HYSTERECTOMY,

Tubal, Ovarian Surgery,

or other gynecological surgery?
WE ARE HAPPY TO ANNOUNCE THAT MOST

OF THESE PROCEDURES CAN NOW BE

DONE THROUGH A LAPAROSCOPE!

In fact, Laparoscopically-Assisted Vaginal Hysterectomy (LAVH) can now be done in most cases through three, five millimeter incisions (about 376th inch). Surgery through these tiny incisions has several advantages:

1) much less recovery time — many patients are back to work within two weeks;
2) less blood loss;
3) less postoperative pain;
4) less scarring – imagine 3 tiny scars instead of

MEDINA BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL

Wednesday

October 14, 1998

The community of Medina grew on Sat., Oct. 10 with the arrival of hundreds of music fans for the Medina Bluegrass Festival and Antique Tractor and Gas Bringerass Festival and Antique Tractor and Gas Engine Show. The event featured some of the best in Texas entertainers which included the Waller Family. The Ledbetters, Star Canyon, Caliche Hill, the Lone Star Players and others. Antique tractors were on dis-play and Scott MacNaughton led their parade through downtown.

There was plenty to do for everyone from food booths to arts and crafts. Most just sat in the shade of a pleasant autumn day and enjoyed the excellent music and entertainment. The event was sponsored by the Medina Texas Development Corporation and is held annually on the banks of the beautiful Medina River in the 100-year-old pecan orchard.

Merchants also lined the streets of Medina for the 10th Annual Community Wide Garage Sale. Shoppers browsed through the selection of antiques, collectibles and food on their way to and from the Bluegrass Festival.

Republican Randy Leifeste and George Bush have a plan to CUT YOUR TAXES!

As a county commissioner, Randy Leifeste cut taxes for the people of Llano.

With the state projected to have a multi-billion dollar surplus, it is more important than ever to send conservative leaders to Austin to return that surplus to Texas taxpayers, not-spend it on more government programs and bigger bureaucracy.

Together, Randy Leifeste and Governor Bush will cut your taxes including:

- ★ A $2 billion property tax cut.
- ★ A $400 million sales tax cut.
- * A $35 million small business tax cut.

Partor Roy's SERMON IN A NUTSHELL

When Jesus was resurrected from the dead and ascended unto Heaven to be with door the Father, God began a new agreement who have not received Jesus into their heart to be the Lord over their lives, and have not repented (turned away) from their sins and asked Jesus to forgive them of their sins, are still under the old agreement, or Old Testament. This means these people cannot go to which has you are involved with a religion or church which has you are involved with a religion or church which has you are involved with a religion or church which has you are involved with a religion.

Agritech Partnership unveils strategic plan

by Lew K. Cohn

A new partnership created to assist agricultural communities in a 100-mile vide curridor stretching frum the Panhandie to Corpus Christi has developed a strategic plan that could help boost the economy of Bandera County.

Ben Shepperd, director of the Office of Rural Affairs for the Texas Department of Economic Development, and state Rep. Bob Turner, D. Voss, unveiled the plan for the Texas Agritech Corridor Partnership during an an analysis of the Strategic Corridor Strategic County.

The plan was designed to help communities in the corridor to develop products, attract out-of-state industry and provide technical expertise in the development of processing plants, asid Shepperd.

"We're trying to identify local opportunities for economic development," Shepperd said. "One of See Agritech, page 3A

There you go gain.
You, in the 1982 Ram dually, towing the "Rent Me-For $25-a-Day" trailer that's stuffed to the gills with flapping, flattened slabs of corrugated cardboard, or rapidly defoliating tree trimmings, or precariously tied-down garage sale treasures.
Sometimes you're driving to bingo in that late-model four-door Buick, four pastel-hued trinse-and-set hairdos barely peeking out, one above each plush seat.

I have maintained a relatively low profile during this campaign, mainly by not attending commissioners meetings. Since I am a pretty vocal 'fella, I did not want to make the court a political battlefield. The issues at hand are not of PARTY nor POLITICS, they are real life day to day situations. Each of us pay the same tax valuation on our property, either wealthy or just a hard working family we still deserve equal solutions to our problems. I am really lived of trying to address my opponent in open court over road issues, it's a hair splitting ordeal, public roads, county roads, 1st Class or 2nd Class, then the number of people who reside on the road. When the discussion arises my opponent politely turns it over the the County Attorney who then sends a letter to the Attorney General and by then you're lost in the shuffle of paper work. This IS NOT our system working at it's best. This is the same Bureaucracy that we see on CNN at 6AM in the morning. Someone needs to stop it. I have a college degree, but believe me, life's experiences have given me my best education. The University of Experience has no Graduates, nor Drop Outs. My opponent listed her 4 main qualities, my Response is DEDICATED to what she wants, when she wants and for whom she wants. QUALI-FIED by inheritance. I do remember the late Bud Thompson who did a fantastic-job within the community, however I can not say the same for my opponent. EXPERI-ENCED was only by coincidence. CONSERVATIVE is by no means voting pay raises, tax increases etc. The roadways of the county dictate it's growth and safety. Better roads and property access generate more tax revenue and income to the entire community, thus in turn saving new tax increases as time goes by, resulting in maye development of rural areas, better school bus access and mail service. I realize more than just roads affect our county, we have many items to address. The total development and productivity of our community depends on adequate access for our families to go to and from Work, School, and

tremendous volunteers

From time to time we've mentioned the tremendous volunteer participation it takes to keep the Corral functioning in it's many services and activities. Needless to say, each of every volunteer is vital to our operation, but there are a few that go beyond the call of duty. Not only do they serve in their regular volunteer positions, but they step in when other volunteers are unable to be here. On the front deak, Mary Portman and Ruth Meador are two such people. While they are here, if desk duties are not too dutilding e., they go about the analyse of the office at meetings, times have to help out in the gift shop or kitchen as well.

I A couple of other ladies that Istand out in the crowd are Grace Stark, coordinator for Lakehills meals on wheels, and Juanitat Holleron, coordinator for Medina meals on wheels, Grace stapped into her position after her husband Delmar passed away last year. She wasn's sure she could handle the job, but with the support of her fellow drivers, she has done an excellent job—even taking charge of the maintenance on the meals on the county of the program.

Then there's Sylvia Saffell, who has served as president of the board for the majority of this year, manages our Girk Shop and carries on a continual effort sorting through the many items donated to the Corral, either for re-sale or for use by participants of the Corral.

We must also mention of Janie Amberson. Although Janie works part-time, she's always here early, usually leaves late.

Raging Bull strikes again!

Robert Lopez and company were back in Bandera on Saturday, Oct, 24 to film a commercial for ESPN at Buildog Stadium. Merly local residents played instrumental roles in the filming as actors and extras. The concept of the commercial was a mother hyping her son as the next "John Ehway" with cutaway sh. i. to the lidir running for his life from a thundering herd of botball players in front of a roaring crowd. The commercial will air this fall for Paragon Cable. Raging Buil shot a commercial in Bandera County for HBO in August, (Photos by Frank Shubert).

"Our practice is oriented toward the outpatient, non hospital-based, management of those painful conditions not readily controlled by traditional outpatient medical management."

The Following Common conditions are evaluated and successfully treated in our practice:

Spinal discomfort of any origin excluding only conditions requiring invasive or surgical procedures.

■ Muscle and facial pain usually associated with degenerative bone

■ Inflammatory muscular conditions - myofascial conditions - are Inflammatory muscular conditions - myofascial conditions - are easily treated by a number of modalities such as myofascial release techniques administered by James Hickey, RMT, including electrical stimulation which increases blood flow and stimulates regeneration of soft issue, and ultrasoundistimulation which relaxes spasmatic tissue and also increases circulation.

■ Joint Disease not requiring surgical or specialized orthopedic procedures.

Relief of extremity pain of essentially all origins.

■ Treatment of neurological inflammatory conditions, i.e, shingles etc.

We provide special emphasis on spinal pain, headaches, or other pain of long standing with no apparent medical answer. We have successfully treated several amazingly happy patients who prior to our treatment had "given up" to a life of suffering Headaches and associated conditions can be effectively treated by RMT, James Hickey's training in cranial decompression therapy through neuromuscular massage and pain palments medicalities.

A fine Fall weekend

Free of rain or cold weather, Bandera County enjoyed a perfect fall weekend on Oct. 24-25, as many residents got into the spirit of the season.

Love Creek Orchards' Great Pumpkin Patch was open for business and it was nice to see all the families who came out to have fun together, whether it was painting pumpkins, decorating scarecrows or just sitting and talking.

Or perhaps you went to the Lakeshore Volunteer Fire Department's annual Turkey Shoot. Shooters tested their skills by trying to hit their targets, with the top marksmen winning

It was also a great weekend to get away from it all, whether by camping out at one of the area state parks or simply having a barbecue outside in the backyard.

We hope you enjoy these photos from the Great Pumpkin Patch and the Turkey Shoot as much as you enjoyed your

Nobody will perform God's work unless everybody, somebody or anybody nitches in because we have been busy helping with the flood cleanup and the Tent meeting. So forgive me if I share something from my files.

Somebody gave me this years ago and told me to share it with Everybody and Anybody.

Fred Somebody, Thomas Everybody, Susan Anybody, and Joe Nobody were neighbors, but they were not like you and me. They were dold people and most difficient to understand. The way they lived was a shame. All four belonged to the same All four belonged to the same church, but you would not have enjoyed worshipping with them. Everybody when if shing on Sunday or stayed home to visit with friends.

Anybody wanted to worship. Once they needed a Sunday.

You probably know who finali You probably know who finally won him: Nobody! This little parable brings to focus again the fact that each of us is personally responsible for God's work.

If we leave it for somebody or everybody or anybody, nobody will do it.

Enjoy the chuckle and hear, the moral, but most of all respond to the call.

Dennis Thompson is president of the Bandera County Christian Fellowship and pastor of Bandera United Methodist Church.

