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Remember, there are no problems, only opportunities. You find yourself daring to break through barriers this week. Take this spirit into work, and discover your sleuthing approach is contagious. As a result, you get to celebrate long before the weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Negotiate exactly what it is you want from that special someone this week. One-to-one discussions that lead to intimate dinner chats might work. Otherwise, go bold and try the exotic approach. The good news is, you're on top of the world by the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Others dominate, and there's little you can do to change this. Make another's wish your command. Good behavior brings many goodies. The sky's the limit, so you gaze up to the stars and wish. Something or someone is making you very happy.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) If you think this is going to be a quiet work week, you've a big surprise coming. Invitations flood in, and it behooves you to take up another on at least one or two of these. Expect a mellow weekend, when you review recent happenings and decide on what's important in the long run.

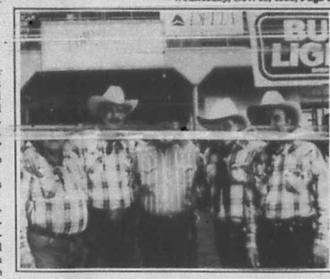
'Day at the Races' nets bucks for Spirit group

Groucho and Harpo weren't there for this version of "A Day At The Races," but Friday, Nov. 13 the Spirit of Christmas Presents realized they were more than $2,000 better (no pun intended) off.

The fund-raising event, sponsored by Bandera Downs race horse owners, raised $2,111.62 for the Christmas dinners and gifts that are distributed annually to needy families in Bandera County, according to spokesman Reagan Peterson. The track donated two percent of the live handle for Friday, Nov. 13.



Representing Bandera and the entire state of Texas, the Spirit of Texas Cowboy Band appeared at the fourth Western Music Festival, presented by the Western Music Association in Tucson Ariz. Nov. 12-15. The local band was on the program with the "best of the west" including Rex Allen, Riders in the Sky, and Sons of the San Joaquin. "Spirit" will begin recording their second record this week, and they are negotiating a contract with Silver Dollar City in Branson, Mo. Feb. 19 the group is scheduled to appear in Dallas at a Variety Club Dinner with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. From left, are Spirit of Texas members Cal Berry and Rudy Robbins, Red Steagall, and group members Ray Tate and Roger Helnen.

The second part of the program was presented by Mr. Harvey Rogers, an accomplished singer and musician, who sang a number of beautiful hymns.

The next meeting of the Fine Arts Club will be the Christmas part held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Adams in Medina at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 1, 1992.

'Fast for a World Harvest' event Thursday

Hunger relief effort will be held at St. Stanislaus Catholic Church

How can it be that as Thanksgiving approaches, and people plan sumptuous feasts, there are millions of people in our world starving?

Participants will learn about the major causes of hunger as well as exploring ways that hunger can be ended, at a "World Hunger Supper" Thursday, Nov. 19 starting at 7 p.m. at St. Stanislaus Hall.

The event, called "Oxfam America," is sponsored by area churches and the Social Concerns Committee of St. Stanislaus Catholic Church.

According to the Oxfam organization, major causes of hunger include:

- The expansion of export agriculture and commercial farming;
- Government policies and aid programs that increase dependency;
- The debt crisis and the failure of structural adjustment;
- Ethnic, religious and sex discrimination;
- Militarization and war; and
- Environmental crises.

Churches participating in the event locally include St. Stanislaus Catholic, Bandera United Methodist, St. Christopher's Episcopal, Grace Lutheran, First Baptist and Pipe Creek Presbyterian Churches.

"Oxfam America is a nonprofit international agency that works with poor people in Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean and — beginning this winter, here in the United States," Helen Bayliss explains.

"Oxfam America also provides relief assistance when disaster strikes, and works to educate the American public about hunger and development issues. " she says.

The name "Oxfam" comes from the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief, founded in England in 1942. The international family of Oxfams celebrates its 50th anniversary this year, in 1970.