Deer forecast looks good for Bandera County

AUSTIN — Recent rainfall across much of the state has given wildlife and habitat a much-welcomed reprieve from hot, dly conditions rivaling those of two years ago. The change in weather has also given state wildlife officials newfound optimism for the 1908-99 deer hunting season.

"We ve already had reports of, some good bucks being killed in South Tesas during the archery deer season," offered Butch Young, white-tailed deer program leader with Texas Parks and Wildlife (TFW). "The antiers we've observed during aerial and spotlight surveys are much better than what we were expecting. I'd say that late spring rain in March carried those deer through the antier growing season and helped despite all the dry weather that followed."

The general deer season opens Nov. 7 in North Texas and runs through Jan. 3 and in South Texas from Nov. 14 through Jan. 17. A special youth-only hunfing season weekend is scheduled statewide on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, during which only-licensed youth ages 16 and under, while accompanied by a supervising adult, will be allowed to harvest white-tailed deer, quail and Rio Grande turkey. General season bag limits for the county hunted will apply during the youth-only weekend and a $6 special resident hunting license is required.

"Because recruitment was so high last year, there are going to be a lot of yearling deer out there this year and hunters, especially in East Texas, need to be aware that many of those six and eight pointers are young deer," said Young. "Likewise, managers that have approved deer management plans that recommend lowering deer numbers this year need to do so. The youth hunting season is an excellent way to get does and spikes out of the herd."

Compared to previous years, very few changes in deer regulations were adopted by the Texas Parks and aflatoxins in deer corn and to st clear of unmarked bags of corn. See Forecast, page 5

Wildlife Commission. However, before heading to the field, hunters are urged to check the 1998-99 Texas Parks and Wildlife Outdoor Annual for county specific hunting regulations.

Hunters are also reminded that the dramatic weather conditions this year have also made conditions fipe for aflatoxins in deer corn and to stay clear of unmarked bags of corn.

"Aflatoxins may not be fatal to deer, but they can cause serious long-term damage to these animals and pose a serious threat to other wildlife, particularly birds," Young said.

Young indicated that range conditions are excellent around most of the state, but that could change with the weather.

In the Edwards Plateau, the region of the state having the most deer and the most deer hunters should once again provide a lot of opportunity this fall, according to Kerrville-based biologist Max Traweek.

"Considering all the early negatives about the drought, we're shining," offered Traweek. The habitat in the Hill Country, especially in the western part, is looking real green."

A fair crop of acoms and the availability of new fall forbs may make things tough during the early part of the season for hunters working food plots and feeders, although some reports indicate deer are coming to corn in isolated areas.

The deer are in fairly good shape," explained Traweek. "I wouldn't expect to seee outstanding antier production in the western portion of the Plateau because the rains came a little late for that. But, it's certainly not the doom and gloom that was being predicted."

In South Texas, despite the two tropical depressions that doused much of the region in August and September, the damage cannot be undone from the drought and extreme heat created during the previous six months.

"We've been hard stricken by the drought," noted Joe Herrera, TPW biologist based in Pleasanton. "Fawn producion is slightly below average, but those animals that survived are in very good shape because range conditions now are in good shape."

now are in good single.

As with most regions that experienced recent rainfall, South Texas got green in a hurry, which may cause problems for hunters. "Hunters may find it tough at the start of the season because deer are not going to move around."

 Herrera also suggests that while South Texas will likely continue to turn out some outstanding racks, the drought may mean some of the older age class bucks won't reach their full antier growth potential.

Bandera prepares for 36th Annual Hunters BBQ & Expo

Mounds of delicious barbecue with "all the trimmings", dancing to live country and western music, a Texassized auction, spectacular prize raffle drawings, "Fish-A-Rama," BB gun shooting gallery, and much more will be among the highlights of the world-famous 36th Annual Hunters Bar-B-Que & Outdoor Expo on Friday, Nov. 6 at Mansfield Park in Bandera, Texas, the "Cowboy Capital of the World."

1998 Hunters Guide

This year's festivities kick off with exhibits and fun at 2 p.m. Music and dancing by "Dusty Britches and the Rhythm Ranch Hands" begins at 4 p.m. with the barbecue dinner being served promptly at 5 p.m.

Needless to say, it has become Bandera County's social event of the

The Bandera County Hunters Barbecue began 36 years ago when a group of citizens and ranchers joined forces to prepare a meal to welcome the hunters to the area at the start of deer hunting season. The traditional celebration not only signals the opening of white-tail deer hunting season, but also welcomes hunters and visitors from all over to Bandera County and to the Texas Hill Country.

More than 350 volunteers join in the fun of making the event happen, and many will be doing their jobs for the 36th year! The "fired up" cooks arrive at 4 a.m. Friday, with their ammunition jokes, wise cracks and witticism ready for "cutting up" during the barbecue day. Again this year, lady cooks will be joining the seasoned group of entertaining chefs for an amusing day of camaladerie.

Sponsored by the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce, this hunting season eve celebration is expected to serve and entertain approximately 5,000 guests. After the barbecue. auction and raffle, which winds up around 9:30 p.m., the celebration continues with live entertainment and social gatherings for the festive crowds at many of the country-west ern night-spots in town.

A free Bandera County 1999 calendar, which highlights the Hill Country and surrounding area, will be given to the first 1,000 persons presenting meal tickets at the door.

Many will have the opportunity to test their fishing skills at "Fish-A-Rama" - a tank stocked with more than 500 freshwater trout, waiting to be snared and taken home by a lucky manship. Little pistol packers as well

Back by popular demand, the "Turkey Shoot" BB gun shooting gallery will be armed and ready for those who wish to test their marks-participants or to be returned to the as the young-at-heart will all get to take their best shot in a safe setting at this recreational game of accuracy.

Emphasizing more and more family oriented events is one of the goals of this year's barbecue. Look for more details coming soon.

How can the understanding the rut help you?

by Texas Parks and Wildlife

The following was based on three years of data collected by Wildlife Technicians and Biologists throughout Texas. Our goal is to get the information out to the hunters and landowners who assisted and helped fund the project. You may have seen parts of the article in outdoor magazines. This project was funded by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department through Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Project 95. W-127-R.)

The phenomenon known as "the rut? is the period when deer breed. People often ask biologists when the rut is going to occur.

It's a question biologists commonly hear in the fall. Many hunters want to make sure that they plan hunting vacations to include that magical time when bucks lose all caution and deer are moving

Can hunting the rut help? You bet. Anything that encourages bucks to move enhances the chance of seeing one. Buck deer, like most male mammals, seem to lose a lot of their natural caution when the scent of a receptive female is in the air.

One of the tips gained from this study is that rutting bucks can be found during most of the hunting season in many regions of the state.

Consistently successful hunters spend a lot of time in the field throughout the hunting season, not just during the peak of the rut.

Hunters and ranchers often encourage Texas Parks and Wildlife to move the season later to give deer a chance to breed.

The study showed that no matter when the rut occurred, the vast majority of does were bred. Individual ranch and deer herd management are much more important than timing of the hunting season.

The data will assist TPWD in determining whether the number of bucks in an area has an effect on breeding season length and success. There are many interacting factors which affect

The breeding study involved the examination of 2,436 does, the largest number of deer ever utilized in a Texas breeding study.

Feral hogs: an emerging species

Many landowners hate the thought of having feral hogs on their property because of the dotential for damage to crops, ranch facilities. livestock, and wildlife.

1998 Hunters Guide

But others view feral hogs as an emerging popular game species for Texas hunters

Since feral hogs are not considered wildlife by legal definition, no season or bay limit is set by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. As a result, feral hogs can be hunted all year, according to Dr. Billy Higginbotham of Overton, Extension wildlife specialist.

Since 1539 when Hernando tle Soto first introduced feral hogs to this country, and the mid-1600's when the LaSalle expedition brought feral hogs to the upper coast of Texas, the state's population has grown to an estimated 2 million head. About 18 other states also have feral hog populations. Worldwide, 23 subspecies of feral

A 1993 survey by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service indicated that hog hunters paid $25-$1,000, or an average of $169, per hog hunt.

Hunting is concentrated in the areas with the largest hog populations: the Pineywoods, Hill Country South Texas and the Rolling Plains.

Hog hunting is especially popular among bowhunters and black powder enthusiasts, although most hogs are taken with rifles of .25-caliber or

Although feral hogs may weigh more than 300 pounds, weights of 100 to 150 pounds are more common, he said.

A little knowledge about the biology and habits of feral hogs can help make hunters successful. Hogs are extremely intelligent animals with a keen sense of smell. Many deer hunters are amazed at how hard hogs can be to outwit.

Feral hog boars are solitary See Feral hogs, page 16

Females and their offspring travel in family groups called sounders, he

In general, hogs prefer moist areas in dense cover. During the cooler months, hogs are active during daylight but during the summer are mostly nocturnal. However, hunting pressure can result in a hog population that is rarely seen during the day, regardless of the season.

Hunters can enhance the odds for success by learning to identify hog signs. Wallows in wet areas indicate that hogs are in the vicinity. Hog rubs that leave mud against power line and fence posts or on trees are another tip-off. Hogs are creatures of habit, so places where they cross under fences can be located by looking for coarse hair left on the wire.

The most popular way to hunt hogs is from a stand near a corn feeder

Successful hunters should field dress feral hogs with the same techniques used for white-tailed deer.

However, plastic gloves should be worn during processing since at least one disease called swine brucellosis is carried by some wild hogs can be transmitted to humans.

The fun of hog hunting doesn't end with the kill. Prepared properly. feral hog makes excellent table fare. Hunters should challenge their

The truth is, successful rattling is mostly a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

That fact alone should encourage hunters who have tried and failed to rattle up bucks to try again and

With that in mind, let's run over some of the more common questions I hear deer hunters ask about rattling horns

Q: What should I look for in choosing a good set of rattling horns?