The menu for the World Hunger Supper will be rice and beans, and Bayliss says that the message of the event is very clear: "We can do something about world hunger." Those attending the meal will be asked would normally spend to dine out.

Benyon, Graves united in marriage

Annette Renee Beynon and John Studer (Trev) Graves III were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony at Hyde Park Baptist Church in Austin. Dr. Ralph Smith officiated for the August 8 event.

The bride is the daughter of Frank and Carolyn Beynon of Austin. The groom is a Bandera High School graduate and is the son of John and Carol Graves of Concan (formerly of Pipe Creek).

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown by Bianchi, with a sculptured bodice of alencon lace highlighted with pearls. The dress featured an open portrait neckline with off-shoulder embroidered lace sleeves. The chapel length train was bordered with lace and pearls. Her headpiece was of pearls, rosebuds and lace with a full length veil edged in pearls.

The bridesmaids and flower girls wore vibrant floral patterned tea-length dresses of polished chintz with sculptured collars and full skirts.

The maid of honor was Andrea Beynon, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids, all from Austin, were Laura Adams, Debra Beggott, Anna Patterson, Vanderlyn Schmid, and Sharon and Kathleen Beynon, both cousins of the bride. Flower girls were Danna and Emily Korbell of Houston, cousins of the groom. Brooke Korbell, also a cousin of the groom, presented wedding programs to the guests before the ceremony.

The best man was Neal Graves of Austin, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mark Coffey of Lubbock, Lonnie Bain and Ronald Caloss, Jr. of San Antonio, Wade Barefield of Austin, Scott Kelley of Corpus Christi, and Lt. Wayne Peck of El Paso. Ushers were the bride's cousins, Martin and Murray Miller of San Antonio and Morris Miller of Fort Worth, and the groom's cousin, Browder Graves of Uvalde.

Music for the ceremony was provided by soloists Jon Lemmond and Amy Hines and by Owen Griffin, organist, all of Austin.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the church, with piano music provided by Owen Griffin.

The house party included Jana Cotten, Melissa Pace, Jennifer Godfrey, and Jamie McCormack.

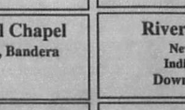
THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Casting For Men's Souls

"And Jesus said to them, 'Follow me and I will make you become fishers of men'."

— Mark 1:17



Simon and Andrew were fishermen on the Sea of Galilee when Jesus bade them join His fellowship. As fishermen, they, like all who cast their nets upon the waters whether for profit or pleasure, knew the value of bait to attract the quarry to their lines or nets. Jesus, too, recognized that He had to attract converts to His following. Yet His methods employed no brightly colored and deceptive lures; rather, He held before His audiences the shining truth about God and His love and the gains to be made by following His laws. Just as many fish will reject a false lure no matter how bright, so too will many men turn from the obviously deceptive. Those were the souls that Jesus and His followers cast for with honesty and love.

By Bungy

Sheriff Steve (the Fiddlin' Sheriff of Bandera County) Forest's retirement party was a wonderful example of an example of the "Old" Texas, and I dearly hope it lasts during my time, at least! All his friends [illegible] ready to enjoy this wingding with him. "The Sheriff's Posse" band played and played and the dancers swirled and twirled to Westfalia Waltz, Cotton-Eyed Joe and Put Your Little Foot. Dr. Meador even led a cha-cha. [illegible] the entire room stood up and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow!" We hope he doesn't retire too far back into the cedar breaks but still remains highly visible around the county! Great goin', Steve!

Not to change the subject! But, you all know how hard we try to create tourism as a business for Bandera. Well, North Korea is trying this, too, but they're having a little difficulty, as only martial music is played on the radio and everyone wears uniforms. One of their slogans is, "Come to Korea and play golf"! They have ONE golf course in the whole country. Heck, Bandera has two within five minutes of each other! We got them all beat to pieces.

Thanksgiving is right around the corner and so I called around to find out who had traditional Thanksgiving buffets for those who would rather not cook! The Wrangler has one at $7.95; Econolodge's is $ 8.95; River Oak's is $9.95; and Lost Valley's buffet, including champagne, is $12.95.

Also, for visiting relative and friends, there's the Apple Orchard Tour at 10 a.m. Saturday; our world-famous Frontier Times Museum; a historical tour of the town square at 10 a.m. Friday (given by yours truly!); horse racing; horseback riding for the public at the Runnin' R, Luna Creek and Lightning Ranch; dances at the Silver Dollar and Bella Union; and call the Dude Ranches to see what kind of activities you can get reservations for. Peggy Huffman is teaching line dancing all day Friday (Nov. 27) at the Bella Union Saloon at Lost Valley Ghost Town. They are making a video on "How to line dance" and you're all invited! Just stop in. I'm sure I've missed bunches of stuff, so call the Chamber and ask!

Most area churches will be holding special Thanksgiving services, too. We have so much to be grateful for in this grand country of ours—for beautiful Bandera, especially!

Oh! Jerry Jeff Walker will be filming a video at the Guadalupe State Park in Kerrville this Sunday! All are invited.

St. Victor's turkey dinner fed more than 600 folks

The St. Victor's Catholic Chapel nearly sold out of turkey dinners at their annual Hunter's Supper Nov. 7.

Church members sold 567 adult plates, sold 58 children's plates and delivered 14 plates to shut-ins, reports church spokeswoman Cecelia Hartmann.

The response was so tremendous that the fellowship hall at the church stayed full for 3 1/2 hours. "It was good weather (that helped the turn out)," Hartmann said. "It was cold and dry — no rain.

"We were packed the whole time."

"They were standing in line until 7 p.m.," said chairwoman Nell Flores.

This year they baked 30 turkeys, which is five more than last year.

"We served everyone who came," said Flores. They only had two cups of turkey left. "We couldn't have gotten any closer."

Department of transportation announces new ice on bridge sign policy change

Charles H. Georg, Bandera Roadway maintenance supervisor informs the general public of a new policy on the "ice on bridge" signs taking place on Nov. 24.

In the past the department recommended the "watch for ice on bridge" and "ice on bridge" signs be displayed prior to and during expected inclement weather conditions of ice, snow and/or extreme cold temperatures.

After the inclement weather passed, the signs would be removed from view. This method required district and/or section personnel traveling to and from the sign locations at irregular intervals throughout the cold weather season. With the shortage of personnel in most maintenance sections, this causes great difficulty in having enough people to get chat tracks on the road as soon as possible during ice conditions. Working in conjunction with the Attorney General's office, it was recommended that a more uniform method of displaying the signs and standardized documentation of the dates and time of work be developed.

The dates "watch for ice on bridge" signs are to be displayed in the Bandera, Bexar and Medina Counties is Nov. 24. The removed-from-view dates are March 23 for Bandera and Medina counties and March 8 for Bexar County. Work will be scheduled so that signs are usually displayed no more thank 10 calendar days in advance of the recommended display dates, and removed within 10 calendar days of the recommended remove-from-view dates. The dates were obtained using the State Climatologist's map of expected first and last date of freezing weather, with a safety factor of

Bud Ciarlo

Bill and Margaret Holmes have just returned to their river front home at Wharton's Dock after a very enjoyable visit with Bill's sister Betty and her husband Lane Lewis in Arlington, Texas. Most of the time was spent just visiting but they did manage to get in a lot of time playing "42" dominos. On Sunday, Nov. 8, Bill's brother Joe and Charlene Holmes, who live in DaSoto, Texas, had everyone over to their home for a barbecue and to watch the Cowboys beat Detroit. There were 22 family member there, all Cowboy supporters.