A: It doesn't matter. Assuming bucks of various sizes fight, then they must have antiers of various sizes. Nor does sound matter much. A

By Lee Leschper Dad didn't hunt.

1998 Hunters Guide

He didn't care about deer or ducks or quail

He didn't own but one single-shot Remington .22 rifle that he'd acquired as a youngster, probably more to shoot varmints in the chicken house than for any recreation.

Yet he was blessed (or cursed) with four sons who lived, breathed, ate and slept for nothing but hunting and fishing

Maybe it was because of family friends who gave us all their old copies of "Outdoor Life" and "Field & Stream." Maybe it was because we grew up in the heart of the Texas Hill Country, with deer in the front yard and a spring-fed creek just a quartermile out back. Maybe it was because Mom was a confirmed tomboy in her own right who'd grown up fishing with her older brother.

Dad took it all in stride, along with all the other challenges life threw him. As the single most unselfish person I've ever known, he'd go to almost any lengths to do what we

That included taking us fishing or camping on every vacation he ever took. It included spending hundreds of freezing hours with us in a deer stand, down on Granddad's old place in Austin County.

It was back in the days when there just weren't many deer in the Post Oak Savannah

When we were a little older and more trustworthy, it included Dad driving us to other hunting spots before dawn, then sleeping in the truck while we hunted.

I killed my first buck on Granddads' place at 16, hunting with brothers Larry and Lance.

I think it was something of a relief to Dad, because it meant I could both drive us to wherever we wanted to go, and could now be trusted more or less to hunt alone.

When I was 17, I applied for and was drawn for a public javelina hunt on the Chaparral Management Area in South Texas.

I'm still surprised Mom and Dad let me drive down, camp and hunt all weekend by myself, in some pretty wild country.

Even though I didn't tag a javelina, I saw dozens of giant whitetail bucks and all the other exotic wildlife that calls South Texas home.

It just whetted my appetite for the first of hundreds of solo adventures outdoors that would follow in the vears to come

Probably because I was so crazed to be outdoors. I pretty much missed the wildness of the '70s.

lust never found time to get into trouble because I was so busy hunting or fishing or planning. What's the point to this trip down memory lane?

That parents-even parents who don't hunt-can do few things better for their kids than introducing them to the outdoors and allowing them the freedom to fall in love with hunting and fishing.

And the State of Texas is working very hard to help, by adding a number of weekend seasons just for the kids at the Dairy Queens dressed in camo," said Kirby Brown, TPW youth hunting coordinator.

Back in my youth, we didn't get special seasons. And we had to beg, plead or sneak our way into hunting opportunities.

Unfortunately, today the higher cost of hunting leases is making it economically difficulty for most families to pay for hunting spots on a lease for Dad, Mom and the kids.

The Texas Wildlife Association is working to offset this trend, first by offering hundreds of privately-sponsored youth hunts, and second by encouraging landowners to allow youth hunters on hunting leases they

Rattling

Q: Should I blind up real good when rattling?

A: Another good idea, but don't blind up so tightly that you can't see a buck approaching. Just try to pick a brushy-spot that will hide you fairly well but still give you good visibility.

Q: When is the best time of day, and what are the best conditions, for rattling?

A: Any time may be good, but it's generally agreed that the best time is early morning on a clear, calm, cold day. The noise you make isn't driven by the wind and travels better in all directions. But you might be successful any time of day under any conditions. I recently lattled several times on a clear, calm morning and got no response. The next morning was windy and oversat and I rattled up 11 bucks on the same ranch.

Q: How long do you rattle each time and when do you gult?

A: Every hunter who rattles has his own idea of what's best. But remember this. When bucks fight, no one keeps time for them. A pattern I like is to rattle (and slam the ground and hit bushes and trees and make a loud commotion) for about two minutes, then quit and watch for about two or three minutes.

Then rattle again, for only about a minute, with less racket, and walt another two or three minutes. Then rattle just a few seconds, with no other noise, and walt another three or five minutes.

My thinking is if a buck didn't hear me the first time, he won't the second or third. Likewise, if he heard me the first time, and is on his way in, I don't want to overdo it...just give him enough the second and third rounds to keep him on course...

Hunters can control some factors of deer meat quality

Deer hunting provides many hours of outdoor recreation for Texans each year. Besides providing recreation, deer harvested also yield a huge resource in terms of table fare — venison.

1998 Hunters Guide

The potential yield runs in the neighborhood of 11 million pounds of boneless deer meat annually in the United States, said Dr. Don-Steinbach, Extension wildlife and fisheries specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Agricultural Extension Service.

Quality of venison is not determined solely by the culinary talents of the cook, he said.

"The entire process of handling the carcass from field to table can add or detract from the desirability of the final product."

"The hunter plays an important role in determining whether a deer steak is tender and tasty or tough and bad-flavored," says Steinbach, who is headquartered in College Station.

The hunter cannot control all factors which affect deer meat quality — for example, age of the animal harvested and the like.

But he or she can control other characteristics such as sex, timeliness of skinning and field-dressing, shot placement, and the age of the deer, "so treatments were designed to look only at those things which the hunter can control," Steinbach said.

A taste panel test, conducted at Texas A&M University, judged venison on the flavor intensity and desirability, juiciness, tenderness and overall satisfaction with the meat. Steinbach said.

"Only fram and backstrap muscles, were used for testing and each sample was cooked to uniform internal temperature.

"At no time did panel members know what sample or samples they were eyaluating. The panel rated each sample on the basis of flavor intensity, flavor desirability, juiciness, tenderness and overall satisfaction," he said.

Based on evaluations by the panel, the following general recommendations can be made for Texas conditions, says Steinbach.

* Whenever a choice is available, select a female animal for less flavor intensity (gaminess). This does not mean that male animals provide undesirable meat but rather that most consumers may prefer the less intense flavor of the female.

* Whenever possible, place the shot in the neck or head to insure a clean, rapid kill. This prevents postshot stress and also reduces tissue damage considerably.

* Field-dress the animal as soon as possible. If contents of the intestine or paunch have been spilled the carcass should be rinsed with water.

If weather permits, leaving the skin on the carcass will help conserve

However, a little common sense dictates that carcasses should be skinned and covered with a fly proo bag in hot weather if a cooler is not accessible.

Also, a male in the rut-may have a strong urine odor on the hind legs and probably should be skinned prior to storage.

* If the family prefers a somewhat more intense flavor which is similar to aged beef, the carcass may be hung in a locker for about a week before final processing. See Quality, page 24

Hunter Education necessary

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reminds hunters born after Sept. 1, 1971 that proof of hunter education certification must be carried and be available for inspection while hunting in Texas.

Even though mandatory certification for hunters born after August 1971 and who are currently 17 years of age and older has been in effect since 1987, state game wardens continue to find large numbers of hunters that are not in compliance.

Game wardens are issuing citations for failure to comply with the law, which can result in a maximum fine of $500

For persons ages 12 through 16, completion of the course is required to hunt without supervision or you

PWD offers assistance with wildlife management

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department provides technical assistance to persons desiring to include wildlife management considerations in present or future land use practices. This service is strictly advisory and is provided without charge to cooperating land managers.

1998 Hunters Gulde

The goal of the Private Lands Enhancement Program is to provide expertise to land managers in the preservation and development of wildlife habitat and the proper management of the various wildlife populations which utilize that habitat. Through this effort, the Department hopes to slow or reverse the decline in quantity of the State's wildlife habitat and improve the quality of remaining habitat. Biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department promote management practices which will maximize wildlife potential, prevent waste or depletion of the resource, provide aesthetic and economic benefits to the landowner, and offer increased opportunity for public use and enjoyment of renewable natural resources.

Upon written request, a biologist will schedule a personal meeting with the land manager and an inspection of the property. The land manager will be asked to define the various needs and uses of the property and to establish an objective for wildlife considerations. Once the property's potential has been determined and constraints thereon identified, the biologist will provide recommendations which may include a written management plan. Recommendations will focus on increased ecological diversity as required to address habitat needs of wildlife. The process will incorporate planning that benefits a wide variety of wildlife, in concert with management of featured species identified by the land manager.

Unique areas will be noted in cooperation with the landowner and management options suggested to enhance or preserve these habitats.

A management plan addresses multiple facets of habitat management and population management. Components of a management plan include an objective as established by the land manager, the past history of hunting and other land use, and a description and appraisal of the habitat. Specific recommendations are given concerning habitat management practices, wildlife considerations in livestock management, availability of water, food plot development, management of concerned wildlife populations, and harvest of game species. The importance of keeping good secords to aid in determining the status of wildlife populations and evaluating manage ment program progress is demon-

Population management of big game species is often identified as a key tool for habitat management in concert with domestic livestock management and other land use practices. The value of wildlife as a renewable natural resource is explained in economic and aesthetic

Survey techniques are suggested which will adequately monitor population levels and allow the development of game harvest quotas.

The merits of various census tech-

There's another reason to encourage the kids to harvest antierless deer during the youth-only season.

It's good for the deer, especially this dry fall, when biologists are encouraging landowners to dramatically cut their deer herd, against that the real threat that this drought will continue and there could be serious dieoffs if we do through a dry winter and another dry summer in 1999.

Finally, be selfish. While you're hunting with your kids, you're also getting some great time scouting before the season. Time that you'd almost certainly not do otherwise.

So, what if you don't have kids at home any longer? Got grandkids?

Know kids at church, or in the neighborhood, that don't have a chance to hunt or fish, that maybe don't have a Dad at home, or just seem to have too much time on their hands?

Almost twice as many turkeys were harvested in the 1996 spring season—an estimated 52,597—as had been tagged during the fall 1995 season (28,448). That's according to Dr. Markus Peterson, upland wildlife program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"There are still more hunters in the fall (108.557 in fall 1995 compared to 89,694 in spring 1996), but the spring hunters are far more successful." Peterson said.

"What's happening in the spring is that the total number of hunters is showing a huge increase, and the number of turkeys killed per hunter is: proficient," Peterson said.