Coyla Hewitt, sister-in-law of Betty and Bud Ciarlo, is visiting for a few days. Coyla arrived on Tuesday, Nov. 10 from Houston, where she had been attending the International Quilt Festival, also known as the World's Fair of Quilts. There were 95 nationally- and internationally-known instructors offering classes during the five-day festival. Coyla attended as many classes as time would permit. There were over 450 quilts, jackets and wall hangings on display, made by the finest quilters from all over the world. On Saturday, Nov. 14, Betty and Bud drove Coyla up to Austin where she was going to spend a few days with friends who served with Jim Hewitt, Betty's brother, in the Air Force during World War II and the Berlin air lift. Coyla returned to her home in Yuba, Calif. on Tuesday.

Walker Memorial Baptist Church hosted two missionaries from Zambia this last Sunday. Dr. Delo Brown and wife, Wanda are SBC agricultural missionaries in Petauka, Zambia. Through research on existing crops and introduction of new varieties of grains and fruits, they seek to improve the nutrition of the people they serve and at the same time share God's love in Christ with them. The Browns are part of several dozen missionaries involved in a World Missions Conference of the Medina River Baptist Association. They showed slides and artifacts from their field and then joined in the fellowship dinner at WMBC.

The Browns are natives of Louisiana and Dr. Brown is a graduate of L.S.U. They have three children living here in the U.S. and will be retiring after their next term of service. Everyone had an enjoyable and informative time with these special guests.

From Nov. 15-18, over 20 missionaries will be spending time in many Hill Country Baptist churches educating people about what the missionaries do.

Christopher Dugosh goes to Houston area gathering

Christopher Dugosh, age 7, son of Richard and Mel Dugosh of Pipe Creek travelled to Manvel, west of Houston, on Nov. 7 to attend the first one Cornelia de Lange Syndrome gathering of families in Texas.

Over 20 Texas and Louisiana children affect with CdLS and their families attended the barbecue dinner donated by Kroger Food Stores, Inc.

Cornelia de Lange Syndrome is a rare birth defect causing babies to be of low birth weight and develop at a slower rate both mentally and physically than other children.

Although a cause has not yet been discovered, dedicated medical professionals are presently involved in valuable research. Local regional activities also are helpful and have a positive and productive impact on the lives and experiences of CdLS children and their families.

A leading advocate and active voice in offering parental and family support while increasing public awareness about CdLS, the Cornelia de Lange Syndrome Foundation, Inc., is a nonprofit international organization founded by concerned parents of children with this syndrome. Its mission includes sponsoring research, ensuring early diagnosis and helping families, friend and professionals make appropriate plans for the present and future life of this population.

Mel Dugosh, regional coordinator for the Cornelia de Lange Syndrome Foundation for Texas and New Mexico, has announced that with the generous help of volunteers in the Medina Lake area, the next regional gathering will be held in the late summer of 1993 in Lakehills.

Joint city-county effort results in arrest of man

City Police Officer Gary Galland responded to a burglary call on Saturday, Nov. 14 at Hill Crafter's Furniture and requested assistance from Deputy Popham at the Sheriff's Department. The joint City-County law enforcement effort ended in the arrest of a suspect, Jason Beisenbach, 21, of Bandera, and the recovery of stolen merchandise from two separate burglaries.

When Galland and Popham began to investigate the break in at Hillcrafters, they had reason to believe a Bandera resident was responsible. They called in Lt. Lynn Holt. Holt obtained permission from City Police Chief Walter Welsh to accompany Police Officer Galland to the suspect's house.

Officers found Jason Beisenback at the Log Apartments. They also found allegedly stolen furniture from Hillcrafters. When Welsh arrived on the scene, he identified buckles and clothing which had allegedly been stolen from The Trading Post in an earlier burglary. Both burglaries took place in early morning hours. A window was broken at the Trading Post. Entry into Hillcrafter's was from a door forced open with a tire tool.

Officers obtained a search warrant and recovered additional stolen items. All of the furniture taken from Hillcrafter's was recovered. Between 80 and 90 percent of the merchandise stolen from the Trading Post was also recovered.

Other news items from the Sheriff's Department for the week of Nov. 8-14 include the following DWI arrests: Bruce Finkbeiner of Lakehills and Troy Konvicka of Pipe Creek.

William Lawson, of Pipe Creek, was taken into custody after he twice resisted arrest; once escaped from a Sheriff's Department deputy, and stole a pair of handcuffs during an escape attempt. He now faces a number of serious charges.

Lawson's problems began at a "loud party" in Pebble Beach, number one. Residents complained of juveniles drinking, playing loud music, and urinating on the roof of a house. Lawson left before Sheriff Department Deputy Don Rastetter arrived, but was confronted at the Lakehills Log House and arrested. He fled and was taken into custody at the Bella Union on Saturday after again resisting arrest.

WILL

Longing to revisit my boyhood days, I parked in a cypress shade.
The tide of nostalgia receded into a state of reverie.
Propelled by the mystic powers, of which all dreams are made,
I entered the land of never-never, my peace of mind to set me free.

My tranquility was soon invaded, as I sensed I was not alone.
It was evident the approaching figure emerged from an era long ago.
The warmth of his smile was soothing and my anxiety soon was gone.
A gray lock of hair neath hat atilt were traits that I should know.

He made it known he wanted to chat, said he'd been gone for quite awhile.
I lowered the gate on my old truck and asked him to sit a spell.
Enthralled by his fluent manner, I was enslaved by his folksy style.
Alas, for the moment he sought to hear any news that I could tell.

It was obvious by the questions he asked he had truly been out of touch.
He wanted to know about the President, is Mister Roosevelt doing okay?
His smile disappeared with my answer, I wondered why he cared so much.
This up-to-now incessant orator, could find no words to say.

Indeed he was visibly shaken as I crudely interrupted the pause.
He pulled us together in the war I said, and drew his puzzled look.
World War Two I was quick to add, Mister Truman took up the cause.
He used this terrible bomb we had to promptly close the book.

By now I wanted to recant each dimwitted word, for the way it made him feel.
He insisted that I continue, so I stumbled along in my haphazard way.
Hoping to find a more pleasant subject, certainly one with more appeal.
If only I could get him talking again, there must be something I can say.

To effect some sort of identity, I said you remember the depression I'll bet.
Would you believe that era is reference to what we call the good old days?
In addition to a dismal economy, we have this obscene mountain of debt.
There is no shortage of those who would fix it, each in their own selfish ways.

Well, that one seemed to set him off, and to start him talking again.
Heck! I can fix that real quick he said, typing the truth is my forte.
That sent me back to years ago and to the things that happened then.
I'll warm up my old Underwood he said, and there'll soon be hell to pay.

I had to tell him how things are different, with a new kind of media I said.
They've got this moving picture tube now, complete with color and voice.
They use it to wash our brains with hype, and no matter who comes out ahead.
They tell us we're a brilliant electorate and we made an excellent choice.

Yeah, I should have known he said, ol' Wiley said it would be this way.
He never was too serious 'bout things, but he's really quite a guy.
Even when I said I wanted to come visit, he said I wouldn't stay.
You'd be surprised the things he can see, even with just one eye.

Well, I guess I'll get back now, I miss ol' Wiley's homespun tomfoolery.
He repeated a phrase I had heard so often back when I was just a tyke.
Then it all came rushing back, something he said that jogged my memory.
As he rose to leave I heard him say; "I never met a man I didn't like."

Yeah! Sure, I remember now, it's all plain as black and white.
I spun to tell him how I remembered, and it's a mystery to me still.
My eyes sharply scanned the area but he was nowhere in my sight.
A hollow echo returned my call, I know your name, it's W-Will, WILL!...Will?