Surprisingly, the number of fall turkey hunters is also increasingly, if only slightly.

But the success ratio for fall turkey hunters-the number of turkeys taken per hunter day-hasn't changed in 25 years. Peterson said. In most of Texas, where the Rio Grande turkey is the quarry, the hunter can take up to four furkeys, in either the spring or fall season. In the spring, only gobblers are legal, but even hens may be taken in the fall. Counties with hunting for eastern species turkeys are only open to

So, you're ready to add some wild gobbler to your Thanksgiving feast. Where to you start?

Just like deer, by scouting. For one thing, the birds' habits are dramatically different:

During spring, food is abundant and there's also the distraction of mating season. Hence, the solo toms and hens looking for each other.

In fall, turkeys forget everything but survival, which starts with finding enough to eat. So the birds tend to gather into larger flocks, usually of the same sex

Look for fall turkeys where the food supply is best. Start looking on oak flats where acorns are on the ground, especially in a year when the acorn crop may be lean.

Ranch roads, especially along fence lines, are a favorite travel route for these flocks. This is also a great spot to start your scouting. A profusion of fresh tracks and dropping are a sure tip-off that you're looking at a regular travel route.

Ditto for waterholes. Since turkeys water every day, they'll pay regular visits to stock tanks and creek beds. Creek bottoms are always a great spot to look for fall flocks, since they both use them for forage and travel

The very large flocks seen in the fall will usually be hens, almost grown poults of that year's hatch and a few jakes. Those flocks of hens can sometimes number into the hun-

One foggy morning, while sitting atop my favorite tripod stand on a long sendero on our Schleicher County lease: I spotted a turkey walking into the ranch road at the top the hill, a quarter mile away.

It was followed by another, and another, and then a whole line of turkeys. The steady parade of turkeys-all hens-poured over the hill and down the road toward me like ants.

How many? A hundred? Two hun-

I'll never know how many. But it was at least a quarter mile of 'em. When that first hen reached the foot of my stand, there was an unbroken, continuous line of turkey hens for the full 440 yards of that road I can see!

Mature toms will also band together, in flocks of three or four up to a dozen or so

Fall flocks will always be on the move, scratching for food. The only time you'll see a flock stick to one place for long is if they've parked under an automatic corn feeder.

Does this mean watching a feeder is the odds-on best choice for bagging your Thanksgiving main course?

If a flock of turkeys has become acclimated to hitting a feeder or more likely a series of feeders on one ranch, they'll likely keep the routine until disturbed. Any little disruption can move them out of the area.

One sure way to guarantee a flock will never come back is to bushwack a gobbler with a mouthful of old veller

Don't fall into the misconception

that fall turkeys are a pushover. While a spring gobbler can be downright foolish when he thinks he's got a lovesick hen in range, fall turkeys are thinking about nothing but survival. Since they're almost always in big flocks, there are a lot more eyes watching for trouble.

What about calling in the fall? There's obviously no mating game in the fall, so that flock of tom turkeys has no interest in pursuing a velping hen. However, both hens and gobblers will answer the kee-kee

See Turkey, page 31

Continued from page 30 or lost assembly call in the fall. It's the lonesome, almost plaintive call of a single turkey looking for its flock

Last fall my brother Larry was watching a waterhole when two big gobblers strolled out. He busted the bigger tom and the second sprinted into the brush.

On a lark, Larry pulled out a turkey diaphragm call and gave a few plaintive kee-kees. In seconds, the second gobbler was back into the open, looking for his buddy. The second bird stood around long after Larry had decided he wasn't going to shoot a second gobbler.

What about shooting hens? It's legal in the fall, but isn't it bad for the Nope, according to many old-time fall turkey hunters. The purpose of hunting is to reduce the total population to an acceptable level, or to allow sporting harvest without hurting the popula-

"Reducing numbers on turkeys, just like deer, should involve both species.

A hen Rio Grande turkey will be only about half the size of a gobbler, so you really have to be careful about shot placement, or you'll wind up with turkey burger. But I have a couple of friends who will shoot nothing but the tender hens, like the venison hunters who select only tasty yearling does.

There's a lot of tradition in hunting, especially in Texas," he said. "We've kept a fall either-sex season because that's the way it's always been done," Dr. Peterson said.

Seasons and Bag Limits for Bandera County

WHITE-TAIL DEER- Archery Season, Oct. 3-Nov. 1; General Season, Nov. 7- Jan. 3; Muzzleloader Season, Jan. 9-17 (antierless and spike bucks only). No antierless permit required. Bag limit: 4 deer, no more than 2 bucks. TURKEY- Archery Season, Oct. 3-Nov. 1 and General Season, Nov. 7- Ian. 3 (gobblers or bearded hens). Spring Season, Apr. 3-May 9 (gobblers only).

Bag limit for all seasons combined: 4 per license year QUAIL- Oct. 31 - Feb. 28. Daily bag limit: 15, 45 in poss.

DOVE- Sept. 1 - Oct. 18 and Dec. 26 - Jan. 6. Daily bag limit: 15 mourning, white-winged, and white-tipped doves to include not more than 2 white-tipped.

"On the other hand, killing hens in the fall is not nearly as disruptive to turkey populations as if they were taken in the spring."

What about that generous bag limit of four turkeys hurt anything? "It's more complicated than it sounds." Peterson said.

"For example, the typical spring turkey hunter in 1996 killed about half (.59) of one turkey. So obviously: it wouldn't matter if the limit was five, or three I expect we could reduce the limit to three, and not dramatically affect any real difference."

So what can we expect this fall

In most of Texas, Rio Grande turkeys has a miserable hatch in 1998. Especially compared to the superb hatch in spring of 1997.

What that means is lots of year-old turkeys, but very few jakes and young hens hatched from this spring.

Young turkey gobblers hatched in the spring will be full-grown jakes by fall, and become a prime target for tall turkey hunters.

The goals of spring and fall turkey hunters aren't the same." he said. "Lots of fall hunters are planning on eating their turkey, so they are very happy with a jake.

So, you're ready to add some wild gobbler to your Thanksgiving feast.

Where to you start? Just like deer, by scouting. For one thing, the birds' habits are dramatically different: During spring, food is abundant and there's also the distraction of mating season. Hence, the solo toms and hens looking for each other.

In fall, turkeys forget everything but survival, which starts with finding enough to eat. So the birds tend to gather into larger flocks, usually of the same sex

Look for fall turkeys where the food supply is best. Start looking on oak flats where acorns are on the ground, especially in a year when the acorn crop may be lean.

Ranch roads, especially along fence lines, are a favorite travel route for these flocks. This is also a great spot to start your scouting. A profusion of fresh tracks and dropping are a sure tip-off that you're looking at a regular travel route.

Ditto for waterholes, Since turkeys water every day, they'll pay regular visits to stock tanks and creek beds.

Creek bottoms are always a great spot to look for fall flocks, since they both use them for forage and travel

The very large flocks seen in the fall will usually be hens, almost grown poults of that year's hatch and a few jakes. Those flocks of hens can sometimes number into the hun-

One foggy morning, while sitting atop my favorite tripod stand on a long sendero on our Schleicher County lease, I spotted a turkey walking into the ranch road at the top the hill, a quarter mile away.

It was followed by another, and another, and then a whole line of turkeys. The steady parade of turkeys-all hens-poured over the hill and down the road toward me

How many? A hundred? Two hun-

I'll never know how many. But it was at least a quarter mile of 'em. When that first hen reached the foot of my stand, there was an unbroken, continuous line of turkey hens for the full 440 yards of that road I can see!

Mature toms will also band together, in flocks of three or four up to a dozen or so.

Fall flocks will always be on the move; scratching for food: The only time you'll see a flock stick to one place for long is if they've parked under an automatic corn feeder.

Does this mean watching a feeder is the odds-on best choice for bagging your Thanksgiving main course?

If a flock of turkeys has become acclimated to hitting a feeder or more likely a series of feeders on one ranch, they'll likely keep the routine until disturbed. Any little disruption can move them out of the area.

One sure way to guarantee a flock will never come back is to bushwack a gobbler with a mouthful of old veller.

Don't fall into the misconception

that fall turkeys are a pushover. While a spring gobbler can be downright foolish when he thinks he's got a lovesick hen in range, fall turkeys are thinking about nothing but survival. Since they're almost always in big flocks, there are a lot more eves watching for trouble.

1998 Hunters Guide

What about calling in the fall? There's obviously no mating game in the fall, so that flock of tom turkeys has no interest in pursuing a yelping hen. However, both hens and gobblers will answer the kee-kee

Last fall my brother Larry was watching a waterhole when two big gobblers strolled out. He busted the bigger tom and the second sprinted into the brush.

On a lark, Larry pulled out a turkey diaphragm call and gave a few plaintive kee-kees. In seconds, the second gobbler was back into the open, looking for his buddy. The second bird stood around long after Larry had decided he wasn't going to shoot a second gobbler.

What about shooting hens? It's legal in the fall, but isn't it bad for the Nope, according to many old-time fall turkey hunters.

The purpose of hunting is to reduce the total population to an acceptable level, or to allow sportingharvest without hurting the popula-

"Reducing numbers on turkeys, just like deer, should involve both

But I have a couple of friends who will shoot nothing but the tender hens, like the venison hunters who select only tasty yearling does.

There's a lot of tradition in hunting, especially in Texas," he said. "We've kept a fall either-sex season because that's the way it's always been done." Dr. Peterson said.

Seasons and Bag Limits for Bandera County

WHITE-TAIL DEER- Archery Season, Oct. 3-Nov. 1: General Season, Nov. 7- Jan. 3; Muzzleloader Season, Jan. 9-17 (antierless and spike bucks only). No antierless permit required. Bag limit: 4 deer, no more than 2 bucks. TURKEY- Archery Season, Oct. 3-Nov. 1 and General Season, Nov. 7- Jan. 3 (gobblers or bearded hens). Spring Season, Apr. 3-May 9 (gobblers only).