He is his own worst enemy." Ever heard this said about someone? Of course you have.
Self respect is a necessary ingredient of living a happy and successful life. Without it we surely become our own worst enemies. We can be blessed with great wealth, both monetary and aesthetic, but they are only empty encumbrances without self-respect. Deep in our hearts we must be honest with ourselves. We must ask if we are secure and sincere in our worth as a responsible individual.
We like Norman Vincent Peale's three dynamic principles for beating defeat. The perception principle means to take a good look at yourself, seeing what you really are. Self-perception and self-examination lead to recognition of your short-comings so that you can correct them...The second principle is the application of persistence or perseverance. It's a fact that many people are defeated for only one basic reason, they simply give up. They don't go on. Persistence is one of the most important qualities in overcoming defeat...Third is the power principle. Strength and vigor and dynamic life come through positive faith.

He got a perfect score on the SAT math exam

Bandera High School senior Lee Jenkins scored a perfect 800 on the Math portion of the SAT test. Principal Richard Delamain said that, to his knowledge, the perfect score was an all-time school record.

Jenkins scored 800 out of a possible 800 in the math section of the SAT test, and 610 out of a possible 800 in the verbal. A news release said that Jenkins had done the '(nearly) impossible' in achieving the 800 score. Statistically, only 1,326 out of every million seniors who write the math test make a perfect score. That is less than one-tenth of one percent. Additionally, his total College Board score of 1410 places him at the 99th percentile on the comparative scale associated with this college entrance exam.

He plans to attend the University of Texas when he graduates from Bandera High School.

"I plan to go into engineering since math is my strongest subject. I've done well on math every since I can remember," Jenkins said. He has attended Bandera High School since the 6th grade.

Jenkins lives with parents of his friends, Larry and Jerri Upton. But he said family support has helped him excell in school. "My family has always encouraged me. They've always been positive, especially my brothers."

Peer pressure is no problem for Jenkins. He said he is not tempted to become involved with drugs of alcohol. "I don't think anyone would even approach me. They don't know me, but they've heard of me. They know that I'm in school to get an education. That's my priority. I think the drug problem is a self-esteem problem for most kids. They would do almost anything to get accepted. I've learned to mainly rely on what I think of myself. I don't worry about what others think."

Acceptance at the university of his choice will likely not be a problem for Jenkins who has applied for scholarships and expects to get them. "I think I have a pretty good chance."

Jenkins has already been awarded a UIL scholarship in math and science which will get him into any accredited school in Texas. He won in the state UIL number sense and calculator and calculator team competition when he was a sopohmore. He won in the UIL individual calculator competition again as a junior. He has also been active in sports, playing tennis and basketball.

"I'm very competitive," Jenkins admits. "I hate to lose at anything- even checkers. I like to win."

Winning comes easy to Jenkins. He has recently learned that he is one of only one-hundred high honor seniors in contention for the prestigious Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation Scholarship.

Cathy Carmona

Bandera's post office has a brand new boss

Cathy Carmona is competing for the job of Postmaster at the Bandera branch of the United Postal Service. She is now the postal representative and the one trained and willing to handle questions and solve problems for postal customers.

"I love Bandera. It's beautiful and organic and healthy and the people are friendly. It's a great place. I would just like postal customers to know to come forward with any kind of question or problem. I want to hear from them. Their concerns are my concerns."

Carmona has been with the postal service for 11 years and has been a Communications Specialist for the San Antonio division for the past two years. She commutes from San Antonio to Bandera but her family will "definately" move to Bandera if she is appointed Postmaster.

Cathy and Robert Carmona have two children; Robert, 8, and Erica, 2.

October burglary takes a violent turn when school bus attack occurs

An October burglary took a violent turn this week when one of the juveniles allegedly involved in the crime retaliated against another allegedly involved while in transport from the Junior High School on a school bus. The incident resulted in bodily injury to the victim and a 3rd degree felony charge against the attacker.

When Lakehills Constable Ernest Reich received information that a habitation had been burglarized, he contacted Bandera County Sheriff's Deputy Popham, who in turn notified Lt. Lynn Holt. Working together, the trio of law enforcement officers arrested three juveniles for burglary and one juvenile for criminal trespass.

Approximately half of the stolen property was recovered.