Bag limit for all seasons combined: 4 per license year. QUAIL- Oct. 31 - Feb. 28. Daily bag limit: 15, 45 in poss.

DOVE- Sept. 1 - Oct. 18 and Dec. 26 - Jan. 6. Daily bag limit: 15 mourning, white-winged, and white-tipped doves to include not more than 2 white-tipped.

"On the other hand, killing hens in the fall is not nearly as disruptive to turkey populations as if they were taken in the spring."

What about that generous bag limit of four turkeys hurt anything? "It's more complicated than it sounds," Peterson said. "For example, the typical spring turkey hunter in 1996 killed about half (.59) of one turkey. So obviously, it wouldn't matter if the limit was five or three

"I expect we could reduce the limit to three, and not dramatically affect any real difference."

So what can we expect this fall

turkey season?

In most of Texas, Rio Grande turkeys has a miserable hatch in 1998. Especially compared to the superb.hatch in spring of 1997. What that means is lots of year-old turkeys, but very few jakes and young hens hatched from this spring. Young turkey gobblers hatched in the spring will be full-grown jakes by fall, and become a prime target for tall turkey hunters. "The goals of spring and fall turkey hunters aren't the same," he said. "Lots of fall hunters are planning oneating their turkey, so they are very

"Wildlife photography shares many of the same challenges and rewards as hunting with a rifle or bow and arrow," says Dr. Dale Rollins, Extension Wildlife Specialist based in San Angelo, And, photography can even top regular hunting in some respects he says.

"There's no bag limit, you don't need a license, you don't have to dean anything at the end of the hunt, and you can go back tomorrow and hunt the same animal" he confinues. "It's sort of a 'catch and release' type of hunting."

Rollins who has been hunting for the last 30 years, says that he first became interested in wildlife photography back in 1976, when he called up a tom turkey to within five steps and "shot" the bird in full strut with a Kodak instamatic. Since that early beginning, his equipment has improved with the addition of several 35mm cameras and Telephoto

Rollins equates a good photographer to a skillful bowhunter. Both must be able to get close to their quarry in order to be successful. He recommends the use of camouflage, scents, and attention to other ingredients of stealth. Many of his subjects are lured "up close and personal" using different calling techniques.

"I enjoy hunting anything that I can call up" he says. "My repertoire may include everything from an amorous turkey hen, to a rival buck, to a squeaking rodent. Don't let anybody tell you that calling doesn't work."

A hunting ethics quiz

1998 Hunters Guide

Hunting is unique among sports in that the participant is usually alone. And as such, is usually the only judge of whether he or she is behaving ethically

Ethics are sometimes law, sometimes tradition, but often conscience. Given the scrutiny of non-hunters and the crticism of anti-hunters which the sport receives today, it's critical to the future of the sport that each outdoorsman and woman conduct themself as a spokesman for all of us

Here's a quick quiz, including a number of situations that you might face this season. How would you handle each?

1. You're hunting near one of the boundary fences of your lease. Fifty vards across the fence, you see a trophy whitetail buck, bigger than any you've ever seen on your lease. Do you:

A. Take the shot, hoping you can drag the deer across the fence without getting caught. B. Wait and hope he crosses the

C. Note the location and plan to bunt the area in the future.

2. It's opening day of dove season. You've taken your limit easily.

luck. Do you: A. Continue to shoot doves.

"helping him finish his limit." B. Head for the truck and let your companions know who's the best

C. Case your shotgun and hunt with him, offering advice to help and worst shot in the field

3. You're hunting as a guest on a friend's deer lease, helping shoot excess does. You see an antierless deer slipping through the brush and drop it with one shot. Walking up, you discover it's not a mature doe, but a button buck. Do you:

A. Leave it, hoping none find it. B. Hide the deer and claim to have shot nothing

C. Dress and tag the deer, prepared to take the razzing you'll get in camp, plus the possibility of never being invited back.

4. You've taken a handsome buck at dark, dressed him out and headed home. Stopping for dinner on the way, do you:

A. Take the time to change out of See Ethics, page 34

"I've been using my camcorder for the last several years during quail hunts as well" Rollins adds. "The video format really enhances such things as dog work, covey rises, and the inevitable miss of an easy shot." Rollins offers these tips for novice videographers. First, use a tripod if you can, but if you can't use a steady rest, just as you would in firing a rifle. Second, if there's brush between you and your quarry, take the camera off of "autofocus" and use the manual focus.

And finally, don't get too carriedaway with zooming in and out on your subject.

- "I enjoy hunting, whether that be with rifle, muzzleloader, shotgun or bow" says Rollins, "but if they banned hunting season tomorrow I'd pick up my camera and never miss a lick."

Quall in this region are highly cyclical, with boom and bust years happening almost like clockwork every five to six years. Very high quail populations on the Rolling Plains in 1977, 1982, 1986-87, 1992 and 1997, were offset by very low numbers in 1979, 1984, 1990 and

South Texas, with counts up from 9 in 1997 to 16 this year, was one of three regions with more quail counted that last year

In the Trans Pecos, quail counts increased from six to eight, and the Gulf Prairies quadrupled, from three in 1997 to 13 this year.

State quail outlook better than expected

The Cross Timbers, also prime quall country, dropped slightly from six in 1997 to five this year, while the Edwards Plateau had the biggest decline from seven to four.

Despite the summer drought, that large carryover of birds from last year apparently took advantage of early spring rainfall and heavy cover to raise some broods early. That heavy cover also helped them survive predators.

"It will be the season that might have been," quail guru Dr. Dale Rollins has observed back in May, citing the great carryover of mature quail from 1997.

Quall demand both moderate temperatures and relatively high humidity to hatch their eggs. Once the hot, dry summer settled in with a vengeance in April, birds that had vet to nest probably didn't have much success.

Dog trainer Chad Frizzell reported last week that outfitters throughout the Panhandle will still seeing coveys with half-grown quail this month.

That means quail nesting as late as mid-September

"What that means is quall have tried and failed, tried and failed, and tried again to nest this year." Frizzell said. They'll keep on trying to nest as long as it's warm here. But usually, they'll give up nesting by August. Regardless, High Plains quail hunters should be encouraged that there will still be adequate quail populations for some very decent hunt-

18. Get plenty of sleep. Late night philosophical sessions at the deer camp are tradition, but real hunters turn in early. It's impossible to be constantly scanning for wildlife if you're dozing off. Even worse, the opportunity of a lifetime may slip away because you were too drowsy.

19. When a shot comes that you can make, don't hesitate. Take it. But be very realistic about your ability. There is no place in a deer hunt for Hail Mary shots at uninjured game.

20. Don't force a bad position. If wind, sun or any other factor aren't right for your prime spot-hunt another area. The very best chance you'll have on a stand is the very first time you hunt it.

21. Eat right. Just like sleep, a proper diet can add immensely to your staying power. Go easy on the spicy food, strange entrees and heavy starch. How many big bucks have been saved by a bowl of Two-Alarm Chili that attacked some nimrod's digestive system at just the wrong moment.

22. If you drink alcohol, do so in moderation. The woods are no place for a hungover hunter. Needless to say, drinking while hunting is a dangerous no-no.

23. If you have a hard time sitting still for very long on a stand, try dividing the time into 30-minute intervals. Tell yourself to wait just 30 minutes. Then make it another 30. Taking a book and snacks along can

24. Don't be afraid to hunt close to camp. The biggest deer in Texas are often taken with 400 yards of the camp that everybody, except the successful hunter, left to look far 25 Be safe. Think safe. Hunt safe. I've never seen a successful trophy hunter who was not also a fanatic about hunting safety.

26. Know your limits, especially on the range at which you can shoot accurately. If that's 300 yards, great. But if it's 100 yards, that's still no problem. About 90 percent of Texas whitetails are taken inside 75 yards. Don't ever take a shot you don't KNOW you can make. Often that buck, left unspooked; will either work closer or will appear again another

In particular, watch downwind of the feeder, where a buck will often drift by hoping to scent a doe, but with no intention of walking right up. 28. Relax. A tense hunter not only is more likely to overreact or spook himself into mistakes, he's missing

29. Use a cover scent. I've always been most successful with skunk scent, but there are plenty of othergood options. Most are pleasant to work with. Fresh cut cedar rubbed into your clothes works.

30. Carry a grunt call. Grunt softly during the day when you don't see deer in sight. It will often draw curious does and amorous buck into range. Use it to stop a moving buck for a shot and to draw a buck back into view if it slips away.

31. Hunt funnels. When you see a natural feature that funnels deer movement, whether it be a fence line, creek bottom or steep hill, hunt where natural deer movement intersects these funnels.

32 Hunt away from the crowd. If everybody hunts weekends on your lease, arrange to hunt mid-week. Its amazing how fast deer will calmdown and return to their usual routine when people leave.

Cleaning up for Cuero

Bandera community members loaded up clothing, canned goods: and other essentials, as well as heavy equipment like this bobbat, and made a trek to Cuero at 5:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 29 to assist in cleanup efforts after Cuero residents' belongings and membress were washed away by the floods of two weeks ago. The Rev. Dennis Thompson of Bandera United Methodist Church said the Bandera residents will continue to go to Cuero every Thursday and are looking for others to help. (Photo by Frank L. Shubert)

Last Friday was Parents Night at Bulldog Stadium. Parents were escorted across the field by their BHS senior students before the game to honor the commitment to their children's education. The football game was a well-fought battle between two district contenders with the Wimberely Warriors coming out on top 21-14. But because of the Bulldogs earlier successes, they clinched a play-off spot in District 27-3A.

With Bandera County residents giving him a whopping 92 percent of the vote in the Tuesday, Nov. 3 general election, U.S. Rep. Lamar Smith said he is ready to return to Washington to look affer the interests of his own-stituents.

Thave generous constituents who want me to work on cutting taxes, maintaining a strong defense and stopping drugs from coming across our borders, Smith fold the Bandera Balletind leaf work. These are the issuest leaf work. These are the issuest leaf work. The support of the theory of the next Congress.

However, Smith's most selemn and immediate tasks now include helping to choose a new House speaker and determining whether there is sufficient evidence that President Clinton dence that President Clinton.

AUSTIN — About one-third of Texas' 11.5 million registered evoters cast ballota in the Nov. 3 election, tallying out as a Republican 'coat-tails' sweep of statewide offices.

Popular incumbent Gov. George W. Bush picked up more than double the number of votes cast for the hallenger, longitine Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

Continuing down the ballot, in the race for the powerful office of lieutenant governor, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry edged Comptroller John Sharp by 85,000 votes, or less than 2 percent of votes cast.

73 play in Nov. 4 Over 50 Tourney

Local Golf By Jack Finger
A total of 73 golfers participated in the Nov. 4 Over 50 Golf Association weekly scramble played at the Devine Municipal Course.

The team of Joe Morales, Pat Andrews, Felix Flores and Bob Collins took top honors at eight under 64. The team of Don Peine, Wiley D'Spain, Larry Cromer and Paul Lemon also shot 64 but lost on a scorecard playoff.

Third place at 65 went to Vaughn Manning, Ed Clark and Jack Kempf with fourth place going to Aubrey Freeman, Clara Coldcroft, Bobby, Aycock and Ilank Tripp at 66.

SAN ANTONIO — Throughout the state. Texas Flood Relief
Team's badges identify Texans belaping Texans.

From now until Thanksgiving, Nov. 26 the 220 Norvest Bank and 147-Wells Fargo stores throughout Texas, contributors can make a minimum $1$ donation and receive a TexaPood Relief Team's badge identifying them as piart of the team.

Norvest Bank Texas, N.A. and Wells Fargo initiated the effort to help victims of the Guadalupe River basin flood. All proceeds will be donated to the flood relief effort. The companies made a $150,000 donation for flood victims last week to kickoff the effort.

We encourage everyone to purchase a Texas Flood Relief Team' badge to help the victims of this disaster, said Bill Gentz, president of the Central Region for Norwest Bank Texas.

We started the program after many for our customers and community neighbors called about what they could do personally to help.
The badge program is a way that anyone can contribute to help the victims, and publicly recognize their participation.

The U.S. Military has a "Chain of Command", established from the Bible. They learned the only way to be be the control of The U.S. Military has a 'Chain of Command', established from the Bible. They learned the only way to have order, respect, discipline and result was to have this chain of command. Biblically, the order is this: God is the Head of Man, and Man(husband) is the Head of the family, if any part is out of order, you have total chaos. Can you imagine the U.S. Military with no chain of command, that all enlisted were "Equal"? Men, God will hold you personally responsible for the Spiritual wellbeing of your whole family. St. Mary's Fall Festival set for Saturday

Hi folks:

Well, it's been sort of a hectic week with only 1st days of sunshine first of the week. Mist and for reports.

We have had only 1st inches of rain, felt cold even though temperatures were not low but with the north winds, it felt very chilly, but good news with some clearing on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 16 is warm and much sunshine. Surely flushed the creeks up again.

What to do if you find a leak.

There are several signs that can indicate a pipeline leak. They include: If you find a pipeline leak, your first concern should be for your own safety and the safety of those around you. It is important to take the following steps: ♦ Distinctive odor associated with natural gas.

♦ Dead vegetation in an otherwise green area. + Leave the area immediately on foot. * Avoid creating sparks that could ignite the gas.

♦ Do not light a match, start an engine or switch electrical equipment on or off.

◆ Immediately call the pipeline operator. If it is a Lone Star Pipeline Company line, call us collect at (214) 741-1671.

MESSAGE FROM

FEMA DIRECTOR

JAMES LEE WITT

My heart goes out to all of you in Texas affected by severe storms, flooding and tornadoes. This has been a rough time for many Texas residents. Many of you are repairing damaged homes and cleaning un debris.

In the five years I have been at the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), I have witnessed the resilience and resourcefulness of Americans across the country as they recover from disasters and begin to rebuild. The costs are staggering, not only financially, but emotionally as well.

It has brought home to me the need for us to change the way we deal with disasters. Project-Impact is a national initiative that FEMA has launched that challenges the nation to undertake actions that protect families, businesses and communities to reduce the effects of natural disasters—before they occur. Our goal is to build disaster-selsatin communities in every state. It will take efforts by state and local governments, businesses and each individual to make this a reality.

In the meantime, President Clinton and I are committed to providing all the resources at our disposal to aid in your recovery. We are committed to working with your community officials to repair and rebuild your homes and businesses. And beyond that, we are committed to working with you to build disaster-resistant communities through Project Impact.

A MESSAGE FROM

STATE COORDINATOR-TEXAS DIVISION OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

TOM MILLWEE

Many people will remember Oct. 17, 1998 and the days since then as a life-changing time. They also should remember it as a time when neighbors, volunteers and government employees teamed up to save lives, protect property and begin the recovery process.

As we deal with the aftermath of these storms, we should pause to thank the many people who continue to work together to speed recovery.

We should remember the firefighters, law enforcement officers and others who worked with fierce determination in the worst conditions to complete rescue operations. We must remember the volunteer organizations that mobilized, literally within minutes, to provide vital support to the people affected by the storms and floods. We also must recognize the storm victims who often were more concerned about others than themselves as they rushed to belie one another.

We must remember strangers who, by the scores, are offering help – be it from across the street or across the country. We must recognize the teamwork of local, state and federal government officials who are bringing numerous programs into play to speed the disaster recovery process.

Wherever we turn, we see people helping people with concern and compassion that will last much longer than the rain and the floods.

We at the Division of Emergency Management will not let you down; our job is to make sure we recover as individuals, as communities and as a state.

FEMA DIRECTOR

JAMES LEE WITT

My heart goes out to all of you in Texas affected by severe storms. flooding and tornadoes. This has been a rough time for many Texas. residents. Many of you are repairing damaged homes and cleaning up debris.

In the five years I have been at the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). I have witnessed the resilience and resourcefulness of Americans across the country as they recover from disasters and begin to rebuild. The costs are staggering, not only financially, but emotionally as well.

It has brought home to me the need for us to change the way we deal with disasters. Project-Impact is a national initiative that FEMA has launched that challenges the nation to undertake actions that protect families, businesses and communities to reduce the effects of natural disasters - before they occur. Our goal is to build disaster-resistant communities in every state. It will take efforts by state and local governments, businesses and each individual to make this a reality.

In the meantime, President Clinton and I are committed to providing all the resources at our disposal to aid in your recovery. We are committed to working with your community officials to repair and rebuild your homes and businesses. And beyond that, we are committed to working with you to build disaster-resistant communities through Project Impact.

STATE COORDINATOR-TEXAS DIVISION OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

TOM MILLWEE

Many people will remember Oct. 17, 1998 and the days since then as a life-changing time. They also should remember it as a time when neighbors, volunteers and government employees teamed up to save lives, protect property and begin the recovery process.

As we deal with the aftermath of these storms, we should pause to thank the many people who continue to work together to speed recovery.

We should remember the firefighters, law enforcement officers and others who worked with fierce determination in the worst conditions to complete rescue operations. We must remember the volunteer organizations that mobilized, literally within minutes, to provide vital support to the people affected by the storms and floods. We also must recognize the storm victims who often were more concerned about others than themselves as they rushed to help one another.

We must remember strangers who, by the scores, are offering help - be it from across the street or across the country. We must recognize the teamwork of local, state and federal government officials who are bringing numerous programs into play to speed the disaster recovery process. Wherever we turn, we see people helping people with concern and compassion that will last much longer than the rain and the floods.

We at the Division of Emergency Management will not let you down; our job is to make sure we recover as individuals, as communities and

Información importante sobre ayuda por desastre

Para solicitar ayuda: Llame gratis a la línea de solicitud al 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585 para personas con impedimentos auditivos o del habla).

Si tiene seguro: Muchos programas pueden ayudarle, pero ninguno de estos programas le proveerá ayuda por gastos cubiertos por el seguro: Llame a su compañía de seguro primero.

La información que necesitará: Cuando solicite asistencia le preguntarán su nombre, dirección de la propiedad dañada, información de seguro, número telefónico donde usted puede ser contactado y descripción de sus pérdidas.

Después que solicita: Un inspector adiestrado concertará una cita para visitar su propiedad en un período de 10 días.

Cuándo puede esperar que llegue un cheque; Si es elegible, puede esperar un cheque de asistencia para vivienda 10 días a partir de la visita del inspector de FEMA.

Papel de la Administración de Pequeños Negocios (SBA): SBA proporciona préstamos a hajos interses a inquilinos, propietarios de casas y negocios de todo tamaño, que no tengan cobertura completa gor el seguro.

Subvenciones vs préstamos: Si usted cree que no le conviene un préstamo, pero fue remitido a SBA, es importante que usted devuelva su solicitud llena. A propósito, si no califica para un préstamo de SBA, automáticamente será referido un programa de subvención del estado.

La asistencia, coordinada por FEMA, puede incluir subvenciones que ayuden a pagar vivienda provisional, reparaciones menores a hogares y otros gastos relacionados con el desastre.

Hay prestamos a bajo interes de la Administración de Pequeños Negocios disponibles para cubrir pérdidas de propiedad privada y de negocios, no cubiertas por los seguros.

James Lee Witt, director de FEMA, exhortó a aquellas personas que sufrieron daños por la tormenta a que soliciten ayuda temprano durante el período de inscripción. Posiblemente FEMA pueda ayudar con las perdidas no cubiertas por los seguros.

"Es verdaderamente dificil ver a miles de personas perder lo que les ha costado tanto trabajo adquirir durante su vida." dijo Witt. "Haremos lo que sea necesario para ayudarlos a reconstruir y a recuperarse."

Witt nombro a Robert E. Hendrix para coordinar el esfuerzo federal de asistencia.