The old case took a new turn on Nov. 14, when one juvenile allegedly involved in the burglary assulted another allegedly involved. The incident occurred after the victim of the attack had made a full confession in the case.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Contel of Texas, Inc. has filed an amendment to its application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas for approval of its Universal Emergency Number Service 9-1-1 tariff. The proposed tariff establishes rules, regulations and rates including the provisioning the B9-1-1, C9-1-1, and E9-1-1 services; optional services, such as Selective Routing and Data Base Administration; additional services, such as Forced Disconnect, Called Party Hold, Emergency Ringback; Switched Access System; and Public Safety Answering Point Equipment.

Customers affected are either 9-1-1 districts or councils of government with 9-1-1 responsibilities. The application does not propose changes to emergency fees charged to end-user customers.

Twenty-three customers would be affected by the Universal Emergency Number 9-1-1 tariff, which would increase annual revenues by $10,107,12, a 2.92% increase in the revenues generated by the contract rates of the current customers. Customers will have the option, however, of continuing the rates under their contract for up to one 12-month renewal term.

The deadline to intervene in this proceeding is December 24, 1992. Correspondence or any other communication regarding this matter should reference Docket No. 10929.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this proceeding should notify the Commission. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Information Division of the Public Utility Commission at (512) 458-0246 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON --A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of the product called Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 212 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Bone marrow transplants increase

In the last decade, the number of bone marrow transplants increased dramatically, from fewer than 400 in 1979 to more than 5,500 performed annually worldwide in 1992. More than 70 percent of these transplants were for patients suffering from cases of leukemia which were resistant to chemotherapy and other forms of treatment.

According to the Leukemia Society of America's South/West Chapter, the outlook for transplant recipients is increasing hopeful because of the many new advances made in the prevention of transplant complications.

Passem Moon Deck wins futurity

Jockey Tami Purcell rides the quarterhorse to victory

By James Henry Frazar
Bulletin Correspondent

Passem Moon Deck will be listed with the likes of Whirling Fastball, Miss Marthas Stuff, El Mujerero, Barbs Bounce, Kisses To Yawl, and Shy Gringo, as a winner of the Bandera Downs Futurity — the star of the fall quarter horse racing program at Bandera Downs.

And the name of the jockey written down in the record book is Tami Purcell of Orange, the all-time leading female quarter horse rider in the country.

Sunday she rode the 2-year-old gelding to a win by an impressive 1-1/4 lengths in the 350-yard sprint with a time of 18.01 seconds for the winner's share ($28,630) of the total $81,880 purse. The woman-gelding pair ran away with the race at the end. "He's stronger on the end of his race," said Purcell.

Passem Man Deck has had seven races, none really impressive. "Earlier in his career, he wasn't a speed demon out of the gates. He's used to coming on late," said Purcell.

But Passem Moon Deck is better at the key event in a quarter horse race now. "He's growing up and figured it out."

"He's still just a baby. He's just had a few outs," said owner Charlene Matlock of Houston.

Passem Moon Deck underwent surgery in the spring to remove bone chips after three races, "We gave him time for his legs to heal," said Matlock.

"We couldn't get him in an overnight (handicapped race) at Delta, so we paid the late penalty here (to get him into the futurity)."

"We'll go anywhere the money is."

This year's edition of the futurity carried a purse about half of last year's $160,520. But then, the added money for the Grade III event was half — $25,000 in 1992 instead of $50,000 in 1991.

In other racing action Sunday, Arctic Chere won the $6,280 Next Generation Futurity for 2-year-old thoroughbreds. Arctic Chere, ridden by jockey Stu Dolphus, was the early leader in the 6-furlong thoroughbred sprint, was ahead by 3 lengths in the turn, 4 lengths at the top of the stretch and won by 6 1/4 lengths.

Also Sunday, Raise A Govenor came to smoke 'em again. The 6-year-old horse won his fourth of four races at Bandera — this time a 6-furlong $2,500 allowance. Raise A Govenor holds one track record at Bandera (May 2, 1992 for 6 furlongs) and his best win this year was the $30,000 Cajun Stakes at Louisiana Downs Oct. 25.

In other racing news, apprentice jockey April Lokey is reported to have no broken bones after being thrown from her horse in the second race Sunday. Uncle Will, ridden by jockey J.T. Cahanin, slowed in the stretch of the 5-furlong race because the horse suddenly had difficulty running, and as Uncle Will slowed, Lokey's Pippali ran into the back of Uncle Will. Lokey was thrown from the horse and tumbled head over heels on the track surface. She was taken to medical care by ambulance.

In Saturday's racing action, Bandera Downs race fans saw a real class horse — K A Czubuthan — run in the longest pari-mutuel Arabian race ever held in Texas, the $4,050 1 1/16-mile Nora Wilson Memorial.

The 8-year-old horse went off as the 4-5 favorite and deservedly so. The horse, ridden by jockey Tad Leggett, took to the early lead and never let go. The horse was eight lengths ahead in the back stretch and just kept increasing the lead on the other seven horses in the race and finished ahead of the other horses by 19 1/2 lengths at the finish line.

K A Czubuthan's trainer, Robert Knight, was moving horses from California to Florida and stopped in at Bandera Downs on the suggestion of some of the Texas horsewomen he trains for.

Knight has trained nine world champion Arabian horses since he started working with the Arabian six years ago.

And K A Czubuthan is no slacker either. "This horse was the leading older (Arabian) horse in the nation until about a month ago," said Knight. "He always gives his best when he runs. He's always been a champion to me."

'Oil Finders,' book edited by Bandera man, fills in some of the blanks about petroleum

By Larry T. Williams
Bulletin Staff Writer

In our hurry-hurry work-a-day world, as we are driven by a RIGHT NOW attitude and chauffeured about in an iron and plastic, gasoline guzzling monster, some of us may lose track of what it takes to keep our pace of life running at full tilt.

Even in the laid-back society of Bandera, we still expect a room to be lighted at the flip of a switch and fuel for that monster to come pouring fourth at the squeeze of a nozzle. We almost never give thought to, much less marvel at the mass of collective knowledge gathered by hundreds of people covering hundreds of thousands of square miles over a long span of years that makes all our expected convenience happen.

Such is the case with oil. The primary source of motive power in the world.

"The Oil Finders", edited by Bandera County's Allen Hatley, Jr. will fill in some of the blanks for those folks interested in how the vast sources of petroleum around the globe were discovered.

According to Hatley, the soft bound book which is published by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, is a collection of first hand accounts and stories combining travel, action, adventure, science and political intrigue, written by a group of geologists whose persistence and daring resulted in the most significant oil and gas discoveries of the last 25 years.

"The Oil Finders" will take the reader on foot over a thousand miles of West Africa, through Turkey, into the Libyan desert and on beyond. He will share the cold and discomfort of the crews who explored the off shore fields of the North Sea and swelter with the finders who slogged through the swamp lands of Indonesia and the jungles of South America.

The stories are written by the men who were there and experienced the events that are related in tales that include snake bites, with doctors and encounters with lions as well as an insight to the political overtones (and undertones) that shaped the oil boom of the 1960s-80s.

The text is supported by a number of well composed and exposed photographs which give the reader a view into the exotic areas the finders visited as they searched for black gold.

Allen Hatley, Jr. who lives in Utopia and is now the newly elected constable of Bandera County Precinct 4 spent 20 years working in various facets of the petroleum industry. A list of some of his oil company employers includes Humble (now Exxon), Cities Service, Standard-Vacuum, Cabeen and the Western Co.

He has a B.S. degree and a M.S. degree in geology from Texas Tech University and has done exploration of his own including the first discovery of commercial amounts of oil and gas in the Philippines.

"The Oil Finders" is available by contacting the American Association of Petroleum Geologists at P.O. Box 979, Tulsa, Okla. 74101. The cost is $15 to members and $18 for non-members.