"Queremos que la gente se recupere lo antes posible," dijo Hendrix. "Deseamos que sepan que estamos compromigilos, y estaremos presentes para ayudarlos a solicitar asistencia y responder asus preguntas."

Información importante sobre ayuda por desastre

Para solicitar ayuda: Llame gratis a la línea de solicitud al 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585 para personas con impedimentos auditivos o del habla).

Si tiene seguro: Muchos programas pueden ayudarle, pero ninguno de estos programas le proveerá ayuda por gastos cubiertos por el seguro. Llame a su compañía de seguro primero.

La información que necesitará: Cuando solicite asistencia le preguntarán su nombre, dirección de la propiedad dañada, información de seguro, número telefónico donde usted puede ser contactado y descripción de sus pérdidas.

Después que solicita: Un inspector adiestrado concertará una cita para visitar su propiedad en un período de 10 días.

Cuándo puede esperar que llegue un cheque; Si es elegible, puede esperar un cheque de asistencia para vivienda 10 días a partir de la visita del inspector de FEMA.

Papel de la Administración de Pequeños Negocios (SBA): SBA proporciona préstamos a bajos intereses a inquilinos, propietarios de casas y negocios de todo tamaño, que no tengan cobertura completa por el seguro.

Subvenciones vs préstamos: Si usted cree que no le conviene un préstamo, pero fue remitido a SBA, es importante que usted devuelva su solicitud llena. A propésito, si no califica para un préstamo de SBA, automáticamente será referido a un programa de subvención del estado.

Congratulations new Silver Sage board members

This is one of those days - can't think of anything profound that needs to be eported - writer's block, I guess.

Congratulations to the new Congratulations to part of Directors: Ken Clark, president; the Rey. Dennis Thompson, secretary, and Lois Love, treasurer. Judging by our first meeting with the new officers on board, it looks like we're going to have a great vear.

IVIDES THE ENSIS!

Wednesday November 25, 1998

Not only is Bandera known as the Cowboy Capital of the World, but perhaps the town is well on its way to being the commercial and video capital as well.

Raging Bull Productions was at the old Silver Spur on Tuesday, Nov. 17 to shoot a video for the Tejano group Intensio.

Earlier this month, Raging Bull productions shot a Paragon Cable commercial at Bulldog Stadium with several locals filling in as extras, ocals ming in as extras,

The company also shot a Hispanic Awareness Month commercial series at various sites around the county in and warmth. It is a day for conversation and a day of mingiling aromas of pumpkin and cinnamon and yams and over them all the essence of burkey. It is a day of closeness. But if dinner is the focus of Thanksgiving, it is not the ultimate reward. The satisfaction comes afterward, when conversation grows softer and movement grows slower and simply being logether is all that's really important. That's the way Thankeleghring has always been and it is this reassuring sameness that makes it one of the best of our holidays... HAPPY THANKSQNING to all our neighbors, friends and readers.

What is Cowboy Christmas?

From a traditional Christmas parade to a lighted horse and buggy processional down Main Street, from cowboys to shepherds and from mistletoe to sagebrush, you can find a little bit of something for everyone during Cowboy Christmas in Bandera

Cowboy Christmas is not just one single event. Instead, it is a combination of sights, sounds and experiences, some classic and some eclectic, which showcase not just one aspect of Bandera, known worldwide as "The Cowboy Capital of the World," but all aspects of this unique place.

The highlight of Cowboy Christmas, however, has to be first weekend in December, when Bandera holds its Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony, a Shopper's Jubilee and its Holiday Parade.

The festivities begin at the Courthouse square at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 4, with a re-enactment of Mary and Joseph's pilgrimage to Bethlehem

At 5:35 p.m., the holiday season is officially ushered in with the lighting of the Christmas tree at the Bandera County

At 5:40 p.m., carolers from many of the area schools evoke the Christmas spirit. With such a jolly atmosphere, you may find yourself humming a few bars of your favorite Christmas carol as well.

The Shopper's Jubilee then begins at 6 p.m. and lasts until 9 p.m. at various stores throughout downtown Bandera. You can find a number of great bargains without ever leaving the city limits and shopping Bandera could save you time as well as money. Don't forget that many of the stores will offer up great wassail and cookies.

The parade begins at 11 a.m Saturday Dec. 5. Area high school bands and drill teams, local businesses, civic organizations and even some out-of-towners take part. many of them decking out their floats with a western flair that truly captures Bandera's Cowboy flavor.

A lighted horse parade? Nowhere else but Bandera County

What do you get when you cross "The Electric Horseman" with a Christmas narade?

You get the Cowboy Roundup, Bandera's first-ever lighted, motorless horse and buggy parade, of course, and Bandera County Chamber of Commerce officials hope the event grows every year into something special.

The parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12 with line-up beginning at 4:15 p.m. that day.

Carolyn Minshew, who is helping coordinate the event, said the idea for a motorless lit parade came from Bandera newcomers Pat and Cindy Breedlove, who operate Casas de Amigos.

"Pat and Cindy, who are personal friends of mine, recently moved here from Ruidoso, N.M., where they did arts festivals and they also had a travel agency." Minshew said. "They also lived in Corpus Christi, where there was an annual lighted boat parade.

"It was Pat's idea about what would it be like if we lighted up cowboys in a parade. Since they call me the 'horse chick,' they asked if I could put it together. It has since evolved into having horse-drawn buggies and wagons.

"We decided we wanted to have something so unique, it would make people talk," Minshew added. "Now we want it to be so big and different that Texas Monthly will come out to cover it."

The best way to describe how the parade will look is, according to Minshew, "nonmotorized. Banderaish, like no place else on

"We want a lot of horses and we want people to put a little festive ribbons in their manes or tails --- we want it to look like Christmas, not clownish," she said, "We hope to have as many as 100 riders, including 15-20 horse-drawn vehicles. We especially hope to see lots of kids with animals. especially donkeys because of their relevance to the story of Christmas

"We hope to get a band and play some music over a loudspeaker in the background, perhaps some Gene Autry or Roy Rogers or some Christmas carols and make it a real Cowboy Christmas "

To participate in the Cowboy Roundun or for more information, contact the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce at (830) 796-3045 or 1-800-364-3833 or Carolyn Minshew at (830) 460-8555.

Rules for the Roundup are as follows: * All mounted and horse-drawn entries must show proof of negative coggins test prior to the parade. You must bring proof to he parade for verification.

*The parade begins at 5:30 p.m. rain or * Lineup will begin at 4:15 p.m. You will be notified as to where to park your horse or wagon trailer near the end of the parade

* You will be notified of your lineup position prior to the parade.

* No alcoholic beverages are allowed to be consumed during the parade.

* All entries must be lighted. * For safety reasons, no items such as candy or toys can be thrown from horseback or wagon.

* Each youth group shall be represented by at least one adult supervisor who shall be responsible for their group following all parade rules. Adult groups shall name a contact person.

* The parade committee retains the right to refuse an entry not conforming to the standards of the committee. Failure to comply with parade rules will result in removal from the parade formation and will affect future invitation.

'La Pastorela' a story of the shepherds

through the Albert and Bessie Mae Kronkosky Foundation and Target Stores, and the assistance of the Bandera Theatre Lovers and the Bandera Music Lovers :Arts San Antonio! and the Mexican Cultural Institute will present a performance of "La Pastorela - El Portal de Nonaltenec" in Bandera

The Bandera performance, one of several throughout South Texas, will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 14 at Bandera High School. Admission for this performance will be free

"La Pastorela" is a theatre production which represents the travels of the shepherds as they make their way to see the new-born Jesus. Along their travels, the shepherds discover the devil is leading them astray and detaining them from their final

The origin of "La Pastorela" goes back to the second century A.D., where they were presented for the first time. Christianity had 'sparked off" and in order to spread the word, these short presentations were held. where the Archangel Michael struggled with the forces of evil

These types of presentations were educational as well as comical and were introduced to south Europe and Italy, where they were given the name that we now know them by -- pastorela -- which refers to the song of the shenherds

"La Pastorela" arrived in Spain during the Middle Ages and it became a custom to relate it to the Nativity. During the 16th century, Franciscan priests used pastorelas to evangelize the Native Americans, and with time, and in order to connect with them, they incorporated elements from the Meso-American culture such as folkloric

The Mexican pastorela took its final form in the beginning of the 19th century, thanks to write Jose Fernandez Lizardi, known as the "Mexican thinker." In his most successful presentations, he turns the simple pastorela into a dramatic one. It is now the Archangel Gabriel who battles against evil. "La Pastorela" is now an allegory of the power struggle between good and evil highlighted by dances, carols, laugh and hopes for a new beginning.

Santander, the Compañia Repertorio de Cuernavaca, a company of more than 20 actors and dancers direct from Cuernavaca, Mexico, will present nine performances of "La Pastorela" throughout South Texas.

Tired of placing special Christmas memories and keepsakes on plastic trees which just don't have the feel, or smell, of the holiday season?

You can pick up the real McCoy - a genuine five to 12 foot Afghan pine or Leyland cypress - just a short drive from Bandera at the Pipe Creek Christmas Tree

Owner Jim Hingst said he looks forward each year to the day after Thanksgiving when hundreds of shoppers from San Antonio, Bandera, Lakehills and even Pipe Creek, invade his 10-aere farm on Phil's Road near Texas Highway 16, I. oking to pick out and chop down their own special tree from more than 5,000 trees.

"I started this up as a hobby, thinking it would take me three days of work a week. and I've been busy about five days a week," Hingst said. "But I'm really enjoying it, and I wish you could be here to see the little kids come out. The kids in San Antonio don't know anything about the rural areas, so'they are like, "Look at this forest out

Retired after working 37 years in marketing for Texaco, Hingst said he was living in the Dominican Republic in the late 1980s when he became good friends with a U.S. Department of Agriculture employee named

"We belonged to the same church," Hingst explained. "He got back from being on home leave to the U.S. and said, "Hey, Jim, I've just bought some property out in Pipe Creek and I'm going to build a Christmas tree farm.

"I was going to retire in five years and I was thinking. 'I may just do the same thing when I retire.' He had a person looking after the farm and this person guit, so the farm was kind of abandoned. Gary transferred back to the states and was headquartered in Corpus Christi, and he couldn't get back to look after this place, so he asked me if I would buy it from him. We did in 1988 and it stayed idle until 1991, when I retired."

Hingst said he and his wife replanted all the trees at the farm and had their first harvest three years ago. They are now open for business from the day after Thanksgiving until Dec. 20, from 10:30 a.m. to dark,

Last year was the first year that Hingst began harvesting and selling the Leyland cypress, a tree with an interesting history.

"The Leyland cypress is a hybrid and there are no seeds and no pollen," Hingst said. "Consequently, it is a tree which is good for people with allergies. Last year was the first year I sold them and I asked some of the people to let me know if they had any problems with allergies and they told me they didn't have any.

"The tree is a cross between an Alaskan cedar and a Monterrey cypress. It was found in Wales in the late 1800s by a man named C.J. Leyland and brought to the states. They really grow big in the Deep South. All of our seedlings at the farm have come from Georgia and Louisiana."

Traditionally, Texas has had only two kinds of Christmas trees that are grown commercially - the Afghan pine, which needs a high alkaline soil, and the Virginian pine, which requires an acidic soil.

"The dividing line in the state is considered to be Interstate 35," Hingst said. "The Virginia pine grows in the soil to the east because it is acidic, while the Afghan pine grows to the west.

"Interestingly enough, though, the Leyland cypress has been able to grow on both sides. They said it could not grow this far west because of the high alkalinity of our soil, but we've had good luck with it." Hingst said that he also imports Noble firs to give people a choice. "We ship our firs from Washington state in refrigerated trucks," Hingst said. "And when they get here we immediately put them in water so that they stay fresh. You won't see that done at a Christmas tree lot

When a family comes out to Hingst's farm, which is a choose-and-cut operation. they are given a handsaw to cut down their tree and a measuring pole.

"The pole has two purposes," Hingst said. "For one, when you are out in the field looking for a tree and you've got an eightfoot ceiling in your house, a nine-foot tree maybe looks like an eight-foot tree, so you can measure one with a pole to see if it will fit in your house.

"It has another advantage to it because you are never satisfied with your first tree, so you leave the pole standing up against the tree and go looking for another tree and have a reference point to find it; otherwise, you'd never find it with more than 5,000 trees out there "

Once a family has finished cutting their tree, they can either bring it back in to the front or leave it laying in the lane and Hingst will have it picked up with a trailer.

"We'll then shake out the loose needles out of it and bag it for you with a netting so it is easier to get home, because the trees ride better and are better protected," Hingst said. "We don't charge anything for bagging a tree, even though there are a lot of places that do charge for this service."

At Hingst's farm, Afghan pines and Leyland cypress cost about $4.50 per foot, See Trees, page 21

Tired of placing special Christmas memories and keepsakes on plastic trees which just don't have the feel, or smell, of the holiday season?

You can pick up the real McCoy - a genuine five to 12 foot Afghan pine or Leyland cypress - just a short drive from Bandera at the Pipe Creek Christmas Tree

Owner Jim Hingst said he looks forward each year to the day after Thanksgiving when hundreds of shoppers from San Antonio Bandera Lakehills and even Pipe Creek, invade his 10-acre farm on Phil's Road near Texas Highway 16, I. oking to pick out and chop down their own special tree from more than 5,000 trees.

"I started this up as a hobby, thinking it would take me three days of work a week and I've been busy about five days a week," Hingst said. "But I'm really enjoying it, and I wish you could be here to see the little kids come out. The kids in San Antonio don't know anything about the rural areas, so they are like, "Look at this forest out

Retired after working 37 years in marketing for Texaco, Hingst said he was living in the Dominican Republic in the late 1980s when he became good friends with a U.S. Department of Agriculture employee named

"We belonged to the same church," Hingst explained. "He got back from being on home leave to the U.S. and said, "Hey, Jim, I've just bought some property out in Pipe Creek and I'm going to build a Christmas tree farm

"I was going to retire in five years and I was thinking. 'I may just do the same thing when I retire.' He had a person looking after the farm and this person quit, so the farm was kind of abandoned. Gary transferred back to the states and was headquartered in Corpus Christi, and he couldn't get back to look after this place, so he asked me if I would buy it from him. We did in 1988 and it stayed idle until 1991, when I retired."

Hingst said he and his wife replanted all the trees at the farm and had their first harvest three years ago. They are now open for business from the day after Thanksgiving until Dec. 20, from 10:30 a.m. to dark.

Last year was the first year that Hingst began harvesting and selling the Leyland cypress, a tree with an interesting history.

"The Leyland cypress is a hybrid and there are no seeds and no pollen," Hingst said. "Consequently, it is a tree which is good for people with allergies. Last year was the first year I sold them and I asked some of the people to let me know if they had any problems with allergies and they told me they didn't have any.

"The tree is a cross between an Alaskan cedar and a Monterrey cypress. It was found in Wales in the late 1800s by a man named CJ. Leyland and brought to the states. They really grow big in the Deep South. All of our seedlings at the farm have come from Georgia and Louisiana."

Medina kicks off holiday season with tree lighting

Medina will kick off the holiday season with a tree lighting ceremony at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3 in front of the telephone

Santa Claus will visit the children of Medina and every child will have his picture taken free with the jolly old elf him-

There will also be tamales, cider and cookies served during the event, which will last about 1½ hours.

"This is our way of saying thanks to everyone for working so hard on this year's Apple Festival," said Genie Strickland of the Medina Texas Development Corporation and a director of the Bandera County Chamber of Commerce.

Strickland said the city has been holding a tree lighting for approximately eight years

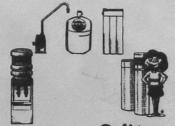

Other events in Medina this December will include a presentation of "Taming of the Shrew" by the Medina ISD Theatre Denartment, a High School band Christmas Concert and an Elementar School Christmas music program.

A live nativity scene is also being planned for sometime in December.

It takes four or five years for a tree to grow, so if we didn't, we'd be out of business in a few years," he said. As a member of the Texas Christmas Tree Growers Association as well as the national organization. Hingst said he firmly believes there are a number of advantages to owning a real Christmas tree over a store-bought plastic one.

"One is that a real tree produces oxygen," Hingst said. "One acre of Christmas trees produces enough oxygen per day for 18 people. We have 10 acres out here, so we produce enough oxygen for 180 people.

"Having a real tree is environmentally friendly. When you get rid of your tree, you can put it out in the yard and birds will nest in it or you can chip it up for mulch or you can throw it in a garbage pile and it will decompose. A plastic tree won't decompose. It is made of wire and plastic."

Hingst also noted that a Christmas tree farm provides a natural habitat for birds and

"Go out in the summer and you will see a lot of nesting birds and rabbits and other wildlife," Hingst said. "However, we do have a deer-proof fence up because deer can do a lot of damage to trees.

"When you plant the seedlings, they will nip the top of the seedlings. Once that hap much as a gallon or two of water pens, you lose a year of growth. It's not that overnight.

they like the taste - they're just curiou When they're trying to get rid of their velvet, they will rub against the trees and will damage them."

For your perfect Texas-grown Christmas tree, go to a Texas Christmas tree farm or choose a Texas-grown tree from a local retail lot. Texas Christmas tree farms host approximately 640,000 tourists year round and generate $396,000 in sales tax revenues yearly.

Fresh, fragrant Texas Christmas trees are an agricultural crop, grown on Texas farms. Where each tree is harvested, another is planted in its place. While growing, one acre of Christmas trees can produce enough oxygen for 18 people.

To keep your tree fresh and green throughout the holiday season it will need a little "Tender Loving Care." When choosing a tree, test the needles for freshness. Needles on a fresh tree will bend rather than break.

It's a good idea to prepare your tree stand before you bring the ideal tree hine. This can be done by rinsing the stand with a mixture of one capful of bleach and one cup of water. This process helps reduce the growth of micro-organisms that can block the tree's ability to absorb water.

Put your tree immediately in water upon returning home. Check your tree stand daily and replenish the water supply because this fresh cut tree may drink as

Free Seminar - December 8, 1998 at 7:00 p.m. Norwest bank - Bandera - Community Room

Roth IRA from Norwest offers earnings that grow tax-free and can help you prepare for a comfortable retirement. And like our Traditional IRAs, a Roth IRA from Norwest Investment Services, Inc. (NISI), the brokerage subsidiary of Norwest Corporation, gives you the additional advantage of no annual fees with no minimum balance. Through Norwest Investment Services, Inc. you can fund your Roth or Traditional IRA with stocks, bonds and mutual funds. With Norwest Bank, you can fund them with FDIC-insured CDs or a money market savings account. Either way, with no annual fee, there's no better way to open a Roth or Traditional IRA. For more information, call your NISI financial consultant, Bill Matthews at (830) 257-1211, stop by your local Norwest Bank, or call 1-888-ASK-NISI (275-6474). It's that easy. That had to be won.

A big lead disappeared.
And the outlook was grim.

There was an oway this could happen.

But with Major on offense and with Major on offense and with Major on offense. And with Major on offense and with Major on offense and with Major on offense. And with Major on offense and with Major on offense and with Major on offense. And with Major on offense and with Major on offense and with Major on offense. Instead, Santa made an appearance many will never forget, courtesy of The Ranch KRNH-FM 95.1 and Chopper '95.

After touching down in the middle of Main Street, which had been closed off by the Bandera Police Department, the big guy spent about an hour outside the Bandera County Courthouse, doling out Christmas cheer and hugs and taking wish lists from rugrats. Parents were also allowed to take photos of their youngsters hugging and greeting the jolly old elf

Santa was also treated to a ride on a fire truck. courtesy of the Bandera Fire Department, complete with military escort.
